Decisive Battle Seen In Vietnam U.S., China Open Diplomatic Ties Today

China Asks Pullout In Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and China complete the process of establishing full diplomatic relations today with the two sides deeply divided over the wisdom of China's 11-day-old invasion of Vietnam.

The Chinese liaison office here will become the Chinese Embassy during an early afternoon flag-raising ceremony at which Ambassador Chai Tse-Min will preside.

In Peking, Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal will represent President Carter at a similar ceremony marking the elevation of the American mission there to full embassy status.

The events will be carried out with a minimum of fanfare, consistent with the more somber tone of Chinese-American relations since the visit of Chinese Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping just a month ago.

China's decision to invade Vietnam was strongly protested by the United States and has generated fears that the conflict may spread. Despite the stated opposition of the United States, the Soviet Union has indicated it believes Peking acted with Washington's consent.

President Carter said Tuesday the United States has expressed to China "its very firm disapproval" of China's invasion but added that this should not stand in the way of the normalization process.

At the State Department, Leonard Woodcock, chief of the U.S. liaison mission in Peking for the past two years, was sworn in as ambassador to China. He said he hoped both countries could "build a stable East Asia" and use their new relationship to establish "peace in the entire world."

On Jan. 1, the two countries extended diplomatic recognition to each other and the United States severed official ties with the Republic of China on Taiwan.

Taiwan and the United States, however, will continue trade, cultural and economic relations on an unofficial basis through private agencies which will open in Washington and Taipei.

The U.S. agency will be called the American Institute on Taiwan. Its Taiwan counterpart will be the Coordination Council for North American Affairs.

The two entities were scheduled to open simultaneously today but the opening of the American agency will be postponed because Congress has yet to provide funding.

Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., chairman of a Senate appropriations subcommittee, said President Carter called him on Tuesday and asked that Hollings permit the transfer of $2 million from a State Department account to pay for the institute's operations.

Hollings refused. He said Wednesday he will urge the Senate to establish a commission of House members, senators and State Department officials to oversee the institute.

Funding for the institute, meanwhile, will be held up pending congressional approval of a more general China bill which is to include a provision designed to ensure the security of Taiwan.

Final congressional action on that will take at least a week, and probably more. See U.S., CHINESE Page 14

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — While analysts predicted China and Vietnam were jockeying for position before launching a decisive battle in their border war, Peking said early today it would pull out its invading troops if Hanoi would withdraw its forces from Cambodia.

In making the pullout challenge, China told Vietnam, "We do not think you dare," according to Peking's official Hsinhua news agency. Vietnam invaded Cambodia in December, ousted China's ally Premier Pol Pot, and in January set up a pro-Hanoi government.

Vietnam claimed Wednesday to have put 1,600 Chinese troops out of action in a northeastern province where analysts believe one of the most important battles of the 11-day border war will be fought.

Viets Claim Victory
The Voice of Vietnam said its troops wiped out a Chinese regiment and two battalions in the hilly province of Lang Son on Tuesday, but did not give the exact location of the fighting.

In Tokyo, the Japanese news agency Kyodo said it had learned from sources in Hanoi that fierce fighting was going on in the Lang Son area. The sources were quoted as saying there was no sign of a Chinese pullback in that region.

One Vietnamese officer was quoted by these sources as saying the Chinese were using "typical human wave tactics," and their charges were heralded by the sound of bugles. He was reported to have said it was easy for the Vietnamese to deal with such tactics because of their long combat experience.

No Mutual Withdrawal
In its report on the new Peking proposal, Hsinhua said neither Vietnam nor its ally, the Soviet Union, would accept a mutual withdrawal because the "puppet regime the Vietnamese authorities have just propped up in Phnom Penh would swiftly collapse."

Their ambition to dominate Southeast Asia with Soviet backing would not materialize.

The Chinese news agency said, "The main trend of world public opinion is that Vietnam should withdraw from Kampuchea (Cambodia) and China from Vietnam."

Hsinhua said, "Although the Chinese frontier troops' counterattack in self-defense against the Vietnamese aggressors is entirely different in nature from Vietnam's aggression against Kampuchea by armed force," the concept of a mutual withdrawal "is fair and is also a key to resolving the current tension in southeast Asia."

Short War Vowed
In Peking, Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal told reporters after a meeting with Premier Hua Kuo-feng that China "must be taken seriously" in its claims the war will be short. Blumenthal added that he repeated again the Carter administration's opposition to the war and its wish for a "speedy end" to the conflict.

The Chinese government still was saying very little to its own people about the progress of the war. One Chinese official who refused to be named told reporters, "The military front is going on quite well."

He dismissed Vietnamese claims of as many as 16,000 Chinese casualties in the war. "I think the people in the world by now would feel the exaggeration of such reports," he said, declining to indicate the actual number of casualties.

Blumenthal's meeting with Hua marked the third time he has criticized the war during the three major functions.

CETA Post Resigned By Judge Shaw In 'Whitewash' Protest

By PAULA TILKER

Avalanche-Journal Staff

LUBBOCK COUNTY Judge Rod Shaw has resigned as a CETA Manpower Planning Council member to protest recent South Plains Association of Governments board action he says he "can't stomach."

Shaw, who also relinquished his role as SPAG board liaison to Comprehensive Employment Training Act programs, said he resigned Monday because the board recently "approved a report which whitewashes mismanagement and I can't stomach that very well."

He was referring to the board's Feb. 13 decision to accept a U.S. Department of Labor report exonerating a local CETA agency of a "cover-up" in audit discrepancies.

"Super Whitewash Job"

In his resignation letter to SPAG board Chairman Melvin Carpenter, Shaw charged the labor department representative gave the board a super whitewash job saying it is all right for OIC (Opportunities Industrialization Center) to violate our contract and permit at least five different counselors to change time-sheets so persons could be paid for not attending class.

The representative, Jim Baker of DOL's Dallas office, also "upholds the OIC self-serving altered audit as being authentic while completely disregarding the official TEC (Texas Employment Commission) audit of Oct. 15, 1978," Shaw wrote, adding, "He stated that my concern over the programs is ridiculous."

The disgruntled judge noted in his letter, "I have spent countless hours investigating and confirming rumors of waste and mismanagement so I could bring the accurate facts to the board, and I have lost many hours of sleep with the sick feeling in my stomach that the taxpayers are not getting their money's worth out of these programs."

But he said because most of his colleagues voted to accept Baker's report and to continue OIC's contract, "It is apparent the board likewise feels my concern is not well grounded."

"I feel it is time to pass this baton to someone else," Shaw added.

"I feel the SPAG board has just not taken seriously my severe criticism of CETA," he told The Avalanche-Journal Wednesday.

Shaw, who has been an outspoken critic of local CETA management for several months, explained that for the SPAG board "to say everything is honey and peaches and cream and roses" despite his documentation to the contrary "is very disheartening."

Shaw said it would have been different had the board continued OIC's contract but stipulated that the operation would be monitored closely.

Instead, he said, his pleas for careful consideration of the audit documentation "fell on deaf ears."

Only one other board member — Hale County Judge Henry Heck — voted Feb. 13 with Shaw against accepting Baker's report. Four other board members, including Lubbock County Commissioner Coy Biggs, who will replace Shaw on the planning council, abstained from voting.

Timesheets Claimed Changed

The events that led to Shaw's resignation began last October, when a TEC audit of OIC's classroom training allowance showed the agency's counselors had been changing timesheets to pay students marked absent by the training centers.

OIC executive director Dianna Henderson claimed the counselors followed set procedures and that they changed timesheets for students who had contacted them about being absent.

She said the agency recovered several hundred dollars and was out only about $75. Shaw, contending about $600 is involved, blasted the agency for violating its contract with SPAG by not following

Next School Bond Levy May Provide Swimming

By JEFF SOUTH

Avalanche-Journal Staff

LUBBOCK Independent School District trustees say they are serious about someday building a pool so that the district can offer students swimming lessons and can provide facilities for swim team practices and competition.

In fact, school board member Giles M. Buddy, Forbess said the opportunity for such a project may come in the next few years — if the courts finally allow the district to proceed with the building program voters approved two years ago.

Due to inflation, Forbess said the district may have to ask voters to supplement the $11.9 million in bonds they already have authorized for school construction and improvements.

If another bond election is needed, a swimming center may be added to the list of proposed capital improvements, he said.

The possibility of constructing a swimming pool was mentioned offhand by trustees Monday when the board discussed and approved a set of "magnet" features for under-enrolled downtown Lubbock High School.

On Wednesday, board members said they weren't kidding about the idea.

Worthwhile Objectives Stressed

It believes it would serve an important function for the school system, school trustee Brad Crawford Jr. said.

First and foremost, a swimming facility would help us provide all students the opportunity to learn how to swim before they get out of school. From the standpoint of safety and saving lives, the benefits here might well be worth the cost of the project.

Another advantage, separate and apart from offering a physical education course in swimming, is that a pool would give our competitive swim teams a better chance to practice and compete," he said.

School board President Charles Waters said trustees had considered building a pool when he first was elected to the board more than a decade ago. The cost then was only about $100,000, he said.

But trustees at that time feared a swimming pool would be defeated in a bond election, Waters said. Some board members considered a pool too much of a frill.

Hospital Employees Cancel Union Ties

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) — Hospital employees voted by an almost 3-2 margin Wednesday to drop their affiliation with the union that called Texas only hospital strike.

Wadley Hospital employees voted 398-234 to decertify the Communication Workers of America as their collective bargaining agent. A. L. McElmurry, the hospital's administrator, announced late Wednesday.

"Today's defeat of CWA represents a victory for both the employees of Wadley hospital and the citizens of Texarkana," McElmurry said. "We are indeed pleased with this victory and we all look forward to maintaining an atmosphere of harmony and understanding between the management and the employees of the hospital."

Union representatives were not present at a post-election news conference, and could not be reached for comment late Wednesday.

The union called the only strike against a hospital in Texas history in June, 1978. The walkout lasted 143 days until last November.

in the same way that current trustees and school administrators viewed a proposed equestrian arts (horseback riding) course for Lubbock High.

People here would vote for schools but we don't know whether they would vote for pools and horses," Waters said.

Superintendent Ed Irons said his staff had considered a swimming facility — costing about $500,000 — for possible inclusion in the bond program that was presented to voters in February, 1977. But believing it too much of a luxury, Irons said the pool was deleted from the list of

Backing Of U.S. Reported Due For Major Egyptian Demands

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, in its drive to break the deadlock in Middle East peace treaty negotiations, is supporting key Egyptian demands in the dispute with Israel, diplomatic sources said Wednesday.

Specifically, the sources said, the Carter administration agrees with Egypt that a one-year timetable be set for establishing Palestinian civil autonomy in Israeli-held territories.

Under the U.S. proposals, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin would agree to the timetable in an exchange of letters that would be part of the treaty package.

The sources, insisting on anonymity, said the Carter administration also supports the Egyptian position that the treaty with Israel should not have priority over Egypt's military ties with other Arab countries.

Sadat has demanded the Palestinian timetable. He also has insisted on revision of a treaty provision that gives peace with Israel precedence over Egypt's promise to aid other Arab countries if they are attacked by Israel.

The U.S. formula, presented to the two sides by Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance last week at Camp David under tight secrecy, provides that Egypt and Israel reserve their rights to act in collective self-defense.

This would be stated in a protocol accompanying the treaty itself and would follow United Nations provisions on rights of regional self-defense.

Treaty terms agreed to last fall by Egyptian and Israeli negotiators gave peace between the two countries precedence over the Arab defense pact. Sadat later requested that that be revised. He also has long insisted on a timetable for Palestinian autonomy.

Israel objects to both demands.

Begin, who arrives this evening for critical talks with President Carter, received secret instructions from his cabinet Wednesday and criticized the United States for supporting "Egyptian proposals which were totally unacceptable to Israel" at last week's Camp David meeting.

Begin does not want the treaty linked to the Palestinian issue.

Also, Begin wants peace between Cairo and Jerusalem to have priority over other Egyptian pacts.

On a third key point, the sources said, the Carter administration is backing Sadat in withholding an exchange of ambassadors with Israel until all of Sinai is returned to Egypt and steps are taken to reward Palestinian autonomy.

The two countries would establish embassies on each other's land and exchange lower-level diplomats.

Here, too, Israel is in sharp disagreement with the U.S. position. The Begin government considers an exchange of ambassadors an important symbol that the two countries are at peace after 30 years of conflict.

An administration spokesman denied, meanwhile, that Carter talks with Begin are aimed at wringing concessions from the Israeli leader.

We neither mean to imply, nor do we wish anyone to infer that," said State Department spokesman Hodding Carter.

He said that in offering a package of proposals to deal with remaining obstacles to an Israeli-Egyptian treaty "our only goal is to have a speedy conclusion."

The Carter talks will be held at the White House — not at Camp David —

Farmers Leaving Mall

WASHINGTON (AP) — Protesting farmers reluctantly began to break their three-week encampment Wednesday at the base of the Capitol after being told they had to leave the National Mall area by Sunday.

It's no big exodus, but a few of them are leaving, said Ken Lane, a farmer from Haskell, Tex.

City officials and protest spokesmen announced Wednesday that most of the nearly 500 tractors would be moved gradually off the Mall, a grassy promenade stretching from the Capitol to the Washington Monument.

However, Lane said the farmers remain divided over whether to comply with the Sunday deadline.

As part of the agreement, 50 tractors would be allowed to remain on two side streets near the Capitol "as a constant reminder to the public, that the farmers were in town," said Lee Scheufler, a protest spokesman from Kansas.

After two meetings Wednesday of protest leaders and federal and city officials, the agreement on leaving the Mall was reached. Police earlier had set a midnight Wednesday deadline for the farmers to leave.

But the farmer protest has been marked by numerous disagreements within its ranks and several farmers said they doubted all the tractors would be out of the Mall by Sunday night.

Police have given no indication of what they might do if any tractors remain. Police spokesman Gary Hankin said Wednesday it appeared the farmers were complying with the order.

The farmer caravans rolled into Washington Feb. 5, snarling Washington's commuter traffic. During the first day, 19 farmers were arrested and police restricted the farmers to the Mall, blocking roadways in and out with buses, cars and trucks.

The National Park Service said repairs necessitated by the protest, including a resodding of large parts of the Mall, would cost $1.2 million. President Carter said Tuesday he considered the destruction "deplorable."

As part of Wednesday's agreement, city officials agreed to allow one last tractorcade of 150 vehicles today from the base of the Capitol through the city to the Federal Reserve Board headquarters.

The purpose of the protest, sponsored by the American Agriculture Movement, was to demand higher price supports for crops. The administration says such increases would add to food costs.

"Last year when we demonstrated they (members of Congress) thought we were here just graping," said Lane, who raises cattle, wheat and cotton on his north Texas farm. "This year they understand that we've got a problem."

Carter, who opposes any change in the support rate, said Tuesday he supports the right of the farmers to demonstrate, but that "there is no possibility" that the farmer demands would be met.

Leaders of the Colorado-based American Agriculture Movement said some of the farmers would remain in Washington into summer or longer to lobby Congress. The AAM has had a Washington office since the farmers held a much smaller protest a year ago.

Sunday Gas Sales Cutoffs Seen; Some OPEC Nations Hike Prices

By The Associated Press
Energy Secretary James Schlesinger said Wednesday the government may have to force service stations to close on summer weekends, and the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries approved price hikes announced by several members taking advantage of the supply squeeze.

In a statement released at its Vienna headquarters, OPEC said "conference decisions in setting crude oil prices do not prevent member countries from making an upward adjustment in the light of their prevailing circumstances."

Several OPEC members have raised crude oil prices above the cartel's base price of $13.35 a barrel in an attempt to take advantage of the supply squeeze brought on by the loss of Iranian oil.

That supply tightness has caused many oil companies to limit the amount of fuel they sell customers.

The companies insist they can handle the fuel supply squeeze without government rationing, but Schlesinger warned Wednesday the government may have to force service stations to close on weekends this summer.

Schlesinger also raised the spectre of mandatory temperature controls in public buildings and $1-a-gallon unleaded gasoline "within a year or so."

Alice M. Rivlin, the director of the Congressional Budget office, told a Senate hearing the Iranian crisis could trigger a major round of price hikes by oil-exporting nations, raising the possibility of a worldwide recession in 1980.

The top congressional economist told a Senate Governmental Affairs subcommittee that if the 500,000 barrel-a-day impact on U.S. oil supplies continues for a year it will increase unemployment by 200,000 jobs and increase the inflation rate 0.4 percent.

Meanwhile, Iran said it would sell its oil to the highest bidder when it resumes exports, rather than to the group of companies that had been its customers.

Schlesinger told the Senate Energy Committee that if Congress approves the standby energy-conservation measures submitted by President Carter Tuesday, "it is possible that at some time we may have to invoke temperature controls or weekend closings before summer."

The Carter program includes several possible steps to conserve energy, from spot closings to rationing. Schlesinger said rationing "represents a last resort." Schlesinger had predicted Tuesday that gasoline prices could rise by 10 cents a gallon before the end of the year. On Wednesday, however, he told the Senate Government Operations Committee that unleaded fuel prices would rise even faster because demand for that particular fuel is high and supplies are short.

The companies have maintained that they could keep gasoline and crude oil supplies adequate through voluntary allocation plans and would not need government intervention.

Attempt To Invite Mrs. Andrew Young To Speak Rebuffed

WASHINGTON, AP — A black state representative's attempt to invite Mrs. Andrew Young to address the Legislature on the International Year of the Child failed in the Texas House on Wednesday.

Rep. Wilhelmina Delco, D-Austin, asked for a two-thirds vote to suspend rules and take up a resolution, bogged down in committee, inviting Jean Childs Young to speak on Monday.

Mrs. Young, wife of the United States ambassador to the United Nations, is head of the U.S. Committee for the International Year of the Child.

A group of Republican and conservative Democrat legislators had insisted on a record vote, and one of them, Rep. Fred Agnich, R-Dallas, urged the House to reject Mrs. Delco's request.

He said the Legislature was the laughingstock of the country in 1971 when the House approved a resolution — never screened by a committee — commending the Boston Strangler.

The Youngs resolution has been in committee long enough to have been passed out. Apparently the committee did not think that resolution should come out, Agnich said.

Mrs. Delco said there wasn't time for a hearing, committee action and floor action at Mrs. Young was to be invited to speak while in Austin next week.

Her motion failed 79-53. She needed 87 voice votes.

"Thank you very much, and I am sure Mrs. Jean Young will thank you for the gift by association," Mrs. Delco said sarcastically.

Taxpayer Loses Pool Deduction

WASHINGTON, AP — The U.S. Tax Court has rejected a New Jersey man's claim for a medical deduction for building a swimming pool.

C. William Haines of Masonville had sought the deduction as a medical expense, contending that he had the pool constructed to help exercise his leg, which had been broken in a skiing mishap.

The court turned down the claim, however, noting that Haines could have obtained similar benefits at less cost or even at a hospital or a nearby health club.

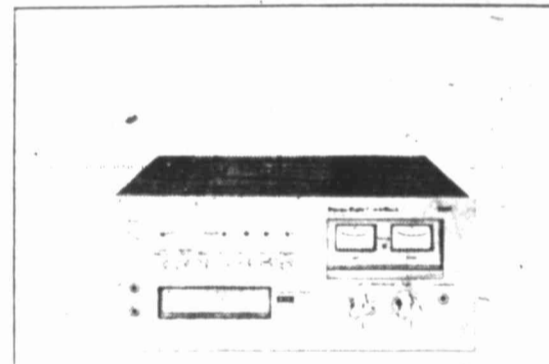

Having a swimming pool at his home made it more convenient for the petitioner to exercise in a pool, but an expenditure that merely serves the convenience of the taxpayer cannot be treated as a medical expense, ruled Judge Charles R. Simpson.

THE WESTERN world started getting the bad news from Iran this week. Not that it already hadn't read the first chapter. The second was more gruesome than expected.

Presidency In Peril

LOS ANGELES—Having done nothing about laying the groundwork for a 1980 presidential campaign in California, President Carter's political operatives are now compounding that error by scheduling no activity before or after his March 2 fund-raising speech in Los Angeles.
That has encouraged the conclusion here that the President's sole interest in the nation's most populous state is to take the California money and run.

Out Of Tyranny And Into Fire

THE FREE world owes a debt to the Soviet Union for the frankness with which it has revealed its ambition to see Iran taken into the Communist bloc.

Fritz In The Pits

WASHINGTON—What administration insiders call the "China vis-a-vis Russia" position helps to explain those newspaper photos which so often show Vice President Mondale smiling widely and at times indulging himself in a good Midwestern belly laugh.

ART BUCHWALD:

Snow Buddies Galore Behind Closed Doors

WASHINGTON—I'd like to write one more snow piece. It's not really about snow, but about people.
We had a major snowstorm in Washington and while it was big news in this part of the world it didn't mean much in the rest of the United States.
The thing that struck me is that I've been living in this particular neighborhood in Washington for 14 years and I've never seen my neighbors.

FRITZ WAS very impressive, said a State Department hand. "He wanted us to be as neutral as possible in order to keep our diplomacy on two tracks at once.
While he wanted the U.S. to warn the Soviets not to retaliate, he had argued the necessity of warning China against the incursion before it took place. Fritz is a good diplomat.
Jimmy Carter obviously believes Fritz Mondale is also a good all-around Assistant President. Mondale regularly takes part in discussions in decision-making affecting both foreign and domestic policies.

ONE EXAMPLE: Mondale successfully proposed that Carter not take umbrage at criticism by the AFL-CIO's president George Meany. The President didn't.
And when Meany said he'd mobilize union members to monitor retail prices, it was Mondale who suggested that the President describe the proposal as "a good idea."
Give Carter points on what is a radical departure from the traditional Presidential treatment—or non-treatment—of Vice Presidents. He said Mondale would be in on the gutsy stuff, and he has kept his word.

IT WAS NOT until Johnson had a Vice President named Hubert Humphrey that some people complained about the tradition that made the Second Banana a non-person.
Humphrey did not mind, and went on to lose to Richard Nixon by a whisker in 1968, no mean achievement for a candidate who spent four years in Lyndon Johnson's shadow.
Fritz Mondale probably wouldn't mind, either—at least, publicly—if Carter used him exclusively as the administration's chief wreath-layer.
But Mondale is lucky as well as smart. He serves a President who is secure enough to risk asking a potential rival over to the house.

A QUICK LOOK at what is happening in three key "hot spots" of the world, plus a study of one of those latest polls, reveals a most puzzling picture.
Perhaps the most confusing of all is the latest Louis Harris survey which purports to show that four of every five Americans feel the U.S. should "have done nothing" to determine the course of events in Iran.

THIS WOULD indicate that Americans, at least in this early reaction, do not blame the President and his foreign policy advisers for the debacle.
Yet, when the same cross section was asked in another survey to rate President Carter on his handling of the situation in Iran, he was given negative marks by an impressive 68 to 23 percent margin.
These figures, while seeming to be at odds, say something about polls. Presidential standings and the average person's lack of understanding of world affairs.

THE CURRENT invasion of Vietnam by Red China is a classic example.
While most Americans would just as soon let the Chinese and Russians fight from here to eternity without choosing sides, they are realistic enough to know that sooner or later such a war would erupt into a nuclear holocaust.
But, such a stance does little to marshal worldwide opinion or pressure on the combatants, even the proxy ones. Wars without "causes" fail to stir peoples anymore, if they ever did.

THE PROBLEM: as the forces of turmoil exhort the masses to do away with old orders, is that the West indeed may have lost the will to defend itself.
Until the Free World—indeed the American people—start viewing today's world in the realm of geopolitics in which it exists and start measuring this nation's interests in terms of raw materials—oil and minerals—and political, diplomatic and military supremacy, then there will be no stopping of those forces of revolt and terror.

THE PRESIDENT'S greatest weakness in California is the influential Jewish community.
A "counter-Carter" dinner is being held tonight, the night before Carter's—in black tie, in the same hotel, with about the same number of people, but at only $25 a shot.
Sponsors of the counter-dinner complain that holding the President's dinner on Friday night, the Jewish Sabbath, demonstrates insensitivity—which only proves that a declining politician can do no right.

Author Dedicates Book To People Of Guadalupe Barrio

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The author of a book on the history of Mexican-Americans in Lubbock County dedicated his book at a reception Wednesday night to those people who built, lived and died in the Guadalupe Barrio.

Dr. Andres A. Tijerina discovered in researching the cultural history that many names and events were little known to the community-at-large.

In an emotional speech, Tijerina told the small audience about migrant camps, inadequate educational opportunities and many forms of discrimination against Mexican-Americans.

Tijerina's book reveals that deaths of Spanish-surnamed children under age six rose steadily from the Depression years until 1958. The peak was 76 deaths in 1952.

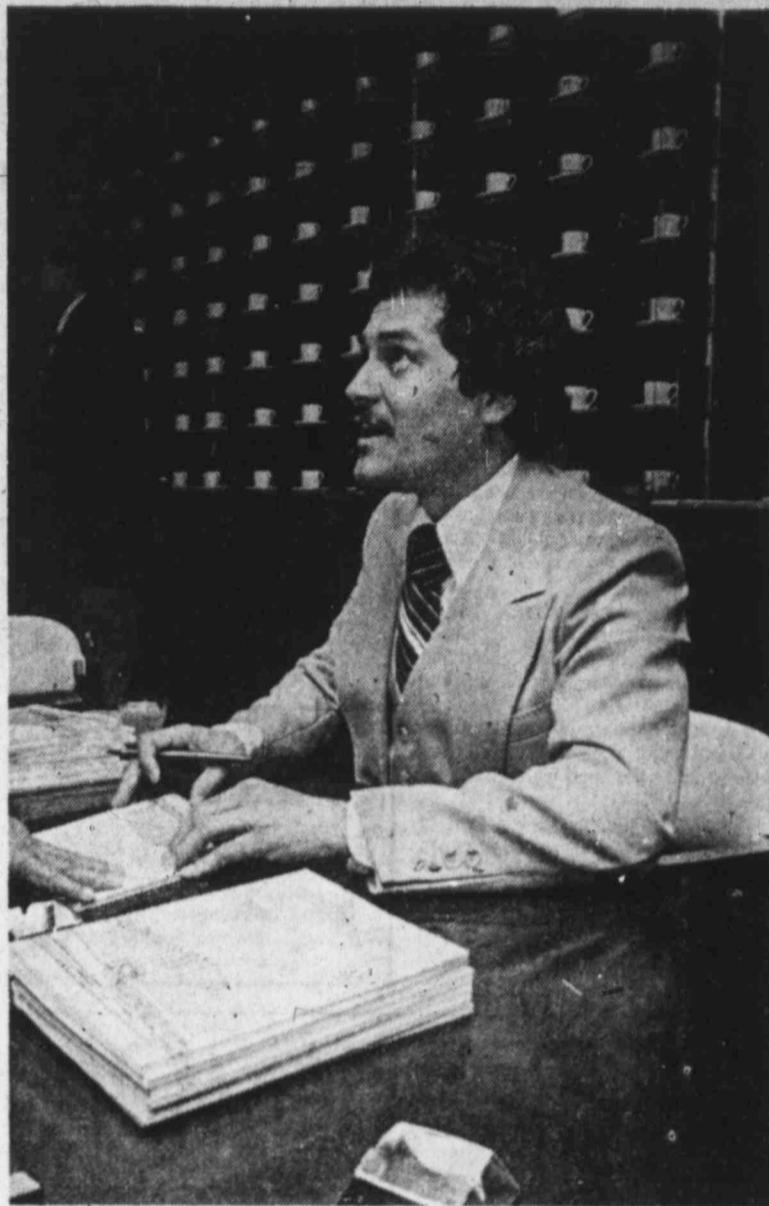

Tijerina's voice choked with emotion when he said, "I counted them. Hundreds of them. Thousands of them. I was afraid no one would know about those kids if I didn't write this book."

He originally wrote the book as his thesis for a master's degree in history at Tech in 1973. He later received his Ph.D. at the University of Texas and now is an historian in Austin.

He said he may write another book because he believes the beautiful and rich heritage of Mexican-Americans has not been told.

"I want to tell about that because I haven't seen it in our history books," he said. Among the accomplishments of Mexican-Americans, he said, are the land grant educational laws in Texas.

"The man who thought of that formula was a Mexican of San Antonio," he said. But 13 years after the man originated the idea, the president of Texas, when the state was an independent nation, took credit for the idea and now "Mirabeau B. Lamar is called the father of education" instead of the Mexican-American.

HISPANIC AUTHOR — Andres A. Tijerina autographed copies of his recently published book, "History of Mexican-Americans in Lubbock County, Texas" at a Wednesday night reception hosted by the Texas Tech history department and Comarcantes Organizados Mexico Americanos. (Staff Photo by Gary Davis)

Names that Tijerina hopes will be more famous now in Lubbock County are those of the early barrio settlers.

Ventura Flores was the first Mexican-American to permanently settle in Lubbock. He pitched a tent beside the railroad depot in 1912 and in 1916 became the first Mexican-American in Lubbock to own land. His property was between Avenues K and L.

Although the state's population as a whole increased no more than 25 percent annually between 1910 and 1930, Lubbock's population increased more than eight times that rate.

The answer to why the population increased so rapidly "is primarily in a combination of two factors which also explain the influx of Mexican-Americans to Lubbock — railroads and cotton," Tijerina said in his book titled, "History of Mexican-Americans in Lubbock County, Texas."

Other turning points in Lubbock County Mexican-American history were World War II, which Tijerina said gave Mexican-Americans pride in their military service and economic benefits; the 1964 Civil Rights Act; the Lubbock tornado of 1970 and the March of Faith in 1971.

The author noted in his book, "On May 11, 1970, a tornado reached down from the clouds and swept away the substandard housing (of the barrio) as no federal program could do."

Demands of the 1971 marchers were mostly met within a year, Tijerina said. Those demands included more Mexican-American police officers, teachers, fire fighters, city employees and also led to the establishment of the Human Relations Commission.

The book uses the analogy that treatment of Mexican-Americans was similar to that of the "Okies" in John Steinbeck's "Grapes of Wrath."

"The malnutrition, the inconvenient facilities, the social insecurity — these were the real causal factors which alienated the migrants and gave them a distinctive culture," the book says.

Tijerina said a distinguishing factor in the history of Mexican-American advancement was that they "complained in constructive ways. They never burned or rioted. And they always had solutions to recommend."

Low Interest Mortgage Loans Proposed

A proposal to increase the availability of low cost mortgage loans to low and moderate income families was submitted for consideration Wednesday to members of the city's lending community and city officials.

Chris Baker of the investment banking firm of Underwood, Neuhaus and Co. presented the proposal, which would provide for the loans at a lower interest rate through the sale of mortgage revenue bonds.

Money from the AA rated bond sales would be made available at banks and savings and loans at the lower interest rate. The lenders would receive a commitment fee for each of the loans serviced.

According to Baker, the loans would be available at an interest rate of 7 1/2 to 8 percent for those who would not qualify for loans at regular interest rates.

"We don't want to make the loans available to people who have current access to savings and loans," said Baker. "Our program is geared to the public purpose — helping people to get homes who have been systematically eliminated from the mortgage market. We can lower the interest rate for them by selling these bonds."

He said that the program would not be in competition with the regular business of lending institutions, but would complement it. "We're not looking for savings and loans to lower their lending criteria," said Baker.

The low interest loans would be made available for new construction, for the purchase of existing housing and for substantial rehabilitation of existing housing.

Conventional, FHA and VA loans all would be utilized.

State housing authority laws allow only local housing authorities to issue such revenue bonds, thus freeing the city from any obligation in case of default.

Housing Authority director D.C. Fair said that authority commissioners indicated approval of the program with the provision that the authority would not carry the responsibility of the program.

Leon Bean of the City Attorney's office, however, said that the authority would have to be solely responsible for the success of the project.

Baker said that the responsibility of the Housing Authority would be in the initial planning. "There would be no day-to-day administrative responsibilities."

The authority would receive an administration fee for the services and time required to administer the program.

The authority and the city would be responsible for determining the income limit necessary to qualify for the low cost loans, according to Baker. The limit would depend on the income levels of each individual city.

The income limits for other Texas cities participating in similar bond programs include a maximum of $16-17,000 in McAllen, $18-20,000 in El Paso and $22,500 in Odessa.

Baker said that a new bill pertaining to the financing of revenue bonds has been introduced before the State Senate that would allow low to moderate income families to qualify for such low interest loans, rather than just low income families.

The bill would also limit the number of bonds issued by the housing authorities in a calendar year, and would prohibit the issuing of two different bonds with different interest rates at the same time.

Asked if the loans would be assumable, Baker said, "We don't have the answer now." He said, however, that "Every time you reduce the security of a loan, it will affect the yield."

Baker requested permission to pursue a feasibility study "to look at population trends, building needs, supply and demand factors. We want it to identify the need in Lubbock."

He estimated the study would cost $30-40,000 and that it would be financed from money "out of the bond issue if the program goes."

He said that the investment firm of Rauscher, Pierce, Relsnes Inc., which has worked with his own firm on the program, would assume the cost of the study should the program be unacceptable to the city of Lubbock.

City Planning Director Jim Bertram

suggested that the proposal be sent to the city financial adviser for a recommendation. Based on his view, the city council would then be able to issue a directive to the Housing Authority concerning the program "one way or the other."

Members of the lending community present also suggested that the project be reviewed by other lenders in the city as well as construction industry representatives before making a recommendation on the project.

eral of Texas, under the late Crawford Martin before rejoining the Chronicle in 1971 as assistant to the editor.

Dean Plant Opening Announced

PLAINVIEW (Special) — Reopening date of the Jimmy Dean meat plant here, slated sometime this spring, will be announced during a noon luncheon today for Hale County officials and area pork producers at the Plainview Country Club.

Appeal Frees Mixon After Court Ruling

AUSTIN — The conviction of Donald Gene Mixon on charges of theft of grain in Deaf Smith County was overturned Wednesday by the Court of Criminal Appeals, on grounds Mixon had been subjected to double jeopardy.

Mixon was first convicted in January 1972, but the appeals court held that the evidence was insufficient to support the conviction, and reversed the judgment, sending the case back.

Mixon was retried in August 1974, receiving a sentence of two to seven years. That conviction was confirmed by the appeals court.

Mixon appealed again, with the trial court finding at a Nov. 17, 1978, hearing that in view of rulings by the U.S. Supreme Court on double jeopardy, that Mixon should not have been tried after the evidence as found "legally insufficient."

Sir Walter Raleigh left England to explore South America in 1519.

Dean and company officials will discuss both the immediate and future livestock needs of the area at the luncheon.

The Plainview facility, which was shut down in the early part of 1978, was closed to consolidate sausage production to the company's plant in Osceola, Iowa, officials said.

The Plainview plant is being renovated to facilitate the slaughter of 8,000 to 12,000 head of butcher hogs per week. Vincent Bernard, president and chief executive officer of the company, said, "At a cost exceeding one million dollars, the renovation and modification of the Plainview plant will enable us to increase production by an excess of two million fresh pork cuts weekly."

Dean, who was raised on a farm in Plainview, said that the plant will employ about 110 persons.

The Plainview facility, which was the first Jimmy Dean sausage plant, was opened in May 1969.

Maryland Priest Arrested In Series Of Holdups

NEW CASTLE, Del. (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest was sent to a mental institution Wednesday after police charged that he was the "Gentleman Bandit" who had stolen $1.185 in eight armed holdups.

The Rev. Bernard T. Pagano, 58, an assistant pastor at St. Mary's Refuge of Sinners in Cambridge, Md., was arrested at his home in Middletown Tuesday night. He was arraigned here Wednesday on seven charges of armed robbery and one count of attempted robbery.

Bishop Thomas J. Mardaga, head of the Wilmington diocese, visited Pagano at the police barracks here at about 1 a. m., according to Mardaga's spokesman, Gene Donnelly.

Donnelly said the bishop was "shocked and dismayed" at the arrest but would cooperate with police.

Pagano entered Delaware State Hospital here voluntarily after New Castle Magistrate John Wilding recommended he be committed for psychiatric observation until a hearing Saturday to set a date for a preliminary hearing and re-evaluate his $120,000 bail.

Police said Pagano was the man dubbed the "Gentleman Bandit" when a composite drawing of the robber was circulated recently. The name referred to the man's neat dress and quiet manner as he staged the early evening stickups at seven northern Delaware stores since early January.

Pagano grew up in Kearney, N.J., and received his master's degree in psychology at Fordham University in New York.

The Rev. Robert Biad, who is stationed at the Church of Good Counsel in Secretary, Md., said Pagano "didn't talk to me right" when he last saw the priest. "He wasn't himself. He looked to be disturbed," Biad said.

The bandit's victims were shocked to hear that a priest had been arrested.

"That's something else," said Mark Anderson, one of two clerks at the Jan. 16 holdup at Ulmer Hardware near Wilmington.

The other clerk, Gary Shockley, said the man took about $100 and, on his way out told them, "I'll be back to buy a snow shovel."

Carroll Reynolds, owner of Haverbeck's Hardware near Wilmington, said it was "kind of a shock" to learn that a priest had been arrested. But he remembered the man "had no abusive language. He wasn't rough. He just demanded the money and got it."

"I think he deserves everything he's going to get," said Reynolds. "He's not better than anybody else."

Mrs. Byrne Credited With Major Victory

CHICAGO (AP) — In Chicago, where the Democratic machine has ruled for decades, elections — especially those for mayor — are supposed to go as planned. Jane Byrne changed that.

Mrs. Byrne, a 43-year-old, stern-looking woman who was tutored in city politics by the late Mayor Richard J. Daley, bucked and brought to its knees the once well-greased organization Daley perpetuated.

She took on incumbent Michael A. Bilandic, capitalized on his administration's snow-removal problems during the brutal winter and gained revenge from the man who had fired her as commissioner of consumer sales, weights and measures.

JANE BYRNE

To many observers, the undoing of Bilandic and the Democratic machine was presaged by a gradual erosion of organizational power.

In 1978, the late Rep. Ralph Metcalfe broke with the machine over black-related issues, fought an organization-backed

Floyd County Jail Wins Variances On Standards

AUSTIN — The Texas Commission on Jail Standards Wednesday approved two variances from statewide jail standards requested by Floyd County for its jail.

County officials asked the commission officially to approve the lack of floor drains in the kitchen floor and the existence of only one exit on the second and third floors.

While credited with seizing the snow issue, Mrs. Byrne's victory in Tuesday's primary also may be attributed to a Bilandic backlash that included growing independence among black voters. Moreover, Bilandic lacked the personal appeal Daley had for Chicagoans.

With 96 percent of the city's 3,100 precincts reporting, Mrs. Byrne had 398,742 votes or 50.96 percent, compared to Bilandic's 383,715 or 49.04 percent.

Still unanswered, however, is whether Mrs. Byrne won or the 56-year-old Bilandic lost. In many cities, that question could be answered in the general election, but in Chicago, Republican mayoral candidates are traditionally weak opponents.

Since 1955, no Republican has garnered more than 45 percent of the general vote and this year's GOP primary attracted a total of 20,000 votes compared to 782,000 Democratic ballots.

"Basically, she's a Democrat who won the primary for a party which needs change," said Andy Bajonski, a Byrne press aide.

candidate and won the congressional primary. In 1972, Dan Walker defeated the machine-supported candidate in the Illinois gubernatorial primary.

Mrs. Byrne bucks another tradition. Forty men have served as mayor since Chicago became a city in 1837, but she would be the first woman to hold the post if she defeats GOP nominee Wallace Johnson, an investment banker, on April 3.

"The people who voted for her are going to vote for her again and the people who voted for Bilandic are Democrats and they'll be voting Democratic in the election," says Mrs. Byrne's campaign manager, Don Rose.

A write-in campaign by Cook County Democratic Chairman George W. Dunne or Bilandic is possible, but Rose says that would be "loony."

"If they couldn't win in an election where all the voter has to do is push a button, they couldn't come close when every voter would have to write a name on the ballot," he said.

If Mrs. Byrne wins, the city is due for a facelift, said Rose.

"Patronage abuses will end. There'll be a more open form of city government. There'll be a movement toward a more honest government."

"This town has been riddled with every form of corruption, everything from high-level cronyism to bribery involving tavern owners. You're never going to end all this, but there's going to be a big movement to curtail it."

Lubbock Donates Old Posey Clinic To Service Group

Community Service Director Archie Bottoms announced Wednesday that the City of Lubbock has donated a building at 1602 Vanda St. for use by the Community Service Association.

Formerly The Posey Clinic, which was built by the city and operated by the Texas Tech University School of Medicine, the building was vacated when Tech moved all its health services to the Health Sciences Center.

Community Services will use the building to replace its outreach center at 1532 E. 19th St. The new center will also be used on Tuesdays as a part of the Health Department's sterilization program.

According to Bottoms, the Vanda St. center will provide CSA with "more flexibility," in addition to being rent-free.

Final approval on the commission's "three year plan" was delayed pending input from board members and those served by CSA.

"No significantly different approach" was anticipated, however, according to Bottoms.

A request to use a $15,000 surplus in the 1978 budget for an emergency food program was denied by CSA's Dallas office, Bottoms reported. "I presume we will be able to keep the surplus, however," he said.

In other business, board members voted to accept a $19,000 federal grant to be used for a CSA utility payment program.

ANCIENT RUINS UNEARTHED TOKYO (AP) — The ruins of a stone-age farming community have been unearthed in Tibet, the official Chinese Hsinhua news agency reported. Hsinhua, monitored here, said Tuesday the 4,600-year-old ruins were discovered in Kharup village and include 300 pieces of stone and bone artifacts as well as the bones of birds and animals. The news agency quoted archaeological experts as saying that the community appeared to belong to "a primitive society of the Neolithic age."

Valley Citrus Shipping Nearing Premature End

HARLINGEN (AP) — The multi-million dollar Rio Grande Valley citrus industry is grinding to a halt this week — a victim of two winter freezes that cut the shipping season by more than two months.

"Today's going to be my last day," said Chuck Schneider of Progressive Groves in Weslaco on Wednesday. "I've got a few grapefruits left but I'm out of oranges. That's going to be it."

The Valley citrus season usually continues through May. But a mild freeze in December and a more serious one early in January left widespread damage in the groves.

Les Whitlock, general manager of the Texas Valley Citrus Committee, said other shippers also are out of fruit.

"It's just about all over with, all except the history writing. I think only nine shippers out of about 30 are still shipping a little bit. But it's a trickle compared with what it should be," Whitlock said.

He said a more serious loss was averted because shippers got off to a fast start before the freezes. He estimated that fresh fruit shipments were ahead of last season's pace until the first of the year.

Whitlock said early oranges will wind up down about 25 percent from last season's production. Late oranges will drop about 75 percent, he said.

But Whitlock said there is a brighter side. Much of the freeze-damaged fruit has been salvaged at juice plants and juice fruit prices have been good, he said.

Ray Burns of Interstate Fruit and Vegetable Co., in Weslaco said March and April are usually the most productive and profitable months there. He said this year's end of the season is the earliest he can remember.

Langdon Barber at MW Fruit in Pharr, the largest independent shipper in the Valley, said his operation has enough fruit to last only until the middle of March.

Steve Deines, executive assistant director of the Texas Citrus and Vegetable Shippers in Harlingen, said it is hard to calculate the economic effect of the short season.

"We probably lost a quarter of the season. You couldn't put a dollar figure on it now," he said. "Those still shipping fruit are being very careful. It's on a grove-to-grove and day-to-day basis."

Deines also said the major citrus cooperatives have closed down.

Whitlock said the effects of the freezes may show up again next season.

"We'll very definitely see some effect next season. The big question is how much are we going to be down. The intelligent guessers, the ones who have been through freezes before, are saying it could be down 30-60 percent next season," he said.

Farm Union Warns Of Corporate Owners

AUSTIN (AP) — Corporate ownership of farm land — foreign as well as domestic — is a "clear and present danger" to Texas, the secretary of the Texas Farmers Union said Wednesday.

"We feel as threatened by domestic corporations as by foreign corporations," Secretary Ron Butler said. "It doesn't matter to the Texas farmer whether the investor lives in Saudi Arabia, New York or Houston."

"Whenever there is an absentee landlord, the rural economy suffers," he said.

Butler said the farmers union supports proposals to prohibit the purchase of Texas land by foreigners.

"Foreigners would rather have American farm land than American dollars," he said.

Butler, President Jay Naman of the farm union and several Temple-area farmers appeared at a news conference and later testified at a House committee hearing on the prohibition proposals.

Basically, family farmers feel that speculation in farm land drives up prices and makes it harder for farmers to stay in business. Foreign investment in land reportedly has increased enormously in recent years and numerous legislators and state officials have expressed concern.

The farm union set up a task force to study the ownership of land, and Butler was asked if the task force had come up with any estimates of how much acreage in Texas was owned by foreigners.

"We have no handhold on who owns land in Texas," said Butler. "You can go from county courthouse to county courthouse and never find who owns land in Texas. We find it is a clear and present danger that warrants prohibition."

"We hope to at least secure a reporting law," said Butler. "To prohibit foreign ownership, we need registration to find out who they are. The political realities, with the corporate influence, is we might have to settle for a reporting law, but that is second choice — we're here to get speculators out of the farm business."

Asked if the farm union was asking the Legislature to take sides between corporate and family farmers, Butler said: "Yes, we're challenging the Legislature to take sides — we think it's time. But I think they've taken sides already and it's not on our side."

Naman said foreign countries that are active importers "are beginning to explore around the world for places to produce."

He said the family farm is the best-sized unit for producing food and fiber.

"There is a natural alliance between consumers and family farmers," said Butler.

He added: "If we don't shut off the domestic corporations (from speculating in land), there is no way to stop foreigners from investing," said Butler.

Possible Insurance Fraud Investigated

DALLAS (AP) — The U.S. Postal Inspector's office said Wednesday it is investigating a possible automobile insurance fraud that could involve a half million dollars in false claims.

About 60 people in Hunt County (Greenville) are under investigation, said postal service investigator Chuck Ingersoll. He said two Greenville city police officers and at least one insurance company claims adjuster are under scrutiny.

"There have been no indictments yet, and the soonest we could expect them would be late April or early May," Ingersoll said.

As many as 10 insurance companies may have been defrauded, Greenville Police Chief Leon Powers said.

Two of his officers were questioned in the case and have since resigned.

The Department of Public Safety has had investigators in the Greenville area the last six to eight weeks at the request of Hunt County District Attorney Jerry Davis.

PICASSO DISPLAY OPENS BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — A display of erotic works by the late Pablo Picasso opened here Wednesday at the museum named after the artist. The exhibit, which officials said was the first of its kind with Picasso's works, consists of 58 paintings, drawings and engravings, with some pieces coming from private collections.

INVESTORS' GUIDE

By BILL DOYLE

Q. We bought a $1,000, six-year, 7 1/2 percent savings certificate for our daughter on her first birthday. She is now two and we have another $1,000 for her. But we are undecided on what to do. My husband favors another savings certificate. I feel that, since this is money we will never have to count on, we should invest it some other way. What is your opinion?

A. It's in line with yours. Because the $1,000 is clearly "extra money" that won't have to be touched until the wee one has her own use for it, it can be put to work in hopes of greater financial rewards.

My suggestion would be to put the money into either a growth stock or a growth mutual fund. By this, I mean either an individual stock or a mutual fund which has grown in value over the years and, hopefully, will continue to do so in the future.

Note that the word "hopefully" has to be used. There's no guaranty with stocks and mutual funds. But, over the really long run, growth stocks and funds have done well — better than fixed-income situations. The 7 1/2 percent savings certificate, of course, provides fixed-income and, I assume, is insured by an agency of the federal government. So, it has no risk.

But, in this situation, you seem to be able to take some risk. My advice is to do just that.

Q. What will happen to old Series E, U.S. Savings Bonds, when the U.S. Treasury starts issuing the new Series EE bonds in 1980? Will E bonds still mature in five years? Or will they mature in 11 years and nine months, as the EE bonds will?

A. E bonds issued from December, 1973, through December, 1979 (June 1, 1980, for bonds sold through payroll savings plans) will reach their first maturities in five years. E bonds sold before December, 1973, had longer first maturities. Bonds issued from May, 1941, through April, 1952, reached their first maturities in 10 years. The maturity periods on newly-issued bonds were shortened, six different times, until the present five-year span became the rule.

All E bonds have been granted "extended maturities," so that they will continue to accrue — build up — interest, until their final maturity dates.

When — amid much bureaucratic fanfare — it was announced that the new EE bonds will go on sale Jan. 2, 1980, the U.S. Treasury Department also lowered the boom on holders of older E bonds.

Treasury Secretary W. Michael decreed that no further maturity extensions will be granted to E bonds issued between May, 1941, and April, 1952, and that one final extended maturity will be granted to E bonds issued from May, 1952, through November, 1965.

This means that the oldest E bonds will reach final maturity and stop building up interest exactly 40 years after their issue dates. E bonds issued from May, 1952, through November, 1965, will suffer the same fate anywhere from 39 years and eight months to 37-years and nine months after their issue dates — depending upon the month and year in which each bond was issued.

Yes, dear readers, it's mighty complicated — thanks to the Washington deep thinkers. The misspelling of "thinkers" is about the kindest word penned by irate long-term owners of E bonds who write to this column on this subject.

They're mighty unhappy, because they feel this is a ploy to force them to cash in their old E bonds and pay income tax on

YOUTH HANGS SELF

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — A 15-year-old Bridgeport boy was found dead in the bathroom of a friend's home minutes after saying he would hang himself. The threat had been construed as a joke, police said. Charles Oler died of strangulation Tuesday night, after lacing a belt around his neck. He had warned his friend Christopher Pristas, 15, but since the two boys often played practical jokes, Pristas told Oler, "quit fooling around," police said.

the accrued interest they will receive.

Congressional Economist Sees Recession Danger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Iranian crisis could trigger a major round of price hikes by oil-exporting nations, raising the possibility of a worldwide recession in 1980, the No. 1 congressional economist said Wednesday.

Alice M. Rivlin, director of the Congressional Budget Office, told a Senate hearing that even without such price increases, continued loss of Iranian oil will raise both unemployment and inflation rates in the United States.

She predicted an increase of 0.2 percent in the unemployment rate — or 200,000 jobs — and of 0.4 percent in the inflation rate if the present 500,000 barrel-a-day impact on U.S. oil supplies continues for a year.

Gasoline shortages, or even the fear of them, may cause consumers to postpone purchases of automobiles and to travel less, causing more problems for the already troubled U.S. economy, she told a Senate Governmental Affairs subcommittee.

In other congressional testimony Wednesday, Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger said the price of unleaded gasoline probably will soar to $1 a gallon "within a year or so" because of price hikes forced by the Iranian cutoff.

Schlesinger said the present oil shortages could force Sunday closings of gasoline stations and mandatory controls on thermostats in public buildings before summer.

Some Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries — OPEC — members, including Libya and Venezuela, already have raised prices above the previously posted OPEC price of $13.33 a barrel to reflect the Iranian shortages.

And officials of Iran's new revolutionary regime have indicated that once production is restored — when and to what extent remains unclear — they do not

Oil Firm Bids Low On Sea Lease Sites

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil companies went bargain-hunting Wednesday, buying rights to 44 more drilling sites in the Baltimore Canyon off New Jersey for a total of $41.7 million, a fraction of what they paid in the area's first lease sale 2½ years ago.

It took just 20 minutes for government officials to open the sealed bids in Madison Square Garden's Felt Forum. The crowd of several hundred oil-company officials was quiet as the bids were read, in marked contrast to the circus-like atmosphere that accompanied the first lease sale in August 1976.

The bids were lower this time because the tracts purchased in 1976 have not measured up to the promise the area was believed to hold.

The Baltimore Canyon area of the Atlantic has been estimated to contain 13.5 trillion cubic feet of natural gas — about 8 months worth of U.S. supply at present consumption levels — and a lesser amount of crude oil.

Although the amount of gas believed to be in the canyon seems small in comparison with the nation's consumption, the fuel could help decrease the East Coast's dependency on foreign oil.

But the lack of success so far in the area has led many oil-company exploration officials to worry that the gas there may be very expensive to locate and extract.

Government officials were somewhat surprised by the low prices bid by the companies. "There were a fair number of bids in the first sale above $50 million," said Barbara Karlen of the U.S. Bureau of Land Management, which conducted the sale. The 87 tracts leased in 1976 brought a total of $1.1 billion.

Over the next month and a half, the government will evaluate the winning bids and could throw out any not deemed high enough.

The companies didn't bother bidding on 65 of the tracts available Wednesday. Most of the ones bought were near the edge of the continental shelf, about 75 miles offshore.

That area is where the only two of the 11 exploratory wells completed so far have hit natural gas. The other nine were drilled closer to land, and their lack of success apparently discouraged the companies from bidding on nearby sites.

One consumer group said Wednesday that the bargains obtained in the lease sale were not representative of what the area is potentially worth.

"The bidding shows that the sale never should have been held," said James Flug, director of Energy Action, a Washington-based group. "If these bids are accepted, the government will once again be giving away the public's oil and gas for a song." Flug suggested that the bidding system be made more competitive.

Seventy-four bids were submitted on the 44 tracts. The most popular and most expensive block was won by a consortium led by Tenneco Inc., which beat out three other bids for a tract about 95 miles southeast of Atlantic City, N.J. The group paid $6.4 million for the rights to drill at the site.

One site that had received a lot of pre-sale interest did not draw a very high bid. Exxon Inc. bid only $504,000 to win the site, a couple of miles from where a government geological test well unexpectedly found natural gas last month.

One participant in the lease sale was Shell, which said last month that it was giving up on the sites it had bought in the first sale after drilling three dry holes at a cost of $90 million. Shell, in partnership with Sun Oil Co., paid $721,000 for rights to drill on two sites and bid too low on three others.

Pierre Magnol, a French botanist of the late 1600s, gave his name to the magnolia tree.

plan to sell oil for less than at least $18 a barrel.

Mrs. Rivlin said the present international oil shortage caused by the now two-month loss of Iranian production "increases the probability of larger OPEC price hikes in the future."

"If the Iranian shortfall were to continue until the end of 1979, and if the industrial economies did not act decisively to trim their demands for oil, the stage would be set for a large OPEC price hike during the first quarter of 1980 or possibly earlier," she testified.

"Under these circumstances, the risks of a worldwide recession would be considerable," she said.

She told the Senate panel that member nations of the International Energy Agency — an organization of industrialized oil-importing nations — should give serious thought to embarking on major energy-conservation and fuel-switching programs.

Schlesinger, however, told the panel that getting such a consensus would be difficult because of "the differences of views among members. Some on the European continent feel the way to achieve conservation is by price."

Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, proposed federal aid to help foreign countries which are non-OPEC members develop their oil reserves. But Schlesinger said this couldn't be done without a change in existing laws that prohibit such grants.

Meanwhile, President Carter's standby gasoline rationing program, submitted to Congress on Tuesday for use in times of severe fuel shortages, ran into strong opposition in the Senate.

"I think it will be an absolute disaster," said Sen. Bennett Johnston, chairman of a subcommittee with jurisdiction over the plan.

The proposal would allocate gasoline based on registered vehicles and allow Americans to buy or sell excess coupons.

"Western Americans get a pretty raw deal," complained Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., complaining that the program discriminates against the West and its long driving distances.

Congress has 60 days to approve or reject the standby plans.

Schlesinger, in an appearance before the Senate Energy Committee, reiterated the administration's contention that rationing would be a "last resort" and, in any event, would not be used because of the Iranian crisis.

He said, though, that other parts of the plan — including Sunday gasoline station closings and mandatory thermostat controls on buildings — might be activated due to the Iranian shortages. However, he said there are no plans for doing so.

Analysts Disagree On Iranian Oil Policy Effects

NEW YORK (AP)—Analysts wondered Wednesday whether there will be a struggle among companies for Iranian petroleum, following the announcement that the country will no longer deal with the 25-year-old European-American consortium that formerly marketed 80 percent of Iran's oil exports.

Others maintained, however, that only Western oil companies have the resources and the technical and managerial expertise to deal with the complicated job of getting Iran's oil to consumers.

Iran just can't go out and sell 2 million barrels a day at auction," said Gary Ross of the industry-sponsored Petroleum Industry Research Foundation.

Added E. Anthony Copp, an analyst at Salomon Brothers: "There's a lot of post-revolutionary talk going on right now. I think you have to take these comments by the new management as being an initial smokescreen."

Iran's oil exports totaled about 5.4 million barrels a day before anti-shah strikes forced a four-month-long shutdown of the oil industry. Nazih said Iran's exports would resume Monday, with the oil going to the highest bidders, although the country expects to be exporting 2.4 million barrels daily.

He added the country hopes to receive $18 to $20 a barrel for its shipments, well above the OPEC base price for oil of $13.35 a barrel.

Several major oil producing countries have raised prices in the wake of the Iranian cutoff, and both Exxon Corp. and Mobil Corp. have curtailed worldwide crude oil shipments in recent weeks.

American Independent Oil division of H.J. Reynolds Industries — owns 5 percent of the consortium.

Copp said "I don't think any of this talk (about refusing to deal with the Western oil companies as a group) surprises any member of the consortium. But at Gulf which formerly received 15 percent of its crude oil needs from Iran, spokesman Thomas D. Walker took a different position.

"There's not much we can say except to see which way things shake out," he said. "Things are not stable enough to know what's really going to happen down the road."

OPEC Okays Price Hikes By Members

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries gave official approval Wednesday to separate oil price boosts announced by several member countries, stating that such hikes did not run counter to the cartel's long-term objectives.

A news release issued at OPEC headquarters here said, "Conference decisions in setting crude oil prices do not prevent member countries from making upward adjustments in the light of their prevailing circumstances."

"Therefore, the decisions by member countries, either by adjusting their prices upward or by choosing other courses of action or further consultation, certainly fall within the framework of the statute of the organization and are strictly in accordance with their sovereign rights approved by the OPEC conference as long ago as January 1961."

The announcement by the OPEC secretariat followed price hikes independently decreed by the governments of Kuwait, Libya, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates.

Venezuela also announced an increase coming shortly, and reports from Tehran said the revolutionary government of Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan would sell to the highest bidder when oil shipments resume next week, which could mean increases of up to 50 per cent.

Houston Five Said To Have Profited From Oil Embargo

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Five men on trial used a web of oil shipments accompanied by kickbacks to illegally profit from the Arab embargo of 1973-74, a government attorney said Wednesday, but defense attorneys declared nothing in the 3½-week trial proved any wrongdoing.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Chris Hoyer summed up the daisy chain conspiracy case, saying testimony and evidence proved the defendants took part in a scheme to artificially inflate prices of oil to Florida Power Corp. and its customers. But attorney James Moriarity, representing one of four Houston oilmen on trial, said nothing in the case linked the defendants to any wrongdoing.

"If they've spent five years investigating and they can't put in a single piece of evidence directly against these people, there may be a reason why," Moriarity said.

He indicated the Federal Energy Administration was responsible for boosting prices.

"Remember back in 1968 or 1969 when we didn't have the FEA, you could buy gas for 35 cents a gallon," Moriarity said. "It's growing like a cancer. Now you pay 75 cents and you can figure on paying about a buck and a half a gallon."

Additional summing up by attorneys is scheduled Thursday before the case goes to the jury.

Tax Exemption Sought For Wind Energy, Solar Heat Devices

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen. Bob Vale told a Senate committee Wednesday his bill exempting solar energy devices from property taxation would be especially helpful when oil supplies are depleted.

"It (the exemption) couldn't come at a more timely moment," said Vale, D-San Antonio. "One day the oil will run out."

Vale's proposed tax exemption also would apply to wind-powered energy devices.

His bill, which implements a 1978 constitutional amendment, was one of 14 tax relief proposals on the finance committee's calendar.

It was sent to a subcommittee, along with several measures providing property tax exemptions for the elderly and disabled and abolishing the property tax on two personal cars per family.

Vale said his solar-wind exemption would affect only on-site consumption. He said this means an industry could not export the energy and get the same tax break.

Warren Cole, president of Cole Solar Systems in Austin, said an electric hot water heater costs $150 while a solar unit for a typical home would cost $1,600 — but the fuel is free.

Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, presented the proposal to repeal property taxes on automobiles. "Automobiles in our society are necessary," he said, "yet they are the most taxed piece of property in existence."

City tax director Max Noller of Dallas supported the bill even though he said it would decrease city and school district taxes in his community by $3 million a year.

Executive Director Charles Matthews of the Texas Association of School Administrators estimated repeal of the auto tax would cost the 200 communities that collect it $34 million.

Three bills by Parker, Vale and Sen. Lloyd Doggett would implement the homestead exemptions included in the 1978 Tax Relief Amendment.

Basically, they would mandate a $10,000 exemption for persons 65 or older and freeze the valuation on their homes. Vale said his differed from Parker's bill in that a person would not have to apply each year for the exemption.

Doggett, D-Austin, said his bill would allow school districts to remove previous exemptions if they granted the full $10,000 exemption.

Doggett said he thought state reimbursement for local tax losses should be handled in a separate school finance bill.

"I'm for giving the elderly some help, but I sure don't want to hurt young people getting an education," said Sen. Raul Longoria, D-Edinburg.

Several spokesmen for retired persons and the elderly supported the proposed exemptions, but Ernest Cabe of the retired teachers said, "We don't want to be considered welfare cases. We just want to live at a fairly decent level."

"Under no circumstances should they (the elderly) be denied this exemption," said William Hamrick of Lubbock, a spokesman for the American Association of Retired Persons.

Bill Proposed To Aid State's Battered Wives

AUSTIN (AP) — A House committee approved a bill Wednesday to allow the state to help "battered wives" and other victims of family violence.

The Senate Human Resources Committee scheduled a hearing on a similar bill Wednesday.

Mary Ann Johnston of the Houston Area Women's Center Council for Abused Women said a shelter — the only one in Houston — opened last June and has been swamped by prospective residents.

"To date we have serviced 300 people. It isn't near enough," she told the House Human Services Committee.

The shelter, which can house 14 people at most, turned away 42 families last month, Mrs. Johnston added.

Rep. Lance Lalor, D-Houston, said his experimental bill would allow the state Department of Human Resources to provide technical assistance for 12 shelters around the state.

"What is needed is distance," Lalor said, adding that many victims can't find a way to escape from their homes.

State funds could not account for more than 50 percent of any shelter's budget, he said.

"The premise of this bill is we don't want the state to run the shelters. We think shelters only work when there is active community involvement," Lalor said.

Lalor said family violence was increasing at the same time that society's old way of handling it — the extended family — was growing farther apart.

"Our intake division is constantly swamped by requests for assistance from battered women and occasionally a battered man," said Douglas C. Warne of the Gulf Coast Legal Foundation.

Sophia Loren Says Jewelry Missing

HOUSTON (AP) — Sophia Loren may have become the victim of the fourth theft of jewelry from Houston hotel rooms in a week.

Officers say Miss Loren has reported jewelry valued between $8,000 and $10,000 missing, but detective J.C. Davis says it is possible it was stolen in another city.

Miss Loren, who was in Houston last Thursday and Friday to appear on a television talk show, said she missed the jewelry after returning to Los Angeles.

She stayed at the Galleria Plaza Hotel in Houston, where on Feb. 17 about $50,000 worth of jewelry was taken from the rooms of Liz Carpenter, former press secretary to Lady Bird Johnson, and Stephanie Phillips, producer of the musical, "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas."

Fish Fry Brings Filibuster Postponement

AUSTIN (AP) — Prospects of a fried fish lunch helped sidetrack the season's first filibuster in the Senate on Wednesday.

After rejecting two adjournment motions while Sen. A.R. Schwartz droned on in his well-practiced filibuster manner, the Senate finally agreed to reset a controversial debate for Monday morning.

Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, led fellow lawmakers in a quick retreat to a fresh fried fish luncheon sponsored by the Austin Chamber of Commerce as a pre-March 2 celebration of Texas Independence Day.

"I'm just voting 'yes' because I'm hungry," grumbled Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin.

Schwartz, D-Galveston, had rambled on for about an hour in opposition to a bill presented by Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls. He will have the floor to continue talking, if he wishes, when the bill comes up again Monday.

Farabee said the bill would require the Texas Railroad Commission to regulate motor carriers in Texas individually or as a group. It would give motor carriers the responsibility to jointly consider and propose "reasonable rates, charges and classifications." It also would excuse from Texas antitrust laws carriers that act as a group so long as they conform to commission regulations.

"This is price-fixing at its very worst," protested Schwartz. "It is not going to help the people of Texas.... The truckers' lobby wants this because it will help them lie, cheat and steal."

Farabee said his bill was in no way a price-fixing or deregulation measure. "If we don't get this, we may have to triple the employees at the Railroad Commission if they have to consider each rate request individually instead of as a group.... The whole procedure is open to the public and subject to action by the commission," he said.

"This bill says these truckers can meet and set their own rates and then take them to the Railroad Commission and say this is what we want," Schwartz said. "This whole procedure is to stifle competition."

"This is no more price-fixing than the way utility rates are fixed by the state," Farabee said. "There's a full public hearing just like there is before the Public Utility Commission."

The House passed, 130-6, and sent to the governor a bill dropping restrictions on the kinds of products the prison system can manufacture and sell to state, federal and foreign governments.

Existing law limits the Texas Department of Corrections to sales of license plates, bedding, leather goods and instructional aids for education of the blind, including Braille textbooks.

There was no opposition to the bill, even though it conceivably could result in greater competition for Texas industries.

House members approved, 141-0, and sent to the Senate a bill exempting public school vocational students from the child labor law.

Also sent to the Senate, on a 136-2 House vote, was a bill allowing counties to build satellite courthouses, jails, garages and office buildings outside the original boundaries of their county seats.

The House tentatively approved on voice vote a Senate bill requiring insurance policies to cover optometrists' services if they provide any kind of eye care benefits at all.

"There is no opposition to the bill. The medical association says it is okay with them," said Rep. Gerald Hill, D-Austin, the sponsor.

Chinese Porcelain Stolen From U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Law enforcement authorities are investigating the theft of several pieces of 18th century Chinese porcelain from the assistant secretary of state's dining room.

District of Columbia police say the porcelain, on loan to the State Department from its owners, is worth $11,000. They say the 11 pieces apparently were removed sometime over the weekend from a mahogany cabinet equipped with a burglar alarm.

Gail Serafaty, assistant department curator, said she discovered the porcelain was missing Monday morning.

PEOPLE PLACES THINGS

Carter Loss Predicted

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former presidential contender Eugene McCarthy says the administrations of Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford have been "incompetent," and he predicts Carter probably will lose if he seeks re-election.

McCarthy, a former U.S. senator from Minnesota, told the Los Angeles World Affairs Council it would be "miraculous" if Carter were to reverse his administration's present course.

"It's sort of cumulative incompetence," said McCarthy, who challenged Carter and Republican Ford for the presidency in 1976.

"You can call it active incompetence, which distinguishes it from Ford's, whose (administration) was passively incompetent. And the active incompetence is a little more dangerous," he said.

McCarthy, who also ran for president in 1968, said California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., Massachusetts Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, New York Gov. Hugh Carey and Carter — not necessarily in that order — are the most-likely Democratic presidential candidates next year.

McCarthy has no presidential plans, he said, except "sort of some standby things."

Congressmen's Wives To Tell

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Two U.S. congressmen's wives will be telling all about "Washington: Behind Open Doors" in the Ladies Home Journal magazine.

Rhoda Glickman, wife of U.S. Rep. Dan Glickman, D-Kan., and Kate Cavanaugh, wife of Rep. John Cavanaugh, D-Neb., had asked the magazine if it wanted a story about Vice President Walter Mondale's hobby — cooking. The editors, instead, asked for a regular column, said Mrs. Glickman.

The monthly reports, beginning in the magazine's March issue, Mrs. Glickman said, will be "gossipy" but not destructive to anyone.

Solar Cycle Has Builder Going

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It may not go Vroom-Vroom, but Jeff Dunan's Solar Cycle gets him there.

Powered by the sun, which activates a 1½-horsepower electric motor, Dunan, a part-time photographer, can go as fast as 30 mph on his odd-looking, bucket-seated contraption.

"It's like an electric kayak," he said Tuesday. "Once you're in it, it's like sitting in a shoe."

With gasoline rationing a renewed topic, Dunan believes the time is ripe for full-scale production of a 55-mph solar cycle that includes a comfortable bucket seat, a radio and a stereo cassette player — all for about $2,200.

"Despite what most people have been told, solar transportation is no longer 50 years down the road or 20 years down the road," he said.

Dunan said the sun provides unlimited range for daytime riding and at night the bike is equipped with a storage battery.

Cretans Riot Over Art Show

HERAKLION, Crete (AP) — Some 10,000 residents of this capital city of Crete milled in the streets and barricaded a museum Wednesday today to prevent departure of antiquities for exhibit in the United States and Europe.

The Greek government reportedly rushed in riot police and called on opponents to "respect democracy."

The unrest stems from conflicting reports that two pieces were damaged while being moved for shipment.

A first plane load has already arrived in the United States for showing at the New York Metropolitan Museum. The exhibits range in origin from the 10th century B.C. to the 14th A.D.

Six opposition Socialist Party parliamentary deputies and the mayor and municipal councillors led the occupation of Heraklion Archaeological Museum, police said.

A spokesman for the demonstrators said the protesters mobilized after information was received that five transport planes had arrived during the night from Athens, the Greek capital, carrying 197 riot policemen and 10 teargas-throwing armored trucks.

The spokesman said 500 more riot police and 20 trucks were expected during the day.

A police spokesman said the city's shops and schools had closed down in solidarity with the demonstrators, and that transport workers had ringed the museum with scores of trucks to bolster barricades.

Plane Crash Kills Oklahoma City Man

MCKINNEY (AP) — One Oklahoma man was killed and another seriously injured in the crash of a single-engine plane that went down in a muddy pasture near here Tuesday night.

Collin County deputies Wednesday identified the man killed as Dean Michael Muse, 38, of Oklahoma City. The survivor, Edward C. Pennington, 35, of Waukomis, Okla., was in serious condition at Dallas Parkland Hospital.

Their Cessna 182 crashed shortly before 10 p.m. Tuesday northwest of McKinney. Deputies said neither its destination nor its point of origin was known.

There were thunderstorms in the area at the time of the crash but no official cause has been given.

Another Carter May Run

ATLANTA (AP) — President Carter may not be the only member of his family running for federal office in 1980. His eldest son, Jack, says he may vie for the seat of Rep. Larry McDonald, D-Ga. The Atlanta Journal reported Wednesday.

Carter, 31, was quoted as saying, "If it falls into place as I think it probably will, then I will run."

There is speculation McDonald may run for Sen. Herman Talmadge's seat next year, but Carter said the congressman's plans are no factor in his decision. "I'm assuming he (McDonald) is going to run for re-election," said Carter, who is president of a small grain marketing firm.

Swimmers Figure In Suit

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Marathon swimmer Diana Nyad has a new obstacle in her way, a legal one.

Retired cookie baker Walter Poenisch, who claims he swam from Cuba to Florida, has filed a $1 million slander suit against Miss Nyad, who failed in a similar crossing of the Florida Straits last summer.

Poenisch, 65, charged in the suit filed Tuesday, that Miss Nyad's comments about his swim exposed him to "hatred, contempt and ridicule as well as great mental anguish."

Miss Nyad, 28, had been quoted as saying Poenisch was "a gimmick...a cheat...a big fraud."

The suit also seeks $500,000 from the International Swimming Hall of Fame Inc. and Richard Mullins, a Hall of Fame official.

Mullins was named for allegedly saying Poenisch left the water three times during his venture. Mullins on Tuesday said he could prove Poenisch slept in his boat's cabin at night while someone else swam for him.

Poenisch claims he completed the July swim in 33 hours and 35 minutes, but no independent observers witnessed the trek.

Politicking Ends For Lent

NAUGATUCK, Conn. (AP) — Mayor William Rado is either very religious or very confident. On Ash Wednesday, he announced he will give up campaigning for Lent, despite a primary in two weeks.

Rado, a three-term incumbent, vowed to refrain from all politicking, saying he believes voters in this town of 25,000 know him "well enough."

He faces a challenge from policeman Carl Tagget in the March 12 Democratic primary. Naugatuck's general election will be in May.

Hospital Adds Pizza, Hot Dogs

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — It may seem nutritional heresy, but children at several New England hospitals are saying good-bye to liver and hello to pizza, hamburgers and hot dogs.

"Most people consider pizza a junk food, but it's the only food on our menu that has bread, meat, cheese and tomato — something from each food group," said Kathy Manning, clinical dietitian at Rhode Island Hospital in Providence.

"We based our menu on what children like best, and it turns out they like plain food," she said Tuesday.

The most popular foods for patients at Children's Hospital in Boston are hamburgers, hot dogs, grilled cheese and chicken legs, said dietitian Linda Sweeney.

Hard Luck Politico Bitten By Wombat

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — City Councilman Victor Tedesco just doesn't have any luck when he tries to make friends with residents of the Como Zoo in St. Paul.

Several years ago when he was serving as St. Paul's parks commissioner Tedesco let a python wrap itself around him. But the snake put the squeeze on him and it took eight people to pry the reptile loose.

Tedesco tried again Tuesday when he attended a ground-breaking ceremony for a multi-million dollar renovation of the zoo.

This time it was Woscar the Wombat, an Australian marsupial resembling a small bear, who rebuffed Tedesco's advances.

"The wombat seemed quite unconcerned at this point," said Councilwoman Joanne Showalter. "It was eating the chair of the cab, biting anything that was close to him."

She and Tedesco were standing on the vehicle and photographers asked them to move closer to the wombat.

Woscar sidled up to Tedesco, started nibbling on his collar and then bit into his arm. The bite didn't break the skin, but it left a mark and Tedesco said it was painful.

Tedesco said he was just trying to be friendly. "I was scratching its neck, then it took a nip at me."

"I was just trying to get along with the animals," said Tedesco. "But sometimes the animals don't like me, and I guess the wombat's one of them."

U.S. Iranian Post Hit By Guerrillas

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Guerrillas invaded a U.S. intelligence-gathering station near Iran's border with the Soviet Union on Wednesday, but American officials said it was retaken by "friendly forces" and none of the technicians was harmed.

The station at Kabkan northeastern Iran near the border is the last of two secret U.S. installations used to monitor Soviet missile tests. The other was closed some time ago during the political chaos surrounding the overthrow of the Shah, who went into exile last month.

U.S. officials in Washington said there was no compromise of secret equipment, documents or materials in the station, but indicated American technicians may have blown up the secret monitoring equipment before leaving. The officials said the technicians, totaling about 20, were flown to Tehran.

Details Unknown
The American officials in Washington said their information did not indicate whether the guerrillas were right-wing or left-wing. They did not say what they meant by the station being back in friendly hands.

Monitoring facilities in Iran and Turkey keep track of Soviet missile tests by picking up radio telemetry, which tells American experts about the nature of the weapons tested.

Earlier Wednesday, in a move to gain maximum benefit from its oil riches, the government announced it will cut out a consortium of middlemen responsible for marketing most of the country's oil.

Hassan Nazih, new head of the National Iranian Oil Co. told thousands of oil workers that "the word consortium will, with the help of Allah be eliminated from Iran's vocabulary."

Foreigners Assailed
Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, who led the nation's Islamic revolution, said the revolution can succeed only if all foreign influence in the country is eradicated.

In other developments:
— Khomeini called for humanitarian treatment of any officials of the deposed Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's regime now under arrest. He said they should receive fair trials from open revolutionary courts. Khomeini's comments appeared to signal an end to executions following secret trials.

The Swiss National Bank disclosed it has launched an unprecedented inquiry to determine Iranian holdings in Swiss banks. A spokesman said the aim was to counter unrealistic estimates of the amount of money the Shah took out of Iran.

Approval Predicted
— Khomeini predicted voters will favor an Islamic republic in a referendum scheduled soon. He also warned the nation's press to avoid abusing its new freedom to "poison the atmosphere against the will of the people."

— Despite reports to the contrary, there is no indication the security of highly sensitive, U.S.-supplied military equipment in Iran has been compromised, high state and defense department officials told the U.S. Congress on Wednesday. And Khomeini tried to mend fences with Iran's military by announcing his opposition to a Communist plan for replacement of army with a "People's Army."

Nazih told The Associated Press that Iran is prepared to deal on an individual basis with companies in the consortium that sold 80 percent of the 5.4 million barrels Iran exported daily before the revolution. But any arrangement would not include the 18 cents a barrel discount given to the consortium by the Shah.

The implication of Nazih's statements was that Iran will take over foreign sale of its oil and that the consortium companies will be able to buy petroleum only as direct customers.

Under the Shah, British Petroleum was the largest member of the consortium, with a 40 percent share. Shell Petroleum N.V., a Netherlands-based member of the international Royal Dutch-Shell group owned 14 percent, and the French oil corporation, Compagnie Française des Pétroles held 6 percent. Five American oil companies — Exxon, Gulf, Mobil, Standard Oil of California and Texaco — owned 7 percent a piece.

The IRICON Group, comprising five American companies — Atlantic Richfield, American Independent Oil, Continental Oil, Getty Oil, Charter Oil and Standard Oil of Ohio — owns 5 percent of the Iran oil consortium.

A principal complaint against the consortium by the new revolutionary government was its sale of Iranian oil to South Africa and Israel, both of which are now banned from receiving further supplies.

Nazih said he has uncovered that secret companies have been formed in Israel, West Germany and Switzerland to market Iranian oil, presumably to the Jewish state and South Africa.

The oil company head says he will not reveal the target levels for Iran's oil production and exports until the first tanker is loaded at Kharg Island in the Persian Gulf on Monday.

It will mark the resumption of exports following a four-month shutdown caused by anti-shah strikes that has cost the country $7.2 billion in lost oil revenues. However, Nazih said oil workers were determined to raise production to the six million barrels a day under the Shah "just to prove we can do it, even if it is only for one day."

However, oil industry sources predict production will level off at about three million barrels a day, with 2.4 million going for export.

According to Tehran press reports Iran's initial oil exports will be drawn from six million barrels of crude still in storage tanks at Kharg Island.

Nazih earlier announced he expected spot sales to bring $18 to $20 a barrel, well above the benchmark of $13.33 set by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. Several other OPEC nations have raised prices, however, as the cutoff of Iranian oil has decreased the world's oil supply.

China Hints Displeasure At Objections To War

PEKING (AP) — Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal was kept waiting 45 minutes Wednesday by China's top-ranking leader and there were signs the Chinese are tired of U.S. complaints about their war in Vietnam.

Blumenthal told reporters after a meeting with Premier and Communist Party Chairman Hua Kuo-feng that China "must be taken seriously" in its claims the war will be short.

Blumenthal said he doubted the delay before his meeting with Hua was an expression of Chinese annoyance, but added that Hua did not explain or apologize for it in his opening remarks.

Blumenthal told reporters he told Hua of the Carter administration's opposition to the war and of its wish for a "speedy end" to the conflict.

A Chinese official who did not want to be named told reporters, "The military front is going on quite well." He dismissed Vietnamese claims of as many as 18,000 Chinese casualties in the 11-day war. "I think the people in the world by now would feel the exaggeration of such reports," he said, but declined to give a casualty figure.

Blumenthal indicated he is at least partly persuaded by the arguments of Chinese leaders that the war in Vietnam will be brief, and said he has informed President Carter of this.

"Their repeated emphasis on the fact the war is of limited duration, of limited objectives and that they don't want to be engaged in a larger war, a wider war... must be taken seriously," he said.

Blumenthal's 75-minute meeting with Hua was the third time he has criticized the war so far on his nine-day trip.

It appeared the Chinese leadership may feel it has heard enough. Reporters were told by the Chinese that the meeting was scheduled for 5 p.m., but it did not begin until 5:45 p.m.

Blumenthal remained in his guest house here until he received a call at 5:35 p.m. that Hua was ready to receive him.

Publicly, U.S. officials discounted the delay. "It's not unusual at all, this is the way things are done here," said J. Stapleton Roy, the second-ranking U.S. diplomat here.

There has been confusion over whether Chinese officials would attend the opening of the United States' embassy here today. Blumenthal is to represent President Carter at the ceremonies. It will be the first U.S. embassy in mainland China since 1949.

The U.S. Liaison office has changed plans several times. It was decided that the Chinese would be invited to a reception after the ceremony, instead of to the flag-raising.

Roy said the confusion in the plans for the opening ceremony resulted from difficulties in coordinating the opening of the U.S. embassy in Peking with the opening of the Chinese Embassy in Washington. He said the Chinese were not inviting American officials to their flag-raising.

Asked if the decision by both governments not to invite each other's officials to the openings could be interpreted as reflecting a strain in relations, Roy said, "It would be a very serious problem if either side interpreted it that way."

Leonard Woodcock, the new U.S. ambassador to Peking, did not arrive here for the ceremony, reportedly because he couldn't book a flight in the short time since his Senate confirmation earlier this week.

Mutual Withdrawal Proposed By China

held so far during his nine-day trade and economy negotiations.

Reliable analysts in Bangkok said the provincial capital of Lang Son had not fallen to the Chinese. They said Vietnamese civilians had been evacuated from the city, located on a vital highway link to Hanoi, 80 miles north of the capital and 11 miles south of the Chinese border.

The analysts said they had evidence regular Vietnamese troops were being sent to the Lang Son front. To date, regional and militia forces are believed to have carried most of the fighting.

Battle Predicted
The Lang Son battle has been predicted since last week based on the massing of troops and artillery in the area. Much fighting has been reported in the hills around Dong Dang, seven miles northwest of Lang Son at the entrance to the Munan Pa.

The Vietnamese broadcast also reported battles in the seacoast province of Quang Ninh, where it claimed 400 Chinese casualties at clashes three and six miles inside the border. A third battle zone north of Hanoi, in Cao Bang, was reported where the broadcast claimed to have put 360 Chinese out of action.

The casualty claims were impossible to verify. Western correspondents have been barred by China and Vietnam from the war front except for one brief visit to Lang Son during a recent U.S. congressional visit to Hanoi.

Most of the reports about the hostilities comes from official Chinese and Vietnamese broadcasts, intelligence analysts in Bangkok, Tokyo, Hong Kong and Washington, or from officials in Peking and Hanoi.

In a commentary reflecting top-level Kremlin views, the Soviet Communist Party newspaper Pravda said Peking must be forced to cease its "irresponsible adventurist game" with its ally Vietnam before the "war conflagration" spreads.

The Communist Party newspaper's 2,000-word article restated the position Moscow announced in a policy statement 10 days ago warning China to stop the invasion "before it is too late." The question of whether and how the Soviet Union might take direct action in the conflict still was left unanswered.

Soviet Planes Tracked
In Tokyo, Japan Defense Agency officials reported two Soviet TU-95 Bear high-altitude reconnaissance planes were tracked flying back and forth along the southern Japanese coast for more than four hours Wednesday.

A spokesman for the agency said the flights, the fourth such occurrence since the war broke out between China and Vietnam — became longer each time. "They have their reasons," the spokesman said.

The Soviet Union is a firm supporter of Vietnam, and has several naval vessels cruising off the Vietnamese coast in the South China Sea. The activity has been interpreted as a show of support for Vietnam and as possible reconnaissance activity aimed at keeping tabs on the conflict.

Agency Report Protested By Judge Shaw

outlined procedures for excusing absences.

But on Oct. 27, 1978, his board colleagues rejected his recommendation that OIC's contract not be renewed.

Continuing controversy since then about OIC's explanations of how money was recovered and whether learning center records were changed brought the federal investigator into the case.

Shaw, who said he "just wanted the program straightened out," noted Wednesday that his resignation from the planning council, which recommends action on CETA programs to the full SPAG board, does not mean he intends "to put my head in the sand."

Remains On SPAG Board
"I won't lose interest in reviewing material received," said Shaw, who will remain on the SPAG board.

Shaw also enthusiastically endorsed Omar Harvey's pledge Tuesday to take a "hard look" at CETA programs in Texas.

Harvey, new director of the Texas Department of Community Affairs, an agency that distributes more than $63 million a year in CETA grants, said his office more closely will monitor auditing, priorities and program results by CETA contractors.

"I certainly welcome the attitude of the governor's office," Shaw said.

The county commissioners court Monday appointed Biggs to replace Shaw on the planning council. Commissioner Jim Lancaster also indicated he would be willing to be the SPAG board's liaison on CETA programs.

U.S., Chinese To Open Ties

In the meantime, State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said all business will be conducted through the Taiwanese institute.

For the most part, both entities will employ government personnel who will be granted leaves of absence by the government during their service at the respective agencies.

The new relationships have some bizarre aspects. For example, the United States says there is but one China and that Taiwan is a part of it.

But in the sale of military equipment, the United States clearly is pursuing a two-China policy. It will not sell arms to China but has agreed to continue the sale of defensive military equipment to Taiwan.

The U.S. defense treaty with Taiwan also will continue in effect until next Jan. 1.

But the Congress has felt that the new arrangements do not protect Taiwanese security adequately.

The administration has reluctantly gone along with draft legislation declaring that any solution to the Taiwan problem involving the use of force will be considered a threat to the Western Pacific and of "grave concern" to the United States.

COUNTERSTROKES—Map locates Menton, about 6 miles inside China, where Chinese officials said a Vietnamese force attacked only to be repelled, and Tunneng, which they said was shelled by Vietnamese. ## Fugitive Robber Miffed At Ad's Use Of Name

LONDON UPI — British Leyland's new advertising campaign for its compact car has run into trouble with great train robber Ronald Biggs.

One of the large wall posters in the $800,000 advertising campaign boasts that the car "nips in and out like Ronald Biggs."

Biggs, now living in Brazil after escaping from British prison, was quoted by a London newspaper as saying he might sue the British auto giant for unauthorized use of his name.

"I know nothing about it," he was quoted as saying by phone from his hideaway in Rio de Janeiro. "No one approached me to ask my permission and I will be talking to my lawyer to take action from here."

It sounds to me as if it's a little bit rude. I think I'll have to sue them."

An executive of the advertising agency said the company had "done its level best" to get Biggs' approval.

Biggs, 48, was one of the 15 men convicted of hijacking a Glasgow-to-London mail train Aug. 8, 1963 and stealing $7.3 million.

He staged a spectacular escape from London's Wandsworth prison in 1965 and ultimately landed in Brazil, which barred extradition because he had fathered a child by a Brazilian woman.

Swimming Facility For Schools Studied

recommendations he sent to the school board.

The present cost of a swimming facility would be about $700,000, Irons estimates.

Irons said he and his staff support swimming as both a general course offering and a competitive sport. The problem, however, is the cost, he said.

"Frankly, I don't know where we'd get the money."

A pool would cost too much to fund in any one year out of the school system's maintenance and operations budget, Irons said. Consequently, he believes such a project would require a bond issue.

YWCA Pool Now Used
The school district currently fields competitive swim teams, which work out early in the morning at the YWCA, administrators explained. Although all high schools are eligible, only Coronado and Monterey presently have teams.

A drawback to participation has been the difficulty in arranging for a swimming site and time, said Dr. E.C. Leslie, assistant superintendent for administration.

The YWCA has been "very cooperative" but has been unable to allow teams to practice in the afternoons, he said.

The school district does not now offer swimming as a physical education course. However, school trustees have authorized Lubbock High to initiate such a course next year, provided the district can rent swim facilities from a private club or perhaps the YMCA.

Forbes and Crawford envision the district eventually building a centrally located swimming center that would serve all of the city's public schools for both general instruction and competition.

Because of its location and its "magnet" approach to draw more students, Lubbock High would be an ideal site for a pool, trustees said. Forbes said the pool could be built on Chapman Field, or the district could buy some downtown property.

Up To Taxpayers
Crawford said a swimming facility would be an "expensive undertaking." By having the proposal as part of a bond election, "it would be strictly up to the people" on whether they want to finance such a project, he said.

The school district's $11.9 million bond program is in limbo pending an outcome of the district's desegregation case. The case is before the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Carter Support Seen For Egyptian Plan

because "it's more convenient," spokesman Carter said.

At the White House, presidential press secretary Jody Powell said Begin did not want the talks held at Camp David. He said the talks would be "presumably at the White House" and would not speculate on how long they might last.

Begin will stay at Blair House across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House. Seclusion at Camp David would have cut him off from public view and deepened the impression that Carter was applying pressure to get concessions from him.

The president had indicated at a news conference on Tuesday that he would take Begin to the isolated Maryland mountain retreat for their "frank discussion of all the issues." He had called Begin earlier in the day to ask him to come to Washington.

An American official who asked not to be identified said Carter and Begin almost certainly would hold their first meeting this evening. He said they would probably meet again Friday and perhaps after sundown ends the Jewish Sabbath on Saturday. The schedule beyond that point was described as open.

Meanwhile, a report broadcast in Israel quoted Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan as saying President Carter had told him that if a settlement is not achieved in 10 days of talks the United States will reassess its policy in the Middle East.

Dayan gave the account of his meeting with Carter to the Israeli Knesset's foreign affairs and security committee, according to the report, monitored here.

But Powell, at a White House briefing, called the report "inaccurate" and said, "We certainly have set no deadline in this matter." He added: "I seriously doubt the foreign minister made such a statement."

Vance, after briefing the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on the Carter-Begin talks, said all participants had agreed last week that "it was of the utmost importance to conclude these negotiations as soon as possible." But he said he does not recall the president setting a 10-day deadline.

"I don't want to characterize it as a last chance," Vance said of the upcoming talks.

Soft Drink Machines Targets Of City Burglars

A burglar got away with more than $100 in cash Wednesday in an early morning raid on a local motel.

Police said the bandit broke into the Alamo Motel, 608 Idalou Road, through a sliding glass window sometime during the predawn hours Wednesday and rifled a cash box and a cigarette machine, both inside the motel's office.

The motel manager said he didn't know exactly how much was taken from the cash box, but a police report stated that $102 was removed from the cigarette machine.

Coin-hungry intruders broke into a soft drink machine at Forrest Lumber Co., 1300 4th St., during the early hours of Wednesday. Police said there was no way to know exactly how much change was taken from the machine.

Aside from the pair of break-ins, criminal activities Wednesday were largely confined to automobiles.

Simon Ochoa said he went out to his car, parked in a lot at 2000 5th St., early

Wednesday and found that someone had stripped the vehicle of its tires and wheels, leaving it flat on the ground.

Ochoa, who reported to police that even the lug nuts were missing, said the missing equipment was valued at about $700.

A cassette deck, a pair of speakers and several cassettes were removed from a car belonging to Marvin Burleson early Wednesday. Burleson said the car was parked in the driveway of his 2506 23rd St. residence when the burglary occurred. He estimated his loss at approximately $400.

John Haynes of 1001 University Ave. said he was victimized by a tire-slasher Wednesday. He said his car, parked on the second tier of a garage at that address, had two slashed tires worth $200.

A Dunbar High School student reported to police that someone had taken 20 tapes, worth $120, from his car after he had parked it at school Wednesday.

An 18-year-old Texas Tech coed told police she was raped about 2:45 a.m. Wednesday at a southside apartment complex. She declined to file charges, saying she just wanted to go home.

charges, adding, "I just want to go home."

The woman said she had left the apartment of a man she had met earlier in the night at a Lubbock club because she was "scared." She said she was knocking on doors trying to find a phone when she was confronted by a Mexican-American man, described as in his 20s or 30s, with a medium build and wearing blue jeans.

Reports indicate the man ran up behind the Tech student outside the complex and asked what she was doing. The man, who was not armed, said he could help her, then covered her mouth, forced her to the ground and raped her.

The woman, after the assault, ran to the manager's apartment where police were called. While police were questioning the victim, the man she had met earlier came to the apartment and asked police if they had seen a blond woman in the area. He said he and the woman went to his apartment after they met at a club but that she had disappeared.

The coed would not say why she left the man's apartment, but reports indicate he is not a suspect in the case.

The young woman, who left when her roommate arrived, refused to go to the hospital and said she would not file charges.

In another incident, police captured two Lubbock men about 4 a.m. Wednesday on the roof of the Town Draw bar at 1801 19th St.

The officers were answering an alarm at the nightspot when they found the two burglary suspects, ages 23 and 24, hiding on the roof. Inside the business, a duffel bag containing $240 cash was found on top of the bar. A wire leading through an air conditioner vent on the roof was attached to the bag, according to reports.

Another $100 in cash and checks, thought to have been taken from the bar, allegedly was found in one of the suspect's socks while the two men were being booked into the county jail.

Justin Porter, a bartender at a club in the 1700-block of Clovis Road, said he was assaulted about 8:40 p.m. Wednesday by four men who were causing a disturbance at the nightspot.

He said he asked two of the men, who were playing pool, to take off their hats because of club rules. One of the suspects allegedly told Porter not to tell him what to do, and then struck him with a pool cue.

The bartender said he ordered the two men to leave the club, which prompted all four suspects to begin beating him with their pool cues. Reports indicate a security guard grabbed a gun and helped break up the fight, and the suspects eventually were pushed out the front door.

Police arriving on the scene said they heard gunfire, but no one was seriously injured and no arrests had been made by early today.

Two female employees at a quick-serve restaurant in the 1500-block of Avenue Q called police about 3 a.m. Wednesday, saying they wanted to leave work but were afraid because a man was sitting in a car outside the business.

Officers reported that when they arrived they searched the man and found bullets in the suspect's coat pocket, plus a loaded .32 automatic pistol under the car seat.

The 27-year-old Lubbock man was taken into custody and booked for unlawful concealment of a weapon.

A 15-year-old girl told police she was with a friend walking in the alley of the 3700-block of Uteca Avenue about 3:45 p.m. Tuesday when a man jumped out from behind a trash dumpster with his pants down to his knees.

The girl, who along with her friend fled from the accoster, described him as white and 17 to 18 years old.

Congress Told Security Not Breached In Iran

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite reports to the contrary, there is no indication the security of highly sensitive, U.S.-supplied military equipment in Iran has been compromised, the Carter administration told Congress Wednesday.

A Pentagon official also said privately that the new revolutionary government loyal to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini is taking a "highly responsible" attitude toward Iran's weaponry.

"The conversations we have had so far with the new government make it quite clear that they intend to support the equipment with a flow of replacement parts from the United States," said the official who declined to be identified.

Iran has purchased American-made small arms such as rifles and major weaponry, including 78 F-14 warplanes. Questions had been raised about the security of technical manuals that would tell knowledgeable engineers about the workings of the highly sophisticated U.S.-built F-14 fighter plane and Phoenix missile system, and how to counter them.

Lucy Wilson Benson, undersecretary of state for security assistance, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee the United States made no attempt to move or destroy sensitive weapons systems in Iran after the fall of the shah "because that equipment is owned by the government of Iran."

"We do not have any legal right to destroy or remove it," she said. "It was also made clear that any attempt to tamper with it would be considered an act of sedition by the Khomeini government."

Some U.S. officials, declining to be identified, insisted that despite the Capitol Hill testimony, they still have questions about the security of the vital technical manuals.

During the hearing, Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., said he understands that highly secret operating manuals for some of the most sensitive military equipment owned by Iran already have been compromised.

"We do not have any reason to suppose that is true," Mrs. Benson told reporters later. "The security arrangements in Iran have been very, very good," she said. "We have no reason to believe that the security of this equipment has been compromised."

SPAG Chief G.T. Mayes Dies At 58

George Truett Mayes, executive director of the South Plains Association of Governments, died at 6:50 p.m. Wednesday in West Texas Hospital.

He was raised in Ralls, where he graduated from high school.

County Judge Rodrick Shaw, assistant executive director of SPAG, said that Mayes "was looked upon as a good friend by all SPAG members."

Medlin Carpenter, SPAG board chairman, said, "He was probably too good for his own good. He tried to help people help themselves. He did an outstanding job for West Texas."

Man Can Hear After 28 Years Of Silence

PORTERVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Bobby Jimenez says he was driving home from work when he saw two streaks of orange light and heard an explosion — the first sound he's been able to detect since he was 2.

Dr. Robert Mekemson, an ear specialist in nearby Visalia, said Tuesday that the 30-year-old janitor's cure was "unheard of in the medical profession."

"The thing about medicine is that there's nothing that is 100 per cent," said Mekemson. "If I was that fella, I think I'd go to church this week."

Law enforcement officials said they had received no other reports of the bright flashes Jimenez said he saw Monday.

"We're assuming it was in his head," said Sgt. Larry Dean. "If his eardrums popped, that might have made the noise and it could have affected his vision."

Barbara Dodson, a volunteer worker with the deaf here, said Jimenez told her it was the first he could hear since a bout of childhood spinal meningitis at age 2.

"I think it's a miracle and so does Sgt. Richard Cooksey," said Mrs. Dodson, who has known Jimenez for many years.

Cooksey called Mrs. Dodson after Jimenez was taken to Sierra View Hospital here in a disoriented state.

"I realized there was something different about him," Mrs. Dodson said. "I asked him if he could hear, and he said 'yes.'"

When Jimenez's hearing was last tested, doctors found he had five percent hearing in one ear and none in the other. He has communicated mostly in sign language.

Mrs. Dodson said that, as the hours went by, Jimenez' guttural speech, characteristic of the deaf, improved from what she called "grunts" to the point where he could answer simple questions.

In an interview with reporters, clicking cameras and the sounds of tape recorders bothered Jimenez so much that he stuffed tissue paper in his ears.

Amin, On Defensive, Calls For Peace

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Ugandan President Idi Amin, apparently desperate, sought peace Wednesday amid reports of repeated victories by Tanzanian troops in the four-month-old war.

In a Uganda Radio broadcast monitored in Nairobi, Amin asked Kenya, Zaire, Sudan, Rwanda and Burundi to try to persuade Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere to accept Organization of African Unity peace efforts.

In his capital of Dar-Es Salaam, Nyerere said the war "could end tomorrow" if Uganda and the OAU would agree to meet four of his conditions.

Nyerere said in a broadcast that the fighting could be stopped if the OAU agreed to condemn Amin for invading Tanzania, if Amin would agree to renounce his claim over a section of Tanzania, pledge never to invade Tanzania again and agree to pay compensation for damage done during the October invasion.

The Ugandan broadcast appeared to knock down rumors that Amin and his family had fled Uganda, but it underlined Amin's plight.

Uganda began the war four months ago by seizing a part of northwestern Tanzania, which Amin claimed was part of his Oregon-sized central African nation.

The Tanzanians have been reported fighting in Uganda for several weeks, but have officially encouraged the image that they are supplying a supporting role to exiled Ugandans who have returned to oust Amin.

Amin and Nyerere have traded insults ever since Amin overthrew former Ugandan President Milton Obote, a personal friend of Nyerere, on Jan. 25, 1971, and established himself as president-for-life. Western diplomats reached by telephone in Kampala said Tanzanian army regulars, accompanied by some anti-Amin Ugandan exiles, were on the doorstep of Mbarara and Masaka, two garrison towns in southern Uganda.

They said the Tanzanian advance had halted but that there appeared little that the fired Ugandan units could do to keep the invaders from moving on the capital of Kampala, 130 miles north of the border.

Kampala was reported calm, with no sign that the 3,000 Westerners in the country were preparing to flee.

Time Running Out For Several Veteran's Education Programs

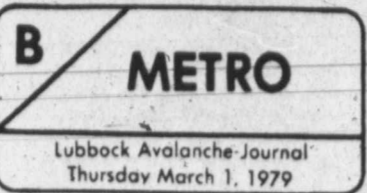

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Vietnam veteran who has had a tough time in civilian life and who is unaware of the military benefits that might improve his situation is the focus of a Veterans Administration campaign to make those benefits known.

Operation Outreach is an attempt by the VA to "get the vet who is living in a shell and get him back into the mainstream," according to Robert Grisham, assistant veterans services officer for the VA.

He said that most veterans are aware of the benefits they may have earned as a serviceman, but the VA is "still looking for the down-and-outs."

Such veterans have not applied for benefits either because they are unaware of them or because they associate the VA with the military and an unpopular war.

"The Vietnam War was not a popular war," said Grisham, "and the average GI went against his will. So some are turned off by the procedures of the military and they see the VA as another extension of the federal bureaucracy."

Grisham, who is chairman for Operation Outreach, said the program is aimed at educating Vietnam veterans about all the benefits available to them. They are concentrating on Vietnam veterans chiefly because of a 10-year time limit on the educational benefits.

The servicemen have 10 years from date of discharge to make use of the educational benefits of the GI Bill. Since many Vietnam era servicemen were released in the early 70s, the deadline for the end of the time limit is fast approaching.

The concentration on the educational opportunities is the prime concern of another VA program, Operation Boost, which was initially begun in 1978 in 11 states where GI Bill participation was less than 50 percent.

The campaign was later extended to include the entire country and is a close counterpart with Operation Outreach. "Anytime we talk about Outreach, we talk about Boost, too," said Grisham.

He said that the VA has always had some type of Outreach program, but the current one is aimed at Vietnam War veterans and is also "more aggressive."

"Max Cleland (VA administrator) commented that the VA always said, here we are — come to see us," said Grisham. "But no more — we are using salesmanship and we're trying to reach out and get them."

He said that the veterans need to be aware of such benefits as pension, compensation and loan guarantees, as well as the educational benefits.

He added that not all of the veterans who come to the VA about benefits will be eligible and "that creates a problem; but we have to tell them."

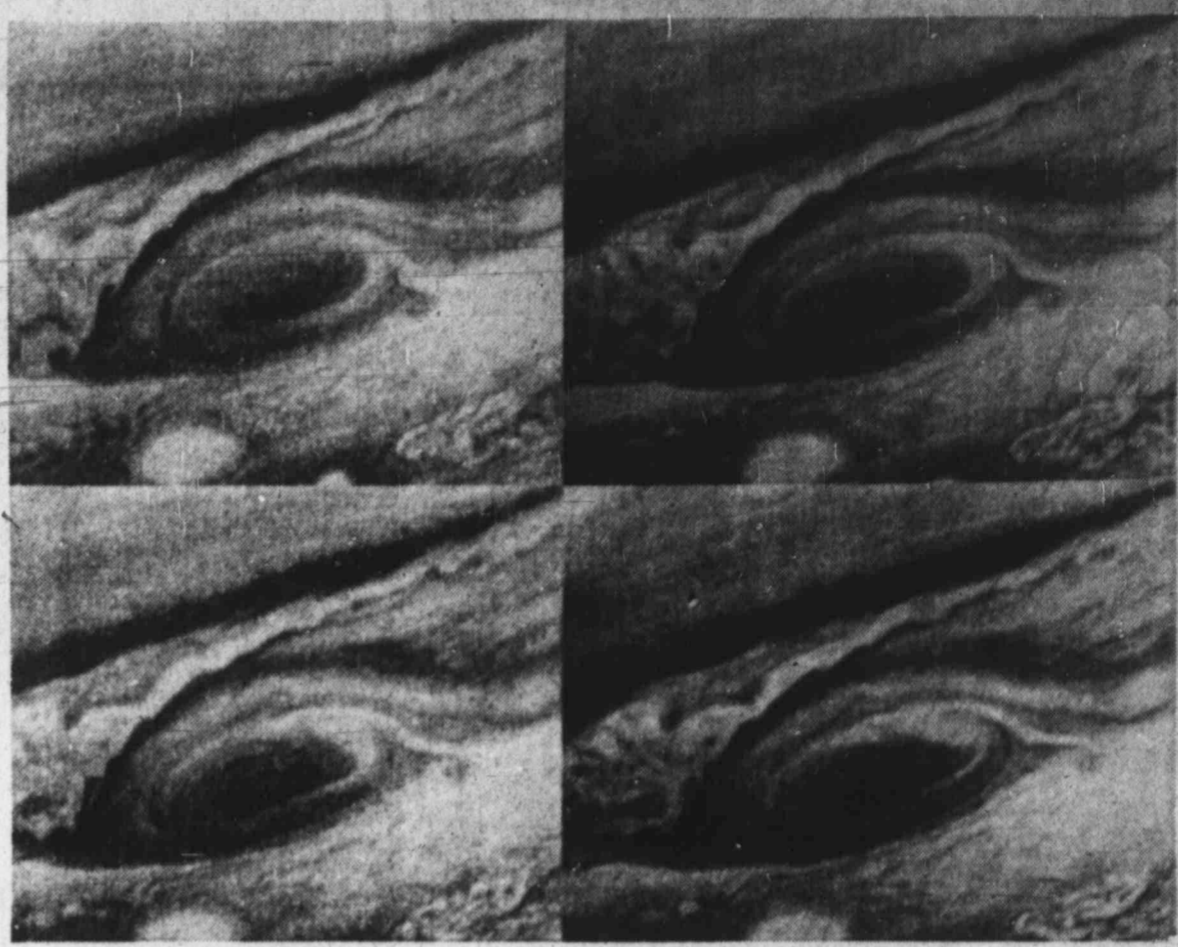

Outreach is "an ongoing thing," said Grisham, "and we're not playing a numbers game. He said that the number of veterans responding to the program is small — "It wouldn't astound anyone. But if we can help those few, it's good."

Conditional Support Of Premier Pledged

ROME (AP) — Italian Communist Party leaders said Wednesday they would support premier-designate Ugo La Malfa in his efforts to form a new government provided he grants ministerial posts to pro-Communist politicians now sitting in Parliament as independents.

La Malfa, 75, leader of the tiny, pro-Western Republican Party, is the first non-Christian Democrat appointed to form a government in this NATO country since 1945. He was reported in favor of the Communists' demand, but its acceptance also hinges on the Christian Democrats' willingness to agree to it.

Premier Giulio Andreotti's government broke up in January when his Christian Democratic Party rejected a Communist demand for cabinet posts.

TRACKING RED SPOT — These pictures of the planet Jupiter's Great Red Spot were taken Feb. 2 and 3 and were released Wednesday by Jet Propulsion Laboratories in Pasadena, Calif. The photos were made when Voyager I was about 20 million miles from Jupiter. They were taken one rotation of the planet apart, so that together they depict four days in the life of the Great Red Spot. (AP Laserphoto)

Southwestern Loses Bid To Serve Annexed Area

A-J News Services

Southwestern Public Service Co. Wednesday lost its bid to serve a 143-acre area annexed by the City of Lubbock in 1976.

The Austin Court of Civil Appeals said the Texas Public Utility Commission was correct in turning down the company's request for a certificate of service.

Before the annexation, the area had been served by South Plains Electric Cooperative. After annexation, Southwestern and municipally owned Lubbock Power and Light wanted to serve the area, south of 82nd Street and east of University Avenue.

The city simply started extending its power lines into the annexed area on grounds that LP&L is obligated to serve municipal residents. South Plains Electric Cooperative stepped in and objected.

The Public Utility Commission in 1977 tried to settle the matter by allowing South Plains Electric Cooperative to continue to serve the area, by granting a certificate of service to LP&L, even though the city had not asked for one; and by denying a certificate to Southwestern Public Service, which had asked for one.

The commission's precedent-setting ruling resulted in further legal action. First, Southwestern sued to try to get permission to serve the area. And South Plains Electric Cooperative sued to try to stop LP&L.

The Austin Court of Civil Appeals settled the first matter Wednesday by denying Southwestern's request.

Southwestern had argued that its franchise agreement with the city entitled the company to serve all municipal territory. The Public Utility Commission denied that claim, a district court later upheld the commission, and the appeals court now has upheld the district court.

Southwestern's insistence that it somehow has a franchise right, granted by the City of Lubbock, which has been impaired in violation of the utility's constitutional right, is found to be without merit, the appellate court said.

Legal challenges to LP&L's authorization to serve the area in question still are pending before the Seventh Court of Civil Appeals.

Sulfur Deposits Not Harmful To Canned Food

COLLEGE STATION (Special) — Black spots on the inside of cans mean sulfur is present, but the food is still safe, reports Mary K. Sweeten, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Certain foods do liberate sulfur, and that causes brown, black or blue spots on cans. Tomato sauce is one example.

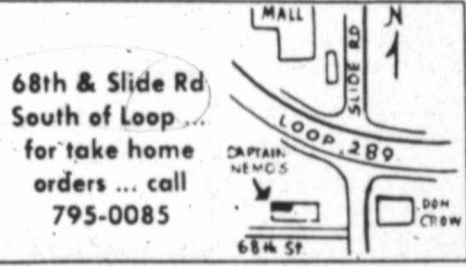

Although the discoloration may occur in sealed cans during processing, a federal regulation prohibits the use of possibly dangerous food containers.

Use of any food container that would transfer a harmful substance to the food in the can would be a violation of the Food Additives Amendment of the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, Mrs. Sweeten explains.

The bidding was loose and free. Everyone had something to say, which frequently is the case when points are fairly equally divided. North's double of four clubs, which seems unwise because East-West would make the contract, was based on his strong diamond holding. South, with a strong spade holding and very little defense capabilities, bid game. It seems surprising no one doubled.

West's lead of the queen of hearts was imaginative and the defense quickly rattled off three heart tricks. West's bidding had indicated to East that West held both the king of clubs and the ace of diamonds.

The ace of diamonds was not going anywhere. If it was fated to take a trick, it could do so at any time. If the defense was entitled to a club trick, it was incumbent upon East to play a fourth round of hearts to make West ruff South's now-established jack of hearts to prevent declarer from discarding dummy's club loser on the heart jack.

Therefore, the heart lead was indeed made, and declarer was defeated. He had to over-ruff West's nine, and there was no way to avoid an eventual club loser.

Defense is more difficult than declarer play, but both depend on making the right play at the right time. East, exercising logic, knew the fourth round of hearts was a play that could not wait, while any other defense could.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: So many wives write to you and say, "My husband is a woman chaser. I'm attractive, I've kept my figure, and I'm a good bed-partner. Why does he run around?"

As a woman, you can't possibly provide an answer. As a man who has been happily married for 17 years, I CAN.

My wife is beautiful, charming, and extremely competent — a lady in the drawing room and a tiger in the bedroom. Yet I've had at least 15 affairs in the last ten years. Why? Because there are only two kinds of husbands — those who cheat and those who would like to but are afraid of getting caught.

Men cheat because it is normal to want a new conquest. The desire for variety is as old as man himself. So please get with it, Ann, and tell it like it is. — No Name, Of Course

Dear N.N.: Since you point out that I, a woman, cannot speak for men, how can you, an admitted bedroom-hopper and self-proclaimed tomcat, speak for the decent, mature husbands of the world?

A man who describes his wife as "beautiful, charming, extremely competent, and a great bed-partner" and admits to 15 affairs in the last ten years should take a good look at himself. He should also take a look at what he is "conquering." Any man can find a woman who will sleep with him — if he sets his standards low enough.

Dear Ann Landers: Here's an open letter to our daughter and our daughter-in-law. I must confess I don't have the nerve to tell them to their faces:

Dear Girls: We apologize for being in our early 50s — young enough to enjoy going away weekends. This means we aren't "on call" to take care of your children so you can take off.

When you were growing up we didn't push you off on OUR parents. Your dad and I stayed home, took you with us, or saved our money so we could hire someone for a few days — and we couldn't afford it very often.

Now it's our turn to go and your turn to stay home or make other arrangements. When your children are grown, you will want your freedom and you will have earned it. You can then tell THEM what I am telling you. Raise your own. We did. — Mama And Papa

Dear Mama and Papa: Well said. I endorse every word.

Dear Ann: About that letter from the man who was mad because his wife embarrassed him by phoning friends, relatives, the hospitals and the police because he wasn't home by 3:00 a.m.: I, too, waited until 3:00 a.m. before I started to phone the hospitals and police because I didn't want to embarrass my husband. He wasn't embarrassed. He was dead.

It's been a year since that night and my problems are now of another nature. It seems I have become a dumping ground for everyone I know. They telephone and come to my home to pour out their troubles. I guess the message is, "You aren't the only one..."

Do these people think they will make me feel better by telling me how terrible their lives are? I have all I can do to keep going. Listening to their troubles doesn't help me. I find it depressing. — Stay Home If You Can't Be Cheerful excuse — it's the real thing."

CONFIDENTIAL to How do You Explain It? There is no explanation — at least I don't know of one. But it might be of help if I quote that delicious wit Peter Laurence's often-proved principle: "Most great discoveries are made by mistake, and the bigger the funding, the longer it takes to make the mistake." Laurence also added, "Ignorance is no

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

BY DR. PAUL E. RUBLE

Dear Dr. Ruble: Please explain the term "sickle cell anemia." Who does it afflict and what are the symptoms? What is the prognosis? My friend has this and I would greatly appreciate anything you can tell me about it. — P.M.

Sickle cell anemia is an inherited red blood cell defect. It affects blacks — almost exclusively. The red cells become fragile, take on a sickle or half-moon like shape, tend to clump abnormally, and lose their oxygen-bearing capacity. Crises may arise in situations where outside oxygen supply is low (high altitude, diving, mummification and anesthesia).

The chief symptom is pain, usually in the stomach or intestines. Throat and chest infections are common, but other organs may be affected. Gallstones may form because of the increased red blood cell destruction.

The results of intensive research in recent years have been disappointing. No way has yet been found to correct this defect, and treatment for other forms of anemia (iron supplements, etc.) are of no benefit. Yet, the outlook for sickle cell anemia patients has improved with modern medicine and treatment.

Screening is important, and mass programs were begun a few years back to identify persons with the sickle cell trait. In one form of the disease there is no pain, although there may be blood in the urine. This may be mistaken for evidence of a kidney problem. For this reason it is well for susceptible persons to be screened for the sickle cell trait and get proper counseling.

Energy Agent Gives Advice

Americans are encouraged to conserve energy even more this year than last. Mrs. Jane Cohen, extension agent for the Home Energy Program of Texas Agricultural Extension Service, offers some home energy tips:

1) More energy is needed to prepare food for the table than to grow it, according to Mrs. Cohen. Studies by USDA found that farm production used 2.5 percent of total U.S. energy consumption, while at-home preparation uses 4.3 percent.

2) To keep warm this winter, choose garments that are thick but not heavy, or select those that can be worn loosely in layers that trap insulating air next to the body. A heavy, long-sleeved sweater can help you feel 3.7 degrees warmer.

3) Insulate hot water pipes to keep warm water inside them so it can reach faucets faster with less wasted cold water, suggests Mrs. Cohen. The hot water heater uses up to 22 percent of the energy in homes.

4) Showers — when kept to two minutes or less — conserve water and require less energy costs for heating water than baths, reports Mrs. Cohen. Baths average 30 to 50 gallons of water while showers use five to 15 gallons per minute.

5) Homeowners can insulate their unfinished attics to save energy, says Mrs. Cohen. Insulation is graded according to its resistance to heat, called "R Value." The higher the number on the R Value, the more resistant the insulation is to heat, and therefore the more effective. Ceilings insulated to R-30 and walls to R-13 save energy.

Dear Dr. Ruble: My boyfriend and I plan to be married in a year or two. We do not plan to have children. We have decided against all the common types of birth control, so one of us is going to be sterilized. We have some questions for you.

Which is easier to do, the female or the male? Where can we have it done? Will the one who has the surgery still be able to have an orgasm? Is it reversible? — A.C.

That covers the usual range of questions on this subject. I'll answer the easy ones first.

The surgery for males (vasectomy) is less extensive than for females (tubal ligation). So other things being equal it might be best for the male to have it. The urologist is the doctor to see for the male, a gynecologist for the female. And the surgery (either one) does not interfere with sexual performance or enjoyment.

But your question about reversibility bothers me. Both of you should look on this as a permanent operation, even though success rates for reversal (untying) are about 50 percent. That's for women. The chances are less for men, according to reports I've seen. Be cautious about this. It is extremely difficult to plan your whole life at your young age. Attitudes and desires change with experience and maturity.

Dear Dr. Ruble: This past year I developed a problem. I am 81, in good health — blood pressure, weight, etc. My problem is the leg pains I get after walking a bit. My doctor said I had a weak pulse in the leg. I have always enjoyed my walking. I am not taking any medicine for this problem. I would appreciate your thoughts, especially about the weak pulse — Mrs. R.F.

The pain you describe is called "claudication" (pain following exercise). The weak leg pulse indicates a circulation problem. Surgery is possible with some, but only if a single large vessel is deficient. It can be bypassed.

You are doing as much as you can. Keep your weight down and your spirits up and stay active within your limits. Age has a way of creeping up with the best of us. Just don't let it creep ahead. See the booklet on leg complaints for a further discussion. For a copy, send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Ruble, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611.

Dear Dr. Ruble: My husband is 5 feet, 8 inches tall, weighs 210 pounds (would you believe?), and has announced he wants to get into a conditioning program at a gym. Do you advise that? I certainly hope you don't, because I think it's bad for him. He'll go with what you say. — Mrs. P.R.

From the dimensions you give me I wouldn't recommend any sudden strenuous exercise program. It is probably all he can do to get around with that much weight. What I do advise is a calorie-reduction program combined with a very gradual (mild at first) exercise regimen. Walking each day is a start. Hospital emergency are filled with these "weekend warriors" of the obesity front. In fact, he'd do best to start with a good physical.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Would you say that a woman who has had several miscarriages in succession has an estrogen imbalance? Should she be taking supplements? — H.S.

About all one could say from this information is that she is a habitual aborter. Whether hormone imbalance is the cause is debatable. Many other factors enter the picture besides hormones, although that would be considered a possible factor.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Is bulk in the diet good for arthritis? — N.N.

I know of no connection between the two. A person severely limited in activity might become constipated and bulk helps that aspect of the problem.

You can lose weight if you really want to. The booklet, "Lost Secrets of Reducing," tells you how — naturally and without gimmicks — to the level best suited to your individual needs. For a copy write to Dr. Ruble, P.O. Box 11210, Chicago, Ill. 60611, enclosing a long self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Tune In Tomorrow

By JON-MICHAEL REED
LOS ANGELES—They got trouble. Right there in River City, or rather, in Salem on "Days of Our Lives."

Once NBC's leading daytime serial, "Days" has sunk miserably in the ratings over the past year. In an effort to spruce up the show by the beginning of March when the NBC serial lineup is realigned because of the 90-minute-a-day format for "Another World," "Days" has chosen a new headwriter.

Ann Marcus has been replaced by Elizabeth Harrower, who has been a dialogue writer for the show in the past, as well as for "The Young and the Restless." Harrower is also the mother of Susan Seaforth Hayes (Julie Williams on "Days"), which delights Susan no end. "Whenever we received a script written by mother," enthuses Susan, "everyone in the cast agreed it was a pleasure to act her words." That's "mommiest" kudos in spades.

Meanwhile, backstage rumbles among cast members vying for power has broken out in open warfare. For months there have been rumors that there are animosities among the cast. Recently the lid blew off when one actress slugged a co-worker in the chops, resulting in a split lip and threatened lawsuits. Another actress anonymously comments that "it's dangerous to go to the lady's room because you never can be sure you won't be stabbed in the back while washing your hands." Actually, a comment was a bit more succinct from the actress who herself admits she's "sharpened my nails."

Despite the problems, it should be remembered that during its first few years "Days" was a rating loser and it took a long while before it gained audience popularity. If tempers and egos simmer, "Days" can be a winner again.

Back in New York, another NBC serial that's encountered the rating plague, "The Doctors," also has a change of headwriters. Linder Grover has bowed out due to personal conflicts and dialogue writers Elizabeth Levin and David Cherrill have been made temporary headwriters until they prove their mettle. Elizabeth, interestingly enough, is the wife of Michael Levin (Jack Fenelli on "Ryan's Hope") and Cherrill is the pen name of C. David Colson who has dropped the initial from the days when he portrayed Tom Hughes on "As the World Turns" slightly over a year ago.

Tune in tomorrow to see if NBC's trouble-riddled serials make the grade.

SHORT TAKES

ON "Search For Tomorrow," Travis Sentell's family expanded with the introduction of his mother, Mignon (as in Bilet), Anita Keal, who has appeared briefly on "The Doctors" and "How to Survive a Marriage," portrays mama Mignon. Jerry Lanning, who's a prominent vocalist, has also joined "Search" as Marc D'Antoni's brother, Nick. Portraying Bobby Stuart, Travis' right-hander, is Tucker Smallwood, who's done scores of nighttime TV movies as well as classical roles with New York's Shakespeare Festival. He's also a singer and dancer and strums the banjo.

NEWCOMERS TO "General Hospital" include veteran character actor Dan Travanti as Spence, Hunter Von Leer as Larry Joe, Bradley Greene as Tommy, and Robert Beitzel as baby P.J. (Stephen Lars).

ARIANE MUNKER plays troublemaker Melinda Gray on "As the World Turns." But she'll be in a different sort of spotlight when she reigns as the Winter Carnival Queen, March 2-4, at Grossinger's, a New York Catskill Mountains resort. Last year's queen was another CBS'er, Cindy Pickett (Jackie Spaulding on "Guiding Light").

SUSAN KEITH made a classic debut on soaps when she inherited the role of Samantha Veronon on "One Life to Live." Samantha had been banged up in an auto accident and was swathed in bandages. It took several weeks before Susan was unveiled as the "new" Samantha. The petite (5-foot-3) Susan hails from Milwaukee, Wis.

She was attending the Goodman School of Drama in Chicago when she was asked to read for the serial part, and three days later she was on the set of the soap in New York. Susan's single and a confirmed vegetarian. And Samantha, meanwhile, isn't taking any bologna from her fiancé on "OLTL," Tony Lord.

As you'll see when you tune in tomorrow

Hints from Heloise

DEAR FRIENDS:

What's newer than new? A brand new idea, that's what. That's why I am always on the lookout for new ideas.

Not necessarily earth-shattering ideas, but things which will help other people. (And me.)

You know, the little things you do as a matter of course to save time or money or even energy.

When I visit someone's home or apartment, I am not being nosy, I just observe.

So look around you. What do you do to save a few minutes in the morning rush? Or what about saving a few pennies while shopping?

Share with us your favorite money saver or food stretcher.

We are here to help you help yourself. We share with each other and we all win in the end.

You aren't alone trying to make ends meet, finding the budget just can't be cut anymore, and wondering if anyone else has the same problems.

Well, honeychild, they do. From the salesclerk that waits on you to the banker that handles your money (what there is of it).

We are all in this together. Even rich people worry about the price of coffee. Hang in there! — Heloise

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:

If the only whistle you hear these days is the teakettle with its raucous noise, throttle the startling brute by inserting a burned match between its clamped jaws.

More soothing to listen to and much easier on the nerves. — B.C.

DEAR HELOISE:

I learned a nifty trick from my sister and feel that it should be shared.

When removing the skin from either a whole or cut-up chicken, use troweling to help get (and keep) a grip on the skin.

Usually your hands get cold and greasy, and you'll be delighted how much easier it is when you use the paper towel. — Kathryn Dorset

DEAR HELOISE:

Having difficulty threading a needle? Press thread against a cake of soap and it will pass easily through the eye of a needle. — D.M. Anderson

DEAR HELOISE:

I have a small child and am always taking pictures of her. To keep track, I keep a piece of paper next to my camera.

Any picture I take I write a few words about and the date it was taken. No more guessing!

I hope other mothers enjoy looking back on these dates as much as I do. I always hope your column is still around for my daughter to enjoy.

You sure brighten my days. — Jody

Bless you, you're a doll! — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

This is how I dry mittens, gloves, caps, etc.

I place a wire shoe rack (the kind that sets on the floor) near a warm spot on the floor (heat register, refrigerator vent).

Each damp item can be placed upside down over the individual shoe holders.

They will dry quickly because the stand allows for good heat and air circulation. — Carol Cimbura

DEAR HELOISE:

I have discovered a super way to fill an atomizer-type bottle with perfume. If you have ever tried it, you know how messy it is and also how much you waste. Most of your favorite fragrance ends up running down the side of the atomizer bottle or your hands.

Last time my daughter and I tried it, the old-tight bulb lit up in my head. I found one of my plastic cake decorating tips and we used it as a mini funnel.

You must pour into it slowly, but it works like a charm. — J.F.

DEAR HELOISE:

I have two fun tips for home bakers. When baking bread, make a large batch (enough for four loaves). Be sure to knead for 10 minutes and use a timer.

You'll be able to make two loaves, a pan of rolls and a pan of cinnamon rolls out of the same dough!

When "cutting" the cinnamon rolls, use a 15-inch piece of thread instead of a knife and you'll have a nice clean cut and beautiful rolls. Less messy, too. Slip the thread (or dental floss) under your rolls of dough, cross it as if tying it, then pull.

When the loaves are baked and fresh out of the oven, immediately sop the tops with a water-saturated paper towel. Let sit and the tops will be nice and soft, but not greasy, as with butter. — Darlene Clark

Oh, Darlene, you're making my mouth water something awful, just thinking about it. For such a delicious hint you deserve an extra cup of coffee. Have one on me. — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

For the longest time people have asked what I would like for a birthday or special occasions gift.

At the time, I just couldn't think of a thing I wanted or needed.

So now everytime I think of something I would like to have, but just can't squeeze into my budget, I jot it down on a list.

This way I get those little extras, and since they are gifts, I appreciate them even more. — Cindy

DEAR HELOISE:

Just had to share this with others. Don't throw away those fingernail file boards with the middle still useful.

Just take your large scissors and cut right-down the middle and you'll have two more good sides on the board for filing your nails.

Also, this will sharpen your scissors a bit at the same time. — Rita Reynolds

THIS COLUMN is written for you...the homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise, 235 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible. ## U.S. Recording Fewer Patents

ATLANTA (AP) — If people in the United States don't boost their output of new inventions, their grandchildren will be working for clever foreigners, says the head of the patent office.

Fewer patents were granted to U.S. residents in 1978 than any year since 1964, Donald W. Banner, director of the U.S. Office of Patents and Trademarks, told a group of attorneys Tuesday.

"This might indicate that we are running out of new things to invent, but I think that is hardly the case," Banner told the Patent, Trademark and Copyright section of the State Bar of Georgia.

"Instead, I think it is an indication that we as a nation have forgotten about innovation," he said.

Banner said Americans today are living mostly off the fruits of "our grandfathers' inventions. But we need to keep generating new ideas and innovating all the time if we are to stay ahead."

Foreigners are not suffering from the doldrums of inventiveness, he said. In fact, U.S. patents granted to foreigners rose by 37 percent last year.

If it continues, the trend could worsen the country's balance of payments deficit, which already is at $26 billion, Banner said.

"This indicates America's leadership in technology is in trouble. Technological innovation is the key to curing the balance of payments deficit," he said.

Part of the problem, Banner said, has been his own agency. All the office's patent literature search files are in Washington, making them inaccessible for most Americans. And those files are seriously out of date, he added.

Banner said he wants to change regulations to make patents more reliable and said he hopes to install a system to allow people of any region to obtain patent information without going to Washington.

Death Penalty Conviction Upheld

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals upheld William Jack Hammett's death penalty conviction Wednesday over his objection that a psychiatrist of his choice should have examined him.

The granting of appellant's motion under the circumstances here presented would have allowed appellant to manipulate his asserted rights in such a manner as to obstruct the orderly administration of justice," the appeals court said.

A Brazoria County jury convicted Hammett of capital murder in the Oct. 14, 1976, slaying of Raymond Greer, who was shot six times in his Clute home.

The appeals court had earlier agreed with Hammett's argument over the appointment of a psychiatrist and had overturned his conviction.

However, the court said after receiving additional information, it appears Hammett was only trying to disrupt his trial.

"Without minimizing the desirability of providing an indigent defendant in a capital murder case with the benefit of expert psychiatric testimony," the court said, "it would be unthinkable for a court to give an indigent defendant an open checkbook to use in selecting the expert of his choice."

Mrs. Greer testified at Hammett's trial that her husband had returned home from Houston on Oct. 14, 1976, and was reading a newspaper when she heard two men enter their house.

She said her husband threw her to the floor as the assailants entered. After Greer was shot, she said, she found his wallet was missing and that a floor tile covering a safe had been broken.

The appeals court said a witness testified that she had known Greer and "intimated that he had been involved in some type of cocaine or narcotics smuggling."

Hammett's first trial ended when the jury deadlocked on whether to sentence him to death or life imprisonment.

Dr. B. W. Henry, an associate professor of psychiatry at the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston, examined Hammett. He testified at both trials that the defendant was competent to assist in his defense.

Hammett did not request another psychiatrist be appointed until after a jury was chosen for the second trial on Oct. 14, 1977.

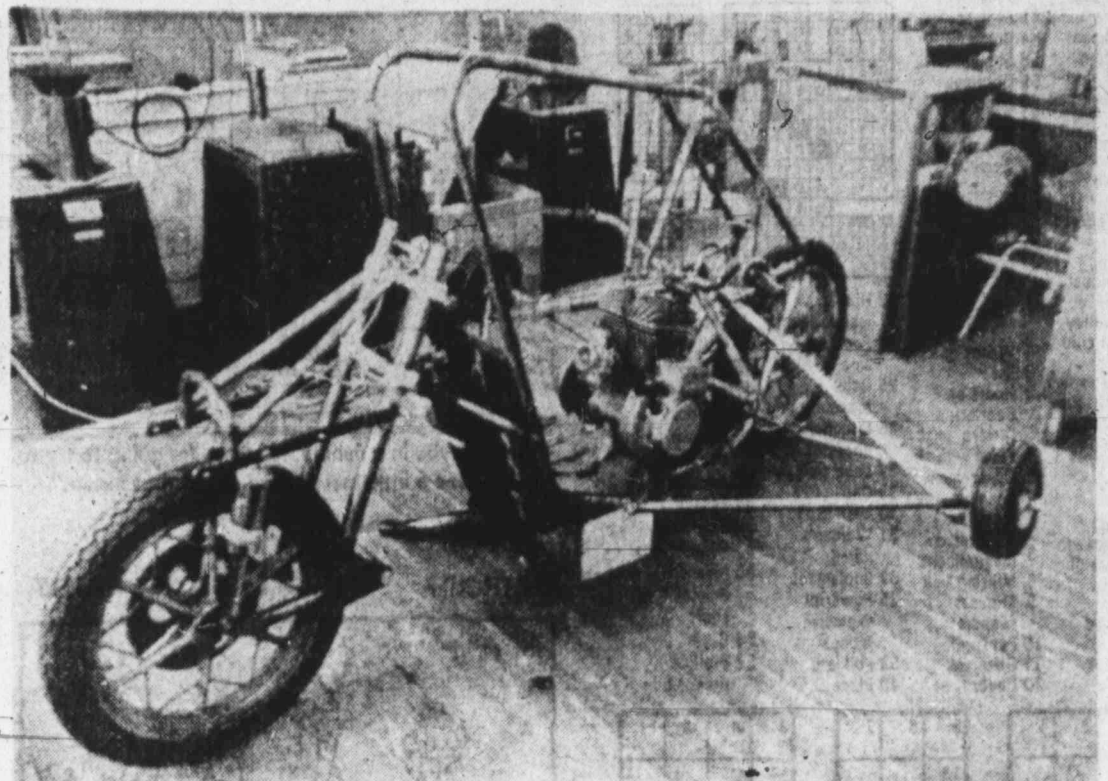

"Not only was the late hour in which appellant filed his motion calculated to be disruptive of the trial, the very nature of his motion compounded the problem," the appeals court wrote.

In other cases, the court:

— Voided an indictment against Donald Ray Wilson because he was tried twice in connection with a robbery. Wilson pleaded guilty to charges of robbery by assault and assault with intent to murder in a Dec. 11, 1972, incident in Houston. He was sentenced to 30 and 25 years, respectively. The court ordered the robbery indictment dismissed and Wilson's total prison term reduced.

— Reversed Homer Lee Merriman's conviction for delivery of hydromorphone. Merriman was sentenced to 16 years in prison by a Lampasas County jury after an undercover agent testified he purchased the drug from Merriman, a pharmacist. The court said Merriman was licensed to deliver the drugs and should have been charged instead with unauthorized dispensing of a controlled substance.

BUM STEER — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., says the bureaucrats gave taxpayers a bum steer in this weird motorcycle built for the Highway Traffic Safety Administration for $120,126. Winner of Proxmire's "Golden Fleece" award which goes each month to what Proxmire considers the most wasteful government effort, the odd bike features backward steering. "This is an example of the taxpayer being taken for a ride," Proxmire said, observing that nobody could steer the low-slung cycle anyway. (AP Laserphoto)

Federal Cycle Gets 'Fleece' Award

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire awarded the Golden Fleece of the Month Award to the Transportation Department for spending $120,126 on an experimental, backward steering motorcycle, even after being told repeatedly that it wouldn't work.

There was no immediate response from the Transportation Department to the award, announced Wednesday. The Golden Fleece award is given monthly for what the Wisconsin Democrat views as the best example of wasteful federal spending.

The idea was to build a safer motorcycle, with a low center of gravity, which steered from the rear and was powered in the front wheel, Proxmire said.

He said the contract was awarded to a California firm in September 1977, although the National Highway Safety Administration's own tests showed that the vehicle "would be difficult, if not impossible, to steer."

After 19 months of testing, the firm produced a motorcycle whose record run was 2.5 seconds long. Training wheels had to be added to keep it upright, and avert injury to the driver, the senator said.

During the testing, Proxmire said, repeated attempts to improve the design failed, but the agency's officials insisted that the project go ahead over the objections of the contractor.

He said other problems included an uncomfortable ride for the driver and passenger, inability to control the vehicle when at rest and the low seat, which limited visibility.

Despite repeated objections of the contractor to going through with the experiment, the contractor will soon submit a report on the "Advanced Concept Motorcycle," Proxmire said.

Texas High Court Rules In Compensation Case

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court ruled out workers compensation benefits Wednesday for employees suffering from mental strain resulting from overwork.

The court overturned a jury verdict awarding $28,000 in workers compensation benefits spread over nearly eight years — to Joe Maksyn.

Maksyn, then 60, was asked to retire as advertising manager of the San Antonio

Express and News after he began suffering in 1974 from dizziness, exhaustion, numbness of the hands and feet and high blood pressure.

The Texas Industrial Accident Board, a jury and the San Antonio Court of Civil Appeals all agreed that Maksyn was entitled legally to workers compensation.

Transportation Insurance Co., the workers compensation carrier, appealed.

While sympathizing with Maksyn, the Supreme Court said state law did not authorize benefits for his disability.

Mr. Maksyn's situation was such that after 43 years of work, he had succumbed to the pressure, mental strain, overwork and exhaustion from his managerial duties which culminated in hypertension, nervousness, vertigo, anxiety depression and disability to perform his work in publishing two newspapers a day," the Supreme Court observed.

But it said a Texas law allowing payment of benefits for conditions resulting from "repetitious physical traumatic activities extending over a period of time," does not apply in such cases.

The Legislature chose to include coverage for physical activities that cause the harm or damage; it excluded coverage for mental activities," the court said.

It said the Legislature "very well reasoned that physical activities are identifiable and traceable whereas such factors as worry, anxiety, tension, pressure and overwork are not."

Terry County Burglary Conviction Upheld

AUSTIN — The Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday affirmed the burglary conviction and five-year sentence assessed Ricky Thornton by a Terry County court.

Thornton was conviction of taking stereo equipment from the Gebro's Store in Brownfield. The appeals court noted he had sold five stereo systems identified as coming from the store within 24 hours of the break-in at the store.

Thornton complained that the indictment was defective; the appeals court said the contention was "wholly frivolous," and said he had no grounds for complaining of the stopping and searching of an automobile which he was not driving and did not own.

The court also upheld the revocation of probation for Jerry Moreno, who had been convicted of burglary and sentenced to five years in prison by a Gaines County court.

Moreno's probation was revoked on grounds he had not reported to his probation officer as required.

NEWTON'S TRIAL LOOMS

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Jury selection began Wednesday in the murder trial of Black Panther Leader Huey Newton, charged with the fatal shooting of a 17-year-old prostitute on an Oakland street corner. Newton fled the country late in 1974 after being charged with killing Kathleen Smith on Aug. 6, 1974. He was acquitted last fall of pistol-whipping his tailor, Preston Collins.

PLAINS AGRICULTURE

By DUANE HOWELL

TEXAS COMMISSIONER OF AGRICULTURE Reagan Brown has requested officials in the Small Business Administration to grant an extension of the March 6 deadline for filing farm loan applications in the High Plains.

The Governor's Disaster Office in Austin had requested an extension Feb. 15. However, Jess Ward of that office said no indication has been given as to whether the extension would be allowed.

The district office of the SBA in Lubbock reported that the decision on an extension sometimes is not made until the deadline, when local officials report on their backlog.

"MANY FARMERS ARE STILL WAITING on evaluations by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, whose agents are having trouble getting around to the cotton farm farmers," Brown said.

"The problem is complicated in some counties by the timing and the complexities of the application, Brown said. This is a period when the small number of accountants in rural areas have a double load."

Brown pointed out to A. Vernon Weaver, administrator of the SBA in Washington, that financing from usual sources is not available to many farmers this year.

IN HIS TELEGRAM, BROWN STRESSED that government officials must view their procedures realistically. Brown commented: "It would be a crime to allow such complications as this in paper work to determine whether a farmer will plant or not."

Farmers who have been able to complete their applications but have not had an ASCS assessment of loss can mail their applications along with a letter from a county ASCS official stating that the workload has prevented making a verification of loss.

COTTON FROM EL SALVADOR, contrary to an earlier report, is of higher quality than High Plains cotton and does not compete directly with the area crop in the Japanese market.

Japan is reported to be planning to suspend raw cotton imports from El Salvador until Japanese nationals are safe in that Central American country.

The cotton, trade officials say, could be replaced with cotton from other areas of the U. S. belt or with other growths.

U. S. IMPORTS OF TEXTILES and apparel jumped 15 percent in 1978 from 1977 to 5.76 billion square yards equivalent (SYE), the American Textile Manufacturers Institute reported.

This was the highest since 1972, when the United States imported 6.23 billion SYE. Based on Commerce Department trade figures, ATMI said imports from China more than doubled in 1978.

Apparel imports in 1978 set an all-time record, totaling 2.9 billion SYE, a 17 percent increase from 1977. Cotton textile imports reached a record 2.2 billion SYE.

During 1978, Hong Kong, Japan, Taiwan and South Korea were the four largest suppliers of textile and apparel products to the United States, shipping a total of 3.1 billion SYE, up 7 percent from the previous year.

Imports from China increased 128 percent in 1978 to 201 million SYE, up from 88 million SYE in 1977.

U. S. IMPORTS OF TEXTILES and apparel jumped 15 percent in 1978 from 1977 to 5.76 billion square yards equivalent (SYE), the American Textile Manufacturers Institute reported.

Ag Service To Honor Ex-District Director

LITTLEFIELD (Special) - Dale Carter of Plainview will be honored at 11 a.m. her Friday at dedication ceremonies for the new Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service building.

DALE CARTER

The facility will be named the Dale Carter Building in recognition of his many years of service to the ASCS in the High Plains area.

Carter, who retired as district ASCS director in 1970, was reared on a cotton, grain and livestock farm in Brown County. He was graduated from Howard Payne College at Brownwood in 1935 and did graduate work at the University of Texas.

Carter was a school teacher at Burleson for two years and was named superintendent at 20, making him the youngest school superintendent in Texas.

While a school teacher, Carter worked during the summer measuring crop acreages under the old Agricultural Adjustment Act (AAA) program.

Since he enjoyed working with farmers, he applied for a full-time job with the AAA and was appointed office manager of King County in 1939. He later was office manager for Archer, Baylor and Wilbarger counties.

In Wilbarger County, he developed a more effective method of using county and county committees in the administration of farm programs. He was called to the Washington office to explain the method and it was adopted for all states.

Carter was president of the County Office Managers Association of Texas before being named district director of the Panhandle where he was in charge of 21 counties. He was district director of the Panhandle area from 1949 until he was Slaughter was 130,000 head. About 11,300 head are expected today at the major markets. Feeder cattle futures closed 80 to 150 higher led by March through May at the limit advance after most contracts surged the limit earlier. Volume was 4,412 lots.

Smithsonian To Exhibit Einstein Memorabilia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The country's most comprehensive exhibition of Albert Einstein memorabilia, numbering more than 100 items, will go on public view next Saturday at the Smithsonian Institution.

One of many commemorations of the centennial of the noted physicist's birth, this one includes original Einstein manuscripts, historic photographs, personal memorabilia drawn from private collections here and abroad and scientific apparatus used to test his theories.

Many of the artifacts have never before been exhibited, officials say, adding that many offer intimate glimpses into the accomplishments and personality of the unassuming genius who enjoyed the celebrity of a movie star.

"Einstein was depicted from life more often and by more artists than any other person in human history," the Smithsonian's Museum of History and Technology says. "The exhibition shows the variety of interpretations his distinctive features evoked in the painting, drawings and sculptures of Ben Shahn, Jacob Epstein, Jo Davidson and many others."

There are more than two dozen busts, drawings, paintings, etchings, lithographs and photographs. Many are likenesses of his head, but others depict the expressive hands which, with paper, pencil and a passionate curiosity, were his principal tools.

Although there were many skeptics in the second decade of this century and later, it goes without saying now that his theories of relativity and gravity had a profound effect on modern physics and helped unlock understanding of the universe.

The introductory biographical section of the exhibition includes every document from immigration to naturalization certificate, marking the path to Einstein's acquisition of U.S. citizenship. Born at Ulm, Germany, on March 14, 1789, Einstein renounced German citizenship before he was 17, after his family moved to Italy.

He acquired Swiss citizenship but, after gaining fame, he returned to Germany to teach and thus had his German citizenship restored automatically during the years 1914-1933. Coming to the United States in 1940, he later was naturalized, but never relinquished his Swiss passport.

Einstein, Smithsonian curators stress, delighted in gadgets and mechanisms. He worked as a patent examiner in his most creative years, and also took out many patents himself. On exhibition is an affidavit by Einstein declaring himself to be the true and original inventor of a refrigerating apparatus by which cold could be produced with heat. Alongside it is U.S. patent 1,781,541 issued to him in 1940.

Another unusual memento is the blackboard he used in 1931 while delivering a lecture at Oxford University. The preserved chalk equations in his own hand relate to the necessity of the "cosmological constant," a major scientific achievement of Einstein's career.

Finally, the exhibit looks at the present and describes and displays equipment from some of the experiments that have been used to test Einstein's general theory of relativity and gravity. Some of this is fairly heavy going, but labels describe the items and their importance in language comprehensible to most laymen.

Presenting no such problems are more homey items: the pipe which Einstein finally discarded on doctor's orders after chewing through its stem, his correspondence with Sigmund Freud and other noted scientists, his letters to the White House about an invitation to visit

Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt.

When the invitation came at last after several misunderstandings, Einstein and his wife spent a night in the White House and he wrote a light verse expressing his admiration for FDR. One copy was signed by Roosevelt and inscribed. "This poem was written in the White House."

Special On Einstein Seen As Loser In Confrontation With Networks

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — It is ironic that the celebration of the 100th birthday of one of the great minds of the 20th century will be obscured on television by "Happy Days" and "Laverne & Shirley."

But such will be the case Tuesday, March 13, when the Public Broadcasting Service presents a special on Albert Einstein.

Nearly 80 million viewers will be tuned to the ABC sitcoms. The two-hour "Einstein's Universe" on PBS won't attract a fraction of that audience.

Financed by IBM and produced by Martin Freeher for the BBC and Boston's WGBH, the exploration of Einstein's major theories will be conducted by Peter Ustinov using layman's language to propound the meaning and impact of Einstein's genius.

Much of the program was filmed at the University of Texas's McDonald Observatory and features seven distinguished scientists. The balance was produced in London.

Ustinov was chosen to enact Einstein and narrate the show as Einstein might have done. The portly British actor-writer uses a heavy German accent for Einstein as he did a dozen years ago on a show for "The Voice of America."

On a visit to Hollywood to promote his most recent movie, "Death On The Nile" and the paperback edition of his autobiography, "Dear Me," Ustinov lamented the state of American TV which elevates "Laverne & Shirley" to the topmost ratings and consigns "Einstein's Universe" to limbo.

"The American system of ratings gravitates toward mediocrity," said Ustinov, who makes his home in Paris and Switzerland.

"Believe me, Englishmen will watch the Einstein show by the tens of millions as compared to the few who will see it in America. Of course, there are only three primary channels in Britain, which makes quite a difference.

"The educational traditions of England — and Europe, too — would never put up with American TV. It's like underwriting the theater, ballet and symphony in almost all European countries.

"The BBC is one example where government interference is a guarantee of liberty. Networks in the United States refuse to relinquish control of programming which makes government collaboration impossible.

Certainly, some American dramatic series and comedies are shown in England and Europe but only a few compared to the constant bombardment of horrors in the United States.

"One of the great mysteries is why 'Einstein's Universe' is not being aired by one of the commercial television networks. Putting it on PBS, one must be careful not to use the term 'educational tv' which is the kiss of death.

"I think in a sense people will be poorer for not watching this show because it is informative and spiritually inspiring. It's a wonderfully impressive program. At the end you have the impression you have the whole of the universe in a wine glass and you want to hold onto it."

Ustinov will play a greenhorn reading from a large book on Einstein's theories in addition to providing Einstein's off-camera voice.

Purpose of Ustinov's two-fold role is to ask and then answer questions which will present the massively complex theories in a manner that may be grasped by ordinary minds.

Ustinov said he thinks viewers with high school educations won't have much trouble following the technical aspects of the show, adding they will be happily baffled by a few things.

"After researching Einstein as much as I could," the actor said, "I discovered he came by his theories by thinking thoughts which were easily accessible to all of us. Then he would produce a profound formula.

"He was a fascinating man personally. His associates knew him to be an unpretentious, unprepossessing man who kept to himself to retain the purity of his ideas and thoughts.

"I have no knowledge of his theories whatever but I've always been fascinated by the subject matter — which I was terribly bad at in school and for which I blame my teachers.

"It turns out that Einstein did not excel in science when he was a student. Our show tries to tell something about the man as well as his genius. It's an established fact that almost anyone on the street will include Einstein on his or her list of the 10 greatest men of this century, although they won't know why except they know it's a great name.

"You might compare that phenomenon to the inclusion of the Bible on the list of 10 books people would take with them to a desert island. They don't know why they include it except that they think they should.

"Hopefully, those who see this show will know exactly why they put Einstein on their list. His mind virtually helped open the universe for all of us."

Hostess On 'Wheel Of Fortune' Holds Unique Spot in Industry

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Whether it's game shows, network newscasts, variety shows or beauty contests, the top banana in this enlightened age of feminism is almost always a man.

One of the exceptions, and therefore a rarity, is Susan Stafford, hostess of NBC-TV's daily "Wheel of Fortune" show. Even then, Susan shares the spotlight with Chuck Woolery.

Susan, who isn't an ardent feminist herself, is appalled that women in show business are lagging behind their sisters in other professions.

"So far as I know," she said, "I'm the only network hostess in television."

"Local TV game shows and news programs are different. They hire women on that level but not on a national level. Even when Barbara Walters became the highest paid news personality she wasn't accepted as the number one broadcaster on ABC news."

"They made her an interviewer. Not taking anything away from Barbara, but anyone can be an interviewer with a little research. I know; I was a syndicated broadcaster myself for three years."

"There's no such thing as an anchor woman on network news, but there are plenty of anchor men."

"The networks are afraid to take a chance on females in charge of a show on camera or in the capacity of hostess. And I think I know why."

"There is an old belief that women don't want to watch women. It's not the men who object to women in a dominant situation."

"But I think that's a contradiction. Women certainly tune in to see 'Charlie's Angels.' They enjoy seeing the clothes, the hairdos in addition to watching three beautiful women in fantasy situations."

"However, put those same actresses into real life roles as hostesses or broadcasters and it's a different story."

"I think a good many women viewers resent females taking over traditional male jobs. Personally, I don't see it that way. Every woman is a hostess in her own home and playing that role on television is a simple extension of doing what comes naturally."

"The key to being a successful TV hostess is to be yourself. If you make a mistake, the audience is with you. In fact, they usually like you better because it adds a human quality."

"There are millions of women who haven't careers of their own. If they're bored with themselves it frustrates them to see other women on TV who have accomplished more with their lives."

Susan, whose youthful beauty has been an asset to her career, recalled only two other game show hostesses in the recent past. Elaine Stewart on "Gambit" and Ruta Lee on "High Rollers." Neither show is still on the air.

Before coming to Hollywood, Susan founded a talent agency in Kansas City and studied acting in New York. She is the wife of television executive Dick Ebersol, who has nothing to do with "Wheel of Fortune."

Susan is part of Hollywood's "born again" community and supports the Equal Right Amendment. But she thinks women are subtly discriminated against in showbusiness.

"A great deal of progress is being made by women behind the scenes in production, writing and even producing and directing. For some reason they are more accepted in these roles than on camera."

"My relationship with Chuck (Woolery) is right up front, too. He's the dominant male but I'm not the inferior woman. Other women can appreciate that."

Complex International Scene Studied

NEW YORK (AP) — It's called "World," and says the public TV series' executive producer, the aim is to give Americans "a new window" on people and life in foreign countries.

"International affairs are complex," says David Fanning, a noted filmmaker as well as the program's producer. "We have to be concerned with process, with people's emotions, whether they be Arabs or Argentines."

"World," says Fanning, fills a gap in the television documentary field between those programs which examine current events in straightforward style and those which feature some investigative reporting, like CBS' "60 Minutes."

"World," produced by Boston's WGBH, is fed to stations in the Public Broadcasting Service network at 8 p.m. Thursdays.

The season, which began in mid-February, consists of 20 programs, including a few broadcast previously. The film for today, "Chachaji: My Poor Relation," featuring New Yorker writer Ved Mehta, aired first during the series' premiere season last year.

Fanning says he hopes "World" will show Americans how the international events they read or hear about affect the people caught up in them. His ambition as a filmmaker, he says, is to help the viewer "see the world as somebody else sees it."

Toward that end, "World" is featuring a three-part "Inside Europe" series with-in the series, co-productions for WGBH and television companies in six other countries: Belgium, Denmark, England, the Netherlands, Sweden and West Germany.

The first in the "Inside Europe" project, "The Shirt of Your Back," was broadcast Feb. 22. The program examined the European clothing industry and its fight against cheap foreign imports.

The second in the miniseries, "The Selling of the F16," is scheduled for broadcast March 15.

In addition to the European films, Fanning says, the "World" series includes documentaries from South America, Australia, India, Africa and the United States.

Other programs in March include the true story of a girl with non-white features born to white parents in South Africa (March 8), a look at the importance of the tourist trade to emerging countries (March 22), and a documentary on life with the guerrillas in Eritrea (March 29).

The films were selected from hundreds available from all over the world, Fanning says. He says he viewed each entry, and his standard for selection was variety — variety of subject, style, approach and technique.

"World" has no set format or style, Fanning says. Many of the films are highly personal statements, and some present viewpoints that are intentionally provocative, Fanning says.

Fanning joined "World" in June 1977. He is the producer of a number of award-winning films, including "Winners and Losers," a documentary on poverty, and "The Agony of Independence, produced during the civil war in Angola in 1976.

Living Stage Theater Reaches Audience Through Participation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The old woman is a junkie. She explains to her grown daughter why she abandoned her as a baby.

"I wanted you to be somebody. I didn't want you to be like me."

"You were the prettiest baby I ever seen," the old woman is saying. They draw toward each other, extending arms. "But you were so sick. When I saw you shakin', a tiny little baby shakin'."

"Freeze!" At the command, mother and daughter stop, arms outstretched.

Slowly, thoughtfully, director Robert Alexander steps onto the canvas mat and walks toward the performers. There is no stage, few props.

He turns to 20 high school students sitting on the mat only a few feet away. They are about to become playwrights.

"Look at the space between them," Alexander says, gesturing at the frozen pair. "Feel the energy that comes out of their fingertips, out of their eyes. Watch that as you're thinking."

"Now, be specific: what would you love, love, love; love with all your heart to see happen now? How does it happen? What's the staging of it?"

Alexander, his company and the audience are deep into another Living Stage experience, a unique intermingling that makes the audience part of the creative process.

Hands shoot up, and for the next few minutes, Alexander takes suggestions. From them, he outlines the final scene to the actresses. The action continues until the scene is played out.

Living Stage is a small (12-member) improvisational theater company housed at Washington's Arena Stage. The only professional troupe of its kind in the United States, Living Stage works mainly with high school students, pre-schoolers, the handicapped, the incarcerated and the elderly.

Last year, $172,000 of its estimated $250,000 operating expenses came from government grants. The rest comes from summer workshops for the public, college bookings, and "a daily, continuous" fund drive.

"Living Stage is committed to helping people rediscover their creative, artistic strengths through the art of theater," Alexander says.

"It's an artistic dialogue between the actor, who's an artist and a human being, and the audience, who are artists and human beings. There's no difference between their creativity, so we don't work with stages, we don't have lights, we don't have costumes. What we have is the human being."

Alexander, an intense man with brown wavy hair who will be 50 on St. Patrick's Day, conceived of Living Stage in 1965 after working with conventional theater forms for 19 years.

"When I first came here, we were doing conventional, dramatic presentations for high school and junior high school students," he explained. "Then, we would break up and improvise in the classroom on what the kids had just seen."

"And then I started to discover that they were more turned on improvising on what they saw, than on what they actually watched. So I got the idea of cutting out the middleman, the playwright."

Living Stage is heard before it is seen.

The performers know by heart about 500 poems and quotes and 150 songs, which they use as a basis in developing a theme for each gathering: love, fear, relationships.

They "jam" for about 15 minutes before the group they are to work with enters the room and joins them in singing and playing tambourines or other percussion instruments. On one recent afternoon, it was 20 freshmen and sophomores from Wakefield High School in nearby Arlington, Va.

The songs and music fade; the mother-daughter scene begins. The performers not involved in the scene become stagehands, changing hats on the actresses as they speak or moving a table backstage when it is no longer needed.

Later, the students become actors themselves, forming living "sculptures" expressing emotions they have chosen, such as "anger" or "You're so phony."

And then they work out their own scene: they are Vietnamese villagers who have just been bombed. They moan, crawl around the mat, weep, scream, cradle babies, tend wounds.

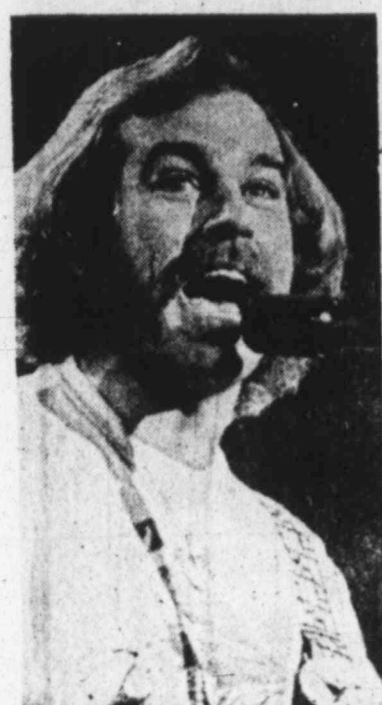

Afterwards, they discuss their feelings. Many say they saw their huts and the nearby fields and trees, and even smelled the bomb.

"I saw this space, the space we were working in, but everything beyond that — beyond the mat — was black," said one, to the enthusiastic nodding of others. 4

"I was real sore when I was done," said Jeff Jones, 15. "My character had hurt his leg, but when I tried to relax after it was over, I couldn't."

Jones said that for him, Living Stage is just what the name implies.

"When I go to a play, I'm not participating in it," he said. "But when I leave here, I feel so good. You really feel like you're somebody when you come here."

THE SHOW GOES ON — Concerts West has indicated the Jimmy Buffett and Amazing Rhythm Aces show is still on for 8 p.m. Friday at the Lubbock Coliseum. Buffett drew rave reviews from both Dallas newspaper critics after his concert in that area last Saturday. Tickets for the Lubbock concert are on sale at B&B Records, Flipside Records and Al's Music Machine.

U.S. Business Group Likes Rule Stance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Chamber of Commerce said Wednesday it agrees with the Carter administration's assertion that government regulations must be studied for their impact on inflation.

The chamber said it could not agree with concern expressed by some who have suggested that the newly organized White House-level Regulatory Council will compromise the integrity of various regulatory agencies.

Washington Post Poll Shows Television Watching Dropping In American Homes

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time since television settled into almost every home, a majority of Americans report in a nationwide poll that they watch television less than they used to.

The Washington Post, which conducted the poll in October and published the results today, said 53 percent of those surveyed said they spend less time before the tube than they did five years ago. The poll, conducted by telephone, solicited the opinions of 1,693 persons over age 18.

From the mid-1950s until the mid-1970s, Americans responded to every similar poll by saying they were watching more television than ever.

In 1970, a poll found that 40 percent of those asked were watching more television than they had and 31 percent were watching less. Last fall brought some evidence that viewing was leveling off.

Although the decline in viewing was reported among most segments of society — black and white, young and old, women and men — it was sharpest among wealthier and better educated viewers, those who felt programs had gotten worse, and among those who disliked commercials.

The Post said it showed the results of its poll to some network executives, who disputed the conclusion that viewing had actually declined.

Despite its major findings, the poll produced fresh evidence that television consistently holds the biggest audience in the history of entertainment or communication.

—Thirty-two percent of those over 18 said they had increased their time watching television during the past five years. The rest said they had not changed or had no answer.

—The survey indicated the average adult watches television for three hours each weekday and three hours and 25 minutes on Saturdays and Sundays.

—Only one American in 100 said he had no working television set at home. A majority had at least two sets.

Other answers were sure to be worrisome to the television industry.

Thirty-six percent said they would be willing to "pay a small amount yearly" to have television without commercials.

Asked to name their favorite program, 30 percent couldn't come up with the name of a show.

Forty percent of the respondents said television was better than it was five years ago, and 41 percent said it was worse.

Sports were rated by far as television's most popular fare. Men said they spend a quarter of their television viewing time watching sports programs and women said they gave sports 15 percent of their TV time.

Television executives told the Post that Nielsen surveys and other industry-sponsored audience measurements showed television watching was not declining.

Jay Eliasberg, a vice president for research at the Columbia Broadcasting System, said people were not the best judges of how much television they watched. If there is a stigma attached to watching, he said, people underestimate how much time they spend doing it.

Relaxed Regulation Asked For Broadcast Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Approximately 350 broadcasters from around the country came to the capital Wednesday to plead with members of Congress and other officials to relax federal regulation of radio and television.

The "rally against over-regulation" was organized by the National Radio Broadcasters Association, the National Association of Broadcasters, the Radio and Television News Directors Association and others to promote moves to ease federal regulations.

Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., chairman of the House Commerce subcommittee on communications, pledged to work for passage of his bill to relax current restrictions. He is chief sponsor of legislation to rewrite the 1934 communications act which was the subject of lengthy hearings last session. Van Deerlin plans to offer a revised version soon. The measure would eliminate periodic license renewals by radio and television stations in favor of automatic renewals unless challenges were made.

Despite promises by the Federal Communications Commission to relax its rules, Van Deerlin said, "If anyone can tell me one significant step toward deregulation in 1978 or so far in 1979, I'll resign my chairmanship and announce that I'll retire from Congress at the end of my term."

He told the broadcasters at a luncheon that regardless of the FCC's intentions, there are many things the commission cannot do under present law. "It isn't going to happen down there, it's going to happen on the (Capitol) Hill," he said.

FCC Chairman Charles D. Ferris said, "We came here to listen. There is very little I have heard here that I disagree with."

The broadcasters spent much of the day on Capitol Hill talking to congressmen and senators.

Jack R. Gennaro, vice president of WFHR-AM, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., rapped what he called "raised eyebrows regulation" by the FCC, particularly when licenses come up for renewal. He mentioned such things as guidelines on the number of commercials, saying "you don't need an FCC to tell you how many commercials you should carry."

David W. Palmer, president of WATH-AM, Athens, Ohio, criticized the amount of paperwork required of license holders. A General Accounting Office study has found that the FCC requires of licensees paperwork taking 30 million man hours of labor annually.

Others who spoke for relaxation of regulations included Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

Marvin Trial Set To Enter New Phase

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lee Marvin's attorneys say they will call a recording industry executive to explain how a record is promoted, in hopes such testimony will counter Miss Marvin's claim that the actor thwarted her career by demanding she stay with him rather than travel to promote her record. She recorded the song "Promise Me Your Love" in 1966.

The trial, in its seventh week, is expected to conclude in mid-March.

Social Security Administrator Concedes Some Accounts Awry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Social Security Administration disclosed Wednesday that it has been unable to credit nearly $69 billion in wages to the correct workers' accounts because of identification problems dating to 1937.

The problems, which mean that retirement benefits for the affected workers could be reduced, stem from inaccurate or incomplete earnings reports filed by employers or the self-employed over the years. Social Security Commissioner Stanford G. Ross said.

"Usually these incorrect wage reports are for short-term and transient labor, such as restaurant workers or car wash employees," he added.

He said he did not consider the uncredited earnings "a skeleton in our closet." But he expressed concern about a Harris Poll that found 40 percent of workers doubt that they will ever get benefits from Social Security.

Questioned about the wage reporting problem, Ross maintained that it is unlikely anyone's benefits actually have been reduced. He cited checks that his agency makes at retirement time on a person's earnings record.

"I'm not saying there couldn't be a rare instance where somebody got less, but it would be a remote case," said Ross, who stressed that the loss amounts to 0.7 percent of the $9.7 trillion in wages that have been credited correctly.

Ross said he has taken steps that will reduce the uncredited earnings in what the agency terms its "suspense file" by $3.5 billion.

He said a new system of reporting earnings annually instead of quarterly also will improve accuracy.

The agency has handled 10 billion wage reports since 1937 and credited all but 142 million correctly, Ross said, seeking to put the accounting problem into perspective. The items in the suspense file average $486 each, he said.

He said the Social Security Administration's accuracy record has been excellent. And Ross said he decided to go public with the wage reporting problem because he wants to "encourage the public to self-police the system."

He said that every year, 5 percent of the earnings reports sent to the Internal Revenue Service and subsequently to his agency by employers have an incorrect Social Security number or name. An additional 1 percent have no number or name.

Ross said that by using a computer, the agency whittles those mistakes down to 2.6 percent. He said workers and employers paid payroll taxes of 5 to 10 percent on the $69 billion, or $3.4 billion to $6.9 billion.

But that money is not sitting in a vault somewhere. Social Security is a pay-as-you-go system with today's workers paying taxes that go out to the 35 million beneficiaries who will draw $100 billion in benefits this year.

The agency does not base its records on how much tax a person paid, instead it records the earnings on which those taxes were paid. When a person reaches retirement age, the earnings of past years are adjusted for inflation and five low-earning years are discarded.

Ross cited this as a reason why the missing wage data probably would not seriously affect a retiree's benefits.

The agency switched last year to annual reporting of wages. This allows a person to see on the W-2 withholding form how much payroll tax went to Social Security.

Witness Says Brother Told Of Slayings

BEAUMONT (AP) — Richard Dugas testified Wednesday that his brother, Joe, told him last summer he and a woman had committed "the perfect murder" in killing five members of the Phillips family.

Joe Dugas and Linda May Burnett are charged with capital murder in the slayings of Dugas's former in-laws, the Bishop Phillips family, last July.

The brother's testimony came in Mrs. Burnett's trial. Joe Dugas will be tried later.

Richard Dugas said Joe told him and a younger brother "out of the clear blue sky" last July 4 that "I think I committed the perfect murder."

He said Joe told him that he and an unnamed woman had taken her car to the Phillips home, circled the house and a screen to gain entry.

The witness testified that he was told "the conditions were perfect" and he said his brother told him "the sky was overcast and it was fixing to rain."

Richard Dugas said his brother told him they held the five family members at gunpoint and when one attempted to escape, "I knocked the... upside the head and blood went everywhere."

He said he was told they drove to a "predug gravesite," where the woman companion shot the adults and then Joe shot the child when the woman refused to do it.

Killed were Bishop and Ester Phillips of Winnie, along with their son, Elmer, his wife, and their three-year-old son, Jason, from Woodward, Okla.

Mrs. Burnett is on trial for killing the child. The state is seeking the death penalty.

Richard Dugas said his brother told him that after the five were buried, the area was swept and camouflaged with straw and sticks.

Their car was taken to a bayou and burned, and the pair returned to Port Arthur, Dugas said his brother told him.

Richard Dugas, a Vidor city employee, said he went to the police three days after his brother told him the tale. Joe Dugas was arrested that same day.

Under cross examination, Richard Dugas admitted his brother tried to enlist his aid in killing the family. He said his brother felt that the Phillips family was responsible for most of the marital problems with his former wife, Mary, an older daughter of the Phillipses.

The witness agreed that his brother was "in one world, extremely violent" and he knew he had beaten his wife on numerous occasions, so he was not surprised when his brother told him about the murders.

"Joe always had a big mouth," Richard Dugas testified.

Cleveland Mayor Kucinich Gets Resounding Vote Of Confidence

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mayor Dennis J. Kucinich, fresh from a triumph at the polls, vowed Wednesday to fight state efforts to take over his city's crippled finances and said he would sell small-denomination bonds directly to citizens if necessary.

The tactics were announced following an election in which Cleveland voters backed Kucinich by impressive 2-1 margins in raising taxes and retaining the Municipal Electric Light System. It was a resounding vote of confidence for the maverick Democrat, who barely survived a recall attempt last summer.

The mayor said he will campaign in every major city in Ohio to influence the legislature to reject Gov. James A. Rhodes's plan to create a nine-member control board to supervise the city's spending practices and restore investor confidence in Cleveland.

"Although the people of Cleveland won yesterday (Tuesday), it appears greedy corporate interests are now working on another front, Columbus, Ohio," Kucinich told reporters. "They will attempt to ride back to the city on a Trojan Horse built by Governor Rhodes. They will attempt to take it by hook, having failed yesterday to take it by crook."

Kucinich has alleged that corporate interests tried to manipulate Cleveland residents into selling their electric system.

The mayor seeks adoption of legislation with less restrictive state controls on the nation's 18th-largest city and a plan to enable Cleveland to borrow money using either the state's credit or its own.

His (Rhodes's) kind of help is the kind of help you get from someone who pulls the plug on a respirator," Kucinich said.

If Rhodes is successful, however, Kucinich said he is prepared to have the city sell $15 million in tax-free bonds to the general public in denominations as low as $100, rather than rely on the state's help. State approval would not be needed for the bond sale, according to the mayor.

At the same time, Kucinich refused any conciliatory gestures to the City Council, which has been engaged in a running war with him over the past 16 months.

Kucinich said the council sat helplessly by as Cleveland plunged into default on Dec. 15, that it has played endless political games and has obstructed his progress. "The only way the council can salvage any degree of respectability is to begin to cooperate with this administration," he added.

Earlier, Council President George L. Forbes said he expected the election results would not help improve relations with Kucinich. "The mayor will only speak to God now," Forbes said.

Cleveland, which owes $14 million to six local banks and must either pay or refinance $25 million in notes this year and $41 million in funds missing from receipts of previous bond sales, had been threatened with bankruptcy. But Kucinich said the 50 percent payroll tax increase will end the bankruptcy threat.

The tax, which will add $100 to the levy on an annual salary of $20,000, takes effect Thursday and should bring Cleveland $25 million in the remainder of this year.

Brock Weir, chairman of The Cleveland Trust Co., which holds $5 million in defaulted notes and has been a prime target of Kucinich criticism, said the approval of the tax "is a clear sign that the city is trying to clear up its problems."

But he said the tax will not be enough to avert serious deficits this year and in the future, and expressed hope the legislature would soon act to stabilize municipal finances.

KUCINICH FLEXES MUSCLES — Cleveland Mayor Dennis Kucinich speaks at a Wednesday morning news conference with a photo of consumer activist Ralph Nader before him. ## Texas International Reveals Merger Plans

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas International Airlines offered Wednesday a merger agreement package approximating $49.50 for each share of National Airlines common stock.

The package includes $8 in cash but Texas International said this would be increased if the Houston-based line is included in a bidding procedure National and Pan American World Airways have proposed.

The offer also would involve exchanging each share of National common for one share of Texas International common and a $30 senior sinking fund debenture due in 1989 with an 11.24 percent interest rate.

Texas International closed Tuesday on the American Stock Exchange at $11.50 a share.

On Feb. 20, Frank Lorenzo, Texas International president, protested National's plans to submit the Pan Am merger proposal to its stockholders and said Texas International was prepared to offer a stock exchange worth at least $50 a share.

L.B. Maytag, National chairman, responded two days later by saying it was time for Texas International "to lay its cards on the table" and submit a detailed proposal by Wednesday.

Pan Am earlier had offered $41 a share and this was exceeded when Eastern Airlines entered the picture in December with a $50 offer.

Both Pan Am and Texas International hold about 23 percent of National's stock and the Houston line said its Wednesday offer is for all shares it does not now own.

Texas International said it has obtained commitments from banks to borrow the funds necessary to finance the cash payment to National stockholders upon completion of the merger.

Texas International's letter to National also asked that its merger proposal be presented to National's stockholders as promptly as practicable and that it be included in the bidding procedure which the Miami-based line and Pan Am have proposed.

Such bidding would involve five rounds and Texas International's letter proposed that the final round of bids be sealed and submitted simultaneously by each bidder "with the higher bid prevailing, or, in the event of a tie, Pan American prevailing."

School Drops Lunch Price Increase

A-J Correspondent

LEVELLAND — The school board here Tuesday night rescinded an earlier approved 20-cent increase in the price of school lunches, after parents launched a protest of the price hike.

Instead, the board approved a five-cent raise, making high school lunches 60 cents and elementary and junior high lunches 55 cents.

The board had approved the 20-cent increase at a Feb. 8 meeting after the school district's finance officer reported that the school system's food service was suffering heavy financial losses.

But at Tuesday's meeting, a petition with 701 signatures of parents opposing the increase was presented to the board by Mrs. James Fox, a mother of four who had led the parent protest.

She was joined by about 25 other parents who appeared at the meeting to voice their complaints about the lunch prices.

School board members also appointed a committee to study the school lunch situation.

Defense Key For Tech As Raiders Meet Aggies

By JIM FERGUSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
HOUSTON — There's only two things, most of the coaches are saying here, that can stop Texas A&M. One's a chainsaw and the other is a strong defense.

Gerald Myers is opting for the second alternative but only because chainsaws dueling, like an illegal pick is against the rules. Isn't it?

"We've got to play not good but great defense against them," emphasized the

(Related Story Page 6)
Texas Tech coach through the week as the Red Raiders prepared for tonight's second-round play of the Southwest Conference post-season basketball tournament against the Aggies. "We just can't give them the easy shot or let them get away a lot of shots after a rebound."

"We just can't."
"If the Raiders do allow the much taller Aggies to roam free under the baskets at the Summit—the site of the three-day tournament—then Tech's chances of advancing to the semi-finals against Arkansas are slim and none, Myers feels.

Tipoff is set for 7 p.m., with Baylor and Houston set to compete immediately following. The winner of the UH-Baylor contest will take on co-champion Texas Friday night.

"We can't let them penetrate on us and get the ball to (6-11 freshman Rudy) Woods," continued Myers. "We were successful in doing that the first two times we played them."

In Tech's win over A&M at the Coliseum, the All-SWC center was limited to only 7 points (four from the field), thanks to a potent defense led by Raider center 6-8 Ralph Brewster. But in College Station, Woods picked up 21 points—mainly from the four-foot range—and the Aggies won by five.

Tech advanced this far in the tournament by tying for fourth with Baylor—the Bears are seeded fourth in the tournament after winning a coin flip) with a 9-7 record. The Raiders then bounced Rice during the opening round last Saturday night 82-49.

During the Rice game the Raiders held the Owls to only 18 field goals (a post-season tournament record), indicating that, yes, their defense is ready to roll.

Since the Aggies place third overall, behind co-winners Texas and Arkansas, with an 11-5 mark they drew a bye until the second round under the new guidelines set up by the SWC.

Although A&M hasn't played a game in nine days, coach Shelby Metcalf doesn't feel his team is at a disadvantage. "We were ready for a little rest," said Metcalf. "It wouldn't have hurt us to have had a game on Saturday, but I don't think that's going to be a factor."

Myers agreed: "If I had been given a choice of whether to play or not," said Myers after the easy win over Rice. "I'd have taken the night off. Although we didn't have a rough game, it would have still been nice to rest a little instead of playing."

While Myers putting a great deal of emphasis on defense, Metcalf hopes simply to "control the tempo of the game. It's important that we get off to a good start don't get behind. We certainly don't want them to control the game."

This will be only the second time that the two teams have met in the tournament, with Tech winning both games. The Raiders defeated A&M 74-72 in 1976 to win the tournament and again 85-78 last year in a first-round matchup.

In fact, A&M hasn't fared well at all in the tournament, winning only one game of the four it's played. Meanwhile, Tech ranks second only to Houston (9-2) in total tournament games won, eight, against a pair of losses.

"We've had some success in the tournament," Myers pointed out.

Which, indeed, they have.
Not only will the Aggies bring by far the largest team into the tournament, but they will also have the youngest. With the exception junior David Britton (6-4), all four other starters will be underclassmen.

Woods, of course, who is averaging 14.3 points per game, will start at center. He will be joined by sophomore Vernon Smith, the Aggies leading scorer with a 15.4 average; sophomore Wren Wright (6-6, 13.1) and sophomore transfer Tyrone Ladson (6-1, 7.6).

Woods led the league in field-goal percentage (.629) after going 178-283 from the floor this year. He was 64.7 in SWC play only.

Tech, whose top scorer—Kent Williams—was 16th on the list with a 1.29 average will counter with Brewster (6-8) at center, forwards Ben Hill (6-6) and freshman Jeff Taylor and guards Williams and Geoff Huston.

Huston will be the only senior starting for the Tech team.

Returning Stars Top List

NEW YORK (AP) — Indiana State's Larry Bird and UCLA's David Greenwood, two of the country's golden frontcourt players, were named to the 1978-79 Associated Press All-America college basketball team for the second straight year Thursday.

The AP's elite group also included Arkansas' Sidney Moncrief and Michigan State's Earvin Johnson, two players from last season's third team All-America, at guard, and Bill Cartwright, the forgetful center of the San Francisco Dons.

The AP second team included Duke's Mike Gminski at center, Reggie King of Alabama and Calvin Natt of Northeast Louisiana at forwards and Baylor's Winnie Johnson and Iowa's Ronnie Lester at the guard positions.

The third team consisted of Purdue's Joe Barry Carroll at center, Greg Kessler of Michigan State and Notre Dame's Kelly Tripucka at the forwards and Sly Williams of Rhode Island and Roy Hamilton of UCLA at guards.

The team was selected by a national panel of sports writers. The 6-foot-9, 220-pound Bird led Indiana State from relative obscurity to the No. 1 ranking in the country this season. The Sycamores finished the regular season with a 26-0 record and the Missouri Valley Conference championship.

Bird, who can muscle inside or shoot jumpers from outside with equal ability, averaged about 29 points and 15 rebounds a game. He is rated a sure-fire pro prospect. "When he gets anywhere near the ball it belongs to him," raves Boston Celtics General Manager Red Auerbach. "Everyone in the country knows he can shoot. Other things impress me more."

The Celtics were so impressed they made Bird their No. 1 pick last year in the NBA draft and have until June 25 to sign him before he goes back into this year's draft.

The 6-foot-9 Greenwood averaged 19 points and 11 rebounds a game to pace UCLA. He is a super jumper, has good medium-range shooting ability and rebounds with the best.

Moncrief, the last of the famed Arkansas "triplets" after the graduation last season of Ron Brewer and Marvin Delph, made the switch from forward to guard this year with success. He averaged 22 points a game and, with unusual leaping ability, managed almost 10 rebounds a game from the guard position.

Dunbar Starting Gambling Team

By BOB BAJACKSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Although the Dunbar baseball team hasn't competed in a game for nine years, the Panthers have already earned a reputation for being gamblers.

Just watch a practice. Between a grader roaming the outfield leveling dirt, sprinkler system pipes lying parallel with the left field line, and rocks and holes aligning the infield, there is no such thing to a routine play.

Dunbar coach Kelly Rogers will see to-day what kind of cards he's holding when the Panthers open their first baseball season since 1970 against the Lubbock High junior varsity today at Mackenzie Park. The two teams will play ball at 4 p.m.

In other action, Monterey will visit Snyder, Coronado travels to Abilene, while the Lubbock High varsity squad takes on Caprock in Amarillo. Estacado has a bye.
They're adding a junior varsity football field and then are going to build a six-foot cyclone fence to separate the two," said Rogers. "But right now, our field is top small to take outfield practice. Heck, we don't have a right field. If a lefty pulls the ball, it goes down into the canyon."

By the way, a canyon that leads into a city lake begins where the baseball real estate ends.

Rogers plans to apply the risks of team practices to his strategy on the field. In other words, he hopes his team can create obstacles that forces opponents into making errors.

"We don't have much power hitting," said Rogers. "We're going to try to force the other team into mistakes. We're going to steal, double steal and hit the ball hard hoping to create infield errors."

Those drawing the assignment of carrying out Rogers' game plan include Micky Bridgers (Soph) at first base, Michael Pena (Soph) will be at second, Angelo Blanco (Soph) is the shortstop, with David Tagle (Soph) at third. The Panther outfield has Eddie Garza (Sr.) in left, Eddie Gaitan (Soph) is the centerfielder, with Damon Bearden (Jr.) in right. Johnny C. Johnny Ceja (Sr.) will be on the mound, with Daryl Green (Sr.) behind the plate.

"Johnny has good breaking stuff," said Rogers. "Basically, he throws three pitches. His breaking stuff is a curve and slider. The other pitch is a fastball."

What does Rogers expect to learn about his team against the Lubbock High junior varsity?

"Really, just to see them execute the basics under game conditions," said the Panther baseball coach. "Also, I'm going to be looking at attitude. During a game, it's not hard to tell who is hustling from those who have their mind somewhere else."

According to Rogers, the Lubbock High junior varsity team is as much a mystery as his own squad.

"I don't much about them at all," said Rogers. "It seems like all they talk about over there is their varsity team. They may be a little short on junior varsity players like we are. Anyway, I don't know what to expect."

Well, lets ask Western junior varsity mentor Mark Holcomb.

"We're going to be much like Dunbar," said Holcomb. "We don't have any power hitting. We're just going to get on base and make things happen."

Holcomb, however, feels that the Panthers will have an edge.

"Even though they haven't been competing, they're still going to be a varsity team going against a junior varsity," said the first year coach from Brownfield. "Since they're going to be older, I feel

Austin Trip Nothing New For Coach

By CHUCK McDONALD
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
Seminole coach Leland Caffey remembers the Indian's last state championship team real well.

That's because Caffey played on the 1955 team that captured the state cage crown. The last time the Indians made it even as far as the state playoffs was 1962. In fact, the last time Seminole even managed to capture district was in 1966.

Needless to say, things haven't been the same in Seminole since the Indians defeated Dimmitt 46-45 on Saturday to capture the regional crown. And on Thursday they begin the quest for a state championship when they meet Boling at 2 p.m. in Austin.

"Boy, it's been kind of crazy here ever since we won in Lubbock," said coach Caffey. "But you know how it is in a small community like this—the school is pretty important. And the people of Seminole have always been real good about supporting all our sports programs."

So what would you rate as a bigger thrill coach, playing on a state championship or taking a team to state?

"I believe this really has to beat it," said Leland. "It sure was exciting to play for that team that won back in '55 but taking a team to Austin..."

And now that the Indians are headed for Austin Leland thinks they've got a good chance at winning the whole thing, even though the defending state champion (Whitehouse) is back in the final four.

"When you've gotten this far you've got to think positive," said Caffey. "So I Sammy Williams doesn't have much to say when he's away from the mat. But that's alright. Williams' record speaks for itself—loud and clear.

The Dunbar wrestler, who has never lost a match in two years of competition, kept his streak alive during preliminary action at the City Wrestling Championships Wednesday in Chapman gym.

Williams ran his record to 9-0 by pinning Steve Wright of Estacado in the heavyweight division. Wright is the eighth opponent that Williams has pinned this year.

"That's my strength," said a quiet Williams. "I guess quickness plays a factor."

Williams will now advance into today's finals against Rodney Staggs of Coronado. Staggs qualified for the finals by winning a decision over Dee Cardenas of Lubbock High. Today's competition will start at 4 p.m.

Other championship matches include Robert Todd of Dunbar against Garland Timms of Coronado in the 126-pound class; Jimmy Matthews of Monterey and David Ruckey will battle in the 132-pound class; the 138-pound competition will consist of Micky Toleman of Estacado against Gregg Halton of Monterey; the 145-pound action will have Alan Lynch of Lubbock High wrestling Bryan Davis of Coronado; Jerry Pritchard of Lubbock High will go against Jesse Alamanza of Estacado; Charles Deatherage of Monterey and Geoffrey Crawford of Dunbar will make up the 167-pound action; and Herman Carter of Lubbock High and Eric Johnson of Coronado round out the competition in the 185-pound class.

Despite having a consistent pin record, Williams feels his main weakness is strength.

"I need to work on it," he said. "That just consists of long hours in the weight room."

Tech-Aggie Game Sold Out

Texas Tech athletic officials today announced that individual game reserved seats for the Texas A&M game scheduled for October 6 in Lubbock are no longer available.

Ticket manager Carol Baker said she can no longer accept reservations for individual A&M tickets because of anticipated demand for season tickets.

"We are now taking reservations for season tickets and will start over the counter season ticket sales in July," Mrs. Baker said. "Based on last year's season ticket sales, we are technically out of reserved seats for the A&M game. In other words, if we sell the same number of season tickets as we did last season, the game will be a sellout in regard to reserved seats. We still have some tickets for the grassy slope in the north endzone, however."

Ticket office reports also indicate increased response to the Jones Stadium Option Program. Options are currently being sold for 80 percent of their original price since eight years remain on the original 10-year option. More than 80 percent of the available option seats between the 30-yard lines already have been sold, according to ticket office reports.

"The response to our option sales has been exceptional," Mrs. Baker said. "This is the earliest since I've been at Tech that we have had to stop taking reservations for an individual game."

The option seats in Jones Stadium are priced at 80 percent of the original $300, $200 and $100 levels. There are still seats available in all option price ranges and will be sold through May 31.

The Red Raiders will open the season Sept. 8 in Lubbock against defending national champion Southern Cal. One of Tech's most attractive schedules ever also has the Raiders playing A&M and Arkansas at home in the first seven weeks of the season.

Girls' Cage Meet Starts

LEVELLAND — Greenwood, District 13-B champion with a 23-5 overall record, will face 9-B title-winner Sands (32-5) in the first round of the Region 1-B girls basketball tournament here today.

That game will start at 2:30 and will be followed by three more contests at 4, 7 and 8:30.

At 4, 20-8 Motley County from 12-B will take on 28-6 Groom from 3-B. At 7, 11-14 Dell City from 16-B faces 29-3 Follett from 2-B and in the nightcap 31-4 Nazareth hooks up with 26-4 Three-Way. Nazareth is from District 5-B while Three-Way was the champ in 7-B.

Saturday's semifinals will be held at 9:30 and 11 in the morning and then the region championship will get underway at 7.

Garrett Wins SCCA Opener; Elle Second

Malcolm Garrett Jr. of Lubbock, defending Southwest Division champion in Sports Car Club of America B Sedan racing, got his 1979 racing campaign off to an auspicious start last weekend, winning the SCCA's "Polar Prix" in Dallas over a field of 14 equally ambitious competitors.

Garrett's Datsun 710 also placed second overall in the field of 34, champion, who piloted an Alfa Romeo.

It was a good day for Lubbock drivers in general as David Elle, driving a Datsun 510 formerly owned and driven by Garrett, finished second in B Sedan and fourth overall. Ironically, Garrett had built the engine in Elle's car only to find it his closest class competitor.

At the finish, Elle's was the only other B Sedan running in the same lap with Garrett. Third overall and second in D Production class was Mark Rose of Fort Worth in a former Huffaker Engineering TR-7.

"The 'Polar Prix' named proved almost too appropriate. Rain and sleet Saturday at Greater Southwest Raceway forced cancellation of practice and drivers ran the Sunday race cold — literally. Temperatures reached only into the 40s.

After a disappointing 14th place finish in last October's Road Atlanta racing classic, Garrett has spent the winter completely reworking the car.

"It ran great, better than last year, and I think that the fender flares we added improved aerodynamics and handling," Garrett said.

ROOKIES REPORT EARLY

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle Seahawks rookies will report to the National Football League club's training camp July 14 at Cheney in eastern Washington. Practice begins the following day. Veterans will report July 18 and begin workouts the same afternoon. The Seahawks open their fourth NFL season with an exhibition game against the Minnesota Vikings.

It's Official: Rose Joins Phillies Camp

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — It was a happening. The messiah arrived. A few thousand disciples braved the Florida sun to greet him.

Yes, Pete Rose is here, and for the first time officially dressed in a Philadelphia Phillies uniform.

The Phillies last December signed Rose to a four-year contract estimated at $3.2 million, and club owner Ruly Carpenter made no secret that he felt he had purchased the final ingredient for a World Series winner.

Carpenter, Personnel Director Paul Owens and Manager Danny Ozark are tired of explaining three consecutive October playoff swoons after winning the National League East. They feel Rose would put them over the top.

The 37-year-old Rose — he'll be 38 in April — arrived at the Phillies' training camp after an all-night flight from California. He stood in front of his locker space at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday and paraded with a dozen sleepy-eyed representatives of the media.

Did he feel the responsibility the Phillies' brass loaded on his shoulders? Standing there looking strange in Phillies' pin stripes after 16 years with the Cincinnati Reds, Rose answered in that typical no-holds-barred style that has made him one of baseball's major personalities.

"Sure I feel that I can help them (the Phillies) get to where they want to get," Rose began.

"But everybody still has to do their thing though. All you can do is play consistent, hard, day-in and day-out. The team that plays the most consistent the longest is going to win. And the Phillies have a lot of tremendous consistent players."

Naturally, Rose was asked about his emotions, reporting for spring training to a team other than the Cincinnati Reds, looking around and not seeing Johnny Bench, Joe Morgan, George Foster and the gang.

"I don't look at it that way (emotionally)," Rose said. "Oh I got lost about four times getting from the airport," he joked.

"But I've got my shower shoes, my garters, T-shirts, a couple of dozen bats, and I'm ready to go," Rose continued. "I flew all night because I didn't want to miss the workout my first day. I've been late in the past because I was holding out. I'm not holding out now."

As for his former teammates, Rose observed, "Hey, those guys have good jobs, so I'm not emotional that way. I think I was emotional when I heard Sparky was fired," referring to the ouster this winter of Reds Manager Sparky Anderson.

"I just hope I can add that little dimension to get this club into the World Series," Rose added. "I'm not thinking about the March 9 exhibition opener with Montreal at Daytona Beach, I'm thinking October. This is where World Series are won, right here in spring training, getting into shape. The team that works the hardest, gets in the best shape, wins."

How about adjusting to the switch from third to first base? "Of all the positions in baseball to play, the easiest one has got to be first base," he said. "It seems when all the old-time players get old they put them at first base."

"If you can't catch a ball you don't belong at first base. I never had any trouble catching the ball. I don't have to throw at first. I know how to handle bunts, po-lups, things like that. And how to be the cutoff man, so I don't anticipate any problems.

"I guess the biggest problem I'll have is getting used to running to the bag when a ground ball is hit. That should take a couple of days."

Someone suggested that he was a little short for a first baseman.

"There is only one in the league bigger than me," Rose, who said he was six feet tall, replied. "That's Willie McCovey. You got (Steve) Garvey, and you got Willie Montanez and Keith Hernandez, and Gene Tenace. Those guys are all about my size. Maybe the next two weeks I'll grow."

Then, came the next natural question. Can he still play like a future Hall of Fame candidate at 38? "What guarantee is there that Rose can go to his right and stop that ground ball, or get 200 hits?"

"What guarantee is there that I can't?" Rose responded. "How old I am is immaterial as far as I'm concerned. I don't smoke or drink. The only thing I can do is take care of my body. I don't play like a guy 37 years old."

Rose said he's known players who were through at 25 or 35, but then there was the example of Gaylord Perry who, last season at 40, won 20 games for San Diego and was the Cy Young Award winner.

"Everybody is an individual in this game. Nobody can tell me that somebody can sit up on a perch somewhere and say that when you reach 34, you're on your way down, when you reach 36 you're over the hill, when you reach 28 you're in you're prime, because everybody is different," Rose said.

Rose, a member of the exclusive 3,000-hit club (3,164), said he felt he could continue to do 200 hits per season.

After cheerfully handling the multitude of questions, Rose went out and practiced picking up grounders and tossing to the pitchers covering first, and then took batting practice.

When he went to the batting cage, the fans followed.

Ozark looked at the crowd surrounding Rose and commented, "Hell, Oakland doesn't draw that much at regular season games."

ISU LEADER — Indiana State's Larry Bird rips down a rebound during the Sycamores' Tuesday night game in the first round of the Missouri Valley Conference. (AP Laserphoto)

More To ISU Than Bird

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Guard Carl Nicks says Indiana State is the best team in college basketball and he predicts the top-ranked Sycamores will start proving it in today's Missouri Valley Conference semifinal tournament battle against Southern Illinois.

"Right now I think we really got the edge in the tournament," said Nicks, the team's No. 2 scorer behind All-American Larry Bird, at 19.9 points per game.

"We didn't play that good Tuesday (when the Sycamores defeated West Texas State 94-84). We didn't have that much motivation, and Thursday I think we're going to play just super good. We might just blow out a team Thursday."

"We're number one. It feels good. I think we're the best team in the nation. I think we got things off our chest and are ready to play ball."

Nicks admits it's tough to get up for teams that the Sycamores have already defeated.

"But we've worked too hard for this to allow it to get away now. We really want to prove to the skeptics around the country that Indiana State is a strong basketball team. We can't afford to look too far ahead, but we know things are going to get harder as we go along."

Nicks also said the Sycamores may have been saving themselves a little against West Texas State.

State Cage Tourney Opens Action Today

AUSTIN (AP) — Four defending state champions — Krum, Snook, Whitehouse and Huntsville — will seek 1979 state championships at the 58th annual school-boy basketball tournament.

The three-day state tournament opens today with Krum, the 1978 champion in Class B, matching its 43-0 record against West Lamar of Petty, 31-6.

Since Snook won the Class A title but is in the B semifinals this year, the championship game in B could feature two defending state champions. Snook is 43-2 and opens against Whitharrel.

It is Snook's 12th trip to the tournament since 1962. The Bluejays have won four championships.

Whitehouse, 29-5, will defend its 2A title against Altair of Rice, Boling and Seminole. Of that trio, only Seminole, the 1955 winner, has ever won a basketball championship.

Huntsville defeated Mineral Wells for the 3A title last year, and the two teams could meet again in the championship game.

Huntsville, 25-5, plays Daingerfield, which has won 26 of 27 games, in the semifinals Thursday night, followed by the Mineral Wells-Bay City game. Daingerfield won the title in 1977.

Bay City lists eight players with season scoring averages in double figures, including sophomore Bobby Booker and junior Todd Chambers, who have each averaged 20 points a game.

Houston-Madison, 39-0, eliminated Houston Wheatley, the defending 4A champion, 74-70, in regional competition and will meet Lufkin in the semifinals.

Celtics Warn 'Bird Watchers'

BOSTON (AP) — General Manager Red Auerbach of the Boston Celtics has warned other National Basketball Association teams to keep away from their draft pick, Larry Bird.

"We are hearing rumors that some of the other teams in the league are tampering with Bird, and we're not going to let them do that," said Auerbach. "No way. He's our exclusive property in the NBA at this moment, and we are the only team in the league that can deal with him."

The Celtics drafted the Indiana State star last year when he was a junior, and they have his rights until this year's NBA draft in late June. If they do not sign him, he will be available in the draft.

Jan Volk, the Celtics' lawyer, sent a telegram to NBA Commissioner Larry O'Brien over Auerbach's signature. The dispatch ordered any other NBA team "to cease and desist from communicating with Larry Bird" or face tampering charges brought by the Celtics that could lead the commissioner to take some kind of punitive action.

Defense Turns Cage Trick

PALOS HEIGHTS, Ill. (AP) — Basketball Coach Cliff Doll of Luther South High School told his team to concentrate on defense and it responded by holding an opponent to two points.

"It didn't do us much good at all," Doll said after his team defeated St. Mary of Perpetual Help 75-2 in an Illinois High School Association Class A regional game Monday night. "We just broke a sweat. I guess you just have to live through these kind of games."

"All I told the kids was to concentrate on defense."

Robinson Trade Makes Phoenix Complete Team

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

The sweat glistened on Truck Robinson's thickly muscled body as he brushed a towel through his hair and across his bearded face. He was tired as he sat in front of his lockerroom stall, but he was happy.

"I'm almost like a rookie again," he said. "I'm excited when I go out there on the floor. Before I was frustrated; now I'm motivated. This is fun for me."

Fun for Robinson is wearing the purple, orange and copper uniform of the Phoenix Suns, who rescued him from New Orleans in midseason.

"Everything is different — no comparison," he said with a smile. "I used to play 45 minutes a game and do all I could, but we still lost. And there was all that bickering. Now I'm getting more rest, but I'm just as effective because I'm more selective."

Robinson didn't come cheaply, but then rebounding champions rarely do. However, the Suns felt the Truck's power was the missing piece in their puzzle, so they paid the king's ransom — two No. 1 draft picks, youngsters Ron Lee and Marty Byrnes and cash, reportedly $500,000.

"Truck gives us a dimension we have never had — the power game from the forward position," said Phoenix Coach John MacLeod. "He increases our options."

The one thing Phoenix has always been missing was power," observed Jack McCloskey, assistant coach of the Los Angeles Lakers, who are in a three-way tangle with Phoenix and Seattle for the Pacific Division lead. "So what do they do? They go out and get a great power forward like Truck."

Robinson, a 6-foot-7, 235-pounder whose muscles have muscles, is with his fourth pro team in the last four seasons. He left Washington because the Bullets wanted him to be a small forward, Atlanta because the Hawks couldn't pay him the money he asked for and New Orleans because he felt he wasn't getting the respect he deserved. But he's happy in Phoenix; as far as Robinson is concerned, the Truck stops here.

"I chose to play on this team because of the mixture, the way the guys play together and get along," he explained. "This is my situation. This is what I wanted. I've been on two-man teams and three-man teams and it was no fun. Now I'm on a five-man team and I think we have a shot at winning a championship."

The Suns now have five starters who have played in National Basketball Association All-Star Games: Paul Westphal, a potent scorer and perhaps the most complete guard in the game; Don Buse, a precise playmaker who rarely makes a mistake; Alvan Adams, the best passing center this side of Bill Walton; Walter Davis, the smooth small forward who won Rookie of the Year honors last season, and Robinson, the power forward who led the league in rebounding and minutes played with the Jazz last season.

A sure title team, right? Wrong. Titles still have to be won out on the floor. The Suns aren't world-beaters just yet, having compiled a 10-9 record with Robinson in the lineup. He's presently sidelined with an unusual virus that broke out last weekend and caused hive-like swelling on his body.

"Truck is just one person, you shouldn't expect too much from him," said MacLeod. "As a team we haven't been as aggressive or as consistent as we should be."

"But we didn't get Truck for February and March; we got him for April and May."

And June, for that's when the NBA playoffs usually wind up. And don't bet that the Truck-powered Suns won't be there at the end.

Why would San Diego sign Brian Taylor when it already has guards like Lloyd Free, Randy Smith and Freeman Williams?

For one thing, Free is unhappy with his contract and has made noises like he wants out. For another, Smith has high value on the trade market.

The Clippers, meanwhile, are over .500 and shooting for a playoff berth. "I've made the playoffs three years in a row (with Philadelphia)," said Free. "I know what it takes. All it takes is confidence."

Blazermania lives.

The Portland Trail Blazers are sold out for the entire season — that's 12,666 per game, including 300 standing room tickets. It's the second year in a row the Blazers have a season attendance of 519,306, 100 percent of capacity at the Memorial Coliseum.

The Blazers' final home game, April 7 against Los Angeles, will mark their 100th consecutive regular-season sellout.

Choice Thrills Giant QB

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — The way the New York Giants quarterback figures it, the football marriage of Joe Pisarcik and new head coach Ray Perkins is a match made in National Football League heaven.

Perkins, hired last week as coach of the downtrodden Giants, built a reputation last year in San Diego as an offensive football innovator.

Pisarcik, the free-wheeling, fun-loving No. 1 quarterback of the Giants, loves to throw the football, take a chance and put points on the board.

When told Perkins thinks along the same football lines, Pisarcik's voice from his Fort Lauderdale, Fla., home gained life and he blurted, "Let's do it!"

Pisarcik has not been a happy football player in his two years with the Giants. He never got along with former offensive coordinator Bob Gibson, didn't agree with Coach John McVay's conservative offensive philosophy and wanted to call his own plays.

Unless the Giants trade for or draft a quarterback, Pisarcik — who completed 47.5 percent of his passes for 2,096 yards, threw 12 touchdowns and 23 interceptions last year — is the favorite to beat, out the returning competition of Jerry Golsteyn and Randy Dean.

Pisarcik is worried, however, that Perkins will be evaluating him from last year's films.

"I will be evaluated from a situation where I never called the plays. I was not in command, in control of the situation," he said. "The people that were in charge were fired, so I guess they were incompetent. I don't really want to be evaluated from that."

Perkins indicated he will take advantage of the three mini-camps allotted new coaches to evaluate talent before training camp gets under way in July. Two will come before the May college draft and one after. Perkins also said he plans on calling all the plays.

Pisarcik, impressed with the results of Perkins' offense in San Diego, would not mind his new coach sending in the plays.

"When a coach calls the plays, I have to know in my head that it will be a good play for that situation. I have to know what he's thinking before he calls the plays. That takes a lot of work," Pisarcik noted.

Aggies Woo Top Back

OPELOUSAS, La. (AP) — Johnny Hector, regarded as the top running back prospect in Louisiana and one of the best in the South, will be playing his college football at Texas A&M — and not Louisiana State.

The New Iberia High School standout signed a national letter of intent Tuesday evening with Aggies as his mother and A&M Coach Tom Wilson looked on, ending a long waiting game for a number of schools.

In December, Hector signed a Southeastern Conference letter of intent with LSU, but earlier this week said he was leaning toward A&M.

"They were my first choice all along," he said. "They gave me a real nice trip and I really enjoyed my visit."

The 6-foot-2, 190-pounder has been clocked at 4.5 seconds in the 40-yard dash. Twice an all-state selection, he gained 3,322 yards in his prep career.

He was named the state's top offensive player in Class AAAA the last two years. Also considered a standout in track, Hector set the Louisiana AAAA long jump mark last spring with a lead of 25 feet, one-quarter inch.

Charlie O. Had Better Watch It

UNION, Ky. (AP) — Even living out in the country, Larry Luebbers doesn't have to go far to see a game.

In fact, this summer he won't have to do more than walk into his backyard to watch his own team play in his own stadium.

His team is the Cincinnati Suds, an entry into the American Professional Slo-Pitch Softball League. His stadium is from the sections of old Crosley Field which he bought when it was torn down and has restored in the backyard of his farm in this rural Northern Kentucky town.

"I've got it pretty good," the 38-year-old real estate broker admitted. "All I'll have to do is walk in my backyard and watch a game."

"I'm going to sit there smoking a cigar and say to myself, 'I'm the owner of this ballclub.'"

As ballclubs go, Luebbers knows that the Suds leave something to be desired financially.

They lost $114,000 last year, and Luebbers said that he was able to purchase them for less than the $50,000 franchise price because of "other considerations." One of those considerations is the stadium.

"I'm the only owner in the league with a stadium in his own backyard," Luebbers said.

When Crosley Field was demolished after the Cincinnati Reds played their last game there, Luebbers bought the left field wall, dugouts, commercial advertising signs, some seats, the scoreboard, the foul poles and some uniforms.

He said the cost for all the items was about $3,500.

He put the stadium in the backyard of his 210-acre farm and has been using it for "Knothole" baseball games.

Now, that he's in the big leagues, he knows that there will have to be some changes made.

For example, the stadium currently seats 12.

"As of right now, we're sold out for every game," Luebbers said.

He hopes to increase the seating capacity to 1,200. He already has a lot of the seats stored in his barn.

His son can hardly wait for the May 12 home opener so he can be the team bat-boy, but Luebbers admits his wife isn't too happy about the possibility of all those people coming through her front yard to get to the stadium.

"She thinks I've gone a little far this time," Luebbers admits.

But she'll be too busy working the concession stand to have much time to grumble.

What she's selling will bear the Luebbers' label too.

"We'll be running up some ham from our ham business," said Luebbers, who buys and cures hams.

Reds Star Reliever Stronger

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Doug Bair's first big year in major league baseball is a tough act to follow, especially for Bair. His dilemma: How to improve on a year in which he became one of the best relievers in the National League with the third most saves and the lowest earned run average of anybody pitching at least 100 innings?

"I've been lifting weights all winter in Cincinnati," Bair said. "I'm a lot stronger now. I don't even get sore after working out."

The Reds' bullpen ace has thrown himself into spring training enthusiastically, running wind sprints and logging untold miles on the exercise bicycle.

"The bicycle gets a little old, but I feel good because I came down here in pretty good shape," Bair said.

Bair, 29, relishes his budding superstar status because it was so long in coming.

He signed with Pittsburgh in 1971 and worked six undistinguished years in the Pirate farm system. Then two years ago he appeared in 45 games for Oakland and attracted the attention of the Reds, who acquired him for Dave Heverling and cash.

That was the turning point for Bair. He didn't allow opponents a single run in his last 12 relief appearances.

Later he had two month-long streaks in which he was unbeatable. During July he gave up one earned run in 18 appearances while being credited with four victories and nine saves. In September, he got six saves and a victory in nine games.

"I really didn't expect to get to pitch that much," Bair said. "Sparky (former Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson) had said he would rotate two or three of us around the bullpen before he settled on anybody, but I got going early and after that Sparky kept on calling on me."

Bair received a trophy at an off season banquet for being the league's low ERA man. He joked then that thanks for the award ought to go to the Reds' starting pitchers for giving him so many chances for saves.

"They know they deserved that," Bair said. "I've never really given me any trouble about it."

Tough as the assignment is, Bair thinks he's ready to pick up where he left off last year. He expects to be in better shape than most starting pitchers when he leaves camp.

"I have to be in better shape," Bair said. "Some guys only throw six innings, every four or five days, but I'm an everyday pitcher."

Dunbar '9' Gambling Already

that Dunbar will be more mature.

While Dunbar will field five sophomores, three seniors and one junior, the Lubbock High junior varsity squad will counter with seven sophomores and two juniors.

Starting for the Westerner junior varsity squad will include Rudy Rios (Soph) at first base, Sonny Bigham (Soph) will be at second, Carlos Hernandez (Soph) will be at short, with Lucas Flores (Soph) playing third base, Ricky Herrera (Jr.) will play left field, Dellwayne Ivey (Soph) the centerfielder, and Joe Ammons (Soph) in right.

"Since this is my first year here, it's really hard to say what this team is going to display today," said Holcomb. "Being mostly sophomores, of course we're inexperienced, but there is a lot of potential."

Holcomb describes starting pitcher Lopez as mostly a fastball thrower with a littler curve.

So, if Rogers gamble pays off, the Panthers will have to know when to walk and know when to run. If not, Dunbar might just be out of ace. Sounds like a song, doesn't it.

Seminole Cagers Head For Tourney, Finally

think we've definitely got a good chance. I hope that doesn't sound like I'm bragging but I think we've got some kind of ballclub.

The boys all have a real good attitude about it. But naturally they've been pretty excited since last Saturday.

And Caffey is excited about the way his boys have been performing this year. Four of the Indian starters have been averaging in double figures all year long. Danny Wrenn is the leading scorer, followed by Joe Stewart (13), Albert Villalva (12) and Mike Grass (10). That's not a bad indication of Seminole's depth.

"Well, you always have your hopes back at the start of the season. But I never really knew it would go this far," admitted Caffey. "But this is really some bunch."

And as any good coach will tell you about any given sport whether it be football, baseball, soccer or basketball, the individuals don't make a team. It's that intangible thing called "team play" that is the difference between winning and losing.

"This bunch probably plays better as a group than any bunch I've ever had."

said Caffey. "And I guess that's been the key. We don't have any selfish ballplayers."

In the other game in the AA division, Rice (27-7) will meet defending titlist Whitehouse (29-5) later in the afternoon. The winner's and losers will then meet on Saturday to determine the final rankings.

"I don't really know anything about Boling," Caffey admitted Tuesday night. "I don't even know where that is."

But in the background, a woman's voice was heard. What's that?

"Well, it's somewhere off in the country around Houston," said Caffey. "But that still doesn't tell me much."

For the record, Boling is about 50 miles southwest of Houston. It's just past Needville as you head to Lane City. For that matter, Boling could be on the moon as far as the Indian fans are concerned. Everybody knows where Austin is, and a good portion of Seminole will be in the state capitol today.

And if things go well for the Indians today, 'ol Leland Caffey will have a chance to make Seminole history. He could become the first native to both play for and coach a state championship team.

Corps Of Robots Handles Industrial Dirty Work

DETROIT (AP) — They don't take coffee breaks or demand vacations. They generally don't get sick. And they are not inclined to file union grievances.

They don't even see the problems that most workers do in their jobs — even though these are the dirtiest, most boring and least attractive in factories — but more and more they do "see" and even "feel."

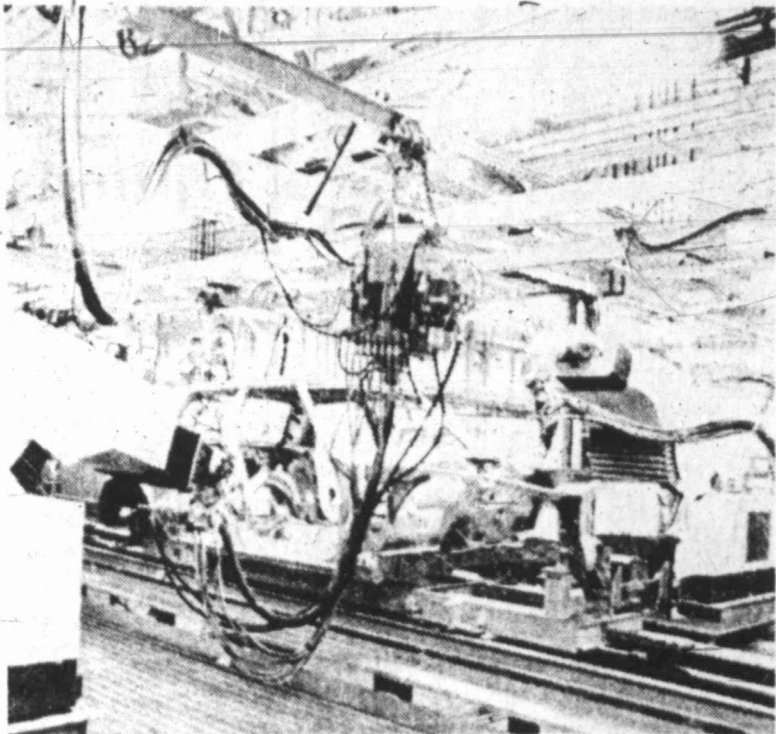

This ever more popular darling of American manufacturers is the industrial robot, a mechanical marvel closer to R2-D2 of "Star Wars" than most people imagine. He now numbers about 3,000 in the United States, some 1,000 in Western Europe, and perhaps 30,000 in Japan, according to the Detroit-based Robot Institute of America.

What he lacks in the personality of his myive cousin, however, he more than makes up with work from his whirring and clicking tubes, hoses and fingers.

"What comes out is of consistent quality," says Al Williams, midwest regional manager for Unimation Inc. of Danbury, Conn., the nation's largest maker of industrial robots. "If a guy leaves out a couple of welds, someone gets a car with rattles. With the robot, you get an improved product."

"One of the main things it does is it doesn't get tired," adds Donald E. Hart, head of the Computer Science Department at General Motors Research Laboratories.

Automakers are among the leaders in development of robots. Ford Motor Co., for example, has used robots since 1958, when a device was introduced in one plant to transfer hot parts. "It's a dead, ugly, dirty business there," says Ford spokesman Ed Snyder. "The robot was accepted by the workers and there was no union objection."

Ford now has 236 robots employed in such jobs as stamping, spray painting, die casting — "areas of worker discontent," Ford says.

GM, meanwhile, has about 150 robots, including 32 pioneering body welding machines installed in 1970 at its Lordstown, Ohio, assembly plant. Those are known in the industry as "pick-and-place" repetitive action robots, carrying price tags starting at $10,000, says Don Vincent, manager of the Robot Institute.

But research now, he says, is aimed at $100,000 sophisticated programable robots with ability to know what they are touching and "see" what they are doing through use of cameras.

"We think the idea of equipping robots with cameras and computers to give them vision is going to open many new avenues to increased productivity," said Frank Daley, GM's director of manufacturing development.

pick parts out of jumbled heaps in bins," says GM's Hart.

The world's largest carmaker also points to the new technology as improving efficiency and thus generating money for "unprecedented multi-billion dollar outlays for new product programs," says Alex C. Mair, vice president of GM's technical staff.

GM touts its PUMA — Programmable Universal Machine for Assembly — robot as "the latest and probably the most advanced robot on the world scene today." Recently unveiled at the GM Technical Center in suburban Warren, PUMA also is capable of "seeing," although its first use will be sightless work at a Delco plant in Rochester, N.Y.

PUMA will assist in assembly of small electric motors by picking up a hot part — about 450 degrees — positioning it, adding a component and then placing the part on a conveyor belt for further work.

A similar project is being developed by Westinghouse Electric Corp. and the National Science Foundation. The new twist in the $1.8 million experiment, however, will enable the robot to change and assemble different product styles or adjust to variations in parts, according to Richard Abraham of Westinghouse.

The reliability of the devices now in the plants seems remarkable, considering daily absenteeism in an auto operation of up to 10 percent. Ford officials say robots function 98 percent of the time.

The United Auto Workers union has no objection to their use, but the union's skilled trades department, readying for contract negotiations later this year, recently approved resolutions for a contractual ban on layoffs "if the introduction of a technological advance or change results in reduction of the workforce."

Robot backers contend no one is being laid out of a job, though GM's Daley says "they may be shifted around some."

Despite the continuing success, Vincent at the Robot Institute believes the robot industry still is in the pioneering stage. "More and more applications are being made," he says. "The aerospace industry soon is going to drill 4,000 holes in a wing with robots."

Vincent tells one story about a poultry firm looking for a robot to pluck chickens. And he says he heard a bank was interested in a robot for handling money, apparently to eliminate thefts.

Regardless of their growing influence in industry, most robots are not the thing you'd want around the house. Without proper sensing devices, they'd be running into furniture and generally being pests.

"It would be horrible," Vincent said.

Baltimore Looters' Profile Made Public

BALTIMORE (AP) — The typical looter who assaulted city businesses after the Blizzard of '79 was a young, unemployed black male with an arrest record who lived near where the crime occurred, police say.

The Baltimore police department reports in its "Newsletter" that 95.7 percent of the 379 persons arrested last week for looting were black, 73.6 percent lived in the district where they were arrested and 60.4 percent had prior records. Between 10 a.m. on Feb. 18 and 8 a.m. on Feb. 22, 374 businesses were attacked, police said. Low-interest Small Business Administration loans are aiding some merchants, police added.
