There's probably a cure for what ails you, and a solution to most problems — academic or practical.

But finding them and applying them is something else again. It's like acupuncture, knowing where and how and in what spirit to stick the pin is all important.

Lawmen, too, have solutions for crime — discourage the criminal element by outsmarting the wise guy turned crook.

It's all in the books, just like those miracle potions and emollients guaranteed to ease pain and cure imagined or real ailments.

Your local law enforcement agency, which begs your support, and the Texas Crime Prevention Institute at San Marcos have come up with a panacea to purge evil from the streets. And you can be sure that it's not totally effective.

It's Professor Dubious Quack's Miracle Armed Robbery Snake Oil & Elixir, which is guaranteed to (and, get this) "rid your business of all lawbreakers."

The list is long, often euphemistic and redundant.

Felons, crooks, scoundrels, roustabouts, rascals, and other ne'er-do-wells, including murderers, desperadoes, thugs, gangsters, burglars, confidence men, bandits, cattle rustlers, auto-thieves, safe crackers, swindlers, pickpockets, counterfeiters, dope pushers, horse thieves, extortionists, kidnapers, armed robbers and all accomplices.

Now that's a mighty big plug to chew.

Until human nature does a turn about for the "good," that miracle Elixir will never work.

And Professor Dubious Quack and his anti-crime cohorts will be in business for a long time in their futile effort entirely to thwart lawbreakers.

The best anyone can do is to discourage lawbreaking, and that means more than threatening would-be bad guys with their day in court. But everybody needs a fair shake, including the victim.

Short of hiring your own security force (which you could ill afford) or taking your business to the cop shop or to the high sheriff's office, here are some possible deterrents.

Keep visibility into your business from the outside unobstructed by window signs. That way, your on the spot advertising is rotund and probably profitable, proportionately.

Install "surveillance" cameras, mirrors and warning signs, such as "shoplifters and other evil-doers will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law." Of course, that's not going to dissuade the hard core or desperate guys (and gals) from committing and carrying out deeds.

Be suspicious but not to the point of being so paranoid that your business suffers.

Don't let the never-trust-a-stranger-or-man-keep-strangers-from-doing-business-with-you. Be kind to your friends and customers. Just be cautious.

Finally, be calm. Chances are that the evil does not lie. It could be the key to your own survival.

Checking out damage Sunday to a feeder circuit breaker in a transformer at Texas Electric's Midland West Substation is Dave Dorchester, TESCO manager of engineering. Some residents were without power up to an hour and a half. (Staff Photo by Bruce Partain)

Widespread power loss began with wayward cat

A large portion of West Midland suddenly went dark Sunday night as a cat crawled into a transformer and short-circuited it.

West Midland residents reported a flash of what appeared to be fire or lightning, which lit up the sky for blocks around the Midland West substation on Cuthbert Avenue.

Winston Barclay, Midland manager for Texas Electric Service Co., said about 4,000 customers lost power during the outage, which began at 7:41 p.m. and lasted up to an hour and a half.

Dave Dorchester, manager of engineering for TESCO in Midland, said Sunday night it appeared the cat crawled on top of one of a dozen high voltage feeder circuit breakers, grounding out the breaker as it was electrocuted.

The cat undoubtedly started the chain of events, Barclay said today, but he suspects a malfunctioning automatic circuit breaker compounded the problem.

"He said the breaker is supposed to minimize damage when something like that happens.

"I don't know the circumstances," he added.

Midland residents who saw smoke coming from the substation probably were watching aluminum and porcelain components burning from the short-circuiting, according to Dorchester.

The affected area included the western part of Andrews Highway, a portion of U.S. Highway 80 West and other streets extending east almost to A Street, said Barclay.

The blackout interrupted service in a number of businesses, among them the Texas A. & M. Supermarket, the Village Shopping Center, Fair City TV, Radio, F. O. S. Radio and a movie theater.

Barclay said TESCO transferred the four affected circuits to other transformers. The first circuit was back in service at 8:30 p.m., he said, and the last at 9:34 p.m.

A similar outage occurred approximately two years ago, when what was identified as a time-tailed cat got into a transformer at the same substation. Barclay said children throwing wires into a transformer about six months ago caused a similar outage.

New budget lean, austere, controversial

By R. GREGORY NOKES

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today signed and sent Congress a "lean and austere" budget for 1980 that he said will increase outlays for defense and the poor while helping to throttle the government's voracious appetite for spending.

Despite controversial cuts in jobs programs and a freezing of other programs for states and cities, Carter said "the budget is indeed fair to everyone in our nation."

The budget totals $31.6 billion and includes a deficit of $29 billion. It sets aside $2.5 billion to be paid to American workers as inflation insurance in 1980, if Congress approves.

Spending would be equal to $2,416.85 for every American.

The current 1979 budget provides for spending of $19.4 billion and a deficit of $37.1 billion. The administration also declined to make a commitment to continue revenue sharing beyond 1980.

The cuts are certain to cause problems for Carter within his own Democratic Party, but during a five minute signing ceremony at the White House the president insisted that special interest groups had already begun to temper their criticism.

"Obviously, there is no way to please everyone," Carter said.

He said controlling inflation was his overriding concern in drafting the proposed budget, and added, "This is a budget that is good enough that the American people will support it. I will fight for it."

Carter said his 1980 budget, for the fiscal year beginning next Oct. 1, emphasizes spending restraint and fighting inflation and makes "the federal dollar work harder and better." It also will ensure continued economic growth, although at a slower pace than last year, he said.

"We must reduce the growth of total federal spending while protecting the security of our nation and the well-being of the American people," Carter said in a message to Congress.

But the president did not repeat his past promises to balance the budget by 1981, saying only that he will "achieve a balanced budget as soon as economic conditions permit." The 1980 deficit will be the 19th in the last 20 years.

The budget is important politically for Carter since it will be in effect during most of the 1980 presidential election year and he may be held accountable by his party and voters on whether it does what he promises it will.

Battle lines already were being drawn between those who feel the budget will not slow federal spending enough and those who think it goes too far.

Sen. William Roth, R-Del., said, "To describe Carter's budget as lean is like looking at the package of bacon in the supermarket — you don't see the fat until you open the package."

But Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a possible challenger to Carter for the Democratic presidential nomination, says the budget is "seriously defective," alleging that those who can least afford it are bearing the brunt of the spending restraint.

Carter said his budget slows the growth in federal spending to 7.7 percent in 1980, down from an average annual increase of 12.1 percent during the period from 1973 through 1978. The 1980 increase is only 0.7 percent after discounting for a 7 percent inflation rate.

Spending would be $12.6 billion lower than if federal programs had continued to grow at the same levels as before, the administration said.

The budget includes a previously allocated $6.9 billion for the revenue sharing program for state and local governments, but it said no decision has been made about continuing the program after 1980. Any attempt to dismantle revenue sharing would be certain to invite new conflict with mayors and local government executives already unhappy with Carter.

Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal said the administration "has not yet made a decision on whether and in what way it will be carried forward," although he added

Seven persons killed in tenement fire; Police seek arson suspect

By MARK CRANE

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — A fire set by an arsonist in a tenement early today killed seven persons, including a mother and her five children, police said. The site is two miles from a Hoboken tenement where 19 died Saturday in a fire in which arson is also suspected.

Victims of today's fire were seen rapping on a window shortly before firefighters arrived, but apparently were overcome when they tried to reach a fire escape, said Deputy Chief Dominick Cardillo.

Police Detective Harold Shea said authorities had a description of a suspect seen fleeing the scene after leaving a container which smelled of gasoline.

"We don't know of any motive," Shea said. "We think it had to be an act of spite, a personal vendetta of some kind."

It was the third fire at the Jersey City tenement since last December. Two fires of suspicious origin were bound in the basement just before Christmas, but caused little damage, Shea said. All the residents were to have been relocated within two weeks because the building was scheduled for urban renewal.

A Jersey City police spokesman said today a fire was located about four blocks from a third fire, a three-alarm warehouse blaze that occurred just over 3 hours earlier.

Police declined to speculate whether the fires were connected. They said there had been no arrests.

There were reportedly seven families living in the four-story brick building that burned today. Six families escaped, apparently without injuries, officials said.

Fire Director Raymond Maloney identified the dead as Maria Gonzalez, 45, her five children, Pappo, 12, Edward H. Albert, 10, Susan, 3, and Anita, 1.

An unidentified male adult was found with the family, Maloney said. The seven victims were trapped on the third floor, authorities said.

A woman resident who asked not to be identified told reporters that shortly before the fire she saw a man in the hallway who was carrying a blue container with him.

"Lady, shut up and get out of here," she said the man told her as he threw the container against the stairs and ran from the building.

"I got my kids out of the building and started screaming," she said. "When I turned around, the stairs were on fire."

Maloney said the substance in the container was "some type of accelerant (substance used to fuel fires). We'll have to test it."

Cardillo said the victims died either of smoke inhalation or from gases.

"Just before we arrived, people saw them (the victims) rapping on the window. Then they went to the rear, apparently trying to get to the fire escape," but were overcome and died, he said.

Pioneer oil man dies today; Rites scheduled Wednesday

F. Arthur Stout, 84, an early pioneer oil man in the Permian Basin, died today in a Midland hospital.

Services will be at 10 a.m. Wednesday in the First Presbyterian Church with Dr. Robert Boynton Smith, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Resthaven Memorial Park directed by Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home.

Stout, who resided at 1601 W. Texas Ave., was born April 15, 1894, in Pullman, Wash. He grew up in Florence, Colo., and moved to Midland in 1927.

He was a partner with George F. McQueen until McQueen's death in 1965. His son joined him in the business as Arthur & Fred Stout. Stout was active as an oil operator until his retirement last year for health reasons.

He was married to Anna Hitchcock May 20, 1950, in Florence, Colo. He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church. He was a member of the Freemont Masonic Lodge in Florence, Colo.

Survivors include his wife, a son, Fred A. Stout Jr. of Odessa, five grandchildren and a great grandchild.

The family requests memorials be made to the First Presbyterian Church.

Odessa man, 25, crushed in mishap at Midland plant

A 25-year-old Odessa man was crushed to death today in an apparent industrial accident at Compressor Systems Inc. at FM 1788, according to investigators of the Midland County Sheriff's Office.

Peace Justice Robert Pine declared Michael D. Felts dead at the scene. The mishap occurred about 7:30 a.m.

Sgt. Robert Defer said the Felts was assisting another employee at the plant load a fork lift when the machine overturned and fell on top of him.

Felts' chest was crushed and he succumbed to internal injuries, according to investigators.

Although he said the death appeared to be accidental, Defer was continuing an investigation into the matter.

Key budget figures compared with past

By The Associated Press

At a glance, here are key figures in President Carter's proposed budget for fiscal 1980.

In this comparison, years are the federal government's fiscal years, running from October of one year through September of the next year. For example, fiscal 1980 starts Oct. 1, 1979, and ends Sept. 30, 1980.

Act. = means actual amounts. Est. = means estimated amounts.

Numbers are billions of dollars. Outlays = mean amounts spent by the government. "Receipts" mean revenue raised by the government, such as through taxes. The deficit results from the government spending more than it receives.

Outlays	Act.	Est.	Est.

Civilians reported dead in Israeli border clash

By The Associated Press

Israel and Palestinian gunmen battled with artillery and rockets across the rugged Israeli-Lebanese frontier today in the second consecutive day of heavy exchanges, Lebanese authorities said.

The Lebanese officials said two civilians were killed and three wounded in the shelling that erupted at day-break and continued into the afternoon.

There was no immediate Israeli comment on the Lebanese report.

Israel has been locked in an escalating cycle of violence with Palestinians since last week when it sent troops into southern Lebanon to raid two guerrilla bases in reprisal for a bombing in Jerusalem.

Lebanese authorities reported one civilian killed and five others wounded in a cross border shelling Sunday. Israel said a Galilee town and several nearby farm settlements were hit, but it reported no casualties.

In Jerusalem, U.S. envoy Alfred Atherton resumed talks with Israeli negotiators after receiving the Israeli Cabinet's reply to U.S. proposals for breaking the impasse over a peace treaty with Egypt.

Israeli sources said Atherton has resolved one dispute, made some headway on a second but got nowhere on a third.

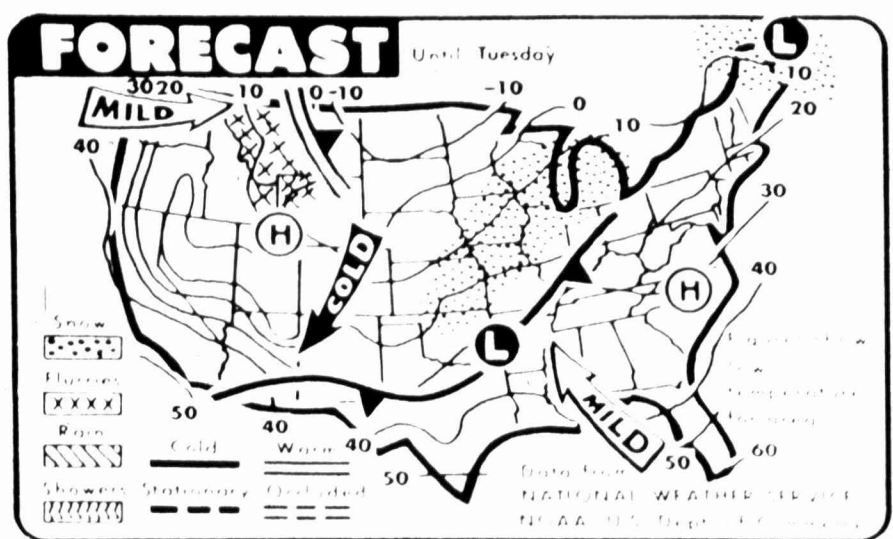

The American ambassador at large, who arrived here six days ago, delayed his departure for Egypt in an attempt to work out compromises in the U.S. draft treaty that would clear the way for resumption of Israeli-Egyptian negotiations, blocked since last November.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin's Cabinet responded Sunday to proposals Atherton made late last week, but Begin said the Israeli position would remain secret until Atherton reports to the Egyptian government.

Israeli sources who declined to be identified said Atherton has made no progress so far on the key issue blocking a treaty — Israel's refusal to link the peace treaty with Egypt to implementation of the dome-rule plan for Palestinians on the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip.

However, they said Israel and the United States are satisfied with a compromise over a review clause in the treaty. The compromise wording calls for a new look at security arrangements in the Sinai Peninsula "after a reasonable period," rather than specifying five years as demanded by Egypt.

WEATHER SUMMARY

Snow is expected in the forecast period, Monday until Tuesday morning, from Oklahoma to the Great Lakes and for northern New England. Snow flurries are forecast for the northern Rockies. Temperatures are expected to be mild in the Southeast and Pacific Northwest, but cold weather is forecast for most areas.

Today's satellite cloud picture, recorded at 3 a.m., shows mostly low and middle level clouds covering the area from Michigan and West Virginia eastward to the coast. Dense layered clouds curl around a deep low pressure system centered over the St. Lawrence Valley and a band of dense clouds and thunderstorms trails from Newfoundland to Cuba along a cold front. A large area of layered clouds shrouds most of the intermountain region and the Great Plains.

Jury asked to break deadlock

HOUSTON (AP) — Prosecutors in the Cullen Davis murder conspiracy trial asked State District Judge Wallace Moore today to advise the jury, which has been deliberating for almost 40 hours, that it should continue its efforts to reach a verdict.

The state requested that the judge employ the seldom used "Allen Charge," which means he would advise the jurors that if they fail to reach a verdict, the case will have to be tried again with the same evidence and testimony presented to 12 other persons.

Windy, dusty weather forecast for Permian Basin

Windy West Texas weather has swept into the Permian Basin, littering streets and highways with annoying tumbleweeds and discoloring the skies with light brown blowing dust.

The National Weather Service is posting a wind warning in effect for area lakes late today and Tuesday. Winds in the Midland area were expected to blow from the southwest at 20 to 30 mph and gusty today.

The high temperature reported Sunday at the airport was 51 degrees. The record high for Jan. 21 is 84 degrees, set in 1974.

'Spending restraint' primary focus of 'austere' budget, Carter says

(Continued from Page 1A) that revenue sharing probably will be continued "in some way." The budget holds out the possibility of a new round of tax reductions in 1981, possibly including a rollback in Social Security taxes.

And some increases that Carter cited in this regard did not tell the whole story of his budget. For instance, urban grants are going up but are sharply below what he proposed just last March.

Americans have mixed view of Carter, AP survey shows

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is viewed as a hard-working man of integrity by many Americans who also harbor doubts about whether his policies are succeeding, according to members of the 96th Congress.

"Despite Camp David," said Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., "there is a lingering view that he does not have a complete grasp of what needs to be done as president. He has not inspired anyone."

Crash car was one Ford recalled

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A 1972 Ford Pinto in which three persons burned to death this weekend in Texas was one of the 1.5 million cars recalled by Ford Motor Co. in June for modification of their fuel tanks.

Police said the Pinto, with six occupants, was struck from behind by a 1970 Buick shortly after both cars pulled away from a nightclub on the outskirts of Austin about 2 a.m. Saturday.

The Pinto's gasoline tank burst into flames, engulfing the vehicle, police said. Three passengers burned to death, but passersby pulled three others to safety.

The two passengers in the Buick suffered minor cuts and police jailed the driver, pending further investigation. No charges had been filed Sunday.

Ford last summer recalled 1.5 million Pintos and Mercury Bobcat models from the years 1971 through 1976.

Ford Motor Co. was indicted by a grand jury in Elkhart, Ind., after a crash Aug. 10, 1978, in which three young women died.

Woodcock for easing rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — Apparent easing of China's emigration rules could be a big step toward making China eligible for advantages in trade with the United States, Ambassador-designate Leonard Woodcock said Sunday.

Woodcock said Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press" that China has responded to American concern by relaxing policies against emigration for family reunification. And he said he hopes the changes eventually will go far enough to make China eligible for most-favored-nation trade status with the United States.

Emigration policy and trade are connected because of 1974 congressional legislation that no state-controlled economy can have most-favored-nation status unless a U.S. president requests it.

Fire damages trailer home

Three fire units responded to a trailer house fire on County Road 1196 South at 11:50 a.m. Sunday.

The trailer house, owned by Sammy Hernandez, received heavy smoke damage underneath and inside. Firefighters had the fire under control in less than an hour. There were no reported injuries.

The fire marshal today still was conducting an investigation to determine the cause of the blaze. There was no dollar estimate given on the amount the fire damaged.

Heavy flooding hits northeast

By The Associated Press

The Northeast struggled today to deal with flooding spawned by heavy weekend rains. Families in three states were forced to flee their homes, and air, auto and rail traffic were tangled in the storm.

At least 17 persons were killed in weather-related accidents, and the rain transformed some highways into rivers in the populous Northeast corridor from Virginia through Massachusetts.

The region had braced for a taste of the heavy snow which battered the Midwest last week, but warm ocean air turned the snow into sleet and rain as temperatures climbed Sunday into the 40s and 50s.

New York City reported a high of 54 degrees before the temperature started to drop later in the day.

Two hundred persons fled their homes in the Boston suburb of Chelsea Sunday after more than 2½ inches of steady rain. Subways shut down between Cambridge, Mass., and Boston as water seeped into tunnels.

The downpour cut electrical service, and Boston Edison reported power outages in the South End and Roxbury sections of the city.

Two youths drowned in Ware, Mass., when they went snowmobiling in the freezing slush and their vehicle broke through ice on a pond.

Gov. Ella Grasso declared a state of emergency in Connecticut, where more than 4 inches of rain fell in some sections in a 12-hour period. The business districts in Stratford and Milford were under waist-high water. Scores of drivers were trapped in their autos.

One woman drowned in Stratford when the car she was riding in skidded into a flooded railroad viaduct. Three others died in an auto crash.

About 30 families were forced to leave their homes in Stratford due to rising flood waters. Similar evacuations were ordered in several other coastal communities near the New York metropolitan area.

In Lodi, N.J., the Saddle River crested at 9 feet — 4 feet above flood stage — forcing 200 people from their homes.

Heavy fog enveloped New York's LaGuardia Airport, closing it for several hours. There were delays at Newark and Kennedy airports.

Two supersonic Concorde airliners from London were diverted to Philadelphia International Airport because of the fog in New York. Another Concorde landed at Windsor Locks, Conn.

More than 3½ inches of rain drenched New York City in less than 24 hours, halting subway lines in Manhattan and Brooklyn and closing some of the city's major expressways.

At least five persons died on Virginia's ice-slicked highways. Two others were electrocuted when a transformer short-circuited, electrifying their mobile home.

Winds of up to 38 mph felled power lines in South Carolina. Snow and sleet lingered in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont today, hampering driving already made hazardous by Sunday's freezing rain. More than a foot of snow was expected today in Maine.

Meanwhile, in the Southwest, as many as 700 families at the Navajo Indian reservation in northeast Arizona were trapped in hip-deep mud and water following four days of rain and the collapse of two earthen dams. Authorities said the National Guard was bringing supplies to the stricken tribe by helicopter.

Ramsey Clark meets with Khomeini

PARIS (AP) — Former U.S. Attorney-General Ramsey Clark met for 35 minutes today with Ayatollah Khomeini at the Iranian religious leader's home in a Paris suburb.

Clark came to Paris after a week of meetings in Tehran with Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar and leaders of the opposition to Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi. There was speculation that he was on an unofficial mission for the Carter administration to make contact with the new leaders coming to power in Iran.

Midland man seriously injured after Sunday night shooting

A 26-year-old Midland man was listed in serious condition in Midland Memorial Hospital today following an apparent accidental shooting at about 8 p.m. Sunday.

Michael Wayne Griffin, 26, of 4804 Thomason Drive was in the intensive care unit being treated for a gunshot wound to the calf, according to a medical spokesman.

Police said the man was visiting his brother in the 4000 Block of Thomason Drive when he pulled a rifle out of the closet, thinking it was not loaded. The gun accidentally discharged, wounding Griffin, officers were told.

In other police activity Sunday, a 26-year-old Midland man was arrested in connection with the alleged rape of a 28-year-old Midland woman.

The incident reportedly occurred at a trailer park on South Lamesa Road.

The woman told police a man who had been visiting her and her husband followed her outside the couple's trailer when she went to make a telephone call.

She told officers a man armed with a gun forced her into a trailer house next door, where the rape allegedly occurred.

Police said a man later was arrested at his residence in the trailer park.

A car was reported vandalized Sunday at 1111 Andrews Highway. Damaged was a car passenger door valued at $75.

Ronald Grubbs of 1111 S. Loraine St. Saturday reported a burglary at his residence. Taken were two speakers, an amplifier, a turntable and tape recorder and player. The items were valued at $2,550.

Joanne Martin of 410 Cuthbert Ave. Saturday reported the theft of a color television set valued at $349 from her residence.

DENVER (AP) — The celebration was two weeks late and the honoree was absent, but Sherlock Holmes' birthday party was a success.

Forty five members of the Illustrations Clients of Sherlock Holmes honored the 125th anniversary of the birth of Holmes in style Saturday night. The date worked out well for some of the club's members, who wanted to attend the Jan. 6 bash held by the Baker Street Irregulars of New York.

Travel agents buffet shocks

Copley News Service

"Have you called an airline lately?" "Don't bother. I got stuck on that darn hold button for 20 minutes before I could get a reservations clerk."

Such conversations have become almost routine these days when it appears that all of America is on the move.

But one bright young lady at Hughes Airwest explained. "We know that people are having to wait too long for response, but the problem is that when we do answer, they have a dozen or more questions about their reservations. Calls that once took five minutes, now take 25, because of the complexity of the new fares."

"We all do our best, I'm certain. But people will have to be patient, or else have a better idea of just what they really want from the airlines before they call."

And therein lies the rub. How do you know what you really want if someone doesn't explain what the choices are? Airlines are busy promoting all sorts of fares in newspapers, magazines, radio, television.

But there are restrictions, contingencies and modifying clauses on a lot of the fares — and it takes an expert to even try to understand them all.

Rather than holding up the lines at the airline, why not use the services of a good travel agent? After all, they have to know what's available from all the airlines, not just the one you happen to call.

As Ed Brown, board member of the American Society of Travel Agents, put it, "You're paying for service, and when you go around it by trying to deal directly with the airlines yourself, you're not getting it."

Brown was explaining the role of the travel agent in the super-busy industry today.

"A good travel agent is a shock absorber — the ideal buffer between you and the 241 individuals you are likely to encounter on any given two-week trip."

"It's only natural that airline reservation personnel will try to keep you flying their own routes. Often, you are better ticketed another way, on a different carrier. That's where a travel agent's expertise comes in handy."

"A good agent isn't interested in just writing you a ticket. In fact, many agents aren't making any money at all when you consider the time it takes to write a low-fare ticket."

"They are interested in building repeat business — in establishing a satisfied clientele who bring all their business to the agency."

Brown is concerned about high professional qualifications for travel agents. The industry has grown so rapidly it is still suffering growing pains. But Brown sees the day when some sort of licensing will establish credentials with the traveling public and give the agents recognition for the excellent work they do.

He believes that the fare situation will stabilize somewhat in the next six months as people become more knowledgeable and airlines realize they can operate profitably at lower fares.

As with so many other industries, Brown believes that automation will ultimately insure the success of the travel industry. He describes the projected impartial, multi-access computer which the American Society of Travel Agents has been working on for some time as the "Official Airline Guide — in a tube."

There are still numerous details to work out before the system is in operation, available to all agents and compatible with existing systems but once it is, many of the problems of overbooking will disappear.

Artist C. Warren Cullar, who lives in the Hill Country near Bertram, will make a watercolor demonstration at a meeting of the Midland Palette Club. The meeting is set for 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at 604 N. Colorado St. Cullar will create a painting from first wash to frame in about 2 1/2 hours.

Gardens mirror cultural achievements

By TOM STEVENSON
The Washington Post

Large or small, grandiose scheme or intimate enclosure, gardens have all mirrored the cultural achievements of a period in history or expressed a way of life, according to Julia S. Berrall, who conducts garden tours in England and on the Continent. She has lectured widely about gardens of the past, flowers through the centuries and the symbolism of flowers and fruits in Christian art.

Berrall is the author of a superb book, "The Garden, An Illustrated History" (Penguin Books, 388 pages, $11.95 paperback).

There are 203 illustrations, many in full color, of some of the most famous gardens the world has known.

During the several thousand years of ancient Egyptian civilization, flowers were such an important part of daily living that many gardeners — men, women and children — were employed to cultivate them, Berrall says.

The Egyptian, firmly believing in a life hereafter, planned his tomb long before old age, by custom, when he died, all the appurtenances that had provided comfort and happiness during his lifetime were placed in the tomb for his future needs. Since gardens and flowers had furnished many of the pleasant moments in life, they were frequently depicted.

It seems likely, Berrall says, that in Japan the art of garden-making, like many other things, was imported from China, either directly or by way of Korea. At the end of the 8th century the Japanese capital was shifted to Kyoto, and herein long succession many large and extravagant gardens came into being.

In the 20th century, until World War II, many great gardens were developed on large estates in most sections of the United States. Famous plant collections were made for formal gardens, which usually followed French or Italian models and sometimes English or Spanish. By the mid-20th century, gardening entered a new phase. Social conditions had so changed that the labor needed for the upkeep of even moderate gardens was difficult to find, let alone pay for. Today few can afford it, and gardening has largely become a do-it-yourself proposition.

LIFESTYLE

Of all the beautiful gardens that were once created on Colonial plantations in the South, only two are left with pre-Revolutionary antecedents — Middleton Place and Magnolia Gardens (formerly known as Drayton Hall). These are still owned by the descendants of the original families and have retained their reputation for beauty. Both gardens are situated on the Ashley River, near Charleston, S.C., and both have splendid river views and majestic trees.

Magnolia Gardens is enjoyed for its extensive naturalistic plantings of camellias and azaleas, first set about the grounds in the early 1840s. Informal woodland paths wind past lakes that reflect the brilliant shrubbery and tall cypresses.

Soldier, statesman, and above all a country gentleman, George Washington deeply loved his land. He spent many years developing Mount Vernon, his Virginia estate on the Potomac River. Washington did not see Mount Vernon from the time he left to attend the Continental Congress in Philadelphia until six years later. After Yorktown, but before Washington became president, the Mount Vernon garden plan

Bertram artist to be guest of Midland Palette Club

Artist C. Warren Cullar of Bertram will make a watercolor demonstration at the Tuesday meeting of the Midland Palette Club.

The club will meet at 9:30 a.m. at 604 N. Colorado St.

Cullar will create a painting from first wash to frame in about 2 1/2 hours.

He received his Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from Abilene Christian College and his Master of Fine Arts from the Instituto Allende in San Miguel de Allende, Guanajuato, Mexico. Now a professional watercolorist, his career has included commercial art, advertising management and eight years of teaching art at the college level. He is also a member of the Texas Watercolor and the Southwest Watercolor Society.

Three years ago, Cullar and his wife, who is also business manager, moved to their Hill Country studio and adjacent home near Bertram. Since then they have conducted workshops throughout the Southwest and created a post card series and four limited edition prints for national market. Cullar was a featured artist in the December 1978, issue of "Southwest Art."

For the past three years, Mr. and Mrs. Cullar have presented 15 programs during the month of January as a New Year's gift to Texas art clubs. "Because of the enthusiasm of the audiences and the new interest generated in watercolor, the programs have expanded to new groups each year," said Cullar.

For more information concerning the Palette Club meeting and Cullar's demonstration, contact Lula Belle Klingler at 684-8898.

In February he'll have to move

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Three-month-old Jonathan Bacon Ford has attended classes at Wesleyan College for three months. But in February he'll probably have to go to a nursery.

Gail Ford, an education major, took her baby to classes because she didn't want to quit college and she didn't want him left in a nursery.

Her professors said they didn't object. "If anything, his presence creates a rather relaxing atmosphere," said Dr. Doris Fitzgerald.

City pants surprise look

Copley News Service NEW YORK — City pants — sometimes spelled ctipants — may be the surprise look for spring. A far cry from "hot pants," they cover half the leg.

These short, cuffed, narrow pants are of the finest fabrics and to be worn from 9 to 5, according to designer Jerry Silverman.

"Ctipants, when properly accessorized, can take the lady anywhere she wants to go," he said. "The look is in keeping with the slim silhouette, yet offers more comfort and freedom than dresses. They are truly meant for dress-up as the name implies."

Ctipants are usually pleated at the waist, belted and long enough to just barely cover the knee. They are a refined styling of yesteryear's culottes or clam digger pants.

Properly accessorized, ctipants will be worn with hat and gloves, blazers or zippered jackets and boots or high heel sandals or pumps.

Runaway moms, dads go to Parent Place

EDITOR'S NOTE — Children have their tree houses, but where do parents go to escape? In Seattle, they can visit — what else? — The Parent Place, for instruction, counseling, or just encouragement.

MARY KOCH
Associated Press Writer

SEATTLE (AP) — So you'd like to run away from home but feel you shouldn't. After all, you're the parent. Running away is the child's privilege.

Not in Seattle. "The Parent Place," a non-profit, private agency on a shoestring budget, welcomes runaway moms and dads — if only for an hour or two.

"It's kind of a place of relaxation," says Sharon Stitt, founder and non-salaried executive director. "There are no teen-agers lying around smoking."

The only teen-agers in sight at Parent Place are doing volunteer work — cleaning, office chores or caring for smaller children. A nursery is provided for children of parents taking classes or seeing a counselor.

The parents, Ms. Stitt says, range from 17 to 84. Most are white, middle class, and their problems are not too serious. They come for how-to classes in parenting, "rap" sessions, individual counseling or just to get away from it all for awhile.

"Our No. 1 thing here is support," says Ms. Stitt. "They realize they are not alone."

Ms. Stitt, 39, a divorced mother of four, began Parent Place in 1977. She was working for a youth advocacy agency, which she decided was solving only half the problem.

"If you work your fanny off to get a kid's gear together and send them back to the same environment, it's for nothing," she says.

No one has kept track, but Ms. Stitt figures that the number of families helped by Parent Place in the past year is well up in the hundreds.

A parent's first contact with Parent Place might be through the Parent Panic Line, a 24-hour phone service. The idea is to offer immediate help instead of an appointment for several weeks hence. Frequently, all that is needed is a sympathetic ear.

"Most of these problems are not psychiatric or heavy," says Ms. Stitt. A recent Parent Effectiveness Training session included a lively discussion on how to cope with children who don't clean their rooms.

But a chapter of Parents Anonymous, for parents of battered children, also meets at Parent Place and serious cases are referred to other agencies.

The Parent Place clientele is 70 percent women. "Men do not have problems, of course," Ms. Stitt says with a laugh. "But men get scared, especially when their kids are screwing up."

Parent Place operates in a remodeled military building constructed as a "temporary" hospital in World War II. "The rent's cheap," says Ms. Stitt. The decor is hand-me-down living room, with inspirational mottos ("Insanity is hereditary. You get it from your kids.") on the walls.

In addition to Parent Effectiveness Training, classes include "Parenting Alone" and "Parenting Secrets," a "beginner's" course designed by Ms. Stitt. A high school dropout, she bases her course on experience — her four children are ages 11 to 20 — and common sense.

"I don't like the word authoritarian, but I do believe in discipline. I feel I should be the boss. I pay the bills. The parent, in most cases, is the marshmallow, being ruled by a kid who appears twice the age they are."

"But when kids get messed up," she adds, "parents forget to love them. It has to be discipline with love."

The first class in the Parent Secrets course is entitled "Not Guilty."

"We talk a lot about guilt. Parents seem to have a need to take on guilt," says Ms. Stitt. "But they must feel good about themselves first. We push a lot that you were a person before you were a parent."

"One woman calls all the time. Her kids are grown and don't need her anymore. She can't handle that. Parenting is only a part of yourself — a nice part, but just a part."

A discussion topic at a recent reunion of "Parenting Secrets" graduates was "Keeping the romance alive, in spite of the kids." Others were "Maintaining your sanity and raising a 2-year-old," "Living with a teenager," and "Pre-teens can be icky."

With three full-time and three part-time staff members, the agency's operating budget for the first nine months of 1978 was $25,800. Parents pay from $2 to $4 for class sessions or from $2 to $30 for individual counseling — depending on their ability to pay.

The agency has received a few small federal grants, is trying for more and would like to become affiliated with United Way. But Ms. Stitt, who was temporarily paid under a federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act grant, has mixed feelings about the bureaucracy that accompanies outside funding.

"I can't understand when a person wants to speak with a counselor, they have to go through everything from Grandma's maiden name to the witness stand," she complained in a recent Parent Place newsletter. "We are very proud of our system, which is professional, but far from bureaucratic."

Ms. Stitt is writing a book based on her Parenting Secrets methods and says she has been able to practice what she preaches.

"There have been hassles with my kids, but I didn't go bananas. I feel really good about my children's behavior."

"My house has been clean for a year. I sat down with the kids and told them each item I found in the living room that didn't belong there I would confiscate, and they had to pay 10 cents to retrieve it."

The rule applied to all, she says. "I lost my shoes a couple of times."

The Order of the Light Ritual was held recently for four members of the Zeta Delta Chapter of Phi Sigma Alpha in the home of Gladys Tarter. DEAR ABBY

Barnacle brothers should be scraped

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are in our 50s and have two unmarried sons, 25 and 30. They don't live at home. Each prefers to have his own apartment, but we are still providing them with money, food, clothes, etc.

The oldest is a college graduate and employed, but seems to be in debt all the time.

The youngest had only one year of college, and goes from job to job. He's always broke due to poor judgment and minor scrapes with the law. Right now we have a lawyer trying to get his driver's license back, so here we are, bailing him out again.

We love these boys, but I am tired of having to constantly rescue them from their mistakes. At our age, my husband and I should be looking out for our own welfare, but our sons are a constant drain on us financially as well as emotionally.

What do other parents do in such a situation, Abby? And what do you suggest? — TIERED PARENTS

DEAR TIERED: At 25 and 30 it's time your "boys" were men. Perhaps they have never become responsible and self-supporting because you have always rushed in to rescue them when the going got rough.

Though motivated by "love", you have done them a disservice. You will not always be around to bail them out. Tell them that from now on they are on their own. They will respect you for it, and it might make men of them yet. I hope so.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is in the third grade and recently had a birthday party. She took the invitations to school and passed them out to the classmates she wanted. There were 29 kids in her class and she wanted only 23 of them at her party.

After the party her teacher called me and told me that my daughter should NOT have passed out her invitations at school unless she invited ALL the kids in her class.

Since when does a schoolteacher have the right to tell a pupil whom to invite to her birthday party? I would like your opinion, in print — OUTRAGED

DEAR OUTRAGED: Three cheers for the teacher! She is obviously much more understanding than you. The pain of having been left out will remain with those six uninvited children long after the fun has been forgotten by those who attended.

DEAR ABBY: I know a couple who live within blocks of his widowed 80-year-old-mother.

They never visit her during the year. They call her on the phone maybe a couple of times a year.

On Mother's Day they send her a card with some money in the envelope. On the card is written: "Buy yourself something."

If you were that mother would you accept the money? — CLOSE

DEAR CLOSE: That would depend on how I felt about the givers.

'Outstanding' honors

Larry J. Bell, the 29-year old president of the fast-growing, diversified HBF Corp., most certainly merits community-wide congratulations on having been selected as Midland's "Outstanding Young Man" of 1978.

His selection was announced and he received the Distinguished Service Award, presented by the Midland Jaycees at their annual DSA and Bosses Night Banquet held last Thursday at the Petroleum Club. The annual event was a highlight in the observance of Jaycee Week in the Tall City.

Albert G. Metcalfe Jr., president of Tamarack Petroleum Co., was honored as the Jaycees "Boss of the Year" for 1978. Mr. Metcalfe also is due congratulations and all best wishes for having been selected for this particular, meaningful recognition.

Larry Bell was a natural for the special recognition and honors accorded him. His high-level, unselfish, enthusiastic performance in business, civic and church activities well qualified him as the Tall City's "Outstanding Young Man of the Year."

He has held any number of assignments in the Midland Jaycees, including that of president, and holds numerous awards presented by that group in the last four or five years.

He also has served with distinction in the Texas Jaycees and was recognized as Texas' "Outstanding Regional Director" in 1977-78. The United States Jaycees last year honored him as the recipient of the most coveted "Clint Dunagan Memorial Award" as one of the top regional directors in the nation.

He is a community leader who leads in a quiet but most efficient, effective, pleasing manner.

Larry Bell finds the time also to serve as a director of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, Boys Club of Midland, Big Brothers-Big Sisters, Midland Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation and Midland County March of Dimes, among other things. He also is a member of the board of governors of Midland Community Theatre, Inc., and is treasurer of the board of deacons of the First Presbyterian Church. A Certified Public Accountant, he is active in a number of professional and business groups.

Larry Bell has established an impressive record of achievements and honors for a young man, and his quiet, modest manner makes his record all the more distinctive.

Midland and Midlanders are proud of him and wish for him continued success and happiness in the future.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Some 'good ole boys' back home

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Favors are part of a president's stock in trade. He is expected to produce government jobs, White House appointments and public works projects for the people who helped elect him.

All these federal blessings can be arranged within the constraints of the law and ethics. Indeed, Jimmy Carter has vowed to uphold high moral standards in the White House. But apparently, some of the good ole boys back home haven't gotten the message.

The president, for example, is not supposed to tamper with justice. He is just as subject to the laws as the next guy. Yet his friends from Georgia keep appearing at the back door of the White House seeking to fix criminal cases.

The story behind the indictment of labor leader Joseph Tonelli, for example, illustrates what goes on in the backrooms. He used to be president of the 350,000-member United Paperworkers International Union. Government files show he also has disturbing ties to organized crime figures. Last July, he was indicted for embezzling $360,000 in union funds.

The indictment charges that he paid $50,000 of the stolen loot to two Atlanta attorneys "to intercede" on his "personal behalf" with the Carter administration. The attorneys are identified as Irwin Stolz and W. Homer Drake.

Stolz is known to be a friend of the president. According to sworn testimony, Carter is close enough to Stolz to call him by his nickname "Yutch."

Drake is a friend of Attorney General Griffin Bell. In Georgia, they served as judges in the same courthouse. Competent sources tell us that Drake is under consideration for a federal judgeship.

The two Atlanta lawyers tried to head off the Tonelli indictment, which they had expected in February 1978. Here are just a few of the strings they tried to pull in Washington:

On Feb. 4, Stolz flew to Sea Island, Ga., to speak to presidential crony Charles Kirbo about the Tonelli case. Stolz advised the president's friend that Tonelli was under grand jury investigation and asked him to pass on some papers to Attorney General Griffin Bell. Kirbo refused to comment, but a Justice Department spokesman said Kirbo threw the Tonelli papers in the trash.

About the same time, Tonelli appeared in the presidential box at the National Symphony. Apparently, he hoped to corner the president at the symphony. Tonelli brought a card on which Stolz had written his nickname, "Yutch;" the lawyer had advised his client to open the conversation by telling Carter that "Yutch" said hello. But unhappily for Tonelli, Carter never showed up. The labor leader quickly tired of the classical music and left at the intermission.

On May 10, Tonelli attended a White House meeting with about 100 other labor leaders. Later that night, Tonelli told an associate that the president had remarked to him:

CHARLEY REESE: South Africa victim of leftists' double standards

By CHARLEY REESE
Sun Belt Syndicate

ORLANDO, Fla. — Kallie Knoetze came to the U.S. recently as the World Boxing Association's second-ranked heavyweight. He almost didn't get a chance to fight because the State Department revoked his visa.

Knoetze is a white South African. The Rev. Jesse L. Jackson of Chicago and some of the other American black leaders don't like him. They organized a protest and the State Department caved in, seeking refuge in a technicality.

I have long contended that if you could convert the integrity and courage of the upper echelons of the U.S. State Department into water, you wouldn't produce enough to drown a flea. This case is further proof.

The protesters said Knoetze, while a policeman, shot a black youth in the legs. So what? You could fill a gymnasium with American white policemen who have shot blacks and with American black policemen who have shot whites to say nothing of American professional boxers with criminal records.

Strange as it may seem, in neither the United States nor South Africa, is a color bar to being either a policeman or a criminal.

Knoetze himself isn't really material to this episode. What is happening is that the American Left is joining with its Marxist brothers around the world to isolate South Africa politically so that it will eventually fall under communist control.

The race issue, except for a few naive American white liberals, is merely the vehicle for accomplishing a larger goal. Red propaganda to the contrary, South Africa is the most liberal and humane nation in all of southern Africa and that is not opinion but an easily verifiable fact.

Use whatever standard you like — income, public expenditures for health and education, employment, or even political rights — and then compare blacks in South Africa with blacks in the black-ruled countries. You can even exclude Uganda and South Africa will still come out on or near the top in every category.

It's true, of course, the South African government practices segregation and does not have one-man, one-vote majority rule. Until relatively recently, the U.S. practiced segregation and does not have one-man, one-vote rule. At the present, no black African nation has one-man, one-vote majority rule, though virtually all of them have one-man dictatorships.

Even if you don't like every aspect of South African government, you cannot be fair and justify the irrational hate South Africa campaign that is orchestrated by the leftists. South Africa is simply the victim of the leftwingers' famous double standard. If three South African blacks die in a riot (we killed them by the tens in our riots), American liberals fall over in a rage. Of course, Cuban mercenaries can slay thousands and Cambodians and Chinese can die by the millions without so much as a ripple.

Jimmy Carter, the phonyest man ever to occupy the White House, even went to Nigeria and praised the human rights record of the government which had slaughtered 1.5 million Ibos in the Biafran Civil War. If you want to know why the sorry hypocrite did it, Nigeria is a major U.S. oil supplier.

I don't believe in segregation but I'm honest enough to admit that if I were one of four million white South Africans in a country with 17 million Bantu (divided into nine major tribes each with a different language by the way), I might sing a different song.

And, please, let's not have any garbage from white liberals who fled to the suburbs and put their children in white, private schools. White Americans who tremble at the thought of riding through a black slum ought to have the decency to keep their traps shut about how the South Africans run their internal affairs.

South Africa's got problems. We have problems. The other African nations have problems. As Americans, black or white, we are not threatened by South Africa, but we are threatened by communists and their soul brothers who, for reasons that have nothing to do with human rights, are trying to destroy a valuable American ally.

Let South Africa fall to communists or to chaos and plenty of American whites and blacks will join each other in the unemployment lines when the strategic metals and minerals we import from there are cut off.

So let's not let the Far Left trick us into being hypocrites about a country which, as countries go, is one of the best, not one of the worst, in terms of human rights.

$25 bond bites dust

Like the nickel candy bar and other victims of inflation, the $25 U.S. Savings Bond is being discontinued by the Treasury. The government should be humbled, if not humiliated, in announcing the small bond's demise.

A government which sells bonds to citizens as a long-term investment certainly has a responsibility to preserve the value of its currency. So profound is the failure of the U.S. government in that respect that $18.75 — the amount the government now borrows when it issues a bond worth $25 at maturity — is too much of a pittance to be worth all the paperwork.

Starting next year the cheapest bond offered by the Treasury will cost $25, redeemable in 12 years for $50, thus paying an annual interest rate of 6 percent. How well they do in the marketplace may depend on whether the Treasury can convince investors that they will not be short-changed when they collect $50 in 1992 for the $25 they loaned the government in 1980.

The record of the last 12 years, which saw the dollar lose more than half its purchasing power, does not inspire much confidence in that kind of deal.

Hopefully, the government can get its fiscal and monetary house in order, and can bring some stability to the nation's currency.

INSIDE REPORT:

Gov. Jerry Brown's move termed 'stroke of genius'

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.'s call for a balanced federal budget has evoked a wave of euphoria at the White House — one that could turn to remorse within the next year.

The euphoria stems from a conclusion that Jerry Brown has blundered in moving rightward for a possible challenge against President Carter, whose basic weakness within the Democratic party Carter-men perceive to be from the left. With that single stroke, Brown is seen as unwittingly moving Carter to the mid-point of the party, while immolating himself.

For this to be valid, however, Carter operatives must be correct in thinking that Brown's support for a U.S. constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget is perceived by Democratic primary voters as "conservative" — even "right-wing" or "extremist." That view, in turn, is based on the dubious notion that public sentiment for spending cuts and tax cuts is superficial.

There is a dissenting opinion — clearly a minority opinion among practicing Democratic politicians — that may well be dominant among Democratic primary voters: a balanced budget has overriding popular appeal which cuts across party lines and ideological considerations. If so, Brown is preempting the high ground.

Such thinking is not limited to Brown's entourage. Rep. James Jones of Oklahoma, an influential moderate Democrat, is no great admirer of Brown and certainly not a supporter. Nevertheless, he calls Brown's move "a stroke of political genius."

Carter's political high command could not disagree more. Even before Brown's balanced budget speech, the president's men were contemptuous of any challenge from the governor. In private, they belittle Brown's political appeal — curious when it is remembered that Carter finished behind Brown in seven out of seven 1976 primaries. One senior Carter aide delights in telling a scatological joke with Brown as the butt.

The overriding concern at the White House has not been Brown but pungent criticism of the president's restrictive budget policies from liberal-labor activists. It has been reasoned by Carter advisers that such opposition might be a minority within the general electorate but could defeat Carter in a Democratic primary if coalesced by the appropriate opponent.

Consequently, there was unrestricted joy among the president's men when Brown eliminated himself as the liberal-labor candidate. One usually astute Carter aide compared Brown's support of the balanced budget amendment to George McGovern's proposed $1,000-for-everybody federal handout as an incurable self-inflicted wound.

At the White House, it was correctly predicted that liberal newspapers would eviscerate Brown. One Democratic operative with no love for Carter who has looked upon Brown as an alternative mourned that "he's running in the wrong election" — in the general instead of the primary — and, therefore, was finished.

Brown has indeed sliced off his own left wing. John Henning, head of the California AFL-CIO and a longtime Brown booster, was unpleasantly surprised as an invited inaugural guest; he promptly called Brown's speech "warmed-over Herbert Hoover." William Wimpinger, the anti-Carter leader of the machinists union who is an avowed socialist, will find it uncomfortable to keep up his presidential support for Brown.

Nevertheless, Brown may enjoy a net gain — in Maryland, for example, where he routed Carter in the 1976 primary. Politicians there generally regard Brown's position as likely to expand his support. James Clark, Maryland state senate president and an early Carter booster, is sponsoring the balanced-budget constitutional amendment and obviously does not consider it extreme.

While liberal activists believe Carter has mercilessly slashed federal spending, there is skepticism in the country about how draconian any budget can be with a $30 billion deficit. The Democratic Research Organization, composed of moderate-to-conservative Democratic congressmen, is among the skeptics; while many of its members regard Brown as an opportunist, they are inviting him to Washington in order to hold the president's feet to the fire.

The charge of opportunism is why those Democrats who feel Brown is on the right track believe he cannot succeed because he got there too late. They may be making the same mistake as California Republicans who believed Brown hopped on the Proposition 13 tax-cutting bandwagon too late to score last year's landslide re-election.

Actually, Brown came into his first term four years ago promising to outdo his Republican predecessor, Ronald Reagan, in parsimony. The real question is how serious voters really are about reducing government spending. The answer is enough in doubt to suggest euphoria is not the proper emotion as Carter's men look westward.

REVERSE SIDES: Two protesting farmers will be on the other side of the door for the next two years. Only a year ago, Michigan farmer Donald Alberta joined militant farmers who were demonstrating on Capitol Hill for higher farm prices, and Texas farmer Charles Stenholm flew to Washington to protest cotton policy. Now both are new members of Congress.

IT HAPPENED HERE
— 30 YEARS AGO (Jan. 22, 1949): George W. Glass, Midland rancher, was reelected president of Midland Fair, Inc. for a second term by its directors meeting today. Clarence Scharbauer Jr. was named vice president. Foy Proctor, Roy Parks Sr. and Leonard Proctor, all past presidents, were named honorary vice presidents.

President announces energy emphasis shift

By STAN BENJAMIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter proposed Monday to spend about as much money on energy programs in fiscal 1980 as this year while shifting the emphasis slightly from big demonstration projects toward advanced research and development.

In a budget which he termed austere, Carter listed energy as one of his top three priorities, in company with defense and aid for needy Americans.

As a result, spending by the Department of Energy — on its basic energy programs — holds the line in Carter's tight budget, despite some reshuffling of funds among those programs, mainly, of a rise in solar research and development from $333 million to $465 million, up almost 40 percent.

But solar's gain is nuclear energy's loss, with some $124 million cut from programs on nuclear fission, from the current $1.1 billion to $987 million.

The proposed cuts result largely from administration's policies not to reprocess spent fuel from commercial nuclear power plants and not to proceed with the Clinch River breeder reactor project in Tennessee.

While it opposes reprocessing to extract usable fuel from spent fuel because of fears that such technology might encourage the spread of nuclear weapons, the administration has proposed that the government take responsibility for storing spent fuel.

The new budget anticipates new income of about $100 million from this activity, which is subject to approval by Congress.

Programs to press development of the fossil fuels — oil, natural gas and coal — are cut moderately in the proposed budget. Carter proposed to build a demonstration plant for converting coal into pipeline-quality gas, but to build only one of two proposed demonstration plants for turning coal into either a liquid or a clean solid fuel.

The president would halt government exploration of the national petroleum reserve in northern Alaska at the end of 1979, reporting there will be enough information by then for Congress to decide what to do with the area.

Spending continues in the new budget for underground storage of a strategic oil reserve — crude oil purchased and stored as insurance against a supply interruption.

But the new budget admits the program is moving slower than planned and will miss its original targets. Instead of 500 million barrels of oil in the ground by December 1980, and one billion by 1985 as planned, the budget now forecasts a strategic reserve of only 248 million barrels by the end of 1980 and 750 million by 1986.

Spending continues in the new budget for underground storage of a strategic oil reserve — crude oil purchased and stored as insurance against a supply interruption.

But the new budget admits the program is moving slower than planned and will miss its original targets. Instead of 500 million barrels of oil in the ground by December 1980, and one billion by 1985 as planned, the budget now forecasts a strategic reserve of only 248 million barrels by the end of 1980 and 750 million by 1986.

grams. Spending would total $6.5 billion in the year beginning next Oct. 1, compared with the current $6.56 billion outlay.

The administration's budget description notes proposed spending increases on solar energy research and development, further boosted by anticipated tax credits for solar installations under legislation passed last year.

Solar spending, in fact, shows a 26 percent increase from some $639 million in fiscal 1979 to $804 million in the new budget. The increase takes the Company organized

DALLAS — An oil and gas operating company has been formed with headquarters located in Dallas. EnergyQuest, Inc., was organized in May, 1978, by a group of six investors and has recently sponsored a drilling fund, EnergyQuest Drilling Fund, Ltd., which was subscribed at $3,800,000 in capital.

Co-general partners of the drilling fund are EnergyQuest, Inc., and Bobby C. Beilue, also of Dallas, who is President and a director of the company.

Other directors are Eugene Schupak, M.D. of Rockledge, N. J., Constantine L. Hampers, M.D. of Boston, Mass., and Ronald C. Pratt, M.D. of Dallas.

A three-year drilling program has been initiated which will be conducted primarily in proven gas fields of the Appalachian Basin of Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia. Approximately fifteen percent of the drilling fund's budget will be devoted to higher risk oil and gas prospects located in the southwest.

according to Beilue, the company's growth plan contemplates the use of private venture capital and production loan financing. EnergyQuest Drilling Fund, Ltd. has twenty-six participating investors who subscribed a minimum of $100,000 each in creating the $3,800,000 partnership. The company expects to schedule future programs that will permit individual participation at lower entry-level capital requirements. The EnergyQuest, Inc. offices are located in Lee Park Center.

Agreement executed

FORT WORTH — Southland Royalty Co. and Shenandoah Oil Corp. announced the execution of an agreement for Southland to purchase certain producing oil and gas properties of Shenandoah located in the Rocky Mountains for a cash price of $12.7 million.

Last November, Southland agreed to purchase Shenandoah's Permian Basin properties for $126.1 million.

Southland's president, Jon Brumley, said the Rocky Mountain properties are principally gas properties located in Montana and include some oil producing properties principally in Wyoming. Southland estimates proved oil and gas reserves on the properties are 880,000 barrels of oil and 11,556,000 thousand cubic feet (MCF) of natural gas.

Brumley said the majority of the properties are located in areas where Southland has existing operations.

The acquisition of the Rocky Mountain and Permian Basin properties from Shenandoah will increase Southland's proved reserves of oil by 21 percent and gas by 7 percent. Southland's proved reserves at January 1, 1978 were 105,662,000 barrels of oil and 1,062,614,000 MCF of gas.

Dividend declared

Adobe Oil & Gas Corp. has announced a common stock quarterly cash dividend for the first quarter, 1979, of five cents per share.

The dividend will be paid March 30 to shareholders of record March 2. Adobe also announced that Daline W. Scott of Midland has been elected assistant secretary of the corporation. She has been with Adobe 18 years.

Arab nations could face payments deficit

By VIRGINIA L. TYSON

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite billions of dollars from oil, wealthy Arab nations could eventually face a balance of payments deficit, according to a Rand Institute study released today.

"For the time being the rich countries, except Libya, will continue to accumulate foreign assets but in all of them, except Kuwait, foreign expenditures to support their own development, for military purposes and for economic aid, are increasing more rapidly than their oil earnings," the report said.

"Sooner or later accumulations will probably decline and balance of payments deficits will probably appear," it concluded.

The report, "The Economic Potential of the Arab Countries" was prepared by Rand consultant Arthur Smithies, a Harvard University political economist, under a Defense Department contract.

It projected and compared the economic potential of seven Arab countries: oil-rich Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Iraq, and Libya, and oil-poor Egypt, Jordan and Syria.

The report noted that the richest Arab country, Saudi Arabia, faces the most acute problem due to its rapidly rising expectations and could have a balance of payment problems by the end of 1985.

For 1976, the report noted, Saudi Arabia's foreign assets equaled about $48.7 billion and yielded a return of about 6 percent — barely enough to keep pace with world inflation, the report said.

If annual export growth is 2 percent, Smithies projected, by 1985 Saudi Arabia's balance of payments deficit could range from $16.4 billion to $36.3 billion. With export growth of 5 percent annually, the deficit would be up to $24.5 billion, he said.

"The high hopes for economic growth entertained after the oil revenue abundance in 1974 are unlikely to be realized because of problems of the domestic economies," the report states.

The report was based on International Monetary Fund figures, and Smithies made no attempt to forecast future oil revenues.

Since oil-poor Arab countries receive economic aid from oil-rich states, their future is at stake with the balance of payments problems, the report said.

"The future of the oil-poor will clearly be affected by the fortunes of the oil-rich. It will depend on the importance, attached to its own development, compared with provision of aid to the poor," the report concluded.

Rand is an independent, nonprofit institution engaged in research and analysis of matters affecting national security.

Hot fluids aid common cold

Dear Dr. Solomon: I used to hear it said that a person will get over a cold in seven days with medical care, and in one week without it. Is there anything new in fighting the common cold?—Mrs. S. T. R.

Dear Mrs. R.: As yet, there is still no cure for the common cold. The only thing new about it is that some time honored remedies are now receiving the support of the medical profession.

One prime example is that target of the humorists—chicken soup. Current research reveals that many mothers always knew that hot fluids, especially chicken soup, unclog stuffed passages and speed up the movement of mucus that protects the nose and throat.

Getting plenty of rest when you have a cold is also sound advice. There is now evidence that cold viruses can damage the heart, especially if the person is very active during the period of infection.

Keeping out of drafts is another old maxim which has gained scientific support. Although drafts and chills do not cause colds, winter weather can be a shock to the body and disrupt the flow of blood through the vessels. When your skin is exposed to cold air, blood vessels constrict; when the skin is exposed to freezing air, the amount of blood circulating each hour through the body can be reduced by as much as 10 to 15 gallons.

Finally, keeping your mouth shut may be good advice in more ways than one. By inhaling through your nose rather than through your mouth, you insure that the air you breathe will be warmer when it reaches the delicate tissues in your lungs.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I would love to have clean air. I admire you for your information about cleaning up the environment. But, you haven't told me what I as a citizen can do. Ms. G. C.

Dear Ms. G.C.: Groups of citizens, banded together into voluntary organizations, have been largely responsible for the progress made so far toward the restoration of clean air. The American Lung Assn has been prominent among these influential groups.

You can help by joining the association and its affiliates in a battle that must continue to be waged. Find out what air pollution control laws and regulations are in effect in your community. Obey them. Report possible violations. Work with others for less polluting solid-waste disposal. And for electricity-producing, pollution-controlled refuse incinerators. Or sanitary landfill projects.

Join the fight for an adequate public transit system. It can mean the beginning of clean air in most cities. Make sure your furnace and the air pollution control devices on your car are working properly. Don't burn trash. Practice self-restraint. Keep your house heat low. Use your electrical appliances as seldom as possible. Use your car only when you must, and when possible car pool.

Secret Service investigating Gacy meeting with first lady

CHICAGO (AP)—The Secret Service says it is investigating the presence of mass murder suspect John Wayne Gacy Jr. at a reception last year for first lady Rosalynn Carter.

Gacy had a criminal record for sodomy at the time of the reception, and since has been charged with murder in the deaths of seven young men. He reportedly has confessed to killing 32 young men and boys.

A copyright photograph in the Chicago Sun-Times on Sunday showed Mrs. Carter and Gacy smiling and shaking hands.

The photograph, which the newspaper said was taken May 6, 1978, is signed, "To John Gacy, Best Wishes — Rosalynn Carter."

The newspaper said the incident occurred when Mrs. Carter was in the city for a Polish Constitution Day observance and to improve the Carter administration's relations with local Democrats.

Gacy, who had been convicted of sodomy in 1968 in Iowa, apparently attended the reception in his capacity as a precinct-level party worker.

The newspaper said the picture shows Gacy wearing an emblem on his suit coat which indicated Secret Service clearance.

Assistant Secret Service Director Jack Warner, said the agency is investigating the matter. He refused further comment.

The Chicago office of the Secret Service also would not comment.

Mary Finch Hoyt, Mrs. Carter's press secretary, said Sunday that Mrs. Carter did not know Gacy and that it is not unusual for the first lady to have pictures taken with organizers of events she attends.

"It's just an unusual coincidence, an unfortunate coincidence," said Mrs. Hoyt.

Investigators said the photo was discovered during an evidence search at Gacy's suburban home.

Jury finds Indiana couple guilty of conspiring to kill reporter for story

CROWN POINT, Ind. (AP) — A man and his wife face up to 50 years in prison for conspiring to murder a former reporter for the Gary Post-Tribune because they were angry over a story he wrote.

Dr. Carl Williams, 49, and his wife Diane, 26, were found guilty on Saturday by a jury of eight women and four men in Lake Superior Court. Sentencing was scheduled for Feb. 2.

Defense attorneys said they would appeal the convictions. The couple was accused of plotting to slay Alan Doyle, now a copy editor with the Phoenix (Ariz.) Gazette.

Doyle wrote a story on Jan. 5, 1978, that detailed the arrest of the Williams couple on auto theft-related charges.

A Hammond policeman testified at the trial that he was with Williams when his wife read the story. Cpl. James Lawson said he was in the doctor's office posing as a buyer of illegal narcotics when the murder plot was prepared.

City council to decide fate of Pioneer request

A rate increase for Pioneer Natural Gas is scheduled for final approval when the Midland City Council meets at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in Council Chambers at City Hall.

Pioneer had asked for a 26.3 percent increase. But Assistant City Manager Fred Poe said last week an 11-member committee is to recommend a 14.88 percent hike. The committee consisted of members from 10 of the 63 cities involved in the rate hike.

The City Council is to consider an ordinance authorizing increases in Pioneer's gas service rates and service charges and a decrease in the distance required to extend a line free of charge to a customer.

The possibility of delaying zoning of city property in the vicinity of Air Park until the Air Park Master Plan Study is completed also is to be discussed.

Also under the aviation category is consideration of a letter agreement with Rich-Air Co. for lease of land and/or facilities to be constructed.

Permitting the sale and consumption of beer in the new pro shop at Hogan Park Golf Course is scheduled for discussion by the council.

Up for review Tuesday is the operation of the City-County Health Department health clinic, the satellite clinics and possible improvements in their operation.

The council also is expected to decide upon architects for the remodeling of the Circle Fire Station and Public Safety Building and the appropriation of funds for the work.

Two requests, one for a sidewalk license in the 300 block of West Ohio and the other from Trinity School in connection with its annual spring Mayfair, will be considered by the city panel.

The council is scheduled to appoint two members to the Public Responsibility Committee to work with a group from the Permian Basin Mental Health-Mental Retardation group.

Some one-way streets, downtown may become a reality soon if the council approves an ordinance providing for one-way traffic on portions of Illinois and Texas Avenues, Cuthbert Avenue and K Street.

The council will consider a resolution approving the specifications for MidTran vehicles and authorizing advertising for bids on seven buses, one base radio system and 15 mobile radio units.

Included on the public hearing list for Tuesday are a request of Gipson and Cole Investments for a zone change on the southwest corner of Andrews Highway and Denton St., a request from Morris Hamilton Jr., for a zone change on the southeast corner of Neely Avenue and Midland Drive, requests by Smith Brothers Pipe Service and Buddy Lamb for temporary special permits, and a zone change request from R.A. Plunk for the 1500 and 1600 blocks of South Lamesa Road and Harrison Street.

The council is scheduled to receive the audit report from independent auditors and authorize final payment for the work.

Midland County farmers, ranchers received $9,778,000 for 1977

Farmers and ranchers in Midland County received $6,714,000 on their crops and $2,873,000 on their livestock products in 1977, reported the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Total cash receipts, including $191,000 in government payments, was $9,778,000.

Statewide, agriculture boosted Texas's economy by $7.1 billion and kept Texas its third-place national ranking in agricultural cash receipts.

Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown's goal is to make Texas No. 1 in agriculture as reflected in cash receipts.

Across the state, livestock receipts totaled $3.5 billion, and crop receipts, $3.3 billion. Government payments totaled $206 million including $120 million through drought and floor assistance programs.

"With improved livestock prices this year, particularly cattle," Brown said, "we are optimistic that 1978 cash receipts will be higher. These figures only tell half the story, however," he said.

"The true picture is only presented when you can balance the cash receipts against the actual production costs," the commissioner said.

Last year, the production costs for many farmers and ranchers outstripped most of the profit margin.

Though third nationally in cash receipts, Texas does, however, rate first in the number of cattle and calves, 14.5 million head; Upland cotton production, 5.5 million bales; wool production, 21 million pounds; mohair production, 8 million pounds; number of farms and ranches, 197,000, and farm and ranch land, 139.8 million acres.

Texas ranks second in the production of grain sorghum, grapefruit, cantaloupes, carrots, rice, green peppers, cabbage, onions, American-pima cotton, pecans, honeydew melons and cucumbers.

Aggies, 'Horns face showdown

By The Associated Press The Texas Aggies and the Texas Longhorns — the two oldest rivals in the Southwest Conference — meet tonight night in the Super Drum in Austin for sole possession of first place in another of a continuing series of wild league races...

Texas, which has yet to lose a game in the 15,000-seat-plus building, warmed up for the Aggies with an 87-68 nationally televised mauling of Southern California Saturday afternoon...

"I couldn't believe we played that well," Texas Coach Abe Lemons said after the game. "I was real happy to play so well on a national TV game. It's real good for our program."

"We didn't play good enough defense," said USC Coach Bob Boyd. "We didn't have enough awareness of where their perimeter shooters were. Their guys were always open."

The 15th-ranked Aggies outlasted upstart Texas Tech 68-63 to set the stage for the long-anticipated meeting...

Aggie Coach Shelby Metcalf said his team came out more aggressive after halftime. "We had to get out early and not let them sit on the ball, because they were perfect in the first half. They were only getting one shot, but they were making it," he said.

"I'm pleased with our effort and poise, but we were really playing a fine team," said Tech Coach Gerald Meyers. "It's tough when you lose, but I don't feel that bad about our effort and poise."

Both the Longhorns and the Aggies are 4-1 and hotly pursued by Arkansas and Baylor, which are 3-2. Texas Tech is another rung back at 3-3 and Southern Methodist is 2-2. Still with a possible chance at the championship are Houston and Rice, both at 2-4.

TCU is the only team yet to win a league game at 0-4. Baylor stunned SMU 93-67 in a regionally televised game Saturday while Houston whipped Rice 101-75. "We got whipped every way you can get whipped," said SMU Coach Sonny Allen. "You have to give Baylor full credit."

"I don't know how long it has been since Baylor has had three players score 20 points or more," Baylor Coach Jim Haller said of Vinnie Johnson, Wendell Mays and Terry Teague. "I know not since I've been here."

Even so, there were four service breaks in the third set. Dibbs broke Connors's serve when Connors was up 3-1 and 4-2, and Connors said, "It was a struggle after that and I really didn't want to get into a tie-breaker because you never know what will happen."

The two have played numerous times, but Dibbs said, "He seems to know my game better than I know his. I couldn't get the big points. I should have come into the net more."

Tiny putting change gives Crenshaw lead

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Ben Crenshaw converted a tiny change in his putting into a spectacular, 10-under-par 61 that gave him firm control Sunday in the second round of the twice-postponed and now abbreviated Phoenix Open Golf Tournament...

Crenshaw's string of nine birdies in an 11-hole stretch helped him compile the lowest score in two years of four activity and enabled him to take a 4-stroke lead with only 18 holes to go in the tournament...

"I knew I was on the verge of playing some good golf," Crenshaw said. "I've been hitting the ball well. I really felt good about it. It was just a matter of time until I could get my putter going."

Crenshaw finished his string of birdies with a 10-foot putt on the 18th green, nine holes after he had made a slight change in his putting...

"That's as low as I can shoot," he said. "What would you have to do to shoot 59? Good God."

His reference was to the all-time tour record of 59 set by Al Geiberger two years ago in the Memphis Classic...

Abortion clinics ordered to surrender records

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today, in effect, ordered five Texas abortion clinics to surrender patients' identities and records in a medical malpractice case.

The justices refused to hear arguments by the abortion clinics' operator that to hand over such information would invade the privacy of its patients.

In a one-line order, the court said the appeal was being denied "for want of jurisdiction."

The controversy stems from a $1.5 million lawsuit filed last year against the Dallas-based Reproductive Services Inc. for injuries suffered by Claudia Lott, who underwent a 1977 abortion.

Mrs. Lott, of Dallas, suffered a perforated uterus and was hospitalized after her abortion. She had a hysterectomy.

Her lawsuit, now pending before State District Judge Dee Brown Walker of Dallas, seeks records of five patients other than herself who are not parties to the lawsuit.

It also seeks medical records of all other patients at Reproductive Services clinics in Dallas, Houston, San Antonio, Corpus Christi and El Paso who had any major or serious complications and records of all patients who received certain medication.

Judge Walker ordered Reproductive Services to surrender the information last summer. But, after being denied help by the Texas Supreme Court, the firm succeeded in getting temporary aid from U.S. Supreme Court Justice William J. Brennan Jr.

At first, Brennan ruled that Reproductive Services had to comply with Walker's order. He noted that Texas authorities, who had intervened on Mrs. Lott's side, were prepared to enter into a protective agreement that would ensure the privacy of all clinic patients.

That privacy would be protected simply by deleting all names from the medical records.

But no protective agreement was reached, and Brennan last Aug. 21 ruled that Reproductive Services did not have to hand over any documents until the full Supreme Court considered the case.

Initially, Brennan said the issue "whether the names of abortion patients can be obtained by discovery for use in a civil suit against a person or clinic performing abortions is a serious one."

In its formal appeal, Reproductive Services argued that its case goes "to the heart of public expectations about confidentiality in medical treatment."

The Texas court rulings could affect tens of thousands of women and be used as precedent by other state courts, it said.

Forty-three states have some form of privilege regarding physician-patient confidentiality, but Texas is not one of them.

Nothing in Texas law extends specific legal protection from disclosure of medical records in court proceedings.

In responding to Reproductive Services' arguments, state Assistant Attorney General David Kendall contended that because the clinics' operator is suspected of violating the law, it is "uniquely unsuited to protect the constitutional rights of its patients."

In addition, Kendall argued that the abortion patients' names and records are to be surrendered to Judge Walker only, with state officials receiving duplicate records with the names deleted.

"Release of patients' names to the state can only occur upon future application to the... judge," he said.

To get any name, Kendall said, the state would have to show "that the patients' right to complete privacy in access to an abortion is outweighed or furthered by the state's interest in protecting the health and lives of other women who may seek the service of (Reproductive Services) abortion clinics."
