New developments delay departure

JERUSALEM (AP) — President Carter delayed his departure from Israel today after making what Prime Minister Menachem Begin called "great progress" in the his quest for an Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty.

The Israeli government press office announced the departure delay, but did not say when Carter would leave.

The announcement came amid fast moving developments after Begin held an afternoon meeting with U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Carter's national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski.

Begin said "a number of problems still remain."

But he was optimistic about prospects for a settlement.

Earlier, Carter had told Israel's parliament, the Knesset, that negotiating efforts had fallen short of an Egyptian-Israeli treaty and that more flexibility is needed.

After hearing the results of an all night Israeli cabinet meeting, the U.S. president told members of the parliament that leaders of Israel and Egypt are not yet ready to risk a peace treaty, although their people are now ready for peace.

Carter emphasized the words "people" and "now." Begin told reporters: "We must all be patient."

Meanwhile, Israeli radio reported that Carter would remain in Jerusalem through Tuesday, extending his visit another day. Reporters also saw Air Force One, the president's aircraft, towed away from the tarmac at Ben Gurion airport, a sign that no flight was imminent.

Earlier Carter told reporters he did not know whether he would remain in Israel to make further efforts toward a treaty, or return to the United States today as originally scheduled.

Earlier, both U.S. and Israeli officials said Carter was likely to spend an extra day in Israel and return Tuesday.

The officials originally held out hope that a treaty could be initiated before the president's return, but Begin said after the Knesset speech that he doubted if all issues could be worked out within 24 hours.

At dawn Begin said that his cabinet had made "reasonable" decisions on Egyptian peace terms during their 6 1/2 hour session.

Officials said the Israelis had agreed to discuss a compromise plan on linking a treaty to fulfillment of Begin's promise to set up self ruling authorities for Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza.

The proposal calls for moving more quickly on setting up Palestinian autonomy in the Gaza Strip than on the occupied West Bank.

About 400,000 Palestinians live in Gaza, captured by Israel from Egypt in the Six Day War of 1967. The Israeli occupied West Bank, former Jordanian territory, contains another 700,000 Palestinians.

Begin told the Knesset he believes an acceptable compromise has been worked out on the separate question of whether the proposed peace treaty would take precedence over Egypt's treaties with other Arab states. He gave no details.

Begin said at first he expected Vance to fly to Cairo to brief Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. Begin said he anticipated a "positive reply" from Sadat.

But U.S. officials said it was uncertain whether Vance would go to transmit the latest Israeli position, an indication that Vance would press for further changes during the afternoon.

Carter met with the Israeli cabinet over breakfast and then said in a speech to the full Knesset that "we still fall short" of a treaty.

"We have not yet fully met our challenge," Carter said.

"The leaders have not yet proven that we are also ready for peace, enough to take a chance," Carter added.

"We must proceed with due cau-

Looking a little down in the mouth is Midland plumber Ronnie Farmer, 29, who Sunday attempted to break the record for eating the greatest number of jalapeno peppers in one sitting. Although Farmer, of 1606 N. Big Spring St., only downed 62 of his goal of 100 peppers, he did swallow 50 of them in 9 minutes and 30 seconds, which he claimed to be an unofficial Guinness World Book record in itself. The established record, held by a Minnesota man, is 94 peppers. Farmer, who earlier in his pepper eating "career" had eaten as many as 40 of the eye-watering items, said he thinks he will have another go at the 100 mark in the near future. # Iranian women continue Tehran demonstrations

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Ten thousand women marched through the streets of Tehran today, demonstrating for the fourth day against Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's threat to restrict the freedoms granted them by Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

The turnout was much less than organizers of the demonstration expected and far less than the tens of thousands of women who marched through Tehran on Saturday. A statement from Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan's government, that women would not be required to wear the chador, the heavy, full-length traditional black veil, appeared to have eased the fears of many women.

Although feminists fear that the Islamic republic, the ayatollah plans will reduce the political and economic rights granted them under the shah's Westernization program, the issue of dress has become the most emotional one because it is the most visible.

Deputy Prime Minister Abbas Amir Entezami, in a government statement, said women civil servants were not required to wear the veil to work or even scarves, but they should dress with dignity and avoid appearing cheap or exposed in their offices.

Students in jeans, working women and housewives were among the marchers. A sprinkling of men was seen accompanying wives or friends.

A small group of Muslim zealots stood behind a fence as the marchers assembled at Tehran University and chanted Islamic slogans but made no attempt to attack the women. Another group passed out handbills calling on the women to conform to Islamic tradition and wear the chador.

The women carried placards saying "We want equal rights" and "No to the chador."

American feminist Kate Millett, who arrived in Tehran last week to give her support to the women's movement, was at the rally. Addressing a news conference Sunday, she lumped Pope John Paul II and Khomeini together, saying both are "male chauvinists because as leaders they are attempting to curtail women's rights."

Two drown in Blue Hole

SANTA ROSA, N.M. — A Midland man and a friend from Lubbock apparently drowned Saturday while scuba diving in Blue Hole, a deep lake near here, according to a spokesman for the New Mexico State Police.

Dead are Jeffrey L. Hale, 22, of 4601 Mercedes St. in Midland and Kenneth F. Taylor, Jr. of Lubbock.

A New Mexico state officer said a passerby reported the two men put their scuba gear on and went down into the lake about 2:45 p.m. Saturday (MST). By the time another group of people came by about 45 minutes later, the two men had not resurfaced, the officer related today.

The passerby, also a diver, put on his gear, went down into the lake and found the two men already dead, the officer said he was told.

Police checked the gear and found the equipment was in working order. Cause of death still is under investigation, the officer said.

Odessa dies in stabbing

ODESSA — An Odessa man died Sunday night as the result of an apparent stabbing here, police officials said.

Eugene Norman Berg, 55, was dead when police arrived at the scene, on Jackson Street, about midnight, officials said.

Police said Berg was stabbed once. No motive has been established, officers said, but they indicated today that an arrest had been made in connection with the incident.

Peace Justice Virgil Lumpey has ordered an autopsy, police said.

China, Vietnam express mutual charges of attacks on borders

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vietnam and China charged each other today with new attacks in their border war, but Western intelligence officers in Bangkok reported that the slow Chinese withdrawal was continuing.

Radio Hanoi said that as of late Sunday, the Chinese were shelling, burning and plundering areas of all six Vietnamese provinces along the northern border.

Xinhua, the official Chinese news agency, said Vietnamese forces shelled parts of Guangxi Province in southeast China and attacked with drawing Chinese troops inside Vietnam.

"Chinese forces responded with an immediate counterattack on enemy positions," said Xinhua. "In every instance Chinese troops inflicted heavy losses on the Vietnamese."

Hanoi had a counter charge for the eastern end of the border. It said Chinese artillery there fired more than 3,000 rounds into an area of Vietnam's coastal Quang Ninh Province, destroying homes and a ceramics factory.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, said in a dispatch from Hanoi that the Vietnamese Red Cross accused the Chinese of the "massacre of hundreds of civilians — children, women and old people."

Another Tass report from Hanoi said the Chinese were moving frontier marker posts to the south, deep into Vietnamese territory in Lang Son Province and were resettling ethnic Chinese there who had "fled" from the area earlier. It said that in one instance 1,000 ethnic Chinese had been resettled.

The Chinese government charged that Soviet and Vietnamese pressure forced the Laotian Communist government last week to expel Chinese advisers and technicians building highways in northern Laos. It accused Hanoi of tightening its grip on its northwestern neighbor in furtherance of its plans to dominate it and Cambodia, the two other Indochinese states.

"To clamp down on the Lao people's resistance and step up their control of Laos, the Vietnamese authorities deliberately spread the lie of so-called Chinese preparations for a 'war of aggression' against Laos in order to find a pretext for themselves to take action," said Chinese Vice Foreign Minister Han Nianlong.

Radio Hanoi exhorted the Vietnamese people to cooperate with the government's general mobilization program.

THE TIMES OF MY LIFE: PART ONE

Betty Bloomer loved dancing, 'wasn't smart enough to have fears'

From THE TIMES OF MY LIFE by Betty Ford with Chris Chase. Copyright © 1978 by Betty Ford. Published by Harper & Row Publishers, Inc. and The Reader's Digest Association, Inc.

By BETTY FORD
with Chris Chase

All of us in the gang I grew up with in Grand Rapids went to social-dancing class together. We started when we were eight years old. The girls wore white gloves and ankle socks and black patent Mary Jane shoes.

Every year our dancing teacher, Calla Travis, put on a show featuring her pupils. My debut was not auspicious. A bunch of us were skipping around the stage, sand buckets decorated to look like baskets of flowers in our hands, and I dropped my basket, which went clunk, clunk, clunk, down toward the footlights, while everybody in the audience roared. My mother decided then and there that I was a total flop, and might as well give the whole thing up. But I was looking ahead to a career as a very important dancer. I had aspirations, and I wasn't smart enough to have fears.

Every afternoon, right after school, I went to dancing class. Calla offered a complete program — Spanish dancing, ballet, tap, acrobatic — with excellent teachers, and I signed up for everything. I adored it all.

I dreamed of going to New York to ballet school until I encountered modern dance. I loved the freedom of movement of "modern." In ballet, each jete, each arabesque, was totally prescribed, and I was probably the worst ballet dancer who ever came down the road. I couldn't get my

Long before there was Gerald Ford, or four children, or a public identity, there was, for young Betty Bloomer, the dance. It was her first love, it was to shape her adulthood and stay high among her priorities when she lived in the White House. In this first of six excerpts from her book, Betty Ford choreographs the role dance played in her young life.

knees straight enough. When I had to do a solo ballet number — you couldn't complete Calla's courses and become a full-fledged teacher until you did a solo ballet number — I wisely designed my own costume. Instead of a tutu, I wore a thing with scarves hanging down and covering my knees so you couldn't see whether they were benched or straight. I got out there and pirouetted to the "Waltz of the Flowers," and presto, I was a professional.

I hadn't got too far with my mother when I'd talked about New York. "You can't go until you're 20 years old," she'd said. We struck a compromise. For two summers, the years I was 18 and 19, I went off to Vermont to the Bennington School of Dance, which held its classes at Bennington College.

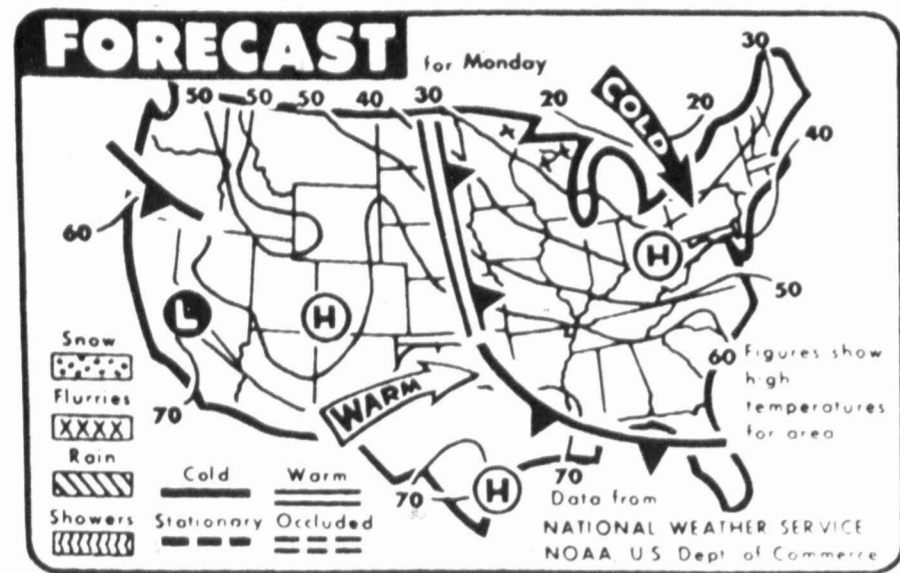

The gorgeousness of nature there was secondary to the gorgeousness of my life, to the ecstasy of being able to dance eight hours a day. I was exposed to Louis Horst and Martha Graham, Doris Humphrey, Charles Weidman, Jose Limon and Hanya Holm. I studied with every one of them. All day long I took classes, and at night I rehearsed with Anna Sokolow.

It's almost impossible to describe the impression made by Martha Graham on a girl who came to her straight out of high school. I worshipped her as a goddess. She was a tough disciplinarian; believe me, if you got her knee in your back when you weren't sitting up straight enough during an exercise, you never forgot it. But I admired that kind of strictness. You can't be a dancer without it; not only your body but your mind must be disciplined.

That first summer, after some of those strenuous days, my roommate, Natalie Harris, and I discovered we could walk up the stairs to dinner but we couldn't walk down again. Our

Federation debutantes presented at ball

around town

By PATSY GORDON
Lifestyle Writer

Two Midlanders recently launched careers in Texas state government through the Services of the Texas Merit System Council.

They are Glynda L. Turner of 2301 Big Spring St., who has been hired by the Department of Human Resources in the position of attorney. Also now employed by DHR is Connie H. Holt as a child placement worker. She lives at 4410-B Thomason Drive.

Turner and Holt received probationary employments after passing competitive exams for job applicants for 10 state agencies, which select new employees from registers of eligible applicants certified by the council.

Agencies served by the council include the Employment Commission, Commission on Alcoholism, Air Control Board, Governor's Committee on Aging, Surplus Property Agency, Drug Abuse Division of Community Affairs, Disaster Emergency Services of the Department of Public Safety and the departments of Health, Human Resources and Mental Health-Mental Retardation.

...OUTDOOR CAMPING and Backpacking class at Odessa College took its first camping trip of the semester to the Chisos Mountains in the Big Bend area last weekend.

Some 16 students, including Midlanders, left at noon Friday and returned late Sunday.

The class camped Friday night in the basin, and Saturday the agenda called for backpacking eight miles up in the mountain to the east rim. Sunday the class went around the loop of the mountain and back down.

THE LEE High School Chorale will have its monthly Booster Club meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in the school's choir room. The group will discuss the fertilizer sale, Atlanta trip and new officers.

Directory on groups published

WASHINGTON, D.C.—A new directory of minority and women's groups and other organizations has been prepared by the Labor Department.

An update of a 1970 publication, the volume lists more than 5,000 names, addresses and telephone numbers.

While it originally focused on apprenticeship programs, the directory now has been expanded to include federal, state, county, regional and municipal agencies, community action, ethnic service, civil rights, human resources, educational, business, industry and media names and addresses.

The directory of groups that are interested in improving the economic, social and educational status of minority groups or women is arranged alphabetically by state.

Copies of the "Directory for Reaching Minority and Women's Groups" are available for $4.50 from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402. Order stock number 029-000-00357-2.

Myrtlene Bearden was named president of the Altrusa Club of Midland, Inc. at its business luncheon in Midland Hilton. She is owner of Tall City Office Supply.

Other officers elected to serve were Mrs. Larry Grimm, vice president; Mrs. L. G. Simmons, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Horace Busby, recording secretary; and Mrs. G. B. Johnson, treasurer.

New directors, who will serve a two-year term, are Judge Barbara Culver, Juanita Bryant and Mrs. Roy F. Gardner. Holdover directors are Mrs. Guy Saunders and Marilyn Van Petten.

Installation ceremony will be held June 28. The slate of officers was presented by Mrs. W. E. Stirman, member of the nominating committee. Chairman is Mrs. Johnnie Carter. Mrs. J.P.H. McMullan Jr. was the third member.

Welcomed as new members were Tup Ferguson and Carol Reinert. In other business, Mrs. Stirman announced the annual international relations dinner would be March 22 at 7 p.m. at Ranchland Hills Country Club. Mrs. Robert Cain, hospitality chairman, is in charge of arrangements.

Dr. Hosni Nabi is guest speaker. Reservations are available by calling Mrs. Cain, Mary Alice Tidwell or Mrs. C. E. McCain, chairman of international relations. The dinner is open to the public.

Mrs. Grimm, chairman of Altrusa information committee, announced a meeting of that group Thursday at 7 p.m. in her home. Business will include the completion of plans for initiation of new members.

Mrs. H. N. Phillips, membership/classification chairman, presented awards to persons who had recruited new members. Receiving these awards were Loleta B. Guffey, Jean Reid, Ann Kendall and Myrtlene Bearden.

Ms. Tidwell, president, announced that the club had donated $150 to the Christmas in April project and would furnish 50 sack lunches for the workers.

She also notified members of the Leadership Training Seminar for Area III, District Nine, to be held in Borger April 21. She noted that all officers and committee chairmen should attend.

Instructions short

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service reports that the instructions are incomplete on its form for claiming the tax credit for the elderly, and more people may be eligible than the guidelines indicate.

The instructions provided are correct, the IRS says, except for the section entitled "Should You Use Schedule R or RP" at the top of Form 1040 Schedule R, which is incomplete.

As printed, the guidelines suggest that a married couple with one over 65 and one under 65, is eligible only if the older spouse has income from a public retirement system.

Officials said people entitled to the credit who have already filed their tax forms and did not claim the credit because they were misled by the printed guidelines should file form 1040X, an amended return, with Schedule R attached.

Achievements of women documented in volume

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — From access to zoologists, women who have been outstanding in every field throughout this century are at last being recognized in "The Women's Book of World Records and Achievements."

"We're trying to reduce the great anonymity of women," Louis Decker O'Neill, who edited the recently published volume, explained in an interview.

"Men's records in almost all areas have been so much better preserved," she added, "and it seemed to us the time had come to establish specific identities of specific women in the same fashion."

The book's nearly 800 pages are crammed with notable "firsts" for women, plus hundreds of "highests," "fastests," "youngests," "oldests" and other accomplishments of some 5,000 women.

Some are as well known as the world's top-selling author, Agatha Christie, who wrote more than 80 detective books that have collectively sold more than 300 million copies. Others have been as relatively unheralded as Pauline M. Newman, who with 59 years on the job to her credit, is listed as having the longest career with the International Ladies' Garment Workers.

"It's basically a 20th-century book, mostly to try to keep the project within reasonable bounds, but includes late 19th-century women who lived on to the next century or whose work affected the 20th century," Ms. O'Neill said.

For the most part, the women who wrote the various chapters picked the segment they preferred, a choice that sometimes proved surprising, Ms. O'Neill said.

"For instance," she said, "the labor chapter was written by Grace Moremen, who has a master's degree in theology and is the wife of a minister. She knew nothing about labor and wanted to learn. And novelist Barbara Raskin wrote the chapter on agriculture, a particularly hard field to research, since women had been anonymous sowers and reapers throughout history."

Leads came from everywhere, but the Library of Congress proved especially valuable, its computer system offering a good idea of what was available in books and periodicals. The writers were backed by consulting editors who were experts in their field.

"We looked for firsts and other provable records," Ms. O'Neill points out. "We were not judgmental on 'best' or 'greatest' but included just the women whose accomplishments and achievements could be factually established."

Most of the early firsts in science and medicine came in the early 20th century, with a few in the late 19th century. Achievements in law have shown the greatest acceleration within the past 10 years, and religion in just the past few years. The 1920s were the biggest years in politics.

"In certain fields women played an important role a while, faded out and are now coming back in," said Ms. O'Neill, adding that while women were active in the early days of labor organizations, they have re-emerged in that area only in the past decade. The greatest number of women appear in the arts and entertainment section, while the "Far-Out Women" is the shortest chapter.

"It is a grab-bag of all kinds of women who for one reason or other didn't seem to belong in one of the more specific chapters," Ms. O'Neill says.

DEAR ABBY

Burglars robbed her of faith

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR READERS: If you have never had the privacy of your home violated by burglars, skip this column.

If you have...welcome to the club. I want to share a particularly timely and enormously moving piece I recently read in the Los Angeles Times. I welcome your reactions.

AN OPEN LETTER TO BURGLARS

Dear burglars: Having spent my childhood in a clean but poorly furnished home, I set out in marriage to make up for this by decorating our abode in an attractive and cheerful manner. My furniture is comfortable and tastefully coordinated; the wall hangings are equally eye-appealing. My housework and leisure time are made pleasant by up-to-the-minute appliances.

If you want all this, boys, you better bring a moving van. Pull it right up to my apartment door next time. No one will notice or question you—or will they?

You already have taken what could be carried away in a sack.

How much did you get for my string of pearls, given to me by mother more than 30 years ago? Did the love that permeated them enhance their value?

My late husband's watch was cold metal when you snatched it. He often laid it on his nightstand, and I'd feel the warmth of his body still on it, giving it momentary life.

And that gold wedding band with the Hebrew lettering—King Solomon's lovely: 'I am my beloved's and my beloved is mine.' How much did that net you?

After the police dusted for your prints, I was left alone, by choice, to try to put myself together. I scrubbed your presence away with soap and water, angry but not afraid.

You did frighten me two years ago when you broke in and took my son's photography equipment and my color television set. It wasn't so much what you took—how can one become sentimental over things that are so easily replaced? What upset me so much was that my secure home was intruded upon. It took me a long time to return to normal and lose the fear that you might return.

And return you did, last week. This time my reaction is not one of fear, but livid anger. I'm mad at the world, at my vulnerability, at a society where even things under lock and key are not safe—and I'm very angry with you!

Did I say I'm not afraid? Yes, I am—not of you, but of myself and the way I shouted to the police—"If you were to find them now and bring them here, I'd kill them!"

Do you know what disturbs me about that threat? I really, really meant it. For one insane moment I was capable of committing a crime. If I'd had a gun, I might have used it, thereby stooping to your gutter level. No, no guns in my house, thank you.

You took my precious possessions and you stole one thing more: my former self, the non-violent, secure, trusting person I used to be. I am sad—depressed—here in my fortress, now secured with double-bolts and a burglar alarm."

HOW TO WIN AT THE LOSING GAME

What's in a nombre? Just ask Roberto

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — Robert Earl Lee was brought up in the Southwest and thinks his grandfather was of Spanish origin. He says he plans to retire in South America.

So Lee, a former Naval Academy classmate of President Carter, changed his name recently to Roberto Eduardo Leon.

The name change makes him eligible for preferential treatment under a county affirmative action program. It also has raised "some eyebrows" among his colleagues, officials say.

Leon, 56, a retired Naval captain, works in the Montgomery County Environmental Protection Department. Immediately after the name change, he asked to be reclassified as a member of a minority group and was granted the new status last week.

County guidelines say that because of Leon's Spanish surname, he is eligible for promotion over other white males.

"He has a knack for figuring out loopholes in things," Eric Mendelsohn, Leon's supervisor, said. "Bob, I mean, Roberto, is a highly regarded professional; a little eccentric in some ways. It's nice to have a Hispanic on our staff."

"It's confusing, I know," Leon said in an interview with The Washington Post.

He said he had considered changing his name from time to time.

He did not do it to gain a minority status for job-related reasons, he said, although he acknowledged that he has applied for other jobs.

Leon said he was brought up in the Southwest and was told his grandfather was of Spanish origin. He plans to retire in Chile and "when you live in a particular culture, you should adapt. It would be easier for me to blend in" with a Spanish surname.

Roberto Eduardo Leon

In his current $27,857-a-year job, Leon does not have an advantage over other workers because his department is not under-represented by minorities. But if he seeks another job in an under-represented office, he would have an advantage, Mendelsohn said.

The possibility that Leon would be promoted over other white males has "raised some eyebrows" in the office, Mendelsohn said.

Leon said he remembers Carter from their days at the Naval Academy but does not know the president "personally."

Encinal feeling highway pinch

ENCINAL, Texas (AP) — Progress — in the form of a gleaming new stretch of Interstate 35 — is killing Encinal.

The tiny South Texas town of 900 lived off the traffic that had to pass through it on U.S. 81 before the final stretch of the Canada-to-Mexico interstate highway was completed last summer.

City officials said an estimated 3,400 drivers passed through Encinal in a typical day before the interstate, many of them stopping for gas at one of the town's four service stations, soft drinks at one of the four grocery stores or a chicken-fried steak platter at one of the five cafes.

Now the heavy traffic zips past on heavily-traveled I-35 only 200 yards east of old U.S. 81 in downtown Encinal. A few cars exit the new highway and stop, but most drivers hold out another 39 miles until they reach Laredo.

And Encinal's residents are feeling the pinch.

"We depended on tourists. Right now we're barely making it," said Robert F. Aldaco, a La Salle County commissioner and owner of the Recreation Center Cafe. "They built the highway to get the tourists from one big city to another to spend their money. It's eliminating the small towns, like my Encinal."

"I hate to say it, but there's no future here. People who can are leaving. The ones who stay aren't working," he added.

"Encinal is in real danger of being swept off the map. I just don't know what's going to become of our city," added Marie Villareal, elected in January as mayor of the newly-incorporated town.

Aldaco said the highway trade was the lifeblood of the predominantly Mexican-American town, which has no other economic base and a per capita income that hovers below the $3,000 per year mark.

It took 25 years to complete the north-south interstate that dissects the United States and Texas and bypasses the small South Texas towns along U.S. 81 — Von Ormy, Lytle, Natalia, Devine, Moore, Pearsall, Dilley, Cotulla and Encinal.

The final stretch of I-35 was completed just before Labor Day last year. It's a date service station owner Silvester Perez Jr. remembers well.

"I got up early and started waiting for all of the cars," Perez said of the expected brisk Labor Day business. "I waited and waited but the cars didn't come."

But Perez heard the hum of heavy traffic. He then looked behind his station, which, like the rest of the businesses, faces away from the interstate and toward old U.S. 81. "I turned around and saw where all my cars were — on the new highway," he said.

He estimates his business has dropped 80 percent since then.

"It really hurt a lot when they opened the highway," said Perez, who has made a living off his service station since returning from World War II. "The way they built it, it seems like they want to get this town and its people out of the way. It seems like they want to kill this town."

The grocers and service station and cafe owners were forced to lay off their few employees as their business diminished. Only a few have found work on the nearby ranches, said Mrs. Villareal.

"Now there's no work around here. I don't know what the people are going to do," she added.

"Encinal is dead," grumbled one of the stoop-shouldered men who spend their idle days sitting on the benches that face the deserted old highway.

He gestured at the once-busy highway and added, "You could lay down in the middle of that and take a nap if you wanted to."

Legislators study tax relief, horses

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas legislators started the 10th week of the 66th Legislature today with a scheduled debate on tax relief measures approved by voters last November.

However, considerable attention turns this afternoon to a Senate committee hearing on an old familiar subject — horse race betting.

On Tuesday, one of Gov. Bill Clements' key campaign promises comes up before another Senate committee — the right of initiative and referendum.

House plans call for the package bill that implements the Tax Relief Amendment to be laid out and explained to representative at their afternoon session. Action on amendments begins Tuesday.

The package automatically exempts $5,000 of the market value of every Texas owner-occupied home from school taxes. Homes owned by the disabled and those over 65 would get an additional $10,000 exemption.

School taxes of persons 65 or over would be frozen, except they would be increased for any additions or major improvements. It also would exempt two cars per family from property taxes, starting in 1980. Farm ranch and timber land would be taxed on its productivity, except for foreign-owned land.

The measure has a definite prohibition against taxation of intangible wealth, such as bank accounts, stocks and bonds.

Sen. Ike Harris, R-Dallas, offers the Senate State Affairs Committee Monday afternoon a pari-mutuel wagering bill that would let the voters of a county decide if there will be horse race betting within that county.

A majority of the county commissioners in a county could call a local option election on the issue or petitions signed by 5 percent of the voters for governor in the last general election could force an election.

Crown Prince flies out of Lubbock

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Iranian Crown Prince Reza Pahlavi, his two pet dogs in tow, flew out of Lubbock to join his family in Morocco Sunday afternoon according to unnamed sources quoted in a local newspaper.

The 18-year-old prince was expected to join his father, the deposed shah of Iran, the newspaper said.

But Air Force and State Department officials were tight-lipped about the departure, and would confirm only that an Air Force DC-9 left Reese Air Force base about 12:30 p.m. (CST).

"I have no comment," said Capt. Robert A. Brus, chief of the information division. "I'm hoping, speculating, but hoping, I'll be able to comment the early part of this week."

The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal said the smiling prince, wearing civilian clothes, boarded the jet after a brief farewell party hosted by Reese personnel and a few of his Lubbock friends.

The oldest son of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, the prince received his wings Friday after wrapping up a year's flight training in eight months.

During his stay in Lubbock, the prince played soccer, visited fashionable night spots and toured the city in his Jaguar. He also delighted in photographing the reporters and cameramen who staked out his weekend residence during an 11-day visit by family members in January.

The shah's family went into seclusion in Egypt, then Morocco because of the political strike in their country.

The newspaper said the prince spent Saturday night in the base apartment he used during the week. The posh westside home he used on weekends has been quiet since Friday, the newspaper said.

The newspaper said the prince addressed an open letter to the residents of Lubbock thanking them for their hospitality before he left.

Troops from Tanzania, Uganda near Kampala

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Tanzanian troops and their Ugandan rebel allies are pushing north about three miles a day and are nearing the halfway mark in their drive from the border to the Ugandan capital of Kampala, diplomatic and military sources in Nairobi report.

The sources said the invaders were between the cities of Masaka and Lukaya, in southwest Uganda, about 70 miles from Kampala and more than 60 miles north of the Tanzanian border.

"I would not expect the Tanzanians to be able to reach Kampala at least for the next five to 10 days," said one diplomat. "We must wait to see the success of Amin's counter-offensive."

Ugandan President Idi Amin claimed his army began its counter-attack late last week and was routing the invaders. But the sources in this neighboring neutral capital said their information contradicted this.

They also said Libya is continuing to fly arms to Amin despite the Libyan government's denial of this.

Uganda's government radio claimed captured Tanzanian documents included a plan for the massacre of thousands of Ugandan tribesmen if the invaders succeed in ousting Amin. It gave no details.

The broadcast accused Tanzania of seeking to establish a puppet state that would return American, British and Israeli influence to Uganda, sever its ties with the Soviet Union, expel Moslems and "eliminate" large tribal groups.

A spokesman for the Uganda Nationalist Organization, a coalition of exile groups in Nairobi, says it has already approached the United States, Britain and Israel for aid if Amin's eight-year rule is ended.

"We shall need aid immediately," he said. "Even if it takes South African aid to help our country, we'll get it."

Amin, who once sided with the Israelis and even took parachute training in Israel, broke with them in the early 1970s and began receiving financial aid from oil-rich Arab Libya. He also has belittled the United States and Britain, the former colonial ruler of Uganda.

Grand jury focuses on Bullock's office

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Travis County grand jury focuses on Comptroller Bob Bullock's office today as four former and present state employees appear to testify.

The four were Ed White, head of manpower services; Paul Wehrle, research director of legal services; Leslie Villas, Bullock's personal secretary; and Randall B. Wood, former chief clerk and now an Austin attorney.

They showed up Friday, but the grand jury was tied up on another case and asked them to return at 1 p.m. today. Bullock's pilot and three others testified last week.

A previous grand jury criticized Bullock's record-keeping, expense vouchers and use of state airplanes, but returned no indictments.

The present grand jury reportedly is investigating if travel vouchers were turned in for hotel rooms provided at no cost.

But an investigation source said that allegation apparently is mistaken.

"The secretary does the travel vouchers and she might not have been aware it was a complimentary room. It looks like that's what happened," the source said.

Bullock declined a grand jury invitation to testify on advice of his lawyer Roy Minton. The attorney said the district attorney's office would not agree to limit its questions to allegations of possible criminal activities.

Moncrief, Schall lead Razorbacks

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Sidney Moncrief scored 19 points and Steve Schall added 18 to pace a patient Arkansas attack and lead the 7th-ranked Razorbacks to a methodical 74-63 victory over Weber St. in the second round of the NCAA Midwest Regionals Sunday.

Arkansas, which will meet Louisville in the other semifinal game this week, raced to a 40-27 halftime lead over Weber St., the Big Sky Conference champion, and never led by fewer than 11 in the second half.

Schall consistently worked inside for easy layups as Arkansas, Southwest Conference co-champion, hiked its record to 24-4. Moncrief, the Razorbacks' All-American senior guard, raised his career total to 2,009, the first Arkansas player to reach 2,000 points.

With 8:44 left in the first half, a Schall bucket and a three-point play by Moncrief triggered a 19-10 Arkansas run and put the Razorbacks in charge for good.

David Johnson put in 23 points for Weber State, 25-9, and the Wildcats, who beat New Mexico State in overtime in the first round Friday night, also got 10 points each from Ben Howland and Richard Smith.

Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton credited the leadership of Schall and Moncrief.

"I thought our two seniors did an excellent job as they've done all year," he said. "I think sometimes that coaches are given too much credit and I think that senior leadership is so important in preparing our younger ballplayers for this game."

Moncrief, who hit half of his 10 field goals and was a perfect 9-9 from the foul line, said he wasn't worried about flashy statistics.

Jackson makes practice despite traffic mishap

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — New York Yankees slugger Reggie Jackson was involved in a minor traffic accident on his way to Sunday's exhibition baseball game with Baltimore, a club spokesman said.

Yankee publicist Mickey Morevito said the accident apparently occurred on Interstate 95 between the Yankees' spring training base here and the Orioles' Miami ballpark. There were no injuries and Jackson made it to the park on time.

The Florida Highway Patrol said no citation was made.

Power of Penn proves strong as Tar Heels drop from run

By The Associated Press

North Carolina has learned the power of the Penn.

On the Sunday that shocked the South, the unranked Quakers upended the third-ranked Tar Heels 72-71 before an unbelieving crowd of 12,400 at Reynolds Coliseum in Raleigh, N.C. Hours later, the stunned throng hushed as Reggie Carter's six-foot jump shot with four seconds left helped St. John's, N.Y., sink sixth-ranked Duke, 80-78.

Those two strong swings toppled two mighty trees from the Atlantic Coast Conference, capping a weekend which sent eight ranked teams to the sidelines of the NCAA basketball tournament.

"We absolutely fear no one," said Penn Coach Bob Weinbauer after his Quakers practiced unfriendly persuasion on the Tar Heels. "Other people have to prepare for us and try to stop what we do best."

WHAT THEY did Sunday was take the lead 55-50 with nine minutes left, survive North Carolina's comeback within a point with 1:26 remaining, and put the game away as James Salters scored four of the Ivy League champions' next six points.

"I think the Ivy League — the so-called weak league — deserves some respect ... and we got it," said the Quakers' Tony Price, who made 12 of his 18 field goal attempts, scored 25 points, collected nine rebounds and had six assists. "I just wanted to play a team of that caliber and show that we could stay with them."

They did that, and more. So did St. John's, which won a nail biter from Duke on Carter's clutch shot.

"I wanted to redeem myself," said Carter, who missed a 1-and-1 free-throw situation with 49 seconds left but still gave the Redmen their second tournament triumph over the Blue Devils this season. St. John's had beaten Duke 69-66 in a consolation game match up at the ECAC Holiday Festival at Madison Square Garden.

"They were talking consolation and that they weren't up for it," said Rudy Wright of St. John's. "I'm glad we got another chance."

THEY GOT that chance against a Duke squad which was missing starters Kenny Dennard and Bob Bender and had Mike Gminski at less-than-full strength due to a stomach virus.

Gminski gave the Redmen their final scare when his 45-foot heave at the buzzer bounced off the rim to sum up the day's frustrations for the ACC powers. North Carolina finished 23-6 and Duke ended up 22-8 while Penn improved to 23-5 and St. John's to 20-10.

Meanwhile Sunday, top-ranked Indiana State breezed past Virginia Tech 86-69; second-ranked UCLA trimmed tenacious Pepperdine 76-71; fourth-ranked Michigan State hammered Lamar 95-64, and No. 5 Notre Dame dropped 20th-ranked Tennessee 73-67.

Also, seventh-ranked Arkansas beat Weber State 74-63 and No. 8 DePaul defeated Southern Cal, 89-78.

Thus the tournament moves into regional semifinals, which will present the following matchups:

EAST, at Greensboro, N.C., Friday—St. John's, 20-10, against Rutgers 22-8 and Penn, 23-5, against

No. 10 Syracuse, 26-3.

MIDEAST, at Indianapolis, Friday—Michigan State, 22-6, against ninth-ranked Louisiana State, 23-5 and Notre Dame, 23-5, against Toledo, 22-7.

WEST, at Provo, Utah, Thursday—DePaul, 23-5, against No. 12 Marquette, 22-6, and UCLA, 24-4, against No. 19 San Francisco, 22-6.

MIDWEST, at Cincinnati, Thursday—Arkansas, 24-4, against No. 18 Louisville, 24-7 and Indiana State, 30-0, against Oklahoma, 21-9.

Indiana State star Larry Bird easily overcame his fractured left thumb and the top-ranked Sycamores easily handled Virginia Tech. Bird scored 22 points and collected 13 rebounds and Indiana State went on a 20-0 scoring spree midway through the first half.

Carl Nicks added 22 for the unbeaten Sycamores.

"They've won 30 in a row," said Virginia Tech Coach Charles Moir. "They're for real."

Virginia Tech, 22-9, which blasted Jacksonville 70-53 Friday night to earn its meeting with the Sycamores, got 18 points from Les Henson.

UCLA, PLAYING on its Pauley Pavilion home court, used a 20-6 spurt in the early stages of the second half to hold off Pepperdine. The Waves, 22-10, pulled within three points with nine seconds remaining before the Bruins' Brad Holland sank two free throws for insurance.

"Pepperdine deserves a tremendous amount of credit," said UCLA Coach Gary Cunningham. "They are an outstanding team but do not get the publicity we do."

The Waves, whose campus is just 15 miles from UCLA, got 27 points from guard Ricardo Brown.

Michigan State, with Greg Kelsner scoring 31 points and four others in double figures, toyed with Lamar.

"If I'm gonna get beat," said Lamar Coach Billy Tubbs, "I would want to get beaten by a team like Michigan State."

The Spartans were only too happy to oblige. They built a 48-27 halftime lead and waltzed from there.

NOTRE DAME'S Kelly Tripucka scored 21 points to carry the Irish past the Volunteers. Notre Dame unlocked a 32-32 halftime tie with a 14-4 scoring spree and the Southeastern Conference champs were never closer than five after that — to the chagrin of Coach Don DeVoe.

"This is the poorest game of the year for us in terms of concentration," said DeVoe.

DePaul's Blue Demons broke away with a 15-point burst in the final three minutes to top Southern Cal. Freshman Mark Aguirre scored 25 points, 16 of them in the first half, and Curtis Watkins scored 27 points — 16 of them in the second half for DePaul.

"Aguirre is going to make me a good coach," said Ray Meyer, the Blue Demons' coach.

The Trojans' coach for the last 13 years, Bob Boyd, may not be back. He announced his resignation, effective the end of the season, but Southern Cal fans and alumni have asked him to change his mind.

IN SATURDAY games, Louisiana State downed Appalachian State 71-57; Syracuse outlasted Connecticut 89-81; Rutgers got past 11th-ranked Georgetown 64-58; Marquette throttled Pacific 73-48; Toledo astonished No. 14 Iowa 74-72; Oklahoma shot better than 62 percent in upending 15th-ranked Texas 90-76; Louisville tripped tenacious South Alabama 69-66, and San Francisco bombed Brigham Young 86-63.

On Friday, St. John's trimmed No.

13 Temple 75-70; Penn started its Cinderella weekend with a 73-69 victory over Iowa; Lamar outscored No. 17 Detroit 95-87; Tennessee thrashed Eastern Kentucky 97-81; Southern Cal beat Utah State 75-67; Pepperdine needed overtime to defeat Utah 92-88, and Weber State edged New Mexico State 81-78.

Tactical decision leads Nelson to first tour win

LAUDERHILL, Fla. (AP) — The key to Larry Nelson's front-running, 3-shot victory in the Jackie Gleason Invitational Golf Classic may have centered around a tactical decision made on the 11th hole of the final round.

"I had a perfect lie in the rough and 230 to the pin," Nelson said Sunday of the par-5 hole. "I could have reached it. I also could have hit it in the water on the right. So I took out a 6-iron, hit it up short, chipped up and made an easy 5."

"Two years ago I'd have gone for the green, hit it in the water and lost by 2."

But Nelson, who said he played "the smartest four rounds of golf of my life," made no mistakes in the wind-raked final round, protected the 4-stroke lead he had built through three rounds with a closing 71, and scored his first pro triumph by a comfortable 3 shots. He finished with a 274 total, 14 strokes under par on the 7,127-yard Inverrary Country Club course.

"My caddy and I just didn't want to beat ourselves," Nelson said. "We kept talking to each other, calming each other down. We just didn't want to make any dumb mistakes, make any really big numbers."

"They didn't."

"Larry played a super round under the conditions," said Grier Jones, again a runner-up in this event and the only man able to keep Nelson in sight. "He got 4 ahead yesterday and that was all there was to it. There was no catching him. I knew, with this wind, that if Larry played good, it would take a phenomenal round to beat him."

And that phenomenal round wasn't forthcoming in the gusty winds. Jones, who lost to Jack Nicklaus' string of 5 consecutive birdies last year, made the best effort.

He trailed by 6 at the turn and played his back side in 33. It wasn't good enough. He finished with a 70 and a 277 total, 3 back.

No one else really had a chance over the last nine holes.

It was 3 more strokes back to Hale Irwin, third for the second week in a row, at 73-280. He was followed by Lee Elder and Tommy Aaron at 281. Elder birdied the last hole for a 70 and Aaron matched par 72. Ray Floyd was next at 74-282 and U.S. Open champ Andy North was 72-283.

Nicklaus, who had won three consecutive tournaments on this course, never challenged this time. He finished with a discouraging 75 and was 20 shots back at 294.

Nelson, 31, didn't take up golf until relatively late in life, 10 years ago. He found he had a natural talent, quit his job as an illustrator for an aircraft manufacturer and went to work as an assistant golf pro. He joined the tour six years ago and, although without a victory, had shown solid improvement.

"I've led at one time or another maybe 12 times, maybe more," he said. "But this is only the second time I've been in the press room on Sunday in two years."

"And the other time was by mistake. The guy who asked me to come in thought I was somebody else."

Forget worries: Lopez wins

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nancy Lopez left little margin for error in her return to the winner's circle, and for those who might have wondered, there's nothing wrong with her golf game.

Lopez, who made mincemeat of the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour last year, posted her first victory of 1979 in most dramatic fashion Sunday, sinking a 10-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole to win Hollis Stacy by one stroke in a $100,000 LPGA tournament.

It was the only time Lopez, who won nine tournaments and a record $189,814 last year, led during the 72-hole event.

Since she turned pro in July of 1977, Lopez has won 10 championships and finished second six times. Sunday's victory was worth $15,000, boosting her 1979 earnings to $27,300.

That figure tops the money-winning list and, unlike many of her competitors, Lopez has played in just three of the year's four tournaments. And she'll not compete in this week's event in Rancho Bernardo, Calif.

In winning this event for the second year in a row, Lopez finished 8-under-par 280 over the 6,268-yard, par-72 Raccho Park Golf Course layout. She had a 69 Sunday to go with earlier rounds of 70, 71 and 70. Last year's winning score was 285.

It was a frustrating setback for Stacy, who took the lead with a 6-under-par 66 in Friday's second round and either held or shared it until the final hole of the tournament. Stacy's scores were 72-66-71-72.

"Consistency was the key factor," said Lopez, who had 4 birdies and just 1 bogey during her final round. "I knew the back side would be the key."

Lopez had 8 pars and the decisive birdie on her final nine holes. She started the day 2 strokes behind Stacy but caught her with birdies on the eighth and ninth holes, both par 5s.

Stacy went ahead with a birdie on No. 10, fell even with a bogey on 11, went ahead again with a birdie on 14 but then bogeyed 15. On the 18th, a 366-yard, par-4 hole, Stacy missed an 18-foot putt for a birdie that would have forced a sudden-death playoff had she made it.

"The reason why I didn't win was because of the front nine," said Stacy, who turns 25 next Friday. "I didn't play aggressively enough. I got only one birdie on the front side. The par 3s got me in trouble."

"When you're playing head-to-head with Nancy, you have to play damn good golf."

The first thing Lopez did following the award ceremony after Sunday's victory was telephone her husband, Tim Melton, a sportscaster in Harrisburg, Pa.

"I dedicated this to you and Daddy since your birthdays are so close," Lopez told her husband, whom she married on Jan. 6, also her 22nd birthday. "I felt like I worked my tail off there today."

"I played well, real steady, and that made me feel good. I didn't slop it around."

Susie Berning and Peggy Conley tied for third place with 283 totals. Berning finished with a 71, Conley a 69. Next at 284 were Laura Baugh and Pat Bradley, both of whom had 71s Sunday.

The tournament was sponsored by Sunstar.

Midlanders have good outings in Phoenix 150

PHOENIX (AP) — "We earned it," said a surprised Gordon Johncock. "We didn't know it was ours, but we'll take it."

For a while, Johncock seemed to be the only one in the packed house of 18,000 at Phoenix International Raceway who didn't know he was the winner of Sunday's Arizona Republic-Jimmy Bryan 150-mile Indianapolis car race. It was a lucky victory; Johncock's car's radiator expired when he stopped in Victory Lane.

"I thought when Al Unser passed me there with five laps to go that he was leading," Johncock explained. "But when saw Al drive into pit road after the cool-off lap. I saw that, and told myself, 'Doggone it, I guess I won.' I wasn't sure until they waved me into Victory Lane."

"I couldn't get my crew on the radio to find out. I guess they could hear me, but I couldn't hear them."

Johncock had a 1.3-second margin over Rick Mears. Johnny Rutherford was third, followed by Al and Bobby Unser.

Al Unser was driving the Pennzoil Chaparral of Midland's Jim Hall, but the car isn't the one Chaparral will be using the rest of the season. Hall has developed a "ground effects" machine that will be ready to race in defense of the Chaparral Indianapolis 500 title.

Tom Bagley, driving the Penske PC-6 of Midland's Bobby Hillin, placed eighth in the 21-car field, which was a good showing for the Longhorn Racing Team's first effort of the year.

There was confusion in the final nine laps as preliminary reports from timing and scoring had Al Unser running higher than he actually was. It was cleared up when Johncock was given the white flag and then the checkered flag.

"But I still had no way of knowing whether they had already given the flags to Al. He was that far ahead I couldn't see him," Johncock said.

The race was the first for the Championship Auto Racing Teams group that broke away from the U.S. Auto Club, formerly the sole-sanctioning body for Indianapolis type racing, last fall in a rules dispute.

It was a difficult race for Johncock.

After his first pit stop, he spun out in the infield desert trying to get back up to speed too quickly. He wedged fresh sagebrush, dirt and rocks in his brakes, airfoils and radiator.

"That's what caused the radiator to pack up at the finish. For a while there, I didn't have any brakes either. Most of the junk finally blew out, so the car worked fairly well at the end," Johncock added.

It was Johncock's first race in the Penske car that his car owner Pat Patrick bought from Roger Penske. Tom Sneva was unable to win a race with it last season, although he did take the national championship.

Bobby Unser, the pole position starter, led most of the first half of the race, but had to make an unscheduled pit stop for tires at lap 114, and lost a lap.

Danny Ongais made a strong run in the middle of the race, but dropped out with a broken engine 20 laps from the finish.

There were no crashes or major incidents. Gordon averaged 119.389 mph, which was not a record due to four caution periods. He collected $18,670 from the $110,000 purse.

Red Sox race dead heat

By The Associated Press

The early race to replace Luis Tiant in the Boston Red Sox' starting rotation looks to be a dead heat.

Andy Hassler, Steve Renko and Jim Wright, three of the leading candidates, displayed their wares Sunday and made quite an impression on Manager Don Zimmer.

Hassler, a left-hander whose major league record is a dismal 27-53, allowed two hits in three innings. Renko, a veteran right-hander (89-107) who signed as a free agent during the winter, gave up an infield hit over the middle three innings. Wright, a right-hander who compiled an 8-4 mark as a 1978 rookie, yielded two infield hits the rest of the way.

It all added up to a five-hit 7-0 exhibition baseball victory over the Chicago White Sox, with Fred Lynn and Jim Rice rapping first-inning homers.

"That was some kind of pitching for so early down here," raved Zimmer, who is looking for a fourth starter behind Dennis Eckersley, Mike Torrez and Bob Stanley. "All three looked good."

Hassler, acquired from Kansas City last July, had a 2-1 record and one save in 13 appearances for Boston. He cut his pitching hand in a fishing accident last April and underwent surgery to repair tendons after the season.

"I still need a lot of work, but I felt good," the tall, 27-year-old southpaw said. "I must have used three different windups out there. But the hand didn't bother me at all."

"I wasn't expecting it to give me any trouble, but you have it in the back of your mind. The hand bothered me last year, mostly when I threw sliders. I threw some today and didn't feel a twinge."

Renko also was satisfied with his outing.

"I'm usually not much of a spring pitcher, but I felt exceptionally good out there today," he said. "It was cold, but it didn't bother me, a bit. I threw pretty hard."

Elsewhere, Jim Kaat, Dan Larson, Warren Brusstar and Kevin Saucier scattered five hits and Jim Morrison singled home the game's only run in the 11th inning as the Philadelphia Phillies blanked the Toronto Blue Jays 1-0. Pete Rose went hitless in two at-bats and is 0-for-7 this spring.

Kip Young, Pat Underwood and Steve Baker checked Minnesota on two hits and the Detroit Tigers pushed across two unearned runs in the eighth inning to beat the Twins 2-0.

Randy Jones and Cy Young winner Gaylord Perry blanked Seattle on two hits over the first eight innings in the San Diego Padres' 4-1 victory over the Mariners.

Meanwhile, the New York Yankees' spring record fell to 0-4 when the Baltimore Orioles rapped out 11 hits in a 7-3 triumph over the world champions. Rookie Terry Kennedy's two-run single in the 11th inning gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 4-2 triumph over the New York Mets.

Jesus Alou and Jimmy Sexton delivered RBI singles in the ninth inning, lifting the Houston Astros over the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1, and Terry Harper singled home the winning run in the ninth, giving the Montreal Expos a 3-2 decision over the Atlanta Braves.

Jack Clark singled home one run and scored another, helping the San Francisco Giants turn back the Cleveland Indians 3-1. Meanwhile, another squad of Indians pounded out 14 hits and trimmed the Mexico City Tigers of the Mexican League 9-4.

Rod Carew hit a three-run homer in the first inning, triggering the California Angels to a 7-2 triumph over the Oakland A's, and Bill Buckner and Jerry Martin had three hits apiece and Gene Clines drove in three runs as the Chicago Cubs outslugged the Milwaukee Brewers 10-6.

Pinch hitter Phil Garner's bases-loaded triple in the seventh inning keyed the Pittsburgh Pirates' 6-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds and U.L. Washington doubled home the tying run in the eighth inning and scored on Dennis Webb's single as the Kansas City Royals edged the Texas Rangers 6-5.

Jim Killingsworth named as TCU basketball boss

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Jim Killingsworth, a grizzled veteran with a reputation for shoring up sinking basketball programs, has been tapped as head basketball coach at Texas Christian University.

The 35-year-old Oklahoma native signed a 4-year contract Sunday, but TCU Athletic Director Frank Windegger would not reveal terms of the agreement.

Killingsworth succeeds Tim Somerville, the 33-year-old coach who stepped down Feb. 19 after a 2-year record of 10-43.

Killingsworth comes to the Frogs off a 12-15 season at Oklahoma State University, the winningest season for the Cowboys in nine years.

Nicknamed "Killer," Killingsworth also has a reputation as a recruiter. He snared the Oklahoma "Player of the Year" for OSU two years in a row.

"We were fortunate to land a man and coach with Jim's credentials," Windegger said. "Our intention from the start was to find the best man for the job and I'm convinced we did. Our No. 1 priority was to find a proven major college head coach who was also an excellent recruiter." Killingsworth said he felt TCU's administration voiced a "total commitment (to basketball) or I wouldn't have taken the job. We've got the budget and the facilities."

"This is the most difficult decision I've ever made in coaching," Killingsworth said. "It's a real challenge and a great opportunity. TCU has great possibilities."

"One of the main reasons I took the job is the people I'll be working with. Many of them have worked with me previously."

Before joining OSU two years ago, Killingsworth had 28 straight winning seasons at Idaho State, Cerritos Junior College, Tulsa University and four Oklahoma high schools.

He spurred the Idaho State team to national fame in 1976-77 when it won the Big Sky Conference and beat Long Beach State, 83-72 and powerful UCLA, 76-75, in the NCAA playoffs.

"Jim has turned our program around at OSU," Oklahoma State Athletic Director Dr. Richard Young said. "I'm very disappointed to see him leave. He's recruited some excellent players here."

The Texas Longhorns and Arkansas Razorbacks used different talents Sunday to sweep Southwest Conference baseball doubleheaders.

The Longhorns rode the strong pitching of Keith Creel and Kem Wright to 3-1 and 2-0 victories over Houston.

Creel tossed a four-hitter and struck out six as he went the distance on Texas' opening victory. Wright fired seven innings of shutout ball in the nightcap before retiring in favor of relievers Jim Acker and Jerry Don

The victories in Austin improved Texas' record to 17-1 for the season and 5-1 on conference play. Houston fell to 11-7 overall and 0-6 in SWC play.

Home runs by Mike Martin and Ed Wallace powered Arkansas to 7-2 and 12-3 victories over Rice in a doubleheader at Houston.

Martin slammed a three-run homer in the first game and Wallace pounded a two-run shot in the second game.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — As medals were being draped around the necks of players for runnerup Bogata Rivercrest in Class A girls' basketball, Director Bailey Marshall of the University Interscholastic League remarked, "This is a young team."

With the 29th annual tournament winding up, Marshall apparently was already thinking of next year.

Rivercrest starters, all of whom should return next year, also must have been thinking of the future as they glauced covetously at Hale Center's championship trophy.

FANS OF winners and losers scan tournament rosters each year to see who might return next year.

The tournament this year was historic in that all five champions used only five players, going full-court. Girls' basketball has just made the change from six players who played half-court games of defense and offense.

This year, a Victoria team of four seniors and junior 5-foot-10 scoring star Sheryl Hauglum broke Dallas South Oak Cliff's 65-game winning streak in upsetting the defending Class AAAA champions, 43-41, for the title. SOC will return three starters next season, including freshman ball-handling whiz Vicki Green; 5-11 Ramonzo Dozier and 5-10 Kim Rodman.

ALVIN, ANOTHER AAAA semifinalist had three sophomore starters but loses Barbara Archie, its best player.

Perhaps the tournament's best player, however, was sophomore Gay Hemphill of Plainview. Plainview lost to Victoria by six points in the semifinals, with Hemphill on the bench for almost a third of the game because of fouls. She still scored 25 points. Three juniors also return for Plainview next year.

Georgetown, a 51-49 winner over Sweeny for the AAA title, loses four starters, including Denise Babicki, who scored 39 points in two games. Sweeny returns three starters — high-scoring Kay Grove, leading rebounder Elnora Woodard and ball-handler Terry Baugh.

French Lick cage star named player of year

By The Associated Press

Larry Bird, the gifted 6-foot-9 center who led Indiana State to an unbeaten season and a No. 1 national ranking, was named today The Associated Press' college basketball Player of the Year for 1978-79.

His coach, Bill Hodges, was named Coach of the Year. Bird and Hodges were to receive trophies at a news conference at the Radisson Hotel in Chicago this morning.

Bird, a first-round draft choice of the Boston Celtics last June who elected to remain in school for his final year of eligibility, averaged 28.8 points and 15.0 rebounds per game as Indiana State rolled to the Missouri Valley Conference championship.

The Sycamores raised their season record to 30-0 Sunday with an 86-69 second-round NCAA playoff victory over Virginia Tech to advance to the Midwest Regional semifinals. Bird, playing despite a broken left thumb, had 22 points and 13 rebounds.

Bird, from French Lick, Ind., was a runaway winner of the Adolph Rupp Trophy as the nation's outstanding player, receiving 328 votes from a nationwide panel of writers and broadcasters. Sidney Moncrief of Arkansas was a distant second with 17 votes, followed by Earvin Johnson of Michigan State with nine votes and Mike Gminski of Duke with five.

Athens, also in AAA, had four seniors in its starting lineup. Dumas can count on two of its leading scorers — Patricia Fortenberry and Michele Clements — for another year.

SLATON EASILY captured its second straight AA championship, whipping Pflugerville, 68-54, and starters Cynthia Robinson — the team's high scorer — and Esoleta Whaley give Slaton a good nucleus to go for three. Pflugerville will welcome back Karen Thompson, a 6-foot-2 junior who pitched in 64 points in two games, including 42 against Slaton's stingy defense, and guard Linda Dybdahl.

Universal City Randolph had three non-seniors starting but was unimpressive. Comanche returns Dixie Mayer and Pam Scott, who hit a combined total of seven of nine field attempts against Slaton.

Hale Center overwhelmed Rivercrest in the second quarter, reeling off 18 consecutive points and coasting to a 46-29 Class A championship, and the two teams could meet in a rematch next year.

FRESHMAN GUARD Kim Black, who was very effective against the quick Rivercrest defensive press, and juniors Shanna Lockett and Karen Waits return for Hale Center. Six-foot-one Terri Henry, who was high with 21 points against Rivercrest, is a senior.

Rivercrest's lineup should be intact, led by guards Scotti Wood and Annette Harris. The other starters returning are Donna Hines, Judy Via and Robyn Reeder. Subs Margaret Hines and Sarah Scales got tournament experience.

Rivercrest also had the tallest player in the tournament, 6-4 freshman Veronica Howerton, who played the final 55 seconds against Hale Center and missed her only shot.

The three returning starters for Rogers only had a combined total of nine points in its semifinal loss to Rivercrest. Wall, the other Class A semifinalist, also has three returning starters, including Cindy Odell and Kellye Powell, who played well against Hale Center. Sophomore Lori Gerber, who scored 41 points in two games, should lead Nazareth as it seeks its fourth consecutive Class B championship next year. Nazareth edged Weatherford Brock, 46-43, for the title this year. Joining Gerber will be her cousin, Sharon, and Dorothy Ramaekers, a fine outside shooter.

This, too, could be a division in which there will be a championship rematch as Brock returns five of its top six players — Kay Hull and two pairs of twins, Dina and Tina Procter and Pattie and Paula Phillips.

Avinger also looks strong, with all five starters returning, including Sherea Mathis, who scored 39 points in a three-point semifinal loss to Brock. D'Hanis returns three starters, but Annette Nester, by far its top scorer, graduates.

'No, yes and maybe'

Vice President Walter Mondale has advised the world that the administration would not use American troops abroad "except under the most extreme, compelling circumstances," presumably in response to direct attack.

But Defense Secretary Harold Brown declared over network television that "..... we'll take any action that's appropriate, including the use of military force ..." to defend this nation's vital interests in the Middle East.

In a separate televised interview, Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger pulled back from the concept of intervening with warships or combat troops and spoke only of the possible use of military strength or the establishment of a military presence to protect Persian Gulf oil supplies.

You will recall that Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., said last Friday in Houston that this is the real danger spot insofar as Mideast oil is concerned.

But the Carter trumpet remains as uncertain as ever; no, yes and maybe. Yet, it is encouraging to note the administration; spurred by international setbacks and rising public criticism, appears to be developing a little spine. That the resulting contradiction and confusion in foreign policy should be welcome is in itself a commentary on the disarray in Washington.

Even so, it will take more than militant cabinet members to impress the Soviet Union and the endangered oil-producing Arab states after the weak, vacillating U.S. performance during the Iranian revolution — the dispatch and subsequent recall of a carrier task force, the sending of unarmed fighter planes to Saudi Arabia, and surrendering the U.S. Embassy to a Communist mob in Tehran. To have credence, the enunciation of this new American will must be implemented.

Aside from providing sufficient military muscle to protect American lives and property, beginning with the embassies, the United States should immediately enlist its NATO allies and Japan in any military arrangements which might be worked out to strengthen the Persian Gulf nations against overt aggression. These allies have an even greater stake in keeping Middle Eastern oil flowing than this country, and their participation would make the United States a less visible target of Moslem and Marxist radicals than was the case in the Iranian disorders.

Unfortunately, military strength, while helpful, cannot in itself assure preservation of friendly governments in the Middle East, as the West learned to its great sorrow in Iran. There the shah's highly sophisticated armed forces and the presence of 40,000 Americans failed utterly to stem the revolutionary tide.

Indeed, Saudi Arabia has rejected Washington's proposal for a U.S. military base there.

The present concern of the Gulf states is the emergence of a powerful fundamentalist Islamic leadership in Iran and its possible influence over the Shiite sect in their own Moslem population — especially in Iraq, Bahrain, and Kuwait where the sect is powerful.

Similarities between Iran and Saudi Arabia expose the Saudis to realistic fears of revolution: There is widespread corruption in high places, gross inequality in wealth, discontented students returning from studies in the West, almost one million foreign workers, mostly Muslims from Arab states who are ripe for agitation, and a regime so undemocratic that the Shah of Iran seemed positively enlightened by comparison.

But if the hard lessons of Iran have taught us anything it is that we cannot expect to mold our friends in our democratic image. We, therefore, must soften the harsh judgments of failings we seem to reserve for our allies and seem to overlook in our potential enemies. As the shah's troubles mounted, the Carter administration became more fastidious than ever about supporting him and developing an arm's-length attitude which hastened his downfall to radicals whose concept of human rights is to execute political enemies.

This fact has not been lost on King Fahd of Saudi Arabia and possibly President Anwar Sadat of Egypt.

If the West is to guard what remains of its oil sources in the Persian Gulf, it must combine will, strength and friendly understanding more skillfully than anyone in Washington has suggested so far.

'HERE'S A ROPE'

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Another appointee in trouble (?)

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Another of President Carter's sub-Cabinet appointees may be caught up in a financial scandal. He is Sterling Tucker, a respected District of Columbia political figure, who is Carter's newest assistant secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

Tucker ran unsuccessfully last year for mayor of Washington, D.C., and had the usual campaign debts. We have now obtained a sworn affidavit that accuses Tucker's attorney of trying to pay off one creditor by promising Tucker's help in obtaining government contracts for him.

The affidavit also charges that Tucker did not voice any surprise or objection when the creditor told him of the alleged offer. Both Tucker and his attorney, Woodrow Boggs, have vehemently denied any wrongdoing. But we have obtained secret tape recordings that lend credence to the charges.

The affidavit, obtained by our associates Gary Cohn and Sam Fogg, was signed by Sherwood Ross, a media consultant. Tucker wound up owning him $10,730 for work in the mayoral campaign.

Unlike Tucker's other campaign creditors, most of whom agreed to settle for about 25 cents on the dollar, Ross refused to accept partial payment for his services. He is suing Tucker for the full amount.

Tucker was recommended for his new $50,000 post as an assistant secretary by HUD Secretary Patricia Bates Harris. Quickly confirmed, he has taken up his duties at HUD.

But while the appointment was still pending, Tucker, according to our sources, felt he would stand a better chance of White House approval if his campaign debts were cleared up. All the creditors except Ross were satisfied.

At one point Tucker and Boggs were under the impression that Ross had agreed to settle for $2,000 or $2,500. Acting on this misconception, Tucker informed the White House that his campaign debts had been taken care of.

Ross says he never agreed to a partial payment; Tucker and Boggs say the media man agreed and then changed his mind. At any rate, Boggs apparently was afraid the White House would think Tucker had lied about the campaign debts and would scotch the appointment.

"Woody Boggs ... told me that I stood between Tucker and his appointment if I didn't settle," Ross' affidavit states. "He then said that when Tucker was appointed to HUD he would throw work my way, if I forgave the campaign debt."

"I told him I didn't feel like working all over again to earn what I had earned the first time," Boggs replied. "Oh, you wouldn't have to work dollar for dollar for what you did during the campaign." The clear implication is that the campaign debt would be paid off with sweetheart contracts from Tucker.

A CHANGING WORLD:

Wang Hsiao-gung is the reluctant Peking spy

By JOHN PINKERMAN
Copley News Service

PEKING — Twenty-nine-year-old Wang Hsiao-gung is a Communist Chinese spy with a special interest in all he can pick up from American tourists on U.S. military facts and figures.

I consider this same Wang, a graduate of Nanking University and a man who is devoted to the memory of the late Chairman Mao Tse-tung and present Chairman Hua Kuo-feng, to be my friend.

This paradoxical judgment on a man who had seemed to be at my elbow most of the two weeks I spent in China might apply generally to most of the 900 million people of mainland China. They are devoted, one degree or another, to their Red bosses but they retain the traditional open friendship the Chinese people have shown for many years, particularly toward Americans.

But, this piece concerns my friend Wang. I met him in Canton on arrival from Hong Kong on a two-week stay in China made possible by friends with Japan Air Lines.

He was the No. 2 man of a pair of guides assigned to our group of 40 visitors. No. 1 being a much tougher and closed-mouthed Red named Chang Yin-nin.

It must have been pure coincidence that Wang sidled up to me in Canton, although it is impossible to escape the thought that in the dossiers he had on all 40 of our group he had information on my 32-year part-time military background. He also was well aware of my journalistic background, even though my perfunctory visa application had indicated my profession as "retired."

In any event, he sought me out on buses as we visited various Chinese temples (now called "museums" by the non-religious Reds) and other attractions, seeking always to sit alongside me. He started by indicating an interest in learning U.S. slang. Several of us taught him phrases like "Let's get the show on the road," "Get the lead out," "Come hell or high water" and dozens of others.

Then he "switched to another subject," "How much time did you spend in the Army?" At the outset, let it be said that there was nothing I told Wang that couldn't be found in any U.S. newspaper — and I know nothing of military secrets.

But, he was persistent. How good are U.S. reserve forces? How are they constituted? How many National Guard divisions? Why don't you have political instruction in the Army? How much does your drug problem affect military effectiveness? Will you fail to stop a Soviet advance in Europe? Do you have air raid shelters?

There were many other questions and it was fun parrying Wang's queries. Then, out of a clear sky, he said, "Tell me all you know about the 101st Airborne division," with several specific inquiries. I told him it was the elite force of the U.S. Army, and that's all I knew, generally the truth. Wang persisted but I desisted.

Perhaps it is part of the pragmatism of communism that once Wang found he had milked me for all the military information he could get, he knocked it off. From then on, until departure from Peking for Tokyo, he didn't ask a single question about the military, his only comment on such subjects being that he regretted never having served in the Chinese army because of a physical impairment (in his nose).

He helped me in all kinds of problems, even when his hard-rock Red colleague, Chang, refused. He became a delight to be with and, at the risk of seeming naive, I consider that he was sincere in his expressions of friendship and respect.

Finally, when parting time came at the Friendship Hotel in Peking (Wang and Chang had been ordered by their bosses to Shanghai to prepare for another U.S. group), it was a tender scene.

"I feel very emotional," Wang said. "I hate to see you leave." We embraced warmly and there were hints of moisture in the eyes of both of us.

There is no question that Wang Hsiao-gung is a spy. Any Chinese connected with the government must be. But, he is typically Chinese, outgoing in his friendship for Americans. That is the way I will remember him. And, there was no way for him to get any military secrets from me, because I didn't know any.

INSIDE REPORT:

Fed raiders down South contribute to Carter decline

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

his sober appraisal derives from failure to curb federal harassment of a state that was in Carter's 1976 vanguard. Carter's pledge to maintain tobacco price supports has quieted North Carolina's furor over HEW Secretary Joseph Califano's anti-smoking crusade. But the assault on the university persists.

Just what Califano and HEW's Office of Civil Rights want is not clear. But it cannot be called "desegregation." There are no racial admission barriers to the university's 16 campuses, and 30 percent of black enrollment attends historically white colleges.

At first, HEW pushed toward merger of historically white and historically black colleges, seeking to remove distinctions between the academically respected Chapel Hill campus and predominantly black colleges with more lenient admission standards. When North Carolina blacks opposed this move, HEW shifted to demanding greater funds for black colleges.

Thus, the Feb. 23 inspection tour by HEW officials headed by Asst. Secretary Mary Berry, sought out the oldest facilities on predominantly black campuses in order to demonstrate neglect. Meantime, Ms. Berry was playing politics. She told newsmen "privately" that Hunt is a decent, progressive fellow but university president Friday is playing to North Carolina public opinion. In fact, Hunt's and Friday's positions are virtually identical, angrily opposing federal interventions.

Trying to beat the March 14 court deadline for a settlement, Berry has told newsmen — but not university officials — that the feds will settle for President Friday approving previously rejected spending requests by black colleges. That contributes to the belief by university officials that the HEW effort, masterminded by the NAACP Legal Defense Fund in New York, intends to make the prestigious University of North Carolina the precedent for a massive federal takeover of higher education in the South.

Consequently, liberals here sound like reactionary captains of industry. "I declare," Hunt said, "I don't think there's any satisfying these federal people." A university official with a long record of promoting racial integration told us: "Now, I know how the businessmen feel."

North Carolina is confronting demands of federal officials who are mainly the product of Eastern private elitist universities and cannot understand what the state university and the Chapel Hill campus mean to this state. But, after all the expense of time and money, has the federal intervention forced the university to do anything constructive it would have not done otherwise? "Nothing," responded Friday, considered one of the nation's foremost educators.

To Carter supporters here, it is inconceivable that the president approved of HEW's conduct. Asked who is calling the signals, Friday gave us a one-word answer: "Joe."

Politicians, therefore, wonder why the president does not pick up his telephone and order Joe Califano to call off the dogs. His supporters here have a two-part answer: first, that is not Jimmy Carter's way of doing business; second, he cannot further alienate the black vote that proved his 1976 margin of victory.

Hunt was elected in 1976 with liberal-labor-black support similar to Carter's but is not afraid to oppose federal harassment of the university. Hunt has retained major white support while Carter has not. Having lost Southern whites through appointments such as Joe Califano and Mary Berry, the president needs black support even more today than in 1976. Therein lies the deepening political dilemma of this Southern president.

Eleven state employees to lose jobs

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Eleven state employees have learned they will lose their jobs at the end of March as part of a plan to reduce the number of employees in the governor's office.

Allen Clark, special assistant for administration for Gov. Bill Clements, said Friday the cuts in the Governor's Criminal Justice Division will bring the target number close to its goal.

Clements has said he planned to have 5 percent fewer employees in his office than former Gov. Dolph Briscoe. The number of positions would then be 288 instead of the 282 listed in the budget.

Chick Morris, a criminal justice division spokesman, said the employees were told Thursday "so they would have three weeks to look for other jobs."

Nine of the employees were middle-level staff members with salaries from $20,000 to $28,000 a year.

Rural areas demanding food stamps

WASHINGTON (AP) — Since new regulations went into effect last week, the greatest upsurge in new applications for food stamps has come from rural areas, Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman said Friday.

She told the Senate Budget Committee there have been reports of long lines of applicants in some locations, but that is not because local offices are confused or unfamiliar with the new regulations.

"We are having a large increase in rural areas where the offices are least able to handle the influx of new cases," Ms. Foreman said. Otherwise, she said, "We have had no great upsurge nationwide yet."

"Part of the congressional intent was to distribute more of the benefits to the rural poor and this is happening," she said.

About 4.78 million families or approximately 15.3 million persons were receiving food stamps at the end of 1978. The new regulations took effect March 1.

Economic forecasts: right, or snow job?

BUSINESS MIRROR

And so apparently has the administration. Despite its rhetoric, prices are rising. In fact, prices have risen even faster since the guidelines went into effect.

NEW YORK (AP) — Retail sales remain high. Consumer credit is close to record levels. The savings rate is near its lowest in a quarter century. The number of jobs is rising; unemployment is still falling. So, you ask, what happened to all those doomayers of 1978 who asked us to repent before it was too late, and who told us we weren't likely to do so, and therefore would be judged by the year's end?

Several gambling and casino issues continued to fall back following sharp rises earlier last week. Caesars World dropped 2 1/2 to 53 3/4; Del Webb fell 1/4 to 21 1/2, and the American Stock Exchange, Golden Nugget dropped 1/4 to 25 1/2 and Resorts Class A declined 1/4 to 51 1/2.

But last year they were, too. Compare 1978 forecasts with this year's and you find an astonishing resemblance, the major difference being in 1978; now it's due this year.

Because of this, the forecasters have less credibility now than they had then. They have been shouting too long; now they sound unreal and irrelevant. They have become background noise.

It is grossly unfair for the state to bring this material and throw it on us at the 11th-hour. Isaacs protested. He said the state was required to turn over such reports last month.

There is nothing here the state would rely on. Falls told Whistler. He described the reports as "elimination-type work done by the lab in Oklahoma City."

His right arm is sheared off and the collar bone juts out, naked and greenish with decay. Miles above her village an American pilot had pushed a button and let loose a cargo of bombs.

A peasant and his family squat under sugar palms in front of what was once their home. The house is a skeleton of splintered poles and you can see through to the rain-gray horizon beyond. The Communist rebels had been through, but the rice farmer doesn't seem to care which side in the war had thought his home worth destroying.

The U.S.-backed government leaders who toppled Sihanouk took on the communist Khmer Rouge and their North Vietnamese allies. The United States, fighting in neighboring Vietnam, staged an invasion into Cambodia and dropped nearly 800,000 tons of bombs on the country.

The regime that overthrew the war opened with corpses floating down the Mekong River. Prisoners were rarely taken by either side and the lucky ones were shot. Others were disemboweled, beheaded or had their livers cut out and eaten in a macabre battlefield ritual.

The white dead was estimated at from 600,000 to 800,000 — about one Cambodian in every 10. Hundreds of thousands were disabled.

The communist forces won, but the white flags in Phnom Penh on April 17, 1975, were waving for relief that peace had finally come.

That illusion lasted about six hours. From the testimony of survivors and refugees, 45 months of terror followed. Cambodia had again become a killing ground, but this time it was the leadership turning on its own people.

From that testimony, it would appear that within hours of Phnom Penh's "liberation," its more than 2 million inhabitants were forced into the countryside at gunpoint. Wounded from hospitals were wheeled out and amputees carried by others or forced to slither along the roads as far as they could.

The choked, mute lines of families trudged out of the capital to begin what French Cambodia expert Francois Ponchaud has called "the calvary of a people."

"The population is excessively reduced by the incessant wars," French traveller Henri Mohout wrote about his 1860 journey through Cambodia. The man credited with rediscovering the temples of Angkor noted the stark

Whistler also turned down another defense motion for a mistrial today. Defense attorney Garvin Isaacs, who has asked for a mistrial almost every day, accused prosecutor S.M. Falls Jr. of bad faith after the state gave Isaacs 16 pages of investigative reports Saturday.

He said the state was required to turn over such reports last month. There is nothing here the state would rely on. Falls told Whistler. He described the reports as "elimination-type work done by the lab in Oklahoma City."

DEATHS

Leslie C. Hill

BIG SPRING — Graveside services for Leslie C. Hill, 58, of San Bernardino, Calif., and formerly of Big Spring, will be at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday in Trinity Memorial Park here directed by Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home. Officiating will be Royce Clay, minister of 14th and Main Street Church of Christ.

Hill died Wednesday in California after a brief illness.

Moderate quake jolts Washington

SEATTLE (AP) — Numerous Puget Sound islanders were jolted awake by a moderate earthquake early today, less than 24 hours after a tremor that was felt in much of southwestern Washington state.

Bud Odell of the geophysical observatory in Newport said the quake northwest of Everett at 4:41 a.m. today registered 3.4 on the Richter scale, while the tremor at 6:40 a.m. Sunday registered 3.8 and was centered northeast of Kelso.

The Island County sheriff's office reported numerous calls, mostly from the Camano Island and the northern part of Whidbey Island. On the mainland, however, the tremor apparently went virtually unnoticed.

"It almost sounded like a blast," said Wallie Funk, publisher of the Whidbey News-Times. "It woke us up right away. The chandeliers were swaying in the home."

Robbery charges filed against Midland men

ODESSA — Aggravated robbery charges were filed Saturday against two Midland men accused of plotting to steal $3,000 in turquoise jewelry on a restaurant parking lot from Elton Ray Burkleo of Odessa earlier in the day.

Charged with robbery and jailed in lieu of posting $15,000 each in bonds were Joe D. Click, 17, and David A. Bellis, 18.

According to officers, Burkleo told police one of two men following him in a car approached him after he had pulled into the parking lot. He told officers the man asked to view the jewelry Burkleo had in the trunk of his car. Burkleo told officers the man said he was interested in purchasing some of the jewelry.

Instead, the man grabbed the jewelry from the trunk and ran to a nearby car in which the second man was waiting, Burkleo told police.

Burkleo and a restaurant employee were unsuccessful in trying to stop the man, who fled on foot, reports indicated. In trying to halt the driver, the restaurant employee held on to the moving car and was dragged in the parking lot until he lost his hold when the driver slammed on the brakes, police said they were told.

Responding to a disturbance call, police later apprehended two men and recovered the jewelry.

Charges were filed Saturday before Justice of the Peace Virgil Lumpee.

Ten enter guilty pleas to perjury, tax charges

LUBBOCK — Ten current or former residents of Big Spring pleaded guilty Saturday in Lubbock to federal charges of perjury or conspiring to file fraudulently for income tax refunds.

The 10 were Calvin Lee Camp, Jerry D. Hankins, Larry G. James, Danya J. Broyles, J.D. Woodward, Nathan Banker, Howard M. McCormick, Robert W. Thompson, William F. Wise and Roy Orender.

Broyles was sentenced under the Federal Youth Corrections Act, which carries a possible six years imprisonment.

Wise received two years imprisonment, with the term to run concurrent with a state prison term, and Orender received a two-year probation sentence.

Sentencing on the others was delayed.

Another 15 persons indicted on similar charges Jan. 16 are scheduled for trial March 26 in Lubbock.

Odessa man in guarded condition after accident

ODESSA — An Odessa man remained in guarded condition today in Medical Center Hospital with injuries he received Saturday afternoon in a two-car collision north of Odessa.

Jerry Warton, 48, was a passenger in one of the vehicles involved in the accident at 86th Street and Andrews Highway.

Three other persons were treated for injuries and released after the collision.

Revolutionary Council rules Iran

By BRIAN JEFFRIES

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Its membership is a mystery, but its powers are immense. As Iran's revolution gropes for stability and a new order to bring peace, the authority wielded by the Islamic Revolutionary Council is the real glue holding the nation together.

Its members authorize arrests, set up revolutionary courts, confirm death sentences, organize security and oversee food distribution through hundreds of revolutionary committees operating throughout Iran.

Since the bloody weekend of street battles in Tehran one month ago finally toppled Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, the Revolutionary Council has been the true center of power here despite the appointment of a provisional government by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

The stern-faced religious leader almost certainly heads the council. And the council's apparent determination to maintain supreme power during an increasingly uncertain stage of the revolution has brought the provisional government of Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan into confrontation with Khomeini — who appointed him in the first place.

Proposed balanced budget amendment draws mixed reaction

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposed constitutional amendment to require a balanced federal budget was denounced in Congress today as "another level of folly" and praised as the only way to restore "fiscal responsibility" in government.

A clash over the merits of writing a budget-balancing requirement into the Constitution took place at a hearing before the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on the Constitution.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., the subcommittee chairman who previously had taken no position on the proposal, made clear he has serious doubts about the wisdom of a constitutional amendment. Five of the seven subcommittee members favor a budget-balancing amendment.

Bayh warned against "thinking that problems concerning fiscal restraint and economic well-being of this nation can be solved by the quick fix and easy cure."

Bayh made clear he has no intention of acting quickly on any of the proposed amendments. Eleven have been introduced in the Senate and 65 in the House.

"We should not race precipitously into a thicket of economic and constitutional confusion," Bayh said.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., testified that the Constitution "should not be tinkered with or amended except for most compelling reasons. However, the financial history of this nation for the past 25 years and my strong sense of fiscal responsibility compel me to propose the amendment."

BAZARGAN'S EFFORTS to establish the authority of the provisional government have been undermined by the revolutionary committees to the extent that he has now reportedly offered his resignation to Khomeini, who is said to have rejected it.

"The committees and radical groups with their interference and disturbances have made it impossible for the government to operate," the 70-year-old Bazargan said recently.

"They persecute people, they arrest people, they issue orders, they oppose us, they are against our appointments. Our day has been turned into night."

The council's control of day-to-day life in Iran — through the revolutionary committees — is amply demonstrated by the situation in the capital.

A network of 14 revolutionary committees is operating throughout Tehran under the direction of Mohammad Reza Mahdavi-Kani, a 47-year-old white turbaned mullah who says he was appointed directly by Khomeini but with the approval of Bazargan.

His overall command of the hundreds of committees all over the country also makes him one of the most powerful people in Iran.

MAHDAVI-KANI OPERATES from behind a desk, covered with a battery of constantly ringing telephones, in a small cubicle in the 70-year-old Majlis — parliament — buildings in the heart of Tehran.

Each of the Tehran committees, he says, is divided into sub-committees "responsible for such activities as security, intelligence, distribution and control of arms and ammunition and relief operations such as the provision of food and clothing."

To maintain law and order in the absence of effective police and while a national guard is being created, he says he has the cooperation of both Islamic and Marxist guerrillas.

Meanwhile, he says, "We are quite confident we can maintain security." Even after the national guard is operating, he said, the revolutionary committees will still maintain overall responsibility for their supervision.

The running of the national guard is expected to be the responsibility of a close Khomeini aide, Dr. Ibrahim Yazdi, who is also a deputy prime minister in the Bazargan government.

YAZDI SAID recently that "competent" armed guards maintaining security for the committees will "gradually become part of the national guard."

Pasadena Hotel Green revisited

By CATHY SEIPP

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — In 1915, the Hotel Green circulated a brochure inviting tourists "to a large winter season attraction, to a warmth and softness of climate almost tropical, and to a floral and verdant perfume which never palls."

Those familiar with Southern California's recent rather wet winter may scoff at that description of the local weather. Indeed, the once-elegant resort hotel has come down in the world, too, reduced from a luxurious turn-of-the-century spa to a senior citizens' apartment building called Castle Green.

But its opulent Moorish architecture and ornate design remain intact, and can now be had by anyone with $9.5 million to spare. Castle Green — the quintessential "Hotel California" — is for sale.

George Copans, president of the Beverly Hills real estate firm handling the Castle Green sale, said, "All potential buyers indicate they wish to retain the uniqueness of the property."

It would be a pity to disassemble the lovely artisan work ... available only in those days."

The building appeared in the movie, "The Sting," and its picturesque design puts it constantly in demand for films and TV.

The Castle Green is something of an architectural landmark as well as an architectural one. George Washington may not have slept there, but Presidents Benjamin Harrison, Grover Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt, John Kennedy and Richard Nixon did.

The hotel was popular with East Coast millionaires escaping to a milder climate. John D. Rockefeller Sr. gave shiny new dishes to the staff during his visit, Copens said.

Modern visitors might be impressed with the hotel's elaborate carvings, iron grille work, cavernous ceilings, enormous fireplaces and other painstaking details impossible to reproduce today because of the cost of labor and materials.

But in 1915, the hotel's brochure emphasized its "telephones, sanitary bathrooms and electric lights in most of the large closets (made especially to please the ladies, and well-ventilated)."

And, said the brochure, Pasadena's scenic roads "traverse the fruitful regions of many lovely valleys, where there are the homes of successful ranchers. ... They are endless in the charm and variety of constant happy surprises."

All this could be had, in 1915, for $1.50 a day.

Copans said one buyer is interested in reopening the Castle Green "as a hotel in all its former opulence." If he goes through with the deal, he undoubtedly will have to add a little present-day opulence to the rates.

Castle Green, an opulent building with Moorish architecture and ornate furnishings, is now for sale. According to the firm handling the sale, owners are asking $9.5 million for the facility, built in 1915 as a luxury spa hotel. (AP-Laserphoto)

Cult's effects sold at auction

ST. JAMES, Mo. (AP) — The last vestiges of a religious commune that was a center of controversy in mid-Missouri were auctioned off Sunday, while the cult's members planned a move to Texas.

About 1,000 persons, most of them curiosity seekers, showed up for the second day of bidding on the Yahweh City cult's effects. The auctions Saturday and Sunday disposed of more than 8,000 items belonging to the cult, its leader, 80-year-old Joseph Jeffers, and his followers.

The total take for the two-day sale amounted to about $25,000, said auctioneer Charles Glenn.

An item that attracted a lot of interest, a 20-foot-high replica of the cult's pyramid-shaped worship hall, brought $50. The hall itself will remain on a 27-acre tract bought by three St. James men.

Ambulance found abandoned; Key only item gone

HOUSTON (AP) — A Fire Department emergency ambulance rescue unit was stolen Sunday night as paramedics treated two firemen who had received minor burns in a house fire.

The ambulance was found abandoned 15 minutes later and police were questioning a 19-year-old youth.

Paramedics said only the ignition key was taken from the ambulance. A locksmith had to be called before the unit could be returned to service.

'Hizzoner da Mare' to leave position, not ideas, behind

By TIMOTHY HARPER

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — When he walks out of the office for the last time, he will take with him the sign on the door that reads, "Hizzoner da Mare."

Paul Soglin, who went from being an antiwar activist at odds with police to being mayor of this city of 170,000, is leaving office after six years.

Soglin will turn 34 five days after his third term expires April 17. He was the youngest person ever elected mayor of a city of this size when he took office in 1973.

He had been an antiwar activist of the 1960s; police clubbed him, arrested him and once cut his hair after a street demonstration.

Yet while still a law student, Soglin developed a solid reputation as alderman for the downtown area dominated by the University of Wisconsin campus.

By the time he announced 15 months ago that he would not seek re-election, Soglin's political base also encompassed both the blue-collar East Side and the liberal Democratic West Side.

"I think things have gone really well the last six years," he said in an interview. "There's nothing I would do differently."

Things he did include presenting the key to the city to Fidel Castro on one of his three trips to Cuba, stridently supporting labor groups, and presiding over last Halloween's City Council meeting in a "lame duck" costume of feathers and crutches.

What Soglin calls his "radical perspective" has not been universally accepted, however, particularly by conservatives, who criticize him for enforcing sex-for-sale ordinances, and government traditionalists, who say he used the power of his office too strongly in some areas, such as education.

Soglin prefers to talk about what he sees as his legacy for this city: one of the best public transit systems in the nation, a downtown mall and civic center project, bureaucratic reorganization, expanded and more efficient human services programs and a "triple-A" municipal bond rating.

Prodded, he becomes reflective on his role as a symbol of his generation and his country.

"During the first week in office in 1973, and I've had the feeling ever since, I've had the responsibility that those of us who came out of the antiwar movement could be competent and administer important programs," Soglin said.

Overseeing a $60 million annual city budget and taking a personal role in everything from welfare to bike paths, Soglin is confident he is not a poor representative of his generation.

"I know I haven't been a liability," he said, adding that while most protesters have exchanged jeans and long hair for three-piece suits and razor cuts, their radical perspective is intact.

"We haven't substantially changed our politics," he said. "What's changed is our ability to communicate. We've become more effective, and that gives us greater freedom to make changes."

Compromise, he said, no longer means "selling out."

"There was always a need to compromise, but now where compromise is called for, I'm in a position where very little has to be given up. Eight years ago compromise meant giving up the shop," Soglin said.

Is this new communication the result of the maturing of his angry generation or a new tolerant attitude on the part of the rest of the nation?

"A bit of both," a pensive Soglin replied. "The country is more accepting in terms of listening to us. And we've demonstrated, through time, our competence."

In recent years, he said, voters have come to look at the competence a candidate inspires rather than right-or-left stances.

Soglin, however, said he is frightened by the "new politics" of stylized, one-issue or no-issue campaigns.

"When you get an attractive candidate with little or no experience, who doesn't state a position on the issues, you can end up with a very dangerous situation," Soglin said.

Ironically, neither candidate seeking Soglin's job in the April 3 election has any previous elected experience. Former Soglin aide James Rowen, vowing to carry on Soglin's programs, is an underdog to university administrator Joel Skornicka.

"For me," Soglin said, "the scariest thing is not knowing in an unforeseen crisis what an elected official will do."

Yet barely a month before voluntary unemployment, Soglin himself has no definite plans. "I want to write," he said. "I may do some consulting or practice law. I want to maneuver myself into a position where I have the flexibility to write."

But there was more behind his decision to leave politics: "It's mostly just to be free. I don't mind working 60-70 hours a week, but I want to have more control over my time."

Soglin used to set up a card table on the street and make notes of citizens' comments and complaints. But in the last year, since his divorce from his wife of nine years, he has become more private.

"I'm enjoying it," he said. "It reaches the point where the attention, while in many cases flattering, doesn't allow you to become free of the responsibility of the office."

He said he will not miss the innumerable meetings or the frustrations of working with ill-prepared politicians, but he will miss behind-the-scenes planning and desk work.

He has been mentioned for Congress, lieutenant governor, a federal job and perhaps someday the ambassadorship to Cuba, but Soglin said any political future depends on how well he adjusts to being a private citizen for the first time in his adult life.

"I don't know how well I'll stay out of it," he said, "how much I'll miss it."

Opening lead — ♠ A

When today's hand was played in the 1951 North American team championship, both declarers ruffed the opening lead.

At the second trick the first declarer led the eight of hearts to dummy's king. When West took the queen of hearts he led another spade, forcing South to ruff with an honor. The nine of hearts eventually took the setting trick.

PLAYING SAFE

Schenken, the second declarer, remarked apologetically that he would play the hand safe; and he led the ace of hearts at the second trick.

When East discarded, Schenken led the jack of hearts and drew three rounds of trumps safely. He then led his side winners and let West ruff whenever he pleased.

If East held four trumps, Schenken would lead the jack of hearts to the queen, thus keeping control.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer you hold: S-None; H-AJ1087; D-AKQJ4; C-KQ5. What do you say?

ANSWER: Force to game with two hearts (or two clubs, if that is your forcing opening bid). Game is likely if partner has as little as the jack of clubs or the queen of hearts or even if partner has a good fit for either red suit but no high cards at all.

Induced labor has its risks

Dear Dr. Solomon: A friend of mine is planning to ask her obstetrician to induce labor if her child is not born before Easter. She says she does not want to spend the holidays in a hospital. It seems to me it would be better to let nature take its course. Any comment? —Clara

Dear Clara: There is a great deal of controversy over the advisability of inducing labor, mainly because no large-scale, well-controlled study has been done. Obviously, labor should be induced when continuation of the pregnancy would mean a clear threat to life or well-being of the mother and infant. But even here there is disagreement among obstetricians as to when that point is reached.

Induction of labor is not without risk. First, there is the increased possibility of disease or death to the premature baby; and secondly, the effect of the more frequent uterine contractions on the fetus. However, these factors, too, are obscured by lack of knowledge about the frequency with which these complications occur.

In the absence of any clear-cut evidence of beneficial or harmful effects of induced labor, a serious discussion between your friend and her obstetrician seems in order.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I used to read about kids who got lead poisoning by eating paint that flaked off the wall. Now a neighbor of mine, a grown man with a family, tells me he's got a mild case of lead poisoning and has to change jobs. Since he's no kid, I wonder if his doctor knows what he's talking about. —Mr. L.E.

Dear Mr. E.: Lead poisoning has become a serious health problem in the United States, among adults as well as among children. Your neighbor may not eat paint from the wall, but he may work as a battery maker or in a plant that manufactures insecticides. These are only two of a number of occupations in which a potential for lead poisoning exists. Moreover, he may be bringing lead into the home on his clothes and body without even being aware of it and endangering his children.

The effects of lead poisoning can be very serious. Heavy amounts of lead can cause fatal kidney disease, high blood pressure or serious brain damage. As might be expected, children are more susceptible to serious complications than adults.

I'm afraid your neighbor's physician knows what he's talking about, and I would suggest your neighbor listen very carefully. "Getting the lead out" is no laughing matter.

Wanted: suitable penalties for crimes against elderly

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Neither snow nor sleet nor darkness at noon caused by that February eclipse has stayed the mailman from trudging up to our gate since I asked readers to suggest fitting punishments for teen-agers who "just for kicks" try to run down old people with their bikes and cars.

As of this morning, 127 letters arrived; one 13-pages long and one from as far away as Seward, Alaska.

The letter that prompted the original column came from a 73-year-old lady in Cathedral City, Calif., who said she had fled from Florida because she had twice been victim of this gruesome new "chicken" game played in parking lots against helpless older citizens. "Once by a speeding car and once by two bicycle riders. In each case they were either smiling or laughing as they came at me. If I hadn't run or jumped out of their way, I would have been dead."

Is there a punishment to fit this crime? The readers suggested many.

"Bring back tar and feathers; it would be too good for them," stated Rose Marie Albright of Pomona, Calif. She described herself as "87 and active... I drive and get around as well as I ever did, and I've driven across the country several times."

"Reading about the heinous actions of those awful kids in Florida made me bristle with anger," Mrs. Albright confessed, but she thought the lady who was twice almost run over in Florida made a mistake by moving away. "I'd stay and try to work up a fight somehow. When I push, things usually move!"

The exclamation point was hers, and deservedly so.

Those "Florida goons" were also walking around the fighting side of a 73-year-old Mauston, Wis., woman, who said she never had any trouble with the neighborhood children "until I became old and alone."

Then, wrote Elizabeth Tracy, "the young began throwing things at my house, especially eggs. Did you ever try to clean egg off the siding after it had dried? I became angry after they broke a window. Then two or three boys were knocking at my door and when I answered, they ran whispering and giggling up the street. I marched right up to the house where I knew several teen-agers lived and told the whole family I absolutely would not stand for it and was going to the police. I did that and haven't been bothered since."

Mrs. Tracy concludes: "Young people who torment the old and vulnerable and helpless animals are cowards. The way to handle them is to scare them right back."

From Seward, Alaska, Rita Susan Greer suggested that young offenders who frightened old people should be made to "work in nursing homes, convalescent homes and geriatric wards... this would bring home to the young people what their actions can cause and help the young themselves."

Mrs. William Stewart of Troy, N.Y., who wrote the 13-page letter, said the fault was not with the kids but with the way grown children treat their aging parents. "Do any of us," she asked, "worry about the example set when we send our parents who are aged and in need off to Florida to retire or, if need be, to a nursing home to get rid of them? And then we wait in a vulturous attempt to claim every penny they earned in their lifetime!"

First Haitian maverick soon to take oath as Legislative Assembly member

By BEATRIZ RUIZ de la MATA

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — When Alexandre Lerouge, a 62-year-old schoolteacher, takes his seat in Haiti's Legislative Assembly next month he is expected to be a lone stand-out among the chamber's 58 members. As one diplomat here put it, he could be "the beginning of Haitian politics."

Lerouge, deputy from the northern town of Cap-Haitien, was elected on Feb. 11 the first opposition legislator ever to be popularly elected under the Haitian dictatorship that began in 1957 with President Francois "Papa Doc" Duvalier and continued now under his son, President-for-Life Jean-Claude Duvalier.

The outspoken Lerouge — who won by a landslide — dared to attack alleged official corruption and soaring inflation in a free-wheeling election campaign.

"It is the first time during all the Duvalier regime the government has backed down," said a Haitian businessman who asked anonymity. "But it would have been worse if they hadn't. The crowd was so excited they would have burned down Cap-Haitien if Lerouge had lost."

Every six years the Duvalier regime holds elections for the Legislative Assembly, which would rubber-stamp Duvalier instructions. Middle-class Haitians have traditionally stayed away from voting, which they described as "a peasant exercise" without real significance.

Lerouge's 30,016 to 3,000-vote victory over government candidate Claude Bixamar, together with reports that many well-to-do Port-Au-Prince residents had quietly gone to vote at Cap-Haitien, has brought a new dimension to the electoral process, diplomats said.

Haitian sources claim Lerouge's victory and the sympathy his antigovernment position aroused throughout the country has also deepened a rift between young Duvalier and his powerful mother, who opposes any government reform.

The sources said Duvalier's "enlightened-despot" stand has aroused the anger of Mrs. Simone Duvalier's 150,000-member "Ton Ton Macoute" militia, whose leadership is said to fear that any policy change might result in the undoing of the 22-year old family dictatorship.

As Lerouge's popularity grew outside Cap-Haitien the government made a series of half-hearted attempts to stop him from winning — including the summoning of Lerouge for a private meeting with Duvalier.

At the meeting Duvalier offered campaign funds to Lerouge in an unsuccessful attempt to bribe the candidate, Haitian sources said.

The relationship between the two men remains unknown. In his campaign Lerouge stressed his persecution under the late Papa Doc but he avoided any personal criticism of young Duvalier or his mother.

Lerouge, who claims to have been arrested 10 times since 1957 and that he had survived four Ton Ton Macoute assassination attempts, is admired by some of his countrymen as a courageous activist.

"He has been saying out loud what we have been saying very low and that takes real guts," said one of them.

The real test will come in April when the deputies gather for the first time. Lerouge has vowed to resign if he cannot implement his campaign promises. Duvalier has offered to enact what he calls "an economic revolution" in this poverty-stricken nation where hungry crowds roam the streets.

Some Haitians fear the internal power struggle could erupt into a violent confrontation between the Ton Ton Macoutes, officially known as the Volunteers for the National Security, and the smaller regular army favored by President Duvalier.

The fact that Lerouge was not only allowed to run but his election has been described here as a crack in Duvalier power.

After the elections the government moved to clamp down on press reports of the returns and media allegations of voting irregularities. Several independent news media organizations claim they were warned by government ministers to stop commenting on the elections because of the "unstable political climate." The media had no choice but to comply.

Another result of the elections and the alleged palace power struggle could be a Cabinet shuffle, Haitian sources said.

"The President made the last Cabinet and it failed him. Now it is Mama's turn to try," one source said.

But Lerouge's attacks on alleged corruption and inflation remain in the memory of the public a month after the elections.

Inflation has risen five percent every three months in recent years and is the most sensitive issue for Haiti's nearly seven million inhabitants. The annual per capital income is under $100 for a people who have to face a cost of living said to be as high as that of Washington, D.C.

Photos show Jupiter may have own northern lights

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Pictures of the dark side of Jupiter taken by the Voyager 1 spacecraft indicate the giant planet may have its own version of the northern lights and lightning, scientists say.

"The largest aurora arc that has ever been observed," was the description given Friday by Dr. Edward Stone, Voyager project director at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

Stone said the arc, which blazes over nearly 20,000 miles of the planet's edge, is the first discovery of northern lights on any planet besides Earth. The lights are indications that Jupiter's atmosphere is bombarded by many energetic particles that cause the atmosphere to glow by the same process used in neon lights, he said.

The photograph of the dark side of Jupiter also reveals 17 light spots at lower latitudes, and Stone speculated these may be areas of lightning above the cloud cover. Such lightning was discovered on Venus three months ago by the Pioneer probe, Stone said.

Saving hot water is one of the best ways to save energy in the home.

Whether you wash once a week or once a day, there are lots of ways you can save energy in the laundry.

It's not necessary to wash everything in hot water. Most loads will come clean in a warm wash and a cold rinse.

Sort laundry according to type of fabric, color-fastness and garment construction. When possible, wash full loads or use your water level selector for smaller loads.

Use hot water only for heavily soiled items. When drying clothes, you can increase efficiency and save energy by cleaning the lint filter after each load. Select the dryer time according to the type of fabric in the load.

It's not necessary to wash everything in hot water. Use a warm wash and save energy.

For more ways to save, send for our free energy tips booklet. Or simply request it on the comment portion of your electric service bill.

Mesa stakes site for wildcat tester

Mesa Petroleum Co. of Midland announced location for a Fusselman oil wildcat in Sterling County, 5.5 miles southwest of Sterling City.

It is No. 2-4 Williams, 1,980 feet from north and 1,320 feet from west lines of section 4, block T, T&P survey and one and five-eighths miles northwest of Mesa No. 1-8 Foster, recently completed as a Fusselman gas discovery.

The No. 2-4 Williams will test in the Conger (Pennsylvanian gas) pay.

Contract depth is 8,700 feet.

OUTPOST FINALS

Petroleum Exploration & Development Funds, Inc., No. 1 William has been completed as a long outpost to the discovery well of the Emma (Yates gas) field of Andrews County, 12 miles southwest of Andrews.

The well, one mile southeast of the discovery, finished for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 550,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 2,848 to 3,043 feet after a 20,000-gallon fracture treatment.

The total depth is 3,200 feet and 4.5-inch pipe is set on bottom. The plugged back depth is 3,154 feet.

Location is 1,880 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 31, block 9, University Lands survey.

The field was discovered by William E. Hendon of Midland No. 1-AZ University when it was completed last April for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 809,000 cubic feet of gas per day through perforations from 2,857 to 3,061 feet.

Elcor plant plans told

Roy E. Campbell, President of Elcor Corp., announced last week that its board of directors authorized capital expenditures of approximately $3 million for construction and operation of a new hard chrome plating facility to be located in Texas for Chromium Corp. of America, an Elcor subsidiary.

Chromium Corp. is the leading plater of hard chrome finishes for original equipment and recycled diesel engine cylinder liners for the railroad industry.

Campbell said, "The decision to proceed with construction of a new hard chrome plating plant reflects the increasing demand by the railroad and marine industries for Chromium Corp.'s proprietary hard chrome finishes. The new plant should be completed during the second quarter of calendar year 1980 and will be designed to provide the capacity to service the growing needs of Chromium Corporation's customers."

He also said, "The expenditures for this new plant are in addition to capital expenditures of approximately $15 million authorized earlier this fiscal year. The Orloff Corp., another wholly-owned Elcor subsidiary, will design and construct the new hard chrome plating facility."

Oil tankers to be built

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. — Six modern crude oil shuttle tankers, specifically dimensioned for navigation into Phillips Petroleum Co.'s terminal at Freeport, Tex., and other U.S. ports, will be completed in Japanese shipyards by mid-1980, it was announced by Philtankers Inc., a wholly-owned subsidiary of Phillips.

These vessels are for crude oil imports into the U.S. and are sized to meet the port restrictions in the U.S. Deep-water facilities are not available for large tankers importing crude oil to the U.S.

Philtankers recently signed contracts for construction of the six 51,000 deadweight-ton sister ships with Sasebo Heavy Industries and Ishikawajima-Harima Heavy Industries.

Each vessel will be capable of transporting nearly 400,000 barrels of crude oil per voyage into U.S. ports from Western Hemisphere sources and Caribbean Transshipment terminals. They will be able to transit the Panama Canal if required.

Rial files statement

Rial Oil Co., a Midland-based independent oil and gas producer which is also engaged in contract drilling, announced it has filed a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The statement covers an underwritten public offering of 600,000 shares of common stock.

Of the total shares to be offered, 100,000 shares will be offered by a selling shareholder. The net proceeds from the sale of the shares for the account of the company are intended to be used to reduce Rial's bank debt.

Delegation tours plants

HOUSTON (AP) — A nine-member delegation representing China's oil industry has completed a week-long tour of Houston area plants and facilities.

The group representing China's Petroleum Corp. left Sunday for New Orleans. The U.S. tour is being coordinated by the National Council for United States-China Trade.

Davis-Kemp buys assets

ODESSA — Davis-Kemp Tool Co., Inc. announced the acquisition of certain assets consisting of rental and fishing tools from M&B Fishing Tool Co., of Odessa.

Davis-Kemp, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Petroleum Equipment Tool Co. will use the tools in the operation of a new Odessa supply store, Gore Kemp, president, said.

The new store will be managed by Leon Bills and gives Davis-Kemp two locations in the West Texas area. It currently operates in Monahans.

PETCO is headquartered in Houston.

Cisco well potentials

Gulf Oil Corp. Mo. 1 J. B. Athey has been completed as the seventh well in the King Mountain, North (Cisco) field of Upton County, 13 miles northeast of McCamey.

A re-entry project, it finished from the Cisco for a 24-hour pumping potential of 65 barrels of oil, gravity not reported, and 8 barrels of water, through perforations from 8,830 to 8,898 feet. The gas-oil ratio is 1,077-1.

The pay section was acidized with 7,500 gallons.

The well is 1/2 mile southeast of other Cisco production in the multi-pay field.

The project was a Bend producer. The operator has temporarily abandoned that pay.

Location is 467 feet from north and west lines of section 66, block Y, TCRB survey.

Kent W. Carlisle

Carlisle joins firm

Kent W. Carlisle has joined the Midland Division of The Orloff Corp. as a senior level process engineer, according to A. R. Laengrich, vice president.

Carlisle has 14 years of engineering experience in the petrochemicals, coal processing, and refining industries.

His expertise includes plant operations and process design work. In his new position, he will perform process engineering in these and other areas on Orloff projects.

A native of Midland, Carlisle attended Texas Tech University where he received his B.S. degree in Chemical Engineering in 1963, and his M.S. degree in the same field in 1965.

Following graduation, Carlisle was employed by Dow Chemical Co. in Freeport and later by El Paso Natural Gas Co. in its coal gasification design group. Prior to joining Orloff, Carlisle worked for The Frantz Co. of Houston.

Company organized

An oil and gas operating company has been organized with headquarters in Midland.

MAK Exploration Corp. was organized in December by a group of four investors and recently sponsored a limited partnership drilling fund to explore and develop oil and gas prospects in Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

Co-general partners of the drilling and development fund are: Cecil T. McCollum of Odessa, president; W. A. Womack of Midland, vice president; Ron Allen of Odessa, vice president; and Robert D. Tindall of Odessa, vice president.

MAK Exploration is currently developing a group of leases in Runnels County. Primary goals are to concentrate in modest depth, low risk areas — primarily extensions in known producing provinces.

The corporate growth plans contemplate the use of private venture capital financing which permits individual participation at modest entry level requirements.

MAK Exploration offices are at 410 North Lorain.

Price check requested

DALLAS — Approximately 600 employees of the U.S. Department of Energy in five southwestern states have been requested to monitor retail gasoline prices to assure that dealers are following federal pricing regulations, it was announced by G. Dan Rambo, regional representative for DOE.

The DOE employees will check to determine if prices are posted on the pump, as required by law, and whether the prices are in line with the posted price.

This monitoring is being done on a volunteer basis by the DOE personnel as they travel the region buying gasoline at various stations in Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Louisiana and Arkansas.

"Apparently, the employees are anxious both as DOE personnel and as private citizens to make sure that fuel is available at reasonable and lawful prices, because we have had several violations reported since the request was made two weeks ago," Rambo reported.

Violators are sent a letter noting the specific violations with a request for compliance. Rambo said investigations will be made later to determine whether the violation has been corrected.

Failure to comply with the pricing regulations could result in a civil penalty of up to $2,500 per violation for each day a violation has occurred. In case of willful violations, the penalty is up to $5,000 per day for each violation.

"Probably, some newcomers to the service station business don't realize there are pricing regulations, and possibly some oldtimers have forgotten," Rambo suggested. "That is why we are giving them an initial warning before legal action is taken."

Rambo noted most of the 600 DOE employees travel extensively in performing their auditing programs in the various oil companies in the region. Those who don't travel much will be monitoring neighborhood stations in the cities where they live.

Lack of public response may bring fuel rules

By TOM RAUM

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lack of public response to calls for voluntary energy conservation may force mandatory fuel-saving measures by this summer despite resumption of oil exports from Iran, Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger warned today.

Schlesinger said the administration might have to activate its standby plans for weekend closings of gasoline stations and temperature controls on public buildings to guard against shortages of heating oil next winter.

"Even as Iran comes back on stream, we will continue to have a tight situation with regard to oil supplies," Schlesinger told the Senate Energy Committee.

He said that while resumption of Iranian exports is encouraging, the volume of oil produced has only been "a trickle" and that many uncertainties remain over whether the new Iranian government can meet its own target of 3 million barrels a day.

Schlesinger said "the call for voluntary conservation is not working effectively." He said that despite President Carter's appeal last month for all Americans to reduce the amount of energy they use, daily U.S. oil consumption has reached an all-time high of 21 million barrels per day.

Schlesinger said that as a result of the Iranian shutdown, total industry oil stocks are 85 million barrels below what they should be for this time of year. The most serious decline has been in such refined fuels such as heating oil, he said.

"The energy secretary made it clear there was a good chance at least some mandatory steps might be taken by this summer. He said one of the first might be to require maintaining temperatures of at least 80 degrees in public buildings.

"Before summer we will have to examine mandatory measures," Schlesinger told the committee.

He said that the nation must reduce its oil use by one million barrels a day to meet the five percent energy conservation goal agreed to recently by the United States and foreign oil-importing nations. This goal might not be achieved without some mandatory controls, he said.

How much of the current shortage of gasoline and heating oil is due to the Iranian cutoff?

Very little, claim oil industry officials, who say that lack of U.S. refinery capacity — and not the loss of Iranian oil — is the main reason why Americans will find it more and more difficult to obtain gasoline, especially unleaded, and heating oil in the months ahead.

"A lot of us are wondering how we're going to heat the Northeast next winter," said Bob Baldwin, president of the Gulf Oil Refining Co.

"Even if Iran resumes production of three to four million barrels a day, we will still have shortages," said the panel's chairman, Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., in a prepared opening statement.

Jackson, in a television interview program Sunday, predicted the short supplies and skyrocketing oil prices will produce a deep American recession, with the inflation rate and bank interest rates shooting up.

In a separate televised interview, Sen. George S. McGovern called on President Carter to fire Schlesinger, whose policies, McGovern said, have been "a disaster."

The South Dakota Democrat said Schlesinger's policies had increased American dependence on foreign oil, deliberately caused higher oil prices and delayed coal development.

Carter, to deal with the loss of

Division organized

Pennzoil Company announced the formation of the Western Division to be headquartered in Denver, Colo., composed of the Denver and Midland Districts.

James T. Goodwyn Jr. has been appointed division manager for the new division. He will be located in Denver. Goodwyn was formerly manager of the Planning and Evaluation Department in Houston.

Replacing Goodwyn as manager of Planning and Evaluation is Bill M. Cox. Cox was formerly senior staff engineer.

Organizational changes have also taken place within the company's Midland and Denver Districts as a result of the new division. Changes implemented in Midland include the following:

H.W. Hollingshead Jr. has been named to the position of District Manager for the Midland District.

D.E. Causley will be district exploration manager.

G.G. Calhoun and C.D. Hibbits will be district geologist and district geophysicist, respectively.

R.S. Klipping and R. Arceneaux will be district exploration manager and district production manager, respectively.

C.A. Mueller will be district geologist and M.J. Delisle will be district geophysicist.

Iranian oil, is expected to announce a plan that would call on all Americans to cut energy use up to 5 percent, enable increased industrial use of natural gas and suspend certain environmental restrictions on coal and gasoline, according to administration officials who requested anonymity.

Iran had supplied the United States with just under a million barrels of oil daily — roughly 5 percent of U.S. consumption. Increases in production by other oil-exporting nations, notably Saudi Arabia, trimmed the net effect of the Iranian shutdown on this country to about 500,000 barrels a day.

A barrel contains 42 gallons. Schlesinger recently predicted that the price of unleaded gasoline would soar to $1-a-gallon "within a year or so."

But the price of unleaded gasoline may be the least of U.S. motorists' worries. Getting it may be a far greater concern, predicted Gulf official Baldwin in a meeting with energy reporters prior to today's Senate hearing.

"People have to come to grips with the fact that refining capacity in the United States has been reached," Baldwin said.

He said U.S. refineries can't produce enough unleaded gasoline to meet increasing demands and that motorists should begin experiencing difficulties in obtaining it.

He also said there is a "very strong possibility" of a heating oil shortage next winter.

The industry is not keen on building new refineries because of existing price controls on domestic petroleum and because such projects are so easily snarled by litigation from environmental and other groups, Baldwin added.

Meanwhile, the congressional Office of Technology Assessment said in a report that the prospect of future oil shortages poses a serious threat to Americans' reliance on cars as their primary means of transportation.
