Natural gas taxes

Cowboys in post-season play

Course on human sexuality

Texas officials are trying to find a way to make out-of-state users pay more in natural gas taxes than in-state consumers. In Sunday's Reporter-Telegram, staff writer Linda Hill looks at the possibilities, the potential impact on the Permian Basin and what other states are doing in that regard.

The Dallas Cowboys, recovered from a midseason slump and on the prowl for a second straight Super Bowl trip, square off against the Atlanta Falcons at Texas Stadium Saturday afternoon in an NFC semi-final contest. R-T Sports Editor Ted Battles will be on hand to bring Midlanders the story.

The 28th School of Christian Living will begin Jan. 7 in Midland and will be highlighted by a course on human sexuality to be conducted by Dr. Ruth Barnhouse, the first woman and first layperson to be a Fellow of the College of Preachers. Read about the school in Sunday's Lifestyle Section.

ROUSTIN' ABOUT
with
Ed Todd

If you had your druthers, in what period throughout history would you choose to live?

Prehistoric? Biblical? The Dark Ages? The Renaissance?

The Golden Age? The Industrial Revolution? The Atomic Age? Today?

Jerome "Jerry" Codrington got his wish.

Jim Lunney didn't.

Both are weathermen, at least through today, and both are used to looking into the day and into tomorrow and... forecasting.

Weather-watching is a game most people play.

But looking backward is something altogether different. Most people do that, too.

"If I had to pick out any one time to live, I think I would pick 1900 to this time," said Codrington.

The proliferation of technology and astounding feats of man in the 20th century fascinate Codrington. He is amazed, for example, by the creative mind of Thomas Edison, perhaps the world's greatest inventor, and the determination of the Wright Brothers.

"A lot of things are based on simple things," observed Codrington, "but it (technological innovations) takes a lot of research."

Lunney is crusty and philosophical. Codrington is genteel and philosophical.

Though impressed with the inventive genius of man, Lunney would pick an era when grit thrived and seemed to put genius in the background.

Times were different. So, too, are the two men, who, coincidentally, are retiring from the National Weather Service today after decades of peering into the skies and working over charts and maps, listening to the teletypes and looking into the bleeping radar scope.

"I don't know. I kind of like the 19th century," said Lunney. "Back then, you could wheel and deal. Everything was for the taking, not the asking, but for the taking. We're in the asking period (today) — not doing."

Both men, in their own ways, are romantics.

"You were not time-bound, tied to rules and regulations, like today," said Lunney. Today, there are "more and more regulations and less and less initiative."

After today, Lunney, 59, and Codrington, 69, will be tied to rules and regulations mostly of their own making. They're retiring from professional weather observing and from the knots of bureaucracy.

5 million to get pay increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than five million Americans who work for the federal minimum wage should find a belated Christmas present in their paychecks next week — a 25-cent-an-hour pay increase.

Beginning Jan. 1, the federal minimum wage rises from $2.65 an hour to $2.90. For a 40-hour work-week, that means a pay raise from $106 to $116.

The increase was approved in 1977 by Congress, which amended the Fair Labor Standards Act to raise the wage floor in four annual steps beginning in 1978. Under the law, the minimum is scheduled to go to $3.10 an hour on Jan. 1, 1980 and to $3.35 an hour on Jan. 1, 1981.

However, the Carter administration is thinking about asking Congress to postpone the scheduled 1980 increase on grounds it would be inflationary, a position long advanced by business groups that opposed the increases when they were approved by Congress.

Labor Department officials and organized labor are certain to fight any attempt to delay the scheduled increases, contending that the nation's lowest-paid workers should not be sacrificed in the fight against inflation while wages continue to rise for other workers.

"The minimum wage law protects workers at the low end of the wage scale by enabling them to share in productivity gains and maintain at least a minimum standard of living," Labor Secretary Ray Marshall said recently.

Small businesses with annual gross sales of less than $275,000 do not have to pay the minimum wage. Otherwise, most American workers are covered.

Two other changes in the minimum wage law, affecting restaurant and hotel employees, also go into effect with the New Year.

One requires that workers who also receive tips be paid 55 percent of the minimum wage, up from 50 percent in 1978. They must be paid 60 percent of the minimum wage starting Jan. 1, 1980.

As a result, a waitress who now receives $1.33 an hour plus tips must be paid $1.60 an hour plus tips on Jan. 1, and $1.86 an hour plus tips beginning Jan. 1, 1980.

The other change brings all hotel, motel and restaurant employees under federal overtime provisions, which require that workers receive premium pay for any work they perform beyond 40 hours a week. Premium pay usually is 1½ times regular pay.

Troops route 10,000 in Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Troops fired in the air today to rout 10,000 protesters trying to remove a coffin from Tehran's main cemetery for a demonstration against Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, and death threats were reported made to every oil worker and official in the fields.

The renewed violence postponed efforts to form a civilian government, informed sources said.

Soldiers also broke up demonstrations by 500 protesters staging a sit-in on the tracks near the Tehran railway station, and dispersed gangs of rioters armed with clubs and stones from the bazaar area.

Demonstrations also broke out at a major downtown square, and other protesters set street fires in different parts of Tehran following a night of widespread curfew violations, gunfire and power blackouts.

There were no immediate reports of casualties after the 9 p.m. curfew, but the state radio said the shortage of fuel was threatening bakery operations and that bread might soon become scarce.

The Ministry of Power announced that two electric generating stations near Tehran had been closed and that power blackouts were likely to increase.

The ministry said all power to factories had been shut off and that remaining supplies would be allocated by a priority system with hospitals, mosques and homes at the top of the list.

Oil production was reported at the zero level, and sources said the situation in the fields worsened dramatically after the assassination Saturday of American oil executive Paul Grimm in Ahwaz.

After Grimm's death, every worker and official in the fields received a written death threat if they continued to work, one source said. The report could not be independently confirmed.

Palace sources said former Interior Minister Gholam-Hossein Sadigh told the shah that until the army could quell the violence he was suspending his efforts to form a civilian government to replace the martial law regime.

However, the sources said the shah (Continued on Page 2A)

A number of Midland businesses and governmental and private offices will be closed on Monday, New Year's Day.

Banks and savings and loan associations will observe the traditional holiday, as will city, county, state and federal offices.

As usual, emergency services such as fire-fighting, police and rescue, will be available.

No mail deliveries will be made Monday in the city or rural areas. No mail will be boxed at the three Midland post offices. No window service will be offered. However, the self-service unit in the lobby of the Main Post Office at 100 E. Wall St. will be in service.

Delivery of special delivery letters and packages, express mail and perishables will be provided Monday.

The Midland Reporter-Telegram will publish only one edition, the home, on Monday. The newspaper's classified advertising and editorial departments will be open from 8 to 11 a.m., while all other R-T offices will be closed throughout the day.

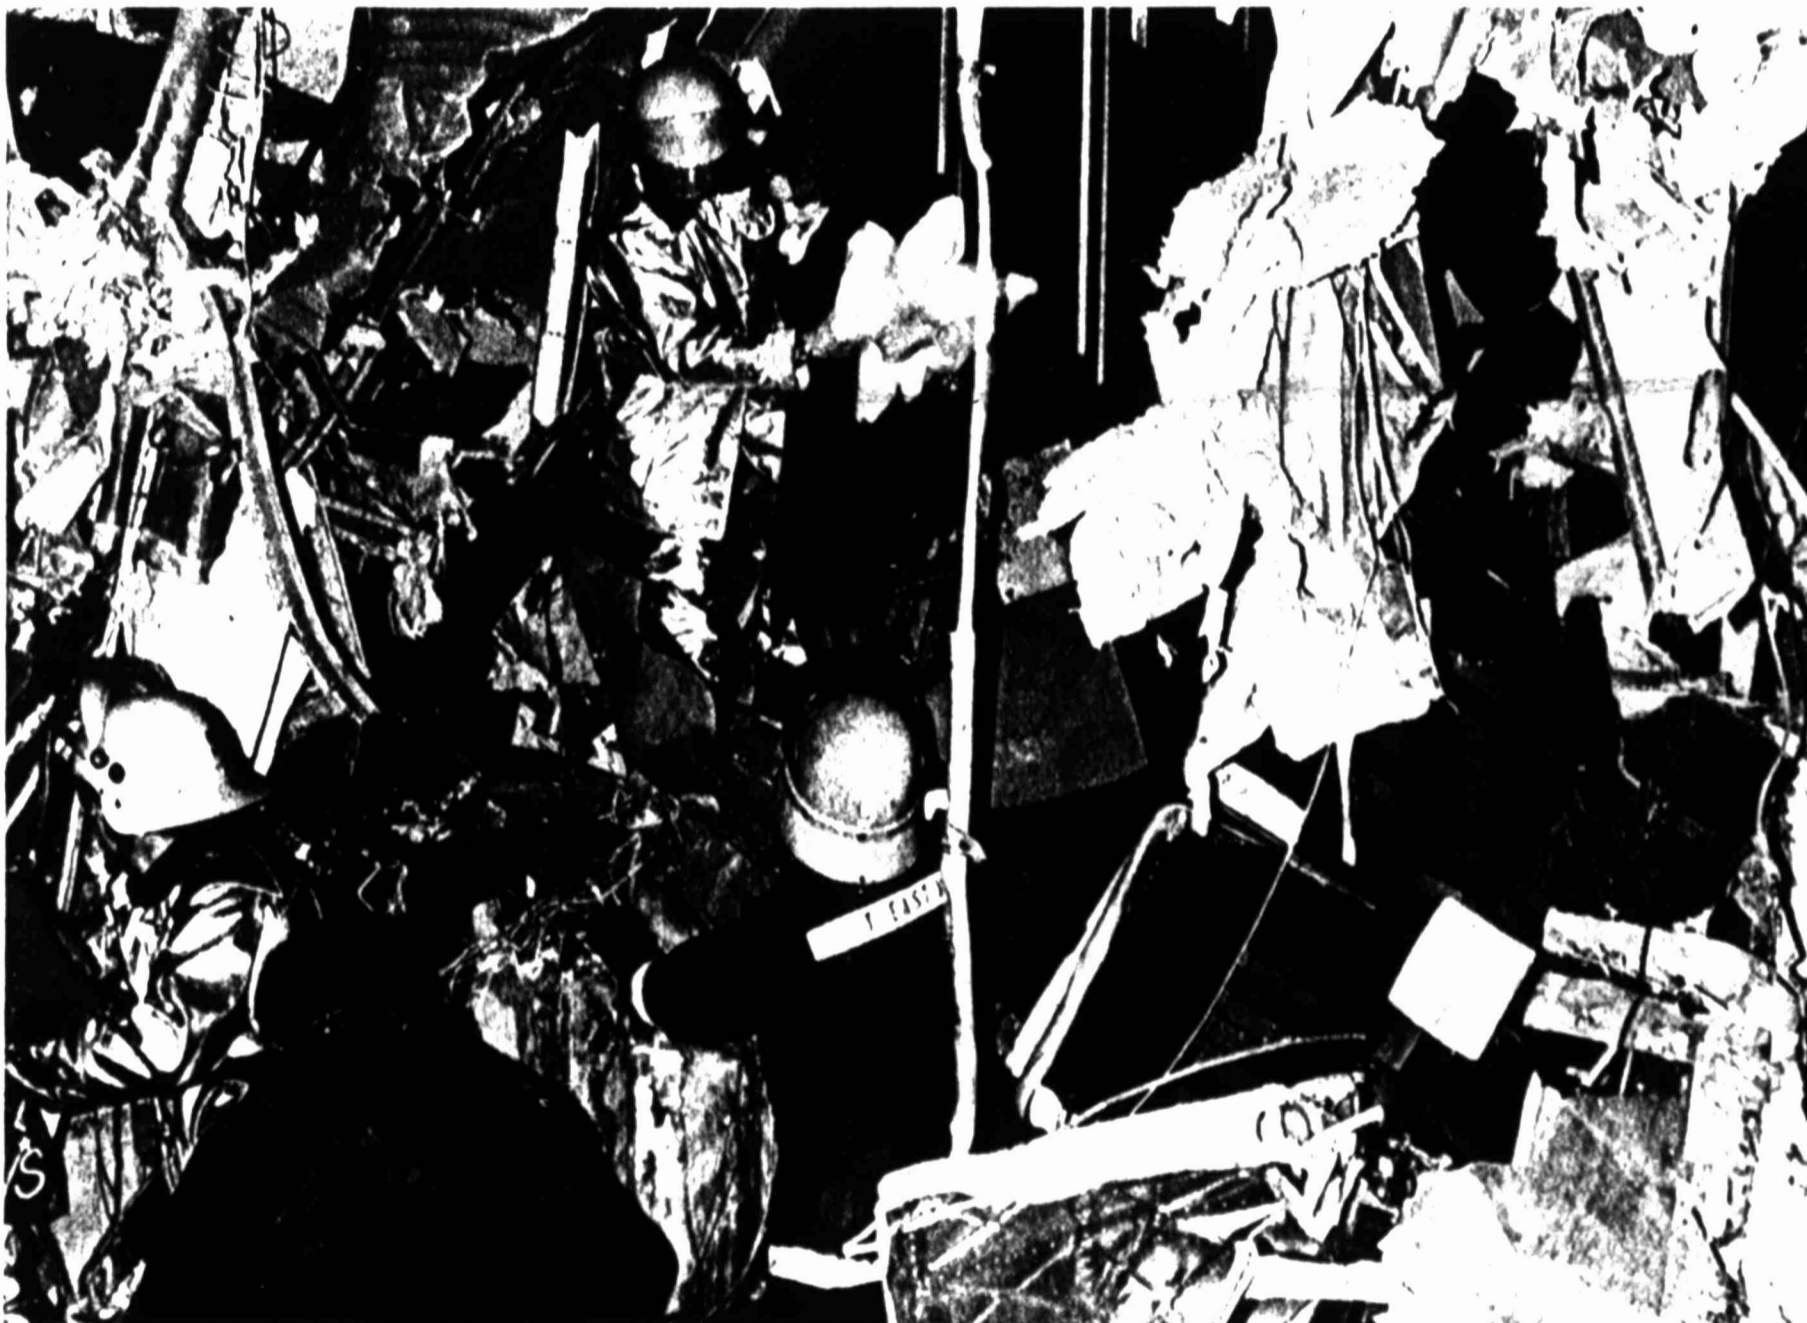

The Permian Basin Petroleum Museum, Library & Hall of Fame will be open New Year's Day from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and will be open from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

"This is the place for 'football refugees,'" quipped Homer T. Fort, executive vice president of the petroleum museum.

The Museum of the Southwest will be open from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday but will be closed Monday.

The Midland County Public Library will be closed Monday.

Midland public schools and Midland College, which have been closed since the Christmas holidays, will re-open Tuesday morning.

Rescue workers help an unidentified stewardess from a United Air Lines DC-8 jetliner after a crash Thursday night near Portland International Airport. At least 10 died in the crash and 175 apparently survived. (AP Laserphoto)

Ten die, 175 survive Portland crash

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Passengers on a United Air Lines DC-8 were warned to "hunker over" and brace for a crash before the jetliner slashed through trees and flattened two unoccupied homes. At least 10 persons died.

Two other bodies may still be trapped in the wreckage of Flight 173 from New York and Denver which carried 177 passengers and a crew of eight, a fire district spokesman said after the Thursday night crash.

United Airlines in Chicago identified a flight attendant from Cleburne, Texas, among the survivors. The condition of Sandra Bass, along with that of many other survivors, was not immediately known, the airline said.

"Mayday mayday. The engines are flaming out. We're going down. We're not going to make the airport," the pilot said in his last transmission to the tower. The conversation was recorded by a ham radio operator.

The airliner bounced and skidded through a vacant lot, into a house and across a busy street, crushing a second house as it came to rest in a clump of fir trees three miles from the Portland International Airport runway.

Forty-five people were taken to hospitals and five were reported in critical condition, the Multnomah County sheriff's office said.

The dead included three children and seven adults, authorities said. A United official said two crew members were among the victims: second officer Forrest Mendenhall, 41, of Parker, Colo., who had been with the airline since 1967, and senior flight attendant Joan Wheeler, 36, of Englewood, Colo., with United since 1964.

"It was a miracle," said Richard Harrison, returning to Portland from Tulsa, Okla. "I didn't know people lived through plane crashes."

Steven Heltzel, a passenger, said those aboard were alerted by the pilot that the plane had a problem with its landing gear. He said flight attendants began instructing them on emergency landings, and the pilot said he hoped to touch down normally.

"Next think I knew, 'boom boom'... I didn't know if we were dead or alive after the crash," Heltzel said. "They really grieved us well, otherwise I wouldn't have known what to do," said Amy Conner, 17, of Holden Village, Wash., who sprained an ankle. "They told us what might happen. They braced us for the worst."

Hill says jury should continue Lozano inquiry

AUSTIN — Outgoing Attorney General John Hill recommended Thursday that a federal grand jury pursue its investigation into the "questionable" circumstances surrounding the death of Larry Ortega Lozano while a prisoner in the Ector County Jail.

A grand jury meeting in Midland recessed in July, after hearing a week of testimony concerning Lozano's death Jan. 22 in the hallway outside his cell in the Ector County Jail.

No action or report has been released from the jury, though a transcript of the hearings has been sent to the U.S. Justice Department in Washington.

Hill's staff conducted an investigation into the death and then recommended the grand jury examine the circumstances. His Thursday recommendation for further investigation was contained in a report on 10 such civil rights cases in Texas in which minority prisoners allegedly were brutalized by law enforcement officials.

Of the 10 cases, Hill recommended continued federal investigation in only two — the Lozano case and the case of Jesus Martinez Gallegos, who died in a Waco jail under disputed circumstances.

Lozano had been jailed Jan. 12 after being charged with allegedly failing to exhibit a driver's license, criminal mischief, driving at an unsafe speed, aggravated assault on police officers

1978 In Review Coming Sunday in the Reporter-Telegram

With 1978 about to become another year to remember, Midlanders doubtless will join others in the nation in looking back with mixed feelings.

The year has been an active one for the Tall City. Construction has set new records, and governmental bodies often wrestled with difficult and pervasive problems.

In Sunday's Reporter-Telegram, staff members will provide readers with a selective review of 1978.

Along with other features, staff writer Linda Hill will discuss the — to put it mildly — active political year in Midland. She also will examine the "Midland County scene."

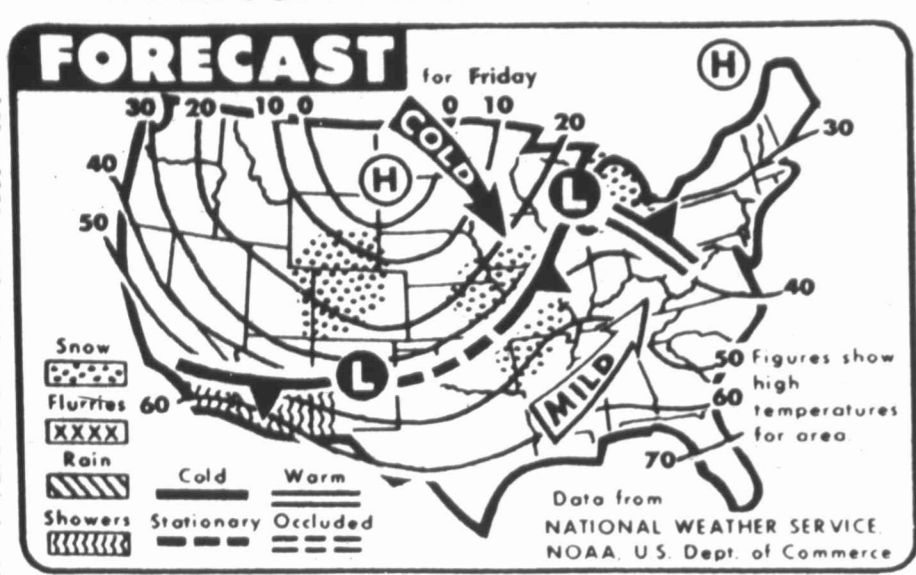

Staff writer Lana Cunningham will take a look at what happened in the city proper.

And staff writer Susan Toth will recall events within the Midland school system.

But when the happenings of a just-ending year are recalled, it frequently turns out to be the visual image that remains with us. So staff photographers Mike Kardos, Brian Hendershot and Bruce Partain will present a pictorial review in West Texas Life.

Look for these features in Sunday's Reporter-Telegram.

WEATHER SUMMARY

The National Weather Service forecast for today predicts snow for parts of Michigan, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Arkansas and eastern Oklahoma. Snow is also predicted for most of Colorado, southern Wyoming, and eastern Utah. Showers are forecast for southern California, Arizona and southeastern New Mexico.

Roustin' About

Lunney, who surmises that most folks behold weathermen as "comical figures," has been dabbling seriously in the weather for 38 years. He launched his career in the early 1940s, when the United States and its allies were trying to topple the Nazi and Nippon regimes.

"I was making weather observations for the field artillery" stateside and in Europe, Lunney said. He'd check out the wind, temperature and air density — factors which affect the effective power of the explosion and the trajectory.

After peace treaties were signed, Lunney reasoned that he ought not waste 4 1/2 years of military weather watching, mustered out of the U.S. Army and joined up with the Weather Bureau in 1946.

"I said, 'Well, I ought to be able to use the weather experience somewhere.'"

He found his niche. So did Codington.

The latter's first practical weather experience was with Pan American Airways in 1937. Codington was copying weather reports from radio transmissions and plotting maps for the international air carrier. Later, he just "oozed" into another job in Pan Am, worked in Pan Am communications network in the Caribbean Sea and elsewhere during the war, and in 1951, he landed a forecasting job with the Weather Bureau.

Both Codington and Lunney seemed

New cold wave on the way here

It may be time again to pull out the electric blankets and plug them in. Freezing temperatures supposedly are on the way.

Colder air is drifting down from the north and should pass through the Midland area later today, the weatherman said. About a 20-degree drop in temperatures is expected with the front.

The National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport projects tonight's low to be in the mid-30s. And the mercury on Saturday is expected to reach only into the low 40s.

Along with those low temperatures is a 20 percent chance for showers tonight and Saturday, the weatherman said. He added this chance for rain should persist through Sunday with New Year's weekend expected to be cold and cloudy.

Winds should be shifting to northerly tonight.

Thursday's high was almost a springlike 67 degrees. But it still was not near the record 80 degrees set in 1964. Overnight low today was 45 degrees, a hot reading compared to the record low of 9 degrees set in 1939.

With only two days remaining in 1978, the city has not received any precipitation this month. Total for the year is 17.09 and should remain at that reading unless rain arrives Saturday or Sunday.

Area towns reported cool temperatures and overcast skies with "a damp feeling in the air" early today. Big Lake was the exception with rain reported about 7:30 a.m.

content with their station in life. "If you have to do it all over," said the practical Codington, "what you would do all depends on where you are."

Codington started out in Nebraska. Had he stayed there, the magic pull of the old "iron horse" locomotive might have led him into a career in railroading. It didn't. He came to Texas, studied electronic communications, skipped out of that and somehow wound up in Brownsville with Pan Am.

Lunney came out of Pennsylvania, got mixed up with the Army, the war and the weather observing, and, on the flip of a coin, found himself in Texas.

Now that their workaday routine is practically over, Lunney and Codington may take more and more time to reflect on the past and think about tomorrow.

At any rate, here are some reflective comments from the weathermen:

—20th Century Technology: "The old washboard was standard equipment for washing clothes when I was small... Really, that (the washing machine) has done more for women (by taking the drudgery out of house work) than anything I've seen. It freed women of tremendous drudgery." — Codington.

—No 'Hurrah' for Unions: "Hell, to me unionism is for the ineffectual... It stifles the hell out of initiative." — Lunney.

—Getting Ahead: Back in the old days, "...the way to get ahead was to do more than you're supposed to." The almost mandatory 40-hour work-week and the standardized production imposed by the unions virtually have eliminated that old-line way of getting ahead. — Lunney.

—Flying No Quirk: "People think the Wright Brothers just made bicycles and suddenly came up with the airplane. Everybody thinks it just 'popped' into their heads, but it didn't." Wilbur and Orville Wright devoted years to research, experimenting and even built a wind tunnel before their successful powered flight over Kitty Hawk, N.C., in 1903. "The Wright Brothers made it practical to fly with engines." — Codington.

—Goodbye Sliderule: "The electronic calculator wiped out the slide-rule industry." — Lunney.

—Technological Progress: "...It's just tremendous" since the turn of the century and particularly so in the areas of "communications, home life, transportation...practically anything." — Codington.

—Old Hoaxes: The lightning rods of the 1800s and early 1900s were "examples of grand opportunism. You'd take them out to the country and sell them. The same thing for rain-makers." — Lunney.

—Tolerance: "I get philosophical, but there are times when I'm not as tolerant as I once was." — Lunney.

—Less Ink on Paper: "Reading is a lost art." — Lunney.

—Stormy weather: "The probabilities of tornadoes (in West Texas) is very good, but the chance of them hitting a populated area is very remote" due to the vastness of the region and the scarcity of people. "Of course, you get something like the Monahans tornado (in 1977) and that shook things up." — Lunney.

—On Retirement: "The thing is that most people have plenty to do if they want to. If you run out of things to do, there are literally thousands of people who need your help. You can always find something to do... plenty to do... as long as you're able... if you want to do it." — Codington.

Weather charts and symbols may be gibberish to most people. But to Midland's chief meteorologist Jim Lunney, left, and forecaster Jerry Codington, a combined total of about 80 years in the weather business has given them a broad knowledge of weather and its characteristics. (Staff Photo)

Odessan maintains calm vigil for husband in Iran

By GUY SULLIVAN R-T Staff Writer

ODESSA — She waits with her family as the daily headlines scream of strikes and rioting in Iran.

The store employee recently received a letter from her husband, who is employed in Iran with an oil company.

She knows there is danger in that strife-torn foreign country.

But she still remains optimistic her husband will return.

"She" is Mrs. S. W. Duke of Odessa, wife of Sam Duke.

Mrs. Duke is among thousands of Americans closely following events in Iran because she and they are awaiting word about their kin.

Not even the recent killing of an American oil company executive fazed Mrs. Duke.

"He knows the way home when it gets too hot over there," she said of her husband.

Sam Duke is employed with a firm, which his wife requested remain anonymous.

He now lives and works in a place called Alubad, Iran, east of Tehran, the battle-scarred city where most of this week's headlines have come from.

As reports originate from within Iran of people shouting slogans against Shah Mohammed Riza Pahlavi and of riots, strikes and bloodshed in the streets, Mrs. Duke maintains a calm vigil back home in the Permian Basin.

"All I know about it is what I read in the newspapers. Foreigners, Americans and others are the people mostly out in the oil camps," she continued. "They've had no newspapers."

Iranian violence rages in streets will not meet opposition demands that he abdicate and has decided to accept a reduced role as constitutional monarch once a civilian administration can be established.

Five persons were killed in Tehran Thursday when troops opened fire to disperse several hundred demonstrators burning cars and buses near the U.S. Embassy, opposition sources said.

They said two more were killed in Ahwaz when troops fired on protesters, and two others died in Shiraz when soldiers shot at rioters who fire-bombed the Iranian-American Cultural Center.

The state radio reported continuing clashes in Isfahan and Tabriz, and said protesters looted food stores in Brojerd and Rezaieh.

Sources in Washington said the Carter administration is considering sending a U.S. Navy carrier task force to the Persian Gulf, and that contingency plans are being drawn for the evacuation of 35,000 Americans in Iran and for the removal of sophisticated U.S. military equipment in the hands of the Iranian military.

They said the idea of the task force would be to underscore President Carter's warning against any "external forces" intervening in Iran. They did not define "external forces," but it was an obvious reference to the Soviet Union.

The sources, who asked to remain anonymous, stressed that no decision has been made, and that no U.S. aircraft carrier is currently stationed in the Indian Ocean area.

Police investigating robbery, assault case

Midland Police are investigating a robbery and assault incident which reportedly occurred about 4 p.m. Thursday in a city grocery store.

Jack C. Reynolds, owner of Reynolds Grocery, 2000 W. Front St., told police two men came into the store while he was behind a counter. Reynolds told police he was knocked to the floor by the men and hit several times.

The men took an undetermined amount of money from the cash register and left the store, according to a spokesman for the police department.

Reynolds was taken to Midland Memorial Hospital, where he was treated for his injuries and released.

Grove resigns museum post

Sam Grove, who is rounding out his fourth year as director of the Museum of the Southwest in Midland, has resigned to become a Houston-based tour guide to the Middle East and to continue his first-hand research into the Sahara Desert.

Grove, 53, the third director in the museum's 12 years of existence, submitted his resignation to the museum's board Dec. 20 but will not leave his duties until Feb. 1.

"We have enjoyed Midland...the museum, and other things," he said. "Midland has some of the most fantastic people in the world."

Grove said he and his wife, Donna, and have savored the "graciousness and the hospitality" of Midlanders. "We have many friends here whom we look upon as members of our family."

He said his wife would continue in library work at Houston. Their son, Bret, 22, an officer on the Midland police force, and his wife will stay in Midland, Grove said.

Grove, who has 33 years in museum work, said he would be giving lectures in Houston museums.

He said the Midland museum's board is setting up a search committee to interview candidates to replace him.

Odessa man has charges pending

ODESSA — An Odessa man arrested last week for sexual abuse of a child has had three additional charges filed against him.

Charges of rape of a child and two charges of indecency with a child were filed against Paul Edward Neal, 27, late Thursday. He was arrested Dec. 21.

Three of the alleged victims were 9-year-old girls. One was a 7-year-old girl. The alleged incidents occurred in late November and early December, according to officials in the Ector County District Attorney's office.

Bond was set at $25,000 for each charge. Neal was still in the Ector County Jail Thursday in lieu of the $25,000 bond on the first charge.

Lawyer charges John Gacy may find fair trial impossible

CHICAGO (AP) — John Wayne Gacy, charged with one murder but confessing to 32 slayings, is being portrayed as one of the nation's worst mass murderers and may be unable to get a fair trial anywhere, says his lawyer.

Authorities unearthed six more bodies Thursday in the continuing search of Gacy's home — bringing the number of skeletal remains found at the modest home in northwest suburban Chicago to 21.

Another body was dragged from the Des Plaines River.

"I don't see how in the world they are going to find a fair or impartial forum in this city or this country for that matter. It's gone beyond Spack and Henley in Texas," said Sam Amrante, the lawyer.

"This has been going on for only one week with one charge and already we have more publicity than any of those cases," he said in an interview Thursday.

Gacy, a 36-year-old convicted sex offender, reportedly told police he had sexual relations with 32 young men, strangled them and buried 27 at his home. He reportedly told investigators he threw the bodies of the others into the Des Plaines River.

Dr. Robert Stein, Cook County medical examiner, in announcing the discovery of more bodies Thursday, said, "We are literally working in a grave down there."

Searchers are following a map provided by Gacy in searching for bodies at his home. So far the diagram has been accurate.

"We have no doubt that we will find 27 bodies buried in places he has shown," said one investigator who asked not to be identified.

Gacy is charged with the death of 15-year-old Robert Piest, a Des Plaines boy who disappeared earlier this month. Piest's body, which Gacy reportedly told police was among those he threw into the river, has not been found.

Grand jury inquiry asked and resisting arrest. An Odessa inquest jury ruled Ector County sheriff's deputies accidentally caused Lozano's death while attempting to subdue him after he created a disturbance in a padded cell in the jail.

Sheriff Elton Faught originally had contended Lozano committed suicide by banging his head against a plexiglass window.

The League of United Latin American Citizens, the American GI Forum and Lozano's widow all requested that Hill investigate the death, and the investigation became something of a campaign issue in Hill's unsuccessful race for the governor's office.

Democratic Ector County District Attorney John Green, who opposed Hill's entry into the Lozano case, campaigned actively for Republican Gov.-elect Bill Clements.

In releasing the civil rights report, Hill also called upon the Texas Legislature to enact a new law making civil rights violations by police officers which result in death of a prisoner subject to a life prison sentence, not just a misdemeanor conviction.

He also said the attorney general should be allowed to testify before local grand juries about his knowledge.

Divorces increase after holidays

Could it be a mass case of post-holiday blues? The number of divorces seems to sharply increase from December to January, according to figures from the Midland County district clerk's office.

For instance, in December of 1977, 52 divorce cases were filed. But in January 1978, the number jumped to 70.

One hundred five divorces were filed in Midland County in January 1977, compared to only 59 in December of 1976.

So far this month, only 48 persons have filed for divorce, compared to 55 in November.

How many people are waiting until after the holidays — this time around — is a question which won't be resolved until January.

Davis facing more questions

HOUSTON (AP) — Vowing innocence and bidding for freedom on bond, millionaire Cullen Davis faced another cross-examination today in his murder-for-hire trial.

The Fort Worth industrialist on Thursday denied any involvement in what prosecutors say was a scheme to kill the judge who had presided over his divorce case.

First baby 'a winner'

Midland's first baby for 1979 and his or her parents will be winners of a contest sponsored by city merchants. The winning baby must be born in Midland Memorial Hospital, and the exact time of birth must be specified by the attending physician.

Prizes for the first baby of the new year include the following: a "Take Me Home" suit from Calico Barn, a $10 gift certificate from Western Auto, a Borden's Elsie Doll and Elsie flower arrangement from Borden Milk, a $50 savings account from Midland National Bank and a case of baby food from Carter's Market No. 3.

Other prizes include a $30 gift certificate from Bee-Bee's Fine Apparel, a novelty flower arrangement from Buddy's Flowers, an 8 x 10 portrait of the baby from Max's Wedding Photography & Studio, two "Big Meals" and a one-month supply of baby bibs from McDonald's, five 5-gal. bottles of Ozarka water from Ozarka Water Co., two boxes of Pampers from "M" System Food Stores, a hanging stuffed toy from Tysons and a $25 gift certificate from Upstairs Downstairs.

Prizes also include a silver-plated engraved baby cup from Williams Jewelry & Gifts, a $15 gift certificate from J.C. Penney Co., a free roll of film and processing from Jerry's Photo and two steak finger dinners from Texas Burger.

Behind the clown mask, something was terribly wrong with Gacy

By MARC WILSON

CHICAGO (AP) — Behind the masks of a clown, of public service, of fatherhood, was evidence of something terribly wrong with John Wayne Gacy Jr. — all ignored until skeletons were found in his home.

He was convicted of sodomy with a 16-year-old boy in 1968. He was accused of attempting to rape a teenage boy in 1971 and of raping a 27-year-old Chicago man last March.

At least three times, parents gave Gacy's name in filing missing persons reports on their teen-age sons. His former mother-in-law said she had complained to Gacy that his house smelled "like dead rats."

But until last Thursday — when the 36-year-old construction company owner reportedly confessed to sexually molesting and murdering some 32 boys and young men — Gacy lived a prosperous, prestige-filled life with ambitions of running for elective office.

"He was very hard-working and popular in his community — always monthly meetings," his lawyer, Sam Amirante said. He would make no other statement on Gacy's behalf now.

ANOTHER MASK OBSCURING the homosexual behavior that sent Gacy to a prison world were two marriages and two children.

"John came across very straight," Gacy's first wife told the Chicago Tribune. He was a "likable salesman who could charm it right out of you." She asked not to be identified by her current name.

She bore two children by Gacy, but divorced him in 1969, a year after he was convicted in Iowa on the sodomy charge.

After he was paroled, he married the former Carole Hoff in 1972.

She said "he started bringing home a lot of pictures of naked men" just before they separated. They divorced in 1976 on grounds that he was seeing other women.

The second Mrs. Gacy's mother, who asked not to be named, had lived in Gacy's home and said it always Gacy, but they said the police did not follow up.

Lt. David Mozee, news affairs director for the Chicago police, said officers follow up every missing person report, but he noted there were 23,000 such reports at the time Butkovich disappeared.

giving (block) parties and dressing up like a clown," said Robert F. Martwick, the Democratic township committeeman who nominated Gacy in 1975 to an appointed job as secretary-treasurer of the Norwood Park Township Lighting Commission.

THE COMMISSION maintains street lights in the unincorporated areas of the township, which is just northwest of Chicago.

Martwick said he urged Gacy for the job "based on his activity in the neighborhood. He said he wanted to make it a better place to live and said that some day he wanted to run for elected office."

Martwick told Gacy that to run for office he should become "well known in the community, to help people out." As part of that campaign, Gacy designed a clown outfit, had himself photographed in it, and entertained at parties and children's hospital wards.

Martwick said he "wouldn't even want to guess" if Gacy hoped to gain political stature to shield the darker side of his life. "But nothing would surprise me now," Martwick said. "But I believe he just had two personalities — one of which I never saw."

"He wrote the checks to pay the bills and kept the minutes of the

WHEN GACY WAS SENTENCED to 10 years in prison on Dec. 3, 1968, the judge said: "Unsatisfactory in many respects as imprisonment is, at least that will insure for some period of time that you cannot seek out teenage boys to solicit them for immoral behavior of any kind."

If he had served the full term, Gacy would have left prison earlier this month. He was paroled in 1970.

An attempted rape charge filed against him in February 1971 was dropped when the complainant failed to appear in court.

John Butkovich, 17, of Lombard disappeared on July 31, 1975, after going to Gacy's house to pick up a paycheck.

"We gave Gacy's name to the Chicago police," said Butkovich's mother, Theresa. "We gave them Gacy's name and they tried to talk to him but he didn't want to talk. So they just dropped it. They (the police) thought he (John) had run away. They did not think it was serious."

ON DEC. 11, 1976, Greg Godzik, 17, of Chicago disappeared. His parents said they told police he worked for

Liberals staved off

By staving off a liberal challenge to his anti-inflation program, President Carter emerged from the Democratic midterm convention in a position to pursue his emphasis on trimming the federal budget.

Mr. Carter won in Memphis partly because of the inherent leverage a sitting president enjoys in defusing policy revolts within his own party. Even the disaffected are susceptible to White House blandishments, a fact the President's floor lobbyists in Memphis did not overlook. Beyond appeals to party loyalty, the President had public opinion on his side. To borrow a phrase from Sen. Kennedy, Mr. Carter was sailing with the wind, not against it.

Every poll shows inflation to be the public's chief domestic concern. And Mr. Carter recognizes it as the one issue that could undo his presidency. Vice President Mondale said as much when he warned the delegates in Memphis that a failure to bring inflation under control could drive the party from the White House as Vietnam did a decade ago.

In the end, these arguments were sufficient to persuade 59 percent of the delegates to vote against a liberal resolution opposing budget cuts in social welfare programs.

Still, the liberals will not fade away and Mr. Carter cannot ignore the fact that they continue to represent the core of the Democratic party's traditional strength. Significantly, organized labor — a relatively conservative force in Democratic politics for most of this decade — lined up this time on the side of the spenders. Mr. Carter may be able to shrug off George Meany's intemperate name calling but he can hardly discount labor's hostility to his budget cutting, his wage and price guidelines or his unwillingness to enlist in the fight for things like national health insurance.

Nor can the President expect the heat to abate anytime soon. The constituencies represented by that disgruntled 41 percent in Memphis have yet to see the specific cuts in domestic spending the President must recommend if he is to hold next year's federal deficit at or under $30 billion. When the administration submits its budget to Congress next month, those who feel themselves shortchanged will not be reluctant to complain.

We can only guess what all this portends for President Carter's political hopes in 1980.

Ironically, the estrangement between Mr. Carter and Democratic liberals should actually help the President on Capitol Hill. Most Republicans as well as conservative and moderate Democrats will find themselves in accord with proposals for retrenchment in government. If the President is sincere and steadfast in his desire to pare government and inflation, he should enjoy a working majority in Congress with or without his party's liberals.

Yet another setback

The signing of a 20-year treaty of friendship between Afghanistan and the Soviet Union should erase all doubts about the significance of last April's Marxist coup in Kabul.

The treaty draws Afghanistan directly into the Soviet orbit. It yields the Soviets a strategic position in Central Asia. And it grants them additional access to troubled Iran via that country's 400-mile border with Afghanistan.

Although Afghanistan's prime minister, Nour Mohammad Taraki, insists his country will remain "non-aligned," it is hard to imagine that the Soviets will not exploit this new de facto alliance to further influence events in Iran.

Nor will Pakistan be unaffected. Once a staunch American ally, Pakistan has drifted into political instability since the early 1970s. Pakistan also has sought closer ties with China, a development the Soviets resent and can be expected to resist.

While the ultimate outcome of all this can only be guessed at, it is obvious that the West has suffered yet another setback in the vital area surrounding its oil lifeline in the Persian Gulf.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

More Southeast Asian refugees

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Top Administration officials seriously underestimated the number of Indochinese who would be fleeing their communist homelands and the amount of money that would be needed to care for the hapless refugees and bring them to the United States.

Now, according to confidential White House documents, President Carter may be asked to authorize nearly twice the sum that has been budgeted for the resettlement of the Cambodian and Vietnamese exiles.

When planners in the Departments of State and Health, Education and Welfare originally projected their budget needs months ago, the stream of refugees was flowing out of Southeast Asia at the rate of 8,500 a month. The officials expected that 36,500 would be allowed into the United States in 1979 and another 40,500 in 1980.

But the refugee stream has swollen to flood proportions. In October alone, more than 12,000 men, women and children sought refuge in neighboring Asian countries. This is expected to increase to more than 20,000 once the November statistics are compiled.

Attorney General Griffin Bell has already received approval from congressional leaders and the president to authorize the admission of an additional 17,500 refugees next year. The trouble is, there is not enough money to deal with the increase.

The United Nations initially estimated that $45 million would be needed to feed, clothe, transport and provide medical care for Southeast Asian refugees next year. The United States promised to provide half the amount.

But because of the unexpected surge of refugees, at least $30 million more will now be needed for the U.N. fund, with half of that coming from American taxpayers.

According to an internal White House memo, "both State and the CIA agree that declines in the flow out of Indochina are unlikely for the foreseeable future." Officials at the State and Justice Departments and the National Security Council are working on policy and legislative proposals that will authorize the admission to this country of "large numbers of Indochinese beyond those the Attorney General is about to authorize."

The memo goes on to say that the President does not object to the special entry of more Indochinese, and is relying on the Attorney General and the Secretary of State to develop a forthcoming policy.

White House sources told our associate Howard Rosenberg that there are now two options available to budget planners: They can either limit the funds to the inadequate amount already provided by the U.N. estimates, or they can request that more money be put in a contingency fund to handle the increased flow of refugees.

Footnote: A White House official termed the budget projections "privileged," and refused to predict which option the Administration will choose.

MAVERICK SENATOR: When Sen. James Abourezk becomes disturbed about an issue, he generally goes right to the top. The South Dakota Democrat, who is retiring from the Senate at the end of the month, has often written personal letters, for example, to Gen. Jorge Videla of

CHARLEY REESE There's irony in Soviet position against Israel

By CHARLEY REESE
Sun Belt Syndicate

MENARA, Israel — The Soviet Union spent billions of rubles arming the Arab enemies of Israel and painting Israel in its propaganda as a fascist state. There is irony in this. The only place on earth where pure economic communism has worked is Israel.

The kibbutz is a communist society. It is a self-contained community in which everything is owned collectively and which provides everything to its members. Economically, it is a true classless society.

Menara, which is on top of a mountain on the Israeli-Lebanese border, is one of the oldest in Israel. Raquel Rabin, the younger sister of the former prime minister, Yitzhak Rabin, took me on a tour and discussed the kibbutz movement with me in her apartment.

She and her husband, Rafi, have lived at Menara since the 1940s. She is a slender woman with fine features. She wore a heavy sweater and corduroy pants. Her gray hair was woven into a long braid.

Menara was established as a defensive outpost and like all the kibbutzim it is surrounded by barbed wire and watch towers. It has bomb shelters and an armory and its members still patrol and if necessary fight.

The kibbutzim were begun by Russian intellectuals, disillusioned with the harsh Soviet dictatorship that to this day has never delivered the communist society it promised. Unlike the communism which plagues the world, the communism here is free of all compulsion.

Membership is voluntary. You can stay or leave. If you join and stay, there are no police to make you do anything. Social pressure is the strongest penalty usually applied to a member who shirks his fair share of the work. Expulsion is rarely used.

In the kibbutz, everyone works. Everyone takes turns doing the necessary chores like cooking and maintenance and in addition everyone has a "job" either in the army, the school, or as in the case of Menara, the glass factory or the tractor factory. Some kibbutz members do outside work, but if they do, their salary is paid to the kibbutz.

In return, the kibbutz provides housing, clothing, education, health care, food and transportation from birth to death. Members receive only a small personal allowance for any extras they wish to buy like books or additional furniture and clothes. Decisions are made by committees which are elected.

At Menara and at others, children leave their parents shortly after birth. They live in the nursery and later in the schools and are taught and cared for by their teachers. Children visit their parents daily but do not sleep at their parents home. This leaves the parents free to work.

It doesn't mean, as some might think, that family life is communal. It is not. Couples are married and the family structure is just like any other with the exception of the total day and night care program for children.

In some of the kibbutzim, children do stay home with their parents. That, too, is a voluntary decision made by each kibbutz. Mrs. Rabin said many younger people today prefer a kibbutz where children stay with their parents overnight.

There are 250 kibbutzim in Israel, home for about three percent of the population. Kibbutzim account for about seven percent of Israel's industrial production.

Mrs. Rabin said about 50 percent of the children elect to stay when they reach maturity. Everyone admits freely the kibbutz is not a problem-free society. As might be expected, the Rabins said, it is sometimes difficult to motivate members to work at full capacity since return on labor is indirect.

There is no question, too, that what makes the Israeli commune work where so many others have failed is the fact that it is in Israel. The kibbutz was and is an integral part of the effort to build and preserve a nation. Members are held together, not only by their socialist ideals, but also by their common bonds of Jewishness and commitment to Israel.

Still, the kibbutz version of communism does work in an atmosphere of total individual freedom and perhaps that is why the Soviet Union, which murdered its own communist ideals 60 years ago, is so hostile.

INSIDE REPORT:

China's human story as told by visiting columnist

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

TACHING, China — Tension between a generation of state-imposed conformity and the new stirring toward personal freedom in China helps explain the response of a 17-year-old girl to controlled but significant changes here.

We were taken to visit the immaculate cramped quarters of a six-member family living and working with a half-million other Chinese at the Taching oil fields. The head of the family was a smiling, archetypal "model worker" who as a driller helped open these fields in the late 1950s but now does the lighter work of watch repairing. After some perfunctory sloganeering from this worker, we asked his eldest child, 17, about her plans after finishing middle school.

"Whatever the state wants me to do," she replied automatically. We persisted: surely, you must have some desire of your own. She giggled. Then after brief hesitation, she said: "My father repairs watches, and I would like to work making watches."

That may seem a modest statement of independence, but it could not have happened mere weeks ago. In the presence of important cadres from the oil fields, this simple girl was revealing something important: she has ambitions and desires of her own and is not a mere pawn of the state.

The brave Chinese who put up wall posters in Peking calling on Jimmy Carter to investigate human rights in China (and pasted them up again after they were torn down) are the tip of the iceberg. Beneath, there are untold millions whose personal lives were disrupted more than the outer world imagines by China's last decade of political tumult and now are cautiously seeking a less fettered existence.

Evans

Apart from dramatic wall posters and the regime's headlong rush toward industrial modernization, the human story of China is the quiet, gradual removal of the Maoist strait-jacket. While Western diplomats fear this may be followed by iron repression, the needs of Teng Hsiao-ping's government are geared to liberalization. Teng is committed to ties with the West and a shakeup of the immense bureaucracy — goals that run counter to Red Guard dictatorship.

Nothing better illustrates this than the regime's decision, unprecedented for a communist country, to send young people to Western universities. Students in the U.S. and Western Europe will soon reach the thousands.

Simultaneously, Peking University and other Chinese colleges are experiencing their own transformation. Closed down for five years by the Cultural Revolution and then constricted intellectually for another five years by Maoist radicals, the universities have been reborn.

Their students are now selected by nationwide competition, and the Cultural Revolution's requirement that middle school graduates must work in the countryside before continuing their education has been quietly dropped. Peking University students are prominent among the young people who gained the world's attention with their demonstrations for free speech.

The university's English reading room offers uncensored U.S. newspapers and magazines. One foreign ministry interpreter accompanying us was reading that old anti-communist periodical, the Reader's Digest. Another interpreter was deep into the final (and overtly anti-communist) volume of Winston Churchill's memoirs. At the Hsi Tan wall of posters, young Chinese told us how much they enjoy the Voice of America in "special English" (limited vocabulary, slow delivery).

Western classical music and ancient Chinese opera, banned from China for over a decade, are back. When we attended the opera, the theater was packed with men and women in Communist China's "blue ants" costume but there were exceptions — such as one woman with a fur coat, brightly colored scarf and curly hair-do.

Dresses are to be seen in China, especially in Shanghai, and such non-conformity may spread to men. "Our clothing is much too stereotyped," one young party cadre told us, adding he thought traditional Chinese dress should be reintroduced for certain occasions.

Creeping individualism can spread from dress to political thought. Liu Shao-chi, the former chief of state purged by Mao Tse-tung (and now believed dead), is still excoriated as a "revisionist" in one briefing at Taching. But at the Hsi Tan wall in Peking, posters demand his rehabilitation.

What is a self-respecting cadre to do? He gets no guidance from Teng himself, who in his interview with us side-stepped a question about rehabilitating Liu. "So many things have been said about Liu that it's hard to know what to believe," a lower-level foreign ministry official told us. After a pause, he added: "Things are complicated."

The idea that life is "complicated" without explanation by official dogma is in itself new to communist China. Although this country's tradition of centralized authoritarianism will certainly not give way to democracy, the rush toward modernization is changing the way Chinese think and live — and faster than anybody deemed possible.

The Energy Tax Act of 1978 also provides a tax credit on solar equipment of up to $2,200 for $10,000 spent by a taxpayer for a primary residence. The credit equals 30 percent of the first $2,000 spent and 20 percent on the next $8,000.

The credit covers equipment purchased from April 20, 1977 to Dec. 31, 1985 and taxpayers can carry forward for two years any excess credit except for 1977 expenditure.

The law allows business an additional 10 percent investment tax credit for investment in alternative energy property. Solar equipment for heat, cooling or electricity for an existing building or commercial-industrial equipment will qualify for a refundable credit, if no tax liability exists.

The Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act encourages production of electricity through cogeneration and through solar, wind, or other renewable resources.

An amendment to the Small Business Act authorizes the Small Business Administration to make $30 million in direct loans and $45 million in guaranteed loans to small businesses involved with solar or other renewable energy source systems. In addition, the Veterans Housing Benefits Act of 1978 guarantees loans for home improvements that include energy-related projects such as solar active and passive systems.

Under the National Energy Conservation Policy Act, Title II, Part 1 stipulates that utilities must inform their residential customers about conservation techniques and solar energy devices for any residential energy conservation purpose. Under Title II, Part 3, the act provides for homeowner loans at reasonable interest rates for solar heating/cooling and hot water equipment purchased after Nov. 9, 1978. Banks are to make loans up to $8,000 at rates from seven to twelve percent, with a maximum term of fifteen years. The Government National Mortgage Association is authorized to buy and resell loans to keep the interest rates low. One hundred million dollars is provided for a revolving fund. The program is to last five years.

Title V, Part 3 of the act authorizes $25 million for fiscal year 1978 and $50 million in fiscal year 1979 for carrying out part of a ten-year federal building conservation plan that calls for purchasing and installing energy conservation systems, including solar.

What lurks in packaged food?

By DIANE CLARK
Copley News Service

Can you answer these questions about food labels?

Do all ingredients in a food product have to be listed on its label?

Can a food that is labeled "Sell by Dec. 4" still be any good today?

Is "imitation" mayonnaise as nutritious as "real" mayonnaise?

The answers to these questions are: No. Yes. No.

But if you didn't answer them all correctly, chances are food labeling may be as confusing or insufficient as critics claim it to be.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration freely admits that its current ingredient labeling requirements have "been challenged as inappropriate or inadequate, and additional regulations have been suggested."

No standard labeling procedure exists; for example, cheese could be labeled three different ways.

The FDA has completed hearings on food-labeling revisions and new regulations are expected late next year.

But the main topic that came from consumers at those hearings was that they want to know what they are eating, according to Aileen Gorman.

Gorman was one of the founders in 1973 of the National Consumers Congress in Washington, D.C., and has worked to build a grass-roots consumer network to interact with business and government on various issues. She currently is a member of the Food Safety Council and a director of the National Consumer Resource Center.

"I think the laws, the way they stand now, are confusing and I don't think they go far enough," Gorman said in an interview.

"I don't think we need more technical labels, just explanations of what they mean. ... We need to tell people that BHA and BHT are used as preservatives and that riboflavin is a vitamin rather than a mineral."

Some of the questions which Gorman raised, many of which are being considered by the FDA, include:

— The fact that there is no adequate definition for "natural" or "organic" foods so that the consumer doesn't really know what he or she is getting.

— Likewise, words like "real" or "genuine" have no federal definition.

— Probably half of the foods in a supermarket fall under a federal provision for "standards of identity" which require that their major, or standard, ingredients be filed with the government but not listed on the labels. Cheese, margarine, macaroni and mayonnaise are among foods that fall within this category. Optional ingredients, however, usually do have to be listed.

— The terms "artificial flavoring" and "artificial coloring" and "spices" may be used with no requirement to detail what those colors, flavors or spices are. The consumer may be allergic to some of those ingredients.

— Under the law, artificial coloring may be used in such products as cheese and butter without listing it on the label.

— Only food which claims to have some nutritional or "enriched" value need provide a nutritional breakdown of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance for protein and specified vitamins and minerals.

In addition, the dating system for foods is confusing. Gorman explained that open dating, or putting the calendar date on food, is voluntary and when it is done there are four types of dating systems commonly used.

One is the pack date — the date of final packing; one is the pull or sell date — the last recommended day of retail sale that allows time for sufficient home storage and use; another is the quality assurance date — after which the product will not be at peak quality; and finally, there is the expiration date — the last day the product has guaranteed quality.

With all these dates to choose from, a consumer has to know which kind of dating system he or she is seeing to get accurate information.

Another confusing term is that of imitation. Gorman said. She explained that imitation has actually been defined as the copying of another food, yet not being the nutritional equivalent of the food being copied. But do consumers know it?

While the government is working on changing regulations, Gorman's main thrust has been to induce manufacturers to disclose voluntarily more ingredient information to consumers.

DEAR ABBY

Earrings pierce hubby's alibi

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married three years. (No kids.) We lived together for two years before we made it legal, so we're not exactly strangers, right?

I thought we had a pretty solid marriage. My only complaint was that our sex life seemed to be going downhill. (He was always too tired.)

My mother, who lives 400 miles away, phoned to say that my father had suddenly become very ill, so I went to be with her for a week. On returning home I found a pair of earrings for pierced ears on the nightstand beside our bed!

I showed them to my husband and demanded an explanation. He swore he had never seen them before, and said he had no idea how they got there. What should I do?—MY SIGN IS LEO

DEAR LEO: Don't hassle your husband about it. Just keep your eyes open for a woman with two extra holes in her head.

DEAR ABBY: Someone asked how to cure bad breath. Everyone knows that regularly brushing the teeth, flossing and gargling with mouthwash are standard procedures, but I wonder how many have heard of brushing the TONGUE?

Dental microbiologists have known for years that bad breath can be caused by bacteria which accumulate on the tongue. Therefore, unless the tongue is cleaned regularly, the usual oral

Scholar named as professor for art museum

WASHINGTON (AP) — George H. Hamilton, a noted scholar of 19th and 20th century European and American art, has been named the National Gallery of Art's Samuel H. Kress Professor in Residence for the academic year 1978-79.

Hamilton is currently working on a redefinition of the later style of the French artist Paul Cezanne and on Cezanne's writings, as well as on the late work of French Impressionist Claude Monet.

hygiene procedures are virtually useless.

In many cultures it is standard procedure to brush the tongue as well as the teeth. During my college days I had a Chinese roommate who gently scraped his tongue every morning with a special tool that looked like a cheese slicer!—T.C.B., Ph.D. IN MT. VERNON, OHIO (Consultant in Microbiology)

DEAR T.C.B.: Thanks to you and the many others who wrote to tell me about the tongue-brushing technique. One generous reader even sent me a silver tongue-scraper.

DEAR ABBY: A woman wrote to say that her husband, a much-admired, successful merchant, pockets part of his income daily so he won't have to pay income tax on it. She asked if it was a serious offense, and what would happen to him if he were caught.

You rightfully told her that it was indeed a serious offense, and he could be fined or jailed or both. But you didn't go far enough. You should have told her that if she signs a joint federal income tax return with her husband, she is equally guilty of fraud, and therefore is subject to the same penalty.—W. H. S., CPA: NAPLES, FL.

DEAR W. H. S.: Thanks. Leave it to a CPA to catch the omission.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning the woman who falsified her age on her driver's license and was afraid to apply for Social Security benefits:

In applying for Social Security benefits, all she must do is submit her birth certificate and her Social Security card. She doesn't need her driver's license to apply for that Act, her date of birth benefits. She need not and other information fear any repercussions, about her cannot be as the Social Security released to anyone—office is prohibited from including her husband! passing her date of birth. If she doesn't want her to the state DMV under SS checks sent to her the Federal Privacy Act home, she can either rent (or Law) of 1974. Under a post office box or have her checks deposited directly to her bank account.

Tell her not to be afraid to discuss her problem with the people at her Social Security office. We've heard everything! —A SOCIAL

Women end up 'at stud'

BRIDGWATER, England (AP) — The Bridgewater Round Table advertised in the local paper: "Calling all Women's Institutes. Why not make up a party for a grand trip to London by the Round Table Christmas Train?" In the next edition was a follow-up ad: "Bridgewater Round Table wishes to apologize unreservedly for any offense caused by last week's entry..." Somehow the ad had ended up in the "at stud" column.

Sex harassment presents job hazard for women

By ELAINE SMYTH
Copley News Service

That first day on the job, your male boss winks at you; next, he's draping a not-so-parental arm over your shoulder; a week later he takes you to lunch for a discussion of office practices.

Within a month, he has you in bed.

The name of the game is sexual harassment of women on the job, says New York City author Lin Farley.

While teaching a course in women and work at Cornell University, Farley realized early on that of her students, "All had an experience of either having to quit or be fired (from a job) because some men had 'hit on' them sexually."

Farley, born in Newark, N.J., and raised in Los Angeles, is author of "Sexual Shakedown: The Sexual Harassment of Women on the Job."

She moved to New York City where she worked as a reporter for the Associated Press and quit to do free-lance writing. "I drove a taxicab to support my writing habit and got very involved in the women's movement."

It was in 1974 when she first started teaching at Cornell.

"SEXUAL HARASSMENT is one-sided, unwelcome attention that comes from a man or men in a position to hire or fire, help or hinder a woman's job performance. It can be anything from a look to a rape. That includes the whole range of behaviors from the arm-around-the-shoulder to the 'put up or get out' attitude in order to get or keep a job."

Farley said sexual harassment has been around since women first went to work for wages. "And it will stop only when women have organized to protect their rights on the job as vigorously as men have organized to protect theirs."

The author cites studies done in the United States recently that dramatize the enormity of the problem.

In January 1976, Redbook magazine published the results of a questionnaire on the topic. Of more than 9,000 who responded, over 92 percent of the women reported sexual harassment as a problem; a majority described it as serious, and nine out of 10 women reported they had personally experienced one or more forms of unwanted sexual attention on the job.

"And about 52 percent said they had either quit or been fired from a job because of it," Farley added. She said essentially the same statistics came from a study made by the United Nations in 1975-76 when 900 female employees were questioned.

WHY DO WOMEN continue to allow this problem to exist? And aren't some quite flattered by the behavior?

When Farley surveyed her Cornell students, she found an overwhelming majority of female students were not flattered; of 155 women surveyed, 145 of them objected to sexual harassment and only 10 said they were flattered by the overtures.

We continue to allow this behavior "primarily because of the social attitudes. We tend to trivialize the problem and blame the woman, even if it is ourself. It very much follows the pattern of rape."

"Clearly, the majority of women who work expect to be treated on the basis of their merit, not their sexual appeal, while a very small minority are still thinking that sex is the only way they can achieve success in the first place."

Farley says she has experienced sexual harassment on the job, too.

In 1975, Farley presented the first testimony on sexual harassment to the New York City Human Rights Commission.

As a result of the testimony and a series of articles in the New York Times on the subject, Farley found herself inundated with hundreds of letters and telephone calls from women across the nation "who couldn't believe that someone was finally talking about it. They described their experiences and asked where they could get legal help."

Farley gathered additional data in 1976 by traveling around the country for her publisher, McGraw-Hill Book Co.,

talking with men and women about experiences of harassment.

WOMEN NEED to know how to deal with sexual harassment or the abuse of authority that many men engage in when the woman says "no," breaks off the relationship and, often, finds herself out of a job, she says. If the boss ends the relationship, generally that means he's ended her job there, as well.

Sexual harassment is a growing problem because more women are working today — 50 percent of the work force.

"And it's economic coercion. It's essentially saying to women that they can't work — earn their livelihood — without a sexual trade-off."

The hidden factor, she added, is the majority of women will reject that trade-off. They demand to be hired — or promoted — on the basis of their job performance, not their performance in bed.

"While women are being offered entree into previously all-male job areas, in reality they're being sexually harassed right back out the door."

"In essence, men are saying, 'We are refusing to work alongside of women as equals,' and this is the way they're expressing that hostility."

"They're saying, 'Honey, you want to come in here. Well, we're going to show you just how tough it can be.'"

"There is a battle of the sexes in the work place and women are taking a terrible beating."

Too often they can't collect unemployment compensation because sexual harassment "has never been listed as good cause for leaving a job."

And, because of today's tight job market, women often can't find comparable jobs and wind up on welfare, she said.

HOROSCOPE

By CARROLL RICHTER

(Sat., Dec. 30)

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early morning is no time to plan your efforts. For you only gain advancement and progress by some sudden condition arising about which you had nothing to do. Accept the benefits that arise and use them to your advantage.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Show bigwigs that you admire them and you gain the support you need at this time. You understand better how to handle your work efficiently in the days ahead.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You get good ideas for the new year that will help you to advance and should jot them down on paper lest you forget them. Confer with experts, also.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle money collections and payment of bills early so that you can rest easier when the new year comes in. Try to be of greater help to loved ones. Coordinate your efforts more intelligently.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Know what partners expect of you and try to please them more, be conscientious and work efficiently. Handle an outside affair also, and avoid trouble.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Stop procrastinating and get right to all those duties ahead of you. Take treatments that will give you more strength. Show loyalty to the one you love.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Plan early for the recreations you want to enjoy in the near future. Place your mate ahead of others and try to accede to wishes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle fundamental matters well and get rid of anxieties. Listen to what kin suggest so that all is improved at home. Take no risks in driving or with your health.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study into agreements, statements, etc., and know just where you stand. Find the right way to impress an important contact. Take time for socializing and meet interesting persons.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Show you are wise in money matters and plan to add to present assets appreciably. Use good honest methods and do well.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can advance where personal aims are concerned so get busy on them early in the day. Contact good friends who can be of help to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make sure you go on being practical and bring in the new year on the right track. Finish tasks that clutter up your life and be happier. Show you are a clever person.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Analyze personal aims as the old year ends and start making new resolutions to improve right now. Stick to trusted friends in afternoon.

Dad's error unveiled romances

JIDDA, Saudi Arabia (AP) — A Saudi father proudly gave away his two veiled daughters at a Moslem double wedding only to discover that, through a slip of the tongue, they wound up with the wrong bridegrooms.

The Saudi daily Al Bilad, which reported the nuptial mixup, said the father confused the names of the brides and grooms in announcing his approval of the marriages to a Moslem marriage registrar.

Since vows were exchanged, the marriages were formalized.

The embarrassed father, according to the report, hushed up his mistake and promised his daughters, who had not appeared unveiled before their suitors, that he soon would straighten things out privately. The only recourse would have been a double divorce and a new wedding ceremony.

But divorce proved unnecessary, the newspaper said. The daughters informed their father several days later that they were quite satisfied with their unintended mates.

Cleveland mayor delays layoff of city workers

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland, victim of damaging political, financial and natural storms in 1978, will escape one crisis as the new year begins — the mayor has postponed layoffs for 2,000 city workers.

Mayor Dennis Kucinich shelved the dismissals — at least temporarily — on Thursday after a bank said it would not try to collect $5 million in defaulted municipal notes until after a February referendum on a plan to bail out the city.

Kucinich said 400 of Cleveland's 10,000 civil servants may still be laid off on Jan. 5 to offset an expected $4 million general fund budget deficit. But that problem could also be resolved, he said.

City Council President George Forbes said the mayor's decision gave the city a breathing spell to work out a plan for economic recovery.

"I think we can see the sun rising," he said.

Layoff notices effective Jan. 2 were distributed to 875 police officers earlier this week. Some 450 firemen were also slated for unemployment.

"I'm relieved," said Police Chief Jeffrey Fox.

Cleveland weathered the worst blizzard in a century and a bitter mayoral recall election earlier this year. It became the first major U.S. city since the Depression to default when it failed to repay $15.5 million in short-term notes due Dec. 15.

Voters are to decide Feb. 27 if the city should raise payroll taxes by 50 percent and sell its debt-ridden Municipal Light system. If the measures fail, layoffs may yet be necessary, Kucinich warned.

Cleveland residents have rejected proposals to raise the city income tax three times since 1970.

The city's largest bank, Cleveland Trust, said Thursday it would not try to collect its $5 million portion of the defaulted notes until after the Feb. 27 election.

Wilson Brown Jr., president of Central National Bank, later said his bank would not seek repayment of $3 million until after the election.

Prior to the mayor's decision, a group of civil service unions filed suit in Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court to block the layoffs. But Judge Richard Marcus deferred action until Kucinich unveils new layoff plans on Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Kucinich said Thursday the city has paid off a $13.5 million debt to Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. The last check, for $1.8 million, was mailed Thursday, he said.

CEI obtained a judgment for the sum last March for electricity the city had purchased from 1972 to 1977 to operate its municipal power system. The payments are still in dispute in court.

CEI officials had federal marshals tag city equipment in earlier this month because the city's deteriorating financial condition made it doubtful the city would pay its debt.

French delay money plan

PARIS (AP) — The French government today blocked the beginning of the European Monetary System, which had been scheduled for Monday, by insisting on changes in the Common Market's agricultural policy before the new currency system begins operations.

The French announcement represented a setback for the new system, which was designed to establish currency stability for Western Europe and was to have begun with the support of all Common Market countries except Britain.

In a communique from the office of Prime Minister Raymond Barre, the government insisted that the partners in the system must first agree to phase out farm subsidies, which are used to offset currency fluctuations in farm trade amongst the nine Common Market countries.

"All the conditions" necessary for the establishment of the new currency stabilization system have not been agreed upon, the communique said. A new farm subsidy agreement "must be adopted before the start-up of the EMS," it said.

France, with West Germany, was the principal proponent of the new currency system, which was finally approved Dec. 5 in Brussels after months of extensive negotiations.

The French government "reaffirms its firm will" to set the new currency system in motion as soon as the farm subsidies question is dealt with "in a satisfactory manner," the communique said.

Bus mishap claims fifth

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — A fifth person has died from the collision Dec. 8 of a truck with a school bus loaded with McCaulley High School basketball players.

Katherine Louise Wilkerson, 16, died Thursday in Hendrick Medical Center, hospital spokesman said.

She suffered brain damage and never regained consciousness after the collision, which also killed her 14-year-old sister, Rita, and injured her brother, Michael.

Miss Wilkerson is survived by her parents and one other brother.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

Starting January 2, Continental flies direct to Washington, D.C.

Continental is happy to report that on January 2, we're introducing direct, 727 service into Dulles airport every day.

Another happy note is that on your way to Washington you can enjoy the kind of service that's made Continental a Texas favorite for years. The kind of service no eastern outfit can offer. Every flight is on a big, smooth 727. There's free stereo to make the time fly. Plus roomy overhead storage for your carry-on luggage.

Continental doesn't scrimp on the service, but we let you skimp on the fares. We have a wide range of discounts, including an unrestricted fare that'll save you up to 30% without an advance purchase, as long as seats are available.

For reservations, call your travel agent, company travel department or Continental Airlines at 563-2100. Or, for cargo information, call Continental Jettfreight at 563-0664.

We're the one New Year's resolution you'll love keeping.

South took the first heart (a mistake), drew three rounds of trumps ending in the dummy, and led a low diamond to finesse with the ten. West took the queen of diamonds and led the ten of hearts to induce East to play the king. East then shifted to clubs, and declarer bit the dust.

South complained that all the cards were in the wrong place, but the opening lead told him who had the king of hearts and West's takeout double located the other high cards. There's no excuse for complaining when you know where all the cards are and can still handle the situation.

NO ENTRY TO EAST

South should refuse the first heart. West remains on lead and can never get to East's hand. If West continues hearts (as good a defense as any) South wins, draws three trumps and leads a diamond from dummy to finesse with the ten.

Now West cannot get two club tricks. If West fails to lead the ace of clubs South will run the diamonds to discard a club.

ANSWER: Bid two hearts. A raise after an opponent's takeout double promises decent trump support but practically nothing else.

Petition drive under way to change new rape law

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — A petition drive is under way to change Oregon law so a married person cannot be charged with raping his or her spouse.

The 1977 statute allowing such prosecutions was used for the first time in a trial that ended here Wednesday with acquittal of a man accused of raping his wife.

The request to amend the state constitution, submitted by Peter Applegate of Jacksonville and accepted Wednesday by the state attorney general's office, needs 72,891 petition signatures by July 5, 1980, to be put on the November 1980 general election ballot.

Currently, the Oregon first-degree rape law says "A person who has sexual intercourse with a female commits the crime of rape in the first degree if, A: The female is subjected to forcible compulsion by the male; or B: The female is under 12 years of age; or C: The female is under 16 years of age and is the male's sister, of the whole or half blood, his daughter or his wife's daughter."

Prior to 1977, the law defined female as a person not married to the alleged assailant.

John Rideout, 21, was found innocent Wednesday of a charge of raping his wife, Greta, 23, on Oct. 10. Rideout is believed to be the nation's first husband criminally prosecuted on a charge of raping his wife while they lived together.

He was indicted under a 1977 change in Oregon's rape laws that removed marriage or voluntary cohabitation as a defense against rape.

The petition drive's chances of success are unclear since no groups have endorsed the suggestion which Applegate first put forth two weeks ago. Applegate, who has originated other initiatives which did not reach the ballot, was not available for comment Wednesday.

Legislative Commission offers four options on school finance

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — After 14 months of study, a legislator-citizen commission on school finance has recommended only that lawmakers consider four options based on the present way of doing things.

The Legislative Commission on Public School Finance, created in 1977 and given a $200,000 budget, signed its report to the 66th Legislature on Wednesday.

Rep. Tom Massey, D-San Angelo, the chairman, said he felt the commission had done its duty.

"I have to say I am a little disappointed, for I feel we ought to take a more definitive approach and point in the direction where we ought to go," he added.

The Legislature had instructed the commission to "explore and develop a revised method for financing state programs of public school education."

But the commission presented these four options, none departing greatly from the current method of basing state aid on the taxable wealth of each school district:

— Exclude intangible property from the measurement of a local wealth. Use a "meaningful" method for evaluating rural land on productivity instead of market value. A district's "local fund assignment" for the Foundation School Program would be 15 cents per $100 valuation.

— Include intangibles and evaluate all real property at full market value. The rate for determining local fund assignment would be 8.5 cents per $100 value.

— Include intangibles and let districts choose between full market value or an "index value" representing a mix of productive value on agricultural land and market value on non-rural property. Rate would be 9 cents per $100 of full value or 10.25 cents on index value.

— Exclude intangibles. Apply a "meaningful" agricultural production value to rural land. And — here's the one innovation — include a factor for county personal income to recognize the fact that an area can be land rich but dollar poor.

Legislators will receive computer printouts showing the impact of each option on their districts.

The commission said if the 1979 Legislature does not change the present school finance law, "the local school districts' share of the Foundation School Program would increase 59 percent statewide by the 1980-81 school year."

That would mean higher local property taxes.

Existing law includes intangibles in calculating local fund assignments next year, and the School Tax Assessment Practices Board has determined the value of intangibles in each district.

Massey said the commission failed to produce more dramatic results because of the unpredictability of legislative action on intangibles and agricultural property values.

"Those considerations would keep this body or any other body from taking a collective stance on where we ought to go," Massey said.

Business Times halts publication

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The 9-month-old English language daily Business Times suspended publication Thursday, its managers said.

Editor-in-chief Dan Coggin said the paper and two sister publications would take a self-imposed "holiday" of perhaps 45 days to settle legal problems.

A senior staffer said the license was revoked by police under a new regulation concerning publishing license leasing. Business Times had been publishing under the license of a defunct paper, The Express.

U.S. delegation leaves Taiwan

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — A much-harassed U.S. delegation trying to plot the course of relations with Taiwan after diplomatic ties end Jan. 1 left quickly for home today, and a U.S. source said the abrupt departure was for "security, security, security."

During their stay, thousands of protesters hurled eggs, tomatoes and mud at the Americans, one Taiwanese set himself on fire and the newspaper China News said another chopped off his left index finger and wrote "I love my country" in blood on a piece of white linen.

After a windup, 35-minute session with Nationalist officials, the American delegation led by Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher walked out of the Grand Hotel, got into limousines and went to the military airport for a U.S. Navy flight to Washington.

They refused to speak to reporters, and despite press credentials for the departure issued earlier during the day, correspondents were stopped at the gate of the airport. A few minutes later, U.S. Embassy officials issued a statement in Christopher's name.

The statement said: "My colleagues and I have had a useful and extensive exchange of views with President Chiang (Ching-kuo) and officials of his government on the future of our relationship."

Mass suicides year's top story

By MARY CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer

The mass killings and suicides by members of the Peoples Temple in Guyana which cost more than 900 lives is ranked as the top news story of 1978 by editors and broadcasters of Associated Press member newspapers and radio and television stations.

The ritual suicides in the cult's jungle commune, headed by the Rev. Jim Jones, followed by a few hours the slaying of a U.S. Congressman and three U.S. newsmen in an airstrip ambush.

Few events in the annals of history were more baffling than the violent deaths of more than 900 cultists on Nov. 18 at Jonestown, Guyana. Most apparently committed suicide at the behest of their leader by drinking a cyanide potion. Parents poisoned their children, then drank themselves. Jones was found shot to death, a likely but not proven suicide.

How many of his followers died voluntarily and how many under compulsion by armed guards remained in dispute. But, it was clear that Jones, a spellbinding Indiana-born preacher, summoned them to a ritual suicide after several of his armed followers had killed Rep. Leo Ryan and the three U.S. newsmen at an airstrip.

Ryan had visited the Jonestown commune to investigate reports that some members were being held against their will.

Jones began his ministry in Indiana and later moved his church to California. He centered his sect in San Francisco where he extracted donations from members, ordered frequent beatings for minor transgressions and demanded sexual relations from both male and female followers. Jones gained political influence locally before leaving San Francisco in 1977 to join the agricultural community his followers had hewn from the remote jungle.

In the other Top 10 stories:

—2. LONG-WARRING ISRAEL and Egypt agreed to terms of a peace treaty in a meeting at Camp David in the Maryland mountains. President Carter mediated the treaty negotiations between Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

The treaty was to have been signed by Dec. 17, but various snags developed, notably a dispute over tying the treaty to a timetable for the autonomy of the occupied West Bank. The deadline passed without a pact despite the continuing efforts of President Carter and U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance.

Following the Camp David accords, Sadat and Begin were jointly awarded the Nobel Peace Prize. Begin traveled to Oslo to receive the award, but Sadat sent an emissary.

—3. ON DEC. 15, PRESIDENT Carter announced recognition of mainland China by the United States and resumption of diplomatic relations on Jan. 1, 1979. Simultaneously, he said the United States would abrogate its mutual defense treaty with Taiwan and end diplomatic relations with the island.

The United States pledged to maintain trade connections with Taiwan and to continue supplying defensive arms, but the reaction on Taiwan was bitter. Opposition developed in the United States as well. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., announced his intent to challenge the President's right to abrogate the Taiwan defense treaty without consent of the Senate.

—4. WHEN VOTERS IN California on June 6 approved Proposition 13—a ballot proposal that slashed property taxes—the shock waves reached every state capital and the national legislature in Washington as well.

The man behind the measure, crusty crusader Howard Jarvis, suddenly became a national figure. Congressmen and governor lent him an attentive ear as he took his message east from California.

Politicians had no trouble picking up the vibrations, and the most prevalent campaign theme in November was: cut taxes, tighten the budget, and smile.

—5. IN A SPAN OF 73 days, Roman Catholicism lost two popes and elected a third, Pope John Paul II, a Pole, the first non-Italian pontiff in 455 years and the first eastern European in history.

A robust man of 58, the former Cardinal Karol Wojtyla of Krakow was the youngest pope since 1846, and could lead the global church of 700 million Catholics into the 21st century.

His choice on Oct. 17 in a secret conclave by the College of Cardinals startled the world, auguring large implications for western relations with the Communist orbit.

His predecessor, the former Cardinal Albino Luciano of Venice, was elected Aug. 24. He served only 34 days as Pope John Paul before he died of a heart seizure Sept. 28. In that short time, his spontaneity, humor and warmth had endeared him to millions. John Paul followed the 15-year reign of Pope Paul IV, who died Aug. 6.

—6. THE DOLLAR'S CONTINUING drop on foreign exchange markets focused attention on serious problems in the U.S. economy.

Inflation at home and a large trade deficit were at the root of the dollar's fall, which continued unabated despite the Carter administration's actions and appeals to the public to hold down price and wage increases.

The Treasury and Federal Reserve Board increased intervention in foreign exchange markets and sharply increased domestic interest rates in an effort to shore up the beleaguered currency, but these steps failed to stabilize the dollar appreciably.

At year's end, the economy received another blow when the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries increased crude oil prices in 1979 by 14.5 percent. The increase, which is bound to add to the inflation rate, will also mean a larger U.S. trade deficit—and further damage to the dollar.

—7. ON APRIL 18, the U.S. Senate voted to yield the Panama Canal to Panamanian control at the end of the century, much to the satisfaction of President Carter, who had staked his prestige on the outcome.

The Senate vote was 68-32 in favor, concluding the two-part canal accord. A month earlier, the Senate ratified by the same vote the initial treaty, which commits the United States and Panama to maintaining the neutrality of the waterway.

The April vote completed the arrangement, providing for transfer of the canal to Panama on Dec. 31, 1999.

Panama immediately ratified. Opposition in the United States was led by, among others, Ronald Reagan, who called the treaties a giveaway.

—8. THE WORST ACCIDENT in nation's aviation history occurred Sept. 25 when a Pacific Southwest Airlines 727 jet collided with a small plane on approach to San Diego's Lindbergh airport.

All 135 aboard the airliner, on the Sacramento-Los Angeles-San Diego businessman's run, were killed. Eight more died on the ground. Both occupants of the small plane, an instructor and a pilot practicing instrument landings, also died.

Ground control said it had warned both the 727 and the Cessna. The airliner, on visual approach, had acknowledged the warning.

Precisely how it happened was the subject of painstaking investigation. The accident raised renewed questions about crowded airports and the need for a sophisticated collision avoidance system aboard planes.

—9. BABY LOUISE WAS born at 11:47 p.m., July 25, in the privacy of England's Oldham and District Hospital maternity unit, while the press thronged outside. She was conceived in a laboratory early the previous November in a glass thimble by her father's sperm and her mother's ovum.

Giving a new meaning to midwifery, Dr. Patrick Steptoe and physiologist Robert Edwards had presided not only over the birth of the child, named Louise Brown, but over her conception as well.

John and Lesley Brown, married in 1969, wanted a baby. But Lesley's fallopian tubes were withered and precluded normal conception. The researchers plucked an egg from Lesley's ovaries and mated it with her husband's sperm.

After nearly three days the developing embryo was implanted in Lesley's uterus. Something over eight months later the baby was delivered by Caesarean section because the mother had developed toxemia. At 5 pounds 12 ounces, Louise announced her arrival with a yell. Said the doctors: "We've got a nice, healthy, normal baby."

—10. STILL REELING FROM the tragedy of the Peoples Temple which had many followers in San Francisco, the city was stunned anew on Nov. 27 when Mayor George Moscone and City Supervisor (councilman) Harvey Milk were shot to death at City Hall.

About an hour after the killings, Dan White, a former fireman and policeman, surrendered and was charged with two counts of murder. White had recently resigned as a city supervisor, then changed his mind and asked Moscone to reappoint him. Moscone refused.

White was elected on a law-and-order platform, and during his tenure had heated disputes over homosexual rights with Milk, the first avowed homosexual to win city public office.

The world's first test tube baby, Louise Brown, was born in England in July.

'Laverne and Shirley' top Nielson ratings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It's back to the top of the television ratings heap for ABC, whose Tuesday night comedy hits knocked CBS out of its unaccustomed prime spot in the weekly Nielsen ratings.

During the week ending Dec. 24, ABC's "Laverne and Shirley" was No. 1, with a 30.3 Nielsen rating and a 47 share of the audience.

That means that of all homes with television sets, 30.3 percent were tuned to "Laverne and Shirley" and 47 percent of all the people watching were viewing that show.

"Happy Days," which spawned "Laverne and Shirley," was second with a 28.3 rating and a 45 share.

Holiday specials were blamed for knocking CBS' "60 Minutes" out of its usual spot in the top 10 down to a No. 20 spot, but CBS was the only network with a Christmas show in the top 10. It had two: "Charlie Brown's Christmas" and "Night Before Christmas" tied for sixth place with ratings of 24.4. NBC shows were in the top 20 only twice, with "The Bob Hope Christmas Show" and "Little House on the Prairie." NBC's "Weekend" and "Lifeline" clung to the bottom rungs of the ratings list, beaten for last place only by NBC's "G.E. Theater."

Here are the week's Top 10 programs: "Laverne and Shirley," with a rating of 30.3, ABC; "Happy Days," 28.3, ABC; "M.A.S.H.," 27.4, CBS; "One Day at a Time," 26.1, CBS; "Mork and Mindy," 25.3, ABC; "Charlie Brown's Christmas," 24.4, CBS; "Night Before Christmas," 24.4, CBS; "What's Happening?," 24.3, ABC; "Barney Miller," 23.6, ABC; "Fantasy Island," 23.3, ABC.

The second 10: "Charlie's Angels," 23.0, ABC; "Love Boat," 22.9, ABC; "Bob Hope Christmas Show," 22.5, NBC; "Soap," 22.2, ABC; "Little House on the Prairie," 22.1, NBC; "Lou Grant," 22.0, CBS; "Barnaby Jones," 21.5, CBS; "Tuesday Night at the Movies," 21.5, CBS; "Eight is Enough," 21.1, ABC; "60 Minutes," 20.9, CBS.

Here are the week's bottom 10 programs: "CBS Reports: U.S. Recognizes Red China," 11.3; "Sword of Justice," 11.0, NBC; "Alice," 10.9, CBS; "The Nutcracker Suite," 10.7, CBS; "Dallas," 10.5, NBC; "Gift of the Magi," 9.7, NBC; "CBS Reports: What About the Children?," 8.5; "David Cassidy: Man Under Cover," 8.2, NBC; "Weekend," 7.6, NBC; "Lifeline," 7.6, NBC; "G.E. Theater," 6.3, NBC.

Lindsay Wagner makes her debut as a doctor battling backwoods superstitions in "The Incredible Journey of Doctor Meg Laurel." Miss Wagner, who starred in two theatrical films and her own special, and for three years as "The Bionic Woman," said she never had time before for a TV movie. The film will air Tuesday on CBS. 107 million Americans face Social Security increases

By JIM LUTHER

WASHINGTON (AP) — With 107 million Americans facing another increase in Social Security taxes next week, many may long for the good old days — in 1970, for example, when the maximum tax for any worker was $374.

The maximum tax next year will be $1,404, up $333 from 1978. And by 1987 it will climb to $3,003. In every case, the worker's tax is matched by the employer.

That $374 maximum tax for 1970 sounds good. But the maximum monthly Social Security pension for a 65-year-old worker retiring in 1970 was only $190. In 1979 the top will be $490 — inflation-proof and tax-free — and by 1987, around $800.

For most workers, the 1979 tax increase will be nowhere near the $333 maximum, which will be paid only by those with incomes of at least $22,900. Also, an income-tax cut that takes effect Jan. 1 will, in most cases, cancel out the sting of the Social Security tax increase.

Here are examples of how the Social Security tax increases and the estimated income-tax cuts will work at various income levels:

— A worker earning $8,000 in 1979 will pay Social Security taxes totaling $490 — $6, or 12 cents a week, more than in 1978. If that worker is single and has deductions of about 23 percent of income, he or she will get an income-tax cut of about $23; if the worker is married and has one child, the cut is $49.

— At $10,000 income, the Social Security tax will total $613, up $8, or 15 cents a week. The income-tax cut would be $22 for a single person; $86 for the family of three.

— The $15,000 worker will pay $920 to Social Security, an increase of $12, or 23 cents a week. If single, the worker's income-tax cut would be $79; the family of three would get $72.

— At $20,000, the tax totals $1,226, up $155, or $2.98 a week. The single worker will pay $117 less in income tax; the worker in a three-member family will get a $145 tax cut.

Only those workers earning $22,900 or more a year will pay the maximum $1,404. That is $333, or $6.40 a week, above the 1978 Social Security tax. The income-tax cut will offset at least a part of the increase. However, the $1,404 figure would be doubled to $2,808 for a married couple in which the husband and wife each earns $22,900 or more.

At $25,000, for example, a single worker will get a $146 reduction in income taxes; the three-member family will get a $219 reduction. Persons or families with incomes of $40,000 or more will get a tax cut of $350 or more — completely wiping out the Social Security tax increase.

The maximum Social Security tax increase of $6.40 a week will seem greater to those who have to pay it because of the way the tax is withheld.

The 1978 tax was 6.05 percent of the first $17,700 earned. More than 85 percent of workers covered by Social Security earned less than $17,700 and, thus, had Social Security taxes withheld from every paycheck they received throughout the year.

A worker who earned more than $17,700 received one or more checks near the end of the year from which little or no Social Security tax was deducted.

For example, a $20,000 earner had about $22.79 deducted from each weekly paycheck. After 47 weeks, the full maximum tax of $1,071 had been paid.

Escapee wanted a little publicity

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — A convicted burglar who escaped from a Nebraska prison last November thinks his deed didn't get the publicity it deserved.

So this week he wrote the local newspaper, the Lincoln Star, to complain.

"I'm writing you in regards to an escape on the 17th of November," the inmate wrote. "The people involved was myself, Gregory T. Littler, and Terry Higginbotham."

New Yorkers

neglect funds

NEW YORK (AP) — Almost half a billion dollars has been stashed in banks and forgotten by absent-minded New Yorkers over the past 35 years.

The Abandoned Property Bureau of the state's Department of Audit and Control reports that since 1944, $487 million has been found unclaimed in banks, corporations, insurance companies and utilities and with brokers.

Herbert Friedman, associate counsel for the bureau, said most of the money is cash and the remainder is stock.

Prosecution holding back

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — U.S. Attorney Mike Cody says he will see if convicted defendants in the "Deep Throat" obscenity case appeal before deciding whether to re-try a man whose case ended in a mistrial.

The second "Deep Throat" trial, which began Nov. 13, ended Wednesday with seven of 11 defendants convicted of conspiring to distribute an obscene film nationwide.

Three other defendants were acquitted and a mistrial was declared in the case of Michael Cherubino of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

U.S. District Judge Harry Wellford dismissed the jury late Wednesday after they deadlocked over a verdict for Cherubino.

About an hour earlier, the jury had convicted Joseph Perrino of Old Bridge, N.J., and Plymouth Distributors Inc. of Old Bridge.

Before breaking for a four-day Christmas holiday, the jury Friday found the 1971 sex film obscene and disposed of eight defendants.

During the six-week trial, government and defense attorneys presented about 40 witnesses.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Check your health before you jog

Dear Dr. Solomon: Is it essential to have a medical checkup before taking up a jogging program, as I'm thinking of doing? I'm 32 and in reasonably good health as far as I know.—Dan L.

Dear Dan: Advice on this question varies somewhat from authority to authority. One Swedish doctor says exercise is so important that anybody who doesn't exercise should have a medical checkup to see if he isn't getting into trouble. But here is a good short checklist drawn up by experts at Michael Eese Hospital and Medical Center in Chicago—one of the country's best—for would-be joggers.

See your doctor first if:

1—You have had any heart problems, chest pain, leg cramps, or shortness of breath in the past.

2—You have diabetes, high blood pressure, or elevated blood cholesterol.

3—You have any condition affecting your joints or muscles, such as arthritis, or any back problems. Jogging may help some of these conditions but make others worse.

4—You have a chronic illness or lung condition, like asthma or emphysema.

5—You are over 30 and haven't been exercising regularly.

Michael Reese advises a complete physical exam including a medical history in any of the above cases. They add that your doctor should give you an EKG stress test if necessary, and then help you work out an appropriate exercise program.

When you do start your program, remember to build up gradually, over a period of weeks and months. More people get into more trouble by doing too much too soon.

If you would like more information on this subject you can find it in my paperback book, "Dr. Solomon's Proven Master Plan for Total Body Fitness and Maintenance" published by Berkeley, L.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My father died of a stroke at the age of 50, and his father died similarly at an even earlier age. I'm now approaching my 50th birthday and beginning to feel a little apprehensive. Is there anything I can do to throw the odds in my favor?—Stan

Dear Stan: We cannot deny that heredity is a factor in one's susceptibility to heart disease and stroke, but we can take steps to minimize it. Hypertension, high cholesterol levels and smoking are all associated with an increased risk of stroke. In women, the use of oral contraceptives may also be a risk factor, although the evidence for this is less persuasive.

If you can cancel these risk factors by achieving control of your blood pressure, following a sensible diet, and giving up—or never starting—smoking, you will help minimize the possibility that your heredity will betray you. A willingness to take positive action, as indicated by your question, is a good first step.

Evidence shows benzene-cancer link

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department announced Thursday that it has asked the Supreme Court to review a lower court's decision striking down a new standard for worker exposure to benzene.

The latest scientific evidence reports a significant link between benzene exposure and the incidence of leukemia, a form of cancer, the department said.

Benzene, a chemical with many industrial uses, poses a potential risk to as many as 629,000 employees in a number of occupations, it said.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration announced on last Feb. 2 a new standard lowering workplace exposure to benzene from 10 parts per million to one part, averaged over an eight-hour period.

The new standard was never enforced, however, because of a stay issued by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in response to a suit filed by the American Petroleum Institute and the National Petroleum Refiners Association.

The appeals court struck down the standard on Oct. 5, saying the secretary of labor had not shown that the benefits to the workers from the standard bore a reasonable relationship to its costs.

Bank accepts life-giving deposits

By MICHAEL O'CONNOR

HOUSTON (AP) — This holiday season is special to a young Ohio girl who learned, through the death of her best friend, what the gift of life means to those who give, as well as those who receive.

In a poignant letter, 18-year-old Betty told her friend Jean, who was killed in an automobile accident three months ago.

Jean had suffered a rare eye disease throughout her short life. In the brief time before she died, she asked that her eyes be donated to research in finding a cure for the disease.

Through the help of the Living Bank, an international organ donor registry headquartered in Houston, Jean was able to donate not only her eyes, but also her heart and kidneys.

"Jean taught me so much when she died," Betty said in her letter. "I often think of Jean's courage in facing her death, even if it happened so fast, and I'm especially proud of her in giving and donating after life.

"She taught me that giving unselfishly doesn't have to end when one dies," Betty continued. "I'd like to receive a donor card so that, whenever my turn comes to meet my friend Jean, I too can help another in life when I leave."

Although the names of the girls are fictitious, the letter is real — one of 72,000 sent during 1978 to the Living Bank, which celebrated its tenth anniversary in August.

"It takes something that touches the heartstrings of people to make them understand what it means to donate an organ," Lorraine Gress, executive director of the Living Bank, said in an interview.

"We are dedicated to educating the public, to showing them that through organ donation, they can give a gift after life if they want to," she said. The executive director said her organization, which has about 100,000 members in all 50 states and 57 countries, also maintains a 24-hour telephone referral service and a computerized registry of its members.

"Unlike the Eye Bank or the kidney center, we are not involved in the medical aspect of organ donations," she said. "We are concerned with the donor and the donor's family, and with connecting the donation with the need as quickly as we can, if we can.

"But that's not always possible," she added. "When dealing with organ donations, you're in a race against time, and you don't always win."

Jersey rustlers at work

CLAYTON, N.J. (AP) — The 4-H Club says rustlers are at work on the New Jersey range, and state police say the agricultural youth group's estimate of two dozen missing horses is probably low.

Horse auctions in Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey have been warned to look for falsified documents following 15 reported livestock raids in Gloucester and Salem counties, said Gloucester County agricultural agent Glenn Chapin. State Police detective Al Potter said Wednesday that authorities are stopping motorists hauling horses in trailers and asking for proof of ownership. Most of the animals probably are being sold for slaughter.

Fund-raisers get bad marks from BBB

NEW YORK (AP) — Some prestigious fund-raisers, including Amnesty International and the United Jewish Appeal, have gotten bad marks from the Better Business Bureau of Metropolitan New York.

The bureau said Wednesday in releasing its list of 149 organizations that did not meet its standards that some spent too much on fundraising and managerial costs and not enough on services, while others refused to disclose information the bureau sought. Others listed included the Maryknoll Fathers, National Audubon Society, Friends of the FBI, the National Trust for Historic Preservation, Synanon and the Unification Church.

Court order establishes helium price

By MICHAEL BATES OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — In a court order that could have nationwide impact, a federal judge here has established a price for crude helium purchased under the Helium Act.

When the case was first tried, U.S. District Judge Luther Bohanon awarded Ashland $1.4 million. Phillips appealed and the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Denver first upheld Bohanon's ruling and then recalled its opinion saying the conclusion the judge reached and his method for determining a money award were accurate, but more evidence should be gathered to determine the exact worth of the helium in dispute.

The judge accepted Phillips' contention that Ashland should be paid at the rate for crude helium, minus the cost of separating the crude helium from raw natural gas.

Long Iranian shutdown may not hike prices

By FLOYD NORRIS NEW YORK (AP) — Even a prolonged shutdown of Iranian oilfields is unlikely to increase oil prices in most of the world, industry officials said Thursday.

He said a cutoff for a month or two would "have a real tightening effect" on oil supplies but would not affect prices.

Meanwhile, communist output increased about 5 percent during 1978. Largest contributions to this gain came from the Soviet Union, up 4.1 percent to 11.4 million barrels a day, and China, up 10 percent to 2 million barrels a day.

Permian Basin areas draw wildcat projects

Permian Basin oil and gas operators have announced wildcat locations in Mitchell, Sterling, Crane, Coke, Stonewall, Fisher and Chavez counties.

STERLING WILDCAT Magnatex Corp., Oil Division, of Midland announced location for a 3,700-foot wildcat in Sterling County, four miles northwest of Sterling City.

CRANE EXPLORER Robert M. Wynne of Midland spotted his No. 1-34 Cowden as a 3,250-foot wildcat in Crane County, 12 miles southwest of Crane.

PROJECT AMENDED The H&S Oil Co. No. 1 Reese-Federal, scheduled 11,700-foot wildcat in Eddy County, has been amended to Naneco, Inc., of Artesia, N. M., No. 1 Benson Deep Unit.

ATOKA OPERATOR FINALS Aminoll USA, Inc., No. 1 CNB Community, a workover project in Eddy County, N. M., has been completed as an Atoka gas discovery.

DRILLING REPORT ANDREWS COUNTY David Finken No. 14-29 Y Fee, 4,900 feet, pumped 100 barrels of oil and 14 barrels of water in 24 hours, perforation (4,790-4,804).

Global oil industry setting production mark

TULSA—The global oil industry is setting another oil-production record this year, the Oil & Gas Journal reports.

The gain comes despite sharp, strike-induced cutbacks during the last two months from the world's fourth-largest producer, Iran.

Four areas gain wildcat projects

New wildcat operations have been announced in Cottle, King, Borden, Motley and Rannels counties.

Midlander finals strike

Help Wanted

$1,500 Per Month Plus

Manager Trainee needed to fill $58,000 per year position. It normally takes only 2 to 3 years to become a manager. $18,000 per year guaranteed annual salary while you learn; however, for those who survive the first year average compensation is $24,800 due to additional sales commissions. 90 to 95% of your time will be in sales during the 2 to 3 year training period.

The qualifications are tough--please don't apply unless you meet each and every qualification.

1. Impeccable integrity and references.
2. 4 year degree from accredited college or high school diploma coupled with 2 years of heavy, retail manager experience.
3. Willing to work over (60) hours per week (no Sunday or out town work.)
4. Willing to take polygraph test.
5. Willing and capable of taking instructions.
6. Not have any prior heavy sales experience such as Real Estate, Automobile, Mobile Homes, vacuum cleaners or Etc.

We have an extraordinary benefit plan including a retirement profit sharing plan. We don't list with employment agencies and request they don't refer "candidates" to us.

Rams, Vikings shape up as Frustration Bowl

By JIM MURRAY
Los Angeles Times Syndicate
The Los Angeles Rams, a team that has never lost a Super Bowl, meets the Minnesota Vikings, a team that has never won a Super Bowl, Sunday. The Team That Can't win The Big One plays the team that can't even get to the Big One. The Frustration Bowl.

To football scholars, these are mystery teams. The mystery is why the Rams don't go to the Super Bowl and why the Vikings do.

I can think of a dozen reasons why the Rams don't, but I know of one good reason the Vikings do. He wears No. 81 and looks, in poor light, like a tree with cleats on.

If all the guys Carl Eller tackled in his career were laid side by side, they would look like railroad ties. If you'd lay tracks on them, they would go from St. Paul to Spokane. If you put all the quarterbacks he's sacked in a sack in one room, it would look like the Christmas rush at the Chicago post office.

IF CARL Eller played someplace where the temperature got above zero once in a while, he'd probably be a star of stage, screen and television, or be jumping through airports in a three-piece suit. He'd be "The Big E" or "Carlemagne." This way, his fame spread clear up to Duluth.

Defensive linemen never get individual accolades anyway, like Caesar's army, they go into history as a group. They are part of a Fearsome Foursome, a Steel Curtain, a No-Name Defense or a Doomsday Defense. Carl Eller was part of, indeed the heart of, The Purple People Eaters. The quarterback was just an hors d'oeuvre to this bunch. The opposing team had to count the huddle after every play to make sure no one had been swallowed.

Carl Eller and Jim Marshall are the only ones left of the Purple People Eaters on the Vikings. And Jim Marshall has been playing so long, his first tackle was George Gipp.

Eller dominates a line of scrimmage like a medieval monarch, an emperor at end. Opposing quarterbacks steer clear of his territory. "You don't come to Eller, he comes to you soon enough," John Brodie once said. Everything west of the right hashmark belongs to King Carl. He's as hard to fool as an old trout. He's as lean as a plains pony. In a game and a position dominated by strong men, he's the strongest. He once smashed a blackboard with his fist during a half-time in a playoff game and they said it took five minutes for all the pieces to come down. You could make pipe bowls out of his biceps.

Still, he's not Mean Joe or Killer

Carl or even Crippler Carl. Even in the days of the unlimited head slaps, Carl Eller didn't turn every play into Dempsey-Firpo. He plays with the cold controlled competence of a spy with a few seconds to microfilm the evidence or kidnap the enemy agent — in this case the quarterback. Nothing personal, old boy. The most dangerous kind of player.

YOU DON'T need to know his number. He'll be the one wearing the quarterback's. As a result, quarterbacks tend to regard his area as a demilitarized zone. He gets the football equivalent of an intentional pass on most plays. When Oakland blew Minnesota out of the Super Bowl by running and throwing over the left side of the line, everyone said it was because they were a left-handed team. Not so. It was because Carl Eller was on the right side. They knew they couldn't turn that flank.

The Minnesota Vikings have gone to the Super Bowl with Joe Kapp and with Frank Tarkenton at quarterback, with Bill Osborn and Chuck Foreman as running backs, and with several different wide receivers. But they've never gone there without Carl Eller at left end. And never will.

Bryant, Paterno bring snow to Dixie with Sugar plaudits

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Alabama's Bear Bryant called Penn State's Joe Paterno "the leading coach in America today" and Paterno in turn said Alabama was "the best team we could play" for college football's national championship.

The coaching rivals in Monday's Sugar Bowl matchup of the nation's 1-2 teams held their only joint news conference Thursday evening and spent most of the time praising each other's squads.

Paterno called Alabama "a better team than Southern Cal," although USC handed Alabama its only defeat, 24-14, Sept. 23.

"Southern Cal is a great squad," he said, "but I don't think anybody in the country played the schedule Alabama played. Alabama just wasn't quite as right that day as they were in other games, and their defense wasn't as aggressive as it was against other people.

"There's no one aspect about Alabama that worries me. The whole Alabama team worries me. They do all the things a great football team has to do. The wishbone is the heart of their whole offensive scheme but they're really a multiple offense team. I don't think anyone runs more offenses than Alabama."

Paterno also said he didn't think Penn State could hold Alabama anywhere near the 54.5-yard per-game average with which the Nittany Lions led the nation in rushing defense.

"That's one thing I'm sure of," he said. "We're not going to hold them to 54 yards rushing."

PATERNO also is sure that this is not the first national championship-caliber Penn State team, although the Lions have never finished on top in the final ratings.

"In 1969 we had a really great team," he said. "We beat Missouri in the Orange Bowl and I felt Missouri was a better team than Texas, which finished No. 1. The 1973 team won them all but didn't have a chance to prove anything to anybody. Last year, we couldn't say we were national champions the way things turned out because we didn't have a chance to prove it in a major bowl."

Bryant was asked if he thought Southern Cal, which plays Michigan in the Rose Bowl, should be rated above Alabama if both teams win their bowl games.

"Damned if I know," he said. "But I still don't know why we weren't No. 1 last year. I do know that the day we played Southern Cal they were better than us. They beat us worse than the score indicated."

Someone wanted to know if Paterno agreed with Bryant's assessment of him as the leading coach in the country.

"I don't want to argue with him," he said with a smile.

Grand-daddy of 'em all reaches 65th birthday

By MAL FLORENCE
Los Angeles Times
PASADENA, Calif. — There has been a proliferation of bowl games in recent years. Name a fruit and you've got a football matchup to go along with it.

But, for many years, there was only one, the Rose Bowl, which celebrates its 65th anniversary New Year's Day when USC meets Michigan in Pasadena.

Here's a look at some of the highlights and sidelights of the grand-daddy of all bowl games.

The most memorable play? That's easy.

California center Roy Riegels became famous for running 65 yards — the wrong way — with a fumble in the 1929 game with Georgia Tech. His teammate, Benny Lomt, finally caught up with him at the Cal 1-yard line but Riegels was tackled by a Tech player.

Lom then tried to punt but his kick was blocked out of the end zone for a safety. It was the decisive play as Georgia Tech won, 8-7.

Most underrated team? It could have been Washington and Jefferson, which tied California, 0-0, in 1922. "All I know about Washington and Jefferson is that they're both dead," a writer quipped at the time.

Biggest upset: Many historians contend that Columbia's 7-0 win over Stanford in 1934 on a muddy field was the biggest shocker.

But UCLA has won twice as a 14-point underdog — 14-12 over Michigan State in 1966 and 23-10 over Ohio State in 1976 — and Washington was a two-touchdown underdog to Michigan last January but won 27-20.

straight passes to a second string end, Al Krueger. The last, with a minute left, was caught by Krueger in the end zone on a 19-yard play that gave USC a 7-3 victory.

The present Rose Bowl facility was inaugurated in 1923 with a game between USC and Penn State. The Trojans won, 14-3, in their first of an unprecedented 22 (including 1979) Rose Bowl appearances.

USC has won more bowl games and has the highest winning percentage (17-6, .738) than any team in the nation that has participated in 10 or more. The Trojans have 15 Rose Bowl wins along with victories in the 1975 Liberty Bowl and 1977 Bluebonnet Bowl.

IT'S A family matter for the Dufeks in the Rose Bowl game. Bill Dufek, Michigan's offensive tackle, will be appearing Monday. His father, Don Sr., a running back, played for the Wolverines in the 1951 game and was named the outstanding player.

Bill's brother, Don, an All-American defensive back, didn't play in the Rose Bowl but performed for Michigan in the 1976 Orange Bowl.

It has rained only three times on game day — 1916, 1922 and 1955, when Hayes' Buckeyes beat the Trojans, 20-7.

Omen: No USC team that has beaten Notre Dame in the regular season has ever lost in the Rose Bowl. Nine times the Trojans have followed victories over the Irish with wins at Pasadena. USC beat Norte Dame, 27-25, last month.

The Rose Bowl has been played outside of Pasadena only once — in 1942 at Durham, N.C. The game, scheduled almost a month after the attack on Pearl Harbor, was moved to the South because of a West Coast blackout and a ban on large gatherings. Oregon State upset Duke, 20-16.

Michigan is responsible for the most one-sided games. The Wolverines wiped out Stanford in 1902 and USC in 1948, both by 49-0.

The Rose Bowl game wasn't played after 1902 until 1916. What took its place? Why, chariot races!

Biorythms give Clemson edge in Gator conflict

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Clemson will beat Ohio State in the Gator Bowl tonight — if biorythms of the opposing coaches and key players mean anything.

Biorythms show on the basis of one's birthday whether a person is on a high or low physically or intellectually and whether his sensitivity is high or low on a given day.

The birthdays of the coaches and players were fed into a computer, and it spit out more highs for the Tigers than the Buckeyes.

Rookie Clemson Coach Dan Ford will be at an absolute high of plus 100 intellectually tonight. And the 30-year-old is near the physical peak with a plus 95 rating.

Ford's sensitivity cycle shows another plus 20.

WOODY HAYES, his 65-year-old OSU coaching opponent, ranks in the plus side of all three categories. Hayes is at plus 100 in sensitivity, plus 35 intellectually, and plus 25 physically.

But it's at quarterback that the widest biorythm variations occur in the nationally televised game (ABC-TV, 8 p.m. CST).

Clemson quarterback Steve Fuller, the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year, is at an intellectual peak of plus 100. The senior is plus 25 physically, but minus 95 in sensitivity.

Art Schlichter, Ohio State's freshman quarterback, could not have much lower biorythms tonight. He's at the lowest possible point intellectually (minus 100) and is minus 80 in sensitivity and minus 65 physically.

The two first team All-Americans in the game, Ohio State linebacker Tom Cousineau and Clemson wide receiver Jerry Butler, may be in for sub-par performances.

Cousineau is near the bottom physically at minus 95 and minus 60 intellectually. He is plus 60 in sensitivity.

BUTLER'S biorythms are the lowest of any of the key performers on either side. He's minus 95 both in sensitivity and intellect, and minus 75 physically.

Lester Brown, Clemson's star rusher, has ratings of plus 100 intellectually, plus 25 physically and minus 95 in sensitivity.

The pillars of the Tiger's touted defense do not fair so well.

Defensive end Jonathan Brooks is at the bottom physically with minus 100 and minus 95 in sensitivity. But he is at an intellectual peak of plus 100.

Clemson linebacker Bubba Brown is plus 50 physically, plus 20 in sensitivity and minus 45 intellectually.

Randy Scott, another Tiger linebacker is plus 75 physically, minus 100 in sensitivity and minus 85 intellectually.

Ron Springs, Ohio State's regular tailback, is at his lowest physically (minus 100) and is at minus 45 in sensitivity and plus 80 intellectually.

Rod Gerald, the Buckeye's swift wide receiver, has biorythms of plus 95 physically, minus 45 in sensitivity and minus 80 intellectually.

MOST DISPUTED play? It was probably the touchdown scored by Northwestern's Art Murakowski in a 20-14 win over California in 1949. Murakowski fumbled while scoring a short-yardage touchdown and Cal partisans maintained he didn't break the plane of the goal line before the bobble.

There have been many thrilling games, such as Alabama's 20-19 win over Washington in 1926, Stanford's 21-13 victory over Nebraska in 1941, USC's come-from-behind, 18-17 win over Ohio State in 1975 (a late Pat Haden-to-John McKay touchdown pass and a two-point conversion throw to Shelton Diggs) — and just last January when Washington outlasted Michigan.

But for sustained excitement it's difficult to top the 1963 game, when USC built a 42-14 lead over Wisconsin and almost lost it because of Ron VanderKelen's amazing passing. Final score: 42-37.

More Rose Bowl records were established in this game than any other, including: most total yards passing, 401 by VanderKelen; most passes completed, 33 by VanderKelen; most touchdown passes, four by USC's Pete Beathard; most points scored by a losing team; most total points scored, 79, and most first downs by one team; 32 by Wisconsin.

More on records: Carl Dietz of Washington State had 34 rushing attempts in the 1916 game against Brown. Since then his record has been equaled only by Ernie Nevers of Stanford in 1925 (Notre Dame) and Vic Bottari of California in 1938 (Alabama).

IT'S POSSIBLE that USC's Charles White could break this record Monday and, perhaps, the single-game rushing record of 194 yards set by Iowa's Bob Jeter against California in 1959.

White came close to the record as a freshman. He rushed for 114 yards on 32 attempts in USC's 14-6 win over Michigan in the 1977 game.

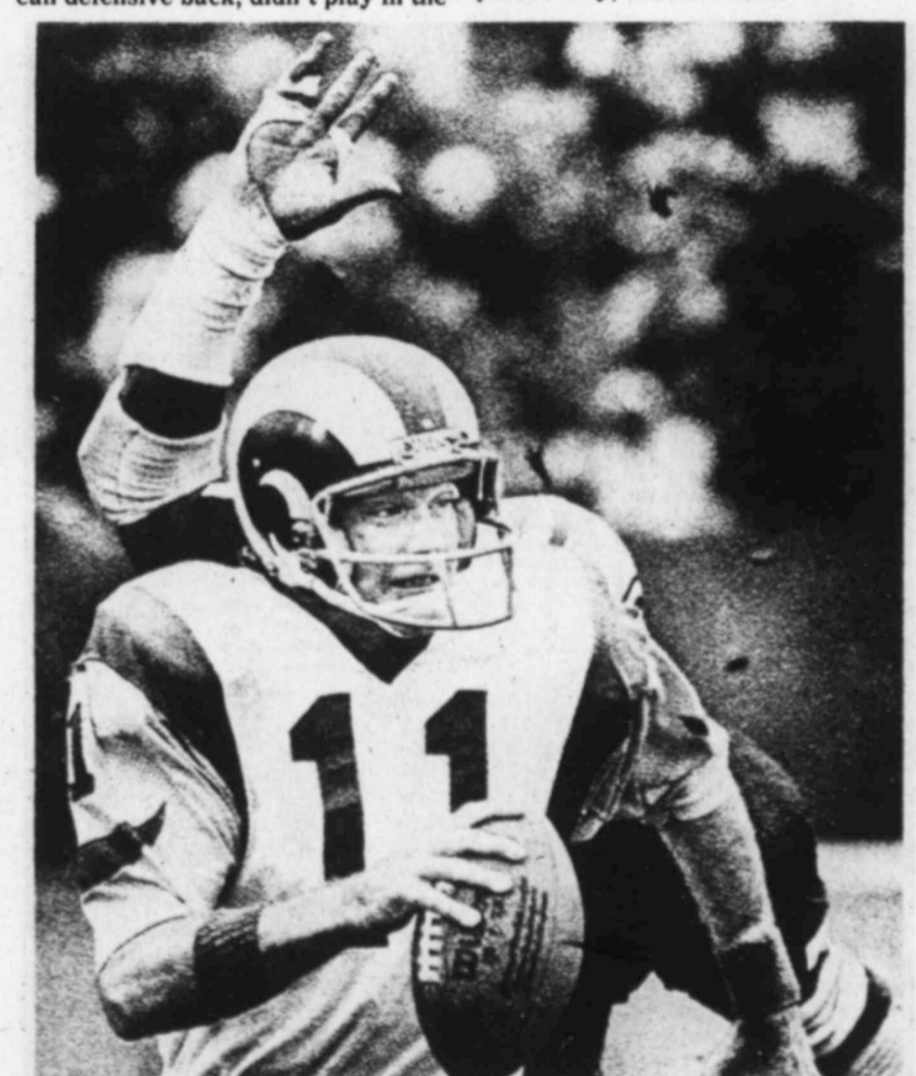

The Big 10 holds an 18-14 lead over the Pacific 10 since the Rose Bowl pact between the two conferences was made in 1947.

The Big 10 won 12 of the first 13 games (USC beat Wisconsin 7-0, in 1953), but the Pac-10 has won 13 games since 1960 and eight of the last nine.

Fielding H. Yost's point-a-minute Michigan team embarrassed Stanford, 49-0, in 1902 at Tournament Park. It is now called the first Rose Bowl game, and was also the first collegiate intersectional game ever played.

Most exciting finish: In 1939, USC was trailing unbeaten, untied and unscored-upon Duke, 3-0, in the fourth quarter when Trojan coach Howard Jones inserted his fourth string tailback, Doyle Nave.

Nave proceeded to complete four

Sooners' Lott would rather be running back

MIAMI (AP) — What Oklahoma quarterback Thomas Lott really wants is to be a running back.

But the Sooners have gone 29-5-1 in football since he agreed to play quarterback, so Lott has had to wait for his chance at the pros to be the running star of his dreams.

Preparing for Monday night's Orange Bowl game against Nebraska, Lott recalled how he wound up calling the signals.

"I was recruited as a quarterback," Lott said. "I knew right from the start that's the way it was going to be."

He played halfback and cornerback in high school, until the quarterback was injured and Lott had to take his place. Lott, a senior, was athlete enough to play where he was needed.

"I'll play any position I have to for the chance to play," he said.

Colleges all over wanted Lott, but he knew Oklahoma ran the wishbone formation that his coach in San Antonio had liked.

"If I had gone to a school that used the I (formation), I'd have been even more behind as a quarterback," Lott said.

Nobody's complaining about Lott's performance for Oklahoma. Off-sive coordinator Galen Hall says Lott has done a terrific job, and that his speed, strength and mental toughness would make him a great running back on a pro team.

But with a backfield including Heisman Trophy winner Billy Sims, David Overstreet, Jimmy Rogers and Kenny King, there isn't much running in the near future for Lott.

The Oklahoma wishbone led the nation in rushing with 427.8 yards a game and in scoring with 40 points. It was second to Nebraska in total offense, with 489.3 yards.

Lance Van Zandt, defensive coordinator for Nebraska, says Oklahoma has the best rushing offense in the country.

Van Zandt's monster back, Jim Pilen, recovered two fumbles in the 17-14 victory over Oklahoma last month. He says the best way to stop the Sooners is to keep the ball away from them.

"They're not a real disciplined team in the sense that they're taught to always protect the ball," Pilen said. "They're breakaway runners, that's their style, and sometimes they carry it like a loaf of bread. When you're flagging the football, and somebody hits you hard, you're going to drop it — I don't care how good you are."

Soviets whip U.S.
KARLSKOVA, Sweden — The Soviet Union whipped the United States 7-1 to join Czechoslovakia, victors over Norway by 6-4, in the playoff round of the World Junior Hockey Championships.

Right wing Gennadi Kurgin scored the first of his two goals at 1:01 and Viacheslav Rjanov put home his first tally of the night 19 seconds later.

Broncos, Steelers yearn for return to Super Bowl

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Denver Broncos and the Pittsburgh Steelers both yearn for a return to the Super Bowl, but the season ends here Saturday for one of them.

"What you did before doesn't count. What counts is now," Steeler Coach Chuck Noll said of the 11:30 p.m. American Football Conference playoff opener for both teams.

"Things kind of melt into the background when the ball's kicked off," said Denver Coach Red Miller. "You have the buildup and hoopla — but it's all settled on the field."

Last season, the Broncos earned their first playoff berth in 18 years, beat Pittsburgh in the first round and eventually ran out of Orange Crush against Dallas in the Super Bowl.

This season, Denver won its second straight AFC West title, finishing 10-6, dumping the Oakland Raiders twice, and disputing the notion that the Broncos were one-year wonders.

"I would think that 'fluke' stuff from last year would be over by now. I mean are we an established power or aren't we?" said Denver guard Tom Glassic, a hulk of a fellow who collects and paints toy soldiers in his spare time.

The Steelers, two seasons removed from their two straight Super Bowl titles, are in the playoffs for an AFC-record seventh straight time.

Their 14-2 record was the best in the National Football League, and it gave them their fifth AFC Central title in six seasons.

"We think we're the best team. This team has the kind of confidence it had back when we won two Super Bowls," said middle linebacker Jack Lambert.

"This is a team with a mission — we want the Super Bowl," said center Mike Webster.

Last season, the Steelers labored through contract squabbles and injuries and were beaten 34-21 in Denver in the first playoff round.

This season brought harmony and the homefield advantage in the playoffs. Pittsburgh is 4-1 in playoff games at Three Rivers Stadium and 53-12 in regular season games at home over the past nine years.

Pittsburgh yielded the fewest points in the NFL in regular season, 195. Denver allowed the second fewest, 198.

Cal State slugged with 'fraud' lawsuit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Attorneys for eight former Cal State Los Angeles athletes have filed a multimillion-dollar lawsuit against the school and several coaches, alleging "fraud and deceit in the school's student loan and athletic scholarship programs."

Thomas Moore, one of the plaintiffs, said Thursday he played varsity basketball for the university under seven fictitious names.

Atlanta may have blundered

ATLANTA (AP)—The Atlanta Braves, by filing a grievance at the same time they made a contract offer to third baseman Bob Horner, may have made Horner a free agent for 1979, according to the director of the Major League Players Association.

Marvin Miller was quoted by The Atlanta Constitution on Thursday as saying the Braves may have gotten "some bad advice."

"I think that if this goes all the way to an arbitrator, he will be forced to conclude that the Braves did not make a firm contract offer by the Dec. 20 deadline as stated in the players-management basic agreement, and that Bob Horner is, in fact, a free agent," the newspaper quoted Miller as saying in a telephone interview.

Pokes, Oilers, Steelers get nods in playoff tilts

There will be no need for introductions when the Minnesota Vikings meet the Los Angeles Rams in Sunday's National Football Conference playoff.

These two teams are well-acquainted, especially at playoff time. This will be the fifth time Minnesota and Los Angeles have met in the playoffs and the Rams still are looking for their first victory. The string started in 1969 when the Vikings scored a 23-20 divisional victory and continued with two NFC championship triumphs, 14-10 in 1974 and 24-13 in 1976. A year ago, Minnesota posted a 17-4 divisional playoff victory over the Rams. Both teams captured record-tying sixth straight division crowns to set up this weekend's rematch.

The Picks:
Rams 23, Vikings 10

Monday night TV is no place for faint hearted

It's annually one of the most-looked forward to matchups of the regular college football season, but as a bowl attraction it has all the appeal of a warmed over fish dinner.

When Nebraska and Oklahoma battled at Lincoln in November, it left the fans gasping, but not for more. So now they rehash their neighborhood feud in the Orange Bowl and there's no way they can duplicate the regular season hijinks.

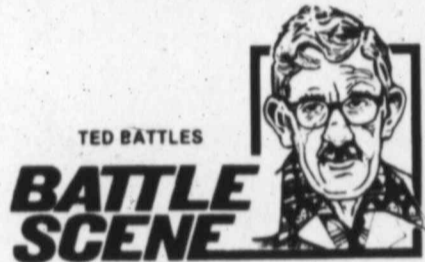

Even the combatants are a bit skeptical about the whole thing. After all, what purpose can the game serve?

OKLAHOMA lost its opportunity to lock up the national title, no strings attached, by losing to the Cornhuskers and a rematch with Nebraska isn't going to earn it back, not with No. 1 Penn State playing No. 2 Alabama in the Sugar Bowl and No. 3 USC howling in protest in the Rose Bowl.

Nebraska erased the stigma of an early season loss to Alabama by beating the Sooners to resurface as a bona fide contender for No. 1 honors, but promptly blew it all the following week with a loss to Missouri, a battle-hardened league foe that faced five bowl-bound foes during the season.

FOR HUSKER Coach Tom Osborne, who had never beaten OU before, the Sooners were the last team he wanted to see before next November, although he is putting up a brave facade.

"I think the statements made right after Missouri came out of surprise more than anything else. Oklahoma was entirely foreign to everyone's thinking at the time. We're looking forward to playing Oklahoma. No-body's down in the dumps." Nevertheless, the Sooners and Cornhuskers wind up in Miami playing a game that won't even count in the Big Eight standings...an exhibition game we think they call them.

The game will be a financial bonanza to Miami simply because the supporters of both schools would follow their team in whoopee red hordes all the way to Nome to play the University of Alaska, if the schedule called for it.

Psychologically, the game figures to be a mismatch, one of those where one team asks "what have we got to win?" And the other blusters, "we'll show 'em this time."

Nebraska, on one hand, must consider its mission accomplished with the November win and must look on enviously at Penn State in New Orleans. Oklahoma, meanwhile, is determined to prove those cold-fingered fumbles at Lincoln were all a big mistake.

The combination gives portent of a merciless rout. In fact, there probably hasn't been anything like it since the last Orange Bowl game. Nebraska finds itself in the same role as Arkansas, which left its first team home, and headed for the slaughter led by a bunch of benchwarmers.

And everybody knows what happened in that one.

McNamara's long wait for revenge pays off

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Local boy Peter McNamara had waited exactly 12 months to get his revenge on American Tim Gullikson. His chance came today in the second round of the $300,000 Australian Open and he didn't waste it.

McNamara ousted Gullikson, the fourth seed, 6-2, 6-3, 7-6 and ended the American's hopes of qualifying for the Colgate Masters final — unless top players carry out their threat to boycott the event.

It was one of the most satisfying wins of the year for McNamara, who grew up in here. Last year in the Open he had five match points in an early-round match against Gullikson but let the American off the hook.

McNamara, 23, dropped serve with the match in his grasp in the 10th game of the third set. Leading two sets to love he broke to lead 5-4 and raced to 40-15 on serve. But he twice double faulted to allow Gullikson to break back and force a tiebreaker.

The Australian finally clinched the match with a backhand cross-court return.

McNamara said after the match, "He played into my hands by always serving to my backhand. He doesn't have a sliced serve so that's why he served to the backhand, but it suited me fine." A tactical error also cost another American any chance of victory against veteran Australian Ken Rosewall.

Sherwood Stewart decided to play Rosewall mainly from the baseline and the little Australian cut him to pieces with pinpoint ground strokes. After racing through the first set 6-2, Stewart let Rosewall claw his way back into the match.

Rosewall took two tiebreakers and a 2-6, 7-6, 7-5, 7-6 victory, advancing to the third round.

Top-seed Guillermo Vilas moved a step closer to the title he has so prepared so hard for when he downed Australian Brad Drewett 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

Fiery American Hank Pfister and Australian Paul Kronk endured marathon five-setters before advancing to the next round.

Pfister triumphed in a three-hour service duel with Australian Steve Docherty 7-5, 6-3, 4-6, 3-6, 8-6.

The match was so tense that after the last point Pfister grabbed the umpire's microphone and said, "If I said anything during the match which offended anybody, I'm sorry."

No action is expected to be taken against Pfister.

Kronk took three hours, 10 minutes to finally subdue American Jay di Louie 2-6, 7-5, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1.

Poland's Wojtek Fibak and Arthur Ashe had easy passages through to the next round.

Fibak displayed fine touch and placement to down Australian John James 6-2, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3 while Ashe took South African Ray Moore 6-1, 6-4, 6-3.

American John Sadri blasted Australian Ross Case 6-1, 6-4, 6-1. Sadri, who only turned pro in September, used his thunderous serve to full advantage on the fast grass court.

Case, recognized as one of the best retrievers in tennis, couldn't get into the match as Sadri crowded his serve and cracked winners to every corner.

Hometown favorite Allan Stone ousted former Australian Open champion Mark Edmondson.

Patriots to key on Pastorini

"The key to the game is Pastorini," said Patriots' defensive safety Tim Fox. "The big guy (Earl Campbell) has been pretty consistent all year, but Pastorini has been hot." Patriots Coach Chuck Fairbanks calls Pastorini "the key guy" for the Oilers.

"You are not going to stop Campbell," said Fairbanks. "You try to contain him. He's going to get his share. You try to prevent him from getting a home run..."

"We've been to four Super Bowls and lost each time," said 36-year-old Minnesota safety Paul Krause. "And I know that each and every one of us would like to go back," he added as the Vikings arrived in Tucson to begin preparations for Sunday's NFC playoff against Los Angeles, a team Minnesota is 4-0 against in playoffs. "We'll have to throw the ball and they know it," said Minnesota Coach Bud Grant. "And we'll have to stop their running game and we know that. But we've got the best quarterback in football, and it's no secret that we'll throw..."

Dan Pastorini worries Pats

It was during that two-week period on the bench that Bartkowski said he re-evaluated his lifestyle and found Christ. John McNamara, named to succeed Sparky Anderson as manager of the Cincinnati Reds, says he will keep his new position in perspective. "But I remember the days I drove the bus and I've ridden buses, and I'll never forget that. I keep myself in the proper perspective because truly it makes me feel very humble really to have something like this presented to me..."

Wichita State University, predominantly white, went to predominantly black South Carolina State for the first black head football coach in its athletic history Thursday. Willie Jeffries, 40, was given a four-year contract, succeeding Jim Wright, fired in November after a 4-7 season. Jeffries 6-year record at SCS was 50-13-4...
