Feinstein elected mayor

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Dianne Feinstein, twice denied San Francisco's highest elective office at the polls, is mayor today — elected by fellow supervisors after leading the city through a week of tumult, violence and mourning.

Ms. Feinstein, acting mayor since Moscone's death, was elected 6.2 by members of the Board of Supervisors. She pledged to work for the "emotional reconstruction" of her city and to respond to San Francisco's "many divergent lifestyles."

Though maybe just a juicy "hunk o' beef" to some people, Charlie was a personal project of Carolyn's. "Oh, he never kicked nobody. He was real nice," she said on Nov. 6 — the day of Charlie's disappearance.

He'd walk up to the fence. Maybe that quality made him the prime target of hungry ones. Andy was the standoff-ish one.

Understandably, what perturbed Carolyn's father was the "principle" of the thing. Rustling off the ranch and range is one thing, but the taking of a youth's groomed and prized steer is something else again.

Fugitives may return in cult disguise

NEW YORK (AP) — The FBI is on the alert for four fugitives who fled to Guyana and reportedly may try to return to the United States disguised as survivors of the Peoples Temple murders-suicides.

"We consider that a real possibility," Terry Knowles, an agent from the agency's Queens office, said of the identity switch scheme.

"They might try to take advantage of the event and use it as a vehicle to get back into the country."

An FBI spokesman from the agency's Manhattan office, who asked that his name not be used, said Monday that it appeared the four fugitives were not members of the Jonestown, Guy-ana, commune. "The best information we have now is that they were not members of the Peoples Temple..." he said.

The possibility of the scheme arose as FBI officials interviewed about 80 survivors of the death ritual in the federal investigation of the death of Rep. Leo Ryan and four others in Jonestown.

One member of the Peoples Temple was arrested by Guyanese authorities in connection with Ryan's murder, which immediately preceded the mass suicide led by cult leader Jim Jones on Nov. 18.

Certain laws on abortion questioned

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Laws restricting federally funded abortions violate the constitutional separation of church and state and discriminate against those holding opposing views, abortion rights advocates claimed in federal court.

"There must be a reason why the abortion issue defies traditional political alliances. The reason is none other than the religious nature of the mobilization. The religious goal of the laws become clear," Rhonda Copelon, an attorney for the Center for Constitutional Rights, argued Monday.

Gerald Bodell, a government attorney, countered that those inspired by religious beliefs are exercising the right of free speech on the abortion issue. He said there is a secular purpose to the federal restriction: "potential life."

U.S. District Judge John Dooling Jr. listened to arguments for nearly 10 hours, saying he would rule on the constitutionality of the abortion restriction within a few weeks.

Once before, Dooling ruled unconstitutional the so-called Hyde Amendment restricting federal funds for abortions, but his decision was overturned by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Ms. Copelon told the court the Roman Catholic Church mobilized such political and financial strength that it won Congress' backing for the anti-abortion legislation.

"The evidence in this case shows that the driving force, the central motivation, is religious. A federal subsidy must not prefer or disproportionately hinder one religion and not another," she said.

Richard Caro, an assistant U.S. attorney representing Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph Califano, said the thinking behind the Hyde Amendment "coincides with a religious belief... but can be reached philosophically or politically."

The Hyde Amendment prohibits federal Medicaid payments for abortion unless: the woman's life is endangered, pregnancy resulted from rape or incest, or carrying the fetus to term would result in "severe and long-lasting physical health damage" to the woman.

HEW figures indicate the number of abortions qualifying for federal funds has dropped from about 300,000 annually to fewer than 600 since the Hyde Amendment was enacted.

MMH receives gift from group

The Junior Woman's Association of Midland has presented Midland Memorial Hospital with a $3,428 check for an infant care system.

Making the presentation was Margaret Roan. Accepting for the hospital were Administrator Wayne E. Ulrich and Operating Room supervisor, Kathy York.

"We are grateful to these fine ladies for this contribution, and their contribut ion and their thoughtfulness will benefit newborns for many years to come," Ulrich said.

He added that it is this type of continued support that makes Midland Memorial a community hospital in the truest sense.

The system is specially designed to maintain a baby's body temperature during surgery.

Also called an intensive care bass-inet, the system's monitoring equipment is so sensitive that it responds to variations in skin temperature by producing audible sounds which alerts the nursing staff to changes in the baby's condition.

Mrs. Roan explained that money for this purchase was raised from the association's annual fund raising luncheon and style show.

The women of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity has donated $1,000 to the Meals-On-Wheels program for senior citizens. Accepting the check from Mrs. Wilbur Rocchio, left, outreach chairman for the church, is Elizabeth Glenn, R.D., director-dietitian for the program. Makers offer wide furniture range

By ELAINE Q. BARROW
AP Newsfeatures

Has consumerism gained a stronger voice in home furnishings?

More than ever before, manufacturers seem to be reaching to accommodate a wider spectrum of personal tastes.

At the recent Southern Furniture Market in High Point N.C., the trend could be defined as something for everyone.

Living room and bedroom furniture encompass a choice from 18th Century and Victorian to Traditional and Contemporary.

One exhibitor presented a blending of historical design with the best of today to avoid "faddish" styles and to provide furniture to weather a wide range of taste fluctuations.

Darrell Ferguson, vice president and general manager of Drexel Heritage, says "Classic styling adapted to modern-day needs for smaller scaling and multi-functionality almost assures a timeless quality for home furnishings."

An example is a go-with-any style cocktail table which duplicates the lines of an 18th Century court piece with a beveled glass top and detailed walnut base. Another highlight was an unabashed copy of a Louis XV arm chair.

The firm's upholstery fabrics, however, drew a less rigid distinction between traditional and contemporary patterns. Dramatic contrasts are achieved with creams, corals, grayed greens and gold — with red considered the dominant color.

Emphasis on upholstery fabrics was noted by still another firm. Counting on colors, patterns and textures to set the "mood" in a room, the selection ranges in color from shrimp and celadon green to pewter and electric blue, in florals, stripes and small-patterned French prints. Textures include smooth silks, nubby weaves and leather.

Newest is the suede leather. "Suede leather is a natural for furniture styling, just as it has been for fashion apparel," says Jack Krayer, president of Montgomery. "It is sophisticated and elegant, yet it also can be casual. And it is extremely durable."

But, he added, "The intrinsic shape of an upholstered piece will always be the most important part of a buying decision."

So far it would be only speculative to judge how many buying decisions also will be affected by the increasing number of big name designers — such as Angelo Donghia, John Mascheroni and Ristomatti Rati — moving into the retail market.

At the same time, many manufacturers are relying on the identity of their brand names and adding items to appeal to space economy and other conveniences.

Creating a "total environment" bedroom was the concern of Richard A. Singer, president of Namaco, who says, "People spend at least one-third of their lives in their bedrooms, yet there's been very little personalized decorating."

His company offers sectional pieces featuring multiple configurations for sleeping as well as seating, headboards with a variety of built-ins and a group of ready-to-assemble modular wall-system units.

Nine new "styled for today beds" are presented, he said,

Jewish theater opens with rock

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's lively new Jewish theater has made its debut with an original Yiddish-language rock opera, and is already talking about making foreign tours.

Its opening performance was a "thrilling experience" to the largely Jewish audience in Birobidjan, the country's isolated Jewish region, the Tass news agency said.

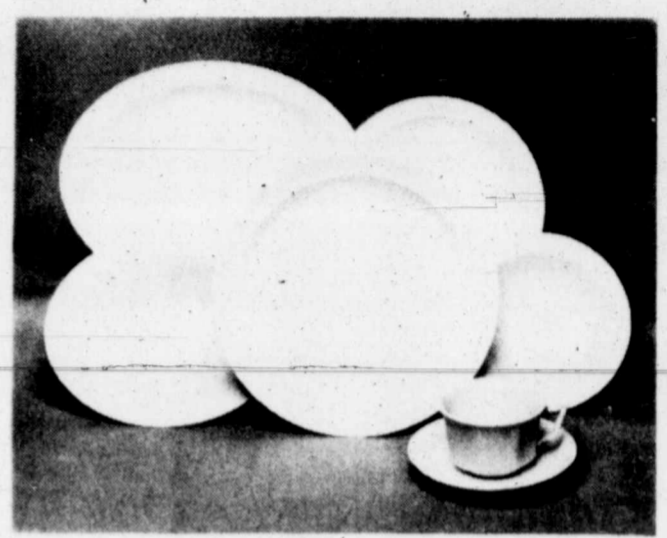

The opera, "A Black Bridle for a White Horse," was written by the troupe's energetic young director, Yuri Sherling, and performed by his company of both Jewish and non-Jewish singers and dancers.

The troupe is the first professional Jewish theater here in 30 years, since the closing of the Moscow State Jewish Theater in 1948 after the death of its director, Solomon Mikhoels.

Cheese, egg good source of protein

By TOM HOGE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

These days there is a constant quest for filling dishes that will pack enough protein without involving the purchase of costly pieces of beef, pork or lamb.

Two relatively economical foods that are high in protein and other nutrients are eggs and cheese. Both are adaptable and both have proven their worth for many centuries. Among other things, they make a fine fondue.

Cheese is believed to be the oldest food created by man, appearing in one form or other wherever he has grazed animals and used their milk. For cheeses, and their number is legion, all have one thing in common: all are made from milk, whether it be from cows, goats, yak or reindeer.

Cheese is regarded as a nearly perfect food, with many of the essential food elements the body requires. The amount of these nutritional elements varies with different kinds of cheese, but it is there — protein, fat, vitamins and so on.

Pliny, the Roman chronicler, tells of the Persian philosopher, Zoroaster, who was said to have lived for 20 years on nothing but cheese.

Cheese was made in biblical times and references to it go back to the Old Testament. The ancient Romans were great cheese makers and introduced it to England and other parts of their empire.

Throughout the Middle Ages, many of the great monasteries became famous for the cheeses made by their monks. And when the Pilgrims set forth on the Mayflower, they took along a quantity of round Dutch cheeses.

Eggs are as much a part of man's history as cheese. From earliest times, the egg has been a basic food, generally from the hen but also from the duck, goose and plover.

Eggs have been part of the folklore of many countries, standing as symbols of fertility.

So it is inevitable these days that people should turn to the fondue made famous by the Italians, French and Swiss. The English made good ones too, like this creation made from cheddar. Americans have given it a gourmet touch with a dollop of rum.

1 pound cheddar cheese, shredded
1 tablespoon flour
1 1/2 ounces Puerto Rican dark rum
7 ounces club soda
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Dash Tabasco
1/4 teaspoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon butter
1 egg yolk, lightly beaten

Policewomen in Florence, Italy will soon be wearing this uniform created by well-known Italian designer Emilio Pucci. It is made up of a double-breasted jacket with silver buttons on which the lily, symbol of the city, is engraved; a skirt, an overcoat, a trenchcoat and a cap, all in navy blue. Footwear will be black leather boots. (AP Laserphoto)

AT WIT'S END

He misses Yule spirit

By ERMA BOMBECK

I saw my first ad for an "After Christmas Sale" last week and realized the pressure is on.

Usually, the first "After Christmas Sale" occurs two weeks before Christmas, but with the big push to get people to shop, the incentives come earlier every year.

For some reason which I cannot explain, my husband will not see the ads touting perfume, lounging clothes, matched luggage, jeweled caftans, music boxes, tinkling the theme from Dr. Zhivago, dinner rings or a slim volume of love poems.

I saw my husband reading ads the other morning at breakfast and said, "I don't know how to tell you this, but I don't want a smoke alarm for Christmas."

"Why in the world would I buy you a smoke alarm?"

"I know how your mind works. Five years ago it was a crock pot, four years ago, a car defroster gun, three years ago, a doormat with my last name, two years ago, an exercise belt that released steam around my waist, and last year a grease shield for my bacon."

"You said you like the unusual."

"Dracula is unusual. I wouldn't want him in my Christmas stocking."

"Then give me hints."

"What about something in fragrance? Fur? Or just something to make me feel more like a woman?"

Whatya want bet I get a new bowl cleanser...a hamster...or tablets for my iron deficiency?

Why do you procrastinate?

By DR. LAURA SCHLESSINGER
Copley News Service

What are you postponing in your life?

Is there something you keep telling yourself you will get to but this just isn't the right time? And the right time just doesn't seem to ever happen?

Perhaps you keep putting off getting medical attention, getting your papers in order, cleaning your house, going back to school, applying for a new job, having children, moving, telling an intimate something about your feelings concerning him or her or the relationship, starting a health and exercise program, taking care of yourself emotionally, psychologically or whatever. What are some of the reasons we procrastinate about things which may seem "unimportant, really" or vitally significant?

One of the explanations for procrastination is fear: fear of failure or rejection. We may worry that this new undertaking puts us in a vulnerable position where we may risk not succeeding and have to deal with feelings of humiliation and pain.

Of course, there is always a possibility of "not succeeding." However, there are many ways of looking at failure and of minimizing the possibilities of such an unhappy result.

First of all, we all too often make the task too big and try to tackle too much at once. For instance, if you have been out of school for a while and want to go back you must take into account all the other time and energy-consuming obligations in your life and not take a full academic load at once. Perhaps start out with just one course until you get into the rhythm of academics and of fitting this new endeavor into an established lifestyle.

This sounds like common sense so what makes it difficult for so many to follow the simple prescription of "a little bit at a time?" Basically it is because we tend to be over-critical and demanding of ourselves — anything short of "everything immediately" is considered lazy, a cop-out or an indication of your negligible intellect or capability.

No wonder it is so difficult for many to start a new task with these cruel, and self-imposed demands!

Before we go on to the other motivations for procrastination let's take one more look at "failure." If you thoroughly enjoyed the experience and the process of this new endeavor but did not surpass all the others have you failed? What is the goal?

Is it beating out all competition or doing your best and getting satisfaction out of growing, stretching, and experiencing? Failure, you see, is a matter of definition and perspective.

We may also be immobilized by guilt, sacrifice and depression.

Unfortunately, we sometimes tend to compartmentalize ourselves and try to demand that our "parts" work independently. If you are feeling physically tired, emotionally drained or anxious over work or personal affairs it is unreasonable to expect yourself to be "up and ready" to attack new challenges. Give yourself a break!

Sometimes we procrastinate in getting something started (or finished) because there are so many other things to do. Well, you do have the power in ordering your priorities and sometimes that might include sacrifices and exclusions of other tasks and responsibilities. You can't do it all!

In trying to do it all you may start resenting others, your responsibilities and decrease your total effectiveness anyway. Be careful that you don't confuse "excuses" with "reasons" — reasons can be taken care of.

Guilt may come into the picture when you are concerned with someone else's reaction to what you have decided to do, or not to do any longer.

DEAR ABBY Son's not mucho macho

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Now I've heard everything. Our lawyer son plans to marry a young woman lawyer. But instead of her taking our son's name, HE is going to change HIS name to HERS. They plan to set up a law office together as "Blank and Blank." (The blank being her maiden name.)

I asked them what name their children would have, and they said they'd deal with that if and when it came up.

My question: What about perpetuating our family name? He is our only son, and if he doesn't pass our name on to his children that will be the end of the line. Do you blame us for feeling hurt and upset?—BURNING IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR BURNING: Appeal his decision to let her wear the shingle in case again. He has the right to change his name, but you have the right to try to change his mind.

DEAR ABBY: I would appreciate a published reply to my problem so that others who share it will benefit.

I recently underwent surgery for the removal of a tumor which proved to be malignant. I have every reason to believe that the surgeon removed every trace of the tumor and that there will be no recurrence. Because most people think every cancer victim is "terminal," I choose not to mention it in connection with my surgery. I don't want to worry my friends and family, nor could I tolerate their constant inquiries about my condition.

My problem is what to tell those well-intentioned friends who ask "Was it malignant?"

I don't want to lie. But if I tell the truth, I know they'll worry even though I try to reassure them.

I feel that I have the right to keep the details of my personal life private.

Bear in mind, these people mean well, so I wouldn't want to hurt them with a snappish or rude reply. But what should I say?—MRS. X.

DEAR MRS. X.: Say, "time will tell." That's the truth.

FLOMATON, Ala. (AP) — At Estel Weaver's store in downtown Flomaton, you can buy shirts and dresses for 25 cents and household goods for almost nothing.

Outside the store, a glass container stands beneath a sign which reads "Stray Dog Water Free."

"They really drink from it, too," Miss Weaver says, "especially on hot days."

Miss Weaver opened the "Odds 'N' Ends" store last spring to raise money for her church, Flomaton United Methodist. It started with a rummage sale and just kept going.

Since it opened, the store has earned more than $2,000.

A man's habitat can be many things

EDITOR'S NOTE—A man's home is his castle. It's also his igloo, silo, cave, church, ship. Americans have dreamed up a number of out-of-the-ordinary ways to live and here are a few examples.

By VICTORIA GRAHAM
AP Newsfeatures Writer

"House - haus singular. Middle English hus, from Old English hus; akin to Old High German and Old Norse hus; Gothic gudhus temple. la: a structure intended or used for human habitation. See bungalow, cottage, mansion, apartment building, boarding-house, dwelling house, lodging house, rooming house, tenement house."

— Webster's Third International Dictionary.

"A house is infinitely communicative, and tells many things beside the figure of its master's income." — Robert William Chapman, The Portrait of a Scholar, 1920.

"For a man's house is his castle." — Sir Edward Coke, Third Institute, 1644.

They say a man's house is his castle, be it tenement or tract home, and around the country, people are living in the oddest houses: igloos, silos, caves - and castles.

Shelter may be a fundamental human need, it's being met in the most un-fundamental ways. Strange habitations, some with strange inhabitants, can be found anywhere that energy and creativity come together to raise a roof.

Home can be a gun emplacement, schooner, or church, a house made of foam or a house built of trash. With imagination or mortar, there are as many variations on four walls as there are ways to live.

In Tucson, Ariz., Barbara Brady said to her husband William, "I'd like something different. How about a castle?"

That was 16 years ago, and Brady, a design engineer, drew up plans for a turreted brick castle in the hilly, cactus-studded desert.

"This wasn't built to show off," he says. "It was built to have fun in." And the Bradys have had plenty of fun with their moat, drawbridge, throne room and parapets.

On Sullivan's Island, S.C., the William Willaers live in a gun emplacement at Fort Marshall, a World War II artillery post.

"It can stand a shake or two," says Willauer. "Tornadoes and hurricanes — they just pass us by."

In 1953, Willauer suffered a heart attack and thought he had only six months to live. So he shut his paper box manufacturing business and moved to the gun emplacement.

Jogging suits now church attire

MIAMI (AP) — Forty parishioners of St. Thomas Episcopal Church did not put on their Sunday best when they went to church this past weekend. Instead, they wore their favorite jogging suits.

The 40 joined in the church's first "jogger's mass," a 1½-2¼ mile run after services. There was a beginner's course of 1½ miles, an intermediate course of 1¾ miles and an "ambitious path" of 2¼ miles.

"It's not just peoples' souls that need saving, but their poor flabby bodies, too," said the Rev. David Moores, 21, pastor of the church.

Although most of the participants wore their exercise clothes to the service, Moores wore his robes. Then, he dashed to his office to change into a running shirt, matching shorts and sneakers.

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Tired of asking people what kind of Christmas gift you can buy for your Aunt Mary or grandma? Shoppers at the Mall of New Hampshire can now ask a computer.

Representatives of the mall and a computer company have installed computers to help shoppers find gifts for hard-to-shop-for people.

Beginning Monday, shoppers will be able to feed basic information about the would-be recipient into the computer.

Exxon gas supply okay

Randall Meyer, president of Exxon Co., U.S.A. said here Monday afternoon that his company does not expect a shortage of gasoline or a shortage of heating oils this winter. "There has been an unexpected demand for gasoline by motorists, but we feel that we have enough gasoline stock to meet demand and will not have to ration to our marketers," Meyer said.

Exxon is prepared for the winter, but the heating oil situation could get tight with us if we experience a very cold winter, Meyer said. Meyer and other Exxon officials were guests of the Midland Wildcat Committee at a reception in the Midland Hilton.

Representing Exxon's Midland Mid-Continent Division office, which handles production and exploration in about one-half the United States for Exxon, were L. H. Byrd, production manager, and Carl Tucker, exploration manager.

'Congressman' attends session in state of limbo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seventy-seven new members of the House of Representatives are in Washington these days, measuring themselves for the reins of power.

Seventy-seven and Leo Thorsness. Thorsness, a 46-year-old Republican and former prisoner of war in Vietnam, is odd man out.

An apparent winner in South Dakota's 1st Congressional District on election night, he turned apparent loser in the official canvass a few days later.

As a result, Democrat Tom Daschle holds an election certificate from the South Dakota State Canvassing Board. His apparent margin of victory: 14 votes out of more than 129,000 cast.

A recount is underway, however, and a court challenge is almost certain. Because the outcome was in doubt for several days, the GOP leadership invited Thorsness to Washington for the orientation program each party is conducting for its newly elected House members.

Daschle, of course, was invited by the Democrats.

So despite the extreme uncertainty of his political future, Thorsness is sitting alongside GOP congressmen-elect at sessions on subjects such as "Maximizing Your Time and Energy," "Strengthening Your Political Organizations" and "Adjusting To the Demands of a New Job," a workshop conducted by a psychologist.

He remains doggedly determined to see the race with Daschle through to the end.

"One or the other of us is going to end up being seated," Thorsness said Monday. "Whoever it is has an obligation to be as well prepared as possible."

At the same time, he conceded, "It's more difficult to get enthusiastic than if you were a congressman-elect."

Thorsness is used to adversity. A 22-year-Air Force veteran, he spent six years in a POW camp in North Vietnam.

When he was released at the end of the war, he moved to South Dakota and became active in politics.

In 1974, he challenged Sen. George McGovern, who had been a leading Senate critic of the Vietnam War. McGovern won a relatively narrow victory with 52.8 percent of the vote.

The former POW became chairman of the South Dakota Republican Party in 1976, and when Rep. Larry Pressler announced he would vacate his House seat for a run at the Senate this year, Thorsness set out on his second try at winning a seat in Congress.

Thorsness, who describes himself as a "realist," says he understands the odds against his winning the seat are long.

Planning, zoning commission moves to challenge City Hall

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
R-T Staff Writer

The City Council and Planning and Zoning Commission don't always see eye to eye on some issues.

This became apparent during a Planning and Zoning Commission meeting Monday in City Hall Council Chambers over a recommendation on selling a piece of city property.

The disagreement between the two bodies came up over a city initiated proposal on changing zoning from MF-1, multiple family district, to O office district on a tract of land on the south side of Wadley Avenue and west of A Street.

The tract is in the vicinity of the City of Midland swim team facilities, the Opportunity Center and Girl Scout Center.

Mrs. James Purvis said she thought that land was reserved for selling to service or civic organizations as in the past.

But Director of Planning and Community Development Richard Hennessy said the council "decided not to tie its hands in selling this property. There are no restrictions on the use of this property."

Despite what the City Council had wanted it zoned, Mrs. Purvis moved to have the zoning changed to planned office district reserved for service and civic organizations. The Commission agreed on the move and will recommend that zone change to the City Council.

While reviewing a plat for that piece of land, Chairman Robert Truitt Jr. added, "It's apparent the council will go ahead and make it O district and not listen to what we just recommended."

A new housing development concept was reviewed for the commission and will be taken up again at the next December meeting before a decision is made.

To be located north of FM 868 and east of North A Street, the development is proposed by Citizens Savings and Loan Association.

The neighborhood will be built in clusters of houses with a common green area in the center. It will include tennis courts, swimming pool, play area for children and possibly a clubhouse.

Another unusual aspect is there will be no on-street parking. Instead, off-street parking areas will be provided in each cluster.

To keep the architecture in this development similar, 21 floor plans already have been drawn.

Buyers of the homes probably will be people such as geologists and engineers, the commission was told.

When questioned by Commission Member Robert Cochrane if the increasing interest rate would slow down home construction, bank president Ray Moudy said he did not think it would happen in Midland.

A study on Midland projected the Tall City's population by 1985 to hit 92,000, showing the need for more housing, he said.

A request by Gipson and Cole to change the zoning on 3.36 acres at the southwest corner of Andrews Highway and Denton Street passed. But the commission changed it to Office district. The request had been for neighborhood service center.

In other business, the commission approved a travel consultant firm inclusion in the office district and neighborhood service center, and approved preliminary plats of South Park Addition, West End Addition and Northwest Acres.

Former madam critical

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Sally Stanford, who went from madam about town to mayor of Sausalito, was reported in critical condition today after a possible heart attack.

The 76-year-old former madam of a San Francisco brothel was the subject of the recent television movie, "Lady of the House" starring Dyan Cannon.

A spokeswoman for Sutter General Hospital here said Miss Stanford was admitted at 8 a.m. Monday under her real name, Marsha Owens.

The spokeswoman, who asked not to be identified, said Miss Stanford was in "stable but critical" condition and "resting well" in the intensive care unit.

Miss Stanford, who has survived several heart attacks, had gone to the state capitol to attend the swearing-in of the new state senate, said an aide to Sen. Barry Keene, D-Elk, who represents her district.

Store reports theft

A Midland grocery store reported Monday the theft $591 in cash and an assortment of checks and receipts at 12:59 p.m. that day.

Coughran Ketter of the 2200 block of Ward Street told police the Speedway Food Store in the 2900 block of North Big Spring Street was missing two bank sacks of cash and checks plus receipts.

Irish breeze by game Rice Owls

By The Associated Press
For awhile there, in the first half of Rice's game against Notre Dame Monday night, Owl Coach Mike Schuler thought his young players would be able to carry the fight to the nation's No. 3-ranked team.
Then the Fighting Irish scored the final four points of the first half and the first 15 points of the second half. What had been a 46-36 Notre Dame lead was suddenly a 65-36 runaway en route to a 105-61 victory in South Bend, Ind.
In other games involving SWC teams Monday night, Houston demolished St. Mary's 120-60, Baylor out-fought North Texas State 109-102 in overtime and Texas A&M rallied late for an 85-79 conquest of Oral Roberts University.

IN THE only game tonight involving a SWC team, Texas will try to make Oklahoma its fourth victim in five games, in a contest slated for Norman, Okla.

Rice, 1-2, committed 26 turnovers in its loss to Notre Dame and Schuler noted, "Notre Dame is awfully good, very aggressive and talented."

"It was very difficult for a young team like ours to come in here and play the third-ranked team in America. For a minute there in the first half, I thought we could stay close, the way we were shooting."

The Owls were hitting 56 percent from the floor, and Notre Dame's Diggs Phelps commended Rice for "keeping with us and keeping that intensity." He said a couple of Schuler's players "can play with anyone in college basketball."

Elbert Darden scored 18 points and Brian Barnes 12 to pace the Rice attack.

Coach Guy Lewis was exuberant over Houston's victory over St. Mary's, the Cougars' first of the season after two losses.

"We handled their press and they didn't handle ours. We played well. We played the way I've been hoping we'd play," Lewis said.

TEXAS A&M broke away from a 63-63 tie to beat Oral Roberts and raise its record to 4-1. Vernon Smith led the Aggies with 20 points.

ORU Coach Lake Kelly said he was pleased with his team's performance "but that front line (of Rynn) Wright, Smith and Woods is tremendously talented, and they're only going to get better."

Shelby Metcalf, the Aggie mentor, said A&M's rebounding edge and man-for-man defense in the second half made the difference.

Baylor and North Texas State had to go into overtime after the game was tied 100-101 in regulation.

Vinnie Johnson scored 22 of his 28 points in the first half to lead Baylor to a 60-49 halftime edge, before NTSU battled back. In overtime, the teams each scored a basket before the Bears scored the next seven points for the win, evening their record at 2-2.

Jon Manning hit 41 for the Mean Green, including a coliseum record 26 points in the second half, and Waymond Lister added 27 in the losing cause.

"This was a super win for us," Baylor Coach Jim Haller said. "Anytime you beat North Texas at their home court, you've done something. I thought it was a real gutsy performance for the ball club, and it's just a big win overall."

Only Philadelphia left in Rose sweepstakes

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Two trades and a day-long raft of rumors finally culminating in the report that free agent Pete Rose would sign with the Philadelphia Phillies, occupied the opening sessions of baseball's winter meetings Monday.

Where Rose would be playing next season prompted the biggest guessing game of the day. One by one, the teams listed as remaining candidates by the fiery star dropped out of the auction, and by day's end, a source close to the Phillies said Rose would sign with that team Tuesday a four-year contract worth an estimated $3 million.

Rose had rejected another offer by the Phillies only last Thursday.

The Rose hubbub continued all day, as Commissioner Bowie Kuhn tempered a glowing report on the state of the sport with some words of caution and as seven minor leaguers were drafted for $25,000 apiece with Detroit and Toronto making two selections each.

The Tigers also made one of the first trades of the meetings, sending a pair of young left-handed pitchers, Bob Sykes and Jack Murphy, to St. Louis in exchange for outfielder Jerry Morales and pitcher Aurelio Lopez.

In the day's other deal, Minnesota sent disenchanting outfielder Dan Ford to California for infielder Ron Jackson and catcher Danny Goodwin. Ford, who batted .274 for the Twins last season, had been angered by remarks made by Minnesota owner Calvin Griffith at the end of last season and said he could no longer play for the Twins.

Chaps level NMMI, 100-77

BY TED BATTLES
R-T Sports Editor

Tim Shelby hit six out of six from the line at half time to win the free throw shooting contest held at intermission of each Midland College game and then he embarrassed himself by missing all three shots he took from the line in the second half.

That's all he missed, however, hitting six straight from the field in the second half to lead the Chaparrals to a 100-77 Western Junior College Conference victory over New Mexico Military Institute at Chaparral Center Monday night.

The 6-4 freshman from Dallas South Oak Cliff doesn't get close enough to the basket to dunk, so his 24-point spree was on the spectacular side. Not only did the slender 172-pounder hit 12 of 14 from the field for the night, but he chipped in with four rebounds, a couple of steals and a couple of assists.

Shelby broke open the game before anyone got warmed up, sinking four baskets to fuel the Chaps into an early 18-6 lead that was never really challenged. In the first half, Shelby was six-for-six from the field.

NMMI, NOW 7-3 for the season and 1-1 in conference, crept back to trail 30-26 with 5:02 left in the half, but then Cullen Mayfield, who wound up with 20 points and put on a dazzling second-half floor display, fed Kenneth Young for a two pointer and scored himself and the Chaps were off and running to a 41-33 intermission lead. MC quickly increased that when Chucky McGill opened the second half with a basket and then Mayfield soloed home on a steal for a layup as MC led by 90-64 at one point.

COACH JERRY Stone was particularly pleased with the manner in which MC's defense "snuffed" NMMI's 6-8 Louis Lloyd. The big guy scored 35 points, "but he's been averaging 40 points," Stone said.

In the first half, Lloyd scored 12 points, but made a nuisance of himself under the boards, commanding eight rebounds. In the second half, the Chaps managed to screen him away from the boards. It cut down on the rebounds, but Lloyd demonstrated a delicate outside touch, hitting six straight from the field before missing and then adding three more. In all, he was 13 of 19 from the field.

Art Ahren was the Broncos' other big scorer with 23 points on 10 of 13 from the floor as the Institute hit 31 of 63 shots for the game.

MC had six players in double figures with Mayfield's 20 right behind Shelby. Cullen, another South Oak Cliff product, no wonder they were state champs two year ago, was only two of 10 from the field in the first half, but made up for it in the second half with six of 10 and he also wound up with four thefts and four assists.

Young and Luis Alvarado each had 12, McGill scored 14 and Henry White chipped in with another 10. Alvarado had a big second half with four of seven field attempts, four rebounds, a blocked shot and swipe. McGill and Young shared the rebound lead for the Chaps with seven each.

Duke Devils demolish West Texas State

By The Associated Press

Kentucky Coach Joe B. Hall knows his team isn't the greatest, at least not yet.

In fact, that's what he likes about it.

"What is exciting to me as a coach is that there is so much room for improvement," said Hall, after watching his defending national champions demolish West Texas State 121-67 Monday night.

"I enjoyed the game as much as the spectators," he added. "We still showed selfishness at times and we need more poise, but I can't ask for more hustle. We won on guts and determination."

Those qualities are admirable, but they don't necessarily make for a title contender. Kentucky, after losing players like Jack Givens, Rick Robey, Mike Phillips and James Lee from last year's NCAA winner, is ranked only 10th in the latest AP college basketball poll.

Hall doesn't mind. He knows that with a game against Kansas on Saturday and subsequent games against Indiana, Texas A&M and Notre Dame, his club will have ample opportunity to prove itself.

Hall cited rebounding as one area in which Kentucky can improve. "We'll have a week to work for Kansas," he said. "We had better make use of it. I was surprised by the margin tonight, but I think the party's over."

UCLA's Robinson named All-America for 3rd year

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Jerry Robinson, UCLA's brilliant linebacker, was named to The Associated Press All-America college football team today for the third year in a row.

Robinson, the only repeater from last year, was joined on the All-America team by running back Billy Sims, the Heisman Trophy winner, and offensive guard Greg Roberts, the Outland Trophy winner, both from Oklahoma.

Penn State, the nation's No. 1-ranked team, placed three players on the elite squad, including quarterback Chuck Fusina, the Heisman Trophy runner-up.

A YOUNGER-than-usual All-America team includes two sophomores—defensive end Hugh Green of Pittsburgh and defensive back Kenny Easley of UCLA — along with seven juniors and 13 seniors. Penn State led the way with three representatives, while Oklahoma, Southern California, UCLA and North Carolina State had two apiece.

Besides Fusina, Penn State is represented by offensive tackle Keith Dorney and defensive tackle Bruce Clark. Southern Cal's pair is running back Charles White, the school's all-time leading ground-gainer, and offensive guard Pat Howell, while North Carolina State has running back Ted Brown, the leading rusher in Atlantic Coast Conference history, and center Jim Ritcher.

THE REST of the team consists of wide receivers Jerry Butler of Clemson and Emanuel Tolbert of Southern Methodist, tackle Kelvin Clark of Nebraska, defensive end Al Harris of Arizona State, defensive tackle Marty Lyons of Alabama, linebackers John Coker of Oklahoma State, Tom Cousineau of Ohio State and Bob Golie of Notre Dame and defensive backs Johnnie Johnson of Texas and Jeff Nixon of Richmond.

Sims, Bruce Clark, White, Ritcher, Tolbert, Coker and Johnson are juniors.

Sims, only the sixth junior to win the Heisman, was the nation's leading runner with an average of 160.2 yards a game. He rushed for 1,762 yards — setting Oklahoma and Big Eight records — on 231 carries and averaged a whopping 7.6 yards per rush. He also was the nation's leading scorer with 20 touchdowns.

White averaged 146.1 yards a game and led the nation in all-purpose rushing while Brown finished at 122.7 and became the fourth leading rusher in major college history.

FUSINA GUIDED Penn State to an 11-0 regular season by completing 137 of 242 passes for 1,859 yards and 11 touchdowns in the Nittany Lions' balanced attack.

Tolbert and Butler were among the country's leading receivers. Tolbert caught 62 for 1,040 yards and 11 touchdowns, while Butler grabbed 54 for 864 yards as Clemson rolled to the ACC championship and its best record in 30 years. Because of the brilliance of Tolbert and Butler, the first team includes two wide receivers and no tight end.

Create shortness by wise discards

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD
When dummy is short in the "wrong" suit you may be able to pave the way for a ruffing trick by discarding in the dummy, thus creating a shortness in the "right" suit.

was no way for him to know this. His actual lead was quite normal. East took the ace of diamonds and promptly returned a trump. It was a good idea, especially since South liked it too. South drew three rounds of trumps and managed to win five trump tricks, two diamonds, and two side aces. It's not magnificent to win nine tricks at a 10-trick contract. MUST RUFF HEART South can get a tenth trick by ruffing a heart in the dummy. Although dummy starts with more hearts than declarer, South can alter that by cashing his diamonds and discarding two of dummy's hearts. South then cashes the ace of hearts and gives up a heart. The opponent returns a second trump. South wins with the ace and ruffs a heart with dummy's last trump. That ruff is his tenth trick.

DAILY QUESTION Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: S-6; H-QJ98; D-A7643; C-Q8. What do you say? ANSWER: Bid two diamonds. The hand is a trifle too good for a raise to two hearts but not good enough for a jump to three hearts. Bid a side suit and raise hearts later to show this in-between value.

Only four homes remain on Bossier City street

By DAN EVEN BOSSIER CITY, La. (AP) — There once were 10 houses along the 1500 block of La Don Drive in Bossier City, but all but four were reduced to piles of rubble by the tornado which roared through Sunday, killing two, injuring 200 others and causing $100 million damage. "We hope to build again here, but it's in the hands of the insurance company now," Charlie Griffin said Monday. "It cost more to build now that it did 5 1/2 years ago. So who really knows?" Griffin and his 14-year-old son, Wayne, were trying to salvage a few belongings from what once was a four-bedroom house. Only a wall was left standing. There was an overturned sedan on the front lawn, along with a smashed boat and a wrecked station wagon. But Griffin, a registered nurse, said his family was lucky. His four children, home alone when the tornado swept through the neighborhood, escaped with minor cuts. Across the street Ken Currington lost his 8- and 13-year-old daughters when the fury of the storm hurled a compact car into their house, killing the girls. The Swan Lake Subdivision, on the northern edge of this city of 60,000, was the hardest hit residential area. Not far behind Griffin's wrecked house, the National Guard Army which opened a month ago also was destroyed. "It was a nice place," said Wayne Griffin, shaking his head. Two blocks to the west the 114-unit Swan Lake Apartments was evacuated. Authorities said it would have to be rebuilt from the ground up. But none of the 200 residents was seriously injured. "I know my brother-in-law won't be back here," said Jonny Smith of Blanchard, La., as he took pictures of the roofless remains of the

Panel probing rural health care

By BILL KIDD Austin Bureau

AUSTIN—In a recent special report, the House Study group poses the question: "Is there a doctor in the county?" And the legislative research panel goes on to answer that rhetorical question by pointing out that 172 of Texas 254 counties have been designated as "medically underserved" by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Rural health care is being studied by a special committee headed by Sen. Carlos Truan, Corpus Christi, with the goal of finding alternative methods for bringing better health care to rural areas—which generally are the areas with less medical facilities and fewer physicians. Figures in the House Study Group report show 166 rural counties (out of a total 202 defined as rural) are medically underserved—with six urban counties in that category. Fifteen other rural counties are "partially underserved," as are 42 urban counties, while only 21 rural and four urban counties are classified by HEW as having "adequate service." Quality and availability of health care varies widely, the report notes, and testimony before Truan's committee has pointed out that even within urban areas, such as Houston, there are areas which don't have adequate health care facilities. But the House Study Group notes that several studies conducted in Texas have concluded health care in rural Texas is lacking in several respects—with rural health problems differing from those faced by city dwellers, and in some cases, being "more severe." "The vast land area comprising rural Texas makes it difficult for rural citizens to obtain medical services and preventive health care," the report comments. It also points out the Texas Department of Health has listed four groups as having particular health care problems: the urban poor, the rural poor, seasonal workers, and migrant worker—with the latter two groups found in both rural and urban settings. The degree by which counties may be underserved varies—and may reflect a lack of specialties, or dental, psychiatric, vision, podiatric, veterinary or pharmacy care. However, 39 counties were designated by HEW as areas lacking in primary care (including four counties bordering Harris County and two—Collin and Ellis—bordering Dallas County). Several of the 39 also cluster around Bexar County—Bandera, Medina and Atascosa—with a number of West

East and South Texas areas showing groups of counties in that category (such as Floyd, Crosby and Lynn surrounding Lubbock County). Part of the lack of physicians in rural areas, the report notes, has been due to reluctance by physicians to move into those regions—partly because practice there is less lucrative. Texas already is offering some financial incentives in an effort to attract physicians to rural areas—such as a loan program operated by the State Rural Medical Education Board, which allows medical students to "pay off" their loans by practice in rural areas, with five years of rural practice fully paying off a loan. The program was first funded in 1974, and 77 students are receiving loans, but it is too soon to know how effective the program may be. Another plan, approved in the 1977 Legislature, provides State funding to create and maintain family practice residency program in underserved areas—but there has not been time to evaluate that program, either. Another proposal in 1977, by Athens Rep. Fred Head, would have provided that 20 percent of freshman openings in Texas medical schools be reserved for students enrolling in either family practice or primary care programs—which, the report argues, would help rural areas. Truan's committee is looking at other approaches as well, such as increased use of "para-medical" personnel. The committee has heard testimony from persons involved in providing such services—and from those receiving it—but some medical professional groups have urged that the committee move slowly in making any major changes in present laws restricting such services. Representatives of professional groups, such as the Board of Nursing Examiners, Texas Medical Association, Texas Nurses Association and Texas Hospital Association, are working with the Senate Human Resources Committee in an effort to resolve their differences. Another factor in the committee's work is the effect of the Rural Health Clinic Services Act, passed by Congress in January, 1978, which makes Medicaid payments to rural health clinics which comply with certain standards. Such clinics are seen by proponents as a new option in rural health care—but so far, only four such clinics have been approved in Texas by the Department of Health, while one was denied approval because it was not physician-owned. Other Federal programs also aim at providing grants, technical assistance and some planning funds to provide improved health care services in rural areas. Truan's group hopes to come to some recommendations regarding ways to improve rural health care for the 1979 Legislature to consider—although the senator agrees that the panel has had only a few months to look at the complex problem, and isn't likely to find any overall cure. The House Study Group also notes that the cost of health care is adding to the "crisis" aspect of the situation in rural Texas (and urban Texas as well). That problem also will come in for attention from the Legislature. But the main problem of Truan's panel is to assure that there will be a doctor in the county—or at least someone qualified to meet the health care needs of its residents.

Campaign chairman requests 'favor' "The chickens are coming home to roost," crowed Midland County Commissioner Win Brown today. Brown was regional chairman for the successful Bill Clements for governor campaign. Clements will be making his first post-campaign appearance in Midland Wednesday to address the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Pre-Legislative Conference. Brown said he's told Clements he wants a favor in return for his efforts: "I want to sit down in front of him (in the governor's office) one time and prop my feet up on his desk." Otherwise, said the chairman for a 49-county area during the campaign, "I haven't been promised anything. In fact, I don't want anything." Brown did say he might consider serving on some sort of advisory committee, if asked. But "I've got to go back to making a living." The foot-propping, of course, will have to wait until after Clements is inaugurated in January.

Midland gets grant WASHINGTON—Midland will receive $180,189 in federal funds to help finance construction of an expanded baggage area and additional baggage carousel for the Midland Regional Airport, U.S. Rep. George Mahon announced today. The grant is to be matched by the city of Midland. The additional baggage area and carousel were added to the original plans for renovation and expansion of the airport.

HOW I GOT MY CARROTS!

Cultist said guilty of four slayings

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (AP) — Prosecutor Carlton Weathers says Charles Beikman of the Peoples Temple killed Sharon Amos, a woman official of the cult, at her request after holding her three children while she cut their throats.

"He at least assisted by holding the hair of the children as Mrs. Amos cut their throats, then he killed the woman herself," Weathers told a reporter during a recess in a preliminary hearing to determine whether Beikman, 43, will be tried on murder charges. "The doctor will say the cut severed her jugular vein and windpipe and she couldn't have done it herself.

"Stefany Jones, 9, a niece of Mrs. Amos, entered the bathroom while the murders were being carried out and Beikman tried to cut her throat. He managed to inflict a cut but failed to sever any vital vein, and the girl escaped screaming."

Weathers said testimony from residents of the Peoples Temple headquarters in Georgetown indicated that Beikman went into the second-floor bedroom with Mrs. Amos, the cult's 42-year-old public relations director, and her three children, Martin, 8, Christa, 11, and Leanne, 22.

The bodies of the four Amoses were found in a pool of blood on Nov. 18 not long after Jones and more than 900 members of the cult died in a murder-suicide ritual at Jonestown, their religious commune 550 miles northwest of Georgetown.

Of the 86 known survivors, 28 have returned to the United States and 18 are expected to leave Wednesday.

Beikman and another survivor are under arrest, and some others are being held as material witnesses.

Beikman, a 20-year member of the cult, denied that he killed the Amos family. His 21-year-old son, Thomas, has said he saw Mrs. Amos herd her three children into a back bedroom, get a kitchen knife and beckon his father to follow her into the room.

Thomas Beikman said he heard 11-year-old Christa yell, "Oh, Mama," and later other residents of the house went into the back bedroom and came out screaming.

"He insists his father is innocent."

"He looked me in the eye in prison and said, 'I don't care what anybody else said, I want you to know if nobody else knows that I did not cut their throats,' and I believe him," the young man said.

Beikman's lawyer, Rex H. McKay, said the preliminary hearing is expected to last at least a week.

McKay said he will also defend Larry Layton, a Peoples Temple member charged with murdering Rep. Leo Ryan, D-Calif., three U.S. newsmen and a defector from Jonestown at an airstrip near the settlement. Ryan and his companions were attacked after the congressman and the newsmen visited the camp to investigate reports that people were being kept there against their will and were being mistreated. Following the attack on Ryan, Jones ordered the suicide ritual.

A preliminary hearing for Layton is scheduled for Jan. 15 at Matthews Ridge, a jungle town not far from Jonestown, McKay said.

Congress mourns death of respected member

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. William Steiger, R-Wis., dead of an apparent heart attack at age 40, is being mourned by Republicans who say he was on his way to party leadership and by Democrats who say he was incapable of a mean word or a cheap shot.

"I've known him for 20 years," said Rep. David Obey, D-Wis. "We debated each other at the University of Wisconsin as far back as 1958. I never saw him do a destructive thing, I never saw him take a cheap shot."

Steiger died in his sleep early Monday at his home on Capitol Hill. He had been a diabetic for many years but had no known history of heart disease. He is survived by his wife, the former Janet Dempsey, and their nine-year-old son, William Raymond Steiger.

Described as a trusted link between Republicans and Democrats in the House, Steiger, an able speaker and a master of the House rules, had become an increasingly effective advocate for business enterprise in recent years. There was speculation he would one day be seek a post in the GOP leadership.

This year, defying all predictions including his own, he succeeded in writing into law a sharp reduction of the capital gains tax that nearly matched his goal.

Steiger a native of Oshkosh, Wis., came to politics early and was elected to the Wisconsin state assembly in 1960, the year he was graduated from the university.

Six years later, at 28, he won election to the House, becoming its youngest member. His appearance was so boyish and youthful that House doormen and Capitol policemen frequently mistook him for a page.

He was re-elected with decisive margins from his traditionally Republican district every two years. He won a reputation for providing strong constituent service and was considered virtually unbeatable.

During his House career Steiger had been active in education legislation, helped lead the fight to abolish the draft and establish an all-volunteer army, and had played an increasingly active role in the House Ways and Means Committee.

His tax-writing efforts ended in his battle for passage of the Steiger amendment to cut capital gains. The effort saw the tax — the levy assessed on profits from investments such as homes and stocks held for a year or more — reduced from 49.1 percent to 28 percent.

Rep. John J. Rhodes, R-Ariz., the House minority leader, said Steiger "represented all that is good in our public officials." Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill, the speaker of the House, called him "one of the brightest minds and one of the most personable members of the House."

TAT reviews its history

The story of the Texas Association of Tappayers, Inc. (TAT) — past, present and future — was reviewed Monday noon by two of its long-time leaders at a luncheon held in the Midland Hilton.

Randall Meyer of Houston, president of Exxon Co. U.S.A., and Tom Sealy, Midland attorney, were the speakers. Sealy, a founder of the association, presently is serving as its vice president and legislative counsel.

Decker Dawson, Midland area director of TAT, presided at the dinner. He announced that Ray Moudy, president of Citizens Savings & Loan Association, is succeeding him as area director for the coming year.

Sealy, who reviewed the various activities and services of the association, stressed that fact that TAT works only at the state budget level. He said that Texas enjoys an excellent business and industrial climate and that TAT is striving to maintain and even improve it. The association, he said, is opposed to a corporate or personal state income tax.

Meyer, in his remarks, said the association was formed in 1971 by Texas business and professional leaders to help the legislature resolve a financial crisis in state government. He went on to say the success of that particular effort made apparent the need for a permanent citizen action group to resist massive state budget increases and escalating taxes.

The association, he said, is a non-profit organization dedicated to one objective — "fiscal responsibility in state government."

Meyer explained the operation of TAT and said its program "is being heard and listened to."

But in order to continue the program and to enlarge services in line with today's needs, Meyer said that TAT must have more broad-based support, statewide. He said reporting sessions, such as the one held here, are being conducted over the state as a means of encouraging increased membership support for the "only statewide organization working exclusively for the cause of fiscal responsibility in Texas government."

Robert Strauser of Austin, TAT's executive director, also attended the Monday session.

Candle blamed for nine deaths

HOUSTON (AP) — A candle being used to warm a cold house started a fire that killed nine persons, investigators said.

The blaze swept through a small frame house in northwest Houston after the candle — one of several being used for heat — ignited a couch, arson investigator J.L. Scott said Monday.

Investigators initially suspected a makeshift connection using an automobile radiator hose to link a natural gas line with the house was responsible.

But Scott, who conducted a follow-up investigation, said the first detectives on the scene saw the house, found a burned spot behind the stove and "jumped to a conclusion."

It was raining and the temperature hovered around 40 degrees when the fire erupted about 2 a.m. Monday, fire officials said.

"When we arrived at the house, flames were coming out of every window and door," said Fire Chief W.E. Armstrong of Station 19. "Later, we just kept finding bodies everywhere."

Police said all of the dead were related. They were identified as Gloria Boyd, 29; Carolyn Fay Boyd, 28; Carl Boyd, 22; Paula Boyd, 10; Charles Boyd, 9; Daniel Boyd, 7; Shante Boyd, 4; Kimberly Boyd, 3; and Willie Boyd, 2.
