

Mayor Angelo blasts GOP's selection of Detroit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ask a Republican where to find "Big D" today and he'll point you toward Detroit, not Dallas.

The Michigan city snared the 1980 Republican National Convention Tuesday in a show of "backroom" politics, claimed an angry Texan.

"The decision is a disappointment not only for Dallas and Texas but for the entire Republican Party," spewed Texas committeeman Ernest Angelo Jr. of Midland after a heated, 90-minute floor debate and three votes decided the issue in Detroit's favor.

The final 95-52 margin made it official.

Earlier, a motion that would have allowed delegates to note their preference in a secret ballot failed 71-72 after a North Carolina committeeman switched his vote and broke a 73-73 deadlock.

"It makes me sick to my stomach that the committee didn't have the guts to go against the chairman," said Angelo, who is also mayor of Midland.

Angelo said Bill Brock, the RNC chairman, railroaded Detroit through the selection committee in order to fulfill his desire to broaden the GOP's base.

Both Brock and the Texans claimed a secret ballot would have produced a victory for their respective sides.

Although Detroit is in the home state of former president Gerald Ford, several GOP officials said they feared a Dallas convention would give an unfair advantage to Texans John Connally and George Bush as well as Ronald Reagan, who swept the state's 1976 presidential preference primary.

Angelo, the conservative mayor of Midland and a Reagan backer, was joined in his assessment of Dallas' defeat by state GOP chairman Ray Barnhart and, to a lesser degree, by state Sen. Betty Andujar, R-Fort Worth. Mrs. Andujar, one of seven persons on the selection committee, said the committee was never allowed to vote on Dallas or Detroit during its closed-door sessions. The committee made Detroit a "consensus" selection.

During a floor debate with Barnhart, selection committee vice chairman Ody J. Fish of Wisconsin said every member of the committee was allowed to address the group and if a vote had been taken it would have been "overwhelming and perhaps unanimous with an abstention" for Detroit.

And if Brock, who chaired the selection committee, had brought the issue to a vote?

"I think Monday it would have gone 5-2 for Dallas," said Andujar.

But by Tuesday morning the discussion centered on the logistics of the convention sites and Andujar admitted that Detroit emerged with a slight edge over Dallas due to a larger working space at the convention center, better parking facilities and its ability to meet the RNC's prime date of July 11.

A Dallas convention would have had to be held on Aug. 11, 1980.

"For none of us liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself." Verse 7.

And Bill Barriere, an avowed loner seeking to travel solo Pole to Pole in his $30,000 souped up and beefed up Jeep, knows that. He wishes to make the 26,000 kilometer journey on his own but with just a little bit of help.

"I'm looking for both sponsors and funds," Barriere said last November, as he was in a stop-and-go tour to solicit support for what he calls his "Walter Mitty" dream — conquering the western hemisphere alone in his four wheel drive vehicle.

His drive for funds took him from Seattle to Los Angeles to Midland and other stops along the way.

From here, he headed for Dallas, Houston, New Orleans, up the East Coast to his native Canada, and he planned to Point Barrow, Alaska.

From Point Barrow, the northern most point of Alaska on the Arctic Ocean, the 44-year-old adventurer was to collect his gear and stamina and wheel on downward to Ushuaia, Argentina, the world's southernmost settlement.

Barriere's journey was to take about six months. He had planned to take detailed notes of his exploits for a book he plans to write about himself and the adventure. A cinematic crew tagging along from start to finish was to document the journey.

He certainly plans to endure the sub-zero temperatures of the Arctic, the bleakness of the desert in Mexico and the sultry jungles in Central and South America, and the thin air in the Andes.

"It's so cold in Point Barrow," the bearded Barriere said, "that anti-freeze jells." The chill factor drops the temperature down to a minus 60 degrees Fahrenheit. His vehicle is designed and outfitted for his survival in the severe cold.

Where possible, he had planned to travel on the Pan American Highway.

But once in Panama and the Darien Gap, he figured he'd hit some snags and, if he was lucky, run into some

Trustees consider school for basics

By SUSAN TOTH Staff Writer

The possibility of creating a public school to stress fundamental education in Midland got trustee consideration Tuesday.

The idea of creating one school to stress discipline, homework, patriotism, respect and structured curriculum was discussed after Mayor back to basics, "concept and a forward through basics" concept.

The difference, Carrasco said, was one of attitude. The back to basics proponents chose to weed programs out of the curriculum to make more room for basic reading and math while the forward through basics group emphasized improving the programs already in the system.

Both systems used a highly intensified program for math and reading skills, he noted, with emphasis on homework drills and patriotism.

Trustees directed the staff to do further study on the concept of using one school in the district, Sam Houston, for example, as a fundamental school for kindergarten through the sixth grade with entrance to the

Major Midland streets to be made one-way

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

When March winds come howling into Midland one way street signs may be standing in their way on three major Midland streets.

Midland City Council Tuesday in a regular session adopted an ordinance calling for one way traffic on sections of Illinois and Texas avenues and Cuthbert Avenue.

This action should add an estimated 240 to 260 more parking spaces downtown, Director of Public Works Fred Baker said.

"It would give a better flow of traffic into the downtown area," he said of the Illinois and Texas street plans. "We don't have a good flow with the signals now and it would get the traffic away from the school zone areas."

K Street between the two major thoroughfares would be used as a connector for those who want to change directions.

Illinois traffic would be westbound, and that on Texas, eastbound. These streets will be one way from K Street to East U.S. Highway 80, officials said.

CUTHBERT AVENUE FROM Garfield Street to Ward Street was included in the one way street plan. It would be westbound with no parallel eastbound street.

The traffic signal at Garfield and Cuthbert intersection then could be switched from a three phase signal to a two phase, which Baker said would give a better flow of traffic. The changes should take effect by the first of March, he added.

On another matter, Baker said his department is accepting petitions for street paving and he urged residents to submit the petitions by the next council meeting.

Also on Tuesday, the need for a new city county health facility was outlined by Jewel Smith, director of the health department. He was given the go ahead to begin searching for a new location.

Smith said the main facility currently is located in Midland Memorial Hospital. There are two satellite clinics, one in East Midland and the other

Carter asks solons for fiscal austerity

State of the Union address at a glance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here, at a glance, are the main points of President Carter's State of the Union address given Tuesday night before a joint session of Congress.

NEW FOUNDATION — The president introduced the term "new foundation" and said, "Tonight I want to examine in a broad sense the state of our American union — how we are building a new foundation for a peaceful and prosperous world."

MYTHS — Saying the nation must not "substitute myths for common sense," Carter cited as persistent myths the ideas that "we must choose endlessly between inflation and recession" or that the government must choose "between compassion and competence."

BUDGET — The 1980 budget provides enough spending restraint to begin unwinding inflation, but enough support to keep American workers productive and to encourage investment to provide new jobs," Carter said.

PROGRAM — Key issues being given top priority include legislation to hold down hospital costs, efforts to deregulate the rail, bus and trucking industries, extension of government reorganization to encompass education, economic development and natural resource management, limited public financing of congressional elections, and enactment of a national sunset law, so that when government programs have outlived their value they will automatically be terminated.

FOREIGN POLICY — He urged support for "the strong defense budget I have proposed" and said, "We have no desire to be the world's policeman. America does want to be the world's peacemaker."

ARMS LIMITATION — Carter said that "if the Soviet Union continues to negotiate in good faith, a responsible (strategic arms limitation) agreement will be reached." He said, "I will sign no agreement which does not enhance our national security. I will sign no agreement which cannot be verified. I will sign no agreement unless our deterrent force will remain overwhelming."

HUMAN RIGHTS — "As long as I am president, at home and around the world, America's example and America's influence will be marshaled to advance the cause of human rights," Carter said.

Carter's talk evokes yawns here

By LINDA HILL Staff Writer

President Carter may have intended to inspire the American people in his State of the Union address Tuesday night, but in Midland, at least, he seems to have evoked more yawns than anything else.

Checking today with Midlanders involved in politics, The Reporter-Telegram found many hadn't even watched the speech for one reason or another.

"It was just a political speech, very high on rhetoric, and very low on commitment," said Republican Texas Executive Committee member Robert L. Monaghan. "You've got to watch his actions, not listen to his words."

Monaghan was critical of omissions in the speech, with "nothing" about Social Security tax increases, "stopping income redistribution programs," or "stopping the (money) printing presses."

Midland County Democratic Chairman Darrell Smith also said he wasn't too impressed by the speech. "I judge a president by his actions, not by what he says. I'm not overly impressed with anybody giving a speech."

"Maybe it was the location. I have trouble feeling good about anything that issues out of Congress," Smith added.

Bill Shaner, county Republican chairman, said Carter "continues to try to be all things to all people."

About the president's call for deregulating the trucking and rail industries, Shaner commented, "If he deregulates (them), like he did the energy situation, those guys are in real trouble."

Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr., in Washington, D.C., to attend a meeting of the Republican National Committee, said the speech was "more talk than substance, which is typical of the Carter administration."

Like several other Midlanders interviewed, Angelo attributed the lack of energy emphasis to an absence of ideas to solve the problem.

"I think he's botched the energy situation so badly that if I were him, I wouldn't talk about it either. I think he's thrown up his hands and doesn't know what to do," Angelo said.

The mayor also was critical of the size of the federal budget. "I don't call a $29 billion deficit austere."

State Sen. W.E. "Pete" Snelson of Midland gave the president mixed marks.

"On the plus side, I commend him for his assertions that we must stop excessive government growth and control spending habits. The minus side was his failure to include the state of energy and the need for our nation to strive for self-sufficiency which could be possible by greater incentives and fewer government reg-

Gas rate increase due; Some may get a break

Pioneer Natural Gas Co. is going to get its rate increase, but not until Midland City Council probes a way to reduce rates for the elderly and handicapped persons on fixed incomes.

The council approved the 14.88 percent rate hike at its regular meeting Tuesday in City Council Chambers. Pioneer originally had asked for a 26.3 percent hike last September.

Assistant City Manager Fred Poe broke the increase down into categories. Residential users are to pay an additional 19.81 percent, commercial users 19.79 percent more, special contract users such as the school district 32.26 percent more, small industrial users 8.67 percent more and large air-conditioning customers 12.24 percent more.

Poe served as chairman of a committee of representatives from 10 cities on Pioneer's line.

Opposing the approved hike Tuesday was Kuma E. Mitchell of 302 S. Adams St., representing senior citizens in the southeast part of Midland. She said most of her neighbors are on fixed incomes and will have a hard time paying the increase.

"One of my gas bills recently was $15," she said.

Backing up her argument was Albert Jones with the Midland Commu-

Trustees hope to improve students' reading, math

By SUSAN TOTH
Staff Writer

Midland school trustees Tuesday agreed to spend an additional $92,000 next year and for the next four years in an effort to improve reading and math scores in the district.

The decision came at the end of a two-hour discussion of a five-year plan for accreditation within the district.

As part of the state-required accreditation plan, district staff members identified two major goals to be met in the next five years and outlined ways to reach the objectives.

The thrust will be to improve performance in math and English language, including reading, in all grades with emphasis on the needs of the low achievers, ethnic minorities and the gifted.

Improvement will be measured on standardized tests given to students in the sixth and tenth grades each year. The district will try to decrease the percentage of students scoring in the lowest quarter on the national tests by one percent each year and increase the percentage of students in the upper quarter by the same annual percentage.

REASON FOR THE specific test goals is to allow the school board and school patrons to hold the district's teachers and administrative staff accountable for meeting the goals, Schools Superintendent Dr. James H. Mailey said.

Former President Ford leaves Israel

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Former President Ford left Israel today saying his four-day visit "convinced me to come again, but for a longer stay."

Ford flew by private jet to the Persian Gulf state of Oman, another stop on his Mideast tour that has taken him to Egypt, Syria, and Saudi Arabia as well as Israel.

In a brief airport statement, Ford said his stay in Israel "was a very important visit and a very educational one. And it convinced me to come again, but for a longer stay."

Trobaugh named 1979 United Way president

A.K. Trobaugh was named president of Midland's United Way for 1979 during the organization's Tuesday meeting in Midland Country Club.

About 100 persons attended the meeting in which outgoing officers were recognized for their achievements and new officers and directors elected.

Assisting Trobaugh during 1979 will be vice presidents Tom Stovell and Ray Galvin, Secretary Sally (Mrs. Ken) Stewart and Treasurer Bob Jones. Division chairpersons will be Doug Henson, budget; W.F. Ortloff, campaign; Glenn Rogers, planning; Linda (Mrs. James) Allison, communications support; and Sue (Mrs. W.E. "Pete") Snelson, visitation.

Advisory committee members will include Mrs. Allison, M.A. Cappadonna, Tony A. Martin, Robert Pendleton, Charles Priddy, Margaret (Mrs. James H.) Purvis, Trobaugh and Wil-

To reach the low achievers in the district, a group Mailey said the schools are failing to reach, emphasis will be put on the Hoffman and Distar curriculums to supplement current reading and math programs.

Both are highly structured, regimented programs designed as supplements to the regular classroom work, said Mailey.

The Hoffman program uses television-like machines which play a record and show a film strip to individual students. After using the machine, the student works on related questions in a workbook and answers questions for the teacher or an aide on what was seen.

The reading program already is in use in kindergarten through grade three for low achievers in some Title I schools here.

The five-year plan recommends the program be extended to all fourth grade campuses and three more Title I schools the first year for both reading and math. It would be expanded to include all elementary schools by the third year.

DISTAR READING PROGRAM is in use in some elementary schools now for low achievers. The five-year plan recommends it be used for both reading and math in all Title I schools for low achievers in kindergarten through third grade.

The program, designed for use by a teacher with a small group of students, stresses rote memory and following directions.

Secondary reading plans include intensifying the present programs and organizing a committee to develop ways to increase reading in other courses in the secondary schools.

In addition to adding the Distar and Hoffman programs in math for low achievers, the five-year plan calls for developing a Partners in Math program similar to the Partners in Reading currently in use in the schools and writing a new curriculum guide for math in all the grades.

Committees were recommended to study computer-assisted instruction and programs for gifted students.

The basis for all the programs will be specialized testing to locate specific students needs so teachers can design individual programs to meet them.

SOME OF THE TESTING has been done in the district already. More use would be made of the results from the Midland Assessment Program tests and the California Achievement Tests used this year, Mailey said.

Almost half the $92,683 in new tax money required to implement the plan will be used to purchase Hoffman machines and supplies. Some $23,000 for reading and $19,500 for math will be needed in the first year for the hardware and other equipment.

Machines will be bought on a lease-purchase plan with the district paying a quarter of the cost each year for four years, Mailey said.

Although the $90,000 will be needed each year of the five-year program this way, Mailey noted, the district could abandon the Hoffman program without having bought the entire plan if later boards determined it did not meet the district's goals.

Another major portion of the money will be spent to train teachers to use the new equipment and plans effectively, he said.

Rand may be devalued

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The Johannesburg stock exchange and the foreign exchange departments of all banks operating in South Africa were ordered closed today and Thursday pending possible devaluation of the rand, the country's currency.

The Finance Ministry ordered the closures pending the expected publication today of a report by a government-appointed commission which banking sources said may recommend severing the rand from the dollar and allowing it to float up or down within certain limits.

tively, he said.

"We are not trying to substitute machines for good effective teaching," Mailey said. "We will still need a high level of expertise in teachers."

THE REST OF THE NEW money needed for the five-year plan will be spent in release time for committee members, test printing and other materials.

Trustee Ann Page expressed concern that the plan seemed to continue programs already in use in the district.

"I see us only adding to it and not really changing it," she said. "We've spent a lot of money in the past on programs that haven't done what we want them to."

Accountability built into the five-year plan will help the board see specific changes that the new plan is creating, Mailey said. If test scores do not improve in the way expected, he said, "I would expect the board to hold me accountable, and I'll pass it

Pope will act as mediator

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II has agreed to act as a mediator in the territorial dispute between Chile and Argentina, the Vatican announced today.

The Rev. Romeo Panciroli, chief Vatican spokesman, said the pontiff accepted a request by the governments of the two South American countries.

The dispute centers on rival claims to territory south of the Beagle Strait in the southern tip of the continent.

Military closes airport at Tehran

French plainclothesmen stand guard around the Ayatollah Khomeini, the Shiite Moslem leader of the anti-Shah movement, as he returns to his residence in suburban Neauphle-le-Chateau Tuesday after his daily prayer. The Ayatollah has announced he would return to Iran next Friday. (AP Laserphoto)

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iranian military leaders loyal to Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi closed the Tehran airport today and grounded the national airline to prevent the return from exile Friday of Ayatollah Khomeini, the leader of the year-long fight to overthrow the monarchy.

In Paris, a spokesman for the 78-year-old religious leader said he would leave Paris Thursday night as scheduled, using a chartered Air France plane, but would turn back if the airport was still closed Friday. However, when asked if he might try to land at another airport in Iran, the spokesman replied: "Possibly yes."

Three tanks blocked the main entrance to Mehrabad Airport, where striking Iran Air workers had readied two Boeing 747 jumbo jets to be flown to Paris to bring the Shiite Moslem patriarch home after 14 years in exile.

The air force, controlling airport operations because of the strike wave paralyzing the country, "will prevent any takeoff or landing of Iran Air planes," an air force source said. Armed troops and military troops were reported patrolling alongside the runways.

Ayatollah Taleghani, the Shiite

Moslem leader in Tehran, called a rally at the airport to give the "revolutionary flight" to Paris a sendoff. Several thousand persons pushed past a policeman at a side gate and stood in a driving snow as Taleghani addressed them, but a truckload of soldiers broke up the crowd.

The aged ayatollah, one of Khomeini's chief lieutenants in Iran, was allowed to drive away.

"The people will grow more angry when they see the government action," he said through an interpreter. "Instead of preparing all facilities to receive Ayatollah Khomeini, they make sabotage to prevent his return."

Employees of the national airline said the starter switches and fuel pressure transmitters had been removed from the two planes that were to have been sent to Paris.

Incoming foreign flights were permitted to land, but their passengers were not allowed to leave the terminal. A number of outgoing flights were cancelled, including a Pan American flight to Istanbul for which some 350 passengers were booked and a British Airways flight to London with 150 seats sold.

Tehran's military governor said in a communique the airport was closed because of "bad weather" and plans by "a group of opportunists" to cause unrest.

Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar, installed by the shah before he left the country on Jan. 16, indicated the military leaders acted without consulting him.

"I don't know anything about these things," he told The Associated Press.

A spokesman for Dr. Karim Sanjaji of the National Front, Khomeini's political counterpart in the anti-shah movement, said he was "very upset" by the military action.

Four thousand supporters of the Bakhtiar government held a "pro-constitution" rally in a Tehran stadium. Afterward 1,000 of the crowd clashed near the U.S. Embassy with several hundred opponents of the shah. As both sides ripped up paving stones and hurled them, three truckloads of troops separated them and channeled them into separate streets.

Khomeini has said he was coming home to bring to a successful conclusion his long fight to overthrow the monarchy, convert Iran to an Islamic republic and install a government controlled by him.

Four Midlanders enter guilty pleas

Two Midlanders received prison sentences and two others, probation, when they entered guilty pleas Tuesday in 238th District Court.

Carl Collins of the 400 block of East Pecan Street received a three-year prison sentence after pleading guilty to rape of a child in connection with an Oct. 28, 1978, incident.

Also sentenced to three years imprisonment was George Umfrees of the 500 block of E. California Avenue, who pleaded guilty to theft in connection with a March 1, 1978, incident.

Lamanzel Finley of the 700 block of South Benton Street received 5 years probation and was ordered to pay $6,000 restitution in connection with an Oct. 14, 1978 forgery by passing incident.

Receiving a four-year probated sentence for burglary of a vehicle was Herbert Al Weger of the 3700 block of Monte Street. Weger also was fined $500.

Judge to hear Ector County bond election result petitions Monday

ODESSA — State District Court Judge R.L. McKim on Monday will hear petitions contesting the results of the $21.6-million Ector County school bond election Dec. 5.

The election, deemed "emotionally charged" primarily due to the $3.5 million proposition calling for a new football stadium and track field, also called for renovation of schools and building new classrooms for $8.8 million and the construction of two elementary schools and a junior high school for $9.3 million.

The three propositions passed. The petitions question the legality of the election and allege misrepresentation by the Ector County Independent School District officials and allege voting irregularities. The petitions, filed by Robert Frias and Billie Jean Stewart, ask that the election be declared void.

McKim, of the 161st District Court, said he will consider requests by the school district to dismiss the petitions.

Should he not do so, he may grant a jury trial to determine the validity of the election. The school system's attorney, Robert Cox, has denied charges of illegality on the school district's part and said that the petitioners' claim offers no basis for support that school officials acted improperly in the bond election.

Hitler silver service ownership in dispute

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — Much of the 37-piece silver service is engraved with a Nazi swastika and the initials "A.H."

Advertising executive John C. Moore claims the silver once was owned by Adolph Hitler and is worth $26,000.

Attorneys for Friestaat Bayern claimed the silver should be returned to the West German state — or that its government should be indemnified — because it was stolen from Hitler's home in Obersalzberg and from the Nazi Party headquarters in Munich.

Ted Cassidy dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ted Cassidy, the 6-foot-8 actor best known as the offish servant Lurch in the horror comedy television series "The Addams Family," has died at the age of 46.

A spokesman at St. Vincent's Hospital said complications set in after Cassidy underwent open-heart surgery there for a non-malignant tumor.

New session has same old hassles with same faces

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Congress was the brand new 96th, but the setting brought back memories of the energy battles of the 95th.

There was Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger puffing on his pipe and preparing to testify before the Senate Energy Committee headed by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

A year ago Schlesinger was pursuing votes for the president's energy package, and spending more time on Capitol Hill than in his office.

Here he was, back again, with a new Congress in session. The subject was disruptions in the flow of oil from Iran.

Apparently no one realized what a drawing card Schlesinger was. The room was packed. Every seat was taken. Many reporters were squeezed against walls, notebooks and pens ready.

Jackson arrived and was about to start reading his opening statement when he surveyed the crowd and asked, "How many media people can't find seats?"

About 20 hands shot up.

Jackson motioned some reporters to vacant seats at the committee table.

Then he surveyed the room again and began directing others to seats: "You, sit over here. ... And you young ones over there, move here in front of me and sit on the floor. This is just for accredited news people, you understand. ... You, against the wall, there's still some room up front."

Then, after asking, "Does everyone have a seat?" Jackson sat down and read his statement.

"CALL ME BILL ... Call me Howard ... Call me Max ... Call me Birch."

What do you call members of the Senate if you don't want to call them "Senator?"

Sen. Nancy Kassebaum, R-Kan., being new to the United States Senate wondered what to call her colleagues, so she checked with their offices.

"Does the senator have a preferred nickname?" an aide asked.

Unfortunately, the results were as lively as last year's filibuster.

Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo., said, "Call me Bill." Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., said, "Call me Howard." Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., "Call me Max," and Birch Bayh, D-Ind., "Call me Birch."

And so it went, with few exceptions. "Call me Howell," said Sen. Howell Heflin, D-Ala. "Call me Gaylord," said Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis.

The exceptions to the dull rule were Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., who likes "Fritz;" Walter Huddleston, D-Ky., who uses "Dee;" Henry Jackson, D-Wash., who is called "Scoop;" and Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., who likes "Maggie."

SOME DATES to watch for in 1979, if you are interested in Senate trivia:

On March 3, Sen. Milton Young, R-N.D., will have served in the Senate 33 years, 11 months and 25 days, moving him past George Aiken, now retired as senator from Vermont, into 10th place on the all-time longevity list.

On April 8, Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., will move into 18th place.

On Aug. 29, Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., will take over 15th place.

And on Oct. 9, Sen. Warren Magnuson will move into eighth place.

Long now has served in the Senate 30 years. Since he's only 58, he has a good chance of eclipsing the all-time record of 41 years and 10 months set by Carl T. Hayden, D-Ariz. Long entered the Senate at the constitutional minimum age of 30. Two other senators who did the same are Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Joseph Biden Jr., D-Del.

U.S. making plans for visit by Teng

WASHINGTON (AP) — Planning for Chinese Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping's historic visit to the United States, less than a week off, is almost complete.

State Department aides said Tuesday they were in the final hours of preparing the itinerary for Teng's eight-day visit.

In another development, 35 congressmen and business and civic leaders were leaving today for a visit to Taiwan in an effort to seek continued U.S. relations with that nation.

Chinese would approve an agreement without favored-nation status. That status reduces tariffs on imported goods.

The migration policies of communist countries are key in decisions on trade status. The 1974 Jackson-Vanik amendment bars the United States from granting most-favored status or financing trade for communist nations that do not allow free emigration.

Current plans call for Teng to arrive in Washington Sunday aboard a Boeing 707 owned by China's national airline. On Feb. 1, he is scheduled to fly to Atlanta where he reportedly will visit a Ford Motor Co. assembly plant.

Church of God followers prepare for confrontation

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Vowing not to let the state take control of their beleaguered church, followers of the Worldwide Church of God braced for a major confrontation today with sheriff's deputies.

Deputies to assist Weisman, despite a plea by church attorney Allan Browne that it could spark a "repetition of the tragic events at Kent State."

"Right now the doors are open, but they will be locked when the sheriff comes," said Aaron Dean, a spokesman for hundreds of church members who spent a second night clustered in the church's headquarters in an effort to stop a court-appointed receiver from taking control of the organization's records, finances and $80 million in assets.

Four students were killed at Kent State University in Kent, Ohio, when the National Guard opened fire May 4, 1970 on anti-war protesters.

"We will not use force," Dean said in a telephone interview late Tuesday night. "If they break the lock, then they will just have to arrest us (to get to the records), but that is a lot of people to arrest."

Armstrong, who is at his home in Tucson, Ariz., has termed the charge "an absolute lie." Claiming abridgment of constitutional rights, the church has countersued the state for $700 million.

Dean said he expected as many as 4,000 persons from throughout California to be at the Pasadena headquarters of the church today to resist attempts by deputies to escort court-appointed receiver Steven Weisman in the offices to take the records.

Armstrong urged his followers to "stand their ground," saying that the law of God was higher than the law of man.

On Monday, an estimated 2,500 persons crowded into the offices to keep Weisman and other officials from carrying out their orders.

Meanwhile, the state Court of Appeals denied the church's second and third requests for stays of the Jan. 3 order putting the organization in receivership.

Cesar Chavez opposes intervention by government in lettuce strike

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cesar Chavez has overruled United Farm Workers negotiators who agreed to call in the federal Council on Wage and Price Stability to help settle a strike by lettuce harvesters.

Valley, in southeast California, and in the Yuma, Ariz., area. Twenty-four of the growers are not affected by the walkout.

The walkout, which began last Friday, involves about 2,000 workers at four Imperial Valley farms that produce about 30 percent of the nation's winter iceberg lettuce. A prolonged strike, coupled with recent subfreezing temperatures, could cut production and drive up prices to consumers, growers said.

President Carter's voluntary 7 percent limit on wage and benefit increases is unfair to low-paid workers such as farm workers.

The UFW is negotiating with 28 vegetable growers in the Imperial County seeking disaster aid after freeze

County Judge Ramiro Guerra said a disaster-area designation would make farmers and persons in agriculture-related industries here eligible for low-interest loans. Guerra said he would also seek relief for farmworkers unemployed because of the Jan. 3 freeze.

Names in the news

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says he's in favor of the president's brother Billy Carter becoming "a one-term entertainer."

Kissinger made his suggestion Tuesday when asked: "What advice have you for Billy Carter as he furthers his diplomatic career?"

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rock singer Mick Jagger has been declared the father of a girl born 8 years ago to actress-singer Marsha Hunt.

Ms. Hunt, 31, filed suit in July against Jagger, the 34-year-old lead singer of the Rolling Stones. She claimed he fathered Karis Hunt Ratledge while she and Jagger lived together in 1970 and 1971, and sought $2,300 a month in child support.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Averell Harriman, former governor of New York and veteran U.S. diplomat, has been named the 1978 recipient of the Harry S. Truman Public Service Award.

Harriman, 87, was named Tuesday to receive the bronze bust of Truman, who appointed him secretary of commerce in 1946. In 1948, Harriman became Truman's roving ambassador for the European Recovery Program.

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — State Rep. Theo Mitchell says he's "incensed" that South Carolina's senators didn't attend a speech by Jean Childs Young, wife of U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young.

Mitchell, chairman of the 13-member black caucus, said the senators slighted Mrs. Young, who addressed House members Tuesday on behalf of the United Nations' International Year of the Child.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. says he hasn't made a decision yet about whether he'll run for president next year.

Pravda says recent tour of Asia by U.S. senators raised tensions

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda said today a recent tour of Asia by a group of U.S. senators led by Democrat Sam Nunn of Georgia built up tensions in the area.

The delegation clearly pursued the line of those forces in the U.S.A. who do not want detente and who are looking for an opportunity to build up an unhealthy atmosphere in the world," Pravda said.

Big Eight steps back

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Big Eight Conference has told a U.S. District judge it is willing to let those accused of violating conference rules confront and cross-examine the witnesses against them.

Bradshaw, Staubach disagree on supremacy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Terry Bradshaw, fresh from helping Pittsburgh prove it's the best football team on the planet, says flatly that he believes the American Conference is better than the National Conference.

Bradshaw, who led the Steelers to a 35-31 Super Bowl victory over the Cowboys, will be the starting quarterback for the AFC and Staubach will be at the helm of the NFC team.

Each conference owns four Pro Bowl victories, and Bradshaw and Staubach agreed that an AFC-AFC rivalry has developed.

Microwaves: magic or menace?

By JEANNETTE BRANIN Copley News Service

With an understandable fondness for catchy repetition of sound in slogans, the manufacturers, retailers and promoters of microwave ovens have had a heyday with the "M" sound.

"The magic of microwave" we read and hear. "The miracle of microwave" ... "the marvels of microwave."

Only infrequently in the last 30 years have we heard an alliteration which is not an endorsement but an accusation: "The menace of microwave."

A menace — that accommodating appliance which now is in six million, perhaps nine million homes, and countless establishments — hospitals, schools, restaurants — when members of a multimillion dollar industry are encouraging children to use the microwave?

The microwave oven came into being because of an accident. In 1945, an employee of the Raytheon Co. placed a chocolate bar in front of a radar vacuum tube he was testing and was surprised to see the chocolate melt. Intrigued, he experimented with popcorn. Placed in front of the tube, it popped.

THAT POPPING is said to have signaled the birth of a new concept in cooking. The first microwave oven was considered to be a big, cumbersome gimmick, to be used for commercial heating of hot dogs. Innovations in microwave technology were spasmodic until 1965 when Amana Refrigeration Inc. merged with Raytheon.

In that year, the company began development of a microwave oven for the home. The first counter-top Radarange oven was introduced in 1967. Our companies introduced other models. By 1977, in the space of only 10 years, the industry as a whole had placed microwave ovens into six million homes. At the end of 1978, it was estimated that nine million families used microwave ovens.

Who calls the microwave oven "a marvel, a miracle and magic"? The industry, of course, which by 1980 expects to have more than 16 million ovens in homes. And the owners. Ask owners, and four out of five will give you answers like: "I love mine just a little less than I love my husband." ... "Couldn't live without it." ... "Greatest thing since the wheel."

Who calls the microwave oven a menace? Paul Brodeur, author of "The Zapping of America — Microwaves, Their Deadly Risk and the Cover Up." Scientists, physicians and ophthalmologists in this country and abroad.

PUBLIC CONCERN began to surface in 1973 when the Consumers Union recommended against the purchase of microwave ovens, regardless of make. This concern was intensified recently when the General Accounting Office, the investigative arm of Congress, released the Results of a study, "Report by the Comptroller General of the United States: More Protection From Microwave Radiation Hazards Needed."

The study said, in part, "In the past several years concern has significantly increased over the potential hazards posed by exposure to microwave radiation. ...

"Its capacity to generate heat in body tissue and to cause heat-related effects during exposure to high levels, such as cataractogenic effects in the eye, has been known for some time.

"Its effects at low levels of exposure, such as its reported potential to cause changes in behavior or physiological functions, are less definite."

The study concluded that federal agencies have been lax in setting and enforcing standards to protect the public from potential health hazards of microwave radiation. The Consumers Union of the United States is an organization which tests, rates and reports on competing brands of appliances, automobiles, food products, household equipment, etc.

It distributes its recommendations in a publication, Consumer Reports, to approximately 1.9 million subscribers. In 1972, Consumers Union stated that it had found measurable radiation leakage in 15 leading microwave oven models; that it considered the government's five-milliwatt emission standard inadequate because there were no data on what quantity of low-level radiation could cause human injury; that although the leakage it had detected was within the five-milliwatt level, a tug on the door of one model and a paper towel caught in the door of another caused leakage far in excess of the government standard; and that it felt the burden of proof was therefore on manufacturers to prove the safety of their products.

CONSUMERS UNION recommended against the purchase of any microwave oven. It reaffirmed this stand in 1976. On Dec. 14, 1978, David C. Berliner, director of the office of public affairs of Consumers Union, said, "We have not changed our position on the non-recommendation of the microwave oven."

There had been criticism of microwave ovens and their potential of harm from leakage long before that, but those voicing such opinions or suspicions, were disregarded or even ridiculed by the industry and by the government, the largest consumer of microwave energy, according to Paul Brodeur.

Brodeur quotes Professor Charles Susskind of the Department of Electrical Engineering of the University of California at Berkeley, who testified at hearings held by the Senate Commerce Committee in 1968 regarding the emission of ionizing radiation from television sets, X-ray machines and radioactive materials used in industry.

During the hearings, Susskind said, "Although ionizing radiation seems to loom larger as a hazard, it would not surprise me in the least if non-ionizing radiation were ultimately to prove a bigger and more vexing problem."

King Tutankhamun exhibit inspires gold embroidery

By ERICA WILSON
The golden, sparkling gift to brighten the dark days of winter in New York this year is the exhibit of the Treasures of Tutankhamun at the Metropolitan Museum. You come away from the exhibit with such a sense of inspiration. The craftsmanship makes everything appear to be effortless, and the boldness of treatment, the brilliant yet subtle colors, and above all the gleam of gold on everything from shrine to sword hilt to belt buckle make you truly understand the meaning of the word "timeless."

been formed from the "lost wax" method known for at least 4,000 years, and still today you can do your embroidery with a gold thread whose method of production is the same as that used by the Chinese since time immemorial.
IN THE BIBLE, Moses said, "They did beat the gold into thin plates, and cut it into wires, to work in the blue and the purple, and in the scarlet and in the very fine linen."
The gold was wrapped around silver bullion, which was melted down and drawn through narrower and narrower holes until, still coated with gold, it formed a thin wire. This flexible thread was then beaten flat and twisted around a core of orange or yellow silk. Nowadays, gold leaf on paper is twisted around and lightly gummed to the silk, and the thread is known as "Japanese gold." Flexible, untarnishing, and of a beautiful glowing color, it can only be "couched" on the surface of the fabric, as it would naturally be spoiled by pulling it back and forth through the cloth.

Third, because the eye may be large and the thin springy thread might slip out in a wink as you stitch, you should tie a single knot around the eye of the needle. This will be sufficient to hold it in place until you've used up the thread, which should be no more than 14 inches long so that it won't fray before the end.
The same suggestions apply if you are working with slightly heavier lurex threads (knitting and crochet yarns) and you have decided to use them for crewel, as I did in a satin stitched design from the golden mask of Tutankhamun. Using the large needle will help make the gleaming stitches lie smoothly.

Italian spring-summer collection features rebirth of erotic dress

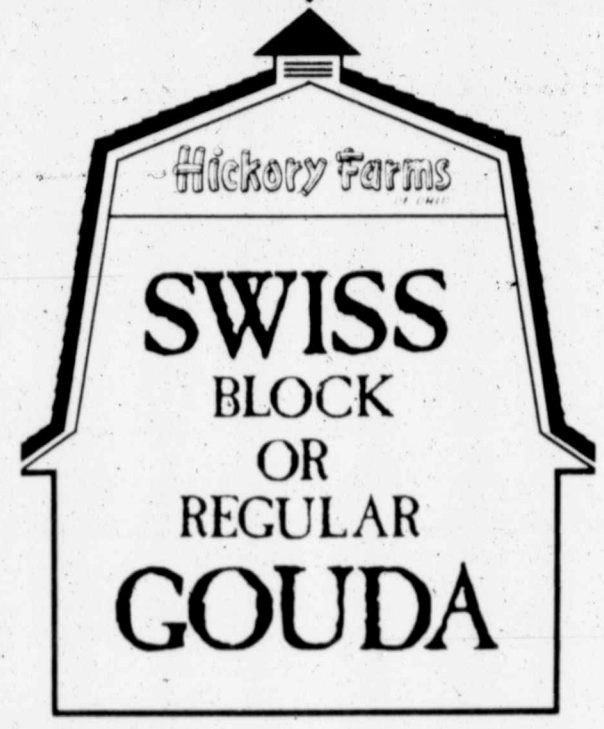

By DANIELA PETROFF
Associated Press Writer
ROME (AP) — Whispers of slits and splits in unexpected places are being heard up and down the Via Veneto as the Italian high fashion spring-summer 1979 collections opens here today for a three-day show.
A return to the "daring diva" look of the 1950s, when an actress' talent often was measured by the plunge of her neckline and the curve of her hips, apparently is an attempt to give a lift to the declining image of high fashion.

airy, fabrics shiny for evening, rustic for daytime.
In the past few years, high fashion has been relegated to second place behind the more economically-accessible ready-to-wear. But Mario Goracci, head of the national chamber of Italian high fashion sees it as an important factor in the recent boom of Italian fashion.
"Where high fashion is at an advance, is that it is not bound by the same economic pressures as ready-to-wear. It is a sector of pure research," he said.
For the research, buyers will be paying millions for shoes, $55 million for sun glasses, and leather goods will exceed $213 million.

The three-day fling will feature the most prestigious names in Italian fashion, such as Valentino, Princess Irene Galitzine, Mila Schoen, Lancelotti, and Roberto Capucci.
In all there will be 20 fashion houses strolling down the catwalk, including Piatelli and Brioni for men, and Zingone for the kiddie set.

DEAR ABBY

All jackasses aren't donkeys

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: In your column the other day, you told us the difference between a jackass and a mule. But you didn't go far enough.
You should have added that a jackass is also a Democrat. We usually know them by their braying.—OLD MULE SKINNER
DEAR SKINNER: The symbol of the Democratic Party is the male donkey—also known as a jackass—which is a far cry from saying that all Democrats are jackasses.
Be advised that the symbol of the Republican Party is the elephant. But that is not to say that all Republicans are thickskinned, harmless unless provoked, and can be taught to do tricks easily.
DEAR ABBY: My sister and I are widows (in our early 60s) and live in separate houses in a small town. We are congenial, go everywhere together and enjoy each other's company. You might say we're inseparable.
My married daughter lives in another town close by. She says I am in a rut (she is right)—that my sister and I see too much of each other and need to go our separate ways for a while. So my daughter has invited me to take a trip with her to get away from the same old routine—and she doesn't want to include my sister.
I told my daughter I couldn't just up and go on a trip without inviting my sister because she would be hurt, and I wouldn't blame her. I know how I would feel if she did that to me.
So, I am on the spot. Should I go with my daughter and hurt my sister, or stay home and hurt my daughter.—UNDECIDED
DEAR UNDECIDED: Your daughter may be well-intentioned, but she is putting you on the spot. Perhaps a vacation away from your sister would get you out of a "rut"—but at what a price! As long as you and your sister enjoy each other's company and are congenial, perhaps that "rut" is not such a bad one. Pass up the trip with your daughter. If you were to go, feeling as you do, your conscience would prevent you from enjoying it.
DEAR ABBY: I have been married five months to a very wonderful man. This is his first marriage and my second.
I own some beautiful jewelry and furs and a rut (she is right)—that would enjoy wearing them, but my husband doesn't want me to wear anything "showy" that ways for a while. So my HE didn't give me. That means I can't wear any of my jewelry or furs because he hasn't given me any, and there is no way he could afford to match what I own. I think he is being unfair, although so far I've gone along with his wishes.

I would appreciate your thinking — decision.
UNADORNED
DEAR UNADORNED: Who said the teen years I think your husband's are the happiest? For insecurity is showing. I Abby's new booklet agree that his request is "What Teenagers Want unfair. But whether you to Know," write Abby: want to honor it or not 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Tornadoes hit two states

By The Associated Press

Tornadoes spawned by thunderstorms in the Gulf of Mexico swirled through Florida and Louisiana, damaging more than 100 buildings and injuring at least 27 persons, authorities said.

A half dozen twisters were reported early today in the Florida Gulf Coast town of Bradenton, where roofs and porches were ripped off about 50 trailer homes: No injuries were reported.

One tornado traveled 23 blocks "straight down Third Street," Manatee County Deputy J.S. Litschauer said, but missed homes on both sides of the road.

Tons of debris littered the Mississippi River town of Litcher, La., today, after a tornado tore through more than 50 buildings, injured 27 people and caused an estimated $1 million in damage late Tuesday.

Mayor Elmore Trosclair, who made the damage estimate, said none of the injuries was believed to be serious.

The Louisiana National Guard was called in to help with cleanup operations in Litcher, 30 miles north of New Orleans. Trosclair said Gov. Edwin Edwards planned to declare the town a disaster area.

Five homes, 13 house trailers, two temporary school buildings and four garages were demolished, 30 houses were left without roofs and four automobiles were crushed, Trosclair said.

A teacher, an aide and three students were inside a small, wood and corrugated metal building at Litcher Junior High when the tornado swept the building away.

Gwendolyn Johnson, the aide, said she lay on the floor and pulled her coat over her head. When someone yelled and she peeked out, the building was gone and her shoes had been blown off.

The twister also knocked out power lines, leaving about half the town of 3,900 persons without utilities most of the night.

Bus mishap injures 17

CHICAGO (AP) — Seventeen persons were injured, one seriously, when a Tri-State Coach Lines Inc. of Indiana bus was involved in a collision near O'Hare International Airport.

Authorities said the bus struck the rear of a U.S. Department of Aviation sand-spreader truck Tuesday and then moved into the path of a limousine on the Kennedy Expressway extension leading into the airport. The limousine struck the bus from the rear, authorities said.

Rick Banas, a spokesman at Resurrection Hospital, said 17 persons were taken to the hospital's emergency room after the accident.

Ready to help clean up the wreckage that was once his family's house trailer is 10-year-old Johnny Bourgeois, Litcher, La. A tornado swept through Tuesday afternoon, causing as estimated $1 million damage and injuring about 27 persons, none seriously. The Louisiana National Guard was scheduled to arrive today. (AP Laserphoto)

Winter storms strike again

By The Associated Press

Storm-weary residents of more than a dozen states were walloped again as snow, high winds and freezing rain caused power failures, school closings and the deaths of stranded livestock. Tornadoes wrecked homes in Louisiana and Florida.

A half dozen tornadoes were reported today in the Florida Gulf Coast town of Bradenton, where roofs and porches were ripped from about 50 trailer homes.

And a tornado caused an estimated $1 million damage Tuesday in the small Mississippi River town of Litcher, La.

Mayor Elmore Trosclair, who made the damage estimate, said at least 50 buildings in the town of 3,900 were damaged or destroyed, power was cut for several hours and 27 persons were injured, none seriously.

Gov. Edwin Edwards planned to declare the town a disaster area today and National Guardsmen were called in to clear debris.

In Nebraska, ranchers isolated by snow and high winds have been unable to feed livestock, and reported their herds were dying in large numbers.

High winds and snow whipped Alabama Tuesday, knocking out a half-dozen electrical substations serving 1,500 Huntsville homes.

Georgia forecasters issued a travelers advisory for the northeast part of the state early today, as sleet, freezing rain and snow glazed streets and highways.

Illinois residents were denied a respite from 10 days of severe winter weather when a new storm brought up to 3 inches of snow.

The 52-year-old ballerina made her comeback in the title role of the ballet "Carmen" which has been one of her most frequent vehicles in recent years.

South ruffed the second diamond, cashed the top spades and ruffed a spade in dummy in order to lead a heart and try a finesse with the jack. West took the ace of hearts and led the jack of spades. East overruffed the dummy, and South eventually lost a club. Down one.

"You can't make bricks without straw," South complained.

"Nor tricks without brains," North added.

NO SYMPATHY

It's all right to sympathize with South, but don't take his side of the argument. He should make the contract.

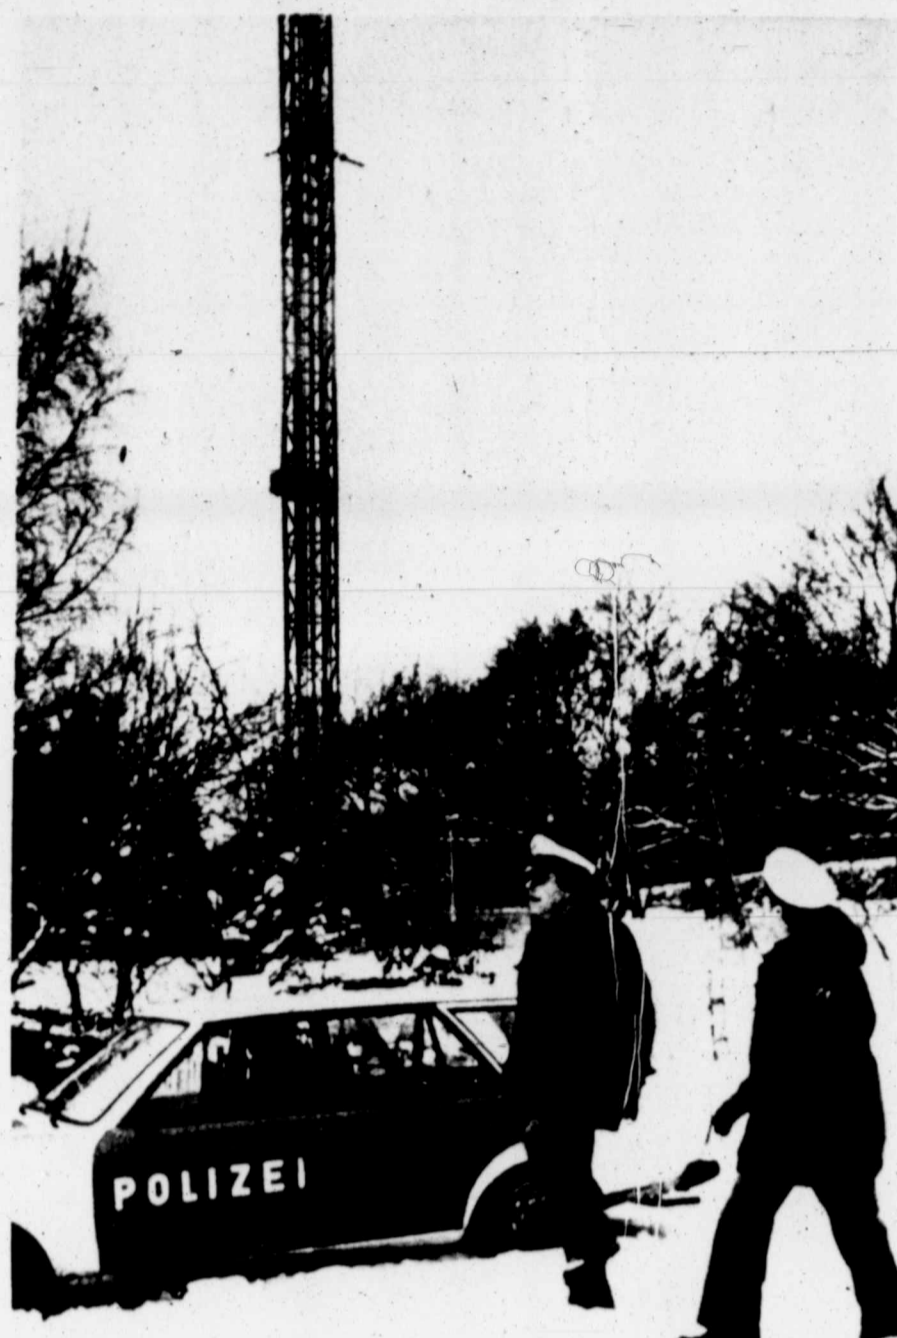

When West leads the jack of spades South knows that East is out of spades and has the queen of hearts. Since a ruff is sure to fail declarer should discard a club from dummy.

South can win any return, cash the top clubs and ruff a club in dummy. He can then lead dummy's last trump to repeat the finesse. There is no further problem.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: SQ95; HQ65; D1093; CQJ98. What do you do?

ANSWER: Bid two spades. Some experts would respond in no trump because the hand has no ruffing value, but the trump support for spades is a good and a raise to two spades keeps the enemy out more effectively than a response of one no trump.

Busy auto plants believe forecasts of depression

By DONALD WOUTAT

DETROIT (AP) — The nation's auto assembly plants are humming these days, belying widespread talk of recession. It's persuasive evidence that the auto industry — the source of one job in six in the United States and a bedrock of the nation's economy — sees no serious economic storms on the immediate horizon.

The industry is planning, although cautiously, to assemble nearly 2.5 million cars in the first three months of the year — the highest total since 1973.

Analysts say it means automakers are building for sales of roughly 11 million cars in 1979, a modest drop from last year's 11.3 million but a healthy total unlikely to cause severe dislocations.

Skeptics note that would be well short of the General Motors Corp. forecast of 11.5 million car sales for the year. But it is above the predictions of Ford Motor Co., the federal government and most outside auto analysts.

And it reflects the bright spots that auto executives see in the economy: record employment, strong industrial production, federal income tax cuts, healthy retail sales and a backlog of orders for durable goods.

"There has been some bad economic news," says Robert D. Lund, head of GM's Chevrolet Division. "But it should not be allowed to eclipse the more positive economic good news."

Lund's optimism is borne out so far by a 3 percent climb in industry sales since Oct. 1, compared to the same period a year ago. That includes Chevy's best start ever for a model year.

The industry is planning, although cautiously, to assemble nearly 2.5 million cars in the first three months of the year — the highest total since 1973.

Production schedules, carefully orchestrated with the automakers' thousands of supply firms, are monitored daily on the basis of sales, weather, labor problems and other factors to prevent heavy inventories.

Thus the output planned for the current quarter would not contradict the notion, supported by Ford economists, of a slowdown late in 1979. But by then, Lund reasons, GM's upbeat talk might become "self-fulfilling."

Since about 3 percent of cars are typically built on overtime, a dip of 2.7 percent to 11 million

Superbowl XIII top show, says Nielsen

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Super Bowl XIII between Pittsburgh and Dallas was the most-watched show in the Nielsen television ratings for the past week, with more than 87 million people tuned in to the professional football game on NBC Sunday afternoon.

The game had a rating of 47.1, with 71 percent of the television sets in use tuned to the game.

Although the game was played in the afternoon in Florida, parts of it continued into prime time on the East Coast.

The highest-rated regular show was ABC's "Laverne and Shirley." ABC continued its domination of the ratings with a rating of 23.5 for the week ending Sunday. CBS was second with 18.5, and NBC third with 18.4. For the season to date, ABC is ahead with 20.5, CBS second with 18.6, and NBC third with 17.7.

Seven of the top 10 shows for the week were on ABC, including a new series, "Delta House," which was tenth: CBS's only show in the Top 10 was "M-A-S-H."

NBC did not place one of its regular shows in the Top 10, although it did win the top spot with the Super Bowl, and the Super Bowl Post Game Show placed fifth. NBC's highest rated regular show was "Diff'rent Strokes," which finished 19th.

Here are the week's Top 10 shows: "Super Bowl," NBC, 47.1 or 34.9 million homes; "Laverne and Shirley," ABC, 35.3 or 26 million; "Happy Days" and "Three's Company," tied, both ABC, 34.3 or 25.4 million; "Super Bowl Post Game Show," NBC, 31.7 or 23.4 million; "Mork and Mindy," ABC, 30.4 or 22.5 million; "Eight Is Enough," ABC, 30.1 or 22.3 million; "Taxi," ABC, 28.5 or 21.1 million; "MASH," CBS, 28.4 or 21 million; "Delta House," ABC, 28.3 or 20.9 million.

Vitamin E sexy reputation false

Dear Dr. Solomon: We hear so much about vitamin E these days. Do vitamin E pills really help your sex life? And is it safe to take a lot of them?—E.L.

Dear E.L.: Vitamin E got its sexy reputation all through a misunderstanding. In some laboratory tests, rats deprived of vitamin E became sterile. From there to claim that vitamin E supplements enhance sexual activity in men is quite a jump.

In fact, there is no reason to believe that extra amounts of vitamin E have this effect. There are even some reports that megadoses of vitamin E can do just the opposite.

As to your question about possible hazards of too much vitamin E, they are certainly not as great as those of excessive consumption of vitamin A or vitamin D. But various unpleasant results have been noted, such as fatigue, nausea, dizziness, stomach or intestinal disturbances, and blurred vision.

A vitamin E deficiency is extremely rare in North America. Indeed, it is difficult to produce experimentally in human beings, and requires artificial deprivation over a long period of time. However, deficiencies may occur in people with very special problems—for instance, not being able to absorb dietary fat (vitamin E is carried in fat, like A and D, but unlike the water-soluble vitamins B and C).

Premature babies are another special group where vitamin E deficiencies turn up.

Vitamin E has been touted as having all sorts of other wonderful effects besides boosting your sex life—preventing heart attacks, keeping you going until 110, you name it. But we really don't have scientific evidence for any of this.

So my advice would be to depend on a varied and balanced diet for your supplies of vitamin E and other nutrients—and to remember that overdoses of anything can be hazardous.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Is ascorbic acid the same thing as vitamin C, or is there some kind of difference?—E.L.

Dear E.L.: It's exactly the same thing, a chemical whose formula is C<sub>6</sub>H<sub>8</sub>O<sub>6</sub>—meaning that a molecule has six carbon atoms, eight hydrogen atoms and six oxygen atoms. If you didn't get a very small amount of this in your diet regularly, you'd develop scurvy.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Can community-wide measles epidemics be controlled?—Mrs. A.G.

Dear Mrs. A.G.: Yes. Studies have shown that community-wide measles epidemics can be controlled by promptly vaccinating appropriate groups of children, particularly pre-schoolers, selected on the basis of their epidemiologic importance. However, once measles is widespread in a community, it may be necessary to immunize susceptible children of all ages to alter the course of the epidemic.

You don't have to work for a big company to have a great Retirement Plan...

A First Savings Individual Retirement Account (IRA) will give you that, plus a tax break...

If you're currently working for a company that doesn't have a retirement plan, or if it is no longer providing one, then an IRA at First Savings is the thing for you. With an Individual Retirement Account at First Savings you can save for the future at the impressive current interest rate of 8% (effective annual yield 8.33%). You can deposit up to $1500 or 15% of your yearly income, whichever is less, and deduct every penny from your taxes. You do not have to pay the taxes on your IRA funds until you start withdrawing from it, normally after you retire. (THE LAW REQUIRES SUBSTANTIAL PENALTIES FOR WITHDRAWALS BEFORE THE AGE OF 59½.) When you retire, you'll probably have less income and more than likely be in a lower tax bracket, that way the tax bite will be less.

And now for greater protection, your IRA funds are insured up to $100,000 by an agency of the Federal Government.

So, stop by either First Savings office... downtown at 500 West Wall... or San Miguel Square... today, and tell them you want a great retirement plan, and they'll tell you all about the benefits of an Individual Retirement Account.

Scot SALT III might ban bagpipe

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

RIDGEFIELD, CONN. (AP) — It will be a subdued Burns Night this Jan. 25 for many Scots around the world celebrating the birth of Bobbie Burns, the national bard.

There's a worldwide shortage of bagpipes. Now not everyone would regard this as major catastrophe; indeed there are some who think that after they get through banning the bomb at the SALT talks, they might convene a SALT III and ban the bagpipe. But to highlanders and lowlanders at home or anywhere on the globe, the shortage of the pipes might mean that the haggis, that "protid chieftain o' at all. It was known in ancient Persia, Turkey and Palestine at least 2,000 years ago. The Emperor Nero was a skilled piper and probably skirted away rather than fiddled while Rome burned because the bow, essential to every fiddle, hadn't been invented yet. Oliver Herford, the Victorian humorist had another explanation: "Perhaps it was because Nero played the fiddle, they burned Rome." The bagpipe might have been greater provocation.

Shakespeare exeunts Macbeth, Duncan and Donalban with a flourish of trumpets from that dreary castle near Inverness, but located the bagpipe in Italy when Shylock, in "The Merchant of Venice," says:

"Some men there are love not a gaping pig;
Some that are mad if they behold a cat;
And others, when the bagpipe sings in the nose,
Cannot contain their urine."

James Boswell, a Scot, could barely contain his when he heard "the great drone of the bagpipes" almost every day on the famous "Tour of the Hebrides," although he had to admit "Dr. Johnson appeared fond of it."

Madame Pompadour, the mistress of Louis XV, serenaded the king with her virtuosity on the musette, a French variant of the bagpipe, at Versailles, which may have helped bring on the revolution.

An ancient Welsh bard, hearing the bagpipes for the first time, was moved to write:

"The curl did blow a grating shriek,
The bag did swell and harshly squeak
As does a goose from nightmares crying
Or a dog with a crushed chest when dying..."

Which brings to mind Oscar Wilde's classic dismissal of this ancient instrument: "A gentleman is one who knows how to play the bagpipe and doesn't."

But then Wilde was an Irishman and he probably had a low opinion of the haggis too. The haggis, for those not acquainted with the caviar of Caledonia, is a dark, pungent concoction of the heart, lungs, liver, chitterlings and other unmentionables of a sheep boiled with suet, oatmeal, onion, pepper and other spices in the maw or stomach of a sheep. It looks like a cross between a shrunken football and a marinated motorcycle handlebar and has been inelegantly derided as "a doiled castrated bagpipe." Some say there is no plural for the word because no one has ever been found who could stomach two of them.

But wherever Scots are gathered on Burns Night, the haggis is ushered in with a skirl of bagpipes, saluted in the immortal benediction writ by the national bard himself and burst open by the clan chief with stab of his skein dhu, the wee dirk he keeps tucked in the fold of high knee socks just below the kill line.

Sadly, however, the haggis in recent years has become a national sport as well as the national dish of Scotland. Highland lads who used to fling telephone poles called cabers up and down the glens have now taken to hurling the haggis. At Stirling, Scotland, this past summer a bank clerk named Ian Taylor the puddin' race," as Burns called it, might have to be brought unskirled into the banquet for the traditional Burns Night toast.

Some might say that if the haggis didn't arrive at all that might not be a universal calamity either, but Scotsmen are used to this sort of attack on their national delicacy. Like the bagpipe, the haggis is an acquired taste, even if most of us won't live that long.

The sudden popularity of bagpipes with college and high school bands, various marching societies and even joggers trying to improve their wind in inclement weather has created the worldwide shortage of venerable instrument, which Idi Amin among other heads of state favors for his guard of honor. The National Geographic Society reported recently the demand has so exceeded the supply that it is hard to find a decent set of pipes even in Scotland.

John J. Slattery, a piper with the Scots Guards, who had a best-selling record with "Amazing Grace" in Britain a few years ago, confirmed the pipe scarcity when the famous pipe band performed in Washington, D.C., last fall.

"Finding decent pipes is very difficult," Slattery lamented. "Many of the old master bagpipe makers have died. Those who remain are few and far between." The canny master pipersmiths, who always have been jealous of their craft secrets and reluctant to hand them on to apprentices, are probably all out in the North Sea oil fields getting top money for dealing with a different kind of pipe while the work lasts.

Besides the lack of master craftsmen, there is also a shortage of African blackwood, a very hard wood which doesn't absorb much moisture and is the raw material for the five wooden pipes that are fitted to the leather bag of what detractors call the "Scottish armpit piano."

Actually, the instrument is not native to Scotland

Indianapolis, world auto racing capital in May, lacks city image

By JAN CARROLL

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — For one month each year, it's the auto racing capital of the world. During the other 11, the nickname "India-napole" is uncomfortably apt. And that's what city fathers would like to change.

"The city has no image. It's not that it has a negative image," said John Krauss, executive director of the Greater Indianapolis Progress Committee. "There's an enthusiasm to get on the bandwagon but there isn't a bandwagon to get on."

So the city-county council has come up with $125,000 to be matched by private contributions in hopes of establishing a reputation for the Hoosier capital. And it seems the image-building will take time — about two years.

When the plans were first drawn last May, during the height of 500-mile race fever, an economic development task force selected a New York consulting firm and two Indianapolis public relations agencies to help promote the city to outsiders.

During the intervening months, the focus has shifted to the citizens of

19 named in opera scandals

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Nineteen top figures of the Italian opera world were given formal notices Tuesday that they were under investigation for alleged fraud and corruption in employing singers.

Carlo Maria Badmi, superintendent of Milan's La Scala opera house; Peter Maag, conductor and former artistic director of the Reggion theater of Turin; and other well known theater agents are involved in the case.

The so-called "opera scandal" erupted last year when investigating magistrates called in 35 people, including the superintendent of the opera theater of Rome, and issued arrest warrants.

Linda Eaton, a firefighter in Iowa City, reports for duty at the Central Fire Station vowing she will nurse her six-week-old son, Ian, during her personal time at the station. City officials refused to allow the arrangement, and the matter has been taken to court. (AP Laserphoto)

Adoptions helping Kansas family establish empire

EDNA, Kan. (AP) — "I started this empire," declared 7-year-old Mitchell Merchant, the first of seven children adopted by Walter and Debbie Merchant to fulfill their dream of having a large family.

Merchant "empire" may have no bounds. "I don't think we'll ever stop adopting, as long as our health is good — at least for the next 10 years," she said in an interview. "As some of them leave home, we'll probably adopt more."

And, said Mrs. Merchant, a 31-year-old analytical engineer, the Merchant "empire" may have no bounds. "I don't think we'll ever stop adopting, as long as our health is good — at least for the next 10 years," she said in an interview. "As some of them leave home, we'll probably adopt more."

Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market gained more ground today after an early pause to absorb the latest government data on inflation.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 3.89 at 850.74 by noon.

Gainers led a 6-5 lead over losers in the mid-morning tally of New York Stock Exchange listed issues.

The government reported early today that the consumer price index rose 0.6 percent in December, about in line with Wall Street's expectations.

The cost-of-living index posted a 9 percent rise for all of 1978 — the biggest increase since it jumped 12.2 percent in 1974.

But analysts said recent tenous evidence that interest rates might be turning downward seemed to have captured investors' attention.

Hildegard Zagorski at Bache Halsey Stuart Shields said investing institutions seemed to be feeding some of their large cash reserves into stocks.

"Once the downturn in interest rates comes, they realize that they all won't be able to get through the door at the same time," she said.

Union Carbide, which reported strong fourth-quarter earnings on Tuesday, rose 3/32 to 37.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index added .13 to 56.40. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up 24 at 161.32.

Volume on the Big Board was at 12.72 million shares by, noon, against 12.19 million at the same point Tuesday.

'Budget Bowl' sure to bring super battles

By JOHN CUNIFF, AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Now comes a really super battle, to be played not in Miami but in the Senate and House bowls of Washington, between Congress and the administration, with personal squabbles as sideshows.

As expected, the teams will lean heavily on their quarterbacks, but game plans call for heavy reliance on the unsung linemen also, in hopes the latter will hold their turf and take some of their opponents' too.

This is the battle of the federal budget, an encounter that includes elements of a big football game: players, observers, fans, supporters, critics, detractors, chairleaders, celebrities — maybe even gamblers.

But there are big differences too. The issues are many, not one, and nobody can say who's really a winner. The spenders might win their way, for example, but if they break the economy they're losers too.

Among the issues presented by President Carter's $532 billion budget for fiscal 1980, a budget $38 billion or 7.7 percent higher than the 1979 budget, a budget that leaves a deficit of $29 billion:

- Are the revenue projections of $50.6 billion too optimistic? The administration makes no contingency for a recession, which many private analysts believe will cut into revenues, leaving a bigger deficit.
- Some of these analysts foresee a deficit of $40 billion. Merrill Lynch Economics Inc. anticipates a $54 billion deficit, based on both smaller receipts and bigger spending, especially for unemployment and welfare.
- Is a $29 billion deficit still too high? Conservative critics maintain it is inflationary. They say government has no business running huge deficits so long as the economy is in an expansion phase.
- Some, however, accept the deficit, saying that at least it is an improvement, a step in the right direction, and perhaps necessary to forestall or ameliorate the impact of a recession.
- Does an increase in military spending, concurrent with a reduction of Social Security benefits and job and housing programs, represent the priorities sought by the American people?
- The matter is bound to create controversy in Congress. The sides are drawn. Some voters already have expressed themselves as opposed to social welfare spending. Others say they remain the most urgent issues.

Military spending is inevitably controversial. The president claims national security "is my central responsibility." Others would put cities, inflation, environment, welfare, budget-balancing in that spot.

—Is the budget designed to confront the nation's long-range economic problems, or is it formulated to get him re-elected?

Whether the budget was contrived with re-election being the foremost consideration probably misses the target. It will become a political document. Proponent and opponents will fight to make it so.

In fact, a presidential budget is a script for controversy and game-playing. Readers might scan it more for what they dislike than for what they support. It is an invitation to criticism, and it produces it.

Politics and economics being what they are, that is, matters of opinion rather than science, the budget battle in Congress should at least vent feelings and clear the air, and maybe produce some changes.

But lest you consider it just a big football game, to which it has been compared, please consider that what's important is not whether the players or even the president win or lose.

In this game, you the fan are the winner or loser.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Subaru of America Inc. notified the government Tuesday it is recalling 170,000 of its 1977 and 1978 model vehicles because of unsatisfactory engine operation and the possibility of the throttle valve sticking in cold weather.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said Subaru has found that the defects may occur in vehicles driven at high speed for several hours in temperatures of 20 degrees below zero.

The agency said the problems are caused by condensed water vapor drawn from the crankcase ventilation system, which freezes in the carburetor. The agency said it knew of no accidents or injuries caused by the defects.

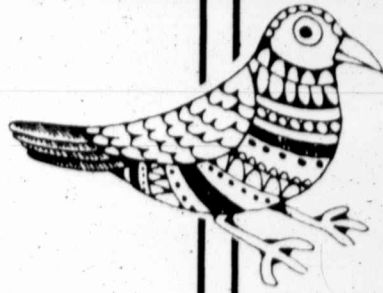

Although the problem occurs only in cold weather, Subaru said it would recall all 1977 and 1978 models to improve the affected systems.

The company said necessary parts already are available at dealers in cold weather areas and will be available in warm climates April 1. Recall letters are being sent to owners.

Basin areas gain 345 discoveries in 1978 oil, gas

The following is the third part of a three-part series of oil and gas discoveries in the Permian Basin of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico during 1978.

The first part was in Sunday's edition of The Reporter-Telegram, and the second part appeared Tuesday.

The following list extends from Tom Green County in Railroad Commission of Texas District 7-C through Southeast New Mexico.

Three hundred and forty-five new fields were opened during the year, 180 for oil production and 165 for gas production.

District 7-C accounted for 122 of the discoveries, 63 for oil and 59 for gas. In Southeast New Mexico, operators completed 68 discoveries, with 46 of them opening gas fields.
