Moscow not 'crime-free' as press tries to indicate

MOSCOW (AP) — Muggings, murders, looting, rape, burglaries, grand larceny and — of course — the age-old crime of prostitution.

Like every major city, Moscow has a crime problem. It is less visible than in big American cities, and the Soviet press tries to perpetuate the image that the capital is almost crime-free.

But many Western diplomats and tour groups that run trips here are now urging foreign tourists to start taking more precautions against Moscow street crime, especially since more than 300,000 foreigners, by Russian estimates, will visit here during the 1980 Olympics.

Several months ago, a woman on a U.S. university exchange program here was walking home from the subway stop near Moscow State University late one night. Because of Moscow's reputation as a "safe" city, she felt little fear about traveling without a friend.

Then a middle-aged man attacked her and tried to force her to the ground. She began screaming, and the man fled — but not before he bashed her in the mouth and stole her pocketbook.

"It was a mugging, just like you'd find in New York," she said.

Despite such incidents, crime in Moscow is nowhere as prevalent as in similar-sized cities in the United States, partly because of a strong police presence to look after juvenile delinquents, drunks and other anti-social elements in the population of 7.8 million.

U.S. Chief Justice Warren Burger was told during a trip here that there is one uniformed policeman for every 3,000-4,000 people. And some eight million people around the country are so-called "public order volunteers" who aid police and have powers to arrest.

The traffic cop can be found on almost every Moscow street corner during the day. But, like most big cities, a policeman is hard to find late at night except for the occasional patrol car. There is an emergency police number that Muscovites can telephone for help — 02 — and get a swift response.

The government-controlled Moscow media rarely report crime stories except occasional cases aired to warn citizens away from anti-social behavior. Each article contains the stiff punishment meted out by the courts to the criminal.

But it is the philosophy here that violent crime is an example of the (See MOSCOW, Page 2A)

Only ratification, initialing remain

By The Associated Press

Israel's Cabinet today approved the peace treaty with Egypt, leaving ratification by the Israeli Parliament as the only remaining step before a historic signing ceremony in Washington — as early as next Monday — ending 30 years of conflict between the two nations.

The Parliament debate is scheduled to open Tuesday and the vote may come Wednesday or Thursday. As with the Cabinet, the Parliament's approval is considered a foregone conclusion.

Cabinet Secretary Arieh Naor said the ministers voted 15-2 "to approve the peace treaty between Egypt and Israel, including its annexes."

The Cabinet debated the pact, engineered by President Carter on his Mideast peace mission last week, for five hours before voting. Israel Radio said those casting the negative votes were Agriculture Minister Ariel Sharon and Transport Minister Haim Landau, both of whom have been "hawks" throughout the peace process.

Minor disturbances were reported today in the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River, focus of Palestinian demands that an independent Palestinian state be established.

Slogan-chanting Palestinian youths demonstrated in the towns of Nablus and Kalandia, Israeli military spokesmen reported, and in Hebron high school students burned tires and blocked a road before being scattered by Israeli troops. No injuries were reported.

Autonomy for the Palestinians of the West Bank and Israeli-occupied Gaza Strip will be the most troublesome issue remaining after Egypt and Israel sign their treaty.

Right-wing ministers wanted the Israeli Cabinet, before approving the treaty, to work out its demands for protecting Israeli interests in the negotiations for Palestinian autonomy. As a compromise, the Cabinet established an 11-minister committee to study the issue.

The West Bank Gaza negotiations are to start one month after the treaty is signed.

The Israeli Cabinet session was largely a formality, since each article and clause of the treaty was studied and approved during a half-year of negotiations capped last week by President Carter's Mideast trip.

Israel's Haaretz newspaper predicted the treaty would win 100 votes in the 120-seat Parliament, or Knesset. The date for signing by Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat is not likely to be announced until after the Knesset votes.

Naor said Begin would be accompanied to the signing ceremony in Washington by his senior Cabinet ministers, former Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, Parliament Speaker Yitzhak Shamir and opposition Labor Party leader Shimon Peres.

Deputy Prime Minister Yigael Yadin said after the Cabinet session that "a few bilateral problems" remain to be worked out between Israel and the United States, which is underwriting part of the costs of Israel's withdrawal from the Sinai Peninsula.

Lawmakers watching, waiting for hint of change from Sohio

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Lawmakers as well as many Americans are waiting to see whether Standard Oil Co. of Ohio officials will reconsider their decision last week to withdraw from a Long Beach, Calif. to-Midland pipeline project.

The pipeline was to have carried Alaskan crude oil to Texas Gulf coast destinations for refining.

Meanwhile, U.S. Rep. Kent Hance, D-Lubbock, who represents much of West Texas, including Midland, is "going ahead today" with plans to introduce legislation in Congress this week which would prohibit states and state laws from interfering with the pipeline project, according to a spokesman for his office.

Environmentalists still are lobbying actively to halt all Sohio efforts in connection with the pipeline, according to a group spokesman in Long Beach today.

California U.S. Sen. Alan Cranston, a Democrat, has sent a telegram to Sohio officials asking them to meet with him and other lawmakers in Washington Tuesday concerning the proposed pipeline, according to Chuck Patridge, a spokesman for Sohio.

Cranston had said Sunday, "We've some new information today that I think may keep the project alive."

Patridge told The Midland Reporter-Telegram today that Sohio officials have not reconsidered their decision of last Tuesday to withdraw from the project.

Sohio Chairman Alton Whitehouse had announced the withdrawal, saying regulatory red tape, among other factors, forced the decision.

"Senator Cranston and others (not named) have asked Sohio to reconsider its position on the pipeline," Patridge said. "But we haven't reconsidered yet."

"Our people have not yet responded to Senator Cranston's telegram," Patridge said.

He recalled that, prior to Sohio's decision last week to withdraw from the project, the oil company lobbied the California Legislature for laws similar to federal statutes which paved the way for the construction of the Trans-Alaskan pipeline. He said, however, no favorable legislation resulted.

"The really big problem is the threatened litigation — not just laws now on the books," Patridge said. "These environmental groups seem to be dedicated to stopping us."

In Long Beach today, Jan Smutney-Jones, spokesman for the Citizens Task Force on Sohio, a part of the Coalition of Neighborhoods and Communities Association which opposes the pipeline, said, "We've been at this for three years. Right now we're celebrating, but we're not saying Sohio is absolutely gone."

"We believe that there are economic reasons why Sohio left," he said, adding that he could not provide specific details.

"Sohio was very near to getting the permits they needed," Smutney-Jones said. "We challenged the adequacy of Sohio's environmental impact report as it concerned Long Beach. One of our major concerns was the loss of natural gas to Southern California."

Also, Smutney-Jones today described the proposed location of two storage tanks which he said figured in the Sohio plan as "in between two earthquake sites. There's concern."

"Sohio has contended that they need at least two storage tanks at this location," he said.

At least 170 killed in fighting between Iranian Moslem sects

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Fighting between rival Moslem sects flared in the Kurdish town of Sanandaj today. Reports reaching here said at least 170 persons had died in a 24-hour period.

One source reached by telephone said Kurdish rebels took over a military headquarters building, the police barracks and the radio and television stations and were laying siege to the military barracks at Sanandaj, 250 miles west of Tehran.

"Four helicopter gunships are spraying the attackers with machine-gun fire," the source said.

Another informant said the hospital and clinics in the Kurdish town were packed with wounded and there was a shortage of blood plasma.

Fighting also was reported in towns around Sanandaj.

Most Kurds, who want autonomy for their region, belong to the Sunni Moslem sect. The Islamic forces of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary government belong to Iran's dominant Shiite sect.

It was not clear what sparked the fighting. By some accounts, it was triggered by the appointment of Shiites to key civil posts in the heavily Sunni region after the overthrow of Iran's monarchy.

Khomeini, the Shiite Moslem patriarch who led the Islamic revolution that drove Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi from the country, appealed repeatedly by radio for the Kurds to halt their attack.

He accused "foreign-inspired agents" of provoking the fighting and said, "The people in Kurdistan should know that we have no differences with our Sunni brothers."

The 31 million Shiites are the dominant religious faction in Iran, but the collapse of the monarchy revived hopes of autonomy or independence among the 2 million Kurds in northwest Iran. However, Khomeini and his revolutionary committees are no more sympathetic to the Kurdish cause than the shah was, and there have been several clashes between the Kurds and the army and revolutionary forces.

Local press reports said the fighting in Sanandaj started after the local revolutionary committee and its military forces refused to give the Kurds ammunition.

Meanwhile, thousands of army troops and police marched through the streets of Tehran and other cities today to demonstrate their support of Khomeini and the revolution. The demonstration apparently was designed to show support of the Islamic revolution and the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. (AP Laser-photo) and a woman companion, Sophie Keir, were put aboard an Iranian airliner on a flight to Paris.

After disembarking in the French capital, Ms. Millett said they had been harassed during their detention but she indicated she had never been physically harmed.

"I've never been so terrified in all my life," Ms. Millett said at an impromptu news conference at Orly Airport outside Paris.

The two women said they intended to stay in Paris "for a day or two" before returning to the United States.

Two immigration officials took the women from their downtown Tehran hotel Sunday morning and delivered them to the airport after a stop at the Foreign Ministry. They were detained in a small room equipped with a couch and a camp bed and were not allowed visitors. But reporters were able to get through by telephone, and Ms. Millett said they were not mistreated.

Ms. Millett ran afoul of Iran's revolution when she called Khomeini a "male chauvinist."

She arrived in Iran two weeks ago, saying she had come at the invitation of Iranian women's groups campaigning for equal rights with men under the revolutionary regime. She took part in several street marches by women protesting new restrictions on their freedom. She said she also was gathering material for a book and a film.

On Thursday, Deputy Prime Minister Abbas Amir Entezam accused her of "provocations" against the revolution and said she would be deported.

The new government has abolished the family protection law under which women had equal property and divorce rights with men. Khomeini has also urged women to trade Western dress for the traditional Moslem chador, a head-to-toe black veil that is regarded as a symbol of modesty.

Rain, hail hit Basin area; Cloudiness to continue

The Permian Basin's current "rainy season" is likely to continue through Tuesday, the weatherman predicted today.

Partly cloudy with a slight chance of showers tonight (the chances increasing Tuesday) was the couched forecast from the National Weather Service office at Midland Regional Airport today.

An early morning rain dumped varying amounts of rain and some hail across the Permian Basin today.

The official rain gauge at Midland Regional Airport recorded only .01 inch, but early morning weather watchers in Big Lake saw 2.5 inches fall. Big Spring received a heavy rain and some small hail around 4 a.m., as did — to a far lesser extent — east Midland, where .11 inch of rain was recorded.

South Midland got about .1 inch of rain early today.

Midkiff got .3 inch and Sprayberry recorded .12 inch from the shower.

The weatherman foresaw a 20 percent chance for showers to continue through tonight, with chances of getting wet increasing to 30 percent Tuesday.

Tonight's low is expected to be in the upper 40s, with Tuesday's high near 70.

Sunday's high was 71 degrees, with an overnight low of 46. Record high and low temperatures for the date are 86 degrees set in 1978 and 21 degrees set in 1965.

Winds are expected to be from the east or southeast at 10-15 mph through tonight.

Weather watchers in Andrews, Lamasa, Stanton, Rankin and Odessa were reporting dry rain gauges this morning, but all had cloudy skies.

Ford is not candidate for nomination

TOKYO (AP) — Former President Ford said today that he is not a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination in 1980.

"In the Republican Party, we are not lacking for candidates," Ford told the Japan National Press Club. "There are many now, and many more will appear. I think that's good. I am not one of them."

Previously during his current visit to Japan, Ford refused to take himself out of the 1980 race.

Ford refused twice to reply directly when asked if U.S. Navy ships, while he was president, brought nuclear weapons into Japanese ports even though nuclear weapons are prohibited in Japan.

"To my best recollection," said Ford, "the U.S. Navy was very discreet in the weapons systems it carried while it was in any of the Japanese ports."

Pressed for a more specific reply, he said: "I don't believe I wish to amplify any further. I used the word (discreet) very discreetly."

In reply to other questions, Ford said:

—President Carter should ask Congress to remove the prohibition on shipping Alaskan oil to Japan. He said it would be cheaper and more logical to ship Mexican oil, now sent to Japan, to the United States and the Alaskan oil to Japan.

—He has not decided whether to support or oppose the prospective SALT II agreement between the Soviet Union and the United States. He said he agreed with Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., that the "U.S. Senate should consider the SALT II agreement in the broad context of U.S.-Soviet global relations."

—It would be "counter-productive" for the Senate to approve import surcharges against Japan and other countries that have trade surpluses with the United States.

Shuttle flight postponed again

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Heavy rains today forced space agency officials to postpone again the long-delayed flight of the space shuttle Columbia to its launching pad in Cape Canaveral, Fla.

The shuttle and its Boeing 747 ferry were to have taken off on a 30-minute test flight before dawn, then headed for Florida, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said.

"It's going to be raining quite a bit all day out there, and it might get some snow tomorrow," National Weather Service forecaster Don Depauw said this morning.

The Air Force base is in the Southern California high desert, only several hundred feet below the snow level, which was dropping fast early today as a Pacific storm intensified.

NASA spokesman Ralph Jackson said officials hope to squeeze in a test flight sometime today if the storm eases up. "But it is impossible the craft will begin their cross-country trip today," he added.

He also said it was possible the trip could be postponed beyond Tuesday because of the weather.

Last week, the flight to Florida was postponed when several squares of tile tore loose during a test flight. NASA officials believe they have overcome that problem with a stronger glue.

The Columbia's engine computers and other final touches will be added at Cape Canaveral. The ship's first space flight is tentatively scheduled for Nov. 9.

The Columbia, first of a planned fleet of four commuter space ships, was grounded March 9.

A test flight revealed problems with dummy tiles that filled temporary gaps in the shuttle's heat shield.

The collection of heat-resistant tiles that cover the shuttle's aluminum skin is to be completed when the Columbia arrives in Florida.

NASA said the temporary foam tiles were taped over the gaps to smooth the shuttle's surface and reduce drag on the trip east.

Tape came loose during the first test flight and some dummy tiles were lost. Technicians then spent several days ripping off the tape and again securing the 3,000 foam tiles, this time with a special glue. They had to wait nearly three days for the glue to harden.

NASA said the new arrangement was tested successfully Sunday when a plane carried two panels of the dummy tiles on a test flight.

DEATHS

Dorothy H. Paus

Dorothy Hobbs Paus, 82, of 2800 N. Midland Drive died Sunday in a Midland hospital after a lengthy illness. Services will be in Glenview, Ill.

She was born June 20, 1897, in Duluth, Minn. She was married to Donald Paus in Chicago. He died in 1976. She moved to Midland in February 1977.

Survivors include a brother, Robert A. Hobbs of Midland, and two sisters, Mrs. Watkins Johnson of Duluth and Mrs. Winthrop Wood of New York City, N.Y.

The family has requested that memorials be directed to the Women's Auxiliary of Midland Memorial Hospital.

Final arguments due in trial of polygamist cult members

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Closing arguments were to be given today by attorneys in the trial of four polygamist cult members accused in the May 10, 1977, shooting death of Dr. Rulon C. Allred, leader of a another polygamist group.

The defense rested its case Friday after defendant Rena Chynoweth, 20, denied shooting Allred and testified she fled to Mexico after his death because she feared members of Allred's sect and the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints were out to get her.

On trial with Ms. Chynoweth are her brother Mark Chynoweth, 26, and Edward Marston, 23, all charged with second-degree murder, attempted murder and conspiracy. Another brother, Victor Chynoweth, 31, is being tried on conspiracy counts.

The four are among approximately 100 members of the Church of the Lamb of God, a polygamist sect led by eight LeBaron. Ms. Chynoweth, who is still months pregnant, has testified she is the youngest of about a dozen wives to LeBaron.

Allred, a 71-year-old naturopathic physician and father of 40, was shot six times by two persons in his suburban Salt Lake City office.

The prosecution has alleged LeBaron ordered the death of Allred and an attempt on the life of Verlan LeBaron, his brother, at Allred's funeral. Verlan LeBaron is the head of the Church of the Firstborn of the Fullness of Times (CFB), a third polygamist sect.

Prosecution witness Donald Sullivan, an admitted member of what he said was a five-member hit team that came to Salt Lake to kill the two men, testified that Allred was gunned down by Ms. Chynoweth and Ramona Marston, another LeBaron follower.

Mrs. Marston, Ervil LeBaron and his son Arturo are still being sought in the case. Sullivan pleaded guilty to conspiracy and agreed to testify in exchange for immunity from further prosecution.

10-year-old boy hurt in mishap

ODESSA — A 10-year-old boy was listed in critical condition early today in the intensive care unit of Medical Center Hospital here after suffering injuries to the head in a truck-motorcycle accident south of Odessa Sunday, officials said.

Jody A. Para Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jody A. Para of Odessa, was not wearing a helmet when the motorcycle he was riding and a pickup driven by Abel Sais Delao, 36, of Odessa collided, Department of Public Safety officials said.

According to DPS officials, Para was operating the motorcycle about 14 miles south of Odessa when it and the pickup were in collision. Delao was traveling east at the time, officials said.

WTCC's 'Wonderful West Texas' fun, adventure maps now available

ABILENE — H. Raymond Beck Jr., of Brownwood, chairman of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Tourist and Travel Development Committee, has announced the release of the sixth edition of the "Wonderful West Texas" Fun and Adventure Map.

The 1979 edition features 79 participants among the attractions and areas of interest, museums and colleges listed, an increase of eleven over the 1978 map. A total of 19 participants not appearing in last year's map are featured in the new edition.

The WTCC publication which provides travel information on the 132-county West Texas area is used to answer all inquiries received by the Tourist and Travel Department, along with any specific information which may be requested.

A minimum of 100,000 copies of the map are distributed annually, dispersed through map participants, auto clubs, state tourist information centers, travel shows, and direct mail inquiries.

Beck, executive vice president of the Brownwood Chamber of Commerce, explained that the brochure's popularity is due in part to the presence of the highway map, a particular aid to the traveler planning what to see on an extended trip. "Use of the map in vacation planning can save time, fuel and money, in addition to pointing out attractions and activities that might otherwise be overlooked," noted Beck.

In addition to the colleges and universities, museums, attractions and areas of interest featured in the map, state and national parks are listed, along with other helpful information for the traveler.

To obtain a free copy of the "Wonderful West Texas" Fun and Adventure Map, write: West Texas Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 1561, Abilene, Texas, 79604.

The Permian Basin Petroleum Museum in Midland is listed on the 1979 map.

Moscow not 'crime-free' as Russian press says

class struggle in capitalist societies only. Asked to compare crime statistics for New York and Moscow, city head Vladimir Promyslov told a Soviet interviewer not too long ago:

"Comparison is practically impossible. There is a whole range of crimes, though widespread in capitalist society, including the United States — New York in particular — which is simply impossible in the U.S.S.R. The very nature of the socialist system has eliminated such crimes as bank robbery, kidnapping people for ransom and a few other crimes."

He noted, however, that "Moscow has not eliminated cases of hooliganism, misappropriation of socialist property, arson and other offenses against the law."

Many Western analysts here believe Moscow's rapid urbanization has led to a significant rise in crime in recent years.

But it is impossible to verify, since Soviet crime statistics are hard to come by — partly because none was kept from the 1930s to the 1950s under orders of Soviet leader Josef Stalin. It wasn't until the 1960s that records were kept of "negative behavior."

According to official statistics obtained from various sources: property crimes and hooliganism make up 60 percent of all crimes; some 63 percent of all crimes are committed by drunks; and crimes against persons — murder, rape and assault — accounted for 15 percent of the 835,000 convictions logged in 1970.

One Soviet sociologist pointed out that seven out of 10 murders here are committed in apartments, showing that she said was an "alarming" tendency towards more crimes in every-day places.

And when crimes come so close to home, Muscovites get nervous. Signs have begun appearing in some Moscow apartment buildings urging residents to take turns "guarding" the houses. This would have been an unheard-of request 10 years ago, residents say.

But a recent newspaper article reported that a burglary ring robbed more than 20 apartments around Moscow before the three thieves were caught and sentenced to seven years' hard labor.

An unprecedented instance of looting also took place recently. Residents of one Western Moscow district told The Associated Press that looters moved in after 3,000 people were evacuated from their apartments because of no heat or hot water during a severe cold wave.

Petty theft is common around Moscow. Many Western residents are initiated when they find that the windshield wipers, sideview mirrors and tape-decks from the cars have been swiped.

But grand larceny also is around. A recent news story reported that two men were sentenced to death after one of them shot and killed a female cashier at the Moscow Institute of Chemical Machine-Building on payroll day. The killer was carrying a "homemade" gun.

Hart's trial opens in Pryor, Okla.

PRYOR, Okla. (AP) — A packed and silent courtroom today heard prosecutor S.M. Fallis Jr. explain how the state intends to prove Gene Leroy Hart killed and sexually molested three young Girl Scouts at a northeastern Oklahoma summer camp.

Hart, 35, is on trial on three counts of first-degree murder in the June 13, 1977, slayings of the girls on their first night at camp.

Fallis told how the girls arrived at the camp and went to their tents and how the bodies of the three girls were found the next morning by counselors.

Hart was serious and at times talked quietly with defense attorney Garvin Isaacs as Fallis delivered his half-hour opening statement.

A six-man, six-woman jury and two alternates sworn in earlier today by District Judge William Whistler listened intently. Members of the panel sometimes glanced toward Hart and members of his family and toward members of the victims' families in the courtroom.

About 30 newsmen and 70 local residents crowded into the courtroom to hear the beginning of Hart's trial.

Whistler either overruled or delayed judgment on five motions filed by Isaacs before the jury was sworn.

Isaacs asked that the jury be dismissed, saying Hart was being denied a hearing before a jury of his peers.

Isaacs also asked unsuccessfully that the judge prohibit testimony about Hart's searching for eye-glasses. A former state prison inmate had testified about Hart's eyesight at a preliminary hearing last summer.

The judge also turned down Isaacs' motion to prohibit introduction of photographs of the victims. Isaacs contended the photos would arouse "the sympathetic, hostile or prejudicial emotions" of jurors.

During a hearing in his chambers, Whistler ruled as currently irrelevant anticipated testimony from a psychologist who tested Hart earlier this month.

James White Jr. of Pittsburg, Kan., said he had examined Hart at Isaacs' request. Whistler allowed Isaacs to enter into the record that White would testify Hart "is not of the character that would molest small children."

Isaacs and Fallis had clashed several times during 11 days of jury selection that concluded Friday.

Baton Rouge teacher strike may grow

By The Associated Press

A strike by about 2,000 public school teachers in Baton Rouge, La., entered its fourth day and showed signs of expanding, while to the north, the threat of teacher walkouts loomed in St. Paul, Minn., and Cincinnati.

The Baton Rouge walkout was expected to grow today based on reports that a Teamster-affiliated custodian's union would set up its own picket lines.

School board officials pledged to keep the parish's 114 schools open with non-striking teachers, substitutes and parents, and not give in on the main issue of the strike — granting the teacher's union collective bargaining rights.

"There definitely will be school Monday (today)," said East Baton Rouge Parish School Superintendent Clyde Lindsey. "Buses will run, meals will be served. Substitute teachers will be in classrooms, and students who want to learn will have the opportunity to learn."

More than half of the parish's 3,800 teachers went on strike Friday. The system has about 66,000 students.

In St. Paul, about 30,000 community college students statewide could be idled by a walkout scheduled for Tuesday.

Jim Durham, president of the Minnesota Community College Faculty Association, said pickets will be out Tuesday on each of the 18 campuses and at the Capitol in St. Paul.

The strike was called Sunday after contract negotiations between the state and the association's negotiating team broke down Friday.

"Our last two contracts with the state weren't honored by the state," said Durham. "We did our part, but they didn't keep up their end of the contract and didn't fund the salary increases we were supposed to have."

Durham said the teachers are willing to stay within President Carter's guidelines and accept a 7 percent increase package — about 4 1/2 percent of which would be in salary boosts. The other 2 1/2 percent would be in the form of benefits.

Meanwhile, students in Cincinnati were returning to classrooms today following Friday's case of "chalk dust fever" that afflicted about a third of the city's 3,000 teachers.

Roger Stephens, president of the Cincinnati Federation of Teachers, said the one-day sickout was designed to protest working conditions and a lack of pay raises. He warned that similar work stoppages could occur if contract negotiations were not resumed by the end of March.

The talks were suspended in January. The school board says it cannot grant the raises because it expects a $10 million deficit this year.

Schools Superintendent James Jacobs warned that any teacher missing class in the future had better have a medical excuse unless the illness was obvious. Otherwise, the teacher would not be paid for the missed day.

Friday's sickout was preceded by four others last month.

In Washington, D.C., meanwhile, negotiations between the striking Washington Teachers Union and the city's school board broke off after the union substantially raised its demands for a settlement of the 10-day-old walkout.

The two sides met for about 90 minutes Sunday during which William Simons, the union president, asked for substantial salary and benefit increases in 1980. Kenneth W. Nickoles, the board's chief negotiator, said the new demands were rejected because the board does not have the legal authority to negotiate them now. Schools were remaining open despite the strike.

Iranians expected to acquire prince's Lubbock residence

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — An out-of-court settlement is expected sometime this week to transfer the ownership of a $256,000 home to Iran's new Islamic Republic. The ranch-style home was the West Texas residence of the 18-year-old son of the deposed Shah of Iran.

The crown prince lived in it until recently while training eight months as a jet pilot at nearby Reese Air Force Base.

Lubbock attorney Elgin Conner, who is representing the trustee of the property in the case, said during the weekend, "The Iranians are convinced they are entitled to the property, and they are probably right."

Conner predicted the ownership question will be settled out of court. He said he wants to ensure that his client, real estate agent Stephen Von Phul, is reimbursed for outstanding debts and that he is protected against possible claims by a third party.

Sylvan M. Marshall, a Washington, D.C., attorney representing the Iranian embassy said Saturday he is awaiting delivery of a signed copy of the deed and agreement to the property, which he asked Iranian Colonel Muhammed Khatami to personally bring him.

The colonel, who arrived in Lubbock from Washington on Wednesday, was sent by the new Iranian government "for the purpose of clarifying the situation," Marshall said.

Marshall said he wants a chance to see the papers before commenting on a plan of action.

"Hopefully, the papers will be brought to me early this week," he said. "I called the Department of State and was made aware that we (the United States) have, as a nation, recognized the new Iranian government," he said.

Marshall said the house still belongs to a branch of the government of Iran, even though the government has changed its name.

Two arrested in Los Fresnos bank robbery

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — Two men accused of immobilizing the Los Fresnos police force and then taking $77,000 from a bank in the small Lower Rio Grande Valley town were ordered arraigned today on bank robbery charges.

The two men, both from Harlingen, were arrested Friday and held during the weekend in the Cameron County jail. FBI spokesman Charles Bayne said some of the money has been recovered.

top clubs and ruffed a club. East overruffed, and South was eventually down two.

South's play would work if East had three or more clubs, but playing for the spades would work if East had only two or more spades. East was more likely to have two or more spades than three or more spades.

UNBLOCK SPADES

After the ace of trumps South should cash the top spades and lead to the king of clubs to continue spades. If East can ruff, South overruffs and draws trumps. He can later ruff a club in dummy and discard low clubs on the rest of the spades.

If East fails to ruff dummy's spades, declarer discards three clubs and leads a trump to finesse through the jack.

With both sides vulnerable you are dealer, holding: S-84; H-None; D-AKJ9632; C-QJ108. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four diamonds. With only two cards in the major suits and virtually no defensive strength you must concentrate on shutting the opponents out of the bidding.

Clerk bluffs bandit

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A man described as in his early 20s entered a Grand Rapids grocery, keeping his right hand in his pocket as if holding a gun.

"This is a holdup," he announced to a clerk, according to the police. "Open the cash register."

The 52-year-old clerk studied the man and shook his head. "No way am I going to open it up," he said.

"Do you want to die?" the man asked.

The clerk thought about it briefly and shrugged. "We all got to die some time," he said.

The man stared back at the clerk in disbelief, then grabbed a bag of potato chips, slapped a quarter on the counter and left, police said.

Buzzards come back on time

ROKEBY LOCK, Ohio (AP) — The buzzards came back to Hinckley, Ohio, on time as usual, but some Rokeby Lock residents say the traditional March 15 arrival date might be more myth than reality.

Buzzard buffs here say they can't understand what took the birds so long to return to Hinckley. They've been in Rokeby Lock, 100 miles away, since Feb. 4.

In Hinckley, where thousands show up for the traditional homecoming, residents said the first bird wasn't spotted until 10:29 a.m. Thursday.

Following such hearing, such assessments will be levied against each and every parcel of property abutting upon said streets, avenues, and/or alleys within the limits hereby defined, and the real and true owners thereof, for that portion of the cost of said improvements determined by said City Council to be assessed

Jurors to debate punishment of woman convicted of murder

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Jurors who convicted Linda May Burnett, 31, of capital murder in connection with last summer's execution-style slayings of five members of a Southeast Texas family were asked to return to court today to recommend punishment.

The jury must choose between death by injection and a life prison term for the 31-year-old brunette housewife.

She stood trembling and then slumped in her chair when the verdict was read Saturday, and whispered to a reporter as she was escorted from the courtroom, "I'm not guilty."

Mrs. Burnett was convicted of murder in the death of 3-year-old Jason Phillips of Woodward, Okla., who was shot in the head and killed near Winnie last July 1, along with his parents and grandparents. Their bodies were found in a common grave July 10.

Another defendant in the case, Joe Dugas of Port Arthur, will be tried later in Corpus Christi.

District Attorney James McGrath will seek the death penalty for the mother of three. The prosecutor actually began his plea for punishment in the case during an emotional final argument Saturday, when he pointed at Mrs. Burnett and said when the legislature passed a capital punishment law "they had this woman in mind."

McGrath held up a picture of the inside of the boy's grandparents' house, showing a rocking horse, and described it as a toy Jason "will never ride again." At that point, McGrath had tears in his eyes, and at least one of the four women on the jury wept with him.

"Here sits a woman to whom life has no value at all," McGrath said. "Anyone who stands in her way gets wiped out."

He said Mrs. Burnett and Dugas used "the infant child Jason" to control the adults as they were led to their grave and then methodically put to death.

The Phillips boy and his parents were visiting the elder Phillips' in Winnie last summer when they were abducted and slain. Dugas was previously married to a daughter of the elder Phillips.

Defense attorneys contended Mrs. Burnett, Dugas' lover during the mass killings, had no motive for the deaths, and that the state's case against her was based on "doctored, manipulated and altered evidence."

"There is no physical evidence linking Mrs. Burnett to this case," said defense attorney Charles Carver. He asked jurors to set aside any "feelings of hatred" they may have against Mrs. Burnett.

More charges may be filed against Stafford

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The filing of additional charges against mass murder suspect Roger Dale Stafford was to be discussed today in a meeting between Oklahoma County District Attorney Andrew Coats and the district attorney for McClain and Cleveland counties, Kay Huff. Police say Stafford, a 27-year-old Alabama drifter, is the lone surviving suspect in the killings of six Oklahoma City steakhouse workers and the murders of three members of a Texas family last summer. A preliminary hearing in district court has been set for April 30 for Stafford on a first-degree murder charge in the death of one of the steakhouse workers, 15-year-old Terri Horst. Stafford has not been charged in any of the other killings. Stafford was arrested Tuesday night at a Chicago YMCA and was returned to Oklahoma City Wednesday afternoon. He was refused bond at his arraignment Friday. Tom Kennedy, director of the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation, said Stafford is the lone surviving suspect in the July 16 slayings of six Sirolo Stockade employees during a $1,500 robbery here and the June 22 killings of Air Force Sgt. Melvin Lorenz, his wife and son of San Antonio, Texas.

Police seek bandit who survived hail of bullets

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Police searched today for a robber who survived a shooting attack that killed his partner. The shooting attack came from a man who opened fire when he saw his neighbors were being robbed, authorities said. Police said two bandits broke into a house just outside the city limits in the Austin Lake Estates area Sunday evening, tied up two couples and began to rob the dwelling. That's when neighbor Tony Sanford came in the back door and saw a man holding a gun on one of the women, according to Travis County Sheriff Raymond Frank. The robbers were armed with a sawed-off shotgun and other firearms. "The neighbor discovered what was going on and got his gun, a .30-30 rifle, and the two perpetrators left in their pickup truck," Frank said. Sanford opened fire as the truck sped away. "The neighbor shot at the pickup three times," the sheriff said. "The first two shots were aimed at the tires and wheels. The third shot hit the driver behind the head and killed him."

SALT agreement very close

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union are at what Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance calls "the bitter end" of negotiations for a new strategic arms limitation treaty.

Vance said Sunday that the two nations are so close to finishing the framework for a new pact that "the next several days" may determine when a summit meeting will be held to sign the document. "We have not completed it, but we really are now at what I would call the bitter end — we're very close to completing it," he said.

He said that "one or two" issues remain to be settled. "If we can make progress on those, then I think we can move promptly on to scheduling a summit," he said in an interview on CBS' "Face the Nation." Vance and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin met last Friday to discuss the impending treaty. It was the second meeting between the two in as many weeks.

Rule change aids plane builders

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is moving to make things a little easier for people who build and fly their own airplanes.

Under a rule change proposed by the Federal Aviation Administration, it would no longer be necessary for federal inspectors to recertify these planes every year.

Amateur-built and other experimental aircraft would be treated much like conventional planes under the rule.

That means the FAA would initially certify that they are airworthy and capable of safe flight, but annual checks could be conducted by approved mechanics.

The FAA estimates that about 7,000 aircraft would be affected by the rule change. Currently, officials said, 22 work-years of FAA inspectors' time are spent annually in these recertifications.

The change would apply to exhibition and racing planes as well as those built by amateurs.

People wishing to comment on this proposal can write to the Federal Aviation Administration, Office of Chief Counsel, Attn. Rules Docket (AGC-24), Docket No. 18734, 800 Independence Ave. SW, Washington, D.C., 20591.

WASHINGTON — (AP) March 27 is the deadline for comments on the Consumer Product Safety Commission's proposal to ban kites with large areas of aluminum polyester film.

The ban would prohibit any kite containing a piece of aluminum polyester film measuring 10 inches or more. The commission says these present a hazard because they conduct electricity and may get caught in electric power lines.

Comments should be sent to the Office of the Secretary, Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, D.C., 20207.

AD CHANGE — American Express has agreed to change some advertising that was questioned by the Better Business Bureaus.

The ads listed several hotels around the world and contained a telephone number where people were urged to call for reservations.

An inquiry from BBB, however, disclosed the number could be used only to make reservations at the hotels in the United States and Canada.

American Express said it had planned to have a worldwide reservation service operating when the ads ran, but technical problems had delayed the program.

Laura King, McCarty recite wedding vows

Laura Laverne King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Curtis King Sr. of 412 East Dengar Ave., and Otis Leonard McCarty exchanged wedding vows in a 7:30 p.m. ceremony Saturday at Antioch Baptist Church.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Annie Mae McCarty of 1112 Chestnut Ave.

The Rev. George T. Curry of Houston officiated at the single ring ceremony.

The bride was attended by her sisters, Gayle Johnson of Oklahoma City, Okla. and Margie King of Midland, and by Debbie White, Jackie Russell and Regina Cole, all of Midland.

Larry McCarty of Los Angeles, Calif. was best man for his brother.

Groomsmen included Herslie Rogers, Farris King, Jesse Brown and Leroy Brown, all of Midland. Ushers were the bride's brothers, Leslie King Jr. and Michael King, both of Midland.

Michele Johnson of Oklahoma City, the bride's niece, was flower girl and Clearance Bell of Midland, the bride's nephew, was ring bearer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk sheer alonson ice. The fitted empire bodice was decorated with chantilly lace and featured a portrait necklace.

A reception was held in the church's Fellowship Hall.

The couple are taking a wedding trip to Los Angeles and Las Vegas, Nev.

DEAR ABBY

Literary larceny

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Did you ever determine for certain the author of that beautiful poem, "Slow Me Down, Lord"?

You said 92 people claimed to have written it. Didn't the original author ever copyright it?—CURIOUS IN WINNIPEG

DEAR CURIOUS: The author of "Slow Me Down, Lord" is Wilfred A. Peterson. He wrote it in 1952 but failed to copyright it which made it very easy to plagiarize. Three people forwarded "documented" proof claiming authorship. Each sent me a slightly altered version of Peterson's poem, insisting that they originated it. (One even set it to music and is planning to record it!)

When I asked Peterson why he didn't sue these frauds, he said, "I'd rather write than fight."

Peterson is now 78, and perhaps the Lord has answered his prayer and HAS slowed him down a little, but he continues to be a fast friend and faithful correspondent.

DEAR ABBY: The question arose in your column whether a woman who had borrowed $200 from a friend should pay interest when nothing was said at the time she borrowed it. (It took her 14 years to pay it back.)

You said the person who lent the money should be glad to get the $200 back after 14 years—never mind the interest.

When a loan agreement is silent with regard to interest, the law usually imputes an interest rate to the agreement. (In Ohio, a 6 percent interest rate is imputed.)

In any event, inasmuch as prices have more than doubled over the last 24 years, the creditor should have received at least $400 in return.—OHIO ATTORNEY

Miss Tienert honored with bridal shower

Miss Debbie Tienert, bride-elect of Robin Vasicek was honored with a "Christmas in March" bridal shower. Gifts of Christmas decorations were presented to Miss Tienert.

The party was held in the home of Mrs. Bill Hendon, with approximately 25 guests attending. Co-hostess was Mrs. Wayne Miller.

Mrs. Walter Teinert, mother of the future bride, and Mrs. Victor Vasicek, mother of the bridegroom-to-be, were honored guests.

The couple will be married June 8.

Nancy Gale Connell marries Gene Charles Reynolds Jr.

Nancy Gale Connell and Gene Charles Reynolds Jr. were married at 7 p.m. Saturday in St. Mark's United Methodist Church. Dr. Harold Cates officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Perry G. Connell, 1002 Sinclair Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Charles Reynolds of 2111 West College Ave.

The bride was attended by Sidonie Hellinghausen and the bride's sisters, Mrs. Dennis H. Rambo Jr. and Mrs. James A. Conn, all of Midland.

Joe Bostic of Midland was best man and groomsmen included Jim Crouch of Midland and Wesley Pittman of Moore, Okla.

Providing the music were Mrs. Marilyn LaRue, organist, and the bride's aunt, Mrs. Richard L. Tucker, as soloist.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore her mother's wedding gown of candlelight bridal satin and Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice featured a lace yoke, long lace sleeves and a Peter Pan collar of satin. She carried a colonial bouquet of gardenias, miniature carnations and pastel spring blossoms.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

The couple is residing at Route 2 in Midland.

Janet Willis, John L. Natividad wed in double ring ceremony

Janet Ann Willis and John L. Natividad of Midland were married at 2 p.m. Saturday at St. Ann's Catholic Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Willis, of 3002 Princeton St. The bridegroom is the son of Georgia Natividad, of 801 N. Whitaker St.

The Rev. Ed Vrazil officiated, the double ring ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Attendants were David Arrieta of Midland, best man, and Donna Willis of Midland, sister of the bride, maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Susan Willis and Sharon Willis, sisters of the bride of Midland; and Debbie Willis, sister-in-law of the bride of Midland.

Flower girl was Tammy Willis, niece of the bride of Midland. Ring bearers were Amy Willis, niece of the bride, and Mark Chavez, cousin of the bridegroom, both of Midland.

Ushers were Chris Willis of Midland, brother of the bride, and Adam Natividad of Midland, brother of the bridegroom.

Groomsmen were Frank Martinez, Henry Natividad, brother of the bridegroom, and Peter Natividad, brother of the bridegroom, all of Midland.

HOROSCOPE

By CARROLL RIGHTER

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Listen to what others have to say and try to get along as well as possible with the viewpoints which they have expressed, otherwise unnecessary friction could take place. Night is the best time to come to a meeting of minds with others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Be careful not to enter into any arguments with others or they could turn into battles royal. Follow the philosophy of life that most appeals to you. Take no risks with your good name.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Keep promises you have made to others conscientiously. Listen to the ideas of family, although they may differ from your own.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Avoid being impulsive where associates are concerned or there would be a severance of connections. Handle a community affair well due to your experience in the past.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Schedule duties early and carry through in a positive fashion otherwise you accomplish little. Don't neglect treating a minor physical ailment.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't change your plans now or you lose out. Try not to argue with loved ones but show more affection. Watch your diet for better health.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have to be more diplomatic at home if potential arguments are to be avoided. Don't permit a close tie to boss you so much.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Search for the data you need in order to make your work or business dealings more successful, efficient. Evening is best time to visit with good friends, relatives.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't spend more than you can easily afford. Build up a reserve instead. Think big so you can get big, but first study projects carefully before you invest one penny.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You want to act hastily just to get rid of an annoying person, but bide your time and handle the matter more reasonably. Hold group meetings in the late afternoon for best results.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan how to expand your energies in more worthwhile directions early. Go to an expert for advice, then follow it without delay.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You feel like criticizing a friend because you don't approve of his or her actions, but it is best to keep out of it. Wait until evening for getting together with good friends.

Hazy is word for it

Well, now that Congress and the Carter administration have agreed generally to characterize this country's interest in Taiwan's security as a matter of "grave concern," it would be helpful if someone could tell us what this language means. No cynicism is intended.

The "grave concerns" of one of the world's two superpowers constitute a serious matter. And this particular expression of policy with respect to China and Taiwan leaves us, and the world, wondering.

Would this or some subsequent administration go to war if Taiwan were invaded by the People's Republic of China? Or would the United States refrain from intervention but provide arms for Taiwan and, perhaps, break relations with Peking? Might Washington simply deplore an invasion but do nothing to assist Taiwan?

And what if Peking should seek to reduce Taiwan by means short of outright invasion? What guidance do the words "grave concern" provide in the event China attempted to blockade Taiwan's ports or collect tariff tribute from ships carrying Taiwan's imports and exports?

Or suppose China should choose to wage economic war against Taiwan by formulating a Chinese version of the Arab boycott against Israel. Does the United States' "grave concern" for Taiwan's security mean we could resist such a boycott?

And what precisely constitutes a threat to Taiwan's security? The language of the Taiwan Enabling Act about to be adopted by Congress provides no answers to any of these questions. It is, in fact, purposefully vague.

Congress intends it as a compromise between the absolute guarantees of the 1953 mutual security treaty abrogated by President Carter and the total abandonment which renunciation of the treaty implies.

The purpose is to suggest to Peking that the United States retains a continuing interest in Taiwan's well-being while leaving the mainland government face-saving doubts about what the United States would do if Taiwan were attacked or otherwise subverted.

But by purposely creating such obscurity the United States leaves the basic questions of Taiwan's security and the nature of the U.S. commitment to Taiwan unresolved.

The security section of the legislation says nothing can be done to encompass the entire range of options from direct military intervention to abandonment should Peking attack Taiwan.

It may be that this enigmatic language best suits the policy needs of the moment. After all, an invasion of Taiwan is more unlikely for at least the next several years. China's military capabilities are too limited and, in any event, Peking is preoccupied with modernizing its primitive economy and organizing against the real menace of the Soviet Union.

Nevertheless, no one can dismiss the possibility of a future renewal of open hostilities in a Chinese civil war which began more than 40 years ago and remains unfinished today.

Given the complexity of the Washington-Peking-Taipei diplomatic triangle, a certain ambiguity in the United States' commitment to preserve Taiwan's security is probably unavoidable.

And yet, Americans should perceive with open eyes the potential mischief in leaving so volatile an issue so much in doubt.

This country, no less than Taiwan, must hope that China is never tempted by the haziness of U.S. policy to test Washington's "grave concern."

And that's the way it looks — hazy — at the moment.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

They're too pressed to be fair

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Each year some $12.5 billion in disability benefits is paid out by the Social Security Administration to a million claimants. Yet such is the pressure on administrative judges to settle disability claims as quickly and cheaply as possible that there is no way of telling whether the money is going to those who deserve it.

This not only has fostered unfair Social Security payments; it has also promoted false economy. The lack of thorough consideration gives the claims of marginal or spurious applicants a better chance of getting through. The emphasis on holding down benefits also gives short shrift to genuinely disabled workers.

It's not peanuts we're talking about here. The cost of disability payments has more than doubled in the past five years; by 1985 it is expected to hit $27 billion a year. So great has the drain on the Social Security trust fund been, in fact, that officials admit the disability coffers would be empty now if it weren't for the latest increase in payroll contributions.

To put the problem in its simplest terms, every erroneous award of a disability claim means an average waste of $56,000 in taxpayers' money over the life of the benefit.

A major reason for this is that once a person's disability claim is accepted, it is rarely reversed. Only 2 percent of those admitted to the disability rolls are later dropped. As long as a worker adjudged disabled doesn't go back to work at a job covered by Social Security, there is no way of checking up.

For example, one administrative judge told our associate Vicki Warren that it is fairly easy for a 25-year-old worker with a badly fractured leg to get disability benefits. Once the leg heals, the worker should return to work; yet because the benefits continue to flow in, the chances are good that he won't, at least not in a job where his lack of disability would be brought to the government's attention.

The administrative judges hear approximately 200,000 cases a year, and award benefits in about half of them. Of those who are turned down, some 10,000 applicants exercise their right to appeal to a federal court, and about 35 percent of the appeals are sent back to the judges for a second look.

The situation became chaotic in 1974 because of changes in the Social Security laws and the huge unemployment of the early 1970s. Judges were swamped with cases; some applicants died before their cases could be heard. Congress was besieged by complaints from angry constituents.

In January 1975, Robert Trachtenberg was appointed director of the hearings and appeals office, with orders to expedite the disability cases. Though the administrative judges are by law supposed to be free from outside pressure, Trachtenberg instituted a system of "aggressive counseling" to encourage judges to clear up the backlog.

Faced with the pressure for speed and keeping payments low, the harassed judges worked frantically to meet their quota of 26 cases a month. The result was a soaring reversal rate for claimants who appealed the decisions.

This, in turn, led to a practical solution in which claims were

America still most free, humane nation on earth

By CHARLEY REESE

ORLANDO, Fla.—For Lent, I have given up collectivists, internationalists, pacifists, and feminists. They have no idea how fortunate they are not to be living under a dictatorship in which I was the emperor.

They would not be safe, especially on Monday and on those other days when I had a hang-over.

I have grown up under collectivism and seen inflation, taxes, government, debts and poverty increase while productivity, capital, investments and the middle class decreased.

Boy, I'd love to round them up, put them in a huge stockade, and force them to listen to George McGovern speeches for 96 consecutive hours.

As for internationalists, I would deport them to Cairo, Egypt. I think the next ignoramus who tells me there is "no difference" between our country and any other is going to get a knuckle sandwich with knee relish.

On our worst day with all our faults magnified, we remain citizens of the most free, generous and humane nation on earth. I don't know what they are teaching in the public schools these days but it's obviously not history.

Charley Reese

Some people are timid about suggesting that American public schools attempt to instill patriotism in the students, but I'm telling you that a nation which does not teach its children to love their country and its institutions is headed for the garbage dump.

The trouble is you can't teach patriotism and internationalism at the same time. Interdependence my foot! We aren't interdependent; we're an independent nation which trades with other independent nations and we don't have to marry them or kiss their toes to buy their coffee beans and oil.

The worst thing a Congress ever did was accept the United Nations. Of all the fraudulent, treacherous, dangerous and worthless organizations, the United Nations is the pit of pits.

I would pack it and all of its members off to Cairo, too, where they could share office space with the Arab League, another monument to hot air and treachery.

As for pacifists, I would first segregate them by race. White pacifists would be sent to Harlem and black pacifists, if there are any, to Mississippi. That way, both groups could learn first hand all the ramifications of their esoteric philosophy.

The feminists? Well, some of them are kind of cute, but I would deport the noisy ones to Saudi Arabia where, if they survived, they would soon learn to appreciate the kindness, mercy and generosity of the American male.

You understand, of course, there is a difference between women and feminists. Women are wonderful people — intelligent, beautiful, sensitive and creative. Feminists are persons with identity problems.

The problem would not be so acute if it were not for tax laws. So many American men have transferred assets to their wives names that they are afraid to speak up.

And with good reason. Many a poor lad who shared joint checking and savings accounts has learned on the eve of separations that the dear sweet lassies are quick on the withdraw.

At any rate, I'm giving them all up and dismissing them from my consciousness which, fortunately no doubt, is the only thing over which I am a dictator.

INSIDE REPORT:

John Connally scores mini-triumph at Indianapolis

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

Evans Novak

INDIANAPOLIS — If Ronald Reagan ends up dissipating a seemingly insurmountable lead for the Republican presidential nomination, the decline may have started at the recent Midwest Republican Conference here when an absent Reagan left the stage open for a rampaging John B. Connally. Reagan's professed inability, because of "previously scheduled commitments," to make the Indianapolis date set six months ago did not sit well with Midwestern Republican leaders. They suspect Reagan's absence was an intentional message that he holds himself aloof from lesser presidential hopefuls who turn up for such "cattle shows" or "beauty contests."

Since their suspicions are well grounded, events here provide two political truths: first, Reagan is not an incumbent with a claim on the nomination, and he will campaign as one at his own risk; second, with an unexpectedly sudden surge, Connally has bounded out of the pack to become Reagan's principal challenger.

That second truth, which began emerging during Connally's recent visit to Washington, was confirmed as 500 Republican leaders listened patiently here for four hours to six presidential aspirants. Connally was unquestionably the class of the field — by an even wider margin than his top ranking in the CBS poll of Republicans here.

The former Democratic governor of Texas is not long on the conservative rhetoric usually needed to titillate

Republican audiences, but his ardent flag-waving was infectious. He roused the conference by promising to "rebuild a pride in ourselves," adding that the U.S. has been "pushed around by third-rate countries" and "the world perceives us as weak and vacillating and indecisive." His biggest response came after his prescription for riotous Iranian students here: "Send 'em home, right quick."

When Connally hit his high notes to heavy applause, Reagan operatives in the audience admitted he was strong in the Midwest — but second to their man Reagan, of course. Consequently, they gulped when the CBS poll of those attending showed Connally a clear winner in all four categories: best speaker; best chance to agree on the issues; best chance to win; personal choice.

Over cocktails in the party suites that night, Reagan operatives labored to soften the poll's impact. They contended Connally's staff probably organized the vote, which was palpably untrue. They claimed tried-and-true conservatives would never associate themselves in any venture sponsored by CBS, which was truer but not decisive.

Actually, it was Reagan's absence that generated some votes for Connally. There was grumbling that a paid, non-political speech to a business investment seminar in Miami was the conflict in Reagan's schedule keeping him from Indianapolis. That stirred recollections by party leaders of past Reagan appearances — just in time for his speech with no room left for small talk.

If Reagan is considered remote, Connally is still an LBJ sound-alike to Republican faithful and a big government adherent of state capitalism to conservatives. Yet, these views are fading and are less threatened to Connally than concerns about the ethics of the man indicted — then exonerated — in the Watergate milk-fund scandal.

The Republican national committee woman from one big Great Lakes state told us that "there's a lot of skeletons in Connally's closet." The state chairman of one small prairie state was more blunt: "I think he's a crook. I know he beat the rap, but I still think he's a crook."

Countering this is Connally's commanding presence. "He really looks like a president," was the common description here. The strongman image is particularly relevant against the backdrop of President Carter's failing leadership as registered in polls. With Republicans coming to regard Sen. Edward M. Kennedy as the probable Democratic nominee, many believe only Connally can defeat him.

Reagan insiders respond that most party leaders enraptured by Connally here last weekend opposed Reagan in 1976. Support of the whole Indiana Republican hierarchy for Gerald Ford did not prevent a primary sweep here by Reagan. "Our strength is at the grass roots, not with people who spend their time at political conferences," one Reagan lieutenant told us from Los Angeles.

But the conservative grass roots are divided this time between Reagan, Rep. Philip Crane and — if he runs — Rep. Jack Kemp. That's why one experienced Midwestern operative of Reagan tried hard to get him here. "I tried," he explained to us, "but I couldn't get anywhere." The decision was made by the Reagan high command, some of whom were scarcely aware anything at all was happening in Indianapolis. That ignorance lends even more significance to Connally's mini-triumph.

Minnesota prison using new penal experiment

By LARRY GREEN The Los Angeles Times

LINO LAKES, Minn. — It's up at 6 a.m., shower, shave, to the kitchen for some milk, toast and, on some mornings, a fried egg before the housekeeping chores.

The walk to work is relatively short. By 7:25 Ron Steeves has punched the time clock and is busy at his printing press.

Right now his job doesn't pay much. There was, however, a small Christmas bonus and a raise a few weeks ago.

AND WELL HE might. His daily routine, resembling the day-to-day life of many American workers, takes place inside a prison.

He is also a participant in an innovative experiment which might have a major impact on how state prisons of the future operate and how inmates are prepared for their return to society.

Steeves is an inmate of the Minnesota Correctional Facility at Lino Lakes, a medium-security institution 20 miles north of St. Paul, which has become so popular that there is a waiting list of inmates who want to be transferred here from other state prisons.

Minnesota is one of seven states in which the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration and the Philadelphia-based American Foundation, Inc., are testing and evaluating the potential of operating prison industries at a profit.

OTHER STATES INVOLVED are Connecticut, Illinois, Washington, Colorado, South Carolina and Iowa. Similar projects are also under way in Florida and Alaska but without federal assistance.

The project is an attempt to combine old-fashioned capitalism and the American work ethic in an environment where neither has thrived in the past. Historically, prison shops have served as sources of slave labor for state governments, producing furniture or license plate needed by state agencies.

Traditionally, "in correctional industries you have one man working, one man waiting to work and one man watching. They have not functioned as businesses," explained Jim Williams, industries consultant to the Minnesota Department of Corrections.

THE CONCEPT NOW being tested, called Free Venture in Corrections Jargon, involves requiring inmates to work a 40-hour week, paying them realistic wages, marketing the products they produce and giving them working conditions that resemble as closely as possible in a prison setting, real world working conditions.

Foundation's Institute of Corrections.

The bottom line for measuring success here is profitability," said Thomas F. Grogan, industry director at Lino Lakes.

If the tests prove successful, just about everybody from the taxpayer to the prison inmate stands to benefit. Prison industries that operate at a profit will reduce the amount of tax monies spent on corrections and will provide "inmates with a work experience relevant to successful employment in the outside community," Grogan added.

WHILE THE FREE Venture concept is being tested differently in each state, it appears that the model here, at Lino Lakes, may be the most promising, Schaller said.

Minnesota "is the most innovative of the states and has one of the most liberal inmate-oriented programs in the country," said another corrections expert monitoring the experiment.

Once a center for juveniles in state custody, the Lino Lakes facility resembles a college campus more than it does a prison.

Inmates like Ron Steeves — who are called "employees" here — live and work in modern, single-story orange-brick buildings set on 160 acres of gently rolling land.

The facility is surrounded by high chain-link fences topped with barbed wire and there are two electrically operated steel doors at the entrance. But once inside, there is little to suggest that this is a prison. And that seems to be as important to the Free Venture experiment here as the profitability of the industry shops.

Minnesota corrections officials are not only trying to familiarize inmates with the work ethic, the discipline of getting up every morning and reporting for a job, but also with the kind of responsibility they will encounter upon release.

"WE MUST FEED ourselves, pay the rent, clothe ourselves, pay taxes — that's what we expect from our inmates and we hope they will take care of their dependents too," Will said.

"The hardest thing about coming here was the adjustment," Steeves said. "I was not used to the freedom, to being more or less on my honor."

Steeves, who has been in prison for more than 16 consecutive years and who will be eligible for parole in two years, was hired to work at Lino Lakes last October. Previously he served his time in the state's two maximum-security prisons at St. Cloud and Stillwater.

Instead of the barred cells he knew as home for almost half of his life, Steeves found he was living in a small but bright and reasonably comfortable room, one of 32 in a cottage building here. And, he discovered that it was up to him, not a prison guard, to lock his door. In fact he is on his own most of the time he is not working.

ANOTHER LESSON, quickly learned, was how to handle money. Traditionally, currency is considered contraband in prisons. But not at Lino Lakes.

Inmates receive paychecks once every two weeks. Steeves, for example, is currently earning about $50 a week. State and federal taxes are deducted from each check as is a charge for room and board. Presently Steeves is paying $22.22 a week for food and shelter here. He must also provide and care for his own clothes.

way toward having $547 to pay for a new color television set he intends to purchase through a catalogue shopping service.

STEEVES, IN FACT, is paying or helping to pay for everything except his guards and his medical care.

Charging employees for their room and board is a unique feature of the Minnesota Free Venture plan. Other states are not charging participants for their keep, but they also are not paying wages comparable to those here.

For example, workers in the Lino Lakes program earn an average of $1.85 an hour. Some are earning more than $3 an hour. That is more than is paid in most states testing the Free Venture concept and considerably more than is paid to inmates working in prison industries in states not involved in the test. Prisoners in non-participating states either are not paid at all or earn from a few cents to less than a dollar a day.

"We're aiming for (an average) $2.25 an hour," said Grogan. "As their earnings go higher the charge back for room and board increases." Grogan added. Last year the state recouped more than $100,000 from prison reimbursements.

WHILE THIS IS not sufficient to offset state prisoner expenditures at Lino Lakes, it is a beginning, Grogan said. The state expects to spend more than $3 million to house 149 prisoners at Lino Lakes in 1979 and only a fraction of that will be recovered through prisoner reimbursements. However, the industry shops will be self-sustaining this year according to Grogan.

There are also other benefits that result from Minnesota's relatively high level of prison pay. Inmates help to support their families, keeping them off welfare rolls, or, in the case of Don Quinn, keeping his two boys out of foster homes.

Quinn, a tough-talking former prizefighter, is serving a sentence for the armed robbery of a high-stakes poker game ("One guy had a pair of queens and another had a pair of aces and I had a pair of 3s which took the pot"). He is paying $300-a-month support for his two boys.

"If I didn't have this opportunity, I wouldn't have my kids," said Quinn who is also chairman of the workers committee, the Lino Lakes equivalent of a labor union.

Some inmates are using their income to pay restitution to victims of their crimes.

THERE IS, HOWEVER, some discontent within the program.

Tom Wilewski, 34, who was convicted of burglary, objects to paying for his room and board, a complaint common to the more than 80 inmates employed here.

"I don't like it. I'm a ward of the state and I don't see why I should have to pay room and board," Wilewski said. "I know you got to pay taxes though."

Wilewski is charged $120 a month for room and board, pays $80 a month in state and federal taxes and has $2,500 in a savings account.

"I'll be able to get myself a car, he said, looking forward to a spring parole. "If you're locked up in the joint (a maximum-security prison) you ain't got nothing when you get out," he said.

Odessa pair reports robbery

ODESSA — Two Odessa men reported being robbed early Sunday morning when a man leaped into the back seat of their car brandishing a gun, said Odessa police today.

Police said they have no leads in the incident, which left Sergio M. Trvizo and poorer by $140 cash, with and Oscar Alvarez having lost $200 in Mexican currency and $4 in U.S. currency.

Trvizo and Alvarez told police they were stopped at an intersection when a young man approached their car, pulled out a pistol and leaped into the back seat of the car.

They said the man told them to pull into an alley, where they were told to give him all their money, authorities were told.

Trvizo told police he refused at first, but gave the man his wallet containing the cash when the man allegedly struck him on the side of the head with his fist.

The man left on foot after getting the money, the two told police.

Home damaged

A house fire Sunday at 110 W. Dengar Ave. caused heavy damage to the den, kitchen and storeroom of the one-story brick structure, officials said.

Midland firemen responded to the call about 7 a.m. and found the home, owned by Ellery White, on fire, firemen said.

Officials today said cause of the blaze was still being investigated.

Long-range vocational plans needed, school board says

With as many as half the high school students in the city expected to be enrolled in vocational education courses in the future, Midland's schools need more long-range planning and earlier vocational orientations to keep the programs at the highest possible level.

Those were the conclusions of the Midland school board after hearing a report on the vocational program at their 10 a.m. meeting today.

In calling for more long-range planning, board president Johnny Warren noted, "If we're going to get into the vocational business in Midland, Texas, we're going to have to do a heck of a selling job."

Giving students an idea of the programs available and their benefits early is vital to keeping the vocational program going, Warren said.

The report by the vocational committee, based on surveys of teachers, students, business leaders and parents made the following recommendations:

— Upgrading and expanding facilities for several CVAE programs and agricultural education programs in the high schools.

— Adding a building trades program in the high schools. The program was the most requested by three of the four groups surveyed.

— Addition of a health occupations cooperative unit at Lee High School to serve the students interested in health career fields.

— Occupational orientation at the junior high school level.

— Increased use of the Midland College facilities for vocational course offerings.

— Addition of auto and small engine tune up courses to the industrial arts curriculum.

— Addition of another vocational counselor immediately, and a fourth counselor when the student population in vocational courses reaches 1,800. Currently, 1,728 are enrolled.

In addition, the appointment of a vocational department chairman at each high school and supervisors for

Police probing weekend thefts

Midland police today were investigating two alleged burglaries which occurred over the weekend.

Frank Lewis of the 300 block of South Jackson Street told police that a stereo and two speakers valued at $250 were taken from his residence Sunday.

Police said entry to the home was apparently gained through the bedroom window.

Cruz Lujan of the 1600 block of English Drive reported the theft of a roto-tiller valued at $279. He told officers he had chained the tiller to his house.

Earthquake felt

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A moderate earthquake shook much of southwest Mexico including the capital Sunday afternoon, swaying high-rise buildings and panicking residents. There were no reports of injuries or major damage.

Breakfast scheduled

The March Midland Chamber of Commerce Early Bird Breakfast will be at 7 a.m. March 29 in the Midland Hilton ballroom.

Midland Travel Agency, a new chamber member, is this month's sponsor. Cost is $3.75 per person.

WHEREAS, the term of office of Paul Cooper and Donald Swafford members of the Board of Trustees for this School District will expire on the first Saturday in April, 1979, said first Saturday being April 1, 1979, and on said date a trustee election will be held in said school district.

WHEREAS, it is necessary for this Board to pass an order establishing the procedure for filing for and conducting said trustee election.

WHEREFORE, BE IT ORDERED BY THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES FOR GREENWOOD INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT:

1. That an election be held in said school district on April 1, 1979, for the purpose of electing to the Board of Trustees of said School District two (2) trustees.

2. That all request by candidates to have their names placed upon the ballot for the above mentioned election shall be in writing and signed by the candidate and filed with the secretary of the Board of Trustees at the superintendent's office not later than 30 days prior to the date of said election.

3. That said election shall be held at the following places, and the following named persons are hereby appointed officers for said election:

(a) In the election precincts numbered Greenwood at Auditorium Building, in Midland, Texas, in said School District, with Bob Black as Presiding Judge and Maxine Morris and Catherine Russell, Clerks.

The polls at the above designated polling places shall on election day be open from 7:00 o'clock a.m. to 7:00 o'clock p.m.

4. Emma Woolfolk is hereby appointed Clerk for absentee voting and Bob Phell and Max Dickerson are hereby appointed Deputy Clerks for absentee voting. The absentee voting for the above designated election shall be held at Administration Office within the boundaries of the above named School District and said place of absentee voting shall remain open for at least eight hours on each day for absentee voting which is not a Saturday, a Sunday, or an official State holiday beginning on the 20th day and continuing through the 4th day preceding the date of said election.

Said places of voting shall remain open between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. on each day for said absentee voting. To be described place for absentee voting is also the absentee Clerk's mailing address to which ballot application and ballots voted by mail shall be sent.

5. The Board of Trustees shall give notice of said election, and this combined Election Order and Notice shall serve as Notice for said election. The President of the Board of Trustees is hereby authorized to instruct in post or cause to have posted said combined Election Order and Notice at three public places where notices are customarily posted in this school district, and said posting shall be made at least 30 days before the date of said election.

The President shall also cause a copy of this combined Election Order and Notice to be published one time in a newspaper of general circulation in the county where this school district is located. Said publication shall be not more than 30 days prior to the date of said election.

It is further found and determined that in accordance with an order of the Board of Trustees, the Secretary posted written notice of this date, place and subject of this meeting on the

Operators stake explorer sites in seven West Texas counties

Seven West Texas counties have gained wildcat operations. Dalton H. Cobb of Midland has announced plans to re-enter a dry hole in the Moore-Hooper multipay gas field of Loving County and test above 17,990 feet.

Scheduled for an 8,600-foot bottom, it is 700 feet from south and 755 feet from east lines of section 7, block T, T&P survey.

Diamond Shamrock Corp. of Amarillo is to be drilled as an 8,100-foot wildcat in Sterling County, 14 miles northeast of Sterling City.

The project will attempt to find gas production. It is one mile west of oil production in the Rose Creek field and 600 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 61, block 18, SPRR survey.

The project will be operated as No. 1 E. P. Ellwood Trust.

RANK WILDCAT Northern Michigan Exploration Co. of Wichita Falls No. 1 Edna Powers has been spotted as a rank wildcat in northeast Cottle County, three miles southwest of Lamesa.

Scheduled for an 8,500-foot bottom, it is 1,750 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of J. F. Razor survey, abstract 1145 and three miles southwest of Lazare.

The site is 1/2 mile north of a 6,373-foot dry hole and one mile southwest of an 8,250-foot failure.

BORDEN EXPLORER WES-TEX Drilling Co. of Abilene No. 1 Blagrave is a 9,200-foot wildcat in southwest Borden County, four miles northwest of Vealmoore.

Location is 2,510 feet from south and 510 feet from west lines of section 8, block 33, T-3-N, T&P survey.

STERLING PROJECTS Hillin Production Co. of Odessa No. 1-7 I. W. Terry has been spotted as a Fusselman wildcat in the Conger (Pennsylvanian 7,000) area of Sterling County, 3.6 miles southwest of Sterling City.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — President Jose Lopez Portillo turned a pipeline valve Sunday to start natural gas flowing from large southern oil fields to a northern industrial complex in Monterrey on the 41st anniversary of the nationalization of Mexico's petroleum industry.

The completion of the 779-mile pipeline adds a vital link to Mexico's energy policy by providing much needed natural gas to shift industrial power users away from oil.

RUNNELS TESTS E. B. Fletcher of Dallas staked three wildcats in Runnels County. No. 1-425 Wayne Roberts is 1,337 feet from north and 2,453 feet from east lines of section 54, block 63, H&TB survey, abstract 1418.

Another 4,900-foot wildcat is Fletcher No. 1 W. Roberts, 2,421 feet from north and 1,560 feet from west lines of section 54, block 63, HT&B survey, abstract 1418.

Fletcher will drill No. 2-417 L. B. Watkins as a 4,990-foot wildcat. The location is 825 feet from southeast and 1,650 feet from southwest lines of section 14, Henry L. Bays survey No. 444.

The first two locations are seven miles southwest of Winters, and the third is three miles south of Wingate.

IRION PROJECT Threshold Development Corp. of Dallas announced plans to re-enter a 7,405-foot hole in Irion County and plug back to 2,350 feet for wildcat tests.

It is the former Gwendolyn Weiner Oil Properties of Fort Worth No. 3 Fred Ball which was completed in 1976 as a Tom Ketchum (Canyon gas) field well.

Location is 1,500 feet from south and 906 feet from west lines of section 3077, block 28, H&TC survey and 11 miles northwest of Mertzon.

IRION WELL Fortune Drilling Co., Inc., of San Angelo No. 1 DeLong has been completed as the third Divide sand oil well in the Lucky-Mag multipay pool of Irion County, three miles north of Mertzon.

It finalized for a daily flowing potential of 56.7 barrels of 40-gravity oil and 4.8 barrels of water, through a 12/64-inch choke and perforations from 6,415 to 6,501 feet.

The gas-oil ratio is 1,065-1. The pay section was acidized with 1,000 gallons and fractured with 63,000 gallons.

The well is one location northeast of other Divide production and 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 27, block 2, H&TC survey.

WARD PRODUCER Gulf Oil Corp. No. 2 J. W. Cadenhead, one mile northwest of Pennsylvania production in the G-M field of Ward County, has been completed.

From the Pennsylvanian, it finalized for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 2,534,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day, through perforations from 16,428 to 16,992 feet.

Camp David energy meeting under way

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, facing the prospect of dwindling U.S. oil supplies and rising prices, summoned his top energy and economic advisers to a secluded meeting at Camp David today.

The session was expected to consider mandatory thermostat controls and a long list of other ideas packaged in a proposed "Iranian Response Plan," designed to cope with the oil supply pinch caused by the Iranian revolution.

The president and his aides also were likely to grapple with the conflict between his pledge to let U.S. oil prices rise to world market levels and his top-priority policy to fight inflation.

Administration sources, who asked not to be identified, have said Carter would probably reveal his energy plans in a national television address sometime this month.

By then, the Iran-caused oil shortage may be felt at gasoline stations where restricted allocations for March are beginning to dwindle.

Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger says the Iranian shutdown, which started in December and has only recently begun to ease, may cost the United States 2.5 percent of its oil, or 500,000 barrels a day.

The United States has also promised its partners in the International Energy Agency to cut oil consumption, perhaps by as much as 1 million barrels daily by year's end.

The question facing Carter was how to do that without shocking the nation's economy.

He also faces a May 31 end to congressionally imposed price ceilings on U.S.-produced oil. On that date the ceilings become discretionary, left up to decisions by the president.

Carter could simply let the controls die, allowing the average price of oil in the United States to jump about $2 a barrel to match world prices — an immediate increase of about 5 cents a gallon if averaged over all petroleum products.

Because of the inflationary impact of such a move, other possibilities have been proposed, including a two-stage removal of price controls to gradually raise U.S. prices to world levels by late 1981.

The administration has been concerned, under either type of "decontrol," about avoiding windfall profits for oil companies. So Carter must decide whether to ask Congress to impose an excess profits tax, if controls are removed, or perhaps a "plowback" provision requiring oil companies to re-invest higher profits in the search for more oil.

One way around that dilemma might be a partial decontrol. Carter could remove price controls from newly-discovered oil and "marginal" wells, as a profit incentive for new development and continued production from wells producing only a trickle.

He could then continue price controls on "old" oil and thus avoid handing windfall profits to companies that drilled those wells when costs were lower.

The removal or easing of controls and the resulting price increases would presumably lead to reduced oil consumption eventually.

Whatever form of controls Carter might opt for, all controls would end Sept. 30, 1981, under the legislation that gives Carter discretionary powers as of June 1.

But in the short run, Carter needs policies to deal with the continued shortage of imported oil as Iran's oil fields produce scarcely one-third of their pre-revolutionary level.

Although the administration was not formally publishing the "Iranian response" proposals, many have been discussed publicly.

Carter has already asked Congress for standby authority to impose heating, cooling and hot water limits on commercial and public buildings, but not on residences.

He has also asked for authority to order complete or partial weekend service station closings, and to ban unnecessary advertising lighting.

Carter must eventually decide whether, or when, to order any of those measures into effect.

Other items likely to be discussed as part of an "Iranian response" package included: Temporary waivers of clean-air requirements to permit the burning of more coal or high-sulfur domestic oil in place of imported oil.

Suspending the federal schedule for reducing lead in gasoline. A ban on outdoor natural gas lights, already proposed by the Energy Department.

Mexico sends flow to Monterey complex

MEXICO CITY (AP) — President Jose Lopez Portillo turned a pipeline valve Sunday to start natural gas flowing from large southern oil fields to a northern industrial complex in Monterrey on the 41st anniversary of the nationalization of Mexico's petroleum industry.

The completion of the 779-mile pipeline adds a vital link to Mexico's energy policy by providing much needed natural gas to shift industrial power users away from oil.

Lopez Portillo will also inaugurate a refinery with a 400,000-barrel-a-day capacity in Cadereyta. Several petrochemical installations and refinery expansions will also begin operation Sunday in other parts of the country.

Mexico's growing oil wealth has put it in the spotlight of the world energy situation. Estimated proven reserves are 40.1 billion barrels, probable reserves are 44.6 billion barrels and potential reserves are 200 billion barrels, of which one-third is natural gas.

Current crude oil production totals slightly more than 1.5 million barrels a day but that is expected to reach a ceiling of 2.5 million barrels daily sometime in 1980. Mexico exports 530,000 barrels a day, 440,000 going to the United States, 60,000 to Spain and 30,000 to Israel.

Foreign petroleum experts in Mexico say, however, that 400 million cubic feet of gas is flared daily, although the new pipeline is sure to cut into that figure as industries switch to gas power. Mexico still needs to find more uses at home or seek export markets for the gas.

The huge pipeline originally was intended to tie into the United States pipeline system at Reynosa-McAllen, Texas, and supply up to two billion cubic feet a day of natural gas to a consortium of six U.S. pipeline companies.

backed out of a deal to finance the $1 billion pipeline.

Mexico reacted angrily to the United States rejection of the deal, but did not give up its plan to build the 48-inch line. Instead the country's national oil monopoly Pemex arranged for other loans and began construction Oct. 15, 1977.

At the same time, Pemex President Jorge Diaz Serrano announced Mexico no longer had any natural gas for export and that changeovers to natural gas power would instead be promoted in Mexico's industrial centers in Monterrey, Monclova, Chihuahua and a new industrial site in Ciudad Juarez.

However, local experts say Mexico is still many years away from using all its natural gas.

Sources in Mexico insist negotiations have been resumed with American pipeline companies for one billion cubic feet of gas a day. But Teneco and El Paso Natural Gas, two of the pipeline firms mentioned in the deal, have both denied any further negotiations are underway.

The current pipeline, which will carry 800,000 cubic feet of gas daily, could carry up to two billion cubic feet a day just by adding pumping stations along its route. The extension to the United States border from San Fernando could be built for about $300 million.

Pemex will also release its annual report Sunday. There is speculation the company will announce increases in its oil reserves and changes in production plans. Pemex usually releases announcements of more oil reserves at the end of every year.

Pemex was started shortly after President Lazaro Cardenas nationalized Mexico's oil fields in 1938. The company maintained its oil fields for many years, not even producing enough petroleum for Mexico's need.

But in 1972, Pemex began exploring the Reforma oil fields in the Yucatan and discovered the huge oil deposits that made the country one of the top ten oil producers in the world.

It finalized for a daily flowing potential of 185 barrels of oil, gravity not reported, and 10 barrels of water, through a 22/64-inch choke and open hole from 9,898 to 9,926 feet. Completion was natural, and the gas-oil ratio is 802-1.

Total depth is 9,926 feet and 5.5-inch casing is set at 8,989 feet. Well site is 1,980 feet from north and 1,320 feet from east lines of section 28, block 32, T-2-N, T&P survey.

Two classes upcoming

Two classes are being offered by the Permian Basin Graduate Center at the PBGC building at 105 W. Illinois St., Midland.

"Electrical Logging" is being offered from 7 to 10 p.m. Thursday. George Horst, senior salesman with Schlumberger Well Services and Bill A. Kithas, division sales manager with Welx will instruct.

They will cover selection of logging program, costs of representative programs, log analyses, and computer analysis.

The other class offered is "Common Title Problems" in relation to oil and gas law to be instructed by Mr. Robert C. Bledsoe, attorney with Cotton, Bledsoe, Tighe, Morrow and Dawson.

It will cover abstracts, public record checking of titles, problems incurred by name changes, deaths, etc.

Fee for each class is $30.

Alabama is outsider in NIT warfare

NEW YORK (AP) — It's more like a Big Ten Conference playoff — but Alabama should feel right at home, being away from home for the holidays.

You can be certain the Big Ten won't do any worse than second in the National Invitation Tournament at Madison Square Garden, seeing as three of the four teams in tonight's semifinals come from that midwestern power conference.

But Alabama, the only "outsider," fits in very nicely, thank you. The Crimson Tide began this season's campaign in the Big Apple, finishing third in the Joe Lapchick Tournament.

That, incidentally, was better than the Tide's ever done in the NIT. In two previous appearances, Alabama has finished fourth. "Maybe the third time's a charm," said C.M. Newton, the Tide's coach.

And maybe the third time on the road during a break from classes will help, too. "Our boys gave up their Thanksgiving holiday to come here to play in the Joe Lapchick Tournament, then they gave up their Christmas holidays for the Sugar Bowl (a basketball tournament run in conjunction with the New Year's Day football classic), and now they've given up their spring holidays for the NIT," Newton said.

Indiana, 20-12, and Ohio State, 19-10, drew third-round byes and go to it in the second half of tonight's doubleheader. Purdue, 26-7, the only nationally ranked squad (15th) in the NIT and one of the three teams which shared the conference crown, opens the twinbill against Alabama, 22-10, which wound up tied for third in the Southeastern Conference standings.

While Indiana and Ohio State were relaxing last Thursday night, Purdue was defeating Old Dominion 67-59 and Alabama was whipping Texas A&M 72-68 in third-round games.

Newton said he is not thinking yet about which team his Crimson Tide might face if it gets past the Boiler-makers. "I'm not concerned about anything but Purdue and us," he said — and apparently he's very concerned. "I believe Purdue is one of the top teams in the country. Their record would indicate that. They are co-champions of the Big Ten, which is a feat in itself."

It's a good bet Newton won't be surprised by anything Purdue tries tonight. After all, the "Boiler-makers" coach, Lee Rose, was one of Newton's players during 1955-58 and, in the early 1960s, his assistant coach when they were together at Transylvania College. Their relationship, in fact, is a lot closer than that. Rose was a babysitter for Newton's children and Newton attended his wedding.

It's all very cozy — but as Newton said, "I'm sure everything will be forgotten when that ball is tipped up."

Rose feels the same way going into his first game against his old mentor. "He is the one person I have no desire to compete against as a coach," he said. "He's been like a father figure to me ... but I won't let that affect anything once the game starts."

Hey, just what is this McCumber?

MIAMI (AP) — The magnitude of Mark McCumber's upset in the Doral-Eastern Open golf tournament, and the continuing severity of Jack Nicklaus' problems, could be illustrated by some figures.

As it worked out, McCumber — one of the longest shots in the field — could have given Nicklaus — the game's greatest player — three shots a day and still beat him by three.

The fact was that Nicklaus, grimly trying to get his game in shape for the Masters, simply never got it in. In fact, he's now gone 10 consecutive rounds without breaking par.

AND McCUMBER, who required six tries at the PGA qualifying school before he even won his rights to compete on the tour, scored the major surprise of the season with a 1-stroke triumph over Bill Rogers in Sunday's final round.

"Unbelievable," McCumber told a friend over the telephone while clutching an invitation from Nicklaus to compete in the Memorial Tournament later this year.

It was only one of a number of dividends he collected after he rapped in a 6-foot bogey putt — the one he had to have — on the final hole. It finished off a final round of par-72 and gave the stocky, 27-year-old a 279 total, nine shots under par on the tough, 7,065-yard Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club.

With it, he won:

- A spot in the Masters.
- A place in the Tournament of Champions.
- A prize of $45,000 from the total purse of $250,000.
- And a year's exemption from qualifying — which he had to do to get in the tournament field here.

IN ADDITION, the victory continued a trend that has become pronounced on the pro golf tour this season: the emergence of new names and new faces as tournament winners. In 10 tournaments this season, four have been taken by men scoring their first victories.

None were more startling than McCumber's.

After his long struggle to gain his playing rights, his record in eight previous tournaments this season showed that he twice failed to qualify for the tournament field, four times failed to qualify for the final two rounds and twice finished 72 holes.

But he showed the composure of a veteran in this one.

He pulled away from Alan Tapie and Rogers, who were making bogeys, with steady play down the back. He went to the 18th, probably the toughest finishing hole in golf, with a 2-shot lead. He needed only a bogey to insure the victory. And then, to heighten the drama, he put himself in a variety of interesting and unlikely positions — behind trees, under a concession stand and such like — before holing that 6-foot bogey putt.

"I just did what I'd tried to do all week — isolate each shot," said the talkative man from Jacksonville, Fla. "I tried all week to forget totals, not look at leader boards, just concentrate on each shot."

"I can't believe it, but I did it. I'd be a fool to ever go away from that philosophy."

Rogers also had a 72 to finish second at 280. Rod Curl, never in the title chase, shot 68-281. The group at 282 included Tapie, who closed with a 76; Mike McCullough, 67; Kermit Zarley, 71, and Gibby Gilbert, 68.

Nicklaus shot 72, with a double-bogey 6 on the final hole, and finished at 294 — 15 shots behind McCumber.

Talk of longshots; NCAA has them coming in fours

By The Associated Press

Talk about longshots ...

Take the teams in the NCAA basketball semifinals — Indiana State, Michigan State, DePaul and Penn.

Of the four, only Michigan State ever has gone this far, the Spartans finishing fourth in 1957. DePaul was among the final four teams in 1943, but at that time, only a total of eight teams were invited to regional games in the East and the West, with the regional champions meeting for the national title and no third-place game between the losers.

Of the four, only Michigan State was rated among the top 20 teams prior to the season, ranking seventh in The Associated Press poll. Indiana State was listed among the also-rans, and neither DePaul nor Penn got even a single vote among the 53 teams named by a national panel of sportswriters and broadcasters.

OF THE four, only Indiana State was seeded first in its regional tournament, the unbeaten Sycamores being tapped to win the Midwest Regional. DePaul was ranked second in the West Regional, Michigan State second in the Mideast, and Penn ninth in the East Regional.

Of the team's four coaches — Bill Hodges of Indiana State, Jud Heathcote of Michigan State, 65-year-old Ray Meyer of DePaul and Bob Weidner of Penn — none ever has guided a team into the Final Four at any school.

In addition, no Ivy League school, such as Penn, has appeared in the Final Four since 1965 when Princeton finished third.

This year's Final Four reached that plateau over the weekend.

Saturday, top-ranked Indiana State, 32-0, won the Midwest Regional at Cincinnati, edging No. 5 Arkansas 73-71 on reserve Bob Heaton's field goal with two seconds remaining. No. 6 DePaul, 25-5, captured the West Regional at Provo, Utah, upsetting second-ranked UCLA 95-91 as Curtis Watkins and Gary Garland each scored 20 points.

Sunday, third-ranked Michigan State, 24-6, took the Mideast Regional at Indianapolis, beating No. 4 Notre Dame 80-68 behind Greg Kelsner's 34 points and 13 rebounds and Earvin Johnson's 19 points and 13 assists. And 14th-ranked Penn won the East Regional at Greensboro, N.C., defeating No. 17 St. John's 64-62 on James Salters' two free throws with 23 seconds remaining.

THIS SATURDAY in the national semifinals, Indiana State faces DePaul and Michigan State plays Penn. The winners meet for the national collegiate championship next Monday night.

Perhaps the happiest coach of the surviving teams was the long-frustrated, grandfatherly Meyer, in his 37th season at DePaul, a little school in Chicago.

With a large green boutonniere shining from his lapel on St. Patrick's Day, he said with a broad smile: "Thank God, we are in the Final Four."

Asked if he was shocked at having beaten proud UCLA, the Pac-10 champion, Meyer replied: "Quite frankly, yes. So much so that I had to pinch myself."

Questioned about DePaul's matchup against unbeaten Indiana State in the national semifinals, Meyer said: "We play Indiana State? Well, the Bird will fly. We'll have to devise some defense for him." He referred to Larry Bird, the Sycamores' Player of the Year in college basketball.

DePaul, decided underdogs against UCLA, a team that crushed the Blue Demons 108-85 in the season opener, raced to a 51-34 halftime lead, then withstood a second-half Bruins comeback, led by All-American David Greenwood. Greenwood scored a career-high 37 points.

UCLA closed to 93-91 in the closing minute, but a basket by Garland clinched the victory.

ANOTHER PROUD coach was Hodges, in his rookie year at Indiana State, a team maligned all season because of its so-called easy schedule.

"All year long, we haven't cared what people said," Hodges said. "We didn't let the press or critics distract us or make us lose focus of our goal. We're going to Salt Lake City to win — and we're not going in awe of anyone."

The Sycamores finally gained respect after beating Arkansas, one of the nation's top teams.

"We didn't think we'd get this far and now we're here," Bird said proudly.

The Sycamores got "here" mainly because of Bird. He scored 31 points, grabbed 10 rebounds and had three assists against the Razorbacks.

They also got "here" because of Heaton, Bird's unheralded but clutch-shooting roommate whose last-second field goal broke a 71-71 tie.

"Once the ball went in the hoop, it was like the whole world crashed in on me," said Sidney Moncrief, the Razorbacks' scoring leader with 24 points.

Another team gaining unexpected respect was Penn.

"We're in the Final Four in the nation," said Tony Price, the Quakers' high-scoring forward, his voice filled with awe. "I just wanted people to respect us. I didn't expect this."

"We're going to be underdogs in the Final Four, but I don't mind at all," said Weinbauer, in his second year of coaching at Penn, a school in a league more renowned for its academic accomplishments than its athletic feats.

PRICE LED the Quakers with 21 points, a total equalled by Ron Plair of St. John's who hit his first nine field goal attempts before missing with three seconds remaining on a shot that would have tied the score.

"There's no post-mortem on my part," said Coach Lou Carnesecca, whose St. John's team went much farther than expected. "That team (St. John's) walked out ... with their heads up."

Michigan State also was proud of its accomplishment.

"It feels great — I can't even say how great," said Johnson, the Spartans ballhandling wizard. "It was a dream of mine to make the Final Four and now we're there."

Johnson and Kelsner combined to dazzle Notre Dame on offense, while Michigan State's zone defense throttled the Irish's vaunted inside game.

"Our defense never broke down as it has at times this season," said Heathcote, in his third season as Michigan State coach. "This is the best we've played for some time."

Meanwhile, North Alabama won the NCAA's Division II title, beating Wisconsin-Green Bay 64-50, North Park captured the Division III crown with a 66-62 victory over Potsdam State, and Drury took the NAIA championship with a 60-54 triumph over Henderson State.

Carner's caution pays off in win

SAN DIEGO (AP) — JoAnne Carner played it close to the vest late in the final round of the $150,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament at Rancho Bernardo Inn and Country Club and it paid off in her 22nd career victory.

"I three-ironed it to death from 14 on in," said Carner Sunday after shooting a second straight 69 to give her a three-shot triumph and the $22,500 first prize. "I putted fairly conservatively, I had a lot of good lag putts."

Carner's three-shot margin of victory over Sandra Post and Pat Bradley was a bit misleading. The winner had a lead of just one stroke over Post before the latter double-bogeyed the 17th hole.

Carner hit three-irons off the tee on four of her final five holes as she finished her round with five pars.

"I made a last-minute adjustment in my putting stroke just before teeing off and it helped," Carner said, pointing to seven one-putt greens in her final round and a 35-putt birdie putt on the sixth hole.

She has won a total of $31,800 this year, tops on the LPGA money-winning list.

Carner's final score in the 72-hole tournament over the 6,212-yard, par-72 Rancho Bernardo layout was 281, fashioned on rounds of 72, 71, 69 and 69. Post finished with a 71 and Bradley a 73 to give the pair scores of 284.

Betty Burfeindt was next with a 70-285, followed by Sandra Palmer at 72-286 and Pam Higgins at 70-289. Five players — 1978 champion Sally Little, Hollis Stacy, Mary Dwyer, Amy Alcott and Beth Solomon — wound up at 290.

Carner took the lead Sunday with successive birdies on the front side, but Post went in front with a 33 going out and a birdie on No. 11. However, Carner regained the lead for good with a birdie on the 13th hole while Post bogeyed.

"I was playing so good through 12 holes and even after that bogey at 13, I still felt good and came back," said Post. "I got caught up in the long grass and couldn't even see the ball at 17 until I got on top of it."

Post, a second-place finisher for the third time this year, needed three shots to reach the putting surface and three putts to get down on the par-four 17th.

The tournament was sponsored by Honda Civic.

Clippers start thinking very big

By The Associated Press

The San Diego Clippers haven't even clinched a National Basketball Association playoff berth yet but they're thinking bigger and better things.

"This team can go all the way," said Lloyd Free, who scored 15 of his game-high 31 points in the fourth period Sunday as the Clippers beat the New Jersey Nets 110-98.

"I still don't think we're being taken seriously by everyone, but we're serious."

The triumph was the fifth in a row for the Clippers, who have won 13 of their last 14 games and 11 straight at home. The Nets have dropped five in a row and nine of 11.

The Clippers, who are locked in a battle with the Denver Nuggets and Portland Trail Blazers for the final two playoff berths in the Western Conference, led all the way, moving out to a 34-17 lead after one quarter when the Nets made only eight of 29 shots.

"This team started off playing better on the road than at home," Free said. "Then, all of a sudden we got tough at home and we're still tough. The reason we're so tough at home is we've established our offense early in the game and set the pace for them on."

New Jersey pulled to within three points late in the third quarter but rookie Freeman Williams led an 11-4 San Diego surge.

San Diego Coach Gene Shue had words of praise for Williams, who scored 15 points in 16 minutes.

"Freeman has been an outstanding offensive guard for us," Coach Gene Shue said of the rookie from Portland State, who was the nation's top collegiate scorer a year ago. "He's all that we expected and he's continually working on his defense. He has the tools to become one of the stars of the NBA."

Bucks 147, Spurs 127

Marques Johnson scored 34 points and Milwaukee pulled away in the second half. "We had a real non-effort in the second half," San Antonio Coach Doug Moe said of the Spurs' third consecutive setback. "For three games we've been struggling. If you're not after it 100 percent, you're not going to win games like this."

The Bucks scored 10 of the first 12 second-half points — six by Brian Winters, who finished with 25 — to pull away from a 67-66 halftime edge. Milwaukee then ran off nine straight points to build the lead to 89-74.

Bullets 126, Cavaliers 112

Bobby Dandridge and Elvin Hayes scored 24 points apiece and Wes Unseld added 20 as Washington raised its home record to 27-7. The Bullets broke the game open midway through the third period, scoring nine straight points to pull away from a 72-72 tie. Both coaches, Dick Motta of Washington and Bill Fitch of Cleveland, were ejected in the opening period. Campy Russell led the Cavaliers with 35 points.

Kings 114, Bulls 103

Kansas City got 24 points from Bill Robinzine and 15 from Sam Lacey. It was the Kings' second straight triumph after losing seven of eight.

"The more we play together, the better we're going to play," said reserve guard Lucius Allen, who contributed 10 points. "We got together and played like a basketball team today. We were shell-shocked there for a while."

Jazz 121, Suns 117

Jimmy McElroy scored 33 points and Rich Kelley grabbed 16 of his 20 rebounds in the second half. The Suns led 91-90 after three quarters but Kelley scored eight points in a row and the Jazz never trailed after that. The Suns got 29 points apiece from Walter Davis and Paul Westphal. Spencer Haywood scored 27 and Kelley added 20 for the Jazz. McElroy had 10 assists to go along with his game-high scoring.

76ers 106, Knicks 90

Darryl Dawkins scored 29 points for Philadelphia and Steve Mix added 21. The lead changed hands 16 times before Doug Collins canned a pair of free throws 2:28 before the intermission to give Philadelphia the lead for good at 45-44. Ray Williams topped the Knicks with 27 points.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — For the Drury Panthers from southwest Missouri, the trip to their first NAIA Basketball Tournament title began last fall.

"We knew we should have won it last year," said Mike Carter, whose 16 points sparked third-seeded Drury to a 60-54 triumph over Henderson State, Ark., Saturday night for the championship.

"We knew from the very beginning when we were running the wind sprints at the high school last fall we would be here. We were just lucky enough to win it."

The Panthers were eliminated in the tournament quarter-finals a year ago, but were ranked No. 1 among NAIA teams for much of this season and finished with a 33-2 record.

Henderson State led most of the first half Saturday night but Drury rattled off the last four points before halftime to grab a 34-30 lead and never trailed again.

"I knew what the outcome was going to be, to tell you the truth, because we had already beaten them once in the Quincy tournament (71-68 in December)," said Carter, recipient of the tournament's hustle award.

"Even when they were ahead, I knew we were going to come back. When it gets down to the last three or four minutes and we have a lead, we're not going to surrender it."

Neither team shot well from the field but Drury hit 12 of 22 free throws — including its last six points of the game — compared with Henderson State's four of six.

"I felt like we were ice cold from the field," said Henderson State Coach Bobby Reese. "I thought we played well defensively and we moved the basketball. We got outshot, it just wouldn't fall. Drury did a good job defensively."

Anthony Avery pumped in 16 points for the Reddies, 29-3, and was joined on the all-tournament team by Drury's Jerry Alexander and Lawrence Washington, who was named the most valuable player.

Also named to the first team were James Patrick of Southwest Texas State and Rolando Frazier of Briar Cliff College.

In the third-place game, Patrick poured in 23 points to propel Southwest Texas State to a 101-88 win over Midwestern State.

Al Unser gets out of hospital

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP) — Neil Bonnett has found at least one advantage to unemployment, and Al Unser got another trip to the hospital. "I don't have to share my winnings with anybody," Bonnett said happily after winning Saturday's season finale of the International Race of Champions series and finishing second in the series standings behind champion Mario Andretti.

The race was marred by one serious wreck involving Unser, who also is the championship driver for Midland's Jim Hall. He received a blow to the head and lost consciousness briefly. Officials said he was treated and released Saturday night at a near by hospital. Unser was in a serious wreck last year in Texas when he cracked up Hall's Indianapolis 500 entry, but he came back to win the Indy 500 title.

Bonnett collected $27,500 from the purse of $300,000. That's by far the biggest payday of his career — and all of it goes right into his bank account. Usually drivers have to share their winnings with their car owners or backers. Some actually receive less than 30 percent of their winnings after all the splits have been made.

Bonnett, who earned a spot in the invitational series based on his showings in the last part of the 1977 season and the first part of 1978, lost his regular ride on the Grand National stock car circuit last month when his team folded.

"It keeps you humble about your own abilities, racing against a field with drivers of this caliber," Bonnett said. "But you know, you never beat these guys — you just come out ahead sometimes."

Bonnett came out ahead by a couple of feet in the wild four-abreast finish, the closest in the series' six-year history of close finishes. Andretti was second, Bobby Allison third by inches and Cale Yarborough fourth by about the same margin.

The 100-mile race was closely contested throughout, although Andretti led all but two laps until Bonnett pulled ahead four laps from the finish.

Andretti, the reigning World Champion, finished with 38 points and $75,000. Bonnett and Yarborough each had 29 points. Bobby Allison was fourth with 28 points.

Alex Rodriguez, Carmen Hearon and Roy Hearon are shown with a few of the decorative items for sale at Carmen's Mexican Imports, 401 East Illinois.

More than 5,000 items at Carmen's Imports

Carmen's Mexican Imports cannot be imagined, it must be experienced to be believed. Thousands of items are to be found there, both practical and decorative.

Lovely silver and turquoise jewelry, as well as other kinds, are for sale. Necklaces, rings, earrings, belt buckles, and also some lovely crucifixes. Jewel boxes, different sizes, of onyx, wood, or glass.

The largest selection of Sylvania television receivers in town is at Carmen's, which is an authorized sales and service outlet for Sylvania. They handle the Nelco Sewing machines. They stock Kelvinator washers, dryers, ranges, and microwave ovens. See Alex Rodriguez for TV's and sewing machines.

A new arrival is a selection of bright flowers made of feathers. Come and see these before they are gone.

They still have a variety of bars and bar stools, as well as child-size chairs and rockers. A very good item is the chests, some plain wood and some with padded tops upholstered in colorful crushed velvet.

A large variety of clothing is stocked at Carmen's Mexican Imports. Purses, sized for little girls, misses, and women. Colorful embroidered blouses and skirts, some sets sparkling with sequins, some in tucked ecru cotton with heavy lace trim. Ponchos - suede jackets for men - capes.

There is a very good-looking lady's suede tunic with subtle design in darker tan. Malachite plaques are on special during March 40 percent off. See the beautiful inlaid stone backgammon board, the inlaid chess boards with carved pieces. A pretty, new item is a wrought iron occasional table with orange lilies with green leaves and stems supporting the round glass top. Thousands of bargains await your examination at Carmen's.

There is bound to be something you will want to have, so come in soon to see for yourself.

CITY WIDE ELECTRIC

682-6621

Joe Fussell, owner of City Wide Electric, is known by his customers as a dependable man whose work is done right and reasonably. He would like to make new friends and customers and invites anyone with wiring chores to be done to call him at 684-6621.

City Wide Electric gives super electrical service

DO YOU HAVE SOME new lighting fixtures to put in, but are afraid you might burn the house down if you try to install them yourself? Would you like to have a new electric stove, but you don't have heavy enough wiring? Want to go microwave with your cooking? Maybe you could really use several new outlets, placed more conveniently for your lamps, your vacuum, your toaster or waffle iron, or your electric skillet?

Most towns are service-hungry, and Midland is no exception. You need search no longer for the man to do your electrical service - call 684-6621 and talk to Joe Fussell at City Wide Electric, and he will take care of you.

Joe Fussell. He is an amiable and able young man, and will do any electrical work for you. He will contract for residential or commercial jobs, or he will gladly come to your home to wire for heavy electrical appliances, or simply to put in a few new outlets or replace worn-out switches.

If the answer to any of the above is "yes", then the one for you to call is Tom King and Bill Chancellor, on the site of their planned industrial area located on Francis Street west of Cottonflat Road, are proud of the new warehouse ready for sale. It has a paneled 20x50 office with central air, is insulated and has skylights, overhead heaters and is served with gas and electricity. County zoning with city convenience. Call Tom King, 682-6000, or Bill Chancellor, 683-2040.

School spirit

The "Peanuts" gang revs up a crack team for the Junior Olympics, but it looks as though they have no qualified representative. In a burst of school spirit, Charlie Brown volunteers for the decathlon, thereby involving his pals (and his fans) in a sporting cliffhanger.

It all part of the fun on "You're the Greatest, Charlie Brown," the latest in a line of "Peanuts" specials. The program airs tonight on CBS.

Pair collects booze bottles

By BILL DENSMORE

OLEMA, Calif. (AP) — Elvis Presley, frozen behind the bar in a gold-studded white suit and blue scarf, chimes "Love Me Tender." Wild Bill Hickok stares at Calamity Jane as the Spirit of St. Louis soars overhead.

And they're all filled to the gills with whiskey. Union and rebel soldiers, their dress uniforms a sea of reds and blues, hold formation in the dining room as if ready for battle. Bears, buffalo, mountain lions and even a wild turkey watch from the far mantle.

Jerry and Agnes Bunce, who own a tavern and restaurant in this coastal resort community 30 miles north of San Francisco, are collectors. But they don't trade stamps, coins or cars — they buy exotic whiskey bottles.

INSIDE EACH CERAMIC miniature is booze — up to a half-gallon. The couple owns what may be the largest collection of odd-shaped whiskey bottles in the world, all painted or glazed in painstaking detail.

"And they're all full," says Bunce. "They haven't even been tapped."

The collection includes 650 different containers and is worth about $15,000. It includes likenesses of ballerinas, fiddlers, autos, a sewing machine, a telephone, a mallard duck and even a tiny Mississippi River showboat.

"I have never seen as many in one spot as we've got," says Bunce. "I've got 'em in the basement, I've got 'em upstairs. I haven't got room for 'em all."

"BUT WE DON'T buy them for their value," his wife says as she whips up a Marguerita for some townfolk.

"At first we thought it was stupid," Bunce adds between mouthfuls of lunch served by his wife behind the bar. "But people come in to look at them and it's good for business. Besides, after you start collecting, it's hard to stop."

Their first porcelain bottle, which they bought about 10 years ago, was a bouquet of yellow roses. It still sits, untapped, on a shelf to the left of the cash register.

THE BUNCES, WHO moved here from Hamilton, Ohio, in 1963, buy the whiskey containers from distributors and distillery salesmen. Every few weeks, a new mold comes out. The couple looks at catalogues to choose particular designs.

"They've got to be real nice before I buy them now," says Mrs. Bunce.

Because the entrance to Point Reyes National Seashore is just a few miles away, Jerry and Agnes Bunce see plenty of tourists, and that means they frequently are asked to sell their bottles.

ONE PATRON OFFERED $700 for a 14-inch high statue of a scruffy Gold Rush miner which originally cost $23, Bunce says.

The Elvis Presley statue, also about a foot tall and equipped with a wind-up music box, sold for about $41 when they bought it. Now they get offers of $150 for the late king of rock-and-roll.

Because of their value, and because the San Andreas Fault — one of the world's longest and most-active — passes a few hundred feet from the bar, special precautions are needed.

Two German shepherds watch by night, and Bunce rigged wire to hold the crockery in case of a tremor. Pieces produced in sets or limited editions are behind a plexiglass enclosure.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

About abortion

Dear Dr. Solomon: I am a 25-year-old woman who has been trying to become pregnant since my marriage a year ago. So far I have been pregnant once, but had a spontaneous abortion. What does this mean in relation to the possibility of future successful pregnancies?— Mrs. M.K.

Dear Mrs. K.: Many explanations can be advanced for a spontaneous abortion, but none is based on hard evidence. Since you have had only the one spontaneous abortion, there is every reason to believe you can have a successful pregnancy. If another abortion occurs, however, you should check very closely with your gynecologist. As far as we know, only chromosomal abnormalities and malformation of the uterus are known to cause habitual abortion.

Even with two spontaneous abortions, there is still a better than even chance of a successful pregnancy. However, where a woman has had three or more spontaneous abortions, the gynecologist will very probably want to perform some diagnostic tests to determine the possibility of her carrying a child through a successful pregnancy and delivery. A woman who becomes pregnant after three or more spontaneous abortions might want to consider amniocentesis for prenatal diagnosis.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My daughter started smoking in high school and at the age of 23 is still puffing away. When I warn her about the risk of cancer, she smiles and says: "Men, mom, not women." I know she's wrong but I don't have the facts. Can you supply them?— Mrs. E.R.

Dear Mrs. R.: If your daughter doesn't believe you, maybe she'll take the word of the National Cancer Institute. It recently reported that between 1973 and 1976, lung cancer in women rose 30 percent. While some of the increase may be related to the fact that more women now work in formerly all-male occupations, anyone who doubts the association between smoking and lung cancer—for both men and women—must believe in the tooth fairy. You can't force a 23-year-old woman to quit smoking, but it's worth another try. If she continues to doubt your word, tell her to check with the National Cancer Institute.

One further point. You do not say whether your daughter has a family. If she does, she may be interested to learn that her smoking can very well be having a harmful effect on her children and husband.

Mice grow bold on grass

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — The Birmingham police say a mouse with a taste for marijuana is fearless in its quest to get at the supply stored in the narcotics office as evidence. The antics of the mouse have earned it the name of "C-Bo," a slang for Colombian marijuana.

Lt. J.E. Bibb said officer Pat Curry had pulled out his desk drawer recently and discovered C-Bo chewing on a bag of evidence.

Weatherstrip and caulk now to stop energy leaks.

In time, even tiny air cracks can add up to large heating and cooling losses. But sealing those energy-robbing cracks isn't all that hard. You can do it yourself with Texas Electric's free booklets on caulking and weatherstripping. They're part of a series we're offering to energy-conscious homeowners who want to make their homes energy efficient. Using basic tools and readily available materials, even unhandy people can caulk and weatherstrip their own homes to keep energy costs down. Other booklets in the series cover insulation, storm windows, ductwork, and general maintenance. Just call us, or ask for the booklets on the comments section of your electric bill. See how easy it is to make your home energy efficient.

100% TAX DEDUCTION

Individual Retirement Account

The Individual Retirement Account is a 100% tax deduction that you should apply to your 1978 income tax return.

You may deposit up to 15% of your income, or $1,500.00, whichever is less. Every dollar you deposit is tax deductible. You don't have to pay income tax until you withdraw the funds, after you retire, when you're in a much lower tax bracket.

I.R.A. funds are FSLIC insured to $100,000.00. The account is available to anyone who is not already covered by a retirement program.
