Bob Fries, a member of the Department of Energy's emergency response team, said a specially equipped helicop-ter monitored small amounts of radiation 16 miles from the site.

SAN ANGELO (Special) - Goodfellow Air Force Base here will be closed by 1981. government officials disclosed Wednesday. A formal announcement by the Pentagon is expected today.

For Closing

A specific closing date for the San Angelo base, the largest military intelligence training facility in the country, will not be released until Defense Department officials determine where to transfer the base's 2,200 residents and $14 million worth of equipment.

The Air Force, one official said, is now moving into the study phase," and will look at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., and Corry Station, located at Pensacola Naval Air Station, Fla., as "the most likely choices" to receive the Goodfellow training mission.

The study will take 90 to 120 days, officials said, and once concluded it will take about a year" for the closing of Goodfellow to be completed - a tentative closing date to be sometime during fiscal year 1981, which begins Oct. 1, 1980.

The San Angelo installation was one of 85 bases the Army and Air Force placed on a candidate for closure list in April

Because the base is used solely as a military intelligence training center, Defense officials said it was not "cost effective" and labeled the installation as a 'single-mission" base.

Officials believe that the integration of the facility's program with another base's operations would be a cost-saving act and would save the government approximately $10.8 million The cost for closing the base will be about $6.6 million Although the extent of the Pentagon's action is not clear, officials said earlier this year they were drafting proposals that could eliminate as many as 20,000 military and civilian jobs for annual savings of up to $300 million

Also expected in todays' announcement will be the closing of The Dallas regional office of the Defense Logistics Agency, employing some 335 persons, although 830 positions will be added at Bergstrom Air Force Base in Austin.

Front Brings Shower Chance

A Pacific cool front that has caused flooding and touched off mudslides in Southern California is bringing a 20 percent chance for light precipitation to the Lubbock area today.

Forecasters expect slight precipitation to begin in the eastern counties of the South Plains before dawn today. The National Weather Service in Lubbock had recorded a trace of moisture in the Hub City by dusk Blowing dust also should invade West Texas, this afternoon, as gusting winds from the southwest and west sweep across the area at 20-30 mph. Wind warnings will be in effect for area lakes.

The system is expected to allow temperatures to reach near 70 this afternoon. but the mercury may not rise out of the should be near 40.

A slight chance for rainfall will continue for West Texas through Sunday.

Although wind speeds across the South Plains averaged around 20 mph Wednesday, wind gusts of 35 mph were occurring along the coast, where a small craft advisory was in effect.

Portions of north central and northeast Texas are bracing for possible thunderstorms today that may produce gusty winds, hail and tornadoes in those areas. In Illinois, pounding spring rains, sall-

ing over much of the state's centralizegions on Wednesday, are raising fears of renewed flooding along the Illinois River, where 2,000 persons have been homeless

Thirty-two counties in the state had been declared disaster areas by Tuesday.

Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan returned from the United States, meanwhile, waving a copy of the treaty and assuring Israelis that they can count on the United States to defend the accord.

The Sinai protesters complained that the government failed to tell the 4,000 Jews living in northern Sinai and Red Sea settlements how and where they would be resettled after the evacuation of the

Under the terms of the treaty, Israel is to disband the settlements and withdraw from the Sinai within three years.

At one point the protesters blocked several trucks carrying armored personnel carriers out of Sinai. These appeared to be part of the non-essential material gradually being removed in preparation for the first stage of the Israeli pullback.

"It's not fair to ask people of 40 or 45 to start again someplace else," said Susan Wachs, a resident of Yamit, a town of 1,-500 in northeast Sinai.

In contrast to the somber mood among the Israeli settlers, 15,000 Arabs paraded through the Sinai capital of El Arish, 60 miles west of Yamit, to celebrate the treaty that will return their town to Egyptian rule in about two months.

They waved Egyptian flags and portraits of President Carter, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

It said many Shanghai restaurants are packed with people attending parties for weddings, birthdays, and the birth of babies. He said the Americans had "accepted the role of being an address that we can turn to" in case of treaty violations and that "they will do their best to see that the treaty is carried out."

Robbins Fire Said Not Arson

Although officials have made no official ruling on what started a fire early Wednesday at former state Rep. Joe Robbins' 3236 92nd St. home, investigators said arson has been ruled out.

The fire, which was brought under control within 30 minutes, apparently began in the garage and was confined to that Mrs. Robbins, a reporter for KLBK-TV, estimated the damage at several thousand dolloars, with most of the contents of the garage destroyed.

The House advanced the bill on a 110-28 vote, with final passage expected Thursday. That would send the measure to Gov. Bill Clements for signature into law or a veto.

Rep. Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, had the votes to beat down all seven attempts to change the bill from the way it left the Senate.

The bill would allow sale of beer in containers of 7, 8 and 16 ounces in addition to the present 12-, 24-and 32-ounce bottles and cans. The new container sizes could be sold only in packages of three or more bottles or cans.

Alternate Energy Forms Sought

AUSTIN (AP) - The Senate Natural Senate floor on a 9-0 vote. Resources Committee approved three bills Wednesday to encourage the use of alternate forms of energy.

"The once far-off spectre of ... $1 a gallon gasoline is here now," said the sponsor of the bills, Sen. Bob Vale, D-San An-

"We are at the mercy of foreign sheikdoms that are ruining our economy — yet nothing is getting done," he added.

Vale's bills, which were approved 9-0, would:

- Requires anyone planning to construct or renovate an electric utility plant to study the feasibility of using solid waste as fuel and to file a report with the Public Utility Commission.

- Allow electric companies to make a higher profit rate on solar or wind energy if it is cheaper than electricity from traditional sources and require the state to use solar energy in its building. The bill also establishes a solar licensing procedure to protect consumers.

House Backs Bill Raising Ante For Pawnshops

AUSTIN (AP) — The House voted Wednesday to make it harder to become a pawnbroker but refused to require pawnshops to photograph their customers as a way to help police catch thieves.

The Senate-approved bill advanced on a voice vote and will be up for final passage on Thursday. Senators then will have to decide whether to accept minor amendments added by the House.

If the bill becomes law, a person who wants to open a pawnshop will have to prove he has liquid assets of $50,000, compared with $25,000 under present

Existing pawnshops, however, would not have to meet that requirement. The bill also would deny a pawnbro-ker's license to anyone who has been convicted of theft, forgery, fraud or any other crime involving "moral turpitude." It also would raise from $250 to $1,000 the investigation fee an applicant for a license would have to pay.

Not only the pawnshop but also its employees would be licensed.

The Texas Pawn Brokers Association has lobbied heavily for the bill, which also is supported by the Texas Municipal

Rep. Ron Waters, D-Houston, attempted to require pawnshops to photograph

He said this would help police arrest persons who steal articles and "fence them" by taking them to a pawnshop. Rep. Clay Smothers, D-Dallas, argued that it would "require people going into a lending institution (a pawnshop) to sub-mit to the degradation of being photo-

Aircraft Pool Wins Passage In House

AUSTIN (AP) - State agencies would and pool them for use by all agencies under a bill that won House passage Wednesday, 136-3.

The bill now goes to the Senate. Representatives added an amendment prohibiting the proposed State Aircraft Pooling Board from constructing hangars or other facilities without first getting a legislative appropriation. "It makes sure nobody builds a Taj Ma-

"You are trying to increase the bad image pawnbrokers have," he told Waters.
Waters said he didn't mind having his picture taken when cashing a check at some grocery stores.

"I realize pawnshops aren't the only places that fencing goes on, but that happens to be the bill before you today," said Waters, adding that his office in Houston is above a pawnshop. Waters' amendment failed, 107-30.

"We have no idea how many businesses we would be putting out of business overnight," said Rep. Pete Laney, D-Hale Center, sponsor of the bill.

"The real purpose of this bill is to monopolize the industry, to make it very difficult for people who are not in the business to get into the business," Waters, said.

Uncle Sam Still Needs You

THE STAGE HAS been set for another great national debate, this time on resumption of the military draft, or some variation

Spurred by Russia's growing military might, unsettled world conditions and the fact that voluntary enlistments are not meeting the needed quotas for the armed forces. pressure for reinstating the draft in some orm is mounting.

Not only are there several bills in Congress for consideration, but the Joint Chiefs of Staff and others concerned with the nation's preparedness and ability to act in self defense are calling for action.

IN RECENT months, the volunteer system has failed to fill the needs of the armed forces, particularly the Army.

The nation's Ready Reserve, a prime source of replacements in a national emergency, has plunged to a low of 225,000 as compared to the 820,000 the Army feels is a basic minimum requirement.

Even if the draft were reinstated today, it would take six months for the first recruits to start donning uniforms and be available for training and service.

AGAINST THAT background, proponents of the draft argue that there is little time to waste in reinstating some sort of Selective

They cite Russian-Cuban Inroads in Africa and the Mideast, as well as fears the U.S. could not effectively mount any sort of deterrent in key areas of the world as reasons for quick action.

Recently, Gen. Lew Allen, Jr., U.S. Air Force Chief of Staff, speaking at Reese Air Force Base, urged a resumption of some aspects of the Selective Service System.

AT LEAST SIX bills have been introduced in the House and two in the Senate on the subject.

One would involve a National Service type of arrangement, with a choice of entering civilian or military programs.

Another would involve Compulsory Registration, with no draft now, but a callup optional when needed.

And another would include Registration with a Limited Draft.

AS MIGHT BE expected, any talk of resuming the draft evokes strong emotions and opposition, as well as support.

Tom Palmer, chairman of the Students for A Libertarian Society, recently was quoted in Newsweek as saying that: "Appeals to sacrifice, nationalism and a fake patriotism don't wash anymore."

No doubt pacifist church groups and perhaps many parents will oppose any renewal of Selective Service. But, if the nation is to survive-as it has in the past to the benefit of both young and old-then it must have a viable and effective method of defending itself, of even taking the offensive to protect its interests in an increasingly hostile world.

Handled in an equitable manner, with everyone sharing in whatever system is installed, the draft along with some form of national service not only is fair, it may be the answer to the nation's survival.

Fire Deaths Raise Questions

NO EFFORT can be spared to pinpoint it or controlling it in some manner. the cause or causes of the tragedy which took the lives of three Lubbock firefighters over the weekend.

Whether the problem was with Fire Department equipment, training or maintenance procedures, materials used in construction of the burning building, or with a combination of these and perhaps other facfors, it is imperative that an investigation lead to corrective measures that will prevent any recurrence of the tragedy.

Lives of residents or occupants of buildings, as well as lives of firefighters, are at

TOXIC FUMES which felled firemen Lary Tucker, Eddie Swafford and Kenneth Haggard obviously represent a hazard to bublic health and safety.

If the source of those gases proves to be a naterial commonly found in modern construction or usage here, then the City Counall obviously will want to consider outlawing day in and day out.

Likewise, it is necessary to pinpoint whether there is a defect in the safety masks, or the masks' filters, worn by the victims. If the small holes found in the filters are found to exist in the filters of other firemen. it would indicate that there may be other equipment inspections that need to be standardized rather than be left to each fireman's check of his own equipment.

THE THREE DEATHS, meanwhile, are a ANDREW TULLY: reminder that Lubbock's firemen regularly risk their lives to protect the lives and property of all of us.

It had been so long since a Lubbock fireman had been killed in line of duty that the triple tragedy was all the more shocking to the city.

All of us join with the families and friends of Firefighters Tucker, Swafford and Haggard in mourning their loss and in saluting their fellow firefighters for the job they do

'Off The Air' Is Place For Public Television

WASHINGTON-Give a committee weighted with liberals and highbrows a hefty sum of money to do a survey, and chances are that they will come up with a bad idea.

The recent report of the Carnegie Commission on Public Broadcasting, released a few weeks back, conforms exactly to this rule of life.

The Carnegie Corp. decided in 1977 to conduct study of the present ills and future prospects of the tax-supported public broadcast system. To nobody's surprise, the resulting document ealls for greatly expanded federal funding, plus other proposals to enlarge and strengthen PBS One Carnegie suggestion of special interest is the idea of levying a licensure tax on commercial proadcasters, to help finance their tax-supported mpetition. Also, the Carnegie report makes a lengthy pitch for a public broadcast setup that will be insulated from political control and have "a strong editoriall purpose" of its own.

THIS IS defined as constructing "a context for inderstanding the events that occur around us" nd developing "a strong professional and indeendent public affairs presence."

What these phrases actually mean may be uessed from the ideological content of public roadcasting to date-which is heavily tilted to e liberal left.

Recent examples-all of which have been maserfully dissected by Accuracy in Media-include program called "Paul Jacobs and the Nuclear spreading alarm about nuclear power, a rogram glorifying convicted Communist spies fulius and Ethel Rosenberg and an hour-long hitewash of the North Korean regime of Comunist dictator Kim Il-sung

Why tax dollars should help disseminate such fulf to the American viewing public is an inter-sung—and unanswered—question.

HITHERTO, SUGGESTIONS for greater balance and less propaganda in the public broadcast field have been met with angry cries of "censorship," a view reiterated in the Carnegie report.

The group's proposal to lock in federal funding -but to cut the programmers loose from all restraint-would only serve to make this situation

None of which is to deny the equal but opposite danger of having a government-dictated ideological format in public radio and TV, a practice repugnant to our principles and traditions. The problem is that such a danger is inherent in government-funded broadcasting to begin with: Either public dollars are squandered for ideological purposes that many taxpayers find offensive, or else the political arm that extends the money must exercise control over how the money

THE SOLUTION to this dilemma, however, is relatively simple-and directly opposed to the conclusions of the Carnegie group: It is to get rid of public broadcasting altogether.

There is no reason in a free society to have such a thing as government-funded radio and TV. above and beyond the official information functions of the government itself. The whole idea of public broadcasting is contrary to our notions of free expression.

The Carnegie report pontificates about the flaws of commercial broadcasting-particularly the need to reach a mass audience to sustain a network TV program.

This is a valid concern, but the proper answer is to permit the full and free development of ca-ble and pay TV. allowing particular audiences to pay for the particular kind of programs that they

THIS STEP toward real diversity in broadcasting has been delayed for years by government regulatory policies. The solution here is not more government in broadcasting, but less.

Much of the Carnegie report reeks of snobbery and elitism, looking down its nose at "vulgar" and "commercial" offerings in the marketplace while talking much about "elevating" public dis-course through cultural and educational pro-

IT IS felicitous, too, that the word "housewife" will continue to be found in Oxford's pages.

In America, which apparently will seriously discuss any piece of nonsense, the word has been attacked in recent years as demeaning, and suggesting a role less fulfilling than a husband's.

that many women prefer "chairperson," but

It is as though Fred Hartley had urged a presidential edict overriding key provisions of the Taft-Hartley labor act. Consequently, there is suspicion that Vanik's letter to the President was inspired by the President's men, or at least the State Department.

Vanik flatly denied to us any such administration role, and colleagues on the House foreign trade subcommittee, which he heads, believe it

Nevertheless, it is most congenial to the administration's views and probably the President's own thoughts. And it is most uncongenial to Vanik's erstwhile legislative collaborator. Sen. Henry M. Jackson.

JACKSON IS the reason Vanik's letter has not been and may never be dispatched to the White House. When Jackson got wind of Vanik's initiative he raised the roof

Vanik told us he has delayed a final decision on the letter until he visits Moscow next month. But meeting with Jackson on Wednesday might have dissuaded Vanik permanently.

Whether the Jackson-Vanik partnership is healed, the real argument is between Jackson and the President. Scoop Jackson wants to play hardball with the Kremlin and Jimmy Carter does not.

Vanik's March 8 draft letter to Carter relates a Feb. 28 conversation between the congressman and Soviet Ambassador Anatoliy Dobrynin. Vanik expressed pleasure over 31,000 Soviet exit visas granted last year, then came to the point:

"IN VIEW of the improved climate. I asked him if his country would be willing to provide the assurances required (by Jackson-Vanik)...as a condition of MFN (most favored nation) extension. He was very quick to respond that this was not possible.

According to Vanik's letter, he then suggested to Dobrynin that "it might be possible" for Carter to recommend most favored status for both China and Russia.

With respect to the Soviet Union, I suggested that" the President's recommendation "could be based on a finding that the positive trend of Soviet emigration indicates the process of human rights in the USSR is proceeding at a much improved level." There went Jackson-Vanik.

'Ambassador Dobrynin reacted very warmly." Vanik's letter continued, promising "his government would react promptly and confidentially.

DOBRYNIN AGREED with Vanik's view that Carter most favored nation request for both Communist powers might be accepted by senators who favor it for China but not Russia (a category that includes Jackson). In conclusion, Vanik urged the President to move well before the 1980

A P.S. states that "all members of the subcommittee on trade have read this letter and a strong majority concur with my approach." Actually. before Vanik could poll the subcommittee. Jackson protested vehemently.

Jackson feels that the increase in emigration was forced by Jackson-Vanik economic pressure, and now is no time to let up on the pressure. Soviet emigration is far from free, and Vanik's assertion of "much improved" human rights in Russia is a blatant overstatement. On March 12, a Ukrainian dissident historian monitoring Soviet compliance with the Helsinki human rights agreement committed suicide under police harassment.

WHETHER OR not Vanik was acting on his own, high administration officials are aware of and sympathetic to his initiative. Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal felt out Jackson on Vanik's idea (and found him totally unreceptive).

Candidate Carter in 1976 pledged support of Jackson-Vanik, which produced Jackson's badly needed help among Jewish voters. But the defection of Vanik could make easier the larger defection of Carter. The words of Charley Vanik reflect the ideas of men at the State Department who want evenhanded treatment for China and the Soviet Union. In contrast, Jackson would grant trade advantages, including credits, to China but withhold them from a Soviet Union now on the march

Thus the Jackson-Vanik squabble reflects a foreign policy debate of incalculable importance.

Incidentally, just for the record, the first traffic ordinance in the U.S. probably was passed in 1652 in New Amsterdam just after the Dutch bought Manhattan from the Indians. the rate on six-month U.S. Treasury bills. When that certificate matured in December, we took your advice and "shopped around." We found a S&L which paid 9.58 percent — one-quarter of one percent more than the T-bill rate — and also "compounded" the interest. That made the effective annual yield on our certificate 10.2 percent.

From your column, we know that compounding interest is prohibited on sixmonth certificates issued after March 14 and that S&Ls and banks will be allowed to pay only the same rate as T-bills — unless the T-bill rate drops below nine percent

We want to do some planning for when our present certificate matures in June. Wouldn't we do better, buying a $10,000 T-bill, directly? Then, we wouldn't have to pay state income tax on the interest?

A. The answer is a resounding "yes." And state taxes are the reason. The new rules reduce the maximum yield that can be paid on insured six-month certificates by about nine-tenths of one percent. The rates on those certificates and T-bills are now equal.

You pay federal and state income tax on certificate interest — also local income tax, if you live or work where one is levied. You pay only federal income tax — not state or local income tax — on T-hill interest.

When it was possible to get higher vields on six-month certificates, that made them a better deal — unless you lived in a state with a high income tax bite. Under the new rules, T-bills are better. So, it's a safe bet that more and more people will do what you are considering. When their six-month certificates come due, they'll move their money into T-bills or other high yielding investments.

Q. You wrote that when Series E, U.S. Savings Bonds, are exchanged for Series H bonds, the income tax on the interest accumulated on the E bonds does not have to be paid at that time. Was this true in 1974? At that time, I exchanged some old E bonds for H bonds at a local bank. Three years later, I received a tax due notice from the Internal Revenue Service and had to pay tax on the E bond interest, plus a penalty, totaling $445.

Will I be taxed on the E bond interest again, when I redeem the H bonds received in the exchange? Was the bank remiss in not handling the E bond for H bond exchange properly?

A. Yes, the tax-deferral exchange of E for H bonds was in effect in 1974 — and for a good deal of time before that. When

'Black Ink' Amendment Plan Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration told Congress Wednesday a constitutional amendment to require a balanced federal budget would be an "economic and social absurdity" that would shorten the life of the Constitution.

"The fact that movement to a balanced budget is proper policy for today's economy...is no warrant for embedding that policy in the Constitution," said Charles L. Schultze, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

In testimony before a House judiciary subcommittee, Schultze said he was speaking for the administration.

Earlier, his predecessor as chairman of the economic council, Alan Greenspan, advocated amending the Constitution to require a two-thirds majority of both houses to pass spending bills.

"It appears...that the only way we can permanently curb a rate of growth in federal outlays which outrun the revenue-raising capacity of the economy is to impose some form of restraint on outlays which cannot be surpassed by a simple majority vote." Greenspan said.

Schultze opposed this, saying it "would, in effect, give two-thirds plus one member of either house the ability to block what a clear majority in both houses and two-thirds of the members of one house wanted."

Schultze said the administration considers it "essential that the federal budget deficit be reduced and the budget steadily moved into balance."

But he added that to make the Constitution "a receptacle for the specific solutions to the economic problems of a particular time would cheapen its value, shorten its life, and make it little different than a collection of legislative stat-

Instead of arranging for an exchange, that bank redeemed your E bonds and issued new H bonds to you.

Instead of arranging for an exchange, that bank redeemed your E bonds and issued new H bonds to you.

Yes, that bank was remiss — and a great deal worse. As an issuing agent for U.S. Savings Bonds — a chore for which it is compensated — a bank shouldn't make dumb mistakes such as this.

If I were you, I'd go to that bank and demand $445, plus interest since 1974. Be polite, at first. If that gets you no place, start making noise. No bank likes to have its stupidity spread around town.

Q. I want to exchange some Series E, U.S. Savings Bonds, for Series H bonds, so that I can start receiving interest checks every six months. The E bonds are registered in my name "or" my daughter's name. Is it necessary to have both signatures, in order to make the exchange?

A. No. When E bonds are in "co-ownership" form — as is the case here — the signature of only one of the owners is required to effect an exchange of the Es for Hs. So, you can make the exchange without your daughter's even knowing about it. And, if you like, you can have the H bonds issued in your name, only.

Two years ago, Congress came under attack when it voted its members a $12,-900 annual pay raise. Members of Congress now receive an annual salary of $57,500.

The tax deduction bill appears to have considerable support in the House.

Several members asked Rostenkowski during floor debate Tuesday when his subcommittee intended to produce the bill. Rep. Ken Holland, D-S.C., asked jokingly whether the tax deduction could be made retroactive to the last time the law was changed — 27 years ago.

The measure in effect would increase substantially the $3,000 tax deduction members of the House and Senate have been entitled to claim since 1952 for the cost of maintaining a second home in

Pilot Survives 12-hour Wait After Plane Slams Into Hill

By KAY BELL Avalanche-Journal Staff

Jerry Rolston of Denver City was in critical condition Wednesday night at Health Sciences Center Hospital, recovering from 12 hours lying stranded by his crashed plane south of Crosbyton.

The 35-year-old oil company employee spent Tuesday night in the hilly, scrubcovered area southwest of White River Lake beside the crumpled wreckage of the single-engine Cessna 172 plane he was piloting from Knox City to Denver City.

Although Rolston's plane slammed into the side of a hill near the lake about 8 p.m. Tuesday, authorities were unable to locate the craft, mangled and lying on its top amid small trees, until about 9 a.m. Wednesday when a Spur man led them to the wreckage. Randy Freudenrich, an employee of

White River Water Authority, was headed toward Lubbock about 8 a.m. on FM 1729 when he saw the tip of one of the plane's wings shining in the morning sun-Freudenrich, who had heard that authorities were searching for the missing had pulled himself from the wreckage." Rolston suffered head and internal injuries and broke both legs in the accident, which mashed the four-seat craft into a ball of twisted metal.

Freudenrich then drove to a phone, where he called the Spur ambulance service and Department of Public Safety. DPS Sgt. Ken Evans said that when he and his men arrived about 9 a.m., Rolston was still conscious and able to tell them the plane, owned by Sonny Maynard of Denver City, went down about 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Evans said it appeared that after impact the plane skidded about 200 feet through heavy brush and cedar trees up the side of the hill three miles east of FM 651 and three-quarters of a mile south of FM 2794

The DPS sergeant said both front seats of the craft were torn loose and the restraining straps broken, but that Rolston had not been thrown from the plane. 'He was about half-in and half-out, sort

WASHINGTON (AP) - A governmentfunded study suggests the value of street lighting in deterring crime may have

Lubbock Club Bill Acted On In House

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — A House committee moved Wednesday to help put teeth in a Lubbock city ordinance designed to end discrimination in nightclubs and taverns. The Liquor Regulations Committee unanimously voted back to the House and recommended passage of Lubbock Rep. Froy Salinas' HB 14444 which would allow the State Alcoholic Beverage Commission to lift the license of a club owner convicted of violating the Lubbock anti-discrimination ordinance. Salinas, a member of the committee,

Turkoman Rebels Reach Cease-Fire With Iranian Government

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Rebel Turkoman tribesmen fought government militia for the third staight day in the north-eastern city of Gonbad-E-Qabous Wednesday, but state radio reported a new cease-fire as night fell.

The cease-fire was reached, said the radio, after a three-man delegation from the Interior Ministry met with local Turkoman leaders to discuss their demands for land redistribution and autonomy.

The government is happy to assure the Turkoman people that in the new constitution special attention will be paid to them just like the other people of Ir-an," the radio announced.

The broadcast said the new constitution would right the wrongs of the past but that removing problems would "only be possible through the national unity of all peoples of Iran.'

Brezhnev Flu Brings Delay Of French Visit

illness caused the last-minute postpone-ment of a Moscow summit trip by French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing. French diplomatic sources said.

According to the sources, French Ambassador Bruno de Leusse was summoned to the Soviet Foreign Ministry early Tuesday evening.

Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko told the ambassador that the Giscard d'Estaing trip would have to be put off because Brezhnev had a bad case of flu, which he described in French as "mauvaise grippe.".

About three hours later, the official Soviet news agency Tass carried a brief announcement saying that "in conformity with mutual understanding," Giscard d'Estaing's visit, scheduled for Thursday, would be postponed for three weeks.

The Tass announcement gave no reason for the decision and the French Embassy officially declined to comment.

In an apparent effort to emphasize that no policy differences had arisen between Moscow and Paris, Soviet news media continued carrying upbeat pre-summit publicity, including a television interview with Giscard d'Estaing.

No specific dates were announced for the rescheduled visit. A three-week postponement would place it sometime shortly after an April 18 public session of the Supreme Soviet, the Soviet parliament,

Court got agreement Wednesday from lawyers on all sides that when Brian Weber was denied specialized training by his employer he was discriminated against because he was white.

The government argued, however, that the training program begun at Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Co.'s Gramercy, La., plant in 1974 was "a reasonable response" to concern about upgrading job opportunities for blacks.

Justice William J. Brennan Jr. asked similarly: "Isn't the issue here whether the 1964 law (passed by Congress) prohibits you from doing this?'

Lawyers representing both sides of the issue replied "yes" to the questions.

The high court asked questions and heard arguments for 90 minutes in the case filed by Weber, a 32-year-old lab worker at Kaiser's Gramercy plant. Lawvers for Kaiser, the Steelworkers union and the government - arguing for the affirmative action program - received 15 minutes each. Weber's lawyer was allowed 45 minutes.

"Congress left it to private parties, telling them, 'you may adopt a temporary quota to cure segregation within the workforce." Gottesman said.

Justice Department lawyer Lawrence Wallace portrayed Kaiser's program as a 'reasonable response" to the company's concern about its racially unbalanced workforce. He noted that other Kaiser plants had been sued for alleged racial discrimination.

Kaiser lawyer Noves Thompson Powers agreed, telling the justices that "the character of the program was remedial." New Orleans lawyer Michael Fontham. representing Weber, discounted such LUTCHER, La. (AP) - Brian F. Weber, the centerpiece in a major reverse discrimination suit before the Supreme Court, says he wants to be like his hero, Elvis Presley.

"Elvis grew up in a small town, and showed great determination to climb up from a working class background," We-

"While I don't claim to be anywhere near what Elvis was, I also want to make the most of my talents and I feel that I'm trying to do something that's good and right for millions of Americans."

What Weber is doing, his critics argue, is undercutting the advances blacks have made since the 1960s in trying to get decent jobs. He contends that "affirmative action" programs make this generation pay for the misdeeds of 200 years.

Weber's case was heard by the U.S. Supreme Court Wednesday. Two lower courts have agreed with his contention he was discriminated against when he was blocked from an on-the-job training program because he is White.

The suit, and the basic issue it raised, has changed the life of this 32-year-old lab technician at Kaiser Aluminum Co.'s big refinery at nearby Gramercy, La.

For one thing, Weber is interviewed almost as often as a movie star, both on-camera and off. He has gotten his argument down pat.

"It should be unlawful for an employment practice to discriminate in admittance to on-the-job training programs in regards to sex, race, or national origin against anyone," he says.

Weber says that's a principle which mi-norities espouse, except when it tends to work against them. He thinks a principle must stand for all.

Michael Fontham, Weber's 32-year-old court-appointed lawyer, said he got the case because he happened to be in court when the judge was looking around, and the judge knew of his interest in civil

Things have been complicated lately

for Weber, whose sparsely furnished duplex apartment is decorated with posters and statues of Elvis. He married his high school sweetheart soon after graduation from neaby Leon Godchaux High School. They are now in the process of divorce. To claims that he is anti-black, Weber protests that he is not a racist. But he agrees that his views may not be those of the National Association for the Adv-ancement of Colored People. For exam-ple, he disagrees with federal laws forc-ing restaurants to serve blacks.

Weber says he understands the arguments of those who say his suit could wipe out so-called affirmative action programs throughout the country, thereby affecting millions of persons. Those programs are designed to give special preference to blacks and other minorities to, as the courts put it, "reme-dy" the effects of years of discrimination

"It's probably that each person in his own special plight doesn't realize that other people have to go through a hard life, too," Weber says.

As a lab technician, Weber makes about $17,000 a year, several thousand less than he says he would make if he had completed on-the-job training to become a skilled craftsman.

Residents Near Nuclear Plant Voice Growing Questions About Safety

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (AP) - After years of living in the shadow of the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant, residents are finding it more and more difficult to shrug off the possible dangers.

"I'm becoming increasingly unhappy because the problems are happening more frequently," said John Garnish, whose house faces the plant across the river. "If this thing is supposed to be failsafe, why are they having so many prob-

The problem Wednesday was a malfunction in the cooling mechanism.

The huge $1 billion plant, located on an island in the Susquehanna River and operated by Metropolitan Edison Co. and two other utilities, automatically shut down at about 4 a.m. when a water pump used to cool the reactor broke down.

The company declared a general emergency, but said there were no injuries and that radiation levels outside the plant were not considered dangerous.

Nevertheless, an undercurrent of uneasiness ran through Middletown, where many people who live within a quarter of a mile of the plant learned about the accident on the radio.

Pat Drayer, who moved here 13 years before the plant opened, says now she wishes she had put up more of a fight

He said when he called Metropolitan Edison to demand an explanation, he was told men had been sent to monitor the area, and all tests were negative so far.

"I asked him what if it was positive," Garnish said, "and he said, 'We'll cross that bridge when we get to it.

Nuclear Power Plant Mishaps Rare Events

NEW YORK (AP) - Accidents involving nuclear plants or the radioactive fuel that powers them have been infrequent but not unheard of.

While the Nuclear Regulatory Commission in Washington said it had no ready records on accidents similar to the one that affected a nuclear plant Wednesday in Harrisburg, Pa., a check by The Associated Press turned up 10 nuclear mis-haps here and abroad during the last several years. Some resulted in injuries.

-September 1978: a radioactive leak at a nuclear fuel reprocessing plant in Tokaimura, Japan, forced suspension of operations of the facility.

-April 1978: Two workers at the Trojan nuclear plant near Rainer, Ore., were exposed to high doses of radiation. The government found six safety violations and fined Portland General Electric Co.

-April 1978: A Georgia state report found that an abandoned nuclear reactor site along the Etowah River was dangerously radioactive while the public camped and picnicked on it.

-March 1978: An explosion occurred at the Vermont Yankee power plant in Vernon, Vt., the second at the plant in four months. No injuries or release of radiation were reported.

-December 1977: Four workers received small doses of radiation while working at a reactor on the Hanford Nuclear Reservation in Richland, Wash.

A month earlier, the Hanford reactor was shut down temporarily after some radioactive water leaked into the Columbia River. Authorities said it wasn't enough to endanger human or animal -December 1977: In Waterford,

Conn., an explosion at the Millstone nuclear power plant left one employee seriously contaminated from radioactive grains of sand. The plant's two reactors were shut down. -September 1977: About 42,000

Energy Chief Cites N-Power Advantage

DALLAS (AP) - Energy Secretary James Schlesinger said Wednesday he would look into the accident at Pennsylvania's Three Mile Island nuclear plant, and added he felt the nuclear power industry had a good safety record. Over the years there have been no fatalities resulting from the use of nuclear power." Schlesinger told reporters after he spoke to the National Association of Broadcasters convention. "Nothing is riskless, but when one weighs the risks overall, the advantages of nuclear power exceed the risks."

Schlesinger also repeated his view that nuclear power is vital to the U.S. econo-

Nuclear power continues to be an essential element in the nation's energy mix. Failure to do that will mean growing dependence on foreign sources of supply and ultimately shortages that will affect the American economy," he said.

It is a simple concept with complex effects - effects which even today are not fully understood. The problems of weighing the benefits of radiation against its potential for danger were highlighted Wednesday when a small amount of radioactive steam escaped from a nuclear power plant near Harrisburg, Pa.

Radiation is defined as energy moving. through space as invisible waves. The freguency of the waves determins the characteristics of the radiation and their effect on the human body. There are two types of radiation: ioniz-

ing and non-ionizing. Ionizing radiation — the kind involved in Wednesday's accident - creates electrically charged ions which can disrupt body processes, including life. Nuclear weapons produce ionizing radiation; so do x-rays and some tele-

Non-ionizing radiation - produced by microwaves, light and sound - lacks the ability to create ions. It can, however, disrupt body processes. Too much of it generally causes sickness rather than death, but exposure to massive doses can be fatal.

All of us are exposed to radiation every day; most of it is low-level radiation that poses a minor but continual risk.

The Food and Drug Adminstration says: "We do not know definitely whethwhich injurious effects will not occur.

Radiation emissions are measured in roentgens or milliroentgens. (There are 1,000 milliroentgens in a roentgen.) A dental x-ray emits about 200 milliroentgens; by law, TV sets may not emit more than half a milliroentgen an hour.

But when scientists talk about danger, they talk about rems - or millirems which refer to the amount of radiation energy absorbed by the body. The average American gets about 100 to 120 millirems a year from background radiation

- most of it coming from diagnostic x-rays. The amount of radiation absorbed by the body from a dental x-ray, for example, is generally around 10 to 20 milli-

Bill Dornside, a nuclear engineer with the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources, said the amount of radiation involved in the escape of ra-diactive steam at the Three Mile Island plant on Wednesday was equivalent to one millirem per hour.

How dangerous is the radiation of mod-

"You have to put (the danger) in perspective as to what society really wants," says Dr. Solomon Michaelson of the University of Rochester Medical Center. "We're always surrounded by radiant energy. Heat and light are examples. They can be very beneficial."

Allan McGowan of the Scientists Institute for Public Information says the key factor making radiation dangerous is its sun can be particularly dangerou cause you absorb it in the surface lay the skin. "Any increase in exposure diation increases the chance that s distion increases the chance that something will happen," he says.

The Pennsylvania accident occured when a water pump used to cool the reactor broke down. Water that had been irradiated — exposed to the radiation emitted by the fuel elements in the reactor—turned into steam and some of it escaped into the atmosphere. Athough water itself generally does not become radioactive and emit radiation, particles in the water can become radioactive. It is these particles that carry the radiation into the atmosphere.

Utility Board Okays Interconnect Talks

By SYLVIA TEAGUE Avalanche-Journal Staff

Although most members of the Electric Utility Board said they oppose in principle an interconnect between Lubbock Power and Light and another power company, the board voted Wednesday night to begin preliminary talks with competing Southwestern Public Service on just that subject.

Earlier this month, the L&L Study Committee recommended the utility be interconnected at the "earliest possible date," after learning the company needs an additional source of power before

A short time later there were two popping sounds Toon said might have been pistol shots. The explosion followed immediately afterward.

LONDON (AP) - Prime Minister James Callaghan's minority government fell Wednesday night because his Laborites did not fetch one of their members from a hospital to the House of Commons for a confidence vote.

The defeat forced national elections that could bring Britain and Europe their first woman prime minister. The vote was 311-310 on a censure mot-they were ousted from power because they did not drag ailing Sir Alfred Broughton, 72, from his hospital bed, where he is recuperating from a heart attack suffered a week ago. Vote Meant Difference

Had Broughton been taken to the Commons by ambulance to cast his negative vote. Callaghan's shaky government would have stood. The 311-311 tie would have been broken in Callaghan's favor by Labor Party member George Thomas, the non-voting speaker of the House.

Callaghan's government has been beset Ly crippling strikes in recent months. He is the first prime minister ousted on a confidence vote since Ramsay MacDonald. Britain's first Labor prime minister. was turned out 55 years ago.

The prime minister, 67, set no date for elections, but speculation is that the date will be April 26 or May 3.

The USDA's job, he said, is to put on the land water-saving practices that are feasible and economical Dr. James Osborn, chairman of the the Oklahoma State University department of agriculture economics, told the group the number of irrigation wells in the Great Plains region tripled during the 1950s, but has been steadily decreasing since the 1960s.

Osborn, former agriculture economics professor at Tech, said the water supply affects all parts of society.

In response to the officials' statements, several area farmers and businessmen were asked to offer suggestions about the dwindling water supply A. L. Black of Friona, chairman of the Texas Department of Water Resources, told the panel that area farmers are in a period of endurance until supplemental water can be brought to the area. We must have a long-range farm program that includes weather, trade and other affecting factors," Black stressed, so we can develop a long-range water program to meet the needs. Cutler said it may be two decades until water importation is found to be economical and environmentally feasible. "Until water importation is realized," Cutler said, "we must find ways to make water use more efficient."

Because the hearing was limited by invitation, the Texas Farmers Union submitted written testimony in which it criticized the USDA for not announcing a cotton set-aside and accused the Carter administration of "punching up on the farmers one more time." The TFU protested the thinking behind the water proposal being laid out by the White House. Lambasting the possibilities of mandatory water conservation and ineligibility in other government farm programs by non-conservers, the TFU said that millions of acre-feet of West Texas water will be wasted this year alone because of the government's failure to enact a setaside program for surplus cotton.

The TFU expressed concern over the use of fresh water supplies for secondary recovery of oil in West Texas.

Duncan Ellison, director of Water, Inc., in Lubbock, said persons unable to present statements to the panel at today's session can send statements to Cutler at the USDA in Washington or to Ellison at Water, Inc., in Lubbock.

21-Month Low Reached Carter Said Unsure Of Oil Curb Action By U.S. Trade Deficit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Helped by a sharp decline in oil imports, the U.S. trade deficit declined to a 21-month low of $1.3 billion in February, less than half the previous month's deficit, the government reported Wednesday.

The improved trade picture was likely to give new support to the dollar. which has been recovering in recent months from the battering it received during the last two years on foreign exchange markets.

The biggest improvement in February was a substantial 17.5 percent decline in the value of imported oil to $3.29 billion, the lowest in six months, the Commerce Department said. The volume of petroleum products was down nearly 19 percent to 238 million barrels.

Government trade analysts say they expect the trade deficit to decline to $22.5 billion this year. While that still is a huge amount, it would be a welcome improvement over the record deficit last year of $28.4 billion. The trade deficit declined to $1.3 billion last month from $3.1 billion in Janu-

Total U.S. exports in February increased 2.9 percent to a record $13.5 billion.

while imports declined 8.8 percent to $14.8 billion. The major improvement on the export side was a 3.6 percent increase in manufactured goods to a total of just under $9.1 billion. Imports of manufactured goods declined five percent to $8.8 billion, leaving a surplus in manufactured trade of $254 million, compared with a January deficit

There were increases in exports of communications equipment, motor vehicles, aircraft, electrical machinery, general industrial machinery and office machines and data-processing equipment. On the negative side, imports of iron and steel mill products increased 10.2 percent to a total of $576.3 million. Both exports and imports of agricultural commodities declined, although the net surplus of $1.13 billion was up from the surplus of $941 million in January.

The February excess of total imports over total exports of $1,299,500,000 was the smallest for any month since a $723 million deficit in May 1977.

The nation's deficit with Japan declined to $781 million, down 24 percent from the January deficit of $1 billion. If the improvement reflected in February's figures continues, there should be a substantial reduction from the record deficit with Japan last year of nearly $12 billion.

Commerce Department analysts said the reduction in oil imports resulting from the slowdown in Iranian oil production apparently is more than offsetting the increase in oil prices decreed last year by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

That analysis does not take into account the latest nine percent price increase. approved by OPEC Tuesday

The U.S. Countervailing Duty Law requires that the Treasury Department levy a duty on imports equal to the subsidy WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter stands ready to lift controls from domestically produced crude oil prices but remains unsure of how to go about it. according to senators who met privately Wednesday with top adminstration economic officials.

The biggest remaining hangup, the sen-ators agreed, is whether a tax should accompany deregulation and if so, whether such a tax could win congressional enact-

The last two energy taxes the Carter administration sent to Congress — 1977 proposals for taxes on crude oil and on gasoline - went down to defeat.

Treasury Secretary Michael T. Blumenthal, Budget Director James T. McIntyre Jr. and presidential assistant Stuart Eizenstat met with a group of senators who have been heavily involved in energy issues. The meeting took place in the office of Senate Majority Leader Robert C.

The session was similar to one held last Friday, although it involved a different group of lawmakers.

One option under consideration by the White House is withholding deregulation until Congress passes some kind of a tax on oil industry profits, said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

"If we had decontrol first, I think Congress would be reluctant to pass a tax," Kennedy told reporters. "I would hope we could have the tax structure in place

He predicted this would be the option selected by the president.

But Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, said the administration clearly still hasn't made up its mind - either on what type of tax to propose or on the terms of deregulation.

"We discussed full decontrol, phased decontrol, special decontrol — all the same old things. It was a big bore," Jackson said.

Carter originally had indicated to congressional leaders that he would unveil his new energy strategy today. But he postponed his energy speech until at least sometime next week

White House aides said that Tuesday's 9 percent oil price increase by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries was one reason why the president had decided he needed more time to examine various options.

They still don't have a plan - just lots of options," said Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio.

Senators who attended Wednesday's session said the OPEC price hike was only mentioned in passing. Indecision on the part of Carter may have more to do with the delay than the OPEC action, suggested Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., one of several Republicans invited to the 'Asking us, 'Should I do this? Should I do that?' just isn't bold enough. The president ought to stop trying to reach a con-sensus and just go ahead and do some-thing bold," Domenici said.

Existing price controls on oil, which keep the price of U.S. oil at about $5 a barrel below world market prices, expire automatically in September 1981.

However, after this June 1 the president will have the power to lift them sooner - either all at once or gradually without congressional review.

Any tax proposal accompanying such a move, of course, would have to be approved by Congress.

In another development, a bipartisan Senate-House group met with Carter for an hour Wednesday to urge that solar energy be given a large place in the president's forthcoming energy blueprint.

Sen. John A. Durkin, D-N.H., later told reporters it was the consensus of the group that Carter should make a televised appearance at a joint session of Congress or a nationally broadcast address to the nation to unveil his propos-

If Carter produces a bold program, said Domenici, "We'll back him up." Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., and Domenici agreed the nation probably would have been better off had Congress approved a greater portion of the energy plan Carter presented two years ago.

In other congressional energy developments Wednesday:

- The General Accounting Office, an auditing branch of Congress, said means for removing oil from the nation's Strategic Petroleum Reserve on the Gulf Coast during a fire, oil embargo or other national emergency are inadequate and need improvement.

 Colorado Gov. Richard Lamm and Oregon Gov. Victor Atiyeh told a House energy subcommittee that Carter's standby gasoline rationing and energy conservation plans should be modified to give states greater flexibility.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said Carter would meet today with con-gressional leaders to discuss his energy proposals.

WASHINGTON (AP) - A group of Oregon growers will present 7,200 pounds of grass seed to the National Park Service to help repair damage to the Mall caused by the farmers' protest last month.

Hundreds of tractors and other farm vehicles brought here by the American Agriculture Movement were barricaded on a 14-block stretch of the Mall between the Capitol and the Washington Monu-

The tractors caused an estimated $500,-000 worth of damage, two-thirds of it to the lawns and sod, officials said.

The Oregon Grass Seed Association volunteered to donate seed for those stretches that do not have to be completely resodded. An Albany, Ore., trucking firm transported it.

Robert Stanton, a regional deputy director for the Park Service, which selected the types of seed, will accept the donation in a ceremony on the Capitol steps, Rep. Robert B. Duncan, D-Ore.,

"Although farmers have recently been given a black eye in the press due to AAM's protests, I believe that the generous actions of the Oregon Grass Seed Association capture the true spirit of the American farmer," Duncan said.

Sky, As Depicted By X-Ray Satellite, Called 'Wildly Different'

NEW YORK (AP) - A satellite has sent back to earth the first X-ray pictures from space, photographs which show a sky "wildly different" from the peaceful nighttime sky men have gazed at for cen-

And because the X-rays show evidence of five elements common to Earth, scientists believe the new information should clear up some of the mysteries of how the solar system and universe were formed.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration satellite was launched last November. It carries the most sophisticated X-ray telescope ever built.

The telescope is sensitive to X-rays instead of visible light. Like a doctor's Xray machine, the telescope sees features which normally are invisible. But rather than machine-emitted X-rays, it picks up radiation from distant stars and galaxies.

Because these X-rays are filtered out by the Earth's atmosphere, ground-based astronomers have never been able to see

The X-ray telescope - designed by Dr.

Riccardo Giacconi and Leon Van Steybroeck, both of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge, Mass. - is 300 times more sensitive to detail than earlier X-ray detectors shot into space.

tial results from the satellite would be amplified by scientific analysis over the more than two years the satellite is expected to operate. Dr. George Clark of Massachusetts Institute of Technology said in an interview

Wednesday that the X-ray photographs show a sky "wildly different" from what we normally see. We see stars as relatively fixed and invariable. But if we had X-ray vision, we would see twinkling quasars and X-ray

> Scientists at MIT and the Goddard Space Flight Center, studying the spectrum of X-rays coming from the remnants, have detected five heavy elements never before seen outside our solar system - magnesium, silicon, sulfur, calcium and argon.

The presence of these elements helps confirm a view that the solar system is made of material forged in the furnace of long-dead stars.

The theory holds that the universe began as hydrogen and helium, which eventually combined into higher forms and became the complex elements necessary

These were then shot into space by supernovae. Billions of vears later, they co-

JFK Aide Schlesinger To Speak At Tech

Pulitzer Prize-winning author Arthur Schlesinger Jr. will speak on the Kennedy administration's foreign and domestic policy at 8:15 p.m. Thursday at Texas Tech.

Schlesinger, a former adviser and special assistant to President John F. Kennedy, will speak in the Center Theatre. Tickets, available at the UC ticket booth, are $2 for Tech students and $3 for others.

A graduate of Havard and Cambridge universities. Schlesinger established a national reputation as an historian after publishing "The Age of Jackson," a book that won him his first Pulitzer at the age of 29.

His second Pulitzer was for "A Thousand Days," a memoir of the Kennedy administration.

Schlesinger was among the founders of Americans for Democratic Action in 1947 and an adviser and speech-writer for Adlai Stevenson in the campaigns of 1952 and 1956. During those years he became friend a friend of Robert Kennedy, who later influenced his brother to add Schlesinger to the White House staff.

No one is certain exactly when Crip was born, said Roney, but observers first noticed him in 1946 when the tiny remaining flock of the nearly extinct whooping cranes arrived at the Aransas Pass Wildlife Refuge to spend the winter.

Watchers dubbed the small bird Crip when they found him nursing a broken wing. Crip was captured in 1949 and sent to the New Orleans Zoo as a mate for a female named Josephine.

After her death in 1965, Rosie, a female whooper from the San Antonio Zoo, became Crip's second mate in 1966.

The next year in San Antonio, the pair produced two offspring, one of which, a female, is still living. After Rosie died in 1971, Crip was mateless until meeting Ektu in 1976.

They fertilized one egg in 1977, which didn't hatch, and had fertilized five other eggs before Crip's death. Those eggs are being incubated at the zoo.

"As I explored the issues involved in 'Death and Dying.' I naturally developed 'Killing Time.' But that didn't take care of all the questions raised, so it's led to this," he says.

Wyatt says Americans have a tremendous love of violence.

'Half of our literature is about violence and the other half is about sex." he says. Sex is easy to understand, but violence is more of a puzzle.

'Hidden violence is pervasive in our society," Wyatt contends. "It's in literature, sports, TV, movies, humor, pop art. Children's cartoons are violent, start to finish. Many films for young people deal with hurt humor; and adult humor is really no different. American humor is really no different. Adult humor is basically slapstick, or the put-down."

Violence is "one of the areas that we don't commonly face in our willful minds," he says. "We bury this; hide it from ourselves. The same is true of Wyatt's pursuit of the Really Big Question comes naturally. "It's a sort of arrogance. I suppose. I consider these things important. They interest me most. And I think they are issues we must examine for ourselves."

Wyatt enjoys teaching, but writing is his real love. He writes almost compulsively - novels, plays, poetry, criticism. TV scripts.

Both of his novels deal with violence. His first, "Catching Fire," is set in Winter Park, Fla. and is about a young man who gets into trouble making love. He is caught in bed with someone else's wife.

Postal Alert System Discussed For City sticker may help to insure the safety of Lubbock senior citizens and handicapped individuals if a new postal alert system is set into motion around the city.

Representatives of the three sponsors of the system met Wednesday with the heads of retired persons organizations to discuss plans for the Alert program.

The Postal Service, the Hub City Lions' Club and First Federal Savings and Loan Association have combined forces to acquire the participation of residents from Lubbock and outlying areas who are 60 years of age and older.

The program would call for the registration of any interested person on an index card that would carry the individual's name, address, telephone number and the same information for two other relatives or friends

The participant is also provided with an Alert sticker that is placed on the inside lid of the mailbox.

Should the participant's mailman notice accumulating mail in the box, a broken window or anything that doesn't appear normal about the premises, he will call a contact number provided on the sticker. The number connects with a First Federal office where the cards are

The people provided as references on the participant's card will then be notified so that they can check the house and the resident's safety.

According to Charley Pope, executive vice president at First Federal, "If we can't contact those people, someone from our staff will go out and check."

Bob Mayer of the Lions' Club said that when the program gets under way, the names of participants will be stored in a computer at First Federal for easy refer-

Pope has asked for membership lists of retired persons organizations as well as the names of older people who may not be involved in the group. Sponsors will then either send a letter explaining the program and an application to the interested persons, or they will present the program to members at their group meetings. Pope said the organizations of retired persons throughout the city represent some 19,000 people, adding. "I think you'll see 5,000 sign up in the next six

The program "will work." said Pope. because we're committed to make it

According to Mayer, whose organization initiated the program in Lubbock, the alert system originated in Cleveland. Ohio, and in Temple. He said he received information about the program from Temple where the American Association of Retired Persons began the project. "This is the third place in the United States to have this program available," Mayer told the retired persons represent-

The program originally was to be limited to the city of Lubbock, but due to the interest of persons in surrounding areas, the sponsors will work to include them in the program.

At the suggestion of several of the retired groups leaders, the sponsors will also consider extending protection through the program to medically handicapped

Al Edwards, president of the National Association of Letter Carriers local, said that all postmen will be notified and informed about the program. He said he intends to include information regarding the system in the orientation program provided for all new letter carriers.

"Your postman is constantly on the alert for something that doesn't look right to him," said Edwards. "If he saw mail stacking up or something else wrong the only alternative was for him to call his superivor and it would go on down the line. Now this sticker will eliminate

Those interested in the program can register at the three First Federal buildings located at 1300 Broadway, 34th Street and Avenue W and at 50th Street and Orlando Avenue, or call 762-0491 and ask for the senior citizens' department.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

DR. PAUL E. RUBLE

Dear Dr. Ruble: My father is 86 and has been having prostate gland trouble. This has been going on for a couple of years. I am told he is too old to have this repaired by surgery. What do you have to say? - Mrs. R.L.

Who told you he is too old? If it was the doctor, he may have reasons other than his age for saying so. When prostate surgery is needed it is usually performed with age being a secondary consideration. More important than your father's age is his general health. Will his heart and general blood circulation permit it? Will it permit him to weather the effects of the anesthetic required?

The alternative to surgery can be unacceptable - chiefly serious urinary complications. Compared with this the minimal risks of surgery might be worth it.

I suggest you have your father seen by an urologist to find out, first of all, if he needs surgery. Such surgery has been done in men in the 90s.

Dear Dr. Ruble: About 12 years ago I had a myelogram done for my back. No surgery was done. When I had X-rays recently, it was found that some of the dye material from the myelogram was still in my back near the bottom disc. I have had headaches and backaches quite often of late. I would like to know if this is the cause and what other damage this dye can do. - Mrs. E.L.H.

A myelogram is a special X-ray study that provides a clear outline of the object to be viewed - in this case your spine. The doctor injects a liquid into the spinal canal. The dye in the material shows up especially well on X-rays, and will give a good picture of, for example, a protrusion pressing against a spinal nerve.

After the examination as much dye as possible is removed, but a trace may remain and show up on future X-rays. I doubt this is causing your pains, unless a large enough amount was left behind to cause nerve irritation.

A newer substance is being used in some centers for lower spine studies. This dissolves in the spinal fluid and is later taken away by the kidneys so none remains behind, but it is used for lower spine studies only.

Dear Dr. Ruble: My sister is 65 and has chronic constipation. Rather than take stool softeners or bulk laxatives, she says it's healthier for her to take several enemas a week. Please comment. Is a stool softener safe to take with high blood pressure? - C.S.

Regulation of bowels by diet is the ideal. I'm referring to a high fiber diet along with natural laxatives like prunes. If that doesn't work stool softeners and bulkproducing medicines can be tried to help things along. Two points are often missed — the need for adequate liquids and exercise. ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I am a Directory Assistance operator with the telephone company. May I say something to the public through your column? First, why do you folks dial Information when you have a phone book right in front of you? Second. why is it that nobody ever has a pencil on hand when they need it? We are timed with stopwatches and no conversaton is supposed to take more than 34 sec-

Most of the women I work with are on the job because their families can't make it any more on one paycheck. It is no fun to go to work Saturdays. Sundays and some holidays just because people refuse to use their directories. For example, on Christmas Day last year, we handled thousands of calls from people requesting the phone numbers of the Welfare Department, loan companies, department and jewelry stores, toy shops and fast food joints. Those places are all closed on Christmas. What's the matter with people anyway? - Mr. And Mrs. Public. You Give Me A Pain

Dear Pained: Why do people call Information for a number when they have a telephone directory right in front of them? Because they are lazy - or they can't find their glasses or they are in a

Dear Ann: I need help and I don't know who to ask. I am a teenager who is ashamed of my problem and am afraid that if I speak to someone about it they will think I am crazy. So what's wrong? I am a teenager who cannot eat in a restaurant or anyone's home without vomit-

There is nothing wrong with the food. It's me. I've tried eating lightly — little dabs of cottage cheese, small bowls of soup, even light salads, but it is the same old story. I get the dry heaves and then I must excuse myself. It is so humiliating

I love my mother's cooking and would rather eat at home, but I used to be able to eat any place until about a year ago. I went to the family doctor with this problem because I thought something was wrong with my stomach, but she said my stomach is perfectly okay and that I will outgrow this terrible thing.

I'll be going away to college in two years and I need to get over this problem now. Please tell me what to do. - Sick Of Myself In Michigan

Dear Sick: Go to another doctor. Get a complete physical checkup. If this doctor tells you there is nothing wrong with you, tell him people do not vomit for no reason. If there is no organic problem it must be emotional, and if that is the diagnosis. I urge you to get some counseling and learn why you cannot tolerate food other places than at home.

Texas Supreme Court Refuses To Hear Class Action Case

AUSTIN (AP) - The Texas Supreme Court issued a ruling Wednesday that some lawyers had argued would discourage consumers from filing class action

Without comment, the court refused to cancel a Fort Worth judge's order that four plaintiffs in a class action suit against auto dealers answer a series of questions about their personal finances.

State District Court Judge Charles Murray had told the four to respond to written questions submitted by attorneys for seven Fort Worth auto dealers who are being sued.

The suit seeks hundreds of thousands of dollars in penalties and refunds for consumers who paid "documentary charges" added to the price of automobiles.

Named plaintiffs are Brenda Catron, Nellie Martin, Paul Norwood and Ricky Yates, who say they are suing for all other customers of the seven dealers.

The dealers are Ted Arendale Ford.

Under the Texas Supreme Court's 'Rule 42," adopted in 1977 to govern class action suits, plaintiffs must notify all persons who might benefit from such a suit. Estimated cost of notice is about $1 a person.

Craig said in his petition to the Supreme Court that written questions approved by Murray make personal finances of the plaintiffs an issue.

If that matters, Craig said, "the result is to effectively deny the class action in the state of Texas to all but the wealthy.

Murray noted that the $25,000 had been tempting to 'influence' this litigation advanced not by the plaintiffs but by

He said the issue was not the willingness of the plaintiffs to finance the suit but whether they were adequate representatives of the other customers and whether they understand their liability

Arendale Ford, in a separate response, said one object of the questions was to determine whether the plaintiffs were pressing a true action or merely acting as pawns of counsel, who may be at-

Jim Lovett of Clarksville, past president of the Texas Trial Lawyers Association, said the high court's 1977 class action rule "affirmed the ancient concept of justice for all" but it would wither if the court allowed Murray's ruling to

"Would it not otherwise have been better, more humane, never to have offered the hope of the new Rule 42 than to give it, then take it straight away?" Lovett said in a "friend of the court" brief.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE

for expenses of the case.

One more word about automatic dishwashers: if you are fortunate enough to have one, use it! This cannot be stressed enough! You will be doing you and your family a big favor. Dishwashers are a lot more sanitary than washing dishes in the kitchen sink

This machine is a convenience and a hard working appliance. The water used in dishwashers stays hotter than the water you wash dishes with in the sink. Therefore, the dishes washed in a dishwasher are not only much cleaner but grease-free.

These machines are by no means foolproof, so if something doesn't come out as clean as you had anticipated, don't give up and say that your dishwasher is no good.

Check your loading procedure and make sure you loaded correctly (it could have been your fault). Make sure you are pre-rinsing them properly - dishwashers are not food-waste disposers. These machines are your time-saving friends, and they will work for your benefit if you use them properly.

There are plenty of housekeepers who would give an arm or a leg to have a dishwasher do their dishes for them. "Your automatic dishwasher can handle over 95 percent of your dishwashing chores. By respecting its limitations, but never exaggerating them, you can enjoy kitchen freedom and sanitation impossible with old-time methods or products," says Alice White. Home Service Director.

Happy dishwashing! - A. Johnson

Death Penalty Reversed On Use Of Evidence

AUSTIN (AP) - Henry Martinez Porter won reversal of his death penalty conviction Wednesday in the 1975 shooting death of a Fort Worth policeman.

The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals said the trial judge improperly let prosecutors use Porter's federal parole papers as evidence against him during sentencing deliberations

While the facts contained in the docur ments in question may have been relevant to punishment, the manner in which the state sought to prove those facts denied appellant his constitutional rights of confrontation and cross-examination." the appeals court said in ordering a new

Porter was convicted of capital murder in the Nov. 29, 1975, slaying of Officer Henry P. Mailloux, who stopped him while investigating three armed robberies. Prosecutors later introduced evidence identifying Porter as the "perpetrator" of the robberies, the appeals court

The defendant said he pulled his gun only after Mailloux shot him, the appeals court said. Porter was arrested two days later in San Antonio

J.M. McIntyre, a U.S. parole officer from San Antonio, testified at the trial's punishment phase and brought records from Porter's file. One 1973 document recommended Porter's parole be revoked "due to his admitted use of narcotics and failure to participate in treatment

The trial judge at first refused to admit the parole records, but after a recess decided to allow their introduction. Porter objected that the records were hearsay and denied him a right to cross-examina-

The appeals court agreed.

"These letters contain hearsay upon hearsay, as well as opinions regarding appellant's mental and physical condition and his amenability to rehabilitation,"

Lubbock Sentences Affirmed

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - The Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday affirmed the murder conviction and 99-year prison sentence assessed Ben Delira Rendon Jr. in the 1974 Christmas death of his girlfriend in Lubbock Two robbery cases and a burglary case from Lubbock County also were affirmed by the court.

Rendon had appealed the conviction on grounds that his oral confession was introduced improperly at his trial, because he did not have an attorney present at the time of the statement

The appeals court, however, concluded Rendon had waived his right to counsel, and rejected arguments that Rendon's addiction to heroin precluded the possibility of a waiver.

Rendon was convicted in the beating death of Sandra Garcia, 20, a Tech coed Her body was found near her 1109 62nd St. home. Rendon surrendered to police on Dec. 31, 1974.

The conviction of Johnny Lee Mimms for the burglary of Bozeman Elementary School on May 30, 1976, also was upheld.

Mimms was sentenced to nine years in prison for the offense.

Mimms contended he should have been charged on a lesser offense of "criminal trespass," but the court said the request was properly refused by the trial court. Two unrelated robbery convictions were affirmed.

Harold Mackey, convicted of aggravated robbery and sentenced to 15 years in prison, contended identification of him by the victim was "tainted" by her having seen him stand up and be identified when he entered his plea. The appeals court noted the trial court had found her identification of Mackey to be of "independent origin," noting she had seen the robber under good lighting for at least 10 minutes and had identified Mackey as one of the robbers from a photograph the day after the offense.

The conviction and 10-year sentence of Ronald Dean Pegues for robbery of a convenience store also was affirmed.

Pegues claimed facts in the case were insufficient to show the clerk at the store had been placed "in fear of eminent bod-ily injury," but the court disagreed.

Property Owners' Association Opposes Bill For New City Court

Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Lubbock Property Owners Association board of directors announced its opposition to legislation which would create a municipal court of record in Lubbock, saying appeals do not justify any change and the court would cost taxpavers more.

A Senate bill to create the court is scheduled to come up for a vote today. In a letter to the Avalanche-Journal, board president Bob Green lists six reasons for the LPOA's opposition to creation of a court of record

- The greater cost to the taxpayer because of the need for more judges and more court reporters.

- No limitation set on how many courts can be created, adding up to still greater cost to taxpayers.

- Fear of abuse by city law enforcement agencies, including the possibility the number of citations will be increased to raise money if appeals are restricted. - More money and more power to an ever-expanding bureaucracy - on all levels of government

- The possibility of making the present system more workable. - Other more efficient, less costly systems are available. Green notes appeals from Municipal Court to County Court "are running between 5 percent and 6 percent, which our legal people consider not out of line." However, Mayor Dirk West said creation of a court of record "obviously is the best thing for the city of Lubbock," adding it has the support of the Lubbock County Bar Association, Lubbock-area legislators in Austin and "citizens who

Public Talk On Physics Set At Tech

Dr. Raymond Pepinsky of the University of Florida physics faculty will deliver the Robert A. Welch Foundation Lecture in Chemistry on Thursday at Texas Tech

Pepinsky will speak on "Static Magnetic Field Effects in Molecular Biology and Sensory Physiology" at 4:40 p.m. in Room 5 of the Chemistry Building.

Dr. W.O. Milligan, director of research at the foundation, said, "The purpose of the Robert A. Welch Foundation Lecture is to make it possible for institutions of higher learning to bring to Texas eminent speakers who might not otherwise be ac-

The lecture is open to the public. Pepinsky received bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Minnesota and a doctoral degree in physics from the University of Chicago. Before joining the faculty at the University of Florida in 1968, Pepinsky taught at Auburn, Pennsylvania State and Florida Atlantic universities.

He has written more than 140 papers and done extensive research in physical, chemical and surface crystallography. He also has done research in the fields of Xray, neutron and slow electron diffraction, and structural mechanisms of crys-

In recent years, Pepinsky's research has turned more toward vario biophysics, including that of static magnetic field effects in biological materials and processes, and their structural and functional significance.

Pepinsky has received numerous honors, including an honorary doctor of science degree from the Justus Liebig-Universitaet of Germany and Guggenheim and Smith-Mundt fellowships.

The physics professor has served on the governing board of the American Institute of Physics and the editorial board of the "Review of Scientific Instruments" and has been a member of six National Academy of Science-National Research Council Committees. He is a Fellow of the American Physical Society and the American Association for the Advancement of Science want strict enforcement of city laws."

"The court of record is the one single way to efficiently enforce city laws," West said. If there is another method as suggested by the LPOA, he said, "let's hear what they're talking about. It's easy to make a statement like that."

As for the city's motive in seeking legislation to create a court of record, West said "the only reason we want a court of record is to stop the mass appeals to other courts where cases are dismissed or never heard.

A court of record would "add potency to city ordinances." he said.

"It is only for the benefit of citizens through better enforcement of laws of our city.

As for the greater cost of a court of record. West said it would permit the court to "operate as a court should, not merely as a stopover for a later appeal.

West said the city "is not going to create any more courts than we need," and predicted the present two Municipal Courts would be "adequate" for the preTo the LPOA charge the city might be- disputes the enforcement of our traffic

Energy Chief Says Atom Safe, Necessary

DALLAS (AP) — Despite the risks, at-omic energy remains a safe and necessary source of power, U.S. Energy Secre-tary James Schlesinger said Wednesday. "Nothing is riskless, but when one weighs the risks overall, the advantages of nuclear power exceed the risks," Schlesinger told reporters after he spoke to the National Association of Broadcasters convention.

Schlesinger said he would look into the general emergency declared Wednesday morning at the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant at Harrisburg, Pa.

'I will check on precisely what it is,"

However, Schlesinger said the nuclear power industry had a good safety record. "Over the years there have been no fatalities resulting from the use of nuclear power," he said. When asked whether adequate safeguards exist for continued development of atomic power plants, the energy secre-tary said, "Unquestionably." Schlesinger also said nuclear power was vital to the U.S. economy.

"Nuclear power continues to be an essential element in the nation's energy mix. Failure to do that will mean growing dependence on foreign sources of supply and ultimately shortages that will affect the American economy," he said.

Schlesinger said the energy probles can be partly solved in the immediate fruit ture by developing existing alternative fuels.

"We must recognize the need gradually to substitute other sources of energy for oil. For the nearer term, that means those technologies basically that we have today and notably those based on coal and nuclear power," he said.

However, Schlesinger said that although hopes for solar power development remain high, "It is not an immediate solution to our problems."

ment remain high, "It is not an immediate solution to our problems."

On another topic, Schlesinger said he did not think the oil price increase announced Tuesday by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries had any link to Monday * signing of a peace treaty between Egypt and Israel.

"The meeting of OPEC was planned."

"The meeting of OPEC was planned prior to the agreements of the parties on the Middle Eastern peace, so I don't think that could be the case," he said. In his address, Schlesinger urged broadcasters to help wake up the public to the eastern the public of the eastern the said.

to the reality of the energy problem.
"Unless we have a national understanding of the nature of the problem and a national consensus on how to deal with that problem, we will continue to make haste slowly." he said.

Gasoline Supply Continues Decline, Institute Claims

NEW YORK (AP) - Inventories of distillate and gasoline continued to decline, according to weekly supply statistics is-sued Wednesday by the American Petroleum Institute.

However, the decline in stocks of distillate was not as sharp as in recent weeks. the institute said.

For the week ended March 23, supplies of distillate, used primarily for home-heating purposes, fell slightly to 116.6 million barrels from 119.3 million barrels a week earlier. The decline of less than 3 million barrels was far below the figures for recent weeks, when stocks were drawn down by 10 million to 15 million barrels. The decline in demand for distil-late reflected the warmer weather in many parts of the nation, the institute

Distillate production was up slightly in the latest week to 3.1 million barrels daily from 3.0 million barrels daily in the previous week.

Gasoline supplies dropped more than 5.5 million barrels to 243.7 million barrels from 249.1 million barrels in the preceeding week, and were more than 26 million barrels below inventories of 269.9 million barrels at this time last year.

Gasoline production was also down slightly, to 6.7 million barrels daily, from 6.8 million barrels daily a week ago. Crude oil imports were down sharply in the latest week to 5.8 million barrels daily from 6.8 million barrels daily a week

Wind Course For Architects Set At Tech

Architects, engineers or others responsible for designing buildings that must withstand heavy winds will be offered two short courses at Texas Tech University June 25-29.

The university's Institute for Disaster Research will offer "Standards of Practice for Wind Load" as the first course and "Tornadic Loads for Design and Evaluation of Structure.

The courses, each lasting two and a half days, can be taken individually or in sequence. The institute has offered similar courses in other years, but these are the first since 1977

In the first course, participants will study the nature of winds, including hurricanes, tornadoes and other extreme winds. They also will study design loads for buildings and other structures, American National Standards Institute (ANSI) building code requirements and impending revisions, roof and cladding design, and wind tunnel test concepts.

The second course will cover information on the nature of tornadoes, assessment of risk, damage mechanisms, tornado wind field models, tornadic loads on structures and design in relation to tornado-generated missiles.

One of the short course instructors. Dr Kishor C. Mehta, is chairman of an ANSI subcommittee on wind loads. The other principal instructors will be Drs. James R. McDonald and Joseph E. Minor, director of the Institute for Disaster Re-

All are members of the Tech civil engineering faculty specializing in wind

Displaced Bikini Islanders Dislike Temporary Sanctuary

HONOLULU (AP) - The people of Bikini Island, forced to move twice from their native land because of radioactivity, may be packing their bags once

They may be interested in moving to Hawaii, but no definite plans have been made for a move from Kili Island, where more than 500 of the Bikini islanders are now living. And there seem to be complications in such a move for the forced nomads. The tale of the Bikinians' travels begins in 1946, when the United States moved them from their island, part of the Marshall Islands 2.300 miles west of Hawaii, to conduct nuclear tests In July 1946, two nuclear bombs each equivalent to 20,000 tons of

TNT, were exploded over the island and underneath the waters of a 25-milelong lagoon. In 1954 another nuclear device was exploded there and in 1956 the island was used for the test of the first hydrogen bomb dropped from a U.S. air-

The islanders - of mixed Melanesian-Polynesian stock - wound up on Kili Island. Some returned home in 1970 when the U.S. government began restoring Bikini, part of the U.S. Trust Territory of the Pacific, but about 400 remained on Kili

Medical tests showed last year, however, that the islanders who returned to Bikini had increasing levels of radioactive cesium-137 in their bodies, ingested when they continued to eat local coconuts and produce although asked to eat only imported food.

Last September, a ship returned 139 residents of Bikini to Kili, about 550 miles away, where the government is providing housing and constructing other facilities for them. The islanders consider the move to Kili only temporary.

"We must find a place to live until the radiation has left our island." the Bikiians said in a statement. "We were hoping to explore the possibility of living in Hawaii until we can return to our own island."

To the Bikinians. Kili has drawbacks. It's relatively small. lacks a lagoon for extensive fishing and has rough winter surf that makes it difficult to bring people and supplies in and out, says Robert Law, liaison officer in Honolulu for the Trust Territory

"During the period they can't return to Bikini, they are looking for something other than Kili," Law said. "The feeling is Bikini will be okay some day. The question is when is that day.

Meanwhile the U.S. Department of Energy continues to survey radioactivity on Bikini and is expected to release a study soon on the extent of radioactive

The Bikini-Kili Council of community leaders met earlier this year with Susumo Ono, the director of the Hawaii Department of Land and Natural Resources, and Ono said the council might visit Hawaii later on an inspection tour.

One said the council said the Bikinians might want to move to Hawaii, the state's largest county and second-most populous island with about 78,100 peo-

The council. Ono said, wants a parcel of land on which the Bikinians can maintain their former island lifestyle and not be restricted.

"I told them that I could not think of any place on the Big Island (Hawaii Island) where that would be possible," he said. After he described Hawaii's job market, zoning and fishing laws, schools, hospitals and other conditions, Ono said, "They were discouraged ... but they didn't want to close the door entirely on the possibility of Hawaii being a relocation area. The Bikinians might not be greeted with open arms, however.

Hawaii Gov. George Ariyoshi advocates a policy of controlled growth, including proposals to discourage immigration to the state.

Hawaii County Mayor Herbert Matayoshi noted: "The unemployment index is high and anyone seeking employment will have a difficult time unless a person has special skills that are going to be marketable.

And County Deputy Planning Director Duane Kanuha said, "They want to be by the sea, but that would limit them because much of the shoreline is in conservation zoning. It would restrict the establishment of a large settlement."

The Bikinians say they do not want to be on welfare. "We do not want to remain dependent on the U.S. government for handouts," their statement said.

"Before the U.S. removed us from our beloved homeland. Bikini, we were self-

An adviser to the Bikinians, Ataji Balos, told a reporter in the Trust Territory that the islanders want to be on American soil in Hawaii "so that they won't be forgotten by the U.S. government.

The government, through Trust Territory High Commissioner Adrian Winkel. has given a memo to the Bikinians saying the United States will look out for "The government of the United States considers itself generally responsible for the well-being of the Bikini people and their descendants, and ... will seek to arrange their relocation permanently in the most satisfactory manner possible." the memo says.

Van For Elderly, Handicapped Considered

By NANCY ALLEN Avalanche-Journal Staff

Purchase of an eight-passenger van for transporting Lubbock elderly and handicapped residents currently not reached the service operated by Citizens for Improved Transportation, was considered for next year's budget by Lubbock Services Commission Wednesday

"We would in no way intend to compete with the service presently offered by CFIT." said commission director Archie Bottoms, Bottoms, however thinks there may be as many as several hundred people per month not reached by CFIT.

Community Services now aids the CFIT bus operation by providing free office space and parking for the buses they operate, and by paying the salary and fringe benefits of the bus driver., and a radio pager for the system. Also listed as a priority for the 1980 budget was a food stamp outreach program designed to inform the genuinely needly of benefits possibly available to Bottoms said he repeatedly has found the people most aware of welfare benefits that are available, often are ones wh need public assistance least.

Outreach, he contended, would help insure that people who qualify for the benefits receive them. "It definately would not be an invitation to spend government funds," he stat-Bottoms stressed the position of Community Services is to look out for the wel-

A stitch in time OR Elias Howe wasa SEW~SEW inventor.

When Howe invented the sewing machine in 1846, he really got needled. Some tailors said a machine could never replace hand work, or so it seemed. But a few followed the thread of Howe's thinking. An automatic stitcher worked faster and more consistently, and the results were highly profitable. Which happens to be the same reason folks today sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan. It's tailored to let you buy U.S. Savings Bonds automatically. And that makes saving faster and more consistent. With results that are highly profitable.

So, save regularly with U.S. Savings Bonds. You'll have your future all sewn up.

Marvins Leave Trial Spotlight

LOS ANGELES (AP) - With testimony concluded, Lee Marvin and Michelle Triola Marvin stepped off center stage in their Hollywood-style trial Wednesday. leaving the next lines to their lawyers and the judge.

But the most crucial scenes in the courtroom drama are still ahead - the closing arguments by attorneys and the judge's verdict in the battle over Mar-

"I think we've proven our case," said Miss Marvin's attorney, Marvin Mitchel-

"I'm extremely optimistic," said A. David Kagon, representing Marvin. "I feel like crying," Miss Marvin said as testimony closed. "I'd do it all over again," said Marvin. The case already set legal precedent by coming to court at all. At issue is whether Miss Marvin can collect alimony-like benefits after breaking up with Marvin, with whom she had lived Superior Court Judge Arthur Marshall, who listened to Il weeks of testimony, said he will await submission of the attorneys' legal briefs next Wednesday, hear oral summations April 10, then decide if Miss Marvin should get any of the $1.8

million she seeks. Marshall said he will review more than 8,000 pages of transcript accumulated during 42 days of testimony from more than 60 witnesses

The memories they resurrected of a 15year-old love affair captured a wide audience - some interested in the legal precedent, most fascinated by a backstage peek at love and sex among celebrities.

The parade of witnessses, including show business luminaries, gave intimate details of a stormy movieland love affair - the most lurid testimony since no-fault divorce stopped Hollywood couples from. throwing verbal punches in open court.

This time, the punches were being thrown by an unmarried couple - an Oscar-winning actor and a former cabaret singer whose six-year affair began on the movie set of "Ship of Fools" and ended repeatedly. She referred to him as "Lee." He called her "the plaintiff," refusing to speak her name. She had legally changed her last name near the end of the affair to make it the same as his. The trial opened in January, after a seven-year battle by Miss Marvin to get her day in court. She sued in 1972, two years after she and Marvin ended the affair. Her case was thrown out of court.

Miss Marvin, first on the stand, disclosed she had undergone three abortions. "He didn't want more children."

she wept. As a result, she said, "I have scars and I can't bear chilren."

She depicted Marvin as an abusive drunk whose alcoholism tore apart their love affair. There were tales of rowdy parties, one in which Miss Marvin said the actor dangled a woman out the window of a high-rise hotel. "I almost fainted." she said

Marvin denied it all. He claimed he was a social drinker who never lost control of his faculties. He depicted Miss Marvin as an annoyance in his life, a woman who moved in and refused to leave.

El-Arish, Sinai Capital, Celebrates Pending Return To Egyptian Rule

EL-ARJSH, Israeli-Occupied Sinai (AP) — Egyptian flags were raised and Anwar Sadat was hailed as a "hero of peace" Wednesday as El-Arish, the capital of Sinai, celebrated its pending return to Egyptian rule.

"Everybody is singing for peace." Ahmed Fuad a-Rout. a teacher, said as he orchestrated a noisy party in his clan's headquarters, beside the main square in El-Arish. A youth wailed a folksong over a loudspeaker atop the house, scores of hands clapped a snappy rhythm, and wild, ululating yells reverberated across the sandy town square. Sinai, Sinai," a hundred voices sang. El-Arish, normally a sandy, sleepy town with a surplus of sunshine, burst into a lively celebration two days after the signing of the Israel-Egypt treaty that means the return of Egyptian rule in two months. Israel has held the town since Homemade Egyptian flags fluttered from houses, cars and trucks. Boys pedaled bicycles bearing the red, white and black banner through the streets.

"Welcome Sadat, oh hero of peace," said hand-lettered

During the long negotiations with Israel, Sadat often indicated that he wanted a quick return to Egyptian rule for El-Arish, the capital and largest town in the barren Sinai peninsula. He got what he wanted - Israel is leaving El-Arish seven months before the nine-month deadline for withdrawal to a line from El-Arish on the Mediterannean coast to Ras Muhammad at the southern tip of the peninsula. At the end of three years. Israel is to withdraw fully from Sinai

Wednesday's celebration, evidently approved by the Israeli military governor, started with a parade of decorated cars and trucks through the streets. Local officials said 15.-000 or more marched or watched the parade, though foreign observers felt the number was no more than 2,000-3,000.

Whatever the number, the mood was joyful, and if it continues, the town of 40,000 will be delirious when the Egyptians finally arrive in May.

'This is Egypt." exulted Gamal Hassad, 18, a driver whose truck bore three Egyptian banners and a portrait of Sadat. 'The Egyptians are the best of all," shouted Kamal Omar

Shourab, 25, a merchant, Mayor Ahmed El-Tanger said he hoped there would be-'no change at all" when the Egyptians return, except for the change from the inflated Israeli pound to the more stable Egyptian currency

El-Tanger said nearly 9.000 of his townspeople work in Israel or in Israeli enterprises in Sinai. "I am quite sure the gates will remain open and these people can continue to have work," he said. Israel wants the border to be opened at the same time that El-Arish goes under Cairo's rule, but it is not clear whether this will mean that laborers will be allowed to cross the fron-

The mayor, in office five years, said he had one last request of the Israeli government: to please forgive a loan of $75,000 used on municipal projects. "They should wash this away," he said.

Inflation Still Bugs Carter

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - National Democratic party Chairman John C. White says President Carter hit a political home run with the Middle East peace treaty, but he still must do something about inflation before the 1980 presidential election.

Bilandic Endorses Conqueror

CHICAGO (AP) - After holding out for weeks, Mayor Michael A. Bilandic has delivered his endorsement of Jane Byrne, the woman he reveal who would publish it or when. Hunt said he was upset that Nixon has begun making public appearances after months of post-Watergate solitude.

Brown becomes the seventh UCLA basketball coach in its 61st year of basketball, and he said, "This school has a great academic program and an unbelievable basketball history.'

He referred primarily to the 10 national titles in 12 years by the team under John Brown, who on several occasions was tossed out of pro games for ultra-strenuous objections, told newsmen there was not too much difference between the game in college and the pros.

NEW YORK (AP) - The NCAA basketball tournament final between Michigan State and Indiana State drew a record rating for a college basketball championship game according to Nielsen figures released Wednesday.

The Monday night game, matching All-Americans Larry Bird of Indiana State and Earvin Johnson of Michigan State, received a 24.1 rating, meaning nearly one-quarter of all the sets in America were tuned into the game.

Dunbar To Visit Bovina

The Dunbar Panthers, who according to coach Kelly Rogers are improving all the time, will try to get that elusive first victory of the season today in a non-district single encounter at Bovina. The game is slated to start at 4 p.m. Dunbar will bring a 0-8 record into the contest. However, the Panthers have been playing opponents close of late. According to Rogers, the reason for Dunbar's improve-

Tech Defensive Unit Impresses Dockery

By DON HENRY

Executive Sports Editor It was a slightly different version of the steak-for-the-winners. wieners-for-thelosers game.

Only this time, the winners got an early trip to the showers. That left the losers or the offensive unit - to run agility drills, or just spend more energy and time on the practice field.

Texas Tech head football coach Rex Dockery worked his team in a situationtype scrimmage during the latter half of Wednesday's workout. And the way the defensive units performed brought an earlier departure to the dressing room.

and the evening meal. "The defense played well." said Dockery, if the additional work for the offenders didn't signify it enough. "Right now.

they're doing better. "But," he shrugged, "this was only the third day we were running the I (formation), which meant we weren't as familiar with it."

Dockery pointed to the work of defensive tackle Jamie Giles, who last year played in the middle of the defensive line and then was tried at outside linebacker the first week of spring drills. "And I thought Johnny Quinney, at linebacker, did some things pretty good to only have been there a couple of days.

"The secondary was breaking on the ball well, and (Lewis) Washington (a sophomore from Kerens) is getting better and better at linebacker."

James Hadnot, last year's SWC-leading rusher, played fullback in the fall, but he's being tried a the I-back - or tailback spot in the I, and he rushed for 42 yards on 12 carries, as the leading ground-gainer. Soph-to-be Wes Hightower carried but three times but checked in with 19 yards. In the passing department, only starter Ron Reeves could connect, hitting four of nine for 61 yards. Tim Orr caught two passes for 36 yards.

The receivers continued to "have some good days, some bad days," commented Dockery.

Mark Johnson had to leave the workout early with a shoulder injury, and another running back, Greg Tyler was limited after sustaining a hamstring muscle injury

"I wish we could have looked at Tyler some today," commented Dockery.

Finding a tailback (in the split-back offense, or fullback in the "I") is one of the main objectives of the spring. Mark Olbert, who started there much of last fall, continues to lead the race.

We were having trouble blocking for the I," offensive coordinator Bud Casey commented following the workout. "For one thing, we only have a few plays out of the I, and we haven't had time to learn the blocking assignments. These things figured in the defense having the edge in

The Raiders will return to the learning routine of spring workouts today and Friday. A regular scrimmage is on tap for Saturday, beginning at 10:30 a.m.

Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff About this time a year ago, the name Chuck Perry wasn't exactly being tossed around at most track meets. But after high jumping 7-feet and winning the gold medal at the state meet, that quickly changed.

Now, everytime the Monterey senior sets foot on a track, every high jumper sets their sights on him. He's the top dawg. And to out-jump Chuck Perry, is comparable to out-gunslingin' Audie

Perry, though, will be the first to admit, that the '79 season hasn't exactly been that great so far. Oh, he's put a few notches on his belt during the last month or so-but not enough of them, he points

"I haven't done as well as I expected to do by any means," said the 6-6 Perry.

But he hasn't.

With a best of 6-8, Perry is currently ranked amongst the state's elite. Although, that might please some people, Perry isn't exactly-pardon the pun -jumping for joy.

'People have to wonder why I'm not right up there at the top," he continued, "since I'm the defending state champion. And it really makes me mad that I'm

There are, of course, reasons why Perry has yet to reach the coveted 7-0 mark this year. The obvious being the falty weather, whick means a lack of workout time. Perry was also a starter on the Monterey basketball team which won district and bidistrict crowns. That lengthy season kept him away from the track an additional two weeks. Also, add to the list the competition, "With the expection at the Lubbock (Invitational) Meet," said Perry. "No one has really pushed me yet. Like last week (at Big Spring), most of the jumpers were out at 6-0. I don't even start until 6-2 or 6-

Perry continued: "I'm the kind that needs someone pushing them. Like at the regional and state meets last year. When all the good jumpers are around, it makes

So far this year, Perry has gotten only one real challenge-and he lost that one. Plainview junior Kenneth Storey won the Lubbock Meet with a jump of 6-10. On the same day, Perry had a 6-8 leap.

"Storey sort of caught me off guard," explained Perry. "But you can't take anything away from him...6-10 is a good In Perry's behalf, though, he had worked worked out less than a week before the season's first meet.

Since then, 6-8 has still been his best. However, he's missed 6-10 twice, at Lubbock and again last week at Big Spring. It was at the Big Spring Meet, he confessed, that he became a little frustrated.

"I don't mind missing 6-10," he pointed out. "But the way I was missing it down there really made me mad. I just kept making the same mistake everytime I jumped and I knew it. I coaches kept telling me I was over the bar by at least six inches, too. But I just kept messing up.

The problem, said Perry, was his inability to get enough momentum—be-cause of the small jumping surface. Thus he could not get his hips over the bar. "I really felt good going into the meet," said Perry. "The weather was nice and I

day. And it is there, Perry said he expects to start turning the corner, so to speak. It was at the Hobbs event last year, Perry was ready to jump. "But the surface wasn't very good and I had to take a four-step approach because of it."

Now Perry and the Plainsmen will journey to the Hobbs Invitational Saturday. And it is there, Perry said he expects to start turning the corner, so to speak. It was at the Hobbs event last year Perry meet."

first leaped 6-8. Then the following weeks at the City Meet, he went 6-9. So, Hobbs, is a personal favorite of his.

"I hope to start getting up there now," concluded Perry. "A good meet at Hobbs, and I think I could go 7-1 or 7-2 by district and hopefully 7-4 at the state meet."

Phillies, Pirates Figure To Decide NL East Race

By The Associated Press

The Philadelphia Phillies shelled out an estimated $3.2 million for free agent Pete Rose's productive bat, which rapped out 3,164 hits and a .310 batting average in 16 seasons with the Cincinnati Reds

Too bad Pete can't pitch, though, because that's where the Phillies are really hurt-

After all, Richie Hebner, last year's first baseman, hit 17 homers and drove in 71 runs (Rose was 7-52 in 220 more at-bats), so the National League East Division champs weren't exactly powder-puffs at that position.

About A Month Ago

About a month ago. Manager Danny Ozark cited his pitching staff as one reason "the 1979 Phillies are stronger than any of the three previous division championship clubs. Our starting rotation of Steve Carlton, Larry Christenson, Dick Ruthven and Randy Lerch rates with any foursome in our league

No sooner were the words out of Ozark's malapropian mouth than Christenson, winner of 45 games over the last three years, toppled off a bicycle during a charity bike-athon and suffered a fractured collarbone. He probably won't pitch until May. To make matters worse. Jim Wright, one of the organization's brightest prospects, snapped a bone in his arm during an exhibition game and was lost for the season. That leaves Steve Carlton and Dick Ruthven, who have had some bursitis problems in the shoulder and elbow, respectively; Randy Lerch, with only eight complete games in 56 major league starts; old (36 on April 16) Jim Lonborg and older (40) Jim Kaat. The Phillies have been trying to deal Hebner for a pitcher. If they can't, Ozark may have to pull Ron Reed out of a deep bullpen, leaving Tug McGraw, Warren Brusstar and Rawly Eastwick.

Danny Ozark, meet Chuck Tanner.

'The final result," says the Pittsburgh skipper. "is crystal clear - it all adds up to a divisional championship for the Pirates, with a National League pennant and a world championship following closely behind."

Almost The Yankees Of The National League

The Pirates almost were the Yankees of the National League in '78, coming from 11 1/2 games out in mid-August and finally winding up 1 1/2 games back in second place. For openers, the Pirates have right fielder Dave Parker, the NL's Most Valuable Player after hitting .334 with 30 homers and 117 RBI. The league's stolen base king. Omar Moreno (71), will be in center field, with Bill Robinson, John Milner and Lee Lacy all capable left field candidates.

Veteran slugger Willie Stargell returns at first base and second baseman Rennie Stennett seems to be over the severe leg fracture of 1977 that hobbled him throughout last year. Shortstop Frank Taveras is another base-stealing threat and reliable Phil Garner can play second or third.

Holdover catcher Ed Ott will will handle a pitcing staff that begins with John Candelaria, Bert Blyleven and Don Robinson, last year's rookie sensation.

The Other Four Teams The other four teams in the division finished under .500, but the Chicago Cubs, who were 26 games from the top in 1976, closed the gap to 11 last season. In an effort to tighten up their defense, the Cubs dealt slick-fielding second baseman Manny Trillo to Philadelphia and acquired three regulars - catcher Barry Foote, center fielder Jerry Martin and second baseman Ted Sizemore.

Pitching will tell the Cubs' story. The top two starters - Rick Reuschel and Dennis Lamp — were a combined 21-30 last year and Mike Krukow, the No.3 man, began 1978 in the minors. Ray Burris, Ken Holtzman and Lynn McGlothen are bidding to crack the rotation, which probably means lots of work for bullpen ace Bruce Sutter.

The Montreal Expos "will go with our starting eight players from last year and hopefully will get a little more productivity out of a few spots," according to Manager Dick Williams. That means they will field catcher Gary Carter, Tony Perez (1B), Dave Cash (2B), Chris Speier (SS) and Larry Parrish (3B), with an outfield of Warren Cromartie-Andre Dawson-Ellis Valentine.

St. Louis Manager Ken Boyer says the Cardinals' main strength lies in the pitching staff. The probable starters are John Denny. Bob Forsch, Pete Vuckovich, Silvio Martinez and Bob Sykes. Mark Littell. Buddy Schultz and Darold Knowles are the top bull-

That Leaves The New York Mets

That leaves the New York Mets. Manager Joe Torre says they "are bound to improve — on experience alone." The Mets talked trade all winter, but their only acquisition was pitcher Pete Falcone, whose 30-42 career record qualified him for the starting rotation along with Pat Zachry. NL earned run average champ Craig Swan, Nino Espinosa and Tom Hausman. Skip Lockwood and Dale Murray are the best of a shaky

Zisk's Homer Helps Texas Tame Braves

Supported by Richie Zisk's two-run homer, lefthanders Jon Matlack and Sparky Lyle tamed Atlanta on nine hits to provide the Texas Rangers with a 4-1 exhibition baseball victory Wednesday

Rookie catcher Gary Allenson, who rates high in Boston's plans if Carlton Fisk's ailing elbow doesn't come around, drilled four hits Wednesday, including a three-run homer, as the Red Sox clobbered the Chicago White Sox 15-5 in an exhibition baseball game.

Another rookie catcher, the New York Mets' Alex Trevino, also had a big day, driving in three runs with a single, double and triple in an 8-4 triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers, who wasted a pair of Dusty Baker home runs.

Rich Gale allowed one run in seven innings as the Kansas City Royals turned back the Cincinnati Reds 4-2.

The Cleveland Indians scored all five runs in the fifth inning, three on Andre Thornton's double, and defeated the San Francisco Giants 5-2. Sore-shouldered Wayne Garland pitched four scoreless innings for the winners.

Lee Lacy drove in the tie-breaking run with a pinch single in the eighth inning as the Pittsburgh Pirates defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 5-2.

The ex-Monterey athlete is holding that first-team spot. But, Page is showing the kind of progress that Felker is wanting.

"The fact that he was playing other positions last fall (didn't allow any quarterbacking development), so he needs work right now reading defenses.

"But, he has a good arm — although in high school he wasn't a drop-back passer. His passes don't always look good," said the quarterback coach, "but they get to the right spot — and that's what counts.

"Richy (red shirted last year) is also showing improvement this spring; he's passing real well.

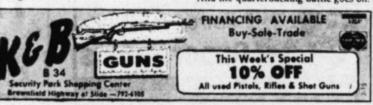

WITH ALMOST 1200 yards passing last fall, Reeves' aerial game is well documented. Now, says Felker, the big freshman is showing improvement on running the option. The major option last fall was handing the ball to James Hadnot who led the conference in rushing.

With Reeves more noted for his passing and Page having the better speed, the thought has crossed Felker's mind that teams could look for one to pass, the other to throw

'Some (teams) might defense us that way," admitted Felker. "But, we're trying to develop all of the quarterbacks to do well each way.

"We ran the I-formation at Mississippi State (when Felker was watching over the quarterbacks) last year, the optiontype 'I.' We're looking at it a little bit

NBA Forming Coaches' Line

By ALEX SACHARE AP Sports Writer

The coaching merry-go-round is beginning to spin around the National Basketball Association, and indications are you may need a scorecard to keep track of the

Larry Brown has gotten off the ride by taking the UCLA job, but Al McGuire seems ready to climb aboard, judging from his latest comments. Then there are the assistant coaches, like Chuck Daly of Philadelphia or Stan Albeck and Jack McCloskey of Los Angeles, who would love to ride on their own. It's amazing, considering the insecure nature of the job, how many candidates there are for the 22 coaching positions in the NBA. After all, a pro coach is the only man who takes a job knowing full well that he's eventually going to get fired.

Nonetheless, the line for the merry-goround is forming on the left - and it's

Four teams - New York, Boston, Chicago and Denver - changed coaches in midseason and all four situations are still unsettled. Several other clubs may make moves over the summer, including Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Cleveland, New Orleans and Indiana.

The hot rumor around New York involves McGuire, a native New Yorker and the kind of showman the Knicks need to fill the empty seats at Madison Square Garden. The Knicks already have a coach in Red Holzman, but he's the ultimate company man. If they want him to coach next year, he'll be back; if they want someone else, Holzman won't stand in the way. For years McGuire said he didn't want

Werblin comes to McGuire and says, 'Al, you're in charge of the basketball operation, I'll give you all the support you need,' that could be the right kind of job. Boston's situation is unsettled, from ownership on down, but it's unlikely

AP Analysis

Dave Cowens will continue as playercoach. Most observers feel he'll return to full-time playing status, with the Celtics delving into their alumni association for a new coach. Jerry Sloan is the popular candidate to coach Chicago. Management balked at giving him a long-term contract when job was open last year, but may give in this

Denver job is up for grabs after Brown's departure, since his replace-ment, Donnie Walsh, says he doesn't want to be an NBA coach. Carl Scheer, club's president and general manager, is a loyal ABA man who will probably choose an ex-ABAer as coach. He'd love to get Kevin Loughery, but the New Jersey coach has contractual and emotional ties to the Nets. He'd like nothing better than to build them into a winner by the time the Meadowlands Arena is ready.

At Los Angeles, Jerry West has long been known to be less than enthusiastic about pro coaching. His contract expires this season and although he's making no statements, it's assumed he'll not be

The talk around Philadelphia is that the jobs of both Coach Billy Cunningham and GM Pat Williams could hinge on the Sixers' playoff performance. Much has been expected of this team and owner Fitz Dixon is not a patient man.

Cleveland has had an abysmal season, which could mean it's time for a change for GM-Coach Bill Fitch. Problems with Walt Frazier and Terry Furlow don't help situation.

Elgin Baylor just began a new three-year contract as coach of New Orleans, but team may make a change anyway. First, however, club must settle its frontoffice situation.

Bobby Leonard has been through thick and thin with the Indiana Pacers but may finally be moving on. Jerry Buss of Los Angeles, who used to be involved with World Team Tennis, is about to buy a major portion of the team, and a new broom often sweeps clean.

Elsewhere, there has been talk that

GM-Coach Al Attles of Golden State may move to the front office full-time, but that decision is up to him. Owner Franklin Mieuli has said Attles can have any job with the team that he wants.

Some thoughts on the NCAA finals:

Next time anyone criticizes NBA officiating, remind them of the job the cream of the college crop did Monday night. Every time NBC showed a replay, the refs were shown up. Al McGuire, doing the color commentary for NBC, told it like it is when he called the officials "consistently incompetent."

ently incompetent."
Wouldn't it be nice if Earvin Johnson and Greg Kelser ended up on the same pro team? Both are certain first-round picks in the June 25 draft, assuming Magic Johnson decides to go pro.

Late Blooming Actor, Warden, Starring In 'Bad News Bears'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Some actors bloom late. Like Jack Warden, nominated for an Academy award and now starring in a television series, "The Bad News Bears

Not that Warden has suddenly burst into prominence. His weather-worn face, burly build and rugged manner have been familiar in movies and television for more than two decades. Now he seems at a peak, nominated for supporting actor as the sardonic football trainer in "Heaven Can Wait" and toplining CBS's Saturday night drive for ratings with a team of subteen baseballers.

Warden plays the manager of the Bad News Bears, the role filled by Walter Matthau, William Devane and Tony Curtis in the three feature movies made by Paramount. This time the players are not Little Leaguers but students at a school for difficult children.

Warden is Morris Buttermaker, a swimming pool cleaner who takes revenge on a deadbeat client by driving the man's car into his pool. The judge's decision: jail or coaching the Hoover Junior High School Bears

Since he has an Oscar nomination and has made five movies in a row, you might wonder what Warden needs with a TV series featuring a bunch of kids.

"I'm excited about it," he said. "The scripts have been wonderful, and after all, the play's the thing, whether it's King Lear of a half-hour situation comedy.

The money's also the thing, and Paramount is paying Warden one of the highest salaries ever for the star of a new saries. The reported wage per segment:

Warden's association with TV goes back to the early days of "Studio One." "Playhouse 90" and other dramatic shows. His first series was the memorable "Mr. Peepers" (1952-55), also about a junior high school. His other series: 'The Asphalt Jungle," "Jigsaw John," "N.Y.P.D." and "The Wackiest Ship in the Army." No long runs there.

He has a good feeling about "The Bad News Bears.

Not much over Warden had enlisted in the Navy at age 20 and served on the Yangtze River Patrol.

Warden's only distress over the series concerns the hours. All series stars face long working days, but he has a special problem: his young fellow actors can appear before the camera only five hours daily, under state law for child actors.

'The long hours are unnatural," said Warden, "because I have to work before the kids arrive and after they leave. But at least the show is only a half-hour. That leaves me with six months a year to do movies.

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - Everyone's favorite TV father, Tom Bosley as Howard Cunningham in "Happy Days," has resumed his role as one of the nation's founding fathers by reprising his Benjamin Franklin portrayal in "The Rebels

Emmett Kelly, Famed Sad Clown'Weary Willie,' Dies At Age 80

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Emmett Kelly, whose sadsack clown "Weary Willie" delighted audiences for half a century, died humbly Wednesday, befitting the soulful character he created.

Kelly, who was 80, was wearing pajamas and carrying garbage to the front of his home in this Florida circus town when he collapsed of an apparent heart at-

"It was sudden and peaceful," said Dr. Bob Windom, Kelly's physician. "He just collapsed and fell over. It would have been the way he wanted to go. He would not have wanted to be restricted."

Kelly's wife, Evi, tried to revive him but Kelly was prounounced dead at Sarasota hospital. The two had been together since they met beneath the big top and were married 24 years ago. She, too, was a circus performer.

Evi Kelly spoke fondly of the dual character she'd lived with. 'To him, Willie existed," Mrs. Kelly said. "Willie was another person. He lived him so long. The suit still hangs in its own closet. Nobody could fill his shoes. No way. Weary Willie, I guess, now will retire."

Kelly, who took his droopy-eyed character from the halls of burlesque to the palaces of kings, shunned the spotlight in his private life. He hated crowds and made no secret of it, saying, "I deplore them." In his last years, he lived a quiet life outside show business, preferring newspapers, television, or even his orange trees to outsiders. Yet the audience was his lifeline, for the roar of a crowd gave life to Willie. 'As soon as the curtain comes down, I'm not Willie any more," Kelly once

Even at 80. Kelly refused to retire his silent greasepaint buddy who would stumble into the center ring in ragged clothes, a dumpy hat, big floppy shoes and with an old broom futilely try to chase away a bothersome spotlight. But Kelly's art ran deeper than mere slapstick. He was a virtuoso as he fashioned a delicate mold of comedy and tragedy.

Kelly created Willie out of chalk dust and pathos. He brought him in pantomime from the drawing board through vaudeville, the Ringling Brothers and

"It's Willie's only suit," Kelly once said. "And he's been wearing it for more than 40 years. I just keep fixing it up."

Over the years of portrapid the doleful, wistful burn, Kelly said his satisfaction was in knowing he created something unique. "There's no other Willie," he said "The rest are imitations."

A farm boy born in Sedan, Kan., in 1898, Kelly wanted to be an editorial cartoonist for a newspaper. He wound up drawing cartoons for an advertising agency. He began sketching his own face, chalking in different makeup ideas until he

The first part of Tuesday's program saw the orchestra attack the light and the heavy, the light and the dark tones or, more specifically, Mendelssohn's scherzo from "A Midsummer's Night's Dream" and Sibelius' "Finale To Symphony Number Two In D Major." THE 1979 GRAIN SORGHUM TARGET PRICE would be $4.25 per hundredweight instead of $4.10 if the Carter administration had followed guidelines established in the Agricultural Act of 1977.

So says Elbert Harp, executive director of the Grain Sorghum Producers Association of Lubbock, who has challenged the administration on the matter.

In a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland, Harp reviewed the procedures that were established by Congress in 1977.

The procedures provided that the grain sorghum target would be set in relation to that of corn, based on the cost of production of each grain.

IN ESTABLISHING A $2.10 PER BUSHEL target for corn, it was calculated by the USDA that this covered all "out of pocket" expenses of producing corn nationwide plus a 7 percent return for management and a 4 percent return on land valued at current levels, Harp said.

Using the same formula for grain sorghum, the target prices were set at $4.07 per hundredweight for 1977 and 1978. The Agricultural Act of 1977 provides for ncreases in target prices in relation to the increased cost of production, Harp

Harp told the secretary: 'There is no way that this formula could have been used in setting the 1979 target prices. Corn targets increased 10 cents per bushel while sorghum was raised only two cents. Sorghum costs have increased just as rapidly (if not more) as corn. We contend that the Agricultural Act of 1977 (or its intent) has

WITH THE INCREASED COST OF PRODUCTION on sorghum within the last three years, the GSPA contends, grain sorghum should be entitled to the same increase in target price that corn received this year.

With much of the grain sorghum being produced on irrigated land and the cost of irrigation fule skyrocketing over the last three years, the cost of producing sorghum has increased fully as much as the cost of producing corn, Harp

The target prices established the guaranteed income level for those farmers who comply with the feed grain program, Harp pointed out. Any time the average price received by farmers drops below the target price for the first five months of the marketing year (October-February), the difference in the target price and the average market price is made up in the form of deficiency payments, he observed.

The deficiency payment was 68 cents per hundredweight on the 1977 crop and it is expected to be 60 cents for the 1978 crop.

Prospective Sunflower Planting Shows Sharp Gain Over 1978

Kansas City Board of Trade KANSAS CITY-The biggest increase, percentagewise, indicated in crop plantings this spring in the United States is in price over here.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture, in its first prospective plantings report of the year, said farmers were planning to boost the sunflower acreage 48 percent over that of 1978.

This would contrast with increases of the corn acreage at 1 percent, soybeans at 4 percent and a decrease in grain sorghum of 6 percent. In fact, among major crops, none other even comes close to the suggested increase on sun-

Even with the big boost, the sunflower plantings, if achieved, would be only 4.14 million acres, which isn't much when compared to corn or wheat. But it would be more than the acreage promised for rice (2.91 million acres) or that in sugar beets (1.11 million acres). In fact, it would be almost half the acreage to be seeded to barley. Obviously, sunflowers may be getting to the place where they command attention

Believe it or not, the United States is the world's largest exporter of sunflower

Sunflowers, of course, are an important crop in some other nations. The nation with the biggest production is the Soviet Union. The Soviet sunflower seed crop in 1978 was initially estimated at 6 million metric tons, but it apparently fell far short of that goal. As a result, the Soviets have been buying heavily of other vegetable oils and tallow and this

While sunflowers haven't as yet been a big factor in American agriculture, a failure in production in some other countries such as the Soviet Union helps

Sunflowers certainly aren't new to the United States, particularly the wild ones. The sunflower plant is native to this country, but most of the development into a high-producing crop has been overseas, with Russia leading the way. Sunflowers require less moisture than corn and that obviously explains why the crop appealed to Russia.

The crop is grown primarily for its oil

— an excellent product in the category of vegetable oils. Sunflowers also are grown for bird feed and for human food. For decades sunflowers have been tried as a commerical crop in the United States. But two problems always were present. If a farmer grew sunflowers where would he market his crop and at what price? On the other hand, if a processor built a plant, would he be assured of a supply? It was a question of which came first, the egg or the hen. The Kansas City Board of Trade boasts that in its cash market it handles "all grains." But veteran members can't recall they ever saw a sample tray of sunflower seeds for sale on the trading

But that situation is changing, not yet at Kansas City, but elsewhere, primarily in Minneapolis, where processing plants are providing a market.

In its planting intentions report, the USDA refers to only four states, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota and Texas. The estimated plantings for this year are 940,000 acres in Minnesota, a 35 percent increase over last year; North Dakota, 2,870,000 acres, a 52 percent in-crease; South Dakota, 250,000 acres, an increase of 52 percent; and Texas, 80,000 acres, an increase of 78 percent.

These figures suggest that North Dakota wins the title of the sunflower state hands down when it comes to commercial production. The sunflowers appear to be making their major growth as a commercial crop on the fringes of the corn belt where the short growing seasons and lack of rainfall are less favorable to corn

Herbert L. Steed, with Cargill in Minneapolis, recently has brought up to date some of the history on sunflowers. He recalls that as recently as 1967 the sun-flower acreage in the Dakotas and Min-nesota totaled only 40,000 of the oil variety. while the harvest in these three states last year was from almost 3 million acres yielding from 1.5 to 1.6 million

He says the commercial, oil-producing type of sunflower was introduced to the Red River Valley in 1966. The objective was to give the small grain farmer an attractive cash crop to add to his crop rotation and to develop an oilseed crop tributary to Minneapolis flax crushing

Those plants had idle capacity after linseed oil production declined with the introduction of latex-based paints. So, here was the proper combination, proc-

It took a little while for U.S. refiners to "take on" the domestic sunflower seed oil, particularly until they were sure the annual supply could be considered dependable. At first, virtually all of the U.S. crop was exported to Western Europe. But now, Steed says, the market for the U.S. sunoil is growing rapidly, and, as the planting intentions report indicates so is the crop. report indicates, so is the crop.

One reason for the boost in the su flower seed acreage has been that in the last few years, the per-acre return has been better than for wheat and the cost of production is about the same as on

A trade forecast, Steed observes, is that the U.S. sunflower acreage will reach 10 million in five years. If 1979 proposed plantings are an indication, it won't take that long to achieve the 10 million figure.

Incidentally. Kansas, known as the sunflower state, thus far hasn't joined the new ranks of the big producers of the commercial variety. One explanation is that it seems the wild Kansas sunflower has been able to withstand every bug and disease known to the plant world, but when the "tame" variety is introduced it takes the brunt of every problem there is. All of this would suggest Kansas needs some development work which would creat a commercial sunflower for Kansas conditions-along with

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) - Soybean future rose Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade, partly in response to news that Brazil had halted export sales of soybean oil and meal.

An analyst said reports from a meeting Tuesday of export officials of the Brazilian central bank indicated new export sales of soybean products would be suspended indefinitely, possibly signaling a bigger share of world oilseed markets for U.S. soybeans.

NEW YORK (AP) - Cotton futures No. 2 closed $2.30 a bale higher to $3.75 lower Wednesday.

The average price for strict low middling 11-16 inch spot cotton declined 94 points to 56.61 cents a pound Tuesday for the 10 leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

U.S. Inflation Czar Reassures Farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration assured farmers it will not sacrifice them in a scramble to dampen food prices and curb inflation.

Alfred Kahn, the president's chief inflation adviser, said the Council on Wage and Price Stability will cooperate with the Agriculture Department in what he called "very intensive monitoring activity" on food prices and what is making them go higher. "We have no quarrel with the American farmer," he said. "The anti-inflation program depends heavily on American farmers having ample incentives to ex-of promising miracles." The sharp price increases in recent months for beef, fish, fruits and vegetables, for example, "are of a nature that nobody can do anything about, except harm, by trying to meddle," he said.

"We intend to take a balanced approach to examining ways in which we can reduce the high inflation rates in food prices," Kahn said. Bergland said that "many rumors have been generated in the food and agriculture sector" as a result of talks between his and other agencies on the food infla-

-Soybeans will not be allowed to be grown this year on cropland set-aside from production under wheat and feed grains programs. -The administration "will not accept any increases in commodity price supports or target prices" as some have suggested to bolster government crop guarantees to farmers.

-No further changes will be made in the set-aside programs already announced for wheat and feed grains.

Former FCC Member Warns Against Broadcast Speech Curbs member of the Federal Communications Commission said Wednesday that without legislative action free speech curbs on broadcasters are likely to spread to newspapers and other media.

"Our founding fathers recognized the importance of an independent fourth estate to serve as a check on the powers of government when they adopted the First Amendment, stating that 'Congress shall make no law ... abridging the freedom of speech or the press," said Mrs. Margita

"Yet, 200 years later, the First Amend-the government to check the powers of the press and to regulate speech," she

Mrs. White made the remarks in an address prepared for delivery in Scottsdale, Ariz., to a conference sponsored by the Chief Executives Forum, a group of former members of Young President's Or-ganizations, young people who head companies. A copy of the speech was released

The growing tendency toward regulation of speech poses "... a serious threat to the freedoms of speech and press and WASHINGTON (AP) - A former ment itself has become the rationale for inevitably leads to a more pervasive and repressive role for government over all communications media," she said.

"Forces converging on the First Amendment include the present mandates and directions of the Federal Communications Commission and Federal Trade Commission, the precedents of regulatory limits on broadcasters' press and speech rights, the current vogue of seeking 'structural reform' of the communications industries, the increasing tendency to justify regulation of the media because they impact on our nation's political, social and moral values, the convergence of electronic and print media technologies and the myth that government can regulate the media without interfering with the message," Mrs. White added.

"I do not see myself as Chicken Little or as the prominent prognosticator who proclaimed, 'I've looked into the future and it won't work," Mrs. White said. "There are alternatives, the most essential of which is legislation to deregulate broadcasting.

"The Orwellian thesis that the government must regulate the media because they are or may become powerful is antithetical to a free society," she said. "The First Amendment was adopted to protect the freedom and responsibility of the press to serve as a check on the power of government... "If we have learned anything from the the past half century, it is that when the government regulates the media, it also regulates the message. That is a crucial lesson for the print media and the new electronic media.
