Pact Gains Approval Of Egypt

By The Associated Press

THE EGYPTIAN Cabinet approved the proposed Israel-Egypt peace treaty Thursday, taking it a step closer to a historic signing ceremony in Washington as early as next week. But Arab furor and Palestinian protest escalated and the worst violence in almost a year rocked the West Bank of the Jordan River

Israeli troops fired into a stone-throw ing crowd of Palestinian protesters in the West Bank, killing one young man and a 17-year-old schoolgirl, the Israeli military command reported. The separate Egyptian-Israeli peace does not guarantee the independent state the Palestinians demand

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, ounding optimistic, told reporters he hoped he and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin could sign the treaty in Washington next week

Have Achieved Peace

I think we have achieved peace tanks to Jimmy he told reporters in

I think it is quite natural that we like the main celebration there in Washington especially after (President Carter has done the whole thing really n such a marvelous way

State-run Israeli television, without citing its source, said the Washington signing would take place March 23, a week trom Friday. But a Begin spokesman denied a date had been set, and White House spokesman Jody Powell said in Wishington it would be difficult to have a signing ceremony before March 26 until after Carter returns from a trip to the U.S. Southwest Powell also noted that Begin is ill having been ordered to bed by his doc tors because of a cold, and said this and the Israeli Parliament's debate on the treaty could delay a signing

Weizman In Washington Israel meanwhile, sent Defense Minister Ezer Weizman to Washington to nerotiate the final details of the treaty's military annex with Egyptian War Minister Kamal Hassan Ali. The talks, involving such matters as the maps for the phased Israeli pullback from the Sinai Peninsula are expected to last two days Weizman also will discuss U.S. finan-

Texas Tax Relief Package Advances

liminary approval Thursday to a bill implementing the 1978 Tax Relief Amendment, including more than $430 million in state payments to local school dis-

A final vote will be taken Monday, tossing the complex legislative package (HB1060) to the Senate for more action. Speaker Bill Clayton kept the House in session through the lunch hour to get a final vote on the bill, which came about 3:15 p.m. During three days of debate, the House voted or: 61 attempts to revise the bill that had been sent to the floor by the House Ways and Means Committee. Representatives decided Thursday to make a property tax exemption for two cars per family take effect this year instead of in 1980 as the committee had recommended

Reimburse Districts

They also voted to reimburse school districts for the money they would lose because of the automobile exemption in 1979. about $17 million.

Sponsors held together a small majority to preserve the bill's complex formula for giving school districts state tax dollars to replace revenue they would lose because of property tax cuts.

In 1979-80, districts would receive dollar-for-dollar reimbursement. But in 1980-81, districts whose appraisals of homes fall below the statewide average ratio to true market value would recover only 90 percent of the losses caused by new homestead exemptions. Above-average districts would receive more than their actual losses - provided enough money is available. Article-By-Article

The House voted on the bill article-byarticle, and the closest vote, 81-48, was on school district reimbursement.

An amendment added Thursday says no district would get its bonus for up-todate appraisals until all districts had received their maximum share, up to $1 for tricts that receive more than dollar-fordollar reimbursement to use the excess to finance further tax cuts.

Rep. Stan Schlueter, D-Salado, attempted to raise the minimum reimbursement to 99 percent of actual losses. but failed, 66-64

Rep. Mary Jane Bode, D-Austin, said it would be "cavalier of a financially strapped Legislature to give away money as if we were playing school board bin-

Opposes Proposal

She suggested it would be wrong to award dollar-for-dollar reimbursement to 'districts that don't try' to maintain accurate and up-to-date appraisals of taxable property.

The House also rejected, 74-57, an amendment by Rep. Bob Bush. D-Sherman. requiring strict dollar-for-dollar reimbursement

"It's going to be a very bloody political turf you go home to if you don't pass this amendment." Bush said. "... For half this House, this bill is gigantic tax relief. For the rest of this House it is a tax in-

Rep John Bryant, D-Dallas, tried again as he had on Wednesday to eliminate timber corporations from a section taxing timber land on its productivity instead of its market value but failed, 58-69.

Court Action Feared He warned courts might hold unconstitutional a provision of the bill requiring timber companies to pay at least as much in property taxes as they did in 1978.

Rep. Bob Simpson, D-Amarillo, later added - without objection - a provision that would remove the entire timber tax break if courts hold the floor on timber company taxes to be unconstitutional.

The Tax Relief Amendment itself exempted $5,000 of the market value of each owner-occupied home in Texas from school district property taxes. Key provisions of the implementation

Nigeria Plans Big Boost

In Oil Prices April 1

NIGERIA has warned oil companies that it wants to raise the price of its crude oil by 17 percent on April 1, industry sources said Thursday The increase would be far larger than the 3.9 percent boost originally scheduled for April 1 by the members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. It would be almost twice as big as most of the boosts announced so far by OPEC nations who have raised oil prices in the wake of the Iranian revolution.

Analysts said Nigeria's new price might not, in itself, raise consumer prices. But they said that if other oil producers match the boost, gasoline prices could rise by 3 cents a gallon.

AUSTIN (AP) - The Senate confirmed the controversial appointment Thursday of William Schnapp to the state mental health board but balked at immediate approval of two other appointees.

The 24-5 vote to confirm Schnapp came over the protests of Sen. Roy Blake, whose district includes three mental institutions - Lufkin State School and the Terrell and Rusk state hospitals.

Blake, D-Nacogdoches, indicated he was concerned over testimony that Sehnapp favored closing state mental institutions and shifting more responsibility to community centers.

Schnapp's chief supporter, Sen. Gene Jones, D-Houston, said Schnapp is controversial because he has refused "to stand on the sidelines" of mental health care. He compared Schnapp to the famed Menninger brothers in Kansas, who "also were controversial.

Postponed for a week were the apnation pointments of William Daves Jr., a Dal-

The delay was ap obvious effort to give Edwards a chance to withdraw as Sen Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, says he has 12 firm votes to block the appointment.

Postponement of Daves' appointment. however, surprised the governor's staff The Senate Nominations Subcommittee cleared him by a 6-0 vote Tuesday.

The Senate has not yet rejected an appointee of new Goy. Bill Clements. Clements decided at a staff meeting not to offer Edwards any advice on whether to try to win Senate approval but instead let him make up his own mind. Edwards was quoted as saying he had

Californians Shaken By Earthquakes

JOSHUA TREE, Calif. (AP) - Three sizable earthquakes rumbled across a large area of Southern California on Thursday. There were no immediate reports of injuries or damage, authorities

A flurry of aftershocks followed the quakes, which measured from 5.2 to 4.4 on the Richter scale, according to seismologists at California Institute of Technology in Pasadena

The temblors - coming at 12 17 p.m. 1 07 pm and 1 35 pm PST — all had the same epicenter. 13 miles north-northwest of this desert town 130 miles east of Los Angeles, the seismologists said.

"For a few seconds it was pretty strong You could feel the roar underneath you," Joanne Morrison of the Joshua Tree Inn said of the first quake, which measured 5 on the Richter scale. "The lamps were swaving

After the second quake, which measured 5.2. she-said. "It was bigger than the first. It shook awful bad. My crystal. lamps almost jumped off the end tables."

The two tremors were followed by a weaker jolt measuring 4.4 on the Richter scale. The larger quakes were felt in San Diego. Los Angeles and San Bernardino. They also shook the desert at Twentynine Palms. Victorville and Palm Springs and the coast in Orange County

Mrs. Morrison said water splashed out of the pool. As she was talking, the third

AUSTIN (AP) - Interest rates would soar from 10 percent to 18 percent on non-mortgage loans of $175,000 or more under legislation advanced to the House Thursday on a 21-8 Senate vote.

"I wish you would tell me of the calls you received from your district from borrowers who said they needed this," Sen. Bill Patman told the bill's sponsor, Sen. Ike Harris, R-Dallas.

"It's the mortgage bankers and lenders who want it," said Patman, D-Ganado. "They see no reason for a limit, but they don't really represent the people of your district. The families of Texas depend on credit at reasonable rates.

Debate was a replay of Wednesday's session, when Harris agreed to raise the loan floor from $100,000 to $175,000 after Patman threatened to filibuster. Patman said families will be hurt by Harris's bill and separate legislation to raise mortgage loan interest charges from 10 percent to 12 percent Harris said lenders cannot acquire funds on the national market with Texas's 10 percent usury limit.

The 18 percent interest ceiling now applies only to loans of $500,000 or more

"We were told that these $500,000 loans were made to sophisticated borrowers who could bargain down the rates," Patman caid. "But we're not talking about those people any more. We're talking about small businesses and farmers and ranchers.

Sen. E.L. Short, D-Tahoka, disputed Patman's claim that lower interest orates would help rural Texans.

'Who is it that's buying land today?" Short asked. "It's the foreign corporations, foreign nationals and others and that needs to be looked into." Patman answered.

'Well, regardless of the interest charged; we'd like to have a way for these people (Texas residents) to buy land," said Short, a West Texas rancher,

The provision here is a good one to permit some money to flow through the marketplace." he continued "I'd hate to see the money market complete-

However, another West Texas senator sided with Patman

I've got calls from farming and ranch folks this morning who told me. We're afraid if you raise these interest rates the little guy's going to get cut out of the market," said Sen. Bob Price, R-Pampa

If banks can charge 18 percent on loans of $175,000 and above, they will be reluctant to let a rancher borrow less than that. Price added.

Emotional arguments aside, interest rates are determined by the free enterprise system of supply and demand, said Sen. Bill Meier, D-Euless. Meier is sponsoring the bill to raise mortgage rates.

You're not helping the people when you say we're going to put an artificial lid on interest rates and freeze out people wanting loans." Meier told Patman.

Minor $1 Billion Oversight

er-growing federal budgets have heard enough echoes from the Tax Revolt to begin thinking of ways to stretch the government's dollars. House Speaker Thomas P. (Tip) O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., for example, is suggesting that Congress spend more money for "oversight" of the money it appropriates for the executive branch.

The theory is that if Congress had the staff te dig deeper into federal programs, it could spot waste and extravagance. What sounds good in theory may not work out so well in practice, but the idea is worthy of considera-

That consideration should give full weight, however, to the opposite view that more Congressional oversight would merely result in another expensive layer of bureaucracy. this one in the legislative branch.

REVIEW OF existing programs admitted-ly is tedious and politically unrewarding work that offers few dividends to politicians accustomed to reminding voters and interest groups of their latest achievements.

A few in Congress, like Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., hold frequent hearings or conduct studies of an agency's performance to spotlight a particular abuse.

While drawing attention, typically they generate few constructive suggestions for remedying the problem, however

Even a veteran liberal like Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., concedes the new 96th Congress will not write many major new laws. Instead, the House Majority Whip predicted an upsurge in oversight because "the federal

EVEN THE LAWMAKERS who favor evdollar must be stretched further than ever before."

> ALL THIS candor notwithstanding, recent House debate showed surprising opposition to giving committees adequate financing to support additional oversight investigations.

Texas Rep. Ron Paul, R-Lake Jackson, said every additional dollar for congressional operations would have a "multiplier" effect leading to the eventual spending of many more dollars. This may be penny-wise and

For example, leaders of the House Ways and Means Committee had requested an annual budget of $2.9 million for its operations, compared with the $1.8 million it spent last year. Much of the increase was intended for oversight of the broad array of tax, trade, health and welfare issues that the committee considers

BUT THE HOUSE reduced the committee's new budget to $2 million, which means the panel will have fewer resources to review how programs are working and what changes should be made.

Many Congressmen profess to be embarrassed by the fact that the legislative branch spends more than $1 billion annually to oversee $500 billion in federal spending as well as write new laws.

If congressional committees and support agencies such as the General Accounting Office and Congressional Research Service take the oversight interest seriously, that $1 billion may be the best investment the taxpayer ever made.

"The commercial success of Taiwan also resides in her security and confidence in the future and the legislation may still not cope adequately with the uncertainty engendered in Taiwan by the new China policy.

In other words, the U.S. may be risking established trade with Taiwan for doubtful new markets in the Chinese mainland.

"American policymakers appear too eager to reject the scenario that the PRC will extheir own economic gain and subsequently to hold Taiwan's commercial activities 'hostage' in order to acquire additional western credits," analyst Woodard warns.

It's further evidence that abandoning an old friend in order to cultivate a new one may not always work out so well, especially if you've misjudged the intentions and potentials of your new "buddy."

ANDREW TULLY:

To Hoe

WASHINGTON-At the height of the turmoil in Washington caused by those farmers and their tractors, assorted cops at various levels of authority proclaimed that what the country needed was not a cup of coffee selling for less than 95 cents but a national loitering law.

I couldn't blame the poor harassed dukes of the constabulary because although the farmers were an amiable lot and, indeed, rescued many automobiles from a snowy grave during our catastrophic blizzard, they mostly made a mess of traffic and good nature.

But it would be a Herculean job to write an anti-loitering law that would be constitutional. The courts, including our Supreme one, have ruled often that first you must define loitering.

OUR ASSORTED statesmen, for instance, cannot decree that because a given action is a blasted nuisance it is illegal.

They must show that the alleged violators created a disturbance, and then specify what illegal acts produced the disturbance.

hington once had a law that forbade actions "in such a manner as to annoy, disturb, interfere with or be offensive to others." The Supreme Court knocked that one down because it made it a crime to "annoy

What they are saying is that it is okay if an occasional browser is picked up unconstitutionally so long as muggers and rapists are thwarted.

A LOITERING law indeed is needed in most communities if only to discourage what might be called the occasion of crime.

Surely, however, it would not try the intelligence of local authorities to draw up precise legis-lation limiting arrests to bonafide violators, while permitting even a citizen whose mere existence is nnoying to take a stroll on a balmy evening.

In this one, we 110 percent red-blooded Americans must remember that conduct annoying to some of us is amusing, entertaining, or stimuting to those who may be a touch more with-it.

Beleaguered Jimmy Carter, therefore, is faced with a major energy test of political courage. curbs has been pressed in the government's inner council by its wiser heads: Energy Sec. James Schlesinger, Treasury Sec. W. Michael Blumen-thal, Federal Reserve Chairman William Miller. Nevertheless, it has been widely assumed their ounsel would be overridden by Carter's domestic policy staff.

That assumption was jolted by the policy staff's chief, Stuart Eizenstat, when interviewed on NBC's "Today" program Feb. 28.

"I can't believe it," one corporate expert on oil questions told us, when he read the transcript of the largely overlooked "Today" interview. Eizenstat sounds like Bill Simon.

IT WAS LESS surprising to oil lobbyists who have found Eizenstat's door as open as the President's Oval Office is inaccessible

Eizenstat's lingering concern is that oil decontrol, while boosting inflation insignificantly, could be psychologically debilitating in fighting

Anti-inflation chief Alfred Kahn has warned the Carter was denied, and was renewed Feb. 28 In the interim, the President did grant an audience to consumer and environmental lobbvists opposing decontrol, headed by ex-Kennedy aide James Flug. On Jan. 4, shortly after that meeting. Carter wrote a gushy letter to Flug praising "a process of constructive consultation and cooperation between us" and "look(ing) forward confidently to our continuing collaboration.

MOVES TOWARD decontrol would end 'collaboration," with instantly escalated attacks from Flug-and from Kennedy.

Against that, the President must weigh what many Department of Energy officials now admit: the federal government's strangulation is primarily responsible for the acute shortage of leadfree gasoline, drastic reduction in drilling operations and continued dependence on foreign oil. If the President does not begin phased decontrol under law beginning June 1, it is highly improbable that controls will end abruptly as scheduled on Oct. 1, 1981. A decision, which had been expected by mid-March, now may be delayed by Carter's Mideast mission. But there are signs that he has begun to focus on this problem as one that surmounts his old neo-populistic hazing of big oil and actually goes to the heart of national security.

It's contrasting broad avenues-with mosaic patterned sidewalks and boulevards-its narrow 500-year-old alley-sized streets of the ancient Alfama near the city's bustling seaport, all are crowded with people, cars, a horizontal tower of Babel and commerce.

Lisbon, or Lisboa as it has for centuries been known to the world, is one of the more intriguing capitals of Western Europe

Founded by Ulysses in the 12th century, Lisbon has lived through the ages of the Moors, the invasion of hordes from the north, a devastating earthquake in 1755, the dismantling of its onceproud and profitable empire abroad and finally the threat of Communism.

TODAY, REMINDERS of that past remain from imposing St. George's Castle atop a hill overlooking the city to the beautiful Cloisters near the waterfront of the broad Tagus River to the city's own "Golden Gate" bridge and tower-strung two and three floors high. Baskets and vases of flowers dot window sills and doorsteps. Friendly dogs and cats loll in the midday sun.

It is a scene which, with its special sounds and odors, hasn't changed in hundreds of years. A few yards away, the wheels of "progress" move on to the beat of horse-drawn carts, growling trucks and screeching cabs. The picture, painted in pastels and weather-beaten shutters of closecramped homes and businesses, is one to do justice to a living masterpiece.

The Vietnamese news agency said Viet-nam proposed peace talks with China be-gin a week after Chinese forces withdrew across "the historical border" between the two countries.

The Chinese reportedly plan to hold some border posts they said the Vietnamese used as bases for raids into China.

China also proposed peace talks when it announced the pullout of its troops.

Vietnam accused the Chinese of "perpetrating barbarous crimes" as they

A Hungarian correspondent reported in Budapest that Lang Son, "a barbarian memento of the Chinese aggression, cruelly destroyed, was not damaged as deeply by the B-52 bombers of the preceeding U.S. aggressors." Laszlo Boegoes, correspondent for the government journal Magyar Hirlap, said that 80 per cent of Lang Son was destroyed and the 50,000 residents had fled the city. Hungary follows the Soviet line which strongly opposed the Chinese invasion of Vietnam

In a dispatch by Xinhua (Heinhua), the official Chinese news agency, China turned its attention to Laos which has expelled all Chinese aid technicians in the country. Before China invaded Vietnam. the Chinese were at odds with Vietnam over treatment of Chinese nationals living in its territory.

Through Xinhua, monitored here, the Chinese expressed "immense regret" at the forced evacuation and said: "We advise that the Lao government will not continue to slip down the anti-China

In a note to the Laotian Foreign Ministry, the Chinese Foreign Ministry claimed the expulsion was "another step taken by the Lao government under the pressure of other countries to undermine the traditional friendship between the people of the two countries."

Several thousand Chinese technicians have been in Laos working on a major road construction project. The note said China will be forced to suspend construction of the highway from Luang Prabang in Northern Laos to Muong Nam Bak, about 60 miles north.

about 60 miles north.

Meanwhile, Xinhua also quoted Vietnamese prisoners of war as saying they were victims of their superiors' propaganda lies about China and are being well-treated and better fed than at home.

Xinhua also reported the story of a Vi-etnamese worker named Trinh who claimed his wife and five daughters were killed by Vietnamese security forces for defying an order to stay away from their home in Trach An.

The Vietnamese repeatedly have accused the Chinese of committing atrocities and the official Vietnam news agency said Vietnam was setting up a commision to investigate Chinese war crimes.

Xinhua reports do not disclose the number of Vienamese POWs in China but one dispatch said there were "many captives" at a POW camp on the Guangxi

Q. I have been in a variety of mutual funds. A few have done reasonably well for a year now. But most of them have been clucks year after year. More recently, I have been putting money in insured six-month savings certificates - withdrawing from regular savings to do so.

Perhaps the high yields on six-month certificates won't last. But, having tolerated mutual funds for many years, I wonder if it isn't past time to cash them all in and put the money in certificates. If the vields on six-month certificates drop, I could always put my money in 6 1/2 per-cent one-year certificates. And 6 1/2 percent is better than I'm getting on most of the funds.

A. Whether you know it or not, you're asking me to outguess the future ups and downs of both the stock market and the money market. My crystal ball shatters every time that question comes up.

R. Right now, you can do better with the high yields available

A. Not at all. It's a major reason - perhaps, the biggest reason - why many people aren't buying stocks. And you can't really argue the logic. Why buy stocks, which might drop in market value, when it's possible to get a higher vield on something "safe."

Insured savings certificates are absolutely safe, as far as fixed numbers of dollars are concerned. Most bonds, of course, can fluctuate in market value butwill be paid off when they mature - unless the issurer goes bankrupt.

Innovations Mark Firm's Performance

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - A hardhat and a T-shirt stained with perspiration would probably be as comfortable on John H. McConnell as the conservative dark gray suit he wears.

A former steelworker from the Weirton, W.Va. area, McConnell now sits at the controls of Worthington Industries, Inc., as chairman and chief operating of-

From humble beginnings, McConnell has built Worthington into one of the steel industry's fastest-growing companies. For the last six years, Financial World Magazine has ranked Worthington Industries as one of its top-15 growth

The key to its performance seems to rest with the company's employee motivation program.

The motivation, simply, is money: everyone shares in the company's profits. No one here works on an hourly baployee receives a salary. And nobody is docked for a day off if they're sick. Since a large portion of an employee's salary is determined by profit sharing, anyone who happens to be off affects the paycheck of his or her fellow employees." That keeps absenteeism to a minimum, McConnell reports.

The plan seems to work. Started in 1955 with a $600 loan on McConnell's car. Worthington had profits in the fiscal year ended last May 31 of $11.1 million on sales of $191.5 million. An investor who had the foresight to buy 1,000 shares of the company for $7,500 in 1955 would now hold common stock worth nearly

Feds Charge Firm In Gold Case

CLEVELAND (AP) - A $62.1 million civil suit was filed Thursday against Firestone Tire Rubber Co. alleging the company illegally acquired more than $31 million worth of gold, the U.S. Attorney Firestone, the nation's No. 2 tire maker, issued a brief statement, saying, "We have no evidence of illegal gold trading by Bank Firestone.

The bank is a unit of the tire company. U.S. Attorney James R. Williams said the suit, filed in U.S. District Court, charges Firestone bought gold in 1974 and 1974 in violation of the Federal Gold Reserve Act of 1934, which restricted U.S. citizens and corporations from acquiring, holding, or owning gold directly or indirectly, unless authorized to do so by the Secretary of the Treasury

Williams charged the gold was acquired through a Panamanian corporation, the Alps Investment Co., and fraudulently

The Alps Co. was created by Bank Firestone Ltd., of Zurich, Switzerland, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Firestone Tire Rubber, Williams said

'This isn't a token payment," McConnell emphasized. "Up to 50 percent of what production workers are compensated annually can come from the cash bonuses." For members of management, the figure may be closer to 75 percent. The company's key part is Worthington Steel, a major fabricator of customized steel forms. In 1959, McConnell bought two acres of farmland just outside Columbus for a 16,000 square-foot building. Since then, Worthington Steel has added plants in Louisville, Ky.; Chicago, Ill.; Charlotte, N.C.; Detroit, Michigan; Monroe. Ohio. and Baltimore, Md.

But Worthington Steel is not all the company has going for it. It also owns Worthington Cylinders, which manufactures steel and aluminum pressure cylinders for gas, and U-Brand Corp., which produces fittings for the plumbing, hardware and industrial markets.

The company also has a financial interest in Advanced Coating Technology, Inc., which manufactures and markets reflective architectural glass.

"I suppose we could be considered a small conglomerate." McConnell said. Industry analysts say Worthington's settlement during 1979 and 1980.

The total cost to the United States of the anticipated Israeli-Egyptian peace accord is estimated at $4 billion over a three-year period, said James T. McIntyre, director of the Office of Management and Budget

"The total will be spread over military and economic assistance," McIntyre said at a briefing. But he said details of how the money would be used are not yet worked out. He mentioned the cost of an airfield as one expense.

The money set aside for 1979 and 1980 is in a special contingency fund in the budget. McIntyre said an additional $100 million is being requested for the fund for 1979 and another $600 million for

But he said it isn't a foregone con-clusion that all of the new money in the fund will be used for expenses in connection with the peace settlement. Some of it may be used to resettle refugees from Southeast Asia as well, he said.

Officials said Wednesday that most of the peace settlement money probably will be spent in 1981 and 1982.

Assistant Secretary of State Alfred Atherton. in a private briefing for the House Foreign Affairs Committee on the U.S. part of the agreement between Israel and Egypt, said he could not give a firm estimate on the cost to American taxpayers.

Rep Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis.,

chairman of the panel, said "no commitments have been made" to the Egyptians or Israelis. Other members of the panel said Atherton told them the United States would have to supply Israel with 55.000 barrels of oil per day under "worst

McIntyre also disclosed that a substantial increase in tax receipts this year should reduce the 1979 budget defi-cit to $33.2 billion, down $4.2 billion from the January estimate.

OMB budget figures showed there could be a budget surplus of $300 million in fiscal 1981, which would be the first surplus since 1969. However, the agency said the projection is only tentative since the 1981 budget won't be prepared for another nine months.

McIntyre said government revenues in 1979 are now projected at $461.8 million, up from $456 million estimated in January. Tax withholding receipts were up sharply in January and February, he said. The receipts may be due to higher-than-expected incomes of Americans because of the strong advance in economic growth in recent months, he said.

"It is too early to tell the exact cause,

but there is a substantial increase in receipts." he said.

McIntyre said the budget deficit for fiscal 1980, which begins next Oct. 1, is now projected at $28.4 billion, down from the January estimate of $29 billion.

Expenditures in 1979 are now projected at $495 billion, up $1.6 billion from previous estimates. Outlays for 1980 are projected at $532.3 billion, an increase of $800 million.

In addition to the new spending for the contingency fund, defense outlays will be increased in both years because the United States will pay for some military hardware that previously had been ordered by Iran, but was cancelled by the new government in that country, McIn-

The hardware includes two destroyers and some F-16 aircraft, he said. Outlays for defense will rise by $500 million in 1979 to $112.4 billion and by $200 million

The conservative daily Le Figaro commented, "We must rejoice without reserve the perspectives opened by President Carter's trip." The leftist paper Liberation said in an editorial, "If Carter did not return to the United States with the treaty he had hoped for, he seems at least to have obtained a considerable diplomatic success."

The French government has repeatedly asserted that any Mideast settlement should include a solution to the Palestinian problem. Egyptian Vice President Hosny Mubarak, who traveled to Romania and Austria Thursday on a tour of European nations to explain the treaty, is scheduled to meet with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing in Paris Friday. The editorial in Pravda, the Soviet Communist Party newspaper, said Washington is "conniving" with Israel "in its anti-Arab course" by giving security guarantees to Israel.

"Egyptian President (Anwar) Sadat who all the time has to look over his shoulder at other Arab countries and national public opinion - hopes to work out with American assistance a formula which would depict the separate deal as a beginning, part of an overall Middle East settlement, and would reflect his 'concern' for the Palestinians," Pravda con-

Injures Two City Residents A three-vehicle accident Wednesday night at 34th Street and Avenue S critically injured two persons and sent police looking for one of the drivers involved until about 7:30 a.m. Thursday when the man went to Methodist Hospital complaining of injuries suffered in the colli-

The 27-year-old Waxahachie man, who was not seriously injured in the accident, was arrested for allegedly leaving the scene of an accident and failure to render aid. Police said they released the man after questioning and turned the matter over to the district attorney's office.

The smashup shortly before 11 p.m. sent Sue-Barton, 16, of 1514 30th St., and John Gregory Boerner, 17, of 3111-A 75th St., to Methodist Hospital where they both were listed in critical condition

Boerner and Miss Barton were passengers in a car driven by Randy Gean Wor-

ley, 18, of 3414 37th St. A Methodist Hospital spokesman said Worley was treated and released, even though he was trapped in his car for more than 20 minutes and had to be freed by the Lubbock Fire Department's "jaws of life" rescue were seriously injured in the collision. The two passengers in the man's pickup were taken to the county jail and booked for public intoxication.

Three-Car Smashup Critically

Police said the two men arrested for drunkenness remained at the scene, but their driver disappeared, leaving his wrecked truck behind. The passengers reportedly refused to tell police who the driver was or give details on how the accident occurred

About two hours before that incident, a 27-year-old Post man was arrested in the 600-block of 34th Street on suspicion of driving while intoxicated. The man was taken into custody after he reportedly lost control of his vehicle and drove off

Pilot Picks Wrong Signal, Lands Pot Plane In Dry Lake

DIMMITT - Three Texas Tech University scientists conducting a pheasant research project attracted a somewhat bigger bird than they bargained for Wednesday night

The researchers' light, instead of a drawing a pheasant, apparently was mistaken for a landing signal by the pilot of a plane loaded with marijuana. The aircraft landed in a lake bottom nine miles

The pilot of the Cessna 210, a 32-yearold California man, was not injured when the plane flipped during landing. The man was in the custody of the Castro County Sheriff's Department Thursday. State narcotics authorities valued the plane's cargo of 71 bricks of suspected marijuana at approximately $141,000. Dr. Fred Guthrie, professor of Range

Levelland Police Investigate Death Of Senior Citizen

An elderly Levelland man, first thought to have been the victim of illness or an accident, died about 2:40 a.m. Thursday at Methodist Hospital, and Levelland police are now investigating the possibility that the death was the result of foul play. Walter William Blakeley, 69, was found about 9:45 a.m. Tuesday on the patio of his home, unconscious and suffering from a small cut on the lip and a swollen wrist, Levelland police Sgt. Gene Lane

Lane said it was first thought Blakeley had passed out and fallen. But when the man was transferred from Cook Memorial Hospital to Methodist, more extensive injuries were discovered, causing police to feel he may have been beaten. We're not sure. It's a possibility,

Lane said. Reports indicate Blakeley, who was transferred to Methodist Tuesday night, was found to be suffering from multiple injuries - some of them appearing to have been caused by blows to the head. Lubbock police were told the man's medical charts indicated the injuries were not caused by an accident. Police here also were told by doctors the man possibly had been beaten.

Lubbock Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy, who made an inquest into the early morning death, said today he will not rule on the death until autopsy results are analyzed. Lane said Levelland police first ref

ceived a report of a "sick or injured person" at Blakeley's residence from a man who had been playing pool with Blakeley earlier that morning The man reportedly told police he and

Blakeley had gone to his house to play pool, and that he took Blakeley home when it appeared he had become ill. Lane said police in Levelland plan to question several persons before ending the investigation. Services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at George C. Price Funeral Chapel with the Rev. Wilson Holman, pastor of Christ

United Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in City of Levelland Cemetery under direction of George C. Price Funeral Directors.

Blakeley died at 2:30 a.m. Thursday at Lubbock's Methodist Hospital after a short illness.

The Palo Pinto County native married Hazel Lee Wilborn Nov. 23, 1934, in Palo Pinto. He moved to Portales, N.M., and then to Morton, where he farmed and ranched until 1955, when he moved to Levelland.

Survivors include his wife: a daughter. Mrs. Tom (Gloria) Spencer Jr. of North Little Rock, Ark.; two brothers, J.C. of Tok. Alaska, and E.D. of Odessa: a stepbrother, Willis Jack of California; a sister, Mrs. B.P. (Gerlene) Putman of Mineral Wells: and two grandchildren.

and Wildlife Management at Tech, and two students, Mike Owen and Mark Watson, said they were trapping pheasants in a lake bottom for a research project when the plane made its first pass over

They were using a helmet-mounted nightlight with a power pack and said they didn't realize the pilot mistook their light for a landing signal.

He came over once - high - then later came in from another direction and finally made a third pass and landed," Owen said. "Dr. Guthrie was wearing the light and every time the plane came over we'd look up at him.

He was following our light and we didn't know it," Owen added.

The men said the plane landed from the west in the lake bottom covered with cat-tails. He almost had it stopped when he hit a ditch and the plane flipped over a barbed-wire fence," Owen continued. The three men said they pulled the visibly irate man from the plane, adding that he wanted to know, "What did you set me down here for?" Castro County Sheriff Martin Granville said the pilot refused to tell officials his point of departure or his destination. But the pilot reportedly offered the Tech group money to take him to Hereford to contact friends.

The sheriff said they refused after seeing the plane's cargo, and instead called the sheriff's office from a nearby

The pilot walked away from the site of the crash, but was picked up by Department of Public Safety troopers about 90

Tech Med School's Aims, Needs Cited

Avalanche-Journal Staff

The opening of a nursing school and the continued growth of local and area facilities are crucial to the maturity and development of the Texas Tech University School of Medicine, according to Dr. Richard Lockwood, its vice president.

However, that goal may be severely hampered by dwindling funds.

To help finance a local nursing program, med school has requested $655,000 from the state which, if granted, would enable nursing students to begin their studies at the facility by the fall of 1980, Lockwood said.

But, Lockwood told South Plains Health Services directors, another $26. million will be needed to complete construction of the medical school. Work on the facility is expected to exceed the halfway mark within a year, he said, and at that time all building funds will be ex-

"We'll need $26 million to finish it," Lockwood said, adding that he hopes to see the rest of the building used for the nursing school, a pharmacy school and additional medical facilities.

Lockwood told the board that the medical school also is working toward completion of the school's Amarillo branch which, when combined with further con-struction of the Lubbock facility, will permit the school to expand to its goal of 480 medical students.

Gerald Bosworth, executive director of Health Sciences Center Hospital, the medical school's teaching hospital, told the group the hospital was on the verge of several major breakthroughs.

Tanker Sinks In Strait Off Nova Scotia

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia (AP) - The British oil tanker Kurdistan brokesup in heavy seas and sank in the Cabot Strait about 44 miles north of North Sydney. Nova Scotia, Thursday night, authorities

The 32.531-deadweight-ton Kurdistan was carrying 203,000 barrels of bunker C oil when it split in half, said Reg Towers, spokesman for the Nova Scotia transport department.

The coast guard ship Sir William Alexander was on the scene. A marine radio operator who had been in contact with the tanker said an unknown number of survivors were picked up from the rubber rafts to which they had taken when the Kurdistan went down.

The ship first reported to rescue center officials Thursday afternoon that it was breaking up.

There was no immediate word on how many crew members were aboard.

The ship was owned by Nile Steam Ship Ltd. of London, England, and its port of registry is Newcastle. It was bound from Port Hawkesbury, Nova Scotia, to Sept Isles, Quebec.

The Kurdistan's captain reported early Thursday afternoon that his ship was splitting on both sides next to the No. 3 storage tank, Towers said. The splits were about six feet long and slightly more than an inch wide, and ran up the sides of the vessel about 15 feet below the main deck, causing a slight oil leak. Exact position of the tanker when it sank was 36:39 degrees north and 54:20 degrees north, Towers said.

MIDLAND (AP) - Three Texans, four Californians and one Mexican resident have been indicted on federal drug conspiracy charges.

The sealed indictments, returned Tuesday by a federal grand jury in Midland, were opened Thursday.

Among those indicted is John R. Door, 40, of Pecos. a former executive of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association. He was arrested Wednesday morning in Pecos, taken before U.S. Magistrate J.M. Preston in Pecos and released on $150,-000 bond.

Also indicted were Kenneth Stuckwish. Alpine, Texas: John Grant Passmore. Royalty, Texas: Alberto Gamboa-Gonzalez, Mazatlan, Mexico; Viyian Gonzalez, Alhambra, Calif.; Gregory Mark Halt-man, Tahoe Paradise, Calif.; Joseph Phillip Balfour, Monterrey, Calif.; and Ernest Lee Pemberton, Alhambra, Calif.

They are scheduled to be arraigned at 2 p.m. next Thursday in Midland.

WASHINGTON (AP) - American businesses are being asked to postpone some price increases for three months to avoid a surge in the nation's inflation rate, the Council on Wage and Price Stability said Thursday. Under the voluntary wage-price guidelines adopted last October, businesses were asked to limit their price increases to half a percentage point below their average 1976-77 price increases.

Half of the allowed price increases were to be made in the six months ending March 31, and half in the six months end-

Under the revised council guidelines the companies will be asked to take their second six-month increases in two increments: half in the three-month period beginning April 1 and the remainder in the three months beginning July 1.

Dramatic Increases The action was taken in the wake of dramatic increases in the nation's inflation rate this year.

"It now appears that many companies may be planning to raise their prices by the full allowable amount at the beginning of the second six-month period," said a statement by Alfred E. Kahn chairman of the wage-price council. "This could lead to a serious surge of prices in April and May."

To try to avoid that surge, the statement said, the council has gotten permission from President Carter to change its guidelines.

"I have discussed this problem with the president, and he has ordered the Council on Wage and Price Stability to amend the price standard to avoid this outcome, by stipulating that increases not exceed three-fourths of the allowable annual increase during the first nine months of the program, unless that is the company's normal seasonal practice."

Critics of the wage-price program have argued that the inflation increases this year reflect the fact that many businesses take their allowable price increases in October and November to get the benefit of higher price levels throughout the first six months of the program.

The price guidelines are intended to hold overall price increases to about 5.75

The Consumer Price Index rose 0.9 percent in January, for an 11.4 percent an-nual rate. The inflation rate last year was 9 percent.
The Wholesale Price Index rose 1.0 per-

Kahn concluded: "It is ... not in keeping with the spirit of the program for firms to speed up the timing of their price increases. This would be not only inflationary but also inequitable in relation to the treatment of wages, since the standards do not contemplate acceleration in the timing of wage increases."

Further Steps Hinted Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal had indicated earlier in the day that Carter might take further inflationfighting steps. He told the Washington Press Club that 'it's clear that the statistics on inflation are bad" and worse than expected in the case of fuel and food prices. But Blumenthal said the increase in the Taxable value would be determined by dividing an estimated avland by a "capita zation rate." The capitalization rate would be either 10 percent or the Houston Federal Land Bank's interest fate plus 2 percent, whichever was greater. Thus an acre of land that could earn a $30 annual profit would be valued at $300 if the capitalization rate were 10 percent.

14.5 percent this year in the basic price of crude oil. The first increase, of 5 percent, raised the price to $13.35 Jan. 1. Other increases were scheduled quarterly. The shutdown of Iran's oil fields, how ever, tightened supply and sent prices on the open market skyrocketing. Seeing that customers were willing to pay open market prices that often hit more than $20 a barrel, many OPEC members raised prices of oil sold under long-term contracts.

The oil squeeze has caused most of the world's oil companies to re-arrange their supply patterns and a government official said Thursday that the companies apparently were following International Energy Agency guidelines, allocating oil to countries based on their total consumption rather than on what they usually im

The effect of this, analysts say, is to spread the shock of the oil squeeze among the world's nations. Schlesinger told Congress last month that the shift could increase the United States' net loss of Iranian oil from 500,000 to 800,000 barrels a day.

Schlesinger has been criticized in recent days by members of Congress for his handling of the energy crisis. But President Carter, in a letter to Sen. Concini, D-Ariz., released by the White House on Thursday, said: "I continue to have full trust and confidence in Secretary James Schlesinger.

Israeli Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan, speaking with ambassadors stationed in Israel, disclosed some new details of the final days of treaty bargaining mediated by Carter, and predicted the treaty would pass by a comfortable margin in the Israeli Parliament. Israeli television estimated 90 of the house's 120 members would vote for it. Dayan, whose comments were made public by an aide, made these points:

-In a concession, Israel agreed to hand back El Arish, the town of 30,000 that is symbolic capital of the Sinai Peninsula, to Egypt in the first stage of the Israeli pullback, meaning within nine months of the treaty signing.

-In exchange, Egypt conceded to an Israeli demand and will send its ambassador to Israel 10 months after the treaty is signed.

-Israel relented on its demands for special access to Sinai oil, but Egypt agreed to supply oil to Israel at commercial rates and without discrimination. The United States guaranteed that Israel's energy needs will be met for 15 vears.

-Egypt has demanded further "goodwill gestures" from Israel, including the release of Palstinian political prisoners. Dayan said Israel is still considering these items, but Egypt's authoritative Al Ahram newspaper said Begin had agreed

Man Shoots Wife, Kills Self

DETROIT (AP) - Two hours after coaxing his wife from a shelter for battered women, a young factory worker shot her to death and then killed himself as officers stood outside their home, police said Thursday.

'They (officers) heard gunshots from within," said Sgt. Donald Nash, a police spokesman. "They forced the door open and found them lying side by side on the

The two Travics children were visiting relatives at the time.

The custom of all-night wakes began disappearing in many areas with the advent of commercial funeral homes. Now, of course, there is a "viewing" from some such hours as 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Most bereaved families prefer this method but it surely isn't the same as the old days.

There was a fellow in South Boston many years ago who had an unusual hob-He'd watch the Boston newspapers for death notices of Irishmen, most of whom he did not know. He would absorb the printed facts about the deceased and then go to the wake. He would offer his Wakes originated in Ireland centuriesdeep sympathy to the widow and give her before Patrick spread Christianity in the a bit of blarney about how he had worked Emerald Isle. man," he'd say. Naturally the woman of the house would invite him to join in and partake of the food and liquid refreshments. His routine enabled him to go to a couple of wakes a week for years. He played his part by contributing to the story telling. This guy became so well known for this activity that the Boston Irish hung the nickname "Wakes" on him.

Times have changed. In these violent days, thieves often read the obituaries and break into the homes of the bereaved while the family is at the funeral parlor or the church services. Police authorities warn the public not to leave their homes unguarded or unoccupied during this trying period.

What might have been the nature of some of the stories told at Irish wakes? Remembering that the Irish have always been able to laugh at themselves and kid around about the most serious aspects of life, here are a few examples:

An Irish weekly newspaper in County Cork once carried this classified ad:

'Ah, Monsignor, it's the lack of the airconditioning," responded Danny, rather lamely. "Everything is air-conditioned these days. The church should be too. You can't expect people to sit in church when it is steaming hot."

The pastor replied, "There's one place you know that has existed for ages without air-conditioning. I'm afraid you wouldn't be able to keep your cool down there. You would find that you would have the devil's own time with the heat!"

Americans Oppose Foreign Investments

By LOUIS HARRIS

By wide margins. Americans would like to see official restrictions placed on the amount of money foreigners can invest in the United States. A substantial 87 percent are concerned about the growth of foreign investments in this country in the past few years, primarily as a result of the decline of the dollar abroad. Here are the specific worries that Americans here at home have about recent investments in this country by Japanese, West German, Swiss and Arab investors, according to an ABC News-Harris Survey of 1,195 adults nationwide:

- By 80-10 percent, a majority feels that foreign investors' "acquiring American natural resources such as forests and coal mines" does more harm than good to this country. By an overwhelming 88-8 percent, most people would like to see restrictions placed on the amount of money from abroad that can be invested in these natural resources.

- By 77-8 percent, a lopsided majority also sees more harm than good resulting from foreign investors' buying out small companies in this country. And, by 84-11 percent: a majority wants to see such acquisitions restricted.

By 65-16 percent, a majority believes there is more harm than good done to this country by foreign investors putting money into farmland in the United States. This practice became an issue in a number of agricultural states in the Midwest during last Iall's congressional elections. By 83-13 percent, a sizable majority favors placing restriction on how much American farmland can be bought up by foreign interests.

By 62-16 percent, a majority feels that foreign investors' "buying shares of American companies" does more harm than good. By 82-13 percent, a majority

— By 56-21 percent, a majority feels that foreigners "investing in properties such as office buildings and shopping malls" in this country does more harm than good to the United States. A 77-19 percent majority would like to see the federal government place restrictions on the extent to which investors from abroad can put money into such acquisitions.

- By 54-20 percent, a majority also sees more harm than good in foreign companies' "establishing multinational operations here in the United States." By 78-15 percent, a better than 5-to-1 majority would like the federal government to restrict the amount of foreign money that can be invested in such multinational corporate activities.

Across the country, there has been a substantial amount of public interest in the recent investment and acquisition activities of foreign governments and companies. It is significant that a 54 percent majority of the public is very concerned about the practice. Only a small minority of Americans travels abroad each year and is exposed to the problems of a devalued dollar in other countries. But when foreign investors come into American communities and either become major investors or outright purchasers of an important company or asset, this becomes an important matter of personal concern to Americans.

Of course, the argument in support of such foreign investment is that by making investments in the United States other countries are, in effect, expressing confidence in the future of the American economy. In addition, such investment increase the number of jobs here. And, finally, it is argued that such economic and investment activity helps reduce the balance of payment deficit of the United States.

However, such claims appear to be all but lost on the rank and file. Americans seem to feel that national pride is at stake, and many are genuinely worried that ultimate control of the American economy might pass into foreign hands.

School District Picks Up Health Insurance Tab

Avalanche-Journal Staff Harold Harigger bemoamed "our elected idiots" on Capitol Hill, but he and other school trustees Thursday acquiesced to a new federal law designed to eliminate sexism in health insurance plans - at a cost of $56,000 a year to Lubbock Independent School District taxpayers.

The school board voted unanimously to have the extra charge paid out of tax monies instead of employees' pockets. In so doing, trustees explained, the school system still will be paying the entire insurance premium for its workers and all workers will be participating in the plan, allowing the district a discount.

School officials feared that if employees were required to pay the premium increase - which amounts to $1.41 a month per employee - some workers would drop out and the district's overall rates would go up.

We don't have a choice," trustee Giles M. "Buddy" Forbess said. Added school board President Charles Waters:

"If we refuse this premium increase. we are in effect removing health insurance" from the district's fringe benefits

The premium is going up because of a recent amendment to Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

The amendment forbids discrimination between pregnancy and other "disabilities" in group-health coverage.

The law applies to other local governments and businesses, too. However, the school system was especially affected because of the size of its work force (3,325 employees) and its high percentage of women employees.

The school district, perhaps the city's largest employer, estimates its annual health insurance premium will increase 8 percent due to the law.

The district, as a fringe benefit adopted in 1976, pays the entire premium for health insurance for teachers and other school workers. The cost is $17.80 a month per employee.

The cost is scheduled to go up $1.41 a month per employee when the district's insurance policy with Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Texas is revised to comply with the new civil rights amendment, Superin-tendent Ed Irons said.

Jay Gordon, the district's assistant superintendent for instruction and an insurance expert, told the board that the current policy puts restrictions on maternity

A female employee cannot collect for pregnancy-related medical costs unless she is married, she has been in the grouphealth plan at least nine months, and she is carrying her spouse as a dependent un-der the plan, Gordon said. (The policy allows employees to supplement the district-paid premium to extend health coverage to dependents.)

Under the revised plan, "any female in the group is eligible for maternity coverage. regardless of whether her husband is covered under the same plan or whether METRO

she is married or not." Gordon said. Also, the school district must "waive the ninth-month waiting period for maternity benefits." the school board was

The impetus for the federal amendment was a 1976 U.S. Supreme Court ruling which said that the previous law permitted excluding pregnancy from an employer's disability plan.

School trustees said that while they may not agree with the new federal requirements, they have no choice but to With the change, the cost of health insurance will increase to $19.21 a month per school employee.

The extra cost to the school district would be $28,130 for the remaining six months of the 1978-79 budget year."

The district's health insurance premium has been increasing each year. Last year, school trustees reduced the coverage to keep the premium the same.

Insurance will be a "big budget item" next year. Forbess said, and the district may have to consider further revision of the plan. Thus, he asked Gordon to expand the district's insurance study committee to include two more teachers. The committee will make a recommendation on coverage to the school board.

They will regale you for hours on their favorite methods of cooking liver and what you have to do to kill the taste, but I've never converted.

I have done a lot of thinking on the subject as to why liver is thinning. Some people think it is because food has to taste bad to make you look good. This is an old wives' tale and is simply not true.

The reason why liver makes you thin and why two percent of the dieters polled refused to even try it) is because liver goes a long way. Not only will a pound of it feed a city the size of Seattle for an entire month, but a single spoonful of liver into the mouth of a dietee will be chewed for three days, thus eliminating all the fattening food you might have eaten.

Hints from Heloise

Our daughter is getting married this spring and she wants to have the church decorations different and also add a warm personal touch

Instead of decorating the church and reception hall with cut fresh flowers (they wilt and die so fast), she plans on using potted plants. Something very colorful, such as tulips and azaleas.

The bulbs from these plants will be planted next fall - and lay dormant all winter. Then, the following spring on our daughter's first anniversary, the plants will be blooming beautifully and will bring back all those precious moments, only a year earlier when they were united

Photographer Suggests Stabilizing Variables

Associated Press Writer

After 30 years of writing this column from New York City. I am moving to Florida. During the period of relocation, photographer friends have offered to fill in as guest columnists. This week, some thoughts on fundamentals are offered by an outstanding author and photographer of animals and nature, Walter Chandoha: Stabilize the variables and your pictures will improve tremendously.

What are the variables? They are all the things in photography that give you a choice: various types of films. different f-stops and shutter speeds, focus, choice of daylight or artificial light and its intensity, and whether the camera should be on a tripod.

· The one big variable over which you have no direct control is the intensity and quality of daylight. Indirectly, however, you can do something about it and that

Let's start with film. The big initial variable here is: color or black-and-white? It is solved by almost every photographer as a matter of personal preference or necessity. Since most hobbyists use color film, this presents two choices: slide film or color print film? Whichever is selected presents another choice: fast film or slow My suggestion is to pick one film of medium speed - sav ASA 64 or 100 - and stay with it. Learn what it will and won't do in various situations. Keep notes on exposure and lighting data. When the results are back, check your notes against the quality of the exposure and make any adjustments required when shooting again. Above all, don't vacillate from one film to another. Find one that's dependable and stay with it.

The variable of f-stop and shutter speed causes most problems with most beginners, yet it can be precise and simple. Shutter speeds and f-stops work as a team in tandem with each other. Every time one is moved one way, the other is moved the opposite way to maintain the same exposure. Let's take 1-250-sec. at f-8 as an example. You can make it 1-500 at f-6 (double the speed while opening the fstop by one setting) or 1-125 at f-11 (half the speed while closing down the f-stop by one setting). All three combinations give exactly the same exposure.

There are two factors which determine the best combination of shutter speed and f-stop to use: subject movement and how much of the picture you want to be sharp. If the subject is in action, you must focus accurately and use a fast shutter speed of 1-250, 1-500 or even 1-1000. But the faster you shoot, the more the fstop must be opened to admit more light to compensate for the greater speed. As the f-stop gets smaller, the area of behind the point you are actually focusing on. At f-16 (larger numbers are smaller f-stops), a picture will be sharper over-all than the same scene with a large f-stop like f-4. This knowledge of depth of field, as it is called, is useful. Sometimes it is helpful to render a busy background so that it becomes out of focus because then full attention is centered on the subject in the foreground. To get that effect. focus accurately on the subject and use an exposure with a large f-stop (wide open) and whatever shutter speed is required. When shooting a landscape, however, it is desirable to have sharpness throughout, so use an exposure with a small f-stop (f-16) and the speed indicated by a meter.

By using a fast shutter speed, the variable of subject movement is minimized but an even greater cause of fuzzy piccamera movement, you can put the camera on a tripod - or learn to hold the camera steady when releasing the shutter. You must make yourself aware of an effort to be steady each time you click the release. Pretend you're squeezing an egg - very gently. If your finger jerks the release suddenly, the result isn't a broken egg. it's a moved camera and a fuzzy pic-

You can control the variable of daylight by exposure. The harsh shadows of a bright sun can be lightened by using a weak flash fill-in or by using a reflector. as is done in Hollywood. An easier way is to avoid bright sun and photograph your subject in open shade or when clouds diffuse the sun. The soft, hazy light of an overcast sun is great for people pictures.

Indoors, variable light can be avoided by using flash for all your pictures. The photographs will have the flat lighting typical of flash-on-the-camera pictures but it's one way to be consistent in picture taking.

To sum up the variable controls: 1. Standardize on one film and get to know what it will and won't do in a given situation: 2. The variable of focus can only be controlled by being careful and accurate in foculing before shooting: 3. Hold the camera steady when shooting and use a fast shutter speed to eliminate fuzzy pictures because of fast-moving subjects or a jiggled camera. If necessary, put the camera on a tripod: 4. Learn how to work with and control different lighting conditions to make the best of even unfavorable situations With all the variables of picture taking under control, you'll be able to concentrate on making the photograph. Your pictures will be better and show more creativity when you're free of the worry of the variables

Preparing For Paint Saves Some Problems

By The Associated Press

While it is debatable whether painting the inside or the outside of a house is more difficult, there is no doubt that the send 35 cents plus a long, stamped, selftailure to prepare the exterior properly addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. can cause more problems

When you paint the outside without regard to the condition of the surface, you are looking for trouble. The new paint may make everything appear perfect, since the covering hides the defects. But it's only a question of time before the surface coating starts to disintegrate until everything gets worse than it was before the paint job.

Proper preparation consists of brushing away loose dust and dirt, scraping or wirebrushing cracked or blistered paint, priming areas of bare wood, countersinking all nails and covering with putty and a metal primer and being certain that caulking is still intact at butt joints and around doors and windows, utility inlets and exhaust pipes. Areas under eaves should be sanded wherever necessary to assure better adhesion. Mildew should be removed and treated with a household bleach that contains trisodium phosphate. If mildew is common in your area, it is advisable to use a mildew-resistant

Blistering and peeling of wooden surfaces usually comes from a buildup of moisture under the paint. It occurs because vapor inside the house works its way under the exterior paint or because of water which has leaked behind the outer walls through the roof or the side walls. When the surface has what is called cross-grain cracking, it usually means that the house has been painted too frequently or there are too many layers of paint, which is why cross-grain cracking occurs mostly in very old hous-

There's an old saying that you should paint the outside of a house just before it becomes necessary. A house should never be painted unnecessarily, as is sometimes done when the surface is in good condition but somebody wants to change the color of it. Other causes of peeling and blistering are lack of adhesion between the top and the undercoat, because the surface was too glossy and because oil and grease were not removed before

Peeling and blistering caused by too ed by using exhaust fans, wall vents or a dehumidifier. Leaks can be prevented by caulking any openings in the outside of the house and by being sure that gutters and downspouts aren't clogging and per-mitting water to back up behind the

Q. - We intend to have the roof of our house re-shingled soon. The present roof is wooden, but we want to use asphalt shingles this time. Can they be applied over the old roof?

A. - It depends on whether the wooden roof is composed of shakes or shingles. If shakes, they do not offer a smooth surface for nailing. If shingles, the chances are that the asphalt can be applied successfully. However, in all cases of this nature, only a roofer can make the final judgment, since some other factors including the strength of the structural deck - must be considered

CENTER

Jean Bibby is blond, blue-eyed and pretty. She is also bright, and probably could have chosen from any number of career options. But her heart told her she wanted to become a nurse, and she is now enrolled as a junior student in Methodist Hospital's School of Nursing.

Mrs. Bibby said she had always been interested in the medical field but it took her some time to decide the exact area she wanted to enter. For awhile she had considered becoming a medical technologist. But she always had had nursing in the back of her mind.

"As soon as I got out of high school I worked for a doctor and during that time decided on nursing as a future career."

Mrs. Bibby is originally from Massena. N.Y., but grew up in Charlottesville, Va. When her husband. Thomas, an Air Force pilot, was transferred to Lubbock for pilot training, she was delighted for a number of reasons. First, she'd heard the South Plains was friendly to strangers. She had also heard that Lubbock boasted an excellent university, plus a well established and highly respected nursing school, and she hoped now to have the opportunity to begin working toward her

On arriving in Lubbock. Mrs. Bibby went immediately to the School of Nursfor information about requirements. She was told she would need to have all college work completed at least four weeks prior to the proposed admission date. The required courses included English, chemistry, anatomy and physiology, microbiology (bacteriology), psychology, sociology, growth and development (child psychology) and nutrition. In addition, a minimum grade of C would have to have been maintained in each course.

Unfortunately, Mrs. Bibby's studies at Tech were interrupted when her husband was transferred. Three-and-a-half years later, however, when she had the opportunity to return to Lubbock. Mrs. Bibby had not forgotten her dream and resumed her studies. On completing the requirements, she applied for entrance to the School of Nursing at Methodist and began training last August.

Mrs. Bibby says that currently as a junior she has her day equally divided between class and clinical work, all at Methodist. Course work consists mostly of nursing information. Heavy emphasis is placed on courses dealing with anatomy and physiology.

"If I had my high school and college work to do over and knew I planned to enter nursing school I would have certainly taken more courses in the latter two subjects." she said.

The student nurse says her clinical work consists of short-term care of patients on various floors - perhaps one week in cardiac, one or two weeks in neurology and so on.

Was she nervous upon seeing patients for the first time?

"You are a little nervous, at first," she admitted. "You're nervous about how patients are going to react to you. You want to do everything right and look professional and like you haven't been doing everything for only a week. But you get over being nervous fairly fast, because there are certain things you need to do and you have a time limit for getting

'So after the first few days, you lose any uneasy feelings and go in and care for your patient, forgetting whatever doubts about yourself you may have."

Are students graded during training. both clinically and academically?

Barbara Brown. R.N., a medical-surgical instructor in the School of Nursing. says, "Yes. The classroom work is graded much like any other academic work would be. It is much harder to grade students clinically, but instructors try very hard to be both objective and unbiased Students do receive a weekly clinical

BEDFAST RELIEF

The convalescent who must remain in bed is apt to develop annoying sores along with the stiffness that goes with inactivity. Witch hazel compresses, held against the sore sports will soothe and promote healing. A witch hazel massage will relieve the stiffness and tiredness.

might add that while a student is studying a particular subject in the classroom, effort is made for a student to have the opportunity to care for a patient who has a corresponding illness. For example, we try to assign a nursing student to a pa-tient who may have had gallbladder surgery or a cholecystectomy at the same time study of the gastrointestinal tract is in progress in class. Of course, we cannot always do this but we like to because the practice seems to reinforce what the student is learning, both clinically and acad-

Mrs. Bibby says she prefers the diploma program, because after having prior experience working in a doctor's office she knows just how important clinical work is. "After I receive my R.N. degree." she says. "then I probably will return to a university for a bachelor of science degree sometime in the future. For the moment, however, I think I can wait to learn more theory."

During her senior year, Mrs. Bibby will continue training but with nine-week rotations in all of the various specialty areas. "Probably at this time," she comments, "I will know more about my future preferences. I think I would like to do specialty nursing in the future

Another of Mrs. Bibby's instructors. Elizabeth Ellis (R.N.), says, "We have the greatest students in the world here in nursing school."

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

DR. PAUL E. RUBLE

Dear Dr. Ruble: I appreciate your common sense approach to nutrition, medicines, etc. I have a rather unusual problem I've not seen discussed.

am in my fourth pregnancy. In my cond one I noticed varicose veins in the labia majora and the vulva. I also had this in my third pregnancy. After delivery they return to normal. although not quite completely after the last.

Recently it has gotten quite large and there is a bit of pressure. Do you have any advice for this. How serious is it? After delivery, what can be done to correct it? Will it get worse as I get older? Is this reason to avoid another pregnancy? -

The labia majora and the vulva are outer portions of the female genital structure. Varicose (enlarged) veins can occur here and be a problem during pregnancy. They result from the increase in pressure that time. For most women the enlarged veins usually return to normal, but the strain of repeated pregnancies can take a toil and the return-may be less complete with succeeding pregnancies. For some women such veins may be a sign of a generalized vein circulation problem. After your delivery, you should have a thorough investigation of your general circulation, especially if you intend to have another baby. A doctor specializing in blood vessel problems might be able to pinpoint a specific vein or artery causing the problem. For that, surgery might help. Usually it is not a local problem of this kind, however.

For now, take the usual precautions. The problem is partially mechanical Stay off your feet as much as you can. Elevate your hips during rests. Some women do this by placing a pillow under their hips with the legs resting upward on a soft chair. Try sleeping on the side opposite the varicose vein with a pillow under that hip. Avoid leg crossing and tight undergarments

You may have to continue this for a time after delivery to save yourself other vein problems in the future. It's good prevention for any woman incidentally. You might expect some worsening of the situation in any future pregnancies.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am a 13-year-old girl with a big problem. I have skipped my period. I know that I cannot be pregnant because I am a virgin. It is scaring me to death. Also, I was sick at the time my period should have started. Does that have any connection? I'm afraid it is serious.

I doubt this will reach you in time to allay your fears, but it might allay those of other young girls in your situation. Yes. an illness can cause periods to be irregular or to be skipped. Also, young women often experience irregular periods until their ovulation and menstruation patterns become set.

Dear Dr. Ruble: What would make one's stool look a pale green? Is that a sign of something bad? — Mrs. P.W.

Stool color is important, but green is not one of the ominous shades. It is probably due to consumption of green leafy vegetables - lettuce, spinach, etc. With so many people taking so many vitamins there are many anxious reports of black stool that are often caused by the iron in them. Bismuth in diarrhea medicine may also cause this. A red discoloration may be caused by eating of beets, although any dark or red stool should be investigated because it can mean bleeding somewhere in the gastrointestinal tract. A very light color may indicate an obstruction of bile flow

Dear Dr. Ruble: I have been told that if I take one teaspoon of apple cider and two teaspoons of blackstrap molasses it will keep my hair from turning gray. Is this true, and could this cause some other ailment? - Mrs. M.K.

Cultivated Weeds Lauded As Graze

Avalanche-Journal Farm Writer What used to be called railroad weed because it grew heavily along train tracks, ironweed because it is so hard to cut with a hoe or burning bush and fireweed because it was a fire hazard growing around abandoned buildings. may now be called the nutritious forage of the future.

Kochia, an annual weed that was apparently brought to the Texas High Plains in trainloads of grain in the 1940s. is being studied for grazing purposes by Dr. Ralph Durham on his dryland farm

Transport Problem Hurts Grain Trade

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Two cabinet members told a new rural transportation task force Wednesday it should come up with fresh ideas on how to move farm products to market.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland and Transportation Secretary Brock Adams, cochairmen of the 16-member pan; el. told members to be tough and not avoid difficult questions that confront the beleaguered transportation system.

hearings will be held this summer and a final report to Congress will be due Jan.

Selected from among more than 200 nominations, the 14 appointed members represent a diverse cross-section of agriulture and transportation interests. many of which have had rivalries and conflicts over public policy.

The panel, for example, includes representatives from rail, barge and trucking industries: agricultural producer and trading interests; universities; the Interstate Commerce Commission; and one member each chosen by the House and Senate agriculture committees.

Bergland said it was "purely coincidental" that panel members geographically are weighted toward the huge Midwest farm production areas. He urged members "to bend over backwards" to make sure other parts of the country are included in their deliberations.

It is to be a study of national transportation problems and must not be bogged down in provincial discussion about spe cific commodities and transportation difficulties, Bergland said.

Adams, a former member of Congress as is Bergland, noted that the "very first case" of the Interstate Commerce Commission in 888 was the boxcar shortage and that the problem has not been solved by the ICC ordering cars from one part of the country to another or by other tools

Also. Adams said, the trucking industry cannot be expected to fill gaps created by declining or inadequate rail service. The rising costs of energy are a major factor, he said.

"Massive bulk shipments such as we are discussing in the agricultural community - we cannot put them out on the highways," Adams said. "We're beating our highways to death with too heavy loads in some areas now.

The area was divided into three pastures and grazed in six-day intervals. At the end of 29 days, the cattle were weighed and the herd gained about 300 pounds per acre.

We think the proper way for the rancher to use kochia is to rotate about 500 head on five plots of 10 acres." Durham explained

Cattle must have a calcium supplement in the diet and the salt must be taken out of the mineral mix.

By growing the plant in saline soils. kochia could draw enough salt out of the land to make the acreage useable for other crops after a period of time."

In addition to low production costs. raising kochia for grazing has aided conservation on the Durham farms. According to Durham, dust doesn't blow from his land because residue is chiseled under and the organic matter remains on the land. Also, there is more water percolation

Okay For Azodrin Pesticide Sought To Fight Corn Mites

A-J Correspondent

HEREFORD - The West Texas Chamber of Commerce has joined an effort to secure an emergency clearance for the use of the pesticide Azodrin on corn grown in the local area.

The WTCC action came in response to recent request made for WTCC assist ance in the effort during a special session of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Agriculture Committee.

In a letter addressed to David lyie. director of the Agriculture and Environmental Science Division of the Texas Department of Agriculture. Ed Coltharp, executive vice president of the WTCC called for the assistance of the TDA in securing a label for Azodrin.

In his letter. Coltharp indicated that 1.234,300 acres of corn were harvested last year in the area served by the WTCC, with an average yield of 112.5 bushels per acre and total production of 138,872,100 bushels.

Coltharp indicated that the corn crop in the region was valued at $343 million.

"A problem that has already cut deeply into this income crop has been called to the attention of the WTCC. The problem is infestation of a mite that is highly resistant to currently labeled chemicals. Yield reductions seem to be most acute in the Deaf Smith and Castro county areas. As an example, yields have dropped in these counties by more than 40 bushels per acre for each of the past two years." Coltharp wrote.

Coltharp cited information provided by the Deaf Smith Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service and county extension agent Juston McBride that directly attributes 65-70 percent of the vield reductions to the mite problem.

The insect is also reducing milo vields. Local authorities tell us that the dry cycle that has plagued the area is. in itself, conducive to heavy infestation of the insect. Put in terms of monetary importance, based on a conservative estimate of a 40 bushel per acre yield reduction, with 65 percent of the reduction attributed to the insect. Deaf Smith County has lost $14 million the past two crop years, and Castro County has lost over $20 million." Coltharp continued. The WTCC executive also cited infor-

which indicates no evidence of adverse effects from the chemical on humans or livestock, and pointed out that Azodrin is already labeled for use on other food

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce requests that the chemical pesticide Azodrin be labeled under emergenis the only chemical that is effective. The dollar losses, as shown, in our opinion, justify the special use," wrote the WTCC representative.

Copies the letter from the WTCC were also sent to Reagon Brown. Texas commissioner of agriculture, and members of the West Texas legislative delegation.

The WTCC's letter gave renewed support to an effort underway here since early February to obtain clearance for use of the chemical on mites in corn possibly in time for this crop year.

Leland Shelton of Whiteface Aviation Corp. of Hereford and Ray Frye of American Dusting Co. of Hereford headed an effort that led to a letter writing campaign in the Deaf Smith, Castro and Parmer county areas late last month.

lvie, of the TDA, said in February that a good possibility" exists for obtaining an Azodrin label, particularly if a large volume of letters from area corn produ

lvie's statement led to the organization of the letter writing campaign, and a number of local agriculturists penned letters citing the damage of mites to the area corn production industry, and the lack of good control of the pest with currently labeled pesticides

According to Ivie. the process of obtaining an Environmental Protection Agency clearance was expected to requre at least six months, and unless the agency takes almost immediate action. any affirmative decision might come too late to be of assistance to producers during this crop production season.

Cattle Deaths Blamed On Poisoned Feed

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP) - More than 600 cattle who died on a Nebraska tarm apparently were mistakenly fed a chemical compound used in herbicides and insecticides, officials said.

'It looks like it got into the feed accidentally, but we just don't know how," aid John, Harrington, an owner of the heifer calves.

The same toxic substance killed 127 cattle in Franklin County, about 70 miles southwest of Grand Island, last November health officials said

Alex Hogg, extension veterinarian at the University of Nebraska, said preliminary test results on the cattle that died this week reveal organophosphate, a compound so toxic only "a quarter of a teaspoon is enough to kill a cow."

Another official said more tests were needed to pinpoint the precise product and locate its source. .

Harrington said the cattle were fed last Saturday morning and were not checked until Sunday morning, when about 400 were found dead.

The toll rose to more than 600 by late Wednesday.

At $500 a head, the dead heifers represent a loss of $300,000.

Who'll assume the liability will depend on a number of factors including what the exact cause of the deaths was and what brought them about," Harrington said.

The cattle were kept at a farm about 140 miles west of Omaha owned by an-

Lloyd Bell. a state Agriculture Department official, said efforts were underway to find a burial site for the cattle.

Our immediate concern is that they don't end up in a rendering plant and present a possible danger of entering the human food chain," he said.

Turkey Production Increase Seen

CHICAGO (AP) — The rising cost of meat and poultry has caused a boom in turkey production, making turkey one of the few foods that has declined in price since last fall, according to government figures__

The number of turkeys hatched in major turkey-growing states rose by 20 percent during the last six months, outpacing a 7 percent annual growth rate last year in chicken production, the U.S. Agriculture Department reported. The recent surge in turkey production has caused about a 7-cent-a-pound decline in wholesale turkey prices.

Turkey producers "see the handwrit-ing on the wall. The production of beef will be down, and something will have poles in the center of the street are reto come along and fill the gap," said Lou Walts, executive director of the National moved and the holes they leave are cov-Turkey Federation.

Lubbock Regional Burn Center Proposed

An oil-well explosion, a house fire, an industrial chemical accident. Such tragedies often leave their victims severely burned - a condition West Texas hospitals aren't equipped to treat adequately.

The Health Sciences Center Hospital here is proposing to establish a unit to serve the region's burn cases - so that victims no longer must seek care hundreds of miles away.

The board of managers of the Lubbock County Hospital District. which runs the HSCH, today will consider the proposal. The board meets at 10 a.m. at the hospital, 602 Indiana Ave.

'No facility in West Texas presently provides organized, specialized, burn care." Gerald Bosworth. executive director of the hospital and hospital district. said in a memo to the board.

"The closest burn centers are Dallas (29 beds), Galveston (40 beds, pediatric and adult). Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio (40 beds). Burn units are also located in Fort Worth. Houston and treatment in West Texas is particularly serious in light of the area's number of burn injuries, Bosworth said.

Corpus Christi. The unavailability of specialized burn

For instance, he said, in 1977 almost 500 burn victims were admitted to the region's various hospitals - which, despite the lack of a specialized unit, provided the best care they could. More than 100 other eases had to be transferred out of the region to a major burn.center. Bosworth said.

"West Texas is heavily involved in petroleum and agricultural areas and is at risk of having large numbers of industrial related burn injuries." he added. Bosworth's proposal calls for a "four-bed unit for specialized burn care and a program for all phases of burn care delivery in West Texas." The Health Sciences Center Hospital is an ideal site for such a unit because it is

"centrally located in the area to be served," he said. The Texas Tech University-affiliated teaching hospital already has most of the support services - physical rehabilitation, psychiatry, social services, renal dialysis and the like - needed for burn treatment. Bosworth said.

Moreover, he cited the hospital and university medical school's "active department of surgery, with physicians trained, experienced and interested in primary burn care." What the hospital needs are physical facilities to complement the existing medical expertise. Bosworth said.

He has proposed allocating for burn victims four beds of the hospital's 16-bed surgical intensive care unit. The cost of setting up and equipping a four-bed area for specialized burn treatment would be about $178,000, Bosworth said.

The HSCH has been serving some burn patients, though not in such a sophisticated way, since it opened a year ago, Based on the number of admissions for burns in the past six months, we are projecting an average patient load of 3.2 patients or an 80 percent occupancy" in the proposed burn unit. Bosworth said.

A burn center may do well financially. For one thing, cost of treatment for on-the-job burn injuries usually is paid for by an employer's insurance company Bosworth noted

Bosworth said the board does not have to make a decision right now on the entire project. However, he wants the board to authorize him to seek a certificate of need for the burn unit, to start the wheels turning The request for a certificate of need must go through South Plains Health Systems Inc., and the Texas Health Facilities Commission — a process that takes three to four months, Bosworth said. While the application is pending, the hospital board will have time to considerthe proposal in detail, he added.

Yes. They are good, and you can cash or deposit them. There is no time limit to how long you can keep a Social Security or Medicare claim check before cashing them. YOUR PERSONAL BIORHYTHMS

By Bernard Gittelson, Author of "Biorhythm: A Personal Science" The personal science of blorhythm can tell you how your day will go.

Now you can judge the highs and lows of not only yourself, but loved ones and friends, and celebrities and stars. Biorhythm, our newest scientific discipline, is the study of the built-in natural cycles that powerfully influence our behavior.

Old Age Psychological, Not Chronological

By RUTHANNE BROCKWAY

You live alone and are growing older. Your memory sometimes fails, and you forget to take your medication or leave the tea kettle on the stove too long. Your son has offered to let you live with him, but you don't want to be dependent on him. What should you do?

Your answer to that question may determine whether you are psychologically young or old, no matter what your chronological age may be, claims Bert Kruger Smith, author of a book on aging.

Mrs. Smith. who gave tips on "Growing Old Gracefully" at Thursday's session of Texas Tech's gerontology conference, noted that the ability to relate to others is a prime factor in staying vividly alive at any age.

The solution to isolation and loneliness for people whose friends and relatives have died is not to wait to be rescued, but to reach out to others and make new friends, Mrs. Smith said.

"Flexibility, curiosity and a sense of humor help," she added. The author, of "Aging in America" put her philosphy into practice at Thursday's session by dividing the audience into groups to solve the dilemma of older people becoming isolated.

Participants, most of whom were over 50 and many of whom have faced the same problem, drew on their personal experiences to offer solutions.

Suggestions included getting a medical checkup, which could alleviate the memory problem, consider getting a roommate, get involved in senior citizens activities to meet people, use a timer for the tea kettle, organize a chart or pillbox system to keep track of daily medication doses, do volunteer work, en-

Mrs. Smith compared the struggle of Kunta Kinte in the popular novel, 'Roots." to that of older people. Although society repeatedly told him his name was Toby. Mrs. Smith said, he kept his African name because it was "a fight to retain his identity.

In American society, she said, mandatory retirement takes away a role. Society's attitude toward sex and the elderly tries to take away another role.

As roles keep being taken away, she said, "Pretty soon nothing is left, and it diminishes the person.

A negative self-fulfilling prophesy plagues some older people, she said. When society expects older people to be sick, tired and depressed, senior/citizens often fall into the trap of believing that is their lot in life. It doesn't have to be. "Face your own mortality, yes, but don't wallow in it, she said. Having work to do and people to love are two important aspects of overcoming the feeling of separateness that sometimes afflicts those who feel useless.

Involvement, interests, investment in living, integrity, inquisitiveness and intellectual achievements are the keys to growing old gracefully, psychologically

An older woman in the audience said age is a state of mind. "You are as old as you think you are, " she said. Another woman said with a smile, "Old is someone 15 years older than you are. Mrs. Smith agreed with both definitions and quoted from another author.

'Man has the capacity to become what he conceives

gist claimed Thursday. Although attitudes toward the aging have improved recently, a speaker at a session on gerontology at Texas Tech noted. "We're only beginning to think about and discuss the topic of sexuality for old-

Rozanne Thatcher, an instructor in the nursing school at the University of Texas at Austin, said living to an old age can be looked forward to as long as there is quality in that life and that quality living "includes participation in sexuality.

Mrs. Thatcher related the story of a nursing student who asked her 82-yearold grandmother at what age women lose their sexual desire. The older woman reflected for a moment, then replied, "Honey, you'll have to ask someone a whole lot older than me.

Because society still clings to the myth that older people aren't interested in sex. Mrs. Thatcher said, four important factors often are overlooked in attitudes toward senior citizens.

"Clothing and styles are as important to their (senior citizens) sexuality as they are to anyone else," she said.

Biases in clothing and the elderly include attitudes such as "That dress is too young for me" and the fact that relatives sometimes select dark-colored clothing for older people.

Yet changes in eyesight in the aging. which make it more difficult to distinguish between colors such as black and dark blue, mean that bright colors especially are important for older people.

One woman in the audience said....'I like bright colors more now because they look good with my gray hair.'

That attitude shows an interest in sexuality. Mrs. Thatcher said, making the woman and her husband both smile. "An interest in being attractive is part of sexuality." Mrs. Thatcher added.

Hair styles for older people are another often ignored, but important detail. Hair coloring and hair pieces are important for those who want to use them. Mrs. Thatcher said. Because the aging process often changes hair color and texture, senior citizens need the attention of hairstylists who understand their hair problems.

Socializing for senior citizens too often is sex-segregated. Mrs. Thatcher said. noting that some activity centers have separate areas for men and women. Activities such as dances that mix the sexes are an important function of senior citizen centers, she said

Because those who work with older people rarely think of them still being sexual beings. Mrs. Thatcher said. "We are so very insensitive to privacy for old-

She said privacy is "practically non-existent in nursing homes" and that nursing home personnel rarely knock before enDouble beds in nursing homes are a

Court Orders School Board Elections

HEREFORD (Special) - The entire Hereford school board must run for re-election next month following a ruling by a three-judge panel in U.S. District Court

The panel decided Wednesday four school board members elected in 1977 and 1978 were elected illegally and must face re-election The school board set that election for

April 28. The terms of two other school board members expire this year, and they have filed for re-election. A school board member who resigned last year. Paul Ramirez, is running unopposed for another slot. The regular school board election is April 7.

Three plaintiffs, Irene Cantu, Agapita Cantu and Oralia Guzman, had filed a class action suit to force the four school board members elected in 1977 and 1978

The claimed the four were elected under a place system ordered discontinued last August by the same three federal judges who ruled in the suit Wednesday. The plaintiffs sought to have all seats

The school district changed from an atlarge system of electing trustees to a numbered place system in 1974. In 1975 the federal Voting Rights Act was made applicable to Texas and made retroactive to any election changes made after Nov.

After the U.S. Justice Department declared Hereford's place system "unenforceable" because of its potential to dilute the voting strength of minority residents, a more than two-year legal battle between the Justice Department and the school district ensued.

The school district lost the battle. It will elect trustees this year from the dis-

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer Who should pay the bill for public education?

The question is stirring new debate more than a decade after a California man challenged the traditional system of financing schools by local property taxes a system which critics say leaves poor districts at a disadvantage.

The challenge was successful and it has led to change. On a nationwide basis, a survey by the National Education Association shows that this year, for the first time, state governments are picking up a bigger share of the school bill than municipalities:

According to the NEA, the states are paying 47.4 percent of the bill for the 1978-79 academic year, while local governments provide 43.8 percent. The remaining 8.8 percent of the money comes from the federal government.

A decade ago, the NEA reports, the states provided only 39.9 percent of the money, while local governments paid 52.7 percent, with the remaining 7.4 percent coming from Washington.

A Denver judge ruled earlier this week that low-income areas of Colorado faced substandard facilities, substandard equipment and substandard educational programs" because local property taxes provided most of the money for public schools.

The ruling, which is being appealed, said the state's school financing system was unconstitutional because it violated a student's right to equal educational opportunities.

There have been similar rulings in over a dozen states, say educational experts, but the situation remains unsettled in many areas because of appeals and disagreements over details. The decisions have varied - some have been based on state constitutions, others on education laws and still others on the U.S. Constitu-active in the Colorado case, major challenges to property tax financing systems are pending in Arkansas, Georgia, Massachusetts, New York, Ohio, South Dakota, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

Authorities, say several questions are involved. Among them: -What responsibility does the state have to insure that pupils receive a minimum level of education?

—Is it fair to tie spending to property value, penalizing poor areas? Is it fair to make rich districts subsidize poor ones? —And finally, does equal spending guarantee equal education?

Bob Gruenberg of the NEA said that the "courts are not telling the legislatures what they should do, where they can turn for relief."

David Long of the lawyers committee said the states have responded to the challenges with "a remarkable amount of diversity." Some have increased the amount of money that goes to education from statewide levies like income or sales taxes: others have set up formulas providing additional aid for poorer dis-

Many areas have taken legislative steps to revise school financing systems. The NEA says that since the early 1970s. more than 20 states have set up what are "equalization" programs to balance spending in rich and poor districts.

Long said property taxes are likely to continue to provide a major source of money for school budgets. "But the property tax will not be the source of inequity as it has been in the past," he said. "The states will equalize for different property

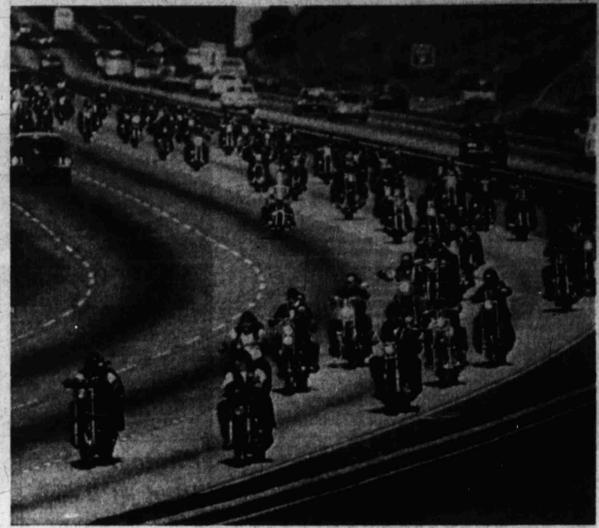

John Augenblick of the Education Commission of the States in Denver said, The reform movement has been characterized by increased state aid ... There's been a reduction in disparity.

The reforms generally stem from a suit filed in 1968 by John Serrano of East Los Angeles who was told by his son's principal that the boy was mentally gifted, but would get a better education in a wealthier district. Serrano moved, but he also challenged the system.

The state Supreme Court ruled that California's use of local property taxes as the primary source of school funds was unconstitutional and the U.S. Supreme Court refused in 1977 to hear an appeal of the decision.

Because of implementation of the court ruling and because of last year's passage of Proposition 13, cutting property taxes and limiting local funds for education and other services, the state share of the California school bill reached 64.9 percent this year, the NEA says. Last year, the state contributed only 38.8 percent of school budgets.

An NEA report shows that the state pays more than half the education bill in 27 states. The 10 states contributing the most, in percentage terms, are: Hawaii, Kentucky, New Mexico, North Carolina, Alabama, Delaware, Alaska, California, Washington and West Virginia. The 10 states contributing the least are New Hampshire, Nebraska, South Dakota, Vermont, Wyoming. Connecticut, Oregon, Nevada, Wisconsin and Massachu-

Freelance Writer & Photographer EIN GEDI. Israel - The Nubian ibex, the agile mountain goat of Noah's time, is still alive and well in Israel.

The largest population in the world of the graceful ibex roams the cliffs of Israel's Judean Desert and the Arava to the south, thanks to an active government policy to preserve and proliferate these animals of

In addition, the largest herd in captivity, about 60, lives in a special nature reserve near Eilat, Israel's Red Sea port.

It was only 30 years ago that Bedouin hunters, using rifles and other automatic weapons, had nearly completed the process of decimating The sturdy mountain goat, according to zoologist Len Aronson. Ameriran-born Aronson, a senior instructor at Ein Gedi Field School near the Dead Sea, has been making an eight-year-study of the ibex.

The danger to the ibex, said Aronson, is the fact that it has always been prized by hunters for every part of its body - its tasty meat, valuable skin and long, curved horns, which make excellent daggers.

Aronson noted, "Israel places a high priority on all wild animals and birds mentioned in the Bible and still living within its borders." Since 1955, when the Israeli government initiated a dynamic program of conservation, the indigenous ibex population of Israel has been saved from certain extinction.

Climbing up a steep limestone cliff near the field school here, the tall, rugged zoologist pointed up to a group of ibex standing on a remote boulder, contemplating the human intruders. "In the wild, an ibex will always remain on top," said Aronson, "It has a really fantastic ability to climb even vertical cliffs. The ibex is called 'king of the rocks,' a name it certainly deserves

The zoologist continued. "Fortunately, we have an ibex observatory at the nature reserve in Ein Gedi. Here people can watch the ibex grazing. and in the autumn rutting season they have a front row seat at the performance of the male courting the female. Frankly, it gets pretty theatr-

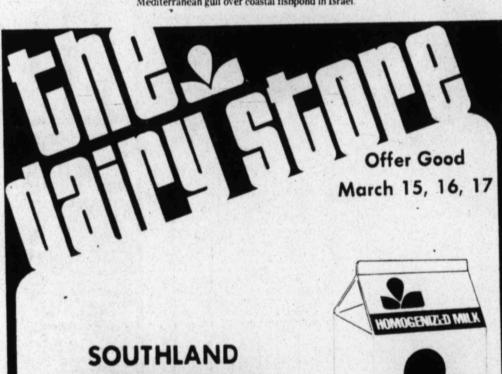

In Europe, where the ibex is considered a very endangered species, it is better known as the Alpine ibex or steinbock of Switzerland and Italy. Three large American zoos have acquired ibex herds. They are the Brookfield (Ill.) Game Park, the Phoenix (Ariz.) Zoo, and the Zoological Gardens at San Diego, Calif.

The largest captive herd, however, exists at the Hai-Bar Reserve for Animals of the Bible, recently opened to the public, in Israel's Arava desert. There. 60 ibex live in specially designed "no stress" conditions. The nucleus of the herd was started in 1972 when nature wardens "kidnapped" day-old kids from caves in Ein Gedi where the mothers had gone to give birth. (A three-day-old ibex can already outrun and outclimb expert mountaineers.) The kids were bottle-fed by Dutch-born agronomist Mike Van Grevenbroek and grew up to breed and multiply

According to Avraham Yoffe, director of Hai-Bar and head of Israel's Nature Reserves Authority, there are 2,500 ibex roaming the steep cliffs of the Judean Desert and the Arava. "We consider the ibex a natural resource and we're doing our best to conserve them," he stated

Judge Says Marvin Trial 'Dragging On'

LOS ANGELES (AP).— The judge in the Lee Marvin property settlement case ordered attorneys for the actor to conclude their case by Friday, saying the trial had dragged for too long.

"This trial is now ending its ninth week," Superior Court Judge Arthur Marshall declared Thursday. "The court believes ample leeway has been given to all counsel to proceed with their case.

"I will allow you one cleanup witness tomorrow, and then we must proceed with rebuttal."

He spoke out after a defense lawyer, Berndt Lohr-Schmidt, announced that some financial schedules, which were to yet and could not be finished this week.

Marvin Mitchelson, the attorney for Michelle Triola Marvin, had protested any extension of the defense case, saying he had flown in rebuttal witnesses from out of state and out of the country. He said some of them would have to be can-be presented as evidence, were not ready celed unless he ould proceed quickly.

After the argument, the defense case resumed with Marvin's business manager. Edward Silver, on the stand.

Earlier, the trial was hastily recessed because an anonymous male caller told the county switchboard there were four bombs hidden in the courthouse and that they would go off sometime between 10 a m. and noon. Despite the scare, the building was not evacuated although it was thoroughly searched.

Marvin concluded his testimony
Wednesday following a ruling that his sex

hife was not relevant to the case.

Miss Marvin is seeking half the $3.6 million she claims Marvin earned during the years they lived together.

Pope Sees Uncontrolled Technology As Courting Destruction

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II, in his first encyclical, said Thursday the arms race and uncontrolled technological advancement threaten mankind with the biggest "unimaginable self-destruction" in history.

And the Polish-born pontiff, the first non-Italian pope in more than 400 years. assailed consumerism that threatens to make human beings "the slave of things.

He also pledged to champion the rights of the hungry and the oppressed, and denounced "concentration camps, violence, torture, terrorism, and discrimination.'

John Paul, who was a priest and bishop in Poland for 32 years before his election, spoke of atheist regimes where believers are "barely tolerated or are treated as second-class citizens or are even - and this has already happened - entirely deprived of the rights of citizenship."

The encyclical was titled "Redemptor Hominis," Latin for Redeemer of Man. An encyclical is a solemn papal letter informing the church and its members on matters of importance. Issued infrequently, sometimes several years apart, they are the main vehicle used by popes to communicate their teachings. Vatican Radio said John Paul wrote the encyclical himself, although previous popes generally have been asssisted by theologians and other church experts.

John Paul denounced regimes that give 'only atheism the right of citizenship' and said there can be no social justice where freedom is trampled upon.

He also said industrialized countries were feeding wars among other nations through the arms trade. The pope spoke of "modern weapons and means of destruction placed at the service of armed conflicts and wars that are ... a form of chauvinism, imperialism, and neocolonialism of one kind or another.

Many Vatican experts said the pope, in outlining his policies, sought to avoid letting the church be used politically or ideologically. "The pope is taking no sides between powers and ideologies but places the church on the side of Christ and of man, focusing on both the rights and needs of people," commented the Rev. Robert Graham, an American Jesuit scholar based here.

The pope said: "We all know well that the areas of misery and hunger on our globe could have been made fertile in a short time if the gigantic investments for armaments at the service of war and destruction had been changed into investments for food at the service of life."

He added pollution and weapons often turn man into an "exploiter and destroy-

"Man lives increasingly in fear," the pope said. "He is afraid that what he proices ... can become the means and instrument for an unimaginable self-destruction, compared with which all the cataclysms and catastrophes of history known to us seem to fade away;'

The 18.000-word encyclical was released as the 58-year-old pontiff completed his first five months in office. It was addressed to the world's 750 million Roman Catholics and to "all men and women of goodwill.

In the encyclical. John Paul said major threats to real progress include abortion. pollution and war. He contrasted achievements of "the world of the space flights" with "the threat of pollution of the natural environment ... the armed conflicts continually breaking out over and over again, or the prospectives of self-destruction through the use of atomic. hydrogen, neutron and similar weapons, or the lack of respect for the life of

In what Graham said said was the pope's "personal experience face-to-face with a Communist totalitarian state.' John Paul spoke of religious oppression as a "radical injustice." He said: "Certainly the curtailment of the religious freedom of individuals and communities is not only a painful experience but it is above all an attack on man's very dignity. independently of the religion professed

The pope appealed to Roman Catholic priests to uphold priestly celibacy and voiced strong support for ecumenical efforts for Christian unity.

He warned of the risks of a consumer society and said: "Hand in hand go a certain abuse of freedom by one group - an abuse linked precisely with a consumer attitude uncontrolled by ethics - and a limitation by it of the freedom of the oth-

Loans Help Cover High College Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) - With high school seniors across the nation working on their college applications at this time of year, concern about paying for that education is growing among parents.

One way to help ease the burden is the Guaranteed Student Loan Program. which provides low-interest loans from banks, credit unions and other lenders. Repayment of the loans is guaranteed by the state or federal government but the lenders choose to whom they will make loans, based on program guidelines.

Undergraduates can borrow up to $2,-500 a year and graduate students up to $5,000 a year, at 7 percent interest. And the federal government will pay the interest on the loan until you begin repay-

Students usually begin making payments on the loan between nine and 12 months after leaving school and they are generally allowed five to 10 years to pay it off. In most cases, payments must be at least $360 a year.

These repayments can be deferred for up to three years for persons serving in the armed forces. Peace Corps or AC-TION volunteer programs.

Applications for these loans can be obtained at most lending institutions as well as schools and regional office of the federal Office of Education.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: It's not the right time to try and make progress in communicating and coming to an agreement with others, so sidestep attempting to do so for now. Concentrate on plans for the future.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Not a good day to expect associates to do you desire, since they are concerned with own affairs. Use care in motion. TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Be prepared to do own work today without assistance from others. The use of tact can produce the right results now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have good creative ideas but you have to work hard to make them successful. Be alert at all times today. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't become too concerned with the problems of others now, or you could come out the loser. Be wise. LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A letter that is annoying should not be ansi til your temper cools off. Then you can do so intelligently. Be logical. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Not a good day to make decisions on important business matters since your thinking is not quite up to par now. LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A personal matter should be well thought out before do anything about it. Show increased devotion to loved one.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't try to obtain information you need that would require unorthodox methods. Handle a credit matter wisely SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Steer clear of irate friends and avoid arguments. Know what your aims are, personal and in business. Make plans to CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan 20) Do nothing that could irk anyone who has power over your affairs or you could later regret it. Show that you have poise AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Not a good time to start a new project. You don't need a new ally at this time, so discourage one who is pressuring you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) You want to renege on some promise, but it's to your best interest to carry through. Don't lose your temper with anyone. IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY...he or she will have a pleasant disposition, plus the ability to become a peacemaker, so encourage this and your progeny could be a positive force in society. Final Radiation Checks For Old Radium Dumps

DENVER (AP) - Health officials began making their final checks for longforgotten radium dumps Thursday, one month after they started a search that has turned up 32 sites emitting high levels of radiation

Eight potential danger zones remained to be checked in Denver. "I feel when these are checked out we will be finished." said Jim Montgomery, chief of the State Health Department's radiation section.

He said there is no evidence of widespread radioactivity throughout Denver. but he did caution: "There are some things that we probably never will know"

Twenty-seven sites — isolated buildings and land tracts — have been located in Denver and five others elsewhere in Colorado. They have been found to emit radiation 5 times to 200 times normal.

A person standing for 10 hours near the highest radiation level recorded in the city would receive a dose equivalent to an average chest X-ray. Montgomery

Montgomery said the technology exists to clean up the isolated radiumdumps, at a cost of at least $1 million to $2 million. However, no plans are underway and liability for the contamination hasn't been determined.

The radioactivity is left from a radium industry that flourished here during the early 1900s. Uranium was refined to produce high-grade radium, which was used in medicine.

Low-grade radium and uranium remains were buried in waste dumps, forgotten until a federal researcher studying old records noted references to radium processing here

Four weeks ago. officials of the Robinson Brick and Tale Co. were told that elevated levels of radiation were found in two old buildings at their Denver

The list of radioactive sites grew quickly as teams of state health inspectors checked other sites listed in old records or reported by people who once worked at the radium plants.

A specially equipped helicopter surveyed about two-thirds of the city. Denver residents have remained calm. The contaminated buildings at the brick company are the only sites to close. Five employees there were moved and preliminary tests reveal they suffer no excess radiation. Montgomery said Results of more sophisticated tests that may detect possible chromosome dam age are awaited. Teams of health researchers are preparing lists of other people who may have been exposed to excess radiation.

The radioactive sites include three downtown buildings, material under streets in scattered residential neighborhoods, the sidewalk outside a pancake restaurant and isolated, undeveloped land near the South Platte/River west of

Officials from four federal agencies have been loaned to the state health department to help check for additional sites.

A van equipped with radiation-detection equipment prowled streets near the State Capitol on Thursday and Montgomery said he hopes to expand the aerial

NEW YORK (AP) - A dozing subway rider in Queens woke with a start early Thursday to find several men hovering over him. Frightened, he whipped out his hunting knife and slashed the throat of one of the intruders.

But if the dozen or so men who had just boarded the subway had meant the sleeping rider no harm, they had no way of communicating it before the attack. They were deaf-mutes.

Lying dead with his throat cut was one of the mutes, James Pacheco, 23. As it turned out, he had a previous criminal record as a member of a street gang called the Crazy Homicides.

Henry Bell, 63, a derelict who slept on subways and said he carried a 41/2-inch blade for protection, was booked on a murder charge after a nightlong interrogation, police said.

Pacheco was the seventh person to meet violent death in the New York subways this year, according to records of the Transit Authority.

The official count does not include a teen-age girl who was killed by a wild shot from the gun of a Transit Police officer who was firing at an attacker on a crowded station platform.

During a night-long interrogation to sort out what happened in Pacheco's death, a teacher and resident of the Lexington School for the Deaf were pressed into service to translate statements of Pacheco's companions

According to the arresting officer, Joseph Caldwell, a group of about 15 mutes boarded a Manhattan-bound train in Flushing shortly before 2:30 a.m. after attending a social gathering a the Long Island Club for the Deaf.

Pacheco, William Ortiz, 23, and a third man, unidentified, walked through the car where Bell nodded.

Bell said he was sleeping when they got on. He was awakened by one of them. He stated he felt they were trying to rob him." said Caldwell.

As the mutes tried to allay Bell's fears, the derelict's knife flashed.

The 20-member commission was appointed by President Carter to examine the causes of neighborhood decline and to make recommendations on policies that would reverse the trend. The panel was wracked by widely dissenting viewpoints. Its final report included dissenting comments by seven members.

However, Timilty emphasizes that the problem doesn't end at the city boundary that some suburban neighborhoods are beginning to show their age. This, he said, is creating a growing political constituency for urban recycling.

'Federal, state and local governments do not even have a workable, generally accepted definition of what a neighborhood is," the commission said, adding:

Among the recommendations in the 621-page was a call for outlawing insurance and credit "redlining," a process under which a person's access to financing can be restricted because of residency in declining area or minority neighbor-

The commission was established in part as a response to a successful grassroots movement that lobbied Congress to outlaw redlining by mortgage lenders.

Among its dozens of recommendations were these:

- Targeting federal community development and tax policies to stimulate rehabilitation and commercial investments in existing neighborhoods.

- Overhauling local property tax systems under "ability to pay" guidelines. - An all-out government effort against housing discrimination.

- Direct funding, from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, for neighborhood groups capable of delivering social services and an increase in social service spending NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - A federal grand jury investigating a clemency-forcash scandal in former Gov. Ray Blanton's administration Thursday indicted four Blanton aides, a Nashville lawyer and a Democratic Party committeeman.

Named in the 49-page indictment were former Blanton legal counsel Thomas Edward Sisk, former extradition officer Charles Benson Jr., suspended Highway Patrolman Charles Frederick Taylor and former special adviser John Paul Mur-

Also accused are William Aubrey Thompson, a former Democratic committeeman in Hamilton County and Dale Marden Quillen, an attorney.

The six were charged with one count

each of conspiracy to engage in a pattern of racketeering by extorting and accepting bribes and one count each of violating the U.S. Criminal Code against racketeer-

The alleged events occurred from Jan. 20, 1975, to about Jan. 17, 1979, the indictment said. If convicted of the felonies. each man can be fined $25,000 and imprisoned for 20 years.

The grand jury began its investigation of clemency practices after the arrests of Sisk, Benson and Taylor on Dec. 15, 1978. Blanton was accused of no wrongdoing in the indictment.

The indictment said Sisk and Benson used their positions to "effect and cause commutations to be signed by the gover-engine of the pair's aircraft after a stall. The $22,000 plane was destroyed when it crashed through a fence into a trencher. (AP

The two, the grand jury said, received money from prisoners for themselves and other alleged conspirators. The indictment accused Thompson of acting as an intermediary between Sisk and prison-Taylor used his posts of patrolman and member of Blanton's security staff to 'actively seek out persons willing to pay money to effect the release of prisoners. the grand jury charged. Murrell would "seek to have prisoners released following the payment of money by persons on their behalf." the indictment read. Quillen would advise prisoners and their relatives he could obtain releases for money, the grand jury said. He would 'attempt to conceal the payments made to him...under the guise that they were simply 'legal fees," the indictment read.

Sisk, Taylor and Benson have been free on unsecured bonds since their arrests by the FBI.

Blanton was informed soon after the arrests that he was a target of the federal inquiry and he testified before the grand jury on Dec. 22. Less than a month later. after issuing 52 pardons and commutations for Tennessee prison inmates, he was ousted from office legally but three days ahead of schedule. Taking the oath of office Jan. 17. Gov.

Lamar Alexander said U.S. Attorney Hal Hardin had informed him that Blanton was about to free more prisoners, including some the federal panel wished to question. Alexander's first official act was order the end to further releases. The grand jury has met for two days nearly every week and has heard from a parade of Blanton administration officials and state prison inmates. In Memphis, another federal grand jury has taken testimony from persons involved in the investigation. Its interests apparently extend to such other areas as state liquor licensing and highway contracts.

In January, the Nashville panel obtained a 60-day extention for its work. Without indictments, the Sisk, Benson and Taylor arrest warrants would expire with the end of the grand jury inquiry. Sisk and Benson resigned their jobs shortly after their arrests, and Taylor was suspended.

City Track Encounter Set Tonight

By JIM FERGUSON

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff Instead of a baton, Bob Gay may and give his relay teams a tongue depressor to pass at tonight's City Track Meet. Considering the shape the team's in right now, it would be a heck of a lot more ap-

In fact, the Plainsmen don't need a coach as much as they do a Marcus Welby or a Nurse Goodbody when the meet gets underway at 7:30 p.m. at the Coronado track.

"It's really going to be hard for us to compete against Estacado and Coronado." said Gay, the Monterey track coach. We've got that many kids out."

At last count, Gay said, six of the Plainsmen were out of competition with the flu. After that census, he just stopped counting and starting shaking the themo-

"But even if we were completely healthy." continued Gay, "it would still be hard for us to compete against Estacado and Coronado right now, but who knows later on. First, though, we need to get some people well and back in shape."

Gay's crew hasn't been left totally helpless, though. High jumper Chuck Perry, fresh off a win at the West Texas Relays in Odessa, and miler Curtis Conaway, also a winner last weekend, are still ready to go. Gay said. Perry, the state high jump champion as a junior, has already cleared 6-8 this season. But tonight, Conaway, a state competitor last year in the mile, will instead run the halfmile, plus run the anchor leg on MHS' mile relay. He's doing that. Gay said, since the usual anchorman. Bart Tarleton, is out with -vou guessed it-the flu.

Tarleton has also been one of Monterey's top middle-distance runners, posting a 1:59.6 in the halfmile during a practice session

But the flu isn't the only thing that's bothering Gay, there's also the fact the meet will be run at night-something he doesn't really relish.

"If it were going to be pretty, it'd be super." said Gay. "But I just don't think it's going to be. If it's not (nice weatherwise) I'd rather not run it at all...just call it off and forget about it. Or run it on Saturday afternoon. But I know we wouldn't do that, it's set to go."

The prelims of the will begin at 3:30

All five local teams are off to fine starts this year. Estacado, with its usual array of fast sprinters, has won the only two meets it has entered (Lubbock and Odessa). Meanwhile, Coronado captured the Amarillo Invitational last weekend. And Dunbar has showed signs of sporting one of the top mile relay teams around.

Also on tap today, are area meets in Brownfield, Floydada, Lorenzo and Hereford. The Herford meet is a two-day afair, with prelims and some field events set for today.

Sophomore forward Ken Johnson scored 20 points for the Tide, but yielded game-high honors to Aggie freshman center Rudy Woods, who had 22 points.

Woods was followed by Vernon Smith and Tyrone Ladson, who had 10 points each for the Aggies, who ended the seaon with a 24-9 record

Alabama, now 21-10, built up an eight point lead midway through the second half before the Aggies tied it with 3:43 to

King scored two buckets, and Phillips made a four-point play. Phillips made a slam dunk and was deliberately fouled and he hit both free throws to give Alabama an insurmountable lead.

In Thursday's other NIT game, played at West Lafayette, Ind., Junior Joe Barry Carroll scored 30 points to lead 15thranked Purdue to a 67-59 victory over Old

The Razorbacks and Cardinals were tied seven times early in the first half before Arkansas broke away to a 27-17 lead behind Moncrief, who scored six of his points in a 10-point spree. Moncrief had 14 points and six rebounds, leading the Razorbacks into a 38-26 halftime lead

In the second game, top-ranked Indiana State buried Oklahoma 93-72 behind sensational Larry Bird:

Scoring 29 points and putting his dazzling no-look passes on the money to his teammates for assists, Bird was the whole show in the second game

The 16th-ranked Sooners never were in the game once Indiana State put on a 13-4 burst near the end of the first half for a 45-37 lead at intermission. Bird had six points during the spree.

At Provo, Utah, in the West regional, Curtis Watkins and Gary Garland rallied DePaul from an eight-point deficit and scored six key points in the final 21/2 minutes to give the Blue Demons a 62-56 victory over Marquette.

DePaul, now 24-5, will meet the winner of the other semifinal match between UCLA and San Francisco for the West championship Saturday.

Marquette, with 6-foot-9 Bernard Toone hitting from long range, quickly erased a three-point half time deficit and

Eagles Thrash Matadors

By BOB BAJACKSON

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff When the announcer introduced Dewayne Slaughter in the top of the third inning, the Estacado catcher's name made one observer in the pressbox comment, "yep, that's what this is alright."

At that time, the Matadors had a 5-0 lead, but the Lubbock Christian Lagles took advantage of 14 Matador errors to rally and win 12-5 Thursday afternoon at the LCHS field.

The victory gives the Eagles a 4-2 record, while the loss drops Estacado to 3-5. Tim Perrin pitched the distance to even his record at 1-1. Hector Limon was charged with the loss. His record is 1-2. "We enjoy playing baseball," said Lubbock Christian coach George Harper TODAY'S GAMES

Lubbock Christian at Estacado, 4 p.m.; Big Spring at Monterey, 4 p.m.; Lubbock High at Monahans tournament; and Coronado vs. Midland Lee at Hobbs tournament, 3:15 p.m.

Our kids have great attitudes. We made some errors, but as a team, we've only had five practices.

The Eagles took the lead for good in the bottom of the fifth, LCHS scored eight runs on only four hits as it took advantage of five Estacado errors.

'We stunk," said Matador coach Vince Buffamonte. "You can't blame the weather. The weather was on both sides of the field.

Twelve batters stepped to the plate for the Eagles in the fifth. Three of the first four Eagle batters reached base via an er-

Lubbock Christian first baseman Shawn Williams brought home catcher Harlan Hickey and pitcher Perrin, when he bounced a ball to Estacado third baseman Kenneth Davis. Davis overthrew first baseman Manuel Escamilla, allowing both runners to score.

Lubbock Christian shortstop Steve Sikes provided the key blow of the inning. Sikes lined a triple into the right centerfield alley, scoring Williams and third baseman Billy Gallager.

For a time Thursday, it was the threat of rain. Then, later in the day, it was the cold. But, weather or not, Texas Tech is scheduled to take on TCU in a Southwest Conference baseball battle today.

First pitch will leave Raider hurler James Miller's left hand at 3 p.m. The two teams are scheduled to play a doubleheader Saturday, the first game to

"I don't think the rain will hurt," Raider baseball coach Kal Segrist said Thursday. "If anything, it'll help, if we don't get any more." The Raiders will come in with a 2-4 SWC record after having gone 1-2 in both the Rice and Baylor series. TCU is 2-1, having played but one series. "TCU is a different team from what they've been. They're playing better as a team," commented Segrist. "They may not have the outstanding players of the past, but they're functioning as a team.

"Their pitchers are throwing strikes. They don't overpower you, but they make you put the ball in play. And they're not beating themselves. "We just have to play our best." Segrist added. "We improved from the Rice series (two weeks ago) to Baylor, and we have to continue to improve.

We were a better ball club in the Baylor series. 'We got better pitching, not so many walks. I felt Miller did a good job.

and (Steve) Ibarguen threw pretty well in relief." After 14 games (7-7 record), the Raiders will be looking to left fielder Larry Selby for the hitting touch. The all-SWC returnee is hitting 404 for the season, and third baseman Kenny Cogdell follows at .353.

With Miller (1-1) on the mound, the Raiders are expected to open with second baseman Johnny Vestal, Randy Newton in right field, Mike Farmer as the designed hitter, Selby, John Keller in center field, Brooks Wallace at shortstop. Craig Noonan at first, and Kevin Rucker. Dan Hejl, or Scott Leim-

Yankee Owner Outraged By Book, 'Bronx Zoo'

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) -New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner, enraged by published excerpts from reliever Sparky Lyle's new book. termed the pitcher, "stupid" and called many of his allegations "garbage" Thursday night.

"Everybody says he's a buffoon," said Steinbrenner. "He's not a buffoon, but he's one of the least intelligent athletes

I've ever met. Lyle won the Cy Young Award two years ago but with the arrival of Rich Gossage he fell into a secondary role with the Yankees last season, when he was writing his diary-type book. He was traded to the Texas Rangers last November.

"I don't mind what he aid about me." said Steinbrenner. "I've been attacked by better than him. What bothers me is what one teammate said about another teammates. I'm bitterly disappointed for those guys in there." he said, motioning toward the Yankees' locker room.

What he said about (third baseman Graig) Nettles is garbage.

Lyle wrote that Nettles had made a deliberate error in an attempt to prevent an April exhibition game against the New York Mets from dragging into extra innings. The slick-fielding third baseman shrugged off the excerpt from his exteammate's book

I never made an error on purpose in my life." Nettles said. "I don't know if the story was taken out of context or what. Knowing Sparky, he was joking

WHEELS AND LABOR BROWN TIRE and it came out wrong. Maybe I made a joke about it after the game, but it was a long time ago and I don't rememeber.

Nettles said he had talked to Lyle about the matter Thursday. "He knows ... everybody knows ... I wouldn't do that on purpose," he said.

Reggie Jackson, who according to Lyle wanted to be "idolized not recognized." smiled at that charge. "I'd rather have him say what he said about me than what he said about the others," the Yankee slugger said. "I don't think it's bad that Reggie Jackson wants to be idolized. That's an opinion. Some opinions are significant, some insignificant.

Then Jackson offered a poem

"I don't care what they say. Do you?" Earlier Thursday, at the Pompano Beach training camp of the Rangers, Lyle confirmed the published remarks he had made about Steinbrenner and Jackson but was upset over the account of the Nettles affair.

Raiders Hold First Spring Scrimmage

Rex Dockery liked the way the scrimmage went Thursday afternoon. He liked it so well that he sent his troops home for spring break without a workout today.

What he saw Thursday was an offensive show, with seven touchdowns coming in the 90-minute scrimmage session.

"The offense looked good today," said Dockery. "The last couple of days, the defense had dominated. But, we got to moving the ball today (Thursday)."

Fullback James Hadnot, the Southwest Conference's leading rusher last fall, blasted for 84 yards on 17 carries in the scrimmage to easily led the rushers. However, second-team quarterback Randy Page managed 42 yards on 10 tries. And Page was one of the standouts of the workout. "Page looked good." commented Dockery. "He's improving. I'm encouraged. In fact, all three of our quarterbacks (first-teamer Ron Reeves and Richy Ethridge) looked good. We tried to give them all about equal work." Page scored once, on a 1-yard run, but he engineered two scoring drives. He led the second team in for the day's first TD. as Mark Johnson scored from the 4.

Nixon Papers Released

NEW YORK (AP) - Recently released Nixon administration papers demonstrate good cause for paranoia among employees of the nation's non-commercial radio and television system in the early 1970s, the president of the Public Broadcasting Service said-Thursday

The papers prove that the Nixon White House did everything possible to suppress public television's public affairs programs." Lawrence K. Grossman told a meeting of the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences.

The papers showed, among other things, a relationship between Henry Loomis, then president of the Corp. for Public Broadcasting, and Clay T. Whitehead, director of the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy. The CPB was created in 1967 to insulate public broadcasting from politics.

When a CPB president can send to the White House a document containing CPB staff programming recommendations with a note saying. 'Tom, this is our "burn-beforereading" document. No one else knows you have it.' you know that there was a healthy basis for our paranoia.

A 35-year-old housewife told police a man tried to rape her Wednesday afternoon when she walked to the back of her residence to take out the trash.

The Lubbock woman said she walked into the alley and was jumped by the suspect, described as short and wearing a black hood and gloves.

The man allegedly tore her clothing and knocked her to the ground. The woman, who came with her husband to the police station about an hour after the incident, said her attacker ran away after she fought off his advances.

In other activity, a 19-year-old Texas Tech University student said he was assaulted by a young white man as he was leaving a nightclub at Main Street and Avenue X about 2:10 a.m. Thursday en to Health Sciences Center Hospital and treated for minor injuries, said he was taking a friend home when he was jumped by the assailant. He said he was grabbed by the throat, bitten on the chest and kicked.

venturer-Turned-Author Writes Realistic Thrillers

LONDON (UPI) - Robert McKew writes fiction because he thinks no one will believe the truth of his own life. Months before the flareup in Iran, for example) he says he was approached to join a band of daredevil Britons whose job it would have been to back up the shah's bodyguard in the event of a revolution.

What could a handful of foreigners do, even as resourceful a bunch as the Iranian agent was trying to assemble, that could not be done better by the elite eorps guarding the royal family and its

"I don't know, since the Iranian dealt only with the man asked to recruit the unit," McKew said. "But, in view of what has happened, I suspect they knew what was coming and, quite rightly as it turned out, guessed that the loyalty of the palace force could not be guaranteed.

Bandit Disarms Z Police Force, Robs Bank

LOS FRESNOS (AP) - An armed man completely disabled the police force in this Lower Rio Grande Valley town Thursday and then robbed the local bank. The gunman tied up two police officers and shot the communications equipment. A Los Fresnos State Bank official said the gunman escaped with an undetermined amount of money. It was not known if there was an accomplice.

Police dispatcher Hector Gonzales reported that he and Officer Ruben Garcia were sitting in his small office when they heard a knock on the door.

'A guy walked-in and he had a gun." Gonzales said. "He told Garcia to get up and put his gun on the desk very slowly and carefully. Then he told Garcia to handcuff me to the chair

The gunman then handcuffed Garcia to a chair

He told us to crawl over by the wall. We heard a shot but we had tape on our eves and mouths. Ruben thought he shot me and I thought he shot Ruben," Gonzales said

"But the gunman said. 'I didn't shoot anybody." he said.

Gonzales said after he and Garcia were freed by a woman working in the building, they noticed a single bullet hole in the side of the police teletype printer. disabling it He said he then noticed a red alarm light lit. indicating trouble at the bank. The dispatcher said the gunman wore a motorcycle helmet and full facemask. Cleve Breedlove, president of the bank. said a lone gunman entered the bank at 10:35 a.m. and took an undetermined amount from a teller

He said witnesses saw a 1972 Chevrolet heading north on highway in front of the bank afterwards

Rush Hour Traffic Passes Woman Dving On Street

FRANKLIN, Tenn. (AP) - It was rush hour and an old woman lay dying of a heart attack in the middle of the highway. No one stopped

Her daughter and son-in-law stood in the road trying to resuscitate her and waved frantically at the drivers. The motorists detoured around them

One flagged down a policeman five miles away on Tennessee 96 and dispatched him. But it was too late. When Officer Ewing Mayberry Jr. arrived at 5:03 p.m. Wednesday. Bessie Glasco. 75. of Pulaski had no pulse and Mayberry could not revive her. She is to be buried Friday afernoon.

With her son-in-law John Willard, 41. and daughter Magaline. 36, Mrs. Glasco was bound to Murfreesboro to visit relatives when her breath became short. Willard pulled over. Mrs. Glasco staggered from the car and collapsed on the pavement.

"The lady was in the middle of the road." Mayberry said. "People had to see her but they just went around. I think if I had gotten to her sooner I possibly could have saved her life., I did all I could. It was just a matter of getting to

SHIP SALE APPROVED BALTIMORE (AP) - A federal judge has approved the sale on April 24 of the M.V. Fontenoy, a French cargo ship that has been under arrest here for more than a month. U.S. District Judge Alexander Harvey also said Wednesday that expenses for keeping the ship at the Port of Baltimore - about $500 a day. according to the attorney who filed a motion for the sale - will be deducted from the sale price. So far, 13 companies and organizations have filed more than $8.5 million in claims against the ship, owned by French American Service Transport which went into receivership in February

As the story unfolds in a coffee shop in London, it sounds wild, except for McKew's matter-of-fact delivery, and the name of the recruiter confided off-the-record. That gentleman, a conspicuous war hero, once gathered a group of underworld characters to kidnap a sultan. They were en route when Interpol discovered what was up and plagued them with spotter planes until the venture was abandoned. "Of course," said McKew, a handsome Irishman whose father was a film pioneer, "I'm a bit past that sort of thing and it would have interfered with my first work as an author, which seems to be meeting with considerable success. Very flattering at my age (about 50) to discover you can open up a new career.

His first novel, "Death List," written with Reed de Rouen, was bought before publication for "a substantial sum" for films by producer Dermot Harris as a starring vehicle for his brother, Richard Harris. When the acting Harris read it, he said: "This is the first movie I've wanted to make in 10 years.

It is the story of a top British counterintelligence agent whose daughter is gunned down by terrorists in an airport raid and who sets out to exact revenge. using his special knowledge to ferret out the men responsible - and any other terrorists along the way. Counter-intelligence is on his trail because of the fear he might be captured and tortured into making revelations. Exciting stuff, but is it really fiction?

"Well," said McKew, "I know the people in the book but I've changed names and places. If I had written my autobiography, as I've been pressed to do though who would believe it? - some of the incidents in the novel might have appeared in a different form. After all, when you've lived the way I have, there is absolutely no necessity for inventing anything, is there?'

True enough. In his reckless past McKew spent some time in prisons in France Britain and Morocco. His name cropped up in the famous robbery of film magnate Jack Warner in the south of France and a plan to circulate $2 million worth of forged Swiss banknotes in Europe. He puts all this down to a thirst for adventure and lack of common sense

In the years when he was a well known figure in London's case society, McKew married the daughter of a South African millionaire.

'It's over now," he said. "I was away toe often. He gave the word "away" a world of meaning
