Casualties Heavy In Vietnam

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vietnam reported fierce fighting today in the northwest corridor to Hanoi and said its forces wiped out 2,000 Chinese there from Friday to Monday.

The official Voice of Vietnam said the fighting was concentrated in the Cam Duong area which sits astride the Red River delta corridor which runs from the frontier to the Vietnamese capital.

The broadcast also said two more Chinese companies were decimated in Lang Son province northeast of Hanoi Monday and another 250 Chinese soldiers were killed or wounded in the past two days in Phong Tho district of Lai Chau province.

Phong Tho is 15 miles inside Vietnam and 190 miles northwest of Hanoi.

President Carter called on China to undertake "a speedy withdrawal" from Vietnam, in a message given to top Chinese leaders by Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal who is visiting Peking. It was the bluntest statement to date of American opposition to the war.

But intelligence sources in Bangkok noted that the Chinese showed no signs of a withdrawal after 10 days of fighting and, in fact, were still reinforcing their troops in some frontier areas, including Lang Son.

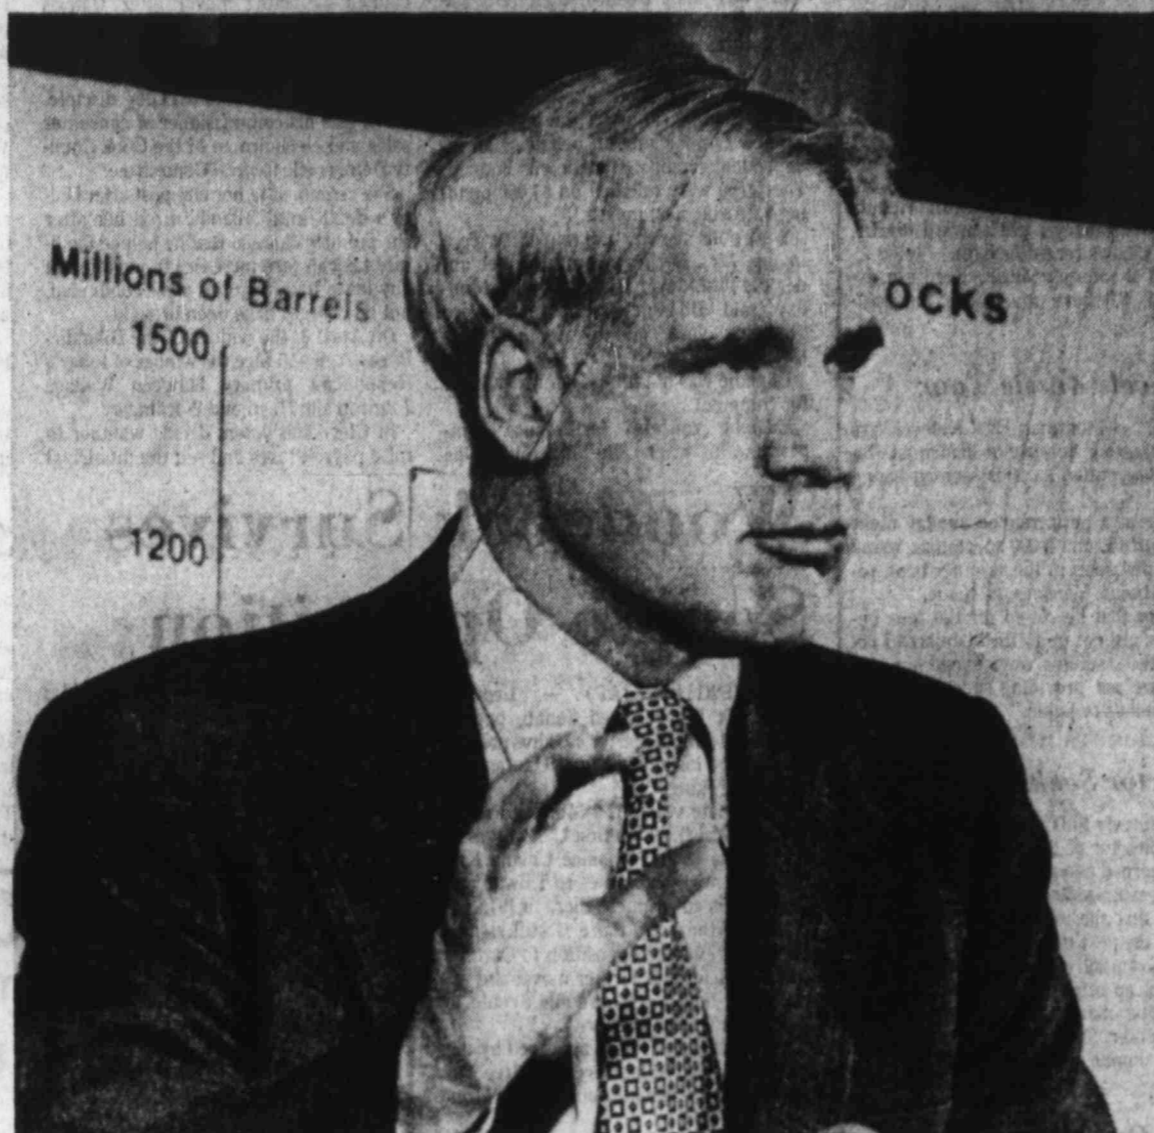

Vietnam claimed Monday its troops were holding fast in the Cam Duong area and inflicted heavy casualties on the invaders at the other end of the frontier.

Radio Hanoi said the Vietnamese withstood a Chinese armored and infantry attack from three directions in the Cam Duong region, on the Red River south of the provincial capital of Lao Cai.

The broadcast said the Vietnamese counter-attacked and killed 1,400 Chinese around Cam Duong, but that fighting continued in the area. Cam Duong and Lao Cai, reported captured by the Chinese last week, are in the Red River Valley, the strategic water, rail and highway corridor leading to Hanoi.

In coastal Quang Ninh province at the other end of the 450-mile-long border, Vietnamese forces intercepted and killed a large number of Chinese troops over the weekend west of Mong Cai village and near the Bac Luan bridge, the broadcast said.

No figures were given, but Hanoi has claimed its troops have killed more than 16,000 Chinese since Peking invaded Feb. 17. Intelligence sources consider the kill count inflated.

REPORTS ON GASOLINE — Energy Secretary James Schlesinger tells the National Governors' Conference in Washington today that the government plans to ration gasoline only as a last resort. Schlesinger, who predicts a fuel shortage this summer unless Iran returns to normal production, also hinted of other energy-saving measures. (AP Laserphoto)

Gas Rationing Fears Fade

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Energy Department made public today proposed standby plans it has sent to Congress for gasoline rationing and other fuel-saving measures to be used only in a serious energy emergency.

The plans were sent informally to key congressional committees Monday night. Department spokesmen said they would be submitted formally to Congress Thursday.

To be adopted, the plans under a 1975 law must be approved by both the House and Senate within 90 days.

If gasoline rationing were ever needed — and department officials say they see no prospect of it in the foreseeable future — rationing coupons would be issued to owners of registered vehicles.

The coupons could be sold or transferred at will, although the government would have authority if necessary to impose price controls or other steps to prevent excessive hoarding, anti-competitive practices or other disruptive activities.

The standby rationing plan did not include any specific gallon limit for individual vehicle owners. Officials said the limit would be determined at the time rationing is imposed, according to distribution formulas and the seriousness of petroleum shortages.

The Energy Department has denied published reports that the rationing plan provides for a limit of two gallons or less per day for each registered vehicle.

Also included in the standby plans made public today were restrictions on weekend gasoline sales, temperature controls in commercial and public buildings and curbs on unnecessary advertising lighting.

The president can put the standby plans into effect when he declares an energy emergency exists, but this move can be blocked by either house of Congress.

Earlier today, Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger assured the nation's gov-

Israel Snubs Carter Plan For Summit

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israeli Cabinet today rejected an American invitation for Prime Minister Menachem Begin to attend a Camp David summit meeting, plunging the 15-month-old peace process to one of its lowest depths.

Begin said last week's ministerial-level talks at Camp David produced no progress. He accused the Egyptians of hardening their position on terms for a Mideast peace treaty.

The talks were to have been held without Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, who reportedly felt his presence was not necessary.

In Washington, a senior White House official said the initial White House reaction "was of grave concern about what the decision means for the peace process."

The official, who asked not to be named, said the administration wants "to make sure we have all the information on what decisions were made" before commenting publicly. Begin is believed to have sent a personal message to President Carter.

In Cairo, Prime Minister Mustafa Khalifa said the next move was up to Carter. "Is it I who extended the invitation? Let him who extended the invitation talk to (Begin)," he told The Associated Press.

He denied that Egypt had toughened its stand. "Egypt's has not changed. We did not present any new proposals," he said. Contrary to Begin, he said there was progress at last week's talks at Camp David.

After the Cabinet meeting, Begin said: "The Cabinet decided that the prime minister is not in a position to accept the proposed meeting with Prime Minister Khalifa." The vote against Begin going was 14-2.

Begin refused to answer questions about the six-hour Cabinet meeting, but an insider said only Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan and Defense Minister Ezer Weizman voted in favor of the summit and that Begin voted against it.

The insider said the general tone of the Cabinet discussion was to criticize Egypt's peace proposals, not Sadat's absence from the proposed summit.

Begin said Dayan had reported to the Cabinet on President Carter's proposal that Begin and Khalifa meet at Camp David with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance. Dayan had returned from five days of talks at Camp David with Khalifa.

"It is now evident to the Cabinet that in those talks no progress was made toward an Israeli-Egyptian agreement," Begin said.

"On the contrary, a more extreme position was presented by the Egyptian delegation."

Begin said he was still "prepared at any time convenient to President Carter to leave for the United States to meet with the president to discuss the peace process and bilateral relations between Israel and the United States."

Begin appeared solemn as he read the Cabinet statement to newsmen.

In a sharp criticism of Egypt, Begin declared: "In addition to the previous Egyptian proposals, which were unacceptable to Israel, new proposals were made which were inconsistent with the Camp David agreement of Sept. 17 and in fact nullified the meaning of the peace treaty between the two countries."

Local Crime Prevention Task Force Adopts Plan

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Lubbock County crime prevention task force adopted a multifaceted plan of action at its first meeting this morning, including a countywide effort to mark valuables, a crime reporting system, an educational program and an attack on specific kinds of crime.

District Attorney John Montford, whose office organized the task force, described the crime prevention plan as part of a "two-front war" on crime in Lubbock County, which also includes prosecutorial and law enforcement efforts, he said.

Perhaps the central element of the crime prevention plan as suggested by Montford is an attempt to mark valuables throughout the county.

When prosecuting a case, Montford said it is "essential to be able to identify stolen property to get convictions" and said identification also aids in returning the property to its owner.

The marking would not be left to "individual volition," Montford said. Rather he envisions a door-to-door marking effort throughout the county.

He estimated the task force will need 2,000 engraving devices to launch such an effort.

A "very important element" of the crime prevention plan is a crime reporting system, Montford said. Although no decision has been made, the phone line for the Chamber of Commerce's Crime Abatement Program may be used.

An educational program in the schools might "bring convicts back in to speak to teen-agers and young adults on why crime is a dead-end street," Montford said. The general public could be educated through the media, he said.

Montford suggested an attack on specific crime types and causes.

"The drug problem accounts for an extremely high incidence of crime in Lubbock County, directly and indirectly," he said, adding an "effective counter action on the drug abuse problem" is needed.

There is "extensive loss" through business crime, he said. Many of those problems could be eliminated by educating merchants through a handbook on hot checks and forgeries and a check institute, Montford said.

He also suggested the crime prevention plan specifically address juvenile crime and elderly victims of crime.

The 18-member task force named Lubbock County Sheriff C.H. "Choc" Blanchard as its chairman and appointed 11 subcommittees to formulate definite pro-

Police Officials Warn Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police officials told protesting farmers today that tractor-driving demonstrations in Washington will be forbidden under any circumstances in the future.

The warning was given at a meeting between the farmers and representatives of the District of Columbia police, U.S. Park Police and Capitol police at the demonstrators' encampment on the Mall, the grassy promenade between the Capitol and the Lincoln Memorial.

From now on, police said, the farmers will be allowed to demonstrate only with foot marches after they obtain police permits.

The warning followed incidents Monday night in which protesters threw trash at a police mobile command post and five farmers broke through a police barricade penning their tractors on the Mall.

Police spokesman Gary Hankins said the incident began about 11 p.m. Monday, when farmers began throwing bags of trash at the command center.

About 30 minutes later, Hankins said, several farmers succeeded in pulling a city truck out of a line of vehicles that forms the barricade, and drove five tractors along Pennsylvania Avenue.

The farmers were stopped by police, given traffic tickets and their tractors impounded, the spokesman said.

(An American Agriculture spokesman told The Avalanche-Journal this morning that the accusations against the farmers are false. The farmers cleaned up the Mall area and dumped trash bags near the police mobile command post because there were no garbage cans, he said. The spokesman also said that police let the tractors out of the area.)

The incidents came after Deputy Police Chief Robert Klotz refused to lift a ban on tractorcades imposed after about 200 tractors blocked traffic in downtown Washington during the evening rush hour Friday and caused a disturbance outside the White House.

The farmers, who have demonstrated here for several weeks in a demand for higher government crop supports, wanted to drive their tractors to the Federal Reserve building today. But Klotz said no more parades will be allowed until the protesters come up with "reasonable leadership" with whom police can deal.

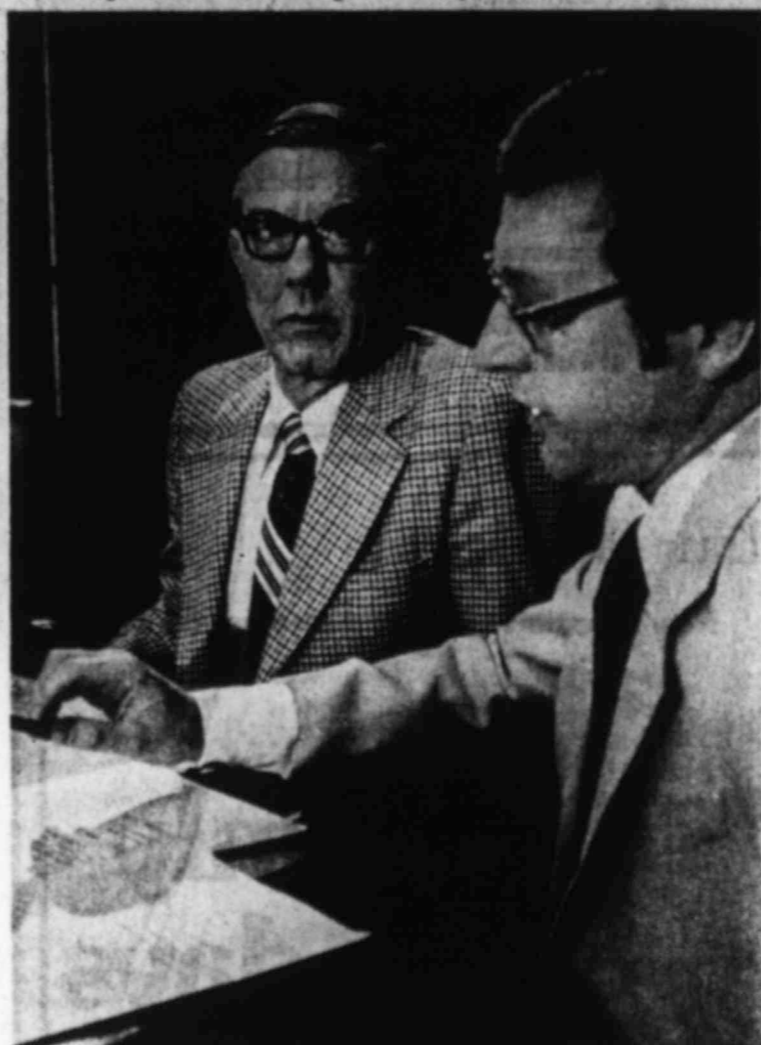

Tech Regents Get Approval

AUSTIN (Special) — The Texas Senate Nominations Committee unanimously approved Gov. Bill Clements' recommendations for Texas Tech University regents this morning.

The committee approved the reappointment of Texas Instruments, Inc. president J. Fred Bucy of Dallas and the appointment of B.J. Pevehouse, a Midland oil executive, and Dr. Nathan Gallo-way, an Odessa physician.

A spokesman for Sen. E.L. Short said very little discussion preceded the unanimous approval of the three men and predicted the full Senate would consider the nominations in about a week.

Pevehouse was named to succeed Andrew J. Kemp Jr. of Fort Worth and Gallo-way was chosen to replace Judson F. Williams of El Paso.

Educator Praises New Era

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Emerging from a time when they hoarded their best teaching methods, public schools are "entering a new era of sharing ideas," Texas' top educator said in a speech delivered here today.

The remarks of Dr. M.L. Brockette, state commissioner of education, opened a Lubbock Memorial Civic Center conference that is a big part of such a sharing process. The event, "Promises in Education '79," is a showcase for 34 school programs that have proven effective in Texas and across the nation.

An exchange of innovative ideas "can save money and time," Brockette stated. "Fortunately, not every school has to develop every new program. Schools can borrow from one another. Developing new ideas is expensive and slow; adopting or adapting proven programs demands far less in both time and money."

Because he was called to Washington, D.C., on emergency business, Brockette was unable to address the conference in person, a spokesman explained. However, his prepared speech was transmitted to the opening general session by Virginia Cutter, director of news dissemination for the Texas Education Agency.

"I believe we are entering a new era of sharing ideas as a means of strengthening education," Brockette's text said.

"In many respects, this kind of sharing is a new concept for us in education. In the past, we've had a protective attitude toward what we created. We didn't want to hand it over to others for fear they might tamper with what we had designed."

"At the same time, we've felt threatened if someone else developed an effective program that we didn't have. We hesitated to adopt it. Someone might think we weren't smart enough to plan our own programs."

"We need to divest ourselves of these defenses. The possibilities for school improvement are unlimited if we can learn to search out new programs that meet our needs — and if we can learn to share freely our own ideas with others."

About 400 educators attended the opening session in the Civic Center auditorium. Approximately 200 more school administrators and teachers are expected to participate in the conference, the first of its kind in West Texas.

Dr. Alpheus L. White, director of state educational assistance for the U.S. Office of Education, will discuss "Educational Change: The Adoption Process," at the closing luncheon session on Wednesday.

Violence Feared At Chicago's Polling Locations

By The Associated Press
Chicago officials fear violence at the polls in a mayoral primary, Clevelanders vote on a plan for the city's financial recovery and the mayor of Kansas City tries for an unprecedented third term in elections today.

Democrats chose between incumbent

Michael Bilandic and challenger Jane Byrne in Chicago where threats of violence marred the final days of the campaign.

"The heated campaigns and closeness of this mayoral primary may even spark some violence," said State's attorney Bernard Carey. "A lot of precinct captains will panic because their (city patronage) jobs are threatened if they don't get out the vote."
Carey said Monday three Democratic precinct captains were arrested last week for threatening to break the legs of two women campaign on behalf of an independent candidate for the city council. The three were released on $3,000 pending a hearing next month.

With polls showing the mayoral race a tossup, Mrs. Byrne, a commissioner under the late Mayor Richard Daley, Monday said Bilandic's supporters were "bullying" voters and threatening "political reprisals."
Bilandic was not immediately available for comment.

Bilandic canceled last-minute campaigning to attend the funeral of his mother, 83-year-old Minnie Bilandic, who died Saturday.
Bilandic, 56, a lawyer, businessman and alderman, was appointed by the city council as acting mayor after Daley's death Dec. 20, 1977. He easily won a June 1978 special election to fill the remainder of Daley's sixth four-year term.
Mrs. Byrne, 43, was a Daley disciple, serving as his commissioner of consumer sales and co-chairman of the Cook County Democratic Central Committee.
She remained in her city post after Daley's death until Bilandic fired her after she publicly charged that he helped facilitate taxicab fare increases in violation of city laws. Investigations were conducted, but no charges were brought.
On April 3, the winner of the Bilandic-Byrne race will face the winner of today's Republican primary between Wallace Johnson and Raymond Wardingley.
In Cleveland voters decide whether to raise payroll taxes and sell the municipal electric utility in an effort to pay the beleaguered city's debts.

The city, which defaulted on $14 million in notes held by six local banks in December, is struggling to maintain vital police, fire and sanitation services and to avert bankruptcy.

Mayor Dennis Kucinich has repeatedly said that raising the payroll tax from a penny on the dollar to 1 1/4 cents on March 1 will provide enough money for the city to stay solvent.

Most of the tax burden would be carried by 380,000 suburbanites who work in Cleveland. Cleveland's payroll tax rate is the lowest among Ohio's six largest cities and the city's voters have never approved an increase in that rate.

The Muni Light issue, however, has been the focus of the campaign.

The city-owned utility has not generated electricity in almost two years. It distributes electricity purchased wholesale from the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co.

Kucinich, with support from consumer activist Ralph Nader, has campaigned to retain city ownership of Muni Light, saying Cleveland Electric must not be given a monopoly.

In Kansas City, Mayor Charles Wheeler, trying for his third four-year term, faces his strongest challenge from three city councilmen.

Joel Pelofsky, Richard Berkley and Bruce Watkins claim to have the necessary experience and the innovative ideas to be choice replacements for Wheeler. Two other minor candidates are also in the race.

Duchess Of Windsor Recovering

PARIS (AP) — The Duchess of Windsor, the American-born widow of a former British king, is recovering well from surgery for an intestinal blockage, according to hospital reports.
The 82-year-old duchess, the former Wallis Warfield Simpson, is recovering "absolutely satisfactorily," the American Hospital said here Monday.
Informed sources said the duchess, widow of King Edward VIII, who gave up his throne in 1936 to marry her, will have to remain in the hospital for an unspecified period.

Knievel Cancels Aussie Tour
SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Stuntman Evel Knievel says he's canceling his Australian tour because of inadequate facilities, and about 5,000 disgruntled Aussies seemed happy to see him go.

Knievel failed to appear at a performance Sunday night in the country town of Griffith, and 5,000 spectators, many of whom had driven long distances in the summer heat, responded by chanting, "Go home, Yankees, go home."
Evel told reporters today that he called off the tour because "some of the venues are not up to the standards I require." He said some of the stadiums were dangerous and added, "The promoters are not providing spectators with any toilet facilities, grandstands or lights."

Opera Director Seeks Funds

NEW YORK (AP) — Beverly Sills still has four months before she takes over as director of the New York City Opera, but she's already concerned about money.
The star soprano, who becomes director July 1, said at a news conference Monday that she will try to raise $12 million for the company over the next three years.
She said a friend has given her a million dollars to the company to benefit American artists. Of that, $10,000 will be the prize in an upcoming competition for a one-act opera by an American composer. The winning opera will be given its premiere by the company in the fall of 1980.

Sink Or Swim

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore has acquired a real heavyweight in a 4-for-1 deal.
The new acquisition is a 4-ton Nile hippopotamus, obtained by the Baltimore Zoo from a Virginia zoo in exchange for four red-crested porchard ducks.
Upon arrival at the zoo, the hippo waded into a pool and sank, bellowing and blowing bubbles. Zoo officials said she had never before been in deep water but quickly learned how to swim.

Ford Heir Wins Trial Delay

SOUTH SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Benson Ford Jr., great-grandson of auto magnate Henry Ford, has been granted a postponement of a preliminary hearing on drug possession charges.

FORD

The 29-year-old nephew of Ford Chairman Henry Ford II was arrested at San Francisco International Airport last month for allegedly carrying a small amount of hashish and cocaine.

Judge James Miller of South San Francisco Municipal Court granted a postponement of the hearing until March 6 at the request of Ford's lawyer, Robert Lee. Ford did not appear at the hearing, and Lee declined to talk to reporters.

Ford, heir to $7.5 million of the Ford Motor Co. fortune, and a companion, Lisa Ann Adams, were arrested Jan. 23 as they returned to the United States from Hong Kong.

Cardin Will Assist Chinese

NEW YORK (AP) — In another sign of East meeting West, fashion designer Pierre Cardin says he will become a consultant to the Chinese.

"They are ready for the fashion industry," Cardin, who recently returned from a week-long tour of China, declared Monday.

Cardin, who heads a fashion empire of more than 400 factories in 63 countries, explained that in his role as adviser to Chinese textile and garment producers he will try "to help the Chinese develop the way of fashion."

He said he has not yet signed a contract with the Chinese to serve in this advisory capacity, but that the subject will be discussed when he returns for two fashion shows in Peking and Shanghai.

Cardin also said he plans to produce clothing from Chinese textiles, especially silk and cashmere.

President's Sister Arrested

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP) — President Carter's sister, Gloria Spann, is free on personal recognizance bond after being charged with illegal harmonica playing.

"Obviously I have less talent than I thought," Mrs. Spann said Monday night.

She, her husband, Walter, and two other persons were arrested Saturday night at the McWaffle restaurant, said Americus police.

"I am charged with: 'Defendant was playing a harmonica. When asked to stop playing music refused to do so and kept on playing.'" Mrs. Spann said in a telephone interview from her Plains, Ga., home.

"Walter is charged with: 'Defendant was asked to leave building, but refused to do so unless placed under arrest,'" she said. "I'm reading from Walter's ticket."

Mrs. Spann said she and a dozen friends had gone to the restaurant "after a musical evening at my house," and one of the group dared her to play the harmonica. She said she had been learning to play it for about a month.

"I went in playing. By the time I sat down, a girl came over and said, 'You can't play that thing in here.'" Mrs. Spann said. "My husband said, 'Play me another tune,' so I played some more."

The four arrested were sitting together in a booth, she said.

DermaCulture ... COMPLEXION PERFECTION

GENTLE VACUUMING PROCESS

If you are young enough to dream; but figure you are too old for miracles... you may be in for a surprise!

If skin that glimmers with cleanliness and presents a texture as sleek as that of the typical apple-checked four year old is what you want, it is available as the end product of a treatment at the DermaCulture Studio, 4902 34th Terrace Shopping Center. In fact, DermaCulture is the proven way to "complexion perfection."

The sophisticated procedure, first developed in 1938, requires months of intensive training on the part of its technicians. Because of this, only dedicated and caring technicians complete the training requirements.

The DermaCulture method was originally developed for problem skin. It has even restored severely damaged complexions and enjoys an enviable reputation for creating fragile, flawless complexions. Treatment begins when the patron reclines on a comfortably padded table with legs elevated for circulation promotion and complete relaxation. The first step of the procedure consists of a satiny facial cleansing administered by quick, cool fingers of an expert therapist. Most women go through only the motions of skin cleansing and generally speaking, only the surface soil is removed. Very few people have the correct conception of what constitutes a really clean skin.

Next comes application of an infra-ray mask which opens pores and further softens any unwanted accumulation. Superfluous material is then gently vacuumed away by a vacuum cleaner which very much looks like a bent drinking straw. It is a very gentle process. Then a technician deftly plucks away blackheads, white heads, or as we prefer to call them, "pore-plugs"

The final step is a pleasant firming technique using highly perfected patented equipment. The customer's reward is a superbly smooth-skin.

Every skin can look better in only one treatment, some skin problems require a series before real correction is effected. DermaCulture, effective in the removal of acne, pimples, skin blemishes of every type, scars and other severe skin problems, is used by several airline schools including Americas, Delta and Texas International, who regularly send the stewardesses and trainees for treatments when skin problems are discovered. In the Dallas studio, as many as thirty will come at one time.

SCRUB WITH HONEY AND ALMOND GRAIN

A number of TV and screen personalities in California, where the first DermaCulture Studio was established, have discovered the great benefits derived from DermaCulture, as might be expected, since the repeated application of stage make-up can cause problems.

The procedure was developed by a German specialist who came to this country and found so therapy treatment available. Since then it has been improved with newly invented aids.

After the initial treatment, the super-cleanliness can be renewed in the home, with products such as a cleanser made with barley, honey and almonds — a cleanser which again, gives the skin a newness and silkiness possible only with the removal of excess lubrication. One soap, made especially for excessively oily skin, has help as its main ingredient. Another new product in the line is a soap for normal skin. The astringent, the mildest and most gentle ever developed, is a boon for the woman who must be careful with a fragile complexion. This green, herb-based liquid has a natural fragrance coming only from the herbs necessary to make it.

DermaCulture has a complete line of cosmetics that are excellent for all types of skin and demonstrate the proper use of the any perfume and the ones used on the face are totally free of oil as well. These cosmetics can be purchased without taking the treatments, although we prefer to give at least one in order to thoroughly cleanse the skin and demonstrate the proper use of the cosmetics.

It has been proven in other cities in Texas that DermaCulture treatments and the use of our skin care items are most effective in the protection of the skin of the most avid tennis players and all other outdoor people. The skin retains a softness that belies the many hours spent in the sun. All sun-loving people should be patrons of DermaCulture for the sake of their skin.

The skin is the largest organ of the body, and one of the most important. Not only is a lovely skin important to you personally, but your complexion is the first thing other people notice. You can paint it you can powder it—you can tan it—but unless your skin is so clean and healthy that it needs no improvement, DermaCulture treatments may be the only way to your natural skin beauty.

DermaCulture, a proven beauty concept that is available to you here in Lubbock, if you value your skin — your looks — your poise and personal ego — if you would achieve the serene self-confidence that only comes with looking your best — DermaCulture. It's the common sense approach to skin care.

Additional information and appointments may be made by telephoning DermaCulture Studio, 4902 34th Terrace Shopping Center, 792-5535, Monday through Saturday.

Bill Would Change Utility Jurisdiction

AUSTIN (AP) — Consumers will be the losers if electric companies can take rate requests straight to the Texas Public Utility Commission, city council representatives have told a House committee.

Rep. Lynn Nabers, however, says the bill he is co-sponsoring pares down an expensive and complicated procedure by taking away original jurisdiction in electric rate cases from the local governments.

"In essence you have two layers of expenses," Nabers, D-Brownwood, told the House State Affairs Committee Monday. "I think this cuts out a layer of expense."

Utilities presently may appeal any city council decision on electric rates to the commission and many do. The commission has original jurisdiction over rural areas.

City councils now may choose to delegate their authority to the commission.

Mayor R.D. Wilkerson of the Panhandle city of Pampa said only three of the state's 1,100 cities formally have taken that step. "If we lose that jurisdiction — then who are you going to be able to complain to?" said El Paso Mayor Ray Salazar. "This bill to me is nothing more than giving the utility companies the right for utility rate increases."

Nabers said the bill would not prohibit city councils from holding a public hearing before the rate request goes to the utility commission. They could also send representatives as "intervenor" when the request would be heard in Austin, he added.

"It's not the intent of this bill to try to exclude anyone," Nabers said. The bill was sent to a subcommittee for further study.

Dallas City Councilman Steve Bartlett said the local governments' leverage for handling consumer complaints is at stake.

"Utility regulation is an ongoing process, not just a biennial rate-setting process," he said.

"The cities provide an effective check on the PUC which might be lost," added J. William Earle, director of Houston's public services department.

Representatives of Corpus Christi, Amarillo and Lubbock announced their opposition to the proposal.

Rep. Jerry Donaldson, the bill's co-sponsor, claimed that political demagoguery was "the bottom line" of city officials' desire to keep their original jurisdiction.

Donaldson, D-Gatesville, suggested that city councils now can gain popularity by opposing rate hikes, knowing that electric companies will appeal their decisions to the utility commission.

"Why spend $50,000 on what's a sham anyway?" he said. "Most of the cities are not doing anything anyway."

E.R. Wall, president of El Paso Electric Co., had told the House State Affairs Committee that his company spent $50,000 to present a rate case to the city of Anthony, which has about 600 customers.

"We need to avoid the duplication that we're seeing on a regular basis today," said Don Jordan, president of Houston Lighting & Power Co.

He said a statewide approach to rate-making is necessary, and the utility commission can muster the required specialists for an increasingly complex subject.

Connally Wraps Up State Tour

DALLAS (AP) — John Connally today wraps up a seven-day, 22-city tour of Texas in his bid to win home state support in his drive to capture the Republican presidential nomination.

Connally attracted large and enthusiastic crowds at McAllen, Corpus Christi and Dallas Monday. He was scheduled to visit Tyler, Longview, Port Arthur and Houston today.

In Dallas, more than 3,500 tickets were sold at $25 each for a reception at a motel convention center, and an overflow crowd estimated at 2,000 heard him speak and then swarmed around him later to shake his hand.

Connally, 62, drew repeated applause when he said he plans to do something about a decline in U.S. power abroad, which he blamed on "the malaise of leadership" in this country.

"We are shrinking from the responsibilities of leadership at home and abroad," Connally declared, saying U.S. leadership began to erode in the early 1970s when Congress refused to appropriate money for continued development of the supersonic transport (SST) aircraft.

The former Texas governor also blasted Congress and President Carter for failing to push quickly enough with nuclear power development, including the fast breeder reactor, and for throwing up environmental roadblocks to the mining of coal.

To furnish enough energy for the United States, the country may have to "suspend or set aside some of the environmental restraints for a few years," Connally added.

A former Democrat who shifted allegiance to the Republican Party, Connally said he sees no problems making inroads into the GOP.

"There is good precedent for it," he said, referring to Ronald Reagan.

"He (Reagan) was a Democrat, a very liberal Democrat. He has ingratiated himself with the Republican Party in a very substantial manner, and I think I can do the same."

In McAllen, Connally pointed out that Winston Churchill changed party affiliations without it hurting him.

"He did well. He also said, 'Some people change their principles for their party, and others change their party for their principle,'" Connally said.

Former Dallas Mayor Eric Jonsson and former GOP gubernatorial nominee Paul Eggers introduced Connally to his Dallas audience.

"The people are starving for strong leadership, and John Connally is that man," Eggers said.

Jonsson, now 77, said as a boy in New York City he was an admirer of President Theodore Roosevelt.

Poor Weather Delays Jail Construction

By TOM GRIESS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Poor winter weather has hampered construction of the new Lubbock County jail, and possible future delays in the delivery of detention equipment could further postpone completion of the facility, County Architect Arnold Maeker told the commissioners' court Monday.

Estimating that wintry conditions have stripped "about 30 days off our framework (scheduled construction)," Maeker said he now hopes the project can be finished in January 1980.

A potential roadblock to this completion date, though, is the delivery of the detention equipment. The architect said electrical and mechanical construction should be finished by March 15 and ideally installation of the detention equipment would begin immediately thereafter. Inactivity until March 20 or later because of slow shipment of the equipment will slow completion of the jail, Maeker said.

Maeker also told the court that an emergency generator had not yet been hooked up to the existing jail, but should be "within the next 10 days to two weeks."

The commissioners voted at a Feb. 12 meeting to install the emergency generator to the old jail until the new facility is opened. The hook-up, which the court was told would cost $576, was deemed necessary to prevent the possibility of a lighting or elevator failure.

Maeker said Monday that he had hoped the installation would be accomplished during the two weeks between meetings, but county personnel had not found the time.

In a related construction matter, Commissioner Coy Biggs advised the court that an aging water manifold in the basement of the county courthouse may soon need replacement. The manifold could burst and flood the basement of the courthouse following the reversal of water pressure after a fire, he said.

Biggs said he envisions the need during the next few years to remove old boilers and obsolete piping from the courthouse, old jail and county office building in favor of the newly operating central heating plant. The cost of the scrapping is unknown at this point, Biggs said, but he estimated it could range from about $1500 to nearly $8000.

Workers Return After Lockout

PORT ARTHUR (UPI) — Texaco workers have returned to work at the end of a day-long lockout by company officials, who were trying to stop sporadic picketing by a small group of striking workers from the company's New Jersey refinery, a spokesman says.

The appearance for the second time this month of the pickets from Texaco's Eagle Point refinery at Westville, N.J., caused the majority of Texaco's 4,200 day shift employees in Port Arthur to remain off the job Monday. The picket lines went down at 10:15 a.m. but Texaco locked the plant gates at 11 a.m. and refused to explain why.

Officials later said the lockout was a punitive measure to prevent future Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers union action in case the New Jersey pickets returned. Workers were allowed to return to their jobs at 10:30 p.m. Monday and the out-of-state pickets appeared to be gone, officials said.

Texaco spokesman Larry Bingham said discussions were conducted throughout the day with representatives of area OCAW locals to try to secure their orderly return to work on the night shift.

Company officials maintained the striking workers would not be able to solve their problems by picketing the local refinery, Texaco's largest.

OCAW local 8-638 went on strike at the Eagle Point plant Jan. 17 over local issues which the union hopes to resolve by applying pressure at Texaco facilities throughout the country.

Bingham said work at the refinery Monday was carried out by supervisory and technical personnel without significant disruption of activities.

RAT SNIFFERS
TORONTO (AP) — Rats are far more effective than dogs in sniffing out explosives, says Dr. Sidney Weinstein, a U.S. Army researcher. Weinstein, in Toronto to attend a seminar recently, said rats were also cheaper to buy and train than dogs "and you can take a rat just about anywhere."

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Demos At Debt's Door

A POTENTIALLY serious rift in the Democratic party's supposedly unified attempt to pay off its past due bills is being exacerbated by growing tension between the Kennedy family and President Carter.
Virtually all of the remaining $1.4 million deficit, which totalled $8.3 million after the 1968 elections, is attributable to charges incurred by two late Demo contenders in the
'68 presidential campaign—a million dollars worth of Hubert Humphrey's costs and $400,000 of Robert Kennedy's expenses.
Officials of the Democratic National Committee, currently controlled by President Carter's political operatives, mounted a major 1978 campaign to wipe out the deficit.
The key to that effort was a formal decision by the Federal Elections Commission to grant the DNC a special exemption from federal law, allowing solicitation of unlimited amounts of money from wealthy supporters.
"FAT CATS" closely identified with both Humphrey and Carter responded with somewhat less enthusiasm than had been hoped for, but their contributions nevertheless have been substantial.
But DNC officials privately are bitter about what they view as an unwarranted rebuff of their request for assistance from Stephen Smith, who manages the Kennedy family's finances. DNC Chairman John C. White ran into a stone wall when he tried to contact Smith for help, according to a Carter political ally/party leader.

Sen. Ed Kennedy, D-Mass., Smith's brother-in-law, was invited last summer to a private White House luncheon held for wealthy contributors believed to be likely supporters of the debt retirement campaign.
But Kennedy's brief visit was derided by one Carter political operative as merely "a cameo appearance."
ALTHOUGH THE luncheon hosted by the President was supposed to have been secret, unwanted publicity forced the Justice Department and FBI to conduct an investigation into allegations that the party violated a seldom-enforced federal law.
Among the luncheon guests who have not yet made donations was Armand Hammer, who three years ago pleaded guilty to federal charges related to a concealed $54,000 donation to Richard Nixon's 1972 presidential campaign fund. Although Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell's recent report on the probe clears Carter of any illegal activity, it certainly opens a can of worms as to the thoroughness of the investigation and the ethics of the President's aides.

John D. Lofton:

A Lesson For Taiwan In Tibet?

WASHINGTON—To divert public attention from the fact that Communist China adamantly refuses to rule out the use of force against Taiwan, Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping has emphasized that even under Communist rule, Free China would be allowed to keep its present economic and social systems.
The Carter administration obviously believes this promise, since Secretary of State Cyrus Vance chose to repeat it last month during a briefing for business leaders.
But just how reliable is Teng's vow when one considers the way in which the Communist Chinese have behaved towards Tibet? The answer: not very.
On May 23, 1951, in a 17-point agreement, Peking promised Tibet, among other things, "the right of exercising national regional autonomy," that Tibet's "existing political system" would not be altered, including the status, functions and powers of the Dalai Lama, and that "freedom of religious belief" would be respected.
TO MAKE A long and bloody story short: the Communists lied.
A report on the slaughter of Tibetan religious leaders and the transfer of Tibetan children to Peking for "re-education" was issued in 1959 by the International Commission of Jurists.
In 1960, 1961, and 1965 the United Nations adopted, respectively, three resolutions calling for the "cessation of practices which deprived the Tibetan people of their fundamental human rights and freedoms, including their right to self-determination."

The United States approved all three measures.
The 208-page ICJ report observed:
"On the basis of the available evidence, it would seem difficult to recall a case in which ruthless suppression of man's essential dignity has been more systematically and efficiently carried out...
"The evidence shows a systematic attempt to destroy religion in Tibet and paints a picture of ruthless efficiency in all the familiar techniques, even to the point of wanton killings of the religious, viz., lamas and monks."
IN 1968, TIME magazine reported that an estimated 300,000 of Tibet's 1.3 million people "have been exterminated" by the Chinese Communists.
Said Time:
"In a few cases, entire villages have been machine-gunned. So many still seek to escape the reign of terror by suicide that the Chinese have strong barbed-wire barricades along the banks of the Kyichu (River of Happiness) to keep people from throwing themselves in.
"At least 80,000 Tibetans, including the godking Dalai Lama, have chosen exile. Another 200,000, including his deputy, have been imprisoned or enslaved in forced-labor brigades."
Writing this month in an article in The New York Times, Tibet's Dalai Lama, who has lived in India since 1959, says that the majority of his country's six million people, especially the young,
"are not at all happy with the Chinese and are not willing to live under their domination."
"BUT THEY are unable to do anything, as the

Keep The Change

(Today's guest column is written by a self-described "amateur scribbler who, ever since a small boy, has nurtured a dream of becoming a seer.")

IT IS LIKELY that deep in the hearts and minds of all men—and yes, ERA, of all women
—there are lodged some irritants which grow and flower as the years roll by.
I got a full share of 'em, as no grammarian ever would put it.
High on my list of irritants is the practice of many merchants of pricing items a bare point or two off the next-highest round figure. You know:
$3.98, $1.49, even $9.998.4
I view this sort of pricing as an insult to normal intelligence, meaning mine.
But before we get off in a tizzy, leave us be fair.
With this particular irritant eating away at my great heart and pure white soul, I have discussed the matter with a number of purveyors of everything from aspirin tablets to Rolling Royces.
By and large, they tell me that those closely shaved prices really work for them.
JOE OR MARY Doaks, they say, will more quickly buy a grand piano for $6,498.90 than for an even $6,500.
They say, almost as one, that good old psychology is on the side of the seller.
Could be.
I suspect my research into this tremendously important question is at least as broad and as accurate as the snooping done by those people who,

allegedly, figure out to an eyelash the popularity
—or lack of it—of television shows.
It may even be as close to the center dot in the target as information painstakingly assembled by high-priced pollsters on political races. Like those, for example, who assured us that John Hill would be an easy winner when, in fact, he was neither an easy winner nor a very generous loser.
AT ANY RATE, my research has brought to light that the custom of shaving prices was introduced to the American economy by wave after wave of wily pushcart peddlers and small shopkeepers who made their appearance on these shores in the late 1800s from Mittel Europa and the equally Mittel East.
In those dear, dead days, a penny was a penny and worth more than today's two-bit piece.
So, an item offered for 99, or 49, cents then really was cheaper and a lot of folks had to pinch their pennies to survive, there being no benefi-cent government to take care of them in exchange for votes.
ANYWAY, THE off-mark prices did so well on New York's Lower East Side and Chicago's Maxwell Street, for example, that the boys in the posher retail areas said to themselves:
"Why not?"
So a lot of them followed suit. Off-center prices

also have become as much at home in Bugscluffe
as they are in the metropolitan centers.
There's a reason for everything, sometimes even a good reason, I reckon.
But I still don't like the idea of somebody thinking I'm so dumb that I don't know that $3.98
today is four bucks.
Even if it isn't, technically speaking, the two pennies thus "saved" are not worth a tinker's darn anyway.
No, Virginia, President Carter did not come across the "New Foundation" in an intimate fashions store.
A recent poll, taken after Lady Luck and Pittsburgh had their way in Miami, continues to show
quite a spate of Lubbockites are more enthusiastic about Charlie Waters, the defensive back, than about Charlie Waters, the school board president!
And speaking of the school board: If those most active among us peasants accomplish nothing else, maybe they'll be able to shame the former into giving up, however grudgingly, those
"down's early light" meetings.
They are designed, of course, to discourage the taxpayers from showing up at whatever open meetings may be held.

Holmes Alexander:

'Humanism Brings Out Godliness'

WASHINGTON—Humanism, from Webster's unabridged dictionary: "polite learning, the learning of cultural impulse, imparted by those who brought the classics during the renaissance.
"A system, mode or attitude of thought of action centered upon the distinctly human interest or ideals, especially as contrasted with naturalistic or religious interest. To replace the conception of man as the subject of a heavenly king."
"I cannot choose but laugh," wrote Thomas Jefferson to his old friend and rival, John Adams,
"...when people talk of freedom of writing,
speaking or thinking. No such thing ever existed.
"No such thing now exists, but I hope it will exist. But it must be hundreds of years after you and I shall write and speak no more."
JEFFERSON HAS been dead since 1826, but we need not despair at history's snail's pace.
It was almost 300 years between the British Reformation and the American Revolution, but Henry VIII's break with the Pope over the world's most famous divorce case, and the establishment of the Anglican Church with its relative liberties of thought led into the renaissance when there came a veritable sunburst of learning, the rebirth of the arts, scholarship and science.
One of the factors of this spiritual release was the cult called humanism, defined at the top of this piece. Humanism is closely and obviously related to what we now call technology.

Humanism (the word so ludicrously misused by rhetorical politicians) in taking the form of modern technology, brings out the godliness of the human intellect. Like the men of the renaissance, we have a New World in the making.
the small society by Brickman
YOU CAN CALL IT NAGGING OR ANYTHING ELSE YOU WANT - I CALL IT AFFIRMATIVE ACTION -

Sylvia Porter:

You've Got To Hustle To Get The 'Red' Out

(Sixth of 11 columns)
THE 1978 REVENUE Act gave you a series of tax breaks if you are among the millions who have run into a wide range of tax complications and penalties while trying to obtain the advertised tax benefits of setting up an Individual Retirement Account (IRA). All the below are pro-taxpayer changes.
(1) You now have until Apr. 16, 1978, to set up and make a tax-deductible contribution to an IRA for '78 (as against a cutoff date of Feb. 14 until this law).
You have more than two months in which to accumulate some money, set up an IRA for the first time or add to your contribution to an existing IRA—and deduct the total on your '78 income tax return.
(2) IT'S EASIER to avoid the penalties that otherwise applied to "excess" contributions which you might make to your IRA account. You are still subject to certain penalties on any portion of your contribution to your IRA that exceeds the amount you are allowed to deduct.
You can eliminate your excess contribution, and thereby avoid penalties by either (a) withdrawing the excess, or (b) contributing less to your IRA in a later year.
But under the '78 laws most of the previously unfavorable limitations on using either method have been removed or liberalized—beginning with the year '78 and even applying back to '76 and '77.
So, immediately check your IRA contribution for '78 and go back over your '77 and '76 contributions also, to see whether you contributed more than the law allows.
IF SO, check with your IRA sponsor (bank, insurance company, mutual fund, etc.) for the liberalized procedures now available for correcting your excess contributions.
This may save you from paying an unnecessary
tax. Also, if you already were penalized on excess contributions for '76 or '77, the favorable changes made by the '78 act may entitle you to a refund which you would make by filing a refund claim on Form 1040X.
(3) If you are elderly, you may have overlooked
the requirement that you had to start making withdrawals from your IRA when you reached 70 1/2—or be subject to a harsh 50 percent penalty on the underwithrawn amounts.
The '78 law wiped out this cruel rule by allowing IRS to waive the 50 percent penalty if there was reasonable cause for your delaying the required withdrawals.

you were penalized for your failure to start withdrawing in those years, and had reasonable cause for your mistake, file a refund claim. In addition:
(4) You previously had to file a Form 5329 with your income tax return if you made a deductible contribution to your IRA for the particular year —and even if you didn't make a contribution for that year, you had to file Form 5329 if you had made contributions to your IRA in previous years.
These requirements have been knocked out. A Form 5329 is now required for only limited reasons: if all you did was make your regular contribution in '78, indicate that on your Form 1040
—and forget Form 5329.
(5) An IRA can be an attractive vehicle for further deferring tax on lump sum distributions from qualified pension and profit-sharing plans.
If the lump sum you receive is timely transferred (rolled over) to your IRA, no tax is due until you withdraw amounts from the IRA.
While before the '78 law, you couldn't take advantage of this rollover technique unless you had been a participant in the pension or profit-sharing plan for five years before the distribution, the
'78 law removed the five-year limitation.
Another provision, which had limited rollover from one IRA to a second IRA to once every three years, has been liberalized to once a year by the '78 act.
(6) ALSO LIBERALIZED has been the use of the rollover procedure available to the spouse of a deceased employee who had been a participant in a qualified employee benefit plan.
Formerly, only you, the employee participant,
could elect to rollover a lump sum distribution
into an IRA.
But now if the spouse receives a lump sum distribution from such a plan after '78 because of the employee's death, the spouse is allowed to make the election to rollover the lump sum into the spouse's IRA.

The Brighter Side...

I'll never forget the time we went into an appliance store to buy a new refrigerator.
A salesman kept bothering Dad and Dad kept saying "Just looking" over and over again.
Finally, the salesman flung his arms around the biggest, fanciest refrigerator in the place and said, rather dramatically, "Sir, this refrigerator will pay for itself in two years!"
"Good," Dad replied, "when it does, send it over to the house."
"Take-home pay" is called that because there's not enough of it to take you any place else.

Saudis Plan No Oil Price Increase Before April

NEW YORK (AP) — Saudi Arabia announced today it will not raise oil prices during the first quarter of this year.

Governor, Teachers Disagree

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements says teachers are "quasi state employees" entitled to the same pay raise he has recommended for other state employees, but no more.

But the president of the Texas State Teachers Association said Monday Clements doesn't understand public education and is not living up to his promise to be all the people's governor.

"The governor has never really changed his position," said press aide Jon Ford, who was with Clements in Washington Monday.

Ford said Clements favors a hike in teacher salaries equivalent to raises other state employees will receive, but objects to a Legislative Budget Board recommendation to give teachers an additional increase.

Instead, Ford said the governor favors a merit system for better teachers.

Clements' proposal to erase board's recommended increase for teachers is "uncaring," TSTA President Virginia Allred Stacey said in Austin Monday.

"TSTA intends to fight with all its strength to see that teachers — and the education of students — do not suffer because of the governor's lack of understanding," she said in a prepared statement.

Teachers now get state pay raises ranging from 3.2 percent to 4.9 percent annually, depending on their experience. Teacher groups object to the step increase, contending they only apply to the teachers with the lesser experience.

The LBB recommended an additional increase of 5.1 percent, which could give some teachers a 10 percent pay boost.

Clements' budget slashed the recommendation by the board, which the governor claimed only put in the raise after it found it had a surplus.

Clements said on a television program Sunday that he did not agree with that type of "budgetary control and discipline."

"What I think may well happen in the legislature is that our schoolteachers and our state employees will be put on exactly the same basis," Clements said on Capital Eye. "The teachers and the state employees should receive the same percentage increase."

Those raises have "nothing to do with the erosion of salaries by the voracious inflation referred to by Clements," Mrs. Stacey said.

The teachers association wants a 9.8 percent raise in 1979-80 and another 5.2 percent increase in 1980-1981.

Clements recommended a 1980-81 budget of $1 billion less than the Legislative Budget Board, with most of those cuts coming in education, Mrs. Stacey noted.

breaking with a series of oil exporters who have raised prices to take advantage of the cutoff of Iranian exports.

The Saudi announcement came one day after Kuwait told customers it was tacking 9 percent onto its current price of $13.35 a barrel, raising it to about $14.55 a barrel.

The Saudi royal court decree, broadcast by Riyadh Radio and monitored in Nicosia, Cyprus, also called for an urgent meeting of oil exporters and consumers "to regulate consumption and stabilize oil prices, to save the world from a possible economic relapse."

Saudi Arabia is the world's largest oil exporter and traditionally has been a moderate in pricing decisions of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

"The supply squeeze caused by Iran's oil cutoff has been pushing prices up on the open, or spot, market, and producing nations feel the general market will bear higher prices, according to analysts.

The Saudi announcement said it plans no increases before the scheduled April 1 OPEC increase of 3.9 percent. That rise is part of a four-part increase totaling 14.5 percent spread out this year. The first increase, of 5 percent, was Jan. 1.

Saudi Arabia previously raised prices on some of its crude oil production, saying its extra production to help make up for the loss of the Iranian crude should be paid for at the higher April 1 price.

But OPEC could decide at its scheduled March 26 meeting to speed up the gradual price increases, analysts say.

Meanwhile, Hassan Nazih, the new director of the National Iranian Oil Co., said at a news conference today that Iran will sell its first exported oil next week on the spot market to the highest bidder and hopes to get $18 to $20 a barrel.

This would add $4.65 to $6.65 more than the current base price of $13.35 a barrel set by OPEC.

Iranian officials have said they are willing to sell the oil to anyone, including the United States, which is willing to pay the price. No American oil companies have stated whether they would pay that high a price.

Kuwait produces about 2 million barrels of oil daily, roughly 4.2 percent of non-communist production. Its oil is not a large factor in the total U.S. supply picture, but Kuwait is a key supplier to Gulf Oil Corp. Gulf spokesman Thomas D. Walker said the price increase could mean higher prices at Gulf gasoline stations and on heating-oil bills from Gulf dealers.

"You figure that for every dollar (of crude oil price increase) you're looking at another penny on a gallon of product," he said. "So you figure a penny or a penny and a half." But Walker said the increase might be absorbed by the firm.

Kuwait's oil Minister, Sheikh Ali Khalifah Al Sabah, today blamed the increase on what he said was the "greed" of the international oil companies.

In an interview published in a special issue of the Middle East Economic Survey, an oil review published in Nicosia, Cyprus, Sheikh Ali said the international shortage of oil following the cutoff in Iranian production "strengthened the position of the major oil companies to the point where they have been reaping very considerable profits out of this situation."

In addition to Kuwait, Qatar, Libya and the United Arab Emirates have made some sort of price increase to take advantage of the oil supply squeeze caused by the shutdown of Iran's oilfields during that nation's political upheaval. Iran had been the source of about 10 percent of the non-communist world's oil before the shutdown, and the loss of Iranian oil has tightened world supplies.

Venezuela also has announced a price increase for several types of oil used primarily for powering factories and electrical generators.

Nation's Governors Get Tough With Congress, White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's governors are serving notice on Congress and the White House: they're mad and they're not going to take it anymore.

In the past when the governors came to Washington for their annual winter meeting, they would trudge up to Capitol Hill and down to the White House to beg for more money. Not this year.

"We're probably the only people who ever went to the White House and said, 'Okay, cut our budgets, we'll take our fair share,'" said Gov. James Thompson, R-Ill., Monday.

Armed with what they believe is a public mandate expressed through Proposition 13 and the call of 28 state legislatures for a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget, the governors have gotten mean this year.

"I'm here to bring a message and that message is that the people are feeling as strongly about the federal government now as they felt about the government of England at the time of the Revolution," said Gov. Albert Quie, R-Min.

And the former congressman made it clear he knows where the blame belongs. "In 21 years in the House, I came to realize we weren't solving the problems there," he said.

Gov. Pierre DuPont, R-Del., also had a message.

"My message is: don't take us lightly. Don't underestimate the depth of the feeling we have in the states. Don't make the mistake of thwarting the will of the states or there will be a constitutional crisis the likes of which we have never seen before," he said.

"To take a line out of the movie, 'The people are mad as hell and they aren't going to take it anymore,'" DuPont said.

Governor after governor warned that if Congress "does not balance the budget, the states will force a convention to write such an amendment."

"There will be a balanced budget in this country and it's coming," said Gov. Lee Dreyfus, R-Wis. "We are stealing from our grandchildren. There is a feeling now that the spending is already runaway — that Congress and the president have lost control."

The governors were particularly upset that Carter and Congress want to delete all, or some, of their $2.2 billion in federal revenue sharing, without cutting some 492 categorical grants.

The revenue sharing money comes without strings. One alternative would be to consolidate categorical grants into block grants that have fewer restrictions.

Jury Indicts Jimmy Chagra

MIDLAND (AP) — The brother of slain El Paso lawyer Lee Chagra has been arrested on federal drug charges for alleged activities in Texas, Florida and the Republic of Colombia.

The five-count indictment against Jimmy Chagra was returned Monday by a federal grand jury in Midland and kept secret until the arrest. Chagra was arrested by Drug Enforcement Administration agents in Las Vegas, Nev., where he moved last year from El Paso.

"This indictment is an outgrowth of an intensive grand jury probe expected to continue for as long as a year or more," U.S. Attorney Jamie C. Boyd said Monday.

"We have called 40 witnesses already, and we anticipate calling as many as 200 before it is over."

Chagra was indicted on charges of conspiracy to import marijuana and cocaine; conspiracy to possess marijuana and cocaine with the intention to distribute; and aiding and abetting the possession of cocaine.

The indictment carried no implication of Chagra's connection with his brother's death or with racketeering, narcotics and prostitution in Texas and several other states which federal grand juries in El Paso and several other cities have been investigating.

The El Paso grand jury returned its deliberations today. It has returned indictments earlier against two members of a motorcycle club for drugs violations.

The El Paso grand jury — and others in Las Vegas, Seattle, Florida and San Antonio — are investigating alleged prostitution, gambling, narcotics and racketeering in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, Washington and Florida.

The grand juries also are probing into Chagra's murder and into the assassination attempt on assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr of San Antonio, who prosecuted numerous cases against narcotics defendants whom Lee Chagra represented.

The two marijuana charges against Jimmy Chagra carry a five-year prison sentence and a $15,000 fine each. The three cocaine charges each carry a 15-year sentence and a $25,000 fine.

The indictment covers his activities in Texas, Florida and Colombia from June 1, 1977, through June 1, 1978.

Federal officials said they became interested in him in the summer of 1977, when he persuaded a Nevada air charter service to fly to Colombia to rescue a burned pilot whose plane supposedly had crashed while engaged in drug trafficking.

Chagra and the rescue crew were detained by Colombian authorities, but eventually were released without being charged.

He moved from El Paso to Las Vegas last summer, living with his wife and small son in one of the best rooms at Caesars Palace while he bought and remodeled a luxury home. He moved into the home, then back to Caesars under unexplained circumstances.

He is said to have lost more than $2 million on gambling tables in Las Vegas in the past several months.

Following his brother's death, Jimmy Chagra changed rooms at Caesars to quarters protected by casino security guards.

KIDS-ONLY CLUB

Hammering Nails Can Be Enjoyable

By SHARI LEWIS
 When I went to Boy Scout Jam-boree in California last year, the most popular activity was a booth where you simply got to bang nails into a board. I dunno why, but everyone wanted to take a turn swinging that hammer. I guess kids just don't get to work with hammer and nails very often, and it really is very satisfying to see that nail sticking straight up in the board or smashed all the way without bending over.

If you can get hold of a board or slap of wood and a handful of big nails, you can have fun banging and end up with a really nice toy. This is the kind of toy that you pretend you're making for some little kid that you know, but is actually fun for you to play with as well.
 Bang lots of nails into the board — all over the board, but in straight rows. The nails should be sticking upright, so that you can slip a rubber band under the head of one nail and stretch it to another. That's all there is to this toy, but don't knock it until you try it. It's very pleasant to hook lots of rubber bands around the nails in different directions and make patterns, since those patterns change every time you move a rubber band. They are especially pretty if you can lay your hands on some fat colored bands.

You'll get a bang out of it!
 Yesterday's Brain Twister: How long would it take a train one mile long to pass through a tunnel one mile long if the train travels at the rate of one mile per minute?
 Answer: It would take two minutes for the train to pass completely through the tunnel. After one minute, the end of the train would be just entering the tunnel. A second minute would pass before the end emerged from the other the tunnel.

Today's Brain Twister: Can you almost spell "I like you" in three letters? (Look for answer in tomorrow's Kids-Only Club column.)

Surgery Helps Some Children

DETROIT (AP) — An artificial urinary sphincter which allows some children afflicted with spina bifida to control their bladders has been implanted successfully in Detroit's Children's Hospital.

Dr. R. Lawrence Kroovand, a urologist, performed the surgery twice on boys aged 6 and 11. He plans implants on three girls later.

He says the surgery is still rare. The device is commonly called the Scott sphincter after Dr. F. Brantley Scott of Baylor University School of Medicine, who developed it several years ago.

Spina bifida is the second most common birth defect next to congenital heart disease, Kroovand said. It originates in the embryo during the first month of pregnancy if cells which later form the spinal cord do not develop.

The spinal cord then remains a flat plate of nerve cells which the bony vertebrae of the spine are unable to enclose.

Clip 'n' Cook

JUST WAFFLING

- 3 eggs, lightly beaten
- 3 tbsp. milk
- 1 1/2 tsp. oil
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. vanilla
- 8 slices raisin bread

In bowl, blend all ingredients except bread slices. Dip bread into egg mixture. Grill in heated and greased (if necessary) waffle iron until golden. Serve with butter and syrup. And, if you like, a poached egg. Makes 4 servings.

FOR FRENCH TOAST: Prepare egg mixture as directed above; dip bread slices in egg mixture, coating each side well. Grill in buttered skillet over medium heat, turning until nicely browned on both sides.

Lubbock Women Hold Prayer Day

"Spiritual Growth" is the theme of World Day of Prayer this year. Church Women United in Lubbock will observe the day Friday at St. Christopher's Episcopal Church, 2807 42nd St., beginning at 9:30 a.m.

All church women in the Lubbock area are invited to attend the celebration, which will begin with registration and fellowship, followed by a film, "As Strong As The Land." A worship service will begin at 10:30.

A children's service will also be held. The celebration will be preceded by a prayer breakfast from 7:15-8:30 a.m. at Colonial Kitchen. For reservations to the breakfast, call 799-4110 or 795-7918.

The evening group of Church Women United will celebrate World Day of Prayer Sunday, March 4, with a prayer breakfast from 8 to 9 a.m. at Mt. Vernon United Methodist Church. For reservations to this event, call 744-8618.

Members of Church Women United are encouraged to attend the conference on family violence being held the same day as the celebration. This organization of church women is one of the sponsors of the conference.

World Day of Prayer dates back to 1887, and this year women in 140 countries and 33 islands will unite in prayer. Each year, women in a different nation are asked to write the World Day of Prayer service, based on themes chosen by the International Committee for World Day of Prayer. Church Women United is the officially-recognized sponsor of this celebration in the United States. The service was written by students in the Pan-African Leadership Course for Women at Mindolo Ecumenical Foundation in Kitwe, Zambia.

would offer as good or better chance than a slam in spades, particularly since the king of hearts would be protected from the opening lead.

West led his top heart—he did not want to lead from a suit in which he held an honor. East won the ace and continued with the queen to declarer's king. South cashed the ace of clubs to see if there was a singleton queen anywhere, then started on spades. Unfortunately, East showed out on the second round. Declarer discarded his diamond losers on the high spades, then tried the club finesse. That succeeded, but the contract failed when clubs also split 4-1.

Declarer was unlucky to find that both black suits divided badly. Nevertheless, he could have made his contract by improving slightly on his line of play.

With eight clubs in the combined holding, the finesse was the percentage play. However, declarer went wrong when he elected to protect against a singleton queen. Since he would need the finesse, the odds were better that East had the queen guarded three times than that West had a singleton queen.

Therefore, declarer should not cash a high club. Now, when the spades fail to break, declarer can run the nine of clubs. When that wins, declarer can repeat the finesse and bring in the suit to make his slam.

Sleeping Sharks Bring Boom To Tiny Island

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
Associated Press Writer

ISLA de MUJERES, Mexico — This is the place where Jaws snores. In 60-foot deep Caribbean caves off the Yucatan coast man-eating Requiem sharks and other finny fiends doze as docile as tourists on a chaise lounge or the natives at siesta time in the shade of a sombrero.

Macho Mexican divers with names like El Zorro — the fox — and El Canon — the cannon — swim up alongside the sleeping 18-foot monsters to nudge them and even try to lift them.

Occasionally a tourist with diving experience will strap on an oxygen tank and take the plunge to eyeball the basking carnivores, who eyeball them right back, since a shark sleeps with its baleful eyes open.

Most visitors to the Yucatan, however, content themselves with the purchase of a T-shirt with the caricature of shark logging z-z-z-z's or hang around the diving shacks waiting for the professionals to return in their little lobster boats from the shark caves.

The snoozing sharks have brought a minitourist boom to Isla de Mujeres, which means island of women and now plays host to a number of pregnant sharks.

Marine biologists are not quite sure why the sharks choose the ocean caves off the Yucatan for their slumbers, although pregnancy may be a factor. It was previously thought that the shark was nature's No. 1 insomniac, that he was fated to swim unceasingly with his mouth open and his powerful fins and tail constantly churning in order to keep the oxygen-rich water flowing over his gills.

Now it appears the sharks come to Mexico for the same reasons as the winter tourists: to get away from it all, catch a little rest and maybe like the marijuana crowd zonked out on reefers enter a torpid narcotized state induced by the natural conditions found in the caves beneath the reefs. Scientists have found that the seas off the peninsula have a strange tranquilizing effect on these man-eating monsters. Jaws down here becomes slack-jawed and would just as soon patted on the snout by a passing tourist as graze on his double knits.

For one thing, the quality of the sea is different and soothing to the shark. Fresh water seeping from the mainland's water table lowers the salinity; the salt content, of the water, which seems to help the shark breathe. The water also has a higher oxygen content, higher acidity and higher carbon dioxide, all of which enable the shark to take a break from his constant swimming. Some scientists think the fresh and salt water current moving through the caves activate the sharks gills enough to allow him to snooze without gasping for air.

There is another theory that the coming together of fresh and salt water creates an electromanetic field that has a hallucogenic effect so that the shark actually gets high. In his comatose state, the shark is rarely bothered by the powerful lights turned on him by marine photographers, although a sudden flash from a camera will cause him to wake up and move on to another siesta spot with an angry, sand-churning swish of his tail.

The caves also serve as a kind of a car wash for sharks. Parasites that attach themselves to the shark's body seem to loosen their hold in waters with a lower saline content. Sharks in the caves also get cleaned quicker by the remora, their slave fish also known as the shark sucker, which are better able to nibble at the free-loaders attached to the shark's gills, eyes and nostrils when the great beast is not in motion roving the deep.

Divers marvel at the sleek cleanliness of the sharks dozing in these deep water caves with names like El Puente — the bridge — some of them as cavernous as cathedrals. Requiem sharks, also known as tiger sharks, are the main visitors to the caves and have the reputation of being the most vicious man-eaters. But the shark R & R area also is visited by lemon sharks, blue sharks and reef sharks, any of which could fricassee a basking tourist at one gosh of its double row jaws.

Although a hibernating shark gathers no gringos, at least so far, visitors to the Yucatan would be well advised to let sleeping sharks snore and concentrate their underwater sightseeing on eyeballing the schools of angel fish and other colorful species the size of sardines passing over nearby Garrafon reef.

Jaws, when disturbed, could turn out to be as testy as a grizzly awakened from his winter cave. And a hundred times as quick.

After all the Requiem shark didn't earn its menacing name for sleeping on the job, and one who has swum so far to catch a couple of winks and hang a "Do Not Disturb sign" on his snout is bound to be more than a bit put out at being harassed by noisy tourists invading his underwater hacienda.

The Almanac TODAY IN HISTORY

By United Press International
Today is Tuesday, Feb. 27, the 58th day of 1979 with 307 to follow.

The moon is moving from its new phase toward its first quarter.

The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Pisces.

American poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow was born Feb. 27, 1807.

On this day in history:

In 1939, so-called "sit-down" strikes were outlawed by the United States Supreme Court.

In 1942, opening salvos were fired in the battle of the Java Sea, a Pacific naval engagement in the early days of World War II in which the Japanese sank 13 American warships while losing only two.

In 1963, Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees signed a contract for $100,000, highest in baseball at that time.

In 1975, the House of Representatives passed a $21.3 billion anti-recession, tax-cut bill, including repeal of the oil depletion allowance.

Raider Huston Optimistic

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Geoff Huston is the eternal optimist. Huston wouldn't have one foot in the grave even if he were on his death bed—he'd have one foot out. And if someone sliced off his ears in a knife fight—he'd probably say something about not having to buy earmuffs anymore.

Yeah, Geoff Huston is what Norman Vincent Peill wishes we all were. That's why Huston isn't approaching Thursday night's second-round of the Southwest Conference's matchup with Texas A&M as if it could be his last as a collegian, which it might. The way he tells it, the 7 p.m. contest in Houston's Summit is only the first of many to come for he and his teammates. "I don't look at any of them like it might be my last (game for Texas Tech)," said Huston, rather confidently. "I go into every game with a positive attitude, knowing that we will win. If I didn't do that, then I'd have already lost half the battle before it started."

Yes, he's a man with the power of positive thinking. Even if the Raiders should get bopped somewhere down the line at the three-day tournament, Huston isn't really so sure it will be the team's final game this year. There's always that pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, you see.

"There's still the NIT," Huston said. "But we know to go anywhere (either as an at-large team to the NCAA playoffs or the NIT in New York), we've got to win the tournament or place second. Although the conference is stronger than it has ever been, the NIT probably won't take the third-place finisher. But then you never know."

When Huston takes the floor against the Aggies, he will be the only member of the Raider team (besides the coaching staff), that played on the 1976 squad that defeated A&M to win the SWC tournament. That was a team led by all-SWC performer and Tech's all-time leading scorer Rick Bullock.

Asked where the rest of the fellas were that he was recruited with as freshman, Huston grinned and said: "I guess they've all graduated...that or died."

That win over the Aggies back in '76 was the only one that particular year Tech posted against A&M. Since then, however, Huston has placed on three Raider teams that have managed to post six wins against the Aggies, against only one defeat. And that defeat came this season.

Huston pointed to "tradition" and, yes, a little luck as the two main ingredients to Tech's dominance of A&M during his career.

"We just enjoy playing games against them," said Huston. "I wouldn't say they've ever choked, it's just everyone gets ready to play them. They've had some good teams. But I just think we've been a little better at times."

This year, Tech lost to A&M down in Aggieland by five points, but came back a month later to avenge the defeat, 67-63. Tech enters the game with an 18-9 season mark, while the Aggies, a team which finished third in the conference race behind co-leaders Texas and Arkansas, are 22-7.

Despite the success Tech has had over the years against the Aggies, Huston isn't licking his chops at another shot at A&M. If the decision on which team, either A&M or Houston, the Raiders would meet in the second-round of the playoffs was left up to the Brooklyn, N.Y. native, Huston said he'd pick the Cougars.

"I know personally," said, "I'd rather play Houston. They beat us bad down there (103-89), so we owe them one."

Because Houston is in the upper bracket and Tech the lower, the only way the Raiders and Cougars could meet is in the finals. And to do that, UH must get past Baylor in the first round and then defeat Texas Friday night. Meanwhile, the winner of the Tech-A&M game would have to defeat the Razorbacks in the semi-finals.

"Either way," continued Huston. "We've got to play the best teams and win if we're going to go anywhere. So, I guess, it really doesn't matter who we play first."

To defeat A&M, Huston said the Raiders must "hustle and concentrate throughout the game. We've also got to play very good defense and try and hold their big man (6-11 freshman Rudy Woods) down."

IRISH BALL — Notre Dame's Bill Laimbeer prepares to pass around East Carolina's Frank Hobson during Notre Dame's 89-72 victory Monday night. The Irish were rated No. 2 in both the UPI and AP Polls, second to unanimous choice Indiana State. (AP Laserphoto)

Tech Baseballers Open Home Stand

The Texas Tech baseball team will open its 1979 home season with a double header against Hardin Simmons University today at the Red Raider diamond on the Tech campus. The first game begins at 1:30 p.m.

After six games on the road, the Raiders will be glad for a chance to play before a Tech crowd. And after the team snatched a pair of victories from this same HSU team last week, the Raiders will be waiting for the Cowboys with open arms.

Pitchers Gary Moyer and James Miller picked up the wins over Hardin Simmons in Abilene last week when Tech came away with a 5-1 and 7-5 victories. Moyer should start one of today's games and Robert Bryant (1-0) the other, although it's doubtful that the Tech coaches plan to have either pitcher go the distance.

The Raiders had won their first four games this season but dropped a pair in San Antonio on Sunday and will take a 4+2 slate into today's action.

Leftfielder Larry Selby leads the team in extra base hits with three, all doubles, and is currently swinging the bat at a .375 clip. Kenny Cogdell and Rusty Laughlin, both third basemen, are hitting at an even 364 pace but it's first baseman Craig Noonan who leads the team with a whopping 574 average. However Noonan has only been at bat 7 times.

Other early season statistics show John Keller, centerfielder, as the leading RBI man with five and second baseman Johnny Vestal leading in the home run department with two.

Pitcher James Miller has been big in the bull pen with a win and a save to his credit in two appearances. Moyer has started two games for the Raiders and won them both even though his ERA is an inflated 6.7.

Indiana State Tops Both Polls

NEW YORK (AP) — Indiana State, having completed its first undefeated regular season, regained the No. 1 spot in The Associated Press college basketball poll today, easily outdistancing runner-up Notre Dame.

The Sycamores, 26-0 and ranked second last week, collected 51 of 61 first-place ballots and 1,192 points in balloting by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. Indiana State, which beat Drake 76-68 last Tuesday night and crushed Wichita State 109-84 in its first appearance on national television Sunday, was named on all the ballots although the Sycamores were ranked as low as seventh by one voter.

The Irish, ranked third last week, received seven first-place votes and 1,150 points.

UCLA, top-ranked last week but upset by Washington 69-68 Thursday night and extended to triple overtime in a 110-102 victory over Washington State Saturday, collected two first-place votes and 1,060 points while slipping to No. 3.

The remainder of last week's Top 10 engaged in a game of musical chairs.

Michigan State, No. 7 last week, jumped to No. 4 with the remaining first-place vote and 988 points. The Spartans posted victories over Big Ten Conference rivals Purdue and Illinois last week.

Preseason favorite Duke moved from No. 6 into the No. 5 position with 914 points following a 47-40 victory over North Carolina and a 70-49 loss to Clemson.

Syracuse, eighth last week, jumped two notches to sixth with 897 points — 18 more than North Carolina, No. 4 last week.

Louisiana State, upset by Mississippi State last Saturday, dropped from No. 3 to No. 8 with 851 points, while Arkansas and Marquette swapped the final two positions in the Top 10. The Razorbacks moved from No. 10 to No. 9 with 712 points, while the Warriors, No. 9 last week, were 10th this week with 521 points.

Iowa headed the Second 10, followed by Temple, Louisville, Texas, DePaul, Georgetown, Ohio State, Detroit, Purdue and San Francisco.

San Francisco, making its second appearance in the Top 20 this season, was the only newcomer to the poll this week. The Dons replaced Vanderbilt, which was ranked 19th last week but dropped out after losing to Tennessee and Kentucky.

LCC Cagers End Season With 'Split'

DALLAS (Special)—The Lubbock Christian College Chaparrals lost a tough overtime decision to Texas Wesleyan College here Monday night 64-62 but the Chaps did manage to salvage a little pride. Because LCC had lost to this same team only a few days earlier by a whopping 35 points.

And the Chaps also discovered that they picked up a victory when an earlier loss to Paul Quinn was awarded to LCC since Paul Quinn had been using an ineligible player. So LCC went 1-1 on Monday to finish the season with a 14-16 mark, its best record since 1970-71.

The lead changed hands seven times in the first half before TWU stretched its lead to 37-31 at the half. But the Chaps had cut that down to five with 10:46 to play in the game and then LCC reeled off three unanswered buckets. A Keith Gardner tip in with 8:13 remaining finally put LCC ahead 54-53.

Bruce Carver was called for a technical foul moments later and Mike Rae, who scored 27 points for TWU, hit the free throw to tie things up. And that was how the score wound up at the end of regulation—tied at 58.

Slaton Girls Ready for Class AA State Cage Title Defense

By MAURI MONTGOMERY
Avalanche Journal Sports Staff

Many sports competitors have their own proven formulas for winning in whatever field of sports they are involved with. For some it might be the rigorous training of eating raw eggs for breakfast as a daily routine, or maybe it's packing a pocketful of rabbit feet before entering a contest.

However, for Cathy Wilson—girl's basketball coach at Slaton High School, winning just comes natural. And that's no brag, just fact!

The former Wayland Baptist Flying Queen cager is presently in her fourth year of coaching and each of those have been successful state basketball play-off years.

In her first two years of coaching she took the Nazareth Swifts to the state playoffs and came back with the championship titles each time. Both were unprecedented feats in the small community before her coaching debut.

And if that wasn't enough, she gave Slaton the lift they were looking for last year and brought home another state championship trophy, and this year could prove to be no exception to the rule.

The Tigers have already gotten their first taste of state playoff action this season after they won the Class AA district race and boosted their season mark to 31-2. As a result they will now advance into the bi-district competition against the Merkel Badgers (6-AA district champion and 29-1 for the year) at the Scurry County Coliseum in Snyder at 7:30 tonight.

Providing Slaton can defeat Merkel in the bidistrict clash they will then meet one of the winners of the Dimmitt-Lockney or Spearman-Henrietta games in the Class AA state playoffs.

The Tigers defeated Spearman in the opening round of the state playoffs last year and then edged out the Dimmitt Bobcats in the finals of the tourney.

"We are very team oriented this year and have never been a one player squad," said Wilson. "Everyone takes pride in the offensive play as well as the defensive, they make both as equally effective, and that's what makes this team so good."

The starters for the Slaton team include: 5-6 Jr. Cynthia Robinson with an 11.6 average (tops on the team), 5-7 sr. Debbie Bednars (11.2), 5-4 Jr. Eusebia Whaley (9.8), 5-5 sr. Linda Louis (8.7) and 5-5 sr. Chris Kennedy with a 6.6 shooting average.

Wilson uses only two main coaching philosophies with her players and both appear to be getting the job done, judging from her playoff record.

"The first important thing I try to drive into my players is the fundamentals of basketball," she said. "You can't really be a well rounded team and be a successful one unless you've acquired these skills and use them all the time."
