Needy children here will have Christmas only with your help ust who is Chief Goodfellow and his Merry Masked Men, you ask? Well, the Goodfellow organization is a group of anonymous men and women of Lubbock who for 44 years have been taking Christmas to needy boys and girls of the

And, you think your Christmas shopping list is long.

Well, Chief Goodfellow and his Merry Masked Men have a list of 10,000 names for needy boys and girls of Lubbbock, and expenses for Christmas packages for needy children will total approximately $15,000.

And Chief Goodfellow is having to contend with inflation just like everyone else at Christmas. In years past, a package for a single child would cost $1.25. Then the cost went to $1.50, $1.75, and costs this year may reach $2 per package for needy children

The Merry Masked Men provide Christmas packages for needy children under 14 years of age who live within the city limits of Lubbock. And they need your help to make up their list of needy children.

A coupon, found in this issue on Page 5, Sec. A, may be filled out by children, their parents, neighbors, or other interested persons who know of children who might be missed by Santa Claus on Christmas. The coupons may be mailed to Chief Goodfellow, P.O. Box 491, Lubbock, Tex.,

The Goodfellow project has been a success for 43 years since its inception in 1934,

Not only does he need the coupons mailed in for his list of needy children, he needs contributions and volunteers to deliver packages early Christmas morn the doorsteps of waiting children.

The Goodfellow project is funded entirely by contributions of Lubbock citizen and the goal of $15,000 is far from being reached.

And Chief Goodfellow needs volunteers to deliver the packages for the needs

The packages for needy children are compiled from a list from the mailed cou-pons. The list is screened carefully by a committee to ensure that only needy children are included in the local project.

The packages contain fruit, nuts, candy and toys, and are prepared at the secret Goodfellow "North Pole" warehouse in preparation for the eventful day. These packages are prepared for each individual child according to age and sex. Chief Goodfellow asks that the coupons, contributions and volunteers write as soon as possible to the above address because the Merry Masked Men have a timetable to meet, in order that no child in Lubbock goes without Christmas this year.

Mistaken identity case adds to war hero's scars

Charges were finally dismissed. But not before Army veteran Joe Earl Anderson, from his position in the defendant's chair, heard a teller make a positive identification of him to the jury as the man who passed an allegedly forged check at a local bank.

"I feel now like a lot of people are sent to prison for things they didn't do," Anderson, 29, said after the ordeal.

IF ANDERSON SOUNDED bitter, it was understandable. For most people, the unjust allegation would have proven a heavy burden. For Anderson, it was the latest psychological blow in the nightmare his life became after his nerves were shattered by the war in Vietnam.

Shrapnel from a rocket-powered grenade caught Anderson twice in the right shoulder and three times in the chest. He also was hit in the left index finger, and lost it.

There were more than 500 men in Anderson's battalion. He later was told that only 41 survived. "Of the survivors, I know of at least 12 that were wound-

Anderson still carries a piece of shrapnel in him, and the finger is missing. But the scars which never truly healed were emotional ones. He was discharged in 1971 and granted 100 percent disability because of his nerves.

Anderson indicated it had not seemed real to him that so many had died and he had not.

"I felt like the war was never over," he said. "I kept hearing voices. I can hear a low voice behind me and feel like something's still after me.'

Anderson received treatment at various veterans' hospitals. He said he tried to work, but found out he just couldn't

THE ALLEGED FORGERY Anderson was accused of resulted from a reported January incident at a local bank.

A person reportedly wanted to cash a check, but had no identification. A companion, according to later accounts, then offered his identification for the check and produced a driver's license. But the name the man signed allegedly was

Ironically, it may have been the fact that Anderson was missing a finger that led to his being unjustly "fingered" in

It turned out that Anderson, near the time the alleged forgery incident occurred, had offered identification for a companion at the same bank.

Anderson believes the bank teller may have remembered him because of the missing finger, then confused him with the man involved in the similar alleged transaction.

Anderson, proclaiming his innocence, was arrested and posted bond. But he still couldn't believe that a mistake had been made and he was actually being charged with a crime.

"I thought it was all over," Anderson said. Then he saw his name in a list of indictments published in the newspaper and knew, innocent or not, that he would have to battle to retain his reputation and perhaps his freedom.

AS THE TRIAL NEARED. Anderson and defense attorney Glenn Archer felt there was a possibility Anderson could still be cleared. But it was no sure thing.

"I got 90 minutes sleep the 24 hours before the trial start-"All I could think of was would I get taken away from my wife and family." The trial began as expected. The bank teller positively identified Anderson as the man who allegedly gave false identification on the check. Other witnesses were called, and the state neared completion of its case. At that point, acting in concert with Archer, prosecutors, during a recess, developed new information. The information was enough to convince them, even though he had been identified by the state's own chief witness, that Anderson was innocent. The charge was ordered dismissed. Naturally, Anderson was elated at the outcome. "All I had to depend on was my lawyer," he said.

BUT HE COULDN'T HELP but feel bitter about what might have been and about the anguish he went through before being exonerated. He said he had been worried about being sent away from his wife and two daughters and about the possibility of losing thousands of dollars in disability pay-or this week's survey, we interviewed 28 security analysts who specialize in the banking industry. They were with such important firms as Solomon Brothers, Federated Research, General Electric Investment Management, General Reinsurance, The Crocker National Bank, and Western Asset Management. Each security analyst was asked how high and how low he thought each stock would go in Top five banking stocks Analysts forecast that Marine Midland Banks, Inc., would rise by an average of 31 percent in the next six months. BancOhio was forecast to rise by 28 percent and Harris Bankcorp, Republic of Texas Corp. and Seafirst Corp. by 25 percent each.

When asked how low banking stocks might go, analysts forecast that Marine Midland Banks could go down by 12 percent, Republic of Texas Corp. by 8 percent, and Seafirst Corp. by 7 percent. On the other hand, Harris Bankcorp was predicted to drop by only 3 percent and no drop was forecast for BancOhio. This means that analysts are saying that BancOhio and Harris Bankcorp both have the best chance of a rise in stock prices with a lower downside risk than any of the other banks. Analysts primarily quoted the effects of higher interest rates as benefitting banks. Most felt that banks as a group were undervalued and few analysts felt that interest rates would remain high for long enough for bank loans to get out of control. Texas banks were particularly favored because of the economic stability and growth in the area.

Next five stocks Analysts were ambivalent about Charter New York Corporation and Western Bancorporation, but they forecast an average net gain of 19 percent and 18 percent for Northwest Bancorporation and Southwest Bancshares, Inc., respectively.

Among the remaining bank stocks, the largest net gains forecast were for Texas Commerce Bancshares, 20 percent, and The Bank of New York Company, Inc., 19

Bank analysts were generally favorably inclined toward bank stocks. This means that bank shares are perceived to be a better hedge against a drop in the market See Stock page 5

Holiday spirit fails to affect robbers

Robberies and rapes took up most of the police department's investigative time this week.

Early Monday, a bandit robbed an Avenue Q 7-Eleven store and then raped the store attendant while holding a kitchen knife to her throat. The 29-year-old clerk said the suspect, a tall and heavy-set black man in his 20s. entered the convenience store about 12:30 a.m., bought a bag of chips and She told police, however, the man re-entered the store several minutes later, grabbed her from behind the counter, placed a knife to her head and said, 'Don't scream or I'll cut you. I want your money."

THE WOMAN SAID she gave the robber an undetermined amount of cash from one of the registers, then was forced into a back room and raped.

The victim said the attacker, who was wearing a black ski cap, blue sweat shirt, gray sweat pants, sunglasses and tennis shoes, held a knife to her throat while she was being assaulted.

Police were notified after a customer entered the store and heard the attendant screaming.

In another rape, a 22-year-old woman told police she had driven up to her residence about 2:30 a.m. Sunday and had begun unloading items from her car into the house. On her second trip back to the house, she said, a man was standing just inside the doorway.

The woman said she began screaming and that the man grabbed her and stuck a knife to her throat, telling her to stop screaming. She said the man then ordered her to take off her clothing and forced her into a bedroom where he

She described the suspect as black, 18 to 25, of medium height and thin. She said he was wearing a black toboggan cap, blue denim jacket and shirt and blue pants.

A MAN WHO asked to use the telephone at the Shamrock service station at 1702 N. University Ave. about 7 p.m. Monday robbed the station of about $200, according to attendant David Peck.

After asking for assistance in finding a phone number, the bandit ordered the attendant into a back room, adding, "Don't do anything stupid," Peck said. Peck told officers the man did not show a gun but he thought he saw the outline of a pistol in the man's pocket. The suspect grabbed two money bags and some cash in a safe before fleeing. Peck said. The suspect was described as a slender black man in his early 20s, 5-feet-8, wearing a dark blue warmup jacket, light colored T-shirt, jeans, white basketball shoes and a brown hat.

A 22-year-old cocktail waitress told police she was robbed of an undetermined amount of change at Bullet Bob's 4921 Brownfield Highway. Linda Gay Tatum told police two Mexican-American men entered the club about 2 a.m. Tuesday while she was preparing to close, strucker in the head and then took the change. She was treated at Methodist Hospital and released.

AN ABERNATHY housewife reported that she was beaten and robbed Saturday night as she attempted to leave a club at 2121 Amarillo Highway.

Linda Diane Sherman, 23, sald that a white female and two white males confronted her and began hitting her, taking $30 and a watch from the victim. She was treated at Methodist Hospital.

Pain is mainly in the brain

BRAIN RESEARCH, long one of the more obscure sciences, is fast becoming one of the most glamorous. Latter day research advances not only have provided new understanding of how the brain functions but precipitated a rain of predictions about the future.

"We may well be on the threshold of a provocative new era of using the brain's own chemicals to improve mind and behavior," said an editor of Science News.

Fortune magazine quoted another scientist as saying: "We are on the edge of a choose-your-own-mood society."

It has been known for at least 2,500 years that opiates are the most powerful drugs to relieve pain. But it was not until 1973 that Johns Hopkins University researchers first discovered that the whole family of opiates are merely imitators of the real painkillers.

THE REAL OPIATES are those made by the body itself, to use on itself in critical moments of stress and injury.

The race to find these natural painkilling chemicals ended in 1975 when scientists detected the substance in pig brains.

These natural painkillers are now called endorphins, a Greek word meaning "the morphine within."

It was this discovery of the body's own drugs for pain that much of the excitement about brain research has arisen. It focuses on the possibility of synthesizing a substance, perhaps a natural and non-addictive substance, which is dozens or hundreds of times more powerful than morphine.

The discovery of the body's own opiates not only set off speculation about future benefits but also suggested explanations for several previously puzzling phenomena, such as wartime accounts of severely wounded men who withstood pain with stoic indifference.

Small amounts of one type of endorphin (beta-endorphin) have been snythesized in the lab and injected into the bodies of 14 mental patients.

RESEARCHERS REPORTED their findings to a gathering of fellow psychiatrists and neuroscientists last December in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Drs. Nathan Kline of Rockland Research Institute at Orangeburg, N.Y., and Heinz E. Lehmann of Montreal, said seven of the 14 patients showed immediate improvement in mood and behavior. All had suffered severe forms of psychic ills and none had previously responded to other forms of treatment.

The popular magazines have had an outpouring of stories on the subject, and the predictions go on.

But even the neuroscientists themselves, who are slower to reach conclusions, are willing to say that the sudden surge forward in brain sciences may be greater in its effect than the antibiotics revolution which already has transformed medicine in this century.

Artistic talents span entire city

By Jeff South Update Staff Write

AL

Imagine an art museum so large that its galleries span an entire city: an ever-growing collection of murals, sculptures, paintings and other works, housed in dozens of facilities throughout the community.

Now open your eyes and start enjoying that vision, because you live in the midst of just such a museum. It's the Lubbock Independent School District. Public schools the city over display outstanding artwork by students and teachers. Some of the exhibits, usually group projects, are permanent; other displays are temporary - up one week, replaced by something else the next.

NO MATTER WHERE you reside in Lubbock, you can find attractive and thought-provoking art at a nearby campus, says Zonalynn Stevens, the school system's art consultant.

The schools, she said, have a "tremendous" quantity and quality of exhibits, many built up over a period of several years. Mrs. Stevens said she is most impressed with group projects done by one school for another.

One of the most important things we learn is that we often must depend on others. A student cannot do every task by himself. We must work together, with each doing his part for the success of the whole," Mrs. Stevens said "This is something students get out of working on a class art project. They learn what cooperation means; they learn to fit into the environment as In group projects, she added, youngsters also learn about responsibility and about "seeing the broader picture. You realize that while you may be working on only a small portion, you must do it well for the sake of the final product. "You realize in a class project that the important thing is how everyone's work fits together. You learn that you are not the one and only, but part of a larger community," Mrs. Stevens said.

AND WHEN ONE SCHOOL makes something for another, students get the extra benefit that comes from sharing, she said. "Once it's finished, the project doesn't belong to the students; it belongs to everyone."

If you ever plan to take a tour of student artwork, there are some projects you won't want to miss, Mrs. Stevens said. Among the major pieces of art in the Lubbock school system:

Students of Dunbar High (now called Dunbar-Struggs) painted scenes of a jungle at Bozeman Elementary, 3103 E. Second St.; of a West Texas landscape at Brown Elementary, 2315 36th St.; and of a circus at Rush Elementary, 4702

And the cafeteria of the Dunbar campus, 2010 E. 26th St., features a student-made mural of the school's Panther mascot.

Monterey High students gave a swan scene to Maedgen Elementary, 4401 Nashville Ave. Also, Monterey pupils used linoleum block prints on small pieces of paper to construct a jungle mural at Overton Elementary, 2902

AT MONTEREY ITSELF, 3211 47th St., a mural on the "philosophy of life" adorns cafeteria walls and several hallways throughout the school.

Estacado High students did a batik sticthery or "soft sculpture" of Noah's Ark at Posey Elementary, 1301 Redbud Ave. Says Mrs. Stevens: "It's one of my favorites.

Also in the Posey cafeteria are pictures of animals painted by Posey sixthgraders two years back.

At Estacado, 1504 E. Itasca St., is a mosaic depicting the Book of Genesis. Lubbock High, 2004 19th St., has in its courtyard a 450-pound aluminum-cast statue of the school's mascot, The Westerner. Students, teachers and alumni participated in that project, completed last year.

Atkins Junior High, 5401 Ave. U, features a stitchery of a flower garden, embroidered by Atkins students. Mahon Elementary students also made a large stitchery, which is on display at their school, 2010 Cornell St.

EVIDENCE OF STUDENTS' artistic talents can be found outside the schools, too. Mrs. Stevens said several high school students, especially from Coronado and Estacado, helped make the tapestry that hangs in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

Exhibits of student and staff artwork are on view for the public in the school district's administration building, 1628 19th St. Projects there are changed

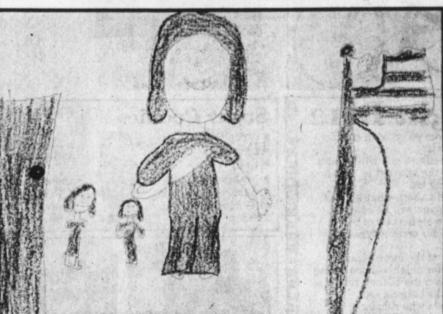

On some group projects, the whole school gets involved. For Estacado's biblical mosaic, for example, mill cabinet students constructed a frame to hold the huge design. As in most projects, students worked after school and during class.

"Projects like this give students a reason to leave school with pride," said Julie Storey, Estacado art teacher.

"After they graduate, they can come back and say, 'Hey, I was a part of this. I contributed something.

Because, Erin Frey adds, in America "no one bigger is going to tell you where to live, where to work, how to live or what to believe in.' Because, writes Yvonne Torrez, in the U.S., "We have a democracy on our hands!"

And how do people show their love for their country? Grownups can be patriotic, sixth-grader Alex Garza believes, by working hard as "a good doctor, lawyer or even a teacher." Children, too, can be modern-day patriots - "by not littering, by keeping our rivers and lakes and oceans clean and our air unpolluted, and by conserving energy," says fourth-grader Timi Ann Aguilar. THOSE ARE SOME OF the comments students submitted in an essay-writing contest at Wolffarth Elementary School. The contest was conducted recently to commemorate American Education Week.

Youngsters in grades four through six competed on essays. Students in the lower grades drew posters, also on a patriotic theme.

Entries were judged by the student council, teachers and Principal Charles Kennedy. The first-place winners in the primary-grade and intermediate-grade divisions were awarded silver dollars.

THIRD-GRADER TINA Anciso won for the best poster, a brightly colored drawing of Uncle Sam. Timi Ann Aguilar took first in the essay division.

"Patriotism is the love and loyal support of a person for his country. Patriotism includes love of your country and the people in it - also our customs and traditions," Timi wrote.

"Patriotism sometimes includes fighting for your country and sometimes Today we have to protect the freedoms and traditions that the early patriots gave us, by keeping our land beautiful," Timi said.

A modern-day patriot, wrote Alex Garza, "gives his loyal support to his country by devoting his life to his country. He can be a good doctor, lawyer or even a teacher. This is the way he serves our country.

Schools help kids develop patriotism by teaching them about history and famous heroes, Alex said. "Once they've learned about the history of the United States, students are able to apprechiate it more," he wrote.

"Finally patriotism requires responsability of all citizens. We show this responsability by running for some kind of offices and by voting.'

TO SIXTH-GRADER Yvonne Torrez, "America is the emblem of freedom. I will always cherish this land and my freedom. My independence means alot to me because I am free to grow and support myself the way I claim.

"I can have pride in myself and my beloved country because we have a democracy on our hands, and our people will never discriminate against other people because of race, color or sex. Plus we have our say in who we want in government," Yvonne said.

She added: "I have one life to live and I want to live it the way I believe is right. America is right for me.'

Fifth-grader Erin Frey wrote of America: "It feels good to be free! We don't have any Kings or Queens ruling us, and if we did something they didn't like, they could put us in a dungeon or something. So just think how good it feels to be free!"

ERIN CONCLUDED THE two-page essay with this passage: "And if I put all I have written in two sentences, it would be saying, 'God thank you for America. Thank you for our home." Fourth-grader Tammy Skinner said she loves America "because we have freedom and law. We have the right to believe in God. If we didn't have our own church, we would have no way of being saved." Said fourth-grader Andrea Vara: "We should keep our country clean and looking good. We should take care of things. We should give thanks for our schools so they can teach us and we can learn. "We should respect our government. We should take care of our homes and also ourselves. That way we can keep our country the way it is.

Rev. Roger Loyd

Rev. Preisinger

By Connie Chapman Update Staff Writer

In recent weeks the world has been shocked by the murder of Congress Leo Ryan of California and the newsmen accompanying him, and by the sub-sequent mass suicide of the members of the Peoples Temple in Guyana.

Although the events occurred Nov. 17, public comment has continued and the entire incident has raised many questions, especially about its central figure, cult leader the Rev. Jim Jones.

Several days after the initial report, but as more facts were still coming to light, a group of concerned ministers and students met here in the Wesley Foundation to explore some of the issues highlighted by the events.

The Rev. Roger Loyd, Wesley Foundation pastor, opened the meeting with the question: "What hit you the hardest about the event?"

Brief responses included the following: 'The numbers.

'Grape drink and cyanide.'

'Family togetherness.'

"The ability of a charismatic person to pull it off."

MRS. TED DOTTS expressed her belief that the government could not have done anything to prevent the tragedy. "The government can do only so much 'babysitting' of religious groups. I certainly don't advocate the government checking on all our church activities.'

Loyd mentioned the impact on families. "Nine hundred and thirteen people...that's a lot of families affected," he commented.

The Rev. Arthur Preisinger, Lutheran campus pastor at Texas Tech University, added a personal note. "I found out two days ago that a daughter of a friend of mine was down there and there has been no word from her." With the high number of fatalities, he questioned that there were many survivors.

Dr. William Chapman, also a campus pastor and teacher of this term's world religions class at Tech, said he has had two reactions from those discussing the event with him . "They either ask: 'How could anyone get involved in a group like that?' or, they say, 'Let me tell you about the cult I was in."

THESE KINDS OF COMMENTS indicate to him, he said, that "there are pieces in all of us that respond to various kinds of leaders. Mrs. Dotts said, "You don't come into this thing full-blown allegiance comes a step at a time. This is very typical of us; we slide into it a step at a

The Rev. Ted Dotts, pastor St. John's United Methodist Church, said he has been asked over and over how such a grisly thing as the mass suicide could happen. "People gave up their freedom," he said is his answer.

Preisinger said his reading led him to think "these people were in search of immortality and this leader promised it to them. Loyd agreed with that statement and added that the people in the cult lacked a perspective on themselves. He quoted a statement by Jones that the suicide was another step in the journey that had led Jones to take the group from California to Guyana. "They perceived this check (by Ryan) as a threat...and we'll never know what he found out."

CHAPMAN MENTIONED A study done several years ago which tried to isolate factors leading to conversion to such cults. Findings of this study showed those most likely to join had experienced the height of stress, looked at all things as religious issues, and were looking for someone to solve their

The Rev. Mrs. Jo Carr, also a pastor at St. John's, said the events had helped her to list personality characteristics in a similar way gathered from those persons she had known. Her list included altruistic, non-materialistic in the extreme, thinking they were "above everyone else," and functioning with 'a different kind of rationality.' Mrs. Dotts said the church really needs to deal with a man like Jones and what he says to the church. "He really was meeting a need for some people.

He was able to communicate where the church could not, and that is a judgement on the church."

JILL CALDWELL, A STUDENT, asked if people in cults consider themselves to be different and call themselves "cultists."

Chapman said because the cults often make a "radical break with the moral values of society, it is a temptation to put the issue in terms of 'us vs. them.' This puts cults in a 'deviant role' and members of the groups say the mainstream church is 'not deviant enough.""

Another question raised by the discussion group was why so many of these groups originate in California. A concern was expressed that San Francisco might experience the same kind of trauma (especailly in light of last week's murder of the mayor and another offical) that Dallas experienced in 1963.

The bike you thought you wanted might not be the bike for you.

The only way to find out if a bike is the right size for you is to try it out. Ask a bicycle store salesperson to help you. Have the salesperson show you how to adjust the height of the seat and the handlebars to fit your size.

Many stores will let you ride the bike a short distance inside

Think about what kind of riding you will be doing.
Each style is especially suited for certain types of riding. One of the more popular bikes for neighborhood riding has been the 20-inch high-rise with the banana seat. People who ride long distances on the street often ride English racers. These bikes have several different gears and usually have hand brakes.

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1 cup sugar • 1 egg
- 1 tablespoon milk
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- 1¾ cups flour (self-rising)

What to do:

1. Melt butter or margarine. 2. Mix butter, sugar, eggs, milk and vanilla. 3. Sift flour and add to mixture and mix well. 4. Put in refrigerator for two hours or more to chill. 5. Sprinkle flour on wax paper or

New Miss Lubbock 'surprised'

A Texas Tech music sophomore Saturday was crowned Miss Lubbock 1979 in the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium. Alice Kindle, 19, who also won the swimsuit competition, was surprised at the pageant's outcome. Miss Kindle, daughter of Cecil and Sue Kindle of Rockwall, plans to get a doctoral degree in music to "teach piano at the college level." First runnerup was Terri Lynn Eoff, an 18-year-old Tech freshman and daughter of Mrs. and Mr. T.R. Eoff of Lubbock. She won the talent portion of the contest with her portrayal of the character Bananas from the Broadway play "The House of Blue Leaves."

Karen C. Roberts, 18, also a freshman and the daughter of Thomas and Mary Lee Roberts of Irving, was second runnerup. She is an accounting major who sang "Honey Bun" from the musical "South Pacific."

Third runnerup was 20 year-old Rae Lynne Stone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan R. Stone of Pampa. Marilyn Campbell, a 19-year-old dance instructor and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.S. Campbell of Lubbock, was fourth runnerup.

Creative writing: Ask the kids to make up stories in which their bikes do the story-telling. They could make up stories about where their make-believe bikes might take them.

Comprehension: Ask the following questions: 1. What is a hobbyhorse?

2. Who rode the first tricycles?

3. Why do you think that boneshakers were called by that name?

4. What is the BIG news in kids' bikes? Following directions: Ask the child to read the instructions on how to learn to ride a bike. Then ask them to demonstrate what they have learned. Even if they already know how to ride, you can check their ability to follow directions on teaching someone else. Many kids will be getting bikes for Christmas. Now is an excellent time to review the safety rules:

1. Obey all traffic instructions, traffic lights, stop signs, one-way streets, etc.

2. Keep right and ride single file. Don't weave in and out, swerve or show off in traffic. Never hitch a ride on another vehicle.

3. For dusk or night riding, the bicycle should be equipped with a white light in front and a reflector in

4. Take special care at all intersections. Look both ways; be sure to use proper hand signals to indicate stopping. or turning.

Always give pedestrians the right-of-way.

6. Watch out for parked cars pulling into traffic and for doors opening on parked cars.

As thousands of ticket holders already know, the big attraction this weekend is tonight's concert by Kris Kristofferson and Rita Coolidge in the Civic Center exhibition hall. A few tickets were still available at press time, but I'd advise you call the Civic Center box office to make sure.

The Texas Tech University Theater will continue its production of Steve Peters' "The Equestrian Assassination Of Billy The Kid" with performances at 8:15 p.m. tonight, Saturday and Dec. 15-16. Tickets also are already on sale for the Dec. 16 appearance at Rox by Lubbock's Jay Boy Adams. "Go Tell The Spartans," a film which has won superlative reviews as the first honest Vietnam War film, starts a short run tonight at the Fox Theater. Other than that, there's really nothing in the way of new movies in town, but we have been given some entertaining re-issues in "Executive Action" at the Cinema West and the double bill of "Oh, God!" and "The Goodbye Girl" at

The best picture in town is still "Midnight Express" at South Plains Cine ma, but Showplace's "Halloween" is also attracting stupendous crowds.

Once again, if anyone is not yet included in the Take Your Pick listings, that person or organization should call 762-8844 or write Update, Box 491, Lubbock, Tex. 79408. We both need and appreciate your support - and your cooperation in meeting our deadlines.

on screen

Jason Robards makes his last villainous ride in "Comes A Horseman Visually stunning western held over yet again at Showplace Six Arnett-Benson - "Raza Viboras" and "Hihi Madre." Spanish language films.

Backstage 1 — "Disco Sexpot." Ha, bet you thought this was the X-rated flick. Fooled you. This is an unscreened R-rated attraction which we know nothing about.

Backstage II - "Bel Ami." Now THIS is the X-rated attraction.

Cinemo I, Mall - "Midnight Express." This picture ranks right up at the top with "Coming Home" and "Blue Collar" in my mind as the very best picture of the year. Certainly it is more compelling as a film based on a true story of the human struggle against incredible odds. The film stars Brad Davis as Billy Hayes, a young American who foolishly tries to smuggle hashish out of Turkey, gets caught and sentenced to a punishment far too severe to come close to fitting the crime. Though no one will beat out Jon Voight for next spring's Oscar, Davis comes much closer than one might initially expect. And if only for his depiction of pure white rage in Hayes' killing of the stoolie Rifky, director Alan Parker also should win a nomination. Look for more to be awarded in categories of supporting performances, cinematography and, perhaps, music.
"Midnight Express" is a film which gets beneath the viewer's skin. It is horrifyingly powerful. And it should not be missed by anyone with a strong heart.

Cinema II, Mail — "National Lampoon's Animal House." Certainly one of the funniest pictures of 1978, this film has been held over so long that manager Robert Hurley hints it may not be removed until the expensive new Christmas pictures arrive. John Belushi is still drawing sellout crowds on the weekends with his food fights and cries of Cinema III, Mail — "The Groove Tube." A series of comic vignettes, some satiric and some just blue material, this picture has had its popular days in Lubbock. But we're older now and the material cannot stand the test of time. It's dated, and effective now only for the very young (those that can get in, that is).

Cinema IV, Mall - "Foul Play." Goldie Hawn is the divorcee cast accidentally into a murder plot. Chevy Chase is the cop assigned to help her out. There aren't many laughs, none of the original variety anyway, but there are indeed a great many cliches stolen from Hitchcock films. The one who suffers most, though, is Dudley Moore, cast in the embarrassing role of an orchestra conductor who doubles as a sex pervert.

Cinematheque — Each Wednesday evening, the Cinematheque Film Society presents classic films on the Texas Tech University campus. Tickets may be purchased by both the general public and Tech students. This week's offering is the 1944 musical "Meet Me In St. Louis," directed by Vincente Minnelli and starring Judy Garland, Margaret O'Brien and Tom Drake. It is one of Judy Garland's finest and most popular films, and university publicity aptly states: "Judy's rendition of 'Have Yourself A Merry Little Christmas' could bring tears to Darth Vader." The picture will be shown at 8 p.m. in the University Center theater, with the admission set at only $1.

Cinema West - "Executive Action." Of all the fillers being booked into local theaters to grab a little business before the arrival of the big Christmas pictures, this is one of the best. A fascinating mixture of truth and conjecture, this 1973 film takes a look at the possibility of conspiracy behind the JFK assassination. And as we all know, that's still not a dead issue. The film stars Burt Lancaster and the late Robert Ryan.

Circle Drive-In - "Marriage Manual" and "Love Secrets Of A Coed." X-rated mate-

Corrol Drive-In - "Visions" and "Count The Ways." X-rated material.

Fine Arts Drive-In - "Sex And The French School Girl" and "Vice Or Versa." Xrated material

- "The Passion Seekers." X-rated material.

Fox I - "Who Is Killing The Great Chefs Of Europe?" I hate a film which does not play fair and square with its audience, which probably explains my distaste for this combination of red herrings thrown in to detract us from the most predictable of plots. It seems someone is knocking off the world's best cooks in a manner belitting their specialties (baked pigeon equals one baked chef, for example). There are a few laughs, but stars Jacqueline Bisset and George Segal offer nothing worthy of attention. Dominating at times, however, are Robert Morley as an obese food critic and the tables holding all those fabulous gourmet dishes.

Fox II - "Go Tell The Spartans." This picture has earned rave reviews as the finest Vietnam war film to date. Directed by Ted Post, it stars Burt Lancaster and is without a doubt this weekend's biggest film opening.

Fox III - "House Calls." Walter Matthau, Glenda Jackson and Art Carney provide the laughs, and there are lots of them, in this marvelous little comedy. The picture never attains the style of "A Touch Of Class," which it is obviously aiming for, but it stands

Fox IV - "The Other Side Of The Mountain, Part Two," Marilyn Hasset is again cast as handicapped Olympic skier Jill Kinmont in this continuation of one of the most popular tearjerkers of the '70s. Needless to say, the soppy sentimentality is still present. But this film boasts more effective directing and better acting than its predecessor. Heck, even this stone-hearted critic enjoyed it...

Golden Horseshoe Drive-In, Front Screen — "Foul Play" and "The One And Only." See Cinema IV, Mall for comments on "Foul Play." The latter picture stars Henry Winkler in an unsuccessful comic look at wrestler Gorgeous George: an actor able to show off his talent only in the flamboyant wrestling business. Kim Darby co-stars.

Golden Horseshoe Drive-In, Bock Screen — "Eyeball" and "House Of Exorcism." Two low budget horror flicks, the latter with a name star in Telly Savalas. I ha-

Home Box Office - This pay television station offers movies not presently on Lubbock's big screens. Premieres are held on HBO each weekend evening, and then repeated throughout the month. Tonight's featured attraction is "Skateboard," the first full length movie about one of America's fastest growing sports. It's earned favorable reviews. On Saturday, the premiere is "Thunder And Lightning," an action film starring Kate Jackson, David Carradine and a zillion car chases and wrecks. A tip of the hat to the stuntmen. Sunday night will see HBO air "Semi-Tough," a Michael Ritchie comedy which failed to capture the flavor of the book but still boasts entertaining performances from Burt Reynolds and Kris Kristofferson. Later Sunday night, HBO will repeat both 'The Pack" and "Equus."

Lindsey — "Death Force" and "Lady Cocoa." I asked whether either of these two films had any name stars and was told, "Well, Mean Joe Green is in the latter film." Enough said. You can catch both these action pictures for $1 at the downtown theater, or hang tight until the double bill of "The Choirboys" and "The Last Remake Of Beau

Red Raider Drive-In - "Hija Del Contrabando" and "Heraclio Bernal." Spanish

Showplace I - "Up In Smoke." Texas was a test market for this doper's delight and, since the picture has stuck around for well over four months, it evidently passed the test of audience approval. Too bad, as this is a horribly boring hunk of garbage which shouldn't entertain anyone over the age of 12. The dialogue consists of phrases like "Hey, man" and "You know, man" and "Oh, man" and "Oh wow, man." The credits, however, list no character as being named Man.

Showplace II - "Grease." John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John star in this business deal set to music. But the responsibility lies in the hands of Robert Stigwood, who had to make a movie so he could sell soundtracks, and wound up butchering the stageplay in the transformation process. Travolta manages to come away with his reputation intact (his energy is admirable, and I really do believe he can develop into an acting power), but Miss Newton-John should consider this film more as a warning experience. Still, to say it is a financial success would be putting it lightly. The film is second only to 'The Godfather' as the biggest money-maker in Paramount Pictures' history ("Saturday Night Fever" is third). And yet, the soundtrack album has made more money than the film.

Added note: "Grease" is being shown at Showplace in stereo sound.

Showplace III — "Halloween." Believe it or not, this is one of the very hottest pictures in town. Perhaps the most enjoyable schlock horror film of the "70s, "Halloween" makes use of every horror cliche imaginable and keeps us jumping throughout. Don't go looking for valid explanations, or characters of intelligence. But do go expecting to be thoroughly entertained. Director John Carpenter gives us a 21-year-old killer (a demon force, perhaps?) who returns to the small town where he first committed murder 15 years earlier. Again, on Halloween night. I saw this film with my wife, Susan, the world's foremost lover of schlock horror pictures, on a Sunday night; we were both surprised to find the film had drawn a full house and the crowd was screamingly involved throughout.

Showplace IV — "Run For The Roses." This little picture involves a boy's belief in a horse which is entered in a Big Race. We haven't seen it yet.

Showplace V — "Comes A Horseman." Despite its cliched storyline (we've seen this plot a hundred times before), "Comes A Horseman" is turned into an admirable characater study of the land and the 1940s West by director Alan Pakula and stars Jane Fonda, James Caan and Jason Robards. It is to the film's credit that, once we beco settled with with the leisurely pacing, we begin to care about the characters. And oh yes, the character of Miss Fonda's ranch hand is played by Richard Farnsworth in such simple, effective style that an Aacedemy Award nomination for best supporting actor may result. The cinematography alone makes this picture worth seeing.

Showplace VI - "Oh, God!" and "The Goodbye Girl." If you want to laugh, this is the double feature sure to accommodate. George Burns is a hoot as the deity in the first film, with John Denver offering excellent support as the supermarket manager who is asked to spread the Word. The latter film has to be one of the most delightful and popular comedies of all time, a Neil Simon story acted out by Richard Dreyfuss, Marsha Mason and Quinn Cummings. Dreyfuss won his first Oscar for his performance as lovable actor Elliot Garfield Versity - "Quatro Dedos" and "Ha Estrada." Spanish language films.

Village — "They Went That-A-Way And That-A-Way." Tim Conway stars in this new comedy from an independent releasing comedy. I have not seen the picture yet, but Conway remains one of our most underrated comedians.

Winchester — "Blazing Saddles." An uproarious, outrageous, irreverent comedy from the Mel Brooks stable. You haven't seen a western like this before, and trditionalists won't want to! Gene Wilder gives a superlative performance, but receives ample help from Cleavon Little, Slim Pickens and Harvey Korman. Not to mention Madeline Kahn, who earned award nominations.

A warning, though: Update has received several complaints from movie-goers put off by the scratched film print on display at the Winchester.

Coming Soon — Next Friday will see the first Christmas rleases start trickling in. Here is an update on what's booked in the city. DEC. 15: "Oliver's Story" at the Fox, "Superman" at Showplace and a re-issue of "Heaven Can Wait" at the Village. DEC.
20: "Pinocchio" at the Fox and "Lord Of The Rings" at Showplace. DEC. 22: "King Of December 16, Joy Boy Adams - Lubbock's Jay Boy Adams is finally coming back to West Texas to play for the home folks at Rox. Adams has two LPs out on the Atlantic label, and was recently featured in concert at Carnegie Hall with Joe Cocker. His local appearance should be one of this region's musical highlights during the month of December. Advance tickets are being sold at Rox for $3. The price will be upped to $4 the night of the show.

December 31, Joe Ely - Ely will be the main attraction at Cold Water Country's annual New Year's Eve bash. The cover charge is $15 for couples and $8 for persons arriving stag. The price includes free party favors, free champagne and lots of music by local favorite Ely, who has two well received albums out on the MCA label.

February 2-3 and 9-10, "Night Must Fall" - This drama, already being cast, will be staged at Lubbock Theatre Centre. Direction will be by Claudia Beach, Tickets will be priced at $4.50 for the general public and $3.50 for all students.

February 8, Besten - Rock band Boston, which had one of the most successful debut albums in music history, will be headlining an 8 p.m. concert at the Lubbock Coliseum. The front band and ticket prices have not yet been released.

February 19-20, Lubbock Symphony Orchestro — The Lubbock Symphony will again be featured at the Civic Center theater, this time with guest pianist Youri Egoroo. Call the symphony office for tickets and reservations.

Cooking traditions add to Christmas festivities

Christmas customs vary from family to family, but each has at least some little thing it repeats year after year without which Christmas wouldn't be Christmas.

Making a gingerbread house is one of those very special traditions for Dr. and Mrs. David Northington and their children Kristin, 5, and Ryan, 4. This labor of love is an annual Thanksgiving weekend project for them.

Dr. Northington is a botanist in the biological sciences department at Texas Tech University and the faculty sponsor of the Saddle Tramps and the Tech Pom-Pom Girls. Mrs. Northington assists with these special duties and in addition serves as junior program chairman on the Women's Council of The Museum of Texas Tech University, as vice president of the University Women's Club and on the board of Lubbock Family Services.

ABOUT FOUR YEARS AGO, Mrs. Northington decided to have an old fashioned Christmas, with lots of calico decorations, gingham ribbons and gingerbread men on the Christams tree. She found some patterns and a recipe for a gingerbread house in a magazine that year and has used them each year since.

Making the house is truly a family project. Mrs. Northington always makes the dough and bakes it. Her husband is responsible for the very exacting job of cutting the pieces which then go together to form the house. The two children get to decide where the decorations go.

"I try to get pretty nearly the same candy for decorations each year ... peppermints for the borders and those with flowered centers for the roof," she said. Striped gum is used for the shutters and round fruit-flavored candy for the Tiny figures collected over the years complete the winter scene. The hardest items to find were the trees and the minischule birds which top them. The shop in The Museum was where they finally were found.

A SPECIAL FEATURE of the Northingtons' gingerbread house is that it has a light inside. "It smells so good when it gets warm ... you can smell all the spices," she said.

From the recipe which is included below, our cook said she also gets some gingerbread men and little tree cookies. "You could do it with about half of this recipe, if you're very good at it," she explained, and added that even after these years, there are always some unexpected "casualties"

Kristin, chimed in, "This year we had two doors and I got to eat one." There's no wasted food with a spirit like

There is one warning about letting small children help in this project which Mrs. Northington wants to pass along. If you use the melted granulated sugar to put the house together, be aware that it is very hot and could be dangerous. With extremely careful adult supervision, older children

OTHER CHRISTMAS TRADITIONS for the Northington family include making and serving her great-grandmother's pecan cake. "It is a really old fashioned recipe and may be ately. And it is pretty expensive, particularly when you think about the price of pecans this year." She further explains that the alcohol in the liquor included in the recipe will evaporate and only the flavoring is left.

This cake lasts and lasts because it is very rich and a small pièce goes a long way. When it is stale, it can be served with a vanilla or lemon sauce and is still delicious.

Mrs. Northington also has a collection of cookie cutters, some antique. So, making cut-out cookies, either with her children to help decorate, or in partnership with a friend, is another sign of Christmas for her.

The recipe for the miniature cream cheese tarts which is also included here is a new one which the couple served for some entertaining this fall. Mrs. Northington said this may be a new custom for Christmases to come. She thinks the festive red dollop of cherry pie filling is especially appropriate for the holiday season.

GINGERBREAD HOUSE

Mix together 3 cups molasses, 1 cup sugar, 11/2 cup shortening, 1 tsp. salt, 1 tbsp. ginger, 11/2 tsp. soda. Add flour (about 6 cups), enough to make a stiff dough. Keep refrig-

Grease and flour cookie sheet. Roll dough on cookie sheet (so that pieces will not have to be moved) to 1/16 to inch thickness. Cut out pieces and remove excess dough. Bake at 350 degrees until very brown.

4 egg whites

1 bag powdered sugar

Beat egg whites and gradually add sugar and vinegar.

Assemble house on 16x18-inch board. Glue house pieces together using granulated sugar that has been slowly melted in an electric fry pan. Assemble and decorate in the following order: sides, entrance, entrance roof. Frost entrance roof and sprinkle with crushed peppermint and granulated sugar. Finish assembling house. Hang icicles on entry. Lightly frost entire roof and hang icicles on the roof. Add snow on the roof and chimney and then sprinkle with crushed peppermint and granulated sugar. Add snow on the board, add other decorations and candies. Using your own imagination, finish decorating,

CHILDREN'S SUGAR COOKIES

Cream together and beat until light and fluffy 1/2 cup shortening, 1 cup sugar. Add and beat well 2 beaten eggs, and 1 tbsp. milk. Sift together 21/2 cup flour, 1/2 tsp. baking powder, 1/4 tsp.

salt, ¾ tsp. nutmeg.

Shape into a mound; chill thoroughly. Roll on lightly floured (or use powdered sugar) board. Cut, place on lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 8 minutes or until delicately browned.

Let children decorate with candies and colored sugars before baking or with frosting after baking.

PECAN CAKE

4 cups flour 2 cups sugar

1/2 lb. raisins, chopped and floured

Mrs. David Northington admires finished gingerbread house Children Kristin, 5, center and Ryan, 4, are the helpers

1 lb. pecans, shelled scant 3/4 lb. butter

1/2 cup molasses

1 tsp. soda 1 tsp. nutmeg

1 tsp. cinnamor 1 tsp. ground cloves

1 small wineglass whiskey

1/2 cup sour milk, if needed to make dough thinner. Mix all ingredients. Bake 1 to 2 hours in slow (325 degrees) oven. Judge doneness with a prick of a fork or tooth-

After the cake cools, rum or whiskey is poured over the cake and it is wrapped in cheesecloth and then foil to age. It is suggested that you make this cake for the holidays no later than the first week in December.

CREAM CHEESE TARTS

2 (8 oz.) packages cream cheese, softened

3 eggs, separated 1/3 stick margarine, melted I cup graham cracker crumbs

In a large bowl, beat softened cheese and sugar. Add 3 egg yolks and blend well. In a small bowl, beat egg whites stiff, but not dry. Fold egg whites into creamed mixture. Grease miniature muffin tins with melted butter (fills 48 little cups). Sprinkle generously with crumbs. Turn upside down for a moment to remove excess crumbs. Put about 1 tsp. cream cheese mixture in each tin. Bake in preheated oven at 350 degrees for 15 minutes. Cool pans on wire rack until mixture sinks in middle. Fill hollows with the following filling: 1 pint commercial sour cream, 2 tbsp. sugar, 2 tsp. vanilla extract.

Here's the best bargain in town!

By Jeff South Update Staff Writer

tudents at two junior high schools here are running their own restaurants. And in what just may be one of the best bargains in town, the public is invited to grade the youngsters' work.

You can do that by making a reservation for lunch at the cafeterias operated by Coordinated Vocational Academic Education (CVAE) classes at O.L. Slaton

The program not only produces delicious meals for a mere $1.50, it also makes good students out of kids who might be less than enthusiastic about

CVAE GIVES EIGHTH-GRADERS and ninth-graders some early job training in such areas as food service, sewing, child care, metal work and small motor repair, so they will be ready to go directly into "cooperative" (workstudy) programs in high school.

Girls in CVAE have set up at O.L. Slaton and Matthews small campus restaurants apart from the regular school cafeterias. The students specialize in short-order and full-course lunches. The restaurants are open to the faculty

The CVAE class at O.L. Slaton, 1602 32nd St., serves lunch every Thursday from 11:45 a.m. to 1 p.m. The class at Matthews, 417 N. Akron Ave., serves at the noon hour each Friday.

Reservations may be made by calling either school. Reservations must be made two days in advance so the correct amount of food can be purchased. NELA ALLISON, A COUNSELOR at O.L. Slaton, explained that CVAE is "a course for boys and girls who plan to go from public school directly into "The course is available for eighth-grade and ninth-grade students who are experiencing some difficulty in regular academic work. Eighth-graders enrolled in this program must be 14 years of age before Sept. 1, and those in the ninth-grade must be 15 years of age before Sept. 1 to be entered in this program," Mrs. Allison said.

making. "The students are taught to cook and serve short orders, purchase and care for foods, operate cash registers and do upholstering. Practical homemaking such as personal grooming, sewing, child care and ironing also is in-

STEL Bandine Street

"For the boys, the classes also meet two hours daily and provide instruction in the area of welding, machine drafting, the use of machine lathe, shaper, drill press and grinders," Mrs. Allison said.

"Both courses include one-hour courses in useful English, everyday arithmetic, practical science, community study and physical education."

AT MATTHEWS JUNIOR HIGH, the program for girls is the same, but boys are taught small motor repair instead of metal work.

"It is our purpose, as the students continue in this course, to prepare them for positions that will reward them with a living wage. We feel that this program is of great help to the students because the classes are smaller and the students are given more individual attention," Mrs. Allison said.

Patsy Anderson, who teaches the 15 girls in O.L. Slaton's CVAE program, said the course especially helps students "who for various reasons are absent a lot, or who just don't like coming to school."

CVAE encourages students "to take more of an interest in school," Mrs. Anderson said.

One particular benefit is that when they graduate from junior high, the students can enter a Cooperative CVAE program as sophomores as Lubbock High or Dunbar-Struggs High, Mrs. Anderson said.

ORDINARILY STUDENTS MUST wait until their junior year in high school to get into cooperative vocational programs, which allow them to attend class in the morning and work at local businesses in the afternoon.

CVAE students get into work-study programs a year earlier. School officials say CVAE is especially successful with students whose academic or attendance background makes them potential dropouts.

The philosophy of CVAE is to interest such youngsters in a set of job-orient-ed skills and build their academic curriculum around that interest.

Tech coaches to spend winter shopping

By Don Henry Update Sports Editor

Almost from the opening kickoff, it was evident that this was to be an Arkansas day. But, from the opening kickoff of three months ago, it was a Texas Tech season.

And now, with the football pads packed away, the black helmets stashed in a rack, not to be snapped on until next spring, Texas Tech coaches will spend the winter shopping, but not for Christmas presents so much as future

Also, head coach Rex Dockery will be spending some of his time looking for another assistant coach, with the resignation of quarterback-receivers coach Watson Brown to become head man at Austin Peay State College in Tennessee.

"It's vital that we have a good recruiting year this time," Dockery has said on numerous occasions. He felt that last year's recruiting group was good, and this is backed up by the fact that several figured in the Raiders' 7-4 season. At least four started, and about 15 played

But, the 7-4 season wasn't what was expected of the Raiders, just as the 49-7 humiliation they absorbed in Fayetteville, Ark., last Saturday wasn't expect-

Tech had gone into that game with an outside shot at the Cotton Bowl. But, from the opening kickoff, the Razorbacks, a preseason choice for the national championship, controlled the game. They scored on the game's first drive, recovered a Tech fumble on its first scrimmage play, scored again, and ran up a 42-0 halftime advantage.

In the last half, Tech was able to score, freshman Ron Reeves sneaking over from the 1 after another freshman tailback Phil Weatherall, had reeled off a 15-yard wide play.

But, just two plays after the Tech scored, Arkansas responded for its final TD, and the Razorbacks were content to play reserves and keep the score at that 42-point spread.

The loss snapped a six-game Tech winning streak, one which went hand-in-glove with fullback James Hadnot's rushing performances.

The Tech streak began with a wild offensive exhibition in Albuquerque, when Hadnot set a school record for rushing with 268 yards. Then, Hadnot picked up more than 100 yards rushing every game in the Tech streak.

Against Arkansas, however, he was able to manage-but 69 yards rushing. Still, the 250-pound junior finished the season with 1369 yards rushing, a new school season record and the third highest season total in Southwest Conference history, topped only by all-Americas Earl Campbell and Roosevelt Leaks of

And for his surprise season after being moved from tight end to the backfield, Hadnot was named this week to the Associated Press' all-America third team.

After the Raiders were picked so low in the league - ninth place by at least two forecasters - the fourth-place finish in the conference brought a stack of Coach of the Year awards for Dockery. He was named that honor by both Associated Press and United Press Interna-

Freshman Reeves also reaped honors, as newcomer of the year, and Hadnot was named by at least one group as the conference's offensive player of the Tech started with one victory (over Arizona) in its first four games, then started its winning streak.

Next year, Tech will have the same schedule as this year, except the sites will be reversed. Tech will open the season at home against the University of Southern California, a team which defeated the Raiders 17-9 in this year's sea-

Again, it will play New Mexico and Arizona in nonconference, in addition to

son opener in Los Angeles

Tech will be without only nine players who competed this fall. The graduating seniors are quarterback Tres Adami, wide receivers Godfrey Turner and Brian Nelson, centers Kim Taliaferro and Travis Mileur, noseguard Curtis Reed, linebacker Don Kelly, defensive end Olan Tisdale, and cornerback Mike

Two games separate Matadors, title

By Bob Bajackson Update Sports Writer

Hanging in a corner in the Estacado locker room is a plaque. It states: District AAA Champions 1968.

If you stop and think about it, the Matadors are just two games away from having their second state championship. And though Coach Louis Kelley realizes his team is getting close to the state title, the Matador mentor isn't getting impatient.

We're just going to take them one game at a a time," repeats Kelley.

This week, the Matadors have qualified for the semifinals by getting past Snyder in quarterfinal action last week 27-9. Estacado will play Gainesville, a 30-16 victor over Carthage. Kickoff is slated for 6 p.m. Saturday at Memorial Stadium in Wichita Falls.

Tickets to the contest can be purchased at the Central Athletic Office on 19th Street and at Estacado High School. The cost is $4 for adults and $2.50 for

Estacado tied the score on the last play of the first quarter when Kelvin White booted a 35-yard field goal and then put a 27-yarder through the uprights later in the game for an insurance

The example of the kicking game ex-emplifies the fact that Estacado is developing a confident scoring attack.

Further proof comes from Snyder Coach Mike Jenkins: "The Estacado team that played us was unlike their teams of the past. They didn't lose their composure after we scored in the second half to narrow the lead."

What Jenkins was referring to was last week in the third quarter when the Tigers scored a touchdown to narrow the Matador lead at the time to 20-9. However, Estacado didn't panic and then in the final period, White dashed 72 yards to put the contest out of reach. But despite the Matadors' improvement, Kelley is still worried about this week's foe Gainesville.

If Lubbock musicians have a common meeting point it's probably producer Den Caldwell's studio. A Lubbock native and accomplished musician himself, Caldwell prides himself on keeping open the lines of communication between producer and musician. He has some pretty ambitious plans for Lubbock musicians as outlined in the

Caldwell: proves skeptics wrong

Update Staff Writer

Rushing down the dimly lit hallway - a tape clutched in one hand and a cigarette in the other - Don Caldwell offered a quick apology.

'Hey I'm sorry I'm late." Working right up to the wire, he had been mixing a tape for a new album. The tape he held so tightly is a business landmark for Caldwell. Recorded by his wife, Terry Sue Newman, the tape will be the first released on Caldwell's Texas Soul label and distributed through the newly incorporated "Taupe Music" company, which he shares with Larry Corbin. He's proved a few skeptics wrong.

WHEN CALDWELL OPENED his music store-cum-recording studio on Avenue Q in 1971, there was the usual assortment of folks who said a recording studio would never make a go of it in a town like Lubbock.

And to hear Caldwell tell it, he very nearly folded on several occasions. You hear the same stories from a lot of small businessmen - missed rent payments, periods without business and the mistakes that make a person think he may be in the wrong business. But Caldwell's dreams for his studio can be traced back to the late Buddy Holly. No. Caldwell did not know Holly.

But Caldwell's distribution company runs parallel to plans Holly made short-ly before he died, according to Caldwell. Always interested in new talent, Holly had planned a production-distrubution company himself. FOR APPARENTLY SENTIMENTAL reasons, Holly was to name the company after the color of his Cadillac - taupe.

Caldwell said he received Holly's parents' blessing to use the name for his any. Distribution, it seems to Caldwell, is the key to getting recognition for Lubbock musicians.

Caldwell was only in the eighth grade when Holly was killed in a plane crash and he doesn't claim any particular inspiration from the late musician. Rather, he worked for years as a musician himself in this area and saw the need for a studio first-hand.

Caldwell is still known to a lot of people as a top-notch saxophone player. He has been playing professionally since he was 17 and began traveling upon graduation from high school.

"I thought I'd made the big time," Caldwell admitted with a sheepish grin. He remembers opening for a group in New Mexico who went by the name of "The Champs," now known as Seals and Crofts. Not without a little pride, he added that Glen Campbell was also a part of the group.

HE DID A LOT OF traveling in those days. But wanting to learn how to read music, he enrolled as a music major at Texas Tech. He describes his education as an in-and-out process since his periods in school were broken up by out-of-city music tours.

Working as a studio musician, Caldwell said he became interested in the electronic end of music. After selling stereo equipment for about a year and a half, he decided he was ready to open his own studio. Caldwell started his recording studio as a back-room operation to his music store. At a time when other studios were running eight-and 16-track studio tapes, Caldwell ran a two-track studio.

'Boy, there's been some slim times in this studio," he said. He laughed about the first album he produced, saying he was lucky to ever get it rolling.
"I kind of knew how to record it," he said apologetically. "I know I got lucky. The quality of the record is not that good.

THE STUDIO HAS EXPANDED to 16-track capability and Caldwell anticipates increasing recording capability to 24 tracks. After bringing his recording equipment up to par, Caldwell is focusing on exposure for area musicians.

He claims some successes, already. Area musician Joe Ely recorded with Caldwell and used the tapes to get his present contract with MCA Records, according to Caldwell.

He will release his wife's album shortly, followed by an album for Kenny Maines, part of the local Maines Brothers musical team. He's enthusiastic if not actually convinced that both albums will make his Texas Soul label a viable segment in the music industry.

"There are a lot of people we'd like to get national releases for," Caldwell mused. "This has been one of my dreams. I felt like there was good talent here but no place to record."

STEPPING OUT ON A LIMB, Caldwell said, "I don't care what the people in Nashville say, Lubbock is the center of what's happening in country music

We have a lot more activity here than in Austin," Caldwell claimed. He predicted an increase in music, musicians and nightclubs in Lubbock and said public and financial support from the Lubbock audience will be a determining factor in how far native musicians will go.

"Staying in business has been the direct result of people helping us," Caldwell said. He gives the lion's share of credit to Lloyd Maines, who helps out with engineering work at the studio. Recent publicity for Caldwell's studio and the Lubbock music community through Billboard and Texas Monthly magazines has been a boon to business, he added.

He compared Lubbock musicians to a high-spirited football team, in that everybody wants to win. Coaching the team may not be the ultimate satisfaction for Caldwell, however, since he loves to play as well.

"IT'S NOT NECESSARILY a drag because I love to record. But no matter how hard it has gotten here I've never really wanted to quit.

"It's probably just total ignorance," he quipped, leaning back against the control board and lighting another cigarette.

Traffic Update: the changing scene

(Editor's note: The following article is presented by the Lubbock Citizens Traffle Commission in cooperation with Update to help keep local motorists better informed on traffic-related matters.)

THE CHANGING scene: For several years, there has been a right-turn-only lane at 13th Street, Broadway and Main Street, for traffic northbound on Avenue Q. That situation has changed, says Mickey Powell of the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

The removal of the right-turn-only designation on those three blocks provides three lanes of through traffic north from 16th Street to Fourth Street. This will make it safer to drive on Avenue Q and traffic will move more rapid-

SAFETY FACTORS built into streets can become hazards if used improperly, says City Traffic Engineer Bill McDaniel. One example is the continuoustwo-way-left-turn-lane. Several of these lanes have been added to Lubbock's major thoroughfares in the past few years. They should provide convenience for drivers who wish to make left turns into businesses or at intersections not guarded by electronic signals.

Properly used, these left turn lanes provide convenience for the driver and prevent accidents, particularly of the rear-end variety.

But they can cause accidents if misused. They are designed for turning lanes, not for through traffic. You should not enter a continuous left turn lane until you are almost ready to make your turn.

SOME FLAGRANT examples of misuse occur at 27th Street and Avenue Q, and at the intersection of Fourth Street and Avenue X, as well as other intersections, says McDaniel. Drivers are not only using the left turn lanes as through lanes, they are actually crossing these intersections as if the lanes extended across. This is dangerous as well as illegal, McDaniel stressed.

AS OF TUESDAY, Dec. 5, Lubbock had experienced 29 days free of traffic-

There has been an interesting series of editorials lately on the recent IRS proposal to remove tax exempt status from private schools. I would particularly like to respond to Mr. Robert Woelke's letter on November 19.

I am the chairman of a local organization recently formed known as Citizens For Tax-Free Private Education. I appreciate the response of Mr. Woelke because it reflects the thinking of many American people. This gives us an opportunity to better clarify our message to the public.

I BELIEVE most American people want what is right and best for all people. But I do not feel that the American people want bureaucratic control. We know that it has been well established that once the government takes minor' control in the beginnings, that they will eventually completely control an organization. I believe that it is important for American people to recognize the subtle attempts of the government to gain control of the mission of the church.

In recent years there has been a new surge of Godliness within the Christian community. We are once again seeing the battle of David and Goliath. We willalso see the walls of Jerico being shaken as God's people begin to stand for their convictions. Psalms 2 tells of this spirit-

CONVICTION IS what it is all about. Many people look at private education as only a preference above public education. However, many Christians are now recognizing that they are disobeying God by not teaching their children the Christian philosophy. For example: When you studied history, did you ever study the convenant God made with Abraham and how it directly relates to the Mideast conflict of today? Did you study that God is the ultimate and final source of truth, or did you study that there are many truths that you can select from? This is what I mean by a Christian philosophy of education.

The issues that IRS has raised does not on the surface look like they would damage the teaching of the Christian philosophy. However, if the precedence is established that tax exemption is a form of federal support, then the government can and most likely would enforce the same maze of federal regulations on the private school as they have on the public school. If they say a school is discriminating against race, then what about sex and religion? Once they have their "foot in the door," what is to keep them from saying that tax exemption would be withheld if homosexuals are discriminated against or if a particular Christian philosophy were to be taught?

CONGRESS FORESAW this problem when it passed the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. Under Section 501 (C) (3) of the act, tax exemption would be ex-tended to funds or foundations operated exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, literary or educational purposes, so that these institutions would be beyond state control.

The IRS is violating their own purpose for issuing tax exemption! It is incorrect that IRS purposes to tax those private schools which appear to have been organized for the purpose of promoting ra-cial segregation. The Federal Register where the IRS procedure was stated reads as follows:

'The proposed revenue procedure deals primarily with two types of schools: (1) Those which have been held by a court or agency to be racially discriminatory, and (2) those which have an insignificant number of minority students and were formed or substantially expanded at or about the time of desegregation of the public schools in the

THE SERVICE will consider these schools to be racially discriminatory unless the schools can show that they now have a significant minority enrollment or that they are in good faith operated on a nondiscriminatory basis. Only in rare and unusual circumstances will a school be considered to be operated in good faith on a nondiscriminatory basis if the school does not meet these requirements."

In other words, all private schools will have to meet the percentage require-ments plus grant scholarship to minorities, employ minority teachers, teach minority curriculum, etc. A school can be trying very hard to open its doors to minorities and still not meet these standards. The church where I minister actively ministers to the minority through a major outreach center in northeast Lubbock, as well as having many blacks in our pulpit throughout the year. Even though we have a tremendous love for the minority, we would not begin to reach the required percentage of minority attendance.

WHOLEHEARTEDLY agree that schools should not be operated for the purpose of avoiding racial discrimination. However, as an old saying goes, "let us not throw out the baby with the bath wash." To say that all schools. bath wash." To say that all schools. opened or expanded after 1957 are guilty of racially discriminating is a ridiculous statement. It has also been since that time that quality education has declined and discipline and violence have increased in our public schools.

The IRS already has a policy that says tax exemption may not be issued to a school that discriminates against minorities. This new procedure violates the Constitution where it says that the gov-

Constitution where it says that the gov-ernment will not make any law that abridges the free exercise of religion.

If law tells you who will teach and what you teach, then it violates this amendment. If a school cannot meet these standards and is required to pay taxes, that does not mean that they are free from control any more than any business that can be closed down if the fail to meet government regulations on discrimination.

I feel that the IRS should go after the schools that have already violated the law rather than creating law that make the innocent look guilty.
