Union To Contest Charge Of Hospital Picketing

A laborers union local will not sign a National Labor Relations Board settlement agreement to stop picketing two New Mexico hospital construction sites, a union spokesman said Tuesday.

John Wallace of Fort Worth, a spokesman for Laborers International Union Local 1253, said the union's legal department will contact the NLRB in Albuquerque today to advise them the union will not agree to the informal settlement offered earlier this week.

In dispute is Section 8G of the National Labor Relations Act providing that notice of a strike at a health care facility must be made in writing 10 days in advance and that notification "shall state the date and time that such action will commence."

Page & Wirtz Construction Co. filed a complaint one week ago today stating that the union had picketed two New Mexico hospital construction sites without proper notice.

But Wallace contends that Section 8G pertains only to health care employees, not laborers unions.

He said he had no plans to sign an agreement "that we're guilty when we didn't even violate the law."

Wallace said a similar case at a medical facility in Laredo made the same charges against the union, and that although the NLRB ruled against the union, the union won the case in appeals court.

Peter Maydanis of the NLRB office in Albuquerque said that if the union does not agree to the settlement by 4:45 p.m. today the board will begin formal proceedings and issue a complaint against the union in the matter.

He had no estimate on the date a hearing on the dispute will be set, but he said, "This is a priority case."

Maydanis said the settlement agreement offered to the laborers union local and the Lubbock contractor would have required in part that the union post a notice in its union office notifying employees that they must cease picketing at the two hospital sites "until and unless given appropriate notice."

Jack Wirtz, who filed the complaint against the union, said the union notified one hospital of its intent, but did not notify the other hospital and that "they didn't wait 10 days and they didn't state the date and time" picketing would begin.

Union spokesman Abel Gonzales agreed with Wallace that the provision applies only to hospital employee unions and that the laborers "are not affecting anybody in the hospital."

Overton Folk Protest Church's Action

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Overton South Neighborhood Association is mobilizing in opposition to plans by the First Baptist Church to remove three houses on 13th Street and then use the lots for parking space.

But it is the Zoning Board of Adjustment which may have the final say on the use of the lots in the street's 2200 block; the church must obtain that board's approval to use the space for parking.

First Baptist Church administrator Jim

Neyland said the church bought the three homes last year "with plans for eventual use of the lots for parking."

One of the houses is for sale, and two already have been sold, Neyland said. The houses must be either dismantled or moved, he said.

Apparently the dismantling began Tuesday, and the Overton South group responded with letters to the church, the zoning board, the Lubbock City Council and others.

In a letter signed by 14 Overton South residents to Clifton Cummings, a member of the church's long range planning committee, the association pledges to "oppose the use of these lots for church use, even if you make vacant lots of them."

"We do not want our homes to be located in or adjoining an asphalt parking lot district," the letter says.

A second letter, from Overton South residents to Clifton Cummings, reminds the church the 13th Street lots are restricted to residential use only.

"Our association, by unanimous vote, is pledged to maintain our zoning protection and stop the encroachment of non-residential uses. Additionally, we are agreed to support the preservation of architecturally and historically significant structures in our neighborhood," the letter continues.

"For your membership to avoid substantial financial loss, you would be well advised to seek city zoning approval prior to demolition of this lovely and expensive home (at 2223 13th St.)."

Neyland said the church intends to submit an application to the Zoning Board of Adjustment today to use the three lots for parking, but said he didn't want to comment about whether the church should have sought ZBA approval before removal of the houses began.

However, City Planning Director Jim Bertram said it was a "little presumptuous for them to remove the houses before going to the ZBA" inasmuch as the board said approximately one year ago it "was not going to approve any more parking (for the church) without an overall plan."

"That makes the ZBA case on the lots 'anything but cut and dried,'" he said.

The use of the lots probably will be on the ZBA's May 17 agenda, if the church files an application.

Tighter Mortgage Money Seen As Result Of Clements Decision

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Prospective home buyers in Lubbock may have an even tougher time financing a home purchase beginning this summer as a result of Gov. Bill Clements' decision Monday to veto any legislation which would raise or remove a state ceiling on mortgage loan interest rates, a Lubbock lender predicts.

Bob Edwards, president of First Federal Savings and Loan Association, said he doesn't think Clements' decision will have an immediate effect on the Lubbock home market.

However, he said, it may be a different story beginning in July or August.

Edwards said the statutory 10 percent ceiling on home mortgages prevents lenders from selling loans in the secondary mortgage market because the average rate on loans in the U.S. last month was more than 10 percent.

Without the capability to sell the loans and bring out-of-state money into Texas, lenders are confined to making loans based on their deposits.

The problem is Lubbock is in the Sun-belt and is a growing community," Edwards said. "We can no longer generate enough funds to fulfill demands in the local market.

It's a foregone conclusion that at some point in time the interest ceilings will have to be raised to keep funds available for normal growth," he said, adding "it may take some time for them (state officials) to realize this."

Despite the tight money situation, First

Federal has continued to make a great number of conventional home loans, and some builders and realtors credit the lending institution with single-handedly sustaining the Lubbock housing market.

Edwards said First Federal continued to make loans "to keep some type of housing market going in Lubbock. We didn't want to see the housing market die," he said.

But Edwards is unsure how long First Federal can continue making the loans, some of them on a break-even basis.

"We know full well... we won't be able to continue with our policy," he said. "To enable us to do it in the future, the rates we charge are going to have to be higher to sell the loans."

Edwards predicted interest rates will go even higher going into the summer months, making it even more difficult to keep funds available.

Carlos Thornton, head of the Lubbock National Bank real estate division, said that bank was still making some conventional loans with money purchased before the money crunch. However, he said, that money is "not unlimited."

The tight money has prompted Lubbock builders to be "cautious" about new home construction, Sam Reyes, president of the West Texas Homebuilders Association, said.

Reyes said he was "very disappointed" in Clements' decision, adding the Republican governor "ought to know better than anybody to let the market seek its own level" and allow the free enterprise system to function independently of government controls.

Clements "may have bent to some pressure from consumer groups who were not well informed," Reyes said. Those consumer groups who opposed raising the interest ceiling used "extreme" examples of how much it might cost to purchase a home if the bill were passed, he said.

"Our thinking is it (the interest rates) would seek its own level at 10 1/4 or 10 1/2 percent," Reyes said.

In Lubbock we try to keep an optimistic attitude. We'd like to think it's not going to hurt us as bad as I'm afraid it might," Reyes said.

But, neither do builders want to over-build, Reyes said, so they are being "cautious" and attempting to "second guess" what the demand for homes will be and what the availability of financing will be when home construction projects are complete.

W.H. "Brownie" Brownlee, executive vice president of the Lubbock Board of Realtors, said the interest ceiling is "denying a lot of people the opportunity to own a home."

The lack of home financing has forced realtors to rely on "a lot of innovative financing," he said, including an FHA graduated mortgage plan and second liens on homes.

Brownlee said the interest ceiling hadn't really affected the resale of homes, but was impacting the sale of new homes.

"We had a slowdown at the end of last year, until people learned how to handle it," he said.

Sales have "slowed down," Brownlee said. "We would be doing much better" if the ceiling were lifted.

Darryl Berry, president of the Lubbock Board of Realtors, said "not many loans would be made" in Lubbock today were it not for First Federal's decision to continue to make home loans.

However, he said, "you can still finance a home — we can do it somehow."

Picturephone Getting Better Reception Now

BOSTON (AP) — The Picturephone, a marketing failure of the '60s, is being offered again. But this time the idea of seeing as well as talking over the phone is apparently paying off for the telephone company.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co. on Tuesday added Boston to nine other cities offering its Picturephone Meeting Service, a network of mini-television studios that allows companies to hold inter-city conferences without the time and expense of travel.

AT&T has already built similar studio-conference rooms in New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Atlanta, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco. Similar centers will open in Dallas and Sacramento by the end of the year.

According to company officials, the Picturephone concept, first introduced at the 1964 New York World's Fair, is finally a success.

"We find our New York center is booked about 85 percent of the time and usage has been increasing," said Barbara Jaffe, an AT&T spokeswoman who took part in a Picturephone conference call between New York and Boston on Tuesday.

The Boston Picturephone center — located in New England Telephone Co. headquarters — resembles the other nine centers. Five cameras and two 23-inch television monitors offer participants a full view of similar conference rooms in the two cities.

Voice-actuated cameras lock onto the various speakers sitting around the conference table or offer viewers in the other city a full view of all participants.

Other cameras permit conferees to study graphs and slides as well as three-dimensional objects. Instant copies of documents can be run off between the two cities and remarks can be offered, or recorded, via video tape.

Although expensive — a call between New York and Los Angeles costs $390 an hour — Miss Jaffe said 70 percent of Picturephone customers use the system more than once.

"Companies see a big savings in travel and lodging costs through the use of the system," she said. "But the big factor is time. It saves an enormous amount of travel time firms used to have to spend to hold conferences."

AT&T's claim that the $200,000 conference centers are paying for themselves justifies the firm's continued development of a marketing idea that failed earlier in the decade.

First offered in New York, Chicago and Washington in 1970, the Picturephone concept was an immediate bomb. Those customers not intimidated by the $100-a-month cost were turned off by the impracticality of buying a home Picturephone. The most frequent question raised was, "Who can I talk to if no one else has it?"

AT&T ended the service two years later, but resurrected it with the new conference center concept in 1977. The present marketing study will end in 1981, at which time AT&T hopes to build such conference centers for major corporations.

But businesses are not the only customers. Miss Jaffe told of a wedding party that was held recently via the Picturephone between Chicago and Los Angeles. "It was a full reception with a band and a number of guests," she said.

Teacher Who Used Inept LBJ Quote Restored To Job

SAN MARCOS (AP) — The student teacher suspended for using an earthy Lyndon B. Johnson quotation in a civics class is free to return to the class, if he wants.

San Marcos School Superintendent Thomas Carter said Tuesday that the quotation used by Clifford Chapman about two weeks ago was "inappropriate" and he commended the principal, Lila Mae Cogdill, for suspending Chapman.

However, Carter said, the incident did not warrant permanent dismissal of Chapman as a student teacher and possibly causing him not to graduate.

"I'm pleased," Chapman said, but had no more comment until talking with his attorney.

At a hearing, Chapman's attorney claimed a violation of academic freedom by school officials and threatened to take the case to federal courts.

The 22-year-old Southwest Texas State University senior was suspended after he read the students a passage from David Haberstem's "The Best and the Brightest," concerning the loyalty demanded of Johnson associates.

Johnson was quoted as saying: "I don't want loyalty. I want loyalty. I want him to kiss my ... in Macy's window at high noon and tell me it smells like roses."

Mrs. Cogdill said she suspended Chapman after receiving complaints from some of the pupils' parents.

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not covered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 E. Taylor St., West Alexandria, Ohio 43081. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: I feel it necessary to respond to your answer to "P.C." regarding mobile home living which appeared in our paper in March.

I realize that the mobile home situation is probably different in your area but, out here in California, there are few (if any) parks, adult or family, that permit new installations of single-wide (10 or 12 feet) coaches. New double-wide (20 or 24 feet) homes are running more nearly an average of $40,000. Because of the cost, the loan time is 15 to 20 years.

Mobile homes in parks can be purchased the same way that one buys a previously occupied conventional house. They do not depreciate rapidly as they used to in years past — in fact, they appreciate. We bought ours for $22,000 in 1974 and, recently, it was appraised for $43,000. Part of that appraisal takes into account that we are located in a prime family park.

Someone buying a new coach in our area would not find any space available in family parks. Utility costs for mobile homes can be comparable to those in conventional housing, but, in general, mobile homes are better insulated and, because they are more compact, more efficient energy-wise. And, the new coaches that are being constructed with wood-siding exteriors are much more energy efficient than the older all-metal rectangular boxes.

It is generally conceded that once a double-wide is in place in a park, in most cases, it is not going to be moved again. The tires can be removed, and I think there is legislation being considered that would permit the removal of the axles and wheels also. In fact, there's even talk of some day hauling mobile homes with totally removable bases to sites so that, once in place, they would be considered modular homes rather than mobile homes — a phrase that is fast becoming a misnomer due to the size of units.

The rent in a park in this area ranges between $150 and $250 per month plus utilities. (Editor's note: Rents vary throughout the country.) Some attempt is being made to construct parks in which the residents would be allowed to purchase the land that their coaches are on and the mutual recreation facilities would be maintained by the equivalent of a homeowners' association, as is being done already in today's condominium and townhouse complexes.

To your suggestions for choosing a park, I would add the critical factor of responsible as well as responsive management.

In owning a mobile home there is one thing to be wary of in maintenance. A lot of repairmen are not willing to work on mobiles; they often have a preference for conventional housing or are unfamiliar with mobiles. Some repairmen who say their specialty is mobiles may be rip-off con men, and, since many owners do not know how their homes are constructed, I would advise a trip to a manufacturer, if possible.

One more point of concern: In California, at least, taxation is through the Department of Motor Vehicles. The annual fee is collected by them but redistributed to the county of residence in the form of the usual taxes so the community is not cheated. The mobile homeowner does not, however, realize the same benefits from the IRS in the form of property tax deductions as does the owner of a conventional home.

We, a family of four, have been living in a mobile home since 1974. We do not lack for space. Our 24-by-64-foot (1,536 square feet) has two bedrooms, two full baths, a separate family room, dining room, entry foyer and a kitchen with enclosed laundry area. We have more closets and more storage than we had previously in a four-bedroom tract house. I have found approximately six cubic feet of unusable space.

The most common remark we hear from people who own conventional homes is: "What do you do without a garage?" (We do have a metal storage shed.) Having had a garage with our previous home, we respond, "We throw out junk instead of storing it!" We have enough yard space to enjoy fresh vegetables in season — but not enough to be slaves to it. The park itself seems empty on weekends as people leave on recreational pursuits. Although we seem physically close to our neighbors, there is no intrusion of privacy.

When we chose to buy a mobile, it was with careful consideration of lifestyle. I had said that I would never live in a conventional house again; and that is, unfortunately, what I am going to have to do because we are moving to an area where family parks are scarce. My husband has preceded us to that area and has found us a house. I asked him, in the course of one phone call, about the kitchen, expecting an answer referencing the appliances (gas or electric), and his answer was "small." This aptly reflected the opinion shared by both of us that we would miss dismally our current kitchen with its increased efficiency and usable space. So, we will temporarily occupy a house because of necessity — but we will ultimately go back to mobile home living! — M.E.C.

Occasionally, we do print comments concerning articles we discuss in our column, and many of these comments are greatly appreciated. If anyone would like to have further information on mobile home living, write to Manufactured Housing Institute, 1745 Jefferson Davis Hwy., Arlington, Va. 22202.

School Board Drafts Proposed Guidelines Governing Prayer

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock public school administrators have drafted proposed guidelines governing prayer in schools that "fulfill the philosophy" of the pro-prayer stance the school board took in January, says the assistant superintendent for administration.

Dr. E.C. Leslie said the guidelines, which will be submitted for approval by the board, are "something we can live with and administer."

The guidelines are meant to implement a general "freedom of religion policy" endorsed by the Lubbock Independent School District trustees in January.

On a motion by trustee Brad Crawford Jr., the board adopted the policy to adhere "to the principle of freedom of religion as expressed in the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of Texas."

School board trustees, however, conceded that the policy was so general that administrators would have to put the board's statement into specific guidelines.

According to Leslie, "This guideline will be basically to permit student-initiated and directed religious activities and prohibits any school employee from composing, prescribing or supporting any particular form of religious activity."

Public schools in the city traditionally have used their public address systems to begin school days with scripture readings, silent meditation, oral prayer or a "thought for the day."

The local chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), however, contends that such religious devotionals violate the tenets of the separation of church and state and are forbidden by interpretations by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The ACLU had asked that school trusttees adopt and enforce a policy banning school-sponsored prayer.

The new guidelines will be presented for the board's consideration at its regular monthly meeting Thursday.

Attorney Thomas Griffith, ACLU chapter president, said he doesn't plan to attend the school board session and doubts that any other members of the chapter will attend.

He said he "doesn't have any interest" in the guidelines no matter what they are and said "we will go to court on the case."

Also on the agenda will be a request by the administration to delay for a year a junior high magnet program planned to fill the gap in progressive magnet schools between special programs at Illes Elementary and the college-prep curriculum planned for Lubbock High.

The administration will request delay of implementation from the 1979-1980 school year to the 1980-1981 school year, school board president Charles Waters said.

Leslie said administrators have not been able to give the program their full attention because "of time spent developing LEAP (Lubbock Exemplary Academic Program) planned for Lubbock High) and re-evaluating the Iles program."

Dr. Harry Jebson, spokesman for the Coalition for an Exemplary Junior High School, said he "understands the problems of the administration" in getting the program under way, but said he is not happy with the request.

He said that he personally hasn't decided what he wants to do about the request and said that members of the coalition have not met to decide on any action.

"My own personal feeling is that they should be able to do it for next year," said Jebson. "But I'd rather not have a half-way program and have a solid one instead."

He said he thinks the administration is entering into the program "with fear and trepidation. I think the central administration has more problems than they want to admit with the Lubbock High (LEAP) program. They're not getting as great a response as they hoped."

He said he would attend the meeting to listen to discussion on the request but he "hasn't made up my mind absolutely about it."

NRC Official Leaves Three Mile Island Plant, 'Task Completed'

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — With a damaged nuclear reactor inching toward cold shutdown and radioactive iodine leaks remedied, the top federal official watching the Three Mile Island nuclear power plant went home Tuesday.

"I consider my task here completed," said Harold Denton, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's operations chief sent here by President Carter to tame the crisis that began three weeks ago.

Denton, who arrived 19 days ago when the reactor's fuel core seemed in danger of melting, held one final briefing on the task of cooling the reactor. He then returned to his home in Bethesda, Md.

He also said radiation leaks apparently had been sealed and that the small amounts of radioactive material that might be released pose no threat to public health.

Technicians are working to lower the reactor's primary cooling system from its present 245 degrees to 230 degrees through quicker cooling of steam, Denton said.

When the reactor is cooled to below the boiling point of water, engineers can take the final step of turning off the primary coolant pump, itself a source of heat, and allowing the core to cool further through the natural convection currents of the water.

Denton gave no timetable but acknowledged the process "is taking longer than I had imagined." Another official said the delay comes from a backup system that is being installed as a precaution.

Victor Stello, the NRC's director of operating reactors, will take over for Denton.

There were also these developments:

- Metropolitan Edison, the plant's operator and co-owner, offered a $16 million reduction from a rate hike approved by the Public Utility Commission in March. Its original $49 million annual rate increase covered the costs of operating the reactor.

- State and federal officials have begun compiling the economic, environmental and health consequences stemming from the accident. State officials said it would take at least six months to assess the damage.
- Radioactive wastes will be trucked to a disposal site in the state of Washington. Two trucks carrying wastes, which contain low-level radiation, were turned back earlier by South Carolina authorities.

The NRC had stepped up tests on radioactive iodine 131, which was found in increased levels in recent days. But tests performed Tuesday found only traces of the isotope.

Denton said five other samples taken Tuesday "did not show minimum detectable levels."

Metropolitan Edison workers finished replacing 20 charcoal filters designed to trap iodine particles as air is vented into the atmosphere, one possible source of the recent leaks.

"We found that 20 filters had been removed but no replacements had been put in. So there was a potential for bypass leakage getting out without being filtered," Denton said.

He identified two other possible sources of iodine leaks. One was that a tank which stored primary coolant water had become over-pressurized and was vented to another tank. A third possible source was controlled when technicians sprayed chemicals on the floor of an auxiliary building, flooded by contaminated water during the accident, to stabilize iodine deposits.

Denton stressed that the leakage was minor.

"The dose rate that one would have received (from the iodine leaks) was one to two millirems to the thyroid of a child," Denton said. "An adult's dose would be a third of that." A normal dental X-ray gives off about 30 millirems.

La Salle discovered the mouth of the Mississippi River in 1682.

Ideological Division Widens In Tehran

TEHRAN (AP) — Supporters of the capital's top Shiite Moslem leader, whose family was abducted last week by unknown militiamen, rallied throughout Iran Tuesday in a widening rift between groups that supported the rise of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Demonstrations in favor of Ayatollah Mahmoud Taleghani were held in the capital and in Tabriz, Zanjan, Gorgan, Rasht, Mashad and in various cities along the Persian Gulf. No serious incidents were reported.

The demonstrations threatened to escalate into street confrontations between Khomeini's Islamic revolutionary committees and Taleghani's two heavily armed groups — the leftist Fedayeen and the Marxist-oriented Mojahedeen.

Taleghani, who organized the massive anti-shah demonstrations of the revolution, is the popular leader of Tehran's Shiite Moslems.

He left the capital Friday for an undisclosed hiding place to protest the detention of his two sons and daughter-in-law last Thursday by unidentified Islamic militiamen, reportedly opposed to his liberalism. There was no report of their release.

The reason for the attack on his family was not clear, but there was some speculation it was the work of Khomeini zealots.

The central organization that coordinates the Islamic committees Tuesday disclaimed any role in the abduction of Taleghani's children. But when Taleghani fled Tehran, the Mojahedeen and the Fedayeen announced a united pact opposing the committees.

Western observers speculated a bloody fight could develop between the ideologically opposed factions which had been united in the struggle to overthrow Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

About 20,000 persons gathered at Tehran University in support of Taleghani Tuesday. They were blocked at the university entrance by a rival group of militant Islamic youths. There were minor scuffles, but no injuries were reported as the crowd dispersed.

A statement issued in Taleghani's name urged restraint, but warned of restrictions on freedom.

"This is not a personal matter, but rather one that could harm the nation's freedom," said the statement. "We don't want to hand over the country to another dictator."

The Islamic committees are considered the ruling force in Iran. They were set up after the shah was driven from power in February, with the intent of running the country's affairs until a central government could restore order. The committees have been acting parallel to the provisional government of Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan — who was appointed by Khomeini — and government officials have complained they are powerless to control the committees.

Karim Sanjaby, who resigned Monday as foreign minister, referred to the various factions Tuesday as "numerous and irresponsible centers" of power outside the government.

The existence of "governments within governments ... could herald a new era of repression" and is hampering Bazargan's efforts to bring a speedy recovery of the country from the disorder and economic woes that accompanied the shah's ouster, Sanjaby said at a news conference.

The committees are responsible for the Islamic tribunals that have sentenced at least 136 persons to death since March.

The armed forces said Tuesday that army units would march today in the capital and in provincial cities to mark Army Day. The new holiday was apparently declared to boost the shattered morale of the 400,000-man army. The armed forces capitulated to the Islamic popular uprising in February. About 60 percent of the enlisted men who deserted have failed to return to duty following the takeover by the Islamic committees.

Oklahoma Trio Sought As Perjurers

PRYOR, Okla. (UPI) — Warrants for the arrest of three people accused of lying under oath during the Gene Leroy Hart murder trial were issued Tuesday afternoon, Mayes County district court officials said.

John Mahoney, assistant district attorney, confirmed the warrants had been issued and said the perjury charges would be filed after the people were arrested.

Mahoney said Mayes County Sheriff's deputies would serve the warrants and that officers were attempting to locate the people named.

Sheriff Pete Weaver said his office was still investigating statements made by people who testified during Hart's nationally publicized trial and that more warrants may be issued.

Hart, 35, was found innocent March 30 of the sex-slaying of three young Girl Scouts whose bludgeoned and bound bodies were found near their Camp Scott tent, about three miles south of Locust Grove.

Medical experts testified all three girls had been sexually assaulted. Two were beaten to death and one was strangled.

During the trial, defense attorneys Garvin Isaacs and Gary Pitchlynn suggested to jurors that evidence linking Hart to the killings may have been planted by law officers.

THE SHRINKING HOME
 The size of a typical American household has decreased steadily in the 20th century, The Conference Board notes. In 1890, the average home contained five people. That figure fell to 4.5 by 1920 and was down to 3.5 by 1940. After remaining at that level for 20 years, household size since has shrunk to just under three persons per residence. Today, only a third of homes are occupied by a family of four or more.

U.S. Grain Dealer Cites Turkey Debt

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the world's largest grain exporting companies wants Congress to help collect $80 million it says is owed by Turkey on a four-year-old wheat deal.

In arbitration proceedings and later in British courts, Continental's claim against Turkey was upheld. On Feb. 27, the company announced that Britain's highest court upheld the earlier decisions and denied Turkey a further appeal.

The grain company official said also that similar statutes exist "which prevent the U.S. from joining in World Bank loans to Turkey and extending trade preferences" while the default continues.

Palmy said a precedent for this type of action occurred in 1982 when Ceylon nationalized U.S. oil companies without compensation. All bilateral U.S. aid programs in Ceylon were suspended until it signed a compensation agreement with the companies in 1985, he said.

Search For Bodies Continues In Yugoslav Earthquake Area

DUBROVNIK, Yugoslavia (AP) — Troops patrolled against looting and rescue teams probed ruins for more bodies as thousands of victims of Easter's killer quake huddled in the rain under makeshift shelters Tuesday.

Military and civilian rescue workers with search dogs and electronic devices dug through the debris in scores of cities and towns along Yugoslavia's Adriatic coast.

Several more bodies were recovered Tuesday and officials expressed fear the death toll eventually will far exceed the government estimate of 101 dead, with more than 1,300 injured.

Government press reports in neighboring Albania said 35 persons were killed there.

Several thousand tourists, mainly from Europe but including hundreds of Americans, fled the area by car, bus and train. No foreigners were listed among the casualties.

More than 350 aftershocks, including a strong one at 6:40 a.m. Tuesday that tumbled already weakened walls, sent new ripples of fear through more than 80,000 Yugoslavs camped out in streets and parks.

Authorities warned the refugees not to return home until the buildings can be checked by engineers.

A drizzle continued through the day.

snuffing out fires built by the victims to keep warm and heat scarce food and water.

In the port city of Bar, where more than a dozen persons were killed, Swiss avalanche experts with electronic listening devices, earphones and dogs discovered the bodies of a Yugoslav man and boy buried under the concrete and wood ruins of the Agava Hotel. Fears that a number of tourists had been trapped in the collapsed hotel tuned out to be unfounded.

Armed soldiers guarded shopping areas in Bar and other hard-hit towns to protect against looting.

In Budva, health officers said there was an urgent need for typhoid vaccine because the municipal water supply was polluted and many victims had no utensils to boil drinking water. Government officials said vaccines were en route to Bar, Budva and Ulcinj.

Lila Minic, working at the emergency center in Budva, said 34 villages were reported destroyed in the mountains north of the city and "not all of the villages have been reached yet."

In the village of Limeljani, all 30 houses were destroyed, officials said, and 17 of the 70 residents perished.

Along the coastal rim where the quake was most devastating people used plastic sheets, blankets, broken doors and other debris to fashion shelters from the rain and wind.

Classes were suspended at schools in Titograd, the provincial capital of Montenegro, so that students could help transfer relief supplies being airlifted into the area.

Many survivors wept as they recalled friends and relatives crushed under the falling walls of their homes.

Jovan Stankovic, hospitalized in Titograd with pelvic and leg fractures, said, "I was awakened by the quake and ran out. My sister and my brother were not so quick and stayed behind. Both died in the house. I can't talk anymore."

U.S. Ambassador Laurence Eagleburger was among hundreds of persons in Belgrade donating blood for the injured.

Ulcinj, an ancient coastal town once known as a pirates' lair, was among the hardest hit, with more than 20 deaths reported.

The first quake Sunday registered 6.5 on the Richter scale. It was centered in the Adriatic Sea off Dubrovnik and sent shockwaves felt as far as Germany.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion as recorded on seismographs. Every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in magnitude. An earthquake of 5 on the Richter scale can cause considerable damage, 6 severe damage, and a 7 reading means a major quake.

Bomb Kills Four In Ireland

BESSBROOK, Northern Ireland (AP) — A booby-trap bomb killed four policemen Tuesday in the worst such incident in a decade of Northern Ireland's sectarian violence. Twelve persons were injured in the explosion, an apparent escalation of the Irish Republican Army's spring offensive against British rule.

The police were killed when a bomb blew up their Land Rover as it passed a booby-trapped van parked on the road, police said. It was the highest police death toll in a single incident since Northern Ireland's troubles began in 1969.

Four other police and a family in a passing car were injured.

There was no claim of responsibility for the blast, but police said it had all the signs of an IRA ambush.

Violence had eased off in 1978, but guerrillas of the predominantly Roman Catholic organization launched a new onslaught last month to coincide with the British National election campaign. After Tuesday's blast, an Ulster political leader urged that more troops be sent to the province until the May 3 elections are over.

At first police said the explosion was caused by a land mine planted in a drainage culvert under the road. But a Royal Ulster Constabulary spokesman in Belfast said later the bomb was hidden in a small van parked on the roadside near the culvert.

World's Active Volcanoes Total More Than 500

BLOW 'N' GO — There are more than 500 active volcanoes in the world. They range from explosive types such as Soufriere on the Caribbean island of St. Vincent to less-violent Kilauea on Hawaii, which produces molten lava streams. Seen here is Japan's Mt. Sakurajima as it erupted in 1976. (AP Laserphoto)

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The rumblings of the geologic time bomb known as Soufriere volcano come 77 years after that same mountain spewed forth death and destruction, taking more than 3,000 lives.

B NEWS
 Lubbock Avalanche-Journal
 Wednesday, April 18, 1979

Volcanoes are named for the Roman god Vulcan, arms maker for the other gods. The Romans thought the smoking mountain Vulcano off the coast of Italy was the chimney of his forge.

But while residents of the Caribbean island of St. Vincent know of the danger in their midst — and no one was killed in the Friday the 13th eruption last week — the same hazard exists in parts of the world where people are less aware of the danger. There are more than 500 active volcanoes in the world ranging from the explosive types, such as Soufriere, to the non-explosive ones like Kilauea on Hawaii, which produces streams of highly fluid lava.

"We consider a volcano active when it has erupted within recorded history. Most of the world's volcanoes are dormant, and thus are deceptively quiet. They are dangerous because they are like geologic time bombs that can erupt with very little warning," commented Dr. Robert Tilling of the U.S. Geological Survey.

And the United States isn't immune, added Tilling, chief of the survey's Office of Geochemistry and Geophysics. Besides the volcanoes in Hawaii there are several others in this country, some of which resemble Soufriere, he said.

"In the Cascades we know that there are some volcanoes that have the potential for explosive eruption," he commented, referring to the Northwest mountain range. "Lassen Peak, Mount Shasta, Mount Hood, Mount St. Helens and Mount Baker ... have erupted in the past and can erupt again in the future."

He said his agency is now monitoring some of these mountains to watch for signs that might precede an eruption. "While there is no general method developed yet for making predictions of volcanic eruptions, recent studies ... have revealed certain precursor signs and patterns prior to eruptions," Tilling said. He said eruptions of Kilauea have been preceded by a swelling of the ground and swarms of minor earthquakes.

A growing problem worldwide, he explained, is that past eruptions have deposited layers of ash and lava around volcanoes that have eventually turned into fertile soil. Attracting large populations to the very areas where they are likely to be affected by an eruption.

Basically, scientists describe volcanoes as openings, or windows, in the surface of the earth through which molten rock and gas from the interior of the planet can reach the surface. Some volcanoes, like Stromboli in Italy, may erupt continuously for centuries, while others lie quiet for a thousand years and then burst unexpectedly.

The Hawaiian Islands were formed by volcanic activity, as were many Caribbean islands, such as St. Vincent. A new volcano forged its way from under the sea in 1963 creating the island Surtsey near Iceland.

The last major eruption of Soufriere came May 6-7, 1962, taking more than 3,000 lives. It occurred in conjunction with one of the most destructive volcanic eruptions in history, that of Pelee on the island of Martinique. Pelee exploded violently a day later, wiping out the port of St. Pierre, killing 30,000.

Soufriere is a name given to several volcanoes that give off gases, and the one on St. Vincent is also known as Morne Garou.

Not far away, on Guadeloupe, is another volcano also called Soufriere. In between is Martinique.

A prehistoric eruption destroyed the summit of the Soufriere on St. Vincent, forming a large crater similar to that formed on Vesuvius in 79 A.D. Later eruptions built another cone inside Soufriere, creating a double crater.

This volcano also erupted in 1718, 1785 and 1812, taking lives each time. But it has a tradition of eruptions even earlier, as Carib Indians who greeted Columbus on the island in 1498 lived in fear of the mountain.

An account of the 1812 eruption in Jay Robert Nash's book "Darkest Hours," says the volcano's roar was heard in Venezuela and Barbados and adds: "The imprisoned gases broke through the rocky side of the mountain with inconceivable fury and hurled into the heavens a cloud of shattered rocks, dust and black volumes of smoke that for three days thereafter covered the island with the darkness of night."

St. Louis Bank Again First To Chop Interest

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Southwest Bank of St. Louis has again led the nation's lenders in reducing its prime rate from 11½ percent to 11¼ percent. Its chief executive officer says high interest rates increase rather than decrease inflation.

I. A. Long, chairman of the board of Southwest Bank, announced the reduction Tuesday. It was the second time this year that the bank, with assets of about $150 million, led in a prime rate reduction. On Jan. 30, it dropped the rate from 11½ percent to 11¼ percent.

A few of the nation's large banks followed suit after that decrease, but the vast majority are still at 11½ percent.

Long said the bank "wants to do its part in bringing down every person's cost of borrowing."

"For businesses, interest rates are just one more cost to be passed along to consumers in the form of higher prices, thereby fueling the fires of inflation," he said.

Long said the decision to again reduce the prime rate, the rate charged a bank's best corporate customers, was based "on the same short-term money market statistics and considerations that banks have used for years."

He also noted that the rate on 90-day commercial paper is down 0.65 percent.

Long said he predicts a modest recession starting by midyear and a prime rate decline to about 9 percent by year's end.

LULAC Official Asks Probe Of Wichita Falls Shooting

CORPUS CHRISTI (UPI) — The state's oldest organization of Spanish-speaking persons Tuesday asked Attorney General Mark White to investigate the police shooting of an unarmed curfew violator at tornado-stricken Wichita Falls.

Ruben Bonilla, state director of the League of United Latin American Citizens, sent White a telegram urging him to conduct an investigation and to monitor any grand jury hearings in the case.

"The victim was not in custody. The victim carried no weapon. The victim posed no threat to the policeman's safety, nor was he a danger to any other citizen's well being. He was not in the act of committing a felony. There is no evidence at this point that the victim was stealing," Bonilla said.

Bonilla said the shooting of man, who carried a Social Security card identifying him as Daniel Sosa, "is simply compounding the tragedy that exists in Wichita Falls" in the aftermath of last week's killer tornado.

"The officer's version of course is that he shouted 'halt, stop, halt,' and said the suspect turned with his hand in his pocket," Bonilla said. "I don't know how he can turn and still be shot in the back."

"In most urban areas the use of warning shots is prohibited and in most instances deadly force is not used unless an officer's life is in danger."

Benefit For Tornado Victims Planned

The Main Street Saloon is holding a benefit concert today for the Wichita Falls tornado victims. Featuring entertainment by Kevin Haywood, Brad Carter, Mike Prichard, Jay Teneague and Peyton Fullingim, the benefit gets under way at 9 p.m. The saloon is donating $1 from the purchase price of pitchers of beer, 25 cents from bar highballs and 50 cents from call highballs to the Wichita County chapter of the American Red Cross. There is no cover charge. The club is at 2417-A Main St.

Hints from Heloise

HI FRIENDS:

Here it is, time to get out all your camping, golfing, and fishing equipment. Oh! Don't forget last year's swimsuit — you think it will fit?

I hope that all this equipment was cleaned and oiled (not the bathing suit, even though it might need it if you have gained weight) when it was put away, but now it should be done all over again.

First, pull out that beautiful boat, clean the motor and make sure it is working properly. You'd hate to get stranded out in the middle of the lake — it could be a long swim back!

Since your boat is in good shape, get out your skis, fishing tackle, rod and reel, etc. Make sure the rod is not warped and that you have plenty of hooks, sinkers, and line. You never can tell, your wife may rush in and want to go fishing.

Now, there are those golf clubs. After all the cold weather, just think how nice it will be to get out in that beautiful sunshine and show the guys that you haven't lost your swing. Make sure you have plenty of golf balls. You know how you are around the water!

Don't forget your camping equipment — your tent needs to be aired out. Also check the stove, all the cooking utensils, any folding chairs that might need repairs.

Ok, everything has been checked, you are all set for the first pretty day!

So where shall we go? The lake? The golf course? Or just on a picnic? WHAT? Everyone wants to go a different place!!!

Oh well, you can't win 'em all — there will be other pretty days. Have fun! — Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

How about adding some good driving hints to your column? Here's a most needed one.

Always move over and let faster traffic pass you. Watch around you and notice how much traffic backs up because one person blocks a lane (especially the fast one) and won't let people pass.

The trick of smooth driving is to keep traffic flowing. Don't be a bottleneck. Someday it will be your turn to get through and how you'll appreciate the thoughtful driver who lets you pass by! — Evelyn

DEAR HELOISE:

Before I forget, I had better jot it down — right?

I have a long spout watering can for plants, the kind for house plants.

It makes a good pitcher for pouring water in your steam iron also. You can direct the water right into that small opening, no spilling!

Thank you, so much, for a valuable and interesting column. I try to never miss it. — Mrs. H.C. Lindquist

You're a lady after my own heart! Always thinking how to do things the easy way. — Heloise

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE: Just recently we started getting a daily newspaper with your column in it. I wouldn't miss one of them for the world.

Thought I'd share with you a small tip I learned the other day. When you bake cookies and you take them off your cookie sheets, some crumbs usually remain. Instead of throwing them away, put them back in your cookie dough. To add a little extra crunch, stir up an icing for your cookies and put some of the crumbs in the icing.

Makes it taste like you've added nuts, and no one is the wiser. — Cookie Fan

Edwin Kantar runs an article on defense in each month's ACBL bulletin. Today's hand is from February and shows North and South at a rather poor six notrump. They get there because North's two-club opening bid which showed 22 or 23 points was the minimum of 22 and South's three-notrump response which showed a balanced 10-12 was the minimum 10.

On the other hand if the hand were actually played the chances are that expert South would make it.

South wins the heart in dummy and plays a spade. At this point if East is careless he will play the four-spot. South will stick in the 10. Later on South will run off the hearts, cash the ace of spades and the diamonds. On the last diamond East will be squeezed in clubs and spades.

Eddy points out that East can break up the squeeze by playing a spade honor at trick two.

Look the whole hand over carefully. That spade play becomes an easy one. South is known to have the queen of hearts from the opening lead. He needs both aces to come to at least 10 points. If he also holds the spade

N-Filmmaker Mum On Coincidence

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Columbia Pictures is not corporately amused by jokes about the great publicity coup of the Three Mile Island nuclear reactor incident coming on the heels of the release of "The China Syndrome."

The film, starring Jack Lemmon and Jane Fonda, is almost a blueprint for what occurred at the nuclear power plant near Harrisburg, Pa., March 28.

Columbia, in fact, is doing all it can to look the other way. It has released no formal statement about the eerie coincidence that has made its film about the meltdown of an atomic reactor the most controversial and — so far — the most popular picture of 1979.

In the first month of its release, "The China Syndrome," which cost somewhat more than $6 million, has grossed $30 million in 969 theaters, which one studio spokesman said will make it one of the highest-grossing films in Columbia history.

It won't compare with the studio's biggest commercial success, "Close Encounters of the Third Kind," however, which amassed $75 million in rentals.

The studio would like to think "The China Syndrome" would have done almost as well without the near-disaster at Three Mile Island.

"The figures on the picture are very unusual," one Columbia publicist said, "but we can't be sure that the Three Mile Island incident is responsible.

"The picture got terrific and almost universal praise by the critics. So there is good reason for us to believe it would have been successful without all the attention that has been brought to it by the crisis."

Displaying uncharacteristic Hollywood restraint, the studio, the film's stars and its producer, Michael Douglas — son of Kirk Douglas who also stars in the picture — underplayed the similarities between the Harrisburg incident and the movie's story.

A meeting was held among studio bigshots and Douglas shortly after the nuclear plant mishap to determine what the official policy would be. It was agreed that no one should capitalize on what could become a national catastrophe.

"If anything can be said on behalf of the company, it is that the coincidence is startling and of tremendous concern to us," the Columbia man said. "It was too big a crisis and the implications were far too serious for us to try to publicize our picture."

A Douglas associate said the producer refused a request from Walter Cronkite to appear on CBS news for an interview with an explanation that he was a filmmaker, not a scientist.

Douglas, booked for an appearance on the "Johnny Carson Show" weeks before the events in Pennsylvania, canceled out after the nuclear accident.

"Before March 28 we had been getting a lot of mail and telephone objections from energy companies and nonuclear groups," a Columbia spokesman said. "They thought our picture was over-stated and anti-nuclear power."

"We didn't get a single letter or phone call after the Harrisburg incident."

"The picture was out two weeks before it all happened. And it's strange that at one point in the dialogue a scientist explains what could happen in the event of a nuclear meltdown. He says it could render permanently uninhabitable an area the size of Pennsylvania."

"Theater owners in Pennsylvania say the audience reacts to that line with shouts and some nervousness."

"The China Syndrome" was filmed on locations in Southern California. The impressive control room was a set built at the studio. A conventional power plant in the Southern California area was used for exteriors.

The studio said politicians have clamored for private showings of the film and it has been thoroughly scanned by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission since the Three Mile Island crisis.

According to Columbia, the movie has become a rallying point for anti-nuclear groups, who have paraded in front of theaters where the film is being shown. Pro-nuclear power groups are keeping a low profile.

Because "The China Syndrome" was booked into theaters last fall, there haven't been any last-minute requests by theater owners to capitalize on the publicity by trying to book the film.

Columbia said television news programs asked for special clips and were denied. The excerpts seen on TV news shows were promotional clips sent out for viewing before the Three Mile Island incident.

"Let's just say we at Columbia, like everyone else, would have preferred that the nuclear plant accident never happened," a company spokesman said.

Art Dealer Draws Sentence After Link To Stolen Works

PARIS (AP)—A world-renowned Paris art dealer was sentenced to three years in prison Tuesday on charges of trafficking in stolen masterpieces, dramatizing a French crackdown on the burgeoning art-thief racket.

Paul Petrides, 78, was accused of buying and selling 18 canvases stolen in 1972 from a Paris businessman's home. The court called the crimes "particularly grave, because they were committed by a renowned expert who exploited his fame."

Petrides, who rose from penniless beginnings in Cyprus to own one of the most fashionable art galleries in Paris, is considered the discoverer of French master Maurice Utrillo and several Dutch painters, and the foremost authority on their work.

Petrides claimed in court that he bought and sold the paintings in good faith, and accused his supplier, 33-year-old French playboy Marc Francalet, of being the culprit.

But the court retorted that Petrides must have known a crime had been committed since he bought the works for far less than their true worth.

PULITZER PRIZES

The Pulitzer Prizes were endowed by Joseph Pulitzer (1847-1922), publisher of The New York World, in a bequest to Columbia University, and are awarded annually by the president of the university on recommendation of an advisory board.

Francalet was also sentenced to three years.

Petrides has 15 days to appeal his case, during which time he remains free.

The trial brought to light the ease with which stolen art can be smuggled out of France, simply by supplying false information to customs authorities on the nature of the work.

French police dealing with stolen art say it is the biggest international racket after narcotics, netting $33 million a year.

Plainsmen Too Strong For Ponies

By BOB BAJACKSON
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
How catcher Kelly Smith helped the Plainsmen win the first game of the doubleheader at Lowrey Field won't exactly be echoing through the halls of Monterey High School today. All that was entered in the scorer's book was a time at bat.

Smith brought home pinch runner Dewayne Smith from third base with the winning run on a ground ball hit towards shortstop as the Plainsmen defeated the Mustangs 4-3. The momentum then carried over in the second contest as Steve Coleman shutout Coronado 2-0 to complete the twinbill sweep.

The victories propell Monterey into first place in the 4-AAAA race with a 6-2 record. The two losses drop Coronado to 5-2. However, the Mustangs can share the top spot if they defeat the Plainview Bulldogs in a makeup game Thursday.

"I really wasn't feeling any pressure," said catcher Smith. "There was only one out at the time. When I started to worry is when I hit the ball. I thought I hit it a lot better than I did."

Smith grounded the ball on the second base side of shortstop. However, in his haste to field the ball and throw it home, the ball went by Donald Ewing and into left center field. Meanwhile, Dewayne Smith took off for home, and book slid safely across the plate, which brought the players in the Plainsmen dugout to their feet in celebration.

Ricky Pinkerton (4-0, 1-0), somewhat of a surprise starter, went the distance in recording the victory. Gene Segrest (6-1, 2-1) was charged with the loss.

"I went with Ricky finally, because he's a control pitcher," said Monterey coach Bobby Moegle during a break before the second game. "He won't walk anybody. Ricky will make them earn their way on."

The Plainsmen got to Segrest in the bottom of the third with three runs on just two hits.

Plainsmen second baseman Randy Ledbetter socked the key hit, when he

Miners Strike Gold Against LCC

By RUSS PARSONS
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff
First, Chaparral fans, the good news: It didn't rain.

At least not much. The Lubbock Christian College baseball team managed to play one game of a scheduled doubleheader with Texas-El Paso Tuesday.

Which brings us to the bad news. Hold on to your red, white and blue LCC hats, here it comes: The Chaps were five-hit by a fellow who had pitched only 13 1/3 innings all year (and allowed 30 hits). They saw four of their top throwers blasted and learned that one of them, John Ross, may have a recurrence of an elbow problem that caused him to miss an entire season a couple of years ago. And, oh yes, they lost the game 5-1.

Luis Melendez, tagged with a 12 1/2 ERA up till now, was the chap who dealt the Chaps their fifth loss in the last eight games (of course, three of those were reversed among the now-famous Texas Wesleyan forfeits).

Melendez, who lasted six innings, threw a surprisingly good game, not getting in trouble until the late innings and then escaping behind some good fielding.

The key getaway was in the fifth inning. With two out, Melendez began tiring. Scott Wolf banged a single to center and then was replaced by courtesy runner Karl Mahan.

Richard Bowles, the next man up, blooped a bunt single. Melendez fielded it and threw it in the dirt for a two-base error that allowed Mahan to cross.

Steve Brigante walked and stole second and Tim Leslie walked to load the bases and bring the winning run to first.

That's when Kenny Toney bounced a 2-2 pitch to the shortstop. Routine play to second, forcing Leslie and the inning was over.

So much for the Chap offense. It looked like the defense would get all the breaks in the early going as UTEP pounded starter Ross but, like a sloppy heavyweight, couldn't find the putaway. See CHAPARRALS Page 2

Huston, Kelly Cop Red Raider Honors

Don Kelly and Geoff Houston stood with a young coach from Cleveland, Tenn. Tuesday night as the outstanding performers in their respective sports as the Red Raider Club honored Tech athletes at the annual all-sports banquet.

Kelly, the senior from Blooming Grove who made all-Southwest Conference line-backer for the surprising Raiders, was presented the Pete Cawthon Memorial Award as the best all-round footballer.

And Huston, the senior from Brooklyn who quarterbacked the Raider basketballers to a 19-12 season record and into the post-season NIT, received the annual Polk Robison Award as the outstanding player.

The two awards highlighted Tuesday night's awards banquet, as Kelly and Huston shared the spotlight with Rex Dockery, the Raiders' football coach who was principal speaker.

Dockery, who earned Coach of the Year honors for his 7-4 finish last fall in his first season as head man, came in for his share of ovations as his honors were announced.

The recognition for Huston and Kelly were only two of the awards handed out at the program which was attended by more than 1400 persons in Lubbock Coliseum.

Brian Nelson, the Raiders' wide receiver from Wichita Falls, received the Dell Morgan Memorial Courage Award, given annually to the footballer best exemplifying the characteristics of the late Tech coach. And defensive lineman Curtis Reed received the Donny Anderson Sportsmanship Award for his conduct both on and off the field.

Cody Aulricht of Dallas, who set school records in both the 100 and 200 breaststroke events last season, received the Top Swimmer Award. And defensive tackle David Hill of Seminole received the JT King Award as the most improved football player in spring training.

The Arch Lamb Spirit Awards went in football to Godfrey Turner, in basketball to Huston, in baseball to Rusty Laughlin, in track to Ricky McCormick, in swimming to Steve Degenfelder, in golf to Mel Callender and in tennis to David Crissey.

One award remains to be presented, to the most valuable baseball player, but since the season is still under way, it will be presented later. The finalists, as announced Tuesday, are Larry Selby, John

Dow Posts Small Loss

NEW YORK (AP) — Several stocks responding to takeover developments and earnings reports posted gains Tuesday while the rest of the market drifted to a slight loss.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had tumbled 10.05 Monday for its largest loss in more than six weeks, dropped another 2.52 to 857.93.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange totaled 29.26 million shares, against 28.05 million the day before.

On the busy takeover front, Revco D.S. climbed 3 1/8 to 29 7/8 as of the 4 p.m. close in New York.

The Twinsburg, Ohio-based operator of discount drug stores said it had discussed the possibility of its being acquired by F.W. Woolworth.

Woolworth, which is itself fighting a takeover bid by Brascan Ltd. of Canada, dropped 1/2 to 28 7/8 and led the active list on volume of more than 550,000 shares.

Brascan's class A stock eased 1/8 to 20 1/2 on the American Stock Exchange.

Meanwhile, Interway Corp. jumped 5/8 to 29 1/2. The company, which is in the transportation-equipment leasing business, said it rejected a $37-a-share bid for its stock by GTC Corp.

New York (AP) — Tuesday's national prices for New York Stock Exchange stocks were mixed, with volume consolidated for securities also traded on other markets.
