No sanctions to be imposed against U.S.

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Arab leaders will impose at least a partial economic boycott against Egypt but will not impose sanctions against the United States at the Baghdad conference, official sources reported today.

Despite a call from Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat for economic war against the United States," the sources said the ministers meeting here V have neither the authority nor the inclination to impose sanctions against any country except Egypt

The delegates showed little enthusiasm for Arafat's call for sanctions against the United States because it sponsored the Egyptian-Israeli peace

Foreign ministers of 16 Arab countries, meeting to plan retaliatory action against Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israel, listened impassively Tuesday as the Palestine Liberation Organization's chief told them they should not sell oil to the United States or buy from it because President Carter "plotted this conspiracy.

It is taken for granted that Sadat's regime will be punished, but don't just hit the tail of the snake, hit the head of the snake, the United States,"

Turge you to make an oil boycott against the United States. Lurge you to make a trade boycott of the United States. Lurge you to make a petrodollar box cott of the United States We should stop buying big American cars and other products. If you move your petrodollars around, several huge American companies would Iraq: Vice President Sadam Hussein Warnej seconded the demand for anti Americans measures. But the applause at the end of Arafat's impassioned speech was light, and the key minister at the meeting. Prince Saud Al Faisal of Saudi Arabia, did not join in it

The outcome of the meeting is dependent on the Saudis since the only economic action against Egypt that might have any effect is termination of their financial aid now nearly $2 billion a year, and withdrawal of their petrodollar deposits from Egyptian banks. Egyptian officials do not expect this to happen because it would undermine Sadat's moderate regime, and open the way to a radical Egyptian government that would not be welcomed by Saud: Arabia's conservative royal rulers

Any oil embargo voted by the meeting was unlikely to extend any farther. than Egypt, and that would be meaningless since Egypt produces all the petroleum it needs and has a surplus for export. No retaliatory economic action against the United States was expected

Midland signs contract for transportation grant

By LANA CUNNINGHAM

After a month of delays, the Midland City Council Tuesday signed a grant contract with the federal government to put MidTran back on a oad toward completion

A $117.840 grant to get MidTran rolling was approved by the Urban Mass Transportation Administration in early February

But the City Council had waited to pen its signature until wording of

With the city's approval, Transpor tation coordinator John Schafer now will advertise for bids on seven light transit buses needed for the system I am still looking at the end of summer." Schafer said, referring to date for operation of the program

There are a lot of external factors" that can affect that date, he

Obstacles could include approval of bids or acquisition of vehicles, ac cording to John Ingram, president of

Although the city has worked a month with the Department of Labor and Department of Transportation in changing the contract's wording. there still exists some wording with which the city is not altogether

But we can live with it," City Attorney Joe Nuessle told the council

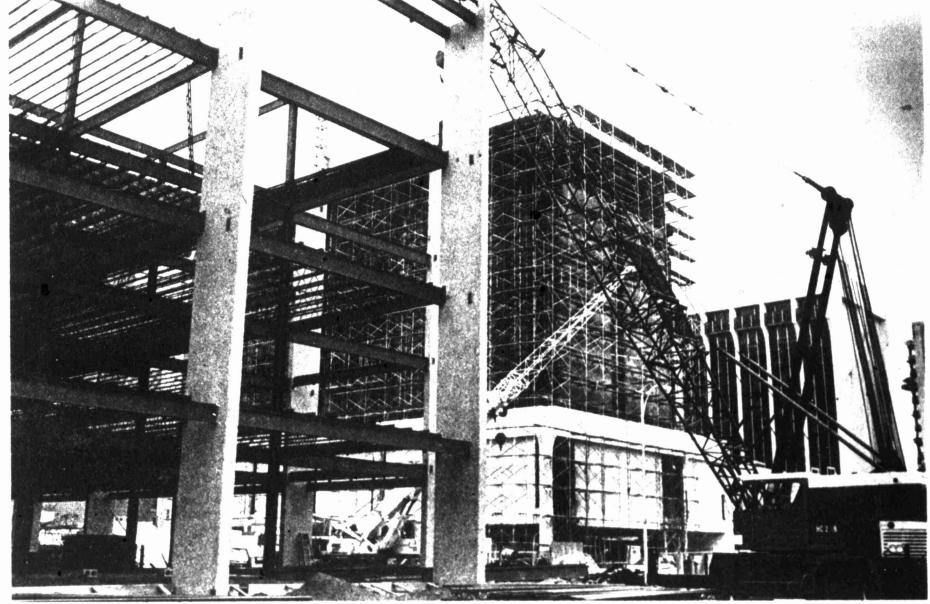

One "problem" has to do with taxi cabs with making sure the city would not be 'liable if a taxi com pany went out of business and tried to blame it on MidTran, according to

The council voted 5-1 to sign the contract Councilman Carroll M Thomas registered the only negative

MidTran is a "unique concept, Ingram said, adding it calls for broadening the entire scope of transportation in Midland

It is based on a demand responsive system in which people will either subscribe as riders on a regular basis - such as downtown office workers or give 24-hour notice when they need the service.

'As long as we're not limited by external forces, we won't be limited by inside (problems)," Ingram said.

Midland's construction has continued at a brisk pace—building permits for February approached last February's record-and the downtown sector reflects that, as do other areas of the Tall City. Marathon Oil Co.'s building, seen going up Tuesday at the intersection of Main Street and Missouri Avenue, eventually will be a four-story,

Carter opts for gradual decontrol

By The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — President Carter has decided to decontrol domestic oil prices gradually and to support legislation to impose an excess profits tax on oil companies, administration sources said Tuesday. Lifting controls could eventually add a total of about five cents a gallon to gasoline

Carter has the power to end controls on June 1, but legislation would be required to impose an excess or 'windfall" profits tax on companies whose earnings would be greatly in creased by decontrol. Such tax proposals have generated strong opposition from the oil industry in the past and have been bottled up in Con-

Sources said Carter has not decided whether to propose his own tax mea sure or support tax legislation that would unquestionably originate in Congress in the aftermath of decon-

Under present law, about half of the oil produced in this country is subject to federal price controls and sells at less than half the present world mar ket price. Lifting controls would per mit prices on this oil, which constitutes about one quarter of total U.S. consumption, to rise to the world level, now about $13.34 a barrel

Decontrol will contribute to higher gasoline prices and the rate of infla tion, and it may aggravate Carter's immediate political problems. But the president believes that in the long run it will result in less reliance on oil from the troubled Middle East, White House sources said.

The final form of Carter's new en ergy program, which will include the decontrol measure, still has not been decided. He had planned to announce the program in a televised message to the nation Thursday But he decided to delay the announcement until next week after differences arose among his advisers over some of the ele ments of the program and the forum that should be used for announcing

Although an exact date and forum for the announcement has not yet been selected, a Carter adviser said that since the program will include no drastic measures to solve the energy problem, "it won't be on television

'This will be a moderate, long-term program, so we don't want to create any sense of crisis by going on TV.

Any increase in gasoline prices re sulting from decontrol would be in addition to whatever increase results from the 9 percent price increase and surcharges approved Tuesday by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting

The American Petroleum Institute said that lifting controls over a three year period would mean motorists could expect to pay 16 cents a gallon more in 1979, 1.7 cents more in 1980 and 1.8 cents more in 1981.

Jody Powell, Carter's press secre tary, declined to confirm or deny that the president had decided to decontrol

At a White House press briefing, Powell said Carter was "considering a series of rather difficult and largely unpleasant options" for his energy

"He has today indicated less than complete satisfaction with some of the proposals that have been submitted to him and has asked that they be reworked," Powell said

tainly within the next week or so, the actions this administration plans to take to deal with the problem we face. that is so clearly illustrated by this

Carter's chief inflation adviser. Alfred E. Kahn, has opposed decontrol of oil prices on grounds it would add to the already soaring rate of Labor and other liberal groups have vigorously opposed decontrol on the same grounds. The AFL-CIO, commenting on the 25 percent annual rate increase in gasoline prices recorded during the last three months, said, "If the president decontrols oil and gas

College trustees vote 13.7 percent pay hike

With the majority of their building program behind them. Midland Junior College District trustees Tuesday voted a 13.7 percent average in crease for college employees

'We haven't always been able to compensate our employees as we would have liked to because of tight budget restraints," Board President Jack Huff said "Now we feel is the time to bring our people up to the true level of compensation they deserve."

Faculty salaries will be increased by 14.2 percent, auxiliary staff salaries by 13 percent and administrative salaries by 13.3 percent, trustees announced after a 45-minute execu-

In addition, Chaparral Center Manager Larry Campbell will receive a one-time $1,000 bonus for "a job done well in the early stages of Chaparral Center," Huff said

While the increases do not fall within the federal guidelines recently suggested by the president, Huff said salaries at Midland College have been low since the institution's beginning because of the expenses of building the campus

Now salaries can be brought up to the level they should have been all along, he said, without an increase in the budget or the tax rate.

In other business, trustees agreed to place "No Smoking" signs in Chaparral Center with only designated areas allowed for smoking.

Trustees also appointed a Blue Ribbon Energy Committee to look into ways of cutting energy costs at the

Gov. Brown blames British

Only 'miracle' can revive Sohio pipeline

WASHINGTON (AP) — California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. is accusing British interests of trying to torpedo a pipeline project the Carter administration considers vital to moving Alaska oil to the A Standard Oil of Ohio official denied Brown's accusation — leveled Tuesday at a Senate Energy Committee hearing - but said only "a miracle" can revive the California-Texas project now. Meanwhile, Republican legislators at the hearing said Brown was merely engaging in presidential politics with his testimony.

California's Democratic governor suggested Sohio's attempts to abandon the pipeline project were orchestrated by its parent firm, British Petroleum, after the London-based company decided it had nothing to gain from the plan.

"I'm not going to be pushed around by a foreign company that wants a few extra pennies of profit, Brown testified, citing British Petroleum's 52-per cent ownership of Sohio.

Brown said he warned BP officials in London in 1977 that if they wanted the pipeline built, they'd have to meet stiff California anti-pollution rules. Their only response, Brown testified, was: "They gave me a cup of tea.'

Brown and Sohio board chairman Alton W. Whitehouse Jr. traded heated accusations at the hearing called to determine if the $1 billion project can be

Once unloaded at the proposed terminal, the oil would be shipped over an existing pipeline to Midland, Texas, for distribution to refineries in other parts of the nation Both Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger and

Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus testified that the pipeline is badly needed to move the glut of Alaska oil building up on the West Coast to the Midwest and the import-dependent East.

Committee Chairman Henry M. Jackson, D. Wash., noted, "There's nothing I know of by which we can force Sohio to build the pipeline if it doesn't want to Sohio officials announced earlier this month they planned to abandon the project after four years of delay in obtaining needed permits. But following a meeting with Schlesinger last week, they agreed to wait another six months before making a final decision.

"If somebody can work a miracle fast enough, then fine ... we would build it," Whitehouse testified Tuesday. "But in all candor, I will tell you — I don't think it will happen."

Sohio officials say a chief stumbling block has been their inability to get permits from California state agencies controlled by Brown.

But Brown accused Sohio of "welshing" after Whitehouse acknowledged the firm is having second thoughts about a previous promise to spend $83 million in helping other polluters in the area

Garwood, 32, is accused of desertion in time of war and collaboration with the enemy since his disappearance in Vietnam in September 1965

A military team is to investigate the charges, which could carry a penalty of death by a firing squad. Garwood, who returned to the United States on Sunday, is confined to a military hospital at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center.

Lt. Col. Art Brill, a Defense Department spokesman, said Tuesday that a Marine officer would arrive Thursday to question Garwood.

"No way!" Foley said. "I'll tell you that right now. No way will he (Garwood) participate in the case against

Foley, who contends that Garwood "has a hell of a strong case to make against any kind of collaboration," also said he might tell Garwood not to talk to psychiatrists at the hospital.

Foley said military law permits interrogators and doctors to be subpoenaed to testify at a court-martial. The concept of doctor-patient confidentiality does not exist under military law, he said.

Foley said he wanted Garwood to receive whatever psychiatric care might be necessary

Backyard inventors still refining fuel ideas

By JOHN M. DOYLE Associated Press Writer

While U.S. leaders worry about the rise of Mideast oil prices - and drivers worry about the subsequent jump in gasoline prices - backyard inventors by the thousands are tinkering with ideas to give America's roaming masses more miles for their money.

The work is being done in basements, garages and sheds by such everyday Americans as a pizza parlor worker in Kokomo, Ind., a farmer in Minnesota and an auto mechanic in Indianapolis.

The hope of anyone able to sell his invention to a skeptical auto industry is sudden riches and fame.

Some of the nascent Edisons' claims of fuel savings have been disputed and their work is hard to verify because they are secretive about their inventions, fearing their ideas will be stolen.

But each year the nation's automakers get thousands of unsolicited inventions. Ford Motor Co., the country's second-largest automaker, gets 3,000 to 4,000 inventions or ideas a year, and Ford spokesman Robert Harnar said the number has roughly doubled in recent years.

So far, Harnar said, Ford hasn't bought any substantial idea from a layman, but that hasn't stopped R.N. Linger of Indianapolis Linger is manufacturing and selling his patented "Pelco Fuel Saver" himself. Linger says the device heats gasoline vapors inside a car's engine for more even distribution and fuel

After three years of testing, he claims the device gives up to 35 percent better mileage and up to 65 percent less pollutant emission. Sales of the device have been primarily to companies with fleets of cars, but it is available to individuals for about $75, not including installation. Linger says test results from the companies using his fuel saver are not yet available. Other inventors have met with less

Federal agents seized the still that Lance Crombie used on his Webster. Minn., farm for fermenting corn to make alcohol for fuel. Crombie then obtained an experimental permit to operate the still legally. But the publicity from his run-in with the law stirred the public's interest, and Crombie said he now gets hundreds of telephone calls asking how to make the alcohol fuel.

Ford Motor Co. said the trouble with most inventions is they already have been tried.

In fact, Danny Jewell of Kokomo, Ind., a 25-year-old pizza parlor worker and part-time mechanic, said all his ideas came from the public library. The result: a thermal-powered engine attachment that runs all automobile accessories, freeing the crank shaft of those gasoline-guzzling chores and, says Jewell, increasing mileage 15-30 miles per gallon.

When both auto engineers and government officials - including the White House - ignored his telephone calls and letters, Jewell picketed the county courthouse for a week to attract investors.

Part of the reason for his recognition problems, Jewell admitted, is because he refused to give a detailed description of the 10-inch-long cylindrical device for fear someone will steal the idea. He has applied for a patent, he said.

"I tried to approach the auto companies, but unless you tell them everything and let them make decisions on it, they won't talk to you," he

Robert LaForce of Providence, R.I., took his invention to the public, too, demonstrating a new engine type in front of the Rhode Island statehouse — which did him little good.

LaForce said his engine provides a 15 percent boost in power and is far more energy efficient than the conventional engine.

Fatal fire traced to nesting mouse

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Authorities found nesting material and a small mouse inside a circuit breaker at a restaurant which caught fire early Sunday, claiming the lives of three firemen.

Jack Benton, a chemist with the Texas Department of Public Safety, said the mouse in the fuse box apparently caused an electrical short,

Killed in the fire were Kenneth H. Haggard, 34, of Lubbock; Larry D. Tucker, 25, of Lubbock; and Eddie C. Swafford, 30, of Slaton. Two of Haggard's brothers are Lubbock firemen.

About 100 volunteer firemen from nine South Plains communities and two New Mexico towns poured into Lubbock to relieve firemen, so they could attend the funerals of their comrades.

The firemen came from Clovis and Portales, N.M., and from the Texas towns of Levelland, Littlefield, Brownfield, Abernathy, Slaton, Wolfforth, Idalou, Ralls and Spur.

The funerals were staggered, at 10 a.m., 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. City flags were flown at half staff.

The three men were found lying unconscious, within six feet of each other, in a smoke-filled banquet area on the other end of the building from the kitchen, where the actual fire was confined. They were rushed to hospiThey were believed killed by toxic fumes, and investigators zeroed in on plastic ceiling tiles as a possible source of the fatal fumes. The face masks of the oxygen masks all three firefighters were wearing had numerous pin hole-size punctures and appeared to be eaten up by some type of chemical.

But officials later discounted their earlier belief the deterioration occurred during Sunday's fire. A later inspection of equipment citywide showed similar deterioration in masks that were not taken to the Fire Department officials said they plan an investigation aimed at determining how the deterioration of the masks occurred.

The fire was in a building being readied for use as an ice cream parlor. Until recently, it was an Underwood's Barbecue restaurant.

Officials theorize the firefighters knew toxic fumes were getting them, since all three had hit a bypass valve on their air tanks, which shut off their air. They apparently suspected that their tank was the problem, and one firemen had pulled his mask partially off.

Virtually every fireman at Sunday's fire experienced a breathing problem or headaches. Two were hospitalized, but were released Monday,

The fight started when Vadalabene, 64, walked over to the ornate Senate press gallery to talk to reporters about his measure that had just failed by four votes. Knuppel, 55, whose Senate floor desk is next to the press row, apparently did not like Vadalabene's presence there.

"Take your news conferences elsewhere," Knuppel said to Vadalabene, who did not respond.

Then, according to one of the reporters to whom Vadalabene was speaking, Knuppel tugged at Vadalabene's suit coat, both men called each other names and the fight was on.

MORRIS PLAINS, N.J. (AP) — Karen Ann Quinlan will be 25 years old on Thursday. To mark the occasion, a Mass will be celebrated at her bedside, where she lies in a coma.

"We have so much to be thankful for," says her mother, Julia Quinlan. "We never thought Karen would celebrate her 25th birthday. We didn't expect Karen to survive this long.

Devout Roman Catholics, the Quinlans have leaned heavily on their faith since the April day four years ago when their daughter slipped into a coma - the result of an overdose of alcohol and drugs at a friend's birthday

They believe that God is using her "for some purpose known only to

"She's really in God's hands now in every respect since there's nothing anybody can do," Miss Quinlan's father, Joseph, said in a recent interview at the family's home in Landing, N.J.

Karen Ann Quinlan will be remembered by her parents' fight to let her die by stopping use of extraordinary means to keep her alive.

On March 31, 1976, the New Jersey Supreme Court issued a landmark decision that gave Quinlan permission to order removal of his daughter's life-supporting respirator.

Quinlan said he had hoped his daughter would die before he had to exercise his new authority, but the comatose young woman clung to life and two months later she was weaned from the respirator. Doctors predicted she would die soon after the respirator was removed, but her condition stabilized. She receives daily injections of antibiotics to ward off infections and is fed through a tube in her nostrils. But, if her breathing should fail, no heroic measures will be taken to keep her alive. Her weight has stabilized at 70 pounds. She lies in the fetal position knees drawn up to her chest and her arms folded - on a waterbed in a second-floor room of the Morris View Nursing Home. Nurses change her body position every two hours to prevent bed sores. The Quinlans still live in the gray frame house where their daughter grew up. The coffee table in their living room is adorned with several copies of a book about her and the long court battle. Proceeds from the book and a made-for-television movie, "In the Matter of Karen Ann Quinlan," are being set aside to create a hospice - an institution for the terminally ill - in her name.

The Quinlans, who prefer not to think of their court action as a battle to establish their daughter's right to die, have no regrets about their decision to fight for her "right to live...in comfort and peace until the Lord calls

"We did it for Karen," Mrs. Quinlan said. "There was no other way. You have to think of the one you love."

Dole's wizardry with words not aimed at Demos

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

WASHINGTON (AP) - When Sen. Bob Dole, the Kansas Republican, gets up and starts talking about "blatant unreality...poor administration and rampant deceit by the powers that be," we assume it's another denunciation of the Democrats.

After all, Dole is one of the Republicans trying to follow the yellow brick road to the White House.

But this time his rhetoric was part of a tribute to an old constituent, Dorothy Gale, the young girl from Kansas who traveled to the Land of

Dorothy turned 40 last week and Dole saluted her as a "paragon of common sense and prairie virtues." But it's difficult for a senator, especially one who dreams of becoming the Wizard of the White House, to refrain from finding a political moral in Dorothy's journey.

So, after referring to the unreality, poor administration and rampant deceit in the Land of Oz, Dole couldn't resist saying, "We hope the analogy with Washington, D.C., is apt."

Then, with pointed reference to the benefits of a Kansas background like Dorothy's, Dole suggested that "perhaps we could approach our current problems with the steady hand that even a tornado cannot stay. Perhaps, we can't melt down OPEC (the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries) or the rate of inflation, but we can try."

THE BEST MIXED metaphor of the week comes from Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., arguing against legislation mandating a balanced federal budget:

"I hope all of us go into this pit with our eyes open and our parachutes

AND THE MOST honest press release of the week came from Rep. Daniel Crane, R-Ill.

The notice said Crane would greet a constituent who had traveled the 900 miles to the Capitol on horseback. The last line of the press release was: "Unfortunately, this is not a solution: joke."

THE FEDERAL government is engaged in an unsuccessful search for an area that would welcome becoming the burial ground for nuclear Addressing a meeting of governors recently, Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., referred to the controversy over a plan to establish a burial site at Carlsbad, N.M.

"If you can't put the stuff in New Mexico, where can you put it?" asked Udall. "Would you like it in Illinois?" he asked Gov. Jim Thompson, who cringed at the suggestion. At last, Udall hit upon a possible

SEN. JOHN C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, is a no-nonsense kind of guy who demands order at sessions of the panel.

Recently, he was presiding at a hearing on the administration's $122.7 billion request for the Pentagon.

A group of high school students entered the room, and Stennis quickly motioned them to take seats: "All of you are taxpayers, or will be soon, so come on over here and hear where your money is going."

ENERGY SECRETARY James Schlesinger leaned forward at the witness table and began his familiar recital of the nation's energy woes. "Mr. Secretary, I don't think you're speaking close enough to your microphone," said Chairman Robert C.

Byrd, D-W.Va. 'Can you hear me now?" asked the secretary.

"I think you have to turn the microphone on," said Byrd. "There's a little button.

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) - The American Indian is beginning to feel much better about himself through a heightened awareness of his tribe's culture and history, Jay Hunter

"In the last 10 years, there's been a greater realization of the contributions Indians have made to society," said the 70-year-old Indian. "This gives a lot of people a favorable iden-

Hunter retired earlier this month as executive director of the Mid-America All-Indian Center, an organization he helped found.

The $2 million building, one of 72 Indian centers nationwide, houses centuries-old artifacts valued at more than $1 million. But equally important in Hunter's mind, it bridges a cultural gap for Indians moving to urban areas.

"Our one objective for having an Indian center is to enhance the life of Indian people within the community and those Indians making the transitition from reservations to urban areas," Hunter said in an interview.

Participation in the programs has been great, Hunter said, but interest in cultural effects preserved in the museum has seen a resurgence in recent years.

"I think we provide an opportunity for young people to recoup a lot of the culture that would have been lost." Hunter said. "We're going through a period when the younger people are trying to recoup as much as they

The recent increase in interest in the past is not seen by Hunter as an outgrowth of the phenomenon created by Alex Haley's "Roots" - a novel of Haley's search for his black ancesthat." Hunter said. "We know we're natives of this country and we don't have () go looking around to see where we came from.'

Hunter was born on the Winnebago reservation near South Sioux City, Neb. His parents moved to Wichita in 1930 to join their son, who was attending college. Etta Hunter, now 92, still lives here with her son and his fami-

Hunter recalled that his mother's education was limited to eight grades in government schools, but he went on to receive a bachelor's degree and do graduate work at the University of Southern California. The value of education is paramount, he said.

"I feel education is the answer for our Indian problem," Hunter said. "I've always been of that theory, because education increases earning power. When earning power increases, you have an opportunity to day started off slowly for British rock star Eric Clapton, but it ended on an upbeat note when he married Patti Harrison, former wife of Beatle George Harrison, in a 20-minute, western-style ceremony at a Tucson church.

The ceremony took place Tuesday afternoon at Temple Bethel, with about 40 people in attendance. The vows were read by the Rev. Daniel Sanchez.

Ed Lopez, music director at the church, said Clapton was "really sharp looking," dressed in an off-white cowboy hat with matching tuxedo and boots. The bride was also dressed in offwhite attire, he said.

Lopez said one of the attendants was dressed in a black tuxedo and tennis shoes and that the bride was given away "by a guy with a British accent." The newlyweds left in a sevenlimousine parade after giving instructions not to tell the press about the ceremony, Lopez

Just a few hours earlier, Clapton was the picture of a nervous bridegroom-to-be. First off, he kept the intended bride waiting for two hours at the marriage license bureau.

Then, he forgot to pay the fee and City Clerk James M. Corbett had to chase after him. And to top it all off, Clapton didn't have U.S. currency and tried to pay the $8 fee in British Fire Chief Raymond Lewis of Midland said an inspection today of gas masks similar to those used by the Lubbock firefighters killed in a fire Sunday revealed no signs of damage or malfunction. Three firefighters in Lubbock died Sunday from what may have been inhalation of fumes released by burning plastic ceiling tiles.

The gas masks of those firefighters were found to have numerous pinhole-size punctures in the plastic face masks and a black, tar-like substance inside the air packs, Lubbock author-

ODESSA - Charges of smuggling a pistol into the Ector County Jail to aid in an escape attempt were filed Tuesday against Joey Evelyn Harris, 47, and Teresa Diann Browning, 23, both of Monahans.

The two women were jailed in lieu of $10,000 bonds set by Justice of the Peace Virgil Lumpee.

They were charged with smuggling a .25-caliber pistol and ammunition to inmate John Douglas Clifford, 28, over the weekend.

Clifford, jailed on two charges of aggravated robbery, was charged Tuesday with attempted escape. His bond was set at $20,000.

Sheriff Elton Faught said the weapon and ammunition, apparently smuggled in under the women's clothing at peak of a weekly visitation period, was found by deputies Saturday morning in Clifford's pocket.

Faught said the pistol was loaded at the time, but that Clifford offered little resistance.

The women were arrested Tuesday afternoon, when they returned to the jail, said Faught.

Faught Tuesday indicated the jail needs more electronic scanning devices to detect weapons and other metal objects possibly being smuggling in by iail visitors, corporate profits rising That question is the controversy these days last quarter - an exceptionally sharp jump. Almost immediately after the statistics were published, organized labor cited them as evidence that business wasn't complying with the administration's new price guidelines. Political pundits clucked.

THE ADMINISTRA-TION'S own response initially was even more frantic. First, chief Carter politicl aide Hamilton Jordan denounced the figures as "unnecessarily high." Later other officials began backing away from that.

At the other extreme were businessmen and conservative economists, who argued the profits figures reflected "illusory" gains from selling inventory stock that would be more costly to replace.

Adjusted for this, profits actually remained al-most flat, they contend-

The fact is, however, that apart from sheer political rhetoric, it's difficult to characterize the profits figures precisely. There are numerous ways to measure profits, and economists differ on which are most accu-

ON LAST WEEK'S statistics, the truth is somewhere in-between. The increase was not nearly as suspect as labor in arguing, nor as doleful as business and some conservatives

But one thing is clear: whatever the most meaningful measure, the figures last week told little, if anything, that is relevant to the current brouhaha - that is, whether business is complying with the guide-

In the first place, the sharp jump in profits does not necessarily mean that price rises are exceeding the guidelines. That suspicion stems from the performance of the producer price index the profits figures.

Second, analysts argue the real concern by labor should be whether profits are rising sharply in the specific industries where unions are negotiating for pay hikes - not in the aggregate numbers.

THERE ARE THESE considerations:

-The profits reported last quarter represent the increase in profits levels for the fourth quarter of 1978 - before the new wage-price guidelines were fully in effect. Prices didn't begin accelerating until December and January. -The fourth-quarter increase followed a July-September period in which profits levels remained virtually flat that is, they didn't increase at all. Profits figures fluctuate widely from quarter to quarter.

-The numbers are for the economy as a whole, and don't accurately show the performance in specific industries. While it's suspected that company profits rose sharply in some industries wher3 prices were soaring, no one has pinned that

-There's nothing bad, per se, about high profit levels. Indeed, the administration has been hoping for months to spur more investment in new plants and equipment. Healthy profit numbers are one way to

ON THE OTHER HAND, analysts say the numbers aren't nearly as lackluster as some in the business community would portray themthe argument by conservatives that so-called "real economic profits" were virtually flat.

Just as ridiculous...

Perhaps you hadn't thought much about the possibility of imposing price regulations on milk, but whether you had or hadn't, the following article likely will be of interest.

It is from a news-letter published by the California Independent Producers Association and was sent to Bernold M. Hanson of Midland by Hayden Atchison, a former Midlander. It reads:

"One is reminded of a recent letter to the editor (paper unknown) suggesting that price controls be imposed on milk because of the shortages and a recent increase in price. The author was inspired by current petroleum price regulations.

"He suggested we immediately set up a new 'Council On Wholemilk Stability and Mandatory Intrastate Lowfat Controls (COWS MILC).' The Council could then set up the following price control rules:

"1. Old Milk - any milk produced from a cow born on or before December 31, 1972. The milk can be sold at the May, 1973 price adjusted for inflation.

"2. New Milk - any milk produced from a cow born on or after January 1, 1973. This milk can sell for the September, 1975 price adjusted for inflation.

"3. Stripper Milk - any milk produced from a cow that makes less than 10 pints a day or alternately any milk produced by a group of cows that graze at a density of less than 10 per acre. This milk can sell at the 1979 uncontrolled price.

"4. 'New' New Milk - any milk produced by a cow born after May 31, 1979 that grazes two-and-onehalf miles from another cow or in a ravine a thousand feet deeper than the nearest cow. This milk can sell at the June 1, 1979 uncontrolled price adjusted for inflation.

"Although we doubt the above set of controls would prevent any milk shortages, it certainly points out the ridiculousness of crude oil price controls. The one major point the author missed was the stack of federal forms you would have to fill out for each producing cow."

Jupiter studies planet Earth; results startling

WASHINGTON - It may have been incredible coincidence or it could have been planned, but at the very moment the people here sent Voyager I out into space to photograph the planet Jupiter, Jovians launched their own photographic satellite to take pictures of the planet Earth.

Deep in Jupiter's Great Red Spot Lab the pictures of our planet are being pored over and debated.

The one question the Jovians are trying to decide, based on the data they have received, is whether there is life on Earth. Unfortunately, the first pictures that came back were taken of Los Angeles and showed a gray, dirty blanket over the area.

'It would be impossible for anyone to live under that dark, dirty cloud," one Jovian scientists declared.

Another disagreed. "Living things can adjust to any environment. I don't think we should come to any conclusions based on just one photograph." Another photo came back revealing

A Pan Am jet crashed into the Pacific shortly after takeoff from Tahiti in 1973, killing 78. The French accident report cited "fatigue resulting from the long flights made over the 48-hour period preceding the accident" as a likely cause.

In 1977, a Fleming International cargo jet crashed on takeoff at St. Louis, killing the crew of three. According to investigators, the cause was the fatigued pilots' poor judgment and failure to follow proper procedures.

The list goes on and on. But accident reports don't tell the whole story. National Transportation Safety Board officials told us fatigue is cited in U.S. reports only when there is evidence that the pilots had been carousing when they should have been sleeping.

The story of one transcontinental cargo flight is famous among pilots Flying at night from New York, all three pilots were asleep as the plane approached Los Angeles. While the tower tried frantically to wake them up, the plane flew over the airport and kept going. When they finally did come to, the crew found they were out over the ocean.

Two pilots told an Air Line Pilots Association task force their method for preventing such situations: two of the crew would sleep, while the third set a kitchen timer to ring every 25 minutes in case he too dozed off.

The FAA still thinks pilots are all iron men - lone eagles immune to the fatigue and boredom that overcome earthbound mortals. Reflecting this attitude, the agency's chief surgeon, Dr. H.L. Reighard, told us: "Fatigue is a subjective factor. Only the pilot knows if he is suffering from it." This is like letting every motorist decidé when he's too drunk to drive.

What are the FAA rules on pilot work hours? In brief, on domestic flights, pilots can fly eight hours in a 24-hour period; on overseas flights, 12 in 24. That would be grueling enough,

So far, the public doesn't blame Jimmy Carter for the transgressions of his brother or what happned in his hometown. The President stands aloof from it. But if his name gets dragged into the investigation (there is evidence he did get involved in discussion of the bank loans, although that doesn't prove anything), that 'nice guy'' reputation could be slurred. Some Republicans would dearly love this. Politically speaking, though, the hard problems are inflation and energy. The good soul who made $15,000 in 1967 now has to make $30,000 to $35,000 to keep up living standards. When inflation pushes people into higher tax brackets - because of inflation - the government benefits but the citizen loses.

For President Carter, the Middle East might prove to be a snap, compared with inflation and energy.

Nixon slowed MIAMI (AP) — Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt says he hopes to keep former President Richard Nixon in retirement by publishing allegations that Nixon authorized the second of the two Watergate break-ins in 1972.

Hunt, who was lookout man for the June 17, 1972, break-in at the Democratic National Committee headquarters in Washington, said Tuesday that he had evidence against Nixon strong enough to stand up in court.

But Hunt would not tell reporters at a news conference what the evidence was. Nor would he reveal who would publish it or when.

Hunt said he was upset that Nixon was "gathering a certain amount of momentum" by making public appearances after months of post-Watergate soli-

Hunt, 60, pleaded guilty to conspiracy and served 32 months in federal prisons. He was paroled in February 1978

In a news conference at the office of his attorney, Ellis Rubin, Hunt gave no specifics about his charge that Nixon authorized the second of the two Watergate break-ins. It was at the second break-in that burglars were caught trying to fix bugging devices that had been installed in a previous illegal entry. Rubin said he wanted to avoid "compromising the manuscript" by giving details of the accusations. Rubin said Hunt's writing was designed for "periodical" publication. Rubin said Hunt's article asserts that Nixon "not only knew in advance of the two Watergate breakins, but in fact, had authorized them.' Hunt agreed with that, but later adjusted the contention to say that Nixon "authorized at least the second" break-in. Asked repeatedly to make one specific statement about his charges, Hunt ended an interview by saying, "I'll give you a key thought and then nothing more - the 181/2-minute gap."

The reference was to the erasure of part of a Nixon White House tape.

Huey Newton faces retrial

OAKLAND (AP) - Black Panther leader Huey Newton faces his sixth criminal trial in 12 years retrial on a 4-year-old murder charge.

Prosecutor Tom Orloff disclosed Tuesday that he wants to try Newton again in the 1974 shooting death of Kathleen Smith, a 17-year-old prostitute. The trial was tentatively scheduled for May 7.

The first trial ended in a mistrial Saturday jurors unable to resolve a 10-2 stalemate that favored acquittal. Superior Court Judge John Cooper set the tentative date for the new trial. He also agreed to an April 17 hearing on defense motions to have the charges dropped entirely. Newton said he was not surprised by Orloff's move, contending it was an extension of a conspiracy by authorities to return him to prison. 'Mr. Orloff doesn't mind spending taxpayers' money on flimsy cases to put Huey Newton in prison," he said. He suggested Orloff was motivated by "a case of vengeance." Newton, 37, was convicted of voluntary manslaughter in 1968 in connection with the shooting of an Oakland policeman. The verdict was overturned on appeal and two subsequent trials ended in hung juries. The charges were later dropped He also was convicted last fall of being an ex-felon in possession of weapons stemming from a 1974 assault incident and was sentenced to two years in prison. He is free on $130,000 bond pending appeal. On Tuesday, Newton was sentenced to five days in jail for contempt of court during his recent trial. While on the witness stand, he refused to answer questions about his flight to Cuba shortly after Miss Smith was shot, contending those who helped him would be harassed by authorities if he revealed their names. He voluntarily returned to the United States

Superior Court Judge Carl Anderson, who presided at the trial, ordered Newton to begin serving the jail sentence next Monday. Defense attorneys said they would seek a stay of the sentence in the appellate

Check to guard your check, inspector says That's a summary of advice to Midlanders from forcement Report for October-December 1978. Andy Ackermann, postal inspector for 27 counties in the Permian Basin. On the job nine years in Midland, Ackermann said the most common problems in Midland, Odessa, San Angelo and other cities of significant size in his territory involve mail theft and misdelivered mail.

Ackermann urged Midlanders and other area residents who receive checks by mail to be sure that they have a mailbox which locks. Being home on the days when checks arrive would help, too, he said.

'The best thing people can do is to make sure that their mail has the correct address printed on their checks," he said.

"So many bills and checks have the wrong address. We get blamed for delivering mail to the wrong address. But, really, people should notify their correspondents of their correct mailing address. It seems so simple. But it would save people so many problems."

Ackermann said he can cover various complaints from the 27 counties "okay. But sometimes I have to work very closely with local law enforcement officers. In my territory, most of my stolen check cases are one-time problems. It's either misdelivered or has an incorrect address."

He does more than investigate errant letters containing checks, though.

Seven rules to protect persons from such losses are suggested in the report.

The Postal Service recommends individuals never invest savings or money they can't afford to lose, and not confuse "speculate" with "investment."

The report also urged use of common sense being skeptical and also refusing to make an important decision over the phone. Always get all guarantees from the company in writing, the report urged, and ask salesmen and their companies for references.

In addition, the report said people should find out the total price of an option or precious stone, broken down by price, commission, fees and other

Officials said a person should be sure he is fully aware of the investment potential or how much money can be gained or lost in the case of a commodity option during the life of the option.

"As a law enforcement officer of the Postal Service, I'm responsible for maintaining the integrity of the mail system," said Ackermann.

Hair implants may be dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP) - The government warned today that synthetic hair implants can cause infections and other complications that may require plastic surgery to correct.

In an unusual public warning, the Food and Drug Administration said it has received reports of more than 100 injuries associated with the implantation in the scalp of synthetic fibers resembling hair.

The agency said it has confirmed more than 40 injuries and is investigating the others.

The agency said it began to receive frequent reports of adverse reactions from the implants after a January meeting of an FDA advisory panel at which a promoter of the process reported the success of his technique. The panel asked him and other promoters for data to prove that procedures are safe and effective but has received no such evidence.

Economic growth to fall through '80

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - The nation's economic growth will drop off sharply through 1980 and the unemployment rate will rise through this year, a University of Pennsylvania economic forecast says.

Dodger blue could turn black and blue this season in the National League West.

The occasionally leaky Los Angeles infield was exposed in the World Series last October and the departure through free agency of pitcher Tommy John and handymen Lee Lacy and Bill North could put a dent in the Dodgers.

Add to that the ailing arm of reliever Terry Forster, who'll begin the season on the disabled list, and Manager Tommy Lasorda has some prob-

THE GIANTS spent a good chunk of last season leading the division before fading in September, and with one of the strongest starting pitching staffs in the league, they must be considered a contender.

Forget linescore the Cubs won

SUN CITY, Ariz. - The Chicago Cubs, sparked by a bevy of former Midland Cubs, defeated the exhausted Milwaukee Brewers, 7-3, here Tuesday afternoon in an exhibition

Okay, we know that isn't what the line score said that went across the wires, but AP can keep their score and we'll report what we saw.

Allegedly, it was 14-7 Milwaukee, but we didn't see it that way. After de-planing at Phoenix, checking in at the motel in Mesa and discovering the Midland Cubs were in Tucson for the day, the Chicago-Milwaukee game was the only Cubs game around. It took more than an hour to drive back across heavy Phoenix, Glendale and Peoria traffic to arrive at the no-pets, no-kids retirement city with the nine golf courses winding their way between the residences to find the ball

It was figured by the time we arrived, the game would be half over. A disgusted fan reported on the way out to the park it was the only second inning and the Brewers were ahead 11-0. As can be easily surmised, the Brewers were indeed exhausted by this time from running around the

If you forget the first two innings, it wasn't a bad game for Chicago, and no one was more willing to forget the first two innings, or at least the first, than Dennis "Groucho" Lamp, a 7-15 pitcher for Chicago last year and a 7-5 hurler for Midland in 1975.

In the first inning, one run was in, and Denny had two out. That's the last thing he remembered until he staggered to the dugout 20 minutes later bloodied, battered and behind,

The Brewers raked Willie Hernandez for some more runs and it was a modest 14-0 heading into the fourth

Even if the Cubs didn't appear in mid-season playing form, the Bleacher Bums, who had found refuge from the riggers of a windy-city winter in Arizona, displayed mid-August vocal form.

He started for second on a grounder, and then held up, as Paul Molitor bobbled the ball. However, with Bobby hesitating between bases, Molitor had plenty of time to recover for the force out, prompting one leather lung to bellow, "What's the matter Murcer, is your money belt slowing

When Murcer came up a couple of innings later, the vocal fan reminded Murcer he was still a "bum", to which a neighbor at the other end of the row reminded, "But he is an expensive

After Hernandez' departure, Bruce Sutter came on to pitch an inning of shutout ball, whiffing two batters with his notorious split-fingered fast ball after two other batters landed singles off the end of the bat after being

George "Heat" Riley, 6-3 with Mid-land last season, added two more shutout innings, and Dave Geisel, another lefthanded Midland alumnus, finished off the Brewers with two whiffs and a fly to left.

The Cubs trailing, 14-1 or 3-1, depending when you arrived got going in the sixth when Dave Kingman doubled and heard from the stand when he didn't score on Murcer's single. Steve Ontiveros singled and Jerry Martin, the centerfielder acquired from the friendly Phils during the off season, made it all academic with a three-run homer to right to make it

A couple of ex-Midland Cubs ignited a two run seventh with Steve Davis (1977) singling and Scott Thompson (1976) doubling into the left field corner. Both scored on Mike Vail's single Lasorda's top starters with Doug Rau, Rick Rhoden and Bob Welch right behind. Whatever help Messersmith and Broberg can contribute will, of course, be welcome Lasorda has high hopes for 1979. 'We're looking forward to bringing Los Angeles another National League pennant but we're also going to bring home a World Championship," the manager said.

The San Francisco Giants, the Dodgers' neighbors to the north, have other ideas. Manager Joe Altobelli loves his pitching and most pilots

"When you can select a starter from the ranks of Vida Blue, Bob Knepper, John Montefusco and Ed Halicki, you're in pretty good shape," said Altobelli. Knepper is the only one of the four without a major league no-hitter to his credit.

Gary Lavelle and Randy Moffitt handle the Giant bullpen with help from John Curtis.

There are some potent bats in Altobelli's lineup, led by outfielder Jack Clark and second baseman Bill Madlock. Outfielder Terry Whitfield is a consistent hitter and Mike Ivie at first base and Darrell Evans at third are long ball threats.

"I feel we have the talent to record an additional six or seven victories," said Altobelli. "Combine that with the other changes in our division and I think that could make us a pennant winner in 1979."

THOSE OTHER changes, besides John's departure from the Dodgers, involve Cincinnati's loss of Rose and dismissal of Anderson. Around the NL West, the consensus of opinion is that the Reds just won't be the same without them. Don't tell that to Manager John McNamara though.

'You look and look for a job like this one and then, all of sudden, there it is," he said. "I know there are some problems that have to be solved. If there were no problems, I wouldn't be

The No. 1 problem, of course, is finding someone to replace Rose at third base. The top candidates are and Harry Spilman. But if he gets depressed, McNamara can always look at the rest of the Reds' "It is certainly a comforting feeling for me to know that Johnny Bench is going to be my catcher, that George Foster and Ken Griffey are going to be in the outfield, that Joe Morgan, Dave Concepcion and Dan Driessen are going to be in the infield and that I've got a man like Tom Seaver ready

What might be less comforting is the fact that of that group, only Driessen and Griffey are under 30. Also the pitching after Seaver is slim, as usual

San Diego's winter trade of Oscar Gamble to Texas for Mike Hargrove helped straighten out a couple of probblems for the Padres. First of all, Hargrove is an accomplished first baseman and a solid hitter whose bat helps the attack. And the deal opens an outfield job for Jerry Turner, who joins Dave Winfield and Gene Richards to give San Diego three talented flychasers.

Ozzie Smith, runnerup in the rookie of the year balloting, is the shortstop, with Bill Almon at second base and rookie Barry Evans pencilled in at third. Gene Tenace is the catcher with Cy Young Award winners Gaylord Perry and Randy Jones the key pitchers heading a staff that includes Bob Owchinko, Mickey Lolich and Bob Shirley. Rollie Fingers anchors the bullpen.

Atlanta went through much of spring training without third baseman Bob Horner, the 1978 rookie of the year, who is involved in a contract hassle. If he becomes a free agent, it would be disastrous for the Braves, who desperately need his bat.

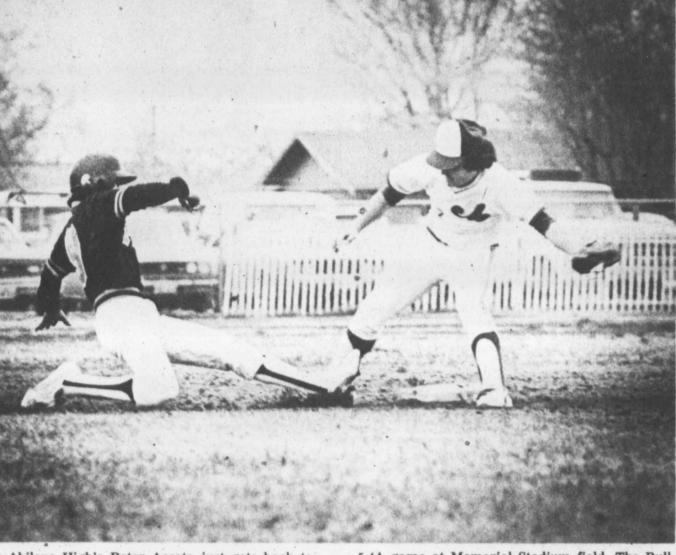

Horner is the No. 1 man on a youthoriented Atlanta club, but the Braves have some good ones to go with him. Catcher-first baseman Dale Murphy has a long ball bat and second baseman Glenn Hubbard is a defensive Sluggers Jeff Burroughs and Gary Matthews own two of the outfield jobs, with Rowland Office, Barry Bonnell and Brian Asselstine the main candidates for the third one. If Murphy plays first, Biff Pocoroba and Joe Nolan will catch.

PHIL NIEKRO heads the pitching staff along with young Larry McWilliams, and Gene Garber is the bullpen

Houston has baseball's newest strikeout artist, J.R. Richard, heading its pitching staff with Joe Niekro, Ken Forsch, Vern Ruhle and either Joaquin Andujar or Tom Dixon backing him up. Joe Sambito will be the main man out of the bullpen. The Astros have some solid regulars like outfielders Terry Puhl, Jose Cruz and Cesar Cedeno and third baseman Enos Cabel. Houston tried hard to trade first baseman Bob Watson during the winter but the deal never developed and he's back. Two trades that did materialize delivered shortstop Craig Reynolds from Seattle and catcher Alan Ashby from To-

Bulldogs remain unbeaten in 5-4A baseball play

By RICHARD VINCENT Sports Writer

How much longer can the Midland High Bulldogs be considered surpris-

After all, Coach Larry Peel's Purple Pack has now won five straight games, including three consecutive District 5-4A tests. And the Bulldogs are tied with Abilene Cooper for loop leadership.

Tuesday afternoon on the Memorial Stadium diamond, an air-tight defense and timely hitting led the Bulldogs to a 5-3 district victory over the Abilene High Eagles.

THE WIN gives Midland High a 3-0 district ledger and a 9-3 overall mark going into Saturday's assignment with San Angelo. Abilene High went to 2-1 in district and 4-7 overall.

Winning pitcher Archie Booth scattered five hits and fanned eight as he improved his record to 4-0. Angular righthander Mac Rogers slipped to 1-1 with the setback.

Tracy Gann paced the Bulldogs with a two for three day, including a homer in the fifth. Designated hitter Sam Driskill also had a pair of hits. And Jimmy Zachry connected in the first for his sixth homer of the year, all of which have come in the last five games. He now has 25 runs-batted-in.

"I thought we played a real good ballgame,"said Peel. Asked how it felt to be undefeated in district, he replied,"It feels good."

Peel said the key to the game was catcher Tommy Munoz' seventh inning pickoff of Raymond Romero from second base. With Romero on, the Eagles would've eventually jammed the sacks and threatened even more than they did.

ABILENE HIGH, a young team with what Peel called "a lot of speed," came out running, as expected. In the first, fleet leadoff hitter Fred Johnson bunted his way on and then swiped second. He tallied when DH Seth Smith ripped a shot up the

The Bulldogs came right back, however, and after one, they led 3-1, thanks to some fielding blunders by the Warbirds. Mike Feldt whiffed but reached on an error by Eagle catcher Mitch Gassaway. Then Munoz drilled a routine linedrive that centerfielder Johnson overran and bobbled. Feldt scored on the miscue and Munoz raced to third and eventually came home when shortstop Bobby Oles muffed the relay throw. Zachry's solo shot followed and made the score 3-1. In the third, Booth had control problems and walked the first two batters. He managed to get the next two hitters before Mike Ogden slashed a single that scored two runs and tied the count, 3-3.

MIDLAND HIGH went ahead for good in the fourth. Lefthander Paul Cox singled to the opposite field to get the Bulldogs moving and Mike Mowles and David Brigham both added hits to load the bases. Feldt's sacrifice flyball scored Cox. The Purple Pack may have had more if Brigham hadn't been caught in a rundown between first and second with Munoz at the plate. Mowles tried to score from third on the play and was nailed at home.

THE WARBIRDS gambled on the base paths most of the afternoon and it finally led to their demise. With two on and one down in the fifth, Abilene High tried to score Peter Acosta from third with a suicide squeeze. But Smith missed the pitch and Munoz wisely rifled it to third, hanging up Acosta. Acosta was out at the plate after a fierce collision and was then ejected from the game for unsportsmanlike activity.

And in the seventh, Munoz caught Romero napping too far away from the keystone and gunned him down with a fine toss to secondbaseman Coyet Copeland. That play took a lot of pressure off the Bulldogs.

Gann's impressive fifth inning blast with no one aboard and Booth's pitching, which seemed to improve as the contest wore on, spelled doom for the upstart Eagles, who had been on a three-game win streak.

Cooper tops Rebels, 3-0 ABILENE - Righthander Eddie Jacques silenced the Midland Lee bats for the second consecutive District 5-4A baseball game here Tuesday as the Abilene Cooper Cougars posted a 3-0 shutout over the Rebels. Jacques gave up two hits in recording his third mound victory of the year against no losses while Lee ace Terry Willis lost his first game after five wins for Lee which now stands 12-6 on the year and 1-2 in the first half of the 5-4A race.

Cooper, meanwhile, is 10-1 on the year and shares first place with the Midland Bulldogs with a 3-0 reading.

It was a scoreless duel between Willis and Jacques until the fifth inning when Cooper scored one run. Mark Reedy singled, went to second on a base hit by Jay Zumwalt and scored on Jacques base hit for a 1-0

Then in the sixth, the Cougars iced the contest with a pair of runs off Willis. With two out, Reedy singled, Jerry Mearse followd with a single and Reedy scored on a base hit by Zumwalt. Mearse also scored to give the Cougars their 3-0 victory

Umpires may miss openers next week

PHILADELPHIA (AP) - The baseball season opens a week from today, but the major league umpires may not be around to holler, "Plaaay bawl!" A federal judge Tuesday ruled that he had no authority to order them to go to work, adding, "There is no question in my mind they are entitled to bargain as individuals.'

The 51 umpires who work for both the National and American leagues have yet to sign their 1979 contracts and report to spring training. They want more money and have hired an attorney to get it. Many have threatened to retire from baseball if the pot isn't sweetened consider-

"We will have to make plans," AL President Lee MacPhail said after the decision. "If these umpires don't want to work for us, we'll have to find umpires who do. We have no present plans to change our offers. The season will open on time. Phillips said he doubted that baseball officials really believed that 51 new umpires could control a game or maintain major league baseball's integrity with any degree of regularity. He called on baseball officials to "come down from their lofty heights and deal with the umpires. NL President Chub Feeney declined comment.

The rhubarb between baseball and the men who rule the diamonds goes back to the spring of 1978 when the umpires began grumbling that what was in their written, basic agreement wasn't what they agreed to They demanded 21 improvements in the collective bargaining pact to compensate, then on Aug. 25 called a one-day strike. The dispute went to court and last Sept. 25 U.S. District Court Judge Joseph McGlynn issued a preliminary injunction prohibiting any further work stoppage until the matter was resolved.

There were no further walkouts during the 1978 season, but it didn't mollify the steamed-up umps. To a man, they hired their union's counsel - Phillips - to represent them on an individual basis.

And, to a man, Phillips told them not to sign their 1979 individual contracts until they got what they wanted. Back to court they went, this time to debate a motion filed by major league baseball to find this year's non-working umpires in violation of the judge's September injunction involving the collective bargaining agree-

"Your motion is denied," Judge McGlynn told baseball's bevy of lawyers Tuesday. "I have no authority to order them (the umpires) back to work. I have no authority to find them in violation of my injunction because the circumstances are not the same.

Mets, Phils in big trade

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)- The Philadelphia Phillies sent first baseman Richie Hebner and a rookie infielder to the New York Mets Tuesday for right-handed pitcher Nino Espino-

The Phillies, desperate for pitching with three of their starters affected by various ailments, reluctantly gave up Hebner. a .278 lifetime hitter.

Paul Owens, Phillies' personnel director, said just the other day he felt giving up Hebner for Espinosa was more than he thought the Mets' pitcher was worth.

But with his club in dire need of starting pitching, Owens dealt not only Hebner, but he threw in rookie second baseman Jose Moreno.

Hebner became expendable when the Phillies went out this winter and acquired free agent Pete Rose for four years at a reported $3.2. Rose was established at first base, where Hebner had done a creditable job the past two seasons.

Hebner made it clear to the Phillies that he did not want to be a utility player, and that he'd be ready for the "funny farm" by May if he had to pace the dugout.

"I'm not a pom pon girl, a cheer-leader," said Hebner, who hit .285 and .283 for the Phillies the past two seasons. He hit 18 home runs in 1977 and 17 in 1978 and batted in a total of 133 The Mets gave up the promising

Brewers, Blue Jays set new club records

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

The Milwaukee Brewers and Toronto Blue Jays set club records Tuesday...both against Chicago teams. Unfortunately, like all exhibition games, they didn't count.

The Brewers scored 10 runs with two out in the first inning - that never happened before in any game, regular season or exhibition - and trounced the Chicago Cubs 14-7.

Meanwhile, the Blue Jays got a three-run homer from Rick Bosetti and a two-run shot from Dave McKay in the first inning and whipped the Chicago White Sox 'B' squad 9-3. It was their ninth exhibition triumph, most in the club's three-year exis-

DENNIS LAMP of the Cubs learned the hard way that an inning is never over until the last man is out. He retired the first two Brewers but the next 10 reached base, eight on hits and two on walks.

Cecil Cooper started the outburst with a 450-foot home run, Gorman Thomas slammed a three-run homer and Larry Hisle, who doubled earlier in the inning, greeted reliever Willie Hernandez with a two-run triple. Robin Yount added a solo homer in

Golden Gloves national tourney opening today

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Heavyweight Marvis Frazier, 17-year-old son of former world champ Joe Frazier, is getting some serious looks as a possible medal-winner for the United States in the 1980 Olympics.

The best heavyweight prospect seemed to be Louisville's Greg Page, a Muhammad Ali look-alike, but he has left the amateur ranks for a pro career. And the young Frazier, 6-foot-1, 185 pounds and still growing, has made impressive strides. "He resembles his old man in his looks and in the intense way he trains," said one veteran ring observer. "But he doesn't fight like Joe at all. "His dad winged 'em with all he had, but Marvis is a counter-puncher and a classic boxer.' The young Frazier, a high school senior in Philadelphia, is among more than 300 boxers here this week for the 51st National Golden Gloves tournament running today through Saturday Each of the 32 Golden Gloves regional teams may send one boxer for each of the 11 weight classes, ranging from over 178 pounds down to 106, but it's the heavyweights who will attract the most attention in the four days of competition at the Indianapolis Convention Center.

Until recently, some observers felt that Marvis' most effective weapon was his name. But that changed on March 17 when he won the Philadelphia Golden Gloves regional for a berth in the nationals. In that bout he topped tough Jimmy Clark, the 1977 Gloves champ and a veteran of national and international competition.

While Clark was looking for revenge in next month's Pennsylvania AAU tourney, young Frazier's stock spiralled after the victory, establishing him as a serious contender for this year's heavy-

Good showings here and at both the national AAU championships this May at Lake Charles, La., and the U.S. Pan Am team trials in June will be important stages in his development.

Regardless of Frazier's performance here, the strongest teams appear to be the defending champs from Las Vegas, which have captured the Golden Gloves team titles four of the last seven years, and a pair of teams from Tennessee, the Mid-South team out of Jackson, Tenn., and the Knoxville team.

The Mid-South outfit has three defending champs in brothers Jackie and Rickey Beard, plus Donald Bowers, all of Jackson. Knoxville is bolstered by 1976 Olympian Clinton Jackson and Mike McCallum. Also on the Knoxville roster are 1977 AAU champions Johnny Bumphus at 132 pounds and Jerome Coffee at Jackie Beard, a surprise winner at both the Gloves and AAU nationals as a 16-year-old, returns to defend his 119-pound title. Rickey operates in the 147-pound bracket. Bowers is a 156-pounder.

Jackson, of Nashville, Tenn., is one of only three members of the highly successful 1976 American Olympic team still boxing in the amateur ranks. The 24-year-old Jackson, who will box at 156 pounds this year, won three Gloves titles as a 147-pounder in McCallum, a 1976 Olympian from Jamaica, was the 1977 Gloves winner at 147 pounds.

Among other defending Golden Gloves champs back this year are Richard Sandoval of Pomona, Calif., at 106 pounds, who was a member of last year's U.S. world championship team, and Mario

Corro agrees to reschedule fight

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) - World middleweight boxing champion Hugo Corro of Argentina has agreed to reschedule his 15-round title bout against Italy's Vito Autofermo for June 30 in Monte Carlo, promoter Juan Carlos Lectoure said Tues-

However, one of Corro's physicians, Dr. Jorge Diez de Onate, said the 25-year-old champion ignored his advice and started training before a foot injury he suffered in early February had healed. Corro's scheduled title defense against Autofermo in New York early this month was called off after Corro suffered torn ligaments and a fractured outer ankle bone in his left foot while running through a

Dr. Diez de Onate, who wrapped the foot in a plaster cast and ordered the boxer to use crutches, said Monday that Corro had another doctor rewrap the foot three days later in a cast that allowed him to Corro returned to Dr. Diez de Onate on March 10 to have the second cast removed, saying it was too loose. The boxer was told to return two days later for a new cast that would have immobilized the foot 30 more days, the doctor said, "but he never came back and is training without my authorization.'

Corro's personal physician, Hugo Rodriguez Pappini, said Tuesday that another specialist would examine the boxer to make sure his injuries were Meantime, Corro and his manager, Diego Corrientes, assured Lectoure that the champion would be ready to defend the title June 30, and Lectoure confirmed the fight arrangements with Italian promoter Rodolfo Sabbatini.

"I don't know whether Corro is fully recovered from his injury, but I suppose that since he agreed to the fight and to an exhibition bout in May, the boxer should be in good condition," Lectoure said.

Corro won the title last April in San Remo, Italy, by outpointing Rodrigo Valdez of Colombia. He defended it with decisions here over Ronnie Harris of the United States in August and Valdez in Novem-

Peach Bowl changes game from Christmas

ATLANTA (AP) - Peach Bowl officials have told CBS-TV they won't play their game on Christmas Day again, even if it means losing a national television contract.

Officials said the Christmas date was responsible for low ticket sales in 1978 and almost cost the bowl its NCAA certification.

'We are saying no to Christmas Day, not CBS," Peach Bowl Executive Director George Crumbley said Tuesday. "We are very happy with our relation-ship with CBS, except for the playing date. We feel it's extremely important that the game be played on another day, preferably Dec. 24 or 31. We especially like Dec. 31 at 3 p.m."

But CBS appears firm in maintaining the Christ-

"The likelihood of our scheduling a game on Dec. 24 or 31 is practically nil," said Carl Lindemann, senior vice president of CBS-TV Sports. The Peach Bowl was put on national television for the first time last year after CBS convinced officials to schedule the Purdue-Georgia Tech contest on Christmas Day.

A year ago, as a 21-year-old rookie, Nancy electrified the sports public by winning five tournaments in a row, pushing Nicklaus, hockey and basketball playoffs and baseball out of the headlines.

In one tournament alone, the Lady Keystone in Hershey, Pa., she pushed attendance from the previous 7,000 to 34,000. She went on to capture nine tournaments and set an all-time money-winning record of $161,236. She was named LPGA Player of the Year and The Associated Press Woman Athlete of the Year.

Now she is on the rampage again, having just won her second straight event, the $100,000 Sahara Pro Am, and set her sights on the $150,000

Kemper Open this weekend and the following $250,000 Colgate-Dinah Shore bash in Palm Springs, Calif.

BRISTOL, Tenn. (AP) - If it's a nice cool day Sunday, drivers shouldn't have too much trouble in the Southeastern 500 stock car race at grueling Bristol International Raceway.

If not, there will be an all-points bulletin out for a guy named John A. Utsman. The record book says Utsman is 39 years old, has started 10 Grand National stock car races beginning in 1973, and his best finish was 10th at Bristol in 1973 where he won $605. His fellow drivers know that John A., as he prefers to be called, is

Stock market mixed

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market turned mixed in active trading today, bogging down after Tuesday's sharp rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had jumped 16.54 points Monday for its largest advance in nearly five months, slipped back .26 to 871.10 in the first hour today.

Gainers held a 3-2 lead over losers in the mid-morning tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Tuesday's rally, which put all the leading averages at their highest levels of the year, was ignited by the decision of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries to raise prices by 9 percent.

Westinghouse Electric was the most active NYSE issue, unchanged at 20%. A 300,000-share block of the stock traded at 21.

The NYSE's composite index rose .05 to 57.58. On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .41 at 179.62.

Volume on the Big Board was a brisk 19.47 million shares after the first two hours.

Families of U.N. employees asked to leave Tanzania

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — The United Nations has ordered wives and children of U.N. employees to leave Uganda amid reports of shooting in the capital of Kampala, which is threatened by Tanzanian armored units, it was reported here today. Some residents reached by telephone said tanks with Tanzanian markings were moving down Kampala's main street. Others denied it. Intelligence sources in Dar es Salaam, the Tanzanian capital, said it was impossible that Tanzanian armor was in Kampala.

No solid explanation of the tank reports was available. Some observers said the tanks, if they exist, might be another prank by President Idi Amin.

Robert W. Kitchen Jr., resident representative of the United Nations Development Program in Nairobi, told reporters he had accounts of shooting in Kampala and that tanks were in the area. 'We're coming out, starting tomorrow," Kitchen

U.N. officials here said about 142 dependents were expected to leave, mostly overland to Kenya, within the next few days. They said about 93 U.N. employees would remain at their posts in Uganda. It was not immediately known if any Americans are involved.

In Dar es Salaam, a reported 24-hour ultimatum from Libya expired with no sign that Tanzania would heed Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy's demand that President Julius Nyerere withdraw his forces from Uganda. A Libyan envoy reportedly threatened war against Tanzania in a note delivered to the foreign ministry Tuesday. Libya has not publicly confirmed sending such an ultimatum Nyerere said Tuesday that he would not change his policy and told Tanzanians the war was about to become "much more serious." Amin, who took over in a 1971 coup, began the war five months ago by invading northwestern Tanzania and claiming about 710 square miles of it for Ugan-

Weeks of retreats by his troops have cost Amin control of most of southern and western Uganda containing more than 3 million of Uganda's 13 million inhabitants, the country's copper mines and much of its best farmland. Tanzania has been on a partial war footing for months. Some 80,000 persons are taking part-time militia training. Factories are working overtime to produce military supplies.

Other U.N. officials in Kampala and a dozen residents reached by telephone denied the report of tanks and shooting. "That is wrong. There is no shooting and no tanks," one official said. Tanzanian troops and Ugandan exiles, driving to oust Amin, were last reliably reported at Mpigi, 20 miles southwest of Kampala, and Mityana, 40 miles west of the city. Two of the five main roads leading out of Kampala are reportedly held by Amin's enemies, as is the only rail link to the west. Some Kampala residents said there was occasional small-arms fire today. They said military deserters were wandering through the city of 400,000, firing in the air, looting some shops and forcing others to close. Residents said military police were rounding up the deserters. Fighting in Iran now in third day

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Rebellious Turkoman tribesmen and government militiamen reportedly fought gunbattles in the northeastern city of Gonbad-E-Qabous for the third straight day today, shattering a shaky cease-fire.

Civilians locked themselves indoors as the Turkomans and militia fought it out in the deserted streets, Tehran newspapers reported.

Earlier, a government statement said a cease-fire took effect Tuesday night after a meeting of government officials, the local Islamic revolutionary committee and the tribesmen.

It was not immediately clear what renewed the fighting. Extra troops were reported on their way to help beleaguered government forces. About 30 people have been reported killed and at least 70 injured since the fighting started.

The British Broadcasting Corp. said today a threeman BBC television crew was detained by unidentified guerrillas earlier in the day while filming a hospital scene in the city.

Fighting broke out Monday when Turkomans reportedly tried to take overlands belongingto former government officials and military officers, and right-wing militiamen opened fire on a rally of tribesmendemanding provincial autonomy. Left-wing Fedayeen guerrillas reportedly supported the Turkomans, there were citywide battles Monday and Tuesday. Gonbad-E-Qabous is in the heart of Gorgan province and about 30 miles from the Soviet border.

About 400,000 Turkomans live in the province, which consists primarily of rich farm and grazing The outbreak was the second challenge to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary regime by a tribal minority. Last week Kurds demanding auton-

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Attorney Elgin Conner Jr. says the new Iranian government probably will take gain possession "sometime next week" of a $250,000 house, its furnishings and three cars recently used by the son of exiled Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi. Conner said Tuesday night a tentative agreement on the transfer calls for the Iranian government to pay $32,000 in back utility bills and trustees' fees and a waiver of liabilities and obligations against Lubbock realtor Stephen Van Puhl, who holds the property in trust. Conner represents Puhl.

Iranian officials indicated Tuesday they have a minor technicality to check but expect to be able to give their formal okay by Thursday, although it could come as early as Wednesday, Conner said. Livestock Auction report

By ED BLANCHE

EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP) - Police say they have broken two Scottish urban guerrilla groups linked to Northern Ireland's sectarian conflict amid a surge of activity by Protestant extremists in Scotland. Thirty-four men have been charged with terrorist offenses ranging from bombing to illegal possession of weapons. Police say 24 are members of the Scottish wing of the Ulster Defense Association, biggest of Northern Ireland's Protestant paramilitary organizations.

The other 10, police say, belong to the Ulster Volunteer Force, the province's Protestant terrorist groups.

THEY WERE rounded up after the Feb. 14 bombing of two Roman Catholic bars in Glasgow, where both sides in guns in UDA strong-

"There has been an increase in militant activity related to the troubles in Ulster in recent months," a police source commented.

The bar bombings, in which five persons were wounded, were the first Ulster-related acts of terrorism in Scotland for several years.

POLICE SEIZED rifles, ammunition and other weapons when they rounded up the alleged UDA group in several Scottish cities last month. Informed sources said the group, including four Northern Ireland most feared of Ulster men, were linked to UDA gun-running from Scotland to Northern Ireland.

French 'bustier' a fashion trend

By BETTIJANE LEVINE The Los Angeles Times

Bustier, according to Larousse, does not mean more amply endowed than the next girl. En français, the word means strapless bra (whereas the word brassiere, in French, means baby's blouse).

To make things even more confusing, the noun bustler - pronounced boost-yay - is being bounced the mouth when you wish around by the fashion world as one of the season's hottest, hautest fashion trends.

The trend, to put it simply, involves wearing any blouse or jacket over what looks like a long-line strapless bra (bustier). Or, on stickier days, wearing just the strapless bra with skirts, shorts, Capris. Another maneuver by the fickle fad-mongers of fashion to boost their retail sales? Not necessarily. This year's bustier is tremendously trendy guaranteed to peak in the summer of '79. But it can be tremendously practical, too. An inexpensive refresher for all the old summer jackets, blouses, skirts and pants left over from seasons past.

It is not a new idea.

Almost 40 years ago, Scarlett O'Hara inhaled deeply, clutched the bedpost and let herself be laced up just a wee bit tighter for the sake of an uplifted

About three years ago, Paris designer Yves Saint Laurent thought a whole new generation of Scarletts might like to try the look. He came out with sexy lace-up corselettes in a gypsy-peasant collection which so impressed the critics that some newspaper placed the second coming of corselettes on page one, along with a major earthquake and Viking's broken lunar arm.

Enlistment for women I first learned about the painter's mitt through your column. I got one at goes down

By FRED S. HOFFMAN AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) - For the first time, the Army is failing to enlist enough women to meet its recruiting objective. Army officials alarmed at the development say there may be major problems in maintaining an all-volunteer force if the trend contin-

The latest Army recruiting figures, obtained by The Associated Press, show that the Army reached only 72.6 percent of its goal for women recruits in the first half of the 1979 fiscal

As of Monday, the Army had signed up only 5,950 women. This was 2,250 fewer than planned for the six months beginning last Oct. 1.

Officials are unable to explain the reasons for the downturn.

Comparable Air Force, Navy and Marine recruiting statistics for this fiscal year were not available.

Some officers think the Army may eventually have to relax admission standards for women, which are higher than those required of male volunteers, to attain the recruiting

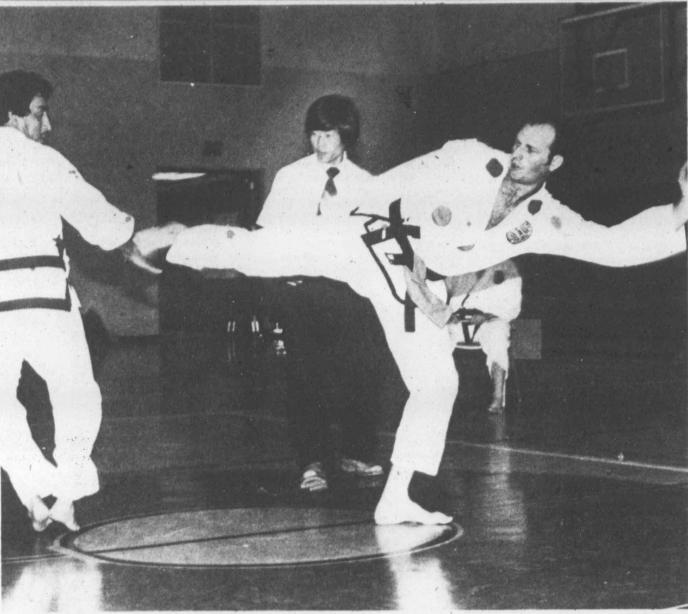

Defense sources, who asked to remain anonymous, said the downward trend apparently began late in the 1978 fiscal year and has deepened since then. At the end of the first three months of this fiscal year, they said, the Army had made 86 percent of its objective for the period.

The latest available figures indicate the Army also is falling short again in recruiting young male volunteers. As of March 19, the Army had signed up about 39,000 men since the beginning of the 1979 fiscal year, or 94 percent of its objective.

Military manpower experts have warned that recruiting problems for the regular forces - as well as for the chronically understrength reserves will become more severe in coming years because the population of young men between ages 17 and 21 is projected to decline by 15 percent over the next decade. Defense Secretary Harold Brown and manpower officials have stressed they will depend on increasing the number of women in uniform to help close the numbers gap, which looms because of the decreasing pool of military-aged young men. According to current plans, the armed services would increase from 117,000 enlisted women last year to 208,000 in 1984. The Army share of this is supposed to increase from 50,000 last year to 80,000 by the end of the period.

Log-cutting needn't be pit-iless

By AL CARRELL

When cutting up logs with your chain saw, you need a sawbuck. This is a structure that holds up the piece on each end and has an opening in the center so that when the saw goes through the work, it doesn't saw into the ground. However, if you have fairly large logs and a bad back. you're not going to want to lift the pieces up on a sawbuck. One friend gets around this problem by digging a pit in the yard. It's deep enough to clear the saw blade. Now all he has to do is roll the logs in place over the pit, and he can cut without the chain digging into the ground and without hurting his back from lifting. He also has taught his wife how to split the logs with a sledge hammer and wedge so his cutting up is really painless.

the paint store and have found it's really an easy way to paint grillwork. I have also found a different use for it. I use it as a sanding mitt. I staple two large sheets of sandpaper together so the mitt can slide in between. Now I can sand curved surfaces without my hand getting hot. As you know, the heat from friction goes right through a sheet of sandpaper. The fuzzy mitt keeps the heat out. You can't use this on very intricate sanding. - B.L. That's a new sanding trick to me. If you'd like to learn more about sandpapers as to what grits to use when, I have a FREE abrasive sheet. Include a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to Super Handyman here at the paper.

Dear Al:

We needed a temporary planter for our apartment while our house was being built. I came up with a good idea. We bought a plastic laundry basket, lined it with plastic sheeting and poked holes in the plastic sheet around the bottom. This was our planter, and the plants on the balcony flourished. Now that we're in our home, we have moved the plants to the yard and still have our laundry basket for what it was intended. -

A SUPER HINT - Did you ever touch the toaster, washing machine or some other mechanical monster and feel a slight tingle? It's happened to almost everyone. Some people just pass it off unless it happens several more times. That tingle you felt today could be a full-scaled and dangerous electrical shock tomorrow. The fact that you felt a little electricity means that under just the right conditions, you could get a real shock. Find out where the current is coming from and repair the problem. If you feel a tingle when you touch your spouse or lover, that's not too dangerous.

Dear Super Al:

In your furniture repair book, you have pointed out that a too oily dust cloth can actually do more damage than good because it will leave an oily film that will collect dust. That dust can then actually scratch the finish as it's being removed by the next dusting. I think you'll like my dust rag. I make several of them at once. I dip the rags into a solution of one cup hot water and a half cup of kerosene. I wring out the rags and place them flat to dry. When dry, they have just a hint of the oil from the kerosene and are excellent dust pickers. I just use any soft cotton rags. I keep them stored in a sealed mayonnaise jar to avoid spontaneous combustion. Try it. It's a good dust cloth. - Mrs. E.A.

QUICK ANSWERS FOR HARRIED HANDYPERSONS: Q: I heard you use the term "High-Tech" in a radio interview. What does it mean? A: It is a slang term for the use of products made for industry given a home application. The prime example is track lighting. This was designed for use in retail stores where light concentration needed to be changed regularly. It's now super popular in homes. Lots of industrial shelving, cabinets and materials can be very helpful in a home.

Chili cooks have their secrets

By CECILY BROWNSTONE Associated Press Food Editor

Chili cooks have their secrets. Maybe because I wasn't born and brought up in chili country, I never cease to be fascinated when, on occasion, I hear about the seasonings they use. Each has some favorites to throw in with the chili powder - and swears

Herbs and spices are big: basil, bay leaves, coriander, cumin (powdered or seeds), marjoram, sweet paprika, sage, savory, thyme. Other seasoning choices: garlic, bouillon cubes or powder, Worcestershire sauce, brown flavoring sauce, thick brown steak sauce, wine vinegar and - of all things - pickle relish.

To hotten up things, they may rely on fresh or canned green chili peppers, cayenne pepper, extremely hot Hungarian paprika, dried red-pepper

Now I've discovered another chili seasoning. Or should I say chili secret? Anyway, I missed hearing about it until now. A cook gave me a recipe (from the 1920s) for chili made

Europe battling great U.S. problem — kid boozers were several years ago, but many states have now raised drinking ages

LONDON (AP) - Some Soviet kids start hitting the vodka before they're Some European countries claim to 10. In Britain there are almost twice be making progress in the battle as many teen-age drunks as 12 years against teen-age drunkenness and ago, and in West Germany laws bansome say the problem is not as serious ning booze sales to those under 16 are in their countries as elsewhere.

These include increasing affluence among the young, an oft-found feeling that modern life is futile, a desire to ape adult drinking — itself on the rise in some places - and the false equation of alcohol with maturity and sophistication. Here is a country-by-country re-

says the situation is not as bad as in other European countries or the United States. But it's bad enough for Austrian authorities periodically to run anti-drinking publicity campaigns that include trips to hospitals treating alcoholics.

-BRITAIN: Youngsters swigging cheap wine from the bottle are a common sight on London streets. The Royal College of Psychiatrists said last month that teen-age drunkenness has almost doubled in the last 12 years, to 4,805 convictions a year. It quoted teachers as saying alcohol is replacing drugs as a social problem and is believed to be behind the upalcoholics of all ages in a population of 56 million and that Britons of all ages are drinking almost twice as much as 30 years ago. Dr. Griffith Edwards of the Institute of Psychiatry said major factors behind increased drinking were "less job satisfaction and more money.'

The Church of Scotland said 98 per-cent of boys and 96 percent of girls in Glasgow, hard-drinking Scotland's largest city, regularly drink at age 17. The law, as throughout Britain, prohibits sale of alcohol to those under 18, but it is widely flouted.

-CZECHOŚLOVAKIA: A law to be

It will also prohibit sales of all alcohol at youth-only events and allow only beer and wine to be served at mixed-age events, and only low-alcohol beer at sports events and in factories and office canteens. The present law bans sale of alcohol to persons under 18.

-DENMARK: The Danes have few restrictions on drinking except a ban on sales to those under 18. However, a police spokesman said violations of the law probably run to "thousands every day." The country runs an information campaign on alcohol prob-

-FRANCE: A government committee on alcoholism said drinking among youngsters declined in 1960-1968 but now appears to be increasing.

-IRELAND: Hard-drinking Ireland last year banned all advertising of alcoholic drinks on its state-run radio and television.

-NORWAY: From 1974 to 1975 the government spent $2 million on antialcohol campaigns, much of it in the form of newspaper ads.

-SOVIET UNION: Soviet officials have expressed concern in recent years about heavy drinking by teen-

House Texans oppose latest budget boosts

WASHINGTON- Here's how area House members were recorded on major roll call votes March 8 through March 14. There were no Senate votes

WAGE COUNCIL. The House passed, 242 for and 175 against, a bill (HR 2283) extending the life of the Council on Wage and Price Stability for one year, increasing the council's annual budget to $8.48 million and expanding its staff from 39 to 233. The council, a White House adjunct, monitors President Carter's wage and price guidelines. It lacks authority to impose wage and price controls. The bill was sent to the

Rep. William Moorhead, D-Pa., a supporter, said:

ROLL CALL REPORT

"A vote against this bill amounts to throwing up your hands in despair-or else putting all your chips on a very restrictive fiscal and monetary policy with all of the accompanying risks or recession or worse. To me the choice seems very clear.'

Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md., an opponent, said: "Only in the wonderland that is the Congress...could we possibly think we are addressing the problem of inflation by not only extending ... and agency that is virtually useless and ought to be abolished, but by increasing its budget by 300 percent...and its staff from 39 permanent employees to 233."

Members voting "yea" wanted to keep the Council on Wage and Price Stability in operation.

Reps. Charles Wilson, D-2, Jim Mattox, D-5, Bob Eckhardt, D-8, Jack Brooks, D-9, Jake Pickle, D-10, James Wright, D-12, Joe Wyatt, D-14, Mickey Leland, D-18, and Martin Frost, D-24, voted

COMMITTEE OVERLAP. The House voted, 208 for and 200 against, to create a 'select committee' whose mission is to examine the House committee structure and recommend ways to make it less cumbersome. With an estimated annual budget of $500,000, the new panel will address the problem of overlapping jurisdictions that makes it difficult for the House to hone in on national problems such as energy and inflation. In recent years the House has made similar attempts at streamlining itself, but Opponents generally thought this new committee was itself an example of the bureaucratic overlapping it seeks to combat.

Members voting "yea" favored creation of a special committee on committees.

Hall, Wilson, Mattox, Eckhardt, Brooks, Wright, Wyatt, de la Garza, Leland, Gonzalez, Kazen and Frost voted "yea.

Collins, Roberts, Gramm, Archer, Pickle, Leath, Hightower, White, Stenholm, Hance Loeffler and Paul voted "nay.

Council votes to bug summer insect nuisances

By LANA CUNNINGHAM Staff Writer

The "pesty" problem of flies and mosquitoes multiplying a thousandfold during the warm summer months in areas with large amounts of animal droppings may be cured by adding more insects.

Midland City Council Tuesday, meeting in regular session in the City Council Chambers, voted to go ahead with an innovative approach to insect control

Although the agenda was relatively short, the session did not end until 10 p.m. with only a 75-minute break for

Lee Ellis, involved in pest management in California, outlined his program of using beneficial insects, or parasites which feed on flies and mosquitoes, as a means of controlling the problem.

Spraying provides a short term solution, he said. But the more the city sprays, the more the insects become immune to the insecticide, he claimed.

The largest problem comes from areas where there are a large number of animal droppings, such as poultry and hog farms, Ellis said.

He estimated Midland would need about 200,000 of the gnat-like parasites "applied" to areas every two weeks to deal with the problem, which reaches its peak around August or September.

Army keeps eye on nerve gas

DUGWAY PROVING GROUND, Utah (AP) — The Army is monitoring air samples to determine whether there was any contamination from the explosion of 26 landmines containing a deadly nerve agent

An Army spokesman said air quality experts should know today the results of Tuesday's blast.

The deteriorating mines, each containing about two gallons of the nerve agent VX, were blown up at a remote area of this big base in the western Utah desert. Destruction had been postponed twice because of adverse wind conditions

It was the first time in 10 years the Army released a chemical weapon into the atmosphere. Before 1969, however, Dugway was a center of open-air chemical and biological testing. It was near here in 1968 that 6,400 sheep died, apparently from nerve

Army officials said after the explosion that there had been no evidence of contamination, but Col. James R. Klugh, base commander, said the area around the blast site would receive a decontamination treatment anyway.

The Army said it was necessary fo destroy the mines where they were found because of their decaying condition. The site was 30 miles from the nearest populated area in a remote sagebrush-filled area of the 850,000acre testing center.

The mines were found in January by an Army patrol. The Army said they had been discarded and forgotten during a heavy period of open-air testing in 1963.

Using the spraying and parasite programs together would not hurt anything, the insect expert said.

Cost for the parasites would be about $100 a month, with an additional charge for Ellis to come to the Tall City two more times on a consulting basis and to check on the effects of his program

The first of three park sites in the fast-developing north and northwest sections of Midland was approved for purchase.

The five-acre site will be located adjacent to a 10-acre school site and will cost the city $44,150, which includes the Realtor's fees,

Cost per acre was $8,750, said Parks and Recreation Director Wayne Ko-

Sewer line connections from the main line to homeowners' lines on houses owned by Henry Culp will be checked by the city and replaced if broken, the council decided.

Culp, a contractor, said the fourinch clay pipes installed from the main sewer line to the homeowner's property have been breaking. The question had come up as to who should pay for installing new line the homeowner or the city.

According to Culp, the line is on city property and a plumber must get permission to work on it. The home-owner has to pay for the work, although that piece of line belongs to the city, he said.

The city sewer service charge should cover costs of replacing that line, Culp maintained, or the rates should be raised to cover such work.

"The homeowner has to pay an $80 sewer tap charge for that line and then the city says the homeowner must pay to have it fixed," Culp said, adding that most plumbers don't have the equipment to work on the specific line in question.

According to Fred Baker, director of public works, the city ordinance calls for installation of useable line to a homeowner "but does not say we should maintain them.

But he agreed the city should be responsible for replacing the broken line if it has not been damaged by the homeowner.

While the council agreed to check Culp's lines, it declined to change the Requests from the Human Relations Council for the city to note the 1979 Christmas in April program scheduled for April 28 were approved. Morrison Brown with the program said this year's goal is to repair 30 houses with $12,000.

After 90 minutes of debate on a special permit request by Robert Puckett concerning use of an accessory building on his lot, the council denied the permit, saying the matter should be settled in court.

A public hearing on zone ordinance changes, the first major revisions since 1963, was held with no opposition

'Baby selling,' charges critic of adoption bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Rep. Bill Messer, D-Belton, has agreed to delay his county adoption bill in the hope of converting critics who called it a "baby selling" measure.

The House will return to work on the bill Thursday.

Messer's bill would allow county child welfare boards to place children for adoption and charge adoptive parents a fee to cover the cost.

Messer said a recent attorney general's opinion outlawing the fees made the bill necessary.

"What Mr. Messer's bill would do is set up a baby selling agency by statute in each of our counties," objected Rep. Betty Denton, D-Waco.

She contended couples who want to adopt children would be forced to compete "on the basis of wealth.'

Defense preparing to rebut testimony against Hart

PRYOR, Okla. (AP) - Prosecutors and defense lawyers are preparing to call rebuttal witnesses in the murder trial of Gene Leroy Hart, charged with the 1977 murders of three Girl Scouts at an Oklahoma summer

Rebuttal testimony was expected to begin today and continue Thursday. The jury of six men and six women could begin deliberations by Friday after closing arguments.

"The whole case could take on a different complexion based on those rebuttal witnesses," Hart's attorney Garvin Isaacs said after the defense rested Tuesday.

The prosecution rested Saturday after calling 32 witnesses. Hart, 35, is on trial for three counts of first-degree murder. He was charged 10 days after the June 13, 1977, killings at Camp Scott, in northeastern Oklahoma A former Mayes County jailer, testifying Tuesday, was the last defense witness - the 26th

Allen Little, who resigned as the county jailer just weeks after Hart escaped from the facility here in September 1973, identified photos found in the vicinity of the killings as pictures he had seen in the sheriff's office after Hart's escape.

Hart, awaiting hearings on previous convictions for rape, kidnapping and burglary at the time of the escape, remained a fugitive for nearly five years. He was charged with the killings of the Girl Scouts after authorities said they found the two crumpled wedding

pictures at the site of an abandoned home two miles from Camp Scott.

The site, which included a cave and cellar, was Hart's boyhood home. Hart had developed the wedding pictures as a prison photographer's helper at Granite (Okla.) State Reformatory 10 years earlier.

Isaacs implied in his questioning of witnesses throughout the eight days of testimony that authorities, particularly Mayes County Sheriff Pete Weaver, could have planted evidence implicating Hart.

Those pictures were never in the sheriff's office," Weaver said outside the courtroom Tuesday. "I have not had them in my hand to this day."

Increase will add to nation's woes

By ALEXANDER AUERBACH The Los Angeles Times

While Tuesday's OPEC price increase was less than some analysts had feared, the move is certain to compound the nation's problems in dealing with already accelerating in-

Americans will be paying the tab not only at the gasoline pump but also in the form of higher price for a host of other goods and services. And the risk of higher unemployment and recession this year is increased, economists said.

The big question, according to experts contacted by The Times, is the extent to which members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries will impose - and the market will accept - surcharges of up to $4 a barrel. Use of surcharges was approved by the group in Geneva along with the flat 9 percent price increase of $1.20 a barrel.

-If all OPEC members imposed a $4 surcharge - an unlikely event -America's spending for imported oil this year would be almost 50 percent more than the 1978 outlay.

Even if the increase is much smaller than that, the OPEC action puts more pressure on President Carter to decontrol prices of domestic oil even faster than he had planned to in order to encourage greater U.S. production. While decontrol would raise output, it would also stoke inflation, the economists said.

Both the stock market and currency exchanges responded well to news of the oil price hike, apparently because traders had anticipated much steeper

The Dow Jones Industrial Average jumped 16.54 points to close at 871.36, scoring its largest single-day advance since its record rise of 35.34 points last Nov. 1

The U.S. dollar moved upward against most major European currencies and against the Japanese yen, and gold fell about $4 an ounce from last week's levels. Since the United States is the largest importer of oil, and its currency is used in most oil deals, the dollar generally declines with price hikes. But traders apparently recognized that the OPEC move would hurt other nations' economies even more than America's.

Gold, seen by some investors as a hedge against uncertainty, often rises in price when the dollar weakens.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who is chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, said after a meeting of nearly an hour with President Carter that the OPEC move was motivated by "a combination of greed and punitive doctrine."

The "punitive" element, he indicated was a desire by the Arab oil producers to strike back at American support for the Egyptian-Israeli peace agreement and at America's failure to curb its consumption of imported oil.

Hodding Carter III, a spokesman for the State Department, called the increase and surcharges "untimely and unjustified," adding, "We deeply regret that the OPEC nations are taking advantage of the present tight oil market conditions, which result from the interruption in Iranian oil exports, to raise the price of oil.'

Alfred E. Kahn, chairman of the Council of Wage and Price Stability, said he price increase "hurts every American consumer," and added, "It can only complicate our prospects of trying to bring inflation in our economy under control. We must recognize, however, that it makes little sense to try to raise our wages and prices to recover this loss. To do so is to pass on the cost to others."

The impact most immediately visible to consumers, said members of the oil industry, will be up to a 3-cent increase in the price of gasoline at the pump, possibly as early as mid-May.

Joseph Tovey, a Wall Street investment banker, believes that "by Labor Day, when the OPEC increase has passed all the way through the system, it could easily add a nickel to the pump price of gasoline.

Natural gas imported from Mexico will also cost more, because its price is tied to the OPEC oil price for an equivalent amount of BTUs of heat, Tovey said.

The price hike will have a ripple effect through many parts of the economy far from the gasoline pump or home furnace. The entire plastics industry, for example, uses petroleum as a "feed stock" or raw material, so that OPEC's move will affect the cost of everything from pocket combs to polyester blouses.

Adobe project gauges Ward Ellenburger gas

Adobe Oil & Gas Corp. of Midland announced it has an Ellenburger gas discovery in the Barstow multipay field of Ward County at its No. 3 Barstow Unit.

A former Fusselman producer, it flowed at the rate of 10,300,000 cubic feet of gas daily on a production test through a 20/64-inch choke.

The flow was from pay behind casing perforations from 19,690 to 19,717

Adobe, who owns an average 26 percent interest in the 5.740-acre Barstow Unit on which the discovery is located, said the test volume includes approximately 50 percent of carbon dioxide.

South took the ace of clubs, drew trumps, cashed the ace of diamonds and lost a diamond finesse to the queen. East returned the ten of hearts, and South had to lose either a heart or a diamond. Down one.

ODD FINESSE South should take the ace of clubs, two trumps and a club ruff. Then he leads the deuce of diamonds from dummy.

East must play low, since the ten or queen would make matters easy for South. Declarer then finesses with the eight of diamonds.

If this finesse lost, West would be unable to make a safe return. A heart or diamond would give South a free finesse; a club would let dummy ruff while South discarded a heart.

DAILY QUESTION As dealer you hold: S-4; H-Q76; D-64; C-KQJ8743. What do you say:

ANSWER: Most good rubber bridge players would pass; but there is nothing wrong with a bid of three clubs if you are not vulnerable, especially if the opponents are vulnerable. Most tournament players would surely bid three clubs if not

Nicollete Larson knows to take care of herself

By EVE ZIBART The Washington Post

NEW YORK - Two or three years ago, when Nicolete Larson was first out on the road with Hoyt Axton and Commander Cody and the Lost Planet Airmen, she learned a hard lesson about self-preservation.

"The first year and a half, I was up all night every night drinking, trying to keep up with the band. You party all night, or go back to somebody's room and sing all night, then you're hoarse the next day and you never catch up.

After a while you either have to get more and better highs, or you fall apart, or you quit.

So these days, Larson takes her pleasures on the wheel, roller-skating for miles at a time down the hard, flat L.A. beaches with her sleeve pushed up to the elbows and her thigh-length chestnut hair remonstrated into two braids (the skates Linda Ronstadt wears on the cover of Living in the U.S.A. were a gift from Larson).

Now, amid the faded gentility of her Westbury Hotel room, she holds tight to her midwestern sensibleness. She is unfazed by the livid Manhattan afternoon light, by the washed-out television, the parade of visitors or her slight hoarseness. She has discarded her high boots for a pair of fur-lined moccasins only a mother could love. She plants her elbows in front of her crossed legs and plops her chin into her palms.

"I AM TRYING," she says witwh mock concentration, "to keep a count-your-blessings attitude.'

At 26, Nicolette Larson is waiting in the wings of the Great Popular Success, like a show which previews well in Philadelphia but wavers in Boston. Her first solo album, unpretentiously titled "Nicolette," is No. 15 in Billboard, and her single, Neil Young's wistful "Lotta Love," is teetering just below the magic top 10 and has already been certified gold. If the next single does well, and her first tour gets good notices, and she gets enough national exposure, she might join the ranks of the few female vocalists making the big bucks. If not ... "Well," she says, "I just can't worry about it. I can always sing.

Larson is one of a flock of women -Bonnie Bramlett, Merry Clayton, Wendy Waldman, Emmylou Harris, Janie Frick - who have entered the music business through the studio door, working up from road-tour apprentice to studio-session journeyman. It is no goldbrick road: Harris has built a wide popular audience, but Waldman's albums have not broken through the critics' circle to commer-

To Larson, who says she never consciously considered a solo career, singing backup was the logical step. "I wanted to sing, and working backup was a way to do what I wanted to and make money at the same time.

"I never even daydreamed about a Nicolette Larson record. Not that I didn't think I was capable - I just thought it was pretty great to be singing backup without the pressure of having to be the host. 'Welcome to the show, thanks for coming out tonight, here's a little number' ... All I had to do was sing and shake a tam-

Through the arbitrary blessings of radio airplay, Larson is touring a half-dozen major cities with a band that includes members of Little Feat and the Doobie Brothers, contemplating an offer for her first commercial and casting a quizzical glance toward a film future. To get that far, however, she has to navigate a trial by fire at New York's Bottom Line ("I just hope nobody throws anything at me") and a daily schedule of 6 p.m.-

TELLING THIS, SHE grimaces. "There are certain things I don't have control of yet.'

to-midnight rehearsals.

Larson grew up in Kansas City, one of six children who lorded it over her siblings when she was promoted to "the adults' choir" in the fifth grade. She attended the University of Missouri at Kansas City for three semesters - "All I learned in college was that I didn't want to be in college" and worked her way through a series of odd jobs, moving to San Francisco

"I was the secretary to a construction company, and the alarm clock went off at 7 o'clock. I hated it. If I was destined to be a secretary, I might as well be secretary for a record company or a production company. I mean, I was typing up plastering orders and I didn't care. I felt like I should at least care about what I was

She took a job with the Golden State Country-Bluegrass Festival, through which she met most of the Bay Area bands and picked up a few local engagements. Late in 1975 she transplanted to Los Angeles and began touring with Axton, then as lead singer for the Lost Planet Airmen.

"I sang lead in the Cody band really out of default, because nobody else could," she shrugs "I thought, 'If they're gonna let him sing, then I ought to, because I can do better than that.' And I had some seniority in the

Punch line tries to get laughs

NEW YORK (AP) -They may sound silly. They rented a big loft near seedy Times Square, liberated seats from a failed porn movie house and, $17,000 later, launched a theater strictly for laughs.

But Manhattan Punch Line is no joke, even though it officially opens here April Fool's Day -Sunday - in its 100-seat, seventh-floor aerie high above the beautiful midtown Port Authority bus MPL is the newest of Fun City's 100-plus offoff-Broadway emporiums. Where it differs from most is that it only serves humor; the only tragedians on stage are those whose gags are dead on arrival.

"There are companies that do only farce, satire or cabaret," says MPL's Steve Kaplan. "But we're the only place that explores humor in all its forms, from Moliere to stand-up comedy and even film.

work for a big company to have a great Retirement Plan...

A First Savings Individual Retirement Account (IRA) will give you that, plus a tax break . . .

If you're currently working for a company that doesn't have a retirement plan, or if it is no longer providing one, then an IRA at First Savings is the thing for you. With an Individual Retirement Account at First Savings you can save for the future at the impressive current interest rate of 8% (effective annual yield 8.33%). You can deposit up to $1500 or 15% of your yearly income, whichever is less, and deduct every penny from your taxes. You do not have to pay the taxes on your IRA funds until you start with drawing from it, normally after you retire. (THE LAW REQUIRES SUBSTANTIAL PENALTIES FOR WITH-DRAWALS BEFORE THE AGE OF 591/2.) When you retire, you'll probably have less income and more than likely be in a lower tax bracket, that way the tax bite will be less.

And now for greater protection, your IRA funds are insured up to $100,000 by an agency of the Federal Government.

So, stop by either First Savings office . . . downtown at 500 West Wall . . . or San Miguel Square . . . today, and tell them you want a great retirement plan, and they'll tell you all about the benefits of an Individual Retirement Account.

*Remember, the deadline for starting or adding to an IRA is the date your taxes are due.

"Adrift for years, the glass floats wash ashore encrusted with barnacles, seaweed and mussels," Mrs. Schinderle said. "Storms wrest the floats free from the currents and the best time to collect them is when strong southwesters hit our coast."

When the southwesters howl, people lock up their homes and leave, often heading for the beach in pouring rain to look for the floats. Each January, Seaside has an annual beachcombers festival. Prizes are awarded for the most unusual glass floats.

Learning that the floats swept loose from fishermen's nets are eagerly sought by Americans living along the Pacific shores, the Japanese government released 120 "friendship floats" in July, 1963.

Each one contained a letter and a gift for the finder. The first "friendship float" drifted ashore at Nehalem, Ore., in April, 1966. It had traveled 4,400 miles in 1,000 days or an average of 4.4 miles a day.

The "friendship floats' still drift ashore from time to time, 15 years after they were released.

Petition for Bhutto's clemency advanced by man he jailed

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — A politician once jailed by former Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto has filed a clemency petition aimed at saving Bhutto from the gallows, an official said today.

Aamer Raza Khan, advocate general for the government of Punjab province, said all such petitions will be considered on Sunday, the last day for

Bhutto could be hanged as early as next Monday. The Supreme Court upheld his murder conspiracy conviction for allegedly ordering the killing of a political opponent in 1974. It rejected Bhutto's appeal for it to examine its own decision for possible

Petitions for clemency are being processed in Punjab because that was where the 1974 murder was committed. The decision on whether to spare Bhutto will be made by President Gen. Mohammed Zia Ul-haq, who deposed Bhutto in July 1977.

Bhutto apparently was informed of his death warrant Monday. The warrant does not include the date of execution, but starts a seven-day period in which any Pakistani citizen can apply for executive clemency for the condemned man.

Neither Bhutto nor his family has sought clemency but one petition has been filed by Malik Ghulam Jilani, jailed by Bhutto when Bhutto was prime minister. It was not immediately known why Jilani

He has a reputation in Pakistan for bringing up difficult, often sticky legal questions.

Zia has indicated he will not interfere with the decision of the court. He has refused clemency petitions from some 400 condemned persons since

The court upheld the guilty verdict, but recommended a life sentence instead of execution. However Zia, an advocate of strict Moslem justice as set forth in the Koran, has given no sign that he will spare Bhutto.

Since the supreme court's latest ruling last Saturday, most of the luxuries available to Bhutto in the Rawalpindi Jail have been removed.

These included his personal clothing, shaving kit, reading material, refrigerator and the light switches

After appeals are exhausted, a person convicted of murder is not permitted such things under the jail manual prepared by the country's British rulers before Pakistan's independence in 1947. Bhutto is not using the jail-supplied bed in his cell, but is reported sleeping on a bed roll on the floor. He still is receiving home-cooked food in his cell, sent by She and their daughter, Benazir, are under house arrest in suburban Sihala. Although home-cooked food is supposed to be banned in such cases,

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court says driven by blacks, or teen agers, or senior citi-police may not arbitrarily stop your auto for a lizens. cense or registration check if there's no reason to believe'you're breaking any law. Such haphazard stops of persons not suspected of committing any crime or traffic violation is an unconstitutional invasion of privacy, the court said

Tuesday in an 8-1 ruling. The ruling invalidates a Delaware law giving police broad discretion in choosing which cars to stop for routine spot checks and calls into question the validity of similar practices in many other states.

However, the decision gives little encouragement to drivers without valid licenses or those who never got around to renewing their clunker's registration. In writing for the court, Justice Byron R. White stressed that Delaware and other states are free to develop "methods for spot checks that involve less intrusion or that do not involve the unconstrained exercise of discretion. For example, he suggested police might stop all traffic at roadblock-type stops. Two other justices suggested police might stop every 10th car that passes a certain point. Those practices would eliminate the possibility that a particular police officer might stop only cars

Justice William H. Rehnquist dissented. He said the court's belief that many cars stopped is better than one car stopped appeared based not on constitutional matters but on the old adage "misery loves

Condemned killer repeats his plea to make message of his execution

ATMORE, Ala. (AP) - Condemned killer John Louis Evans III, eight days from his scheduled execution, says he wants to give his death mean-

Evans turned down a plea Tuesday from an American Civil Liberties Union attorney who asked that he be permitted to try to stop the electrocu-

In doing so, Evans said he wanted the occasion of his electrocution to dramatize the need for reform of death row conditions and to discourage young people from following his example

"These kids who think this is a glorious type of life, they're crazy," said Evans. "The only place you're going to end up is here.... There's no feeling, there's no money, there's nothing.'

Evans, in a death row interview, also said he would have some last words when he is strapped in the electric chair at Holman Prison about 12:01 a.m. on April 6, but he declined to elaborate.

Prison officials say they expect more than 100 members of the news media to be on hand for the electrocution — which would be the first in the United States since a Utah firing squad shot Gary Gilmore on Jan. 17, 1977.

At the same time Evans was rejecting help Tuesday, the state Court of Criminal Appeals was granting a reprieve to Jerry Wayne Jacobs, who had been scheduled to die Friday. The action allowed his attorney, John Carroll, to pursue what could be the first federal court test of Alabama's 1975 capital punishment law.

Carroll said the new appeal challenges the validity of Alabama's death law. Jacob's reprieve is expected to keep him alive at least a month while Carroll argues through state and federal courts. The reprieve came one day after the state Supreme Court rejected a challenge to Evans' sen-

Midland man treated after two-car accident

A Midland man was treated and released from Midland Memorial Hospital shortly after he was involved in a two-car collision at a Midland intersection about 5:30 Tuesday.
