

America's alternate fuel sources becoming more than 'dreams'

By MARK POTTS

NEW YORK (AP) — Higher oil prices and spot shortages brought on by the shutdown of Iranian oil production are focusing interest on several alternate forms of supply that a few years ago were little more than dreams.

While commercial solar, wind and geothermal power are decades away, other alternate sources — like oil from tar sand and shale, and natural gas made from coal — may be practical in the next few years. "The Iranian situation points up the United States' vulnerability," says Gary Ross, an analyst for the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation, an industry group. "Therefore, from both economic and political considerations, we have to look more favorably on alternate energy sources." The sources of two of the three most practical sources are plentiful in the United States: oil shale and coal. And large deposits of tar sand lie just over the border in Canada.

Known in the trade as synfuels — short for synthetic fuels — the three processes involve producing ordinary types of crude oil and natural gas from unlikely sources. Shale oil production involves mining oil-bearing shale and using heat to squeeze the oil out of the rock. Experts estimate there is enough oil shale in Wyoming, Colorado and Utah to supply the United States' oil needs for nearly a century.

To get oil out of tar sand — also known as bitumen — the heavy, sticky sand is washed with hot water to separate the sand and oil. In coal gasification, the coal is smashed to bits and heated until it turns into a mixture of gases. The better quality gases can be mixed with natural gas to augment supply of that fuel. The low-quality gases produced can be used to power the gasification plant itself.

Although the technology for synfuels has been in place for several years — small-scale coal gasification projects existed before World War II — the cost has been seen as prohibitive. The price tag on extracting crude oil from shale, for example, is estimated by most experts to be about $20 a barrel.

That's 50 percent higher than the $13.35 a barrel OPEC began charging Jan. 1. But the Iranian situation is narrowing the margin. Independent price increases by many oil-producing nations have raised their prices to

Three of four arrested for sale of drugs still in Ector County Jail

ODESSA — Three of four persons arrested here Friday night on charges of alleged organized criminal activity involving the sale of the drug phenylcyclidine (commonly known as "angel dust") were still in Ector County Jail today, said a spokesman for the Ector County Sheriff's Department.

Fannie Jernigan Garrett, 41, of Odessa posted $10,000 bond Saturday. Her bond was reduced from $50,000.

Others still in Ector County Jail on similar charges include Herman Lincoln Smith, 20, of Los Angeles, Calif., being held on $50,000 bond. Earnest Drone, 39, of Amarillo, indicted by the Ector County grand jury on one count and held on bonds totaling $100,000, and Freddie James Smith, 45, of Amarillo, charged by the Ector County Grand Jury in four sealed indictments and held in county jail on $250,000 bond.

The four persons were arrested between 7:30 and 8:30 p.m. Friday in the Ramada Inn and Vagabond Hotel here, said authorities.

The arrests were in connection with the sale of 32 liquid ounces of what officers believe to be angel dust (also known as PCP), valued at between $200,000 to $300,000, said officers.

Officials refused today to reveal the specific charges filed against the persons arrested.

Ector County sheriff's officers, Department of Public Safety narcotics officers, and federal Drug Enforcement Administration narcotics agents were involved in making the arrests.

They comprised a team of 15 law enforcement officers participating in the investigation, said officials. One DPS officer, who asked not to be identified, said in a news conference Saturday more sealed indictments will be returned in the investigation, which originated in New Mexico about eight months ago.

The DPS officer said the investigation led from New Mexico to Amarillo, where his own agency became involved, and from there to Ector County.

Although the manufacturing point of the angel dust operation is not in Texas, the officer said, the state criminal conspiracy law enacted in 1977 allows the four suspects to be indicted and brought to trial in Ector County.

He said this was a "unique" operation in that most angel dust cases involve the powdered form of the drug, which is usually 10 to 15 percent pure.

He said tests will be made to determine purity of the confiscated substance.

Liquid angel dust usually is combined with marijuana, he said, adding that a one-ounce bag of marijuana saturated with angel dust will bring as much as $250 to the seller.

According to the agent, narcotics officers set up surveillance of the four people Wednesday. The sealed indictments against Freddie James Smith and Drone were returned by the grand jury on Nov. 13 last year, he said.

The agent, a DPS officer for 3 1/2 years, said "This is the biggest operation I've ever seen."

Trip to Middle East planned by Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter will fly to the Middle East Wednesday in an effort to salvage hopes for peace between Israel and Egypt, the White House announced today.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said Carter will arrive in Egypt on Thursday afternoon for talks with President Anwar Sadat and will proceed to Israel on Saturday evening for talks with Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

A U.S. official who asked not to be identified said that at this point there are no plans for a three-way meeting among the leaders. The official said he did not know when Carter would return to the United States.

The announcement of the trip came some two hours after President Carter at a surprise White House meeting that the Israeli cabinet has responded positively to U.S. suggestions for resolving some of the remaining obstacles to an Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty.

The announcement of Carter's travel plans said his talks in Egypt and Israel "will focus on the peace process, regional security and bilateral issues."

The U.S. official said Carter believes his travels will "offer the best hope for success" in his months-old effort to promote an Israeli-Egyptian agreement.

The White House announcement said

"The president believes that we must not allow the prospects for peace, which seemed so bright last September to continue to dim and perhaps to vanish. If we do, the judgment of history and of our children will rightly condemn us."

Before Carter's trip was announced, Powell emphasized that "difficult issues remain." He said "the next step in the peace process is still under discussion."

Carter's secret proposals to salvage faltering peace hopes stirred interest in Israel and optimistic reports in that country's press.

Carter, holding a black umbrella aloft, walked from his Oval Office to greet Begin in a driveway. After a brief greeting, the president escorted the prime minister into his office.

Summoned to join the president for the brief mid-morning meeting were Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, presidential advisers Zbigniew Brzezinski and Hamilton Jordan and Powell.

"The Israeli government has responded positively to American suggestions on ways to help resolve some of the remaining differences" between Israel and Egypt, Powell said in a statement.

"However, it is important to understand that difficult issues remain. The next step in the peace process is still under discussion."

The surprise development appeared to buoy the hopes of U.S. officials who had expressed no optimism Sunday in announcing the American move.

But even then they emphasized that the U.S. suggestions dealt with only some of the remaining obstacles to completion of the long-elusive peace treaty.

"I'm sure that it's going to contribute to the process of the negotiations," Deputy Prime Minister Yigael Yadin told reporters after the cabinet meeting in Jerusalem. He made clear he was referring to Begin's recommendations and not Carter's proposals.

Neither side would disclose details of Carter's plans for breaking the Egyptian-Israeli stalemate in negotiations on a peace treaty, nor what Begin had recommended to his cabinet. But one Israeli official described the Carter plan as "important and interesting."

Exportation of oil resumed by Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iran resumed oil exports today for the first time in three months, and Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary regime executed eight more of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's former officials, including four generals and a former member of Parliament.

A spokesman for the National Iranian Oil Co. said the tanker World Ambassador started loading 110,000 tons of light crude and 140,000 tons of heavy crude for the Mitsui Trading Co. of Japan at the Kharg Island terminal in the Persian Gulf.

It is the first shipment of crude oil for export since December, when the oil industry's 65,000 workers went on strike as part of Khomeini's campaign to bring down the shah's regime.

Another tanker was scheduled to arrive at Kharg Island on Wednesday to load crude for Ashland Oil, an American company.

The new government has said it will not restore the previous export level of 5.4 million barrels a day because it wants to conserve the oil reserves for the future. The national oil company said production Sunday was 17 million barrels, and industry sources predict it will be increased to 3 million barrels a day, with about 2.4 million barrels being exported.

Meanwhile, a communique from Khomeini's Revolutionary Committee announced that seven more former officials died by firing squad at 5 a.m. today after one of the ayatollah's special Islamic courts found them guilty of killing or torturing opponents of the shah.

Tehran Radio announced the execution of a police officer today in Abadan.

This brought to 24 the number of former officials whose executions have been announced. Several others have been reported but not confirmed, and three men accused of shooting anti-shah demonstrators were stabbed to death by a mob in the central Iranian town of Najafabad three days ago as they were being taken to prison to await trial.

Tehran Radio announced that a police warrant officer, Musa Mirshekai, was shot by a firing squad in Abadan, the oil center on the Persian Gulf, after an Islamic revolutionary court found him guilty of killing four anti-shah demonstrators.

The government announced Sunday that it had broken diplomatic relations with South Africa because of its racial policies and confirmed that it will allow no more Iranian oil to be shipped there.

Before the shutdown Iran supplied an estimated 90 percent of South Africa's oil. The South African government has stockpiled massive amounts of oil in recent years.

Parents of deaf students question program

By SUSAN TOTH
Staff Writer

Are Midland's deaf students "lost children?"

Some parents contend the youngsters are adrift in a regional program that leaves them in Midland for elementary school, sends them to Odessa for their secondary education, but allows them to be part of neither school system.

The director of the regional day school for the deaf, on the other hand, believes the program is the best available within the realm of reality.

Reality now is that students from age three through the sixth grade are served in Midland by the regional program, then bused to Odessa for junior and senior high school.

Deaf students in Midland are "mainstreamed" — allowed to attend hearing classes when they are able, usually in art and physical education classes.

SOME PARENTS, however, feel they are moved to other hearing classes only when parents insist.

"We try to honor parent requests" for mainstreaming, said Floy Hinson of Odessa, program supervisor for the regional day school. "But if a child can't handle it, sometimes you do more harm than good.

"In most cases, the parents want the very best for their child, but sometimes they haven't accepted the reality of deafness educationally," he said.

But in addition to just more mainstreaming, parents say, they want their children included in the hearing classes, not just allowed to attend.

"Sometimes one of our children will go to his mainstream class and they won't be there. The class will be on a field trip to the museum or the planetarium, and the teacher won't have thought to notify the deaf class," said Mary Dunn, president of the Midland Council for Deaf and Hard of Hearing Children.

"Sometimes you just want to shake someone and tell them 'You have to like my kid, too. You have to accept him.'"

"BUT THAT'S not a technique that works very well."

One technique some parents are considering is demanding that the Midland schools provide local teachers for their students as they reach junior high school age.

Federal law requires handicapped students be given equal educational opportunities.

Whether the regional program fulfills that requirement, "depends on who's interpreting equal educational opportunities," Hinson noted. "We provide trained teachers, textbooks, a curriculum and a program. I feel we're meeting the needs of the children. If we're not, I expect to be told."

Some parents feel the regional pro-

"I am aware of the ... desire for a program of their own. If they want to improve the program, I'm all for it. But sometimes they want more control than I think they should have."

gram leaves the children in limbo, away from other students their age.

WHILE STUDENTS attend elementary classes at Lamar Elementary School, they are not students of the Midland school district.

Because the regional program is available, the Midland district receives no state funding for deaf education.

Midland's school district provides classroom space for the deaf program and a sign language class for parents so they can learn to communicate with their children the way they are being taught in school.

Once the child is past the sixth grade, he is bused to Odessa, where the regional program is set up to serve secondary students from throughout the 14-county district.

Being sent to a rival school for junior high and high school is a problem for some students, Mrs. Dunn said.

A few simply refuse to make the transition, and attend one of the Midland high schools without the supporting staff of the deaf program, noted the parents.

For those who are bused, time and distance preclude extracurricular activities. "If you live in Big Spring, and your child wants to play basketball, it's a real problem," said Sandra Walker, a member of the Midland council.

"IDEALLY, THESE parents want their child in a neighborhood school receiving the best education possible," Hinson said. "But there are some realities to face in any regional program. Staff and facilities will only spread so far.

"I am aware of the (Midland parents) desire for a program of their own. If they want to improve the program, I'm all for it. But sometimes they want more control than I think they should have," Hinson added.

Because of the small number of deaf students to be served in each of the towns and cities in the 14 counties served by the regional program, a single high school program is essential, and Odessa is the logical place for it, Hinson said.

"When you begin to spread yourself thin, then you dilute your services. The larger the number of students, the better staff can be provided and the better the students can be grouped by ability," Hinson pointed out.

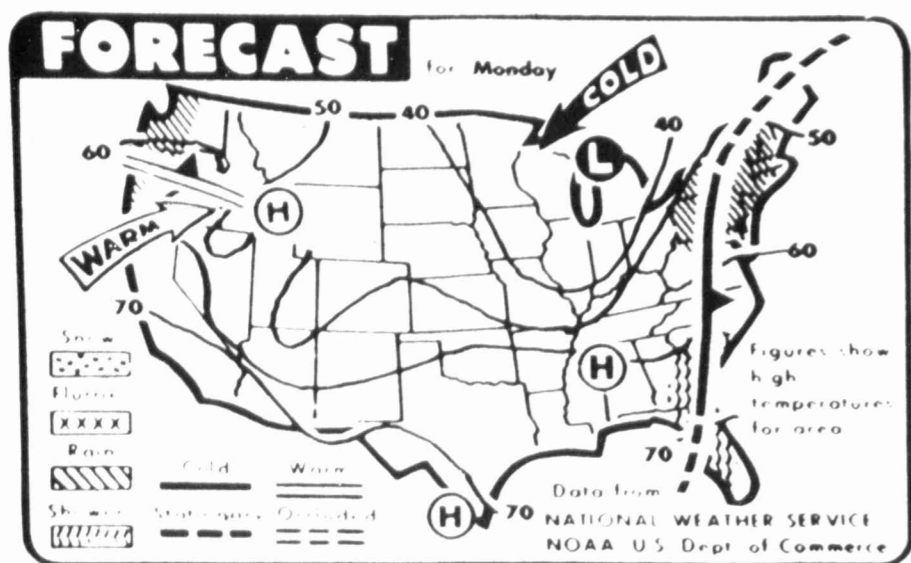

There are problems, Hinson agreed. But those are the realities of any regional program.

"I feel that political antagonism between cities or schools should have nothing to do with the education of the children," Hinson said. There are only two high school students from Midland in the regional program and only about 18 in the whole program.

"I can't see a regional program for Amendment for balanced budget called 'foolhardy'

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Majority Whip John Brademas is telling the nation's mayors that a proposed constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget would be as "foolhardy" as Prohibition.

In a speech prepared for delivery today to the National League of Cities, the Indiana Democrat said the amendment prohibiting the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages was a noble experiment, but a dismal failure that later had to be repealed.

"In my judgment, a balanced budget amendment — no matter how well-intentioned are its supporters — would be equally foolhardy," said the third-ranking member of the House Democratic leadership.

Brademas argued that requiring a balanced budget would "shackle the federal government" and prevent it from using its spending powers to respond to emergencies or "maintain the national economy on an even keel."

He also claimed that Congress is making progress toward balancing the budget while trying to avoid hasty and destructive spending cuts.

To balance the budget immediately, he said, would require drastic reductions in spending for the nation's defense, health care, aid to the elderly and many other social programs.

Supporters of a balanced budget amendment contend, however, that an amendment is needed to prevent Congress from running up huge deficits that contribute to inflation and other social problems.

Chinese troops withdrawing from Vietnam

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — China said today it has begun withdrawing its troops from Vietnam, 16 days after they struck across the border to teach a bloody military "lesson" to Hanoi.

Peking's official news agency said the invasion force was being pulled out "after achieving the goals assigned them." But Vietnam called the Chinese attack a failure, and one Vietnamese ambassador said he did not believe Chinese troops were being withdrawn.

Intelligence sources in Bangkok said today they had not detected signs of a withdrawal, but throughout the conflict there has been a time lag between action in the field and analysts' reports here.

Kyodo, the Japanese news service, said in a dispatch from Peking that the government announced all Chinese troops were being withdrawn.

misleading, saying Peking was actually stepping up the fighting.

A Hanoi summary of the two-week war said 10 per cent of the Chinese invasion force was killed or wounded and half the tanks and armored vehicles were destroyed. It said the corpses of Chinese officers only were taken back to China from Vietnam, and it took hundreds of trucks to transport the bodies.

THE LATEST SUMMARY gave no figures but a report Sunday claimed the Vietnamese had killed or wounded almost 42,000 Chinese, a figure Western analysts consider inflated. Vietnamese casualty figures have not been reported, and China issued no casualty reports.

Vietnam's latest battle reports spoke of a "frantic attempt" by Chinese troops attacking from three directions Sunday to capture the Vietnamese provincial capital Lang Son.

Intelligence sources in Bangkok and elsewhere have said the Vietnamese lost Lang Son days ago. But analysts had predicted that Vietnam would proclaim a great victory once the Chinese withdrew, regardless of the losses Hanoi had suffered.

The Chinese news agency said Peking's troops had "dealt devastating blows to Vietnamese armed forces" in the Dong Dang-Lang Son area in the east, the Cao Bang-That Khe area in north-central Vietnam and the Lao Cai-Cam Duong area in the west.

The Peking statement reiterated that China does not want "a single inch of Vietnamese territory." But sources in Peking have said about 38 square miles of border territory is claimed by both countries. It remained unclear whether Chinese troops would hold on to this land, previously controlled by Vietnam.

Text of Peking's announcement

HONG KONG (AP) — The text of the official Xinhua (Hsinhua) news agency announcement from Peking that Chinese troops are withdrawing from Vietnam.

"The Xinhua news agency is authorized by the Chinese government to issue the following statement today:

"The Chinese frontier troops have attained the goals set for them since they were compelled to launch a counterattack in self-defense on Feb. 17 against ceaseless armed provocations and incursions of the Vietnamese aggressors against China.

"The Chinese government announces that starting from March 5, 1979, all Chinese frontier troops are withdrawing to Chinese territory.

"The Chinese government reiterates that we do not want a single inch of Vietnamese territory, but neither will we tolerate incursions into Chinese territory. All we want is a peaceful and stable border. We hope that this just stand of the Chinese government will be respected by the government of Vietnam and the governments of other countries in the world. We warn the Vietnamese authorities that they must make no more armed provocations and incursions along the Chinese border after the withdrawal of the Chinese frontier troops. The Chinese government solemnly states that the Chinese side reserves the right to strike back again in self-defense in case of a recurrence of such Vietnamese activities.

"We have always held that disputes between nations should be settled peacefully through negotiations. The Chinese government proposes once again that the Chinese and Vietnamese sides speedily hold negotiations to discuss ways of ensuring peace and tranquility along the border between the two countries and then proceed to settle the boundary and territorial disputes. We sincerely hope that the Vietnamese side will respond positively to our proposal. The Chinese government is prepared to give serious consideration to any proposals that will help safeguard peace and tranquility in the border areas and resolve the disputes concerned.

"Between the Chinese and Vietnamese peoples there is a traditional friendship which is not only in the interests of our two peoples but also in the interests of the people of Southeast Asia, of Asia as a whole and of the entire world. The Chinese people highly value their friendship with the Vietnamese people. Although this friendship has in recent years been damaged to our distress, we eagerly hope that it may be restored. We hope that the Vietnamese authorities will take the fundamental interests of the two peoples at heart and stop pursuing their hostile anti-China policy so that the Chinese and Vietnamese peoples may live together in friendship from generation to generation.

"We believe that our positive and constructive stand will enjoy widespread international sympathy and support. At the same time, we hope that all countries and people that love peace and uphold justice will take measures to urge the Vietnamese authorities to stop promptly their aggression against Kampuchea and withdraw all their forces of invasion back to their own territory so as to serve the interest of the peace, security and stability of Southeast Asia and of Asia as a whole."

Firefighters battle blaze in Odessa

ODESSA — Odessa firefighters spent approximately three hours this morning fighting a fire at a rural Ector County residence.

A fire official said two trucks were sent to the blaze, which was reported at approximately 6 a.m. today. Cause of fire was not known by mid-morning, the official said.

The house is near the Schlemeyer Field (formerly Ector County Airport) in an industrial area, but the spokesman said the fire apparently did not pose a threat to manufacturing facilities.

Amin keeps his cool under enemy shelling

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Tanzanian invaders shelled a town 70 miles inside Uganda apparently in preparation for an attempt to take it, but 52 miles to the north President Idi Amin and residents of his capital of Kampala showed little concern.

Lukaya, on the main road from the border to Kampala, has been under heavy artillery fire for several days, diplomats in Kampala reported by telephone. But the diplomats said conditions in the Ugandan capital were normal and there was no suggestion of evacuating the 3,000 foreigners, 130 of them Americans.

The Daily Nation newspaper in Nairobi quoted a source close to Amin as saying that the Ugandan president and his military commanders were debating whether to launch a new offensive, but that Amin had hopes his earlier requests for cease-fire negotiations with Tanzania would be granted.

The informant also claimed that 2,500 Libyan and Moroccan troops had arrived in Uganda to help Amin, but Western diplomats in Nairobi said they had no indication of such a troop movement.

In the Tanzanian capital of Dar es Salaam, exiled former Ugandan President Milton Obote admitted for the first time that his supporters are now fighting Amin's forces in Uganda.

Obote said in an interview for television that his guerrilla forces are "marching towards Kampala." Obote was overthrown by Amin on Jan. 25, 1971, while he was in Singapore attending a meeting of Commonwealth prime ministers.

Amin and Tanzania's President Julius Nyerere have been bitter enemies since Amin ousted Obote and Nyerere gave the former president asylum.

The former president said he is certain that the outcome of the current campaign is going to be the fall of Amin's regime, but he said he does not plan to return to Uganda as president.

"I will return as a Ugandan," he said. "We want to liberate the country first before we talk about leaders.

Growth of technologies 'retarded,' sources say

"Nearly $15 a barrel. And the Iranian caused shortage of supply on the spot oil market has pushed some prices there up over $20 a barrel. General crude oil prices may not be far behind.

"If we end up in that range, it will send the right signals through the private sector and may be we'll get some oil from shale out of the ground in about five years," said Arnold E. Safer, an analyst at Irving Trust Co.

The cost of getting oil from tar sands is several dollars more per barrel than with shale. Gas produced from coal costs about $5 per 1,000 cubic feet, some three times what natural gas now costs.

But Eugene Nowak, who analyzes energy for the Blyth Eastman Dillon brokerage house, feels these methods may be practical soon, too. "Every time the price of a major fuel like petroleum rises, it does bring us somewhat closer to development of other energy sources," he said. "At some point it could trigger a substantial effort in one of these fuels."

Opposition from some parts of the oil industry and a meager amount of encouragement from the Department of Energy, analysts say, has retarded growth in the technologies that could bring prices down still further.

And production of these forms of fuel on a full-scale commercial basis is still at least a decade away, although pilot plants are already in operation.

"It's a longer term proposition," says Ross. "It can't help us today, but it can help us in the future."

Says Nowak: "We ought to be thinking about these things very hard very simply because of the long time lags involved."

Nowak says that the large amounts of capital involved in starting full-scale production of synfuels may be more than one company can bear. "One of the problems, of course, is that these are massive projects, these are billion-dollar projects," he says. So he suggests that it could take a consortium of companies — or government incentives — to bring synfuels into commercial production.

In addition to price constraints, synfuels have other problems, many of them environmental. Strip-mining to get at shale and tar sand is not looked on favorably by environmentalists, and the manufacturing processes for those fuels and coal gasification can cause pollution.

Similar, but more acute problems, are dooming a much more common fuel source, coal, which has been all but written off by the energy industry and government as a long-term answer to energy problems. But backers of synfuels think their problems are surmountable. And at the right price, analysts say, synfuels could play a significant part in the nation's energy picture. "It's just a matter of trying to get them out," says Nowak. "That costs money."

Warm days, cold nights in forecast

Spring days with nippy nights are on tap for the Permian Basin through Tuesday, the weatherman said today.

Fair with warm days and cold nights through Tuesday is the prediction of the National Weather Service office at Midland Regional Airport.

High Tuesday should be in the mid-60s, with the overnight low dipping to the low 30s. High Sunday was a sunny 54 degrees, while the record high for a

March 4 is 85 degrees set in 1938. Overnight low was 32, well above the record of 20 degrees set in 1966.

No rain was mentioned in the forecast, so neither the monthly rain accumulation of .16 inch nor the annual total of .58 inch is likely to be altered Tuesday.

Towns in the Permian Basin were reporting sunny skies and frosty temperatures early today. Andrews weather watchers recorded a 27-degree mark this morning, with Big Spring reporting 31.

New Orleans police facing contempt of court charges

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — New Orleans police, their union a shambles, face contempt of court charges and an angry mayor who indicates he will not easily forget the 16-day strike that devastated this year's Mardi Gras carnival.

Mayor Ernest Morial, in announcing the strike's end Sunday, said the city would neither recognize any police union nor recommend that contempt citations against some police officers be dissolved.

Civil District Judge Richard Garvey, whose back-to-work order issued Feb. 16 was defied by striking police, could sentence disobedient officers at a hearing today to as much as six months in jail.

He issued the back-to-work order hours after 1,100 of the city's 1,514-member police department walked off their jobs seeking higher wages and increased benefits.

The police strike severely affected tourism during Mardi Gras — an estimated $50 million industry — but the National Guard and state police maintained law and order during the boisterous carnival.

Police began returning to work Saturday after Mitch Ledet, secretary-treasurer of the Louisiana Teamsters, and Vincent Bruno, president of the policemen's union, said they would recommend approval of the city's latest offer.

The offer was rejected, 447-173, but police still returned to work Sunday.

"Even though their hearts were on the picket line, I just don't think they could hold out much longer financially," said Bruno. "We put up a good fight. We were overcome by superior forces, I guess you might say."

Morial said: "The present state of confusion makes it impossible for the city to continue negotiating with the union, since we cannot determine who represents the organization," Morial said Sunday.

"Accordingly, we wish to make it clear at this time that the city's final offer, laid on the table last Thursday, is now withdrawn and there is nothing to be accomplished by further negotiations."

The mayor said he would abide by the city's offer to increase uniform allowances by 10 percent to $275 a year, increase life insurance coverage and develop a new formula to compute overtime. He said the package would cost the city $2.5 million a year.

He promised amnesty to all police officers who returned to work prior to Saturday night's rejection vote, but said amnesty for those coming back later would be considered case-by-case.

Weekend storm takes eight lives

By The Associated Press

At least eight are dead following a furious two-fisted weekend storm that belted the Southeast with up to 15 inches of rain, and stranded several hundred Midwesterners under a foot of blowing snow.

Hardest hit was Alabama, where four persons, including a 5-year-old girl, drowned Sunday. More than 200 families were forced to flee because of rising waters and tornados. Two drowned in Georgia and Missouri and two more died in Minnesota and Iowa.

Most of the evacuees returned to their homes Sunday. However, some Alabama river dwellers were told to start filling sandbags in anticipation of rising waters through Tuesday.

In Washington state, weather officials issued avalanche warnings due to heavy rain and rising temperatures. Two mountain climbers died in an avalanche Sunday on 11,000-foot Mount Rainier.

Florida counted itself lucky. The storm dumped up to 14 inches of rain on some areas of the Panhandle around Pensacola. An estimated 5,000 persons had to be evacuated and damage was estimated in the millions, but there were no deaths.

In northern Georgia, where an average of 4 to 6 inches fell Saturday and Sunday, an 18-year-old man drowned in a flooded soybean field when a boat overturned. His name was withheld pending notification of relatives.

TESCO refund would be $3 for one in four

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — If Texas Electric Service Co. were ordered to refund $17 million to ratepayers, one in four residential customers would receive about $3.36, says a company official.

"In my opinion, TESCO's bond rating would be lowered, which would raise the cost of long-term financing for many years," company Vice President E.D. Scarth said of effects from a refund.

Scarth's prepared testimony was to be offered today as rebuttal to recommendations from the Public Utility Commission staff that the utility made improper transactions with its affiliates.

About 25 percent of TESCO residential customers use between 200 and 500 kilowatts month, said Scarth, an electrical engineer.

TESCO, which serves an area including the Midland-Odessa region, is one of three operating companies in the Texas Utilities system, which includes Dallas Power & Light and Texas Power & Light. The system built the Martin Lake lignite power plant near Henderson.

TP&L sold part of its ownership in the plant to TESCO, in exchange for electricity generated by TESCO's cheapest natural gas supply. DP&L also bought some of TP&L's interest in the plant, but not in exchange for energy.

TP&L officials said they had over-committed themselves financially in the power plant and needed some relief. TESCO spokesmen said they needed to replace soon-to-expire natural gas contracts with other energy sources.

The staff has recommended that DP&L refund $500,000 and TP&L return more than $1 million.

Another rebuttal witness, TP&L President Robert K. Campbell, said in prepared testimony that the transaction will be a wise decision.

"In fact, I believe that a proper evaluation necessarily recognizes the overall benefits and supports unmistakably the conclusion that the transaction is beneficial and in the customers' interest and should be left intact," said Campbell.

'Twin A' in stable condition

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The infant girl separated from her Siamese twin sister in a delicate six-hour operation last week is now in stable condition breathing without the aid of a respirator.

The assessment of the girl known as "Twin A" was made Sunday by a nursing supervisor at St. Christopher's Hospital for Children.

"Twin B" was sacrificed during the separation procedure performed by a team of 17 doctors Thursday. The procedure has been attempted four times before, and none of the eight babies involved survived more than two months.

The twins were born Feb. 20 at Albert Einstein Medical Center. They were joined from the top of the breastbone to below the navel and shared a six-chambered heart and a liver.

Public Schools Week

The observance of "Public Schools Week in Texas" begins today, and public schools here and elsewhere throughout the Lone Star State invite and urge the participation of all Texans in the important occasion.

Texas, and particularly West Texans, view their public schools with devotion and exceptional pride. Observe most any West Texas city and you will discover, if you don't already know, that it is built and revolves around its public school system. This is one of the major factors which make this region great.

Texas generally display intense interest in their public schools, supporting them in a most generous fashion, and defending them with a passion.

This is one of the reasons why the proposed consolidation of Midland's two high schools has developed into such a controversial issue. But citizens have not and will not lose faith in their fine system of public education, regardless.

They want their children to have the very best education possible, and they are willing to foot the bill, within reason, for same.

Public schools in Texas were created 125 years ago. The first law establishing the public school system was passed in 1854.

Although the need for public education is just as important, and perhaps even more so, today as in 1854, the methods and procedures of public education in 1979 are a far cry from those of 125 years ago. Many improvements are apparent, and this certainly speaks well for the system.

The overall progress of the system points up the slogan of the observance: "Texas Public Schools — Democracy in Action."

Emphasizing the importance of the week-long observance, Bill Sanders, public relations chairman of the Ector County unit of the Texas State Teachers Association, writes: "It is a healthy thing in our democratic way of life to have intelligent understanding of the important function of our basic institutions. This is especially true of the schools. The initiative and resourcefulness and the wisdom and leadership that our schools are inculcating in the youth of today are the answer of the problems of citizenship in the years ahead."

What can we do to have a part in this significant observance? Well, one thing we can do is to show students, teachers and administrators that we care about them and the public schools by visiting one or more schools during Public Schools Week. This may lend a whole lot more encouragement to students and teachers than you think. And it very well could be most beneficial to you by bringing you up to date on what is going on in the public schools of today. It could be a real learning process for the visitors.

Our public schools are the greatest! Let's make sure through our personal attention that they remain that way.

Real piece of history

Word that the government is interested in the possible recovery of the ironclad Monitor from the ocean floor, off Cape Hatteras, brings up a logical question.

Why not also raise the Merrimack — the other contestant in that famous War Between the States battle at Hampton Roads on March 9, 1862?

The only thing wrong with the idea is that there's not enough of the Southern vessel left to restore.

When Southern troops evacuated Norfolk, they attempted to take the Merrimack up the James River to Richmond.

But the Merrimack drew too much water. She ran aground, was set afire and soon blew up.

The Monitor fared somewhat better. She foundered when under tow and lies on the bottom, hull up, the cheesebox turret broken off and half buried in nearby sand. Diving to see if she can be raised will commence this August.

The two vessels made their mark in history. Overnight, the wooden-hulled fleets of the major navies of the world became obsolete. The Monitor is a real piece of history, and for that reason, it is hoped that the recovery efforts are a success.

INSIDE REPORT:

Missed Saudi connection could prove costly for U.S.

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Soviet hesitancy to butt into the hot war between China and Vietnam both explains and justifies President Carter's efforts to tighten the U.S.-Saudi connection — and demonstrates how critically dangerous it is that those efforts are misfiring.

Barring a major escalation in China's "bloody nose" war against Vietnam, Carter's men believe the Soviets will not attack China. Why? Because to get bogged down in China could jeopardize Moscow's riskless battle to end Washington influence in the Persian Gulf, the lifeline for oil to the West and Japan. "The gulf is where the Soviets get their hand on the Western throat," one cabinet member told us.

That analysis supports the wisdom of the president's strenuous efforts to reassure Saudi Arabia, the oil kingdom in the gulf. His message: collapse and withdrawal of U.S. power in Iran is no harbinger for Saudi Arabia.

Unfortunately, however, identifying the problem has not produced a good solution. Carter's commendable efforts have failed to tighten the Saudi connection. The adverse Saudi reaction to this failure will encourage anti-Arab, pro-Israel senators (including Sen. Frank Church, Senate Foreign Relations Committee chairman) to suggest harsh moves by the U.S. against the Saudis. At the same time, Moscow will be encouraged to double its Persian Gulf penetration efforts.

The immediate adverse Saudi reaction was the abrupt cancellation — for reasons having no visible connection with health — of the scheduled state visit to Washington by Prince Fahd, the Saudi strongman and heir apparent, Fahd cancelled purely for political reasons, the heart of which was growing worry in Riyadh that Carter does not understand the subtle signals from the Saudis.

The most important such signal goes back more than a year, when Saudi policy switched from a hostile position toward the radical government of Iraq, another state with immense oil reserves. The Saudis then began trying to detach Iraq from the extremist anti-Israel bloc led by Libya.

The Saudi game, played obliquely in the tradition of desert Arabs, was on the verge of success; Iraq was ready to resume diplomatic relations with the U.S. and support a "comprehensive" Mideast Settlement with Israel based on the pre-1967 borders.

But what was perceived in the Arab world after the Camp David summit as U.S. approval of a "separate" peace between Egypt and Israel un-

'WOULD YOU LIKE TO SEE MY SCAR?'

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Jay Solomon is bitter at probes

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — General Services Administration boss Jay Solomon, whose zeal in ferreting out corruption in the scandal-ridden agency has apparently angered the Carter administration, was the target of an FBI investigation last month.

"I think it was total harassment," one source told us. "It reminds me of the Nixon days," commented another disgruntled insider.

The Justice Department insists the FBI investigated Solomon in response to a complaint that his confidential assistant was conducting private business for her boss on government time.

The investigation turned up no evidence of wrongdoing by either Solomon or his assistant. But the overly thorough gumshoe work, and the direction that the investigation took, smack more of a politically inspired vendetta than a reasonable inquiry into Solomon's professional activities.

For instance, though it's no secret that Solomon plans to leave government service sometime this spring, the FBI agents tried to find out from GSA officials just when their boss was packing it in.

The FBI interviewers also seemed particularly anxious to find out whether Solomon's daughter was engaged to a high-ranking GSA official. (She wasn't, and isn't.)

The likable, straight-talking, 57-year-old Solomon was reported by close associates to have been furious about the investigation. "Jay was pretty hacked off," one intimate put it.

In a telephone interview with our associate Gary Cohn, Solomon acknowledged that he had complained about the investigation to both FBI Director William Webster and Attorney General Griffin Bell. "I thought it was out of line," he said. "I resented it ... I resent anyone questioning my integrity."

Solomon said he spoke first to Bell about the matter, and the attorney general promised to check into it. Subsequently, a Justice Department official told Solomon that the FBI had simply received a complaint and was routinely checking it out.

Later, Solomon told Cohn, he saw Webster and complained about the investigation. "He sort of felt sheepish about it," Solomon recalled. The FBI investigation strikes some observers as yet another example of the Carter administration's shabby treatment of the GSA chief. Earlier this year, it was reported that the White House was quietly trying to oust Solomon from GSA.

Why Carter is so determined to get rid of Solomon is not clear. Some say the GSA boss was too open with the press about the GSA crackdown; he got too much favorable publicity, and Jimmy Carter got too little.

Another theory is that Solomon has simply stepped on the toes of too many powerful people as he pursued his housecleaning chores. This harks back to Solomon's ouster of his deputy Robert Griffin, whom he considered to be less than enthusiastic about exposing the agency's scandals.

Solomon won that battle, but it may have cost him the war, because Griffin is a close friend of House Speaker Tip O'Neill. The Speaker took umbrage at this affront to his

CHARLEY REESE

Zionists are the nagging conscience of the West

By CHARLEY REESE
Sun Belt Syndicate

ORLANDO, Fla. — It's no wonder some people are irritated by Jews, especially Zionists. They are the nagging conscience of the West.

For example, the U.S. State Department in particular and many others in general would like nothing better than to wake up one morning and discover Israel had vanished. That way they could French kiss the Arabs and not (they think) have to worry about oil.

Little Israel, however, has no intention of vanishing and so continues to confront us with a dilemma. Is all our talk about human rights, liberty, democracy and humanity just rhetoric to be tossed in the ashcan the first time some grubby sheik frowns or are we men and women of principle?

The State Department is trying to weasel the question. They refuse to recognize that Jerusalem is the capital of Israel, even though every U.S. official who goes to Israel goes to Jerusalem where the Israeli government is located.

The reason we keep our embassy in Tel Aviv is that we are pussy footing with the Arabs by claiming that East Jerusalem and the other areas captured in the 1967 War are "occupied territories."

Charley Reese

It just so happens that Israelis had their capital in Jerusalem before the 1967 War since they have always held the western half of the city since the nation was founded in 1948. The other half was, in fact, militarily occupied by the Jordanian government which took it by force in 1948.

I notice our State Department does not refer to Latvia, Estonia, Lithuania or the Ukraine as "occupied territories" and I would like to see their response if Mexico claim that California and Texas are "occupied territories." You may recall our forefathers took them both from Mexico at gunpoint.

It's none of our business which city the Israelis choose as their capital. The only reason this double standard is being applied to Israel is because the State Department is heavily influenced by the multinational oil companies which are in bed with the Arabs.

The latest rounds of price hikes by the OPEC bandits, the attempts by Saudi Arabia to scuttle the Camp David peace talks, and the fall of the shah should teach us that appealing the sheiks earns us only contempt and that relying on dictatorships in the Moslem world is limiting the Little Pig who built his house out of straw.

Most people in that part of the world respect only strength. You will note that it was our embassy, not the Israeli one, that was attacked. They waited until all the Israelis had left before they sacked their building, because they knew the Israelis would have shot them with something bigger than birdshot.

But not only do the Israelis embarrass our opportunists who would sell anything or anybody for a quick buck, but Zionists nag us on other issues, too.

The West Germans were all set to let the statute of limitations expire on Nazi war criminals. The Zionists are bugging them and petitioning the U.S. government to get off its chair and pursue the 100 or more Nazi war criminals thought to be living in the U.S.

Again, it would be easy to just say, "Let by-gones be by-gones," but they won't let us — and rightfully so. Either we believe in justice or we don't and since when is there a time limit on conscience.

Murderers of any one should not be allowed to grow old in peace nor should their victims be forgotten. If we tire of the hunt and let the faces of victims fade away, then the wolves will come back.

Yes, the Jews and especially the Zionists, are irritating. Nag, nag, nag when it would be so comfortable to relegate moral questions to the purely theoretical level and go about our daily business on a purely pragmatic, what's-in-it-for-me bases.

I believe, however, for Western Civilizations as for the individual, the day we silence our conscience is the day we bring our own destruction.

THE BIBLE CAN YOU QUOTE IT?

Welcome Wagon International, the national greeting service that has welcomed millions of Americans to new homes, was 50 years old in July 1978.

Welcome Wagon, founded by a Memphis advertising executive, employs a network of community representatives who welcome newcomers and introduce them to local civic groups and businesses. In more recent years, Welcome Wagon has begun greeting new parents, newly engaged couples and college freshmen.

The service has been acclaimed for outstanding community service through the decades by presidents, governors and a host of other VIPs. Now known as America's neighborhood tradition, the organization has been credited with keeping the spirit of neighborliness alive in this country.

Originally Welcome Wagon representatives were civic-minded mothers and housewives, said President Barbara Marshall. "In the late 1960s, we added hosts to our roster. Today, our more than 8,500 representatives are men and women of all ages and races from all walks of life."

According to the Mrs. Marshall, the Welcome Wagon name was derived from frontier Conestoga wagons that were sent by townspeople to greet westward moving settlers and to present provisions and gifts.

Local representatives are Lida Pennell and Opal Woodward, who call on movers to the Midland community.

During every call, Pennell and Woodward present a packet of civic and community information appropriate to the occasion. For newcomers this packet includes library, theater center, museums, college and United Way information.

A second phase of the call is the presentation of gifts from local sponsoring merchants. The representatives extend greetings from each business, describe the business location and products and services and extend an invitation to visit the business for a personal greeting and a gift.

Business who sponsor Welcome Wagon in the Tall City are Citizens Savings and Loan Association, Dairy Queen, Luby's Cafeteria, Midland Camera Shop, Midland Hydroponic Plant Farms, A-1 Nutrition Center, Studio Plus, Jenkins Jewelry and Luggage, Mary Ann Carr Realtors, Basin Insurance Agency and Upstairs-Downstairs.

Anyone can request a Welcome Wagon call by contacting Mrs. Pennell at 682-1957.

PTA MEETINGS have been scheduled during Texas Public School Week.

Emerson Elementary Parent Teacher Association will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the school's cafeteria.

The program will be presented by the third grade students under the direction of Carol Tipton. They will take the parents and teachers on a musical tour of Texas.

South Elementary PTA will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the South cafeteria. Kindergarten and first grade will have a motor skills program.

Parents at all schools are urged to visit their children's school during this special week.

PERMIAN BASIN STAMP CLUB will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in the main Post Office Conference Room in Midland, according to John Walker, president.

The program will be given by Clifford Chapman, a past president of the club. It will consist of a presentation of stamps in his collection and will include suggestions in compiling a successful stamp collection.

Also, plans will be made to sponsor the Regional Stamp Course and Exhibition at the Midland Hilton March 24, where dealers from many West Texas cities will display their collections and philatelic items for sale.

A STOP SMOKING PROGRAM, sponsored by the Martin County Unit of the American Cancer Society, will be held from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Reddy Room at 310 St. Peter St. in Stanton.

Interested persons in the Tall City can register by calling 683-6374 or 563-0204, or by coming by 601 S. Main St., the American Cancer Society Office here.

NINTH GRADE Junior Cotillion dance will be held from 7:15 to 9:30 p.m. Thursday at the Lee High School Youth Center. The students are reminded that the dress for this Western dance is casual instead of the usual formal wear.

PERMIAN BASIN Student Data Processing Chapter at The University of Texas of the Permian Basin will meet at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday in the UTPB Faculty Dining Room.

For more information, call the Student Activities office.

LEE HIGH SCHOOL Bandoliars monthly meeting will be held beginning at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the LHS Band Hall.

The chili supper and spring band trip will be discussed, according to Penny Angelo, president.

Mrs. Angelo urges all LHS band parents to attend.

Abel Contreras, head custodian at Sam Houston elementary school, assists Allison Durossette, a student, in opening her milk carton. "Abel Day" will be observed Tuesday by the school faculty, parents and students in appreciation for the employee. The day will culminate with a PTA meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the Sam Houston cafeteria. (Staff Photo)

Karla Lynn Gregg marries Darrell Leigh Jordan Saturday

Mrs. Darrell Leigh Jordan

STANTON—Darrell Leigh Jordan married Karla Lynn Gregg in a double ring ceremony at 7 p.m. Saturday in the First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Eugene Isaacs and H. L. Gregg of Midland are the parents of the bride. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Jordan of Art.

The couple will reside at 4000 W. Illinois St., Apartment 258, in Midland, after a trip to El Paso and Juarez, Mexico.

Karen Terry of Lubbock was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Deborah Jordan of Art, sister of the bridegroom; Karen Hanna, Debbie Jones and Teresa Whiteside of Stephenville.

Shawn Anderson of Stephenville was best man. The groomsmen were Larry Romine, Stanton; Russell Joseph, Jacksonville; Kerry Gregg, brother of the bride, Lubbock; Lee Woods, Stonewall, and Dean Eckert of San Angelo. Trey Carpenter of Austin and Ike Terry of Lubbock ushered the guests.

Betty Pinkerton of Abilene was the pianist, and Becky Johnson of Mason was soloist.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of candlelight bridal satin and Alencon lace fashioned in the 18th Century tradition. The high bodice was appliqued with lace and molded into a Queen Anne neckline. Fitted sleeves of English net and lace flared into pagoda sleeves. The satin princess skirt flowed into a chapel train. Her mantilla was bordered with Alencon lace and was held by a molded Juliet cap of satin and lace. She carried a cascade of Japhette orchids, stephanotis and ivy.

The reception was held in the Fellowship Hall.

The bridegroom's parents had the rehearsal dinner in the Midland Hilton.

Organization funded for women to launch professional careers

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — In the 17 years since Felice Schwartz founded Catalyst, the organization's focus has shifted from counseling women re-entering the work force to expanding the career options of women already working.

But its goal has remained constant: to see women in productive careers, to the benefit of themselves, of their families, of industry and of society.

"Our goal has always been one responsive to the needs of women, whatever the period," said Ms. Schwartz, president of the national non-profit organization that helps women choose, launch and advance their careers. "The emphasis has changed by virtue of the needs of women changing."

SHE STARTED CATALYST in 1962 with the help of five college presidents — "The only people who tended to be interested in careers of women then were college presidents who had educated them" — and in its early years it concentrated on persuading employers that they would get "the cream of people" if they would accept women as part-time workers.

"I happened to be in the class of '45," said Ms. Schwartz, 54, a graduate of Smith College, "the year in which the revolting concept of togetherness was discovered, the idea of going to the suburbs and doing all those terrible things we were conditioned to do."

As this isolated group of upper-middle-class women saw their children grow up and leave, they became frustrated and angry, groping for something useful to do, she adds.

"I'm not going for a minute to deprecate the experience of raising kids," says Ms. Schwartz, who has three grown children. "It's rewarding, but not as a life work. I had spent eight years with my kids exclusively and had time to think about what I wanted to do next."

"My peers were anxious about what they would do, wanting to work but also to keep a foot in the door at home. Catalyst's concern in the early years was to see whether what they wanted was possible and to try to help them get it."

AS WOMEN BEGAN having fewer children, and returned to work when the youngest went to nursery school instead of after a 20-year hiatus, thus lessening the re-entry problem, the group's emphasis shifted to helping the woman already working.

"We started dealing with the socialization gap," Ms. Schwartz explained. "Woman has been a nurturer, not programmed to the qualities business needs: aggression, concern with the bottom line."

"It will take three generations to change: the first generation, the vanguard, breaking through; the second generation, they're beginning to move up the corporation ladder but haven't had a role model; the third generation, daughters of career women. By then it will be truly accepted that women will have careers."

AT THE START, the average age of women helped by Catalyst was 45, but now it is reaching girls as young as 14, using filmstrips and publications to make even the high-school student aware that she can have a career, and to expose her to the choices.

Midkiff library dedicated

MIDKIFF — Dedication of the new Midkiff Library was held Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m.

Hostesses were the Midkiff Study Club which has sponsored the library.

Program began with the invocation by Margie

Norred. A flag ceremony was presented by Boy Scout Troop 24 of Midkiff. Tommy Owens led the group in the Star Spangled Banner.

Master of ceremonies was Marilyn Midkiff, who introduced the speakers, including Upton County Judge Peggy Garner of McCamey; O. R. Adams, Upton County commissioner; and Jack Leonard, Midland County commissioner of Precinct 3.

Acknowledgements were made by Patricia Barrett and Helen Richardson, president of Midkiff Study Club, gave the response.

Refreshments were served and furnished by the Home Extension Club and Brownie Troop of Midkiff.

Approximately 50 persons attended.

Paula Escarrega is the assistant librarian.

'Abel Day' planned at Sam Houston

"Abel Day" will be observed by the Sam Houston Elementary School faculty, parents and students Tuesday in a day of appreciation for Abel Contreras, head custodian. The day will culminate at the Parent Teacher Association meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Sam Houston Cafetorium.

LIFESTYLE

"Abel will you..." is commonly heard around the Sam Houston Elementary," said Wayne Harris, principal. "Some of the requests following that phrase are outside regular custodial duties, but Abel always seems glad to help out. He helps find items lost in the school yard; he helps parents with car trouble; he opens thermos bottles and milk cartons at lunch; he helps settle student disagreements; he carries teacher lunch trays; he helps students find parents' cars; he helps parents load cars; he knows the students and the parents, and won't allow a student to get in a strange car without an explanation; he visits parents in the hospital; he acts as crossing guard when one is not present. Altogether, parents, students and faculty have been spoiled by his caring attitude," said Harris.

"Abel (most know him by this single name) arrives early to work each morning to get classrooms warm and ready for teachers and students," added Harris. "During a heavy rain in September he walked to work when his truck didn't start, wading water that threatened to drown automobiles. Once again in January, his truck wouldn't start and he walked to work while the mercury hovered around zero and ice and snow covered the ground," told Harris.

World War II found Abel in the famed 36th

Division and gave him an introduction to travel. He received the Purple Heart while serving with this division in Europe.

Since then, he has visited Switzerland, Austria, France, Puerto Rico, Germany, England and Mexico. He has lived in various states such as Washington, Oregon, New York and Illinois before moving to Texas.

"He has been at Sam Houston for three years and his concern for children has endeared him to children and parents of the community," said Harris.

National director to address Christian women's organization

Mary E. Clark, national director of the Christian Women's Club, will speak to the Midland Christian Women's Club Wednesday in a luncheon at the Midland Woman's Club, Hogan Park Clubhouse.

The group will meet from 11:45 a.m. to 1:45 p.m.

Miss Clark, British-born world traveler, is a favorite speaker from coast to coast. Her rich repertoire of exciting experiences of what God is doing in cities and villages makes her a much sought-after speaker in clubs and councils throughout the world.

In addition to her directorship of the Christian organization, she is also national vice-chairman of Christian Business and Professional Women's Councils.

Special feature at the Wednesday meeting will be a presentation by Janet Collier on "Collectables in the Cupboard." Music is to be presented by Linda Flynt.

The meeting is open to the public. Tickets to the luncheon are $5. Reservations can be made by contacting Jackie Hellman, 582-1803, or Francis Watkins, 684-4950.

A free nursery service will be available for the meeting at Memorial Christian Church, 1001 Andrews Highway. Reservations for this service can be made when buying tickets to the luncheon. Parents should bring a sack lunch for each child.

Cynthia Carey weds Michael Vann Carlton

Cynthia Ann Carey, of 2928 W. Louisiana Ave., and Michael Vann Carlton, of 1900 W. Illinois, were married at 7 p.m. Feb. 24 at the Berggren's Garden Under Glass in Odessa.

The bride is the son of Fay Carey, of 2928 W. Louisiana Ave. and Joe L. Carey of Abilene. The bridegroom is the son of Gene Carlton of Midland and Carolyn Mitchell of Midland.

The Rev. Loye Ruckman officiated the double ring ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Best man was Steve Baker of Midland, uncle of the bridegroom. Matron of honor was Phyllis Bradshaw of Abilene, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Valerie Houston of Midland, sister of the bridegroom; and Debbie Hall of Tulsa, Okla.

Flower girl was Allison Carey of Abilene, sister of the bride. Usher was Bruce McConnell of Abilene, brother of the bride. Groomsmen were Roland Kinsey of Midland, brother of the bridegroom, and Jim Carey of Pasadena, Calif., brother of the bride.

Organist and soloist was Mrs. Keith Johnson.

The bride selected a white gown with billows of organza. The organza formed the bishop sleeves and covered the understated Alencon lace and English net tube sleeves. The molded bodice was of heavily beaded lace and featured a Queen Anne neckline. The circular skirt was of organza and flowed to a chapel train.

A double wreath of silk roses caught the cathedral length illusion veil which was bordered with Alencon lace appliques. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis, snowflake palms, yellow sweetheart roses and greenery.

Reception was held at Berggren's Garden Under Glass.

The couple will reside at 1900 W. Illinois, Apt. No. 43.

The bride attended Midland High School. The bridegroom is a graduate of Midland High School and is employed by Carlton Tile.

Some may call it love...

By IRA J. DREYFUSS
Associated Press Writer

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — Do you expect your lover to be everything to you? If you do, you're expecting too much from love, and you could be hurt by the experience, says Dr. Debora Phillips, a behavior therapist who lives and practices here.

You may call it love, but she says it could more precisely be called a dependency.

"Dependency doesn't equal closeness or intimacy," says Ms. Phillips. "It's a need for an object; for someone to be there, to bolster up insecurity."

And if you think your love life may be a dependency, you're far from alone, says Ms. Phillips. Most American marriages are based on false assumptions as to what love is and what people should expect from it. It's one reason so many of them end in divorce, she says.

"We have grown up with a myth that we can find someone to fulfill all our needs, that there's going to be one person out there who is going to do that for us," she says. "And so many people keep finding a person to do that."

It doesn't work, she says, and they keep looking. "They just think they found the wrong person," says Ms. Phillips. "They don't learn that it's a myth."

And, she says, that can be dangerous. Dr. Edward J. Sachar, director of the New York State Psychiatric Institute in New York City, says such people crave love so much it becomes an "addiction."

Their symptoms often come to light as a depression following the loss of their love object, in which they shrink from life, becoming apathetic, says Sachar. When in love, they are euphoric, he says.

It's very difficult for such a person in the throes of lost love to accept a compliment, because they don't feel worthy of it, says Ms. Phillips. They don't feel liked by others, she says.

Milton E. Haynes, a New York therapist and social worker, says love addiction can be classified as narcissistic — a continuation of a self-centered, infantile state of development.

He says such people "didn't get the kind of maternal nurturance a child needs, and they're still seeking it."

"They don't know they should return love," he says. "You won't get much from someone like this except thwarted."

HOROSCOPE

By CARROLL RIGHTER
(Tues., March 6)

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This can be a confusing day since you are apt to be wool-gathering and preoccupied by other than matters at hand and lose out where it counts the most. To prevent problems give whatever is at hand your fullest attention.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Follow through with agreements made with others conscientiously. Exercise extreme caution to prevent trouble, expense. Evening is fine for social fun.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Curb that tendency to spend money foolishly and find better ways of adding to income instead. Don't neglect care of a health problem.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You want to run away from promises you have made, but it is best to carry through intelligently. Improve health and appearance and become more popular.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You think you are being abused and want to do something irrational, but take it easy and all will soon change for the better.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Try to be of help to friends and gain their goodwill. You have to sacrifice some if you are to gain a personal aim. Take no risks with money or credit.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Avoid criticizing a bigwig because you think things should be done differently. Be astute in the handling of your own affairs, credit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You want to run off to new interests, but it is wise to do nothing at this time. A new contact is too glamorous, so steer clear of this person.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Handle obligations carefully and well so that later you can study into new profitable projects. If loved one is irritable, don't argue since the planets are not favorable. Think logically.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Do not argue with a partner because of a seeming disinterest in work; he or she may be making better plans. A civic affair also disturbs you, but it will turn out all right.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Concentrate on the work ahead of you and get it done so that you reap the benefits. Don't be upset by the gossip of a fellow worker. Keep working and ignore for best results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 18) Cultivate a fine talent you possess and forget any fun ideas which could waste your time. Show more thought for loved ones.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to Mar. 20) Don't bring up debatable issues at home or you could start a battle royal there. Not a good day to do any entertaining even though you want to.

DEAR ABBY

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have been corresponding with a man in an out-of-state prison for quite a number of months. We have never met. I started writing to him because a mutual friend asked me to. You might say I did it as an act of kindness.

He is serving time for armed robbery. From his letters, I am not convinced that he has learned his lesson. He has a lot of anger and hostility in him.

My problem is that he thinks he is falling in love with me. I do not feel the same. (We've exchanged pictures.) I care about him as a friend and would like to keep in touch, but not at the risk of endangering myself. He might get out in six months; I don't want a lovesick, rejected ex-con on my hands, if you know what I mean.

How do I go about letting him know I don't want a romantic relationship with him? I don't want to hurt his feelings, but I certainly don't want him for an enemy either. Please advise.—OKIE FROM MUSKOGEE

DEAR OKIE: Be honest. Write your pen pal and tell him you hope that he isn't falling in love with you because your feelings for him are strictly platonic.

DEAR ABBY: I work in the Department of Vital Statistics, but nobody listens to us. Maybe they will listen to Dear Abby.

If you anticipate a need for your birth certificate (in applying for a passport, Social Security, entering a new school, or for any other reason), DON'T wait until the last minute. Write to the Department of Vital Statistics in the city where you were born and request your birth certificate to have on hand in case you need it.

Don't wait until two weeks before you take a trip to a foreign country. It sometimes takes THREE MONTHS to get a birth certificate. (Everyone waits until May or June.)

A letter stating that your birth is on file is NOT acceptable. You must produce the certificate itself (with the raised seal) in most instances.

If for any reason your birth is not recorded, this will give you plenty of time to file a delayed birth certificate before you need it.

Please, be wise and act accordingly.—JACKSONVILLE JOURNAL FAN

DEAR FAN: All right, all you readers out there who weren't born yesterday, please take note!

DEAR READERS: For 23 years I've been helping you with your problems. Now is your chance to help me with mine.

If you should see DEAR ABBY T-shirts, nightgowns or anything else for sale bearing my name, please let me know where it was purchased. (The name of the store and city.)

The DEAR ABBY name is being used without my permission and in order to protect my copyright I must take legal action against the manufacturers. Will you please help me to track them down? Many thanks.—DEAR ABBY

Baked vs. broiled steak provokes hot food debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government scientist's contention that baked steak is as good as broiled steak may provoke a hot food debate.

Dr. H. Russell Cross, an Agriculture Department research food technologist, says oven-roasted steaks "are not only just as tender and flavorful as broiled steaks, but are juicier besides."

Cross experimented last fall by cooking steak and serving it to a 12-member taste panel of private citizens.

The results of the scientifically arranged test, he said in a report issued Thursday by the Agriculture Department, showed that "steaks cooked by either method were nearly equal in tenderness, flavor and amount of detectable connective tissue. However, the roasted steaks were significantly juicier than broiled steaks."

The beef he cooked had been sent by meat experts at Texas A&M University to the department's experiment center at Beltsville, Md.

Bridge club tells winners

Newtimers Bridge Club recently met at Ramey Hills Country Club.

Winners were Juanita Hodges, first; and Lois Hulsey, second high. Third high was won by Helen Cantrell, a guest.

Persons interested in joining the group should call Lea Clifton at 694-9704.

Nancy Gaines and Voncile Lowe won the grand slam prize.

Beta Sigma Phi reports

W. Burgess Wade, attorney for the law firm of Turpin, Smith, Dyer and Saxe talked to members of the Psi Phi Chapter at a business and cultural meeting of the chapter in the home of Jo Anne Little.

Wade told the group about estates and wills. Members Dalila Walker and Mary Lockhart concluded the program with a list of books and seminars which would aid a person in writing a will.

President Judy Jehring announced the chapter will send a donation for dialysis research to the Baylor Medical Hospital in Houston.

Thanks were expressed to Midland Garden Center for the 10 plants used as prizes when the chapter entertained Mu Psi Chapter members with a salad supper at the Kimber-Lea Clubhouse. Guest Kathy Blackman won the special prize, an old-fashioned doll centerpiece.

Kathy Langley served refreshments.

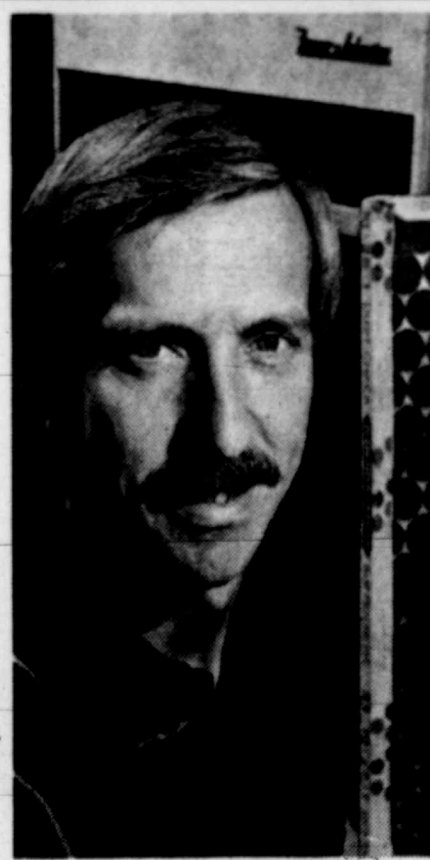

Iota Beta Chapter members honored their new sweetheart, Brenda Nance, with a dinner at Shenanigans preceding a regular meeting held at the Windsor Club Room, where Peggy Meek was hostess.

Mary Hurst reported Mrs. Nance and Anita Blackford will collect newspapers the members have been saving for their paper drive.

Margie Lanning and Mary Hurst informed members of the success of the project of delivering flowers for A-1 Floral on Valentine's Day. They also delivered the day after Valentine's Day at the request of the floral shop for additional help.

Peggy Meek reported that the chapter had been asked to help with Meals on Wheels during March. Members decided to do so.

"A clean filter can save on your electric bill, so I check mine once a month."

Darrell Bevelhimer, Texas Electric engineer.

"At Texas Electric, where I work, our job is to provide you with the electricity you need.

But higher construction and fuel costs are making it more expensive to do.

I can tell just by looking at my electric bill.

One thing I do at home is to keep a check-list right on my heating/air-conditioning unit. I have the months listed, and every time I clean the filter I check off that month—so I make sure I check it at least once a month. I couldn't remember it otherwise, and it's important.

A dirty filter limits the air flow through there—and that uses more energy."

'Nuisance' now energy source

AUSTIN — Not long ago, the oil and gas industry considered it an "expensive nuisance" to be avoided whenever possible. Today some experts think it could be a new energy source for Texas.

The object that has captured the interest of both the federal government and Texas utility companies is a geopressed-geothermal zone along the Gulf Coast, a literal hot spot deep in the earth. It is one of seven such basins in the United States and among 26 in the world.

About 100,000 square miles are in the geopressed-geothermal zone of the Texas-Louisiana coast. The basin extends out in the Gulf of Mexico to the continental shelf and inland for 125 miles. About 60 million years ago, it was formed from successive delta deposits that were compacted to their limit. When the sands could be compressed no more, fluids around them began to take up the pressure. Over time, the organic material in the compressed shales was changed to methane.

"UNTIL 20 YEARS ago, you couldn't drill into geopressed zones," says Dr. Myron Dorfman, chairman of the Petroleum Engineering Department at The University of Texas at Austin and director of the geothermal division at the UT Center for Energy Studies. Intense pressures up to 15,000 pounds per square inch are characteristic of geopressed zones, which make drilling into them a delicate operation.

But current advances in technology and the need for alternative energy sources have drawn attention to the possibility of tapping the geopressed-geothermal storehouse of power — heat from the hot waters trapped in the zones, kinetic energy from their great pressure and, in the case of Texas, natural gas.

The Center for Energy Studies and the UT Bureau of Economic Geology are coordinators for an $8 million project, funded principally by the U.S. Department of Energy, to drill a giant test well into the geopressed-geothermal zone in Brazoria County near Houston. The objective of the effort is to find out whether it is technologically and economically feasible to produce energy from that source.

Dr. Dorfman and Dr. Don Bebout, coordinator of geothermal studies at the bureau, recently gave a progress report on the project at a public briefing sponsored by the Center for Energy Studies.

"OVER THE NEXT five to six years we hope to solve the technological problems," says Dr. Dorfman, who believes the project has a "75 percent chance" of success.

The well is the first of its kind, designed specifically for the gepres-sured-geothermal zone, with flow tubing as large as the casing used in standard oil wells. When it is completed, a potential flow rate of up to 40,000 barrels per day is anticipated, Dr. Dorfman said. General Crude Oil Co. of Houston is the test well operator.

One of the principal targets of the research effort is the methane, or natural gas, dissolved in the hot waters. Although estimates of the amount of recoverable gas vary from 150 to 5,000 trillion cubic feet, Dr. Dorfman and R. Bebout assess the level at 250 trillion cubic feet. At current consumption rates, that is enough natural gas to keep the country supplied for more than 10 years.

But methane isn't the only objective of the project. With water temperatures in the geothermal zone of at least 300 degrees Fahrenheit, that heat could be recovered and used commercially in nearby pulp and paper mills, sugar mills and refineries, and frozen food plants.

In addition, the powerful force of the water spewing out under intense pressure has the potential of driving turbines to generate electricity.

GENERAL CRUDE currently is drilling the second well in the project. The first well was spudded in last July, but mechanical problems developed when the well reached 15,600 feet, less than 1,000 feet from its intended bottom hole depth. That well was plugged at 8,300 feet and will be used as a disposal well planned for the site.

Dr. Dorfman and Dr. Bebout say they don't consider the outcome of the first well a major setback because most of the coring and logging already has been completed. Drilling on the second well, 500 feet from its predecessor, is progressing currently at 8,000 feet.

More than 200 UT Austin professors, researchers and students have been involved with the geopressed-geothermal project for the past five years. Before drilling began on the first well, they had investigated the geological, geophysical, environmental, technological and legal aspects of the project, as well as the attitudes of residents in the surrounding area. On the basis of detailed geological surveys by the Bureau of Economic Geology, the first onshore drilling site was selected.

Four additional sites in various areas of the Texas coastal zone recently have been selected as candidates for future drilling. The Department of Energy plans to fund drilling for 20 to 25 new wells in Texas and Louisiana over the next five years, says Dr. Dorfman.

"Toward this end the President has recommended $36 million for the geopressed budget for 1980, a large increase," he reports.

K. Smith

H. K. Smith on gas slate

TULSA, Okla. — Howard K. Smith, veteran television and radio reporter and ABC News commentator, will be the keynote speaker at the annual international convention of the Gas Processors Association in Denver, Colo., March 21.

His address will be "The Changing Challenges to America" and will be delivered at the closing general session of the convention scheduled for 2:30 p.m. in the Grand Ballroom of the Denver Hilton.

Smith worked for the United Press in Copenhagen and Berlin before joining CBS News as Berlin correspondent in 1941. He was forced by the Nazi government to leave Berlin a few months later, but continued to report on the war in Europe for CBS from Switzerland.

In 1944, Smith covered the Allied sweep through Belgium, Holland and Germany. He later covered the German surrender to the Russians and the Nuremberg war crimes trials.

Following World War II, he took assignments on most of the major CBS News efforts, including "CBS Reports," "Face the Nation," "Eye-witness to History" and "The Great Challenge."

In 1957, he became CBS News Washington correspondent and later was appointed chief correspondent and manager for the Washington bureau of CBS News.

In 1961, Smith joined ABC News and became the first working journalist to win the Paul White Memorial Award.

Two workers killed in fire

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Fire broke out on an offshore drilling rig in the Gulf of Mexico early today, killing two men and forcing 27 others to abandon the rig in a survival capsule, the Coast Guard reported.

Bob Baeten, a spokesman for the Coast Guard, said the rig continued to burn, but it was not clear whether the flames were being fed by oil or gas. "All we know is the rig is totally engulfed in flames," he said. "We don't know whether there was a blow-out, or explosion."

The rig was a jack-up type, stationed about 45 miles south of Morgan City, La. It is owned by Placid Oil of Houma, La.

G. Hoffman joins Mesa

Mesa Petroleum Co. has announced the employment of George A. Hoffman as a landman at the company's Permian Basin Division office in Midland.

Hoffman, a native of Fort Stockton, received degrees from Trinity University and The University of Texas of the Permian Basin. He is a member of the American Association of Petroleum Landmen and the Permian Basin Landmen's Association.

Basin rig count logs another slight decrease

A survey of weekly drilling activity, conducted by Reed Drilling Equipment in the Permian Basin of West Texas and Southeast New Mexico, showed 217 rigs making hole.

Activity dropped three units from the previous weeks tally of 220 and showed a substantial drop from a year ago at this time as 311 units were spotted turning to the right.

Lea County, N.M., took first place on the survey for the first time as 26 units were counted, gaining two rigs from the previous week.

Eddy County took second on the survey as 25 rigs were spotted, decreasing its activity by two rigs.

Pecos County, the West Texas leader, reported 14 rigs going, having lost one rig from the last count of 15.

Crockett County followed with 11 units working, while Ward County was the scene of 10 operations.

Hockley and Sterling counties reported gaining activity as 9 rigs were counted on the survey.

Former official believes hikes only temporary

ABU DHABI, United Arab Emirates (AP) — Recent price increases by individual OPEC members are temporary and will be removed "when supply and demand return to normal," a former secretary-general of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries said today.

Ali Jaidah, Qatar's oil minister, predicted that if Iranian exports recover OPEC members will return to the schedule of quarterly price increases agreed upon last December. Jaidah, chairman of his country's delegation to an Arab Energy Conference in session here, said OPEC at its meeting in Geneva March 26 would be justified in voting new price increases because of profits earned by the major oil companies during the Iranian cutoff.

But he said such an increase "wasn't likely" because the Geneva conference is only consultative and a special meeting of OPEC ministers would be needed to make any decisions on pricing.

The cartel's price schedule agreed on in December increased the base price 5 percent on Jan. 1 to $13.35 a barrel and will raise it a total of 14.5 percent for the year by Oct. 1. But Iran's new government is expected to hold its exports down to about 2.4 million barrels a day, 3 million barrels less than exports before the revolution, to conserve its reserves.

With the demand for oil heavy because of the Iranian cutoff, at least six OPEC members including Qatar have raised prices over the agreed level. And the director of Algeria's government oil company, Abdul Kadir Maashou, confirmed that his government is thinking about another increase on April 1. But another source said Algeria is likely to forego the increase because of the resumption of Iranian exports.

OPEC's current president, Mana Saeed al-Otaiba, said he would propose a blacklist of foreign oil companies that raised prices sharply to take advantage of the oil shortage. He told the opening session of the energy conference: "Most of the major petroleum companies have abused the current market situation."

Otaiba also said future oil sales to consumer nations should depend on whether they help bring about an Arab-Israeli settlement favorable to the Palestinians.

"Countries that expect us to maintain our supplies of petroleum should help us to arrive at a rightful solution to the Palestinian situation," he said, including the "liberation of the Palestinian people and the freedom of Jerusalem."

Explorer sites staked

RK Petroleum Corp. of Midland No. 1-E Hyatt has been spotted as a 12,200-foot wildcat in Martin County, five miles northwest of Tarzan.

It is 3,371 feet from north and 8,466 feet from east lines of league 247, Hartley County School Land survey.

The location is one and one-quarter miles southwest of the discovery well of the Anchor Ranch (Devonian) field.

MARTIN OILER RK No. 3 Wolcott-Adobe, scheduled as a project in the Anchor Ranch (Devonian) field in Martin County, has been completed and assigned to the Sprabery Trend Area field.

The well finished for a daily flowing potential of 94 barrels of 46.2-gravity oil and no water, through a 10/64-inch choke and perforations from 9,359 to 9,366 feet. The gas-oil ratio is 1,276-1.

Total depth is 12,196 feet and 4.5-inch casing is set at 9,597 feet. The plugged back depth is 9,576 feet.

Location is 739 feet from south and 6,310 feet from east lines of league 250, Hartley County School Land survey and 4.5 miles northwest of Tarzan. It is one mile northeast of the No. 1-E Hyatt.

PECOS WILDCAT Exxon Corp. No. 2 Longfellow Corp. has been staked as a 7,000-foot wildcat in Pecos County, one location southwest of Exxon No. 1 Longfellow, active 24,500-foot wildcat now drilling below 8,508 feet.

The new project is 3,668 feet from north and 1,538 feet from west lines of section 11, block 600, C. C. Bryant survey.

The location is 27.3 miles northwest of Sanderson.

WARD WELL Gulf Oil Corp. No. 1-QN State has been completed as a 7/8-mile south extension to Wolfcamp production in the War-Wink field of Ward County, 11 miles northwest of Pyote.

Operator reported a daily flowing potential of 62 barrels of 42.7-gravity oil and 16 barrels of water, through a 10/64-inch choke and perforations from 11,443 to 11,638.

The pay section was fractured with 66,000 gallons.

Total depth is 12,750 feet and five-inch casing is cemented at 12,749 feet. The plugged back depth is 12,728 feet.

The well is 1,083 feet from south and 933 feet from east lines of section 25, block 18, University Lands survey.

The pool has 18 other Wolfcamp producers.

RIAL WELL Rial Oil Co. of Midland No. 1-10 Sealy & Smith is a new well in the Arenosa (Strawn detritus) field in Winkler County.

It completed for a daily pumping potential of 110 barrels of 38-gravity oil, with a trace of water. The gas-oil ratio is 800-1.

The total depth is 8,914 feet and 4/5-inch casing is set at total depth.

Completion was through perforations from 8,531 to 8,537 feet after a 2,500-gallon acid treatment.

Well site is 1,320 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 10, block A, G&MMB&A survey.

Testers, strike reported

A pair of wildcats and a discovery have been reported in West Texas. Blair Exploration, Inc., of Midland No. 1 A. C. Fillingim is a 7,500-foot wildcat 10 miles northwest of Tahoka in Lynn County.

Drill site on ground elevation of 3,255 feet is 467 feet from north and east lines of section 165, block 12, EL&RR survey.

There is no nearby production.

GAINES WILDCAT J. J. Travis of Midland No. 1 ODC is a 3,600-foot wildcat in Gaines County, three miles north of Loop.

The test is 467 feet from north and 2,350 feet from east lines of section 13, block C-33, psi survey. Ground elevation is 3,600 feet. The location is 1.5

miles northeast of the Loop, North-east gas pool.

STRIKE FINALS Champlin Petroleum Co. of Midland No. 1 I. W. Terry has been completed as a Canyon discovery in Sterling County, 20 miles southwest of Sterling City.

It finished for a daily flow of 80 barrels of 44.1-gravity oil, through perforations at 8,112-8,134 feet after 2,000 gallons of acid.

Bottomed at 9,800 feet, the project has 5.5-inch pipe set at 9,289 feet.

Location is 1,030 feet from south and 3,145 feet from east lines of section 2, T. B. Wilson survey. It is three miles northwest of the Deck (Cisco) discovery well.

Drilling seminar starts at UTPB next week

ODESSA — A five-day seminar on deep drilling technology will mark the beginning of a new continuing education effort for Permian Basin oil and gas industry personnel at The University of Texas of the Permian Basin March 12-16.

"Perspectives and Challenges for Deep Drilling Technology" is the topic for the first seminar offered through the new Center for Advanced Petroleum Technology (CAPT) — a joint project of UTPB, The University of Texas at Austin, and area industry leaders.

Dr. Charles McLarnan, dean of UTPB's College of Science and Engineering, said the center is designed to provide professional and post-baccalaureate continuing education and training programs for oil and gas industry personnel.

"CAPT is housed at UTPB, with instructional programs under the administrative umbrella of the UT Austin College of Engineering. It makes efficient use of engineering resources at UT Austin, the existing facilities at UTPB, many drilling and exploration projects in the Permian Basin, and the large number of expert personnel working here, to provide a service to industry in the Permian Basin," he said.

"Initially, CAPT will provide continuing education opportunities for those who wish to supplement their experiences by close interaction with recognized experts in the field. Hopefully, the program will expand to include graduate-level coursework on both a semester basis and on a more concentrated short-term basis," McLarnan added.

Dr. Earnest Gloyna, dean of the College of Engineering at UT Austin, said the first seminar will keynote panelists representing the recognized leaders in the area. Proceedings from the conference will be edited and made available for future use.

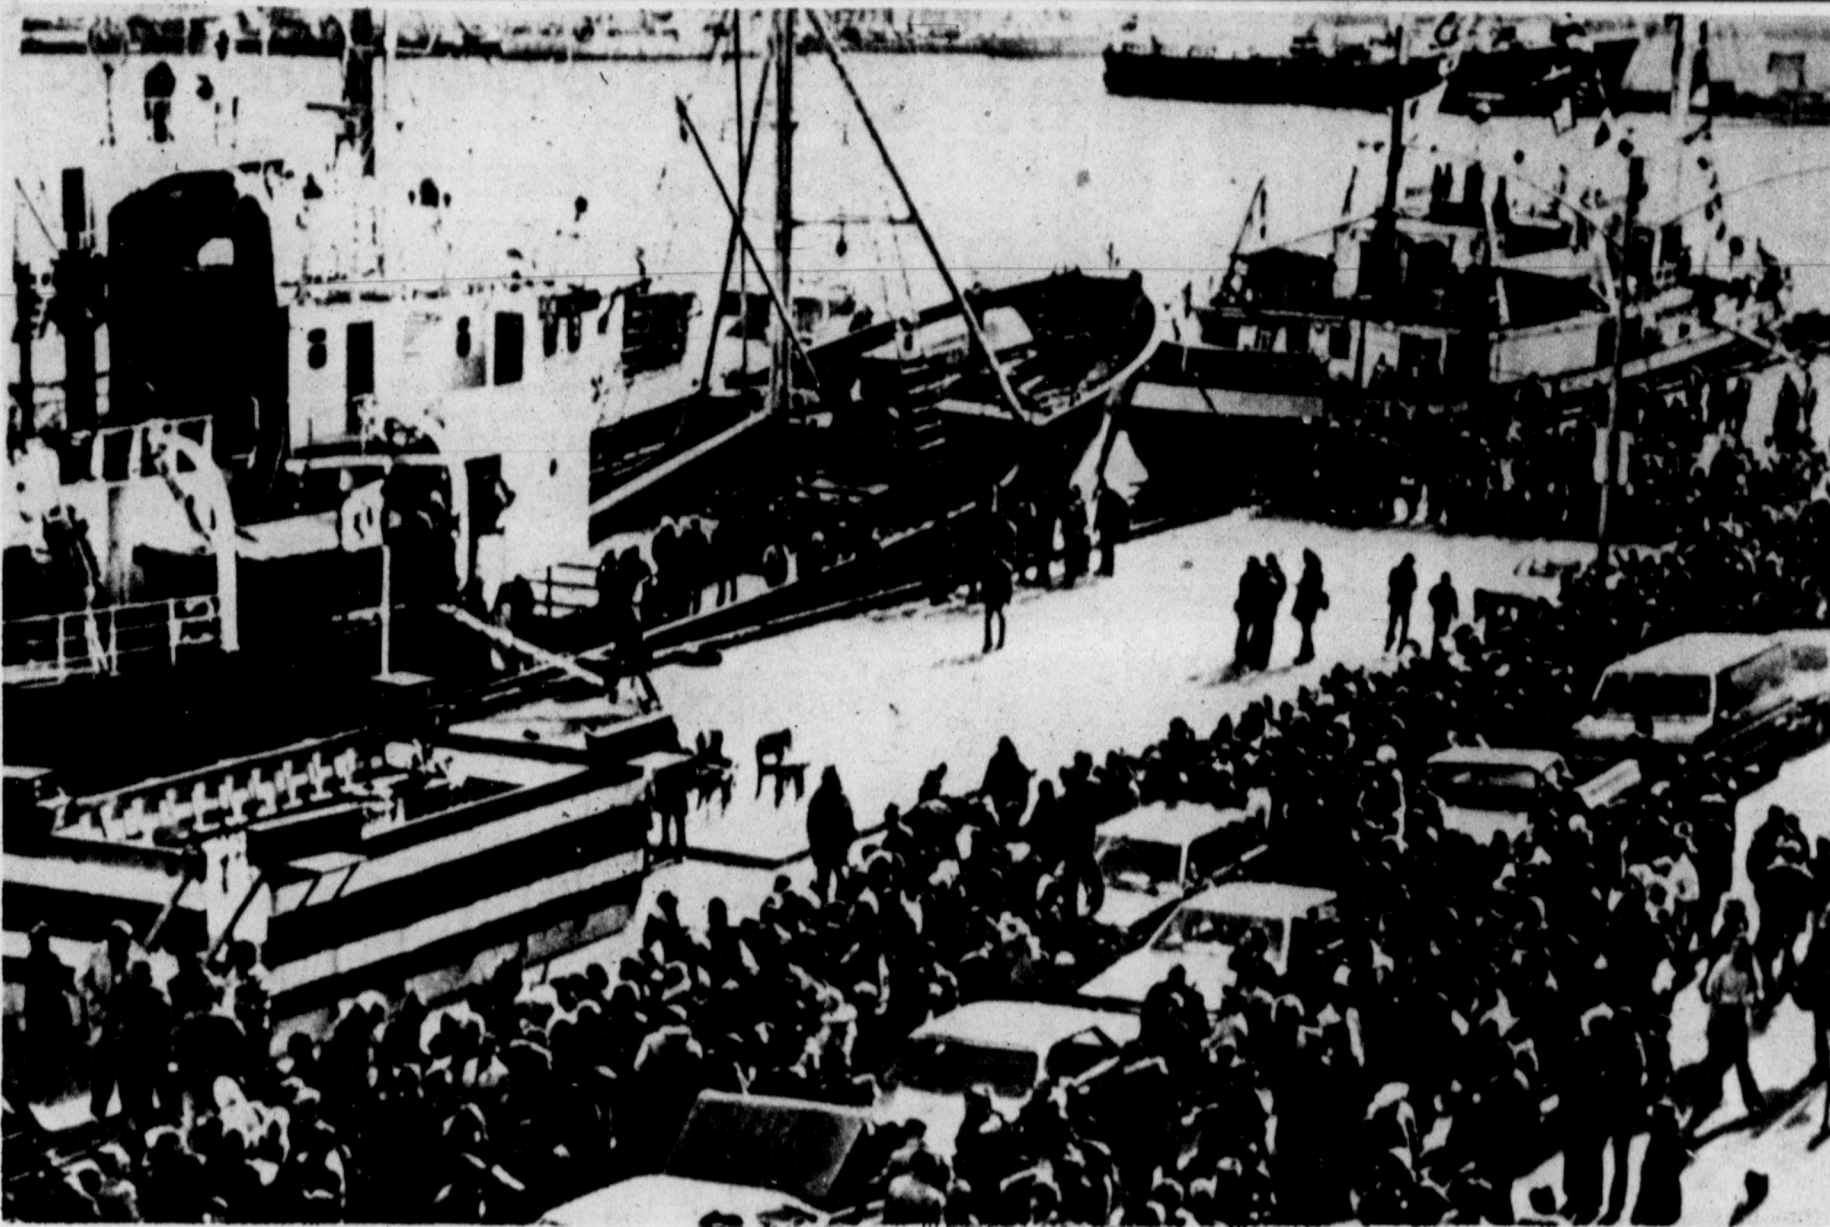

The five-day seminar is designed to present a systematic insight into modern deep oil and gas drilling and completion technology. Seminar participants will explore current problems in drilling deep wells and participate in a forum for information exchange and technology transfer between experienced operators, industry researchers and academicians.

Among the sessions planned for the seminar are well planning, drilling techniques, drilling fluids, logging, well testing, well completion, cementing, production techniques and special productions.

"This program responds to requests by the petroleum industry," Gloyna said.

"As energy resources dwindle, there is an obvious need to explore for hydrocarbons at greater depths and in uncharted places. The economic risks are great and it behooves the industry to broaden its technical base through educational programs such as this one," Gloyna said.

Following this initial endeavor, CAPT plans to present a series of related seminars. Also some of the continuing education efforts will be expanded to provide professional graduate-level coursework, he said.

When today's hand came along in a national tournament almost 50 years ago, North and South had missed a few slams and were determined to miss no more.

East and West were upset over going to sleep with seven aces earlier in the session. They were determined to lose no more.

INACCURATE STATEMENT
Beginning to play, West savagely slapped down the ace of spades, stating: "Here's one ace we won't lose!"

The result proves that the closed mouth gathers no food.

South ruffed the ace of spades, led a trump to dummy, threw the club on dummy's king of spades, and then led the king of clubs. When East put up the ace, South ruffed and got to dummy with a trump to discard all of his diamonds on the rest of the clubs.

South made six hearts doubled with an overtrick, and the defenders had gone to sleep with two more aces.

Blumenthal urges trade, departs for Washington

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal said today that Japan must restructure its economy to allow more imports of manufactured goods or run the risk that Congress will raise barriers against that nation's exports.

Blumenthal said after meetings in Tokyo today with Japanese leaders, including Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira, that the Japanese fear Congress may order a surcharge against imports into the United States.

The purpose of the surcharge would be to raise the consumer price of imported Japanese goods, presumably including color television sets and automobiles, to slow U.S. demand for those products.

The Japanese "consider this to be a real risk; it would be a real risk," Blumenthal told reporters en route home from an 11-day trip to China and Japan.

The treasury secretary spent nine days in China during which he presided over successful negotiations to settle $197 million in U.S. claims against China left over from the Communist revolution in 1949.

Under the accord, China agreed to pay to 677 American claimants 41 cents for each dollar of claim, a total of $80.5 million.

Blumenthal also represented President Carter at the official opening of the U.S. Embassy in Peking, the first in China since 1949.

The secretary told reporters in an airborne news conference that he will report to Carter this week on his China visit.

He said the next step in further cementing Sino-American relations will be a formal trade agreement. Officials traveling with Blumenthal said there will be an exchange of proposals on a trade pact in mid-March, followed by a meeting in mid-April.

Blumenthal said his counterpart in China, Finance Minister Zhang Jingfu (Chang Ching-fu) will visit the United States in June or July.

A trade agreement is likely to be discussed further at that time. Such an accord is important because it spells out the terms and projected volume of trade between the two countries.

China is said to be particularly anxious to see an agreement provide tariff concessions under the most favorable terms permitted by U.S. law.

During an overnight stop in Japan, Blumenthal said he told Ohira and other Japanese leaders that the Chinese are serious in their commitment to modernize their economy. However, he said he told them, "It's an ambitious program; they've got problems to overcome, and only gradual progress could be made."

Devices bypassed in Vail deaths

CHICAGO (AP) — Vail Associates bypassed two safety devices on gondola cars would carry more skiers the day two cars fell at the world-famous Colorado ski resort, killing four persons and injuring eight, a newspaper reports.

The Chicago Tribune published its findings Sunday after a two-month investigation of the 1976 accident. The newspaper said Vail Associates, the firm that leased several thousand acres of land from a government for a ski area at Vail, Colo., omitted evidence in a report of the accident pointing to a pattern of negligence at the ski area. The Tribune said negligence may have caused the gondolas to fall 125 feet on March 26, 1976. Vail Associates officially refused to discuss the accident, "because of pending litigation." The newspaper said its investigation disclosed: —That on the day of the accident, two safety devices had been circumvented deliberately so the area's two gondola systems could take more skiers to the top of the peaks. The Tribune said it obtained this information from Ed Friel, a member of the Vail electrical crew at the time of the accident, who was later fired for "insubordination."

—That Vail Associates knew five weeks before the accident that there were serious cable breaks in the gondola system, but continued to operate. —That U.S. Forest Service officials were notified by Vail Associates of problems with the gondolas, but no one from the Forest Service made a follow-up inspection. Charles Dwyer, chief tramway engineer for the Forest Service at the time of the accident, told the Tribune that the call from Vail Associates was routine — "I think (the call) is unrelated to the accident."

—That the Forest Service accepted an altered Vail Associates document in which information about the prior knowledge of the cable breaks was deleted. The Tribune said it obtained the same report that Vail Associates gave the Forest Service, only without the deletions.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON
Tests may clear up Laetrile questions

Dear Dr. Solomon: A dear friend of mine has just died of cancer. When informed that her condition was terminal, the family asked her physician about trying Laetrile, but he scoffed and said it was worthless. Why couldn't it at least have been tried?—Ms. G.T.R.

with advanced disease will be included in a research program to determine (1) whether Laetrile causes tumors to shrink, and (2) whether patients on Laetrile experience less pain. Those selected for the study will either have a type of tumor for which satisfactory treatment does not exist, or be unresponsive to accepted therapeutic measures. Each patient will be followed for a period of from three to six months while getting the drug, in its purest form, intravenously. The study will cost about $250,000, and results should be available within a year.

One note of caution: The fact that Laetrile is being given a trial does not indicate that it is now thought to be of value in the treatment of cancer. It does mean that we will finally learn, one way or the other, whether there is anything to be gained from its use.

Dear Ms. R.: The use of Laetrile (an apricot-pit extract) as a cancer remedy has provoked a good deal of controversy. The medical profession has largely been opposed to its use because there is little evidence that it is effective. Nevertheless, you may be interested to know that the National Cancer Institute (NCI) now plans to sponsor controlled trials of Laetrile on patients with advanced, untreatable tumors. The decision to conduct a study was prompted by a nationwide survey indicating that out of some 75,000 cancer patients who were treated with Laetrile, six may have been helped by it.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Why is air pollution so undesirable?—Mrs. F.S.

Dear Mrs. F.S.: Most importantly, air pollution is harmful to our health. It hits hardest at the lungs. By causing the air passages to constrict, it makes breathing more difficult. By attacking the body's defenses, it leaves

DEATHS

Arthur Maynard

BIG SPRING — Graveside services for Arthur Leonard Maynard, 64, of Big Spring were to be at 3 p.m. today in Mount Olive Memorial Park directed by Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home. Maynard died Friday. He was born Nov. 22, 1914, in Pennsylvania. He was a Catholic. Survivors include a brother, Robert M. Maynard of Dayton, Ohio.

Ann B. Campbell

Ann B. Campbell, 54, of Houston and formerly of Midland, died Sunday in a Midland hospital. Services are pending at the Forest Lawn Park Funeral Home in Houston. Local arrangements were handled by Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home in Midland. She was born Jan. 2, 1925, in New York City, N.Y. She spent her early life there. In 1952, she moved to Houston. She previously had worked for Gulf Oil Co. and was working for the city of Houston in the planning department at the time of her death. Survivors include a son, Jerry Campbell of Midland; a daughter, Barbara Ann Campbell of Houston; a sister, Marie Ploski of New York, and a granddaughter. The family has asked that memorials be directed to the Midland Memorial Hospital Foundation in lieu of flowers.

Mrs. Montanez

BIG SPRING — Rosary for Mrs. Vicenta Montanez, 68, of Big Spring will be at 8 a.m. today at 1513-A Wood St. here. Services will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday in Sacred Heart Catholic Church with burial in Mount Olive Memorial Park directed by Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home. Mrs. Montanez died Friday in a Houston hospital after a lengthy illness. She was born May 26, 1910, in Sierra Blanca. She had lived in Big Spring 54 years. She was a Catholic. Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Euseria (Consuelo) Fierro of Big Spring; two brothers, Augustin Montanez of Lubbock and Faustino Montanez of Abilene, seven grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

Julia C. Leighton

STANTON — Services for Julia Chadd Leighton, 93, of Stanton will be at 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in the First United Methodist Church here with the Rev. Davis Edens, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Mount Olive Cemetery in Big Spring directed by Gilbreath Funeral Home. Mrs. Leighton died Sunday in a Stanton hospital after a brief illness. She was born Oct. 31, 1885, in Grapevine. She moved to Stanton 16 years ago from El Paso. She was married to G.S. Chadd in 1904 in Pauls Valley, Indian Territory, Okla. He died in 1946. She then was married to MacDonald Leighton in 1951 in El Paso. He died in 1969. Survivors include a son, Knox Chadd of Big Spring; a daughter, Mrs. W.A. Gardner of Anthony, N.M.; four grandchildren, six great-grandchildren and a great-great-grandchild.

Joseph C. Nelson

Graveside services for Joseph C. Nelson, 89, of Austin, father-in-law of Mrs. Nugent (Edie) Brasher of Midland, will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Resthaven Memorial Park directed by Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home. Nelson died Saturday in an Austin hospital. He was born Oct. 10, 1889, in San Antonio. He studied law at The University of Texas. Nelson was a businessman and banker in San Antonio for several years. In 1947, he moved to White Sands, N.M., and worked with the U.S. government. In 1951, he moved to El Paso and established an accounting firm. He worked as an engineer for the Boundary Commission of the U.S. government, and worked on building the Amistad Dam. He was preceded in death by his son, Ernie Nelson, who had lived in Midland. Other survivors include a stepson, Paul Wilkinson of Fredericksburg.

Insurance system under attack

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer — it would also mean an increase in premiums for those who now get preferential treatment. The traditional system of basing auto insurance rates on factors like age and sex is under attack and the resulting changes are expected to mean lower premiums for some drivers and higher prices for others. Several states, including Hawaii, North Carolina and Massachusetts, already have put into effect regulations barring the insurance companies from taking marital status, sex or age into account when setting rates. A series of public hearings is scheduled in California this month and next to consider the fairness of using geographical territories in setting rates. Hearings on the use of age and sex as rating factors were held last month in Florida and South Carolina. Most insurance companies oppose the changes. They argue that the traditional criteria are valid, based on the risks presented by various groups of drivers. Opponents of the existing system contend it unfairly penalizes some groups of people. One problem with eliminating the old standards is finding new ones to use instead. The most frequent proposal calls for linking premiums to individual driving records and experience. While a new system of setting rates would benefit some drivers — people under 25 would no longer pay higher prices just because of their age, for example

Voyager makes closest encounter with Jupiter

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Voyager 1 made its closest encounter with Jupiter after 18 months in space today, flying within 172,744 miles of its colorful, cloudy surface. The spacecraft then began its 20-month cruise to Saturn. Voyager's two television cameras were furiously transmitting never-before-seen pictures back to Earth in the form of radio signals, which scientists develop first into black-and-white, then color prints. However, a problem developed within one of Voyager's 11 scientific instruments, and scientists ordered a temporary shutdown of the device, a photopolarimeter that measures chemical elements above Jupiter, the largest planet in our solar system. "We're always concerned when we have to turn an instrument off," said project scientist Ed Stone, "but we will be turning it back on ... to determine whether the instrument will recover." THE FAILURE OCCURRED while the spacecraft was inside Jupiter's very intense radiation field, which may have caused the problem, Stone said. Stone said the device would be turned back on around 7 p.m. PST today. Dr. Garry E. Hunt of the Voyager photography team said results of the historic approach were outstanding and "the excitement is really tremendous" among National Aeronautics and Space Administration scientists at Jet Propulsion Laboratory. Voyager's pictures showed in great detail the swirling clouds around Jupiter, and also produced several pictures that were surprisingly featureless. Hunt said the pictures were close-ups of brown spots that drift across the Jovian surface. "This may mean we are looking at a very bland area," he said. "It may be featureless, but it may also contain a great amount of new information." THE VOYAGER, curving around Jupiter less than 200,000 miles above the planet's surface, was examining several of the 13 Jovian moons as it sped away to Saturn. Before its closest encounter at 4:42 a.m. PST, Voyager excited scientists by photographing the tiny moon known as Amalthea. The pictures also showed churning clouds and several dark ovals. The pictures, displayed on JPL television monitors, looked like snowdrifts rippled and swirled by the wind. Others showed the spiraling clouds inside Jupiter's Great Red Spot — a centuries-old feature much like a gigantic hurricane. Scientists had worried the Voyager might not be able to locate and photograph Amalthea, the closest of Jupiter's 13 moons. The dim moon looked, in Voyager's picture, like a misshapen and pockmarked boulder. At the moment of closest encounter, the Voyager was transmitting to the NASA tracking station in Canberra, Australia, delaying reception of the pictures and data at JPL. WHILE SAILING CLOSEST to Jupiter, the 1,797-pound spacecraft was pointing its two television cameras not at the planet, but at a dry, rocky moon called Io. Io, about the size of earth's moon, is a major part of the Voyager exploration. Voyager pictures show what look like jagged canyons and craters on Io's surface. Although the unmanned spacecraft's exotic itinerary put the closest approach to Jupiter at 4:42 a.m. PST, Voyager, sailing along at 81,000 mph, actually was crossing that point half an hour earlier. However, radio signals announcing the encounter need more than 37 minutes to travel the 420 million miles to Earth.

Marijuana found on shrimp boat

BAY CITY, Texas (AP) — Two 18-wheel trucks were needed Sunday to haul away from 20 to 30 tons of marijuana found aboard a damaged shrimp boat abandoned on the Colorado River. Matagorda County Sheriff Sam Hurta said the 66-foot Miss Selena out of Key West, Fla., was found abandoned Friday night but that no operators of the vessel had been located. Hurta theorized the shrimp boat was damaged by a floating tree after it had turned back toward the Gulf of Mexico after being unable to pass beneath a bridge. The Coast Guard towed the boat to a dock at the South Texas Project, a nuclear power plant under construction. About 15 employees of a construction firm at the project unloaded what Hurta said was by far the largest marijuana haul in Matagorda County history.

Dollar gains; Gold loses on markets

LONDON (AP) — The dollar gained strength today on world currency markets while gold prices dropped sharply. The U.S. currency closed in Tokyo at 205.175 yen, up from 203.45 yen at Friday's close. It was the highest rate since June 30, when the dollar hit 204 yen. Morning dollar rates in key European financial centers, compared with Friday's late rates: Frankfurt — 1.8603 West German marks, up from 1.8570. Zurich — 1.6773 Swiss francs, up from 1.6765. Paris — 4.29 French francs, up from 4.2838. Amsterdam — 2.0100 guilders, up from 2.0060. Milan — 842.90 lire, up from 841.75. In London, the British pound sold for $2.0197, down from $2.0218 late Friday. Gold dropped $4.50 an ounce in Zurich and London, the main European bullion markets. In Zurich, the metal was trading at $243.625, down from $248.125 dollars at Friday's close. In London, the market's five major dealers fixed the guideline price for the morning trading session at $242.80, down from $247.375 at the close Friday.

Appalachian St. gains NCAA seat

By The Associated Press

Appalachian State certainly doesn't have the glamorous athletic history of the Notre Dames and Marquettes, but the Mountaineers are on equal footing with them — at least for the time being.

They reached that lofty status by winning the Southern Conference playoffs Sunday with an 86-83 victory over Furman and joining the 40-team field in the NCAA playoffs.

"This is the happiest moment of my coaching career," said Appalachian State Coach Bobby Cremins, drenched with champagne in the winners' dressing room. "I can't tell you what a great feeling I have. I've never had such a feeling about our team and I never expected to have such a feeling so early in my coaching career."

Only in his fourth season at Appalachian State, Cremins was able to bring home the school's first Southern Conference title in history. Notre Dame and Marquette, meanwhile, also were bound for the NCAA playoffs, but their springboard into the prestigious post-season tourney was dampened by season-ending losses. Second-ranked Notre Dame was upset by Michigan 62-59 and No. 10 Marquette dropped an 86-83 decision to Nevada-Las Vegas.

ranked Michigan State, which already is assured of a berth in the NCAA tournament, suffered an 83-81 upset to Wisconsin in a Big Ten game Saturday.

In Michigan's upset of Notre Dame, which was nationally televised, Mike McGee and Phil Hubbard combined for 30 points to lead the Wolverines.

Nevada-Las Vegas' freshman Michael Burns scored 17 points and grabbed 14 rebounds to lead the Rebels past Marquette. Burns topped five players in double figures for the Rebels, who also got 15 points from Earl Evans, 14 from Tony Smith, 13 from Richard Box and 12 from Brett Vroman.

MIKE O'KOREN scored 19 points, nine in the final minute, and Dudley Bradley added 16, pacing North Carolina over Duke. Sidney Moncrief converted a critical technical foul free throw and hit a layup with 16 seconds to play as Arkansas beat Texas.

The Kentucky Wildcats, last year's national champions have been beaten 11 times this year, one of their worst showings in history. But, they are one of three Southeastern Conference teams heading to the National Invitational Tournament. The other SEC teams are Mississippi State and Alabama.

There are 24 teams in this year's NIT — the largest in history.

The NIT also included three teams each from the Big Ten Conference and Atlantic Coast Conference. Ohio State, ranked No. 17 in the nation, 19th-ranked Purdue and Indiana were selected from the Big Ten while Maryland, Clemson and Virginia were picked from the ACC.

With Texas A&M and Texas Tech, the Southwest Conference was the only other league that had more than one representative.

The remainder of the NIT field included Oregon State, New Mexico, Nevada-Reno, St. Joseph's, Northeast Louisiana, undefeated Alcorn State, the loser of the Toledo-Central Michigan playoff game, and six independents — Wagner, Rhode Island, Old Dominion, St. Bonaventure, Holy Cross and Dayton.

The NIT is scheduled to open Wednesday night with first-round games in seven sites and continue with five more Thursday night.

OTHER TOP-RANKED teams taking bids for NCAA playoff victories during the weekend were:

Top-ranked Indiana State, which won the Missouri Valley Conference playoff Saturday with a 69-59 decision over New Mexico State; third-ranked UCLA defeated Stanford 99-71 to win the Pacific-10 Conference championship; No. 7 North Carolina won the Atlantic Coast Conference playoffs with a 71-63 decision over No. 5 Duke; No. 9 Arkansas defeated No. 14 Texas 39-38 in the final of the Southwest Conference tournament, and Tennessee defeated Kentucky 75-69 in overtime in the final of the first Southeastern Conference basketball tournament in 27 years.

Also, Georgetown, the nation's 16th-ranked team, nailed down an at-large berth with a 66-58 decision over No. 6 Syracuse in the East Coast Athletic Conference's Upstate New York-Southern championship. And fourth-

Byman captures first tour title

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The first two times Bob Byman attempted to gain his playing rights on the American pro golf tour, he failed.

"It was," he said, "a blessing in disguise."

After the first failure, he played the mini-tours, and won a couple of tournaments. After the second, he and wife Michelle packed up and went to Europe. In 1977, he won the Dutch and Scandinavian Opens and, later in the year, won the New Zealand Open.

"Those were definite stepping stones," he said after scoring his first American victory Sunday with a par on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff against John Schroeder in the Bay Hill Citrus Classic.

"I had to have those stepping stones, that experience, to be able to handle the pressures and the demands of this tournament. I'm not sure I could have won without that experience. Probably not," said the 23-year-old Byman.

Byman, who won his American playing rights last spring, had a one-shot lead going into the final round but dropped back into a tie with Schroeder at 278, six-under-par, with a bogey-bogey finish in regulation play. Byman played the last round in par 71. Schroeder came in at 70 despite a double bogey seven on the 12th hole where, "obviously I lost the golf tournament," he said.

Byman had a chance to win it on the first extra hole but missed a 6-foot birdie putt. On the next hole, Schroeder missed the green short and right, then failed on a 5-foot, par-saving putt while Byman got down in two putts for the par that won it.

"I got what I deserved," said Schroeder.

Hale Irwin, Bill Rogers and Andy Bean, who led through the first two rounds, missed the playoff by a single shot at 279. All had a chance to make it on the last hole. Rogers and Bean missed with bogeys and Irwin failed on a birdie putt that would have put him in.

It was another four shots back to Tom Watson and five others tied at 283. Watson had a closing 72.

Host Palmer struggled to an 80, including 43 on the back side and nine on the last hole, for 294 before heading for a television tower. "I should have stayed in the tower," he said.

Sally Little claims Bent Tree Classic

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Nancy Lopez played well in Sunday's final round of a $100,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament. But she was one of the first to agree that Sally Little played better.

Little birdied four holes — four on the back nine — for a 67 final round and a 10-under-par 278 total to win $15,000 first money and the Bent Tree Classic tournament.

Lopez was two strokes back on the 6,106-yard, par-72 course. She carded a 68 for a 280 total and $9,800 second-place money.

This tournament was the first of five that Lopez won last year which helped the 22-year-old pro be named the Associated Press female athlete of 1978.

"I played well today," said Lopez, "but I had those three bogeys that were dumb bogeys."

She began the final round tied in second place one stroke behind Little and Dale Lundquist. Lundquist, though, wound up third — tied with JoAnn Washam — at 282.

Lopez birdied four holes on the front nine and bogeyed one. Little had a solo birdie for the first nine.

The 13th hole, 357 yards and a par 4, was the turning point for Little and Lopez. Little used a 3-iron on her approach shot and put the ball 20 feet from the pin, and sank the putt.

Lopez had a longer drive but her approach from about 100 yards out came as the wind suddenly shifted. She fell 20 feet short of the green and bogeyed.

"When she bogeyed 13 it gave me a lift," said the jubilant Little, a South African native. "That was a mental mistake, I think, for her."

Challenge match has change

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Sweden's Bjorn Borg will play American John McEnroe at Randers, in a $60,000 challenge match Friday after Borg refused to go through with a scheduled encounter with his teenage rival in Sweden, a Danish tennis promoter announced here.

Promoter Ole Frederiksen said the hosty switch of sites to Randers from Gothenburg, Sweden, was arranged at Borg's request. It was somehow connected with the way some Swedish newspapers handled the news last week of threats against Borg's life. Frederiksen said he understood Borg was so angered that he vowed not to play in Sweden again this year.

The Swedish tennis ace was under police protection during tournaments in Italy and Austria after the threats, purportedly by Italy's Red Brigades. An anonymous letter to Swedish news media said the Brigades sentenced Borg to die for posing for cameramen in an Israeli army uniform in Israel.

Two days off for Phoenix Suns puts spark in player's engine

By The Associated Press

Phoenix Coach John MacLeod gave his team a couple of days off, and managed to spark a pro basketball player's engine.

"We had a horrible game Friday night," said Suns center Alvan Adams. "Coach told us to forget about it and he'd give us the next two days off, so we should let it all out Sunday."

That's exactly what the Suns did — romping past the Philadelphia 76ers 119-94 before a national television audience. The Suns shot 50 percent from the field, forced 38 turnovers and made 20 steals.

"This was by far our best game," said Adams, who contributed 23 points to the Phoenix attack. "I don't think there are many teams who are going to beat us if we play like we played today."

In the second half of the National Basketball Association's national TV doubleheader, the Denver Nuggets rallied to defeat the Los Angeles Lakers 113-99. In other games, the Washington Bullets nipped the San Antonio Spurs 129-128, the Golden State Warriors edged the Kansas City Kings 111-110 in overtime, the Seattle SuperSonics beat the Houston Rockets 119-109, the Portland Trail Blazers trimmed the Cleveland Cavaliers 106-102 and the Milwaukee Bucks outscored the Boston Celtics 135-122.

Phoenix broke its game open by outscoring the 76ers 34-15 in the second quarter to lead 64-44 at halftime. In that period, the Suns shot 65 percent from the field, had seven steals and forced 10 turnovers. Walter Davis led the Suns with 26 points.

Lakers 113, Nuggets 99
Los Angeles led throughout until Denver edged in front 84-82 with 10:10 to play. The Nuggets went on the offense the Lakers 36-20 in the final period, scoring repeatedly on fast breaks. Dan Issel led Denver with 25 points.

Warriors 111, Kings 110 (OT)
Clifford Ray sank a pair of free throw with 14 seconds left in overtime to give Golden State a 111-108 lead, but Sam Lacey cut the deficit to one with a layup with four seconds remaining. The Kings forced a jump ball and gained possession but were unable to get a shot off before the buzzer.

Bullets 129, Spurs 128
Tom Henderson scored six points in the last 20 seconds as Washington held off San Antonio and ended the Spurs' four-game winning streak. Elvin Hayes scored 32 for the Bullets.

Blazers 106, Cavaliers 102
Rookie Mychal Thompson hit 10 of 15 shots from the field and scored 25 points. The Blazers saw a 17-point lead shrink to one before Larry Steele hit three free throws in the final 1:20 to pull it out.

Bucks 135, Celtics 122
Marques Johnson hit on 15 of 22 field goal attempts and scored 36 points and the Bucks made all 23 of their tries from the foul line.

Sonics 119, Rockets 109
Seattle outscored Houston 16-6 in the final 5:39 to win. Lonnie Shelton scored a season-high 28 points for the Sonics.

Chris Evert falls to Navratilova

DALLAS (AP) — Martina Navratilova, despite her convincing victory over Chris Evert in the finals of a $200,000 tennis tournament here Sunday, isn't ready to lay claim on being No. 1 in women's tennis.

"I'm No. 1 for this week, but it's going to take a long time. Chris worked at being No. 1 for five years. Last year, I wasn't a clear No. 1, so they gave it to her. It's like fighting Ali. You have to beat him clearly," Navratilova said.

NAV RATILOVA convinced a standing-room-only crowd of .0.125, however. She took only 72 minutes to dispose of Evert 6-4, 6-4 and yielded only eight points while on serve; half of them came on Evert's only service break.

"Right now, Martina is higher emotionally. She was hungrier," Evert, the 24-year-old U.S. Open champ, said after the loss.

"I don't know if it was whether she had never won in Dallas, or because her grandmother was here. If she's only 98 percent, I'm the better player. But today she was 100 percent," Evert said.

Navratilova's grandmother, 84-year-old grandmother, Anel Schberetova, was permitted a visa from Czechoslovakia to see her granddaughter play tennis.

Navratilova, a 1975 defector from Czechoslovakia, seemed determined to control the play on every point. She carried Chris to deuce three times in one game and four times in another and rebutted numerous Evert shots with well placed volleys.

"I hit everything well. Chris hit some very hard shots that usually would have been sure winners, that I was able to volley. I seemed to outguess her today," she said.

It was their third battle of the current tour. Navratilova won 7-5, 7-5 at Oakland, and Evert won 6-3, 6-4 at Chicago.

"She was getting more first serves in than usual. On her second serve, I feel I can get into a rally better," Evert said.

Navratilova missed on her first serve only three times in the first set, winning five games by love and giving up only one point in the other. Her serve was so overpowering she was able time after time to rush the net and put away Evert's return.

She said she's glad to have this victory behind her, because of the media and other people who kept pointing out she'd never won in Dallas. Her adopted home in the United States.

Navratilova won $35,000 and Evert $17,000 from the match.

Tracy Austin won third place, beating Virginia Wade, 6-3, in a one-set match that preceded the championship singles match.

The tournament closed with the championship doubles match, won by Navratilova and Anne Smith by 7-6, 6-2 over Evert and Rosie Casals.

Maurice Hope to plot move

LONDON (AP) — Maurice Hope, Britain's new world light-middleweight boxing champion, will not be rushed into a quick defense of the title.

Hope, who defeated Italy's Rocky Mattioli in San Remo Sunday to take the World Boxing Council crown, announced Monday he plans extensive discussion with his manager, Terry Lawless, before plotting his next move.

Antigua-born Hope, 27, will therefore not automatically be taking a fight against unbeaten American Sugar Ray Leonard, the former Olympic champion, who has already been mentioned as a possible opponent.

Mattioli retired at the start of the ninth round of his third title defense with a broken wrist he suffered when knocked down in the opening round. It was his first defeat since 1975.

Lawless said: "We shall not be rushing into the next fight. We shall have a long discussion as to how we should plot out Maurice's future campaign."

Italian claims that Mattioli should be given an immediate rematch were dampened by Ray Clark, secretary of the British Boxing Board of Control.

"We had to wait nearly two years for a crack at Mattioli's title, and now it is his turn to wait," said Clark.

London-based Hope is the only Briton to currently hold a world boxing title. He was greeted enthusiastically by the British press.

Colin Hart of The Sun wrote: "Rocky Mattioli, his spirit and pride completely destroyed, quit at the end of the eighth round. It was total victory for Hope, who left the world champion a battered shell. Mattioli had been jabbed and hooked to a standstill in what must have been the most one-sided world championship ever."

Daily Express boxing writer Sydney Hills said: "Hope gave a good imitation of perpetual motion. There was no doubt Mattioli was a very puzzled and hurt fighter."

John Rodda of the Guardian was equally impressed by Hope's performance. "Hope overwhelmed him (Mattioli) with his skill, his relentless punching, and took at least six of the rounds. Hope offered a performance which he had never before revealed in the competitive ring."

Rebs travel, Bulldogs open

Coach Ernie Johnson's Midland Rebel baseball team travels to Pecos today for a 7 p.m. contest with the Class AAA Eagles while Midland High's Bulldogs are idle until Tuesday.

Lee takes a 3-1 record into tonight's game after splitting a doubleheader over the weekend with Lubbock Coronado, losing the opener, 8-5, but coming back strongly for a 10-3 victory in the nightcap. A triple play with the bases loaded in the top of the seventh inning, turned Lee away against Coronado in the 8-5 loss.

The Rebels beat Hobbs, N.M., 5-2 and 19-2 earlier in the week. Midland, meanwhile, takes a 2-0 record into Tuesday's home opener with the Snyder Tigers at the Memorial Stadium diamond. The Bulldogs pounded Lubbock Monterey, 16-12, and Lubbock High, 17-6, as Coach Larry Peel's Pack had 14 hits in the Monterey contest and 15 more in the Lubbock High tilt which was originally set up as a doubleheader, but the second game was called off due to the length of the first game along with the cold, windy weather.

Lee also returns to the Tall City Tuesday to play Coronado for the third time this season with both games set for 4 p.m. On Thursday, the Rebels and Bulldogs square off in the opening game of the 5th annual Tournament of Champions at Cubs Stadium with the first pitch set for 7 p.m. Other teams in this year's tourney include Duncanville, Monterey and R.L. Turner High of Carrollton.

On Friday, Duncanville and Turner tangle in the 11 a.m. game while Monterey takes on the winner of the Lee-MHS game at 1:30 p.m. Two more games on Friday round out play with five games set for Saturday. It is a double elimination tourney which means a team can come up through the loser's bracket and win the championship.

NHL shakes doldrums

By The Associated Press

The Philadelphia Flyers and a couple of other National Hockey League clubs snapped out of the doldrums this weekend.

"I think we're gaining some confidence. It's a pleasant start toward the playoffs," said Flyers Coach Pat Quinn after Philadelphia thrashed the Buffalo Sabres 6-1 Sunday night.

The Boston Bruins, who had been having troubles winning late, completed a successful weekend with a 6-4 triumph over the Red Wings at Detroit.

"We're starting to put the puck in the net again," said Boston Coach Don Cherry, whose Bruins beat Minnesota 4-0 Saturday before beating the Red Wings.

The same might be said for the Toronto Maple Leafs, who scored a pair of weekend victories after Coach Roger Neilson was reinstated. Neilson was fired Friday and rehired Saturday after the players voted to ask team owner Harold Ballard if Neilson could have his job back.

The Leafs beat Philadelphia 4-3 Saturday and downed the New York Rangers 4-2 Sunday night.

In other NHL games Sunday, the Washington Capitals edged the Minnesota North Stars 5-4, the Pittsburgh Penguins drubbed the Colorado Rockies 7-2 and the Los Angeles Kings nipped the Vancouver Canucks 3-2.

Flyers 6, Sabres 1
Mel Bridgman scored twice and linemate Bob Kelly had a goal and two assists to power Philadelphia past Buffalo. The Flyers have lost just one of their last seven games.

Bruins 6, Red Wings 4
The Bruins got the game-winning goal from Wayne Cashman with 5:36 left in the chaotic first period. Detroit led 2-0 on goals 53 seconds apart by Dan Labraaten and Errol Thompson before the Bruins scored four goals in 4:17. The Red Wings came back to tie the contest with 1:33 apart before Cashman connected.

Maple Leafs 4, Rangers 2
Toronto got goals from Lanny McDonald and Dan Maloney in a 58-second span of the second period to win. The Maple Leafs were outshot 35-16 and got just two power plays.

Capitals 5, North Stars 4
The North Stars tied the game 4-4 when Mike Fidler scored with 35 seconds remaining, but Washington's Bob Sirois scored his second goal of the contest with 13 seconds left to win it for the Caps.

Penguins 7, Rockies 2
Orest Kindrachuk scored three goals and Rod Schutt had two to carry Pittsburgh past Colorado. The Rockies have lost 12 of the last 13.

Kings 3, Canucks 2
Steve Jensen, Dave Taylor and Mike Murphy scored the goals that lifted Los Angeles over Vancouver.

New Jersey is no longer laughing stock of NBA

PISCATAWAY, N.J. (AP) — They were laughed at for more than two years. Their owner was deep in debt, they won just 46 of 164 games.

The New Jersey Nets, playing in relative privacy on Long Island and then Piscataway, were an embarrassment to the National Basketball Association.

But times have changed. The Nets no longer are a joke, but they still are cause for embarrassment. For the New York Knicks.

Barring serious injury or a resurgence by the Boston Celtics or the Knicks, the Nets are going to make the playoffs for the first time since they joined the NBA in 1976.

For two years, everything went wrong for the Nets that possibly could. At the gate, on the court, in the front office, they were a mess. Before the club was sold last summer, they were in danger of folding.

But New Jersey, with fresh capital and an improved squad, has played .500 ball this season and holds a comfortable margin for the final playoff spot. The Nets have sent out letters to season ticket holders to reserve playoff tickets.

And the Knicks, who have treated the Nets like their private farm club, stand to lose the most by New Jersey's improvement. The teams are separated by less than 50 miles and share many of the same fans.

"There is a high level intensity when we play the Knicks," said Nets guard Eddie Jordan. "The fans cheer for us now instead of the Knicks. The fans like a winner and we're on top of them. There's nothing wrong with that, I like a winner, too."

Consider what the NBA and the Knicks have taken from the Nets since the merger 2 1/2 seasons back and it's not hard to see why what is a natural rivalry has become intense.

The Nets were hit with a $3.2 million entrance fee to join the NBA. They were assessed an additional $3.8 million territorial infringement for intruding on the Knicks' territory.

Selling star forward Julius Erving to the Philadelphia 76ers was a direct offshoot of former owner Roy Boes' inability to meet these payments.

Pete Rose beats Bowa to punch

By THOMAS BOSWELL

The Washington Post
CLEARWATER, Fla. — Pete Rose arose before the sun Wednesday. At 6:30 a.m. he stood outside the Philadelphia Phillies training complex here — proving a point and winning a bet.

For years, Larry Bowa has been the first Phil to report on the first day of training camp. The little insomniac shortstop often appeared at the Clearwater gates at 8 a.m. for the 10 a.m. workout.

That was Bowa's hustling, scrappy style, a mode of operation he proudly admitted he had stolen from his only baseball hero — Pete Rose. "I'll be the first Phillie to report this year," Rose said casually a few days ago.

"I bet you won't," answered the feisty Bowa as he, Rose and a couple of other Phils headed for Las Vegas for a final offseason holiday.

Bowa returned from Vegas early just to keep his vow. Rose called him from the Strip Tuesday night at midnight. "You can relax," said Rose to Bowa. "You win. You'll be there before me."

SO WHAT happened? When Bowa wandered into the deserted Phils' clubhouse at 7:40 a.m. — 20 minutes earlier than ever just to make sure — who was standing by Bowa's locker, in his new Phillie garb, but a red-eyed, grinning Pete Rose.

"Geez, it ain't fair," said Bowa. He must get here by 6 a.m.

Well, almost. Rose grabbed an early all-night non-stop flight from Vegas to Tampa — landing as Rose put it, "about two minutes late at 5:23 a.m."

"I went and changed clothes," said Rose. "then figured I'd wander on out to the park... didn't have nothin' else to do. Got here about 7:30... just a couple minutes before that crazy Bowa, I guess."

"Come again, Pete?"
"Rose was here at 6:30, at least, said an amused veteran Phil official. When the trainer got here to open the place, Pete was waiting outside."

Since the day Rose signed a four-year, $3.2 million contract with the Phils in December, he has sworn that he would demonstrate to them how to be world champions.

Russians help out tourists

The Los Angeles Times

LOS ANGELES — The Russians have come around with a somewhat better deal for American tourists wanting to attend the 1980 Olympics in Moscow.

A few weeks ago, an American arranging such a tour had to sign a paper recognizing that there was no guarantee of a total tour price or specific hotels or a specific airline to get there or any particular number or type of Olympics tickets.

Not only that, but if the tourist had to cancel out, no specific refunds of the $1,550 in deposits required by Sept. 15 were guaranteed.

But now, according to an announcement by the authorized American travel agent for the Moscow games, some of this has been altered to the tourists' advantage. The new conditions were established in talks Feb. 3 with Intourist, the Soviet travel organization.

The new contract says that by Dec. 31 of this year, a specific class of accommodation, a schedule for air transportation and the number and type of Olympics tickets available for the tourist's purchase will be guaranteed.

This still includes no precise hotel or airline. But if a person who has purchased the tour doesn't like the sound of the package, he will have a month — until Feb. 1, 1980 — to cancel out. Upon cancellation, he would receive back all but $195 of his original deposit.

This arrangement also takes care of those who may be dissatisfied with the total tour price. The balance after the $1,550 deposits are paid will be payable Jan. 15, 1980, so a person not desiring to pay will be able to back out on the same terms.

But the total tour price is not expected to be too rude a shock. Current estimates by the travel agent are that it will not exceed $1,900, so the final payment should not exceed $350.

E. Wallace Lawrence, president of the Russian Travel Bureau, the New York company that is the U.S. marketer of tours to the 1980 games, said the new contracts will apply not only to persons signing up for the tours from now on, but also to those who signed up under the less advantageous original contract.

There will be no refunds, however, if the American team should decide to boycott the games and some American tourists decide at that time not to go.

"The men who know tires best!"

Angels set for season, but still need shortstop

By ROSS NEWHAN
The Los Angeles Times

The Angels have opened their 19th and most promising training camp in Palm Springs, having been deprived of 13 days in downtown Holtville by labor unrest in the lettuce industry of Southern California's Imperial Valley.

While most players look on the neon and fairways of Palm Springs as far more entertaining than the Holtville crop dusters, the club will not have the facilities (there are only 1-2 diamonds in Palm Springs) to work on fundamentals that it would have had in Holtville, where the minor league complex consists of four diamonds and many batting cages.

But if this is a setback of sorts, it hasn't dampened Angel optimism. "I certainly believe we have a definite shot at winning it," manager Jim Fregosi said the other day. "I think we have the best team in the American League West."

FIVE MONTHS ago the Angels closed out their most successful season (a second-place tie with an 87-75 record) in somber and emotional fashion, attempting to cope with the death of outfielder Lyman Bostock.

The ensuing additions of outfielder Dan Ford, pitcher Jim Barr and, of course, first baseman Rod Carew has rehabilitated the club both spiritually and substantively.

Now Fregosi has a team that seems set everywhere except on the bench and at shortstop, where 23-year-old Rance Mulliniks will get first chance to bat ninth in a lineup that currently reads: Rick Miller, center field; Carney Lansford, third base; Carew, first base; Ford, right field; Don Baylor, designated hitter; Joe Rudi, left field; Brian Downing, catcher, and Bobby Grich, second base.

Mulliniks failed when given a similar opportunity last April but may have regained his equilibrium while batting .307 at Salt Lake City, Utah. Also available are veteran Dave Chalk, who underwent knee surgery after performing in a steady fashion as last year's regular at shortstop; sophomore Jim Anderson, who played in an equally steady manner after Chalk was hurt, and (stop me if you've heard this before) the oft-tested Orlando Ramirez.

WILLIE MAYS Aikens, a designated hitter-first baseman who hit 29 homers and drove in 110 runs at Salt Lake City, will be given a long look, as will 23-year-old center fielder Bob Clark, who hit 31 homers and drove in 111 runs at El Paso, Texas. If there are things yet to be determined, it is what Fregosi already knows (or believes he knows) that has him excited.

He says that the addition of seven-time batting champion Carew and Ford, who drove in 287 runs in his four seasons with Minnesota, should have a galvanic effect on the rest of the lineup, while considerably enhancing team speed.

He says that the addition of Barr, handicapped in San Francisco by the lack of a definite assignment, will provide the bullpen with a right-handed short man, complementing left-hander Dave LaRoche.

And he says that in Nolan Ryan, Frank Tanana, Chris Knapp, Dave Frost and Don Aase, he has the best rotation in the Western Division and one of the best in baseball. He says it emphatically, even though the club will keep a careful eye on the renowned Ryan and Tanana this spring.

TANANA USED guile rather than his once-vaunted fastball to win 18 games last year, admitting in September finally that an arm injury late in 1977 had retained some soreness. Ryan, meanwhile, was 10-13 while sitting out two long stretches with injuries.

"Nolan is the old man of our pitching staff and he's only 31," Fregosi said. "I think we have to throw out last year and look for Nolan to bounce back big. Tanana, too, is still only 25 even though we sometimes talk about him as if he's some kind of aging veteran. He proved last year he can win without his best stuff, and on the couple of occasions I saw him this winter he was throwing with a nice and easy motion."

"At any rate, I'm not apprehensive because I think our three other guys are all capable of winning 15 games. I don't think there's a team anywhere with three young right-handers of the potential of Knapp, Frost and Aase."

It was Knapp, Frost and Aase who most often won the games that kept the Angels in the race late last year.

"Even before we made the trades this winter," said Fregosi, "I thought we ended the season as the division's best team. I don't say that at that point we had the best talent, but that we were the best team in the sense we were unified and knew what our goal was."

"And even without the trades, I felt we would be improved. I based that on the way Grich played during the final month (after a season-long struggle following spinal surgery), on the experience Lansford and the young pitchers had received and on the way Rudi bounced back (he had 73 of his 79 RBI after Fregosi took over in June)."

NOW, OF course, the trades have been made and Fregosi believes he has the best talent, too.

"The important thing," he said, "is that our players now believe we have a team of championship caliber. The only thing I have to do is make sure they're in shape mentally and physically, that the commitment is the same as it was at the end of last year."

"The kind of club I'm looking for is the kind of club where there's no undue pressure on any one player. I can't stop the publicity but I definitely believe that as much as Rod Carew will mean to this club he can't be considered the messiah. No one player or pitcher can carry a team. It takes a combined effort."

The Angels were 62-54 under Fregosi and many believe that the record would have been much poorer if his less authoritative predecessor, Dave Garcia, had remained at the helm. Fregosi seemed to supply discipline, leadership and a sense of tradition, operating from respect rather than rules.

Parker finally shows up

BRADENTON, Fla. — Dave Parker, Pittsburgh's $4.5 million outfielder, showed up for spring training — 48 hours late — Saturday and ran into a torrent of friendly abuse from his teammates.

The sternest barbs came from Phil Garner, the 5-foot-10, 177-pound infielder who carries on a running "feud" with the 6-5, 239-pound Parker throughout the season.

"Oh, the great man is here — now we can start playing baseball," Garner bellowed as Parker donned his gold and black uniform. "Here we have been busting our butts for two days and now you show up after taking it easy for the last two days. You say you got a sore throat. Five years ago you would have been here early with a sore throat or a broken leg."

PARKER POINTED to 37-ounce bats on top of his locker and retorted: "I got these two weapons to say that I am playing baseball this year. Talk to me in October. It's the bottom line that counts. I've got the stats."

Garner said, "I know what you've been doing, gorging yourself on those Big Macs."

"Not Big Macs — T-bone steaks, nothing but T-bone steaks. Food fit for the richest and best player in baseball," Parker said.

Dr. James Finegold watched the locker room by-play and smiled.

"Things are back to normal now," said Finegold. "This is the way it happens all the time. If we were in Pittsburgh you could hear Parker three blocks away."

Scores of fans and a battery of newsmen and photographers were on the scene Thursday, the official opening day of Pittsburgh practice, principally to await the arrival of Parker. They cooled their heels for three hours and finally were notified by the club that the gargantuan outfielder was "under the weather" and would not report until Saturday.

THERE HAD been no previous notification that the team's star would not appear on time.

"I had strep throat, tonsillitis," Parker explained. "Anybody who can't understand that has to be a sadist. If I am sick I can't play."

"Everybody knows that I am aggressive, the hardest working man on the team and when time comes I will be ready."

Answering a query that his absence might hurt the public relations of the Pirates, who are struggling for better attendance, Parker said: "I signed to play baseball. I don't work out of the public relations office. I am getting what I deserve but I will do anything possible to help sell tickets. But it is ridiculous to make a big issue because I am a couple of days late."

Jimmy Connors finds himself in an awkward position Sunday in a match against Arthur Ashe, but Jimmy recovered to win the U. S. National Indoor Tennis title in Memphis. (AP Laserphoto)

Connors defeats Ashe

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Jimmy Connors, who was expected to announce today his marriage to former Playboy magazine Playmate of the Year Patti McGuire, has achieved another tennis milestone.

Connors defeated veteran Arthur Ashe 6-4, 5-7, 6-3 Sunday to win a record-tying fifth U.S. National Indoor Tennis Championship. The last man to win the national indoor title five times was Wylie Grant early in the century.

Shortly afterward, according to a tournament official, Connors was stricken with nausea. He did not appear for the customary post-match interview at the Racquet Club and was unavailable to talk about his marital status.

McGuire, who watched Connors' matches from courtside, left the club with him. Tournament director Tommy Buford said they had been flown by private plane to Connors' home in Belleville, Ill.

"He seems to have the same 24-hour thing that's been sweeping through here," said Buford. "If it had gotten him half an hour earlier, we wouldn't have had a final because when it hits, it hits really hard."

Connors did not appear to be sick during the match, the second time in five weeks he has beaten Ashe in a big final. He also won a tough three-setter at the U.S. Pro Indoor in Philadelphia.

In his brief victory remarks before leaving the court, Connors said, "I want to congratulate Arthur. No, let me put it another way. I had to bring out everything I had. I had to move great, play great, do everything great to beat him."

Ashe was visibly disappointed at failing to capture the only U.S. tennis title he never has won.

"I wanted to win this very badly," he said unsmilingly. "But I guess No. 2 is the next best thing."

Connors won $40,000, minus $250 he was fined early in the week for making an obscene gesture. After that, he took to wiggling his pinky at linesmen who ruled against him on close calls and also at disapproving spectators.

The 35-year-old Ashe won $20,000. The top-seeded doubles team of Dutchman Tom Okker and Poland's Wojtek Fibak won $13,000 for beating fourth-seeded Frew McMillan of South Africa and Dick Stockton of the United States 6-4, 6-4. The losers split $6,500.

Crash causes stock controversy

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — Cale Yarborough and Donnie Allison seemed willing to chalk up a pulverizing eight-car pileup they triggered in Sunday's Carolina 500 stock car race to the breaks of the game, but some of their colleagues weren't.

Three drivers made trips to the hospital — all were treated and released — because of the crash early in the race. More than $200,000 worth of racing equipment was badly mangled. Allison's car owner, Hoss Ellington, had two cars demolished.

"As far as I'm concerned it was just a racing accident," Yarborough said, expressing a view also aired by NASCAR Competition Director Bill Gazaway. "I didn't do it on purpose and Donnie didn't do it on purpose. If you want to blame somebody, blame the race track. It was a slippery track and hard to pass on."

However, eventual winner Bobby Allison and Richard Petty, driving in relief of rookie Joe Millikan who finished second, put on a dazzling five-lap display of side-by-side racing late in the event that shot down any suggestion that kind of maneuver was impossible without crashing cars.

To observers in the officials' stand a quarter-mile away it appeared Donnie Allison made a clean move to the inside to pass Yarborough for the lead going into turn three on the 10th lap when the contact occurred. But those directly behind the accident had a different view.

"Donnie made a clean move to the inside," said Petty, whose opinion is highly respected in the sport. "But Cale cut down on him and forced Donnie down on the apron."

Petty called Yarborough's move "another misjudgment in driving" and "totally uncalled for."

Asked if he moved down on the track to block a little Yarborough replied testily, "I was leading the race, wasn't I?"

Donnie Allison said: "It was a racing accident. My wheels got down on the apron and I went into Cale's car."

In addition to the cars of Yarborough, Petty and Donnie Allison, involved in the wreck were Daryl Waltrip, Buddy Baker, Neil Bonnett, Dale Earnhardt and Ricky Rudd. Baker, Bonnett and Petty were all checked and released from hospitals after the crash.

Decline in housing starts could bring mortgage cost cuts

NEW YORK (AP) - Favorable news on several international fronts helped inspire a broad rally in the stock market today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 8.49 at 824.27. Gainers outnumbered losers by a 3-1 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts listed a series of influences behind the rally: -The Chinese announcement of withdrawal of forces from Vietnam after more than two weeks of border fighting.

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - "At some point the (housing) price increases become intolerable," said Joseph Benedict, a mortgage lender. He reflected, "Nobody knows where that point is," he said. "I wish I knew."

You might think Benedict should know, because he heads a savings and loan association as well as the U.S. League of Savings Associations, whose members make most of the home mortgage loans. But he doesn't.

Change opposed in election law

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The Mexican-American Legislative Caucus said today it opposes any election law change that allows a presidential primary to be held on a date other than the general primary election.

Shooters to stage indoor archery tourney

The Midland Shooter's Association will hold an indoor archery tournament Sunday, March 11, at the Midland County Exhibit Building on East Highway 80.

What Benedict and most other housing people are saying in effect, is that "intolerable" is immeasurable.

Parents enter the picture too, it not being unusual for them to remortgage their own home, with its greatly appreciated value, in order to lend or give youngsters the down payment on a home of their own.

What Benedict and most other housing people are saying in effect, is that "intolerable" is immeasurable. They've got a fair idea of the limits of ability to pay. But they just don't know about willingness.

Most Midlanders take fuel availability lightly

Future shortages of gasoline and diesel fuels are a possibility that most Midlanders appeared today to be taking with a grain of salt.

Administration's energy fever runs high, then low

WASHINGTON (AP) - Take it from the White House: there's no energy crisis right now. President Carter said the other day that the current oil price and supply situation is serious but not critical.

An AP Analysis

Only 19 percent rated it good to excellent, while 44 percent called it only fair. Four percent of the 1,600 people in the nationwide survey said they weren't sure.

Jury selection process begun

PRYOR, Okla. (AP) - The first-degree murder trial of Gene Leroy Hart, charged in the sex-slayings of three young Girl Scouts, was delayed today as the judge met with about 175 prospective jurors.
