U.S. Seeks Ties With Khomeini

to work with them."

Carter said the administration has been in contact with the Ayatollah Khomeini's designated prime minister, Mehdi Bezargan, and that the new Iranian government was "very helpful in ensuring the safety of Americans."

The president also said he would consider inviting Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin to another summit conference in the United States if there is any sign of "flexibility" in their positions on an Egypt-Israel peace treaty.

Israel peace treaty.

Carter said a summit meeting might be considered if the upcoming negotiations between Egyptian and Israeli ministers "is not completely successful." He added that he might meet briefly with the ministers, scheduled to begin discussions at Camp

"The reality of having a Mideast peace settlement is one of my fondest hopes and dreams and my greatest commitment," Carter declared.

Carter declared.

The president told a nationally broadcast news conference that "I see continued hope for very productive and peaceful cooperation with the new government of Iran."

Meeting reporters hours after followers of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini took control of the government of Iran, Carter said "our objective has been and is a stable and independent Iran which maintains good relations with America."

As for the effect of the takeover on U.S. oil supplies, Carter said the situation "is not a crisis, but it certainly could get works."

If Iranian production, which once accounted for 900,000 bar rels a day of U.S. oil imports, is not resumed shortly, he said, the situation "would require additional measures."

The administration is considering such conservation measures as forcing gasoline stations to close on Sundays and regulating heating and cooling levels in public and commercial buildings.

Carter said events in Iran have made it more important that Americans comply with voluntary conservation measures de-signed to save oil.

The president said "there is no immediate danger" to the United States from the current loss of 500,000 barrels of Iranian oil daily, but that world oil stocks are steadily being reduced. He supported Energy Secretary James Schlesinger's appeal for voluntary energy conservation.

At least 400,000 barrels a day of the original loss from Iran have been made up in increased imports from other nations, primarily Saudi Arabia.

Carter said public cooperation "early and on a broad-scale basis" could insure that interruption of oil supplies because of the Iranian cutoff would be brief.

On inflation, the president said the heavy, 1.3 percent increase in wholesale prices in January supported his prediction last fall that "inflation might get worse in the short run before it not heter"

it got better."

He urged Congress to approve administration legislation that would contain hospital costs and provide "wage insurance" for workers who observe his 7 percent guideline on pay increases.

For his part, Carter said, he will continue to work to reduce the federal budget deficit. "If we all do our part, we can succeed in reducing inflation step by step," he said. "I'm determined to use the full authority of my office to make this effort acceed."

Asked about the U.S. commitment to Taiwan's security, the president said he had "no intention of going to war" and "have no reason to believe" the United States would go to war to pro-

Carter said he was satisfied that "we did get the maximum possible" commitment from the People's Republic of China on the question of Taiwan's security. He said he could not accept any congressional resolution or amendment that would contradict U.S. commitments in normalizing relations with the Peking government.

He acknowledged disagreement with Chinese Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping's assessment of the Soviet Union. Declaring that both the United States and the Soviet Union are negotiating an arms control agreement in good faith, Carter said: "I don't have any inclination to condemn the Soviets as a people or a consequence."

On other matters, the president:

— Asked about his reported displeasure with some State Department officials who have aired foreign policy differences, said he welcomed policy-making advice and dissent, but that when a policy decision is made, "I expect my policy to be carried out with loyalty, with enthusiasm. ..." If a subordinate cannot carry out that policy, Carter said, his only option is to re-

Thousands of armed youths roamed Tehran threatening symbols of the monarchy and its foreign allies. Three generals were reported slain. Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini appealed to his followers for order and the surrender of thousands of looted weapons.

Khomeini's 14-year fight to convert Iran from a monarchy to an Islamic republic succeeded Sunday after two days of bloody street fighting in Tehran. The turning point came when the armed forces chief of staff ordered all troops back to their barracks and declared his support for the 78-year-old Shiite Moslem

Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar was reported to have delivered his resignation to Mehdi Bazargan, Khomeini's nominee to head a provisional government. Bakhtiar dropped out of sight, though one highly placed source said he

Khomeini condemned "arson, destruction and cruelty" and said those indulging in such "savage acts" were "disobeying Allah's orders and are traitors to the Islamic movement

The "provisional operational staff of the revolution" in a broadcast on Radio Tehran said, "All Iranian armed forces have laid down their arms and declared the armed forces."

The announcement called on the revolution's supporters "to stop surrounding barracks and government centers and not to use their weapons, except against the enemy."

An army spokesman said Gen. Abdul-Ali Badrei, a former commander of the Imperial Guard, was shot and killed as he tried to talk with a group of insurgents who surrounded the guard's barracks.

Gen. Bokrat Jafarian, the military governor of Khuzestan Province, was reported killed when his helicopter was shot down near Ahwaz. Lt. Gen. Mohammed Immortals Division of the Imperial Guard, was found shot to death early today in his Tehran home, the spokesman

Tax Office Criticized

By JEFF SOUTH Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Lubbock Property Owners Association is in a flap with local tax authorities and a state senator over implementation of the Tax Relief Amendment passed by Texas voters in November.

Leaders of the tax-revolt group have insinuated that the Lubbock city-school tax office doesn't want to give the school-tax homestead exemption mandated by the new state constitutional amendment.

D.J. Faulkner, association vice chairman, said the tax office is being "awfully quiet" about the new exemption, which is available to all homeowners regardless of age. The exemption will knock $3,000 off a home's taxable value, resulting in a savings of about $40, Faulkner said.

The catch, however, is that each homeowner must apply in writing for the exemption, said Faulkner and association president Bob Green. They said the tax office isn't doing enough the publicize the exemption-application process.

Of those on the first plane that crashed, 38 died in the accident and 10 were survivors who were gunned down by nationalist guerrillas who came to the scene of the disaster.

Following the incident, Smith's government launched punitive raids against guerrilla bases in Zambia and introduced martial law over much of Rhodesia.

Legislators Delay Interest Hike

AUSTIN (AP) - A Senate committee 1978 to a projected 13 this year, and he voted 5-1 today to take a longer look at a bill raising the maximum legal interest rate on home loans from 10 percent to 12 The vote was a victory for opponents of

A supporter of the bill, Temple Realtor A.C. Tuttle, told the economic development committee, "I know it takes a great deal of courage to support a bill like

"If the people are not educated as to its real need," Tuttle said, "your voting for this bill could cost you the next election.' Proponents claim the 10 percent ceiling on home mortgages - a limit set in 1905 - is drying up loans because savings and loan associations cannot acquire money to loan at that rate to their customers. "Home buyers would rather pay the higher interest rate than have the other option of no loan at all," said Irving McCracken, president of the Longview

Savings and Loan Association. A Lubbock builder, Sam Reyes, said the money crunch already has forced him to curtail his building from 27 homes in said the total for '79 could be reduced to seven unless the interest ceiling is raised. The Senate sponsor, Bill Meier, D-Eu-

Senate chamber for the 21/2 hour hearing. Many wore badges that included the face of a pig and statement, "Stop the greedy savings and loans." The 5-1 vote sent the bill to a subcom-

Lending institutions, which often bor-

Letter Reveals Lincoln Retired From Politics

Lincoln is remembered as a political winner, but he once retired from politics because his efforts failed to earn him a job as a bureaucrat.

He wanted to be commissioner of the General Land Office and in 1849, after campaigning vigorously for then-President Zachary Taylor and the Whig Party, he wrote a letter to a former congressional colleague asking for help in obtaining

That letter surfaced last week when a collector spotted it in a suburban Philadelphia man's collection.

It is believed to be the only request for a federal appointment that Lincoln ever made. When he didn't get the job, historians report that Lincoln retired, disappointed, to practice law for five years. He then spent six years in the Illinois Legis-

The letter, whose existence was known only to its owner until last week, is owned by John Hampton Barnes Jr., 70, a descendant of the man to whom the letter was addressed. Pittsburgh Congressman Moses Hampton was Barnes' maternal grandfather.

In the letter, dated June 1, 1849, in Charleston, Ill., Lincoln asks Hampton to Intercede in helping him get the federal used to be, empty-eyed homes where families used to live. Hurlwood, which grew from a gin to a settled community during the evolution of Reese Air Force Base, is moving over so Air Force planes can continue to fly South Plains skies. Acquisition of a clear zone, the highly hazardous 3,000 feet from the end of Reese runways, is 50 per cent complete. On March 7, another step in federal land acquisition will be taken when three houses and a barn will be sold to the highest bidder by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, which serves as real estate agent for the Air Force. All structures will be moved by the new owners.

They are the first properties, unwanted by former owners, which will be sold by sealed bid as they become available.

Nineteen tracts, a Corps representative reported, have been recommended for court action. Twelve of these have unclear titles or the owners cannot be located. The remaining seven have owners not satisfied with the "fair market value" as-

City Benefits From Drinks

More than $394,000 was spent on mixed drinks in Lubbock County during the last three months of 1978, and the City of Lubbock will benefit to the tune of $58,-397, according to figures released by State Comptroller, Bob Bullock.

Texas counties and cities will receive $4.8 million as their share of the 10 percent gross receipts tax on mixed drinks for the taxes collected in the last quarter of 1978, Bullock said.

The balance of the tax money collected - $11.8 million - will remain in the State General Revenue Fund.

Texas cities and counties receive a 15 percent rebate of the tax collected on mixed drinks sold within their boundaries under the law that legalized the sale of mixed drinks seven years ago.

More than a half-billion dollars was spent in Texas last year to buy mixed drinks, generating $65.3 million for state, county and local governments. This is $11.2 million more than was collected in

Other area cities benefiting from the mixed drink tax include Andrews, $623; Dimmitt, $811; Hereford, $827; Nazareth, $771; Childress, $446; Odessa, $24,413; Plainview, $3,324; Levelland, $689; Littlefield, $699; Slaton, $138; Midland, $19,191; Snyder, $1,697; and Brownfield, $1,260.

Area counties receiving checks from the comptroller are Cochran, $100; Cottle, $56; Crosby, $80; Dawson, $162; and Floyd, $170.

Statewide, Houston netted the largest tax rebate - $647,315 - for the last quarter of 1978. Somerville's check for $5.65 was the smallest.

The two businesses will be the major properties acquired for the clear zone, which involves 125 acres north of and 72 acres south of Reese.

Only 71 acres in the clear zone are to be purchased. The acres already being used as farmland, the only activity to be allowed in the zone, will remain as they are through easement arrangements.

High accident potential and urban encroachment were given as reasons for clear zone acquisition when the Air Installation Compatible Use Zone (AICUZ) concept was announced at Reese on June

Brig. Gen. Edward Mendel, then commander of the 64th Flying Training Wing at Reese, emphasized at the time that the zone was necessary to insure the presence of Reese on the South Plains. Other bases closed in by civilian buildup had been closed, he noted, or their mission changed. Reese, with the one mission of teaching men to fly, could not change its

The AICUZ program was instituted throughout the Air Force, Mendel said, to protect air bases vital to the nation's

Other segments of the AICUZ concept involve zones where construction should be controlled because of noise level or hazard potential.

One of the most satisfied former Hurlwood residents is an Air Force widow, Naomi Smith, who moved her home into Lubbock where the remodeled structure bears no resemblance to the old yet holds all the memories of family life.

Mrs. Smith and her husband, Master

Sgt. Dewey Smith, purchased the home in 1971 when Smith, an air controller who had come to Reese in 1968, went to Ko-

Traffic Mishap Injuries Decrease

Since the advent of the Selective Traffic Enforcement Program (STEP) in October, injuries in traffic accidents have dropped 14 percent and traffic fatalities have plummeted 61 percent, Lubbock Mayor Dirk West says.

"This decrease occurred in spite of the fact that we have 30,000 more vehicles registered in Lubbock County than we did one year ago," he said.

it's the encyclopedia for the whole family. World Book fits its language

Major articles begin with simple explanations, so that even young readers can get the basic information they want. The 24-page article on insects, for example, begins... TODAY'S EDITORIAL: The 'Ac-cost' Of Living

THE LATEST figures on the cost of living, coupled with those of the past few months, re enough not only to give the nation indiestion but nightmares.

For more than a year or more now, the umber 1 worry among most Americans has een Inflation. Close behind comes "what to do about it?" The latest figures, showing wholesale prices rising by a stunning 1.3 percent in January, only emphasize the emergency on both counts. It was the largest nonthly boost in four years.

If nothing else, the time lapse and continuld rise in cost of everything from "just" living to doing business has proven one hing: Worry alone doesn't solve problems. ot even at the White House level. Unforinately, while recognizing some of the root easons for the deepening Inflationary spial, the problem itself remains.

PRESIDENT CARTER has made much of the fact that he has pared his 1980 budget to ander $40 billion." And although he is to commended for holding the expected defat this figure, his chances of really doing soare from next to nil to minus ten.

actually, even before the President's final figures came out, big city mayors, minority groups and special interest forces were screaming over the prospects of lower federal handouts

In Congress, there was only lukewarm reception for the projected 1980 budget plans, most likely because many of those in that august body, particularly among the heavy laden Democratic majority, foresee projects of their own which will need funding.

MEANWHILE, BACK at the ranch, as it were, that much maligned Average American—the guy or gal who pays for it all —feels caught in the middle, wondering what if anything can be done.

Three things come to mind, off the cuff: 1. Write to every Congressman, urging a sharp rein on federal spending, especially in the handout area; 2. Write the White House urging the President not only to stand firm on his budget, but cut even further, 3. Move to Iran, Africa or Russia or China and let "the State" worry about it.

At the rate we are going, the only difference between Choice No. 3 and what's happening in those nations is the degree.

Over there, the decisions are being made either in the streets or at the end of a gun. Over here, it's by Big Brother and Federal edict. Isn't there a fourth choice?

'Ah Can't Take This Hot Tub Much Longer'

Ol Bureaus Ready For Boneyard

ASHINGTON—Politicians and bureaucrats at the have been prowling through President Carter proposed budget for the next fiscal year.

One of them are yelling hooray and some are yelling bloody murder, but few of them are thinking in the terms that must be thought if the federal juggernaut is ever to be restrained.

Sen. Edmund S. Musicle is the most notable exception. As chairman of the Senate Budget Com-

ames J. Kilpatrick:

sen, Edmund S. Muskle is the most notable exception. As chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, the craggy gentleman from Maine once ag in is pursuing the concept of a "sunset" bill.

Luskie has been around for 20 years. With a beautiful simplicity of perception, he understands that a federal program or agency, once created, is the nearest thing to perpetual motion ever inis purpose is to devise a mechanism that perically will provide an opportunity to give a few chickens the axe.

USKIE SPONSORED a sunset bill in the 95th gress. It passed the Senate 87-1, but it never e to a vote in the House. This time around, is 52 other senators cosponsoring the same seems likely that the bill will be written into law this year, and that Carter will sign it with genuine pleasure. The sunset approach, which requires that virtually every federal program come up every 10 years for full-scale review, is closely elated to the President's advocacy of zero-based

Why is it so fearfully difficult to get a handle on eral spending? One reason is that every year's liget is based on the budget the year before.

In the monumental task of preparing a budget for delivery every January, the budget-makers begin with the assumption that whatever was funded in 1978 is to be funded for 1979.

THERE IS no other plausible way to begin. The House and Senate committees, by the same token, proceed from last year's charts and tables to this year's charts and tables, and the threshold question rarely is asked: Should this particular function be continued at all? Instead, the prevailing practice is to haggle over details. In the process, the forest succumbs to the trees.

Muskie has the right idea. The gentleman should have been elected President long ago, and it's a pity he never was.

"Sunset attacks the notion," he says, "that government programs, once enacted, should remain forever on the books. Instead, it proposes that a program should continue only if Congress decides that it is needed and is still working well. If a program cannot meet these conditions, it goes

LET ME suggest a few sterling possibilities. It would have been a pious idea if years ago a sun-set clause had been written into the act creating the National Endowment for the Arts.

A recent article in the Washington Star unfolded a depressing account of cronyism, favoritism and personal politics in the Endowment's program of subsidies for writers, poets, editors and little magazines. The program ought to be wiped out, root and branch. A sunset review would do it.

Try another. U.S. Rep. George Hansen of Wyoming is out to abolish the Occupational Safety and Health Administration. In a washboard review of the kind Muskie has in mind, OSHA would be compelled to justify its continued existence, and the task wouldn't be easy.

Where is the convincing evidence that OSHA has worked? If such evidence can't be produced, the agency ought to be scrubbed.

ONE MORE. Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin wants to kill off the Small Business Ad-

He doesn't want to reorganize the SBA, or trim its budget by 10 percent, or reduce the number of regional offices, or fiddle around with half measures. Off with its head! The prospect merits ex-

So it goes. One wonders about the Consumer Product Safety Commission, about Action, about the bedraggled remains of the Peace Corps, about the Comprehensive Employment Training Program, about scores of silly and wasteful grants in the Office of Education, about a indred costly public relations programs in the Pentagon. Like Old Man River, they just keep rolling along.

Maybe Muskie's sunset scheme won't work in practice. Maybe the pressure groups and the af-fected bureaucrats would make such convincing cases on review that nothing ever would be abol-

But Muskie's bill would give us a fair chance to cry "halt!" That's more than we have now.

SINCE EVEN THE devil gets his due, we can do no less for Mayor Dirk West

In the four months since his traffic safety crackdown was launched, Hizzoner says, traffic fatalities have dropped to 9 from 23 for the same period the year before.

There have been 563 traffic accident injuries, he adds, compared to 666 for the comparable year-ago period.

"This traffic crackdown will continue...I am commending our police for the great job they are doing and ask them to increase even more, if possible, their constant search for bad drivers."

You can't argue with success.

Zeus Flipped Off Juice To Truce

WASHINGTON-Rand, Inc. (nee research and development), for which the term think-shop must have been invented, was founded to guide U.S. military aviation into the postwar mysteries. The corporation became known (not wholly in disparagement) as research and no development, so thick and fast were sonic waves broken and planes turned into missiles.

As realized theories leapt unborn from the forehead of the scientific Zeus, human thinkers tended to the conviction that no puzzle could long stay unresolved if bombarded by ideas.

That may be true in realms of physics and the like. But there's a limit. There always is.

RAND HAS JUST released to the "Historian" office of the Secretary of Defense, a report on the fall of South Vietnam, 1975, collected by American scholars but based on personal interviews with 27 ex-VIPS of the Saigon government.

This report, fresh from print, is almost guaranteed to leave every American eyebrow unlifted. Nothing here will surprise anybody who followed that sad-sack of a war, but there is a deserved ntary on the method of composing this

There are laboratory methods from breaking down chemicals and smashing atoms, but the brain of Zeus has a certain quality of impervious-ness. It resists the final intrusion, somewhat as the Heavenly Hereafter shuts its casements against the wisest theologian, who are left with Hamlet, skull in hand, and the bafflement of Mind, that idea of American self-interest is not ntroduced in the Rand study as belonging to JFK or the other four U.S. Presidents who were

The cell-particles that bombarded Kennedy into undertaking the conquest of that slice of south-east Asia definitely came from Southeast Asians, Chiefly, the postmortem tells us the U.S. reader that a powerful, modern, democratic republic cannot mate in wartime with peoples of contrasting culture and government.

I am willing to expend these words, and many more, to the concept that no matter what Rand can learn and impart concerning the earth, the skies, the seas and space, one hard knot in the mind of Zeus remains imperious to exploration and resistant in giving up the final secret.

Age, Sex 'n Marriage Insure Your Carriage

(First of three columns)

WITH AUTO insurance costs surging in multibillion-dollar leaps (in the face of state "no fault" laws diluted by lawmaker into farce), insurance regulators now are prodding the industry to reshuffle its rates. And the proposed changes could alter your car insurance premiums by as much as $500 annually—up or down.

As documentation, the National Assn. of Insurance Commissioners (NAIC) has just given the companies a June deadline for devising a new "rate book" for driver premiums.

Otherwise, this group of state insurance regulators warns, it may move to outlaw sex and marriage as insurance premium rating factors. These two standards-along with age, which the NAIC decided against changing—can boost your annual premium charges today from a typical $221 a year to $739, even if you drive the same car the same mileage in the same area for the same pur-

INSURANCE INDUSTRY sources are reluctant to estimate "average" annual auto insurance premiums. The range is too great, too many cars are under deductible, self-insurance, assigned risk or just plain NON-insurance programs.

Fully 15 percent of the nation's 115 million cars on the road today have no insurance at all—most in violation of the law.

of the remaining 85 percent, almost 4.5 million were under "assigned risk" plans in 1978, says the Automobile Insurance Plans Service Office in New York, up from three million a year earlier.

With only the traditional private insurance counted, our national auto insurance payments totaled nearly $25 billion in '77, against a bit more than $15 billion as recently as 1973 BUT THESE figures can be misleading, because we, as drivers, have been changing our pol-icies: increasing total coverage slightly, boosting deductibles a lot.

Total "insurance-type" payments—including corporate "self-insurance" funds and repair payments under deductible policies—are estimated at more than $40 billion annually by some sources, at least double 1973 levels!

Because of the huge number of cars in self-insured, assigned risk and "non-insured" catego-ries, it's tough to put a dollar sign on a national average policy.

State Farm Mutual, the nation's biggest auto insurer, puts its typical premium in 1978 at about $221—but it also boasts that its rates are lower than others.

UNLIKE TWO other leading companies queried, State Farm was candid about rates on its 20

Its figures show that-theoretically-"typical" remiums might range from a low of less than $100 a year in Iowa to more than $4,000 annually in Manhattan for a "muscle" car (high horse er to weight ratio) with a fiberglass body driven more than 5,200 miles a year by a single male

Most of the difference is attributed to the age/sex/marriage factors which the insurance regulators oppose. For instance, the "standard" rate for Ames, Iowa, is $160 a year, for Manhattan, $940-for comparable minimum coverage.

To the New York figure for married persons over 30, though, you must add $658 (70 percent) for that age factor; $470 (50 percent) for single marital status; and $1,081 (115 percent) because the insured is a male.

This swells the total for a comparable car to $3,149—a 235 percent surcharge—for the age/sex/marital status differences alone. These are factors you cannot (or might not want to)

The other variations are $188 extra (20 percent) for driving over 100 miles a week and commuting with the car; another $470 (50 percent) surcharge for fiberglass body on the car; an additional $235 (25 percent) for high horsepower. Total surcharge, 330 percent!

FROM THE basic "Ames area" $160 annual rate—or from the standard $940 in Manhattan, for that matter-you could subtract 15 percent if you drove less than 30 miles a week and did not commute: about 20 percent more if you had a $500 deductible clause on your collision insurance: some 1.5 percent more if you also take a $50 deductible on your comprehensive coverage; and still another 4 percent because minimum insurance requirements in Ames are less than for

The whole pattern is a crazy-quilt of confusions: conflicting standards, obsolete stereotypes, Tomorrow: How can you cut your costs?

Bhutto Manuscript 3 Pakistan Will Suffer

NEW DEHLI, India (AP) — A manuscript smuggled from the death row cell of former Pakistani Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto says if he is executed, Pakistan will be the loser.

"More than my life is at stake. Make no mistake about it, the future of Pakistan is at stake," wrote the condemned leader.

"I was born to make a nation, to serve a people, I was not born to wither away in a death cell."

Bhutto wrote that he had embe himself "too deep in the hearts of the poor of this land for others to comprehend this phenomenon," and the people of Pakistan will suffer if he is executed.

"It may sound a rotten cliche if I say that I am a household word in every home and under every roof that leaks in the rain," he wrote. "I belong to the sweat and sorrow of this land. I have an eternal bond with the people which ar-who became president.

Bhutto drew a parallel between himse and former President Nixon, claimi both were ousted because the "intelli

Callaghan and his Cabinet are trying to work out some kind of pact with the Trades Union Congress, the equivalent of America's AFL-CIO. The government hopes to moderate pay demands, head hopes to moderate pay demands, head off industrial chaos and salvage Labor's dwindling chances of winning the general election due before its term expires in October

Some kind of formula is expected to be announced later this week, but political and industry sources say it is not likely to end the militant campaigns by British workers.

Callaghan has been widely criticized for not being tougher with strikers and Labor's popularity has suffered for it in re-cent weeks.

Burial will follow in Plainview Memorial Park under the direction of Wood-

A county medical examiner pronounced Ulmer dead at the scene of the 3 p.m. crash, which occurred about 15 miles south of Liberal, Kan., in Beaver County, Okla.

Ulmer and three other pilots were flying four planes in formation from the Bellanca aircraft factory in Alexandria, Minn. to Plainview.

Federal Aviation Agency flight service team supervisor Ron Lacy in Amarillo said the pilot of the other aircraft involved in the collision landed safely at

According to Oklahoma Highway Patrol reports, the four planes were maintaining radio and visual contact and were traveling in the same direction and at the

One of the pilots, Scottie Haley of Plainview, told authorities he had lost visual contact with at least one of the planes and was worried but continued to Reports show the Ulmer plane suddenly appeared directly in front of Haley's plane and was ascending. Haley said he took evasive action by climbing at a sharp rate. However, the two planes collided, with the impact sending the Ulmer plane crashing into a muddy wheat field.

Lacy said the two remaining planes cir-cled the crash site while Oklahoma Highway Patrol units located it. Then the other planes also landed at Borger.

Prospective Cuevas Iurors Ouestioned

HOUSTON (AP) - Jury selection began today for a second trial of Ignacio Cuevas, the lone convict survivor of the 1974 Texas prison siege that left two hostages and two convicts dead.

A group of 12 prospective jurors report-ed to the court of State District Judge Miron Love to be questioned individually by prosecutors and defense lawyers.

Cuevas received a death sentence in 1975 for his role in the siege and escape shootout but the verdict was reversed by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals on grounds Love erred in refusing to grant a defense challenge of a prospective juror.

Canadian Family Suffers From Mysterious Allergy

The house, scheduled for completion this spring, has become a necessity.

Dr. John Maclennan, who has devoted his entire practice to diagnosing and treating allergic patients, says the Smalls are a classic example of a growing number of people afflicted by the plastic and polluted modern-day environment.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Superman's X-ray vision, flying ability and other powers may eliminate his need for most modern inventions, but he at least owes a debt to the work of Thomas Watson.

You remember Watson. He was made famous by Alexander Graham Bell's remark: "Mr. Watson, come here, I want landing him in the National Inventor's Hall of Fame, where Inventors Day is being marked Sunday.

Watson may seem less famous, but his work involved more than just taking calls from Bell. He invented the phone booth. Bell, of course, invented the telephone, Not everyone uses a phone booth to change into a caped crusader outfit, but most are still benefitted by the work of inventors.

> The Inventors Day exhibits include a robot lawn mower, stop smoking ash-trays, heat convection devices, luminescent writing paper, solar energy devices and a host of other items.

More than 100,000 applications are made to the U.S. Patent Office yearly, and in 1977 — the last year for which a tally is completed — 72,832 patents were granted for new inventions. The number of patents varies each year, said the patent office's Oscar Masden, ranging from 86,000 in 1972 to 70,000 in 1970.

Patents are granted only for applied technology, not scientific principles. For example, Albert Einstein did his most famous work in theoretical physics. His patents, however, are on a self-adjusting camera and a refrigeration system.

The intent of a patent is to give the inventor some protection for his work. It allows the patent holder exclusive use of the invention for 17 years. He can license others to use it during that time.

This provides inventors with income and incentive to do research, while getting their work on the public record.

A patent must include enough information to allow a skilled person to duplicate the invention, and this allows others a wider base of information for future inventions.

From 1790 until World War II this seems to have worked just fine, with most inventors working privately or for business, and receiving patent protec-tion. But recently more research money has from government, leading to conflict

Howard W. Bremer of the University of Wisconsin reports that various government agencies and departments have some 22 different patent policies ranging from the "title" to the "license" policy.

Meanwhile, only last year the struggle to obtain patent protection in other countries was eased slightly. A new law allows an inventor to make one application listing the countries in which he wants protection, instead of applying to each indi-where.

President Carter's proclamation of Inventors Day noted this is the 100th anniversary of Thomas Edison's invention of the electric light.

Edison, the all-time inventing champ with more than 1,000 patents, was the first person honored in the National Inventor's Hall of Fame when it was established at the patent office in 1973.

while that was the first U.S. patent, individual states and colonies issued earlie patents, dating back to 1641 when Samue Winslow was granted a Massachunetts patent for a novel method of making salt

Being added to the hall of fame this year are rocket pioneer Robert R. Goddard, computer expert Jay W. Forrester, and Charles J. Plank and Edward J. Rosinski, who developed a system for making gasoline. In addition Barbara S. Askins of the National Aeronautics and Space Adminis-tration is being honored as the 1978 In-ventor of the Year. She developed a system for improving the image on sever underexposed photographic film.

GM Drawing Only Lukewarm Interest From U.S. Investors

NEW YORK (AP) - At first glance, the company looks like it might be an interesting investment.

According to its the quarterly report it issued on Feb. 5, it's making money at the rate of $11 million a day, seven days a week. Its profits for the fourth quarter and for all of last year set records.

It has a long record of leadership in its industry, and recently it has chalked up significant gains over its domestic competitors in its share of the vast U.S. mar-

On top of all that, its stock, based on dividends paid in the last 12 months, is yielding better than 10 percent.

As it turns out, though, the company General Motors Corp. — is drawing only lukewarm interest, at best, from the nation's investors these days.

GM shares, and those of the other leading auto manufacturers, have trailed consistently behind the market averages for the past several years.

GM stock, in the mid-50s lately, has been hovering around its lowest levels since the early 1960s, except for the severe drop it took in the bear market of

When the company announced its fourth-quarter earnings of more than $1 billion early last week, Wall Street seemed to respond with a resounding yawn. The stock dropped % Monday and "rallied" % of a point the following day.

There are, of course, some fundamental reasons why auto stocks are selling at tail-fin-era prices: The energy crisis and increased competition from foreign car makers, to name two of the most widely publicized.

The record volume of total car and truck sales in this country last year may have come as a pleasant surprise to some investors.

But their enthusiasm was evidently tempered by doubts about prospects from here on out, on the presumption that at some point debt-laden consumers are going to have to cut back their spend-

The year 1978 has faded into history, and the decline in new car sales that we had been predicting throughout the year never materialized," Harvey E. Heinbach, auto analyst at Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, said in his latest bi-monthly research report.

"We failed to foresee that in response to inflation, the consumer would step up his purchases of big-ticket items rather than pull back, as he historically had.

"Could demand remain strong in 1979? Yes, but we don't think it will. If we are right, auto sales will be turning down significantly in 1979, possibly by the second quarter.

"If we are wrong and inflation expectations are not reversed, sales can remain strong awhile longer. But this would only postpone and amplify the correction in consumer purchases and in the economy as a whole

Heinbach said that in past cycles auto stocks have tended to start showing an improved performance relative to the over-all stock market about the time that auto sales are ending a decline and start-

On that basis, he said he would want to see some evidence that a decline in car sales has started before considering taking a more positive view of the auto stocks' prospects.

"The sooner that downturn takes place. the sooner we will adopt more favorable investment opinions on the stocks," he

M1, the "basic" money supply, is the money the public has available to spend in cash and demand deposits, or checking accounts, in commercial banks. M1 now averages around $360 billion and if the public suddenly decided to go on a spend-ing spree it could dramatically accelerate

M2 is the "broader" money supply and includes some private savings accounts and time deposits. Miller said the Fed is in the process of

"redefining" the monetary aggregates and hopes to come up with a figure that will more accurately reflect economic reality. M1-plus, which includes a variety of accounts in various savings banks and thrift institutions, is a step in that direction - a step many economists feel is

Nancy Teeters, newest member of the Board, said recently in reference to Fed efforts that "when you have two sets of contradictions forms." contradictory figures either something is missing or something is wrong."

For example, M1 has been slightly lower compared with last fall and at the last reporting week showed a minus 2 percent growth rate in the statistical quarter. This should indicate either that the public has less cash to spend or is stash away in longer-term savings accour ic is spending at a good clip.

"We think the economic numbers are more meaningful than the money supply said Leonard Santow, economist for J. Henry Schroder Banking Co.

"There are factors that are holding the money figures down. At one time when planned to spend more money such as for the holidays, they would build up checking account balances. Now the public is keeping checking account and passbook savings account balances at bare minimum and buying with credit cards," Santow said.

"Some money stripped from checking and savings accounts is being used to buy consumer goods — but some of it has been used to invest more aggressively."

Santow said the publicity surrounding the six-month savings certificates has made the consumer aware "perhaps for the first time, that he doesn't have to let his money sit in a checking account or savings account for 5 percent. With a relatively small amount to invest he can realize a far greater return.

Another factor that has distorted M1 is the so-called NOW accounts, in effect checking accounts, offered by thrift institutions. This factor is partly measured in M1-plus.

"But the Fed still has a problem with inaccurate data," according to David M. Jones, economist for Aubrey G. Lanston & Co. "Even M1-plus doesn't account for all the money available to the public in thrift institutions and in credit unions and the like."

The Fed has long maintained that the weekly money supply figures are mean-ingless. The central bank claims they are distorted by weather and other factors and that it takes several weeks to estab-

Jackson Predicting Allocation Of Fuel

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans won't need rationing stamps to fill up at the gas station, says a leading Senate energy expert who predicts that other fuel tion measures are not far off, how-round of Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty talks will begin Feb. 21 at Camp David, Md. It could be the last American attempt at driving the two sides into removing obstacles to completing their historic agreement.

Acceptances to invitations have been received from Egyptian Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil and Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance will be host for the talks at the snow-capped Catoctin Mountain site where President Carter and leaders of the two Middle East nations last September hammered out two framework agreements.

With the negotiations deadlocked over n and other issues, Carter has suggested that unless a treaty is quickly completed, U.S. diplomatic efforts will shift to other world trouble spots. This could mean tossing the con-flict into the lap of the United Nations or trying to set up a broader peace conference involving other Arab countries and possibly the Soviet Union.

American officials, disclosing the start-ing date, could not predict how long this nd of negotiations would last. Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin said day there would be a recess so Dayan and Khalil can consult their governments, indicating the talks would lastlonger than the three or four days origi-nally planned.

In an interview, the Washington Democrat said the cutoff of oil from politically troubled Iran was forcing the United States to take strong steps to conserve fuel.

"There isn't any question that we will have to shortly undertake a program of allocations." he said. "It will start out with a prohibition on the sale of gasoline on Sundays. No doubt about it in my Jackson's observations came on the heels of Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger's Senate testimony last week that the Iranian oil situation is "prospectively more serious" than the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo. His pessimistic assessment was blamed for a decline in stock market prices and a sharp drop in the value of the dollar on foreign exchanges.

climb to $1 a gallon in a year.

Iran formerly provided about 5 percent of the U.S. oil supply or about 900,000 barrels a day.

Schlesinger said in his testimony the Carter administration was hopeful that voluntary fuel conservation would solve the problem. At the same time, he said, officials are studying a package of mandatory controls. A decision is expected to be made by April 1 whether to impose the controls.

But, Jackson said, "the earlier we start to conserve, the less traumatic it will be for the American people. The American people, I think, certainly should be told by the president, in no uncertain terms, but the problem is, I think, the president should tell it like it is."

The vulnerability of the oil-producing states in the Persian Gulf area was also raised in light of events in Iran.

Whether the U.S. economy is damaged seriously by the Iranian cutoff depends on how much of a spillover occurs" in such nations as Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, he said.

Outside elements, such as the Palestine Liberation Organization, could curtail Saudi oil production "with a reinforced infantry company of about 250 men," he "The area is totally vulnerable, and in

The rift was detailed in a series of letters read by John Smith, a member of the LPOA board of directors.

At a Jan. 16 news conference, the LPOA accused some legislators - without naming any in particular - of dragging their feet in passing bills to enact the so-called Tax Relief Amendment, Enabling legislation is needed, for instance, to carry out the amendment's intent to exempt family cars from property taxes and abolish the widely ignored constitutional mandate to tax bank accounts and other intangible property.

Short responded with a letter urging "extreme caution" in adopting such enabling legislation.

"There can be many ramifications in that serious problems could surface if immediate enactment were to prevail. The complexity of interwoven tax subjects are unlimited," Short said.

To illustrate, he said legislation written in haste might simply shift the tax burden from the state to the local level. 'Shifting the tax burden is no relief at all," Short said.

Clements also noted that it was strange that "Mr. Carter was a peanut farmer" most of his life and is "not in tune with the farmer.

Clements said the Carter administration should quickly negotiate an oil and gas contract with Mexico, noting "he's off to a good start by leaving Mr. (Energy Secretary James R.) Schlesinger at home." Clements was referring to Carter's trip to Mexico City later this week. Clements asserted that "we are in an energy crisis right now." Clements suggested that the administration should "unfetter and turn loose and stimulate both exploration for oil and gas," stimulate all facets of coal production, and "at the same time go ahead with our nuclear plant production.'

In addition, Carter should "turn loose our research and development base in private enterprise and go ahead with the more exotic energy alternatives" such as geothermal and solar energy.

The House Agriculture Committee opens hearings Tuesday to review the nation's farm policy and proposed legislation, and members of the militant American Agriculture Movement are on the witness list for Wednesday and Thursday.

On Tuesday, the House is expected to approve its first legislation of the session, a minor measure loosening the conditions under which the government can sell rare Carson City silver dollars.

Officials say the Treasury could sell about one million coins for $20 million if current sales restrictions were lifted.

Also on Tuesday, a labor subcommittee will conduct hearings on the impact of the Carter administration's budget on the Humphrey-Hawkins Act. Approved by Congress last year, the measure calls for reducing inflation to 3 percent by 1983 and trimming unemployment to 4 per cent.

The budget also will be the topic of continuing hearings by the House Budget Committee. The panel will take testimony on Wednesday from the secretary of health, education and welfare, Joseph A.

Public Constantly Eyes Actions Of DC Police

Demonstrators supporting assorted causes gather frequently at the nation's capital to make their views known. Jefferson's troops walk a fine professional tightrope - protecting the rights of the protesters to come together and demonstrate, and the rights of the city's residents to work and live safely.

The most recent demonstration Jefferson's group encountered occurred last week, when about 25,000 members of the American Agriculture Movement, entered the city, many riding tractors and clogging traffic arteries.

To many South Plains residents, the demonstrators are friends, neighbors and family members. To the Washington police, they are just another group lobbying Early last week, the police and farmers engaged in several confrontations, some of which became violent. At least 17 vehicles were impounded and 19 farmers arrested in one day. From those confronta-tions came the charge that the police had overreacted to the farmers.

"Some people have drawn the conclusion that we overreacted," acknowledged Jefferson, who was involved in a shoving match one day. "But there have been no incidents by police that have been considered for disciplinary action. We've been handling things as they come up."

The violence subsided, and most of the tension eased as the week progressed. Jefferson said he believes the situation cooled down because "the farmers got a little more used to their new surroundings and settled down a bit."

"At first, neither side knew what to expect," he explained. "The problems were worse earlier in the week because originally there were no central leaders for the farmers.

FLOOD DEATHS

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government says 125 persons died in floods in the United States last year compared with an average of about 200 in recent years. But the 1978 figure for property damage from floods was over $1 billion, slightly above the recent average, the National Weather Service reported Sunday.

Police today were investigating the aggravated robbery of a disabled 49-yearold Lubbock man, who reportedly was robbed at gunpoint by two black men at his northside home Saturday night.

The woman caught a ride home, and then was taken to Community Hospital where she was treated for minor injuries Tony Garibaldo of 2717 Cornell St. told police that at about 11:05 p.m. he heard suffered in the car accident. It has been nearly 18 years since a Texas prison inmate died at the hands of the state but experts predict - barring a reversal on appeal - at least one of the 188 prisoners on death row will be executed within the year. A 21-year-old Fort Worth man, Bill Joe Battie, had been scheduled to die by lethal injection today. But courts last Wednesday stayed his execution along with that of Jesse Jones, 25, of Dallas, who was to die Wednesday. Even though the state's new capital punishment law took effect five years ago, the lengthy appeals process it provides has precluded any executions. Since January 1974, execution dates have come and gone - always postponed by various courts and sometimes within a very short time of the scheduled execution. But time is beginning to run out for some of the condemned men at the Texas Department of Corrections' Ellis Unit. . "I think it's going to start happening fense lawyer Mike Thornell of Houston. "If our statute is not held unconstitutional, I'm sincerely afraid there'll be an execution before June."

And the last resort for a man facing death by injection — the governor — has said he favors the death penalty. After appeals are exhausted, only Gov. Bill Clements can prevent an execution by stay or commutation of sentence.

"I don't see there being an execution any time before the next six to nine months, if all appeals are processed," Assistant Attorney General Anita Ashton said in Austin.

The last man executed in Texas was convicted Houston murderer Joseph Johnson, who was electrocuted on June 30, 1974. Since that time, the 50-year-old electric chair - "Old Sparky" - has been abandoned in favor of using lethal

Miss Ashton says there are two men currently on death row who are the most advanced in the appeals process and barring reversal on appeal, they are the most likely to be executed this year.

Jerry Lane Jurek, 28, was convicted of the murder and attempted rape of a 10year-old Cuero girl, and James Paul Burns, 25, was convicted of the robbery, homosexual rape and murder of a 70year-old man in Ector County.

'The explanation for the delays is there can be just about as many delays as there are imaginative (defense) lawyers with imaginative ideas," said Fort Worth prosecutor Jack Strickland.

Texas' new statute requires automatic appeal from the state district court of conviction to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals. From there, a case can go to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Then, an inmate can file a habeas corpus petition, challenging his incarcera-tion, in state court and take that to the highest court. If that fails, he can seek a writ of habeas corpus through the federal court system.

Defense and civil rights lawyers can and often do challenge the minutest elements of a conviction: arrest, search, confession, judge, jury selection, news coverage, rulings of the judge during trial, sentencing and other issues.

Miss Ashton said she welcomed the testing process - which resulted in voiding of the old law on grounds it allowed arbitrariness in imposing death penalties.

"I think any form of punishment must be swift and sure to be effective," she said. "However, I am very hesitant, as I think most attorneys are, to have anyone executed without having all their constitutional rights safeguarded."

Employees Oppose Program Refor

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
Avalanche-Journal Staff
A reform measure that would require universal coverage under Social Security has prompted strong oppostion from some state and federal government em-

Both the Teacher Retirement System of Texas and the American Postal Workers Union are actively fighting the move to bring federal employees and others not now covered under Social Security.

All full-time federal workers are cur-rently covered under a civil service retirement plan, while state and local governmental units have the option of participating in the Social Security program.

Leonard Prewitt, executive director of the state Teacher Retirement System, explained that state and local governmental entities were left out of the system when it was established, and then later were invited to participate on a voluntary basis.

"It's our contention that it was left optional because the federal government felt it was unconstitutional for them to force a tax on an entity of the state or local government," he said.

We question whether the Constitution has changed and whether they have the right to force it now," continued Prewitt.

The retirement system is the mandatory retirement program for all Texas Teachers, explained Tony Compton, president of Lubbock Educators Association. Each school district then has the option of supplementing the program with Social Security coverage. Lubbock teachers are not covered by Social Security.

"I think the feeling of many is that the Teacher Retirement System is sound, and they're not sure about Social Security," said Compton. "That's our fear - the future of it," he said.

Starlie Pace, president of the Hub Area Local of the American Postal Workers Union said that the universal coverage proposal is just an "attempt to bail out the Social Security system.

He said that the reform measure includes three basic options for federal employees: Social Security and the civil service plan would merge so that workers would pay into both programs; workers would be brought under Social Security only, so that future workers would not receive civil service coverage and money already paid into civil service by present employees would be taken away; or workers would continue receiving their own retirement coverage, but any Social Security benefits they gained while working previously in private industries would be taken away.

"We're against any type of merger at all," said Pace. "We have our own retirement program we've paid into."

Prewitt was also concerned about the financial consequences of mandated coverage.

"It's a matter of simple economics," he said. "The state has set up a plan and members started paying in and are pay-ing about all they can now."

"To add a compulsory Social Security tax would cost the state $230 million just for teachers and school employees. It will cause property taxes to go up in local school districts."

Prewitt also questioned whether "you can legally withdraw from a person what he's put into his career," should benefits accrued under the retirement program be taken away. "You can't take away something that was promised to them while they're working."
Prewitt said that at a recent Albuquerque, N.M., field hearing concerning So-cial Security changes, the 79 witnesses who testified were all opposed to universal coverage.

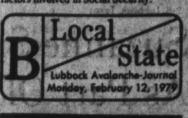

A series of hearings is being conducted across the country by a Health Education and Welfare independent study group to consider whether Social Security coverage should be mandated for all.

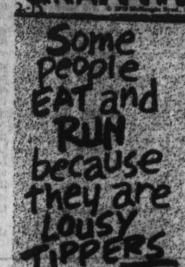

Carl Thompson, assistant manager of the Lubbock Social Security office said that the reform has been proposed be-cause "some felt it would increase the Social Security trust fund. To me it's a poor reason."

Thompson said that he sees no gains for the trust fund in the long run under the proposed expansion. "Initially, there would be more money in the fund, but later they'll come in for the benefits," he

He said that another argument for mandated coverage is that Social Security "was intended to be universal coverage so why should any one group be exclud-

Thompson pointed out that federal employees pay more into the civil service re-tirement plan, but they can draw benefits

Miss Snipes is a native of Greenville, Miss., a town on the river where her family still resides. According to Miss Snipes, the whole idea of entering the contest came about because "A friend, who is a cotton planner, sent me an application and called every three or four days until I sent it in."

At the university, Miss Snipes is majoring in communicative disorders. She is an Ole Miss scholar, on the Chancellor's Honor Roll, a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority; a Top 5 Beauty; a Navy ROTC sponsor and a fraternity little sis-

Along with the title, Miss Snipes receives a complete wardrobe of 100% cotton, all designer originals, and accessories to go with the wardrobe. She also receives a $2000 scholarship as an incentive to continue her education.

According to Miss Snipes, when she goes back to school this fall, "I'm going to start having clients in speech therapy. If I take 18 hours, I can graduate in three semesters. I hope to come to Texas to go to graduate school in audiology."

Speaking of her schedule for the weeks ahead, she said "From here I'll go to Phoenix, Bakersfield and Fresno, California; then to Canada for two weeks and to Washington for a week. I'll meet dignitaries and go to receptions and maybe meet the president, and that will be different for a little girl from Mississippi. Then we will start the overseas tour."

When traveling, Miss Snipes is accompanied by two women tour guides while in the states, and a man and a women while abroad. She also travels around with 20 pieces of luggage.

What action do you take? What action do you take?

A.—Initially your hand was nothing more than a normal bid. Now its value has increased enormously because of two developments in the auction—partner has responded in your four-card major and East's overcall suggests that partner's values are outside the spade suit, which means that those high cards will be carrying full weight. Anything less than a jump to three hearts will not do justice to your holding.

What do you bid now? A.—Since you note two aces and four-card support for partner's second suit, slam is a possibility. A bid of four clubs now would im-ply a simple preference between partner's suits, and that is not the message you wish to convey. Be more emphatic by jumping to how to speak Yellow Pages. It's a language of the 20th century, born of frustration, nurtured by bscurity, and dedicated to the theory that by the time you find it, you no onger need it. In the language of Yel-

Roaches are listed under Pest Control, exterminating and fumigating, a taco is under Mexican Food Products, a tailpipe under Mufflers and Exhaust Systems, and a pencil is under Advertising Specialists.

One of the most frustrating encounters in the Yellow Pages is trying to find a doctor, who is listed under Physicians, who are subdivided into M.D.s and D.O.s., who are also listed under Physicans and Surgeons, group, associate and corporate practice, and who aren't in anyway and whose phone is being answered by a doctor's answering service...See Physicians and Surgeons Ex-

You should begin to worry about yourself when you begin to think like the Yellow Pages. Recently, I wanted to call a flea market and caught myself just in time. Flea market would definitely not be under F, but probably under some-thing like Swap Meets. I turned to the W's and read, "See Flea Market."

I don't know what the answer is with the growth of private enterprise and the need to consolidate them under a general heading. But just for kicks I turned to "Survival Kits" and was hit with." See First Aid Supplies, Sporting Goods head-

I know this. No one will ever convince me that when Alexander Graham Bell was sitting in his Boston boardinghouse March 10, 1876, with battery acid burning his leg and shouted his first frantic message into the transmitter,"Mr. Watson, come here. I want you!" it was the despair of looking under HELP in the Yellow Pages and finding, "See batteries: Dry cell, wholesale, retail, charging and maintenance," that did it. Copyright 1979 Field Enterprises, Inc.

A colorful salad helps to brighten gray winter days, and this Tossed Fruit Slaw will become a family favorite. To two cups shredded cabbagge, add one cup diced, peeled oranges and one large Red or Golden Delicious apple, sliced. Toss together lightly. The Amazing Diet Secret Of A Desperate Housewife

My name is Nancy Pryor. I am 35 years old. I am a housewife and mother of three children. I would like to tell you something personal about myself.

One day last September I just broke down and started to cry.

I couldn't help it. I had reached my breaking point. I felt like I was going to have a nervous breakdown.

It happened one Monday morning right after I got on the bathroom scales to weigh myself. I had been on a strict diet for nearly 2 months. I had gone off the diet over the weekend to give myself a break and just to live like a normal human being for a couple of days. Now the scales said I weighed 188 pounds. I just couldn't believe it! That meant that in one lousy weekend I had more than gained back every single pound I had lost in the last 3 weeks.

Maybe this doesn't sound like a big deal to you, but to me it felt like a tragedy.

I had been trying to lose weight for the last 5½ years. I had tried liquid protein. I had tried fasting. I had tried hypnosis. I had tried exercise. I had tried sauna belts. For a while I even used dangerous diet drugs. As far as diets go I tried almost every one I heard about. The Adkins diet. The Stillman diet. The grapefruit diet. The Women's Ski Team diet. Etc. Etc. You name it—I tried it.

ALL

The results were always the same. I would struggle and struggle to lose a few pounds and then the very first time I would give myself a small break the weight would come right back on.

It had happened many times before, but somehow this time it seemed like the last straw. I didn't know where to turn or what else to try. I was about to give up.

Don't get me wrong. I don't want this to sound like a sob story. I'm not telling you all this because I want you to feel sorry for me. There is no need for that anyway. My story has a very happy ending.

My story has a happy ending because the very next day I made a discovery that has changed my entire life. I found an amazing way to lose weight that I never dreamed existed.

I am not going to tell you where I found this secret. However, I will tell you this much: I did not get this information from a doctor. I did not get this information from a diet book. I did not find this information in a magazine. I did not find this information in a newspaper. I did not get this information from any of the so-called "diet experts."

To tell the truth, I stumbled across this information totally by accident when I was looking for something else.

But all that doesn't matter. What does matter is that at last I have found an answer.

Let me tell you why I think my diet secret is so fantastic.

MELTS FAT FAST

First of all, this diet works fast. It literally burns off fat by the hour. If you go on this diet in the morning you will losing weight before lunch. You will lose weight faster on this diet than if you ran 7 miles every day. You will be able to measure the difference in your waistline in 24 to 36 hours. I think this is the fastest safe diet in the world. If you can find a diet that works faster I will buy it from you and gladly pay you good money for it.

NOHUNGER

I'll tell you a secret. You will never lose weight and keep it off on any diet that leaves you hungry. Hunger is an irresistible force. Sooner or later, willpower always gives in to hunger.

This diet brings hunger to a dead full stop. You will never be hungry. As a matter of fact, one of the unique features of this diet makes it metabolically impossible for you to experience hunger. To me, it's like heaven.

76% MORE ENERGY

This diet converts body fat to body fuel. Starting on the 5th day of this diet your energy will begin to increase dramatically. It will increase every day until the 9th day when it begins to level off. After that your energy level will stay about the same. This new energy level will probably be about 76% higher than your level is now.

"... You will lose weight faster on this diet than if you ran 7 miles every day. You will be able to measure the difference in your waist line in 24 to 36 hours. I think this is the fastest safe diet in the world. If you can find a diet that works faster I will buy it from you and gladly pay you good money for it ..."

SIMPLE AND EASY

This diet is very simple. It is easy to follow even if you eat in restaurants all the time. You do not count calories. You do not measure portions. The only thing you keep track of is how much you lose.

HEALTHY AND SAFE

This is not just a weight loss diet. It is a health diet also. It is safe. It is probably much safer than the way you eat right now.

Don't ever take a chance with your health. It's not worth it. Besides it is not necessary. You can lose weight fast with my diet plus get healthier every day you stay on it.

NOEXERCISE

You do not have to exercise to lose weight with this diet. However, since after the first few days you will have a lot more energy you will probably become more active. But you will lose weight very rapidly whether you become more active or not.

AUTOMATIC WEIGHT LOSS

Right after you go on this diet you start to lose weight automatically. You don't have to think about it all the time. Since you are never hungry you would probably forget you were on a diet if you weren't losing weight so fast.

As you can tell by now, I have come up with something pretty good. I think my diet is the best way to lose weight I have ever heard about. You will lose weight very fast and you will never be hungry. You will not have to count calories or measure portions. You can eat out as often as you like. Your health will improve and your energy will increase. Except for when you weigh yourself you will probably forget you are on a diet.

In short, this diet is fast, safe and simple.

There are four reasons this diet works so well. These four reasons make this diet different from any other. Here are those reasons.

Reason #1 This diet makes liberal use of a natural food substance that eliminates hunger. This food substance is widely used in Europe but almost unheard of in the United States. It looks and tastes exactly like table sugar. You use it the same way. You can mix it in your coffee or sprinkle it on cereals or use it in recipes as a substitute for table sugar. This substance is perfectly safe. Remember — it is a food not a drug. It is much better for you than ordinary table sugar (sucrose) because it does not provoke an insulin response. When eaten regularly throughout the day this substance very dramatically reduces hunger. It also has a soothing effect on jangled nerves.

Reason #2 This diet has a different plan of attack.

This diet forces you to form a very new habit. This new habit is pleasurable and fun. This habit makes it possible to stay on any diet for life without ever feeling deprived. This new habit makes everything easy. It is so simple you will wonder why you never thought of it yourself.

Reason #3 This diet contains 5 delicious foods that may very well be new to you. I am going to ask you to eat at least one of these 5 "... I have lost 75 pounds. My friends say I look 15 years younger. I enjoy a peace of mind I have never before experienced. I feel good all the time. Best of all, my husband has fallen in love with me all over again."

foods every day. All of them are what I call "natural food tranquilizers." At exactly the same time these foods are releasing new energy into your system they also work to release all tension from your nerves and muscles and give you an emotional lift. Believe me it is very hard to diet if you are upset and in a bad mood all the time!

Reason #4 This diet contains yet another unique food substance that releases the natural fat burning power of your system. This substance increases the amount of calories your body burns each day thereby allowing you to eat more without weight gain.

A SPARKLING NEW BODY

This diet has been a Godsend to me. I have a sparkling new body. I have lost 75 pounds. I now weigh 113 and I wear a size 6 dress. (I used to wear an 18). I have more energy now than I had when I was a teenager. I am in better health than I can ever remember. My friends say I look 15 years younger. I enjoy a peace of mind I have never before experienced. I feel good all the time. Best of all, my husband has fallen in love with me all over again.

Will this amazing little diet work for you? I am sure it will. All I ask is that you be open-minded enough to give me a chance to prove it even though I am an everyday housewife and not a diet doctor or anything like that.

I have written a book that tells you about my secret diet. It is easy-to-read. It tells you exactly what to do step-by-step. You can read my book in one evening. Then the very next day you can start losing weight so fast you just won't believe it.

NORISK

Here's how you can read my book and try my diet without any financial risk at all. Go ahead and order my book by mail. Keep it 30 days and read it and check it out. Then if you are unhappy with it, send it back and I will return your payment to you quietly and without question.

If you are extra skeptical I suggest you postdate your check or money order by 30 days. I promise and guarantee I will not deposit it for at least that amount of time. Then if you decide to return my book I will send back your uncashed check or money order with no questions asked.

To order, write your name and address and the words "DIET SECRET" on a piece of paper and send it with $10.00 to me — Nancy Pryor, Dept. 448, 161 Maplewood Ave., P.O. Box 177, Maplewood, New Jersey 07040. I will send your book promptly by return mail. If you have any questions you can call me. My number is (201) 744-3777. Checks and money orders should be made payable to me — Nancy Pryor. (It is not a good idea to mail cash).

Mob Delivered Lead Valentines

CHICAGO (AP) - Fifty years ago, on a day when Cupids are supposed to shoot arrows of love, mobsters delivered a Valentine of lead.

Seven men associated with George 'Bugs" Moran were lined up against a brick wall inside a North Side garage and riddled with machine gun slugs.

The St. Valentine's Day massacre, Feb. 14, 1929, was Prohibition's goriest gangland crime. It awakened the public's fear of organized hoodlums and was instrumental in bringing the federal government into the Chicago crime picture. The massacre climaxed 10 years of gang battles for control of illicit beer and whiskey profits. The warfare had narrowed to a fight for supremacy between Al Capone's South Side mob and the henchmen of Moran, the North Side

The massacre still is listed in police files as "murder by persons unknown." No one was ever brought to trial, but gangland vengeance erased 22 men whose names popped up in the investiga-

"Machine Gun" Jack McGurn, who had been in contact with Capone, was believed to have mastermined the hit. He and John Scalisi of the Mafia were indicted for the murders and released on $50,-000 bond.

Scalisi later was slain, and the state lacked enough evidence to bring McGurn to trial. Seven years after the massacre, McGurn was machine-gunned down at a Northwest Side bowling alley. Police blamed the Capone mob for the massacre, but couldn't prove it. The garage had served as Moran's booze depot, and Moran missed being there by a stroke of luck. Afterward, Moran told po-

"Only the Capone gang kills like that." Earl Aykroid, retired Associated Press staffer, was one of the first reporters to enter the garage after the shooting. "Inside was a scene of carnage rivaling a battlefield," he recalls. "Six men lay dead along the north wall of the building, their bodies riddled by machine gun bullets. A seventh man, fatally wounded, was being carried to an ambulance by two patrolmen. He lived only briefly.

But the attempt to rub out Moran's gang was a botched job, according to various accounts. Only two of Moran's toughest musclemen were killed Frank and Pete Gusenberg. The other victims were Johnny May, a mechanic who kept the bootleg trucks working; James Clark, Moran's brother-in-law who once was tried for murder; Adam Hyer, a trained accountant who has served time for embezzlement and now handled the gang's finances; Albert Weinshank, operator of a speakeasy, and Dr. Reinhart Schwimmer, an optometrist strangely fascinated with underworld fac-

What brought them together? One account is that a hijacked truckload of whiskey was being brought in for sale. Other accounts say that was a phony report spread to get the Moran boys togeth-

Across the street, two brothers identified as Phil and Harry Keywell of the Purple Gang, which had interests in the Detroit bootlegging racket, watched the garage from a rented boarding house

They saw Moran's boys go in at about 10 a.m. The last was Weinshank with his German shepherd dog. High Ball, on a leash. Weinshank looked like Moran. Police think the watchers mistook him for the big boss.

The brothers telephoned the Circus Cafe 20 blocks south and said Moran and six others were inside. The cafe contact went to a small garage and said, "He's there and he's got six of them with him."

Two men dressed like policemen and two in street clothes piled into what looked like a detective bureau car and drove to the garage.

The "policemen," brandishing revolvers, entered the building and went to the back, where the trucks were. The two others followed, one with a package wrapped in newspaper. Moran's men thought it was just another raid. They were ordered to line up against the wall, and did.

The man with the package ripped off the newspaper. It was a tommy gun. He sprayed the seven men with slugs, back and forth, back and forth, and squeezed a torrent of shots into them after they fell.

Police Continue Check Of Strangler Suspects

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) - Police have checked 200 suspects since the "Blind, Torture, and Kill Strangler" claimed his seventh victim a year ago. But no one has been arrested and authorities think the killer is still in the city.

"We're working constantly," said Lt. Bernie Drowatzky, who directs two det-ectives working fulltime on the case. "It's our hope that somewhere down the line we can come up with this man before he can do something again."

A year ago last week a Wichita television station received a letter from a man identifying himself as the "Bind, Torture and Kill Strangler." He took responsibility for the slaying of four members of the Joseph Otero family in January 1974 and three other murders. The latest was in

"He went three years one time without doing anything, between the Oteros and Shirley Vian," said Deputy Chief Bill Cornwell. "The doctors tell us as long as he's being able to fantasize what he's done, he might not do it again. But the fantasy may wear off." Police have called in psychologists to profile the killer based on evidence in the murders and letters he sent to the Wichita Eagle and Beacon in October 1974 and to KAKE-TV in February 1978.

In the first letter which contained many misspellings and gramatical errors, he said a "monster" entered his head that he could not stop.

"It a bit compicated game my friend of the monster play putting victims number down, follow them, checking up on them waiting in the dark, waiting, waiting ... the pressure is great and sometimes he run the game to his liking. Maybe you can stop him, I can't," the letter said.

Police have used hypnosis without success on several persons who said they saw a car leaving the home where the Oteros were killed. Cornwell and Drowatzky said they could not disclose other investigative methods being used. Both say they are convinced the strangler remains in the city even though he has not written in a Cornwell said the killer won't be caught until there is "either a tip from an individual or a mistake on his part." Besides the murders of Mr. and Mrs. Otero and two of their children Jan. 15, 1974, the killer claimed responsibility for the strangulation deaths of Shirley Vian. 26. in March 1977, and Nancy Jo Fox, 25, in December 1977. In his 1978 letter he challenged police to determine the identity of his seventh hung as a triangular mobile with a continual view from all sides and two floor levels - soon will go up in the administration building at Odessa College. "You have more chance to grow with tapestry," the Atkins Junior High School teacher said, adding that designing in feet instead of in inches is the scale for which he has been waiting.

"You can do it, look at it, back off and go off to work, then come back and look at it again. It doesn't have to be done in a tight time trame before the clay hardens or anything like that."

The dog High Ball barked and snarled. He had been tied to a truck and kept lunging the length of his leash, but could not break free.

A landlady saw two men leave the garage with hands raised, followed by two policemen with guns. "Just another arrest," she thought.

But the shots and the dog's howls had Crawling out from the entanglement of bodies was Frank Gusenberg, with 22 slugs in him. He lived for 90 minutes and was asked who shot him. True to gangdom's code, he replied: "Nobody."

Wall-Sized Tapestry Gives Artist Big, Blank Canvas

By GERRY BURTON

Avalanche-Journal Staff Lynn Haney thought he had found his way in crafts with the coiled basketry he helped bring to the South Plains craft community. It was a perfect blend of pottery and weaving concepts, fulfilling both clay and fabric creative needs.

Today, the Lubbock arts and crafts teacher knows he has discovered his future in wall-sized tapestry that gives him "a big blank canvas" on which to create. A three-piece fabric sculpture - to be

The ability to change design along the way came in handy with the Odessa commission when a miscalculation in varn requirements made it necessary to back off and look for a new way when additional materials were unavailable. "As you grow, there's a need for more recognition, so I went into large tapestries," Haney said. He has progressed from one craft to another over the past decade. He said he "did a lot of pottery and tapestry weaving at Texas Tech before discovering basketry at a workshop for craft

With coiled basketry, he could pick his hobby up and put it down and could work with it in his lap anywhere.

It didn't take long before his coiled sculpture - mixing form and yarn with many materials including feathers and bone - were hits on the collecting scene. His way with basketry expanded into classes for adults outside school hours. The blend of pottery and basketry in the new art furnished material for a master's thesis. A slide presentation amassed for the thesis still grows in popularity with clubs and other organizations around the South Plains. It extends from ancient basketry to the modern coil method

DR. LAMB

Won't Quit Smoking

By LAWRENCE E, LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am 12 years old and I am writing to you about my dad. A couple of weeks ago I found out my father has emphysema from cigarette smoking. The doctor told him to stop smoking. Otherwise, he's eventually going to die. Now my father is only 30 years old and I am frightened of what is going to happen to him. I've told him not to smoke, but he won't listen. What should I do? DEAR READER - I wish there was a good answer to your question. People are responsible for their own health. Doctors can't make a smoker stop smoking cigarettes and, unfortunately, neither can the person's family.

The individual has to decide himself that he wants to stop smoking. You might be a very significant factor in helping your father to decide to do this. Why don't you just tell him that it's important to you that he live a long life, that you'd like for him to be around when you grow up and have children of your own. Tell him you don't want to grow up without a fath er. If he knows you love him and that it's important to you, it may be just the push he needs to help him kick the

I am also sending you The Health Letter number 2-6, Tobacco, Cigarettes, Cigars and Pipes. It will give you some more information on what cigarettes do to people. Others who want this issue send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed, envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY Your father's health problem should be a good warning to you.

Smoking parents are often the biggest reason children smoke. I'm sure your father wouldn't like for you to grow up and develop emphysema and other complications from cigarette smok-DEAR DR. LAMB - Is there anything a woman can do to make her breasts larger? My husband and I went to three doctors and all they did was laugh and tell my husband that I was pretty and very healthy. Do the breast developers advertised really work? Are they safe to use?

DEAR READER - It's no laughing matter, but don't expect much help from those highly advertised products that you have seen. They don't actually increase the size of the breasts. Some of the exercises that go along with such plans develop and strengthen the muscles behind the breast, and it is the enlargement of those muscles, not the breast itself, that may improve a woman's appearance.

Good posture helps too. Keeping the shoulders back and the chest forward improves the bustline. Of course, if a woman gains weight, she may add a little fat tissue to the breast and this makes some changes too. Unfortunately, the addition of fat isn't limited to the breast and the net results may not be so pleasing.

It depends upon how severe the problem is. If a woman has a real problem, she may be helped with implants. They are about the only real thing that will actually enlarge a breast. Implants, of course, are done by plastic surgeons who do cosmetic surgery. If it is really that important to you, why not consult such a physician about what he has available for your particular case.

Meanwhile, do the kinds of exercise that strengthen the muscles between your shoulder blades, develop good posture and at least take some pleasure in being told you're pretty.

Recruiting Blues

NOT ALL CHANGE is progress, but the approach of sign-up day for Southwest Conference football recruiters revives memories of a time not long past

During that period, the letters of intent had to be kept under lock and key in an administrator's office until exactly 8 a.m. on signing day. Then the forms were given to the coaches, who broke all speed records by land, sea and air in trying to reach the top prospects before other SWC foes. It was the Oklahoma

Texas Tech always complied with the rules, of course, but there were rumors that some of the schools cheated a bit and gave their recruiters a head start. Raider assistant athletic director John Conley has some funny stories about driving 90 miles an hour to Hobbs or Carlsbad, only to find a guy from Arkansas or Texas coming out of the prospect's home with a signature on the dotted line.

Nowadays, tunless they have changed the rules again while I was out to lunch), the coaches get the forms well ahead of time and can be waiting at the prospect's house long before H-Hour on D-Day. That is bound to be a big im-for too long. He broke Connors' serve five times, and scored with his passing shots when Connors tried him off the baseline in the second set. Connors had won their last two meetings, including the finals of the U.S. Open, and while Borg took a six-week layoff, the resurgent Connors and the fast-rising 19-year-old McEnroe sparked discussions about a new rivalry for No. 1. "That always happens in the U.S. I think it's all different opinions, especially in the States. People in the rest of the world might have different opinions, said Borg, who last week ended his layoff with a tournament victory in Richmond Va. that included a semifinal triumph over McEnroe.

Borg's thorough outplaying of Connors was overshadowed Sunday by announcement of a compromise agreement between tennis' top five male players and the governing Men's International Professional Tennis Council.

The five - Borg, Connors, McEnroe, Guillermo Vilas and Vitas Gerulaitis were angered when the MIPTC introduced new rules limiting for the first time the number of exhibitions the players can play in and also introduced the designation concept used by the Professional Golfers Association.

When the rules, which would have requied them to play in six tournaments they were designated for, were announced, the five threatened to boycott the Grand Prix circuit.

While advocates said the new rules would give tennis the same order and continuity of other sports and also protect tournament sponsors, the players said they wanted the freedom to choose their own events and maximize their in-

NEW YORK — The U.S. Olympic Committee and

NEW YORK — The U.S. Olympic Committee and a private organizing group signed a contract, effectively clearing the last hurdle to bring the 1984 Summer Olympics to Los Angeles.

The private group, the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee, extracted agreement from the national committee on eight points involving linancial liability, budget authority, the makeup of the organizing group and the plan for dispersal of assets affer the Games.

The announcement follows by 10 months the initial awarding of the Games to Los Angeles by the International Olympic Committee.

Los Angeles, the only United States city to host the Summer Games, thus becomes an Olympic city for the second time. It first hosted the Games in 1922.

McAdoo Heading For Boston?

NEW YORK (AP) — The Boston Celtics have agreed to acquire three-time National Basketball Association scoring champion Bob McAdoo from the New York Knicks in exchange for three future draft choices, Celtics President Red Auerbach confirmed early Monday morning.
"Harry Mangurian and John Y. Brown, the owners of the Celtics, and Sonny Werblin of the Knicks discussed it, and it looks like the deal has been made," Auerbach said from his home in Washington.

"As far as I know it's a deal," added Auerbach. "Nothing is a deal until the league okays it, but I don't know why they wouldn't."

Every National Basketball Association player transaction requires approval of the league office before it becomes official. Asked whether he was happy with a trade for McAdoo, Auerbach said, "Sure, otherwise I wouldn't have okayed it." According to a story by basketball writer Sam Goldaper in Monday's editions of the New York Times, the trade was agreed upon by Brown and Werblin after the teams played at New York Saturday night. The clubs then traveled to Boston for a game Sunday, won by the Celtics 107-102 in which McAdoo scored 32 points for McAdoo, 27, is a 6-foot-10 forward with a career scoring average of 27:8 points per game. He spent 41/2 years with the Buffalo Braves, averaging 18.0 points per game in his rookie season and then leading the NBA in scoring from 1974 through 1976 with averages of 30.6, 34.5 and 31.1.

Green Wins Hawaiian Golf

HONOLULU (AP) - Hubert Green talked of a scene that took place on the practice putting green early last week as he prepared for a defense of his title in the Hawaiian Open golf tournament.

'My putting had been terrible all year.

Ben Crenshaw was out there helping. Hell, my wife was helping me.

"I was struggling, lost. People were laughing at me."
So, he said, he went to "my putting stance No. 4-25-WB."

"I worked on it," said Green, who now has won at least one tournament each of the last seven years and has 15 titles for his nine-year career.

"Like any vocation, or avocation, you have to work at it to hope to do it well. I worked hard at it," he said and flashed his peculiar grin. "And it paid off."

Marshall Takes Over A's

CHICAGO (AP) - For Jim Marshall, it's now just a 10-block stroll back to the major leagues - considerably shorter than past journeys that took him out of the

As a major-league baseball player and manager, Marshall never matched his suc cess in the minors. So he's thrilled to take another turn at the helm - even if it is with the Oakland A's, who finished next to last in the American League West last

"I think you always have instilled in you, if you're any kind of person, that you want to get back on top," Marshall said Sunday after A's owner Charles O. Finley called him at his Scottsdale, Ariz., home with the offer to lead the A's.

"It happened so suddenly and it's such a surprise. I'm just so happy to be back in the major leagues," he said.

For how long, one acquainted with Finley's revolving-door approach to managers might ask. That doesn't concern Marshall now.

"I've got the job and I'm really happy. I'm looking to the future," he said in a telephone interview from his home, located 10 blocks from the A's spring training

Oklahoma and Oklahoma State, of course, and in recent years Colorado and Nebraska have made strong bids for Texas athletes.

Even Southern California, UCLA, Ohio State and Notre Dame have gotten into the act. They don't take a lot of Texans, but the ones they go after are the blue-chippers.

Such bitter competition forces the rival coaches to do a lot of things that they would rather avoid. Some admit, privately, that it is humiliating and degrading to have to beg a schoolboy to accept an athletic scholarship at good ol' Siwash No holds are barred in wooing the impressionable teen-age grid heroes. Ken-neth King, the Clarendon flash who was recruited by Oklahoma four years ago, said last week that Sooner Coach Barry Switzer "spent the night before signing day with me in a Clarendon pool hall. That made me feel pretty important. That's why I came to OU." Hoo boy! Can you imagine Bud Wilkinson or Vince Lombardi or Tom Landry spending the night in a pool hall to entertain an 18-year-old football player? No

NO MATTER WHAT tactics the coaches use to get the gridders' signatures, a considerable number of the recruits regret their decision and either transfer to another school or drop out of athletic competition. Look at a freshman roster in September and then take another look in November. The dropout rate is star-

Even fellows like King, who played regularly at Oklahoma and got a lot of publicity, often are not satisfied with their choice of universities. King told an Amarillo sportswriter last week that he was not really content with the Sooners, even though they won or tied for the Big Eight title all four seasons that he was in uniform. Kenny had to play second fiddle to the heralded Billy Sims and didn't get to carry the ball nearly as many times as he thought he

King admits, however, that he probably would pick Oklahoma if he had to do it all over again, because of the attention from pro scouts. He expects to be a high draft choice and achieve his goals in the National Football League.

MEANWHILE, THE college coaches continue to recruit at their usual frantic pace. They are not particularly worried about events next autumn, or the athletes' reactions four years from now. The name of the game is to sign as many hosses as possible, on the theory that talented players make coaches a lot smarter. It is easier to become coach of the year with an Earl Campbell or an Eric Dickerson than with ol' Joe Smith.

If the young man decides later that he made a mistake, then that's his problem. By then the mentor probably would like to have his scholarship for another, younger pheenom, anyway.

Adams had just won the Lubbock Regionals Golden Gloves championship bout in the 156 Open Division by the way he was talking Saturday night at the Memorial Civic Center.

"I'm embarrassed," said Adams time and again. "I don't know what was the matter with me tonight (Saturday). I was just flat for some reason." And Mark's father, Tom Adams, was

"What were you doing out there," asked the elder Adams, "That was the worst fight you've ever fought."

"Dad, that's the meanest thing you've ever said about one of my fights," answered Mark. "Did I look that bad?"

Obviously the officials didn't think so but Adams had to survive a shaky start to win the decision. His opponent, Joe Sali-nas of Snyder, landed a whopping right hand at the beginning of the first round that stunned Adams. But the Brownfield slugger came back to control the final two rounds and advance to the state fi-tions.

"What are you supposed to do when you hurt him and he goes into a crouch?"

"Well, I guess I should go with some uppercuts," answered Mark.

"Yeah, but that's not your style," said his father. "So you should step back and wait for him to stand up—then pop him. Don't be wasting all your energy swinging over his head. Nobody can fight when they so low like that." they go low like that."

And Saturday night's bout was only the sixth time Mark had ever been in the ring. He picked up boxing when he finished a basketball career at South Plains college. "I was always playing football or basketball," he said, "and I never got a chance to participate in boxing until I was 22 years old."

Adams took a grueling decision over Alfredo Mata, of the Auxillios, on Friday.

"I think it's going to be a disadvantage for us," said McWilliams before the season. "We're going to have to do a lot more scouting. back sold more than a million copies in six weeks. Universal Pictures bought the movie rights and began a search for an actress to play Loretta from age 13, when she was married, until the present.

Loretta, a spunky, downhome mountain woman who speaks her mind, said, "I told them from the start Sissy was the only one, even though I never saw her in a show. I don't go to picture shows, so I never saw the others either.

"But they said Sissy didn't look like me. They tested a bunch of others. And I told 'em they was wasting thousands of dollars. And they was.

"In some ways Sissy looks like me. We both have blue eyes. And she LOOKS country like I do. Turned out she ACTS country, too.

Last year Loretta was surprised to find Sissy waiting for her in the wings when she came off stage at a Louisiana concert.

"The minute I laid eyes on her I said, 'You're Sissy," Loretta recalled. "We got along like old friends. We talked to a psychic woman in Ohio who told us we'd been together in past lives four different times. And I believe her.'

Universal screened "Carrie," for which Sissy won an Oscar nomination in 1976, and Loretta insisted no one else would be right for the part. Sissy could easily be made to look 13 and was willing to do all the singing.

Earlier this year Sissy and Loretta spent a week together in Nashville, Tenn., near Loretta's home. Sissy learned bits and pieces of 16 of Loretta's best known songs for the role.

At the end of the week, Loretta made an appearance on Grand Ole Opry. Sissy watched from the wings. Then, unexpectedly, Loretta announced Sissy would portray her in "Coal Miner's Daughter" and called her out on stage.

"She was scared to death," Loretta said, grinning. "She wouldn't budge. But my husband, Mooney (for moonshine), pushed her out just like he did me when I was first starting.

"I handed Sissy the microphone and she froze. Anyhow, I sang the verse of 'Fist City' and then she finally sang the chorus. People listening to the radio thought it was me doing an encore. Folks in the audience at Grand Ole Opry began a-screaming and a-hollering.

"We never thought anyone could sound that country. But Sissy's from Texas and it didn't take her long to pick up on it.' Loretta, who became a mother at 14 and a grandmother at 28, isn't the most literate star in the world. But she has meticulously winnowed through five drafts of the movie script, deleting anything that isn't exactly true.

She is determined that her life story is a genuine reflection of life in the povertystricken Kentucky hills.

"I don't want nothing exaggerated," Loretta said. "I couldn't play the part myself because it hurt too much just living it the first time. It would be too painful on the hurting points to do it again.

Former Bank Officer Denies Making Loan

ATLANTA (AP) - A former loan officer of the National Bank of Georgia denies he lent money to a relative of the wife of Bert Lance, once the bank's president and later federal budget director.

According to a recent internal report by two Bank of Georgia board members, Guy Freeman, the loan officer, made the loan at Lance's direction. The report was required under terms of a consent agreement stemming from a federal complaint that Lance had violated federal securities laws during his two years as bank president. Part of the complaint charged that the relative misrepresented his purpose for the loan.

But in a letter to the board obtained by the Atlanta Journal, Freeman said he never made the loan and was not even working for the bank at the time it was

'Cow Tilting' Fad Growing

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP) - Furtive men sneak around in a moonlit pasture like guerrilla soldiers. Their target — an ordinary cow standing placidly in the

Burger Prices Skyrocketing

By WILLIAM C. TROTT
United Press International Writer
The price of beef is climbing — a lot.
The rich man's cuts — steaks and chops — are bad enough. But the poor man's cuts — hamburgers and hot dogs — are skyrocketing.

"Hamburger, frankfurters, what the poor man buys, these things will go

Representatives of the cattle industry hope to avoid a consumer panic and pre-dict the cost of ground beef will stabilize soon. But the cost of cattle feed, recent heavy snowstorms, reduced herds and the general economic situation will make higher prices inevitable, said Jim Leman,

Scout Dinner Set Tuesday

The South Plains Council of Boy Scouts of America has invited all area Baptist churches to participate in an "In-reach for Boy Scouting Dinner," scheduled at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Lubbock's Second Baptist Church.

The church sponsors a unique God and Country program for Baptist Boy Scouts, officials said. This program will be shared and materials made available at the dinner. Discussion regarding the organization of additional Cub Scout Packs, Scout troops and Explorer Posts is also included on the agenda.

The Rev. Kelly Dickson, pastor of Westside Baptist Church, Odessa, will be the keynote speaker. He will discuss his church's involvement with Boy Scouting. The South Plains Council serves 20 counties on the South Plains.

Denton Police Kill Abductor

DENTON (AP) - Denton police officers early today shot to death a man who earlier had abducted and wounded a North Texas State University policewoman, authorities said. A .30-caliber M1 carbine and a .32-caliber pistol, as well as the officer's .38-caliber revolver were discovered at the scene. The car in which the abductor was driving was later determined to be stolen from Dallas and the license tags had been stolen from Waxahachie, Denton police said. The dead man was not identified at NTSU Police Chief Robby Robinson said Officer Barbara Miller had stopped a car because it was traveling the wrong direction on a one-way street. The driver pulled a gun on the officer and forced her

Goodwill Rated 'Level One'

Goodwill Industries of Lubbock received the highest rating by the Texas Rehabilitation Commission in its annual review of facilities, according to Goodwill officials here.

Goodwill was rated "level one" for its comprehensive vocational evaluation, diagnostic vocational evaluation, work adjustment training, personal and social adjustment training, and progressive rehabilitation employment programs.

Goodwill is a private, non-profit rehabilitation agency providing work and training for handicapped men and women of the south plains. It presently serves 100 handicapped men and women at the Lubbock rehabilitation center and a new opportunity center in Levelland.

By 1981, Sanderson said, steak almost will have doubled in price and hamburger will lose its reputation as a cheap cut of beef by reaching $2.40 per pound. Sanderson blamed the situation on liquidations of cattle herds that were force by increased grain costs from the 197 Russian grain sale. The liquidations temporarily lowered the price of hamburge as farmers created a surplus by rushing their cattle to slaughterhouses. But now herds are considerably smaller, he said.

Officials Deny Speed Change Receptivity

ing official who suggested the idea seemed to think.

Pamela Able, Wyoming conservation director, said last week that her office suggested that states which raise gasoline taxes be allowed, as a trade-off, to raise the speed limit on federally funded highways from the present 55 mph to 65.

The speed limit was imposed by Congress as a fuel-saving measure in the wake of the 1973-1974 Arab oil embardo and also has been credited with helping to reduce highway fatalities.

Mrs. Able said she suggested the trade-off to Ray Warner, assistant deputy secretary of transportation, and Mark Friedrich, a member of the Energy Department's policy staff.

The spokesman, Phil Garon said Fled-rich did not encourage the idea or ex-press any particular "receptivity" to it. He added that the Department of Transportation has primary responsibili-

At Transportation, Warner said he, too agreed only to discuss the proposal had did not express the idea that he was receptive to it.

He said he emphasized to Mrs. Able office that the department favors the policy of a 55 mph speed limit because 2. saves lives and fuel. Warner added that the de

Mail Service To Iran Suspended

Suspension of civilian mail service to Iran has been extended to cover surface mail, the U.S. Postal Service has announced. The effect is to eliminate all civilian mail service between Iran and the United States.

Airmail service to Iran was suspended

Postal officials said the latest action was taken because of the lack of reliable air and surface transportation either in er out of that country.

The suspension means no U.S. post office will accept civil mail bound for Iran until further notice. Mail currently in the postal system destined for Iran will be returned to sender. Postage will be refunded for mail returned because of the suspension of service, officials said.

ABA Re-Examines Ban On Cameras

ATLANTA (AP) - Cameras in the courtroom, a concept condemned by the American Bar Association for 42 years, is being re-examined this week by ABA policy-makers who are expected to endorse the practice.

The association's House of Delegates was scheduled to open two days of deliberations today with a vote on a proposed amendment to the ABA's ethics stand-ards that would allow film and tape covgrage of trial proceedings.

Some resistance was expected but association leaders have predicted the pro-

New Law Limits Card Liability

WASHINGTON (AP) - Users of 24hour bank teller machines have a new recourse to unauthorized use of their computer cards - but there's a catch.

To take advantage of the new federal law limiting liability to $50, a card-holder y his bar days of discovering the card's disappearance or misuse. Otherwise, he can lose up to $500.

The provisions are part of a law passed by Congress last year to protect customers in the age of electronic fund transfers, which allow various kinds of automated financial transactions. The law took effect last week.

While the machines' widest use has been in allowing bank customers 24-hour access to their accounts, the new technology is also used in systems that let customers pay bills by telephoning their bank and ordering a payment from their account While the computerized transfers are convenient, a House subcommittee chaired by Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., last year found instances of people losing large sums of money through unauthorized use of their cards.

Other provisions, which take effect next year, will:

-Require receipts for transactions made through computer terminals, although not for telephone transfers. -Provide customers monthly statements when they make an electronic transfer and quarterly statements if there have been no transfers.

-Let consumers stop payment up to three days before scheduled transfers for such items as utility bills.

for federal and state courts.

Some states have already veered away from the ABA guidelines to tinker with experimental programs that allow some courtroom coverage by television, radio and still photography. Now 22 states allow some form of court coverage by cameras and microphones.

The amended standards state that "television, radio and photographic coverage of judicial proceedings is not per se inconsistent with the right to a fair trial."

ABA delegates, nearing the end of a week-long national convention, also will decide whether the 250,000-member group should adopt these proposals as official policy:

-Sweeping changes in how the nation's courts treat juveniles. Approval of the proposed changes, the product of an eight-year study by judges, lawyers and legal scholars, would spark ABA lobbying efforts to have state legislatures adopt them as law.

Tax Program Assists Elderly

Associated Press Writer

Millions of elderly Americans pay more federal income tax than the law requires, and older people preparing their returns may need special help to cope with the Internal Revenue Service rules and regu-

Overpayments often stem from a lack of understanding. Many men and women over 65 file returns when they don't need to; others fail to take credits they are entitled to.

The "Tax Aide" program run jointly by the American Association of Retired Persons and the National Retired Teachers Association is designed to clear up some of the confusion.

"Tax Aide" is a free counseling service available at more than 3,000 locations throughout the country. The advice is provided by 8,500 retirees, trained by the Internal Revenue Service in the areas of tax law which apply to people over 65.

The volunteers - most of whom have business or tax-related backgrounds fill out forms, check arithmetic and answer questions. The retirement associations estimate that the counselors will help prepare 750,000 returns this year, more than triple the number they worked on only four years ago.

Most of the "Tax Aide" counseling is done at places like senior citizen centers. libraries, shopping malls and churches: a few of the volunteers even make house

According to the retirement groups, authorities calculate that at least half of the nine million people over 65 who file federal income tax returns in a typical year pay more than they are required to; a similar report came from the U.S. Senate Special Committee on Aging a few years

Where do people go wrong? The first chance to slip up comes when you decide whether to file a return. With a few exceptions, you are NOT required to file a federal income tax return if:

-You are single, over 65 and had a taxable income, beyond Social Security and other exempt benefits, of less than $3,-

-You are married, filing a joint return, either you or your spouse is over 65 and, together, you had a taxable income of under $5,450.

-You are married, filing a joint return, both you and your spouse are over 65 and your joint taxable income is less

You may want to file a return even if you don't have to. If, for example, you are entitled to a refund for tax withheld from salary or pension benefits, you will have to file a return to get your money:

Tax credits are another potential source of confusion. Every taxpayer is entitled to a General Tax Credit for each person claimed as an exemption on his or her return. If you are over 65, you get an extra exemption for age and, under tax

Maine Hunters Want Bounty Increased

Hunters claim the coyotes kill deer and trappers claim the $45 market price for a coyote pelt is not incentive enough to trap them. There is also a Special Credit for the Elderly which offers savings of up to $562.50 in some cases. You must file a separate form, Schedule R, and your income cannot exceed fixed limits. Ask the IRS or a private counselor to find out whether you qualify.

Other potential tax breaks stem from the reform bill passed by Congress last year. Most of the changes did not take effect until 1979 and, therefore, will not be reflected on the returns filed this year. but there are a few exceptions. Among
