The National Front's official spokesman, Dariush Forouhar, was selected as labor minister.

Seeks Broad Support Western diplomats said the selection of leading National Front figures indicated that Bazargan, a human rights activist and former Front member, was seeking to broaden support beyond the religious community that had been at the forefront of the anti-shah struggle.

"I think it represents a broadening of the government and gets in other more diverse elements," said one diplomat.

Front leaders have generally espoused what could be considered moderately leftist views, but the new government is certain to avoid military ties with either major world power.

Snubbed Earlier Sanjaby, who holds a doctorate in law from the University of Paris, was snubbed by Khomeini two weeks ago when the Moslem religious leader/returned from 14 years in exile. The fact that Sanjaby was selected for the privisional government probably was a result of Bazargan's influence.

American diplomats reportedly have met privately in recent days with Sanjaby and were pleased with the appointment.

Deposed Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar was arrested Tuesday by armed guerrillas. He was taken blindfolded to Khomeini's headquarters and was reported to have been under Bazargan's protecion after raiders ransacked his home on the outskirts of Tehran.

Khomeini aides said they did not know what charges Bakhtiar would face. "He is a prisoner of the government," one said. See ORDER Page 14

St. Valentine's Day warm hearts. Lubbock registered 81 degrees Tuesday afternoon, topping the old mark of 80, set in 1962.

Today's forecast calls for more of the same, with sunny skies and gentle breezes, and temperatures in the lower 80s. By late afternoon, though, winds should become westerly and gust between 15 and 20 mph as a cold front moves in, lowering temperatures closer to the seasonal norm.

Lows tonight should be in the lower 30s, with a high Thursday around 50.

Across the state, skies are expected to be mostly cloudy, with a chance for some fog along the Gulf Coast. Fog enveloped the Wichita Falls area Tuesday night, reducing visibility to less than See ST. VALENTINE Page 14

Council To Re-Examine Affiliation With SPAG

Avalanche-Journal Staff

IN THE WAKE of a dispute over the small amount of criminal justice funds going to the City of Lubbock from the South Plains Association of Government, the Lubbock City Council will scrutinize the city's relationship with SPAG at next week's council meeting.

The decision to re-examine the city's participation in SPAG comes on the heels

of Tuesday's decision by the SPAG board of directors not to recommend federal criminal justice funding for city projects

Also Tuesday, City Manager Larry Cunningham met for three hours in Austin with Criminal Justice Division officials who indicated they are "very, very concerned the City of Lubbock is not getting any (criminal justice) funding.

The flap over the allocation of justice funds in the SPAG region prompt ed Lubbock Mayor Dirk West and Councilwoman Carolyn Jordan to call for an evaluation of the Council of Government's dealings with the city.

Fears City Not Benefitting

SPAG is really another layer of bureaucracy between governments," West said. "They might serve some necessary purpose for smaller, surrounding communities, but I'm not sure the city-is benefitting." he said.

"It's time to re-think" the city's relationship with SPAG, West said. "At this point we need to get everybody's input, then determine a course of action, if any

"It's just hard to understand why the city has not received any better treatment on its applications for criminal justice grants," he said.

'We have a crime problem, and we're looking for every bit of help available." However, he said, the city has received very little help from the criminal justice committee or from SPAG. "Somehow or another SPAG has not seen fit to give us the cooperation we feel like we should have." he said. "If we can't get better cooperation than we've been getting, then it's time to take a look at just what the relationship is."

WORK STOPPAGE ENDS UNITED NATIONS (AP) - A work stoppage conducted at U.N. headquarters since Jan. 23 has ended, a U.N. spokesman said Tuesday. The stoppage took the form of a job action, in which employees came to their offices each day but instead use to take part in them. It appears they play a few in SPAG," he said. Mrs. Jordan, a former SPAG president, said she'd like the city council to consider what we can do to strengthen our position in SPAG" and raise questions about 'what value we're getting" from SPAG membership. At Tuesday's SPAG board of directors meeting, Mrs. Jordan urged members to fund at least one of the city's two criminal justice projects. 'This is the second year in a row the Ci-

Drug Traffic 'War' Set By Clements

DALLAS (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements announced Tuesday creation of what he called a "blue-ribbon citizens' committee" chaired by Dallas computer magnate H. Ross Perot to advise and assist in all phases of an "all-out war" against drug traffic.

Clements said 10 other members will be appointed to the panel and will represent the state geographically.

The panel will report to Clements, who will make its findings available to several different agencies, both state and feder-

Protection Sought What we're talking about, and what most people really understand, is the desire to walk in our neighborhoods at night without being mugged; the desire to return home from vacation and not find our home ransacked or vandalized; the desire to operate a business without worrying about when an armed robber will come in: the desire to park our car at a shopping center and not have it stolen; the desire to protect our children from illicit drugs; or the desire to protect women from rapists." Clements recently returned from Mexico. where he held wide-ranging discussions with President Jose Lopez Portillo. He said the Mexican government supports his anti-drug drive and that the United States-Mexico border will be a focal point for the commission's work.

He said he expected no budgetary problems with the new commission, since he expects most work to be voluntary. Concerning recent speculation that he might be a favorite son candidate for president in the Texas Republican primary. Clements said he hadn't considered the matter. "My plate is full," he said. "I have no plans in that regard." Clements also said he did not believe reports that President Carter's trip to Mexico this week would include no disussions about energy.

He said Texas is a "natural market" for Mexican oil and gas and that he expected an oil-gas arrangement between Mexico and the United States this year.

Murder Testimony Links Drugs A-J Correspondent

CLOVIS, N.M. - A witness in the murder trial of David Allen Barcheers of Hobbs, told a Ninth Judicial Court jury here Tuesday that he saw Barcheers shoot 22-year-old Dannie Lynn McKay of Bovina, Texas, in the back of the head. Barcheers, 29, is accused of first degree murder in the Aug. 17, 1978, killing of McKay, whose body was discovered in a smoldering pickup truck on a county road two miles southwest of Higginbotham,

In testimony Tuesday, Rickie Williams of Hobbs said he saw Barcheers shoot McKay during the early morning hours on Aug. 17.

"We (McKay, Barcheers and Williams) were shooting pigeons in a barn behind David's trailer in Humble City. I heard something, and as I turned I saw David shoot Dannie in the back of the head," Williams testified.

Williams said he and Barcheers loaded the body into McKay's pickup truck and then Williams drove the truck to the Denver City Highway with Barcheers following him in another pickup.

"At the direction of David, I then set the pickup on fire," Williams said, during his 2 1/2-hour testimony. In other testimony, Jimmy Amerson of Hobbs testified that Barcheers had told him that McKay was trying to "rip him off" on a narcotics transaction. "David told me 'we've got to do it to him before he does it to us," Amerson said. Amerson also told of how he had made a deal to buy 125 pounds of marijuana from Barcheers through McKay.

James "Easy" Colston of Hobbs testified that he purchased drugs from Barcheers and understood from Barcheers that the drugs were coming from McKay.

During questioning by the prosecution, Colston also said that about two weeks prior to the killing, he had stolen 12 pounds of marijuana from McKay's hotel room in Hobbs. He said that he, Barcheers and Barcheer's brother, George, were splitting the marijuana.

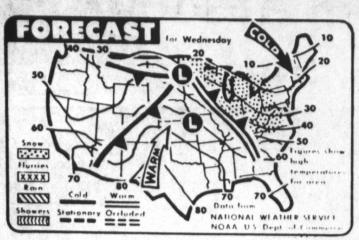

David then started telling me that Danny was after me, and I believe at the same time, David was telling Danny that I was after him." Colston said. "We (Colston and Barcheers) talked about doing away with McKay - about getting him in the country and shooting him.

In Monday's testimony, deputy sheriff Cary Barbaree of Lea County said that Barcheers told him that McKay was killed during a narcotics transaction.

portation Committee, where it died in the 1977 Legislature. The Wyoming Legislature apparently killed a proposal Tuesday to raise that state's limit to 65 mph.

Head said he doesn't care what Wyoming does and he thinks President Carter is wrong in calling the legislation "ill-advised." "The statistics just don't support all I've read about how this 55 mph saves energy and lives," he contended. And he predicted the federal government would back down in a confrontation over highway funds.

"I don't think they'll take a nickel of this money. I think our senators and congressmen are capable enough to keep them from taking that money," he

"And if they do, that's well worth the fight to establish the principle of the state's right to govern itself," he added.

Head disputed polls that conclude most Americans favor the 55 mph limit "I don't believe this is true among people who drive automobiles," he said. The legislator said a study from the Texas Transportation Institute at Texas A&M University shows that Texas could lose $8 million unless drivers slow down appreciably by September. The funds would be jeopardized if more than 70 percent of Texas drivers exceed the 55 mph limit in seven months, he said.

Federal officials are trying to blackmail the state by requiring compliance with the law, he claimed,

Prosecuting Small Crimes Takes Time, Says Texas House

AUSTIN (AP) - The House tentatively approved a bill Tuesday that would give prosecutors twice as much time to bring traffic cases and low-grade misdemeanor cases to trial.

Final passage, expected today, would send the Senate-approved bill (SB106) to Gov. Bill Clements for signature.

The 1977 Speedy Trial Act requires dismissal of misdemeanors punishable by only a fine if they are not brought to trial within 30 days. The new bill would lengthen that to 60 days.

Rep. Ron Waters, D-Houston, told the House the 30-day limit "has worked a hardship on the administration of the court system." He said it "mainly affects traffic cases. The House passed to the Senate on voice vote a bill providing fines up to $200 for bringing alcoholic beverages onto the grounds of public schools

The law now treats drinking on campus as a school discipline problem, with no punishment but suspension. The new bill would make it a crime and enable principals to call police to deal with drinking

House members voted tentative approval of a bill appropriating $161,805 to the Board of Registration for Professional Engineers to put finishing touches such as carpeting, furniture and a lawn sprinkling system - on its new office

Three Major Coffee Firms Slash Price Five Cents A Pound

NEW YORK (AP) - The nation's three largest coffee companies have cut wholesale prices on ground coffee by a nickel a pound, continuing an 18month-long decline due in large part to increasing production in Brazil and

The wholesale price reductions may be reflected in retail price cuts as new shipments reach supermarket shelves. But in many areas, coffee already sells at or below wholesale prices because supermarket managers widely use the popular brew as a promotional item.

The price changes were announced Tuesday by General Foods Corp., maker of the best-selling Maxwell House coffee, and on Monday by second-ranked Procter & Gamble Co.'s Folger's division and by third-ranked Hills Brothers.

Maxwell House, Folger's and Hills Brothers coffees each went from $2.53 to $2.48 a one-pound can at wholesale. Among other reductions, General Foods' premium Yuban brand went from $2.62 to $2.57 a pound, while Folger's flake coffee and Hills Brothers' High Yield brand dropped from $2.04 to $2 for a 13ounce can.

But a nationwide spot check of supermarkets Tuesday indicated Maxwell House is selling at one New York chain for as little as $1.99 a pound, 49 cents below wholesale. In Palm Beach, Fla., a large chain store is selling Maxwell House for $2.43 a pound, while in Northridge, Calif., the brand is selling at $2.54. just a penny a pound over the old wholesale price. According to the AP market basket survey of retail food prices across the country every month, the price of a one-pound can of Maxwell House or its equivalent averaged $2.66 on Feb. 1, down 22 percent from $3.42 a pound on Coffee prices reached their high point in June 1977, after frosts destroyed crops of green beans in Brazil and Colombia, sending the price of a one-pound can spiraling to $4.19. In February 1974, a pound of coffee sold for $1.11.

A return to better weather in Brazil has meant a sharp increase in global coffee supplies. Brazil, the world's leading coffee producer, has estimated its 1978-1979 crop at 20 million 132-pound bags, up 14 percent from last year. The world's coffee crop, says the U.S. Agriculture Department, will total 74.5 million bags, up 7 percent from a year earlier.

Industry analysts say the world's coffee drinkers will consume about threequarters of this year's crop, leaving a surplus that will help keep prices from rising. That surplus is reflected in stocks of green coffee at American roasters, which totaled 2.3 million bags at the end of 1978, up 38 percent from 1977. But coffee consumption has been rising as production gains and prices fall. American coffee companies roasted 15 percent more beans last year than in 1977, and "that indicates a recouping of sales," said George Boeklin, president of the National Coffee Association, an industry organization.

According to the Agriculture Department, Americans drank 7.3 pounds of coffee per person last year, up from 6.9 pounds in 1977 but still well below the average of 9.4 pounds per person of 1974-1976. Industry analysts expect consumption to increase again in 1979, perhaps to as much as 7.5 pounds per per-

In Washington, the State Department deplored the apparent shooting down of the airliner, saying. "There can be no justification for such action.

Department press spokesman Hodding Carter said the downing of the airplane underscores the need for a political settlenient involving the guerrilla groups. Carter said. "We will continue to explore ways to move the Rhodesian situation along. We have not stopped trying.

Smith had criticized the United States and Britain earlier in the day for having what he considered a friendly attitude toward the guerrillas.

At the scene of the wreckage, soldiers stood guard Tuesday during investigagion of the crash. "We're keeping a 24-hour guard and nothing has been moved yet. said one soldier. "But there's really nothing left to take.

A child's red sandal, a man's jacket, a gold bracelet and a checkbook seemed all that remained undamaged in the wreckage. Only the tail of the blue-and-white aircraft remained intact.

One official said the plane appeared to have come down "like a stone" in a rugged ravine.

'It is a tragedy so serious that if it is established again that Nkomo's people did . Nkomo should not weep when we re-

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - The Soviet Union has offered the use of its territory for the evacuation of foreigners trying to leave Iran but all frontier crossings have been closed from the Iranian side, Western diplomats said Tuesday.

They reported at least 1,000 Americans and 150 Britons are among the foreign nationals wanting to get out following the victory Sunday of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's Islamic revolution and harassment by some of Khomeini's militant

Tehran radio, seized Sunday by Khomeini's rebels when the imperial army surrendered, ordered the border and all airports closed indefinitely to block wanted officials of previous royal regimes from fleeing the country.

Evacuation routes via the Soviet Union probably would be by aircraft from Tehran to Moscow or by Soviet ships from Iran's Caspian seaport of Bandar Pahlavi to Baku in Soviet Azerbaijan. The Bandar Pahlavi-Baku ferry normally operates once a week, but it is not known if it is functioning now. In the past two days, armed guerrillas professing loyalty to Khomeini have rounded up more than 400 foreigners in Tehran. Many were hotel guests herded together in lobbies and released after their luggage was searched. Their personal property usually was safeguarded.

Others have been held for up to 12 hours by armed groups, questioned about their activities and transported around the city under guard.

There have been no reports of serious injuries among the captives, although some were terrified, and on most occasions they were freed with profuse apologies, according to the diplomats. The victims often were told they had to understand that Iran is going through a revolution.

The guerrillas apparently are looking for foreign intelligence agents who they fear threaten the revolution, the diplomats said.

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Retired U.S. Army Gen. Robert N. Mackinnon, taken prisoner by victorious rebels, said Tuesday he received an anti-American lecture and then apologies before being released.

Mackinnon, now general manager of Bell Helicopter International in Iran, was among seven Bell employees held for up to eight h lars of Moslem patriarch Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini who seized the 15-story Hilton Hotel. Before moving in, the rebels sprayed the hotel front with automatic weapons fire. One Bell employee, identified as Warren F. Harber, suffered slight flesh wounds in the arm and chest, another was cut by flying glass and a third was struck in the back with a rifle butt during the hotel takeover, witnesses said. They also said some gunmen kicked in the doors to loot hotel rooms and took $42.860 worth of Iranian currency from a Bell cash box in the destructive aftermath to the capitulation of the shah's imperial army When order was partially restored by rebel commanders, some of the stolen property was returned, but not the cash, and the seven Bell employees were taken to Khomeini's headquarters where they were freed They were among 330 Bell staffers in the hotel awaiting evacuation. The looting began after all of the hotel guests were ordered to go to the lobby for screening by the gunmen, according to witnesses. Two Bell security men. Andreas Arcaya. a former Walnut Creek, Calif., policeman, and G.W. Stewart of Guymon, Okla., were accused of being agents of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, "but it wasn't true," Mackinnon said.

'They (the insurgents) heard 'security' and got suspicious. One Bell employee, who did not give her name, said, "It was just an excuse for taking over the hotel. It's a miracle that no one was killed. Mackinnon said he was picked out by the gunmen because they found his old military service ribbons in a suitcase during a search of his room.

Harassment of foreigners also was reported in other cities.

U.S. sources said an armed gang seized a radio set from a group of U.S. military advisers Tuesday in the southern city of Shiraz.

Officials at Khomeini headquarters stressed he has issued instructions over national radio saying foreigners must not to be harmed, but they said not all armed bands are under the Moslem leader's control. One suggested communist groups were setting their own policy. Once air service is restored, about 150 of the remaining 1,500 British subjects and at least 1,000 of some 7,000 Americans are expected to fly out.

If commercial air service isn't resumed quickly, much of the evacuation burden could fall on the U.S. Air Force's airlift command. There are still about 250 U.S. military advisers in Iran, and Khomeini has claimed they were used to bring the army under American control. A U.S. military official said Tuesday that talks on the status of the advisers were "very amicable," but declined to give details. Other sources indicated the talks were mainly about how to get the advisers out of the country.

Iran--Carter's Myopic View

THE FINAL chapter to the trauma that is Iran may not be written for months.

Before any semblance of long-term order or direction is imposed, much more bloodshed, confusion and cost to the U.S.-in prestige and economic factors—is most like-

Laving aside President Carter's naivete about "getting along" with the radical religious regime of Ayatollah Khomeini and his ragtag band of socialist leaders, there will be no quick and easy solution to either Iran's internal problems nor its relationship to the

IN BRIEF, A new day and perhaps a dark night has come about in the volatile Mideast. The resulting fallout will be felt from Saudi Arabia and Israel to the canyons of Wall Street and the gas pumps of America.

First, it should come as no surprise to those who study such things that the forces of anarchy which helped topple Shah Mohammed Pahlavi's regime now can't readily be put back in their cages.

Secondly, for the White House to glibly ignore past statements "putting down" Washington from Khomeini's top spokesmen reflects the same type of thinking which has gotten us into the mess we are in in a half a dozen points around the globe already.

Thirdly, it is no accident of timing that the Soviet Union was among the first to recognize the new Khomeini regime. And why not? It is tailor-made for further Communist ALREADY, THERE are signs that the ultra-leftist influence, from students and faculty at Tehran University to outsiders who have infiltrated outlying cities won't be satisfied with a small, subservient role in the new government.

Now armed, as a result of Iran's armed forces being "neutralized," this "army of the streets" may well precipitate its own brand of reform against the conservatives, moderates and religious leaders who got in bed with it in the first place.

After the euphoria of "victory," if that is what it is, for the masses, will come the more urgent questions: such as adequate food supplies, oil for the stoves and lamps, jobs, security from a Russian bear hungrily licking its chops to the north.

ONE OF THE major problems associated with Khomeini's takeover is that thus far he has not outlined any concrete stance for Iran other than it would have an Islamic govern-

And while from his curious rationale, this may make sense, if Iran is to live in today's world, he and his leaders must come to grips with how to do it.

In that context, for the President to glibly leave the impression that this nation had been in some sort of close contact with the Khomeini forces and that things were going to work out is unrealistic.

PERHAPS, AT some level, we have been in contact. But, to downplay the damage in Iran only adds to the feeling that the administration either is naive or misleading the people. The answer is probably a bit of both. Now of all times, it is imperative that the White House and State Department be realistic-with themselves if not the nation.

The truth is that this nation has just suffered a major diplomatic setback, not to mention the blow to the Free World's economy, even if on a temporary basis.

What happens in Washington the next few days and weeks is just as important as what happens in Tehran.

starting today, is in large part a fence-mending mission. And we don't mean one along the border, although that too might be a subject for discussion.

What Mr. Carter faces in this journey south of the Rio Grande is a "selling" job more than a buying one. Portillo complained that "Mexico is neither on the list of U.S. priorities nor on the list of U.S. respect.

It will be the President's job to try to change Lopez Portillo's feeling.

Of course, no one on either side of the border is kidding themselves what the main purpose of the visit is. The U.S. needs oil and gas. Mexico has oil and gas, in abundance, it turns out. So, the Georgia man in the White House have plenty to talk about.

PRESIDENT CARTER'S trip to Mexico, will need not only to turn on all his southern charm, but convince the Mexican leaders that it is as much in their interest as ours to work out a mutually satisfactory arrange-

This may not be such an easy task. Mexico is determined not to make the mistake which has exploded in Iran, that of letting Last Fall, Mexican President Jose Lopez its newly-found oil and gas reserves push it too fast. Too, oil is not the only subject which will be on the agenda.

Mexico in recent years has been a leading

U.S. trading partner; with the trend favorable to the U.S., a fact which could change rapidly if we start importing oil and gas. Too, the thousands of Mexican aliens who flock to the U.S. pose a problem for both nations. Verily, Mr. Carter and Lopez Portillo

M. STANTON EVANS:

GOP Ready For Battle, Demos Ready For War

WASHINGTON-The Republican presidential race for 1980 begins to resemble the Democratic face of 1976-with potentially curious consequences for the GOP.

Declared or prospective candidates for next year's Republican nomination include Ronald Reagan, John Connally, George Bush, Howard Baker, Robert Dole, and Illinois Reps. Philip Crane and John Anderson-with Crane and Connally already declared and the others in various stages of preparation.

In addition, Rep. Jack Kemp of New York increasingly has the look of a presidential hopeful, and is being prodded in this direction by his ad-

That makes eight possible-to-certain candidates a year before the New Hampshire primary, and doesn't include such other potential contenders as Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina, Gov. James Thompson of Illinois, perennial aspirant Harold Stassen, California businessman Ben Fernandez, and others who will probably surface in the months to come.

IT IS NOT impossible that the presidential battle of 1980 will offer as many as a dozen choices to Republican voters.

Such a melee would parallel the Democratic face three years ago, when Henry Jackson, Birch Bayh, Fred Harris, Morris Udall, Sargent Shriver. Frank Church, et al., contended for their party's nomination. The turmoil of that contest permitted long-shot

Jimmy Carter to slip through to victory. Republican hopefuls coming from behind are obviously hoping for a similar outcome this time around. There is no guarantee, however, that things will ctually work out in that fashion. The secret of Carter's success in 1976 was his distinctiveness, as opposed to the rest of the Democratic candidates.

WHEN GEORGE Wallace faded as a serious contender, Carter the "outsider" was perceived by Democratic voters as the only moderate-toconservative candidate running against a field of liberals (at least on the domestic issues).

That perception enabled him to accumulate a solid bloc of voters in state after state; not a majority-at least in the early going-but a bigger hunk of support than that available to any other

That type of ideological face-off will not occur, of course, in next year's Republican primaries. As the more conservative of the major parties, the GOP finds most of its candidates jostling for position on the right side of the spectrum, with few contenders willing to be perceived as liberal.

EVEN SO-CALLED "moderate" hopefuls in the GOP-George Bush providing the most obvious example-have been at pains to polish their conservative credentials.

In the 1980 Republican free-for-all, two possible scenarios suggest themselves. One is that, in such a crowded field, the advantage will go to the candidate or candidates most familiar to the voters. That possibility favors Reagan, who has the highest name recognition among the GOP contenders, and is widely considered to be the front-On this analysis, a crowded field would accrue to Reagan's benefit and he has nothing much to worry about as additional candidates enter the

There is, however, an alternative scenario. In this one. Crane, Kemp, or other competitors with appeal among conservatives would manage to chip sufficient rightward votes away from Reagan to permit a "moderate" to slip through to

THIS CONSIDERATION might prompt some ambitious Republican candidate-for instance, Illinois' Thompson—to stake out a position to the left of the Republican pack, hoping thereby to duplicate the Carter victory in reverse. Political history almost never repeats itself, so a mirror-image duplication of '76 seems unlikely. Still, the fact remains that conditions currently exist within the essentially conservative GOP that could permit a liberal contender to slip through

EASTON, MD.-Comes the revolution, the Tidewater Inn here will be regarded as America's equivalent of the Smolny Institute. At that institute, in St. Petersburg. Lenin and other Bolsheviks conspired to seize power. The Tidewater Inn recently was the scene of Tidewater II, the second conference of Republican officeholders interested in formulating policies that can distinguish them from Democrats.

Jerry Brown, not Jimmy Carter, was the Nicholas II against whom they plotted—not Brown the Governor, but Brown the syncol of Democrats whose respect for private property is so slight that they steal "Republican issues,

The Tidewater II refrain that wafted across the frozen wastes of Maryland's Eastern Shore was that Democrats are trying to "steal" the issue of fiscal responsibility.

That issue is, increasingly, reduced to the question of what constitutional restraint should be put

WASHINGTON-I have always clung to the hope that there is an errant nook or cranny in what passes for our government where somebody can make up his mind, if given enough brooding

So, a tiny hurrah for Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell, who is overseeing a major overhaul of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. Bell is firing his shots in anger over assorted violent demonstrations by Iranian students.

He wants to make it easier to catch and toss out of the country troublesome aliens.

However, the hurrah is tiny because Griffin was tardy in acting on his indignation. Like too many of our tolerant, high-echelon lawmen, he has until now saved his anger for a rainy day. Civil rights and all that, y'know.

IRANIAN AND other foreign students have been periodically misbehaving around here for several years. They sometimes hurt people and always make a mess of the environment.

But it was not until Bell saw televised pictures of Iranian students fighting cops and setting fires around the Beverly Hills residence of the Shah's sister that he got the Irish side of his Georgian Pursuing his overhaul of the INS. Bell learned something that most of us unwashed have known for a long time: to wit, that nobody official seems to know what's going on in this country. Bell ordered his hired hands to find out how many Iranian students were cluttering up the national landscape. That should have been easy, but ha! After several weeks, Bell still doesn't know

Maybe, because urgent business frequently gets sidetracked when special interests set up a howl, and there are nut organizations in the U.S. who would have caused a fuss when Jack the Ripper was deprived of his liberty.

In fact, aliens possess only the rights granted them by the Republic, which reserves the authority to retract such rights if visitors abuse our hos-

IT MAY BE argued that foreign demonstrators are protected by the First Amendment. But that Amendment guarantees protection only to folks who "peaceably" assemble.

Moreover, the Preamble to the Constitution speaks of "We the people of the United States" providing assorted liberties. It does not say those rights are bestowed on Iranians-or Irish, French, Bulgarian, British, or Polish nationals. Would it be un-American to suggest that the First Amendment applies exclusively to American citizens?

Ah, let that pass. Where aliens are concerned, the solution is-or should be-simple. Ship the troublemakers back where they came from.

on federal budget-making.

And the public has stolen the march on the parties by prompting 24 state legislatures to call for a constitutional convention to write an amendment mandating a balanced budget. Tidewater II declined to endorse such an amendment. Most of the 95 officeholders attending the conference were legislators, and few felt that they could draft such an amendment.

Even defining what is meant by the "budget" is problematic. Further, compliance with a balanced budget amendment would require more accurate forecasts of revenues than can be count-

IF THE NATION is determined to take the dubious step of constitutionalizing economic policy, a better devise would be the proposed amendment that would limit annual increases in federal outlays to a percentage no greater than the percentage growth of the gross national product in the preceding year.

Under this amendment, the maximum permising high inflation. One advantage of this approach is that it is keyed to outlays, a more controllable variable than revenues. Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., favors such an amendment because "it will not allow government to grow as a real proportion of our gross national product, of our resources, of our wealth, or of its involvement, therefore, in our lives. But Heinz's "therefore" is mistaken.

THE GROWTH of federal spending is hardly the only, or even the most important, growth of government "involvement" in Americans' lives. Many of the most irksome forms of involvement," such as forced busing, other forms of judicial imperialism, and thousands of activities of the government's regulatory apparatus, are not attributable to government's expanded claim on GNP, and would not be alleviated by a constitutional limit on that claim. Indeed, such "involvement" might become worse as a result of this kind of limit. A government prevented from spending to achieve its aims will be inclined to work its will through reg-These can have huge social costs, but not costs that appear as items in the federal budget. An amendment like the one Heinz favors may be a good idea, or at any rate the least imprudent amendment yet devised.

BUT IT WOULD not provide comprehensive relief from irritating government "involvements" in our lives.

Some theoretically inclined Republicans, like Rep. Dave Stockman, believe that the problem afflicting American democracy is the basic economic outlook promulgated by John Maynard

Stockman, southern Michigan's contribution to intelligent government, says the Keynesian assumption is that severe instability is inherent in a market system, so government must constantly "fine tune" the economy

Stockman also argues that the Keynesian language ("demand management") used to justify spending programs as a smoke screen.

Furthermore, attempts at "fine tuning" create or magnify instabilities, and only strong constitutional chains can counter the economic doctrines and political moves that lead administrations of both parties to abuse the economy

OTHER SUPPORTERS of the sort of amendment Heinz favors argue that America's problem is rooted less in the legacy of Keynes than in the nature of democratic politics. Proposed programs are considered seriatim, without careful consideration of their cumulative effects. Such an amendment would compel such To be fair, Stockman and others can dispute my characterization of such an amendment as a device for "constitutionalizing economic policy."

JAY HARRIS:

IRAN HAS BEEN a "case book" on how overthrow a government.

It also has been a classic lesson in history for millions. What those millions learned remains to be seen. Never before have so many been spectators as a life and death revolution unfolded before their eyes.

As a result, never again will things be the same in that area of the world-not for the Mideast caldron with its oil, religious and nationalistic passions, not for the U.S., and certainly not for History has just turned a page. And like it or not, those who have been spectators now may also become participants. What has happened will affect much of the rest of the world, economically with higher fuel prices, diplomatically with the danger of new confrontations.

NO SINGLE event since the Vietnam debacle has left so damaging a scar on U.S. diplomacy and prestige.

"Who lost Iran and Why?" are questions which beg answers. Some are obvious, others not, What to do about them is even more murky. President Carter's comment that the U.S. stands ready to work with the new rulers of Iran perhaps was expected. But, it ignores the obvious-on whose

After all, we are dealing with a radical religious fanatic and his ragtag band which must put the country back together again in the face of demands from a strange coalition of moderates, Moslem mullahs and pro-Communist leftists.

The new rulers are quite aware that the U.S. couldn't or wouldn't move a finger to affect the course of events in Iran despite this nation's huge economic, military and diplomatic stake in what was happening. On whose terms, then?

WHO LOST Iran, along with Inflation, may become the major issues of the 1980 presidential campaign. But, more than politics is involved here.

Not only must the U.S. engage in an "agonizing reappraisal" of what our foreign policy should be, but the American people must decide if they are willing to pay the price.

And if the White House or American people do not have a definite idea of what sort of world this should be and the role the U.S. should play in it, then it is obvious there are those in the State Department and elsewhere who do. One such person is UN Amb. Andrew Young. Twice within a week, the black envoy and "good friend" of President Carter has lectured those who express concern over the Iranian upheaval. The first time, he was brusquely rebuked by the White House for suggesting that Ayatollah Khomeini "will be somewhat of a saint when we get over the panic" of Iran. Spokesman Jody Powell bluntly said the White House is "not in the canonization business.

THE NONPLUSSED Andy was at it again Mon-

This time, he said the Iranian revolution was largely brought about by thousands of Iranians who learned the lesson of Democracy as students here, then applied them at home.

Young says he feels a close sense of identification with the Iranian protesters. "Whether you like it or not, the change has come from us," he says. "The most powerful force loose in the world is not Communist ideology; the most powerful force is the idea that all people are somebody." The U.S. should not feel threatened by such things, he says.

We find it ironic that Andy Young, holds one of his nation's most coveted positions of honor, yet constantly downplays the threat of Communism and ignores Russian and Cuban conquests and atrocities in Africa and elsewhere. The individual is nobody in those regimes. For whom does Andy

WHO LOST Iran and Why? The Shah certainly is not without blame, of course. Nor those about

But, it is ironic that in seeking to lead his nation out of the medieval ages into the Twentieth Century that many of those who benefited from his efforts also turned on him-including some of those thousands of students. Iran's progress-its schools, hospitals, its liberated women, roads, industry, jobs-somehow got lost in the talk of human rights, violence and headlines of the mass media. There were things wrong. But there also were things that were

What, one might ask, could the U.S. have done to affect the course of events? There were several options, all involving risks. But America did not survive 202 years without taking risks.

AS LATE AS last October, the U.S. could have moved to shore up its sagging image in Iran, even to pleading its case with the Iranian people. It should have bluntly rejected Moscow's warning" of interference in Iran and issued one of its own. We had vital self interests in that part of the world, billions in investments, a friendly regime. Moscow knew this and knew we were no military threat from that vantage point. Of course, the question arises whether the American people have the guts to stand up to Russia, to risk a confrontation to protect this nation's interests before the choice must be made closer In some ways, a cartoon we saw tells how one side got its point across and how the U.S. did not. In the drawing, an American newsman pokes a microphone before Ayatollah Khomeini at his home near Paris. "Ladies and gentlemen, speaking to you from Paris about the situation in Iran. spiritual Moslem Leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini..." The next panel shows Khomeini saying: "Down with the lackey Bakhtiar! Kill the Kill his family! Riot, Riot, Riot! Down with Americans! Start Fires! Kill Afghans. Riot, The last panel has the announcer asking: "Any-

court for not paying child support pulled a gun in court, shot at his estranged wife and her lawyer - killing the lawyer - and then shot and killed himself, authorities said Tuesday.

Authorities said Ernest McClain, 59, of Astoria, fired one shot at his wife which missed, one at the lawyer, and then a third shot into the courtroom ceiling as his own lawyer tried to wrestle the gun from him.

Then, they said, he turned the gun on himself and fired a final shot The dead attorney was identified as Candise Jones, 26, of Portland.

McClain's estranged wife, Billie Lee McClain, 21, of Portland, was taken to Emanuel Hospital where she was reported in satisfactory condition with a powder burn on her cheek.

The shooting came moments after Circuit Judge Mercedes Deiz found McClain in contempt of court for non-payment of child support and refused to hear a request for an order altering the child custody arrangement, sheriff's spokesman Bart Whalen said.

The hearing was part of divorce proceedings instigated by Mrs. McClain, authorities said. The McClains apparently had one child.

A court order filed last Dec. 12 pending a final divorce decree ordered McClain to pay $200 monthly support to his wife and $275 monthly support to his two-year-old son, Ernest.

WASHINGTON UPI - The Pentagon released figures Tuesday showing that all four military services were unable to meet recruiting goals in the closing months of 1978 - the first time that has happened since the draft ended in 1973.

The disclosure is expected to give added ammunition to lawmakers who are calling for a resumption of the draft.

Overall, the armed forces signed up 64,-800 men and women in October through Dacember, 1978 — 90 percent of their total recruiting objectives.

The Air Force, traditionally the leader among the services in meeting recruiting goals, got only 95 percent of the enlistees it sought.

The Army found 93 percent, the Mar-ines 86 percent and the Navy was last with 85 percent.

One year before, during the last three months of 1977, the combined average of the services was 97 percent. But both the Army and the Air Force fully met their goals in that period, while the Navy again finished last at 91 percent of its goal.

There has been growing sentiment in Congress to move toward resumption of the draft because of a shrinking number of 18-year-olds and tougher problems recruiting volunteers from those available.

The administration has opposed resuming a draft, but several bills have been introduced that either call for resuming conscription or restarting draft registration 18year-olds.

The administration is now considering whether to recommend resuming registration as a means of speeding up a draft in time of crisis.

The winter months have traditionally been the slackest period for recruiting. The 1978 figures also showed a drop in quality from the year before among recruits of all the services except the Marines, as measured by the percentage of high school graduates signed up.

Among all services, the number of high school graduate recruits during the period fell to 71 percent from 74 percent a year before. The Marines increased from

Man Tied Up In Vacant House After Robbery

Police late Tuesday were searching for a Mexican-American man and his two temale companions who reportedly robbed a Lubbock man, left him tied up in an abandoned house in west Lubbock County and fled in the victim's vehicle.

Warner Hagood, 68, said the man, described as about 5-feet-7 with a thin build and sporting a beard and mustache, flagged him down shortly before 3 p.m. at 13th Street and Avenue G and said he had car trouble.

Hagood said that the man, armed with a .25-caliber or .32-caliber handgun, then forced his way into the victim's 1971 maroon Ford station wagon and was followed by the two Mexican-American

The victim said the trio forced him to drive to the bank and tried to cash several checks before ordering him to drive toward Carlisle. Once in that area of the county. Hagood said, the trio tied him with a red-and-white bandana and left him in the empty residence. He said the robbers then left in his car.

Hagood said in addition to forcing him to cash the checks, the suspects took his watch and ring. Hagood also suffered a stab wound in the leg, he said, which was inflicted by one of the women when he tried to wreck his car to attract police at-

Hagood said the male suspect also threatened to kill the victim several times but that one of the women talked him out of the idea.

Hagood said the man was about 23. while his companions were about 19 and 30. Both women, he said, were of medium height and build.

Nick D. Biffle said that $500 in tools were stolen from his 1973 Dodge van between Saturday and Tuesday morning while the vehicle was parked behind his 1122 33rd St. plumbing firm.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - The body of film director Jean Renoir, son of the famed impressionist painter Auguste Renoir, will be returned to France for a state funeral and burial, a family spokesman said Tuesday

Renoir, 84, died of a heart attack Monday night at his West Los Angeles home after a long illness, said Nick Frangakis.

The French moviemaker won international renown for such films as his 1937 "La Grande Illusion," a portrayal of World War I gallantry among French prisoners of war and their German captors.

Four years ago he was presented a special Academy Award. Renoir, who was too ill to attend, was described by Ingrid Bergman as "a filmmaker who has worked with grace, responsibility and enviable competence through silent film, sound film, feature, documentary and

He is survived by his second wife, Dido, his only son, Alain, a comparative literature professor at the University of California at Berkeley, and a brother, fighting the Germans in World War I, Renoir spent his last months in a wheelchair, surrounded by his father's paintings and sculptures, including a fulllength portrait of Jean as a boy.

After the war, Renoir married one of his father's models, Catherine Hessling. He wrote a script for a movie in which his wife starred - "A Life Without Joy." but was disappointed with the director's interpretation and decided to become a director himself.

'Nana" in 1926 was Renoir's first major film as a director. It was ambitious and it failed, but was later vindicated as a silent film classic Although ailing, his family said in Paris Tuesday that he continued to write. A family spokesman said two new Renoir books will be published shortly, one the scenario of a proposed film, "Julienne and Her Lover," the other a novel called "The Englishman's Crime.

"The Grand Illusion" brought Jean Renoir as much fame in his chosen field as his father, Auguste, had in painting.

'At the time, the usual idea of a pacifist was of a coward with long hair yelling from a soapbox and getting hysterical at the sight of a uniform," Renoir later recalled. "So I made a pacifist film that is full of admiration for uniforms." It was banned in pre-war Germany and Italy.

They give Mexico a strong hand in dealing for U.S. cooperation on trade, immigration and other touchy issues.

It is easy to cast recent U.S.-Mexican contacts in an apparently simple mold: Mexico offered to sell the United States natural gas at $2.60 per thousand cubic feet; the U.S. turned it down because the price was too high; Mexico got miffed and threatened to sell elsewhere; and the critics said U.S. Energy Secretary James more energy.

But that is much too simple a description of U.S.-Mexican relations on energy, even at a time of uncertainty over Mideast oil supplies.

U.S. officials have emphasized that Carter would not try, on his visit to Mexico starting Wednesday, to negotiate a natural gas price.

And Carter said in a news conference Monday that broader questions of timing and pricing must be worked out.

Jorge Diaz Serrano, head of Mexico's government petroleum monopoly, estimated in 1977 that his country's production could increase by some 1.1 million gas daily by 1982. But not all that may be exported; Mexico may use some, perhaps most of it, for its own development.

Interviewed in Business Week magazine last month, Lopez Portillo said U.S. planners "are in for a rude awakening" if they expect Mexican oil to solve the United States' energy problems.

The United States now buys some 80 percent of Mexico's oil exports and might want more, expecting to pay prevailing world prices but gaining a closer, more reliable supply than with Middle East oil.

Most of the apparent friction has centered on natural gas.

In August 1977, Mexico agreed to sell six U.S. companies 2 billion cubic feet of gas a day, some 3 percent of anticipated U.S. needs in 1980 when deliveries were to begin. But Mexico was charging $2.60 per thousand cubic feet, a premium price pegged to the cost of the nearest alternative fuel, light oil. Schlesinger blocked the deal while Congress worked out a U.S. gas-pricing policy; then Mexico withdrew its offer, suggesting it might sell the gas elsewhere or use it at home.

Meanwhile, however, Mexico already had started construction of a gas pipeline to the border; it now lies unfinished, and some Mexican gas is reportedly being burned wastefully for lack of a market. When the new U.S. energy law was pas-sed last November, Mexico's asking price turned out to be about one-third higher than the U.S. domestic gas price ceiling. Lopez Portillo says he will not back down and, to make matters worse, Canada says it will raise its gas price of $2.16 per thousand cubic feet if Mexico gets more mon-

Carter seemed to indicate Monday that the United States may be even more concerned about Mexico's linking gas prices to the price of fuel oil, which could make gas prices indirectly subject to decisions by the foreign cartel OPEC, which already dictates world oil prices.

But price is not the only problem. While Mexican natural gas is looking for a market, so is U.S. natural gas.

Under the new energy act, some 2.7 billion cubic feet of natural gas a day is expected to become available at home. Also, there are large, undeveloped natural gas reserves in Alaska and construction approved.

These supplies could supplant the need. for large amounts of Mexican gas in the 1980s. On the other hand, Mexican gas could be imported, in addition, to dis-place some Middle East oil imports.

U.S. officials have said Carter would seek to match Mexico's timetable for oil and gas production to the expected U.S. market. And Carter said Monday he wanted policies "predictable on delivery dates and also on price schedules, and we'll try to be a good customer." Mexican oil and gas exports could have other strings attached, too — ones linked to U.S. attitudes toward jobless Mexicans who enter the United States illegally and seek work.

If the United States gets tough on aliens, Mexico can ask: how can we provide jobs at home if you refuse to buy our gas, denying us capital for development? Highlighting another sore spot last March, some 200 U.S. farmers briefly blockaded the Mexican border near Nogales, Ariz., in a demonstration against competing imports of Mexican farm pro-

Mexico, struggling with a foreign trade deficit of its own, wants to protect and in-crease its sales of produce in the United States. If the United States wants more Mexican petroleum, it could be asked to buy a bigger shopping bag of Mexican to-matoes and watermelons.

In addition to the policies on aliens and imports, the United States will have to Lucey said Mexico had turned down $2.031 billion in U.S. aid — which could have 10.3 created 800,000 jobs — because it did not at want to be "dependent on the United Officers". States." Thus, before his Mexico visit, Carter insisted that "we have no inclination to force them to give us a special privilege or to do anything ... damaging to the well-being of the Mexican people."

He was asked pointedly whether Mexico, with its large new petroleum resources, "has us over a barrel" in pressing its own views on immigration and

"One of the reasons for going to Mexi-co," Carter said, "is to explore the possi-bilities for resolving these differences of opinion between our people and theirs."

Some New York Flights Canceled Due To Shortage Of Jet Fuel

NEW YORK (AP) - The nation's airlines say the loss of Iranian oil because of the political upheaval there has created a shortage of jet fuel, which has forced cancellation of some flights from New York.

National Airlines said Tuesday's scheduled daily flight from New York to Amsterdam didn't take off because of the fuel problem and the same flight scheduled for Friday and Saturday has been canceled.

The problem is particularly acute at New York's John F. Kennedy International Airport, where Texaco Inc., one of the largest suppliers of jet fuel, has asked airlines to limit Texaco spokesman Ed Williams said supplies were "extremely tight as a result of the nationwide tightness of petroleum supplies ... Texaco has asked its customers at Kennedy Airport to voluntarily reduce." Williams said the problem had shown up late last week, but the situation is expected to improve "soon.

Daniel Z. Henkin, vice president of the Air Transport Association, a Washington-based trade group, said, "There's no industry-wide situation ... It's individual carriers."

'There is a temporary fuel supply problem at Kennedy,' said L.W. Robshaw, a spokesman for National Airlines in Miami. "As a result, we are making cancellations of some of our New York-Amsterdam flights."

However, Cook said, the Army has taken precautionary steps to make sure of Army-wide compliance with safeguards adopted last year aimed at ending improper recruiting practices.

The Army now has 11,036 legally enlist-ed aliens of various nationalities. Aliens are eligible for recruitment in the U.S. armed services if they hold valid registration cards and authority to live permanently in the United States. The FBI and the Immigration Service check out applicants before they are approved for military service, Cook said.

Since the advent of the all-volunteer force in 1973, there have been repeated complaints that some military recruiters resorted to improper practices under pressure to fill quotas assigned to them.

The Marines and Navy have had some problems with illegal enlistment of for-eign nationals, but both said they have no investigations underway at the moment.

The Marines and the Navy, like the Army, have tightened their procedures. they said. The Air Force has reported no similar difficulties.

Carter Wants To Avoid New Trade Limits

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter said Tuesday trade limits should not be applied to three nations ignoring whaling quotas because they are joining the International Whaling Commission, subjecting themselves to its conservation program.

Carter said in a report to Congress that South Korea became a member of the whaling commission Dec. 29 and that Chile and Peru will join the panel in time for its next meeting in July.

The president said that, in light of these actions, "trade sanctions should not now be imposed" on the three nations under a 1971 amendment to the 12-year-old Fishermen's Protective Act. However, he held out the possibility that he would reassess his policy if the nations violate the quotas.

Carter said the State Department had encouraged the three governments to join the commission or at least abide by its quotas. He said the three countries previously have failed "to adhere to internationally accepted measures for the conservation of whales.

A spokesman for the Whale Protection Fund, one of the conservationist groups fighting to reduce whaling, expressed skepticism about the motives of the three nations in joining the commission. He questioned whether they would remain in the commission if their whale catches are limited.

"Peru is looking for some sort of special dispensation so their take won't be in jeopardy," said the spokesman, Bill Cardash. "There is noway that can happen unless they start juggling quotas." He said the amendment under which

Carter could have halted imports of fish from the three countries should have been invoked up to the point the nations actually join the commission and adhere to its specific quotas. The commission was established in 1946. Among the 17 nations that made up the panel, until South Korea joined, only five - Iceland. Japan, the Soviet Union, Brazil and Norway - were considered major whaling nations, Cardash said. The president said that as a member of the U.S. delegation to the 1972 United Nations conference on the human environment in Stockholm, he favored a 10year moratorium on all commercial whaling. "Although we have not yet been able to achieve such a moratorium, in recent years we have made substantial progress in establishing selective moratoria for species of whales that need protection."

Humphrey-Hawkins Goals Dependent On Congress' Steps

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation is unlikely to meet the inflation and unemployment goals of the Humphrey-Hawkins bill unless Congress takes steps such as holding down increases in the minimum wage, Congress' top budget official said Tuesday

Meeting the goals of the Humphrey-Hawkins bill "looks harder now than it did a year ago because inflation has accelerated and because unemployment is moving in the wrong direction." Dr Alice Rivlin told a House labor subcom-

The Humphrey-Hawkins bill, approved by Congress last October, sets targets of reducing unemployment to 4 percent by 1983 while trimming inflation to 3 percent. Joblessness was 5.8 percent of the work force during January, while prices rose by about 9 percent for all of last year. Economists are forecasting a slowing of inflation in 1979 but somewhat higher ioblessness as the economy slows.

Miss Rivlin said budget office studies estimate it would take five years of unemployment at about 7 percent to reduce inflation to the 4 percent range, assuming there were no outside "shocks" to the economy such as steep rises in the price of imported oil.

On the other hand, she said, a policy of expansion could reduce unemployment to 4 percent by 1983, "but at the cost of sharply accelerating inflation.

She suggested Congress consider these "supplementary tools" to traditional policy, saying some of them appear to be necessary to achieving the Humphrey-Hawkins goals:

•Reducing government regulation of factors such as prices, wages and market

•Reducing "government protection against inflation," such as holding down increases in the minimum wage, limiting farm price supports or reducing cost of living increases in programs such as wel-

Tough Rules Leave 150,000 Federal Jobs Unfilled

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Labor Department, which has money to create more than a quarter of a million public service jobs for the long-term unemployed this year, says 150,000 slots are going unfilled because of problems in meeting tougher government rules.

The number of people holding jobs under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act plummeted by more than 200,000 last summer amid threatened program cutbacks by Congress. Now that Congress has extended the program for another four years, the Labor Department says it is encountering problems building the program up again.

The department is casting blame for the problems on Congress, citing delays in approval of new financing for the $10billion CETA programs and tighter eligibility requirements ordered by Congress in an attempt to reduce fraud and other abuses that have plagued them.

Congress has made the program

somewhat tougher than we wanted," Assistant Labor Secretary Arnold Packer said Monday.

Congress appropriated enough money for state and local CETA programs to create an average of 675,000 jobs - including 267,000 for the poor, chronically unemployed — during fiscal 1979, which ends Sept. 30.

However, the latest department count, made in December and disclosed only this month, reveals that only 525,000 jobs have been filled. The 150,000 unfilled jobs, Packer says, are those set aside for the "structurally unemployed," as the government calls them.

The structurally unemployed are people with low incomes or on welfare with little or no job skills and employment experience.

Other public jobs are for people who have been out of work for relatively short periods of time due to economic down-

"It's a hell of a lot easier to hire peole with more job skills and pay them higher wages than to hire people with low skills and find very low paying jobs for them,' said Packer.

He said the Carter administration is committed to filling all 267,000 jobs reserved for the structurally unemployed this year.

Ironically, the department's problems in creating jobs for which it has money came after the department successfully talked President Carter out of trimming CETA's 1980 budget to force the phaseout of more than 350,000 CETA jobs. Instead, Carter will seek the elimination of 158,000 jobs. The cuts would not affect the slots reserved for the structurally unemployed, however.

The department's problems also come at a time when the administration has been promoting recent changes in CETA that are designed to target more aid to CETA jobs began dropping from a high of 740,000 last June as federal money ran out and Congress had yet to decide whether to renew the program, which was to expire Sept. 30. As people completed their job, averaging eight to 10 months, state and local program managers put a freeze on new hiring, he said.

Congress finally agreed in mid-October to extend CETA after setting new rules and ordering that the total number of jobs be pared from 725,000 last Oct. 1 to 625,000 this Sept. 30. What Congress didn't know was that fewer than 625,000 people actually were holding CETA jobs at the time it was debating the program. Packer said a principal problem in creating jobs for the structurally unem-

Dayan, who will represent Israel in peace talks later this month, said without departing from his text that the PLO: "is not a state, but we cannot deny their position or their value in the conflict."

Begin said Israel's policy is that the PLO is "an organization of murderers that wants to destroy the state of Israel: that kills Jews because they are Jews. We don't recognize it. We will not negotiate with it at all.

Dayan's remarks were welcomed by Israeli leftists, but condemned by the conservative wing of Begin's Likud party, some of whom called for Dayan's resignation. Begin said Dayan "did not intend to announce a change in the government policy ... it is possible that he could have worded this differently.

Dayan, seeking to clarify his com-ments, told the Likud meeting: "I repeatedly pointed out that the PLO is one of the encumbering factors in the peace process from the point of view of the Arabs, and I didn't mention it as one of the factors that must be brought into negotia-

The official Pars news agency reported the arrests of Gen. Abdollah Asre Jadid. commander of the air force electronics agency, and Gen. Jafar Shafaqat, war minister in the Bakhtiar government.

The new government announced that Gen. Saved Mahddiun was appointed air force commander, replacing the arrested Gen. Amir Hossein Rabaei. Mahddiun, who was educated in Germany and attended U.S. military training courses, was formerly air defense chief

As the new government struggled to take hold, its military chief of staff. Gen. Mohammed Vali Gharani, ordered all officers to report for duty. Apparently he was preparing to reorganize the military following the weekend battles.

Tehran's streets were in marked contrast to the past few days, when armed bands roamed through the city with automatic weapons jutting from car windows.

Guns visible Tuesday appeared to be those of the authorized "Islamic police" standing guard outside public buildings. Mosques are now the centers of local secuirty organizations and are sending out armed watchmen to guard neighborhoods at the request of local residents.

While Tehran's main bazaar was shuttered, sidewalk merchants were doing a thriving business and it appeared that

The president received two or three reports Tuesday from a special National Security task force keeping track of developments in Iran, said the official, who asked not to be identified by name.

Questioned about the security of the highly sophisticated U.S. aircraft, weapons and other military equipment sold to Iran, the official said that as far as he knew the U.S. military position had not been compromised.

He said that if the new Iranian rulers were interested in using the equipment, they had as great an interest as the United States in seeing that it was protected. There is no reason for increased con-

Change Proposed In Arson Law

AUSTIN (AP) - An insurance claim should not be required before it is considered a crime to burn property for profit, a group of legislators said Tuesday.

"If the job is bungled or the fire department does an exceptional job in exinguishing the blaze and investigating the fire, the property owner has an easy out. WASHINGTON (AP) - Nearly half the minority children in America go to segregated schools, and Congress, the adminis-

tor Stephen Horn, vice chairman of the panel, told a news conference. The occasion was the publication of a commission report critical of Congress for passing anti-busing legislation and of the departments of Justice and Health. Education and Welfare for a lack of zeal in denying federal funds to school districts that defy desegregation orders.

Court "Retreating" Even the Supreme Court seems to be "retreating from its long-espoused commitment to the right of school children to a desegregated education." the commission said.

Nonetheless, commission chairman Arthur S. Flemming told reporters he believed the American people "deep down" still support the idea of desegregated schooling.

"I believe there's a grass roots basic support for living up to the Constitution provide no details because of U.S. privaof the United States." he said

Flemming acknowledged Congress has taken an anti-busing turn, but he said that is because the foes of integration. though outnumbered, are more persistent than the opponents of segegation.

No Enforcement Power The commission has no enforcement power, but is required by law to evaluate the status of school desegregation across the nation from time to time.

The report said the latest figures available indicated that 4.9 million minority children in the country attend schools that are at least "moderately" segregated - and more of them are in the Northeast and the North Central region of the country than in the Deep South.

For the nation overall, 46 percent of minority youngsters attend segregated schools, it said. In the Northeast, 65 percent of minority children do, and in the North Central region it is 68 percent, the commission said. No figure was given for the South alone.

Provisions Criticized

The report singled out for criticism appropriations bill riders co-sponsored by Sens. Joseph Biden, D-Del., and Thomas Eagleton. D-Mo., that would prevent HEW "from requiring student transportation where it is the only remaining means to eliminate segregated schools."

In response. Eagleton defended his amendment by saying it did not prevent a judge from ordering busing but did prevent HEW "from unilaterally marching in to a school system and without any finding by any judge ordering the massive transportation of students.

The commission said the amendments undermined the ability of the executive and the judicial branches to guarantee the nation's children and young people their constitutional rights.

The panel also criticized HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. He took office saying he would act "swiftly" in cases where fund cutoffs had been ordered, it said, but three of the six cases in which a cutoff was ordered remain on his desk. Replying. Califano said he had not seen

'Colonel' Carries Torch 30 Years

THOMASVILLE, Ala. (UPI) - Somewhere in Louisville, Ky., there is an incurable romantic who apparently is still carrying the torch for his valentine aft-

Each year just before Valentine's Day, The Thomasville Times, the weekly newspaper in this small southwest Alabama town, receives an anonymous paid valentine advertisement from someone who identifies himself only as the 'Colonel

And each year the Kentucky colonel sends a different poetic message to his mysterious lost love in Alabama. This year it read:

In Louisville. Kentucky ... Thirty years my dear have now come and gone and old arthritis has begun to creep its way into my bones. But oh how I still think of you, my dear, as I sit here alone.

Tho I was ashamed and afraid to tell you, my dear, I will love, honor and cherish thee till I go to my heavenly home. Be my valentine, the Colonel.

Pace Bozeman, editor of the local paper, says the colonel's identity and that of his sweetheart have remained a tantalizing mystery to the 3,000 residents of

We've gone through our list of subscribers in Louisville and we can't figure out who it is." he said. "Nobody has been able to figure out who either one is. But each year during the week before Valentine's Day, the $10 money order with the Louisville postmark always shows up in the mail.

"It's always written on a script typewriter," said Bozeman. "I guess if I were Perry Mason I could check out all the script typewriters in Louisville and figure out who it is.

Editors at the newspaper do not recall the exact year the first Valentine arrived, but believe it was between 20 or 25 years ago. At first, the colonel's message used to run in the paper's classified ad section.

but now Bozeman fixes up a fancy display ad. In accompanying column in this week's paper. Bozeman wrote:

It renews our faith that love blooms eternal and we look forward to hearing from him each year. I sure would like to meet the colonel's valentine and hear ier tale of this undying love.

Before the cutoff. Iran produced about 6.5 million barrels a day - or one-tenth of the total free-world production.

Schlesinger said it would probably be a long time before Iranian production returns to that level. He said he doubted it would get above 4 million barrels a day through the 1980s, even under the best of assumptions. And, the energy secretary added, "It is a high probability that Iran will not return to production shortly.

The deteriorating situation in the Persian Gulf nation drives home the point that "the day of reckoning is coming closer." when world demand for oil starts exceeding supply.

"If Iran stays down, we will have to take measures to constrain demand by at least 500,000 barrels a day," Schlesiger said. But he stressed that these measures would not include mandatory steps like gasoline rationing.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said later that he will support whatever "the leading authorities of this nation say is necessary" to ease energy shortages. "If it means gas rationing, no gas on Sundays we have to look at the future of this country. I will support it." he told report-

Judge Files Suit Alleging Bad Treatment

PITTSBURGH (UPI) - Don't push Judge Ralph H. Smith Jr. around.

The Allegheny County Common Pleas judge has filed a suit against the Pittsurgh traffic court - not because he received a parking ticket, he said, but because city employees allegedly violated his rights and humiliated him.

Smith was given a parking ticket Nov. 22 and decided not to flaunt his position by revealing he was a judge.

He showed up at a Jan. 9 hearing, appearing about 15 minutes early, but was chewed out for being late, the judge said. Smith said when he pointed out that he was early the clerk "immediately demanded that (he) surrender his driver's license and evidence which he brought

Last Tuesday, Smith said, he received a notice in the mail, warning that a warrant would be issued for his arrest for allegedly failing to pay the parking fine.

Valentine's Day Emotional Outlet

MENOMONIE, Wis. (AP) - Valentine's Day is good for people because it provides them with a healthy outlet to express their emotions, according to an authority on family relations.

"I would like to see us live Valentine's Day every day of the year. That would be ideal," said Kim Openshaw, an assistant professor at the University of Wisconsin-Stout. "But the fact that we don't means that we have one day a year set aside to show love and appreciation."

Openshaw said the concept of the day had changed from only giving valentines to one or two special people to also giving them to friends and neighbors.

'If we know of people who are isolated socially, a good thing we could do is send them a valentine," he said. "That could do much to boost their self-es-

Robots Used In Promotions

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. (AP) - Argon walks into a bar and says, "Give me a screwdriver." but he's not interested in vodka. He is Argon the robot, mothered by invention and fathered by ballyhoo.

Argon is the brainchild of Gene Beley and Ray Raymond. who teamed up last June and now market robots for use as entertainment promotion gimmicks.

Argon can play TV games on his chest screen, shake metallic hands, make machine noises, print out messages on his chest screen. He moves his plastic body swiftly and quietly on special wheels, but cannot talk on his own yet. His "voice" at exhibitions and pubs is usually that of a performer working with a concealed microphone.

Argon was a rush job, says Beley, a former newspaperman who handles sales and public relations. Raymond oversees design and construction.

We were under a deadline to get the robot completed for a show in September." said Beley. "Part of the problem was finding parts. You can't go into a store and buy ready-made robot parts.

But Beley predicts a rich future for robots. "Robots now are being used for shows to bring in a cash flow," he said. Later, we'll evolve to other uses." He said Argon cost $50,000 to build, but the cost for a second model was $10,-000 and within 10 years, the costs may fall to the point at which private ownership will be practical.

SENTINEL, Okla. (AP) - Albert Carter blames Alexander Graham Bell for his decision to retire from the City Council in this town of 980 people.

During his six years on the council, Carter says, the telephone has been ringing at all hours - everything from complaints about drunks to repeat calls in which a caller simply hangs up when he answers.

Carter also has a CB radio and a walkie-talkie. Sometimes his phone would ring with messages for the town police-

Thing about it is, you usually get all the criticism. You work for nothing and then get criticized for everything. And there was a last straw:

What could I do? Come get the dogs, I guess. Carter hung up, knew it would be hours before he'd be able to get back to sleep, and decided six years on the council was enough. He officially resigned, but agreed to stay on through February.

Galloping To Washington

EFFINGHAM. III. (AP) - Virl Norton, a professional steeplejack from San Jose. Calif. who won the 1976 Bicentennial coast-to-coast horse race, has galloped off in a cloud of snow from Effingham in hopes of a meeting with President Carter in Washington.

Norton said he plans to ask Carter to visit Effingham on Aug. 12 to kick off the Pony Express Classic horse race of 2.400 miles from Effingham to Sacramento, Calif.

Norton, 62, is accompanied by his son, Pierce, riding in a pickup truck towing a second horse in a trailer. The journey is sponsored by two Effingham businesses. Norton said he plans to travel 30 miles a day and reach Washington in about a month.

Lost Boy Scouts Located Unharmed

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP) - A troop of Boy Scouts was found safe Tues: day in an abandoned shack on Emigrant Peak overlooking Squaw Valley after a night-long search through heavy snow whipped by strong winds.

The Placer County sheriff's office said reports from the remote location showed that the nine scouts and their four leaders were tired, but otherwise unaffected by their ordeal

Sheriff's Lt. Mel McDougal said troop members broke into the cabin and used a telephone to contact the Squaw Valley ski resort, which dispatched snowequipped rescue vehicles to return them to the lodge.

The sheriff's office launched the search fate Monday after the troop failed to reach its destination at Squaw Valley.

Heavy snows and winds gusting to 60 mph hindered the search Tuesday as 40 rescue workers on cross-country skis fanned out from the last campsite occupied by the troop and headed south toward Squaw Valley. Other rescuers moved north from Squaw toward the

Man Found Guilty Of Killing Mineo

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Lionel Williams, a former pizza deliveryman, was found guilty Tuesday of second-degree murder in the 1976 stabbing death of

The Los Angeles Superior Court jury returned the verdict against Williams after seven days of deliberation.

Williams was also found guilty of nine first-degree robberies and one seconddegree robbery committed at about the same time as the Mineo stabbing. However, he was found innocent of attempted robbery in the assault on the one-time teen idol.

Superior Judge Bonnie Lee Martin set March 15 for sentencing. Williams faces 15 years to life.

The short, stocky defendant, dressed in prison blues, appeared composed as the verdict was delivered. Much of the case against Williams, 22, was based on the testimony of two prosecution witnesses who said they heard Williams admit that he killed Mineo during a robbery attempt in the alley behind the 37-year-old actor's West Hollywood apartment. One witness was a former guard at the Calhoun County, Mich., jail where

Williams was serving an eight-month sentence for passing a bad check. Williams was extradited last year to face charges in the Mineo case and 10 other strong-arm robberies. However, three witnesses who believed they saw Mineo's killer said the assailant was white, while Williams is black. All of the witnesses who testified about the killer's height said he was 5-foot-8 or taller. Williams is 5-foot-5. Prosecutor Mike Genelin argued that it was simply too dark in the alley to determine the skin color or height of the killer. He asked the jury to consider all the evidence against Williams. Mineo, who was nominated for Academy Awards for "Rebel Without a Cause" and "Exodus" was returning from rehearsing a play when he was

Sen. Bentsen Proposes End To Revenue Sharing

WASHINGTON (AP) — State governments, many calling for a balanced federal budget, may find an early target of congressional cost cutters is the billions of dollars in revenue sharing Washington funnels to them.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, has introduced legislation in the Senate to do away with the $2.2 billion program, saying it "simply makes no sense" when the tederal government has a large deficit and states enjoy balanced budgets.

While no similar bill has been introduced in the House, Democratic Leader Jim Wright of Texas says he will recommend to the House Budget Committee that the program be eliminated.

And a second Democratic House leader. Whip John Brademas of Indiana, reports considerable support for such a move among his colleagues. "Revenue sharing could run into some difficulties" in the event of moves to cut federal spending, Brademas said.

"I would say the sentiment's very strong to abolish it," said the aide to one senior Democratic House member.

Officials cautioned, however, that with Congress just beginning work on next year's spending proposals, it is impossible to predict what programs, if any, will be cut from the budget.

Under current law, the federal government provides about $6.8 billion a year in revenue sharing to states and local governments to spend with relatively few restrictions. Of that, $2.28 billion goes to the states. The entire revenue sharing program is due to expire at the end of the next fiscal year, but Bentsen wants to cut out state aid 12 months early "It is illogical for the federal government to increase the size of its deficits in order to provide money which contributes to surpluses accumulated by state governments," the Texas Democrat said in introducing his bill. President Carter has recommended retaining revenue sharing for the next fiscal year as part of his $531.6 billion budget. although an administration committee is studying possible changes in the pro-

James T. McIntyre, director of the Office of Management and Budget, told Bentsen at a congressional committee hearing two weeks ago the administration's recommendations will be ready in May.

But in the meantime, there is a move in Congress to trim Carter's proposed budget deficit. Some of the pressure has been coming from state legislatures, about half of which have petitioned Congress to call a convention that could adopt a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget.

"It's easy for state governments to throw the ball into the federal court." House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill told reporters last week. "But 50 to 60 percent of local funds come from the federal government. I hope they have that in mind when they're asking us to balance the budget. Vermont Gov. Richard Snelling, chairman of the National Governors' Association, criticized Bentsen's legislation, saying it is unfair to compare a federal budget deficit with state surpluses since most states are forbidden to have deficits.

He called for "comprehensive reform" of the hundreds of grant programs the federal government runs.

Snelling added. "The fiscal problems of the federal government, with its $532 billion projected budget, have not been caused by the $2 billion state revenue sharing program....
"Rather, the problems are caused by

than 300 committees and subcommittees, to control the hundreds of billions of dollars in narrow categorical grant programs, each supported by special interest groups and bureaucracies.

South Pass' history has never been completely told. Because of its strategic location - it's a 20-mile-wide niche in the barrier mountains of the Continental Divide South Pass became immensely important in the move west. Such famous Western outlaws as Jim Bridger. Dr. Marcus

Whitman, Kit Carson, Jerediah Smith, Broken Hand Fitzpatrick, Butch Cassidy. Jesse Ewing. Isom Dart and Tom Horn passed through here. Thousands of emigrants came through in wagon trains between 1841 and 1869, the latter being the year the Transcontinental Railroad was completed. In 1842 gold was discovwhere. Overnight the population swelled from a few hundred to more than 5,000. In South Pass, John Browning, inventor of the Browning automatic rifle, had his first gun shop and Buffalo Bill worked for the Pony Express. Calamity Jane lived in the town during the period that gave rise to her reputation.

By 1890 the mines, which had produced millions, were played out and the town was given over to the outlaw element and gamblers. In 1896 it became a link in the chain of hideouts established by Butch Cassidy and the Wild Bunch. Today South Pass City is another tintype out of yesteryear. I felt I was standing where man had not set foot for nearly a century. It was as barren as a Salvador Dali landscape except for a wooden boardwalk. How could it be that so much history had happened in this warped miniature town? Everything seemed so small, as in dollhouses. Were rooms really that small and beds that narrow and stairs that

No one was there when we first arrived. We walked silently around peering in the saloon, the post office, the general store, the hotel with its honeymoon suite, the jail, the dugout. Echoes of past romances, of wild and lawless times, of drunken brawls. How did they keep order in this place? Was it just too cold? No, people have needs no matter where they are.

Soon Gary and Carla Stevenson, a young, pleasant couple who are the custodians of South Pass, came by and opened all the old buildings for us. We stood at the bar and I could hear the faint calliope of voices and music and chips and glass breaking a brawling innocence, a purity of good times.

And the jail. Small and claustrophobic, it was built to drive sane men mad. As we stood in the pressed, dark confines of the individual cells that no men could withstand unless he were in a drunken stupor or unconscious, I couldn't conceive of spending five minutes in such fetid confinement without going berserk.

Having one of the wildest reputations in the West, South Pass was then truly an open city, raw and chaotic, with a steady influx of transients, miners, gold diggers, thieves, outlaws. Pinkertons, prostitutes, gamblers, hustlers, cattlemen, railroad construction workers - and a few stalwart merchants who ran the town mercantile. One wonders if they weren't a bit crazy, too.

South Pass City was for me. finally, a sad place but it did offer us one present-day quality to cheer. It was the first stop on our way where we sensed a major attempt to preserve a part of our national heritage.

Brown's Park. Utah, was a drive of about 125 miles from South Pass to the Park via Rock Springs. Wyo. Riding along at future-shock speeds, we were caught in the loveliness of the wide vistas on the Continental Divide and the bountiful herds of antelope, buck and deer. They were so abundant and so bold that in many instances they grouped in great clumps alongside the road.

The great herds roam in freedom as though under some special dispensation before their execution. For tomorrow the hunt will begin and these pastoral stretches of quiet beauty will become a battleground. Military-like advances will be made on a defenseless, retreating species. Such are the wages of progress and pleasure.

Some join this onslaught to satisfy a genuine need. Many farmers, ranchers and sheepman hunt to provide for their families. But now, these genuine hunters are lost in a vast army, many from out of state, invading for the sheer pleasure of the sport. The day-glo-hatted hunters who are trigger-happy their first day out are the ones we fear. To be in the vicinity is to expose yourself to-stray bullets, poor shots and scavengers with poor eyesight, or sometimes drunken ones.

Today. Rock Springs speaks for itself. Its history is colorful but, ironically, the same migrant vision that established it is now threatening its stability and we are unable to stop this destruction with common sense. The power plant has replaced the gold rush, drawing thousands of transitory workers. It may leave behind closed rotting storefronts, untended timber, broken glass and bewildered taxpayers to pick up the pieces and deal with the psychological depression that often follows. It was here that I had my first real flash of ambivalence. I was bothered by what I saw, yet I have a genuine love for the people I met along the way and wondered if we don't too often impose an aesthetic vision on those who choose to gamble on the risks a developing trend may bring. One cannot in any way know unless one has lived it. the depression of continued unemployment; one cannot feel what it is like to stand in soil turned to dust, unable to provide for self and family, and think only of the beauties of nature and the merits of a colorful heritage. To stand atop an apparent wasteland with no recourse or hope and know that a few feet below is a resource so rich that people and money will flock to its uncovering is a very real dilemma. The fiber of these people can only be admired. It is for the most part a quality or grit and courage that is ancestral. And in a system where change is inevitable, one can only hope that change can be made without trading off too much of the qualities of the land and the people, gained through years of pioneering. hardship and enterprise. I realized this as we rode southward to Brown's Park and I was silenced in hard thought

Gasoline Rationing Under Consideration

AUSTIN (AP) - Former presidential adviser Walt Rostow said Tuesday the United States faces a moment of truth in its energy crisis. A federal official acknowledged that the Carter administration is considering gasoline rationing. Rostow, former adviser to the late Lyndon Johnson, said the nation has wasted five years in preparing for the energy crisis expected in the early 1980s and now must rely on its own resources.

Rostow and general counsel Lynn Coleman of the federal Department of Energy addressed the Texas Energy Advisory Council

The council unanimously adopted a resolution calling on President Carter. Congress and the American people to launch an all-out energy effort.

The national effort would include elimmation of price controls on crude oil and natural gas: accelerated granting of exploration leases and production licenses in such areas as Alaska and the North Sea: an easing of environmental restrictions and financial incentives to use more sophisticated recovery techniques.

Rostow said the Central Intelligence Agency predicted in 1977 that crude oil demand would exceed production in 1983. He added, however, the oil crisis of the 1980s "is closer to us" because the revolution in Iran has disrupted oil exports to the United States.

Rostow said Iranian production had tallen in six weeks from six million barrels to 650,000 barrels a day, or approximately enough to meet its own domestic

He predicted a possible slight decline in oil and gas production in this country this year, which would result in the United States' requirements for foreign oil rising by one million barrels a day. Director William Fisher of the University of Texas Bureau of Economic Geology estimated oil reserves in Mexico and Every household has had a piece of furniture that in a moment of passion, you asked to come live with you. There are no promises...no commitments...no talk of marriage. Just a very loose arrangement that if things didn't work out, you'd split. Well, it's not that easy.

A few years ago - 26 years ago to be exact - my husband bought a pump organ at an auction for $35. At the time it seemed like a sweet little addition to our kitchen. I covered the little stool in chintz and put a wooden bowl of apples on top of it. When we opened the table, however, someone invariably had to sit on the keyboard and as I shoved it into the family room it seemed heavier than when we originally moved it in The next year when we put up the Christmas tree, the organ stood out like a sport shirt at the prom. I shoved it into the dining room, noting that it had grown considerably and no longer fit through the doorway as it used to. It occupied an entire wall in the dining room where it began to get on my nerves, what with the new modern dining room set with the padded chairs. I relegated it to our bedroom.

Its prime reason for being in our bedroom was to stumble over it in the darkness and awaken me before I fell into a wall and hurt myself.

When I talked of selling the pump organ, my husband rose to its defense and said, "Nonsense. It grows in value each day." and told me if it bothered me in the bedroom to move it to the living room where it would be the highlight of every party.

For some reason varicose vein-ridden guests did not have a good time sitting around pumping an organ all night.

When we moved it was a blessing. That meant we had seven fresh rooms in which to play musical organ.

A few years ago when we bought a summer cabin, we loaded the organ up for its 300-mile move. To date, it has been on every wall in every room in the house. In 26 years it has grown three feet in width and added 700 pounds to its weight. It's family.

It is not unreasonable to assume that in years to come, there will be some legal way to disassociate yourself from furniture (using the Marvin decision as a precedent), but with my luck, what do you want to bet? I'd get custody of the

do all the members of my family. When I awake I turn to you and follow you all day long. I worship at your shrine with burnt offerings at constant intervals. On my desk the fires seldom go out on your altar. I call on you for help more

Dear Ann Landers: You said in a recent column, "A girl who goes out with a man for eight months and doesn't pick up a clue that he is married is less than bright." Obviously you have never had the experience. Well. I have, and you don't know what you're talking about.

I am a 25-year-old professional nurse and no dumbbell. For six months I went with a man every weekend, plus a few nights during the week. He had Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners with my family as well as other holidays.

This man bought me expensive jewelry and he took me to all the nicest places He liked to show me off and we frequently had dinner and went to the theater with his friends. (I realize now they must have known the game he was playing.)

After six months things began to get serious and he had to admit that he had a wife and two children. I was shocked. So. you see - it CAN happen. - Misled

Dear Led: There's a flaw in your story. I find it hard to believe that a girl who was so churamy with a man for six months would not have his home, phone number. Have you ever thought of writing fiction as a hobby? You do it well.

Dear Ann Landers: I know I'm considered a domineering wife, but what can a woman do when her husband can't make a decision? Someone in the family has to get things done and he won't or can't.

I married a lethargic, happy-go-lucky guy and I'm sure people think I'm a pusher. There must be many others like me. so please print this letter and say a kind word for us. - An "Overbearing" Dame

Dear Dame: People find each other for a reason. Often women who are movers and shakers end up with men who need to be moved and shaken. You did - and so did many others. Ignore the snide remarks and innuendoes. You know the score and that's what counts.

Bran is the outer covering of grain that's removed in the manufacture of flour. Its chief value is in the bulk it provides. Cereal companies coat it with malt. sugar or molasses, mix it up with other ingredients and sell it in grocery stores. However, the bran you refer to. I presume, is the unprocessed kind sold largely in health food stores. It is reasonably cheap and can help keep bowels operating efficiently, especially for those, like the elderly, who may not get sufficient bulk in an ordinary diet.

The usual amount needed is about an ounce a day - a heaping tablespoon. You can mix it with yogurt, fruit, cottage cheese, or anything else you like. No matter what you do with it, look for some increased bulk in stool, also increased movements, and perhaps some gas. When you get used to such changes (perhaps in a couple of weeks) you can increase the amount of bran to suit yourself. A tablespoon twice a day might suit you, and that should be ample.

In this sense bran acts like a medicine and should not be overdone. Any serious blockage - to say nothing of diverticulosis (bowel pockets) or a condition like spastic colon - should be evaluated betore launching into any bulk-producing program. Sometimes increased bulk is undesirable

On the whole, though, I think a moderate amount of bran can be a good idea for older persons, especially, if they become irregular. I should add, though, that many other foods on the supermarket shelves are equally helpful it eaten in proper amounts. These include beans. peas, celery, lettuce and truits, particularly apples.

Dear Dr. Ruble: About 18 months ago I had surgery for a blocked carotid artery. Since then I have been on a low-cholesterol. no-sugar diet, and I feel fine. Physically, that is. However, I have also been depressed and can't seem to concentrate very well. I am forgetful and noticed that my handwriting is not as good as it used to be. I am only 55 years old. Is it possible that there was some brain damage done from this? - E.J.F.

Your surgery was to improve circulation to the brain in hopes of preventing a stroke. The result should be an improvement of blood supply to the brain, so it would not result in brain damage. While the symptoms you mention usually mean a deticiency in brain circulation. I suspect it might have been worse at thispoint without the surgery

Your low-cholesterol and low-sugar diet is to prevent, as much as diet can, any. whole milk. A cup of reconstituted dry further circulation impairment. Those substances are among the ones associated with the well-known plaque development on artery walls. You are still young enough to try anything that might help your future circulation. Depression is not uncommon following surgery, but you should mention your symptoms to your doctor. Are you on any medication?

Dear Dr. Ruble: Does dry, non-fat milk contain more calcium than whole milk? What about eggs? - Mrs. K.D.

Dry non-fat milk contains considerably more calcium for its volume than does milk has between 850 and 900 milligrams of calcium. A cup of whole (3.5 percent fat) milk contains about 280 milligrams. The reason for this is that the processing leaves the mineral in higher concentration. One whole egg contains about 27 milligrams of calcium. Most of the calcium in an egg is in the shell.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

"In my opinion, Kenneth was upset," Green said.

Ed Barclay, a tall, dark-mustachioed former deputy who headed the investigation, described going into a warehouse near Herndon's mobile home at U.S. 87 and FM 1585 in mid-January 1978 to take samples of fluids in various barrels and

Barclay said the building housed mainly racing boats that a sign outside indicated were owned by Jim Gordon, a former nightclub operator and co-defendant in the case who has yet to be tried.

Barclay said tests were run on the fluid samples to see if any matched a fluid found in the burning car in which Young's body was discovered late Dec. 24, 1977. However, chemists were not called Tuesday to testify on the results of the tests.

Barclay also testified that Young's body was exhumed Jan. 23, 1978, and an autopsy performed.

Keesee testified Monday morning that blood stains and a baseball cap with "CAT" on the front of it were discovered outside, behind the club about 3:30 a.m.

"At the southeast corner, I found what appeared to be blood stains," he said. They went from the southeast side of the building to the north."

He said he and Bohannon went back after daylight that day to take photographs but did not go into the club. Keesee said none of the six persons indicted in the case last March had told them to go there. Keesee and a state highway patrolman earlier testified about finding a burning car with the body of Young in the trunk about 10 p.m. Dec. 24 on Ave. P south of Farm 1585.

State trooper Max Gunn also testified that he and other officers arrested Herndon and Kenneth Jaycon, who was tried

Gunn testifed that Herndon and Jaycon were both intoxicated and that Herndon was arrested for driving while intoxi-cated and Jaycon for public intoxication. Ohio Student Group Encourages 'Ratting On Ne'er Do-Wells

CINCINNATI (AP) - Ratting on a fellow student is encouraged at Walnut Hills

In fact, a student task force has started a program to slow crime both in and out of their school.

It's called Operation "RATS," which stands for "Report All Things Swiftly." "We're trying to deal with two kinds of problems," said Elizabeth Stauderman, a member of the student congress. "One is crime outside the school, the violent crimes, kids from other schools, praying on Walnut Hills students.

The other kind is inside," she said. 'We've had a rash of locker break-ins and we're trying to get kids to stop ignoring it. Students tend to be apathetic and also scared. They're not used to it - they haven't encountered violence past 'Starsky and Hutch' and 'Charlie's Angels.'

A central location has been established to report incidents and stduents have established a fund to pay for information.

The school is setting up seminars on crime with the aid of the Cincinnati Police Department.

'What we're attempting to do is give kids strategies how to protect themselves and their property - to make them more streetwise," said Principal David Shep-

Shepherd said, however, that despite several publicized incidents, the school is safe. Walnut Hills is considered one of the top schools academically in the district and students generally come from middle-and upper-class neighborhoods

Call Begins For Sunday Gas Cutoff

CHICAGO (AP) - The leaders of the Illinois Gasoline Dealers Association and some others around the country have begun to urge that gas stations close on Sundays to conserve gasoline. But many others are saying such a step is not need-

On Tuesday, for example, the head of a similar group in Michigan said such closings would be only symbolic — and so did the chairman of Exxon Corp., who also said his firm has curtailed crude oil shipments to customers by 10 percent for the first quarter of 1979 because Iranian oil production has been shut down.

Meanwhile, spokesmen for Amoco and Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) said their firms have adequate supplies.

The discussion of conservation steps comes at a time of uncertainty about whether oil shipments will resume from Iran - and about what effect that will have on supplies.

The Illinois association has voted to ask for voluntary closings from its members beginning Feb. 25 "until further notice." Its executive director, Robert Jacobs, said Tuesday that his group will seek Sunday closings nationwide.

It represents about 3,800 service stations, most in or near Chicago.

Jacobs said many dealers are "in a tight spot" and running low on gasoline. They have used up their allocation and are waiting for more. It's going to get hairier, regardless of the situation in Iran. That's only one side of the coin."

Gov. Hugh Carey said Monday that the state of New York should prepare for possible Sunday and weekend closings. but that they would occur only if they were ordered nationwide.

And last week, the Northern Ohio Petroleum Retailers Association sent letters to all members advising them to prepare for the possibility of Sunday and night closings, according to James V. Cresente, executive director of the asso-

But it was difficult to know how representative such suggestions are. The National Congress of Petroleum Retailers, which represents about 60,000 independent dealers in 48 states, met in St. Louis Monday to consider Sunday closings but failed to take a stand.

"A lot of our members are in states with a lot of toerism," said Charles Matties in Hartford, Conn. "So we can't say 'close Sunday' because that's a big day for tourism." Matties is a past president and a director of the congress.

Sam Spivey, director of the Alabama Service Station Association, said there is no move now to close Sundays "but if the pinch comes, I think one of the first things they'll do, automatically, is close on Sundays and earlier every day.

But Charles Shipley, executive director of the Service Station Dealers Association of Michigan, said his group did not support Sunday closings because, he said, they "would be more a symbol than an effective conservation tool. Consumers would just fill up on Friday or Saturday night.

And Owen Wavrinek, public affairs advisor for Amoco, said the decision by the Illinois group is "really premature. We think we'll be able to meet our customers' needs through the first quarter. Nevertheless, Wavrinek said supplies

CETA-Funded Agency Exonerated By Board

By PAULA TILKER

Avalanche-Journal Staff
The South Plains Association of Governments board agreed Tuesday to accept a federal report exonerating a local CETA-funded agency of a deliberate "cover-up" in audit discrepancies, but it was not an overwhelming vote of confid-

Two board members - county judges Rod Shaw and Henry Heck - voted against accepting the report. They expressed lingering doubts about the Op-portunities Industrialization Center's explanations of why job counselors altered timesheets to excuse and pay absent students, a fact uncovered during a recent audit.

Four other board members abstained from balloting, with one, Carolyn Jordan, saying, "I feel that as long as there is some question in anybody's mind, a better solution would be to get an outside audit" to remove all doubt.

Her suggestion, made after the vote, received no comment from board colleagues.

During an hour-long discussion, the board heard Labor Department field representative James Baker dismiss the problem as one of "procedure," not

And, he said, because the unrecoverable money is $75 — a figure computed by OIC but questioned during the meeting by some board members - the Labor Department recommends it be "waived" because collection would not be "cost

The controversial original audit and "amended" audit prepared by OIC director Dianna Henderson surfaced again Tuesday because of what some board members see as unresolved questions about how it was handled. As explained by Baker, here is how the situation developed:

Program participants were, according to OIC's contract with SPAG, to call both their counselor and the training center by 8:30 a.m. the morning they would be absent. Then, Baker said, that situation was changed by a memo sent out on Dec. 1, 1977, by Title I payroll specialist Jerry Monasch.

That memo, which states a timesheet is a legal document that cannot be altered once it has been signed by a participant and his supervisor, was interpreted by OIC to mean counselors could excuse students by changing timesheets, Baker

Noting another paragraph that states an amended timesheet will be issued by Monasch's office if a correction is necessary and can be documented, Baker added, "So I could understand why OIC was operating in this manner.'

The center interpreted it as a procedure change and thought it was given no replacement when Monasch was dismissed in April 1978 and OIC began handling timesheets, he said. "It's logical. I'd probably think the same thing. Judge Shaw countered that by saying, written contract the SPAG board entered 'Sir." responded Baker, "I'm only say-

"I don't see how a memo could change a

ing it did change it. It was what was adhered to.

As for the $75 figure quoted, Shaw said it means "DOL is accepting a self-serving altered audit done by OIC rather than a bona fide audit done by a professional." A truer figure of the cost to taxpayers would be about $600, the judge indicated during the meeting.

Shaw later said he voted against accepting the federal report because "I couldn't accept Mr. Baker's justification of all the changes in records with consequent payment to people who didn't attend classes being perfectly all right. It isn't the way I would want to run my own business.

Monasch, the payroll specialist who wrote the memo OIC and Baker contend changed the timesheet procedure, also takes issue with it.

He told The Avalanche-Journal he wrote it as a "reminder to all people authorized to handle timesheets to stick with standard procedure" of not altering them once they were signed by the client and supervisor. He explained the memo was prompted by "some unfortunate incident" and he believed it to be his duty to remind all personnel handling the timesheets of the Monasch, who said he would comment only on technical data because he is in litigation with SPAG over his dismissal, also said the original Texas Employment Commission audit was conducted in the presence of official OIC representatives and that there were no complaints during the process.

on the Conger matter because he considers the case "in litigation." Waters noted Conger "has formally filed an appeal" with Dr. M.L. Brockette, state commissioner of education

A record of the case - including a twovolume transcript of Conger's all-day Nov. 21 hearing before the Lubbock school board — has been sent to the Texas Education Agency.

Brockette's staff will hold a hearing March 7 in Austin. The commissioner's decision may be appealed by Conger or the school system to the State Board of Education and ultimately to the courts.

Because of the legal complications, Superintendent Ed Irons said Tuesday he cannot comment on the case.

Superintendent Irons would only say that he believes the allegations are false and that the school district will be exonerated at the state level. Waters said the appeals process has analogies in the court system. Once the appeal begins, the local school board like a trial court - no longer has jurisdiction, Waters said. Thus, he does not believe the board should reinstate Conger. Conger was a teacher-coach at Struggs

CROSBYTON (Special) - A change of venue hearing is scheduled here today in the case of a Lorenzo woman and Lubbock man, accused of the Oct. 2,

1978. slayings of an elderly Lorenzo couple. The hearing begins at 9 a.m. in the Crosby County Courthouse with Judge

Denzil Bevers of the 72nd Judicial District presiding.

Paula Bruce, 57, and John Thomas Carter, 34, of 1608 Ave. R each were indicted by the Crosby County grand jury in November with two counts of capi-tal murder in the shooting deaths of Valton Vernoid Gandy, 73, and his wife.

Mrs. Bruce, who is jailed here, and Carter, who is in Lubbock County Jail, are being held without bond.

Lubbock attorneys Byrnie Bass and George Thompson III have been appointed to defend Carter while Bill Lee of Ralls and Floyd Holder of Lubbock were appointed as Mrs. Bruce's attorneys.

Bill Marley, attorney for Crosby County, is prosecuting the case, along with Alton Griffin, former Lubbock County district attorney, who was hired as special prosecutor by Crosby County commissioners.

The Gandys, who had lived in the Lorenzo area 25 years, were found shot to death about 6 p.m. Oct. 2, 1978, outside their two-bedroom house, just off FM 378 about half a mile north of Lorenzo.

Authorities had speculated the couple was shot after surprising burglars when they came home from a shopping trip in Lubbock.

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) - From his eighth-floor office overlooking distant grain elevators and snow-covered wheat fields, banker William D. Kimmel makes decisions affecting millions of dollars worth of farmland

His bank is one of about 6,000 companies paid by owners, many of whom live thousands of miles away, to manage an estimated 20 percent of the nation's soybeans, corn and wheat acreage. It's a business that has burgeoned in recent

Children and grandchildren of farmers have headed for city jobs instead of culivating land they have inherited. And nore life-long farmers are seeking prossional help in maximizing profits.

Kimmel, a 55-year-old vice president the First National Bank of Hutchinon, oversees 250 farms as head of his bank's farm-management department about 100,000 acres in all.

This, is the closest thing to farming without doing physical labor," he said. Kimmel left the farm 30 years ago to a banker. He wears a sweater and Stetson. Half his time is spent on the road. checking in with his farmer operators, whom he greets a few miles out with his CB radio. He talks knowledgeably about fertilizer, crop yields and irrigation as well as interest rates and loan demand.

There are about 3,500 banks and another 2.500 other firms in the United States managing farmland - about twice as many as 10 years ago, according to Carl Norberg, executive vice president of the American Society of Farm Managers and Rural Appraisers. "It's growing quickly." he said. "Usually we find over the years when money is a little tight that people look to farm management. They want to get all the return they can and feel they need professional advice."

Norberg said that while managers oversee about one-fifth of the acreage producing corn, soybeans and wheat, only about 16 percent of beef destined for feedlots and later dinner tables is man-

Business Of Farm Management

Many banks like Kimmel's have separate departments for farm management Others, such as the First National in Chicago, place the function in the trust department. Smaller rural banks may designate an officer for the work.

But what all involved in the field try to offer is a blend of expertise in banking and farming.

"We try to run our farms as a business. not as a way of life," Kimmel said. We supervise all work on the farm, from fertilizing the crop to marketing and planning crop rotations. Anticipation is the key to successful farm management. If you can anticipate what will happen next, you can be successful."

Anticipation is most important when deciding when to sell the crop. Wheat, the grain most commonly grown on First National's farms, has been unpredictable on the market in the past decade. Kimmel wouldn't say how much his department earns. But because the management fee is 10 percent of whatever wheat is high, so is the bank's cut. "It brings new money into the bank."

All but five of the 250 farms managed by Kimmel's bank are in Kansas. The owners are spread across the nation -California, Washington, New York, Tex-

Most of the owners are in four general categories: widows of farmers or of men who bought land for investment, heirs of landowners, institutions to which land is endowed, and investors engaged in other businesses

Most of the land Kimmel manages is unimproved - no houses or buildings and is farmed by a neighbor.

One of his longtime tenant farmers is Benj Trapp, who owns 105 acres 10 miles from Hutchinson and leases 400 acres on which he grows wheat and oth-

When I sold out up north and came down here, there wasn't any land available and I couldn't have afforded it if it was." Trapp said. "I take care of the rented land before my own, so I can

The leased land brings Trapp additional crop income and justifies buying better and more efficient machinery.

Kimmel and the bank's two other farm managers keep a close eye on their properties by making at least one or two unannounced visits a year to each farm. They look for abuses of the land and crops by incorrect fertilizer use, improper tillage methods and neglect.

Each operator cares for the farm on a one-year lease agreement and receives a percentage of the net profit depending on the land's productivity. The usual split between operator and owner is 50-

In western Kansas, where acreages generally are large because land is less productive. operators get 60 percent of the income and the owner 40 percent.

None of Kimmel's clients are foreign ers. many of whom have bought U.S. farmland as an investment. But many banks and firms that manage land in other parts of the nation are doing business with foreign investors. Norberg said. Foreign ownership has become an issue in the past year to some agricultural organizations.

"We have members who say they won't do any management for foreign investors and others who say, 'Send them my way,' Norberg said. 'It's a very emotional thing, but I believe our members don't think it's that big an issue. We don't think there's going to be that much of it bought.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture said there were 8.729,000 head of cattle and calves on feed as of Feb. 1 in the seven major states, which is one percent above a year earlier.

There were 1.589,000 head placed on feed during January, which is four percent below a year ago. Eight percent more than last year, or 1,883,000 head, were marketed during this January.

Chicago Mercantile Exchange floor traders' immediate comments on the cattle on feed report ranged from friendly to constructive. The one percent increase in

SIGNUP IN THE FEDERAL FARM program begins Thursday and continues through April 30 at county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service

Walter Y. Wells. executive director of the Lubbock County ASCS, says farmers with grain sorghum, corn. barley and wheat for harvest in 1979 must enroll to be eligible for program benefits on any crop.

Say a farmer intends to plant 10 acres of grain sorghum and 500 acres of cotton. Because of the feed grain, he would have to sign that he intends to plant grain sorghum and cotton and then, of course, stay within his normal cropland grain sorghum and cotton and then, of course, stay within his normal cro acres (NCA) and have the necessary set-aside in order to be eligible for program

The crop acreage plus the set-aside could not exceed the NCA.

IF A FARMER WANTS TO PLANT non-required set-aside crops - something other than corn. grain sorghum, barley and wheat - he doesn't have to sign the intention to participate.

But we are going to try to get everybody to sign because a person might want to change his mind at planting time." Wells said.

If a farmer had intended to plant all cotton and doesn't sign at all and later decides to plant some grain sorghum, he would be out of the program on both cotton and grain.

But if he signs an intention to participate, intending to plant only cotton, he could later decide to plant grain sorghum and corn, have the necessary grain set-aside, and still be in the program,

'SIGNING AN INTENTION TO PARTICIPATE and then planting crops different to the way he signed and intended to plant would not get a farmer out of compliance." Wells pointed out.

In fact, it would keep him in compliance so long as he has the necessary set-aside for the way he actually plants within his NCA.

He could sign that he intended to plant some grain sorghum and then change his mind at planting time and plant only cotton. There would be no problem with this. He could simply plant all cotton, certify his acres, and be automatically out of the grain program, since he has only cotton. He then would be eligible for all cotton program benefits, including a disas-

A PERSON HAS EVERYTHING TO GAIN and nothing to lose by signing that he intends to participate." Wells said.

Extremely high program participation is expected in this area. The signup may get off to a slow start, however, with some farmers believing there may be program changes later.

Wells said the Lubbock County ASCS so far has issued around $3 1/4 million in payments under the 1978 programs.

He said he didn't know what percentage this would be of the final total. Separate records weren't kept on the specific purpose for which the payments were made, but Wells said he would estimate that approximately two-thirds of the amount paid out has been under the crop disaster program.

Texas Tech Authorities Promote Potato Packing

Just because a potato is firm, there's no reason to view it as other than delicate produce, according to Texas Tech University researchers who are working to insure better potato quality for eastern consumers.

ter payment if he didn't make a crop.

Handlers are careful to avoid nicking or bruising tomatoes and apples, Dr. R. Max Miller and his research assistant, Donna Huffington, contend, but thin potato skins are carelessly scraped and the vegetable dumped from place to place as though bruises make no difference.

'Handling does make a difference,' Miller said, "and so do the temperatures at which potatoes are kept in shipment from the field to the supermarket bins in Cleveland. Philadelphia and other eastern cities.

Miller and Huffington have found that boxed potatoes ship better than those in burlap bags, and either is better than per-

Potatoes harvested when the field temperature is above 100 degrees Fahrenheit should be slowly lowered to about 60 degrees and 80-81 percent humidity, then held at those levels three days. They should be shipped at about 60 degrees with enough circulation to insure that the potatoes throughout the load are all at that temperature.

At each step of the way potatoes should be handled carefully and dropped no more than six inches at any stage.

Miller, the principal investigator, is a member of the food technology faculty at Texas Tech. Huffington is a candidate for the master's degree in food technology.

They began their research at Hereford studying the effects of harvesting and handling on injuries and subsequent shelf life of Norgold Russet and Viking potatoes. The goal is to assure producers the best possible market prices.

The researchers sampled potatoes in the field, on trucks enroute to packing sheds, throughout the packing processes, in trucks enroute to wholesalers, in wholesale houses and finally at retail markets in Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, Maryland and Washington, D.C. Miller said it takes a week or 10 days to move West Texas potatoes from the

They found that potatoes sometimes are dropped as much as six feet. In loading and unloading from a truck, workers were observed frequently throwing sacked potatoes several feet. A 6-inch drop should be the maxium to prevent bruising, the researchers said.

Temperatures varied in the refrigerated trucks which carry potatoes to market and during the few days that wholesalers keep them. Variations ranged from 40 degrees (too cold) to 75 degrees (too warm).

Vital to maintaining quality. Miller said, was the "hardening" process, slow cooling after leaving the field and high midity for a three-day period.

In shipping, air circulation in the refrigerated truck is important. Miller said loads should be kept at 60 degrees throughout the trip, no matter whether the potato sampled is from the top, middle or bottom of the load.

West Texas potatoes are not storage produce," Miller emphasized. "They come off in the summer and are shipped speedily to retailers to take advantage of a break in the potato market.

Consumers want blemish-free top quality, as close as possible to the No. 1 quality that leaves the field. Handlers and shippers have, in the past, used traditional methods. Now, with the more specific guidelines we have developed, it is possible that better potatoes will reach the consumer."

Miller's research was supported by funds appropriated by the Texas State Legislature. Of special help, he said, was the E.C. Reinauer Packing Shed in Here-

CHICAGO (AP) - Selling in the wake of sharp price increases pushed soybean wer Tuesday on the Chicago Board of Trade amid reports of lower precious metals prices and rains in drought-stricken Brazil.

A slowdown in soybean and wheat exports last week also contributed to price declines, analysts said. The government reported after the close Monday that soybean exports at 8.4 million bushels were about 55 percent lower than the previous week and wheat shipments at 11.4 million bushels were 30 percent lower, reportedly due in part to heavy rains at Gulf shipping points that interfered with shiploading activities. Corn exports at 34 million bushels. however, showed a 20 percent increase over the previous week.

Continued rain over Brazilian soybeangrowing areas and forecasts for more helped erase market talk of a possible world soybean shortage because of drought there, analysts said, although much of the dry weather damage to that maturing crop was said to be irreversible. At the close, soybeans were 1/2 to 1234

Stock Exchange, Workers Resume Talks

NEW YORK (AP) - Federal mediators called negotiators for the New York Stock Exchange and 2,100 clerical workers back to the bargaining table Tuesday afternoon to get their responses to new contract proposals.

Each side had submitted new suggestions for the other's consideration before regotiations were recessed for the week-

While details were cloaked by secrecy so as not to impede bargaining, it was known that a new proposal on hours from Local 153 of the Office and Professional Employees Union was being examined by management while union negotiators studied a revised management economic proposal.

Responses by each side were awaited to see if they contained the ingredients of an accord as Rosemary LeBoeuf, a member of the regional staff of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, was rejoined by James Williams, a national

Inflation Fight May Go On For Years

NEW YORK (AP) - G. William Miller, stressing that the fight against inflation may go on for years, said Tuesday that the Federal Reserve System will continue its efforts to dampen inflation and maintain a stable dollar in curren-

Miller, the chairman of the agency which oversees the nation's banking system and monetary policy, said that inflation could remain a persistent prob-

But he said government policies were determined to deal with the problem in a long-term campaign and pledged that the Fed would continue its policy of 'sustained restraint' on financial markets.

In recent months, the Fed has been forcing up interest rates in money markets with the dual objective of slowing inflation by reducing demand for credit and stemming the decline of the dollar in international markets by attracting dollars back to the United States.

Speaking at a seminar on financial markets. Miller told an audience of several hundred businessmen that the Fed would continue to use its resources and acquire more, if needed, to continue its defense of the dollar in international currency markets. The seminar was sponsored by The Conference Board, a non-profit business research and education organization. Miller declined to speak about specific interest rate or monetary goals - in fine with the Fed's policy of secrecy about current market maneuvers. In comments with reporters following the luncheon. Miller said he was not necessarily signaling a change of policy, or a new round of interest rate tightening, by his comments on the need for continued restraint on credit markets.

But he said the country was facing unprecedented challenges to its economic and financial systems from inflation, which has become deeply rooted over the past dozen years. It will take a long and determined effort to overcome apartment and have no debts. My monthly take-home pay is $700. The only savings I have is $700 in my credit union through payroll deduction.

I really feel embarrassed about how poorly I have handled my finances. When you finish laughing, please advise what you would do if you were me. Try to invest in a house? Save more money first? What?

A. Stop berating yourself. You're no different than most people. The majority of Americans live from paycheck to paycheck and don't worry about the future. until it's too late to do anything about it. You can pat yourself on the back for recognizing - at a reasonably early age that you should be doing some financial

Your first move should be to fatten up your savings. You now have one month's take-home pay in your credit union ac- dividends is also listed in financial mancount. Aim at three month's and keep quals, such as those published by Standard that money there for emergency reserve & Poor's Corp. and Moody's Investors purposes. Do it by increasing your payroll deductions

That's one of the beauties of payroll deductions, for people who have to be forced to save. If you don't get your hands on the money you won't spend it. And, although you don't give the details on your credit union, most pay high inter-

Because you don't have much cash put away, it will be a long time before you will be able to buy a house. I suggest you just keep building up your credit union account, until you have about $5,000.

Then, if $2,500 or so will provide a down payment on a house you can handle both financially and in upkeep — I say buy the house. Otherwise, put the monev above and beyond your emergency reserve, into individual stocks or shares of a mutual fund. At your age, stocks and-or mutual funds with expectations of growth seem right for you.

Q. Assume I purchased 200 shares of common stock a year ago and paid out $10,000. Assume that I sell those 200 shares, now, and receive $8,000. I would have a loss of $2,000. Who would get that

A. No one would get it, at the time of your sale. You would get $8,000, less brokerage commission. The other $2,000 -

Q. I am single, 32, own'my car, rent an he difference between your purchase price and your sale price - just wouldn't be there anymore.

> Q. I own five different stocks. To whom can I write to find out the dates that dividends will be paid on each stock?

A. Write the office of the corporate secretary of each company in which you own stock. Ask for the dates on which dividends have been paid in previous years. Also ask if the company's board of directors - which declares the dividends has a policy of paying dividends on the same dates each year.

Your letter should command immediate attention. As a stockholder, you are a part-owner of each company. At any well-run corporation, the corporate secretary - a hired hand - snaps to when a letter comes in from a stockholder.

Q. We purchased U.S. Treasury notes, one for three and a half years and the other for four years. We were told the in terest we receive by clipping coupons does not have to be declared on our federal income tax return and have not declared it. Are we in trouble?

A number of employees were late reaching their posts on the floor of the exchange Tuesday morning, but the union said it was not a repeat of last Thursday's job action. Rather, the effects of frigid weather on transportation were blamed for the tardiness.

Hurricane Force Winds Hit Pacific Northwest

A storm packing winds of up to 100 mph lashed the Pacific Northwest Tuesday, washing away a $24.6 million pontoon bridge, leaving tens of thousands without power and killing at least two

In the frozen cities of the Northeast. plumbers and policemen were kept busy patching ruptured water pipes and trying to unscramble a log jam of abandoned automobiles, the legacy of record subzero temperatures and heavy snows.

"It's a bummer," said one weary police officer who had about 200 cars towed away in a suburb of Washington. "People just walk away and leave them.

But as the sun was peeking out in much of the urban East, the Pacific Northwest's worst windstorm in 17 years bore down on western Oregon and Washington, felling trees across power lines and causing widespread flooding.

In Nevada, winds clocked as high as 58 mph at Reno International Airport also knocked down trees, damaged homes and touched off a number of fires.

Elsewhere in the nation, heavy snow warnings were posted in western Montana and snow was scattered across North Dakota, the Great Lakes and much of West Virginia.

Heavy fog disrupted air travel in Southern California and made driving hazardous in parts of Texas, where visibility was less than one quarter-mile. Two Washington men were killed when falling trees smashed their vehicles in separate accidents, authorities said.

Philip J. Collette. 30. of Silver Lake. died shortly after midnight when a large fir tree fell on his pickup truck on Washington Highway 504, 21 miles east of Castle Rock, according to state troopers.

Bruce Hart. 28. of Cosmopolis, was killed when a tree toppled and crushed his four-wheel drive vehicle on a rural road in Grays Harbor County, authorities

In California, nine Boy Scouts and their four leaders were found safe Tuesday in an abandoned cabin on Emigrant Peak equipped vehicles were dispatched to bring the group to the Squaw Valley ski resort. The search by up to 40 rescuers began Monday night when the troop failed to reach Squaw Valley.

In Montana, avalanches triggered by rain and warming temperatures wiped out a 110-foot-long highway bridge along the southern edge of Glacier National Park. Officials said the highway, the only major road across north-central Montanwould be closed indefinitely.

Rail traffic, including Amtrak's Empire Builder between Chicago and Seattle, was rerouted because avalanches in the same area clogged Burlington North-

Stan Oltman was watching with binoculars from his home in Port Gamble. Wash., about 7:30 a.m. when the 1.3mile-long Hood Canal floating bridge on Washington State Highway 104 collapsed in the path of 100 mph winds.

The pontoon section floated down the canal about half a mile, then the wind caught it and flipped it over like a battleship." he said. "There was a car on it, a beige Plymouth Fury, but I don't think anybody was in it.

Police said they doubted anybody was on the bridge when it collapsed. The toll booth attendants and drawspan operator were evacuated to safety.

The bridge, which links the Kitsap Peninsula with the Olympic peninsula, was opened in 1961 at a cost of $24.6 million. Officials closed the Evergreen Point Floating Bridge, one of two spans linking Seattle with the suburbs of Lake Wash-

Falling trees knocked out electricity about 42,000 homes and businesses in Washington.

"The trees are falling faster than we can put them (power lines) back up.' said Frank Moses, a utility company dispatcher in Hoquiam, Wash. "Our serviceman was watching all the trees fall down and just decided to wait until they stopped falling.

Elzie Segar's "Popeve" will be 50 later this month, one of the world's most popular and enduring cartoon characters.

"Popeye" was introduced in Segar's "Thimble Theater" Feb. 17, 1929, "a comic forerunner of 'Superman," says Jerry Robinson in his book, "The Com-"He dives out of planes and lands safely on his ample chin; impervious to bullets, he calmly coughs them up if shot in the chest: knocks out gorillas, human and otherwise; and lifts house and most anything else.

Bess Truman Turns 94, Receives Cards, Flowers By Dozens

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) - Secret Service agents delivered dozens of flowers and hundreds of cards to Bess Truman on Tuesday as the former first lady marked her 94th birthday quietly in her Independence home

Secret Service officials stationed in a house across the street from the 17-room Victorian mansion had delivered 18 bouquets and plants by noon.

No guests were expected to visit the widow of President Harry Truman other than some close friends who enter and exit the back door of the home without Secret Service clearance. Mrs. Truman, hospitalized twice the past year for high blood pressure, was reported by one visitor to be feeling well and in good spirits. She spent the day reading her birthday cards and a book. She was expecting a birthday call later in the day from her only child, Margaret

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - Five Oakland men are under arrest for investigation of murder in the fatal shooting of a woman during a robbery attempt at a church bingo game, police say. On Feb. 6, four men fired about two dozen shots into the crowd of 250 persons, but fled without any cash. Dorothy M. Taylor, 49, of Oakland, died of a bullet wound and a man was wounded. SWC Teams Look To Grid Signees

By DON HENRY

Executive Sports Editor
All winter long, telephones have been ringing in the homes of strapping young men in such cities and towns as San Antonio, Sealy, Tahoka, Clovis, Kilgore, Dumas Axtell Plainview, and Temple. This morning - very early this morning - the phones will be overruled by the door bells. Coming calling will be college football coaches, and they will be seeking more than lip service. It's the Southwest Conference kickoff for signing football letters-of-intent, and the coaches will be wanting the young men - the cream of the state's abundant football crop - to put their words into

However, the work is supposed to be done in secret, as seven of the SWC's nine teams do not plan to officially announce their signees. These announcements will be made next Wednesday, the first day the athletes can sign national letters-of-

However, the oral commitments have been coming throughout the winter, as athletes made known their preferences.

Texas Tech, if it lands the young men who have orally accepted scholarships, could land about 25 signatures. And the SWC will come out of Lubbock with three signatures. New Mexico also plans a signing here. Tech is starting at home and plans to sign Monterey lineman Paul Kaelin, a 6-6. 265-pound offensive lineman.

At Estacado, Dewey Turner, a 6-4, 225pound tight end considered one of the top prospects in the state - one of the bluechippers - has announced he will sign with the University of Texas, and teammate Steve Wright, a linebacker, will be signing a letter-of-intent with SMU.

Another Estacado prospect, Mike Chatham, has not announced his decision on a future home.

However, New Mexico officials are expected to be on hand to sign Monterey's George Morris, a 6-5, 250-pound lineman, according MHS coach James Odom.

Tech, if it gets the young men who have indicated a preference for the red and black, will be hitting hard at the home

Expected to sign Tech letters are Plainview's ace running back Royce Coleman, the Tahoka duo of backs Clifford Bailey and Jerry Wayne Hatchett, tight end Herb Pearce and fullback-linebacker Jeff McCowan of Midland Lee, Permian running back Greg Lambert, and Amarillo Palo Duro defensive lineman Scott Loft-

Three of the state's most highly sought athletes appeared headed for Tech. The three, quarterback Mark James of Gregory-Portland, lineman Matt Harlien of Corpus Christi King, and tight end Ga-briel Rivera of San Antonio Jefferson, have announced their public intentions of coming here.

James and Harlien were on a blue-chip list which had only about a dozen names, and Rivera was listed on Parade Magazine's schoolboy all-America unit. The No. 1 man on the statewide list. however, is Eric Dickerson of Sealy. The all-America schoolboy announced last week that he is going to sign with new Texas A&M coach Tom Wilson. However. Dickerson has visited Oklahoma and Southern Cal, and Aggie followers will be waiting the next week when the binding national letter time arrives.

Matadors Gain Playoffs

By BOB BAJACKSON

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff To the Estacado Matadors, Tuesday night's basketball game with the Borger Bulldogs had more meaning than the sincerest Valentine's Day card.

And though there wasn't any holiday candy in Estacado coach J.J. Wood's office after the contest, its absence didn't seem to take away from the sweetness of

The Matadors defeated the Bulldogs 83-68 to claim undisputed rights to the second half I AAA championship. Now, both Estacado and Dunbar officials will meet this morning at the Lubbock Indpendent School athletic office to determine the playoff site for the district championship. Estacado finished the second half with an unblemished 5-0 record. Borger concluded at 3-2. Overall the Matadors ended the regular season with a 16-12 mark. while the loss dropped Borger to 18-11

"We can't celebrate until after the Dunbar game," said Wood, "Of course we're getting a another shot at Dunbar.' And maybe, because the Bulldogs are walking away with a better won-loss per-Borger coach Smith. "We also made three long road trips-two to Lubbock

Estacado tied the contest on the Matadors first time into the forecourt when guard Mike Chatham fed forward Fred Dunn. Dunn banked the ball off the boards to tie the game.

first period to grab a 22-14 first quarter 'We've played 10 hard games," said

In fact. Borger forward John Smith hit both ends of a one-and-one situation with 4:34 remaining in the quarter to narrow the Matador lead to 30-24. But Borger could never fully control the tempo of play and when Estacado forward Craig Harris found guard Preston Davis open

MHS Nips Ponies In Overtime

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Pssssst. Somebody forget to tell Barry Arnwine that Tuesday night's game with the Monterey Plainsmen was - for a lack of a better word- meaningless, by most folks thinking. So it seemed.

And they certainly let it slip their mind to tell the Mustangs themselves.

Obviously.

These were the same Mustangs the Plainsmen had kicked and gouged by 25 points 25 points earlier in the season. But Tuesday night it was a whole different ball game, although the outcome was the

Oh. Monterey won this meeting, but certainly not as easy as it did the first. managing a 43-42 victory.

It took the two teams four quarters and an extra three minutes to decide this one. And it was a layup by Craig Ehlo only a few seconds deep into the overtime period that proved to be the clincher for

Coronado did have its chance to pull out a win, though, but Mark Reed was unable to connect on his second shot from the free throw line with five seconds left, leaving the Ponies so close but still yet far away from defeating their 50th Street rivals.

After Reed, who had hit the first shot from the line after being fouled by Ehlo. missed the second. Ehlo raced in grabbed the rebound and headed for his own bucket, thus clinching the victory.

Although the game meant nothing standing wise- to the Plainsmen. MHS coach Joe Michalka was still happy to win it-very happy

"Of course we didn't have anything to win by beating them," said Michalka, but it is nice to go into the playoffs with some momentum.

"And there's our personal pride, too. We don't like losing to anybody.

The win was Monterey's 17th consecutive district victory, dating about over the last couple of years. It also left Michalka's team 8-0 this year in loop play and 23-3 overall.

Obviously, Coronado came to play, jumping out to a 16-9 first quarter lead after going 8-9 from the field. But Monterey, nonetheless, started its comeback, cutting Coronado's lead to 24-23 hat the

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) -National Football League commissioner Pete Rozelle hopes to settle the differences between Wellington and Tim Mara today when he meets with the New York Giants owners in his New York office. Rozelle has intervened into the Giants family feud as a mediator. The meeting is a continuation of the meetings we've had with them over the months, including phone conversations," Rozelle said Tuesday. "I want to just try to get them to work it out.

We're meeting with Pete Rozelle tomorrow (Wednesday) and he has asked us not to make any more announcements until we have something definite to say,"

Meanwhile, the Giants interviewed Harvard coach Joe Restic Tuesday for the vacant head coaching position.

Restic, at Harvard eight years, previously coached in the Canadian Football League. He is the second candidate to be interviewed for the position to succeed John McVay, who was fired Dec. 18 after

Giants owners Wellington and Tim assistant with the Seattle Seahawks

Dallas assistant Dan Reeves, considered the leading candidate, met informally in New York with Wellington Mara

10 days ago: Reeves has not been formally interviewed for the job and his family reported he was on a business trip in Georgia for the rest of the week, leading to speculation the Maras no longer are interested. Tim Mara threw George Allen's name into contention last Friday, but Wellington Mara is known to be vehemently opposed to the former Los Angeles and Washington coach.

The Giants had planned to hire a director of operations and let that man hire a new coach. But the Maras were unable to come to agree on a director. Tim Mara favored Dallas' Gil Brandt, Don Klosterman of the Los Angeles Rams and former Minnesota, Miami. Baltimore and San Francisco general manager Joe Thomas

Rozelle apparently solved the situation last week by having both men forward a list of their top four choices for the job. Only one name appeared on both lists. NFL Personnel Director Jan Van Duser. who twice turned down the job.

Frustrated. Wellington Mara nounced at a news conference last Thursday the Giants temporarily would shelve the search for a director of operations and begin looking for a coach.

After Wellington left the room, Tim Mara ridiculed his uncle, declaring he still considered the director of operations search top priority and would let Rozelle

NEW YORK (AP) - A federal judge Tuesday barred a Times Square theater from showing an allegedly pornographic movie of a purported former member of the Dallas Cowboys' cheerleaders performing various sexual acts.

Bob Thomas, a 1973 graduate of Texas Tech, has followed a winding trail since he left Tech but somehow that path brought him right back to his alma ma-

Tech athletic director Dick Tamburo announced Tuesday that Thomas will join the athletic department as athletic coordinator, effective next Monday.

Thomas has been the executive vice president of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce since 1976. Before that he had been the assistant city manager for Benbrook since 1974. Thomas originally went to Denton as an administrative assistant to the city manager after he graduated from Tech with a BA in political science.

We had numerous applicants for the academic coordinator position and Bob went through a pretty thorough interview process." Tamburo said. "We were all impressed with him as a person who can work with young people.

Thomas is currently on the Board of Trustees of the First United Methodist Church of Slaton, is director of the Slaton Lions Club and is an officer of the Slaton Rötary Club.

Raider Baseballers Open With Experienced Club

The weather had nothing to do with it: that was just a plus

But, Texas Tech, armed with a dugout filled with experience as well as a week of good weather to get in the final pitches and swings from the batting cage, will open the 1979 baseball season this week. The Raiders will start the year with back-to-back doubleheaders on the road against Hardin-Simmons University at

But coach Kal Segrist opens the year with an optimistic outlook.

Experience at just about every position plus addition of left-handed pitching brings on that outlook "I feel at this point," said Segrist, "that, we're still working out the rough edges. and there are a couple of spots where we're experimenting. But. I don't feel bad about it. We have more depth, pitching-wise. So, with the improved pitching. I hope we can finish stronger (Tech compiled a 23-25 record in

Tech looks to be without one of its pitching regulars, however, Rick Hall, who had a 6-6 record last year, has developed mononucleosis and will be lost "for month, six weeks." said Segrist.

Tech returns its entire outfield from 78. with junior Larry Selby, senior John Keller and senior Randy Newton. Selby led the team in hitting at .339 and earned all-conference honors

However, Segrist indicated a freshman, Bobby Koehler, from San Antonio MacArthur, could play first or in the outtielder, and his left-handed hitting could benefit the club. "He should be in and out of the lineup." said the coach.

Mike Farmer, who hit .252 last year as the designated hitter, will be used in the outfield, too.

On the infield, shortstop Brooks Wallace. "if he hits like we hope, will be one of the premier players in the conference this year," opines Segrest. "And (secondbaseman Bobby) Vestal is a three-year starter. So, unless they get hurt, we are pretty well set there.

Mike Striar of Millis, Mass., owner of Koncert King promotions, said "four or five" bouts will also be featured on the

However, clouding the picture at third and also at first - but a very bright cloud - is freshman Jeff Harp, who helped Monterey to the state meet a year ago.

Every place we've put him, he's looked good," said Segrist. "He's looked good at first, so he's going to play a lot. I just don't know where.

"He gives us a lot of flexibility on the infield. He'll be an outstanding player before he gets out.

The Raiders have three catchers returning, in Scott Leimgruber (.227), Don Hejl (.246) and Kevin Rooker, a red-shirt freshman. "And they've all matured. Leimgruber has had arm problems, but Rucker and Hejl have looked good." Segrist landed a pair of left-handed pitchers from junior college, James Miller (Panola) and Gil Goulding (Paris), and this should help. Also recruited was Steve Ibarguen, a right-hander from Panola.

Gary Moyer, who had a 4-4 record and 3.42 ERA last year, returns, as will Robert Bryant. a left-hander from Austin Anderson. The two will probably pitching Friday's opening doubleheader against

Frank McGuire Survives 'Battle Of Carolina'

Associated Press Sports Writer

The "Battle of South Carolina" clearly was a victory for

Conspicuously cheery in the wake of an attempted palace takeover, the basketball coach of the South Carolina Gamecocks says with special emphasis

'I'm pretty stubborn. I don't know. Maybe it's because I'm Irish, or maybe it's because I'm a New Yorker.

McGuire, of course, is both of those things but the reason that he is still in control of his own destiny - and the destiny of the basketball program at Columbia, S.C. - is because he has been conditioned to challenges and battles all his life.

The rugged McGuire has been knocked around, all right, but never knocked out

Donnie Walsh (McGuire's former assistant and presently the coach of the National Basketball Association's Denver Nuggets) told me that I was the only one who could have gone through what I did and survive." McGuire said with pride the other day after a game at New York's Madison Square Gar-

Any college basketball fan is familiar with McGuire's fabled accomplishments. He is the only coach to have reached the NCAA finals with two schools (St. John's and North Carolina). His 1957 Tar Heels won the national championship with a 32-0 record, beating Kansas and Wilt Chamberlain in a triple overtime thriller in the finals. McGuire has won more than 500 games and countless tournaments in a career that has spanned more than four towering decades.

The highs have far outpointed the lows, but occasionally McGuire's basketball has been deflated. Though bringing North Carolina its tallest success, McGuire was often involved in power struggles at Chapel Hill, particularly with Jim Taturn, the strong-minded football coach. Each wanted to control the athletic department. As it turned out, Tatum died unexpectedly and McGuire left unexpectedly in the late 1950s, in the wake of a recruiting scandal.

After a one-year layover with the NBA Philadelphia Warriors. McGuire was back in college ball, at South Carolina. There, he built a new empire - as he had at North Carolina - with the help of New York-area athletes. But again, there were more power plays in his way.

This time, another strong-minded football coach, Jim Carlen, was believed to be at the root of a movement to dunk McGuire. The story went that Carlen had designs of taking over the whole South Carolina athletic program, while McGuire would be retired prematurely to a token job as overseer of a regional campus basketball program at Conway, S.C.

The split between basketball and football became so severe that each sport ultimately needed its individual public relations director.

When the anti-McGuire forces started to group against him last year, the mandatory retirement age was 65. Since then, it's gone to 70. That gave McGuire five more years, and he plans to use them all.

"It was the only way they could get at me - through my age." McGuire says. "They couldn't say too much about my Legions of McGuire supporters materialized to quash the movement against their beloved coach.

"It was the most trying period of my life, because I had to institutionalize Frankie for the first time." said McGuire, referring to his retarded son who is now 9"

For a man who has devoted his lifetime to basketball. McGuire feels he still has a lifetime left to do equally important things. He would like to be the only coach in college basketball history to go to the NCAA finals with three different

'All I need is a couple of blue-chippers," notes McGuire, hot on the trail of a couple of highly sought-after New York prospects, Sidney "Silk" Green of Brooklyn's Thomas Jefferson High and Tony "Red" Bruin of Mater Christi High in

McGuire makes no secret about his desire for a second national championship

'Heck. I've filled a lot of arenas in my day with some pretty good teams," he says. "I don't want to have to coach any team that empties arenas.

The margin isn't much, but UCLA will take it, too. Being No. 1 by three points is as good as being there by plenty, as far as the tradition-rich Bruins are concerned.

Indiana State moved into the top spot in The Associated Press college basketball poll Tuesday, receiving 43 first place votes and 1,196 points from the nationwide panel of 62 sports writers and broadcasters. UCLA was second with 19 first-place ballots and 1,190 points in one of the closest votes in the history of The AP poll.

However, in the United Press International poll of college coaches, the order was reversed, as UCLA grabbed the top spot with a 599-point total to 596 for Indithe more first-place votes, 25-15.

The Sycamores, who are the nation's only major undefeated team, scored their 23rd consecutive victory Monday night, routing West Texas State 100-75.

They had been No. 2 in both polls last week and moved up in AP when topranked Notre Dame was beaten at home Sunday by UCLA. That victory impressed the UPI coaches' panel, and the loss dropped the Irish to third place in both national wire-service polls.

Although Indiana State held a wide edge in first place votes in AP, UCLA made it close because none of the voters had the Bruins lower than fourth in the balloting. The Sycamores, on the other hand, were as low as No. 9 on one AP ballot and so they needed that heavy first place support to gain the No. 1 ranking.

Notre Dame received 1,073 points for third place in the AP poll followed by two Atlantic Coast Conference teams, North Carolina and Duke. The Tar Heels jumped from sixth place to fourth with 983 points following wins over Maryland and Providence. Duke, top-ranked in the preseason poll and third last week, slipped to fifth with 901 points after being upset by Pittsburgh 71-69 on Satur-

UPI's top ten had, behind the Big Three, North Carolina, LSU, Duke, Syracuse, Michigan State, Louisville, and Marquette. Arkansas headed the Second Ten, followed by Southwest Conference rival Texas. ## James Cagney Recounting Lengthy Acting Career

NEW YORK (AP) - The white-haired can - and does - rattle off verses from man sits back in his chair, recalling his nearly 80 years. He talks of childhood poverty, a long and varied career, a contented retirement.

Nothing remarkable here - but wait a minute. Suddenly there's a twinkle in the eye and a salty street-corner saying that cuts through the dignified repose and puts us in touch with one of the most remarkable performers in the history of the movies. James Cagney.

Yes, it's Cagney, the much-imitated yet inimitable, giving his first television interview in 19 years to David Hartman of ABC's "Good Morning America." The conversation, filmed late last year at Cagney's farm in upstate New York, is being shown in brief segments over four days beginning Tuesday.

Fans may learn little new about their idol beyond what's in his autobiography. "Cagney By Cagney." But what a delight it is to hear it from his own lips!

There's his mother, tough enough to raise four sons on Manhattan's Lower East Side, who put an abrupt end to Jimmy's boxing ambitions by asking: "Can you lick me?

There's the young vaudevillian in the 20s, who at times bombed so badly he went through "seven acts in one year." but who with his "Irish memory" still an old routine.

Cagney confides he used to get so nervous, he "threw up before every show. "They had a bucket at each entrance. I'd dance my head off, then go out and ...

of 1930. Movies never made him nervous because, he figured, "How could I last? I was 5-foot-8. no face, just pale white eyebrows and eyelashes. Nothing to photo-

Then there's the Hollywood newcomer

But last he did, through an incredibly versatile career as gangster, comedian, dramatic actor and song-and-dance man. He won an Oscar playing George M. Cohan in "Yankee Doodle Dandy" in 1942.

Of his tremendous popularity in toughguy roles. Cagney says, "Looking back, there was nobody else around who could handle a hoodlum part with acceptance. Having been raised among them I didn't have to reach for anything.

Of his wife, Willard, whom he calls Bill and met on the vaudeville circuit, Cagney says. "She could dance like hell." Of their 56 years of marriage: "No strain atall.

Cagney quit movies after Billy Wilder's frenetic comedy "One, Two, Three" in the early '60s. Does he missing acting? "Not a bit

He seems genuinely surprised when Hartman suggests he is a bit of a recluse.

"Like being alone? I guess I do, I'm not aware of it," he replies. He spends his time "wandering about the place, getting into the carriage and driving six or seven miles." He also raises Morgan horses.

Woven into the interview are film clips Cagney and George Raft as convicts Cagney pushing the grapefruit into Mae Clarke's face. Producer George Merlis has also included testimonials from Raft and other actors who starred with Cagney: Pat O'Brien, Ralph Bellamy, Jack O'Brien tells a story about the time they were shooting a film in which the denly started "screwing up their lines" at 5:55 p.m., so the director would have to keep everyone late and the extras would cash in.

All his colleagues praise Cagney as a natural actor, at home in any role he played. But the last word belongs to Cag-extras' contract called for overtime after ney himself, when he sums up his "theo- self, look the other fellow in the eye, and ry" of acting: "You walk in, plant your- tell the truth."

More Watergate Fallout Due To Descend On Tube Viewers

HOLLYWOOD (AP) -Those Watergate that Dean had been a womanizer. Or that Maureen had suffered a nervous breakfolks will once again be coming into American living rooms in May.

First came the news events thems especially the Senate hearings of that summer of '73. Then ABC's 1977 mini-se-'Washington: Behind Closed Doors." more or less fictional, more or less based on a John Ehrlichman novel.

In May, CBS will telecast eight hours of drama based on John Dean's confessional, "Blind Ambition." David Susskind is executive producer for Time-Life Television. George Schaefer the habitual Emmy winner, is producer-director. Filming began, appropriately enough, at Halloween and is just now coming to an end.

The other day, "Blind Ambition" was on location in Toluca Lake, a short distance from Bob Hope's house. A local residence was subbing for the Washington suburb home of John Dean, the White House lawyer who blew the whistle on Richard Nixon. Dean and his wife, Maureen, are played by Martin Sheen ("The Subject Was Roses") and newcomer Theresa Russell.

Schaefer was giving instructions to the two stars before the lunch break, then he spoke to a visitor.

'It has been a long haul," said the director. "And now I will have only three months to edit eight hours of film! But it has been a marvelous experience, and I think it will be a good show. If the viewers come back for the second night, I think they'll stay throughout the run. The story has a kind of cumulative drive."

Also in the cast of "Blind Ambition" Rip Torn as Richard Nixon, William Schallart as Herbert Kalmbach, William Windom as Richard Kleindienst, John Randolph as John Mitchell, William Daniels as Gordon Liddy, Graham Jarvis as John Ehrlichman, Laurence Pressman as H. R. Haldeman. The script was written by Stanley R. Greenberg, author of the docu-dramas "Pueblo" and "The Missiles of October.

Coproducing with Schaefer is Renee Valente, who is marking a return with Susskind. Twenty-five years ago, she came out of New York University to work as assistant story editor for his Talent Associates. She has since risen to become Columbia Pictures vice president for talent, then for TV movies, and now heads her own production company.

"It has been an exhausting 3 1/2 half months, working from 5:30-6:00 in the morning until eight at night," said Miss Valente. "But morale has been high. There have been no dropouts at the dailies: everyone is eager to see the film that has been shot. That's a good sign.

Her first encounter with the project came when she was in the east to act as judge at the Miss America contest. Susskind invited her to lunch and over coffee said, "How would you like to produce 'Blind Ambition?" It seemed like a good idea to her. Even though the public had a taste of Watergate with "Washington: Behind Closed Doors," she reasons that no one has seen Watergate from the in-

The TV show is based on Dean's book and Maureen's as well, said Miss Valente, adding: "I think there will be some surprises. For instance, I didn't know her from the hearings as being so cool

Claire Kroyt, 75, said she hailed the cab Sunday night after arriving from Taiwan, where she had spent four months with the Taipei Philharmonic Orchestra. The cabbie agreed to take her to another terminal so she could catch another plane, she said.

"I thought, 'What a nice boy." she said Monday. "I even took his name and address, thinking I would send him some money and a gift because I thought he was being so gracious." she said.

She said that when they arrived at the terminal, the cabbie offered to wait while she got her ticket.

"I hardly had my feet out of the taxi and away he went," she said.
"He robbed me of my whole life," she said. "I haven't lived without fiddles since I was a child of 5. They were my whole career and now they're gone.

Musician Hank Jones Acknowledged Star In Fats Waller Film Bit Role

havin'," Broadway's musical salute to Fats Waller, he's just a member of the cast, the guy in the derby and sleeve garters who plays piano on stage.

But for jazz fans in America, Europe and Japan, he's been a star for years. He's Hank Jones, a gifted improviser and accompanist, a man with a subtle rhythmic approach and almost 50 years in music

The odd thing is, even though he grew up in the Waller era and critics detect influences of Waller - and Art Tatum, Teddy Wilson and Bud Powell - in his work, he never met the gent.

"I only heard his music," said Jones, 60, the oldest brother of two other famed jazz Jonesmen - Thad, 55, a trumpeter who runs a big band here with drummer Mel Lewis, and Elvin, 53, a drummer.

They come from a large clan, 10 kids, and grew up in Pontiac, Mich., in a house music. Their father played guitar, their mother sang and played piano, the instrument Hank discovered while still a

It led to studies, simple exercises, then long-hair stuff. Then the popular music of local groups, which he began at age 13. His studies of jazz began simply by listening to it, the best way.

'Now, mind you," said Jones, a pleasant, articulate man, "all this time I was exposed to the music of Duke Ellington, Barl Hines, Benny Carter, and later on, Reddy Wilson and Jimmie Lunceford. "Plus whatever itinerant piano players came to town. None could read music, but they all played, more or less, in the style of Teddy or Art Tatum, big full chords, lots of left hand. "And I guess I learned from them. You learn a lot from whatever you hear, and I heard a lot of music in the early years." He played a lot of music in ensuing years, with such as Hot Lips Page, Billy

- as a CBS staff musician and recorded extensively as a sideman, squeezing in time in the late 1960s to cut two albums with brothers Thad and Elvin.

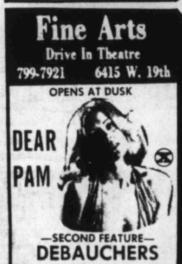

In the early and mid-1970s, Hank, who lives in Cresskill, N.J., with his wife and daughter, worked in clubs here and concerts overseas. But of late, he's been cutting albums as a leader and doing it of-

It's only coincidence, he insists, he picked it to record in 1977 - long before he was picked to play in the Waller show. Like many jazzmen here, Jones thinks Fun City is experiencing a jazz renaissance, mainly because the kids of the rock era now realize there's more to music than three chords, two riffs and a yowl.

At home, his proposed new constitution runs into opposition, the remains of probable victims of repression are dug out of a mine, labor is unhappy, the church criticizes his government.

Yet, Augusto Pinochet Ugarte endures. The 63-year-old army general presides over Chile like an iron-willed father pounding at the head of the table. He preaches patriotism, family life, hard work and religious orthodoxy. Those who raise questions about the darker side of his rule are accused of being Communists or their dupes

And nearly 5 1/2 years after leading the coup against the late Salvador Allende and his Socialist regime. Pinochet shows no readiness to vacate the chair.

His many critics have been claiming and hoping - for months that Pinochet was on the verge of being shown the door by more moderate army generals who ence, which was rebuilt after the coup at would turn the nation toward elective de-

"I am firm. Very firm," he insisted to journalists last July after an especially large spate of rumors.

The air force, then led by Gen. Gustavo Leigh, was in virtual rebellion against Pinochet's slow timetable for civilian government. Indictments were expected any day from the Washington grand jury investigating the murder of exiled Social ist Orlando Letelier, and it was an open secret that three former officials of the Chilean secret police would be named. including a general close to Pinochet.

With Leigh nipping at Pinochet's heels at the same time as the indictments came down, things would surely come to a head - so went the reasoning of opponents and some observers.

Pinochet was ahead of them. On July 24 he fired Leigh as air force commander and kicked him out of the four-man ruling junta.

The indictments were issued on Aug. 1. but the reaction in Chile was calm, even when U. S. diplomats delivered cartons of evidence to start the long extradition process.

Since then, however, Pinochet's bur dens have multiplied in this order:

 Labor unrest grew, partly as a read tion to the declaration of a state of siege around the Chuquicamata copper mine on Sept. 1 and the banishment of 52 workers to the desert.

- Negotiations with Argentina in the dispute over three islands and surrounding waters near Cape Horn broke down on Nov. 2. Both countries sent their fleets into the area and put troops on alert.

 The Roman Catholic bishops criticized Pinochet's proposed constitution. said a constitutional assembly should be convened instead and expressed displeasure with his labor policies. Opposition to the constitution also surged within the Pinochet-appointed Council of State.

- Led by the AFL-CIO, unions in a number of Western Hemisphere nations threatened to mount an international boycott against handling goods from or for Chile unless Pinochet changed his la bor policies.

- Church officials uncovered a group of human remains in the abandoned Lonquen limestone quarry. Pinochet himself acknowledged they were probably some of the more than 650 leftists reported missing in security police hands since

Soon after Vatican mediation de fused the crisis with Argentina, the spy affair erupted with Chile's northern neighbor. Peru expeled several Chilean military men and the ambassador and executed one of its own men for passing se

So far, Pinochet has skirted all of these problems or has seen them simply evapo rate. He has indicated he plans to stay in power 8-10 more years, but a dissident retired air force general claims that the regime, with or without Pinochet, plans to stay more than 20 years.

Critics privately characterize Pinochet another Franco and say the civilians he has been appointing to his cabinet share his views more fully than former ministers from the military

Pinochet, his wife, five grown children and various other relatives appear to enjoy the trappings of power. The family lives in the army commander's resid-

TENEMENT FIRE DETECTORS

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - Smoke and fire detectors will be installed, beginning this week, in city-owned tenements in an effort to stem the death toll from fires in Newark. The City Council passed an ordinance last month requiring all residential structures to have smoke dectectors within 90 days, but because 10 people have died in fires in the last 11 days, the program has been speeded up. More than 800 families live in 400 buildings acquired by the city in recent years. Most are older tenements with wooden interiors which fire officials describe as tinderboxes.

Mrs. Lucia Pinochet Hiriart is an active first lady, presiding over the vast network of women's handicraft centers and traveling with her husband. His mother is feted by the Friends of the Ballet. Two sons-in-law head government corporations, one being the state television network. Three thousand people were invited to the recent wedding of the youngest Pinochet daughter.

Surveys by the Chilean Gallup organization conclude that Pinochet is well liked by the majority of the population. The most recent results, from the July 1978

survey, found a 66 percent approval rating for his government

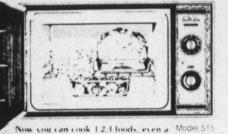

Some observers and critics, however, believe it is the threat of war with Argentina that has kept him in office during the past few months. Chileans are highly nationalistic and the fear of an attack makes them rally around the president regardless of other factors, goes the thinking.

Others both in and out of government say Pinochet has also benefited from the fact that there is no obvious candidate to replace him - that is, another army general who could get and keep the job.
