Villot dies

VATICAN CITY (AP) — French Cardinal Jean Villot, Vatican secretary of state for the past 10 years, died in his apartment Friday evening, the Holy See announced. He was 73.

The Rev. Romeo Panciroli, a Vatican spokesman, said Villot died at his Vatican quarters an hour after he was taken there from a Rome hospital.

Funeral arrangements are to be announced today.

Increase sought

CHICAGO (AP) — United Airlines, the nation's largest air carrier, announced Friday it plans to file for a 4 percent fare increase on March 16 to match an increase sought by American Airlines.

Ed Williams, a spokesman for United, said the company filed a petition with the Civil Aeronautics Board last Wednesday seeking a 1.2 percent increase. The proposal was boosted to 4 percent after United learned of American's request.

Repair asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland asked farmers Friday to contribute money to repair damage caused by protesting farmers at the National Mall. "So no one could charge that farmers have become a public burden."

Bergland, revising earlier estimates, said it would cost $950,000 to repair the damage, including extensive resodding on the eastern half of the Mall, an extensive grassy area flanked by the Smithsonian museum complex and bounded by the Lincoln Memorial and the Capitol.

Contract OK'd

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Firefighters approved a contract by a 3-1 margin, union officials said Friday night, heading off the threat of another disruptive strike as the city recovers from a 16-day police walkout.

"I think the result of the police strike had a calming effect on the membership. We had a lot of strike fever going around two weeks ago," said Clarence J. Perez, president of the Fire Fighters Association of New Orleans, which is affiliated with the AFL-CIO.

China accused of moving troops farther into Vietnamese territory

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vietnamese broadcasts accused Chinese troops of advancing on Vietnam territory Friday and said China's earlier announcement of a withdrawal was "a tactic to wait for fresh troops to replace the exhausted soldiers."

Hanoi's official Voice of Vietnam radio station had said Thursday the Chinese were withdrawing "very slowly and in very small numbers." But in two commentaries Friday, it said Chinese troops actually were advancing and Peking was using its announcements of a pullout as "a smoke screen to prepare for new military adventures."

It was difficult to determine whether the angry words from Hanoi were part of a propaganda ploy or reflected the possibility of an outbreak of large-scale fighting. Some Western analysts said it was possible that in some areas the two sides may have lost control of their troops.

Vietnam, in its strongest statement in recent days, charged China was playing tricks by announcing its withdrawal Monday from Vietnam while it was merely rotating troops.

And China accused Vietnam, which had said it would allow Chinese troops to withdraw peacefully, of firing on the withdrawing Chinese.

Indochina watchers here, who have noted the difficulty of getting accurate and timely information on the war, differed on the scale and nature of the fighting. One source said sharp clashes were continuing in some frontier areas, including Lang Son, Dong Dang, Cam Duong and Phuc Hoa. This source said the Vietnamese appeared to be taking a rather aggressive role, using long-range artillery in some areas and moving up equipment and soldiers by convoy to Lang Son.

Another Western analyst said the fighting was minor and that the Vietnamese were allowing the Chinese to withdraw peacefully.

Hanoi Radio, meanwhile, reiterated that peace talks could not begin until all Chinese forces left Vietnam.

There were no new reports from Japanese government officials who had said Thursday they were mediating the dispute.

One broadcast from Hanoi called the Chinese "worse than the French and Americans," and accused Peking's soldiers of burning houses, destroying communication lines and stealing everything in sight, "even women's underwear."

The latest battle report from Hanoi said heavy fighting continued near the provincial capital of Lang Son on Thursday. Hanoi said the Chinese had blasted the city into rubble with artillery.

A Vietnam News Agency correspondent gave this description of Lang Son, which is 80 miles northeast of Hanoi:

"Everywhere we went we could see entangled electric wires, broken posts and heaps of broken bricks where stood the stadium, the park, the hotel, the thermo-electric power plant and the engineering factory."

Trip's outcome still uncertain

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP) — President Carter, uncertain whether his Mideast journey will end in success, said Friday he will go to Israel with "some differences remaining" in the quest for a peace treaty between Egypt and Israel.

U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance will stay in the region for up to a week to work out the differences if there is no agreement, or to explain it to Jordan and Saudi Arabia if there is, The Associated Press learned.

"We still have some problems, obviously," Carter said as he rode with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat on a slow-moving train from Cairo to this ancient Mediterranean city.

"President Sadat genuinely wants peace, so do I. So does Prime Minister Begin. We don't know yet what will happen until we get through the talks."

After their arrival, Carter, Sadat and their advisers sat down for another round of negotiations. Then they planned to attend a state dinner at Ras El Tin, the oldest palace in Egypt. Carter will spend the night there. He returns to Cairo by helicopter on Saturday before leaving for Israel.

Meanwhile, a U.S. official held out the possibility that after Carter talks to Israeli officials he may return to Cairo on Tuesday if treaty agreement seems near.

But the official added the president did not intend to get involved in extended shuttle negotiations between the two nations, and probably would not prolong his stay for more than a day or two.

During the train ride, Carter glanced at the crowd that lined the route and said: "Obviously, we'll go to Israel with some differences remaining and I'll do the best I can to resolve these differences."

Sadat, sucking on a pipe, was more optimistic. "We're on the verge of an agreement," he said. "You can say that the signing of an agreement is not so far off at all. For my side I am doing my best."

In Israel, meanwhile, Prime Minister Menachem Begin was awaiting Carter's arrival Saturday night. "Everything now depends on the Egyptian answer," he said Friday. "Israel has done its part."

Two U.S. officials, both asking to remain anonymous, agreed with Carter's assessment. They said it's still too soon to tell whether Carter can conclude the long-elusive agreement during his journey, tentatively scheduled to end Monday.

Though Sadat said he was ready to sign a treaty, he added "a misunderstanding" remains on several main issues. One such issue reportedly concerned the nature of assurance for Palestinian autonomy in Israeli-occupied territories.

Tens of thousands of Egyptians lined the tracks to catch a glimpse of Carter and Sadat on the four-hour ride through the verdant Nile River delta. Women held children in their arms, old men clapped their hands.

Bazargan to keep post, source says

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The fall of Iran's first post-revolutionary government was averted Friday when Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini persuaded Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan to withdraw his resignation, sources said.

Bazargan agreed to stay on when Khomeini, leader of Iran's Islamic revolution, promised to issue orders backing Bazargan, sources close to the prime minister said.

Bazargan, frustrated by his provisional government's lack of power, had traveled 100 miles through a snow storm to meet Khomeini in the holy city of Qom.

During meetings Thursday, Bazargan resigned but Khomeini refused to accept his resignation, saying he would reply to Bazargan on Friday. He subsequently promised to issue directives bolstering Bazargan's authority. He also said the government of Bazargan, whom he appointed, still has his support.

It was not immediately clear in what way Khomeini promised to curb the powers of his influential revolutionary committees, whose activities have so angered Bazargan because they are beyond his control. "They persecute people, they arrest people, they issue orders, they oppose us, they are against our appointments," he said angrily in a recent broadcast.

Bazargan also reportedly warned the 78-year-old religious leader against further provoking Iranian women who are up in arms because they believe Khomeini wants to enforce Islamic laws restricting their freedom.

The 70-year-old prime minister returned to Tehran on Friday, and a government spokesman, asked if Bazargan had resigned, replied: "No, and it is not an issue."

Friction between the two men has been rapidly building up over the past nine days. Bazargan threatened to quit charging Khomeini's revolutionary Islamic committees were running a parallel government that was making his job impossible and "turning our day into night."

The committees have ordered thousands of persons arrested, some of them apparently without good cause. More than 40 persons have been executed following revolutionary trials.

Midland's state courts to gain 'trappings'

By LINDA HILL
Staff Writer

People whose only exposure to courtrooms is through a television screen might be surprised at the almost casual atmosphere often found in state courtrooms in Texas.

Though federal courts employ all the trappings of judicial ceremony in abundance, in Midland's state courts it isn't uncommon to see an attorney smoking a cigarette and drinking coffee while trying a case.

Spectators have been heard to comment on a district judge's feet propped up on the bench while he hears evidence.

Rarely does a bailiff announce the judge's coming. And only fairly recently did district judges here begin to wear the traditional black robes.

Some of that may be changing, as new court rules were adopted last month by the district judges of the Seventh Administrative Judicial District of Texas, which includes Midland.

Previously, it was up to each district court to set its own rules.

District Judge Perry D. Pickett of Midland, administrative judge for the entire district, said the idea behind the new rules is to provide "a little more dignity" to proceedings throughout the district, and to provide badly needed standardization of rules.

But, said Pickett, some informality will continue to exist in court proceedings.

Actually, most of the court rules deal with legal procedure, such as which court has priority over a lawyer's time if he's scheduled to appear in two places on the same day. (The answer, generally, is the one that set the hearing or trial first.)

Pickett said that particular rule was set after lawyers complained about problems in dealing with such situations, particularly since the advent of the Speedy Trial Act.

Other rules concern circumstances and methods for calling in a substitute judge.

But the rules also deal with decorum in the courtroom while the court is in session.

Pickett said Midland district judges always have insisted on basic decorum, but the rules on that subject haven't been in writing.

Activities expressly prohibited include reading newspapers or magazines during court proceedings; propping feet on tables, chairs or benches; smoking, except where the presiding judge permits, and bringing "edibles" into the courtroom.

Attorneys are admonished not to talk to each other during a hearing, but to address all remarks to the court, which is legalese for the judge.

"We're more or less enforcing (the new rules)," Pickett said last week, but, "Those rules won't be too rigid."

So long as a basic atmosphere of decorum is maintained, no one is going to quibble about details, he said.

Some leeway is written into the rules themselves, such as the provision that "judicial discretion" be used concerning the requirement that male lawyers and court officials wear coats and ties and female lawyers and court officials "dress in keeping with proper courtroom decorum."

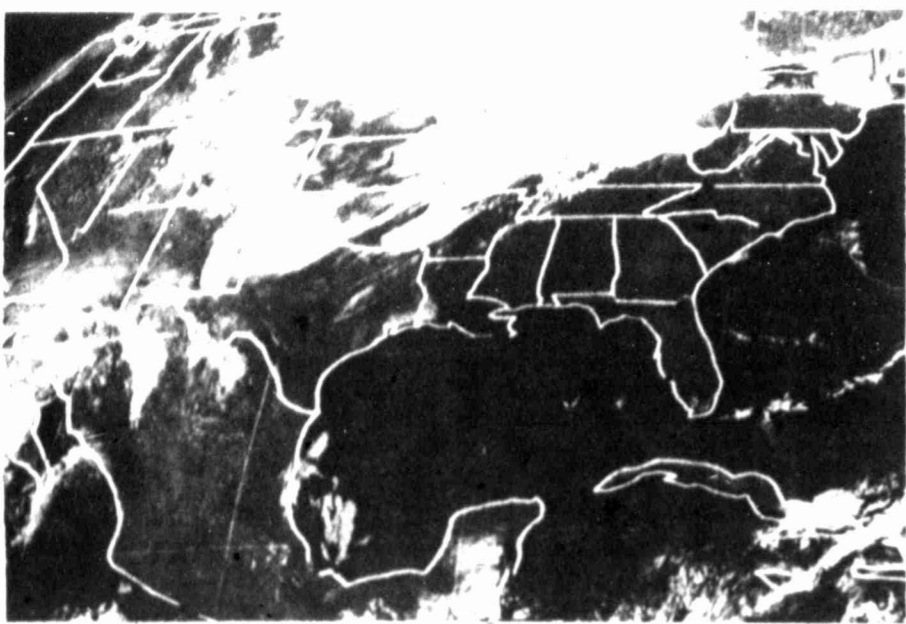

In any case, said Pickett, the judges of the administrative district are not trying to duplicate the federal system, with its rigid rules of conduct.

In federal court, for instance, marshalls monitor spectators' conduct and appearance, asking men without coat and tie to leave or asking a gum-chewing observer to remove the substance.

Curtailed discussed at hearing

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Farmers in the Texas Panhandle will not be "critically effected" by federal proposals for the curtailment of natural gas, the president of Pioneer Natural Gas told a public hearing Friday.

While Watson and the other seven witnesses who testified Friday said they support the priority ranking, many said they were concerned over how the allocation portions of the Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978 would be determined.

The FERC has proposed allocations be determined based on the amount used the past three years.

"The use of a base period approach simply will not do," he said. "Low fluctuations are wide-spread in agriculture and are largely the result of environmental factors over which the farmer has no control."

"Crop drying varies from year to year making it impossible to estimate requirements in advance. Curtailment of crop drying uses could force the farmer to leave his crop in the field, subjecting it to substantial losses."

Walter Leslie, a feed lot operator from Dumas, told commissioners farmers must receive no less than 100 percent of their current fuel allotments.

New delay requested

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — The Justice Department requested another six-month postponement Friday of court proceedings involving claims by two Maine Indian tribes to 12.5 million acres in Maine and $25 billion in damages and back rents.

In a motion filed in U.S. District Court, government lawyers said the additional time was needed to wrap up a negotiated settlement of claims by the Penobscot and Passamaquoddy tribes.

Judge Edward T. Gignoux, who has approved similar extensions in the past, was sitting on an appeals court in Boston when the motion was filed. No ruling was expected until Monday when Gignoux's previous six-month lay expires.

A new extension would allow time to draft and introduce in Congress a proposal implementing an out-of-court settlement of tribal claims, a memorandum accompanying the motion said. The tribes affirm that their aboriginal lands were taken from them in violation of a 1790 federal law.

The government cited progress toward the Carter administration's proposed settlement that would provide the tribes with $27 million to be held in trust, plus an additional $10 million to buy 100,000 acres from the state's biggest landholders at fair market value.

The memorandum said the tribes are currently evaluating the price and location of the acreage being offered by the big landowners, most of which are multinational paper companies.

Amin claims Tanzanian invaders driven back

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Ugandan President Idi Amin claimed his troops turned the tables on Tanzanian invaders and Ugandan exiles Friday, driving them back from Kampala and seizing weapons.

However, the Uganda broadcast gave no evidence of the site or scope of the action, and there was no independent confirmation of Amin's claims.

"Reports from the battle since last night were encouraging — the enemy is retreating," Amin said.

The former British army sergeant, now president, field marshal and military chief-of-staff, announced in a Radio Uganda broadcast that Ugandans have nothing to fear.

Spokesmen for one organization of Ugandan exiles in Nairobi said it appeared Amin's promised counter-attack had finally begun.

But skeptical Nairobi diplomats said the upbeat announcement may have been concocted to bolster morale after the previous days' reports that the invaders were shelling Mpigi, only 25 miles from Kampala.

A well-informed diplomat here said bluntly of Amin's broadcast: "I don't believe a word of it."

probably forestall any attack on the capital until the end of an Islamic development bank conference scheduled for next week in Kampala. Tanzania's President Julius Nyerere, he said, would probably hesitate before endangering so many potential aid donors.

Nairobi diplomats also confirmed reports a Libyan Air Force transport plane flying to Uganda was forced to land in Zaire last Saturday. Zaire flew the crewmen to Kinshasa, but divulged no details of the cargo.

Libya has publicly denied reports by Western diplomats that it is shuttling military supplies and men to Uganda to bolster Amin's forces.

Ugandan sources in Nairobi said the invading force includes at least 2,000 uniformed and armed Ugandan exiles and a larger number of Tanzanians, supported by heavy Tanzanian artillery. Some mutinous Ugandan troops reportedly joined the invaders.

The Tanzania-Uganda conflict erupted last October when Amin tried to annex a piece of northern Tanzania. He was driven back, and an infuriated Nyerere sent his troops across the border in what is generally accepted as a determined bid to end Amin's violent eight-year-old rule.

Fugitive for five years again in cell, free to use real name

McALESTER, Okla. (AP) — Paul Edward Day is back in a cell at the Oklahoma State Penitentiary, but at least he is using his own name.

He returned to Amarillo for a while where his former employer owned a building company. Day said he worked on several jobs in Oklahoma for the firm, was given a home and a company truck. He and his wife operated several flea market stands on weekends.

His youngest son was born in a Tulsa hospital during that time. He came to Tulsa for the last time before Christmas when his wife was scheduled for surgery for a breast tumor. On that trip, he says, police visited his mother's home several times, barely missing him.

"Because of his wife's surgery, he talked more about surrendering. 'It wasn't like you think it might be. It was pure hell at the time...'"

"At least, now, I've got my name back." His family has hired an attorney, hoping to get his name before the state Parole Board soon.

"I don't care if it takes three years, I'll be waiting here. Our love is that strong," his wife says.

'Nuts and bolts' delay journey of shuttle to Florida launch site

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Problems in bolting the $500 million space shuttle Columbia to the back of a Boeing 747 jetliner Friday delayed for at least a day the new spaceship's journey to its launch site in Florida.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the problem in aligning one of three struts that hold the Columbia to its ferry plane was time-consuming but not serious. It should present no danger on the cross-country flight, a spokesman said.

"It's just a mechanical problem," said former astronaut Deke Slayton, who heads NASA's shuttle Orbital Flight Test Program.

"Some bolts just didn't line up correctly," he said. "When you've got two pieces that big, it doesn't take very much misalignment to give you a little problem."

The same plane and mounting attachments being used for the Columbia's piggyback ride were used with the Enterprise, a test version of the shuttle built two years ago. Slayton said Friday's problem apparently involved minor differences between the two 75-ton shuttles.

A 20-minute test flight was planned before the strange-looking shuttle-jet combo leaves Saturday for El Paso, Texas.

After refueling in the west Texas city, the piggyback duo are to fly to Kelly Air Force Base at San Antonio, Texas, for an overnight stop. The flight continues to Cape Canaveral, Fla., on Sunday with a refueling stop at Eglin Air Force Base near Fort Walton Beach, Fla.

The Columbia, which cost $500 million, is a reusable spacecraft designed for 100 roundtrips to space. It could return to Edwards as soon as November.

North Yemen's president opposes 'power game'

KUWAIT (AP) — The pro-West president of embattled North Yemen said in an interview published Friday that both Washington and Moscow are playing the "super-power game" in his remote corner of the Middle East and "we refuse to be turned into a tool."

Later Friday in Washington, U.S. officials announced a major expansion of U.S. support for North Yemen in its two-week-old war with Soviet-aided South Yemen.

They said President Carter had signed a waiver that will allow delivery of 12 jet fighters and more than 100 tanks and other armored vehicles to North Yemen — without congressional approval.

The South claimed, meanwhile, that North Yemeni troops suffered heavy losses in two new battles deep inside North Yemen. Thousands of Russian specialists and Cuban troops are reported advising the Marxist southerners.

An Arab League team arrived in North Yemen on Friday to try to persuade the two sides in the border conflict to observe a cease-fire.

Though the North Yemeni military relies on U.S. arms aid in the war, President Col. Ali Abdullah Saleh chastised the United States for its recent statements that it would not hesitate to use military force to safeguard American interests in the region.

Such warnings "added fuel to the conflict's fire and constituted part of the superpower game," Saleh said in the interview with the conservative Kuwait newspaper Alrai Alaam.

As the Yemen war escalated this week, Washington ordered a naval task force to the Arabian Sea and sent two sophisticated surveillance aircraft to Saudi Arabia, North Yemen's neighbor and principal ally. The Pentagon also raised the idea of stationing a full naval fleet in the area.

Friday's announcement by the State Department said the waiver signed by Carter will permit the United States to ship 12 F-5E jet fighters, 64 tanks and 50 armored personnel carriers to North Yemen beginning within two or three weeks.

The Kuwait newspaper Al Seyassa reported Thursday that 2,700 Cuban troops and 300 Soviet advisers had been rushed from Ethiopia to South Yemen this week, reinforcing an estimated 1,000 Soviets already advising the armed forces of the Marxist South.

Saleh declared that South Yemen "is exploding the dispute to serve an international strategy that aims to transform Yemen into an arena of dangerous superpower conflict."

"We refuse to be turned into a tool in the hands of the United States or the Soviet Union, or to allow the intervention of any superpower through us, though we are keen to be friends with both superpowers," Saleh said.

In Washington, U.S. officials said Saleh's statement aimed at cooling tensions by making an overture to the Soviets.

The Al Seyassa article quoted unidentified Arab diplomats as saying the Cubans and Russians would help South Yemen repel an attack "in which the United States would participate."

A commentary broadcast by South Yemen radio Friday and monitored here warned that the dispatch of the U.S. naval force to the Arabian Sea "will have very serious repercussions."

Another broadcast from Aden, the South Yemeni capital, said leftist North Yemeni rebels allied with the South had caused heavy losses among government forces during two battles — one in the Bani Abde area north of the North Yemeni capital San'a, and the other in the Bani Ziyad region near Taiz, in the southern part of North Yemen.

While the fighting continued, the first members of an Arab League truce-supervising military committee arrived in San'a. Over the weekend the committee is expected to move to the border area to try to persuade both sides to observe a cease-fire.

Peace treaty could secure oil fields, Jackson says

HOUSTON (AP)— Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said Friday a peace treaty between Israel and Egypt could mean more security for the vital oil fields along the Persian Gulf.

— Jackson told a news conference that "250 military personnel could move into the oil fields, put them out of operation and force Americans to walk to work the next day."

And, the senator said if the narrow straits on the southern end of the Persian Gulf were closed "the Western world would be brought to its knees."

He said if President Carter, during his current visit to the Middle East could achieve a peace treaty, the next thing he should do is to ask Egypt and Israel to provide security for the oil fields.

"There is no doubt," he said, "but that the Soviet Union's policy is to encircle the oil producing nations of the Middle East."

Later, Lynn Coleman, general counsel for the Department of Energy, told newsmen he hoped U.S. oil companies would not pay the higher prices for oil asked by Iran and some members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC).

The price boost by several OPEC members came after Iran announced it would ask $18 to $20 a barrel.

Coleman said if "American oil companies are willing to pay the higher prices, it may tempt OPEC to make the increases official. We hope the American companies will exercise restraint and get the best price they can. Our government will provide as much assistance as possible."

Asked what assistance, Coleman said, "through diplomatic channels. Diplomatic efforts have been successful in the past, at least until the last OPEC meeting."

"The signs are encouraging that some companies believe the prices are too high. There will be a continuing dialogue with some members of OPEC," he said.

Coleman also said the objective of his agency is "to get away from price controls on oil and gas and believe this will encourage new supplies and conservation."

"But the timing is something else. You must consider decontrol at a time of a shortage. There is a danger of allowing prices to go up suddenly and hurting everyone. There must be an orderly market and that may come in a reasonable period of time," Coleman said.

Texas MH-MR group cites outgoing chairman

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Helen Farabee, outgoing chairman of the Texas State Mental Health Advisory Council, was given its highest citation Friday by the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

Commissioner John J. Kavanagh presented the award to Mrs. Farabee at a meeting of the council, an organization required by federal law to advise the commissioner on mental health needs of the state.

The Commissioner's Award, originated in 1971, is given each year to the individual or organization whose service, dedication and support stand for continued improvements in the care and treatment of the mentally impaired in Texas.

Home-hunters won't get help from new interest regulations

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — New interest regulations announced Friday won't help Texans looking for new homes, said Durwood Curlee, executive vice president of the Texas Savings and Loan League.

The new regulations remove the differential between interest rates paid by savings and loans associations on money market certificates and regular treasury bills.

"Once again the federal government has decided that the housing industry will be used as a whipping boy in the fight to halt inflation. This means there will be even less money to loan in Texas for housing," Curlee said in a statement.

"The announcement means that savings and loans have lost an advantage to attract money which eventually is used for home loan mortgages."

Curlee said that currently a depositor can purchase a money market certificate with a savings and loan association at an effective interest rate of 9.665 percent while six-month treasury bills yield 9.415 percent.

tions. "If we allow the price-gouging it will cause a major inflation with interest rates going as high as 13 percent and the stock market then taking a dive," he said. The senator said the United States "now must simply speed-up the decision making process. And we must look to coal and nuclear power to help solve the energy problem." In a breakfast speech to the Houston Forum Club, Jackson raised some doubt if he would vote to ratify a new SALT treaty with the Soviet Union.

Link to organized crime 'close'

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A federal investigator said Friday authorities are a "hair's breadth away" from linking high-level organized crime figures to a racketeering probe being conducted by federal grand juries in Texas and Nevada.

Joe Bonanno Sr., a former New York City godfather; and Raymond Patriarca, reputed czar of the New England Mafia, are under intense scrutiny in connection with a massive international narcotics, prostitution and racketeering operation centered in El Paso, said the investigator, who asked that his name not be used.

Patriarca's name surfaced this past week during a bond reduction hearing at El Paso for Las Vegas gambler Jimmy Chagra, who was arrested on narcotics charges. U.S. District Judge John Wood lowered the bond from $1 million to $400,000 Friday and Chagra was freed.

Federal authorities introduced the Mafia spectre during the hearing with the name of Salvatore Michael Caruana, a Massachusetts businessman subpoenaed for the hearing. The subpoena was withdrawn later by U.S. Attorney Jamie Boyd, but it was learned Caruana had been in El Paso following the Dec. 23 slaying of drug lawyer Lee Chagra, 41. Caruana told investigators he had been in El Paso to conduct voice stress analysis on certain individuals in connection with Lee Chagra's death. The flamboyant lawyer was gunned down in his fortress-like law office which authorities sealed off for five days.

The federal source told The Associated Press that the current probes are aimed at unearthing large-scale rackets which funnel vast sums of money into Mafia treasure chests. "It's a growing Southwestern organization. We know (Joe) Bonanno (Sr.) has a big hand in it."

During the hearing, Boston FBI agent Charles Walsh testified he had an informant who linked Caruana with Patriarca.

Bonanno, a resident of Tucson, Ariz. for several years since his expulsion by warring underworld families in Manhattan, recently appeared before a grand jury in Tucson. Efforts to reach him failed. He is known to have spent considerable time in El Paso while his son, Joe, was serving time at nearby LaTuna federal prison.

Asked last year about accusations he has become a Southwestern godfather, Bonanno said: "Incredible. A fantasy. I don't have to answer to nobody. They conspire against me because I am Joe Bonanno, and they come after me because they want to make a big name for themselves."

In a Parade Magazine interview then, Bonanno denied claims by federal intelligence agencies that he is a major narcotics financier. "If I had positive, concrete evidence (against drug dealers) I will stick them in the oven and I will burn everybody," he said.

The names of Patriarca and Bonanno are the latest in a growing list of important underworld-associated persons to come to light because of the federal investigation conducted by at least four government agencies.

Three years ago, Vincent Teresa, a Patriarca lieutenant in hiding in El Paso, was interviewed by The Associated Press at his hotel-supper club, operated under his alias of Vicent Conti.

Final push to introduce bills joined by area's legislators

Austin Bureau
AUSTIN — Midland area legislators joined the rush to beat a constitutional deadline on bill introductions that has produced a flood of last minute legislation.

After Friday's 6 p.m. deadline, legislators must have a four-fifths vote of their respective houses to introduce a bill. Shortly after noon, the House count stood at 1979 bills, just short of last session's 2130 introductions. More than 400 of the bills were introduced Friday morning.

Proposed constitutional amendments had already surpassed last session's and stood at 128.

The peace was just as fast in the Senate, where the noon total for bills was 1013, closing in on last session's 1169. Constitutional amendments totaled 53, shy of last session's 56.

A massive 204-page bill, adopting a Human Resources Code was one of six bills introduced by Rep. Mike Ezzell of Snyder.

The bill is a non-substantive revision of state laws relating to state programs for the elderly, needy, children and handicapped.

Ezzell also introduced a bill proposing a merger of the North Texas State University and Texas Woman's University boards of regents.

What one aide called "the slimmest bill of the session" was also among Ezzell's last-minute bills. It requires handlers of oil and waste grease from restaurants to submit to rendering plant operators who purchase the grease a signed certificate that bears the name of the restaurant from which the grease came.

Four other bills introduced by Ezzell propose regulations for home care agencies, dentists, farm vehicles over 4,000 pounds used temporarily on highways and attorneys representing the Department of Human Resources in paternity suits.

Midland Rep. Tom Craddock, chairman of the House Natural Resources Committee, introduced a bill setting forth state policy for management of sensitive coastal wetlands and providing details on such matter as condemnation and eminent domain in junction with the underground storage of natural gas.

Civic associations forming coalition

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A group of neighborhood, homeowner and civic associations announced Friday the formation of the Coalition of Texas Neighborhood Associations to oppose two pending bills.

Allan McMurtry, chairman of the association which has an Austin address, said it would represent more than 100 associations from Austin, Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Houston, Lubbock and San Antonio.

McMurtry said the primary aim of the organization was to fight efforts to change present law that says there can be no resubdivision of property without the permission of every property owner in that subdivision.

"But it seems that special interest groups in Texas do not want individual owners making collective decisions with regard to their home, property and neighborhood," said a statement from the new organization. "They have concluded that the profitable answer to growth is to eliminate the participation of their fellow property owners."

The statement said the legislative proposals would delegate the decision on resubdivision solely to planning commissions, city councils and county commissioners.

The statement said the pending bills take away the ability of home owners to provide a neighborhood environment. "In fact they totally destroy the single most powerful state statute for neighborhood preservation and eliminate much of state-mandated protections for homes and property."

Opening lead — ♠ K

Declarer ruffed the first spade and led dummy's queen of diamonds.

When East played low, South overtook with the king of diamonds and ruffed his other spade.

East took the next diamond and returned his club to dummy's king. Now South had to get to his hand to draw the last trump.

South fell from grace by leading the ace of clubs. East ruffed and eventually took the setting trick with the queen of hearts.

LOW LEAD

Instead of leading the ace of clubs declarer should lead a low club from dummy.

West wins and returns a heart to the king. South can then ruff a low club, draw the last trump to get to dummy with the ace of hearts to discard his last heart on the ace of clubs.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: S-AJ10952; H-Q103; D-A76; C-7. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three spades, promising good spade support and about 13 to 16 points; counting distribution as well as high cards. The hand is far too strong for a jump to four spades.

Arabs shower queen with fabulous gems

By GRAHAM HEATHCOTE

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II is home from the shores of Araby with a fortune in gems, but Buckingham Palace says her loyal subjects may not get a glimpse of them.

The queen, already one of the world's richest women, reportedly was astounded by the splendor of the presents showered on her by oil-rich rulers in the Persian Gulf during her 18-day tour of seven countries which ended last Friday.

But a palace spokeswoman, asked Monday about suggestions that everyone would be delighted to have a peep at the wonders, said cautiously: "We haven't heard that there is to be a show."

THE QUEEN brought some of the gifts home with her by plane. "The heavier ones are coming on Britannia, the royal yacht," the palace said. The 45 journalists accompanying the queen said she frequently was overwhelmed and even embarrassed by the munificence of her hosts. Every day when she returned to the Britannia, more treasure had been added to the trove of precious stones, gem-encrusted ornaments and rich carpets.

Queen Victoria, the famous great-grandmother of Elizabeth, didn't travel much. In her day, as paintings of the period confirm, princes of the far-flung empire came to London bearing gifts, and knelt before their empress to present them.

NOWADAYS, oil and other vital interests have reversed things. Elizabeth's tour was the first ever by a reigning British sovereign to Arabia, and the rulers showed their delight.

In Dubai the queen gasped. It happened when Sheikh Rashid presented her with a 2-foot square box containing a necklace of sapphires and surrounded by 300 diamonds, with matching earrings and a ring. There also were two model camels sculptured in gold, standing beside an 18-inch high golden palm tree with pearls and rubies for dates.

NOBODY really knows the value of all the gifts. Reports talk of anything up to $6 million, and the presents are the queen's personal property. She won't have to give a reckoning to the customs; Her Majesty's Customs says gifts from heads of state to the head of state aren't dutiable. And "she wouldn't put jewelry into a museum unless it was utterly unwearable," Buckingham Palace said.

In Kuwait, the queen's first stop, Emir Sheikh Jaber launched the treasure train with three strands of pearls as big as marbles. The queen, reputedly worth a billion dollars and herself the owner of no mean jewel collection, put on the choker for dinner and said to her entourage, "Don't you think my pearls are lovely?"

EMIR SHIEKH Khalifa of Qatar gave her a knee-length necklace of gold that an awed British reporter said looked "like chain-mail." Also: an oyster shell containing a huge pearl, a lapis lazuli fruit bowl supported by prancing golden horses studded with diamonds, a five-strand pearl and diamond necklace, a gold and diamond watch and a gold handbag.

The queen collects a lot of things on every trip. Past gifts have included a 110-foot totem pole, a painting of a power station and a mink coat from Canada, a bronze cauldron and an umbrella from Australia, a Nepalese yak's hair fly-whisk, and talking drums from Ghana. Everything is catalogued, stored and looked after so that it can be displayed whenever the donor visits England.

THE QUEEN gave her Arabian hosts silver salvers engraved with a picture of her yacht. They reportedly cost $30,000 each from Plante and Johnson, court silversmiths of Bury Street, St. James's, and the queen was said to have brought seven of them along. Sheikh's wives received signed photographs and other small gifts and a book on Bedouin jewelry.

Presenting a pendant to one Gulf princess, the queen said, "I'm afraid it's rather small."

"We know we can't compete," a royal official explained. "What a wonderful plus for Great Britain," wrote Londoner Clive Phillips in a letter to the Evening Standard. "Almost all the jewelry given to the queen was made in London, paid for in valuable foreign currency, and given back forever to us free of charge."

Inmate recaptured

EL RENO, Okla. (AP) — Authorities have recaptured an inmate who allegedly drove away from the federal correctional institution here Friday in a government station wagon after he was told to drive the vehicle into a prison garage for servicing.

Officers said Ronnie Gary Greenhaw, 25, of Garvin, Texas, was apprehended east of El Reno. Bill Harris, prison spokesman, said Greenhaw worked in the prison garage.

Book tells how to avoid lawyers

By TONY LEDWELL

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Ralph Warner and his longtime companion, Toni Ihara, are lawyers who publish books for people who want to avoid lawyers.

With a friend, Ed Sherman, they created Nolo Press in 1971 and put out their first book, a stapled pamphlet on how to handle a divorce.

The books moved at a snail's pace until a Sacramento lawyer saw the pamphlet, was outraged, and promptly called a news conference to denounce the book as dangerous.

"Sales skyrocketed," chuckles Warner. The book has gone through nearly 30 printings, updated with changes in the law, and has sold more than 200,000 copies in California alone.

Nolo Press, with more than a dozen books now to its credit, has just published what could be its biggest seller, a 193-page book called "The Living Together Kit," with sample contracts for unmarried couples to sign to assure their rights if they decide to split.

In light of a 1976 California Supreme Court decision which allowed property settlement suits involving unmarried couples — spawning the Lee Marvin trial in Los Angeles — Warner and Ms. Ihara say demand for the book is brisk.

"I know some of it is paranoia on the part of people who don't want to get ripped off in a relationship," Warner says. "But most of the people we know are just nice, ordinary people who want to do right by each other."

The book is written in plain language, avoiding what Warner calls "legal mumbo-jumbo," and is spiced with witty observations.

Nolo Press has published books with such titles as "Everybody's Guide to Small Claims Court," "How to Form Your Own California Corporation," "How to Change Your Name," and "How to Adopt Your Stepchild" — all designed to guide the uninitiated through legal procedures without the assistance of a lawyer, saving hundreds of dollars on attorney fees.

Their "living together" book includes chapters on insurance, credit, making a will, acknowledging paternity, and a concluding chapter on determining when you need a lawyer.

Ms. Ihara, for example, says most divorces consist of filling out certain papers which, frequently, a secretary handles for her lawyer-employer. "Of course, if it is a massive, complicated estate to be divided, a lawyer is sometimes necessary," she says.

Warner and Ms. Ihara say the hostility they encountered from establishment attorneys in the early years of Nolo Press has lessened considerably. They contend that Watergate tarnished the image of establishment lawyers.

Warner's three-paragraph biography says, "Ralph has a license to practice law. He doesn't use it."

Ms. Ihara's two-paragraph biography describes her as "an anthropologist turned lawyer who is totally at a loss for a response when anyone asks, 'Why did you go to law school?'"

The two have lived together for several years, writing books and giving lectures and workshops on how to get things done without having to consult a lawyer.

They also work for reform of laws dealing with sex, noting that a lot of sexual taboos have been dropped from the books in recent years. "A good thing, too," says Warner, "as we were fast becoming a nation of criminals."

Bramlett, Vasicek lead way into semifinals

Tennis is supposed to be a warm weather sport, but you couldn't prove it by the contestants in the Midland-Schools Invitational Tennis Tournament Friday as they bundled up against the cold wave that hit the Tall City Friday. (Photos by Mike Kardos)

Top-seeded Jeff Bramlett and Vicki Vasicek led the way into the Class A boys and girls singles semifinals, respectively, after the first day of play in the Midland Schools High School Tennis Tournament.

After a stretch of balmy days earlier in the week, the weather predictably turned bad with the start of play Friday morning and got meaner and more miserable as the day progressed.

As play resumed today, most of the divisions moved into the semifinals with finals in the two-day event to follow.

Both Bramlett and Vasicek, Midland High students, were playing this tournament unattached.

Bramlett beat Tony Gibbs, Lubbock Coronado, in the A boys singles quarterfinals and will face Frank Guengerich, Amarillo Tascosa, winner over Greg Wright of Coronado, in one semifinal match. Second-seeded Steve Ashley, Odessa Permian, reached the semis with a win over Jeff Rea, Midland, and will face Rickey Houdek, Midland, who defeated Ed Barrera, Midland Lee.

Vasicek defeated Lori Humphreys, Lubbock Monterey, in her quarterfinal match and her opponent had yet to be determined as Friday's play ended. The other semifinal will send second-seeded Kathy Lawson, El Paso Eastwood, against Liz Alvarado, Odessa. Lawson defeated Karen Byrd, Permian, in a quarterfinal and Alvarado defeated Mary Mathews, Big Spring, in the other.

In a girls doubles, Wilson and Naworski, Permian, moved into the semis on schedule, but No. 2 seeded Byrd-Lewis of Permian were upset by Amarillo Tascosa's Hall-Nealy.

In the A boys doubles, top-seeded Hall-Castello, Fort Stockton, advanced, but No. 2 Fish-Williams, Big Spring, lost to Hands-Perkins, Tascosa.

A Boys Doubles—Hall-Castello, Fort Stockton, def. McMahon-Pearce, Big Spring; McFarlin-Courter, Monterey, def. Fong-Sasser, Tascosa; Yeager-Armstrong, Monterey, def. Franks-Hudson, Permian; Haps-Perkins, Tascosa, def. Fish-Williams, Big Spring.

Monterey lone tourney team still undefeated

By BOB DILLON Sports Writer

Don't ever sell Lubbock Monterey short.

Coach Bobby Moegle's Plainsmen came into the 5th annual Tournament of Champions with a lack-luster 1-3 record but promptly polished off Midland Lee and Duncanville to remain the only unbeaten team in the double elimination baseball tourney going into today's action.

Monterey took a narrow 2-1 victory over Coach Ernie Johnson's Rebels and then blanked Duncanville, 5-0, Friday night.

Midland High came into the tourney with the only undefeated record, but lost to Lee Tuesday night, 6-2, and to R.L. Turner of Carrollton, 2-0, Friday afternoon.

Moegle got two fine pitching performances from Kent Potts and Ricky Pinkerton against Lee and Duncanville.

Potts, a 6-foot-1 inch, 195-pound junior, struck out 10 Rebels and scattered three hits while Pinkerton, usually a third baseman, took the mound and set Duncanville's Panthers down on one hit in the final game of Friday's action.

Although Midland's Bulldogs are the first team to lose two games,

Coach Larry Peel's crew will play at 3 p.m. today in the game that will determine who finishes last in the five-team field.

DUNCANVILLE STARTED the action Friday by taking a 4-0 victory over Turner's Lions behind the combined one-hit pitching of Pete Collins and Mark McKinney. Shortstop Clinton Welch had the only hit for Turner and that came in the third inning.

First baseman Tank Davis, a 220-pounder, slammed a double for the Panthers for the only extra base hit of the game in the morning opener while shortstop Milo Choate had a pair of hits as Duncanville was upping its season record to 3-2 with the victory.

Midland Lee took a 1-0 lead off Potts in the top of the third inning against Monterey. John White and Clay Calhoun had solid singles in the top of the first inning, but Potts sent Steve Pitts, Terry Willis and Larry Latch back to the dugout strikeout victims.

The Rebels scored their only run without benefit of a hit in the third inning when sophomore pitcher Alan Koonce, who also pitched a solid five-hitter, walked, went to second on a sacrifice by Pitts and scored on a throwing error by Pinkerton at third.

Monterey's two runs came in the fourth inning. Pinkerton walked, Potts singled and then Tom Bevins laid down a perfect bunt past the pitcher that went out to second, enabling Pinkerton to race all the way home to tie the score, 1-1.

BEVINS SCORED moments later after a fielder's choice a fly ball to Bill McPherson in left and that was the difference in the game. The loss gives Lee a 6-2 record going into today's game with R.L. Turner at 10 a.m.

Lee got Larry Latch all the way to third in the fourth inning without scoring and Potts retired the last 11 batters in a row to turn the Tall City team away.

Midland was only able to come up with one hit off Turner's Packy Malone in dropping its second game of the tournament Friday afternoon.

That hit was off the bat of first baseman Archie Booth in the sixth inning. Malone, a senior righthander, struck out six Bulldogs as the Lions were bringing their season record to 1-2.

Turner's only two runs were unearned when shortstop Jimmy Zachry threw wildly at first with Welch and Peter Diffin scoring on the overthrow. Diffin had two of the five Turner hits off sophomore Mark Hewitt who was the losing hurler.

In the final game of the day, Pinkerton was tough on the Panthers, but seven errors by Jay Miller's team, handed the Plainsmen four unearned runs.

MONTEREY HAD six hits off Kyle Poteet with Andy Barron, Randy Ledbetter, Bevins, Steve Coleman and Bart Burgess coming up with the hits. None of them were for extra bases, however. In fact, all four games Friday were well-pitched games with the hurler ahead of the hitters which is unusual this early in the season with the cold weather and all.

Today's schedule finds Lee and Turner playing at 10 a.m. with the loser squaring off with Midland's Bulldogs for last place at 3 p.m. Monterey has already qualified for the 5:30 p.m. game since the Plainsmen are 2-0 in the tourney. The winner of the Lee-Turner contest will face Duncanville at 12:30 p.m. and that winner will then face Monterey and will have to beat the Plainsmen twice to win the tourney crown.

In the first game, David Johnson scored 19 points and Ben Howland came off the bench to add 16, boosting Weber State to an 81-78 overtime victory over New Mexico State.

Virginia Tech, now 22-8, will meet undefeated and top-ranked Indiana State in the second round Sunday.

Les Henson scored 12 points for the Gobblers while Ashford had 15 and Dexter Reid had 10. Jacksonville, finishing at 19-11, was led by Jame Ray with 15 points and Jimmy Martin with 14.

Pepperdine wins

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Forward Ollie Matson scored 8 points in overtime and guard Ricardo Brown had 6 of his 26 points in the extra period as Pepperdine opened NCAA West Regional basketball playoff competition with a 92-88 victory over Utah Friday night.

In the second game at Pauley Pavilion, Southern California was to face Utah State.

Matson scored 19 points for the winners, who will face Pacific-10 Conference champion UCLA in Sunday's second round. Tony Fuller added 13 and Danny Ramsey had 11 for the Waves.

Chambers had 26 when he left the contest. Utah's leading scorer this season, Danny Vranes, had 19 points, only 5 after intermission.

Pepperdine had tied the game as time ran out in regulation on a length of the court pass from Matson to guard Ted Scott, who scored on a lay-in as the Utes were caught out of position.

Scott Martin had scored 4 points in the final 36 seconds after Pepperdine center Ray Ellis had hit two free throws to put the Waves up 75-73 with 2½ minutes left.

Bulldogs, Rebels share golf lead

SAN ANGELO—Midland High and Midland Lee ignored foul playing conditions to fire twin 324s and tie for first place in the first round of the District 5-4A golf tour, three strokes ahead of Odessa Permian.

Trailing in sixth place at 334 was host San Angelo, which normally is hard to top at home.

Abilene Cooper was in fourth place with 331 while Big Spring nosed out San Angelo and Abilene, tied for sixth, with a 332.

Robert Upham of Midland shot a 78 while Vic Villareal, Abilene, Ben Garcia, Big Spring, and John Slaughter, Abilene Cooper, carded 79s.

Lee takes track lead

By TERRY WILLIAMSON Sports Writer

ODESSA—“I don't think the kids had any extra incentive for this meet, but we (the coaches) sure did,” said Midland Lee track coach Sam Volpe Friday as the West Texas Relays began a two-day run.

Of course, Lee coaches were furious a week ago when their mile relay team was disqualified at Pecos, costing the Rebels the meet championship. Volpe wanted to do extra well here this weekend.

And if Lee's track members didn't have any extra incentive for this one, they didn't show it. The Rebels took the first day lead with 36 points, qualified nine individuals and two relays for today's running finals. They appear to have the strongest shot at winning the West Texas crown.

In the girls' division, Midland Lee got on the scoreboard with eight points on a second place finish in the high jump on a 4-10 leap by Deborah Ledbetter, but qualified only two individuals for today's finals. Midland High's feds didn't score any points Friday, but qualified four individuals and two relays for today. Running finals start today at 1 p.m. at W. T. Barrett Stadium.

Jeff McCowan paced the Rebel showing Friday by becoming the meet's first two-event winner. He won the shot put with a 59-7½, a showing he was not pleased with, and he captured the discus with a hefty toss of 173-3, the best of his career and a throw that ranks in the top three in the state.

Rodney Taylor and Herb Pearce also picked up big points in the shot put. Taylor's 52-6½ was good for third place while Pearce's 52-6½ was good for fourth. Pearce was upset that Taylor beat him out by a mere ¼-inch.

Jody Sessom ended the Lee point total in the long jump where he placed third with a 19-8. He lost the event on the final jump of the day. Elmer Montgomery didn't pick up any points in the long jump and the Rebels expected him to. Montgomery thought he had a 19-7 in the qualifying jumps, but officials listed him at 18-7, and he didn't make the finals after passing up his last jump.

Lee's two relay teams also had the fastest qualifying times of the day. The sprint group of Mark Landers, Phil Carlton, Sessom and Dwight Washington posted a 43.2 while Gary Butler and Arthur Fertile joined Carleton and Washington for a 3:24.2 in the mile relay.

Lee's eyes will be on the 220 today since three Rebels made the cut. Washington again had the best time with a 22.1, not far off his best. Montgomery had a 22.7 while Landers had a 23.1.

Montgomery had the top 100 dash time with a 10.3 while Landers was next with a 10.4. Butler and Fertile both qualified in the 880. Butler had a 2:03.7 while Fertile had a 2:04.1.

Steve Hooper produced a 4:44.7, the fifth best time of the day, in the mile run.

“We were pleased with the way things went for the most part,” Volpe said. “But I think we lost points in the long jump with Montgomery, and Carleton jumped in the 440. I know he would have scored some points there.”

The only Lee girls to see action today will be Ledbetter and Lori Breeding, both in the 80 hurdles. Ledbetter had a third best of 12.3 while Breeding had the fourth best with a 12.4.

Midland High's hopes lay in the relays. Dee Dee King, Susan Shoemaker, Margaret Christian and Karen Mays had a seventh best 53.4 in the sprint relay, but had the second best time in the mile relay behind Jana Trolinger, Shoemaker, Nan White and Christian.

Braves' homers tumble Houston

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Mike Lum, playing in his first game since rejoining Atlanta, hit one of four Braves' home runs Friday in a 9-4 exhibition baseball victory over Houston.

Lum, who returned to the Braves as a free agent this year after three seasons with the Cincinnati Reds, hit his homer in the second inning with one man on.

Glenn Hubbard added another two-run homer in the second.

Atlanta went ahead 5-0 in the fourth inning on a Darrel Chaney homer, and Rowland Offord's two-run home run in the sixth made it 7-0.

All of Houston's scoring came in the ninth inning. Two of the Astros' runs were unearned runs at the expense of Braves reliever Buddy J. Solomon.

son. Luzinski hit a towering home run over the 380-foot sign in left-center field on a two-strike pitch from reliever Dave Palmer in the fourth.

Pete Rose made his debut in a Philadelphia uniform, playing three innings at first base and batting twice. Both times he flied out to the outfield.

Royals' Hurdle clears Yankees
FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Clint Hurdle ripped two singles and a double and walked twice as the Kansas City Royals defeated the New York Yankees 6-1 in an exhibition game Friday.

Hurdle drove in Kansas City's first run in the third inning against Yankee starter Luis Tiant, who gave up five hits in the three innings he worked.

In the eighth, Kansas City scored four runs with RBI-singles by Bob Robertson and rookie Darryl Motley keying the rally. Rookie Jim Gaudet drove in a run with an infield out in that inning and delivered another with a single in the ninth.

Smith's 3 homers sinks Rangers

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Reggie Smith hit three home runs and Dusty Baker also homered as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated the Texas Rangers 8-3 Friday in the opener of the Dodgers' exhibition season.

Smith's homers produced four runs for starting pitcher Don Sutton and winning hurler Rick Rhoden of the defending National League baseball champions.

Baker hit a three-run homer in the sixth after the game had been tied at 3-3 on a two-run homer by John Ellis of the Rangers, who have a 1-1 spring record.

Sutton struck out nine in his five innings on the mound, allowing four hits and one run. Rhoden pitched just one inning, the sixth, giving up the home run by Ellis.

Smith got his first two homers off Texas starter Doc Medich. The losing hurler was the third of four Ranger pitchers, Danny Darwin, who was rocked for Baker and Smith homers during the five-run Dodger sixth.

Giants' 14-hit spree decks Milwaukee, 8-1

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The San Francisco Giants, went on a 14-hit spree, aided by Milwaukee infielder Paul Molitor's throwing error, and beat the Brewers 8-1 Friday in exhibition play.

The Giants scored first in the fourth inning after Jack Clark singled and Darrell Evans doubled. Both came home on a bad throw by Molitor.

In the fifth, the Giants scored two more following consecutive singles by Joe Sadek and Johnnie Le Master, then scored four times in the eighth when Tom Heintzelman and Skip James singled, and Jim Dwyer and Mike Rex hit consecutive doubles.

Morales' bat powers Tigers over Cardinals

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — Jerry Morales, acquired from the St. Louis Cardinals in an off-season trade, lined a bases-loaded homer with two out in the fourth inning Friday, powering the Detroit Tigers to a 4-1 exhibition victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Dennis Eckersley, a 20-game winner last year, retired nine Detroit batters in order before giving way to rookie southpaw John Tudor at the start of the fourth.

Tudor got the first two batters on fly balls, but Dave Stegman and Tim Corcoran singled and Lynn Jones beat out a hit behind second, filling the bases. Morales, the designated hitter, then lined his grand slam homer over the left field fence, 350 feet away.

Phillies whitewash Montreal Expos, 3-0

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Home runs by Bob Boone and Greg Luzinski led the Philadelphia Phillies to a 3-0 victory over the Montreal Expos in the first spring training exhibition game for both National League baseball clubs Friday.

Boone gave the Phillies a 1-0 lead by starting the third inning with a home run off loser Ross Grimsley, a 20-game winner for the Expos last season.

WTC defeats MC in semifinals

The Chaps, with only eight players, were in deep trouble. Mayfield, in addition to ankle injury, already had three personals as did Chuck McGill and Robert Tate.

Western Texas exploited the breach and quickly took the game out of reach.

Tate with 17 points and Young with 16 led the Chaps while Paul Pressey's 23 points paced WTC. Also in twin double digits for the winners were Fred Davis with 22 and Greg Stewart with 19.

Cooke moved into the finals by upsetting Northern Conference champion McLennan, 101-80. Cooke and WTC clash at 8 p.m. tonight in the Garrett Coliseum.

Demanding Tark suffers through his longest season

Jerry Tarkanian holds class at UNLV.

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — "Pay attention," demanded Prof. Jerry Tarkanian between halves of Nevada-Las Vegas' game with San Diego State. "Maybe if we get our heads in the game we can go out and do it."

"I would love to see us play 20 full minutes of basketball. Dammit, you've got to get yourself ready to play."

This is Tarkanian's classroom. Nowhere else are his eyes so alive, his spirit so high and his personality so dominating.

"You've got to deny everything and pressure the passer," he shouted, his raspy voice getting shriller with each word. "I wish to hell you would show some pride out there and put the clamps on a high scorer for once."

THE LECTURE IN advanced basketball then ended in a crescendo of hacking coughs as Tarkanian went to the blackboard, scribbling Xs and Os in a technical diagram and preaching more sacrifice on defense.

It wasn't inspirational Knute Rockne, and it wasn't very successful as UNLV squandered a first-half lead and lost to San Diego 94-91 last month for the Runnin' Rebels' third home loss of the season, the most games any Tarkanian-coached team had ever lost at home.

"This is an all-time low," moaned Tarkanian after the Rebels' record dropped to 17-7. Tarkanian, who has the highest winning percentage of any active coach, brought a major college career mark of 244-44 into the 1978-79 season. That included five years at Long Beach State — where he never lost a home game — and five years at UNLV but not his six years in junior college, where his teams were 32-3, 35-0, 41-5, 33-1, 35-1 and 35-1.

AFTER THE loss, Tarkanian was near tears. Constantly haunted by his troubles with the NCAA, Tarkanian used to be able to take solace in the fact his team was winning consistently.

"We've been through so much; I just don't know how much we have left to draw on," said Tarkanian's wife, Lois, who has been the coach's most vocal defender throughout his troubles with the NCAA because of alleged rules violations at Long Beach State and UNLV.

During the game, even when the Rebels were well ahead, Tarkanian never smiled. The closest he came was a couple of smirks when he quietly questioned some calls. Not a ref baiter, Tarkanian has been hit with only four technicals in his 11 years in the major colleges.

"I never was paranoid, but because of this NCAA thing, I think everyone's out to get me now," Tarkanian said.

DURING THE game, Tarkanian — in short sleeves — paces nervously. He rarely stays seated for any length of time, getting up to shout instructions or yell at his players. He chews his nails or a wet towel that is placed strategically underneath his seat.

When something goes wrong, he might smack himself in the temple, cover his head with his hand or bury his face in his palms.

This particular game, a real head-smacker, is exciting, nonetheless. Both teams play fast-and-loose basketball. Pro basketball. Jerry Tarkanian basketball.

"The first nine minutes of the game, my mouth was wide open," said Mike Fratello, an assistant coach for the Atlanta Hawks. "They hardly stopped for a breath."

Since Tarkanian became a major college coach, 12 of his players have played in either the National or American Basketball Associations, although only Ricky Sobers and Reggie Theus have really starred in the pros. At UNLV, 14 of his players have been drafted. NBA scouts like his teams because they play a fast-paced game, both on offense and defense.

"The key thing is to see an individual in a pressurized situation and see if he produces," said Fratello. "If a kid's got the tools, then Tark forces him to play the pressure defense and running game. The pro game is fast transitions. That's what it's all about."

TARK'S PRO-STYLE game is a definite selling point. His Runnin' Rebels have been near the top of the team scoring charts all season, even though he says he doesn't have a good shooting club. In the 1975-76 season, UNLV set an NCAA record, averaging 110.5 points a game. The next season, the Rebels had at least 100 points in a record 12 straight games, reached the Final Four of the NCAA Tournament and had a record six players drafted by the NBA.

"At some of the Eastern schools you'll see 50-49 games," said one coach. "If a kid works on his shooting and his moves and is used to scoring points, don't you think he'd rather play run and gun?"

"For the running game, there's no place else to go," said senior Eddie McLeod. "The guys who come here have their minds mainly on the pros — like me. The Tark makes pros, and the scouts know it."

At Long Beach, Tarkanian used a 1-2-2 zone and a power forward offense. He adapted his style to the personnel he inherited at Vegas in 1973, the Rebels became the Runnin' Rebels and Tarkanian became a believer. This fast town fell in love with the fast game and would scream if the Rebels tried a slow down. So Tark recruits greyhounds, most of whom happen to be black players who love to run and gun.

Another Tarkanian selling point is his rapport with blacks. Many of his ex-players have become unofficial recruiters in black areas, spreading the word that Tark can be trusted.

Tarkanian is credited as being one of the first coaches at a major college to play five blacks at once.

"I've always gotten along with blacks," Tarkanian said. "I played blacks on my team when other coaches wouldn't. I've had white starters almost every year, but they've got to be good enough to start because I won't start them just because they're white."

"The coach is a legend in the black community in L.A.," said Flintie Ray Williams, formerly of Pepperdine and one of four transfers who get regular court time at UNLV. Brett Vroman, the only white regular, transferred from UCLA after three trips to the NCAA Tournament. Earl Evans, a possible first-round draft choice this year, came from Southern California, and Tony Smith, UNLV's high-scoring forward, left Houston.

"I KNEW some people who played for him in junior college, and they talked about how fair he was to blacks," said Smith, who makes a good percentage of his 25-footers. "I liked his style of ball. The only thing that scared me was the (NCAA) probation. But we can still get on TV and there are scouts around here all the time. I was really just looking for recognition."

"(Houston Coach) Guy Lewis said I was uncoachable. I proved differently here."

Tarkanian, who feels he's been victimized by a bad rap himself, says he'll walk the extra mile for a player, refusing to accept a reputation before checking it out himself.

"Just because another coach says the kid's a problem doesn't make it so," said Tarkanian. "Many times, it's the coach's fault. He's failed to build a rapport. Or maybe, it's a personality clash."

One coach likens Tarkanian to "a hoodlum priest. He knows some of his kids are bad, but he tries to build them into better people. Some of his kids are out-and-out punks but he'll protect them."

The 2-year NCAA probation at UNLV — mostly for violations committed before Tarkanian came to Las Vegas — is supposed to end after this season. The probation prohibits the Rebels from playing in the NCAA Tournament that begins Friday and reduces their basketball scholarships to three a year. Yet Tarkanian still manages to recruit four freshmen this season who are making contributions to the team.

ONE OF THEM, Richard Box, who has the best grades on the team, chose UNLV over numerous other schools, including California.

"Basically I wanted to be a winner," Box said. "I liked the city, and a school's a school. A lot of people told me the program was a bandit program. But I decided to check it out myself. That stuff happens everywhere. I've had no regrets since I came here."

Tarkanian's players generally seem to like him. "He's a straight shooter," said Williams. "We don't have to make appointments to see the coach. He's like one of the boys."

"We're pretty much on the same level," said Vroman. "Some coaches keep their distance but he doesn't do that. He's honest with his players, and that's the important thing."

The NCAA says one reason it has such a hard time getting the goods on Tarkanian is that his players are too loyal. Cash transactions aren't done in front of cheering crowds, either, the NCAA says.

"The boosters here will slip you something, just like everywhere else," said McLeod. "And when you go to the coach with a problem, he'll steer you to someone. Boosters know how to handle this type of thing. It's done privately."

Tarkanian says he's clean now. If a player asks for help, "I'll say 'you know people in this town as well as I do, keep me out of it.'"

Either way, Tarkanian's attitude is that he either cannot or does not want to turn off the flow of illegal booster activities.

"It's really uncontrollable, there are rabid people in any town," he said. "But you can't tell a black player where he can go or who he can see. All their lives people have told them where to go."

Borg overcomes nose bleed, McEnroe

TENNIS—Bjorn Borg overcame a heavy nose bleed and a bumpy court to defeat John McEnroe 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 in a $60,000 Challenge match at Randers, Denmark, Friday. McEnroe had held his serve in the second set to lead 1-0 when Borg's nose began to bleed. The match was interrupted for nearly an hour before a doctor halted the bleeding. When the 22-year-old Swedish ace finally returned to the court he played with his usual concentration.

FOOTBALL—O.J. Simpson, pro football's most highly paid player, has sued for divorce from his wife, Marguerite. The divorce petition was filed in Santa Monica, Calif. The Simpsons have been living for several years in the Bel Air section of Los Angeles. Simpson was at work on a movie and was not available for comment on the divorce action, filed Feb. 21.

Jim Sweeney will join the NFL St. Louis Cardinals as offensive backfield coach after a short coaching stint with the Oakland Raiders and a 15-year college career that took him from Montana State to Washington State and then Fresno State.

BASKETBALL—Former Harlem Globetrotter and University of Houston star Theodis Lee, 33, died Friday of cancer, a spokesman at M.D. Anderson Hospital confirmed. Lee, who starred on the 1968 Houston team with Elvin Hayes, was admitted to the hospital Wednesday night and died about 10 a.m. Friday.

Providence College ended a four-month search for a basketball coach by signing Dartmouth's Gary Walters. Walters replaces Dave Gavitt, who had nine winning seasons with Providence, but finished 10-16 this year. Walters guided Dartmouth to a 14-12 record with upsets over Holy Cross, Seton Hall and Princeton.

BASEBALL—Bill North, the center fielder who won the American League stolen base title three years ago, signed a two-year contract with the San Francisco Giants for slightly more than $110,000 per year. It was reported.

Jim Palmer will be Baltimore's starting pitcher today when the Orioles open their 25-game exhibition schedule against the New York Yankees in Fort Lauderdale. Manager Earl Weaver also named Scott McGregor and Don Stanhouse to follow Palmer. Tommy John, the free agent left-hander who played out his option with Los Angeles, will pitch for the Yankees.

Charles Shipman Payson, principal owner of the New York Mets, said the success of the club this season may very well govern his family's future financial involvement in the team. It was the first indication by Payson, who owns 47 percent of the stock, that the club could be put on the market.

Alan Wirth, who spent most of last season in the minor leagues, will be the Oakland A's starting pitcher today against the California Angels in Palm Springs. Matt Keough will start Sunday's game.

Karl Eller, the head of Combined Communications Corp. of Phoenix, Ariz., said he and some investors are close to an agreement to buy the Oakland A's, a Rochester, N.Y., newspaper reported. "We think we have a handshake deal, and we're hoping to close it within the next week," Eller was quoted.

Don Hood, the forgotten man of the Cleveland Indians' pitching staff, expects to be remembered before the spring is over. The left-hander suffered through a disastrous season in 1978, winning a job in the starting rotation. Then he lost it and was virtually forgotten. "My confidence is fine, not hurt at all," Hood said. "When Jeff (Manager Jeff Torborg) took me out of the starting rotation, he said I could help the ball club more in the bullpen as the long reliever and as a spot starter. That was hard for me to accept, now I realize that is going to be my role and I'm ready to do it. I have no mental block at all about it. In fact, I'm looking forward to contributing to the team in any way I can."

Weber surprises N. Mexico State

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — David Johnson scored 19 points and Ben Howland came off the bench to add 16 and boost Weber State to an 81-78 overtime victory over New Mexico State Friday in a first-round game of the NCAA Midwest Regionals.

Virginia Tech and Jacksonville played in the second game. Weber State, now 25-8, blew two 9-point leads and a 7-point lead as New Mexico State went on an 11-2 spree late in the game to turn a 63-56 deficit into a 67-65 lead.

Chuck Goslin, not known for his shooting, led New Mexico State with 23 points, bombing away from long range as he spearheaded three Aggie rallies.

Robert Gunn, who totaled 19 points for New Mexico State, hit a short jumper to give the Aggies a 69-65 lead late in the contest, but Johnson hit two baseline jumpers to forge the overtime at 69.

Weber State, which will meet Arkansas in the second round Sunday, outscored New Mexico State 8-1 in the first two minutes of overtime, with reserve Todd Harper getting two quick buckets.

Weber State frittered away a 9-point lead in the first half and led at intermission, 41-40. The Wildcats then scored the first 8 points of the second half, but New Mexico State, which had beaten Weber State earlier this season, rallied to take a brief lead, 54-53, with 11:44 remaining.

New Mexico State, runner-up to top-ranked Indiana State in the Missouri Valley, finishes with a 22-10 mark.

Lamar's Kea sparks victory over Detroit

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. (AP) — Mular's Clarence Kea took charge of Lamar's inside game from the start, scoring 33 points and leading the unheralded Cardinals to a 95-87 upset over 17th-ranked Detroit in a first-round game of the NCAA's Midwest Regional basketball tournament Friday night.

Tennessee, the nation's No. 20 team, took on Eastern Kentucky in the second game of the double-header at the noisy Murphy Athletic Center

St. John's trips Temple in NCAA play

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Sophomore Wayne McKay scored 22 points, including six shortly after St. John's lead had been cut to one point, and led the Redmen to a 75-70 victory over 13th-ranked Temple in the first round of the NCAA basketball tournament Friday night.

The victory moves St. John's, 19-10, into a second-round match Sunday against Duke.

on the University of Middle Tennessee State campus.

Lamar's victory earned the Cardinals a berth in Sunday's second-round game here against Michigan State.

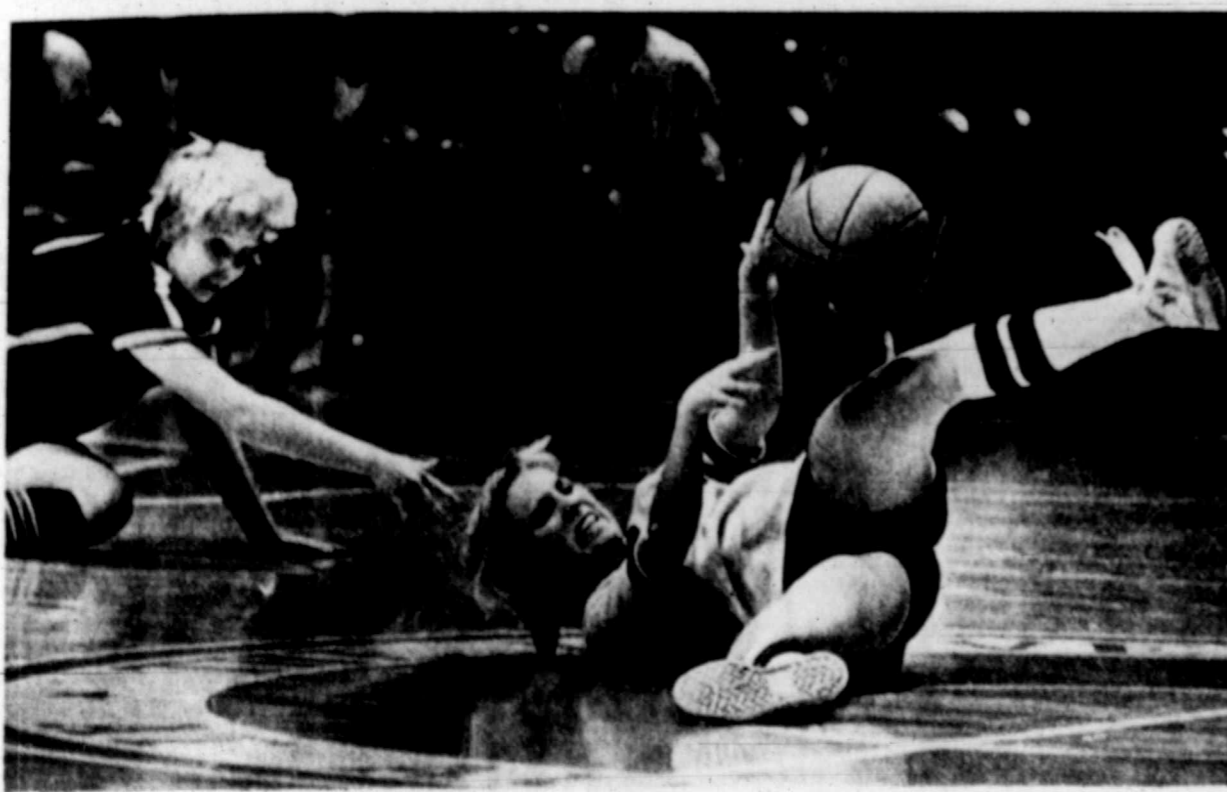

Kea, a bull-shoothered 6-foot-6 junior, scored 12 of his points and grabbed 10 rebounds to spearhead the Southland Conference champions to a 47-41 lead at halftime over the favored Titans.

Then he had 21 more points in the second half to power Lamar to a substantial lead near the end.

Three of Kea's points came in a nine-point run when the racehorse Cardinals jumped to a 10-point lead at 78-68 with 7:39 remaining.

The Titans never got closer than five points the rest of the way. Kea delivered the last two points for the Cardinals with foul shots in the waning seconds before leaping into his teammates' arms as Lamar won its first NCAA game in its first appearance ever in the prestigious tournament.

Mike Oliver contributed 23 points while B.B. Davis added 20 for Lamar, 23-8. Terry Duerod scored 22 points for Detroit, 22-6. The Titans also got 16 points from Earl Cureton.

Victoria, SOC clash

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Anna Boldt scored two driving layups in the closing minutes Friday night as Victoria edged Plainview, 51-45, in the Class 4A semifinals of the girls' state basketball tournament.

Victoria will play undefeated Dallas South Oak Cliff, a runaway 68-48 victor over Alvin, for the 4A championship Saturday afternoon.

South Oak Cliff has won 43 games without a loss this year, including an 11-point victory over Victoria at midseason. South Oak Cliff's winning streak now stands at 65 over two seasons, and it defeated Victoria for the 4A championship last year.

Three first quarter fouls on Plainview scoring star Gay Hemphill, a sensational 5-foot-11 sophomore, put her on the bench for almost a third of the game as Victoria took a 32-21 halftime lead.

Hemphill returned to the game and scored 25 points, but missed a crucial shot with Plainview trailing 48-45 and fouled out trying to get the loose ball with 1:03 left in the game.

Boldt, a 5-foot-11 senior, took passes near the basket after Victoria had gone into a slow-down offense for two important baskets. She finished with 16 points, but teammate Sheryl Hauglum was high for Victoria with 20 points.

South Oak Cliff's Bridgett Phillips, a 5-foot-10 senior, poured in 24 points, and Ramona Dozier had 16.

The championship Saturday at 3:05 p.m. South Oak Cliff has won two consecutive titles.

South Oak Cliff built its margin as high as 27 points early in the fourth quarter. Barbara Archie, perhaps the best player on the court, led Alvin with 19 points but made only three of 11 free throws. Alvin was eliminated with a 27-8 season record.

In the Class 4A semifinals Bogata Rivercrest ended Rogers' impressive season, 46-37, and Hale Center held off a Wall rally, 57-49.

Scotti Wood led a quick-handed Rivercrest defense that forced Rogers to make 27 turnovers, and she hit 12 of 14 free throws—including 10 in the final quarter — to lead all scorers with 26 points.

Wood, a 5-foot-3 sophomore, had five steals in the first half as Rivercrest took a 27-18 lead it never relinquished.

Rivercrest's full-court defense was so effective it won even though it made only 29.2 percent of its field goal attempts.

Tammy Williams scored 18 points and collected 11 rebounds for Rogers. She had only four free throws in the second half, however, and fouled out with 5:19 left in the game. Her sister Karen fouled out three minutes later with five points.

Rogers entered the tournament with a 40-1 record, including a recent one-point victory in a practice game over Pflugerville, a Class 2A finalist. Rivercrest boosted its record to 28-3.

Hale Center overcame an early 7-0 Wall lead by scoring 10 straight points and led 28-15 at halftime. Wall outscored Hale Center 18-10 in fourth quarter comeback as Kim Black and Karen Waits — Hale Center's best ballhandlers — fouled out.

Some dream of Irish-USC and others of Jan-Laura

Los Angeles Times Syndicate
Lots of people when they think of "dream" matchups in sports tend to fantasize about Dempsey-Tunney, Russell versus Chamberlain, Koufax against Mays, Nicklaus-Watson, Affirmed-Alydar, Notre Dame-SC or Oakland-Dallas, Walker versus Coghlan, Rono against a clock.

WATCHING JAN Stephenson drive is like watching Dorothy Hamill skate, or Mitzi Gaynor dance, or Chrissie Evert volley. It should be set to music.
What Jan Stephenson is doing on a fairway instead of a sound stage is something for the ages to puzzle about. She should be making a living kissing Robert Redford on camera, not putting.

JAN STEPHENSON looks more like a "Me Tarzan - You Jane" character at the end of 18. The eye makeup might be drooping, the hair loose, and the shirttail sticking out - but she still looks like something coming down the staircase at the Winter Garden in sequins and silk tights to the strains of "A Pretty Girl is Like a Melody."

OU-Texas is instant sellout even on court

DALLAS (AP) - The game site isn't the Cotton Bowl and the sport isn't football.
But a meeting between Oklahoma and Texas in anything means instant sellout.

TEXAS IS 15th-ranked but lost 71-65 to Big Eight Champion Oklahoma, now 20-9, earlier in the year.
The Longhorns, who won the National Invitational Tournament title last year by defeating North Carolina State, have finished as high as third in the NCAA. Ironically, Oklahoma knocked the Longhorns off in 1947 and finished second in the nation.

Texas, 21-7, tied for the Southwest Conference with Arkansas but lost to the Razorbacks 39-38 in nerve-testing slowdown games in the post-season tournament.
Louisville, 23-7, the Metro Conference champion, is in a post-season tourney for the eighth straight year under Denny Crum. The Cardinals highest NCAA finish was third in 1975.

Lacy bowls like he's hunting sponsor

By RANDY ISENBERG

Charlie Lacy, taking a few weeks off from the Pro Bowlers Tour until he can obtain more financial support, bowled like he was hunting for a sponsor this week averaging 222.32 for 12 league games reported on series of 717, 684, 671 and 616, and highlighted by two 278 games.

SHE WAS so confident she put up at a $100-a-day room at the Doral, instead of a cook-in-the-room apartment at an airport motel. Before she left home she told her father she expected to own a Miami condominium by summer. She rented a white Thunderbird, ate in the better restaurants, and spent $400 at a crack telephoning home to Australia. While tour veterans were ironing their own dresses, driving compacts and putting their hair up in curlers every night at Holiday Inns, Jan was living like a two-time Open winner.

Fortunately for her, she made this cut, too. She passed the qualifying school and, just as she went broke, finished fourth and won $3,666 at Port St. Lucie after shooting her way in. "Forty-two girls were after six spots, and I made it."

Jan has never looked back. She was Rookie of the Year on the course, and Beauty of the Year on magazine covers. The next year, she even won two tournaments.

She is as emotional as "Aida" but her temperament is more calculated. She found she had a lot to learn about golf, but being a star came naturally. She has averaged $65,000 a year the past three years.

Not everybody is happy. Clark Gable nearly ruined the undershirt industry in 1934 when he stripped to the waist in "It Happened One Night" and proved not to be wearing one. The bra industry is similarly depressed when Jan wins.

Hale Irwin goes 10-under-par in Gleason golf with scorching 62. (AP Laserphoto)

Irwin levels Inverrary

LAUDERHILL, Fla. (AP) - Hale Irwin scorched Inverrary - made defenseless by a lack of wind - with a course-record, 10-under-par 62 and surged into a tie with Tommy Aaron for the second round lead Thursday in $300,000 Jackie Gleason Inverrary Golf Classic.

"I putted the hell out of it," said the delighted Irwin who, disgusted with his work on the greens, changed putters a week ago.
"The putter, the club, the brand, whatever you call it, really doesn't make that much difference," he said. "It just that sometimes the change, the fact that you made a change, removes the doubts from your mind."

And it gave Irwin, who failed to win an American tournament last season for the first time in six years, a 36-hole total of 135, 9-under-par on the 7,127-yard Inverrary Country Club layout.
Aaron, a 42-year-old former Masters champ who is on the rebound after a protracted slump, was tied with him for the lead after a 69.
Larry Nelson was alone in third at 136 after a 69. Charles Coody, another former Masters champ, shot 69-137 and Grier Jones was 67-138.
The group at 139 included Randy Erskine, Wayne Levi, Bill Rogers and British Ryder Cup player Mark James.

MONICE ADKINS paced the women this past week with a 641 series on games of 239-201-201. Sheila Wood, who has been bowling well all year, rolled a 258 game and 621 series in the Ladies Scratch Trio on Feb. 21. Other women rolling 600 series this past few weeks were Frances Nobles, 632, her first; Rita Edwards, 632; Marion Axe, 258-802. Marion bowled her 258 the same week that Wood recorded her fine gem. Dot Fielding, 820; and Edith Hall also broke the 800 four-game barrier in the Ladies Scratch League.

The Men's City Tournament deadline is today. Men, if you have not turned your entry in, do so today, please.
The Women's City Tournament entry forms are now at the bowling centers. All sanctioned women in the Midland Women's Bowling Association are eligible to participate in this event to be held on the last two weeks-end in April.

OTHER NOTES around the lanes: Becky Bishop bowled consistently well in her Tuesday Morning Ladies League, with games of 190-185 and 199 for a 583 series. Charlie Warren, who has not bowled in an organized league in six or seven years, bowled a 253 game on his first night in the Air Park Mixed League.

The Air Park Lanes' Easter Seals Bowling Marathon was a tremendous success with over 16 five-man teams entered in the event that ran from 12 midnight until 8 in the morning. Over $3,600 has been pledged to the participants in the event, with The Hustlers, Edens Restaurant, El Chico Restaurant, Cody Cattle Co., and Terry's Plumbing standing to be the big winners.

Lopez risks feather crown

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - Danny "Little Red" Lopez accepts a sixth challenger to his World Boxing Council featherweight title today - European champion Roberto Castanon.
Castanon, a Spaniard, has a 29-0 record. Lopez, with a 39-3 record, said he has never seen Castanon fight.

Phoenix prepares for its first Indy type race

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) - Preparations for the first ever Indianapolis car race conducted by the new Championship Auto Racing Teams group got under way auspiciously Friday, in almost total isolation at Phoenix International Raceway.
Registration and setup of equipment for Sunday's 150-mile race began early Friday as transporters moved the race cars across a still-forming temporary road to the raceway, which is east of here along the Salt River flood plain. The only road to the track was swept away by flooding two months ago.

Continued run-off from rain-swollen reservoirs upstream and opposition of angry area residents kept crews from replacing the road before now. Some residents picketed the construction area, calling for work on flood control and general road repairs before worrying about putting in an access road to an auto race. Construction workers packed up and left, leaving an eight-foot deep canyon a quarter mile wide where the only road to the track used to be.

Work resumed Wednesday after raceway officials "sold" residents on the importance of fixing the road, 115th St., which also leads to a county landfill.
REPAIRS WERE far enough along early Friday to allow some essential traffic through.

BYU counts on team to stop Bill Cartwright

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) - Bill Cartwright, San Francisco's All-America center, cannot be stopped one-on-one, says Brigham Young Coach Frank Arnold, so he will use a team approach when the two squads meet in the NCAA West Regional playoffs Saturday.
Meanwhile, San Francisco Coach Dan Belluomini says his team will see what approach BYU takes on defense and then make adjustments.
San Francisco, ranked 19th after a 21-6 regular season, meets Brigham Young, unranked with a 20-7 record, in the opening game of a double-header in the second round of the west regional playoffs at the McKale Center. Twelfth-ranked Marquette, 21-6, plays unranked Pacific, 18-11, in the second game.

"We cannot stop him with one player," Arnold said of the 7-1 Cartwright, who is averaging 24.1 points and 16.2 rebounds a game. "So we're going to use a team defense against him."
Belluomini said his team will follow the same pattern it has during the season. "We try to make adjustments based on how teams play him," he said. "Cartwright has been scoring less because teams concentrate on him, but he's a very selfish player."
While BYU must deal with Cartwright, San Francisco will have to figure out how to stop Brigham Young's hot shooters, especially sophomore guard Danny Ainge, Belluomini said.
"The big problem they present is that they score all the time," he said of BYU. "They bring the ball down and hit jumpers. And Ainge is a great player, but (guard Scott) Runia also causes problems for us."

Ainge is averaging 18.7 a game and leads BYU in steals and assists. Runia is the playmaker and scores 11.4 a game.
In the Marquette-Pacific game, Marquette Coach Hank Raymonds said he is not being complacent although Pacific has the worst record of any NCAA playoff team.
"I know a lot about this ballclub," Raymonds said of Pacific. "We're favored but this is like a new season."

U.S. sues to ban story on how to make H-bomb

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says that publication of a magazine article entitled "How a Hydrogen Bomb Works" could cause

"grave, direct, immediate and irreparable harm to the national security of the United States and its people."

The Justice Department said Friday that it has filed a civil suit in Madison, Wis., federal court to prevent The Progressive magazine from publishing the article.

Court documents supplied by the Justice Department said, "The article provides specific and detailed information concerning the design and operation of a hydrogen bomb, and certain technical information necessary to construct such a bomb."

Publication of the information "would increase the proliferation of nuclear weapons, and thereby severely undercut the arms control and disarmament policies of the United States," according to the government's suit.

The suit states that publication of the article is "imminent" unless a temporary restraining order is granted by the court.

Named as defendants are the magazine's parent firm in Madison, The Progressive Inc.; Erwin Knoll, the magazine's editor; Samuel H. Day Jr., managing editor, and Howard Morland, the author of the article.

Knoll said in Madison that he had not seen the suit yet and his attorney advised him not to answer questions about it. But he said his attorney had told him the government was planning some sort of "prior restraint."

Day also declined to comment directly on the suit.

The self-described liberal magazine, with a circulation of about 40,000, had planned to print the article in its April issue, due to be published next week, the editors said.

The government said the "secret restricted data" in the article, if published, "will increase the number of nations capable of constructing thermonuclear weapons and decrease the time it takes for these nations to develop such weapons."

The suit said the Energy Department received a copy of the article Feb. 27, with a cover letter from Day asking the department to "verify the technical accuracy of the information contained in the article."

The Energy Department is responsible for the design and development of the nation's nuclear weapons.

Day confirmed the article had been sent to the Energy Department.

According to an affidavit filed with the suit, Lynn R. Coleman, Energy Department general counsel, telephoned Day and Knoll asking that the article not be published.

The court papers said Energy Department officials also met with Knoll and Day and offered to help them edit the article so that sensitive data would not be disclosed.

But the affidavit said Gordon Sinykin, attorney for the magazine, replied Wednesday that the magazine intended to publish the article.

Soviets examine press role

By NIKKI FINKE

MOSCOW (AP) — No Soviet journalist will ever uncover anything like America's Watergate scandal, but reporters here are beginning to pursue the art of "investigative journalism" — and making waves because of it.

In fact, so many journalists have turned to rooting out corruption in factories or spotlighting inefficiency on the farm that a lively debate has surfaced in the trade magazine, "Journalist," over whether Soviet reporters should be allowed to sniff out scandals.

"If a journalist in his investigation has dug right to the bottom and tells how the public interest was damaged, then he should be thanked," wrote one Soviet journalist in a letter.

But there were many others who disagreed. "I think that the term 'investigate' does not belong in the work of a journalist," one reporter noted.

LIKE IT OR NOT, Soviet journalists acknowledge that more and more of their time is being spent in exposing the evils of the country's socialist society, rather than helping to grease the wheels of the Kremlin's extensive propaganda machine.

And, from the reporters' own publicly expressed insecurity about their role, it is not clear whether this Soviet-style investigative reporting is meeting with high-level approval.

It is well-known that some cases of corruption cited in the official newspapers are pure fantasy — either a compilation of several old incidents or illustrations of what "could happen."

But these articles serve to warn those citizens who might be considering a try at hustling an illegal ruble or two, and each details the stiff court sentences handed down to the criminal.

ONE SOVIET JOURNALIST, who asked not to be identified, told The Associated Press of an incident in which a factory boss burst into tears when a team of Moscow newspaper reporters arrived to "dig out" a story.

Obviously, the reporters had been tipped by government officials that something fishy was going on at the factory, so their arrival spelled trouble for the boss. He was later exposed in the newspaper article for siphoning funds from the factory budget.

Then there are times when an eager journalist can do too much investigating, according to his editors in the manipulated press.

Vasily Yevseyenko, a Russian Republic reporter, wrote "Journalist" complaining about a story he was asked to write on why a team of oil drillers working on two local rigs had over-fulfilled their monthly plans by a staggering 200 percent.

Surely, his editors reasoned, these were outstanding toilers whose efforts should be heralded in the regional newspaper.

So, Yevseyenko said, he went out to the rig and found that, while other drillers were working eight-hour shifts, these "outstanding" laborers were violating Soviet safety regulations by toiling for 14 to 16 hours a day so they could pocket some extra cash.

"Explaining all this to the editor, I told him that I was not going to raise these people on a pedestal of honor since they had done nothing to deserve it," Yevseyenko wrote.

"Okay, said my editor, don't write about them. We'll send another staffer and he'll be willing to write it."

THE STORY WAS PRINTED, but the lie eventually backfired. The drillers, Yevseyenko said, were invited to give a demonstration at a neighboring rig but they could only achieve half their results in the normal eight-hour shift "and with shame they had to confess about their illegal work."

The magazine debate was sparked by an article headlined "Should a Journalist Investigate?"

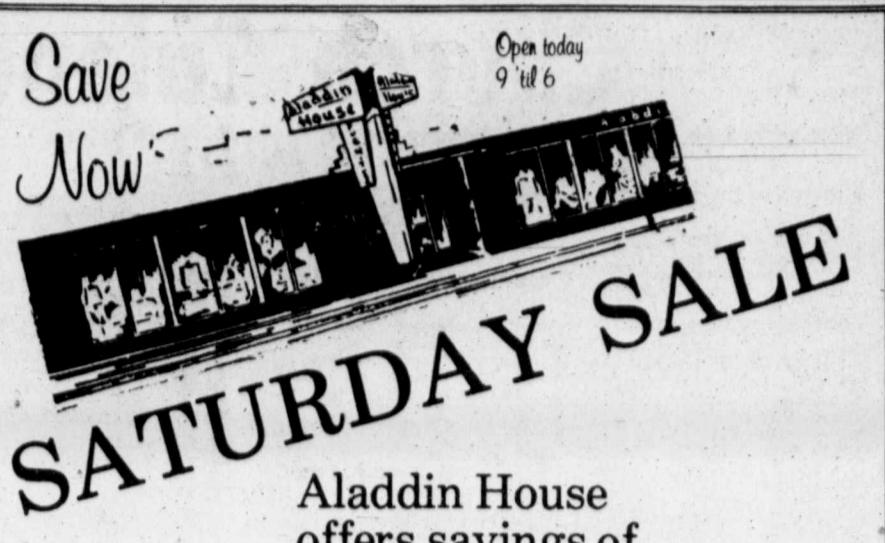

According to author Yuri Borin, the goal of a journalist should not be to investigate but to research. Because he has no legal force behind his probing, a nosy reporter should leave it to the experts.

"Journalists who want to carry out an investigation in a private way can run into bad luck or end up with a total flop," Borin said. "For such an investigation will be the work of a dilettante."

Another letter-writer declared that "a journalist has no moral right to intrude, or, if necessary, to accuse or defend."

BUT ONE MEMBER of the country's union of journalists defended his right to investigate scandal, while noting the difficult two-way street which every Soviet reporter must travel every day.

"Correspondents," he said, "should check out every fact, scrutinize every signal, and objectively, deeply and thoroughly investigate each question. And this has to be done not only while preparing critical articles but while writing positive ones too."

MEET THE MINISTER

Rohre isn't new to West Texas or ministry

By ROGER SOUTHALL
Staff Writer

Among the new ministers in the city is Doug Rohre, who came to the pulpit of Midland's North A and Tennessee Streets Church of Christ just two months ago.

That is to say he is "new" from the standpoint of his short period of residency here, but he certainly isn't new to the ministry. He's been preaching for more than a quarter of a century.

And Rohre isn't exactly "new" to West Texas, either. Although born at Mercedes, in the Rio Grande Valley, and reared in South Texas, he came to West Texas to attend Abilene Christian University and since then has served as minister to congregations in San Angelo and Brownfield.

Rohre came here from the Crestview Church of Christ at Waco, a post he held for several years, and he says that he and his family are "absolutely delighted to be back in West Texas again."

In the Midland post, Rohre succeeded William F. Walker as pulpit minister. Walker resigned in late 1978 to begin a ministry in the Beaumont area.

Rohre graduated from high school at San Antonio and served six years in the U.S. Navy. He attended Abilene Christian University, receiving both BS and MA degrees there, with Bible as his major field of study.

Rohre has done additional work in theology at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth. He also is a graduate of the Air War College at Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., and the National Defense University in Washington, D.C.

Rohre preached for the Colorado at Jackson Streets Church of Christ in San Angelo, then accepted a call to the Moberly Avenue Church of Christ in Longview. Then he became pulpit minister to the congregation of Brownfield's Crescent Hill Church, and from there the family moved to Waco where they remained until the recent return to West Texas.

In addition to preaching regularly through the years, Rohre held the Church of Christ Bible chair at West Texas State University, Canyon, for a two-year-period as teacher-lecturer. During the past two decades, he has written a number of adult study books for use in Bible classes. He also is a guest columnist for several newspapers in the state, including those in Brownfield and Medina.

Rohre is in considerable demand as a speaker and annually conducts a half-dozen or so gospel meetings in various parts of the United States. He frequently addresses college and high groups on topics related to Home and Family Living.

Earlier this week, Rohre was featured speaker at a series of gospel meetings at the North A and Tennessee Streets Church of Christ.

Rohre is a member of the Midland West Rotary Club. He has been married for the last 26 years to the former Doris Jeanne Scott of Vernon. Mrs. Rohre is a teacher at the Midland Christian School.

The Rohres are the parents of three children: Daughter Sherry, 22, is a senior student at Abilene Christian University; daughter Susan, 18, remained behind in Waco to complete her senior year at Midway High School, and son Gary, 14, is a freshman student in the Midland public schools. The family residence is at 3201 Cimarron Ave.

Doug Rohre, pulpit minister for the North A and Tennessee Streets Church of Christ, is a newcomer to the Midland scene, but he has had preaching ministries elsewhere in West Texas in the past, including San Angelo, Brownfield and Canyon. (Staff Photo)

Talking about your faith isn't always that easy

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A lot of Christians are reluctant to talk about their faith to people outside the church. This was brought out in a recent survey among members of the Lutheran Church in America and it has been cited as a damper on religious vitality in modern society.

"I don't feel I could explain my faith to others," went one comment among the 44 percent of the laity who said they would be hesitant or disinclined to discuss religion with non-members even if asked to do so by their pastor.

"I would be shy about talking to others about my faith," another commented. Also: "I couldn't communicate very well what the Gospel means to me. I'd feel I was imposing my beliefs on others." "Talking about religion and faith is really the pastor's job."

That contemporary tendency to reticence about faith has been widely noted in the more sedate or "dignified" denominations, as they're sometimes described, in contrast to the evangelical-style churches. It is the latter that have grown fastest lately, while the others mostly have sagged.

To rulemakers on etiquette, good taste has long been supposed to preclude conversation about religion in mixed social gatherings. As the late George Bernard Shaw once put it, "The only two things worse than talking about religion are talking about politics."

However, the concern in the churches about it has to do not with mixed dinner-table talk, but with personal discussions with associates and friends in the everyday round of living. It is such contacts and conversations that always mark congregational growth, says an expert on the subject.

"In most rapidly growing congregations, two-thirds to seven-eighths of the recent adult new members first attended at the invitation of a friend or relative," writes the Rev. Lyle E. Schaller, parish consultant for the Yockefellow Institute of Richmond, Ind.

"In these congregations the members are so enthusiastic about their own faith and what is happening in their church that they cannot help but share that enthusiasm with others. The lack of this excitement is the highest barrier to be found around any church."

Baptist leader to conduct clinic

Hazel Rogers, a member of the professional staff of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, will conduct a special clinic in Midland Tuesday.

Ms. Rogers is adult Sunday school consultant for the BGCT. The clinic to be held here is scheduled for 7 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday in First Baptist Church, West Louisiana avenue at North Garfield street.

The regional "Reaching Adults Clinic" will have a faculty composed of David Strawn, religious education director for the Lubbock Baptist Association; Roy Korngay, minister of education for First Baptist Church at Amarillo, and John T. Sisemore, program director for First Baptist Church of Shreveport, La.

The Flanagan Family, gospel and inspirational singers, will present a music service at 10 a.m. Sunday in Kelview Heights Baptist Church. The public is invited to hear the program.

Flanagan Family to present program

The Flanagan Family, an ensemble of inspirational singers, will present a special musical program at 10 a.m. Sunday in Kelview Heights Baptist Church.

The family travels widely in its fulltime music ministry. John Flanagan has written many of the songs which the family presents in its ministry, including a group of humorous songs. The ensemble has produced almost a dozen LP record albums.

The Flanagan's Midland concert will be open to all residents of the city and county, said the Rev. Frank Johnson, host pastor. Kelview Heights Baptist Church is located west of North Big Spring street, just north of Scharbauer Drive.

Young Musicians Choir will present musical

The Young Musicians Choir of First Baptist Church will present a special musical at 7 p.m. Sunday in the church sanctuary.

Midland.

Hungerford is rector of St. John's Episcopal Church of Odessa, and Mrs. Gilmore is past president of the diocesan churchwomen's organization and an active communicant of St. Nicholas' Episcopal Church in Midland.

The School of Prayer will be held in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church of Lubbock and will be open to both men and women of the diocese. Purpose of the school is to deepen, through study of prayer, the devotional life of those attending. The school has been planned for persons at all levels of prayer experience and will concentrate on participation and training in prayer and discussion of prayer.

Registration forms for the school are available in the offices of Episcopal parishes throughout the Northwest Texas diocese. The school is being sponsored jointly by the diocesan Commission of Christian Ministry and Mission and the churchwomen's organization of the diocese.

Covenant Players perform Sunday

The Covenant Players, a drama organization from the West Coast which has sent groups of its actors to the city several times in the past to perform in Midland churches, will present a performance Sunday evening in Memorial Christian Church, 1001 Andrews Highway.

Dorothy Garrett honored by church

BIG SPRING — Dorothy Garrett, Big Spring philanthropist and civic leader, is the recipient of a special honor from the United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Garrett earlier this week received the Hall of Fame in Philanthropy Award by the National Association of Health and Welfare Ministries of the United Methodist denomination.

The award is given annually to a living person who has made outstanding contributions in service and financial support to United Methodist health and welfare ministries in the United States.

The presentation was made at the 39th annual meeting of the National Association of Health and Welfare Ministries of the UMC in Anaheim, Calif. Attending the meeting to accept the award was Mrs. Garrett's daughter, Mrs. Stan Partee of Lubbock.

Mrs. Garrett was nominated for the honor by the board of trustees of the Methodist Hospital of Lubbock.

Mrs. Garrett, member of a pioneer West Texas family, is the widow of Horace Garrett, grandson of Dora Roberts, Howard County pioneer ranchwoman whose holdings in lands and business ventures were extensive. The Forsan oil field was developed on several sections of Mrs. Roberts' property.

Mrs. Garrett's interest in Methodist Hospital at Lubbock has provided facilities to aid patients with heart disease. A longtime member of the First United Methodist Church at Big Spring, she has been active in numerous church projects, including the establishment of the Kentwood Older Adult Center of the church.

She is a trustee of Howard College at Big Spring and the college's ultra-modern new college and student center is named in her honor. Other projects supported by Mrs. Garrett and her family through the Dora Roberts Foundation include the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, Big Spring Community Center, Heritage Museum, YMCA and Boys Club.

Bible now translated in 1,660 languages

NEW YORK — By the end of 1978, at least one book of the Bible had been published in 1,660 of the world's languages and distinct dialects, according to an announcement by the American Bible Society.

Spokesmen for the ABS say this represents a gain of 29 languages over the 1977 count of 1,631 languages and dialects.

New Testaments were the first scriptures ever published in the languages of Southern Sudanese Arabic, of Gamit in India, of Tampulma in Ghana, and of Yareba in Papua, New Guinea, it was pointed out by the Bible Society.

Geographically speaking, Africa has the largest number of languages (482) in which at least one book of the Bible has been translated. Asia ranks second with 428 languages and Latin America third, with 269.

In Australia and the South Pacific, scriptures have been published in 240 languages, while in Europe the scriptures are now in 177 languages and in North America, in 62. Esperanto and Volapuk, both commonly known as international languages, also are included in the total of 1,660.

The official language tally by the American Bible Society is compiled from copies of the new scriptures received from various organizations by the ABS Library, the largest collection of its kind in the world which numbers more than 37,000 volumes of scripture, documents and reference items.

RELIGION

Among these languages and dialects are six languages spoken in Papua, New Guinea, five in Australia, three each in Brazil and the Philippines, two in the U.S.S.R. and two in Mexico. The Gospel of Mark was the first scriptural portion ever published in Palute, a language spoken by some 7,000 American Indians living on 19 reservations in Nevada, Idaho and California.

The complete Bible has been published in 268 languages, New Testaments in 453, and scripture portions in 939.

Entire Bibles were published for the first time in two new languages — Kate in Papua, New Guinea, and

IS THE BIBLE THE WORD OF GOD?
Some people say the Bible was written by men and contains errors. However, multitudes accept it as God's Holy Spirit inspired revelation to man. Who is right? The Bible is geographically and historically correct. All agree that its moral ethic is the best. Every test indicates that what it says about God and Christ is also true. It must be God's infallible Word. God says so: II Timothy 3:16.

Agencies pledge to investigate charges following woman's death

ARANSAS PASS, Texas (AP) — Three state agencies have promised to investigate the case of a 29-year-old pregnant woman who died in a car after she was taken to two hospitals by her sister.

A team from the Texas Department of Health Resources was sent to this coastal town Friday to look into the death of Ernestina Valdez of nearby Rockport. She was eight months pregnant when she died Thursday before dawn.

Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, said he received confirmation from the state attorney general's office and the Texas Rangers that they were planning to investigate the woman's death also.

Miss Valdez died in her sister's car after stopping at two hospitals here — Aransas Hospital and Lyman-Roberts.

Miss Valdez became ill Wednesday night and was first taken to a midwife, who advised she be taken to a hospital.

Assistant Administrator John Gilmore of Aransas Hospital said when the Valdez sisters arrived there, they advised them to go to Memorial Medical Center in Corpus Christi because "We do not have an obstetrician." Gilmore said nurses offered to call an ambulance, but that she and her sister, after a long discussion, "made a decision to go on; just where, our people did not know."

Memorial Medical Center is a tax-supported hospital. But instead of going there, the pair then went to Lyman-Roberts, a private hospital. They were not treated at Lyman-Roberts.

Catherine Cox, administrator of Lyman-Roberts, said the emergency room nurses met the Valdez sisters in the driveway and told them they should go to Memorial Medical Center as previously instructed.

"She never was treated in the emergency room," Mrs. Cox said. "Our nurses went out to the car."

The woman's sister, Amanda Valdez, said Lyman-Roberts nurses told her they thought her sister "was drunk and was going into labor before birth." She said she started to drive away but "my sister was struggling in the car, so I went back and asked them to get an ambulance. They said I could get there quicker by car."

Simple ceremony includes deputies serving as both witnesses, guards

It was a simple ceremony with sheriff's deputies as witnesses — and guards for the groom, who is a prisoner in the Midland County Jail.

Delia Sanchez and Jose Reyes, both of Midland, were married in Midland County Justice of the Peace Court Saturday.

Peace Justice Robert H. Pine performed the ceremony as sheriff deputies Dave Youngblood and Linda Terry looked on as witnesses.

The groom was arrested for violation of parole, allegedly being in possession of drugs, said a spokesman for the Midland County Sheriff's Office.

He has been sentenced to serve five years in the state prison in Huntsville, said Deputy Terry.

"It doesn't happen very often," said Deputy Terry, referring to the jailhouse marriage. "We had about four such marriages here last year. The bride said she would wait for the groom."

Midland Chapter 105 of the Reserve Officers Association held its annual installation banquet Friday night at the Holiday Inn on West Wall Street. Participating were Lt. Col. Byron E. Mills Jr. of San Antonio, president of Texas Department of R.O.A. and guest speaker; Major Gerald W. Hickman USAR, new president of the Midland chapter of R.O.A., and Major John M. Williams USAFR, banquet chairman. (Staff Photo)

Postal system's fleet director favors those gasless vehicles

By MIKE FEINSILBER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Donn P. Crane buys 350 million gallons of gasoline a year. When gas goes up a penny a gallon, he has to find another $3.5 million in his budget.

Small wonder he's partial to the 383 vehicles in his care that run on no gasoline at all.

Crane is the U.S. Postal System's fleet director, responsible for maintaining 123,000 red, white and blue cars, Jeeps and trucks.

The gasless vehicles in Crane's fleet run on electricity. They don't require a drop of gas, except for their heaters. Their batteries are recharged overnight.

Crane runs the country's biggest experiment with alternate fuels — one being watched closely as gasoline becomes costlier and scarcer.

The results won't be in for another seven years, but here are the trends:

The electric Jeeps cost twice as much as conventional vehicles. Maintenance costs have been slightly lower.

Electric fuel costs half as much. Over the vehicles' 10-year life, Crane expects the electric to be 10 percent cheaper than their gasoline-driven counterparts.

Some mailmen prefer driving regular Jeeps, some like the electric.

The electric run out of zip in cold weather and must be kept off some hilly routes. They tend to be sluggish and some postmen don't like taking them into merging traffic.

They have a top speed of 33 miles per hour and need an 8-to-10 hour recharge after 30 miles — much more than the average daily route.

On the other hand, the electric are quieter, cooler in summer and less tiring to drive, since they vibrate less. Knowing the Jeep's limitations, drivers tend to be cautious and have been in only one accident in three years.

To calculate energy use, Crane converts gasoline and electricity to a common measure — British Thermal Units. He finds a conventional Postal Service Jeep requires 23,383 BTU's per mile while the electric uses 17,956 BTU's. That's an energy saving of 23 percent.

Of course, there's something special about the way postal Jeeps are operated: It is all urban driving, in traffic, with lots of stops and starts. On average, a gasoline-powered Postal Service Jeep gets 6.6 miles to the gallon.

For that kind of driving, the electric Jeep has a big advantage. Stopped, it burns no fuel. (Crane claims more fuel is consumed by cars sitting still than by cars in motion. His gas-Jeep drivers are under instructions to cut the ignition if they need more than 20 seconds for a pickup or delivery.)

In 1975, Crane bought 29,773 conventionally powered Jeeps and 383 driven by batteries.

Both groups were made by American Motors. They were identical except for the electric car's 1,270 pounds of batteries.

Last year — figuring in fuel, parts, maintenance, depreciation and overhead — the electric Jeeps cost an average of $1,468.35 to operate. Gasoline-operated models cost $27.38 more.

The conventional Jeeps burned $356.19 worth of gas to travel an average of 4,600 miles; the electric Jeeps required $175.98 worth of kilowatts to go an average of 4,000 miles. Maintenance ran to $422 for the gasoline users and $403 for the electric.

The conventional Jeeps cost $2,785 new. Their electric counterparts cost $5,695, including chargers, plus $300 to $1,000 to install the charging units.

And soon the electric models are going to need new batteries.

Still, Crane estimates the electric Jeeps will wind up costing $4 million less than if gasoline-powered vehicles had been purchased instead.

He is so confident of the electric Jeep's worth that he plans within a few weeks to solicit bids for another 300.

Crane says the cost comparisons would favor electric vehicles even more if maintenance costs at an "awfully bad" postal garage at San Bernardino, Calif., weren't so unreasonable. Half the electric fleet is kept there.

He attributes the problem to bad management and "mechanical ineptitude" but the garage is under control of the regional office, not the Postal System's national headquarters.

"We can twist arms, but we can't split heads," he says.

Crane drives an American-made, gasoline-driven compact. He fixes it himself.

He thinks that in 10 years one in every six cars on urban streets will be battery powered but he is not closing

Forum scheduled

Concerned Citizens for Better Government will hold a public forum for voters to meet the candidates on the April 7 ballots at 8 p.m. Friday at Crockett Elementary School.

On April 7, voters will select City Council and school board members and hospital district directors.

Ordinance on agenda

A county animal ordinance, which would give county officials authority to control rabies, is scheduled for consideration by Midland County commissioners at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the county courthouse.

Also on the agenda are requests to use county facilities, purchase of county automobiles and repair of the Fairview Cemetery water tank the garage door on other fuels.

He is negotiating a contract for Energy Department sponsorship of an experiment using gasohol, a mixture of alcohol and gasoline.

But the future, he believes, belongs to hydrogen, "the fuel for the 21st Century."

Hydrogen is inexhaustible. When technology permits its use, it will be cheap and so clean that the only thing coming from the exhaust pipe will be pure, drinkable water.

As early as 1995, he says, the Postal System could be delivering the mail on hydrogen.

Judge sentences 'loiterers,' street people to their homes

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Louise Geeston now knows where to find her teen-age daughter who got in the habit of "hanging out all hours of the day and night."

The young woman, Selyweene, 19, was sentenced to "120 days at home" by a Municipal Court judge who has started imposing curfews on this city's "street people."

"I got tired of seeing the same faces and putting them on time payments for fines I knew they wouldn't pay," said Judge Thomas J. Shamy, 37. "I said there's got to be something else I can do."

In Miss Geeston's case, the four-month curfew was ordered after she was picked up for violating terms of her probation on a charge of receiving stolen property.

Louise Geeston, the mother of eight, says the unusual penalty has added clout to the discipline she tried in vain to impose on her youngest child.

"At least now she isn't on the street," Mrs. Geeston said. "At least she is home."

In the past two months Shamy has imposed the stay-at-home sentence on about a dozen young people. None has been spotted outside after 9 p.m.

And parents aren't the only ones happy with the new policy.

New Brunswick Police Chief Ralph C. Petrone said the curfew is making his job easier. People on curfew are repeat offenders and easily recognized by police.

"It's working out fine," the chief said. "It's keeping these violators off the street. We know all the bad ones in town. We know where they hang out, where they live."

The curfew plan is aimed at people ages 18 through 25 who are convicted of disorderly conduct, soliciting for prostitution and other charges that normally net them a few days in jail or fines up to $200, said Shamy, a judge for three years.

Shamy said these offenders normally are too old for juvenile court, but young enough to change their ways. It forces street-corner loiterers to stay inside and out of trouble, he said.

Anyone caught violating the curfew would be arrested and held in lieu of $200 bail on contempt of court charges. Conviction would bring a short jail term and an extended curfew. So far, none has been arrested.

The curfews are administered by calendar month and imposed for a minimum of 30 days. Most offenders have been given three-month curfews.
