The Easiest Rider?

How does a motocross racer jump hills, go around "berms" and generally smoke the competition without firing up his engine? Sunday's West Texas Life takes a look at one kind of racer who never runs out of gas.

A Special Kind of Pride

Pride in the effort will be a main result of the Special Olympics track meet being held today for special education youths from Midland schools. Lifestyle editor Wanda Mouton writes on that subject — pride — in Sunday's Reporter Telegram.

Humble Start, Rich Story

The Permian Basin oil industry began with hurried late-night drilling beside a railroad track in 1923. In Sunday's R.T., Associated Press writer Mike Cochran looks at the Basin's development and raises the question of how much oil is left.

Nuke area evacuation begins

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Gov. Dick Thornburgh today advised the evacuation of pre-school children and pregnant women from within five miles of the Three Mile Island Nuclear plant following a new release of radioactivity from the crippled facility. He ordered schools in the area closed and urged residents within 10 miles to stay indoors.

"This and other contingency measures are based on my belief that an excess of caution is best," Thornburgh said. "Current (radioactivity) readings are no higher than they were yesterday. However, the continued presence of radioactivity in the area and the possibility of further emissions lead me to exercise this utmost caution."

The governor said that he spoke with President Carter and the chairman of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission late this morning about the situation.

"Based upon the evidence, and the best technical advice available, the president concurred with me that there continues, at present readings, no reason for panic or implementation of emergency measures" such as a general evacuation, Thornburgh said.

John Comey of the Pennsylvania Emergency Management Agency, asked if people were leaving the area on their own, said "They are. Businesses in Harrisburg appear to be releasing employees. People are leaving the Harrisburg area."

An air raid siren blared at about 11:15 a.m. in downtown Harrisburg, but David Milne, a spokesman for the state Department of Environmental Resources, said it was an unauthorized signal set off by local fire officials to tell people to stay indoors.

At midmorning Paul Critchlow, Thornburgh's spokesman, urged people within a 10-mile radius to stay indoors until further instructions were handed down.

"There was a series of uncontrolled bursts of radiation from about 6:40 a.m. until about 9 a.m. this morning," Critchlow said.

Harrisburg, the largest city within a 10-mile radius of the plant, has 58,000 residents.

Critchlow said, "We are urging people to stay calm and not to panic. There is no need for evacuation at this time."

"Our people do not believe there is any immediate danger. The suggestion to stay indoors is precautionary only."

Traffic was heavy on the streets of Harrisburg 10 miles from the plant and in surrounding communities. Service stations were crowded with cars and pedestrians hurried along the streets to head indoors.

Businesses shut down early and overburdened telephone lines were jammed in the area.

There were conflicting explanations of what caused the new release of radioactivity. Critchlow said the release occurred as workers carried radioactive waste from one storage area to another.

Nuclear Regulatory Commission spokesman Frank Ingram first said in Washington that the release occurred as an automatic part of the recirulation of reactor cooling water. But shortly thereafter, he said his information may have been wrong.

The governor's press office said there was a reading of 1,200 millirems per hour at the plant vent, from which the gases escaped. Critchlow said that reading meant a possible radiation exposure of 100 millirems for someone downwind from the release.

E.C. McCabe, section chief of the NRC, who was at the plant site, said: "I did not expect the radiation levels to be that high."

"The venting of the tank because of the pressure is necessary," McCabe said. "If you rupture that tank you would have a substantial release."

"The plant is not cooling down as fast as would be expected," he added. "There have been some problems with the letdown system. It has been slower than we would have liked, but we are progressing."

McCabe said a 30 millirem per hour reading was taken south of the plant after the release and was rapidly decreasing.

McCabe said that, at the rate of 30 millirems an hour, an individual could be expected to be exposed to radiation for 30 years without ill effects.

"We know that 25,000 millirems does not cause serious changes in the body," he said. "The maximum allowable (for plant workers) under normal conditions is 3,000 millirems per quarter (three months)."

The average American is exposed to 100 to 120 millirems of radiation per year, including radiation from everything from space to X-rays.

Pardon issued in 1939 but mislaid until now

LAPWAL, Idaho (AP) — David Miles maintained for more than 40 years that he was innocent of a manslaughter conviction that sent him to jail for nine months. Idaho's governor apparently agreed and granted him a pardon, but nobody told Miles until this year — 40 years after the pardon was issued.

Miles, 74, was convicted in 1937 of criminal manslaughter in connection with the death of Joe Kipp, a Nez Perce Indian, and served nine months in the Idaho County Jail and the state penitentiary.

Pardon proceedings on Miles' behalf were initiated earlier this year. But a clerk digging through old records discovered that on April 14, 1939, only five days after Miles finished his jail term, he was given a full pardon by then Gov. C.A. Bottorf, now dead.

It was a pardon that, until a few weeks ago, he never knew existed.

Miles, in an interview with the Lewiston Morning Tribune, said he never got a copy of the pardon or any notice that it had been issued.

He said that following his release from jail he was rejected for job after job because of his criminal record, and that ultimately he became an alcoholic. In 1952 he was ordained a Presbyterian minister, he said, but was shunned by congregations.

"It followed me no matter what I did, not matter how hard I tried to be a Christian," he said.

Miles maintained through the years that he was wrongfully convicted. To those who would listen, he would show a tattered letter from a Grangeville lawyer who had prosecuted his case.

The letter, written in 1954 by former

1,000 absentee voters possible for joint election of April 7

Upcoming joint election for city, school and hospital district officials will draw more than 1,000 people to vote absentee — if Midlanders follow last year's patterns.

Don Furguson, school district business manager, said as of this morning 580 persons had cast absentee votes in the April 7 election, 527 of them in the past week.

Last year, a total of 706 persons voted before the election, but more than half of that number came in on the last day. The final two days of absentee voting always are the heaviest, said Furguson.

So if voters stick to their habits, this year's total should pass the 1,000 mark, he added.

Record for absentee balloting in a local election is 1,217 in 1975, Furguson said.

Absentee voting continues in the school administration building 702 N. N. St. from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays through Tuesday.

Voters are selecting city council, school board and hospital district board of directors members.

At Greenwood, where citizens will vote April 7 for school board and hospital district board members, six persons had voted absentee by this morning, School Superintendent Mel Williams said today.

Absentee voting there is in school administrative offices weekdays from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. through Tuesday.

Practicing for the mythical all-round championship at Midland College's third annual Chaparral Round-up Saturday is Chuck Matthews of Kappa Kappa Fraternity. Designed to show off Midland College to area high school students, the Round-up will feature several contests — among them kite flying, pie eating, a hairy leg contest, cow-chip throwing, watermelon eating and jalapeno pepper eating. Events will be held from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Beal Plaza at the college. A food concession will be open, and the public has been invited. (Staff Photo by Brian Hendershot)

There's more Smiths than anvils

By GUY SULLIVAN
Staff Writer

One in every 100 people in the U.S. is named Smith, according to a writer who has studied the situation — a writer named Smith, of course.

That would mean approximately 2,180,960 Smiths, not counting the Smiths, Smithes, Schmitzes, and other variations, observed author Jack Smith, writing about a book by H. Allen — you guessed it — Smith.

Midland County Sheriff Dallas Smith Thursday responded to that valuable piece of information.

"I didn't know there were so many of us," he added. "At least my first name helps eliminate a lot of duplication. There just aren't that many Smiths named Dallas."

Sheriff Smith did, however, recall a guy named Dallas Smith who used to write hot checks.

"People were always calling me up, thinking I was him," he noted. A long glance at the current Midland telephone directory Thursday showed at least 200 persons who have the last name of Smith.

In addition, the 1978 Midland city directory reveals a full eight pages of Smiths.

Writer Smith (Jack) has pointed out that throughout history Smiths have been greater in number than any other family in the world.

But, he reported modestly, "We have not shaken the world, nor even diverted it much. We've been content to live modest, useful lives, working at our anvils, paying our taxes, and in politics and contests of all kinds, generally being runners up."

Jack Smith pointed out that a man named Elsdon C. Smith of Skokie, Ill., recently published a book titled "The Book of Smiths."

Elsdon Smith summed up the scope of his work with one phrase: "Almost everyone has a strain of Smith in his veins."

And people named Smith aren't above going in for exotic or unusual first names — a kind of counterbalance, perhaps, to the mundane quality of their last names.

For example, somewhere in this world there exists someone (a former Oklahoma infant) named Loyal Lodge No. 296 Knights of Pythias Ponca City Oklahoma Smith.

Jack Smith, quoting H. Allen Smith, commented, "I think it improbable that there is anyone else of that name in the world today."

He's probably right. One genuinely hopes he's right.

Jack Smith said the Smiths of America "could probably populate any one of 18 states."

"Why so many of us?" he asked before answering his own question.

"Mostly, (as) H. Allen Smith points out, because smiths made the swords in war and the plowshares in peace. Since we are always either at war or at peace, there were many smiths. The word meant craftsman, especially one who worked in metals. Proud of their crafts, smiths soon took on the name Smith, and here we are."

More anti-inflation measures

Administration trying to shore up price guidelines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration is trying to rescue its floundering anti-inflation program by shoring up its voluntary price guidelines for businesses.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability asked the nation's 1,300 largest corporations Thursday to begin reporting price data on a quarterly basis.

The council also singled out five industries, where prices have risen most rapidly, for closer monitoring.

And it moved to close a "loophole" that had allowed many businesses to pass their higher costs on to consumers.

The three-pronged action — along with tough, anti-inflation statements from President Carter and wage-price council chairman Alfred E. Kahn — came at a time the government is particularly sensitive about price increases.

The voluntary guidelines instituted last October call for workers to hold wage increases to 7 percent or less this year. Corporations are asked to keep price increases a half a percentage point below those in 1976-77.

Kahn, the president's chief anti-inflation adviser, warned members of the National Association of Manufacturers that too many businesses were letting prices rise above the guidelines.

When pressed about the voluntary features of the latest administration step, wage-price council Director Barry Bosworth said: "There are degrees of volunteerism."

To date, however, the program has been most successful on the wage side. While some unions have settled new contracts within the guidelines, prices have risen at double the rate the Carter administration projected for the year. And corporate profits increased 26.4 percent in the fourth quarter of 1978 compared to the same quarter of 1977.

Changes in those guidelines, announced by wage-price council Director Barry Bosworth, will require the nation's businesses to report significantly more price information to the government.

Bosworth denied that the action was a move toward mandatory controls. "The regular submission of the reports is being requested as a voluntary action," he said. When pressed, he added, "There are degrees of volunteerism."

The five industries singled out for the most stringent reporting requests were dairy, drug, electrical motors and generators, cement and lead smelting.

Other corporations with annual sales of $250 million or more will be asked for quarterly price reports. Until now, only the 750 corporations with sales over $500 million had been asked for reports — and those on a less frequent basis.

The new guidelines also say companies that use a profit margin standard as an alternative to price figures will be asked to meet tougher requirements. These include an as-yet unspecified restriction on "uncontrollable cost increases" and an unspecified price limits.

Ten old sections stay in code

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee's oldest legislator has succeeded again in including the Ten Commandments in the Senate's code of ethics.

The code, approved 31-0 Thursday, prohibits conflict of interest, requires extensive financial disclosure and establishes a permanent ethics committee to handle complaints.

The Ten Commandments were added at the urging of Clarksville Democrat Halbert Harvill, 85, a retired educator and former college president. The Ten Commandments vote was 19-8, two more than needed for passage.

Those objecting to the measure said it was unnecessary and made a mockery of the Bible.

When the Senate adopted the code in 1977, there was substantial opposition to it and the insertion of the Ten Commandments was viewed by many as a way to kill the measure.

Iranians go to polls to establish republic

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Veil-clad women, armed revolutionary soldiers, Moslem priests and millions of other Iranians streamed into polling stations today for a nationwide vote on the formal establishment of an Islamic republic to replace 2,500 years of monarchy.

Rebellious members of Iran's ethnic minorities have threatened to boycott the two-day referendum, along with leftist militants who believe Khomeini's six-week old revolution has done too little to establish a "workers' state."

Tehran, amid a crowd of followers who pressed so hard around his car that the 78-year-old ayatollah had to pass his ballot through a window.

"We have given our blood for this day," said a guerrilla who brought his automatic rifle to the polling station with him. "We have waited years for this."

Traders grab chance to adopt wild mustangs

SWEETWATER, Texas (AP) — Wild horses couldn't keep the people away.

Horse traders of all shapes and sizes showed up Thursday for what was billed as the "Adopt A Horse" program at the Steen Cattle Co. corral.

The response was just tremendous," said Darlene Gilbert of Reno, division clerk for the Bureau of Land Management project.

The wild horses were "adopted" on a first-come first-serve basis to qualified applicants who paid a $90 fee per animal to cover the transfer costs from Nevada.

It was the second such program in Sweetwater. The BLM shipped 85 wild horses to the West Texas city in mid-February.

Danny Turner apparently was pleased with the mustang he claimed in February. The 15-year-old Sweetwater resident, proudly brandishing a photo of his horse, was back to get two more.

The BLM allows each successful applicant, who must have adequate corals and shelter to take up to four horses a year.

Title to the animals remains with the federal government for the first year as an effort to prevent inhumane use or commercial exploitation of the horses.

Gene Leroy Hart found innocent in sex slayings of Girl Scouts

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Gene Leroy Hart was found innocent today of the 1977 sex-slayings of three Girl Scouts at a summer camp in northeastern Oklahoma.

The six men and six women of the jury returned the verdict one hour after resuming deliberations this morning.

Hart burst into loud sobs as the court clerk, Eloise Gist, read the first of three innocent verdicts handed her by jury foreman George Kelly.

Law officers cleared the courtroom of Hart's friends and relatives as they continued loud crying and whoops of jubilation.

On the other side of the courtroom, parents of the three young victims were seen weeping.

District Judge William Whistler polled the jury and each juror reported an innocent verdict.

Hart was on trial for the rape and bludgeoning of the three girls, Lori Lee Farmer, 8; Michele Guse, 9; and Doris Dennis Miller, 10, at Camp Scott, near Locust Grove, June 13, 1977.

A guilty verdict would have required the jury to hear additional arguments for a sentence of life imprisonment or death by lethal injection.

Hart, a former Locust Grove high school football star, already faces prison sentences totaling 305 years on convictions for rape, kidnapping and burglary.

He escaped from Mayes County Jail here in September 1973 and was still a fugitive when he was charged 10 days after the slayings.

Hart was captured April 6, 1978, at a shack in the rugged Cookson Hills of eastern Oklahoma 50 miles from Camp Scott.

Jury selection in the trial that began March 5 took 11 days, and 77 witnesses were called during nine days of testimony.

Jurors asked late Thursday to rehear testimony linking items found in Hart's Cookson Hills hideaway to Camp Scott.

A small pipe and a mirror recovered at the cabin were identified by a former Girl Scout counselor as items she had at the camp at the time of the slayings.

Clear skies and cool temperatures are on tap for the Permian Basin for the weekend, the weatherman predicted today.

Saturday's high should be in the upper 60s with the overnight low in the low 40s, according to the National Weather Service office at Midland Regional Airport.

Thursday turned out almost summer-like despite a spectacular nighttime display of lightning from storm clouds east of Midland. The clouds failed to drop any moisture in the area.

Thursday's recorded high of 83 degrees, however, did not approach the record temperature for the date of 95 degrees set in 1963.

Man charged in Boston hotel fires

BOSTON (AP) — An 18-year-old Boston man is in custody today, charged with arson in fires at two posh Boston hotels where he once worked as a busboy and dishwasher.

Julio Valentin Rodrigues of the South End was scheduled for arraignment today in Boston Municipal Court on charges of setting the blazes that forced 1,900 guests from the Copley Plaza and Sheraton Boston hotels early Thursday.

The two fires caused at least $750,000 damage, sent 64 persons to hospitals and started an arson scare in every big hotel in the city.

Eight persons burned in the fires were on the danger list or in guarded condition at three different Boston hospitals Thursday night.

Rodrigues worked for the Copley Plaza three months ago and for the Sheraton last year, said Police Capt. James McDonald.

The Sheraton had no comment on the arrest. A spokesman for the Copley Plaza said Rodrigues worked as a bus boy-dishwasher.

"We are satisfied he is the only suspect," said McDonald in announcing the arrest late Thursday — 18 hours after the Sheraton, the city's largest hotel, burst into flames at four locations.

Just 90 minutes earlier, six fires broke out at the Copley Plaza.

Acting on a tip from a juvenile officer, McDonald said police pulled they received telephone calls routing them from their beds.

The overnight low of 45 also was mild compared to the record low of 23 degrees set in 1937.

No rainfall was reported in the area or predicted in the forecast, so the monthly accumulation of .81 inch and the annual total of 1.23 inches remains unchanged.

Area towns were enjoying the same weather Midlanders had this morning, with most area weather watchers reporting clear skies and cool temperatures.

Airport fire does light damage

An electrical fire at the Midland Regional Airport Thursday caused light damage in the Federal Aviation Administration control tower, fire officials said.

The fire, which occurred about 7 p.m., was confined to the field light board and had gone out when fire department arrived, officials said.

Cause of the blaze had not been determined early today, authorities said.

Bomb in auto kills British MP

LONDON (AP) — A bomb blast ripped through an automobile just outside the House of Commons today and killed Airey Neave, a member of Parliament and right-hand man of Conservative Party leader Margaret Thatcher, the British Press Association reported.

Police reported that the bomb went off as the car, described as a blue Vauxhall and apparently driven by Neave, was at an entrance ramp leading to the underground parking garage at the sprawling Palace of Westminster, the seat of Parliament on the River Thames.

A Scotland Yard spokesman said the blast was caused by a half-pound explosive device placed in the front of the car.

Police officers on the scene said they believed the person who planted the bomb escaped on a motor scooter, and police units throughout the capital were alerted to be on the lookout for him.

There were no threats or warnings before the blast, police said.

The 63-year-old Neave, a Conservative MP for Abingdon in Berkshire west of London, was his party's spokesman for Northern Ireland, the province where Irish Republican Army guerrillas are fighting to end British control.

The terrorist attack occurred just a day after Queen Elizabeth II set May 3 as the date for national elections in which Mrs. Thatcher's Conservatives may be voted into power.

Police said the victim was trapped inside the vehicle for some time. London Ambulance Service later reported he was dead on arrival at nearby Westminster Hospital.

There was a handful of lawmakers in the House of Commons chamber debating a bill in the final days of this Parliament when the blast occurred at about 3 p.m. — 9 a.m. EST.

Some members of Parliament and journalists rushed from the neo-Gothic building into the adjacent Palace Yard upon hearing the explosion. But police formed a cordon and kept them back on the possibility there might be a second explosion.

Bill Frost, a reporter for the British Broadcasting Corp., was among the first on the scene at the parking ramp.

"The man's face was completely blackened," Frost said. "His trousers were shredded and he was bleeding profusely from his body."

Judge orders Temple burials

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The bodies of 554 Peoples Temple massacre victims that have lain in a Delaware jet hangar for four months will be trucked home for burial in California, a judge has ruled.

Attorney John Wahl of San Francisco, who has worked on the plan said he hoped the shipment could begin within a week.

Superior Court Judge Ira A. Brown called his ruling Thursday "an act of charity" and said he hopes he "will not be seriously faulted" for ordering the shipment and burial. "Unprecedented situations sometimes call for unprecedented orders," he said.

He ruled that about $300,000 in assets of the defunct Temple would be used to pay for the operation.

Under the plan, a Wilmington, Del., trucking firm will be paid about $55,000 to carry the bodies to California in moving vans. Brown warned the firm not to use a caravan of trucks, presumably because it would attract attention.

Of the bodies, 250 are still unidentified — most children under 16 — and will be buried two-deep at a Marin County cemetery, along with about 72 others whose relatives signed over responsibility for the bodies to the State Department.

Man in custody after shootings

LOGANSPORT, Ind. (AP) — Today marked the end of John R. Wall's three-day suspension from a job at a moving company his father helped run. But Wall did not return to his job.

He was in custody on preliminary charges of murder in the Wednesday night shooting deaths of his father and four other relatives, authorities said.

Wall, 22, and his father both worked for Beck's Transfer Inc., said Ronald Beck, the firm's owner.

Beck said he and the elder Wall, who as dispatcher had control over his son's work assignments, decided to suspend young Wall for three days after he failed to report for work Tuesday. The father was a reliable employee, but his son was "a little spotty," Beck said.

"During a 20-minute hearing Thursday in Cass Circuit Court, Wall entered no plea and made no statement. At one point, asked if he sought court-appointed counsel, he replied: 'How about some doctors?'"

Wall was being held at the Indiana Reformatory at Pendleton, pending formal charges, Cass County Prosecutor Thomas Kraugh said.

Killed were John R. Wall, 54; young Wall's sister, Robin Musselman, 18; and her son, David Scott Musselman Jr., 2, in the Walls' home, and another sister, Nancy Shanks, 21, and her husband, Thomas J. Shanks Jr., 25, in their mobile home about two miles away.

Each was shot "at least once in the head" with a 9mm pistol, State Police Sgt. Fred Biggs said.

Police said they had not determined a motive and the investigation was continuing. They refused to release details.

The only survivor of the shooting spree was Wall's mother, Jean Wall, 55. Detectives said Wall took his mother from their home to a motel, where she called police after he left.

Wall was arrested behind the YMCA, where authorities said he was looking for Beck, who was there for an evening exercise class. Police said he was carrying a gun matching the caliber of the murder weapon.

"What we have here is a monumental tragedy in our community," Kraugh said.

House OKs uniting on trucking rates

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The House has voted 93-39 to let truckers present a united front on rate matters before the Texas Railroad Commission without running afoul of state anti-trust law.

Final passage, expected next week, would send the bill to Gov. William Clements for signature.

Rep. Lynn Nabers, D-Brownwood, said the bill essentially ratifies the status quo, particularly for truckers.

The way it works, individual truck companies don't recommend rate changes to the Texas Railroad Commission but present a united front through rating bureaus.

Bus lines and railroad companies also would be allowed by the bill to work through rating bureaus without risking state anti-trust suits.

Reps. Tom DeLay, R-Wallis, and Ted Lyon, D-Mesquite, distributed a telegram from the U.S. Justice Department shortly before the debate. Assistant U.S. Attorney General John Shenefield said the bill was similar to a Georgia law struck down by a federal court Wednesday.

"I believe that the proposed Texas legislation would meet a similar fate," Shenefield said in the telegram.

Nabers said, however, Georgia's law was different because rates proposed by the rating bureaus automatically took effect when filed unless someone lodged a protest with the state utility commission.

"In Texas, the railroad commission sets the rates" after public hearings, Nabers said.

He said the bill would allow a situation to continue that is cheaper for the state than processing large quantities of individual rate requests.

Lyons said the rating bureaus were anti-competitive, and DeLay asserted, "I just can't believe this Legislature is going to do something so anti-free enterprise."

Nabers said Texans have not suffered higher rates because of the use of rating bureaus.

"Rates are a lot cheaper in Texas than they are interstate," he said.

Police chief opposes beards on officers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police Chief Charlz Gain says his men will soon be "the laughing stock of the country," because the Police Commission is allowing them to grow beards.

The commission was petitioned by 120 officers who asked to be allowed to wear neatly trimmed beards, something that had not been allowed in nearly 50 years. The commission agreed with the officers in a 4-1 vote late Wednesday.

"It simply does not enhance the appearance of police officers in uniform to have beards," the clean-shaven Gain said.

However, undercover policeman Theodore Schlink III told the commission: "We should be representative of the community and its values. If we look like the community of 15 years ago, we'll reflect attitudes from that era."

Car jumps curb, strikes house

Minor damage was the result Thursday when a car struck a house at 1901 Pecan Street, police said.

A car driven by Henry Vanard Long, 23, 1904 Nash Ave., jumped the curb at the Pecan Street address after the driver failed to negotiate a turn from Pecan Street on to Nash Avenue, police said.

Long was treated for cuts on his leg and released from Midland Memorial Hospital, police said.

Damage to the car was minor, according to police.

Congress has any number of matters of tremendous importance to the nation and its citizens, yet it began work Wednesday on legislation which would give members of the House and Senate a $50-a-day income tax deduction to help offset the cost of living in Washington.

Midland's senior citizens offered variety of activities

Midland has a surprising number of things going for its senior citizens. Mrs. Marion Fisher told members of the Downtown Rotary Club Thursday noon at their meeting in the Midland Hilton.

Mrs. Fisher, who was introduced by Dr. Charles Lutrick, program chairman for March, is director of Senior Services of the First Christian Church. She is a veteran worker in the program and is responsible for many of the present services provided for senior citizens.

The program which she supervises at First Christian is ecumenical and community-wide in its outreach.

She discussed the overall program of senior services from an "affirmative point of view."

Mrs. Fisher explained that practically all of Midland's 129 churches, representing 33 denominations, are engaged in one way or another in programs or activities designed to help senior citizens. Churches are made up of people, she said, and people are due the credit for the success of these projects.

The churches, individually and collectively, sponsor and support such projects as the Church Pantry, counseling, various outreach projects, Action Line Fish, Christmas in April, opening facilities to various groups, and the distribution of discretionary funds to persons in need. She also cited projects sponsored by the Midland Association of Churches. Thousands of volunteers work on these projects, she said.

The Meals on Wheels and the Share a Meal Plan were cited by the speaker as being particularly outstanding.

Mrs. Fisher mentioned a number of the offered by Senior Services at First Christian Church, such as Craft Club, Operation Show-Case, workshop on income tax preparation, help in preparing Medicare and Medicaid forms, Dental Clinic, telephone reassurance program, Handyman Service, employment referral, Casa de Amigos lunch program, worship services at nursing homes, and seasonal camps for older residents.

The program was the last of five on "people services" presented at the Rotary Club during March.

Menacing twisters hit Iowa

By The Associated Press

About half of a small Iowa town is in shambles today after a tornado — one of 18 confirmed by the National Weather Service — roared across the nation's midsection, leaving a trail of hail and flash floods and booming thunderstorms.

At least 16 persons in the Iowa farming community of Braddyville were injured Thursday and a closed elementary school and several homes were leveled. At least four more persons were injured in nearby Madison County.

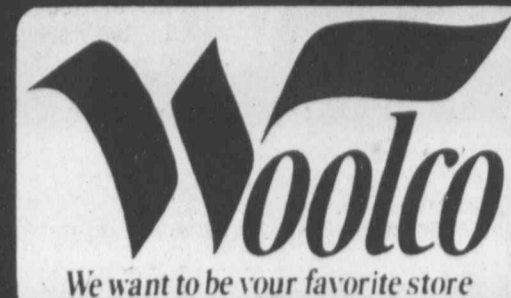

The weather service said 10 tornadoes hit Iowa. It also listed two tornadoes each in Texas, Oklahoma and Missouri, and one each in Kansas and Colorado. No injuries or damages were reported, however.

The first Iowa twister struck the northern part of Braddyville in Page County about 6 p.m., knocking down power lines and rupturing natural gas tanks.

Four people were admitted to a hospital in nearby Clarinda while more than a dozen others were treated at the scene.

In Madison County, where twisters hit a few hours later, an elderly couple was injured when a tornado struck a house two miles south of St. Charles and two others were injured in extreme southern Madison County, just north of Lorimer. Others were coming in to the Winterset hospital for treatment of minor injuries. Union County Deputy Sheriff Jule Sturzenegger said a tornado "took a swath through about half of the county." A Union County man's car he was driving down highway 34 just east of Afton.

Carter expected to sign U.S.-Taiwan legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, with some misgivings and despite protests from Peking, is expected to sign legislation clearing the way for informal relations between the United States and Taiwan.

The legislation includes a declaration that economic or military threats to Taiwan would be "of grave concern to the United States."

The compromise bill went to the White House after passing the Senate on an 85-4 roll call vote Thursday. It had cleared the House Wednesday by a 339-50 margin.

Stay clear of Homer Harding's rattling freezer

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) — Coiled in Homer Harding's freezer were four angry rattlesnakes — frozen solid. "My wife wasn't too happy about it," he conceded the other day. Harding, majority leader of the South Dakota Senate, loaded his freezer with whirring, angry rattlesnakes last fall after he captured four and decided to freeze and stuff them.

"It sounded like a hive full of bees when they froze," he said. "They curled into the striking position and within a couple of hours they were alive but dormant. "And within two days, they were frozen solid in a classic coil," he said. Harding, an auto dealer, has been hunting rattlesnakes on the prairies around Pierre since he was a boy, and never has been bitten. "I tried to drown one once," he said. "I put him in a one-gallon jar filled with water and drove home. Two hours later, I opened the jug and he came out and struck at me. "He missed my hand," Harding said, "but he hit the jar lid instead. That was the closest I ever came." Pat Harding used to assist her husband in the hunts, before she had a close call of her own. "She squatted down to watch me catch one and there was another one right under her bottom," he said. "She hadn't seen him. But as he coiled to strike, he slipped off a clump of dirt and down into a crevice. "Now she stays in the pickup," he said. Harding usually hunts rattlers in the fall with his sons, Steve and Bill.

"It's kind of a family outing for us," he said. "My folks took me out when I was a little boy and I've been taking my sons out since they were small." For the past decade or so, the family has been capturing the eldest snakes in a large den which winters together in a prairie dog village near town. Harding wouldn't say exactly where. "The best time to go is a warm day after the first frost," he said. "They kind of ball up together so you can pick up six or eight of them at a time. "At any time, we may have 100 snakes in sight," he said. Harding said he nabs his prey with a 2½-foot pronged pole, pinning him firmly behind the head. He brings the rattlers back to the freezer in a jar if he wants to stuff them.

Karen Quinlan's 25th birthday

MORRIS PLAINS, N.J. (AP) — Behind closed doors at the Morris View Nursing Home, family members of Karen Ann Quinlan gave thanks on the 25th birthday of the woman who has been comatose for nearly four years. Five Roman Catholic priests celebrated Mass on Thursday at her bedside to commemorate the birthday, which came two days before the third anniversary of a landmark state Supreme Court ruling giving the family permission to disconnect Miss Quinlan's respirator.

The day was full of "happy memories of Karen," said her mother, Julia Quinlan.

"We really believe the Lord is using Karen," she said. "There is no medical reason why she should be alive today. She's had many infections and she's had pneumonia."

Her father, Joseph Quinlan, said that everything medically possible had been done for Karen.

Traeger seeks to end 'blind bids' for movies

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — What bowls them over on Madison Avenue might not draw as enthusiastic a reception in Pampa or Texarkana, Sen. John Traeger told a Senate committee Thursday.

Theater owners, however, had to put in their bids last fall to show "The Main Event" starring Barbra Streisand and Ryan O'Neal this summer — without having seen the film, Traeger said. He introduced two bills that would outlaw "blind bidding" and ban certain guarantees and advances exhibitors pay to movie distributors.

The Senate Economic Development Committee will continue its hearing on the measures Monday.

"If the film bombs out, the distributor gets his guarantee of $35,000. The exhibitor loses his shirt," said Traeger, D-Seguin. Exhibitors "object to having to buy a pig in a poke."

Don Adams, a former state legislator representing the Motion Picture Association of America, said passage of the bills would destroy the motion picture industry's balance.

"We've got the movies — but they've got the screens," he said.

Adams said the association is made up of 10 major film distributors.

"Fiscal disputes like this should be resolved in the marketplace," he said. "There is no public safety involved. ... The taxpayers' rights are not at stake."

He said producers and distributors assume a risk when they decide to put up the capital for a film.

"This is a risk business," Adams said. "The advances are simply a pledge of credit."

The Ohio law against blind bidding is presently being tested in federal court, he added.

Christopher Meacham, of the National Association of Theater Owners of Texas, said seven states have passed legislation similar to Traeger's proposals.

He showed the committee a copy of a letter to theater owners from Columbia Pictures asking for bids to be submitted by Feb. 22 for its unfinished Christmas release, "The Electric Horseman."

"The Electric Horseman stars Robert Redford and Jane Fonda, was directed by Sydney Pollack (The Way We Were). Need we say more!" the letter said.

It also suggested that the exhibitors offer a minimum six weeks playtime, "a substantial guarantee" and 90 percent of the take above a "reasonable house allowance."

Economic indicators decline in February

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's index of leading economic indicators declined in February by 0.9 percent, the second consecutive monthly drop, the Commerce Department said today.

The decline would have been the fourth in four months, but the department issued a revised report for December that showed an increase that month rather than the decline reported earlier.

The department also revised the index for January to show a decline of 0.3 percent, rather than the 1.2 percent reported previously.

A decline in the index for three consecutive months is considered by some economists as a sign the economy is on the brink of a recession, although this measurement is not considered foolproof.

The revision in the December index from an original 0.1 percent decline to a gain of 0.4 percent changed what would have been a four-month decline to two months instead.

Despite the revisions, the index appeared to confirm official predictions that the economy will slow sharply in the months ahead.

Courtenay Slater, the chief economist of the Commerce Department, estimated Thursday that economic growth during the first three months of 1979 has slowed to a 2 percent annual rate, down from the 6.9 percent annual rate in the final quarter of last year.

At the same time, G. William Miller, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, said he will "be happy" if the economy grows by an overall 2 percent this year, down from 4 percent in all of 1978 and less than the administration's official forecast of 2.2 percent growth in 1979.

Officials say the slower growth is necessary to ease demand for goods and services in the economy that is putting upward pressure on prices and aggravating inflation. Inflation has been running at an annual rate of more than 10 percent in the past several months.

Attorney retained

ODESSA — A group of Odessans trying to overturn results of a December $21.6 million school bond election have hired a lawyer who has filed a motion to set the stage for an appeal of a district court decision.

Odesa attorney Gloria Svanas was retained by the group earlier this week and filed in 161st District Court a motion for "findings of fact and conclusions of law."

Such a motion is a preliminary step toward appealing a decision by Judge J. H. Starley of Pecos, who rejected the group's efforts to void approval of the school bonds.

Thinking key to fitness

Want to get fit? Dr. John Farquhar has some advice.

Farquhar, professor of medicine at Stanford University and director of the university's Heart Disease Prevention Program, admits that it's tough to break the habits of a lifetime. To lose weight. Cut down on fats, salt and sugar. Stop smoking. Start exercising. Learn to cope with stress.

But he says those goals can be achieved—gradually. Farquhar believes that the key to success is as much in the thinking as in the doing. And he advises against trying to do everything at once and expecting immediate results.

The first step in his step-by-step plan for lowering the risk factors for heart disease is getting informed.

"In order for people to be motivated to change," he says, "they must have information that shows the need for change and that proves that the change can be helpful."

To that end, he points out that the nation's heart attack rate has dropped by 20 percent in the last 10 years, although it had risen by 40 percent in the previous two decades. He attributes the drop to life style changes.

"The drop has come as people have stopped smoking, begun to limit their fat intake and to get their high blood pressure controlled," he says. "To me that says that a lot of people are doing something right."

Once the motivation is established, Farquhar recommends a period of self-observation to gain a thorough knowledge and understanding of existing patterns of living.

One of the main obstacles to change, Farquhar says, is mental

Hair dryer merchandisers suspend sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — While the government tries to find out whether some hair dryers can cause cancer, two of the nation's largest merchandisers already are suspending sales of the questioned products.

J.C. Penney and Montgomery Ward suspended sales of hair dryers containing asbestos Thursday after the Consumer Product Safety Commission launched a high-priority investigation of the devices.

The two firms are continuing to sell dryers that do not contain asbestos. The commission moved after both private and government tests showed that dryers containing asbestos spew out fibers. Asbestos fibers, if inhaled, are considered by scientists to be a potent cause of cancer and other serious diseases.

The commission said that of the 50 million hair dryers in home use, "perhaps 12.5 million hair dryers manufactured with asbestos insulation remain in use by consumers."

The agency issued a "special order," which is similar to a subpoena, to the nine largest manufacturers of hair dryers.

The order calls for information on whether the manufacturers have ever made hair dryers containing asbestos and, if so, which models. This would enable the commission staff to provide consumers with a list of hair dryer models containing asbestos, including those no longer on sale.

The commission sent telegrams calling for top executives of the nine firms to come to Washington for a meeting with the commissioners early next week.

In advance of the meeting, Montgomery Ward and J.C. Penney took off the market their hair dryers that contain asbestos. Sears, Roebuck and Co. and one of the major manufacturers, North American Phillips Corp., said they already had stopped offering dryers with asbestos. North American Phillips makes Norelco hair dryers.

DEAR ABBY

Baby makes heaven for couple

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: When my parents were first married, they tried for years to have a child, but could not. They finally gave up hope and adopted me. Two years later they adopted my brother. I am now 19.

After 24 years of marriage, my mother became pregnant! She was 47 and my father was 55. They were thrilled, and are now the proud parents of a baby girl. And what a beautiful baby she is!

Abby, please tell couples who think there is no hope of ever having a child to hang in there and they might be as lucky as my parents.—MARCIA

DEAR MARCIA: Your parents are luckier than some who become parents in their later years.

My medical expert, Dr. John A. Haugen, a fine obstetrician and gynecologist for over 40 years says, "A child born of a woman in her 40s runs a much greater risk of being defective." (Particularly Down's Syndrome—better known as mongolism.)

True, tests can be done in mid-pregnancy to detect abnormalities. If an abnormality exists, the pregnancy can be terminated but this (the test) is quite a major undertaking. Also, mothers in their 40s are more apt to have complications and more difficult labors. Finally most parents in their 60s find raising teenagers no picnic.

DEAR ABBY: I went to a doctor who examined me and said I needed some medicine. He didn't write out a prescription. Instead, he called his brother's drugstore and told him to have the medicine ready for me, that I'd be over to get it in a few minutes.

I was quite surprised that I wasn't given a written prescription and allowed to have it filled at my own pharmacy. I also was angry because this doctor's brother charges much higher prices than the pharmacist I usually trade with.

One of my friends asked this doctor for a written prescription. He got mad at her and refused to give her one.

Abby, shouldn't people be given their own choice of pharmacies?—MRS. O. J.

DEAR MRS. O. J.: The doctor is clearly operating outside the bounds of ethical medicine. Change doctors. And be sure to tell him why you're leaving.

DEAR ABBY: I am 10 years old and ashamed of my mother. She tells the biggest lies, and she gossips a lot on the telephone. She will talk to one lady and pretend to be her best friend, when she is really her worst enemy. How can a person be so two-faced and then tell me that if I tell a lie God will punish me?—ASHAMED OF MOM

DEAR ASHAMED: Do as your mother SAYS, not as she does. Perhaps your mother will read this and realize that although "example" is not the ONLY teacher, it is one of the most powerful.

Are your problems too heavy to handle alone? Let Abby help you. For a personal unpublished reply, write: Abby: Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

School spirit encouraged at Bowie School

In an effort to encourage school pride and spirit, Spirit Day will be held every Friday at Bowie Elementary School until school is out.

The announcement is made by Barbara Greene, Bowie School PTA projects chairman.

"All students will be asked to wear the school colors of red and white, and many will be wearing Bowie Bulldog shirts," she said.

A trophy will be presented each week to the classroom which has the highest percentage of students wearing red and white. A class who wins the trophy three weeks in a row may keep the trophy. At the end of the May school term, the classroom which has won the trophy most often will be given a celebration.

Message for men: Look cool

By BETTY OMMERMAN
Newsday

"Look cool even if you don't feel cool." That seems to be the message being foisted on the male of the species this season, even for those who would rather stick with the kinds of styles — cool or not — that they've always loved.

One way to look and feel cooler, according to the recent Men's Fashion Association showing, is to pick accessories with lots of open-weave or perforated hats, sweaters and shoes.

—That old favorite, the brimmed straw hat worn during vacations in tropical islands, is being shown in a modified version for men in this country. Meant for business or relaxation, they're in either raffia or Panama straw. Though most come with the traditional center crease, a few have criss-cross crowns that resemble a pith helmet. Wide or narrow grosgrain or braided rawhide bands add dash to these toppers.

"Women like to wear them as well as men," said designer Marsha Akins, who started out in women's millinery. "So you'll find these styles in a wide range of colors."

Some men queried at the national convention in Los Angeles admitted they would have no qualms about wearing a pastel shade to complement their shirt color. As for pink, one man remarked: "It depends on how good a runner you are."

—Sweaters and vests become the "in" look when worn next to the skin. String knits in natural and synthetic fibers, and mesh polo shirts, sometimes with Terry bands across the chest for perspiration-absorption, help a man keep his

"cool" during a hot spell.

—Shoes take on a slightly dressier look than in past summers, when any kind of foot attire would do. But the end result is still one of comfort. "Toes are rounder and leathers are softer than ever," said Barbara Molotsky of The Sole Leather Council. "Captoed oxfords replace wingtips and padded insoles make walking less tiring."

Also making the feet feel cooler are the number of slip-on styles with perforated or hand-woven uppers. Crepe rubber soles go well with casual slacks and jeans; while leather soles and stacked leather heels are being shown for business and discos. Whites and off-whites are "in," provided that patent leather is avoided. Copper shades are making inroads, and tones ranging from honey blonde to beige and chestnut to luggage tan are also popular. For anyone partial to a Retro look, there are the saddle shoes and camp moccasins.

—Ties continue on the slim side, with the 2 1/2 inch width favored by the avant-garde. The more conservative, according to Mike Toth, a spokesman for Wembley Industries, still looks for the 3 1/4-inch width. The more-fashionable man also looks for natural fibers instead of synthetics or synthetic-and-natural blends. "Raw, tussah silk and neat foulards are the important neckwear trends," said Chip Tolbert, fashion director for the Men's Fashion Association.

—Belts vary in width from three-quarters of an inch to 2 1/2 inches. The larger width is often done in heavy cotton webbing trimmed with leather tabs and fastened with bright brass buckles. The narrower versions are usually in leather and worn traditionally through the belt loops for a dressier look.

Visually impaired aided

The Delta Gamma Alumnae Association learned recently how their donation to Mrs. Robert Cornelius, teacher in the Midland Independent School district, will help local visually handicapped students.

Mrs. Cornelius, who works with 18 visually handicapped children in 14 Midland schools, purchased a new program for teaching students to read Braille. For the first time, a system has been devised which helps develop Braille reading skills through tactile exercises, she said. The approach is systematic and accelerates the learning process, she added.

"All of my students have vision difficulties, but most are not blind, and read large print books instead of Braille," she explained. Most of her teaching is spent in tutoring the older and younger students and participating in reading and listening activities, in addition to Braille reading and writing, and abacus for the blind students.

Mrs. Cornelius' students range in age from four years to 18 years. The Delta Gamma Alumnae Association also learned that almost any educational tool or game can be adapted to fit the particular needs of the blind and visually handicapped. Teaching aids include rulers, tape recorders, math aids and talking calculators which have a keyboard similar to a touch telephone. However, the answers are "heard" rather than "seen". Other aids include maps with topographic features, checkers, Chinese Checkers, dominoes, Master Mind, ordinary playing cards and Scrabble.

In its continuing efforts to serve the blind and visually handicapped, Delta Gamma Alumnae groups and active members throughout the United States teach skills ranging from skiing and ice-skating to very early education of children in the field of eye safety.

On the local level, the group has the alternate option of making donations to those persons or projects in the community whose needs are most pressing. Monies donated to Mrs. Cornelius and others were received from the recent bi-annual fund raising drive.

Mrs. Joe Solari, left, Delta Gamma Alumnae Association member, and Mrs. Robert Cornelius, teacher of visually handicapped students in the Midland school district, examine the new teaching program for students. The Association made a donation which enables Mrs. Cornelius to purchase a program that teaches students to read Braille. (Staff Photo)

Cushion the hose nozzle

By AL CARRELL

One reason we get so many hints on the uses for old garden hoses is because this is a widely used and abused item. People leave them out on the driveway so the car can run over them or hide them in the grass so they can test out the newly sharpened lawn mower blade. I'd like to pass along some of the tips on care and maintenance for hoses so there won't be so many that have to be junked. Here's a good idea. The metal ends of a hose will not support a 4,000-pound automobile. So if you like to leave the hose on the driveway, why not cut a hole in a sponge rubber ball and force the end of the hose into the ball? Pull it through just far enough to expose all the threads so you can put the nozzle on. Now when you run over the thing, the rubber ball will cushion the weight. Here are some more hose related tricks.

more rigidity, I drove a steel rod into the ground next to the hydrant and clamped the two together. The rod sticks up a few inches above the hydrant, so when I remove the nozzle, I slip it over the rod to be held there until needed. — D.W.A.

A SUPER HINT — If you leave a hose out, someone will come along and steal it. Many times damage is done to a garden hose while it's stored. Some folks carefully roll up the hose and then hang it on a nail in the garage. The small size causes the hose to crimp, which can cause damage. I've seen some better things to hang a hose from. One reader screwed the bottoms of seven coffee cans flat to the wall with the open ends facing out. The cans were grouped together to form a circular shape over which the hoses were hung. The open cans provided bins for garden tools. Another involved mounting an old bucket to the wall with the bottom flat to the wall. The idea is to provide a well-rounded hanger that won't hurt the hose.

Dear Super: If you have a hose washer that lets water seep out around the faucet or nozzle, take the washer out and reverse it. The new surface will probably stop the leak for at least another season. — J.F.

Adult 4-H leaders meet

Midland County 4-H Adult Leaders Association met Tuesday in the Extension Office. Walter Zimmerman presided.

Mrs. Don Collier reported on the District Six 4-H Adult Leaders Association meeting held in Ft. Stockton. Workshops on Record Books and Method Demonstration were conducted at that meeting, as well as a business meeting. A new recognition program has been instituted this year for the Outstanding Boy and Girl in the district. The next meeting is set for September at Ft. Davis.

Judy Germany and Travis Harney, extension agents, reported on the progress of Method Demonstration Competition, Livestock Judging Team, Horse Judging Team and Grass Identification Team. The 4-H Horse Club announced that the 4-H Drill Team is being reactivated after a year's rest. Kenneth Lynch is coach and practice sessions are being held at the Exhibit Building Arena.

The Association made tentative plans for a 4-H Fun Day. Plans are for projects and activities to be presented to the public. At the same function, games and contests for 4-H members and visitors will be held.

Improper diet may cause listlessness

Dear Dr. Solomon: Is there any evidence that improper diets can cause serious emotional problems such as schizophrenia or criminal behavior? What is the effect on children of diets high in carbohydrates?—Mrs. A.L.D.

Dear Mrs. D.: Children who are not properly nourished may be listless, inattentive, and, possibly, hyperactive. Nor are these symptoms limited to children. Adults lacking a proper diet may also show signs of weakness, listlessness and fatigue. However, a link between improper diet and serious emotional problems, such as schizophrenia, has not been established.

When given a choice between junk foods and those with good nutritional value, a child will often choose the former. This dulls their appetites for regular meals and establishes poor food habits. The Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Assn. is on record as opposing, for this reason, the sale of confections and carbonated beverages in school lunchrooms.

Dear Dr. Solomon: My 14-year-old son has asthma which generally is well controlled. He plays ball with his friends and, as a rule, engages in all of their activities. During the winter months, however, one of these activities will occasionally trigger an asthma attack. Is this unusual and what, if anything, can be done about it?—Mrs. E.W.

Dear Mrs. W.: I've observed in my patients that cold air may be a factor in triggering an asthma attack during exercise; however, additional study is needed before a definitive cause-and-effect relationship can be established. Researchers at the National Jewish Hospital and Research Center in Denver note that running in cold weather seems to be the most harmful combination, while swimming in a heated indoor pool seldom causes an attack. Breathing through the nose rather than through the mouth may help avoid exercise-induced attacks, since nose breathing moistens the air, adjusts its temperature, and removes some airborne particles from it.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Will a baby be born with syphilis if the mother is infected?—Pam C.

Dear Pam C.: The baby will be free of syphilis if the mother received treatment during the first four months of pregnancy. If she is not treated within this time, she can transmit the infection to her child. The child can be born deformed or even dead.

Dear Dr. Solomon: What are the symptoms of sickle cell anemia?—Mr. T.C.

Dear Mr. T.C.: There are many different symptoms of sickle cell anemia. Some people have all of them; others have some of them. Sickle cell anemia patients get pale, tired and short of breath. They have pain in their arms, legs, back and abdomen. They lose their appetite. Their eyes take on a yellow cast. Their joints sometimes swell up. Usually, their bodies do not grow and develop as fast as they should. They have low resistance to infections.

Simulation training offers reality of combat

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A Navy pilot is at the controls of his F-4J jet fighter when two hostile aircraft appear at port and starboard sides. He begins to take evasive action.

The fighter pilot fires a Sidewinder missile at one of the enemy planes, hitting it and sending it down in flames. But he makes a critical mistake, fails to maneuver his own jet out of danger and is in turn blown up by the second attacker.

Fortunately, the pilot lives to learn from his mistake. He has been undergoing simulation training, making believe in a highly graphic, realistic fashion — the closest he will come to actual combat outside of war.

In Europe, several battalions engage in tactical field combat maneuvers with laser weapons. Instruments record "hits,"

"kills" and "near-misses" on men, tanks, emplacements and other targets.

Near Pearl Harbor, crewmen of U.S. nuclear submarines are perfecting submerging and surfacing techniques and conducting combat-training operations, all without going to sea.

Laser-shooting tanks and rifles. Computerized jet-fighter dogfights. Mock anti-submarine warfare.

All of these sophisticated military training systems, and hundreds more, are creations of a little-known research and development facility in Florida with the unglamorous name of Naval Training Equipment Center.

The Orlando-based Navy command is becoming an indispensable contributor to the operational readiness of the Army, Navy and Air Force by developing systems and devices to improve training effectiveness.

The name of the game is simulation — the faithful reproduction of actual, on-the-scene conditions.

"We do this in a variety of ways — electronically, with computers, graphics, mechanics or a combination of all of these," says Walter Chambers, program manager of the latest tool being developed at the Training Equipment Center: a $10.5-million advanced flight simulator system.

NTEC is a small but unique military facility employing a staff of about 800, 95 percent of them highly trained civilians. Many have advanced degrees in science, engineering, behavioral psychology and other technical fields.

Taking orders directly from the Chief of Naval Operations and the Pentagon, the center meets the training needs of the Navy and other services by researching, designing, developing and procuring equipment and devices which are used to train personnel to fly, shoot, repair or operate the real thing.

In its special role, the center deals directly with private contractors, suppliers and scientific firms, spending more than $1 billion a year. Simulation has created a new military industry in a few short years.

Perhaps the center's most important role is creating the conditions necessary for combat training in peacetime.

"Simulation offers dramatic opportunity to provide excellent combat training in the face of diminishing budgets, in face of energy crisis and in face of restricted air space." Air Force Brig. Gen. Walter B. Ratliff told a recent industry conference in Orlando.

Judge orders TB probe in prisons

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Citing fears that tuberculosis could spread throughout Florida, a federal judge says he will order an investigation into a report that one-third of the state's prison inmates are infected with the disease.

Senior U.S. District Judge Charles R. Scott said Wednesday that he learned of the report from a newspaper article quoting Dr. E. Charlton Prather, state health officer, as saying the situation was serious.

"The problem not only affects prisoners but visitors going to the prisons," Scott said. "If they come in contact with the inmates, as they do, they could go out of the prisons carrying tuberculosis to other people all over Florida."

Six face suspension for 'frolics'

MIDDLETOWN TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Six of Snow White's seven dwarfs dropped their pants at the conclusion of a high school skit to give the audience a surprise ending.

The dwarfs, student actors in the Middletown North High School Student-Faculty Frolics, now face suspension for their bare-bottomed antics.

"It was misplaced humor," Assistant Principal Peter Smith said. "It was a spontaneous act on the part of some students who thought it would be a humorous thing to do."

Because of the incident, school officials canceled next year's Frolics, produced by the senior class to raise money for the Senior Ball.

Dennis Kane, school district public information officer, said the six students face suspensions of one to three days. He said the seventh dwarf probably was "Bashful."

Kane said other students in the show also face punishment for socially unacceptable behavior during the performance.

Their scores will be considered in choosing textbooks and designing curriculums, the TEA said.

The sap runneth over; How sweet it will be

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — A cloying sweet smell envelops the house these days. Huge pots, the biggest we can find, are steaming away on the stove. The kitchen windows are misted over; the walls damp with humidity.

For the first time ever, we are making our own maple syrup.

Sweet revenge is being exacted from the smug sugar maples for the tons of leaves they dumped on our lawn last fall. It may amount to only an ounce or two of revenge, enough to cover a single stack of buckwheat cakes or a waffle or two, because they tell me it takes 40 gallons of sap to make one gallon of syrup, but how sweet it will be.

All those autumn Saturdays spent raking and bagging and hauling to the dump will find vindication some day soon in one great glorious breakfast. There is more to this maple syrup business than running out in the yard with a plate of pancakes and giving the nearest deciduous hardwood of the genus Acer (as we say in syrup circles) a big bear hug.

FIRST, YOU MUST bore a hole in the bark of the tree about three inches deep and three or four feet from the ground. Next, insert a metal spout that can be bought from the local hardware store for what it would cost to buy a decent-sized bottle of ordinary pancake syrup, the kind made with sugar cane and not maple sugar, which isn't the same thing at all. From the spout, you hang a bucket or a large plastic jug.

All this must be timed to the end of winter and the first faint promise of spring. Cold, cold nights are needed, followed by suddenly warm, sunny days. And then one fine, frosty morning you run out on the porch and hear the neighbors yell: "Here comes the sap now." or "See the sap running," or something like that.

"Mushegeneh" I've also heard them cry, which I believe is Yiddish for putting maple syrup on potato pancakes, otherwise known as candy knishes. Or is it lokkes?

No matter, hearing the drip, drip of that crystal clear sap into the bucket is no less than being in tune with one of nature's miracles. It is like driving a bung starter into Joyce Kilmer's "Trees" and drawing off the essence of poetry. The sweet silver blood stream of life is surging once again through the blue veins of winter. We sap suckers get quite lyrical.

Some days two or three gallons will seep from a single tree. Some mornings, after a particularly cold clear night when the morning star lingers late on the horizon, the sap is found frozen in diamond-like chunks at the bottom of the bucket. Hauling it to the stove you feel like Grandma Moses playing hokey from a Christmas card.

THE INDIANS KNEW about maple syrup long before the white intruders sprinkled his hunting trails with all night diners and fast food pancake emporia. They collected the sap in birchbark containers and tossed heated stones into the sap to boil it down, a tedious process that allowed plenty of time for the invention of the hotcake. This was their version of flapjacks made of hominy grits or corn flour, which later caught on down South in a boiled version unredeemed by golden maple syrup but doused in something called red-eyed gravy. Grits, otherwise known as Carolina caviar.

When Ellsworth Bunker was ambassador to Saigon, he always served maple syrup over ice cream for dessert at official dinners. It was a fixture on the agenda, more certain than pacification of eventual victory, at every press briefing at the ambassadorial residence. Bunker, who has a farm in Purney, Vermont, tapped his own trees like all genuine Yankees and had the syrup flown in by diplomatic courier in the official pouch.

This may have accounted for his smooth handling of even the stickiest problems and vice versa, although the fact that maple syrup never replaced nuoc mam, the Vietnamese dried fish sauce, in the minds and hearts of the people should have indicated the way things were going out there.

We used to joke that even when the U.S. Embassy was under attack during the Tet invasion the Viet Cong infiltrators never did manage to find Bunker's bunker, the ambassador's secret hiding place, if indeed he had one. Over government-issue ice cream, doused in real Vermont maple syrup, we used to wonder too how close the sappers had come to tapping the sap supply. Intercepting a diplomatic pouch might have led them to believe the Americans had perfected a new sweet smelling brand of plastic, the sticky explosive that figured in so many terrorist incidents during the French regime in Indochina.

LISTENING TO THE ping ping of the sap oozing out of my two tall maple trees makes me wonder now how many acres of maples the ambassador had to tap on his Vermont farm to sweeten the bill of fare at those weekly press dinners. Certainly there is no shortage of sugar maples in his part of the country.

I went to college in Vermont, which leads the nation in maple syrup production, although its 45,000 pounds-a-year is only one-tenth of what Quebec produces. Marlboro College even had a course in maple syrup sugaring off. A chemistry student named John Bartlett improved on the curriculum by finding a method of distilling the sap into a high potency white lightning that we nicknamed "Northern Comfort."

Protests against cutback of bases minimal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proposed cutbacks at military bases throughout the country have triggered calls for congressional hearings and meetings with high-level defense officials to review the decisions.

Overall, however, there was not a large outcry on Capitol Hill Thursday against the reductions, which would trim defense jobs in 36 states and the District of Columbia.

Thirteen states would wind up with a net increase in jobs. Only Vermont is not affected by the proposals announced Thursday.

The Defense Department's plan calls for closing, cutting back and consolidating operations at 157 military bases — eliminating 44,500 military and civilian jobs.

Ohio's congressional delegation is seeking an appointment with Defense Secretary Harold Brown to determine whether the expected savings are enough to justify the financial hardships that would result, according to a spokesman for Sen. Howard Metz-baum, D-Ohio. Ohio and Florida are the two states hardest hit by the cutbacks, with Ohio losing 5,362 military and civilian positions and Florida losing 5,365.

One of the strongest protests was registered by New Jersey's congressional delegation, which is fighting to save the huge recruit training center at Fort Dix.

"I intend to challenge their data and fight this proposal every inch of the way," said Rep. Bill Hughes, D-N.J.

Texas would lose Goodfellow Air Force Base at San Angelo but still wind up with a net gain of military jobs. Even so, Sen. John Tower of Texas, ranking Republican on the Armed Services Committee, said he could not agree with the decision to close Goodfellow.

"The Armed Services Committee will take a long, hard look at the Air Force budget, and I intend to examine every facet of base construction and operating costs in the greatest detail," Tower said.

Sen. William Armstrong, R-Colo., called the proposed closing of the Aerospace Defense Command in Colorado Springs "the latest in a series of steps which leave the United States almost completely helpless before an air attack by manned bombers or ballistic missiles."

When will Goodfellow be closed?

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Air Force sources are years apart on their interpretations of just when Goodfellow Air Force base will close its gates as part of a wide-ranging economy move announced in Washington Thursday.

Col. Don Weaver, commander of the 3480th Technical Training Wing, said Thursday that an announcement he received ticketed the closing for the fiscal year beginning in late 1983.

In Washington, Joe Meitz, principle deputy assistant secretary of the Air Force, said the phase-out would be completed a year after completion of a 90-to-120-day study on personnel distribution from the base.

Meitz told his version of the story to Sens. Lloyd Bentsen and John Tower of Texas. A Bentsen spokesman told the San Angelo Standard-

Times that Meitz was sure of his timetable.

"There appears to be disagreement between the various Air Force spokesmen as to when the closing will take place," the spokesman said.

Weaver told a news conference that the Goodfellow staff has "done everything we can to sell" the idea of keeping the base open.

Goodfellow has about 1,000 military personnel, 300 civilians and more than 1,000 students.

Ford, Chrysler to close seven assembly plants

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. will shut seven assembly plants next week to reduce inventories of unsold vehicles.

The closings of three Ford auto plants and one auto and three truck plants by Chrysler were announced Thursday, and will mean at least week-long layoffs for 22,100 production workers.

Ward's Automotive Reports, in its weekly production forecast, said U.S. truck production for the year through Saturday should set a record for any quarter and would be 17 percent higher than figures for the same period last year.

His pot was hot

DENTON, Texas (AP) — Authorities fretting over radiation leaking from a nuclear power plant in Pennsylvania probably have the sympathy of North Texas State University se-

Witness connects spiking of urine, union activities

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — The plutonium spiking of Karen Silkwood's urine samples was directly related to her union activities, an Atomic Workers union investigator contends.

Steve Wodka, 30, of Bethesda, Md., said Thursday that the dates suspect samples were taken correspond to dates of union-related events such as a decertification election and contract negotiations.

After chemical analysis determined plutonium found in the samples was not in the urine when it was passed, Wodka said the union requested investigations by the then-Atomic Energy Commission and the FBI. The AEC did nothing, he said, and the FBI investigation began two months after Miss Silkwood died in a car wreck Nov. 13, 1974.

Miss Silkwood's survivors are suing Kerr-McGee, owners of the nuclear fuel plant where she was a lab technician, alleging negligence in the contamination of her and her apartment the week of Nov. 5, 1974. Kerr-McGee contends she contaminated herself, possibly to dramatize claims about conditions at the plant near Crescent, Okla.

Wodka said he went to Oklahoma City the day after Miss Silkwood and her apartment were found to be heavily contaminated with radioactivity. He said the company was not providing Miss Silkwood with medical attention.

Miss Silkwood had been asked by the union to gather documentation of her claims that Kerr-McGee was falsifying nuclear fuel rod quality control reports.

nior Michael Cochran. Cochran's crock was, in the jargon of atomic energy, a hot pot. Worse than that, the pot bragged about its properties.

"Restores that vital natural element — radioactivity — to water in the same average strength as the most healthful springs of the world," reads the label on Cochran's Radium Ore Revigator, a kind of crock with a faucet at the bottom.

Cochran had read about an Oregon woman whose antique urn was diagnosed as being radioactive. He thought of his antique Revigator, which had been using as a flower pot and decorative item.

The Revigator had fallen from favor and was stored in a garage. Cochran took his circa 1912 pot to an NSTU physics professor, Dr. Pat Windham.

Windham passed a Geiger counter over the pot. The pot crackled. Meters showed 10 to 12 millirems of gamma and beta radiation.

"The allowable radiation per week for workers in radiation areas is about 100 per week," Windham said. "I wasn't the slightest bit worried about having it (Cochran's pot) in my office. No one is going to be around the urn for 40 hours straight. However, I wouldn't keep the thing or put food or water into it."

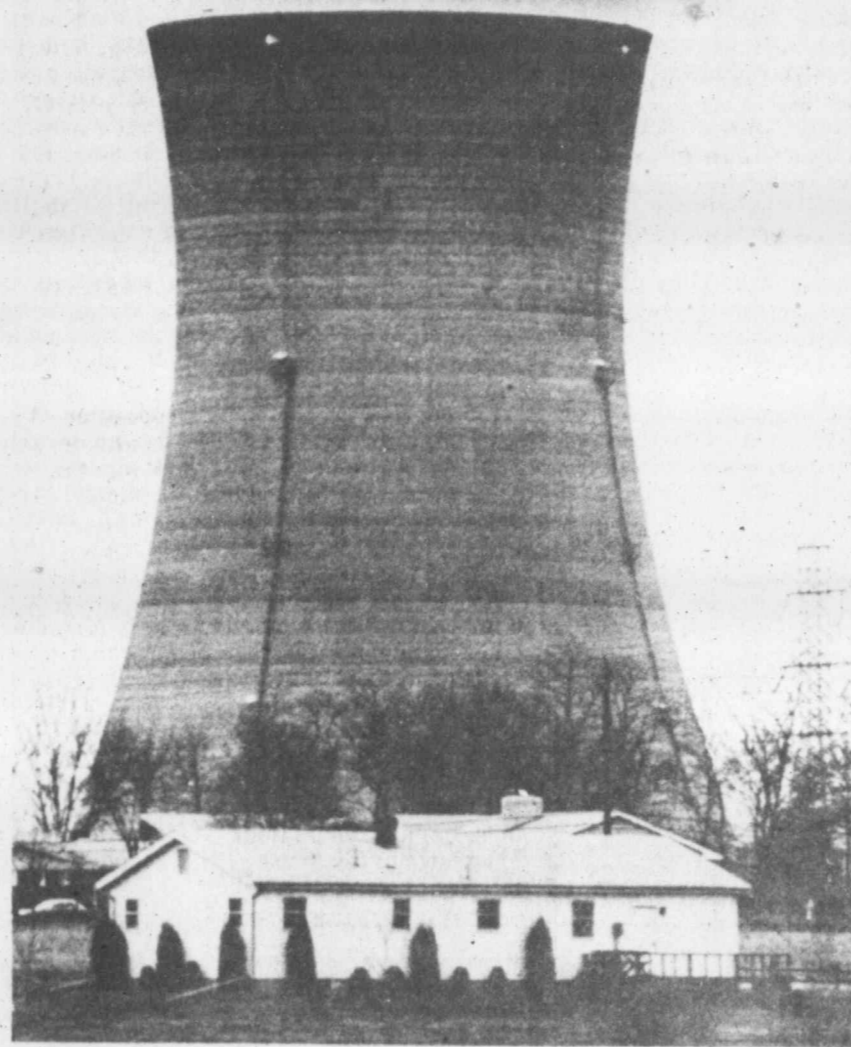

Windham said the coating inside the pot is the radioactive substance, and said radiation decay could produce a gas "somewhere down the line."

He said similar objects were popular around the turn of the century, when people were told that uranium mud baths were healthy. And he urged persons who had such items turn them in to their state department of health.

"Ingesting anything from this could be potentially dangerous," Windham said.

Cochran no longer has his hot pot. It was confiscated recently by a man from the radiation control branch of the Texas Department of Health.

"I'm glad to see the last of it," Cochran said.

Residents' opinions split as to personal safety

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — People who live in and near this city are split over whether the radioactive leak from a nuclear plant that sits almost in their backyard poses a threat to them, an Associated Press-NBC News poll shows.

While 42 percent said they were not concerned about their safety after the accident at the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant, 26 percent said they were very concerned.

But 47 percent of the Harrisburg area residents interviewed Thursday night viewed the accident as a crisis, while 37 percent did not. Sixteen percent were not sure.

The Wednesday morning accident at the nuclear plant spawned a radioactive cloud that was detected up to 16 miles away from the plant, which sits on an island in the Susquehanna River about 10 miles from the state capital.

By late Thursday, officials said there was no longer any danger for area residents.

"At this point, the danger is over for people off site," said Charles Gallina, an inspector for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

And many in the area agreed. In addition to the 42 percent who said they were not concerned for their personal safety, 7 percent said they were not very concerned.

"I see no reason to get shook up about it," said Robert Ulrich, a farmer whose home overlooks the plant. "I think they have inspectors there looking the thing over and if we were going to be contaminated they'd tell us."

And while 26 percent said they were very concerned for their safety, 22 percent said they were somewhat concerned.

Three percent of the 500 Harrisburg metropolitan area residents interviewed by telephone were not sure.

The AP-NBC News poll showed that the degree of concern for personal safety rose with the perception of the seriousness of the accident.

Few people in the area said they wanted to move away following the accident.

Nearly four out of five — 79 percent — said they would not move and 3 percent said they would move, but only to a home nearby.

Thirteen percent agreed with Gloria Beers of Middletown — the town nearest the plant — and said they wanted to move out of the area.

"I'm really scared about this," said the 24-year-old Mrs. Beers. "I told my husband last night that we should sell the house and move."

Five percent were not sure whether they wanted to move or not.

Harrisburg area residents, even in light of the accident, were less interested in moving than Americans generally. A nationwide AP-NBC News poll last year found 62 percent did not want to move, 10 percent would move nearby and 26 percent would move to some other area. The rest were undecided.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A woman's complaint her 6-year-old son "had been molested" at a day-care center has led to the arrest of the center's owner-operator.

Clean air shown to save costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The value of health benefits from cleaning up the air exceeds the cost of air pollution controls, according to a study sponsored by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Douglas Costle, EPA administrator, said Thursday the $611,000 study "showed a strong correlation between days lost from chronic illness and air pollution levels."

He added that a 60 percent reduction in air pollution levels would lead to "benefits of $40 billion a year."

The figure was derived by computing the dollar value of lost wages due to time absent from work.

Costle said that between 1970 and 1977, particulate matter in the air decreased by 12 percent, amounting to health savings of $8 billion.

"Even this figure, substantial as it is, does not take into account a number of other benefits we have already experienced," Costle added.

He cited better crop yields on farms in less polluted areas and the savings from less frequent repainting of houses in cleaner areas. In 1977, the Council on Environmental Quality estimated the nation spent $6.7 billion for air pollution controls.

BRIDGE

Calling all bridge detectives to work

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Get out your magnifying glass and bloodhounds to detect the crime in today's hand.

East won the first two tricks with the ten and queen of spades, and South won the next spade. East later got the queen of diamonds and the ace of hearts, but South took his nine tricks.

Detect the crime and criminal before you read on.

DOUBLE CRIME

Either East or West should defeat the contract.

East should know from the bidding that West cannot run the spades for a lack of a side entry. East should therefore shift to clubs at the second trick.

If East criminally returns the queen of spades at the second trick, West knows that the spades are hopeless and should overtake with the king of spades in order to shift to the jack of clubs.

A prompt shift to clubs develops two club tricks, defeating the contract.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one diamond after three passes, and the next player passes again. You hold: S-QJ10; H-A74; D-Q73; C-Q986. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two notrump, promising balanced distribution, strength in each unbid suit, and about 11 to 13 points in high cards. Partner will not read you for the usual 13 to 15 points since you could not open the bidding.

Pro-abortion rallies set

NEW YORK (AP) — Abortion advocates say they will stage weekend protests in about 20 U.S. cities and in at least 13 other countries in an "international day of action."

In New York, a member of the local chapter of the National Organization for Women said marchers would carry coat hangers dripping with blood to dramatize their complaint against the Hyde Amendment, which for the most part prohibits use of Medicaid funds for abortions.

Leaders say the rallies will call for advancements in contraception and will protest forced sterilization.

"We'll be saying 'Never again, never again,'" Denise Fuge of the New York NOW chapter said at a news conference Thursday.

Rallies also are reportedly planned in Colombia, Peru, Israel, England, France, Switzerland, Holland, Spain, Portugal, Italy, Australia and New Zealand.

'Kissing bug' victims to get serum in spite of problems

Artists protest

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sandy Duvall, who suffers a potentially fatal allergy to the "kissing bug," will not run out of desensitizing serum after all.

Mrs. Duvall is one of hundreds of victims who live in the mountains and deserts of California, Texas, New Mexico and Arizona where the bugs thrive. One death has been partly attributed to the "kissing bug," so named after a victim was bitten on the lips.

Mrs. Duvall's source of serum against the wingless half-inch bug was disrupted in October when her supplier ran out of funds. But Dr. Raymond Ryckmann of Loma Linda University says he can now supply her indefinitely.

Budget cuts prompted by Proposition 13 property tax reductions forced the state health department to give up its program for studying the pest, and department officials divided a supply of 500 bugs between Ryckmann and an entomologist at the University of California at Los Angeles. The insects are used to make the serum.

Ryckmann said he planned to breed a "kissing bug" colony large enough to supply Mrs. Duvall and other patients with the serum, which desensitizes them from their allergy.

"I know it would make a great story if I said I was grateful," Mrs. Duvall said this week from her Palmdale home. "But to tell you the truth, I'm bitter. When I think of all the months of humiliation and frustration I've gone through — writing to congressmen, having people think I'm dirty because I might have bugs in my house — I just have to cry that it's all over because of a fluke."

She still must take elaborate precautions against the bugs by shaking out her bedsheets each night during the summer.

Mrs. Duvall, 35, said there had been a few other reports of a serum supply, but none was of any help to her.

LaVonne Eldean Brodrick of Hornitos in Mariposa County died May 29, 1975, after receiving three bites from the bug, known to entomologists as "triatoma protracta."

MOSCOW (AP) — Six Russian artists have barricaded themselves inside the Moscow apartment of a collector to protest her arrest after she announced an open-air exhibit of works by more than 120 non-conformist painters, one of the protesters reported by telephone today.

Anti-Semitism alleged

NEW YORK (AP) — A 46-year old North Dakota social worker who was fired by that state's Social Service Board has filed a federal suit charging her lost his job because he is Jewish.

Civil rights lawyers believe it is the first time in American history that a state agency has been sued in federal court on grounds of religious discrimination.

The suit filed on Thursday followed an investigation late last year by the federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, which found "probable cause" that Burt Hecht had been subjected to religious discrimination.

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court for the District of North Dakota, Southwestern Division, named seven members of the Social Service Board, its executive director and four of the board's area supervisors and administrators as defendants.

It alleged that Hecht, employed by the board as a social worker in Jamestown, N.D., from September 1977 until March 31, 1978, was subjected to "repeated religious insults and slurs" by his supervisors, in violation of the U.S. Civil Rights Act.

The suit charges Hecht was "forcibly terminated" after his supervisors solicited "unfounded complaints" about his work.

Hecht, contacted by telephone at the Orange County (N.Y.) Mental Health Office where he is now employed, said his employers in North Dakota had "grilled" him when he requested a day off, without pay if necessary, for Yom Kippur, the Jewish high holy day, in 1977.

"There is no doubt in our minds that he was harassed and lost his job because he was a Jew," says Ira Gissen, an attorney for the Jewish Anti-Defamation League in New York. Hecht contacted the league shortly after his dismissal and league lawyers have been advising Hecht and his attorney, Peter Panteleo of Bismarck, N.D.

The suit seeks to get Hecht reinstated in his job, with back pay, as well as benefits and raises, court and attorney fees, and "other such relief which may be just and proper."

The board's executive director, T.N. Tangedahl, declined to comment on the suit. The board's legal counsel, Wayne Anderson, said he had not seen the suit yet and could not comment on the charges.

Shortly after his dismissal, Hecht filed a complaint against the board with the EEOC. Following the commission's determination that Hecht may have been discriminated against, it offered to mediate the dispute.

According to Hecht's lawyer, mediation failed after the state offered to give Hecht one month pay as a settlement. The offer was recently sweetened, but Hecht has insisted he wants his job back.

Former nurse plans volunteer work

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mary Rose Robaczynski, who agreed to give up her nursing license in return for the dropping of murder charges against her in four alleged mercy killings, says she may do volunteer health care work.

Mrs. Robaczynski appeared at a news conference Thursday after the state announced it would not retry her in a murder case that ended with a hung jury last week and that it would drop three other murder charges. In return, she agreed to give up her nursing license and never practice nursing again.

She said she had not had time to think about what she will do, but added: "It's possible I could do volunteer work."

She said she misses nursing. "That's what hurts the most. I loved nursing and I miss caring for people."

Mrs. Robaczynski admitted during her trial that she had unplugged a respirator attached to Harry Gessner, 48, at Maryland General Hospital in March 1978 but that she thought he already was dead because she detected no pulse.

16 die in plane crash

QUEBEC (AP) — A prominent Montreal lawyer and 15 other persons were killed when a Quebecair passenger plane crashed into a hillside, split in three parts and burst into a ball of flames, officials said today.

Eight others were injured, some seriously, when the twin-engine turboprop F-27 bound for Montreal with 24 aboard went down at 6:50 p.m. Thursday shortly after takeoff.

Officials said the pilot had trouble with his right engine and turned in preparation for an emergency landing but couldn't make it back to the Quebec City airport.

Insane may be heirs of victims

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Insane people are not capable of committing crimes, and therefore can inherit the estate of a victim whose death they caused, the California Court of Appeal has ruled.

The law says a person who "unlawfully and intentionally" causes the death of someone is not entitled to any portion of the victim's estate.

But the three-judge panel ruled Thursday that "a finding of insanity is analogous to the acquittal of murder or manslaughter."

The Marin County case involved Gloria Ladd, who was convicted of first degree murder in the deaths of her two teen-age sons but was determined to be insane at the time of the slayings. She was committed to a state mental hospital following the trial.

Mrs. Ladd's claim to the estates of her sons was fought by the youths' uncle, George Ladd, who challenged an order by Superior Court Judge Joseph Wilson that she was the sole heir.

Bitty beer bottle bill breezes by Legislature

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The "little bitty beer bottle bill," allowing sale of beer in containers as small as seven ounces, has won final legislative approval.

A 97-29 House vote Thursday sent the measure to Gov. Bill Clements' desk for signature into law or veto.

Best-known provision of the bill is the one that allows sale of beer after Jan. 1, 1980, in 7-, 8- and 16-ounce containers. Existing law permits only bottles and cans that hold 12, 24 and 32 ounces.

Texans who like to buy a keg for a patio party might have to switch to cases of cans.

The measure would prohibit distributors from selling directly to consumers, ending at-the-dock sales of kegs of beer. Keg sales could be made only by retailers such as package stores and grocers.

Opponents of the bill say most retailers lack the space and facilities to deal in kegs.

Rep. Wayne Peveto, D-Orange, urged defeat of the bill because of its "three-tier" provision that allows only retailers to sell to consumers.

"What is the public interest in guaranteeing a cut to the middleman on 100 percent of the total market in this state? Let's don't reap more scorn on this Legislature by passing this bill," Peveto said.

He said it was wrong to require a product to pass through a middleman if the manufacturer wants to sell direct.

Rep. Billy Hall, D-Laredo, said Peveto was trying to "take up for the giant industry against the Texas businessman."

Before passing the bill, the House rejected, 74-54, an amendment permitting breweries to continue selling directly to their own employees, a common practice.

Rep. Ron Bird, D-San Antonio, told the House he thought Rep. Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, the sponsor, and the beer lobby had agreed to accept the amendment.

But Lewis opposed it, saying it would "destroy the concept of the bill, to establish a pure three-tier system."

"First thing you know, the employees would be out there in the whole-sale beer business," Lewis said.

Rep. Buck Florence, D-Hughes Springs, said it was obvious the "beer lobby had the House wired" and the bill "greased" for passage.

The House also passed and sent to Clements bills that would:

- Require semi-annual review by a district judge of children in custody of the Texas Department of Human Resources, including those in foster homes. Action by a court could include returning a child to his or her parents or removing a child from an undesirable foster home.

- Allow temporary members of a private club to bring up to three guests.
- Repealing the requirement that doctors itemize charges for outside laboratory work on their bills to patients. Itemization would be available only upon the patient's request.
- House members passed, 101-29, a bill making it more difficult to become a pawnbroker. Persons wishing to open pawnshops would have to prove they have liquid assets of $50,000, compared with $25,000 now. They also would have to pay the state a $1,000 investigation fee, up from the current $250.
- Senators now must decide whether to accept amendments added by the House to the Senate-passed bill.
- In the Senate two bills were approved that Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, said would rescue residents of the Clear Lake community from double taxation. Both measures now go to the House.
- The bills would authorize Houston and the Clear Lake City Water Authority to make contracts under which Houston would furnish sewer, water, fire-fighting, roads upkeep, and drainage services.
- They also would enable Houston to return certain taxes collected by Houston from the property owners.
- Schwartz said there were other bills in the Legislature to de-annex the Clear Lake City area but he felt there was little chance of their passing. He said Houston had been unable to provide city services to the area since it was annexed two years ago.
- The Senate also approved and sent to the House a bill that would require most state agencies to get three bids from Texas packers before buying meat. Sen. Glenn Kothmann, D-San Antonio, said the bill was aimed at agencies that had bought meat from Florida, Arkansas, Indiana and other states when the same quality was available in Texas.
- House members tentatively approved a bill enabling truck, bus and railroad rating bureaus to present rate requests to the Texas Railroad Commission without breaking state anti-trust laws.
- Rep. Lynn Nabers, D-Brownwood, said rating bureaus now are packaging rate recommendations but fear they would run afoul of anti-trust statutes.
- The House also approved a Senate resolution creating a six-member committee to determine how much renovation and repair the Governor's Mansion needs. Gov. Bill Clements recommended repairs totaling $2 million.
- Senators must approve House amendments before the resolution takes effect and the committee can be appointed.

Clements received Roloff's aid

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements has acknowledged the support evangelist Lester Roloff gave him during his successful campaign against former Attorney General John Hill.

Departing from his prepared text at a rally of several thousand fundamentalist Christians on Thursday, the governor told Roloff he was "grateful to be here tonight, with you particularly."

Clements said he was aware of the faith and support Roloff helped provide for his successful campaign last fall.

"I appreciate that very much," the governor concluded.

He did not endorse the rally's declared purpose, support of legislation to exempt certain religious child care facilities from state Department of Human Resources regulations.

Clements was due to depart after the speech, but the born again fervor of the event apparently prompted him to stay longer.

The governor and the evangelist met for the first time at the rally.

"I knew we needed a new governor," Roloff said when he introduced Clements. "People laughed; they poked fun."

"But I fought; sent out over 50,000 letters," the Corpus Christi evangelist said. "God's people have decided and broken a tradition of more than a century."

Hill, the first Democrat to lose the Texas gubernatorial race in more than 100 years, had spoken of Roloff's campaign as contributing to his defeat last fall.

Roloff said he did not need the Legislature to pass a new bill to exempt his homes from state regulation. The Bible and the Bill of Rights' guarantee of separation of church and state should be enough, the evangelist said.

Roloff said he has gone to jail three times during his extended dispute with state government.

Brandishing a Bible he said, "This is my bill. We don't need to rewrite it; just reread it."

He said evidence developed by his office and presented to the grand jury could not establish

Jury fails to indict Comptroller Bullock

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Travis County District Attorney Ronald Earle says Comptroller Bob Bullock might be controversial but, "We can't prosecute people on reputation."

A months-long investigation that extended through two grand jury terms ended Thursday without indictments.

The second grand jury to look into various allegations against Bullock issued a brief report without mentioning the comptroller.

House OKs resolution that could lead to renovation of century-old Mansion

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The House has approved, 95-35, a resolution that could be the first step toward renovating the 126-year-old Governor's Mansion.

But before the resolution cleared, Rep. Bob Davis, R-Irving, suggested some Democrats had tried to use it as a political vehicle against Republican Gov. Bill Clements.

Senators now must decide whether to accept amendments added by the House.

The resolution would create a committee of two House members, two senators and two persons appointed by Clements to consult architects and state historical agencies, then report to the Legislature on the need for repairs.

Rep. Ron Wilson, D-Houston, attempted to add an amendment blocking funds for mansion renovations until Clements has signed the general appropriation bill. Clements has requested $2 million for work on the mansion.

Wilson said the mansion, built in 1853, had "been good enough for every other governor we have had."

His amendment was tabled, 65-60.

Wilson said the state could build four governor's mansions for $2 million and mentioned that some retired teachers receive only $80 a month.

"This is a waste of our money, a waste of our time... We would spend $2 million on a remodeling project, and I think we have more serious business to attend to," Wilson said.

Davis, the sponsor, said the resolution was no more than an effort to obtain information before repairing "probably the best example of architecture of that age that exists in this state."

COM enters TAGS Meet in Dallas

DALLAS — Twenty-nine City of Midland Swim Team members are here this weekend for the State Age Group Championships (TAGS) at the Loos Pool. Andy Williams was the only COM qualifier in the boys 13-14 age division, but Andrea Freeman, Gretchen Koch, Suzi Simpson and Lori Thompson qualified in the girls division. This is a strong experienced group with several potential state champions. In the 11-12 age group, Leslie Dunbar, Jana Housman, Beth Murrah, Coroline Reed and Rena Tyler will compete in the girls division while the COM boys will be Gary Gilliland, Trent Holtkort, Andrew Jordan, Karl Schmidt and Mike Seay. A lot of points are expected from this group in the battle for team totals. The largest, but least experienced, age division qualifiers for COM is the 10-under division. Many have qualified for their first state championships and will gain valuable experience in addition to adding depth to the team effort. Eric Davis, Scott Johnston, Al Reid, Russell Brown, Stephanie Eppler, Michaela Hasek, Tracey Delany, Becky Simpson and Laura Morse are participating in their first state meet. Four young swimmers who have been to the TAGS meet before are Nick Cochrane, Jay Green, Sam Perry and Alan Reed. All four will be aiming for those top eight scoring places.

Young Tiger staff keeps Moss happy with performance

By The Associated Press Detroit Tigers Manager Les Moss may be drawing straws before the weekend's over. He needs to trim his pitching staff, but his youngsters are not cooperating. "They've done everything we've asked, all of them," Moss said. "Usually they eliminate themselves, but that hasn't been the case." On Thursday, two of them combined with veteran reliever John Hiller to two-hit the Boston Red Sox, strike out 12 — including Jim Rice four times in a row — and give the Tigers a 6-2 victory. Steve Baker, a 22-year-old right-hander who appeared in 15 games with Detroit last season, started for the Tigers, striking out five and allowing both hits and both runs in five innings. Sheldon Burnside, a 24-year-old lefty who appeared in two games with Detroit last season, handled the next three innings, striking out six, and Hiller handled the last inning, chalking up the 12th strikeout — Mr. Rice again. Moss' problem is that he wants to carry nine pitchers, so he must cut Baker, Burnside or 24-year-old Jack Morris. Baker is 3-0 in spring training, and Burnside is the only southpaw on the squad besides the 35-year-old Hiller. Burnside's best pitch Thursday was a changeup. Last week, he was nursing a sore arm, and he didn't look good at the Tigers' minor league camp near Tigertown. "I was throwing 60 miles an hour," Burnside said. "I had no whip. It was from pitching so much in winter ball." But Thursday, the soreness was gone. "Yeah, boy, I got 'em — I got 'em this time," the effusive Burnside said. Detroit got all its offensive punch from Lance Parrish and Aurelio Rodriguez, who each hit three-run homers. Parrish got his in the first inning, and Rodriguez' homer came in the fourth off Boston starter Andy Hassler. After Burnside's tribulations of last week, he said Hiller told him to take a week off — not even throw a ball. He followed the advice, he said, and "it worked." Meanwhile, Moss still had another pitching problem — Mark Fidrych. Fidrych, who appeared in only three games last season because of shoulder problems, has had back spasms this spring. He says they're not bothering him now, but he'll probably go on the disabled list anyway. Fidrych threw 20 minutes of batting practice Thursday, and Moss said he looked okay. Moss said The Bird would pitch Monday at Tigertown. In other exhibition contests, the Philadelphia Phillies defeated Cincinnati 7-5, the New York Mets blanked St. Louis 4-0, Montreal edged Texas 5-4, Pittsburgh clipped Baltimore 6-5, Toronto got by Kansas City 5-3, Cleveland edged California 8-7, Oakland downed Seattle 4-2, the Chicago White Sox beat the New York Yankees 4-1 and the Chicago Cubs whitewashed San Francisco 5-0. Atlanta, meanwhile, lost a pair, the

Californian chosen to win in AL West

By HAL BOCK AP Sports Writer The balance of power may be shifting from Kansas City to California in the American League West, thanks in large part to the trading policies of the Minnesota Twins. The Twins made two major winter deals with the Angels and as a result, perennial batting champion Rod Carew is now working in California along with outfielder Dan Ford. In exchange for those two, the Angels surrendered six players, none of whom figured prominently in their 1979 plans. WHITEY HERZOG, manager of the defending champion Kansas City Royals, couldn't help but notice the Angel deals, especially the one for Carew. "What surprised me about it was they got a player of Carew's ability without giving up a single regular," said Herzog. The Royals have won three straight division crowns with essentially the same team and shoots for No. 4 with very few changes. The question is whether they'll be able to hold off the improved Angels and the ambitious Texas Rangers. After those three, Minnesota and Chicago occupy the middle of the division, with Oakland and Seattle in the rear. 1978 Finish — Kansas City, California, Texas, Minnesota, Chicago, Oakland, Seattle. 1979 Prediction — California, Kansas City, Texas, Minnesota, Chicago, Oakland, Seattle.

starters and the Mad Hungarian, Al Hrabosky, the No. 1 man out of the bullpen. Texas did some housecleaning over the winter and new Manager Pat Corrales will have a somewhat new face. The rebuilt bullpen has Sparky Lyle and Jim Kern, as good a lefty-righty combination as there is in the league. The new shortstop is rookie Nelson Norman and the new third baseman is Buddy Bell, acquired from Cleveland for Toby Harrah. Oscar Gamble, who came over from San Diego for Mike Hargrove, becomes the DH, with veteran Mike Jorgensen battling rookies Pat Putnam, Gary Gray and Dan Duren for Hargrove's old first base job. Second baseman Bump Wills completes the infield and Al Oliver, Richie Zisk and John Grubb or Bill Sample will be the outfielders, with Jim Sundberg, one of the best in the business, the catcher. FERGIE JENKINS, Jon Matlack, Dock Ellis and Steve Comer figure as the starting rotation, with Lyle and Kern ready to pick them up. Minnesota didn't exactly give Carew and Ford away and receive nothing in return. Third baseman Ron Jackson and first baseman-catcher Danny Godwin came over for Ford. Carew brought outfielder Ken Landreux and pitcher Paul Hartzell. All four figure prominently in Manager

Gene Mauch's plans for the Twins. Jackson, Goodwin and Landreux will be everyday players along with shortstop Roy Smalley and catcher Butch Wynegar. Hartzell moves into a pitching rotation constructed around newcomer Jerry Koonsman, and returnees Dave Goltz, Roger Erickson and Geoff Zahn. Free agent Mike Marshall decided to stick around and is the main man out of the bullpen. Shortstop Don Kessinger will double as the manager of the Chicago White Sox and needs some medical good luck for his club to contend. The White Sox looked like General Hospital last year with Ken Such as outfielders Claude North Washington, Chet Lemon, Wayne Nordhagen and Thad Bosley, infielders Jorge Orta and Alan Bannister and pitchers Pablo Torrealla and Ron Schueler all sidelined for extended periods. All are back in working order and could play significant roles on Kessinger's club. The Sox also have one of the most interesting rookies, 5-foot-3 Harry Chappas, who's trying to beat the manager out of the shortstop job. Torrealla joins a pitching staff headed by Francisco Barrios, Ken Kravec, Mike Prolly and Jack Kucek. The Sox also like them young arms

Thunderstorms halt spring drills

MESA, Ariz. — In the aftermath of the tornado-spiced thunderstorms that ravages the Valley of the Sun Wednesday night, no one is quite sure whether Mesa is an island isolated from Phoenix or Phoenix is an island isolated from Mesa. The one certainty is that the Salt River is on a rampage and there were only three passable bridges by which to get in or out of Phoenix, creating some super economy-sized traffic jams and lots of short-fused tempers. While the clouds hang menacingly along the distant mountain ridges, sunshine has returned but it will take a while to dry out the waterlogged turf. In fact, it would be noon before any of the players would know for sure whether they'd get any work in before sundown. WITH THE regular spring training routine of a morning practice and afternoon game interrupted, players found various ways to wile away the time. TV and perusing the morning paper were the less imaginative ways. In one room, the occupants were involved in a hot game Baseball Strategy, a game you could hear even if the contestants weren't visible from outside. Down on the motel parking lot, Lee Smith, a pitcher with Midland last year, was doing a cleaning job on his automobile engine while Aaron Randall offered advice, soon to be joined by outfielder Eric Grandy and pitcher Michael Taylor, who hopes to make it to Midland this spring after pitching for the Texas League team in spring training last year, only to be cut.

THUNDERSTORMS BATTLE SCENE SMITH AND GRANDY both are with Wichita, but are keeping their fingers crossed, while Randall, released by Midland last season, is working out with Wichita in hopes of hooking a job with the new Caribbean area AAA league. "I've had some contracts and C.V. Davis (Chicago Cubs Farm Director) is trying to help me hook on with someone," Aaron explained. "If it doesn't work out, I'll probably stay here and try to continue the work I was doing in Midland and work towards a degree in psychology at Arizona State and then return to Midland." Randall has worked with the mentally-retarded in Midland the last two winters, but feels he is somewhat handicapped in the contributions he can make by the fact that his college degree were in business and accounting. Meanwhile, with no performances to evaluate, staff meetings of coaches, manager and instructors were flavored by a little yarn-swapping. When the subject of fireballing pitcher Henry Mack, acquired from the Phils during the off season and destined for either Wichita or Midland, was brought up, Wichita Manager Jack Hiatt recalled when a high school kid named Nolan Ryan reported the Astro dome for a look one long-ago summer. "JACK STEPHENSON was catching him and they were most impressed, naturally, by his fast ball," Hiatt related. "One of the coaches asked him if he had a curve and Nolan said, 'Sure I got a curve'. Stephenson had never seen the kid before and was concentrating on where it would break. The coach then told Ryan to 'bring his fastball', only Nolan didn't give the hand signal to Stephenson. Jack didn't get his mitt up in time and suffered a broken collar bone." Hiatt continued, "Later in the year, after Ryan had pitched in the minors, he was brought back up and taken down to the bullpen to throw. Stephenson again was the catcher. He was just throwing fast balls, so Jack didn't have a mask or protector on. One of the coaches asked Ryan if he had a changeup. Ryan said, 'Sure I've got a changeup.' He signaled Stephenson for a changeup, but his changeup came in at 95 miles-per-hour. The pitch hit Stephenson right between the eyes. Twice in one season, Jack was knocked out of action by Ryan." CACTUS FLOWERS—Steve Davis, former Midland Cubs' shortstop who a second base candidate with Chicago this spring, is hitting .350 and George Riley, who pitched for Midland last year and isn't expected to stick with Chicago this year, has the best ERA of any Cubs pitcher this spring with 2.25. Arizona State, a national power as the perennial champion of the WAC, is finding life isn't so beautiful in the Pac-10. The Sun Devils are only 2-6 however, with 22 games left, there is no panic, although USC comes in this weekend for a three-game series.

Great performances in City Track Meet City track results

By RICHARD VINCENT Sports Writer More outstanding performances were recorded Thursday afternoon at Memorial Stadium in the final day of the 1979 City Junior High Track Championship. In girls competition, Alamo walked away with the seventh grade title with 193 points while Goddard was second and San Jacinto third. Goddard bagged the eighth grade division with 164 with Alamo second and San Jacinto third while Austin easily annexed the frosh crown with 105 with Edison second. On the boys side, San Jacinto took the seventh with 138 followed in order by Alamo and Goddard. San Jacinto captured the eighth with 291 as Goddard was second and Alamo third while Austin pocketed the frosh competition with 110½ with Edison second. Prez takes lead RIONEGR0, Colombia (AP)-Mexican Carlos Prez took the lead of the Rioneiro International Golf Tournament Thursday with a 5-under-par 67. Spain's Manuel Calero and Colombian Alfredo Puerto finished second at 68. Another Mexican, Ernesto Perez, tied with American Karl Lomez and Spanish Ramon Munoz with 70. Alberto Rivadeneira from Argentina had a 71.

THE GIRLS continued to pelt the record book with 10 more new bests established and two more tied. In all, 25 new records were set and three were equalled. The second day of girls action involved the field events. In seventh grade, Henderson of Alamo copped the long jump and triple jump and set records in each. During Wednesday's first round, she set records with wins in the 100 and 220. Other seventh grade field event winners were Minor of Goddard with a new best in the shot and Mathis of San Jacinto with a new mark in the high jump. Griffin of Alamo set new eighth grade standards with wins in the long jump and triple jump. Kenney of Goddard won the high jump and en route tied the record while Avila of Goddard grabbed the shot put title. AUSTIN'S OLSEN took the frosh long jump and triple jump, with record-setting efforts in each, while Riggs of Austin rewrote the shot put best and Edison's Parker tied the high jump record. Although only six boys records fell during the meet, there were some excellent contests in all divisions. Three new bests were established Wednesday, including 12-9 in the frosh pole vault by Edison's Jay Motter. Thursday in the seventh grade, Gibbs of Goddard, who set a record on the first day in the long jump, bettered both the 220 and 330 standards. Thursday's other boys record went to eighth grader Valentin Vela of San Jacinto in the 330. Joining Gibbs and Vela, who also grabbed the 660, as double winners was San Jacinto's Kyle Kitto, who took the 70 hurdles and the 230 barriers. OTHER BOYS seventh grade winners were the Alamo 440 relay, Ross Petree of San Jacinto in the 660, Terry McGowan of Alamo in the 100, Armando Padilla of Goddard in the 1320 and the Goddard 1320 relay. Eighth grade winners were San Jacinto in the 440 relay and 1320 relay, Murdar Lara of San Jacinto in the 70 hurdles, Phillips of San Jacinto in the century, Damon Polk of Goddard in the 230 sticks, Madrid of San Jacinto in the furlong and Diego Maldonado of San Jacinto in the 1320. TITLISTS IN the ninth grade were the Austin 440 relay and mile relay, Norman Young of Austin in the 660, Al Ochoa of Edison in the 70 hurdles, Stan Caston of Edison in the 100, Troy Barber of Austin in the quartermile, Bart Ryan of Austin in the 230 hurdles, Mike Swearingen of Austin in the half lap and Greg Sotelo of Edison in the 1320. One girls running final was completed Thursday as Austin won the 880 relay in record time. The top four finishers in each event from all divisions qualified for the Midland-Odessa Meet, which will be held next week at Memorial Stadium.

Chako Higuchi captures lead after round of 69

COSTA MESA, Calif. (AP) — Her swaying swing defies universal form, but Chako Higuchi, the queen of Japanese golf, is disinclined to tamper with success.

"The sway helps me get distance," explained the 33-year-old veteran.

Because of wet and soggy conditions at the 6,174-yard, par-71 Mesa Verde Country Club, distance was difficult Thursday, but her 2-under-par 69 stood alone as the first-round lead in the $150,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament.

The 5-foot-4 Higuchi mastered the front nine with three consecutive birdies and had a round of 33-36, putting her in position for her first four victory since 1977.

Missing only four greens, her steady play sent her into today's second round with a 1-stroke lead over five challengers, including Jan Stephenson. Two strokes back, among a group of seven, was Nancy Lopez, bidding for her third 1979 victory.

Higuchi, with only three American victories since joining the tour in 1970, was aided by new-found putting prowess.

"I've been hitting the ball well, but putting has been a problem. I would have won last week if I had putted well," she said, referring to her fourth-place finish in the Sahara tournament.

Because heavy rains this week, made the Mesa Verde course unplayable early Thursday, officials delayed the start of the tournament by an hour. Darkness forced two late-starting groups to quit before finishing their rounds. Those groups were to complete their first round today before beginning the second.

Joining Stephenson at one stroke back were Sandra Post, newcomer Alice Ritzman, Jan Ferraris and Bobbie Bryant.

Lopez, who started the day with a bogey, was at par 71 with Sally Little, Sandra Spuzich, Gail Toushin, Donna Young and Kathy Young.

JoAnne Carner, currently the No. 2 money-winner in 1979 behind Lopez, was three strokes off the pace at 72, as were eight others.

Stephenson said she hoped her best start in years would provide her with increased confidence and momentum. She has just three LPGA victories since joining the tour in 1976.

"I'm just terribly emotional," Stephenson said. "I always doubt myself. The only time I do well is when I get off to a start like this. You can't afford to fall down: not with Nancy out there every week."

Lopez said she was pleased with her game but disappointed at missing many birdie attempts.

The 72-hole tournament, which offers $22,500 to the winner, is sponsored by Kemper.

Carner is thankful for birdie putt on Thursday.

M-Cubs take 6-4 victory

By TED BATTLES Sports Editor

MESA, Ariz. — Outfielder Carlos Lezcano is alive, well and throwing three-for-three in the Texas League. What's more, he can count five finger tips on each hand although one is so bent it looks like an afterthought.

Lezcano is the cousin of Milwaukee's outfielder Sixto Lezcano. He came out of Florida State in 1977 to play 71 games as a pro rookie after joining the Cubs in mid-season.

Lezcano, a 24-year-old native of Prio Peidras, P.R., did little more than get his feet wet last season and was looking forward to his first full year in the Texas League last spring, planning lofty plateaus of achievement.

Maybe he was showing someone just how high he expected to go that day coming home from practice when he leaped up to touch a sign. When he came down, he left a finger, caught by a loose ring.

They sewed it back on, but Carlos was out for the year and some suspected for his career.

When Midland's trip to Sun City was wiped out by wet ground, the Texas League Cubs played big brother Wichita instead at Ho Ho Kam Park. Lezcano cracked out two singles and a triple to lead Midland to a 6-4 win.

"The finger? It feels good and it doesn't bother me at all," Lezcano assures. "In fact, the way it is bent at the end helps me dip the ball when I throw."

Lezcano adds that his performance against Wichita was no flashing appearance. "I didn't play any ball last summer, but I did play in the Puerto Rican League last winter," and led in home runs, runs batted in and stolen bases.

Outside of Lezcano and John Hartin, who singled, most of the Midland lineup consisted of strangers as far as Midland fans are concerned. However, if Mike Turgeon, a 23-year-old from Groton, Conn., starting his second season, has many more days like he did Thursday, he won't be a stranger to Midland fans for long.

Turgeon doubled twice, singled once and batted in two runs in four trips.

Bill Hayes, who caught for Midland pitchers and threw against Midland batters while batting in the Wichita lineup, had two of the six Aeros hits. Buddy Lowe, Mario Avallone and Jack Ledbetter pitched against Midland allowing 12 hits.

Hogs work on passing game

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas devoted its workout Thursday to toning up its pass rush and pass protection in preparation for Friday's first major scrimmage of spring training.

"Those are the two areas that need the most work," Coach Lou Holtz said.

After the practice session, Holtz said, "Our offensive linemen are making good progress on fundamentals. They're coming off the ball and maintaining their blocks much better."

He rated the Razorbacks' pass coverage as the best Arkansas has had in two years. "Our drops, going to the ball and tackling are all good," Holtz said.

"Our rush is not what it needs to be, but then, we have a lot of young defensive linemen," he said. "If we could combine a good rush with the coverage we're getting, I'd feel much better about our pass defense."

Holtz said his philosophy about spring training is that there should be no scrimmages until midway through training.

"We've reached that point now. Our scrimmage Friday will be a very important one. Our first meaningful depth chart of the spring will come from the scrimmage."

He said that after the scrimmage, promotions and demotions won't be made on a daily basis anymore. "It'll be tougher for a starter to be dislodged. Like in anything else, possession is nine tenths of the law," Holtz said.

Jackson brawls way into GG quarterfinals

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Clinton Jackson is after his fourth Golden Gloves crown and the 24-year-old sheriff's deputy from Nashville, Tenn., is confident he'll get it.

A four-time Amateur Athletic Union champion who boxed for the United States in the 1976 Olympics, Jackson brawled his way to tonight's quarter-finals with victories in two 156-pound bouts at the 51st National Golden Gloves tournament Thursday night.

Jackson, whose long career includes a 1975 Pan American games gold medal, pounded Anthony Dee of Kansas City, Mo., without letup to gain the decision in his first bout. He later took a decision over Charles Carter of Las Vegas.

"I'm gonna win," Jackson, 24, said afterwards. "They've got some pretty good boxers here, but I think I'll do it."

A quarter-finalist at the Montreal Olympics, Jackson says his ambition is to win at the 1980 Games in Moscow and then turn pro.

"It won't take me more than a year to win the professional title with the right coaching," he said. "Then I can make enough money to sit back and work with the kids."

He was referring to his teammates on the Nashville Sheriff's Department team fighting here under the banner of the Knoxville Golden Gloves squad: welterweight Mike McCallum, flyweight Jerome Coffee, and lightweight Johnny Bumphus. All have shots at titles this year.

In earlier 112-pound action Thursday night, Coffee, a 1977 AAU winner, bested Joe Johnson of Detroit.

A total of 113 bouts in five weight classes were on Thursday's card. Most of the top names passed early tests and moved toward Friday's 44 quarter-final matches at the Indiana Convention and Exposition Center.

Two-time AAU national champion

Elihi Jumawan of Hawaii outpointed Florida's Clifford Gray in a first-round 125-pound fight.

Jumawan, a native of Okinawa, now living in Wahiawa, Hawaii, is looking for his first Golden Gloves title.

The 5-foot-5 Jumawan was the national AAU champ at 119 pounds in 1975 and won last year's AAU 125-pound crown. However, he lost to Bernard Taylor of Charlotte, N.C., in the Gloves finals during those years.

Jumawan found himself in a close match with Gray, whom he sized up as a "very quick, very fast, very smart opponent." Gray avoided most of the Hawaiian's lightning-like combinations for two rounds.

"My corner told me I had it won," said Jumawan. "But I thought I better go out and get it." He did, preserving Gray in the third round to take the decision.

In one of Thursday night's upsets, 1978 106-pound champion James Cullins, Bladensburg, Md., was dethroned by Jeff Hanna in a second-round flyweight match.

Earlier, Cullins outpointed Orvin Flying Horse, from Chilocho, Okla., while Hanna scored a unanimous decision over Rick Ranelli of Syracuse, N.Y. in 112-pound matches.

Braves' A squad bowing 13-10 to Minnesota and their B squad losing to Houston 2-1. San Diego vs. Milwaukee was canceled because of wet grounds.

Philadelphia got two-run homers from Bake McBride and Pete Mackanin, and Pete Rose made his debut as a Phillie against his former teammates.

Rose grounded out three times and flied out once, getting a mixed reception from the Reds' home crowd at Tampa, Fla., but he said the scattering of boos didn't bother him.

"I'm not a very emotional person," he said. "It might have bothered me if I really didn't want to leave (Cincinnati) in the first place."

McBride's homer came in the fifth, and Mackanin homered in the Phil's five-run eighth.

Three Mets pitchers — Wayne Twitchell, Skip Lockwood and Mike Bruher — combined on a two-hitter, striking out 12, to stymie the Cards. Bruher also delivered a run-scoring grounder in the Mets' three-run eighth inning.

Gary Carter drove in the tying run with a double, then scored the game-winning run on Jerry White's single in the eighth inning as the Expos topped Texas. Carter also had a solo homer in the sixth off Rangers starter Doc Medich.

Bill Robinson and Rennie Stennett each had two-run homers to power the Pirates past Baltimore. Kiko Garcia and Ken Singleton had consecutive homers for the Orioles in the seventh.

DAVE MCKAY'S two-run single in the fifth inning lifted Toronto over Kansas City, and Gary Alexander tripled with one out in the ninth to drive in the winning run as Cleveland downed the Angels.

Jeff Newman singled three times, driving in two runs, to help Oakland deal Seattle its sixth straight loss, and Claudell Washington drove in two runs and scored once to pace the White Sox past the Yankees.

Luke Easter shot to death during robbery of bank

EUCLID, Ohio (AP) — Former Cleveland Indians slugger Luscious "Luke" Easter, who was shot to death by two gunmen in a robbery Thursday, was a peaceful man, according to those who knew him.

His only violence came during games when he slugged balls with all his might. He walloped what is regarded as the longest home run ever hit in Cleveland Stadium in June 1950. It traveled 477 feet.

Easter, 63, was slain Thursday morning outside a Euclid bank where he had gone to cash about $40,000 in checks as a favor for his fellow workers at TRW Inc. He was a union steward there.

Two men rushed up to him, fired a shotgun at him and fled with the bag of money, according to a witness.

Police said Easter was hit just above the heart, by the charge from the shotgun, as he left the Cleveland Trust Co. branch office.

Police were holding two men, aged 31 and 32, in connection with the shooting Thursday. The two were lodged in the City Jail, but no charges had been filed.

Police said about $30,000 of the money was recovered when the two were apprehended following a police chase and gun battle. Officers speculated that more may be hidden in the alleged escape car.

Police said the two men lost control of their car and slid into a bridge abutment. The driver allegedly fired at a police car, shattering the windshield but missing the officers. The other man allegedly shot at police from behind a car, officers said. There were no injuries.

After leaving the Indians, Easter continued to play in the minors for many years.

Eric Soderholm will play third base, Orta is at second and Lamar Johnson at first, with Lemon, Washington and probably Ralph Garr or Bob Molinaro in the outfield and Bill Nahorodny catching.

The return of Steve Busby strengthens the Royals pitching staff with Paul Splittorff, Dennis Leonard, Larry Gura and Rich Gale the main starters and the Mad Hungarian, Al Hrabosky, the No. 1 man out of the bullpen.

Texas did some housecleaning over the winter and new Manager Pat Corrales will have a some new faces. The rebuilt bullpen has Sparky Lyle and Jim Kern, as good a lefty-righty combination as there is in the league.

Anthony in lead

GARDENCITY, N.Y. (AP) — Despite winning only two of his eight matches Thursday night, Earl Anthony of Kent, Wash., maintained a slim lead after four rounds of the $70,000 Long Island Open bowling tournament.

Anthony leads Tom Baker of Buffalo, N.Y., by six pins with Mark Roth of North Arlington, N.J., the tour's leading money-winner, 21 pins off the pace.

Anthony rolled 1,807 for his eight games Thursday night. However, his opponents averaged 230 against him after Anthony had dominated the qualifying rounds, taking a 204-pin into match play.

Baker rolled games of 238, 255, 259, 226, 256, 247, 243 and 224 while posting a 6-0-2 match-play record and climbing from fourth place to second.

Bass record could fall

By JON CHASE

It looks like the Texas largemouth bass record will fall within the next year or two. The record fish of 13 pounds plus was caught almost 30 years ago from Medina Lake.

Medina, which is located a few miles Northwest of San Antonio, isn't the likely candidate for a new state record, but another San Antonio lake is the current producer of lunker bass in Texas. The stocking of Florida bass over the last few years has made Lake Calaveros the number one body of water for bass over 10 pounds.

The old largemouth record was not a Florida bass, but the state record keepers will not make a distinction between the native largemouth and the Florida variety in establishing a new record, should it occur.

The Florida variety attains a greater weight than the Texas, although the world record bass was caught in Georgia before any Florida bass were introduced.

From November of last year to the present, there have been numerous bass taken from Calaveros Lake that have topped the 11 pound mark, and two unconfirmed reports of 12 pound plus have come in. The current big fish boom on Calaveros reminds me a lot of the middle sixties on Lake Murvaul.

An incredible number of fish over the 10 pound mark were taken from Murvaul in a five year span. It got to the point where a bass had to weigh at least nine pounds to get your picture in the paper. Eddie Marberry, a Lake Palestine guide, told me a story of coming into the dock on Murvaul with a stringer of 10 bass that weighed from 7 1/2 to 8 3/4 pounds. He said that the fish could have been in the two pound range for all of the excitement they created. The Murvaul phenomenon died out in the early seventies and the Texas largemouth record remained intact.

The big difference in Murvaul trophies and those from Calaveros is the fact that Calaveros bass are of the Florida variety and are growing at an unbelievable rate. I feel sure that there are bass in the record range right now and don't see how the state record can stand for over another year or two.

Last month saw a large number of bass over nine pounds and several over 10 taken from Lake Calaveros. Almost all of the fish have been caught in shallow water on plastic worms. During the heyday of Murvaul, all of the big fish were caught by trolling hellbenders about three city blocks behind the boat in deep, deep water. This was not the most exciting fishing going. In 1965, I spent two days of this without a strike and decided it wasn't worth it. Lake Calaveros is a different story and any cast could break the record.

Before you head for Calaveros, be forewarned that the fishing is slow and the traffic is heavy. The big Florida bass are not a secret in the San Antonio area, and there are plenty of people on the lake trying to put a new state record on the stringer. I would suggest a mid-week trip, if possible.

The High Sky Bass Club has really gotten into high gear in preparation for their invitational tournament on Lake Amistad. Between now and May 5, the date of the invitational, they will have a club tournament on Lake Coleman. The Coleman tournament is a big bass affair that will be held April 7 and 8.

The big tournament of the year, to be held on Lake Amistad, is the Fourth Annual Mens, Womens and Teens Invitational Bass Tournament. Everyone I have talked to about the past tournaments says that the High Sky Bass Club puts on one of the best tournaments in the state. There will be $1,950 in cash prizes and $2,500 in merchandise distributed among the top finishers. The tournament has three divisions, mens, womens and teens, and will be judged on total stringer weight for May 5-6. The age limit on the teen division is 17.

Tournament headquarters will be Angler's Lodge on Highway 90 out of Del Rio. The entry fee is $20 per person.

The crappie fishing on area lakes has really turned on with the fish moving into shallow water in preparation for the spawn. Brady Lake has been covered up with crappie fishermen, all who have been catching fish. The big crappie up to two pounds are showing up on Oak Creek and Colorado City Lake and good catches have been reported on Lake Spence. Small minnows and one-sixteenth ounce white jigs are taking most of the fish.

My father and oldest son made a trip to Brady several weeks ago and when the rain and wind let up, they managed to catch a respectable string of crappie and channel cat. They tried some bass fishing, but never located any good fish, as the bass seemed to be in a state of flux between deep and shallow water.

This is the time to hit the lake, because the fishing will never be any better than from now until the middle of April.

COM tankers place seventh in Seniors

AUSTIN — Ten City of Midland Swim Team members competed in the State Senior Championships over the weekend and placed seventh.

The women's 400 medley relay team of Wendy Cochran, Carrie Mayes, Gretchen Koch and Lori Thompson and the women's 400 free relay of Emily Murrah, Mayes, Koch and Thompson both placed.

Mayes placed in the finals in the 100 breaststroke, 1:08.78; 200 breaststroke, 2:28.01; and 200 backstroke, 2:20.28.

In the breaststroke events, Mayes qualified for the Junior National Championships to be held in April at Duke University.

Koch placed in the 500 freestyle, 5:14.12; the 100 butterfly, 1:00.85; and the 100 backstroke, 1:03.20, on the first day of the meet. Then she placed in the 200 butterfly, 2:11.35; 200 freestyle, 1:57.28; 200 backstroke, 2:18.20; and the 100 freestyle, 54.58, on the final two days.

Thompson contributed points in the 200 freestyle, 1:58.31; the 100 breaststroke, 1:13.46; and the 100 freestyle, 54.58. Murrah had a 1:13.92 in the 100 breaststroke.

The male swimmers scored in all three relays with Carey Carrens, Robin Franke, Jeff Lambeth and Clay Spears. Additionally, Carrens placed in the 100 breaststroke with a 1:00.47 to qualify for the Junior Nationals. He also placed in the 200 breaststroke, 2:15.63; and the 200 butterfly, 2:00.45.

Franke posted a 17:16.83 in the 1650 freestyle while Bob Franz had a 1:01.72 in the 100 breaststroke.

Watson captures lead in Heritage

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — From the lofty plateau of his advanced age — 29 — Tom Watson viewed the PGA tour.

"At one time, players came on the tour from the caddy ranks and learned to play out here," he said.

"Now they're coming out of the colleges and they know how to play when they get here. The competition is much, much greater."

"The average age of the winners is lower. Younger players are winning all the time."

"There are all these 22 and 23-year-olds out here now who know how to play. They're strong and hungry and completely unafraid."

He paused a moment and flashed his Tom Sawyer grin.

"Listen to me. I'm going to turn 30 this year. I'm a veteran. Old Tom."

Then, in mock parody, he continued in a different voice: "Oh, yes, Old Tom. Yeah, I remember Old Tom Watson."

Well, Old Tom is still doing just fine, thank you. He delivered his remarks Thursday after composing a near-flawless round of 6-under-par 65 that staked the 1977 and 1978 Player of the Year to a 1-stroke lead in the first round of the $300,000 Heritage Classic.

Watson, winner of the 1977 Masters, two British Opens and the heir apparent to Jack Nicklaus' role as the game's premier performer, hit every fairway, missed one green, didn't come close to making a bogey and played the back side in 31.

Lanny Wadkins, who played so well in the windswept terrors of Sawgrass last week to beat Watson by 5 shots, said very much the same thing.

"Just a good, solid round," Wadkins said after a late-afternoon 66 put him a single shot back.

He, too, got around the difficult Harbour Town Golf Links without a bogey and was a single shot in front of George Burns and Jerry Pate, who had 67s.

Miller Barber, Phil Hancock, Tim Simpson and Doug Tewell were next at 68. Lon Hinkle topped a big group at 69.

Defending champion Hubert Green matched par 71. Arnold Palmer, Lee Trevino and U.S. Open champ Andy North all were at 73. Masters titleholder Gary Player of South Africa shot 76, including 40 on the back nine.

Rebel JVs pound Bullpups by 9-5

The Midland Lee junior varsity baseball team pounded out a 9-5 victory over the Midland High Bullpups Thursday at the Lee diamond.

Clay Bateman got the victory with a six-hit, six-strikeout performance. Joel Castaneda absorbed the loss for the Bullpups.

Cliff Collyer was a standout for the Rebels. He had two hits, including a double, and made a great catch in the outfield in the seventh inning to stop a Midland High uprising. Ricky Wright also doubled in the game. Midland High's Steve Miller doubled and tripled.

Midland Lee is now 9-1 on the season heading into Saturday's game against Big Spring, and Midland High is 6-6 on the year.

Special class won't begin for CBers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has decided not to create at this time a new no-code "Communicator Class" amateur radio license that many CBers and other radio enthusiasts had hoped would ease their way into ham radio.

The Federal Communications Commission proposed in 1974 creation of the new amateur class which would not require any knowledge of International Morse Code, one of the requirements for ham licenses now.

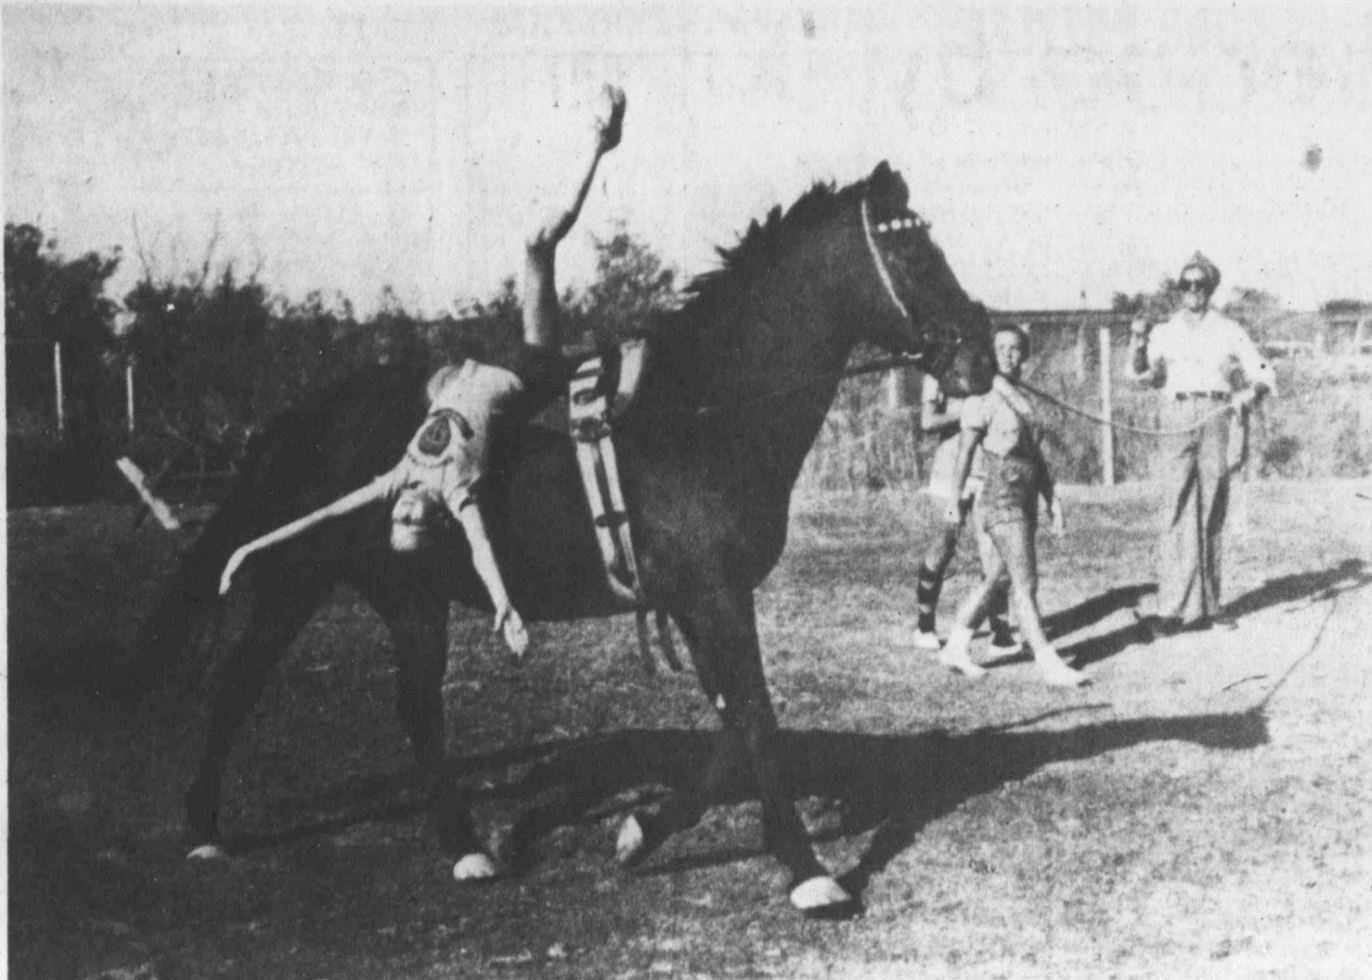

But in voting last month not to act on the proposal now, the FCC emphasized that it did not agree with the majority of comments that the communicator class privileges would be "out of proportion" to its qualification requirements.

Instead, it said, much of its research appears out of date since the Amateur Radio Service had grown by about 50 percent and the Citizens Band Radio Service by 1,400 percent since the new class first was proposed.

The commission agreed to reopen the matter later this year for a more up-to-date review and solicit comments from interested parties on the need or desirability of a new class.

The FCC had considered allocating frequencies between 220 and 225 megahertz and between 420 and 450 megahertz for the new class — frequencies much higher than those used by CBers. The result would have been much better quality transmissions.

The FCC also had considered permitting use of up to 50 watts of power, compared to the 4-watt CB limit or the 1,000-watt ham radio ceiling.

No, she isn't falling off her horse. It's Erin Hotchkiss of the Midland 4-H Horse Vaulting team doing the "Cossack Hang." The team will present a horse vaulting demonstration at the Midland College Chaparral Round-up Saturday. The demonstration will be at 10:30 a.m., and will take place north of the Student Center. The public has been invited.

'China Syndrome' reflects news

By BOB THOMAS

"THE CHINA SYNDROME" could scarcely be more topical, coinciding with the shutdown of five Eastern nuclear power plants because of earthquake hazard. The film concerns a TV reporter (Jane Fonda) and cameraman (Michael Douglas)

A Review

who combine with a nuclear plant official (Jack Lemmon) in an effort to alert the public to potential catastrophe from a Southern California reactor. The characters are never more than skin-deep, but the events are more important, and director James Bridges builds the tension to an almost unbearable pitch. The issues raised by the film are vital to everyone; it is perhaps unfortunate that the utility company bosses are painted as black as horse-opera villains. Rated PG, with a few expletives.

"HAIR" is a joyous celebration of the liberating 1960s, a rare flight of creative imagination that widens the dimensions of the movie musical.

Actor's son wounded

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Chuck Connors' son was reported in stable condition today following 3½ hours of surgery for a gunshot wound to the stomach, suffered when he tried to stop a car theft.

Police said that after Jeff Connors, 27, was shot Thursday, two of his co-workers at a car dealership and an armed security guard who worked next door captured a young man.

Detective Walter Montgomery said Alfred Humphrey Jr., 18, of Los Angeles was booked for investigation of robbery and attempted murder. The gun used in the shooting had not been found, police said.

Fellow workers at Lou Ehlers Cadillac said Connors tried to stop a man from taking a car from the lot of the Wilshire Boulevard dealership. He was shot once in the abdomen and was taken to Cedars-Sinai Hospital.

Montgomery said the suspect was chased from the scene of the shooting and a young man was taken into custody by a security guard.

Petunia's story ends happily

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Petunia the Pig met her good fortune by falling off a truck on its way to the stockyards. The policemen who found the 250-pound pig couldn't find the owner, so they took her to an animal hospital. Still no one claimed her and she was offered for sale at an auction.

Lloyd Moorhead, a veterinary technician at the hospital, found a soft spot in his heart for the pig.

"The fall off the truck was enough trauma for her," he said. "She's had enough misfortune." He bid $113.50 and was awarded the pig.

He keeps her on the farm of another hospital employee. "She'll live happily ever after," he said.

Don't bother gathering by 'River'

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — "A Meeting by the River" is this kind of play: It has three acts, two intermissions, runs nearly 2½ hours and is set at a monastery near Calcutta on the banks of the Ganges River.

It concerns two English brothers. One has fled the world and joined the monastery as an apprentice swami. The other is a rookie Hollywood producer who goes to the monastery hoping to retrieve his sibling.

Based on the 1967 novel by England's Christopher Isherwood and co-authored by him and Don Bachardy, "Meeting" opened Wednesday night at the Palace Theater here. It was a very long night.

A Review

Simon Ward, the Churchill of the film, "Young Winston," played Oliver, a shaved-head novice who'd worked for a bank, the Quakers and the Red Cross before donning the robes of a Hindu holy man.

Keith Baxter essayed his glib, worldly brother, Patrick. He was headed to Singapore to make a movie but diverted to Calcutta upon learning the long-lost Oliver was preparing to become a swami.

Other players: Siobhan McKenna as their mother; Meg Wynn-Owen as Patrick's wife; Ronald Bishop as a rotund, jovial Head Swami and Sam Jaffe in a tiny role as an elderly guru in Geneva.

"Meeting," directed at a languid, high-noon-in-India pace by Albert Marre, slowly established that Oliver was on the lam from life and that only rarely did the brothers get along.

Also noted was that the Geneva guru inspired Oliver to follow the path of righteousness. Alas, the guru expired early on, inspiring his young disciple to say:

"I'm convinced he left his body deliberately during meditation."

Some meditators have all the luck. The old guru didn't get to see a bit of business in which a down-on-his-luck reporter (Paul Collins) persuaded Patrick to let him interview monastic young Oliver.

It made Oliver very mad indeed, this intrusion, which included the sardonic question: "What about giving up sex?"

Ah, sex. That, too, was cited when a handsome young American, Tom (Keith McDermott), phoned Patrick at the monastery.

Art objects go on van

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An estimated $500,000 worth of Chinese art objects, stored in a rental truck parked on a busy San Francisco street, were stolen along with the vehicle, police said.

Himmel said the van had been parked on the street for two days because he figured it "was safer for the art to be on the street than inside in a quiet, dark garage."

Double romp marks 12th anniversary

By MARY CAMPBELL

NEW YORK (AP) — The Louis Falco Dance Company celebrated its 12th anniversary with a double romp Tuesday night — a lively opening of its first "uptown" season at the City Center, and a party at the disco Xenon.

Sculptor Louise Nevelson, dancer Geoffrey Holder and painter Andy Warhol attended opening night of the one-week, modern dance season.

The evening began with the jaunty "Escar-got," 15 minutes of chic, flowing and jazzy steps from seven dancers.

The music, by drummer Ralph MacDonald, has a melody and beat that makes one expect singer Harry Belafonte to chime in with a bright "Day-O" at any minute.

Costumes were by Michael Vollbracht, whose specialty seems to be brightly colored Oriental prints, loose sleeves and trousers, and silky material.

The Falco choreography in "Escarogot" and "Saltimbocca" uses constant motion — lifts, jumps onto one foot, high kicks and waving arms. In light of "Escarogot," one wonders if Falco's dancers retire at age 30.

"Escarogot" doesn't develop, it just pulses forward, but it's a most upbeat ode to spring.

Rosalynn Carter

Mohammad Reza Pahlavi

Names in the news

NEW YORK (AP) — First lady Rosalynn Carter has received the first Distinguished National Service Award of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America.

The award was given Thursday to Mrs. Carter in recognition of "her dedication and her service to those whose needs in our society are all too often neglected."

Rabbi Gerson D. Cohen, chancellor of the seminary, said Mrs. Carter has sought to "make of her faith an integrated and creative force in this society."

Mrs. Carter called on the audience, mostly members of the Women's League for Conservative Judaism, to redouble charitable efforts. She said this was especially necessary in an era of tight budgets.

"Public dollars must be cut; service and compassion must not," she said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi is welcome in the United States, but a U.S. official says it was suggested to him that difficulties might come up if he took up residence here.

Among other things, said the official, who refused to be identified by name, are security problems for him and his family and "problems that may be raised for Americans in Iran."

"We have never said to him that he should not come here," the official told reporters Thursday.

After the shah went into exile in January the Carter administration indicated he would be welcome in the United States. Instead, the shah fled to Egypt and later moved to Morocco.

The official, who refused to be identified, said he was not aware of any specific request from the shah to live in the United States.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor James Cagney, 79, is being treated for sciatica at Good Samaritan Hospital, a family spokesman says.

"There's nothing seriously wrong, but it is painful," the spokesman said Thursday.

Cagney, who won the Academy Award for "Yankee Doodle Dandy," has had trouble walking since a stroke a year ago, the spokesman said. He entered the hospital Wednesday.

Sciatica is described medically as any painful condition in the region of the hip and thighs, especially neuritis of the long nerve passing down the back of the thigh.

MOSCOW (AP) — President Leonid I. Brezhnev's son has been quietly promoted to first deputy foreign trade minister.

The promotion of Yuri L. Brezhnev was noticed by Western diplomats when a March 22 article in the Communist Party newspaper Pravda written by the younger Brezhnev referred to him by his new title.

Brezhnev, 45, was appointed deputy foreign trade minister in late 1976. Before that, he was chairman of the All-Union Import-Export Association for Industrial Raw Materials of the Foreign Trade Ministry beginning in 1968 until 1970 he was the Soviet trade representative in Sweden.

He is next in line to succeed Nikolai Patolichev as foreign trade minister, and diplomatic sources say Patolichev is rumored to be ill.

Brezhnev also has a daughter, Galina, who is in her mid-40s and has been married several times. According to some reports, there is another son, Mikhail, about 40, who is trained as a journalist.

Taser stun-gun being phased out

By LEE MITGANG

NEW YORK (AP) — The Taser, the type of futuristic weapon called for by law enforcement authorities as crime began to grow rapidly in the 1960s, may be headed for its last year of production.

The hand-held weapon, manufactured by Taser Systems Inc., of City of Industry, Calif., was designed as a sort of stun-gun to allow police or citizens to defend themselves without killing or permanently injuring an attacker.

It shoots two hooked prongs — attached to wires 15-feet-long, its effective range — into a person's clothing. Then a 50,000-volt charge, enough to temporarily paralyze, jumps through the wire.

Federal crime commissions had called for development of such a non-killing weapon to combat muggings, assaults and rapes. Even now, gun control groups such as the National Council to Control Handguns have quietly backed such weapons, though not specifically the Taser.

But Taser sales have been hobbled by federal confusion over how it should be classified, by concern over criminal use of the weapon, and by a public not yet willing to trade its trusty handguns for a more space-aged weapon.

And now Jack Cover, inventor of the Taser and president of Taser Systems says that if he cannot get new financial backing, he may have to fold the venture.

About 7,000 Tasers have been sold at $199.50 each since the weapon was introduced in 1975. The cost per round is a costly $10.

Most sales have been to private citizens, law abiding or otherwise, and the few police forces that have tried the Taser are sharply divided on its safety and effectiveness as a law enforcement tool.

About 20 documented crimes have been committed with the Taser. Four years ago, a person armed with a Taser robbed a Miami service station. In a second widely publicized incident, a couple in Blue Bell, Pa., were tortured with Tasers in their home by four robbers.

The weapon's safety has also been questioned. Its manufacturers say — and an Army study and hearings by Consumer Product Safety Commission concurred — that a healthy person should not suffer permanent injury from the 50,000-volt charge the Taser delivers.

The reason is that although the voltage sounds deadly, the force and frequency — the wattage and amperage — of the jolt is within safe bounds.

But a number of police departments have rejected its use because the shock might still be enough to harm or kill someone with heart or respiratory problems.

Currently, there are Taser distributorships in Georgia, California, Illinois, Indiana, Massachusetts and Florida, according to Cover. He says distributorships will open soon in North and South Carolina.

Police departments in Akron, Ohio, and Nashville, Tenn., are among about a dozen that have tried the weapon. Police in Akron discontinued its use after a brief trial and Lt. James Yocum calls it "a horrible device that should be banned from the marketplace." But the Nashville police still use about a dozen Tasers and Assistant Police Chief Paul Useton praises it as an effective police aid.

Other police departments that have used the Taser include those in Lauderdale Lakes, Fla.; Larchmont, N.Y.; Cleveland, Canal Fulton and Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio; Dickson, Tenn.; Glendale Heights, Ill.; and Topeka, Kan. Several state penitentiaries and highway patrols have also used the Taser.

But scant sales have left Taser Systems deep in the red, and Cover said in a telephone interview that "we either make it this year or give it up."

He said, however, that he is optimistic that unnamed "private individuals and businessmen" whom he is negotiating with will give the Taser a new financial lease on life.

The Taser is about twice as large as an ordinary handgun, and resembles a big flashlight. It is therefore hard to conceal. It operates on the same sort of batteries that power a pocket calculator.

Confusion over its federal status has further hobbled sales over the years.

When the Taser first came out, it was wholly unregulated. Anyone could buy it, and it was sold through mail order ads in fun magazines, door-to-door, and by unlicensed dealers.

General Motors sued for transmission troubles

CHICAGO (AP) — General Motors, taken to court for putting Chevrolet engines in Oldsmobiles, has been sued for allegedly putting transmissions designed for small cars into big cars without telling the buyers.

A federal class action suit was filed Thursday on behalf of three plaintiffs from Indiana and Illinois. It said at least 50,000 consumers, and possibly more than 1 million, received transmissions designed for smaller cars in 1977, 1978 and 1979 models.

General Motors spokesman James Crellin said in Detroit that all GM cars "are equipped with transmissions that are approved by engineers for use in the particular vehicle and with a particular power train" and that GM stood behind each of them.

Nuclear waste report published

ALBUQUERQUE, N. Mex. — The Interagency Review Group on Nuclear Waste Management published its final report on March 13. The IRG expects to submit its findings and recommendations to the President shortly.

This final report contains the findings, policy considerations and recommendations reached by the IRG and attempts to reflect the full range of comments and concerns.

The draft IRG report was released for public review and comment October 19, 1978, and through January 1, 1979, some 3,300 comments from all states were received and reviewed.

The final report recognized the need for a broadly based nuclear waste management program which addresses fundamental scientific questions within a systems concept. The IRG emphasizes the need for flexibility in programmatic and repository design to permit disposal of all types of existing and future radioactive wastes.

THE FINAL version contains the original text of the draft report, plus a summary of the public comment on individual sections inserted at the end of each section. An IRG response immediately follows the summary of public comment. These IRG responses reflect a modified or amplified view based on the public comments and/or deliberations by the IRG.

Following the March 15, 1978, mandate by the President for the nuclear waste report, the IRG attempted to obtain a broad range views from Congress, state and local governments, Indian nations, industry, the scientific and technical community, public interest groups, environmental organizations and the public.

One of the principal findings of the IRG is that the public and all interest groups are virtually united in stressing the difficulty and importance of institutional aspects of the waste disposal problem and in insisting that government programs be more deliberate, better conceived and better managed than in the past.

The IRG report has identified many important institutional issues and has suggested a conceptual framework to address such matters. A summary of implementing actions to be taken by involved federal agencies is being prepared for submission to the President and will be published subsequently.

OTHER IRG FINDINGS concern the interim strategic planning basis, which is designed to develop near-term programs and research and development (R&D) plans for waste management. They further address the overall technical considerations, the development of a social consensus and the need for technical conservations.

The report discusses intermediate scale facilities, the spent fuel policy, international cooperation and R&D and transportation and institutional issues.

Policy recommendations within the report are in the following areas: Waste management objectives; Regional siting of repositories; Consultation and concurrence by states; Federal/State partnership and creation of a State Planning Council; Methods of receiving public opinion; Interim strategic planning basis for high level waste; Alternative approaches to the first high level waste repository; Licensing of facilities; Financing of facilities; Regulatory consolidation in standards development; Special issues of defense waste; Planning and management responsibilities; National Environmental Policy Act implementation plans; Low level waste; Stabilizing or storing uranium mill tailings from milling operations; Decontamination and decommissioning of radioactive facilities.

THE IRG IS composed of representatives of 14 government organizations: Department of Energy, Department of State, Department of the Interior, Department of Transportation, Department of Commerce, Council on Environmental Quality, Environmental Protection Agency, Nuclear Regulatory Commission, National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Office of Management and Budget, Office of Science and Technology Policy, Office of Domestic Affairs and Policy, National Security Council and Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

Transition upcoming

HOUSTON (AP) — A new Shell Oil Co. study says the world beyond the 20th century will be considerably different with respect to the types of energy consumed.

A report released last week said the nation will be consuming less conventional oil and gas annually, as opposed to the current situation in which more is consumed each year although at a declining growth rate.

"Thus, the next 20 to 30 years will be a period of energy transition in which the summit of world oil production is reached and a new era of energy economics begins," Shell reported.

The study projects coal will be the primary domestic fuel source by the end of the century, contributing 40-45 percent of total energy.

"Oil and gas will provide 30-35 percent of the nation's total energy, versus 70-75 percent currently," the report states.

"Nuclear power, despite much lower growth than was forecast several years ago, will contribute 15-20 percent. New technologies such as solar, coal gasification and coal liquefaction will also make important contributions."

The report discusses two energy scenarios, one with rather weak domestic economic growth and low public concern over energy problems and the other involving strong growth and major public concern.

The weaker growth scenario indicated domestic demand for energy will grow at an average rate of about 2.1 percent a year, approximating 71 million barrels per day crude oil equivalent in the year 2010. The other scenario indicated demand would increase 2.6 percent a year and approximate 83 million barrels per day crude oil equivalent.

Domestic energy demand in 1977 approximated 37 million barrels per day crude oil equivalent.

Administration charged with hiding import data

By TOM RAUM

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration deliberately and grossly exaggerated the effect of the Iranian oil cutoff on the United States, a new congressional study contends.

Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger was expected to be questioned today on allegations that oil imports actually increased in February despite administration claims of a 500,000 barrel-a-day shortage reflecting the Iranian cutoff.

An aide, Jim Bishop, said Schlesinger was prepared to deny the study's conclusions in his testimony before the House energy and power subcommittee.

Bishop said the information obtained by the committee is suspect and disputed the increase in imports claimed by the report. "I can assure you this will be clarified," he said.

The study by the subcommittee staff asserts: "U.S. imports during the month of February surged by 1 million barrels per day."

The report said it based its conclusions on oil export-import information recently compiled by the Paris-based International Energy Agency.

Rep. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., a subcommittee member, charged that Schlesinger's agency kept the alleged increase in imports secret "because it was embarrassing to administration policy."

The staff report did not dispute the reality of the three-month Iranian production halt. But it claimed the cutoff had a minimal impact on U.S. supplies — at least in February.

"Claims of a shortfall have been used to justify hardships for the American consumer in the form of higher prices as well as a reduction of gasoline supplies," the report said.

In other energy developments: —Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., introduced a bill Thursday that would allow users of home-heating oil a $125 a year tax credit if Carter removes oil price controls. Ribicoff said that with deregulation, heating-oil prices which now average 60 to 64 cents a gallon could soar to 80 cents a gallon by next year.

—In New York, Phillips Petroleum Co. and other oil industry sources confirmed that Nigeria has imposed a $4-a-barrel surcharge on top of the regular base price of $14.54 a barrel set by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. Several other OPEC countries — including Kuwait, Libya and Algeria — already were attaching a surcharge to their oil. A general round of high surcharges could boost U.S. gasoline prices by as much as 7 cents a gallon.

—Weldon V. Barton, director of the Agriculture Department's energy office, told a House subcommittee Thursday any federal gasoline rationing plan would insure that farmers get fuel allocations "sufficient to meet full food and fiber production goals approved by the president."

Firms seek lawsuits dismissals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some of America's largest oil companies are asking a federal judge to dismiss government lawsuits accusing nine oil firms of overcharging customers more than $1 billion.

Company lawyers are telling U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell today the Department of Energy should have attempted to resolve the issue before going to court.

The alleged overcharges involve the price of natural gas liquids, a source of such products as propane, butane and heating oil. The Justice and Energy departments have asked that the companies be ordered to refund excess charges plus interest.

The motion for dismissal was filed by Cities Service, Gulf, Exxon, Phillips, Amoco and Texaco. The government lawsuits name those firms plus Shell, Mobil and Arco.

All nine companies joined in a separate motion asking Gesell either to transfer the lawsuits to courts in Delaware and Texas or to hold up the Washington proceedings until similar cases in those states are decided.

The oil companies contend their pricing systems complied with "ambiguous pricing regulations" as generally understood. The companies say the Energy Department keeps changing its interpretation of the rules and then applies the changes retroactively.

The oil companies, in the Delaware and Texas suits, have asked for a judicial explanation of the pricing regulations.

The federal lawsuits accuse the companies of either charging customers too much for the natural gas liquids or "banking" excessive costs on their ledgers to serve as the basis for increasing customer costs later. Government officials have said, however, they are not charging the companies with criminal conduct or conspiracy.

The government suits request payment into the U.S. Treasury as a form of refund to the general public.

However, Energy Department officials have said the court could order the companies to reduce prices to reimburse the public, as has occurred in other cases. The court also could require direct refunds to customers whose losses could be identified, the officials have said.

Nigeria adds surcharge

NEW YORK (AP) — Nigeria has posted a $4-a-barrel surcharge on the $14.54-a-barrel price set on crude oil by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, a spokesman for Phillips Petroleum Co. said today.

OPEC earlier this week raised the base price for crude oil by 9 percent to $14.54 a barrel, effective Sunday, but said members of the organization were free to add surcharges if they wished.

Many oil-producing nations have boosted prices above official OPEC levels in the wake of the crude oil shortage caused by a 69-day shutdown of petroleum production in Iran, once OPEC's second largest producer. The shutdown was part of the revolution that led to the overthrow of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Nigeria is the seventh-largest OPEC oil producer, based on 1978 industry estimates. According to Phillips spokesman Brooks Garner, "our people have been notified there's going to be a surcharge," effective Sunday, boosting the price of Nigerian oil to $18.50 to $18.60 a 42-gallon barrel.

Other African nations demanding surcharges similar to that posted by Nigeria include Libya, OPEC's sixth-largest producer, and Algeria, ranked 10th in production.

OPEC's posted price increase on Saudi Arabian light crude oil, the benchmark for the organization's rate schedule, should lead to a 2 cents-a-gallon increase in U.S. retail gasoline prices by May, industry spokesmen have estimated. If the $4-a-barrel surcharge were added to all OPEC exports, gasoline prices in the United States could rise by as much as 7 cents a gallon.

Dealing in hot birds newest get-rich scheme

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal investigators are looking into what sources say may be a widespread and lucrative business of selling stolen and possibly smuggled cockatoos, parrots and other imported "exotic" birds.

Aside from the criminal aspects, the birds are posing a threat to the vast U.S. poultry industry because of the possibility of spreading exotic Newcastle disease, which is highly contagious, into flocks of broilers and egg-laying hens.

The Agriculture Department, which handles import and other regulatory programs aimed at preventing the introduction of foreign diseases that affect animals and plants, is alarmed that exotic Newcastle could decimate poultry flocks at a time when increased production is wanted to help offset soaring retail prices of red meat.

According to federal sources, who asked not to be identified, the department's Office of Inspector General, the Justice Department and the U.S. Customs Service are involved in investigating various aspects of thievery, possible smuggling and other violations involving birds.

The investigations were disclosed after USDA announced Wednesday that it has "temporarily halted" exotic bird imports through commercially operated quarantine facilities that normally operate under department certification.

More than 80 of these establishments were shut down immediately by the order. Normally, birds are shipped to the private facilities and have to spend time in quarantine to make sure they are not diseased.

The businesses shut down handle an estimated 95 percent of the birds imported by U.S. dealers and others.

However, three import centers operated by USDA in Clifton, N.J.; Miami, Fla.; and Honolulu will continue to operate.

The department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, which calls itself APHIS, said the closing was necessary because of recent outbreaks of exotic Newcastle disease in California, Florida, Arizona and Nevada.

Frank J. Mulhern, administrator of APHIS, said investigations "suggest that serious problems exist" in some of the private quarantine facilities. "Stronger security measures must be taken to deal with the risk involved in importing birds from around the world," he said. "If this cannot be achieved, the only alternative would be to prohibit the importation of such birds."

Mulhern added that exotic Newcastle disease "appears to be reaching worldwide epidemic proportions" and that since last October the disease has been diagnosed during quarantine in 24 groups of birds from 12 different countries. Only 15 groups were found diseased in all of the preceding year.

The order does not apply to commercial shipments of birds now on their way to the United States or already in the privately owned facilities.

Although solid figures were not available, one department estimate showed that about 350,000 of the birds entered the United States through the commercial import facilities last year.

One of the sources said that the business is growing rapidly, particularly in some areas — including California — where "it's something of a status symbol" to have a foreign bird or two in the home.

Exiled shah of Iran leaves Morocco for the Bahamas

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi of Iran left Rabat in a private plane this morning for the Bahamas, the Moroccan national news agency reported.

The shah had been in exile in Morocco since Jan. 22. He left Iran a Jan. 16 after a year-long revolution directed by Shiite Moslem leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

U.S. officials in Washington said Thursday the shah would soon leave Morocco for another place of refuge. They said although he had not been barred from coming to the United States he had been strongly urged not to go there for security and other reasons.

The Moroccan government of King Hassan II is known to have been uncomfortable with the presence of the shah and Empress Farah. His departure followed increasing demonstrations by leftist students and labor unions campaigning for the shah's expulsion.

"One shah in Morocco is enough," was one of the slogans scrawled on university walls in Rabat and Casablanca, reflecting the leftists' frequently voiced claim of a parallel between the discredited Iran monarchy and King Hassan's less autocratic regime.

Officially, the shah was treated as virtually a non-person in Morocco. He was never referred to in the official newspapers and broadcasts and rarely if ever appeared at public functions.

Informed Moroccan sources said the shah had lapsed into a deep depression, verging on a breakdown, following reports that dozens of his top generals and other officials had been executed in Iran.

Khomeini, the Moslem leader who engineered the shah's fall, had said he would ask for extradition of the shah. But Moroccan sources said no formal extradition request had ever been received.

The revolutionary regime has said it would try the shah in absentia for alleged crimes against the people — a show trial certain to end with a death sentence.

Egypt had expressed a willingness to welcome the deposed monarch. But the governments of Switzerland, Spain, France, Britain and Italy had told him they cannot accept responsibility for his security at this time.
