Similarities surfacing in Tech area rape outbreak

By Kay Bell
Update Staff Writer

Police say that as many as three men may be terrorizing women who live near Texas Tech University and could be responsible for the "abnormally high" number of rapes and rape attempts reported in that area of Lubbock.

Detectives have investigated 14 rapes and rape attempts since the beginning of September, and many officers feel that at least six of those incidents may be related.

ALL THE WOMEN in the last few cases, police say, have lived within three blocks of each other; and in each of the six incidents, the victim's description of the suspect has been notably similar.

Each of the women, ranging in age from 18 to 21 years, described their attacker as a tall, young black man; and in half of the attacks, they said the man was wearing "jogging clothes." Additionally, police point out, the suspect reportedly threatened his victim with a knife in all of the cases.

This latest outbreak of rapes and rape attempts began Sept. 12 when a 21-year-old Tech student told police she returned to her 5th Street apartment about 11:30 p.m. and heard a noise upstairs. Thinking it was her roommate, she said, the young woman entered her roommate's bedroom and was confronted by the knife-wielding man as he came out of the closet.

JUST 24 HOURS LATER, police were summoned to an Avenue W residence, where an 18-year-old Tech student told them she had been attacked by a man who jumped on top of her and told her not to scream or he would kill her, adding that he was going to take his knife out of his pocket.

That time, however, the man did not rape his victim, but instead forced her into the bathroom where she fought off his advances, according to reports. He finally left the apartment, she said, after placing her in the bedroom closet.

On Sept. 22, another young 5th Street resident reported that she had been accosted on the parking lot outside her apartment by a man who was carrying a knife. She said he grabbed her arm and jabbed the weapon at her, but dropped the knife when she kicked him. The 19-year-old clerk told officers when he released her to search for the weapon, she began screaming and the man fled.

THE FOLLOWING MONDAY, Sept. 27, a 20-year-old waitress said she awoke when a black man began shaking her while she was asleep in her Avenue W apartment. She said the man then placed a knife at her throat and raped her. He also took $35 cash from her before leaving the apartment, she said.

A week later a 20-year-old student told officers she first saw the man who tried to rape her after he had already entered her 5th Street apartment and was standing at the foot of her bed. The victim of the Oct. 2 attack said the man placed a knife at her throat but after she started screaming, the attacker ran from the residence.

And on Oct. 5, another 5th Street renter said she felt something while she was sleeping and opened her eyes to find a knife at her throat. She said the black man first asked for money and after she told him she had none, he simply sat on top of her for about five minutes before raping her.

AND ALTHOUGH POLICE have arrested two suspects in connection with three of the incidents, women living in the "Tech ghetto" region of Lubbock still apparently are the primary victims of rapists.

Police say that the recent rapes in that area may have prompted a "copy-cat" rapist who also is wearing tennis shoes and other jogging attire and using a knife to try to coerce his unwilling partners.

But, police add, the residents of that area, which holds a notoriously high crime rate, may be the primary reason for the number of rapes.

Traditionally, Texas Tech students live in the area between 4th and 19th Streets and University Avenue and Avenue Q. And those students, officers say, often are more careless when it comes to security measures.

IN ONE OF THE RAPE attempts, the victim told officers she had left her front door open because she was not sure her roommate, who was out at the time of the attack, had taken her keys with her.

And in two of the rapes, the assailant entered the homes through unlocked windows. One woman had left her bedroom window partially open before retiring for the night, while the second victim's window earlier had been "jimmied" by her roommate who had locked herself out of the apartment.

While officers say they think the rapist or rapists must watch the potential victims to some degree because none of the women had friends visiting when they were attacked, police point out that any criminal usually "takes the easy way out."

"He probably just walks through the area after he's sure it's clear and tries every door and looks at every window until he finds one that already is open," one detective said.

IN FACT, THE 16-YEAR-OLD suspect arrested in connection with the two attempted rapes, was apprehended about 3:30 a.m. Sept. 27 after several residents spotted him prowling an area of 5th Street where the rapes reportedly had occurred.

One witness told officers she had seen the youth walking up to doorways and trying the entrances, apparently checking if they were locked.

Police point out, however, that the rapists do have one advantage in their choice of clothing.

One officer noted that even if a man matching the similar descriptions provided by the victims is stopped for questioning in the "ghetto" area, he has an almost built-in excuse because of his running clothes.

"The way it is now, you can see joggers running along almost any street at any time of the day," he said.

Last month, 23 robberies were reported to police, resulting in the loss of $2,397 in cash and property.

Convenience stores were the primary target of robbers last month, accounting for 10 of the incidents and more than $1,000 in losses.

Gulf Coast trip, excursions highlight new school courses

By Jeff South
Update Staff Writer

They may enter the class as landlubbers, but students in Lubbock's new high-school marine biology course will graduate with sea legs — thanks to the University of Texas.

As part of the Lubbock Independent School District course, students will be allowed to use research ships and other facilities at the university's Institute of Marine Science, located at Port Aransas.

Participating students will take a five-day field trip to the Gulf Coast in the spring of 1979 to apply the knowledge they learn in the classroom, said Virgil Wade, who designed the district's marine studies program.

"This will give students the opportunity to see the plants and animals they are studying in their natural environment," Wade, science consultant for the city's secondary schools, said.

MARINE BIOLOGY is one of two new courses offered by Lubbock high schools this year. The other is geology and also involves an optional field trip. Each class is a "one-quarter" course — that is, it can be completed in just one of the three quarters of the regular school term. (In the school calendar, summer is considered the fourth quarter.)

Geology classes already are in session for the first quarter. Marine biology will be offered the third quarter, in the spring.

Under state curriculum guidelines, marine biology and geology are optional courses of study, Wade said. Though they are gaining in popularity, Lubbock is among a relatively small number of school systems offering both programs, he added.

HE SAID students can learn much from the electives.

"Marine biology is the study of animal and plant life in the sea, but we plan to go a little bit further — into such related fields as oceanography," Wade said.

"As far as the animal kingdom goes, the sea is much more diverse than freshwater or land. In no other place but the ocean can you study all the major animal groups in the same environment — from one-celled protozoa through to the mammals."

Wade said the school system will set up a 55-gallon saltwater aquarium at the high schools offering marine biology. The aquariums will be stocked with live specimens of sealife obtained from the Port Aransas Institute.

IN LATE April or early May, students will travel to the University of Texas institute to "experience firsthand marine research," Wade said. He said the trip, scheduled to run Saturday through Wednesday, is optional for students and will cost them money (a price hasn't been set).

Students on the trip will have use of the university's 40-foot trawler or 80-foot research vessel, collecting and sampling apparatus, and other research facilities and tools, Wade said.

As part of the trip, the group will take a boat 10 to 15 miles out into the ocean (where water is about 100 feet deep) and — at various intervals as they return to shore — scoop up plant and animal specimens, measure the salinity of the water and perform other tests.

THAT EXCURSION, Wade said, also will yield the students their dinner. "We'll be collecting shrimp, crabs and other things to eat," he said.

On the trip, students will examine samples of plants and animals along jet-ties and in shallow coast waters, using nets and seines, for example.

The new course in geology will involve two field trips: a half-day excursion to Fluvanna, to examine different geological formations and collect fossils; and a five-day, Saturday-through-Wednesday trip in New Mexico and Big Bend National Park.

Wade said the latter trip will take students to remote parts of the Carlsbad Caverns, to Guadalupe and Big Bend national parks and to the UT-run McDonald Observatory (the geology course will touch on some astronomy).

As with marine biology, the geology field trip is optional and students will be required to bear their pay their own way.

THE NEW science courses are offered at high schools that show enough student demand, Wade said. The only schools that requested the courses this year are Coronado and Monterey. Students from other high schools may transfer to Coronado or Monterey for all or part of the school day to take the elective courses.

Wade has been organizing field trips for students for the past several years.

Stock price forecast

(c) 1978 Frederick G. Gahagan

For this week's survey we interviewed 32 security analysts who specialize in the textile industry. They were with such important firms as Brundage Story & Rose and Sun Life of Canada.

Top six textile stocks

Analysts forecast that Guilford Mills would rise by an average of 35 percent in the next six months. Burlington Industries, Collins & Aikman and Minnesota Fabrics were expected to rise by 30 percent each. Dan River and Fieldcrest Mills were forecast to rise by 28 percent each.

When asked how low textile stocks might go, analysts forecast that Minnesota Fabrics would go down by 38 percent, Dan River by 19 percent, Guilford Mills by 15 percent, Fieldcrest Mills by 14 percent and Collins & Aikman by 10 percent. On the other hand, Burlington Industries had the lowest downside risk, 9 percent, and therefore the relatively greater chance for more stable growth than Minnesota Fabrics, Dan River, Guilford Mills, Fieldcrest Mills and Collins & Aikman.

Guilford was particularly liked because of its increased profitability reflecting expanded volume, product innovation and aggressive marketing. On the other hand, analysts said Burlington Industries, the largest manufacturer of textile products, has strengthened its competitive position and has modernized its equipment. Collins & Aikman was liked because it has continued to expand its manufacturing output to include specialty products for home furnishing, apparel and industrial markets. In addition, analysts said, Collins & Aikman has improved its product line and manufacturing efficiency.

Analysts said Minnesota Fabrics continued to expand and had a new merchandising strategy that it was testing. Dan River was believed to be a possible acquisition candidate, and analysts felt that its product line was uniquely positioned to create an increased in earnings. Fieldcrest Mills was liked because of the regular improvement of its manufacturing efficiency.

Next five textile stocks

Analysts said Mt. Vernon Mills was expected to fall more than it would rise. Riegel Textile Corporation was expected to rise by 24 percent but drop by 10 percent and analysts forecast Cone Mills to rise by 23 percent and drop by 13 percent. J.P. Stevens & Co. was expected to go up by 21 percent but drop by 15 percent while Reeves Brothers could go up as much as 18 percent.

Overall, analysts believe that all textile stocks will be higher because of a generally improved textile industry outlook. In addition, analysts are saying Burlington Industries and Collins & Aikman have the lowest downside risk and good potential for gain.

Courting a disturbing trend

THE RECONVENING of the U.S. Supreme Court for its 1978-79 term provides a timely occasion to examine a disturbing trend in that tribunal's most recent proclamations on the role of the news media in this country.

The court in general and Chief Justice Warren Burger in particular appear well on their way to molding a new doctrine of press rights and responsibilities, based on two highly questionable theses:

* The unique constitutional protection afforded to the media, embodied in the First Amendment's guarantee of a free press, applies to the dissemination but not to the gathering of news;

* Notwithstanding the apparently absolute wording of the First Amendment, news-gathering organizations and their journalists merit no special status.

TRUE PROFESSIONAL journalists have never asked for special privileges that might accrue to their benefit as individuals. They have, however, sought the freedom and protection necessary to perform an often difficult and delicate job.

Justices John Paul Stevens, William J. Brennan Jr. and Lewis F. Powell succinctly articulated that concept in a dissenting opinion in one of a series of press-related cases decided by the court before it recessed last spring.

"This (First Amendment) protection," they wrote, "is not for the private benefit of those who might qualify as representatives of the 'press' but to insure that the citizens are fully informed regarding matters of public interest and importance."

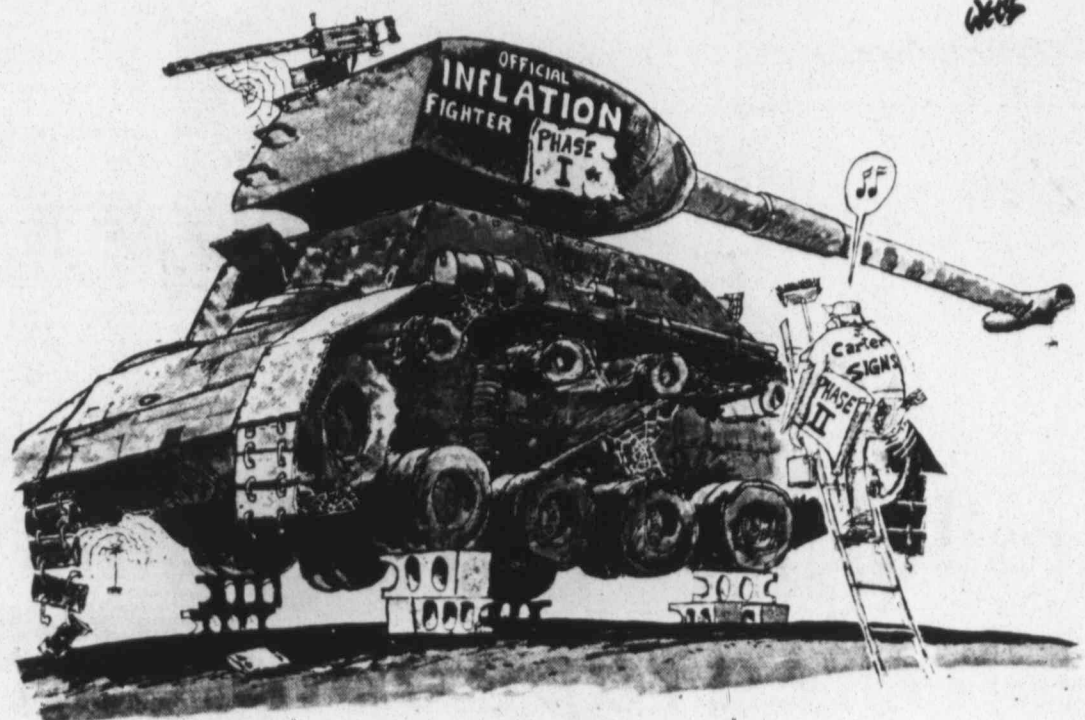

In an earlier case, a court majority described the press as "a mighty catalyst in awakening public interest in governmental affairs, exposing corruption among public officers...and generally informing the citizenry" of same.

THE COURT, however, ignored such precedents when ruling earlier this year that police officers could search newsrooms after securing a judge's signature on a warrant.

In a gratuitous concurring opinion in another case last spring, Burger insisted that the framers of the Bill of Rights never contemplated conferring special privileges or status on the institutional press.

Yet Burger's own court recognizes that reporters, acting as representatives of the public, do have special requirements. Only they are allowed to take notes during oral arguments, for example. Special assistance, such as setting aside legal briefs and court opinions, is essential of the public is to be efficiently informed of the court's work.

But continuation of a trend by Burger and colleagues to refuse to apply the same realistic standards in their opinions during the court's new term can only impede the flow of information to the public.

When Friday the 13th appears on the calendar, some people would rather hide under the covers than face the bad luck superstition promises.

Others will change directions rather than risk crossing paths with a black cat. There also are some people who believe a broken mirror is a good reason to go into seclusion for seven years.

Of course, there are some people who will walk under a ladder just to outsmart the famous superstition. And many a black cat has found a happy home despite the promise of bad luck that goes with black felines.

Lubbock residents were asked if they had any superstitions as well as any precautions they take to avoid bad luck.

Mrs. Frank Falbo noted she is not superstitious and to prove it she owns a black cat, who had a litter of black kittens on a Friday the 13th.

"I'm a student and I sure wouldn't want to take a test on Friday the 13th," explained Francy Ogle.

"I'm superstitious about the whole year of 1978," noted

Mrs. Dale Littlejohn. She added that one reason for her superstition is the fact that she and her husband are farmers.

Vicki Richmond explained she is superstitious about walking under ladders. "I've never walked under a ladder but I've seen other people walk under a ladder only to have something fall on their head," she said.

"I'm not superstitious about Friday 13th but I don't like to have a black cat walk in my path," said Maureen Austin.

Booker T. Hayden said he isn't superstitious about most things but he doesn't like to break a mirror in the car or in his pocket. "If you break a mirror in your home it doesn't really matter, but if you break it in your car or pocket bad luck follows you wherever you go," he explained.

"I don't think about superstitions much," said Karen Alley.

"I like to think I don't have any superstitions," said John Deats. "I just try to act natural when something happens and if I do have bad luck that's just the way it goes," he said.

"I never heard of a superstition," said Joe Hayden. "Furthermore, I don't care if a cat is green, yellow, blue or black, it has nothing to do with bad luck," he added.

Law students become team members

After months of preparation and hours of competition three law school students were chosen to be members of the Texas Tech University National Moot Court Team.

Kelly Utsinger, of Odessa, and Thomas J. Henry, of Erie, Pa., will compete as oralists, and W. Michael Greene, Arlington, will serve as brief writer for the team.

Twenty-eight individuals competed during September and were judged by School of Law board members, professors and Lubbock attorneys.

The Association of the Bar of the City of New York and The American College of Trial Lawyers chose the subject to be used this year.

Each team member presents arguments from both the affirmative and negative side of the national topic concerning the Federal Trade Commission's banning of television commercials that advertise products containing a certain amount of sugar.

The team will compete against teams from law schools in Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma during regional competition in Waco later this month.

If they place first, the team will continue to final competition in New York City in late January. Judges for the finals include a U.S. Supreme Court judge and other high appellate judges and legal scholars.

Winner of the case is determined by the skill of the team members and their preparation. Oral presentation constitutes 60 percent of the total score and the legal brief the remaining 40 percent.

The brief prepared by Greene early in the year is filed at the beginning of regional competition and later submitted to a committee in New York and judged again.

This week's big news is today's Showplace expansion. The popular South University theater complex will open its two new theaters today, turning the entire complex into Showplace Six. The two new theaters are both equipped to handle Dolby prints, which should come in handy once "Superman" and "The Wiz" make their arrivals this Christmas.

Midnight shows are currently the rage at the Fox and South Plains Cinema. The Fox is beginning its fourth consecutive weekend of midnight shows of "Wizards," with manager Harold Lieck stating that every showing thus far has been a sellout. Meanwhile, out at the mall, theater manager Robert Hurley said he originally expected his 10-week run of "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" to pay off in about the fourth week.

It didn't take quite that long, as the first showings last weekend played to overflow, stand-in-the-aisle, participating and very, very vocal audiences.

The South Plains Cinema will also screen "Night Of The Living Dead" at midnight tonight, to honor Friday the 13th.

The Lab Theater will open "The Killing Of Sister George" tonight, and Texas Tech University's Browning artist-in-residence William Westney will make his local debut with a piano recital tonight, also.

Once again, if anyone is not yet listed in the Take Your Pick listings, that person or organization should feel free to call 762-8844 or write Update, Box 491, Lubbock, Tex. 79408. We both need and appreciate your support.

'The Killing Of Sister George'
Drama with lesbian overtones opens tonight at Lab Theater

Acapulco Red's (3838 50th Street) — John Kirby and Perry Sanders are following up a stint at the 2001 Club in New Orleans with an engagement at this restaurant's lounge. There is no cover charge.

Chelsea Street Pub (South Plains Mall) — A band called RSVP will be singing a lot of current pop, as well as oldie but goodie Beach Boys tunes, tonight and Saturday. There's never a cover at Chelsea's.

Cold Water Country (7301 University) — Though we may get tired of writing the words "Lubbock's own Joe Ely," we never get tired of hearing that boy sing. And just when his two MCA albums make us want to hear him in person again, sure enough, here he comes. You can hear Ely tonight and Saturday by paying a $4 cover charge. The rest of the week will see the Vicki Turner Band serving as house band.

Copper Creek Mine (Monterey Shopping Center) — Joey Allen is still packing them in at this intimate nightclub. He'll be playing a mixture of hard country and Buddy Holly material tonight and Saturday. There's no cover charge.

Cotton Club (six miles outside Lubbock on Slaton Highway) — This traditional nightclub could not be contacted by press time.

Country Squire Dinner Theater (2 1/2 miles outside Loop 289 on Brownfield Highway) — The new play at this popular dinner theater is "The Rainmaker," with Bob King and Audrey Bushfield holding lead roles. Tickets are priced at $9.95 for Tuesday through Thursday performances, and at $11.95 for Friday and Saturday shows. Students may purchase tickets at the reduced price of $7.95 for Tuesday through Thursday performances. Early reservations are advised.

Depot (1801 Avenue G) — The Cats Brothers will be playing tonight and Saturday. There is no cover charge.

Fat Dawg's (2408 4th Street) — This popular drinking establishment offers movies every Sunday. The admission price is 50 cents. This Sunday will see "Patton," starring George C. Scott, screened. Call Fat Dawg's for feature times.

Hard Rock Cafe (2421-rear Broadway) — The Sphere Brothers will play tonight and Saturday; this band won the professional division in the Hard Rock's "Catch A Ring Star" contest a few months back. The cover charge is 50 cents. This open-air night-spot holds an "open stage talent night" each Tuesday, with each week's winner booked to play the following Wednesday and Thursday.

Hilton Inn (505 Avenue Q) — Carter and Hayward will be singing folk songs and top 40 tunes tonight and Saturday. Easy listening. There is no cover charge.

Hanky Tenk (4815 Avenue H) — Chuck Cusimano and Country Enough will continue to provide the live entertainment, Saturday and Monday through Thursday. Wendy K. and Good Time Country will play Sunday. The cover tonight and Saturday is $2, with the admission dropping to $1 on Sunday. No cover is collected Monday through Thursday.

Hub Club (3201 South Loop 289) — Spycy will be playing a repertoire of disco music and Barbra Streisand material (admittedly a unique combination) through Oct. 21. There is no cover collected at this nightclub, located on the second floor at South Park Inn.

Lab Theater (Texas Tech University) — The powerful drama "The Killing Of Sister George" will be staged at 8:15 p.m. tonight through Wednesday, with an additional matinee staged at 2 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are priced at $2 for the general public and $1.50 for Tech students.

Longhorn Club (3417 Avenue A) — The Eddy and Judy Jackson Show will be the featured entertainment tonight and Saturday, with Mel Way & Apple Gate coming in Sunday and Wednesday. The cover charge tonight and Saturday is $3 for couples and $2 for men arriving stag, with unescorted women admitted free. The cover charge Sunday is $2 for couples and $1 for men arriving stag, with unescorted women admitted free. No cover is collected Wednesday.

Orlando's Italian Restaurant (2402 Avenue Q) — Patrons can listen to the talented Nia Sahathi sing tonight through Sunday. There is no cover charge.

Recital Hall (Texas Tech University) — William Westney, new Browning artist-in-residence at Tech, will make his local debut with an 8:15 p.m. piano recital today. There is no admission charge.

Red Raider Nightclub (6025 Avenue A) — Management was uncertain at press time as to who would be playing tonight. Larry Trider will be on stage Saturday, with both Trider and the Maines Brothers entertaining on Sunday. The cover charge tonight was unknown at press time. Saturday's cover is $2, but the price drops to a buck on Sundays. No cover is collected when Trider plays Monday through Thursday.

Rox (2211 4th Street) — St. Elmo's Fire, always a crowd pleaser when playing in its home state of Texas, will be on stage tonight and Saturday. The cover charge will be $3.

Silver Dollar Restaurant (South Plains Mall) — The Lynn Groom Group will be playing tonight and Saturday. Groom played previously in Bugs Henderson's band, so rock and roll should be expected. The cover charge is just $1.

Steak & Ale (4646 50th Street) — Local singer Laurie Hutson will be entertaining with her easy listening music tonight and Saturday. There is no cover charge.

Stubb's Barbeque (108 East Broadway) — Richmond will be playing tonight and Saturday, with Stubb's setting the cover charge at $2. He'll also be offering $1 pitchers of beer and 50-cent sandwiches from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Waterhole Number Seven (918 50th Street) — Larry Kinzie and Country Review will be entertaining tonight through Monday, Wednesday and Thursday. Wendy K. and Good Time Country will play Tuesday. The cover charge is $2 tonight and on Saturday, and $1 on Sunday. No cover is collected on weekdays.

Westernaire (4805 Avenue Q) — Wilburn Roach will be on stage tonight, Saturday and Wednesday. Tiny Lynn takes the stage Tuesdays and Thursdays. The cover charge each night is $2.

on screen

Susan Anspach and Richard Dreyfuss renew a relationship
But mystery soon takes hold in the serio-comic 'The Big Fix'

Arnett-Benson — "Harper Valley P.T.A." Barbara Eden stars in this tacky and not-too-funny spoof based on the hit song by Tom T. Hall. Pat Paulsen co-stars. This picture will be followed next Friday by the excellent double bill of "Jason And The Argonauts" and "Sinbad And The Eye Of The Tiger," both boasting special effects by the talented Ray Harryhausen.

Backstage I — "Baker's Hawk." This Doty-Dayton release is by no means a new picture, but it is family product which has never before played Lubbock. T.H. Montgomery is the child who makes a pet out of a hawk in the late 1800s, and the subplot involves such men as Burl Ives, Alan Young and Clint Walker.

Backstage II — "Emmanuelle In Bangkok." X-rated material.

Cinema I, Mall — "Interiors." I'm not sure I'd go so far as to call this drama a masterpiece, but it is definitely a work of art worthy of study. Director Woody Allen seems inspired by both playwright Eugene O'Neill and filmmaker Ingmar Bergman, and his tale of a family unit falling apart is helped considerably by Oscar worthy performances from Geraldine Page and Maureen Stapleton. Diane Keaton and Marybeth Hurt offer excellent support; in fact, there's not a bad performance in the entire film. Beware, however; this movie is a downer. Depressing subject material.

Cinema II, Mall — "National Lampoon's Animal House." This movie is so popular that theater personnel are quitting it may hang around and be a Christmas picture. John Belushi takes a break from his Not Ready For Prime Time Players stint on NBC and mugs his way through this wonderfully comic look at campus life in the '60s. The movie, often tasteless and totally lacking of redeeming social value, is nevertheless a scream. It's as funny as it is sick. So leave the kids at home and enjoy.

Cinema III, Mall — "Goin' South." I saw previews for this movie during my recent stay in New York, and I must say it looks hilarious. Jack Nicholson is the outlaw caught at the border (you'll never guess how), then saved from execution by a woman in need of a husband (slave?). John Belushi co-stars.

Cinema IV, Mall — "Fantasia." An epic achievement in animation and years ahead of its time, this is one of the finest Disney pictures in existence. My parents took me to see this film when I was a child — and I have never grown tired of repeated viewings. Call and ask whether the theater has a stereo print.

Cinemathèque — Each Wednesday evening, the Cinemathèque Film Society presents classic films on the Texas Tech University campus. Tickets may be purchased by the general public, as well as by Tech students. This week's offering is the 1928 silent German film "Pandora's Box," starring Louise Brooks and directed by G.W. Pabst. Showtime is 8 p.m. at the Center Theater and tickets cost only $1.

Cinema West — "Somebody Killed Her Husband." The first half of this movie is admittedly slow, but the latter portions are quick and witty. Farrah Fawcett-Majors hangs in there in her motion picture starring debut, though her part is anything but demanding. And Jeff Bridges gets off more than one zinger. In short, you could do a lot worse.

Fine Arts Drive-In — "In Realm Of The Senses" and "Sensuous City." X-rated material.

Fox I — "Death On The Nile." Yet another mystery based on an Agatha Christie story. John Guillermin directs this mystery which boasts an all-star cast of Peter Ustinov, David Niven, Maggie Smith, Mia Farrow, Bette Davis, George Kennedy and Olivia Hussey.

Fox II — "The Driver." Certainly filmed with high artistic intentions, the film nevertheless turns at last into one long car chase. Ryan O'Neal is the stonefaced driver of getaway cars. Bruce Dern is the cop who goes outside the law in an attempt to nail him. Dern, one of our finest actors, shouldn't have wasted his time.

Fox III — "Hooper." Nothing but sheer entertainment. Leave your brains at home and go and enjoy Burt Reynolds and friends showing us the funnier side of movie stunts. There's a new stunt every few minutes, staged by director Hal Needham, respected as one of Hollywood's finest stuntmen and remembered as the director of the phenomenally successful "Smokey And The Bandit." Co-stars include Brian Keith, Jan-Michael Vincent and Sally Field.

Fox IV — "The Boys From Brazil." Based on Ira Levin's thrilling best seller, this picture deals with cloning and a rise in Nazi power. Don't laugh; it's commercial, but compelling all the same. Gregory Peck is the infamous Nazi Joseph Mengele, and the film flows much more smoothly once we get used to his German accent. But Laurence Olivier, the supreme craftsman, should definitely win himself another Oscar nomination as the Nazi-hunting elderly Jew. Beware: the final confrontation is both frightening and extremely bloody.

Golden Horseshoe Drive-In, Front Screen — "Cinderella" and "House Of 1,000 Pleasures." Beware, parents, this is not Walt Disney material. Both of these features are rated R, and both rely on sexual innuendo for humor.

Golden Horseshoe Drive-In, Back Screen — "Scalpel" and "Maniac." For those who appreciate grade B (C plus?) horror. I haven't seen either one, but I think I can safely assure you the blood will flow.

Home Box Office — This pay television station offers movies not presently on Lubbock's big screens. Premieres are held on HBO each weekend evening, and then repeated throughout the week. Tonight will see HBO premiere Jane Fonda's "Barbarella," a space fantasy which is often funny, thanks to Roger Vadim's imagination. Miss Fonda has since panned the film as sexist. HBO will offer the double feature of "A Man Called Horse" and "Return Of A Man Called Horse" on Saturday. Then on Sunday, there will be a special with Paul Williams, Melissa Manchester and Diahann Carroll — followed by a screening of the impressive "Lion In Winter" with Peter O'Toole and Katherine Hepburn.

Lindsey — "Amuck" and "Maniac." Hmmm, sounds like the same type movies being offered at the back screen of the Golden Horseshoe. The tickets only cost $1 at the downtown Lindsey, a theater which will open two CB films next week: "Hi Ballin'" and "Breaker, Breaker."

Red Raider Drive-In — "La Vida Sigue Igual" and "La Noche Del Halcon." The former stars Julio Iglesias and the latter features David Reymosa. The Red Raider offers Spanish films every week.

Showplace I — "Up In Smoke." Attracting stupendous crowds, "Up In Smoke" is a juvenile look at the counter culture by way of 10-year-old gags and stupid plot directions. High schoolers and those younger, the ones who see pot as a brown brick road to munchie-land, may find it amusing. It was definitely not made to appeal to older crowds since, when asked if the movie would succeed, the two stars, Cheech and Chong, said, "Sure, after all, millions of people smoke dope." Still, if this movie was grass, the pusher's reputation would be ruined.

Showplace II — "Hot Lead And Cold Feet." Jim Dale is excellent in three different roles in this Disney western comedy; lovely Karen Valentine provides the romantic interest. All in all, an amusing picture.

Showplace III — "The End." Burt Reynolds proves to be an adept director, while still making us laugh from in front of the camera. He has assembled an excellent cast for this black comedy about death, but Dom DeLuise stands out and should win an Oscar nomination as best supporting actor.

Showplace IV — "The Big Fix." Richard Dreyfuss, coming off his Oscar winning performance in "The Goodbye Girl," is just as superlative in this entertaining contemporary detective picture. Loaded with humor, as well as action and surprises, the movie features Dreyfuss as Moses Wine, a gumshoe who spent the '60s in radical campus activities at Berkeley. Now he's singing "Animal Fair" to his kids, "perfecting his craft" by playing Clue and becoming more and more involved in a dangerous political game. Look for long lines as this is an excellent motion picture.

Showplace V — "Baker's Hawk." Same as Backstage I.

Showplace VI — "The Sound Of Music." This film is being re-released again across the country, and no doubt it will still attract large audiences. Julie Andrews and Christopher Plummer head the cast of this trend-setting musical hit.

Village — Same as the Arnett-Benson.

Winchester — "Goin' Coconuts." I can't tell you anything about this picture except it was financed by the Osmonds, produced by the Osmonds and stars the Osmonds. The emphasis is placed on Doony and Marie. Rated PG, the film was nevertheless given a "not suitable" rating by the Dallas review board. We're still trying to find out why.

Coming Soon — The South Plains Cinema plans to open "Midnight Express" and Robert Altman's "A Wedding" later this month. Showplace still plans to bring in "Comes A Horseman," starring James Caan, Jane Fonda and Jason Robards. And the coming weeks should see the Fox bring to town "Someone Is Killing The Great Chefs Of Europe," starring George Segal and Jacqueline Bisset; "They Went That-A-Way And That-A-Way," starring Tim Conway; and "The Wild Geese," starring Richard Harris.

Still no booking date on "Go Tell The Spartans."

Midnight Shows — The Fox Theater will hold a midnight show of "Wizards" again tonight and Saturday. The South Plains Cinema will hold a midnight show of "Night Of The Living Dead" tonight, and midnight shows of "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" and "Animal House" both tonight and Saturday.

Showplace Six will hold midnight shows tonight and Saturday for the excellent rock movie, "The Last Waltz," and its current attractions of "Up In Smoke," "The End" and "The Big Fix."

looking ahead

October 15, Jerome Mines — This bass from the Metropolitan Opera will be in concert at 7:30 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church. There is no admission charge, but officials advise reserved seat tickets be picked up in advance at the church office.

October 16, Smoak Dub — This band will be in concert at the Rox; call the club for times and prices.

October 17-18, Balcones Fault — There may have been a lot of personnel changes during the past years, but this wacky band is still pleasing large crowds with a steady mixture of humor and music. It will be making a rare Lubbock appearance at the Rox. The cover charge has not yet been determined.

October 19, Asleep At The Wheel — This popular band offers a combination of country, rock and good ole Texas swing music. It will be making yet another appearance at Cold Water Country. The cover charge will be $6.

October 20-21, Joe Ely and Delbert McCintin — Two of the best honky tonk headliners in the state will combine forces for a couple unprecedented concerts at The Rox. The cover charge has not yet been determined.

October 20-21, Timmy Vaughan & The Thunderbirds — This band has been booked at Stubb's Barbeque. The cover charge will be $2.

Romance and tragedy in Shakespeare's "Romeo And Juliet"
Tickets going fast for Texas Tech University production

October 20-28, "Romeo And Juliet" — Better hurry if you expect to get tickets (though the best seats remain available for Friday and Sunday performances). The Oct. 21, 23 and 24 shows are already sellouts, and the Oct. 26 show had tickets only on the two back rows at press time. Tickets are selling so quickly that theater officials have more students working in the box office just to handle incoming reservations.

The Texas Tech University Theater opened its doors 14 years ago with a production of Shakespeare's tragedy, "Romeo And Juliet," directed by Ron Schulz. History repeats itself. Schulz is now directing "Romeo And Juliet" again, no easy task, and swarms of drama students re-enrolled at Tech just to work on the production. It is an honor to Schulz and the Tech theater department, and promises to be a memorable theatrical event in Lubbock. Tickets are priced at $3 for adults and $2 for students.

October 22, Atlanta Rhythm Section — This band has released many a popular single and will make its first Lubbock appearance with an 8 p.m. concert in the Civic Center exhibition hall. Savoy Brown will be the front band. Tickets are priced at $6 (they'll cost an additional $1 the day of the show) and are on sale at both Flipside Records locations, B&B Music, A's Music Machine and the Music Marts in Brownfield and Levelland.

October 26, Red Steagall — This mountain of a tradition in country music will be back performing at Cold Water Country. The cover charge has not yet been determined.

October 27-28, "La Boheme" — This Puccini opera will be performed at 8 p.m. in the Civic Center theater as a joint production by Civic Lubbock and the Texas Tech Music Theater. Tech faculty soprano Emilia Simone will play Mimì, under the direction of John Gillas. Tickets are on sale at the Civic Center box office and are priced at $6, $7 and $8.

October 27-28 and November 3-4, "Annie Get Your Gun" — This popular musical will be staged by Lubbock Christian College students in the campus' Moody Auditorium. Tickets are priced at $4 for adults and $2 for students. All productions start at 8:15 p.m., with the exception of a 7 p.m. curtain on Oct. 28. Tickets are on sale at LCC.

October 28, Moe Bandy — This rodeo clown will be singing sad country tunes at the Texas Tech Rodeo in the Lubbock Coliseum. Call the Coliseum for ticket information.

November 2, Gary Stewart — This country singer will be making a return appearance at Cold Water Country. The cover charge will be $4.

November 2-3, Houston Ballet — In what should be one of the artistic highlights of the season in all of West Texas, the Houston Ballet will offer two 8:15 p.m. full length performances of "Sleeping Beauty." Early ticket purchases are advised; tickets are priced at $6, $8 and $10 for the general public, with Texas Tech University students able to buy seats in all categories at half price. All seats are reserved.

November 4, Johnny Cash — Country fans can follow up the Texas Tech homecoming game against Baylor in the afternoon with an 8:30 p.m. concert by Johnny Cash in the Civic Center exhibition hall. Gene Carter and the Tennessee Three will also appear. Tickets are priced at $6.50, $7.50 and $8.50 and can be purchased at the Civic Center box office or Hemphill-Wells.

November 10, Razy Bailey — A one-night-only appearance has been slated by Bailey for Cold Water Country. The cover charge will be $3 for men, and $1 for women.

November 10-11 and 18-19, "The Odd Couple" — The Neil Simon hit will be staged at Lubbock Theatre Centre under the direction of Pam Brown. Tickets will be priced at $4.50 for the general public and $3.50 for students.

November 10-15, "Ladies At The Alamo" — This play will be staged at the Texas Tech University Theater. Tickets will be priced at $3 for adults and $2 for students.

November 13-14, Lubbock Symphony Orchestra — The symphony, with guest cellist Yehuda Hanani, will appear at 8:15 p.m. in the Civic Center theater. Call the symphony office for ticket information.

November 17-19, Bowley and Wilson — This comical-musical duo will make a special appearance at The Rox. The cover charge has not yet been determined.

November 26, Black Sabbath — Hard rockers from the late '60s and early '70s might remember this band. Expect high decibels. Van Halen is pencilled in as the front band for this Municipal Auditorium concert. Tickets are not yet on sale.

November 30, Vince Vance & The Valiants — The '60s rock and roll, and a lot of jokes can be had for one admission charge ($4) at Cold Water Country.

December 1-6, "Who's Moppy Now?" — This play will be staged at the Lab Theater on the Texas Tech University campus. Tickets will be priced at $2 for the general public, and $1.50 for Tech students.

Cars easy targets for thieves

DALLAS (Special) — Every 32 seconds a car is stolen somewhere in the U.S. resulting in the theft of nearly one million cars annually, according to the National Auto Theft Bureau (NATB). Many of these thefts can be prevented. The enormous cost of society has been estimated to be as much as $1.6 billion, reports the NATB. In addition to the cost and the personal inconvenience, stolen cars are 200 times more likely to become involved in a serious accident. Basically there are two types of auto thieves. Amateurs usually steal a car for joyriding and then abandon it after a few hours, sometimes after stripping it of tires and accessories.

PROFESSIONALS make a living stealing cars. They account for most of the cars that are stolen and not recovered. These cars are taken to so-called "chop-shops" where they are dismantled for their major parts that don't carry identification numbers. Law enforcement authorities with help from insurance companies, trade associations, and private citizens seek out and shut down these illegal operations.

Some professional thieves steal for "customers" who want a specific model car and may even have pointed out the car desired. If you live in one of the large metropolitan areas, your car may be singled out for theft.

Can you prevent auto theft? Yes, according to a leading insurance group. You can discourage thieves by making your car more difficult to steal.

The first and most obvious precaution is to remove the key from the ignition, since convicted thieves report that keys left in the ignition accounted for nearly one in five cars they stole.

THE LAST THING a car thief wants to do is to attract attention on the job. He would be a lot more noticeable trying to jimmy a lock than seated at the wheel of a car that was already open. So one of the most effective security measures car owners can adopt is to lock their cars every time they leave them, reports the insurance company. Make sure the car doors are locked and all windows are secured even when the car is parked in your own driveway. This will discourage amateurs and cause a professional to decide it is not worth the extra time and risk to force an entry.

If you do not feel secure without a spare key, keep it with you, not in the car in one of those "secret" hiding places under the floor mat, under the seat or in the ash tray. The first thing a thief does when he gets into a car is to check the usual hiding places for a key.

Always park in populated, well lit areas. The presence of a number of people gives a thief second thoughts, since he cannot know if one of them is the owner.

PARK ONLY IN attended parking lots, if possible. Leave only the ignition key with the attendant and take your trunk key with you. Make sure that your key number does not appear on the key you leave.

Don't leave packages and valuables lying about the passenger compartment where they can be seen from the outside. Remember to stop and put these articles in the trunk before you arrive at your parking destination so no one will see you placing them there. A thief may take a car he does not want just to get his hands on such items.

Install an anti-theft device. Activated alarm systems will scare off amateur and professional thieves alike, since they don't want attention drawn to their activities.

Don't leave registration papers in the car unless it is required by law.

No single device will prevent your car from being stolen, but paying attention to all these precautions will make your car less attractive to thieves. As one metropolitan police officer has pointed out, "Motorists who ignore these simple precautions walk a lot."

Use with issue: Fireboats Have Plenty of Water

Words to review: dockside, shoreline, sometimes, firehouse. Ask the children if they can think of any other compound words. (A compound word is a combination of two words which form another word with a special meaning.) Ask the children to make compound words by adding the following words to the word fire: trap, wood, bug, cracker, fly, fighter, proof (example: firetrap). Talk about how the meaning of the word changes.

Background information: The story is that the great Chicago fire of 1871 was started when Mrs. Patrick O'Leary's cow kicked over a lighted lantern. More than 300 people lost their lives and 900,000 were left homeless.

Safety: Every family is encouraged to have an EDITH drill (Exit Drill In The Home). Discuss with your children at least two different ways to leave the house in case of fire. Make certain they know the fire department's phone number. Keep matches out of the "Strike Zone" (this is the area from one foot off the ground to your chest). This is an effort to keep them out of reach of young children.

Go over the quiz. Also discuss National School Lunch Week. Make a chart. Give each child a star if he cleans his lunch plate.

Diabetic's very strict diet pays off for entire family

By Janice Jarvis
Update Staff Writer

For some children a midafternoon snack is an extra treat to tame a growling stomach. But for Brian Malone, 7, a snack stretches beyond the rules of a balanced diet — it's a necessity.

Without a nutritional boost, Brian becomes incoherent, his speech slurs, he sweats, his eyes dilate and he often bursts into screams. When his sugar level drops, he has a diabetic reaction.

Proper eating plays an important role in the management of diabetes, explained Mrs. Barbara Malone, Brian's mother. While most of the diet Brian must follow is basically just healthy foods, it's important he eat regularly without any time variation. "If he misses a snack, he burns up sugar too quickly and without an immediate supply of sugar he could have a diabetic reaction," said Mrs. Malone. She always keeps hard candy readily available if Brian shows signs of a diabetic reaction.

WHILE HIS BODY NEEDS sugar at the onset of a diabetic reaction, Brian must limit his intake of sugar that could lead to diabetic shock. If he complains of a headache or extreme thirst, his sugar level is too high and if he doesn't get insulin he'll go into diabetic shock.

Brian must follow a constant carbohydrate diet, low in carbohydrates but high in protein. Mrs. Malone noted that the diet Brian follows is highly nutritious and is followed by the rest of the family members as well. She uses margarine instead of butter, avoids fatty meats such as bacon, and broils food instead of frying. The family also avoids convenience and fast foods.

Snacks are limited to fruit juices and crackers, although an occasional cookie is permitted. To break the monotony of the same snack every day, Mrs. Malone surprises Brian with "pops" made from fruit juices. She also cuts cheese into interesting shapes with a cookie cutter.

DESPITE THE STRICT DIET, Brian doesn't miss out on sweets occasionally. At a birthday party he may have a piece of cake, without the icing. Water or diet drinks are substituted for soft drinks.

Halloween is a difficult time, because of all the candy accumulated. Brian is allowed to eat a piece of candy during snack time only, and even then he is limited to only a small piece.

Having diabetes has not kept Brian from enjoying an active life. He plays soccer, taking an extra snack to restore the sugar level lost during exercise. "While it's important he follow the diet is also important that he does participate in a variety of activities," Mrs. Malone said.

By sticking to the diet Brian is able to enjoy an active life without suffering from the side effects of diabetes. But regulations are strict and Brian must eat and sleep on a tight schedule. "We can't sleep late, we have to eat at exactly the right time in order to maintain control," said Mrs. Malone. The hard work has paid off for Brian. Although it's annoying to leave the soccer field just to eat a snack, Brian has only been hospitalized for diabetes twice since it was first discovered five years ago.

THE STRICT DIET ALSO pays off for other family members. Mrs. Malone noted that she believes it's important for everyone in the family to learn good eating habits. Children are encouraged to drink milk instead of soft drinks, and dessert is usually fruit instead of sweets.

Brian has learned responsibility at a very early age. At age seven, Brian gives himself insulin shots twice daily. He already knows what foods are good for him and which he's better off without.

Brian must follow the diet the rest of his life, but Mrs. Malone noted the diet is really a healthy diet to live with. "A well balanced diet is good for all bodies — not just Brian's because his pancreas doesn't work," said Mrs. Malone.

APPLESAUCE CUPCAKES

1/2 cup shortening	1/2 tsp. nutmeg
1 egg	1/4 tsp. cloves, allspice and ginger
2 1/2 tsp. sugar substitute	1 cup unsweetened applesauce
1 3/4 cups sifted cake flour	2 tps. vanilla
1 tsp. baking soda	1/3 cup raisin
1/4 tsp. salt	1/3 cup walnuts (optional).
1 tsp. cinnamon

Cream shortening. Beat eggs and sugar substitute until lemon colored and add to shortening mixture. Sift dry ingredients, add shortening-egg mixture. Alternate with applesauce. Add vanilla, stir in raisins and walnuts. Bake at 375 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes. Makes 24 cupcakes.

SQUASH CASSEROLE

6 medium yellow squash
1/2 tsp. salt
1 egg, well beaten
1/2 cup lowfat milk
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1/4 cup chopped green pepper
1 cup grated cheddar or American cheese
8 soda crackers, crumbled.

Boil squash until tender, drain and mash. Mix all ingredients except 1/4 cup cheese and crackers. Pour mixture into large greased casserole pan. Sprinkle with cheese and top with crackers. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes.

For people with diabetes the casserole is equal to one meat exchange, one vegetable exchange, 1 bread exchange and one fat exchange. One serving has 90 calories.

Mobile homes showing improved design, comfort

By Tom Griess
Update Staff Writer

Living in a mobile home in the not-too-distant past was often associated with the poorer stratas of society. Skyrocketing prices for new residential homes and improved design and comfort in mobile homes have begun to challenge this attitude, as recent sales levels can attest.

According to Harry Christensen, assistant administrator of the Mobile Homes Division of the Texas Department of Labor and Standards, in Austin, is the country's largest producer of mobile homes, with 31,854 units manufactured during the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, 1978. Of the total produced, 22,335 were reported sold in the state.

This week's Consumer Update will examine several aspects of mobile home construction and installation that may be of interest to an increasing number of persons.

MOBILE HOMES can be acquired in a wide variety of sizes and prices. Judging from conversations with three prominent dealers in Lubbock, the most popular unit currently measures in the 14 by 80-foot range and is priced between $15,000 and $20,000. For those with more lavish tastes, a 28 by 80-foot home can cost as much as $40,000, while a 12 by 52 unit may cost as little as $8,000.

The sales tag will of course measure quality of construction as well as dimensions, and it is here that the buyer must be discerning.

First glance at any residence reveals the outer covering material. Until recently all mobile homes were enclosed with aluminum, but masonite, a compressed wood fiber material, is making inroads.

DUANE HARROD, sales manager of Mustang Mobile Homes in Lubbock, said masonite homes are now more popular among his buyers. He characterized his inventory as being higher than average and estimated masonite to cost $500 to $800 more per unit than aluminum. Masonite is a better insulator — warmer in winter and cooler in summer — and is more resistant to hail than aluminum, Harrod said.

Gary Henkel, manager at A-1 Mobile Homes in Lubbock, commented that aluminum will dent from heavy hail much like a car.

Fiberglass is widely used as the insulating material in mobile homes, although Henkel mentioned that cellulose, which he called more expensive, is sometimes used where fiberglass is scarce.

A minimum thickness of three inches of fiberglass is required by the Texas Manufactured Housing Association, according to Harrod, and more expensive homes often will have sidewall and floor insulation of 3½ to 4 inches. He added that a general rule of thumb calls for the ceiling to have double the insulation thickness of the sidewalls to prevent heat loss in winter.

HARROD ALSO said mobile homes can be purchased with energy-saving six-inch insulated side walls and 12 inches of insulation in the ceiling for about an additional $800.

Air conditioning is available, but only as an option, meaning more money. Henkel explained that two types of air conditioning can be installed, evaporative or refrigerated, with the evaporative system costing about $375 in the popular-sized home and the refrigerated system running about $1,200 in the same size unit.

lubbock consumer update

The evaporative system circulates outside air into the home and requires that windows be opened to allow a draft, Henkel said. The refrigerated system is more expensive, he continued, because it continually cools and recycles the interior air without depending on an outside draft.

Although it means an additional cash outlay, Harrod estimated 80 percent of his buyers request air conditioning.

AFTER BUYING a mobile home, the purchaser must then be careful that the dealer installs it with a sound foundation.

This protection is provided by the mobile home manufacturers, who require minimum spacing for foundation blocks, and the State Administrative Agency of the Texas Department of Labor and Standards, which inspects each unit after its installation to ensure that these requirements are complied with.

Concrete blocks and metal piers are commonly used foundation bases.

Harrod advocates the use of concrete blocks spaced eight feet apart from the center of the blocks. Referring to the metal supports, he said, "They say they can be used for all weights, but they can't." Especially for larger heavier homes he considers the use of concrete blocks wise.

CAROLYN HORN, general manager of Horn Mobile Homes in Lubbock, said the metal piers, which resemble tripods and are placed on a compressed wood board under the unit, are suitable for smaller homes. She added that concrete blocks are a stronger and safer method and cost approximately $50 to $60 more per home.

There is an average time lag of 60 days between the date of installation and the date of inspection of the foundation, according to Christensen. He attributed this lag to the requirement that dealers report sales to the state by the 10th of the following month.

Despite this lag, Christensen claimed the inspections generally find the homes secured adequately. Much of the credit rests with the passage of the Federal Mobile Home Construction and Safety Standards Act in June, 1976, he said.

Under this statute, the Mobile Home Program maintains three agencies, the Design Approval Primary Inspection Agency, the In-Plant Inspection Agency and the State Administrative Agency.

The first agency reviews designs of mobile homes by Texas manufacturers, said Christensen, and the second agency inspects at least one part of every mobile home under construction. Thus manufacturers are forced to exhibit more care and the finished product is less likely to possess defects, he added.

ACCORDING to Christensen, 167 complaints were received by the consumer services section of the department last year, whereas "we used to receive 600 to 700 a year."

State law requires the dealer to give to the buyer at the time of the purchase the manufacturer's instructions for the installation of the home, Christensen said. If the purchaser suspects a failure by the dealer to comply with them, "he can contact the consumer services division and we will make an investigation."

Football fever, back then

As regularly as fall, football fever descends on the South Plains as elsewhere, running rampant until the last down is done, the last cheer faded into basketball season. "When King Football Was Only A Prince," a new exhibit at The Museum of Texas Tech University, tells how it was when the Matadors rode the range for Texas Technological College in the 1920s. There was, of course, the press and the red military attire of the Matador bandsman spiced up by the seniority look of the Arena Ritas pep squad. Wandering around everywhere were fish, boy and girl types, like Slime Brown shown in his Saddle Tramp suit. Capping off the five-foot-two flapper scene was the sophisticated in red crepe, silver-tipped fur and cloche. All made the Matador grid scene as faithfully as those who follow the Red Raiders on their annual fall trek to the football stadiums of the Southwest.

Determination

Red Raiders look for a win

By Don Henry
Update, Executive Sports Editor

Godfrey Turner looked at his hand. The little finger curved in a quite unnatural direction. He held it up, and instead of the finger resting close to the next one, it was curved outward at the joint. The Tech wide receiver grinned: "Ron's been throwing pretty hard passes. My hands are getting kinda beat up." Turner was talking about his throwing mate, Ron Reeves. The two will be trying to connect on points and help Texas Tech defeat the University of New Mexico when the two teams collide Saturday night (8:30 p.m. CDT) in Albuquerque. "I dropped some the other day (in Tech's 38-9 loss to College Station)," said Turner. "Ron can throw hard, but he throws a good pass. I try to catch the ball with my hands, and I guess that's what caused this (the crooked finger)."

"Lots of times, though, I can catch the ball with my arms and my body, when it's thrown at my chest."

Turner is Tech's leading pass receiver, having latched on to 16 passes worth 296 yards and two touchdowns. And the Raiders are expected to be passing considerably Saturday against the Lobos.

With Reeves as the triggerman, Tech has thrown for 563 yards and three touchdowns this fall. That averages out to 140 yards per game, and the running phase of the offense has contributed 130 yards per contest.

Tech will go into the UNM game with a 1-3 record, all three losses coming to teams ranked in the Top Ten in the country. Tech lost to Southern Cal, Texas and the Aggies. The host Lobos, however, are 3-2, having straggled Wichita State, Nevada-Las Vegas and Wyoming while losing to Hawaii and Brigham Young.

The win over Wyoming came last weekend, as the Lobos overcame a 15-0 deficit to win 19-15.

After the Aggie game, Tech coach Rex Dockery shuffled his offensive and defensive units. Offensively, he moved up freshman Mark Olbert to starting tailback, to run alongside fullback James Hadnot.

And Don Earl, who started the Aggie game at tailback, is now working out at wide receiver.

Expected to see action at tailback this week is Mark Johnson, who was a quarterback but asked last weekend to be moved to a runningback spot. He began the week on the third unit.

Reeves, the freshman from Monterey, will continue as the No. 1 quarterback, Dockery has emphasized.

Defensively, a freshman, Alan Swann, has been promoted to the first unit at a cornerback spot, and an incoming junior college transfer, Ted Watts, has taken over at the other cornerback spot.

Injuries could insert another freshman, Lewis Washington, at a defensive end position.

"This is a game we need to win," commented coach Dockery. "We've been through four hard games (the win was over Arizona 41-26), and we need to get a win to start back into the conference race."

highlights

A couple of West Coast powers, complete strangers to each other on the football field, meet for the first time Saturday. Arizona State is a new member of the Pac-10 Conference, and in its second conference test, tangles with Southern California. The Sun Devils were destroyed a bit on their first Pac-10 venture as Washington State whipped them, 51-26.

That was their only loss, however, as they've beaten four other opponents to date. The Trojans are 4 and 0, and have thoroughly whipped the likes of Alabama, Texas Tech and Michigan State. Arizona State will be 0 and 2 in the conference after Saturday. Southern Cal is favored by sixteen points.

Our forecasting average wasn't included last week, and it could have been because we did so poorly the previous week. We did (!), but that wasn't the reason for the omission.

We failed to get the scores of so many games, it was just impossible. The crystal ball's performance the following week was more than commendable, so one week almost balanced off the other. For example, among Midwest small colleges on September 30th, we were right in 30 out of 37 games, but among small colleges in the East on September 23rd, we bungled nine games out of 24. After the first five weeks of the season (through September 30th), we picked 616 happily, 212 unhappily, and there were 16 ties. 744 was the September average.

In Houston Saturday night, the Cougars get a Southwest Conference crack at powerful Texas A&M. The Aggies are among the top five teams in the country, and they demonstrated that power against a good Texas Tech team last week. The final score, 38-9. Undeclared Houston is certainly no slouch, and they'll give A&M a real test.

Their last two wins were Florida State, a team that had been ranked 15th in the nation, and Baylor. The difference will be 21 points, and Texas A&M is favored.

Two other attention-getters will be Notre Dame-Pittsburgh and the Big Ten clash between Michigan and Michigan State. The Irish will upset Pitt by three, and the Wolverines are favored by 21 points.

The Pro Forecast

HOUSTON 23, BUFFALO 20

Oilers playing at home after road trip and battle with Raiders, improving Bills were in Jet-land. Houston would have been heavy favorite earlier in season...just 3 now.

DALLAS 27, ST. LOUIS 10

Cowboys put on real lethargic demonstration in Dallas vs Cards three weeks ago, finally winning 21-12. Cards still doing poorly in NFC East. Dallas big 17-point favorite.

ATLANTA 17, DETROIT 3

Speaking of doing poorly, Lions having all kinds of problems...beat only Tampa Bay in first five games, now in NFC Central basement...Falcons' offense moved against Giants.

OAKLAND 27, KANSAS CITY 16

Hard to believe (and almost hard to remember!) the fantastic battles these two AFC West rivals had in the past...Raiders have far out-distanced Chiefs for number of years.

LOS ANGELES 19, MINNESOTA 10

Rams pinned 35-3 trouncing on Vikings during '77 regular season...this is first chance for L.A. to pay back Vikings for last year's play-off loss in Los Angeles mud. L.A. by 9.

MIAMI 24, SAN DIEGO 20

In spite of big difference in won-lost records of these two, game is big question mark...Dolphins had Monday nite game with Bengals...Chargers playing in own back-yard...Miami?

NEW ENGLAND 20, CINCINNATI 10

Bengals another of five or six troubled clubs in NFL...finished 8-6 in '77, but lost first five games this fall...Pats in tussle with Dolphins for early AFC East lead.

NEW ORLEANS 21, SAN FRANCISCO 20

NFC West rivals who play yearly second fiddle to Rams...49ers nipped Saints twice during '77 season, both times by just three points...SF is home team, but Saints by one.

BALTIMORE 23, NEW YORK JETS 17

This year's Colts make our long-range forecasting tougher than usual...we're positive they will bust loose one of these Sundays and look like last year's AFC East champs.

PITTSBURGH 20, CLEVELAND 16

Second half of '78 doubleheader between these AFC Central title chasers...Steelers won first one in Pittsburgh 15-9 so Browns just may turn tables...until they do, Pitt.

GREEN BAY 24, SEATTLE 17

Packers starting real strong...sitting on top of NFC Central Division after playing easiest part of schedule...toughies coming up...Seahawks met Vikings last week...Pack!

NEW YORK GIANTS 21, TAMPA BAY 10

Re-match of season opener won by Giants 19-13...thru just five games Bucs already have scored half as many points as they scored all last season...Giants up by eleven points.

WASHINGTON 30, PHILADELPHIA 24

High-flying Redskins, leading NFC East, run into what was almost buzz-saw earlier in season...finally beat Eagles 35-30...Philly may buzz better in front of home crowd!

DENVER 26 CHICAGO 20

NFC Central and AFC West powers go at it in another excellent Monday nite match-up...both Bears and Broncos lost to Vikings in earlier Monday nite appearances...Denver by 6.

ROTC students get scholarships

Two ROTC students at Texas Tech University, Ronney E. Miller and Steven Woodall, received $500 Harold E. Griffith scholarships this week. Miller attended Cooper High School in Abilene. His parents now reside in Lake Charles, La. Woodall's parents are in military service in Saudi Arabia. The scholarships were endowed by Gen. Ross Ayers of Austin in honor of Griffith Ayers, a former resident was Texas Adjutant General for many years.

Dunbar coach sees room to improve despite first win

By Bob Bojackson
Update Sports Writer

Coach Van Jefferson took his time walking off the field last Thursday night. The Dunbar coach was taking his sweet time, because he wanted to enjoy his team's first victory of the season. The Panthers defeated the Lamesa Tornados 14-3 at Lowry Field. "The grass looks greener and I feel a whole lot better inside," said a happy Jefferson. The win gives Dunbar a 1-4 record. The Panthers also will get some extra time to savor the victory by having a bye this week.

MEANWHILE, all the other city schools will be in action this weekend. Tonight, Monterey hosts Pampa, Coronado will visit Carlsbad, N.M., Estacado will travel to Lamesa, Lubbock Christian High will host Abernathy, and Christ the King will entertain Abilene Christian. All contests will get under way at 7:30 p.m. except the Coronado-Carlsbad clash. That game will kickoff at 7:30 p.m. MDT. "I think the week off will help us," said Jefferson. "We need the break to help some injuries heal." One injury that concerns Jefferson is to quarterback-defensive back Daryl Green, who suffered a knee injury against Lamesa. "Daryl was hurt in the second half but played," said Jefferson. "Actually, we didn't know about the injury until the game was over."

WILL DUNBAR lose the momentum it took five games to acquire with a week off? "No, I don't think so," said Jefferson. "Even though we beat Lamesa, there are a lot of things we need to work on." Offensively, the Panther mentor points to perfecting execution. "There were times where we almost gave the game away," said Jefferson. "We lost three fumbles which could have cost us the ball game." And though the Dunbar defense only three points, Jefferson still sees room for improvement. "We're not as aggressive as I would like our defense to be," said Jefferson. "We're still making too many mistakes, which we're paying for in penalties."

BUT AFTER Jefferson revealed the bad things wrong with his club, it didn't Bad check writers DO stand out in a crowd!

In recent years a trend has been steadily growing causing many businesses to collapse and leaving many otherwise stable enterprises in near failure. Bad checks can and do result in millions of dollars in lost revenue each year. This loss affects every citizen in Lubbock. Only 30% of all returned checks are a result of bookkeeping errors on the part of the writer. 30% are deliberate criminal acts with full intent to defraud. 40% are written by people who issue the check knowing that they do not have sufficient funds, who hope to be able to deposit enough money to cover the check before it has time to go through the bank. For whatever the reason, you are taking advantage of the merchant by stealing his goods or services.

Traffic Update: STEP's goal is safety

(Editor's note: The following article is presented by the Lubbock Citizens Traffic Commission in cooperation with Update to help keep local motorists better informed on traffic-related matters.)

THE CITY Traffic Engineering Department recently installed a two-way left turn lane on Quaker Avenue between Brownfield Road and Loop 289 (South). The installation did not require the removal of the curb parking and will provide for the storage lane for traffic turning off of Quaker Avenue onto the side streets. This marked center lane creates an area of increased traffic safety and improved traffic flow without any major street reconstruction and at a minimum of cost.

A separate right-turn-only lane was installed on Quaker Avenue at 50th Street with the removal of the four-foot concrete median and remarking the approach lanes. This marking on Quaker Avenue was installed by using reflectorized buttons in conjunction with the painted traffic lanes.

MAYOR DIRK West recently announced a three-pronged program designed to reduce traffic accidents.

The city applied for — and got — a grant from the State of Texas to re-establish a Selective Traffic Enforcement Program (STEP).

The $165,000 grant will provide for nine police officers who will be assigned to traffic enforcement.

STEP is designed to reduce accident rates at highly hazardous locations by intensifying police patrol of those areas during times of proven highest accident frequency.

STEP patrols will be conducted in eight zones throughout the city and at identified hazardous locations outside those eight zones. Patrol times and locations will be varied as hazardous times and locations are redefined by periodic analysis of traffic accident statistics.

STEP's goal is to reduce traffic fatalities by 10 percent of the 1977 total of 51, the highest traffic death toll per capita of any city in the nation that year, and to reduce the total number of traffic accidents in the city by 1 percent of the 1977 figure of 10,531 during the next twelve months.

In addition, the grant will provide for a program specifically intended to apprehend drunk drivers.

If STEP's goals are met, five people will be alive who might otherwise be victims of traffic accidents.
