Tuesday departure for Aswan scheduled for shah

By ROBERT H. REID

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, his 37-year rule rocked by months of mass protest and bloodshed, will leave Iran on Tuesday for Aswan, Egypt, on his way to the United States, informed sources reported today. Many here believe he may never return.

New political violence flared across the country, and it was reported that 20 persons had been killed Sunday and today, including a former U.S. Air Force colonel in the southeastern city of Kerman.

U.S. Embassy officials identified him as Martin Berkowitz, 53, of San Francisco. The embassy gave no further details, but the newspaper Khayan reported Berkowitz was apparently stabbed Sunday night in the kitchen of his home in Kerman and that the words "Go Back To Your Country" were found scrawled on the wall of the house.

Khayan said Berkowitz was head of the Parson Jordan Co., a copper-mining concern. The paper said his killers had not yet been identified.

The sources here confirmed an earlier report by Egyptian officials that the beleaguered 59-year-old shah would travel to Aswan. The Cairo officials said he would meet with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat in the southern Egyptian town. The shah had been a guest of Sadat's in Aswan last January.

Before departing, the shah is scheduled to hold a rare news conference late Tuesday morning at his palace outside Tehran.

The Iranian Senate today hurriedly gave its endorsement to the new civilian government of Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar. It had been expected that once the lower house of Parliament gives its approval — the vote is scheduled Tuesday — the shah would leave the country, clearing the way for Bakhtiar to take over full control of the nation.

The shah's journey, ending in the United States, has been described as an extended vacation, but many political observers here believe the popular opposition to the monarch will make it impossible for him to return. He has named a Regency Council to replace him during his absence.

Once the shah leaves, Bakhtiar will face the opposition of the exiled Moslem holy man Ayatollah Khomeini and his huge following, who demand an Islamic republic guided by religious leaders. Khomeini has denounced the Bakhtiar government as "illegitimate" because it was established under the shah.

In Tehran today, more than 100,000 people, in a festive mood but as usual chanting "Death to the shah!" and "Long live Khomeini!" jammed the streets around the main bazaar for the second successive day of massive anti-shah demonstrations.

Berkowitz was the second American slain in the year-long political upheaval in Iran. On Dec. 23, Paul Grimm, an American executive of the Western-run Oil Service Co. of Iran, was ambushed and killed by terrorists in the southwestern oil city of Ahwaz.

Anti-Americanism has been strong among anti-shah elements because of Washington's support of the monarch and because of what many Iranians see as Western domination of their country.

In the northwest city of Tabriz today, gunmen firing automatic weapons killed a police major and wounded two other officers at a police station, it was reported. The Iranian People's Warriors, a Marxist urban terrorist group, reportedly claimed responsibility for the attack.

Texas-style politics part of Capitol Hill breakfast

By MILLER BONNER

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of West Texans got a spicy lesson in Texas-style politics along with their eggs and bacon this morning from Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas, the new dean of the Texas delegation on Capitol Hill.

Brooks, presiding over a breakfast honoring Rep. elect Kent Hance, quickly explained that the Lone Star State has enjoyed "considerable power, some prestige and, on occasion, some influence," by electing young men to Congress and keeping them there.

Texas voters, said Brooks, differ in that regard from their counterparts in other states who "elect a Democrat one year, a Republican two years later."

"I grin every time I hear of such things because I know that means just that much more for my folks and that much less for them."

Brooks said he never wanted to visit such districts because, "I don't even know if they've got roads. I know they don't have any dams or big (federally funded) projects.

"It's strongly to your benefit and to the benefit of our state to elect a man who is young and keep sending him up here."

"As for myself, I don't want to make a career of it," joked the man about to begin his 14th term.

Hance and eight other newly-elected Texans will take the oath of office later this afternoon.

Reporter-Telegram sale finalized

Sale of The Midland Reporter-Telegram and The Plainview Daily Herald to The Hearst Corporation was finalized here this morning.

Participating were Frank A. Bennack Jr., Hearst Corporation president, Robert J. Danzig, vice president and general manager of newspapers for Hearst, and Mrs. James N. Allison Sr., majority owner of The Reporter-Telegram Publishing Company and Allison Communications, Inc., the corporations that publish the two newspapers.

Acquisition of the Midland and Plainview newspapers brings the number of Hearst newspapers to 10 with total circulations of 1.4 million daily and 2.5 million Sunday.

The corporation also has broad publishing and broadcasting interests, publishing 20 magazines in the U.S. and Great Britain and operating 10 broadcasting stations, two book companies and a newspaper features syndicate with a wide range of other activities in publishing, ranching, timber, real estate and paper products.

Some of the fellows were standing around the stovepipe heater to stay warm in the ag barn.

They were bundled up just in case they had to go out into cold. And they did.

"I do. I think it's all right," Bret Bridgewater, 16, said of working livestock.

Especially when it's 20 degrees outside," tacked on Clay Midkiff, 18, "and they tell you to wash your calves down."

That's the breaks. The Midland County Livestock Show for 4-H Clubbers and Future Farmers of America boys and girls falls in wintry January.

The kids show their calves, lambs and swine and hope for a ribbon and auction money. They've got an investment a'working for 'em.

"You've always got a good chance of winning," said Midkiff, who had reason to be confident. His two heifers were judges grand champion and reserve grand champion in last year's show. He's entering two calves again this year.

Bridgewater is showing a pig in the show in the Midland County Exhibit Building. This year's auction is Tuesday night at 7.

R-T to cover inauguration

Tuesday will be a "Day for All Texans" in Austin when Bill Clements will be sworn in as governor.

Reporter-Telegram staff writer Linda Hill will be covering the all-day activities, from the early morning prayer service to the formal Inaugural Ball.

At the center of all that will be a number of Midlanders. A large delegation from the Tall City will attend Tuesday's ceremony and other activities. And reporter Hill will be sending back photographs and stories on the Midlanders in Austin.

Look for initial coverage in Tuesday's Reporter-Telegram with even more extensive coverage to follow on Wednesday.

High Plains farmers on second tractorcade

By GUY SULLIVAN
R-T Staff Writer

"The harvest is past; the summer is ended, and we are not saved." — Jeremiah 8:20

LAMESA — Travelers between Lubbock and Big Spring witnessed a strange procession Saturday.

Tractors were being driven by farmers in a convoy down U.S. Highway 87.

American Agriculture Movement farmers from the High Plains area began their second trip in consecutive years to Washington, D.C., Saturday in an effort to stay in business.

The convoy camped in Abilene Sunday, and was last seen on Interstate 20 traveling toward Fort Worth early today, according to authorities.

The farmers, some accompanied by their families, are going to the nation's capital to try to convince President Jimmy Carter and Secretary of Agriculture Bob Berglund that 90 percent parity is needed for farmers to pay their costs of production and earn a "reasonable profit."

They defined parity as production costs at a "reasonable" profit.

Marvin Meek, a Plainview farmer, is wagonmaster of the area contin-gent, scheduled to meet other farmers in Fort Worth, Atlanta, Ga., and other points. Mel Cherry, a Lorenzo farmer, is co-wagonmaster.

"FARMERS NATIONALLY were $17 billion more in debt last year, even though we received 25 percent more price for our products," said Meek during a tractorcade break at a local restaurant.

"This trip is no vacation. Many farmers are sacrificing to go tell Congress, Berglund and Carter our views," he said.

"Each of these 50 tractors are sponsored by 20 or more farmers staying home at cost of $3,000 per tractor for a roundtrip."

Meek, who has farmed 600-acre place for the past five years, said, "We feel like the only way we can stabilize the economy is to have the government implement in full the 1977 Omnibus Farm Food Act, which bureaucrats seem so proud of."

Raising crop support prices to 90 percent parity "won't affect the economy," Meek said. "In fact, the government makes about 8 percent interest on it. This would help us stay up with inflation."

"THE ECONOMY NOW is similar to just before the 1929 crash — right before the Depression," said Meek, an ex-salesman. "All we want is a fair price in the market place and it's not guaranteed by the government."

He said members hope "to wake up some congressmen and President Carter, that this problem affects everyone. Urban congressmen have got to learn this affects their people."

Meek calls the farm movement a two-year public education program.

"Farm-related businessmen and congressmen know it. Why, over 50 percent of America's manufactured

Tuesday auction to close 30th annual stock show

By ED TODD
R-T Staff Writer

Julie Zimmerman, Dana Milner, Jeff Barnett and Terri Otho showed and rode top winning horses in the horse show Sunday in the opening day of the 30th annual Midland County Livestock Show.

The three-day livestock show at the Midland County Exhibit Building will end with a 7 p.m. Tuesday auction of 117 steers, lambs and swine being exhibited by 4-H Club boys and girls and Future Farmers of America chapter members.

Julie Zimmerman showed Miss Tuff Bars, the grand champion mare, and her sister, Janice Zimmerman, exhibited the reserve champion mare, Mexicalia Blaze.

Shiloh's Bo Rogard, shown by Ms. Milner, was the grand champion gelding in the horse show, which featured members of the Midland 4-H Horse Club.

Barnett showed the reserve champion gelding, Mr. Van King.

The geldings and mares were shown at halter to exhibit their conformation.

Winning horses and runners-up in the performance class of the horse show are:

19-year-old Lamesa man dies of injuries from accident

LAMESA — A 19-year-old Lamesa man died Sunday of injuries he received in a one-car accident here.

Jesus Vasquez, the driver of the vehicle, was pronounced dead on arrival at Medical Arts Hospital here by Peace Justice Don Parchman, according to authorities.

Jose Baltazar, 20, also of Lamesa, a passenger in the car, was listed in critical condition at the hospital today.

The accident occurred at 3:45 a.m. at the intersection of South Lynn and Dallas streets, said officers.

Investigators said the vehicle failed to negotiate a curve, hit a median strip and rolled over three times.

State Department of Public Safety Trooper Joe Stone of the Lamesa office investigated the accident.

Daytime warming trend expected to continue through Wednesday

A current daytime warming trend is expected to prevail in the Permian Basin at least through Wednesday, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

High temperatures should reach the lower 50s today and Tuesday, and a 30 percent chance of rain is forecast for Tuesday.

Tonight's low is expected to be in the upper 30s.

Winds are expected to blow from the south today at 15 to 20 mph, becoming southeasterly at 10 to 15 mph tonight.

A forecaster at the airport said there is a probability of rain Wednesday and predicted that by that time

Tractors from the High Plains of West Texas travel along U.S. Highway 87 south of Lamesa Saturday, going from Lubbock to Big Spring and then on to Washington, D.C. goods are bought by farmers and last year many of us didn't buy those products."

Meek said last year the movement spent "$35 million" to send a tractorcade message to Washington, D.C., and as a result about $7 billion worth of changes came about.

"ALL WE'RE DOING is trying to help ourselves," he added. "If we don't, the state and nation are doomed."

Meek said farmers from North Texas to the Rio Grande Valley in the south benefited last year from the highly publicized movement lobbying.

"Congressman Thomas Foley, chairman of the Agriculture Committee, wouldn't meet with us last year. Now he's called several meetings. At least he's working for us."

When asked how long farmers can hold out, Meek said, "We're fast approaching when it will take two days' labor to buy a loaf of bread."

"When corporate farms take over America, food prices will go up and you'll be thankful to work two days per week to feed your family," Meek warned.

"CONSUMERS PAY LESS now than in 1950 for food," Meek said. "But for farmers it's getting worse. I've been farming five years and broke even three years and earned a $5,000 profit another year. All we want to do is make a reasonable profit."

Clay Reid, a self-employed farmer since 1940, said, "Most farmers make 60 percent of their income from doing something else so they can afford to farm."

"Most small farmers are participating, but the larger and more successful farmers aren't. But they'll find out this thing affects all of us sooner or later. We need their help and support. At least 492,000 farmers went out of business in 1978."

"There are 2.7 million farmers nationwide right now, compared to 3.5 million last year," Meek said. "I'd say at least 5 percent of America's farmland is being bought up by foreign investors and 10 to 15 percent by corporate investors."

America lost half its farms since 1950, according to Reid.

Still, the U.S. Department of Agriculture claims the average farm size is now 389-acres nationwide.

Meek, a Hale County cotton farmer, said, "The 1977 Farm Act is probably the worst farm bill ever written. That's why we're going to ask Congress to implement and raise support levels of our commodities to 90 percent of parity."

"IN NO WAY are we asking the government to guarantee us a profit," he continued. "We're just asking to be able to sell agricultural commodities at what it costs and earn a profit. In most cases, the profit is 7 percent, compared to most businessmen in town who earn more profit than that."

The tractorcade's next stop will be Atlanta, Ga., the farmers' goal by Feb. 2 is the capital, "barring any trouble," Meek said.

He said farmers will have one

Third generation farmer barely 'gets by,' afraid of losing 'dirt'

LAMESA — Jim Anderson has shocks of gray hair beneath his farmer's cap.

It's not just the disc problem in his back that has him worried these days.

The third generation farmer is afraid of losing his land.

"I've been farming since 1971. In 1971, we had a freeze; in 1972, we did alright; in 1973, we did pretty good. In fact, 1973 was the best year we've had."

He paused and then discussed 1974. "We haven't seen anything since then. That's when we went into the red. I made 77 bales of cotton off of 800 acres of land in 1975."

"In 1976 we had a good crop and a good price, but my aging equipment, some of it a dozen years old, needed replacing."

"In 1977 the market dropped," said Anderson, a plain-spoken West Texan. "I sold cotton for $150 per bale less in 1977 than for what I got in 1976, which was 43-cents per pound."

"This year I've still not sold my 1978 cotton. I might get by with Small Business Administration or Farmers Home Administration loans for another year," he said.

Anderson said if he doesn't "get by," he anticipates selling his equipment. The farmer added, "I can't borrow myself out of debt. I need to make a profit."

Said Anderson: "We had to finance everything last year in our family of four. To tell you how rich farmers are, we earned $6,000 last year. And that went for food, utilities and bills."

"You can't go to the bank and borrow money just to break even each year. I'm sure we'll hit a good year. But many farmers around here are telling their teen-ager sons to go find themselves another job because there's no profit in farming."

He said he anticipates conditions might worsen to where they resemble the 1930s "when farmers went to the cities seeking jobs and people said to it. It can happen again. If farms fail, we all fail."

Anderson said he accepts risks such as hail, drought and other conditions.

"We take those risks, but I'll be damned if we have to take a risk on price, too!"

Asked what keeps him going, the father of two young children said, "That dirt's mine."

His eyes watering, Anderson said, "That dirt's been in our family three generations and I'm looking for the fourth one to do the same. I don't know how to say it. But it's in my blood... I don't want to be the first generation in which that dirt's not part of me."

His back hurting too much for him to drive a tractor to Washington, D.C., Anderson said he intends to fly this year.

"I have something to say," he commented.

Chicago digs out after second-worst blizzard

CHICAGO (AP) — The nation's second-largest city dug out from its second-worst blizzard in history today with a special army of 2,500 workers.

Crews reopened one runway at O'Hare International Airport, the world's busiest, after snow forced a weekend shutdown.

But the forecast was for possibly more snow by midweek.

Helicopters were used today to take sick and injured to Chicago-area hospitals because ambulances could not get through the 30 inches of snow. 20.9 inches of it from the weekend storm that hit the Midwest and left at least 29 persons dead — seven in Chicago alone.

O'Hare was closed to all flights from midday Saturday until early this morning, when one runway reopened. United Airlines said its service to and from Chicago would be reduced by at least 70 percent during much of the day.

weather records, strand travelers and leave thousands without electricity.

The temperature plummeted throughout the Midwest with South Bend, Ind., reporting a record low of -14 degrees at 4 a.m. today. It was -13 in Chicago.

Northern Illinois, Kansas and eastern Iowa were under states of emergency.

There were 11 weather-related deaths in Illinois, two in Iowa, five in Kansas and two in Missouri, where the National Guard was called out over the weekend to rescue motorists. Kansas deactivated its guardsmen today.

mid-week. Chicago faced a 40 percent chance of more snow by tonight.

Most deaths were attributed to exposure. Travelers died attempting to walk from stranded automobiles to safety, and some pedestrians who slipped and fell were unable to get up due to their injuries. Others died in traffic accidents or of heart attacks.

The National Weather Service said a 23-inch snowstorm in 1967 was Chicago's worst, but that there had never before been more than 29 inches of snow on the ground.

Chicago Mayor Michael A. Bilandic toured the city by helicopter Sunday, and 2,500 city workers were ordered to begin the massive snow removal effort today.

Horse show judge was Gordon Harris of Plains.

Lambs, swine, heifers and steers were to be judged today. Joe Ed Wise of Lamesa, the Dawson County agricultural agent, was to judge the 175 lambs in the show which began at 8 a.m. today.

Stanley Young of Tahoka, a vocational agricultural teacher, was to judge the show's 110 pigs at 1 p.m. And Fred Wilkinson of Crane, the Crane County agricultural agent, was to judge the show's 60 calves.

Approximately 300 4-H and FFA boys and girls are exhibiting in the show.

Tommy Marricle of Snyder will be the auctioneer at the sale of 117 animals beginning at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the exhibit building, east of Midland off U.S. Highway 80.

The show's grass judging will be at 11 a.m. Tuesday.

MICHIGAN, WISCONSIN and Indiana all struggled with more than a foot of new snow following the weekend storm. There were eight deaths in Wisconsin and one in Indiana.

The forecast for the snow-buried areas was grim. The National Weather Service said another major storm could be in store for the Midwest by MOTORISTS WHO DARED to venture out were warned to be prepared for long delays, and the mayor asked businessmen to order staggered work shifts to minimize congestion.

The roofs of several buildings collapsed under the snow, authorities said. But there were no reported injuries.

The Community Day Nursery this week has tackled on a new program by caring for infants and toddlers age 1 and up, said Norma Lewis, nursery director.

The nursery, at 700 S. Jackson St., is open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays.

"Fees are based on the sliding scale," Ms. Lewis said.

The nursery is a United Way agency.

Among the nursery's services is driving the older children to and from school.

Those interested in the nursery's services may call Ms. Lewis at 684-8392.

RICKY MARK BOWEN of Midland is among 51 Southwest Texas State University students who have been chosen for listing in the 1978-79 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Bowen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Jones of 800 Harvard Ave., is a junior music major at SWTSU. He is a member of the school's Chorale, German Club, Opera Workshop and Readers Theatre, and has performed in several operas.

Outstanding students are selected for "who's who" honors on the basis of both their academic accomplishments and extracurricular leadership and achievement. The designates are selected by a national committee from local nominees.

REMINDER: The Midland Symphony Guild will present a program beginning at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the Recital Hall in the Fine Arts Building on the campus of Midland College.

Performing for the event, open to the public free of charge, will be Dr. William Westney, piano prize winner in the 1975 Geneva International Competition. He presently is artist-in-residence at Texas Tech University.

His wife, Ms. Emilia Simone, also will perform. She has appeared as soloist with the Yale Symphony, New Haven Chorale and Symphony, Manhattan Chorale and Brooklyn Symphony.

Drugs have bad effect upon infants

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women who take pain-killing drugs during labor and delivery have children who are slower to sit up, stand and walk than those babies whose mothers received no drugs, according to a government report.

The study, done by Drs. Sarah H. Broman and Yvonne Brackbill for the National Institute of Neurological and Communicative Disorders and Stroke (NINCDS), is being made public today.

The study shows that the effects of inhaled anesthetics, such as ether, may cause permanent, although slight, brain damage to children whose mothers took those general anesthetics during childbirth.

However, the study showed that the effects of some of the local anesthetics — as opposed to the general anesthetic inhalants — diminish and even disappear with time.

"But in others, principally inhaled anesthetics, the associations persisted through the first year," the doctors said.

From the data collected for the study and continuing research, the doctors concluded that:

"Overall, there were highly significant associations between the infant's development through the first year and medication during labor and delivery... The relationships between anesthetics and motor development (such as sitting up) were particularly noticeable."

HOROSCOPE

By CARROLL RIGHTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You can easily get bogged down in the tedious details of every-day living today and lose out on some important matters. Make sure you are alert to new opportunities coming your way.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Get right down to the nitty-gritty of any work ahead of you, whether at home or on the job. Avoid a troublemaker.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Relax where some creative ideas are concerned that you are having difficulty with. You can get better results another day.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Home affairs could be stagnant now, so perk them up in some way. Take no risks where business affairs are concerned.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): You may not like events going on around you but as long as you handle your own affairs well, all is fine.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Do things in a more practical fashion so that you get better results. Use economy measures instead of spending so lavishly.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Good day to study your surroundings and make steps to improve them. Make arrangements for future social entertainment.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Not a good day to consult with an adviser who is too busy with own affairs. Avoid one who is not thinking straight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Show your friends that you will go far to be of help to them, and you reap fine benefits. Handle a business matter wisely.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Attend to outside tasks that are not appealing but need handling now. Strive for harmony with family members.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Approach a difficult project from a different angle and get good results. Be sure to express yourself well with others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Handle practical affairs without all that emotionalism and analysis and get excellent results. Strive for happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Use particular care in dealing with associates today or there could be arguments. Plan time to be with good friends later.

DEAR ABBY

Reverend raps title dropper

DEAR ABBY: I take strong exception to the writer who took you to task for addressing a clergyman as "Reverend So and So."

She wrote, "Reverend is an adjective, meaning honorable. You may say, 'The Reverend Mr. Blank,' or 'The Reverend Dr. Blank,' but, Abby, please do not address a clergyman as 'Reverend Anybody.' It's simply not done!"

How wrong! As a minister of the United Methodist Church I have always been addressed as "Reverend"—same as my father and father-in-law, and I love it. I would object vigorously were members of my congregation to address me as "Mister."

Our Episcopal friends address their bishop as "Right Reverend." I maintain that common usage by countless thousands makes it OK to call a pastor "Reverend."

If it's correct for our Catholic friends to call their priest "Father," or for our Jewish friends to call their clergyman "Rabbi," then it should be OK for my parishioners (and others) to call me "Reverend."

Sign me...—REVEREND H. IN ILLINOIS

DEAR REVEREND H.: The English language purists will probably shoot me down, but adjectives serve well in addressing people. However:

The hassle over the use of Reverend will never end.

DEAR ABBY: K IN PONTIAC wrote to say that during a job interview she was asked if she had plans to start a family in the near future. She said, "I never dreamed that such an inquiry would be made in this day of equal rights." Then she asked if you thought that was a proper question to ask a woman applicant.

You replied, "When a new employee is hired, the employer makes an investment in time and training. He therefore has a right to know if the applicant plans to have a family—and, if so, when. Some women take a leave of absence from their jobs to have and raise children. Men do not."

Abby, your response may sound reasonable, but unless an employer asks the same question of men applicants, he is in violation of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 for sex discrimination.—L IN TUCSON

DEAR L: My response was valid as far as it went, but I should have added, "However, employers must ask the same question of men applicants in order to stay within the law." Since that is a difficult rule to follow, most personnel directors now advise that questions about family plans not be asked.

DEAR ABBY: I see by your column that chastity belts are making a comeback.

Do you know of an orthopedic surgeon-blacksmith team who could design a combination neck brace and side-blinders for my husband?

When we walk down the street, he practically twists his neck off every time he sees a pretty girl.—LOLLIE IN PHOENIX

DEAR LOLLIE: Let him look. When he's through looking, he's through.

Do you wish you had more friends? For the secret of popularity, get Abby's new booklet, "How To Be Popular: You're Never Too Young or Too Old." Send $1 with a long, self-addressed, stamped (28 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

If losing weight's your resolution, Pat Walkers has a safe solution.

Midlander Ti Wade says, "From size 16 to size 10 and I feel thin!"

When I wore a size 16, I didn't like my picture taken. I tried to hide behind flowers, hold my grandbaby, or sit down so all me wouldn't show. Now that I am a size 10, it's all together different. I enjoy shopping and dressing up. I found the more I lost, the better I felt. The program has benefited my circulation, plus firming and toning my muscle tissue just as the advertisements said. I am so thankful I turned to Pat Walker's.

'NOW - ABOUT VOLUNTARY PRICE CONTROLS'

CHARLEY REESE

A bit of advice based on personal experience

By CHARLEY REESE
Sun Belt Syndicate

ORLANDO, Fla. — I suppose every political columnist envies the Dear Abby types, not only for their fortunes and fans but also for their license to meddle in other people's personal lives. Most of us political types spend our days giving the raspberry to the fools and phonies who populate both major parties.

Being a bleachers bum in print has its advantages but sometimes when you wake up before dawn and meditate over coffee you are faced with the inescapable fact that for all practical purposes you are a professional spitter-into-the-wind.

It has occurred to me that by virtue of the fact that I have what has been described as an odd circle of freinds who range from mercenaries to cops to Ukrainian intellectuals that I am in a position to offer you much sound advice based on the wisdom of personal experience.

For example, if you ever have to shoot anyone, be sure to kill them. This comes from several cops who have had the unpleasant experience of being sued by people whose lives they spared.

Another genius I know has developed a sure technique for handling people who try to intimidate you based on his observations of human nature which have been made in such diverse places as Latin America and Africa.

"Everybody tells you what he fears most," he pontificated once. "How? They do it when they try to intimidate you. They will always use whatever technique they think will work and what they think will work is what they know will work on them. All you have to do is adopt their technique and escalate it."

This same philosopher has also observed that self-justification is among the stronger motivations of human action.

"The FBI spent a couple of hundred grand investigating me once. They could never prove it, namely because I wasn't doing what they thought I was doing, but after they had blown a couple of hundred grand, they then had to blow another three hundred to justify the first two hundred. The hardest thing in the world for a human to do is admit he made a mistake."

Another friend who happens to be a South Korean karate expert has noted that groups are often easier to handle than individuals since people in a group that is not trained or disciplined will generally hesitate, waiting for the other guy to act first.

The trick is to take advantage of this hesitation by singling out one or two individuals and pulverizing them to set an example before the group gets its act together.

If you are curious about human nature, I have the testimony of a number of individuals that "Huckleberry Finn" is the last word on human nature and should be read by every adult at least three times a year.

For a survival weapon, choose a .22. It is adequately deadly, doesn't make as much noise as a melodramatic big bore, and you can carry a lot of ammunition.

Never woo a girl in your own office. This comes from a formerly married city editor who learned the hard way that there are more terrible things in this life than publishers who sit on United Way boards.

Finally, remember that while survival may not be everything, it is a pre-requisite to anything else.

As for investments in the stock market, remember the words of "Blackjack," who once had to mug six people before he found a pair of shoes that fit. "The economy of this country has gone East with the geese."

As you can readily see, Dear Abby was nothing on me.

Mark Russell says

Love means never having to dun Lee Marvin.

Living together means pretending to be married. If you break up, you may pretend to pay alimony.

Living together can be rewarding if it is not cheapened by marital characteristics such as money hassles. Marriage can be fulfilling if it is not cheapened by pretending.

Lee Marvin's girlfriend, by demanding halfies, has violated the sanctity of living together.

Livestock show time

Livestock shows and sales once again hold the spotlight in most West Texas counties, and Midland certainly is not to be denied in this respect.

The 1979 Midland County FFA and 4-H Livestock Show got into full swing this morning, after the accompanying horse show had been held Sunday afternoon. The annual event will continue through Tuesday.

The fancy lambs, swine and calves entered in the show were placed Sunday, with judging being conducted today. The animals will be on public display through Tuesday, with the auction sale scheduled at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

The Midland County Exhibit Building on East Highway 80 is the scene of the action.

This is a tremendous, thrilling happening for members of the county's 4-H Clubs and Future Farmers of America chapters who have labored long and diligently in selecting, feeding and developing their lamb, swine and calf projects in recent months.

And now comes the time to show and sell their fine, fat animals. It quite naturally is one of the greatest occasions in their yet-young lives. They are as proud as can be of their fancy livestock and they would like for as many persons as possible to see and inspect them.

Midland and area residents in large numbers are urged to avail themselves of this opportunity. Nothing would please the young men and young women more than for YOU to see the results of their efforts in this great and far-reaching program.

Congratulations are beamed to the Midland County 4-H and FFA members and instructors. It is hoped that the 1979 show will be the best ever.

The event, incidentally, is sponsored and staged by the Midland County Livestock Association, with a helping hand provided by Midland Jaycees and others. Commendation is due all firms, organizations and individuals having a hand in staging the show and sale.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Abbie Hoffman: Man on the run

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The aging activist, once a headline figure who shouted defiance at the police, is now on the run from the police. He talked to us about the 1960s and the shaggy-haired generation, with flashes of his old truculence. He also spoke about the 1970s and his flight from the past, with traces of sadness. Once he had to choke back tears.

He's about 40, average size, with dark hair and brown eyes. His CB handle is "Red Runner" and in his car he yammers constantly into the microphone in a sort of twangy Boston poolhall patter. He lives with a willowy woman he calls Angel who is a little taller and younger than he is.

His friends know him perhaps as Billy, or Merk, or Joe, or any of a dozen other names. He is, in fact, Abbie Hoffman, America's most flamboyant fugitive. And he expects to be captured.

For five years now, Abbie Hoffman has been hiding out after jumping bail. He faces a New York drug conspiracy charge that could, if he is convicted, bury him in Attica prison for 15 years to life. He has attempted to portray the arrest in the light of a political frameup, but the fact is he was caught red-handed selling $36,000 worth of cocaine to an undercover police officer.

The man whose political radicalism and violent rhetoric launched a thousand protest demonstrations and helped fuel a decade of social disruption is now little more than a common criminal, reduced to scatological diatribes and reliving old glories in articles he writes for men's magazines and counterculture publications.

He has had plastic surgery to change his appearance. He has suffered two nervous breakdowns brought on by the pressures of being a fugitive and the strain of juggling his various identities. He has been arrested and jailed but was released without being identified. "I had to eat my address book on that occasion," he said, meaning it literally.

He has been offered asylum in Cuba, but he rejected it because: "I'm an American, and I'm much more content living here and doing what I'm doing than I would be living in Cuba as Abbie Israel has a law of return, and I am Jewish, but I think they might trade me for a Phantom jet. So here I stay."

He has worked as an English teacher, as a chef in a restaurant, as a cook in a greasy spoon, as a laborer and a construction worker. People have spotted him as an Abbie Hoffman look-alike, but no one has challenged him as to his true identity.

It has been a decade since Hoffman helped foment the street riots at the Chicago Democratic convention and later turn the riot-conspiracy trial of the Chicago Seven into a shambles. Pranks, like showering dollar bills from the visitor's gallery onto the floor of the New York stock exchange and watching the brokers scramble for the money, bolstered his image as the Clown Prince of the New Left.

But other actions — such as wearing a shirt made from the American flag, characterizing the United States in his books as "Amerika, the Pig Nation," extolling drug usage and walking around with four-letter words painted on his forehead — made him a hated figure for many.

He has mellowed considerably, meanwhile, along with the times. Jimmy Carter, he thinks, is "an honest man working in a dishonest system." Today's villains? "It used to be: 'Hey, hey, LBJ, how many kids did you kill today?' Now I think it's the chairmen of the boards of multinational corporations, and it makes me mad because I don't even know their names. The same people who were making napalm for Vietnam are now busily poisoning the environment."

The hardest part of his life on the run, Hoffman said, is being separated from his family. Fugitive status has meant the forced end of his marriage to wife Anita, although they correspond regularly and remain "brother-and-sister friends."

His 8-year-old son, America — named with a small "a" — as a symbol of the counterculture into which he was born — has seen his father only at fleeting secret meetings arranged at great risk. And Hoffman has two teenage sons by a previous marriage.

Discussing his family, he came close to tears at one point and abruptly left the room to regain his composure.

"It's very, very hard... very painful," he said. "I would never give myself up. People say: 'What do you want to go back for? you're doing better than most of your friends. Would you believe me if I said I'd do it for my mother?' She's had a hard time understanding all of this."

We were brought together with Hoffman in Buffalo, N.Y., after elaborate security precautions. Angel drove us to a small diner where we sat down. Suddenly from the rear, a long-haired cowboy figure wearing jeans, leather boots, sunglasses, a bandanna and a cowboy hat appeared. "Hey," he said. "I'm Billy" — using an agreed-upon code name.

Hoffman said he went underground not so much from fear of being convicted but of what would happen to him in prison. After his arrest, he spent six weeks in Manhattan's infamous Tombs prison before making bail. "I was deathly afraid of how I'd be treated in Attica prison. I've had a friend die in there. So, I decided to run."

Brass on the beach

Rep. Sam Stratton of New York is looking into a matter which should give the G.I. who served in Vietnam a brass attack.

Stratton is chairman of a House Armed Services subcommittee now investigating the luxurious Hale Koa Hotel on Waikiki Beach.

The hotel, it seems, was built at a cost of $18.5 million, paid out of post exchange and non-commissioned officers club funds collected during the Vietnam conflict.

The facility was to be a rest and recreation headquarters in Honolulu for the enlisted man, but the war ended before construction was completed.

Now the Hale Koa serves as a spa mostly for retired officers instead of war-weary G.I.'s — and it costs the taxpayer $1 million a year to keep it in operation.

Furthermore, the retired brass is paying about 60 percent less for rooms and services than at private hotels in Waikiki.

Stratton and a fellow subcommittee member, Rep. Dan Daniel of Virginia, say they will make some changes, perhaps even closing the hotel.

Many Vietnam vets would say, "Hear, hear."

What resolutions?

Here it is the middle of January already — and how about those New Year resolutions?

Well, some of us yet haven't gotten around to making resolutions, much less keeping them.

But we do wonder how many folks who make resolutions at the beginning of each year really intend to keep them, or even make a serious effort in that regard. Some do perhaps, but it is likely that most persons will have forgotten all about them well before January concludes its 1979 stay. Anyway, it's a great tradition and a lot of fun.

It might be a good idea to start now in thinking about our New Year 1980 resolutions.

INSIDE REPORT:

Overtones of government by man, not law are cited

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The administration of Richard Nixon's mandatory economic controls sounded this harsh warning to the nation's corporate executives on Dec. 14: Cooperate with President Carter's "voluntary" wage-price curbs out of fear, and you may well destroy yourselves.

The economic Paul Revere was Donald Rumsfeld, politician turned businessman. Speaking to his former government colleagues, Rumsfeld was blunt. He warned that the Carter program won't work and that major parts of it are illegal, based on "government by fear and intimidation."

Rumsfeld's warning came behind closed doors in the offices of the American Enterprise Institute here at one of Gerald Ford's periodic meetings with his old cabinet. But Rumsfeld is preaching that same message far and wide to his fellow businessmen and anybody else who will listen.

What bothers Rumsfeld is how little impact he is having. That's not because the business world disagrees with his diagnosis of the Carter program. On the contrary, businessmen are nearly unanimous in assessing the retributive use of federal power as ineffective. But they are not about to buck Uncle Same and risk retribution from the federal Leviathan that could follow non-compliance.

That makes Rumsfeld an exception. After uninterrupted federal service in both elective and appointive office for 19 years, ending as secretary of defense, Rumsfeld entered the private world in 1977 at age 45 as president of G.D. Searle & Co., an ailing, Chicago-based drug manufacturer. If any company needs good relations with Washington — in this case the Federal Drug Administration (FDA) — it is Searle.

Evans

At the Dec. 14 reunion of the Ford cabinet, Rumsfeld explained why he is risking those good relations. First, the "voluntary" controls — under threat of the federal blackjack — have "questionable legality." Second, based on "intimate personal experience," controls — legal or not — simply do not work. Mere mortals are "not smart enough" to fine-tune a vastly complicated economic system.

Moreover, Rumsfeld charged that the Carter program "implies that the (inflation) problem is out there in the country instead of in the White House" — that it is the fault of the people, not their government. This, he contended, detracts from the government's responsibility for deregulation of business, improved productivity and fiscal and monetary restraint — all aspects of the Carter anti-inflation program.

Rumsfeld then revealed that G.D. Searle has notified the government of its non-compliance in the "voluntary" program. But he mourned that "so few (businessmen) are willing" to do so for fear of "being singled out as uncooperative" and getting black-jacked. Thus, there are overtones of government by man, not law.

None of Rumsfeld's old colleagues disagreed. Former Atty. Gen. Edward Levi was uncharacteristically exercised, calling the Carter program, "illegal and immoral," but there were chuckles over Rumsfeld's naivete in suddenly discovering a yellow streak through the business community and its leaders.

Their conduct also is drenched with hypocrisy. Except for a few members of the Business Round Table, businessmen who honestly support the wage-price restraints can scarcely be found. Behind their public protestations of acting in the public interest is naked fear of the government. "Of course, we think the program is ridiculous and everybody else does, too," an executive for one leading defense contractor told us, "but we have important interests to protect."

A Wall Street financier told us many of his business clients give lip service to the Carter program, privately curse it and silently cheer

AFL-CIO attacks on it in court and in the political arena. "I think it is supremely ironic that the business community is relying on George Meany to save their hides," he said.

Even if the wage-price limits will not work, can they actually hurt? Apart from deflecting attention from inflation's real causes, they heighten the danger of government by White House edict — a foreboding prospect in a world where state power is more and more supreme.

Lenin forecast that capitalists would sell the rope for their own hanging. The American variety now collaborates in a system of severe limitations on freedom of decision imposed not by law but by threat of reprisal. It is in reaction to this possible self-immolation that the warning sounded by Don Rumsfeld nearly a month ago has survived by word of mouth and might yet kindle a spark.

Congress changing power structure to suit election

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Congress in a tight-fisted mood is opening its two-year term with a flurry of maneuvering to realign legislative power to reflect last fall's elections.

Federal spending looks like the top domestic issue for the 96th Congress while relations with the Soviet Union and China will dominate early debates on foreign policy.

Despite Republican gains in November, the Democrats remain firmly in control of both houses. The Senate lineup is 59 to 41 in the Democrats' favor, while in the House the Democrats have 277 seats to 158 for the Republicans.

The Democratic House majority assures Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., of re-election to another two-year term as speaker, Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., will continue as Senate majority leader.

While Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., is unopposed for another term as Senate minority leader, there are contests for three other posts in the Senate Republican leadership.

Sen. Harrison Schmitt of New Mexico is trying to unseat Sen. Ted Stevens of Alaska as assistant minority leader.

Sens. Robert Packwood of Oregon and James A. McClure of Idaho are running for the chairmanship of the Republican Conference and Sens. Orrin Hatch of Utah and John B. Heinz of Pennsylvania are vying to lead the Republican-Senate Campaign Committee.

There are no contests among the Democratic leadership in the Senate.

House Democrats and Republicans have already voted to keep Jim Wright, D-Texas, as majority leader and John Rhodes, R-Ariz., as minority leader.

The principal power struggle in the House involves the chairmanship of the Appropriations Committee, a contest that won't be decided for at least a week.

On the basis of seniority, Rep. Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., is in line to succeed Rep. George Mahon, who did not run for re-election to his seat.

But Democratic liberals hope to convince the Democratic Caucus to bypass the Mississippi conservative in favor of Rep. Edward Boland of Massachusetts.

Seniority is expected to prevail despite the fact that Boland is one of O'Neill's oldest and closest friends.

There also is likely to be an attempt to oust Rep. Daniel Flood, D-Pa., under indictment on perjury charges, as chairman of the appropriations subcommittee that handles the budgets of the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare. Flood is expected to retain the chairmanship.

House Republicans are also expected to try to expel Rep. Charles Diggs, D-Mich., who is appealing a three-year sentence for a federal payroll fraud conviction.

In the Senate, retirements and defeats have resulted in 20 new faces, one of the largest freshman classes ever. That means a major shuffle in committee seats.

Republicans, with three additional senators, will get another slot on most committees.

President Carter's submission of a Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty (SALT) with the Soviet Union for Senate approval has generated particular interest in the vacancies on the Foreign Relations Committee.

Two Democratic seats are expected to go to Sens. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine and Paul Tsongas of Massachusetts. Republican vacancies are sought by Sens. S.I. Hayakawa of California, Jesse Helms of North Carolina and Richard Lugar of Indiana.

Here, in brief, are some of the major issues expected to face the new Congress:

—SALT. The treaty, placing new limits on U.S. and Soviet strategic arsenals, would have to be approved by a two-thirds Senate majority. Opposition to the pact, which the administration hopes to conclude early this year, would be led by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and Republican conservatives.

Baker said Sunday that so many senators have not yet decided how to vote that neither side now has the votes to prevail.

—U.S.-China relations. The first test of the administration's recognition of mainland China will probably come with the vote to confirm an American ambassador. Conservatives are also expected to press for maintaining some form of official ties with Taiwan, a move the administration opposes.

—Budget. Shortly after Carter submits his fiscal 1980 budget next Monday, the Senate Budget Committee will begin hearings on the proposals, expected to total around $533 billion with a deficit of just under $30 billion.

—Taxes. The House Ways and Means Committee is expected to open hearings soon on the president's plan to allow a tax credit to workers whose wage increases are below 7 percent. The committee's head, Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., is not enthusiastic about the proposal.

Jury selection to begin today

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — A state district judge refused a change of venue motion Friday, clearing the way for jury selection to begin today in the capital murder trial of a woman accused in the slayings of five members of a Winnie, Texas, family.

Linda Mae Burnett, 30, is charged along with Joe Dugas in the execution-style slayings of the Bishop Phillips family last July.

Voter turnout slightly higher

WASHINGTON (AP) — On election day last year, 45.9 percent of voting-age Americans went to the polls, a slight increase over the 1974 congressional elections, the Commerce Department said Sunday.

However, the turnout was far below the off-year congressional elections in 1970, when 54.6 percent voted, and in 1966 when 55.4 percent went to the polls.

Nationally, the 1978 voter survey found that 47 percent of eligible whites, 37 percent of eligible blacks and 24 percent of eligible Spanish-origin persons reported voting.

As in previous general elections, older persons were more likely than young persons to vote. For example, only 20.1 percent of those 18 to 20 said they voted in 1978, compared with 60.1 percent of those 65 to 74.

The turnout in the 1976 presidential election was 59.2 percent nationally, but more people traditionally go to the polls when the nation's top office is at stake.

The number of voters varied widely by state, depending on what issues—and personalities—were involved.

Following is the Commerce Department's breakdown of voting turnout for the 20 largest states. It measures the percentage of voting-age persons who reported going to the polls. These are the only figures released by the department.

Alaskans protest land restriction

CANTWELL, Alaska (AP) — Hundreds of Alaskans who swelled this hamlet in the shadow of Mount McKinley over the weekend say they violated 27 federal rules but showed that people don't have to defile protected state land to use it.

State police said about 1,500 people arrived in Cantwell by airplane or car and headed to Denali National Monument, one of 17 created by President Carter after Congress adjourned without passing an Alaska lands bill.

Several hundred of the hardest protesters camped out in below-zero temperatures, but the protest, called by the Real Alaska Coalition and Alaskans Unite, was waged primarily through recreation that the groups said would be prohibited under national monument regulations.

One protester was killed Saturday when a snow-machine collided with a small airplane taxiing on the Cantwell airstrip.

The protesters took elaborate pains to avoid littering the area, hauling their waste out in plastic bags on Sunday and using only dead wood to fuel campfires as proof that the land can be used by outdoorsmen without being scarred.

By trapshooting, dogsledding, racing snowmachines, and picnicking, the protesters said 27 national monument regulations were violated.

The National Park Service reported no arrests and cooperated with the protesters, who were treated as "park visitors" for the weekend.

Protesters who wanted a souvenir of their participation could pay a $1 "fine" for a "certificate of arrest," issued by the sponsors.

You've got some tough competitors in your business. They're after the same customers you are; people who use the Yellow Pages an average of 34 times a year.

So your Yellow Pages ad has to be big enough to take on competition. You want it to attract attention and deliver information. Enough information to set your business apart, by providing facts to the four out of five people who use the Yellow Pages when they're ready to buy.

The more facts in your ad, the more likely customers will call you. Facts such as specialized services you offer, years in business, a

How to determine the likelier suit

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

We begin a week-long study of probability with the question of which suit is likely to break favorably. You're likelier to win when the odds are in your favor than when they're against you.

trick, and clearly you must work on clubs or diamonds. Which? You can develop a club trick if each opponent has three clubs; a diamond, if either opponent has three diamonds.

ODDS AND EVENS

You needn't remember exact figures. Just remember that an even number of missing cards will seldom divide exactly equally; but an odd number will usually divide as equally as possible.

In today's hand the odds are against a favorable club break but in favor of a favorable diamond break. Therefore take the top diamonds and give up a diamond.

If you like figures, the chance of a 3-3 break in clubs is about 36 per cent; the chance of a 3-2 break in diamonds, 68 per cent. The odds are almost 2 to 1 against a 3-3 break; better than 2 to 1 in favor of a 3-2 break.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one notrump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S1063; HQJ952; DQ108; CQ10. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts. Partner will probably pass, and you should make a comfortable part score. If partner has 17 or 18 points with good heart support, he will raise to three hearts, and you will then accept the invitation to game.

Smoke, cholesterol added health risks

Dear Dr. Solomon: Does smoking or a high cholesterol level have any effect on blood pressure?—Ben

Dear Ben: There is no solid evidence that giving up smoking or lowering blood cholesterol levels will lead to lowering of blood pressure. You should realize, however, that these are all major risk factors and that they are additive. That is, a person who smokes and has a high blood cholesterol level and has high blood pressure is at greater risk of heart disease than a person who has only one or two of these factors.

Dear Dr. Solomon: How do we know air pollution is harmful to our health?—J.A.

Dear J.A.: Over the years, scientists have been looking at air pollution's effects—examining vital statistics, experimenting with animals, studying people. Here are a few examples of their work and its lessons:

An examination of the Donora, Pa. tragedy, in which heavy air pollution blanketed this industrial town for several days, revealed that, out of 14,000 residents, 6,000 fell ill and 20 died. Most victims were elderly and those with heart and lung diseases.

high. For eczema, the children's hospitalization rate was 2.9 where air pollution was low and 10.2 where it was high.

A review of 38,207 deaths in Nashville, Tenn., over a 12-year period, found that more people died of breathing ailments in the sections of the city that also had the heaviest air pollution. A British study of 3,066 children from their birth to the age of 15 found a consistent relationship between the incidence of lower respiratory infection and high air pollution levels.

A 223-day study of Los Angeles hospital admissions showed a close correlation between high levels of air pollution and acute upper respiratory infections, influenza, bronchitis, and other lung diseases; allergic disorders; and heart and vascular diseases.

A series of breathing performance tests was given to 2,364 New York City school children between the ages of 5 and 13. The results indicated that the highly polluted air to which the older ones (9 to 13) had been exposed for five to 10 years had reduced their lungs' respiratory ability. Further evidence suggested that this early impairment could be reduced or improved by improved air quality.

Autopsies were performed on two groups of people, one from highly polluted St. Louis, Mo., and the other from barely polluted Winnipeg, Canada, in order to look for signs of emphysema. The results showed that among cigarette smokers four times as many had had severe emphysema in St. Louis as in Winnipeg. (Among non-cigarette smokers, three times as many had had mild to moderate emphysema.)

Dear Dr. Solomon: I am sick and tired of reading your propaganda about how cigarette smoking isn't good for Americans. You know no one actually dies from smoking cigarettes. Why don't you get off your soapbox?—Mr. Q.T.

Dear Mr. Q.T.: Each year 330,000 Americans die prematurely from the effects of smoking. Millions more live on with crippled lungs and overstrained hearts. Cigarette smoking is a major cause of emphysema; chronic bronchitis; lung cancer; and heart disease. There is no controversy about the facts. Thousands of careful studies have documented them. No major medical or health agency questions them. The choice is yours.

(If you have a medical problem, see your doctor. If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.)

Bella Abzug

Abzug says Carter misjudged council

NEW YORK (AP) — Bella Abzug says President Carter misjudged members of the National Advisory Council on Women when he fired her as the council's co-chairperson.

"We don't have to be lectured and scolded by the President, and told that we can only talk about this parameter of activities, and if you talk someplace else you're going to be spanked," she said Sunday during an interview on ABC-TV's "Issues and Answers" program.

The former Democratic congresswoman, whose firing on Friday led to the resignation of 26 of 40 council members, said her dismissal may have been triggered in part by strain caused by Carter's brother, Billy.

Billy Carter's remarks last week about Jews and Arabs stirred a storm of protest.

"What happened the other day at the White House was like — when a guy has a bad day at the office and he comes home and kicks his door. Well — our president probably had a bad day and instead of kicking Billy Carter, he kicked me," said Mrs. Abzug.

She said inflation was the core issue in her dismissal.

Council members told the president they did not agree with his anti-inflation policy, she said. Mrs. Abzug said they felt it was their duty to tell Carter that women are going to "bleed in a social situation that cuts the heart out of their programs."

Mrs. Abzug said Carter was naive in thinking he could fire her, replace her with a "yes person" and expect the rest of the council to continue working for the administration.

"He was not too happy about the fact that we were critical of him," she said of the Friday meeting preceding her ouster.

Donny Hathaway jumps 13 stories to his death

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer-songwriter Donny Hathaway bolted the door to his hotel room and leaped 13 stories to his death in an apparent suicide, police said.

Hathaway, 33, jumped from the 15th floor of the Essex House Hotel on Central Park South around midnight Saturday following dinner and a recording session with singer Roberta Flack.

Police said Hathaway plummeted to a second-floor ledge.

He and Ms. Flack shared a Grammy Award in 1973 for the song "Where is the Love." The hit sold more than a million copies.

"He was in good spirits, having just written new music and having performed with Roberta all day," said Edward Howard, a vice president of David M. Franklin & Associates, the Atlanta company that managed Hathaway's affairs.

Howard said Hathaway had not been drinking or using drugs. The death occurred shortly after the two men returned to the hotel from Ms. Flack's apartment, he said.

Hathaway never repeated the success of 1972, his biggest year, when in addition to "Where is the Love," he also recorded two Gold Albums, "Roberta Flack and Donny Hathaway" and "Donny Hathaway Live." Hathaway recorded for Atlantic Records.

His estranged wife, Eullah, said Hathaway was hospitalized briefly on two occasions in 1972 when his accelerating success caused heavy anxiety.

Hathaway, whose permanent address was in Chicago, was born in St. Louis, where he first performed in gospel churches. Police said his body would be sent there for burial.

Flood takes office after jury selection in his bribery trial

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Daniel J. Flood faced a tough, new challenge today as he returned to Congress for a 16th term. His task: helping lawyers pick a jury for his trial on federal bribery, perjury and conspiracy charges.

The colorful Democrat from Pennsylvania's anthracite coal region was to be sworn in at noon today along with other representatives and senators at the official opening of the 96th Congress.

But before Flood was to take his oath of office, U.S. District Judge Oliver Gasch was to begin questioning prospective jurors for Flood's trial on charges that he abused his office by trading his enormous political power for thousands of dollars in bribes.

Flood, 75, is accused of conspiring to collect $65,000 cash and 100 shares of bank stock in exchange for contracts, grants and others favors. Indictments were handed down last year by federal grand juries in Los Angeles and Washington.

He could be sentenced to 155 years in prison and fined $220,000 if convicted on all counts — 9 bribery, 3 perjury and 1 conspiracy.

The 13 counts, which were produced after an investigation by more than 100 FBI agents, were consolidated for a single trial in the nation's capital.

"I deny all these allegations totally and unequivocally," Flood said when he pleaded innocent.

"Those absurd charges (were) brought by desperate men," said the flamboyant congressman, who is known as "Dapper Dan" for his fancy white silk suits and fur-lined capes.

Inauguration draws lawmakers' attention

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas House members hoped to get their committee assignments today while senators began study of state spending proposals for 1980-81.

The Senate scheduled a morning meeting while the House returned at 2:30 p.m. to resolve a pending election contest.

The Senate Finance Committee had a 2 p.m. meeting set.

Both houses recessed last Thursday after session-opening ceremonies and a final state-of-the-state speech from outgoing Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

This week's legislative business was expected to be brief with most attention going to the inauguration of Gov.-elect Bill Clements, the state's first Republican governor in 105 years, taking place on Tuesday.

Speaker Bill Clayton said Friday he could not name the chairmen and membership of the House standing committees until the House acts on an election contest filed by Republican Kaye Thomas Patrick, who lost to Rep. Don Cartwright, D-San Antonio, by 738 votes.

A select committee headed by Rep. Bob Davis, R-Irving, heard Patrick's case and found that Cartwright should be seated permanently. Cartwright received temporary seating when Gasch has ruled that the 12 jurors and six alternates chosen for the trial will be sequestered — placed in the custody of federal marshals and locked up until the trial is complete.

Flood is a skilled orator, and left the stage to pursue a law career as a student at Harvard University. He got his law degree from Dickinson School of Law, and has served 15 terms in the House since 1944. He lost re-election bids in 1946 and 1952, but has not been defeated since.

Flood is accused of improperly trading his influence as chairman of a House Appropriations subcommittee that oversees about $75 billion for hospitals, schools, labor, welfare and defense.

"Nobody has more clout than Dan Flood," the congressman, who wears a long, waxed mustache, said a few years ago.

"Defense and HEW means two-thirds of the budget goes through my hands," he boasted. "Chum, that's a big role for an old actor. Luckily, I'm a nice fellow. I can help out a lot of nice people."

The FBI began investigating Flood's activities in mid-1977 after his former administrative assistant, Stephen B. Elko, was accused of influence peddling.

Elko, who has since been convicted of bribery and is serving a three-year term, is Flood's chief accuser. The indictments naming Flood listed Elko as a co-conspirator.

The perjury charges stem from Flood's testimony before a grand jury that was investigating Elko and his testimony as a witness at Elko's trial in California. At the time, Flood denied receiving bribes.

Wayne's progress termed excellent after gall bladder, stomach surgery

LOS ANGELES (AP).— Actor John Wayne is making an excellent recovery from the nine-hour surgery to remove his gall bladder and a cancerous stomach, hospital officials say.

The 71-year-old box office king showed strong vital signs and spent a restful weekend following the surgery. UCLA Medical Center administrator Bernard Strohm said Sunday. Wayne was able to sit up and stand up for brief periods.

"He's a hard-driving kind of person," said Strohm. "He wants to move around, but that will take time."

Strohm issued a favorable report on Wayne's condition Sunday and said, "The two most im-

Judge's ruling gives Davis jury leeway in considering evidence

HOUSTON (AP).— State District Judge Wallace Moore ruled today that he would advise the jury that it could convict Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis of either solicitation of capital murder or conspiracy to commit capital murder.

The ruling came over objections from the defense that wanted the charge to the jury to include only the solicitation count.

The ruling will give the jury greater leeway in considering the evidence presented during the lengthy trial.

It may find Davis guilty of either count or bring in a verdict of innocence. Defense lawyers said there could not have been any conspiracy because the chief prosecution witness was an FBI informant and had no intention of carrying out a conspiracy.

The prosecution argued that there was evidence of a conspiracy and the judge agreed.

Both offenses are punishable by five to 99 years in prison.

Moore plans to read his charge to the seven-man, five-woman jury Tuesday morning.

Then they will listen to eight hours of final arguments and begin deliberations of one of the most bizarre and expensive cases in Texas history.

Since the trial began, one witness has been charged with perjury, another may face the same charge, and others have testified they are former convicts and one said she earned part of her income as a prostitute.

The testimony alone lasted 10 weeks, with 94 witnesses, more than 200 pieces of evidence and hundreds of thousands of dollars spent on lawyers, investigators, daily transcripts and related legal expenses.

The jurors have been allowed to return to their homes each night, but now they will be sequestered. As Judge Moore said, "Time to bring your toothbrushes."

Permian-Basin Planning Commission given grant for alcoholism program

AUSTIN.— Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission has been awarded a $16,021 grant by the Texas Commission on Alcoholism. The grant is to continue a regional alcoholism planning program.

Region 9 — one of 24 in the state — covers a large segment of West Texas including Midland, Ector, Andrews, Martin and Glasscock counties. Funding includes salaries for the program's director and secretary.

Although the review committee approved funding for 12 months, continuation of funding after June depends upon the TCA receiving federal monies.

There are an estimated 664,655 alcoholics and alcohol abusers in Texas, each affecting an additional four persons, according to commission officials.

Britain's 2nd test-tube baby born to teacher

LONDON (AP).— Britain's second test-tube baby has been born in Glasgow to a 32-year-old cooking teacher, the Daily Mail reported today in a copyrighted story.

The newspaper said the baby, a 5-pound, 12-ounce boy named Alastair James Lauchlan Montgomery, was born Sunday to Grace Montgomery.

Heels' Ford gone, but Four-Corner still effective

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

With Phil Ford gone, North Carolina's four corner offense is only a ghost of its former self. But it's still enough to scare the daylights out of the opposition.

While probably nobody will do it as well as the redoubtable Ford did it for four years at Chapel Hill, the Tar Heels still did it good enough over the weekend to beat two Top Twenty college basketball teams.

"We didn't run the four corners as well as usual, but we were using a lot of new people," said North Carolina Coach Dean Smith after a 74-68 victory over seventh-ranked Duke Saturday and a 63-57 decision over No. 10 Arkansas Sunday.

In both games, Mike O'Koren played key roles for the nation's third-ranked team. He scored 18 points and collected 20 rebounds against Duke, then helped run the show against Arkansas.

"O'Koren played very well, I thought," said Smith. "He wasn't looking to shoot as much (Sunday), but was content with making the good pass to set up somebody."

TWO OF those on the receiving end of O'Koren's passes were Rich Yonakor (13 points) and Dudley Bradley (12 points).

"They did an excellent job of running their four corners down the stretch," said Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton, losing for the second time in a row after 10 victories. "We didn't play as well as we have at times in the past. The Texas game (which Arkansas lost Friday night) and the long trip (to Greensboro, N.C.) took something out of us. But I'm sure the Duke game took something out of North Carolina, too."

Upsets studded the weekend's activities. Seven Top Twenty teams went down to rank outsiders — including No. 4 Illinois, which lost 69-66 in overtime to Ohio State, the Illini's first defeat this season after 15 victories.

Top-ranked Michigan State lost for the second time in a row, dropping a 52-50 decision to Purdue; Virginia beat No. 8 North Carolina State 67-62; No. 11 Texas A&M lost a 78-76 decision to SMU; No. 16 Michigan was beaten by Wisconsin 77-66; Alabama whipped No. 17 Kentucky 55-52, and No. 19 Long Beach State lost to Cal State-Fullerton 81-77 in overtime.

North Carolina's victory over Duke avenged a loss earlier this year. The Tar Heels used 21 steals and forced 21 turnovers to beat their tough Atlantic Coast Conference rivals. O'Koren was usually in the center of everything for the winners.

"WE HUNG tough," said Duke Coach Bill Foster. "but we couldn't sustain anything offensively. We seem to be on a rollercoaster. We play well for a while, then have dry spells."

North Carolina's victory Sunday was just as uneasy. Grimly holding on at the end, Smith ordered the Tar Heels into their well-known spread offense and Jed Doughton and Jimmy Black ran the four corners rather effectively, turning the ball over only twice in the last-four minutes.

Mahaffey talks himself to victory

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — John Mahaffey was talking to himself as he surveyed the 15-foot birdie putt he had to make to win the Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic.

"You've been here before," he told himself. "Make up your mind, get the line and hit a good, solid putt."

He did just that.

"It's as good a putt as I've ever made," Mahaffey said Sunday. "I knew it was in."

The putt broke a tie with Lee Trevino, completed the first PGA Tour event of the season and vaulted Mahaffey to his fourth victory in his last 10 American starts.

"I'm surprised," said Mahaffey, who capped one of golf's more dramatic comebacks with victories in the PGA national championship and the World Cup late last year.

"Nobody expects to be playing well in the first tournament of the year. It's a carry-over from last season, I guess," he said.

while Mahaffey matched his birdie to win by a stroke.

It was the sixth time in less than 12 months that Trevino had been a runner-up. And it kept intact his California jinx: He has yet to win in this state.

Mahaffey won this one with a final-round 69, 3 under par at the Indian Wells Country Club — one of four desert layouts used for this marathon five-day event. He had a 90-hole total of 343, 17 under par.

Trevino, who chased him all over the resort area, had a closing 69 and a 344.

Mark Hayes got in the chase with a no-bogey, 6-under-par 66 in the last round and took third at 345. He was followed at 346 by Grier Jones, who had a 68. Lanny Wadkins and Keith Fergus were at 348, Wadkins with a 68, Fergus a 69.

Jack Nicklaus scored his third competitive hole in one, dropping a 146-yard 8-iron shot on the sixth hole. He finished with a 69 and a tie for 11th at 350.

MAHAFFEY, who had a 1-shot lead when play started Sunday, built it to two at the turn. But Trevino kept chipping away and finally caught him with a birdie on the par-5 18th.

Then he watched while Mahaffey

5-4A foes

The Midland High and Midland Lee girls' basketball teams face important struggles tonight as the District 5-4A race continues.

Midland High, 3-1 in district play and still very much alive in the battle for the first half championship, will host Abilene Cooper (3-2) at 8 p.m. at the MHS gym. A junior varsity matchup will be held at 6:15 p.m.

Midland Lee, the first half leader with a perfect 4-0 mark, can take a step closer to the first half title with a victory in the Abilene High gym at 8 p.m. tonight. A 6:15 junior varsity contest is slated for 6:15 p.m. also.

Abilene High is also in the first half hunt with a 3-1 record. Abilene is the team that dealt Midland High its only loop loss this year.

Midland Lee is the defending district champion, and will host Midland High Thursday in the Lee gym. Lee, however, still has a makeup game left with San Angelo, and a makeup date has not been decided yet.

In other 5-4A contests tonight, Odessa High (3-2) travels to San Angelo (0-4) while Odessa Permian (1-3) hosts Big Spring (0-5).

"My firm puts every dollar to work every day... why shouldn't I?"

"Money in a checking account earns nothing. So when I sold some stock last month, I asked our financial officer if he knew where I could earn interest on that money while I shopped for another security."

"Well, he said a savings account at a savings and loan institution pays the highest interest... but that means sending a check or standing in line to deposit, standing in line again to withdraw. No way. I need a program to get in and out quickly. My lifestyle moves like the market... and the market doesn't wait for anyone."

Hollywood likes to keep opponents hopping mad

As far as Thomas "Hollywood" Henderson is concerned, the Minnesota Vikings or Los Angeles Rams or Pittsburgh Steelers, it really doesn't make that much difference. All present problems...quarterback problems, especially from his point of view as a linebacker.

TED BATTLES
BATTLE SCENE

"Fran Tarkenton has lots of experience and gets rid of the ball quick," he appraised. "Los Angeles has Pat Haden and that big line to protect him."

And now Terry Bradshaw, enjoying his best year, and throwing to the likes of Lynn Swann and John Stallworth, is a problem in himself, but the Steelers add a new dimension for this week's Super Bowl, a running game that features Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier, something neither the Falcons nor Rams had.

Hollywood wasn't discovered by the Cowboys while sipping a soft drink at the corner drugstore while wearing a tight-fitting sweater. If anything, it was even more obscure. He came off the Langston University campus, unknown and unheralded, like so many small college NFL rookies.

AND YOU can't say Henderson isn't genuine 1930s vintage Hollywood. After all, not even Bum Phillips would show up for a post game press conference in a fox skin coat and boots. At least, Bum wouldn't relax, pull up his trousers and announce the boots were worth $600.

The jacket? "Don't worry, it's not an endangered species."

After the Atlanta game, Henderson was especially effervescent. He was back on the specialty teams and getting more playing time.

"I talked to Coach Landry and Coach (Mike) Ditka early in the week and told them my ankle was okay. I like to be out there as much as possible."

He thrives on the attention his appearance creates and believes it's good for the team. "Hey, when I'm out there, I get special attention. When I lined up on that kickoff return team, I haven't been on one all year. I heard the Atlanta coaches start yelling, 'Watch out for 56! Watch out for 56!'"

"A lot of guys would like nothing better than to get out there and get a chance to knock a few of Hollywood's teeth out. I'm a big play man and I can get attention. Usually, I'm double or triple-teamed and that's good for the Cowboys."

On John James' short punt that set up the Cowboys' winning touchdown against Atlanta, Henderson said, "I know he saw me. They left my side too open and James thought we were going to block it. I also figured that if they were concentrating on me it would give Charlie Waters (one of the best punt blockers in the NFL) a chance to slip through. And James also knew the 30-second clock was running out, so he rushed his punt. Boom!"

UNLIKE CLIFF Harris, who came out of Ouachita College in Arkansas and hung on by his fingernails until he gained appreciation and won a spot for himself, Henderson broke in with a flair that grabbed everybody's attention in a hurry. He returned a kickoff 86 yards early in his rookie year, a feat that astounded the nation. Or at least that segment watching TV that day.

A linebacker returning a kickoff 86 yards? Only with the Cowboys. Henderson in one swift stroke had established his athletic prowess.

Since then he has been his own best publicity man, both with his performance and his brash, irreverent mouth.

Earlier this season, one writer predicted Dallas would lose to New England because Patriots' Russ Francis would eat Henderson alive. Henderson demanded, and got, a public apology after he spent the afternoon making one of the game's best tight ends look futile.

Before the Thanksgiving Day rematch with Washington, he labeled the Redskins as "turkeys", and then went out and helped stuff them.

Last week he charged the "Rams don't have enough class to play in the

Chaps take to road for Frank Phillips tonight

The vacation interlude is over for the Midland College-Chaparrals. After a 30-day holiday layoff, the Chaps swung back into action over the weekend in the ABC Olympic Classic at Big Spring, but that was just to get the feel of the game back.

Starting tonight, the Chaps face 14 Western Junior College Conference games in the next seven weeks. Coach Jerry Stone takes his 12-5 WJCC co-leaders to Borger to face Frank Phillips College and then Thursday Midland travels to Odessa College for a game, a team MC lost to in the finals of the OC tournament back in November.

Midland College had ripped off four straight WJCC victories before adjourning for the Christmas-New Year's break and share first place with Western Texas College, also 4-0.

AT BIG Spring over the weekend, MC was 1-2, losing to conference rivals Howard College and Western Texas and beating McMurry JV.

Midland lost a couple of sophomore players to grades at midterm with letterman Ricky Murdock and squad-man Krieg Curry the victims. However, MC added 6-5 freshman, Carl Lee Runnels, a shooting guard from Houston Wheatley, and he demonstrated he would be an asset to the team in the ABC tourney.

"Runnels is a pure guard who was a teammate of Kenneth 'Big Time' Young in high school. They are used to playing with each other and Carl is learning our system quickly," Stone said. "We are delighted to get him, since he was a regular on those great Wheatley teams the past three years. His height is a plus-factor, since most guards are a lot smaller than he is."

Athletic Director Delior Poss revealed that KCRS will carry 11 of the MC games, starting with Odessa College Thursday. Don Mac and Richard Nelson Baze, assisted by Darrel Ward, will handle the play-by-play and analysis.

Games to be broadcast are Odessa, Jan. 18; Western Texas, Jan. 22; South Plains, Jan. 29; New Mexico Junior College, Feb. 1; Amarillo, Feb. 8; Howard, Feb. 12; Frank Phillips, Feb. 15; Odessa, Feb. 19; WTC, Feb. 22; Clarendon, Feb. 26, and South Plains, March 1.

Knoetze wants Holmes next, then his idol Ali

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Heavyweight Kallie Knoetze, a no-frills power puncher, says he can whip Larry Holmes any time and would like nothing better than to meet his idol, Muhammad Ali, in the ring.

But it will first take some fancy footwork by his attorneys to keep the South African boxer's title hopes alive.

Knoetze knocked out Bill Sharkey in the fourth round Saturday for his 17th victory, including 16 knockouts, in 19 professional matches. After overpowering the smaller Sharkey, Knoetze predicted great things for himself.

"I will be the next champion," he said. "It took Muhammad Ali 15 years to bring boxing up to where it is now. I want to take it farther."

ASKED HOW he would do against Holmes, the World Boxing Council champ, Knoetze said: "I can beat Holmes any time. He has a big jaw. One bomb and he's gone. You can hit his jaw with your eyes closed."

Ali is the champion of the World Boxing Association, which ranks Knoetze as its No. 2 challenger.

"I hope my next fight is for the world championship — Muhammad Ali's championship. But my manager says I must go up the ladder," Knoetze said.

Knoetze may have trouble getting the bouts he needs to move up the ladder unless he is able to fight in the United States.

His first U.S. fight came after two weeks of civil rights protests and legal moves that will continue this week. The Rev. Jesse Jackson has brought pressure on the State Department to revoke Knoetze's visa, publicizing a 1977 incident in which Knoetze, a former South African policeman, shot a black youth in the legs.

THE VISA was revoked because of Knoetze's misdemeanor conviction for obstruction of justice, a felony in the U.S. However, federal judge Norman C. Roettger ruled the visa was improperly revoked and placed Knoetze under the protection of a temporary restraining order.

Roettger will hear both sides in his Fort Lauderdale court Jan. 22, and Knoetze could be barred from the United States for life.

"The hearing is terribly important," said Knoetze's agent, Jim Jacobs. "His next opponent is open because we have people we want to fight him against here but they would not go to South Africa to fight. There are a lot of boxers who won't go to South Africa."

Addressing a rally of about 130 protestors with signs such as "KO Apartheid," Jackson promised that today he will seek a court order to keep prize money from Knoetze on grounds he didn't have a valid work permit. He also vowed to challenge the White House to investigate the State Department's alleged mishandling of the affair, and asked the Federal Communications Commission to investigate the role of CBS in the fight.

Knoetze, who refused to engage in political discussions, laughed when informed of Jackson's statements.

"This Jackson, is he the promoter? If he's not, then I get paid," Knoetze said.

McEnroe wanted better foe

NEW YORK (AP) — Though Arthur Ashe had dragged him through three hours of agonizingly close tennis, the final three games always in doubt, John McEnroe said he'd have preferred to play someone better.

"It would have been nicer to beat Connors or one of the top players," said McEnroe after scoring a 6-7, 6-3, 7-5 triumph in Sunday's final of the $400,000 Grand Prix Masters, the richest event — if not the most prestigious — in the sport.

McEnroe received $100,000 for the victory. He and Peter Fleming won the doubles final the night before over Wojtek Fibak and Tom Okker. So the 19-year-old's haul for the weekend was $120,000, plus another $116,000 for being one of the points leaders on the Grand Prix tour last year.

Ashe won $64,000, plus a $50,000 points bonus. Brian Gottfried beat Eddie Dibbs 6-4, 7-6 for third place and $40,000. Dibbs won $32,000.

The 35-year-old Ashe was the overwhelming favorite of the crowd of 17,000 at Madison Square Garden. He was prepared, eager, polite and well-controlled throughout, as he put McEnroe through his paces.

McEnroe, who had bad lapses in timing, judgment and concentration, was sulky, sometimes desperate, sometimes overconfident.

ASHE HAD double match point in the 10th game of the final set, a point of some controversy later.

John McEnroe, a profitable week.

Ashe hit a backhand into the net to spoil his first match point. On the second he hit a return for an apparent winner — but as he finished the rally, the service line judge uttered a late call of fault on McEnroe's serve.

"I will bet all the money I have got it was a good serve," said Ashe. "Having looked at the tape, I am still convinced it was a good serve. But the guy called a fault and it's all history."

Ashe did not make a scene at the time, though.

"I was thinking of my runner-up speech," a relieved McEnroe said of that game, smiling for the first time in hours. "I didn't know what I was going to say, but I was sure thinking about it."

There could not have been a much tougher test of McEnroe than the one provided by Ashe, the last man to qualify for the eight-man round robin and whom McEnroe beat easily in the first round. Ashe isn't one of the top 10 players in the world, but he is No. 13, and that after starting 1978 at No. 257.

Ashe came within one point of holding his service in the fifth game of the final set but McEnroe sent it to deuce with an overhead, then won it on an unforced error by Ashe and a backhanded winner that again touched the line.

McEnroe opened the final game with his sixth ace of the match and reached triple match point on a service winner and an overhead. Ashe saved the first two with a drop volley off the net cord and a passing shot on return of service, but on the third his return sailed wide.

"I can't believe I won that match," the youngster told a national television audience afterward. "I knew Arthur was a great player. I was just hoping he wouldn't prove it today."

Jim Waltrip Surprises by Mustangs, graduates Owls rock SWC race Cum Laude

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — "People go to college for four years to get a degree so they can go out in the world and be qualified to earn a living. I feel like that's what I've been doing the last three or four years," said Darrell Waltrip.

Waltrip, the boyish looking, controversial rising star in Grand National stock car racing, left no doubt he's completed his practical training as he mapped a well-calculated, convincing route to victory Sunday in the West-ern 500. The race opened the 1979 season.

A victory on the demanding nine-turn Riverside International Raceway road course is considered a good indicator of a driver's skill. Past winners have been Dan Gurney, Parnelli Jones, Mark Donohue, David Pearson, Richard Petty.

Asked if he thought his training years were over, the colorful Waltrip replied: "If I'm not good right now, I hope I hurry up and get good."

Texas Coach Abe Lemons and Baylor Coach Jim Haller didn't have games Saturday night but they were shaking their heads after what they had seen in Moody Coliseum.

The two coaches along with a record crowd of 10,276 witnessed an undermanned Southern Methodist team somehow holding on to outlast the 11th-ranked Texas Aggies 78-76 in a pulsating Southwest Conference basketball game.

Then came the news from Lubbock that suddenly rejuvenated Rice had broken a long-standing losing streak to Texas Tech by upsetting the Red Raiders 62-56.

"It's going to get wilder than this before its over," said Haller.

LEMONS, WHO had guided his Longhorns to a 66-63 victory over previously unbeaten Arkansas the night before, was virtually speechless for a change.

Texas and Texas Tech each own a share of the SWC lead with 3-1 records while Arkansas and Texas A&M are close behind at 2-1.

But the only team really out of the running appears to be Texas Christian.

While Texas is at Rice Tuesday night, Texas Tech has to travel to SMU and try to stop freshman guard sensation Billy Allen, and Houston is at Baylor.

On Wednesday night, Arkansas is at Texas A&M in a joust featuring two teams trying to rebound from upset losses.

But for the moment the surprise package of the year is the Rice Owls who were picked to share the SWC basement with Texas Christian.

Rice upset Southern Methodist 78-76 last Monday night.

THE SIGNIFICANCE of the Owl victory over the Red Raiders can be found in the Rice record books. The Owls had lost 17 consecutive games to the Red Raiders before senior Elbert Darden scored 22 points in the Saturday shocker.

"I was very impressed with Billy Allen," said Texas A&M Coach Shelby Metcalf. Rudy Woods played very well for us."

Here's why it takes fuel to make electricity.

It takes fuel to make electricity.

A lot of people don't understand that, but it's true.

Most of the power plants in this country require steam to generate electricity. To make steam you must boil water, and that requires a lot of heat.

That's why we have to buy and burn large amounts of fuel, such as lignite coal and natural gas, every month. The steam we make with it turns the generators that make your electricity, which we distribute to you right when you need it.

The fuel we use costs money, more all the time, which is why we show it separately on your bill. At Texas Electric, we want you to know what you're paying for. And to remember: it takes fuel to make electricity.

Phone 683-4651

Can you guess what this is? No, it's not a row of pipe organs, a stack of false teeth or a line of pigeonhole desk slots. It's the inside of a 30-ton gas compressor going through routine maintenance and repairs at Amoco-Texas Refining Co.'s oil refinery in Texas City.

Giant turbines set in Gulf Stream could supply Florida with electricity

By PATRICK BOYLE
The Los Angeles Times

PASADENA, Calif. — Picture this: A turbine, bigger than the Los Angeles Sports Arena, with two giant fans in the center. Sink 250 of these huge machines into the Gulf Stream off the coast of Miami, holding them in place with steel cables nearly two miles long anchored to the ocean floor. The four-knot current slowly rotates the giant turbine fans, producing enough electricity to power a large part of Florida.

The scheme sounds far-fetched, as do many of the alternative energy ideas that have been proposed in the past few years. And hopes for an easy solution to the energy crisis have often given such exotic ideas a quick following of believers before there is proof that they will work.

Placing turbines in the Gulf Stream is one of about 5,000 alternative energy plans being studied by U.S. companies and the institutions under contract with the Department of Energy. They range from the well-known windmill to the almost-unknown magnetic fusion, which involves using a magnetic field to contain the fusion of hydrogen atoms at temperatures approaching 100 million degrees.

Robert Porter, a Department of Energy spokesman, says little government research money is now being spent on solar heating and cooling, although there are projects investigating use of solar cells to generate electricity.

Other research is being done on plans to get natural gas from seaweed, to burn coal more efficiently and to use the rise and fall of ocean waves to produce power. Porter says the bulk of federal ocean research money, about $30 million, is going into the study of ocean thermal energy conversion (OteC), a process that would rely on differences in water temperatures at varying depths to produce electricity.

FEDERAL SPENDING on new energy technology is expected to be about $3 billion this fiscal year, five times what it was before the Arab oil embargo of 1973-74.

As with the Gulf Stream project, being done by Aerovironment Inc. of Pasadena, Calif., the goal of these projects is not so much to find out whether electricity can be produced, but whether it can be generated in sufficient quantities and at a low enough price to be competitive with oil, coal or natural gas, the so-called fossil fuels.

"Putting turbines in the Gulf Stream is a sexy application," Porter says, "urging a skeptical view of all such ideas. "Even if it works, by itself it is probably not going to save the world. We believe the world can be saved, but it will be through a variety of applications."

A look at the Gulf Stream project provides some insight into the pitfalls and problems associated with turning a scientific theory into a $20 billion engineering marvel. It's an idea that looks good on paper, has shown promise in laboratory research, and has produced a "yes" answer when fed into a computer — but will only be proven with further study.

"The inventor came to us after a half-million dollars had been spent on it," says Peter B.S. Lissaman, Aerovironment's vice president for aerodynamics. "We looked at it and decided it's not a crazy scheme at all."

LISSAMAN SAID the firm calls it the Coriolis Program, in honor of the French engineer and mathematician, Gaspard Gustave de Coriolis, who wrote a scientific paper in 1835 describing the effects of the earth's rotation on moving bodies. His theory, the Coriolis effect, was later applied to explain the movement of ocean currents.

Aerovironment, founded in 1971, conducts atmospheric and environmental studies for clients and also manufactures scientific instruments used in those studies. Its president is Paul MacCreedy, an authority on atmospheric and aerodynamics who in 1977 won the Kremer Prize — and $85,000 — for his design of a pedal-powered aircraft.

One of the company's founding directors is Muarry Gell-Mann, a professor at California Institute of Technology and winner of the 1969 Nobel Prize for physics.

The firm has a $230,000 contract with the Department of Energy for the Coriolis program.

The basic concept for the ocean turbine is the work of two engineers, David F. Thompson and William J. Mouton. They put in four years of design work and testing before bringing their research to Aerovironment, Lissaman said.

AS PROPOSED, each turbine would be 560 feet in diameter, with the turbine fans mounted in a floating hull 360 feet long. The array of turbines would be 75 feet below the ocean surface, enabling ships to pass over them. Each machine would be held in place by an anchor weighing 6,000 tons.

Lissaman says they would be placed 25 miles off the coast of Miami, in an area known to have the swiftest ocean current in the world. The four-knot Gulf Stream will rotate the turbines about once every minute, he said, with each turbine having a rated capacity of 75 megawatts of electricity annually.

As proposed, the 250 turbines would have a rated annual capacity of about 18,000 megawatts, but would probably produce only about 10,000 megawatts, Lissaman says. By comparison, a new nuclear power plant has a capacity of about 1,100 megawatts and a conventional oil-burning plant about 700 megawatts, with annual production substantially less than those figures due to lower average demand for electricity.

Lissaman says that although the turbines may seem immense, the design is "Victorian engineering, the sort of stuff that built the Brooklyn Bridge." He says a New Orleans shipbuilding firm saw the design and gave verbal assurances that it could build the turbines.

Although Lissaman describes the project with the enthusiasm befitting its director, he admits that it may run into problems.

THE BIGGEST unanswered question is what effect 250 giant turbines would have on the flow and speed of the Gulf Stream. The current flows north along the eastern seaboard to Canada, moving out to sea and circling around through the Caribbean Sea and back up the coast of Florida. It affects and controls the weather pattern for much of the Atlantic Ocean, and any disruption of that pattern for the purpose of producing electricity may not be acceptable.

The aerovironment research is aimed at providing a more precise estimate of how the Gulf Stream will be changed by the turbine array. Lissaman said his calculations indicate that it would slow the current less than one percent.

The research project should also show whether the rotation of the turbines will cause vibration problems. Lissaman said the next step will be to find an investor or company interested in financing construction of a working turbine, estimated to cost $100 million, to provide a final test of the proposal.

But the real unknown is whether the cost of building and using the turbines would be competitive with the price of tapping other sources for electricity. Data compiled by Aerovironment shows electricity produced by the turbines, delivered on shore, will cost about 4.1 cents per kilowatt hour, compared to about 5.5 cents for a new nuclear power plant and 2.6 cents for a new oil burning plant.

"Ocean turbines is an awfully complex technology that we don't know much about," says Porter of the Energy Department. "The Aerovironment study will go a long way toward helping us understand it better. But until we see that it's technologically possible and environmentally acceptable, we won't know whether it will play a role in our energy future."

Holly Energy will dig Garza area explorer

Holly Energy, Inc., of Dallas announced location for a 9,300-foot wildcat in Garza County, 15 miles southeast of Post.

The Ellenburger project is 1/2 mile east of the depleted Gordon Simpson (Stran and Ellenburger) field and 467 feet from north and 2,173 feet from pool of Pecos County, nine miles southwest of Girvin.

Operator staked location 1,955 feet from south and 1,355 feet from east lines of section 65, block 11, H&GN survey. It will be drilled as No. 3-65 Becken.

ENERGY OIL & GAS

east lines of section 64, block 6, H&GN survey.

The field produces from the Spraberry zone.

REAGAN WELLS

Knox Industries, Inc., of Midland has announced potential tests on three wells in the Spraberry Trend area field of Reagan County.

No. 1 Evans, 10 miles north of Best, was completed for a daily pumping potential of 72 barrels of 34-gravity oil and 40 barrels of water, through perforations from 6,386 to 6,410 feet. Gas-oil ratio is 1,194-1.

The pay was fractured with 45,000 gallons.

Total depth is 8,100 feet and 4.5-inch casing is cemented on bottom.

Location is 8,104 feet from north and 6,902 feet from east lines of Andrew Roach survey No. 1.

Knox Industries No. 1 Slaughter was completed for a 24-hour pumping potential of 31 barrels of 34-gravity oil and 40 barrels of water.

Completion was through perforations from 6,435 to 6,461 feet after 35,000 gallons of fracture solution. Gas-oil ratio is 1,096-1.

Total depth is 8,032 feet and 4.5-inch casing was landed at total depth.

Well site is 4,205 feet from north and 6,902 feet from west lines of Andrew Roach survey No. 1 and 10 miles north of Best.

The operator reported a daily pumping potential for his No. 1 Watkins of 85 barrels of 34-gravity oil and 40 barrels of water, through perforations from 6,412 to 6,428 feet after 35,000 gallons of fracture solution.

Gas-oil ratio is 1,305-1.

Total depth is 8,100 feet ad 4.5-inch casing is set at that point.

Location is 6,283 feet from north and 6,902 feet from east lines of Andrew Roach survey No. 1 and 10 miles north of Best.

ROOSEVELT AREA

Flag-Redfern Oil Co. of Midland No. 2 CITGO-State is a new oiler in the Bluitz (San Andres) pool of Roosevelt County, N. M., seven miles east of Bluitz.

It completed for a daily pumping potential of 13.2 barrels of 25.6-gravity oil, with a gas-oil ratio of 1,288-1.

The final was through perforations from 4,658 to 4,653 feet.

Total depth is 4,845 feet and two and three-eighths-inch casing is set at total depth.

Location is 2,130 feet from south and 467 feet from east lines of section 16-8S-38E.

CONGER PROJECTS

Wagner & Brown of Midland announced locations for two more tests in the Conger (Pennsylvanian) area.

One of the projects is in Glasscock County and the other is in Sterling.

The Glasscock test is No. 2-28-A Allein, 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 28, block 32, T-5-S, T&P survey and 18 miles southwest of Sterling City. It is slated for an 8,400-foot bottom.

Wagner & Brown No. 3-34-A Allein, also contracted to 8,400 feet 18 miles southwest of Sterling City, is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 34, block 32, T-5-S, T&P survey.

PECOS PROJECT

Flag-Redfern Oil Co. of Midland is to be drilled as a 5,200-foot operation in the Chenot (Wolfcamp) gas

pool of Pecos County, nine miles southwest of Girvin.

Operator staked location 1,955 feet from south and 1,355 feet from east lines of section 65, block 11, H&GN survey. It will be drilled as No. 3-65 Becken.

ANDREWS TEST

American Trading and Production Co. of Midland No. 5-28 David Fasken has been spotted in the Serio (Grayburg) pool of Andrews County, 15 miles southeast of Andrews.

Scheduled for a 5,000-foot bottom, it is 467 feet from south and 1,814 feet from east lines of section 28, block 40, T-2-N, T&P survey.

MARTIN WELL

Mitchell Energy Corp. No. 1-13 University has been completed to extend the Lacaff (Wolfcamp oil) pool of Martin County 3/4 mile southwest.

On 24-hour potential test it flowed 133.5 barrels of 36.5-gravity oil and a trace of water, through a 1/4-inch choke and perforations from 9,770 to 9,852 feet.

Gas-oil ratio is 395-1.

The pay was fractured with 50,000 gallons.

Total depth is 13,015 feet and 4.5-inch casing is set at 9,984 feet. The plugged back depth is 9,920 feet.

Well site is 990 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 13, block 7, University Lands survey and 29 miles north of Midland.

MARTIN PRODUCER

RK Petroleum Corp. No. 1 Anchor, drilled as a wildcat to 10,915 feet in Martin County, eight miles north of Tarzan, has been completed in the Spraberry Trend Area field.

Operator reported a daily flowing potential of 55 barrels of oil and eight barrels of water, through a 12/64-inch choke and perforations from 9,230 to 9,358 feet.

Total depth is 10,915 feet and 4.5-inch pipe is set at 9,520 feet.

Gas-oil ratio is 800-1 and the pay was acidized with 2,000 gallons.

Location is 5,076 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of league 252, Ward County School Land survey.

ECTOR SECTOR

Shell Oil Co. No. 13-D University, a former Ellenburger and Connell producer in the Jordan multipay field, has been re-completed from the Wolfcamp.

Extending Wolfcamp production 5/8 mile northeast, it finished for a daily pumping potential of 6 barrels of 41-gravity oil and four barrels of water, through perforations from 6, 731 to 6,964 feet after 1,400-gallons of acid.

Gas-oil ratio is 833-1. Total depth is 8,935 feet, 5.5-inch pipe is set at 8,851 feet and hole is plugged back to 8,700 feet.

Location is 1,990 feet from north and 1,280 feet from west lines of section 7, block 35, University Lands survey and five miles south of Penwell.

CRANE OILER

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 7 W. N. Waddell and others, a re-entry project in Crane County, has been recompleted as a Wolfcamp gas well in the Sand Hills multipay area.

It finished for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 705,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 5,673 to 5,715 feet. Gas-oil ratio is 146,678-1. Gravity of the liquid is 35.7 degrees.

The pay was acidized with 5,000 gallons.

Total depth 6,013 feet and seven-inch casing is set at 5,881 feet. The plugged back depth is 5,754 feet.

Location is 665 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 4, block B-27, psi survey.

Location is 11,225 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 4, block B-27, psi survey.

It originally was completed through perforations from 5,670 to 5,715 feet.

PECOS FIELD TRY

Sahara Oil Co. of San Angelo No. 1-9 Anna M. Westerman has been staked one location southeast of production in the three-well Bakersfield, South (Yates gas) pool of Pecos County, 3.5 miles south of Bakersfield.

The 1,600-foot test is 467 feet from north and west lines of section 9, block 604, D. M. Smith Grantee survey.

COTTLE WELL

Bass Enterprises Production Co. of Midland No. 1 Fields has been completed as the second gas well in the Stesscott (Atoka) pool of Cottle County, 17 miles southeast of Paducah.

The operator reported a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 12,744,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 6,182 to 6,189 feet.

It is 5/8 mile northeast of the other well.

Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of San Augustine University survey.

The pool's gas discovery is the same operator's No. 1 T. B. Havins which was completed in March 1976 for a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 5 million cubic feet of gas per day and 38 barrels of condensate, through perforations from 6,188 to 6,207 feet.

Midland man listed 'serious' after treatment for gunshot

A 24-year-old Midland man was listed in serious condition at Midland Memorial Hospital early today as a result of a reportedly self-inflicted gunshot wound, according to city police.

The man was admitted to the intensive care unit and was being treated for a wound, a medical spokesman said.

Police said they responded to a call in the 1100 block of East Pennsylvania Avenue at 12:15 a.m. and found a gunshot victim at the residence.

The man appeared to have shot himself one time in the right shoulder with a .25-caliber semi-automatic pistol, said officers. The shooting resulted from a domestic disturbance at the residence, according to investigators.

In other police activity over the weekend, police reported $250 worth of property damage in a criminal mischief incident in the parking lot of the Starlite Lounge at 1915 Garden City Highway.

Someone apparently drove a vehicle against another vehicle head-on, bumper to bumper, and pushed the second car into the southwest corner wall of the lounge, police said.

The front right fender area and back left fender area of the vehicle were damaged.

A 60-year-old man was arrested at 11:46 p.m. Sunday in the parking lot of the Executive Lounge at 3803 W. Wall St. for alleged unlawful carrying of a weapon.

Police responded to a report that a heavily intoxicated man was sitting in an automobile with the motor running on the west side of the tavern. Officers said they found a .357-caliber magnum handgun in the car.

Marvin Zoeller of 2314 W. Cuthbert Ave. reported the theft of a white gold band with an "aqua-marine" stone set in the center surrounded by four small diamonds, each no larger than 1/8 carat.

The ring, valued at $450, reportedly was taken from Zoeller's residence sometime between Dec. 1 and Sunday.

A theft was reported Sunday at the Holiday Inn. Taken were $178 in cash, a gold cigarette lighter and a gold money clip.

Angelia Sanchez of 417 E. Shandon Ave. reported a residential burglary Saturday night. A clock radio, a gold bracelet and assorted jewelry valued at $2,025 were stolen, according to police.

Mitch Ellis of 2601 N. A St. reported the theft of $6.01 worth of gas Sunday from the 7-11 convenience store at C Street and Indiana Ave. The suspect took off in a blue 1972 Thunderbird.

Lorraine Young of 4724 Leisure Dr. reported the theft of a 10 1/2 month-old, 60-pound golden retriever.

Elizabeth Jane Driver of 504 W. Cowden Ave. said someone shot out one of her car tires with a 12 gauge shotgun. Officers found two spent shotgun shells near her car.

Diamond has new owner

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The 137.02-carat "Premier Rose" — described as the finest and most expensive diamond in the world — has been sold in the United States for $11.5 million, the Johannesburg Star reported today.

The American-South African syndicate that sold the diamond refused to name the buyer or confirm the sale price.

Sylvain Mow of South Africa's Mow Diamond Cutting Works — one of the partners in the syndicate — would say only, "I'm not unhappy about the selling price."

He said in a telephone interview that secrecy about the price and the buyer were conditions of the sale, which took place last month.

"I just can't tell you any more, it would be unethical," he said.

The Mow family, in partnership with William Goldberg of Goldberg Weiss of New York City, bid $5.17 million last May to buy the rough 353.9-carat stone when De Beers Consolidated Mines Ltd., the diamond giant, put it up for sale.

The stone had been discovered at the Premier Mine, near the South African capital of Pretoria.

The Premier Mine was the site of the discovery in 1995 of the Cullinan diamond, a massive 3,106-carat stone.

The Premier Rose takes its name from the mine and from Sylvain Mow's mother, Rose.

Technically, it is the third-largest pear-shaped diamond in the world, the 14th largest white diamond and the 23rd largest polished diamond.

But the 189-facet stone was described by Mow as the finest in the world because several factors.

Carter willing to invite Begin, Sadat to summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, putting new pressure on the leaders of Israel and Egypt, is willing to invite them to another summit meeting to reach a Mideast peace agreement.

With a top U.S. official about to reintroduce the Carter administration into the search for an Israeli-Egyptian treaty, the president Sunday renewed his proposal that, if necessary, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin meet with him.

The president made his proposal as he accepted the Martin Luther King Jr. Non-Violent Peace Prize, awarded at Atlanta's Ebenezer Baptist Church, where the slain civil rights leader preached.

The president, who returned to Washington Sunday evening, used the occasion to begin his campaign for public acceptance of the still-to-be-completed Strategic Arms Limitation

18-year-old man killed

RANKIN — An 18-year-old Monahans man was killed when the truck he was in collided with a cow south of here Friday night, rolled over one and one-half times and pinned him and the truck driver in the cab of the truck, said Texas Highway Patrol officers.

Antonio F. Melendez died as a result of massive head injuries in the accident, which occurred at 7:55 p.m. Friday on Texas 349 about 12 miles south of here, said officials.

Jack Everitt Manigold, 25, of Monahans, driver of the truck, was released from the Rankin District Hospital Saturday after being kept there overnight for observation of a head injury, according to a spokesman.

Officers said Manigold was hauling a load of pipe from Monahans to Rankin when the truck hit the cow.

Melendez was pronounced dead at the scene by Peace Justice Reba Price of Rankin.

Two men killed in Friday shooting

BIG SPRING — A Colorado City man and a Big Spring man were pronounced dead after a shooting incident in a lounge here about 10:30 p.m. Friday, according to a detective with the Big Spring Police Department.

Elmer Green of Colorado City was pronounced dead at the scene with five gunshot wounds. Eugene Vanderbilt of Big Spring died later that evening at a Big Spring hospital from a gunshot wound to the chest, according to the detective.

The two men started arguing with each other, the officer said. Witnesses told detectives one of the men pulled a gun and shot the other in the chest. At this point, the second man pulled a gun and shot the first man about five times, officers were told.

Green apparently had a .22-caliber pistol, which was found next to his body, the officer said. Vanderbilt apparently had a .38-caliber pistol, which was found behind a refrigerator in the bar, he added.

Used car salesman no joke when you get a clunker

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Used cars and used car salesmen rank close to mothers-in-law as a target for comedians, but the subject is no laughing matter for the consumer who gets stuck with a clunker.

The Federal Trade Commission is considering a staff proposal for new regulations to protect buyers by requiring dealers to provide more information about the vehicles they are selling, but the rules would not remove all the risks.

The FTC plan would affect sales made by dealers only; it would not cover the private transactions in which half or more of all used cars change hands every year.

It would not require dealers to repair defects in the cars they sell; it would only force them to disclose the existence of such problems — in writing.

With a little knowledge, you can protect yourself against problems. If you are shopping at a dealer, check his reputation in the community with friends and the Better Business Bureau. Inspect the car carefully, if you don't know anything about automobiles, bring along someone who does. Take the car for a test drive. And ask about the details of any warranty that is offered.

To get a rough idea of costs, check the Used Car Guide of the National Automobile Dealers Association or the Kelly Blue Book, remember that individual prices vary widely depending on the condition and mileage of the car.

There are three basic sources of used cars: the private individual, the dealer who handles only used cars and the new-car dealer who also sells autos that have been traded in.

You will probably spend the least if you buy from an individual, but you may have to pay a price for your savings. Individuals usually sell cars "as is." You may have to put added money for repairs into the auto you select. You will not get a warranty and will have no recourse if something goes wrong.

The used-car dealer will offer a wider selection of cars and will probably provide a limited warranty. He also may be able to help you finance your purchase, although not necessarily at the lowest rate.

The new-car dealer probably will have the newest used cars; the older, less-desirable cars he gets as trade-ins are usually sold to used-car dealers. The new-car dealer also will, as a rule, give you the most complete warranty. In exchange for the service, you may pay a higher price.

Before you buy, check the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration to find out if the model you are considering is currently or ever has been the subject of a recall. The agency's toll-free hotline number is 800-424-9393. You must provide the make, model number and year of the car.

If you learn the auto has been involved in a recall, ask the administration for a vehicle identification card. By sending the card to the manufacturer, you can learn whether the previous owner had the car repaired.

Federal law requires dealers in used cars to give buyers written confirmation of the actual mileage. If the odometer is known to be incorrect, the dealer must say so — again, in writing.

You don't have to be a mechanic to check a car for defects before you buy. Among some suggestions from the authors of "The New Consumer Survival Kit," are:

—Inspect the exterior of the car, looking for ripples in the paint or repainted spots. They could indicate the vehicle was in an accident.

—Look for signs of rust, especially in the wheel wells and around the rocker panels under the doors.

—Test shock absorbers. Give each corner of the car a good bounce, then let go. It should bounce once and stop.

—Check tire tread. Look for signs of uneven wear. If one side of the tire is more worn than the other, the car could need a front-end alignment.

—Race the engine while a friend checks the exhaust. A blue exhaust indicates a worn engine; a black exhaust, an untuned carburetor.

Farm Bureau leader attacks church, unions

By DON KENDALL

MIAMI (AP) — The head of the American Farm Bureau Federation today attacked church leadership, federal spending policies and what he called a "do-less-but-demand-more" attitude of labor unions.

Allan Grant, president of the federation, said also that farm issues have "become part of the Washington game of political handball."

"The signs are evident in welfare programs which encourage people to make careers out of not working, in a Social Security program so out-of-hand that its structure now includes 630 administrative law judges, compared to 495 in the entire federal court system," he said.

Grant's remarks were prepared for the federation's annual meeting here. The federation says it is the nation's largest farm organization and has almost 3.1 million members.

He criticized church leaders for seeking "secular goals" instead of concentrating on "spiritual faith and a belief in God."

"Church militancy, which once meant militant pursuit of the Kingdom of God, too often has been revamped to mean support for the Marxist view, denial of the market system, and of property rights, support of land reform and redistribution of the wealth," he said.

Grant urged the group to push Congress for spending limitations and for changes in laws and programs that it excludes itself from obeying. He cited these examples:

—"Members of Congress and about 17,000 of their employees are exempt from Social Security taxes. Understandably, large increases in Social Security taxes have little meaning to them.

—"Members of Congress are exempt from the National Labor Relations Act, the Fair Labor Standards Act, the Civil Rights and Equal Employment Opportunity Act and from... the Occupational Safety and Health Act which has been so trying for farmers.

—"Members of Congress do not pay state or local income taxes in Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia, the three areas in which most of them live."

Grant said that "by granting themselves substantial pay raises, members of Congress have further insulated themselves from the crushing load of inflation which they, as congressmen, have helped create by deficit federal spending."

Members of Congress who think "the people want to give more power to labor unions" or want "massive programs of health care" are in for a surprise, he said.

"The theory that the people of this country suffer from a tremendous gap in health care which only the government can bridge is a political fraud being worked upon the public," Grant said.

Government-sponsored universal health care in Canada has been costly and has not met with the kind of success which Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., "would have us copy," Grant said. The "socialized medicine experiment" in Britain recently marked its 30th anniversary, he said, and "its deficiencies have become an international joke."

Grant said that even so, President Carter, Kennedy and HEW Secretary Joseph Califano "along with a handful of labor union and church leaders, seriously suggest that this country adopt some version of this proven failure."

Lawn mower safety standard sought

By JEFFREY MILLS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal officials recommended today a safety regulation they said would add $20 to $45 to most power lawn mower prices but prevent 60,000 injuries a year.

The standard, recommended by the staff of the Consumer Product Safety Commission, is expected to be approved when the commission meets Jan. 25.

It likely will receive the qualified endorsement of a power lawn mower industry group.

The regulation, which would take effect Dec. 31, 1981, would require that power mower blades be shielded from the mower's operator. The rule would also require that the blades stop three seconds after the operator walked from behind the machine.

Some 77,000 people suffer amputated fingers or toes, lacerations and fractures and other injuries yearly because they come in contact with moving blades, the agency staff said. Most of the injuries occur when an operator tries to adjust the mower or clear the discharge chute.

About three-fourths of those injuries could be prevented by the regulation, staff officials estimated.

Mower blades can revolve at up to 200 miles an hour only a fraction of an inch inside the machine's cover.

The regulation would not apply to manual mowers, riding mowers, lawn or garden tractors, and large mowers seldom used by consumers.

In 1973, the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute asked the commission for a safety standard.

Dennis Dix, the group's director, said before the recommendation's release that the association would support a safety standard which does not specify how manufacturers comply with it.

The recommendation generally leaves to makers the design of safe machinery.

The regulation would also cover shield strength, control location and a mower's ability to pass over depressions and obstructions.
