Militiamen wound eight U.N. troops in new republic

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli-backed Lebanese Christian militiamen, fighting to drive "foreign troops" out of the vest-pocket republic they proclaimed in southern Lebanon, wounded eight U.N. soldiers today in an attack on the international peace force's administrative base there.

Lebanese President Elias Sarkis' Cabinet met in emergency session and ordered a court-martial on Monday for Maj. Saad Haddad, 39, leader of the rebels, on high treason charges. Government sources said an in absentia death sentence was expected.

U.N. spokesman Hugo Rocha said six Irish soldiers and two Dutch officers were hurt when the Israeli-armed militiamen poured 4,000 machine gun rounds and 150 rockets and mortar shells into the U.N. compound at Naqura, three miles north of the Israeli-Lebanese border.

"It was a totally unprovoked attack," Rocha told The Associated Press in Jerusalem. "That is only the administrative unit."

Although their mandate permits them to defend themselves, the peacekeepers did not return fire, said Rocha.

Israeli officers arranged a cease-fire, Rocha reported, but the militiamen fired two more short machine gun bursts later in the morning.

Preliminary reports said two helicopters were damaged.

A Norwegian soldier was killed during clashes Wednesday between the militiamen and peacekeeping troops of the United Nations Interim Force in Lebanon, or UNIFIL, Rocha said.

The Naqura compound is within the "Free Lebanon" state Haddad declared Wednesday in response to the movement of a battalion of 500 Lebanese army troops into the U.N. buffer zone. It was the first deployment of the revived army into south Lebanon, and Sarkis said it was the first step in his government's taking control of the south.

Haddad, an officer in the Lebanese army until it disintegrated during the 1975-76 civil war, and his militiamen control a strip six miles wide and 59 miles long along the Lebanese side of the Israeli frontier, which the Israelis turned over to them after their invasion of Lebanon in the spring of 1978.

The Israelis support the Christian militiamen because they serve as a buffer force to reduce the infiltration of Palestinian guerrillas across the frontier for attacks in Israel. Haddad contends that if the Lebanese army takes over the south, the 30,000 Syrian soldiers in northern and central Lebanon will force it to let the Palestinians return to the area, which they dominated before the civil war.

Haddad's declaration of independence was generally condemned though there was no comment from Israel. The presidential palace in Beirut said the government "does not attach any importance" to the major's declaration and asked the world not to overestimate Haddad.

"Enough of states within a state," said Pierre Gemayel, one of Lebanon's three chief Christian leaders.

Arab governments charged it was a Zionist plot.

Hance raps tax on windfall profits

Says oil profits no higher than other industries

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

Deregulation will bring some higher costs for gasoline, U.S. Rep. Kent Hance of Lubbock said at Midland Regional Airport today, but the country will benefit in the future from increased drilling and production.

Hance, who represents the 19th Congressional District, which includes Midland, outlined his views on President Carter's policies on deregulation, the energy crisis, nuclear energy and home loans during a news conference in the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission office at the air terminal.

The West Texas congressman said he opposes the windfall profit tax which Carter has tacked on to his deregulation plan.

"You need to provide an incentive for producers to go back and try again," he said, complaining that the tax would eliminate that incentive, even with deregulation.

"Profits claimed by the petroleum industry are no higher than profits claimed by the other industry," the congressman maintained.

"We need all out production to solve the energy crisis in this country," Hance said. The United States is the largest consumer of oil with 19 million barrels per day, while Japan is second with only two million, he said.

The U.S.'s large trade deficit was attributed by Hance to Carter's delay as concerns decontrol.

"Every time we pay $15 or $20 a barrel for crude oil, that money is going outside the United States."

Standard Oil of Ohio's proposed California to Midland pipeline, which the company announced recently had been halted, would bring 500,000 barrels of crude oil a day from Alaska and would help relieve the energy crunch, he said.

To get that pipeline project moving ahead, Hance said he has introduced a bill which would put control of the pipeline in the federal government's hands and take it out of the state's.

His bill incorporates the same wording used in the Alaskan Pipeline bill, according to the congressman.

Hance blamed environmentalists, including one of California's Gov. Jerry Brown's top aides, for stopping the pipeline.

Residents in the area of the proposed pipeline voted 62 percent in favor of the project, and Sohio also agreed to install air pollution control devices," he said today.

The country should not turn its back on nuclear energy as a result of the Three Mile Island incident in which some radiation leaked to the atmosphere, said Hance.

"The biggest problem with that incident is a psychological one," he said. "At Three Mile Island there were a lot of mistakes, both human and mechanical. We need to move in the direction of more nuclear power but with certain safeguards."

After being advised few people in the area had been purchasing homes through the Federal Housing Authority because their appraisals were too low in the Midland-Odessa area, Hance said he has worked out a deal with the agency in that regard.

Since appraisals done by the Veterans Administration generally ran closer to fair market level, he said, the VA figures now are being used by the FHA.

That plan, Hance said, started April 1 and is being tried on a six-month basis. He said it should open up the housing market for people with moderate incomes.

The former Lubbock attorney said skyrocketing beef prices now have cattlemen "finally making a profit."

Importation of beef made U.S. producers lose confidence in selling their own cattle and they dropped production, he said. Now, beef is scarce "all over the world," Hance said.

Carter's anti-inflation measures, including voluntary wage and price controls, have been widely criticized. But Hance said the guidelines are working better than mandatory controis would have.

"When the mandatory controls are taken off, prices skyrocket," Hance said.

Inflation problems will not be solved soon, the congressman predicted, but he said Congress will be "tight fisted in the next two years."

Two savings institutions in Basin bought by firm

Acquisition of two savings and loan associations, one based in Midland and the other in Odessa, by Transwestern United Corp. was announced today by Ray P. Moudy, president of Citizens Savings and Loan Association in Midland, and Larry J. Melton, president of Home Savings Association in Odessa.

The main purpose of placing these two important area financial institutions under common ownership is to strengthen both associations and provide the Permian Basin area with a broader source of home mortgages, Melton said.

Moudy noted combined total assets of the two associations and the holding company are in excess of $139 million.

This makes Transwestern United

Corp. the largest savings and loan holding company headquartered in the Permian Basin, Moudy added.

He said the joining of both Home Savings and Citizens Savings in a company whose board of directors is made up of residents from both communities is an indication that the businessmen of both Midland and Odessa can, when it is for the betterment of each community, work together for a common purpose.

Officers of the company will be Moudy, president; Melton, vice president; and Lynn S. Hunt of Midland, secretary-treasurer.

The board will be composed of I. Docker, Dawson of Midland, Bill G. Elms of Odessa, Sidney S. Lindley of Hospital trustees informed of current money problems

By SUSAN TOIH
Staff Writer

Operational problems with the remodeling and construction coupled with a lower than expected daily patient load have combined to create a financial problem for Midland Memorial Hospital, hospital trustees were told Wednesday.

"Deficits are larger than expected and incomes are lower than projected," finance committee chairman John Grimland said.

Grimland said hospital staff members were looking at the budgeted deficits to see if they were realistic and were studying room rates for possible adjustments.

"Nothing is stopping inflation. We just have to keep on paying that," Grimland noted.

Trustees approved writing off some $83,765 in bad debts, including some involving indigent care patients. Grimland emphasized, however, that not all of that amount would be written off when the books were closed.

Last month, for instance, trustees agreed to an $80,000 write-off, but ended last month with only $30,000 of that uncollected, he said.

Reports from the building committee showed all the new hospital con-

Awarded this month for center that fell in and no one noticed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire lambasted two federal agencies today for spending $279,000 on a rural community center so isolated that it collapsed without anyone noticing immediately.

The Wisconsin Democrat awarded his monthly Golden Fleece Award to the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Commerce Department's Economic Development Administration, which jointly financed the center for Merrill Township, Mich.

HUD provided $100,000 for the building and EDA spent $179,000 on a never-completed road to the center.

Last Feb. 22, the senator said, a woodsman discovered the building had fallen in and reported it to the local postmaster, who told the sheriff and the township supervisor, who in turn called HUD's Detroit regional office.

Russian's cure for nearsightedness put down by U.S. experts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Russian surgeon's method of "curing" nearsightedness by cutting the outside of the cornea may work temporarily, but could create serious problems in the long run, several American eye experts say.

Dr. Svyatoslav N. Fyodorov claims he can help myopic persons with 20/200 vision achieve 20/20 or 20/40 sight simply by making a series of cuts on the periphery of the cornea.

The cuts allow the cornea to flatten out, thereby reducing the high curvature that caused the nearsightedness in the first place, Fyodorov said Tuesday at a news conference at the Russian Embassy. Several leading American eye surgeons expressed strong reservations about the technique in interviews Wednesday.

The cuts could permanently weaken the cornea, and the eye is likely to bulge back to its original shape in the long run, they said.

Nevertheless, a few American ophthalmologists are trying the Soviet surgeon's method.

Dr. Richard C. Troutman of the Manhattan Eye and Ear Hospital in New York said Fyodorov's procedure is not very precise. "It's like playing a little Russian roulette with your cornea — six shots and hope it comes out all right," he said.

Dr. Malcolm McCarbelle, a Minneapolis eye surgeon, said, "I don't think there are very many eye doctors in the Western world who would recommend" using Fyodorov's technique.

Robert Drews, a St. Louis eye surgeon, agreed with McCarbelle, noting that, "Myopia doesn't make people go blind or anything. You just have to wear glasses or contact lenses."

But Fyodorov, who speaks English, scorns the way "man has been held in bondage to spectacles for the last 500 years. His very nose and ears are imprisoned by glasses."

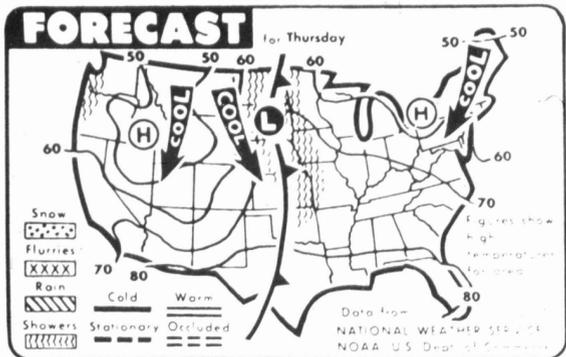

The enthusiastic 51-year-old Soviet doctor, who is a recognized expert on intraocular lenses for cataract patients, says he thinks his technique for nearsightedness will be particularly useful for pilots or others whose job requires them to have near-perfect sight.

Fyodorov's method is a variation on a technique first tried in 1952 by a Japanese doctor named Sato who actually cut into the cornea to reshape it. But that method fell into disuse because of unpredictable results and a high risk of infection, Fyodorov said.

Doctors at the Moscow Research Laboratory of Experimental and Clinical Problems of Eye Surgery have performed 1,300 of the operations since 1972 without problems, Fyodorov said.

More rain included in forecast

Skies over Midland could deliver more rain tonight following a nighttime thunderstorm earlier this week.

The forecast just about "guarantees" some moisture, said an irony-minded weatherman at the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport this morning.

He said there is actually only a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms, but that, lately, such a low probability of rain has coincided with actual rainfall more often than higher percentages.

The low tonight should be in the mid-50s.

Friday's high under likely fair skies is expected to be in the mid-70s, said the weatherman.

Though no rain has been gauged here in last 24 hours, rain to date this month totals 1.63 inches, which is almost double the .85-inch average for April.

Total measurable rainfall so far this year is 2.86 inches — 27 inch higher than the normal of 2.59 inches through this month.

Wednesday's high reading of 88 degrees was within eight degrees of tying the record high of 96 degrees, set on April 18, 1948.

Today's low of 66 degrees was 29 above the record low of 37 degrees, set in 1953.

The same weatherman also boldly predicted that the latest-freeze record — 27 degrees on April 20, 1933 — was not in any danger of being broken Friday.

Two men injured in car-pickup wreck in Odessa

ODESSA — A Midland man was treated and released from Medical Center Hospital in Odessa Wednesday while an Odessa resident remained in satisfactory condition this morning following a car-pickup collision at the intersection of Loop 338 and East 42nd Street here.

Robert Charles Harbour, 38, of Midland was treated and released at the hospital following the accident, which occurred Wednesday morning.

Ricardo Soto Payen, 64, of Odessa was listed in satisfactory condition at the hospital today.

According to police reports, Payen was driving a pickup east on 42nd Street and Harbour was driving north on Loop 338 about 8 a.m. Wednesday when the accident occurred.

The 19th Congressional District will send its first woman to the U.S. Air Force Academy when Holly Franz reports June 25 to the Colorado Springs, Colo., facility. The 17-year-old Lee High School senior is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland

Franz of Midland. Reviewing the appointment paperwork with Miss Franz in Midland on Wednesday are Maj. John M. Williams, Academy Liaison officer, and U.S. Rep. Kent Hance. (Staff Photo)

Three killed, 15 injured when commuter helicopter crashes

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The pilot radioed he was having control problems shortly before his commuter helicopter dropped 100 feet and crashed on a runway at Newark International Airport, killing three persons and injuring 15.

He (the pilot) was trying to return to land," said an eyewitness, Gordon Wilkes, a Federal Aviation Administration controller. "It looked like he was going to make it, but about 100 feet from the ground it nosed off."

The New York Airways craft, a Sikorsky S61, left Newark at 6:20 p.m. Wednesday, bound for New York's LaGuardia Airport. Three minutes later, it slammed into the runway just 200 yards from the busy New Jersey Turnpike.

The 30-passenger white helicopter with 18 persons on board hit the ground on its belly, then flipped over, its rotors bent and its canopy mangled, eyewitnesses said.

Crash victims were taken to five area hospitals, where four persons were listed in guarded condition and six were in fair condition. Three passengers were treated and released.

Two of the three dead were identified as Cecilia Augusta, 75, of Newark and Mary Stolarz, 63, of Jamaica, N.Y. The third victim, believed to be from Illinois, was not immediately identified.

Two crew members, the pilot, Capt. Leslie Carter of Rockville Center, N.Y., and co-pilot Capt. Lee Richmond of Northport, N.Y., were reported in critical condition at Martland Medical Center.

Ben Kocivar, a spokesman for the commuter airline, said Richmond and the flight attendant, Lannie Chevaller of Jamaica, N.Y., were among the crew of a New York Airways helicopter that crashed atop the Pan Am Building in midtown Manhattan in May 1977. Five persons were killed in that crash, including a pedestrian 59 stories below.

FAA spokesman Robert Fulton said Carter reported he was "experiencing control problems," and started to return to the airport before the crash.

Kathy Pinho, one of the first rescue workers at the scene, said that when the pilot was pulled from the craft, he said that he had felt the steering snap.

Carter reportedly turned and yelled into the passenger compartment, "We're going to crash."

"The helicopter started vibrating after takeoff and the stewardess asked everyone to remain calm," said a passenger, John White, of Pomona, N.Y. "When it was vibrating, insulation flakes started drifting around the cabin area."

White, 32, said he and two other passengers knocked out an emergency window and escaped.

Nation's economy showing recession trend

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy sputtered to its lowest growth rate in a year during the first three months of 1979, indicating the economy could be dipping toward a recession if the trend continues, government figures showed today.

The 7 percent increase in the gross national product in January through March was less than expected and was down sharply from a 6.9 percent rate of growth in the final quarter of 1978. The first-quarter rate was the lowest since a 1 percent decline in the same period last year.

The sharp slowdown to support the argument of the Federal Reserve Board, that economic growth already is slowing and that further measures to dampen the economy could plunge the nation into a serious recession.

While the 7 percent rate of growth was near the recession level of less than zero percent growth, Miller and top administration experts believe the economy will rebound at least partly from the low first-quarter growth, thus avoiding a recession in the near future.

The unusually severe winter in many parts of the country was at least partly to blame for the slow economic growth in the first quarter. But it probably also reflected efforts by the government to slow the economy through high interest rates and reduced federal spending.

Census Bureau workers to begin compiling lists

Workers for the U.S. Census Bureau will begin compiling house-by-house address lists within the next few days in Midland County, according to a spokesman with the census office in Dallas.

"Purpose of the address listing program is to compile a complete list of households in the county for use next year when the 1980 census questionnaire will be mailed to each resident," Kelly Epperson, office manager, said.

Census workers will be walking or driving on streets and roads in the county to prepare the lists. They plan to knock on doors and ask residents for a correct mailing address.

Ms. Epperson said residents can identify the census employees by a red, white and blue census identification card which all employees will carry. Census workers also will carry 11 by 16 inch books, or address registers.

These address lists will play a vital role in the nationwide 1980 census, said Ms. Epperson. These lists will be used to produce mailing labels for the census questionnaires.

Census Day will be April 1, 1980.

The administration is aiming for overall economic growth this year of about 2.2 percent, down from 4 percent last year but at a level it believes is necessary to help combat inflation.

The Commerce Department said in its GNP report that inflation in the first quarter increased at an 8.7 percent annual rate, up from an 8.2 percent rate in the fourth quarter of 1978.

The department said the slower economic growth in January through March was caused by an 0.3 percent decline in sales activity throughout the economy, a sharp turnaround from a 7.2 percent annual rate to increase in the final three months of 1978.

"The decrease reflected decreases in consumer expenditures for goods, construction outlays, net exports and government purchases," the department said.

The figures on economic growth were computed at an annual rate, meaning it would be the total growth for a year if the first-quarter levels were continued for an entire 12-month period.

The Commerce Department said the GNP, which is the total value of goods and services produced in the economy, was at an annual rate of $1,413.3 billion in the first quarter, after discounting for the effects of inflation.

Although the government contends that a recession can be avoided this year, there has been disagreement whether there is room to slow the economy further to help combat inflation without bringing about a serious economic downturn.

Both Miller and administration officials said in advance of today's report that economic growth at an annual rate of about 2 percent in the first quarter would have been about right for current economic conditions.

The rapid rate of growth in the final three months of 1978 had caused concern among policy-makers because a rapidly expanding economy tends to put upward pressure on wages and prices and thus feed inflation.

Combating inflation, now running in excess of 10 percent, has become the major concern of the administration and the Federal Reserve Board, which is independent of the White House.

Yet there has been disagreement over the outlook for the remainder of the year between Miller and Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal, two of the government's top economic policy-makers.

Taiwan bill criticized by Deng

PEKING (AP) — Deputy Premier Deng Xiaoping (Teng Hsiao-ping) "unloaded both barrels on Taiwan" today and said the United States-Taiwan bill undermines the political basis for normalized relations, a delegation from the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said.

"He was very hard on us," reported committee chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, after a two-hour meeting with Deng. "He said the inference of the U.S. act was to negate the political basis of normalization..." He said the thrust of the act was support of Taiwan and inconsistent with the idea of one China.

Deng said the Chinese would be watching U.S. action closely from now on to determine the course of normalization, Church said.

Part of the agreement for last January's normalization of relations between China and the United States was an official end to U.S. relations with the Republic of China on Taiwan. President Carter signed legislation April 10 setting up an institute to provide a cultural and trade liaison with Taiwan. It included security language, opposed by China, assuring U.S. help if China should attack the island.

"He unloaded both barrels on Taiwan," Church said. "He warned us very strongly and said we should be very cautious about arms sales to Taiwan."

The senators said Deng told them the United States had no reason to fear the use of force against Taiwan.

Police seek pair in stabbing incident

ODESSA — Police early today were seeking a man and woman wanted for questioning in connection with a stabbing incident here Wednesday.

Meanwhile, the victim remained in the intensive care unit of Medical Center Hospital in Odessa.

Patricia Diane Gilbreath, 25, of Odessa was listed in guarded but stable condition in the hospital early today.

Police were summoned to a residence Wednesday and found Ms. Gilbreath lying on a couch in the house, bleeding from stab wounds, according to police reports.

The stabbing occurred after Ms. Gilbreath answered her door to let a visitor into her home, according to the reports.

She told police the assailant accused her of stealing and began stabbing her.

The woman escaped and ran to her landlord's residence to call an ambulance, reports indicated.

Hearing planned on assault charges filed by KOSA television reporter

A hearing has been set for 9 a.m. Friday in Peace Justice Bob Pine's court in connection with assault charges filed by a television reporter against an official employed by the General Services Administration.

Gary Hopper, a news reporter for KOSA-TV in Odessa, Monday filed assault charges against Floyd Jones, building manager for the federal building located in the 100 block of East Wall Avenue in connection with an incident that took place in front of the building April 4.

According to film footage broadcast that night, Hopper was photographing interviews in front of the federal building with Midland citizens on the then upcoming Midland school board election when he and newsman Conrad Coleman were approached by Jones and asked to leave federal property.

The film footage showed Jones telling the newsman that the Hatch Act prohibited electioneering on federal property. Jones asked Hopper if the camera was running, and then told him to "turn it off."

When Hopper did not comply, Jones told him that "you just lost your camera."

Hopper said Thursday he filed the charges individually and not as a representative of KOSA-TV.

Like the spring flowers, Gardendale's blooming

GARDENDALE — There's something about Gardendale that sets it apart from Midland and Odessa and other seething bins of people.

"We're all flowers and trees," said Joyce Hopper.

They're really not, though the people here seem as contented as morning glories and marigolds.

There's a freshness here amid the re-birth of spring.

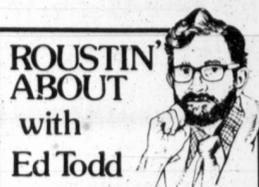

"It's a nice community out here," noted Norman Hopper.

It's country, but it's filling up.

"Oh shoot," said Hopper, who, along with his wife, Joyce, runs the grocery store. "This community has been out here quite awhile (since 1959), but it has grown the last year."

The 400 families out here live along streets and roads named after flowers and trees. Gardendale Road is the lone exception and, oddly enough, is not a main "drag."

Hollyhock and Goldenrod are. And the people, like the spring flow-

ROUSTIN' ABOUT with Ed Todd

Its denizens largely are made up of folks who work in and formerly lived in Midland, Odessa and Andrews. Others are retired and keep close to the land.

Dan Perkins is one among the numbers of working folks living here and liking it a bunch.

"I really enjoy it out here," said Perkins, 30. He works in Odessa, where he once lived, and otherwise shuns the city life.

"I'd live in a tent before I'd mess with (living in) town" again, he said.

He, his family and in-laws live in a veritable menagerie — an animal farm — with alfalfa on the side and a garden in planning.

Lots of folks grow their own fruits, vegetables and pecans, raise livestock and keep an occasional pet lion and raccoons.

Many there are, like the Perkins, who made their bid to return to — or experience for the first time — the wholesome country life.

Some people, like Tommy Dempsey, grow pecans. He's got 5,000 trees planted.

Herb Graham raises race horses and runs nightspots in Midland, Odessa and elsewhere.

Odessa fireman Jimmy Hall is one of "a lot of people," who raise racing greyhounds out here. J.B. Parvin has a greyhound track, and dogs to go with it, on Goldenrod.

Many there are who have gardens in Gardendale.

Gardendale, though far as it can get from being incorporated into a town and farther still from the inherent problems of "organized" living, is fairly well put together: it has a volunteer fire department, seed and feed store operated by Bill and Edith Brown, a hardware store operated by Edd Tyler, a couple of churches and another on the way, a beauty salon, fire house, taverns, community building and two arenas.

Gardendale is along Texas 158, northwest of Midland, north of Odessa, southeast of Andrews and within a 15- to 30-minute drive from the towns.

"Good country, good people," said Mrs. Brown.

The Hoppers, like everybody else here, would go along with that.

"They are good people out there," said Hopper.

Testimony to that may be a golden yellow 8,000-gallon gasoline tank bearing lettering which declares:

Hearing on radar may hit the road

MIAMI (AP) — Dade County Judge Alfred

Nesbitt may convene court on the highway later this week if opposing sides continue to disagree on the reliability of police radar in checking speed.

"In view of the testimony, I don't see how we can avoid it," Nesbitt said Wednesday after a particularly harsh courtroom clash in the hearing challenging police radar as error-prone.

The judge set no date for the road test, but indicated it may be sometime this week.

Former Army Col. Lee Nichols Jr., director of the department of electrical engineering at Virginia Military Institute, testified on Wednesday he has tested radar guns commonly used by police agencies.

Nichols said he was unable to distinguish which vehicle was the "target" car being clocked when he aimed the test units at groups of cars on a crowded highway. The defense maintains such problems could lead a policeman to ticket the wrong driver.

"Who gave the radars to you? Dale Smith?" asked Assistant State Attorney Kenneth Drucker, referring to the head of Electrolert Inc., a Troy, Ohio, manufacturer of radar detection devices.

Talmadge hearings delayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Ethics Committee is delaying for one week its public hearings into allegations of financial misconduct by Sen. Herman Talmadge.

The hearings — involving charges of a member breaking Senate rules — are the first of their type held by the panel in nearly 12 years.

Announcement of the postponement came Wednesday only hours after the committee handed a procedural setback to the Georgia Democrat by rejecting two ground rules he had advocated for the hearings.

The committee agreed to delay the start of the hearing from Monday to April 30 after attorneys for Talmadge said they needed more time to complete their defense.

Talmadge attorney James Hamilton had raised the possibility of a delay last week when he told the committee he had not received some materials subpoenaed from Daniel Minchew, once Talmadge's top aide and now his chief accuser.

Committee spokeswoman Lynne Murphy said the Talmadge hearings are expected to be held four days a week for two weeks. Talmadge is expected to be the first witness.

Earlier Wednesday, the committee announced it had rejected motions by Talmadge that could have made it more difficult for the panel to find the veteran lawmaker guilty of any violations of Senate rules.

The first of those motions would have excluded all evidence that was taken from the senator's office files without his permission.

Such a move would have stripped Minchew, who has acknowledged taking some files with him when he left Talmadge's office.

Fair profit denied

Gov. Clements' announcement that he would veto a bill raising the ceiling on home interest rates is somewhat difficult to understand. It also is disappointing.

His chiding of the savings and loan industry for its "audacity" in asking for a rate ceiling hike also was surprising.

In the first place, it all boils down to a matter of a fair profit in the market place and the governor is known to be a firm believer in the free enterprise system, of which a fair profit is a necessary ingredient. It is no different from regulated oil prices, and Mr. Clements is an outspoken advocate of deregulation in that regard, as well he should be.

Any businessman knows that a fair profit is essential to the success of any business. And when the savings and loan people have to pay more for money than they can charge for lending same, well it isn't difficult to figure what will happen in such a situation. The home mortgage money dries up... and this is what is happening right now.

There has been considerable misunderstanding regarding the legislative proposal, which was not to increase the interest rate but rather to increase the ceiling on interest rates from 10 percent to 12 percent. Despite what consumer groups have said in opposition, the likelihood of a rate hike to the full 12 percent was very remote. The marketplace would have controlled that situation.

There is little doubt that the housing industry in the Lone Star State is in for a recession, since a great deal of mortgage money already is bypassing Texas in favor of other states which have higher limits or no limits on interest rates. And this will affect persons who desire to sell their homes, as well as potential buyers.

It would appear that the governor had some ill-founded advice from some of his aides somewhere down the line.

Mr. Clements did agree, however, to consider calling a special session of the legislature to reconsider the matter should housing construction decline.

It seems to us that the legislature put the governor on the spot in this controversial matter by failing to take action one way or the other until the governor declared his intention on the proposal. Thus, the pressure was on him.

Anyway, that did it for the rate ceiling proposal insofar as the regular session of the legislature is concerned.

Selling the 'sizzle'

The axiom learned quickly by most any beginning salesman is that the successful pusher of vacuum cleaners, encyclopedias or other consumer products must "sell the sizzle, not the steak."

This practice is being followed religiously by the participants in the great SALT debate, due in part to the fact that the meat of the developing treaty on strategic arms limitation between the United States and the Soviet Union remains concealed beneath the wrapping of continuing negotiations.

Opponents of the pact expected to be placed before the U.S. Senate this year for ratification insist that American security will be undercut by unfair tradeoffs in restricting nuclear arms production and deployment. Proponents, equally uncertain as to the ultimate outcome of the talks, concentrate their arguments on the package, not the content.

An arms accord, Defense Secretary Harold Brown insists, will save the nation "as much as $30 billion ... over the next decade" by ending the arms race with the Russians.

But until the treaty's potential for the "essential equivalence" deemed necessary to avoiding nuclear war is assessed, both sides appear to be showcasing their "sizzle" and gambling with their credibility.

Just a little sunburn from the federal 'sunshine' law

WASHINGTON — After a long, agonizing struggle which reached the Supreme Court, the Watergate tapes were made public and a Presidency collapsed. Now we have the "nuclear tapes," the verbatim transcript of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's (NRC) closed-door meetings during the Three Mile Island accident. We truly live in the era of "Let the Sunshine In."

Since the law requires such federal agencies to either open their meetings to the public, or provide tapes or transcripts of them afterwards, many a bureaucrat or commissioner in this town might well be pondering how he can get his tongue when the discussion gets heated or the problem seems insoluble.

When the nuclear tapes were released last week, there was great huzzahing here about how confused the commissioners were with the difficult situation at Three Mile Island, how they spent an unusual amount of time fretting over media reaction, and how little thinking had gone into the prospect of population evacuation.

When NRC Chairman Joseph M. Hendrie says, "We are operating almost completely in the blind," the unsuspecting citizen might figure nobody knows what's going on in nuclear. Freedom-of-the-press zealots could also be dismayed to read Chairman Hendrie's question and answer: "Which amendment is it that guarantees freedom of the press? Well, I am against it."

Ward Society or Ralph Nader would relish.

After those 800 pages of conversation, what do we have? Well, we have acres and acres of newsprint coverage and equal quantities of the stuff on the electronic media. We have an imperiled nuclear plant, relief from that peril, now cooled down with no loss of life or serious injury. We have congressional committees probing this accident, even assisting the press by getting copies of the transcript, so, perhaps, the committee's purposes can be served. And we have Public Law 94-109 (the "Sunshine Act") at work.

The NRC's implementation of the 1970 "Sunshine Act" requires public disclosure, by transcript, of such closed meetings, although there is a review first to determine what material can be exempted. None was in the case of the meetings dealing with the Three Mile Island accident.

But the NRC can withhold information affecting: national security; that "proprietary" interest of a company, meaning its ability to be competitive; the fitness and reputation of personnel; criminal matters and invasion of privacy; pre-decisional material, so the commission won't tip its hand, and subpoenaed material. But with everything else, it's Olly, Olly, Oxen Free.

Let no one be uncharitably harsh on the NRC commissioners for their taped utterances. We should realize

ART BUCHWALD

History is made by so many little happenings

WASHINGTON — It's amazing how history can turn on so many little events. According to an excerpt in Gerald Ford's book, Henry Kissinger, his secretary of state, James Schlesinger, his secretary of defense, and the President were in a heated debate over how to react to the Cambodian seizure of the Mayaguez, and whether the United States should retaliate with massive air strikes.

White House photographer David Kennerly was taking photos of the debate when he interjected himself into the conversation and said, "Has anyone considered that this might be the act of a local Cambodian commander who has taken it into his own hands to stop any ship that comes by?"

Apparently the three great men hadn't, and Kennerly's view prevailed. Instead of massive air strikes, Ford writes, he ordered only limited air strikes against a few Cambodian military targets.

I wasn't there, of course, but when I read the excerpt I began imagining the scene.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Sen. Kennedy eases merger bill

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., long regarded as the consumers' champion on Capitol Hill, has substantially weakened the most important anti-monopoly legislation in a decade after private talks with corporate fatcats.

Kennedy had dinner March 6 at a posh New York City club with 30 or 40 Big Business executives, who voiced vehement objections to the proposed bill. He was accompanied by his Judiciary Committee's chief counsel, David Boies, who immediately began to rewrite the bill to meet some of the tycoons' demands.

As originally drafted, the bill would forbid firms with assets of $200 million or sales of $350 million to merge unless they could show that the merger would actually aid competition in the industry. It would further prevent mergers if either of the companies involved already controlled 15 percent of the market.

After Kennedy and Boies broke bread with the policy committee of the Business Roundtable, an organization of the most aggressively profit-minded blue ribbon firms in the country, the bill's ceiling on assets was raised another $150 million and the market percentage limit was upped an additional 5 percent.

The legislation was also removed from the umbrella of the tried-and-true Clayton Antitrust Act and would — if it's ever enacted at all — be left to stand on its own.

It is unusual for the original draft of a bill to be watered down before it is even presented to the appropriate committee for hearings. The compromise and log-rolling that are the standard features of the committee process invariably weaken a bill as originally written. Kennedy in effect was giving away bargaining chips before the game had even started.

The strange aspect of Kennedy's backtracking is the fact that he and Boies had successfully withstood earlier importunings by the Business Roundtable's savvy lobbyist Robert Hatfield. While the initial draft of the anti-merger bill was still in preparation, Hatfield spoke privately with Kennedy once and with Boies at least twice. His mission was to make the bill as weak as possible, so it could then be strangled in committee or on the Senate floor.

Yet despite the lobbyist's efforts, Kennedy prepared a reasonably tough bill and distributed it to a select few interested parties on Feb. 26. Boies was at least refreshingly frank about the subsequent backdown. "Sure," he told our associate Les Whitten, "our decision (to weaken the bill) took into account the feeling of the business community." But he insisted that the decision was in the works before the dinner with the corporate bigshots. He just didn't get around to rewriting the bill until the day after the meeting, he said.

"My judgment was that if we were going to have a bill to enact, we had to take a fairly moderate and conservative approach," the former IBM lawyer said. "We have to be realistic."

What Boies did not explain was why the rewriting was let go until virtually the last minute — after the New York wining and dining. Hearings on the legislation began on March 8, the day after Boies redrafted the bill. Such was the rush that witnesses didn't get the new version until minutes before they were scheduled to testify on it.

Footnote: Jimmy Carter, who campaigned on an anti-monopoly platform in 1976, hasn't had the gumption to back the Kennedy bill, even in its weakened form.

SOS FOR SES: A futuristic Buck Rogers ship designed to skim the ocean at speeds up to 100 miles an hour is the focus of a quiet backstage battle in Congress.

The Surface Effect Ship, or SES, would be used to rush troops and material across the Atlantic to our allies in an emergency. Secret testimony by top Navy brass has warned that conventional convoys would be sitting ducks, and that this high-speed SES is essential to our mission in Europe.

Critics say the claims made for the SES have not been backed up, and point to the development program's $107 million price tag. Analysts recommended that the ship be dropped from the Pentagon's budget.

But in a private letter to Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., House Armed Services Committee Chairman Mel Price, D-Ill., said the committee will give "serious consideration" to continued funding for the controversial SES.

SOLAR SNAFU: Not satisfied with its stranglehold on America's dwindling oil and gas supplies, Big Business is now muscling in on the burgeoning solar energy industry.

Giant corporations like General Electric, Martin Marietta and Rockwell International are getting all the help they need from the Department of Energy. Almost 90 percent of public funds spent to develop solar power have gone to big corporations, while small businessmen get the crumbs.

Rockwell International, for example, has four separate solar contracts from the government worth more than $13 million. That's almost twice as much as DOE has given to all its small-business contractors combined.

It's not as if Big Business is doing a better job, either. A recent National Science Foundation study showed that, dollar for research dollar, the small businessman produces 24 times as many innovations as his free-spending counterpart in Big Business.

KENNERLY: "All right, Mr. President. You get in the middle. Henry will be arguing with you on your right, and Mr. Schlesinger, you look as if you're disagreeing with both of them."

KISSINGER: "Mr. President, I say we bomb the hell out of them. We have to teach them the United States is still the major power in the world."

FORD: "Yes, that would be a good idea. Jim, can you tell the Pentagon I want a massive air strike?"

SCHLESINGER: "No problem. We have B-52s all loaded and ready."

KENNERLY: "Great. Let me just get a light reading. All right now, how about the President sitting down and both you gentlemen studying a map of Cambodia? In this one I'd like a smile from you, Mr. Schlesinger."

SCHLESINGER: "I never smile."

PRESIDENT: "That's true, David. I've never seen Schlesinger smile."

KISSINGER: "I can smile."

KENNERLY: "Well, since you're thinking about massive air strikes against Cambodia maybe you better look serious."

PRESIDENT: "I agree. Since this is for history we want to make sure the American people know that I consider the taking of one of our ships a grave matter."

KENNERLY: "Mr. Schlesinger, would you mind taking your pipe out of your mouth? The smoke is covering up the President's face."

SCHLESINGER: "I always have a pipe in my mouth."

KISSINGER: "The way I see it, we just keep dropping bombs day and night until they give us back the Mayaguez."

KENNERLY: "Henry, maybe you could use your hands to simulate a bombing attack? Don't look at me. Look at the President. That's a beautiful scowl, Mr. Schlesinger."

SCHLESINGER: "I'm not scowling."

PRESIDENT: "That's the way Jim looks all the time, David. Gentlemen, you don't think I'll be accused of over-reacting, do you?"

SCHLESINGER: "Who cares?"

KISSINGER: "The American people are crying for some sort of action after our ignominious withdrawal from Vietnam. A good massive bombing will make everyone feel better."

KENNERLY: "That was terrific. Let's try one more. How about the President in a football crouch as if he's going to center the ball? Henry, you be the quarterback, and Mr. Schlesinger, you look as if Henry's going to give the ball to you."

PRESIDENT: "I think before we go ahead we should ask someone else's opinion. David, what do you think about bombing Cambodia into the Stone Age?"

KENNERLY: "The way I see it, probably some hotshot local commander decided to grab the Mayaguez without checking with Phnom Penh."

KISSINGER: "Why didn't we think of that?"

SCHLESINGER: "I thought of it. I just didn't mention it."

PRESIDENT: "Good work, David."

KENNERLY: "It's nothing, Mr. President that's what White House photographers are for!"

Second performance of rodeo set tonight

The second performance of a four-night rodeo in Midland will get under way at 7 p.m. today, when about 100 teen-age cowboys and cowgirls from Fort Worth to Van Horn and beyond try their skill and luck in rodeo sports — from bull riding to barrel racing.

The rodeo, sanctioned by the American Junior Rodeo Association, is being held at the Thorp Championship Rodeo Arena one mile west of Holiday Hill Road and just off FM 868.

Between 1,500 and 2,000 spectators showed at $3 a head for adults and $1 for children at the opening performance Wednesday night, said rodeo promoter Joe Thorp.

Go-rounds will be held in bare-back bronco riding, tie-down calf roping, junior and senior bull riding, barrel racing, pole bending, break-away roping and ribbon roping, Thorp said.

Thorp has lined up a couple of sideshow attractions at 50 cents a peek.

"We've got the world biggest horse here, and we've got the largest steer in the world," he said.

The horse is a 2,700-pound draft horse, a Belgian-Percheron cross, Thorp said.

Utilities to learn about refund status

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Three electric companies learn Friday whether they must return up to $20 million to customers.

The Texas Public Utility Commission has scheduled a 10 a.m. hearing to consider a final order in the lengthy investigation of Texas Electric Service Co., Dallas Power & Light and Texas Power & Light.

from Canada. The steer is a six-foot tall Holstein from New-Hampshire.

Tonight's show will also include calf dressing by rodeo newcomers Tom Nickell, Lana Cunningham, Bruce Partain and Ed Todd of the Reporter-Telegram's editorial staff. They'll be putting — or trying to put — the bloomers on an unwilling calf.

Last night's scheduled amateur event was bull riding competition between a couple of radio disc jockeys from Midland and Odessa.

But they reportedly backed off. Thorp said they tried.

"I give them certificates anyway," Thorp said. "They got up there and tried."

This year's rodeo clown is Horsefly Atchison of Midland.

"He's real dressed up. He's a really funny clown," Thorp said. He'll be doing some joke-clowning.

Announcer is Mary Pierce of Carlsbad, N.M.

Performers in the rodeo are cowboys and cowgirls from Midland, Odessa, Big Spring, Stanton, Andrews, Abilene, Van Horn, Pecos, Monahans, Del Rio, Sonora, Lubbock, Waco, Stamford, Gail, Lamesa, Bandera, and Carlsbad and Hobbs, N.M.

Midlander Randy Bomar takes out after a feisty calf in the American Junior Rodeo Association calf roping event at the Thorp Championship Rodeo Arena west of Midland Wednesday night. Although Bomar roped and tied the calf in 13.3 seconds, his was not a winning time. The rodeo, the first AJRA event in Midland this year, will continue at 7 nightly through Saturday. (Staff Photo by Brian Hendershot)

Naval Academy studies alleged drug violations

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — U.S. Naval Academy officials are investigating alleged narcotics violations by midshipmen, including the sale of marijuana and Quaalude tablets.

According to a prepared statement released Wednesday, officials said alleged marijuana violations involve "approximately 15 to 20" midshipmen.

The academy said "two or three" midshipmen "are suspected of the introduction and sale of up to a total of three pounds of marijuana within Naval Academy grounds."

"One of the three is also suspected of selling eight Quaalude tablets."

"Any use or possession of marijuana is a 'serious breach' of regulations, and 'normally results in separation from the Academy,'" the academy said.

Officials declined further comment pending the outcome of the investigation, which may take two more weeks.

Museum to salute work of BBC television network

By BOB THOMAS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Can you imagine an art museum saluting a television network with a theater retrospective of its works? How about "The Best of Starsky and Hutch"? or "Highlights from Hee Haw"?

When the network is England's BBC, the idea makes sense. Beginning May 4, the Los Angeles County Museum of Art will present what is billied as a first: A theatrical retrospective of 21 dramatic and documentary films and mini-series produced by the British Broadcasting Corporation.

Some of the offerings are familiar to American TV viewers: "The Six Wives of Henry VIII," "Elizabeth R" (With Glenda Jackson), "Tom Brown's School Days." Classics include "The Duchess of Malfi," "Candide," "Macbeth," and "Dante's Inferno" as interpreted by Ken Russell.

Documentaries range from "Rose Kennedy Remembers" to "The Lost World of the Maya" to "San Francisco: The City That Waits to Die" (from earthquake). The festival is not all serious. Included are the Monty Pythons que "Ripping Yarns," including one about a boy "so unutterably boring that his parents run away from home."

"A Salute to the BBC" was a long-time dream of Harvey Chertok, advertising-publicity vice president for Time-Life Television, the BBC's partner in the United States. Ron Havery, head of the County Museum's admirable film program, liked the notion and the festival became a fact. It will appear in the museum's Leo S. Bing Theater through June 23.

Why are the BBC programs so good? Cedric Messina provided some insight in a telephone interview from London. He produced five of the shows in the tribute, including "School for Scandal," "Macbeth" and "She Stoops to Conquer." "Freedom is certainly one of the reasons," said the producer. "The financial rewards are not the same as in commercial television, but the job satisfaction is the greatest in the world."

or less freedom to do what they want — well, I guess you can't qualify "freedom"; you either have it or you don't. You might compare the BBC to the biggest Hollywood studio, say MGM, at its peak. We have all the facilities of such an operation, but no Thalberg or Mayer to dictate what is made."

Not that everything made by the government-financed BBC qualifies for an art museum festival.

Both sides claim victory in Marvin property case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Corks popped and champagne flowed as Michelle Triola Marvin celebrated the $104,000 she won from Lee Marvin, while the actor claimed he won "on all counts" the suit his former lover filed against him.

Miss Marvin and her lawyer, Marvin Mitchelson, toasted at a party what they said was a triumph in her suit to win $1.8 million, an estimated half share of Marvin's earnings during the time she lived with the actor. A beaming Miss Marvin arrived at the party with her poodle, a present from Marvin during the time they lived together.

Miss Marvin's friends, other attorneys and members of the press were invited to Mitchelson's palatial office for the party.

Although the Superior Court award was only 6 per-cent of what she had sought, Miss Marvin said a larger sum would surely have been appealed by the actor.

"If I had won all of Lee's worldly goods, I'd probably be in court until I was 80," Miss Marvin said several hours after Judge Arthur Marshall ruled Wednesday in the landmark case.

Citing the relatively minimal award, attorneys for both sides said it was unlikely they would appeal.

"I think it's sensational," Marvin said of the decision. "I couldn't have hoped for more ... We won on all counts."

As he left his Tucson, Ariz., home to visit his wife's family in New York, Marvin reflected on the trial's aftermath.

"All this has done for me is make me more famous than acting, which is a sad commentary because I want to be known as a fine actor," he said.

Arriving at New York's Kennedy Airport, Marvin said, "On every one of their claims they were defeated. I don't know how you can do that in any court under any circumstances."

He said the settlement Miss Marvin received was "the same thing I agreed to a long time ago" and was "a total defeat for them."

Miss Marvin, 46, called the ruling a victory for women's rights and predicted others would benefit from her legal battle.

She said she hesitated to become involved with any man during the trial because "I wouldn't want anyone to have to go through this with me."

But the former showgirl said she's learned to be cautious about love affairs. "I think if a man wants to leave a toothbrush at my house, he can bloody well marry me," she said. "Enough is enough."

INFLATION FIGHTING ideas

Join with your Safeway Store in the FIGHT AGAINST INFLATION ...

President Carter has asked his Cabinet officers to take aggressive action to slow the rise in consumer prices. They were asked for specific suggestions on what consumers themselves can do to cope with the problem of inflation.

The U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs has issued guidelines to help consumers minimize the impact of inflation on their daily lives.

Safeway pledges full cooperation with the U.S. Government in battling this number one domestic problem. As tangible evidence of that support, Safeway will publish weekly inflation-fighting ideas, suggesting ways in which you and your family can shop better for less money.

Some of the subjects to be covered are—Saving on "private labels" such as Safeway Brands; Making Unit Pricing work for you; Cooking from "scratch"; Seasonal produce bargains; Best use of your freezer; Advertised and unadvertised specials; Planning family meals, and many others.

Vets set rabies vaccination day

A special rabies vaccination day for domestic pets in Midland County will be held April 21, four Midland County veterinarians announced in a news conference Wednesday.

According to the program outlined by the animal doctors, local veterinarian offices will open 8 a.m. that day to vaccinate all animals brought in for the rabies injection and remain open until late afternoon or "as long as there are people in the office."

In addition, the $2 licensing fee normally charged by the city of Midland will be waived for city residents on that day only, Dalton Byerly, animal control officer for the city, said in the press conference.

Vaccination fees normally run between $5 to $7, Dr. O.C. Collins Jr. said.

Information released by Jewell Smith, chief sanitarian for the City-County Health Department, showed that eight cases of rabies had been confirmed in the wild animal population of the county since 1976.

While a case of rabies either in humans or in domesticated animals has yet to be discovered in the county this year, the vaccination day has been planned as a preventive measure, particularly because of the increase in cases in surrounding counties.

Domestic animals which come into contact with a rabid wild animal are CHICAGO (AP) - The Chicago-to-Laredo, Texas passenger train - the Inter-American - will operate daily beginning June 15, Amtrak has announced.

The train has been operating on a three-day-a-week schedule in each direction.

susceptible to the disease. Veterinarians said that chances of an epidemic would be curtailed if 70 percent of the domestic animals in the county were vaccinated. Byerly estimated that only 10 to 15 percent of the animals in the city had received vaccinations.

"There's no guarantee of immunization," Dr. Collins said. "But it's in the high 90's that with protection, an animal will not come down with the disease even if bitten." An ordinance is pending before the county commissioners that would give the county the authority to impose for observation any animal that has bitten a human being.

The ordinance also would require vaccination of all domestic animals outside the incorporated limits of the city of Midland. A similar ordinance has been in effect for the city for a number of years.

U.N. University gets funds

TOKYO (AP) - Nobody ever got a degree from the Tokyo-based United Nations University, and nobody ever will.

But this little-known institution, tucked away on two floors of a Tokyo skyscraper, now has sufficient funds to take its place in the academic world.

The turning point in the U.N. University's three-year history came in December when the British government pledged $10 million, said its American rector, Dr. James Hester. Hester is former president of New York University.

Britain's contribution "radically altered" the institution's financial picture and prompted other governments in Asia and the Middle East to take a fresh look at their financial assistance, Hester said in an interview.

Instead of paying for the upkeep of a campus and buildings, providing students with learned professors and all the other things expected of a conventional university, contributions are put into an endowment fund, the interest from which supports the university.

The U.N. organization has several research projects in the works and all are "moving ahead vigorously," Hester said.

"In Algeria, for example, we're helping to design a solar village where traditional architecture and modern solar energy will be combined. The university is supplying the technical input on solar knowledge."

"The university has passed its first test. It's really phenomenal when you think we've only been going for three years," he said.

Hester said Britain initially had been one of the governments opposed to the creation of the university but reversed its decision after a thorough evaluation program.

"There was a feeling that international universities already existed and there was no need to duplicate what was being done," Hester explained.

He said Britain's contribution had had a tremendous impact on other countries and that France, West Germany and Italy were now active contributors. He declined to comment on the amounts.

The U.N. agency, the first to be located in Japan, operates in more than 100 countries coordinating research programs such as world hunger.

Midland students join in several competitions

By Cecily Shull, Jane Forsyth and Valerie Van Pelt

Say, Bulldogs, why is everybody going to Lubbock this weekend? For regional competition, of course!!! Many Midland High School students did outstanding jobs in district competition held in Big Spring before the Easter holidays. The results at district were:

Vicki Vasicek—1st place in girls tennis singles.

Richey Houdek—1st place in boys tennis singles.

Jeff Bramlett and Pierre DeChaud—1st place boys doubles.

Arthur Yeager and Jeff Rea—2nd place in boys doubles.

In girls golf our MHS team captured the district crown, advancing to regional. Team members are Nancy Spaug, who placed third in the tournament; Ann Coombes, Patty O'Neill, Kim Hopkins and Dana Bostwick.

MHS boys golf team also did an excellent job as it won the 5-4A crown.

Mike Young, Richard Minnix, Jeff Lutke, Robert Upham and Joe Sloan will go to regional. Minnix placed third in the tournament.

In track, Jeff Robnett, James Lary, Donna Repman, Lisa Harrison, Jana Trolinder, Renee Ramsey, Nan White and Susan Shoemaker will represent MHS field events at Lubbock.

In literary events, Dirk Beveridge placed in both feature writing and headline writing, winning 1st and 3rd place medals. Jane Forsyth won 2nd place in persuasive speaking, and Valerie Van Pelt placed 2nd in informative speaking.

CONGRATULATIONS TO ALL THESE FIGHTING BULLDOGS!!! Let's sweep Regional, Bulldogs! See you at state in Austin! Best of luck to all!

Those who aren't competing in Lubbock will be traveling to Dallas this weekend. The seniors of the Junior Council will be living it up in their IMAGINE-NATION at Six Flags. We wish them a safe trip as well as a wonderful time. We know all these seniors will keep Rasco in line!

ATTENTION, sophomores and juniors: Friday is the last day for you to sign up for class officers of 1979-80! Sign up by 3:30 p.m. or you'll be late—your future lies on Mr. Hixon's slate!

SENIORS—the upcoming weeks hold much in store for you. With only 26 more school days left, visions of graduation dance in our heads! To let everybody in on the excitement, show them you will actually graduate. You can pick up your graduation announcements on April 26 and 27 in the Student Council Office between 7:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Don't forget to check the balance due on the list in the trophy room.

But don't stop there! The next night is the Junior-Senior Prom. Guys, get your date now! April 28 is the date, and 8:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. is the time.

"Illustrated Band" from Austin will provide the music. The dress is semi-formal, and there is no charge for admission. Let's make this last dance a Bulldog success!

All the dancing at the prom is only to warm you up. Display your talents in the Senior Talent Show to be held May 10! Tryouts are May 1 and 2, and sophomores and juniors can also try out. Seniors also need to keep in mind the Senior Picnic to be held sometime in May.

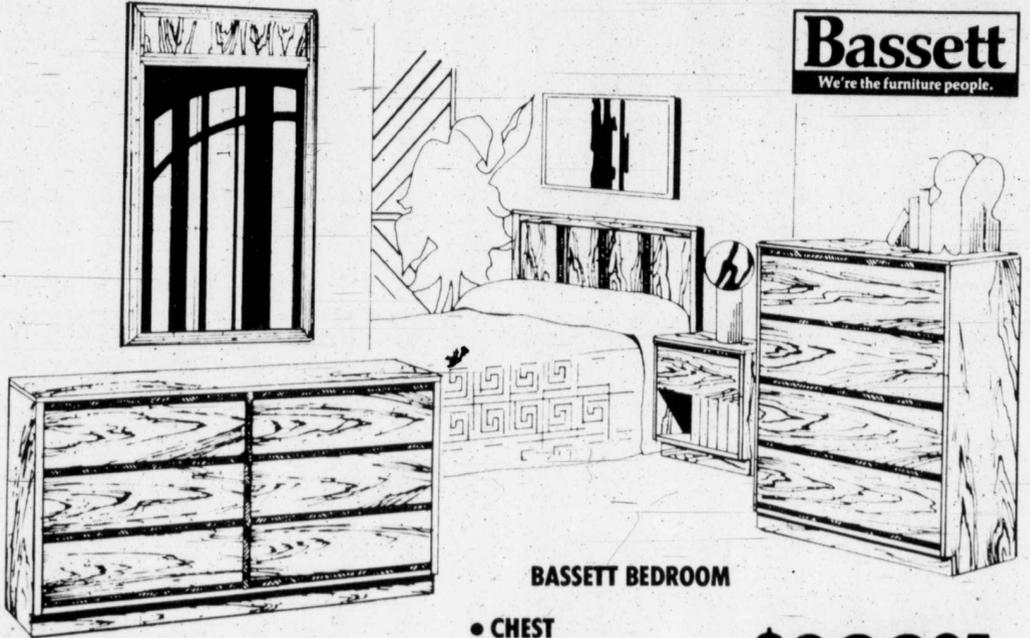

To end on a light note, do you know where John Travolta went to college????? (see answer in post script)

Midlander Patricia Aycock prepares weavings for her one-person show being held through May 11 at The University of Texas of the Permian Basin in Odessa. Her works of fiber and sculpture are on display in the third floor gallery at the school.

Artist Patricia Aycock exhibiting work at UTPB

"Artists are the luckiest people in the world. They are also the most vulnerable. They are laying themselves on the line every time they create something, but, at least, they are never bored." Those are the words and feelings of Midlander Patricia Aycock, who is having a one-person art exhibit at The University of Texas of the Permian Basin now through May 11. Her recent works of fiber and sculpture will be on display in the third floor art gallery at the school. Born in Jamaica, she came to the United States after she married in 1943. She has lived in Florida, Venezuela, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas. She attended Midwestern State University in Wichita Falls. Mrs. Aycock has been represented by various galleries in the state. She has work in private collections in Canada and Germany as well as in the U.S. Mrs. Aycock had two one-person shows in Wichita Falls exhibiting sculpture, fiber, painting and ceramics. She enjoys working in various forms of artistic media, but feels the most confident in fiber, largely because most of her work in the past few years has been in that medium. "I've been told that I'm old enough to settle down and decide on which direction I want to go in my work, but my hands are always itching to try something new," Mrs. Aycock said. She has received awards in both sculpture and fiber from the Midland Art Association and enjoys doing workshops and demonstrations in fiber techniques. "Contemporary weaving can be so much fun; so rich and sensuous in texture and color; so responsive to a sculpture approach," she explained.

Marx biographer tells all

By DON FREEMAN
Copley News Service "Tell it all," Groucho urged his biographer. Tell it all, he commanded. And Hector Arce did just that in this remarkable and revealing and sad and funny work that may well emerge as the definitive biography of the man behind the comic figure of legend. Hector Arce had returned from a research trip to New York and, as he writes in his foreword, he was "laden with revelations about Groucho's personal life, even more intimate than he in his unflinching candor had already supplied." Hesitantly, outlining these revelations, Arce then asked Groucho how deeply he should delve when he assembled the book. And so Groucho told him to tell it all, this man who was well into his 80s then, the subject of agonizing litigation and terrible quarrels, but a man who, in a curious way, as Arce believes, had finally found a peace within himself. It wasn't easy being Groucho, ever. I think now of a line of Steve Allen's — "All successful comedians are hopelessly neurotic," Allen theorized. "Imagine what the unsuccessful comedians must be like." And from Hector Arce: "A well-adjusted Groucho might not have become one of the great comedians of his time, but he might have spared himself and those close to him immeasurable heartache." With a loving candor but with reportorial detachment, Arce penetrates closer than any writer has yet in nailing down the essence of the man that Groucho was. And at the same time the author succeeds in evoking the show business aura of the brothers Marx and their strange collective genius.

Mummers to kick off new season

Summer Mummers will launch their 31st season with a volunteer get-together at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the old American Legion Hall at 206 S. Colorado Ave. After a one-year tenure in the VFW hall, the Summer Mummers will return to the birthplace of the show, which originated in the American Legion Hall 30 years ago. The meeting will be to attract workers of all kinds — on stage and back stage — to make this season the most successful ever, organizers said. All kinds of talents are needed: actors, actresses, stage crew and people to work with props, construction, electricians, sound, lights, paints, concessions or just anyone who wants to have a good time for a worthy cause, organizers said. No previous theater experience is necessary to be a part of the volunteer group. Summer Mummer Melodramas are produced each year by volunteers in the community. The proceeds of the productions are donated to Midland Community Theatre. The Mummer season traditionally runs from the July 4 weekend through Labor Day. Refreshments will be served at the Thursday meeting.

Hot Chocolate hits gold

By MARY CAMPBELL

Hot Chocolate has started the year well, with a gold single record, "Every 1's a Winner." That's the second gold single in America. The first was "You Sexy Thing." In England, where the group was organized, it has had 17 hits. The LP "Every 1's a Winner," on Infinity Records, started the year on the best-selling American charts and it's still there.

"Every 1's a Winner" is a love song, written by 33-year-old lead singer Errol Brown. It started as a song for his baby daughter. He says, "My daughter was making funny rhythmic sounds at me. I wanted to write about her and started to. I couldn't get anywhere with it in a serious way. I switched it around to a relationship between a man and woman. "I haven't written a song about my daughter yet. The eternal song by a father is already written by Stevie Wonder, 'Isn't She Lovely?' Trying to top that is hard."

Brown didn't start out as a song writer. He started as a business administration major in college. Unable to find a job in his field when he graduated, he became a member of Britain's unemployed.

"TO GO RIGHT" to the beginning of Hot Chocolate's creation," Brown says, "in 1969 we were a bunch of fellows all not knowing what to do with ourselves. At the time I met Tony Williams, a song writer, I began to get words and melodies in my head. I used to express them to him. He encouraged me to begin writing. In England, this reggae situation was coming around that time. People were covering well-known songs reggaeified, trying to make a few pennies."

"We got a few friends together, went in and made demos of a few hit songs in this way. One of the choices was 'Give Peace a Chance.' I gave it lyrics to do with the black and white situation and the Jewish and Gentile situation. Having done that, we found out we weren't allowed to change people's lyrics without their permission. "So we took a tape of this thing to Apple Records for permission for us to do this. One of John Lennon's assistants thought it was amazing and took it in to him to hear. It was meant to be amazing. I sang it in a West Jamaican accent. They decided to put out the demo. We didn't re-record it, in case we didn't get the same atmosphere. "If it had been a hit, it would have changed the course of our lives. We wouldn't be here today. We would have been encouraged to continue in the same vein and it was too gimmicky to survive."

One of the secretaries at Apple came up with the name Hot Chocolate Band for the multiracial group. Brown says, "The next step was very amazing. This makes me think it is my destiny to be involved in music in a big way. "It was back to square one again. Being song writers, we wrote a few more songs. We thought one was good for Herman's Hermits. We found out they were produced by Mickie Most. One day we went off the streets into his office.

"He liked very much the vocal sound we had and said he'd like to record us on Rak Records. The song that we brought in to him, 'Bet Your Life I Do' was a hit song for Herman's Hermits. 'Love Is Life' was the beginning of Hot Chocolate's hits." Brown was glad to move away from reggae. He was born in Jamaica but left there for England at 10 and had rock, soul and pop music influence, not reggae.

BROWN AND WILSON wrote together until 1972 when Wilson moved to Bearsville Records as a solo artist.

They had found it easy to write hit songs together, Brown says, but the band had begun to stagnate. In 1972 the band almost broke up. Brown's idea was to write from his personal experiences and he started to do that for the five-man band.

The first hit he wrote alone was "Brother Louie." It was successful in England. Stories covered it and had the hit in America. It was about a black girl and a white boy and the objections of both sets of parents. "I grew up with those things," Brown says. "In England they were so sensitive to that situation we weren't sure whether it would be played, but it was."

"It was my new change of attitude, to write out of my own emotions. This is the way I feel about something and this is how I'm going to write about it and I'll see what happens — instead of playing it safe."

The hit song "Emma" was about a girl beloved by a young man and striving to become a movie star. She is frustrated in her ambition and the love isn't enough to satisfy her, so she commits suicide. That was fiction, Brown says.

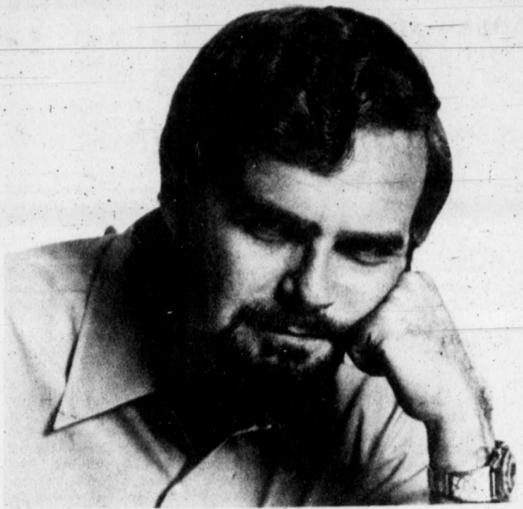

"From those days, I've changed as a writer," he says. "I went through a phase where I could not do anything else but write tremendously dramatic situations and a little bit pessimistic, to say the least."

"Then I fell in love and I had brighter ideas and much more up ideas to write about. 'You Sexy Thing' was from the beginning of that time. That was five years ago; things are still good. Now I write danceable music."

"OUR SONGS ARE used in discos but they aren't made especially for disco music. I don't count how many beats to the bar or whatever is necessary for disco music in America. In England, disco music is not so constant. Disco here is totally monotonous."

Brown lives in a house in Surrey. After 17 hits, he says, he's a rich man, living the way fans think you live after your first hit.

"We had two breaks," he says, "at Apple and with Mickie Most. He has produced every one of our records. People go through their whole life and never get even one break. We got two in six or seven months."

Sanders' titles lengthen

By PHIL THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP) — Novelist Lawrence Sanders likes books with one-word titles. Sanders is the author of such books as the widely read "Cop" and the best-selling "Thorndecker." Never heard of them? That's because Sanders' publisher likes titles of more than one word. So "Cop" appeared as "The First Deadly Sin" and "Thorndecker," Sanders' latest novel, showed up on the best-seller lists as "The Sixth Commandment." "Publishers are very title conscious," Sanders explains with a smile. "They know what titles will sell, so I go along with it." Although he has 12 books — 10 under his own name — to his credit, the 59-year-old Sanders came late to novel writing.

He started working in magazines when he was 26.

"First I was a gag writer, then an associate editor, and then an editor," he says. "I worked on all kinds of magazines — detective, adventure and at the last on science and mechanical magazines."

"But during all this time I was always a heavy reader, and the time came, as I think it does in everyone's life, where I said to myself, 'My God, I can do as well if not better than this. So, in 1969, after reading all kinds of stuff for years, I decided to write a book of my own."

"That was 'The Anderson Tapes.' I wrote it after working all day, which was a very hard thing to do. When you have a job in which you work with words all day long the last thing you want to do when you come home is deal with more words. What you really want is to take your shoes off and watch television. But I kept at it and my book was published when I was 50. Yes, Virginia, there is life after 50."

Sanders says "The Anderson Tapes" sold well enough — "I was so lucky with that thing" — to bring him enough money to "get out of the 9-to-5 routine and become a full-time writer."

After he quit his job, Sanders says, it didn't take him long to discover "I was a very prolific writer. I turn them out pretty fast; a conventional novel takes me six or seven months."

But the ability to turn out two books a year has its drawbacks. "The publisher said I was writing so much that I was competing with myself. So I decided to put out some of my books under a pseudonym. I wanted to be called Mark Down but the publisher preferred Mark Upton, and two books appeared under that name."

"They did poorly. It was a great disappointment to me. If one had taken off I probably would have kept writing under a pseudonym, but as it is I don't think there will be any more books by Mark Upton."

'Tap-taps' exemplify best in Haitian folk art

By BEATRIZ RUIZ De la MATA

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Haiti's best popular art whizzes down the streets of this overcrowded city at breakneck speed, threatening the lives of unaware pedestrians.

"Tap-taps," the garish small buses which provide most of Port-au-Prince's public transportation, are flowing art galleries showing the most remarkable examples of Haitian native art.

Scenes ranging from roaring lions to Christ surrounded by his disciples in a tropical version of Leonardo da Vinci's "Last Supper" are depicted in bright, showy colors on the tap-taps' doors, hoods and fenders.

Although Haitian primitive art has found a steady international market, throughout the years it has been losing its original charms.

But, behold... tap-tap artists who boldly sign their masterpieces "J. Calixte, Sensitive" or "Jean, Painter" have recaptured the fresh creativity that once belonged in a canvas.

Handicapped topic for region art meeting

Discussion of federal regulations relating to accessibility for handicapped persons will be one of the main topics when a regional meeting focusing on the arts will be held here April 25.

Texas Commission on Arts and Humanities is sponsoring the event which will be from noon to 4:30 p.m. in the Burton-Noel Center, rehearsal and administrative building for the Midland-Odessa Symphony and Choral at Midland Air Terminal.

This session will be one of six planned in various cities through the state to review the TCAH's arts plan.

Area residents are invited to participate in the meeting.

Rockettes won't kick alone

NEW YORK (AP) — There will be six more Rockettes in the lineup at the revived Radio City Music Hall this summer, but they may not be the only ones kicking.

Audiences will face a 50 percent to 60 percent jump in ticket prices for a show that does not include a movie.

Music Hall officials announced Wednesday that June 1 the hall will open what officials called "the most elaborate stage production ever presented in New York" — a 90-minute musical spectacular titled "A New York Summer — Magical Celebration."

The show will include a cast of more than 100, wearing more than 1,000 costumes. There will be no film, ending a 47-year tradition of combined stage and movie shows.

But there will be 36 Rockettes, the number in the line that opened the hall back in 1932 and six more than presently. But the Rockettes will not be used in every show produced thereafter, and their future remains undetermined.

The Rockettes — like all unions at the music hall — have signed contracts that do not stipulate the number of women who will work, or the amount of time they will work.

Boston drops lawsuit about Stuart paintings

BOSTON (AP) — The City of Boston has dropped a suit asking the state Supreme Court to halt the sale of Gilbert Stuart's portraits of George and Martha Washington since the seller and prospective buyer have agreed to suspend their bargain.

The Boston Athenaeum, which needs to raise money for repairs and general operating expenses, had hoped to sell the Washingtons for $5 million to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington. However, both institutions agreed to suspend negotiations on the sale for the remainder of this year.

Acting corporation counsel Joseph Alviani said the city got a court hearing on its motion scheduled for Wednesday canceled with the stipulation the motion will be continued indefinitely unless negotiations start again.

Vietnam musical makes casualty list

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — During the Vietnam war, the best of anything in Vietnam was called Numbah One and the worst Numbah 10. "Dispatches," a new Vietnam war musical, is Numbah 9½.

It premiered Wednesday at Joseph Papp's New York Shakespeare Festival, which gave us the late 1960s musical, "Hair," where innocent flower children cavorted and protested the war.

Here they cavort in the war, with macabre spirit, and also do a Woodstock caper, shifting back and forth from the war to a rock 'n' roll concert, ultimately becoming casualties of both.

The dual-casualty idea is from a passage in Michael Herr's book on which the show is based. The rock concert is used as a metaphor for the war, or vice versa, depending on your point of view.

Herr covered the war 11 years ago. His book, mostly done in a gonzo Ernie Pyle style, consists of vignettes and thoughts about the war.

The gifted Elizabeth Swados, the show's director and tunesmith, simply took selections of his work and used them verbatim as lyrics for the 20-odd songs she wrote for the three-woman, eight-man cast.

A bold concept. It fails. His prose suggests a rock beat, but the meter is ragged. Result: Her music usually has a tough time finding a home in the words. It tends to thrash about aimlessly.

The rock-war-roll theme becomes a generally loud, noisy, undistinguished blank-verse combat bag of rock, country and gospel. It's often booby-trapped with obscenities that include the famed Anglo-Saxon naughtily beginning with the letter F.

The troops go through their often-frenzied paces in baggy fatigues and helmet liners, occasionally donning faded hippie garb over their war threads to let us know they're now in rock-concert mode.

They occasionally pause to simply speak passages and bits of dialogue from the book. But it seems unwise to assign the womenfolk the lines Herr quotes. Marines, GIs or male reporters as saying.

For example, it's, well, silly to have one woman calling another "man" when it's obvious two guys are talking. And when talking dirty, the ladies just don't do it as casually, as easily as men.

Be that as it may, the spoken moments are the most passable ones. For passable music, there's a gentle ballad with a title that tends to stand out: "Six (Obscenity Deleted) Shades of Green."

The show occurs on two levels, a platform holding a six-piece band and a ground-floor stage flanked by two tall metal towers that no doubt are meant to suggest the Woodstock arena.

Neither Hilary Rosenfeld's costumes nor Patricia Woodbridge's settings contribute much to this show, but then the musical itself offers little more than wasted energy.

It possibly might have worked had Miss Swados stuck with the war, dropped the concert and considerably slowed the pace.

Herr's prose is high-powered, but loaded with fine shadings and nuances. Miss Swados only plugs into the power. She winds up with a flashy short-circuit. It's a pity.

I hoped this effort would prove a good musical companion piece to "G.R. Point," Vietnam vet David Berry's excellent Vietnam war drama that opened Monday on Broadway. No such luck.

"Dispatches" only seems an ambitious bit of dabbling in a harsh subject perhaps best left to those who've actually experienced it.

Juke box regulators to stay put

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A letter of praise from Col. Wilson Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, apparently saved the Texas Amusement Machine Commission from a House vote to abolish it.

After tentatively approving a bill last Thursday to give the commission's job to Comptroller Bob Bullock, the House defeated it Tuesday, 73-60.

The only big change in the situation between Thursday and Tuesday was Speir's letter, solicited by Rep. Bob Hendricks, D-McKinney, the commission's chief defender in the House.

"Speir said the commission is 'doing a good job' and 'has created a much higher degree of stability and compliance in the industry than before we had the commission.'"

Texas law makes the DPS director automatically a member of the commission.

Hendricks again recalled the bombings and arson that wracked the juke box industry in the late 1960s, when companies jealously fought for control of taverns and territory.

"It is a field where we have got to stay on our toes all the time to keep crime out of it," he said.

Rep. Don Henderson, R-Houston, sponsor of the bill, rebutted that the juke box industry was "cleaned up" not by the commission but by state laws passed in 1971 to limit control of taverns by amusement machine companies.

As for the law enforcement aspect, he said, "there have been 1,000 complaints filed but usually it has been an operator telling on his neighbor." The only result, he said, is an untaxed jukebox gets taxed.

Courtroom hams gets coach

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — In a hallway of the University of Minnesota Law School, a group of budding lawyers are uttering strange sounds, sticking out their tongues, wriggling their noses, craning their necks, stretching their arms and looking decidedly unlike Perry Mason.

"This is law school? Where are the three-piece suits and the stacks of files, the unintelligible Latin phrases, the stiffness?"

Gone the way of powdered wigs and stockades, if Patricia Feld has anything to do with it. She is one of a handful of drama coaches being hired by law schools to enliven the legal arts.

Ms. Feld, a choreographer with the Minnesota Opera Company, wants to take the starch out of what traditionally has been a stiff and stodgy profession. She wants to see lawyers stooping, stretching and twisting their pin-striped bodies before they enter the courtroom. And she wants them to understand that there's more to courtroom communication than Latin and legalese.

Yet she insists she isn't promoting melodramatics. She doesn't want lawyers making sweeping theatrical gestures or plunging into Shakespearean oratory.

"I don't teach acting lessons," she said. "I think what we're aiming at is simple, effective communication." She tries to jolt students out of their sleepy monotonous and slurred pronunciations by having them practice an exhausting array of tongue twisters.

"Americans have notoriously lazy lips," she told a class recently. Saying "puh puh puh puh peeee" a few times can help prosecutors in rape cases, she said. The word rape sounds far more ominous to a jury when the "p" is stressed.

She also emphasizes body language and posture. By stooping and stretching lawyers can increase their "personal energy," which adds emphasis to what they are saying. She videotapes and reviews their performances in play-acted hearings.

Sonya Hamlin, who has coached Harvard Law School students in dramatics for four years, thinks lawyers have become "exclusive" and less human in court.

How do lawyers and judges react to all this?

There's a little resistance but most lawyers favor the idea of using drama coaches, says Kenneth Broun, director of the National Institute for Trial Advocacy, a school which teaches lawyers how to argue cases in court.

As long as more emphasis isn't placed on style than knowledge, he says, there is nothing wrong with a "certain amount of play acting in any trial lawyer's repertoire."

BRIDGE

'Seat of the pants' poor bridge system

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Some people claim that they play bridge by the seat of their pants. They should use their heads instead.

South took the ace of clubs, drew two rounds of trumps, led a diamond to the ace and returned a diamond from dummy.

West won, drew a third trump and took his diamonds to defeat the contract.

Sitting in the South seat, South thought he had to set up his own hand. If he had been sitting in the North seat, he would make the game.

RUFFS CLUBS

After taking the ace of clubs declarer ruffs a club, draws two trumps and gets to dummy with a spade to ruff another club. He leads another spade to dummy and ruffs dummy's last club.

West may overruff or not, but he cannot defeat the game. Dummy loses only one trump and two diamonds.

You're allowed to set up the North hand even if the seat of your pants is South.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes. You hold:

S-KQJ; H-843; D-A62; C-A542. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs. You can't afford to bid two notrump with the hearts wide open. Bid your long suit, such as it is, and await development. You plan to bid game, but you don't yet know just how you're going to get there.

DEATHS

Carrie A. Calton

BIG SPRING — Services are pending at River-Welch Funeral home here for Carrie Ann Calton, 70, a Big Spring resident since 1949.

She died Tuesday in a Big Spring hospital.

Born Feb. 27, 1909, in Clarksville, she was the daughter of Albert and Frances Baker. She moved to Big Spring from Mount Pleasant in 1949, and was married to Billy Calton in Big Spring in 1966.

Mrs. Calton was a member of the Mount Bethel Baptist Church and the Naomi Circle.

Survivors include her husband; two brothers, Dan Baker and Albert Baker, both of Los Angeles, Calif.; two nieces and a nephew.

J.B. Wages

LUBBOCK — Services for J.B. Wages, 79, father of Barbara Priest of Midland, will be at 2 p.m. Friday in Central Baptist Church here with the Rev. James Schoenrock, pastor, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Jack Welch, retired Baptist minister.

Burial will be in City of Lubbock Cemetery directed by Sanders Funeral Home.

Wages died Wednesday in a Lubbock hospital.

He was born April 18, 1900, in Van Zandt County in East Texas.

Wages had lived in Lubbock since 1922 and had been a member of the Church of Christ for more than 52 years. He was a retired butcher.

Other survivors include his wife and two grandchildren.

'Dick' Shafer

BIG SPRING — Services for Victor Lee "Dick" Shafer, 75, will be at 3 p.m. Friday in Mt. Olive Memorial Park under the direction of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Shafer was born March 1, 1904, in Bonham. He lived in Big Spring since 1964, moving here from Crystal City. He was a retired restaurant employee. He was a member of the First Assembly of God Church.

Survivors include a daughter, Gerledean "Jerry" Kinman of Big Spring; two sisters, Cora Weyrick of Duke, Okla., and Dora Randolph of Eldorado, Okla.; three grandchildren and a great-grandson.

Missing ranchers discovered dead

CROWELL, Texas (AP) — After a massive search through the rugged hills and canyons of North Texas, authorities have found the bodies of two missing ranchers in their plane submerged in a stock tank.

The men had been missing since Friday when they took off from the Crowell airport to check their livestock. The plane was found about 14 miles southeast of the airport, authorities said.

An autopsy was to be performed on one of the victims, Glyndon Johnson, 44, Wednesday night.

The other victim was identified as Bobby Johnson, 46, also of Crowell. The two men were not related.

Committee OKs 3 Snelson bills

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN—The Senate Intergovernmental Relations Committee has favorably recommended for Senate approval three bills by Sen. Pete Snelson of Midland, who chairs the committee.

One bill would increase the makeup of the State Commission for the Blind from six to nine members and would transfer some of the functions of the Governor's Coordinating Office for the Visually Handicapped. Gov. Bill Clements has already dissolved that office.

Another bill corrects some language technicalities in a law passed two years ago creating the Reagan County Water Supply District.

A third Snelson bill, proposed by the Texas Education Association, would combine two laws dealing with the depositories of independent school districts.

Deng meets Americans

TOKYO (AP) — China's Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping (Teng Hsiaping) met in Peking today with a Senate Foreign Relations Committee delegation led by Sen. Frank Church, the committee chairman, the official Xinhua (Hsinhua) news agency said.

Xinhua said Deng, who has met three congressional groups in a week, said he was glad to see so many American legislators visiting China since the two nations established diplomatic relations in January.

Fife judge not disqualified in trial

ODESSA — Attorneys for Stephen Fife, charged with murder in connection with the death of an Odessa woman, failed in their attempts today to have District Judge Joe Connally disqualified from hearing the trial.

Their pretrial motion was one of four heard today in 244th District Court. The trial earlier was moved to Fort Worth on a change of venue, and will be heard May 7.

Fife is charged with murder in connection with the death of Catherine Ann "Fifi" Murphy, 19, of Odessa, whose remains were found in February of this year in a primitive grave in Crane County.

Connally today denied the disqualification motion by defense attorneys Royal Caswell and Cynthia Clark, who contended that the district judge should remove himself because of a conversation regarding the change of venue motion.

The conversation reportedly involved Connally and Will Hadden, an attorney for the Thomas D. Murphy family.

According to the motion, Connally asked Hadden whether the family had any preference concerning the location of the trial on the change of venue motion.

He reportedly was told that the Murphy family preferred to have the trial in Ector County.

Connally today did grant a defense motion to release the defendant to the custody of his attorneys at 1 p.m. Friday for preparation of a defense in the case.

He also appointed Dallas psychiatrist James P. Griegson to conduct a psychological examination of the defendant.

Fife, 22, was indicted for murder by an Ector County grand jury after he reportedly led law enforcement authorities to a grave site.

At that time Miss Murphy had been missing from Odessa for more than six months.

Lions hear cowboy songs

Members of the Downtown Lions Club had a singing good time at their Wednesday noon meeting in the Midland Hilton, as Don Hedgpeh, acting director of the Museum of the Southwest, sang three cowboy songs, playing his own guitar accompaniment.

Hedgpeh, whose primary interest is the history of the range cattle industry, is the author of numerous cowboy books and articles on the subject. He was born at Seagraves, resided for a while as a lad at Forsan and later in Nueces County. He has been associated with ranching and cowboy institutions most of his adult life. He has resided here since 1976.

The speaker, who was introduced by Duke Jimerson, told the Lions his interest is in and with the character and flavor of the real range cowboy, rather than that portrayed in most Western novels and motion picture films.

He said the real cowboy is depicted best in the genuine, authentic cowboy music, which is entirely different from Western or country music.

"Little Joe the Wrangler," "The Bloody Basin Cowboys" and "When the Work's All Done This Fall" were the songs sung by Hedgpeh, who said they are typical of the cowboy songs of yesteryear.

It was announced that proceeds from the recently held Lions Club Pancake Jamboree now total $21,577.

More than $125 was contributed by the Downtown Lions Club at their Wednesday noon meeting for disaster relief in the Wichita Falls-Vernon area.

President-elect Ray Gwyn said the funds will be forwarded through the American Red Cross to the Disaster Relief Center at Wichita Falls.

Egypt votes today on Sadat treaty

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egyptians voted today in a referendum on the peace treaty with Israel and President Anwar Sadat, who initiated the peace drive, predicted a "99 percent" yes vote.

The treaty was signed in Washington March 26 and Egypt's Parliament ratified it April 10. While the referendum is not constitutionally required, its purpose is to show Sadat's Arab critics that his people support him.

Sadat said last week the referendum would demonstrate to "the barking Arabs" who are punishing Egypt because of the treaty, that the pact was "the will of the people." He said, "99 percent of them want this treaty."

A second section of the ballot asks voters to approve Sadat's plans for political reform and parliamentary elections he said were needed to usher in the new peace era.

These included: dissolution of Parliament to clear the way for June elections; changes in election laws to allow creation of new political parties and a declaration of human rights.

Results of the nationwide vote were not expected to be announced until midday Friday.

Officials have provided 36,750 polling stations for the nation's 10 million voters. Ballots will be counted and results sent to the special election center set up in the Police Ministry.

The National Progressive Unionist Rally, Egypt's leftist party, called for a "no" vote on the treaty. The pact is also opposed by fundamentalist Islamic groups who are banned by law from forming political parties.

Interviews conducted outside the polling stations indicated little opposition to the two ballot proposals.

"The treaty is the best thing in the world," said Abdullah Abdel Rahman, a 49-year-old carpenter who was voting in a central Cairo precinct.

Mohammed Abdel Nabi, 75, hobbled to the polls on crutches to cast his ballot in favor of the treaty.

"At least one thing is true," he said, "the youth will have days of honey."

Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman will arrive in Cairo Sunday for a three-day visit to discuss treaty provisions with his counterpart, Kamal Hassan Aly, the Middle East news agency reported here today.

An American trade delegation led by presidential envoy Robert Straus flew from Cairo to Tel Aviv today to discuss expansion of trade and investments by the United States.

Speaking to reporters at Ben Gurion Airport, Straus said it is "essential that economic progress be made if the peace process is to go forward." He said the United States "can bring more than military hardware to the area."

In Rabat, Morocco, the Arab States' Broadcasting Union announced it has decided to expel Egypt and move its headquarters to Tunis, Tunisia, until it can be moved to Jerusalem, "as soon as the holy city is liberated" from the Israelis.

Mondale visits Sweden

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale arrived in Sweden today on the fourth stop of his Scandinavian tour.

Mondale and his wife, Joan, were greeted at Arlanda International Airport by Prime Minister Ola Ullsten, Foreign Minister Hans Blix and other Cabinet members.

Mondale is the first senior American official to visit Sweden in 15 years. Sweden's criticism of U.S. involvement in the Vietnam War chilled relations between Stockholm and Washington. The last high-ranking American to visit here was the late Lyndon B. Johnson, who toured Sweden in 1963 while vice president.

CPR, microwave classes offered

Midland College has scheduled two evening short courses to begin next week. The non-credit courses are offered to the public through the college's Community Services Department.

Carmen Edwards holds a three-day course in Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation meeting Tuesday, Thursday and concluding the next Tuesday. Classes meet from 7 to 10 p.m. in room 106 of the Occupational-Technical Building. The fee is $8.

CPR is a basic life support procedure for victims whose heart and lungs have ceased to function effectively. The technique taught here is sanctioned by the American Heart Association.

A one-evening explanation and demonstration of microwave cooking will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. Thursday in room 106 of the Occ-Tech Building.

Sandra Dozier gives up-to-date information about the ovens, explains safety features, discusses energy-saving ideas and prepares three complete meals and snacks. The fee for Microwave Cooking I is $5.

Pre-registration is in progress now between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays in room 140 of the Occ-Tech Building. The office will remain open during the lunch hour. More information can be obtained by calling 684-7851, extension 147 or 216.

Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr. has proclaimed the week of April 22-28 as Midland Iris Week in conjunction with the annual show staged by the West Texas Iris Society.

The show is set for Sunday at the Lancaster Garden Center from 1:30 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The Tall City's sunshine and sandy soil easily grows irises, "queen of the springtime gardens," in a rainbow of colors. All area citizens are encouraged to attend the floral display which is always lovely in horticulture and artistic arrangements. The iris rhizomes may be acquired from members of the Iris Society at their sale in late July...

...MR. AND MRS. WAYNE MATTHEWS of Midland have just returned from a visit to Arlington Heights, Illinois, where they were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jackson.

While there, Mrs. Matthews assisted in the premier production of a children's operetta, "The Ghostly Grotto" for which she composed the music. Mrs. Jackson wrote the script and directed the play which was performed by the fourth and fifth grade students in her class and at Arlington Heights Olive School.

The play has been copyrighted and is being submitted to publishers. At the final performance, Matthews renewed acquaintance with a friend of the Jacksons who had been a page boy in the Texas House of Representatives, when Matthews was a member from an East Texas county years ago.

The Matthews landed at O'Hare Field Airport in Chicago during a freezing windstorm that toppled a steeple and did extensive damage throughout the city. In spite of this, however, they say that they enjoyed touring Chicago...

May Day show planned

Fund-raising projects were discussed at the recent meeting of the Permian Basin chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation which met in the office of Dr. Ed Dempsey.

Chris Haynes reported on a "May Day" fashion show scheduled for May 1 at the Midland Hilton ballroom. Social time begins at 11:30 a.m. and lunch and show will be held at 12 noon.

Benefits will go to children in the Permian Basin who have cystic fibrosis.

Spring and summer fashions from Skibells of Midland will be modeled around a "May Day" theme.

Tickets are available at Skibell's in Dellwood Mall and, due to limited seating, should be purchased by April 27. Tickets are $10.50.

A Crafts and Bake Sale is also being planned by the chapter for May 12. Homemade bread and pastries as well as Mother's Day craft gifts will

AT WIT'S END
It's reality

By ERMA BOMBECK

At least a dozen times during a year, I will hear from a reader who wonders what a superficial column on Monday dieters, oversexed coat hangers, legally dead football enthusiasts, and siblings who argue for a living, is doing in a newspaper.

It does seem incongruous — in the midst of global wars, energy crises, unemployment, rising food costs and nuclear threat — that my prime concern is taking the static electricity out of my underwear.

On occasion when the criticism gets through to me, I pull out a letter written by a surgeon in Derry, N.H. In it, he describes the cardiac operating suite in a general hospital.

"I stare in wonder like any visitor. "The blood sweeps rich and red through the bypass pump, its pulsating progress checked constantly by the 'pump driver,' the technician entrusted with this flow of life. Other artisans huddle over their machines and monitor the rhythms of existence."

"The knives flash in the brilliance of the overhead lights. Clamp, tie, cut.

"The hours go by, the surgeons stand like storks over the patient and by their side leans the nurse orchestrating with now weary gestures the clamor and chatter of the instruments, the sounds of survival.

"All is science. Technology is god. The room is a cathedral to the detachment, the unreality and the impersonality of modern life. And to life's inconsistencies.

"Because there, over there in the corner, beside the stainless steel supplies, the burnished sinks, the abundant accumulations of the systems of surgery, there on the notice board with all its checklists and warnings and instructions to those who worship at this temple, is stuck a piece of newspaper, the down-to-earth, back-to-basics benediction of the Erma Bombeck columns.

"I call it re-entry to reality. A welcome home."

I've read that letter a thousand times. Maybe I need reassuring more than my readers that this day a new baby will utter his first words, "Make him stop looking at me," a bird will get sauced on pyracantha berries, and my mother will duly report that she became constipated...in Mexico.

Updated list of dryers released

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Consumer Product Safety Commission says it has identified more than 40 additional models of hair dryers that contain asbestos, an insulation material that has been linked to cancer.

The new list brings to 111 the number of different models containing asbestos in a survey of manufacturers by the federal agency.

The earlier list, released April 6, has prompted a record flood of calls by consumers to the safety commission's telephone hotline, with staffers handling an average of 2,500 inquiries each day, the agency said.

In addition, it said, telephone company sources report that as many as 6,000 other callers each hour are unable to get through because of the jam-up of the 11 available lines.

The commission's toll-free number for the 48 contiguous states except Maryland is 800-638-8326. The number for Maryland residents is 800-492-8363, while residents of Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands may call 800-638-8333.

The commission said consumers may obtain a free list of the hair dryer models believed to contain asbestos by writing Hair Dryers, Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, D.C. 20207.

Here, by brand name, are the dryers on the commission's updated list together with the firm's telephone number and address:

Society elects officers

Mrs. Albert Horne was elected president when the Midland Society of Parliamentarians met for a luncheon and program. Mrs. B. W. Golladay and Mrs. Alan A. Spinks were hostesses in Mrs. Spinks' home, 3200 Boyd St.

Other officers elected were Hester Williams, vice president; Mrs. Frank Shriver, secretary, and Mrs. W. C. Osborne, treasurer.

The new president announced the following committee chairmen: Mrs. Harold G. Clark, parliamentarian; Mrs. Robert A. Hobbs, hospitality; Mrs. Edward H. Unger, publicity and history; Mrs. John P. McKinley, yearbook; Clara Jesse, telephone; Mrs. Joe V. Birdwell, membership, and Mrs. Ben Johnson Jr. and Mrs. Harvey Herd, youth.

Guests were Elsie Stephenson and Mrs. Lorin Rulla.

Final reports for the 1978-79 study season were given. Mrs. Herd and Mrs. Johnson worked with parliamentary students at Midland and Lee High Schools, who received first place in the division contest and went on to state, where they received honors.

Mrs. Johnson will continue to conduct classes on basic beginners' work and one class on intermediate work during the noon hour twice weekly. Persons interested can contact her at 683-6028, office, or 694-2960, home.

Miss Williams gave the program on unusual questions members wanted answered.

Mrs. Edward H. Judson and Myrtle Shepherd were voted as new members.

Nature's Coloring Book

By Peggy Hodges

With the coming of spring and earth's awakening to a new season of color, we can learn a great deal from Nature about how to use color with fresh effect inside our own homes.

One of Nature's lessons is that we do not have to worry as much as we once thought about "too much color." How many gardeners complain about Nature's abundance and rich variety of colors? Nature tells us, too, that we do not have to be rigidly bound by rules saying what colors go together. But there are other lessons, too. The gardener does learn how certain flowers enhance us even more when they are used together to complement each other. How a subdued background can be brought alive by one vivid splash of color.

how well we can live for long periods with "natural" hues, the basic browns, and reds, blues and greens of sea and sky, and forest and garden.

Perhaps the most important lesson is not to be afraid of color. Nature accepts them all, and you can feel just as free to choose the colors (and combinations of colors) that please you.

And if new furniture is in your spring plans, be sure to see our beautiful collection of colorful fabrics in a rich variety of tones and textures. Quality name brand furnishings that will mean pride of possession.

New ways of shopping

By The Associated Press

Forming a food co-op takes time and effort, but the cash savings can be high.

You'll need a little help from your friends — or neighbors. For advice, start with your state or county extension service and local consumer affairs department. Many agencies offer co-op manuals.

There are numerous books on co-ops, including "How to Start Your Own Food Co-Op," by Gloria Stern, and "Food Co-Ops for Small Groups," by Tony Vellela. Check your local library for copies.

Co-ops vary, but the federal Office of Consumer Affairs has some suggestions for forming a simple buying club. Among them:

Get your group together. Many experts suggest starting with 12 families because products often are sold by the dozen.

Agree on the type of co-op you want. Will you buy fresh produce and meat only? Will you include grocery items? How often do you want to shop? (Most co-ops are weekly.) Are members looking only for economy or do they want unusual products unavailable at the supermarket? Try to find members with similar tastes.

Find outlets for large scale buying and arrange to have wholesalers supply you with invoices giving weekly prices. If you're in a rural area, you may be able to deal directly with farmers.

DEAR ABBY

Road to heaven isn't always toll-free

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a young clergyman, new in the community and eager to do the best job possible. I am told that a few years back you had an excellent answer for someone who wrote in complaining that every time he turned around the church hit him for money.

The writer asked you what the church did with all the money.

If you can find that letter, I would be most grateful if you ran it again. — TENNESSEE PREACHER

DEAR PREACHER: I found it. And here it is:

DEAR ABBY: We are not overly religious people, but we do like to go to church once in a while. It seems to me that every time we turn around in church we are hit for money. I thought religion was free. I realize that churches have to have some money, but I think it is getting to be a racket. Just what do churches do with all their money? — CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: Even priests, ministers and rabbis must eat. Since they work full time at their tasks, the churches must support them. Staff, professional choir members and musicians must also be paid. Buildings must be maintained, heated, lighted and beautified. (And, of course, first they must be built!) Custodial staff must eat and feed their families. Most churches engage in philanthropic work (aid to needy, missions and education); hence, they have their financial obligations. Even orchids, contrary to folklore, do not live on air. Churches can't live on air, either. Religion, like water, may be free, but when they pipe it to you, you've got to help pay for the piping. And the piper!

DEAR ABBY: When my son, his wife and their baby come to my home for dinner I always put newspapers under the baby's high chair. My son told me that his wife will not allow him to place newspapers under the baby's high chair at home because it is "low-class."

DEAR ABBY: I got a big kick out of that etiquette-conscious couple who asked about the socially acceptable way to list their names on their mailbox. Since they have obviously chosen to thumb their noses at convention by living together without marriage, it seems a little ridiculous to fret about the "proper" way to do anything. — CONVENTIONAL IN BRIDGEPORT

NEW YORK, N.Y.—Allergic reactions to insect stings are more common than most people imagine, according to a National Institutes of Health panel.

As reported in the "Archives of Internal Medicine," the panelists urge that people allergic to insect stings use available methods such as specially designed bracelets to make their sensitivity known.

Am I out of line? Or is my daughter-in-law? — SOCORRO, N.M.

DEAR SOCORRO: She is. And you may place THIS under the baby's high chair.

Reactions to bites common occurrence

The panelists are against making insect sting treatment kits available without a doctor's prescription because of the risk of inappropriate use by individuals with certain cardiovascular disease.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Although you do not have any means by which to put a positive plan into motion, nevertheless you are able to find the right means by which to build a more up-to-date set of circumstances that can later be put into motion.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Decide early which friends you want to have in your life in the future and contact them, show how much you appreciate them. Be more practical in going after your aims.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Go after information you need and then in any interesting situations develop from which you can profit. Use good judgement and don't rely solely on your intuition.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Enjoy recreation that is not too expensive and get good results. But first finish any important work. Don't try to project yourself too much.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make others aware of what it is you want. You'd like to delve into a new outlet, but it would be premature.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Pay visits to others, but take care you do not argue with them. Show kindness and all is well. Take no risks with your good name.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Know what your subconscious aims are and how best to achieve them, gradually and safely. Make sure your health and appearance are good before dealing with others.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Seek out an adviser and handle confidential matters wisely. Take care you do not argue with loved ones. Show more thoughtfulness instead.

Texan writes new cookbook

DALLAS—Aspiring cooks now can have the best of both worlds, with a new cookbook by one of Texas' most accomplished culinary artists, compiling everything you may have ever wanted to know about cooking, but were afraid (or too proud) to ask.

Margaret Boone Ackerman has finally, after years of urging by her family, friends and students, put her considerable talents to work and the published result is everything one would expect from a long-time teacher, a remarkable hostess, and a student of such renowned names as the Cordon Bleu in Europe and Madame Irene Beran in Washington, D.C.

"Never Too Hot in the Kitchen," is 253 pages of easy-to-understand, deliciously conceived recipes, sprinkled liberally with bits of history (Washington's remedy for a cold) family and friend tidbits (including the Ackerman family's cherished, authentic plum pudding recipe, Emily's coffee mousse and Mrs. Penn's ice-box cookies) reminiscent, endearing quotes, and more helpful hints than Heloise. (How many times have you tried to peel a clove of garlic, not knowing there's a slick, easy way to do it?) Throughout the book, charming sketches by Dallas artist Lynn Wai-bel Hotes, spotlight Margaret's elegant table appointments—some, old family heirlooms, others collected throughout Europe.

Snack on wheat germ

SAN FRANCISCO—Try the wheat germ approach to healthful snacking. In this case, wheat germ shows up in a tasty rye snack bread. Baked in small rippled loaves, the bread cuts nicely into munch sized slices for easy out-of-hand eating. Those grooves, by the way, are created by pressing the handle of a wooden spoon into flattened rounds of dough. The recipe makes two small loaves—one to serve now and one to freeze.

Easy-to-follow directions are given for mixing, kneading and shaping this nutritious yeast bread. The ratio of one cup of vacuum packed wheat germ to one and a half cups of rye and all purpose flour results in a densely textured bread with excellent, robust flavor. Caraway seeds add further flavor interest. Fresh fruit and cheese are fitting companions to this distinctive wheat germ loaf.

WHEAT GERM RYE SNACK BREAD

1 package active dry yeast; 1 1/4

cups warm water (about 105 degrees to 115 degrees; 1 cup vacuum packed wheat germ; regular or sugar & honey; 1 1/2 teaspoons sugar; 1 1/2 teaspoons salt; 2 tablespoons cooking oil; 2 teaspoons caraway seeds; 1 1/2 cups rye flour; 1 to 1 1/2 cups all purpose flour; Egg Wash.

Dissolve yeast in warm water in large bowl. Mix in wheat germ, sugar, salt, oil and caraway seeds. Stir in rye flour with wooden spoon. Gradually beat in about 1 cup all purpose flour to make a soft dough which leaves sides of bowl. Turn out onto lightly floured surface. Knead 5 to 10 minutes, working in enough of remaining flour to get a smooth, elastic dough. Place in large greased bowl, turning to coat all sides. Cover. Let rise in warm, draft free place about 1 1/2 to 2 hours until doubled. Punch down. Divide dough in half. Shape each portion into smooth ball. Flatten to 6-inch circle. Place on greased baking sheet. Brush with Egg Wash. Cover loosely. Let rise 1 1/2 to 2 hours or until doubled. Press handle of wooden spoon into dough to make parallel grooves 1-inch apart. Bake in 375 degrees oven 25 to 30 minutes or until golden brown. Remove from pan and cool on rack. Cut into thin slices across grooves. Makes 2 small loaves.

EGG WASH: Beat 1 egg with 1 tablespoon water.

What inexpensive cuts?

By MERLE ELLIS

Magazines are filled these days with money-saving tips that tell us to save on our food bills by learning to prepare the "inexpensive cuts." What inexpensive cuts? Most of what were the inexpensive cuts have gone up in price all out of proportion to the expensive cuts.

Porterhouse steak has gone up about $1.50 a pound around my neighborhood, while the good old used-to-be-inexpensive chuck roast has gone up over $1 a pound. Short ribs of beef are nearly twice what they were a year ago. Ground beef has gone up even more. And my neighborhood is not the only one where the gap between expensive and inexpensive is closing fast.

According to a weekly bulletin I received from the Missouri Farm Bureau, chuck roast in that state went from $1.22 per pound December 11 to $1.50 per pound February 12, while T-bone steaks during the same period went from $3.04 to $3.05 per pound.

Inexpensive cuts are on their way out. In the markets I surveyed this week, only two cuts of meat could be had for under $1 a pound. One was breast of lamb and the other was beef kidney, both at $0.69 per pound. If you were looking for "inexpensive," those were "it."

Breast of lamb has always been a good buy, but with most of the inexpensive cuts getting less and less inexpensive, it is one cut that you have to get to know. Anything under $1 a pound is well worth working with.

The breast is to the lamb as the brisket is to beef and the spareribs are to a pig. Unlike the beef brisket, however, which is a tough cut that requires long, slow, moist-heat cooking to make it tender, breast of lamb is tender enough to cook with dry heat. You can toss one on the barbecue grill and cook it just as you would pork spareribs and it will come out nice and tender.

One of the favorite ways with breast of lamb around our house is "Neva's Quick Lamb Riblets." My wife likes cooking quick and easy.

This doesn't take much time and is certainly easy. For our family of four, we buy two breasts (they weigh about a pound each) and one 8-ounce jar of orange marmalade.

Cut the breasts into individual riblets by cutting between the ribs with a heavy knife. Lay the riblets in a shallow baking pan, season with salt and pepper and bake, uncovered, in a 350-degree oven for 30 minutes. Then pour off the fat. Cover the riblets with the orange marmalade and bake for another 15 minutes, or until the ribs are tender. Serve with rice and a salad and you have a delicious and inexpensive meal.

If company's coming, a couple of inexpensive lamb breasts can be made the main course for six or eight people, with a soup to boot, if you stuff them. Buy two breasts; take them home and bone them out.

Everyone looking for ways to cut grocery bills

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Inflation is changing the way America shops. No-frills packages, bag-it-yourself stores and do-it-yourself food cooperatives are gaining popularity as people look for ways to cut grocery bills.

It is difficult to come up with firm figures on how much of the more than $200 billion Americans spend every year on food goes to the non-traditional shopping outlets.

Ron Cotterill, a food marketing specialist from Michigan State University, estimated that there are roughly 4,000 food co-ops throughout the United States, about one-eighth the number of conventional supermarkets. Cotterill said the co-ops probably account for less than 1 percent or 2 percent of total grocery sales.

Industry spokesmen say it is hard to keep track of the alternative systems because they are growing so rapidly. No-frills foods — standard grades in plain packages — were not introduced until 1977. Today, according to industry estimates, they are offered by 100 chains in 10,000 supermarkets, about one-third of the total.

It looks like we're seeing the start of a whole new movement," said Midge Shubow of the federal Office of Consumer Affairs.

Esther Peterson, special assistant to the president for consumer affairs, agreed. "There's an exciting trend in this country to say, 'Look. We've got to do a lot of this ourselves.'"

Food co-ops are the most basic form of do-it-yourself shopping. Consumers band together to buy food and other grocery products, in bulk, at wholesale.

They may operate as simple buying clubs or as full-fledged stores. Members of buying clubs trade time and labor for cash savings. They take turns acting as purchasing agents and distributing the food. Buying clubs often handle fresh foods only and tend to feature seasonal items. Your menus may be limited by other members' tastes.

The supermarket-style co-ops are more complicated, often requiring full-time managers. Shoppers may or may not have to pay a membership fee — sometimes as little as $1 — to help with rent, utilities, wages, etc. Prices are marked up only enough to cover any additional operating costs. There is no profit. Costs are kept to a minimum, sometimes with the help of members who volunteer their labor in exchange for additional discounts.

Cotterill said co-ops "are growing daily." Today's co-op movement, he said, has its roots in the 1960s and early 1970s. "It was started primarily by young people ... as a move toward local control of their lives ... They (the co-ops) sort of fell into good times in the sense that food price inflation really focused attention on food prices and on alternatives to going to a supermarket."

Savings vary. They can range up to 60 percent, particularly in buying clubs, said Cotterill.

The buying clubs also offer non-economic benefits. "You do trade time for money, but lots of times if you look at the relative time and stress of going through the supermarket system, you may be coming out with lower prices and a whole lot happier," Cotterill said.

Consumers in areas convenient to local farms can save money by eliminating still more of the marketing bill by picking their own produce or shopping at roadside stands. The U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates that as of 1976, there were more than 3,000 pick-your-own operations and 9,000 roadside stands throughout the United States.

Professor offers advice on trimming food budget

By the Associated Press

Buy when the price is right. And when the price is right, buy in quantity.

If you follow those rules, says a Cornell University professor, you can trim your grocery budget by 15 percent.

Heinz Biesdorf and his colleagues at Cornell have developed a shopping plan designed to help people take advantage of specials.

Start with the products your family uses regularly. Keep a record of purchases and prices.

Make out your shopping list for the coming week and check newspaper ads for specials. Look for sales on products that you use all the time — even if you don't happen to need them this week.

Suppose paper towels are on sale at 69 cents a roll instead of 89. You may not need towels this week, but you will later in the month. Buy 10 rolls of paper towels and you will have ultimately saved $2.

Buying in quantity for future use means spending now to save later. You'll have to figure out a way to squeeze some extra money from the budget, but a few dollars are enough to start you on your way.

In the beginning, you probably will find only one or two items you regularly use are on sale. At the end of six months, you should have built up a stock of groceries to the point where you don't have to pay full price for anything.

It takes time to shop this way — an extra hour or so a week — as you write down prices and go through ads. It also takes storage space. Before you say you don't have the time or the room,

Basin areas gain 114 more petroleum projects

Another 114 oil and gas projects have been staked in the Permian Basin of West Texas and southeast New Mexico, with the West Texas side getting 106 of the projects.

Operators spotted 23 of the projects in wildcat country, with 12 of them scheduled for the Railroad Commission of Texas' District 7-C.

Five of those wildcats were announced in Runnels County. Crockett County gains two, and Irion, Kimble, Schleicher and Terrell each gained one.

District 8, headquartered in Midland, picked up 41 of the new projects, including three wildcats — in Glasscock, Loving and Pecos counties.

The New Mexico area gained eight projects, including three wildcats. Two of the wildcats were staked in Chaves County, and Eddy County gained the third.

SCHLEICHER WELL

T. C. Meador of Eldorado No. 12-16 T. C. Meador has been completed as the sixth Clisco 6260 well in the Velux multipay pool of Schleicher County, 16 miles northwest of Eldorado.

It finalized for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 1,200,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 6,442 to 6,487 feet after 1,500 gallons of acid and a 23,100-gallon fracture job.

Total depth is 6,942 feet and 4.5-inch pipe is set at 6,934 feet.

Well site is 550 feet from south and 467 feet from east lines of J. H. Delong survey.

CROCKETT OFFSETS

HMH Operators of Midland staked a pair of offsets to its No. 1 Mesa-University, 1.5-mile southwest extension to the Farmer (San Andres) pool of Crockett County, 14 miles southeast of Big Lake.

The No. 2 Mesa-University is a northeast offset, 1,650 feet from south and 990 feet from east lines of section 1, block 15, University Lands survey.

The No. 1 Supron-University is a southeast offset, 330 feet from north and 990 feet from east lines of section 6, block 51, University Lands survey.

Each of the projects will be drilled to 2,600 feet.

Wallace urges Carter to in solving conflicts

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Mack-Wallace of the Texas Railroad Commission urged President Carter today to help settle "energy-environmental conflicts" to encourage the development of refinery capacity.

"The president's energy policies have turned the right on production and must simultaneously turn to the right on refinery capacity," Wallace told the statewide oil allowable hearing.

Oil and gas executives applauded Wallace's remarks, and applauded again at the urging of Commission Chairman John Poerner, who said Wallace "is 60 days ahead of Washington on all important matters that come about."

"He (Wallace) is doing a spectacular job on the part of Texans — not only here but in Washington," said Poerner.

The three-member commission routinely set the statewide oil allowable for May at 100 percent.

There were a few field exceptions, such as the East Texas Field, which once again was restricted to 86 percent production.

Wallace said Carter's proposed energy program on April 5 "is no panacea but it is a major step in the right direction."

Wallace said, however, the program "falls short in several critical respects" and he offered these examples:

"The windfall profits tax does not maximize production. It siphons into wasteful bureaucracies tremendous amounts of capital which could otherwise be plowed back by the industry into exploration and production.

"The creation of an energy security fund by the federal government would do many things. What it would not do is produce energy in the short term. And that is what we need."

Wallace repeated a remark that "32 companies have tried to build refineries on the East Coast and not one has been built since 1954." He said one such company is the Hampton Roads Energy Co. Wallace said his data on the East Coast refineries came from President John Evans of Hampton Roads.

Wallace said Hampton Roads has tried since 1969 to complete a refinery project in Portsmouth, Va., and the project "has been embroiled in an environmental quagmire" for the past five years.

"If the Portsmouth refinery were presently in operation, it could be producing 60,000 barrels per day of low sulfur residual fuel oil and 80,000 barrels per day of unleaded gasoline. With projects like Long Beach-Midland to move the crude and Portsmouth to refine it, there would be no need of talk of allocation, of spot shortages, of inconvenience, of disruption, and of rationing," said Wallace.

Poerner reported major buyers of Texas crude oil had asked for 2,764,917 barrels a day in May, a decrease of 1,351 barrels daily from April.

He said crude and petroleum products imports into the United States totaled 8,280,800 barrels per day for the four-week average of April 2, and this represents 44 percent of the nation's current demand.

Here are the purchasers' crude oil nominations for May, in barrels per day, with any changes from April in

Geologists to hear Roberts

W. H. Roberts III, with the Houston Technical Services Center of Gulf Research and Development Co., will be the speaker for the Tuesday noon meeting of the West Texas Geological Society.

The event will be in the Midland Hilton.

Roberts will talk on "Design & Function of Oil and Gas Traps."

Reservations should be made by contacting the WTGS office in Midland by 5 p. m. Friday.

Roberts received a degree in Geological Engineering from the Colorado School of Mines.

During World War II he controlled air traffic for the Federal Aviation Administration and served as an engineer in the Maritime Service. For the next 12 years, he worked in the Rocky Mountain area for Union Oil Co. of California, National Petroleum Corp., Ltd., and Gulf Oil Corp.

He has 27 years with Gulf, including eight years at the research center in Pittsburgh, Pa. He has been in Houston 13 years with the Houston Technical Services Center.

The paper he will present Tuesday was presented by him at the 1978 American Association of Petroleum Geologist annual meeting in Oklahoma City.

The paper introduces a number of new concepts in support of the anticlinal theory. The paper won the annual best paper award for 1977-78 given by the Houston Geological Society.

Inflation prediction changed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's decision to lift price controls on domestically produced crude oil will spur inflation by half a percentage point more than the administration has predicted, a congressional study says.

The Congressional Budget Office study also said the deregulation will both save less oil and produce less oil than forecast by the White House.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., an opponent of Carter's plan to remove all price controls by mid-1981, released the study Wednesday.

The study said the administration plan would:

- Add a total of 1.25 percent to the rate of inflation by 1982 rather than the 0.75 percent forecast by the White House.
- Reduce imports by 300,000 barrels of oil a day by 1981 and 650,000 barrels by 1985. The administration says the savings will be 370,000 barrels a day in 1981 and 950,000 a day in 1985.
- Increase domestic production about 400,000 to 500,000 barrels a day through 1985. Administration officials have projected an increase of some 742,000 to 839,000 a day during the same period.

On gasoline price increases, the study generally supported administration claims that deregulation will add about a nickel a gallon to the price of gasoline and other petroleum products by 1981.

That would be in addition to general inflationary price increases or pricing decisions of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

ENERGY OIL & GAS

water, through perforations from 3,086 to 3,107 feet and from 3,054 to 3,067 feet.

The upper set was acidized with 500 gallons and fractured with 2,100 gallons, and the lower set was acidized with 750 gallons and fractured with 2,000 gallons.

The gas-oil ratio is 2,727-1.

The Delaware sand was topped at 3,054 feet on ground elevation of 2,882 feet.

Total depth is 4,650 feet and 5.5-inch casing is cemented on bottom. The plugged back depth is 3,125 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 31, block 56, T-2, T&P survey.

IRON EXPLORER

Guy A. Swartz of San Angelo staked location for No. 2 H. M. Phillips, a 2,000-foot wildcat, in Irion County four miles south of Mertzon.

It is one location northeast of his No. 1 Phillips, active wildcat, and 920 feet from south and 1,100 feet from west lines of section 5, Gonzales County School Land survey.

The No. 1 Phillips is waiting on pumping unit to test the zone behind perforations from 1,438 to 1,448 feet.

UPTON WILDCAT

C. Louis Renaud of Midland No. 1 Pennzoil-Mayhew will be dug as a 2,400-foot San Andres wildcat in Upton County, 6.5 miles southeast of McCamey.

The project is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 8, GC&SF survey, abstract 670.

It is 1/2 mile southeast of a shut-in well in the Webb-Ray (2,100) field, the only producer in the pool listed in the Railroad Commission proration schedule.

MENARD TEST

SRG Oil Corp. of Abilene will drill a 1,750-foot wildcat in Menard County, two miles southwest of the Ferris (King sand) field and eight miles west of Menard.

The prospector is 1,400 feet from south and 700 feet from west lines of section 24, T&N survey, abstract 1506 and will be drilled as the No. 1-24 Neal.

The site is one location northeast of a 3,136-foot dry hole.

STONEWALL PROJECT

Fisher-Webb, Inc., of Abilene No. 1 Spitzer is a new 2,520-foot wildcat in Stonewall County, 1/2 mile west of Old Glory.

Operator spotted the location 1,246 feet from north and 1,637 feet from west lines of section 1, block 9, AB&M survey. It is 5/8 mile east of the Pumpfrey (Strawn) production and surrounded by Bend conglomerate wells.

GAINES RE-ENTRY

Rasco, Inc., of Midland will re-enter the Devonian discovery well of the Champon multipay pool of southeast Gaines County and test the Strawn above 11,350 feet.

The project is Rasco No. 1 Higginbotham Brothers, 467 feet from south and 1,320 feet from east lines of tract 1, league 302, Terry County School Land survey.

It is 13 miles southeast of Seminole and 1/2 mile south and slightly west of the lone Strawn oil producer in the field.

TOM GREEN AREA

Sunex Energy Corp. of San Angelo No. 1 Harvey Wilde is a new project 1,500 feet northeast of dproduction in the four-well (Susan Peak, North

Midlanders spot wildcats

Operators have announced locations for two more wildcat projects in West Texas.

Tom Brown, Inc., of Midland No. 1 Doss will be dug as a 13,000-foot prospector in Gaines County, 17 miles east of Seminole.

It is 660 feet from north and east lines of labor 20, league 294, Lynn County School Land survey.

It is 7/8 mile south of a 12,830-foot failure and one mile northeast of a 12,918-foot dry hole. It also is two and three-eighths miles northeast of the Birge (Devonian) oil pool.

YOAKUM WILDCAT

John L. Cox, also of Midland, staked location for a 12,200-foot wildcat in west Yoakum County along the New Mexico-Texas state line.

It is No. 1 Field, 990 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 347, block D, J. H. Gibson survey and one mile south of Bronco.

The site is one and seven-eighths miles northeast of production in the Bronco (Devonian) field.

DAWSON TEST

Anadarko Producon Co., Midland, No. 1-37 Clyde Barron has been spotted as an 8,600-foot test in the Block 35 (Dean) area of Dawson County.

It is 1/2 mile east of production and 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 37, block 35, T-5-S, T&P survey and seven miles southeast of Lamesa.

DRY HOLES

BORDEN COUNTY

Alkman Petroleum, Inc. wildcat (Seven-J Ellenburger), No. 1 Druon, 1,800 feet from south and west lines of section 467, block 97, HATC survey, five miles west of Fluvanna, id 8,461 feet.

CHAVES COUNTY

Petroleum Development Corp. wildcat No. 1 Roberts-Federal, 1,800 feet from south and east lines of section 22-12s-36e, 15 miles south of Caprock, abandoned location.

CONCHO COUNTY

Termo Co. of Texas, wildcat, No. 1 Edwards, 660 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 27s, 11 miles east of Eola, id 3,500 feet.

EDDY COUNTY

Lawbar Petroleum Inc. wildcat No. 1 Samedan-Federal, 900 feet from north and west lines of section 17-16s-29e, 14 miles northeast of Artesia, id 2,000 feet.

GAINES COUNTY

David Fasken, wildcat, No. 1-3 Doss, 1,067 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 1, block A-21, pal survey, five miles southwest of Seminole, id 5,300 feet.

LEA COUNTY

Delta Drilling Co. wildcat, No. 1 Delta Unit-State, 660 feet from north and west lines of section 30-16s-23e, three miles east of Maljamar, id 2,360 feet.

LYNN COUNTY

Blair Exploration, Inc. wildcat, No. 1 A. C. Pillington, 253 feet from north and 467 feet from east lines of section 16s, block 12, ELARR survey, 10 miles northwest of Tahoka, id 8,064 feet.

RUNNELS COUNTY

E. B. Fletcher, wildcat, No. 1 W. Roberts, 2,421 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 34, block 63, HTAB survey, abstract 1418 (Some maps show J. D. Crewe survey No. 54), seven miles southwest of Winters, id 4,415 feet.

SCHLEICHER COUNTY

Faul Page, wildcat, No. 1 Jewell Bailey, 500 feet from north and 467 feet from west lines of section 31, block T, TCRB survey, 11 miles northwest of Eldorado, id 6,865 feet.

STONEWALL COUNTY

Newsway Energy Corp. wildcat No. 1 Petros, 1,800 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 102, block F, HATC survey, 11 miles north of Swenson, id 6,610 feet.

WARD COUNTY

Gulf Oil Corp. wildcat No. 1033 Hutchings Stock Association, 660 feet from north and west lines of section 9, block 6, GAMMBA survey, 33 1/4 miles southeast of Wickett, id 5,300 feet.

YOAKUM COUNTY

Monsanto Co. wildcat, No. 1 Simmons, 660 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 31, block D, John H. Gibson survey, 5.5 miles northeast of Plains, id 8,945 feet.

Wildcats, oil discovery reported in WT areas

Getty Oil Co. No. 1 L. S. McDowell Estate has been spotted as a 10,300-foot wildcat in Glasscock County, nine miles north of Glasscock City.

It is two miles northwest of the Deadwood (Fusselman oil) pool and two and seven-eighths miles southeast of the McDowell (San Andres oil) field.

The location is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 41, block 33, T-2-S, T&P survey.

REEVES OPENER

Texaco Inc. No. 1-BL Reeves Fee has been completed as a Delaware sand oil discovery in Reeves County, two miles southeast of Orla.

The operator reported a daily pumping potential of 11 barrels of 32.4-gravity oil and 100 barrels of (Canyon) field of Tom Green County, three miles southeast of Wall.

It is 2,310 feet from north and 990 feet from east lines of section 137, block 11, SPRR survey. It is to drill to 4,700 feet.

WYNNE TESTER

Robert M. Wynne of Midland staked his No. 1-25 University as a one and three-eighths mile north outpost to the Farmer pool in Crockett County, 14 miles southeast of Big Lake.

Drill site is 330 feet from south and east lines of section 25, block 48, University Lands survey.

The contract depth is 2,600 feet and the ground elevation is 2,732 feet.

HASKELL TEST

The Desana Corp. of Midland No. 1-112 Flat Top is to be drilled as a 3,300-foot wildcat in Haskell County, three miles southwest of Sagerton.

The location is 2.5 miles southwest of 566-foot Bend conglomerate dproduction in an unnamed field.

The project is 990 feet from south and 1,320 feet from east lines of section 112, block 1, BBB&C survey.

ENERGY OIL & GAS

SAPELO ISLAND, Ga. (AP) — The Carter administration has decided to send Congress next week "detailed specifications" for a proposed tax on "windfall" oil profits rather than detailed legislation, presidential press secretary Jody Powell said today.

Powell told reporters the administration will leave it to the appropriate congressional committees to put the specifications into the form of a draft bill.

This decision seemed to suggest President Carter has decided to take a more flexible approach toward the specifics of a tax bill he wants Congress to enact as he moves, on his own, to gradually decontrol the price of U.S.-produced crude oil.

However, Powell questioned this interpretation, saying, "That's not my understanding of it."

He argued the submission of specifications would "speed the process" by avoiding the delay that would be necessary if highly technical details had to be worked out in advance.

The White House spokesman said most administration proposals destined for the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee are submitted as specifications rather than as draft bills.

Powell said the specifications will follow the tax proposals Carter announced in general terms in an April 5 address to the nation on energy policy.

The spokesman reported that a special administration task force has been engaged in "thoroughgoing consultation" with the staffs of Senate and House committees that will handle the tax proposals.

"The consultations with the Hill (Capitol Hill) continue to show increasing support for this measure," he said.

Two columns of troops move northeast in Uganda

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Tanzanian and Ugandan troops were advancing east and north of Kampala today in a slow two-prong drive to reopen the supply route from Kenya and extend the new government's control to northern and eastern Uganda.

Kept to a leisurely walk by a shortage of motor transport, one force of 2,500 men with artillery was on the way to Jinja, 50 miles east of the capital where the Victoria Nile rises in the headwaters of Lake Victoria.

A second column was heading due north to secure the Israeli-built airfield at Nakasongola, 66 miles north of the capital.

Military sources said an advance group of Tians occupied strategic points in Jinja on Tuesday, when the Tanzanians also secured nearby Owen Falls dam and power station, the country's only source of electric power. There was no report of any resistance although President Idi Amin had made Jinja his headquarters after the invasion force of Tanzanians and Ugandan exiles closed on Kampala two weeks ago.

From Jinja, the force was to move farther east toward the Kenyan border, 80 miles away, then head back northwest to Soroti, another 80-mile trek, to clear the other main highway into the country from the east.

The two columns were to meet in about a month for a combined push on Arua, the capital of Amnatie West Nile province 210 miles northwest of Soroti.

Little resistance was expected, but remnants of Amin's troops were reported killing civilians indiscriminately ahead of the advance.

"Some of Amin's soldiers are scattered and are killing a lot of people," said Capt. Justice Okot, a Ugandan company commander.

Reporters were told some of Amin's troops in one village posed as Tanzanian troops, cheered Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere and then shot villagers who joined in the cheering.

Mar Alier, an adviser to Provisional President Yussufu K. Lule, said he had received reports of cannibalism by Amin's men in some areas.

Alier's whereabouts remained a mystery. Alier said two air force pilots who came over to the new government last Sunday reported they had seen him take off in a plane from Soroti, where earlier reports placed him, his executive jet and a Libyan crew.

The deposed president has been reported in northwest Uganda, Libya, Sudan, Iraq and Zaire, but there has been no confirmation of any of the reports.

The second most wanted man was Robert Astles, Amin's British-born chief adviser who is reputed to have organized the former strongman's gestapo, the State Research Bureau. Police in Nairobi said he fled into Kenya and was being held in a provincial jail.

Astles was reported earlier to have been killed in the final battle for Kampala, but Alier said he quarreled with Amin about the conduct of the war about two weeks ago and escaped.

Alier said the government was holding Astles' estranged Ugandan wife to protect her from reprisals.

Smith casts vote in Rhodesia poll

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith joined the voters at the polls today as officials predicted a 60 percent turnout before the last balloting Saturday in the five-day Rhodesian election.

Like all the other voters, Smith put his hands under a black-light machine, then dipped his fingers in long-lasting fluorescent fluid to prevent his voting twice. He told reporters he would be "sad" to turn the nation he declared independent 14 years ago over to a black prime minister, but he said he was "overjoyed" by the voter turnout so far.

Officials reported nearly 40 percent of the 2.8 million black and 100,000 white voters cast ballots Tuesday and Wednesday to elect 72 black members of the new Rhodesian Parliament. Moderate black leaders toured the country to drum up support. Party campaign vehicles decorated with colorful posters roamed the streets urging blacks to vote.

"We expect there will be an increase in polling toward the weekend from workers unable to turn out during the week, and this should give us an overall poll of at least 60 percent on Saturday," one senior official said.

Security officials said despite months of threats by guerrilla leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe to sabotage the voting, there had been many fewer guerrilla attacks than expected.

The poorest reported turnout was in the Buhera tribal area in southeastern Rhodesia, a stronghold for Mugabe's guerrillas. The local district commissioner said only about 4,000 of the 50,000 voters had cast their ballots by noon Wednesday.

Islamic heads hold peace talks in Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The rival religious leaders of Iran's Islamic revolution held peace talks in the holy city of Qum today as a revolutionary firing squad executed a Moslem cleric for collaborating with the ousted shah's secret police.

Revolutionary riflemen also executed six members of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi's personal guard, raising to 150 the number killed in the purge that began with the overthrow of the last royal government in February.

Radio Tehran said the cleric, Ahmad Alemizadeh, betrayed many young people to SAVAK, the secret police. The imperial guardsmen, ranging in rank from private to colonel, were convicted of firing during the Sept. 8 riot in Tehran in which more than 100 persons were killed and hundreds were injured.

Meanwhile, Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the conservative Shiite Moslem patriarch who led the revolution against the shah from exile, met with the more liberal religious leader of Tehran, Ayatollah Mahmoud Taleghani, in an attempt to end a week of growing public dissension between their supporters in the capital.

Seattle welcomes ship as China trade resumes

SEATTLE (AP) — The first Chinese cargo ship to sail into a U.S. port in 30 years is taking on corn from the Midwest while officials trade talks about the reopened shipping lane between the superpowers.

The 637-foot Liu Lin Hai docked in Seattle harbor Wednesday as an escort boat shot festive jets of water skyward and a Navy band blared tunes like "Jesus Christ Superstar" and "Put Your Hand in The Hand Of The Man Who Stilled The Water."

The red Chinese flag with its five gold stars flapped from the ship's stern, while the Stars and Stripes flew from the starboard yardarm, a place of honor.

After speeches, dignitaries mounted the steep gangplank to the captain's suite for a feast of Chinese hors d'oeuvres, shrimp, beef, liquor and Tsingtao beer.

The vessel is the first ship flying a Chinese flag to berth in the U.S. since 1949, when communists of Mao Tse-Tung defeated the nationalists of Chiang Kai-shek.

With a crew of 43, the merchant ship carried only seawater ballast on its voyage across the Pacific. About 30,000 tons of corn from Minnesota, Nebraska and Iowa will be loaded on the vessel before it leaves directly for Shanghai early next week, said Capt. Zhang Jie. Further Chinese sailings to the United States "will depend on need, none is scheduled right now, said Chai Zemin, Chinese ambassador to the United States, as he waited on the dock.

Sonics snare overtime win over Lakers, 108-103

By The Associated Press

SEATTLE (AP) — As if the Los Angeles Lakers aren't in enough trouble, Seattle's John Johnson had to rub it in.

"Gus (Williams) really gets keyed up when he goes against Los Angeles," Johnson said Wednesday night after Williams led the Super-Sonics to a wild 108-103 overtime victory over the Lakers in their National Basketball Association playoff series.

THE TRIUMPH before 26,862 Kingdome fans, the Sonics' largest crowd this season, gave Seattle a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven Western Conference semifinals series. Game 3 is set for Friday night in Los Angeles.

The 6-foot-2 Williams, a fourth-year pro who played college ball at Southern Cal, scored six of his game-high 38 points in overtime, including a 20-footer with 52 seconds left that broke a 103-103 tie.

Williams has scored 65 points, grabbed 11 rebounds, dished out five assists and made four steals in the series.

"He wants to play better," Johnson said. "It'll be a great game."

"It's going to be tough there. You've got to win on the road if you're going to go places. It's that simple."

Williams said. "Things seemed to fall into place tonight. We played good ball up until the last couple of minutes. The Lakers never really gave up. We'll have our hands full down there."

WEDNESDAY NIGHT'S game was one each team thought it had wrapped up in the final, frantic minutes of the fourth quarter.

The Lakers trailed 93-85 with 2:15 left to play, then gained a 93-93 tie with 52 seconds left on Adrian Dantley's basket off a steal. The Sonics came down court and Los Angeles rebounded Johnson's missed shot. The Lakers worked the ball around the perimeter before Norm Nixon canned an 18-footer with 10 seconds left for a 95-93 advantage.

After the teams traded timeouts, Dennis Johnson inbounded the ball to Williams who passed it to Sikma. Sikma's 15-footer was blocked by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar with three seconds left, but Sikma grabbed the carom and fed Dennis Johnson on the baseline. Johnson's 18-footer at the buzzer sent the game into overtime.

"I saw six seconds left (when Abdul-Jabbar blocked Sikma's shot)," said Nixon. "The team kind of relaxed because they thought time was going to expire."

"I feel good about all of my shots — as long as they go in," said Dennis Johnson, who scored six of his 17 points in overtime.

JERRY WEST, the Lakers' coach, said his team isn't out of the series.

"I don't know if our players feel that this is over yet," he said. "All we want to do is play as well as we have done in these last two games. Tonight they got a very fortunate break at the end of regulation time to tie it."

"You've got to win tough games somewhere along the line this time of year," West continued. "I would have loved to have played these last two games on our court."

Abdul-Jabbar, as usual, led the Lakers with 31 points, 15 rebounds and seven blocked shots.

The other second-round series also resumes Friday night, with San Antonio at Philadelphia, Washington at Atlanta and Phoenix at Kansas City.

The Spurs won the first two games of their series at home, with guard George Gervin, the NBA scoring champion, getting 60 points on 25-for-37 shooting. Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham says he plans to continue using forward Bobby Jones, a 6-foot-9 defensive star, against the 6-7 Gervin, a move he initiated in Tuesday night's 121-120 loss.

THE MOVE became necessary because of the injury to 6-6 guard Doug Collins. Philadelphia's top three healthy backcourtmen, Henry Bibby, Maurice Cheeks and Eric Money, are all small guards, and Gervin shot over them for 31 points in the series opener Sunday.

"I'm not really comfortable about doing it," admitted Jones. "For me to guard Lee (Gervin), we'll have to get more action on defense. You have to recover so quickly because he can beat you. It takes something out of your offense."

"You could see George's eyes light up when he knew they were changing their defense just for him," observed San Antonio center Billy Paultz.

Atlanta gained a split of the first two games at Landover, Md. by winning 107-99 Tuesday night.

"The victory gives us control of the series," said Tree Rollins, Atlanta's reserve center who scored key points down the stretch. The Hawks, who have won their last 17 home games, will be at home for three of the remaining five games in the best-of-seven series.

PHOENIX GOES for a 2-0 lead in its series with Kansas City. The Suns, led by Walter Davis and Paul Westphal, turned around a nine-point halftime deficit en route to a 102-99 decision over the Kings in the series opener Tuesday night.

The Suns were leading 98-97 with 32 seconds left when Kansas City's Bill Robinson stole the ball from Truck Robinson and started to drive to the basket. But Robinson had the ball swiped away by Phoenix's Don Buse, setting up a stuff shot by Alvan Adams that sealed the victory.

CART delegation blasts Indy rules

NEW YORK (AP) — Holding a boycott threat in abeyance, leading auto race drivers reiterated Wednesday they planned to compete in the Indianapolis 500 May 27 despite newly imposed restrictions not to their liking.

"It's the biggest race in the business — it's where the money and prestige are," said Salt Walther. "I don't think any of the guys are thinking boycott. But the idea of cutting the engine boost will hurt the race."

"We'll run — we'll have to meet their conditions even if we don't like them," added two-time Indy winner Johnny Rutherford. "Too bad we have people making rules which they don't understand."

"Reducing the boost will cut the speed and power of our cars," said owner Roger Penske. "At Indianapolis, it will be like getting a bulldozer to brush away a one-inch snow from the driveway."

Another two-time winner, Bobby Unser said:

"You have to race at Indy — it's the tradition of the sport but it no longer will represent the thoroughbred of auto racing — and the temptations to cheat will be tremendous."

The speakers are members of newly-organized Championship Auto Racing Teams, Inc. (CART), which has broken ranks with the long-entrenched United States Auto Club, carrying the sport's biggest driving names with it. They all filed Indy entries before Monday's deadline.

A.J. Foyt, who a year ago won an unprecedented fourth Indy 500, is the lone top flight driver who failed to defect from the USAC.

The Indianapolis Speedway has maintained its affiliation with USAC and, in so doing, apparently put its stamp of approval on a reduced boost of engine power.

The USAC has established the boost at 50 inches, which would require drastic changes in the compression system, cam shaft and exhaust, to gain optimum speed.

Drivers, who defected to CART, contend that top speed would be cut to 190 to 195 miles per hour whereas the modern sophisticated machines are geared to race above 200 miles per hour.

The most popular of the Indy type engines are the Cosworth, built in England. They are successors to the old, reliable Offys, used so many years and still in competition.

At Indianapolis last year, there was no limit and most of the cars carried boost of 80 to 85 inches.

CART officials, owners and drivers gathered in New York Wednesday to give their case a public airing.

"We organized out of frustration," said U.E. "Pat" Patrick. "We have a complete lack of communication. We have some of the best racing brains in the world but USAC declined to make use of them."

He accused the USAC of vacillation, saying, "They changed one rule three times in the space of 90 days."

He said there remained a threat of a rival race on the same day. "We have a sponsor with all the money needed, a track and a TV network dying to show the race," he said, "but we have submitted 44 names to Indy. We hope some kind of accommodation is reached in the next 30 days."

"I don't say we will stage a rival race, I don't say we won't."

Rutherford said USAC and Indianapolis Speedway adopted the 50-inch boost with an idea of promoting the stock block engines over the more refined Cosworths and Offys and with the idea of reducing expenses.

"They don't realize that the cost of research and development of re-converting existing machines would be staggering," he said. "The added cost would be about $10,000 a car."

Watson has credentials

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — Although Masters champ Fuzzy Zoeller is the most recent winner, Tom Watson brings the gaudiest current credentials into the $300,000 Tournament of Champions that begins Thursday.

Watson, pro golfer's Player of the Year for the past two seasons, has finished second, first and second in his last three starts, the latter a playoff loss to Zoeller in the Masters.

Watson, as is becoming customary, is the year's leading money-winner with more than $175,000.

"I'm striking the ball well. I'm pleased with the way I'm playing," he said after a practice round over the 7,889 yard, par 72 La Costa Country Club course, "but my putting is atrocious. It's just awful."

"If I'd putted just average, I could have won (the Masters) last week. But what's past is past. You can't dwell on it. You have to go on."

"That's behind me now. Now I'm looking forward to this week's tournament."

He comes in as a mild favorite in the elite, 28-man field of winners from the last 12 months that will be chasing a $54,000 first prize.

With the withdrawal of John Mahaffey, the PGA and World Cup champion and winner of two other titles, Watson is one of nine multiple winners from the qualifying period.

Mahaffey, who opened the 1979 season with a victory in the Bob Hope Desert Classic, has been out of action for almost three months with a damaged hand. He hoped to make a comeback in this prestigious tournament, and attempted to play an early-week practice round, but had to withdraw when his left hand became badly swollen.

With him out, the other multiple winners are Watson, Zoeller, Jack Nicklaus, Andy Bean, Lee Elder, Lon Hinkle, Bruce Lietzke, defending champion Gary Player and Lanny Wadkins.

Trevino blast lifts Cubs

AMARILLO—Rookie Ted Trevino belted a three-run homer with two-out in the sixth inning to propel Midland's Cubs back into sole possession of first place in the Texas League West Division with a 6-3 win over Amarillo's Gold Sox here Wednesday night.

The Cubs had to stave off Amarillo bases-loaded threats in both the eighth and ninth innings as lefthander Tom Butler came out of the bullpen to extinguish the blaze in both innings and save the victory for starter Lee Smith, who went 7 1/3 innings before running into trouble.

Amarillo was guilty of six errors, accounting for single runs by the Cubs in the second, eighth and ninth.

Trevino, who attended St. Mary's College in San Antonio and batted .366 for Geneva last year, homered in the sixth to give Midland a 4-2 lead.

The Cubs backed up the pitching of Smith, now 2-0, with four rally-stifling double plays, twice ending innings with twin-killings.

The win gave Manager Randy Hundley's league-leaders a 5-3 record and squared the series with the San Diego farmhands, who are 4-4, at one each. Either Jeff Albert or Jack Ledbetter will pitch for Midland tonight.

The Cubs collected eight hits off three Amarillo pitchers with Trevino also collecting a single while second baseman Dan Rohn had two singles. First baseman Jim Tracy lashed out a single and double.

Amarillo banged out 13 hits, including a home run by James Hicks, but Midland's defense always came up with the big defensive play whenever it looked as though the game might fall apart.

NASL strike is halted

By TOM SEPPY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The five-day strike against the North American Soccer League was ended by the players Wednesday in the wake of a decision by the federal government that foreigners would not be deported if they played.

Ed Garvey, NASL Players Association staff director, said all striking players had been asked to return to work immediately because of what he described as the "incredible ineptitude of the U.S. government."

Garvey said the union had been informed by the Labor Department and the Immigration and Naturalization Service last week that foreigners would be subjected to deportation if they played during the strike, called by the union last Friday because management refused to recognize the association as the collective bargaining agent.

LAST SATURDAY, the INS issued a statement in which the service said aliens in the United States on temporary work visas could be deported if they played during the strike. However, the INS said Tuesday that no action would be taken against foreigners who play during the walk-out if they had valid visas issued before the strike.

The NASL, with some 55 percent of its players from overseas, played its entire schedule last weekend despite the strike. Most of the aliens played in the 12 games.

The INS and Labor authorities told us clearly what the law is with respect to alien employees," Garvey told newsmen. "Despite the law, management continued not only to threaten players with the loss of visas for next year but induced the foreign athletes by guaranteeing contracts, some for two years, if they came to work, and told them they would handle all legal fees and not to worry about the immigration laws."

"The end result of this complete reversal of policy has been so much confusion among the foreign players that the reps feel they can't ask the players to remain out on strike when nothing the government says can be taken seriously," said Garvey.

HE SAID the union would continue its bid for recognition in Canada where, he said, the labor laws are more effective. "Perhaps, Canada can set up a pattern for everyone else," he said.

Three of the NASL's 24 teams are in Canada - Toronto, Vancouver and Edmonton.

Garvey said the union would pursue its fight for recognition through the National Labor Relations Board and the courts.

Bruins, Celtics remain at odds

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Bruins and the Celtics remain at odds over a place to play following a meeting of owners of the teams and 50-year-old Boston Garden.

New Celtics owner Harry T. Mangurian Jr. apparently came away from Wednesday's meeting determined to build a new basketball arena for his National Basketball Association club.

"I've never been more convinced that a new arena will be built than I am now," said Celtics' vice president Jeff Cohen. "Mangurian is convinced that he's going to have to build it alone."

Ron Luciano is running out of sale promotions

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

The Binghamton, N.Y., store is called Ron Luciano's Sports World and the proprietor is baseball's most visible umpire. Or is it ex-umpire?

Luciano is president of the Major League Umpires Association, whose members, you may have noticed, are currently occupied with matters other than umpiring at major league baseball games.

Among the things occupying Luciano is feeding his 300-pound frame, a difficult task for a man who is not working.

The solution has been his sporting goods store. Like any good entrepreneur, Luciano has been holding sales during the current crisis.

"I'm running out of names for my sales," said Luciano, his eyes flashing. "First we had a strike sale and we sold all our baseball stuff. Then we had a Lee MacPhail Sale. That was for all unwanted items. Then there was the Chub Feeney Sale. That was for heavy items, like weights."

After that, Luciano had only one more set of specials left. "When we ran the Commissioner Sale, it was all light things, stuff like ping pong balls."

BOWIE KUHN is not a popular figure right now with the 52 men usually charged with upholding the integrity of baseball. The commissioner has adopted a hands-off position in the contract dispute between the umpires and the two leagues and there are some people who think his hands should clearly be on this case. It is, after all, in the best interests of baseball to have regular umpires working its games.

Kuhn's contribution to the affair Monday was a statement of support for Feeney and MacPhail and the suggestion that the matter might be settled if the umpires would only sign their contracts. But their contracts is what this matter is all about in the first place.

It is in Ron Luciano's best interests to be gainfully employed and that is why he has job applications pending right now with a half dozen companies. He is looking for a job and if he finds one before this labor action is solved, he's going to take it.

"I don't want to quit," he said. "None of us do. But I feel backed in a corner. I can make more money outside of baseball...lots more money."

SO WHY has he stayed in the game until now?

"Because I love it," he said. "That's the first prerequisite for any umpire. You've got to love it. Why else would you work 10 years in the minors for $2,000-$3,000 a year? Why else would you spend seven months a year on the road?"

Luciano has sacrificed plenty for his craft. He once was married but that ended four years ago, in 1975. "I was away from home from March 3 until June 28 that year," he said. "When I walked in, my wife said, 'Ron who?' and left. She went back to Chicago and filed for divorce."

"We were married for 1 1/2 years," Luciano continued. "Two winters and one summer. The winters were great. It was the second summer that did us in."

Polly Luciano just decided that her husband was married to baseball and she probably was right. He admits that readily.

"You know, I used to work as a teacher in Endicott, N.Y.," Luciano said. "I taught seventh and eighth graders. It was fine. But I couldn't get elated over them all getting 100 on my tests."

JUNIOR HIGH school education was easier than dealing with an angry manager kicking dirt all over his pants but it just wasn't Luciano's cup of tea.

"Oh it was nice, I guess, but I wouldn't applaud those kids the way I would when somebody hits a home run in the ninth inning to win a ball game. When that happens, I run off the field happy. A class full of 100s couldn't give me that feeling, or make me that happy. I didn't jump up and down and applaud those 100s."

The irony is Luciano's educational specialty. He taught mathematics and the numbers now tell him that he may not be able to umpire for a living any more.

Marvin Johnson has home edge

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A debt that World Boxing Council light heavyweight champion Marvin Johnson feels toward this city where he was born and raised has his challenger concerned as the two complete training for Sunday's title fight.

Matthew Franklin, who won the North American Boxing Federation championship by knocking out Johnson on July 26, 1977, said Wednesday that he wished he wasn't fighting for the title in the champion's hometown with a local judge and local referee.

"I'd like neutral referees," said Franklin, who takes a string of nine consecutive victories into the nationally televised fight (ABC, 2 p.m. CST). "I've fought guys in their hometown before and I'm not going to stand by and have someone take away my chance for the title. All I'm asking for is a fair shake," he said.

"My intention is to knock you out, which I'm sure is your intention," Johnson told Franklin at a prefight press conference. "This is my hometown. This is where I live. This is where I began my career and this is the state I represented when I won the national Golden Gloves title.

"I feel I owe it to this town to bring my first title defense here," he added.

The fight will be Johnson's first since he won the title by knocking out Mate Parlov of Yugoslavia in the 10th round in Italy last Dec. 2. He had been scheduled to fight Franklin in February, but the fight was delayed when the champion suffered a hairline jaw fracture during a sparring session.

"First of all the officials at this point ain't even important," Johnson told Franklin. "What you should be worried about now is me and what's on my mind the last eight weeks."

"I choose to fight him because I felt he was deserving of the fight. One reason he deserves the shot before anybody is he beat me and I don't think he can do it again. I want to avenge that loss," he said.

Franklin takes a 22-3-2 record with 15 knockouts into the fight, which is scheduled for 15 rounds.

Horner to get May hearing

ATLANTA (AP) — The Bob Horner-Atlanta Braves baseball arbitration case will be handled by a law professor at the University of Kansas who specializes in contracts. But this will be his debut in the major league sports world.

The man chosen for the hearing May 10-11 in St. Louis is 56-year-old Raymond Goetz, hired as arbitrator after three months of interviews, the Major League Players Association announced Tuesday.

Goetz was chosen by Marvin Miller, executive director of the Baseball Players Association, and C. Raymond Grebey, director of the owners' Players Relations Committee.

Goetz has an extensive background in contract law and 10 years experience as an arbitrator in industrial disputes.

"This is a very challenging assignment," said Goetz from his Lawrence, Kan., office. "I guess you could say my other cases appear hum-drum to this one. Sports is a new area for me to explore, and I'm looking forward to it because as a teacher I like to be exposed to a variety of cases."

He said he is familiar with the Horner case through newspaper accounts.

"It sounds very interesting. I'll study any material either side asks me to before the hearing," said Goetz.

Ed Sneed to try to shake Masters

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Ed Sneed said he won't let his playoff loss in the Masters golf tournament Sunday bother him in the Tallahassee Open, which begins Thursday. He conceded, though, that his collapse at Augusta, Ga., will haunt him for a long time.

"Sure, it's still on my mind," he said as after a practice round on the 7,124-yard Killdeer course. "That kind of thing, no matter what I do the rest of my career, that week will stay with me."

"But you just can't let it bother you. It's past. I can't let it affect the way I play now."

The 34-year-old pro last Sunday lost a three-stroke lead on the final three holes of the Masters. Fuzzy Zoeller won the coveted title in a sudden-death playoff.

Sneed, who won the Tallahassee Open in a playoff two years ago, said he is not trying to redeem himself this week for the collapse. "My only goal coming here is to play well. That's all I ask."

The field of 156 players was completed Monday when 41 non-exempt players won their way into the tournament in the 18-hole qualifying round.

Leading the qualifiers were Doug Campbell of Payallah, Wash., and Dan Hallderson of Shilo, Manitoba.

Others in the field include Billy Casper, Bobby Nichols, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Butch Baird, Rik Massengale and Dave Hill.

Winnipeg Jets run wild as WHA season ends

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — Stan Weir, Brett Callighen and Ron Chipperfield scored two goals apiece Wednesday night as the Edmonton Oilers beat the Winnipeg Jets 9-3 in the final regular season game in the World Hockey Association's seven-year history.

The Oilers, an original WHA franchise in 1972-73 as the Alberta Oilers, took a 3-0 lead in the first 10 minutes on goals by Weir, Callighen and Peter Driscoll. The Jets came back briefly on goals from Barry Long and Peter Sullivan 3:06 apart.

But the Oilers got those goals back in the second period when rookie Wayne Gretzky and Chipperfield scored 15 seconds apart against Winnipeg goalie Joe Daley, the Jets goal-ender since 1972.

After Kent Nilsson scored at 17:43 of the period on a power play, the Oilers — who finished with 98 points as the final WHA regular season

George Pappas holds off Dickinson

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — George Pappas of Charlotte, N.C., clung to a 95-pin lead over Gary Dickinson of Fort Worth, Texas, going into Thursday's final eight qualifying games in the $150,000 pro bowling Tournament of Champions.

Pappas averaged 225 for the first 16 games of the tournament and had a 3,614 total. Dickinson was at 3,519. Rounding out the top five were Dick

Schwartz raps longer trailers to haul cotton

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A Democratic senator shouted the praises of Republican Gov. Bill Clements on Wednesday in protesting a bill that would authorize larger cotton trailers on Texas highways.

Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, noted Clements had vetoed a ratemaking bill Monday favored by the trucking industry, and said, "The lobby has not yet got a grip on the governor of Texas."

The cotton trailer bill would allow trailers or modules to be lengthened from 45 feet to 48 feet and to increase loads by 2,000 pounds per axle.

Debate broke off before the Senate voted on Sen. Raul Longoria's bill so senators could dine on Jewish specialties, such as matzo balls and bagels, provided by Schwartz.

The bill was set for further debate at 11:15 a.m. today.

"This governor might save the people of Texas $1.5 million by vetoing this bill," said Schwartz. "The veto enhances my respect for Gov. Clements ... on free enterprise issues, he continues to be right and to do what he thinks is right."

Schwartz said, according to the state highway department, the larger loads will increase road wear 25 per cent to 40 percent.

"This will take 6,000 old-type cotton trailers off our roads," said Longoria, D-Edinburg. "Cotton gins will operate trucks pulling two and three modules which will take the place of large numbers of trailers."

"You will have less trailers wobbling all over our highways from one side to the other, and highways will be safer," Longoria added.

Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, was successful in attaching an amendment stating that anyone operating the larger trailers would be liable to the state for any "identifiable" road damage.

"No county is ever going to be able to collect for any damage to their roads from this bill," said Schwartz.

"The last time the Legislature met you agreed to give concrete trucks the right to overload. That's what damages our highways — overloads not winter weather," said Schwartz.

"Before that," he said, "the law was extended to let the milk truck people carry overloads and then it was the log haulers. Now you want to turn the cotton farmers loose on county roads that were not built for overloads."

"I know I can't persuade the Senate to vote against the truck lobby," added Schwartz. "The truck lobby is invincible in the Senate. There may come a time when that's not true, but it won't be anytime soon."

$20 million added to welfare budget

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A black legislator's display of the buying power of a $32.58 monthly child welfare check has won a House vote to add $20 million to the 1980-81 state budget.

House members went into their second day of debate on the $20.2 billion general appropriation bill this morning.

The bill would leave about $350 million for tax cuts, school finance improvements or other spending.

Wednesday's floor session raised several emotional issues — government-financed abortions, big pay raises for judges, the plight of welfare children.

Rep. Craig Washington, D-Houston, brought a paper sack to the podium and removed its contents of cheap clothes and toilet articles one by one.

He said he asked his secretary "to go to the very cheapest place in town where they sell dry goods" and spend the equivalent of a $32.58 average monthly child welfare check.

Washington held up each item for the House to see: a pair of child's blue jeans, three pair of socks, a pair of "the cheapest shoes with crepe soles you could find anywhere," deodorant, a tube of toothpaste, shampoo and a bottle of hand lotion.

"Next month they could buy a shirt," he said. Washington said the shopping trip used up $27.20, leaving "pocket change" to pay for shelter, other toilet articles, underwear and a toothbrush.

Rep. Bennie Bock II, D-New Braunfels, a conservative, said the welfare check wasn't even "enough to buy dog food for a month."

"Gut up and do something for somebody who can't come up and pat you on the back," Washington said.

Interest in gasohol high, says official

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown says he has never seen consumers so interested in anything as they are in the production of gasohol.

"If you say we can't produce it, among the farmers all hell is going to break loose in this state," Brown told the Senate State Affairs Committee on Wednesday.

Brown and President Cloud Cray Jr. of Midwest Solvents Co., Inc., in Atchison, Kan., testified in favor of a bill that would create an alcohol manufacturer's permit. The bill was sent to a "friendly" subcommittee.

Cray said his company wants to locate a $25 million gasohol plant in the Rio Grande Valley of Texas but has no intention of making whiskey there. He said the area near a sugar cane plant at Santa Rosa, Texas, "is the best location in the country" for the nation's first full-scale gasohol plant.

Gasohol is a mixture of gasoline and alcohol. The bill by Sen. Raul Longoria, D-Edinburg, would allow an alcohol manufacturer to produce industrial alcohol and beverage alcohol, as well as gasohol.

House favors separate Peace Corps, Action

HOUSE

PEACE CORPS The House voted, 276 for and 116 against, to remove the Peace Corps from the agency called Action. The Peace Corps probably would be linked to the State Department's foreign aid agency, although this amendment did not rule out the remote possibility it could become an independent agency. The vote came during debate on HR 3324, a foreign aid bill later passed and sent to the Senate.

Rep. Edward Derwinski, R-Ill., a supporter, called the amendment a "compromise" favored by those who feel the Peace Corps has become politicized in the Action agency and those who want it to operate more in concert with U.S. foreign aid program.

Rep. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., an opponent, said the amendment would "transform the soul of the

ROLL CALL REPORT

Peace Corps from a person-to-person, nonpolitical agency into an agency that is wrapped in development programs."

Members voting "nay" wanted to keep the Peace Corps where it is now.

Reps. Samuel Hall, D-1, James Collins, R-3, Ray Roberts, D-4, Jim Mattox, D-5, Phil Gramm, D-6, Bill Archer, R-7, Jack Brooks, D-8, J. Marvin Leath, D-11, Eika de la Garza, D-15, Richard White, D-16, Kent Hance, D-19, Henry Gonzalez, D-20, and Tom Loeffler, R-21, voted "yea."

Reps. Charles Wilson, D-2, Bob Eckhardt, D-8, Jake Pickle, D-10, Jack Hightower, D-13, Joe Wyatt, D-14, Charles Stenholm, D-17, Ron Paul, R-22, and Abraham Kazen, D-23, voted "nay."

Reps. James Wright, D-12, Mickey Leland, D-18, and Martin Frost, D-24, did not vote.

RHODESIA By a vote of 180 for and 190 against, the House rejected a plan to send a team of official U.S. observers to the mid-April elections in Rhodesia. The elections are to determine whether the country adopts the "internal settlement" proposed by Prime Minister Ian Smith to end white domination of Rhodesia. The vote came during consideration of HR 3324 (see vote above).

Rep. Rober Bauman, R-Md., said a vote in favor of sending the delegation "simply puts us on the side of a new freely elected black majority government in Africa and against...the terrorists, the bombers, those who shoot down planes, those who make our asinine policy in the State Department and those who gather on the floor of the House and support that policy."

Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., an opponent, said that if the House votes to send observers, "by tomorrow morning every key figure in Africa is going to (conclude) that the U.S. House of Representatives has decided to throw its weight behind the internal settlement." He said the U.S. should be neutral at this time.

Members voting "yea" generally were sympathetic to the "internal settlement" proposed by Ian Smith.

Hall, Collins, Roberts, Archer, Pickle, Leath, Hightower, Wyatt, de la Garza, White, Stenholm, Loeffler, Paul and Kazen voted "yea."

Mattox, Gramm, Eckhardt, Brooks, Leland, Hance and Gonzalez voted "nay."

Wilson, Wright and Frost did not vote.

STATE DEPT. The House refused, 136 for and 236 against, to kill a new agency proposed for the State Department. The vote came during debate on HR 3324 (see above votes). It paved the way for establishing the Institute for Scientific and Technological Cooperation at a first-year cost of $25 million. A chief mission of the institute would be to increase the role of U.S. science and technology in helping under-developed countries.

Rep. Don J. Pease, D-Ohio, a supporter, said the institute "is an awfully good investment of our time and effort to build an indigenous capacity within those nations to use science and technology for their own development."

Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md., an opponent, questioned the need to create "a brand new bureaucracy" at a time he suspects most of its proposed functions are "already being carried out by other agencies of the government."

Members voting "nay" favored establishing the State Department research and development agency.

Collins, Roberts, Mattox, Gramm, Archer, Brook, Leath, Wyatt, de la Garza, Loeffler, Paul and Kazen voted "yea."

Hall, Eckhardt, Pickle, Hightower, White, Stenholm, Leland, Hance and Gonzalez voted "nay."

SENATE

SCHOOL PRAYER The Senate voted 53 for and 40 against to shelve an amendment allowing prayers to be said in public schools. The prayer amendment would counter the U.S. Supreme Court ruling that school prayers breach the constitutional separation of church and state. This vote stripped the amendment from the bill (S 210) establishing a Department of Education. Final Action on the bill is pending.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., a supporter of shelving the amendment, and thus an opponent of public school prayer, said "our relationship with the Almighty is an individual one, not prescribed by some governmental body..."

Sen. Roger Jepsen, R-Iowa, said the amendment "only gives our children the freedom to pray in school if they wish; it does not tell them or anyone they must pray. I believe this is their basic constitutionally guaranteed right."

Senate voting "nay" favor allowing prayers to be said in public schools.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D, voted "yea."

Sen. John Tower, R, did not vote.

Jury says policeman acted 'in line of duty' in shooting

WICHITA FALLS, Texas (AP) — After only 15 minutes of discussion, a Wichita County grand jury has issued a statement saying a policeman who shot and killed a 19-year-old curfew violator "acted in the line of duty."

The grand jury adjourned until May 9 after issuing the statement, which is not considered formal action in the case involving rookie police officer Jay L. Wright.

Wright shot and killed a man now identified as Rosendo Sosa Ortiz just past midnight Monday after the victim ran and reached into his pocket. Wright said he had stopped Ortiz and Filberto Delgado, 31, for violating a curfew imposed because of a tornado that struck here April 10. Wright said he thought Ortiz was reaching for a gun.

But Ortiz, of Ciudad Acuna, Mexico, was unarmed.

"A preliminary investigation by the Wichita County grand jury indicates the police officers involved in the shooting incident April 16 acted in the line of duty," said a statement released by grand jury foreman John E. Sibley. "Further investigation is being coordinated by property authorities."

Neither Sibley nor District Attorney Timothy Eysen would elaborate on any "further investigation," but Eysen said the statement does not mean the grand jury could not take formal action at a later date.

"Anything short of a true bill (an indictment) could always be taken back (before the grand jury)," the district attorney said.

Wright and his partner, John Bailey, each spent about 25 minutes before the grand jury. Delgado and investigating officer Sgt. Jim Shelton also appeared before the panel.

River continues rampage in Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Downstream residents looked for higher ground today as the rampaging Pearl River moved relentlessly toward the Gulf of Mexico after causing an estimated half billion dollars damage to the state's capital city and leaving some 17,000 persons homeless.

"We've still got a serious situation here," Viva Polk, a spokeswoman for the city of Jackson, said Wednesday. "Our homes and businesses are still flooded, we've got thousands still out of their homes and we're having to conserve our drinking water and electricity because of damage to equipment."

Meanwhile, in Alabama, the bulging Alabama and Tombigbee rivers sent many persons living near their banks packing to the homes of friends, relatives or Red Cross shelters. President Carter declared the state a major disaster area late Wednesday.

And in Southeast Texas, hundreds of residents chased from their homes in Conroe faced the prospect of more flooding today after a stubborn thunderstorm poured more than 8 inches of rain on the area Wednesday, inundating schools, houses, businesses and highways.

Forty miles downstream from Jackson, tiny Georgetown lay deserted Wednesday as the Pearl advanced. A spokesman for Mississippi Power and Electric Co. said the flooding had cut electrical power to about 160 customers in the community, and telephone connections into the town were sporadic Wednesday night.

Farther south in Columbia, Miss., Marion County Civil Defense Director Jim Thornhill said 1,500 persons had fled their homes in the face of record floodwaters.

"Everything is cool as a cucumber in Columbia. Now we're just waiting for it to happen," said Thornhill. "We're sitting back and waiting for the inevitable."

A crest of 27.5 feet is expected Saturday at Columbia, and the river will probably peak at 34.5 feet at Monticello the same day.

"The rising water — it has stopped," Jackson Mayor Dale Danks said Wednesday after the Pearl began dropping from its record crest of 42.25 feet. By 9 p.m., it had fallen to 41.4 feet and was still going down.

But hundreds of homeowners still were kept from their "ruin" of houses in Jackson as the waters began slowly to recede. Downtown Jackson, where pumps whined behind sandbags to keep water out of the central telephone company building, remained off limits to all but persons providing essential services.

Interstate 55, the major north-south route between Memphis and New Orleans, remained closed as floodwater covered lanes in spots.

Some 200 persons were lodged at a Red Cross shelter in Selma, where the Alabama crested Wednesday at 55.34 feet, 10 feet above flood stage, and began to recede. About 300 others took refuge at the homes of family or friends, officials said.

At Demopolis, the Tombigbee rose to 72.2 feet, but the Army Corps of Engineers was still predicting a crest of between 73 and 74 feet before today.

"Personnel in our fire department, the National Guard, police and volunteers have busted their rear ends trying to get people out," said Hugh Allen, mayor of

About 600 families were taken from the path of the Tombigbee.

Civil Defense officials in Alabama have compiled an incomplete record of 3,300 homes evacuated with major to minor damage.

Many Customers Think It's Just Sound Business To Buy A Used Car.

Year in and year out, we have certain steady customers who buy nothing but used cars.

To them, it makes good business sense to buy a good used car. In many cases, aside from the mileage...the only difference between a new car and a late model used car is the price!
