or this week's survey we interviewed 31 security analysts who specialize in the vatural Gas Industry. They were with such important firms as Herzfeld & Stern, Kidder, Peabody & Company, Merrill Lynch and Colonial Bank & Trust. Each security analyst was asked how high and how low he thought each stock would go in the next six months.

Top five natural gas stocks

Analysts forecast that Southern Natural Resources would rise by an average of 30 percent in the next six months. Florida Gas and Mountain Fuel Supply were each forecast to rise by 28 percent. Southern Union was expected to go up by 24 percent and Enserch was expected to rise by 23 percent

When asked how low natural gas stocks might go, analysts forecast that Enserch could go down by 12 percent, Florida Gas by 7 percent, Mountain Fuel Supply and Southern Union by 3 percent each. On the other hand, analysts forecast no drop for Southern Natural Gas. This means that analysts forecast Southern Natural Resources is likely to have more stable growth than Enserch, Florida Gas, Mountain Fuel Supply and Southern Union.

Southern Natural Resources was liked because of the improved utilization rates on offshore rigs. In addition, their natural gas pipeline system should have a moderate increase in earnings. Analysts said Florida Gas could benefit from aggressive oil and gas exploration activities which could account for an increase in earnings

On the other hand, Mountain Fuel Supply was liked because of its oil and gas exploration activity in the Rocky Mountain area and the operation of an underground storage to serve others. Enserch was said to have rapidly expanding energy related activities which would suggest some growth in earnings.

Next five stocks

Texas Eastern, a pipeline operator serving both the Eastern and Western seaboards, is expected to rise 21 percent in the next six months. The Columbia Gas System, a leading natural gas wholesaler and retailer, and Entex, a natural gas distributor, are expected to go up 20 percent each. American Natural Resources and Consolidated Natural Gas are forecast to rise 19 percent each.

Overall, analysts indicate the most natural gas stock would rise more than they would fall. Analysts said Southern Natural Resources is expected to have low down-

SHORTLY BEFORE noon Saturday, a pistol-brandishing man walked into a University Avenue clothing store and

ABOUT 12:45 p.m. Friday, a pair of robbers held up the Ryder Truck Rental and Leasing Co. at 402 30th St. and made off with about $400 cash.

Mrs. Ward said the man motioned toward the cash drawer with the weapon and told her, "Give me all your money,

After making his demand, the 44-yearold secretary said, another man came into the office wearing a ski mask. She said the second man, who was unarmed, simply stood in the office without speaking during the five-minute hold-up.

Mrs. Ward said she handed over the cash, and the pistol-weilding man ordered her into the storage room where the firm's unlocked safe was located. She said the robber checked the safe before shutting her inside the room and conferring in Spanish with his compan-

The man with the gun then opened the store room door, she said, took her car keys and the pair left the scene in Mrs. Ward's 1977 Oldsmobile. The car was found about five minutes later, according to police, in the 2900-block of Avenue G. After dropping off Mrs. Ward's car, police said the duo was thought to have left that area in a silver Chrysler Cordoba

Deaf education projects also help hearing prepare for world of work

Update Staff Writer

oo often, says Gene Reneau, deaf people are stuck in low-paying, unchallenging jobs - because they are unaware of alternative career possibilities that could better tap their talents.

As a teacher in the Lubbock Independent School District, Reneau hopes to help overcome such "under-employment" with a new vocational orientation course primarily for deaf secondary-level students.

What makes the program even more unusual, he said, is that a number of youngsters without hearing handicaps also are taking the course — sitting side-by-side with deaf classmates, learning about various job skills.

Programs like this can help all students be better able to choose what they want to do after they finish high school. And for the deaf student, that is especially important," Reneau said.

THE CAREER AWARENESS COURSE is offered at Lubbock High and O.L. Slaton Junior High through the Lubbock-based Regional Education Program for the Deaf. The regional project serves deaf students in the 20-county South Plains area, coordinator Larry Marshall said.

Marshall explained that the deaf education projects at Lubbock, Amarillo, Midland-Odessa and El Paso were chosen by the Texas Education Agency to pilot job-related classes this year. The classes got under way in Lubbock last Reneau, who last year was teaching academics to deaf youngsters at Lubbock High, said he plans to introduce his students to such occupations as business and office work, communications media, construction, homemaking, health, recreation and tourism, manufacturing, marketing and distribution, public services and transportation.

THE COURSE WILL USE classroom study and field trips to explore the skills and opportunities in each area, Reneau said. Also, students will learn how to fill out job applications, handle job interviews and keep bank accounts for their future earnings

If the program is continued in succeeding years, Reneau said he hopes to begin placing deaf students into part-time iobs in the community

Olan Rice, vocational education director for the school system, said Lubbock long has had such career awareness programs for hearing students. "But because of the communications problem, we simply haven't had people available to provide the same kind of program to youngsters who are deaf." Rice said.

This new program at O.L. Slaton and Lubbock High will help ensure that all our students are better prepared for the world of work when they graduate from high school,"

Reneau said 11 deaf students are enrolled in the career awareness course at O.L. Slaton and six deaf youngsters are taking it at Lubbock High

IN ADDITION, HE SAID, A small number of hearing students who expressed interest in learning more about job opportunities have been enrolled in the classes at both "The deaf and hearing students get along very well. This is an excellent chance for them to learn more about one another," Reneau said.

Reneau teaches the classes in "total communication" giving the lessons simultaneously in sign language and oral-

Besides teaching the secondary courses, Reneau this year is adapting for deaf students the school district's elementary-level career awareness curriculum guides.

More than 100 students are served on the South Plains through the Regional Education Program for the Deaf. Classes are offered in some outlying communities, but most of the work is done at designated schools in Lubbock.

How we see Tuesday's vote

IMPORTANT POSTS from Lubbock to Washington will be filled by Texas voters Tuesday, with the fate of nine amendments to the state constitution also hanging in the balance

Based on our study of the candidates and the issues, Update offers these comments:

-U.S. Senate: Sen. John Tower has served the state well, is regarded as one of the most influential men in the Senate, will continue to oppose wasteful government spending and will attempt to balance the federal budget. Tower gets our vote for re-election.

-Governor: Bill Clements says he is a businessman, not a politician, and that he will do all that he can to trim the fat out of the state budget. He stands for a reduction in taxes, not just a hold-the-line program.

Clements' election would move the state closer to becoming a two-party state and we think that would be healthy for everyone. We support Clements for governor

MOVING ON DOWN the ballot, Update

Lieutenant Governor: Bill Hobby has done a good job and has earned another term.

Attorney General: Mark White and Jim Baker both are well-qualified. Either would Railroad Commissioner: John Poerner.

U.S. Representative: Kent Hance is a fiscally conservative Democrat who has shown by his service in the state senate that he can effectively represent the philosophy of the folks back home

Hance has earned promotion to Congress and, as the only candidate in the race with legislative experience, can go to work immediately on the nation's pressing problems.

THE SO-CALLED "tax relief amendment" on the Tuesday ballot is a mishmash in which it's hard to tell if the good outweighs

It will, however, remove the constitutional requirement that intangibles be taxed and thus could avert a revenue crisis down the road. Homestead exemptions and farm land taxation provided for in the bill are misleading and/or questionable, but can be beneficial if enabling legislation is properly writ-

Update recommends a vote for the tax relief amendment

Other amendments on the Tuesday ballot also get our nod of approval. Some of these are mere housekeeping changes to modernize the constitution. Others, such as No. 2 giving Texas cities authority to issue revenue bonds to attract industry and create jobs. can be very helpful in keeping the state's economy strong.

Curing hay fever is a trial and error process

Seasonal sufferers from the wheezes, sneezes and watery eyes of hay fever would do well to remember a simple rule. Antihistamines treat hay fever and minor allergies; aspirin relieves pain and fever from colds and the flu

The choice between the two is often not so clear-cut, of course. Aspirin is added to many antihistamines to enable the latter to be advertised as remedies for colds, said Coke Johnston, supervisor in the Methodist Hospital pharmacy department

But assuming the primary use of the antihistamine drug is understood, which brand is then the best product for the best price?

FIRST THINGS first, the sick must learn how to heal what ails them. Pete Cash, owner of Pete Cash Pharmacy in Lubbock, said, "The therapy depends on the people. Some remedies work better on some people than others. Some don't work at all on some people. It really is a

Cash described the procedure he employs with new customers complaining of hav fever

Begin by determining if the person has high blood pressure, glaucoma, heart disease, diabetes or thyroid problems. If so, the person should only use antihistamines under the direction of a physician, Cash said.

Drying agents, which are put in some antihistamines to aid in drying the sinuses, can be particularly dangerous to persons possessing the above afflictions. An example is the popular brand Contact. Contact really does dry up the sinuses," said Cash, "but if that person has any trace of glaucoma it can really cause trouble, maybe even blindness.

THE SECOND step, assuming there are no complications, is to establish the time of day of usage of the antihistamine. If the person will be working or driving while under the effect of the drug, antihistamines causing drowsiness should be avoided. Cash noted one antihistamine in particular, pseudoethed-rine, for not causing sleepiness.

Cash then dispenses a drug to the person and awaits a report on the effectiveness of it. Some brands contain only one antihistamine, and others contain several types. Cash said he usually will first recommend a brand with one antihistamine, and if that proves ineffective he will suggest another brand with several antihistamines

This trial and error process is continued until an effective drug is discovered for each individual.

THE TYPE OF antihistamine contained in each brand is printed on the box along with the other ingredients. According to Cash, Contact contains two antihistamines, chlorcheniramine and phenylpropanolamine, and the belladonna alkaloids drying agents.

Sinutab contains phenylpropanolamine and phemyltoloxamime, two antihistamines, and also acetaminophen, the generic name for Tylenol, a painkiller and fever reducer, he said.

Dristan also contains two antihistamines, plus a painkiller and fever reducer, Cash said.

For persons wanting an antihistamine preparation without any drying agent, Harlan Cook, owner of The Medicine Man Pharmacy, mentioned Coricidin or chlortrimeton.

PRESCRIBED DRUGS for hay fever are essentially the same as over-thecounter brands in chemical composition. The difference is in concentration. "The drugs that are available (over the counter) are very similar to the ones prescribed, but they are in very weak dossaid Dennis Helbert, University Hospital director of pharmacy services. The price of antihistamine drugs is largely a result of the amount of adverising a brand receives, according to Cash. The cost of manufacturing the difterent types of antihistamine ingredients is nearly the same, and it is the advertising expense and subsequent market exposure that determines the retail price.

A FINAL consideration in selecting a brand is the age of the merchandise on the shelf, said Helbert. He said the Food and Drug Administration is now moving toward requiring all drugs to show a date of expiration. Some companies are already dating their drug products, he added, and the consumer should always check the box for this information.

The process of selecting an aspirin is very similar to that of choosing an antihistamine brand.

'Chemically, all aspirin is aspirin,' Helbert said in response to a question about high quality and low quality aspirin. He attributed the generally uniform quality of different brands of aspirin to manufacturing requirements set by the

Cook said, "As long as you get a good brand of aspirin you'll be all right," but he cautioned against cheap products that fail to dissolve in the system and thus

Vegetables create a tasty temptation

By Janice Jarvis Update Staff Writer

Vegetables can add a touch of color to an otherwise monotonous meal. A fresh salad adds texture as well as crispness to create a tasty temptation.

Too often, vegetables are the food left on the plate if they are served at all. Mrs. Bette Jo Postlewaite is a vegetable advocate who thinks they are worth making a meal of.

"One problem is people have a tendency to overcook vegetables," explained Mrs. Postlewaite. Not only does overcooking rob vegetables of valuable nutrients, but it takes away from their flavor and texture.

Vegetables should be cooked with the smallest amount of water for the shortest period of time - just until they're 'crisp-tender,' noted Mrs. Postlewaite. Frozen vegetables require an even shorter cooking time and canned foods need only be heated up.

Mrs. Postlewaite encourages people to serve fresh vegetables whenever possible. "Not only are they less expensive than frozen foods but they're tastier,"

Although some people are concerned about added chemicals in fresh vegetables, Mrs. Postlewaite noted the nutrition is still good. Food coloring added to make foods more appealing does not change the taste.

MRS. POSTLEWAITE NOTED that unusual vegetables can also round out a well-balanced diet. Artichokes, for example, are well liked by children because they are easy and fun to eat. Bean sprouts, snow peas and water chestnuts can also liven up a meal

Although some of the oriental vegetables are more expensive, when bought in small amounts and mixed with traditional dishes, they provide a food change. Mixing snow peas with English peas is a favorite for Mrs. Postlewaite and husband, Craig, a veterinarian at Reese Air Force Base.

Rather than sticking with family favorites Mrs. Postlewaite encourages cooks to provide a variety of vegetables for both flavor and nutrition.

INSTEAD OF USING A HEAD of iceberg lettuce try adding spinach, red leaf, endive or romaine to your salad. By using the outer leaves which are usually discarded from a head of lettuce, you can also get more nutrition. The darker leaves have a higher vitamin C and A content.

There is a variety of ways to make vegetables more tempting. A cheese sauce can make a vegetable more attractive. Adding bacon, onion, soy sauce, nuts, waterchestnuts, parmesan cheese, or boullion can turn a plain vegetable Turning a plain vegetable into a casserole is another way of sneaking extra nutrients into your family diet. Add cheese, milk and bread crumbs and you have the beginning of a well-balanced meal.

COLD MARINATED VEGETABLES are another alternative. Broccoli, mushrooms, artichoke hearts and green beans, cooked and marinated overnight in a special seasoning can add a new flavor to old standbys. Or turn leftovers into a vegetable delight by adding French dressing to the chilled food.

Stir-frying vegetables is another way to preserve nutrition and still get a delicious vegetable. Sauteed in butter, vegetables take on a whole new flavor. Even the most familiar vegetable can take on a new flavor when served with a different sauce. Vinegar adds a tart taste, while an orange sauce almost makes a vegetable seem like a dessert. Souffles made with vegetables can often tempt the most finicky eater. Vegetables are always more tempting when served attractively. When cooking green vegetables leave the lid off for the first few minutes of cooking for a greener product, noted Mrs. Postlewaite. MAKING VEGETABLES TEMPTING doesn't mean spending more time in the kitchen. Mrs. Postlewaite suggested cutting a tomato in half, adding melted butter and bread crumbs and then baking it for a quick and tasty vegetable. Serving delicious vegetables is often just a matter of experimenting, according to Mrs. Postlewaite. To get cooks on the right track she suggested two non-traditional ways to cook vegetable standbys. SCALLOPED CELERY

How important is your vote in the election on Tuesday, November 7?

It could make all the difference! On numberless occasions throughout history the course of the world has been changed by the margin of a single vote. But for one vote, what we know today as the United States of America might be merely a part of the fading British On September 28, 1774 the First Continental Congress, meeting in Philadelphia, debated the "Galloway Plan."

The effect of the Galloway Plan would have been to transform the American colonies into a British dominion ruled by an English type of Parliament and a Bri-

Delegate Patrick Henry of Virginia made an impassioned speech against the plan before it came to a vote that day The Galloway Plan was defeated by

The Texas Secretary of State expects a good turn-out for an off-year election in our state this year. He anticipates that 2.3 million to 2.5 million Texans will go to the polls November 7, compared to only 1.65 million in 1974, the last off-

With millions of votes being cast, it might be easy to assume that your lone vote would be lost in the shuffle, that it makes no difference whether you vote or not. That would be a mistake.

John F. Kennedy was elected president by less than one vote per precinct across the nation. One half of one percent of the votes cast in Illinois and New Jersey swung 43 electoral votes to Kennedy. Had that tiny percentage of the votes in those two states been reversed

Karen Ann Halco and Nowzar Dinyarian plan to be married Dec. 2 in St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Halco of Lubbock, and Mr. and Mrs. Esfandiar Dinyarian of Iran.

Kathleen Callaway and John Crunp Spicer plan to be married Nov. 25 in the Chapelwood Methodist Church in Houston. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Callaway, formerly of Lubbock and now of Little Rock, Ark., and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Speicer of St. Louis, Mo.

it would have been enough to throw that election into the House of Representatives for a decision.

In 1800 Thomas Jefferson was elected president over Aaron Burr by one vote in the House of Representatives, following a tie in the electoral college.

In 1824 John Quincy Adams gained the presidency by one vote when that contest was decided in the House of Repre-And in 1876 Rutherford B. Hayes was elected president over Samuel J. Tilden when a special Electoral Commission voted 8-7 in his favor. Repeatedly, throughout history, a single vote has changed the course of our civilization.

•The U.S. Senate in 1845 agreed to annex Texas by a one-vote margin; One vote cost King Charles I of England his head in 1649; •Elizabeth II is Queen of England today because some 250 years ago the British House of Commons voted in favor of the House of Hanover, 96-95;

•In 1863 the U.S. Senate twice failed to convict President Andrew Johnson in his impeachment trial by a single vote.

In 1963, a candidate for council in a Cincinnati suburb was hospitalized for an emergency appendectomy and so unable to go to the polls. He lost by one vote.

There is another story of a one-vote heartbreak that is repeated often in our nation's capital.

A member of Congress from California, the story goes, was seeking renomination and when all the votes were counted he and his opponent each had exactly 10,429 votes.

In accordance with the California state constitution the contenders drew lots in the presence of the California Secretary of State. The incumbent Congressman

Hard Work Helps Win Elections

Helping Mom Run - Jamie and Scott Schroeder blow up balloons at a fund-raising party for their mom, Congresswoman Pat Schroeder of Denver. Colo. Most candidates have fund-raisers of some kind to help pay campaign expenses.

The first Tuesday in November is FRIENDS AND FAMILY Election Day.

Candidates across the country have been working long and hard for this Campaigning is hard work.

"It's certainly not as much fun as it looks," one expert told The Mini Page.

Candidates must look wide-awake when they are sleepy and rested when they are tired. They must smile when they might want to frown. They must go to a lot of dinner meetings and eat a lot of green peas and chicken. They must answer the same questions over and over again.

But they must love it. They are out there running . . . and running hard.

Every candidate has his or her own campaign office "set-up." Those who help a candidate work long, hard hours, too. They help contact voters and raise campaign money.

Here are some of the people who might be working behind the scene to help their choice win.

Campaign manager runs the campaign, plans the strategy and gives advice to the candidate.

Finance chairperson or treasurer raises money to help pay the expenses and keeps records of the contributions.

Media buyer places the ads on TV. radio and in newspapers. This is where candidates usually spend the most money.

Press representative tries to get the candidate as much publicity as possible. His or her name must become well-known to the public.

Scheduler plans where the candidate will go and with whom he or she will meet.

general elections are held. These elections always come on even Representatives in Congress have two-year terms. They must run for election during even years. There are 439 seats up for election. This includes 435 members of the House and four non-voting delegates, one each from the District of Columbia. Guam, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Senators in Congress have sixyear terms. All of them are not elected at the same time. About one-third are elected every two years. Usually the two senators from the same state do not run for election during the same year.

Wright Elementary recently distributed books to children under the Reading is FUNdamental program. RIF is sponsored at Wright this year by the Altrusa Club. Helping with the distribution were Mrs. Wade Scott, left, and Mrs. Charles Akers. Selecting books were first-graders Mark Glenn and Monica Mendez.

RIF helps youngsters and their families improve reading skills

Thousands of children who otherwise might have few books they can call their very own are getting to select and keep their favorite paperbacks — thanks to a program called Reading is FUNdamental.

By allowing students freedom of choice and by capitalizing on their pride of ownership, RIF motivates youngsters to improve their reading skills, educa-

'Research tells us that one reason economically disadvantaged children have problems in reading is that they have few reading materials at home. In this respect, RIF is of tremendous benefit," said Ann Bacon, reading consultant for the city's low-income, Title I elementary schools.

"By helping them build up a personal library of books they really enjoy, RIF encourages children to read more. As a result, they become better read

ED CAROL BRAMLETT, library services consultant for the Lubbock Independent School Datin "The concept of putting books into students' homes is excellent. It's helping not only the students, but also their younger brothers and sisters. The entire family is reading more."

Last year RIF was offered at only three schools in Lubbook. But this year, due to increased financial contributions, book giveaways will be conducted at eight elementaries - Iles, Wright, Martin, Wolffarth, Dupre, Harwell, Boze-

Local RIF coordinator Mary Lee Franklin said the eight campuses have a combined enrollment of nearly 3,600 students. Book distributions will be held periodically throughout the school year, with each youngster choosing a total

IN ALL, ABOUT 17,800 books will be given away. The first round of book distributions was conducted last month in the libraries of the eight schools in-

Mrs. Franklin said children get 20 minutes to browse through the RIF stacks - sorted according to such topics as sports, fiction, biography, science, activities and non-fiction. After making their selections, students write their names in the books and take them home for keeps

"The students and teachers both look forward to the visits by RIF representatives. When children have books they enjoy — books that are truly their own — they show terrific enthusiasm for reading." Mrs. Franklin said. RIF is funding jointly by private donations and the federal government, she explained. Every dollar raised from private sources is matched with a dollar from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. THIS YEAR, THE SAN FRANCISCO-based national headquarters of Levi Strauss & Co., has donated $3,500 to Lubbock's RIF program, Mrs. Franklin said. This grant, when matched by HEW, is enough to fund six schools. In addition, Mrs. Franklin said, the Altrusa Club, a service organization, recently decided to sponsor RIF at Wright Elementary for the next three years. And Iles Elementary is using funds from a memorial fund that had been set up in the name of a deceased staff member. All told, the private donations amount to about $4,000 - and with the federal government's matching funds, the total being spent by RIF here this year is RIF HAS BEEN APPROVED for United Way funding for future years.

She said RIF tries to stay in each school for three consecutive years, so each child has an opportunity to acquire 15 books.

RIF was founded in 1966 by Mrs. Robert S. McNamara to provide supplementary reading materials to Washington, D.C., schools.

Since that time, 400 RIF organizations in 47 states have been established. In Lubbock, RIF's sponsor has been the Lutheran Council for Community Action. The council started RIF in 1975 at Posey Elementary, which recently completed its third and final year in the program.

First things first: yet another nightclub has pulled out all plans for live entertainment. The Copper Creek Mine has now gone the way of the Continental Room and the El Toro Club in that respect. Other clubs are not listed this week because details were not made available to Update by press time.

Getting all the bad news out of the way first, let me add that tomorrow's slated concert by Johnny Cash in the Civic Center exhibition hall has been cancelled.

The Lubbock Christian College musical production of "Annie Get Your Gun" will close this week with 8:15 p.m. performances tonight and Saturday in Moody Auditorium. This is also the last weekend to eatch "The Rainmaker" at the Country Squire Dinner Theater, as next Tuesday will see "Not With My Daughter" open there.

You should also start making plans now to purchase tickets for upcoming productions of "Ladies At The Alamo" at the University Theater and "The Odd Couple" at Lubbock Theatre Centre.

And please don't forget that the final performance of the Houston Ballet's full length production of "The Sleeping Beauty" will take place at 8:15 p.m. today in the Municipal Auditorium. Tickets are still available.

Once again, if anyone is not yet included in the Take Your Pick listings, that person or organization should call 762-8844 or write Update, Box 491, Lubbock, Tex. 79408. We both need and appreciate your support - and coopera-

Country Squire Dinner Theater (2½ miles outside Loop 289 on Brownfield Highway) — The featured attraction is "The Rainmaker" and, though it's never been my favorite play, I have to say the Country Squire crew provides a most entertaining rendition. Director and star Jack Nicholson in 'Goin South' Comedy-western featured at South Plains Cinema

on screen

Arnett-Benson - "Jaws 2." Yet another "eating machine" is swimming off Amity Bay, this time chowing down on water skiers, skin divers and a bunch of spoiled kids on a sailing regatta ... not to mention quite a bit of plywood (i.e. boats). Though the sequel makes one appreciate Steven Spielberg's sense of style in the original all the more, it still boasts quite a few scares and thrills. An adequate little suspense film heightened by another John Williams score and another great performance from Roy Scheider.

Backstage I - "Fun With Dick And Jane." White collar layoffs turn to simple robberies and on into white collar crime in this satirical comedy. Jane Fonda and George Segal provide the laughs in this uneven picture.

Backstage II - "Do You Want To Be Loved?" X-rated material.

Cinema I, Mall - "Midnight Express." This picture ranks with "Coming Home" and "Blue Collar" in my mind as the very best of the year. Certainly it is more compelling as a TRUE story of human struggle against odds. The film stars Brad Davis as Billy Hayes, a young American who foolishly tries to smuggle hashish for friends out of Turkey, gets caught and sentenced to spend his life in a Turkish prison hellhole. Though no will match Jon Voight's performance in "Coming Home" this year, Davis comes closer than one would expect. I suspect there will be several Oscar nominations awarded this film in the best picture, director, cinematography, acting and supporting acting categories. It is a film which gets beneath the viewer's skin. It is horrifyingly powerful. And it should not be missed by anyone with a strong heart.

Cinemo II, Mall - "National Lampoon's Animal House." This picture was slated to leave long ago, but how can Cinema manager Robert Hurley agree when it's still drawing sellout crowds on the weekends? John Belushi mugs wonderfully as Bluto in this onderful comic look at '60s campus life. A movie which gives new meaning to the cry,' Cinema III, Mall - "Goin' South." Director Jack Nicholson certainly likes to focus his cameras on star Jack Nicholson, perhaps a little too much. Though the first half of this picture is pretty funny, it begins to drag later on. Pacing is erratic, though the supporting performances are marvelous. Nicholson's mugging gets a bit tedious in this picture which never quite lives up to its potential.

Cinema IV, Mall — "A Wedding." Though this picture will never rival the brilliance of previous Robert Altman pictures, it may be his first in which social commentary is dominated by sheer fun. Don't go seeking messages in "A Wedding," as it is simply 48 delightfully strange characters baring family skeletons during an afternoon wedding reception. Carol Burnett may win an Oscar nomination in a supporting category.

Cinematheque - Each Wednesday evening, the Cinematheque Film Society presents classic films on the Texas Tech University campus. Tickets may be purchased by the general public, as well as by Tech students. This week's offering is the 1933 German film "Ecstasy," being shown with English subtitles. Directed by Gustav Machaty, there is brief nudity in this picture which stars Hedy Lamarr. The film will be shown at 8 p.m. in the University Theater. Tickets cost $1.

Cinemo West — "Where Time Began." Yet another in the series of sci-fi movies based on Jules Verne's novels, this film stars Kenneth Moore. I can't tell you anything more at this time

Fine Arts Drive-In - "St. Tropez Night" and "Sex Gadgeteers." X-rated material.

- "Death On The Nile." This movie is great fun, filled with wonderful per formances and an exotic look at the heated scenery of Egypt. It's a mystery, a whodun nit from an Agatha Christie story, and is directed in grand style by John Guillerman Lois Chiles is the initial victim, and the group of would-be murderers and red herrings include David Niven, Maggie Smith, Mia Farrow, Angela Lansbury, Bette Davis, George Kennedy and Olivia Hussey. Fox III -- "Hooper." Nothing but sheer entertainment. Leave your brains at home and go and enjoy Burt Reynolds and friends showing us the funnier side of movie stuntmen. There's a new stunt every few minutes, staged by director Hal Needham, respected as one of Hollywood's finest stuntmen and remembered as the director of the phe nomenally successful "Smokey And The Bandit." Co-stars include Brian Keith, Jan-Mi-

Fox IV - "The Boys From Brazil." Based on Ira Levin's thrilling best seller, this picture deals with cloning and a rise in Nazi power. Don't laugh; it's commercial, but compelling all the same. Gregory Peck is the infamous Nazi Joseph Menegele, and the film flows much more smoothly once we get used to his German accent. But Laurence Olivier, the supreme craftsman, should definitely win himself another Oscar nomination as the Nazi-hunting elderly Jew. Beware: the final confrontation is both frightening and Golden Horseshoe Drive-In, Front Screen — "Saturday Night Fever" and "Hustle." The former picture is, of course, the disco-based picture which shocked many with its street sex and language, and shocked even more by rewarding John Travolta with an Oscar nomination. Exciting, but overrated, with the picture's best performance given by Donna Pescow. "Hustle" is a detective yarn starring Burt Reynolds and Catherine Deneuve. Lots of action, a bit of love and a surprise at the end.

Golden Horseshoe Drive-In, Bock Screen — "Let's Make A Dirty Movie" and Teasers." Teasing sexploitation, though most likely softcore.

Home Box Office - This pay television station offers movies not presently on Lubbock's big screens. Premieres are held on HBO each weekend evening, and then repeated throughout the week. Tonight will see the highly touted family picture "The Sea Gypsies" screened. Look for even more family product Saturday, as HBO viewers will get the rare opportunity to view Disney's classic "Old Yeller" without cuts or commercial interruptions. And on Sunday, HBO will help us all get to sleep by screening the horrid celluloid waste titled "The Betsy."

Lindsey - "Black Hooker" and "High Yellow." You have three choices here: (1) pass it by. (2) pay a buck and find out what these two pictures have to offer or (3) wait a week and pay that same buck to see "Big Bad Mama" and "Crazy Mama" at the same

Red Roider Drive-In - "La Mabrecita" and "Cronica De Un Cobrabe." Spanish

Showplace 1 — "Up In Smoke." Attracting stupendous crowds, "Up In Smoke" is a juvenile look at the counter culture by way of 10-year-old gags and stupid plot directions. High schoolers and those younger, the ones who see pot as a brown brick road to counter the ones who see pot as a brown brick road to munchie-land, may find it amusing. It was definitely not made to appeal to older crowds since, when asked if the movie would succeed, the two stars, Cheech and Chong, said, "Sure, after all, millions of people smoke dope." Still, if this movie was grass, the pusher's reputation would be ruit

Showplace II - "Saturday Night Fever." See comments under Golden Horseshoe

Showplace III - "Count Dracula And His Vampire Bride." We don't know anything of the storyline, but it promises to be great fun as it stars two Hammer picture veterans in the great Peter Cushing and Christopher Lee. (Cushing is remembered best as Dr. Frankenstein and Lee as Dracula.) It's the perfect fare for Halloween week, and remember, there will be late shows tonight and Saturday.

Showplace IV - "The Big Fix." Richard Dreyfuss, coming off his Oscar winning performance in "The Big Fix." Richard Dreyfuss, coming out his Oscar winning performance in "The Goodbye Girl," is just as superlative in this entertaining contemporary detective picture. Loaded with humor, as well as action and surprises, the movie features Dreyfuss as Moses Wine, a gumshoe who spent the '60s in radical campus activities at Berkeley. Now he's singing "Animal Fair" to his kids, "perfecting his craft" by playing Clue and becoming more and more involved in a dangerous political game. Look for long lines as this is an excellent motion picture.

Showplace V - "Comes A Horseman." Director Alan Pakula, who has given us such fantastic efforts as "The Parallax View" and "All The President's Men," now tackles land-grabbing in the Old West. And what a cast he has to work with: Jane Fonda, James Caan and Jason Robards. Could Robards win a third consecutive supporting Oscar? Highly unlikely, but we'll be able to better tell after seeing this promising all-star

Showplace VI - "Bloodbrothers." This Robert Mulligan film has inspired critics to either love or hate. There has been no middle ground. Another family drama, this powerful picture stars Richard Gere, who is fast becoming one of film's hottest properties after his work in "Looking For Mister Goodbar" and "Days Of Heaven." More on this Village - Same as the Arnett-Benson.

Winchester - "Goin' Coconuts." I can't tell you anything about this picture except it was financed by the Osmonds, produced by the Osmonds and stars the Osmonds. The emphasis is placed on Donny and Marie.

Coming Soon — The Fox Theater plans to make two changes next Friday, bringing in "Who Is Killing The Great Chefs Of Europe?" and the war drama titled "The Wild Geese," the latter starring Richard Burton and Richard Harris. Thus this is the last weekend for "Death On The Nile" and "Hooper." The Winchester will bring back Mel Brooks' "Blazing Saddles" Nov. 17-30.

Midnight Shows - Yet another "final weekend" of midnight screenings of is slated for tonight and Saturday at the Fox Theater. And the South Plains Cinema will be screening "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" at midnight tonight and Saturday, also. Both Showplace and the South Plains Cinema also screen late shows for current attractions; call the theaters for showtimes.

Plainly wrapped, with only the words 'tomato soup,' or 'paper towels,' to distinguish them from other brands, the 'generic' product has probably caught the attention of shoppers.

Although the generic products lack some of the frills of their name brand competition, their attraction boils down to dollars and cents. The canned peaches might be blemished and the paper towels much plainer than their decorative competition, but the food meets nutritional standards set by the Food and Drug Adminstration. For some people, caught in the inflation pinch, generic products are becom-

highlights

We have a classic of a college football confrontation Saturday-just down the road in Central Pennsylvania-between undefeated Maryland and undefeated Penn State. The Terrapins and Clemson are co-leaders of the Atlantic Coast Conference, and the Nittany Lions, with 15 straight regular season wins, are clearly number one among the independents. The teams have beaten two common opponents this fall, Kentucky and Syracuse. Maryland whipped Kentucky, 20-3, while Penn State shut them out a week later, 30-0. Syracuse fell to the Terps, 24-9, and once again a week later, the Orangemen were defeated by the Lions, 45-15. In 23 meetings, Maryland has only won one game against Penn State. In meeting No. 24, we think the Nittany Lions will prevail again, but the spread is just four points.

Alabama is one of the leaders of the Southeast Conference as they usually are at this time every year. The Tide, with the exception of the loss to Southern California the third week of the season, has had most games very much its own way. Mississippi State is one of three challengers remaining on Alabama's 12978 schedule, and the Bulldogs think this could be upset-time. State started the season whipping up real storms, winning the first three games. Then they temporarily ran out of gas, running into difficulties with Florida and Southern Mississippi before impressively beating both Florida State and Tennessee in their last two games. The Mississippi State Bulldogs are only eleven point underdogs

Crystal ball analysis: it needs polishing! Through October 21st, we picked 1,049 games right out of 1,423..average, .737. Big Ten leader Purdue, Pac-10 front-runner U.C.L.A., Atlantic Coast co-leader Clemson, and Nebraska and Oklahoma, joint owners of the Big Eight top spot, are all favored to hold their conference positions through another week.

Northwestern is a big 38-point underdog to the Riveters of Purdue while Oregon will lose to the Bruins of U.C.L.A. by 21. Wake Forest is no match for Clemson..the Tigers are favored by 26. Colorado and Kansas may give the Sooners and Cornhuskers a few problems, but they'll have difficulties stopping the Big Eight leaders. Oklahoma will win by 23 and Nebraska by 29.

Rusty Talbot thinks about it, the thoughts never get old.

For the first time in three years, the Lubbock High Westerners defeated the Monterey Plainsmen 10-7 in the city's oldest rivarly. And for the first time since Talbot has been the head coach the silver spurs (the symbolic award that goes to the victor) returned to the Lubwhy Talbot has felt so good all week. Actually, two plays have made it possible for Talbot to sleep easier.

After a scoreless first half, the Westerners broke the ice in the third quarter with a touchdown.

into reality, the Lubbock High coach admits that his team was guilty of mis-defense. Our offense gave them the ball all night long. But the defense would not let them in. They just played great." For two weeks prior to the contest, the major topic of conversation around Lubbock High was regainning the silver

bot. "Gosh, I can't recall how many exes wished us luck." But now that the Westerners have beaten the Plainsmen, not only has Lubbock High to display the silver spurs for a year, but also the Westerners are back in the 4-AAAA race.

"We feel that beating Monterey gives us a a definite shot at the district title," said Talbot. "The confidence the victory gave our kids is invaluable.

New scenes junior editor's quiz to greet Tech grads

By Don Henry Update Executive Sports Editor

For the old grads who wander into Jones Stadium Saturday, there'll be a new building going up on the north end of the arena.

There will be a new head coach on the scene since last year's homecoming There is a new quarterback, a new full-back, new tailback, a new punter and several new names on the roster. But, the challenge is not new.

Tech will tackle Baylor University's rejuvenated Bears in the annual homecoming football contest Saturday, and both teams will be trying to pull themselves up the Southwest Conference ladder. For both, the season started out on losing notes but has improved drastically the past few weeks. And this improvement in outlook is partially responsible for the anticipated crowd in excess of 50,000 for the 2 p.m.

The Bears, who have given Tech plenty of trouble in Jones Stadium, lost five in a row but have bounced back to shock Texas A&M 24-6 then hold off TCU 28-21 last week for its second straight victory.

The Raiders stumbled three of the first four times out of the gate before regaining their stability. After dropping a 38-9 verdict to the Aggies (the week before the Bears started their comeback), Tech outscored New Mexico (36-23) and Rice (42-28) on successive weekends.

Last week, the Raiders had an open date and used it to get some of their injured troopers healthy.

"We've been improving," reported Rex Dockery, who was an assistant to head coach Steve Sloan on the last homecoming occasion. "We know Baylor has a fine club. They have a great running threat in freshman Walter Abercrombie. We know how good he is, because we tried real hard to recruit him last year."

Abercrombie came off the red-shirt roster to rush for more than 200 yards against A&M.

Tech will be working with a backfield of freshman Ron Reeves at quarterback, junior James Hadnot at fullback, and junior Mark Johnson at tailback. It's a completely new picture, too, since Reeves was guiding Monterey to the high school playoffs a year ago, Hadnot was a starting tight end, and Johnson was in the battle for the opening quarterback position.

Tech could use one of its youngest backfields since joining the Southwest Conference. The starter at tailback, along with Reeves and Hadnot, was another freshman, Phil Weatherall, for the past The veterans will be set out wide, how ever, as both wide receivers, Brian Nelson and Godfrey Turner, are seniors. And Reeves will be looking in their directions quite often, too, if the first six games of the year are indications. The two have latched onto 30 of Tech's 46 passes this year.

Hadnot has rushed for 647 yards this year, an average of 108 per game. Johnson stepped into the starting lineup at tailback this week, after playing the position less than a month. "Of course, they impress me very much," commented Baylor coach Grant Teaff concerning the Raiders, "especially their offense with Hadnot and the young quarterback. Add to that one of the best kicking games you will face and you can see why they have been impressive. After Saturday's battle, Tech will go on the road for their fourth time in five games, playing TCU in Fort Worth on hibernation

QUESTION: Why don't animals starve while hibernating?

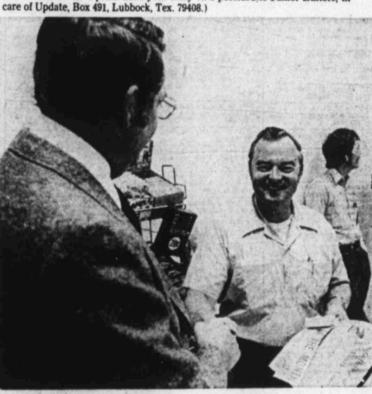

ANSWER: Most animals that hibernate (sleep) during winter do so because their normal food supply is not available during these months. Some animals prepare for hibernation by increasing their body fat reserves, while others stock up on their food supply and have it handy in their place of hibernation. Hibernating animals include bears, many rodents, bats, a number of species of birds, and some primates. Scientists are not sure exactly what tells an animal when to begin and end hibernation. It is thought that these animals have an internal "clock" which tells them instinctively what to do. It is not understood how nature sets this "clock" in motion, but it is thought to involve changes in light, temperature or perhaps a combination of the two.

Animals hibernate by allowing their body temperatures to drop below normal. This allows them to save energy while maintaining their normal body functions necessary for survival. While hibernating, the animal's heart rate drops sharply, as does the flow of blood through the body. In spring, animals awaken from hibernation on signal from their "clock."

(Linda Mattos, of Mt. Shasta, Calif., wins a prize for this question. You can win $10 cash plus Associated Press' handsome World Yearbook if your question is selected for a prize. Send your entry on a postcard to Junior Editors, in

Their heart rate and body temperature eventually return to normal, as does
