

SUNDAY PREVIEW

Rankin a 'characterized'
Rankin has "character." The 1,105 persons who live there, 55 miles south of Midland, would agree with that. Petroleum and ranching are the dual kings. Water is scarce. Staff writer Ed Todd contributes a story and some photographs concerning the town of Rankin in Sunday's Reporter-Telegram.

Super Bowl road
The long road to the Super Bowl, made even longer this season by an extended season and expanded playoffs, nears an end this week with the AFC and NFC championships. Check Sunday's R-T for details on the Ram Cowboy and Steeler-Oiler games.

'Schutzhund' dog training
To the uninitiated, a type of dog training known as "Schutzhund" seems like it might harm the dog, with the animal encouraged to bite an aggressive person's sleeve. But a Permian Basin club is trying to let the public know "the full story," coming this Sunday in West Texas Life magazine.

As this country heads straightforwardly into another year, there comes to mind some thoughts worth pondering and scuttling.

They ramble thusly.

—Suffering. Which generation will get the award for suffering the most in a depression? Will it be the soup-line people of the 1930s or the fearful-of-being-depressed people of the late 1970s and early '80s?

—Do you spend your ever short cash on new clothes, priced by the stitch, or do you bring out your old worn Brooks Brothers "rags" and trust friends and strangers will appreciate your good taste?

—Is an untarnished reputation today worth more to a man or a woman? How about the yesteryears?

—Does the evasive "it depends" absolve you of expounding on a proposition?

—What ever happened to charmingly handsome men in those gray-flannel suits?

—And where are those beguiling — once you got to know them — women who dropped their dainty handkerchiefs in view of the men in those gray flannels?

—Is the fight in (and for) life worth the reward? If you have to ponder the question, your chances of an affirmative answer are relatively high.

—Under what circumstances do excellent workmanship and craftsmanship rival or exceed the value of "the three professions" (medicine, law and ministry) well done? Are there exceptions?

—If and when will typewriters with the hammering characters become as antiquated as the old kerosene lanterns?

—Will the cowboy on his faithful horse be replaced by spluttering off the road wagons and cycles that are even less predictable than the horse?

—If weather should cease to be the universal courthouse square topic, what likely will replace it?

—Is the reward of money the primary object in work?

—Finally, should time be suspended by law when "things" get out of hand?

Fog obscures a part of Midland's skyline today as the city faced an expected second wave of inclement weather since the new year began. This view from the 11th floor of the Gibraltar Savings and Loan Building, now being built, takes in a couple of seemingly clear city streets — which actually were wet and slippery from rain and ice again this morning. And for the fifth day in a row, many construction sites in Midland stayed idle as a result of poor weather conditions. (Staff Photo by Mike Kardos)

Rebels drive into Cambodia

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vietnamese divisions were reported driving north, south and east of Phnom Penh today in an apparent move to threaten the Cambodian capital.

Bangkok analysts said the Vietnamese bypassed Kompong Cham, 45 miles northeast of Phnom Penh, and may have moved 19 or more miles west of the Mekong River to a point near the dead center of Cambodia.

They said the Vietnamese also opened up a major front in the extreme south of the country, and that three divisions were driving westward near the coast.

The analysts said the provincial capital of Takeo, 37 miles south of Phnom Penh, was taken by the Vietnamese who were now believed to have moved most of a 100,000-man force into Cambodia.

Vietnam's rebel Cambodian Communist proxies claimed they seized Svay Rieng in the Parrot's Beak area along Highway 1 leading to Phnom Penh from the Vietnamese border.

The insurgents of the month-old National United Front for National Salvation said six provinces of eastern Cambodia, about a quarter of the country, were now under their control.

However, Bangkok analysts believe the Vietnamese are doing the major fighting and leaving the mop-up and victory claims to the estimated 20,000 rebels who broke with the Communist regime in Phnom Penh.

Fog, drizzle follow cold to hassle Midlanders

Midlanders may have wished they had fog piercing yellow headlamps to switch on this morning as they drove slowly to work in a ground-hugging fog and light, freezing drizzle.

The fog, which cut visibility to a quarter of a mile, delayed some commercial flights at Midland Regional Airport this morning, but did not lead to any flight cancellations as of early today, said Wilson Banks, the city's aviation director.

On the other hand, said Banks, some flights "possibly" could be cancelled should the visibility and ceiling drop below limits for instrument-flight rules. To fly or not would be the pilot's decision, he said.

The drizzle was expected to dissipate today, while the temperature should rise from the low 30s into the mid-40s.

However, a weatherman at the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport forecast a 50 percent chance of more freezing drizzle late tonight and early Saturday.

The low tonight likely will be in the mid-20s. The high Saturday probably will be in the upper 30s.

Due to the fog and drizzle, the weather service this morning issued a travelers' advisory, which suggested extremely cautious driving on possibly slick roadways.

Likewise, the Texas Department of Public Safety issued a safe-driving advisory.

"They (the highways) look like they're only wet, but they're icy in spots," a DPS spokesman said.

The probability of light, freezing drizzle was 20 percent today.

Today's overnight low temperature was 29 degrees at midnight and at 1 a.m. The record low for a Dec. 5 is 2 degrees, set in 1971. Thursday's high was 49 degrees at 5 p.m. The record high for a Jan. 4 is 70 degrees, set in 1948.

Around the area, Andrews, Lamesa, Stanton, Rankin and Big Lake this morning sound a familiar refrain — light, freezing drizzle and fog. Big Spring reported an overcast. Odessa was foggy, and Crane was "just cold."

Sunrise today is to occur at 5:59 p.m. Sunset Saturday will be at 7:50 a.m.

China trade summit topic

SAINT FRANCOIS, Guadeloupe (AP) — The Caribbean summit of President Carter and three West European leaders focused today on an ambitious British plan for up to $2 billion in trade with China, probably including the sale of British jet fighters, conference sources said.

British Prime Minister James Callaghan, in outlining the Chinese trade picture to Carter and the others, emphasized the sale of power-generating and other industrial equipment to Peking, said the sources, who asked not to be identified.

But Callaghan also said he seeks a "balanced trade relationship" with China, a strong indication Britain will approve sale of 80 Harrier vertical take-off fighters in defiance of Soviet warnings that such sales would damage East-West relations.

Carter, Callaghan, French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing and West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt met this morning in a thatched-roof open pavilion overlooking the sea, underlining the informal nature of this Western summit. The agenda was expected to be dominated by China and Western security issues, including the future of Iran and its oil resources.

Callaghan, who faces national elections this year, seems ready to take the lead in arranging a major arms sale to China, a deal that could mean thousands of jobs and billions of dollars for the British economy.

The Carter administration, which opened diplomatic relations with China only this week, is taking a neutral stance toward such arms sales so long as the weapons are characterized as defensive in character. It has disavowed any intention to sell U.S. arms to Peking.

The British Harrier "jump jets" are effective against tanks and are capable of taking off from short runways.

Local IRS office will assist

By GUY SULLIVAN
R-T Staff Writer

Okay, Midland taxpayers, it's that time of year again.

Uncle Sam, in the form of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service, will be looking for receipts and other records to support claimed deductions on the returns of citizens, said Gene McCleskey, an IRS representative at the Midland office on Wall Street.

Income tax forms already have been mailed, and most residents should have received theirs.

People who have been divorced, married or changed addresses in the past year probably will have to pick up a form at the IRS office. McCleskey said all forms are mailed to Midlanders according to the way they filed last year.

Free service in filling out the required forms to file federal tax returns will be available at the IRS office here between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, said McCleskey.

"Quite a few people come by until the deadline for filing," he said. This year the deadline is April 16, he added.

Taxpayers are urged to bring their W-2 forms "and other records needed to process their returns," said McCleskey. However, he said, not everyone needs to or does come by the local office for the free assistance.

"A lot of people fill out their own IRS tax return forms themselves," he said. "Others go to what we call practitioners, who do it for a fee."

The IRS also offers help through its Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program which will be held this year Jan. 15-19.

The sessions are two- to three-day classes in basic income tax preparation for volunteers who are interested in assisting low-income, non-English speaking and elderly taxpayers who have difficulty in completing Federal Income Tax forms.

Further information about time and location of the sessions may be obtained by telephoning one of these agencies: Midland Community Action Agency, 682-2822; First Christian Church Senior Activities, 682-1451; El Calvario Church, 683-9402; Salvation Army, 683-3614; St. Andrews Presbyterian Mission, 682-2351; Casa de Amigos, 682-9701, and Garden Lane Center, 683-8041.

If an assistance-related form is found to be incorrect and the taxpayer owes the government money, he is responsible for paying that amount. McCleskey said it doesn't make any difference who completed the form — an IRS person, accountant or tax consultant.

"You're still responsible for your tax return."

There are peak periods at the IRS office when people ask for help, according to McCleskey. At the beginning of the new year, such as now, taxpayers tend to ask general questions, he said.

At the end of the month and in early February, which is when most people receive their statement of earnings (W-2 form) for the past year, IRS personnel see the largest number of Midlanders, said McCleskey.

"Usually these people will be getting some money back," McCleskey noted.

The final peak group comes in April with the deadline, and these people usually owe some money, according to the tax expert.

McCleskey said IRS audits "go on all the time" as a check to make sure all citizens pay their share of federal taxes.

He said the records, when used in filling out tax returns, will help tax-

Dallas policeman denies it was his mike

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas policeman says his microphone could not have transmitted the recording that prompted the House assassinations committee to conclude a conspiracy existed in the slaying of President Kennedy.

After listening to the recording Thursday, Officer H.B. McLain said it could not have come from the microphone on his motorcycle. He previously said the recording could have been transmitted by his microphone — but that was before he heard the tape.

The tape supplied new acoustical evidence that committee members said "establishes a high probability that two gunmen fired at President Kennedy."

The committee determined the tape recording was made during Kennedy's assassination in Dallas, and that the tape was recorded from a stuck transmitter on McLain's motorcycle.

"That wasn't my motorcycle," McLain said. "There would have been a siren on that Channel 1 all the way to the hospital. Everybody had their sirens on... you would have heard it on Channel 1."

Motorcycles assigned to the presidential motorcade were supposed to be transmitting on Channel 2. The recording was made at police headquarters of a transmission over Channel 1.

Photos of McLain's motorcycle parked at Dallas' Parkland Memorial Hospital show the radio was tuned to Channel 1. But McLain said the radio was probably switched by a passer-by.

Kennedy was taken to Parkland Memorial after the shooting 15 years ago in Dallas' Dealey Plaza.

McLain said he now remembers hearing then Dallas Police Chief Jesse Curry tell patrolmen to accompany the motorcade to the hospital. That order was only sent on Channel 2.

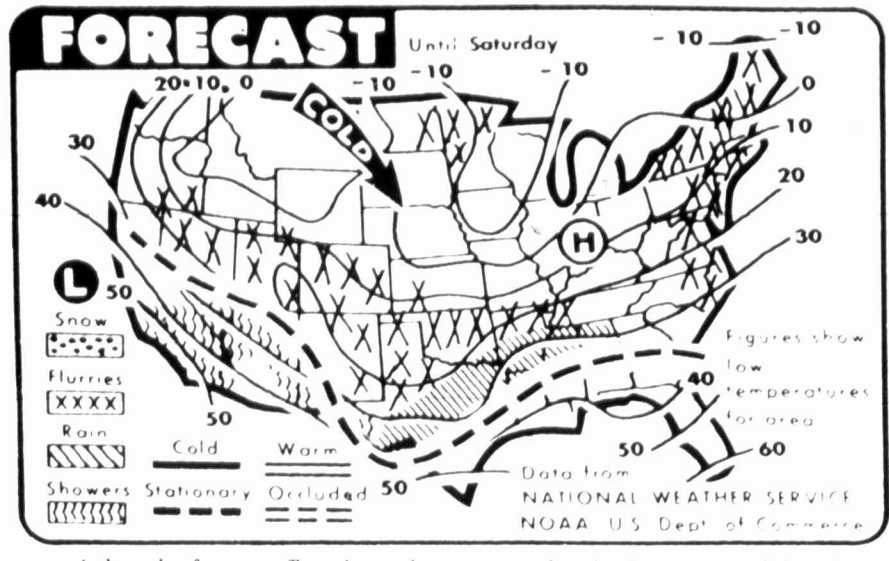

"If I had been on Channel 1, from the time he said, 'let's go to the hospital,' you would have had a siren screaming three times as loud as you hear on the tape," McLain said.

"There was about six or eight of 'em (sirens) that was going at the same time. ... They was just screaming," he said.

You'd best get those 1970s resolutions done

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

RIDGEFIELD, CONN. (AP) — Upon my soul, the new year is upon us already.

I must be up and doing or the decade will have fled without my having accomplished several long planned but oft delayed improvements.

Before 1979 slips into the great beyond of unrecalable yesteryears and the 1980s are ushered in, remind me to:

Swear off junk food forever.

Learn how to ski, although at this late date I shall probably have to settle for cross country skis or perhaps even snow shoes.

Get on with Henry James' "The Golden Bowl." I have been bogged down on page 14 for the past 14 years.

TAKE UP TAP dancing. It is too late to master the piano or the harpsichord but I must find something to amuse others with when called upon for a turn at a party.

Increase my regime of daily sit-ups to 25. It has been bogged down at 3 for the past decade.

Reread George Orwell's "Nineteen Eighty-Four" so I will be prepared for what Big Brother has in store for us a few years hence.

Swim the Hellespont, if I can recall where it is and why Byron wanted to swim it. O was it the Grand Canal that he favored for his morning refresher?

Learn how to change a typewriter ribbon. Office boys have become too touchy to bother since their job title has been changed to administrative assistants. With the arrival of the computer, they too lack the basic skill to cope with the fundamentals of this archaic writing device.

TAKE A COURSE IN celestial navigation so when friends invite me to tour the isles of Greece or the lesser Antilles on their yachts I can do more than just pop the champagne corks and swab the decks.

Cultivate some friends with yachts plying the Greek isles or the lesser Antilles so my efforts in celestial navigation will not be in vain.

Sit through Wagner's Ring cycle and an uncut version of Shaw's "Man and Superman." Failing that, read the complete speeches of Fidel Castro.

Shave off my mustache so I can retrieve my look of the '60s and carry it into the '80s.

Get a new suit, although there is every indication that the double-breasted-belt-in-the-back is making a comeback in some pretty trendy circles. The fashion pendulum always swings back if you can hang in there longer than the moths.

DUST OFF MY NOVEL, vaguely autobiographical, which has been bogged down at page 14 for the past 14 years and so far carries me to age 14 of a sluggish childhood much muddled with procrastination.

Widen the driveway. Take off 15 pounds so it will be necessary to get a new suit.

Invest in a few golf lessons to cure the deficiencies in my short game.

Do something about my long game or find some golf balls that float.

Practice 100 putts each morning on the living room rug.

Give up the ridiculous game of golf and take up jogging, which at least is cheaper.

Go see "Star Wars" now that the box office pressure is off.

Get on with Proust's "Remembrance of Things Past." He is still waiting for his mother to put him to bed, after 44 pages. Surely something else will happen: 50 million Frenchmen can't be wrong or what's a best seller all about?

GO BACK AND RE-TRANSLATE Virgil's Aeneid as Father Weinlich, our old Latin teacher, predicted we would someday do when caught up in the woes of adulthood. I wonder if anyone else in the class has fulfilled his prediction.

Master the small print in the racing form so I will know in advance why I lost.

Invest in a bird study book. With so many lovely feathered friends visiting our area and running up our wild bird seed bill, it is inexcusable not to be able to tell a piliated dingbat from Murvie's lesser sapsucker. Besides, the field glasses will come in handy when the bikini season resumes at the lake.

Enroll in that night course in automobile mechanics down at the high school. Today's bill from the garage is ridiculous. Anyone with a smattering of basic mechanics could have performed the same services once he learned where the thing-a-mabob to open the hood is located.

Memorize the signals flashed by the football referees. After sitting through the Gator, Liberty, Orange, Sugar, Cotton and Rose bowls on TV, plus all those professional playoffs until the eyeballs bulge like two pigskins, it's time I knew in an instant why the clipping call or illegal backfield motion penalty always goes against the team of my choice.

WANGLE AN INVITATION to lunch or dinner at the White House. What with the new Social Security gouge, the dollar's decline and ever climbing fuel oil prices, it is time I got something back off the government even if it's only a free meal.

Is it too late to begin pumping iron? They say weight lifting is a proven body builder and excellent all around conditioner, but one must begin cautiously. My wife suggests pumping a couple of garbage cans in the direction of the roadway, which is the sort of sarcasm serious attempts at self improvement always elicit around here.

Gov. Clements plans personal approach toward solons

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov.-elect Bill Clements thinks he's on the same wave length with most Texas legislators, as he was with Texas voters on Nov. 7.

"I think that most of the legislature understands that most of them were elected by the same people that elected me," Clements said in an interview with The Associated Press. "They feel a responsibility to be responsive to what I am talking about. There is not one set of voters out there who elected me and another set who elected the legislature. These are one and the same people."

"You would be amazed how many legislators have told me they fully understand that." Clements, who talks fast and moves fast, does not take office until Jan. 16 in what may be the most elaborate gubernatorial inauguration in several decades. But he has been busy since the general election votes were counted in a small 10th floor office of a downtown office building.

Day after day, and some nights, there has been a constant stream of visitors and job hunters to the small office where the 61-year-old self-made multi-millionaire sits behind a bare wooden desk.

Clements' plan for dealing with the predominantly Democratic Legislature is simple — follow the aggressive personal contact method that was so successful when he was Deputy Secretary of Defense in Washington.

"I have met with four groups that constituted more than 100 members of the Legislature," he says proudly. "In addition I have met with a large number of committee chairmen and people like that on a one-on-one basis. . . . I intend to develop these personal relationships with the legislators and be fully sensitive to their needs and their responsibilities to their own constituents. . . . I represent all the people of the state. I'm where this whole process comes together as being the highest elected official statewide and I intend for us to have a legislative program that is responsive to this state."

Clements will make an inaugural address on Jan. 16 and present his proposed state budget about Feb. 1. But there will be no big unloading of his entire program at one time.

"We've got several months before we end up with definite answers to these questions and I'm not going to cut off the process half way through or even before it starts," he said.

The big issues of the session are easy to point out.

"You have to put tax reduction No. 1 and No. 2 undoubtedly is the issue of improving the quality of our education. Between those two there is the school finance problem, a separate issue but a part of both."

Next, Clements says, are our relations with Mexico. He has plans to meet with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo, at a date to be announced later, and discuss three subjects that also are of interest to the Texas Legislature.

"Illegal aliens, that's a problem that's got to be solved," he said. "There's not any question whatsoever that Texas has a role to play in this. For us to be in default and abrogate our position is absurd."

Clements favors a return of some form of the old bracero program where Mexican workers would be admitted under temporary work permits. "President Lopez Portillo and I are in complete agreement on this," he said. "By Mexico and Texas agreeing to this puts enormous pressure on Washington and puts aside this nonsense of an amnesty program put forth by President Carter."

Another matter to be discussed would be the border drug traffic.

And third would be Mexico's new oil and gas reserves.

"It is absolutely necessary that we now commit to market some reasonable amount of Mexico's gas and oil for our energy requirements in the United States and allow us here in Texas to conserve our national resources in a technical and reasonable basis."

"Talking with Mexico about these three main things would set the tone for what the United States does at the national level," Clements declared.

Clements says he is not only optimistic of his relations with the legislature, but he is not afraid of the strongly entrenched Democrats either.

"I feel strongly that the people of Texas have spoken, they have said what they want in approving the tax relief amendment by 85 percent. And as governor I feel a strong responsibility to see that constitutional amendment is fully implemented, both to the letter and in spirit," he said.

"If the Legislature in its wisdom sees fit to do otherwise and violates the will of the people and does not carry it out to the letter and the spirit, I will veto it."

Illinois lawmakers to reduce pay hikes

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. James Thompson was undoubtedly aware of his constituents' demands that the Legislature consider rolling back its new pay raises, but it was those 32,000 little tea bags that finally got the job done.

After agonizing over the decision for several weeks, Thompson has ordered the state General Assembly into a special session today to consider reducing the $8,000-a-year raises approved Nov. 29.

He told lawmakers in a written address that public clamor over the raises was "the only reason" he ordered them back five days early.

Son's birth prompts one-man protest of Florida education

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The birth of his son prompted Marty Malone to run a full-page ad in Time magazine criticizing Florida's education system. The state's bureaucracy has recoiled like a student told to stand in the corner.

"Florida's educational system stinks," proclaimed the ad in a regional edition of the Jan. 8 issue.

The ad has a picture of 6-month-old Marty Jan Malone and a large headline reading: "THIS IS MY NEWBORN SON. I DEMAND FLORIDA GIVE HIM A DECENT EDUCATION."

Malone's wife, Juliette, said becoming a father inspired her husband, a Miami advertising agent, to write the ad.

"It came to his mind when the baby was born," she explained. "All of a sudden he saw a chance to make things better for our son."

"We should be ashamed of the high percentage of elementary and secondary children that failed miserably in the recent State Literacy Tests," the ad continued. "Many couldn't solve simple everyday situations. More couldn't figure easy arithmetic problems."

"We've got overcrowded classrooms. Double sessions. Too many unqualified teachers. And yet Florida spends less money on education than 49 of our 50 states."

"Grossly unfair," said state Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington Thursday. "It's regrettable that Time did not assume any responsibility for checking the accuracy of the advertisement."

"Florida is 49th in the amount of state and local tax money provided for all government, but that's not schools," Turlington said. "We're probably at 30 in the amount of per pupil expenditures."

Steve Hull, a spokesman for Gov. Bob Graham, said acting state Commerce Secretary James Cooney was told by a Time regional representative that a request for response space would have to be forwarded to Time corporate executives in New York.

Breakfasts should be made optional

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Mandatory school breakfast programs create hardships for some districts and should be made optional, Rep. Dan Kubiak said Thursday.

Kubiak, D-Rockdale, said in a statement he and Rep. John Sharp, D-Victoria, have introduced a bill to allow school districts to choose whether they want to take part in the breakfast program.

Gunman killed, officers hurt in shootout

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Two police officers were wounded, one critically, by a man who was shot in a hall of gunfire as he stepped from his flaming northside residence, Fort Worth Police said Thursday.

Samuel Taylor Stewart Jr., 42, died of multiple gunshot wounds in a gun battle that began, police said, when they responded to a call that Stewart was shooting at cars. Police said Stewart had a record of psychiatric disorders.

A John Peter Smith Hospital spokesman said officer J.C. Gual was listed in critical condition Thursday following surgery, and officer Don Stutts was treated and released for a gunshot wound in the mouth.

Fort Worth Police Chief A.J. Brown said Gual was hit by small caliber bullet fired through the front door. Stutts jumped off the front porch, but was wounded in a brief gunfight that erupted when back-up police units arrived.

Public not buying Temple books

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Written in days and rushed from the presses to a public usually thirsty for tragic details, two "instant" books on the Peoples Temple massacre have not been the blockbusters booksellers expected.

Heavy newspaper and TV coverage of the Nov. 18 tragedy and garish color pictures in news magazines managed to keep sales of "Guyana Massacre" and "Suicide Cult" mere-

Woman charged with two counts of prostitution

A 34-year-old Midland woman was in County Jail early today in lieu of $15,000 bond after she was charged with two counts of compelling prostitution, said authorities.

In addition, the woman was charged with enticing a minor in connection with a Howard County case, said officials.

Maria Heredia Olivares of the 900 block of North Lamesa Street was taken into custody about 1:30 p.m. Thursday in the vicinity of Main and Michigan Streets, according to reports.

Authorities said the Midland incidents, which allegedly took place during August 1978, involved minors.

Ms. Olivares appeared today before Peace Justice Robert H. Pine, who set bond in connection with the three charges, said officials.

ly "OK." "I'm afraid the books were a disappointment," said Sidney Seigel, paperback buyer for B. Dalton's Pickwick Books in Hollywood.

Nearly 1,800 copies of "Guyana Massacre," written by the staff of The Washington Post, already have been returned to the publisher. Only about 200 were sold at that store.

In San Francisco, where the Peoples Temple has its headquarters and the Rev. Jim Jones was once a city official, sales also were skimpy.

At another B. Dalton's, the city's biggest book store, buyer Nancy Phelps said only about 25 copies of each book had sold since they hit the racks Dec. 1 — 12 days after it shocked world learned of the horror at the Jonestown settlement in the Guyana jungle where more than 900 men, women and children died.

"It's not exactly a stocking stuffer," admitted Stuart Applebaum, publicity manager for Bantam Books, which published "Suicide Cult."

The book was written by San Francisco Chronicle reporters Marshall Kilduff and Ron Javers, who was wounded when cult members ambushed and killed U.S. Rep. Leo Ryan, D-Calif., three American newsmen and a Temple defector at a Guyana airstrip.

Bantam's 64th "instant book" had only average sales, he said, adding, "We're neither disappointed nor euphoric."

Both books have been criticized by some as commercializing tragedy and turning a profit off death and dementia.

William Dickinson Jr., head of The Washington Post-Writers Group, said if a planned TV movie is ever made, "Guyana Massacre" could be worth "in excess of $100,000 for the Post and its writers."

He conceded some Post reporters questioned the propriety of the book. "But the fact is people not only want to publish this, but people want to read it, and nobody has to buy the book," he said.

"I don't believe you'd question the right of someone publishing this account any more than Newsweek putting the Guyana massacre on its cover in color."

Kilduff, who has written about Jones and the Temple for two years, said he "snapped at the opportunity" to do the book.

"I was dying to get in on the story. I should have gone," he said, referring to his city editor's decision to send Javers to Guyana instead because Kilduff was so unpopular with the cult.

"You can make an industry off this. ... I've gotten offers to do lectures, movies, everything including T-shirts almost," Kilduff said. "But I'm not going to do any of that. This (writing) is what I do best and feel best at doing."

Four days after the massacre, teams of Post and Chronicle writers and researchers were at work — the Chronicle's in a windowless newspaper office, the Post's in a two-bedroom hotel suite across the street from the paper.

Post reporter Charles Krause, who grudgingly went to Guyana on the Peoples Temple assignment that he thought was "kooky," flew back to Washington to work on the book. The wounded Javers dictated his recollections onto a cassette tape that was flown to San Francisco and transcribed overnight for inclusion in the Chronicle book.

Three children die in fire

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Three children aged 6 months to 6 years were overcome by smoke as they huddled in a closet, trying to escape a fire in their first-floor tenement apartment, fire officials said.

The children were rescued by firefighters but were pronounced dead at St. Joseph's Hospital. They were identified as Carleton Fisher, 6 months, Christina, 3, and Shonne, 6.

Fire Chief James Malloy said the youngsters' mother was across the street when the blaze broke out about 10:30 p.m. Thursday.

'I forgot to tell you — no seat belt'

Persian Gulf threat

Only a few years ago, when the world was much smaller, newspaper editors, particularly editorial writers, in convention sessions would warn each other against Afghanistanism; which is to say pointing with alarm at distant problems while overlooking the thorny ones close at hand.

Now, however, little Afghanistan has been brought as close to an American as his car's gasoline tank, due to the geopolitics of the nation's economic life's blood — oil.

It already is late, but perhaps not too late for the American people and their leaders to wake up and react to the catastrophe the Soviet Union is contriving for the Free World in the Persian Gulf. The stakes are incredibly high — the future of mankind.

The Soviet Union, emboldened by unchallenged Communist successes in Angola, Mozambique and especially Ethiopia, has stepped up its expansionism to gain control of the Near Eastern oil countries by the early 1980s.

Because Japan and Western Europe are absolutely dependent on oil from the Persian Gulf area, Soviet control there would force an unprecedented Free World dependence on Moscow. The United States then would be crippled and isolated. Those nations submitting to Moscow could receive oil at cut-rate prices, those keeping U.S. links could pay dearly or be cut off altogether.

The Russians already are well along in making this dream a terrifying reality.

Afghanistan was forced into the Soviet Union's orbit last April. When Afghan President Mohammed Daoud, who was pro-Russian, became alarmed by the growing power of local Communists and began rounding them up, he was overthrown in a quick coup and replaced by Prime Minister Nour Mohammad Taraki, a strident Marxist who is completely subservient to Moscow. The coup was assured by an air force attack on the presidential palace made, it is believed, by Russian pilots.

More than 2,000 Soviet advisers now control Afghanistan's ministries and military.

Then in June, an almost-identical fate overtook South

Yemen, which commands the main oil shipping lanes from the Persian Gulf to the Suez Canal. When its pro-Russian president, Salim Ruba'i Ali, sought to expand economic opportunities with Saudi Arabia and the United States, he was overthrown by Moscow-controlled Communists. The coup was sealed by bombing and strafing missions on the presidential palace, which were carried out by Russian pilots, according to reliable intelligence reports. South Yemen now is completely controlled by Moscow through military and advisory personnel from Cuba and East Germany, as well as by its own forces.

With Soviet governments already in Oman and Iraq, South Yemen tightens Russia's envelopment of Saudi Arabia.

Following the Afghan coup, Iran, the keystone of the Persian Gulf shore line, found itself even more exposed to Soviet subversion than Saudi Arabia; it is surrounded on three sides by Russia and two pro-Soviet neighbors. The widespread disorders against the Iranian government, in which the substantial Communist network has been actively engaged, are a grim fulfillment of Iranian and Pakistani fears that Soviet southward pressure would increase from a Sovietized Afghanistan.

If Iran goes, the entire Persian Gulf and all of its oil may go also; Kuwait, Qatar, Bahrain, the United Arab Emirates and Saudi Arabia as well.

Meanwhile, the Carter administration turned the other cheek when Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev issued a tough warning to the United States against intervening to help the Iranian government. Since then, some steps have been taken to strengthen the U.S. position.

The lack of U.S. reaction to the steady Soviet encroachment upon the Persian Gulf is interpreted by Moscow as a failure of American will. This perception, as much as the winner-take-all stakes, encourages the Russians to be bold. Their boldness and the U.S. complacency suggest the makings of a shattering disaster for the industrialized democracies.

INSIDE REPORT:

Bill Clements providing foretaste of things to come

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

Evans Novak

AUSTIN, Texas — In a cramped, rented office on the 10th floor of a downtown Austin building, the first Republican governor of Texas since Civil War Reconstruction is beginning his attempt not only to transform the face of this state's politics but also to change the national picture.

Gov.-elect William Clements — compact, combative oil multi-millionaire — in long hours at the transition office is providing a foretaste of life at the state capitol after his inauguration Jan. 16: cajoling and haranguing politicians to back his program of reduced taxes and slimmed-down government.

His aim is no less audacious or improbable than his startling announcement for governor a year ago. The Texas governorship is constitutionally one of the nation's weakest, purposely made so after the Civil War to pit legislative power against the Northern carpetbaggers. Adding to structural inferiority, Clements is a Republican interloper facing an overwhelmingly Democratic legislature controlling the levers of power.

The stakes are immense. Clements' performance will determine whether his narrow upset in November was an aberration or whether banking, insurance and other Texas business interests will now abandon the state Democratic party. It incidentally will decide whether Clements, a former deputy secretary of defense, actually becomes the national Republican mover and shaker he wants to be.

Specifically, Clements is dead serious about enacting a program based on his campaign promises: a $1 billion tax cut spread over two years; elimination of 25,000 out of 165,000 state jobs over four years; a constitutional amendment providing for legislation by ballot initiatives.

The thrust of his program imparts entrenched prerogatives of the legislature. Although the tax cut is alluring to many legislators (including House speaker Billy Clayton), it has a determined Democratic critic in Lt. Gov. William Hobby. Holding an office that constitutionally rivals the governor's in power, ex-Houston newspaper executive Hobby in six years as lieutenant governor has gained a reputation as a leading and respected student of state government.

Hobby has noted that nobody even reads a governor's budget, a reflection of legislative dominance in Texas. But to assume that Clements' failure is, therefore, preordained is to underestimate the blunt, hot-tempered Dallas business tycoon about to take office. For one thing, Clements has moved quickly to blur partisanship. Millionaire rancher Tobin Armstrong of Armstrong, Tex. (husband of Anne Armstrong, former ambassador to London), was on the telephone to non-liberal Democrats within minutes of his appointment as Clements' unpaid talent scout. Clements, who formally became a Republican in 1973, has told the Reaganite state Republican executive committee he plans to name Democrats, independents, blacks, brown and women to his administration.

Moreover, Clements will be the first governor of Texas since John B. Connally a decade ago who is articulate and dynamic. While lacking statutory power to cut the state payroll, he intends to use his 4,000 state appointments over the next four years to that end. For department heads who balk, he poses the ordeal of a state audit.

On tax and spending questions, Clements sees the people as his biggest allies. Regarding Hobby's opposition, Clements told us, "He's on the wrong side of these issues" — a view privately shared by some of the lieutenant governor's worried friends. "Bill will end up flexible on this," Clements forecast.

A replica of California's Proposition 13 debate is in store. Hobby sees a surplus of only $900 million, with tax-cutters required to slash highway and school funds; Clements sees a $1.2 billion surplus after his $1 billion tax cut. As for nobody reading the governor's budget, Clements balled his hands into fists and told us: "They may not read it now or next month. But before we are through, they are going to read it."

The impact of this new star in Texas will be felt in Washington. President Carter could not have carried Texas in 1976 without all-out support from a Democratic governor, and will therefore be hard pressed to repeat in 1980. But beyond this obvious problem, Bill Clements seems to have taken on the political destruction of Jimmy Carter as his holy mission ("I am dedicated to the proposition that Mr. Carter is bad for Texas").

As governor-elect, Clements has blasted Carter's China policy and other national security stands as "inimical to the people of Texas," adding to us: "And I damn sure am going to keep talking about it." Clearly, the president has a vital interest in the outcome of the absorbing political drama about to unfold in this city.

CHARLEY REESE:

Nation's isolation now is considered hazardous

By CHARLEY REESE
Sun Belt Syndicate

Charley Reese

ORLANDO, Fla. — The best way to get a fresh look at your own country is to leave it. The month I spent in the Middle East taught me more about America than it did about the Middle East.

What struck me most forcefully is our isolation. We are a long way from Europe, Africa and Asia. Culturally, we are a long way from even Latin America.

The isolation used to be a good thing. Now I think it's a danger. The oceans don't protect us from military attack anymore. The rocket wizards saw to that, but the oceans do keep us from seeing the world as it really is.

The most obvious example of our mental isolation is our refusal to teach our children a second language. It's as common as bread around the world for children to learn a second language — except in the U.S.

Generally, thanks to our educational bureaucracy, we know a lot less about the rest of the world than the rest of the world knows about us.

I wrote speeches for a congressional candidate once who had been a television newscaster for 10 years. He didn't know which hemisphere

Vietnam was in, much less anything about the budget the other day and the stupidity of his statements was appalling. What he said was that if the federal budget were to be cut, then it was only fair to cut defense by the same percentage we cut everything else.

I heard Sen. Ed Muskie talking about the budget the other day and the stupidity of his statements was appalling. What he said was that if the federal budget were to be cut, then it was only fair to cut defense by the same percentage we cut everything else.

Only an American senator would make such a childish statement based on the obviously false premise that every function of the federal government has an identical priority.

That's part of our isolation, too. Our country is so vast, our economy so prosperous, our government so benign that it is very difficult for us to understand the degree of poverty and brutality, the extent of hatred and tyranny that exists in such abundance off our shores.

I suppose that's why we produce such naive leaders. For example, our State Department experts refer to Saudi Arabia as a "moderate" Arab country. In Saudi Arabia, they chop off people's heads and hands in the public square, treat women like chattel and still have human slavery. I would hate to see a country the State Department considers extreme.

Another mistake we make because of our isolation is to see the world as a mirror image of ourselves. We tend to think, for example, that people who are not free want to be free. The fact is that freedom, as we define it, is a unique, Anglo-Saxon concept that in most parts of the world is neither understood nor desired.

Sometimes we confuse ourselves because we think that a nationalist is a nationalist in the same sense that Thomas Jefferson was. Actually, a nationalist can be a fascist, a communist or his own particular brand of dictator and most in the world today are just that.

When these characters talk about freedom, they are talking about freedom from outside interference as they establish their own dictatorships. Self government and political rights as we know them are the farthest things from their thoughts.

Another aspect of this mirror image thinking is the assumption that other people are just as pragmatic and materialistic as we are. It's hard for most Americans to understand that someone who is given a choice between material prosperity and war would choose war for such an intangible value as saving face. Yet people do make such choices all the time.

There is no question that if the Arabs accepted Israel and made peace the whole area would prosper dramatically. Yet they have chosen war for 30 years.

On the other hand, the Israelis will not give up Jerusalem, as one of Carter's lackeys stupidly assured the Arabs, even if they have to start World War III. On the subject of Jerusalem, the Israelis are not pragmatists. Giving up Jerusalem is not even thinkable, let alone negotiable.

I wish every American could spend a month or two outside the country, not in the tourist traps, but in the back alleys and in private homes. You would come back with a better appreciation of the magnificent achievements of our nation as well as a better understanding of our dangers, the greatest of which is the poor quality of our leadership.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Ugly incident at polling place

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Joesef deKovaes still remembers the day in 1956 when Russian soldiers invaded his home during the Hungarian uprising and gunned down his father and brother for failing to obey an order.

DeKovaes is now a 38-year-old architect in Williamstown, N.J., but memories of his boyhood nightmare flooded back last Nov. 7 when he and his wife were twice driven away from the polling place in the little Monroe township community.

Running an admittedly hopeless campaign for mayor as an independent, deKovaes showed up to vote and was confronted by the incumbent mayor, John Ruby, and three councilmen running with Ruby on the Democratic ticket.

"You can't vote here," one of the group shouted at deKovaes. "Go back where you come from. You're not a bona fide resident."

The Hungarian refugee, who is a naturalized citizen and a registered voter, was then ordered out of the polling place by a pollwatcher — a councilman's son who holds a $10,000-a-year job with the township road department.

DeKovaes and his wife conferred with the county election board commissioner in Woodbury, returned to the polling place and were again turned away.

Late in the day, deKovaes succeeded in getting a court order from a county judge and, accompanied by the election commissioner, returned once more. This time he was allowed to cast his ballot.

DeKovaes ran third in the mayoral race, but at least had the satisfaction of seeing some 600 votes in his column.

The incredible incidents at the polling place weren't the only harassment that deKovaes encountered during his quixotic quest for elective office. He told us his campaign posters were systematically ripped off telephone poles, and placards on the lawns of private homes were destroyed by cherry bombs. He was threatened with prosecution for littering if he didn't take down his campaign signs, and the family dog was shot by a bow-and-arrow inside an eight-foot fence that surrounds his home.

Why did he persevere in his doomed campaign? "Our country is great and I love her," the refugee from communism told our associate Sam Fog. "I felt someone should open the minds of the people in the community to build a better government."

DRUG UPDATE: The federal government has backed down on charges that five members of a quasi-religious sect, the Ethiopian Zion Coptic Church, tried to ram a Coast Guard cutter during a high-seas chase off Florida last summer.

We reported earlier, on the basis of confidential files of the Drug Enforcement Agency, that the Coast Guard was able to flag down the church-owned 55-foot boat, White Cloud, only after a three-hour pursuit.

But the government could not prove its case and the charges were dropped. The assistant U.S. attorney noted, however, that four of the five crew members were indicted on state charges of marijuana possession, and three of them were found guilty in Citrus County, Fla.

HEADLINES AND FOOTNOTES: Some enterprising Mexicans operate a thriving business selling fraudulent documents to their fellow citizens who wish to enter the United States. The hucksters have become so brazen, say intelligence reports, that they are openly plying their trade in public parks. Many Mexicans, says one confidential document, "have been observed in (the) park awaiting their turn to negotiate with (the) vendors."

According to intelligence reports, several U.S. motorcycle gangs are trying to move in on their Canadian counterparts. The Hells Angels and the Outlaws, says one report, are making a concerted effort to take over Canadian motorcycle gangs.

In a related story, Canadian police agencies have informed their U.S. colleagues that Canadian criminals are fleeing into this country at an increasing rate. The crooks cross at small, isolated ports of entry.

DIPLOMATIC PIPELINE: Animosity toward Israel is boiling inside the White House. Aides refer to the Israelis privately as "stubborn" and "inflexible," but call the Egyptians "positive" and "constructive." The Israelis have returned the sentiment. They now refer to Jimmy Carter as the best president Egypt ever had. Soviet diplomats seem to have China uppermost in their minds.

In private conversations, they have warned American authorities not to trust Peking. Intelligence reports warn that Taiwan leaders reacted to the severance of U.S. relations by threatening privately to seek an alliance with the Soviet Union. They pointed out that President Chiang Ching-kuo once studied in Russia.

GASOHOL UPDATE: It appears that some American farmers are abandoning food crops in favor of those that will produce energy.

In Missouri, militant farmers are planning a $30-million distillation plant that will turn their crops into alcohol. The high-proof brew will then be sold to oil marketers for use in a premium motor fuel blend called "gasohol." Another still is planned by farmers in Sumter County, Ga., President Carter's home county.

THE BIBLE CAN YOU QUOTE IT?

By LAVINA ROSS FOWLER AND ELIZABETH ROSS WIERSEMA

1. It seems that mistakes come along at the times we are trying to do everything just right, while some "devil-may-care" fellow has every thing running smoothly for him. Then it's time not to take one's self too seriously, nor expect too much from others. Remember the "note." What does it suggest? Matthew 7
2. What mistake of Mary Magdalene's turned out to be a glorious one? John 20:1-2
3. In what way was Jacob mistaken about his bride? Genesis 29:20-25
4. What name is given to the fallen angel in Isaiah 14:12?
5. "Even a fool, when he holdeth his peace, is counted wise." Proverbs 17:28
6. "Four correct...excellent. Three correct...good."

Beauticians have high-risk job

Dear Dr. Solomon: Are there occupational hazards for women as well as for men? What about beauticians, who constantly use all those hair sprays and dyes?—Frances

Dear Frances: There is evidence that beauticians have a relative high-risk occupation. A study at the University of Southern California School of Medicine, which compared various occupational groups of women, noted an approximately two-fold risk of lung cancer among beauticians.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My father was just told he has angina pectoris. What can you tell me about it and how does one live with it?—Concerned Son

Dear Concerned Son: Angina pectoris is an uncomfortable sensation of pressure or tightness in the center of the chest. The patient may complain of a feeling of oppression "as if someone were pressing on the front of my chest with his hand." The discomfort often spreads on the left shoulder, arm or hand, where it may be felt as a sensation of numbness. As a rule, it is relieved in a short time by rest or by nitroglycerine tablets.

Anginal discomfort is a sign that the heart is not getting enough oxygen through its blood supply. It is usually due to the fact that some of the coronary arteries have become so narrowed by atherosclerosis that they do not let enough blood through to supply the demands of the heart muscle.

Effort or excitement or digesting a heavy meal make extra demands on the heart muscle. That is why when the coronary arteries are narrowed, extra effort may bring on anginal symptoms. Sometimes anginal pains occur in persons who have recovered from a heart attack. Sometimes they occur in people who never had a heart attack and who may never have one. Very often chest pain may be due to other causes, but it should always be reported to a physician.

The same process of collateral circulation that increases the blood supply to the heart muscle after a heart attack can also come to the aid of the patient with anginal pectoris. Given time, some branches of the coronary arteries may enlarge and new branches open to deliver enough blood to the heart muscle to enable the individual to carry on his usual activities. That is why most persons can be comfortable and lead productive lives even though they must cope with angina pectoris.

Each case is individual and only the patient's own doctor can determine the course he should follow and the medicine he should take. Regulating habits of life is important in controlling anginal attacks. Physician and patient must work out a program together. As a rule, patients who have had angina pectoris should avoid overexertion, rushing, worrying, intense cold, and overweight. They are advised to eat four meals daily rather than three heavy meals, and should rest twenty minutes or so after eating. They may also be advised to stop smoking.

Certain drugs are helpful too. The physician almost always prescribes nitroglycerine tablets. The patient is told to let a tablet dissolve under the tongue in order to relieve the pain. Often, if he expects to be in a difficult or exciting situation, the patient is told to take a tablet beforehand in order to avoid an attack of anginal pain.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Is there a cure for sickle cell anemia?—Mr. P. N.

Dear Mr. P. N.: At present, no. (If you have a medical problem, see your doctor. If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.)

China finally coming out of 'Puritanical' era

By JOHN RODERICK

PEKING (AP)—Love is blossoming in the world's most populous country again after years in the official deep freeze.

In wallposters, plays, books, newspapers, radio and television programs, films and magazine articles, the Chinese are being liberated from a kind of Puritanism that was consistent with traditions dating back to Confucianism.

In hotels and restaurants, waiters stop dead before television sets when Gina Lollobrigida, cleavage exposed, does a sensuous, if slightly dated, dance, and Anthony Quinn grimaces under the whip in The Hunchback of Notre Dame.

It's the first movie from the West to be shown here in more than 12 years. The coming attraction is that consummate disappointed lover, Charlie Chaplin.

A wallposter appeared here Wednesday demanding the "liberation of sex" and criticizing the policy of "delayed marriage and delayed love" as a "cruel crime that destroys young hearts and bodies." Kyodo news service said in Tokyo.

Kyodo said an old Peking resident shook his head in disapproval of the poster on Peking's "Democracy Wall," but young people scribbled supportive graffiti on it.

China's new view of love began to unfold last July when the newspaper People's Daily published a news story called "Two Minds With the Same Ideals."

It was a dramatic tale of two workers in a parts factory whose love was resisted by the boy's mother and complicated by the fear he had cancer. All ended happily. The couple is married and has a child.

A while later, a short love story first published in a literary magazine drew millions of listeners when it was serialized on radio. It also brought an outpouring of letters.

A postal worker wrote that as a child he read stories showing love was "something noble" only to learn later it was "something vulgar." He said the story showed him "what real love is."

A soldier wrote that "old customs must be abolished and decadent views about love and marriage uprooted."

"A few years ago love seemed to me something vulgar, a petty bourgeois sentiment," said Wang Min, a weather bureau official in earthquake-stricken Tangshan. "The proletariat did not harbor such ideas, I thought."

He said he fell in love once and didn't dare admit it to himself.

But now he said his eyes have been opened and he finds love "an important part of the life of proletarian revolutionaries."

Search continues for missing National Guard pilot in Gulf

HOUSTON (AP)—The search continued today for a Texas Air National Guard pilot missing since Wednesday after he bailed out of his F-101 jet before it slammed into the Gulf of Mexico 35 miles southeast of Galveston.

Searchers did find the raft and survival equipment of Capt. James L. Woods of Houston Thursday morning, however.

The aircraft's navigator and weapon system officer, Capt. Stuart

Crockett, ejected safely and was rescued by a Coast Guard helicopter 90 minutes later.

The plane was flying a routine training mission over the coast with two other aircraft when the accident occurred, said officials at Ellington Air Force Base. The jets were part of the 147th Fighter Interceptor Group of the Texas Air National Guard.

Investigators are looking into the cause of the crash, officials said.

Man finds skeleton in sister's home

VIRDEN, Ill. (AP)—Skeletal remains of a 78-year-old woman dead nearly a year, her skull resting on a pillow, have been found in a home shared by a daughter who continued living with the remains, authorities said Thursday.

The body of Mary Dolores Bednarcik was discovered here last Saturday at the home she had shared with Dolores Cox, her 56-year-old daughter, said Conrad Dawson, Macoupin County coroner.

Dawson said Mrs. Bednarcik probably died last February. Her daughter did not report the death and continued to live in the house, he said.

Mrs. Cox was taken to the psychiatric ward at St. John's Hospital in Springfield by her son, Gary Cox, of Pennsylvania, following discovery of her mother's body, said Dawson.

Cox found the body when he went to his mother's home after she made references to his grandmother by telephone, the coroner said.

He found the skeleton on the floor next to a bed in a back room with the skull propped on a pillow, Dawson said.

Moody Blues slipping back into limelight

By YARDENA ARAR

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After spending five years finding out that their whole is greater than the sum of their individual parts, the Moody Blues have slipped quietly back into successful collectivity.

Notice the careful avoidance of the word "comeback." The comeback in pop music is almost as commonplace as smog in Los Angeles, and arouses about as much enthusiasm.

Besides, it's almost ridiculous to talk about comebacks when you're dealing with a band like the Moodies. Of course, diehard Moody Blues fans (the group used to be referred to as a cult band but the word cult is also in ill repute these days) noticed that the concerts and flow of platinum albums that began in 1965 stopped in 1973 with the release of "Seventh Sojourn," cut a year earlier.

But for many casual rock music listeners, the Moodies' disappearance didn't register. Their classics of the late '60s and early '70s — "Nights in White Satin" and "Tuesday Afternoon" for example — remained staples on most rock stations. Their albums sold at a greater clip in their absence than in their public presence — some 30 million copies to date.

The illusion of their presence was never shattered by any formal announcement they were splitting up. They preferred — and still do — to talk in terms of rests, personal housecleaning and the like.

But while the Moody Blues remained fondly enshrined in the public mind, guitarist Justin Hayward, bass player John Lodge, flutist Ray Thomas, keyboard player Mike Pinder and drummer Graeme Edge were just another bunch of struggling solo artists — not hugely successful ones, either.

It's hard to tell what would have happened had even one of them made a huge breakthrough. In any case, they decided to go back to the studio as a group in September 1977.

The result — "Octave" — was clearly a welcome shot in the arm. It was certified gold, meaning sales of 500,000, 10 days after its release last summer and joined the Moodies' earlier efforts in million-sales country in November.

So the Moody Blues are officially back — an attractive collection of fellows who have that quiet self-assurance that comes from years of stardom, but who are well aware of their good fortune in not only keeping their old friends, but also making a few new ones.

"We're very lucky to be able to come back on this level," says lead guitarist and vocalist Hayward, obviously gratified at the sellout houses that greeted the group during a recent 30-city swing across the United States.

"You know, we were lucky that we did split when we did. We each needed to do different things and put our own house in order, all of us. And I think if we'd have gone on another year, after '74, we'd have split up never to come back together again."

Hayward, a low key sort of chap who looks like a grown-up British choirboy and writes the Moodies' softer, more romantic ballads, probably enjoyed the most success of the bunch in the last five years.

His solo album "Songwriter," sold 500,000 copies and he also has something of a surprise hit single in "Forever Autumn," a cut from a recent version of H.G. Wells' "War of the Worlds" narrated by Richard Burton.

Now most aspiring artists would consider that a promising beginning, to say the least, and Hayward has no intention of abandoning his solo work. Nor, apparently, do his fellow Moodies.

"Everybody's going to do their own songs because they enjoy them," he says firmly. "I must say, the most pleasure I've ever gotten out of an album is with my own album, 'Songwriter.' That was the real me. And it will continue. There's room for both."

In fact, Hayward says, the group work has boosted individual sallies. "One's helped the other. It's very nice."

The Moody Blues slipped away from the music scene as a group in 1973 without making a formal announcement at the time of the split. After each member of the group tried to achieve an individual music name the realized their biggest success would be as a group, so they returned to the studio as a group in September 1977. Moody Blues members shown standing are John Lodge, Justin Hayward, Patrick Moraz and seated in front are Graeme Edge and Ray Thomas. (AP Laserphoto)

FCC continues to track down CB radio violators

By JOHN D. McCLAIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — CBers who operate their radios illegally and thus risk fines and loss of licenses and equipment also imperil their chances of getting amateur radio licenses.

The Federal Communications Commission continues to track down CB operators who imitate ham operators by using more than the 4 watts of power permitted for CB use, transmitting on non-CB frequencies and farther than the 150-mile limit.

Amateur radio operators, depending on the type of license they have, are permitted up to 1,000 watts of power and may talk literally around the world on their allocated frequencies.

But any illegal imitation of these activities could have dire effects on subsequent attempts to achieve the real thing.

Take the case of a Baltimore CBer who recently was fined $100 in U.S. District Court after pleading guilty to operating his rig with excessive power.

According to the plea agreement, the government agreed not to charge the CBer with 30 other violations and he in turn agreed to forfeit $900 in radio equipment.

An FCC administrative judge subsequently ruled the CBer's "past willful and repeated violations" of CB regulations made him unqualified to hold any FCC license and denied his application for a ham "ticket."

According to the judge's written decision, the CBer's story unfolds this way:

He became interested in CB radio in late 1974 and got his license early the following year. But, the decision says, he became discouraged with congested channels, modified his equipment and began transmitting outside of the CB frequencies.

Using as many as 60 watts of power, the CBer admitted communicating with stations as far away as the West Coast and Alaska, the decision says.

In fact, it adds, he considered himself more an amateur radio operator than a CBer and, in 1976, even studied to get his ham license.

But before he had the chance to take the ham exam, he was arrested and subsequently appeared in court.

Following his plea, he resumed his interest in amateur radio and early this year passed his novice exam.

But the judge wrote, the CBer's "promise of future compliance with the commission's amateur radio rules cannot erase the effects of his past willful and repeated violations of the commission's Citizens Band rules."

"It is concluded," the judge wrote, that the CBer "does not possess the requisite qualifications to remain a commission licensee ..."

Indian arms ban may be scrapped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government is finally scrapping its special restrictions on selling guns to American Indians.

Although the rule has not been used for many years, the Albuquerque, N.M., office of the Bureau of Indian Affairs recommended that it be dropped officially.

The bureau agreed and formally struck it from the regulations this week.

Network avoiding Christmas tops ratings

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS avoided the Christmas week reruns offered by the competition, and won the network's ratings race for the week ending Dec. 31 despite a strong showing at the top by ABC.

For CBS, it was one of the worst weeks of the season. The network's top-rated program, "Quincy, M.E.," was tied for 19th.

CBS avoided the bottom of the ratings, while ABC had three in the last five and NBC two. An "ABC News Closeup" on human rights was tied for 57th with "David Cassidy: Undercover" on NBC, and followed by "Hardy Boys Mysteries" on ABC, NBC's "Weekend," and ABC's "Fast Lane Blues."

CBS' rating for the week was 19.9, followed by ABC at 17.1 and NBC at 14.2. The networks say that means in an average prime time minute during the week, 19.9 percent of the homes in the country with TV were tuned to CBS.

Here are the week's top 10 programs: "Laverne and Shirley," with a rating of 30.3 representing 22.6 million homes, "Three's Company," 30.2 or 22.5 million, "Happy Days," 27.6 or 20.6 million, "Mork and Mindy," 27.4 or 20.4 million, and "Love Boat," 17.3 million, both CBS.

The next shows: ABC's "60 Minutes," 24.6 million, all ABC; "Taxi," and "Fantasy" or 18.3 million, and "One Day at a Time," 23.7 or 17.7 million, both CBS; "Alice" and "All in the Family," all CBS; "Barney Miller," 27.6 million, "M.A.S.H." and "Les Miserables," both 23.2 million, both CBS.

Students seeking flip tops

PITTSBURGH (AP) — It's like my mother telling me to clean up my room 273 times a day every day for 10 years, suggested one pupil at Sykesville Elementary School, where teachers are asking: how big is a million?

Pupils also are looking for the answer by trying to collect one million beverage can flip tops. They've amassed 350,000 of them since May, said Betty Bigney, who came up with the idea along with fellow instructor Darwin London to teach the concept of large numbers. She said they hope to beat an unofficial record set by the Laing Middle School in Algona, Iowa, where 1 million tabs were collected in 15 months.

Names in the news

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Is Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. planning another $1 billion tax cut for California? "Tune in next week," he says. In a televised interview, the Democratic governor hinted there may be new tax cuts in store when he makes his inaugural address Monday night.

Brown trimmed $1 billion from the state income tax last summer and promised further cuts if elected to a second, four-year term.

"We're not asking for more taxes. In fact, we may be even looking to see how we can eliminate a few," Brown said on Wednesday.

Asked if that meant he would cut taxes again, Brown replied, "We might just do that ... Tune in next week."

Senate President Pro Tem James Mills said Thursday that Brown put a tentative $1 billion price tag on the tax cuts in a briefing of Democratic lawmakers.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Elvis Presley was killed by a big heart — literally and figuratively, his private nurse says in a new book.

Marian Coker was the rock 'n' roll star's nurse and confidant during the final 2½ years of his life, and says she hopes to set the record about Presley straight.

"The coroner's report stated that Elvis died of a heart attack and that he had an enlarged heart," she said. "This was no surprise to me. Elvis had the biggest heart of anyone I've ever known."

Mrs. Coker, 52, says Presley did not abuse drugs and looked bloated in his later years due to a high-salt diet.

"In my opinion, he had one fatal illness — loneliness," she said.

The book, "I Called Him Babe: Elvis Presley's Nurse Remembers," will be released Monday, Jan. 8, to coincide with the 44th anniversary of Presley's birth.

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Jacob Javits says it would take more than one punch to knock him out of the political ring.

While the 71-year-old New York Republican says he hasn't made up his mind about a re-election bid, Javits says he wouldn't give up if he failed to win the Republican nomination in the primary.

"If I run, I'll run under some emblem other than the Republican emblem if someone else gets the nomination," Javits told the New York Daily News.

Rep. Jack Kemp, former quarterback for the Buffalo Bills, is courting support among New York Republican leaders for a senate bid in 1980, the last year of Javits' fourth term.

NEW YORK (AP) — Betty Ford cried for a whole day after she lost a breast to cancer, but the saddest day of her life, she says, was the day her husband became President.

Mrs. Ford discussed her mastectomy and the life of a first lady in an interview with NBC's Betty Rollins, author of "First You Cry," a book about Ms. Rollin's experience with breast cancer.

The full interview, one of a series of specials featuring Mrs. Ford, is to air today on NBC.

Mrs. Ford said she cried the fifth day after her breast was removed, but that she hasn't felt ugly as a result of the surgery.

"I think perhaps my family, my husband, made me feel so completely loved that there was no difference," she said. "... He never gave me any indication that it repulsed him, and he never has to this day."

Ms. Rollins asked the former first lady if she felt any joy when her husband was sworn in as president after Richard Nixon resigned.

"I think probably that was the unhappiest day of my life," she replied.

"... It was a terrible, tragic thing."

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Ex-mayor Joseph Alioto is back on the voting rolls in San Francisco amid speculation he may cast his next ballot for himself.

Alioto, 61, reportedly telephoned the registrar of voters Thursday to change his registration to an address where his daughter lives.

And the Oakland Tribune, quoting unidentified political advisers and family members, said in a copyright article that Alioto is ready to run for mayor next fall.

Alioto denied the report, the newspaper said, and Alioto's son said his father hasn't decided whether to challenge Dianne Feinstein, who became mayor last month after the assassination of Mayor George D. Moscone.

Alioto beat Ms. Feinstein by a 2-to-1 margin in 1971. He left the city last year after divorcing his wife of 36 years and has since remarried.

Rotary learns about African medical mission

Dr. and Mrs. John Adams were the speakers Thursday noon at the meeting of the Downtown Rotary Club in the Midland Hilton, describing their work as medical missionaries at Nairobi, Kenya, East Africa.

The program was arranged by Sam Grove and the speakers were introduced by Duke Jimerson.

Mrs. Adams, a graduate nurse, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Scharbauer of Midland. Dr. Adams, a native of Wichita Falls, practiced medicine at Seminole before going to the mission field 14 years ago. They returned to the States on leave last summer and are scheduled to go back to Africa in May.

Dr. Adams, in his remarks, said Kenya, a Third World country, gained its independence 16 years ago. The country, which has an independent government, is closely aligned with the Western World, the speaker said. He went on to say that Kenya has installed a new ruler since they left there in early August, and that a smooth transition of government is reported.

"Returning to West Texas after a 50-month absence is really an eye-opener," Dr. Adams said, "particularly in observing the fantastic changes and comparing them to the developing countries of Africa."

He said that most of his medical work is with the indigent people of Nairobi. He labeled the people as good folks with lots of good common sense, although short on education, funds, luxury and living standards.

Mrs. Adams, in her talk, told about the work which they do in the mission field and related numerous experiences encountered there.

She said they work in the only clinic in Nairobi's slum area which, itself, has a population of 95,000. Dr. Adams is the only physician on duty there and he sees from 40 to 150 patients a day, she explained.

Those receiving medical attention pay a small portion of the cost — the equivalent of 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. Volunteer help is used extensively.

Once a month Dr. and Mrs. Adams go out into the bush area for a day, as far as 150 miles from Nairobi, seeing and treating persons at various stops along the way.

Much of their work, Mrs. Adams said, is with hungry children, and their parents.

"This is one of the most exciting and most rewarding things we have ever done, just working with people who need help," Mrs. Adams concluded.

Their work in the mission field is sponsored by the Southern Baptist Church.

Cleveland workers remain on payroll

CLEVELAND (AP) — The 400 Cleveland workers due to be laid off today are still on the city payroll — at least temporarily.

Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Judge Richard Markus Thursday postponed the layoffs of 400 of Cleveland's 10,000 public employees, including 275 of the city's 1,875 police.

"I'm happy, but it might be short-lived," said William McNea, president of the Cleveland Police Patrolmen's Association, one of three unions which sought the court action.

Markus delayed the layoffs, intended as a cost-cutting measure for the financially troubled city, until noon Tuesday at the earliest. It was the second such postponement in as many weeks.

Last week, Mayor Dennis Kucinich canceled a plan to dismiss one out of every five city employees, including half the safety forces, when six local banks holding $14 million in defaulted municipal notes said they would not force the city to pay its debts immediately.

Cleveland, a city of 625,000 persons, became the first major U.S. city to default since the Depression when it could not make good on its debts in December.

Bankers have indicated they will await the outcome of a Feb. 27 vote on proposals to increase Cleveland's payroll tax by 50 percent and to sell the city's electric company.

The ruling gives the City Council a chance to act on Kucinich's proposal to sell city land to salvage the jobs. A council meeting is scheduled for Monday. Markus recessed hearings on the challenges to the layoffs until Tuesday morning.

Guard charged in $1.5 million theft

LAKEPORT, Mich. (AP) — A missing armored truck guard was arrested today in a Detroit suburb in the theft of more than $1.5 million in cash he was assigned to protect, state police said.

He would be arraigned in federal court on a charge of bank larceny, the FBI said. All of the missing money was recovered, except for $148 used to buy two suitcases in which to carry the cash, said FBI agent O. Franklin Lowie. Authorities earlier had said all the money was recovered.

The guard, Fred Dixon Jr., 28, of Pontiac, employed by Puroator Security Inc., vanished Thursday from an armored truck parked outside a Lakeport restaurant. Three bags of money also disappeared.

Livonia Police Sgt. Shirley Garrison said Dixon was arrested at 3:25 a.m. in Livonia after his attorney telephoned police saying the guard wanted to surrender. Dixon was raised in Livonia, police said.

A crumpled, handwritten, unsigned note reportedly asking for "time to get away" was found in the armored truck after the money and Dixon disappeared.

Social Security called institutionalized sexism

By JIM LUTHER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women's groups told a federal panel Thursday that Social Security will remain "institutionalized sexism at its worst" until income taxes are poured into the system and women are given pension credits for house work.

"Reform of the Social Security Act can be the cornerstone in reducing the dependency needs of women and according them full economic recognition," said Carmen Delgado Votaw, co-chairman of the National Advisory Commission for Women.

Eleanor Smeal, president of the National Organization for Women, noted that the median income of women over 65 is the lowest of any major group in the United States.

"That situation will continue, she indicated, as long as women are penalized for motherhood and the economic value of work in the home is ignored."

The women's representatives and dozens of other interest groups are voicing their complaints about Social Security to a 13-member advisory council, which will report to Congress later this year.

Most of the complaints Thursday came from representatives of government employees, who feel their pension rights would be diluted if Congress requires all government workers to pay into Social Security.

"The injustice that would be wreaked (by requiring universal coverage under Social Security) would be outrageous," said John A. McCart, executive director of the Public Employee Department of the AFL-CIO.

A dissent came from Robert Kalman of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees. "The current funding problems of state and local plans cannot be resolved unless Social Security is made the basic income-security program for all public employees and pensions and Social Security benefits are coordinated," he said.

In an effort to hold down the steady increase in Social Security taxes, Congress is considering a variety of proposals. One would delay the retirement age. Another would bring into Social Security about 6½ million government workers who are covered by different retirement plans.

Ms. Smeal, representing NOW, said reform would have to go much deeper. The government, she said, must abandon three long-standing ideas about Social Security: that benefits must be related directly to earnings, that a family must consist of a breadwinner and dependents, and that the payroll tax must be the sole financing source for Social Security.

By relating benefits to earnings, Ms. Smeal said, Social Security perpetuates sex discrimination that keeps women's pay below that of men.

Second, she said, women are losers under Social Security because no credit is given for housework, which one study values at $340 billion a year in the United States. A homemaker is recognized only for dependents' benefits, which are related to her husband's earnings.

"Failure to provide the homemaker with a Social Security account in her own right denigrates the important economic contribution of the homemaker role to family and to society," said Ms. Votaw.

Homemakers could be brought under Social Security by crediting each spouse with half the couple's total income, Mrs. Smeal said.

Study says hearing aids ineffective

Copley News Service

Studies indicate that 80 percent of the hearing aids being worn by "satisfied" users are ineffective.

The Hearing Aid Dispenser Examining Committee of the State Board of Medical Quality Assurance commissioned the tests in a first effort anywhere to establish minimum standards of hearing aid performance.

The 40-page report was published last August but only recently has been released.

Seventeen persons and 30 hearing aid assisted ears were tested (some wear aids in both ears). They ranged in age from 33 to 81. Hearing loss ranged from 10 to 20 decibels in some, to 90 in others.

Results differed in various areas tested. There was a high failure rate compared with the recommended gain in tests for 500 to 2,000 hertz units or cycles per second of sound and a less frequent failure rate in the 90-decibel tolerance tests.

But 80 percent of the ears tested, in general, failed to reach the minimum level that has been used for many years to determine hearing abilities. All of the patients were referred to the study of hearing aid dealers.

She also argued that at least one-third of the cost of Social Security should be financed through income taxes, which spread the burden more equitably among income groups than the payroll tax.

COLLEGE STATION—Best buys at Texas grocery markets this week include several fresh fruit and fresh vegetable items.

Also, scattered "specials" offer budget buys, says Gwendolyn Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

This week's price-quality trends are the following:

FRESH FRUITS—Apples are in excellent supply due to the vintage crop this fall and prices are moderate.

FRESH VEGETABLES—Yellow vegetables, including carrots, rutabagas and squash, wear attractive price tags.

Instant U.S. address with two words: 'I do'

By MARGERY CRAIG and HUGH GRAMBAU
Copley News Service

More than 100,000 Americans sought to bring foreign spouses into the United States in the last 12 months.
"True love?"
Probably.

But for some foreigners, the love of coming to the United States was greater than their affection for their American husbands and wives. They never consummated the marriages nor ever planned to live with their spouses.

The advantages they saw in living in this country led them to "hire" an American bride or groom. The cost ranged from a few hundred to a few thousand dollars. There may have been no charge at all. Sham marriages, those entered into solely for the purpose of evading U.S. immigration laws, are only a small percentage of the problems involving illegal immigration.

But they present special difficulties and frustrations for the Immigration and Naturalization Service and federal prosecutors, the agencies charged with enforcing the laws. They can at times present problems for the sham "bride" or "groom."

The bogus cases are hard to prove, hard to prosecute, hard to win. And, despite potentially stiff penalties of up to $10,000 and five years in prison, convictions often result in probationary sentences.

With limited manpower and resources, INS investigators and prosecutors consider fraudulent marriages something of a stepchild in the large family of immigration violations.

Although the numbers pale in significance to those involved in other forms of illegal immigration, the time and energy it takes to pursue one sham marriage may be the same as it takes to convict a "coyote" who smuggles 100 illegal aliens over the border each week.

As a result, frustrated officials have adopted the policy of taking only commercial cases to court, those where an arranger takes a fee for setting up a phony marriage.

"If he's done 10, he's probably done 1,000. And he's the one we go after hand and fist," said one top INS official.

Other cases are investigated by the INS, but many marriages where no profit to a third party is involved are handled administratively.

Sometimes the foreign spouse is allowed to return home voluntarily. Sometimes he (or she) is deported. In a few cases, the spouse is allowed to remain.

With hundreds of thousands of illegal aliens apprehended along the Mexican border last year, James J. O'Keefe of the INS is necessarily realistic in his assessment of the sham marriage problem.

"Let's face it," says O'Keefe. "You can only stretch so far. You can only work according to your priorities and right now our biggest problem is smuggling."

O'Keefe and his staff also realize that sham marriages are not popular with the U.S. Attorney's Office, which must decide whether to prosecute a case.

Pete Nunez, an assistant U.S. attorney, sums up the prosecution's problems this way:

"We've got guys who are working on massive white-collar crimes, corruption cases, multimillion-dollar narcotics cases. And the person in the next office may be working on a marriage fraud case. 'I mean, how do you balance this? It's just impossible."

"What has happened over the years is that you try to put a finger in each dike. You try to at least make a showing in every field so that you have at least a little bit of deterrence."

"It may be one-tenth of 1 percent, but you try not to say 'Yeah, we've given up' in any particular field."

Nationally in the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1978, the government received 102,772 petitions from Americans who wanted to bring foreign spouses into the United States.

Of this number, 4,430 were denied for a variety of reasons. Officials specifically identified 1,775 of the denials as sham marriage cases. A third party arranger was involved in 216 of the marriages.

Citizens of foreign countries who use sham marriages to enter the United States come from nearly every nation in the world, primarily for one reason: economics. Here they have opportunities unavailable in their homelands. Other factors include religious persecution, political and social instability, or the simple desire to join family members already in the United States.

Some are students who, having completed their studies, do not want to return home. Others are illegal immigrants already in the country who want to "legitimize" their status as residents.

The Americans who agree to enter into a fraudulent marriage may be motivated by money, friendship, adventure, or a combination of factors.

Some are professionals who advertise in off-beat magazines and college newspapers. Others are college friends or work associates who act out of sympathy.

In cases where an arranger is involved, some big "brokers" operate on a large scale — INS officials recall one Texas man who arranged more than 3,000 sham marriages — while others are small "mom and pop" operations involving only a few.

The complexity and the ingenuity of various sham marriages schemes is illustrated by some examples gleaned from various reports.

Stewardesses from a major airline, for instance, were recruited to marry Indians and Pakistanis.

And in one case, a woman became a virtual United Nations ambassador by marrying men of five different nationalities.

DEAR ABBY
Please fasten your earplugs

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR READERS: The following item appeared recently in my column:

DEAR ABBY: While flying from Los Angeles to Chicago recently, I was rudely awakened from a much-needed nap by a booming voice that came over the loudspeaker with: "This is your captain speaking. We are now flying over the Grand Canyon..."

Abby, this was not a charter flight carrying a load of sight-seeing hicks who had never flown before. I'm sure most of the passengers had already seen the Grand Canyon from 39,000 feet.

Be a friend to those of us who fly the friendly skies frequently and print this: It might help.—J. E. IN L. A.

DEAR J. E.: I also fly the friendly skies frequently—and concur. (Captain, oh, captain, are you listening?)

Ever since the above hit print, I have been deluged with reader reaction. For example:

DEAR ABBY: To assume that others should miss the opportunity of a lifetime because YOU have already seen the Grand Canyon at 39,000 feet is selfish and inconsiderate. If you and J. E. find it necessary to nap in the afternoon, you should get to bed earlier or see a doctor.—J. K. IN COUNCIL BLUFFS, IOWA

DEAR ABBY: If J. E. doesn't appreciate the captain's announcements, why doesn't he charter his own private jet and put a hood over his head?—BILL C. IN ELIZABETH, N. J.

DEAR ABBY: I am a private pilot and recently flew to Arizona on a commercial flight. This was my first flight west. The captain's voice, calling attention to points of interest, increased the pleasure of the flight immensely. I had a window seat, but there were three noses pressed against it. So, Abby, stick this in your boarding pass and enjoy your next flight.—E. C. IN COLUMBUS, OHIO

DEAR ABBY: I agree with you and J. E., reluctantly, that sleeping passengers should be allowed to sleep. However, you should not have allowed his arrogant, deprecating allusion to "sight-seeing hicks" to have passed—without reprimand.—BERNARD SCOTT, ERIE, PENN.

DEAR BERNARD: You're right. I apologize.
DEAR ABBY: Fares are now low enough so that many are flying for the first time. Those who want to sleep during a daytime flight should use earplugs. I slept soundly at 2 a.m. during a forced landing while the rest of the passengers prayed and sang hymns.—A. I. M. IN S. F.

DEAR ABBY: I love to hear the captain's voice come booming over the loudspeaker at any time of the day or night! It lets me know that he's up there, wide-awake and tending to business.—J. E. IN N.Y.C.

DEAR ABBY: As a flight attendant I am frequently asked how high are we, how fast are we going, and what is it that we just flew over. I can answer a lot of those questions, but the captain is the authority, and has been complimented by many passengers for his informative and witty comments.—BETTY FOR NORTH CENTRAL

DEAR ABBY: I agree, some captains are too verbose on the P.A., so after 30 years of flying, I delegate the public relations duties to the second officer; however, research indicates that too few announcements are made. The complaints come not from first-timers, but from the 100,000-milers.—CAPTAIN GEORGE F. WITH U. A. L.

DEAR ABBY: My personal thanks to every pilot who takes the time and trouble to speak to his passengers during the flight. I'm 26, and had my first flight last week. I was terribly frightened, but when the captain's voice came over the loudspeaker, it was so reassuring, I forgot my fear, calmed down immediately and enjoyed my flight.—SUSAN IN SUNLAND, CALIF.

Rare stamp cover has long history

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the world's most valuable stamp covers resulted from the "touch of class" added on the invitation to a fancy dress ball, according to Alain de Cadanet, here on a good will tour for the British Post Office.

The wife of Sir W. Maynard Gomm, governor of the tiny British island of Mauritius in the Indian Ocean, induced him to request an unusual decorative stamp for her invitations to the annual Governor's Ball scheduled for Sept. 30, 1847.

The aging local jeweler, de Cadanet relates, designed two copies of English penny and two-penny stamps on copper plates, and printed 500 of each with Mauritius on the right side and Post Office (instead of Post Paid) on the left.

Only one of the invitations apparently survived, said the BPO expert. Albert dHoward of London found the rare cover in a Bombay bazaar some 50 years later and paid 50 pounds (about $250) for it. A year later he sold it to a London dealer for about $8,000. In 1906 the Mauritius cover was purchased by an American named George Worthington for $11,000.

Exhibit on display for Barbie, friends doll fans

When this new girl moved into town twenty years ago, some mothers weren't too sure that they wanted their little daughters to play with her. She was 'too sophisticated' for her age, her clothes much 'too grown up.' But their little girls welcomed Barbie with overwhelming delight. Yes, the Barbie doll is now twenty years old, and mothers of all ages are collecting her, as well as those 'too grown up' clothes. If you are one of the legion of former Barbie Club members, a doll collector, or just interested in a modern toy phenomenon, Barbie and her friends are on display in the exhibit case of the Midland County Library. They are from the collections of Edna Sexton and Mary Lockhart, who are still looking for additions to their already large families of Barbie dolls. The history of Barbie is as much of a success story as the doll herself. Barbie was born in 1958, the brain child of Ruth Handler, who had observed that her own daughter, Barbie, rarely played with dolls of her own age type, but liked teen-age paper dolls with clothes and accessories which she could create in teen play situations. She designed an 11½ inch doll with a teen-age figure and a wardrobe of clothes, both suitable and pretty, for all types of imagined activities. A fashion doll, Barbie was then introduced at the New York Toy Show in 1959, but was almost overlooked by the male toy buyers who liked the Mattel toy company's new gun that fired rubber bullets. Mattel Toy Company was begun by Mrs. Handler and her husband with Harold Matson in 1945. They had made picture frames at first, but when Elliot Handler began to make doll furniture with the scraps of wood, the toy company emerged. By 1960, Barbie was such a success that it took them several years to catch up with their orders. Barbie was then given a doll boy-friend, Ken, named after the Handlers' son. From then on it was a Barbie world. She had her own magazine from 1961 to 1972 with fashions and play ideas. And at one time the Barbie Fan Club was the second largest girl's organization in the United States, the Girl Scouts being first. A 1974 survey showed that ninety percent of the girls in the country between the ages of 5 and 11 owned at least one Barbie doll. By 1977, over 92 million dolls had been sold, and it is estimated that 6,000,000 are sold annually. Barbie has fans all over the world from Alaska to Zanzibar. Mattel subsidiaries make dolls in Japan, Hong Kong, Taiwan, Great Britain, West Germany, Italy, Mexico, and Korea. Her clothes were first made in Japan. Each country designed some clothes and accessories that never did come to the United States market, and are eagerly sought by collectors. Barbie being a true fashion doll, her hair styles changed as well as her clothes. Her first long pony tail with bangs, available in either blonde or brunette became the bubble of the sixties. She has had a wardrobe of wigs in all colors. Twice as many blonde Barbies were made as brunettes in the beginning, but like their older sisters, little girls wanted Barbie to have varied hair shades. Even Ken, her boy friend follows the trends. A short burr cut painted on his head was replaced by a fuzz of a crew top, then to the eventual shoulder-length. A kit with sideburns and two interchangeable moustaches reflects the male fashions, too. A whole family of relations and friends have joined Barbie and Ken. In 1975, Skipper, the little sister, raised some eyebrows as did her older sister, when she was made so that she could change her shape into a more grown up figure like Barbie's. By 1970, Brad, a black boy doll had joined Christie and Julia, two earlier dolls. Barbie changed her construction as well as her styles as the years passed. Soon she could twist her waist, had moveable arms, legs, knees, neck, and her hands were eventually made so they could hold accessories. When her 'twist and turn' waistline was introduced, Mattel advertised that girls could trade their old Barbie in, plus $1.50, and get the more poseable doll. 1,250,000 dolls were traded in during the month of May, 1967 alone. In 1968, she could speak not only English, but also Spanish. Mrs. Handler's original premise of making a fashion doll with which little and big girls could create 'teen' activities provided an unending supply of idea-provoking accessories. Barbie's outfits were given names like "Pink Fantasy," "Sophisticated Lady," "Solo in the Spotlight," "Cinderella," and "The Arabian Knights," had a real stage on which performances could be given. She had a "Fashion Shop," a "Townhouse," a "Dream Kitchen and Dinette," a "Cafe," and many other settings. Traveling was easy to foreign countries or local locations in her "Classy Corvette," "Sun and Fun Buggy," "Country Camper," and even a horse named "Dancer." Barbie's unlimited world is chronicled in "The Collector's Encyclopedia of Barbie Dolls and Collectibles," by Sibyl DeWein and Joan Ashabraner, a book Mrs. Sexton and Mrs. Lockhart find invaluable with its pictures in color of all that is in Barbie's world. A final thought. What is Barbie's future? Will little 'liberated' girls be told that Barbie is too shallow in her world of fashion? Will she and Ken don unisex costumes and live in an undecorated spaceship? If so, it is hoped that Barbie packs a trunkful of her famous clothes, and the 'moon children' will learn about the 'earth lings' of Barbie's glorious reign. The library will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday and Saturdays.

Language, the English version at least, has never provided quite the right word or phrase for men and women living together in love and trust, a deficiency made more glaring by the '70s trend to make such partnerships without sanction of clergy. "Love" is a lovely word of course, and "marriage" carries both beauty and dignity to the ear. Certainly the fruits of love and marriage deserve better than to be called "husband" and "wife"; toneless words suggestive of farming and housecleaning. There must be a prettier word than wife for mine. In all our years together, I have not addressed her as wife, nor has it occurred to her to call me "husband." I hope that went out with David and Bathsheba. Since we've had children, we've taken to using "mom" and "dad," and are glad at last to have an endearing term. (She never cared for "honey" or "sweetie" or "bless her" — "darling," and so for years we had to get along with first names and little pats.) But to society, we are still husband and wife, though sometimes if I feel mischievous I will introduce her as my spouse, a word I think would have been better assigned to the sound of custard spilling. I suppose we are better off, in terms of identity, than the informal partnerships, who as yet have none and must grope if they choose to explain themselves. However flaccidly, wife still sums up the circumstances of a relationship in one word. A serious, intelligent friend of mine thinks relationships like hers, as stable and loving as any, sanctioned or otherwise, deserve the same sort of succinct identifier. Presently she favors "lover," as in: "I'd like you to meet my lover . . ." but she's not satisfied. It delivers a message about the relationship all right, but if wife is too dry, lover is too moist. It will go down smoothly in cafe society but using it at, say, a church social, might ask more aplomb than most can muster. Nor does it answer all the questions. People can be lovers and live on the opposite ends of town. Lovers also can be married, and not necessarily to each other. Technically, I could introduce my wife as my lover, if I dared.

Charlie Parkinson, the last of the Spoon River romantics, stands among the tombstones of Oak Hill Cemetery in Lewistown, Ill., the place Edgar Lee Masters calls The Hill in his "Spoon River Anthology." Masters wrote about real people and real happenings that shook up the townspeople. Charlie says things haven't changed much since then. (AP Laserphoto)

Take it from Spoon River Charlie; Things haven't changed much

By WAYNE SLATER

LEWISTOWN, Ill. (AP) — They've been living and dying for 60 years since the anthology, but take it from "Spoon River Charlie," things haven't changed much out here in the Heartland.

"If the truth were known, this town's changed not a damn bit," he says while drinking coffee at the drugstore. "It's the same here now as it was when Edgar Lee Masters wrote about it."

Charlie Parkinson, the last of the Spoon River romantics, looks out on Main Street where the characters from "Spoon River Anthology" used to drink and sing and fight and gossip and, eventually, lay down in death under the black loam up on The Hill. They still do.

"Life goes on here," says Parkinson, exuberant in his affirmation that, despite all the TV dinners and plastic Christmas trees and disco music, small town America somehow survives.

"The world changes, but human nature doesn't," says Parkinson. "Masters' Spoon River is still here, still the same, still with us."

Indeed, Take it from Charlie, there is something basic and immutable out here.

Charlie Parkinson is Lewistown city clerk, a round elf of a man with black mutton-chops, a keen sense of history and a pair of eyebrows that swing up and down like railroad gates.

Lewistown and nearby Petersburg were Edgar Lee Masters' boyhood homes, and they served as models for the anthology in which he wrote with bold precision and brutal honesty about what small-town America was really like — hypocrites, scoundrels, petty gossips and all.

It was a revelation — a smash in New York, a bomb back home.

"The anthology shook up the town," says Parkinson. "Keep in mind that the people he wrote about as characters were yet walking these streets. The town drunk was still here, the town villain was still at the bank, the prostitute — all still here."

Masters used fictitious names for his characters. Parkinson's Uncle Bill is called something else, but there wasn't a soul in town back in 1915 who didn't recognize William Parkinson, preaching free-silver and tax relief on the courthouse steps.

The same for the rest: the local banker who made millions from deceit, the newspaper editor who published lies in the name of community good, the Sunday school superintendent who admitted grudgingly from the grave that he was "a cog in the wheel of things as they were: of money, master and man, made white with the paint of Christian creed."

The Lewistown library banned it. Parents hid it from their children. For about 30 years, it was impossible to mention the anthology without incurring the ire of the merchants and plutocrats on Main Street.

"At the time, he did the town an injustice by what he did, but he did justice to his writing," says Parkinson. "The same things were happening everywhere in small towns all across America. But this was the first time somebody had written in a hard and honest way about it."

Literary critics say "Spoon River Anthology" was a precursor to Thornton Wilder's "Our Town" and "Under Milk Wood" by Dylan Thomas. Parkinson figures a better parallel is "Peyton Place."

Three generations have grown up along Spoon River since publication of the anthology, and the scandal of it has been largely forgotten with time. In fact, they celebrate it in the fall with a festival.

Wrong vaccine given to cat causes rabies

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — At least 20 persons face rabies shots because a veterinarian gave an incorrect vaccination to a house cat and induced a case of rabies in the animal, health officials said Thursday.

The Kansas City Health Department received word Wednesday from the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta confirming that the cat was rabid, according to Dr. Gerald Hoff, city epidemiologist. It is the first confirmed case of rabies in the city since 1975.

"This type of thing is very scary," Hoff said. "It appears from the evidence thus far that a veterinarian accidentally induced a case of rabies in the cat when he gave the animal a rabies vaccine that should have been given to a dog."

Hoff said that as a result of the mistake, at least 20 persons should undergo the rabies shots, including 12 persons at the University of Missouri-Columbia Veterinary College who had studied the cat, six persons at a Kansas City veterinary clinic and at least two members of the family that owned the cat.

The rabies shots consist of one inoculation every day for 16 days.

Red China could be big in oil

HOUSTON (AP) — Communist China is "potentially a very important crude oil producer," a U.S. Geological Survey researcher said Thursday.

Edward C.T. Chao said that with accelerated use of foreign technology, the Chinese may find out within a few years whether it has oil reserves worth tapping and refining. If so, production from huge basins might begin in five to 10 years, he said.

Chao discussed China's efforts in earth sciences at a session on "China's Science is World Prospective" at the 145th National meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Currently, the giant Taching oil field, discovered in late 1959, is the largest oil producer in China and produces about one-half the national output of 730 million barrels a year.

Chao said there have been estimates that total crude oil resources and reserves in China range from 100 billion barrels to 400 billion barrels. But Chao emphasized that the estimates are speculated.

In comparison, he said, reserves for offshore Alaska oil have been estimated at about 9 billion barrels.

"These estimates (in China) cannot be substantiated since geological and geophysical exploration is far from complete, both on land and offshore," Chao said. "The People's Republic of China, however, is potentially a very important crude oil producer, and its significance as an oil-rich country will increase as more explorations and discoveries are made."

48,709 tests drilled in U.S.

DENVER (AP) — A total of 48,709 wells were drilled for oil and gas in the United States during 1978, up nearly 10.7 percent from 44,019 in 1977, Petroleum Information Corp. reported Thursday.

The 1978 total included 19,761 wells completed as oil producers, 12,518 new gas wells and 16,430 dry holes, Petroleum Information said.

Oil producing wells completed were up 5 percent from 1977 and gas well completions increased by slightly more than 19 percent, the company said.

Petroleum Information, based in Denver, follows U.S. drilling on a daily basis and provides for fees a number of technical and support services to the petroleum industry and related businesses.

The company said total footage drilled in 1978 was up 14 percent. The average depth of wells completed in 1978 was 4,769 feet, compared with 4,628 feet in 1977, it said in a press release.

Drilling of wildcat wells seeking new fields increased 11.5 percent in 1978 to a total of 7,122, Petroleum Information said. Of these, 616 found oil and 645 found gas for a success ratio of 17.7 percent, the company said.

Although the number of discoveries increased by 7 percent, the percentage of the wildcat total that resulted in discoveries was down slightly from the 18.5 percent success ratio in 1977, Petroleum Information said.

Texas, with 16,090 well completions was the leading state in 1978, as it had been in 1977, the company said.

Following Texas, it said, were Oklahoma with 5,899 wells completed, Kansas with 4,345, Louisiana with 3,808 and Ohio with 2,447.

Ship's crew rescued

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Coast Guard said a 110-foot research vessel used in offshore oil exploration surveys sank in the Gulf of Mexico 70 miles south of Galveston, Texas, Thursday with all 13 of the crew rescued.

A spokesman at Coast Guard headquarters here said the Profliter, owned by Profliter Inc. of Houston, radioed that it was taking on water and needed assistance.

A plane and a helicopter were dispatched from New Orleans. Meanwhile, the Western Geo II took on board eight men who left the Profliter on a raft.

When the helicopter arrived, five men were still trying to man the Profliter pumps, the spokesman said, but they soon had to abandon ship, too. The chopper picked them up off a raft and flew them to Houston.

The cause of sinking was not known. Seas were at 4 to 6 feet, with winds at 10 to 15 knots.

his own oil and gas-related financial holdings to also avoid a potential conflict of interest.

Nugent, 56, a Kerrville Democrat who represented a sprawling Hill Country legislative district for 18 years, was sworn in here Thursday to the powerful three-member commission that regulates Texas' oil and natural gas production.

Nugent was appointed by Gov. Dolph Briscoe to serve the remaining four years of Jon Newton's six-year term.

Newton resigned Dec. 7, saying he wanted to avoid a possible conflict of interest resulting from natural gas production on South Texas property recently inherited by his wife.

After being sworn in by Chief Justice Joe Greenhill of the Texas Supreme Court, Nugent told an overflow hometown crowd, "I had certain financial holdings which raised the question of a conflict of interest when Gov. Briscoe first notified me of my appointment."

"As of this time, I have sold those holdings which presented a conflict of interest or have them under a binding contract of sale, which will be closed as expeditiously as possible," he added.

"Responsibilities of this agency are too important for there to be a public question about the freedom of a member of this commission to make a decision that could involve a personal interest."

Nugent said those holdings represented a "very minor portion of my income."

They included, he added, "a very small" amount of energy-producing land and some stock in companies "under the jurisdiction of the commission."

Nugent's appointment must still be confirmed by the Texas Senate, which convenes Tuesday. He said, however, that he anticipates no problem being confirmed.

Nine candidates are competing in Saturday's special election to replace Nugent.

Newton said he plans to practice law and decided his future plans by Feb. 1.

The ceremony was attended by more than 300 persons, including Briscoe, House Speaker Bill Clayton, Newton, the other two railroad commissioner members and a host of legislators and state officials.

Briscoe, who served this same area in the early 1950s as a state representative, smiled and said, "The man who has served this area most efficiently in the Texas Legislature is Jim Nugent."

Security promised

CHALMETTE, La. (AP) — St. Bernard Parish Sheriff Ralph J. McDougall says he'll provide adequate security if workers strike the Tenneco Oil Co. plant in Chalmette.

Last year, Tenneco was convicted of bribing then-Sheriff Jack Rowley, and prosecutors said the $60,000 in payoffs was to assure labor peace at the company's Chalmette plant.

Rowley took over as district attorney on Jan. 1 and picked McDougall to succeed him as sheriff. McDougall's son will become an assistant district attorney, Rowley said last week.

Tenneco is negotiating with members of Local 4522 of the Opl, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union on a new contract. The present contract expires at midnight Sunday.

Lignite mining subject for meeting in Austin

AUSTIN—Lignite mining operations and future technology needs will be the key topics discussed here Monday by an industry-regulatory-scientific subcommittee of the Texas Energy Advisory Council.

Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace, chairman of the unit, today announced the agenda for the meeting of the TEAC Advisory Committee on Lignite, Research, Development and Demonstration at 2 p.m., in the Senate chambers of the State Capitol. On Dec. 15, Wallace was named to chair the committee by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, council chairman.

Monday's agenda includes: —An address by Dr. William Fisher, Director of University of Texas-Austin's Bureau of Economic Geology, on the history of lignite development in Texas.

—A report on TEAC involvement in lignite research, development and demonstration by Dr. Milton Holloway, executive director of the council.

—An assessment of lignite technology needs over the next 25 years by David White, coordinator of TEAC's coal and geothermal programs.

—Discussion of the role of state support of lignite research, development and demonstration efforts to facilitate the timely availability of needed technology.

—Organization of future committee activities.

In addition to Wallace, members of the advisory panel are: T.L. Austin, board chairman, Texas Utilities Co., Dallas; Dr. Spencer Baen, director of Texas A&M University's Center for Energy and Mineral Resources, College Station; Fred Bergeron, Texas area manager, Aluminum Co. of America, Rockdale; John L. Blair, chairman, Texas Air Control Board, Austin.

Also, W. A. Cunningham, executive vice president, Phillips Coal, Dallas; Roger Danels, director, contract research, Dow Chemical Co., Freeport; Dr. Abe Dukler, Dean of the University of Houston's School of Engineering, Houston; Dr. Fisher; Louis S. Gee, president of Tippett & Gee, Inc., Abilene; Henry Gropp, Partner, Gropp, Long & Littell, Houston; Charles Herring, chairman, Lower Colorado River Authority, Austin; Joe G. # Israel, South Africa can cope with shutoff

By MARK POTTS
NEW YORK (AP) — Israel and South Africa, which get most of their oil from Iran, should be able to cope if Iran's new government stops selling them oil, petroleum industry experts said Thursday.

"It's not anything that's catastrophic, because oil is available from other sources," said an analyst who didn't want his name used.

Iran supplies about 90 percent of South Africa's oil and about 60 percent of Israel's. Shahpur Bakhtiar, picked by the Shah to return Iran to a civilian rule, said Wednesday he would probably not sell oil to either country because of political differences.

"Concerning the conflicts on the religious level with Israel and on another level with South Africa, I think the government will not do it," said Bakhtiar.

Both Israel and South Africa said they had expected such a decision, and had been preparing for it for several weeks by building large oil reserves.

Israel has an agreement with the United States that would guarantee Israel's oil supply in an event of a cutoff such as the one proposed by Bakhtiar.

Lou Saban ... accepted to West Point

Lou Saban resigns at Miami to guide Army program...

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Lou Saban begins the seventh college coaching job of his 28-year career today, taking over an Army football program that is rife with controversy.

The hiring of Saban, 57, as head football coach was announced Thursday by Lt. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, superintendent of the Military Academy. Saban resigned as head coach and athletic director at the University of Miami, Fla., to take the Army job.

Saban succeeds Homer Smith, who was fired last month and then charged Army with illegal recruiting practices and an attempted coverup. Smith also said he was fired three days after he resigned.

SABAN, WHO WAS to be introduced as Army's coach at a news conference today in New York, was briefed Thursday on investigations into alleged improprieties in Army recruiting by Maj. Gen. Ray Murphy, Army's athletic director.

Saban also met with six assistant coaches, all of whom Murphy recommended Saban retain.

Asked why he gave up a $50,000-a-year job at Miami with four years left on his six-year contract, Saban replied: "Some people like to rebuild cars. I like to rebuild football programs."

Saban, who served in the Army during World War II, added: "I'm happy to be here at West Point because of what the Academy stands for and because it produces men who are serving their country."

MURPHY REFUSED to discuss Saban's contract at Army, however it is speculated the coach also may take over as athletic director. Murphy was brought out of retirement to become athletic director and was known to have been looking for a man that could replace him.

In addition to numerous college coaching jobs, Saban coached the old

Boston Patriots of the American Football League and Buffalo and Denver in the National Football League.

After playing college ball at Indiana and in the pros at Cleveland in the All-American Football Conference, Saban saw duty at Case Institute in Cleveland, the University of Washington, Northwestern University, Western Illinois, Maryland and Miami, both as an assistant and head football coach.

Dr. John L. Green, Miami's executive vice president, was asked if there were any hard feelings over Saban's resignation.

"Not at all," Green said. "We all know what the coaching world is like. I tend to be a realist."

... Madden just resigns

OAKLAND (AP) — John Madden of the Oakland Raiders says he's burned out, has an ulcer to prove it and has coached his last football game.

"There was no pressure on me to retire," he said Thursday in his retirement announcement. "It was my decision."

It was a decision he made late in the 1978 National Football League season, but when the announcement was made, the impact of it filled Madden's eyes with tears.

"Things like this are easy to talk about and hard to do," said the burly, red-haired coach whose 10-year record of 103-32-7 with Oakland is one of the best in NFL history.

"I THINK this is the end of an era, certainly in Oakland Raiders' history," said Pete Banaszak, the running back who was in his second pro season when Madden joined the team as an assistant coach in 1967.

"I only knew one way to do this job for 10 years, and that was to give it everything I had. I just don't have it any more," Madden said, speaking of the dedication and drive that helped the Raiders win seven division titles and one Super Bowl.

Madden may work for the Raiders in another position after relaxing for a few months in hopes his ulcer problem improves, but he said that even should his physical condition improve dramatically, he has decided, "I'm never going to coach again."

Al Davis, the team's managing general partner, probably will name a new head coach within a month. He said, "I don't think we're really talking about a successor, but a philosophy."

DAVIS MADE SOME critical remarks in 1978 about the Raiders as they struggled to a 9-7 finish, their worst season record under Madden, but on Thursday he said any implications that he was forcing Madden out "are just trash."

Davis also denied reports that a trade of quarterback Ken Stabler to Baltimore for the Colts' Bert Jones is imminent.

Madden was pro football's youngest head coach for many years, and this past season, at 42, still was one of the youngest.

"But I think 10 years is about the limit, at least for me," said Madden. His immediate plans, he added, "are to do nothing."

Hill out as Bobcat coach

San Angelo Central began a search for a new head football coach and athletic director after the resignation of Smitty Hill, who beat the San Angelo school board to the gun.

Hill's contract runs out in June and after a 2-8 1978 season, it was a foregone conclusion that Hill, who weathered previous controversy, would be fired.

Hill stipulated that his resignation, effective Jan. 12, hinged on his being paid through the remainder of his contract, which runs through June 30.

Board President Paul Hudman said the board's goal is to hire a successor to Hill in time for spring training. Hudman added that the new coach should have experience as a head coach, and preferably a masters degree.

Hill's fate apparently was sealed before last season when the board and Hill did not see eye-to-eye on the scope of his duties and did not to renew or extend his contract.

Hill, a native of Beaumont, played football at Lamar University and coached successfully at Port Arthur Jefferson, winning three district championships in six years, before coming to San Angelo. At San Angelo, Hill had a 43-26-1 record that included a 9-1 in 1973 and a co-championship 8-1-1 in 1974, although Midland Lee represented District 5-4A in the playoffs.

In 1977, San Angelo posted a 7-3 record, but last season was the Bobcats' worst in 27 years.

Local cagers grounded

Weather conditions continue to plague Midland prep basketball players as icy roads have resulted in the cancellation of tonight's scheduled games, the second cancellation this week.

Sam Cox, director of athletics for Midland public schools, announced shortly before noon today that the Midland Lee-Abilene Cooper and Midland-Abilene games had been postponed.

"We felt like we'd be able to play the games right up to the last," Cox said. "But we checked around and cars are backed up from here to Abilene, some overturned. They (Abilene) didn't want to come and with those kind of conditions we didn't want to send anyone out either."

Lee was scheduled to take the road to Abilene while Midland High would have hosted Abilene High.

Tuesday both Midland schools were forced to cancel games because of icy roads. Lee was able to make up its game with San Angelo Central Wednesday night while Midland was scheduled to make up its game with Big Spring Saturday night in Big Spring.

Should the bad weather prevail through the weekend, the Midland-Big Spring game would have to be rescheduled once again. "Let's just hope it warms up," Cox said.

Rams must worry about 'exotics' they haven't seen

DALLAS (AP) — They are known as "Tom Landry exotics."

You saw one in the last Super Bowl. Fullback Robert Newhouse took a pitch and threw a touchdown pass to Golden Richards. Newhouse had been practicing the play since July for that one precious moment.

You saw one last Saturday against Atlanta. Linebacker Thomas Henderson took a reverse handoff from Butch Johnson on a kickoff and fell flat on his posterior. Henderson scored a touchdown on this play once.

You saw one against the New England Patriots. Fullback Scott Laidlaw took a handoff, ran precariously close to the line of scrimmage, whirled and lateraled back to Roger Staubach, who nailed a wide open Tony Hill for a touchdown.

You saw one in 1975 in the Dallas-Los Angeles Ram National Conference title game. Staubach faded back in the Shotgun formation and flipped maybe a one-yard shovel pass to Preston Pearson who ran for a touchdown.

And there have been a lot of "exotics" you may have missed.

Did you catch the tight end in motion who threw a crunching blow on a defensive tackle to spring Tony Dorsett for a 63-yard gain?

Did you catch center D.D. Lewis' head-bob in the second Washington game that made the Redskins jump offside for a costly penalty?

Of course, the Los Angeles Rams know about all those Landry "exotics." But what worries the Rams, and justifiably so given Landry's gambling nature, is the ones they haven't seen. Landry counts on this unsettled state in the opponent. Witness his shifting, jumping, multiple offenses and defenses.

Landry says of the Rams: "You have to attack and beat them. You can't play conservatively and beat a team that is good."

Pressed on his "exotic" plans, Landry will only say "The Rams have too solid a defensive team for exotics."

But that has never kept him from using them. He used an exotic this season that he hadn't dusted off since 1960.

As a public service for the underdog Rams, who have never been to a Super Bowl, here is an exotic Landry hasn't used this season.

Staubach passes the ball to wide receiver Drew Pearson, who is BEHIND the line of scrimmage. Pearson, a former high school quarterback in New Jersey, throws the ball back to Staubach as the Cowboy quarterback streaks down the opposite sideline.

Landry probably won't use it Los Angeles. But he might.

Suspension, dismissals rock Cincinnati cagers

CINCINNATI (AP) — The University of Cincinnati basketball team, reeling from an NCAA-imposed two-year suspension, has been further rocked by the dismissals of two starters implicated in a burglary.

"We were planning some lineup changes anyway," said first-year Coach Ed Badger after announcing the permanent suspensions of starters Lionel Harvey and Keith Hemans on Thursday.

Badger said Harvey, sophomore forward from West Hempstead, N.Y., and Hemans, junior guard from Flushing, N.Y., were dismissed.

Athletic Director William Jenike said both had agreed to repay the $1,250 worth of merchandise taken from a gift shop at a St. Louis hotel.

Jenike also said he expected the players to leave the university, although their scholarships were not revoked.

Jenike said the incident "hurts more than the NCAA thing did because we worked through that. When kids hurt themselves like this, it really hurts."

Hemans, Harvey and Doug

Schloemer of Edgewood, Ky., were arrested by St. Louis police Tuesday following the team's 53-51 overtime loss to St. Louis University in a Metro Conference game.

Badger said Schloemer was cleared of wrongdoing. Police said the owner of the gift shop dropped charges against the other two.

Cincinnati, 2-5, earlier was slapped by the National Collegiate Athletic Association with a two-year suspension for rules violations prior to the present season.

"I did a stupid thing and now I'm paying for it," Hemans said. "It started as a prank and then it wasn't a prank any more. I'm just paying the penalty. I feel embarrassed. I've ruined my own reputation. I just hope the team doesn't give up."

"Maybe I'll be able to sit out and be able to play somewhere else next January," he added.

Harvey had nothing to say. Cincinnati, 2-5 this season, was left with only 11 players. Badger said he would start freshmen David Duarte and Bobby Austin Saturday against unbeaten Virginia Tech.

By The Associated Press

Ron Guidry, the slender New York Yankee left-hander who authored one of the most remarkable pitching seasons in major league baseball history, was named Male Athlete of the Year for 1978 by The Associated Press today.

Guidry, who was the unanimous choice for the American League's Cy Young Award after posting a remarkable 25-3 record last season, received 143 votes in nationwide balloting by 412 sports writers and broadcasters.

THE YANKEE southpaw easily outdistanced another baseball star, Pete Rose of the Philadelphia Phillies, who finished second with 94 votes after setting a modern National League record by hitting safely in 44 consecutive games for the Cincinnati Reds last season.

Jim Rice, the Boston Red Sox slugger who beat Guidry for the American League's Most Valuable Player Award, was third with 38.

Muhammad Ali, who became the first man in history to win the heavyweight championship three times, finished fourth with 26. He was just ahead of rookie running back Earl Campbell of the Houston Oilers, the National Football League rushing leader with 1,450 yards, who had 23.

AUTO RACER Mario Andretti (13), marathon runner Bill Rodgers (12), Dave Parker of the Pittsburgh Pirates (9), Triple Crown jockey Steve Cautchen (8), and tennis star Bjorn Borg (7) completed the top 10 finishers. Cautchen won the award last year.

Guidry's winning percentage of .893 was the best ever for a 20-game winner and his earned run average of 1.74 was the lowest by an American League left-hander since Dutch Leonard's 1.01 in 1914. The Yankee left-hander also had nine shutouts, tying the AL record set in 1916 by Babe Ruth.

Guidry started the season with a 13-game winning streak, and for the first half of the year was the only dependable pitcher his floundering team had. Fifteen of his 25 victories, which included the division clincher in the single game playoff against Boston, came after New York losses.

He pitched the pennant clincher in the championship series against Kansas City and resumed his stopper role in the World Series, winning the third game against Los Angeles after the Yankees had dropped the first two contests.

THE SLIM southpaw set a club record with 248 strikeouts in 273 2-3 innings, breaking a Yankee mark that had endured for 74 years since Jack Chesbro fanned 239 in 1904.

Despite disputed score, execs don't like replay

NEW YORK (AP) — Did Charles White of Southern California fumble the football before reaching the end zone on the controversial deciding touchdown against Michigan in the Rose Bowl Game on New Year's Day?

The officials, stationed much closer to the play than anyone, couldn't agree. Line judge Gilbert Marchman of the Big Ten Conference called it a USC touchdown. Umpire Don Mason saw it as a fumble recovered by Michigan.

Instant replays of the controversial touchdown seemed to support Mason's view and again raised the demand for use of television slow motion and replay equipment to aid the game officials on difficult decisions. But football and television executives both agreed today that while replays are interesting for fans to watch at home, the use of sophisticated video equipment to aid game officials with their calls would not be practical.

"WE LOOKED into it," said Art McNally, supervisor of officials for the National Football League, who keeps a tape of the NFL experiment in his office as evidence. "There are simply too many drawbacks."

The NFL test took place two years ago at a Monday night game in Dallas between the Cowboys and Buffalo Bills with four TV cameras placed at the press box level in the four corners of Texas Stadium. McNally and longtime NFL referee Norm Schachter were at the game and reviewed 26 plays with the equipment.

"It took between 27 seconds and two minutes to look at all the reruns," said McNally. "At that rate, you'd be spending more than four hours in the stadium for every game and can you imagine 70,000 fans sitting for that long, waiting for a decision on a given play? And even then, we didn't always have a clear-cut answer."

"That's understandable," said NBC television producer George Finkel, who will work on the network's coverage of the American Conference championship game Sunday between Pittsburgh and Houston as well as the Jan. 21 Super Bowl. "You are dealing with a two-dimensional medium. The third dimension of space is the problem. Sometimes, you simply won't have the play to show."

THAT WAS what McNally and Schachter found in Dallas. Often none of the cameras used picked up a clear view of the questionable play.

Finkel certainly can appreciate that problem after working last year's AFC title game in Denver with the controversial Rob Lytle non-fumble. "We had two replays available," the producer said. "One clearly showed the fumble. On the other, there was no way you could see it. What if the second view was the only one available?"

The bottom line, according to Finkel, is that television simply can't cover everything. At the Super Bowl, he will have five replay discs as well as a tape machine available.

"Obviously, with that much equipment, there's more chance for you to have a specific play," he said. "But you can't be sure."

TELEVISION'S REPLAY capabilities are determined not only by available equipment but also by guesswork on the part of the producers and director.

"You can't replay everything," said Finkel, "only that for which you preplan. We may isolate on Lynn Swann and the ball gets thrown to John Stallworth. Or we might isolate on Joe Greene and the tackle might be made by Jack Lambert. Sometimes, we might have the replay but the view might not be definitive. We're human, too. We just try to keep our percentages high."

There has been the suggestion that an official in the press box, stationed next to the television monitor, viewing the same picture seen at home, might be the solution. But McNally doesn't buy that theory, either.

"If the man in the press box is going to have the final say over the men on the field, then I want my best man up there," he said. "And my best man belongs on the field."

MCNALLY CITED a pair of plays in the Buffalo-Dallas game, both involving apparent fouls by Cowboy linebackers against O.J. Simpson, then with the Bills. But in both plays, none of the four available cameras showed a clear enough view that might have helped officials decide on whether infractions had taken place.

"That's the problem," said McNally. "If four cameras isn't enough, how many do you need? Six? Eight? Ten?"

Finkel had the answer. "If you want 100 percent coverage," he said, "you'd need 22 cameras and 22 replays, one for every player on the field."

USC's Charles White (12) dives for what officials ruled was USC's second touchdown in their Rose Bowl win over Michigan. This play again raised the demands for the use of instant replay to aid officials. (AP Laserphoto)

Jim no longer 'other Youngblood'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — They've quit calling him "the other Youngblood" because linebacker Jim Youngblood has come on this season as perhaps the most improved player for the Los Angeles Rams.

Jack Youngblood, who goes at defensive end, has been an All-Pro and that was the reason the "other" tag was hung off Jim.

The two Youngbloods, who aren't related, will both be in the starting defensive lineup Sunday when the Rams face the Dallas Cowboys at the Coliseum for the National Football Conference championship and a berth in the Super Bowl Jan. 21.

JIM KNOCKED two quarterbacks out of action during the regular season, Tommy Kramer of Minnesota and Doug Williams of Tampa Bay. When it was suggested that Jim was playing dirty, Coach Ray Malavasi showed films to the media to disprove it. "I didn't want a reputation as a dirty player," says Youngblood. "I never have had any intent to play dirty. I hit hard and that's what the game is all about. 'The lick that I threw on the guys, there was nothing dirty.'

KRAMER GOT hurt when he fell and Williams ... I hit him right in the chest, right in the numbers and he fell wrong."

In his sixth year with the Rams, the 240-pound Youngblood was drafted on the second round of 1973 after playing at Tennessee Tech.

He came to camp determined to make the club at any position the Rams wanted and he doesn't think the fact he went to a small school was a disadvantage.

"I think a lot of pro teams now are going to the small schools," he says. "We had a real good program there, you know, we played some good teams."

YOUNGBLOOD worked on special teams for a couple of years and when the Rams went to 3-4 defenses with three down linemen and four linebackers he was the fourth one.

"My third year I thought it was about time for me to start playing somewhere and I think they knew that I wanted to play."

Youngblood was a middle linebacker to start with, "and then Rick Kay got hurt in second ball game of my third year and they came and said 'Jim, we're going to move you to the outside and we have confidence that you can play there.'"

"SO I PRACTICED two days at outside linebacker and started against the Miami Dolphins."

"Now I prefer it. I've learned the position and the last two years I've really had a ball out there. You don't have as much freedom out there as you do in the middle and there's more man-to-man coverage.

"The keys are the biggest difference. The middle linebacker can see the people on both sides. On the outside you have to key from one side."

Looking ahead to Sunday's game, Youngblood said, "Dallas is the type of team you can't let up on even though you get ahead. You have to play them to the final gun. They have some great personnel and some real game makers ... Tony Dorsett, Preston Pearson, Tony Hill, Billy Joe DuPree and the others.

You have to play the whole 60 minutes against them if you're going to beat 'em.

"They have the type of offense that can score from anywhere on the field. It's a good test any time you play a team of this caliber."

Youngblood injured a wrist in the 34-10 playoff over Minnesota last Sunday, but he says he's ready right now to start against the Cowboys.

BOWLING BEAT

Lacy, Umfleet win tourney

By RANDY ISENBERG

Charles Lacy and Mike Umfleet won a high scoring and exciting Air Park Holiday double elimination bowling tournament recently, defeating runners-up Clint Benefield and John Denton.

The winners went undefeated through the first three sets while Benefield and Denton battled back after a second round defeat to Lacy and Umfleet. Clint bowled games of 233 and 235 to pace his team to a fifth round victory over third place finishers Guy Conley and Jim Newton.

In the opening round of the finals, Benefield and Denton edged Lacy and Umfleet by one pin to send the tournament to one more round. Lacy, who will become the third Midlander on the Pro Tour when he joins the circuit in progress at the Quaker State Open in Grand Prairie, averaged 212 for 10 games.

Lacy and Umfleet pocketed the first place prize money of $140 while Benefield and Denton picked up $90. Conley and Newton won $50. Kenny Hostetter excited the house when he slammed 11 consecutive strikes following an opening frame spare for a 290 game and 489 two game set to take home $30 for high game and high two game set.

Meanwhile, Brent Gallagher, who had been a winner three consecutive times in the Holiday event, was eliminated in two straight sets along with partner Jerry Delk. Gallagher picked up a youngster to bowl in the Adult-Youth Tournament in progress at the same time, and generated excitement with games of 245-289-248 for a 783 series.

Lacy's victory capped a big month for the top notch kegler, averaging 215 in league play, and smashed home a big 691 series in the Keglers Mixed League on Dec. 14, which was highlighted by a 257 game and a 656 in the Petroleum American League on Dec. 19.

HOLIDAY TIDBITS: Lacy, 32 years old, and Gallagher, 18 years old, are currently the two hottest keglers in the city. Lacy, a product of the youth bowling ranks, will join the Professional Bowlers Tour in February when the Tour stops in Grand Prairie for the Quaker State Open. Lacy placed in the ABC Masters this past year and defeated Dave Davis, a top PBA name and money winner, by over 110 pins in the opening round of the major event this past season.

Lacy speaks proudly when he mentions that he and two other West Texans all placed in the Masters in 1978, which is not bad for an area the size of West Texas in population. Lacy will be the third Midlander to be on the Pro Tour, joining John Denton and Bobby Bumpass, who begins his career in Anaheim, Calif., this coming week.

Gallagher has been bowling steadily for the past two years, and he appears to be rapidly gaining in knowledge and skill it takes to be a top notch bowler. Gallagher's high-lights include two Air Park Holiday championships this year and one last year. He also had four game sets of 914 and 961, and just this past week, he posted a brilliant 289, 783 three-game set in the Adult-Youth Tournament.

Gallagher's style and temperament are both mindful of the two current hottest stars in the Professional Bowlers Association, Mark Roth and Marshall Holman, the famous "Jewish Connection" who together this year have won over $200,000. With a few more years of dedicated work, practice and maturity, Gallagher may become another Midlander to appear on the Tour.

MORE NOTES: Bowling as a sport and recreation has many human interest stories generated by everyday people. Moe Torres, just recently recovering from bypass heart surgery, took a few hours of his time off from his job at Tommy's Supermarket to bowl with his 11-year-old son Mark, who just recently began bowling.

Braving the ice and cold, Moe was slow getting started, but bowled 202 and 200 in his final two games while Mark averaged 110 for the three games, a healthy 20 pins better than his league average. The good bowling is important in this story, but more importantly, time is sometimes the most precious gift you can give.

Oilers' Barber creates spectacle

HOUSTON (AP) — Mike Barber must have created quite a spectacle as a Louisiana Tech hurdler when he propelled his 6-3, 235-pound frame over the high hurdles at a 13.7 clip.

Now that he is performing as a tight end for the Houston Oilers, he's making a spectacle of enemy defense.

Barber will trade shots with the Pittsburgh secondary Sunday when the two teams meet for the third time this year, this time for the American Football Conference championship.

Just as the Oilers have blossomed during their first playoff appearance in nine years, Barber also has played two of the best games of his two-year pro career against Miami and New England.

Barber stabbed the Patriots with 19 and 13 yard touchdown catches in the second quarter last Sunday to give him nine receptions for 195 yards in two playoff games.

"I've learned to read the defenses and to be where I'm supposed to be without messing up," the former All-American said. "When Dan Pastorini drops back, he's got to have confidence in me that I'm reading the defense the same way he is and to be in the right area."

"That right there is the big difference this year for me." Barber caught 32 passes for three touchdowns during the regular season and finished second to perennial Oiler receiving leader Ken Burroughs. The two receivers each have nine receptions in the two playoff games.

And now that the Oilers have reintroduced the bomb to their offensive arsenal, the emergence of Barber as a receiving threat has helped Burroughs.

Burroughs, the most feared deep threat receiver in the business, has caught 34 career touchdowns for an amazing average of 56 yards per catch. He caught a 71-yard pass-run TD last Sunday when the Oilers eliminated New England 31-14.

"If they give me all the attention, Barber is going to hurt them," said Burroughs. "The more they respect him, the more it helps me."

Barber is glad the Oilers are playing the Steelers for the third time after splitting a pair of fiercely played regular season games.

"You don't have to do as much studying," he said. "You know their football team and you know the personnel. I'd rather play them than Denver because we know them better than Denver. I'll just spend the rest of the week trying to relax and get mentally prepared."

Barber also likes Houston's chances in the rubber match.

"The third time is the charm and the charm is going our way," Barber said. "Pittsburgh and Houston both have great teams but this is the year for the Houston Oilers to win it all."

Both Lee and Abilene High stand at 2-0 in the first half cage race with the victories. Midland High fell to 1-1 and out of a share of first place.

Leshia Watkins and Gail Wilson led the Rebel charge with 10 and 11 points respectively. The Rebels fell behind by an 11-5 margin in the first quarter, but a buzzer bucket at the third quarter surge which saw Lee capture a 17-5 edge in the period and the victory.

Midland High fell behind 12-4 to Abilene in the first period and just couldn't catch up with a slow offensive performance. The Bulldogs had a good fourth quarter with an 8-2 scoring edge, but still fell two points shy. Sandra Rock led the Bulldogs with 14 points and was the only Midlander in double figures.

Unbeaten Illinois slips past Indiana

By The Associated Press Balance is the byword in college basketball this year, and that means that all-winning teams will be as scarce as shutouts. But Illinois is doing all right so far.

The fourth-ranked Illini improved their record to a shining 13-0, best in the country among Division I teams, with a 65-61 victory over Indiana Thursday night.

"We knew coming into Bloomington, we were going to have to play hard," said Eddie Johnson, the Illini's 6-foot-8 sophomore. "Indiana is the best defensive team in the Big Ten."

ILLINOIS LOOKED like two different teams in each half — but saved its best for last. "We played bad in the first half, but Indiana took us out of our offense," said Johnson, whose team trailed by as many as eight points before intermission. "Levi (Cobb) got us the momentum, then we knew we had to go out and do a job in the second half."

Cobb scored the last six points of the first half to lead Illinois into a tie at 33 at intermission, and give the Illini the momentum. That was the turning point, according to Indiana Coach Bobby Knight.

"From our standpoint, we put ourselves out of the game at the end of the first half," Knight said. "We started out behind and worked well getting ourselves back into the game, and built ourselves a lead."

"BUT OUR ballhandling in the last 2 1/2 minutes of the half killed any chance of carrying any momentum into the second half. Our ballhandling was atrocious during that period. From our standpoint, that was the whole game."

Arkansas, ranked No. 14, was another team that remained undefeated Thursday night, winning its eighth straight game with a 96-71 decision over North Texas State.

In other games involving the nation's ranked teams, top-ranked Michigan State beat Wisconsin 84-55; No. 6 UCLA edged Oregon State 65-63; No. 13 Michigan whipped Minnesota 88-75 and No. 16 Louisville routed Tennessee-Chattanooga 94-70.

Two free throws by Mark Smith with five seconds remaining sealed Illinois' tight victory over Indiana. The Illini actually scored their winning point with 1:33 remaining on a free throw by Derrick Holcomb that gave them a 62-56 lead.

CENTER STEVE SCHALL had the best offensive game of his career at Arkansas, scoring 30 points to lead the Razorbacks over North Texas State. Sidney Moncreif added 22 to the Arkansas attack.

Cowboys have tight security

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys, wandering like nomads through this ice-bound city looking for places to practice, have slapped tight security on their workouts after a brief scare Wednesday.

With their Forest Avenue practice field frozen over, the Cowboys worked out at the Cotton Bowl. It was there, a suspicious-looking character was noted by Cowboy scout and John Wooten.

"It turned out to be an elevator man," said Wooten. "But we can't be too careful since the Rams have three scouts in Arlington."

The Cowboys kept secret until the very last minute details of their workout schedule. Media calls to the Cowboy public relations department trying to pinpoint the workout location brought a response of, "They haven't decided yet."

The Cowboys have been watchful of practices since the George Allen years when they claimed he had spies out and about.
