OPEC increases oil prices by 9 percent

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The Organ zation of Petroleum Exporting Countries voted today to raise the base price of crude oil by 9 percent as of next Sunday, to $14.54 a barrel. That would increase American pump prices for gasoline by about two cents a gallon.

Libya and Venezuela immediately announced surcharges on the new The new base price apparently was a victory for the so-called Arab moderates such as Saudi Arabia and Abu Dhabi over more militant members such as Algeria, Iran, Libya and Iraq. The militants apparently settled for the smaller increase in the base price in exchange for the surcharges, analysts said.

The new base price is the price the oil cartel originally had set for next

October in its quarterly increase schedule. An OPEC announcement said the oil ministers authorized unlimited surcharges over the base price, depending on market demand. Earlier, Qatar oil minister Abdul Aziz Khalifa al Thani incorrectly said a $4 perbarrel limit had been put on surcharges. He also had reported the increase as 9.05 percent Today's base price increase is roughly equal to surcharges announced earlier by many OPEC members and supersedes those surcharges. However Libya announced it would raise prices $1.66 a barrel over the new base price. Venezuela announced a $1.20 increase. Iran, which had lobbied for a whopping 29 percent increase in the base price, said it had no current plans for a surcharge. In Washington, Department of Energy spokesman James Bishop said department officials were studying the price increase reports and would withhold comment until after all details had been received OPEC says surcharges are it's response to what it calls profiteering by oil companies who take advantage of the current shortage by charging high prices on the short-term, or "spot" market. Prices there have reached $20 a

The price increases were voted one day after Egypt and Israel signed a peace treaty but there was no immediate indication that the signing, which infuriated most Arab nations, was related to the increase.

The current price for Arabian light crude oil, the so-called benchmark of the industry, is $13.35 for a 42-gallon barrel. A 5 percent increase in OPEC prices usually increases the American price of gasoline about a penny a Analysts here estimated the new base price will add about $13.5 billion to OPEC coffers this year from industrialized Western nations.

OPEC in December agreed on a four-stage schedule of increases totaling 14.5 percent by Oct. 1. The price went up 5 percent on Jan. 1, to $13.35, and the second increase to $13.84 was scheduled for April 1.

Meanwhile, a number of the members had taken advantage of the oil shortage caused by the suspension of Iran's exports and raised prices by putting on surcharges, generally in the neighborhood of 9 percent. The Geneva meeting was called to try to formulate unified price and production

Iran, with more than two months of export revenue lost because of its revolution against Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and plans to reduce the pre-revolution export level in the future, urged an immediate 29 percent increase when the meeting opened Monday. This would have raised the basic price of Arabian light crude to $17.45 a barrel.

Cyrus Ebrahimzadeh, an economic adviser to the Iranian delegation, claimed the proposal was favored by most of the ministers. But other sources reported stiff opposition from Saudi Arabia and Abu Dhabi, who they said wanted a smaller increase

California solons won't go along with Sohio

By The Los Angeles Times

SACRAMENTO, Calif - Legislative leaders have refused to go along with a proposal Standard Oil Co. of Ohio says is "essential" to paving the way for construction of the company's $1 billion oil pipeline terminal in Long Beach.

The proposed pipeline would have another terminal in Midland, Texas.

Under the Sohio proposal, the Legislature would declare that an environmental impact report on the project meets requirements of the California Environmental Quality Act, thus avoiding the possibility of suits challenging the adequacy of the report.

Fears that such suits would cause indefinite delays in gaining approval for construction of the Sohio terminal were a major factor in the company's March 13 announcement that it was abandoning the project. The company said a few days after the announcement it would reconsider its decision if California could cut through regulatory and legal obstacles to approval of the terminal within six months.

After word that the company would reconsider, sources in the Legislature said Sohio had softened its insistence on legislation to approve the terminal environmental impact report.

However, a Sohio spokesman denied the company had backed down on that demand.

"We consider such a provision absolutely essential to the project," said F. Harlan Flint, Sohio's assistant director of governmental affairs, in a telephone interview

Flint's statement raised the possibility that Sohio and the Legislature had come to an impasse since both Assembly Speaker Leo T. McCarthy, D-San Francisco, and Assemblyman Victor Calvo, D-Mountain View, oppose legislative approval of the terminal impact report. Legislative sources Monday sought to play down the apparent conflict.

"We talked with Flint, and he tells me Sohio's official position is that in the best of all possible worlds Sohio woud still like to see the Legislature certify the FIR " said a source who asked not to be named.

"But he said they recognize that with Leo McCarthy and Vic Calvo opposed to it, that would probably be impossible.'

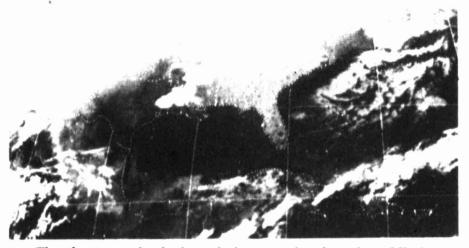

The source said Sohio's fallback position was to ask the Legislature to request the Supreme Court to rule on challenges already filed against the impact report. From the company's standpoint, a Supreme Court ruling that the impact report was adequate would accomplish the same goal as a legislative

If you're so hungry you could eat a buffalo...

Midland shoppers can get a taste of the Old West starting Monday when a local grocery chain starts selling buffalo meat. Cuts from the beast which used to roam West Texas by the thousands will be on sale in "M" System grocery stores.

The American buffalo, called "Tatonka" by the plains Indians, symbolized the Great Spirit and was their main source of food.

A few decades ago, this great animal almost became extinct, but through the efforts of the American Buffalo Association, it is now again in abundant supply in some areas of the country.

Buffalo meat is high in protein, low in cholesterol and delicious, said store officials. They said the meat should be prepared in the same Buffalo meat has been described by some as "tender as butter and sweet as sugar." But store officials said consumers should be the judge. The sale of buffalo meat marks the second time "M" System markets have sold this product, said R.A. Duckworth, market manager for the 400 North Midland Drive store. "It was a promotion the first time we sold buffalo meat," Duckworth said. "But it is something people do remember. It's just a lot differ-

RRC approves request on gas

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN - The Railroad Commission has approved an application from Odessa Natural Corp. for the reassignment of a surplus natural gas supply source under contract with Exxon Co. to El Paso Natural Gas Corp., an interstate pipeline.

Chairman John H. Poerner and Commissioners Mack Wallace and James E. (Jim) Nugent took the action Monday of the recommendation of Hearings Examiner Michele Sanchez. Ms. Sanchez explained that Odessa currently has a surplus supply of natural gas amountin to 31,000 mcf per coming partially from its Sand Hills contract with Exxon.

The federal Natural Gas Policy Act of 1978 allows oversupplies of intrastate gas to be reassigned to interstate systems

The proposed reassingment to El Paso Natural is for two years. It would be interrupted should Odessa or the Railroad Commission determine the gas is needed for intrastate customers

Reassignment of the surplus gas to El Paso will ease some of El Paso's curtailment problems as well as lower the cost of gas to Odessa's intrastate customers.

Waste safeguard concept endorsed

ODESSA — The Ector County Commissioners' Court on Monday endorsed safeguards they said are needed to help prevent nuclear contamination of underground water supplies should the proposed nuclear waste disposal site in southeastern New Mexico become a reality.

The court unanimously endorsed the safeguard concept should the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant be approved by the federal government. The site would be near Carlsbad

The court endorsed safeguards being sought by the Odessa League of Women Voters and other bodies.

Plans call for nuclear wastes to be stored in an underground "mine," but opponents have expressed fear about possible leakage, which could contaminate the water table.

June Naylor, water chairman for the League of Women Voters here, said the burial of nuclear wastes would prohibit the drilling there for natural gas deposits.

She also cited the incident of earthquakes in the area and said that the waste disposal site is not as "geological inactive" as previously thought.

Safeguards sought include monitoring of the "mine" and public and private water supplies and the providing of clean, fresh water to the area should a leak ever contaminate

Measures opposing Sadat sought by Arab League meeting in Iraq

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's Arab foes meet here today to try to agree on action to sabotage his peace treaty with Israel. The big question was how far Saudi Arabia, Egypt's chief financial backer, would agree to go.

Iraq's ruling Baathist Party organized a big rally to kick off the Arab League session. Official Iraqi newspapers called for "concrete measures against Sadat on political, economic, informational and mass mobilization

The meeting of Arab foreign and economic ministers was called to discuss application of resolutions adopted at an anti-Sadat summit conference in Baghdad last November. They call for:

-A boycott of any Egyptian party or person that deals with Israel. -Suspension of Egypt's membership in the 22-member Arab League and transfer of the league's headquarters from Cairo to another Arab

-Creation of an annual $3 billion fund to help the Palestine Liberation Organization and the "confrontation states" around Israel - Jordan, Syria and Iraq - to build up their military forces to fight the "treacher-

The key issue was whether Saudi Arabia would reduce or cut off financial aid to Egypt of nearly $2 billion a year. Egyptian officials think it won't, because a cutoff would cause economic hardship in Egypt that could cause Sadat's overthrow, and the conservative Saudi royal family does not want to see the Arab world's most populous and militarily powerful nation taken over by radicals.

Meanwhile, the anti-Sadat half of the Arab world reacted to the signing of the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty in Washington with strikes, demonstrations, a lot of angry rhetoric and

Commission's stand in jurisdiction dispute outlined in Poerner letter

Next move in the dispute between the Texas Railroad Commission and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency over jurisdiction on Whalen Lake, near Andrews, would appear to be up to the EPA. Rex White, special counsel for the commission, said today Commissioner John Poerner outlined that agency's position in a recent letter to regional EPA Administrator Adlene And, said White, without further action from EPA, the Railroad Commission will disregard Ms. Harrison's claim that EPA has jurisdiction over brine discharge into the lake. That claim is based on the federal agency's contention the playa lake is considered navigable water for purposes of enforcing the Clean Water

In his letter, Poerner disagreed with the EPA assertion and told Ms. Harrison the EPA may request the hearing be reopened for the purpose of presenting the EPA position and evidence, "subject to cross-examina-

Such a request should come within 10 days, Poerner added. White said today that, failing such a request from EPA, the commission will proceed as planned in adjudicating the request from Whalen Corp. to resume brine disposal at the Andrews County lake.

Dumping brine in Whalen was suspended by the commission Oct. 23. The EPA assertion of jursidiction came in the midst of recent hearings on the corporation's renewed application to resume dumping.

"They (the EPA) know our position, and what happens now is up to them...We'll just proceed on as is," said White.

The special counsel said a ruling still is pending from the commissioners on the Whalen Corp. request. Unless the EPA follows through with a request for the hearing to be reopened, no further hearings are scheduled, he added. An EPA spokesman said this morning Poerner's letter had not been received in the Dallas office.

Ms. Harrison declared on March 13 the EPA intends to take action to bring all discharges into Whalen Lake into compliance with the provisions of the federal Clean Water Act.

The Railroad Commission since Oct. 23 has denied two requests by Whalen Corp to reopen the lake to brine discharges.

In Poerner's letter, which he made public Monday, Poerner said, "I am compelled to disagree that the EPA has any jurisdiction over this matter pursuant to the Clean Water Act...and will resist any exercise thereof by you or your agency.

"I am also compelled to state that your position, as a matter of policy, is inappropriate and productive of unwarranted state-federal conflicts in regulatory areas legally and historically left to the states.

'The Railroad Commission is ever mindful of its difficult responsibility in this case. It will at the proper time, based on probative evidence contained in the administrative record, render a legally correct decision, balancing all the relevant competing

Ms. Harrison's letter announcing the EPA's plans to declare jursidiction over Whalen Lake was handed to Senior Counsel J. Brooks Peden of the commssion's Oil and Gas Division on March 13 as Peden prepared to convene a hearing on reopening the playa

"It has been determined (by EPA) that the waters of Whalen Lake do constitute a part of the waters of the United States, and that any discharge of pollutants into the lake is subject to federal regulations," Ms. Harrison wrote

She put the commission on notice that "it is our intention to take whatever steps are necessary to bring all discharges into Whalen Lake into compliance with provisions of the (Clean Water) Act ...

It's the largest town - at 6,000 people - in Big Bend Country and is in a scenic, mountainous setting which many city folks would like to call home...if only they could find work and a place to live here.

Many from both abroad and stateside travel through here in vacationing, sojourneying or camping in the Big Bend National Park or Davis Mountains State Park or in other places in this "mile-high country."

Most like what they see Ray McLaughlin did.

"It's just fantastic," said McLaughlin who, unlike Forchheimer, is a newcomer to Alpine. "The people are just great."

The town's peaceable, retiring qualities appealed to McLaughlin a few years ago, when he and his wife passed through here in their sojourns in their retirement years.

So impressed were they that they gave up Florida - the Sunshine State and claimed a plot of land in Alpine for their own.

McLaughling is more or less typical of what his friend Forchheimer considers as one of Alpine's prime resources: retired folks, successfully retired folks of culture, comfortable means, expertise in one field or another and active and interested in

"You name it. He's active in it," said Forchheimer, who is president of the Alpine Chamber of Commerce, operates a travel agency and is former owner of a successful department store that still bears his name.

"That's the kind of retirees we like. And that's our great resource, as you know," Forchheimer said. McLaughlin is a director of the Alpine chamber, helps out in the Sunshine House for senior citizens, and in other community projects.

McLaughlin is a two-time retiree: first as a sea-plane aviator for the U.S. Navy and secondly from the employ of the air-control phase of the Federal Aviation Administration.

Lobbyists excluded

There were those who predicted that Bill Clements, upon assuming the office of governor. would shatter tradition and shake up things in general at Austin.

Well, he has and is. But this doesn't always work as a popularity stimulant.

Gov. Clements, for instance, undoubtedly failed to make - or keep - many friends among Austin lobbyists last week by closing his door to all of them rather than favor a few.

In fact, he most likely created some ill will among some persons and groups who previously had supported him.

The governor made his "closed door" statement at a meeting of the Texas Society of Association Executives.

And, according to Austin news reports, he failed to display his usual cordiality upon entering or leaving the meeting room. Although he reportedly talked amiably, there was no gladhanding or casual exchange of greetings with the more than 100 persons present, including lobbyists for business and industry as well as trade and professional groups.

He also told his listeners, according to an Austin news story, that the time is right to grant initiative and referendum rights to the people, even if the business community is against the idea. It is difficult to figure out just what he meant by this. The business community undoubtedly is wondering about it.

It is a known fact that Gov. Clements is working hard at his new job in an effort to fulfill his campaign pledges, and it is likely that his nerves have become somewhat frayed around the edges. In fact, he told the lobbyists that he is working 14 hours a day and "barely keeping my head above water" with official duties. This is understandable, and perhaps he should ease up a bit, say to no more than 12 hours a day, if possible.

"I really don't have the time to equitably and fairly see this group as a broad interest body,' Clements said. "Therefore, I've taken the position that if I can't equitably and fairly see all of you, I wouldn't see any of you."

This seems logical enough, yet, at the same time, it sounded very much like the governor might be giving the cold shoulder to corporate interests, represented by the lobbyists, whose business climate he has pledged to nurture.

Gov. Clements did, however, suggest that the lobbyists work through senators and representatives and members of his legislative staff.

Some of the business-industrial lobbyists, following the governor's talk, claimed that he is ignoring an important part of the legislative process. Lobbyists in the past reportedly have aided some governors in getting their programs through the legislature.

And this most likely is where the predicted "tradition shattering" enters the Austin scene.

Why is he doing it? Because it's

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Peace quest vs. U.S. survival

BY JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - In the backrooms of the Pentagon, military strategists have been dismayed at President Carter's extreme reluctance to use military muscle to protect the flow of Arab oil from the Persian Gulf to the cities and factories of America.

Some generals have privately characterized the Arab oil squeeze as economic warfare against the West. The 1973 Arab oil embargo dealt the West an economic blow more damaging than Pearl Harbor, they argue. The United States and its allies still haven't recovered from the impact.

The Arabs, meanwhile, have continued to manipulate production and prices, disrupting the economies of the Western powers. Now some Arab potentates, including the Palestinian leader Yassir Arafat, speak openly of using the oil spigot as a weapon. Arafat has urged his Arab brothers to shut off oil to the United States for promoting an Egyptian-

Israeli peace treaty he didn't like. Some military strategists have suggested behind closed doors that it may be necessary for the United States to strike back with its own weapons. The president has resisted this idea, stating he wants no part of another Vietnam. But Vietnam was inconsequential, the strategists argue, in comparison with the Middle East. A cut-off of Arabian oil would shut down American factories and reduce traffic by almost half. Sources close to Carter say he has a passion for peace that can only be described as religious. It is against his convictions to resort to military measures, they say. Yet some of his generals and admirals argue privately that peace is best protected by firmness. Even the appearance of weakness, they contend, may tempt our adversaries to take gambles that will increase the risk of war.

During the Iranian crisis, for example, the Joint Chiefs encouraged Carter to send a task force into the Persian Gulf as a warning to the Arabs and Soviets alike that the United States was prepared to defend its oil sources. An indecisive President first ordered the move, then decided it was too provocative and canceled it.

This was interpreted in the Kremlin as timidity, the Pentagon strategists believe. The Soviets were tempted, therefore, to tighten the pressure on Saudi Arabia, America's largest overseas oil supplier. The Soviets already had secured a foothold on the Arabian Peninsula by bringing South Yemen under Kremlin influence - an event that alarmed the Saudis but was shrugged off by Washington.

The Soviets, anticipating another Carter backdown, quietly encouraged South Yemen to attack its pro-Saudi neighbor, North Yemen. Intelligence reports claim Soviet transport planes landed approximately 500 Cuban mercenaries to spearhead the attack. Soviet technicians and advisers, according to the reports, masterminded the attack.

This caused panic in Saudi Arabia. whose ruling family had lost faith in the U.S. resolve to defend them. Diplomatic dispatches indicate that they regard Carter as weak and vacillating. So they scrambled to arrange new alliances to protect their enormous oil treasures. They even sent emissaries to talk to the Soviets about arranging an accommodation.

Belatedly, the president recognized that the U.S. oil supply was in jeopardy. In panic, he sent Defense Secretary Harold Brown to Saudi Arabia to offer military support. But by this time, the Saudis were skeptical. They had just seen Carter abandon the shah of Iran after declaring his undying support for him. "They simply didn't trust Carter," one foreign policy adviser The president is now anxiously trying to convince the Saudis that they can depend on U.S. protection. He has hurriedly sent advisers to North Yemen, with a carrier task force to back them up. He has also sent out diplomatic messages that the United States will take whatever military measures are necessary to protect its oil supplies in Saudi Arabia.

It remains to be seen whether Carter's belated measures will be in WALTER WHO? Vice presidents of the United States have always had something of an identity problem. The fictional Alexander Throttlebottom even had to tag along with a tour group to get inside the White House.

Probably none has been so publicly and excruciatingly reminded of his unimportance as Vice President Walter Mondale was the other day at a White House meeting on hospital costs. More than 200 health care professionals and state politicians attended.

In his introductory remarks, Mondale got a mild chuckle by mysteriously referring to Charles Schultze of the wage and price council as the Andrei Gromyko of the Carter administration.

The V.P. then left the podium and returned with a surprise guest, the President's mother, Lillian Carter. To everyone's embarrassment, Miss Lillian started to refer to Mondale and stopped short. She couldn't remember

Miss Lillian got as far as "Mr. . and then had to turn to Mondale and ask him what his name was. When his turn came, Schultze noted Miss Lillian's gaffe and said that should teach old what's-his-name not to call him Andrei Gromyko.

HEMISPHERE REPORT: Chileans still support

rule of Augusto Pinochet

By WILLIAM GIANDONI Copley News Service

Chile is returning to normal, with all the good and evil that means.

The bombings of the homes of the editor of the newspaper El Mercurio and of the leader of a student group, along with those of public buildings, indicate that Chilean terrorists are regrouping.

Incidents in which buses and other public conveyances are seized by agitators and the passengers harangued against the military government are proof that the extremists are nowhere nearly as fearful of repression as Chile's critics abroad would have you believe. But what is more, much more, important, if less sensational, is the recent report by the Department of Economics of the University of Chile that indicates the country has recovered to the point where per capita production in 1978 reached the level of 1970 1970 was the year that the Socialist-

Communist-Radical coalition candidate, Dr. Salvador Allende, won a narrow victory in the three-man election race and became the first avowed Marxist ever popularly voted into the presidency of a hemisphere

Allende and the Marxist coalition held power almost three years and all but destroyed the Chilean economy. By the time the Chilean armed forces ousted him from power Sept. 11, 1973, food and other necessities of life were all but unavailable. Industrial production had practically halted. The country's monetary reserves were exhausted. The nation was virtually prostrate.

Predictions then were that it would take Chile at least 20 years to recover from its experience with Marxism.

But, if the University of Chile's estimate of the current economic situation is valid, a little more than five years of the austere, authoritarian rule of Gen. Augusto Pinochet have been enough to raise the country back up to where it was before the Marxists took control. Despite the bombings which, so far, have cost only one life, that of a youth . who apparently was putting together an explosive device, indications are that the majority of Chile's 11 million people are relatively satisfied with their current existence. According to the latest Gallup poll, taken in December and January, 67 percent of those consulted generally approved of the current government That was an improvement over the 60 percent approval registered in July 1978 and the 55 percent of the end of What did people most like? The order, respect and tranquility that the junta has brought Chile, 45.3 percent said. Aid for the poor was cited by 9.2 percent. Concern for social matters, by 8.6 percent, and its economic policy, by 4.1 percent.

What were the negative aspects? Unemployment, 23 percent complained. There were none, 10.7 percent said. Low salaries, 8.5 percent. Inflation, 6.7 percent.

The poll indicated that the majority of those consulted still felt that Chile is not ready for a return to the democracy for which the country was so renowned.

The pollsters offered five choices of style of government.

First, that the government go on as it has been, drew 36.4 percent. Then, without calling elections, greater civilian participation in government, to which 27.8 percent agreed Third, still without elections, that government involve persons representing the non-Marxist political parties, was the choice of 6.4 percent. Fourth, that non-Marxist political parties be allowed to resume their activities and that elections be held, received the approval of 9.9 percent.

Finally, 14.8 percent expressed their desire that all political parties be recognized and that elections be

That is to say that 70.6 percent of those polled indicated a preference for a style of government that did not involve popular elections. Less than 25 percent indicated they wanted elections.

That is further indication of Chile's return to normalcy. In 1970 people were disgusted with partisan politics and the high percentage of abstentions in the presidential elections then left the way open for the disciplined Marxists to poll the 36 percent of the vote that gave them their chance at Chile.

As soon as he got back to Washington, he fell asleep - listening to Walter Mondale tell how he ran the government.

Soviets lobby U.S. allies, claiming weak leadership

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

BRUSSELS - Hints of extra oil supplies are bait in the Soviet Union's intensified lobbying against the U.S. in Western Europe, particularly in the receptive left wing of West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt's ruling Social Democratic party - a development spreading alarm among the realists within the North Atlantic

Claiming that under President Carter the U.S. is no longer a dependable ally, and that strategic nuclear superiority is shifting toward Moscow, the Soviets are making progress toward their basic political goal. That goal is to weaken U.S. influence over its European allies and gradually isolate them from the Washington-Moscow struggle. That would free the Russians to deal with the dreaded masses of communist China at their back door, without worry about the European front door,

Indications of the Soviet game are not hard to find. Schmidt's government - particularly its active, neutralist left wing - very recently received this three-point message from highly placed Soviet diplomats: Carter has become too weak to win Senate approval of the forthcoming strategic arms limitation treaty (SALT II); it is time now for Moscow and Bonn to work out a central European "disarmament" scheme, obviously wholly apart from SALT; and Moscow will help take care of Bonn's requirements for oil when, as seems certain, the West's energy supplies become unbearably tight.

How the Russians mean to pay off on the oilbait was ambiguous. It points to a Soviet belief that Persian Gulf oil - most particularly Iranian oil, now under control of the new, anti-U.S. revolutionary regime - will soon become available to Moscow in mega-barrels.

The seeming paradox of this Soviet effort with Schmidt's Germany is that it is gaining political headway at the very time Schmidt is beefing up his contributions to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), a conspicuous success story of President Carter's foreign policy. The paradox is explained by other political factors. These include Carter's inexcuseable treatment of Schmidt in the neutron warhead affair and the pervasive European belief that, in the larger U.S.-Soviet struggle, Carter's policy is solidly based on indecision and vacilla-

Late last year, for example, the Europeans were treated to mind-boggling advice from Washington on the matter of selling defensive arms to communist China. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, while claiming that Carter did not wish to influence the decision, made unmistakably clear to the British that Carter opposed the sales. At almost the same time, national security adviser Zbigniew Brzezinski strongly promoted the sale to Prime Minister James Callaghan.

Private talks between Schmidt and the Russians now look toward major decisions in Bonn that are opposed by Washington. Schmidt has privately told the Kremlin that Bonn is not going to deploy any nuclear ballistic weapon capable of striking Soviet territory. That undercuts an American plan for a beefed-up Pershing missile, the Pershing II-X, with an extended range of 1,800 miles

Far more significant in terms of U.S. global strategy is the pressure that the continental powers, mainly West Germany and France, are exerting on Carter not to depart a millimeter from the policy of U.S.-Soviet detente. British sources privately say that at the Guadeloupe summit Carter and Callaghan invoked Yugoslav President Tito and Rumanian President Ceausescu - peerless Soviet watchers - in pressing for a "firm" Western stance against Sovjet penetration of Africa and south Asia. But Schmidt and French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing warned of danger to Europe from offending

Schmidt told Carter at Guadeloupe that when he played the "Chinese card" he should do it with circumspection because of Soviet fear of "encirclement." That explains the extraordinary public praise that

Schmidt - a tough, hard-headed politician who knows the score - bestowed on Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev 10 days ago for his "restraint" in the face of China's incursion into Soviet-allied Vietnam.

When a tough, hard-headed politician who knows the score praises Brezhnev for "restraint" - in the face of southern Africa, the Horn, Afghanistan, South Yemen and anti-American propaganda in Iran, - it should be cause for concern in Jimmy Carter's Washington. It shows how much the world has changed in a mere speck of time, how sharper the claw of the Russian bear has become, and at what cost to the United Soviet lobbying of America's oldest friends here has not quite moved into Lyndon Johnson-style arm-twisting. But that is the way it is going. To resist it will take more Western leadership and imagination than is coming out of the White House today.

Surgery varies for cleft lip

Dear Dr. Solomon: We have just become grandparents for the first time. Our great joy turned into heartache when we learned that the baby was born with a cleft lip. The doctor says she needs immediate surgery to correct the condition. Why did this happen and what are the chances for a good outcome?-Mrs.

Dear Mrs. W .: The exact cause of cleft lip is not known, but heredity is believed to play an important role. Fortunately, plastic surgery can produce a lip that is almost normal, although generally the child must undergo additional operations because of accompanying nasal deformities. Surgery may also be necessary to modify the shape of the lip as the child grows older.

The time considered best for repair of a cleft lip varies from one institution to another. Some plastic surgeons believe in operating as soon as possible, often within the first week of the child's birth. Others feel the operation should be delayed for eight or 10 weeks. In general, early or delayed repair generally depends on the particular surgeon's preference.

Modern plastic surgery certainly offers the prospect of a satisfactory outcome for your granddaughter.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I've been on the Pill for the past two years, and recent publicity about possible side effects has me worried. Yet, I want to make certain that I don't become pregnant until my husband and I can afford a family. How do other methods of birth control compare with the use of oral contraceptives?-Jean Dear Jean: The use of oral contraceptives does appear to be the most effective method of avoiding an unwanted pregnancy; but, as you note, there is a risk of complications. Only two percent of American women who take the Pill have an unwanted pregnancy, compared, for example, with four percent of women who use an intrauterine device and 13 percent who use diaphragms.

You do not say whether you smoke, but the Food and Drug Administration recently reported that cigarette smoking greatly enhances the risk of heart attacks, strokes, and other circulatory disorders in women using birth control pills. The risks were found to increase markedly with age and with heavy smoking.

If you smoke, I would recommend that you switch to some other form of birth control as quickly as possible. In any case, a discussion with your gynecologist regarding your concerns should prove helpful.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Aren't starches and carbohydrates the same thing?-

Dear D.Y .: All starches are carbohydrates but not all carbohydrates nadians will vote May 22 are starches. Carbohydrates include both starches and sugars. Starches can be termed the "good guys" of the carbohydrate family since they include vegetables, cereals and grains which also supply protein and other nutrients. Sugars are the prototype of "empty calories" since they do notprovide protein or other nutrients.

The body can easily break down starch carbohydrates to utilize the glucose (also known as dextrose) they contain. Glucose is the body's primary source of energy. By eating starches#you get not only the glucose for energy but also the protein for building and some other nutrients essential to the smooth functioning of

Trudeau calls vote for May 22

OTTAWA (AP) - Cain a general election to decide whether to extend Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's 11 years in office.

Trudeau called the election-Monday with just four months remaining in his latest five-year term. He backed away from a vote at least twice last year in the face of public discontent with his Liberal government.

Now, although the latest polls show him with a slim lead of only one percentage point over Conservative opposition leader Joe Clark, Trudeau aides say they are confident Liberal fortunes are improving..

The election date was announced by Majority Leader Allan MacEacable television to pay a fair price for programming.

A cable TV system is a "geographic monopoly" that "creates nothing, invests virtually nothing in new programming, and rides the back of what has already been bought by others," Jack Valenti told the National Association of Broadcasters.

"Program developers will be less eager to invest in new, innovative programming for the reward will be so shrunken the risk becomes too high," the film industry leader said. 'In our American system of enterprise; if you want to buy something to sell to others, you negotiate with the owner of what you desire to settle on a fair price for what you purchase,"

"I agree with Jack that the people with the product are the ones who should be paid," said a broadcasting executive, Mike Shapiro, president of Belo Broadcasting Corp. of Dallas.

"I thing the cable thing has grown like a snowball, and if the producers, the creators, the writers, the studios don't get paid for it, then there's no control over it whatsoever," Shapiro commented.

Cable operators must pay copyright royalties ranging from one percent to two and one-half percent of the cable system's gross revenue.

"The 1978 total of the cable copyright fee pool is about $12 million, Valenti said, pointing out that "networks consume $12 million worth of programming in about two days."

"The copyright in cable is so infinitesimal that it doesn't mean anything," Shapiro said.

Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market swung upward today on the news of a smaller price increase than had been feared from the oilexporting nations.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials gained 4.33 to 859.15 by noontime.

Advances outnumbered declines by a 5-3 margin in the mid-morning tally of New York Stock Exchangelisted issues. The Organization of Countries, at a meeting in Geneva, today set a price increase of 9 percent. In addition, they agreed to allow members to add surcharges as warranted by market conditions. The increase was considerably less than some of the proposals made when the OPEC meeting convened on Monday. Gulf Oil led the active list, off 1/4 at 261/2. A 150,000-share block traded at that price. UV Industries rose 1/8 to 351/a. Shareholders voted Monday in favor of a plan to liquidate the company.

Petroleum Exporting

National CSS, subject of a $48-a-share takeover bid by Dun & Bradstreet Cos. jumped 121/2 to 46 on the American Stock Exchange. Volume on the Big Board totaled 12.14 million shares by noontime, against 11.15 million at the same point Monday

NEWS IN BRIEF WTCC unveils land proposal

ABILENE - The West Texas Chamber of Commerce has unveiled a six-point recommendation relating to the withdrawal of Public Lands for 'wilderness" designation, according to L.H. Byrd of Midland, chairman of the WTCC Mineral Resources More than 100 million acres of public land currently is being considered for designation as "wilder-

Byrd termed the WTCC position balanced and equitable, in that it endorses a multiple-use concept which would allow controlled oil and gas development, timber operations, mineral development, grazing activity and varied recreational uses of Energy resources in particular are believed to be abundant in many of the areas proposed to be withdrawn, and these potential energy resources are critically needed by the country to support its economy, to reduce foreign imports of oil and to strengthen the value of the American dollar, said The following recommendations were made:

1. That a ceiling be adopted by Congress limiting the amount of federal lands that can be withdrawn from a multiple use category

2. That Congress and the federal agencies responsible for the public lands wilderness study and designation programs utilize all available and obtainable resource data in their evaluation of these 3. That those tracts which are identified as having high resource potential or multiple use values be released from study and returned to those uses at the earliest possible date. 4. That all educational efforts by public agencies and others to promote a public understanding of the use of public lands be objective, include multiple use concepts, and not be limited to a designated single use concept such as "wilderness." 5. That a prompt conclusion of this continuous study program be reached with comprehensive recommendations to Congress. 6. That elected representatives and appointed federal officials be hesitant to "lockup" public lands and resources without balanced input from user groups and the general population and a careful evaluation of the benefits and losses involved. Byrd said that, in the opinion of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, a land withdrawal policy adhering to these recommendations will provide sufficient esthetic protection for the nation's land resources "while helping to guarantee the availability of undeveloped resources for satisfying future

TESCO fuel transaction beneficial to customers

AUSTIN - A fuel transaction between Texas Electric Service Co. and Texas Power and Light was beneficial to customers according to evidence presented before a special Public Utility Commission hearing, reported both companies Monday in a brief filed with the PUC. Filing joint briefs were TESCO, TP&L and Dallas

The primary issue involved a 1976 transaction in which TESCO bought at cost an additional 25 percent share of two jointly-owned lignite generating units and accompanying lignite fuel from TP&L.

TESCO then sold a supply of electricity generated by its low-cost gas to TP&L at cost.

The brief holds that at no time during the hearing by PUC was the fact challenged that the transaction was beneficial to customers of both companies, nor did the PUC challenge that TP&L, TESCO and the stockholders of the system made any profit because of the transaction. The PUC staff testified that, although TESCO customers will pay slightly higher fuel costs through 1980, they will be saved at least $106 million by 1990 because the company obtained more lignite to help replace fuel that will be lost when its low-cost gas contracts expire in 1980-81. The argument in the case revolves around whether a sub-paragraph in the Public Utility Regulatory Act was violated because Dallas Power & Light, which bought a 5 percent share in the two units later, did not sell TP&L any low-cost gas.

Six Midland students receive merit certificates

Six Midland high school students have received certificates of merit from the National Merit Scholarship Corp.

The six Midland finalists in the national competition include William M. Creager, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nance G. Creager, and Ashley Hulsey, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Sam B. Hulsey, both from Midland High School.

Finalists from Lee High School are Kimberly A.

Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Davis;

John Denier, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Denier; Catherine A. Shelley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Shelley, and Robert W. Warfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Warfield. About 14,000 finalists remain in the competition.

This honor is shared by less than one-half of one percent of the nation's graduating seniors.

The 1979 finalists will compete for approximately 1,000 one-time National Merit Scholarships of $1,000 and more than 3,000 renewable merit scholarships.

Committee on Human Services sets hearing

AUSTIN - The Special Committee on Human Services in Texas will conduct a public hearing April 5 as part of an in-depth examination of "significant issues in human services," committee officials

The hearing will be at 10 a.m. in the Region 18 Education Service Center on LaForce Boulevard at Midland Regional Airport. The meeting is one of 10 hearings being conducted throughout Texas. Purpose of the hearings, according to officials, is to provide an opportunity for citizens to present comments and suggestions on services. Questions to be discussed include: What is needed? What is available? Are there overlapping services? Are large groups of persons being overlooked by the service providers?

In its final report, the committee will detail its findings on availability, quality and effectiveness of the services. Recommendations will be listed on methods to coordinate services and make better use of funds made:

There does not appear to be a diesel fuel shortage in the Permian Basin vet - although Panhandle retailers and farmers have voiced complaints in that respect in recent weeks.

Gov. Bill Clements has indicated concern about the apparent diesel fuel shortage problem in the South Plains of Texas.

The governor has planned to meet with diesel fuel suppliers to determine the reasons for the current problem, said a spokesman Monday. In a Friday morning news conference, Clements acknowledged, "We do have a shortage. But there is some question about it.' Clements said his Office of Energy Resources "has been receiving as many as 200 telephone calls per day" concerning this problem.

"WE'RE GOING TO have to put some extra help in the governor's office to handle this requirement," said Clements. "I think most of you realize we have an energy allocation program in which we can set aside as much as 4 percent of fuel for these kinds of emergencies. And we are allocating that."

The 4 percent reserve, however, has never been utilized in the past, said a spokesman for Clements Mon-

Clements also said he had the authority to declare an emergency regarding diesel fuel. But he has not done so yet.

Instead, Clements said, "I think the first priority is to talk to diesel fuel suppliers to determine from them whether it involves a maldistribution problem or whether, in fact, there is a diesel fuel shortage. Meanwhile, Ed Thompson, executive vice-president of the Permian Basin Petroleum Association, said a number of idle oil and gas drilling rigs in the region are "the problem" around Midland. "I think there may be some occasional fuel shortage complaints develop," Thompson said, "but I haven't heard of any diesel fuel shortage complaints here yet.'

HE SAID THAT some people talked of "keeping your diesel fuel tanks full," because of the possibilty of developing diesel shortages in this general area.

'But I haven't run into this diesel shortage problem locally," Thomp-

On a related topic, he said, "There is one thing that could keep the diesel fuel shortage from getting too bad about 100 oil and gas drilling rigs aren't running now in the Permian Basin.

Thompson blamed the idle drilling rigs on President Carter's Natural Gas Policy Act, which was passed by Congress last October. "Right now the oil and gas drilling companies don't know what the prices are going

Newton facing hearing today

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) - Black Panther leader Huey Newton had another date in court to face contempt charges and possibly learn whether he will stand trial again for allegedly killing a young Oakland prostitute.

Prosecutor Tom Orloff declined on Monday to say whether he would seek a new trial at today's hearing, ask that charges be dropped or request a postponement in making a decision.

The first trial ended Saturday with a mistrial. Jurors said they were 10-2 for acquittal but unable to reach a unanimous verdict.

During the trial, Newton refused to answer Orloff's questions about his bail-jumping flight to Cuba shortly after the Aug. 6, 1974, shooting of 17-year-old Kathleen Smith.

Superior Court Judge Carl Anderson ordered Newton, 37, to answer all the questions but Newton refused.

As a result, Thompson said, "No one is drilling a well when they lose money on it. That's what this socalled Carter energy program has. done for us.

Citing the figure of 100 idle oil and gas rigs, Thompson said: "That figure has been growing since October 1978 when the Natural Gas Policy Act was passed by Congress.'

Meanwhile, the reported shortage - a nationwide one — was verified Friday by a U.S. Energy Department spokesman reached in Washington,

"THERE IS A diesel fuel shortage," said the spokesman. "But the DOE has had a state set-aside program in effect the past three

Under this program, the spokesman said, states are allowed to obtain up to 4 percent of supplies to hold in reserve in case of shortages brought on by the Iranian oil stoppage and other reasons.

This state set-aside program has been extended through June of this year, the federal spokesman said Friday. "Continued and projected shortages of middle distillate products (diesel fuel and heating oil)" were forecast by the DOE spokesman.

'To increase adequate fuel supplies for agriculture, the Economic Regulatory Commission of DOE has adopted an emergency extension of the state set aside program — from April 1 through June 30.

PARTICIPATING STATES will have a 4 percent reserve (of heating oil and diesel fuel) to allocate for energy purposes, said the DOE spokesman. Individuals and businesses concerned will be applying to their state energy offices.

"The demand for fuel is going to be much higher later than it is right now. So dealers would be foolish to sell everything they have," said the spokesman

Meanwhile, in the Amarillo area of the Panhandle, tractors - not drilling rigs, are sitting idle.

Observers there say the reason is a a "very critical" diesel fuel short-

"It's getting very critical. I've been in the business 30 years and I've never seen anything like it," declared Dale Gasson, Amarillo-based sales director or Farmland Industries, the nation's largest farm supply coopera-

Farmland Industries has petitioned the federal government for assistance in acquiring the fuel, but there appears to be little the government can do. A spokesman for U.S. Rep. Jack Hightower said recently the government has no authority to allocate

THE PROBLEM IS diesel is classified as a middle distillate and all middle distillates are regulated by the Federal Energy Act of 1978, said Lee McMurty, aide to Hightower. All other forms of petroleum are under federal price allocation controls.

'We checked and found that the Department of Energy has no control over middle distillates, which includes diesel fuel," he said.

"The DOE says there is nothing it can do to alleviate the shortage.' But Hightower indicated free enterprise "can adjust to the situation," said the spokesman."

In addition, spokesmen for two of the Panhandle's major suppliers of diesel fuel said inventories "are extremely low" and would give no indication when the situation will be corrected.

"Due to excessive demands for diesel fuel, inventories are extremely low," said Bob Heard, vice-president of sales for Diamond Shamrock Corp. 'There could be some temoporary interruption in supply."

Heard said the shortage is mainly caused by western utility companies and industrial plants having to switch fuel requirements from natural gas

Plastic tiles possible cause of fire deaths

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Investigators are looking at plastic ceiling tiles as a possible source of toxic fumes they believe killed three Lubbock firefighters.

All three of the victims wore oxygen packs but the plastic face masks had numerous pin hole-size punctures and appeared to be "eaten up" by some type of chemical, a fire department spokesman said.

Fire Department offical Lee Turner said Monday the filters in 10 of the 12 oxygen masks used by firemen battling a restaurant blaze were ruptured and penetrated by a chemical.

A preliminary autopsy revealed evidence of smoke inhalation and traces of deadly carbon monoxide. The three also suffered internal hemorrhaging, Justice of the Peace Wayne Le-Croy said.

The three victims were Kenneth Haggard, 34; Eddie C. Swafford, 30; and Larry Tucker, 25. Haggard is survived by two brothers who are also local firemen but are stationed at the airport and did not help with the Sunday fire.

Asked if the filters were checked regularly, Turner replied, "They will be

A black, tar-like substance was found inside the air pack, and a trace of the same substance was found in the filter of a mask worn by a fireman who entered the building later to collect evidence.

Turkomans launch 2nd challenge to Khomeini

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Heavy fighting broke out today between Turkoman tribesmen and government forces over land rights near the northeastern city of Gonbad-E-Qabous. killing at least 30 persons and wounding many others, reports reaching Tehran said.

It was the second major challenge in a week to the rule of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the Shiite Moslem leader of the revolution that ousted the monarchy six weeks ago.

Gonbad-E-Qabous is about 30 miles from the Soviet border and close to the Caspian Sea. The city, in Gorgan province, is surrounded by fertile valleys, much of it large agricultural estates belonging to retired military officers and top civil servants.

The fighting started when hundreds of Turkoman peasants tried to reclaim some of the farmlands and were stopped by local and state po-

Women make progress in performing agricultural tasks

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Some of the oldest of the government's agricultural marketing tasks that traditionally have been performed by men are being done more and more by women, says an Agriculture Department offi-

Barbara Lindemann Schlei, administrator of the department's Agricultural Marketing Service, says icant strides" have been made in her agency's cotton division, as an exam-

Ten years ago, out of 213 "classers" who determine official USDA grades of cotton, only four were women, Last year, she said, there were 104 women out of 227 classers. Other traditionally male jobs are slowly but gradually giving way to at least token representation by

In her agency's tobacco division, where grading jobs are seasonal and last only as long as the auction market in a particular area, only two women graders were employed by the end of the past season out of a total of

Ms. Schlei told a reporter that last year "for the first time" the agency sought and received authority from the U.S. Civil Service Commission to hire people for special short-term temporary grading jobs.

Those included 15 women. "Except for one woman who was hired several years ago and who is no longer working for the tobacco division, these are the first women ever to work as graders," Ms. Schlei said. 'The experience they gain will enable them to qualify for permanent positions as tobacco graders.'

Other inroads by women have been made in the agency's fruit and vege-

Medication helps patients to remember

NEW YORK - Some drugs need to be taken several times a day or may be unpleasant to take. Doctors are finding that this has resulted in some patients not taking all of the doses they prescribe. It is particularly true when the medical problem involed presents no symptoms.

Addressing a medical symposium in Boston on elevated cholesterol levels, known medically as hyperlipidemia, a Mayo Clinic speciaist, P. J. Paumbo, MD, said that a medication in tablet form offers an important advantage, therefore. He said that probucol (available as Lorelco). which is taken only twice a day and is in tablet form, reduces the possibility of patients not taking or forgetting to take their medicine.

The meeting was sponsored by the American Heart Association, Massachusetts Affiliate.

Marriage rate shows decrease

NEW YORK - Although tablulations have not been completed, Statistical Bulletin indicates the expectation that the number of marriages recorded for 1978 will be close to 2,240,000 and the number of divorces may exceed 1,120,000.

"Although the number is small, this is a significant development because these are the first women agricultural marketing specialists," Ms. Schlei

Another agency cited by Ms. Schlei is the Federal Grain Inspection Service headed by Leland E. Bartelt. As of last June, it employed 929 permanent agricultural commodity graders, 57 women — 6.1 percent compared with 45 women out of 798 a year earlier or 5.6 percent Ms. Schlei, a lawyer in Los Angeles before she joined USDA in August 1977, has been involved with equal opportunity programs and women's causes for many years.

Although pointing with pride to the progress women have made in hers and other USDA agencies, Ms. Schlei said much more is required.

If a woman has a university degree or two and is hired to fill a senior position, it "allows us to get kind of an instant acceptance that makes it very easy for us," Ms. Schlei said. "But it's very easy, in turn, to forget that that's not true for all women," she said. Ms. Schlei said it is part of her job not to forget, and that is why she intends to keep pushing for more qualified women to fill more of the better-paying jobs that historically in USDA have been men's domains.

Dieters' most hated food? Liver

By ERMA BOMBECK

The Diet Workshop recently came up wih a survey that didn't hold too many surprises. The most hated food among dieters is liver. Anybody's Personally, I don't like to eat anything that moves when I cook it excites the dog, or inflates on impact with your teeth.

I used to go to a weight-control group that preached the gospel of liver. I think the slogan they used was 'Drink a liver malt with someone you love." We all tried to disguise liver by working our quota of it into other parts of the diet. I did everything but put a dress on mine. It didn't help.

Liver is not like any other food I know. It's the kind that when you drop it, you find yourself apologizing to it. I have met a few pro-liver people in my time, although I try not to cultivate them. They are usually people who sit around and make ridiculous statements like, "Can you get any rhubarb in this town?" or "I didn't like eels either until I tried them in butter.

They will regale you for hours on their favorite methods of cooking liver and what you have to do is kill the taste, but I've never converted.

Even in my fantasies, I can't see Sophia Loren, Jaclyn Smith or Cheryl Tiegs having liver breath-even for

I've done a lot of compromising during my diet years, which began the year after I was married and my knees began to blouse. I pretended to crave lettuce, sneaked carrot sticks into my bedroom and ate them under the covers and even layered cottage cheese and pretended it was cake...but.liver!

I have done a lot of thinking on the subject as to why liver is thinning. Some people think it is because food has to taste bad to make you look good. This is an old wives' tale and is simply not true.

The reason why liver makes you thin (and why two percent of the dieters polled refused to even try) is because liver goes a long way. Not only will a pound of it feed a city the size of Seattle for an entire month, but a single spoonful of liver into the mouth of a dietee will be chewed for three days, thus eliminating all the fattening food you might have eaten.

Senate seeks 'decent housing' for poorer Texans

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Senate has taken a step toward providing adequate housing - "an endangered species" for all but the rich - for poorer Texans.

Senators tentatively approved two proposals Monday to secure "decent and safe housing" for such Texans. Sen. Carl Parker's proposed constitutional amendment authorizing the issuance of $200 million in bonds for housing was approved, 22-7. His bill creating the Texas Housing Agency to administer the program was approved, 23-6.

Final votes were pending on both proposals to send them to the House. Parker, D-Port Arthur, said Texas "is losing hundreds of millions of dollars" through its failure to set up a state housing agency. He said Texas is one of eight states without such an

"Every other state has had fantastic success" with state housing programs, he said. "It has been well accepted by existing lending institutions.'

Sen. Tom Creighton, D-Mineral Wells, protested that the proposed program — patterned after the Veter-ans' Land Program — "is just another extension of state government."

Parker responded that it costs more to operate the division of housing in the governor's office than it would to operate the housing agency, and the current division does not even have

According to a special report, Congress set aside $197.3 million in 1978 for the states' housing needs, and

Texas cannot apply for any of the money because it lacks a state hous-

"Texas has housing problems," the report stated. "Whether in rural or urban areas among low or moderate income individuals and families of various ages and ethnic backgrounds, adequate housing is rapidly becoming an endangered 'species' for all but the wealthy.'

The report stated that 500,000 Texas households were in need of "some sort of direct housing subsidy in 1975," and that number is expected to expand by

"The geographic areas which have the highest porportion of households living in substandard units are rural East Texas and the South Texas Cultural Basin," the report said.

Judge opens avenue for gasoline hike

WASHINGTON (AP) - A federal judge has approved new regulations that are permitting oil companies to increase gasoline prices by as much as a nickel a gallon over the next two

U.S. District Judge Aubrey E. Robinson Jr. on Monday approved the "tilt" regulations after finding that the Energy Department had adequately considered the environmental impact of the rules before issuing

The regulations are designed to increase the supplies of unleaded gasoline by permitting oil companies to tack onto gasoline more of their refining costs.

The rules are called "tilt" regulations because they allow refiners to tilt the impact of price rises. This will result in gasoline prices going up more than other petroleum products to compensate for the extra costs of producing unleaded gasoline.

The rules were challenged in court by the Center for Auto Safety and consumer advocate Ralph Nader. They said the pricing rules should be delayed because their environmental impact had not been carefully stud-

Their argument was that the regulations would cause "permanent and irreversible" harm to air quality because they would increase the price spread between more expensive, but cleaner, unleaded gasoline and cheaper, but dirtier, leaded fuel. And that, they said, would result in motorists switching to leaded gas.

Robinson said the Energy Department had relied on an Environmental Protection Agency study and a fuel usage survey by General Motors Corp. to conclude that fuel switching would not significantly harm the environment. Energy Department officials have predicted that, with the tilt rules, the maximum increase oil companies could impose on consumers would be 5.1 cents a gallon over the next two years.

Mack to merge?

Renault,

ALLENTOWN, Pa (AP) - The famous bulldog perched on the hoods of Mack trucks may soon appear on vehicles manufactured by France's giant state-owned auto company, Renault.

Renault announced in Paris recently that it had purchased 20 percent of Mack Trucks Inc., in a deal under which Mack will distribute Renault trucks in the United States.

But Mack officials here said the deal has not yet been completed. "We haven't really got a sale yet," said R.M. Buttenheim, a Mack spokesman. "The truck distribution agreement is finalized. That's, as the film guys say, in the can. The sale is an agreement in principle at this time, subject to government approvals." According to the agreement, Renault will pay $115 million for its stake in Mack, officials of both companies said. Of the total, $50 million will be added to Mack's capital for 10 percent of the firm's stock, and $65 million will buy bonds convertible to another 10 percent of shares, officials said.

Renault is to deliver turbocharged diesel engine trucks in the 9-to 15-ton range for sale through Mack outlets in the United States and Canada beginning in the final quarter of 1979.

Mack has been wholly owned by Signal Corp., a truck, engineering and visit and judge for aerospace group.

State's Bird falls to new zoning laws

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Coach Jud Heathcote calls it a "Matchup Zone" and can't explain how it works without a blackboard and lots of

But it succeeded where all else had failed this season ... it beat Larry Bird and Indiana State, and helped make Heathcote's Michigan State Spartans the 1978-79 NCAA basketball cham-

"We are elated," the Michigan State boss said in the wake of a 75-64 victory Monday night over the topranked Sycamores, defeated for only the first time in 34 games.

"I can't describe my feelings." With Earvin Johnson scoring 12 points and Gregory Kelser nine, Michigan State carved out a 37-28 halftime lead. Then unheralded Terry Donnelly suddenly got hot to help the Spartans score the first seven points after intermission and mount a commanding 44-28 advantage with 17:18 to

In their unbeaten, storybook surge to the threshold of greatness, the Sycamores had trailed by as many as 11 points several times and rallied to win. But never had they been down by 16, and never had they faced "Magic" Johnson and "Special K" Kelser. And, hard as they tried to write a happy ending to what had been a fairytale season for them and Bill Hodges, their rookie head coach, they never got closer than six.

With 10:05 remaining and Johnson shackled with three fouls and Kelser with four, Bird muscled through the air-tight Spartan defenders to hit a short jumper and make it 52-46.

But a Johnson free throw and a

Johnson bucket made it 55-46 and returned the momentum to the Spartans, who never let go of it. At the end, Bird put his face in his hands as if to hide tears. He scored 19 points, a good game for anyone else but a dreadful night for a man who averaged almost 29 through the season and became everybody's player

"We would have one man and a half on him when he put the ball on the floor," Heathcote explained the defense of Bird. "We would have a forward on him and a guard come in to help. Our defense worked well tonight. We wanted to force the action and get into an up-tempo game." Heathcote sounded like he was seriously worried during only one stretch in the second half. "What hurt us most was Gregory getting in foul trouble," he said "We got cautious and conservative, but the Magic Man put us back together."

Johnson a 6-foot-8 sophomore who may bolt Michigan State to join Bird in professional basktball next season, pumped in a game-high 24 points and Kelser had 19. Donnelly, who seldom gets much attention keeping company with the likes of Johnson and Kelser, hit 5-of-5 field goals, most of them in the second half when Indiana State was making its charge, and wound up with 15 points

"Wherever he went," said Johnson of Bird, "we had two men on him. When Greg went out we tried to slow it down and take some time off the clock. I hit a couple of baskets, then Greg came back and we got the job

ago, was philosophical in dealing with his only loss as a head coach.

"The Lord blessed us with a tremendous year," he said. "We have a great bunch of players. They never gave up. I don't think they ever will. Anyone disappointed with the success we have had this year has to be a lesser man than I am. They are a team, a unit, and a family, and I love every one of them.

Michigan State's victory gives the Big Ten Conference a rare basketball coup. With Indiana winning the National Invitation Tournament earlier this month, the Big Ten can rightfully claim to be the toughest basektball league in the country.

'We're very pleased, of course," said Commissioner Wayne Duke. "But we aren't going to beat our chest and boast because we know things

The Magic Show of Michigan State's Earvin Johnson played to rave reviews Monday night as he helped lead his Spartans to the NCAA basketball

Rose is attractive help, but he just can't pitch

By HAL BOCK AP Sports Writer

It was a wonderful idea for the Philadelphia Phillies to package $3.2 million of owner Ruly Carpenter's petty cash to sign free agent Pete

On the surface, Rose can add many important elements to an already imposing Phillie lineup which has won three straight National League East titles. There is, however, a fatal flaw

Pete Rose can't pitche

It is an in-and-out mound staff complicated by injuries that casts a long shadow over Philadelphia's hopes for repeating as NL East kingpins. And the team most likely to succeed if the Phillies can't overcome the shortage of arms is the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Pirates came within a whisker of catching the Rose-less Phillies a year ago and it could be Philadelphia doing the catching this time around. After those two top cats, Montreal, St. Louis and Chicago are bunched in the middle of the National League East. Then come the lowly New York Mets, whose reaction to two straight lastplace finishes has been a stand-pat position, apparently in an effort to find out whether the same mediocre lineup can make it three in a row. 1978 Finish - Philadephia, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Montreal, St. Louis, 1979 Finish - Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Montreal, Chicago, St. Louis, New York.

ROSE HAS spent spring training learing the intricacies of playing first base, and Manager Danny Ozark has spent it trying to keep Philadelphia's fragile pitching staff intact. A freak biking accident left Larry Christenson with a fractured collarbone. Promising Jim Wright threw a pitch in an exhibition game and fractured his arm. Dick Ruthven complained of a tender arm that sent shivers up and down the Phillie hierarchy.

Steve Carlton remains the mainstay of the staff with Ruthven (if he's healthy) and Randy Lerch behind him. Ron Reed may leave the bullpen to bolster the starters. That leaves Tug McGraw and Warren Brusstar in

The Phillies would be willing to surrender Richie Hebner for some ptching help now that Rose has made him excess baggage. Manny Trillo (acquired from Chicago) tightens the infield defense at second base and Larry Bowa and Mike Schmidt are gold glovers on the left side. The outfield is solid with slugger Greg Luzinski, and fleet Gary Maddox and Bake McBride. The catcher is Bob Boone, except when Carlton pitches and gets his personal reciever, Tim

"Most everyone picks us to win again," said Ozark. "I like our chances, but ... I've never known a championship to be won on a piece of

But pennants have been won with a bullpen, and Pittsburgh thinks the addition of Enrique Romo, acquired from Seattle, gives the Pirates the reliever they need to go over the top.

He'll reduce the work load which Kent Tekulve carried almost singlehandedly last year. Add Grant Jackson and Bruce Kison, and the Pirates have solid backup pitching behind the starting rotation of Bert Blyleven, John Candelaria, Don Robinson, St. Louis has the NL's best catcher day-in, day-out with dependable Ted Simmons, but the rest of the cast is uninspiring, especially the pitching. First baseman Keith Hernandez, shortstop Garry Templeton and third baseman Ken Reitz are solid, but the oufield is only so-so with brooding George Hendrick in center and again Lou Brock sharing left with Tony Scott and Jerry Mumphrey in right.

John Denny, Bob Forsch, Pete Vuckovich and Silvio Martinez are the main pitchers with Mark Littell, Buddy Schultz and free agent veteran Darold Knowles in the bullpen.

BUT AS long as the NL East has the stand-pat Mets, the other five clubs at least don't have to worry about the basement. The Mets made no significant changes over the winter, so there's no reason to expect New York to move out of the cellar.

Rookies Dan Norman in right field and Kelvin Chapman at second base are getting long training camp looks on the chance that they could supply hope to the dwindling loyalists who remember the team's glory days. Pete Falcone, acquired from St. Louis, replaces Jerry Koosman, traded to Minnesota, on the pitching staff. The three main starters, Nino Espinosa, Craig Swan and Pat Zachry, labor under the burden of a punchless attack and an all but non-existant

Giddy Michigan State fans poured down the beer and then poured into the streets early today to shoot off fireworks, shake their index fingers toward heaven and await their Spartans' return home.

Half a continent away, Michigan State's basketball squad exulted over Monday night's 75-64 victory over Indiana State that won them the NCAA championship. But the folks back home watched on televisions in dormitories, fraternities and campus bars, with all the gusto of the fortunate few who wrangled tickets for Salt Lake City.

One of those Spartan-watchers was Gov. William Milliken, who watched the contest at the governor's man-"Michigan State is truly No. 1,"

Milliken said after the game. "It was an exciting game and was a perfect end to a thrilling season. "The Spartans showed the characplay all year and we can take great pride that they represented this

Grand River Avenue, the four-lane boulevard that cuts through the campus, was virtually closed to traffic within an hour after the game-ending whistle as more than 2,000 students draped the road with toilet paper.

A searchlight swept across the sky, accompanied by sparklers and Roman candles as the relatively few students already back for spring quarter registration scampered across the lawns and parking lots of the campus town.

"I really thought all along we could do it, but I didn't stop sweating till (Terry) Donnelly broke into a grin with that last free throw," said William McCollough, 21, of Detroit.

McCullough was one of about 400 screaming Spartan fans jammed into Coral Gables, an off campus bar with a seven-foot television screen and a game-night special on beer. Sutton pitches very well, Ron Guidry gets shelled

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

Last Oct. 13, they were opposing pitchers in the third game of the World Series at Yankee Stadium. On Monday, they were on the mound again in different parts of Florida...and this time Don Sutton pitched well and Ron Guidry was shelled.

Sutton hurled a two-hitter, becoming the first Los Angeles pitcher to go the distance this spring as the Dodgers won their exhibition game from the Minnesota Twins 2-0.

The veteran right-hander retired the first 15 batters. He walked Butch Wynegar to lead off the sixth and then gave up his first hit, a single by Bobby Randall. The other Minnesota hit was a one-out single in the ninth by Roy

SUTTON WALKED two and struck out eight. In four exhibition appearances he is 3-0, having allowed just three earned runs in 26 innings for a 1.04 ERA, walking six and striking out

"I feel very good about this spring," said Sutton, who will be 34 next Monday and was 15-11 with a 3.55 ERA last year. "I worked hard all winter, mostly with weights, but didn't throw that much. I'm very excited about the 1979 season. My changeup has been greatly improved since Andy Messersmith returned to the club. I know he'll win a lot of games on his own, and he'll help me win a lot, too.'

En route to the American League's 1978 Cy Young Award, Guidry was 25-3 with a 1.74 ERA, set a club strikeout record, won his first 13 decisions, etc., etc. Perhaps the most amazing statistic was that only twice did he allow more than two runs in an inning...a "record" he had already matched this spring.

Last Thursday, Boston's Jim Rice tagged him for a three-run homer. And on Monday, Guidry walked six and was rocked for six hits and nine runs in 3½ innings — including a grand slam by Junior Moore — as the Chicago White Sox trimmed the New York Yankees 11-5.

GUIDRY'S SPRING ERA soared to 8.79 but he explained that he has been experimenting with a changeup - he is basically a fastball-slider pitcher and, besides, his ERA was over 10.00

two springs ago. All he's done since is win 41 regular-seeaon games and four more in postseason play.

"My arm is a little tight, that's all," the 28-year-old lefty said. "I've had to pitch batting practice every two days to strengthen it gradually and there are times it gets a little dead. I'm not worried; it always comes back okay.

"If your arm is gonna get tired, I'd rather have it happen down here when it doesn't count. If I get beat during the regular season you can be sure it will be on my good stuff." -

Like Sutton, Atlanta's Larry McWilliams also fired five no-hit innings and wound up blanking Montreal for seven as the Braves downed the Expos 5-2, with Hank Small contributing a two-run homer. Chris Knapp and Jim Barr combined on a three-hitter and Dan Ford hit a two-run homer as the California Angels whipped the Oakland A's 8-0. Jose Cruz and Art Howe hit consecutive homers off Boston's Dennis Eckersley in the fourth inning, helping the Houston Astros blank the Red Sox 3-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Joe Niekro, Garry Wilson and Joe

KANSAS CITY got only two hits against Pittsburgh but one of them was Darrell Porter's second-inning homer and the Royals edged the Pirates 1-0 as Marty Pattin, Ed Rodriguez and Al Hrabosky teamed up on a four-hitter.

George Hendrick of St. Louis was the day's top hitter. He drove in seven runs with a pair of homers, including a grand slam in the seventh inning, powering the Cardinals over the Cincinnati Reds 11-4.

Mike Jorgensen's two-run homer in the ninth inning lifted the Texas Rangers to a 2-1 victory over the Baltimore Orioles. The blast came off reliever Don Stanhouse, who did not allow a homer last year.

Jerry Morales doubled across two runs in the first inning and scored on a double by Steve Kemp as the Detroit Tigers edged the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3.

Steve Ontiveros' three-run homer and Steve Davis' two-run shot accounted for all the runs in the Chicago Cubs' 5-3 triumph over the Seattle Mariners while Jim Wohlford and Ray Fosse slammed two-run homers in a four-run fourth inning that helped the Milwaukee Brewers defeat the San Francisco Giants 8-3. John Stearns drove in five runs with two homers and a single, leading the New York Mets over the Toronto Blue Jays 7-3, and Paul Dade's 10th-inning single gave the Cleveland Indians a 7-6 decision over the San Diego

By BOB DILLON Sports Writer

Midland High's Bulldogs entertain the Abilene Eagles while the Midland Lee Rebels take to the road for a tough confrontation with the Abilene Cooper Cougars in District 5-4A baseball action at 4 p.m. today. Coach Larry Peel's Purple Pack shares first pace with Abilene and Cooper while Lee was slipped up upon Saturday by the lowly San Angelo Central Bobcats to the tune of 1-0 at the Lee diamond and takes a 1-1 loop mark into today's important game in the Key City. Peel plans to start rigthander Archie Booth, who sports a 3-0 mound record against the Warbirds who are on a three-game winning streak after a very poor 2-4 non-district record. Midland, meanwhile, is 7-3 and has been getting both good pitching and timely hitting, mainly in Jimmy Zachry and Tommy Munoz. Zachry has slammed five homers on the year and has 24 runs-batted-in and has already had circuit clouts in both 5-4A games against Odessa Permian and Big Spring.

Lee, meanwhile, only came up with two hits against San Angleo Saturday after pounding the ball well in nondistrict competition. The Rebels take a 12-5 season record into the game and a loss today will pretty-well keep the Rebels out of the running for the first

Lee Coach Ernie Johnson will go with his ace Terry Willis against Cooper which is 2-0 and 9-1 on the year. Jerry Jacques (4-0) will throw for the Cougars. The rest of the Lee lineup will include Lee Johnson at first; Gary Wood, second base; Steve Pitts at short and Wade Cartwright at third base. In the outfield will be Tyler Alcorn in left; John White in center and either Robert Perez or Larry Latch in right with Clay Calhoun the catcher and unbeaten Willis (5-0) on the mound. The designated hitter will be Tom Morrison, who missed the San Angelo game with an ear infection.

In other 5-4A games today, Odessa Permian faces Big Spring and Odessa is at San Angelo. Permian, OHS and Big Spring stand 0-2 while the Bobcats are 1-1 in 5-4A play.

Lee returns to its own diamond on Wednesday to face the Lubbock Monterey Plainsmen in a non-district game at 4 p.m. before resuming league play on Saturday in Big Spring.

Midland High will host upstart San Angelo Saturday at 2 p.m. in their next district outing.

Start the playoffs today and Seattle and Kansas City would draw byes, while Phoenix would have the homecourt advantage over San Diego and Los Angeles over Denver in the two mini-series. Seattle, which has won five in a row, should hang on to win the Pacific Division, where it leads Phoenix by two games and Los Angeles by 31/2. After that, however, everything is up

Phoenix and Los Angeles appear to be in decent shape for making the playoffs, but it; s not impossible for one of them to hit a cold spell and find itself out of post-season play. The Suns, the No. 2 team in the conference, are only 41/2 games ahead of Portland, which right now is No. 7 and on the outside looking in.

KANSAS CITY has led the Midwest Division for virtually the entire season, but injuries to Tom Burleson and Scott Wedman sent the Kings into a late-season slump. Denver's 123-113 victory over Los Angeles Sunday, combined with the Kings' 111-101 loss to Seattle, put the Nuggets just onehalf game behind Kansas City in the division race.

Neither is assured of a playoff spot, however, since the fifth-place finisher in the Pacific Division could finish with a better record than the Midwest runner-up. Thus Kansas City and Denver are competing not only with each other but also with Portland and

Indiana State star Larry Bird burries his face in a towel moments after his team was defeated by Michigan State Monday night in the NCAA finals in Salt Lake City. (AP Laserphoto)

Nobody believed Indiana State

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

SALT LAKE City, Utah (AP) -They were the team that nobody believed - and they died hard.

None took it harder than the year's most celebrated player, Larry Bird, after a strong, aggressive Michigan State team crushed Indiana State for the NCAA college basketball championship Monday night 75-64.
The "Bird," as his Sycamore supporters lovingly dubbed him, put up a creditable fight, lashing out with all of his 6-foot-9, 215-pound strength, but in the end he had his feathers clipped by a swarming Spartan defense. He scored only 19 points - 10 below his season's average - and hit only one third of his shots from the field (7 of 21), a comparatively poor showing for the man rated the best all-around collegian of the decade.

HE WAS distraught afterward. He shunned the traditional post-game in-

After the final whistle sounded, the "Bird," his shoulders sagging and his head bowed, went to the bench and sat down. There he covered his blond head with his massive hands -"hands big as toilet seats," according to DePaul Coach Ray Meyer - and later sobbed into a towel.

Bill Hodges, Indiana State's rookie coach, apologized publicly for his All America star's failure to face the customary post-mortem. "When you play as hard and as intensely as Larry has, and lose," Hodges said, "you have to have emotion. For Larry, it wasn't just the end of a game. It was the end of a career.

It also marked the dawn of a new career. Now Bird can sign a contract possibly in the millions — as a pro in the National Basketball Association. The Boston Celtics presently have his rights.

Nearly an hour after the game, Indiana State's sports information director, Ed McKee, emerged from the locker room with a sheet of mimeographed quotes from the dejected Player of the Year.

'They played very tough defense," Bird acknowledged. "The ball wouldn't drop for us and we missed too many free throws ... We gave the best we had. We just didn't hit the shots tonight."

IT WAS a crushing disappointment for a team that was an orphan at the start of the season, figured to finish no better than fourth in its own Missouri Valley Conference. Yet it proceeded to win a record 33 straight games, confounding all the critics and the faint-hearted.

San Francisco feels pennant By ROSS NEWHAN The Los Angeles Times

PHOENIX, Ariz. - "It's not you personally," John Montefusco said 'It's just that I don't like anything about Los Angeles. I don't like the writers, the fans or the team."

The pitcher known as The Count was saying that he did not care to discuss the pennant chances of his San Francisco Giants with a representative of the L.A. media.

Can you believe it? Can you believe that a man whose rhetoric offers continuous competition to the bay foghorns would refuse to talk to anyone about anything? And can you believe that even without the devalued opinions of the repressible Montefusco it is possible to conclude that in the wake of their surprising pennant bid of 1978 the Giants now believe they are for real, that they can win the National League West?

TAKE IT from warhorse Willie

"To tell you the truth," he said, "I don't see why we shouldn't be favored. That's not to say we're going to win it without going out on the field and doing it, but it is to say we have the ingredients, especially when you consider the improvements we've made over the last year and the losses the Dodgers and Reds have suffered. Or take it from free-agent newcomer Bill North, an ex-Dodger.

"I agree with Willie," he said. "I think the Giants should be favored. We have as much talent as the Dodgers and now we have the stabilizing influence of last year's experi-

fielder Terry Whitfield. "We came together as a unit last year," he said. "We made believers of ourselves. A lot of us matured. A lot of us are now a lot looser. We don't have to look at the paper in the morning to see who the other team is pitching because we know we're going to play no matter who's pitching. We've got all the talent in the world here. We've got the talent to win everything. We just have to take one step at a

AND SECOND baseman Bill Mad-

"Last year I don't think we ever really believed we had a chance to win it. Now we do. If we can score four runs a game we'll be ver tough. We can win scoring three and four. The Dodgers need six and seven. We're not going to blow anyone out like the Dodgers can, but we don't have to. We don't have to score as many runs as the Dodgers because we have much better pitching."

Jack Clark, the right fielder who drives in most of the runs the Giants do score, had no compunctions about talking to an L.A. writer.

"Personally," he said, "I've never gone on the field thinking that the other team was better, thinking that we couldn't win. Now the good feeling is that other peoiple believe the same way. Other people on this team and other people in the business. A chance? Hey, we got more than a chance. I mean we certainly ain't no darkhorse."

EVEN JOE Altobelli cautiously

broke the managerial code. "We've graduated," he said. "We've become a contending club. The importantthing is that we now feel we can win. We drive to the park expecting to win. We've come a long way, and if we continue to work hard there's definitely a chance we can pull an upset, that we can win our

Others, too, reflect an optimism that stems from the three months in firstplace last year, from the strong belief that the young players will grow quicker because of last year's experience, from the conviction that the rotation is the best in baseball, and from the addition of center fielder

North, a proven leadoff hitter, a man capable of getting his pitchers a quick run without need of a hit.

The Giants have indeed come a long way, for it was just two years ago that this franchise seemed headed for (choose one): 1. Toronto; 2. Oakland; 3. Oblivion.

NOW, WITH many things having come together to save the franchise and restructure its future, Altobelli shook his head and said:

"Two years ago we were talking about the possibility on drawing 700,-000 and now we're talking about 2 million. Two years ago I used some 90 different lineups and now I'm hoping that I won't have to platoon at all. Two years ago we were talking about the chances of finishing .500 and now we're talking about a pennant. The turnaround has been amazing."

Much of how it happened has been chronicled.

And now?

"We're such a very young team," third baseman Darrell Evans said, "and I don't mean just agewise but experience-wise, that I can't see how we can help but improve.

"In fact, I wasn't worried what the Dodgers and Reds did during the offseason because I felt that even if we stayed the same we could keep pace, we could pick up the six games (the third-place Giants finished that many behind the first-place Dodgers) just through maturity and experi-

"One of the reasons I came back (Evans played out his option and then re-signed with the Giants) is that over the next five or six years this is the one team that will continue to improve."

ON THE Giants' spring roster, only McCovery, a 19-year veteran has more than eight full years of major league experience and only five players have more than six.

"With the exception of Vida Blue and myself," McCovey said, "no one on the team had been through it before and that's one of the reasons we failed last year.

"Naturally, I feel my own injury was significant (McCovey missed five weeks during the second half with a shoulder injury and drove in only 13 of his 64 RBI after the All-Star game), but what really got to us down the stretch was inexperience. And the clubs that had been through it before took advantage."

There are those who say that after a 52-34 first half provided the impetus by which the Giants remained in first place (with the exception of three days) between May 12 and Aug. 15, the real San Francisco team stood up. A 37-39 second half included a seven game losing streak in September and sub-first-halfperormances by virtually every player.

IF THE Giants are to win their first division title since 1971 and, perhaps, their first pennant since 1962, it is unlikely that the experience gained last year will be the real difference. "Last year," acknowledged Madlock, "may mean something to us only if we're still in the race in Septem-

"We won 75 games in 1977 and threw away at least 30," Altobelli said. "We were dedicated last spring to correcting that. We won 89, which means we corrected 14 of the 30, leaving 16. If we correct half of those you're looking at 97 wins, which is really good enough to win it. We keep making improvements, we keep moving in the right direction. Of course, this is a tough division and we're going to have to keep improving. The key thing is that we don't look on last year as a banner year. It was a good year but not a banner year. A banner yer is when you win it.

"Also, we know we we're not going to have the surprise element going for us. Teams are going to be laying for us now. No one will take us for grant-

Sore arm plagues Carlton Fisk

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) -Veteran slugger Carlton Fisk, the American League's 1972 Rookie of the Year and a six-time choice for the All-Star team, is hurting badly and very doubtful for the Red Sox 1979 opener against Cleveland next week in Boston.

serious setback Monday in the first game-condition test of his ailing throwing arm as the Red Sox dropped a 3-0 exhibition loss to the Houston Astros at Cocoa. Fisk, plagued by a sore right elbow since playing in 157 games last season, made the decision himself to make his preseason debut against Houston. He learned quickly it was a mistake. Leadoff batter Jeff Leonard of the Astros walked in the first inning and stole second despite a good throw by Fisk. Pitcher Dennis Eckersley had let the runner get a good jump. "I turned to Zimmy (Boston Manager Don Zimmer) and said, 'Zimmy, I think I left my elbow out on the mound," said Fisk, who remained in the game for four innings and belted a double. Fisk, who did not have another throwing chance, has bounced back from various injuries in seven years with the Red Sox, including a torn up knee and a broken right arm.

However, the elbow ailment could be the worst of his career. Many observers are wondering if his career, at least as a catcher, may be in jeopardy. Boston trainer Charlie Moss said doctors have not been able to diagnose Fisk's problem, but he ruled out calcium deposits in the elbow. He planned to phone team physician Dr. Arthur Pappas in Boston. "It might be something he's going to have to live with. We just don't know," Moss said. "I don't know what the problem is. I personally think it around the elbow." "If somebody goes, I can't throw," Fisk said. "I'll have to stick it (the ball) in my pocket. After the first throw, I didn't think I could throw the ball back to Eckersley.

has something to do with the muscles

"The pain is the same as it was 21/2 weeks ago, but I'll have to see how it feels tomorrow. I know it isn't going to feel any better, though." Fisk blamed his elbow trouble on trying to adjust his throwing after he suffered a broken rib late last July and then tore a rib cage muscle.

Despite the injuries, he finished with a .284 average with 20 homers and 88 runs batted in. "When I got home to New Hampshire after the season, my elbow looked like a pretzel," he said. "It didn't straighten out for weeks. I rested it all winter, but it didn't help. It just hasn't got much better." Zimmer said after Fisk advised him of the pain in trying to throw out Leonard, "I told him if they tried to steal to let 'em go." "I have no idea how bad it is,"

Zimmer said. "I don't know what will happen. He's the only one who knows. The only thing I know is I didn't rush him in there. I left it totally up to him and he came to me and told me he wanted to play."

Zimmer said that Fisk's injury "certainly complicates our catching situation with only a week left down here." The Red Sox have three other receivers, veteran Bob Montgomery and rookies Gary Allenson and Mike O'Berry on the roster.

"If Fisk can't make it for opening day, Montgomery will start," Zimmer said. "If Fisk has to go on the disabled list, I'll take all three catchers and pinch hit for them in certain situations as early as the third or fourth inning if necessary."

Sabres still adversity

ST. LOUIS (AP) - When a hockey team is playing well together, even adversity can be turned to its advantage. Buffalo Sabres Coach Billy Inglis offers his National Hockey League team as a case in point.

"We haven't had a day on this trip when something didn't happen that wasn't on my itinerary, but we've stayed together," Inglis said after his Sabres downed the St. Louis Blues 4-2 Monday night. "We've sat through 21/2- and 31/2-hour waits in airports together. I think our recent play typifies our togetherness."

The victory, sewed up with two goals 35 seconds apart in the third period by Gil Perreault and Rick Dudley, was the fourth straight road win for the Sabres, a club record. They are unbeaten in five games and have lost only once in the last 12 games, going 9-1-2. Inglis thinks that is a preview of things to come.

MILWAUKEE (AP) - The Progressive magazine, which termed its effort a precedent-setting freedom of the press case, has lost its battle to prevent the government from banning publication of an article on hydrogen bombs.

U.S. District Judge Robert Warren, becoming the first federal judge to ever issue an injuction imposing prior restraint on publication in the interest of national security, said Monday that dangers of the spread of nuclear weapons outweighed the press-freedom arguments.

He granted the government request for a preliminary injunction to stop the Madison-based news and opinion monthly from printing the article. Magazine spokesmen said the decision would be appealed.

Warren said the case, as far as he knew, was the first instance of prior restraint based on national security

The article, titled "The Hydrogen Bomb Secret: How We Got It, Why We're Telling It," was scheduled for publication in the April edition before Warren issued a temporary restraining order March 9. It was to go to press with the May edition Monday before Warren's preliminary injunction was issued.

The government contended the article contained detailed technical information that could aid foreign nations in developing hydrogen weapons. The information, the government said, is prohibited from disclosure under provisions of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954.

But the magazine said the author of the article, free-lance writer Howard Morland, had gathered the informa-tion from unclassified sources and that the data were already in the public domain, especially after being entered in the court record.

The article's purpose, Morland said, was to expose a "myth of secrecy" that surrounds nuclear armaments, preventing public debate and criticism of the program.

Warren said he did not welcome "the notoriety" that would come from issuing the preliminary injunction.
