Trustees To Add 'Magnet'

By JEFF SOUTH

Avalanche-Journal Staff School officials today endorsed parents' requests for a junior high "magnet" school that would "fill the gap" between the innovative Iles Elementary program and the special college-prep curriculum planned for Lubbock High.

Your proposal is in line with our philosophy." Superintendent Ed Irons said after the Coalition for an Exemplary Junior High School made its pitch to the

In fact, Irons disclosed his staff and advisors have "done some brainstorming" on tailoring a junior high to accommodate Iles graduates and dovetail into the Lubbock High program.

At the request of board President Charles Waters. Irons said he will present to school trustees a general report on the junior-high proposal next month and specific ideas in April.

Neither parents nor school officials suggested a particular school for the junior-high magnet. However, coalition spokesman Dr. Harry Jebsen said it would be most economical to place the program at a centrally located, currently under-utilized campus.

Several parents privately have mentioned Thompson Junior High, located near Lubbock High. Thompson's present enrollment is far under capacity. A magnet program would boost Thompson's enrollment and help relieve overcrowding - and the need for more relocatable classrooms - at other junior highs, par-

Irons and Waters greeted with enthusiasm the request for a junior high magnet school. Without such a magnet, Irons said. "We'd have a gap between the elementary and senior high programs."

A junior high magnet would give the Lubbock Independent School District 'continuity' in its line of progressive magnet schools. Irons said.

With the first glass coming out of Iles. it would be appropriate to implement this (junior high) with the next school year," he added.

Jebsen, associate history professor and the director of urban studies at Texas Tech University, noted the success of the year-old Iles magnet, which has a "long waiting list" to get in. Iles, instituted for desegregation purposes, stresses a nongraded, self-paced format and employs numerous educational innovations. Tech is a partner in the project.

Jebsen also cited the planning of "an exemplary college-preparatory program at Lubbock High," as authorized by the school board last month. Like the magnets at Iles and at Dunbar-Struggs High (where the board has concentrated workstudy and music-art classes). Lubbock High will accept voluntary transfers from throughout the city.

With Iles and Lubbock High, "it will be possible for a student to avail him or herself of a highly stimulating, flexible and individually paced education for 10 of the 13 years of formal education," Jebsen

The three-year gap which still exists in that track is at the junior high school level, and we ask that the gap be filled through the creation of an exemplary junior high school."

Jebsen recommended that such a pro-See JUNIOR HIGH Page 16

The first breath of a powerful Arctic cold front expected to make a shambles of summery conditions on the South Plains swept across the Lubbock area near noon today.

Lubbock area temperatures, which ascended to a record high 87 degrees Wednesday, were forecast to plummet from a high near 70 degrees today to the 40s this afternoon and to a low near 20 degrees tonight.

The full impact of the wintry blast is expected Friday, with temperatures reaching only the low 30s and a 30 percent chance of snow, possibly mixed with

The Mexican government made prepa rations to show the village as an example of development efforts aimed at reducing rural poverty that is driving hundreds of thousands of peasants each year into Mexico's urban slums or into illegal emigration to the United States.

His objections seemed directed less at Lopez Portillo's call for fair and equitable treatment and more to other sections of his toast at a luncheon for the Carters.

For example, Lopez Portillo seemed to refer to last year's Energy Department veto of a privately negotiated U.S. purchase of Mexican natural gas when he

The evacuation was ordered because of Wednesday's storming of the U.S. Embassy by heavily armed guerrillas who held Ambassador William Sullivan and 101 other Americans hostage until Khomeini's "Islamic police" freed them. Testimony Upheld By Witness

By BOB CAMPBELL Avalanche-Journal Staff

The former owner of a 19th Street bar where William Drew Young III was slain Christmas Eve 1977 today said officers "knew everything from beginning to end" before she and two other witnesses to the killing made statements about it a few months later.

Tico Lowrance, a former stripper who was co-owner of the Salt River Saloon at 2311 19th St., maintained she told the truth in Wednesday testimony under cross-examination today by defense lawyer Gerald Anderson, who is defending Kenneth Herndon in the murder trial.

Anderson produced a trial transcript from an April 1978 trial of another de fendant in which Mrs. Lowrance said Young was beaten for "less than a minute" before being taken back to the bar

She had earlier maintained that Young was beaten for five to eight minutes.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Lowrance refuted the defense Herndon used in a previous trial that a pistol in his hand went off accidentally and killed Young.

Mrs. Lowrance testified that Young worked at the bar for several weeks until he stopped coming to work after Dec. 21.

Bucy In Line For Tech Post

Gov. William Clements has recommended that J. Fred Bucy of Dallas be reappointed to a six-year term on the Texas Tech University Board of Regents, The Avalanche-Journal has learned.

The governor's office this morning told The A-J that Clements has sent a letter to the Senate urging Bucy be named to a second full six-year stint on the board. His new term would expire Jan. 31, 1985.

Bucy would fill one of three vacancies on the Tech Board. The governor's office denied that the other two appointments had been made, although The A-J had been told by a reliable source that a Midland man and a doctor were in top contention for the two other positions.

Bucy, president of Texas Instruments, has been one of the more outspoken board members during his tenure on the board and reportedly his reappointment had been opposed by some faculty and student groups. He is a graduate of Tech.

Juvenile Court Changes Suggested By ABA

gain significant legal rights - and the nation's juvenile courts would face revolutionary change - under proposals the American Bar Association intends to carry to state legislatures.

The ABA's House of Delegates has adopted 17 volumes of proposals as official policy of the 250,000-lawyer group.

The recommendations, compiled in an eight-year study chaired by Irving Kaufman, chief judge of the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, could bring about these changes if adopted:

-Juvenile court judges no longer would be authorized to send offenders to a social service or corrections agency for an indeterminate period. Every child convicted of a crime would receive a determined sentence.

-Juvenile court proceedings, now most often closed to the public, would be held to standards of greater "visibility ATLANTA (AP) - Children would and accountability." Children charged with crimes would gain the right to a public trial by a six-member jury.

-Clear criteria would have to be established for determining when a minor charged with a serious crime is to be tried as an adult.

"It's hard to tell you with precision what is going to happen and how it's going to happen," Kaufman said after the ABA's adoption.

But he predicted the guidelines, if adopted, would lead to more legal protection for children and greater public awareness of the juvenile justice system.

In another decision, delegates to the association's national convention refused overwhelmingly to end longtime ABA opposition to courtroom coverage by television, radio and still photography.

By voice vote, the lawyers rejected a proposal to amend ethical standards adopted in 1937 that serve as the model for federal law and rules in many state

The amendment stated; "Television, radio and photographic coverage of judicial proceedings is not per se inconsistent with the right to a fair trial.

-Agreed to urge President Carter to appoint a study commission on the decline of voter participation in the electoral process. The study, as envisioned, would culminate in a White House conference on the subject.

-Voted to recommend to the Supreme Court that it provide, if necessary, free legal help for want to carry appeals of their death penalty to the nation's highest court.

Auto Experts Eye New Fuels

BOSTON (UPI) - Key auto industry experts say it will take new, plentiful fuels and not a revolutionary automobile to meet the nation's future energy de-

"There will not be a miracle car to save us from the energy crisis, and to say otherwise is plain misleading," a Ford Motor Co. executive said this week

The remark, made privately between sessions of a two-day national conference on the future of the American automobile, reflected the widening gap between automotive researchers and Department of Transportation officials who want automakers to "re-invent the car" by the turn of the century.

Transportation Secretary Brock Adams, in a speech to about 550 automotive experts he invited to the session, called on the industry to take "revolutionary, not evolutionary" steps to develop a cleaner, safer, more fuel efficient car to cut U.S. dependency on foreign oil.

But, fuel experts participating in the meeting predicted any new exotic cars would be worthless if new sources of energy were not developed.

"I cannot be convinced that redesigning the automobile should be the No. 1 priority," Trevor Johns, vice president of engineering for TRW Automotive World Wide of Cleveland, said during one panel discusssion.

He added the nation's financial resources should be targeted toward developing oil from shale and coming up with other alternative fuels. "Redesigning the automobile is a near term solution," Jones said, "eventually we'll need alternate fuels for the alternate vehicles. Ford research vice president W. Dale Compton said the auto industry for years has been working on news cars capable of using new, replenishible fuels. He said new ideas will be phased in gradually in the coming years but will not spring up overnight.

Speaking to newsman Tuesday, Adams said he was disappointed with the auto industry's record concerning development of new technology.

'The auto companies are muscle bound by their size and their wealth," Adams said, "and to innovate is very dif-

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Ad Ban Is Un-Bear-Able

every conceivable point of view, regardless of the subject or the extreme, there is an "expert" who will agree with you.

A case in point is the latest bevy of experts to turn out in full force at FTC hearings on proposed limits on television advertising aimed at children.

The target of the regulators is TV ads promoting sugar coated cereal, like Count Chocula and Sugar Crisp.

Enter now Professor Robert Liebert, imported for the occasion from the State University of New York to tell the FTC that TV ads result in children (dangerously?) questioning the wisdom of their parents.

"YOUNG CHILDREN," the professor says, "may become skeptical of parents...or others who disparage sugared food products or a poorly made toy promoted artfully."

"Mistrust results," he expertly testified,
"when legitimate authority figures are implicitly silenced or discredited-as they are if they pit their meager persuasion techniques against the might of television advertising directed at their young children.'

Since the proposed regulations would (in their present form) ban TV ads aimed at Post Sugar Bear.

YOU'RE RIGHT if you suspect that for kids under age eight, Prof. Liebert made it very clear that "children up to about seven are simply unable to understand selling intent regardless of the communication techniques used in advertising directed at them.

'It is therefore inherently unfair to direct TV advertising at this age group." Of course, it goes-almost-without saying that all of us who are older and wiser (from age eight and up?) are immune to the sales pitches.

LIEBERT OFFERED: "It is horrible to think of children as targets, as the advertising industry does. Children cannot grasp the fact that they are exposed to material that is calculated to interest them in products."

One supposes the same can be said of books, friends, teachers, and even grandmothers-all of whom at one time or another challenge the wisdom and authority of parents. Wonder if we should ban them too?

The next step in Liebert's logic probably suggests we lock all kids up in sterile, silent rooms until they reach the mature old age of eight, when the experts feel they can better fend for themselves.

Then and only then will they have developed the proper immunity to that nasty ole

Carter's In For A Real Treaty

(First of two columns)

WASHINGTON-No matter what the procedure in the protest, Sens. Hatch, Goldwater, et al, against President Carter's unilateral termination of the defensive treaty between the USA and the Republic of China, we are apt to see the three branches of the American government in

Unfortunately for the drama of suspense in any struggle, the result of this one seems a foregone conclusion. I say it's a foregone conclusion, and that the President will win out for reasons rarely conceded in governmental debate.

The President is going to win because the Constitution, never saying so, set up the Chief Executive as a limited monarch. It made him the First Gentleman of the land with special privileges, far exceeding those of the other two branches, the Legislative and Judiciary, although they are supposedly coordinated and equal.

BY GREAT good luck, the United Colonies, which the Declaration of Independence had made the United States, was able to form a military alliance with royalist France, a pact which became the decisive factor in the battle of Yorktown and American independence.

But, almost immediately, in 1789, France revolted against its monarch much as the Russians did in 1917, and became an uncontrollable anarchy, climaxing in the Reign of Terror.

President Washington and the conservative elements of his cabinet and the Congress wanted to do what President Carter did last December and quired both parties to carry on a hostility against But the life of the fledgling American Republic seemed to hang on President Washington's neu-trality proclamation with Britain, a most unpopular measure. The wrong move would put us between two powerful maritime nations with strong desires to become imperialists of North America. Into this emergency stepped the Sec. of Treasury, Alexander Hamilton, ghost-writer and alter ego of President Washington. Hamilton conceived an idea which had no authority in the Constitution, a document that nowhere specifically addressed the subject of treaty termination.

It wasn't set forth that either the House or Congress, or together, or the President himself, could end a treaty. But Hamilton came up with a clever interpretation.

He wrote that only the President had the right to receive ambassadors and other foreign ministers, and therefore, had the sole right of judging whether new rulers were "competent organs of the national will," whether they ought to be recognized and whether a treaty remains alive after a change of government.

Hamilton went on to contend that the receiving of foreign ambassadors from any country amounted to the right of the President's deciding whether or not any treaty by that country was

"Hence," wrote Hamilton, "treaties can only be made by the President and Senate jointly, but their activity may be continued or suspended by the President alone.

Thus, it became engraved in the American stone that the President, and he alone, can cancel a treaty at will-which is what Carter has done.

intervene in regulatory agency decision-making. Meanwhile, lobbyists for consumer and labor groups are sunk in depression, with many blaming defeats on the fat war chests with which American businesses have backed their own

But isn't this too simplistic an explanation for what has been happening? Evidence is that it is.

IN THE CASE of the consumer protection agency, the key question is whether you, a con-sumer—as distinct from a consumer activist were deeply concerned.

"Mrs. Murphy didn't care, so the proposal was defeated in effect by default, whether it was good or bad," was the colorful way Richard A. Givens, former regional director of the Federal Trade Commission, put it to me.
As for the labor reform bill, similarly the rank and file union member-as distinct from the union leadership-didn't care any more than Mrs. Murphy cared about a new consumer agency.

In brief, the business lobbyists won because they were fighting only a hard-core elite in the opposite movements-and neither consumer nor labor lobbyists had any real backing in their own

THE SUPPOSEDLY irresistible power of business lobbyists these days is an outright myth. The danger inherent in this myth is that it will breed overconfidence on part of business and encourage bitterness on the part of labor and consumers.

Business lobbyists are far from all-knowing or unbeatable, and as a result, proposals which are harmful to legitimate business and add to the costs of goods and services (which we, as consumers, always ultimately pay) often and easily

On top of this, steps that industry should take to improve its performance frequently are shrugged off because it is believed that the lobbyists can stop unfavorable legislation. And they This kind of false confidence can be costly-for

You Call Connally Conservative?

WASHINGTON-As a self-admitted, card-carrying conservative, I am occasionally asked what I think of John Connally, the former Texas governor who has announced his candidacy for the GOP presidential nomination. My answer: not

John D. Lofton:

Connally is a wheeler-dealer in the worst sense of the phrase, a classic old-time all-things-to-all-people politician.

When Connally headed up Democrats for Nixon in 1972, Lady Bird Johnson's ex-press secretary, Liz Carpenter, called him "a political transvestite who at the Battle of the Alamo would've organized Texans for Santa Ana.

Well, I'm not sure Connally would've "organ-ized" anybody. But I am certain that had he been talking to both sides in this conflict, he would have been telling them things that were mutually contradictory.

NOW, THERE'S no doubt that John Connally ounds like a conservative. In an interview with the Republican Party publication, First Monday, in September 1977, he declared: "Anytime you start looking to a central government for favors, you sow the seeds of inevitable, deep-seated corruption. It can't be any other way.

In a talk with me in June 1975, Connally said: 'The government cannot operate anything as an entity. The very structure of government pre-cludes an efficient, economical operation of any-thing...When you plan an economy, you have to follow that with the power to enforce this plan-ning, and this means you have a dictatorship in this country. It inevitably follows. Planning without the power to enforce it is useless. Planning with enforcement is tyranny.'

But look at the Connally record. By his own admission he "strongly recommended" the disastrous wage and price controls which President Nixon enacted in 1971. He now says these controls were a mistake but that he would "certainly try" to make "voluntary" federal restraints and guidelines work, the kind President Carter has

IN ORDER TO "provide a discipline for young people," Connally has suggested a compulsory national service program which would "require" every 18-year-old to work for some level of government somewhere.

Dr. Milton Friedman, the Nobel Prize-winning economist, has called this idea "a Hitler Youthtype program" which demonstrates two things about Connally: first, that he lacks a real appreciation of the meaning of freedom; and second, that he is grasping at any straw that can give him what he thinks will be an attractive, popular pro-

In 1975, when President Nixon endorsed Vice President Rockefeller's plan for a $100 billion federal slush fund to bankroll the private energy industry, Connally praised Nixon's "initiative" and "imagination."

IN ADDITION to all these things, Connally has endorsed: Nixon's guaranteed annual income Family Assistance Plan, which would have dou-bled the welfare rolls; a Rube Goldberg-type National Dividend Plan, which would dole out, tax-free, billions of dollars in federal corporate taxes to those individuals voting in previous national elections; the re-establishment of the New Deal Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which would financially bail out cities like New York and channel loans to government-approved businesses; and a $250-million federal loan to the Lockheed Aircraft Corp., rejecting the notion that this loan should be related to the corporation's management performance.

In 1975, he opposed President Ford's recom-mended tax cut and budget cut, saying "no, I wouldn't" support any tax cut.

THIS YEAR, in announcing his presidential candidacy at the National Press Club and in his subsequent appearance on "Meet the Press," Connally said nothing at all about either cutting taxes permanently or limiting federal expendi-

Connally has praised Henry Kissinger's conduct of detente ("a superb job"), denying it was a oneway street benefiting only the Soviets; he has called for a 5-percent across-the-board budget cut, including defense, while endorsing Carter's 3-percent increase in the defense budget.

Former Mississippi State GOP Chairman
Clarke Reed has said of John Connally that he "fits in the conservative camp" and ranks "right up there with Reagan." And conservative directmail wizard Richard Viguerie has said that he is "very eager to do anything" to further the political interests of Connally. Well, maybe Connally has snowed Reed and Viguerie. But he's not my kind of conservative.

Economists Look Into 1980s

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — With the immediate future of the 1978 economy hidden in confusion and uncertainty, you soon will find the seers turning their telescopes instead to the decade of the 1980s.

Why, you might ask, should we listen to a 10-year forecast when we can't seem to be able to deal with the remaining months of 1979?

For hope, perhaps. The Morgan analyses offers the "feasonable" expectation of median family income exceeding $21,000 by 1990, measured in today's dollar, or about 20 percent higher than now.

about 20 percent higher than now.

A more substantial explanation is that while none can say what the 1980s will bring, it still is possible to study the basic ingredients of growth, and thus determine the decade's potential.

Morgan is more optimistic than Wharton Econometric Forecasting, the U. of Penn. group. Neither sees a boom, but neither foresees a bust. Both see the potential for a better decade than the 70s.

What constitutes better? More real takehome pay, less inflation, less unemployment, a stronger dollar.

Both see labor force quality improving.

It should grow less than in the 70s, because of two decades of low birth rates, and it should be more mature, more experienced, more reliable, more produc-

Both Morgan and Wharton tend to think so, both projecting annual rates of just under 2 percent, compared with only seven-tenths of 1 percent during the 1970s, but still below the 2.3 percent of

Real growth — expansion with infla-tion excluded — is expected by Wharton to range between 2.7 percent and 3.2 percent a year, and by Morgan to average 3.3

Wharton sees inflation running at a 5 percent to 7 percent annual rate. Morgan doesn't specify a rate, but it's other assumptions tend to support an improvement from last year's 7.4 percent.

In all, the U.S. potential seems strong to the forecasters, especially if certain problems, such as reasonable energy costs, can be cleared up. And prospects for even stonger economic conditions

Both studies emphasize the work force as an especially important factor in any improvement. Both see it as improving as the level of experience rises over that

In sheer size, says Morgan, the work force will climb in the next decade to nearly 116 million, but the increase will be less than 12 percent, or nearly 9 percentage points less than in the 1970s.

And, it says, because of the relatively low level of newcomers, the level of young persons in the labor force will, by 1990, be at its lowest since the early 1950s. The percentage of prime-age workers, eager and productive, will make up a growing percentage of the force.

A growing number of workers will be women, and many of them will provide second incomes for their families, says Morgan, helping to raise family income to $21,500, a gain of nearly 23 percent over 1978.

Drug Shows Promise In Treating Acne teers whose acne had resisted all known forms of treatment including antibiotics, vitamin A, peroxide, X-Rays and sex hor-

BOSTON (AP) - A drug related to Vitamin A reportedly shows tremendous promise in treating acne, the disfiguring malady which can scar the faces of its youthful victims.

"It's the most exciting drug for acne ever seen," said Peter E. Pochi, a Boston University School of Medicine professor. This may actually be the cure for acne.

In experiments at the dermatology branch of the National Cancer Institute, the drug - a variation of the active form of Vitamin A — completely cleared up severe, disfiguring acne in 13 of 14 volunteers and was 75 percent effective in the

Researchers say smaller doses may be equally effective and work in as little as eight weeks, according to a report on the drug treatment published in the Boston

Pochi cautioned, as did the cancer institute researchers, that the drug, called 13-cis-retinoic acid, should not be used by women unless they use some form of contraception, since the retinoid class of drugs can damage unborn embryos.

Professor Says Family Failing

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI) - A Columbia University sociology professor says the accelerating rate of divorces could mean the end of the family unit in America by the turn of the century. "What we have been seeing for the last 13 years is a snowball effect," Amatai Etzioni said during a program at the University of Iowa this week. "We can no longer consider the total breakdown of the family as

In the future, he said, the world can ei-ther abandon its traditional family structure or move toward a new set of family

"In any case, we cannot see a society in which the family survives if the ego of the individual becomes the ultimate purpose," he said.

Etzioni said only scattered data exists on troubled families, giving researchers a "need to give that topic high-powered treatment today."

There are those people who say that the nuclear family — father, mother and children — can be replaced by the extended family — grandparents, aunts and uncles, he said.

To even say that we can have an extended family ignores our modern mo-bile society where we organize our labor force around the working unit. To have an extended family, we all must go back to the fields," Etzioni said.

Still, others say that divorce is benefi-cial to family life, he said. They claim to have found a better sex life and wiser

FTC Questions Attempted Takeover Of McGraw-Hill

the FTC's Bureau of Competition, signed the letter to Herbert M. Wachtell, a New York lawyer for American Express.

American Express has said it would not persist in its merger offer in view of the opposition of the McGraw-Hill directors.

WASHINGTON (AP) - The governices relating to bond sales. Express Co.'s proposed takeover of McGraw-Hill Inc., one of the most heated corporate fights in recent years.

In a letter obtained this week by the Associated Press, the antitrust section of the Federal Trade Commission said it has four "serious questions" about the proposed merger. In its latest bid, American Express offered $976 million to acquire McGraw-Hill, a leading publishing firm. American Express is one of the nation's top banking, credit and insurance companies.

The takeover is opposed by McGraw-Hill's directors. Until now, it has been primarily a fight between the two companies. Each has sued and made bitter public statements about the other.

In the letter, the FTC staff voiced these

-Conflict of interest. "American Express might gain an unfair advantage from advance notice of material to be published" in Business Week or any of the other 60-plus McGraw-Hill magazines. "In addition, selection of material for publication might be affected by American Express' interests.

-"The potential for reciprocity" if McGraw-Hill, a leading bond rating firm, is taken over by American Express, a leading underwriter of bonds.

- "The possible lessening of competition" between the two companies in serv-

Analysts have said the directors' stanc probably would end the bitterly fought Express in various markets through reduced advertising rates in McGraw-Hill

But there is a McGraw-Hill stockholder Daniel C. Schwartz, the No. 2 official in suit against the directors' rejection of the original $34 per share bid. A later offer was $40 per share.

Schwartz's letter said the FTC staff could not consider the takeover bid to be a dead issue because American Express has not withdrawn its latest offer or its pre-merger report to the government.

By JOHN CUNNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — The economic news has not been good. Who said so? Maybe you, for one, but if not you then certainly your neighbor, if we can believe the polls. And the Carter administration for another.

It's official line seems increasingly to be at odds with the more spontaneous, less considered comments of its individual members. And that could mean some unpleasant decisions coming up.

Such as whether or not to curtail gasoline sales, and whether to strengthen or perhaps enforce more rigidly its wage-price standards. While the official word remains one of optimism that the country can escape the worst of inflation, recession, shortage and other economic stresses, you have to wonder when:

- James Schlesinger, energy secretary, assessed the Iran oil cutoff as "prospectively more serious" than the 1973 oil embargo, and then, to stress the positive, called it "serious" but not "critical."

- Alfred Kahn, chairman of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, called the January producer price increase of 1.3 "a catastrophe" and said he couldn't even appear to be optimistic.

- Courtenay Slater, Commerce Department chief economist, expressed surprise as the big producer price rise, saying it was more than she expected, and warning of fairly large consumer price increases to come

- Michael Blumenthal, treasury secretary, in effect conceded that the dollar has not stabilized in world markets and that "uncertainties continue to generate nervousness" concerning it.

- Kahn, though doing his utmost to sound happy about it, was forced to concede that of the 500 largest U.S. companies, only 207 have pledged to uphold the wage-price guidelines. Among the holdouts: oil and food.

Perhaps nothing has generated more general nervousness than the wide currency of "unanticipated," a word repeatedly used to describe the continued rise in wholesale and consumer prices.

The entire wage-price program - in fact the entire Carter economic plan - is predicated on accurate estimates of future prices, but some of those prices already seem to be slanting off at different angles.

Moreover, economists are complaining that temporary distortions, such as weather, Iran, and a possible Teamster strike are making it difficult even to determine where we are in the business cy-

Another factor that might be squeezed into that same categoy is the mind of the consumer, which is far less predictable

United Rubber Workers Vow Not To Stike

AKRON, Ohio (AP) - The United Rubber Workers have promised not to strike and the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. has promised it won't sign a mututal assistance pact for upcoming negotiations on the Rubber Workers' master

The contract, which expires at midnight April 20, covers 16,000 rubber workers in 11 plants.

The joint announcement this week by the Rubber Workers and Firestone said both agreed not to exercise their "legal right to a lockout, strike or any other concerted activity interfering in plant operations prior to the reaching of an agreement of the master collective bargaining agreement. The agreement also includes a provision that says if Firestone and the union do not reach an agreement on their own. the company is committed "to accept, as a pattern for settlement, the United Rubber Workers' designated industry settle-

Another announced facet of the agreement is that Firestone will not take part in a mutual assistance program, such as that employed by major airlines. Under such a program, companies not on strike make payments or furnish tires to other firms that are struck.

Union President Peter Bommarito said: "We have always worked toward achieving a cooperative relationship with all the companies. In the past, the mutual assistance program has worked to the detriment of our membership as we sought agreements with the major rubber companies

The URW welcomes this announcement that Firestone will no longer be part of this program, which in turn has paved the way for redefining our bargaining structure with the company.

John H. Zimmerman, Firestone vice president for employee relations, said, Our mutual best interests are making it evident that there are more forces bringing us together than there are driving us apart, and this agreement marks the start of a new era in labor relations between the United Rubber Workers and our com-amount of installment credit outstanding. As the year ended it totaled $275 billion, up 19.1 percent in one year.

While that total itself was a surprise to many if not most economists, even fewer were prepared for the surge that occurred late in the year, when $8.4 billion was added to the total in just November

If consumers continue to add almost fearlessly to their credit burdens, defying expectations that as bills piled up they would turn conservative, there arises another specter of controls, on credit.

Unpleasant Economic Decisions Await Carter Administr

Even this early in the year it is clear that the unanticipated is playing a huge economic role, and the greater the role the harder are the decisions to be made.

Nobody in the administration will give an answer to that, but the admission of surprise over the economy's direction would seem to indicate it must be on their minds.

Even the Council on Wage and Price Stability, which should be in a position to know, has admitted to being victimized

Adhesive Use On Increase

By LeROY POPE NEW YORK (UPI) — The traditional

nuts, rivets and nails which consume enormous amounts of workers' time and tie up lots of money in industry, are gradually giving way to adhesives for joining lightweight metals to each other and metals to plastics.

The adhesives also are replacing nails, screws and staples in some interior construction, says J. David Wolf, general manager od Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.'s chemical division at Ashland, Ohio. Goodyear makes a wide variety of the adhesives, as do many other companies. They are made of urethane and other hydrocarbon resins, polyisoprene and styr-ene-butadiene rubbers, vinyl pyridine, polyester and other materials.

Spacing screws or bolts, drilling the holes for them and putting them in runs up labor costs. And in joining lightweight metals to each other or to plastics the mechanical fasteners are not as effective as adhesives because the adhesives give a continuous bond. The adhesive is just spread over the whole of the surfaces to be joined, the parts are pressed together and the adhesive allowed to harden.

The gradual advent of the metric system, which multiplies the number of sizes of screws and bolts - and matching drill bits - provides a further incentive to simplify matters by using adhesives.

One of the best of the new adhesives is urethane-based. It is used instead of bolts or welds to bond even such moderately heavy metals as autoframe cross members and truck cab roofs. The technology began about 12 years ago and has spread

Wolf believes usage of these kinds of adhesives to replace mechanical fasteners will grow about fourfold in the next five years. Although they must be carefully applied, they are fairly universal in application, according to Wolf, and do not necessarily have to be used under factory assembly line conditions

It wasn't until last year that Goodyear developed technology for applying its urethane adhesive, Pliogrip FRP, automatically in high speed assembly line operations. Wolf thinks this will cause the adhesives to replace mechanical fauteners and welding in a lot more factory operations. In anticipation of this, Goodyear soon will open a Pliogrip service center for industry in Detroit.

The construction industry is finding the new adhesives can save an awful lot of bangino with the hammer and drilling for nails (when you don't drill, the nails cause many materials to split). Wolf said homebuilders have found adhesives save the most time and labor in installing dry wall, subfloors, wall panels, particle board and foam insulation. Tacking foam insulation in place with a staple gun can be tedious and frustrating.

"Nails that pop out of drywalls and puncture fancy wallpaper are a pain in the neck, "Wolf explained.

There is still another adhesive family called "hot melts" being used in industry. These are used for various adhesive tapes, bookbindings and many other applications. They depend on heat instead of a liquid vehicle for easy application, then bond the surfaces as they cool.

Two requests were from banks for variances in city sign regulations.

The board approved the request of Bill D. Horton, representing Southwest Lubbock National Bank, for a variance permitting two directional signs to remain in place at 4811 50th Street.

The two signs do not meet area or height restrictions, and the signs bear the bank's emblem in violation of city regulations on directional signs.

However, city Zoning Administrator Jerrel Northcutt said the signs met the "intent of the city ordinance since the bank has no other free-standing signs.

Also approved was the request of Robert C. Messersmith Sr., representing Lubbock National Bank, for a variance in the setback requirements for a structure and a sign at the bank's planned drive-in bank at Main Street and Texas Avenue.

Messersmith said "practically all businesses in the central business district" are built up to the property lines, including the bank's existing drive-in across the street from the proposed facility. The sign requested by the bank would

Commission Considers Suspension

By NANCY ALLEN Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock Civil Service Commissioners this morning heard arguments from both sides on whether to uphold or overturn the Jan. 29 suspension of Lubbock police officer Ronald Max Wilkinson. Wilkinson received a 10-day suspension from the police force when he allegedly relinquished his service revolver during an attempt to prevent a relative from committing suicide. Though the attempt succeeded, Chief of Police J.T. Alley contended Wilkinson's action was in violation of the department's rule that no officer shall surrender his weapon at any time for any Alley added, however, that the police department "is proud of him (Wilkinson)" for his successful efforts to stop the suicide attempt.

In testimony, Wilkinson stated he was off duty at 10 p.m. Jan. 29 when a relative called asking him to come over and dissuade another family member from committing suicide.

He stated he was in radio contact with the police dispatcher, and knew that two on-duty officers had been sent to the

The other officers waited nearby during the hour or so Wilkinson spent talking to the distraught person. Wilkinson admitted he relinquished the service revolver he had carried to the scene while attempting to calm the suicidal relative.

Wilkinson said he gave up his service revolver when the distraught relative, who was holding a shotgun, offered to lay down his weapon if Wilkinson would put down his pistol.

Testimony indicated that Wilkinson and the relative, in effect traded weapons, with the relative picking up the officer's pistol and Wilkinson taking the shotgun, which he later found to be unloaded.

Police department rules also state a police officer must carry his weapon at all times, whether he is on duty or not.

Attorneys representing Wilkinson and the police department were present and called several witnesses to testify, including Chief of Police Alley. He defended the disciplinary action on grounds that "a police officer is considered a police officer 24 hours a day," and maintained that Wilkinson was guilty of "misusing his weapon when he gave it up." The incident was investigated by the police department's internal affairs division, which recommended the suspension, said Alley. Final arguments in the matter and other commission business were expected to take place this afternoon.

Mennonites Have Little Chance Of Meeting Payment Deadline

When the religious group arrived in Seminole in March 1977, they arranged to buy the 10-section 70 Ranch southwest of town for close to $1.5 million. Nix's attorney, Ed Fulbright of Lamesa, also is doubtful the Mennonites can come up with the necessary money. We're certainly hoping they can make the payment, but frankly, I seriously doubt if they can," Fulbright said.

"They have indicated to me that they are having difficulty raising the money,' he continued. "We want to give them every opportunity within reason to make

Wednesday also was the second day of a two-day period for the Seminole Mennonites to register with the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

The INS established a field office in the colony's church Tuesday and Wednesday to take a census of the local Mennonite population. Those registered will be list-ed on a Senate Bill proposed by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen allowing them up to two years to remain in the country to acquire proper certification and eventually permanent alien status.

INS officials in Dallas said this morning they still had received no word as to how many Mennonites had registered during the two-day period.

The Mennonites missed a Feb. 1 deadline for proper certification, but INS director Leonel Castillo promised he would not pursue the matter until Congress acted on Bentsen's legislation.

Proposed Changes To Benefit Working Women

curity Administration is offering for public debate two new approaches that would give married women more Social Security benefits in their own right instead of treating them merely as their husbands' dependents.

One of the two major approaches outlined in the study would split earnings evenly between husband and wife, regardless of who worked during the marriage; the other option would set up a two-tier system to guarantee everyone a flat $122-a-month benefit at age 65, plus whatever benefits he or she earned as a Divorcees would fare better and disability insurance coverage would be improved for women under either plan. But a surviving parent would get a dependent's benefit only until the family's youngest child turned 17, instead of 18.

And the possible changes would result in a net reduction in benefits for traditional one-earner families in which the wife never worked outside the home and thus never paid into the Social Security

Although the woman's benefits in those

ly, the couple's combined benefit would be up to 19 percent lower than under the present system.

The agency, ordered to undertake the study two years ago by Congress, said it was "premature" to recommend legislative changes and called instead for a widespread public debate on the two major options it outlined and the issues they

The 323-page report was discussed today at a news conference by the credits from the marriage would be divided upon divorce or when one spouse turned would get credit for 80 percent of the total annual earnings of the couple, but not less than 100 percent of the higher of the two individual credits.

Under the option that would set up a flat payment for every recipient, workers would accumulate additional individual credits. This option also would split earnings upon divorce and allow a person to inherit earnings credits from a deceased spouse and an elderly or disabled divorced woman could get benefits without waiting for her former spouse to retire or which the wife never worked outside the home would stem from removal of the current inequity in which such one-earner couples can draw higher benefits than two-earner couples who made the same total wages.

Under the present system, for example, a couple in which only the husband works and earns $12,000 a year can draw $648 a month, compared to $544 for a husband and wife who make $6,000 each.

A married woman already can draw Social Security on her own earnings record, but many find they can get as much or more under provisions covering a spouse. A woman is entitled to draw the higher benefit, but not both.

About 1.8 million women with earnings records of their own draw wives' or widows' benefits instead, the report said.

Because women outlive men, some 14.4 million of the 24.5 million elderly Social Security recipients, or 60 percent, are women. But their average individual benefit is lower. For example, of the workers retiring last November, women drew an average of $215 per month compared to $325 for men.

Later, Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland completed his annual two-day appearance before the House agricultural appropriations subcommittee to defend his budget, always tighter than that panel thinks it should be.

The Agriculture Committee took two days of testimony from the farmers who brought their tractors here Feb. 5 to dramatize demands for higher prices. It plans to hear other groups' views on farm programs next week.

The farmers argue they cannot survive unless grain and cotton support prices are raised to levels set during periods of wartime shortages. Huge surpluses exist today, dragging down prices despite increases in supports the past two years.

Without the higher supports, Georgian Tommy Fulford said growers cannot encourage their children to stay in farming. That level "is only guaranteeing us a minimum wage," said Lynwood James, also from Georgia.

Democrat Defends Plan For Primary In March

AUSTIN (UPI) - The sponsor of a bill to set a March 11. 1980, presidential primary said today the opportunity for Texas voters to influence the selection of the nation's chief executive is more important than party loyalty. Sen. Jack Ogg. D-Houston, dismissed complaints of Republican and Democratic party officials that the bill would allow unfair crossover voting and permit supporters of one party to invade the primary elections of the other. The largest bloc of voters in Texas are independent voters. They do not vote a straight party ticket," Ogg said. "Independent voters do not want their hands

Ogg said the bill would not violate national Democratic or Republican party rules as some critics contend, because crossover voting would be prohibited between the primary elections and runoffs for state and local offices - elections Ogg's bill would postpone from May and June until July and August.

Voters, under the bill Ogg introduced today, could vote in the presidential primary of either party, however, without being restricted to voting in the general primary of that same party in the sum-

MARRAKECH, Morocco (AP) - Deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi of Iran and Empress Farah left their temporary home in exile here today for the capital of Rabat, where they will move into a new residence.

The shah and his wife arrived here Jan. 22, six days after they fled Iran, and have remained in virtual seclusion in a government guest house in the palm groves on the outskirts of the city 200 miles from Rabat.

Sources in the former Iranian ruler's entourage said the imperial couple planned to move into the Dar es Salaam (House of Peace) Palace reserved for visiting foreign chiefs of state in Rabat. The sources said the shah has no plans at present to move to another country of exile. The governments of Britain, France, Spain and Switzerland said they could not insure the shah's safety, the source said.

The shah was driven from Iran by a year of strikes and demonstrations directed from exile by Khomeini. Many feel the shah is in permanent exile. The shah long has been on friendly terms with Morocco's

A student, given a smorgasbord of courses, might select four years of the education equivalent of pate or stuffed olives or corned beef and cabbage.

In education, that would mean four years of increasingly advanced courses in a certain era of history or music or art or even going very deeply for four years into one or two languages.

The person, as a result, came out of college with a degree and depth of knowledge in a certain subject or subject area. What was wrong with that: not know-

"In the process, general education improves student abilities to think accurate ly, communicate clearly, respond esthetically, and act wisely," Bentley said.

Why general education? "It provides students with many important lifelong benefits," Bentley said.

"For one, general education can help in a person's lifework. Five years after graduation, a majority of college graduates are in jobs outside their major "And even if one remains in his or her chosen field, that field can progress so swiftly that knowledge gained in college quickly becomes outdated.

"A solid general education can help students develop the breadth and flexibility neeeded to adjust to a new job or

LPOA-proposed amendments to the city

The propositions would establish the current city tax rate and assessment ratio as the ceiling on city taxes. If passed, the council would be forbidden from levying a rate higher than $1.12 per $100 assessed valuation, or assessing property at more than 60 percent of market value.

LPOA's five-day-old petition drive is off to a good start because "people see this as a responsible proposal," Green

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: Joe and I have been married before. We have a wonderful marriage and I love him dearly. Joe has five grown children and six grandchildren. We entertain them often. I go out of my way to make them feel welcome and loved, and Joe has often expressed his appreciation for the way I treat them.

I have two grown, unmarried children. We have a great relationship. They are sensible and well-mannered and I'm proud of them.

However, whenever my children visit us, which isn't often because they live out of town, Joe becomes unfriendly and sulky. He finds fault with them constantly. He usually retires to his bedroom early without even a goodnight. You could describe his behavior as rude. My children must sense his unfriendliness because they seldom come to see us now.

I've told Joe how unhappy I am with his behavior, but he insists he is not rude or unfriendly. Meanwhile, the situation remains unchanged.

Should I change my attitude toward HIS children in an effort to show him how unfair he's being to mine? Joe's Bewildered Wife

Dear Wife: No. Instead, get Joe to talk out his feelings about your children, and try to find out why he's so rude and unfriendly to them.

Your solution - to fight fire with fire - could cause your wonderful marriage to go up in smoke.

DEAR ABBY: My husband wants me to try group sex, but I just can't see having anybody in bed with us. He says he doesn't see anything wrong with making our lives a little more exciting, and this is one sure way of doing it.

What is your opinion of this? Lone Star State

Dear Lone: Three's a crowd. Especial-

DEAR ABBY: I've never seen a problem like mine in your column. I'm a 33year-old normal man except that I have absolutely no hair on my chest, arms or legs. And that is where I want hair the most. I have plenty of hair on my head so I know I can grow hair, but I'm so ashamed of my hairless body I avoid going to the beach. Is there some kind of treatment I can take to promote the growth of hair where I want it? I am miserable in my hairless state. I want to be like the other guys. Hairless In Hilo

Dear Hairless: End your misery by seeing an endocrinologist (a gland specialist). In the meantime, paste-on hair for chests is available in some of the better men's shops. It's true! Would I lie to you on George Washington's birthday?

DEAR ABBY: I have been married five months to a very wonderful man. This is his first marriage and my second. I own some beautiful jewelry and furs and would enjoy wearing them, but my husband doesn't want me to wear any thing "showy" that he didn't give me That means I can't wear any of my jewelry or furs because he hasn't given me to match what I own.

I think he is being unfair, although so far I've gone along with his wishes. I would appreciate your thinking.

Dear Unadorned: I think your husband's insecurity is showing. I agree that his request is unfair. But whether you want to honor it or not should be your de-

4 Void The bidding: West North East Pass Pass 3 NT Pass Pass 5 4 Pass Pass Pass Pass

Readers often write to ask us for our favorite hands. Here is one played by my fellow columnist, Charles Goren, which proves that he richly deserves the title of "Mr. Bridge," bestowed on him by the American Contract Bridge League some years ago.

After North raised South's two heart demand bid, South started a cue-bidding sequence to determine whether partner had any wasted values in clubs. North's no trump bid was the first warning signal, and when North later showed the king of clubs in response to a cue-bid. South decided to give up all hopes for a grand slam and settled for six hearts.

West made the safe lead of the jack of hearts, and all seemed smooth sailing. To Goren, sitting South, the contract seemed to depend on nothing more than a 3-2 diamond break or, if they were 4.1, bringing down a singleton queen or finding West with the long diamonds.

Goren won the queen of trumps and drew two more rounds as West discarded two clubs. Next came the ace and king of diamonds, and West's spade discard was a bitter blow-it seemed that declarer would have to lose two diamond tricks.

Declarer retired for a while to consider the position. West was marked with eleven black cards, and that fact provided a ray of hope. Declarer cashed the ace of spades and continued the suit, finessing the ten when West followed with a low spade. When this held, the contract was halfway home.

All declarer now needed was to find West with the ace of clubs. He led the king of clubs from dummy and when East produced a low club, he discarded the ace of spades from his hand! Since that would have been declarer's twelfth trick, West was forced to win the ace of clubs. But he was left with nothing but black cards, and whichever suit he returned allowed dummy to score the two black queens, on which declarer discarded his two diamond losers. Six hearts bid and made in a virtuoso performance.

Auto Repairs By Dishonest Mechanics Prove Costly For Unknowing Owners

By BARBARA J. BROOKS Family News Staff

What can you expect when you take your car to be repaired, especially if you don't know a distributor from a differential?

The number one consumer complaint in the U.S. today involves auto repair jobs, according to a U.S. congressional committee that recently completed a three year investigation. Mal Cleland, manager of the Better Business Bureau on the South Plains, says that complaints about auto repair ranked third out of 80 catagories of complaints received in 1978.

Some auto repair shops take advantage of unsuspecting motorists. Here are some rackets that can be perpetrated by the FEW mechanics that may try to ripoff their customers; all mechanics are NOT-

When checking the oil, the attendant may "short stick", not pushing the dip stick all the way down, showing the oil to be low. He may also "short thumb" the stick by wiping off some of the oil at the level mark, before showing it to you. Both of these procedures tell you oil is needed. If the attendant puts in an unnecessary quart, damaging overflow could result later on when you're driving. Or he may "up-end" an empty can into your car and charge you for a quart.

A battery can foam ominously and seem to be in need of replacing, with a little help from the attendant and a pinch of baking soda or an antacid tablet placed on the good battery. A little squirt of either Worcestershire or soy sauce in the right place under the hood can produce some ugly smoke which could mean the sale of a new alternator, oil or fuel pump, all of which may not be needed.

When an unscrupulous attendant checks your tires for proper air pressure; instead of putting in air, the air can be let out. This is almost impossible to detect, and the attendant may have your tire off of the car before he tells you about "the problem" and the coincidental tire sale he is running

An attendant can very easily slash a radiator hose or a fan belt while under the hood. This means a replacement with a set amount for the labor and the belt.

Overheating and vapor locks are common in many cars in hot weather. A rest stop will usually remedy both situations with a possible addition of water once the engine cools down. Dishonest garagemen may try to get away with the sale of a for your needs and to help you with tips new fuel pump (in exchange for your car's good one) or just anti-freeze for this "problem." If the dash signal on your car shows that the alternator isn't working proper-ly, before replacing it for $60 to $80, check the voltage regulator; it may only be a worn terminal and a very inexpensive repair.

When the car is up on the hoist, the attendant may squirt oil on a shock absorber and say that it is leaking and needs replacing. Since it is usually recommended that shocks be replaced in pairs, this could be a bundle for the racketeer. Also while your car is up there, the attendant can turn the wheel to the side, and make the ball joint appear to jump from its socket. There should be play in the joint when the wheel is turned.

According to Mal Cleland, the BBB implemented a program last year for both dealers and independant auto repair shops. It is a code of ethics. The subscribers must adhere to the code or the public will be told if the shops are found in vi-

Lubbock is the first city in the U.S. to start a code of ethics and, according to Cleland, soon after its beginning, more cities followed.

The BBB has pamphlets to help you in deciding what kind of shop will be right for care and maintenance. The bureau will also tell you if complaints about a certain business have been filed and not corrected by the company.

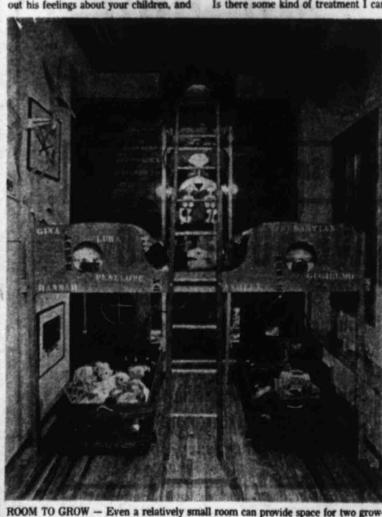

Retirement Living Magazine published some tips on minor things to do to your car to give it longer life, and save on repair bills

If there is a formation of gummy grey residue on the battery terminals, they need cleaning. Do so with a mixture of baking soda and water.

Heater and radiator hose clamps that are loose will become discolored with the leakage of anti-freeze. Tighten them with a screw driver and test the hoses by squeezing to see if they're spongy or if there are visible cracks.

The air filter is a very important part of the car. If dirty, it can cause your car to waste fuel, and also cause excessive wear of cylinder walls, pistons and rings. This filter assures that the 10,000 gallons of air an engine consumes for each gallon of gas burned is clean.

There are two classes taught in Lubbock, for persons who want to learn the basics about cars. Both start at the beginning of the school semesters in January and August. One is taught by the LEARN program at Texas Tech University and the other is offered by South Plains College. Both are basic mechanics courses.

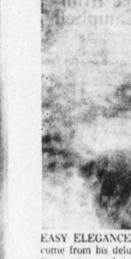

ROOM TO GROW — Even a relatively small room can provide space for two growing youngsters. Large toy bins under the beds are on casters and can be rolled aside for play. Plain hardwood flooring adds to the clean uncluttered look.

lieve, but on Jan. 18, Archie Leach, better known as Cary Grant, was 75 years old. Here are some flashbacks and snapshots of the debonair actor with the enduring good looks.

He was born in Bristol, England, was brought up chiefly by his father, aunt, uncle and grandmother after his mother left home when he was only 9.

By PAUL STEINER

At 12 he got backstage jobs at vaudeville theaters. A year later - tall for his age - he became a member of a troupe of teen-aged boys trained as acrobatic Stilt-walking was among his quickly acquired skills - and many a Grant biographer point out that he started out in showbiz as a stiltwalker. But the job entailed much more than that - acting, tumbling, dancing.

When his troupe played New York. Cary decided to stay and pursue his career here. Before he made it big on Broadway (with Oscar Hammerstein II and the Shuberts) he earned $5 a day as a stiltwalking advertisement for a Coney Island amusement park ($10 on weekends) and by selling hand-painted neckties created by a close pal who later became the top Hollywood designer, Orry-Kelly.

His first film was "This Is The Night." with Charles Ruggles, Rita Damita, Roland Young, which he made for Paramount in 1932. But his career really took off after Mae West discovered him for She Done Him Wrong," which became a smash in 1933.

In her autobiography, "No Bed of Roses" (Morrow) Joan Fontaine, who starred in Hitchcock's "Suspicion" with Cary, recalls: "Cary felt it would give him a serious acting role - unlike the comedies he'd been making such as "The Awful Truth" and 'Bringing Up Baby.' Fontained adds: "His timing, his body movements were superb."

In his biography, "On The Street Where I Live" (Norton), Alan Jay Lerner recalls that Jack Warner wanted Cary Grant to play Prof. Higgins in the movie version of "My Fair Lady." Wrote Lerner, "I told him that as much as I admired Cary, there is an unmistakeable Cockney strain in his English and the role demanded the impeccable. Nevertheless, he invited Cary to play the role. But Cary was too wise. He told Jack that only a fool would try to follow Rex Harrison."

Of the 72 films Cary made, 28 premiered at Radio City Music Hall, recalls radio-TV host King of Nostalgia Joe Franklin. (This writer still vividly remembers first seeing "The Bachelor and the Bobbysoxer" (with the growing-up

Sex Symbol Cary Grant Relives Memories

Arthur Marx in the book "Goldwyn" (Norton-Ballatine) tells of Goldwyn's bird-dog efforts to get Cary to play an angel sent down from heaven in "The Bishop's Wife":

"Grant was playing the angel a little too fey. Sam wanted him to be more manly, 'with sex appeal.'

"I won't be happy playing it that way," pouted Grant. 'You want me to be happy, don't you, Mr. Goldwyn?'

"I don't give a damn whether you're happy or not,' replied Sam, who had a theory that when people were happy making a picture it was usually a stink-

In "Deeper Into Movies" (Bantam) critic Pauline Kael writes: "It took Cary Grant a long time to become Cary Grant Dean Martin used to be able to do something close to Grant's sexy-farceur-

'On screen I play myself," Cary once admitted. "Its harder to play yourself, the hardest thing in the world to do."

The story goes that a fan magazine editor once wired him: "How old Carv Grant?" Back came the answer:. "Old Cary Grant Fine. How you?"

At 62, the much-married actor became a father for the first time. He spends much time with Jennifer, the daughter that Dyan Cannon bore him. He travels with her, takes her to ballgames.

"What makes me tick? - Just breathing. I guess," he once said. He never won an Academy Award — just a special one presented by Sinatra in 1970.

About a dozen years ago he joined Faberge and became very active in the marketing and promoting of their beauty products, emceeing functions, attending awards ceremonies. Recruiter Says Armed Forces Must Compete For Graduates

Avalanche-Journal Staff

The military might of the Soviet Union, the status of this country's armed forces and the role of South Plains educators took the spotlight Wednesday at a joint services luncheon for school advisers.

Teachers gathered at the Reese Air Force Base officers club learned that the Soviet Union could mobilize 350 divisions of 10,000 men each for a manpower total in excess of this country's entire male population.

gy, the teachers were told.

For the necessary manpower to operate that technology, the commander of the Army's New Mexico-West Texas recruiting district said, the armed forces must compete with colleges and the busineess world for the cream of the high school graduate crop.

Falling below its quota in the last quarter of 1978 precipitated the present publicity on revival of the draft to fill the ranks.

Murder charges were filed Wednesday against a 21-year-old Tulsa, Okla., man in the death of Dillard Odell Gaddy of Lubbock, originally thought to have died of David G. Coronado was arrested by Tulsa police Tuesday night, after a Lubbock woman he allegedly kidnapped told Oklahoma authorities Coronado had beaten the 54-year-old Gaddy.

Gaddy was discovered in his 2910 Ave. H. No. 58, apartment about 10 a.m. Feb. 8. Autopsy results showed that the man had died of an apparent heart attack and Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy ruled the death was of natural causes.

The 19-year-old Lubbock woman told Tulsa police that Coronado had beaten Gaddy late Feb. 7 or early Feb. 8 at the older man's apartment. She told officers Coronado also took $40 cash from the victim's wallet as well as a radio and toiletries from the apartment.

After the assault, she said, Coronado forced her to accompany him to his Tulsa home. She was able to escape Monday and talk to Tulsa police, officials said.

Coronado has waived extradition and sheriff's deputies were expected to leave today for Oklahoma to pick him up and return him to Lubbock for arraignment.

cents and the school district, by 20 cents. The association Friday night voted to launch a petition drive for tax-limiting charter amendments.

"By noon Saturday, several petitions already had been returned completely filled with names," Green said. Each copy of the petition has room for 50 sig-

LPOA attorney Warren Goss noted that under current state law, Lubbock and other cities could have a tax rate as high as $2.50 per $100 valuation, based on 100 percent of market value.

The association's propositions simply would place a more restrictive limit locally, Goss said. Goss said he hopes for a minimum of 25,000 signatures on the LPOA petitions. But even that would be overkill. The city attorney last summer determined that a charter amendment election must be held if signatures are obtained from 2,800 qualified voters - five percent of the estimated 56,000 qualified voters living in the City of Lubbock. That determination was made in light of a tax-limit petition drive sponsored by a group opposed to school desegregation busing. The anti-busing group's drive has since fizzled out. The LPOA is planning to round up its petitions by Feb. 24. Goss and Green said the petitions then will be presented to the city council. An election must be held between 30 and 90 days from the presentation. Goss said.

Goss and other LPOA officials said they don't believe the city will be hampered by the limits. Annual growth of the city's tax roll from property revaluation and new construction will continue to provide new revenues to offset inflation in the city budget, Goss said,

The proposed charter amendments will not address the biggest gripe of many property owners - reappraisal of their homes by the tax office every four years.

"If the current spiral continues, the value of our property will keep going up and up. There is not any way we can limit the values on our property," Goss said.

Green said information about the LPOA petition drive may be obtained from the association's office in Monterey American taxpayers need to make a "critical investment in the future wellbeing and security of the United States by increasing aid to Latin America, Abelardo L. Valdez added on Wednesday.

Valdez, an Agency for International Development assistant administrator, told the House subcommittee on inter-American affairs, that the increased funds "is not really 'foreign' assistance, but a critical investment ... an investment for Pennsylvania and Texas and New York as well as Bolivia, Honduras and the Dominican Republic.

But without continuing American support, claimed Valdez, the Caribbean and Latin American countries will lapse into cities of "unmanageable size filled with millions of undereducated, jobless and underemployed workers and choked by congestion, pollution and energy shortages. Millions will be trying to escape across international boundaries to pockets of growth in nearby countries and northward to the United States, creating growing tensions between countries."

"The phenomenon of the undocumented worker is not solely a law enforcement problem," said Valdez. "Its root cause is unbalanced economic growth that does not produce adequate economic opportunities for the rural and urban poor. Its

Officers Make Drug Arrests

LA GRANGE (AP) - Law officers dismantled a clandestine "speed" laboratory Wednesday after a pre-dawn raid netted a cache of the illegal drug worth $30 million to $60 million on the street, a Texas Department of Public Safety spokesman said. Bill Carter said a base that could be crystalized into about 100 pounds of methamphetamine, or speed, was seized. Officers arriving at a farmhouse near this Central Texas town heard nine shots, the DPS said, but no one was injured and the agents did not return fire.

Charges of attempted capital murder and manufacture of a controlled substance were filed against Henry William Withers III, 36, of Houston, said Justice of the Peace Lloyd Goehring.

Eddie Gene Perkins, 29, of California, and Philip Cebern Musgrave Jr., 37, of Bulverde, were charged with possession and manufacture of methamphetamine,

DR. LAMB

Absorbing Vitamin C

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB - We read your column saying that 100 mg of vitamin C was all the bloodstream would absorb. We were very surprised about that. We haven't had a cold for two years now and attributed it to the fact that we ate a grapefruit and at least one orange a day in addition to the 100 mg of vitamin C we took. Now we wonder how many other vitamins fall into this category. We know that the minimum requirement is printed on all the bottles, but we don't know whether more would be beneficial. Could too much be harmful?

DEAR READER - You can absorb quite a bit of vitamin C into the bloodstream, but it won't stay there very long because the excess will be eliminated by the kidneys. In fact, vitamin C is eliminated on a daily basis. That's one reason people need an adequate vitamin C intake every day. I like to see people get that from good tresh fruit and vegetables. It's hard to improve on that source.

I wish everyone would realize that the kidneys are in the body to filter out things your body doesn't need. The specific and clearest example is ordinary water. If you drink a lot of water, it won't be too long until it will be running out your kidneys. Why? Because it's more water than your body needs.

If the blood level of sugar gets too high, the sugar goes out in the urine. You see this all the time in diabetics who have high blood sugars. The same thing happens with water soluble vitamins. That's why you can't have a super level of vitamin C in the blood-

I'd like to correct one misimpression you have about daily requirements of vitamins. The values printed on all bottles these days are recommended daily dietary allowances (RDA). That's a great deal more than the minimum daily requirement for health. If you are consuming the recommended daily allowance of vitamins and are an average, healthy person, that should provide you a good safety factor against the possibility of having any vitamin deficiency.

The only people who need more vitamins than these amounts are those who have an illness or, for one reason follows that a well-balanced diet will work very well for most people. If a person isn't getting a well-balanced diet for any reason, any of the common daily vitamin supplements that contain the RDA amounts is all that is

I am sending you The Health Letter number 3-3. Vitamin C (Ascorbic Acid) to give you detailed information on why you need this vitamin and what it does and does not do. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY

Now about vitamin C preventing colds. People often get trapped into thinking that what they've done results in a cure or prevents, illnesses. That's why dancing by the light of the moon and wearing a bag of asafetida around your neck cures all sorts of things. Even doctors have to be reminded from time to time that some patients get well in spite of their treatment, not because of it.

Pondicherry Residents Protest Indian Leader's Merger Plan

NEW DELHI, India (AP) - Prime Minister Morarji Desai has begun backpedalling on his plan to merge the former French colony of Pondicherry, famous for its liquor trade, with adjoining Indian states after its inhabitants took to the streets in violent protest. Police stations and government offices were attacked and set ablaze during four days of rioting recently. Two persons were killed and at least 11 wounded in the territory on the Bay of Bengal 85 miles south of Madras.

"Merger is not just an emotional issue," said a committee quickly formed to oppose Desai's plan, announced in late Pondicherry, made up of four bits of land, enjoys an average income six times the national average of $160. Its residents fear there would be a "levelling" of their living standard down to that of the neighboring states if the merger goes through.

And despite claims that they are fighting to retain their French heritage, reports from Pondicherry say its 550,000 inhabitants are more concerned with preserving their lucrative liquor business. The main Pondicherry enclave is on the coast of the "dry" state of Tamil Nadu. The enclave is an oasis serving up frosty glasses of beer and bottles of fermented coconut milk to thirsty day-trippers from across the open border.

This flourishing trade apparently was a major consideration of Desai's when he announced his plan in Madras, capital of Tamil Nadu. The 82-year-old Indian leader, a crusading teetotaller, has pledged to make all of India dry by 1982.

However, Desai had not reckoned with the immediate and emotional reaction in Pondicherry. Government employees stayed away from work, students boycotted classes, and a local leader of Desai's Janata Party was removed from his post, according to reports from the enclave.

Retreating from his plan to merge the former colony with neighboring states in "the interest of political stability," the prime minister said there would be no change without ascertaining the wishes of the people of Pondicherry life (or) their economic status," said Mohammad Abdullah Sait, the territory's administrative representative in New

However, little remains of Pondicherry's French past although it became totally Indian only 17 years ago.

There are no sidewalk cafes serving croissants or wine. The locals, it is apparent, prefer such southern Indian staples as spicy hot rice cakes and gravy to French cuisine.

The late Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, during the negotiated Indian takeover of the colony, said: "I hope that the learning of French will continue in Pondicherry and make it a center in India of the French language and a window of French culture. But the window has never been opened very widely.

Carter Expects Loyalty, Enthusiasm From Staff

By WALTER R. MEARS WASHINGTON (AP) — With President

Carter, as with his predecessors, the bottom line is loyalty to the administration once the president has set its course.

Presidents never have taken kindly to public disclosure of the private debates that shape policy, or to public dissent within the official family.

"Once I make that decision, I expect my policy to be carried out, with loyalty with enthusiasm," Carter said Mon-

Enthusiasm may be a bit much to expect from an aide who has seen his counsel rejected, but a president certainly is entitled to expect loyalty from his advisers even if they don't agree with something he has decided to do.

In that situation, loyalty can simply mean silence.

There is, after all, an option available to a presidential assistant who can't accept a White House decision: quit.

All of this came up after Carter lectured his top aides in three White House they say to reporters.

Carter was quoted as saying that "those of us in responsible positions ought to be very careful about making public comments which could contribute to a misapprehension about what our policy was.

The subject is a difficult one because Richard M. Nixon gave confidentiality a bad name by invoking national security and the privacy of White House conversations in the attempted Watergate cover-

But the excesses of the Nixon administration don't change the fact that a president couldn't function if everything he and his staff said to each other was available for publication.

Nixon always said that without confidentiality, he would not have been able to get the full range of opinions a president should get from his advisers. The White House tape transcripts indicate that he didn't get dissenting views anydals that eventually forced him from off-

Carter came to office promising an open administration, and suggesting at one point that even the meetings of his Cabinet might be open to coverage by newsmen. He dropped the latter idea, but not the commitment to openness.

The question becomes how open. An administration in which every adviser was free to recount every conversation would be a free-for-all in which debate would substitute for policy.

Carter said he never told his aides to stop talking to reporters. "I do, however, have to insist upon a degree of teamwork once a decision is made that relates to a sensitive issue, like the Middle East, or like SALT negotiations or like the relationships with Iran in recent months." he said at his news conference. "That's what. I have admonished them to do, to have at free expression of opinion and to let me have their individual opinions up to the time that I make a decision. Once I make Carter said he wasn't ordering his advisers to clam up, but neither was he issuing "a blanket permit" for his aides to express publicly their personal views on his policies. He said if an aide cannot accept his decisions, "then the only option for them is to resign.

The net result of the Carter lectures is tion. His aides and advisers won't get into trouble by keeping their mouths shut.

But what White House press secretary Jody Powell calls a vexing problem will remain, and that is to conduct an open administration while avoiding published reports that make "national policy less

Sheen Speaks

Speaking of churchmen, Archbishop Fulton J. Sheen told Carter and 3,000 others at Washington's annual White House prayer breakfast that he found it remarkable no president since Abraham Lincoln had talked publicly about sin.

Perhaps someone should send the eloquent cleric a copy of "The Spiritual Journey of Jimmy Carter," a just-published compilation of presidential speeches, interviews and Sunday school lessons on religious themes.

Surely no president in many years has had so much to say about his religious faith. Wesley G. Pippert, the White House reporter who compiled the book, has a whole section on "Temptation, Sin. Forgiveness and Grace."

For example, at the funeral of Hubert H. Humphrey last year, Carter recalled a visit to the Mahatma Gandhi memorial statement on "The Seven Sins.

"According to Gandhi," said Carter, "the seven sins are wealth without works, pleasure without conscience, knowledge without character, commerce without morality, science without humanity, worship without sacrifice and politics without principle.

Carter concluded that, by Gandhi's definitions, Humphrey was "without a graduate of the Army War College. There's no guessing how long Shroeder will remain at the White House. Supposedly he's on loan for 90 days. But his predecessor, ICA's Ed Penney, joined Schecter on a short-term basis and stayed about a year. Penney recently was named chief U.S. Embassy spokesman in Algeria.

Brzezinski and Schecter are in Mexico with Carter. Shroeder is minding the office back home.

Carson City Silver

Dollars May Sell

WASHINGTON (AP) - One million rare Carson City silver dollars will be available for sale to coin collectors if the Senate and President Carter go along with legislation approved Tuesday by

The House approved the measure by voice vote after it cleared the House Banking Committee without dissent. The measure was among the first pieces of legislation acted on by the 96th Con-

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., said sale of the coins should result in $20 million in receipts for the government. The coins were minted in Carson City, Nev., during the 1800s and it had been believed they were melted down during World War I for their silver. However, a 1964 audit discovered that nearly three million of the silver dollars remained.

When he speaks he does so quickly, in a well-modulated voice and with no mean wit. He is the kind of man one would describe as an intellectual rather than a highbrow. His response to the question of which three books he would take to a de-serted island would probably be the same as George Bernard Shaw. Undoubtedly, they would be three empty notebooks. Talking with Gill is intellectually perilous. As a writer and critic for over 40 years with the New Yorker, he has heard more diatogue than nearly anyone in Christendom. Using words as an acupuncturist uses needles, Gill can deflate th pompous or excite the lethargic.

"Being a drama critic is not a very hard in the company of the comp job compared to writing a book. In fact, my distinguished predeceasor gave it up saying the job was not fit for a grown man," Gill said.

He spoke of his new book published by Methuen, Summer Places, a beautifully conceived coffee-table-size picture book with text, on which he collaborated with photographer Dudley Whitney.
"I've always been interested in child-

These three things are linked and I wanted to explore that link," he said.

"I am almost Jungian, autochthonous about the seasons. I would not know how to respond to life without seasons. The Swedes run amok in winter. They have such a horror of darkness. You see them all over Europe and the Mediterranean, trying to store up, as if in a battery, the sun," he said.

There are only two other things that excite Gill as much as summer: the theatre and his love of architecture.

and his love of architecture.

"Architecture is my main interest in life after writing. I rejoice in the fact that we are going to be technologically retrogressive. We are going back to using what are called 'operable windows,' windows that go up and down. For thousands of years we lived with climate as it was we captured breezes through windows for cross ventilation. Now there is air conditioning. Not to sweat is a strange thing to do to the human body, don't you think?"

He smiled a slightly impish smile and then drew a parallel with language.
"Language is in a state of disemprovement. Language always has been going from the more complex to the less complex. We have abandoned the future conditional in my lifetime," he said as if the pandonment were the abandonment of

Perhaps even more fearful for him to contemplate is the number of plays that are destined to fail on Broadway. For these, he is "almost physically fearful."

"I would light a candle — if I were a devout Catholic instead of a collapsed one - I want some of these plays so much to succeed," he said.

He has a theory that in "living performances" there is a relationship between the performer and the audience and that the audience secretly hopes or worries about failure. It is why, he claims, dance has become so popular.

"The difficulty in dance is there are no words of Shakespeare to save you, the audience sees only what is there, the dancer's talent, and there is a kind of perversion at work. A certain percentage of the audience wants the performer to fail. Some wanted Judy Garland, for example, to fail. Some wanted her to die on stage. But some of the old actresses are too tough to die. They don't die on stage, they're just too tough," he said triumphantly.

He was asked to sum up his life. 'In the years remaining, I would love to write a musical comedy with Joel Grey as Moliere, he looks and acts like him. Then, I would like to write one more novel. You know, the capacity to write fiition diminishes with age," he said.

"Not many people have grave stones these days, but the epitaph on mine would be: 'He had a good time.'"

Twin Helps Retarded Brother

LAFAYETTE, Ga. (AP) - Holly Clark is more than a sister to her mentally retarded twin brother, Stevie. She is his teacher and his best friend.

"I can remember in the first grade when we were sitting on a swing behind the house," she said. "I was trying to teach him to talk. I used to cry about it all the time, especially when I first started to read and he couldn't."

The twins, children of Mr. and Mrs. Wes Clark, were six weeks premature when they were born 17 years ago.

Holly weighed 41/2 pounds, but she grew rapidly. Stevie, who weighed only 31/2 pounds, did not.

Doctors told the Clarks their son was mongoloid and urged them to place him in a home for the mentally retarded. But they decided to keep him at home.

That decision allowed Stevie and Holly to grow up together.

"Stevie feels closer to Holly than to me," said his mother. "There's something about being twins and, in this case, it's something special.'

While Holly attended public schools, Stevie went to a special training center in nearby Chattanooga, Tenn. A few years ago, he began attending the Walker County Training Center in Wallaceville, which is closer to home. The children spent their free time together

"We used to play house," Holly recalled in an interview. "I would sit him down at a table with little cups and saucers. We'd also play ball together. When we'd go on vacation, Stevie and I would sit in the sand and play.

Doctors at first said Stevie's life expectancy would be only four years, but he has fooled everyone.

"They later said they had never seen a mongoloid with such a strong heart," said his father. "He had no murmur at all, and that was unusual."

With Holly's help and his training at school, Stevie has learned to do things once thought impossible for him, his mother said. Last year, he brought home two first place ribbons from the Special Olympics, a sporting event for handicapped youngsters.

'He can do so many things," Mrs. Clark said. "They try to help them help themselves. Fifteen years ago, if you had a retarded child you had a retarded child. There was no place to go.'

She and her husband are helping raise funds for a new training center for the mentally retarded in this area of northwest Georgia.

Holly, a band member and a cheerleader for the wrestling team at LaFayette High School, is considering a career in special education.

Housewife Writes Romantic Novel

there was a Corpus Christi housewife with a literary flair who had always wanted to write a romance novel.

For years, Sondra Stanford had devoured the "adult fairy tales" published by Harlequin Books — stories of true love and happy endings.

When she became a "stay-at-home-

"I needed something to distract my attention from housework, and it was a lot more fun making up a story while I was cleaning the floor," she said. "I believe in the magic of love, and I knew the only way I'd be happy was to write about

Alibis Play Role In Economics

By JOHN CUNNIFF NEW YORK (AP) — Promises, wishes and alibis all have more than a few things in common, but in this era of doubt it may be their propensity to arouse suspicion that constitutes their most obvious

Those three elements play a large role in economic news, in recent years for certain, and perhaps on investigation a long history can be found. It might even be that they are endemic to the specie.

Under "promises" you must file most economic forecasts, no matter by whom - the president, the professors, the consultants, the corporate chairmen, or the local seer who lives on publicity.

Almost all such promises are accompanied by asterisks, and the asterisks are followed by the conditions, which generally begin with "if." Earlier this month one of the nation's largest banks won headlines with the suggestion that current economic conditions indicate an orderly business slowdown might occur without a recession. Good news? Probably more promise than substance. The final sentence: "Still, the greatest threat to this outlook is that a substantial worsening of infla-tion could bring about a serious business That's as reliable as the plumber's promise that "I'll be right over," or the surance agent's assurance that "You just leave everything in my hands and I'll see that you're taken care of." Or Uncle Sam's promise in a publication of the U.S. Savings Bond Program, that "Savings Bonds are never worth less than the amount paid for them." Come on, Sam! At 9 percent inflation a year? The line that separates promise from A good many economic forecasts - the

The real estate agent's assurance that you'd better buy now because prices will only get higher and mortgage terms tougher is documented by past experi-ence, but still highly leavened with hope.

True, a combination of factors strongly suggests that housing will continue to rise faster than prices generally, but in some high price categories in some geographical areas, prices have dipped.

Included in the promise-wish category are many suburban homeowners. "I could get $70,000 for my house if I put it on the market." Really? First off, is there a strong local market? No market,

Play Crumple Ball To Pass Time

By SHARI LEWIS

It's hard to make time fly when you have the flu. Next time you're stuck in bed, and you're tired of all your toys, and no one wants to play with you 'cause you're the family's Typhoid Mary,' and even the new shows on TV seem like reruns, play Crumple Ball. It's a perfect example of the slogan "recycling can be fun." (I just made up that slogan, but read on and you see if you don't agree with me!)

Plop a large wastepaper basket at the foot of your bed (or across the room). After your family has read (and, I trust, enjoyed) this newspaper, crumple up, sheet by sheet. When you have a bed full of newspaper balls, then very carefully pitch 'em into that basket. Don't worry about the mess. Take careful aim and concentrate on making

When you've had your fun, one clean-up swing around the room will get rid of the evidence.

Best part of this game is that you can play it with fresh equipment every day (if your family takes a daily paper).

Papers Reveal

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - Nearly 4,-300 sheep grazing downwind from Nevada nuclear tests died in the spring of 1953 after absorbing up to 1,000 times the maximum amount of radioactive iodine allowed for humans, government documents show.

"If that happened to sheep out here, what about the people that lived in Cedar City, who got a higher dose?" said Michael Zimmerman, a member of Gov. Scott Matheson's radiation committee, which released the papers this week. Cedar City, Utah, is about 100 miles east of the test site in neighboring Nevada. The 400 documents - most of them from the federal government - were released the same day the Deseret News revealed a study concluding that southern Utah children born during the 1950s nuclear tests have died from leukemia 21/2 times more often than those born before and after the tests. Zimmerman told reporters that some of the documents show radiation contrib uted to the sheep deaths. Despite evidence of high levels of radiation exposure however, he said, the Atomic Energy Commission concluded in late 1953 that radiation had not actually caused the sheep deaths.

Zimmerman said the documents indicate "a willful refusal" by the AEC to investigate the deaths and to determine if high radiation levels may also have affected human health.

Between March 17 and June 4, 1953, the AEC conducted 11 atmospheric nuclear tests at the Nevada Test Site, according to the documents. Such tests end-

The documents, discovered in the state archives late last year, show that Utah ranchers in November 1952 placed about 18,000 sheep on winter grazing land in Lincoln County, Nev. The grazing areas were between a few miles and about 120 miles north and east of Nevada Proving Grounds borders.

When the sheep were returned to Utah in the spring of 1953, ranchers noted many were sick and dying. Ewes had spontaneous abortions and showed burn-like lesions on the face, neck and ears. The majority of lambs were born dead and stunted, and ewes died either during lambing or within a few days, the docu-

In 1973, the United States and Cuba

A thought for the day:
In his first inaugural address in Depression-plagued 1933, President Franklin D.

Roosevelt told the nation, "The only thing we have to fear is fear itself."

Bone marrow tests on the same ewes showed radioactive concentrations 50 percent above the maximum allowable level for humans. However, the report concluded there was "no direct evidence that radiation could have been the cause" of the sheep deaths.

Matheson said the documents contain "some very damning information with respect to the effect of radiation fallout on sheep, and the sheep happen to be in the same area where there were, at that time, numbers of people. And we have to assume that the exposure on one was also an exposure on the other."

In a copyright story Tuesday, the Deseret News reported on a year-long study by Dr. Joseph Lyon, co-director of the Utah Cancer Registry.

Amendment Drive Faltering

By ELAINE S. POVICH

United Press International Writer In the early voting, the constitutional amendment that would give Washington, D.C., two senators and two representatives in Congress is faltering.

The amendment was passed by Congress in August 1978 and has so far been approved by three states - New Jersey, Ohio and Michigan.

Three other states - Delaware, Pennsylvania and California -have turned it down, but supporters are optimistic they will eventually come around.

However, many states have shown ambivalance toward the amendment, and others have shown a definite distaste. In several states, one house or the other has rejected it.

The argument for approving the amendment is a moral one - the same one sounded by American colonists who held the Boston Tea Party. It's the argument against "Taxation Without Repre-

The argument against it is a logical one Washington, D.C. is not a state. It's a city, and should not have the same representation that states do. Supporters counter that the district is already larger than three states and should not be denied representation just because of artificial boundary lines.

Before it becomes a part of the Constitution, the amendment must be approved by 38 states

Walter Fauntroy, the city's non-voting delegate in Congress, has been telling state legislatures the district should have the "basic right of representation."

"The amendment presently before you would extend this basic citizenship right to the only remaining group of citizens in our nation who assume all the duties of citizenship but who are denied the right to be represented in government," he told a committee of the Maryland Legis-

Fauntroy puts less emphasis on the negative topics others stress.

Despite arguments that District residents have been unjustly denied a voice for nearly 200 years, anti-Washington and anti-bureaucracy feelings that swept President Carter into office are the big-gest obstacle facing the proposed amend-

Add that backlash to a healthy dose of partisan politics, the well-documented conservative trend in the country, and some racism - Washington is nearly three-fourths black.

There's little understanding of the District's situation, and the prospect of enough states ratifying the amendment "There's not much enthusiasm for it,"

city back to Maryland or granting partial voting represenation are answers. "There is no fair way to represent this body of people, which is larger than seven states, other than full representation in both houses of Congress." he said. Meanwhile, conservatives have come up with a plan they believe will stop the nendment drive before it gets started and prevent questions about rescinding previous votes and extensions of ratifia-

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Community Services Administration is celebrating 'Black History Month" with a series of seminars, lectures, art and music programs through Feb. 16. "We are placing special emphasis this year on the histories of the black and Hispanic cultures and the crossing of paths of these two historically dynamic groups," said Graciela Olivarez, administration director.

Rights Amendment.

The plan is to have state legislatures pass resolutions opposing the amendment. The conservatives say such resolutions would not be rescindable and thus would bind a state against the amendment. Operating on this theory, passage of just 13 negative resolutions would crush the amendment before it got start-

So far, no state has passed an opposing resolution, and the legal questions that are sure to crop up have not been tested, but that type of resolution has been introduced in several states.

Fauntroy is attempting to put together bi-racial, bi-partisian coalitions in each state to back the D.C. amendment. But the groups have not yet jelled and the legislation is being backed mostly by blacks. Representatives from The District almost certainly would be black since the majority of the 700,000 people who live in the city are black, as are most city offiHOUS

Fauntroy's master plan calls for a budget of $776,000, raised from private sources. He's gotten little of that so far, and he says he's paying his own travel ex-

Washington a few weeks ago netted $15,-000 for the cause. But Fauntroy remains undaunted, partially because the same people who are making gloomy predictions for the D.C. amendment now also never believed it would get through Congress. The amendment was approved by just a one-vote

Under the agreement, which is yet to be com-pletely formalized, Cominco would have the right to mine diamonds if that proved economical, Hausel said.

NOTICE TO TELEPHONE CUSTOMERS

We are planning changes that will increase some rates to five countries and introduce a lower international dial rate to sixteen countries.

The American Telephone & Telegraph Company (AT&T) has filed a new schedule of overseas rates with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) which accomplishes the introduction of international dialing to 17 additional countries. This brings the total of internationally dialable countries to 64. The scheduled changes include substantial rate decreases for 16 countries and selective rate increases in 5 of those 16 countries for calls billed on the United States mainland. There will be no rate changes for the 17th country, the Netherlands Antilles.

The decreases are scheduled to become effective on February 17, 1979, and the increases are scheduled to become effective May 15, 1979.

Increases and decreases of rates to five countries.

The increases, which are limited to the initial period rates and are scheduled to become effective on May 15, 1979, will raise the Sunday Operator Station and Person-to-Person rates to Argentina; the Sunday Person-to-Person rate to Colombia; the night and Sunday Person-to-Person rate to Haiti; and the night and Sunday Operator Station and Person-to-Person rates to Honduras and Nicaragua. For example, the rate for Argentina goes from $6.50 to $8.00 for Operator Station and from $9.00 to $12.00 for Person-to-Person; for Colombia, from $8.25 to $12.00 for Person-to-Person; for Haiti, from $9.00 to $12.00 for Person-to-Person; and for Honduras and Nicaragua, from $5.00 to $6.00 for Operator Station and from $6.00 to $9.00 for Person-to-Person. There are no increases in the additional minute charges. These increases will make the initial period charge for these calls the same as the existing daytime rates

The new International Dial rates, which are lower than all rates presently in effect, will become effective February 17, 1979.

International Dial rates.

With the introduction of International Dial rates on February 17, 1979, customers can save from 10% to 42% compared with the current lowest cost day call.

For example, a three-minute daytime call to Iran, Iraq, Malaysia, Saudi Arabia, Tahiti, Turkey or Yugoslavia, which now costs $9.00 at the Operator Station rate, would cost $7.80 if dialed. Similarly, an $8.10 call to Kenya would be $7.20, the $8.00 call to Argentina would be $7.05, a $6.75 call to German Democratic Republic would be $6.00, and a $6.00 call to Honduras or Nicaragua would be $5.40.

New Operator Station and International Dial rates for countries.

AT&T's proposal includes introducing both International Dial and Operator Station rates to four countries-Bahrain, Belize, Colombia, and Haiti. These rates will be lower than current daytime rates. A three-minute daytime call to Bahrain, if dialed, would cost $9.00; to Belize, the rate would vary from $3.45 to $5.40; to Colombia, from $4.50 to $7.05; and to Haiti, from $3.45 to $7.05, depending on which state THE PROPERTY OF THE PROPERTY O you're calling from. It is important to note that customers calling from areas not presently equipped for International Dial would benefit from the lower dial rates even though the call would have to be completed by the operator. However, if the customer requests special operator assistance or special billing, the Operator Station rate would

States traditionally has treated Mexico like "an adolescent," says a border businessman who believes the agenda for President Carter's meeting with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo fails to indicate any change reflecting Mexico's rapid maturing process.

Al Cisneros, longtime director of the Port of Brownsville who has worked for years trying to strengthen U.S.-Mexico economic and diplomatic ties, said recently Mexico City and Washington too long have ignored their border areas to the detriment of both countries.

"Mexico is one of the leading developing countries with tremendous resources impacting on our country in so many ways," said Cisneros, noting the common problems of unemployment, crime, lack of educational and health facilities, and economic depression facing both the Brownsville area and its sister city of Matamoros, Mexico.

'We need a stronger, positive relationship, brother-to-brother, rather than an adolescent-child relationship."

Cisneros said Carter should seize the opportunity to buy Mexico's recently discovered oil and natural gas, a move Cisneros contends could benefit the depressed economic conditions on the U.S. side of the border, as well as help solve the burgeoning influx of illegal Mexican

MERIDA, Mexico - Yucatan sand from the sandals of a columnist south of the border:

In Mexico there is 'no one last drink' before calling it a night. Ordering 'la ultima', the final one, is considered a faux pas worse than stepping on an hombre's sombrero during the Mexican hat dance. Instead, one asks the waiter for 'del estribo', one for the stirrup before riding off into the sunrise.

On the 13th of August, 1521, heroically defended by Cuauhtemoc, Tlatelolco fell under control of Hernando Cortes. It was neither a triumph nor a defeat. It was the painful birth of the mixed race people which is the Mexico of today. The square in Mexico City contains pre-Columbian ruins, old Spanish colonial buildings and the glass and marble skyscraper of the Foreign Ministry.

Coyotes still infest the heart of Mexico City in the vicinity of the Monte de Piedad, the national pawn shop. This is the name given to the sidewalk touts offering a quick easy-terms loan to strapped citizens coming to pawn their watch, typewriter or jewelry for ready cash at this unique government institution. The national pawn shop has been in business since the early 18th century. It lends money to any citizen putting up personal property, like a refrigerator or a TV set, as security. Now spread over several floors like a huge department store, it sells unredeemed items in hock over the counter and at occasional auc-

Two centuries ago, Mexico's Jesuits were the original boat people. After founding 103 Indian missions and 23 colleges, the order fell from favor with the Spanish authorities and was expelled. In 1767, nearly 700 Jesuits were seized in their monasteries and put aboard ships at Veracruz. Like today's Vietnamese refugees, no European country would take them. They wandered around the Mediterranean for more than a year before finding refuge on the isle of Corsica.

In Wales they pride themselves on town names that take up half the railway platform to spell out. The Mexicans pride themselves on unpronounceable jaw busters like Tlaco Chahuaya and Yeixochilt. Great places to visit, they say if you can bring yourself to ask how to get there.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Traffic deaths in the United States in 1978 exceeded the 50,000 level for the first time in five years, the Transportation Department reported. An estimated 50,145 died in traffic accidents last year, an increase of 4.7 percent over the 1977 toll of 47.876, the department said. The last time fatalities ex-

To reverse the trend, Joan Claybrook, dministrator of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, urged motorists to fasten seat belts and comply with the 55 mile-an-hour speed limit. "The Department of Transportation remains firmly committed to this law because it not only saves lives but also makes a vital contribution to President Carter's energy conservation program," she said.

Some Western states have indicated recently that they want to raise their speed limit. Carter, at his news conference this week, called these moves "ill-advised" and emphasized that any state boosting limits beyond 55 mph would be subject to loss of federal highway funds.

The department report said motorcycle fatalities increase 6 percent in 1978, continuing a trend begun in 1977 when they jumped 23 percent.

Court Prevents Land Sales By Texas Firm

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Department of Housing and Urban Develop-ment says a federal court has issued an order preventing a Texas land developer from selling lots until it registers with the department and makes promised land improvements.

HUD said the order against Lake of the Hills Estates Inc. prohibits sales in the Lake of the Hills Estates subdivision about 30 miles north of San Antonio.

HUD said the company failed to provide paved roads, a playable golf course and a safe water system, all of which it promised buyers. The department said the company's action violated the Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act.

Equal Rights Supporters Suffer Serious Setbacks

By The Associated Press

Like nurses hovering over a sickbed, supporters of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment this week saw their patient suffer setbacks in four states, symptoms of what some say may be a fatal condition - lack of steam

In Illinois, state senators rejected an effort to lower the number of affirmative votes needed to ratify the anti-sex discrimination amendment. One legislative leader called Wednesday's action "the St. Valentine's Day massacre of ERA."

"Every woman in this country should regard this as a personal attack on their rights by these legislators," Mary Jean Collins, head of the Chicago chapter of the National Organization for Women. said after the Illinois action.

In North Carolina, one of three uncommitted state senators announced Tuesday that he would vote against the amendment, making him the 26th of 50 senators publicly opposed to ratification.

Two states - Montana and South Dakota - on Tuesday saw their senates move to join four other states trying to nullify earlier ERA ratifications.

Montana senators voted 25-23 to approve a resolution calling for the state's ratification to expire on March 23, the original deadline for the amendment to gain approval from the required 38

The South Dakota Senate voted 19-17 to rescind that state's 1973 ERA ratification, and the rescission resolution is given better than even chances of passing in Illinois senators rejected 31-24 a motion to require only a majority approval of ERA, instead of the three-fifths passage now needed.

"There are other states that are going to have to take the initiative on ERA. said state Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis, one of only two Illinois Republican senators who voted to lower the three-fifths majority rule.

National Stop-ERA leader Phyllis Schlafly told senators that changing the rules now would be unfair "and playing politics with our constitution.

In Montana and South Dakota, leaders of the rescission efforts said they were angered by an extension until June 30, 1982, of the deadline for ERA's ratification, granted by Congress last fall.

South Dakota ERA backers said the amendment appears to be losing steam - there and nationwide.

The ERA has been approved by 35 states, but four have rescinded approval. The four are Kentucky, Tennessee, Idaho and Nebraska. Kentucky's rescission was vetoed. The validity of those rescissions is in question, and the Justice Department has said it is up to Congress to decide if they are valid.

After the Illinois defeat, several ERA proponents said the amendment's likely until at least 1980, when they hope

Marvin's Wife, Former Lover Confront Each Other In Court who live together

en in Lee Marvin's life - his wife and his former lover - confronted each other in à dramatic courtroom scene with Pamela Marvin calling Michelle Triola Marvin a kept woman She (Michelle Marvin) said to me. You may be married to Mr. Marvin, but don't forget he's still keeping me," Mrs. Marvin testified Wednesday as Miss Marvin gazed directly at her.

The tense moment came just before Miss Marvin's lawyer rested his case in the landmark property settlement trial involving the rights of unmarried couples

Marriage Remains

Preferred Lifestyle

The actor's attorneys were to begin their case today. Miss Marvin's lawyer Marvin Mitchelson called Pamela Marvin to the stand as his 17th and final witness.

Mrs. Marvin, 48, clad in a grav suit and clutching a handkerchief, sat within four teet of Miss Marvin, 46, who was seated at the counsel table in front her.

The two women's eyes met as the attorney asked the wife if her husband was supporting another woman when they

'I believe so, 'ves," Mrs. Marvin said.

'He told me ... I also knew because Michelle told me many times on the tele-

Mrs. Marvin's voice rose to a high pitch as she accused Miss Marvin of plaguing her with constant phone calls during her newlywed days.

"They started the night we were married and they continued for about a year and a half," she said of the calls.

She said that Miss Marvin's comments about being kept by the actor were repeated many times The phraseology, the terminology disturbed me," she testified. "But not that he was giving her the money.

Marvin has said he broke up with the former showgirl in May 1970, five months before his marriage. He began sending her monthly support payments of $1,050, which were to continue for five years.

But the actor cut off the allowance in November 1971, an action Miss Marvin's lawyer said was instigated by Marvin's

But Mrs. Marvin said they barely discussed it.

"I don't remember when he told me." she said. "It was no big thing. It was something done long before we married. It was his arrangement with her. It had nothing to do with me

"It didn't shock me. It didn't bother me," she said in clipped tones.

However, at Mitchelson's prodding, she remembered another phone call in which Miss Marvin implored her to resume sending checks.

"I think the conversation was when she told me she could not exist without a man to support her," said Mrs. Marvin. 'And I said, maybe it would be best to get another man.

Outside court, Miss Marvin denied the accusations by the actor's wife.

"I never called myself a kept women because I never felt I was a kept woman," sile said.

"Yes, I called them," she said, tears elling in her eyes. "I called the first Christmas we were apart. I was alone and I wanted to wish Lee a Merry Christ-

Ouestioning ATLANTA (AP) - A three-judge federal appeals panel is to rule in a few weeks on whether the Federal Election Commission can question Bert Lance about loans to his 1974 Georgia gubernatorial campaign.

At a hearing before the panel Wednesday. FEC attorney Charles Steele said the agency has "probably cause ... to believe that there might have been violations" of federal election laws.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals panel has been asked to force Lance to honor an FEC subpoena on Dec. 9, 1977. for his sworn deposition concerning the loans from two Georgia banks.

Court documents, sealed until Wednesday, show the loans were made by the First National Bank of Calhoun, which Lance once headed, and the National City Bank of Rome. The documents did not reveal how much money was involved.

Steele refused to comment on the FEC's allegation. But Lance's attorneys said the investigation involves movement of money from the Calhoun bank to the Lance campaign, and overdrafts in Lance campaign checking accounts at both hanks.

Lance's attorney. Emmett Bondurant II. told the panel that Lance need not testify because the transactions were legal.

He also contended that the FEC, which was created on May 11, 1976, did not have the authority to "conduct a retroactive investigation" of a political campaign that ended in the summer of 1974, and that the three-year statute of limitations had run out on the matter

Lance lost the 1974 Democratic primary to Georgia's current governor. George

Steele said that the statute of limitations was not a legal consideration because without Lance's testimony, the FEC could not determine when the alleged violations occurred.

Gas Dealer Predicts Station Closings

BOSTON (AP) - The head of an association of Massachusetts gasoline dealers predicts mandatory gas station closings on Sunday by mid-April.

Maurice Langelier, executive director of the Bay State Gas Retailers Association, also said Tuesday that when gas supplies get even tighter, stations also will be asked to close by 7 p.m. weekdays. He commented after an association of stations in Illinois asked its members to close Sundays and earlier than normal during the week.

The judgment presented here is that most of the changes in family life over the next two decades will be small compared with those during the last two decades." Dr. Paul C. Glick, the bureau's senior demographer in the population division, wrote in a report released

The report said marriage rates are stabilizing, while the rate of divorce is expected to drop in the future.

During the next decade. Glick said social pressures will diminish on working couples to hold down fulltime jobs.

In the past two decades, expectations that couples will remain married and have children have diminished, as has pressure on young people to marry. Glick

The demographer said 77 percent of American adults lived in husband-wife households in 1977. Ten percent were in single-parent households, while 7 percent lived alone. Only I percent lived in households of unmarried couples. The remainder lived in various other arrangements.

The average young family today has two children, compared with the four children raised in the average family in the early part of the century, the report said. In the 1930s, the average family had three children. The result is today's parents can be expected to spend more time with each other and with their children, the report said.

Meanwhile, the government said Alaska registered the highest median income for a family of four in 1977 at $32,119. The lowest median income for a four-person family was $14.635 in Mississippi. The national median income for a family of four was $18,723. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Office of Human Development Services listed other high income Hawaii ($21,728), New Jersey ($21,409), Maryland ($21,193) and Michigan ($20,-

Following Mississippi at the bottom of the scale were: Maine ($15,025), Arkansas ($15,068), Tennessee ($15,677) and South Dakota ($15,733).

Reserve Forces 'Inadequate'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Membership in the Army National Guard and Reserve, whose dwindling strength is a major weakness in the nation's readiness for emergency mobilization, dropped by 18,-500 last year.

This development, disclosed in the Pentagon's latest manpower report, continued a trend that began with the end of the draft six years ago.

Pentagon leaders have been powerless to reverse that trend so far, but are optimistic a system of bonuses and other moves will succeed over the next couple of years.

Senior Army officials recently told Congress their reserve forces are "completely inadequate" to fight and support the regular Army in the critical first 30 days of a European war.

The October-December manpower report, issued this week, shows the Army National Guard lost 14,500 and the Reserve 4,000 personnel during 1978.

The Naval Reserve declined by about 5.400, but the Pentagon has been planning reductions there, in part because it intents to retire 20 older destroyers assigned to reservists.

The Air National Guard and Air Reserve and the Marine Corps Reserve all registered small increases last year, the report shows.

Since the end of the draft, we have been faced with the problem of replacing unusually large losses in the selected reserves from among the draft-induced enlistees of earlier years," Defense Secretary Harold Brown told Congress recent-

"This period is nearly ended." he added, saying that defense officials anticipate a series of initiatives, including enlistment and re-enlistment bonuses and educational incentives, will "reverse this downward trend and show a significant

The same report showed that all of the armed services failed to meet their active-duty recruiting goals in the October-December quarter. It was the first time since the draft was ended in late 1972 that not one service filled its enlistment quota for a three-month period.

However, officials said they were not disturbed by this development because the October-December quarter is traditionally a poor recruiting period due to the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays. They look to the spring and summer months, after high school graduations, as their prime recruiting months.

Overall, the services recruited 64000 men and women in October-December. or 90 percent of their total goal of 71,900 At the same time, however, the Pentagon reported that its total strength at the end of December was 2,041,000, or slightly over 100 percent of the objective as of

Normally, however, you have hit a blot or two, putting your oponent on the bar. Then, before he can enter, you make all the points in your

In such cases, you almost always win the game. But accidents can

6 5 4 3 2 1

You must be very careful to plan ahead so that certain specific doublets will not expose a blot or cause you to break your position prematurely

Note the diagram. If you roll 3-3 or 4-4, you will have to break up your closed board. You're not that unlucky, though. You roll a 41.

If you are careless, you might move the man on the Black 10point to your own 10-point. That play would leave you in trouble if your next rolls is a double 4. Suppose that you guard against this by moving a man from the Black bar point to the Black 12point. This looks perfectly safe. You can then play double 4 or double 3 with ease.

But suppose your next roll is double 1. Try to play it without breaking your board. You won't be able to play more than three points with your outside men.

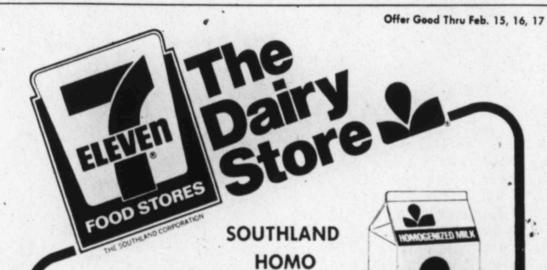

The correct way to play your 4-1 is to move the man on the Black 10-point to your 11-point and one man from the Black bar point to the Black 8-point. Now you'll be able to play any subsequent roll

Will Use Computers To Plan Trips

NEW YORK (AP) — Twenty thousand he's doing as the official LS. travel agent men, women and children from all parts of the nation swoop in on New York's Kennedy Airport during July 1980. The same 20,000 board Moscow-bound

And during this same two-week period, they must be housed, fed, entertained and shown the Soviet Union with five days of Olympic games tossed in somewhere. Whew!

How does one keep track of so many tourists in the same place at the same time doing the same things?

If you're E. Wallace Lawrence III, you use a computer. And that's exactly what responsible for Americans going to the 1980 Summer Olympics in the Soviet Un-

Two IBM computer terminals in his eastside Manhattan office are being fed information on 10,000 tourists who already have signed up for one of the two tour packages being offered. The data will be used for visas and accommoda-

"It's the first time we've done this sort of thing," said Lawrence, president of the the travel agency Russian Travel Bureau and Orbitair Ltd. His appointment came from the U.S. Olympic Committee

The tours being offered - one for 15 days at $1,550 and one for 22 days at $1,-- only permit the tourist to attend five days of Olympic sports. The remainder of the time will be spent traveling elsewhere in the Soviet Union. This means the 8,000 accommodations will be rotated for all 20,000 slots alloted the United States.

'It's a strange market," he said. "As soon as one Olympics is over, affecionados of Olympics want to make plans for the next. People started calling us right after Montreal, even though the Russians hadn't said anything yet."

2,300 people who called. He found that only 17 percent wanted to stay in the Soviet Union for 24 days. Forty percent wanted to stay 15 days: 7 percent, seven days: 21 percent 21 days; and 6 percent longer than 24 days. The most popular cities were Lenigrad, Kiev, Odessa and Irkutsk in Siberia.

Most tourists want to attend opening day and closing day of the 22nd Olympiad. Other popular events were track and field, swimming, gymnastics, basketball, boxing and soccer.

But travelers have no say over what events they will be given tickets to during the five days in Moscow. This is not unusual, says the Olympic committee.

"There's very little one can do when the host city sets up the ground rules that's the way it's been since 1964 in Tokyo." said Bob Paul, director of communications for the Olympic committee in Colorado Springs, Colo. "They cannot tell you what sports you'll be sitting at or where you'll be sitting. Even the accomo-

"During the Munich games in 1972, a number of the accommodations were in private homes," he said. "People who frequently go to the Olympic games understand this.

Many tourists have criticized the 1980 travel arrangements, questioning why they can only spend five days at the

each day in Moscow," Lawrence said. "That means only six nights either in hotels, student apartments at Moscow University or in some newly constructed apartment buildings. They're all on a first-class Soviet basis. The rooms are clean but they don't have thick carpets or overstuffed chairs.'

Payment for the trip is in installments. The first is $500. This deposit is returned, Lawrence said, if the tourist should have to cancel. A $25 fee will be applied if the reservation is canceled before March 15, and a $95 fee after that date.

Lawrence is arranging a program with a U.S. insurance company that would permit a traveler to recoup all of the payments should he or she have to cancel at or an accident.

Most if not all cancellations will result in substitutions, he said, since there fre so many people waiting to go.

"Since we have the policy of substitu-tion, we expect some people will be signing up 30 days before the Olympics, Lawrence said. Lawrence is taking a staff of 150 to

Moscow and will be staying six weeks to set up the tours and to work with American tourists while in the Soviet Union. He plans to set up barter booths in the hotels and apartment dwellings to permit Olympic fans to exchange tickets with each

The 22nd Olympiad will be held July 19-Aug. 3, 1980.

Mexico signed Monterey's George Morris, a 6-5, 250-pound lineman. Also in Lubbock, the college coaches found Paul Kaelin, Dewey Turner and Steve Wright. Tech signed the 6-5, 255-pound Kaelin out of Monterey, Texas landed blue-chip tight end Dewey Turner (6-5, 225), and SMU got linebacker Steve Wright (6-2, 205). All had announced their plans prior to signing day.

Area Gridders Make Crucial D landed runningback Royce Coleman of Plainview, backs Clifford Bailey and Jerry Wayne Hatchett of Tahoka, noseguard Herb Pearce and linebacker Jeff McCowan of Midland Lee, and defensive back Greg Lambert of Odessa Permian.

> Sharing in the West Texas-eastern New Mexico crop were the Aggies, who landed 6-5, 235-pound offensive tackle Kelly Raper off Plainview's quarter-finalist team, SMU picked up New Mexico player of the year Layne Walker, quarterback from Clovis, Rice got linebacker Everett Todd from Sweetwater, Baylor landed Permian quarterback Vic Vines, and TCU got Palo Duro lineman Scott Loftis from Palo Duro (after Tech had thought it would sign him) and Andrews defensive tackle Steve Kolb.

Prior to the signing date, Dockery had said he felt Tech would sign 24 or 25 athletes. Then, he left for his part in the signing procedure. He was back in his office Wednesday afternoon, and "It looks like we've done pretty well," he said.

"I'm pleased (with the players he had signed). I think we have signed some athletes who can develop into quality players. Of course, you can tell more in a couple of years. However, the overall crop appears to be Tech's best in several seasons. Although Tech - along with six other SWC schools - did not release any signees, the Avalanche-Journal has confirmed 21 of its signings. Every school ex-cept A&M and TCU plans to wait until the national signing date, next Wednesday, to announce its recruits.

Off the top dozen prospects, generally considered the top blue-chip athletes in the state. Tech landed two in Gregory-Portland quarterback Mark James and Corpus Christi King offensive lineman Matt Harlien.

James hit 56 percent of his passes this season for 1209 yards and 14 touchdowns. He also rushed for 731 yards and averaged 162 yards total offense. He passed for 3840 yards and 45 touchdowns during his three-year playing career.

Harlien, at 6-4, 273, is considered the strongest lineman in the state.

Also, the Tech list includes 6-3, 285pound tight end Gabriel Rivera of San Antonio Jefferson, who made Parade Magazine's schoolboy all-America list. Rivera caught 22 passes for 452 yards during the season.

Bailey, the 200-pounder from Tahoka, rushed for more than 4300 yards in three vears, east year, he was injured about half of the time but still managed to pick up 937 vards. His best year was as a junior when he led the Bulldogs into the playoffs and amassed 2,424 yards rushing. Hatchett took the slack this year and gained 1400 yar ds.

Coleman ran for 1650 yards in helping the Bulldogs into the state football playoffs for the first time. He scored 144

He was an all-South Plains selection for coach Greg Sherwood.

Fred Brietbarth signed with Tech after rushing for 1400 yards and making all-district at South Garland. He stands 6-4 and weighs 210 pounds.

Greg Chafin of New Braunfels played both linelinebacker and fullback but willbe tried at the former position at Tech. As a runner, however, the 203pounder picked up 1141 yards rushing last season and had 3100 yards for his high school career.

Anthony Hutchinson of San Antonio Judson picked up 1500 yards rushing in making all-city.

Tech's biggest haul at one school came at Lewisville where it signed kicker Jessie Garcia and running backs Dale Brown (178) and Eddie Tillman (200). Brown rushed for 1500 yards and Tillman was averaging 180 yards per game but missed half of the season with injuries

But, while Tech was having its best year in several winters, SMU took the spotlight, signing such standouts as line-man Michael Carter of Dallas Jefferson, defensive back Stanley Godine of Hous-ton Kashmere. Walker, wide receiver Mitchell Bennett of Bonham, and running back Charles Wagoner of Dallas Carter.

Texas' standouts included Turner and Fort Stockton quarterback Rick McIvor. The Aggies' top prospects included quart-of Temple.

Baylor landed Dallas Samuell quarter-back Kyle Money off the blue-chip list, and Arkansas rounded up Philip Boren, a lineman out of Dallas Carter, and Billy Ray Smith from Plano.

Q. I noted the death recently of George McQuinn, whom I remember from the late 1940s when he played first base for a championship Yankee team.

Please give me the details on the year and what he hit. How big was he? What had he been doing since then? Ed Whiting, Charleston, S. C.

A. McQuinn, who was 68 when he died in Arlington, Va., last month, spent 12 years in the majors. At 5-foot-11, 165 pounds, he was at first base for the St. Louis Browns the only year (1941) they ever won a pennant, and he hit .304 for the 1947 Yankees, who beat Brooklyn in the World Series.

McQuinn was later a minor league manager, then ran a sporting goods store in Arlington. In semi-retirement when he died of stroke, McQuinn was the manager of an apartment building.

Tech Cagers Take To Houston

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff HOUSTON - Well, don't accuse Guy Lewis of not being a silly old romantic, that sonofagun.

While most basketball coaches are always more than a little anxious to talk about their own team, good or bad Lewis wasn't.

And for a good reason, too. It was Valentine's Day.

"I'm taking my wife out to dinner tonight," said Lewis. "There aren't too many times during a season we even get to see each other. Tonight (Wednesday) we're going to go out and relax...forget about basketball.

So contrary to belief, Houston's 5-9 Southwest Conference won-loss mark, had nothing to do with Lewis' mumness Instead, blame it on Cupid.

Although Lewis was too busy to discuss tonight's SWC game with Texas Tech, which tips off at 7 p.m. in Hofheniz Pavilion (the game will be aired over KLBK-TV, Channel 13), Tech coach Gerald Myers certainly wasn't. A win is a must for Myers' Raiders if they hope to stay within striking distance of league-leaders Texas and Arkansas. Tech is 9-4 in SWC play (17-6 overall), while Texas-the Raiders opponent Saturday afternoon-heads the pack with an 11-2 mark. Arkansas is one game up on the Raiders at 10-3.

"This is certainly a key game for us," agreed Myers. "If we're to win the conference or place second, we have to win this one.

Since defeating Texas A&M 67-63 Saturday night, the Raiders have taken the past four days off for a little R&R.

On the other hand, Houston is fresh off a big win (101-94) over SMU on Monday night. The victory left the Cougars all alone in sixth place, a slim half-game ahead of the Ponies.

Should Houston defeat Tech then turn around and do the same thing to Arkansas in its finale Saturday, it would almost certainly clinch a home berth in the SWC tournament.

'That's what I like about the tournament," said Myers. "Everyone still has a reason to play. In the past at this time of the year, this game wouldn't have been that important for them.

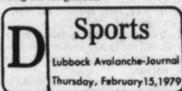

"But now, after that win at SMU they have a shot at sixth place and that should give them some motivation to play.'

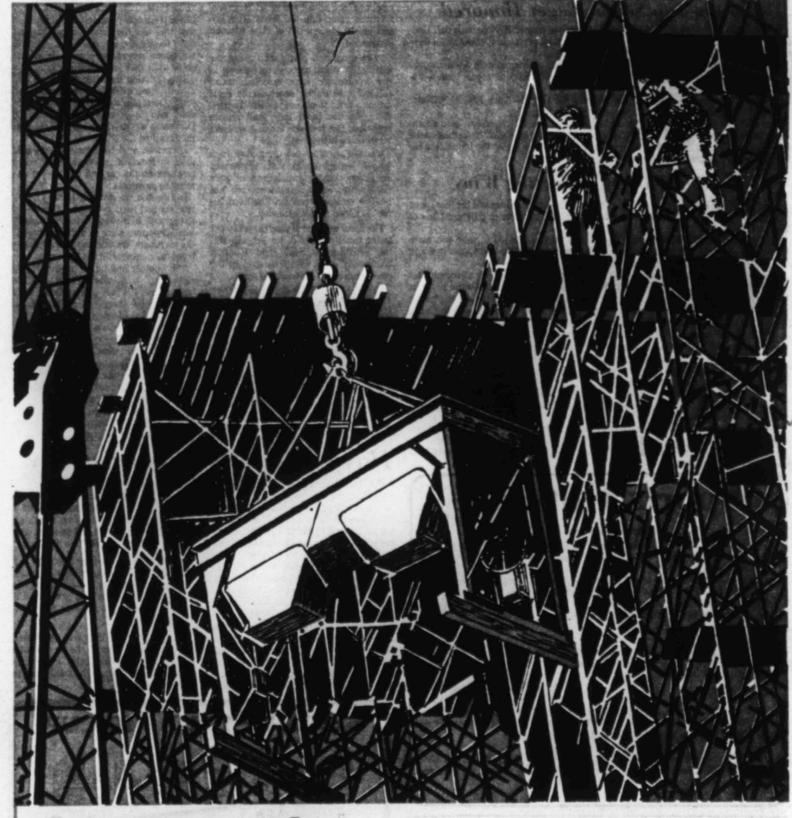

The Cougars will also be seeking a little revenge against the Raiders, a team they lost to on Jan. 24, 70-68. During that contest, senior gaurd Geoff Husto converted both ends of the one-and-one with six seconds left to help deal UH the loss.

Not since the Cougars entered the SWC in 1976 have they fallen on such hard times. In its initial conference campaign, UH finished sixth with a 7-9 mark.

'They have the personel," said Myers. They are capable of really playing good basketball at anytime. We know that, so we're certainly not underestimating them at all."

Because of Houston's unpredictablity -and the fact that the Cougars played the Raiders so close on Tech's own turf--Myers said his team certainly wasn't taking UH for granted.

Yung Holds News Conference

AMARILLO (Special) - West Texas State coach Bill Yung showed his support of his school and his football program at a called press conference Wednesday. The announcement came two weeks after the Board of Regents slashed the school's athletic budget and eliminated the posts of athletic director and sports information director.

Yung, speaking at the press conference here, also announced that the Buffaloes will be playing Cotton Bowl team University of Houston in the Astrodome on Sept. 29. This game, said Yung, will be a "shot in the arm" for the WT program which saw its scholarship limit dropped below 50 by the Regents. "Today. I want to publicly stress my personal and total commitment to our football prgram at West Texas State University." Yung said in his statement. "My main objective is to continue the successful program here. The inital effort and enthusiasm that people have displayed in their responce to additional funding of Buff football has certainly buoyed our confidence. "I want to assure the people that at supporting our program, the athletes on campus and those that we are presently recruiting that University officials have told me they are committed to maintaining an NCAA Div. I team and staying in the Missouri Valley

With the quality athletes currently on campus, there is a nucleus for a strong program. We feel positive the young men we are recruiting and signing to football scholarship, and with the addition of teams like Houston to our schedule, that these players will have the opportunity to line up against first-class opposition.

Thus, I have high aspirations for Buff football. I fee we have built a solid base over the last two seasons and I sincerely look forward to improving on that," said Yung.

SWC's Top Senior Cager Honored

WACO, Texas (UPI) - An award named in honor of former Baylor coach R.E Henderson will be presented annually to a senior basketball player in the Southwest Conference by the Greater Waco Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber announced Wednesday the Henderson Sportsmanwhip Award would be presented after consultation with coaches, game officials and media representa-

Henderson coached the Bears from 1942 to 1961 and was later Baylor's athletic director. Henderson's 1948 team advanced to the neaa finals.

"It's really fitting that such an award be named for coach Henderson," said Southwest Conference Commissioner Cliff Speegle. "He helped take SWC basketball to the top 30 years ago and no one has been more instrumental in laying the foundation for the basketball prestige our conference enjoys today.'

Skating Family Collecting Wins

INZELL. West Germany (AP) — Eric and Beth Heiden, the sister and brother sr skating stars from Madison, Wis., have been sweeping up titles in different parts of the world in recently

This weekend they'll be together, though, and they are poised to seize two more world speed skating titles in the sprint championships in the Bavarian Alps. It would be a feat never accomplished by members of the same family.

Eric. 20, and Beth, 19, who skated off with the men's and women's all-round titles earlier this month, are acknowledged by Europeans to follow perhaps the toughest year-round training program in the sport. Both are avid cyclists and soccer players, and both maintain a skating, running and weight-lifting program overseen by Coach Diane Holum, a 1972 Olympic gold medalist in the 1,500 meters.

The all-round victory last weekend in Oslo, Norway, was the third consecutive allround crown for Eric, who is also the defending champion in sprints.

The University of Wisconsin pre-med student is regarded by skating experts as the sport's greatest performer ever. He combines explosive starts in sprints with stamina and tactical brilliance in longer races.

The slender six-footer is so phenominal, experts say, he could become the Mark Spitz of speed skating by sweeping all five men's gold medals at the 1980 Winter Olympics in Lake Placid, N.Y.

Beth is just 5 feet 1 and 100 pounds, tiny in comparison to the robust Russians and East Germans. But she outskated her rivals Feb. 4 to win her first all-round title in the Hague, Holland. The title was decided in four races over 500, 1,000, 1,500 and 3,000

All of that scoring brought Texas to within one victory of clinching at least a tie for the Southwest Conference championship. Texas boosted its conference record to 12-2, one game in front of the 11thranked Arkansas, which played one of its better defensive games of the year in throttling SMU, 71-55.

In the only other game on the conference schedule Wednesday night, the slumping Texas A&M Aggies held on to down TCU, 61-56, breaking a three-game losing streak that had knocked them out of the league championship picture.

All the things that coaches, players and fans say are unpleasant about the recruiting of high school football players surfaced Wednesday in Texas.

The NCAA opened an investigation into the 1979 automobile now being driven by the state's No. 1 football prospect, a family in Houston was emotionally torn by recruiters blasts about the school their son had chosen, and in Amarillo the principal of a high school was upset because a recruiter came into the school Tuesday and took a student out of class without

"I'm upset and pretty mad about the manner in which a couple of schools in our conference have handled themselves," said Baylor coach Grant Teaff during a brief stopover in Dallas Wednesday. "At this point they shall remain nameless. But it upsets me that we can't recruit on a high level.

Wednesday was the first day high school seniors could sign scholarship agreements binding within the Southwest Conference. Such agreements are not ter" is signed next Wednesday. The usual number of good players went to the usual number of top schools. But the activities in Sealy and Houston Wednesday could create turmoil in the conference ranks for weeks to come.

The highlights of the day included: -Eric Dickerson, the Sealy running back recruited by more than 80 schools this year, backed off a previous promise to sign with Texas A&M, saying he would wait until next Wednesday to choose a school. At the same time, SWC officials confirmed the NCAA is investigating the purchase of a 1979 Pontiac Trans-Am which Dickerson has been driving this on his commitment to SMU because of indecision within his family brought on by the intense effort of recruiters. James said he would almost certainly sign with SMU later in the week.

-James E. Garrett, principal at Amarillo Palo Duro high school, said be was displeased that a recruiter from TQU had taken linebacker Scott Loftis out of class on Tuesday. Loftis, previously committed to Texas Tech, signed with TCU "I don't believe this was handled properly," said Garrett. "The gentleman involved (the TCU recruiter) came to my office Wednesday and left the impression that this was the sort of thing that was done frequently. I said I didn't care if it was done anywhere else - it wasn't going to be done at Palo Duro." The situation involving Dickerson had already attracted NCAA investigators before signing day arrived. Texas A&M officials said as soon as they discovered Dickerson was driving a new automobile, they notified the NCAA. Dickerson said his grandmother, who lives in Houston, made a $4,500 down payment on the car and would continue to make payments. In Houston, meanwhile, James said recruiters had used everything they could to persuade him not to go to SMU. James said his parents were so upset by some of the recruiters' comments that he had delayed his signing with the Mustangs.

"My mother and father are not happy right now," said James. "They want the best for me. It's only right, I guess, for a mother to be worried. I might sign tomorrow or I might sign the next day. "Everybody's worried because SMU is getting so many good athletes. SMU is getting all their talent. SMU will be hard to stop. (The Mustangs made perhaps the best haul in the state Wednesday, signing more of generally recognized top recruits than any other league team).

"I know I want to go to SMU. I want my parents to be happy, along with my coaching staff and everybody else.

Hayes Strives For Consistency

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) - Hark Hayes has a goal this year.

'Consistency," the quiet man from Oklahoma said before teeing off today in the first round of the $250,000 Joe Garagiola-Tucson Open Golf Tournament.
"I'm really looking for a higher degree of consistency. I've had some success, but I can't say that I'm pleased with my progress on the tour so far. I'm not as sistent as I want to be. This business of finishing in the top 10 this week, then missing the cut the next two weeks, that's not the idea. So my goal for the year is to put together a more consistent

At this early stage of the PGA Tour, he's achieved that goal. His record probably is the most consistent on the tour.

In four starts this year Hayes has lost in a playoff, finished third 12th and 14th, a performance that ranked him fourth on the money-winning list and stamped him a prime candidate for the title this week.

Hayes, 29, is in his seventh season as a touring pro. His quiet, unassuming manner makes him an unknown quantity to many fans, but his record is one that is studied with envy and respect by his fellow tourists.

He has won more than $100,000 in each of the last three seasons and, in the same period, has won three titles. Victory escaped him last year, but he was second in

"They (recruiters from other schools) are all trying to say something bad about SMU. That's why I want to go so bad. One of these days I want to be able to look 'em in eye and say 'I told you you were wrong.' I want to stand my ground. They persuaded my mother into thinking that SMU wasn't going to do this or that. They say everything they can think of - that I'll never run the ball or that the coach will leave. I don't believe these things. Some told me SMU was going to be on probation. That worried me for a while. But that's out of the way. I'm not worried about that at all." Coach Ron Meyer said the attacks on his program mentioned by James were bothersome, but that they would be over-'Yeah, it's upsetting," said Meyer.

This time it was George Young they turned to. The Giants are hoping for a little more luck than they had with the first man they plucked from Don Shula's re-

Young, 48, the Dolphins director of pro scouting, was named Wednesday as the Giants general manager, ending almost two months of internal squabbling between the team's uncle-nephew co-own-

In 1974, the Giants hired Shula's top assistant, Bill Arnsparger, to take over for the fired Alex Webster as head coach. But Arnsparger was let go after 21/2 seasons and a 7-28 record.

"We were not able to get all of Don Shula, I'm glad to get his right arm,' Giants co-owner Wellington Mara said. 'George is a real working man's working man. He's done the job of five people down in Miami. He won't meet any situa-tion he hasn't met before."

Young was introduced at a news conference barely four hours after signing a five-year contract. He said the Giants contacted him Tuesday morning after receiving permission from the Dolphins. He flew to New York Wednesday morning, was offered the job and accepted it.

"I think the benefit I might bring to the team is I have a lot of experience and one of the things I've done is coach," Young said. "I know how much leeway a coach has to have. The head coach has to do a .. lot of things that I can help him with."

Young, a former scout, offensive line coach, offensive coordinator and personnel director for the Baltimore Colts, succeeds Andy Robustelli, who resigned Dec. 18, the same day Coach John McVay was fired and one day after the team completed a 6-10 season.

Young's first responsibility will be selecting McVay's successor. The Maras have already interviewed Seattle's Jerry Rhome and Joe Restic of Harvard, Dallas offensive coordinator Dan Reeves is also considered a top candidate.

"Haste is not going to make the decision, being rational is going to make the decision," Young said. "I will start on it as soon as I can get myself organized to

The appointment of Young brings an end to the public feuding between Wellington Mara and his nephew, 50 percent co-owner Tim Mara. The two had been unable to reach an agreement on just about anything during the two months, including the manner in which they listed their four top choices for director of operations two weeks ago for submission to Commissioner Pete Rozelle. Wellington listed his in order and Tim listed his alphabetically.

Young, whose title will be general manager, did not appear on either Mara's list twc weeks ago.

"Needlepoint — I did it myself," said the hulking, bearded Goliath, once, at $20 pounds, the terror of the New York Giants in the National Football League. He was notorious in his day as the crusher who didn't indulge in individual tackles. He simply grabbed an armful of the enemy and peeled them off - as he might a banana - until he came to the man with the ball.

The practice became one of the sport's hallowed cliches. Now he is involved in gentler pursuits. His priorities, in or-der, are: kids, love, understanding, kids, old people, communication, kids.

"Look at national budgets all over the world," he says. "The United States, Russia, China - billions for defense. Billions for destruction. Less and less for education, recreation, human things.

"That's why I'm so hepped on kids. They're our only hope." Rosie flew across country from his home in Los Angeles Wednesday to attend the Pre-American Toy Fair, featuring among other items strategy football games promoted by a pair of the NFL's current stars, quarterback Steve Grogan of the New England Patriots and punter Ray Guy of the Oakland

The massive defensive tackle of the 1950s and 1960s agreed to attend only if allowed to say a few words in behalf of his pet project, the United Nations International Childrens Appeal, which shares in the proceeds of every game sold.

Two dozen people showed up.
"Look, man, if we'd advertised a murder down here, the place would be jammed," Grier said. "But something for the kids - who cares? Can't be bothered. Kids were made to be seen, not heard - remember?

"That's our trouble. We got to talk to the kids. We got to lisened, suspicious and uncaring.

"Let's start communicating - especially with the kids." It is a unique and incongruous role for the monstrous lineman who had a reputation for savagery as a player and who went on to adopt a tough guy image in numerous movie and TV appearances.

He had a key part in "Hijack," featuring Charlton Heston, and played a vengeful, beak-busting private eye in TV's "Kojak" serial. He has been in eight or nine movies, twice as many TV shows.

Grier said his life took on new meaning after he saw Robert Kennedy gunned down in a Los Angeles hotel in June 1968. He and Olympic decathlon champion Rafer Johnson were instrumental in apprehending the assassin, Sirhan Sirhan.

'For a long time. I was so distressed and mixed up I didn't know what to do with myself," he said. "I wandered listlessly. Then I got involved in a movement called Giant Step, of which I am the president. It's simple - just everybody hooking up 'Everybody's just a person - not black or white, male or female, Christian or Jew, young or old. Just people who sometimes need other people. I play dominoes with kids in garages and sit in a rocking chair with old ladies doing needlepoint. The idea: Get involved." Rosie said big time sports had lost much of their fun and purpose. "They're an injustice," he added. "All that haggling

Yaz Wants More Bucks

BOSTON (AP) - Veteran slugger Carl Yastrzemski, rebuffed by the Boston Red Sox in efforts to renegotiate his contract a la Jim Rice, returned to his Florida home today, determined to "sit and fish" until his salary demands are met. Captain Carl, who has spent 18 of his 39 years with the Red Sox, took the heat Wednesday night after meeting with Red Sox General Manager Haywood Sullivan in an apparent effort to pick up some money left over from the club's recent signing of Rice to a new seven-year contract worth about $5 million. "It's up to them to make the next move now," Yastrzemski told The Associated Press. "I'm flying back to Florida and will watch my son, Mike, play his high school games. The rest of the time I'll sit and fish. It looks like I'll be doing a lot of watching, sitting and fishing, Sullivan, who earlier had said he didn't expect any "serious problems" from stars disgruntled by the big multi-year payoff to Rice as the American League's 1978 most valuable player, declined comment when asked about Yaz' comments. Baseball writer Bill Liston of the Bos-

Yastrzemski, who lives in Boca Raton, said he has met with Sullivan "four or five times." He said he didn't want to say any more, adding: "Ask Sully and (coowner) Buddy LeRoux. They know what I want.

Yastrzemski, moving up among baseball's all-time leaders in most hitting departments, signed a new two-year contract last spring for an estimated $265,000 a year. He has claimed he has a clause enabling him to renegotiate his salary.

"There is a communication problem between me and the Red Sox," he said.

"I never thought we were this far apart. I have loved playing for the Red Sox and fans here, and after the contributions I have made to this team and town, I think this will be resolved.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) - One change it after today's races," explained of the entrants in a Speed Weeks race here this month is sponsored by U-Haul. It isn't Buddy Baker, but it probably should be. Baker will probably be hauling the competition around behind him all day Sunday in the Daytona 500.

Five-time Daytona 500 winner Richard Petty says Baker, the pole position winner, is running so much faster than anyone else, their only hope is to hang on his rear bumper and hope to be sucked along

"Buddy's running about a second quicker than I am, and everybody else is running about the same as me," Petty said on the eve of today's twin 125-mile qualifying races for Sunday's $600,000 classic. "He's running faster now than he was last Sunday in the Busch race," when he and Darrell Waltrip were drafting to-

Petty added gloomily, "Meanwhile, everybody else has got slower this week." It's usually the other way around - the competition uses the week of practice to catch up on the pole winner's secrets.

Barring mechanical trouble or a mishap on the track, Baker was a cinch to win his qualifying race. By the race itself, though, Waltrip at least expects some re-

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP) Swirling winds may have cost third-seeded John McEnroe his match against Eliot Teltscher in the $250,000 Tennis Games. Second-seeded Bjorn Borg, eliminated from the tournament earlier, could blame tiring flight delays for his loss to Bruce Manson.

But Jimmy Connors needs no excuses. The tournament's top seed, Connors advanced to the quarterfinals with a 6-0, 6-4 victory Wednesday over Switzerland's Heinz Gunthardt. Connors had whipped Vladmir Zednik of Czechoslovakia 6-2, 7-5 in his first-round match.

Connors' methodical victory over Gunthardt was of secondary interest Wednes-day, as Teltscher's 6-7, 7-5, 7-6 upset of McEnroe was the story of the day.

"The wind affected us both a little," said Teltscher. "I think it hurt him more than me because his game is more serve and volley. I was working on coming to the net more and this was as well as I've ever volleyed in my life."

McEnroe, out of Stanford, and Teltscher, a former UCLA star, have met "probably 25 to 30 times" before, according to Teltscher. He was ranked 42nd in the latest Association ofb tennis Professionals ratings, and McEnroe was ranked fourth.

That was where the trouble originated. In the NBA, a deal is not considered officially finalized until a conference call is made among the principals of the teams involved and a representative of the league. That call was made by Brown and Werblin jointly late last Sunday afternoon. Generally, the attorneys and general managers of both teams are at least consulted, and believe it or not, sometimes even the coaches are, too, but not

Brown and Werblin did it by themselves. They discussed it sitting together during the Celtics-Knicks contest at Madison Square Garden Saturday evening and agreed to it over cocktails later in the evening. The following afternoon, as their teams met for the secord time in as many days, they made the conference call together.

Cowens first heard of the deal after Sunday's game, the same time Red Auerbach, the Celtics' president and general manager, did. Mike Burke, the Knicks' president, hadn't heard of it much sooner than that, and there's a rumor going around that one of these days someone's going to tell Eddie Donovan, the Knicks' general manager.

When Cowens heard from Brown that they were getting McAdoo from the Knicks for for three first-round draft choices and a warm Boston body, he was concerned who that body would be and he voiced that concern to Brown, who assured him it would not be an active player on the Celtics' roster.

But in addition to the three draft choices. Brown already had committed one of his players to Werblin

At first, the Knicks wanted the rights to Indiana State's spectacular Larry Bird, and when the Celtics said there was no way they'd go for that, the Knicks asked for Curtis Rowe, a seven-year NBA veteran with Boston now.

The Celtics said no to that one, also. Instead, they offered the Knicks either seldom-used Frankie Sanders or the 6-foot-11 Barker, who played with the Jersey Shore Bullets of the Continental League last year and was signed by Boston only recently.

Cowens liked Barker as a prospect. He also liked the idea that the Harlingen, Texas youngster could fill in for him at center whenever he felt he needed a rest. Cowens liked Barker enough to give him his personal assurance he'd stay with the Celtics for the rest of the season, but the club owner still outranks the coach, so Barker wound up going to the Knicks Wednesday and Cowens didn't like it one

The Celtics felt they could talk the Knicks into accepting Sanders. They were so confident of that, they took both Barker and Rowe with them to San Antonio where they played the Spurs Wednesday night. Earlier in the day, however, Barker got a call from the Knicks to report to them in Indianapolis and he told them he was getting the next plane.

The way they've been going lately, he didn't really have to rush.

Celts, NY, Losers In Trade

By The Associated Press Who got the best of the big trade between the New York Knicks and Boston Celtics? The Indiana Pacers and San Antonio Spurs, that's who.

The outmanned Knicks, minus high-scoring Bob McAdoo, were no match for the Pacers, dropping a 106-97 decision after trailing by as many as 25 points.

And the Boston Celtics, despite McAdoo's 21 points, were blown away by the San Antonio Spurs 149-119.

"From the psychological standpoint, you know guys like McAdoo and (Spencer) Haywood are gone," said Indiana Coach Bobby Leonard, "but you've still got to go out and do it. McAdoo didn't.

"I don't know what I'm doing on offense right now," the league's third leading scorer admitted after getting 19 of his 21 points in the final period. "I felt lost out there. It's a feeling I've never had before.'

In other National Basketball Association games, Kansas City nipped Philadelphia 108-106, Detroit shaded Denver 111-107, Seattle drubbed Atlanta 116-104, Milwaukee trimmed New Jersey 115-94 and Golden State whipped New Orleans 113-101.

Pacers 106, Knicks 97 Ricky Sobers, held scoreless in the first half, scored 10 third-quarter points within six minutes, sparking Indiana over the sagging Knicks. The Pacers outscored New York 32-19 in the third period. Billy Knight and Mike Bantom with 21 points apiece led a balanced Indiana attack that placed six players in double figures, including 20

We played a good first half," said Knicks Coach Red Holzman. "We were playing good ball from a team concept. The third period just let it get away. Spurs 149, Celtcis 119

San Antonio rode a 32-point performance by George Gervin to its rout of Boston. Gervin was supported by Larry Kenon'a 22 points while Allan Bristow contributed a career-high 11 assists.

McAdoo, who came to the Celtics from New York earlier in the week for three first-round draft choices and reserve center Tom Barker, played 27 minutes but the Spurs led 71-47 at the half and soared to 118-72 after three periods.

"It was a complete shock," McAdoo said of the trade. "I figured at midseason the Knicks would not want to make any more changes."
"The trade came as a shock to me, too," echoed Coach Dave Cowens. "I have not had time to even consider what role Bob will play on the team."

Kings 108, 76ers 106 Otis Birdsong's 26 points and Bob Nash's season-high 24 helped Kansas City snap Philadelphia's three-game winning streak. It was the Kings' first triumph in Philadelphia since 1973, 11 games ago.

Julius Erving, who missed the 76ers' last game with a sprained ankle, returned to the lineup but was held to nine points. Teammate Darryl Dawkins was the game's high scorer with 27.

WIRE DOWN, POWER OUT - Lubbock firemen here check the source of a power failure which left approximately 3,000 Southwestern Public Service customers without electricity early this morning. Reports indicate a waste disposal truck knocked down a power line around 6:40 a.m. at 2903 3rd Place, affecting subscribers in west Lubbock as well as the entire population of Shallowater. An SPS spokesman estimated Lubbock customers were without power for around 25 to 30 minutes while Shallowater residents were in the dark for almost 45 minutes. Tisons Attempt To Reinstate Agreement

YUMA, Ariz. (AP) - Arguments to reinstate a plea agreement for Ricky and Raymond Tison was the subject of a hearing today before the murder trial for convicted slayer Randy Greenawalt resumed.

Greenawalt, 29, is on trial in Yuma County Superior Court in the August slayings of four members of a Yuma family while fleeing with Gary Tison and Tison's

Ricky and Raymond Tison had pleaded guilty earlier to one count of murder in the slavings. The plea agreement called for the two to testify against Greenawalt.

But shortly after the trial started last week, the Tison brothers refused to testify. Judge Douglas Keddie declared a mistrial and restarted proceedings Fri-

The discovery of Gary Tison's body in the desert south of Casa Grande was described by an Indian tribal investigator during Wednesday's court session.

Greenawalt and Gary Tison fled the Arizona State Prison July 30 after the Tison brothers smuggled weapons into a visitors lobby and held guards at bay.

The bodies of Marine Sgt. John Lyons, his wife, 22-month-old son, and a 15-yearold niece, were found near Quartzsite. Each had been killed with shotgun blasts, officials said.

Dan Martinez, criminal investigator for the Bureau of Indian Affairs on the Papago Indian Reservation south of Casa Grande, said Wednesday he was summoned to the scene where he saw the body of Tison under a bush.

The January increase was the smallest since a 0.6 percent drop in January 1978, during another harsh winter. Last month heavy snowstorms covered the Midwest and kept workers home in some areas.

The government adjusts the figures for seasonal variations, but the last three winters have been more severe than usual in many regions.

In its report, the Federal Reserve Board said "January output was affected somewhat by weather conditions."

The production of new cars declined 4 percent and steel output declined sharpy, the report said. Production of energy supplies, particularly coal, dropped 7 per-

In an economic slowdown, it is usually the construction industry that is hit first, but the report showed no signs of that happening yet. Factories continued turning out large volumes of construction supplies, the report said.

The Carter administration and the Federal Reserve have been trying to keep the economy from expanding rapidly as the government tries to control inflation. Many private economists say that a recession is coming toward the end of the

However, last fall, economic growth grew more rapidly than expected.

The grim industrial production report coincided with another report last week showing that buying at retail stores tapered off in January. However, the unemployment rate declined from 5.9 to 5.8 percent last month as more jobs were

The 0.1 percent gain in January followed hefty increases of 0.6 percent in October, 0.5 percent in November and 0.7 percent in December.

In January, the volume of industrial output was 8.6 percent stronger than it was a year earlier. The index stood at 150.7, meaning that output was 50.7 percent stronger than in the base period

The January report showed that output of consumer goods was virtually unchanged in January, the department said.

Production of such items as furniture and clothing increased moderately, while utomobile production dropped sharply. New cars were produced at a rate of about 8.9 million per year, down from the 9.3 million rate in December.

Olga Torres Huerta, 20, of 320 N. Sherman St., and Frank Delgado, 23, of 3303 First Place, were both listed in good condition early today after being treated for stab wounds in the side.

The victims told police they were attacked by a knife-wielding man as they walked from the club to their car about 1:45 a.m. today.

The couple said that after they were stabbed the suspect fled in a 1976 Oldsmobile Cutlass. The man was described as a 20-year-old Mexican-American, short and weighing about 180 pounds. He was last seen wearing a khaki shirt and jeans.

In other activity, police today were looking for a young black man who allegedly sexually abused a 13-year-old boy shortly after 10 p.m. Wednesday.

The youth said he was walking towards his mother's apartment when the suspect confronted him and demanded money Reports indicate that after the boy said he had no money, the man challenged him to a fight and then forced him into a vacant apartment.

The boy said that in the apartment he was forced to perform a sexual act on the man. He then ran from the apartment after the assailant reportedly threatened to beat him up if he told anyone.

The man was described as between 18 and 25 years old, with a medium build, and wearing a brown coat, red T-shirt and white pants.

was driving west on Acuff Road about three miles east of the city limits Wednesday night when something struck her passenger door window, spraying glass inside the car.

Authorities had not determined what hit the window, although Mrs. Brown said she thought she heard gunfire about the time the glass broke. The incident occurred about 8 p.m.

In a recent break-in, Joe Gaitan of 4118 30th St. said he lost $2,200 in property, including a stereo equipment, clothes and a television set, when he became a victim of house burglars between 9 a.m. and 10 p.m. Wednesday.

Three persons remained in Lubbock County jail this morning after being arrested Wednesday morning on suspicion of aggravated kidnapping, aggravated robbery and auto theft.

The trio, a 20-year-old Lubbock wom-an, a 26-year-old Shallowater woman and a 22-year-old Kerrville man, were arrested about 9:40 a.m. Wednesday at a motel in the 2400 block of East Broadway.

They are suspected of forcing their way into Warner Hagood's car at 13th Street and Avenue G about 12:30 p.m. Tuesday. robbing him of his watch and ring and then leaving him bound in a vacant residence in west Lubbock County before fleeing in his 1971 Ford station wagon.

Carter Plans Strict Control Of Canal

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's aides assured congressmen to-day that he and future U.S. presidents will "maintain a high degree of control" over operation of the Panama Canal and its tolls until Panama takes over the waterway in the year 2000.

Deputy Secretary of State Warren G. Christopher told the House Panama Canal subcommittee that Carter plans to maintain that control by appointing his Cabinet officers as the five directors of the new Panama Canal Commission that will run the canal during the 21-year transition period.

Christopher made the comment when Rep. David Treen, R-La., expressed concern that if any one of the five U.S. directors joined with the four Panamanian directors, Panama could control operations and tolls before the year 2000.

But David H. Popper, the State Department's special representative for Panama treaty affairs, testified that Carter plans not only to make five of his Cabinet officers the U.S. canal directors but also have them coordinate policy in advance of canal commission meetings. Christopher told Treen that Carter therefore will "maintain a high degree of control (over operations of the canal) and a strong influence in establishment of the

The aides said in prepared testimony for today's hearings they would oppose some features of the compromise proposal, such as U.S. takeover of the canal in time of war. The measure was prop by Rep. John M. Murphy, D-N.Y.

Milk Production Rise Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture Department officials are still predicting that milk production could go up this year after showing a slight decline in

After increasing for two years to the highest level since 1965, milk production declined about 1 percent in 1978 to 121.9 billion pounds.

Howard W. Hjort, the department's chief economist, told a House appropriations subcommittee Tuesday that milk production this year "is expected to be slightly larger" than in 1978.

Hjort's figures show that 1979 milk output could range between 122.1 billion pounds and 124.5 billion pounds.

But officials concede this year's milk output will depend to a large degree on whether dairy producers continue to take advantage of high beef prices by reducing herds further.

The dip in production last year was due mainly to farmers trimming milk herds by culling lower-producing cows from herds, and by some producers selling out altogether.

According to the latest figures by US-DA, there were 379,530 dairy farming operations in the United States last year, a 5.6 percent reduction from 401,910 in Averaged over the year, some 10,-848,000 milk cows were on farms in 1978, down 126,000 from 1977, according to the preliminary figures.

Department records show the 1978 1978.

dairy herd was the smallest since 1976. Cow numbers have declined 8.4 percent since 1971, when 11,839,000 were report-

Meanwhile, by weeding out the lessproductive cows and by stepping up grain feeding in recent years, the average output of milk by each cow continues to set records.

In 1978, the average cow produced 11,-240 pounds of milk, up from 11,181 in 1977. That is a gain of 12.2 percent from 10,015 pounds a cow in 1971.

Looking at the department's annual reports, the trend to fewer but larger dairy operations continued last year.

Farms having fewer than 30 milk cove represented 65.2 percent of total operations, a reduction from 66.9 percent in 1977. Those with 30 to 49 head made up 17.9 percent of all operations, compared to 17.4 percent in 1977.

Dairy farms with 50 or more cows made up 16.9 percent of the total last year, compared to 15.7 percent in 1977. Moreover, herds with 50 or more cows accounted for 60 percent of the total milk cow inventory in 1978, up from 57.6 percent in 1977, the figures showed.

Wisconsin continued as the leading milk producer last year with 21.3 billion pounds, followed by: California, 11.9 billion; New York, 10.5 billion; Minnesota, 9.1 billion; and Pennsylvania, 7.9 billion.

The five states accounted for nearly one-half of the total milk produced in

Warm Weather Aids Texas Producers

COLLEGE STATION (UPI) - Warmer weather was welcomed by Texas farmers and ranchers this week and should help in the recovery of small grains, winter pastures and ranges, says the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The improved weather conditions are also allowing South Texas farmers to get fields in shape for cotton and sorghum planting, the service said Wednesday. Some watermelon planting is in progress in the Rio Grande Valley, and early planted fields of peppers and cantaloupes are coming up, it said.

However, soggy fields have delayed land preparation for corn, cotton and sorghum in the Coastal Bend as well as early season vegetable planting in East

Cotton Output Affects Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) - World cotton output could increase sharply this year, meaning there is much uncertainty about prices American farmers will get for thibif 1979 crop.

But the Agriculture Department says domestic mill use of cotton may hold fairly steady through the coming year and that exports will continue relatively

The department's outlook board said Wednesday mill use of cotton in the 1979-80 marketing year beginning Aug. 1 "is expected to remain near this season's" Farmers Begin level of about 6.3 million bales.

But the board said in a preliminary report that domestic cotton use next season could range between 5.7 million and 6.7 million bales, "depending on general economic activity, relative fiber prices and reaction to the proposed cotton dust standards."

10.8 million bales from 14.4 million produced by U.S. farmers in 1977. Strong export demand helped boost prices to an average of 60.5 cents a pound through December, compared to 52.3 cents for the entire 1977-78 marketing year.

Texas. Land preparation is generally slow over central areas due to wet conditions but is increasing in western areas and the plains, reported the extension service. This week's break in weather conditions has also allowed gardeners and fruit and pecan producers an opportunity to prunes trees and apply dormant soil sprays to control scale insects, said the extension service. Planting of such early season vegetables as onions and potatoes will become active as soil conditions permit, it added.

The completion of the 1978 cotton harvest remains to be seen, said the extension service, because of continued inclement weather, which is causing further delays in harvest operations in the Panhandle and Rolling Plains where from 15 to 40 percent of the crop, respectively, is still to be harvested.

A few clean-up operations are continu ing in the South Plains where ginning of field-stored cotton remains active, said the service, adding a few fields are still to be harvested in the Trans-Pecos area.

Livestock continued to suffer weight losses last week due to the adverse winter weather and poor grazing conditions. noted the extension service. Feeding of hay and protein supplements remained widespread throughout Texas, although livestock marketing was reported normal, with prices holding strong. Record prices were reported in one East Texas county last week, the service said.

Mayor Charles B. Wheeler Jr., seeking an unprecedented third term, once wrestled a bear in City Hall, rode a donkey, an elephant and a bull, and one time promised to parachute from a plane during an air show. He was talked out of that stunt.

Since his start in politics as a county coroner, he has been giving 'em hell like Harry. "Them" is frequently public emplayee unions, and especially the International Association of Fire Fighters. He accuses the unions of trying to bankrupt the city, and points to New York as a place where strong municipal unions caused financial problems.

On a recent morning, Wheeler arrived at his 29th-floor City Hall office at 9 a.m. carrying 50 pounds of paper, his homework. He had been up since 5:30 — "If I jog, I get up at 5 a.m.," he declared.

On this day, he was feeling a bit under the weather and stayed in bed an extra half-hour, so he didn't arrive at his place of business, a pathology lab, until 7 a.m. After working two hours, he came to City Hall for an interview.

The mayor likes publicity. He once found attendance lacking at his weekly news conference and filed a complaint with the Federal Communications Commission in an effort to get more broadcast reporters to attend. He lost.

During the interview, the mayor sported a hat recently given him by a traveling German band. He has a collection of

But people who know Wheeler well know his clown image is only for show. After earning his medical degree, he attended night school for six years to get his law degree, four while taking his medical residency.

His energy enables him to make more of the mayor's job than some predecessors. Kansas City's mayor is technically only first among equals on the City Council. but the post gives Wheeler a podium for his powers of persuasion.

Wheeler's proudest accomplishment is promoting Kansas City as a convention center. When the Republicans were threatening to pull their convention out of Kansas City in 1976 because of a shortage of hotel rooms, Wheeler rounded up the city's hotel owners, and in the fashion of a revivalist preacher, harangued them until they pledged enough rooms to save the convention.

"The mayor can act as a convenor and a head-knocker," Wheeler said. "It's not much of a trick to stand up and say, 'The city needs your total cooperation. Is there anybody wo is not willing to give it?

Besides the firemen, Wheeler displeased the policemen's union when he cast the deciding vote to oust Police Chief Marvin Van Kirk as "mediocre." He was also sharply critical during a seven-week teachers' strike.

I think the main image the voters have of me is somebody who isn't going to be controlled," Wheeler said, "I'm a product of the Harry Truman School of Politics. I'm proud of it." No matter whether someone supports

Wheeler or opposes him, they can still call him at home. The mayor of this city of 500,000 has his home number in the phone directory.

Someone once asked Wheeler after a number of gangland-style killings if there was organized crime in Kansas City. "As a forensic pathologist, I'm convinced they did not die of natural causes," he said of the victims:

While working as director of the labs at City Hospital, Wheeler exposed the coroner's office practice of sending bodies to favored funeral homes. He was encouraged to run for coroner and then won a seat on the Jackson County Court, the old county governing body where Truman started his political career.

He lost a 1970 race for the top spot on the county board before launching his successful race for mayor.

On ventures into national and state politics. Wheeler hasn't fared well. He launched a campaign for vice president in 1976 and announced his suport for Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash. Jackson wasn't noticeably excited about his self-appointed running mate.

So Wheeler switched to the U.S. Senate race, picking up his only defeat since his failure to win the top county post in 1970.

Oil From Alaska Unable To Fill Gap Created By Iranian Cutoff

NEW YORK (AP) - Despite reports last year of a possible glut, oil flowing through the Alaska Pipeline has been allocated for U.S. use and cannot fill the gap created by the Iranian oil cutoff, industry analysts say.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW

"Every bit of Alaska oil that could be produced has been marketed. It's not sitting in tanks someplace," said Pitt Curtis, a spokesman for Standard Oil Co. of Ohio, which controls 53 percent of the oil reserves at Prudhoe Bay, the pipeline's northern end. "There never was a crude oil glut."

The pipeline, an $8 billion project, opened two years ago and is pumping 1.2 million barrels of crude oil a day into the lower 48 states, about 6 percent of U.S. consumption. By law, Alaska oil cannot be exported, except for small amounts to Canada and Mexico.

Oil from the North Slope flows through the pipeline to the Alaska port of Valdez and is shipped to points on the West Coast, where the supply far outpaces demand. This led to fears of an oil glut last

Petroleum Industry Research Foundation, an industry group, said the term "glut" was misunderstood. "All it means is that the local market on the West Coast can't absorb all it gets, so you send it elsewhere. The extra oil - about 500,000 barrels a day - is shipped by tanker through the Panama Canal to the Gulf and East coasts. Transportation costs add about $2 to the going rate of $13.30 per 42-gallon barrel of oil. The oil companies must absorb that additional cost, Curtis said.

Before political strife closed Iran's oil fields late last year, that nation was producing about 5 percent of the oil used by the United States and about 10 percent used by the non-Communist world. Although oil from other nations has made up for more than half of the former flow of Iranian oil, government officials and analysts are urging conservation to avoid problems if Iranian oil production does not resume.

The United States consumes about 20 million barrels of oil a day. About half Larry Goldstein, an economist at the that is produced domestically, including Alaska and offshore fields. About 45 per-cent comes from foreign countries other than Iran, mainly Saudi Arabia.

> Experts say the cutoff of oil from Iran is potentially as serious as the 1973-74 Arab oil embargo, especially if the flow of crude oil from Iran does not resume within several months.

The loss of Iran as a source of oil means a lack of reserve oil that might be used in the case of an emergency - such as the oilfield fire in Saudi Arabia two years ago. Deputy Energy Secretary John O'Leary has likened the situation to "a dynamite train heading toward a fire down the tracks."

The halt in Iranian oil flow is pushing up world crude oil prices. Saudi Arabia has increased the price of the additional oil it is producing to meet the shortage and analysts expect upward movement in prices of other countries' oil. They say however, that the increases probably will be small and may not even be felt at the consumer level.

Warsaw Explosion Kills 10 Persons

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — An explo-sion ripped through a crowded savings bank in the center of Warsaw around noon today, and the official state-run ra-dio said at least-10 persons were killed and 30 injured.

About 200 persons reportedly were in the building at the time of the blast.

The source of the explosion in the three-story aluminum and glass struc-ture, known as the PKO building, was not immediately known. There were no gas installations in the building. "One of the embassy personnel was in the area at the time and apparently heard it," said Jeremy Curtin, a spokesman at the U.S.

Nkomo's Men Prepare For Reprisals

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) - Black nationalist guerrillas in Zambia are bracing for Rhodesian raids after guerrilla leader Joshua Nkomo said his men were responsible for downing a Rhodesian commerical airliner in which all 59 persons aboard were killed.

Nkomo told reporters Wednesday his guerrillas downed the Air Rhodesia Viscount shortly after it took off Monday from Kariba in northern Rhodesia because they believed it carried Gen. Peter Walls, Rhodesia's supreme military commander, and 21 soldiers.

But Walls flew from Kariba to Salisbury on a flight that left 15 minutes after the first plane was downed. Both aircraft were four-engine Viscounts, Nkomo said Walls must have changed planes because he suspected guerrillas might try to kill him. Associated Press correspondent Maureen Johnson, who was on Walls' plane when it left Kariba, said both planes carried as many women and children as men, and no apparent contingents of soldiers.

Rhodesian officials have vowed to avenge the attack. But Nkomo warned that if his bases are hit. Prime Minister Ian Smith "will have to pay the consequences.

"If Smith this time comes to Zambia and burns children again, let him know he will force us to do what we do not want to," Nkomo said. He claimed Rho-desian forces killed hundreds of children bia to avenge the downing of another ci-vilian Viscount near Kariba last Sept. 3.

Thirty-eight persons died when that plane when down near the Zambian border after being hit by a guerrilla missile Witnesses said guerrillas massacred 10 of the 18 persons who survived the crash.

Nkomo, who claimed responsibility for that incident as well, said his men had not shot survivors on the ground. He said the plane was attacked because it was ferrying military personnel.

"These Viscounts have been flying over our men and nothing has happened to them because we do not bring down civilian aircraft," Nkomo told reporters Wednesday. "But when civilian aircraft are used for military matters, we bring them down."

Nkomo's guerrillas in Zambia and the forces of Robert Mugabe in Mozambique have been fighting for control of Rhode-sia for more than six years, first against the white-minority regime and now against the bi-racial government.

Sudan's news agency, SUNA, said that after Malloum had taken refuge in the French camp, Lt. Col. Abdul Gadir Kamoji, commander of Chadian police, assumed power. The agency described Kamoji as a man who played a major role in the military coup which toppled pro-French President Ngarta Tombalbaye four years ago.

"Fierce fighting between forces backing Malloum and troops loyal to Habre resumed today with Habre's troops advancing on all fronts in the capital," SUNA

Hundreds of Chadians have been killed in the fighting, which erupted Monday following charges by Malloum that Habre was trying to usurp power, reports said. Earlier reports said the rival armed forces of Malloum and Habre had shattered a brief truce with renewed fighting cused China today of 230 border provacations this year and Peking charged Vietnamese invaders have killed 22 people in south Yunan Province by planting land mines and sharpened bamboo sticks.

Vietnam, Neighbor Swap Border War Allegations

The allegations were the latest in an intensifying border war between the former communist allies, now turned bitter enemies.

"Stepping up their hostile policy against Vietnam, the Chinese authorities have since 1978 intensified their harassment activities and armed actions on the Vietnamese border and made intense war preparations against Vietnam," said a Vietnam memorandum.

In the first weeks of February, China committed 230 border intrusions, nearly half the total number in 1978, said the memorandum released by the foreign affairs ministry and dispatched by the Vietnam News Agency.

Chinese armed forces up to battalion size have been penetrating deeper into Vietnam with larger weapons this year to shell and strafe border posts, the news agency quoted the memorandum as say-

The border, established during the late 1800s, "has been delimited" by the Chinese provacations that included 2,258 cases between 1974 to 1977 and 583 in 1978, the memorandum said.

On Wednesday, Vietnamese said Chinese forces occupied a series of strat-

Apparent Short Causes Fire

An apparent electrical short about 2:30 p.m. Wednesday produced a rapidly spreading grass fire in the 5500 block of Cornell Street that razed a dog pen, mobile home, car and wooden storage build-

By the time fire units arrived at the scene, the mobile home, owned by Mercedes LeChuga of Route 8, Box 105, Lubbock, already was destroyed and the fire had spread to LeChuga's car.

Fire officials said LeChuga's loss amounted to more than $2,000.

The blaze also reached and destroyed an empty wooden storage building, owned by Jim Clark of 4802 11th St., and the loss total on that structure was set at more than $1,000.

Fire officials said that a wire leading from the nearby dogpen to a light apparently shorted and caught grass on fire in the area.

Some city power line poles also reportedly were damaged by the blaze, which was under control about 15 minutes after firemen arrived.

No one was injured in the incident.

U.S. Unable To Win Chinese Assurances

DEARBORN, Mich. (UPI) - The United States, despite repeated pleas, has been unable to win any assurances from China that it will not take military action against Vietnam, the U.S. ambassador-designate to China said Wednes-

Leonard Woodcock told the Economic Club of Detroit the Carter administration is still concerned over the military buildup along the Chinese border with Viet-

"We have made representations about our concern," Woodcock said. "We have made known our most serious concern. It is a dangerous matter, but we have no guarantees and no assurances (against military action).

China has been massing airplanes and other mlitary units along the border because of Vietnam's invasion and conquest of the Chinese-backed government in Cambodia.

We hope nothing untoward will happen," Woodcock said. "But we have no

But Woodcock repeated frequent Carter administration assurances that the security of Taiwan was not jeopardized by normalization of relations with the mainland government

"The Chinese do not have the military capability to invade Taiwan and are not seeking to develop it," he said.

"We would have a three-to five-year lead time of warning if they tried. And even if they could, they would not be-cause it would obstruct their own modernization efforts. So there is no danger to Taiwan.

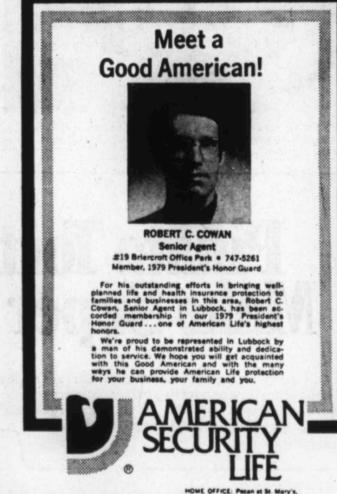

Woodcock also warned businessmen not to expect a sudden gold mine in trade with the Chinese, despite normalization and China's rush toward modernization.

"It will be no great bonanza," the former United Auto Workers president said. The ability of American businesses to increase sales there is dependent upon what the Chinese can sell. The trade has to be two way.'

Woodcock also said the Chinese themselves may be setting their hopes too

They're on a worldwide shopping spree," he said. "They are a pragmatic people and as they sort out priorities it will be on a sensible basis.

"I have concern about (modernization) not being fast enough. The effort is extremely popular with the people, and they may be too impatient."

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

Iran Woes Cause Mart To Retreat

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market retreated today on worries over higher oil prices and continued turmoil in Iran.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off by 3.64 at noon at 826.14. Losers led gainers by about 2-1 among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Big Board volume trailed off to 9.42 million shares in the first two hour of trading from 11.59 million shares by noon the day before.

In the day's economic news, Abu Dhabi and Qatar said they increased crude oil prices by about 7 percent in the wake of worldwide shortages of crude oil caused by the cessation of Iranian petroleum production.

The price move was not unexpected on Wall Street, said MKI Securities analyst Charles Jensen. But the increase "created some nervousness among investors who didn't quite expect it at this point," he said.

The Federal Reserve reported industrial production rose by .1 percent last month, a slowdown from December's .6 percent gain. Business inventories gained by .6 percent in December, the Commerce Department said, following a 1.1 percent gain a month earlier.

Northwest Airlines was off 34 in active trading at 17%, and United Airlines owner UAL Inc. dropped % to 241/2. AT&T was up 1/8 at 643/8. Financial companies were lower, with Citicorp down 1/4 at 233/8.

On the American Stock Exchange, Tubos de Acero de Mexico, the producer of steel pipe, was off 1 to 171/2.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index dropped .19 to 55.23: at the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off .15 at 162.01.

The increase would boost the current price of $14.10 per 42-gallon barrel for premium low-sulphur crudes to $15.12. That rate went into effect Jan. 1 following the decision by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to raise the 1978 price for all types of oil by 5 per-

The increase by United Arab Emirates and Qatar will probably have no effect on American prices of gasoline and heating oil according to analysts. But they say that if the price rise spreads to other OPEC nations, it could eventually push U.S. retail prices up by about a penny a

These prime crudes are fetching as much as $20 per barrel on the spot market as a result of the shortage created by the continuing closure of the Iranian oil fields.

Although the spot market represents a very small fraction of world oil supply. oil producers have been looking on the increases there with interest. Most of the world's oil is sold under long-term contracts. Oil not covered under the contracts is sold on the spot market.

The decision for the partial increase followed a recent tour of Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Qatar by Dr. Mana Said Oteiba, the United Arab Emirate's oil minister and current OPEC president.

Oteiba claims oil companies have exploited the international shortage of oil caused by the Iranian crisis by selling oil at prices up to 75 percent higher than the rates fixed by OPEC.

Commitment To Beauty Stands Out At Resort

A-J Travel Editor "For a weekend or a lifetime...." now that is an overworked phrase - but, the statement is definitely appropriate for Horseshoe Bay Resort and Country Club. Located on Lake LBJ (85 miles southeast of San Angelo, 80 miles north of San Antonio, 55 miles northwest of Austin' the resort is in some of Texas' most beautiful country and enjoys its share of the nation's most pleasant climate. Add a superb golf course, indoor and outdoor tennis complex, an olympic size swimming pool, plus a modern private airport you have one of the finest resort communities to be found anywhere.

If your game is golf, you'll find the course designed by Robert Trent Jones, Inc., one of the most memorable in the nation. Being an expert at slicing when a hook is called for, and vice versa, this writer discovered that even the roughs are watered and maintained. The 18-hole course actually has a "wall-to-wall" sprinkler system electronically controlled by computer, assuring a green course ev-

In 1975, the course at Horseshoe Bay was the site of the first Texas State Open to be played since 1967. That tournament was won by Ben Crenshaw.

Asking the question, "Tennis, anyone" could be an invitation to spend the rest of your life on the courts at Horseshoe the 28,000-square-foot Yacht Club, a very lavish structure that features gourmet dining. The elegant facility offers first class service for a couple at a lakeview table or a conventiion of 250 guests. A lounge in the club presents nightly entertainment.

Outside the club is an impressive black marble basin swimming pool that invites

Bay. Just about everyone keeps a racket within easy reach, if not in hand. There are several outdoor courts with some lighted for night use. Plus, more courts are under cover for those players that prefer their game in the shade.

The resort's marina features easy access to fishing, and protected waters for paddle-boats and sailing. Beyond the marina is plenty of water for house boats or skiing on what some persons consider heard everything. While I was taking a picture of the lighthouse, the notes of "The Yellow Rose of Texas" created by chimes pealed from the structure to float over the blue waters.

My host smiled and said that during the University of Texas and Texas A&M football game, Longhorn and Aggie themes are heard. The brief battle of notes is followed by a rendition of "The Impossible Dream." Throughout the year, Westminster chimes mark the passage of the hours. Many residents at the resort rely on the chimes rather than a watch while bicycling or horseback riding.

Lodging rates at Horseshoe Bay Inn begin at $50 a double at this writing. Some private homes with two and three bedrooms are available for short term rental. Group rates are also available. The resort facility, for a nominal fee, can assist home construction from preparation of elevations to final landscaping. More information is available from Horseshoe Bay Resort, Dept. A.J. P.O. Box 7752, Marble Falls, Texas 78654.

Horseshoe Bay has attracted yeararound residents from all over the country. The club membership includes persons from Floydada, Midland, Connecticut, Mexico and a native of Scotland. While dining with residents Mr. and Mrs. George Marshall formerly of Pennsylvania, Mrs. Marshall told this writer that they had been considering a move to Florida from the northern state. But, the couple's son stationed at Bergstrom Air Force Base recommended taking a look at Horseshoe Bay. "I immediately fell in love with the wooded hills," noted Jean Marshall, "and the proximity of Austin and San Antonio.

A retired engineer, and now a member of the resort's volunteer fire department, George Marshall said the development had delivered everything promised in its brochure and more. He added, "The developers live here; that certainly speaks well for the community's appeal.

Norman Hurd, developer of Horseshoe Bay, who personally supervised the resort's landscaping, said in an interview: "I have no personal image to create. The only thing I want to create is beauty."

That commitment is the hallmark at Horseshoe Bay. Outdoor recreation with elegance has been wrapped up in one impressive package in the Hill Country. It's a place where you can enjoy a delightful vacation or build a house and really live. Horseshoe Bay Resort and Country Club for a weekend or a lifetime.

'Elvis' Defeats Stiff Competition From Gable, Nicholson Movies

By JOAN HANAUER NEW YORK (UPI) - American television viewers prefer imitation Elvis Presley to the real Clark Gable.

And they prefer either ersatz Elvis or fabled Gable to Jack Nicolson.

That's the implication of the Nielsen figures for national television watching last Sunday when ABC showed an original television movie aptly titled "Elvis," CBS presented the first half of "Gone With The Wind" in its second television swept the ratings opposite normal proshowing, and NBC presented the small gramming — CBS had figured "GWTW" Former Backup Singer

As for the second season entries -ABC's "Angie" struck paydirt in its comfortable hammock position slung between "Mork & Mindy," the most popular show of the week, and popular "Barney Miller." "Angie" came in fifth with a 41 percent share of the audience - another winner for ABC.

Bad news for new ABC shows included "Makin' It" in 57th place on a list of 62 programs, "Delta House" in 51st, the Osmond Family Hour tied for 47th, and weak but not disastrous ratings for "How the West Was Won" and "Salvage I."

The good news for NBC included "Diff'rent Strokes" in 15th place, "Supertrain" in 17th and "B.J. and the Bear" in 23rd. The bad news included 'Turnabout" in 54th; and "Brothers and Sisters" in 46th.

the regular Sunday schedule. The wild programming is part of the February "sweeps" period of extensive polling by the ratings companies, the results of which will in large part determine network prices for the 1979-1980 television season. To date, ABC is ahead, with CBS second and NBC in last place.

That reflects the season-to-date ratings of the three networks, although last week NBC was able to best CBS for the week to capture second place.

Stores Begin Fast-Food Operations

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's grocery stores, apparently alarmed at the rapid growth of fast-food chains, are attempting to grab a share of the market by opening their own carry-out operations. A Commerce Department report this week said the nation's appetite for readyto-go hamburgers, pizzas, steaks and chicken continues to grow - possibly by 20 percent this year alone.

Instead of trying to stem the don'tbother-to-cook trend, grocery stores are getting into the business themselves, Commerce officials said.

With 36 cents of every food dollar going to food eaten outside the home. grocery chains are planning extensive sales campaigns to fight the fast-food encroachment," the report said.

'A number of supermarkets are even installing sit-down restaurants in their stores while others are opening restaurant chains of their own."

However, Commerce officials said, The franchised fast-food restaurant continues its success and popularity and more dramatically than ever has made a major impact on the food service indus-

The report said the number of franchised fast-food restaurants increased from 51,972 in 1977 to 57,878 last year. The highest concentration ... continues to be in California, Texas and Ohio," the department said.

is slotted opposite "Happy Days" and "Laverne & Shirley" which is more perilous than anything that could befall the new series or its stars.

NBC is counting on blonde, statuesque Susan Anton to carry the series which costs $1 million per three-show episode.

Anton, in fact, is getting the sort of star buildup at the network that once was lavished on young beauties at the major studios. NBC is grooming her under a special contract calling for an almost unprecedented number of appearances in the next few months.

In addition to "Cliffhangers," she is scheduled for four NBC musical specials during the month of May. She is also starring in "Goldengirl," a new movie partly financed by NBC, with James Coburn, Curt Jurgens and Leslie Caron.

Susan, who can be seen regularly on the tube doing commercials for a cigar company and a mattress manufacturer, has cut her first record album, "The First Time," due for release next month.

If the nation doesn't suffer an Anton overdose before summer, Susan may become 1979's superstar.

Still in her 20s, Susan, who is 5-foot-11. is too young to have seen Pearl White virtually hanging from cliffs in the old "Peril of Pauline" serials, but she has seen similar cliffhangers on old TV reruns.

The long-legged California native, runner-up to Miss California in the 1970 Miss America Pageant, is a veteran nightclub singer who wants it all.

She would like to star in movies, television, clubs and on records and said, "After all this activity in the next few months, I'll either be high on the ladder or out of the business.

Between scenes of "Stop Susan Williams," she said, "I play a New York newspaper photographer whose mission in life is finding her brother's killers. Her quest takes her all over the world. 'The series is structured to last only 10 weeks. The same is true of 'The Curse of Dracula' and 'The Secret Empire.' That's the beauty of the series. After that, if we're a hit, we can be brought back for another go-round. Or they can bring in other 10-week episodes. It leaves me free to do other things.

"The show is done tongue-in-cheek on a sophisticated level. High camp with some real drama and humor thrown in.

"The cliffhangers always leave me in desperate circumstances, about to be pushed from a window ledge four stories high or in a bubble bath with a cobra. I also find myself at the bottom of a shaft with the elevator coming down.

"In Africa I'm strung up by my ankles over a herd of elephants and left in a pit with a lion. In one segment I end up in a car submerged in water.

"The character I play is bright and she has a lot of style. She has to be lucky, too, because an organized crime syndicate is out to kill her. During the 10 weeks of the show 30 attempts are made on her life." Susan appears in close-ups but stunt

National Smoker Study:

Low tar MERIT with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco delivers taste equal to-or better than-leading high tar brands.

The 'Enriched Flavor' science of low tar MERIT, 12 years in the making, isolates and fortifies flavor components of smoke for a taste way out of proportion to tar. Can that taste satisfy the toughest critics of low tar smoking—current smokers of high tar cigarettes?

Read the results from a detailed, nationwide research effort involving smokers who tastetested MERIT against leading high tar brands.

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers rate MERIT taste equal to—or better than—leading high tar cigarettes tested! Cigarettes having up to twice the tar.

Confirmed: Majority of high tar smokers confirm taste satisfaction of low tar MERIT.

Confirmed: 85% of MERIT smokers say it was an "easy switch" from high tar brands.

Confirmed: Overwhelming majority of MERIT smokers say their former high tar brands weren't missed!

MERIT has proven conclusively that it not only delivers the flavor of high tar brands—but continues to satisfy!

This ability to satisfy over long periods of time could be the most important evidence to date that MERIT science has produced what it claims: The first real taste alternative for high tar smokers.
