Begin, Sadat and 'Hair' all visiting Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the final touches were being put on the Middle East peace treaty, some Washingtonians were being reminded of a peace movement of a decade ago.

'Hair," a movie celebrating the Vietnam peace movement, came to town on the same weekend that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin arrived for today's signing of "A touching coincidence," said Milos Forman, the movie's director. "It's no surprise that Begin, Sadat, the peace movement and 'Hair' all arrived" at the same time, said George Stevens, head of the American Film Institute, which benefited from Sunday night's premiere.

"This is not a publicity stunt although it may look like one," said producer Lester Persky. "We had this movie scheduled long before the peace talks were on.

Among those attending the showing were Zbigniew Brzezinski, President Carter's national security adviser; several senators, and young Washingtonians in flower tatoos, beads, fringes and other decorations of Several scenes of the movie, based on the award-winning Broadway musical produced by Michael Butler, were filmed in Washington Forman said at first he was worried that the film might cause some dissension among the different generations in the audience. "But everyone loved it — the kids, the senators, the old Washingtonians," he said. "I'm delighted with the reception." Brzezinski said he thought the film was "terrific," even though he was a proponent of "winning the war," as he termed his stance. At a party after the film, Brzezinski, who was accompanied by his wife, danced

"Why not? Now I can relax and have a good time," he said, referring to the end of the Mideast negotiations.

'Many guests at the party appeared in vintage outfits from the days of President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Anti-war protester Sam Brown, who now heads the government volunteer agency ACTION, was in jeans and matching vest, a switch from the three-piece suits he now sports. That caused Stevens to remark: "It's nice to see Sam Brown in his old clothes again. Welcome back.

Treaty won't end long road to peace

WASHINGTON (AP) - Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin prepared to sign a treaty today to end 30 years of war between their countries and, they hoped, lay the cornerstone of peace in the Middle East

The treaty they planned to sign did not come easily. The bargaining last ed until late Sunday evening as the two ancient enemies haggled over the final details of their new and fragile

This morning, State Department of ficials said experts from the three countries were still going over the language of the treaty, although all issues had been settled in principle

As a result, the text was not made public until after Sadat, Begin and President Carter met at the White House and sat down at a table used by Ulysses S. Grant. They planned to sign three treats versions, in English. Hebrew and Arabic

Egyptian officials said the final compromise involved an Israel pledge to withdraw from the Sinai oil fields seven months after the signing of the treaty, instead of nine months. after, as the Israelis had wanted, or six months after, as the Egyptians

American officials confirmed that schedule and said that it represented. basically a return to an agreement tentatively struck several months

Sadat arrived at the White House for the treaty signing and a conference with Carter at 11 a m EST. They posed for pictures and Carter told the Egyptian leader he saw 'a good op portunity in the next few months to open up Egypt to American invest

The leaders planned to celebrate the occasion with a state dinner this evening with 1,300 guests under a red and vellow tent on the South Lawn of the White House. "This is the day we hoped for Let us rejoice," said

But until late Sunday evening, there seemed some chance tonight's celebration might not be held

On Sunday morning eign Minister Moshe Dayan said in a television interview that the exact timetable for Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai oilfields had not been settled and that he did not think Israel should sign the treaty until that question was resolved

Begin arrived at Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington a few hours later in a light rain and added a few more issues to the agenda-

He said he wanted to talk to Sadat about a three part signing ceremony in which he and Sadat would leave Washington to sign the Arabic and Hebrew versions of the treats in Cairo and Jerusalem. He said Sadat and Carter had agreed to this idea.

Begin also said he wanted to open the borders between Egypt and Israel 10 months after ratification of the treaties so Egyptians might visit Israel and Israelis might gaze at the Pyramids, "in which their forefathers invested some labor.

Shortly after 6 p.m., Begin arrived at the Egyptian Embassy where Sadat was staying. The two leaders conferred until 7:35 when Begin, his expression grim, got into his car and drove back to his hotel

During the conversation, Begin apparently gave up on his plan to get Sadat to visit Jerusalem. Israel and Egyptian spokesmen announced that Begin would make a one-day visit to Cairo on April 2 to repay Sadat's historic visit to Jerusalem in November, 1977. All three versions of the treaty would be signed at the White House

A short time later. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance arrived at the hotel to confer with Begin, repeating a visit he had paid in New York Saturday night

When Vance emerged, he and Dayan were smiling. There would be a treaty signing. Vance said. Asked if the oilfields problem had been settled, Vance responded, "I believe it has."

Then Vance went to the White House to report to Carter, who had spent Sunday in Texas and Oklahoma He told a news conference in Dallas that 50 or 100 years from now. history may call the achievement of peace between Egypt and Israel "the most significant occurence during my

Bombs, strikes, protests greet signing of treaty

By The Associated Press

Arab foes of the Israeli Egyptian peace treats protested the pact with bombs, demonstrations and strikes today, and Arab governments prepared to mount economic sanctions and a political quarantine against Egypt Israel set nationwide celebra tions to coincide with today's treaty

King Hussein of Jordan flew to Da mascus to talk with President Hafez Assad to coordinate opposition to the treaty. Two bomb blasts Sunday night outside the U.S. Embassy in Dama scus kicked off the wave of protests that spread today to other Arab or Moslem capitals

Palestinians staged general strikes in East Jerusalem, other cities in the Israeli occupied West Bank of the Jordan River, the occupied Gaza Strip, Lebanon and Jordan Thousands of treaty foes marched in Kuwait Palenstinians and their leftist Lebanese allies took to the streets in Moslem West Beirut firing rifle volleys into the air and setting fire to auto tires. They also ensured that shopkeepers observed the strike

Effigies of President Carter, Egyp tian President Anwar Sadat and Is raeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin went up in flames at Palestinian refugee camps in Beirut and Moslem cities in Lebanon Palestinian spokesmen said the demonstrations were peaceful

The bomb blasts at the U.S. Embassy in Damascus shattered windows but caused no casualties or major damage. No one claimed responsibili ty for the attack Syrian witnesses said one bomb was hurled into the embassy garden from a passing car and the other went off near the rear of the building. One witness said some one in the car shouted "To hell with the traitorous agreement!

The State Department already had alerted U.S. missions in the Middle East to the possibility of terrorist attacks as the signing of the U.S. sponsored treaty approached. Israel and Egypt also have taken massive security precautions.

Almost every Arab government has scorned the pact Sadat and Begin will sign today on the White House lawn. The other Arabs are opposed to the treaty because Sadat did not obtain a state for the Palestinians, the return of East Jerusalem to the Arabs and the return of the Golan Heights to Iran's Moslem patriarch, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, denounced the treaty Sunday, saying it was "against the interests of the Arab world" and increased "the dangers that have always been posed by Israel in the

Syria allows jumbo jet to leave

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) - A Pan American jumbo jet bound from New York to Saudi Arabia was ordered to land in Damascus, Syria, today for allegedly violating Syrian airspace, but it was allowed to resume its flight three hours later, officials reported.

In New York, Pan Am officials said normal flight plans and international aviation agreements permit its airplanes to fly over Damascus on the route between New York and Dhahran, Saudi Arabia.

State Department officials in Washington said the jetliner, carrying 88 passengers and a crew of 16, was ordered down at about 8:30 a.m. or 9 a.m. EST.

Pan Am spokeswoman Pamela Hanlon said in New York it took off again for Dhahran at 11:48 a.m.

The State Department officials said there was no indication the incident was related in any way to Syria's opposition to this afternoon's signing of an Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty.

Protests mounted throughout the Arab world today against the U.S. sponsored treaty. In Damascus Sunday, two bomb blasts just outside the U.S. Embassy shattered windows in the building but caused no casual-

An official at the Damascus airport control tower reached by telephone said the plane was ordered by radio to land because it had violated Syrian airspace He said the pilot, identified by Pan Am as Capt. Frank Altomari of New York, was ordered to make an explanatory report and that the same would be done for the aircraft of any country, including Arab nations.

Ms. Hanlon said, however, that Pan Am normally flies through Syrian airspace on the New York-Dhahran Flight 24, a non-stop flight.

There was no further clarification of the contradictory statements. Officials of the Federal Aviation Administration in Washington said no one aboard was harmed and no one was left behind. U.S. Embassy staff members went to the airport immediately after learning that the plane had been ordered down, the State Department officials said.

There was no indication that Syrian air force planes took off or had any part in forcing the Pan American plane to land in Damascus.

Search for new Davis judge begins

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - The search for a new judge for the highstakes Cullen Davis divorce trial began today.

The judge with overall responsibility for civil proceedings in Tarrant County said he would meet with attorneys for both Cullen and Priscilla Davis today to find a successor to District Judge John Barron, who angrily withdrew from the case Saturday night.

Barron, although insisting he had done nothing improper, quit the case and declared a mistrial in the 5-weekold case Saturday night after the Fort Worth Star-Telegram learned he had met privately in his hotel room on two recent occasions with Cullen Davis. Barron, himself, was the second

Mrs. Sherrod added "the voters are wondering just what my opponent does favor other than academic excellence, which is a goal, not a solution, and eliminating 'senior privilege' which I have advocated since the beginning of my campaign. "I prefer to achieve a superior school system through planning, not merely reacting to one crisis after another," Mrs. Sherrod said.

4-foot-8 private tall enough to beat Army's height rule

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) - Fred Tabor, whose battle against the Army's minimum height rule began in the local recruiting office, is back but now the 4-foot-8 private is doing the recruiting. He is helping regular recruiters for a month before going to Germany for his first permanent assignment as an aircraft engine mechanic. Tabor, 19, began considering enlisting last spring.

"I thought maybe the Army might have something to offer me," he said. "When I really decided it was something I had to do was when they told me I couldn't.

He passed physical and mental tests, but the Army refused to waive its minimum height requirement of 5 feet. Tabor got help from his congressman and in August was told he could enlist.

"I thought it was a little bit of a victory for me," he said. "I was getting my chance to prove that I could do it just like anybody else. I was glad. I was a little shocked, too."

His welcome at basic training at Fort Jackson, S.C., was predictable. Man, does your mom know you're here?" Tabor recalled one sergeant asking him in jest. But, he added, "I think I had as much fun with it as

Salesman sings for his supper, and more

NEW YORK (AP) — Like Little Tommy Tucker, the Singing Salesman sings for his supper. Unlike the Mother Goose character, the Singing Salesman also sings for his blue slacks, his white shirt, his $40 print tie, his black shoes with gold buckles and even his curly hair style.

The Singing Salesman — Marty Echols, a 29-year-old native of Salt Lake City — earns all of these things as a "professional recommender," peddling products and services to a public that has never even heard of him, let alone heard him sing.

He says he earned only $3,000 in cash last year, but with all of the freebies he was given, he lived "an upper-middle class existence."

His ads, placed in newspapers and on the walls of newsstands, depict a Las Vegas-style singer wearing a three-piece suit, hefting a microphone over his head.

"Marty Echols, The Singing Salesman, RECOMMENDS...," the ads say, and then they list several stores that paid a fee so they could be considered deserving of the Singing Salesman's imprimatur. Below, the Singing Salesman thanks "the many companies and production people who have made my shows and advertising a great success. He lists the photographer who took his picture ... the tailor who made his suit ... the jeweler who furnished the silver bracelets that dangle from his wrist ... the hair stylist who cut his brown locks.

All of these things were given to the Singing Salesman, in exchange for a mention in his ads. Echols knows he has a good thing going, even if he's not quite sure of why it works.

"I guess it's because I only recommend things for people who were creative enough, gentle enough, kind enough to give me a chance," he said recently, over a lunch that was purchased by an Indian restaurant he recommends.

Life was not always good to Echols. He arrived in New York in 1972 with nothing but $80 and a lifelong ambition to be a singer. His baritone - "I can sing Elvis

Police said the arrests took place about 8:30 p.m., when officers making a routine check of the restaurant noticed customers watching the door to a back room.

The officers went into the back room, found a crap game in progress and called for other police to help make arrests, police reports said.

The entertainers are paid for their appearances, and Echols also urges members of the audience to help them in their careers

Echols sometimes charges an admission fee, and uses that for his own costs and to pay other entertainers. The restaurateur keeps the money he makes on food and drinks. Sometimes, no admission is charged, and the nightclub owner pays Echols and the entertainers a fee.

He has done five shows at small nightclubs and at trade fairs, giving away about $200,000 worth of vitamins, eyeglass frames, tickets to the Empire State Building observatory, pen and pencil sets and sessions at health clubs, to name a few.

Despite scars, the Wallenda family keeps tradition alive

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) - A few miles from the gravesite of aerialist Karl Wallenda, his grandchildren walk a high wire, practicing the dare-devil stunts that are their legacy. It has been a year since Wallenda fell 120 feet to his death from a windwhipped high wire stretched between hotels in San Juan, Puerto Rico. But the spirit that propelled the fearless aerialist - he was 73 when he fell - lives on through his progeny

"I feel it's in my blood. This is my career," says granddaughter Rietta Wallenda, 18, who travels the country performing on the high wire.

Miss Wallenda and her cousin Ricky Bogino represent the fifth generation of Wallendas to carry on despite scars and tragedies

Also performing under the Wallenda banner in circuses are Miss Wallenda's mother, Carla, grandson Tino Zoppee, Phillip Gikas, and George Zamudio, who just joined the act.

New methods win state honor for city teacher

By SUSAN TOTH

In the past 17 years, home economics courses have changed from girls learning to sew, cook and clean house to students of both sexes learning to relate to each other, budget their money and prepare for their future family life.

Darlene Hicks has welcomed the change and enjoys the newer courses. She uses interesting methods of teaching new concepts and works with student teachers passing on her enthusiasm to a new group

Those are some of the things that brought her the Texas Home Economics Teacher of the Year award recently. The honor was given by the Texas Home Economists Association and Family Circle maga-

Mrs. Hicks, who has taught home economics at Midland High School for 15 of her 17 years in teaching, was "surprised and pleased" by the

"I was honored just to be nominated," she added.

The award was such a surprise, in fact, it took a while to sink in, she said.

After being nominated by an associate at Baylor University, she completed a resume of her teaching techniques and activities, gathered a few letters of recommendation and sent it in to be put in a notebook with the nomination form.

When the letter arrived telling her she'd been chosen over nominees from all over the state, "it took three days before I really realized what had happened."

Her entry will now be considered with those of teachers from througout the country for the national

Projects on using metrics and teaching nutrition concepts through a study of the nutritional needs of athletes are two of the teaching techniques she included in her resume, she said.

In addition, she has been active with the school district in offering adult courses and in sponsoring the Young Homemakers of Texas, an adult group. In her 15 years at MHS, Mrs. Hicks has taught all phases of home economics, but finds the one-quarter courses in home and family living most enjoyable, she said; "because the classes are less structured." While she enjoys all the courses she teaches, she said, probably clothing construction is the least

The changes that have come over the field in the past correspond to changes in the students and their lifestyles, she said.

Almost a third of her students now already are married, and statistics show many more will marry within a year or two of graduating

Because of that, teaching consumerism and how to deal with other people meets the needs of the juniors and seniors who take the new quarter courses more than just cooking and cleaning, she said, although those are still-offered.

In addition to her other duties, she helps her husband coach the Lee High School girl's gymnastics team, a duty that takes three hours every afternoon for practice and most weekends for gym

But, like her, her girls are winners. "They're doing really well," she said proudly.

Hart trial to continue; Defense plans still not known of Gene Leroy Hart, on trial for the 1977 sex slayings of three Girl Scouts, was to continue today with no immediate indication of how many witnesses might be called.

Hart, 35, is charged with three counts of first-degree murder in the June 13, 1977, slayings of the three girls at Camp Scott in northeastern

Garvin Isaacs, Hart's attorney, said he was not impressed with the state's case against his client. He said testimony from witnesses called by prosecutor S.M. Fallis Jr. held few

The state rested Saturday after a former Girl Scout counselor gave testimony the state contended could put Hart at Camp Scott in the five days before the girls were killed.

"The thought has seriously crossed my mind about resting my case right now, without calling any witnesses at all," Isaacs told District Judge William Whistler in chambers after the state rested.

But he began calling witnesses after saying he was afraid the jury might hold it against Hart if no defense witnesses were called.

Five minor witnesses were called Saturday morning before Isaacs told Whistler the defense was caught "with our guard down" and had been unsuccessful in locating some wit-

The last of the state's 32 witnesses was Karen Mitchell, a former counselor now an Oklahoma State University freshman.

She said she had placed items reportedly recovered from a cabin where Hart was captured April 6 - in her trunk following a camp skit on June 8, 1977. That was five days before the three girls were murdered at Miss Mitchell identified a small mirror and a small pipe as items she had at Camp Scott. She said she next saw them two weeks to a month after the girls were killed. She said she later discovered the pipe and mirror were missing from her trunk.

Earlier, Roger Chrisco, an Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation agent, testified agents recovered the pipe and mirror July 12, 1978, from the cabin where Hart had been captured three months earlier.

Isaacs, who has insuinuated that investigators could have planted evidence, asked, "You don't know who had access to the contents of that trunk before it was returned to the Magic Circle Council (of Girl Scouts), do you?'

"No, sir," she replied.

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Three firefighters who died mysteriously early Sunday while fighting a fire in a restaurant may have been killed by fumes from burning plastic ceiling tiles, officials said.

They were wearing oxygen air packs, but the plastic face masks on them had numerous pin hole-size punctures and appeared to be "eaten up" by some type of chemical, a fire department spokesman said.

The victims were identified as Kenneth Haggard, 34; Eddie C. Swafford, 30; and Larry P. Tucker, 25

Two other firemen were hospitalized at West Texas Hospital and several others experienced rashes and minor respiratory problems after the fire was brought under control at Underwood's Barbecue on 34th Street. The restaurant had been closed for remodeling.

Autopsies revealed evidence of smoke inhalation and traces of carbon monoxide, said Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy. He said all three suffered internal hemorrhaging.

A black, tar-like substance was found inside the air packs, and a trace of the same substance also was found in the filter of a mask worn by a fireman who entered the building much later, about 1:30 p.m., to retrieve evidence.

Firemen and police officers canceled plans to occupy the building Sunday night. Instead, the building was padlocked and police patrolled the scene. An investigative team from the fire marshal's office was expected to return to the scene today.

The blaze had been brought under control and the restaurant was being ventilated with fans when the men were noticed missing.

The three were found lying within six feet of each

The three were found lying within six feet of each other in a banquet room — on the other end of the building from the kitchen area, where the fire was confined to. They were alive, but were dead by the time they could be taken to a hospital.

If the ceiling tiles are proved to be the cause, a source said, the fire marshal's office will check with the manufacturer about distribution in this area.

Autopsy samples — including blood and urine tests

Autopsy samples — including blood and urine tests and material recovered from the burned structure — will be sent to the Department of Public Safety lab in Austin for complete analysis, LeCroy said.

Wayne Mahaffey, deputy fire chief for administration, said several other air packs and the compressor used by the fire department also will be analyzed. There is no indication any of the air packs malfunctioned, Mahaffey said.

"Since their equipment was from different stations, it doesn't seem likely the problem was there," Mahaffey said.

Senate, House face busy week

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Senators will look at foreign business and academic matters in Texas this week, as well as working overtime on the state budget and studying proposals to finance public education.

Pooling of the state's 36 aircraft, plus two old issues dealing with felon voting and property tax rollbacks, go before the House.

A bill requiring the disclosure of foreign purchase of Texas land was on the agenda today in the Senate Economic Development Committee.

Floor action was expected today in the Senate on proposals by Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, to establish a state housing program for lower income families, patterned after the Veterans' Land Program.

The Senate Finance Committee tried to resolve scheduling conflicts by meeting from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. on the proposed 1980-81 budget. It plans to follow that schedule through Wednesday each week and then meet from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Thursdays, after the Senate has adjourned for the weekend.

Rep. Pete Laney, D-Hale Center, a farmer and pilot, will seek approval Tuesday of his bill creating a state board to take possession of all aircraft owned or leased by state agencies.

If Laney's bill passes, an agency needing a plane would have to see what was available and wait in line behind those who had asked for a plane first.

The proliferation and occasional misuse of state airplanes has concerned the Legislative Budget Board for years. The board recently inventoried aircraft and found agencies owned 18 fixed wing aircraft and leased 11 more. Add to that seven helicopters owned by the Department of Public Safety for enforcement purposes.

Agencies differed widely in aircraft operating costs in 1978, from a low of $55.65 per hour for the one airplane owned by the Texas Aeronautics Commission to $276.14 for the attorney general's plane.

Testimony in Marvin suit to conclude Wednesday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Michelle Triola Marvin's suit claiming $1.8 million of actor Lee Marvin's assets is in its final days of testimony, with Miss Marvin set to make her final appearance on the witness stand.

Miss Marvin, 46, the former showgirl who lived with the actor for six years, was to testify today as the last witness in her rebuttal case as the trial enters its 11th week.

All testimony in the landmark case is to conclude by Wednesday.

Superior Court Judge Arthur Marshall will receive written briefs on the case from attorneys before they present final arguments April 10. He has said he will issue a written decision in the case "shortly thereafter"

Miss Marvin has testified about her love affair with Marvin twice before in the trial. Her attorney, Marvin Mitchelson, called her as one of his first witnesses when he opened her case in January.

Off-balance budget

Now, please don't faint, but the federal deficit for the present fiscal year has been reduced by $4.2 billion. Could it be that Washington got the message and cut federal spending?

Not on your life. It is explained by the experts that the government actually has been spending more than was anticipated when the last calculation of the budget deficit was made in January. Well, then, what in the world is going on?

It is said simply that economic growth and inflation have pushed up the earnings of Americans faster than Budget Director James McEntyre expected when he estimated two months ago that the deficit would be $37.4 billion. So, the Internal Revenue Service has been collecting more than anticipated in withholding tax, and Uncle Sam expects to pocket an extra $5.8 billion by the end of September.

The high inflation rate also is driving up federal expenditures. but only by an estimated $1.6 billion for the year. Thus, when the new calculation of $461.8 billion in revenues is subtracted from the new estimate of $495 billion in spending, the deficit is only $33.2 billion instead of $37.4

This shuffling of billions in the budget office is instructive. It demonstrates that reducing the federal deficit, or even balancing the federal budget, is not synonymous with reducing federal spending. Congress could balance the budget tomorrow or next day simply by increasing taxes in the amount of the deficit. Heaven forbid

As Mr. McEntyre's figures show, Congress can sit on its hands and let inflation raise taxes instead. Cost-of-living pay increases, although they buy no more groceries, put Americans in higher tax brackets and increase the government's share of their earnings. Without major surgery on government spending programs, the federal budget is expected to come into balance in the fiscal year beginning in 1980 even though the budget by then will increase by almost 20 percent to $587 billion.

Isn't this something, just talking about billions here and billions there, and all the while they're your tax dollars.

A balanced budget would reduce inflationary pressures on the economy, which makes it a goal worth pursuing. But economist Milton Friedman and the National Tax-Limitation Committee, among others, are pointing out that if taxpayers think a balanced budget will automatically reduce or control federal spending, they're barking up the wrong tree.

The debate over whether there should be a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced budget drones on and on, but the tax-limitation committee is putting its chips on a different kind of amendment - one which would actually limit growth in federal spending.

Obviously this would put a more effective curb on the government's spending habits than a constitutional requirement which keeps taxes high enough to feed whatever programs it keeps on the books, which is all that a budget-balancing amendment

Those who are making political hay with the balanced budget issue, according to those in the know, may want us to think they are responding to popular discontent with big government and excessive spending. They

Why not talk about the Justice Department's new estimate that as much as 10 percent of the federal budget is going down the drain through waste, mismanagement and outright fraud? This amounts to about $50 billion - enough to wipe out the deficit and then some. Yes, why

CHARLEY REESE

Public policy often is built on false premises

By CHARLEY REESE Sun Belt Syndicate

ORLANDO, Fla. - "Check your premises," Ayn Rand, the author of 'Atlas Shrugged," was fond of saying and you could't buy better advice with a million bucks.

A premise is a basic belief on which we base our thinking. When the premise is wrong, the thinking which proceeds from it ends up being wrong no matter how complex and how formally "correct" it is along the route.

Much of our public policy, domestic and foreign, has been constructed on false premises and that is why there is a surplus of failures.

Anyone who is out of work wants to work is one such false premise which has resulted in an inflated unemployment insurance program that presently encourages many people to avoid work. Few people are willing to do something for less than they can get for doing nothing. One of the biggest laughs of the Great Society days was a program which paid people $60 a week to learn how to do jobs that paid $40 a week.

If we could forget the mumbojumbo of psychologists and social workers and simply recognize the correct premise that hunger is a great motivator, we could cut the welfare budget considerably and put a huge dent in the unemployment figures.

INSIDE REPORT:

Oversight rules cause cancellation of CIA operation By ROWLAND EVANS

AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON - Although details are veiled in "top secret" national security files, the State Department recently decided against an extremely important but relatively simple cloak-and-dagger operation in a Southeast Asian country. The reason: the CIA decided it would have to be reported to Congress. That decision, reached after agonizing deliberations, reflected fear born to past experience - that the operation would assuredly be leaked by one of the scores of congressmen or their staff aides.

Under oversight rules insisted on by Congress in the post-Watergate climate, eight congressional committees must be informed, in secret, about all undercover or clandestine operations to be undertaken by the CIA's once formidable cloak-and-dagger division. Such broadcasting of super-secret operations has played into the hands of the anti-CIA clique on Capitol Hill and encouraged systematic leaking aimed at further discrediting the CIA. When high officials at State were finally told that the CIA's lawyers had ruled that the operation fell within legal reporting rules, it was immediately cancelled. Risks of disclosure and subsequent political embarrassment, it was felt, outweighed the value of the operation.

BAKER STAYS

Defense-oriented Republicans can abandon hope that Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee will be replaced by Sen. John Tower of Texas as Senate minority leader in time for the SALT II debate

Baker previously had promised he would "step aside" as floor leader when his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination got going. That spawned hope among hard-liners that Tower, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, would defeat Sen. Ted Stevens of Alaska, assistant floor leader, as Baker's replacement. Tower would provide a more partisan Republican voice on the strategic arms limitation treaty (SALT).

But Baker is in no hurry to leave. "It was too hard to win the job in the first place for him to go quickly," one Senate insider explained to us. In particular, he wants to be at the helm for the SALT debate. Therefore, Baker may stay as leader for a while after announcing his presidential candidacy - perhaps keeping the job for the rest of the year.

Moreover, to "step aside" does not necessarily mean to resign, in Baker's opinion. He may merely take a leave of absence from the leadership, during which Stevens - not Tower - would automatically succeed him.

KEMP BOMBS

A hint of how ill-prepared Rep. Jack Kemp is for the presidential race he is contemplating was his abysmal performance at the Midwestern Republican Conference in Indianapolis

Along with five other Republicans entered in the presidential "cattle show" at the conference, Kemp was allotted 8 to 10 minutes. Unlike the others, Kemp had prepared no special material. His staff simply was not equipped for the task. What's more, just as he began to speak, he was disconcerted as questionnaires for a CBS presidential preference poll were passed through the audience.

The usually dynamic Kemp wandered listlessly through 25 minutes of disconnected fragments from his regular speeches. The CBS poll put Kemp dead last in all categories - including "best speaker," where he barely nosed out George Bush for the booby

A footnote: Bush's performance was not helped by granny glasses that make him look faintly professorial and absent-minded. But he is about to discard them for proper spectacles. Bush is also taking lessons to unlearn what he learned in earlier exercises about how to make a long, serious speech; now he is undergoing a cram course in stump-speaking and crowdpleasing rhetoric.

The statement in the official Vietnamese army newspaper, Quan Doi Nhan Dan, appeared to rule out the start of negotiations on Thursday, the day Vietnam had said it would be willing to meet the

Although analysts in Bangkok' are not able to confirm all the Vietnamese claims against the Chinese, some well-informed sources here say the Chinese continue to occupy border enclaves previously held by Vietnam.

Idi Amin trapped by Tanzanian tanks at residence in Entebbe

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) - Tanzanian tanks trapped President Idi Amin in his official residence in Entebbe today, cutting him and Uganda's international airport off from Kampala, the capital 20 miles to the north, a Ugandan government spokesman claimed.

The report was denied in Dar es Salaam, the Tanzanian capital, by high-level intelligence sources with direct access to the Tanzanian military command. They said the invasion force of Tanzanians and Ugandan exiles was at Mpigi, 15 miles northwest of Entebbe and 20 miles south of Kampala. Residents of Entebbe reported no tanks, no fighting and said the road to Kampala was open. Confirmation of the reports was not available.

The Ugandan government spokesman telephoned reporters in Nairobi and told them Amin reported the armored vanguard of the invasion force reached Entebbe during the night from Mpigi and 12 tanks could be seen from his residence beside Lake Vic-

Amin was talking by telephone to his family in Kampala when the line went dead, the spokesman contin-

"Amin's morale is very, very high and he said he was looking forward to having breakfast with the enemy,' meaning he was preparing for battle, the spokesman said.

He added that Kampala, a city of 400,000 people, was quiet and there was no panic despite reports of a big battle "on the other side of Mpigi."

After the denial from Dar es Salaam, some observers in Nairobi suggested that the flamboyant Ugandan leader was pulling a grandstand play. They said at least once before he falsely reported a major Tanzanian advance and later announced a successful Ugandan counterattack.

Radio Kampala said Amin called on men, women and children to "use any type of gun" to fight the enemy. The broadcast called on the Ugandan army "to remain loyal to the end and to break through the enemy line to unite Entebbe with the rest of the country."

Entebbe is connected by a macadam road to Kampala and by a narrow dirt road to Mpigi. It was the capital when Uganda was a British colony, and its airport has been the port of entry for daily Libyan flights of arms and possibly troops to aid Amin. As the invaders' drive neared Kampala, Amin's Defense Council announced Sunday that the Entebbe airport was closed to foreign flights and that any aircraft violating Ugandan air space would be shot down.

The council also imposed a 12-hour nightly curfew on Kampala, and the government radio today said this had been extended to all territory under Amin's control

Kampala residents reached by telephone Sunday night said the city was

DEAR ABBY

Prison is no vacation

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN DEAR ABBY: TV reporters recently visited a federal prison in Allenwood Pa., where there are no bars, fences or cells. The inmatesincluding some Watergaters-enjoy their dormitory-style rooms and tennis and handball courts in a country club setting.

They even have low-calorie meals for those who want to lose weight! I'm a psychology professor, and aside from a few minor traffic violations, I've had no experience My question, Dear Abby: How can I get from six months to a year in Allenwood?—NEEDS A VACATION

DEAR NEEDS: I can't tell you how to get into Allenwood, but if that tongue in your cheek had ever tasted a loss of personal freedom, you wouldn't wish prison (even Alien-wood) on your worst enemy. After checking it out, I learned that most inmates of Allenwood had been transferred there as a reward for good behavior after having served part of their sentences in other federal prisons. Their crimes are usually non-violent, such as fraud, tax evasion, embezzlement, forgery, etc. Prisoners must work in food services, laundry or on the prison's 2,000acre farm. Exercise facilities are available after work to encourage physical fitness.

It's true that there are no bars or fences, but very few inmates attempt escape. If they do, their sentences are extended, and they've learned that the loss of one's personal freedom is one of the most devastating experiences a free man can endure. Ask anyone who's ever served time.

DEAR ABBY: I enjoyed the exchanges in your column in which women were compared with carsnew models vs. the antiques.

May I submit that an older woman is like a treasured volume filled with shared history, rich with human

Pure insect venom new treatment

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Americans allergic to insect stings can now get treated with pure insect venom, which is less likely to set off reactions than the substances currently in use, a federal official says.

A Swedish kit that includes five types of venom - poison from honey bees, hornets, yellow jackets and two kinds of wasp — has been approved for sale in the United States, Dr. Harold Baer of the Food and Drug Administration said at an American Academy of Allergy meeting Satur-

Baer, director of the FDA's allergic products branch in Bethesda, Md., said the kit is the first to use the purified venom.

The shots now used to help people who are extremely allergic to insect stings become less sensitive to the poison are made from liquid extracted from ground-up insects. Severe reactions to insect stings can range from hives to a rapid drop in blood pressure or internal swelling that blocks the windpipe. About 50 or more people die each year when such symptoms go untreated, Baer said. Until now, he said, there have been problems because the extract made from ground-up insects has caused allergies of its own. Baer said the new kit uses purified venom to circumvent this problem. The venom is obtained either by electrically "milking" it from bees, hornets or whatever, or by freezing insects and then dissecting them to get out the venom sacs, he said.

Floods force people from homes

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) - More than 2,000 people pushed from their homes by some of the worst flooding ever on the Illinois River have been warned against returning home too soon, though the water is receding.

'We're not even into the spring rains yet," said George Hallford of the Red Cross in Peoria. "A little rain would send the river back up.'

The Red Cross said hundreds of homes along a 100-mile stretch of the river on both sides of Peoria had been "inundated by water" and hundreds more were sitting behind precarious sandbag levees holding back more than 4 feet of water in some places. "A lot of them along the river have vowed to stick it out and are trying to save their homes with sandbags, said Hallford, adding that most people had moved to higher ground.

The Illinois River dropped more than 6 inches Sunday after swelling to within an inch of the 1943 record of 28 feet, 8 inches at Peoria, almost 12 feet above flood stage. The National Weather Service predicted that the river at Peoria would fall to 26 feet, 5 inches by Wednesday, barring heavy thunderstorms.

"Things look pretty good," said Gene Burchett, emergency service coordinator in Fulton County, south of Peoria, where the river was expected to crest today at about 11 feet above flood stage. "The levees are holding up pretty good now. We're just keeping sandbagging."

GREAT LAKES NAVAL TRAIN-ING STATION, Ill. (AP) - Marine Pfc. Robert Garwood came home accused as a traitor, speaking with an accent and as a stranger to his loved ones. But he cried at returning to the United States.

"I love you America, I'm glad to be home," he shouted, with a big smile on his face, over the din of reporters and photographers.

On advice from his attorney, Garwood refused comment Sunday on preliminary charges that he deserted in time of war, urged American sol-diers to quit fighting and unlawfully communicated with the Viet Cong during the Vietnam War.

"The only one who knows what has gone on in the last 14 years is Bobby Garwood," said Dermot Foley, his civilian attorney. "Let's give him his constitutional right to presumption of innocence and remember that the last 14 years have not been very good for Bobby. Let's give Bobby the additional benefit of compassion.

Garwood, accompanied by three Marine officers, arrived in Chicago on Sunday after a 15-hour flight from Okinawa, Japan. He was kept away from reporters at the airport and was seen only for about one minute when he entered the Navy hospital here for medical tests

He was taken to a room for a reunion with relatives, including his father and stepmother, all from Greensburg, Ind. They will have three days to visit with him.

Marine Corps officials said Garwood read letters from his family during the plane trip. "They brought tears to his eyes, knowing that his family still supported him," said Capt. Bob Bowen. "He was 18 when he saw his younger brothers and sisters, and now they have families of their own. He was just happy to hear about their lives.

"And he was just happy to talk to Americans in English. He hadn't spoken much in English in a long time he's got a definite accent. But he was just happy to order American food in English

Lt. Col. Arthur Brill said Garwood "isn't under arrest. ... He could get up and leave if he wanted to, but he doesn't want to. Foley complained that the Marine

Dear Mrs. L.: Your question does not have a simple answer. A great deal has been written recently on the subject of hyperactivity, but there is still disagreement even in defining the word. The result is that a child is sometimes labeled hyperactive not because of any pathology, but because he or she is troublesome.

No one symptom establishes a diagnosis of hyperactivity. Any child may be overactive, have a short attention span, or be restless or impulsive at various times. The behavior becomes abnormal only when a number of these symptoms is seen over an extended period of time.

A discussion with your son's pediatrician would be a good first step in deciding whether he falls into this category, and whether medication is indicated.

Magic makes like a big Bird

By DAVID DuPREE The Washington Post

SALT LAKE CITY - One of Earvin (Magic) Johnson's dreams came true Sunday. He got to pretend he was Larry Bird.

There is probably no better Bird imitator round than Johnson and he went into his Bird routines at Michigan State's practice Sunday to help the Spartans get ready to decide Monday night's National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball championship against Indiana State.

Bird would have been proud, the way Johnson whipped those zinging passes all over the court and dropped in automatic 20-foot jump shots.

Johnson will, shazam, turn back into Magic Johnson for the title game at the University of Utah's Special Events Center on NBC-TV, 8:15 p.m. But he enjoyed his day as the Bird.

"We are a lot alike, you know," Johnson said. "He's just more quiet than I am. He's the only one I know who can pass like me, too. Do you think he imitated me in their prac-

PART OF Bird's mystique and effectiveness derives from the fact that most teams the Sycamores play have never been on the floor with a player who can do the spectacular things Bird can do.

"What Bird does is mesmerize the opposition into watching him and his teammates then get open or get into position for rebounds," said De Paul Coach Ray Meyer.

Michigan State Coach Jud Heathcote says his Spartans see those unbelieveable feats every day by playing with Johnson: "He (Bird) isn't going to do much that we haven't already seen Magic do.'

De Paul's Meyer, whose team will play Pennsylvania for third place in Monday night's preliminary, said Michigan State has been the dominant team in the tournament from the beginning.

"Indiana State has Bird, but Michigan State has Johnson and (Gregory) Kelser," Meyer said. "That's two to KELSER IS Michigan State's 6-7 slam-dunking forward, the team's leading scorer and rebounder.

With Kelser and Johnson clicking, the 25-6 Spartans have not been pressed in four tournament games. They beat Lamar by 31 points in the second round, LSU by 18 in the Mideast Regional semifinals, Notre Dame by 12 in the regional final and Penn by 34 in the national semifinals Saturday Índiana State, 33-0, has had a more difficult time attaining the final. The Sycamores beat Virginia Tech by 15 in the second round and Oklahoma by 21 in the Midwest Regional semifinals, but eked out two-point victories over Arkansas in the regional final and De Paul here Saturday.

Indiana State is primarily a straight man-to-man defensive team. Michigan State prefers a two-three

Ghosts of scandals haunt NCAA scene

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) - Are point-shaving scandals like those that rocked college basketball in the early 1950s and 60s about to inflame the nation's sports pages once more?

Choosing their words carefully, a number of coaches interviewed by The Associated Press admitted they have seen signs and heard whispers that won't let them answer a definite, "It's a very real danger," said Mis-

"I've heard of rumors involving players and officials. 'You hear rumors," said Harvard Coach Frank McLaughlin. "And sometimes you see some strange calls game - acts to keep the favored team from winning by the margin provided in the "official line" made by oddsmakers. If team "A" is favored to beat team "B" by 12 points but outscores the underdog by 11 or fewer, gamblers betting on team "B" collect

At its convention in January, the NCAA voted not to issue press credentials to its championship events to so-called "tout sheets," but even the NCAA agreed that was merely ognition of the problem, not the solution. Basketball is particularly susceptible to tampering because one player or official can exert a major impact on the game.

'The kids are very vulnerable" to blandishments from well-heeled gamblers, said Marquette Coach Hank Raymonds. "We bring in an FBI agent at the start of every season to talk to our kids about the dangers." "We've got to do something to protect the game and the kids," said McLaughlin, a former assistant at Notre Dame. "People all over the country are betting awesome amounts of money on sporting events. Sometimes I wonder when a great player has nine straight great games, then plays miserably in the 10th THE EXTENT of gambling interest in college basketball was driven home to McLaughlin this past season. "Somebody called and wanted to know why our game the next day had been taken off the board. I had no idea, but I found out just before tipoff the other team's best player was out with an injured foot. Here I was trying to prepare my team for the game and the gamblers had more informa-

"Most of the players are kids from low-income families," McLaughlin added. "But if I was a gambler, the people I would try to get to would be the officials. It's easier for them to control a game. "The ingredients may well be there for another scandal if we're not vigilant," said Wisconsin-Milwaukee Coach Bobby Gottlieb.

Gottlieb feels win-or-be-fired point shaving.

"The coaching profession is no different than the medical or legal profession," he said. "Lawyers get disbarred and doctors have their licenses taken away. Most coaches are men of great integrity, but they're getting fired for not winning, and not given enough time to build up a strong program. They could be out of work tomorrow, and they know it.

"I'M SURE the integrity of 98 percent of all officials is beyond ques-tion," Gottlieb added. "But it's foolish not to worry about that other 2 percent. When a team is favored by 10 or 12 points and their good big man gets three quick fouls at the beginning of the game, it costs the favored team about 10 points at least. Then you just relax and call a normal game.'

gal recruiting would lead players to accept a gambler's bribe

"Most of them are from low-income areas, and let's say they were given several thousand dollars, or a new car to sign with a particular school,' Gottlieb said. "Are they going to think they're doing anything wrong when they let their team win by five points instead of eight?"

Lanny outduels wind

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) - Lanny Wadkins, the first man to master Sawgrass, has a simple goal for the rest of the golf

"I'd just like to keep on winning," Wadkins said after scrambling through 45 mph winds to a convincing, 5-shot victory Sunday in the Tournament Players Championship.

"I'm off to a great start for the year. I've got my game where I want it. I just want to keep on

And Wadkins, the only double winner of the season and now topping the season's money-winning list, is going to give himself every opportunity to do so. He's playing in all but two tournaments through the U.S. Open in

He collected $72,000 from the total purse of $440,000 after his spectacular effort in the ambitious event that is billed as the annual championship of golf's touring pros. He now has $134,-948 for the year and has stamped himself a prime candidate for the Masters, two weeks away.

"I'll worry about the Masters when I get there," Wadkins said, "Right now I'm just looking ahead to next week."

WADKINS BUILT a 3-shot lead with opening rounds of 67-68 in the TPC, was able to maintain that margin despite a windraked 76 in the third round and finished with a par 72 that made him the first ever to break par for 72 holes over Sawgrass. Mark Hayes and Jack Nicklaus won the first two tournaments here at 289, 1 over par. Wadkins won at 283, 5 under

'That's the best I've ever played," said Wadkins, who, among other titles, has won the PGA and the World Series of

"I knew I was hitting it good. I was just biding my time. Of course, it's a lot easier to maintain your cool when you've got that big lead.' He wasn't headed, wasn't tied over the last 18 holes and finished it off with a flourish, making a unnecessary 12-15 foot birdie putt on the nightmarish

"I've never really thought of myself as a good wind player," he said. "When I'm playing well, I can handle it. When I'm not, it gets me like it gets everybody else."

And it got everyone else.

TOM WATSON was the only man able to break par over the last round, shooting a 71 that put him in second for the third time this year. He finished at par

Jack Renner was third at 75-289 and was followed by Phil Hancock, 74-291. Tied for fourth at 293 were Lee Trevino and Bill Kratzert, each with a closing 79, and Wayne Levi, 75.

Jack Nicklaus, who had won three of the five previous TPC titles, shot 82 in Saturday's third round and closed at 78-300. Arnold Palmer was 77-303. Tied for second after three rounds, George Burns shot a closing 83 for 297. The scores ranged up to the 92 — 20 over par — recorded by veteran Bob Murphy.

Only 32 players broke 300.

ISU star most eloquent with mouth shut

SAKT LAKE CITY — The Bird ventures farther from his public cage the closer Indiana State moves toward the NCAA basketball championship. He is most eloquent with is mouth shut, although now and then he hits you with a sly, blind-side line nearly as delightful as his on-court

For instance, Larry Bird was asked Sunday for his reaction to ever so many coaches and players insistings that he was "good" before they played against him this season and that he was "great" after losing to

"Yeah," he said. "they know what they're talkin' about."

Because he laughed along with the rest of us then and actually was caught smiling a time or two later during his second press conference in as many days, somebody assumed he might be enjoying these sessions.

"Wrong," he said. Then he added: "If you all were payin' me, it might be different. But I know it's coming.'

Larry Bird in a rare moment on the bench with Coach Bill Hodges.

THE REFERENCE was to perhaps as many as two commas in his pro contract, regardless of how he and State fly against Michigan State in the title game Monday night. Most neutral witnesses give the Spartans the edge, because they have one more great player than Indiana State.

But Bird volunteered: "They've got more talent; we've got some guys who play harder." In the brief glimpses he has offered, usually under pressure either from his coaches or the NCAA, Bird has proved to be brighter than one would assume from all the ain'ts and double negatives that dribble from beneath that blond mustache.

Bird can be brutally blunt, arrogant at times, and yet quite defensive about his off-court life, admitting he is much more comfortable in French Lick, Ind., "where I belong, where I'd be bothered by nobody.

That is where he fled, hitchhiked in fact, about 3 1-2 weeks after enrolling at Indiana University five years ago. The enormity of IU, "the fact that I'd just turned 17, and that it was a mile to some classes and I just got lost" forced him to escape

"It was on a Friday night," he recalled. There was no problem hitching a ride for the hour-long trip home, "because everybody knows me. And when I got home I just told my mom I wasn't going back."

AND BOBBY Knight, who can outstubborn Bird and nearly anyone else in sport, would not come begging for his return. Knight, bless him, is one coach who will not allow a child to alter his life.

"I'm sure if I'd staved there, I'd be a better player now," Bird said, "because he (Knight) would have made me work on some other stuff. I'm not the greatest defensive play-

To his credit, Bird took a year off from school after leaving Indiana, honing his game on the playgrounds and amateur leagues. And drove trucks and tractors and hauled garbage, work that makes a young man realize there must be a better way to earn a living.

"I knew I'd be going back to college," he said, smiling slightly and glancing toward ISU Coach Bill Hodges. "I just wanted to make Coach Hodges wait a little bit."

UNLIKE THE other pass-master in the NCAA title game, Earvin (Magic) Johnson, Bird became a feeder because he was a guard for much of his high school life, something of a shorty before sprouting nearly four inches, to 6-6 1-2 his senior year. And then 2

1-2 more inches in college. "Passing is the most important part of basketball," he says - and somebody ought to chisel that in every gym in the land. Of course, Magic preaches similarly. And that is why Monday's game excites us so much.

"I'm loving this, every minute of it," Magic said at his pre-Bird press conference. "I'm like a kid going to a birthday party. This is so exciting, the final four, getting all the attention, your name in the papers throughout the country.' IS BIRD missing something by being so private? "Now wait a minute," Magic said. moving verbally and physically backward. "Once I say something, something will happen. And I don't want it to happen to me. I don't want to say he's missing something - and then again I might think he is. But let's just leave it at that." It's a move Bird mastered months NHL at a glance

Tech for AIAW title GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) - Old Dominion's Inge Nissen and Louisiana Tech's Elinor Griffin looked as if they would play to a standoff in the national championship game billed as a battle of the two premier centers in women's college basketball.

Old Dominion defeats

But the 24-year-old Nissen, an eight-year veteran of international play, subdued Griffin in the second half Sunday and top-ranked Old Dominion posted a 75-65 victory over the No. 2 Lady Techsters. The triumph gave the AIAW national championship to the Lady Monarchs, an early season favorite for the crown.

"I was apprehensive about playing her," said the lithe Nissen, who, like Griffin, stands 6-foot-5. "I was surprised I could control her in the second half.

NISSEN DRILLED in 22 points and guard Nancy Lieberman added 20 as Old Dominion held Griffin to only two points in the second half. Griffin scored 14 points in the first half, and Nissen said she was forced to adjust her defensive strategy. "I made that decision when she scored for about the eighth time," Nissen said with a wry smile. "I was fronting her and she was shooting over me. I started playing behind her and I was able to start blocking some Old Dominion trailed at intermission, 32-27, but Nissen sparked a 12-2 tear in the first 61/2 minutes of the second half to take a 39-34 lead. The Lady Monarchs built the advantage to as many as 12 points, 64-52, with less than four minutes remaining.

Before every race, guys with binoculars are driven out to strategic locations by four-in-hand carriages to keep a glass on the field from their perches all around the track. Head-on cameras and side-view lenses monitor every step of a race. The pictures are beamed to dozens of TV cameras located around the track for those who prefer their race by video instead of in person.

You can't get in to see the jockeys before a race without special permission of the stewards, even if you are a qualified journalist. Identification is Yet, with all these triumphs of modern technology and security, the stewards said they caught a cheating jockey the other day the same way they used to catch them at the Camptown races nearly a century ago someone phoned in with a tip.

You don't detect crime with a deerstalker cap and a magnifying glass, you detect it with a snitch. Presumably, someone knew jockey Jorge Cruz was going to load onto a horse with a "buzzer," a battery device guaranteed to perk up a tiring horse in the stretch with electric shock way to the paddock, the stewards waited till he won the race.

For most of the bettors, the race was just the first half of the daily double, the first of the day last Saturday. The horses loaded in the gate were no threat at all to Man O'War's records, a bunch of selling platers who were insulted by the racing secretary before the post parade with such sneering designations as "nonwinners of two races lifetime, allowed six pounds, etc." In other words, riffraff. It was hard to see how any of them could win.

Even against this bunch, Bold Dave was 12½-1. He would be 12½-1 against

The rider, Jorge Cruz, was not exactly Earl Sande, either.

That's just the trouble. The Racing Form should have a hieroglyphic for desperate jockeys, too - like a mud mark. Lord knows they have one for everything else.

Maybe they should even lump buzzer in with equipment changes. You know, light up the paddock board for horses who go to mud calks, or note if a horse is trying blinkers for the first time. Why not put up a little note that the jockey is carrying a battery? As an aide to the bettor.

YOU SEE, going into the race, jockey Lafitte Pincay had ridden 383 races. He won 77 of them, was second 59, and third, 48. Chris McCarron rode 392 times, won 72, was second 50, and Jorge Cruz, on the other hand, got on 32 mounts. He won three, was second in three and third once.

When you're averaging only one ride every two or three days, it's hard to get on anything but bridle-path horses. Horses who need batteries. Pincay's agent can come home and say, "Hey, I got you on Affirmed!" But Cruz' agent says, "Hey, I got you on a 90-1 shot in the first — if we draw in the race!"

Willie Shoemaker drives Cadillacs and owns drive-ins and apartments and gets on Exceller. A jockey like Jorge Cruz may come to the track in a van, probably doesn't even own the battery, and gets on Bold Dave - an 8-year-old gelding who would have paid $27.

It is not likely Jorge Cruz will make much of a dent in the 74-race gap between him and Pincay in wins. At least for a long time.

War Admiral or Count Fleet or Secretariat could win with a flat Indian in the irons. But a poor horse needs a heady ride. The battery trick is as old as electricity. I mean, they prod cattle, don't they? And since Jorge's mount was disqualified and placed out of the money, and since Jorge lost all chance to move up in the jockey standings for some time, he may also face trouble with the Environmental Protection Agency as well as the horseracing board - for wasting valuable electrical energy.

hot corner for the Atlanta Braves. The slugging third baseman, the National League's Rookie of the Year in 1978 after belting 23 home runs in just 89 games/has spent the spring at his Arizona home, locked in a contract dispute with the Braves.

But he planned to head for the club's West Palm Beach, Fla., training camp today and said he would make a degision later whether to participate in any exhibition games.

"I can be ready for opening day," Horner said. "I'm not 25 pounds overweight and I certainly don't have a bad arm," he added, charging that the Braves had spread rumors to that effect "to scare other teams off from trading for me."

Horner's agent, Bucky Woy, is seeking a multi-year contract for a reported $250,000-$300,000 a year. The Braves are willing to shell out $100,000 for 1979 and the dispute is expected to go to arbitration.

WOY FILED a grievance, claiming the Braves failed to offer Horner a valid contract by the Dec. 20 deadline. He also claimed the offer was below a required $146,000 minimum salary, based on 80 percent of Horner's 1978 salary. The Braves contend the $146,-000 figure included salary plus bonuses, which they say should not be included in the 80 percent formula.

"I have no idea of what kind of reception to expect from my teammates," Horner said, "but I do know

But, he added: "I'm looking forward to going down. I miss playing baseball, but I'm going down over protest. There's no question I can be ready for the first game."

The Braves didn't miss Horner's bat, however, despite a 10-9 exhibition loss to the Los Angeles Dodgers Sunday. Suffering Black Hawks happy with victory

By The Associated Press

Chicago Coach Bob Pulford didn't care that the victory had come at the hands of the National Hockey League's losingest team, or that his Black Hawks had managed just three goals against the NHL's second-most generous defense

The fact was Sunday's 3-0 victory over the Colorado Rockies was the Black Hawks' first - against anybody - in nine games.

"It certainly wasn't an artistic win, but I guess it's the results that count," said Pulford, whose Black Hawks lead the Smythe Division with 65 points but would be no higher than fourth in any of the other National Hockey League sectors.

"At long last, we can breathe a little easier," he said after goals by Pat Ribble, Reg Kerr and Alain Daigle helped hand the Rockies their 19th loss in 22 games. "If we can continually grind it out, I'll be satisfied." They ground it out against the Rockies, thus winning for the first time after seven straight losses and a tie Saturday night at Toronto.

Ribble and Kerr connected in the second period for a 2-0 lead. The Black Hawks managed just two shots in the third period, while the Rockies took 12, but Daigle converted one of them to cement Tony Esposito's 67th

Despite the triumph, Pulford saw plenty of room for improvement.

'We're still a long way from playing as a unit," he observed. "We're improving, but we've got a long way

Canadiens 1, Rangers 0 Yvon Lambert capped a 3-on-1 break by tipping Mario Tremblay's pass past New York goalie Doug Soetaert at 8:30 of the second period to carry the Canadiens past the Rangers. New York, which had beaten Montreal in their last four meetings, managed 25 hurried shots on goalie Michel Larocque, who recorded his third shutout of the year.

Islanders 2, Penguins 2 Second-year right wing Mike Bossy scored his 60th goal of the season with 28 seconds remaining to give the Islanders their second tie with Pittsburgh in as many nights. Penguins defenseman Randy Carlyle was sent off for hooking with 1:05 remaining. Trailing 2-1, the Islanders pulled their goalie - thus taking a two-man advantage. "The idea was to have Bossy hang around in front of the net," said New York Coach Al Arbour. "If they (Pittsburgh) keyed on him, there'd be a man free. Bob Bourne got it to Bossy, and the right wing snapped a 20-foot shot past goalie Denis Herron to extend the Islanders' unbeaten streak to 10 games.

Guy Chouinard scored twice for the Flames, raising his season's total to 45 and helping his team clinch a wildcard playoff spot.

Red Wings 2, Maple Leafs 1 Dan Bolduc and Bill Hogaboam scored the goals that carried Detroit past Toronto and lifted the Red Wings out of the Norris Division cellar.

Though it's far too late to matter, where the playoffs are concerned the Red Wings have lost just one of their last nine and have salvaged some pride for Coach Bobby Kromm.

Toronto is winless in four.

Canucks 2, North Stars 1 Pit Martin's first goal since Jan. 5 helped Vancouver beat Minnesota. Highlight for the North Stars was the 30th goal of the season by rookie center Bobby Smith.

Treacy captures marathon

LIMERICK, Republic of Ireland (AP) - John Treacy of Ireland and Grete Waitz of Norway again have shown they are the best "mudders" among the world's cross country runners.

Sunday, for the second straight year, Treacy won the men's race and Waitz took the women's event in the seventh IAAF World Cross Country Championships and for the second time in a row, they did it on a muddy course.

Their victories, therefore, were not unexpect-

Seattle has the best mark in the conference, 46-27, following Sunday's 111-101 victory over Kansas City. But the other six teams are bunched within 41/2 games of each other, and a dogfight is shaping up for the final two weeks of the regular season.

Portland, which lost to Milwaukee 122-110 in overtime Sunday night, now finds itself the odd team out in the West race. The Blazers are one-half game behind surprising San Diego in the battle for the sixth and final playoff spot.

Seattle took control in the second period, outscoring the Kings 32-19 as Kansas City shot only 18 percent from the field. Kansas City, which trailed 66-52 at halftime, pulled within eight points in the third period but could get no closer.

Nuggets 123, Lakers 113 Denver's Charlie Scott scored a season-high 28 points against his former Los Angeles teammates. But it was David Thompson who keyed a third-period surge with nine points as the Nuggets erased a six-point halftime deficit with a 43-point quarter.

Bucks 122, Blazers 110 Brian Winters scored seven of his 24 points in overtime as Milwaukee outscored Portland 17-5 to win only its seventh game on the road this season. The Blazers were led by their rookies, Mychal Thompson with 23 points and Ron Brewer with 18. Suns 111, Warriors 95

Phoenix outscored undermanned Golden State 16-2 in a 51/2-minute span of the middle periods to break the game open. The Warriors were without three of their regulars - Robert Parish, Sonny Parker and Jo Jo White - because of injury or illness. Paul Westphal led Phoenix with 25 points and Walter Davis added 23.

Reserve Billy Knight scored 33 points as Indiana handed slumping San Antonio its fourth loss in a row at home and its sixth loss in seven games. The Spurs' Central Division lead was trimmed to one game over dle Houston and 1½ games over Atlanta.

Celtics 103, 76ers 94 Rick Robey hit for a season-high 27 points and Bob McAdoo added 25 as the Celtics snapped Philadelphia's five-game winning streak. The Celtics took command at the start of the third quarter when Robey and McAdoo combined for a quick 10 points to give Boston a 67-46 lead.

Nets 99, Bulls 88 The Nets raced to a 35-16 lead and were never in trouble against Chicago, which was playing its third game in three days in three cities. New Jersey's magic number for clinching a playoff berth is

Stock market loses

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market pulled back a bit today amid caution over oilprice prospects. The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 3.63 at 856.12. Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 7-4 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Analysts said the market was bracing for more moves toward higher oil prices from the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, meeting in Geneva on production and prices.

An Iranian official said his country and others considered to be among OPEC's pricing militants were backing a 29 percent price increase. The dollar declined in European foreign-exchange markets following that development. In addition, brokers said the news reached the stock market at a time when it seemed to be vulnerable to a setback after three consecutive weeks

Many of the North American oil and gas issues listed on the American tock Exchange advanced amid expectations of upward pressure on energy prices. Houston Oil & Minerals was up 1/8 at 181/8 and Dome Petroleum climbed 4% to 115%

BUSINESS MIRROR

Corporate executive suggestions usually have adverse effect

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - The old girl network through which women executives propose their female associates as candidates for corporate boards could easily be a cobweb that traps them instead.

That was the immediate reaction of Professor Eugene Jennings on learning that the Financial Women's Association of New York had proposed a list of 10 women it deemed suitable to sit as corporate directors.

Jennings, an adviser to corporate top executives, some of whom are women, recalls a similar experience when he was commissioned in 1964 to produce a list of eligible blacks. None was selected.

The list wasn't totally ignored, however. After publication, Jennings received many confidential inquiries. Could he, the callers asked, recommend blacks not on the list? He did, and about 20 were chosen.

But those listed were avoided. The list, he learned, was a web that snared, and now he feels the ladies have spun another. Pride, he said, prevents a company from choosing from a public list.

Jennings, management professor at Michigan State and author of many books on corporate personnel and management, suggests the women avoid a disservice to themselves by seeing things from the chairman's

In Jennning's opinion, an executive presented with a published list of candidates would ask: "Why should I use it when any number of search firms have larger and better lists that

Using the Financial Women's Association list as an example, Jennings said the chief executive would wonder also why he should consider women whose experience has been in small business, or as consultants.

He would ask others questions also, and all of them, Jennings believes, might begin: "Why should I use their list when...

Government taking fresh

By R. GREGORY NOKES

WASHINGTON (AP) - Americans who've been told all their lives they should have money in a savings account have discovered recently that following the advice has cost them money.

The government appears to be about to propose remedies for the situation, which it acknowledges is unfair, especially for the great mass of savers with passbook savings ac-With banks able to pay only 5 percent interest a year for a passbook account, the loss when inflation is 9 percent is obvious. Savings and loan associations can pay 51/4 percent in-A 9 percent inflation rate reduces the buying power of a dollar by nine cents. A 5 percent bank interest rate earns back only five cents, leaving a net loss for the year of four cents. When interest is compounded and paid quarterly, the interest will be a fraction of a cent higher. But savers suffered about a four-cent loss for each dollar of savings in 1978 when inflation was 9.2 percent. They also lost in 1977, when inflation was 6.8 percent; in 1975, when it was 7 percent; 1974, 12.2 percent, and 1973, 8.8 percent.

And it will happen again this year. when inflation is exected to be at least 7.5 percent, possibly much higher. In fact, in only three years in this decade have savers managed to come out ahead on a savings account.

Government officials, such as Chairman G. William Miller of the Federal Reserve Board, have been candid in saying the situation has created a disincentive to save. He and others are concerned that inflation-weary consumers now have an incentive to spend their money as soon as they receive it, buying houses, cars or other goods that will retain value better than will the inflationailed dollar. Their concern is supported in statistics that show Americans' savings are declining steadily as a proportion of income. Total savings last year were 5.3 percent of income, and in the final three months of the year they sank to a 4.8 percent annual rate. The total for the year was slightly percent, but otherwise was the lowest in 15 years. Savings were 7.8 percent The interest rate that banks and savings and loan associations can pay on savings accounts and other time deposits - they range up to 8 percent for $1,000 deposited for eight years or more - are set by the government's "Regulation Q." There have been considerable pressure from consumer groups and others in recent months to end the regulation and permit banks and savings and loan associations to set interest limits. A government task force is studying the problem.

Bank regulators and other government officials already are showing which way they are leaning on the question.

"The collective verdict ... is that the costs to society of continuing Regulation Q outweigh the benefits," John G. Heimann, the comptroller of the currency, told a House panel Thursday, referring to several recent studies.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability, the administration's wage and price monitoring agency, said Regulation Q is helping keep bank profits high, hurts smaller savers and ought to be abolished.

"In the short run, even limited upward adjustments in allowable deposit rates would be helpful because these adjustments would increase incentives to hold assets in financial form - reducing price pressures on those physical commodities that are used as a 'hedge' against inflation," it said in a report.

J. Charles Partee, a member of the Federal Reserve Board, told a House Government Operations subcommittee Thursday that changes may be difficult because the banking agencies don't want to put savings and loan associations, which depend largely on income from fixed-rate home mortages, in a cost squeeze.

But he told Rep. Benjamin Ro-senthal, D-N.Y., "I want to assure you that the regulatory agencies in recent weeks have been analyzing and evaluating a large number of ... alternatives in an effort to develop a more attractive deposit instrument

Responsibility for bombs claimed by Cuban group

NEW YORK (AP) - A suitcase on its way to the belly of an airliner carrying 181 people blew up and two New Jersey buildings were bombed in what was allegedly a new terrorist assault by anti-Castro Cubans.

The blasts Sunday night were the responsibility of an anti-Castro group known as Omega 7, according to a telephone call received by The Associated Press. The male caller, speaking with a Spanish accent, promised 'similar actions will continue."

Police said a bag containing at least three sticks of dynamite exploded in the Trans World Airlines baggage area at Kennedy Airport at 8:48 p.m. The suitcase was among luggage workers were preparing to take to TWA Flight 17, waiting on the runway prior to its scheduled departure to Los Angeles at 9 p.m., officers said.

Four baggage handlers suffered minor injuries from the blast, which police and airline officials said probably would have caused substantial damage had it detonated inside the jet's baggage compartment. Witnesses said the explosion sent workers sprawling and that bags and clothing were strewn over the area.

Passengers were evacuated from the plane as local and federal authorities searched for additional explosives and for the person who checked the bag onto the flight. Passengers reboarded and the plane left five hours late.

Several calls warning of the bomb were received by various police agencies and TWA, but all the calls came after the device already had exploded, prompting speculation that it triggered prematurely.

BUT THAT, of course, was irı 1942 when five cents also bought you a reasonably, good cigar (despite Vice President Tom Marshall's cynicism on the subject), a 120-naile terror-free ride on the New York subways and a copy of the Saturday Evening Post or Collier's, neither of which had expensive full color pull-outs stapled to their midriffs and hence were able to keep the o'ver-the-counter price y/ithin reach of the blue collar classes.

First, let me reveal how I came upon this rare document that I am about to make public

I was rummaging through an old book store on Decatur Street in the French Quarter of New Orleans and was deep in the rickety shelves given over to the novels of Joseph C. Lincoln and George W. Cable when I chanced on a copy of "Mr Dooley: in The Hearts of His Countrymen," published in 1898. Well, that was rare enough, but what fell from its yellowing innards was even rarer if nowhere near as

Employees of Mobil Oil Corp. in West Texas have received Meritorious Safety Awards from the American Petroleum Institute. The award is presented for acts of heroism which result in the saving of a life. The recipients acted in a heroic manner, without regard for their own well-being, while rescuing two oil field fire victims. Wayne

Culvahouse, right, safety advisor in Midland, made the presentations recently to, from left, Ralph E. Brinkley, production technician, Sundown Area; Harley G. Evans, code welder, and Jerry L. Dodson, roustabout I, both employed in the Russell

Officials believe long-awaited oil shortage about to be felt in U.S.

By ROBERT A. ROSENBLATT The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON - The long-predicted oil shortage is now about to be felt in the United States, officials here

Iran stopped exporting oil just after Christmas and resumed limited production only recently. But tankers loaded before the oil stopped flowing have been docking regularly at American ports - quietly deferring the shortage that government officials have warned could hit the United States.

Thus, when Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger told Congress repeatedly that the United State faced a potential loss of 800,000 barrels of oil daily because of the Iranian shutdown, he was talking about a theoretical or statistical shortage. The storage tanks of American oil companies were amply filled with gasoline, heating oil and jet fuel. They remain at high levels today.

However, the potential scarcity is expected to become a reality soon. The last tankers loaded before the Iranian upheaval have docked after voyages from the Persian Gulf that, with intermediate stops, often took 45 days or more.

It is for this reason that government and oil industry officials say they must take strong steps to curb oil consumption despite the apparently contradictory fact that, so far, there has been no real shortage. Officials say they must minimize the pain of the shortage ahead, squeezing the American driver this spring to avoid stopping his car in the summer or leaving his home without heat next

This policy, because it comes against a background of big stockpiles of fuel, has raised the specter of profiteering - the deliberate withholding of supplies to drive up

Joel Jacobson, New Jersey's energy commissoner, told the Senate Energy Committee last week that gasoline supplies were currently higher than the average for the last three years. "To quizzical, cynical minds arises the question, what kind of shortage is this?" Jacobson wondered rhetorically.

Americans are reluctant to believe the energy situation is serious, John F. O'Leary, deputy energy secretary, acknowledged. "I hear people say all the time, it is a rig job by the induson oil production abroad, U.S. Customs figures on tankers arriving here and statistics from other major oilusing nations, however, the government is convinced the problem is real, O'Leary said.

After analyzing intelligence reports

Most motorists, able to get unlimited supplies of gasoline right now, see no problem except the rising prices up 2 cents a gallon on the average in a recent four-week period, and considerably more in some areas.

But that could change, and fast.

Already, partly because of government-sanctioned curbs on gasoline distribution to dealers, some individual service stations have temporarily run out of gas or shortened their hours of operation to husband the last of their March supplies.

Moreover, some rural areas, at the end of oil company distribution networks, may experience serious scarcities, government officials concede.

The problems need not be any worse than that, they contend. The supply curtailments would not even be noticed, they say, if Americans curbed their driving by an average of about 4.5 miles a day. "If the consumer reacts intelligently, he can avoid having to wait in long lines," one

Refinery runs reported

AUSTIN - Fifty-seven refineries processed 150,186,108 barrels of crude oil and hydrocarbon blends during January 1979, according to their reports to the Railroad Commission.

This volume compares with 138,309, 637 barrels in the previous January, the commission's Administrative Services Division reported in its monthly recapitulatin of Texas refinery operations. Inputs of crude oil and blends totaled 156,764,215 barrels in Decem-

January 1979 manufacture of motor gasoline totaled 62,958,476 barrels, compared to 55,136,354 barrels in the year-earlier month and 66,321,287 barrels in December 1978.

Unfortunately for the government planners, however, motorists appear to be increasing, not reducing their driving. Demand for gasoline this month is estimated to be 5 percent above that of March 1978. As a result, government officials admit to some nervousness about the coming weeks and months, and they are mapping strategy designed to handle a "worst case" situation if it arises.

"Our planning is done on the basis of the sky crumbling a bit and pieces of blue sky dropping around us, O'Leary noted.

STAMFORD, Conn. - Ralph E. Bailey has been elected chairman and chief executive officer of Continental Oil Co., effective April 1. He was a deputy chairman.

He succeeds Howard W. Blauvelt, 62, who last September announced his intention to retire from the post early in 1979. Blauvelt, chairman and chief executive officer since May 1974, will continue as a director and as a member of the executive committee of the board of directors.

AAPG slates convention

WASHINGTON, D. C. - With "Our Ideas Find Oil" as its theme, the American Association of Petroleum Geologists will hold its 64th annual convention April 1-4 in Houston.

The combined forces of AAPG and the Society of Economic Paleontologists and Mineralogists will bring more than 7,000 earth scientists together for technical presentations and workshops relating to exploration for oil, gas and alternative re-

Symposium highlights include sessions on giant discoveries of the past decade-which will feature a presentation by a delegation from the People's Republic of China, discovery forecasting, techniques for exploration, deep-ocean drilling, and resource abundance in antarctica.

"Our Ideas Find Oil' emphasizes that petroleum is discovered through a combination of creative thinking and inventive technology," says convention chairman Anthony Reso.

"Since we know that conservation, decreased demand, crisis, the convention's technical program centers on how geologists can bridge the supply gap by finding more oil and gas reserves, alternatives and substitutes," Reno said.

Featured speakers will be noted economist and historian Walt Rostow and AAPG president Robert D. Gunn. Gunn's keynote address will focus on the importance of the United States not relying on foreign sources for oil and the need for all forms of resources to be developed.

OPEC members open special price meeting

Associated Press Writer GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) - The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries opened a special meeting today with most of its 13 members apparently ready to boost oil prices. But there seemed to be no agreement on how much the increase would be.

"We anticipate a rise in prices and we think that all are in favor, "said Venezuelan Oil Minister Humberto Calderon Brití.

Sheik Ahmad Zaki Yamani, Saudi Arabia's oil minister and one of OPEC's moderates, said he would resist a price increase. But since he failed to block the 14.5 percent increase voted in December, his opposition was not expected to be decisive. Qatar's Abdul Aziz bin'Khalifa said it was "very possible" there would be a 25 percent increase, and Nigeria reommended 15 percent. Libya advocted diversion of oil from the longterm contract market to the higherpriced spot market.

Iran and Indonesia also were believed favoring an increase. But Mana Said Otaibah of Aub Dhabi, the current OPEC chairman, said his government "would prefer to stick to prices already agreed upon." "I think many delegations, including our own, believe the market situation justifies an increase in the price of market crude," said Nordine Ait-Laousssine, vice chairman of Sonatrach, the Algerian national oil com-

OPEC in December agreed on a four-stage schedule of increases totaling 14.5 percent by Oct. 1. The second increase, to $13.84, is scheduled for April 1, and the October base price is scheduled to be $14.55.

The two-month stoppage in exports by Iran, once OPEC's second-largest ernment's plans to keep future exports at half what they were pushed prices in the spot oil market to record highs. Some OPEC members increased prices by adding surcharges to the OPEC base price. They also accused the international oil companies of making huge "windfall profits" by buying at the base price and selling on the spot market. There is speculation the meeting may consider changing the type of oil used for the benchmark price on which the prices of other types of oil are based Arabian light crude, which is used for gasoline, has been the standard.

But it is becoming scarcer, and there is talk of switching to a heavier, more abundant crude such as the type used for heating oil.

This would allow the price of light crude to rise more freely. Demand for the heavier crudes is more stable and the supply is more abundant.

ATLANTA (AP) — Hustler magazine owner Larry Flynt, whose obsenity trial enters its second week today, says he is disillusioned by the judicial process and feels the judge has destroyed his case.

Flynt, paralyzed from the hips down since he was shot during a similar trial a year ago in nearby Lawrenceville, said he may decide to take the stand to testify in his own behalf.

"I am discussing this with my attorneys," he said. "They may or may not want me to take the stand. Flynt, 36, is being tried in Fulton County State

Court on 11 counts of distributing obscene materi-He said he believes his case is "almost hopeless" because Judge Nick Lambros has excluded evidence purporting to show prevailing community standards. "I think we've been destroyed by the judge. He has denied any attempt we've made to substantiate community standards. He wouldn't allow the testimony of expert witnesses who conducted a survey in Fulton County on community standards and he refused to admit comparable magazines, some that were actually hard core matter," said Flynt. "So I think we've been dealt some really serious blows by the judge. You expect the prosecutor to be aggressive, because they want to win the case, but you'd think the judge would take an unbiased position." he said.

Flynt was arrested in September 1977 after he rented an Atlanta store and sold his sexually explicit Hustler and Chic magazines in a challenge to state obscenity laws.

The prosecution presented its case Wednesday by submitting as evidence eight copies of Hustler and three copies of Chic, but called no witnesses.

Lambros refused to allow defense testimony on a survey purporting to show that 84 percent of the Atlanta area residents polled believe adults should be allowed to read sex publications.

He also excluded evidence showing that "girlie" magazines are sold by the thousands in Atlanta stores and that much sexually explicit material is available in local public libraries.
