

COMING SUNDAY

Trip Leaves Her in Ruins

Probably every other Midlander has visited Mexico at one time, most likely on an antiseptic tourist-packaged vacation. This Sunday's West Texas Life focuses on one woman's six-month journey south — a trip that literally left her in ruins.

Teaching a Lost Art

Midland's La Leche League is teaching new mothers the "art" of breast-feeding infants, an art lost for many years due to the popularity of formula. Read about it in Sunday's Lifestyle section.

The Klondike of West Texas

The Yukon Territory isn't the only place in the world that has a remote Klondike. West Texas does, too. It's in very rural southern Dawson County, and "Roustin' About's" Ed Todd will write about Klondike in Sunday's Reporter-Telegram.

Arab treaty support sought by U.S. group

MIDLAND (AP) — A high-level delegation is heading for Israel in an attempt to persuade leaders to change their minds about a peace treaty between Israel and the Arab states. A 12-member U.S. delegation will be led by two moderate Republicans, Saudi Arabia and Jordan confirmed Thursday sources, who asked not to be named, indicated the team will arrive today.

President Carter's son Chip, the sources said. The administration hopes the men can convince Saudi Arabia and Jordan not to participate in a proposed Arab economic boycott of Egypt as a result of its decision to sign a treaty with Israel. The U.S. delegation won't attempt to use threats, the sources said, but "will make it clear how important we see this in terms of our interest and theirs." Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, said earlier Thursday that an Egyptian-Israeli treaty probably won't be signed "for the next week or so." The treaty, which has been approved by the Egyptian cabinet, still must be voted on by the Israeli Knesset, or parliament. In anticipation of the long-sought treaty, other talks were to begin in Washington today on how much aid the United States will give the two countries. Members of Congress have said President Carter reported to them it might be in the range of $4 billion to $5 billion in additional American aid to the two countries. Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman arrived in Washington Thursday night and was to meet with Defense Secretary Harold Brown to discuss Israel's needs.

EPA into Whalen Lake

General permit necessary for dumping

The Environmental Protection Agency stepped into the mire surrounding Whalen Lake near Andrews, when it advised Whalen that the Dallas-based firm must obtain a permit to continue dumping. On the same day, a Texas Railroad Commission hearing on the lake ended in a draw.

office in Dallas, Eddie Lee, said EPA has determined Whalen Lake to be "a navigable water of the United States. That decision brings the water under the Clean Water Act and gives the EPA jurisdiction over it." Whalen Corp. and two other firms who use the lake have been mailed applications for discharge permits to continue dumping. These must be filled out and returned within 30 days, the spokesman said. Letters also have been mailed to Phillips Petroleum Co. and Petroleum Corporation of Texas, Lee said. If the firms continue their dumping they will be in violation of a federal law and subject to a fine "which can be quite substantial," he said. "The permit sets the limit (to which) various things will be allowed to pollute the lake." The permits also require a self-reporting system under which the companies must record the amount and type of pollutants going into Whalen Lake, said Lee. The "navigable water" ruling applies only to Whalen Lake, noted the EPA spokesman, adding that other playa lakes would have to be looked at on an individual basis. Whalen "earned" its determination after the EPA ruled the lake "is a flyway for waterfowl who use the lake," he said. Concerning the RRC hearing which ended Thursday in Austin, a decision is expected only after four to six weeks, according to sources. The

Passenger on early Midland flight recalls first-ever Braniff takeoff

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

When Bill Pomeroy took his first flight on Braniff, most of the passengers got sick. Pomeroy didn't. But that was back in 1928, just as Braniff was getting started. Fifty years later, Pomeroy was waiting Thursday to ride Braniff again. Now known as Braniff International Airlines, the company was observing its first day of service from Midland Regional Airport to Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport. A barbecue luncheon was hosted by the aviation committee of the Midland Chamber of Commerce for invited guests and officers of Braniff, including the president, Russell Thayer. At the luncheon and later at a ribbon-cutting ceremony, Thayer said, "This is Braniff's day. But without the other airlines (Continental, Southwest and Texas International) it wouldn't be a business." MIDLAND WAS THE last route to be approved by the Civil Aeronautics Board under the old regulated structure which required hearings, according to the president. Since the airline industry has become deregulated, the competition will be on an "open forum — this is the strength America was built on," said Thayer Thursday. Braniff is starting this route with two flights in and out of Midland. While the first left at 6:55 a.m. Thursday, the ceremony was held for the 1:40 p.m. flight, which was late arriving from Dallas due to bad weather conditions. Several area residents, including Pomeroy, decided to take advantage of the first flight and the promotional fares. Braniff will provide needed additional services, they said, and will give more choices in departure times. Thayer said by June the airline "This (earlier) plane wasn't anything like they have today...no pressurization, no air conditioning." Pomeroy hopes to expand to four to five flights daily from Midland and possibly a sixth flight by the end of the year. Pomeroy was headed for Tulsa, Okla., the site of his first airplane ride on Braniff. His first trip 50 years ago took him to Springfield, Mo. Recalling that he was in high school then, Pomeroy said, "There was some rough weather. One guy got sick, and then another and another." "THIS PLANE ONLY carried six or eight passengers. It wasn't anything like they have today. There was no pressurization, no air conditioning. "Finally, one man who had been sitting there watching the others get sick said, 'Well, young man. What about you?' "I said 'Oh, no. I'm having a great time.'" The man was Paul Braniff. What Pomeroy did not realize at the time was that the man was a partner in getting the airline started. In contrast to that early plane, the one that arrived Thursday in Midland was one of the new ones, ordered when several new Braniff routes were approved. The brown leather seats with brown shaded carpeting contributed a look and smell of newness. Despite running into some turbulence near Dallas, the flight undoubtedly was smoother than Pomeroy's first one. Pomeroy noted that Braniff's new service not only will give latitude for those wanting to leave, but "we'll be able to get more people to arrive here." NELLIE FIELDS SAID she was on her way to Dallas and took Braniff because "it's going at the right time." Lucy Carr was on her way home to southern Illinois after visiting her daughter, Mrs. Charles Davis of Midland, Braniff's through service to Memphis, Tenn., and other points on the East Coast is a point in its favor. ## MEMES OF MY LIFE: PART FIVE

We had almost too many acceptances to... state dinners'

MEMES OF MY LIFE by Betty Ford with rights (c) 1978 by Betty Ford, Publisher, Inc. and The Association, Inc.

BETTY FORD with Chris Chase

The responsibility for the state visitors — kings, queens, ministers — falls on me of the First Lady and I think it might be in order about entertaining at the White House. I demand that you make most of them petty. You're not 300 wives of heads of state all over the United States you have a receiving line you let them tour? Will you let them give you tea? Or have they had their tea?

Should they have their tea in the East room? Not that one must make the decisions without help. A President's wife has 28 people, give or take a few, working for her. The press secretary, the social secretary, the corresponding secretary, the scheduling secretary, all have secretaries of their own. The calligraphy department is large, and so is the mail department because the mail which comes in — to any President's wife — is heavy. I held regular meetings with my staff every Monday, and when these first began, I told the Chief Usher that I was going to depend on him for guidance. "When they get to talking, I'm going to try and catch your eye, and I'll expect you to tell me whether the plan under discussion is the right plan to go ahead with." The aide in charge of all White House tours would be there, and all the secretaries would report what their calendars looked like for the coming week, and we'd decide how everything would be managed. We certainly didn't please all of the people all of the time. We thought it was great, for instance, to ask Ann-Margret to the party for the Shah of Iran because we'd heard he had an eye for pretty girls. Well, the Washington Star came out with a column that ripped us up and down for having made that choice. And Julia Child criticized us for not feeding the Queen of England French food. I didn't want to give her French food, or English food either; I thought we should give her American food. I wouldn't want to go to another country and have them feed me southern fried chicken. We were having all sorts of problems with the State Department over Queen Elizabeth's visit. Everybody seemed to think this would be the social event of the century, and they all wanted to stir the broth. I wanted to get along, but I had to be firm. One day I just phoned the head of the National Security Council, and told him the hysteria had to stop. The visit would be completely handled by my own staff.

Awesome tasks and serious concerns aren't always on the minds of the White House inhabitants — sometimes the job can be fun. Entertaining heads of state might pose a few diplomatic problems, but none that can't be forgotten on the dance floor. In this fifth excerpt from her book, the former First Lady shares memories of some enchanted evenings.

FIT FOR A QUEEN

We put up a tent for the Queen's dinner — a great white tent over the Rose Garden which would enable us to invite more guests than we could have served indoors. (For indoor dining, the White House can handle 150 people at one time, and that's pushing it.) An hour and a half before the Queen's dinner there was a sudden downpour with torrential rain, thunder, lightning. Three trees on the White House grounds were struck. Fortunately, I'd insisted that our tent have a floor. (I'd been thinking of an outdoor party the Nixons had given for some newly released prisoners of war and their wives. It had been raining for three days, and the chairs just gradually sank into the ground. And all those poor wives, who'd gone out and bought beautiful new shoes, ruined them in the mud.) "We'll have a floor and a carpet," I'd said. "It will be just like a room." Just before the Queen's dinner the weather cleared. We had violinists stationed along the paths, and to be out in the gorgeous night air, with the moon shining down and the violins playing as you walked by, was unforgettable. On the night of the dinner, I also had

Inmate charged with threatening President's life

ODESSA — An Ector County jail inmate Thursday had a complaint filed against him by the Secret Service for allegedly threatening the life of President Jimmy Carter. Federal charges against William Rodney Ethridge, 23, were accepted about 6 p.m. Thursday by U.S. Magistrate J.M. Preston in Pecos after two Secret Service agents drove to Pecos from Odessa.

They earlier had questioned Ethridge in the Odessa jail, where he is being held on four state charges. Preston said no bond would be set on the federal charge until the state turns Ethridge over to federal authorities.

Preston accepted the charges because the U.S. magistrate in Odessa was out of town. The case will be filed in Midland, Preston said. Reportedly, officials in Odessa had been told Ethridge paid $10,000 to a second party to carry out the assassination, with $30,000 more to be paid when the job was completed.

The money turned out to be counterfeit, however, supposedly from a counterfeit ring broken up by a raid of Odessa officials a year ago, officials said.

Agent Buddy Cosby of the Secret Service office in El Paso confirmed a letter was concerning the alleged assassination plot was written but would not comment on the payment aspects.

Cosby cited as untrue a report the assassination was scheduled for an appearance by Carter in Dallas during the March 25-27 meeting of the National Association of Broadcasters.

Ethridge is being held on four felony theft charges and a burglary charge. The Midland Police Department today said it has a hold on him for questioning, and Ethridge also reportedly is wanted in Utah as a fugitive from justice.

Odessa authorities extradited Ethridge Feb. 12 from Chickasha, Okla., where he was arrested for alleged unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

Suit filed against tobacco heir

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission has filed a civil suit against Reynolds Tobacco Co. heir Smith Bagley charging him with stock fraud. A federal grand jury in North Carolina indicted him earlier this week on similar allegations.

The SEC suit, filed in U.S. District Court here Thursday, seeks a permanent injunction to stop an alleged scheme by Bagley and three North Carolina men.

Daily service in and out of Midland was begun by Braniff International Airlines Thursday amid luncheons and speechmaking. Russell Thayer, left, president of Braniff, came in from Dallas and talked with Col. Wilson H. Odessa. On his way to Fort Worth on business, Irwin said he is not traveling as much as in the past, but others in his company are.

But others were taking Braniff to Dallas because of its time schedule which would get them into Big D in the early afternoon.

Mrs. Leslie F. Dunlap, who was traveling to Dallas with some Midland friends for a few days of sight-seeing and fun, said it now would be easier for her to get connections for international flights.

And another woman, Joann Williams of Odessa, said she picked Braniff for her trip to Washington, D.C., because of its one-plane service.

Looking at her 2-year-old son, Johnny, she added, "And it's much easier not having to change planes when you have a child."

Betty Ford tells about gala White House socials

— the mother of the United States. But the United States — and who could doubt that? — the mother of European democracy.

If Walter Scheel made one of the nicest toasts to America, a Third World leader delivered one of the most exhorting. It seemed to me he talked for about an hour and a half, and his speech was nothing but criticism of the United States. What are you supposed to do, raise your glass cheerily? What's the protocol for that?

Jerry and I were bringing the royal couple upstairs in the elevator when it stopped on the second floor, the doors opened, and Jack came flying in, still fiddling with his shirt front. Why he hadn't sprinted up the back stairs, I don't know. He stood there, mouth open, gaping at the four of us, and the Queen of England turned to me and smiled sweetly. "I have one just like it at home," she said.

MEMORABLE GUESTS

Here are a few of my recollections about some of the other people who came to visit during our two and a half years of welcoming guests to the White House:

Fred Astaire. He came to a dinner at which we had a lot of big-time show people. Fred Astaire was very elegant, very proper. I begged him to dance, but he said he wasn't a ballroom dancer, that he had to have a routine. I wouldn't let up. I'd dreamed all my life of spinning around the room with Fred Astaire while everybody stood back watching us. Just as he gave in, my husband walked up and tapped me on the shoulder. "I'm sorry to interrupt, dear, but our guests of honor are leaving." I excused myself, gave the departing guests short shrift, and rushed back, hoping to find Fred Astaire waiting. No soap. He was wheeling around the floor with a nice little old white-haired lady of the press, mind you, and I never got near him again. I was crushed.

President Walter Scheel of the Federal Republic of Germany. Our White House parties, if I may be permitted a moment of immodesty, had become so popular that we had almost too many acceptances to the Scheel state dinner.

At that dinner, President Scheel made one of the most moving toasts I was to hear during my time in the White House. "Where else in the world," he asked, "is there a republic which for two centuries has made liberty and equality of all citizens its law of life, which has not even shirked a civil war in order to remain true to the ideals upon which it entered world history?" And he added, "Those ideals are still the most important, the most powerful, the most vital of all. Europe is — who would doubt it?

Steady stream of witnesses testify at Whalen Lake hearing commission's staff must now draw up a final recommendation on the lake's use.

A steady stream of witnesses testified at the RRC hearing, at which the commission's legal counsel was reviewing its Oct. 23 order that the Dallas-based Whalen Corp. stop using the lake as a disposal site because of pollution problems allegedly caused by oil field brine in the area.

Senior legal counsel J. Brooks Peden and senior staff geologist Bill E. Watson of the Oil and Gas Division of the RRC, accepted testimony of eight witnesses, including a state senator, the president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association and the operator of the major disposal facility at Whalen Lake.

Communications from three state representatives and the mayor of Midland also were received for the record of the proceeding.

Arnold Darrow, president of the Whalen Corp., which operates the principal brine disposal facility at the playa lake, advised the commission that his company has spent more than $77,000 over the past two years to improve its disposal facilities and the appearance of the lake itself.

He testified that Whalen Corp. is committed to keeping the lake "as clean as possible" within economic limits.

Austin attorney Ivan D. Hafley, counsel for Whalen Corp., directed the presentation of testimony and evidence of six witnesses appearing for his client.

Dr. Danny B. Pence, medical and wildlife management professor at Texas Tech University, reported his findings in a study of waterfowl morbidity and mortality on the High Plains of Texas and particularly around Whalen Lake.

Pence, appearing as a Whalen Corp. witness, said he was unaware of any credible evidence that brine disposal at the playa lake has caused any bird deaths.

"The important point to emphasize regarding waterfowl mortalities in the Texas Panhandle is that both avian cholera and duck botulism are endemic diseases particularly due to the agricultural practices peculiar to the area and depending on climatic factors," Pence stated.

"Additionally," he said, "it is my experience that it is uncommon during any year to visit any playa lake which has moderate to heavy use by waterfowl in the Texas Panhandle and not observe at least a few carcasses of waterfowl which have succumbed to any one or several causes."

Pence emphasized that "it is usually impossible to diagnose the causes of these natural mortalities from the carcasses of dead birds."

The Texas Tech scientist reported that he toured Whalen Lake in late January and found nothing which could be construed as an overt hazard to aquatic birds or waterfowl.

A.V. Dillard Jr., president of the Midland-based Permian Basin oil industry organization, presented a resolution approved by the 1,300-member association, calling for the re-opening of Whalen Lake to salt water disposal. Earlier this week, he related, the West Central Texas Oil and Gas Association, headquartered at Abilene, endorsed the resolution in principle.

The resolution stated that the Cos-ing of Whalen Lake to oil field brines has imposed an economic hardship upon certain oil producers. Also, the position paper noted, the lake closing has led to "a critical loss of revenue" by brine-hauling contractors in Andrews County.

Midge Erskine of Midland, operator of a bird rehabilitation center, submitted letters from persons she identified as a chemist and a veterinarian. Trust of the letters was that brine, such as discharged into Whalen Lake, cause death to waterfowl. The letters were signed by "Dr. S.L. Betton of Midland and Enid A. O'Dell."

Hafley, the Whalen Corp. counsel, submitted letters from State Rep. Tom Craddock of Midland, State Rep. Jay Gibson of Odessa, State Rep. Jim D. Rudd of Brownfield and Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr., all supporting the reopening of the playa lake for oilfield brine disposal.

Chance of thunderstorms seen for Permian Basin

Drizzling mist which has visited much of the Midland area since Thursday afternoon was threatening to transform into thunderstorms today.

Chance of that occurring was 60 percent today and is to drop to 20 percent by tonight, said a weatherman at the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

The drizzle that fell from soupy, over-hanging clouds has been virtually continuous since Thursday afternoon and was covering 50-mile radius around Midland.

A "pretty fair mist" was into its second day in Andrews, where "the streets are pretty well wet," said Andrews County Deputy Sheriff Roger Andrews. Water was "standing in low spots" in streets, he said.

"It's drizzling pretty heavy," Dawson County Sheriff Bill Horton said of weather over Lamesa. He said he spotted "a few flakes of snow yesterday (Thursday) afternoon" and thought he got a glimpse of a few this morning.

Stanton this morning was getting some drizzle, which "we sure do need," said Charles Sebastian, a Martin County deputy sheriff.

Garden City was receiving a "light mist — kind of nasty" said Tavie Murphy, a deputy sheriff for Glascock County.

The mist was into an off-and-on routine to the southwest, particularly in Crane.

A light mist — "precipitation" — was falling over Rankin, said residents.

"You have to use big words words when so little happens," said Rankin's Kay Bott.

Greenwood this morning reported a ground-dampening mist, which area farmers and ranchers view as an omen for promising good crop yield and higher range grasses.

Since this most recent mist began, .02 inch was gauged at the weather bureau, the weatherman said. The rainfall brings the total so far this year to .60 inch, which is more than an inch under the average rainfall through March.

Precipitation this month to date is .18 inch.

Tonight's low should be in the mid-40s. High for Saturday is expected to be in the mid-60s.

The record high temperature reading for a March 15 is 88 degrees in 1974. The record low for March 16 is 23 degrees in 1947.

Winds tonight are to be at a brisk 15 to 25 mph from the southeast.

Sunset today will be at 6:57 p.m. Sunrise Saturday will be at 6:57 a.m.

Man arrested after altercation with police officer

A Midland police officer was treated and released from Midland Memorial Hospital and a local business man has been arrested and charged after an alleged altercation in a downtown hotel early today, police said.

Ron Hardaway, 41, 2614 North A Street, today was charged with aggravated assault on a police officer and bond was set at $5,000, authorities said.

Officer Donald Boyd reported he received cuts and bruises after he was called to investigate a disturbance at the Midland Hilton's Discovery Lounge about 1:48 a.m.

Boyd told authorities he was scratched on the face and his back was bruised after he and another officer attempted to restrain one of two men at the scene.

Boyd said he arrested the other man for alleged public intoxication.

Pancake Jamboree

There may not be any green pancakes served Saturday, but the Midland Downtown Lions Club is willing to share wholeheartedly with St. Patrick as it stages its 23rd annual Pancake Jamboree in the Dellwood Mall.

Members of the club also are anxious to serve at least 10,000 men, women and children at the jamboree, which will be "flipping, flopping, serving 'em" from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. Approximately 8,500 persons ate pancakes and all the trimmings at last year's function. The more than 300 members of the club do all the work at the day-long function, which has come to be recognized as one of the Tall City's most enjoyable and most significant county fair-type celebrations of the year.

Special entertainment will be presented on 30-minute and one-hour intervals throughout the day, beginning at 7:30 a.m.

Plenty of fun and "good eating" are assured at the jamboree, but even more rewarding and more far-reaching is the fact that every penny of the proceeds derived by the organization goes to fund its many and varied projects, including sight conservation, scholarships, youth programs, Texas Lions Camps for Diabetics and Crippled Children, West Texas Boys Ranch, Senior Citizens, District 2-A1 Eye Bank, Christmas In April, Retina Research, park equipment, Council for Retarded Citizens, Hearing Fund, wheel chairs and walkers, and various charitable items.

The club this year has budgeted more than $20,000 for its special projects. It hopes to do even better next year, with increased funds from the 1979 Pancake Jamboree.

And the beautiful part of it is that all Midland and area residents can have a part in this great program merely by eating and enjoying pancakes Saturday at the club's Pancake Jamboree.

Remember, please, the serving hours are from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m., and YOU are invited. So, come and get 'em.

No excuse for present elephantine tax system

By CHARLEY REESE
Sun Belt Syndicate

Charley Reese

ORLANDO, Fla. — Years ago, I typed my income tax returns. Then one day it occurred to me that the government was doing nothing to make tax filing easy for me and so I began to fill them out with blunt pencils.

More important than this tiny little act of vindictiveness is the larger issue of why the U.S. Congress continues to write tax laws which only accountants with special training can understand.

Well, it's a racket. They could get the same amount of revenue by adopting a graduated rate which applied equally to individual and corporate income and allowed no deductions at all. Yielding revenue, however, is only a minor function of the present tax system.

The present system benefits several groups of people. One is the group which likes to run other people's lives. The present tax laws can be and are used to force people to make certain economic decisions and to adopt certain social policies.

The most recent, well-publicized example is Internal Revenue's latest effort to use the granting or withdrawal of tax exempt status to enforce a policy of racial integration in private schools.

I have no objection to racial integration, but the gnomes in the IRS are not elected and are not qualified and have no right to make decisions on social policy matters. It's as wrong to use the IRS to effect this as it is to use the IRS to punish political dissenters.

Two other groups which benefit from the present mish-mash system are congressmen and people with clout. People with clout can buy favored treatment. Congressmen can sell it. Tax-writing time makes Capitol Hill resemble the bazaar in Damascus.

But the bad effects don't stop there. The system of organized and deliberately created confusion leads to wacky thinking. An example of this is the weird notion that a decision not to tax amounts to a federal expenditure and a decision to grant a credit amounts to a subsidy.

What they are saying is, "Well, we could have taxed you 50 percent, but since we are only taxing you 25 percent, the 25 percent we are foregoing amounts to a federal expenditure."

That's like your landlord saying, "I could have raised your rent $50 a month but I didn't so I want you to understand that I am now spending $50 a month to provide you with an apartment."

That's Alice in Wonderland thinking. There appears to be no Constitutional limit on Congress' power to tax. Theoretically, the Congress could confiscate all of our income and apparently that is the underlying assumption of those who say that the federal government is "spending" what it doesn't take.

As a practical matter, however, people of common sense believe as our forefathers believed that government should not extract one penny more in taxes than is necessary for the public good and that furthermore, legal nits notwithstanding, it has no moral right to do more than collect the costs of the services it provides.

Some people have asked me why I'm unkind to politicians in general and there is an easy explanation. I make a clear distinction between people who make honest mistakes or who have honest disagreements and people who engage in deliberate deception.

There is no excuse for the present elephantine tax system. The politicians know what they are doing. What we have is what they want us to have for their own selfish reasons. They are using tax laws to pick our pockets, change our social habits, dictate our economic decisions, and peddle favors to their "friends."

I would suggest that we bring back tar and feathers, but people who persist in re-electing scoundrels probably don't have any more guts than they do brains.

Mark Russell says

Memo to the Ayatollah from his new political consultant, Mr. J. Walter Raifshoon: "First of all Ayatollah baby, get some new 8-by-10 glasses. The people are bored with the same stern pose — you look like Marlon Brando playing Pancho Villa."

"And trim that beard — go to a hairstylist — and the turban's too funky."

"And no more hugging Yasser Arafat — do you know how many votes you lose when you do that?"

"And those firing squads — do you have to put them on the 6 o'clock news?"

"We've got to be out of our gourds to handle a client who won't let women wear jeans. Listen, sweetheart, without the support of women who like to wear jeans you couldn't carry two precincts."

BIBLE VERSE

Ye are the blessed of the Lord which made heaven and earth. — Psalm 115:15.

Which will it be?

The existing economic signals seemingly are mixed — and how. According to late reports, inflation for the last reported two-month period was at a near record high. The annualized rate was more than 11 percent.

Meanwhile, economic indicators point down. The drop in these indexes in January was the sharpest in some time.

All the signs point to a renewal of stagflation, the dreadful condition in which the economy stagnates but inflation continues.

That stagflation should occur at all is a contradiction of classical economic theory, which teaches that when the economy slows down, inflation also will slow down.

It is clear with all the resistance now built into our economic system, it will take more than a mild recession to lower prices or wages. It takes a real recession to accomplish that kind of deflation in today's highly structured marketplace. And nobody wants a real recession.

There are reasons to hope that President Carter's "7 percent solution" yet has a chance of working if the American people will give it a chance. The January jump in the cost of living may not reoccur in the coming months.

Some businessmen might have hastened to take their full 7 percent price increases early in the year, so they would be effective all year, and may not hike prices again for the rest of 1979. It is hoped the inflation rate cools quickly, for it would be difficult to continue to ask workers to be content with 7 percent wage increases when such increases compensate for only a fraction of the present increase in the cost of living.

The slowing of the economy will help restrain further inflation but it is known that a mild recession will not do the job without one of two further developments. Either we must go into a severe recession with its accompanying problems, or we must make voluntary wage and price controls work. The third alternative, mandatory controls, has been absolutely ruled out by the president. Thank goodness.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Byrd bumps bumper standards

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — Robert Byrd is the Horatio Alger of the Senate, a God-fearing, nose-to-the-grindstone politician who worked his way up from dirt-poor beginnings to become the Senate majority leader. Byrd, a humorless workaholic who's a stickler for detail, has been around Capitol Hill long enough to be circumspect in the use of his political muscle.

But we've caught the fiddle-playing West Virginia Democrat bullying Transportation Secretary Brock Adams and traffic safety boss Joan Claybrook for nearly a year, trying to get them to lower the collision requirement for car bumpers. The object of his concern is Houdaille Industries, Inc., of Huntington, W. Va., which manufactures steel bumpers.

In one intemperate letter to Claybrook, Byrd demanded that the bumper standards be changed "immediately" — an apparent breach of the rule-making procedure he himself helped to set up. Only later did he pull back a bit from this surprising outburst.

Beginning with 1979 model cars, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration required that bumpers be sturdy enough to withstand collisions at speeds up to five miles an hour without damage to the auto body. The standard was set in response to howls from motorists tired of paying hundreds of dollars in repair bills when they bumped into anything harder than an eggshell.

Even the modest five-mile-an-hour standard was too rigorous for Houdaille Industries, however, and they sent a delegation to Byrd asking for help. Unless the standards were reduced to 2 and one-half miles an hour, they told the senator, Houdaille's plant would have to close and 550 of Byrd's constituents would be thrown out of work.

Byrd, who is not only majority leader but member of the appropriations subcommittee that passes on NHTSA's budget, summoned Adams and Claybrook to his office last April. There they were confronted by Houdaille representatives. Under pressure from Byrd and his staff, Adams and Claybrook agreed to re-evaluate the bumper standard by the end of the year.

Taking no chances, Byrd went straight to the White House. He sent a private letter to Barry Bosworth, the director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability.

Enclosed was a private study paid for by Houdaille which, not surprisingly, showed that the five mile-per-hour standard was costing consumers $700 million.

"I urge your immediate consideration and action to eliminate the existing inflationary regulatory bumper standard," said Byrd. The safety standard, he wrote, is "an ideal candidate for elimination."

On Jan. 26, using figures clearly labeled "preliminary," NHTSA said it appeared that a 2 and one-half-mile-an-hour standard might cost the consumer less.

Byrd pounced on this preliminary report and fired off a letter to Claybrook on Feb. 8, pre-emptorily demanding that she change the bumper standard "immediately" — an emergency action she could by law take only in circumstances where life and limb are threatened.

Byrd followed this up with a letter to Secretary Adams, demanding to know "what steps you intend to take to see that the bumper standard is reduced to 2.5 miles per hour."

On Feb. 21, Byrd sent Claybrook a telegram that was only slightly less vehement than his earlier letter. He urged her to "simultaneously change the standard" or at least begin rulemaking procedures toward that end.

Despite this enormous pressure from Byrd, Adams and Claybrook properly refused to be stampeded into acting before the bumper study was completed.

The final report came out on Feb. 26, and it indicated that the five-mile-an-hour standard may be preferable after all. Nevertheless, the highway safety administration began soliciting comments from industry and the public as a preliminary step in possible rulemaking changes.

Unsatisfied, the dogged Byrd still wouldn't let up. In a March 7 telegram to Adams he urged that the period of soliciting comment be curtailed and a notice of proposed rulemaking announced immediately. As of this writing, Adams and Claybrook are standing their ground, however.

Byrd's office told our associates Les Whitten and Jane Winebrenner that the senator's intercession was perfectly proper. Byrd is tired of regulation for its own sake, and took an interest in the Houdaille case because it was a classic example of what's wrong with the regulatory process. "The senator does not abuse his power," a Byrd aide insisted.

A point that Byrd chose to ignore in the bumper controversy, though, was the NHTSA report's finding that steel — the material Houdaille Industries uses — is the least preferable bumper material. Aluminum and soft-face rubber bumpers are less costly; their lighter weight means better gas mileage over the life of the car.

Footnote: In fairness to Byrd, it should be noted that he doesn't always throw his considerable political weight around just because his constituents ask for help. On another issue close to West Virginians' pocketbooks — the proposed curtailment of AMTRAK lines into the state — the senator told his complaining constituents he would not interfere unless it could be shown that the rail lines were both needed and profitable.

INSIDE REPORT:

Despairing Americans on West Coast voice opinions

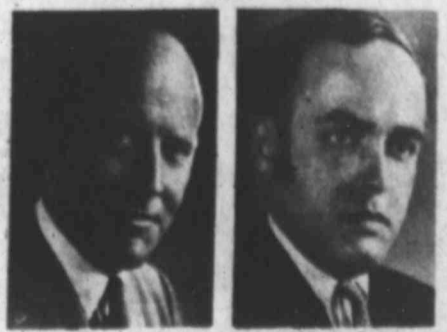

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

TORRANCE, Calif. — Despair over the decline of American power compared to the Soviet Union is unmistakable in this pleasant Los Angeles county suburb of middle-income families who gave slightly more than half their votes to Jimmy Carter in the 1976 election.

By an astonishing 98 percent, the 62 registered voters we interviewed — with the help of experts from Pat Caddell's Cambridge Survey Research — said that the U.S. has been in steady decline. More important, 98 percent also agreed that this perceived decline would continue over at least the next 10 years.

Why is that? "Because we are letting everyone step all over us," a 47-year-old mechanic told us. A 24-year-old carpenter expressed the same thought differently: "My opinion is that the country is going downhill."

Assisted by Caddell field supervisor Lyn Phelps, and pollsters Barb Mirabal and Phyllis Barish, we found near unanimity in this middle-income ($19,000 average family income), heavily white suburb. Fifty voters held that President Carter and his administration could "do a lot more" to maintain the U.S. position in the world. Eight of the remaining 12 voters felt that Carter could do "somewhat more," if he so desired, to restore U.S. influence around the world.

Evans

Novak

The despair surfaced in the following question: the way things are going today, do you think the Soviet Union will be stronger or weaker compared to the U.S. 10 years from now? Of 23 Carter voters, only one had enough confidence in their president to answer "weaker." Of the 39 voters who voted for Jerry Ford or have forgotten how they voted, all replied that Moscow would be relatively "stronger" than it is today.

Not since we started interviewing voters nearly 16 years ago has there been such monolithic agreement on an issue so politically explosive. Significantly, the pessimism expressed about the Carter administration changing the downward course of American power does not apply to other major issues facing the president — and the voters of Torrance. Asked whether the administration "can control" inflation, these voters, by 4-to-1, said inflation definitely is controllable and implied they think it will be controlled.

But on Carter's recent efforts abroad, disapproval outweighed approval. Negotiations for a new strategic arms limitation agreement (SALT II) with the Russians got less than 25 percent approval. Carter's conduct during the Iranian crisis less than 20 percent, and his diplomacy on the recent Mexico City trip about the same. Only normalization with Communist China received more "approvals" than "disapprovals."

The White House is known to be deeply disturbed by its own secret voter surveys showing politically-damaging concern over the perceived decline of the U.S. The president dispatched the aircraft carrier Constellation to the Indian Ocean, without knowing its exact destination — intent on getting a badly needed headline.

Such imagery is not likely to make much of a dent in the perceptions of the voters here. Those perceptions have congealed to a point requiring extensive political surgery. "Every administration back to Kennedy seems to have made a decision to make our country weaker," a 32-year-old foreman at Western Airlines said. "President Carter doesn't seem to be informed about what is going on."

We also found a surprising correlation between the perceived decline of military and political power and the decline of the dollar, a connection that Gov. Edmund G. Brown consistently emphasizes in his national campaign for a balanced-budget constitutional amendment. "Our dollar is declining," a 51-year-old line assembler said. "That is hurting our economy and that is making us look weak in foreign countries. We need a new dollar and a new foreign policy."

Carter had not left for Cairo on his historic peace mission when we conducted our interviews here. Success in reaching a peace treaty between Egypt and Israel would undoubtedly have had an overnight impact on perceptions of America's influence.

But judging from the despair expressed so vividly and with such near unanimity by the citizens of Torrance, not even an Egypt-Israel peace treaty will be more than a blip in the downward graph line of America's role in the world. That helps explain why Republican presidential candidates are suddenly so interested in world affairs.

Last of crew rescued from ship

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia (AP) — A Canadian military helicopter battled gusting winds early today to lift the last crewman from a small British tanker that broke up in heavy seas in the Cabot Strait between Nova Scotia and Newfoundland.

Officials said the other 40 crew members of the tanker Kurdistan took to rubber rafts after the ship broke in two Thursday night. The Canadian Coast Guard icebreaker Sir William Alexander rescued them from the ice-flecked sea. No injuries were reported.

Both sections of the 32,531-ton tanker remained afloat, authorities said. The coast guard said the helicopter tried once to lower a rescue basket to the man still aboard the tanker but high winds and heavy seas prevented the rescue.

Midland firms among those filing securities

DALLAS — Texas Securities Commissioner Richard D. Latham said Thursday that of the 21 applications to register securities for sale in Texas (totaling $30,941,097), seven were from Texas companies.

Two Midland-based companies were among those companies filing applications. They were the Tipperary Corporation, filing for $390,097; and the Rial Oil Company, filing for $1,931,000.

Latham said the Securities Board granted seven permits to sell $5,837,597 in securities in the past two weeks.

A tight-squeeze situation requires a minor contingent of telephone trucks and police cars Thursday, but this house managed to "move" out of Midland via North Big

Nine indictments returned by county grand jury

The Midland County grand jury Thursday returned nine indictments and two no-bills. Among the indictments were five on burglary charges, two on forgery charges, one charge of unlawful carrying of a weapon on a licensed premise and one charge of aggravated assault on a police officer.

The two no-bills related to investigations of an alleged aggravated assault and an alleged burglary.

Financial woes close Mansion

ODESSA — The Mansion dinner theater is no more.

The theater between Midland and Odessa on U.S. Highway 80 closed its doors recently after two financially-troubled years.

Enid Holm, The Mansion's producer and director, blamed the organization's failure on lack of support — "bad attendance." She said she had no plans to reopen the theater, or to start another theater in the Permian Basin.

Ground was broken for The Mansion in the summer of 1976, and the theater opened for business in January, 1977.

The opening vehicle was "Marriage Go Round," starring veteran Hollywood actor Dana Andrews and his wife, Mary Todd Andrews.

Ironically, the Andrews also were the starring performers in The Mansion's final production, "Any Wednesday." The comedy originally was to have played through March 18, but Mrs. Holm closed the show a week early because of slack business.

The almost two dozen comedy productions presented at The Mansion between January, 1977, and the current month starred such well-known performers as Dorothy Lamour, Forrest Tucker, Don Ameche, Alvy Moore, Bob Denver, Al Lewis, Tab Hunter, Yvonne DeCarlo, Henry Darrow and Shelley Berman.

Mrs. Holm said Mansion attendance needed to be at least 40 per cent of capacity nightly for the enterprise to make money — or approximately 1,200 people in attendance each week.

But the theater did not make the 1,200 average most weeks, she said. A few shows, notably those starring Forrest Tucker and Dorothy Lamour, did draw capacity and near-capacity crowds during their five-week runs.

Mrs. Holm noted that the total attendance figures for The Mansion revealed that Midlanders were the biggest supporters of the theater.

They made up about 51 per cent of the total audience, while 13 to 17 per cent were from area towns, such as Andrews, McCamey, Crane and Monahan, and the remaining patrons were from Odessa.

Trans International jet makes emergency stop

TOKYO (AP) — A Trans International Airlines DC-10 en route from New York to Hong Kong made an emergency landing at Okinawa's Naha Airport today after a fire broke out in one of its engines.

Airport officials said the jet returned to the airport 17 minutes after takeoff at 11:21 a.m. when the pilot spotted fire shooting out of one of its three engines.

Airport firemen quickly extinguished the blaze. All 14 crew members and 318 passengers aboard the jet escaped injury. The jet had stopped in Naha for refueling.

Mrs. Holm, a former managing director of Permian Playhouse, Odessa's community theater, said she did not know what use would be made of the theater's building, located just west of the Odessa Country Club.

However, there have been reports in recent days that the building might be turned into a supper club.

Guess who's moving in next door?

Alamo eighth grader wins Spelling Bee championship

Alamo Junior High eighth grader Bobby Winter fought it out with four girls in the final 30 minutes of the Midland Spelling Bee Thursday at Alamo Junior High School to win first place.

Bobby, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Winter, was one of 22 Midland students entered in the annual spelling bee.

He stopped Elaine Reese of San Jacinto Junior High, Melanie Presley of Travis Elementary and Andrea Rashall of Milam Elementary. This brought it down to Bobby and Melanie Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Richardson, a fourth grader at Bonham Elementary.

The two made it through "fluclary" and "filpancy," but neither could spell "foible." Then they plowed through "haberdasher" and "harbinger" with Melanie pausing between the letters.

Melanie asked for a re-pronunciation on "heinous" and missed. But Bobby could not spell it either.

They made it through "hoodwink," "elicit," "imperious" and "incarcerate" and others before "inebriate" stopped Melanie.

Serving as director of the event was Lois Rogge.

Cocktail party guests robbed by two men

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two stocking-masked men, one of them armed, burst into a cocktail party being given for New Orleans Philharmonic Symphony conductor Leonard Slatkin and robbed the guests of as much as $100,000 in jewels, cash, checks and credit cards, police said.

Police said one of the 21 victims lost a check for $1,000 and others lost jewelry.

Big Spring man's death was natural

ABILENE — A federal prisoner who died in his cell before he could testify in a trial involving an alleged West Texas tax fraud apparently died of natural causes, authorities said today.

Detective Roger Berry said a preliminary report from the pathologist who performed the autopsy on Edwin Sims Thursday indicated the death was from natural causes.

Sims, 42, of Big Spring, was found dead in his cell in the Taylor County jail Thursday.

Sims was sentenced to five years in prison for his guilty plea on federal charges alleging conspiracy, filing false income tax returns and perjury. He had been in the correctional facility in Seagraves.

He was being held in Abilene Wednesday as a stopover on his way to Lubbock to be a witness.

A federal grand jury in Lubbock indicted 26 people in the alleged tax swindle. Eleven entered guilty pleas and 15 go on trial March 26 in Lubbock.

Prosecutors allege that loans were obtained based on refunds indicated on fake income tax returns.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Roger McRoberts said in Lubbock he had been told the death was caused by a massive coronary.

"It hurts anytime you lose a witness," McRoberts said, adding, "however, his testimony was not crucial to our case. It was not make-or-break, but more in the nature of cumulative."

Davis' pay adequate

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A financial consultant for Cullen Davis has testified that the Fort Worth millionaire has received "reasonable and adequate" but not excessive pay as an executive officer in the 84-business empire he and his brother head.

Kenneth McGraw of Baltimore, rebutting contentions by Priscilla Davis in a bitterly contested divorce trial, said that Cullen Davis benefits from is similar to many companies and that the conglomerate's no-dividend policy is "not an unusual one."

The $100-an-hour expert witness by Davis gave his testimony to challenge claims by Mrs. Davis' lawyers that the community property income she might have derived from the marriage had been drastically diminished by the policies of Kendavis Industries International.

McGraw, a senior associate of Standard Research Consultants of Baltimore, said he is being paid "approximately $100 an hour" by Davis for his consulting services. His total bill for the work is $10,000 to $12,000, he testified.

A check prepared by McGraw shows that Davis' annual corporate pay was about $50,000 at the time of the Davis' Aug. 29, 1968 marriage, but had zoomed to about $375,000 by 1978.

In regard to Kendavis' policy of not declaring cash dividends, McGraw testified he surveyed about 6,000 companies and found about 660 of them historically did not pay dividends.

Jerry Loftin, Mrs. Davis' attorney, charged that Davis and his brother, Kenneth, by controlling about 95 percent of Kendavis voting stock, can set their salaries and bonus pay at virtually whatever figure they desire.

McGraw said, however, that his analysis showed the Davis brothers had operated their salary and bonus plan on a "rational" basis, taking into consideration company needs as well as their personal wants.

Kendavis' chief financial officer, Walter Strittmatter, began testifying late Thursday regarding Davis' financial assets.

His testimony was a routine nature, such as confirming that records of Davis' stock ownership on Kendavis accounting ledgers are compatible with information introduced in court by Davis' lawyers.

Experts say two shot at Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two acoustic experts say they still are 95 percent certain that a second gunman fired during President John F. Kennedy's assassination but conceded the suspected gunman could be only radio static or some other noise.

The House assassinations committee concluded on the basis of the two experts' findings that Kennedy "was probably assassinated as a result of conspiracy" in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963.

The two experts, Mark R. Weiss and Ernest Aschenazy, concede the possibility of only one gunman in their final report to the committee.

But they say the probability still is less than 5 percent that the sound is something other than a gunshot from a second gunman.

The Warren Commission which investigated the Kennedy assassination concluded that the president was fatally shot by Lee Harvey Oswald, acting alone.

Weiss and Aschenazy concluded the sound on a tape recording of a motorcycle policeman's radio transmissions during Kennedy's slaying matches 95 percent or better the reverberations of a gunshot fired under similar conditions last year in a test.

However, the experts concede, in far more detail in their final report than they did during public testimony, the possibility the sound could be something else.

Midland motel evacuated

A Midland motel was evacuated this morning when a tractor-trailer carrying liquid natural gas (LNG) overturned near the intersection of Interstate 20 and Holiday Hill Road.

The Midland Continental Inn was evacuated of 97 residents by officers of the Midland Police Department after the truck overturned near the west side of the building, authorities said.

The driver of the truck, Walter Bush, 46, was uninjured in the accident. He told police the truck began to skid and, when he tried to correct it, he lost control.

Damage to the truck was limited to the left side of the cab, police said.

A spokesman for the motel said "most of the evacuated residents were back in their rooms by 5 a.m."

Bush was driving the truck for a Seminole company, said police.

Chinese in Vietnam?

BANGKOK Thailand (AP) — Chairman Hua Guofeng says the last Chinese troops have withdrawn from Vietnam, but the Vietnamese government reported today that Chinese forces were still shelling and looting inside Vietnam and Laos reported Chinese troops crossed its border last week.

Hua, China's premier and Communist Party leader, announced the end of the invasion China began Feb. 17 in a meeting in Peking Thursday with the governor of Tokyo, Ryokichi Minobe, Japan's Kyodo news agency reported. But Hua did not say if Chinese troops had pulled out of areas in which Vietnam claimed the Chinese put up new boundary markers.

Despite the reported withdrawal, Hanoi Radio said fierce fighting was still going on in Cao Bang and that several hundred Chinese troops were killed in the Ta Hu Hin area of the province.

Midland fire controlled

A fire in the fireplace did more than keep workers warm at a house under construction in the 2600 block of Mark Lane in Midland today.

The fire spread through a crack in the fireplace to ignite a wooden post in the wall of the structure, firemen said.

Two trucks from the Midland Fire Department responded to the call about noon and had the fire under control in a matter of minutes.

Workers told officials that while they were working in the attic of the structure, they noticed smoke and on investigation found that the fire was no longer limited to the fireplace.

A representative for Palace Homes, the building contractor, said he had no estimate as to the cost of the damage caused by the fire.

Plane hijacked

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A man armed with a knife and demanding $200,000 and transportation to Cuba hijacked a Continental Airlines Boeing 727 jetliner on a flight from Phoenix to Tucson Friday, the airline said.

The plane landed at Tucson International Airport, and everyone but a female flight attendant and the hijacker got off the plane unharmed, Continental spokesman Jack Gregor said in Los Angeles. The plane had carried 89 passengers.

Hance to draft new legislation on oil pipeline

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Federal legislation prohibiting state-level interference with the Long Beach, Calif., to Midland crude oil pipeline will "probably be introduced Monday or Tuesday," a spokesman for U.S. Rep. Kent Hance of Lubbock said today.

Hance, whose district includes Midland, said Wednesday he possibly would introduce such legislation in the aftermath of a Tuesday decision by officials of Standard Oil Co. of Ohio not to pursue completion of the pipeline.

Sohio officials cited endless government permit procedures, pending and threatened litigation and the prospective unavailability of two natural gas lines which were to have been converted to oil pipelines to carry the product from the West Coast to Midland.

"The first draft of this bill will probably be introduced the first part of next week," said Don Richards, a spokesman for Hance.

"The bill would just make all state laws involving the Long Beach, Calif., to Midland pipeline pre-empted," Richards said.

Asked if Hance's bill idea has gained support, Richards said, "I think he expects a reasonably good support for the bill. There will be some co-sponsors, but we do not know who they will be yet."

He explained it takes three days to print such bills and have them distributed to other House members.

On Thursday, Hance scathingly criticized California Gov. Jerry Brown Jr. for lack of leadership in seeing that the pipeline had no problem at the state level there.

Hance accused Brown of "negligent and irresponsible" leadership in connection with the cancellation of Sohio's proposed pipeline.

On the opposite side, a spokesman for Gov. Brown said Thursday that Brown "has supported the Sohio project."

The Brown spokesman, Steve Duschka, also said, "In fact, the two remaining key state permits were just days away from being granted to Sohio."

Final arguments due in school bond case

ODESSA — Testimony concluded Thursday in the contest of the $21.6 million school bond election in Odessa and final arguments were to be presented today in the case.

Judge J.E. Starley has indicated he will either make a ruling today or withhold a ruling until later while he studies the evidence presented.

The court hearing began Monday in 161st District Court and testimony was concluded by noon Thursday, said officials.

A total of 12 contestants are hoping to overturn the results of the Dec. 5 bond election.

In that election, voters approved $21.6 million to be used for the construction of new schools and renovations to present facilities and the construction of a new stadium and track complex.

Contestants allege that Ector County Independent School District officials misrepresented to the voting public the need for the items on the bond election. They also allege voting irregularities. School trustees and other school officials, represented by attorney Robert Cox, have denied the claims.

Thursday's questioning of witnesses centered on the voting procedures used in absentee balloting for the election and on election day.

June Perry, secretary to ECISD Supt. Bill Holm, testified she does own a promotional button, distributed by an organization named "Unite for Odessa," which supported passage of the bond election.

But she testified she doesn't remember if she was wearing the button on the day of the bond election.

She said her office in the school administration building is located in close proximity to where absentee balloting was conducted.

Evelyn Hershey, one of the contestants to the election, testified she had gone to the school administration building and saw Ms. Perry wearing the "Unite for Odessa" button. She also said other material promoting the bond election, such as buttons, posters and bumper stickers, was present in an office near the voting site.

Questions also centered on the conduct of school officials on election day. G. Gene Eddings, school district business director, testified that voters coming to the polling site without voter registration certificates could vote if they signed affidavits stating they were registered to vote.

On Wednesday, Holm testified he had not lied or withheld information from the public in an attempt to get the bond election passed. Holm said to his knowledge neither did any other school official.

there. She moved to Midland 5 1/2 years ago from Hamlin.

She lived in the Anson and Hamlin area most of her life.

Mrs. Jolly was a member of the Baptist Church.

Survivors include a son, R.W. Carman of Austin; four daughters, Dorothy Dayton of Pond Creek, Okla., Mary Fuller of Midland, Billie Bradley of Arlington and Louise Hix of Hamlin; a sister, Addie Mae Kelley of Hamlin; 13 grandchildren, 18 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Jesus Perez

SAN ANGELO — Rosary for Mrs. Jesus H. Perez, 65, of San Angelo; mother of Jesus H. Perez Jr. of Midland, will be said at 7:30 p.m. today in Johnson's Funeral Home.

Services will be at 11 a.m. Saturday in Sacred Heart Cathedral with burial in Calvary Cemetery.

Mrs. Perez died Wednesday in a San Angelo hospital.

She was born Jan. 17, 1914, in Lockhart. She was married to Jesus H. Perez Aug. 29, 1929, in Red Rock. She had lived in San Angelo since 1989.

Other survivors include her husband, two daughters, four sons, three brothers, 31 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Verla Boyd

SAN ANTONIO — Services for Verla Boyd, 70, of Chicago, sister of P.F. Bridgewater of Midland, will be at 10 a.m. Monday in Roy Akers Funeral Home here. Burial will be in Fort Sam Houston National Cemetery.

Mrs. Boyd died Tuesday in a Chicago hospital.

She was born May 18, 1908, in Bell Falls. She was married to Dr. G.D. Boyd Jr. July 17, 1928, in San Antonio. She formerly worked for Scott-White Hospital in Temple. She was a San Angelo resident from 1960 to 1968.

Other survivors include a son, two sisters and three grandchildren.

Nana Lu Johnson

LAMESA — Services for Nana Lu Johnson, 77, of Lamesa were to be at 4 p.m. today in Branon Funeral Home with Gordon Gower, minister of North Fourteenth Street Church of Christ, officiating.

Burial will be in Lamesa Memorial Park directed by Branon Funeral Home.

Mrs. Johnson died Thursday in a Lamesa nursing home.

She was born April 25, 1901, in Alabama. She had lived in Lamesa the past 26 years. Mrs. Johnson was a member of the Order of Eastern Star and the North Fourteenth Street Church of Christ.

Survivors include a son, Fred S. Johnson Jr. of Lamesa; a sister, Mae Mills of Forney; two brothers, Hugh Killian and Sam Killian, both of Maybank, and six grandchildren.

European unity advocate dies

PARIS (AP) — Jean Monnet, the foremost advocate of European unity and the inspiration and driving force behind the European Common Market, died today at his home near Montfort l'Amaury, sources at the headquarters of the European Community reported. He was 91.

Monnet, a self-described political economist, was the key figure in the drive to bind the free European nations economically and politically, but during his long career he constantly shunned the limelight.

His first major step toward European unity was a six-nation pool of coal and steel resources, formally presented in 1950. Seven years later it became known as the European Economic Community.

Monnet was never a member of a government, but was, as Theodore H. White called him, "a broker of ideas." He brought statesmen together by demonstrating how his ideas were in the interest of those concerned, persisting where leaders resisted or hesitated.

The dapper, dynamic Frenchman, described by the late President Kennedy as a "statesman of the world," never had a university education. Owner of a prosperous cognac business, he was independently wealthy and took on a job only as long as he felt he was doing something useful to mankind.

He rarely took direct political action, but he developed to the point of genius the art of making friends and influencing people. For five decades he counted leaders of the free world nations among his close personal friends.

Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt, Eisenhower and Kennedy, British prime ministers from Winston Churchill to Edward Heath, and French leaders from Charles de Gaulle to Valery Giscard d'Estaing liked and admired him and turned to him for advice.

Monnet was born in the town of Cognac on Nov. 9, 1888, the son of a distinguished French distiller. He abandoned the idea of a university education and instead went to Canada to sell his father's cognac, a period he has described as invaluable background for bargaining.

"I can wait a long time for the right moment," he once remarked. "In Cognac, they are good at waiting. It is the only way to make a good brandy."

In 1919 he became deputy secretary general of the League of Nations. He gradually expanded his experiences and contacts, reorganizing the Chinese railways, floating international loans and handling legal entanglements. As a broker on Wall Street, he made a fortune and then lost it in the 1929 crash.

Monnet was one of de Gaulle's early supporters in the war against Nazi Germany but became his bitter enemy when de Gaulle blocked Britain's entry into the Common Market and rekindled the flames of European nationalism which Monnet regarded as an outdated and self-defeating evil.

"The problems created by national sovereignty are an obstacle to understanding among men, to common action and to the progress of society," Monnet said in explaining why he opposed de Gaulle for re-election as president of France in 1965.

Four years later, de Gaulle resigned and his successor, Georges Pompidou, resumed the march toward a united Europe patiently staked out by Monnet. When Monnet retired from public life in 1975, he described the Common Market as "the major achievement of our era."

Houston home for Iranian leader

The Los Angeles Times

HOUSTON — Ibrahim Yazdi, deputy prime minister of Iran's revolutionary government and often the "voice" of the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, is an American citizen with a wife and six children living in Houston.

The good-looking, smartly dressed Yazdi, a pharmacologist, first became publicly identified with Khomeini last fall when the Moslem revolutionary, in exile in Paris, was directing the struggle that eventually drove Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi from Iran.

Yazdi, 47, was Khomeini's spokesman in Paris and now is head of revolutionary affairs for the Iranian government. Considered a strong Moslem ideologue, he appears to be the liaison man between Khomeini and Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan.

Yazdi and his wife moved to the United States in 1961, and she and their children, ranging in ages from 23 to 6, have lived here in a predominantly Jewish neighborhood called Meyerland the past eight years, Mrs. Yazdi said in a telephone interview.

"MY HUSBAND AND I have many Jewish friends, but I think he is against Zionism," she said. The Bazargan government has embraced the Palestine Liberation Organization and refused to resume oil exports to Israel.

A State Department official declined comment on Yazdi's dual role as a U.S. citizen and official of a foreign power, referring questions to the Department of Justice. The Department of Justice suggested that the Immigration and Naturalization Service might have the answer.

Vern Jarvis, an INS spokesman, stated that "the following act is considered highly persuasive evidence of an intention to relinquish citizenship, and will normally result in expatriation: service in an important political post of a foreign government. Such an act is highly persuasive of an intention to abandon allegiance."

He said the government could start proceedings leading to Yazdi losing his citizenship.

Yazdi's wife confirmed that both she and her husband had U.S. citizenship but added, "I do not like to talk about it. It is a personal matter."

THE HOUSTON district office of the INS confirmed that Yazdi became a naturalized citizen in Houston in 1971.

Yazdi was born in Iran Sept. 26, 1931, in the small town of Qazvin, according to his wife.

They arrived in the United States in 1961, she said, where Yazdi first studied at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He already had a doctorate from the University of Tehran, she said. They later moved to Houston where her husband was a cancer researcher at the Baylor University School of Medicine until 1970 when he joined the staff of the Veterans' Administration Hospital here as a supervisory microbiologist. He left that post in July, 1977, according to a hospital spokesman. He was making more than $26,000 a year for the VA.

Yazdi "resigned under duress" — he was asked to leave — one source at the hospital said. His superior, Dr. Ferenc Gyrokey, described Yazdi as a "fine scientist" and said he left for other work. He said Yazdi was now in politics and he could not comment further.

YAZDI'S WIFE SAID her husband had been head of the Islamic Society of Greater Houston for some time, but his movements from the time he left the VA hospital were not clear. A source at the hospital said Yazdi spent some time in Washington where he attempted to become an unofficial representative for the ayatollah.

Mrs. Yazdi, who has left Houston to visit a sister in Atlanta, said her husband visited Khomeini when the religious leader lived in exile in Iraq. She said he brought him a long list of questions from Moslems in the United States asking how Moslems should deal with such things as foods and banking interest rates. The two men became close friends, she said, and Yazdi moved to France with Khomeini when he was forced to leave Iraq, later returning to Iran with him.

"He calls when he gets time," Mrs. Yazdi said. "He is tired sometimes but he is a very cheerful man. But he gets mad when the American press twists events there."

While in Houston, she said, her husband often counseled Iranian students here, advising them on financial affairs and helping them with English and instructing them in religion.

Most Americans unable to maintain standard of living when they retire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The majority of working Americans are unable to maintain their living standards after they retire and are forced to live on private pension and Social Security payments, a new study says.

The Brandeis University study said it is generally felt a couple needs to receive about 70 percent of its working income to maintain the same lifestyle in retirement.

But in a survey of nearly 1,000 private pension plans, the study found that an average worker who made $15,000 a year before retiring after 30 years in 1975 received an annual pension of $3,150. Even when Social Security payments were added, the amount still fell short of the needed sum, the study said.

An exception to this was found in the communications, utilities, finance, insurance and real estate industries, where a majority of retired couples were able to maintain their living standards.

James H. Schulz, a professor of welfare economics at Brandeis University, conducted the study, with research associates Thomas D. Leavitt and Leslie Kelly.

New college course emphasizes peace

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — A college professor is starting a course to try to find an academic answer for an age-old question, "Is peace a futile dream?"

Next fall, Professor Earl W. Redding of Wilmington College will inaugurate the school's new Peace Studies Program — a four-year degree project which will attempt to teach how peace can become a reality.

"Peace does not just happen overnight. It is the product of intensive effort on the part of human beings," says Redding, a professor of religion and philosophy, whose course will look for peace between people as well as nations.

The goal of the program is to teach people how to get along with one another, he said. Graduates earning a bachelor of arts degree in peace studies will be qualified for careers in governmental or private organizations which strive for peace.

"We need individuals who are trained and prepared to join in this peacemaking task, either as a full-time career or as a second vocation along with their major occupation," Redding said.

More important, the professor said, is the ideal of involving "just ordinary people in thinking about the alternatives to violence and aggressive behavior."

"I'd like for as many of our students as possible to become aware there is another way of looking at our relationships than just looking out for No. 1," he said.

"Even if our most important instinct is for survival, we can learn that we will survive better if we cooperate than if we are aggressive."

"If we can do this, then those people (who take the courses), whatever their vocation, are going to be better prepared to deal with the conflicts that arise in the family, in the work situation and in the community."

Advocating non-violence and peace is nothing new at this small, southern Ohio, Quaker-affiliated college which was founded 109 years ago.

Among the study subjects planned are war and peace, social and political thought, international conflict and human relations laboratory work.

In addition, each student will spend an academic quarter off campus as an intern with an agency or organization to gain experience.

"Beyond these courses, students will be able to select from other departments on campus," Redding said.

Redding said he had no idea of how many people would sign up.

"Obviously, we're not going to be able to turn this whole thing around overnight," Redding said.

"We're not going to be able to change that mentality overnight, and we may not get very dramatic results, but if we don't start somewhere, it will never happen."

Last Chance' Speech Tournament set at MC

The second annual Midland College "Last Chance" Speech Tournament is scheduled for this weekend, with more than 250 area high school students expected to participate. All contests will be held in the Fine Arts Building on the MC campus.

"The tournament is called 'last chance' since it provides some last-minute competition and practice for high school speech and debate students before the start of district University Interscholastic League contests," explained Tyler Tindall, MC speech and debate instructor who is in charge of the event.

"We held this competition last year on an experimental basis and got so many entrants and so much favorable reaction that we decided to continue it as an annual event," Tindall said.

Japanese television peddles tradition instead of independence

By SAM JAMESON
The Los Angeles Times

TOKYO — Women hoping for careers outside the home will not find much encouragement on Japanese television.

In fact, according to a four-year survey recently completed here, Japanese television programming reinforces the traditional views that women are needed in the home and that they achieve their greatest satisfaction there.

The survey was conducted by Yasuko Muramatsu of the NHK Radio and Television Culture Research Institute, NHK is Japan's independently operated, government-financed radio and television network.

The potential of television for influencing attitudes of women is particularly great, Miss Muramatsu pointed out. Women, on the average, watch four hours of programs a day — one hour more than men.

"Not only do women watch more television than men, but also they watch for a different purpose," she said. "Men prefer detective stories, war dramas or historical pieces that will provide escape entertainment. Women tend to consider their viewing time as an investment. They want something from it. They watch daytime soap operas and nighttime dramas that show actual life situations."

In effect, women have turned to television to seek the kind of advice they used to get at home when Japanese lived in three-generation families, she said.

"Now they live in nuclear families and turn to soap operas to teach them how to care for their children or to act in society. When a woman feels vaguely discontented, she watches TV, receives reinforcement that she is living life correctly and is satisfied," Miss Muramatsu said.

What the housewife sees on television seldom offers independence as an ideal.

One current soap opera depicts a housewife in her mid-40s who discovers that her husband is having an affair with another woman.

For a fleeting few episodes the program departs from the traditional social value that a wife should pretend not to notice such an affair. But, ultimately, the housewife rejects an opportunity for a new relationship of her own and returns home after her husband apologizes to her in tears.

The series ends with the husband dying of cancer and the wife resigned to spending the rest of her life unmarried, but devoted to promoting the welfare of her grown son. Programs analyzed by Miss Muramatsu all had similar predictable "socially acceptable" endings.

Miss Muramatsu, who said hers was the only such study carried out so far in Japan, refused to censure Japanese TV.

More than half of the 56 charter members of the 55-Plus Dance Club are participating in the group's third birthday celebration held Tuesday night in the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 7208. (Staff Photo)

Dance club marks third year of existence...

By PATSY GORDON
Lifestyle Writer

It was senior citizens at their best when members of the 55-Plus Dance Club of Midland filled the ballroom of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 7208 to celebrate the club's third anniversary.

The first dance took place March 11, 1976 in the City of Midland's Parks and Recreations Building, with 26 persons attending. Tuesday night, more than 100 couples waltzed, schottisched and did "Put Your Little Foot" to the music of "Cactus," a group of Midland musicians.

Lucille Dunn, who now lives in Brownwood, was in charge of the organizational meeting three years ago, with Clara Jesse greeting and registering those attending. Lucille brought her record player, and Pauline Green and several others furnished the records. "Salty Dog Rag" was the No. 1 hit at that time.

Tuesday night "Cotton-Eyed Joe" was repeatedly played at the request of the party goers who didn't sit on the sidelines listening to the music. They kept going strong for four hours.

On April 1, 1976, Earl Waltrip was selected the club's first president, with Mac McClure as vice president and Dorothy Johnson as secretary-treasurer.

A board of directors was chosen, members of which wrote a set of guidelines, created a charter membership of 56 members, worked out an application plan for approving members age 55 plus and set the annual dues.

First board was made up of Mrs. Dunn, chairperson; Noma Talley, vice chairman; Phebe Waltrip, secretary; Lucille McClure, Mrs. Green, Dick Black, Fred Brasher and Gunnar Nielsen.

The membership has blossomed from 26 to a total of 375.

A strongly enforced rule of the club is "No drinking or alcoholic beverages allowed during the dance." VFW Post 7208 has been a generous friend to the club since May 18, 1976 when its board of directors, Jack Leonard, post manager, and Phil Bustamante, post commander, have provided the post's ballroom each Tuesday night, free of charge, to allow the "senior citizens to have good clean wholesome evenings of fellowship and dancing," said Waltrip.

Eleven couples have met and married since joining the dance club, said Waltrip, and they were honored at the recent Valentine dance, he added.

The anniversary event was held in honor of the charter members, and was hosted by the board of directors, with Jo Reed as chairperson in charge of arrangements.

Current board members are Newell Hughes, chairman; Noma Talley, vice chairman; Ivan Hoover, Reed Johnson, Gunnar Nielsen, John Rhea and Jo Reed.

"The past three years have been marked with many fine social events," said Waltrip. "Almost every special day has been observed. Each month a birthday dance, honoring that month's birthday celebrants, is observed with cake and presents. The planning of activities and sharing of the work each month is the responsibility of the previous month's members with birthdays. Thus, all have an opportunity one month in the year to share in the work of the club."

According to Waltrip, "The 55-Plus Dance Club is a lucky break for the senior citizens of this area, and the VFW Post 7208 is a lucky break for the 55-Plus Dance Club."

Officers during the second year of the club were: Ivan Hoover, president; Reed Johnson, vice president, and Margaret Rhea, secretary-treasurer.

Officers now serving are Waltrip, president; Mac McClure, vice president, and Phebe Waltrip, secretary-treasurer.

...And members tell why they belong to it

By PATSY GORDON
Lifestyle Writer

The dance floor was so crowded they danced among the tables in the ballroom.

The more than 220 persons taking part in the third anniversary of the 55-Plus Dance Club came from towns and cities representing 17 counties in West Texas, including Midland, Odessa, Crane, Iraan, Big Spring, Stanton, Ackerly, Ira, Lamesa, Andrews, Goldsmith, Seminole, Denver City, Rankin and others.

The senior citizens came in varied dress from formal wear to blue jeans. But they all had one thing in common. The desire to have a good time. And a good time they had.

Haney and Haley Harris of Andrews think the club's dances here "are great." They surely must because the Harris go to four or five dances a week. "We'll be in a dance-a-thon Friday (tonight) at Andrews being held for muscular dystrophy. We'll dance from 8 p.m. Friday until 5 p.m. Saturday," said Harris.

"What senior citizens need is activity. TVs will put us old folks in the nursing homes quicker than anything," he added.

The Harrises, who have reached age 80 plus, were married nine years ago, the second go-round for both.

"When I was single, I knew her (Haley's) husband, John Suggs. The three of us used to go to dances together. She and I danced to the "Seaside Waltz," explained Harris.

"But I left this area in 1903 and went to South Texas where I stayed 44 years.

"I had a brother in this area I had not seen in that time and my first wife had died." So he came back to Andrews.

His brother took him to Haley's house, but Harris "didn't remember" Haley until she mentioned "Seaside Waltz."

He began courting her, but "didn't have any intention of getting married, but she coaxed me."

Included among the activities of Harris during the week, aside from dancing, are making furniture for senior citizens, being a dance and physical fitness instructor, a bowler, a shuffle board player and "any other activity I can get going."

Haley is a seamstress and last year she made "18 beautiful quilts," said her proud husband.

Another Andrews couple, Vada and Joe Taylor, were married four weeks ago. She is the former Vada Pace of Andrews.

Joe came to the Midland area in 1927 to go to work for Ma Bell.

Joe also knew his wife's first husband, and her mother and daddy, in the young years.

Joe and Vada became reacquainted last year.

Midlanders John and Margaret Rhea joined the 55-Plus Dance Club because they were "getting tired of just going to dinner and a show" every time they went out in the evening.

Other Midlanders who belong to the club, just to name a few, are Mr. and Mrs. Martin Meissner, C. P. Adams and Frank Cowden.

Corinne Hemphill, 73, a resident of the Tall City about 8 years and a retired school teacher, thinks the club's members are "just naturally friendly." And that is why she keeps showing up each month. And because "I like music and love to dance, even though I'm not a good dancer."

She suffers from rheumatoid arthritis, but this doesn't stop Corinne, who belongs to 11 organizations.

Armand Sabatier has been a Midlander since 1959 and a citizen of the United States for 53 years. He was born in France.

He shows up at the VFW Post regularly for the club's dances because "It's a good place to meet people. I'm privileged to be a good dancer, so the ladies don't turn me down."

He said his grandmother taught him every dance step he knows when he was 9 years old. All but one, that is. The one she couldn't teach him went like this: "Hold your partner close enough that she wants you to hold her again. But not too close that she might not like it."

His grandmother, who was born in Vienna, Austria, was 72 years of age when she taught her grandson to dance.

All of these people who belong to the fraternity of older people agree on one thing—activity for older people is a prerequisite to staying out of wheel chairs and nursing homes.

Bridge center construction to begin

The Permian Basin Duplicate Bridge Club held ground-breaking ceremonies Wednesday for its new bridge center just off Wadley Street near the City of Midland Swim Team building.

The $100,000 plus facility will be just north of the Junior League's new headquarters and will be capable of handling up to 32 tables of players.

Betty Dickerson, president of the PBDBC, said the bridge center will be used by the Permian Basin Duplicate Bridge Club for its Wednesday night games. The Greater Permian Basin Bridge Unit, of which the Midland Club is a member, also will use the center.

The club president said the center will be made available to other bridge clubs in Midland and the Midland area, both private and those affiliated with the American Contract Bridge League. "For years, we have wanted to start a youth bridge program in Midland. Now, with this new bridge center we will be able to accomplish that," Mrs. Dickerson said.

A. G. Buehler and Mrs. Gloria Dellenbach, co-chairmen of the building committee, said that although work will be started within the next few days, the building fund goal has not been reached.

Buehler said the brick veneer building will be completely airconditioned both winter and summer. "And, there will be plenty of paved parking surface," he added.

Attending the ground-breaking ceremonies were many of the club's members, including Mrs. Helon Allison, Mrs. Nanette Spencer and Mrs. Katy McGrew, all pioneers of Duplicate Bridge in Midland. Mrs. Spencer and Mrs. McGrew are Midland bridge directors and Mrs. Allison is an active member of the Permian Basin Duplicate Bridge Club.

Also wielding shovels were Buehler, Mrs. Dellenbach, Mrs. Dickerson and Joe Ranne, a PBDBC member and contractor for the project.

Wine lists pose three problems

By NATHAN CHROMAN
Special to The Los Angeles Times

Are you frustrated in restaurants? I am, and it is almost always over the wine list. Exorbitant prices, lack of vintage dating and poor selection are the three problems that generally annoy me.

Restaurant wine lists have improved nationally, but progress is so slow-it is barely discernable. Improvement has come largely because of increasingly sophisticated consumers who demand that the nice little unknown winery from California or France be featured on the list.

I know of one fashionable San Francisco hotel that was dragged, screaming, into the 20th century of improved wine lists when customers openly brought their own wine in protest of its excessively priced, poorly selected list. Perhaps bringing your own wine to your favorite dining spot is an answer, but it doesn't solve the problem. Dining should be a pleasurable experience enhanced by wine, not frustrated by it.

Restaurants need to be motivated to learn how to establish a wine cellar in much the same way consumers do. The key to pleasurable wine drinking, at home or in a restaurant, is to have access to wines that have matured and are ready to drink. To offer merely a long list of young, undrinkable wines is not enough. It may be fun to leaf through the pages, but the bottom line, I fear, is frustration in having to settle for young red wine frequently too tannic to drink or white wine, unbalanced, not yet together.

Most restaurants choose wine to suit their budget rather than the customer's palate. Do not most wine lists today feature off-vintage Bordeaux such as 1967, 1969, 1972, 1973 and 1974? Burgundies offered are usually 1973 and 1974 vintages, neither calculated to enhance your dining pleasure, particularly at the current pricing at three to four times over wholesale.

Building a good wine cellar today can be one of the most important things a restaurateur can do for his clientele. Inasmuch as many restaurant owners complain that they cannot get really top-quality food items (most buy from the same purveyors), it is the wine list where imagination and creativity can be displayed.

Women voters blast tardy law makers

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Tardy legislators are undermining vital state laws that give citizens the right to take part in Texas law making, says the Texas League of Women Voters.

State president Betty Anderson said Wednesday that some citizens have appeared for a public hearing on proposed legislation at the scheduled time "and four hours later they're still waiting for legislators to appear and the meeting to begin."

"The intent of the open meetings law — to make government accessible to the public — is being undermined," she said in a statement. "Citizens travel far to attend hearings on proposed legislation and to testify and then wind up returning home without a chance to testify or to hear testimony."

"The League recognizes that sometimes postponements and cancellations due to lack of a quorum are inevitable," she said.

DEAR ABBY

37 years later, an indiscretion calls him dad

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please answer in the paper because I live in a very small town and if anyone ever found out my name I'd be a laughing stock.

What would you do if your husband, after 34 years of marriage, suddenly announced that he has a 37-year-old daughter? I raised hell. Was I in error?

My husband told me that a woman came to his place of work and identified herself as the girl he got pregnant 32 years ago. She reminded him that when she told him she was expecting, he said he'd do anything but marry her because he wasn't ready for marriage. She then disappeared. Now, after all this time, she suddenly finds him and says her daughter would like to know her father! My husband says he recalls the incident vaguely. Without consulting me, he agreed to meet his so-called daughter and also promised to tell our children about her!

I say this woman is out to make trouble and wreck our home. I forbade my husband to tell our children about it. (We have two.) I told him this woman may not even know who fathered her daughter, and he shouldn't get involved.

Our family life has been good up to now, but this is upsetting. What should I do?—FROM A SMALL TOWN

DEAR FROM: Advise your husband to see a lawyer and find out (a) how much if any legal responsibility he has to this woman and her daughter, and (b) how to handle it.

If your husband feels a moral obligation to the woman he will have to deal with it as he sees fit. In the meantime, the word from here is—keep cool and keep quiet.

DEAR ABBY: I know this is a dumb question for an 18-year-old girl to ask, but when is a girl no longer considered a virgin?

I had a boyfriend and we were very, very close, but we never had sexual intercourse. (We did everything BUT.) Am I still considered a virgin?

Please answer in the paper, as I don't want this kind of information going to my house in a letter. Also, I'm sure there are other girls who would like to know.—VIRGIN OR NOT

DEAR VIRGIN: Although you have done everything BUT—the "but" makes the difference. Technically, you are a virgin.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LOTS OF PROBLEMS IN MILWAUKEE: You need a "parentectomy"—which means to become completely independent from your parents. You must support yourself, make your own decisions and assume total responsibility for your own actions. AT 30, you are old enough. Get going.

Xi Epsilon Epsilon group plans Founders' Day lunch

Xi Epsilon Epsilon chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met at the home of Vi Dashevich for a business meeting and cultural program.

President Carolyn Hartzoge announced that the Founder's Day luncheon will be April 28 at Ranchland Hills Country Club.

The state convention will be June 8-10 in Dallas. Following the convention, a charter flight will head for Hawaii for members wishing to take a seven-day island tour.

Deanie Eppinger, social chairman, reported that a salad supper would honor the Xi Alpha Mu chapter March 22 at her home.

Mrs. Hartzoge reported that two rituals will be conducted March 20 at the home of Mrs. Katie Williams. The Order of the Rose Ritual will be held for Kathy York, Myrtle Russell, Birdie Lamkin and Joan Wilson. Members receiving the Exemplar degree will be Nancie Nunon, Lois Heath, Tiene Richardson and Alice Schultz.

Kathy York presented a program on "Our Shrinking World." She told how radio and television have brought people closer together because of rapid communication of world events. Jet travel has made it possible to go any place in the world in a matter of a few hours.

Paula Shepherd was a guest at the meeting.

Engagement announced

EASTLAND — Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Sanders of Eastland announce the engagement of their daughter, Tinnia Louise, to Scott Allan Bass, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond M. Bass, of 2809 W. Michigan Ave.

The ceremony is set for 7 p.m. April 14 at the Crestview Baptist Church in Midland.

The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Curtis, of 3610 Thomason Drive.

She is a graduate of Eastland High School and attended Cisco Junior College. She was graduated from Midland College and is currently attending Odessa College. Her fiancé is a graduate of Midland High School, attended Hardin-Simmons University and is a graduate of Midland College. He is employed by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Fancy up those plain-Jane towels

By BETTY W. KINSER

Copley News Service
Towels are towels. They dry your hands, your face, your body and other wet things. They last for a long time. Then, when they die, they are reincarnated as card-drying rags, floor-mopping rags and Superman capes.

At one time, 79 cents would buy you a very decent towel. Not anymore. Seventy-nine cents will barely buy a good washcloth. So, no need to mention that "fancy" towel is going to cost a bundle.

Not to lose the battle of the buck, let us make our own "fancy" towels.

Purchase good quality, but inexpensive (wait for the white sales) towels in lush colors. Select lengths of washable trims—lace, ruffles, braids, rickrack—in a color to complement your towels. Prewash and dry towels and trims.

Near one end of the towel arrange the lengths of trim (ruffling looks great when extended over the end of the towel). Hand-baste trims in place, creating the look you want. Do not pull trim too tight! Stitch, using a narrow zigzag. The tension of your machine should be a bit loose.

For an added touch, snip flowers or other designs from trim and blindstitch to towel and matching washcloth. A complete ensemble can be made by similarly trimming matching sheets and pillow cases. They make wonderful gifts!

Speaking of white sales, why not buy good quality sheets just for the fabric?

Sheets can be tuned in to nightgowns, robes, hostess skirts, caftans, curtains, pillows, blouses—there is no end. Because of the width of a sheet, you will be able to cut larger pieces, and to use more of the fabric.

A reminder—choose good quality and prewash and dry before cutting.

A quick belt: Cut three lengths double your waist measurement of "shiny" macrame cording. Braid the three lengths together, starting and stopping about three or four inches from ends. Knot the three strands together at the end of the braiding. Knot the end of each strand separately. Tie around your waist.

Now, wasn't that easy?

QUICK STITCH: Long scarves, knotted on the ends, are very popular now, and can add a beautiful touch to any outfit. But, have you thought of wearing two long scarves? They can be the same color, or coordinated; the same fabric, or mix-and-matched; the same length, or different. One can be worn under the collar, the other on top. ...Just play with the idea a while, you'll soon get the hang of it.

Edelin gets chairmanship at med school

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. Kenneth Edelin, convicted and later cleared of killing a fetus during a legal abortion, is the new chairman of obstetrics and gynecology at Boston University Medical School.

Edelin, 39, who was appointed Thursday, has been acting head of the gynecology department at Boston University for the past year. Recently, he was also named head of the department at Boston City Hospital. Edelin has taught at Boston University since 1974.

Edelin's conviction in 1975 was one of the most important abortion cases since the U.S. Supreme Court ruled two years earlier that abortion is legal.

He was convicted in state court of manslaughter in the death of a fetus taken from a woman on whom he performed an abortion.

The prosecution argued that Edelin tried to smother the fetus while it was still inside the womb and then failed to save it after it was born. His lawyers argued that manslaughter was impossible because the alleged victim died before birth.

After Edelin's conviction, some doctors said they were reluctant to perform abortions after the first three months of pregnancy.

Protesters fight nuke

GORLEBEN, West Germany (AP) — About 80 anti-nuclear protesters slashed tires and built barricades today in an attempt to halt work on a test shaft for storing nuclear wastes, a project spokesman said.

The spokesman for the German Society for Re-processing Nuclear Fuels said work at the site was delayed about two hours until police and members of the Federal Border Protection unit cleared the barricades.

No arrests were reported.

Police question suspect in Oklahoma murder cases

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Roger Dale Stafford, the man suspected in nine Oklahoma murders, spent Thursday answering questions from Oklahoma City and state law officers.

Stafford, 27, began his day with quizzes from the Oklahoma City Police and was transferred before noon to the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation headquarters and questioned more than six hours.

District Attorney Andrew Coats was expected to meet today with McClain County prosecutor Kay Huff to discuss unfiled charges originated from the slayings of an Air Force family near Purcell.

Stafford is a suspect in the June 22, 1978 shooting deaths of Sgt. Melvin Lorenz, his wife, Linda and son, Richard. The family's bodies were found along Interstate 35 near Purcell.

He is also suspected in the June 16, 1978 slayings of six Sirlain Stockade employees in south Oklahoma City. Slain in a walk-in freezer were Terri Horst, Louis Zacarias, Isaac Freeman, Anthony Tew, David Salsman and David Lindsey.

The two robbery-killings were later linked through ballistics tests on two handguns recovered last September in northeast Oklahoma City.

Oklahoma City Detective Chief Robert Wilder said police and OSBI investigators are keeping in close contact with prosecutors as they question Stafford, who has not requested an attorney.

An informal embargo has been placed among police officials. Oklahoma City Police Chief Tom Heggy said everyone connected with the Stafford investigation is concerned about publicity that could harm the case.

Heggy said Stafford "has given no statement of any kind... written or verbal in relationship to the crime."

The chief refused to say what Stafford and detectives talked about in sessions Wednesday night and Thursday.

Police said Stafford may not be arraigned before Monday. Wilder and Jim McKinney, assistant district attorney, said Stafford must be arraigned within "a reasonable time."

Stafford has been charged only with one count of first-degree murder, in the death of one of the steakhouse workers. Prosecutors have not filed charges in the eight other deaths.

Police have said that Stafford has also been implicated by his estranged wife, Verna, in at least 13 other slayings across the country. She remains in protective custody.

Stafford was returned to Oklahoma City from Chicago in a private plane Wednesday afternoon.

Girl's Ranch aid by Rotary cited

The Downtown Rotary Club has contributed $14,172 and countless volunteer hours since 1974 to the High Sky Girl's Ranch, said David Maley, director of the private facility, Thursday.

Maley, who spoke before Downtown Rotary Club members, said since 1978 he has directed the Midland County facility, which cares for girls who for one reason or another cannot live at home with their parents.

He said he has been involved in the care of young people for the past 12 years.

"The year 1979 has been designated the International Year of the Child," said Maley.

"But I'm very happy to report that every year is the Year of the Child in Midland — at least as far as the Downtown Rotary Club is concerned," said Maley.

Maley said he is a graduate of Texas Tech University, where he now is completing work on a doctorate in his field.

Maley said Downtown Rotary Club members have contributed $3,378 during 1978 to the facility he heads.

"And that excludes the Christmas dinner and many hours of time provided by Rotary members who also happen to volunteer at the High Sky Girl's Ranch," Maley said.

"We appreciate the assistance," he said, adding that the time and help have meant much to the girls there.

Public, private Pryor two distinct characters

By BOB THOMAS
 HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Richard Pryor: a study in contrast. The public Pryor is on view in the nation's theaters with an 80-minute tape-to-film record of a concert he gave in Long Beach, Calif., late last year. Television can never do him justice; the big screen does. He roams the stage like a madman sage, erupting with outrageous verities. He is profane, some say obscene, but irresistibly funny.

Then take a look at Pryor behind the desk of his second-floor office at his compound in Northridge, a far reach of the San Fernando Valley. The wildness is gone from the eyes. He is subdued, introspective, employing scarcely a word that couldn't be uttered in a tea room.

Why did he make "Richard Pryor, Live in Concert"?

He contemplates, then replies, "Money."

"That's right. Pure greed. Also, to have my art etched in celluloid and shown 'round the world. Most of all, greed."

He's probably not serious, but you never can tell about Pryor. He did remark that he felt he had done good work and he was pleased with the results. The material was new, he said — "my audience wouldn't stand for repeating old stuff." The monologue covers a wide spectrum, including such matters as the difference between black and white funerals and the ring performance of Leon Spinks.

Pryor can even find comedy in personal mishap — his own heart attack and his arrest after shooting up the unoccupied car of his estranged wife. He also makes graphic reference to male-female relationships. The film has no rating, but producer Will Sargent has appended the message in ads:

"WARNING: This picture contains harsh and very vulgar language and may be considered shocking and offensive. No explicit sex or violence is shown."

"I think that's a good idea to have that warning," said Pryor. "I have a vision of little old ladies coming into the theater by mistake and having coronaries." In fact, there was one little old lady at the matinee I attended and she seemed to be enjoying herself immensely.

Pryor explained why he seemed laid-back: "I just finished five months on the road with concerts. I enjoyed it, but now I am taking two months off — and I haven't taken two months off in my life."

"I need some time for my own feelings. A lot has happened to me in the last year; I lost my grandmother, I had a lot of personal problems. Now I want to relax and find out what I want to do with my life. Trouble is, I don't know how to relax."

Mark Hamill, Luke Skywalker of "Star Wars," rides a "Tauntaun across the frozen wastes of the ice planet Hoth, in a scene from "The Empire Strikes Back." The movie, a sequel to "Star Wars," is being filmed in Norway for release in summer, 1980. (AP Laserphoto)

Thad Jones, Mel Lewis make breakup official

NEW YORK (AP) — After 13 years, the famous, big swinging band called the Thad Jones-Mel Lewis Orchestra is minus its star trumpeter. It also has a new name: Mel Lewis and the Jazz Orchestra.

"We had to make it official," says Lewis, 49, a veteran big band drummer who said Jones, his trumpet-playing partner, simply hadn't been able to work enough with their band to justify its old name.

"I guess you could say we drifted apart, because it takes two to drift," said Lewis, whose band — under its old name — has been nominated for Grammy awards four times for its recordings.

"But for the last couple of years, Thad's been spending most of his time in Denmark with the Danish Radio Orchestra, and businesswise, it hasn't worked out too well for us."

Efforts to contact Jones here for comment this week were unsuccessful. His sister-in-law, Mrs. Hank Jones, said she understood the trumpeter-flugelhornist still was in Denmark.

Sentry detained in shooting death

NORFOLK (AP) — A Marine sentry has been detained for questioning in the shooting death of a Marine from Springfield, Ill., a Navy spokesman says.

Both Marines were members of the Atlantic Fleet headquarters guard detail here. The slaying occurred in their barracks Thursday.

Pfc. Lawrence E. Drury, 19, was pronounced dead at Norfolk General Hospital about an hour after he had been shot in the stomach, the spokesman said.

Lt. Cmdr. Michael Cherry, the 5th Naval District spokesman, said Drury was being taken by Navy ambulance to Portsmouth Naval Hospital when he suffered cardiac arrest and the ambulance headed for Norfolk General, which was closer.

Pvt. David Parker, 23, of Austin, Texas was being detained by Navy investigators but no charges had been placed against him Thursday, said Cherry.

Emerman's recording studio in midst of growth period

MIAMI (AP) — Mack Emerman always liked to fool around with music in his spare time, lugging recording equipment in the back of his station wagon to jazz performances so he could make an album or two.

Emerman doesn't have spare time these days. And, with clients like the Bee Gees, Andy Gibb, Eric Clapton, the Marshall Tucker Band and Crosby, Stills and Nash, he's no longer fooling around.

His company, Criteria Recording Studios of Miami, is expanding its headquarters by eight studios — it now has four — and plans to open three other studios in California next summer.

It's to be called Criteria West, Emerman says. He hopes it will attract more big names. But it's in Miami that Criteria was born and grew into a major force in popular music.

Just inside Criteria's door is the studio's "altar to the Bee Gees."

'Voices' says much

By KEVIN THOMAS
 The Los Angeles Times
 HOLLYWOOD — The runaway success of "Rocky," followed by "Saturday Night Fever," has unleashed a series of sentimental urban dramas.

None of them — "Uncle Joe Shannon," "Slow Dancing in the Big City," "Blood-brothers" or Sylvester Stallone's own "Paradise Alley" — has lived up to the first two.

But now along comes the highly appealing "Voices," that shows to advantage an array of young talent both in front and behind the camera. It's a winner because its persists. There are many painful, fumbling moments as he tries to adapt to her handicap while encouraging her not to allow it to stand in the way of both a relationship with him and a career in dancing, for which she is well trained.

A review

warmth and uplift keep in reasonable touch with reality and because it's persuasive enough to overcome a couple of loose ends by the time it reaches its emotion-charged finish.

The principal reasons it's so engaging are Michael Ontkean and Amy Irving, who attain stardom in this film after making strong impressions in supporting roles.

Ontkean lives with his father (Alex Rocco), grandfather (Herbert Berghof) and younger brother (Barry Miller) in a shabby old Hoboken apartment and struggles to launch a singing career while driving a delivery truck for the family-cleaning business.

One day on his rounds he glimpses Amy Irving in a depot, is attracted by her beauty and pursues her frantically. When he finally catches up to her he discovers she is totally deaf, the result of a childhood disease.

Written by newcomer John Herzfeld with much humor, tenderness and gusto and directed gracefully by Robert Markowitz in his theatrical debut, "Voices" is at once a love story, a family drama and an exploration of the world of the deaf.

As Ontkean pursues both his singing career and Miss Irving, who teaches at a school for the deaf, Ontkean's family comes into focus. The wise and gentle Berghof is his mainstay, and Ontkean tries to keep the teen-age Miller out of trouble while Rocco gambles recklessly. For all the chaos, however, this messy, all-male household is held together by firm bonds of love.

Miss Irving's mother (Viveca Lindfors) is another matter. Understandably concerned about her daughter's future, she is opposed to Ontkean as a suitor, believing the deaf man (Richard Kendall) who's been courting her is her best chance for happiness and security.

Ontkean, however,

Moviemaking becomes big Texas industry

DALLAS (AP)—Texas has been raising cows and cactus and movie stars for generations and now, it seems, films are taking their place alongside petroleum as one of the state's chief exports.

The film industry has grown so much in the past 15 years in Texas that the Lone Star state is now in third place behind California and New York as a major spawning ground of film producers, technicians and actors.

Texas is where it all began for such stars as Mary Martin, Debbie Reynolds, Sandy Duncan, the late Linda Darnell, and the late Joan Crawford — not to mention Jaclyn Smith and Farrah Fawcett-Majors. It is the home now of such past screen luminaries as Greer Garson and Pola Negri.

Dallas — known for its banking, insurance and fashions—is rapidly becoming the Hollywood of Texas.

The growth of drama and commercial productions here has created several new businesses, as well as part-time jobs for hundreds of would-be Robert Redfords and Farrah Fawcetts.

In fact, about 900 persons and a few dogs, cats and chimps list themselves as models or actors looking for work in the comprehensive Whitmark Directory published here. Some do more looking than acting, and most are full-time housewives, grandmothers, writers, policemen or businessmen and only part-time "celebrities."

It costs only $75 to launch a career in show business by buying space in the directory, which was started in 1967 by two women who correctly predicted that the industry would explode in Dallas. Each aspirant in the book is pictured in two different poses alongside a list of his talents. But some of the veterans in the directory warn of low pay, frustration, intense competition and battered egos from repeated rejection.

So why do they do it? "I just like being with a totally different set of people," said actor-narrator-model Dave Beideman of the Dallas Police Department. "They are fun people to be around."

"Everybody thinks of us (policemen) as the macho type. Sometimes people look on us in a negative light. Working with these people is a very positive thing. I like accentuating the positive."

Most say they are definitely not trying to get rich.

"Money is about fifth down on the priority list," said actress Bernice Crudden, who recently received $130 for appearing in a television commercial for the Union Bank in Little Rock, Ark. (Nor is job security a motivating factor. Mrs. Crudden's bank ad job lasted five hours.)

Yet there is big money involved. Film production was a $75 million industry in Texas last year, estimates Texas Film Commission director Pat Wolfe, who concedes No. 1 to California with $375 million and No. 2 to New York, which claims $100 million. "But the work is here and more is coming here," she said. "We've attracted $34.2 million in productions in the first quarter of this year. It could be a banner year for us."

Filming of the novel "North Dallas 40" began in Houston last month and Miss Wolfe listed three other feature-length motion pictures slated for filming in Texas during the first four months of the year.

They are Paramount's "Urban Cowboy" with John Travolta, to be filmed mainly at Gilley's dance hall in Pasadena; Universal's "Resurrection," starring Ellen Burstyn, to be shot near Shiner, San Marcos and El Paso; and "The Lath of Heaven," a science fiction film for the Public Broadcasting System, to be shot in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

"Dallas is becoming the center. It has all of the film-related services, the labs, the talent pools," said Miss Wolfe, 33, who earns just under $25,000 as head of the commission created by the Legislature in 1971 to promote the film industry in Texas.

So why is "North Dallas 40" being shot in Houston?

"Houston must have appeared to look more like Dallas than Dallas," she said. "Also, they did not want to do such a controversial picture on the grounds of the Dallas Cowboys."

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Who has been the most portrayed character in the history of movies?

Forget Tarzan, Superman and other jocks. Scratch Charlie Chan, Philip Marlowe, James Bond and similar gumshoes. The prize must go to that amateur violinist and sometime dope addict, Sherlock Holmes.

The first "Sherlock Holmes" appeared in an American one-reeler in 1900. The latest can be seen in theaters this month — "Murder by Decree," an Avco Embassy release starring Christopher Plummer as Holmes.

Between the two films have come such Sherlockes as William Gillette (who created the stage role), John Barrymore, Carlyle Blackwell, Clive

Foursome teams up to make recording

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—If you are a songwriter trying to make a name for yourself, it doesn't hurt to have someone really big sing your stuff. Diana Ross would be nice; so would Smokey Robinson, Marvin Gaye or Stevie Wonder, but everyone knows they write their own material.

Well then, how about all four on one record? Sounds like a songwriter's dream.

"It is," chorused Marilyn McLeod and Pam Sawyer, the Motown songwriting-producing team that accomplished exactly that feat on the single "Pops, We Love You."

Now, it isn't every day that four superstars like Miss Ross, Gaye, Robinson and Wonder collaborate, and you know there has to be a story behind the record. There is.

Pops, it turns out, is the affectionate nickname by which the Motown family knew the late Berry Gordy Sr., father of the company's founder, Berry Gordy Jr.

POPS GORDY celebrated his 90th birthday last summer with a big party in Detroit, and the two women decided on the spur of the moment to present the senior Gordy a musical gift.

"It was really a challenge," recalls Ms. McLeod. "We only had from Friday to Sunday to do it together because it (the party) was on a Monday. We didn't know if we could do it, but it just came together, really like magic."

A demo, with Marilyn McLeod singing, was put together and rushed to Detroit in time for the party.

"He (Pops) loved it, which was gratifying," Ms. Sawyer says.

In fact, lots of people at the party liked the up-tempo tribute. McLeod and Sawyer were besieged by requests for copies of the record, so they asked Pops for permission to turn his present into a full-fledged entry in the retail market.

"WE SAID, WE'D like to give it to everybody's father, maybe we could have a father's day song," Ms. McLeod says. "And he said, 'Go ahead!' So that transition came about, with his permission."

The problem of who would sing the song came up.

"I had let someone hear it, and they said, 'That sounds kind of like Marvin Gaye,'" Ms. McLeod says. "And that's when I said, 'Well, if we're going to use Marvin, why don't we let Diana have a verse, Marvin have a verse, Stevie and then Smokey.'"

One wonders what inducement was offered to the four performers.

"It's a labor of love," says Ms. Sawyer. "We were worried about whether they'd cooperate."

"THEY WERE some of the original artists that had started with the company," adds Ms. McLeod. "Every one of them knew Pops. They knew we had presented this on his birthday, so when they were approached about it, it was "More than happy," "Love to."

"And then it wasn't a lot of work for them either, cause you could say, 'Diana, you do this one verse, Stevie, this one.'"

Marilyn McLeod, a Detroit native, and Pam Sawyer, who grew up in England, have been writing separately for Motown's biggest names since 1967, and as a team they've collaborated on 40 or 50 songs since writing Miss Ross's hit, "Love Hangover," in 1974. They became the first songwriters, let alone the first women songwriters, ever to have their names and faces plastered on a Sunset Boulevard billboard.

But their goal is to become "as well known a songwriting team as Burt Bacharach and Hal David, and they hope that "Pops" will become a father's day tradition, much in the way "My Funny Valentine" is identified with Valentine's Day.

Irish town changes in 3 decades

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — St Patrick's Day revelries over an Irish coffee as once again the big parade forms in the side streets to head up Fifth Avenue.

Thirty years ago I was married on the high altar in the little chapel just beyond the crossroads in Mullagh-bawn, County Armagh, Northern Ireland in the dark green shadow of Slieve Gullion Mountain.

Don't look for it on the map. No Irish map even in the government survey office is large enough to find space for the name of so small a town, if you can call one church, two pubs, a butcher shop and Her Majesty's post office a town, not counting the boys and girls schools which were owned by the government and run by the parish priest in Ireland's own unique version of the separation of church and state.

It was a peaceful place. Even the wedding of the former Bridgid Murphy to a Yank went peacefully. You could hear the Bawn River rushing under the stone bridge outside O'Hanlon's Pub when Father Dacey, the young curate, got through harmonizing with 90-year-old Mrs. Quinn on "Courtin' in the Kitchen." When the bride's brother bought a round, everyone had a Guinness; when the groom bought everyone had a whiskey, which contributed to peace and detente.

I NEVER DREAMED I'd ever be going back there as a reporter to cover a war. This was a Catholic enclave in the Protestant North. The border with the Republic was less than three miles away: But no one thought much about it then, except that the pigs were occasionally herded down toward the border and allowed to choose for themselves the better paying market in the South. And there was sometimes a bit of trouble on the train about smuggling necessities like butter and booze up from Dublin, where prices were cheaper because they weren't supported by the British government.

"What's that you have in the bottle, Lady?"

"Just a bit of Holy Water from Lourdes."

"Smells like gin to me..."

"The Lord save us, another miracle."

That was a local joke. "The Troubles" were far away then in the mists of history.

THE ONLY RELIGIOUS problem was the roof on the Protestant church of Ireland on the road to Forkhill. It was falling in, and there were less than a dozen Protestant families around to repair it. So Canon O'Neill, the local parish priest, held a tea and the Catholics footed the bill.

A decade later, in 1959, I came back to Mullaghbawn.

There were a few changes in the little town. Someone had blown up Her Majesty's telephone kiosk in front of the post office, scaring the post mistress near out of her wits.

"The lads," as they were called, had moved the customs shed back a couple of yards with a few sticks of dynamite, and bits of pieces of the railway line were found missing from time to time.

There was a joke about that, too.

"Father, forgive me, I've just blown up seven miles of British Rail track."

"All right now, son, go and do the Stations..."

A lark. No one got hurt. Lads will be lads.

Then 10 years later — 1969 — it had all changed, utterly. A terrible terror was born.

TWO LABORERS from the parish were machine-gunned in a van on their way to work at the "Protestant" shipyards in Belfast. Timmy Kelly, 5-year-old, went up the road for the cows and came back in McCann the Undertaker's hearse. He or the cows had stepped on a mine intended for a British scout car. Two school boys were blown apart when out of curiosity they opened the back of a bread van parked in front of the Catholic chapel at Drumantee. A Protestant farmer, one of the few along the border, was found slumped in front of his telly with a large hole in the back of his head.

There were a few laughs, too. Grim laughs. A British army Santa Claus arrived by helicopter and one of the wee lads spit in his face and another shook his hand with a pat of cow dung. He told his commanding officer he'd go over the hill, desert, before he'd play Santa for the Queen again. Then on New Year's Eve someone tried to launch Her Majesty's Office of Inland Revenue — the tax collector — into orbit, but everything was destroyed except the files.

Nearly every day was "D-day" in the last decade: dynamite, destruction, death, deserted roads and farm houses.

MULLAGHBAWN IN 1979 is peaceful again. Dreadfully peaceful. No one travels the roads after dark. The British army doesn't travel by road at all. They stick pretty much to helicopters since 60 soldiers have been ambushed in the vicinity.

Even in the daytime, people quake if a stranger knocks at the door. The children go straight home after school; few teachers care to tarry on the sports field as darkness falls. Even the boxing team doesn't go out after dark. Many homes are without fathers; "lifted," as the expression has it, taken away to Long Mesh, the incarceration camp, without trial on "suspicion of suspicious activities."

You can still hear the river, rushing cold under the stone bridge by O'Hanlon's, making you wonder on this St. Patrick's Day where it will end, when it will all end. Three decades in an Irish town.

Mergers may be necessary for airlines

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frank Borman, chairman and chief executive officer of Eastern Airlines, says mergers will be necessary for the survival of a number of major air carriers in the next decade.

merger partners. I want from that cliff of marginal to take Eastern away al financial capability."

Borman testified Thursday before a Civil Aeronautics Board law judge who is hearing Eastern's proposal to merge with National Airlines.

"Many airlines will have to merge or go out of business," Borman said. "Many of us don't have the capability in the next decade to generate funds to keep our fleets modern."

He predicted that the nation will have only six or seven major air carriers in about 10 years. There now are 11 major U.S. trunk carriers.

If Eastern is not successful in merging with National, Borman said, "We would seek out other

Drawbridge job has definite ups and downs

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — Sherwood Raymond has been climbing the 35 narrow stairs to the drawbridge over the Thames River for 26 years, but he's still fascinated by what he sees on the job.

"Everybody thinks it should be boring," he says of his job raising and lowering a 785-ton bridge section to allow passage of both ships and trains, "but there's no time to get bored."

Raymond, 57, is one of four men who work on the bridge in a room that is more glass than walls. He practices a careful and studied diplomacy between the needs of ship captains and the ever-moving trains.

Katherine George has been selected by the Midland Downtown Lions Club as Junior Lioness of the Week. She is a senior at Robert E. Lee High School and is president of the National Honor Society. Katherine is listed in the "Who's Who in American High School Students." She plans to attend college and major in pre-med or elementary education. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff George of Midland.

The bridge house has become a second home for the Norwich, Conn., resident, but it's anything but relaxing trying to balance the needs of everyone who wants to use the bridge.

The first priority goes to trains, and it's up to Raymond and the other bridge operators to tell mariners when the bridge can be open and when it must be closed.

In his work, Raymond uses a pair of binoculars, a factory whistle, a bell, two telephones and a 16-channel marine radio-telephone, but there's still some guesswork involved.

On one recent day, Raymond fielded calls from a submarine, an approaching train and the tugboat New London, which needed to pass under the bridge. In addition, workers were making repairs on one end of the lift.

"That's the thing that nobody understands about this bridge," he said. "I do not control this bridge. The man in Groton tower unlocks it and locks it ... if there's a train waiting to get across and I have the bridge open, though, then I have to answer for it."

The man in the Groton tower is an Amtrak employee whom Raymond contacts frequently on train schedules.

Weekend mariners are less predictable than the regulars who pass under the 1,385-foot span and Raymond says most of those he sees all the time can predict within a minute or so how long it will take them to get through. How a captain estimates so closely the time it will take, especially a tugboat with a loaded oil barge, is something that still fascinates Raymond — even after 26 years on the job.

"If you open the bridge with a short time between trains for a sailboat with no power, you're really gambling," he said. "We have to run outdoors and see where they are and if you have to close, you just hope and pray."

Raymond sees nearly every kind of ship, but he gets a special welcome from submarine crews passing underneath.

BRIDGE Starting the trumps needs proper timing

Schenken took the ace of diamonds since the lead might be a singleton. If South next led a trump from dummy, losing the queen to the king, West would lead his other diamond. A third diamond would let West win with the ten of hearts.

Instead, Schenken first cashed dummy's top spades and ruffed a spade. If East had only one spade, West would have six and might well have bid spades. It seemed safer than playing for trumps to break well.

LEADS A TRUMP

Schenken then started the trumps by leading low from his own hand. West took the king of hearts and led his other diamond, but declarer ruffed the next diamond with the queen of hearts. West could get the ace but not the ten of hearts, and the contract was safe.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one notrump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S-J8; H-Q87532; D-72; C-962. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts. Always bid a six-card suit rather than let partner stay in one notrump. Your hand should take at least three tricks at hearts but may win none at all at notrump.

Wheat market halted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commodity Futures Trading Commission, citing "a major market disturbance," is ordering a halt in trading of March wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade, the commission said Thursday night.

A commission statement said transportation and warehouse shortages have led to "a threatened manipulation or corner in wheat" by a small number of speculative traders.

The commission said it was taking the action — approved 3-0 in a Thursday night vote — under special emergency powers. Spokesman William J. Monahan said such action was "fairly rare."

"The commission took the action because it believes that a major market disturbance — which is preventing the market from accurately reflecting the forces of supply and demand — exists because of significant transportation and warehouse shortages," the statement said.

Grain sale bill offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. James Weaver, D-Ore., said today he will introduce legislation to establish a federal agency to buy and sell grain in world markets and "make the United States the OPEC of grain."

All trading in U.S. grain — which makes up about half the wheat, corn and related crops that move in world markets — is now handled by private exporters.

Major competitors such as Canada and Australia, however, handle exports through boards similar to the one Weaver has unsuccessfully proposed for two years.

OPEC is the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, a cartel of oil-producing nations that largely determines world crude-oil prices.

In a statement prepared for a news conference, Weaver said Congress might be more receptive to such a board now because of increasingly higher prices for OPEC oil.

Nine years ago, he said, "Oil and wheat brought the same price in international trade — $1.50 for a bushel of wheat and the same amount for a barrel of oil. It is time we sought 'a bushel for a barrel' once again."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Machinists union members who had threatened to strike United Airlines at midnight tonight are going back to bargaining instead, a federal negotiator says.

The International Association of Machinists promised its first statement on the matter today, but Robert O. Harris of the National Mediation Board said Thursday the union had agreed not to strike the largest U.S. air carrier without further talks.

The union had told United earlier Thursday that a contract tentative agreed to within minutes of another strike deadline last month had been rejected in a national referendum of union members.

And the machinists union said the 18,000 mechanics, ground-crew employees and other workers it represents at the airline would walk off their jobs at 12:01 a.m. EST Saturday.

We believe in practicing what we preach.

You've probably seen or heard our advertising on television or radio. We don't talk very much about cars; instead we talk about our dealership and our people. We also stress service, selection, and fair prices the year around. But most important, we believe in practicing what we preach. That means we want to treat you, the way we want to be treated, when we spend our money. Nothing complicated about it, but it's one of the important reasons why we've been pleasing customers for so many years now. For example, here are some outstanding values that we are now offering:

Gasoline made simple.

SAVE 6¢ PER GALLON

A lot of cars are choosy when it comes to fuel. Hondas are different. All our cars operate without a catalytic converter, so you can take your pick of unleaded or regular gasoline.

Now, how could we make it any simpler than that?

Action in Tall City Relays begins at 2 p.m.

A strong seven team boys field is expected to shoot for the Tall City Relays' team title here today when the finals get underway at 7 p.m. at Memorial Stadium.

The meet was expected to get underway at 2 p.m. today with finals in all field events. This afternoon's action is expected to conclude at 6 p.m. Running preliminaries were set for only five events in three divisions. Tonight's finals will be run under the lights in all events.

Odessa Permian, Odessa High, Amarillo Palo Duro, Amarillo Tascosa and San Angelo will provide the competition for the local squads of Midland High and Midland Lee in the boys varsity division.

The girls division features both local schools going against the Odessa teams of Odessa High, Permian and Ector.

The special junior varsity division will be the same as the boys varsity division with the exception of Permian.

Hogs face ISU, Bird next

By BERT ROSENTHAL AP Sports Writer

In a word, it was the Bird. Larry Bird, Indiana State's high-flying All-American, carried the soaring Sycamores into the championship game of the NCAA Midwest Regional tournament Thursday night at Cincinnati.

Bird, college basketball's Player of the Year, wowed a record Ohio crowd of 17,252 at Riverfront Coliseum with his magnificent all-around skills, leading the unbeaten and top-ranked Sycamores to their 31st victory of the season, a 93-72 rout of No. 16 Oklahoma.

"He is one heck of a player," marveled Oklahoma Coach Dave Bliss. "You can't judge him unless you play against him or see him in person."

Bliss came, he saw and he was convinced.

The Birdman of Indiana State destroyed the Sooners with a characteristic performance — 29 points, 15 rebounds and five assists.

THE SYCAMORES will go for victory No. 32 Saturday against fifth-ranked Arkansas in the Midwest regional championship game.

The Razorbacks beat 13th-rated Louisville 73-62 in the opening semifinal game of the Midwest Regional at Cincinnati.

The West Regional semifinals also were completed Thursday night as second-ranked UCLA and No. 6 DePaul advanced to Saturday's final at Provo, Utah.

UCLA used a devastating 58-point second-half in crushing No. 12 San Francisco 99-81 and DePaul defeated No. 10 Marquette 62-56.

Semifinal games will be played tonight in the other two regionals.

In the East Regional at Greensboro, N.C., No. 8 Syracuse, 26-3, faces No. 14 Penn, 23-5, and 17th-ranked St. John's, 20-10, meets 18th-rated Rutgers, 23-8.

And in the Midwest Regional at Indianapolis, it will be No. 19 Toledo, 22-7, against fourth-ranked Notre Dame, 23-5, and seventh-rated Louisiana State, 23-5, vs. No. 3 Michigan State, 22-6.

The regional winners will advance to the national semifinals at Salt Lake City next weekend.

"THEY (INDIANA State) are a good basketball team, but he (Bird) makes them a very good basketball team," said Bliss after watching helplessly as the omnipresent Bird swooped all over and around the defenseless Sooners.

Bird's six points keyed a 13-4 burst near the end of the first half that put Indiana State in command 45-37 at intermission.

Despite his impressive show, Bird underscored Indiana State's team approach.

"I just try to play a team game," he emphasized.

Carl Nicks added 20 points for Indiana State, while Ray Whitley topped Oklahoma, 21-10, with 24 points.

All-American Sidney Moncrief guided Arkansas to its 14th consecutive victory and 25th triumph in 29 games this season. Moncrief collected 27 points, including seven when the Razorbacks broke open the game with an 11-2 burst in a three-minute span of the second half for a 66-58 lead.

Just prior to that surge, the onrushing Cardinals appeared to have the momentum. They had overcome a 51-34 deficit and forged ahead 56-55.

"Those six or seven minutes in the second half seemed like an eternity to me," said a relieved Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton. "All of a sudden they got momentum and played like champions."

But then Moncrief and his teammates regained their poise, and it was they who played like champions — and made Louisville, 24-8, "ex-champions."

U.S. Reed added 18 points for Arkansas, while freshman center Scooter McCray was high for Louisville with 14.

GUARDS RAY Hamilton and Brad Holland triggered UCLA's high-scoring second half that carried the racehorse Bruins past San Francisco.

UCLA trailed 51-45 before outscoring the Dons 15-1 and surging comfortably in front 60-52. Hamilton finished with a career-high 36 points and Holland scored 22. All-American David Greenwood added 19 points for the determined Bruins, 25-4, who are trying to win their first NCAA title since legendary Coach John Wooden retired after the 1974-75 season.

Gary Cunningham, UCLA's current coach, said the second half "was probably our best of the season. Our defense was excellent, especially in the second half."

All-American Bill Cartwright's 34 points paced San Francisco, 22-7.

DePaul, 24-5, rallied from a 48-40 second-half deficit and overtook Marquette, 22-7, on Curtis Watkins' field goal and seven clutch free throws in the final 1 1/2 minutes.

Watkins' basket, on a long jump shot, put the Blue Demons ahead for good 55-54, then Marquette started fouling in desperation and DePaul converted its opportunities from the free throw line.

Ray Meyer, DePaul's coach for the past 37 years, said he would be satisfied with just one more victory.

"It would be the biggest thrill of my life to get into the final four (the national semifinals)," he said.

Watkins and freshman Mark Aguirre scored 19 points apiece for DePaul. Bernard Toone led Marquette with 26.

Tide rallies to wash away Aggies, 72-68 Roth takes slim lead

By BERT ROSENTHAL AP Sports Writer

What we worry? Not Alabama's basketball team. The cold-shooting Crimson Tide fell behind Texas A&M 23-6 in the first 12 minutes of their National Invitation Tournament quarter-final game Thursday night at the Houston Summit. And they trailed 36-30 at half-time.

But were they worried? No way. "We felt good at the half because we knew we could come back," said Alabama's Reggie King, the Southeastern Conference Player of the Year.

And come back they did. After their slow start, the Tide got rolling and beat the Aggies 72-68, earning a berth in Monday night's NIT semifinals at New York's Madison Square Garden.

Unranked Alabama, 21-10, the only representative not from the Big Ten Conference remaining in the tournament, will face 15th-ranked Purdue, 26-7, a 67-59 winner over Old Dominion Thursday night at West Lafayette, Ind.

The other semifinal will match Ohio State, 19-10, against Indiana, 20-12, in a battle of unranked teams.

"We've had to come from behind a lot this season," said Ken Johnson, Alabama's scoring leader with 20 points. "We just kept on executing what we had been doing and the shots started falling."

THEY STARTED falling so well that Alabama went ahead by eight points in the second half. But Texas A&M battled back and tied the score 60-60 with less than four minutes to play.

Then King drilled in a baseline jump shot and freshman Eddie Phillips made a slam dunk and was deliberately fouled. Phillips converted two fouls shots, completing a four-point play, and Alabama was safely ahead.

King finished with 18 points and Phillips had 17 as Alabama put an unexpected end to Texas A&M's season.

"I'm sad," said Rudy Woods, the Aggies' freshman center who scored 22 points. "The season wasn't supposed to end tonight. It was supposed to continue in New York Monday night."

It will continue for Purdue. The Boilermakers, behind the 30-point scoring of 7-foot-11 junior center Joe Barry Carroll, led virtually all the way in eliminating Old Dominion, 23-7.

Carroll scored seven points when Purdue ran off nine in a row in the first half and went ahead to stay 18-13.

"Carroll was the difference," conceded Old Dominion Coach Paul Webb.

"He was outstanding," said Purdue

Zachry's homer paces Purple Pack

By RICHARD VINCENT Sports Writer

Thursday afternoon was cold, damp and windy. It was the kind of day on which you wouldn't send out a dog, much less think about baseball.

But at the Memorial Stadium field, baseball was the subject and Midland High sneaked away with a 4-3 victory over the Brownfield Cubs when Jimmy Zachry belted a two run homer with two out in the bottom of the seventh.

The triumph, which leaves Midland 6-3, should give the Bulldogs valuable momentum heading into Tuesday's district opener at Permian. Brownfield toppled to 2-4 with the setback.

"Considering the weather and everything, I thought we played real well," said smiling Bulldog coach Larry Peel. "It was a good game for us because everybody on the team contributed. And I think it helped our team morale to come back and win."

Peel opened with Zachry on the mound and surrounded the all-purpose senior with six players that don't usually start.

Still, the Bulldogs managed a 1-0 lead in the third after Darrin Matlock doubled to the right centerfield fence and scored two batters later when Tracy Gann reached base because of a bad throw by Cub third sacker Jim Smith.

Zachry moved to shortstop after three frames of work. Peel said he wanted to keep the hard-hitting pitcher fresh for district play. Young Mark Hewitt came on for the Purple Pack and, although the Cubs tagged him for three hits and three runs in his first inning of duty, the sophomore right hander earned his second victory of the year against one loss by holding the visitors hitless in the last three stanzas.

Brownfield tallied their three runs with a clutch double from Ricky Romero and key singles by Raul Romero and Billy House.

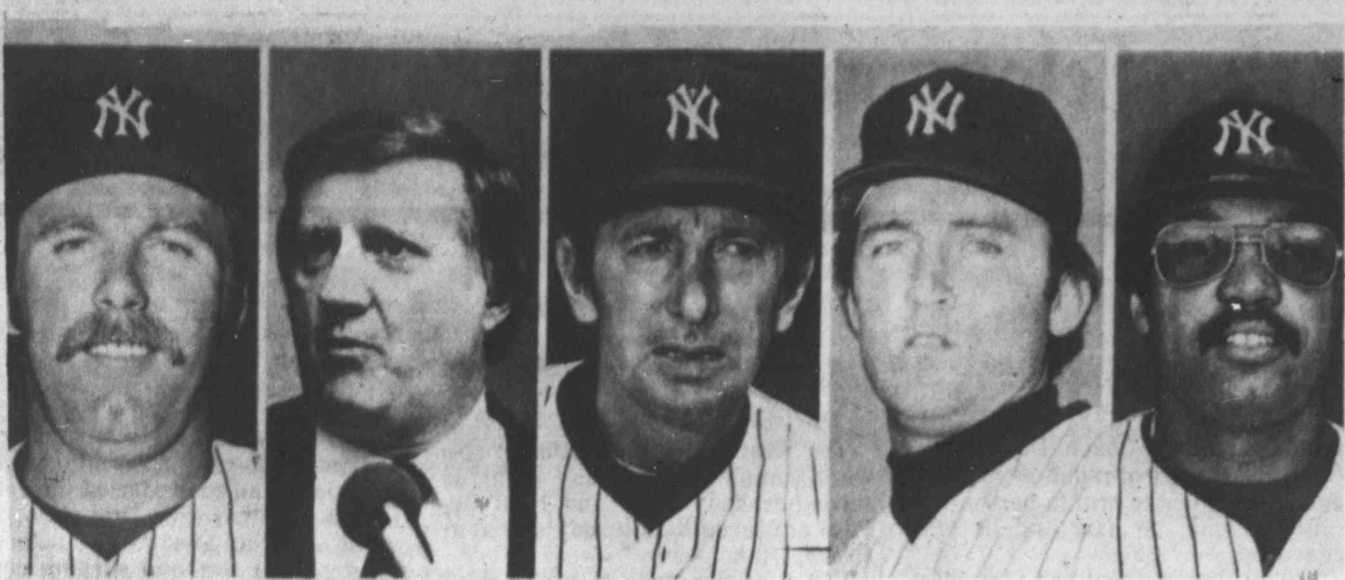

Hewitt, however, got stronger as he went along, and, by the seventh inning, had the Cubs completely handcuffed at the plate.

Meanwhile, the sputtering Bulldog offense, which collected only five hits in the fray, was trying to untrack.

Midland, which stranded seven runners in the game, picked up one run in the fifth to make the score 3-2.

Yankees take Lyle's expose with 'So what?' shoulder shrug

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer
FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Toughened by their share of past controversies, the New York Yankees today shrugged off ex-teammate Sparky Lyle's literary attack with a collective "So what?"

But owner George Steinbrenner, seemingly more angered by Lyle's offensive than any of his players, called the pitcher "stupid" and classified some of his charges as "garbage."

In his new book, "The Bronx Zoo," Lyle wrote that Steinbrenner's close scrutiny of his ballclub bordered on meddling and was bad for the team.

THE PITCHER also said that third baseman Graig Nettles once committed an intentional error in an exhibition game against the New York Mets, hoping to prevent the contest from going into extra innings. The play backfired, Lyle said, when the Mets were unable to score even with Nettles' error.

"I don't mind what he said about me," snapped Steinbrenner. "I've been attacked by better than him. But I was especially disturbed about what he wrote about Graig Nettles. I'm not one of his (Nettles') favorite people and he's not one of mine. That's no secret. But what Lyle said about Nettles is garbage. Nettles always gives 110 percent. If he had to pick a player to attack that way, he picked the wrong guy."

"That shows Sparky's intelligence level," Steinbrenner continued. "Everybody says he's a buffoon. He's not a buffoon. He's one of the least intelligent athletes I ever met."

Lyle said published accounts of the Nettles' incident were unfair and taken out of context. "It was like giving the punch line but not the joke," the ex-Yankee pitcher said at the Pompano Beach training base of his new team, the Texas Rangers. Lyle, however, defended and confirmed other passages from the book that attacked Steinbrenner and other Yankees.

NETTLES DENIED the deliberate error story, but said the book would not change his relationship with Lyle.

"He knows ... everybody knows I wouldn't do that," said the slick-fielding third baseman. "I never made an error on purpose in my life. I talked to Sparky about it. He's my friend. I think what he wrote was not malicious, but it did not come out right in the paper. Knowing Sparky, he was joking and it came out wrong. Now I'll make him pay for dinner tonight."

Reggie Jackson, another Lyle target in the book, also shrugged off the matter.

"The only time I get concerned about somebody popping off like that is if he pays my checks," the slugger said. "If Standard Brands (manufacturers of the Reggie candy bar), George Steinbrenner or (ABC Television executive) Roone Arledge says, 'You're a jerk,' I'd be concerned. But Sparky? Nah."

Then Jackson offered a poem.

"Smaller minds have nothing else to do. I don't care what they say. Do you?"

Yanks finally win one

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer
Apparently there was nothing wrong with the New York Yankees that a little controversy couldn't cure.

Things had been entirely too peaceful in the spring training camp of baseball's world champions and the lethargic Yankees had dropped their first seven exhibition games against major league opposition.

But buoyed by published comments from ex-teammate Sparky Lyle's forthcoming book "The Bronx Zoo," the Yankees turned on the Atlanta Braves Thursday night and blanked them 4-0 behind the seven-hit pitching of Ed Figueroa, Dick Tidrow and Paul Mirabella.

And just when it appeared that the Yankees might not win a game until October, they got run-scoring singles from Thurman Munson and Nettles in the third inning and added two more runs in the fourth on Bruce Robinson's RBI single and Roy White's triple.

"I guess we're gonna be having a party tonight," joked Manager Bob Lemon. "I feel like we could be splitting up shares."

Meanwhile, the interleague trading deadline passed almost without fanfare. The Boston Red Sox sent first baseman-outfielder Mike Easler to the Pittsburgh Pirates for two minor leaguers and cash and then acquired Jim Dwyer, also an outfielder-first baseman, from the San Francisco Giants for a player to be named later.

In other developments, American League President Lee MacPhail was to meet today with the head of the Major League Umpires Association in an effort to resolve the dispute that has kept the regular umps away from the exhibition games.

NFL owners exonerate Stabler in drug case

HONOLULU (AP) — Oakland quarterback Ken Stabler was exonerated by National Football League owners of any implications in a controversial drug case in his hometown but also was the reason for a new playing rule voted in at the annual NFL meeting.

The owners today go into further issues of player safety and looking at the experiment of using television instant replays to aid officials.

It had been implied that Stabler was involved in an incident in which Sacramento Bee reporter Bob Padecky was arrested, then almost immediately released, in what authorities said was a drug frame-up.

Padecky said he was summoned to Stabler's hometown of Gulf Shores, Ala., by the Raider quarterback for an interview.

ceiving team from blocking opponents below the waist during free kicks and kicks from scrimmage. This would include punts, kickoffs and field goal attempts.

—Stipulating mandatory equipment for all players when they participate in any game. Heretofore the only mandatory equipment was helmet and socks.

—Extending the zone in which there can be no crackback blocks from three yards on either side of the line of scrimmage to five yards on either side of the line in order to provide a greater measure of protection.

—Stating a team whose player is injured as a result of a personal foul committed during the last two minutes of a half will no longer be charged with a timeout if the player is disabled after the penalty has been assessed. Tex Schramm of the Competitions Committee said the situation had occurred several times in the past including the last Dallas-Atlanta playoff game.

Lee buries Carlsbad, 22-1, in Hobbs tourney

HOBBS, N.M. — It was strictly no contest.

Midland Lee exploded for 14 runs in the top of the fifth inning and went on to destroy the Carlsbad, N.M. Cavemen, 22-1, in the opening round of the Hobbs Invitational Baseball Tournament Thursday afternoon.

Ace righthander Terry Willis scattered four hits in the five-inning contest while his teammates were pounding three Carlsbad pitchers for 14 hits.

The victory moves Lee against Lubbock Coronado at 4:15 p.m. today in the semifinals. Coronado defeated El Paso Coronado, 10-2 earlier in the day.

Wade Cartwright, Tyler Alcorn, Tom Morrison and John White had two hits each as Lee was winning its ninth game of the year against four losses. White knocked in five runs and Morrison had four runs-batted-in for Coach Ernie Johnson's crew.

White powered a grand-slam during the big 14-run outburst and it was a dandy since the wind was blowing in at the time.

Willis picked up his fourth mound victory against no losses and added a double to the potent Lee attack. Steve Pitts and Cartwright also had two-baggers as the Rebels pounded the ball well. Pitts chipped in with two RBIs for the Tall City team.

Lee scored one run in the top of the first inning and added three in the second and four in the third before Carlsbad finally scratched. Lee committed three errors during the game which was called due to the 10-run rule.

Clay Calhoun, who has been plagued with a shoulder injury this spring, suffered a broken nose when hit by a pitch in his second trip to the plate.

Injuries have been a big problem for Lee, causing the Rebels to go with just about a different lineup in every game to date.

Alan Koonce, sophomore righthander who is 2-1 on the year is scheduled to face Coronado's Mustangs in today's semifinals. Lee has already beaten Coronado two out of three times this season and it's ace, Gene Segrest is set to face the Rebels. Segrest struck out 10 Rebels two weeks ago when Lee pulled out a 3-2 victory in the seventh inning.

Score by innings:

Midland Lee	134	8(10)	—22	14	3
Carlsbad	889	18	—1	4	3

Russia's Kovalev wins men's title

VIENNA (AP) — If dazzling jumps, loops and spins were all that mattered in figure skating, Robin Cousins of Britain would be the new world champion today and America's Charlie Tickner his runner-up.

They topped the free skating and had a crowd of 7,000 cheering wildly in Vienna's Stadthalle Thursday night. But Vladimir Kovalev of the Soviet Union won the title because he had built up a big lead on his compulsory figures and short program earlier in the competition.

"I guess it's more difficult to defend a title than to win it," said Tickner, 25, of Littleton, Colo., who was world champion last year but finished fourth this time.

Cousins finished second behind Kovalev, and Jan Hoffmann of East Germany was third.

Zachry's homer

David Brigham reached on an error, advanced to second on a passed ball, made third on Mike Feldt's single and tagged up and scored on Zachry's sacrifice fly.

In the sixth, the Bulldogs almost tied it up. Paul Cox walked and then swiped second and third. But Cub hurler Jimmy Martinez, making his first start of the season, knuckled down and retired the side.

Things didn't go so smoothly for Martinez, 0-1 with the defeat, in the seventh, although for a while, it looked very gloomy for the Bulldogs.

Brigham began the seventh with a two-bagger that went through the legs of second baseman Mike Lawson. Martinez got the next two batters before throwing the wrong pitch to Zachry, who jumped all over the fast-ball for his third circuit clout and 20th run batted in of the young season.

Score by innings:

Tickner suffered a bad slip at the start of his short program Wednesday when he fell attempting a triple jump. It cost him vital points, and he had too big a gap to make up as he went after Kovalev in the free skating Thursday night.

COUSINS, 21, is the man British fans see as the successor to Olympic gold medalist John Curry. He is called the best free skater in the world, but his slow start in the compulsories pulled him back once more. He has never won a major title.

But Cousins' free skating was breathtaking. At the end of it, with the whole crowd standing, he won seven scores of 5.9 out of 6.0 from the nine judges for technique, and eight scores of 5.9 for artistic presentation.

Tickner was not far behind. He got seven marks of 5.8 for technique and three of 5.9 and five of 5.8 for artistic.

But this was how the free skating scoring compared with the overall result:

Free skating — Cousins 9 ordinals and 105.90 points, Tickner 22 and 104.40, Hoffmann 30 and 103.10, Kovalev 37 and 102.20.

OVERALL PLACINGS — Kovalev 17 and 185.80, Cousins 22 and 185.18, Hoffmann 23 and 185.10, Tickner 28 and 184.28.

Although the compulsories cost him a world title, Cousins doesn't believe they should be dropped from the competition.

"Some people have suggested that the compulsories should be taken out of the championships," he said. "If you did that, I really think the overall standard of the skating would go down."

The United States already has won one world title here — the pairs, won in spectacular style by Tai Babilonia and Randy Gardner of Los Angeles Wednesday.

Linda Fratianne of Northridge, Calif., the United States' best bet for the women's title, was third after the compulsory figures Thursday.

Short Man deals in Big Pitch

The Los Angeles Times

Usually, when you talk about a "short man" in baseball, you mean an infielder named "PeeWee" or "Wee Willie" or "Rabbit" or "Mouse."

The California Angels' "short man" is 6-2. He weighs 195, and no one ever called Dave La Roche "Shorty" in his life. "Short" in baseball also stands for the amount of time a relief pitcher stands on the mound. Ideally, that's one batter. At worst, one inning. At very worst, one turn through the lineup.

A "short man" in baseball usually deals in one big pitch and he has to come in there and bust it over the plate against a guy who knows it's coming, but isn't sure where.

A starting pitcher can finesse a lineup. He can experiment. He can nibble. He has nine innings, and empty base pads to deal with. A starting pitcher can start out like a heavyweight feeling out an opponent in the early rounds of a title fight. He can afford to walk a man here, get another man to bite at a bad pitch there, try to get him to hit the ball in the air or on the ground.

A short man may come in there and, every place he looks is an enemy. He's like a guy cutting barbed wire in a bombardment. There's usually no place to put the guy at bat — except in tomorrow's headlines. He may not even have the luxury of a fly out. He's looking at a full house, and his chips are low. Even if the hitter makes "out," as they say in baseball, it can mean the game. He has to strike him out or pop him up.

IT'S BECOME so important an art that they've devised a new entry in the scorebook for it, a "save." Napoleon Lajoie or Muggsy McGraw would have no idea what they were talking about. In the old days of baseball, a guy who didn't finish what he started on the mound was considered a sissy. A starting pitcher almost had to be wrestled for the ball and off the mound. He broke every bulb in the dugout when he got there or took a bat to the lockers in his rage. Today, a starter starts looking around for his relief if two men get on in the eighth inning. He'll run out to hand him the ball halfway. A save almost always means a win for the starting pitcher.

Relief pitchers, unlike other stars, are made not born. Dave La Roche didn't even set out to be a pitcher — period. He thought he was going to be Mickey Mantle. Mickey Mouse was more like it.

La Roche became a pitcher in Davenport, Iowa, after signing for a $6,500 bonus as an outfielder with the Angels. "How did they know I was a pitcher? I hit like one," he explains. He had 151 strikeouts in his career at Quad Cities in the deep minors — 80 as a pitcher — and 71 as a hitter.

THE STAFF at Quad Cities sprung a leak of sore arms in 1968, and the manager began calling La Roche in from the outfield mainly as a mop-up pitcher. He noticed his mop-up pitcher was getting more guys out than his sore-arm starters, and La Roche's chase of Mickey Mantle ended. Five hundred and 36 homers short. Mickey had 536, Dave had none.

Dave La Roche became a pretty good relief pitcher for the Angels by 1970-71. But, that was like being the best dancer in Latvia. If there's one thing a "short man" needs, it's a winning team. You can't save a game that you enter trailing 9-1. You record a save if you (1) pitch the last three innings effectively (2) pitch one full inning with a lead of three runs or less (3) enter a game with the winning or tying run on deck.

A starter measures his career in games, a short man in innings. Dave La Roche appeared in only 59 games last year, and 96 innings. Which means he never threw a pitch which might be likened to a lag putt in golf. The franchise was on the line every time Dave let go of the ball.

The designated hitter has all but done away with

Ken Norton uses computer to prepare

HEMET, Calif. (AP) — Former World Boxing Council heavyweight champion Ken Norton, preparing for his March 23 title elimination bout against Earnie Shavers, is busy programming his "computer."

"When I'm doing roadwork in the early hours, I imagine myself in different situations during the fight," said Norton. "I try to imbued reactions to many situations in my subconscious. What will I do if I hurt him with a left hook? What will I do if I get hurt? What will I do if I get knocked down?"

Midland, Lee mermen at state

Midland High and Midland Lee aren't going to be threats for the team title at the state AAAA swimming and diving championships, which start today and continue through Saturday at the University of Texas in Austin.

But the Bulldogs and Rebels should be competitive in several events.

Lee coach David Whytlaw will have his boys 400 yard freestyle relay team, second at the Region 1 Meet with a 3:24.04 clocking. Also along for the Rebels will be versatile Carey Carrens, who won the regional 100 breaststroke with a record time of 1:02.29 and was second in the 200 individual medley in 2:02.68.

Representing coach Jessie Marsh's Midland High squad will be talented one meter divers Ricky Morton, first at regional with 402 points, and runner-up Mark Krauss, and Clay Spears, who won the region 200 freestyle in 1:48.73.

Neither school qualified any girl swimmers for the meet.

WT Enduro race is scheduled

The annual West Texas 100 Enduro event, sponsored by the Permian Basin Motorcycle Association Dirt Riders, will be held at McElroy Ranch Sunday.

Men's A and B riders will compete over an estimated 100 miles of roadless West Texas terrain non-stop while men's C, women and riders under-16 will compete over a 40-mile course. For information contact Mike Swinney (337-2034) or report to the riders' meeting at 7 a.m. Sunday at the McElroy Ranch, 20 miles south of Odessa.

TFA-USA run set Saturday

ODESSA—The TFA-USA national one-hour run championships will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday at Odessa High School with competition scheduled in the open, 30-39, 40-49, 50-and-over and women's divisions. Entry fee is $2. Participants are advised to bring someone to record their laps during the one-hour competition.

the "long man" or middle relief in baseball.

BUT ONE other thing a short man needs for recognition — a win, or a tie, of the pennant. Last year Dave La Roche tied New York's Rich Gossage for the American League Fireman of the Year award, the relief pitchers' Oscar. Both had 25 certified saves in the regulation 162-game season. But because the Yankees tied the Red Sox, Gossage got one other save in the playoff game against Boston, which counts as a regular-season game.

Anyone from Napoleon to Mickey Rooney can tell you a short man has to be good to get noticed. Coming in with the bases loaded in the ninth in the World Series, and getting the side out, for example, Grover Cleveland Alexander didn't know it at the time, but he was probably the first short man in history, and the patron saint of the art, when he came in to strike out Tony Lazzari with the bases loaded in the seventh inning of the seventh game of the 1926 World Series. That is still the most famous save in history, even though Alex was technically a starter in that Series. Alex is the nearest thing to a relief pitcher in the Hall of Fame.

La Roche would like to be the first pure short man to have a shot at it. First, though, the Angels need a lot of three-run leads going into the ninth inning. If they do, La Roche promises, they'll have no trouble with prime time — World Series and playoffs. Their short man will see to that.

Jacobs paces Gamecock win

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Cynthia Jacobs scored 15 points and grabbed 17 rebounds to pace top-seeded South Carolina to a 62-51 college basketball victory over California in first round action of the 11th annual National Women's Invitational Tournament.

In their first round games, Drake routed Utah, 88-67; Northern Kentucky upset Mississippi College, 78-72, and Oregon beat Minnesota, 85-74.

Jennifer Lyons had 20 points and Jan Vincent added 18 for the Kentucky squad.

Drake's Sharon Upshaw scored 34 points and grabbed 18 rebounds to offset a 28-point offensive-outburst by Lori Parish of Utah.

Bev Smith had 29 points and 12 rebounds to lead Oregon to the victory over Minnesota.

Safety pin does job

By JON CHASE

It's been almost 20 years since I saw my first "safety pin" lure.

I was fishing on Lake-O-The-Pines with an old buddy from Lufkin. It was mid-March, and we had been thrashing the shallows with everything in the tackle box. Our efforts had produced two yearling bass in over four hours of fishing. It was at this point that my compadre, Rufus Crane, pulled out a lure that looked like an open safety pin with a hook on one end and a spinner on the other. Rufus said that the crazy looking thing had been recommended to him by Dave Hawk, a well known bass guide. The lure had cost Rufus a grand total of 15 cents at a local minnow emporium, and had been dubbed, "Piggy Boat," by its creator.

That was my first contact with the safety pin, or as it is better known, spinner bait. I now have dozens of these lures in my tackle box and they have put many a bass on the string-er.

Since the spinner bait came into existence years ago, there have been hundreds of different types placed on the market. The first models were the "Piggy Boat" and the H and H Spinner. Since then, some wild looking critters have appeared — the Tarantula, Bush Whacker, Gooney Loon and a creation of my own that I refer to as the Booger Nasty. The Booger Nasty is one of a kind, so don't try to buy one at your favorite tackle store.

SPINNER BAIT has now become a staple in most tackle boxes, and along with the plastic worm, is one of the most important lure innovations to ever come along.

This is the time of year when spinner bait is most effective. It is a killer on shallow water bass and can be worked near the surface on a fast retrieve, or at a tantalizingly slow pace. Spinner baits are almost weed-less and can be worked in heavy brush with few hangups. I prefer to use bait with copper blades in dingy water and I go to a silver blade in clear water. The murkier the water, the bigger the blade is a rule of thumb with me.

For the novice, the spinner bait is the number one fish getter because it requires no special skill to produce a fish getting action. If the conditions are anywhere near favorable, this is the lure for youngsters and all beginning fishermen. That's the name of the game and spinner baits fill the bill.

A new world record largemouth bass has been recorded. The record is for women and was caught January 18 by 28-year-old Vicki Parker of Panama, Fla. Vicki started fishing last March, and caught her fish out of Florida's Lake Tohopekaliga. Her fish weighed a whopping 14 pounds, five ounces and fell to a plastic worm. No fluke was this fish because her stringer of ten bass weighed 63 pounds, two ounces including her world record.

PARKER'S HUSBAND, Donnie, managed to string 10 fish that weighed 50 pounds, 12 ounces. All of this took place on the couple's first trip to Lake Tohopekaliga. They had no guide and were advised by the local experts that conditions were poor for worm fishing.

Local lakes are starting to turn on with some excellent catches being reported. Last week, Charlie Cantos of Odessa and his wife Jane caught 78 channel cat to six pounds on Lake Spence. They baited with cut shad on a trotline placed in the Colorado River channel.

Ben Gault of Pecos and Don Simpson caught a limit of bass on Armatist, fishing spinner baits in three feet of water. Their largest fish weighed three pounds. T. L. Moore of Midland caught 12 channel cat to 8 1/2 pounds on Colorado City Lake. He was rod and reel fishing with shrimp. Duane Adams of Big Spring landed a seven pound, two ounce bass on Lake Thomas. He was minnow fishing for crappie when the big one hit. And last but not least, a report from Pecos has it that a 210 pound alligator Gar was caught on a throwline in the Rio Grande River by a couple of Pecos fishermen.

"It's a mental thing out here on the tour. It's easy to get down on yourself. And if you do, instead of going from shot to shot, you go from crises to crises. Who can you turn to? You have to keep reaching down within your-

MC's Mayfield lands berth on all-Region V

Cullen Mayfield, Midland College sophomore guard, has been named to the National Junior College Athletic Association's Region V All-Region first team and the Western Junior College Athletic Conference's first team.

The 5-10 playmaker from Dallas South Oak Cliff was named to the all-conference honorable mention last year and in 1977 he led SOC to the AAAA state championship, earning all-district, all-region, all-state tournament, High School All-America and Texas Player-of-the-Year honors in the process.

MC's Luis Alvarado, sophomore from El Paso High, and Tim Shelby, freshman from Dallas South Oak Cliff, were picked on all-WJCC honorable mention.

New Mexico Military Institute's 6-5 Lewis Lloyd, averaging 31 points and 12 rebounds a game, was picked as the WJCC's Player-of-the-Year. Others picked on the WJCC all-star team were Rod Camp, NMJC; Billy Ray Ennis, Odessa College, and Victor Mitchell, Amarillo College.

The second team included Paul Pressey and Greg Stewart, Western Texas College; Robbie

Einstein an absent-minded professor

SEATTLE (AP) — Famed mathematician and theorist Albert Einstein was almost the perfect model of the lovable, absent-minded professor, says his cousin, Dr. Norbert Einstein, 84, an international economist.

"Although he was in a class with Galileo and Newton and other great thinkers of the universe, he was not in contact with the world in which he lived," Einstein said of his renowned relative.

"He lived out there in the universe. He would have made a fine president of the universe, but not of something here on Earth."

Wednesday was the 100th anniversary of the birth of Albert Einstein, who Norbert called "childlike in every field but his own."

When Albert Einstein was to be made an honorary fellow of a physics society in Berlin, his wife, Elsa, asked Norbert to take him to the ceremony.

"He came into the room in a tacky tuxedo and a dirty shirt," Norbert recalled. "Elsa sent him back to the bedroom to put on a clean shirt. We became worried when he did not reappear. "So, we went into the bedroom. He was propped up in bed, undressed, reading Spinoza. He had totally forgotten about the ceremony." Einstein generally scorned small talk, but made an exception of an 8-year-old neighbor girl.

WINGS ON TV

Paul McCartney and Wings will be featured in a 90-minute special, "Wings Over the World" airing Friday, March 16, on CBS. The documentary style program incorporates concert footage of Wings as well as profiling Paul McCartney's life since he left the Beatles.

The broadcast's performance footage is taken from Wings' comprehensive world tour of 1978. Excepting news coverage at that time, the Wings tour material has not been previously aired.

(Stations reserve the right to make last-minute changes.)

Inexpensive burials possible with new cardboard coffins

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — Maverick mortician Ken Timlick, who says he's been searching 20 years for ways to cut funeral costs, is offering burials for as low as $150. Part of his formula is a $6 cardboard coffin.

The coffin is made by MacMillan Bloedel Ltd., a locally-based wood products company which produces cardboard boxes for $3 each. Timlick's wife, Jean, sews pillows and linings for the boxes, using a satin-like fabric, for another $3.

"Those are all my costs for labor and materials," said Timlick, 54. "It's clearly a triumph. It is a $6 coffin."

Since some people might object to being encased in a cardboard box, Timlick came up with a solution. Last year, he acquired the Canadian franchise of a Florida company that markets catafalques.

A catafalque is a fancy "bottomless coffin," sort of a reusable shell which is placed over the coffin. The bereaved family buys only the cardboard coffin and rents the catafalque.

Timlick said the catafalque, which resembles some of the more expensive coffins priced at $1,500 or more, stays in place through viewings, processions and services but is removed after the ceremony.

The B.C. Funeral Service Association is unhappy about Timlick's new system. Brian Winther, association vice-president and head of the ethics committee, said the catafalque is deception.

"It doesn't make sense for a person to fool all his friends into thinking he has spent a wad on mother," he said. "It's like renting a limo for the night and trying to pretend that you own it."

Executive director Brian Fondrick said the association maintains that anything that goes to the cemetery should stay there.

"I don't know if a cardboard box reflects an appropriate degree of success for a life that has been lived," Timlick disagrees. "Those lily-white puritans are afraid of losing sales of their high priced units."

In the last four months, he said, the catafalques have been used about 100 times in five funeral parlors, four in British Columbia and one in Winnipeg. One Vancouver funeral director said they constitute nearly one-third of his business.

Catafalque renters in British Columbia have been able to cut the average $1,000 cost of a funeral by almost half, Timlick says, and he maintains he can further undercut funeral costs. He has just opened his own funeral parlor to prove it. Using the cardboard coffin and the catafalque, he said, he can offer a full funeral for as little as $150.

Texan loses bid on conviction

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A Longview, Texas, man lost his bid Thursday to have his first-degree murder conviction overturned by the Arizona Supreme Court.

In an unanimous decision, the court said that Billy Gates, 19, entered his guilty plea voluntarily.

Chevron asks permit

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Chevron U.S.A., Inc., has asked the railroad commission for permission to conduct a surface mining operation for uranium ore in Karnes and Gonzales counties.

The proposed operation would be located 6 1/2 miles east of Gillette and 3 1/2 miles north of Texas 119.

Chevron has proposed mining approximately 186,000 tons of uranium ore each year, starting in 1980, from a 191-acre tract within an operation area of 2,592 acres.

Plan will hurt Texas says council

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Energy Advisory Council says the state will be on the losing end if the Carter administration's standby gas rationing plan is adopted.

Milton Holloway, the council's executive director, said Thursday that Texans would have to spend $116.4 million a month to purchase sufficient gas coupons from states that have extra ones.

The estimate was made by the U.S. Department of Energy, he said.

The council adopted a resolution Thursday opposing the proposed rationing plan, which is based on a national average.

It said any rationing plan should take state-by-state driving patterns into account.

The resolution said under the administration plan certain groups would "bear a disproportionate share of the burden of shortages."

The plan "would result in massive income transfers from the lower income, more rural areas of the South (including Texas) to the high income areas of the Northeast and the West Coast."

The council stressed the "production oriented" energy policy favored by top Texas officials should be adopted before the federal government puts any gas rationing plan into effect.

The council said it recognized energy shortages put the nation in a vulnerable position, but removal of regulatory barriers would be the most sensible solution.

Operator has completed testing the Wolfcamp but has not filed the potential test.

Nigeria could trigger higher gasoline prices

By MARK POTTS

If Nigeria acts on its announced desire to raise crude oil prices by 17 percent on April 1 it could trigger similar action by other oil producers and increase U.S. gasoline prices an additional three cents, analysts say.

The African nation's statement Thursday came as a survey by the Lundberg Letter, an oil industry publication, reported that gasoline prices at full-service stations rose about 2 cents a gallon nationwide since February. That is nearly twice the rise

ENERGY OIL & GAS

Chicago, for example, increased from 82.19 cents to 84.36 cents.

The Lundberg Letter attributed the rise to the Iranian oil production slowdown and the Energy Department's decision earlier this month to let oil companies pass through refining costs on certain gasolines.

Nigeria supplies about 6.1 percent of the 18.7 million barrels of oil used daily by the United States — an import figure exceeded only by Saudi Arabia.

"THE INCREASE would be far larger than the 3.9 percent boost originally scheduled for April 1 by members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. Moreover, it would nearly double price boosts already announced by OPEC nations reacting to tightened supplies caused by Iran's problems.

Analysts said Nigeria's new price by itself might not raise consumer prices, but if other oil producers match the boost, gasoline prices could rise by 3 cents a gallon.

The only other OPEC nation to suggest such a big price rise is Algeria, which is threatening a 25 percent increase.

OPEC had scheduled a total increase of 14.5 percent this year in the basic price of crude oil. The first increase, of 5 percent, raised the price to $13.35 Jan. 1. Other increases were scheduled quarterly.

Speculation abounded that OPEC nations would decide March 26 to set base prices at a level reflecting 9 percent increases announced by most countries recently.

BUT NIGERIA'S warning that it wants to raise the per-barrel price by $2.50 — from $14.80 to $17.30 — no matter what OPEC does, may alter other OPEC members' thinking, analysts said.

"We had figured the African nations would want an increase of about $2 (a barrel)," said one analyst in New York who did not want to be identified. "But it seems that was a little conservative."

Payment promised

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Phillips Petroleum has agreed to pay the state $50,000 in connection with illegal campaign contributions to candidates in five Texas elections, Attorney General Mark White said Thursday.

White said District Judge Charles Mathews signed the agreed judgment and permanently enjoined Phillips "from making any unlawful contribution or expenditure" to any officeholder or political candidate.

When White was secretary of state in October 1975, he investigated the corporate contributions Phillips said it made to Texas political candidates.

The Oklahoma-based company filed a report with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission saying it had donated $85,000 to state and national candidates between 1964 and 1972.

The report named no candidates for state offices in Texas, but it did say Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, received $1,000 and U.S. Rep. Omar Burleson of Anson received $200 in 1972.

Corporate contributions violate federal and Texas' campaign finance laws.

According to the SEC report, the Phillips official responsible for political contributions in Texas said it was his practice to contribute $100 to $200 to a Texas House candidate and $400 to $500 to a Senate candidate.

Meanwhile, a group of Japanese trading companies announced in Tokyo Thursday that the National Iranian Oil Co. agreed to sell them about 500,000 barrels of crude oil a day under a long-term contract. The Japanese didn't say how much they were paying for it.

It was believed to be the first long-term contract signed by the revolutionary regime, which renewed oil exports March 5 after a shutdown since December due to strikes against the Shah.

And Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo. said today that closing five nuclear power plants along the Eastern Seaboard to study their earthquake resistance may have been a rash move since the region "is not exactly an earthquake zone."

open his subcommittee's hearings on the closings, Hearst asked whether higher bills for electricity and imported oil that may result from this from January to February.

A gallon of unleaded gasoline in week's action by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission can be justified. Estimates are that it could take 100,000 barrels of oil a day — or more — to replace the generating capacity lost by closing the plants.

In other energy-related developments Thursday:

Energy Secretary James Schlesinger said major oil companies may be starting to distribute available world oil supplies according to each nation's needs rather than its past import levels. He said there is no evidence of a definite trend, and, if a shift has begun, it is small.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON
Closeness with cat dangerous

Dear Dr. Solomon: My 9-year-old daughter plays with our cat as if it were human. She shares her food with it, and often her bed as well. Is there any danger in such close contact?—Lois

Dear Lois: It seems that cats are not always man's best friend. Dr. Steve Teutsch, a researcher for the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, reports that a parasite common in cats can cause high fever and severe headaches in humans. Furthermore, a correct diagnosis is not easily established.

The toxoplasmosis parasite lives in the gut of cats, and is commonly transmitted to humans who eat pork or lamb from infected animals. It can also be transmitted directly to humans, and is a fairly common disease among cats.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I often read where various business concerns have taken steps to discourage smoking. One even offered a bonus to employees that kicked the habit. It seems to me that alcoholism is as important a health problem as smoking. Is industry doing anything to help employees cut down on their drinking?—Ernie

Dear Ernie: Alcoholism has long been recognized by business and industry as a serious health problem—it is, in fact, the fourth most prevalent disease in the United States today. During the past few years, some businesses have established programs aimed at combating the problem and helping to prevent it by identifying potential alcoholics.

The Department of Health, Education, and Welfare recently reported to Congress that the number of job-related programs on alcoholism have increased five-fold since 1973. Although the programs are expensive, most executives of businesses that sponsor them feel they pay for themselves. Unfortunately, job-related programs are still the exception, rather than the rule.

It has been estimated that 10 million Americans are problem drinkers, and that drinking may be responsible for more than 200,000 deaths a year. From a financial standpoint, problem drinkers cost society about $43 billion in 1975. The figure includes lost production, as well as the cost of accidents and medical expenses.

The risk of death from disease, accident, or violence is between two and six times greater for problem drinkers than for the general public. Mere figures cannot begin to reveal the effects of this insidious ailment on the families of those afflicted. It is clear that much remains to be done, both regarding treatment for alcoholism and in handling the many accompanying problems.

Dear Dr. Solomon: What is meant by symptoms?—Ms. T.M.

Dear Ms. T.M.: Symptoms are ways of telling that a disease or condition is keeping the body from being healthy.

For example, a sneeze is a symptom of a cold.

Graffiti on piano raises controversy

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Pianist Lili Kraus was so moved by a recent concert performance here that she left an inscription inside the city's $15,000 Steinway grand piano. A city official wants the writing removed.

"It is the (Wichita) Symphony's responsibility to clean it off, to get that high-class graffiti off there," said Jim Clancy, director of community facilities.

"If they don't, I personally will take care of it." Dick Thompson, the symphony's general manager, and conductor Michael Palmer believe the gesture is a rare honor and want the inscription preserved.

Ms. Kraus, contacted at her home in Asheville, N.C., Thursday, said she rarely signs pianos.

"Maybe in 50 or 100 concerts, I will do it once," she said. "And then only when I am very happy and the music is wonderful."

She said other artists sometimes sign pianos for the same reason.

When she signed Wichita's Steinway on the piano's sound board, out of view of anyone but the artist and the tuner, "It was from the core of my heart. It has been many years since I have done that," she said.
