It was a change from the night before, when raw oysters, boiled shrimp, roast beef and other "heavy hors d'oeuvres" filled tables at his five inaugural balls.

Clements appeared to make the transition well from partying to business. He arrived at his Capitol office at 9:30 a.m., after retiring around 3

"I finally looked at my watch last night and it was five minutes of 3 a.m." he told reporters during a photo session at 1 p.m. "I was in my own room (at the Sheraton Crest Inn) visiting with some other people.'

After the morning conferences, Clements strolled out of the Capitol to the cafeteria across the street.

"Sorry to be causing all this disturbance," the governor told cafeteria manager Frank Beynon as two dozen reporters and photographers invaded the dining hall with him.

Rain began falling as Clements left with three aides.

"Nuts," he muttered. The governor's Department of Pub-

Clements' first experience with the Senate was successful as the upper chamber unanimously confirmed his appointments of George Strake as secretary of state and Brig. Gen.

Firefighters prepared at airport

By GUY SULLIVAN

The possibility of a plane crash always looms for airport officials.

The city of Midland has prepared for that unpleasant possibility by stationing trained firefighters and some of the most modern firefighting equipment available at Midland Regional Airport.

Their purpose is to save the lives of passengers and crews. The newest addition to the airport fire station is a $111,185 combination

Ford chasis and Ward La France rescue and firefighting unit. That's fancy talk for a rescue fire engine.

The men of "A" shift are on duty during the course of a nine-day period, for three 24-hour shifts, with a day off in between and four days at the end of the cycle. They and two other shifts maintain a constant vigil, waiting for what everybody hopes won't happen: a plane crash and fire. Capt. Byron Pace and Larry Green. fireman-hoseman, do the rescue work on their shift, when it comes to that. Driving the modern one-man operated fire engines and spraying flame-smothering foam and water up to 150 to 200 feet are Lee Pittman and with their equipment, the men constantly prepare by polishing and maintaining the huge-engined vehicles, plus others used in their work.

Then there are the occasional airport fires to which they respond. The latest "weapon" in their antifire arsenal, the rescue fire engine, arrived last summer following a three-year wait for delivery. It's capable of carrying 300 gallons of firefighting foam, which costs $10 per gallon. That's $3,000 worth, said Pittman and Capt. Pace.

"It can spray 1,000 gallons of water or foam per minute," Pace added. The 300 gallons of foam equals the effectiveness of 6,000 gallons of water, Pittman, who's been a city fireman 'since the days when the police and firemen were the same," said the worst airport fire he can recall fighting took place Dec. 21, 1963.

On that date, a twin-engine Corvair owned by Union Oil Co. of California was making an instrument landing under adverse weather conditions, he Clayton said he was pushed into the early announcement by Rep. John Wilson, D-La Grange, who told reporters Wednesday he was running for speaker of the 1981 House.

'He certainly forced us to make some decisions. We will be seeking a fourth term. We already have 90 signed pledge cards and expect by the next day or so we will have over 100," Clayton said.

The speaker is elected by the House, and it takes a majority — 76 votes if all members are present - to Wilson said nobody should serve more than two terms, and Clayton started his third one Jan. 9.

Pol Pot's ambassador to Laos, Sam San, arrived in Bangkok en route to Peking and told reporters 4,000 Russian advisers are operating with the Vietnamese invasion force in Cambodia. He claimed to have photographs to support the claim, but he did not show them.

Pol Pot's government is reported to have had 20,000 Chinese military and against the Vietnamese and the Cambodian Communist government they installed in Phnom Penh on Jan. 7.

The Philippine report said the guerrillas could draw arms and ammunition from "stockpiles built up in secluded areas in anticipation of the anti-Pol Pot offensive."

Vietnam sent an estimated 100,000 troops driving into Cambodia on three fronts after a three)year border war with the Khmer Rouge Communists who took control of Cambodia in 1975.

Commuters in Bay Area facing delays after BART train fire

OAKLAND (AP) - Tens of thousands of commusters faced delays today after a Bay Area Rapid Transit train caught fire while whizzing through a tunnel under San Francisco Bay, leaving one firefighter dead and 32 persons hospitalized

Investigators were poking through the charred remains of the train and a blackened strip of track for clues to the fire, the most serious incident in BART's 61/2 years of operation.

All of those hospitalized suffered from smoke inhalation. Most were firefighters who battled the blaze for 11/2 hours Wednesday night inside the 3.6-mile tunnel known as "the Tube.

BART officials said they had no idea what caused the fire.

MMH may have to use tax funds

Midland Memorial Hospital may have to take its first dip into tax funds collected by the hospital district this month, trustees were told at their meeting Wenesday.

While operating losses were expected and provided for in the budget, the $263,000 loss for the past three months was some $49,000 more than budgeted, according to John Grimland, chairman of the trustees finance

Tax money to be used was collected for the hospital operating cost, he

Losses were caused primarily by bad debts and the $35,000 per month transferred from the operating budget and the equipment purchase budget to fund depreciation, Grimland

Another cost for operating losses has been the delay in the opening of the north wing of the hospital. Delays in the arrival of some equipment has put off the opening from October to late next week.

Meanwhile, the wing has been heated. cooled, lighted and staffed while it has produced no revenue for the hospital, according to Jerry Campbell, assistant hospital administrator.

In other business, Tevis Herd was elected president of the Board of Trustees. Outgoing president Mickey Cappadonna will serve as vice president, and Grimland was elected secrtary of the board.

Trustees agreed to pay printing costs for emergency room brochures suggested by the Citizens Advisory Committee. The explanations of emergency room procedures and costs, printed in both English and Spanish, will be mailed in gas bills as a service provided by Pioneer Natural Gas, committee members said.

Hospital Administrator Wayne Ulrich announced the retirement of two longtime hospital employees. Gwendolyn McKay, director of nurses, will retire April 15 after 20 years with the hospital. Comptroller Margaret Wright will retire Feb. 2 after 22 years.

Fire strikes London office building

LONDON (AP) - A major fire roared through an office building in the heart of London today, and police said a number of people were not accounted for.

The fire was in Villiers House, a large office block in the Strand. The building is a block from Charing Cross Station and near Trafalgar Square, one of the British capital's busiest hubs,

The Strand was closed to traffic as firemen used more than 20 pumps to fight the blaze. Police said they feared some people might be trapped inside the building

'Special visitors' or not, group savors occasion

AUSTIN - "We're very unorganized, but strangely enough it'll work out fine," informally appointed group leader Charles Priddy told assembled Repubicans before the inaugural ball.

Approximately 35 Midland Republicans had joined forces to take in the festivities surrounding the inauguration of Gov. William P. Clements. They joined about that many more who had come down to Austin earlier for the same purpose.

Actually, there was a good deal of organization in the group arriving Tuesday, but Priddy was right about everything turning out all right. For one thing, it was a happy day for Republicans who never expected to be on the winning side at an inaugural. "I've waited 105 years to go to one," said Mary Ann Yeager.' "My cup runneth over," was the mood of Jno. P. Butler.

The group arrived in part of the armada of private planes which descended on the city for the occasion.

They traveled around the city by chartered bus, complete with bartender. And, if anyone failed to have a good time, they didn't show it. Passing by the Capitol someone in the back of the bus noticed what appeared to be smoke coming from in front of that structure. 'The Democrats are burning the Capitol," he cried.

"I bet there's more bomb threats today than ever - poor losers," said another voice from the back. When slow restaurant service stymied those who had wanted to view the parade, they went to the Driscoll Hotel and Scholtz' Garden instead. At Scholtz' Betsy Dwyer reminisced about her days as an undergraduate at The University of Texas, and one of her suitors was "Benny" Bentsen, now better known as U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

But Mrs. Dwyer has been happily married to her husband, Ed, for almost 35 years, she added.

Some of them never intended to go to the parade, which one man described as "1,300 junior high school and high school bands and the Kilgore Rangerettes.

For those who had expected to and missed it, there was an impromptu private show from a group of giggling high school majorettes, which met with applause from the Midlanders. At the swearing-in ceremonies themselves, a press platform bedecked with bunting obstructed the group's view of the action, but nobody

Mrs. Dwyer cadged a "special visitor" ribbon and got into the section of chairs reserved for those with that designation. "I'm the only one who got to see it," she said later. She reported to the rest of the group

Midland's Republican delegation whoops it up at inauguration festival

AUSTIN - Dozens of Midland Republicans descended on Austin this week to claim the victory they won in November.

The occasion was the inauguration of William P. Clements, the first Republican governor in 105 years. And the Midland delegation made the most of the occasion.

"I've never seen so many Republicans. I didn't know there were so many." commented oil man Earle M. Craig Jr. at the Inaugural Gala. Midlanders were grouped with party-goers from the rest of West Texas and Dallas at the largest of three black-tie dances to mark the changing of the governorship

Midland Republican Jim Lacy lost his bid to become a member of the Railroad Commission, but he was celebrating Clements' victory all the

On the commissioner's job, Lacy said, "I saw my opponent (Commissioner John Poerner, a Democrat) the other day. He said, 'You haven't been down to see me." Lacy said he assured Poerner he would indeed be by Lacy also came up with probably the worst pun of the day: "It doesn't matter whether the sun is shining or not. It's still 'in-Clements' weather." The pun met with groans from his listeners.

Lacy and his wife, Juandelle, were much in evidence on the dance

George W. Bush, another defeated Republican, and his wife, Laura, also were on hand, shaking hands and visiting with old friends from other parts of the state.

Bush was the Republican nominee for the 19th Congressional District seat won by Democrat Kent Hance. "Hooray!" was the only comment of beaming Midland County Commissioner Win Brown, who was Clements' West Texas coordinator during the Midland Rep. Tom Craddick, a Republican, wandered through the crowd at the ball. "It's gone well so far," said Craddick of the legislative session which began last week. "We haven't done anything. House committees were scheduled to be appointed today, Craddick added, allowing business in that body to get into full swing. State Sen. Pete Snelson of Midland, a Democrat, braved the Republican onslaught to attend the gala. "We're outnumbered, no question. But it's kind of fun anyway," he laughed.

However Republican and official the occasion, mostly it was a party, and one that got off to a slow start at that.

Early in the evening, one Midlander was heard to remark, "We're in a room full of people we don't even know; the governor's not here, and we're ready for it to liven up.'

But by 10 o'clock, the entire floor of The University of Texas Special Events Center - site of Longhorn home basketball games - was a teeming mass of table-hopping and wandering folks, interspersed with waiters bearing trays of drinks.

Handshakes and hugs were the order of the day, as were jabs at the Midland school Trustee Marshall McCrea said the best part of the evening was meeting friends he hadn't seen in years. "Isn't this a blast?" asked Fran Hende son, who commented it was the best-organized party of its size she had ever seen.

When they arrived, some of the Midland group had planned to switch at mid-evening to the the Driscoll. But by the scheduled time, most decided to stick with the Special Events Center and await the governor's arrival. The governor's party, which included Lt. Gov. Not surprisingly, Clements' arrival brought forth a standing ovation. After brief remarks from Clements, Hobby and Mrs. Clements, the lights went up and the Midlanders began filing out, stopping first to get their that Lt. Gov. William Hobby's suit definitely was too tight.

Actually, the entire party was entitled to the ribbons, but that word from the Inaugural Committee came so late that it had to take the form of a message left at the hotel.

And a delay in landing clearance, caused by fog and the number of planes, changed the schedule so the bus went directly to the inauguration instead of the hotel first.

But when Priddy expressed his view that they had more fun without being "special visitors" and thus free to "wander in and out," no one argued.

Iran seeks peace with Khomaini

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - The new Iranian government sent an envoy today to seek peace with Ayatullah Khomaini, its most dangerous enemy, as six to 20 persons were reported killed in the second day of clashes between demonstrators and soldiers loval to Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Jalal Tehrani, head of the Regency Council standing in for the shah during his forced vacation abroad, was to meet on Friday in Paris with the religious leader heading the opposition to the shah and the government he left behind him, the sources said.

Another source reported former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark has been meeting for more than a week in Tehran with members of the National Front, the chief political opponents of the shah and Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar. Clark, a Democrat, was reported on an "unofficial, private" visit, and there was speculation he was trying to establish contact between the Carter administration and the shah's foes.

Military sources said troops opened fire today on anti-shah demonstrators in Dezful, 60 miles north of the oil city of Ahwaz. They reported six persons killed and more than a dozen wounded, but other sources reported 20 killed.

Radio Tehran said the demonstrators attacked several officers' families, and soldiers came to the rescue and opened fire.

Thirty persons were reported killed Wednesday in Ahwaz when loyalist troops fired on tens of thousands of demonstrators jubilant over the shah's departure from Iran the day before. More violence was feared Friday, when Khomaini has called for peaceful demonstrations in honor of the 7th century founder of the Shiite Moslem sect.

Army sources also reported that Kurdish tribesmen attacked an army post at Gourish, on the Iraqi border, killed two of the post's five soldiers and wounded two, then surrounded the post. The shah supported the Kurds in their rebellion against the government of Iraq until 1974, when he and the radical Iraqis patched up their differences.

No easing of Iran's political and economic crisis appeared in sight despite an appeal from President Carter to Khomaini to give Bakhtiar's government a

Carter taking softer stance on Khomaini

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter, who just a month ago chastized Iranian exile leader Ayatullah Khomaini for encouraging "bloodbaths and violence," is now taking a much more conciliatory view of the Moslem chieftain.

At a news conference Wednesday, Carter depicted Khomaini as a deeply religious man and made no mention of his year-long struggle to depose the Shah of Iran. Instead, Carter appealed to Khomaini to give Iran's new civilian government "a chance to

Carter's changed tone appeared to reflect an appreciation of the extraordinary popularity Khomaini commands in Iran despite his 15 years in

Some officials believe that no Iranian government can survive without Khomaini's backing. They say the new civilian government headed by Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar may not survive because of Khomaini's vigorous opposition to it.

Khomaini contends the Bakhtiar government is tainted since it was authorized by the shah. He said Tuesday the shah's departure from Iran was only a "first step" toward the establishment of an Islamic Khomaini is expected to announce a provisional government in a few days which he hopes will replace the 12-day-old Bakhtiar government.

Nonetheless, Carter called on Khomaini to join some other anti-shah political and religious leaders in support of Bakhtiar.

Stock veteran forecasts Dow at 1,500-2,000

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - Arnold Bernhard, builder of the nation's largest stock advisory firm, survivor of 47 years of economic boom and bust, esteemed by colleagues, admired by subscribers, at 77 risks it

"I think the Dow Jones industrial average will be between 1500 and 2000 in the foreseeable future." said the patriarch, a precise gentleman who places 'foreseeable" in the year 1982 - maybe 1983. In his voice there was no uncertainty. As the master of objective, fundamental, quantitative analysis, as contrasted to analyses based on opinion and other subjective criteria, he was sure of his ground. In fact, he repeated the forecast over and over again in the next month, including it in an address in December at New York University, when the Dow was around 800 points, and recession warnings abounded. There was no wavering, as there hadn't been since he first made the forecast in December 1974 at the University of California, Los Angeles. The only change, he said, was to "stretch it a year or two." But it was coming, he said, and he was staking a reputation built slowly through the Great Depression, when he founded Arnold Bernhard & Co., whose chief service is the Value Line Investment Survey. Why is Bernhard so certain? Because, he says, 1500 to 2000 points on the Dow would be "normal." Based on various mathematical criteria the Value Line has developed, he says, prices now are out of proportion.

Consider just one, the payout ratio, he suggests. The ratio of the Dow Jones average in relation to earnings, he notes, was just 43 percent in 1978. Over a 50-year period, however, it is 59.5 percent.

Value Line relies almost totally on hard factors, such as price-earnings ratios, earnings growth and price momentum, in rating the relative attractiveness and safety of the 1,700 stocks it follows. But a small judgmental factor is also worked into the regression analyses, as is an earnings "surprise factor," which weighs deviations in reported earnings from the expectations of analysts. When the computer finishes its work, every one of the stocks has a relative rating - that is, against each other — that suggests future performance and safety. A rating of "1" is best and "5" worst.

Into the highest category go 100 stocks, the very best of the universe of 1,700. In group two are 300 more, followed by 900 in group three, 300 in four, and 100 in five, the lowest ranking. Between 1965 and 1978, according to Value Line literature, stocks in category one showed a price appreciation of 1028 percent, excluding dividends, a growth many times that of the market's popular While Bernhard appears chagrined at what he feels has been little attention from the academic community, it isn't quite so. He speaks at universities. Scholars have evaluated his work.

Most important of the academic judgments is that of Professor Fischer Black of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, who holds to the widely accepted "randow walk" theory of the "totally efficient"

In his thesis, the market is efficient because stock prices always reflect their true value. Over time, he says flatly, "attempts to pick stocks that do better than others are not successful." But Black makes an exception. In a paper presented at a seminar some years ago, he espoused the theory but conceded that "the Value Line ranking system appearrs to be one of the few exceptions."

Some critics still maintain that it may be an exception because among Value line's 1,700 stocks are many smaller companies whose pricing may be less than efficient because they are less well known.

Bernhard, however, maintains that whether companies are giants or so-called second or third tier companies, they are not always efficiently priced. Bargains can be found. And, he says, he finds It took Bernhard a lot of hard work to develop his system, while simultaenously handling the growth of an organization that last year produced $5 million in before-tax profits. His first job was that of theater critic for Time magazine, the best way he knew, he says, to further his goal of becoming a director. His mother's total loss of an inheritance in the stock market changed Seeking standards to quantify the value of stocks, he studied the many relationships of prices, earnings, dividends and the like, and then launched his service with just $250 of borrowed capital. Value Line Investment Survey, a weekly, now has more than 60,000 subscribers at $295 a year. The company also reports on small stocks, options and convertibles. It manages money. It runs mutual Bernhard himself works day and night, in the office and at home, studying the relationship of fact to fact. "It is not selfless dedication," he wants you to know. "I love it. It's my life." From that life have emerged many standards of analyses, none more simple yet profound, at least in relation to stocks, than the maxim: "Facts are available. How you evaluate the facts is impor-

Hughes succeeds Mandel in office

ANNAPOLIS (AP) - Harry R. Hughes succeeded Marvin Mandel as Maryland governor Wednesday, pledging that "integrity and independence will be the hallmark of this administration." The 52-year-old, soft-spoken independent Democrat elected Nov. 7 on an anti-corruption platform became the state's 57th governor.

'We are a people who saw corruption and expelled it," said Hughes in his inaugural address. Also entering office was his running mate, Lt. Gov. Samuel Bogley of Prince Georges County.

Mandel, a 58-year-old Democrat, was not invited to the inauguration and did not attend, despite his restoration to office by last Thursday's appeals court reversal of his 1977 federal conviction for mail fraud and racketeering. Federal prosecutors have not said whether they will seek to try Mandel again on the Police probe theft of $9,500 auto

City police early today were investigating the alleged theft of a 1979 Pontiac Trans-Am, valued at $9,500, from Nickel Chrysler Plymouth at 3705 W. Wall St. at 9:30 p.m. Wednesday night.

Bob Huggins of the car dealership told police keys ordinarily are left on top of the cars in the lot so that prospective customers may test drive or look inside the autos.

Huggins said he believed the keys had been stolen Tuesday by a man who was looking at the car, according to police reports.

Another employee of the company reported seeing the car being driven in the city Wednesday night. Police located the suspect and the car. However, officers said today that there is a chance the vehicle may not have been stolen and that the car was taken off the lot by a person who wished to purchase the vehicle.

In other police activity Wednesday,

Mrs. George Ulvestad of 2805 Douglas St. reported the theft of a diamond watch and ring from her residence

Economy rolling at healthy rate, economist says

WASHINGTON (AP) - "The economy continues to roll right along at a healthy rate," government economist William Cox said after new reports of strong economic activity in the closing months of 1978.

In fact, Cox said the government might have to take new measures to "rein it in a little" if it doesn't slow down soon.

Just how fast the economy was rolling was to be documented later today in a Commerce Department report on the gross national product for the final quarter of last year. The GNP, which measures the total output of goods and services by American workers and industry, was expected to show the economy grew at a rate of 5 percent in the October-December period.

A 5 percent growth rate is enough to further reduce unemployment if it is sustained for long. The economy grew at only a 2.7 percent annual rate in the third quarter.

The government had these bullish reports on the economy Wednesday:

-Construction of houses and apartment units last year totaled 2.02 million units, up from 1.99 million a year earlier. And in December, they actually sped to an annual rate of 2.12 million, despite extraordinarily high interest rates

-Personal income of Americans increased 1.1 percent in December, the third consecutdive strong monthly gain. For the year, personal income was up 11.7 percent, exceeding the rate of inflation, which was about 9 percent.

Output of the nation's industry increased by a steady 0.6 percent in December and was up 7.7 percent for the year, compared with an increase of 5 percent in all of 1977.

-Reflecting the production gains, industrial utilization of available productive capacity was at 85.9 percent in December, the highest since June 1974.

In short, the economy at the end of the year appeared to be getting stronger, instead of starting the descent into a recession that many economists have been forecasting for

That could be a cause for worry by the administration as far as its campaign to fight inflation is concerned

Names in the news

WASHINGTON (AP) - Lillian Carter and son Jimmy are keeping Sunday's Super Bowl game all in the family

Although President Carter isn't talking, Lillian let it slip he's betting on the Dallas Cowboys. She's got the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Carter was asked after his nationally broadcast news conference Wednesday which team he favored. He would only say that he had a bet with his mother, who was there for the news conference

As Miss Lillian walked back to the White House from the Executive Office Building, a reporter called out, "I'll give you Pittsburgh and six points

She replied, "I'm already betting on Pittsburgh.

ATLANTA (AP) - Jean Young says her husband, U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young, "is basically a minister" who has chosen an international congregation.

And, she considers herself basically a teacher who is concerned with children every where.

When the offer came to chair the national commission of the United Nation's 1979 Year of the Child, Mrs. Young said she "almost jumped at it.

"Only 70 percent of children have been immunized in this country," she said. "Ten million children have not received any medical care and half of the children under age 12 have never seen a dentist. And there are the runaways, vulnerable to prostitution and crime

The Chinese have invited the symphony and its principal conductor to play concerts in Peking and Shanghai in March and help train Chinese musicians in playing Western music, a symphony spokesman said.

NEW YORK (AP) - Nelson A. Rockefeller says selling quality reproductions of works from his private art collection can be compared with buying recordings of a Beethoven symphony. The former vice president and New York governor dismissed crificism that some art works were not meant to be copied by saying critics were reading intent into the artist's mind.

The Nelson Rockefeller Collection Inc. offers pieces ranging in price from $65 for a copy of a Chinese Export tea stand to $7,500 for a copy of a Rodin sculpture.

The collection also offers Cibachrome reproductions - a process which is said to give the truest color and least fading of some of Rockefeller's paintings, including Picasso's "Girl with Mandolin" priced at $850.

Rockefeller told a news conference that while a Cibachrome reproduction might convey 60 percent of a painting's aesthetic quality, a new process offered '80 to 90 percent.

In the new process, being done at Courtenay Studio Ltd. in Perth, Scotland, a Cibachrome reproduction is attached to canvas and an artisan then brushes a translucent resin over the reproduction to create an impasto that copies the original brush

"I think it's very exciting, and I think about five years from now, this is going to be just as accepted as Beethoven's symphony on a recording to be played in your home," he said.

Road weight enforcement situation needs watching

By GUY SULLIVAN R-T Staff Writer

Driving 55 miles per hour may take a little longer, but it saves fuel and lives in Texas - and that should be important to everyone, contends Joe E. Milner of Austin, chief of traffic law enforcement for the Texas Department of Public Safety.

Milner spoke during a luncheon meeting of the Downtown Lions Club in Midland Hilton.

Between folksy jokes and stories the lawman said, "Texas is in compliance with enforcement of this federal 55 mph law.

However, Milner said the enforcements of speed and highway weight limits must be watched constantly.

He complained of the state receiving a warning letter from the federal government about the weight enforcement situation. "It was asinine," re-called Milner. "Because we do have one of the finest weight enforcement programs around.

He said once a congressional committee was discussing a highway fund and the secretary of transportation was asked what states were not in compliance with the weight enforcement. "Texas ended up on the list after the secretary's staff stayed up all night figuring out how to answer the question," he speculated.

"It scares you sometimes when you learn some of the rules we live by.' declared Milner

He cited the situation in Iran as another example. "Most people don't realize what a terrible thing has happened to this country as a result of that situation. Right now 40 percent of the nation's fuel is imported.

He said Gov. William P. Clements was ushered into office Tuesday amidst some of the tightest security in years because lawmen suspected Iranian students might demonstrate.

"Our governor has a business with wide interest in Iran and that was published recently. But we never had a problem, and those Iranian students missed an opportunity to get nationally televised publicity," said the trooper, who put in a 16-hour Tuesday for security surrounding the capital

Back on the 55 mph limit, he said 91 percent of Texans approve of it, at least on an interstate basis. But he said, only 56 percent of the people want to clamp down and really enforce it. Another 50 percent would rather it be ignored, according to some

Nationally, he said, about 80 percent of Americans approve of the 55 mph limit. 'People recognize it as a federal law and it's been shown to decrease deaths and fuel consumption. It's defnitely a factor in-saving lives in Texas," Milner said.

In the Lone Star state, there are at least 9 million drivers, he added. "Texas drivers are increasing at rate of 1,000 net each day or a million every four years. Why, each day in Harris County between the time the sun comes up and the time it goes down, 401 more vehicles become registered," said Milner.

Asked the best way to slow down fast drivers, Milner replied, "Probably another Arab oil embargo.

He claimed the 55 mph speed limit has been "successful" in saving lives but not that much for energy. "It hasn't kept down highway speeds that much," he admitted.

In fact, Milner said, in 1972-73 the average speed in Texas was 72 mph, and it dropped only to 66 mph here in 1976-77. "To a certain extent it has kept down speed and numbers of deaths," he said.

Miss Lillian sometimes differs with children

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's 80-year-old mother, Miss Lillian, says she does not always agree with what her children may do.

"I have tried to raise all of my children to love their fellow man,' she said Wednesday at the the Washington Press Club after she gave an illustrated lecture on her trip last summer to the draught-stricken areas of the Sahel region of Africa.

"After they get grown and get away from home, I can't help what they do," Mrs. Carter said. "I just hope for the best.'

She was asked about the recent behavior of her youngest son, Billy Carter, and she said she believes her son Billy is sorry if his recent remarks and actions were offensive to

Canyon stratigraphic test reports gas shows

By J.P. SMITH The Washington Post

WASHINGTON - A test well drilled in the Baltimore Canyon off the Atlantic coast has found "significant" indications of natural gas and possibly oil, government geologists said Wednesday.

The announcement by the U.S. Geological Survey follows a series of disappointing results from drilling in nearby areas of the canyon. It seems likely to have a major impact on the major oil companies' bidding for 650,-000 acres adjacent to the new find that the Interior Department is expected to offer for lease next month.

"It's definitely encouraging news. said Robert Rioux, a resource evaluation specialist with the USGS. Cautioning that it is still to early to determine whether the find could be exploited commercially, Rioux said hat the "shows" of natural gas and possible oil from the test well has forced the Geological Survey to reappraise their estimates about how much oil and gas may be in the areas that will be leased next month.

More important, for the major oil companies now exploring for oil and gas in the Baltimore Canyon, the unexpected find revives earlier hopes that there would be major finds in the area, which is about 70 miles east of Atlantic City, N.J.

"It could change the game," said one major oil company executive who asked not to be identified.

So far seven major oil companies have spent more than $97.1 million drilling wells in leased areas in the Baltimore Canyon. But there has been only one major find. Last July Texaco announced that it has found "significant reserves of natural gas" and is now testing at another well near its first find.

Last week Gulf Oil Corp. joined Mobil, Exxon, and Shell Oil Co., all of whom have capped exploratory wells drilled in the cluster of leased tracts in the canvon.

What was surprising about the discovery announced Wednesday by Geological Survey head William Menard was that it was made from a stratographic test well, drilled near but not on prospective leasing areas by private oil companies to obtain geological information.

The test well, called Baltimore Canyon B-3, was drilled by Standard Oil of California for 10 other companies that were sharing the cost of a $12.6 millon test well. Last November a similar unexpected find in a socalled "off structre" test well was made near the Tanner Banks off Southern California.

Under federal law, the Interior Department's Geological Survey must make a public announcement if oil or gas is found while drilling geological test wells.

Last Friday Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus decided to go forward with the February leases in OCS Sale 49, as the potential leasing areas is called, but has not made a public announcement vet.

Recent USGS estimates of the potential oil and gas that could be discovered in the new areas say there may be 152 million barrels of oil, and 2.5 trillion cubic feet of natural gas, which is equal to about 17 days of total U.S. oil imports and about 12 percent of U.S. annual gas consumption.

Rioux says these estimates are now being "updated" to reflect the new

Workers to vote today

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) -Texaco refinery workers will begin voting at 6 p.m. today on a tentative two-year agreement reached Wednesday between Texaco, Inc., and the Oil. Chemical and Atomic Workers.

Workers will vote tonight and again at 9 a.m. Friday on whether to ratify the proposal, which follows a national pattern set by Gulf Oil in its pact approved Jan. 11 by OCAW negotia-

Texaco offered a wage increase of 73 cents an hour across the board for the first year of the contract and a guaranteed 5 percent raise for 1980.

Texaco spokesman Larry Bingaman announced the tentative agreement at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Texaco refinery in Port Arthur. The union work force at Texaco's Port Arthur facility accounts for about half of the nation's OCAW-affiliated Texaco work force.

Company contributions to major medical benefit plans will be increased by up to $12 per month per worker for 1979 for the family, and by up to $4.50 per month per worker for individual coverage.

The accord also features a contract reopener clause, allowing for negotiations late this year on 1980 wages. major medical benefits and vacation schedules.

receive money from leasing state lands shows Texas led the nation in 1978 with approximately $370 million in oil and gas royalties, bonuses and

Armstrong prepared the survey for a meeting of the Western States Land Commissioners in Reno, Nev., on

Armstrong, chairman of the commissioners' committee on fair return for use of public lands, said Texas received nearly $261 million in oil and gas royalties from production on state-owned land last year. Also, he reported, Texas received $6,203,000 in other mineral royalties; $93,483,000 in bonuses paid by oil and gas companies to obtain leases on state lands; and $8,522,000 for oil and gas rentals of state lands. Other states with major revenues from oil and gas production on state lands are Louisiana, $201 million; Alaska, $180 million; and California, $97 million

"Our royalty income in Texas has more than quadrupled in the last five years; while royalty income in California and Louisiana is at the about the same figure as 1973," Armstrong said in a statement.

"This is a reflection not only of the increased oil and natural gas exploration in Texas and increasing gas prices, but also of our decision to raise our state royalty from 16-23 percent to 20 percent to make certain our state education system benefitted fully from the increased industry profits," he said.

Armstrong added that 1978 oil and gas revenues boosted the Permanent School Fund to $1.9 billion, "and we expect to hit the $2 billion mark next month. Income from the fund, which last fiscal year totaled $109 million. accounts for about 4 percent of the state's cost of the public school sys-

Schlesinger again Wednesday described the Iranian oil shutdown as "serious but not critical," saying that severe measures such as oil allocation or rationing will not be necessary unless the Iranian oil shutdown continues through the summer. As a result of the Iranian oil shutdown, Schlesinger told the committee, the United States has been forced to go without about 500,000 barrels of oil a day, or about 1.5 perent of total energy consumption. So far, this has been made up by drawing on inventories and could, Schlesinger said, be made up by voluntary conservation measures, if nec-

"If we had a rationing plan today.

we would be ready," Bumpers said. Schlesinger told the committee that the Ford administration had sent a plan to Congress during its last weeks in office, but that the Ford plan had been withdrawn by President Carter. Since then, the Energy Department has prepared a gasoline-rationing plan, and is expected to send it to Congress soon. During the hearings Wednesday, however, Schlesinger reiterated his position that gasoline rationing would only be "a last resort" in the event that the Iranian situation grew more severe. Sen. Peter Domenici, R-N.M., joined Jackson in saying the administration should place a higher priority on readying a strategic petroleum reserve. "I understand we are putting oil in the ground now that we can't get out.'

Domenici said last month, the Energy Department told Congress that contractors working on the oil reserves in Louisiana have yet to install pumps so oil stored there could be used in an emergency. Schlesinger told the committee that the reserve, which now contains about 70 million barrels, is running about a year behind schedule. Last year the Energy Department told Congress it hoped to have 250 million barrels stored by the end of 1978. In 1977, Carter told Congress he wanted to expand the reserve to 1 billion barrels by the early 1980s. "We expected to reach 150 million because of the Iranian situation,'

Schlesinger expressed a number of views on energy issues:

-On oil-price decontrol, which the president could announce next June, he said, "I cannot give you a definitive statement." He also said he would tell the committee by April 1 what the administration's intentions quire congressional approval, he said the administration might consider swaps with Mexico or Canada. Sen. J. Bennett Johnston, D-La., said, "I think the climate may be better on this (in Congress) than it was 18 months ago. -On Mexican oil and gas, he rei-

-On Alaskan oil swaps, which reoverdeliverability," as the domestic gas surplus is called, and only buy Mexican gas if Mexico lowers its prices. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, questioned Schlesinger's position saying that buying Mexican oil would allow the United States to use it in place of oil from the Organization of Oil Ex-

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter will pro-budget for health needs will expand Medicare payments for outpatient psychiatric services. It also includes a hefty boost in HEW's anti-smoking campaign to $22 million, up from $6 million in fiscal

It also was learned the administration will propose that Medicare be made supplemental for the working elderly who have private health plans. That would save the government $200 million.

The Carter administration also expects to save $23 million with a new program of fines levied against anyone found guilty of fraud or abuse of Medicare and Medicaid.

Total federal spending for health, including Medicare and Medicaid, would rise by more than $4 billion from the fiscal 1979 level of $49.1 billion - an 8.7 percent increase.

But the total could go higher. The administration is counting on saving $1.7 billion by imposing cost controls on hospitals, which failed to win approval in the last Congress, and another $1.7 billion through efforts to eliminate fraud, waste and abuse

The administration's proposal to stop paying chiropractors' fees for Medicare and Medicaid patients is expected to save $36 million in fiscal 1980 with all but $1 million of that in Medicare Medicare would triple to $750 its maximum annual payment for outpatient psychiatric services, and Medicare beneficiaries would be required to pay only 20 percent instead of half the psychiatrist's bill. In addition to its hospital cost containment legisla-

Speech tourney planned at Lee High School

More than 700 students from as far away as Dallas. Dalhart and Corpus Christi and Clovis, N.M., will be SELIVESTOCK POULTRY in Midland Friday and Saturday to compete in the first annual Robert E. Lee High School Invitational Speech Tournament.

The tournament has been in continuous operation for some 20 years as the Tall City Invitational

Students from 38 schools will compete in the National Forensic League qualifying meet. All NFL and UIL competition categories will be offered in the meet, from standard and cross examination debate through duet acting, humorous, dramatic, prose and poetry interpretation, extemporaneous speaking and oratory Group improvisation competition also will be offered for drama students as a non-sweepstakes event. Each of the 30 teams entered will have three minutes to prepare a five-minute impromtu presen-

All the administrative work, from recruiting the judges to setting up rounds and times, has been done by Lee High School speech students.

Judges for the competition will be area lawyers and community volunteers as well as ex-Lee High speech students home from college.

The tournament begins at 2 p.m. Friday and continues with a dance at the youth center for contestants Friday night. Saturday's competition will end with an awards presentation at 7 p.m.

Contributions for the trophies to be presented were made by Texas Electric Service Co., the Permian Corp., Midland National Bank and the First National Bank of Midland.
