Troops Fire On Protesters

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Troops in Tehran and the western city of Sanandai opened fire today on thousands of supporters of Avatullah Ruhollah Khomeini angered by the government's delaying his return to Iran, and there were reports of at least 11 dead and 53 wounded.

Khomeini aides at his exile headquarters in France said Iranian army troops joined in anti-government protests in the cities of Istahan and Tabriz.

Residents of Tabriz said heavy shooting broke out in the downtown area of that northwestern city. Opposition sources claimed an undetermined number of peo-

tween police and pro-Khomeini demonstrators

The official Pars news agency said there also had been pro-government marches both in Tabriz and Zahedan in eastern Iran.

Hospital sources said at least six per-

Two Men Die In Fire, Blast At City Store

Avalanche-Journal Staff
A mysterious explosion and fire at an East Broadway convenience store claimed the lives of two men about 1 a.m.

The blaze at Serv-U-Food Market, 704 E. Broadway, killed the structure's own-er, Andrew Zournas, 52, of 3011 42nd St., and Mark Corley, thought to be in his 30s, of 2126 52nd St.

The bodies were pulled out of the wreckage of the building, which was levelled by the blast. Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy, who pronounced the victims dead at the scene, has ordered an autopsy performed on the men at St.

Mary's Hospital. Fire Marshal Robert Stokes said this morning that the cause of the fire is still under investigation.

Firemen called to the scene said they smelled a strong odor inside the store, which resembled that of gasoline. "I don't know if it was gasoline or not; it smelled like gasoline," Stokes said.

The fire marshal said the building and its contents were a total loss and damage could amount to as much as $100,000.

Police said an apparent explosion at the store set off a holdup alarm at 12:48 a.m. However, when officers arrived, they called for firemen

Firemen were dispatched at 12:53 a.m., and when they arrived four minutes later, the building's roof already had col-

A fire department spokesman said six units and 17 firefighters battled the blaze for about 11/2 hours. Relief crews were still at the scene late this morning fight-ing small fires cropping up in the debris.

Store employee Steve Stewart said he left the store about 12:15 a.m. and did not suspect anything was wrong. Howev-er, he said, "I went into the back tof the store) yesterday and it smelled like gas or something, but I didn't think anything about it.

Stokes said this morning a spark or gas pilot light could have ignited the fumes, but the incident was still under investiga-

Police also have entered into the case and have been conferring with Stokes and fire inspector Grady Ammons.

Zournas was found about 30 feet inside the building near the back door. His feet were on a couch and the rest of his body

Corley was discovered lying face down in front of a walk-in vault in the east por-tion of the store. He was about 30 feet

Corley was convicted earlier this month in Lubbock County Court-at-Law No. 2 for violating a city ban on portable signs.

Newsom, the administrator for Plains Memorial Hospital, is being tried on misdemeanor charges. He faces a maximum $200 fine if convicted.

Defense attorney Russell Moran, how-ever, asked Murphy if it were true that he had been trying to get Newsom's job.

"Isn't it true you told the hospital board (six weeks earlier) that 'It's him or me'?" Moran asked.

He had been vomiting, had diarrhes and was dehydrated," Murphy testified The physician said he gave the child medicine to check the vomiting and diarrhea and to fight the fever and infection.

Addressing himself to those in power, the pope said: "In the name of these brothers, I ask those who are capable of doing it, to help them overcome their current situation so they, especially with a better education, may improve their minds and hearts and become authors of their own betterment and a more fruitful participation in society.

Government Warns Strikers

LONDON (UPI) - Britain's Labor government has threatened massive income tax increases and cuts in public spending to end a rash of strikes paralyzing the nation's economy.

In the strongest reaction so far to the paralysis of industry, ports and railroads, the government warned Thursday it might use troops, higher taxes and the courts to force militant unions to scale down pay demands and curb picketing.

The warnings were aired in an emergency debate in Parliament where Callaghan's Labor Party just mustered enough non-Labor support to win a vote on their handling of the labor crisis. The vote was 289 to 273, a margin of 16.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey said unless unions curtail their demands for 15 percent or more pay hikes, he would be forced to introduce massive personal income tax increases.

He also warned of a reduction in public spending in an effort to curb inflation, currently running at 8 percent.

Callaghan charged that union leaders have lost control of the rank and file, resulting in the spread of picketing to docks, warehouses and food manufacturing plants not involved in the disputes.

In a response to opposition charges that he should do more to bring labor under control, Callaghan said, "It is not the union leaders, but groups of independentminded trade unionists who are doing things on their own." Social Services Secretary David Ennals warned he might use troops to break blockades of priority medical supplies the latest target of militant pickets.

In another move against picketing of companies not involved in the disputes, Attorney General Sam Silkin said busi-

He said some cases of picketing could be so remote from the actual dispute that it might fall outside the protection given pickets under trade union legislation.

The unions' demands would send inflation up to 13 percent - the 1976 level by the end of the year, he said. The work force would be no better off, he said, than if they had remained within the government's guidelines of 5 percent increases this year.

For example, Duke Power Co. of North Carolina is generating electricity from its nuclear plants at a cost of less than 31 cents per million Btu, compared with more than $1.37 per million Btu for coal-fired plants.

Sun-power advocates fault the major corporations that manufacture nuclear generating equipment for a haughty sales pitch that usually comes in the form of a threat that "you're going to freeze in the dark" by 1985.

Heavy-handed scare tactics are a turn off,

WESTINGHOUSE Electric Corp., a Pittsburgh-based firm that is the nation's largest producer of nuclear generating units, has produced its share of dire predictions, but it also is attempting to take a more reasoned approach in promoting the cost benefits of nuclear power.

"We can't permit ourselves to overcommit to any one fuel in any one section of the country," a company executive told news

The price of uranium, the principal fuel for nuclear power stations, has increased very substantially in recent years. But the tal affairs committee indicates that econom- prices of other fuels have soared higher and

> There's no better illustration of the hard times currently faced by the industry than its 11th hour escape from the disgrace of not making a single domestic sale in 1978.

On Dec. 20, just 11 days before year's end, Commonwealth Edison of Chicago announced it had agreed to purchase from Westinghouse a pair of 1,150 megawatt nuclear generating units.

PETROLEUM costs have skyrocketed ever since the OPEC cartel began to flex its muscles five years ago.

Coal, of course, remains relatively cheap. But it's no longer a bargain fuel because of the federally mandated installation of flue gas desulfurization systems or "scrubbers" to prevent high-sulfur coal from contaminating the atmosphere when burned.

Under the circumstances, the nuclear power industry might make more friends-and more sales-if it confined its sales pitch to talking sensibly about the bargain it can ofservices in calling for a "balanced mix" of fer everyone who pays an electric bill.

John D. Lofton:

The New 'Imperial' Presidency

WASHINGTON—In asserting his constitutional authority to unilaterally terminate this country's defense treaty with Taiwan, President Carter is claiming a power with ramifications far beyond the question at hand.

On Jan. 4, 1979, in response to a question I asked at a regular daily State Department brief-ing, the department posted the following answer, which read, in its entirety:

"The President has the legal authority to terminate any treaty pursuant to the termination prov-isions in the treaty as approved by the Senate."

WHAT THE State Department response means is that Carter believes that he alone can terminate any treaties which have in them identical or virtually identical termination language as that contained in our pact with Taiwan.

This would include such collective U.S. defense arrangements as: The Rio Treaty, 22 nations, 1947: NATO, 15 nations, 1949; ANZUS, 3 nations, 1851; the Philippine Treaty, bilateral, 1951; Republic of Korea Treaty, bilateral, 1953; SEATO, 7 ns, 1954; and the Japanese Treaty, bilateral,

The President maintains that his authority is lear, that "either side" can terminate this treaty by giving a one-year notice, which is "exactly that we are doing."

The White House Office of Media Liaison sints out that our treaty with Taiwan "makes no rence to the Senate or Congress, or the need approval of the legislative branch in order for to be given of termination...

What it conveniently ignores is that our Taiwan fense treaty also makes no reference to the resident or the esecutive branch as the ones empowered to terminate this treaty.

What the treaty says is that either "party" to it can withdraw following one year's notice. Therefore, those who oppose Carter's action argue, as Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., does:

"THE TERM 'party' does not mean 'the President,' but refers to the government of the state

"Thus, the provision requires a reference to the constitutional processes of the government ratifyng the treaty to determine what authority in that nent shall make the decision...This brings us back to the fact that the decision to terminate a treaty is a joint one shared by the President and Senate or Congress."

A State Department memorandum dated the day the President announced he was "normalizing" relations, says Carter does have the constitual authority to terminate our treaty "without gressional or Senate action.

HOWEVER, IN 1977, the American Law Division of the Library of Congress prepared a study which concluded that there is no clear or historical justification for the claim that a President can unilaterally terminate a treaty.

This study said that the issue of treaty abrogation is a "long-standing and largely unresolved political controversy." But where is the controversy? Where is the discussion about this matter which is so "much more debatable than it is being made to appear?"

Trouble with this country is that we have for-otten the oldest, most reliable tranquilizer of all

Conservatives have spoken out. But where are the liberals who have raised so much hell about the so-called "imperial presidency?"

IN A SPEECH almost nine years ago, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, vigorously attacked what he called the "myth" that the chief executive is the "fount of all wisdom."

Said the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee:

"The greatest insight of our Founding Fathers was their recognition of the dangers of unlimited power exercised by a single man or institution; their greatest achievement was the 'safeguards against absolute power' which they wrote into our Constitution (emphasis in the original)... "I do not believe the Constitution is obsolete; I do not believe that Congress is incapable of discharging its responsibilities; but if either of these conditions should arise, the remedy would lie in the amendment process of the Constitution it-

THIS WAS Frank Church in 1970 when a Republican President was in the White House. Now it is 1979 and a Democratic President is in the White House claiming the absolute power to terminate a defense treaty with another country. And what is Church saying? Nothing; zilch. In fact, Church has generally endorsed the President's "normalization" move. Why? Certainly the senator was not merely playing partisan politics nine years ago, was he? Perish the thought. But this is a conclusion that is increasingly difficult to resist with each passing day he remains

If he can pull off the nomination, though, Connally could turn the Detroit site into a psychological advantage in the fall campaign against President Carter, California Gov. Jerry Brown or Massachusetts Sen. Ted Kennedy

Thanks to taxpayer financing of Presidential (and soon, probably, of Congressional) campaigns, a two-year quest ala Carter's 1976 effort soon will become the norm.

WHATEVER ELSE comes of the suit to deny Lubbock citizens their constitutional right to selfdetermination, the City has done a good job documenting that minority neighborhoods have gotten at least a fair shake from City Hall.

Witnesses spread across the federal court record irrefutable proof that the City Council and administration are every bit as responsive to the needs of East Lubbock and North Lubbock as they are to West Lubbock and Southwest Lub-

The case now is in the hands of federal Judge Hal Woodward.

Plaintiffs wanting to force a ward system of government on the city based their case on allegations of racial prejudice.

Only if minority neighborhoods are carved into separate districts for the election of their own city councilmen, the plaintiffs argue, can they have a city government that will be "responsive" to Their claims were demolished by evidence put on the stand by city attorneys.

POLICE, FIRE and all other municipal services are provided equitably to all parts of the city, the evidence shows, and a preponderance of specially appropriated funds are spent in minority neighborhoods.

This does not mean that every need-let alone every desire-of minority neighborhoods has been met. They have not been. Neither has every need or desire been met in majority neighborhoods. In its pre-1950s history, Lubbock's minorities undoubtedly suffered from discrimination and official neglect although probably to a lesser degree here than in most parts of the country. This condition, however, could not be blamed on the at-large system of electing city council-

In more recent years, in fact, Lubbock's City Council probably has been more sensitive to the needs of minorities than it would have been if its members had been elected from districts.

That is a point in debate, but it is reasonable to assume that white councilmen who have to campaign for votes citywide, including minority neighborhoods, will be more responsive to those neighborhoods than if they are elected from allwhite districts.

THAT DEBATE notwithstanding, the real point at issue in the federal court case is whether the judicial system can usurp the people's right to self-determination.

To do so on the basis of race would be to make a mockery of the whole concept of racial equali-

If the people want a ward or district system, they have the right to adopt it and the duty at that point to treat everyone fairly regardless of

If they want an at-large system of electing city councilmen so that every vote counts the same regardless of race, that likewise is their right.

I can't believe a federal court would take so basic a human right from the American people.

I think this is the attitude that Americans should long ago have cultivated toward our alliances. In diplomacy there is not monogamy, bigamy, polygamy, but a pluralism of mating, not for love but for convenience.

The Shift To Thrift Involves Some Risk

AS YOU TRY to stretch the buying power of your dollar to the limits of your know-how, ingenuity and patience in 1979, it's a virtual certainty you'll turn in increasing millions to shopping the various forms of discount stores-ranging from thrift shops to consignment stores, to factory outlets, self-service basements, etc.

It's abundantly clear you already are traveling this route in mounting numbers-and discount store patrons now cross all categories of incomes, ages and occupations.

But are you as aware as you should be of the distinctions between the various types of bargain stores? Probably not, and thus:

THRIFT SHOPS: Usually are connected with religious or charitable organizations, manned by volunteers from the organization and offering a wide variety of durable goods.

In thrift shops, you will find: used clothing, appliances, linens, sporting goods, furniture, bric-abrac, jewelry, paintings, books and, from time to time, unusual objects.

You will not find all the items at all times and the conditions of the articles as well as the prices quoted may differ sharply.

Donations to these stores often are tax-deductible and the sponsoring organization receives a modest profit from articles sold.

CONSIGNMENT SHOPS: Offer you the same variety of goods as thrift shops but almost surely, you will pay more for what you buy. The reason: consignment shops are privately owned and are operated to return a profit The shop acts as a middleman between buyer and seller, and thus the merchandise usually will be in a better condition than in the thrifts and it may be of higher quality (but not always by any

Estate items are not uncommon offerings in these stores. You, the seller, get a percentage of the sale, and the store itself earns the balance. You, the buyer, benefit by purchasing slightly used articles at a fraction of original cost.

FACTORY OUTLETS: Provide you, the consumer, with an opportunity to shop for new merchandise where it is manufactured. You must go to the factory, during designated hours, usually weekdays-although some stores open for specified hours on Saturdays.

At the outlet, you may purchase what is available, and often, you'll find seconds, discontinued styling or irregulars at cut prices. Cash normally is required, or a personal check or a nationally known credit card. There are no deliveries.

DISCOUNT STORES: Sell you new merchandise, in great volume, at a discount, often without a label. In most cases, you must pay cash, or 4 6 50 its equivalent in the form of a personal check. In some stores, you may use a major credit card, and in a very few cases you may use the store's own credit card. The drawbacks are: no returns, the inconvenience of carrying purchases home, the lack of complete selectivity (in size, color, style, model), the crudeness of a common dressing room, the scarcity of sales help. None of these factors, though, has deterred you from shopping the discount route.

1977-78 was the third successive year of improved earnings for member stores," reports Richard L Hersh, president of the National Mass Retailing Institute (a large trade organization of self-service discount stores). Loehmann's, for instance, a pioneer in the concept of selling high fashion women's clothes without labels on a cash-and-carry basis, reports earnings for the past 12 months up a spectacular 67 percent and sales in a recent 52-week span up 26 percent.

AND A FINAL guide: study your favorite department store's so-called "bargain" basement. which may carry designer clothes as well as bottom-of-the-line seconds and low-markup goods.

As the 1970s draw to a close, we are well into the "era of thrift." Learn to practice it well and benefit thereby!

Dr. James Mrotek has one of the best collections of original cartoon art in North Texas. Pieces from his collection have been included in a display at the NTSU Union.

For Mrotek, the collection began with the $45 he paid for a celluloid from the Walt Disney movie "Bambi." He rationalized it as a Christmas gift for his wife.

"That was the first of it and we thought the last," he said.

But then the following summer, they ran across proof pages from "Toots and Casper" cartoons done by Jimmy Murphy between 1929 and 1943. They bought a bundle of them for $1, and returned to the same man and bought more "Toots and Casper" and an origional celluloid from Disney's "Winnie the Pooh."

Mrotek was hooked. "This guy is my pusher now," he said.

The collection has grown to about 200 pieces of origional cartoon art ranging from origional drawings on paper dating to 1919 to celluloids, the plastic oversheets on which an outline is made of the ociginal drawing and then filled in with bright paint. His most recent celluloids are from "Wizards," produced by Ralph Bakshi, best know for his x-rated "Fritz the Cat" and now for "Lord of the Rings." Mrotek said "Wizards" was done by Bakshi to test techniques to be used in "Lord of the Rings.

"This is art," Mrotek said. "This is moving art. You just don't find it in cartoons anymore.

He explained cartoon art has lost some of its creative beauty due to the invention of copy machines and color copy machines that replaced some of the artists who produced the thousands of individual drawings necessary for an animated

DIRECT-DRIVE TURNTABLE WITH AUTOMATIC RETURN

If you're looking for the best sound reproduction from your records, you need a precision turntable. And that means the JVC QL-A2.

At JVC, turntable precision means three things-(1) elimination of vibration or rumble, (2) accuracy of rota-tion; (3) absolute consistency of speed, or elimination of wow and flutter. The JVC QL-A2 superbly fills the bill in all three areas. It combines a platter that connected directly to a coreless DC servomotor, with a Quartz-Locked servo system that maintains, monitors and adjusts speed rotation with total accuracy and stability. You can actually check this precision with the built-in illuminated stroke

Budget Battle Begins In Capital

By JOHN CUNNIFF NEW YORK (AP) - Now comes a really super battle, to be played not in Miami but in the Senate and House bowls of Washington, between Congress and the administration, with personal squabbles as sideshows

As expected, the teams will lean heavi-ly on their quarterbacks, but game plans call for heavy reliance on the unsung linemen also, in hopes the latter will hold their turf and take some of their opponents' too.

This is the battle of the federal budget, an encounter that includes elements of a big football game: players, observers, fans, supporters, critics, detractors, chairleaders, celebrities - maybe even

But there are big differences too. The issues are many, not one, and nobody can say who's really a winner. The spenders might win their way, for example, but if they break the economy they're losers

Among the issues presented by President Carter's $532 billion budget for fiscal 1980, a budget $38 billion or 7.7 percent higher than the 1979 budget, a budget that leaves a deficit of $29 billion:

-Are the revenue projections of $502.6 billion too optimistic? The administration makes no contingency for a recession, which many private analysts believe will cut into revenues, leaving a bigger deficit

Some of these analysts foresee a deficit of $40 billion. Merrill Lynch Economics Inc. anticipates a $54 billion deficit, based on both smaller receipts and bigger spending, especially for unemployment and welfare.

-Is a $29 billion deficit still too high? Conservative critics maintain it is inflationary. They say government has no business running huge deficits so long as the economy is in an expansion phase.

Some, however, accept the deficit, saying that at least it is an improvement, a step in the right direction, and perhaps necessary to forestall or ameliorate the impact of a recession.

-Does an increase in military spending, concurrent with a reduction of Social Security benefits and job and housing programs, represent the priorities sought by the American people?

The matter is bound to create controversy in Congress. The sides are drawn. Some voters already have expressed themselves as opposed to social welfare spending. Others say they remain the

EPA Expected To Change Smog Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Environ mental Protection Agency, spurred by inflation battlers and big industry, is reportedly moving to slash by half its antismog standards.

The action would raise the allowable smog level from .08 micrograms per cubic meter of air to .12 micrograms, the Washington Post reported Sunday

Marlin Fitzwater, a spokesman for the EPA, said a proposal was made last July to change the standard from .08 micrograms per cubic meter of air to .10 micrograms "on the basis of new health effects

Green Family Located In Mexico

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) - Chad Green, a 3-year-old leukemia patient, came to a Laetrile clinic here today after his parents fled with him from Massachusetts where they were ordered to stop giving him the controversial substance.

Ex-Convict Holds Off Policemen

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - A 33-year-old ex-convict barricaded himself in an apartment on the city's West Side Thursday night, after a police officer answering a disturbance call was shot in the back

Special SWAT officers and negotiating teams tried all night and early today to coax Richard Jimenez from the housing project apartment, where a woman he had been dating and her three children were said to be held captive.

Jimenez was convicted in 1966 for the 1965 stabbing and shooting death of a man and sentenced to 99 years in prison, but later was paroled. Police said he has a lengthy record, including three charges of homicide, two of robbery, and one of burglary, assault and weapons violation.

Officer Richard Lama, 34, was reported in fair condition following surgery today at Bexar County Hospital. The bullet that went through his back grazed his kidney but missed other vital organs, doctors

Lama, who was wearing a bullet-proof vest, was shot about 9:30 p.m. Thursday as he waited for backup help after an swering the disturbance call. Officers said six shots were fired from the house during the night, and one shot was fired back by police. Dozens of police, including members of the SWAT team, set up a command post in a nearby house. Jimenez was believed armed with a .22-caliber rifle and a .38caliber pistol.

Police said a man identifying himself as Jimenez called, gave his name, and said: "I want someone with some brains, someone of higher rank."

The officer offered to relay the call by radio to police at the scene and also urged the man to surrender. He declined. but gave the officer the telephone number of the apartment.

Susie Guerrero, a divorcee who had been dating Jimenez, was believed in the apartment with her three children - two sons, age 5 and 7, and a 5-month-old daughter. Relatives of Mrs. Guerrero said she had been trying to break off the relationship with Jimenez.

Officers used a bullhorn to urge him to give himself up.

Television reporters were asked not to broadcast further reports on the situation because it was thought Jimenez fired additional shots because he became angered at TV reports.

Police ordered street lights cut off in the area, then waited in the darkness.

Indian Guides Plan Skillarama At YMCA

YMCA Indian Guides will gather for their annual Skillarama in the YMCA gym from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. Sunday.

Each "tribe" will display its collections of Indian crafts, derby cars, tribal drums, totem poles, costumes and other articles. There is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend, according to Rodriguez, a retired San Antonio policeman, said the man wheeled around and slashed at him, cutting him on the elbow. The man slashed again, but missed, and then a third time, Rodriguez said The bailiff ducked away, but the third slash caught Canales just as he walked off the elevator.

Mrs. Guerra was awaiting the hearing when suddenly District Judge Al Klein shouted at Rodriguez, "Stop that man. He just hit that woman with his fist."

Rodriguez said he saw the woman fall to the floor and the man running at him and noticed he had an open hunting knife in his right hand. Rodriguez said he pulled his gun but was unable to use it because too many people were in the courtroom, and the man ran past him and out the courtroom door.

After slashing Rodriguez and Canales near the elevator, the man fled the courthouse on foot, outdistancing Rodriguez, the bailiff said.

A clerk in Klein's court said she saw the man push Mrs. Guerra into the elevator earlier in the morning on their way to the courtroom and that the woman seemed frightened.

Judge Rejects Estes Plea

FORT WORTH (AP) - A federal judge rejected a three-month-old plea agreement for paroled West Texas swindler Billie Sol Estes today and ordered the case to trial in his court April 2

U.S. District Court-Judge Eldon Mahon termed the Oct. 18 agreement between Estes and federal prosecutors "unfulfillable" because it hinges on approval of the U.S. Parole Commission.

Mahon then allowed Estes to withdraw his guilty plea as part of the bargain. In October, Estes pleaded guilty to one count of conspiracy to conceal assets from the Internal Revenue Service and concocting a scheme to defraud inves-

Estes could have received a sentence of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. The agreement hinged on the Parole Commission's concurrence not to retroactively revoke Estes' parole.

The 52-year-old Abilene resident was convicted in 1963 of securing loans using non-existant fertilizer tanks as collateral. He served eight years of his 15-year sentence and was paroled in 1971. The court finds the plea agreement dated Oct. 18 is unfulfillable in that it contains provisions that are beyond the control of the parties involved," Mahon said. "The U.S. attorney cannot bind the

Retrial Slated For Herndon

bargain agreement

A second trial for Kenneth Wayne Herndon, accused in the December 1977 shooting death of another Lubbock man, today was scheduled for the second week in February as the criminal district attorney's office announced readiness to pro-ceed on more than 200 felony cases.

The first trial of Herndon last fall ended in a hung jury.

Jim Gordon, also charged with murder in the death of William Drew Young III at a Lubbock night club, was sched for trial immediately following the Hern-

Their cases were the second and third in priority among those presented in the 99th District Court.

The first was the scheduled retrial of Don Louie Warren, who was ordered retried by the Court of Criminal Appeals because the court decided the death sentence given him in the slaying of a Lub bock man during a burglary was not justified by the evidence.

contempt citation against the parents. But he added: "If the Greens are in Mexico, they are beyond the jurisdiction of Chad's physician in Boston, Dr. John Truman, said the boy could be off chemotherapy for a week before his condition became "chancy." The boy's leukemia is in apparent remission. It was not immediately known whether Chad was taking chemotherapy at the Mexico clinic.

The boy's grandmother, Vera Green, had said Thursday that the parents would make sure their son continued to get chemotherapy as well as other treat-

"I don't think they'll be far away from chemotherapy," Mrs. Green said. "They want the child to live.'

Her stepson, 28, and his wife, Diana, 25. disappeared with Chad after a judge ordered a halt to the Laetrile treatments. The boy had been made a ward of the state, but left in his parents home, after they objected to chemotherapy.

The couple left a note for Mrs. Green. It said, in part:

"We all know that we cannot endanger Chad's life and comply with the court order that would not allow us to give him nutritional support. It is clear that the politics involved would take our son's life...as we are to be made public exam-

"Our country was founded in freedom by free thinkers. We are no less free thinkers than our forefathers, but the country has changed, and it wants total control, even over the food we eat."

The elder Mrs. Green said the couple want the boy treated with Laetrile, vitamins, enzymes and a special diet including goat's milk

The state of Massachusetts failed Thursday to get a federal kidnapping warrant against the Greens from U.S. Attorney Edward F. Harrington. He rejected the request from an assistant state attorney general, saying, "It is contrary to the policy of the Department of Justice to charge parents for allegedly kidnapping their own child."

Once before, the Greens moved with Chad to seek other treatment. They lived in Hastings, Neb., when Chad developed leukemia symptoms in August 1977. The disease went into remission after treatment, including radiation, in an Omaha hospital.

They came to Massachusetts last October to seek treatment for Chad at the Boston hospital. They once totally opposed chemotherapy, claiming its alleged side effects made Chad a "wild animal," a contention they never proved in court.

However, the grandmother said the advocates of Laetrile they consulted advised the Greens to continue chemother-

Laetrile is a trademark for a substance derived from the pits of apricots and peaches and bitter almonds. Advocates say it is an effective treatment of cancer. but the U.S. Food and Drug Administration says the substance has not been proven safe and effective and has banned its interstate transportation.

On Monday, the U.S. Supreme Court agreed to determine if the federal government has the right to ban Laetrile from interstate commerce.

Swimming For Exercise

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a 37-year-old male and I have arthritis. I have found that by keeping my body weight down I feel better. I am 6 foot 3 with a large frame and weigh 190 pounds. I am interested in jogging. My stress test was OK. The problem is that there is too much stress on my legs for jogging.

Since strokes are common in my family. I'd like to stay as light as I can and still be healthy. I would also like to be active to the extent that this might prevent problems later on. Is my calculation of an optimal weight of 170 pounds correct? Because of my arthritis, I should do exercises that work my heart and develop my circulation but ones that do not stress my joints. Are there any that I could do at

DEAR READER - Regardless of how tall you are or how big your frame is, the rule is always the same. The way to find out if you are too fat is by measuring the fat under the skin. That means literally getting hold of your skin around the waist. If you have a half inch or more, you usually

You're absolutely right about your concepts of exercising. One of the best exercises I know for people who have joint disorders of any type, whether they are from osteoarthritis, rheumatoid arthritis or osteoporosis is swimming. The buoyancy of the water helps to support the body and eliminates the undesirable strain on the joints. At the same time, swimming is a good endurance exercise and can build up your heart and lungs. Now I don't expect that you have swimming pool in the back and since you are from New York, I doubt that you would be able to use such a pool year round anyway. Most commu ties do have an indoor swimming pool

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am a 15year-old girl and I don't wear a brass-iere. All my friends joke and jeer at me about it. I am writing to prove them or me wrong.

What are the pros and cons on bras?
One friend says that I can get breast cancer. Is that true? Should I stay comfortable and not wear one or wear one for health reasons? Or, does it really make any difference?

DEAR READER - It might depend on what you have to put inside your brassiere. A brassiere does provide support to an ample breast and help prevent sagging. If you don't wear a brassiere, the ligaments inside the breast tend to stretch. That means the amply endowed woman is apt to have sagging problems earlier in life if she doesn't wear a brassiere.

No, you can't get breast cancer from not wearing a brassiere.

Power Consolidation Could Save U.S. Oil

By LeROY POPE NEW YORK (UPI) — The U. S. power industry could save the equivalent of 200 million barrels of oil a year, or 9 percent of its fuel consumption, by consolidating into operating units using bigger generators, according to a Pennsylvania State University study.

Dr. John E. Tilton, Jr., who conducted the study with John H. DeYoung, Jr., a graduate student, said most of the utility companies simply are not big enough to follow the example of the American Electric Power Co. system, which has built huge, efficient generators that produce power more cheaply than other sys-

By saving 9 percent on fuel, the power industry could cut $2.5 billion a year from costs at present prices, the study said.

Fragmentation is the main cause of the lag in building bigger, more efficient fossil-fueled generating plants and the only solution is for the government to foster consolidation of the smaller companies,

Tilton said the U.S. power industry is doing better than Canada and Britain in building larger, more efficient genera-tors. He said the efficiency of the Canadian system could be improved by 13 percent and the British system by 17 per-

He said the Canadians don't look on the matter as being urgent because so much of their system is hydroelectric. In Britain, he said, a cumbersome decisionmaking process appeared to be the big cause of the lag.

John Dolan, an American Electric Power Co. vice president, said he thought Tilton's estimate of the savings that could be achieved if all the 1,000 power systems in the United States could be raised to the efficiency of his company's system was about right.

But Dolan said there are many obstacles to this and, in reality, the potential saving frequently is not a sufficient incentive to justify abandoning investments in existing smaller generators and raising money to build huge new fossilfired plants. He also said that when smaller companies begin thinking about ing about nuclear plants instead of burning coal or oil.

Dolan said the legal and political obstacles to consolidations are tough and the red tape surrounding a big nuclear venture is even more formidable

Jack Schenck, an official of Edison Electric Institute, the industry's biggest trade association, wouldn't comment on Tilton's figures without seeing them in detail but said he believed the power industry in the United States is making satisfactory progress towards rational consolidation and power pooling in order to take advantage of economies of scale.

He noted while there is still room for improvement as Tilton points out, the building of even bigger generators would lead inevitably to a point of diminishing returns. He also noted that the projected growth rate of power demand in the United States has been cut back significantly in the last few years.

Tilton made the further point that small utility companies are doubly deterred from building the largest and most efficient generators by the high cost of installing and maintaining backup generators in case of damage to the primary

ew Cambodian Government Celebrates Victory

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) - The new Cambodian government staged a vic tory celebration in Phnom Penh despite continuing fighting in the countryside.

Radio Phnom Penh also reported that newspapers appeared in the Cambodian capital for the first time since the Khmer Rouge Communists conquered the country nearly four years ago. The new Communist government headed by Heng Samrin monopolized the front pages, the report said Another Phnom Penh broadcast said Heng Samrin addressed thousands at the capital's sports stadium and called on his forces to "sweep away" the remnants of former Premier Pol Pot's army. It was his first public admission of continuing resistance.

Heng Samrin said the country's economy was a shambles and called on the people to make sacrifices to build a new society.

The Vietnam news agency carried an account of the victory celebration and said it was the first public appearance of the new government, called the People's Revolutionary Council. It said the Vietnamese National Assembly's Stand-

Meanwhile, Pol Pot's radio station, broadcasting from southern China, claimed his troops recaptured the city of Takeo, 56 miles south of Phnom Penh, 'for the second time' last Sunday. It said fierce fighting continued at Kampong Chnang, a provincial capital 53 miles northwest of Phnom Penh on one of the major supply roads from Vietnam.

No confirmation of the claims was available, but intelligence sources in Bangkok reported Thursday that Pol Pot's troops scored successes in the vicinity of Radio Hanoi reported that the Vietnamese government, in a note to the Australian government, denied that its troops helped oust the Pol Pot government. It protested Australia's suspension of cultural exchanges and aid to Vietnam, which the Australians said was in protest against "the intervention of Vietnamese forces in Cambodia and the Vietnamese attitude on the refugee problem.

Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the former Cambodian chief of state, told ABC-TV in New York that "Vietnam is now the master of Cambodia" and he was "not so optimistic" that it would ever be independent again. Sihanouk, held under house arrest for more than three years by the fallen government, went to the United Nations to plead Pol Pot's case. However, he denounced both the old and new governments and the Vietnamese invasion and said he would make his home in the West.

Botts was assessed a $1,000 fine and one year's probation in connection with his Dec. 18 arrest at a 4002 Ave. A building where police said more than 200 persons were gambling. Elder and Edwards, Botts, were assessed $500 fines and six months' probation each by County Courtat-Law Judge E.H. Boedeker.

The men initially were charged with gambling promotion, but they were allowed to plead guilty to the lesser charge. Montford said, because it was "our first move " against such gambling in Lubbock County

Monttord said his office is mailing out letters to all organizations in Lubbock County who sponsor games of chance and advising them that we intend to enforce the law in Lubbock County.

The letters are not telling the organizations specifically what to avoid, the district attorney said, adding, "their attornevs have to advise them.

sent to Congress. But the current version would require doctors to accept uniform, negotiated fees, the Post said.

The plan would force doctors to accept set rates for the elderly and poor beginning in 1983. At a still-uncertain later date, doctors would also have to accept such set fees under private health insurance plans, the Post said.

The plan also reportedly calls for Congress to set an annual spending ceiling for skyrocketing public and private health care costs. That would result in negotiations with doctors and hospitals to stay within the limit

Under the HEW proposal, all Americans would eventually be guaranteed health care at reasonable cost. It would eventually set up a federal insurance program called "HealthCare" to compete with private insurers' medical policies and replace Medicare and Medicaid.

The Post said the plan would initially set strict limits on hospital costs.

The five phases of the HEW-Califano plan as listed by the Post:

1. Remove Medicare hospital day limit in 1983. Mandate physician acceptance of set rates for the aged and poor. Mandate catastrophic illness coverage for all 25hour-a-week or more employes, with federal-employer cost sharing.

2. Establish federal HealthCare plan for persons not covered elsewhere and for some of the poor, with federal aid from general revenues. 3. Mandate physician acceptance of set rates for all approved private health inurance plans. Broaden health coverage. 4. Merge Medicare and Medicaid (except for Medicaid longterm care) with HealthCare 5. Make HealthCare mandatory for anyone who lacks other coverage.

Taxpayers Subject To Audits

WASHINGTON (AP) - While every taxpayer is subject to possible audit, the Internal Revenue Service actually checks relatively few returns, only about one in

However, the wealthier the taxpayer and the more complex the return, the greater the likelihood the IRS will want to take a look at it. Unusually large deductions are also more likely to bring on an audit.

At the lower end of the income scale chances of audit are slim. For example, there is a 1.5 percent chance for taxpayers with income under $10,000 a year, or percent chance, while upper income taxpayers with income over $50,000 have a 11.5 percent chance.

But to avoid a possible penalty the tax-payer who needs more time should ask the IRS for an extension by filling out form 4868. Technically, a penalty equal to 0.5 percent interest on the tax due may be assessed for each month or part of a month the tax return is overdue

Six out of eight taxpayers will receive refunds. It takes about four weeks to process a refund for taxpayers who file their returns early, although it can take longer, up to eight weeks, for those who wait until the last minute when the IRS is swamped with work.

As many as nine out of every 10 workers allow the government to routinely over-withhold taxes from their paychecks.

Anyone who is entitled to claim the benefit should fill out form 2119, which can be obtained from the IRS, and file it with the regular 1040 return. Since it's a complex computation, there should be no hesitation in asking the IRS for help.

At any age, taxpayers may postpone payment of a tax on the profits of a house they sell, if it has been their residence and if they buy another one within 18

Under the new law, they can buy and sell a house more than once during the 18 months and still defer taxation. The reason benefits for home ownership are given in the first place is to encourage people to buy homes.

In making the changes in 1978, Congress decided it is not entirely fair to ask nomeowners to pay taxes on profits that increased largely because of inflation, has not increased proportionately.

The housing sale provisions are part of a much larger change voted by Congress last year for capital gains, which are the profits from the sale of a home or other property, including business stocks, bonds or even coin collections.

As of Nov. 1, 1978, the amount of capital capital stocks are property.

As of Nov. 1, 1978, the amount of capital gains that can be excluded from taxation was increased from 50 percent to 60

The remaining 40 percent is subject to the same rate of tax as the taxpayers' other income. So, for example, if a taxpayer is in a 33 percent tax bracket, it means the tax on the remaining 40 percent would be 33 percent.

He would be, by two full years, the oldest man ever to assume the presidency. He would be only the third man (joining William Henry Harrison and James Buchanan) to enter the White House aged 65 or older. He would be older at the start of his term than any president except Andrew Jackson or Dwight Eisenhower was at the end of his time in off-

Interesting bits of trivia perhaps, but are they politically relevant? Does Ronald Reagan's age bear on his ability to serve as the president?

In the already septic atmosphere of American political debate, Reagan's age may not be openly discussed on its merits. More likely, it will be the stuff of rumors and whispers about his physical condition or his mental acuity. That is one reason for this effort to venilate the subject directly.

The question of health is legitimately raised about all prospective presidents. To the untrained eye, the lean and active dates do this and it usually takes care of the health issue.

But that will not answer all the questions for Reagan. In a country where many persons are required to retire at age 70, there will be those who question the capacity of any septugenarian to assume the physical and mental burdens of the presidency.

One response is that the American fixation on youth is ridiculous, especially in the selection of national leaders. David Ben Gurion and Golda Meier in Israel, Konrad Adenauer in West Germany, Charles DeGaulle in France. Winston Churchill in Great Britain, Josif Tito in Yugoslavia and Mao Tse-tung in China are just a few examples of political leaders of other countries who have functioned capably despite what we regard as advanced age.

Actually, an American presidential campaign is itself a kind of physical and mental test for candidates. Any person who remains healthy after no less than a full year of fast food, motel beds, drafty or overheated meeting rooms and cross country jet jumps surely has demonstrated some kind of fitness.

In a sense, the issue of old age is the flip side of the question raised when Kennedy undertook to become the youngest

NOT MUCH PROFIT

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Federal Trade Commission says retail corporations' after-tax profits averaged 2.7 cents per dollar of sales in the third quarter of 1978. This compares with 2.8 cents in the second quarter of 1978 and 2.7 cents in the third quarter of 1977.

man to be elected president. Even though the Constitution sets the lower age limit for becoming president at 35, there were those who claimed Kennedy, at 43, was too young for the office. The voters in 1960 decided otherwise. Given a clean bill of health, Reagan's age is no more relevant to his capacity for presidential service than was Kennedy's. It sometimes seems too much to ask, but it would be nice if Reagan and everyone else who runs for public office were judged on the basis of their records, their

Tax Relief Impact Below Projection

AUSTIN (UPI) — Impact of the tax re-lief measures approved in a constitution-al amendment vote in November will be $75 million less than intially projected, according to latest data on school taxes.

Associate Education Commissioner Raymon Bynum Thursday told the House Appropriations Committee the reductions in local school property taxes — and the amount the state will reimburse local school districts - will be closer to $375 million than the $450 million figure cited

The constitutional amendment exempts from school taxes $5,000 of the market value of every residential homestead and authorizes the Legislature to exempt another $10,000 of the value of residences of elderly property owners. In a special tax relief session last year lawmakers set aside $450 million for the 1979 Legislature to reimburse local districts for revenue lost because of the tax reductions and changes in tax assessment procedures designed to help agricultural land owners

"I feel sure we're going to have some excess dollars left from that $450 mil-lion," Bynum said.

The education finance authority said legislators may want to use the extra money to reimburse local districts for the loss of revenue if they exempt automo-biles from taxation or to aid schools in some other way. Speaker Bill Clayton and Lt. Gov. Bil Hobby said they anticipated from the outset that the cost of reimbursing local districts for the tax cuts would be lower than $450 million

"We thought all along that $450 million would be more than enough to do it," Clayton said.

Bynum said the figures he presented Thursday are not final because additional data is needed on the amount of agricultural land qualifying for assessment at values based on productive capacity rath-er than market or resale price.

The $5,000 tax exemption on home-steads is expected to come to $100 million a year statewide, Bynum said. He esti-

Under the senator's plan, Texas voters would be asked to approve a constitutional amendment dedicating one cent of the 712-cent severance tax to a utility relief

If the amendment passes in November 1979, it would reappear on ballots in 1984 for a second look, the senator explained.

The human resouces department, formerly the welfare department, could choose energy stamps, direct checks to recipients, additions to federal SSI payments or other means to disburse funds,

Payments would average $10 to $15 monthly, he said. As of December 1978, some 248.000 elderly, disabled and blind Texans living outside nursing homes or hospitals were receiving SSI payments. The aid could be used to pay residential natural gas, electric and butane bills. Neither the senator nor board members suggested one disbursement method

Workers March DON'T TO Support Act

Avalanche-Journal Staff

Texas Farmworkers Union president Antonio Orendain has charged Speaker of the House Bill Clayton with blocking the proposed Agriculture Labor Relations Act which would grant farmworkers collective bargaining rights.

At a news conference here Thursday, Orendain said Clayton delayed approval of the bill by sending it to the Livestock and Agriculture Committee.

Orendain announced plans for a 600-mile "March for Equality" which will begin Saturday in Muleshoe and end at the steps of the state capitol building

The 43-day march to Austin is aimed at garnering publicity and support for the proposed Agriculture Labor Relations Act. The law would allow farmworkers to conduct elections and determine if a union should represent the workers in collective bargaining situations with employers.

Saturday will mark the beginning of the union's third march in support of the Orendain flew here Thursday from Washington where he obtained the endorsement of the Alliance of Federal Employees and Postal Workers. The Texas Conference of Churches and the Texas Catholic Conference also has endorsed the union's march, according to Orendain March participants plan to camp in front of the capitol building until the end

In a courtroom protected by tight electronic security and federal marshals, Judge John Wood Jr. Thursday refused to dismiss the charge against Joe Rentiria in a case that has featured a U.S. prosecutor who was the target of an assassination attempt and the shooting death of a defense attorney

Jury selection began Thursday but Wood said if a panel could not be chosen, he would move the trial to Midland Monday. The judge said he would use wide discretion in disqualifying any of the 103 prospective jurors who might have been influenced by trials of two other men in the same alleged conspiracy

The defense had sought to have the charge against Rentiria, held in La Tuna Federal Correctional Institute in lieu of $1 million bond, dismissed on grounds federal Drug Enforcement Adminstration and Internal Revenue Service Agents made an illegal search of an office after Rentiria's attorney, Lee Chagra, was shot and killed on Dec. 23.

The slain attorney was known as "F. Lee Chagra because of the major drug smuggling defendants he represented. The investigation into his death reportedly has alarmed several drug dealers who fear attorney-client papers may have been discovered by law enforcement

Prosecuting the case is James Kerr, an assistant U.S. attorney for the Western District of Texas, who was ambushed in San Antonio on Nov. 21 by a man who fired 19 shots from an automatic rifle from the back of a van into the hood and fender of Kerr's car.

Kerr, who prosecuted two other men convicted in the same case last year, escaped with minor cuts from glass. But U.S. Attorney Jaime Boyd, who watched Thursday's proceeding from the spectator section, termed it a "contract type" assassination attempt.

Joe Chagra, brother of the slain laywer, was representing Rentiria in the action. Wood threatened him with contempt of court when Chagra pecsisted in wanting to appeal the judge's refusal to dismiss the charge and decision to proceed with Wood and Kerr both were afforded marshals as bodyguards after the San Antonio ambush. But the FBI declined to link the attack on the prosecutor, who formerly headed a narcotics task force in the Western District, to any of the cases he had tried

The FBI, however, announced Thursday it also entered the investigation of Chagra's death on the basis of possible interstate transportation of a large sum of money missing from the dead attorney's office and to look into allegations of gam-bling payoffs. The deceased attorney reportedly gambled heavily in Las Vegas several times each year.

The defense Thursday called six homicide detectives investigating Chagra's killing. They testified that DEA and IRS agents went to the office, but the officers denied that any papers were taken or any copies were made of attorney-client information in the lawyer's care.

One detective said several "micro-cassette" tape recordings were found in a tive-day meticulous search of the attorney's office. The city policemen admitted under defense examination they had not obtained a search warrant before going into the attorney's office.

LULAC Raps Program

Clements has spoken with Mexican officials about reviving the bracero program to bring in Mexican workers but the state director of the League of United Latin American Citizens says such a move would be disastrous

Attorney Ruben Bonilla Thursday said, among other things, such contract labor from Mexico would have an adverse impact on the U.S. balance of payments because most wages paid the braceros would be sent back to Mexico and could destroy much of the progress that has been made by Mexican-Americans in this country, resulting in a terrible backlash against us

Bonilla called the bracero program synonomous with exploitation" and called a Feb. 16-17 meeting of LULAC district directors to organize against the program. He said the antibracero meeting would be in conjunction with the 50th anniversary of the founding of LULAC the nation's oldest Hispanic organization. Clements went to Mexico City Tuesday

Today's women get ragged to death about their push-button world. Men like to remind them of the days when their mothers baked from scratch, carried wood, and the only thing self-cleaning was the cat.

Did you know that you'd have to eat nearly 500 calories' worth of porterhouse to get as much high-class protein as you'd find in only 100 calories' worth of low-fat cottage cheese? That's why cottage cheese has always been a top-choice food for calorie-counters.

But cottage cheese is cold comfort in mid-winter. What's wanted now is hot and hearty rib-sticking fare ... not salad plates! So, today, we've got a trio of main-course dishes, protein-powered with cottage cheese and other low-cost, low-cal, low-fat, protein-rich ingredients. Easy on the budget as well as the waist-

COTTAGE NOODLE CASSEROLE 2 cups egg noodles, med. (5 oz.) 11/4 cups skim milk 2 tbsps. flour 2 tsps. lemon juice dash of Worcestershire sauce 1 tsp. prepared mustard optional: dash of Tabasco sauce 3 tbsps. parsley, fresh, minced 4-oz. can mushroom pieces, drained l onion, peeled, minced 1 lb. cottage cheese, low-fat salt and pepper to taste 5 tbsps. Romano or Cheddar cheese, extra-sharp, grated

2 tbsps. bread crumbs, seasoned Cook noodles in boiling salted water until tender. Rinse in cold water. Drain and set aside.

Combine milk and flour in sauce pan: cook and stir over low heat until mixture simmers and thickens. Stir in lemon juice. Worcestershire sauce, mustard, Tabasco sauce and parsley. Combine sauce with noodles, mushrooms, onion and cottage cheese in a 2-quart casserole. Season to taste. Sprinkle with Romano cheese and seasoned crumbs. Bake, uncovered, in a preheated 350-degree oven 25 to 30 minutes. Makes six main-course servings, about 225 calories each, or 12 side-dish servings, about 115 calories each.

EASY COTTAGE TUNA CASSEROLE 1½ cups cottage cheese, low-fat, creamed

1 tbsp. cornstarch 11/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce 1/2 tsp. onion salt 2 tbsps. lemon juice paprika, to taste 3 eggs, lightly beaten

(or ¾ cup no-cholesterol egg substitute) 1/2 cup skim milk half of a small onion, chopped 2 or 3 sprigs parsley, fresh 2 cans (61/2-7 oz. each) tuna, water-packed, drained, flaked 8 olives, Spanish (green), stuffed, thinly sliced Combine all ingredients except tuna and olives in blender or food processor and blend smooth. Gently fold in flaked tuna and sliced olives. Turn into a shallow 1 and one-half-quart casserole or baking dish. Set the dish in a large pan containing 1 inch of boiling water. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven 45 to 50 minutes, until a knife inserted in the center comes out clean. Makes six servings, about 180 calories each.

FARMER'S OMELET 2 eggs (or 1/2 cup no-cholesterol substitute) 1 tbsp. skim milk

West made his natural lead of the jack of hearts, and declarer was quite happy with the dummy that came down. His only problem was in diamonds, and that would be solved if the suit broke evenly. So declarer won the heart, drew trumps in three rounds and then led the ace of diamonds and another. Unfortunately the suit split 3-1, and East cashed another diamond for down one.

Declarer might have ex-pected a 3-1 diamond division-the most likely distribution according to the probabilities. If he had, he could have exploited the possibility of finding either defender with a singleton diamond honor to improve his chances for the contract.

After winning the king of hearts, declarer should have drawn two rounds of trumps, then cashed the ace of hearts and king of clubs. Declarer enters his hand with a third trump and clears the clubs, discarding three diamonds from dummy. The scene is Now declarer leads a low diamond! As the cards lie, West wins the king and is forced to return a heart, which presents declarer with a ruff and sluff and allows him to get rid of his other diamond loser.

Notice that it is not necessary to find West with a singleton king for this play to succeed. Any singleton honor in either defensive hand will do the job, for if that defender is allowed to win the first diamond trick, he must concede a ruff-sluff. The only time declarer will be faced with a problem is if East can overtake West's honor and continue the suit. In this case, declarer will have to guess whether to rise with the ace in the hope diamonds are 2-2, or finesse East for the missing honor.

(Photographic education is flouurishing as its upward trend continues in schools, colleges and workshops all around the country. A couple of years ago I visited a home workshop in Freehold, N.J., run by Bernard and Inez Hoffman, a couple with roots deep in photojournalism. I've asked Bernie Hoffman, a long-time photographer on LIFE magazine, to be my guest columnist this week to discuss how his workshop evolved.)

After 18 years of traveling around the world for LIFE and 15 years of owning a custom photo lab in New York City, we finally listened to our daughter, moved out of the big city and into her little community in Freehold. She had shown us an interesting house with a large basement. We bought it and planned to retire.

As a LIFE photographer, I had covered every type of story here and in Europe science, fashion, sports, documentary, celebrities - and had done my share of recording World War II in the China-Burma-India theater; made the first B-29 raid over Japan; and was with the first press group to fly into Hiroshima and Nagasaki after the atom bomb was dropped.

When it was all over, I thought it time to settle down and enjoy my family. But instead of taking it easy, we opened our custom photo lab. I knew all the problerns and pressures that beset working photographers so, from the beginning, our lab was keyed to maintain the highest technical standards to give them the best

So we finally got to Freehold to relax and after three weeks of retirement and living the good life - I thought I'd go berserk! I had to do something to keep active. So the photography workshop idea was born. So we remodeled our house to include a large darkroom-lab and a studio set-up, and we began to teach the things I was familiar with.

We limited our workshop classes to five students in a group since too many students lead to too many unanswered questions. We give practical on-the-job training in all techniques of shooting and custom processing. We show how to shoot with natural light, backlight, floodlights and electronic flash, indoors and outtant. With other outdoor shots, we show how to get different effects with red, yellow and polarizing filters.

Spotlight on

In the darkroom, we teach negative development by inspection, a rarely taught art but one that can prove to be a life-saving technique. In custom printing, we show how light areas can be darkened (burned in) and how dark areas can be held back (dodged). We also show how dark areas in prints can be saved and lightened with potassium ferricyanide

In printing, we heve eliminated the use of running water and tray development. Years ago, I discovered something to replace it: the stabilization process. We turn out top-quality results with it. We use the Spiratone stabilizer machine, activator and stabilizer chemicals and Ektamatic paper. With the recommended polycontrast filters, we can get any degree of contrast required. That means that one box of paper does it all — and the same paper can be used, incidentally, for trav development also.

Stabilization processing is faster and an excellent teaching tool. It forces students to learn how to print properly since there can be no manipulation as in tray development where a print can be pulled out sooner or left longer to compensate for over-or under-exposure in the enlarger. A finished, top-quality print emerges from the stabilizer machine in about 20 seconds. It comes out damp and is air dried in minutes

Stabilized prints have one major drawback - they are not permanent. They will last a minimum of six months then may start to discolor. So periodically, we gather all the prints we wish to preserve -- eliminating proofs and rejects -- and put them in a regular hypo bath, then wash and dry them normally for perman-

To save water, we also use a chemical called Hustler, after the fixing bath and before washing. We soak the prints in a diluted solution for two minutes and then they require only a four-minute wash. Films need only a 30-second bath in Hustler before a four-minute wash.

We know our print quality is high because we've had about 25 exhibits in New York where the work of our students has

First In New Series Of Stamps Features Birds Of Bermuda

Hobbies Crafts

Associated Press Writer

The first in a new series of stamps depicting local wild life has been issued by

The set of five features Bermuda birds and is part of a complete set of 17 definitives which replaces the "flowers of Bermuda" set. An attractive first-day cover was issued simultaneously. The 3-cent shows a white-tailed tropical bird, a Bermuda Longtail, which is regarded by the local populace as a harbinger of spring. The 4-cent illustrates a white-eved vireo, the 5-cent an eastern bluebird and the 8-cent a cardinal.

The highest value is a $5 stamp picturing a Bermuda petrel or cahow, one of the world's rarest birds. The cahow was believed extinct but was rediscovered in Bermuda some 20 years ago. Today there are about 30 pairs in a bird sanctuary at

The second set in the wild life series will feature amphibians and crustaceans. The third set will portray fish and marine If you cannot purchase the stamps at your local dealer you may write to: Bermuda Philatelic Bureau, General Post Office, Hamilton, 5-24, Bermuda. Here are some additional details about upcoming U.S. stamps. The commemorative stamp marking the International Year of the Child will be issued Feb. 15 in Philadelphia. The stamp focuses attention on the U.N. General Assembly's declaration of 1979 as a year of concern for the well-being of children throughout the world.

A multi-color commemorative postal card honoring George Rogers Clark will be issued Feb. 23 at Vincennes, Ind. A stein will be issued March 4 rather than March 14 as previously announced by the U.S. Postal Service. This stamp will be issued in Princeton, N.J., where Dr. Einstein lived.

The block of four stamps featuring "American Architecture" will be issued in June. The buildings depicted on the stamps are the Rotunda of the University of Virginia, designed by Thomas Jefferson; the Boston State House by Charles Bulfinch: the Baltimore Cathedral by Benjamin Latrobe; and the Philadelphia Exchange by William Strickland.

Other June stamps include a single stamp commemorating "Seeing Eye Dogs" and a block of four calling attention to endangered flora and fauna.

A block of four displaying "Pennsylvania Toleware" is scheduled for July. The stamps continue the American Folk Art Series begun in 1977 with the Pueblo Indian Pottery Issue and continued in 1978 with the American Quilts set.

Cyprus has issued a special set of four stamps, each honoring an important event during 1978. The 15-mil stamp is for the prevention of anemia. The design shows an artist's conception of blood cells with low hemaglobin content. The 35-mil depicts a stone scultpure of the head of Aristotle, commemorating the 2,-300th anniversary of his death. The 75-mil is for the anniversary of the European Convention of Human Rights and portrays two interlocking faces. The 125-mil is a tribute to the 75th anniversary of powered flight by the Wright Brothers. The stamp features cameo portraits of Wilbur and Orville Wright, the first plane and a flight symbol.

Did you know that: In the U.S. stamp issue on the subject "early American toys" there were 50 stamps in a pane... Used stamps which are cut canceled or punch canceled are usually revenue stamps...The Boy Scouts of America has a stamp collecting merit badge.

Quilted Pillow Spells Down-Home Comfort

The quilted Cathedral Window Pillow pictured here will be the talk of the town and country when you combine its smart design with easy frills that spell downhome comfort. Substituting a cotton gingham - red and white checks - for a more traditional calico print gets you off to a lively start. And best of all, you don't have to go the whole quilt. A combination of piece work with applique saves Border work can give your pillow an effective ruffle. Strips of gingham, ribbon, lace and a polka-dotted trim will block off your quilted work nicely.

Curved seams were a favorite of the Pennsylvania Dutch. Very often, the innocent looking geometric motifs that went into their fancy patchwork provided a system of codes and symbols and hex signs to convey personal messages and popular lore. The circumscribed and curved squares that stand out in the Cathedral Window can be traced in other quilting designs such as Wandering Foot, Dolly Madison's Workbox, Friendship Knot and the Oak Leaf.

Wood Putty Repairs Old Door

ed Press Writer

- The door to one of our bedrooms binds whenever an attempt is made to close it all the way. I have determined that several of the screws are loose in the hinges. Before I try to replace them with longer screws, I want to be sure that I know exactly what I am doing. Most important, what do I do if longer screws go through the door?

A. - In that event, you will have to fill the old screw holes with wood putty, plastic wood or wood pegs. You then can use the old screws or, if they are rusted or damaged, new screws of the same size.

Q. — I have been shopping around for a new wood plane to replace the old one I have had for many years. I notice that one type of plane is longer than the others. The salesman says it is a jointer plane, but he doesn't seem quite sure of its precise use. Can you tell me?

A. - A jointer plane usually is used for large wood surfaces. Its length - be-tween 20 and 28 inches - enables it to shave wood especially well where a surface has slight hollows in it, since the long base and blade level off the higher spots before shaving the lower ones.

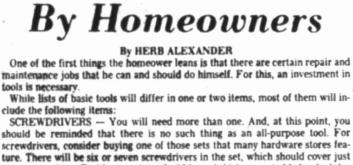

- The family room in our house has knotty pine walls. I recently used denatured alcohol to rub down the walls and get them clean. Now I want to put a finish on them. I have some floor sealer left over from a recent project. Would it be all right to use this on the knotty pine?

A. - It not only would be all right, it would be an excellent idea. As with shellac, two thin coats are better than a single thick coat. Most floor sealers give a less lustrous coat than shellac, varnish or lacquer, but then you already know what type of finish to expect since you have used the sealer in the past.

Q. - In preparing pine wood for a pic-kled finish, does the wood have to be ightened first? A. - Yes. Use a bleach.

(The techniques of using varnish, bleach, lacquer, shellac, stain and other coatings are detailed in Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," which can be obtained by sending 35 cents AND a long, stamped self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Bdx 477, Huntington N.Y. 11743. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column, but individual correspondence cannot be undertaken.)

The knights of Medusa, founded in 1690 in Marseille and named for the mythical woman whose glance turned people to stone, is France's oldest wine-tasting so-should be reminded that there is no such thing as an all-purpose tool. For screwdrivers, consider buying one of those sets that many hardware stores feaabout everything. Besides a variety of widths and thicknesses in blades, look for at least one that has a short handle to work in tight places.

The set should also include one or two with the special four-way tip for Phil-

PLIERS - The ordinary slip-joint pliers will do for a start. Later on, you will graduate to side-cutting and long-nosed pliers. So-called water-pump pliers and made so that the adjustable jaws can be set for a variety of sizes.

WRENCH - Get an adjustable wrench of the crescent variety. A 10-inch one will handle most jobs but consider smaller and larger ones in time. The smooth, square-jawed monkey wrench and the pipe wrench are others to consider if you get inyo plumbing repairs, which you will, eventually.

HAMMER - Buy a claw hammer with a forged-steel head. The 14-ounce hammer is a good all-around hammer. PLUNGER - The tool known as a plumber's friend is a single-purpose tool.

It is used for opening stopped drains and is worth every penny you spend on it. Use it in time and you may not have to resort to wrenches.

SAW - Get a crosscut saw, one with seven or eight teeth per lnch, which will handle most of the board-cutting you are likely to encounter. A hacksaw for cutting metal is a worthy investment. When all else fails with a rusted bolt and nut, you can always lop it off with a hacksaw. MEASURING TOOLS - A steel tape, about eight or 10 feet long, is handy and compact and can be used for inside and outside measuring generally. Later, you can add a six-foot folding rule, the kind you see carpenters using. A trisquare is used for drawing the cutting lines on a piece of wood once you've done your measuring. Also use it to check the squareness of ends and sides of lumber DRILL - A push drill is fine for starter holes for wood screws. The electric drill comes close to being an all-purpose tool once you start investigating all the attachments you can buy for it.

Aside from the electric drill, go easy on power tools at the beginning. Rent what you need. You may find that you don't really need a particular item after all. Do not buy cheap tools. A good tool will last a long, long time and will be easier to use at any time.

Another Crop For Area Farmers -Wildlife

WINTER VEGETATION - Leaving some yucca plants and silverleaf night shade berries, lower right, in certain odd areas on a farm can supply food for game birds and small mammals, according to Amy Yeldell, Lubbock County soil conservationist. Miss Yeldell is shown here on the J. Pete Thompson farm near Abernathy. Thompson is working under the Great Plains Conservation program to increase the wildlife population on part of his acreage. (Staff Photo).

By KATHLEEN HARRIS Avalanche-Journal Farm Writer

Utilizing odd areas and playa lakes for maximum land use is a topic of concern for area farmers, According to Lubbock County soil conservationist Horace Drisdale, managing for wildlife is one alternative for such areas.

"Managing for the native wildlife population can be inexpensive and simple," Drisdale said. Yet the increase in the population of animals can be substantial." In order to offer more knowledgeable assistance to farmers who decide to create a wildlife area, the Soil Conservation Service in Lubbock County recently hired a soil conservationist who is a specialist in wildlife management and edu-

Amy Yeldell received a bachelor's degree in wildlife conservation and education from Southwest Missouri State University in Springfield, Mo., but got a lot of her "training" by growing up by a lake in Missouri and working for a wildlife

"Under the Great Plains Conservation program," Miss Yeldell said "all of the farmer's land has to be entered in the plans for improvement. Wildlife management offers a method of conservation for odd areas and playa lakes."

J. Pete Thompson of Abernathy, who owns a 693-acre farm in Lubbock County, entered into a GPC contract to terrace his farm in preparation for dryland farming.

"I decided to let 72 acres return to their native state after noticing several pheasants on the land, in order to increase their population," Thompson said. "Of course, managing for wildlife increased other species of native wildlife, too.

Wildlife must have cover, food and water and a nesting place in order to survive.

Drisdale said most articles found laying around farms and usually considered 'junk' can be used for cover for wildlife. "Old sheds and outdated implements can provide the necessary cover for birds and small animals," Drisdale noted, "and dead trees, if left standing instead of being chopped down and removed, can substitute for trees as a bird's rest-

Brush left along the fence line can also provide ample cov er for wildlife, Drisdale said.

"You have to have a knowledge of wildlife habits before you can set up a management system or find signs of their existence," Miss Yeldell said. "The type of system established depends on what the farmer wants.'

Coming from an area with plentiful water to West Texas requires more studying to decide which plants will adapt here with low management, Miss Yeldell said.

"I hope to present more ideas to farmers in order to persuade more to get the maximum use out of their land," she

One area that could use more development is playa lakes, according to the wildlife specialist. With the different types of soil that are found around the low-lying lakes, Miss Yeldell said possibly introducing different varieties of plants to the lake sites would attract more species of water fowl.

"For example, smartweed has a dual purpose," she noted "If smartweed is able to adapt to the playa lake areas, it could provide both food and cover.

Drisdale said one reason more farmers are coming to the SCS for assistance in establishing a wildlife program in this area is the lack of recreation.

"Farmers are either trying to manage wildlife for their own enjoyment or to create another source of income through hunting leases." Many city businessmen are also buying land specifically for the purpose of creating a good hunting area, he said.

"If a farmer intends to lease his land for hunting," Miss Yeldell said, "that increases his need to come for assistance. He wants a significant population of wildlife on his land to keep the hunter coming each year.'

Thompson said the wildlife population on his farm, while it has greatly increased since he began this program, would be even higher if there was more water.

The requirement for water may seem a drawback for this area, but, Drisdale said one small tank would be sufficient

"Most pheasants prefer a running stream, but a small tank, not large enough to attract dogs and other large animals, would be adequate," he said.

Miss Yeldell noted that while some wells may be submarginal for crop irrigation, they may still provide the proper amount for wildlife.

"When the cropland is terraced," Thompson pointed out, "there will be no runoff, so there will have to be a tank or some type of water source established if the wildlife are to

In addition to establishing a water source, Thompson said he will probably run a shreader through parts of the wildlife area to make it more accessible to hunters in the future, plant some Russian olive and wild plum trees and probably plant four to six rows of milo below the terraces to increase "The grain should have every third row or so eut," Miss Yeldell suggested, "because most birds prefer to eat the seed off the ground. Leaving some of the rows standing will provide food on the ground and maintain a cover for the wildlife as well."

According to Thompson, there are really no disadvantages to the wildlife management system. "It is simple and inexpensive." he said, "and it provides a source of recreation for humans either through hunting or just by watching the ani-

on the Thompson farm, Thompson said he hopes to have good results from the system in order to encourage more area farmers to develop wildlife management systems on their difficult-to-farm areas.

Corn Price Bargaining lowed In Hereford

By JIM STEIERT HEREFORD — Negotiations between the newly-chartered High Plains Farm Bargaining Association, organized just over two weeks ago in Dimmitt, and Frito-Lay, Inc. of Dallas concerning con-tracts for production of food-grade corn in the local area apparently got off to a slow start during an initial session re-

Four members of the Bargaining Association met with Frito officials Jan. 11 to discuss contract prices to be offered for the production of food-grade white billion bushels, an increase of 10 percent from 1977, the Agriculture Department said Tuesday.

The new estimate was 191 million bushels more than the previous department forecast of 6.89 billion bushels last November when harvest was still in progress. It was the fourth record corn crop in a row, followed by 6.43 billion bushels in 1977, 6.27 billion in 1976 and 5.83 billion

The huge harvests means there is more and yellow corn, but apparently failed to reach an agreement on the payments corn growers should receive.

Frito-Lay has since mailed letters to old contract growers, offering a contract price substantially below that which supporters of the bargaining group indicate they must have to produce food grade corn profitably in this region.

The Bargaining Association was formed shortly after Frito-Lay took over the facilities of Grain Handling Corp., in Hereford, Hart, Olton, Hart Camp and Springlake on Jan. 1.

778 Corn Crop Produces Record

F-L and GHC had been entangled in lawsuits prior to the Dallas firm's acquiring the area food corn facilities, and area farmers who had been growing food corn on a contract basis with GHC for a number of years became concerned over the availability of those contracts for the 1979 crop year.

The bargaining group was formed in Dimmitt to negotiate for an improved price for food corn, and the charter obtained by the organization will allow it to bargain for all commodities.

During the HPFBA's organizational meeting, and at a subsequent session in Dimmitt Jan. 10, farmers arrived at an average suggested price for Frito-Lay yellow corn of $6.38 per hundredweight a suggested price of $7.77 hundredweight for Frito-Lay white corn, and $5.68 per hundredweight for commercial

According to Weldon Davis of Hart, president of the new bargaining group, members of the organization's board of directors met in Dimmitt Wednesday and agreed to continue to pursue a $6 per hundredweight contract for yellow corn and a $7 per hundredweight contract for white corn after an initial session of negotiations with F-L officials apparently failed to net any results. At the same time, a letter bearing a Frito-Lay letterhead and dated Jan. 15 was mailed to Frito-Lay contract growers in the area during the past week.

The letter announced that F-L "is in a position to offer contracts for food corn production for delivery in 1979.

The letter indicates "for 1979 production. Frito-Lav will be paying $5 per hundredweight for yellow food corn and $6 per hundredweight for white food corn, with approximately one-third of total pounds contracted to be of an approved white variety."

The letter indicate that contracts are to be written between Jan. 18 and Jan. 31, and bears the signatures of Frito-Lay employes at Olton, Hart, Springlake and Hereford

"At this point, we are simply trying to get people not to rush in and sign these contracts," Davis commented, concerning the HPFBA's current activities. "We want to try and keep people from signing with Frito before we can negotiate a contract price with them."

"It is possible Frito-Lay will attempt to avoid bargaining with the association, and offer contract to any farmer, and this is an eventuality we are attempting to deal with now," Davis explained. "We have firmly decided we just can't grow this food corn for less than $6 and

Farmer objections to the contract offer made by Frito-Lay center around factors including higher production costs for food corn, lower yields, and increased dockages due to moisture content, cracked kernels and so on in the crop when it is delivered

One of the major objections comes in proposed limitation on the varieties of white corn which area producers could plant,

According to Davis, F-L proposes to limit some of the highest yielding white corn varieties now grown in the area to only 20 percent of the overall production, while many of those varieties on the approved production list are unfamiliar to Panhandle and South Plains growers.

'We could plant only 20 pecent of one of three varieties which have proven to be good yielders in this area in the past, and I sure think this could be a handicap to our growers," said Davis.

"The high yielding white corn varieties we now grow are a bit more susceptible to ear worm damage than some of the others. We are not opposed to lower yielding varieties if we can get the right customarily yield 15-30 percent less grain than yellows, and much of that can be lost in the field at harvest time. White corn customarily remains in the field longer than vellow because of a requirement for greater drydown time, and is thus more susceptible to lodging. Another farmer objection is based on a clause in the proposed contract which al-

Yield is a particularly crucial point for white corn producers, as white varieties

lows Frito-Lay to demand delivery of corn, even if it does not measure up to the requirements for food grade. "If the market is above the food grade contract price, this is a real bad factor

Davis indicated. The HPFBA has issued a statement being circulated to area corn growers concerning corn contract negotiations for commercial corn in the contract," with Frito-Lay.

The statement reads:

"We recommend that farmers thoroughly read, consider, and understand all aspects that regard price, grade, variety, moisture, crackage, shrinkage and shrinkage percentage, hauling, long lines, field losses, extra spraying, and lower yields before signing any contract. All of these things considered, we believe that the contract offered to date is less than the present market price." The message carries the names of Bargaining Association directors Ray Joe Riley of Springlake, Kenneth Christie of Summerfield, Floyd Light of Olton, Jerry Don Glover of Lazbuddie, Harold Bob Bennett of Hart, Dave Thompson of Friona, Jim Dowty of Dumas, Pat Robbins of Herefore, Wayne Clark of Dumas, A. W. Anthony of Friona, and Dav-"This approach to bargaining has never been tried in this area before, and its success or failure will probably have a big bearing on the prices offered in future years," Davis said. "We have representation from a number of commodity groups and all interests, and we're not a political group. Although the initial session of negotiations proved somewhat of a disappointment for the new bargaining group, Davis is not giving up hopes for an eventual

According to Davis, no additional bargaining meetings have been set with Frito-Lay at this time.

A STRONG INDUSTRY EFFORT is needed to insure that there is no further government interference in the cattle market.

This point was stressed by Richard McDougal, president of the National Cattlemen's Association, at the annual NCA convention this week in Kansas City. Fighting government interference is one of the major challenges facing cattlemen in the coming year, he said.

A second major challenge, he said, will be to win industry approval of the beef research and information program. He said the program will provide needed funds for economic research and information to bring stability to the cattle in-

"AFTER FOUR YEARS OF BURDENSOME supplies, escalating costs and huge financial losses, it is imperative that the free market be permitted to continue to operate," McDougal said. "The incentive that this can provide is in the best interest of the public as Funds generated through a checkoff program could be the salvation of and hope for the cattle industry, McDougal said.

Information is needed to offset problems caused by social activists in key government positions. He said those activists are trying to restructure society and the food economy through the rule-making process and administrative action.

THE NCA PRESIDENT READ FROM AN OPEN letter to President Carter "It is obvious that there are persons in your administration who lack faith in a free society and in a free economy." He cited interference with land use and livestock production technology as examples. "Criticism of our food economy and society seems to stem in part from a basic anti-growth, anti-establishment, anti-business, anti-modern agriculture view," McDougal said. The free enterprise system has brought about the most productive food systern in the world, he said, but if activists had their way, they would turn the agricultural clock back by 50 years.

7.08 Billion Bushels Of Grain be at a 15-year high of around 1.5 billion

Despite the big supply of corn and other grain, prices at the farm have risen the past year, partly because of heavy demand for exports to other countries, including China and the Soviet Union.

Also, farmers have stored about 1.3 billion bushels of grain - mostly wheat and corn - under a government program to keep it off the market for up to three years in order to help boost prices.

In December, for example, corn at the farm nationally averaged $2.07 a bushel against $1.96 a year earlier, and wheat was $2.99 a bushel, compared to $2.47 a year earlier. Last year's record crop was due to generally good weather in the main corn areas which helped send average yields to a record of 101.2 bushels an acre, compared to 90.7 in 1977 and the previous high of 97 bushel an acre in 1972. Also, the administration's acreage setaside program, while helping cut the 1978 corn acreage about 5 percent, was ignored by many corn producers when they planted their fields last spring. Wheat farmers, on the other hand, participated heavily in the 1978 acreage set-aside pro-

Parents Face Charges Of Imprisoning Daughter

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — For 9year-old Rebecca Holmes, today is a day like any other in her new life: the love

Becky's story began to unfold last April and care of her foster parents, a cheerful room, a day of play.

Her natural parents faced another kind of day: an appearance before a Superior Court judge that could bring a maximum of three years in jail for having imprisoned their little girl at home.

The common-law husband and wife -Alice Hernandez, 32, and Daniel Holmes, 34 - were convicted last month of child endangering.

They never admitted to hiding their daughter, but relatives said they hadn't seen Becky since soon after her birth

The couple also denied telling the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department that the mother, who had given up another child for adoption, resented the girl. Instead, they said, they were doing all 18, when Sgt. Miriam Travis and Deputy John Rondina of the Sheriff's Department responded to a tip like hundreds of others. They found Becky in urine-soaked clothes, asleep on a hard cot in her parents' bedroom.

"She was almost like an animal," Trav-

Her world then was the bedroom and its closet, in which she was kept for untold hours. Now Becky lives in a spacious foster home.

"She's gone from nothing to where she's at - that's a hell of a lot of progress in my book," Becky's foster mother said in the suburban house where she has cared for 55 children in the last 14 years. Since Becky's rescue, she has gained 12 pounds and grown 6 inches. But she is pounds and stood only 32 inches tall last progressed rapidly.

When she was found, Becky couldn't even crawl; now she walks. Then, she knew only a few words - now she speaks in sentences. Once trapped in her own filth, her skin blistered by diaper rash, she now uses the toilet. She wears gay ribbons in her curly red hair to match her

She is, except for the hurt in her eyes, like almost any toddler.

But Rebecca Holmes is no toddler. She is 9 years old, and her pediatrician says she may never catch up.

"The prognosis for her walking fairly normally is good," Dr. Joel Widelitz said. The prognosis for her intellectual development has got to be guarded.

'It would seem to me it's too late to expect her to catch up and be normal intel-

'I don't know about her growth. I don't think she could catch up to normal, but it's very impressive so far. I don't know of any way to predict whether that's going to continue

Widelitz said the most striking thing about Becky was that she once never cried. "It was almost as if she had been taught not to cry or as if she had learned the consequences," he said.

The doctor says Becky may have a mild case of cerebral palsy, but that alone could not have prevented her from walking. She was found with dislocated hips and knees, he said, from abuse, disuse or since birth. But she still could have walked with those handicaps, he said.

What probably does account for her problems, the doctor said, is a potentially fatal condition known as environmental tion and an absence of mothering.

The strongest evidence that I have to make any statement that the there was environmental deprivation is the progress she has made in the last six months, Widelitz said, "All that's changed is her environment.

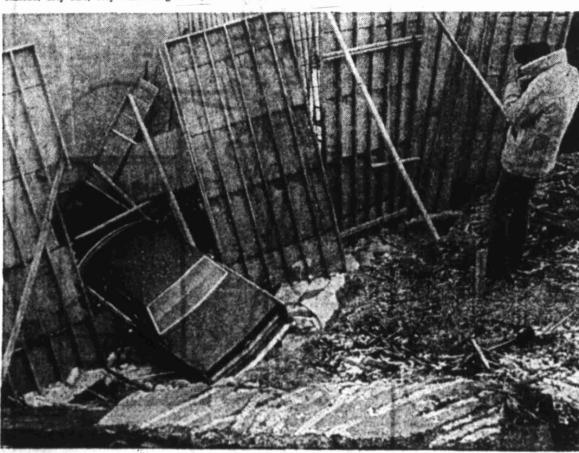

According to the Los Angeles County Department of Public Social Service, Becky's new environment is exceptional for the concern and compassion that is care of her foster family. Their identity is being withheld at the request of the department to protect Becky's privacy."

Becky gets physical therapy every day for her unsteady legs, and wears braces at night to correct the dislocations. But her foster mother says she no longer cries because of them. Nor does she wake up screaming at night any more, staring fixedly at the closet near her bed.

Groups Plan Demonstrations Against China Premier Teng

WASHINGTON (AP) - Groups ranging from anti-communists to radical Maoists plan a barrage of protests when Chinese leader Teng Hsiao-ping arrives this weekend.

Secret Service and State Department Thursday to discuss the security precautions, which are known to be heavy for the first visit ever by a leader of China's 30-year-old communist government.

"It's going to be quite tight and secure," said State Department spokesman Warren Magruder. Chinese security officials have been in this country to help plan security, but U.S. officials would

Marriage Costs Paid With Rats

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) - Local authorities in central Java have decided the price for love and hate will be 10 and 23 rats, respectively.

In a recent decision, the authorities of Boyolai decided not to marry or divorce any couples unless the partners could hand over 10 rats if they wanted to wed and 23 rats if they were filing for divorce. It's all part of a campaign to eradicate

Teng, the 74-year-old deputy premier who has led China's shift toward greater diplomatic and economic cooperation with the West, arrives Sunday to begin a six-day stay that also will take him to Atlanta, Houston and Seattle.

The U.S. Park Service, which controls activities on federal land near the White House, has issued demonstration permits permit requests may yet come in.

A last-minute cancellation of planned demonstrations Sunday and Monday by hundreds of Iranian students took some pressure off police and security agencies. The Iranians are not concerned about Teng's visit, but sought to renew their criticism of President Carter's support of

Those with permits were:

-The Action Committee to Support the Republic of China, a pro-Nationalist group formed shortly after President Carter announced the normalization of relations with Peking. Its members said they are demonstrating "to show our indignation against Teng's visit."

-The Committee for a Fitting Welcome, an offshoot of the Maoist splinter group Revolutionary Communist Party USA, which accused Teng of abandoning the revolutionary beliefs of Mao Tse-tung by embracing closer ties with the West.

-The Republic of China Students Association of Washington, which also has opposed Carter's normalization policy.

-The World United Formosans for Independence, a group made up primarily of former Taiwanese students now living in the United States who oppose both the Taiwan and Peking governments.

-The Central Organization of U.S. Marxists-Leninists, a Boston-based leftist group opposed to Teng's leadership, gering U.S.-China alliance.

Secret Service officials said they do not anticipate any violence, but sources who requested anonymity say authorities have not ruled it out. Security sources conceded an attack Wednesday on the Chinese liaison office in Washington came as a complete surprise.

The Revolutionary Communist Party USA hailed the attack - in which windows were shattered and paint poured over the building's entrance - as a 'warning" of other possible actions during Teng's visit. Party leader Bob Avakian said he would not rule out violent confrontations "to defense ourselves."

The demonstration permits restrict groups to specific areas within several blocks of the White House. Federal law, however, prohibits any demonstration within 500 feet of Blair House, the government guest house for dignitaries where Teng and his party will stay,

CPSC Votes To Approve Regulation WASHINGTON (AP) - An estimated

60,000 injuries per year will be prevented by a government regulation on power lawn mowers due to take effect in 1981, the government says.

The lawn mower industry says the safety features will add $36 to $50 to the price tag for the mowers.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission unanimously approved the regulation Thursday after defeating a move on a 3-2 vote that would have allowed the industry an extra year to develop safety standards that would achieve the same

The regulation still could be withdrawn if the industry devises self-regulation that promises to reach the safety goal, the

If it is not withdrawn, the rule will require that mowers sold after Dec. 31, 1981, have devices shutting off the blades within three seconds after the user lets go of the handle. This is intended to protect someone who walks from behind the mower to clear cut grass from the ma-

A second part of the rule will require that the blades, which revolve at up to 200 miles an hour, be shielded from the operator.

In addition, warning labels pointing out the hazards of mower blades will be required on manually-pushed mowers as well as power mowers. Otherwise, the regulation applies only to power mowers.

The commission staff said the regulation will prevent 60,000 of the 77,000 injuries caused annually by power mowers. About 10,000 of the injuries lead to amputations of fingers or toes, said Susan B. King, commission chairwoman

The commission might later regulate other hazards caused by power mowers such as the threat of objects being thrown by the machines. The commission dealt with blade problems first because this is the leading type of injury

Solomon Firing Could Hurt Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's credibility will be severely shaken if he replaces Jay Solomon as head of the General Services Administration, says Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker.

If Jay Solomon leaves the government under these conditions, he will leave the Carter administration staring at a credibility gap as wide as any we have seen in

Four Students Killed In Bus, Truck Crash

BARRIE, Ontario (AP) - Four highschool students on a skiing trip were killed and 29 were injured, many seriously, when their bus skidded into a tanker truck loaded with flour on a highway 15 miles south of the Mount St. Louis ski resort, authorities said.

The driver of the bus also was seriously injured. He was pinned behind the steering wheel of his crushed cab for 30 minutes before firefighters could free him.

About 40 students from a Toronto high school were aboard the bus, which was sliced in half by the impact. It was one of five buses chartered for the skiing trip.

Farmers Rumble Out Of Atlanta

ATLANTA (UPI) - Hundreds of farmers from the southern wing of the national farm protest were expected to rumble out of Atlanta early today en route to a massive rally in Washington a little more than a week away.

Tractor-riding farmers from Georgia and Florida met with a western cavalcade from Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and Oklahoma for a rally Thursday night before embarking on the final leg of a trip that is expected to result in some 3.000 farmers selling their commodities on the steps of the nation's

Many of the farmers vowed not to leave until 100 percent parity was established for farmers. "We'll arrive in Washington Feb. 2. On Monday, Feb. 5, we will sell our commodities on the steps of the Capitol at parity prices and we'll sell them every day until Congress establishes markets in our communities," said Marvin Meeks of Plainview

Meeks, who added that each tractor was stocked with farm commodities, said although the farmers' protest in Washington would be smaller than one last year, it would have greater impact because rather than on foot.

Fred Ludgram of Elgin said he would stay in Washington until farmers were given 100 percent parity.

"I'm not gonna take no for an answer," Ludgram said. He said that unless something was done for the farmers, "after this year I'm out of business.

"Farmers are the only ones who buy everything at retail prices and sell at wholesale." Lungram said.

A spokesman for the group said the 400strong delegation leaving from Atlanta

The Internal Revenue Service had no official comment Thursday, but a spokesman indicated the IRS didn't think highly of the idea.

Mrs. Pond, a Republican from New Haven in northern Indiana, says it's unfair that married wage-earners are taxed more heavily than unmarried, live-together couples.

My hope is to draw attention to the inequities and the unjust differentiation on the schedule between the married and the single taxpayers," she said.

Under the bill the freshman legislator drew up Thursday, married Hoosiers could legally separate on the last day of the year to avoid the bigger tax bite.

She says a spouse could file for the oneday separation in small claims court on the grounds of financial disadvantage. No attorney would be involved and the total cost would be a $10 filing fee.

Bob Branson, IRS public affairs officer for Indianapolis, said he could not "comment specifically on proposed legislation - federal or state. The IRS has not vet

But Branson said the IRS issued a statement in July 1976 on the issue of divorce for tax avoidance.

The tax law does not contemplate a sham transaction that manipulates yearend marital status for federal income tax purposes," the release said. "Accordingly, the couple will still be considered married for tax purposes.

Sword Sold For $13,000

NEW YORK (UPI) - A 316-year-old Japanese infantry sword with the tested ability to cut through five human bodies in one blow was sold at auction recently for $13,000.

The sword is one of a handful of Japanese weapons with the five-body attestation engraved on its shaft. It was sold to an anonymous dealer. In the days of the Japanese Samurai, military swords were tested on cadavers strung up in a row so warriors could cut through them at waist level.

The sword was one of a collection consigned to the Sotheby Parke Bernet galleries by Bumpei Usui of New York. It was forged by the noted swordmaker Naghisa in 1663. New York dealer Leighton Longhy paid the top price in the sale - $13,500 - for

To Help Cut Couples' Taxes Mrs. Pond, a 47-year-old teacher, said she and her husband had paid the "marriage penalty" imposed by federal tax laws. Under tax schedules, married persons who work pay more taxes than two single persons who live together and make a comparable amount of money.

She said the tax obligation of a husband and wife who earn $15,000 each is $1,013

greater than that of two single people who live together and earn $15,000 each. It would be up to the IRS to prove that a couple had not been separated on the last day of the year, rather than the couple proving they had, Mrs. Pond said. The separation, she said, would allow them to file as single taxpavers, instead of as marrieds.

The separation would expire on Jan. 1. under Mrs. Pond's proposal.

Mrs. Pond said she didn't believe the one-day separation would be construed in the courts as a tax dodge. She said divorce for tax purposes has been upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Her bill is designed to eliminate the permanent and traumatic solution of divorce just to save federal income taxes,

About 2,700 lettuce pickers have struck six of 28 major growers in the Salinas and Imperial valleys of southeastern California. Strike votes have been taken at other farms, Grossman said.

About 95 percent of the U.S. winter iceberg lettuce crop is grown in the Imperial Valley, and a prolonged strike could lead to severe lettuce shortages. About 16,000 members of the union led by Cesar Chavez are seeking a 40 percent raise in a one-year contract. The growers have offered 7 percent per year in wage and benefit increases over three years. The current minimum wage for the workers is $3.70.

The latest farms struck were Joe Maggio Inc., where 450 workers left, and Lu Ette Farms, where 120 walked off. Maggio is the world's largest shipper of bunched carrots, but produces lettuce and broccoli as well.

In addition to the Imperial and Salinas valleys, the strike has affected Maggio and Lu Ette farms in the San Joaquin Valley and around Phoenix and San Luis Security agents made citizens arrests of picketers at Vessey and Co. and Mario Saikhon Inc., turning them over to Imperial County sheriff's deputies.

UIT-TREES

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) - Earth's yons to immense volcanic cones that most intense probe of another planet shows Mars to be a surprisingly diverse world of gigantic volcanoes, great channels and canyons, meteor craters, swirling red dust and polar ice fields.

For nearly 21/2 years now, the planet has been probed and sampled and photographed and analyzed as the billion-dollar Viking mission - which began as two orbiting spacecraft and two landers contimied operations beyond even the most optimistic projections.

'Mars has come into much better focus, but the number of mysteries has also increased," said Bruce Murray, director of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here.

Murray was one of about 500 scientists at last week's Second International Colloquium on Mars whose scientific interest has long been shared by the public in its fascination with the planet.

Virtually everyone agreed with Jarnes R. Arnold of the University of California-San Diego that "Mars is an extremely diverse object and we have consistently underestimated that diversity. I feel certain there are many surprises still in store for

The planet's surface varies from gigantic, permanent ice caps to sprawling dusty plains, from thousand-mile canclimb 15 miles from the surface.

Diversity Marks Mars' Surface

From night to day, the always frigid temperatures vary 100 degrees or more. Temperatures dip to 238 below zero at Mars' north pole in Winter. The polar ice caps grow and shrink with the seasons.

The scientists also agreed that: -The channels and canyons that slice through the martian surface were cut eons ago by mammoth floods. "It has been generally agreed," Murray said, that catastrophic flooding really did happen on Mars in a very large way." Where the water came from and where it went are open to debate.

The ice that gives a permanent white cap to the north pole is almost certainly frozen water, although mostly covered with a layer of frozen carbon dioxide or dry ice - in the winter. The south pole is also covered with ice, but its composition is less certain.

-The very thin martian atmosphere is about 96 percent carbon dioxide and contains less water vapor than Earth's driest deserts. Earth's atmosphere is mostly nitrogen and oxygen.

There is no evidence of life, as we think of life, in the martian soil where the two Viking missions landed. The search for extraterrestrial life was easily the most exciting part of the mission after the landers settled on the planet in

The returns have been studied and restudied, but "it is clear ... that there is no strong evidence for life on Mars at the present time," said J. William Schopf of adds, "I don't think Viking has been able to tell us whether there is life on that planet or whether there is no life ... It is impossible for the life problem to be re-solved ... without bringing rocks back

That sentiment reflects another topic of the conference: What next?

"This is, of course, the Viking wake," said Richard M. Goody of Harvard. "We are burying a very large mission.

Viking, with one of its orbiters and both landers still working, has lasted far beyond its contract lifetime of three months and its 21/2 years of data will keep scientists busy long into the future.

The mission was to be shut down next month, but the Jet Propulsion Laboratory now talks about keeping one lander operating for up to another decade to make once-a-week transmissions of weather data and perhaps some pictures. The second lander and orbiter would not ed to monitor special situations.

JPL chief scientist Arden L. Albee noted, however, "At this time, there is no planned next mission to Mars."

Several scientists said that the cost of even modest visits to other planets is skyrocketing while Congress and the adm istration seem increasingly hesitant to finance such massive projects.

Future missions, Murray said, "will not happen simply because scientists sit down and come up with a mission that sounds good to them and then expect society to implement it.

"Good science must be coupled with other themes" of public importance, he said. National pride was a major impetus for the Apollo program, he said, while the public's imagination was caught by Viking's search for life and technological

"I don't think the U.S. planetary exploration program has closed down," Murray said. "But there is a definite shift away from the moon and an apparent shift away from Mars."

But a panel of scientists nonetheless talked with hope over the options for fur-ther exploring Mars, and Albee estimated the costs.

Least expensive, perhaps $250 million, would be an orbiter that would repeatedly circle the planet. Another $150 million would allow a handful of landers to scatter over the surface. Panel Says Cults May Indicate Spiritual Void

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
NEW YORK (AP) — A panel of scholars says the rise of new religious cults has been common in past anxious periods of American history, and that the presentday rash of such groups seems to indicate a spiritual void in modern culture.

After a two-day conference on the subject this week, the group of about 25 university specials.

versity professors — sociologists, psy-chologists, theologians and others — declined to draw definite conclusions about

But it suggests "there is a deep hunger for some sort of spiritual meaning that is not being satisfied by contemporary so-ciety," said Marvin Bressler, a Princeton University sociologist and chairman of

Slide Series On Israel Scheduled

The Israel Government Tourist Office is sponsoring a telescoped lecture series on the geography, history and archaeology of the land of Israel in Lubbock.

The Lubbock Baptist Association is hosting the seminar in the associational center, 2601 Salem Ave., from 10 a.m. to noon, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9

Vendyl M. Jones, southwestern representative of the Israel Government Tourist Office, is presenting the aerial slide series from the Pictorial Archive of the Near East. He has lived in Israel for several years and was noted in TIME magazine for his unusual services there. He has participated in several archaeological excavations in Israel and recently re-turned from directing an excavation near Qumran on the Dead Sea.

'Israel is a very small country," Jones said. "By car it is only two hours wide and six hours long, but it is 5,730 years deep. Strata upon strata, from to be-drock, Israel holds the oldest and richest historic treasures on earth. The land of Israel is a complex of over a thousand archaeological tels. In these desolate mounds of dirt and rubbish are etched, layer upon layer, the histories of one city or kingdom upon another. There are sometimes as many as 20 civilizations heaped one upon the other. In Israel, as re else, the archaeologist's spade is like a phonograph needle cutting through the grooves of each stra oves of each strata and playing

The Israel Government Tourist Office hopes to achieve three objectives through the seminar, an association spokesman said. First it will prepare those who plan to visit Israel with information that will make their trip more meaningful. For thsoe who have already visited Israel, the seminar will serve as a refresher course. More important, however, for those who may never have the opportunity to go to Israel, the seminar will attempt to bring as much of Israel to them as possible.

Selected aerial slides from 5,000 feet in the air will give the participants an over-all relationship of the land that they cannot envision from the ground. Details of the terrain are bro ght into focus from 3,000 to 1,000 feet in the air over areas of importance. Ancient cities, now for the most part are only archaeological tels, are zoomed in from 500 feet in the air to give careful purso al of excavated city gates, walls, streets and houses.

The archaeological aspects of the lectures will deal primarily with the most recent excavations which have not as yet been published.

The seminar is non-commercial, nonpolitical and non-parochial, an associa-tion spokesman said. All materials, literature, maps and lectures are furnished by the Israel Government Tourist Office at no cost to the participants.

St. John's United Methodist Church will begin a "Lay Academy" Sunday, ting of 11 courses for five Sunday evenings. The courses being offered include Alternatives, The Art of Dying, Great Personalities of the Old Testament, Getting the Most From Your Car. Folk Dancing, Working with Stained Glass, Planning for Family Fun the Year 'Round, Celebrate Yourself, The Holy Land Yesterday and Today, Parenting and China for Children. The courses will be held Feb. 4, 11, 18, and 25.

Members of Christ the King Catholic Church will hold their "January Jamboree" from 5 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Sunday at the church cafeteria-gym. The event will be a family night potluck dinner, featur-ing dishes brought by each family, baby ng provided for children, films for ider children and a sing-a-long.

The "Pilgrim Prophecy Hour" will be aired on radio station KCLR 1530. The program, which originated on the west coast of California, airs at 10:45 a.m. each Wednesday.

Tryouts are being held from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Feb. 3 in Forrest Heights United Methodist Church for the Northwest Texas Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church's Conference Council on Youth Ministries summer musical. The musical, entitled "Celebrate Life," is by Buryl Red. The tour group will include soloists, chorus and a small orches-

He and other participants told a closing news conference that there were several general impressions, including the view that cults indicate an "exhaustion of the doctrine of secular salvation."

Apparently modern society with its affluence, various "liberation" movements and technical conveniences has not produced spiritual fulfillment, the panel said, and people seek new means for it.

plications of the mass suicide of Peoples Temple cultists in Guyana.

Several scholars cautioned against drawing any generalized image of modern cults from the Guyana group, which some characterized as more political than religious.

"The movements ought not to be seen as all cut from the same cloth and lumped together," said Charles Y. Glock, a sociologist of the University of California at Berkeley

He noted that most new cults are youth-oriented and draw recruits mostly from the white middle class, but that the Peoples Temple was heavily black and drew recruits from the working class.

Theologian Harvey Cox of Harvard University Divinity School said the "hungers, needs, fears and heartaches of people are serious problems in society today, and that many "so desperately need friendship, intimacy and community support" that they turn to the new groups.

'They call each other 'brother' and 'sister' and share things," he said. "It also gives them a vision of ultimate meaning in the scheme of things." He added that the historic religious institutions don't seem to be filling that need.

When the churches accommodate themselves to the consumerist, competitive society, people look for an alternative," he said. "I see the new movements as a challenge to the churches to provide clearer alternatives to the standardized cults, said they indicate some disruption in our social arrangement, that it's not going right, and this has created a search for alternative solutions.

He said the historical record indicates cults emerge in times of deep public alienation and dissatisfaction with the social fabric.

The panel discounted claims that special mind-control techniques are used by the cults, and also voiced doubt at the value of any governmental investigations of them.

Many had strong reservations about such action and some felt "it even would be counter-producive," Cox said.

As to whether cults use mind-control methods, he said, "Efforts to control ciety all day long, through advertising, television and other means.

He said he saw no difference between methods "used everywhere else in society and the ones of the new religious movements.

However, Bressler said there were conflicting views on the "extent of coercion" in the cults and whether First Amendment issues were involved and an "element of fraud" warranting some sort of 'truth in advertising regulation."

Glock said cults doubtlessly carry on a process that produces a "reformulation of consciousness" but that it was little different from what happens in a traditional church, which also changes outlooks toward the world.

Newspaper Bible.

Luke 9: 14-24. The Living Bible 14 For there were about 5,000 men there! "Just tell them to sit down on the ground in groups of about fifty each," Jesus replied. 15 So they did. 16 Jesus took the five loaves and two fish and looked up into the sky and gave thanks for the food.

Then He broke off pieces for His disciples to set before the crowd. 17 Everyone ate and ate, and twelve basketfuls of scraps were picked up afterwards! 18 One day while He was alone praying, His disciples were nearby, and He asked them, "Who are the people saying I am?"

19 They told Him some thought He was John the Baptist, and others, Elijah, or one of the other ancient prophets risen from the dead.

20 Then He asked them, "Who do you think I am?" Peter replied, "The Messiah - the Christ of God!"

21 But He gave them strict orders not to speak of this to anyone.

22 "For 1 must suffer much," He said, "and be rejected by the Jewish leaders - the elders, chief priests, and teachers of the Law - and be killed; and three days later I will come back to life again!" 23 Then He said to all, "Anyone who wants to follow Me must put aside his own desires and conveniences and carry his cross with him everyday and keep close to Me! 24 Whoever insists on keeping his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life for My sake will save it.

The little frame church in this snow-blanketed mountain village lifts its tall spire above its rugged environment like a sentinel guarding a sacred trust or a lighthouse on a rockbound Wherever man has pushed his habitations—in the bleak wastes of the polar regions, under the blazing tropical sun, or in the milder climates of the world—he has built his churches dedicated to the worship of God. The fact that no community seems complete without its house of worship bears eloquent testimony to the universal recognition of man's need of religion. The village church plays a vital part in the life of the community. The spiritual standards of the people are fashioned there; marriage vows are spoken at its altar, and the honored dead sleep in its sacred soil. There it stands in every community—the little frame church-pointing the people to God, teaching them the way of life, giving them strength and faith for every need. $200,000. Pool installed test summer.

Rushland Park.
If you have a large family or need an apartment or guest house, you must see this spacious home. Each of the 4 bedrooms has a bath with a sunken tub in this master suits. The full basement would make a fine rumpus room. A garden room and very complete kinchen are two other time features. Owner says "SELL" so call to day:

olon Testifies In Flood Trial

congressman testified at the bribery-perjury trial of Rep. Daniel J. Flood, D-Pa., today that Flood had "an impeccable" reputation for honesty, and that his character "is above reproach."

Rep. Joseph M. McDade, R-Pa., whose district adjoins Flood's in northeastern Pennsylvania, was the first of a number of character witnesses to testify in his behalf, as the defense continued to pick holes in damaging prosecution testimony about payoffs for political favors.

"Congressman Flood is almost a legend colleague, now serving his 16th House "People are constantly talking about the good he has done."

A parade of defense witnesses Thursday sought to give Flood alibis for the times government accusers allege the congressman personally accepted bribes.

"It was a very good day," Flood told reporters Thursday after testimony from 15 witnesses contradicted some of the government's crucial bribery, perjury and conspiracy evidence.

In anticipation of the 75-year-old fense attorney Alex Kleiboemer asked U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch to cancel Monday's trial session so he could have three days to prepare the defend-handed cash payoffs to the congressman. In an unsuccessful plea for immediate acquittal earlier, Flood's other lawyer, Walter Fleisher, charged "there has been wholesale perjury ... outright lying by government witnesses.

The congressman's chief accuser is his former administrative assistant, Stephen Elko, now serving two years in prison for bribery and perjury. Elko testified he delivered thousands of dollars of payoffs to Flood as part of a conspiracy that began in 1970, when he was hired, and ended in mid-1976 when he quit in the midst of a tederal investigation.

Elko told of delivering $5,000 to Flood in his Wilkes-Barre home around April 20-22, 1972, and said the congressman handed $2,000 of it back to him to keep.

Defense witnesses placed Flood in Washington April 20-21, before he flew to Wilkes-Barre for a ball celebrating the 25th anniversary of King's College. On April 22, he was at Bloomsburg State College and then in Philadelphia to accept an award, they said.

In another instance, defense witnesses were asked about the dates of an alleged $5,000 payoff made by William Fred Peters sometime around the end of June or early July 1974 when Peters said he met Flood privately at a flood disaster command post near the Wilkes-Barre airport. John P. Jenkins, tally clerk in the House, said Flood was present and voted in Washington each day from June 27 through June 30 and Jean Lukasiewicz, a volunteer at the disaster center, told of meeting Flood when he flew in from Washington on the afternoon of July 1.

Another crucial government charge was the $2,000 bribe home builder Robert Gennaro of Hazleton, Pa., claims he paid Flood, in the living room of the congressman's home Oct. 31, 1974, between 9:30 p.m. and 10 p.m.

Kevin J. Clark, who said he drove Flood to political rallies in the last weeks of the 1974 election campaign, testified that on Oct. 31 he took Flood to the Wyoming Valley Country Club, outside Wilkes-Barre, to West Hazleton and to Freeland before bringing him home around 11 p.m., went into the house and

Experts Argue For SALT II Agreement WASHINGTON (UPI) - Administration experts, in anticipation of quick agreement on arms limitation, are rolling out their arguments for a SALT II treaty.

David Aaron, the president's deputy assistant for National Security, told a meeting of the Overseas Writers that U.S. land-based missiles would become vulnerable to Soviet attack without a treaty to restrain the Soviet arms buildup.

And Lt. Gen. George Seignious, acting head of the disarmament agency, said a failure to ratify the pact would harm relations with the Soviet Union and "risk our survival.

Aaron's assertion contradicts arguments from critics of a projected SALT treaty, who say the agreement would endanger the U.S. missile force and guarantee the Soviets could wipe out the Ameri-

FTC Wins Legal Battle For Data On Cigarettes

WASHINGTON (AP) - Federal regulation of cigarette advertising could result from a court order telling the cigarette industry to give the government a vast amount of information.

U.S. District Court Judge Barrington Parker on Thursday ordered the six major cigarette companies and 20 advertising agencies to turn over all of their research data since 1964 on what consumers believe about the health consequences of smoking.

The Federal Trade Commission first subpoenaed the data in 1976 and a legal

Plow Driver Put In Jail

CHICAGO (AP) - A man accused of driving a road grader on a rampage over city streets that left one man dead and damaged 34 vehicles is being held in Cook County Jail on $75,000 bond.

Violence Court Judge Maurice Pompey set the bond Thursday after an appearance by Thomas Blair, 46, who was charged Wednesday with reckless homicide, driving under the influence of alcohol, leaving the scene of an accident and negligent driving.

Authorities charged Blair hit parked cars as he drove his plow over South Side streets, then began striking moving autos when he drove onto the Dan Ryan Ex-

Blair was stopped when a truck driver pulled in front of the plow, but he backed up and his grader rolled over a car, killing a man inside, police said.

"I hate my job! I want to see my kids! I hate my job!" witness Lawrence Bartlett quoted Blair as saying.

Blair is a driver for the Interstate Equipment Co. of Dyer, Ind., which was hired to assist in snow removal after the city's second-worst storm on record. Assistant State Attorney Fran Norek said Blair told him that he was "cold, bored and tired" after a frustrating day of work, and had consumed a pint of Norek said Blair could not remember has taken place ever since. The FTC wants to know, for example, if industry information shows that cigarette advertisements appeal to people under 18 years of age. The industry has maintained that advertisements by cigarette companies are designed to hold their share of the market and not to convert new smokers.

The agency also wants to see the industry's market research on the effectiveness of health warnings on packs and in advertisements. The FTC has asked Congress to require sterner health warnings, such as, "Danger! Tests prove cigarettes can kill you."

The present message on packs is. Warning: the surgeon general has determined that cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health.

The subpoenaed materials go back to the year of the first surgeon general's report branding smoking a health hazard.

The companies had contended that the subpoenas were unreasonably broad and said complying would be too burdensome a task. Parker agreed with this only with respect to two trade associations, which will not be required to produce data.

FTC attorney Arthur Adelberg, who argued the case for the commission, said the information could lead to any of three major steps against cigarette smoking: an FTC campaign of false advertising cases against individual companies. industry-wide regulation of the ads or a commission request for legislation on the

"If their (industry) claims are anywhere near true, there are stacks and stacks of documents on the subjects we are interested in," Adelberg said.

Sawyer said he doubted the evidence presented by three acoustics experts who said the statistical odds are 95 percent that a second gunman was involved in the Kennedy murder

The experts' analysis of sounds picked up by a stuck motorcycle radio microphone showed a second gunman fired at Kennedy. That was the basis of the committee's conclusion that Kennedy's assassination in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963, was probably a conspiracy.

Sawyer, however, noted there is evidence the open microphone was blocks away from the Kennedy motorcade when the shots were fired. But speaking in New York, G. Robert Blakey, the committee's chief counsel, said he supports the conspiracy theory. "There were two assassins there, I believe it, based on science, and I think you would too if you saw the evidence I saw," Blakey said. Blakey also said he thought the Warren

Cauthen In Slump

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Jockey Steve Cauthen, who had hoped an agent change would bring a change of luck, failed to bring a home a winner in five attempts at Santa Anita Thursday.

Cauthen, horse racing's biggest winner in 1977 when his mounts earned a record $6 million, now has ridden 85 consecutive races without recording a victo-

He was sixth in his first two outings Thursday, then rode Shayna Madel to a second-place finish in the day's fourth race. He was third aboard House of Windsor in the fifth before recording another sixth place finish in the final race of the program.

Cauthen's winless streak includes two disappointing setbacks aboard Af-firmed, the Triple Crown winner and 1978 Horse of the Year. The 18-year-old jockey has not been aboard a winner since Jan. 1.

The agent shakeup began midway through Sunday's program, a day after Affirmed's second-place finish in the San Fernando Stakes.

Agent Lenny Goodman announced that he and Cauthen were heading back to New York in hopes of breaking out of the slump.

But Tuesday, Cauthen said he had changed his mind and was going to stay in California, rather than ride in the bad weather on the East Coast.

Goodman, denying a split, headed back to New York alone, saying he had arranged for Chic McClellan "to take over Stevie's business." McClellan, who also handles books for veteran rider Fernando Toro, scheduled Cauthen on five highly regarded horses Thursday. By failing to ride a winner, the jockey now has four victories in 125 rides during the Santa Anita meet-Two years ago, he had 63 winners in January and rode 23 last January. His mounts banked $11 million the past two years. Railbirds offer varying theories why Cauthen has lost his magic. Some contend that Goodman does not have the contacts on the West Coast to schedule good horses. Others maintain that Cauthen has lost his nerve since taking a bad spill at Saratoga in August. He hurt a knee in the pileup, but denies the accident has affected him. 'He just needs to ride out the storm," said a track offical. "People forget he's only 18. There are going to be dry spells.

But because he is Steve Cauthen, mediocrity will be considered failure. It's

"We expect Coronado to change its de-fense on us," said Michalka. "We have a height advantage but Coronado has the quickness. And while Mustange coach Barry Arnwine agrees that Coronado is a quicker team, the Mustang mentor shakes his head in a negative direction when the subject of changing his defense is men-We're going to go with what has won 14 games for us this season," said Arnwine. "We are a multiple defense team and we'll adjust to the situation."

Those who'll have the initial responsibility of carrying out Arnwine's ofders include Scott Williams (5-11, Jr.) and Sam Law (6-2, Sr.) at the guards, Russell

Johnson (6-3, Sr.) and Mark Reed (6-1, Sr.) will play the forward positions, with Steve Ahlenius (6-5, Sr.) at the post spot. Does Arnwine feel that Monterey will have a homecourt advantage?

"No," replied the Mustang coach, "The key to the game will be the performance of the teams on the court. We're going to have to eliminate the mental mistal According to Michalka, the Plainsmen might accompany the Mustangs wishes. Monterey might try to put a lot of points in a hurry on the scoreboard.

"We're going to try and run a fast break offense," said Michalka. "Though, we're not as quick as Coronado, I feel we'll be able to be successful by getting rebounds and tossing the outlet pass quickly."

Michalka will be relying on Craig Ehlo (6-4, Sr.) and Frank Malone (5-9, Sr.) at the guard positions, Chuck Perry (6-6. Sr.) and Kevin Kirkman (6-4, Sr.) at the forward spots and Trav Clardy (6-5, Jr.)

Pro Bowl More Like Old Home Week

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The Pro Bowl had become the National Football League schedule's unwanted child, with players looking for excuses to skip the anticlimatic contest that was left like an unfinished chore after the Super Bowl. The players now, though, seem to view next Monday night's all-star game in "The attitude has changed," said Pittsburgh's Mel Blount. "Most of the guys look forward to this game now. It's like a big reunion."

"I know a few years ago, people seemed to want to get out of playing in the Pro Bowl," said Dallas' Roger Staubach. "But it's not that way now. I think everybody looks at it as an enjoyable experience.
"I think this game is fun. It's a chance to see a lot of people, timeto talk with

Many of the players, stars in their own right, seemed more like fans, furiously snapping photographs of their NFL peers.

"I take the camera to all the special things, try to get candid shots to put in a folder I'm keeping for my old age," said the Steelers' "Mean" Joe Greene, traming Staubach in his view-finder. "And what better place than this to take pictures, with all the great players here."

Pittsburgh quarterback Terry Bradshaw will be playing in his first Pro Bowl.

He was previously named to the AFC squad, but missed the game with an inju-

"This is great, being here," he said. "It is an anti-climax of sorts, but I love the atmosphere for this game. It's really laid-back. There are a lot of guys here I've always wanted to meet, but never really had the chance to. I'm looking forward to making some new friends.

"There isn't the electricity of the Super Bowl or a playoff game in the air here," said Chuck Fairbanks, coach of the AFC team. "But I think it's going to

Super Bowl Ranks Behind Last Year

NEW YORK (AP) - Sunday's Super Bowl XIII, matching the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Dallas Cowboys on NBC was the second highest rated Super Bowl in history, according to Nielsen Co. rat-ings released Thursday by the network.

The game had a 47.1 rating — percentage of TV homes tuned in — and a 74 hare - percentage of sets in use tuned to the game. NBC Research estimated that 95 million people watched at least a portion of the game in the United States.

Last year's Dallas-Denver game on CBS was the highest rated Super Bowl in history with a 47.2 rating and 67 share. gusts, Tom Watson played the 522-yard, par 5 first hole on the North Course, the first hole he's played this season, with a driver, another driver and a five-iron, and was short of the green.

He finished with a 74.

Lee Trevino fought his way to a 75, but some of the game's other leading lights had far greater difficulties. Johnny Miller took a 79. Defending champion Jay Haas, a runnerup in the Phoenix Open earlier this week, shot a fat 84. Dave Stockton had an 81. Canadian Open champ Bruce Lietzke took an 82.

"I'm surprised anybody broke par, said McGee, and cited an incident on the par 3 sixth hole to illustrate the fickle nature of the winds.

"I hit a little seven iron, really kind of a punched seven iron. The ball broke twice, once to the left, once to the right, while it was in the air.

"It might as well have been a ping-pong ball. You had no idea, absolutely no idea, what it was going to.do.'

Aaron, however, seemed unaffected by the conditions. He ripped a three-iron second shot to within 12 feet of the flag for an eagle 3 on his ninth hole, went to 5under-par for the day and held it until making bogey on two of his last three holes — the only greens he missed.

Boss Says Horner Not Worth Price

CALHOUN, Ga. (AP) - Atlanta Braves Manager Bobby Cox says third baseman Bob Horner, whose agent has been embroiled in contract negotations with the National League team, is valuable but isn't worth the $1 million he's asking. We need him on our ball club but I don't know if we need him at his price. That's an awful lot of money for a player to ask, a million dollars after only playing half a season." Cox said in an interview with radio station WJTH while visiting

"If he comes to his senses along with his agent — I do think Bobby has had some bad advice from Bucky Woy.

The 21-year-old Horner hit 23 home runs in 89 games last season and was named National League Rookie of the Year. He reportedly has asked for a three-year contract at $300,000 per year.

The Braves reportedly have offered $100,000 for one year, although a contract for $146,000 — the minimum Woy said the Braves are required to offer to keep forner from becoming a free agent - is conditional on a grievance filed when the ontract was tendered.

Comeback Boxer Runs Afoul Law

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight boxer Bobby Halpern and two others say they are innocent of charges that they started a fire that almost destroyed a dozen stores

All three pleaded not guilty to charges of arson and reckless endangerment Thursday when they were arraigned in connection with the Jan. 6 incident.

Halpern's attorney, Lewis Alperin, sought to have his client's $100,000 bail reduced by Justice Louis Cioffi, but Cloffi noted that the parole board had charged Alperin said Halpern had been out on the streets 10 minutes after his midnight curfew, which he said was a minor violation that should not result in revocation of

Police said the men were found around the corner in a car with a gasoline gan wrapped in a plastic bag.

Halpern, 45, was a boxer in his youth but served 17 years in prison on charges of kidnapping, robbery and assault. Upon his release, he staged a comeback, winning all 10 fights before losing his first match in Madison Square Garden.

Nine days later, Halpern was gunned down while trying on clothes in a Bronx store. He was shot 10 times, and police later arrested his former girlfriend, Antonia Maria Melendez, and charged her with hiring hitmen to kill Halpern because he had

Although he still carried eight slugs in his body, Halpern reportedly was intent on yet another comeback before his arrest on the arson charges.

Giants Can Talk To Brandt, Reeves

NEW YORK (UPI) - The New York Giants' search for a new director of operations and a new coach has taken them to a rival NFC Eastern Division team, the NFC champion Dallas Cowboys.

New York has received approval from Dallas President Tex Schramm to talk to Gil Brandt and Dan Reeves for the posts, but they are only two of several candidates being consiered by Giants President Wellington Mara.

Reds' Draftee Goes Back To School

CINCINNATI (AP) - All-American college pitcher Bill Bordley has enrolled at the University of Southern California for a second time rather than sign a professional contract with the Cincinnati Reds.

Bordley said he did not want to go far from his Mission Hills, Calif., home for family reasons. He wants to sign with a California team, he said.

"I don't see anything changing," said the 21-year-old pitcher in a telephone inter-

He said the Reds last week offered him a Class AAA contract with the Indianapolis Indians in the American Association plus an undisclosed bonus.

The 6-foot-3, 200-pound lefthand pitcher compiled a 26-2 record in two years at

USC. He was the winning pitcher in the NCAA championship game against Arizona Bordley wrote the Philadelphia Phillies, Toronto Blue Jays and the Reds asking them not to select him in the secondary phase of the Major League Draft last month. The Reds picked him. He wanted the California Angels, who picked fourth.

Bordley had dropped out of USC and enrolled in a junior college, making himself eligible for the draft in the fall quarter.

Now he is back at USC and said he is hopes a Calforinia team selects him in the "I'm hoping for a different result," he said. "I'm hanging in there."

Bordley said his reasons for wanting to stay close to home involve his family. He said his father recently underwent heart surgery, a brother was seriously injured in an automobile accident and another brother is going into military service. A third brother is still in school.

Sizemore Struggling Through Off-Season

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - You'd think a guy who spent the off season stretching his fingers in a bucket of rice has the motivation any sports team would cov-

"The bucket of rice exercise is a chinese theory," explained Ted Sizemore man. Personnel director Paul Owens has been trying to replace Sizemore since

It all goes back to a triple fracture of the glove hand suffered by Sizemore early last season. He recovered sufficiently to play good defense, but lost offensive strength in the damaged hand.

Sizemore, whose batting average slipped from .281 to .219, insists from his St. Louis home that he has recovered 100 percent.

"The hand is probably stronger than ever because I've done so many thing the it this winter," Sizemore said. "I've got all the mobility back. Even cold eather doesn't affect it. And up until October I still couldn't spread the fingers. smore said he worked constantly with a rubber ball and silly putty as well a rice bit. Stabler Not Helping Self

UPI Sports Editor Here's the way I see the Kenny Stabler

Without knowing whether he is or isn't involved in that amateurishly contrived cocaine comic-opera in Gulf Shores, Ala., I do know he certainly isn't doing himself a whole lot of good with some of the statements he has been making. In one of them, he accused the writer who came to Alabama to interview him,

Analysis

Bob Padecky of the Sacramento Bee, of being out to get him.'

I did some checking in California with those who know Padecky and have worked with him and everyone I talked with told me the same thing, that he's a straight arrow, a good, level-headed newspaperman and not at all the type to go out and intentionally "get" anyone.

That was one Stabler statement which didn't seem to hold much water. He made another which I'm reasonably sure he didn't give a whole lot of thought. "I have no loyalties to the Silver and Black anymore," he said. Specifically, he was talking about the Oakland Raiders, the team he has been with nine years, and if he really means what he's saying, how can he keep taking their money? You don't spit in the hand

Basically, Kenny Stabler is a nice guy, a guy who once had it all and let it get away from him. Maybe he fancied himself so secure, so famous, he didn't have to worry anymore about such a minor detail as taking care of himself. He didn't do too good job of that last season and nobody knows that better than he does. He says he was "in the best shape of my life" when he reported to the Raiders' training camp. Too bad he didn't stay in that same shape the rest of the season,

For reasons probably known only to him, Stabler decided to pull a Thurman Munson following Oakland's third game with sports writers before, but now after the Raiders had won only one of their first three games, he informed the writers that win or lose, he no longer would talk to them after the games. Okay, fine. He kept his word. There were no interviews for the rest of the season.

Now, suddenly, he feels an urgent need to talk, to get out his side of the story, so he's granting interviews again.

Wouldn't it be terrible if nobody cares what Kenny Stabler has to say now? I'm not that sure there are that many who do. What he's apparently trying to say is that many of his problems can be attributed to the team owner, Al Davis, and the sports writers in the Bay Area, who made him and John Madden scapegoats for the Raiders' 9-7 record last season. It's funny, but I do't recall John Madden claiming he was made a scapegoat by either Davis or the press upon leaving the Raiders a few weeks ago.

When Stabler lays the blame on Davis and the sports writers, he should bear in mind they didn't throw the ball, he did. He should also remember that when the Raiders were winning more regularly, it was he who received most of the credit and he readily accepted it. Now that they didn't have that good a season, he should be able to accept the criticism as well.

I remember Stabler doing the same thing when George Blanda was quarterbacking the Raiders. Blanda kept telling him to be patient, that Stabler eventually would get his chance after he retired, and I also remember how Stabler once told me he didn't think Blanda would ever

My own feeling now is that time generally takes care of everything. Stabler isn't that old, only 33, and there's nothing that says he can't come back next season and have a great year with the Raiders. It's entirely up to him. I don't know if he's looking for any advice, but if he is, I'd suggest he talk to sports writers again and resume the same relationship he had with them as he did in the past.

That seemed to pay off, his just plain naturalness. If Kenny Staler thinks back. he spent his best years that way - when he was just plain natural Kenny Stabler.

USOC Wants Partial Ownership

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The U.S. Olympic Committee, which has agreed to assume a portion of the financial liability for the 1984 Summer Olympics here, is seeking a share of the assets the Games may generate in addition to a share of the prof-

John C. Argue, temporary chairman of the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee, disclosed the new USOC move Thursday. He said he and his colleagues intend to hold firm against substantive improvements for the USOC in a deal they were convinced had been reached in detail last month.

Such an agreement could result in the USOC sharing ownership of any stadiums constructed with organizing committee funds. However, this would not include stad-iums constructed with federal funds.

Calderon Assassination Tests Ecuador's Rule

day, Nov. 29, a short, feisty 56-year-old politician named Abdon Calderon parked his pickup truck near the Masonic Lodge in Ecuador's port city of Guayaquil and stepped out.

He turned when he heard someone call him by his professional title, "Economista," and was immediately attacked by

The purpose of the attack may have been only to injure Calderon, a fierce critic of the government. But one of the assailants opened fire with a pistol, gravely wounding him. He died Dec. 9 in a clinic in Miami.

The attack shocked Ecuador, which has escaped the sort of systematic violence common in some other Latin American countries. It ripped the already fragile political fabric and threatened to discredit the three-man military junta that has pledged a return to civilian rule Aug. 10.

Orators at Calderon's funeral charged the killing was carried out by a conspiracy directed from within the military government and said police were dragging their feet on the investigation.

Gen. Bolivar Jarrin, the interior minister in charge of regulating political activities as well as supervising all of Ecuador's police, reacted angrily to the charges. He said the government had no connection with the "cowardly attack" and would not permit "abuse" of free speech by those who said otherwise.

Jarrin was fired by the junta shortly afterward and is now accused of directing the attack on Calderon. An investigating judge has ordered him to stand trial. He has protested his innocence and requested the case be tried by a military court since he is an army officer.

The general's successor in the interior ministry issued a statement Jan. 19 ac-

Volvo Faces Showdown Over Deal

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) - Volvo, Sweden's largest investor-owned firm, is facing a crucial showdown next week with opposing shareholders over a controversial deal with the Norwegian gov-

The 128,000 shareholders, pressured from all sides, are to decide whether to sell a large share of the company as part of a long-term energy deal with Norway. The company needs a two-thirds majority of the shares to carry through its proposal. But roughly one week before a shareholder's meeting, the issue is still undecided with several influential owner groups, who could well doom the project, uncommitted. The Swedish Sl (SARF), representing 20.5 percent of the shares, two weeks ago unexpectedly-recommended its members not to accept the deal. SARF considered the proposal a sellout, and the dissident shareholders said Norway should pay far more for its share in the company.

But SARF, which is far from sure of a total commitment from its members, last Friday joined two other powerful groups in demanding that Volvo table a decision on the deal pending new investigations and talks.

The two investment companies, Collector and Custos, which cover a total of 12.5 percent of the shares, declared they would vote against the plan if the shareholder's meeting fails to vote for a postponement of the decision.

The shareholders also were faced with the prospect of possible state intervention if they vote against the deal. Major trade unions and the opposition Social Democrats have warned that rejection could provoke those who advocate nationalization of the automobile industry and as well as other private sectors of the Swedish economy.

Volvo, in an unprecedented attempt to acquire fresh capital for long-term development, agreed to sell a 40 percent interest in the firm to the Norwegian government for 750 million kronor, about $174

Fewer Babies Born In China

PEKING (UPI) - Eight million fewer babies were born in China last year - the biggest success for the government's birth control program in the past eight

The news came from a family planning conference held Jan 4-18, the New China

News Agency said. The population growth rate dropped below 1 percent in the provinces of Szechuan, Hopei, Kiangsi, Shantung, Chekiang, Hupeh, Shensi and Shansi and the municipalities of Peking, Tientsin and Shanghai, the agency reported.

Shanghai's population of nearly 11 million is the largest on the Asian continent and one of the five largest in the world. No figure was given on China's total population but Western demographic estimates range from 870 million to nearly

The Chinese themselves do not know the exact head count since the last complete census was made in 1953.

Use small appliances such as frypans, deep-fryers, kettles, slow-cookers and toaster ovens instead of the stove to save nipulating the murder case to discredit the junta and prevent the return to civilian government. Presumably, the plotters were politicians who have no chance of winning the presidential runoff election

Calderon, ironically, was a losing presidential candidate in the first round last July, polling only 9 percent of the vote. His moderate party is not a major force in Ecuadorean politics but he was widely respected for his fearless attacks on alleged corruption in the military government.

As in the Watergate case in the United States, the story behind the Calderon killing was uncovered bit by bit, through the efforts of concerned individuals and the glaring light of media coverage.

A tip from a taxi driver passing by at the time of the attack led to the arrest of Guillermo "Plin" Mendez, 25, a runty former amateur flyweight boxer known for his trigger-happy involvement in political violence at Guayaquil University. His nickname means "Bang."

repudiated, Mendez admitted driving a motorcycle carrying Luis "Fat Louie" Garcia, who he said fired the fatal shots. He named several security police agents as accomplices.

Mendez had nearly $2,000 in U.S. greenbacks when arrested and said orders for the attack had come from the interior minister himself.

The junta headed by Adm. Alfredo Poveda vowed to cooperate fully with the investigation and fired Jarrin along with the national police chief.

A former aide to Jarrin, Police Maj. Jaime Hermosa, testified in a televised hearing in Guayaquil Jan. 12 that he had paid 34-year-old lawyer Abel Salazar to set up the attack, acting on direct orders from the minister. Following the incident, Hermosa said he made new payments to Salazar, Mendez and Garcia again on Jarrin's orders.

"Fat Louie" Garcia is still at large, apparently having fled the country. Salazar, under arrest with Mendez and four other suspects, denies any part in the plot.

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market gained more ground today amid hopes that interest rates might be at or near a peak.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 1.74 at 856.38.

Gainers outpaced losers by more than a 2-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. On Thursday the market reached its highest level since last fall as speculation spread that interest rates, after a sharp rise all through

1978, might soon turn downward. These hopes have been inspired by a marked slowdown of late in the growth rate of the money supply. That, in turn, has been interpreted as a signal that the Fed may not seek to tighten credit any further in its anti-inflation campaign.

Today New York's Citibank announced it was holding its prime lending rate unchanged at 113/4 percent for the coming week.

Liggett Group climbed % to 3812. In a long-predicted move, the company announced an agreement to sell its domestic cigarette bus-

Mobil, which proposed a 2-for-1 stock split and increased its dividend, rose 1 1/2 to 71 1/2. The NYSE's composite index ose .23 to 56.85. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value ndex was up .73 at 162.43. Trading was active. Volume on the Big Board reached 16.03 million shares by noontime.

Lee Marvin Denies Love For Woman

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Lee

sion of love was a lie.
The white-haired, craggy-fawho was to continue testifying averted his eyes from his former who sat frozen in her seat as he "Did you love her?" asked Miss Marvin's attorney, Marvin Mitchelson. "No," Marvin said bluntly. But the actor admitted that he had de clared his love to Michelle during the af-Q-"Did Michelle tell you she loved

A-"On Occasion." ((4')

Q-"...And on occasion you told her you loved her?"

Q-"But you didn't mean it?"

A-"No."

Mitchelson brought forth a sheaf of letters Marvin wrote to his lover during the 6 years they lived together, tender missives in which he called her, "my sweetheart " and "my love." "I would suggest that when you wrote these letters, you were in love with Michelle," said the attorney. "Am I wrong?"

"You are wrong," Marvin said. You didn't love her at all?"

No, said Marvin Miss Marvin, suing the actor for $1 mil-lion, claims she deserves the same prop-erty rights a wife would have after a 6year marriage. She legally changed her name to his before the affair ended in 1970. The case has already made legal history with a California Supreme Court ruling that unmarried persons could sue over property rights. Outside the courtroom, Miss Marvin, 46, said she was stunned. "I don't think I ever thought I would hear Lee say he didn't love me." she told reporters. "It's very painful...I can't catch his eye. He's like someone I don't even know

Marvin, the villain or tough guy many a Hollywood film, was called as a hostile witness after his former lover ended her seven days on the witness

She concluded by describing the actor's drunken behavior on a movie location which led her to think he was having a mental breakdown. In court, Marvin was subdued. He wore a dark gray business suit, white shirt and wine striped tie. He sat back in the witness chair and spoke in a low growl. He admitted he is "a drinking man," and said his fights with Michelle often involved his intoxication. Tracing the affair to its inception in 1964, Marvin told of a romance that be-

Judge Issues Injunction kor Woman

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) - A judge issued a temporary injunction today to prevent the fire department from firing Linda Eaton for nursing her baby at the fire-

The ruling by Johnson County District Judge Ansel Chapman was in response to a petition filed by Miss Eaton this week. Miss Eaton had been threatened with dismissal today if she nursed her 31/2-monthold son, lan, at work, but the judge delayed any such action until after a hearing Monday

Shortly after the judge ruled, a woman tried to hit the city manager with a pie as he discussed the situation at a news conferece. The unidentified wornan approached the podium where Neal Berlin was explaining a binding arbitration plan to settle the dispute. Berlin ducked out a side door, but she threw the pie anyway and missed. She was immediately arrested by lowa City police.

Miss Eaton. 26, returned to work today for her 24-hour shift, maintaining she again would nurse her son during her personal time" over the noon hour.

She was suspended Monday and Wednesday because she nursed the baby in defiance of orders from Fire Chief Robert Keating, City officials claim the breast-feeding is in violation of rules prohibiting regular visits from family members and could prevent Miss Eaton from quickly reponding to a fire call.

By VERNON SCOTT ... HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Christopher Lemmon, 24-year-old son of superstar Jack Lemmon, is getting the break of his young show biz life in the new TV college caper series, "Brothers and Sisters." Chris believes he looks like his father but most observers believe differently. He is taller, at 6-foot-2, than his old man and appreciably more rugged in appear-

He shares his dad's self-deprecating hu-mor, voice inflections and physical vitali-ty. Whether he has inherited Lemmonpere's Academy Award-winning talent is something else again.

Unlike many a second generation actor, Chris is not overcome by suspicions of in-adequacy, overwhelmed by guilt for capitalizing on the family reputation nor in-spired to rebellious disassociation from his famous name. Young Chris has a healthy ego of his own and enjoys talking about his father. Papa Jack is an excellent planist. Chris studied classical music at the California Arts Institute and chose acting over becoming a concert pianist. Chris is not sure that talent is inherited, but said, "I would think if a kid respects his parents he's going to emulate them to a certain degree. I have enormous love and respect for Dad.

"I can see some similarities in my reactions and delivery on screen. But I'm not trying to be Jack Lemmon.

His father was responsible for Chris' first Hollywood break. He arranged an interview for his son with the producers of "Airport '77" in which Jack was starring. Chris landed a small role with a dozen

"I got my Screen Actors Guild card with that part," Chris said. "Then I went out and got a TV commercial all on my own. After that I played a hippie in 'Class of '65.' All this time I was studying at Cal his father. Living with his father, he says, was worth years of study at the Actors relationship," he went on. "Being around Dad was like 24 years of acting lessons. He let me ask questions and a He let me ask questions and always gave me the right answers.

"He raised me, I'm his kid. He was and is a fine, fine father. He's the one who ensaid there might be something de there if I worked my buns off.

"So I started working my buns off. Studying plano was part of it. The discip-line at the plano heightens and broadens an actor's timing.
"I played small parts in a couple of movies, trying to get my career to happen. I was the typical struggling young actor, I guess. I was offered the lead in 'Super Train.' But I didn't want a series in which a train was the star and the ac-tors were secondary. Then along came Brothers and Sisters.

They had to cast the show in three days. I read three times before they asked me to do a screen test. The producers, Arthur Silver and Bob Bruner, sent me to NBC for the test and asked me to memorize five pages in a half-hour.

"I had no idea I was reading for Checko, the lead. When they told me to report to work in two days, I assumed I had a bit part. There was no way they were going to give me a lead. I had no credits or any-

"They knew I was Jack Lemmon's son but I don't think that had anything to do with it. You can't succeed in a series on the basis of being somebody's kid.

"Dad couldn't believe I got the lead.
He went nuts. He said, 'I'll to be walking down the street with you and people will be asking who the old guy is with Chris Lemmon.' He'd love to see that happen.

Chris is unworried that his NBC fraternity house series was rushed ito prime time TV to compete with two other campus shows on opposing networks. He is convinced "Brothers and Sisters" is "different and realistic."

His own college experiences at Cal Arts were altogether different from the fun and games at fictitious Larry Krandall

Or it may have been one of the jazz musicians who first set eyes on Griffin, 51, a 5-foot-6 tenor saxophonist who owns 10 of the fastest fingers ever to play the instru-"I have no idea who first called me that," said the Chicago-born jazzman, a one-time sideman in bands with Art Blakey and Thelonius Monk. "Orrin doesn't remember either. Griffin, visiting the United States after living 15 years in Europe, laughed and added, "They've also called me the Fastest Gun in the West, and a lot of other names that were worse.

Jazz fans called him "stranger" - preceded by "Welcome back" - when the diminutive, bespectacled Griffin returned last from from his rebuilt barn in Bergambacht, Holland, for a string of concert and club appearances.

Sorry, Thomas Wolfe. Griffin proved you can go home again. The eight-city tour that included stops in San Francisco, New York, Baltimore, Chicago and Los Angeles, received rave press notices and enthusiastic audiences. A sidelight of the trip is a just-released double album recorded for Fantasy Records, featuring Griffin playing with such first-rate musicians as Cedar Walton, Sam Jones and Tootie Heath.

Griffin, who had recorded very little of his brand of bebop for American labels in recent years, also has two Inner City releases, "Blues for Harvey" and "Live in Tokyo.

It was outside the United States that Griffin, like so many other jazz players before him, found acceptance of his mu-

"I think it's more the way people accept everything in Europe," he said. "They've retained more respect for art than the average American."

Griffin left the U.S. for a combination of reasons. "It was mostly family problems and financial problems," he said. "For me, it was like a dead-end street. And it seemed as though the music was going away from what I liked."

"Our TV campus is a traditional sort of midwest college," he said. "The only thing I can relate to in real life is the fraternity and sorority houses right next to one another.

There were no fraternities at Cal Arts

"There were no fraternities at Cai Arts. We rented old houses as co-ops for the guys and gals. It was a lot more liberal than anything they'll ever show on TV. "Our show isn't like 'Animal House,' a madcap bunch of drunks and maniacs. There's reality to the structure. It's a portrait of modern college kids. COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — Documentary filmmaker Stan Woodward admits his new film "It's Grits!" fails in one area it never resolves the grammatical dilemma of whether "grits is good or grits are What the the 36-year-old South Caroli-

When it comes to grits, Woodward's low-budget film leaves few stones unturned. Nearly every segment of society, from black children to stereotypical redneeks to illustrious New York Times food critic Craig Claiborne, is interviewed on the subject.

known cooking experts, grew up in Sun-flower, Miss., where he said he devel-oped his taste for the white, lumpy corn-based food that is routinely plunked on breakfast plates across the South. But the film, which also explores the history and production of grits, proves conclusively the mushy substance is not just a breakfast food.

"You can eat grits anytime, for breakfast, lunch or dinner," says one "actor." Woodward, who calls his film a "celebration of what I think the best of Southern culture is all about," wasn't content to let the people who know all about grits - those living south of the Mason-Dixon line — do all the talking.

So, he took his camera to the streets of Brooklyn where, among other things, he found a young man who told him:

Factors Could Alter Federal Budget Deficit

By R. GREGORY NOKES
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is over only the first hurdle in his attempt to hold the 1980 budget deficit below $30 billion. The outcome could affect his chances of being re-elected.

An economic slowdown, worsening inflation and congressional changes in the budget all could alter the deficit significantly from the $29 billion Carter pro-- and well before the 1980 budget year even begins next Oct. 1.

"The deficit is the hardest thing of all to control ... in advance," said James L.

Analysis

Blum, a Congressional Budget Office economist. "If it actually turned out to be $29 billion, it would be almost by chance rather than design."

Dale R. McOmber, an assistant director of the Office of Management and Budget, agreed that "it's a clearly safe nption" the budget deficit will turn out differently.

There is no way of knowing for certain whether the deficit will be above or below what Carter has proposed, but Blum says chances seem greater that it will be higher. If that's the case, fiscal conservatives may try to use it against Carter in a re-election campaign.

However, Blum doesn't rule out that it could be lower than the deficit Carter has proposed. A lower deficit could work to the president's advantage.

Actual budget deficits almost never are the same as presidents' initial predic-

In recent years, government agencies have not spent everything they have been authorized to spend, making the actual deficit smaller than deficit estimates. The short-fall in spending for 1979 may be as much as $11 billion, McOmber said.

The experience in fiscal 1979 is a good example of what can happen to a budget deficit. Carter originally proposed a deficit of $60.6 billion. But the administration is now projecting a deficit of only $37.4 billion, and there still are eight months left in the fiscal year.

In addition to the spending short-fall, the projected 1979 deficit has been lowered by the refusal of Congress to enact all the tax reductions Carter first proposed. There were other factors, too. Back in 1974, then-Secretary of the Treasury William E. Simon was saying he thought the budget could be balanced in 1976. But 1976 turned out to be a recession year and the deficit was $66.4 billion,

The big unknown influencing a budget deficit is the performance of the economy. The administration bases its estimates of revenues and spending on certain advance assumptions about how the economy will perform.

The new 1980 budget makes the following predictions for calendar year 1979: overall economic growth of 2.2 percent; an unemployment rate of 6.2 percent and price inflation of 7.4 percent.

However, Blum noted in an interview that the administration forecasts for 1979

Dr. Holman, who is trying to decode the language of clothes, said Monday she surveyed 200 male and female Penn State idents for their reactions to seven pictures of the same female model dressed in different styles.
