The increased number of reported rape cases in Midland is creating a time problem for doctors who must testify after examining the victims. Doctors and law enforcement officials are looking for ways to solve the dilemma, which reporter Mark Vogler reviews in the Sunday Reporter-Telegram.

Muscles rippling, the hulking figure pushes the 300-pound weight toward the ceiling, crying out in joyous agony. Fear not, it is only the happy YMCA weightlifter. Staff writer photographer Jim Steinberg takes a look at men in pursuit of muscle in this Sunday's West Texas Life.

It's time once again for the annual Junior League Charity Ball set for Jan. 29 at the Midland Country Club. Purpose of the ball is to finance the many projects sponsored by the league. Read more about this organization and its valuable service to the community in Sunday's Lifestyle section.

Big robbery in Kerrville

KERRVILLE, Texas (AP) — Police in the Texas Hill Country pressed a search today for two men who stole $500,000 in one of the biggest bank heists in the state's history.

Police said two men wearing blue ski masks and surgical gloves and armed with a sawed-off shotgun attacked an official of the First National Bank of Kerrville in the bank parking lot as he arrived early Thursday to open the bank.

The men forced Bob Ridgaway, assistant vice president and cashier, to open the bank vault, and, ignoring small bills, put mostly $50 and $100 bills into a black sack and a box and fled by car.

The bank's bonding company ofered a $10,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the robbers.

Ridgaway said one of the robbers, a 6-foot-3, 200-pounder, seemed to do all the talking. The man carried the shotgun, which he shoved into the bank officer's back, Ridgaway said.

After being interviewed by authorities, Ridgaway was sent home "pretty shaken up" by the ordeal, officials said.

Home, home on the range? Police on motorcycles and in squad cars herd a 450-pound buffalo along a Denver interstate highway after the animal escaped from a pen at the National Western Stock Show now going on. The animal was finally roped by a stock show cowboy, tranquilized by a veterinarian and returned to the show. (AP Laserphoto)

The two fellows are modest and industrious.

When they succeed in their endeavors, as they have and will, they'll probably say something like, "Ah, weren't nothing to it. Just work."

The fellows are the Patterson brothers, James and Steve.

They've made their mark in Midland and have moved onto a fringe of Aggeland — a satellite on its own — Tarleton State University at Stephenville.

Steve, 18, is there on a $6,000 scholarship awarded by the Houston Live Stock Show and Rodeo. But, to hear him tell it, he did nothing particularly spectacular to get it.

"It's just a scholarship they give out — 50 to the FFA (Future Farmers of America) and 50 to FH statewide," he said.

He just chalked up the A's and, like brother James, worked in the field he likes best — ag and livestock.

A steer they, as FFAs, entered in the livestock show in 1977 was judged the grand champion. But, publicity-wise, Steve got most of the credit, since the big calf worked with him better than with James. Steve ended up showing the steer.

Steve is a pre-veterinary medicine major at Tarleton and plans to transfer to Texas A&M — "If I can get in" — to finish up on his vet schooling.

James, 19, who seems to fit the image of the Aggie more than Steve, wasn't so lucky on the scholarship thing.

"No, sir," he said, as he and Steve were grooming their sister's steer for the livestock show. "I'm on my own. I'm just not that fortunate."

James is studying to become a vocational agriculture teacher, like his former mentor, Harold Skiles, who dropped out of vocational work to work a ranch at Weatherford.

"That's sure what I want to do," said James. He was talking about vocational ranching. But, who knows?

Check on the brothers Patterson in a few years, and they'll probably be doing what they set out to do.

Atypical or not, the two young men seem to be examples of enterprise in America.

"I'm proud of them," said their father.

23 indicted in tax scheme

BIG SPRING — Twenty-three persons, most of whom are or were Big Spring residents, have been named in two sealed indictments returned by a Lubbock federal grand jury probing an income tax scam which discounted fraudulent income tax returns to financing companies and pawn shops in return for instant cash.

And there may be as many as 25 more persons indicted as federal agents continue to probe the tax fraud ring which appears to have operated out of the Big Spring area for about three years, according to Assistant U.S. Attorney Roger McRoberts.

In what McRoberts described as "a highly unusual tax case for West Texas," he said mostly transient type oil field workers made up allegedly phony income tax returns for an average of $1,000 for the year 1976 and sold them to finance companies or pawn shops at a reduced rate. In the tax year 1977, the average return dropped to $800.

While some of the companies were stuck with the fraudulent return forms and could not recoup their losses, the U.S. Government was caught holding the bag in many cases and lost thousands of dollars, McRoberts said today.

The grand jury started its investigation about 2 1/2 years ago after receiving information from the Internal Revenue Service and Big Spring police officials.

The amount of dollars the finance companies and government was swindled out of is still undetermined, investigators said.

Those named in the indictments are:

Wreck kills Iraan resident

IRAN — A 41-year-old electrician was killed in a one-vehicle accident at 7:30 p.m. Thursday on U.S. 190 in Pecos County, 7.3 miles west of here.

Pecos Peace Justice Louise Christian pronounced Carl Edward Arbogast of Iraan dead at the scene.

Investigators said Arbogast, who was eastbound on U.S. 190, apparently fell asleep while driving a pickup. His vehicle crossed to the left side of the highway, traveled over a gas well and flipped over in a 15-foot deep draw, coming to rest on its side.

Officials said Arbogast was pinned between the pickup's cab and the ground.

The accident was investigated by state Department of Public Safety troopers Cory Cramrine and Dean Watson.

Morning fog halts flights at airport

An early morning fog covered much of the Midland area this morning, cut visibility and grounded aircraft at Midland Regional Airport, but it lifted and dissipated with the rising of the sun.

By noon, with the fog having cleared to allow three-mile visibility, airport authorities said planes were coming and going.

Earlier in the day, Midlanders became able to navigate city streets when most of the fog went away.

"The ceiling is zero-zero," Darrell Adams, airport manager said early this morning, "and they're not taking off right now," referring to planes.

The dense fog settled over Midland about 3:30 a.m. today and cut vertical visibility to 100 feet, said a weatherman at the National Weather Service at the airport.

Ground visibility was down to one-eighth of a mile almost an hour after dawn, the weatherman said, but fog conditions were improving by mid-morning.

Area towns, such as Crane and Big Spring, reported fog this morning. Stanton and Big Lake were experiencing cloudiness and light mist. Lamesa and Andrews report cloudiness.

The morning fog descended a day after .05 inch of drizzle fell over much of the area. The rainfall brings the year's total to .12 inch.

Today's high temperature reading under fair skies was expected to reach into the mid-60s. The low tonight was to drop to the mid-30s. The high Saturday should be near 60 degrees, the weatherman said.

The overnight low today was 41 degrees at 3 a.m. The high Thursday was 67 degrees by mid-afternoon.

The record high temperature for a Jan. 18 is 77 degrees recorded in 1950. The record low is 8 degrees, set in 1963.

Recession not expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Buoyed by a report showing the nation's economy is moving at an unexpectedly strong pace, the Carter administration says the dark clouds of a recession aren't anywhere on the horizon.

We still don't see a recession, even at the end of 1979," Secretary of Commerce Juanita Kreps said Thursday.

Backing up that statement, the administration is predicting unemployment will rise only slightly this year, and stay at that figure in 1980, it was learned.

That is well below the prediction of many private economists, who say it will hit nearly 7 percent. The December unemployment figure was 5.9 percent.

Some economists, such as Arthur Okun and Alan Greenspan, say inflation will force the government to tighten credit further.

That would prevent businesses and home buyers from borrowing money and may lead to a recession and more unemployment, they say.

However, Mrs. Kreps told reporters President Carter's anti-inflation program will hold down inflation and make the credit tightening unnecessary.

The administration was encouraged by a report on the gross national product Thursday showing that the nation's economic output in the final three months of 1978 was far stronger than expected.

The hope for freedom may be evidenced in the mere opportunity to smell a puff of fresh air or just to view a single blade of grass through a pinhole.

Such simple pleasures as those helped Robinson Risner muster the courage to survive seven years as a prisoner of war in an Hanoi, North Vietnam, POW camp, where the object of the captors was to turn once-free American fighting men into communists "robots" and slaves to socialism, Risner, 53, said at the annual Distinguished Service Award and Bostings Night Banquet of the Midland Jaycees.

"I think God for the land of the free and the home of the brave," Risner said publicly after his release in 1973. "Perhaps it sounds cliché," said Risner, a former fighter pilot and a retired U.S. Air Force brigadier general, "but I meant every word of it."

Risner spoke to 127 Jaycees and guests in the Petroleum Club of Midland shortly before they saw Larry Bell, 29, former president of the Midland Jaycees and president of HBF Corp., become the 35th Jaycee to receive the Distinguished Service Award (DSA) since Bill Collins got the laurel for 1943.

Bell, who was honored for his leadership and projects he carried out as a Jaycee, told the gathering "my life changed when I realized the word 'yes' existed in my vocabulary."

Named Boss of the Year was Albert G. Metcalfe Jr., 51, vice president of Tamarack Petroleum Co. and a petroleum engineer.

Metcalfe was presented the award by Jaycee President Lynn Williams, who described him as a "super individual" and as an "outstanding community leader." Last year's recipient was KCRS radio executive Parker Humes, who emceed the Thursday night banquet.

Bell was presented the award by Joe Campbell, last year's DSA recipient.

Names in the news

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Luci Johnson Nugent, 31-year-old daughter of the late President Lyndon B. Johnson, has filed for divorce from Patrick Nugent after nearly 12½ years of marriage.

The divorce suit was filed Wednesday by Mrs. Nugent's attorneys. It cited no grounds, using the standard terminology allowed by Texas' no-fault divorce law. No answer was filed by Nugent.

The couple have four children ages two to 12. They were married Aug. 6, 1966, in the Shrine of the Immaculate Conception in Washington. A White House reception followed.

Mrs. Nugent, who converted to Roman Catholicism a year before the wedding, was the first presidential daughter since Alice Roosevelt Longworth to marry while her father was president.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Former congresswoman Barbara Jordan says she's not incurably ill — just thinner.

Ms. Jordan, 43, who left Congress for a college classroom this year, denied a copyright report in the Dallas Morning News that she has an "incurable" bone illness, multiple myeloma, and lost 50 pounds in 1976.

Ms. Jordan said at a news conference Thursday, "I am not terminally ill. I do not have, nor have I ever had, the illness described in the news story." She lost weight, she said, with a two-year diet designed to make her look "better in the mirror," she said.

Ms. Jordan is in her first week as a teacher at The University of Texas Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs.

MESSINA, Sicily (AP) — Oceanographer Jacques Piccard's next study will take him 600 meters under the sea between Italy and Sicily.

Piccard will lead a deep-sea mission in the straits of Messina, and will be joined by scholars from the Belgian University of Leuven and Messina's Institute of Hydrobiology.

The scientists will plummet the depths in a mini-submarine to study deep sea fish.

SEATTLE (AP) — Rudy Vallee put the squeeze on a dinner companion at a restaurant — and it probably saved his companion's life.

When a piece of food became lodged in the throat of Robert Forbes, 70, of San Jacinto, Calif., during a meal Wednesday, people started slapping him on the back. It wasn't working.

"Rudy got up and ran around the table and grabbed him from behind, and it certainly saved his life," said Juanita Russell, general manager of the Palace Theatre, where Vallee, 77, is appearing in "Something Different."

Vallee applied a first-aid technique called the Heimlich maneuver, which involves grabbing the victim from behind and applying sudden force to the abdomen just below the rib cage. The resulting sharp exhalation of air is usually enough to expel a particle of food.

Clements to go to Mexico for conference with Portillo

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements, in his fourth day on the job, said today he will confer next Wednesday in Mexico City with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo.

"I intend to talk to him about areas of mutual interest between Mexico and Texas. These include energy, illegal aliens, the drug traffic and the 'Tortilla Curtain' and its implications," Clements said at his first news conference since taking office.

Clements announced appointment of G.G. Garcia, 41, of Harlingen as an administrative assistant.

Garcia, Clements said, will conduct a meeting on Monday of about 20 persons with an interest in the issues to be raised in the governor's conference with Lopez Portillo.

The governor said the meeting with Lopez Portillo would be "in the spirit that all these matters are certainly ones that need to be explored from both of our sides and positions."

"This is a concentrated effort... to develop the facts, information and nuances relative to these very important and complex problems... It will contribute to a better understanding with Mexico and an eventual solution which has to be on a bilateral basis between two sovereign states, the United States and Mexico, through their department of state and foreign office," Clements said.

John Mitchell leaves prison, closing saga of Watergate

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Former U.S. Attorney General John Mitchell left prison today, the last of 25 men convicted of Watergate crimes to resume private life. He told reporters: "Henceforth, don't call me, I'll call you."

With inmates waving good-bye and chanting, "Give 'em hell, Mitchell," he said he was "looking forward to coming back to Alabama to see all of my friends down here."

Mitchell, who was sent to prison 19 months ago, declined to answer any questions. But in a brief statement, he expressed thanks for the "thousands and thousands" of letters he said he had received from supporters while at the federal prison camp at Maxwell Air Force Base.

Mitchell was met at the prison by former U.S. Attorney Ira Dement of Montgomery, who accompanied the one-time Nixon cabinet member to the Montgomery airport for a commercial flight to Washington.

Earlier, prison officials said Mitchell's fellow inmates had planned a party to thank him for "free legal advice and good friendship."

Mitchell is barred from practicing law, and only close associates know of Mitchell's future plans.

The occasion marks the first time in six years that there are no jailed participants from the scandal that brought about former President Richard Nixon's resignation and disgrace.

Mitchell, one of Nixon's former law partners, was convicted along with White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman and domestic adviser John D. Erlichman in a coverup of a 1971 break-in at the Democratic National Committee headquarters in Washington.

All three were convicted of conspiracy to obstruct justice, obstructing justice and lying under oath on Jan. 1, 1975.

Mitchell was eligible for parole last June, but the U.S. Parole Commission ruled his Watergate crimes were of "high severity" and delayed his release for six months.

Mitchell appealed the commission's decision, but U.S. District Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. rejected his plea without a hearing.

Mitchell, 65, arrived at Maxwell Air Force Base on June 21, 1977, to serve a 1-to-4-year term. His prison stay was one month longer than the 18 months served by both Haldeman and Erlichman.

However, Mitchell spent five months of his sentence on a medical furlough.

Better money management sought

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Better state money management could have added $12.7 million in bank interest to the state treasury last year, a House committee says.

The Joint House Committee on Cash Management said things have improved since Warren G. Harding became treasurer Oct. 7, 1977, but there still is room for improvement.

"They've made some very significant progress," said Rep. Frank Hartung, R-Houston, committee chairman.

But the treasurer still buys 30-day certificates of deposit instead of the more profitable 90-day certificates, the report said.

It also said 97 percent of state deposits should be in interest-bearing accounts, compared with 93.7 percent at the close of the last fiscal year.

"Based on these calculations, the total interest lost during the fiscal year through the use of current investment procedures by the State Treasury was $12,715,000," the report said.

Harding became treasurer after the death of long-time treasurer Jesse James, whom Hartung frequently criticized. When James died on Sept. 29, 1977, about 88 percent of state bank accounts were time deposits.

The committee also said the University of Houston suffered heavy losses in its investment account because of "a sorely mismanaged investment program involving the school's idle cash."

It said the "pyramiding scheme" that caused the losses was implemented by the school's financial analyst, "who acted with no meaningful supervision or control."

But it praised actions taken by the university since then, including written cash management policies, monthly cash management reports and tighter internal controls.

The committee also recommended that the university and the attorney general "vigorously pursue action to recover funds lost by investment activities at the University of Houston."

Recommendations of the committee included:

— Require competitive bidding for time deposits, with money going to the banks that offered the best interest rates.

— New legislation authorizing the treasurer to invest state funds in short-term U.S. Treasury securities.

Solons await word on appointments

By LEE JONES

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — "Billy likes drama. He likes to let the suspense build," one House member says of Speaker Bill Clayton.

Clayton has done just that with his committee assignments — but a fever and upset stomach, not a sense of the dramatic, kept him from issuing the long-awaited list Thursday.

The speaker said he definitely would make the appointments today. "The speaker is home in bed," Clayton's press secretary, George Works, told reporters late Thursday afternoon.

Many House members had delayed trips home to await word on their assignments, which determine in large measure how important each will be in the legislative process.

Clayton indicated earlier he would lean heavily on his earliest backers and closest legislative friends — largely rural conservatives — in making the key assignments.

"I just think you can't forget who brought you, and I intend to look at those people and try to place them in some positions where they can serve better," Clayton said in a weekend radio interview.

Appointment of committees clears the way for formal introduction of bills and the start of House hearings. It probably will be week after next, however, before hearings begin because House rules requires five days' advance notice.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby made his Senate committee appointments Jan. 9, opening day of the Legislature, and hearings have begun.

Although the Senate was out of session and the House met only for a few minutes Thursday, numerous bills were filed for introduction.

Sen. Bill Meier, D-Euless, and Rep. Nub Donaldson, D-Gatesville, filed legislation raising from 10 percent to 12 percent the permissible interest rate on home loans.

"If the Legislature does not act responsibly to put Texas back into competition for mortgage funds, the home building and real estate industries will soon be laying off thousands of people in every part of the state," Meier said.

Sen. Jack Ogg, D-Houston, submitted a bill raising marriage license fees from $7.50 to $12.50 and using the money for counseling of wife beaters and treatment of victims.

The bill would establish a system of battered spouse centers coordinated by the Texas Rehabilitation Commission.

Rep. Betty Denton, D-Waco, said she will offer legislation earmarking part of the cigarette tax for cancer research. She said the $1 per 1,000 earmarked tax would raise $32 million a year.

UT won't let funds get away

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The University of Texas will "take all necessary steps" to insure the flow of federal funds don't stop in light of a sex discrimination decision against it, says UT President Lorene Rogers.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare review board upheld a two-year-old decision in connection with art teacher Janet Berry's complaint.

Mrs. Rogers said the review board's decision which arrived Thursday

"is in direct conflict" with a federal court that used the same evidence but ruled in the university's favor.

Presidential aides find Washington life difficult

WASHINGTON (AP) — After two years in the White House, many of President Carter's aides have concluded that economically and socially, Washington is a tough town to break into.

The high prices, notoriety, gossip, snooty social life, public criticism — all are distasteful to many White House staffers who campaigned against the "Washington insiders" and feel they have never really been accepted by them.

White House aides tell a story about presidential aide Greg Schneiders, who not long ago was invited to a dinner party in Georgetown — where those insiders congregate — by a well-known national columnist.

After ascertaining that Schneiders, 33, was married, the columnist asked, "Is your wife, hm, presentable?"

When Schneiders appeared surprised that he would be asked such a question, the columnist explained that he was having some important people to his party — a few diplomats, some senators, a Supreme Court justice and "Henry," to which he did not add Kissinger. He would have his wife call Mrs. Schneiders to tell her what to expect.

ASKED WHY, after being insulted, he went to the party, Schneiders said. "That sort of thing doesn't bother me anymore. I told my wife we wouldn't go if she found it offensive, but she was amused."

Like Schneiders — who asked that the columnist not be named — many of Carter's aides and their families are finding that life in official Washington requires more adjustments than expected.

"I'm very sensitive to criticism of all the Georgians," said Nan Powell, wife of Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell. "For me, that's the hardest part of being in Washington."

Mrs. Powell, a part-time elementary school teacher, said during the first eight months they lived in Washington, she hated to read what the newspapers said about them. "I'm past that now," she said.

"but I don't think I'll ever get used to it."

She said she does not think the fast-paced Washington lifestyle can be blamed for breaking up the marriages of Carter's son, Chip, and several White House staffers, such as top aide Hamilton Jordan and political adviser Tim Kraft.

"THE MARRIAGES that came to Washington on sure footing remained that way," she said. "The ones that didn't fell apart. It doesn't make things easier to read about your problems in the gossip columns. But that's not what caused the break-ups."

Most of those who have worked in the White House feel, however, that the long hours and constant pressure do little to enhance marriages.

"It's inevitable that there are parts of this job that cause strains on marriages," said James Fallows, who resigned as Carter's top speech writer to spend more time with his wife and small son.

"I almost never saw them," Fallows said. "I left the house before Tommy got up and got home after he went to bed."

Fallows said that while many White House staffers are making more money than ever before, they were saddled with homes bought in one of the most expensive housing markets in the country.

sustain as a journalist."

Public records show Fallows paid $133,000 for his house; Powell paid $115,000; Kraft paid $92,500; and presidential imagemaker Gerald Rafter paid $190,000.

Last December Fallows quit his $42,000-a-year post to become Washington editor of the Atlantic Monthly for what he describes as a substantial cut in pay. "And you can underline substantial," he said.

Jane Wales, coordinator of the public liaison office and aide to senior staffer Anne Wexler, said she is making about $33,000, three times as much as in the campaign. But she is not saving any money.

"The job costs me a lot," she said. "I now dry clean all my clothes because I don't have time to do them myself. I had a cleaning service come into the house. I take cabs. I never take the train anywhere. I fly. And I usually end up paying my department store bills late and have to pay interest on them."

MS. WALES said that since gossip columns love to focus on the White House, many aides must work hard to keep private lives private.

"One of the biggest problems is that people on the middle-level staff know they're not important in the general scheme of things, but the public thinks they are.

We suddenly realize our life is public."

Such recognition has been particularly hard for Jordan, whose marriage problems and drinking escapades have made headlines. He has virtually gone into hiding since the White House issued a 33-page denial that he spit a drink at a young woman in a bar.

Several aides said that at first they were intimidated by Washington social life and declined mutual party invitations. Thus they got reputations for snubbing the social scene and now aren't invited as much.

"A lot of social invitations to White House staffers have dropped off," said Betty Rainwater, an aide who works for Jordan.

"We made some serious mistakes in the beginning of the administration by not first finding out who would be at parties before we turned them down. They could have been mutually beneficial. Now we're not being invited."

Blind judge refuses to give up hope

DURANT, Okla. (AP) — District Judge John Allen Phillips is blind, but he won't give up hope that he will see again.

"I insist on holding onto my hope," Phillips says, despite a medical opinion that he will never see. "After you lose hope, what do you have?"

Phillips, 67, went blind during his first year on the bench in 1977 during a period he had cryptococcus meningitis, a rare fungus disease that was considered incurable only a decade ago.

He returned to the bench last April, convinced that he would experience "a drastic improvement in my sight."

His physicians in Texas had indicated it was too soon to know for certain whether his optic nerves would regenerate. Phillips more recently went to the Dean A. McGee Eye Institute in Oklahoma City for a second opinion.

"They told me the ends of the nerves had atrophied and would never get better," he recalls. "I was completely stunned. I couldn't have been more stunned if they had hit me in the head with a baseball bat."

Now in his second term as judge, Phillips said he will finish the term regardless of whether he regains his sight.

"I am doing everything I would be doing if I had my sight," he said. "My duties are becoming easier and that surprises me. Psychologically, I am in much better health than I was when I first returned."

Ginger Rogers

Ginger Rogers to perform here

Ginger Rogers will make Feb. 7 her first-ever performance in the Tall City when she appears on stage at the Chaparral Center on the campus of Midland College after a three-year attempt by the Midland Symphony Guild to bring her to Midland.

Her show, according to Carol Crain, who will usher Miss Rogers around while here, will be an autobiographical trip down memory lane, including the pictures with Fred Astaire.

Much of the story will be told in film clips and screened stills, but most of it will be told in songs and dances by the singer-dancer-actress. Remember Ginger singing "Embraceable You," "Let's Call the Whole Thing Off," "The Continental," or "But Not for Me?"

Among her movies with Astaire were "Night and Day," "Manhattan Downbeat," "The Barkleys of Broadway" and "Cheek to Cheek."

People have always thought of Ginger as a dancer who also sang, and took the singing for granted. The dancing diverted attention away from her singing.

In recent years, instead of rusticating on her ranch on the Rogue River in Oregon, Ginger has played "Mame" in London, pitched lingerie for J.C. Penney and put together an earlier nightclub act in Italy.

She apparently gets her exuberance for life from her Christian Science faith, which taught her that "life is unending and constantly unfolding." Her real name is Virginia Katherine McMath and, as the story goes, it was a young cousin many years ago, unable to pronounce her real name, that dubbed her "Gingja" and "that stayed with me." Rogers is her stepfather's name.

Dancing helps keep her in shape. So do such sports as tennis, for which she holds cups from several competitions, golf and the one she keeps up with most regularly—swimming.

Hubby ends in doghouse

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—In front of the Julius Meier residence stands a monument to every man who comes home late. A dog house. The small wooden structure has knee boots in its doorway, so it looks as if a man has crawled inside.

Meier said he built it about 10 years ago after he got in trouble one night for keeping late hours.

The Feb. 7 performance will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are now on sale at Chaparral Center Box Office. A ticket booth also will open Monday, Jan. 22, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the lobby of The First National Bank and Jan. 29 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in San Miguel Square.

The tickets are priced at $8.50 each and all are reserved.

Pregnancy laws will affect disability plans

By DENISE A. CARABET
Copley News Service

Employers of 15 or more persons have a major overhaul of their employee medical insurance packages due by midyear.

Under an amendment to the Civil Rights Act of 1964, employers must treat pregnancy coverage like any other medical benefit.

The law was enacted by Congress late last year, but with the new year comes planning for the small and large corporation. The law requires employers to treat pregnancy and childbirth the same as other causes of disability under sick leave and other fringe-benefit plans.

It prohibits an employer from terminating or refusing to hire or promote a woman solely on the basis of pregnancy.

The law also bars mandatory pregnancy leaves that are arbitrarily set and not based on the woman's ability to work. It also protects the reinstatement rights of women on leave for pregnancy-related reasons, including credit for previous service and accrued retirement benefits and seniority.

Employers who have no sick leave or fringe-benefit plans for any employees are not required to set one up just for pregnant workers, however, Congress decided this on a party issue — one employee's pregnancy must be given the same consideration as another employee's hernia.

The employer can also demand a doctor's statement certifying the pregnant woman's inability to work, with a second opinion by a company physician.

It is also important to note that pregnancy benefits of medical plans need not be provided for female spouses of employees, unless other employees' wives are covered. Again, the party issue is the rule of thumb.

While non-life-threatening abortions need not be covered by an employer's plan, medical expenses arising from complications following an abortion must be covered. An employer can voluntarily cover abortions in the plan, though Sick leave must be granted for an abortion even if it is not life-threatening.

If an employer has a current employee medical plan in which he or she subsidizes a designated percentage of medical costs, it may be easier just to add pregnancy costs to that plan. For example, if the employer currently pays a flat 50 percent of all employee medical costs, the employer can comply with the law by paying 50 percent of costs related to pregnancy and childbirth.

Though Congress passed this amendment as a sex-discrimination issue, there is another way that employers are looking at it.

"This really isn't a sex issue," said one government official. "It's really an age issue. Women employees from 18 years to maybe 45 years are covered, but who pays for the additional coverage? Women over 45 years and male employees."

Wyatt Co., actuaries and consultants, had this to offer: "In view of the May 1, 1979, effective date, in-

Nuns learn self-defense

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—Every Wednesday night 19 Dominican sisters spend two hours in Marywood Academy's gymnasium trying to punch and kick each other.

But it's all right. They don't have to make special confessions the next day. The punching and kicking are part of self-defense lessons offered by a senior citizen program.

"The main reason we wanted to take the course was to have fun," said Sister Anne Christopher, pre-retirement and retirement program director at Marywood. "But at the same time, the incidences of crime have picked up, so we've become possible victims along with everyone else."

creases may be needed in amounts budgeted for group benefits in 1979. Some medium-to-large-sized employers may wish to self-fund pregnancy benefits rather than fund insurance premiums."

DEAR ABBY

Son chooses to assume his wife's name

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: BURNING IN SAN DIEGO is upset because her only son is going to assume his wife's maiden name. BURNING says, "If he doesn't carry on the family name, it will be the end of the family line." Changing one's name doesn't constitute the end of the line. Genes alone determine a line. Thus a natural child (daughters included) can continue a line, regardless of the married name. Why don't we emulate the Spanish and use the mother's maiden name as well as the father's? That seems to be the ideal solution, don't you agree?—LATINO IN ENCINO

DEAR LATINO: SI! But if only one name is used to carry on the family name, it would seem more logical to use the mother's. One can be absolutely certain who the child's mother is. But sometimes there's a question about who the father is.

DEAR ABBY: Why do you presume that "to be alone at Christmas is sad beyond measure"? There are many of us out here who yearn to be alone at Christmas. I am one of them. I spent most of my life doing what everyone expected of me rather than doing what I wanted to do.

I've been alone for 25 years, and have used that time imaginatively and creatively. Being alone at Christmas certainly beats the greedy grab for presents and the gobbling of food like a bunch of pigs at a trough.

I think if more of us spent more time alone, we might have a more sane populace than we now have.

One could spend the day alone thanking the Creator for all the blessings received during the past year. Inviting someone to share Christmas with you in order to spare him or her the pain of being alone doesn't mean anything. It's how we treat those around us on all the other days that counts.—CREATIVE SOLITUDE

DEAR CREATIVE: I appreciate your view. Being alone by choice is one thing. But being alone because not a living soul has thought to include you (particularly on a holiday that's traditionally merry) is something else.

DEAR ABBY: Now that I am a parent myself I realize that parents aren't perfect. They may mean well, but they make mistakes.

For example, I am one of four daughters. We were all overprotected, and never allowed to make our own decisions or do our own talking. I can still remember that when I was 16, my mother took me to our family doctor for my first internal examination. She held my hand as we went into the examination room and told the doctor that she wanted to stay with me during the examination. Thank God he said no!

Abby, in that doctor's office was the first time in my life I actually had a chance to talk freely and answer questions myself.

I believe we should honor our fathers and mothers, but there should be some rules for parents, too. They shouldn't raise their children as though they are their precious property. They should allow them to grow up in preparation to face the world alone, because one day they will be put to the test.—STRUGGLING IN N.Y.

Grandmother carries a gun

WESTPORT, Wash. (AP)—"My grandchildren are used to seeing me in uniform, but the gun sort of makes them sit up and take notice," says Nancy Breitsprecher, a Westport Police Department sergeant. "It isn't everybody's grandma who packs a revolver." She is one of Washington state's few armed women police patrol officers, the only one on regular patrol duty in Grays Harbor County. When Police Chief John Regan is out of town, she is acting chief.

Getting it all together

Guinness records book a challenge

By DON LEARNED
Copley News Service

He knew it was a hallucination when the girl in the white gown hobbled across the street on her crutch, through the window and to his side.

A week without sleep will do that to you.

But he wasn't ready to turn over and fade into oblivion.

Roger Guy English was at the midway point of setting a new world record for sleeplessness — 12 days of being awake — his fourth world record gathered in a year's time.

For the fourth time, he would slide between the cozy covers of the Book of Guinness.

It's only a book, of course.

But it is THE book of world records. The tops in human achievement, according to the Guinness.

The chronicle of crazies, perhaps, but also that final bit of proof that one has just done something no one else has done.

In 1974, three Chula Vista, Calif., women wrapped up a record for cat's cradles — those little things you make with string and fingers. Maryann DiVona, Rita Divona and Geneva Hultenius produced 21,200 in 21 hours.

In 1972, John Weiner sent a champagne cork 92 feet as it flew off the bottle.

And then, of course, there's Roger Guy English.

In a mad sprint from July 1973, to April 1974, he crashed past world records in dancing the twist, treading water, kissing girls, and staying awake.

But world records are like autumn leaves. Each October, as the Guinness Book goes to press, about a third of the records will have fallen.

The cat's cradle record has flown off to Canada. It's now 22,700 in eight hours. Last year a champagne cork popped 94 feet, 6.5 inches. All of English's records have fallen but one — twisting for 102 hours, 28 minutes, 37 seconds — and that is threatened.

The Guinness book — sponsored by the Irish brewery of the same name, originally to settle arguments in pubs — is published in 220 countries and accepts records from anywhere.

But Americans are more frantic about it than anyone else. A third of the 10,000 record quests that come streaming in each year to the Guinness book headquarters in London are from Americans.

In his British fashion, 72-year-old editor Howard Garrard has his own thoughts on why that is.

"I think you fellows are a bit more outgoing than we are. You spend an evening with an American and you know everything about him. He says what he thinks and he tries what he likes. I think on this side of the Atlantic we are a bit more inhibited still."

And what constitutes a record?

"We must have something that is widespread and preferably international," Garrard echoes the Guinness guideline, "not just any damn silly thing that a few fellows in one town think up."

But Americans never say die.

Ask the dean, Roger Guy English. He's sort of retired now, but he's still a lean, lanky pep pill who at one time probably held more world's records than anybody.

This is the kid who wanted to be an actor. When Otto Preminger forgot to call, he created his own theater.

He has kissed 3,000 girls in eight hours, lived in a car on a dealer's lot for a month, tried to swim the length of the Mississippi River, thrown 200 bottles with messages into the ocean, waded through 12 days of sleeplessness and hallucinations, walked from the Mexican border to Canada, and once tried to fly a kite for nine days.

"Other people get crazy ideas and forget them. I get crazy ideas. I do them," says English.

"I want to do one thing better or longer than anyone else. Do something no one else has ever done."

But for the would-be actor there is one stronger motivation.

"Everything I did I did for publicity," he says simply. "I wanted my name known. As a humorous character, I wanted people in the right places to know I was there."

It must have worked. He's now a film critic for Visions magazine and is directing his own tiny-budget thriller called "Victims," something about lifeguards.

somewhere between Hitchcock and Fellini.

It all began, says English, in a hospital waiting room. He picked up a copy of the Guinness book. He decided: "I'm going to break a world record."

Two weeks later in a secret hideout, dodging the Depression-era marathon laws that then limited everything to eight hours, he was doing his four-day twist number.

"The last 30 or 40 seconds, all I wanted to do was lie down and go to sleep. Everybody was milling around. They wanted to congratulate me, partly. I passed out on the floor."

Two weeks later he was treading water for 18 hours.

"The most difficult. Coldest. Longest night I ever spent."

Red bikini was all this defector wore

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Lillian Gasinkaya, the 18-year-old Russian girl who defected in a red bikini, has been given permission to stay in Australia.

But the Russian consul general in Sydney, Ivan Fedorochenko, isn't amused.

"One lazy little Russian girl is welcomed very warmly, yet other illegal immigrants are jailed," he told an interviewer.

Immigration Minister Michael MacKellar, who approved Miss Gasinkaya's application to stay in Australia, has come under criticism for deporting other illegal immigrants.

In the past few days 19 illegal immigrants have been arrested in Melbourne. MacKellar said there would be no amnesty for the estimated 50,000 illegal immigrants in Australia.

Odessa voters contesting bond will get day in court

ODESSA — Ector County voters who filed their intent to contest last December's $21.6 million bond election will get their day in court.

However, it may not be exactly the way they wished.

A total of three different documents have been served on the Ector County Independent School District in the last two weeks, two of which have been filed in the district clerk's office, with the intent of contesting the recent bond election.

And the third document was served to ECISD officials late Thursday afternoon.

Also, when formal reply and pleading of the school district, which was served to the signers of the first petition Thursday afternoon, is filed with District Clerk Wanda McMann, a time will be set for a district court hearing into the matter, said Robert Cox, ECISD attorney.

There will be no jury for the hearing, however, since a jury is not provided for under Texas Election Code, Cox said.

The documents presented to the school district indicate a desire for a jury trial on the issue by petitioners.

The hearing, which may occur next week, initially would consider whether a full airing into the election contest would be needed since the school district's response contains a plea of abatement.

Other motions may be filed at that time, and it is possible that some attempt be made to combine the issues raised by all three petitions into one hearing.

According to Cox the school district will respond to each petition separately. Since the issues are related and there is some overlap with the contests for each petition, there is some speculation that perhaps all of the issues could be resolved in a single hearing.

Robert Frias, who presented the second petition, said Thursday night that he could not speak for other individuals involved in the contest as to whether or not combined proceedings are acceptable.

The first two documents contain petitions signed by a number of voters; 48 in the first case and 55 in the second. The first document was presented to the school board Dec. 20, 1978, by Billie Jean Stewart. The second was presented during the school board regular session meeting held Tuesday night by Frias as a "continuation" of the first petition.

Meat, poultry may contain cancer agents

WASHINGTON (AP) — A draft report of a new government study indicates 14 percent of the dressed meat and poultry sold in supermarkets may contain illegal residues of chemicals suspected of causing cancer, birth defects or other toxic effects.

The study also warns there currently is no way to prevent contaminated fresh meat and poultry from reaching the consumer. By the time chemical tests are completed on slaughterhouse carcasses, the study said, the animals have been butchered and the meat sold.

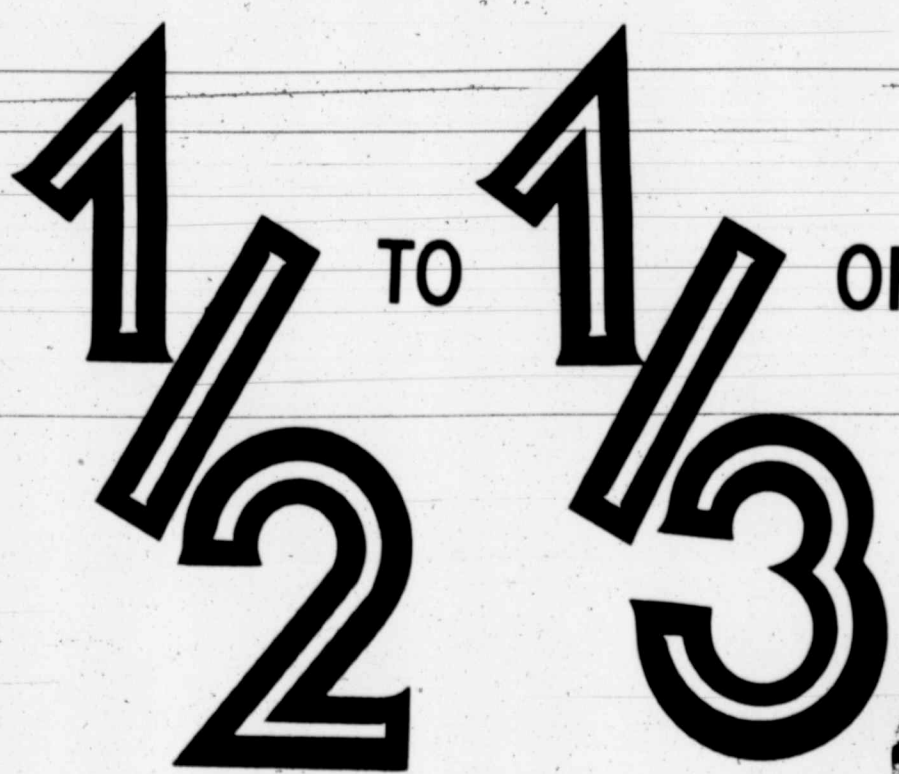

The findings are contained in a proposed General Accounting Office report on illegal drugs, pesticides and "environmental contaminants" such as PCBs, arsenic and sulfa residues in meat and poultry.

"Of the 143 drugs and pesticides GAO identified as likely to leave residues in raw meat and poultry, 42 are suspected of causing cancer, 20 of causing birth defects, and six of causing mutations," GAO said in its draft.

The Associated Press obtained a copy of the proposed report, in which the GAO was critical of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"USDA reports that it found illegal residues in only about 2 percent of the raw meat and poultry sampled between 1974 and 1976," the report said.

Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw...ready to face Cowboys Sunday

Passing game worries Landry

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Super Bowl countdown began Thursday as far as the Dallas Cowboys were concerned.

For the first time since Dallas arrived in Florida, Coach Tom Landry proposed a midnight curfew for the Cowboys, but he really didn't seem to think restrictions were necessary at this stage of the season. He pointed out, "If they don't know the importance of this game, they never will."

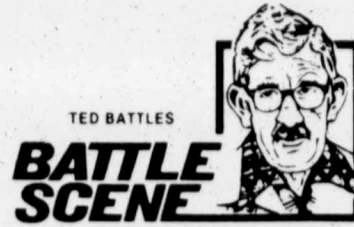

THE COWBOYS have been working out at Yankee Stadium in Fort Lauderdale, about 40 miles from hotel press headquarters here, all week safe from the hoopla of Super Bowl XIII buildup.

Landry's choice of the major league spring training camp was dictated by the Cowboys regular season game here against the Miami Dolphins. "We worked out there and have a feel for the field," Landry explained.

Thursday, the Cowboys concentrated on defensive preparation which seemed to be the area of greatest concern. Landry fears the Pittsburgh passing game—most of all because of the kind of season Terry Bradshaw has enjoyed and because of the gifted receivers he has in Lynn Swann and John Stallworth. "They bother you, he admits, "but if they bother you too much, that Franco Harris will have a field day."

LANDRY DECIDED that it will be Robert Newhouse at full-back Sunday instead of Scott Laidlaw. "Scott has done an outstanding job for us, but he knew Robert would probably start if he was fully recovered." And Larry Cole will start instead of Jethro Pugh on defense for the Cowboys.

If the temperatures, approaching 80 this week, continue through Sunday, Miami's sapping humidity could become a factor, especially for a couple of teams that have been dripping icicles at home for the last two weeks. However, the 4 p.m. kickoff will come with the sun sinking slowly in the Gulf, which should be late enough to assure perfect football weather.

MORE OF a factor could be the Orange Bowl turf. Pittsburgh and Dallas play on artificial turf at home, but will be playing on national prescription athletic turf, installed a few years ago, replacing the infamous rug that had all the traction of a hockey rink.

Still it won't be like home for either team. Dallas has one game under its belt here this season and on real grass, the Cowboys are 3-3 while the Steelers are 3-1.

DALLAS INJURIES include Harvey Martin (knee), guard Herbert Scott (ankle), down lineman Randy White (broken thumb) and wide receiver Butch Johnson (foot).

For Pittsburgh, kick returner Theo Bell split the webbing on his left hand between the middle and index fingers, requiring four stitches. Defensive lineman Tom Beasley suffered a sprained ankle and Swann bruised his left foot. No hangnails were reported from either camp. And none of the injuries were serious enough to force a missed practice, which sounds like the writers were getting disparate for news.

Bulldogs seeking basketball title in tilt with Rebs

By BOB DILLON
R-T Sports Writer

Midland can win the first half District 5-4A basketball championship tonight.

Coach Don Humphrey's Bulldogs take a perfect 6-0 loop record into tonight's big game with cross-town rival Midland Lee in the beautiful 5,200-set Chaparral Center on the Midland College campus.

Midland took a narrow 70-69 victory over Abilene Cooper in Abilene Tuesday, to clinch at least a tie for the first half crown and a victory tonight over Paul Stueckler's Rebels, will hand the Pack the first half title outright no matter what Cooper does against Abilene High.

The Bulldogs take an 18-8 season record into the game which is the 36th meeting between two Tall City rivals while Lee stands 12-12 on the year and is 3-3 in 5-4A play.

LEE'S REBELS hold a 19-16 edge in the overall series which has seen some classic battles. Last year, Lee won both times, 56-54 and 67-63, so anything can happen and usually does when these two get together.

The preliminary game ought to be a dandy too, because both the Midland and Lee junior varsity teams are 6-0 in league play. Midland's Bullpups sport a 19-1 season record while Lee's JV is 15-4. Tip-off is set for 6:15 p.m.

While Midland was coming from behind to nip Cooper Tuesday, Lee took it on the chin to Abilene, 64-37 in the Lee Gymnasium.

Besides the Midland-Lee shootout tonight, Cooper tangles with Abilene in the Taylor County Coliseum while Permian and Odessa High battle it out in the OHS Fieldhouse and Big Spring is at San Angelo to wind up the first half of action.

HUMPHREY MOST likely will start Herbert Johnson, 6-foot-7 inch sophomore at center; Charles Johnson, 6-4 senior; Walter Bryson, 6-0 senior; Tim Spirling 6-6 junior and Roy Lee Jefferson, a 6-2 senior with Archie Booth and Michael Feldt ready in the wings.

Ernest Merritt, 6-1 sharp-shooting will start for Lee along with Mike McGaha, 6-5 senior; Tyler Alcorn, 5-11 senior; Arthur Pertile, 6-3 senior and Bruce Crawford, a 6-2 senior. David Keys and David Hatfield will also see duty for the Rebels.

Midland will be the home team tonight while the Rebels will be the home team in the season finale on Feb. 12.

Navratilova tops Jordan in tennis

Jordan in tennis

HOUSTON (AP) — Top-seeded Martina Navratilova overcame some first-set service problems and newcomer Kathy Jordan won another match as both players advanced to the quarter-finals of the $125,000 Women's Pro Tennis tournament.

Navratilova, who is trying to win her fourth pro tournament here, was broken three times in the first set before rallying for a 7-5, 6-3 victory over Marise Kruger of South Africa.

Jordan, who earned her way into the 32-player field in a qualifying tournament, gained the quarter-finals with a 6-1, 6-2 victory over Yugoslavia's Mima Jausovec. Jordan now will face second-seeded Virginia Wade of England.

Navratilova and Kruger struggled with their serves throughout most of the first set until Navratilova finally broke Kruger in the 11th game and held to win the set and then reel off four straight games in the second set.

In other matches Thursday, sixth-seeded Rosie Casals defeated Kathy Latham 6-2, 6-3; third-seeded Wendy Turnbull beat Terry Holladay 6-1, 6-4 and Stacy Margolin beat Bettyann Stuart 6-2, 6-7, 6-2.

Stuart, who only last week qualified as a member of the pro tour, won a hard-fought tie-breaker second set but then suffered a pulled stomach muscle and dropped five straight games in the final set.

Midland girls clinch title

By BOB DILLON
R-T Sports Writer

Midland High's girls have clinched at least a tie for the first half basketball championship in District 5-4A.

Led by the hot outside shooting of Sandra Rock, the Midland girls took an exciting 43-40 victory over the Midland Lee girls in the Lee Gymnasium Thursday night.

Midland took a first period lead of 11-10 with Rock and Karen Cook showing the way while Dee Dee Poole, who led Lee with 10 points, kept it close. Poole was the only Rebel in the double figures. Deborah Ledbetter and Gale Wilson followed with eight points each for the losers.

Rock and Cook led the MHS attack with 17 and 10 points as the Bulldogs led at halftime, 17-14 as both teams suffered through a cold second period.

It was all even in the third quarter with both teams scoring 10 points to give Midland a 27-24 lead going into the final eight minutes of play.

THE BULLDOGS held on to a comfortable 37-26 lead with 5:14 left and were in a delay game, but the Rebel girls fought back to make things interesting. Wilson's long-range shooting, like Rock's, got Lee back into the game despite the loss of three players with five fouls each. Deborah Ledbetter left the game for Lee with 4:54 left in the game while Poole and Taylor also fouled out of the game. Poole went to the bench with her fifth foul with 3:03 left and Taylor with only 17 ticks left on the clock.

Midland did not fare too well at the free throw line, hitting seven of 18 free throws while Lee cashed in on six of nine charity tosses.

With 3:03 left, a technical foul was called on Poole with Rock hitting the free toss to give the Pack a 40-30 lead.

In the preliminary junior varsity game, Lee took a 33-28 victory with Evelyn Oudems paving the way with 12 points followed by Michelle Roberts with eight. Leading Midland were Black and Janice McDonald with seven and six points, respectively.

Phoenix Open tries to play again today

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Officials tried again today to get in the first round of play in the rain-delayed, $250,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament.

The tournament now is scheduled to run through Monday. Under the contract between the PGA Tour and the tournament sponsors, the event could run as late as Tuesday if further delays are experienced.

The three-day storm, which produced about two inches of rain and caused flooding in the Phoenix area, dropped occasional showers again Thursday. It was expected to clear today, however.

The 6,726-yard Phoenix Country Club was inundated.

"We had no choice but to postpone," said Clyde

Mangum, the PGA deputy commissioner for tour operations.

The rains washed out Wednesday's pro-am, left the course unplayable for Thursday's scheduled first round and pushed back the tournament schedule one full day.

After inspecting the flat, desert course early Thursday morning, officials found seven holes completely unplayable and two others in marginal condition.

Pools and puddles covered fairways, greens and tees. Sand traps were filled with standing water.

Some of the veteran players — among them defending champion Miller Barber and Billy Casper — waited around the clubhouse and practiced putting between the showers before eventually drifting back to their hotels.

Two major factors prompted officials to schedule the final round on Monday rather than setting a double round of 36 holes for Sunday, which often happens in situations such as this.

Wrangler spurt nips Chaparrals

ODESSA — Odessa College ran off 11 unanswered points midway through the second half here Thursday night and turned it into a 90-84 victory over Midland College in a key Western Junior College Conference game.

The loss was the second in a row for the Chaparrals, who fell to 4-2 in the loop race and the Wranglers climbed to a 3-2 conference mark. MC is now 12-7 on the year while OC stands at 12-5.

Former Midland Lee star Billy Ray Ennis was the big gun for the Wranglers as he dumped in 30 points with 13 field goals to his credit. Keith Kitchens was the only other Wrangler in double figures with 18 points.

Four Chaps climbed into double digits, but it wasn't enough. Carl Runnels, the newest Chap from Houston Wheatley, pumped in 17 points while another Wheatley product Kenneth Young also had 17 points. Tim Shelby had 14 points while Tate contributed with 12.

The Chaps took a 19-12 lead early in the game, but the scored was tied at 23, 25 and 28 before the Wranglers ran to a 43-36 lead with 1:28 left in the half. Runnels hit two bombs, one at the halftime buzzer, to bring the Chaps back to 43-40.

In the second half, the Chaps held a 46-45 lead, but the Wranglers ran off 11 straight points, and MC was never on top again.

The Chaps jump back into the conference fire Monday when they host league leading Western Texas College, the eighth ranked junior college team in the country. That contest will be in the Chaparral Center at 8 p.m. It will also be "Fan Appreciation Night" and everyone will be admitted free to the game.

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Defenseman Jack Lynch, who replaces winger Bill Riley on the Washington Capitals roster, was to undergo an examination of his right knee today to determine if he could play in tonight's home game against Detroit.

Lynch was recalled from the American Hockey League's Hershey Bears. He injured his knee last season and had surgery, returning to the Caps for just five games earlier this season.

Riley, meanwhile, was sent to Hershey by the National Hockey League team.

Riley, 28, had played in 24 games for the Caps this season. He had two goals, two assists and 65 penalty minutes.

Clark captures Lombardi Award

HOUSTON (AP) — As a 6-foot-2, 240-pound high school pole vaulter, Penn State All-America defensive tackle Bruce Clark shocked his peers by pole vaulting 13 feet, two inches in a schoolboy track meet.

Clark pulled another surprise Thursday night when he was named the winner of the ninth annual Vince Lombardi Award as the nation's outstanding collegiate lineman of 1978.

All-America offensive guard Greg Roberts of Oklahoma had been the favorite based on his earlier selection as the Outland Trophy winner. Five of the previous eight Lombardi winners also had won the Outland.

Clark also was an underdog because no junior had ever won the award, named in honor of the former Green Bay and Washington coach who died of cancer.

Clark probably was the most stunned of all. "Again I'd like to thank the Rotary Club (sponsors of the $100 a plate dinner) of Houston — Oh boy, I'm going to choke up — for this award," Clark stammered. "I have to thank a lot of people for my being here."

Clark, who blossomed from a freshman linebacker into a 6-2½, 268-pound defensive tackle, thanked head Coach Joe Paterno, his line coach J.T. White and his girlfriend, Jane Pascarella.

"Coach White taught me everything about defensive tackle, I didn't even know the stance," Clark said. "I want to thank Coach Paterno, who decided I should become a part of the Penn State organization and my girlfriend who helped me through."

Globetrotters disappointing

The Harlem Globetrotters put the "Sold Out" sign on the Chaparral Center Thursday night, and I felt a little bit the same way after seeing the world famous road show.

It's hard to be critical of the Trotters because of all the joy they have brought to fans all over the world. They are almost an untouchable organization, but their performance never clicked for me Thursday.

A lot of the bad vibes could have been my own fault, however, and I want to admit that first. Just wading through the traffic to get to the Center was bad enough, but learning that the kitchen had just flooded back at the house; didn't seem to get me in the right mood either.

Still, I had the feeling that the Trotters were just going through the motions at times, and it was not near the show that the Trotters did for ABC-TV last Sunday.

In a way, I felt cheated that Geese Ausbie and Curly Neal were absent from the Midland show, and I miss the retired Medowlark Lemon. It was like seeing the second team Thursday, and I have to say that Twigg Sanders is not the funny man we expected to see. He has a long way to go before he can match wits with Ausbie or Lemon.

Seeing Marques Haynes do his dribbling and shooting act again was one of the few real pleasures. No one seems to know just how old Haynes is, but he has dribbled that ball long enough for the gray hairs to appear, and he is still good.

University of Texas product Jimmy Blacklock shows promise as the one day replacement of Haynes, if anyone ever could. He has a good dribbling style. And giant seven-footer Gerald Smith has a fine shooting touch worth watching.

Still, the Trotters are supposed to be funny, and they rarely were Thursday. The spark that has caught the imagination of the world was missing and the Midland crowd never seemed to really get with them.

It would be a harsh statement to say that the show was a wash-out because it wasn't. I just somehow expected more.

It took my four-year old daughter, Shane, to put the game in the proper perspective. She said after the game, "Dad, that was a good football game."

And if she was pleased with the (football?) game, then it was worth it.

Arizona upsets UCLA, 70-69

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

The UCLA Bruins might forget John Smith's all-too-common name before too long but it probably will be a long time before they forget the uncommon point he made Thursday night.

It was Smith's one and only point and came on the second of two free throws with six seconds left, giving the Arizona Wildcats a 70-69 upset victory over UCLA, the nation's third-ranked college basketball team.

Eight of the Top Ten teams in The Associated Press ratings were in action and the Bruins were the only one to stumble. Elsewhere:

—Sophomore Orlando Woolridge scored 18 points to lead No. 1 Notre Dame past San Francisco 88-69.

—Mark Smith's 15 points paced fourth-ranked Illinois to an 81-74 Big Ten triumph over Wisconsin.

LARRY BIRD, the nation's leading scorer, matched his 31-point average as No. 5 Indiana State, the only unbeaten major college team, trimmed Wichita State 94-81 in a Missouri Valley Conference game.

—Michigan State's Earvin Johnson, who scored only two points while sitting out most of the first half with three personal fouls, scored 20 after the intermission and sparked the sixth-ranked Spartans to an 82-56 Big Ten rout of Indiana.

—Seventh-ranked Louisville outlasted Cincinnati 82-77 in a Metro Conference contest behind Darrell Griffith's 23 points and 22 by freshman Scooter McCray.

—Kenneth Derrard led five Duke players in double figures with 21 points as the eighth-ranked Blue Devils defeated Wake Forest 81-69 in Atlantic Coast Conference action.

—And No. 10 Georgetown bolted to a 22-4 lead in the first eight minutes and whipped Fordham 75-65.

SMITH'S FREE THROW that did UCLA in capped a see-saw Pacific-10 clash in which Arizona ran off 11 consecutive points to take a 36-31 lead and then saw a 67-60 lead turn into a 69-67 deficit.

"It was do-or-die," said Smith, a 6-foot-4 sophomore from San Francisco. "It's been my dream — my biggest dream ever. I always watched UCLA when I was in junior high and in high school. UCLA was THE team. I always dreamed about beating them, but I never thought I'd be the one to do it."

Following Smith's game-winning free throw, which hit the front rim and dropped through, UCLA's David Greenwood, who committed the costly personal foul, missed a jump shot with two seconds left.

"I swore the ball was going to go in," he said. "It felt good. I was in shock when it didn't go in."

Besides Woolridge, who was 9-for-13 from the floor, five other Notre Dame players hit double figures against San Francisco as the top-rated Irish raised their record to 10-1. Notre Dame used a 12-point run — six by Woolridge — in roaring to an early 20-5 lead and never let the losers get closer than seven points thereafter.

"We came out with some defensive aggressiveness which got us the big lead in the first half," said Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps. The Irish limited Bill Cartwright, the Dons' 7-1 center, to nine points.

"Notre Dame did a great job in keeping the ball away from Billy," conceded USF Coach Dan Belluomini. "After we got behind, we couldn't try to keep forcing the ball in to him. We had to try to make some outside shots, but we didn't hit with consistency until the second half."

At any rate, Belluomini's preseason prediction has come true.

"I said at the beginning of the year that Notre Dame would be No. 1," he said. "They are a great team with excellent balance. They probably have the best 10 players in the country."

ILLINOIS WITHSTOOD a career-high 25-point performance by Wisconsin's Larry Petty. The Illini built a 12-point lead in the second half and ran off five straight with 2:17 left to stifle a Wisconsin rally.

Indiana State's Bird matched his 31-point average despite sitting out seven minutes of the first half with foul trouble. The Sycamores, 15-0, even stretched their lead from 2 to 13 points without him.

Michigan State Coach Jud Heathcote said his Spartans are "on the comeback" following their rout of Indiana. "We're going to play better," he promised. "We've been practicing better. Turning the corner is really not the correct expression. We had two tough losses on the road."

In the Second Ten, 16th-ranked Ohio State blew a 13-point first-half lead but rallied behind the scoring of Kelvin Ransey (20 points), Herb Williams (19) and Jim Smith (17) to edge Minnesota 83-80 and remain unbeaten in five Big Ten contests.

And Ray Thompson's two free throws with five seconds left gave No. 17 Temple a 70-69 decision over Bucknell.

Tully, Nehemiah have eyes on new Philly track records

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mike Tully wants to pole vault an unprecedented 19 feet and Renaldo Nehemiah has his sights on a 6.9 in the 60-yard hurdles.

Neither expects to reach those plateaus at tonight's Philadelphia Track Classic, but each believes he has the capability to set such dream standards.

Tully and Nehemiah are among five indoor world record holders, 23 Olympians and 12 national champions entered in the 12th annual meet. Others boasting of world bests are Houston McTeer, Herman Frazier and Todd Scully.

Todd Scully? For the track fan who considers a walk something his doctor recommends after dinner, Scully is the world's fastest walker.

Of course, whether there is any such thing as a world indoor record can start an argument in the track and field hierarchy.

Tully and Nehemiah would like their indoor achievements recorded. But whether they are or not, both note that nobody has pole vaulted higher or run the 60-yard hurdles faster indoors.

Frazier and Scully could say the same for their specialties.

Of the Olympians expected for the meet, 15 are men and eight are women. Also, eight defending champions are entered.

Rod Carew will agree to terms

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — California Angels General Manager Buzie Bavasi has finished half the task with rather surprising ease — signing Rod Carew — but now faces what promises to be the difficult part of the job.

After Carew signed an Angels' agreement Thursday, believed to call for some $4 million over five years, Bavasi made plans to fly East to try to work out a trade with Minnesota-Twins owner Calvin Griffith for the rights to the seven-time American League batting champion.

A stumbling block in the negotiations between the Twins and Angels apparently centers on California third baseman Carney Lansford, who hit .294 as a rookie last year. Minnesota wants Lansford included in the trade for Carew, but the Angels have declared him untouchable.

Carew said after signing the contract — with a contingency clause dependent on the successful conclusion of a California Minnesota deal — that he was optimistic he would be wearing an Angels' uniform this year.

"If the deal goes through with the Twins, I'm looking forward to coming out here and doing my part to help the Angels win a pennant," the 33-year-old first baseman said. "The contract part is over and done with, and I'm happy. Now it's all up to California to try to satisfy the Twins. I'm optimistic."

Although neither the Angels nor Carew would divulge the terms of his contract, it would make him one of baseball's highest paid players.

"I wasn't really looking too much at being the highest paid player in baseball," Carew said. "I just wanted to be properly compensated, just wanted to be happy. The Angels have made me very happy."

Jerry Simon, Carew's agent, was asked if the contract with the Angels would put his client in the same financial neighborhood with Pete Rose, the former Cincinnati star who signed a reported four-year, $3.2 million free-agent contract with the Philadelphia Phillies.

"I think that's probably a fair statement; I don't know of a better contract," said Simon. "It's very substantial."

Staubach, Bradshaw passing stats close

MIAMI (AP) — Only one-tenth of a point separated them in the final passing statistics during the season, but Dallas' Roger Staubach and Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw are two very different people.

Bradshaw, the National Football League's Most Valuable Player, led the league with his 28 touchdown passes, three more than Staubach, but also threw four more interceptions than Roger's 16. Each completed about 56 percent of his passes. In all, the NFL's complicated rating formula gave Staubach 84.9 points to Bradshaw's 84.8.

But they are a study in contrast. Staubach, long acknowledged as one of the game's finest quarterbacks, remains spoon-fed by Dallas Coach Tom Landry, who sends in every play from the sidelines and is almost never overruled.

Bradshaw, conversely, has come of age this season, having shed for good the rap that he was less than brilliant by proving he can lead as well as anyone — and better than most.

"The criticism he's gotten is totally unjust. Terry's a very smart young guy," says Staubach, six years older than the 30-year-old Bradshaw. "He was thrown in as a rookie in some very tough situations and made mistakes. I did the same thing as a rookie, but I didn't play nearly as much at the start, so it wasn't noticed as much."

Bring up the subject of Bradshaw's intelligence and Terry winces, but he has come to terms with it. "I have nothing to prove to anyone," he says emphatically.

"I've always said that you never live down an image that's created about you. It haunts you throughout your playing career, and perhaps even when your playing days are over. It just stays there and will not leave. I don't like talking about it. It's a touchy subject I've lived with for nine or 10 years."

The question of brains aside, it is Bradshaw, not Staubach, who maintains almost total control of the Steelers' offense while Staubach merely carries out his boss' orders.

Chuck Noll, Pittsburgh's coach, doesn't say Dallas' way is the wrong way. "Teams that win as many games as they do and get to as many Super Bowls as they do don't do too many things wrong," he observed.

Is there any area where Roger has more going for him? "I have more hair than he does," Staubach laughed.

TV gluttony predicted Sunday

By PETER J. BOYER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC is getting stiffed in the ratings. It faces dismal prospects for the near future. But for one day, at least, the No. 3 network has the only show in town.

Super Bowl Sunday lands on NBC's calendar this year, and the other two networks might as well shut down operations until it's over.

This isn't a holiday. It's a national obligation. Super Bowl parties are thrown by people who don't know what a football is. Football widows who considered divorce during the regular season suddenly start talking point spreads. Competing entertainment enterprises, such as race tracks, plan their events around it.

The game is always dull. And we always watch it.

So, you can't blame NBC for milking the thing. Ratings have revealed America's gluttonous appetite for things Super Bowl, and NBC is more than happy to cater the affair.

The feast starts Saturday with "Super Bowl Saturday Night," an inane variety-type show in which athletes and actors sing and dance and do other things people wouldn't ordinarily watch them do. This gives O. J. Simpson the opportunity to show that, as a TV star, he's still the greatest running back of all.

Then, when you're still clearing the sleep from your eyes Sunday morning, NBC is waiting in your living room, beckoning you to the tube. Dick Enberg, who should be calling the game, hosts 1½ hours of Sports World, followed by two hours of football junk. They think we'll sit and watch 3½ hours of pre-football football. We will.

"You know, I've looked at past Super Bowls and wondered if it's too much," says Chet Simmons, head of NBC Sports. "But I tell you, the public is insatiable when it comes to Super Bowl Sunday. You think, 'My God, another two-hour pregame show and a day of football,' but when the ratings come out, we find that people just watch it. It's a day that people devote to that particular event."

We never learn. For the game itself, NBC has hauled out all its finery. John Brodie and the restrained, articulate Merlin Olsen will offer analysis, while Curt Gowdy, who should be at home watching it with the rest of us, calls the game.

And Super Bowl XIII will have a new twist. The network has hired Cleveland Browns' Coach Sam Rutigliano to head a special isolated coverage team, which will try to anticipate plays and then set up camera coverage for them. Judging from Super Bowls past, anticipating plays should present no major difficulties.

And the crafty folks at NBC have even figured out a way to milk Super Bowl XIII after it's over. They're premiering one of their new series, the "Animal House" spinoff "Brothers and Sisters," right after the game. They figure we'll be catatonic by then, unable to switch channels.

Haight-Ashbury chic neighborhood

By LARRY KRAMER
The Washington Post

SAN FRANCISCO — The street sign on the corner of Haight and Ashbury streets here is perched atop its pole.

That may not seem like an important bit of news, but in the old days, that sign was stolen so often by souvenir-seek-shops. Typical of the changes is one long-time local stationary store, which changed its name to Reflections and covered its walls and windows with metallic, art-deco signs and displays.

GAYS ARE MOVING into the Haight in record numbers, according to quor stores, even if it means higher rents.

FIGURES FROM THE city planners' office reveal that the average sale price of a house in the Haight was $46,207 in 1975 (a 75 percent increase) and has recently soared to more than $125,000. It should be noted that single-family houses in San Francisco are the most expensive in the country.

There are other numbers from a recent professional marketing study that demonstrate the dramatic changes in the Haight. The percentage of people living in that neighborhood who earn more than $15,000 went from 15 percent in 1970 to more than 25 percent last year.

Perhaps more important, though, has been the change of the age distribution of Haight residents. The percentage of people under 19 has dropped by 34 percent and 20-to-24-year-olds by 19 percent. At the same time, the population share of 25-to-44-year-olds has increased by 46 percent.

And the commercial vacancy rate on Haight Street itself has dropped from 40 percent in 1970 to virtually nothing today. Of the merchants who moved their stores into the Haight during a recent five-year period, 47 percent said they did so because it was a "good area," "getting better," or "coming back," planners said.

OTHER STATISTICS PAINT an even rosier picture for the future of the Haight. In 1970, only 14 percent of the homes there were occupied by their owners. Today, more than 55 percent are owner-occupied.

"I am pleased by the rejuvenation of Haight Street," says mayor Dianne Feinstein, "because it is enabling the Haight-Ashbury neighborhood to once again be a productive and livable community. The sight of new storefronts, increased pedestrian traffic and more attractive homes along Haight Street shows us that we can rescue neighborhoods from urban decay with intelligent planning and the commitment of local residents."

In fact, the rebirth of Haight has a great deal to do with progressive city planning. Audrey Owen of the city planning department has been that office's liaison with the Haight-Ashbury community and plans to buy a home in the area herself.

"There is a remarkable grass-roots cooperative effort going on here," Owen said. "For the first time in years the Haight-Ashbury Merchants Association and the traditionally more liberal Neighborhood Council are working together to plan for the future. They are working on a detailed Haight Street master plan that could be a landmark in neighborhood planning."

Owen said that a city study revealed that in one recent one-year period, 62 new businesses opened on Haight Street and gross receipts for local merchants soared by $3.8 million during the same period.

IN AN EFFORT to control this rapid commercial growth, the Community has asked the city planning department to prohibit any commercial activity above the ground floor on Haight Street, and to ban the opening of any new bars, Owen said.

"It has been a long, tough road for the Haight since the days of 'flowers in your hair' and many of the locals are glad to see the iron gates come down from the fronts of grocery and liquor stores, even if it means higher rents."

ers that the city just stopped replacing it.

IT HAS BEEN good news, not bad news, that has helped Haight-Ashbury lose its standing as a tourist attraction. It is fast becoming just another (albeit fascinating) San Francisco neighborhood.

A renaissance of sorts has taken place in this former mecca of the dropped-out generation. People on the streets are no longer out-of-towners, but San Franciscans eating, drinking and shopping in what has become the newest-chic neighborhood.

Gone are the droves of drug addicts, misfits and lost souls who wandered aimlessly along Haight Street, main street of a neighborhood immortalized by the music of the mid-1960's. Including that of San Francisco's Jefferson Airplane and the Grateful Dead.

Fiat defects alleged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration announced an initial determination Thursday that underbody corrosion represents a safety defect in more than 180,000 Fiat automobiles.

The agency said the defect involves Fiat 850 and 124 models sold in the United States between 1970 and 1974.

The underbodies of these cars are subject to premature rusting and corrosion that can cause bending or separation of such structural parts as suspension systems, rocker panels, floor pans and steering components, the agency said.

Such failures could cause loss of vehicle control, NHTSA said.

The agency said it had reviewed 672 complaints from Fiat owners of which 294 involved safety related systems. It said complaints about rusting were 60 times greater for the Fiats than those received on comparable vehicles.

An initial finding is required before the safety agency can take any corrective action, such as a recall. NHTSA said it city officials, and turning around entire blocks within a few short months. The pattern is the same. They will buy up a series of well-worn Victorian houses, renovate them and clean up the neighborhood. The result: real estate values begin to soar.

For some people — notably blacks and other minorities who are residents of the neighborhood being renovated — the trouble has just begun. The rapid increases in real estate values have resulted in soaring rents and taxes, and many elderly and poor people are being forced to leave their long-time homes.

According to city officials, many do sell their homes to speculators for some profit, only to see the buyers turn around six months later and sell the houses for considerably more money.

It has been a long, tough road for the Haight since the days of "flowers in your hair," and many of the locals are glad to see the iron gates come down from the fronts of grocery and li-would hold a public hearing Feb. 21 at which time Fiat and others can present testimony on the initial finding.

EMT dies of heart attack

KENTWOOD, Mich. (AP) — A police emergency technician died of a heart attack after trying unsuccessfully to revive another heart attack victim, police reported Thursday.

Lester Barden, 40, of Grand Haven, was trying to revive Theodore Howard, 73, of Kentwood, at a restaurant in this Grand Rapids suburb when Barden suffered his own attack Wednesday.

Barden suffered a second attack and died in an ambulance en route to a hospital.

Choice probability

Part of the art of picking the best probability is a matter of knowing that you have a choice. Few declarers would even see the right play in today's hand.

East took the ace of clubs and returned a club to dummy. When declarer led the deuce of hearts from dummy East won and returned a trump.

Now South had to draw trumps and try the diamond finesse. East won and led a club to defeat the contract.

GIVE UP FINESSE

After taking the second club declarer should lead dummy's queen of diamonds. This gives up the diamond finesse but assures the contract if the diamonds break 4-3. If the defense returns a diamond, declarer can take the ace and jack to discard a loser.

The odds are 3 to 2 that the seven missing diamonds will break as evenly as possible. The odds are only even that the diamond finesse will work.

A finesse is better than playing for an even number of cards to divide equally, but not as good as playing for an odd number of cards to divide as equally as possible.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold: S64; HKJ96; DK83; CA1083. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three hearts. This jump, forcing to game, promises strong trump support with 13 to 16 points. In this case you have 11 points in high cards and one point for the doubleton. You should also count an extra point for the unusually good support in partner's bid suit.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

Cigarettes hurt non-smokers too

Dear Dr. Solomon: How often should a pregnant woman be seen by her doctor —Jan

Dear Jan: According to the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, a woman should see a doctor every four weeks for the first 28 weeks of pregnancy, every two weeks until the 36th week, and weekly thereafter. This amounts to about 13 visits for a normal 38-week pregnancy.

A government survey reports that teen-agers and women 45 years of age and older are least likely to seek prenatal care early in pregnancy, and are most likely to give birth to low-weight babies, who are at greater risk of disease or death.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I am in graduate school and I don't smoke. The people around me do. When I ask them to stop smoking they look at me as though I am some sort of a nut. They say there are no hard facts that nonsmokers are really put in jeopardy by the smokers. I know this isn't true, but I don't have the facts. Could you arm me with some —Ms. T.S.

Dear Ms. T.S.: Here are nine facts that can help you:

- 1—Cigarette smoke affects the nonsmoker in much the same way as the smoker.
- 1—Inhaling secondhand smoke makes the heart beat faster, the blood pressure to go up and the level of carbon monoxide in the blood increase.
- 3—There is more cadmium in the smoke that drifts off the burning end of the cigarette than in the drag the smoker takes. Large doses of cadmium have been related to hypertension, chronic bronchitis and emphysema.

4—Smoke from an idling cigarette contains even more tar and nicotine than an inhaled one.

5—The amount of carbon monoxide in the blood of nonsmokers doubles in a poorly ventilated room filled with cigarette smoke. Even outside the room, the inhaled carbon monoxide stays in the body for three or four hours.

6—The nonsmoker is forced to breathe in smoke from the burning end of the cigarette as well as the smoke exhaled by the smoker.

7—Researchers have found that lung illness is twice as common in young children whose parents smoke at home compared to those with nonsmoking parents.

8—An estimated 2 million Americans are sensitive to tobacco smoke and suffer smoke-caused asthma attacks.

9—The U.S. Surgeon General has said "Nonsmokers have as much right to clean air and wholesome air as smokers have to their so-called right to smoke, which I would redefine as a so-called right to pollute. It is high time to ban smoking from all confined public places such as restaurants, theaters, airplanes, trains, and buses. It is time that we interpret the Bill of Rights for the nonsmoker as well as the smoker."

U.S. shows dominate Latin America

By BRUCE HANDLER

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — More than 60 percent of Latin America's 335 million people now have access to television. But a good deal of it is of U.S. origin — "Kojak," "Charlie's Angels," and even "Sesame Street," which is assailed in some countries as bad for children in this part of the world.

An Associated Press survey that looked at TV from the Rio Grande south to the tip of South America indicates that, in short, television in Latin America is not really very Latin American.

Some of the main conclusions: — Latin American TV stations rely heavily on dubbed U.S. shows such as "Kojak" and "Charlie's Angels." This in turn gives rise to charges that the United States is trying to dominate Latin social customs.

U.S. TV networks and film studios actively try to sell their shows to Latin American television stations and are registered to do so with local tax and import licensing authorities. Latin American stations say they buy the U.S. shows because they have proven universal appeal, the selection is greater than locally produced material and the shows are cheaper on a per-unit basis than local productions.

— Except for Brazil, educational TV has been mostly neglected, in spite of serious problems of illiteracy and adequate basic schooling.

— Despite the fact that most Latin American countries have military regimes, a majority of the TV stations are privately run rather than government-controlled.

— The idea of "public access" to the airwaves or citizens' rebuttals to programs or editorials, is common in the United States, is nonexistent in Latin America.

Here is a view of TV in major Latin American nations:

BRAZIL — TV reaches 75 million of this country's 115 million people. Most of the programs are in color, and a modern microwave system brings live worldwide events even to the remotest corners of the Amazon.

Brazil, perhaps more than any other country in Latin America, has been able to drive dubbed American shows out of prime time, thanks to its slick, professional and extremely popular home-produced "novelas," or nighttime soap operas.

Rede Globo, the nation's principal private TV network, spends millions of dollars on these shows, some of which draw 90 percent ratings.

The Brazilian government and local private TV producers now are interested in going after canned American series that still occupy much nonprime time. There is talk of competing with "Charlie's Angels" with Brazilian series, such as "Joao Juca Junior — Rio Detective."

Brazil also is one of the few Latin American countries that has devoted significant resources to educational TV, especially in the field of adult education for high-school dropouts.

MEXICO — This fast-growing country of 65 million people and 45 million TV watchers also has its own color soap operas, called "telenovelas." But the U.S. influence remains very strong.

"Cultural imperialism from the United States is not simply a danger; it's a reality," said Luis Reyes de la Maza, head of the Mexican government agency that supervises TV broadcasting. He was referring to the Spanish-dubbed versions of "Police Story," "Bionic Woman" and "Starsky and Hutch," which Mexicans watch on commercial channels.

"We know this is bad," Reyes de la Maza said in Mexico City. "But Mexico has absolute press freedom, and the TV stations can do what they want. Mexico just doesn't have the resources to fill so many hours with Mexican programming."

One American show that has especially created a furor in Mexico and elsewhere in Latin America is "Sesame Street." Government officials, educators and nationalistic politicians in several countries have loudly condemned the show, charging that it amounts to a pro-U.S. cultural propagandizing of vulnerable Latin American children.

A situation similar to Mexico exists in Central America and Panama.

ARGENTINA — Fully 80 percent of this highly literate nation's 25 million people have TV — but only in black and white. Here again, the typical Latin American pattern emerges: Locally produced melodramas and tango concerts struggle to stay alive in the ratings against American imports, including "Charlie's Angels."

Argentina's military-run government controls TV broadcasting, but it is making efforts to return most of the stations to former private owners. The private stations were taken over by the nationalistic government of the late President Juan D. Peron and his wife, which the present junta overthrew.

Under the existing setup, however, the Argentine government uses TV to whip up patriotic sentiment, including propaganda against Chile in a serious border dispute which could possibly lead to war.

COLOMBIA — Colombia's population is approaching 30 million, but because it is a relatively poor country, less than a third of the people have TV. The government owns the channels but rents them to private companies.

Once again, dubbed U.S. series dominate programming, and the government says it would like to get rid of this imported violence. But Colombians seem to prefer U.S. programs. In fact, former President Carlos Lleras Restrepo, 73, says he stays up late every Sunday night to watch "Hawaii Five-O," which he describes as his favorite show.

PERU — About half of Peru's 16 million people have access to television. The military-run government controls all the stations, but the programming is basically the same as in the rest of Latin America — canned American shows dubbed into Spanish.

The head of Lima's Channel 5, Genaro Delgado Parker, told The AP in Lima: "Peruvian TV is unsatisfactory." He described his own station, which formerly was in private hands, as "a mere program importer and repeater."

One reason given by the military regime, which seized power in 1968, for taking control of TV broadcasting was that it could do a better job than private enterprise in using the medium for education. But there is no evidence that it has.

VENEZUELA — Seven of 10 households in this relatively prosperous country of 12 million people have TV. Two channels are privately owned, and the government runs two others. Locally produced soap operas do well on the private stations. In fact, Venezuela now exports these shows to Spanish-language stations in Puerto Rico and New York City.

Despite the fact that Venezuela is one of the few democracies in Latin America, the government here uses its own channels to play up what it sees as its achievements. But even so, Venezuela's government-run stations wind up filling a lot of their time with old U.S. shows.

CHILE — Updated TV-viewing figures in this country of 10 million are not available, but reliable estimates range from 20 to 40 percent. The right-wing military junta controls all the stations.

Leadership unlimited

Congratulations are in order for Joe Kloesel, who has assumed his duties as president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce for 1979, succeeding Harrell Feldt, who served two terms in the office.

Kloesel, who was elected at the chamber's December board meeting, is president of Drilco Industrial Division of Smith International Inc.

He is one of the Tall City's busiest, most active and most enthusiastic civic leaders — and workers. He certainly didn't need another responsible civic assignment of such importance, but Joe Kloesel isn't one to shirk civic responsibility. So, when he was invited to accept nomination for the chamber presidency, he didn't hem and haw, he said if this is what the committee and the board of directors wanted, he was willing to accept. This is the spirit in which he operates.

Joe Kloesel has served as a vice president of the chamber and was chairman of its Midland Area Sales Team (MAST) during the last year. He also is a member of the executive committee of the Industrial Foundation of Midland, Inc. He presently is serving as president of Junior Achievement of Midland, Inc., and is active in various other Midland groups and organizations.

But he does not limit his activities just to Midland. He is a director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and serves as chairman of its National Affairs Committee. He also is a vice president of the Texas State Chamber of Commerce.

Yes, Joe Kloesel manages to stay busy.

He is very thorough in everything which he undertakes, and it appears that the Midland Chamber of Commerce is in for another great year of achievement in '79.

Kloesel is fortunate in that he has a team of capable, willing, enthusiastic officer associates with whom to work. Larry Bell, Wilbur A. Yeager Jr. and William F. Ortloff are the chamber's vice presidents for 1979. Ray Moudy is treasurer and Fred Tyler is executive vice president.

They also are due congratulations and all best wishes, along with eight new directors: Gene Bartus, Juanita Bryant, George W. Bush, Joe Campbell, Clarence Cardwell, Jim Crowder, Reagan Legg and George Veloz.

With leadership like this, the Midland C. of C. can't miss.

CHARLEY REESE: Theories rarely fit the world as it really exists

By CHARLEY REESE
Sun Belt Syndicate

Charley Reese

ORLANDO, Fla. — It's funny how rarely the theories fit the world as it is. Theoretically, free trade sounds great. The argument goes that free trade provides the best products at the cheapest prices on the basis of unfettered competition.

Unfortunately for the theory-lovers, the world isn't free and so what "free trade" policies really promote is unfair competition for American labor and big profits for the multi-national corporations.

You should think about this and then let your congressmen and senators know how you feel. Jimmy Carter and his corporate buddies are lining up their forces to lobby through a new trade agreement.

Let's simplify it. A tariff is a tax on imports. If it's high enough, it can protect an American made product from being undersold by a foreign import. This protects American jobs. It prevents an American steelworker, for example, from being laid off because his factory has been put out of business by steel imports from Japan.

The imports are cheaper because the Japanese worker accepts a lower standard of living and because the Japanese government will encourage the manufacturer and help him to dump his excess steel in the U.S.

markets even at prices which are below cost.

If you aren't a steelworker, you may be saying, "So what! I can save money buying Japanese steel." Yes, you can if you don't count the social and financial costs involved in thousands of Americans being unemployed when factories are shut down.

Furthermore, you are taking a big risk. Imports have cost America a portion of its industrial base. Right now, we are the only major industrial nation in the world that cannot meet its own steel needs if the economy is going full blast.

In a world crisis, that could put you at the mercy of a foreign supplier who may not be so friendly. He may cut you off or suddenly raise his prices to blackmail proportions. Look at the mess we've gotten ourselves into by not developing our own domestic oil supplies.

Now if two countries decide to mutually lower their tariffs in roughly equivalent categories, it can be a good business proposition for both. So far that really hasn't happened. European and Japanese politicians are not about to let American products put their people out of work. But in recent years, most of our politicians have not represented the American people; instead, they've been the toadies of big money.

A number of American-based international corporations have been closing their American plants and building plants overseas. The XYZ Corp., for a hypothetical example, might close its radio manufacturing plant in Oshkosh where it had to pay American wages and American taxes and open one in Mexico where it can get cheap labor.

The United States, however, is still the market for the radios, which are not imported from Mexico. Naturally, the XYZ Corp. doesn't want to pay a big tariff so it trots off to Congress to sing the praises of free trade for Old Glory and the Grand Republic.

Another way these trade negotiations can be twisted for private profit by the big corporations is by trading off their fellow Americans for their own gain. Suppose a big corporation wants to sell its product in Italy. The American trade negotiator just might agree with the Italian negotiator that the U.S. will lower its tariff on shoes if Italy will lower its tariff on Mr. Big's product.

I realize that this is a cynical way to look at our beloved politicians, but I'll wager a Big Mac that a careful reading of Carter's trade agreement will turn up just such shenanigans. Just drag out your Christmas presents and note how many of them are foreign made.

Note, too, that the German and Japanese economies are in much better shape than ours. It's time we Americans began to look out for our own people and this new trade pact is a good place to start.

Mark Russell says

Somebody should bring up the fact that it is in direct conflict of interest for foreign affairs adviser William Carter to be First Brother at the same time.

Foreign adviser Carter said, "there's a helluva lot more Arabs than there is Jews." Foreign advisers shouldn't talk like that when they are a First Brother but sometime they do.

Therefore, Mr. Carter should either resign or be stripped of his brotherhood. He must turn in his credentials — the ceremonial hat made of beer can flip tops and his membership card in the Agnew-Lance Institute of On-the-Make Diplomacy.

The President must know that there's a helluva lot more intelligent spokesmen in his Administration than there is brothers.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Firm's endorsements questioned

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — Health Learning Systems, the company that developed an ostensibly objective "education program" on emotional stress with money from the maker of a popular tranquilizer, has collected an impressive-looking string of endorsements for the program.

The educational campaign is funded by Roche Laboratories, the manufacturer of Valium, which is the country's most widely prescribed mood-altering drug. Although the operation was billed as totally objective, much of the promotional material supplied to doctors and medical writers displays a definite tilt toward the use of drugs to treat stress and toward Valium in particular.

Now, our investigator David Zimmerman, who started his probe with the help of a grant from the Fund for Investigative Journalism, has discovered that some of the purported endorsements were spurious.

A press release about the program claimed that the National Institute of Mental Health endorsed the affair. "We do not institutionally endorse them," the head of NIMH told Zimmerman.

Health Learning Systems has also claimed that the stress program was "accredited" by the American Psychiatric Association — an endorsement that would obviously carry some weight. But an APA spokesman said the organization has never endorsed or accredited the Roche-sponsored program.

An official of the psychiatrists' association, Lea Mesner, said an HLS representative phoned her last summer and pleaded for an APA endorsement. Mesner said the HLS official never mentioned that Roche was involved.

After explaining the rigorous procedure that APA goes through before deciding whether to lend its prestigious name to a program, Mesner said, she got the impression the HLS official wasn't really listening. So she took the precaution of putting it in writing. "You may not list the APA as sponsoring, co-sponsoring or endorsing this program," her letter stated.

Despite this clear rejection, a subsequent mailing to doctors claimed the stress program had been accredited by the APA. The organization understandably protested. A spokesman for Health Learning Systems acknowledged that the company had misrepresented the views of the psychiatrists' association. "It was listed incorrectly," the spokesman said. "We said we are sorry."

Promotional literature sent out by the Roche-HLS program's flacks claimed that the American Cancer Society has endorsed the consumer-oriented part of the stress program as well as that aimed at physicians. An ACS spokeswoman said that was not true, that the society had only supported the physicians' part. She added that the cancer society tries to avoid the word "endorse" because of the possibility of commercial exploitation — precisely what appears to have happened in this case.

Two high-ranking government officials were persuaded to lend their names to the Roche-financed stress program as unpaid consultants. One, Herbert Pardes, a psychiatrist who heads the National Institute of Mental Health, denied there was any conflict of interest. But he later told Zimmerman, "As you're talking, you're making me wonder if it's an appropriate thing or not."

The other, Gerald Klerman, runs the Alcohol, Drug Abuse and Mental Health Administration. He insisted there is no conflict of interest because he was not being paid. If he thought the stress education program was resulting in the promotion of a particular commercial product, he said, he would not participate.

As we previously reported, the Food and Drug Administration is now trying to determine whether the "educational program" is indeed a promotional campaign.

GSA CRACKDOWN: Corruption isn't the only problem at the General Services Administration. Sloppy procedures and a hang-the-expense attitude are also costing the taxpayers money at the scandal-ridden agency.

The first of what may be many such cases was turned up recently by the new acting assistant administrator for acquisition policy, Dale Babione. An outsider with 25 years' procurement experience, Babione was brought in to review contract awards and crack down when he found regulations hadn't been followed.

With a touch of poetic justice, Babione's first target was the University of Florida's Center for Governmental Responsibility, which had been awarded a $274,000 contract to evaluate the work it had done for GSA under an earlier $61,000 contract. It was not this sweetheart arrangement that led Babione to cancel the contract, however.

The most glaring governmental irresponsibility lay in the fact that the center's bid was approximately $175,000 higher than the nearest competitor's. Babione found to his astonishment that there hadn't even been any discussion of price with the competing bidders.

An internal memo gently reminds GSA's procurement officers of what they might reasonably have been expected to know all along. "We believe," Babione wrote, "that price should have been given some consideration."

With an attitude like that, Babione clearly has his work cut out for him riding herd on the cavalier spendthrifts of GSA.

Computerized list

The federal government plans to create a computerized list of all welfare recipients throughout the nation. The list could be used to identify cheaters and to determine the effectiveness of programs designed to train welfare recipients for private employment.

Federal law protects the privacy of welfare recipients by prohibiting the publication of welfare rolls. But there is no law against sophisticated record-keeping by the federal government and there should be.

The amount of money spent for training and rehabilitation programs justifies the computer costs — estimated at $1 million — in order to determine whether these programs do any good.

Social Security records will show the employment records of those welfare recipients who are trained for employment at government expense.

In recent years the welfare system has increasingly become federalized but records have remained fragmentary, being kept only at the county or state level. The computer list for the first time will give the Congress complete information on what is happening in welfare offices throughout the country.

INSIDE REPORT:

Carter warned against abandoning ICBM capability

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Without apparent success so far, Secretary of Defense Harold Brown has privately warned President Carter of "disastrous consequences" if he pursues his present course of abandoning the nation's land-based intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM) capability.

Brown's warning echoes the position that Carter's defense critics have been derided for: if the Soviets "are restructuring" their forces to fight an extended nuclear war and know that the U.S. is not, there is deep trouble ahead.

The blunt warning, so out of character for the low-keyed Brown as to be passionate, was provoked by Jimmy Carter himself. Meeting with senior officials on the defense budget last Sept. 29, the president asked: "Why do we need the Triad?" In other words, why can't the U.S. dispense with land-based ICBMs, and rely on the other two legs of the Triad — manned bombers and missile-firing submarines?

Over a month elapsed before Brown completed an answer for the president's eyes. Brown's "top secret" memorandum of Dec. 1 contained this chilling message:

"The effect of the U.S. giving up, under successful Soviet pressure, a military capability of considerable value which the Soviet Union retains would, in my view, have disastrous consequences both internationally and domestically."

While State Department policymakers flatly disagree, even Brown himself does not talk that way in public. Nuclear physicist Brown is a private man, a cool scientist who avoids cold war rhetoric. Unlike predecessors Melvin Laird and James Schlesinger, Brown has shunned the Cassandra role of pointing to the Soviet menace. He has in the process, become one of Carter's favorite cabinet members.

Yet, there is no sign of presidential response to Brown's warning. Nothing in writing from Carter has been received at the Pentagon. The gloomy consensus there is that he is determined, for arms control's sake, to reject the Defense Department's proposals to preserve the land-based ICBM and the Triad.

Specifically at issue is whether the president will approve a mobile-based system on land for the new MX missile to replace the fixed-base Minuteman, which is becoming vulnerable to Soviet attack. But mobile basing is viewed by arms controllers as destabilizing on grounds it would force Moscow to respond (while also violating the new SALT II arms control treaty). Consequently, presidential science adviser Frank Press and other White House aides want to base the MX aboard aircraft.

Carter leans this way, an inclination signalled by him while still president-elect on Jan. 12, 1977, when he suggested reducing the U.S. arsenal to 200-250 ICBMs. Nearly two years in office did not change his mind. That was shown at the Sept. 29 meeting, when Carter again questioned the need for the ICBM.

The Dec. 1 response, personally written by Brown, after its warning of "disaster" discussed why a land-based missile is needed. Brown insisted on retaliatory capability "come what may, in the fact of new and unexpected Soviet developments." He further stressed the need "to maintain some capability after an initial (nuclear) exchange — perhaps for days, or weeks, or even a few months."

This notion of a nuclear war that would not be completed in one apocalyptic spasm has been rejected by arms control advocates rampant in the administration. It also has been publicly rejected by Harold Brown, who returned to this position in the Dec. 1 memo: "I should note that I doubt that a strategic war of this kind is at all likely, or that it could be fought without rapid escalation to an unlimited spasm." Then, however, Brown tells his president what arms controllers will not admit: "But there are many indications that the Soviets are restructuring the forces to fight such a war. Their plans and exercises point the same way. If they think they have such a capability, and we both know that the U.S. does not, adverse military consequences are possible, and adverse political consequences very likely."

While Brown's memo has been safeguarded as though it were a secret weapon, there is no mystery about the Air Force's position. Its chief of staff, Gen. Lew Allen, champions a mobile land-basing system in a Dec. 29 letter to the House Armed Services Committee which was cleared by Brown without a word changed.

Here is a weapons decision where the president cannot claim support by the military or where his apologists cannot plead lack of outside advice. In this case, Carter needs no warnings about unilateral concessions under Soviet pressure from Scoop Jackson, Paul Nitze or Mel Laird. What they would say is duplicated by his trusted secretary of defense, who seems to be going unheeded.

Total depth is 7,450 feet and 4.5-inch pipe was set at 7,300 feet.

Wellsite is 1,295 feet from south and 1,320 feet from east lines of section 9, block 10, University Lands survey.

Oil cutoff 'hot issue'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cutoff in oil from Iran — unless the flow is resumed by summer — could lead to American shortages and higher prices that would "be enough to anger the public," says Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

"It'll be a hot issue in Congress," Jackson said Thursday after a two-hour secret briefing from Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger and CIA officers.

Jackson, who is chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, said, "I think there is a real danger of gasoline shortages this summer because our stocks will be down."

He also said gasoline prices per gallon may go higher than the 6-to-7-cent increase already guaranteed by the recent price increase announced by oil-producing countries.

Before the cutoff due to unrest in Iran, the United States imported about 900,000 barrels a day of Iranian oil, about 5 percent of U.S. daily needs.

Wallace names exos 'the fuel tank of nation'

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Mack Wallace of the Texas Railroad Commission acknowledged today that the price paid for natural gas in the state market has increased at a greater rate than the price in the national market but Texas has drilled more wells and produced greater supplies of oil.

Wallace described Texas "as the fuel tank for the nation" and said the federal government should "model its production after Texas."

Wallace addressed the statewide oil allowable hearing after the commission had routinely set the allowable for February at 100 percent.

As usual, the large East Texas Field was restricted to 86 percent production to avoid possible waste.

Wallace said he wanted to "set the record straight" on recent remarks by Secretary of Energy James Schlesinger. Wallace said, in effect, that Schlesinger has described the Texas intrastate market as "highly injurious, destructive and deadly."

"The secretary is wrong, and the numbers bear me out," said Wallace.

He said from 1972 to 1977 the price paid for natural gas in the Texas market increased by 5.6 times, and the price paid for natural gas in the national market increased by 3.5 times.

Since 1972, however, "the number of operating rigs, total number of wells, total number of exploration wells, and total number of new field wildcat wells drilled increased in numbers greater in the Texas market than in the national market," Wallace said. "As a result, supplies from new field discoveries and added reserves from 1972 to 1977 increased in Texas in numbers greater than the national market."

Nominations for Texas crude for February total 2,825,861 barrels daily a decrease of 25,394 barrels daily from January nominations. The figures are lower for February because "additional demand" estimates received from some purchasers were dropped from the monthly calculations.

Here are the nominations by major purchasers of Texas crude oil for February, in barrels per day compared with the previous month:

- Amoco 302,000 (down 2,000)
- Atlantic Richfield 152,840 (down 2,065)
- Chevron 60,265 (down 50)
- Cities Service 100,000
- Continental 56,000
- Diamond Shamrock 16,643 (down 40)
- Exxon 421,000 (down 9,000)
- Gulf 132,000 (down 2,000)
- Marathon 67,460
- Mobil 229,100 (down 2,300)
- Sun 245,000
- Shell 112,400 (down 3,200)
- Texaco 118,000 (down 2,000)
- Union of California 48,600

Discovery potentials

A Strawn sand oil discovery has been completed in Stonewall County, and a new wildcat has been spotted in same county.

Wildcat operations also have been started in Pecos and Schleicher counties.

The Stonewall discovery is Fisher-Webb, Inc., of Abilene No. 1 W. B. Miller, six miles northeast of Old Glory.

The operator reported a daily flow potential of 120 barrels of 40-gravity oil, no water, natural, from open hole section at 5,041 feet, where 4.5-inch casing is set, and total depth of 5,045 feet.

The flow was gauged through an 18/64-inch choke.

The strike is 2.5 miles southeast of 5,032-foot Strawn oil production in the Old Glory field. Operator has suggested Old Glory, East (Strawn sand) as the field designation.

The Strawn sand was picked by electric log at 5,041 feet on kelly bushing elevation of 1,603 feet.

Wellsite is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 1, block BBB&C survey, abstract 868.

STONEWALL WILDCAT

Texas City Refining, Inc., of Texas City announced location for a 6,950-foot wildcat in Stonewall County, 1.5 miles north of Swenson.

The prospector is No. 1 O. B. Hallum, 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 209, block D, H&TC survey and three and three-eighths miles northwest of the depleted Schick, West (Ellenburger) oil pool. It also is two miles south of the Onyx (Ellenburger) field and separated from it by 6,542- and 6,512-foot failures.

The field also produces from the Tannehill zone.

FIELD PROJECT

V-F Petroleum, Inc., of Midland announced location for a southeast offset to one of the two wells in the Old Glory, Northwest (Bend conglomerate) field of Stonewall County.

It is No. 1 Wumphrey, 330 feet from south and west lines of section 1, block C, AB&M survey. It is to drill to 6,100 feet.

The field also produces from the Tannehill zone.

PECOS EXPLORER

Exxon Corp., operating from Midland, staked its No. 1-C Walker Glass Mountain Corp. as an 8,500-foot wildcat in Pecos County, 30 miles southwest of Fort Stockton.

Location is 1,453 feet from north and 2,646 feet from east lines of section 12, block 181, HE&WT survey.

The site is 1.5 miles southeast of Exxon No. 1-B Walker Glass Mountain Corp., an active project at plugged back depth of 5,835 feet.

SCHLEICHER AREA

Discovery Operating, Inc., of Midland spotted No. 1 Murphy as a 7,000-foot wildcat in Schleicher County, six miles northwest of Eldorado.

Operator will spud 467 feet from south and 1,320 feet from east lines of section 18, block LL, TCCR survey.

The project is one location south of Canyon gas production in the Cody Bell field. It is scheduled to test the Canyon B gas zone. It is 2.5 miles north of the Canyon B oil discovery in the Eldorado, North field.

EDDY PROJECTS

A trio of Morrow gas projects have been staked in Eddy County, N. M. J. C. Barnes Oil Co. of Midland No. 3 Big Chief will be drilled one and one-quarter miles northwest of the same operator's No. 1-Big Chief, recently completed unnamed 12,500-foot Morrow gas discovery.

The new test, scheduled for a 12,700-foot bottom, is eight miles southeast of Carlsbad and 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 21-22-28.

MESA TESTER

Mesa Petroleum Co. of Midland No. 1 Frank-State is to be dug as a 7,700-foot Morrow operation in West Eddy County, nine miles south of Hope and 3/4 mile west of Mesa's No. 1 Gardner, indicated Morrow gas discovery. It is one mile northwest of 4,496-foot Abo gas production in an unnamed area.

The location is 2,130 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 7-19-23.

Yates Petroleum Corp. No. 7-BV Ingham-Jackson is a new 8,400-foot project in the Eagle Creek, East (Morrow) pool of Eddy, 2.5 miles southwest of Artesia.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 26-17-25.

Only three Greenland leases left

By MICHAEL GETLER

The Washington Post

GODTHAB, Greenland — In the frigid waters off the west coast of Greenland, six international oil consortiums — four of them led by American firms — have been looking for oil since 1975 with no success thus far.

All told, Danish officials say, 13 leases were let for exploration, and 10 of them had been given up by the end of last year. The other three are expected to be terminated in a few months and Danish specialists say the longer range prospects of finding oil appear bleak, at least on the west coast.

But the same may not be true on Greenland's even wilder and more permanently frozen northeastern coast, and the question of Greenland's share of the wealth in any would-be major oil or mineral find is potentially the most volatile issue contained in the home rule measure that has been worked out between Denmark and Greenland.

The reason Greenland's east coast may be more promising is that the geological formations there are similar to those in the North Sea and off the west coast of Norway, where oil was discovered many years ago, according to Peter Bjerrum of the Royal Danish Trading Co. in Greenland.

The Danes, he says, will probably start some very preliminary explorations from the air in that region, possibly next summer. Gunnar Martens, a mineral specialist on Greenland's municipal council, adds, however, that it would be at least five years before any really serious exploration and drilling in that area could be under way unless the Canadian find oil on the Canadian east coast.

Greenland's east coast has a great deal of polar ice so drilling and exploitation would be more difficult and expensive than for North Sea oil.

Nevertheless, two major problems are looming here if oil is found. One is that one of the major Greenland political parties, the left-leaning Siunut Party, opposes the granting of any more concessions, fearing a blow-out or oil-well accident that could contaminate and spoil Arctic waters in a country where one-third of the population makes a living from fishing.

The new and clearly left-wing Inuit Youth Socialist party has also announced its opposition, leaving only the remaining major party, the Atasut, in favor of more exploration.

Contracts ratified

DENVER (AP) — Twelve local oil workers unions have ratified new two-year contracts with the oil industry.

The agreements, which cover about 2,000 of the 60,000 oil workers, were the first formal acceptance of settlements reached between the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union and the oil industry.

Union spokesman Jerry Archuleta said Thursday the union has accepted offers from companies employing about 39,000 members. The offers are basically the same as the Gulf Oil Corp. proposal, he said.

The Gulf proposal called for a 73-cent-an-hour wage increase for the first year — about 8 percent — and a 5 percent boost the second year. The contract contained a wage reopener clause for the second year.

The oil industry pacts are the first major contracts worked out under President Carter's voluntary wage-benefit guidelines. The settlement has tentative approval from the administration, which seeks a 7 percent limit on wage and benefit increases over the life of a contract.

Archuleta said the contract was ratified by locals in Santa Fe, Calif.; Toledo, Ohio; Lake Charles, La.; East Chicago, Ind.; Casper, Wyo. and Alma, Mich. He said no local has rejected the offer.

OCAW supervises more than 400 contracts with 100 oil firms.

The Washington Post

NEWPORT, R.I. — On Thursday, Jan. 4, an eerie structure appeared through the mist off this historic maritime city, in waters long the province of the sailing yacht, the lobster boat and the nuclear submarine.

It stood nearly 400 feet high — far taller than the Statue of Liberty — and resembled nothing so much as the mutant offspring of a lunar module or a giant erector set.

Longer than a football field and wider than most aircraft carriers, the six-legged, derrick-topped platform was actually part ship and part island; a self-powered industrial zone as otherworldly in its appearance as its name: the Zapata Uglad.

Its ultimate destination lay 100 miles south of here and about 60 miles off Cape May, N.J. There, in about 450 feet of water, it will soon begin drilling the 15th oil exploration well in the undersea geologic zone known as the Baltimore Canyon.

For nearly a year, since the U.S. Supreme Court's final rejection of environmental challenges last February, a vast river of money and machines has been flowing toward the Canyon, one of the nation's last petroleum frontiers.

Tenneco's actual drilling partner, however, will be Exxon, which is putting up half of Tenneco's $65,000 per day drilling cost (of which the rig rental is only a part) in return for access to the geological data produced by the well.

The rig population is similarly tangled. There are 15 marine crewmen — Norwegians hired by Zapata from Uglad — who handle and maintain the non-drilling aspects of the rig, including transatlantic trips when the marine crew swells to 42.

Driving a 410-foot high, one and three-quarter acre island across the ocean can have its frustrations. On the Zapata Uglad's 45-day trip here from Ireland, it encountered 80-knot headwinds and 40-foot seas which played havoc with the rig's customary 9-knot forward speed. One day it went 65 miles backwards.

Augmenting the marine crew are some 30 men in the drilling crew, plus caterers and cooks who serve up Cajun gumbo and Texas beef.

There are drilling bit salesmen and pipe suppliers, whose wares chew through clays and sandstones beneath the sea and funnel samples to the surface, purveyors of mud and cement, whose products lubricate and line the hole as it inches downward; loggers and chemists who search the sucked up bottom samples every few feet with computers and test tubes and monitor the rig's discharges over the side.

Supplying the rig as it works will be two $7-to-$10 million work boats, each half the size of a destroyer, and each chartered with its crew for $4,000 a day, plus a 16-passenger Westland Puma helicopter chartered for $55,000 a month (just to be available) plus $500 for every hour it flies.

capabilities of modern day offshore rigs, are the financial and corporate entanglements which produce and employ them.

The Zapata Uglad, for example, was designed in Houston and built in Texas for the Uglad shipping Co. of Grimstad, Norway, which put up its $30 million price tag.

Technically a Norwegian flag ship, it was leased under a 12-year charter to Zapata Inc., a multi-million-dollar, Houston-based conglomerate which also dredges rivers, mines coal and copper, and fishes for anchovies.

Zapata, in turn, has the rig and its crew under charter (for $22,600 a day) to Tenneco whose multi-billion-dollar, worldwide oil interests crowd under the same corporate umbrella that also shelters makers of auto mufflers and processors of pistachio nuts.

Tenneco, for its part, leased its nine square miles of Baltimore Canyon ocean floor in partnership with Amin-oil, a division of the same firm that was until recently known as R.J. Reynolds tobacco company.

Aminoil paid 35 percent of the $8.2 million bid for the lease and will receive 35 percent of whatever Tenneco finds.

Tenneco's actual drilling partner, however, will be Exxon, which is putting up half of Tenneco's $65,000 per day drilling cost (of which the rig rental is only a part) in return for access to the geological data produced by the well.

Cox finals Upton well

John L. Cox of Midland No. 1 Mary Wahlenmaier has been completed in the Spraberry Trend Area of Upton County, 15 miles northeast of Rankin.

It finished for a daily pumping potential of 132 barrels of 40-gravity oil, plus 18 barrels of water, with a gas-oil ratio of 725-1.

Completion was through perforations from 6,944 to 8,386 feet after 130,000 gallons of fracture fluid.

Location is 1,320 feet from south and west lines of section 9, block 2-5, GC&SF survey.

From Sabine Pass, Texas, where it was launched, it powered itself across the ocean in 21 days to the North Sea where it hunkered down and drilled its first well amid 100-knot winter winds and 70-foot waves.

If the waves were big, the rig was bigger. It was held in place by 10,000 tons of water flooded into its six silo-sized legs (each as tall as a 10-story building) plus ten 20-ton anchors, each winched to the rig with two-thirds of a mile of chain.

Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market showed some scattered gains today, aided by strength in the dollar.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 17 at 839.31.

Gainers outnumbered losers by a 5-3 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The dollar was higher in foreign-exchange markets in Europe and Tokyo today.

"The key background factor giving support to the market and stimulating demand recently, in our opinion, is the strength in the dollar," said Robert J. Farrell at Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith in his market bulletin for this week.

Analysts also noted a favorable reaction to the $2.8 billion decline in the basic measure of the money supply reported by the Federal Reserve late Thursday — even though the figure for the preceding week was revised upward by $1.7 billion.

Recent slow growth in the figures has been taken as a signal that the Fed's effort to slow inflation might be beginning to take hold.

Officials at the Fed previously warn against reading much significance into the preliminary weekly data it issues, but the figures still get considerable attention on Wall Street.

Esmark was actively traded, off 1/8 at 24 1/4. A 136,700-share block traded at 24.

The NYSE's composite index was up .07 at 55.88. On the American-Stock-Exchange, the market value index gained .77 to 161.17.

Volume on the Big Board came to 11.82 million shares at noon, against 12.31 million at the same point Thursday.

Not satisfied with obtaining agreement with its goals, the Chamber intends to keep a scorecard on every member of Congress, matching statements made in a pre-election survey with their votes on the floor.

The results could be embarrassingly revealing because, says Lesher, fully 100 percent of elected candidates have indicated they favor the Chamber's policies on tackling inflation, the "top problem."

No less than 98 percent, he continued, favor the Chamber's views on restraining spending growth, and on reducing the fiscal 1980 deficit below $25 billion, instead of the official budget $29 billion.

Nearly as many support its goals of tax relief for all taxpayers, and "sunset," or automatic phasing out for all programs and regulations that, on review, cannot demonstrate their usefulness.

Seeking to buttress these expressions of confidence, Lesher's economic research staff, headed by Jack Carlson, an economist with years in high government positions, sent lawmakers some interesting statistics.

In the form of a letter from Shearon Harris, chairman, the chamber informed members of Congress that in the past they have been among the major causes of inflation.

Because of congressional actions in 1977 and 1978, the members were informed, they have already assured a 3 percent increase in prices by the end of 1979, a rate that would cost the average family nearly $800.

An asterisk must be applied to these figures, however, lest the notion be accepted that such spending is simply waste. There is no black and white in such matters. There may be good, and there may be waste.

The raising of the minimum wage rate, for example, accounts for fully 2 percent of the 3 percent gross impact. The Chamber believes that those higher rates have needlessly raised costs — and cost jobs.

Chamber feels Congress shares its enthusiasm

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Chamber of Commerce has delivered its message to the 96th Congress: Fight inflation, cut spending and taxes, end needless regulation and promote real economic growth.

Nothing unexpected in that, but there is a difference. It's one of outlook: The Chamber now feels Congress and most Americans share not only their goals but their enthusiasm.

Encouraged by trends, including membership that has jumped to 80,000 from 52,000 in 1975, Richard Lesher, president, has changed the Chamber from somewhat of a benign moral presence into a real knuckle-rapper.

Not satisfied with obtaining agreement with its goals, the Chamber intends to keep a scorecard on every member of Congress, matching statements made in a pre-election survey with their votes on the floor.

The results could be embarrassingly revealing because, says Lesher, fully 100 percent of elected candidates have indicated they favor the Chamber's policies on tackling inflation, the "top problem."

Bostonians recall molasses disaster

BOSTON (AP) — Exactly 60 years ago, workers and residents in Boston's North End heard several sharp explosions followed by a low rumble. They turned to see a 50-foot brown wave bearing down on them from Boston Harbor.

The wave was not ocean water; it was a wall of molasses that poured from a wrecked storage tank, killing 21 and leaving the city with a strange legacy — the Boston Molasses Disaster.

"There is a slow but steady interest in the disaster," says Elva Bogard, a librarian at the Massachusetts Historical Society. "It certainly is not one of the major topics we cover here, but we do get a handful of inquiries each year — mostly incredulous."

At one time, the society kept a file of letters sent to various city officials from school children around the country, asking whether their Boston friends were pulling their leg with an apocryphal tale.

On Jan. 15, 1919, the story was real enough. The catalyst for disaster was a 90-foot storage tank owned by the Purity Distilling Co. The tank, built among a complex of freight terminals and shipping houses, was used to store molasses from the West Indies before it was distilled into rum.

For reasons never fully determined, the tank failed shortly after noon on Jan. 15, freeing 2.3 million gallons of molasses weighing 27 million pounds.

The cargo of melted sugar gurgled out on a rampage. The sweet tidal wave, cresting at 50 feet, hit the North End at 35 m.p.h., swallowing eight buildings, including crew quarters from a Boston fireboat. A column supporting an elevated train track was sheared away.

Workers eating lunch in the shadow of the tank were suffocated by the goo that sealed mouths and noses shut. Later, when the molasses ebbed, their bodies were found where they were struck in a sugar-coated version of Pompeii. And 150 survivors were plastered with a sticky brown coat that had to be cut away at hospitals.

Death part of doctor's life

By ANDY LIPPMAN

CINCINNATI (AP) — Death pervades Dr. Cornelia Dettmer's daily life, but it hasn't left her hard or embittered.

"My practice has made my own life more precious," she admitted. If they used the old stereotypes, some people might look at the doctor's rate of cure and talk about failure.

The 47-year-old head of the department of oncology (the branch of medicine dealing with tumors) at Christ Hospital and the president of the recently organized hospice program here talks instead of improving the time that many of her patients have left in life. She knows how many people — including her fellow doctors — view death.

"When death approaches, the patient becomes weak and unattractive," she said. "Dying is failure. It's the opposite of what America is supposed to stand for, so we sweep it under the carpet."

"I have to face patients who are dying. But I cannot abandon them when I can no longer cure them."

She is realistic about her work with cancer patients. She knows the figures that only one in three of her cancer patients will live five years. There is even less hope for her hospice patients.

Yet, she is a woman who laughs easily and talks of her children and her hobbies. She is not depressed about death nor does she consider herself a failure.

"Most medical schools have not taught students how to handle death or dying," she said. "With modern technology, most people believe that a dying patient means a failure for the doctor."

She doesn't subscribe to the old ideas. "It's not threatening to treat these patients," she said. "I feel comfortable working with the patients in the hospice program because I deal with death every day in my practice at the hospital."

She said she believes that the hospice program, which treats the terminally ill, will bring honesty to the process of dying.

"The doctor has to admit that he can't cure every patient. It's a part of life that we've got to accept," she said.

"I think the hospice program has made it easier for the doctor. I've felt a great need for it."

"The whole focus is to stop playing games. It's a real shift in medical thinking," she said. "You don't have to say anymore, 'Eat this and you'll get big and strong again.'"

"As I'm more honest, the patient will be able to accept it (death) more."

Crossword buffs, er, fans enjoy strange conversation

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) — Day-coaching down to D.C., U.S. capital, on the AMTRAK two crossword puzzle buffs — fans, enthusiasts — chanced to fall in — meet, cross paths — six rows down, two across in the bar car — grill, club car.

The following conversation ensued — resulted, came afterward.

"How's things?"

Mulligan's Stew

Move to kill Wyoming ERA apparently dead

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — A move to rescind ratification of the federal Equal Rights Amendment is apparently dead in the Equality State.

The state Senate defeated a proposal 16-13 Wednesday to rescind the 1973 ratification. A similar proposal pending in the House probably won't come to a vote, legislative leaders say.

House Republican Leader Russ Donley, an ERA opponent who schedules floor action in the lower chamber, said a House vote would be "an effort in futility."

Sen. Catherine Parks, who led the fight for the ERA, said she was glad the Senate acted quickly, avoiding a "long emotional battle."

The proposed amendment, which would outlaw discrimination based on sex, must be ratified by 38 states by June 30, 1982, to become part of the Constitution. The original deadline was March 22, 1979, but was extended by Congress.

The ERA has been approved by 35 states, but four have since rescinded approval. The validity of that move still is in question and the Justice Department has said it is up to Congress to decide.

Instead of a family going to its new house, this house — which isn't new — moves to the Terry Dossey family. Weighing in at about 110,000 pounds, the two-story house was transported Wednesday from 211 W. Kansas

Bricks hold special meaning for Peekskill's Ray Chase

PEEKSKILL, N.Y. (AP) — One Spring morning a decade ago Ray Chase, spading his garden, turned up an old brick. Tossing it aside, he noticed the lettering on it: "Peekskill No. 1."

"For several days the brick nagged at me," he recalled. "I couldn't get it out of my head."

"I brought it inside and washed it off. I kept going back to it, handling it. Finally I took it to a local historian and found out it was made here in town about the turn of the century."

That was the start. Now Ray Chase's collection of bricks numbers 827, his collection of new friends nearly as large and his store of historical footnotes and brickmaking lore rich and growing.

Brickmakers the nation over, the world over, it seems, found it fashionable to autograph their work in a conspicuous place, like right on top, long before that practice became a status gimmick among the makers of T-shirts, neckties and jeans.

One brick in the Chase collection (circa 1900) is proudly etched "O.S.P." which stands for Oklahoma State Prison. Another manufactory of the same era, in Oregon, so there would be no mistake, added the slogan "Convict Made."

Such information about the origins of bricks does a reading tour of Ray Chase's basement yield, data from A to Z. To wit: Adamole, Bickerstaff, Camargo, Diablo, Excelsior, Fiske, Griffen, Hosket, Ivermore, Jova, Kline, Laclede, Mexico, Navarro, Olympia, Paisley, Q.R. Glass, Resist, Sycamore, Timoney, United, Valentine, Waco, XXX, Young.

Well, from A to Y.

"Aren't bricks fascinating," Chase said, gazing lovingly at the close-packed shelves lining his basement wall.

"Look at this one. It was put out by a doctor in Kansas named S.J. Crumbine who was trying to stamp out tuberculosis. The bricks were used in Abilene around 1900. There aren't many left."

Etched in the brick: "Don't Spit On The Side-walk."

"When they tore down the house where I lived as a boy I found a brick dated 1914, the year I was born. That brick means something to me, even though it's not particularly rare."

"The Hudson Valley is a good source of bricks," Chase said. "I like to put on boots and walk the riverbank, searching."

"At one time there were 54 brick factories across the river in Haverstraw. They took out so much clay that one day half the town slid in the river. Killed 10 people."

"I swap bricks with other collectors and have made a great many friends."

"Each brick represents a friend, or an experience. When someone gives me a brick, that's the one that goes in my collection even if a similar brick in better shape turns up later."

"I keep a card file of every brick, including who gave it to me. That's as important as the history of the brick."

Stacey Dam proponents cite errors

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN—Proponents of the Stacey Dam project Thursday rebutted charges by the Lower Colorado River Authority that construction of the proposed dam would have a drastic impact on the Highland Lakes.

The LCRA, claiming the dam would reduce water flow into the Highland Lakes by as much as 191,000 acre-feet a year and jeopardize Austin's water supply and recreational and hydroelectric uses of the lake, is opposing the Colorado Municipal Water District's application to the Texas Water Commission.

"The study being used by the LCRA has errors of a major degree," charged Robert Gooch, consulting engineer for the proposed dam.

Gooch attacked the methods used in the LCRA study, claiming they overestimated the potential impact of the Stacey Dam on the Highland Lakes by:

Overestimating the amount of water flowing in the Highland Lakes; and

And basing projections on Lake Buchanan only, and not the entire Highland Lakes system;

Averaging figures over a 15-year period instead of using a year-by-year statistics, thus distorting the results, especially in flood and drought years; and failing to adjust for transmission losses such as flood releases.

AMC CONCORD DL.

2600 W. Wall 683-2761 or 563-0573

Everything about it says luxury... except the price!

One look tells you that the new 1979 AMC Concord DL 2-Door is a very luxurious car. Formal Landau vinyl roof, opera windows, white sidewall tires, color-key styled wheel covers and a striking new formal grille with quad rectangular headlamps neatly accentuate the Concord's clean elegant lines.

Inside the impression continues. As usual we're surrounded by seventeen crush-velour upholstery, plush cut-pile carpeting, digital quartz clock and woodgrain instrument panel overlays as you relax in the individual reclining front seats.

And on the road, that feeling of luxury is even stronger. The ride is sure, smoothly smooth, stable and quiet. And Concord's size makes handling and maneuvering a breeze.

In every way, the Concord DL is like an expensive luxury car. Except one. It isn't expensive at all. The sticker price is surprisingly low. Come in and see for yourself.
