Khomeini Gaining Control

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) - Moslem marshals supporting Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's provisional government have taken control in two southern cities and are moving to replace military and police authorities in several other cities, Iranian newspapers reported today.

The marshals, mostly "young men appointed by the town's main clergy leader," are even building roads in the southern town of Shiraz, the papers said.

In the southern city of Isfahan nearly all municipal operations are being run by men appointed the Moslem clergy, newspapers reported.

The gradual takeover of cities was reported as-Mehdi Bazargan, appointed prime minister of Khomeini's Islamic government Monday, received wide support from government employees. Military authorities cut the curfew in

Tehran by an hour and kept a low profile

as thousands of demonstrators marched in support of Khomeini and Bazargan. Ayatollah Mohammad Hossein Khademi, main religious leader in Isfahan, said Moslem "guards" had been issued special identity papers to enable them to take over civil duties. The guards arrested several car thieves, recovered stolen private belongings and restored them to their owners, he said. One source in Isfahan said Ayatollah is 'holding court and issuing orders to the authorities for redressal, action on complaints and maintenance of order.' It was Khademi's intervetion that rescued U.S. consul David McGaffy from a mob when McGaffy tried to intervene on behalf of another American, whom the crowd wanted to lynch, last month. In Tehran, several thoasand supporters of Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar gathered at a downtown stadium in a solidarity gesture hours after demonstrators carrying huge portraits of Khomeini marched in the streets.

Military units remained posted at strategic points in downtown Tehran, but made no attempt to intervene when the demonstrators spilled into the thick auto

Teng Says Vietnam Must Be Punished

TOKYO (UPI) - Chinese Vice Pre- Ohira by Japanese officials mier Teng Hsiao-ping said today "Viet-nam must be punished" for its blitzkrieg conquest of Cambodia in the strongest statement yet by a high-ranking Chinese against Hanoi.

But the diminutive Teng, on the second day of a three-day visit to Japan following a whirlwind eight-day U.S. tour, stopped short of threatening direct military intervention by China. The Indochina question does not stop at being a bilateral matter between China and Vietnam," Teng was quoted as tell-ing Japanese Prime Minister Masayoshi

"It is a question on which the peace of the world depends: China has behaved with restraint, but Vietnam must be punished for its actions.

His statement in a one hour and 47 minute meeting with Ohira was the strongest yet by any Chinese leader since Vietnam's quick victory in January over the Chinese-backed Kmer Rouge regime ledby Pol Pot.

Foreign ministry sources said one inference from Teng's remarks was the possibility of Chinese military intervention. But they said Teng's words were more likely a threat intended to restrain Vietnam's conduct.

Teng also called for American troops from South Korea, but said otherwise there was no reason for a U.S. military withdrawal from the Far East.

Teng's remark on the need for Vietnam to be punished came amid reports of a major Chinese military buildup along China's southern border with Vietnam.

Peking and Hanoi have also accused one another for several weeks of provocative and sometimes deadly border raids. "World conditions are moving toward tension," Teng told Ohira. "If it's a fact that the Soviets are spinning their tops all

Snow, Police Curb Protest By Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) - Cold and stiff after camping in the city's worst snow-storm of the year, protesting farmers re-turned to Congress and the Agriculture Department today — but Secretary Bob Bergland countered with upbeat talk of rural prosperity.

"The state of American agriculture is substantially better than it was a year ago," Bergland told the House Agriculture Committee as about 300 farmers, some booing, looked on.

The protest group, estimated at 3,500 strong, has argued that the farmer is squeezed between low prices for crops and high prices for fertilizer, machinery, fuel, land and the like.

"In virtually every respect," Bergland said, "1978 was a good year for the Amer-ican farmer." However, in a late addition to his prepared text, he added: "It should out saying ...there remained individual farm operators in every region of the country who did not fare well."

Bergland toned down his comments somewhat further when he said off-the-cuff that it should be kept in mind that the previous year "was a disaster for many."

The secretary was 30 minutes into his testimony before the farmers packed into the hearing room began to boo him. But they repeatedly applauded committee members who prompted them with state-ments like that of Rep. Keith Sebelius, R-Kan: "Farmers are the greatest inflation

Protest leader Gerald McCathern, the American Agriculture Movement's na-tional "wagonmaster," appeared on tele-vision this morning and called Bergland "just a damn liar" for his remarks on the same network Tuesday.

Bergland said then that while some farmers have "local" problems, many simply made bad business judgments, paid too much for land, were seeking iblicity or were "driven by just oldfashioned greed."

But "he's not out there paying my bills," said McCathern, who grows corn near Hereford. "He doesn't know the hardships I'm going through, and maybe if I could supplement my income with a salary the way that he is I could possibly

Clements Raps Pay Hike Plan

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements said today he thinks a 10 percent increase for state employees is "excessive" and vowed he would veto a bill that changes the primary election dates in Texas.

He also said he thought Texas should 'think a long time" before increasing the 55 mph speed limits and face a risk of losing up to $300 million in highway funds. About recent recommendations by

Crime Victims Called 'Forgotten People

WASHINGTON (AP) - The victims of crime, even such relatively painless offenses as purse-snatching, may suffer weeks or months of emotional trauma and often have nowhere to turn for help, say two specialists in victim psychology.

The sudden, arbitrary, unpredictable violation of self leaves victims feeling so shattered that they cannot continue to function the way they did before the crime. Things fall apart, and victims are unable to pull themselves back together right-away," wrote Morton Bard and Dawn Sangrey in "The Crime Victim's Book," being published this month.

The authors contend that crime victims are the forgotten people in the criminal justice system. Police officers and prosecutors seldom have the time or training to deal with the victim's emotional suffering and even well-meaning friends and relatives may react in ways that only heighten the trauma.

Bard, a psychology professor and director of the Center for Social Research at the City University of New York, has been a consultant to the New York City police department. Sangrey, a writer, is a member of the National Organization of Victim Assistance.

They deal with personal crimes ranging in seriousness from pursesnatching to burglary, robbery, rape and murder. In interviews with victims, they found that those who experienced even minor offenses felt they had been personally violated.

"You feel stripped naked," a purse-snatching victim told the researchers. "You're powerless. 'Violation' is an adult way to explain that, but it isn't an adult response. It's reminiscent of the kind of helplessness that goes back to early childhood. And I think that's what makes it so crucially painful. Because you can't fight back Most victims react first with surprise. "I never thought it could happen to me" proved to be a frequent comment. Bard and Sangrey suggest the trauma stems from confrontation with a situation the victim cannot control

In an attempt to regain control, the victim often blames himself for the crime, theorizing that his own carelessness led to what happened and that if he only behaves more cautiously, he will never again be a This is worthwhile up to a point, Bard and Sangrey wrote. But they added, "It is important for the victim to maintain realistic expectations. No matter what a person does to prevent crime, chance will still play a role. Some victims, they note, develop strong and damaging guilt feelings because they didn't fight back. "It would be foolish for an unarmed person to try to disarm a gunman, but people who have been held up by armed robbers often express shame because they did not try to defend themselves," they

Many people, they wrote, "just cannot suspend the lifelong value of not harming another person, not even when life is threatened.

The rumors stemmed from a report last week in the Middle East Economic Survey, a Cyprus-based newsletter, that Saudi Arabia planned to raise its production quota to 9.5 million barrels a day from 8.5 million barrels.

That news sank without a trace on world markets. But interpretations Monday saw this as actually causing a decrease in Saudi oil supply, because the Saudis actually have been producing 10 million barrels a day, and might have to reduce production to meet the new quowhich is considered a safer investment. When it looks like the dollar is headed

Oil news has been fodder for largescale elation or panic in financial markets for many years. The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries' decision in December to raise the price of oil pushed the dollar downward, for example. And that OPEC was contemplating an emergency oil-price-rise sent the dollar and stock market tumbling and gold up.

Oil's role in the U.S. economy makes it a key in financial markets. Much of last year's $29 billion trade deficit was attributable to large U.S. imports of crude oil. The size of the trade deficit, in turn, is a key contributor to pessimism about the U.S. economy, which has kept the dollar on a steady decline for the better part of two years.

Current attempts to stabilize the economy involve rises in interest rates. That strategy, although a favorite on foreign exchange markets, is disliked by stock traders because it tends to divert investors' money from stocks to bonds, which yield more when interest rates rise.

The trade deficit problems may be somewhat alleviated by a reduction in the amount of oil from Saudi Arabia but it also could lead to higher heating oil and gasoline prices, a contribution to inflation that worries traders in currencies, gold and stocks.

That's why rumors of a reduction in the amount of oil sent the United States by Saudi Arabia means problems in financial markets - problems which can play havoc with dollar, stock and gold values

By SERGE SCHMEMANN TSHIPISE, South Africa (AP) — Along South Africa's border with Rhodesia farmers often hear the shooting of the guerrilla war on the other side. Yet despite three clashes with black infiltrators on this side in only three months, they're still convinced it can't happen

"We're not going to make the same mistakes Rhodesia made," farmer Kevin Emmerich said confidently as he prepared to spray his maturing cotton plants about 20 miles south of the Limpopo River which forms the border with Rhodesia.

Like numerous other white farmers interviewed by The Associated Press on farms bordering Botswana to the west and Rhodesia to the north, Emmerich insisted the "terrorist war" - now costing 30 Rhodesian lives a day - is nowhere near in South Africa.

His main concern, he said, was this year's ruinous drought.

It was only six years ago — on the night of Dec. 22, 1972, in the midst of a drought - that five black Rhodesian guerrillas attacked a farm in the Centenary region of northern Rhodesia with rockets and small arms, sounding what is now regarded as the opening shots in Rhodesia's bloody struggle.

At the time, a Centenary farmer, Chris Kleynhans, told reporters: "The terrorists are nothing, only a pinprick in our sides. Our worry at the moment is rain. We need rain soon.

Four weeks later, Kleynhans was wounded and his wife killed in another guerrilla attack. Six years later, the war engulfs Rhodesia, the death toll is more than 15,000 and whites are fleeing at the rate of 1,000 a month.

Security officials in South Africa express confidence that they can repel "terrorist infiltration." But they have also warned that up to 4,000 South African blacks are receiving guerrilla training in neighboring black nations, the Soviet Union, East Germany and elsewhere abroad, and that infiltration from Botswana, Mozambique and Swaziland to urban areas is on the increase.

They also are watching with alarm the steady drop in the white farmer population along South Africa's 1,250-mile-long border with Botswana, Rhodesia and Mozambique, which lies to the north-

The basic reason given for this is not the guerrilla threat, but economics -the consolidation of farms and the skyrocketing cost of farming in a marginally productive area far from markets.

But according to the army chief, Constand Viljoen, the exodus of whites represents an "intolerable" erosion of what here — as in Rhodesia — is regarded as the first line of defense against guerrilla

The government is seeking to stem the flight of whites with special subsidies, tax breaks and soft loans. Resident farmers are being urged to invest in radios and effective fences.

The growing guerrilla threat has prompted an extensive build-up in mili-tary preparedness, and a fan of thickly paved, mine-resistant roads are being built to key border posts - presumably to facilitate quick troop movements.

Unlike Rhodesia's guerrillas, who have concentrated on rural areas, the goal of South African black nationalists seems to be to reach Soweto and other black townships near major urban areas, where the level of black militance is highest.

Would You Question The Motives Of A Holy Man?'

James J. Kilpatrick:

The NEA Non-Education Dept.

WASHINGTON-Bad ideas, like bad pennies, keep coming back. Carter has returned to Capitol Hill with the same bad idea he pushed unsuccessfully a year ago: He wants a new U.S. Department of Educa-

The idea sank in the 95th Congress partly be-cause of bureaucratic in-fighting over the school lunch and breakfast program, and partly because of some belated skepticism on the Hill.

School lunches now are part of the turf of Carol Tucker Foreman in Agriculture; she fought like a she-tiger for them.

Several influential members of the House and Senate, turned off by the horrid affray, spread the word that they had cooled to the whole proposition. Sen. Abe Ribicoff, D-Conn., felt no compelling urge to battle for the bill. That was that.

THE PRESIDENT'S idea is to carve a new entity out of the ribs of Health, Education and Welfare. His department would have 16,000 employes and a budget of $14 billion; in new overhead and administrative costs it would cost a bundle.

A bovine herd of assistant secretaries would be assembled. We would have limousines, official seals, Cabinet rank, the whole nine yards—and all this from a President who campaigned against

If bloat were the only objection, some of Carter's critics might be inclined to grumble a good grumble and then subside.

The larger and more serious objection is that a new Department of Education, for all practical purposes, would be little more than an extension of the National Education Association. And the NEA in recent years has come to embody every single cause that has contributed to the crisis that threatens our public schools.

IN SOME MINDS there may be a tendency to think of the NEA as it operated in the Thirties and Forties. Then it was largely a home office for the federated state education associations.

The national office engaged in some modest re-search; it lobbied state legislatures in support of higher pay and better retirement benefits.

These days, the NEA functions as a trade union, pure and simple, as bellicost and demanding as the miners, the teamsters and the longshoremen. In the whole field of public employe union-ism, few outfits are as militant—and the NEA's economic activism has been matched by an intellectual activism equally potent.

IN LEAGUE WITH the teachers' colleges and the textbook publishers, the NEA has provided forward troops in the war against sound education. The NEA's publications over the past 20 or 30 years provide a catalog of wretched innova-

Yes, the NEA has had help, from television and the federal judiciary among other forces, but the teachers whose image the NEA reflects must bear most of the responsibility for the mi fix we are in. How miserable? Look around you. The achievement scores of our high school graduates keep sagging every year. Publishing houses are hard put to translate their secondary textbooks from simple English to babytalk. Down in Dallas a few months ago, the school board administered an easy achievement test to beginning teachers and principals. Half of them flunked. The taxpayers are spending $87 billion a year on the public schools the NEA has fashioned, and the taxpayers are getting royally ripped off.

This is the outfit—the palpable ideological and cultural force—that would take over a new Department of Education.

THE EXPERIENCES and attitudes that typify the NEA already dominate the Office of Educa-tion, but at least the very nature of the bureau-cratic swamp at HEW tends to dampen the off-ice's lust for effective national control of public

In the end, that is what we are talking about, and that is where the NEA and Carter's new development would take us—to national policy-fix-ing. Sen. Ribicoff's bill last year contained one poor, feeble provision giving lip service to state and local control of schools.

The provision was a bad joke, not to be be-lieved by those who learned one lesson long ago: Who pays the piper calls the tune.

Such criticisms are certain to bring renewed questioning of the jury system. Whatever its shortcomings, though, trial by jury is still the best route to justice.

What may be needed is an overhaul of the rules of evidence and rules of procedure so that the courtroom is less of a showcase for the technical and oratorical skills of the lawyers and more of a place for letting the jurors have all of the facts they need for reaching a just verdict.

Black Mayor Makes Difference

WASHINGTON-Marion Barry Jr., 42, black and handsome, is on the way to becoming Uncle Tom's massa. He is this city's first racist Mayor -the spearhead of a majority rule which is drawing blood in Africa, but will not make us bleed copiously. Both races should be thankful for the better part of a generation.

Thankfulness for the delay is in order because the civilized world is in a state of dust-thou-were, to dust returneth, and neither the black nor white is ready for a backward trek to the jungle.

Who is there among true Americans who does not hope the banks will stay open, the buses move through the streets, the courts of justice function even at their uneven pattern of fairness?

MAYOR BARRY came up from Mississippi, became a man of the streets when the going re-quired it, but joined the establishment of party politics, public education, self-help in the organi-zation he headed, Pride Inc., and advanced in the estimation of the community until there was nowhere to halt-except at the top. Barry is by common consent the first black mayor of the nation's capital, although he followed his co-racist, Walter Washington, who, as appointive and later elective chief executive resigned without ruling for 10 years. It is Barry, if it can be any leader, who will make the triple change from stagnation to the desired condition of a progress converted away from white rule, a slum-and-affluence contras we see whenever the races share a community.

change, by any means, and it would risk racial injustice to leave out important names, like Lyndon B. Johnson and Humbert H. Humphrey.

But there is not the slightest doubt that Barry is going to mount the change and direct it. We know what he aims for, and it is just a question of what impatience he applies to the movement. Years ago, after the 1968 riots caused by Dr.

Martin Luther King's ambush had started the migration of white families and businesses from city to suburbs, Barry sensed what would happen if the matter carried to extremes. He showed as long as a decade ago that the races could not afford to separate and adjustment must be made. He naturally bent his prejudice toward benefits to his own race, saying:

"White people should be allowed to come back only if the ownership is in the hands of the blacks. That is (the whites) should come back and give their experience and expertise-and then they should leave."

But Barry's concept of being Uncle Tom's massa is not likely to be the judgment of a mature leader, whatever its rhetoric. Compromises are the wisdom here, as everywhere. Preemptory demands upon persons who built the city, and built the economic structure of the country will not submit. The black majority will add immensely and unfairly to their problems without approaching a solution, only the onslaught which the majority so cruelly, and for so long, have visited upon the weak.

The gist is that Mayor Barry is a superior man, but in my opinion he does not lead a superior race. I hope he will find time to read what a wellwisher, Thomas Jefferson, put down for posterity and contemplation.

In his book, "Notes on the State of Virginia," Jefferson gave every compliment of virility and beauty to the black man, but he said much which summarizes the situation that Barry faces.

As captain, Mayor Barry must think of the soldiers he had to lead, knowing in time they will develop even faster than in the recent past.

Losing Your Job Can Make You A Winner

(Third of five columns) "LAST EVENING, my husband, who is an advertising account executive in his early 40s, came home and told me and our two teenagers who will be entering college in the fall of 1979 and 1980, that because of a sharp drop in his agency's profits, all employes are being asked to accept a

"Moreover, he said it would be only realistic for all of us to consider his job in serious jeo-pardy and to get set for real belt-tightening. Where do we go for help? What can we do?"

Answer: Don't panic!
In this year of slowdown, many others are—or will be—in exactly this bind. The bind may be in the form of a layoff, outright firing, a pay cut, a "vacation without pay," a merger, forced "early retirement," corporate bankruptcy.

BUT IN EVERY case it means you (and I'm writing both to the wife as well as the husb for either of you may be the job-loser) must at least think about finding a job, sooner or later. In every case also, it means taking a penetra-ting new look at yourselves—as a husband, as a wife, as partners, and at both your ways of life.

Sure, it may have been years since you've pounded the pavement to find a job. Sure, the threat of losing your job comes at a moment when you've become accustomed to spending to the hilt and overspending as you have tried to keep up with the relentless price spiral.

Sure, you may be (and are) confronted with a job market riddled with irrational prejudices on the basis of age, color, sex. But why not turn this emergency to your own advantage?

WHETHER THIS IS the moment you voluntarily would have chosen to make a job switch (with teenagers ready for college, it almost certainly is not!), at least ask yourself:

Is your job truly rewarding to you? Or do you feel trapped in it? Has it become overspecialized or too narrow in scope? Are you bored? Frustrated? How did you get into your present career in the first place—and do the reasons still make

Think hard about yourself. Interview yourself! Prepare a synopsis of your own past career, your qualifications, your goals. Decide whether you like this individual who is YOU.

NOW, BACK TO the painful, but utterly essential, questions. Don't be unduly brutal with yourself, but make a real effort to find out why you were the one (or among those) to be fired, laid off, etc.

Were you really able to work smoothly and effectively with co-workers as well as your boss and those working under you? Was your interest in the job really enthusiastic?

Were you flexible enough to welcome—and use—new facts and techniques affecting your baili wick? Were you willing to learn on the job? Were you up to the demands of your job? And on the other hand, was the job big enough for your talents and energies?

If your answers are honest and your reasons re-alistic, you'll have the clues to help steer you into a new career direction or toward a different type of employer. And what seems a tragedy now well may turn out to be the best thing that has happened to you in years on the job.

He said the purple membrane may represent the first hope of scientists to overcome the highly unstable condition of chlorophyll that has prevented its use to produce energy for man.

Renthal said sunlight activates a pump like mechanism in the purple membran that carries protons, the simplest form of ion, across the cell membrane in a process similar to photosynthesis.

"The ejected protons produce an electrochemical gradient that the cell uses as a miniature battery," Renthal said. "The research also may contribute to basic

Administration Steps Up Efforts To Save Fuel

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration has stepped up efforts to head off mandatory fuel-saving measures with a White House order for government oil conservation, a plan to "jawbone" industry into cooperating and a drive to "beat the bushes" for additional energy supplies.

An administration source who asked not to be named said Tuesday additional measures were being prepared for the president's consideration.

The moves were prompted by continued loss of Iran's oil production, which supplied more than 5 million barrrels a day - some 9 percent of the non-Communist world's oil - before political turmoil halted it.

Recent reductions from peak production in Saudi Arabia, which had partly offset the Iranian shutdown, now threaten to worsen the impact of the Iranian

The last oil tanker loaded in Iran reached the United States this week, the source said, which means that the impact of the shutdown is only now beginning to be felt here.

Addressing a Senate subcommittee Monday, Economic Regulatory Administrator David J. Bardin spelled out the kind of mandatory fuel-saving the nation may face if it fails to save enough oil voluntarily

-Available crude oil would have to be allocated among refineries by the federal government.

-Gasoline, fuel oil and other refined products also might have to be allocated at the wholesale level, although direct consumer rationing would remain a distant, last-ditch option.

-Sale of gasoline and diesel fuel at service stations might be restricted during weekends, with Sunday closings a possibility.

-Heating, cooling and hot water in commercial and public buildings might be limited by government order.

-The government might also limit the number of parking spaces made available by employers and by commercial facili-

-And it might ban non-essential lighting, such as advertising signs.

The administration wants to prevent those things through its intensified campaign of voluntary fuel-saving. In a memo issued last Friday, President Carter ordered federal agencies to lead the way by setting oil-saving goals and issuing instructions by Feb. 15 and reporting the results in three months. Carter suggested that federal agencies set thermostats no higher than 65 degrees by day and 55 by night; reduce lighting and other electricity use; reduce vehicle trips; and cut or postpone research that uses a lot of energy.

Carter urged agencies to encourage employee car-pooling and use of mass transit systems.

The administration source said agencies also are checking the possibility of switching building boilers from oil to coal or natural gas. The Energy Department's Forrestal Building headquarters already has made plans to burn coal instead of

The source said industrial leaders would be urged to take similar steps, in "jawboning" sessions by Energy Secre-tary James R. Schlesinger, Deputy Secretary John F. O'Leary, Assistant Secretary Alvin L. Alm, and other officials.

Meanwhile, the source said, "We have to beat the bushes for some energy supplies with an eye to rebuilding the oil inventories."

Those supplies are considered adequate now, but will be drawn down as

Layton Stands Trial Monday

GEORGETOWN, Guyana (AP) - Peo ples Temple member Larry Layton will go on trial Monday for conspiracy to murder Rep. Leo J. Ryan.

The trial date was announced Tuesday for the 32-year-old San Franciscan, who also is charged with conspiring to murder four other persons and three counts of attempted murder.

Witnesses said Layton posed as a Tem-ple defector and boarded the smaller of two planes Ryan's party planned to leave

As the plane was preparing to take off, Peoples Temple members opened fire on the California Democrat and other members of his party who were at the other end of the airstrip, killing Ryan, three reporters and a Temple member.

Witnesses said Layton then pulled out a revolver and started shooting at other passengers in the smaller plane, wounding two of them. He also attempted to shoot a third passenger but the gun misfired, witnesses testified.

Layton has not been accused of killing anyone, but under Guayanan law both murder and conspiracy to commit mur-der are punishable by death.

Ryan was investigating alleged abuse of Temple members and planning to fly out defectors. Hours after he and the others were killed, more than 900 cult members drank a fatal cyanide-laced drink at Jonestown, the jungle settlement named for cult leader Jim Jones.

James Eastland, D-Miss., the message was swift and clear:
Senators had better have a good reason if they decide to fight a judicial nominee in their state, and that reason had better go beyond politics.

The system Kennedy scuttled is known as the "blue slip" — named after a blue slip of paper bearing a judicial nominee's name that is distributed by the committee chairman to home state senators for their comments.

The "blue slip" has been used frequently by senators as a bargaining chip to win things other than acceptable judges. That simply won't work any more under Kennedy's plan. Meritless opposition to a judge nominee will be seen for what it is: pure politics.

Also, a senator who refuses to abandon politics for merit in selecting judges, or is insensitive to the need to increase women and blacks on the federal bench, may find himself out of luck.

Dead Battery Foils Robber

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A veteran bank robber has been foiled by a dead battery.

The robber, identified as Cletus W. Stone, 69, took about $2,000 at gunpoint from the Carondelet Savings and Loan Association this week, police said. But when he tried to start his getaway car, it wouldn't start. The robber walked to a nearby service station to seek help, leaving the gun and loot inside the car. When he returned, he found the police waiting.

Stone appeared to be intoxicated and told the arresting officer, "You'd never have caught me if my car would've start-ed," police Maj. Frank Matthews of suburban Ferguson said.

LITTLE ROCK (UPI) - Former Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus is working as public relations man for a firm of private detectives in Houston. It is a job Faubus says he would rather not have, but he needs the money.
Given his druthers, the longest-reigning governor says he would be writing and traveling.

Faubus and his wife, Elizabeth, notified Arkansans last fall they wanted to move to a warmer climate than Huntsville, Ark. - warmer politically, too. Their hilltop mansion went on the mar-ket, and the couple disappeared before it

They surfaced in Houston and refused for months to talk to reporters. Then Faubus, 68, granted an interview to a Houston newspaper. In a copyrighted story, the Houston Post traces Paubus' life as the son of a socialist hillbilly farmer to the governor's mansion, where he called out the National Guard to keep nine black students out of Central High School in Little Rock. A year later, he was voted one of American's 10 most admired men.

Faubus says his image has changed through the years, but he has not.

When he was elected governor in 1954, Faubus was considered a racial moderate among Southern governors. He established six seats on the Democratic Party's central committee for "Negroes that was the word then. It's blacks now."

That action stood him in good stead in his 1956 bid for reelection against segregationist Jim Johnson, who wanted to make it an impeachable offense for an elected official to desegregate anything.

But according to Sid McMath, a liberal governor who appointed Faubus to the highway commission in 1946, Faubus changed his tune on race in order to get elected to an unprecedented third term. in 1958.

Faubus maintains now, as he did in 1957, that he called out the National Guard to keep peace at the time of at-tempted desegregation. He says "cara-vans" of white supremacists had vowed to wreck the city's gradual court-ordered desegregation plan.

Baker Set To Assume GOP Reins

By CLAY F. RICHARDS

EASTON, Md. (UPI) - Sen. Howard Baker has finally assumed his expected role as the Washington GOP establish-ment's favorite candidate for president.

At the Republican leadership confer-ence last weekend, the Senate GOP leader maneuvered himself into the spotlight as head of the loyal opposition to President Carter.

And he did it at a forum where several possible presidential opponents - Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas, Gov. James

The Tennessee Republican is in trouble with some members of his party, especially the right wing, because of his stand for ratification last year of the Panama Canal treaties.

Without Baker's determined corralling of Republican senators, the treaties would have failed.

The leadership conference voted overwhelmingly to back Baker's SALT resolution, saying in essence there will be no GOP votes for the treaty unless Carter gets tough with the Russians on every-thing from human rights to Soviet troops in Africa.

There were only three dissenting votes among the 100 GOP leaders at Tidewater Sen. Nancy Landon Kassebaum of Kansas, Sen. John Chaffee of Rhode Island and Rep. Millicent Fenwick of New

Baker's surprising strength at the conference was evidence you can still run for president from the floor of the Senate, and you really don't have to tread through the snow of New Hampshire as Carter did - a year before the first

The campaign of Howard Baker is not as dormant as many believed.

Seven freshman Republican senators gathered for dinner last week. In an informal discussion they all agreed Ronald Reagan was the clear front-runner for the nomination as things stand now.

But all seven, representing the spec-trum of the GOP, also said they wished it would be someone besides Reagan - and Baker was the name they mentioned the desegregation.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower eventually sent 1,200 Army paratroopers to escort the black teen-agers through a screaming mob of desegregationists.

But Eisenhower, says Faubus, "didn't know a thing about the situation." Eisenhower had been told by then Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. the president could not stop the desegregation, which Faubus says was untrue and "inex-

Amtrak's sleek InterAmerican passenger train, inaugurating the nation's only rail service to Mexico.

the final blow, and a good reason for venting the anger that has festered over what they say was the mismanagement of what could have been a beautiful service. When the service was first announced — a Chicago-to-Laredo route to meet with the Mexican Aztec Eagle that ran to Mexico City — it created visions of the leaf door when Mexican businessmen. old days when Mexican businessmen rode twice-daily trains into San Antonio, filling the Gunter Hotel. Laredo and Mexican officials remembered full trains carrying tourists to Nuevo Laredo for the bullfights each weekend.

Mexican railroad officials responded. They had promised to provide all the equipment for direct transfer of Amtrak passenger cars onto the Aztec Eagle. All Amtrak had to do was run daily trains and get them to Laredo on time.

The reality of the Amtrak train was less than that. The InterAmerican runs three times a week, misses the Laredo-Mexico City connection by 23 hours, creeps at an average 49 mph and provides service that San Antonio Mayor Lila Cockrell called "rinky dirk."

Although Amtrak provides its passen-

Although Amtrak provides its passengers in the Northeast Corridor with comfortable boarding stations, complimentary newspapapers and coffee, on-board telephones and liourly trains that zoom at speeds up to 100 mph the InterAmerican supplies its passengers with frozen sand-wiches heated in a microwave oven by one employee who is too busy to clean the dining area, the mayor said, and San Antonio still does not have a train sta-

tickets at the Southern Pacific station, then are bused across downtown one mile to wait beside the track for the train in what local Amtrak agent Lester Noble terms "the mud hole."

At Austin, the facilities are slightly bet-ter. Bill Hamilton, head of the Austin Chamber of Commerce Amtrak Committee, said passengers there can board at "the old 'colored waiting room' of Jim Crow days." Although Amtrak officials predicted six years ago the InterAmerican would be the only long-distance passenger train to be "in the black" by 1978, the route lost $10 million last year. Hamilton contends nearly $7 million of that loss was "overhead" tacked on by Amtrak, and the reason revenues are down is because of the shoddy service, lack of connections in Mexico and failure to promote the route.

Officials along the Texas route say Amtrak officials never intended for the InterAmerican to continue, and that Amtrak torpedoed it so that the money could could be spent in the Northeast Corridor. "It's almost a scandal," said Hamilton.

He goes further, alleging that Amtrak charged $38 million in Northeast Corridor rail maintenance expenses against the long-distance routes to show the Northeast Corridor trains are profitable and the others are not.

"I think they (Amtrak) have made a very small effort," said Mayor Cockrell. "As the train is now operated, I can understand why they might feel they need to abolish it. But that is not to say the service is not needed. The public, in my opinion, would support it if it were properly managed and operated."
At Laredo, Chamber of Commerce

manager Gary Payne still believes if the train would simply make a daily connec-tion with the Mexican train, it would be a popular route. He said many persons fly, take the bus, drive "or even walk" to Laredo to board the Mexican train for a scenic 27-hour ride to Mexico City for $11 first-class fare. A couple can travel to Mexico City in a private double occupancy compartment for about $40.

"It's slow," Payne said of the InterAmerican. "It misses the connection so far down here that most people who take the Mexico train don't even take Amtrak.

"It has tremendous potential if it was marketed right, if it'd make the right connections with the train across the river. The Mexican trains are full all the ne and they're full of people coming to the United States. You've got a built-in market. It's not as if you have to go and drum up the business, if you'd just do it

Noble, who has been in the railroad business 35 years and may lose his job with Amtrak if the InterAmerican is abolished, focused on the local train sta-

"That mudhole, where people load on and off the train, the vacant lot, whatever you want to call it, is the poorest Amtrak has anywhere," he said. "To be one of the 10 largest cities in the nation and have that kind of set-up is really a shame."

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Despite its auspicious beginning, the new U.S.-China relationship is expected to suffer ups and downs in months ahead, with the status of Taiwan likely to provide the first area of tension.

Congress, disturbed by President Carter's failure to make a strong statement of concern for the island's future, is determined to enact legislation reaffirming U.S. interest in the island's security.

Now that Vice Premier Teng Hsiaoping has completed his eight-day tour of the United States, congressional debate

China Gets Marlboros

HONG KONG (AP) - It's Marlboro time in China, but only for tourists.

With Coca-Cola already quenching the thirst of some of China's big-city dwellers, America's Philip Morris Inc. has now made it possible for tourists in China to light up the world's best-selling cigarette.

Philip Morris regional vice president Bill Campbell said this week a small shipment of Marlboros has arrived in Peking for sale in duty free and hard currency shops.

The Chinese are the biggest smokers in the world and American tobacco manufacturers have described the potential market as breathtaking. But Campbell said that, for the moment, Marlboros will only be sold to foreigners and tourists.

The initial Marlboro shipment was in boxes with only English printing, Campbell said, not the Chinese character ones sold in Hong Kong.

Campbell said the bulk of the first shipment of cigarettes were Marlboros, but several other Philip Morris brands were also shipped including Lark, Merit, Parliament and Philip Morris International.

More cigarettes are smoked in China than in any other country - 725 billion in 1977 compared to 665 billion in the United States

China also grows more tobacco than any other country.

China's attitude toward the maneuvering on Capitol Hill is still not clear. Members of the Chinese mission in Washington are studying the politicking intently but have withheld comment, saying the matter is an internal affair of the United States.

President Carter, however, has said publicly he is unenthusiastic about the proposed legislation that he considers unnecessary.

Liberal Sens. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and Alan Cranston, D-Calif., have put forward a draft resolution on Taiwan's security in an effort to head off more damaging proposals from conservative senators.

But their resolution, which has not been endorsed by the administration, has two weak points:

-It incorporates language from the 1954 defense treaty with Taiwan - a pact which Carter is canceling as of Jan. 1, 1980, in connection with restoration of full diplomatic relations with Peking. -It refers to "the people on Taiwan" without reference to the nationalist government of President Chiang Ching-kuo.

The first point could be repaired by dropping the treaty language - which could be objectionable to Peking - and rewording it in another form. The second point could be adjusted to give some recognition that the Chiang government exists. Peking describes this government as 'Taiwan authorities," and that formal language could be incorporated in the draft resolution. All of this would require consultation between Congress and the White House and considerable parliamentary skill in drafting the resolution in such a way that it will please Taiwan's supporters without offending Peking.

Once over this hurdle, the next difficulty could arise over guarantees for U.S. investments in China. Teng was unable while in the United States to offer convincing reassurance that his policies definitely will continue and that his own political position is solid.

ing to $197 million in China and still have made no move to provide compensation.

The businessmen probably will seek to convince Congress to provide some kind of insurance for the massive investments that Teng's government seeks and which could run into tens of billions of dollars in the years ahead

Next are questions of living and working conditions in China for U.S. businessmen and reporters.

Will the Chinese grant multiple entry visas so Americans can enter and leave the country easily? Will they able to supply housing and necessary services? Will they treat foreigners according to usual international norms or will they engage in harassment surveillance? What happens when a U.S. citizen breaks the law? A consular convention will ease such problems, but new woes may arise once there is a sizable American contingent in the country. Finally, the unchanging fact: China's political ideology and its national interests are different from those of the United States.

In months ahead there will be plenty of room for disagreement on political issues that could erode the warm new beginning. It will take determination and patience on both sides to consolidate the new Sino-American relationship.

jail because she didn't turn in her hus-band and son after she heard they were smuggling marijuana. "The more you dig into it, the more it's an injustice," her lawyer says.

The husband and son she sought to protect are missing. Fred Ingraham, 26, fled more than a year ago. William Ryan, 47, jumped bail on a marijuana charge last August. Neither has been heard from since.

"I love my son. If this would make him change his life, it's worth it," said Mrs. Ryan, 59. She has filed for divorce from

The mother of four is serving a sentence of six months to three years in the Florida Correctional Institution here on her no contest plea to a charge of conspir acy to import marijuana.

She said she just didn't have the heart to turn in her husband and son when she discovered they were smuggling.
"Sometimes I feel that there is no justice," she said. Her husband, a lawyer and a former judge, failed to appear at two hearings on marijuana charges stemming from the seizure of the family sailboat in January 1978. Ingraham disappeared the night the sailboat was seized, and Mrs. Ryan's attorney believes he is named in a sealed indictment in the case.

Circuit Judge William Edwards told Mrs. Ryan she should have told authori-

"I realize and feel very sorry for you, because you have sort of been left hold-ing the bag," he said at her sentencing hearing. "If your son desires to come forward and substantiate your story, then I will not send you to the state penitentiary — if he substantiates it." "I don't know where they are," Mrs.

Ryan says of her son and husband.
"Keeping me here isn't going to change that."

Her lawyer, G. Robert Schultz, says there was no justice in the jailing of his client. "His (Edwards") punishment was imposed on the wrong person. It's unfair. The bad people either split or made a better arrangement."

Mrs. Ryan said she agreed a few years ago to put a 45-foot sailboat in her name for her son, a yacht broker. She said she sensed something was amiss, and Ingra-ham told her he was smuggling. She later learned her husband also was involved,

Mrs. Ryan said. When authorities seized the sailboat, they found what they said was marijuana residue in its holds. Six tons of pot were discovered stashed on a nearby island.

"This can only degrade me if I let it," said Mrs. Ryan, who is hoping for a parole hearing soon. "And I'm not going to

Connally Will Have To Convince 'Old Yankees'

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When Barry Goldwater went to New Hampshire in 1964, his wife accompanied him, wearing a gorgeous and obviously expensive white fur coat against the bitter cold.

According to one account, one of those old Yankee farmers who always seem to be standing next to a reporter took one look at the candidate's wife and pronounced his verdict: "That may be conservative in Arizona, but it ain't here." Henry Cabot Lodge won the New Hampshire primary that year.

The story may be apocryphal, but there also may be a lesson in it for John Connally: New Hampshire isn't Texas. It isn't Washington either. The haughty self confidence and drive to dominate that overcomes opposition in those places may not "play"in Concord and Keene, not to speak of Des Moines and Ottumwa or Rock Island or Peoria.

Connally has something to prove before he can be considered any kind of contender for the 1980 Republican presidential nomination: that Republican voters in the GOP heartland will follow him.

In this, he is faced with the flip side of the problem John V. Lindsay never could solve. Lindsay was a Republican congressman and mayor who changed coats in the midst of his political career.

Lindsay seemed to score high on every measurement of political appeal when he set out to win the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972. He did not just fall short, he fell flat. In a field of lifelong Democrats appealing for the support of Democrats, Lindsay had no political IOUs to cash in his new party. He looked like a Johnny-Come-Lately and was treated as such

It is true that Ronald Reagan also was once a Democrat. But he never ran for or held public office as a Democrat. Connally was the Democratic governor of Texas and the appointee of a Democratic president as secretary of the Navy. For years, his considerable oratorical and political talent was devoted to electing Democrats and down-rating Republicans.

Both Republicans and Democrats will say they are delighted to have converts from the opposition. But they usually want such people as private soldiers, not generals. It is not guessing to say that some lifelong Republicans — members of the GOP National Committee, for example — resent Connally's bid for party leadership.

Richard Nixon, it was reported at the time, wanted Connally as vice president to replace Spiro Agnew.

Melvin Laird, who is a lifelong Republican, was said to have talked Nixon out of Every two minutes, a child is born with physical or mental damage. his first choice in favor of Gerald Ford. One on the factors was that Ford would get a lot of congressional support from both sides of the aisle while Connally couldn't even count on solid GOP back-

When Connally announced his candidacy, he was asked about the corruption charges on which he was acquitted and about his association with Nixon. He seemed confident that those would not hurt his candidacy.

But those might not have been the right questions. The right one might have been: "Can you win over the Old Yankee?"

Bhutto — Aristocrat On Death Row

By United Press International

Educated at Oxford, the son of an aristocrat knighted by the British, Zulfikar

Ali Bhutto for all but the last year of his life has been better acquainted with Savile Row than death row.

With his death sentence for planning the murder of a political opponent up-held Tuesday by the Pakistani Supreme Court, Bhutto was one step closer to the gallows and another step removed from the world he had known until his conviction in September 1977.

During his 5½ years as ruler of Pakistan, Bhutto was most often seen in stylish Western dress, a sharp contrast to the baggy trousers and flowing shirts of

He was known to prefer a scotch and soda at night, though Pakistan is a Mos-lem nation and Islam bars alcohol.

It was those habits, among others, that the opposition singled out during the 1977 election campaign that marked the beginning of the end for Bhutto.

"Bhutto gets his shoes from France and Italy because Pakistani shoes are too hard for his feet," opposition leaders said, ridiculing Bhutto to crowds of laugh-

Although he readily conceded belonging to "the privileged class" and getting his start in politics because of the "advantages of the system," in office Bhutto presented himself as a defender of the poor.

"For economic and social justice, I will move as fast as is necessary to see the burden of the common man lifted," he said on Dec. 20, 1971, when he took office.

He promised "food, clothing and shelter" to his countrymen and began nationalizing major industries, incurring the wrath of Pakistan's "22 families," who controlled much of the wealth.

Yet for all his pronouncements on behalf of the poor, Bhutto always appeared a man very much at ease with Westerners and those educated there.

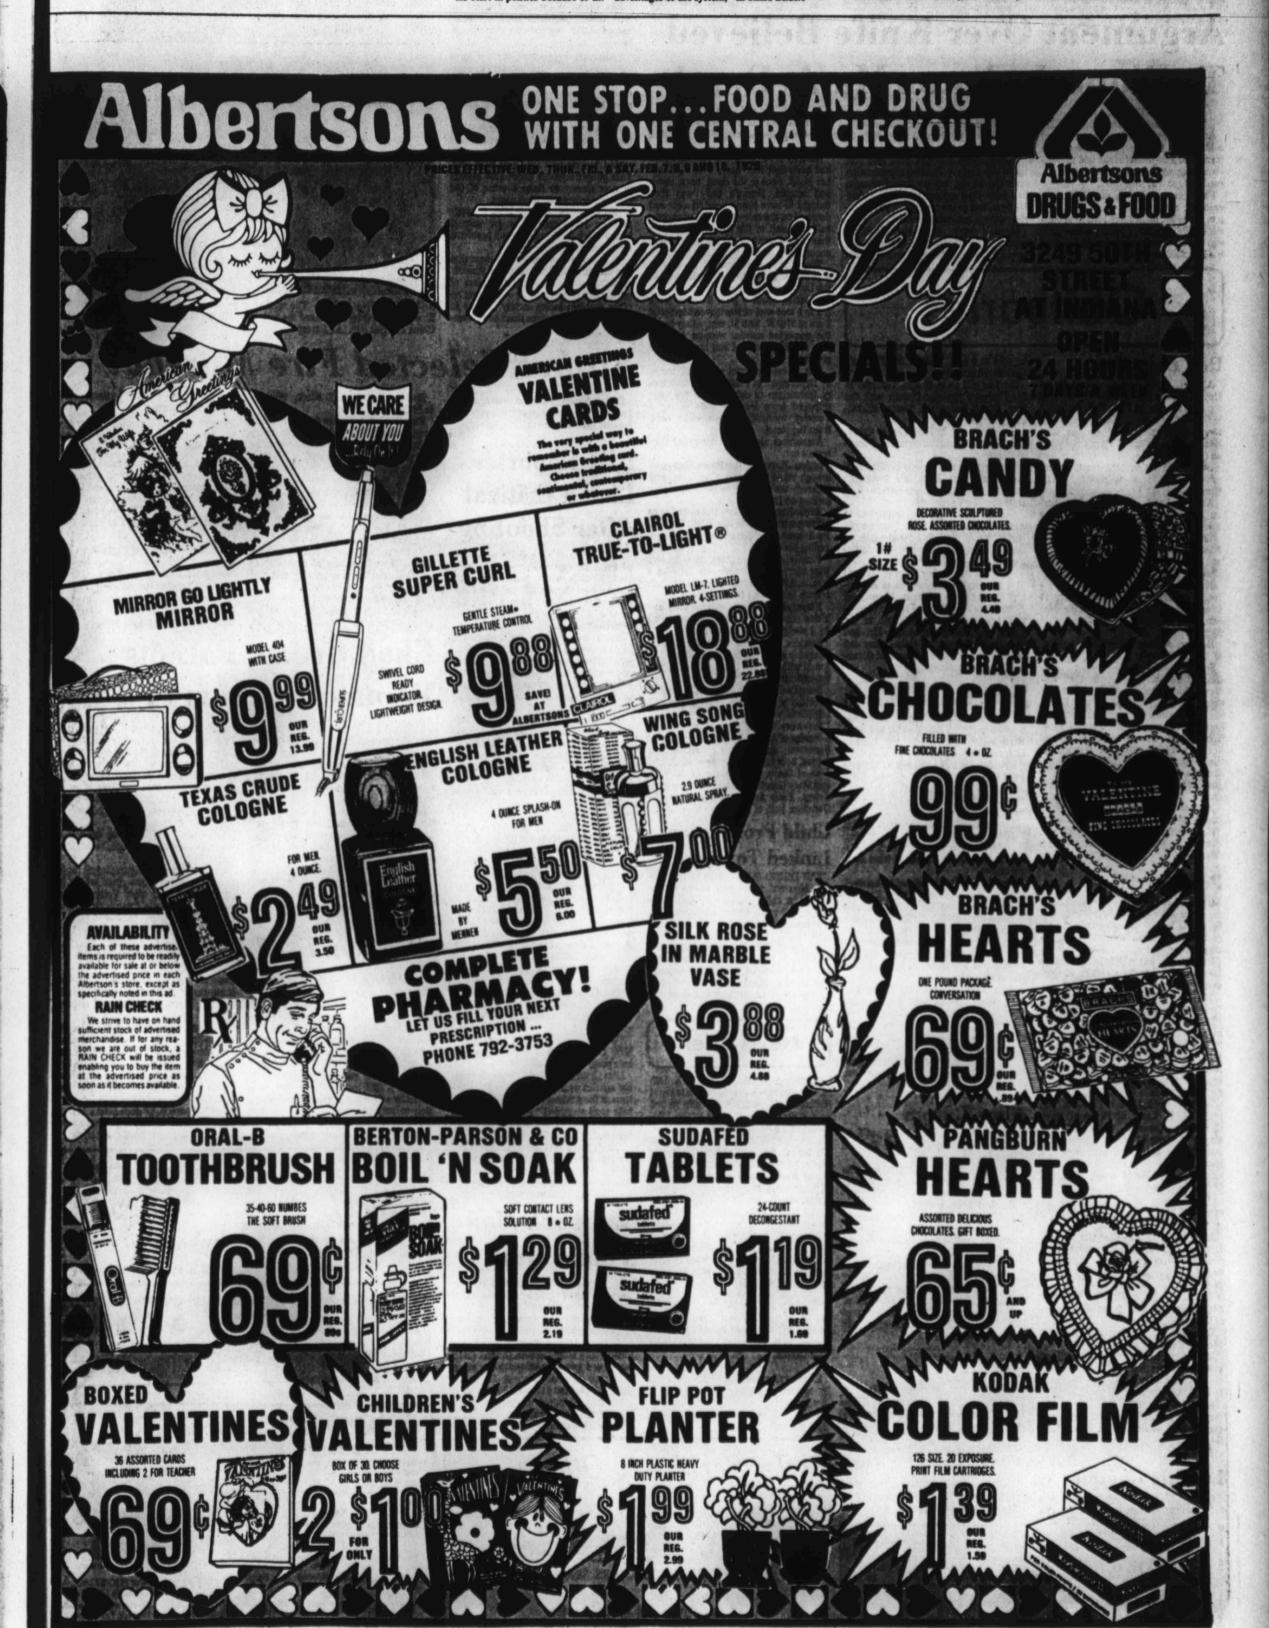

He was born Jan. 5, 1928, the son of Shah Nawaz Bhutto, a leader of the aristocracy in Sind province — the capital of which is Karachi — and a prominent politician in what was then British India.

He was educated at the University of California in Los Angeles and Berkeley and then went to Oxford where he earned a law degree.

When the military took power in 1998, Gen. Ayub Khan named Bhutto commerce minister. At 30, he was the youngest cabinet minister in any South Asian country.

country.

Bhutto held numerous Cabinet posts after that, including the foreign affairs portfolio and became a familiar figure at the United Nations, where he presented Pakistan's case lucidly and with sophisticated bearing.

Rosalynn Testifies Before Solons

WASHINGTON (AP) - A nervous Rosalynn Carter, the first president's wife to testify before Congress in more than 30 years, disputed today a statement by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., that fi-nancing for mental health research has increased impressively.

"I have to take issue with you, senator," the first lady declared in a crowded hearing room in the Dirksen Senate Office Building

'From 1967 until now our research funds have been cut off," Mrs. Carter said. "We have asked for more funds for research.

Mrs. Carter appeared before Kennedy's Senate subcommittee on health and scientific research to lobby for the 117 recdent's Commission on Mental Health, of which she is honorary chairwoman.

Sitting at a witness table with 20 photographers at her feet, the first lady spoke haltingly and quietly at first. But she lost her shyness after Kennedy asked the photographers to stop taking pic-

Kennedy, who had escorted Mrs. Carter to her chair, remarked during his opening statement that while some services for the mentally ill still are lacking, there have been improvements such as increased research financing. He did not reply to Mrs. Carter's later insistence that this was incorrect.

bers were lavish in their praise of Mrs. Carter's efforts in behalf of the mentally

After her 90-minute testimony was over, Kennedy promised that mental health legislation would pass Congress early this year and, borrowing a phrase frequently used by President Carter, he added: "And you can depend on that."

In her testimony, Mrs. Carter said that until we break the self-feeding cycle of fear, discrimination and lack of understanding, our efforts to improve the quality of care for all who need it will be in

The altercation at Herrerra's residence ended with the shooting of Duran. Hobbs

Autopsy results showed the dead man had been shot four times with a .22-caliber pistol, once in the chest, back, cheek and temple. Duran's body was then thought to have been placed in a car and dumped on the side of a dirt road about a half mile east of the city limits and less than a mile south of the Idalou Highway about 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Hobbs said.

The body was discovered about 8:45 a.m. Monday by a man who reported it to the Lubbock Police Department.

Deputies about 6 p.m. Tuesday were led to a tree east of Resthaven Memorial Park at 5740 W. 19th St. where they found the suspected murder weapon wrapped in a red handkerchief and buried in the

The .22-caliber pistol was being tested by Department of Public Safety laboratory technicians to determine if the slugs removed from Duran's body during a Tuesday morning autopsy were fired from the pistol.

Authorities also have impounded Herrerra's car.

Idalou Justice of the Peace Earl Yarbrough ruled the-death a homicide, and ordered the autopsy which was performed on Duran. According to deputies, Duran had been staying with relatives at a North University Avenue motel for about four days preceding his death. Family members told investigators they last saw the Anton man between 6 friends in a black Chevrolet sedan. Found about 20 feet from the body was p.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday when he left with

Stokes Selected Fire Marshal

Robert Stokes, a 25-year veteran of the Lubbock Fire Department, will officially become the city's fire marshal Saturday.

UPI Reporter Listed Critical After Shooting

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) - A United Press International reporter, shot in the head while driving home from work, had received "hate mail" and threats because of articles she authored while editor of a local college newspaper, a family friend said today.

Judy Danielak, 21, was in a coma and listed in critical condition at Baptist Hospital following surgery. Doctors said the large caliber bullet passed through her brain and lodged against one side of her skull. The bullet was not removed during the surgery.

State police spokesman Wayne Eddy said officers had no motive or suspects in the shooting Tuesday on Interstate 40 and still were not positive whether the shot was fired from outside or inside Mrs. Danielak's car. The rear window of the car was broken, and speculation was that the shot was fired from a passing car. But police could not confirm this and said the window could have been broken in the accident.

'Right now we just don't know what has taken place," Eddy said. "On a freakish thing like this, we just don't know.

But Betty Griffin, Mrs. Danielak's former high school journalism teacher in Farmington, Mich., said she had learned from the reporter's family and through correspondence with Mrs. Danielak that she might have created a number of enemies while writing for the Forum, the student newspaper at the University of Arcansas' Little Rock campus.

Miss Griffin said Mrs. Danielak had told her parents of the unfavorable response she had received because of the "Well, I guess I've arrived," she quoted Mrs. Danielak. "I'm beginning to get hate mail."

Sherman appeared Tuesday before the United States Circuit Judge Nominating Commission for the Western 5th Circuit, commission chairman Bill Harvin said.

Harvin said 30 questionnaires have been received from Texas and 19 from Louisiana. All candidates will be interviewed this week, he said, before 12 to 15 Texans and six to eight Louisianans are recommended to President Carter.

Sharpshooter Breaks Ice

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) - The ice is gone and WGR-TV is back on the air - thanks to a .22-caliber rifle and the sharp shooting of the station's chief engineer. Severe icing on the reflector of the station's transmission tower in South Wales forced Channel 2 to cancel programming

Monday night and into Tuesday. Station officials said a weekend power outage shut off the heater that prevents ice from forming on the reflector, which is 360 feet up the tower.

When other efforts to solve the problem failed, chief engineer Dick Westland late Tuesday morning took a .23-caliber rifle and shot the ice off.

As the Pacific storm front swept out of West Texas, Lubbock temperatures Tuesday reached a high of 40 degrees and should climb to near 50 today and Thursday. National Weather Service reports

Accompanying the warming trend, South Plains' skies are expected to be fair through Thursday and mostly fair through the weekend. Temperatures over the weekend will range from the upper 20s to highs in the upper 50s, forecasts In North Texas, where the winter storm unleashed its heaviest blow, skies are expected to begin clearing today, with temperatures climbing to the 40s

Along with North Texas, the southeast portions of the Panhandle early today were reporting hazardous driving conditions caused by icy roads and 2 to 4 inches of remaining snow. Travel conditions in those areas were forecast to remain hazardous until at least midday.

The marked improvement in the West Texas weather forecast for the remainder of the week is attributable to a surface and upper level high pressure system building over the southwestern United States and the lack of any new upper level disturbances moving into Texas, the NWS said.

The long range forecast for the six to 10 day period beginning Monday also gives indications that winter's grip is beginning to loosen. The forecast calls for much above normal temperatures and no precipitation during that period.

A major winter storm blanketed much of Dixie with heavy snow today and moved on to snarl traffic and close airports in the big cities of the Northeast.

Up to 10 inches of snow fell in Tennessee, 8 inches accumulated in some parts of Virginia, and 10 inches were expected in Maryland in the mid-Atlantic region's worst storm of the winter.

Washington's National Airport was closed with 8 inches of snow expected in downtown areas and 10 inches in the sub-Douglas Municipal Airport in Charlotte, Va. reported 5 inches of snow by midnight, the heaviest snowfall there since Dec. 3, 1971. Heavy snow also fell in Pennsylvania,

New Jersey and New York City. Ice-laden tree limbs knocked out power

In Washington, it was learned that Camp David, Md., the site of last September's Egyptian-Israeli summit meeting, is being considered as a site for the new meeting and that if it is held there Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance would participaté.

The informants said Dayan wants authority to make negotiating decisions without referring back to Jerusalem at each stage of the talks. Final decisions, however, would need the approval of the full Cabinet.

During talks last fall, the negotiations were interrupted several times so Dayan and Defense Minister Ezer Weizman to report to the Cabinet, which often overruled them.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin and his Cabinet may discuss the U.S. invitation announced in Washington Tuesday, at a special session Thursday called to de-bate economic policy. Or they may walt until their regular meeting Sunday. The Israelis wanted the negotiations to resume at a site in the Middle East to make consultations between their negotiating team and the Cabinet easier. But the U.S. government said Secretary of State Cyrus Vance could not leave Washington for trip to the Middle East.

No date has been set for the talks, but Israeli officials said they probably would begin in about two weeks

companies have requested exceptions wage guidelines, but only five have so far sought relief from the price standards, the administration announced today. Barry Bosworth, director of the president's Council on Wage and Price Stability, disclosed the figures in testimony submitted to a House Government Operations subcommittee that is holding hearings on Carter's anti-inflation program. Many of the firms are seeking exceptions to the 7 percent wage increase guideline on the grounds of "acute labor shortage," a category used particularly by companies that require highly specialized workers. Five exceptions to the wage standard have been granted, but the rest remain under consideration. Bosworth said. He added that to date no individual or company has been determined to be in violation of the anti-inflation standards. On Tuesday, Alfred Kahn, the council's chairman, told the subcommittee that more than 200 of the nation's 500 largest corporations had pledged their support for the president's "voluntary" wageprice guidelines. Kahn also defended what he sees as the administration's legal right to use such sanctions, such as denying government contracts to firms in non-compliance, as a means to enforce the guidelines. Kahn, answering criticism from the American Bar Association and the General Accounting Office, said "our lawyers tell us its legal" for the government to impose sanctions by withholding con-tracts from companies that violate the

The Carter plan was backed today by Brookings Institution economist George L. Perry, who told the congressional Joint Economic Committee that the program "is our most attractive option and deserves support."

"Even people who should know better are touting balanced budgets as the cure for our inflationary ills," Perry said. The risk is that slogans will prevail and will get in the way of choosing among the realistic options. Herbert Stein, who was an economic adviser in the Nixon administration, offered a different prescription for the should abandon its wage-price guidelines from President Carter's anti-inflation to give "the clearest possible sign of the end of illusion and of commitment to a realistic attack on inflation.

During the House banking subcommittee hearing Tuesday, Kahn also said the anti-inflation program is "in a very large measure, voluntary." But he added the government is prepared to use economic sanctions. Kahn added that more than 200 of the nation's largest corporations have promised to comply with the price standards. which generally limit price hikes to 5.75 percent He also said most recent major labor contracts have remained well within the administration's 7 percent guideline for wage hikes. 'It is obvious to me that both management and labor are taking the standards seriously," Kahn said.

However, the ABA's economic resources controls committee released a report Tuesday saying "the president's plan is not voluntary" because it relies on a fear of government retaliation." The lawyers' group added that the government has no legal authority to withhold government contracts from firms that fail to comply with government price standards.

The GAO, a congressional investigative and auditing agency, expressed similar misgivings Monday, but the agency added that it is preparing legislation to give the president authority to withhold contracts.

Rep. William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., chairman of the subcommittee, characterized the ABA and GAO appraisals as "a significant challenge to the legal authority of this (anti-inflation) program.

As Kahn was preaching frugality on the part of citizens and business Tuesday, Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal exercised what he called his "somber duty" at another hearing to ask Congress for authority to borrow another $98 billion so the government can pay its bills.

The government has authority to borrow $798 billion through the end of next month. But, just as Blumenthal warned Congress last summer, that $798 billion will get the government through only

Burma Road Built To Supply China

The China-Burma-India Theater, known as the "Forgotten Theater" of World War II, served principally as part of the supply line to nationalist China and Chiang Kai-Shek. The Japanese had blockaded the Pacific coast line, and had occupied Shanghai and the other major ports, so all supplies to China had to go in through India and Burma. The Burma road was built by Army engineers from Ledo, Assam, in the interior of India, to Kunming, China.

Prior to completion of the road, all supplies to the Chinese troops and to American troops who had been carried into China were delivered by air. At one time the airport at Kunming, China, was the world's busiest airport. The air routes passed over the Himalaya Mountains, and was the only Air Force route in the world where passengers were issued parachutes.

Gen. Claire Chenault and his famous Flying Tiger Air Force were the first Americans to be involved in the war between China and Japan. The first, and for some time the only, B-29 bombers were based in India flying over the hump to raid Japan and even as far as Singapore.

Out of some 7 million U.S. troups involved in World War II, only about 500,-000 served in the China-Burma-India Theater.

The Chinese Nationalist Government awarded the China War Memorial Medal to all American servicemen who served 30 days or more in China. Some 17 of these medals will be awarded to members of the Lubbock group Saturday night, along with the Charter presentation.

Each local chapter of the organization is called a "basha," named for the bamboo huts that were the usual living quarters for troops in that theater of World War II. The official name of the Lubbock chapter is the South Plains

Writer Arrested In Moro Probe

ROME (AP) - Police arrested an Italian journalist today in the investigation of the kidnapping and murder of former Premier Aldo Moro.

Police said Ernesto Viglione, a newsman for the Italian program of Radio Monte Carlo, was charged with favoring criminal activities and false testimony. An article in a Rome weekly magazine alleged that Viglione acted as a go-between for a member of the Christian Democrat government and the terrorist Red Brigades.

The magazine L'Espresso alleged that Viglione acted as a mediator between a Christian Democrat senator and a dissident member of the Red Brigades. The urban guerrilla group claimed responsi-bility for Moro's March 16 kidnapping and his shooting death. Moro's bullet-rid-dled body was found dumped in the rear of a parked car on a Rome street May 8. The article in L'Espresso quoted an alleged and unidentified member of the Red Brigades who claimed Moro's kidnapping and killing was led by two unidentified members of parliament and a person "linked to the Vatican." The alleged terrorist also said that Carabinieri, national police troops, were the actual killers of the former premier.

The author of the article was Gian Luigi Melega, L'Espresso's editor in charge of Italian political affairs. Melega has been questioned by Achille Gallucci, the magistrate conducting the investigations in the Moro case.

More Boat People Sail Into Hong Kong Waters

HONG KONG (AP) - Another freighter jammed with Vietnamese sailed into Hong Kong waters today. Government officials said the ship could stay indefinitely but questioned whether the 3,000 passengers were true refugees or people who had bought their way out.

The officials said the Vietnamese could not come ashore because Hong Kong's refugee camps are full and that it would be more humane to keep them on the relatively roomy 3,506-ton freighter Skyluck than to bring them ashore to the crowded camps. Food was sent to the

The Taiwanese freighter dropped anchor at Lamma Island, about two miles southwest of Hong Kong. About 30 policemen boarded the freighter. Sources close to the government said they seized documents and questioned the passengers and crew.

Government sources said leaving the refugees aboard the Skyluck should draw international attention and spur other nations to do something to help the tens of thousands of refugees fleeing Vietnam.

A total of 224 other refugees from Viet-nam arrived in Hong Kong Tuesday aboard fishing junks. Singapore officials said the Skyluck left there Jan. 12 with no passengers and listed Hong Kong as its next port of call. Hong Kong permits ships that list Hong Kong as their first port of call to enter with refugees they have picked up at sea provided they give the Marine Department advance word on their nationality, type, number of persons aboard and reason for coming here. Photographers who got near the shi said the refugees they saw did not look like they had been adrift at sea.

A government spokesman said there was "a increasing amount of evidence" to indicate the Skyluck passengers bought their way out of Vietnam with payments to the Vietnamese government and to an international syndicate dealing in refugees.

Hong Kong sources said the Taiwanese captain, Hsiao Hung-din, told police he picked up the refugees during a 27-day trip from Singapore. The trip which usually takes four days, took longer because of breakdowns, he was quoted as saying.

The route from Singapore to Hong Kong passes near Vietnam. The ship entered Hong Kong waters

without obtaining the permission re-quired by a government order issued last month after the freighter Huey Fong brought more than 3,000 refugees from Vietnam to the British colony. Hong Kong, a British colony of 407 square miles and a population of more than 4 million on the south coast of China. has given refuge to hundreds of thousands of refugees from China since the Communist victory there in 1949. Upward of 15,000 refugees from Vietnam are also estimated to be here.

East Asian nations became alarmed late in 1978 when a crackdown on the ethnic Chinese community in South Vietnam produced a new wave of refugees that began arriving by the thousands aboard old freighters. These Chinese, who dominat-ed commercial life in South Vietnam before the Communists confiscated their businesses, reportedly bribed their way out of Vietnam but could find no havens.

The first such freighter to reach Hong Kong was the 2,290-ton Huey Fong, a Taiwanese ship, which arrived Dec. 23 with more than 3,000 refugees. Told to take its passengers to the Taiwanese port that was its first scheduled port of call, the ship anchored just outside Hong Kong waters for four weeks.

On Jan. 19, after the government cut off food and water to the ship, Capt. Hsu Wen-Issien brought the Huey Fong into the harbor. The government let the pas-

They did so at the big Longbridge plant near Birmingham of the government-run British Leyland automotive company. The walkout followed an overwhelming vote in favor of a strike at a meeting of the plant's 10,000 manual workers.

by Whipple and Borth GM Records $1 Billion Profit In Fourth Quarter Of 1978

DETROIT (UPI) - A record $1 billion fourth-quarter profit turned 1978 into the best year ever for automotive giant General Motors Corp. The No. 1 automaker said it sold more cars and trucks in 1978 than in any other year, sending profits soaring to an alltime high of $3.5 billion for the year, a 5 percent increase over 1977's previous re-

But GM officials bemoaned a decline in the company's profit margin, which they said resulted from an "escalation of costs" not fully recovered by price in-

"Inflation endures as the most pressing problem we face - as a corporation and as a nation," GM Chairman Thomas A. Murphy and President Elliott M. Estes said in a joint statement.

GM's first billion-dollar quarter came on record sales of 2,511,000 cars and trucks worldwide for a record $17.7 billion. That topped last year's factory sales of 2,385,000 units and dollar sales of $15.1 billion.

The record earnings in the closing quarter amounted to $3.51 per share and topped the previous high of $935.5 million or $3.26 per share in the fourth quarter of 1977.

For the year, GM's profits amounted to $12.24 a share, compared with last year's previous record earnings of $3.33 billion, or $11.62 a share.

Dollar sales for the year totaled a record $63.2 billion, versus $55 billion last year, on worldwide factory sales of 9,-482,000 units - 414,000 units more than in 1977. Murphy and Estes said the earnings' improvement was the result of "higher volume and a more favorable product mix," including increased sales of optional equipment.

But they said cost pressures cut the profit margin to 5.5 percent in 1978, compared with 6.1 percent in 1977, 6.7 percent in 1973 and 10.3 percent in 1965.

anybody's guess" as to how many enter the country illegally here on a given day. Perez is the district director for the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

He says as many as 16,000 a month are arrested in El Paso

Most are simply returned to Mexico. If the same alien is arrested four or five times, he is arrested for deportation. Subsequent illegal entry is then a felony, subject to imprisonment, a status not unattractive to many

Most of those jailed are taken to the federal facility called La Tuna, a few miles down the road. "Some have a good deal there." Perez said. "They can learn a trade, eat fairly well and have a place to stay. They can earn money.'

nishings in Perez's office come from work performed at La

An American entering Mexico is usually waved through Customs at each side of the border, and documents are unnecessary within the border area. Mexicans crossing into the United States must have a crossing card, but this disparity doesn't seem to upset anyone.

Those who cross to work in El Paso are generally unskilled. They work as maids or laborers. Those who continue to the north are generally skilled and include electricians, plumbers and others seeking higher wages for their work.

Perez calls those who hire illegal aliens "the magnet." He says sanctions against such employers would turn off the magnet and help solve the illegal entry problem. Suggestions of opening the border and creating a free trade zone draw a chuckle from Perez. "El Paso would become part of Mexico." Perez says, underlining the significant role Juarez plays in the local economy.

Another solution which surfaced a few months ago is creation of a fence tagged the "Tortilla Curtain."

The original proposal called for a fence that could injure those attempting to climb it. The original design was "the craziest, stupidest thing," according to Perez. That plan has since been scrapped and engineers are working on a new

There is no sentiment among residents here against such a barrier, provided it is not designed to injure.

Perez said the current design calls for a three-level fence, canted backward against the upslope from the river. A concrete base would be topped with an expanded steel portion, topped by chain link and barbed wire.

Perez points out that one toll booth company, plagued by robbers, has used a sharpened-steel fence for years without

Council Considers Project Funding

With the knowledge that development of a reservoir in southeast Garza County as a third major water source for the city is feasible, Lubbock City Council members Thursday will consider how to proceed on the project which may cost $100

Last week council members received a report from a Fort Worth consulting firm which concluded construction of a reservoir on the South Fork of the Double Mountain Fork of the Brazos River is fea-

Council members probably will decide how area cities that indicated an interest in participating in the reservoir project should be approached. In addition, the question of how the project will be financed likely will be discussed.

Also at the 9:30 a.m. meeting in council chambers, council members are scheduled to take final action on a request by Pioneer Natural Gas to increase residential and commercial rates.

Last week, council members approved a compromise rate increase which would increase the gas company's Lubbock revenues by $3.5 million.

City staff members are expected to tell council members the cost of initiating an ongoing study of whether Lubbock customers are bearing their fair share of the distributions costs in the West Texas sys-

Councilwoman Carolyn Jordan and Mayor pro tem Alan Henry favored such a study as a condition for approval of the higher rates, but Councilman Bill McAlister asked to see a cost estimate. Councilman Bud Aderton opposed any ongoing

Also at the meeting, council members are scheduled to discuss continuing the hearings on industrial gas rates charged in Lubbock. Those hearings were halted with the death of city rate analyst Ervin Looney in December.

The council also will decide whether to use $214,700 in Community Development contingency-funds to cover bids for this year's unassessable paving and park pav-ing projects which exceeded the amount budgeted.

In addition, the council will consider bids for steel poles to complete a Lub-bock Power and Light transmission line ($376,508), for paving the west half of Indiana Avenue between 95th Street to 103rd Street ($129,000) and 39 police riot

GRAFFITT Clayton Favors ADDING March Primary

AUSTIN (AP) - Texas' presidential primary — if one is held — might come on the same day as school board and city council elections, says Speaker Bill Clay-

Clayton has supported Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby's proposal to hold presidential pri-maries in March but acknowledged it might be expensive to separate them from the regular primary elections.

He said former Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes suggested the alternative of voting on Democratic and Republican presidential nominations along with local candidates

Clayton had endorsed Hobby's idea of a March primary because it would be one of the earliest in the nation and might increase Texas' political influence. But critics, notably the Texas AFL-

CIO, say it would cost taxpayers $2 mil-lion to hold the presidential balloting separately from the normal primary elecpresidential primary with school board and city elections would be to increase turnouts for the local races, Clayton told reporters Tuesday.

"If the price factor becomes enough, we might ought to look at April if we could run the primaries at a third of the cost," he said.

He said the House Elections Commit-tee "will look at a lot of dates" before bringing out a bill.

Clayton also wants to move the regular primaries from May and June to July and August, but Gov. Bill Clements says he would veto such a bill. Because of the veto threat, Clayton said there "could be two bills" - one on presidential primaries, the other on changing regular pri-

Slow-Moving Train Hits School Bus

CORRIGAN (AP) - Only two of 25 students were hospitalized from the collision of a slow-moving Southern Pacific train with a school bus Tuesday after-noon on the north edge of this East Texas

A 17-year-old student suffered a broken back, and her 13-year-old brother was admitted to Memorial Hospital in Lufkin with a torn eyelid. The others were treated for "just bumps and scratches" and released, a hospital spokesman said.

J.R. Cockrell, superintendent of the Corrigan-Camden Independent School District, said the bus was crossing several railroad tracks in heavy rain, and the view of driver Joyce Phillips apparently was blocked by parked railroad cars.

The Slim Gourmet

You can turn a half-pound of highpriced hamburger into two "quarter pounders" ... or a meal-size soup that serves four. To save cash as well as calories, try our Slim Gourmet Chili Soup Pronto. It's a zesty Mexican blend of beef and vegetables in a spicy broth of beef and tomatoes ... a complete meal in a bowl that's nutritious and non-fattening. It freezes well, so you might like to double or triple the recipe and portion the leftovers into single-serving containers in your freezer, for meals to thaw, heat and serve later.

CHILI SOUP PRONTO 12 lb. beef round, lean, trimmed of fat, ground 21/2 cups beef broth, homemade (or 1012 oz. can, diluted with 10 oz. water), fat-skimmed 8-oz. can tomatoes, peeled, undrained 2 onions, chopped 2 ribs celery, sliced 1 bell pepper, seeded, diced

Apparel Mart Sets Midsummer Trends

DALLAS (Special) - Summer collections featured sensational summer suits, bare and bright swimwear, and active sports coordinates recently at the Wom-en's and Children's Midsummer Apparel

Making a strong showing were slim, body-conscious shapes with nipped-in waists, shorter skirts and a definitely dressed-up look for evening.

Linen suits, with unconstructed blazers and often short sleeved jackets, were among the most popular looks shown during the Dallas market. Suit skirts, shorter and narrower, often had slits at the side or front. Pin stripes and delicate little checks in pale natural shades dominated. Some suits had a high chie look in navy, black or red, and other had a retro feeling with dots, squares and geometric patterns.

Accessories were an integral part of the sophisticated look with high heels, brimmed hats and colorful gloves. Belts and handbags completed the put-together suit look.

Swim suits shown at the Dallas Mart were brightly colored and uniquely cut. Maillots continue to be the favorite shape, but bikinis with triangle bottoms and neatly tucked bandeau tops were popular. Most suits had coordinated cover-ups that tied in front or slipped over

Drama was the key to the summer eveningwear. Fabrics ranged from the sheerest silks to the brightest satins. dressing, pajama strapless tops, and bolero-like jackets were among the best looks being shown.

Accessories for summer eveningwear included gloves from the brightest to the longest, clunky jewelry and tiny hats with or without veils, feathers and pins.

Summer active sportswear was totally feminine. Soft, body-hugging fabrics ranged from doubleknits, terries and nylons to cotton. Jogging pants were styl-ishly slim and shorts were brief. Coordinate looks were versatile. By removing a layer or two, an ensemble could move from the city to the courts in style.

He takes me to nice places when he can afford it, but he's usually broke because he loves to gamble. (Mostly, sports and the horses.)

I'm always buying tickets to sports events, theaters, etc., and we eat at my place a lot. Mac hates for me to spend my money on him, but I can't help it. I want to be with him as much as possible.

He begs me not to get "too serious" about him because he doesn't want any permanent involvement, but it's too late. I'm already in love with him. He keeps reminding me that I am his best friend. Abby, I don't want his friendship. I want love and marriage. Is this situation hope-

DEAR ABBY: I am being severely criticized for giving a relative a vacuum cleaner and all the attachements for a wedding present.

Granted it's not nearly as glamorous as something in silver or crystal, but these kids are just starting out and they don't have very much, and I thought a practical gift would make more sense.

The two movies, both dealing with the academic community, have clearly divided parents of college students into two groups: those who consider Paper Chase

14 lb. sliced boiled ham, chopped 1 large cooked potato, peeled and diced 2 cup sliced pimento-stuffed olives 12 eggs, well beaten Combine chopped olives and 2 tablespoons softened butter until well mixed. With sharp knife, cut bread horizontally in half. With spoon, scoop out soft center of bottom half of bread, leaving 1-inch wide shell. (Save soft bread for crumbs to use another day.) Spread cut surfaces with olive-butter mixture. Reassemble loaf, wrap in foil and keep warm in a 300 degree oven while preparing omelet.

OMELET: In medium saucepan, melt 2 tablespoons butter. Add onion and mushrooms; saute until tender, about 2 to 3 minutes. Stir in ham, potato and sliced olives. Cook, stirring occasionally, for 3 minutes. Meanwhile, in 10-inch skillet, melt 4 tablespoons butter. Pour in half of the beaten eggs. Quickly add sliced olive mixture to cover eggs evenly. Pour in remaining eggs. As the edges begin to set, push egg mixture to center and shake pan vigorously to allow uncooked egg mixture to flow underneath. Cook omelet until top is just set but still moist, about 5 minutes, shaking pan constantly to keep omelet from sticking.

To turn omelet out of skillet, run a pancake turner around edge and under to loosen. Invert a plate or rimless baking sheet over omelet. With one hand on the plate and the other on the pan handle. quickly invert pan, turning omelet out onto plate. Melt remaining 2 tablespoons butter in skillet. Gently slide omelet back into pan. Cook until lightly browned on other side, about 2 minutes; remove from heat.

Remove bread from oven. Unwrap foil and place bottom half of bread over top of omelet and quickly invert, turning omelet out into loaf. Replace top of bread and wrap in 4 thicknesses of heavyduty foil to keep warm at room temperature up to 3 hours. Or, chill wrapped loaf: reheat in a 400 degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes or until hot.

Use four sheets of foil. Double fold foil over top and wrap tightly.

HERO OMELET: Prepare olive spread and bread as above, but use 2 oaves unsliced large Italian or French bread for round loaf. Prepare omelet as above but do not invert omelet into bread. Instead, after turning omelet, cut into 4 lengthwise strips; cut strips in half. With pancake turner, divide omelet between bread loaves. Wrap each in heavyduty foil following directions for round loaf. Keep warm at room temperature up

When playing a crossruff, keep in mind these two principles: Cash your side tricks before starting the crossruff so that the defenders won't get the chance to ruff one of your side-suit winners later in the play; and make sure you time the play properly to get all the ruffs to which you are entitled. South's technique on this hand was exemplary. In support of spades. North's hand was worth 12 points, which merited a jump raise. South's hand, with its wealth of primes, also revalued significantly upwards once spades were supported, so he made the value bid of six spades.

Since both declarer and dummy were marked with short suits on the auction, West would have done better to lead a trump. His choice of the king of clubs gave declarer a chance he was quick to seize.

Declarer could count only four tricks outside of trumps, so he would either have to set up dummy's hearts or score eight tricks in trumps via a crossruff to make his slam. The crossruff offered a better chance.

A careless declarer would win the ace of clubs and ruff a club immediately, and would end up going down because he is short one entry to ruff dummy's last heart-try it for yourself if you don't believe us. This declarer made no such mistake.

He won the ace of clubs, crossed to the ace of hearts and ruffed a heart. He cashed the ace and king of diamonds and then ruffed a club. Now he was on the table where he wanted to be with three high trumps in each hand, and he could go about his business unworried by fear of an overruff. Three heart ruffs and two clubs ruffs followed in rapid succession. Declarer had now taken eleven tricks, and dummy's last two cards were a high trump a diamond. Declarer had to score the trump for his fulfilling trick.

'Farina' Fondly Recalls 'Our Gang' Days

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Allen Hos-kins says he has fond memories of playing Farina in "Our Gang" almost 50 years ago - but he hasn't any residuals.

"I'm sick and tired of people thinking I get residuals," or payment for replays of the still-popular series, Hoskins said in a recent interview. "I haven't got no pot of money. I have never tried to trade off the name 'Farina.' I haven't done that - I dont do that."

Instead the 58-year-old Hoskins said he struggled through years of housepainting and dishwashing before landing his pre-sent job as public information officer for the Alameda County Chapter of the Association for Retarded Children.

Until three years ago, Hoskins said he concealed from friends that he had been

Farina in the celebrated movie shorts. He knew his wife, Franzy, for more than six months before divulging his secret, and that was only "because I didn't want anyone else telling her."

Hoskins also refused all interviews and honors until agreeing in 1976 to accept an award from the Black Filmmakers Hall "I figured ... I owe it to them," he said.

But he recalls with fondness his days as "The first black kid on the show was Sunshine Sammy. Then came Pineapple and his sister Mongo, then me, then Stymie and his brother Cotton, then Buckwheat," he'said.

"The gang was unique, well-integrated, ahead of its time. There was nothing else to compare with it in its day. I'd fall in a bucket of feathers; a white kid would fall in a bucket of feathers.

But Hoskins ran into trouble when he outgrew his role and sought other jobs in the race-conscious Hollywood of the 1930s and '40s. He tried radio, but opportunities for black actors were limited. During the McCarthy era, Hoskins was questioned by the House Un-American Activities Committee which found that as a teen-ager, he had attended dances sponsored by the Young Communist League and the Socialist Workers Party. The committee took his passport and matter. I wasn't working anyway. But I didn't want to stick around and be another has-been. I wanted to do something."

Hoskins left Hollywood in 1952 and headed for the San Francisco Bay area. There he painted houses, washed dishes, 'anything to make an honest buck," before entering a training program which led to a job as a psychiatric technician and eventually to his present position.

Recently he wrote and produced a radio documentary on the retarded child-ren's group. "I'm finally getting a chance to work in radio," he said.

Researcher Optimistic About Cancer Vaccine

whose early tests show a high five-year survival rate among victims of lung cancer could be used to help prevent the disease in high-risk patients such as cigarette smokers, a researcher says.

Dr. Jules E. Harris, who recently left the University of Ottawa in Canada to become director of medical onocology (cancer science) at Chicago's Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center, said this week he was heartened by the early testing of the vaccine.

Lung cancer victims who were given the vaccine in intervals of 30, 60 and 90 days after surgery achieved a five-year survival rate of 80 percent. Harris said. That means 80 percent of the victims who took the vaccine were alive five years later. The usual survival rate for victims undergoing lung cancer surgery is 30 percent, Harris said.

He also said he is optimistic the vaccine not only could extend the lives of lung cancer victims, but also may one day be used to prevent lung cancer in high-risk patients, such as heavy smokers, who have not contracted the disease.

Harris said the vaccine is being tested among 300 patients at 11 institutions in North America. One of them, the Roswell Park Institute of Buffalo, N.Y., will present data on its testing to the upcoming meeting of the American Society of

The offer came after she was the only girl in her class to raise her hand when

"We will launch a new program to cope with the social and medical tragedies that befall these mothers and their babies,"

Earlier in the day, Califano told a meeting of Houston Democratic leaders that a national health insurance program might bring the country as many discomforts as He said it could force the government to become involved in such decisions as whether it should "pay for abortions or after completing a one-hour presentation on a proposed highway department budget of nearly $2.66 billion for 1980-81.

Committee members seemed unaware of a provision in the federal 1978 Surface Transportation Assistance Act that requires all states to cause more and more of their drivers to slow down each year until in 1983 at least 70 percent of vehicles are within the 55 mph limit. In Texas, with its highly acclaimed highway system and wide-open spaces, 78 percent to 82 percent of the drivers are exceeding the speed limit, Wilson said. That percentage goes up to 84 on the mul-ti-lane interstate highways.

Plan Brings Young, Elderly Together

By SHARI LEWIS

The place is Vista, Calif., the time is now, and the story is both sad and happy at the same time. It's sad because it's about lonely children in Camarillo State Hospital, and lonely old people with no one to love and not much to do. It's happy because these two have been brought together through the Foster Grandparent Program.

This plan was set up to give each kid a special "grandparent" to care for him or her, and to provide each senior citizen with purpose and a person with whom to share both time and emotions.

The "grandparents" spend about four hours a day, Monday through Friday, at the hospital. Most of them divide their time between two children.

The sharing of happiness and tears, hugging and touching, walking and talking together all make this a wonderfully successful program.

I've been told that the children's faces light up when they see their

"grandma" or "grandpa" arriving. And one senior citizen said, "My little friend here gives me a reason to get up in the morning and get dressed and do something important."

There are foster parent programs all over the country. If you want to know more about them, drop me a line and I'll simply pass on your note.

I believe that the only thing nicer then people helping people is youngsters and oldsters finding comfort and pleasure in one anoth-

Demographics Gain Popularity

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — You seldom hear them_mentioned along with the other leading economic indicators, but demographics certainly are. In fact, their lead time is in years rather than months.

Take the baby boom of the years 1946 through 1964, during which 76.4 million babies were born, creating a child-centered society in which school costs soared and baby food companies thrived.

Before the end of the baby boom the population bulge was felt in entertainment, sports and adolescent rebellion, somewhat later in college and university enrollments, and then in the job market.

The impact continues, and to some extent it explains today's high housing prices and a continued boom in housing sales despite those prices and mortgage rates that now are well into double digits.

As demographers view the economy, the country would better be able to adjust to economic change if more people listened to them. But, says Bryant Robey, editor of "American Demographics," that isn't always the case.

Demographics was considered an arcane, somewhat suspect science, he said, and only now is "emerging from the shadows." Interested laymen were thought eccentric, the kind who also read the telephone directory.

In the first issue of the magazine, Conrad Taeuber, a demographer, dispels such notions, forecasting the impact for decades ahead of the 46.5 million births between 1954 and 1964, the boom's peak. In 1980 these people will be between 16 and 26 years old, and will furnish the last large classes of college undergraduates until their own children reach the same ages. Less than half will be married. In 1990 most of them will have spouses and have children. They will have moved up from beginner work levels and be eligible for supervisory positions. About 40 percent will own their own homes. In 2000, now between ages 36 and 46, about 68 percent will be home owners.

OPEN DAILY 9-9

Most will have had their last child. More of family income will go for food and clothing than at any other time of their lives In 2010 these babies of 1954-1964 will be at the peak of the earning and spending power. Most will not change jobs again. Health and personal care expenses will begin to rise.

Ten years later, in 2020, their household income should be falling, but if traditional criteria prevail, their personal care and recreation expenditures will rise. And 10 years later, most of them will be out of the labor force, dependent upon Social Security and savings.

Demographics goes into greater detail of course. It can foretell personnel bottlenecks in business, shortages of skilled help, demand for specific products, pressures on social services and the like.

It examines the characteristics of groups and foretells the likely impact. Taeuber observes, for example, that "the typical American baby is born with a car key in its mouth instead of the proverbial silver spoon."

Those babies will be mobile, and their mobility "challenges the fundamental assumption of public administration: that each person can be associated with a precisely defined piece of the nation's territory, the 'legal residence.'

With legal residence based in part on fiction, mobility could mean serious and growing administrative problems for vacation or seasonal communities whose populations rise and fall with the weather.

In 1970, President Nixon signed a bill setting a six-year deadline for the auto industry to develop a near-polution-free engine.

WED, THRU SAT.

Those babies are likely to migrate too, into the cities and suburbs and out of them too, and to the Sun Belt and elsewhere, with resulting, and to some extent forecastable, impacts on environment and taxes.

Will decision-makers listen to the demographers?

Robey thinks demographers must communicate more effectively. He concedes it "maintains its reputation, no doubt well earned, for being incomprehensible" to all but professionals. He hop change it.

If doctors are interested in just one oran, such as the heart, the computer can be told to disregard all other body structures that appear in the cross sectional X-ray views and display on television tubes desired slices of the heart at any angle. "It's as if you cut the heart out of the body, put it in front of an X-ray machine and took a picture of it," said Dr. Richard Robb, chief scientist on the project at the Mayo Biodynamics Research Unit. The machine, called a dynamic spatial reconstructor (DSR), is an outgrowth of technology that produced the now-widely used computerized scanning devices that are able to produce cross sectional views of the brain and other areas of the body. But each scan by today's machines takes at least a few seconds. This means they are too slow to generate clear views of moving organs like the heart.

Pain Pill Defended By Firm

WASHINGTON (AP) - The popular prescription pain reliever Darvon is a safe and effective remedy for pain when used as directed, the drug's manufactur-

The testimony of Dr. Robert H. Furman, vice president for corporate medical affairs for Eli Lilly and Co., came this week as the firm was given its chance by a Senate subcommittee to respond to allegations made previously by critics of Witnesses last week before the subcomnittee characterized Darvon as no better pain reliever than aspirin and said it had been implicated in a number of deaths. Several urged that propoxyphene - the key ingredient in the compound — either be banned or that the government make it harder for doctors to prescribe it.

Furman, however, said Darvon had been proven effective in clinical tests on both humans and laboratory animals and that the company knew of no deaths that had occurred "when propoxyphene was properly used." He said all the deaths reported so far were the result of abuse of the drug or of massive overdoses and said suicide was indicated in many of the cas-

Furman's comments were echoed by a professor of pharmacology and toxicology from the University of Rochester School of Medicine and Dentistry in New York.

Dr. Louis Lasagna told the Senate Small Business subcommittee on monopoly that propoxyphene was "unquestionwhen given alone or in combination with such drugs as aspirin or acetaminophen."

The commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration, the agency which decides whether drugs are safe and effective, also said the use of Darvon could be worthwhile even if the critics were right as to its effectiveness being no better

"I think the perception that a drug is elping is often very helpful," said Donald Kennedy. "This drug is not just a molecule. It is part of a therapeutic system that is going on out there.'

Cell Lung Cancer Cured With Drug

NEW YORK (UPI) - For the first time, chemotherapy alone has been used to cure a case of large cell lung cancer, says a report in the upcoming issue of the Journal of the American Medical Asso-

The report says the drug lomustine was successfully used to treat large cell lung cancer, the type that strikes 29 percent of of lung cancer victims, in a 47-year-old

The man, an auto parts salesman, had large cell lung cancer that had spread in his chest and to his groin.

The report from Dr. Gerald J. Vosika of the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis says that within six weeks of beginning treatment in March of 1973 the cancer started to retreat and three months later the patient's chest X-rays were "essentially normal."

"Currently the patient is without evidence of disease more than four years after diagnosis and more than two years after stopping chemotherapy," Vosika said in the report in this Friday's issue of the

"During these four years he has worked fulltime except as clinic visits and hospitalization required." Vosika said a Veterans Administration study put the median survival for untreated patients with this type of lung cancer at 11.1 weeks. In a telephone interview Monday, Vosika said the report was not published by the American Medical Association until a year after acceptance. The situation today with regard to this case: The patient died some months ago after about five years of cure. He died not of cancer but of pneumonia.

Dow Jones Down 6.58 At 816.27

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined broadly again to-day, selling off following a warning from Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger about potentially severe effects of the political upheaval in Iran.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off more than 36 points over the last seven trading days, was down another 6.58 at 816.27 by noon today.

Losers outnumbered gainers by a wide margin in the broad tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed

Schlesinger told the Senate Energy Committee this morning that the effects of the Iranian situation could be "prospectively more serious" than the 1973-74 Arab oil em-

Against that background the dollar declined sharply in foreign ex-change. And the price of gold — a traditional haven from economic and currency uncertainties .reached a record high again, breaking through the $250-anounce level in London.

Gold mining stocks moved ahead, following the lead of the bullion price. Dome Mines gained 11/4 to 83%; Homestake 1 to 36%; Campbell Red Lake Mines % to 35¼, and ASA ¼ to 27¼.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .46 to 54.53. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .68 at 157.48. Volume on the Big Board reached 12.86 million shares by noontime, up from 10.88 million at the same point Tuesday.

Picket Line Ends At Port Arthur

By The Associated Prem Nearly 8,000 oil refinery workers in three states were off their jobs Tuesdays to support demands for improved jobs safety, maintain union contract provissions or show sympathy for fellow works. ers on strike.

Nearly 7,000 of the workers affected were at Texaco's largest refinery in Port

They refused to cross picket lines established by some of the 600 members of Local 8-638 of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union from Texaco's Ea-gle Point refinery in Westville, N.J.

The New Jersey local, on strike since Jan. 17 over local issues, had flown the pickets to Port Arthur and established the picket lines Monday. The lines came down late Tuesday night, without ex ation from the union, and a company spokesman said workers would return to Members of OCAW Local 4-23 at Port Arthur honored the picket lines Mond and Tuesday despite orders from their of ficers for a return to work.

The Westville, N.J., local sent 15 pickets to Texaco's Bayonne, N.J., refinery Monday, but their effectiveness was lim-

"Some crossed the picket line and some didn't," said John Behm, executive vice president of Local 8-638. At Eagle Point, no negotiations have

against the Tenneco Oil Co. refinery.

"The last time we went out it lasted almost five months," said Ferd Beaucoudray, a member of the negotiating committee for OCAW Local 4-522. "I wouldn't be surprised to see it last that long this time. We're ready," he said Monday.

Behm says the company wants a change so that anyone can be used. "It would cut down on overtime for the senior man," he said.

At Port Arthur, a Texaco spokesman said supervisory personnel kept the refinery operating Tuesday.

Operation of the plant has been taken over by supervisory personnel," said Tex, aco spokesman Larry Bingaman. "We are at near-normal operating levels."

Court Upholds Hospital Suit

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Supreme Court ruled today the Texas Health Facilities Commission required too much detail in an application by Hendrick Memorial Hospital of Abilene for five new, iloors.

The commission rejected the application Nov. 10, 1976, and the hospital sued. A Fort Worth judge ordered the commis-sion to grant the application, and the Ty-ler Court of Civil Appeals affirmed that were going up 1 percent a month.

The commission disagreed with the trial Judge's finding that the hospital had proven it needed the extra floors. It also said the hospital had not designated a use for the new floors, making it impossible to determine if the evidence met each of the commission writeria for such a not the commission's criteria for such a per-

The appeals court said the commission erred in looking at a single year, 1975, when patient-days declined instead of at a 10-year trend of rising use of the hospi-

Also, the appeals court said, the com-mission had relied on a projected popula-tion decline from 1970 to 1980 in Abi-lene's Council of Governments area.

Avoids Coffee Habit

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB - I want to write you about my experience with coffee, but first I want to tell you something about myself. I'm a 78year-old male, 5 feet 7, and weigh 140 pounds. Each morning I jog about three miles, rain, snow or sunshine, and have for the last 10 years. I'm in excellent condition. I do not chew, smoke or drink. Don't gamble, don't drink coffee or tea and don't pop

During World War II I farmed and raised hogs. I gathered the swill from restaurants, but the big problem was to tell the girls not to throw the coffee grounds in the swill, as it will make hogs sick. Now and then it would happen. One day I got up in the morning to take some big hogs to market and Tound one hog sick. I thought they had the cholera and called the vet. He shook his head and said no, she's just poisoned from coffee grounds. and she died. Now I know a rattlesnake can bite a hog and it won't hurt them. But coffee grounds even after they had been boiled and humans have drunk the liquid from them, they still contain enough of something to kill a grown hog.

Just a few years ago. I was in a bowling alley and felt drowsy so I thought I'd have a cup of coffee. It tasted good and before I got out of there, I had three cups. The next day every few minutes my heart beat funny. I thought I was going to have a heart attack. Now I'll never try cof-

DEAR READER - I'm not much of a hog doctor so I won't try to diagnose what happened to your hog, but will accept the version of you and your vet that she died from coffee grounds.

I will agree with you that coffee can cause adverse reactions in humans, particularly in a person like you who has not been accustomed to drinking any at all. People who drink lots of coffee develop a tolerance to its toxic actions. Sensitive people may have extra heart beats, flip flops and irregularities of the heart even though they may have drunk only a small amount of coffee.

Congratulations on your state of good health and your wisdom in following a lifestyle that promotes it. After 78 years of good healthy living you don't need to add the coffee hab it to your lifestyle.

I'm sure you will be interested in knowing more about how coffee and other drinks affect the body so I'm sending you The Health Letter number 1-1, Coffee, Tea, Cola, Cocoa. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, selfaddressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper. P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Is it mostly the cholesterol or the fat that forms deposits in the arteries and causes heart attacks? If you didn't eat any cholesterol, would it make any difference how much fat you ate?

DEAR READER - The actual deposit in the artery is mostly cholesterol. The particle that goes into the artery wall is both fat and cholesterol but more of the fat is reabsorbed and more of the cholesterol stays behind.

Fat in your intestine favors the absorption of cholesterol. That is one reason why a low-fat diet is helpful in lowering your blood cholesterol. Even if you didn't eat any cholesterol. the cholesterol in your bile that enters the intestine would be absorbed more completely if you ate a lot of fat. So the best results come from restricting both fat and choles-

You get more good eating from a ham that's 96% lean.

9 FRENCH HAM SANDWICHES

6 HEARTY HAMSTEAK SERVINGS

EGGS BENEDICT

Our little Curemaster ham weighs only 11/2 to 21/4 pounds. But you can do a lot with it. There's no fat to trim, no excess water weight. Just lean, solid meat. If you see a bigger ham for about the same price as Curemaster, remember this: It's not how much ham you can buy that counts, it's how much you can eat.

NAACP Director Says Rights In Jeopardy

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY Avalanche-Journal Staff

Racism is not the only barrier blacks face today - the nation's economy and an era of conservatism also are factors in minority discrimination, the executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said

"The mood of America is moving relentlessly to the right," Benjamin Hooks said at an airport press conference prior to his speech at Texas Tech University as part of Black Awareness Month activi-

Hooks, the first black to serve as a member of the Federal Communications Commission, said rights that minorities, including blacks, Hispanics, Indians, Asians and women, thought they had won are again in jeopardy.

The recent conservative mood, which Hooks said spawned Proposition 13 in California and similar measures across the country, has resulted in cities eliminating minority programs.

And for minorities who have recently crossed the threshold into formerly allwhite job fields, many find themselves losing those hard-fought opportunities as payrolls are cut back. "Because minorities are the last hired, they are the first fired," Hooks said.

"The tragedy of black Americans is that we've had to fight for rights other Americans have had handed to them.

Unemployment for minorities, especially among young blacks, is at a critical stage, he said

"It's a problem not only for the community but the entire nation. Not only have some never had jobs, they've lost hope that they can get a job and they've lost faith in the system. A nation can't continue to prosper under those conditions." he said.

For every successful black, such as former U.S. Rep. Barbara Jordan, there are many individuals who give up the struggle for equal opportunity, he said.

'People get tired of the fight," Hooks noted. "They take what they have and let

Many fields now employ blacks, but not in great numbers and especially not in high level positions, he said, citing the slim 2 percent of American doctors who

"There are 1,700 newspapers in this country and only 11 blacks are in positions with editorial responsibility," he said. "I could give you statistic after sta-

Critics have called the NAACP everything from too conservative to militant. Hooks said, adding that, "We don't care what we're called. We are profoundly affecting America."

Among the tactics the organization uses are voter registration drives, education of the public on minority discrimination, lawsuits and legislation.

But the struggle doesn't seem to get any easier, he said. First blacks wanted only a seat on the bus and many people agreed with that right, he said. But now, he added, "We want to drive that bus" and there is resistence.

Hooks agreed with a Congressman who remarked to him, after noting President Carter's pledge to hold the line on welfare spending, "After 20 years of social progress, this country is coming to a

Without the votes of blacks, Carter

would be just an ex-governor of Georgia, Hooks said, and considering that support, The Carter administration is not as responsive as we feel it should be."

Although Hooks was not familiar with details of the Lubbock's class action suit charging that at-large city council elections deny minorities representation in city government, he said the NAACP has been involved in similar cases.

"It's a mixed bag, " he said. "It's not an automatic victory.

Upcoming speakers for Black Awareness Month, planned by the Tech Student Organization for Black Unity, include Thomas "Hollywood" Henderson, line-backer for the Dallas Cowboys, who will be master of ceremonies for the Miss Black Texas Tech Pageant at 7 p.m. Saturday in the University Center Ballroom.

Tony Ford, chairman of the sponsoring committee, said other events include the appearance of Charles Pace, actor and professor at the University of Texas, who will present a one-man performance of Young Mr. Douglass," next Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. in the UC. Tickets are $2 for Tech students and $3 for the public.

An Afro-American banquet at 7 p.m. Feb. 24 in the UC Faculty Club, followed by a performance of the Dallas Black Dance Theatre, Inc. will conclude the month's events.

Black Awareness Month, celebrated since 1926 in America, is held this month because many events in black history occured in February, Ford said.

"Frederick Douglass and Abraham Lincoln were born, Malcolm X was assassinated, the first black YMCA was estbalished, the NAACP was founded and many other significant events happened

Teachers Critical Of Grade System

Avalanche-Journal Staff

A new grading scale ordered by the Lubbock Independent School District administration may make it too easy for lazy students to pass, some teachers com-

Central-office administrators disagree with the criticism, but they have cons ed to allow a teachers' committee to evaluate the new grading system and recommend changes

The system, adopted in mid-December by Superintendent Ed Irons and his Administrative Council, mandates a uniform procedure for averaging secondary students' grades at the end of each academic quarter.

Under the scale, each letter grade recorded in the teacher's grade book will be assigned a numerical value. An A will equal 4; a B, 3; a C, 2; a D, 1; and an F, (

Each student's set of numbers then will be averaged. If the pupil's average point equivalent falls between 4.0 and 3.5, the student will receive an overall A in the course for that quarter; between 3.4 and 2.5, a B; between 2.4 and 1.5, a C; between 1.4 and .5, a D; and below .5, an F In effect, the new grading scale is tell-ing teachers to round a child's grade upward if it falls exactly between two let-

Dr. E.C. Leslie, assistant superintendent for administration, said the grade-averaging guidelines were issued "for the sake of consistency" among the city's 14 public junior and senior high schools.

Previously, grading scales varied great-ly from school to school and teacher to teacher, Leslie said. Many teachers used a 4-point system, but some had a 5-point scale. Some teachers distinguished between F's: If a student attempted an assignment but failed, his mark would be a simple 0; a student who refused to even try might go down as a double-0 or a mi-

The biggest discrepancy, Leslie said, was in the cutoffs for translating point equivalents into letter grades.

We didn't think it was fair that one teacher would require a 3.7 (on a 4-point

It was even more confusing trying to compare that with the 5-point scale, where the cutoff for an A might vary

The new scale promulgated by the Administrative Council, which consists of Irons and his three assistant superintendents, is intended to "make the procedure for averaging grades consistent to classroom to classroom," Leslie said.

Most teachers do not object to the con-cept of uniformity or the cutoffs at the top of the new scale, Leslie said. Howev-

"The main concern of many teachers is that the bottom of the scale is too low, Some teachers do not believe a .5 should be a passing grade.'

Leslie met Monday night with repre-sentatives of Lubbock Educators Asso-ciation and Lubbock Classroom Teachers Association. Both groups have expressed concern about the new grading Proce-

Leslie said he authorized the two teacher organizations to form a joint committee to review the new procedure, espe-cially the D-F cutoff. "We encourage the input of our professional associations. We want them behind us," Leslie said.

Tony Compton, Evans Junior High assistant principal and Lubbock Educators Association president, said the committee probbly will be appointed this week.

Compton said one concern is that teachers want to give more credit to "the student who tried and failed, than to the student who refused to do any work at

But most principals and central admin-istrators don't think that will happen. In any event, Leslie said, a student who

Instead, the school should deal with the

Instead, the school should deal with the student's behavior by counseling and other techniques, Leslie said.

As for the .5 cutoff for a D, Leslie said he doesn't feel this is too low. "We certainly don't intend to lower our standards" under the new grading scale, he

of a rigid scale deprives them of flexibili-ty is grading students. "I'm afraid we're going to end up going strictly by the num-bers, instead of taking a student's effort and progress into consideration," said

However, other teachers and school officials said each instructor still will have much flexibility, because the new scale only affects averaging grades — and does not affect which grades go into a grade

By giving grades for class participation, allowing students to do extra-credit work and making other allowances, teachers said they still can be flexible in grading.

Lubbock Police Investigating Three Sexual Assault Reports

separate reports of sexual assaults occurring in the past two days, the most recent being an early morning attack on a 27year-old Lubbock woman by a young

The woman told police she awoke in her bedroom about 2:20 a.m. to find a man wielding a pocket knife by her bed. She said the intruder told her, "Don't scream: don't fight and I won't hurt

The assailant, described as wearing a dark-hooded jacket, reportedly tied his victim's hands with the belt of her nightgown, and tied a scarf around her face.

The woman, who broke free about 2:30 a.m. and went to a neighbor's house, said the rapist left after ripp from the wall and taking it with him.

In another reported rape, a 12-year-old Lubbock girl told police she was grabbed by a heavy-set black man about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday in the 400-block of Avenue T, placed inside a nearby trash dumpster

The girl said the bearded man confronted her in the alley and forced her against an apartment complex wall. She said the man threatened to kill her if she didn't kiss him, and then began choking her.

The man placed her in the dumpster. climbed in and raped her, she said. The girl said her attacker told her he would kill her if she reported the assault.

The suspect was described as 18 to 25 years old, about 5 feet, 9 inches tall, with one of his front teeth capped in gold and decorated with a star. The girl said he was wearing a red coat, brown pants and

Girl Permitted To Give Organ

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - A state appeals court cleared the way today for a mentally retarded Seguin girl to give her 14year-old brother the kidney doctors say he needs to stay alive.

The 4th Court of Civil Appeals had been asked - in what attorneys said was the first appeal of its kind in Texas - to decide if 14-year-old Steve Little could receive the life-saving kidney from his 15vear-old sister. Anne.

A Guadalupe County probate court order Nov. 17 allowed Anne's parents to consent to the operation after doctors determined that Anne is the only person with an an acceptable kidney for her

An attorney appointed to represent Anne's legal interests, however, appealed the order, because he believed the probate court lacked the authority to grant it. He contends Texas law provides no process to allow mentally incompetent persons to donate organs to others.

Laywer R.H. Wester Jr., who said his intent in filing the appeal was to "fully protect her interests" could further block a transplant by appealing the order to the Texas Surpreme Court.

He could not be reached immediately for comment this morning.

"We conclude that the trial court did not exceed its authority by authorizing the participation of Anne in the kidney transplant as a donor since there is strong evidence that she will receive substantial pyschological benefits from such participation." Chief Justice Carlos C. Cadena said in a written opinion.

Police also were seeking a suspect today in the Tuesday morning attempted rape of an 18-year-old city woman.

The woman said she awoke about 4:30 a.m. Tuesday to find a tall, very thin black man standing in her bedroom. She said that when she asked what he wanted, the man told her, "Don't make any noise or I'll kill you.'

The man ordered her to undress and when she resisted, a struggle ensued. The victim said she struck her attacker and started screaming. At that point, she said, the man ran from her apartment.

The attacker was described as about 6 feet tall, 20 to 30 years old, wearing a brown leather jacket, jeans, boots, dark shirt and black toboggan cap.

In other police activity, Lawrence Eldon McClaran, 21, of 710 Quinn St. said he was beaten by three Mexican-Americans about 8 p.m. Tuesday outside a bar in the 5200-block of 34th Street.

Dusty Lee Bogard of 2302 20th St. said he lost $885 in stereo equipment and a television set Tuesday when burglars broke into his house.

Thomas Rodriguez of 1919 E. Baylor St. told police that two dogs, a retriever and a Chow, were taken from his backyard Tuesday morning, Rodriguez valued the animals at $400.

Glen F. Kilburn, manager of Rodeway Inn at 2401 4th St., said loud guests at the motel early Tuesday caused more than 760 damage to one of the rooms.

Kilburn said furniture, decorator pieces, windows and the door of the room were destroyed. The room also was-covered with what appeared to be fire ex-tinguisher residue, reports indicate, and a fire extinguisher was found missing from its first floor glass case. Several guests told the desk clerk they had heard glass break about 3 a.m. Tuesday and saw a man and woman fighting on the motel's parking lot.

Comparisons with the American war effort in Vietnam are premature, but the changed circumstances have led to a marked expansion of American rhetorical and material support for Thailand. For example, Thailand's Prime Minister Kriangsak Chomanan, here on an official visit, was informed Tuesday by the president that the administration, pending congressional approval, will give Thailand $11.3 million in U.S. ammunition stored there. This follows last month's decision to raise U.S. military aid to Thailand from $24 million to $30 million. And, in public remarks during Kriangsak's arrival ceremony Tuesday, Carter affirmed American interests in the area in emphatic terms. The United States, he said, is "intensely interested in and deeply committed to the integrity, freedom and security of Thailand."

He also said the United States will continue to abide by its commitments to Thailand under the 1954 Manila Pact,

Briefing reporters after Carter's 90minute meeting with Kriangsak, Assistant Secretary of State Richard Holbrooke said Carter's reaffirmation of U.S.-Thai

If the Vietnamese invaded Thailand, the United States would appear to have little choice under the Manila Pact but to move decisively to defend Thailand. Holbrooke said Vietnam does not apbodian leader Pol Pot. Kriangsak said his government hopes to maintain peace through a strong national defense and by keeping the lines of communication with Hanoi open.

Cleveland Official Blasts City Council President

CLEVELAND (UPI) - The last thing Cleveland needs is another issue to divide politicians and citizens alike. But it's happened again - this time over the "civilianizing" of the Police Department. Cleveland Safety Director James Barrett blasted City Council President George Forbes Tuesday for charging that Cleveland mayor Dennis Kucinich and his aides are "tearing the guts" out of the Police Department. At a crowded City Hall news conference, Barrett termed Forbes' statements double-talk and wild charges." "I'm not going to let the Police Depart-ment be decimated by a bunch of crazies," Forbes said at the council meeting. He accused the mayor of treating the police force "the same way the Communistled Khmer Rouge ravaged Cambodia."

He claimed the retirements and resignations of some 30 police commanders is happening by design ... a lot of men

at a recent council meeting "hypocritical

Barrett acknowledged that the Kucinich administration has been trying for the past year to exert more civilian control over the city police department. But he flatly denied that such moves have undermined morale among police or have contributed to recent retirements of some high-ranking officers.

He also noted that in 1974, Forbes authorized an unsuccessful City Charter amendment proposing greater civilian control over the police department. "Will the real George Forbes please stand up?" Barrett told reporters.

Kucinich said he was shocked by Forbes' unprovoked attack. "It's obvious the council president is trying to create a phony racial issue in order to shore up his own diminishing support," Kucinich argued, referring to Forbes' indictment on kickback charges. Forbes will stand trial in county court later this month.

Restraint Begets Local Governments' Reaction

By JOHN CUNNIFF NEW YORK (AP) — The new fiscal

fashion is restraint, as illustrated by tax revolts, limitations on state spending and the tenor if not substance of President Carter's budget proposals. It's the style. As with other styles, in clothing, cars and modes of living, fashion begets reaction. And those who are paid to assess the future, such as financial analysts, say they see at least one inevitable reaction.

It will come from state and local governments, they say, from units of government expected to provide services despite slower revenue growth and less aid from Washington. It's the flip side of the tax coin.

That other side, say the bond men on Wall Street, has never been fully evaluated, appreciated or anticipated by the advocates of restraint. In broad terms it is understood, they say, but not in the spe-

Over the years, it is explained, state and local governments have enlarged the scope of their services. With revenue growth lagging and a recession threatening, those services may have to be ended. As some municipal finance analysts see it; the problems that got the cities into serious financial trouble have never been resolved, the biggest of them being the loss of population and jobs. The cities hardest hit in the last recession, large and medium-sized cities in the

Book Based OnWoman's Experiences

NEW YORK (AP) - The title of the book Michelle Wallace wanted to write since she was 18 could come straight from a black exploitation movie. But the subject could not be further from the celluloid world of the super cool "Super

"Black Macho and the Myth of the Superwoman" is a discussion of myths Miss Wallace said she feels have made black men think of freedom in terms of sexual politics. And this thinking, she said, has turn kept many black women poweress and dependent out of guilt over what black men have been through.

The 27-year-old writer said in a recent interview that the book is based on her own experiences and took form after she became involved in feminism

Through it, she said, she would like to encourage dialogue between black women and men which she said she hopes would "strengthen the black community and perpetuate black culture.

There is a tremendous problem of getling black women to deal with their situation, to get them to talk to one another," the said. "There is a lot of competition among us - for men, for jobs, for securi-

Many black women, she said, have not felt comfortable with the feminist movement, "primarily because they see it as something white and are afraid of being ripped off again. The "again" refers to the disillusion she said many women felt when they repressed their own desire for freedom in ayor of "the needs of the revolution" preached by the men in the black power movement of the 1960s. $he said she feels the central point is that black women are not the pillars of strength they have been made out to be, and that many of them - and their children - are among the most powerless, lowest-paid, most neglected people in this country Just trying to do research for a book on black women is an exercise in frustration, Miss Wallace said. "There is little solid information — some papers and articles but no real scholarly work. "A subject like black women and the Rind of medical care they receive is a blank page," she said. "Black women eem to have all sorts of high blood pres-Sure and tension and gynecological probiems that no one ever writes about."

How can black women - and men go beyond what she sees as myths? By lealing with the problem openly, she aid, through community organizations and discussions — through consciousness-raising, a technique itself popularged by the women's movement.

We'll just have to deal with sexism," she said. "We may pass through a period of hostility. It may be divisive, but we have to deal with it. Black women have 6 decide what they're going to do - and black people do, too."

Census Bureau Boss Decides To Resign

WASHINGTON (AP) - Manuel D. Plotkin says he decided to quit as director of the Census Bureau to avoid any appearance of conflict of interest in connec tion with a pending lawsuit.

Plotkin said Monday he will resign because "the work of the Census Bureau and my personal integrity are both too important to be jeopardized by even the appearance of conflict of interest." Stories last week quoted administration sources as saying President Carter was happy with Plotkin's leadership. Plotkin gave no date for his resignation.

Northeast, remain financially week, says Merrill Lynch Economics, Inc. In a recession, it concludes, they'd be hurt again.

"However," it continues, "they are likely to be joined this time by some Midwestern and Southern cities in bearing the fiscal brunt of a recession. These vulnerable cities are characterized by a longterm underlying imbalance between their revenue base and service needs."

Many cities, it observes, approach the new environment (possible inflation and less aid from Washington) in quite poor

'Many of them have tax rates that are already at or near a politically acceptable maximum," the Merrill Lynch reports observes. The solution of higher taxes may therefore be denied them.

"Thus, they have had little opportunity to build adequate liquidity with which to this year. And their low bond ratings may limit access to funds in the market.

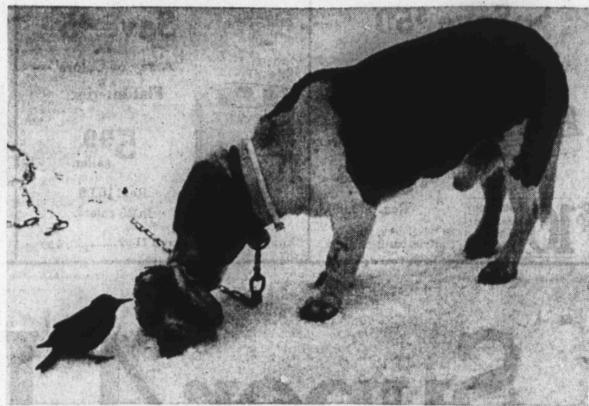

Various analysts have commented similarly, noting that state and local governments face a unique combination of pressures: reduced revenues, damaged bond ratings, less aid and possible recession.

Combined with fashion for reduced taxes, or at least for a moratorium on tax increases, such governmental units might find themselves in an even tighter bind than they did in 1974 and 1975.

In the earlier years it was felt that federal aid would bail them out. Now that they cannot be certain, it could compel them to cut services even more. Which will it be?

Will the new fashion for restraint hold sway? Or will taxes be raised? And if the latter is chosen, how does a city or state go about raising taxes during a recession? The decisions, it would seem, will determine whether the style of restraint is just a passing fashion, or whether it is instead a deep-rooted conviction.

News GSA Practice Blamed For Excess Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) - An individual buying a single product over the counter often can get a better deal than the federal government which spends $3 billion a year on supplies, says the chief auditor of the General Services Administration.

Howard Davia, head of the GSA's audit division, blamed that situation on the GSA's "multiple award" system of negotiating prices with individual suppliers, rather than buying supplies through competitive bidding.

In testimony Tuesday before the Senate Governmental Affairs subcommittee on federal spending, Davia cited a recent example in which the GSA negotiated a 6 percent discount on a product. However, Davia said the supplier gave a 25 percent discount to dealers, a 50 percent discount to wholesalers and 17 percent to one over-the-counter buyer.
"I think such examples are more typical than not," Davia told the panel.

The subcommittee called Davia as part of a one-day hearing on the suppression of a 1971 internal GSA audit that said the 'multiple awards' system was wasting $100 million a year and urged adoption of a competitive bidding system.

The internal report was never issued formally and remained an agency secret until uncovered recently during the investigation of widespread corruption at GSA, the government's purchasing and housekeeping agency. Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., the panel's chairman, accused GSA officials of conducting a cover-up in the suppression of the 8-year-old audit.

Chiles cited internal GSA memoranda showing that not only was the audit suppressed, but that GSA officials lied to the White House and members of Congress about the costs of GSA's negotiated price

Addressing the two auditors who wrote the suppressed report, Chiles said: "It sounds to me like you had gotten into the chicken coop and someone felt they didn't want you in there."
Davia said if the changes recommended by the audit had been implemented, the government would now be saving as much as $400 million a year.

A General Accounting Office study put years at as much as $2.2 billion.

"Fraud or not, it's pretty obvious that we're being ripped off," Chiles said."It's pretty clear the taxpayers' patience has just about run its limit."

A typewriter that the state of California bought for $218 under a competitive bid-ding system cost the federal government $404, he said. A calculator cost California $225 and the federal government $286.

NO AUTOS IN SQUARE

VATICAN CITY (AP) - Work crews are building permanent barriers to make St. Peter's Square a pedestrian island sealed off from automobile traffic along the "border" of this sovereign state with Italy. A series of wooden barricades has barred traffic from the vast, cobblestone piazza since 1975. This month the finishing touches are being put on short, travertine pillars that when connected by chains will form a permanent barrier.

Davia said the GSA has instituted an improved system for tracking audits to prevent critical studies from being suppressed. But he said problems addressed by the 1971 audit were still present.

Through its "multiple award" buying program, the GSA negotiates discounts

"Never did I think I would come back here. I thought I would either make it or, if I failed to make it, I would be killed," Miss Moore said Tuesday in an interview with The Associated Press.

The one-time FBI informant, who pleaded guilty to trying to kill President Gerald Ford in San Francisco in 1975, was back in prison early Tuesday, a few hours after she and another inmate escaped late Monday.

In order to maintain my sanity, in order to remain a human being, in order not to become the animal that they want prisoners to be - I knew I had only one choice and I made it," the 48-year-old

Miss Moore probably will be prosecuted on escape charges, said U.S. Attorney Robert King. Both Miss Moore and Miss Martino were serving life sentences. Miss Martino was convicted of conspiracy to commit murder on a government reservation in the contract slaying of a Fort Bragg, N.C., soldier.

Miss Moore, who would have been eligible for parole in 1985, said her escape was prompted in part by her concern for fellow prisoners.

SEC Urges Change In Securities Field and Exchange Commission has an-nounced it will take no enforcement action on a 1977 staff report accusing New York City officials, major banks and others of misleading the investing public.

The seven-volume report released in August 1977, charged that then-Mayor
Abraham Beame, City Comptroller Harrison Goldin, six big banks, the brokerage firm of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, and the Moody's and Standard Poor's bond-rating firms had failed in their obligations to let investors know of the city's financial plight in late 1974 and

The SEC said in a final report on the matter this week that "in the present circumstances ... the commission believes that enforcement proceedings should not be instituted."

Instead, the 27-page report recom-mended "legislative solutions to the complex problems existing in the municipal securities field."

Noting that there is no system of regulation of the sale of municipal securities comparable to the system established for corporate securities by the federal securities law," the report called for legis-lation to standardize the methods by which municipalities prepare their accounts and make financial information

Ford Denies FTC Contention

WASHINGTON (AP) - Ford Motor Co. is defending itself in a major automobile-defect case by saying the problem can also occur in the products of its competitors, General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp.

Federal Trade Commission lawyers charged Ford last November with manufacturing up to 1.8 million cars that experience premature wear to camshafts and rocker arms. Repairs to correct the problem cost $226 for each car, the government attorneys said.

In its response filed with the FTC. Ford said it is being unfairly singled out from the rest of the auto industry. Any problem "has occurred in engine families of other automobile manufacturers as well," the No. 2 automaker said.

Ford denied the government contention that the problem is a manufacturing defect. The premature engine wear can come because of oil that might be used in the cars after purchase, Ford said, adding that the problem also can appear in cars made by General Motors and Chrys-

Ford did not say how many cars built by GM and Chrysler might be subject to the problem.

According to the FTC staff, the premature wear occurs in many of the 1.8 million Ford vehicles manufactured from 1974 to 1978 with four-cylinder, 2.3-liter engines. This is one of Ford's most popular engines, used in such cars as the Pinto, Mustang, Capri and Bobcat. Ford told the FTC, "In early 1974 Gen-

New Day Dawns In Bookkeeping

DENVER (AP) - A new day has dawned in Denver.

Literally. It's the idea of City Auditor Johnny Dee, who needed an extra day to pay

So Dee revised the calender used by his office last year, adding the unfamiliar date of Dec. 32.

The reason, according to an aide, was to achieve tidy bookkeeping. When Dec. 31 rolls around and the city balances its books, the aide said, there are still some bills outstanding that haven't arrived in the auditor's office.

With the addition of the extra day, the bills can be credited to the proper year even if they arrive a bit late.

can Society of Testing and Materials to evidence of abnormal wear and announced a crash program to develop a new wear test."

Ford also said that Chrysler reported wear with certain oils in 1976.

The Ford legal response said GM sent a service bulletin to its dealers last April advising them not to use certain oils in gasoline engines. The GM bulletin is quoted as saying, "Possibly, at some future date, adequate wear protection performance can be satisfactorily included in a new engine oil category which will satisfy most types of gasoline and diesel

After the government accusation last November about the premature camshaft and rocker arm wear, Ford agreed to tell owners of the 1.8 million cars they could get free repairs. The repair program had been available earlier but the manufacturer did not tell car owners that it was available until after the FTC case.

"Ford's adjustment program for camshaft-rocker arm wear is a fair, effective and responsible way of correcting this condition when it occurs," the company's response to the allegations said.

Ford contended its competitors "generally have no comparable program for this type of condition."

The Ford case is awaiting trial before an administrative law judge in a test of the FTC powers in automobile-defect cases. Observers feel that if the government wins the case, similar cases are likely to be started against other auto-

The way Texas Tech jumped out in front of SMU Tuesday night, it appeared only a good tatooing between the eyes with a crowbar could possibly stop the Raider onslaught.

But a silly thing happened on the way to the rout - namely a determined SMU squad, which never said die.

"We looked pretty good the second half," said SMU head coach Sonny Allen after his Mustangs had almost pulled off a startling comeback over the final 20 minutes before falling 66-60.

Tech coach Gerald Myers, looking a little drained from the ordeal, agreed. And wholeheartedly. "SMU made a great comeback," he explained.

Sports Wednesday, Feb 7, 1979 and it wasn't that we were playing all that terrible. . . they attacked our defense and broke it down,

"SMU showed patience when they had to. They played good defense and you have just got to give them credit." Although during one stretch the Raiders were outscored 25-4, Myers did not ter who ended the first 20 minutes with 10 points — the Raiders appeared in com-plete control of the game when they roared out of the gate to start the second half and scored 6 unanswered points.

The surge, which was paced by a pair of 20-foot jumpers by Geoff Huston and Kent Williams and a long-distance shot by Jeff Taylor, gave Tech its largest lead of the game, 18 points.

But then SMU, which hasn't won in the Coliseum since 1974 but still managed to stun the Raiders 69-65 earlier in the season in Dallas, started rolling.

This time it was SMU's big man, Brad Branson who took control, scoring 10 of his 18 total points during the 12-minute stretch — probably known now by Myers as the dirty dozen minutes.

Pony Mark Davis canned a layup after Phil Hale fed him the ball after managing to steal it from Huston. The bucket gave SMU its first lead of the game 47-46.

The two teams then traded turns holding the lead, before Tech's Ben Hill hit a 16-footer with 1:32 left to put the Raiders on top to stay 58-56.

Williams, Tech's leading scorer with 14 points — Hill and Taylor both added 13 each - came on strong in the free-throwing shooting department, hitting the Raiders' final 6 points from the line.

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Edward Garza, a senior at Dunbar High School, has the spirit that epitomizes the regional Golden Gloves Boxing Tournament that begins tonight in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

"I just like to experience all kinds of sports," said Garza Tuesday afternoon at the official weigh-in for all boxers. But last year Garza also had an opportunity to experience a little pain when he competed in the tourney.

"I was doing real good in the finals," he recounted. "I'd knocked my opponent down once, but then I just kind of walked into a punch. I got hit right in the nose and it swelled up real big - I thought it was broken.'

The referee gave Garza the standing eight count but on the count of three Garza left the ring. So he had to settle for second place in the novice division's bantamweight class. Steve English won the (English) again,' said Garza. "I've just got to keep my face away from him, but I don't know how I'm going to do it."

But Garza is fighting in the novice division - which means even if he wins the tournament he won't go on to the state meet in Fort Worth. Only those fighters competing in the open division will have a shot at the state meet.

"No, I don't want to do this for a career," said Garza with a laugh. "But this is fun."

The action opens each night with the Pee Wee matches and between 25 and 30 fights will take place each night, GG officials reported.

There are 11 different divisions ranging from the light flyweight to the heavyweight. After the Pee Wee's there are four other brackets - the open, novice, junior novice and high school.

It is in the open class - for anyone between 16 and 25 years of age - that the serious fighters compete. Generally only the experienced fighters choose this class, but it is open to anyone.

The high school class gives local area athletes opportunities to represent their schools in the competition. A trophy will be awarded to the school that has the most success in this division.

"The high school division just gives the person a chance to see if he likes boxing and if he would like to continue," said Ernest Eubanks, director of the tourney.

In the open division there will be several athletes who have a chance to compete

Matador Speedster To Sign At SMU Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Now that the football season is over, the only injury Estacado Gefensive end Steve Wright is suffering from is being out of shape. Wright admits his problem has occurred from sitting around too much like answering questions from the press during interviews. Anyways, Wright has something important to say. The 6-2, 205-pound Matador defensive end has made a commitment to play college football at SMU. 'Mustang Mania' weighed a little in my decision," said Wright. "But mainly, I chose SMU because its on the verge of being a national contender. They also have a good academic department. NCAA rules prohibit the SMU coaching staff from commenting on Wright's decision until the recruit has been signed. The Southwest Conference letter signing date is next Wednesday. National letters may be inked Feb. 21.

The Mustangs are recruiting Wright as an outside linebacker. SMU's defense only consists of three-down linemen.

'I'm going to have to adjust of not playing a down lineman," said Wright. In SMU's defensive system, one line backer rushes the passer while the other two drop back to cover passes."

Wright believes the main reason the Mustangs recruited him was for speed. The 205-pound senior runs a 4.7 in the 40-

"What I have to work on is getting pursuing blockers out of my chest," replied Wright. "Last year, I was able to make a lot of tackles, but I let offensive

Queens Topple Tech

Wayland Baptist, 14-5 and ranked seventh in the nation, overcame a six-point halftime deficit to nail the Texas Tech women 77-59 Tuesday night.

The Queens, who had shot only 35 percent from the floor and had committed 12 first-half turnovers, turned their act around after intermission, scoring 53 points and improving their game field goal percentage mark to 46.6.

Leading that surge was all-America Jill Rankin. Held to 14 points in the first half, she exploded to wind up with 36 on the night, including a 16-of-16 performance at the foul line.

Indiana State Demands Respect

They were saying some disparaging things about the Indiana State basketball team in the newspapers. You know, the usual...a weak schedule, and all that. That made Larry Bird mad.

"He was very emotional going into the game," coach Bill Hodges said about the pre-game scene before Tuesday night's Missouri Valley Conference contest with

Although Hodges stressed that "I don't prefer our guys to be that way," it didn't seem to do Bird any harm. The leading man of the Sycamore cast scored 33 points to power the nation's secondranked team to a 100-79 victory over the

"The team was very high," said Hodges, alluding to a quote in the Des Moines newspaper that said Drake had played a tougher schedule than Indiana

The Sycamores didn't really show their intensity until the second half, when they blew the game open behind their brilliant forward, who scored 20 of his points after intermission. They led by as many as 23 points at one time while coasting to their 21st straight victory.

"The problem was with our defense in the first half, not our offense," Hodges said. "It was just a lack of concentration. It was our defense in the second half that turned us around."

think we could lose. "I felt we had it under control then," added Williams. "About the only time I think we might lose a game is when we're down by 4 points with four seconds left and they have the ball."

The win left the Raiders in fourth place in the conference race with an 8-4 league mark. Tech stands 16-6 on the year.

Williams may have thought pressure shooting comes with the territory but that didn't stop Myers from praising Williams, one of the SWC's top free-throw shooters with .863 accuracy from the line. "I thought he (Williams) showed a lot of poise," said Myers. "He's the man we

Terry Duerod's 22-foot jump shot with two seconds remaining gave Detroit its upset victory over Marquette. The Warriors led by as many as 10 points three times in the first half before losing their poise and then losing the lead.

"I really hope this helps our chances," Duerod said about receiving an NCAA tournament bid. "They (Georgetown and Marquette) were both ranked and we beat them both. Fitness Replaces Team Sports

NEW YORK (AP) - With the wave of astronomical paychecks in big time competitive sports, one would imagine that most parents would be pushing their kids toward that million-dollar dream.

"Forget the books, Johnny. Grab that bat and ball and go out and play with the could well be the keynote in almost every American household

Not so, according to a national study of physical fitness habits and attitudes. Familiar American sports such as football, boxing and wrestling may be on the decline. The trend is more toward gentler exercises such as swimming, tennis, jogging, bicycling and gymnastics. While 93 percent of the parents surveyed feel it vital that their sons and daughters stay in top physical shape, "parents are least enthusiastic about their children working to become a sports star," the survey said. "Less than one in four feel it is important that their sons and daughters move in this direction. The Perrier Survey of Fitness in America, conducted by Louis Harris and Associates, Inc., was released today. It produced some interesting revelations and punctured some myths about the advantages and perils of exercise. The organization surveyed in depth 1,510 adults and an oversample of 180 runners, incorporating its findings in a 139-page report.

Conducting the press conference were New Mexico Gov. Jerry Apodoca, chairman of the President's Council on Physical Fitness; Dr. Robert Arnot, director of sports medicine for the U.S. Winter Olympics; Donna deVarona, Olympic gold medal swimmer; Harris, the pollster, and Bruce Nevins, president of Perrier-

Great Waters of France, Inc. "Ours is not a medical report, but an attitudinal one," the report stated in its introduction.

The Perrier Survey said the pursuit of physical fitness had become a national pastime, with 90 million participants in America - a growth since 1961 from 24 per cent to 59 per cent of the adult population.

The fastest growing activities, according to the report, are running and calisthenics, with more than 17 million runners and 21 million doing calisthenics. Walking continues to be the most popular exercise, drawing 34 million. There are 26 million swimming devotees, 20 million cyclists, 20 million bowlers and 14 million tennis players. The tennis figure is one-third of that claimed by tennis foun-

Only 15 per cent of adults participating in sports activities are "high actives," indulging in 306 minutes a week of vigorous exercise, the survey states. The study contradicts many popular and long-held beliefs with these findings:

• —The vast majority of people who take up sports activity do not lose weight.

Active people are as likely to smoke as the non-active.

 Parents are as anxious for their daughters to participate as their sons. · Despite the widespread medical belief that exercise helps prevent heart attacks, nearly a third of those who do not participate fear that too much exercise can enlarge the heart.

· Non-active people are inclined to consider joggers and weightlifters as the most fanatical. · Nearly half of the non-active population believe they get enough exercise from their work and home chores One of the most significant revelations, according to the study, was that smoking was more prevalent among the actives (37 percent) than the non-actives (35) and that regular exercise had little impact on weight loss and reduced sleep

The survey showed a sharp reversal of prevailing attitudes concerning women's athletic activity. There was an 89-1 percentage favoring women's participation in sports, 90-2 approving competition against members of their own sex.

But women against men? A narrow 4l percent said yes, 35 said no. Twenty-one percent said it depends on the circumstances.

Cavaliers Awarded 'Decision'

By The Associated Press

John Lambert won the second round, Campy Russell and Jim Chones took the third round and the Cleveland Cavaliers scored a technical knockout over the New Jersey Nets Tuesday night.

Lambert came off the bench and pulled down 14 of his career-high 22 rebounds in the second quarter while Russell scored 13 of his game-high 19 points in the third period and Chones sparkled with his all-round play as Cleveland surged from a 56-53 halftime deficit to a 92-73 lead.

Two baskets by Russell put Cleveland on top to stay 65-62 early in the third period and then came the TKO - the Nets were hit with three quick technical fouls, one on Bernard King, one on coach Kevin Loughery and one on Jan van Breda Kolff. Bingo Smith hit all three technicals for a six-point Cleveland lead and the 119-100 rout was on.

A 39-17 third quarter was the key in Cleveland's triumph over New Jersey, which ended the Cavaliers' four-game losing streak and handed the Nets their fifth consecutive setback.

"That was simply an excellent third quarter," said coach Bill Fitch. "Sweets (Chones) probably had his best quarter in the third quarter, playing defense, get-ting rebounds and the rest of his game. The reason for that was he was pretty rested. John gave him a good rest in the second period.

That's one of the best nights rebounding I've ever had," said Lambert, who also scored 11 points. "I guess I had 14 rebounds in the second quarter, and when I came back in in the second half I really wanted a few more.

Blazers 110, Suns 93 Guards Lionel Hollins and Ron Brewer

combined for 48 points while a tenacious Portland defense kept Phoenix off balance after the Suns had averaged 136 points in their previous eight games. Hollins led all scorers with 27 points, Brewer added 21 and Tom Owens 20 as Portland increased its homecourt record to 21-5.

Knicks 108, SuperSonics 99-Mike Glenn tied his career high with 25 points as the Knicks posted their third straight victory. Glenn scored nine points in the final period, including a threepoint play that capped a late 11-2 burst. New York also got 25 points from Bob McAdoo as Seattle lost for only the second time in 10 games.

Mike Dunleavy scored 11 points in the fourth quarter as Houston snapped a four-game losing streak. Dunleavy, who finished with 18 points, teamed with Moses Malone to help Houston pull away in the final three minutes. Malone had 21 points and 11 rebounds as the Rockets won for only the second time in their last seven games

Lakers 119, Spurs 111 Jamaal Wilkes scored six points in overtime after Los Angeles came from far behind. The Lakers, who had trailed by as many as 16 points, were behind 99-95 with two minutes to play but Kareen Abdul Jabbar scored six of his 32 points, the last a 10-foot book shot with 15 seconds left, to send the game into overtime. In the overtime, Wilkes and Abdul-Jabhar hit consecutive baskets to put the Lakers ahead 111-107, then Wilkes scored four more points to insure the victory. George Gervin led San Antonio with 31

Hawks 104, Celtics 101 John Drew scored 23 points, including a key layup with 12 seconds left, as Atlanta held on to beat Boston. The Celtics led until midway through the third quarter when Atlanta's Steve Hawes tied it 65-65 with a tip-in. The lead seesawed after that until the final minutes. Bulls 110, Pacers 107 Artis Gilmore scored 21 points to lead seven Bulls in double figures. Wilbur Holland and John Mengelt each scored 16 points for Chicago and Reggie Theus and Mark Landsberger added 15 apiece. Mark Landsberger added 15 apiece. Johnny Davis led Indiana with 22.

The shortest cast of the years, excepting "The Secret Life of Plants," of course, was "Bully!" James Whitmore's one-man show of Teddy Roosevelt.

"Coming Home," which may collects Oscars for best picture, best actor (Jon Voight) and best actress (Jane Fonda)

Some of the listings pique curiosity if not a burning desire to see the films. For instance "The Alaska Story." A remake of "Nanook of the North?" A story of Russian perfidy in the whaling grounds? An Eskimo love story perhaps?

One's curiosity is not satisfied by scrutinizing the cast of "The Alaska Story": Kinya Kitaoji, Kyoko Mitsubayashi, Eji

ers, for instance, to see the following:
"The Bad News Bears Go to Japan",
"Silver Bears," "Comes a Horseman,"
"The Deer Hunter," "Here Come the Tigers," "Stingray," "National Lampoon's Animal House," "Rabbit Test," "Revenge of the Pink Panther" and "The Wild Geese."

None was remotely concerned with the film genre. Once such is "Captain Lust & Pirate Women" which, based on its title, might merit an "X" rating, thus making it ineligible for Academy consideration.

Madness was a popular subject in Asia
this year. HsuiHsien and Chen-Chi Lin headed the cast of "The Mad Love Chase." "The Mad Monk" featured Feng Yeh and Yin-Yin Shaw (who, you will remember, also starred in "Starlets for Sale"). And "The Mad Monk Strikes Again" with Ping Hsia added to the cast.

NEW YORK (UPI) - On series television, your basic black roles are confined to two types - sitcom stars and second banana heroes.

Poetry on television? Nowhere. Now PBS will broadcast "Langston!" tonight at 8:30 p.m. Central time (check local listings). The show features the works of black poet Langston Hughes, as presented by David Scott, a 32-year-old Georgia legislator whose credentials are peculiar, considering his task, but whose moving, evocative production offers a view of black culture seldom seen by white America.

Or, for that matter, black America. Scott, who was born on a small farm near Gaynor in Horry County, S.C. ("the poorest county in South Carolina"), grew up in Scarsdale, N.Y., earned his B.A. from Florida A&M, and wound up with an MBA from the prestigious Wharton School of Finance at the University of

"I worked my way through - you name it - I shined shoes in front of the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, I bussed tables and picked up garbage in Florida. And for six-and-a-half years I've dreamed of this - the first national television program on an American black writer," Scott said in an interview.

The picture of black life, the concept that black is beautiful, the imagery and bittersweet vitality that Hughes brings to life, all are a far cry from "The Jeffersons" or "Sanford & Son."

"'The Jeffersons' and 'Good Times' and the other shows have come in for their share of criticism," Scott said in an interview, "but I think we ought to thank Norman Lear and those guys. They gave jobs to black actors and to have black people working is good. But there also must be an opportunity for black writers and black creators to develop the black experience in America for television."

Scott talked the Coca Cola company into agreeing - and helping to underwrite promotion for "Langston!" One of the show's biggest boosters is baseball hero Hank Aaron, now vice president of the Atlanta Braves, who accompanied Scott

"We're a lot of other things besides clowns," Aaron said. "I think black kids, and whites, too, should know the greatness of black Americans and what they have stood for down through the years.

"I think the show David has created gives blacks an opportunity to see that there is more to black people besides just clowning around. There's a lot left to be done, a lot needs to be told. Take even Jackie Robinson. The younger generation coming along now is forgetting. He needs to be recreated on film to show that we do have heroes."

New London Play Proves Truth More Harrowing Than Fiction

By GREGORY JENSEN LONDON (UPI) - An absorbing play

new to London's stage demonstrates that truth may not always be stranger than fiction, but is usually more harrowing.

"Mary Barnes" is the play's name, and the real Mary Barnes was in the firstnight audience at the Royal Court theater to watch her own searing "Journey Through Madness."

That phrase is in the title of a book she wrote with American psychotherapist Jo-seph Berke about her treatment in a psychiatric commune led by R. D. Laing, who was not so famous then as he is now.

Playwright David Edgar has dramatized her true story, not into a documentary but as an often chilling play.

As it opens, a few wild individualists drift into a scruffy London house and set up joint housekeeping. Slowly it dawns that these people are psychiatrists. The nurse who settles briskly into an upstairs room launches without warning into an astonishing tirade, and it becomes apparent that she is the chief patient, Mary Barnes.

The wildly unconventional mental health center which emerges was designed to treat severe cases of schizophrenia without the conventional reliance on drugs or electric shock treatLaing's "supportive" care, it seems, in-volved letting patients do anything they wanted, no matter how disruptive or downright infuriating that might be. What Mary Barnes wanted was to be re-born, and so wipe out her unhappy

We watch her go back to the womb, curled like a fetus and demanding to be fed through tubes. Her screaming tantrums, impossible demands and outrageous behavior soon dominate the play as she came to dominate the commun

With Berke as her special guide, Mary relives the whole process of growing up. By the time Laing's experimental commune broke up, she could not only help herself but help others. She lives today in a country cottage, exhibiting her paintings and writing a second book.

The truth of this success story is one thing which keeps "Mary Barnes" from being just another look at a fictional coo-

But "Mary Barnes" is also lifted out of the ordinary by the sight of psychiatrists, those infallible modern gods, adrift and groping their way. Laing and his psychiatrists knew what they were against — drugs, electric shock, mind-destroying lobotomies, coercion of any sort —in the treatment of the mentally ill. They were less sure what they were for, or how to reach it. Beyond all question, however, Edgar's three-hour play displays some truly outstanding acting.

cornerstone."

A look at NBC's plan to climb out from under the rubble of recent seasons:

Monday night is one evening in which NBC has something resembling a sturdy cornerstone, the quality family show "Little House on the Prarie." But instead of using that to lead into a weekly series, NBC is leaving the rest of Monday evening to "Big Event," a collection of madefor-TV movies and the like.

Tuesday presents no such possibilities

Tuesday presents no such possibilities for the network. The evening has been owned by ABC for years, with "Happy Days" and "Laverne and Shirley" starting the evening. NBC is trying to grab some of that audience with "Cliffhan-gers," a TV version of "Perils of Pauline" movie serials which will feature three continuing stories in its weekly hour. NBC will follow this with a movie.

Wednesday brings the goofiest of NBC's new shows, "Supertrain," aimed at derailing ABC's "Eight is Enough." "Supertrain" has been called "Love Boat' on Wheels" and "Silvermantrain" because it was so obviously inspired by the Silverman success "Love Boat" at ABC. An eccentric billionaire builds a huge, 200-mile-per-hour atomic train that travels coast-to-coast while guest stars make drama inside. Uniform Liability Laws Urged

By KATHY BURNS WASHINGTON (UPI) — After almost three years of hearings, surveys and a deluge of comment, the Commerce Department task force on product liability has drafted a model law to encourage uniform liability laws at the state level.

Adoption of the measure will be sought through state legislatures rather than the content of the measure will be sought through state legislatures rather than through the Congress. Victor Schwartz, chairman of the task force and a former law professor, said confusion has arisen over product liability since each state devises its own laws and each judge and jury determine the benalties for violating those laws. "There are 51 jurisdictions (50 states and the District of Columbia) each going Iheir own way," he said, "and rate setting (for insurance) is on the basis of country-wide experience," not individual

"If the states voluntarily adopt this (model law) or if you get a consensus, you'll be able to achieve what is needed, which is uniformity in key areas,"

Schwartz said. Among the major thrusts proposed by Schwartz in the draft bill are:

- A 10-year standard of "safe life" for product for which a manufacturer can e held responsible. - A statute of limitations requiring the njured party to submit a claim within three years of the injury.

 Placing the burden of proof on the party alleging injury to show that the manufacturer failed to give adequate varning of the product's hazards, or that the manufacturer knew the product was unsafe and still kept it on the market.

- Permitting compliance with government standards to serve as a defense for the manufacturer, within various guide-

On Dec. 23, Chagra died in his new lowntown office from a single 22-caliber sistol shot. Had he died in the street, Hings in this border city would be a lot nore quiet.

A court of inquiry that concluded Monday has sidetracked the investigation of chagra's death by a police department that is sometimes the butt of jokes because of its implied ineptness. Chagra, a flamboyant lawyer who gambled and declared his winnings as income, specialized in drug cases. Members of the El Paso Bar have expressed their dismay that police at the crime scene went through lawyer-client files the lawyers consider privileged.

The court of inquiry was convened last seek by State District Judge Woodrow Wilson Bean II, who concluded there Pere criminal violations during the polee search and that they "disturb the

Gov. Ella Grasso of Connecticut vetoed her state's attempt at liability legislation, saying it would not solve the problem. "She was absolutely right," Schwartz said. "Unless all the laws are alike, rate brokers don't take them into considera-

Schwartz said Vermont handled its product liability problems related to skiing in that state by passing an assumption of risk law. Each prospective skier must be warned of the inherent risk.

The same solution, however, does not work for most other products and services, Schwartz said. "If you have a Vermont manufacturer who makes maple syrup' probably the people who use it most aren't in Vermont," he said. Thus an injury from the syrup bottled in Vermont could occur anywhere in the coun-

Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps has written to the governors of each state seeking support for the draft bill. She also has contacted each state's judiciary committee and legislative council.

After the March 1 deadline for comments on the model bill, Schwartz said his office hopes to revise the draft and publish a final version of the product liability bill by June.
