It appears to be coming and going at the same time

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A mysterious dying star is baffling scientists as it whizzes through the universe — seemingly coming and going at the same time at speeds of at least 10,000 miles per second.

"It's like nothing else we've ever seen," said UCLA astronomer Bruce Margon. "Nothing else even comes close."

Margon, who has been watching the object for almost a year, outlined the curious puzzle Monday at a Washington, D.C., meeting of the American Physical Society. Details also were made public here.

Margon and a team of UCLA scientists discovered the mysterious properties while studying a star called SS 433, which, like our sun and 100 billion others, belongs to the Milky Way galaxy.

Initial evidence shows that the object appears to be racing along in two directions.

Because SS 433 is about 10,000 light-years from Earth, it is too dim to be seen with the naked eye. A light year is 5.9 trillion miles.

A star's speed and direction are detected by measuring changes — called Doppler shifts — in the wavelength of its light. A blue shift means it is coming toward the observer, a red shift means it is receding.

Will mysteries never cease?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Close watchers of the presidency have some thing new to ponder. Why is President Carter now parting his hair on the left?

Before the president left for an 11-day vacation in Georgia, he parted his hair on the right. Now his part is on the left side of his head.

No official explanation has been given for the leftward shift, and some of his closest aides confessed Monday to not even being aware of the change.

Margon said SS 433 is simultaneously blue- and red-shifted, which means that it is some sort of elongated structure that is rotating like a tyro's baton, with one end moving toward the astronomer's telescopes and the other moving away.

Margon said the changes found in SS 433 were "larger by a huge factor than anything we've ever seen in a star."

Margon said in an interview earlier that a tentative explanation "is that this is some kind of star that's in some terribly weird kind of trouble."

He said the star apparently rotates on a 160-day cycle. As it spins, it is spitting out twin streams of gas, much as a spinning lawn sprinkler shoots water from opposing nozzles.

But Margon says that theory "is just the wildest of guesses at the moment. We really don't know."

Egypt raps Israeli attacks into Lebanon

By The Associated Press

Egypt today condemned Israeli attacks on Palestinian coastal strongholds in Lebanon and said the action could have a negative effect on the Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty.

The Israeli army said that all Israeli forces returned safely after two days of pounding targets near the Lebanese port of Tyre that served as headquarters and departure point for terrorist raids in Israel.

Hundreds of families headed north from southern Lebanon fleeing shelling, Lebanese officials said.

The Egyptian statement deplored the level of violence between Israel and the Palestinians, but did not condemn the Palestinian terror strike that killed four people in Nabariya Sunday and was believed to have marked the Israeli attack.

The government of Egypt condemned, with all its strength, the aggression of Israel which contradicts the efforts to establish a comprehensive peace in the Middle East, the statement said.

The actions, also have a negative effect on the implementation of the agreements reached regarding an Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty and the efforts to achieve a just settlement of the Palestinian issue," it added.

The foreign ministry statement also condemned Israel's decision to establish two new settlements in the Occupied West Bank of the Jordan River.

A Cairo was condemning Israel, the official Egyptian Mid-East News Agency said. Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman would arrive in Cairo Wednesday for talks on military provisions of the treaty.

Israeli officials said, meanwhile, that Egypt and Israel would exchange liaison documents for their treaty on Wednesday, as planned in the Sinai Desert.

These seemingly contradictory developments followed an Egyptian pattern established after President Anwar Sadat's visit to Jerusalem in 1977 of condemning specific Israeli actions while continuing to seek peace.

Lebanese officials said six people were killed by the Israeli shelling overnight, raising the reported toll to 14 Lebanese and Palestinian dead in northern and southern Lebanon since the guerrilla attacked on an apartment house early Sunday in the Israeli coastal town of Nabariya, five miles south of the Lebanese border.

The Israeli navy shelled a Palestinian base in the northern coastal city of Tripoli Sunday.

Congress favoring windfall tax

But President Carter fears 'kickbacks' to oil companies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sentiment is building in Congress for a windfall profits tax on oil revenues, but President Carter fears the ultimate beneficiaries will be the oil companies.

Carter said Monday opponents of his proposal to divert additional oil profits to new energy-related programs are trying to pull off a "charade" that will create $1 billion to $5 billion in more oil company profits.

The president has announced he will use his administrative authority to decontrol oil prices beginning June 1 and is urging Congress to approve a windfall profits tax to help exploit new energy sources, fund mass transit and help the poor pay rising utility and fuel bills.

His plan would levy a 50 percent tax on new revenues that result from decontrols.

The proposed tax has met with a mixed reception in the House and Senate, but Carter said opponents have begun a campaign "to hoodwink the American people by passing a windfall profits tax that is in fact a charade."

Carefully avoiding any opponents' names, Carter said in a speech before the National Academy of Sciences that he anticipates efforts to pass an amendment that would "kickback" to the companies $1 billion to $5 billion on top of the estimated $6 billion they would realize in extra profits under his plan.

Such a ployback proposal would require companies to turn added profits to discovering new oil fields or developing existing reserves.

Sen. Russell Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and a key influence on tax matters, has said he would favor a windfall profits levy, but only after sufficient time elapses to see how oil producers use higher profits from decontrols.

An aide to the Louisiana Democrat said the senator would not comment on Carter's speech.

Connally disagrees

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — President Carter's excess profits tax on petroleum earnings means he "either doesn't know what's going on or doesn't care because he just hates oil companies," according to presidential hopeful John B. Connally.

Connally, in Tucson to address about 600 Tucson Republicans at a Trunk 'N' Tusk dinner Monday night defended big business, including the nation's oil companies, which he said are turning their growing profits into a search for more petroleum.

The nation's immediate energy needs, Connally said in a pre-dinner press conference, will still be furnished by gas, oil, coal and nuclear reactors.

In a related development, major oil companies started reporting sharp profit increases for the first three months of the year.

Exxon Corp. led the way with first quarter earnings of $95 million, up 37.4 percent over 1978, and Standard Oil of Indiana reported earnings of $109.1 million, a 27.6 percent increase over last year.

Both said they profited from tight supplies of oil and gasoline, a problem precipitated by the revolution last winter in Iran.

Meanwhile, the idea of a windfall profits tax received a boost from different sides of the aisle.

Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker and Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee.

Baker said the president "can have the windfall profits tax for the asking. I'm hard pressed to find anyone who's opposed to it."

Jackson, interpreting Carter's speech as an attack on Congress, said he would strongly support the tax proposal.

"The president should not blame Congress, however, for windfall profits to the oil companies. This is backwards," Jackson said.

If Carter is worried that Congress won't pass a windfall profits tax, Jackson said the president should delay decontrolling oil prices until the levy is approved by the House and Senate.

Texas area forecasts

West Texas: Partly cloudy through Wednesday. High in the mid 60s, low in the mid 30s. Light rain possible in the Panhandle late today and tonight.

Extended forecasts

West Texas: Partly cloudy Thursday through Saturday with a chance of thunderstorms Sunday. High in the mid 60s, low in the mid 30s.

Border states forecasts

Oklahoma: Partly cloudy Thursday and Friday with a chance of showers Saturday. High in the mid 60s, low in the mid 30s.

More pretty weather likely in Basin area

Another beautiful day should be in store for the Permian Basin Wednesday, the weatherman said today. With a high expected in the upper 80s, almost still winds and partly cloudy skies, Wednesday looks like the perfect day to take advantage of the lengthening days to get outside.

River expected to crest soon

Jefferson County residents along the Neches River have piled more than 55,000 sandbags near their homes hoping to hold back the river's expected record crest of 12 feet today.

No rain was forecast until mid-week, but feeder creeks and streams in north Liberty County continued to rise. In Hardin and Jefferson Counties, however, water levels were slowly meandering back to riverbeds.

My house is 4 1/2 feet off the ground, lady, and I had 2 feet of water in my house Sunday," said Buddy Spell, who built his home near Clear Lake Bridge in 1948.

Hardin County Judge Ray Hardin said between 2,000 and 3,000 homeowners would be eligible for low-interest federal loans to repair flood damage.

The small city of Cleveland in Trinity County also geared for an expected 29-foot crest of the Trinity River today.

The Midland County Division of the American Heart Association installed its 1979 officers Monday night, with Patty Stewart, left, taking office as president and Gene Abbott as vice-president.

Striking miners stage protests in two states, Washington, D.C.

STEARNS, Ky. (AP) — Stearns Mining Co. strikers protested in Kentucky, Tennessee and Washington, D.C., in opposition to a tentative contract described by some as a sellout and by union leaders as the only way to end a 33-month walkout.

Stearns Mining Co. is backed up by big bucks," Callen said. "Big money is hard to beat."

Washington, D.C. (AP) — A group of 50 UMW strikers would be allowed to vote in the election, while 70 employees who crossed picket lines would be eligible.

UAW President Arnold Miller, commenting during a recess of the union's executive board, said "hard realities" had to be faced.

The strike has been bitter, with gun battles between company guards at the mine and snipers in the surrounding Cumberland foothills.

New miners began crossing the UMW picket lines in October 1977, and the work force now numbers about 100.

Talks resumed by rubber union

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United Rubber Workers' president is telling President Carter's inflation advisers to "get the hell out of the negotiations" as the union and Uniroyal Inc. try again to agree on a new contract.

UAW President Peter Bommarito and company officials were to meet here today for their first face-to-face bargaining session since last week when the union canceled indefinitely plans to strike the tire maker.

The union says the wage standard is inadequate, but Uniroyal has pledged to honor the guidelines.

Union and company officials met separately Monday with federal mediators, who spent the day trying to unravel conflicting statements about whether the two sides reached a tentative agreement last week on a guidelines busting settlement.

Carter's inflation advisers, fearing the union was on the verge of a settlement that would far exceed the guidelines, stepped into the talks Friday.

Bommarito said it was "preposterous" for the government to threaten to stop buying tires from the industry, and he suggested that Carter's chief inflation adviser, former economics professor Alfred E. Kahn, "go back to his professorship."

Steel haulers reject contract OK'd by Teamster groups

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A major group representing the steel-hauling industry has rejected a tentative contract approved by three other industry groups as scattered violence and mounting layoffs marked a two-week walkout by dissident Teamsters.

The rejection of the tentative pact was announced Monday in Cleveland by the National Steel Carriers Association, which represents about 50 trucking companies employing 8,000 steel-hauling drivers.

"We're still out on strike until we get information on the contract," said Dennis Blumling of Teamsters for a Democratic Union, a union splinter group that spearheaded the walkout.

"Some of the drivers are returning to work, I understand," said Charles Carelli, secretary-treasurer of Local 800, representing 1,600 drivers in western Pennsylvania.

At Teamsters headquarters in Washington, union spokesman Bernard Henderson said details of the pact were being circulated.

Union sources said the tentative agreement meets two principal demands of the dissidents, a return to a pre-1976 system of payment for hauling a load and a lump-sum payment for sick leave due from 1977 and 1978.

However, union leaders have refused to grant another chief demand, the right to a separate ratification vote.

Instead, Henderson said, the union's 10,000 steel haulers will vote along with the other 290,000 Teamsters covered by the national agreement, worked out by the union and the trucking industry on April 11 after a ten-day strike.

The steel-hauling pact is one of 32 "supplements" to the national agreement, and the entire contract with all the supplements will be put to a single ratification vote, Henderson said.

Ballots will be mailed on Wednesday and the votes will be counted on May 11.

Hosts sought for performers

If you're tired of house guests who stay over for weeks and, to top it off, can't carry a tune while singing in the shower, you're finally in luck.

Eighty college-age performers with the "Up With People" show are coming to Midland May 1, and are asking Midlanders to share their homes for five days while the cast and crew is in town.

The world touring song and dance group is performing May 4 in the Midland High School auditorium in a benefit performance for the Midland and Lee high school youth centers.

The cast usually stays with host families in the city in which they perform.

"This is a way for the cast to get to know the community and get involved," said Ken Thompson, a public relations person for the group.

Thompson said Midlanders interested in opening their doors to members of the group should call the Midland High Youth Center at 682-1352 for more information.

puted Kerr's remark regarding the county's reserve cash. "There's not quite so much loose change as you talk about. If we had $2.9 million available for us to utilize, we would," Wright said.

He said that while the county pays less than oil companies for clerical work, it pays more than many other companies in the area for the same task.

"We would love to have the top salaries. We have been making strides in that direction over the last several years," Wright said.

In other action, commissioners paved the way for cut rate air fares to New Orleans, La., by approving a resolution in support of South west Airlines to provide interstate flights between Dallas and New Orleans.

State won't buy ranch

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN—Even the opponents conceded "it's beautiful in a kind of hostile, harsh way," but still argued against efforts to have the state purchase the 300,000-acre Big Bend Ranch in the Trans-Pecos area of Texas.

New Braunfels Rep. Bennie Bock Monday lost, 76-65 and 75-66, in his attempts to amend the general appropriations bill to provide first $8,000,000 and then $6,000,000 as a loan to the Conservation Foundation to purchase the property.

Bock argued the ranch is a "natural wonder"—and said he had opposed efforts last session to purchase the property.

Now, he told his colleagues, he thinks the ranch should be preserved, adding, "we'll never have another chance to leave land like this to future generations."

Bock said the foundation would repay the state out of fees collected for use of the property from grazing, hunting, recreation and educational use.

Texas Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong has urged purchase of the ranch for several years. Former Gov. Dolph Briscoe vetoed funds for acquiring the property.

Bock said the foundation also would reimburse local governmental jurisdictions for any taxes lost—and offered to accept an amendment to that effect from Rep. Susan McBee of Del Rio.

Rep. Dick Slack of Pecos who argued the land has a "hostile, harsh" beauty, said he sees no need to purchase "this dern ranch"—saying it wouldn't be economical to operate, and that if the land were used for grazing sheep, they would "just feed the varmints" from the Big Bend National Park.

He wouldn't, he added, be opposed to purchasing "a few sections" for recreation.

Fort Worth Rep. Gib Lewis argued that too much of the West Texas area is being "raped" by developers who care little or nothing for its beauty—and Dibble Rep. Buddy Temple said the House could be ignoring "the only instance (this session) where we have an opportunity to do something long-term."

But the House tabled both amendments before going on to approve the appropriations bill.

Cancer researcher to address meeting of Midland doctors

Dr. John S. Stehlin Jr. of Houston will explain his current cancer research and speak on the use of hypothermia — the lowering of body temperature to facilitate surgery — at a conference in Midland Wednesday.

The Midland Diagnostic Cancer Clinic Foundation's weekly continuing medical education conference will meet the criteria for continuing medical education for physicians attending these conferences, organizers said.

Stehlin currently is scientific director of the St. Joseph Laboratories for Cancer Research in Houston and is on the surgical staff of St. Joseph's Hospital.

He also has been a clinical associate professor of surgery for Baylor College of Medicine since 1967.

A 1947 graduate of the Medical College of Wisconsin, he was a member of the full-time surgical staff of The University of Texas M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston for 10 years until 1967.

He has held numerous teaching and research positions and is a member of several medical and professional organizations including the American Association for Cancer Research and the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Regulators mull nuke shutdowns

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is considering a suggestion to order temporary shutdown of eight nuclear power plants sharing design features with the stricken reactor at Three Mile Island.

NRC Chairman Joseph M. Hendrie said he anticipates a decision today or Wednesday after further consultation with industry officials.

Only four of the eight plants now are operating — Rancho Seco in California and three Oconee units in South Carolina. But such an order could mean continued shutdown of four other units now out of service for refueling or safety checks — Three Mile Island Unit 1 in Pennsylvania, sister reactor to the one stricken; Arkansas Unit 1 in Arkansas; Davis-Besse in Ohio; and Crystal River in Florida.

If the commission follows the recommendations of some staff members, the plants could be out of service up to a month and reduce electric-generating capacity in the East to an uncomfortably thin reserve margin, NRC officials said.

Babcock & Wilcox, designers of the Three Mile Island facility and the other eight plants that would be covered by a shutdown order, declined comment on NRC staff criticisms of the reactor design.

Key staff officials told the five-member NRC Monday that the Three Mile Island accident, which almost forced a full-scale evacuation of the Harrisburg, Pa. area, revealed equipment failures, operator errors, basic design problems, and the NRC's own inability to recognize potential safety hazards.

Roger Mattson, director of the division of systems safety said the NRC staff is asking itself, "How did we miss Three Mile Island," and is restudying "the licensing process" in hopes of finding some of the answers.

Meanwhile, Pennsylvania Gov. Dick Thornburgh said Monday, "I have doubts about the future of nuclear power in our society, as well as the widely held assumption that we can't meet our energy needs in other ways."

Thornburgh told a Senate subcommittee neither Metropolitan Edison Co., operator of the plant, nor the federal government gave him reliable information in the first few days after the accident at Three Mile Island. This made evacuation planning "the toughest decision of all," he said.

Nevertheless, Thornburgh said he was convinced his decision not to order a general evacuation was correct, pointing to the risk of panic, deaths and injuries that could have occurred.

At the NRC briefing, Harold Denton, who heads the commission's nuclear reactor regulation and supervised emergency operations at Three Mile Island, said Babcock & Wilcox plants have at least five design features making them harder to control and more "sensitive" to malfunctions than other reactors.

Denton's deputy, Edson Case, told the commission: "I would feel more comfortable, as a precautionary measure, if the operating B&W plants were shut down" while their design was reviewed and modified.

Denton said he was "leaning in Ed's direction."

Ammonia leak spurs evacuation

MT. AIRY, Md. (AP) — Six families were evacuated from their homes for about two hours today when a railroad tanker began leaking liquid fertilizer at the Myers Liquid Fertilizer Plant near here, state police said.

After the leak was sealed, the families were allowed to return to their homes shortly before 5 a.m., said Sgt. Gordon Smith. No one required treatment for inhaling the fumes.

Police received a call at 3:06 a.m. about the ammonia smell which was leaking into the air.

Expanded world trade

When the Tokyo Round of international trade negotiations was launched in 1973, the prospects for an extension of free trade policies were not particularly bright.

In the United States, Western Europe and Japan, political support for diminished protectionism was fading at somewhat the same rate of the economic boom of the 1960s was running out of steam.

In the years since, inflation, soaring energy prices, recession, and unstable currency markets have disrupted economies throughout the non-Communist world. Indeed, there were times when negotiators feared they could not preserve the 45 percent tariff reductions brought about by the Kennedy Round of trade talks in 1967.

Viewed against this background, the negotiations which began in Tokyo and concluded recently in Geneva have provided some surprising gains for free trade and expanded world commerce.

Tariffs have been further reduced by an average of approximately 33 percent in the 99 nations participating in the Tokyo Round. Agreements on reducing non-tariff trade barriers may prove even more significant. During the last decade, governments have erected some 900 different types of non-tariff trade barriers ranging from arbitrary customs valuations to discriminatory technical standards for imported manufacturing products. Many of these barriers now will be removed.

For the American economy, these agreements pose both opportunities and challenges.

The rich bounty of American agriculture will enjoy greater access to Japanese and Western European markets heretofore protected by tariffs and other restrictions which made many U.S. farm exports non-competitive.

Texas, for instance, should benefit from increased exports of its wide variety of agricultural products, including vegetables, citrus fruits, cotton and other farm produce. Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown has been working hard to increase farm exports ever since taking office. Hopefully, the new agreements will work to the Lone Star State's advantage.

The agreements also call for the elimination of government subsidies to encourage exports of manufactured goods, a practice widespread in Japan and in some Western European countries. An end to export subsidies would significantly ease unfair competitive pressures on a number of major U.S. industries.

But of course, lowered trade barriers must be reciprocal to be effective. The agreements mandate a reduction in U.S. trade tariffs of about 30-35 percent. In affected industries, these lower trade barriers will heighten competitive demands on labor and management to increase production through improved efficiency and technological innovation.

There are, to be sure, potential snags in all of this. The agreement initiated in Geneva must win legislative approval in those nations where such ratification is required, including the United States. And even assuming that the world's major trading nations ratify these complex arrangements, much will depend on how well the provisions actually are implemented.

Moreover, protectionist sentiment could compel some governments to search anew for ways to short circuit the agreements through new forms of trade restrictions. This is all part of the ball game, so to speak. World trade negotiations are tricky and unpredictable at best. They always have been.

But despite the potential pitfalls, the Tokyo Round has produced an historic package of trade agreements that promises to extend the gains achieved in the Kennedy Round a decade ago. Based on America's need for expanded world trade, it would appear that these agreements merit the support of Congress and the American people.

INSIDE REPORT:

Belated U.S. response to Soviets effective in Yemen

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

SAANA, North Yemen — The temporary checkmate of South Yemen, Moscow's client state and its only foothold on the crucially important Arabian peninsula, has placed the Soviet Union in a tight bind for which President Carter can claim some credit.

Carter's dispatch to this country — the most primitive in the Middle East — of costly military equipment was a belated but powerful American response to the Soviet offensive in many regions surrounding Saudi Arabia and its oil treasures. But an equal, possibly superior reason for South Yemen's deceptive new spirit of accommodation with its neighbor to the north, temporarily checkmating its ambitions, is that it fits Soviet grand strategy within the Arab world.

The strange fact here is that the U.S. and militant Arab states have a precisely similar objective: prevent Marxist South Yemen from trying to take over pro-Arab North Yemen and its capital city here in Saana. The truce between the two Yemens was strongly urged on South Yemen, the aggressor, by Syria and Iraq, working in tandem with pro-American Saudi Arabia and the Persian Gulf states. Moscow, which has employed Cubans, East Germans and Ethiopians in South Yemen's terror campaign against North Yemen, had an agonizing choice once the Iraqis, Syrians and Saudis joined forces to stop the border war.

That choice: Allean Saudi Arabia (which has been making faint overtures to Moscow as a result of the changing balance of world power) and Soviet friends Syria and Iraq by continuing the war; or step on the toes of the pro-Soviet Marxists in its client state of South Yemen by ordering the border war ended.

The realists in the Kremlin did not take long over that one. The war stopped dead in its tracks, for the time being, and the American military supplies now piling up near the airport here have not yet been put to any use beyond training.

To avoid its embarrassing choice, Soviet military and political agents had been working overtime for months in this northern capital city with its unpaved roads, trying to persuade the weak government that its future lies with Moscow.

"You cannot understand the pressure we have been under," Yahya Jaghman, ace diplomatic troubleshooter in the North Yemen government, told us in a cool, high-ceilinged room of his new house on the outskirts of the dilapidated capital. "They offered to us that we send our soldiers to Russia where they would be trained by Arabic-speaking Soviet military experts on how to use Russian weapons. Then our men would return here with their new equipment."

But Jaghman and the North Yemen government turned down all such Soviet overtures. They knew that what Moscow wanted was eventual unification of the two Yemens under Soviet dominance. A united Yemen, far larger in population than Saudi Arabia (and on whose labor force the Saudis depend for workers in their oil fields), would be a dagger pointed at the Saudi heart. With such a threat Saudi Arabia might become more amenable to sharing its oil with the Soviet Union in the '80s, when Moscow for the first time will be shopping the world over for crude oil.

The "unification" agreement reached on March 30 by the two Yemens is not worth much more than the paper it is written on. Western authorities here agree with government leaders that it will not last very long.

What happens if and when the agreement collapses is anybody's guess. The significance of the two Yemens is less the unpredictable future than the extraordinary effect that their border war, and the South's failure to quickly win it, has had on the Soviet master plan for the Middle East.

That plan now points to Moscow playing the lead in exploiting Arab anger at the new U.S.-inspired treaty between Egypt and Israel. Successfully shut out of the fast-moving Middle East political drama ever since Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's visit to Jerusalem, the Russians are looking for ways to jump back in by widening the division between Egypt and other Arab states.

Promoting what amounts to civil war here between the two Yemens does not at all fit this long-range Soviet plan. Indeed, if the South continued the war — possible only with Soviet approval — Moscow would become dangerously exposed as operating against the interest of the Arab world.

In prospect, then, is a no-peace, no-war situation here. The Russians have once again proved how little value a client state has when it interferes with larger Soviet designs; and the Americans have proved for the first time under Carter that the dispatch of military equipment in a timely manner can have immediate impact on the strength of the American position. For a small border war, those are big lessons to be learned.

CHARLEY REESE Young soldier wants you to know about your army

By CHARLEY REESE
Sun Belt Syndicate

Charley Reese

ORLANDO, Fla. — If you were casting a movie, you would have this young man play the kid in some more famous actor's platoon. He is tall and slender and with the classic American features: the jutting chin, straight nose and clear eyes.

In reality, he is a soldier and typical, I think, of the young Americans who have defended this country since Colonial Days. He is smart, but not academically inclined; idealistic, but not verbal about it; action-oriented, proud and bold.

He is the very type of young American who frustrated British regulars and Hessian mercenaries and who outfought German and Japanese militarists and without whom we shall not survive the age of Russian imperialism.

This boy has a message for you, the American people, and he has asked me to pass it along. I won't tell you his name or his unit but he is real and his message is accurate.

He was home on convalescent leave and he called me because something I had written made him think I would understand what he wanted to say.

"Sir, if the American people knew how bad things are in the army, they'd be scared to death," he said. "We have got to have a draft. The volunteer army's not working."

This young man and his friends had joined the army after high school.

They chose the airborne. When he was in an airborne division and later a Ranger outfit, he was fairly confident. These are elite units of double-volunteers. They functioned the way he had anticipated the army would. The training was hard and the discipline was tough.

Injuries, however, forced him into a regular infantry division and he discovered "a whole new army." Discipline is poor. Living quarters often look like pig pens. Training is lackadaisical. The attitude of most of the soldiers is to do as little as possible. The unit is 49 percent black and the command structure seems so fearful of being accused of racism that it leans over backwards in the other direction.

"I don't think I'm prejudiced," he said. "There are blacks in the airborne and Rangers and they are good soldiers. I think these guys in this outfit could be good soldiers, too, if they were given the training and the leadership."

"But they're not. I'm in an anti-tank missile unit. Because we are, so outnumbered by the Warsaw Pact forces, we're supposed to score almost 100 percent hits if we go into combat. But I've been in this unit for 19 months and we haven't fired one missile. The Army claims they can't afford it, but I think they're spending money on the wrong things."

"At this post, the enlisted men live in what I call condominiums — two guys to a unit with a private bath. I guess they're trying to make it easy to recruit, but they're recruiting the wrong types. I'd be afraid to go into combat with these guys. They're not trained and they're not motivated. I'm getting out as soon as my enlistment is up and a lot of guys are doing the same thing. The army is losing the people who want to soldier and keeping the guys who want a soft life. I call it a welfare army."

What this young man is saying is the same thing I hear from others — retired generals and admirals and officers and non-commissioned officers still on active duty or just released. It coincides with the findings of a study done by Rep. Robin Beard of Tennessee who interviewed over 1,000 officers and enlisted men.

It would be a mistake to see it as a racial problem from either perspective. It is not. No less a liberal than Sen. Ted Kennedy warned that an all volunteer army would end up being a ghetto army and only a fool would imagine that youngsters from the poorest and most alienated segment of society could be easily motivated to make the supreme sacrifice in defense of a nation many of them must view as having rejected them.

In our affluent society, the volunteer concept doesn't work. The job of any army is to kill and destroy the enemy and to be able to do that it must train hard and it must operate under a rigid form of discipline.

The army is not the civil service nor a summer job camp nor a cheap way to travel nor a vocational training school and yet the pressure to fill the slots is forcing it to pretend to be and is diverting money which should be spent on training and weapons.

The peacetime desertion rate is at an all-time high. Drug use and disciplinary problems are at record levels. The prospect of combat presents a nightmarish picture of large scale desertion and of death to those who stay and attempt to fight superior forces with inadequate numbers, inadequate training, inadequate equipment and inadequate leadership.

By making the politically easy decisions, we are in effect committing murder in advance and risking the nation's survival. One young American soldier wants you to know that.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Priceless documents face ruin

By JACK ANDEBSON

WASHINGTON — Gross mismanagement and negligence by the National Archives brass are destroying vital parts of our American heritage. Priceless documents and films that record the history of the United States back to George Washington's time are slowly crumbling into dust or otherwise deteriorating beyond repair in the Archives vaults.

Sources within the Archives tell us that even the expenditure of millions of dollars cannot retrieve hundreds of thousands of treaties, letters, public documents and one-of-a-kind film negatives.

The gradual destruction of our written and graphic history is one of the most closely hushed-up secrets in Washington. We discovered the situation while investigating last year's disastrous fire at the Archives' storage facility in Suitland, Md.

Half the Archives' film collection — 26 million feet — went up in flames. Lost forever were such documentaries as the "March of Time" films of the 1930s and a unique filmed history of the Japanese invasion of Manchuria.

The problems at Archives have a common cause: refusal of the agency's management to heed repeated warnings from experts that poor storage and negligent supervision will inevitably destroy much of the material entrusted to the Archives' care.

Here are some of the shocking conditions we discovered:

— Colonial papers, including about 250,000 pages of Continental Congress documents and original letters of Washington, John Adams and Benjamin Franklin, have never been treated to neutralize the acid in the paper that is slowly eating them away. Many of these historic documents lie scattered on the floor, unbound; others have been stored improperly for so long that archivists fear they'll crumble to dust if the files are opened.

— All the Indian treaties remain rolled up, instead of being flattened out as official preservation procedures dictate. Most of the treaties have not been microfilmed against the day when they will eventually disintegrate.

— Records of the General Accounting Office, tied together with string, are in such deplorable condition that they're barely usable anymore. The Interstate Commerce Commission's records are in a similarly pitiable state of decay.

— Priceless documents have been mutilated, stolen or simply have disappeared. For example, what may be the only original document in this country bearing Karl Marx's signature is missing. This was a manifesto from the Communist International, congratulating Abraham Lincoln on his re-election in 1864. Numerous wartime telegrams of Lincoln's also have been lost or stolen.

— Spontaneously combustible nitrate film continues to be stored in corridors, despite repeated warnings by experts in fire prevention. Some of the nitrate film, in fact, was being stored in a fifth-floor vault at the main Archives building in downtown Washington, directly behind the projection booth of the 300-seat movie theater, endangering the lives of audiences at the regular film showings.

"At one time that film was cooking," an insider told us. "The temperature in the corridor was in the 90s." Nitrate film, we were told, can blow up in adverse humidity conditions when temperatures reach the 80s.

The fire hazard of nitrate film has been known for years in the movie industry, but Archives was curiously indifferent to the danger posed by its vast accumulation of old films. In 1969 an internal report warned of the self-igniting potential of the material and urged management to undertake a crash program to copy the nitrate film on a safer chemical base.

The warning was ignored, and in 1977 and 1978 spontaneous combustion caused millions of feet of historic films to be destroyed.

Following the 1977 fire, an internal safety committee made numerous suggestions for preventing another explosion. These recommendations were basic fire-prevention measures, such as installation of thermometers outside each storage vault, modification of air handlers inside the vaults, storage of decomposed nitrate film in metal containers under water, pending disposal, and prohibition of film storage on vault floors or building corridors.

These ABCs of safety were also ignored by Archives management.

Even the preservation devices that are in place often don't do the job they're supposed to do. An internal study six months ago showed that 60 percent of the hygrothermographs, which measure humidity and temperature, were not working, and that temperatures were rising to dangerous levels in the vaults.

The National Archives employs some of the top preservation specialists in the world, and it is not their fault that so many of our most valuable historic documents are deteriorating. For years these specialists have been among bound volumes, letters, manuscripts, treaties and maps. Their warnings have simply been shrugged off.

Footnote: Archivist James Rhoads did not respond to our request for an interview. A spokesman, however, said that Archives management considers the conditions under which treaties and documents are stored to be "acceptable and climatically controlled."

In other words, they don't even concede that there's a problem.

Police identify suspect in 'Hillside Strangler' cases

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Authorities seeking the elusive Hillside Strangler say they think they have their man: a 27-year-old former police studies student who earlier had been dropped as a suspect.

Police Chief Daryl Gates said at a news conference Monday that his department, the Los Angeles County sheriff and Glendale police are seeking charges in 10 of the 13 stranglings against Kenneth Bianchi. Bianchi has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to two similar murders in Bellingham, Wash., where he is in custody.

"We now believe that we have a case put together which we plan to submit to the district attorney sometime this week," Gates said. "We believe the evidence will support that Bianchi was involved in seven murders in the city of Los Angeles, two under the sheriff's jurisdiction and one in the city of Glendale."

Bianchi, an adopted child who grew up in Rochester, N.Y., lived in Los Angeles from 1975 until he moved to Washington state last May, three months after the last strangling.

He took police studies courses at a community college in Rochester and reportedly applied, unsuccessfully, for several police jobs during his wanderings.

He was working for a security firm in Bellingham when he was arrested

Jan. 12, the day after the bodies of Western Washington University students Karen Mandic, 22, and Diane Wilder, 27, were found in a secluded cul-de-sac.

For a time, Bianchi lived in a Glendale apartment near two of the 13 Hillside Strangler victims; another residence, in Hollywood, was near where two more were last seen alive. He also once worked at the same real estate title office that employed a fifth victim.

Gates acknowledged that the task force set up to stalk the Hillside Strangler had received tips on Bianchi well before the two Washington state slayings renewed their interest.

"We had looked into him, but he was simply one of many, many that we were looking at," Gates said.

"We simply did not have at that time the kind of evidence we have today and for that reason we did not follow up on him to any greater degree than we followed up on literally hundreds of others.... It always looks easy in hindsight."

The case against Bianchi in Los Angeles was disclosed as investigators continued a search begun last Friday at the home of Angelo Buono, a cousin of Bianchi's. Gates said Buono has not been booked for the investigation of any crime.

Gates said it is still believed that the strangler had an accomplice for at least some of the slayings. Asked if Buono was considered a possible suspect as the accomplice, he replied: "Certainly, we are looking at him.... But we have other suspects."

It could take a while before Bianchi is brought to Los Angeles to answer to any charges. David McEachern, the Whatcom County, Wash., prosecutor handling the case against Bianchi, told local radio station KNX that Bianchi would remain in Bellingham until after a hearing is held — probably next month — to determine whether he is fit to stand trial.

Gates identified the 10 victims named in the case against Bianchi as Yolanda Washington, Kristina Weckler, Sonja Johnson, Dolores Cepeda, Jane Evelyn King, Lauren Wagner, Kimberly Diane Martin, Judith Lynn Miller, Cindy Hudspeth and Lissa Kastin.

The first seven murders were investigated by Los Angeles police; Miss Miller and Miss Hudspeth were sheriff's cases, and Miss Kastin's death brought in the city of Glendale.

The Hillside Strangler was blamed for a total of 13 slayings of women whose bodies, often nude, were found tossed in bushes, in parks and by freeway ramps in hilly residential areas north of downtown Los Angeles between September 1977 and February 1978.

Lana Cunningham, assistant city editor of The Midland Reporter-Telegram, is one of three Midland women appointed as directors of Texas Press Women, a state organization for professional communicators and an affiliate of National Federation of Press Women, by TPW President Edna McGaffey of San Antonio.

Cunningham will direct the Edith Fox King High School Writing Contest. She will formulate rules for contest and publicize to high schools and TPW members, and will be responsible for distribution of rules, collection of entries and securing judges.

Betty King, account executive for KMID-TV, Channel 2, will take over the reins of communications contest director. Her duties will be to supervise and conduct the annual contest of TPW in compliance with rules of NFPW, and select three or more judges for the contest. The director shall submit the entries to the judges, only after she has received certification from TPW treasurer of entrant's ability. She shall make a report to the annual convention of the names of all successful contestants and send first place winning entries to the NFPW contest.

Tricia Shelton will head the high school workshops committee.

KRISTI HUFFMAN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Huffman, was honored Saturday with a banana split party in the home of Toni Martin of 2509 W. Shandon St.

Kristi is a senior student at Lee High School and plans to attend Texas Tech University.

Assisting Ms. Martin with hostess duties was Dolores Ward.

MARALEE BUTTERY of Midland has been elected a senior representative to the Student Judiciary by the students at Southwestern University at Georgetown.

Miss Buttery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn O. Buttery of 3216 Frontier St., will take office for the 1979-80 school year.

Maralee has been active in campus affairs at the state's oldest university serving in the House Council, and as a member of the political science society. She is a member of Delta Zeta Sorority and was the recipient of the Speech Contest award her freshman year.

Buttery is a graduate of Lee High School, where she was a member of the National Honor Society and served as president of Pan-American Student Forum.

OPENINGS still are available in the defensive driving course scheduled to begin May 1 at Midland College.

The course, accredited by the Texas Safety Association, is part of a statewide campaign to save lives by preventing traffic accidents.

Classes meet from 7-10 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday for three evenings. Mike Butler, course instructor, utilizes visual aids and films to support his lectures. Classes meet in Room 100 of the MC Occupational-Technical Building for a fee of $12.

On the lighter side, Rusty Freeman will hold a three-day course on "Creative Designs for Bathrooms," also beginning May 1. Classes meet 7-9 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and the course fee is $6. Students will meet in Room 106 of the Occ-Tech Building.

More information on both classes can be obtained by dialing 684-7851, extension 147 or 216.

How do adults spell relief? K-I-D-S

By ERMA BOMBECK

We can now report that the child-proof caps on aspirin bottles are a success. The rate of headaches among adults has never been higher.

Toddlers saw the caps for what they were... a challenge to their dexterity. They regarded them much as they regarded Daddy's camera, where you twist a dial, the back falls off, and the exposed film wriggles all over the floor. And we all know what a good time they had with Daddy's camera.

The statistics are now in. In 1979, 35,000 toddlers assisted adults in getting the caps off the aspirin bottles of this number, 15,000 of them were rent-a-toddlers who were hired by the elderly).

Sixty-five thousand adults despaired and turned to bottles with the traditional twist tops which resulted in bigger headaches.

A whopping 85,000 adults simply learned to live with pain.

The child-proof cap has been a real breakthrough in child ingenuity. I think we can do more. We used to have a small dog and when we threw him a rubber toy hermetically sealed and encased in a waterproof, airtight, perma-plastic card, we would set our watch to see how many seconds it took for him to not only open the package, but to remove the whistle from the toy. That little devil worked his way down to 12 seconds.

The point is, toddlers are now ready for the big time. They're ready for combs contained in plastic bubbles and lunch meat that can be opened and resealed simply by "peeling back the flap with your fingernail." They're ready for bags of dog food that you open by simply pulling a string, and tin lids of cough drops that you open by "pressing firmly on the top with your thumb."

Maybe not today or tomorrow, but sometime soon, toddlers may be able to open bacon for us, or a canned ham with a key that breaks off halfway around. Or possibly a box of soap powder where you push your thumb in at the dotted line.

Children have brought a new meaning to all of our lives. How do you spell relief in this country? K-I-D-S!

Epsilon Delta Chapter, BSP, hears about glass collecting

Epsilon Delta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority met recently for a business session and cultural program.

Meeting was held in the home of Marline Byrd, chapter president, of 3100 Auburn St.

Mrs. Byrd presented a program on collecting colored glass and displayed a collection of Carnival glass, Depression glass and handblown glass from Italy.

Marlyn Butler, social chairman, announced that Epsilon Delta will hold Preceptor Day activities May 3 at Midland Country Club. The 1979-80 officers will be installed during this meeting.

Mrs. Byrd also reported that the chapter plans to conduct a formal ritual for the newly-organized Preceptor Alpha Omega chapter May 24 in the home of Epsilon Delta member Edna Sexton, 2309 Fannin St.

Data on hymns being compiled for encyclopedia

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Bits of information are slowly coming together — the hymn titles, authors, country and date of origin and often the reason they came to be written.

It is for an encyclopedia of hymns being compiled by the Hymn Society of America, which has its principal office at Wittenberg University in Springfield, a school with roots in the Lutheran Church.

Alongside the encyclopedia, Professor Louis Voight is developing a concordance that alphabetically lists the first lines of hymns.

"Many people know a line of a song, but not the title or where to find it," he explains. "This way, we can find the song."

"We will list every hymn we can find in America and cross-reference it in a number of ways, from authors to denominations."

"But the basic body of the index will be an alphabetical list of first lines, authors, translators and code numbers on where to find the hymn books it appears in."

Voight says the Thomas Library at Wittenberg contains over 1,000 hymn books. "The people who started this thought they were well along when they had about 4,000 hymnals to work with," he said. "I found literally hundreds of books they never heard of."

"My guess is that there has been in the neighborhood of 10,000 hymn books published in the United States since the early years of this country. We have seen records of at least 6,000, maybe 7,000 of them and it's my guess there are many more."

Motorcycle group helps highway motorists

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The disabled auto, its drive shaft inoperative, coasted to a stop along the edge of the dark highway. Moments later, two bearded motorcyclists pulled up.

But instead of having trouble on his hands, the driver had help.

"Hi, we're members of Joel's Horsemen," said one of the motorcyclists as he handed the driver a leaflet. "We help people in trouble on the highway."

The 100-member group is an offspring of the Church of God. The members practice what they call "New Testament Judaism." The Horsemen, dressed in bulky jackets, black ties and white helmets, patrol busy Interstate 95 from Pompano Beach to North Miami Beach from 6 p.m. until about 11 p.m.

Proselytizing is kept to a minimum, the group says.

"Changing tires, there's no religion in that," said Pam Wilson, 21, of Kansas City. "It's just helping someone."

The group was organized in 1969 in Kansas City by Earl Steward, 49, and began helping motorists six years ago. He said the winter snow and ice in Kansas had led him to form a Florida branch of the group last year.

"In having our activities so curtailed in the winter time, we sought a place we could do good all year," said Steward. "We came down here, we liked it, we saw the need."

Most of the 30 local members hold everyday jobs to support their nighttime work, and many live together in a large Lauderdale Lakes house.

The name "Joel's Horsemen" is taken from the Old Testament book of Joel, 2:4, in which that prophet describes "a great and powerful people... Their appearance is like the appearance of horses, and like war horses they run."

Two "horsemen" ride each night, driving their $2,500 motorcycles at 40 or 50 miles an hour.

DEAR ABBY

Memories are painful

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for applauding the teacher who refuses to allow her student to pass out party invitations unless the entire class is invited. (You wisely said, "The pain of having been left out will remain with those few uninvited children long after the fun has been forgotten by those who attended.") How true!

That letter revived some painful memories for me. I once had a gym teacher who made a practice of appointing two "captains" — her pets, who in turn would choose up teams. Of course, the most popular kids and the best athletes were always chosen first. Being neither popular nor a good athlete, I was always the last to be chosen. I was so humiliated I wanted to die. No wonder I grew up with an inferiority complex, convinced that I was unwanted, hopelessly inept and a corn loser.

Please print this, Abby, in case some gym teachers are still using this cruel system. — PAINFUL MEMORIES

DEAR PAINFUL: Consider it done. Your letter jarred some painful memories of my own school days. Gym teachers, are you listening?

DEAR ABBY: Re HAIRLESS IN HILO, who bemoans the lack of hair on his chest, arms and legs: My husband also was hairless in those areas—and that's what attracted me to him in the first place. Men who deliberately expose their hairy chests by unbuttoning their shirts down to their navels turn me off.

Also, consider the statue of Michelangelo's David, the epitome of male magnificence. He didn't have a hair on his beautiful body!—OFF MY CHEST IN WICHITA

DEAR OFF: Maybe so. But in some cultures hairy males are thought to be extremely masculine and virile. And here's a hair-raising fact: At one time in Spain, moustached women were considered rare beauties!

DEAR ABBY: I have a lovely 17-year-old daughter who has been dating two boys—both 18 and from fine homes. These boys have slapped my daughter around when she does something they don't like. (Paying attention to other boys, for example.)

Is this considered normal adolescent behavior, or are these two boys potential wife abusers?

My daughter likes both boys very much. I say she is foolish to continue to put up with this kind of treatment.

Do you think these boys need help?—TULSA MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Slapping girls around is definitely not normal adolescent behavior. But hanging around to be repeatedly slapped around is not normal either. Not only do the boys need help—so does your daughter.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CURIOUS IN CHARLESTON, W. VA.: A kleptomaniac is a person who helps himself because he can't help himself. (Wedding bells in your future? Whether your lifestyle is bridal gown or blue jeans, Abby lays it all

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a day when you are able to easily gain the objectives which mean the most to you. Make sure you don't act too impulsively. Have all the facts and figures at your command.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You find that you are very busy with personal affairs, so schedule your time well in advance for best results. Think constructively.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take time to figure out how to handle private affairs intelligently and get good results. Be careful in handling money today.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You may find it difficult to know how to gain some important aims, so discuss them with good friends. Sidestep a troublemaker.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't get into any arguments with associates now and be sure to follow through with promises made to others.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Look into new outlets now that could prove most profitable for you. Steer clear of one who has an eye on your assets.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Safeguard your position with your mate by not taking any risks with others. Be sure to keep your side of an agreement.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) The ideas of associates are not the same as yours, so try to understand them better and improve relations. Cut down on extravagances.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Become more efficient at your job and be more cooperative with fellow workers. A new treatment can give you more vitality.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be careful not to spend too much money for recreation. Show more devotion to your mate. Be logical.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Showing particular devotion to family members is wise today. Try a new method in handling business and get better results.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Talk to influential persons who can help you be more progressive and successful in your line of endeavor. Take health treatments.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You may feel that by changing your methods you can solve a monetary matter, but use good judgment instead.

Acne distresses numerous youths

Dear Reader: Because of the great number of letters I receive from teenagers concerning acne, I will bring you up to date about it.

If an adolescent boy or girl were asked to name the most troublesome physical affliction, chances are good that he or she would point to acne as a public enemy number one.

From a narrow medical viewpoint, acne is not a serious disease. No one dies from it and no one gets very sick because of it.

Although diet has been relegated to a less important status, it is not completely ignored. What has changed is the blanket restriction on chocolate or nuts or any of the other food items previously placed on the forbidden list.

Today, if a teen-ager's acne seems to flare up when he or she consumes chocolate or nuts or whatever, the physician may suggest its elimination from the diet.

The most important element of treatment is topical therapy. Soap and water, while not to be minimized, may not be sufficient where acne already exists. For these patients, the physician may prescribe a lotion, cream, or gel which contains sulphur, salicylic acid, or benzoyl peroxide. The medication cuts the grease present on the skin, and peels and degerms it.

Low doses of antibiotics may also be prescribed. Their use helps control the growth of bacteria in the follicular canals, the tiny tubes that open to the surface of the skin, and reduces the amount of fatty acids in the sebaceous glands. While acne is not caused by the bacteria, the bacteria may make the sebum—the oily secretion of the sebaceous glands—more irritating.

The treatment of scarring due to acne should be left to a qualified physician; otherwise, additional scarring may result. Surgical skin planning is one of the techniques that may be employed, but one which requires a great deal of skill.

While acne may, indeed, improve with the passage of time, its potential for physical and emotional scarring strongly suggests that treatment measures be instituted without delay.

Dear Dr. Solomon: What seasonings can be used while on your diet?—N.S.

Dear N. S.: Almost any seasoning except salt. Spices, herbs, pepper, paprika, garlic, chives, scallions, dry mustard, cinnamon, lemon juice and vinegar are all excellent seasonings. Wine can also be used in cooking since most of the alcohol portion evaporates but the flavor remains.

(If you have a medical problem, see your doctor. If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.)

The actual declarer took the ace of clubs and led dummy's diamond to the ace. "Where are you going with that trick?" West asked as he ruffed. And West returned a trump.

Now South has three losing diamonds, with only two trumps in the dummy. Down one.

REFUSES TRICK

South makes the slam by refusing to win the first diamond. Even if East returns a trump South has only two losing diamonds and two trumps in the dummy to take care of them. He can eventually draw trumps and then cash the top diamonds in safety.

It takes only a few minutes to learn that you can win a trick with the ace of a suit; and ten years to learn when not to play that ace.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S-93; H-42; D-QJ98743; C-43. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two diamonds. Partner will probably leave you alone to go down quietly. If he bids two no-trump, you will bid three diamonds to make your first message even clearer.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Vietnamese artillery fired into tens of thousands of Cambodians trekking south in long columns along the frontier inside Thailand today, border officials said.

The Thai officials said more than 60 rounds fell into the Cambodians loyal to ousted Premier Pol Pot. They said they believed there were casualties but could not confirm this immediately.

The Cambodians, carrying belongings on their backs or in ox-carts, began moving out of Klong Had village on a 10-mile trek to the Thai border village of Tap Prik this morn-

Riot marks Front rally

LONDON (AP) — Police reinforcements were ordered for an election meeting tonight of the National Front in Plymouth after a London rally of the anti-black, neo-fascist political party touched five hours of street fighting between 5,000 anti-racists and some 4,000 police.

A demonstrator was fatally injured in the street battle Monday night, at least 40 persons were hospitalized, and the police arrested more than 300 demonstrators, most of them blacks or Asians. Scotland Yard said the injured included 20 policemen, and two were in critical condition with knife wounds.

Comments must be mailed before May 14 to the Texas Education Agency, Frank Contreras, director, Division of Compensatory and Migrant Education, 201 E. 11th St., Austin, 78701.

Rhodesia voting fraud charged by candidate

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — The uneasy alliance of Rhodesia's three moderate black leaders collapsed today under the pressure of election reverses as the Rev. Ndabaningi Sithole, trailing badly in first returns, charged "gross irregularities" and demanded an investigation.

A few hours after declaring that the five-day election last week expressed the "will of 2 million people," Sithole accused the Internal Affairs Ministry of "stage-managing" the voting. He said his party, the domestic branch of the Zimbabwe African National Union, will not consider the results "the verdict of the people" until his charges are investigated.

He said he had reports "from black and white farmers, black teachers and civil servants" that the department "instructed people what party to vote for at polling booths."

There was no immediate comment from Bishop Abel Muzorewa or Chief Jeremiah Chirau, the other black leaders of the biracial transition government and Sithole's rivals to become Rhodesia's first black prime minister.

Migrant plan input sought

The public is being given the opportunity to comment on the 1980 State Plan for Migrant Students for fiscal year 1980.

Two copies of the plan are available now at the Regional Education Service Center at Midland Regional Airport for review and comment. Interested persons may review the plan at the service center office or make a copy of the plan at their own expense if they so desire.

LEE HIGH YOUTH CENTER CHATTER Senior girls enjoy sunny beach

By JULIE OCHSNER, ROBIN BENNETT & CINDY CANFIELD

Well, Rebs, Balmy nights, cool hedges, beautiful girls, lots of leg and sand, sand, sand. That describes the fantastic Senior Girls' Party '79!

Aside from a few problems (such as palm trees falling over, and tiki torches that would not light) it really went well. The decorations looked great so: Laura Erdmann and Kathleen Gilles—congratulations! (Sorry about your lei!)

A big thank you goes to the chaperones who gave their time and patience and who were really cool! Also, a big thanks to Clyde Fisher for the beautiful crepe paper streamers! And to Mrs. Neal and the rest of the Rebel moms—thanks for the "sobering up breakfast!"

Our TERRIFIC TRACKERS are on their way to REGIONALS! It will be next weekend on the Texas Tech track at Lubbock, so come on out and support our Cindermen! We wish them good luck and first at the finish!

Our great REBEL BATMEN took on those crazy, crummy, Cooper Cougars Saturday on the Lee Diamond. Our guys showed those cats who was boss by a 3-2 victory. The next game will be at our diamond once more as they face the Baby Big Spring Steers.

Our jubilant J.V. won the Midland Junior Varsity Baseball Tournament this past weekend by smashing those Pansy Puppies from MHS 11-6. Way to go, J.V.!

Well, as you know, the Senior Women in Junior Council traveled to Padre over our Easter break and we would just like to say "It was an experience we will never forget." A great big "We Love You and Thanks" to Mr. Collins for taking us! See ya there next year?

The Rebelette Banquet has been set. New Officers and honors squad will be announced at Ranchland Hills Country Club at 7 p.m. May 3.

Every Rebelette is urged to be there. Tickets are on sale for $5 each in Miss Maxson's Room 401 and Miss Turner's Room 475. Get a date (if you want) and come on out. We want you!

The Spring Sports Banquet also has been set. It will be May 10 in the Lee cafeteria. This great banquet will honor those dedicated athletes for our great school as well as two special ones for Boys and Girls Outstanding Athlete.

This Saturday, this year's Varsity Cheerleaders will hold another clinic for interested future cheerleaders. It will be from 9 a.m. to noon in the Lee cafeteria and the cost is $3. All ages from elementary through high school, are invited to come on out and learn cheers, chants jumps and stunts. See ya there!

B.C. COMMENTS: ABOUT PADRE—To sum it up—"Some sunned and funned, while others burned and yearned."

TO THE JUNIOR COUNCIL—there will be a very important meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday. This meeting is to elect officers for next year, so the meeting will include our 100 Club members who have made Junior Council. (Names are posted in the Y.C.) We will have a new work schedule beginning on May 7, so our workers will be picked from those present. It is imperative that ALL BE PRESENT (for obvious reasons) plus we will be getting acquainted with some of the members of the "Up With People" cast. You will enjoy that. Don't miss this very important meeting—7 p.m. Thursday, April 26.

TO THE 100 CLUB: If your name is not on the list for Junior Council, and you think it should be, please come talk to me, because inadvertently, there will be omis-

Delta schedules wildcat explorer

Delta Drilling Co. No. 4 South Culebra Bluff Unit is to be drilled as a 13,200-foot wildcat in Eddy County, N.M., three miles northeast of Loving.

The location is two miles north of an unnamed Morrow gas field (Culebra Bluff area) and 1,980 feet from south and 1,190 feet from west lines of section 13-23S-28E.

DOS HERMANOS

Texas International Petroleum Corp. of Oklahoma City No. 1 Hudson State is to be dug as a 12,600-foot operation in the Dos Hermanos area of Eddy County, 15 miles northeast of Carlsbad.

The location is 1,650 feet from south and 1,800 feet from east lines of section 29-20S-30E. Ground elevation is 3,375 feet.

The site is a former abandoned locations.

The Mertz-Hamill (Strawn gas) field of Schleicher County gained a new well with the completion of The Sterling Co. of Midland No. 1-A Mertz.

The well, five miles south of Eldorado and the fifth for the field, was drilled for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 22 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 6,406 to 6,420 feet.

The gas-liquid ratio is 133,538-1, with gravity of the liquid 55 degrees. The pay section was acidized with 1,500 gallons.

Total depth is 6,490 feet and 4.5-inch casing is set on bottom. Hole is plugged back to 6,455 feet.

Wellsite is 760 feet from south and 990 feet from east lines of section 24, block A, HE&WT survey.

The commission chairman John Poerner has said, however, the commission was reviewing the Lone Star Charter controversy separately and was not considering its potential impact on the Lo-Vaca settlement.

Charter, which operates a refinery on the Houston Ship Channel, had insisted Lone Star honor its pre-emptive crisis contract prices of 20 cents per thousand cubic feet, under a contract that extends to 1983.

Gas prices in recent years have soared to over $2 per thousand cubic feet.

Lone Star has collected some $6 million in higher prices from Charter under a temporary commission order, and Charter asking for a refund. Lone Star said refusing those charges, plus returning to the 20-cent contract price, would cost Lone Star up to $18 million by 1983.

The commission also approved Poerner's motion that would authorize Amoco Gas Co. to pass through increased gas costs to four Amoco customers — Big Three Industries, Inc.; Air Products and Chemicals, Inc.; Champion International, Inc.; and Gulf Oil Corp.

The Lo-Vaca plan was worked out over 2½ years, after Lo-Vaca customers filed suits to block skyrocketing prices they were having to pay Lovac for gas.

Oil buying to resume

NEW YORK (AP) — An Exxon Corp. official says his company is about to resume buying oil from Iran.

Jack F. Bennett, Exxon's senior vice president for finance, told reporters Monday the firm would sign a contract soon for the purchase of a large amount of Iranian oil.

He did not say when the contract would be signed or how big the purchase would be.

Exxon and many other companies had said immediately after the revolution in Iran that they would not deal with the national oil company because it was asking $18 a barrel for their oil — about $3 over the world price at that time.

Iran, however, has now agreed to follow the pricing pattern established by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries and has lowered its price to $16.34 a barrel for its top grade of oil, much closer to the rest of the world market.

Exxon had received about 300,000 barrels a day of crude oil from Iran before the revolution, about 10 percent of the company's total crude oil supply. It has made up for the lost oil by buying some from other sources, including Mexico, and by limiting crude oil customers to allocations 10 percent less than they received last year.

Murphy H. Baxter of Midland No. 1 J. M. Meador has been spotted as an 8,200-foot wildcat in Howard County, four miles south of Vincent.

The drillsite is 467 feet from north and 1,667 feet from west lines of section 60, block 26, H&TC survey and one mile south of the Vincent, South (Strawn) field.

Harry Westmoreland of Midland staked his No. 1 Arco-Cordova-Union as a 2,400-foot wildcat in southwest Upton County, three miles east of McCamey.

The prospector is 3/4 mile northwest of the Hurdle (Grayburg) field and 1,468 feet from north and 1,635 feet from east lines of section 34, block 1, MK&T survey.

The Hurdle field produces at 2,100 feet.

Southland Royalty Co. of Midland No. 1-74 Newmont Friend is a replacement project for the same operator's No. 1 Friend, scheduled 8,500-foot wildcat in Crockett County, five miles northeast of Ozona.

The new location is 15 feet north of the original location. The new site is 1,915 feet from north and 1,320 feet from west lines of section 74, block GH, GC&SF survey. The ground elevation is 2,467 feet.

The explorer is one and five-eighths miles northeast of production in the Izozna (Canyon gas) field.

Tucker Drilling Co., Inc., of San Angelo spotted No. 1-538 Johnson as a 4,900-foot oil wildcat in Tom Green County, 11 miles south of San Angelo.

The location is 2,050 feet from the southwest and 1,650 feet from the southeast lines of J. Neuroth survey No. 538, abstract 1747. Elevation at ground level is 2,010 feet.

It is 3/4 mile southeast of the Cristoval, North (Palo Pinto gas) field and two miles southwest of the Pecan Station (Canyon oil) pool.

North American Royalties, Inc., of Midland No. 1 A. R. Williams is to be drilled as a northeast offset to NRM No. 1 T. W. Williams Estate, recently completed discovery well of the Isaac (Pennsylvanian, upper) field of Howard County.

The location for the new test is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 11, block 34, T-2-N, K&P survey and two miles north of Knott.

Contract depth is 11,000 feet.

Texaco, Inc., No. 1-U Glasscock Fee is to be drilled as an oil project 1/2 miles southeast of production in the Roberta (Queen oil) pool of Glasscock County, 11 miles southeast of Garden City.

The location for the 1,700-foot test is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 39, block 32, T-4-S, T&P survey.

Shell Oil Co. No. 3-B Thomas Tract 1 is a re-entry project in the TXL multiphase area of Ector County, two miles southeast of Nottrees.

A Devonian producer, it will be tested above 9,852 feet in the Silurian, McKee and central Wadwell pays.

Location is 666 feet from north and 2,004 feet from east lines of section 20, block 45, T-1-S, T&P survey.

Ladd Petroleum Corp. of Denver, Colo., No. 1 Ruth Tuttle will be drilled as a 5,700-foot wildcat in Terry County, 11 miles northwest of Brownfield.

The prospector is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 80, block D-11, C&MRR survey and one and three-eighths miles southeast of a 5,575-foot dry hole.

It also is two and three-quarter miles northeast of the depleted Corco (Devonian) field.

There is no nearby production.

Eddy discovers wildcat projects staked

Perry R. Bass No. 66 Big Eddy Unit has been completed as a Morrow gas discovery in Eddy County, N.M., and wildcat operations have been announced in Howard, Crockett, Tom Green counties.

The Bass No. 66 Big Eddy, 10 miles east of Carlsbad and one and one-quarter miles northeast of the Indian Flat (Morrow gas) pool, finished for a daily potential of 959,000 cubic feet of gas, through perforations from 12,455 to 12,459 feet and 12,478 to 12,486 feet.

Operator acidized with 1,000 gallons.

South and west lines of section 13, block B-20, psl survey. The pool has two Ellenburger oil producers and one shut-off Ellenburger well.

Gulf No. 12 Crawley Field Unit will be drilled as a south offset to Glorieta production.

Scheduled to 4,400 feet for tests of the Glorieta, it is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 13, block B-20, psl survey.

Anderson Petroleum, Inc., of Ozona announced locations for three steepouts or outposts to the Ozona (Canyon gas) pool of Crockett County. They are approximately 30 miles southwest of Ozona.

The No. 4-41-I Laura Hoover Estate is 3/4 mile south of production and 700 feet from south and 1,550 feet from west lines of section 41, block MM, T&SL survey. Ground elevation is 2,457 feet.

The No. 1-56-A John Mitchell Estate is two and one-quarter miles southwest of production and 660 feet from north and 1,250 feet from east lines of section 56, block MM, T&SL survey. Elevation is 2,316 feet.

Anderson No. 4-14-O Elmer Hoover Halton Estate will be drilled 1/2 mile north and west of production and 1,650 feet from north and 1,000 feet from west lines of section 14, block MM, T&SL survey. Ground elevation is 2,391 feet.

Oil buying to resume

NEW YORK (AP) — An Exxon Corp. official says his company is about to resume buying oil from Iran.

Jack F. Bennett, Exxon's senior vice president for finance, told reporters Monday the firm would sign a contract soon for the purchase of a large amount of Iranian oil.

He did not say when the contract would be signed or how big the purchase would be.

Exxon and many other companies had said immediately after the revolution in Iran that they would not deal with the national oil company because it was asking $18 a barrel for their oil — about $3 over the world price at that time.

Iran, however, has now agreed to follow the pricing pattern established by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries and has lowered its price to $16.34 a barrel for its top grade of oil, much closer to the rest of the world market.

Exxon had received about 300,000 barrels a day of crude oil from Iran before the revolution, about 10 percent of the company's total crude oil supply. It has made up for the lost oil by buying some from other sources, including Mexico, and by limiting crude oil customers to allocations 10 percent less than they received last year.

Murphy H. Baxter of Midland No. 1 J. M. Meador has been spotted as an 8,200-foot wildcat in Howard County, four miles south of Vincent.

The drillsite is 467 feet from north and 1,667 feet from west lines of section 60, block 26, H&TC survey and one mile south of the Vincent, South (Strawn) field.

Harry Westmoreland of Midland staked his No. 1 Arco-Cordova-Union as a 2,400-foot wildcat in southwest Upton County, three miles east of McCamey.

The prospector is 3/4 mile northwest of the Hurdle (Grayburg) field and 1,468 feet from north and 1,635 feet from east lines of section 3

Life 'down on the farm' preferred

GARDENDALE — What's the hog farmer doing in town five days a week?

And why does the farmer's wife just as often commute to the city?

They're working like the dickens to stay on the farm.

Dan Perkins labors on the dock of a motor freight company in Odessa by day. His wife does office work elsewhere in Odessa.

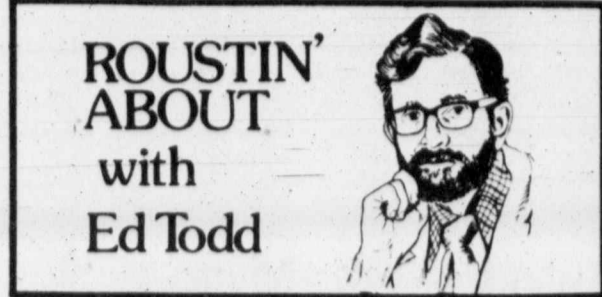

But he beats the wife back home each afternoon to feed and otherwise care for his 17 gilts, two boars and two sows — the latter two nursing piglets. He entertains thoughts of sows farrowing and of more and more piglets.

"I'd like to have it (farming) for a livelihood," Perkins said, as he was messing around on his swine farm here, "but you'd have to get up to 300 head of sows."

He's got a way to go.

His farm is not that big yet, though certainly his sows are prolific. He's counting on his gilts to be just as productive.

He already has put in a concrete-floored farrowing house which, in concept, is similar to "scientific" coops wherein chickens and turkeys are imprisoned in cages and never get their feet soiled with dirt. "They'll never touch the ground from the time they're born 'til the time they're slaughtered."

Perkins already has nursing crates for sows and their piglets to occupy in the farrowing house. Here, the waste and stench is washed away — not shoveled — and the crates have guards to prevent the sows from rolling on or lying on their young and squashing, smothering and, occasionally, eating their offspring.

"This is going to be like a pig factory," Perkins, 30, and his wife Marsha have been country folks for about six years — since they got out of the city.

With them is their daughter Heather, 7, who attends school at Goldsmith, and son Troy, 5. And living nearby is Perkins' father-in-law, B.D. Garms, and family.

"He's my head honcho out here," Perkins brother-in-law, 17-year-old Barry Garms, helps out on the pig farm. He attends high school in neighboring Odessa.

"Heather does (help out) every now and then," Perkins said.

But Troy is the scamperingly busy one: The lad will dip out buckets or cans of pig pellets, turn on the misting sprinklers, help his dad open and shut gates, maybe cry "pig, pig, pig" or "Sueeeee!"

And, when dad's watching and allowing, Troy sometimes catches a ride on the back of the "lean" 500-pound Duroc boar that turns gilts into nursing sows.

"I'm a cowboy," Troy once yipped, as he rode the boar, which was more interested in sorting out pellets from the dirt with his snout than he was in acting like a bucking bronco.

"Looks like to me you're more like a hog-boy," said Uncle Barry.

The country life agrees very well with Perkins. And the pig farming is coming right along. "We've had quite a bit of good luck, and quite a bit of bad luck," he said. "We learn as we go. We're still learning. We've got a long ways to go yet."

Perkins figures his gilts and sows will farrow twice a year. The sows, which mostly are Duroc-Hampshire crosses, may produce up to 16, 17 or more piglets per litter, though "You're always going to lose several" in every batch. The nursing piglets may die from birth defects, disease or the mother sow "lays on them." The newfangled crates for the farrowing house will prevent the latter.

Recently, 100 pigs came out of eight of Perkins' sows, and 73 lived long enough to be weaned.

Except for a few gilts he keeps for breeding, Perkins sells the pigs, which head to the market or feeding pens before they're bound over to the slaughterhouses.

His hogs are bred and fed for relative leanness. "Meat will sell a lot better than lard."

Perkins "messes" around with far more than pigs. He and the family work alfalfa patches, which the pigs may be allowed to trample over once anti-rooting rings are snapped through the nostrils of their leathery snouts to discourage their rooting.

And the Perkins' tend to a few ducks, Spanish goats fit for barbecuing, chickens and a horse. And there's a mouser — the cat — and a white German shepherd dog, which, though he's going blind due to cataracts, still "bosses" the hogs, eats portions of their pellets and retrieves thrown sticks — his favorite pastime.

Like her husband, Mrs. Perkins works in Odessa and wouldn't trade country living for anything. "I wouldn't like it anywhere else," she said.

Neither would Perkins. "I really enjoy it out here," he said. "I'd live in a tent before I'd mess with (living in) town."

And even though he's got enough acreage to keep potential neighbors at a distance, he's still not deep enough into the rural parts to suit him.

"I'd like to be out there where I couldn't see another house." He'd much rather put up with squealing than yelling.

This hungry hog had rather root than twirl, though part-time Gardendale pig farmer Dan Perkins tugs at its tail, trying

Dan and Marsha Perkins prefer country living over city life, but they have to work in the city to stay on the farm. (Staff Photo by Ed Todd)

Proposed compromise bill outlines landlords' obligations

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Landlords would be legally obligated to provide safe and healthy dwellings under a compromise bill supported by tenants and landlord organizations, two legislators announced Monday.

The proposal, reached after nearly two years of negotiations between tenant rights groups and apartment owner associations, is sponsored by Rep. Douglas McLeod, D-Galveston, and Rep. Ron Waters, D-Houston.

Under the bill's provisions: — Habitability is statutorily mandated and tenants can follow set legal directives in determining their rights.

— The landlord has a legal duty to make repairs "within a reasonable time," triggered by notice from the tenant.

— If repairs are "unreasonable or impossible," the bill provides for closure of the dwelling, assistance in moving the tenant, and a prohibition of re-renting the uninhabitable dwelling.

The Texas Supreme Court ruled last year that landlords have an obligation to provide a safe and healthy environment for renters. But McLeod said the ruling "left a number of questions unanswered."

— Tenants can only waive the warranty "knowingly, voluntarily and for consideration."

— Tenants are protected from landlord retaliation for exercising their rights.

— If approved, tenants will be able to legally break leases when landlords refuse to repair property. In addition to damages and civil penalties, landlords could be ordered to pay attorney fees if found in violation.

Final arguments, charge to jurors due today in lengthy Cuevas retrial

HOUSTON (AP)— State District Judge Miron Love will read a charge to a six-man, six-woman jury and then final arguments will be presented today as the lengthy retrial of Ignacio Cuevas winds down.

Cuevas, accused of causing the death of a hostage during a bloody 1974 escape attempt from a Texas State Prison unit called The Walls, was convicted in his first trial and sentenced to die.

After more than three years on death row, he was granted a new trial by the Texas Criminal Court of Appeals. The panel cited a judicial error as reason for reversal of the conviction.

Defense lawyer Will Gray said Monday he wanted to call at least three more witnesses, all of them inmate hostages during the 11-day siege, the longest in U.S. penal history.

But, he told the court, all had been paroled since that shootout five years ago and two of them could not be located and the third refused to testify.

Gray then rested his case, about one week after the state had called its final witness.

During the first trial in the spring of 1975, Gray didn't call a single defense witness. This time six took the stand as he attempted to prove that Cuevas had no connection with the death of a hostage.

Cuevas is the only surviving inmate of the siege. His two companions, Fred Carrasco and Rudolph Dominguez, were killed that night of Aug. 3, 1974, as they attempted to escape behind a moveable shield of lawbooks and chalkboards surrounded by 11 handcuffed hostages.

Also killed in the exchange of gunfire were two hostages, prison librarians Julia Standley and Elizabeth Beseda.

During the final weeks of the trial, Cuevas' wife and four young children attended each court session.

If found guilty, the jury then must decide the penalty for Cuevas, either life imprisonment or death.

Cuevas now is serving a life sentence for the slaying of a man in Pecos, Texas.

Liberals lose province vote

CHARLOTTETOWN, Prince Edward Island (AP) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau's Liberal Party lost control of its last provincial government a month before national elections.

Trudeau didn't block wife's book publication

NEW YORK (AP) — Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau turned down an offer from his estranged wife to withhold publication of her book until after next month's national elections, Margaret Trudeau says.

"He said, 'Your book won't affect the election,'" the soft spoken, 30-year-old woman said during an interview taped Monday to be broadcast in two segments today and Wednesday on NBC-TV's "Today" show.

Mrs. Trudeau said she volunteered to hold off publication of her book, "Beyond Reason," until after the May 22 election.

Her book tells of her years with the prime minister before their separation two years ago. It details her dissatisfaction with public life and her anger at being "used" as a tool in political campaigning.

Mrs. Trudeau said the book would serve to counter what she called the media's assassination of her character.

"The press has managed to really assassinate my character completely, particularly in Canada; now at least, I have something on the other side for people who have more open minds to see," she said.

After the taping, Mrs. Trudeau was asked to remain for additional cutaway shots, but instead took off her microphone and left, apparently annoyed at questions concerning her personal life, said Bill McAndrew, a spokesman for the "Today" show.

During the interview, "Today" co-host Jane Pauley prodded Mrs. Trudeau about the identity of a "high-powered American" Mrs. Trudeau wrote she had fallen in love with.

"Do you know you're doing exactly the same thing that all the press does?" Mrs. Trudeau responded. "I just can't, I just can't take it any more." She continued, adding: "Read my book. I'm fed up with it, just fed up with it. It's so unfair."

Police arrest Peronists

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Plainclothesmen arrested all 20 leaders of the Peronist labor movement who called a one-day general strike Friday to protest the military government's economic policies.

Witnesses said 18 of the union leaders were driven away in unmarked cars as they left the Labor Ministry Monday night and two were seized in a nearby bar.

Labor sources said the 20 men were summoned to the Ministry to be warned they could be imprisoned three to 10 years for instigating an illegal strike. They were then asked to sign statements confirming they called the strike, the sources said, but it was not known whether they did so.

Persons outside the ministry at the time said some of the union leaders shouted through the windows that they knew they would be arrested as soon as they got outside the building.

Their unions were the backbone of the late Gen. Juan Peron's populist movement, which has alternated domination of Argentina with the armed forces since the 1940s. The military overthrew Peron's widow, Isabel, in March 1976, put her under house arrest and suspended trade union activity.

The leaders arrested belong to Peronism's more militant, orthodox Group of 25 faction that still recognizes Mrs. Peron's leadership.

Iranian assassination attempt foiled

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan and members of his Cabinet escaped an assassination attempt today as they walked in the funeral procession of a general assassinated 24 hours earlier.

A man in an air force uniform tried to throw a hand grenade at the 72-year-old premier and his colleagues, a witness said, but guards walking alongside the procession knocked it from his hand.

Then the man raised a submachine gun, but before he could fire the guards kicked him to the ground and rushed him away, the witness said. A second man was reported arrested also.

Bazargan appeared shaken by the attempted attack. Islamic revolutionary militia surrounded him, then pushed him into a car, and he was driven off along with other officials.

The two men arrested were not identified. Nor was there an immediate explanation of the attack on the prime minister, who in recent weeks has been soft-pedaling his criticism of the executions by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's drumhead revolutionary courts.

Later an aide to Deputy Premier Minister Abbas Amir-Entezam, the chief government spokesman, claimed that the assassination attempt "did not happen." But other sources confirmed the first eyewitness report and said possibly more than two men were arrested.

Bazargan, Amir-Entezam and other Cabinet ministers were walking in the funeral procession for Gen. Mohammad Vali Gharani, the first army chief of staff appointed after the revolution. Gharani was killed in his garden Monday and was the first major figure of the revolution to be assassinated. The two assassins escaped.

A secret organization named Forghan claimed responsibility today for the murder. It said he was killed for his role in the death of innocent people in the Kurdish city of Sanandaj during fighting between troops and Kurdish tribesmen last month, and because of his collaboration with Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Gharani was the shah's military intelligence chief but was also jailed twice for opposition to the monarchy. He was named chief of staff two days after the revolutionary forces took control but was fired six weeks later after he failed to convince troops who deserted during the revolution to return to the army.

As more refugees find fewer host countries, U.N. role grows

EDITOR'S NOTE: AP Special Correspondents Peter Arnett and Eddie Adams, a prize-winning reporter-photographer team, traveled 45,000 miles over four continents to document the plight of the world's 10.5 million refugees. In this series they tell the story of the despairing people of the Fourth World, unwelcome where they are, unwanted where they want to go.

By PETER ARNETT

GABERONE, Botswana (AP) — They are camped here by the thousands in thatched kraals and crude wooden shacks, students who slipped out of the Soweto slums to the south or black nationalists who fled from Rhodesia to the north.

These 20,000 refugees, like most of the 10.5 million others on the run around the world, are generally resented by the local tribesmen. They are greeted by a cold shoulder, if not open hostility, in this small and uneasy country neighboring South Africa.

The stateless. An Associated Press writer-photographer team found them on four continents.

A polygamous Hmong tribesman. A deaf mute Romanian teenager. A Yao opium addict. An aging Chilean revolutionary. A Bulgarian radio repairman with a spinal curve. An Ethiopian air force deserter.

THESE ARE THE OBVIOUS losers, barred from settling in a new country for reasons of health, morals or political bent.

But it is not just this type of displaced person who has been unable to find a place to settle. As the number of refugees grows, they are finding fewer hosts.

It rangles the natives here in Botswana that the strangers live in comparatively comfortable camps, eating meat, vegetables and ground corn provided by the United Nations, warming themselves under U.N. blankets at night.

While the U.N. spent $9 million last year to feed and clothe the refugees in the three camps near the northern city of Francistown, only about 80,000 of Botswana's 600,000 inhabitants are employed. Hunger is rampant in a country rich in diamonds and beef.

"In this part of the country the Botswana people are the refugees," said J.H. Munamati, a Botswana official who helps administer the camps near the borders of Zambia and Rhodesia. "When they see the assistance flowing into the camps, they want it also. They become beggars."

THE UNITED NATIONS High Commission for Refugees is attempting to protect the rights of refugees at a time when more are on the move than at any time this century, except during the two World Wars.

And the United States, which will spend $570 million this year for refugee assistance, is opening its doors wider as the pressure increases.

The U.N. defines a refugee as "anyone outside his own country unable or unwilling to return because of persecution, or of a well founded fear of it, on account of his race, nationality or political opinion."

That catch-all definition apparently applies to the young men in two of the Botswana camps, mostly black Rhodesians waiting impatiently to join the ZAPU guerrillas forces of Joshua Nkomo in neighboring Zambia.

"We came here to fight for our country, to join the liberation Army, and more will follow us," said a sturdy youth at the Francistown camp.

John Sibanda, the camp commander, nodded in agreement, but he would not allow the youth to give his name.

The U.N. officially regards all the men as refugees, but also tries to move them on to Zambia quickly on irregular chartered flights to protect Botswana's delicate political balance.

THE REFUGEES ARE UNARMED. They avoid military training while in transit in Botswana for fear of attracting Rhodesian bombers.

While Botswana supports the black nationalist fight, it is a small country with a small defense force and depends on neighboring South Africa for its supply routes. Thus vulnerable, it does not allow armed guerrillas to operate within its borders.

But not all of Botswana's refugees are revolutionaries looking for a fight. A third camp, Dukwi, is populated by 4,500 young women and girls and 1,700 boys.

Hundreds are students who slipped out of the black Johannesburg suburb of Soweto because they heard that many scholarships to colleges in the U.S. and other western countries are available.

"Only two or three out of every hundred students would qualify as genuine refugees," commented one U.S. official. "But if they didn't qualify before they arrive, they do afterwards because in the eyes of their government they have seriously violated the law by illegally fleeing."

But for every refugee with a specific college in mind or a revolutionary cause to follow, there are thousands who simply ask sanctuary.

POUL HARTLING, the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, says, "This office stands for the rights of the refugee, the right above all to humane treatment and dignity."

To that end, Hartling's organization has 300 operatives in 52 field offices around the world. They wear their diplomatic coats when encouraging reluctant countries to open their borders to refugees. They change roles to become inspectors and aid advisers when insisting that minimum standards be maintained for the new arrivals.

U.N. refugee officials helped convince other countries in Southeast Asia to allow Vietnamese "boat people" to land on their shores. They rushed to assist those aboard three large refugee ships that pulled into the Philippines, Hong Kong and Malaysia.

Even though the Soviet Bloc was hostile to the organization for years, and still withholds financing, U.N. refugee officials are helping the Vietnamese government support 150,000 Cambodians who fled from the Pol Pot government. On the other hand, the U.N. is also helping followers of the Pol Pot regime who fled into Thailand after Vietnam invaded Cambodia.

WITH ALL THE WORK by the U.N. and other organizations, the ideal solution to the refugee problem is for the refugees to return home.

And that is happening in Bangladesh, where 200,000 Moslems who fled from neighboring Burma are going back, largely because of the Bangladesh government's indifference to their plight. At least 10,000 died of disease in the Bangladesh camps in a few months.

But few of the scores of thousands fleeing Indochina ever intend to go back. Their sights are set on the United States.

The hundreds of thousands of exiled black Rhodesians may have to wait years until they can return. So it is with the million who have fled Ethiopia. They are demanding political changes that are unlikely to come soon.

At the same time, some host countries are having second thoughts as the refugee populations grow and problems continue to mount.

Botswana has had to deal with a typhoid outbreak at one camp, political disturbances at another, not to mention the unwelcome attention the camps have drawn from South Africa and Rhodesia.

"We would be more effective as a passageway for refugees rather than a home," said Charles Tibone, assistant to the president of Botswana for refugees. "We were just not prepared for them."

"We have no choice but to receive them because they cross the borders and they are here. But they are becoming unmanageable."

LOCAL BOTSWANA TRIBESMEN, hungry much of the time, were naturally resentful of the treatment afforded the new arrivals.

It was a similar resentment that led to tragedies along the Malaysian coast where Vietnamese "boat people" were pushed back out to sea by angry villagers, with hundreds drowning as their crafts swamped in the surf.

With similar antagonisms developing elsewhere in the Third World, the United States has pledged $570 million for refugee aid this year.

The U.S. also is rapidly increasing its quota of Indochinese refugees, with 35,000 to be brought in over the next six months. France has agreed to take 12,000 Indochinese and Australia 10,500.

But the new quotas won't help much in the mountain refugee camp of Ban Nam Yao in north Thailand's Nan province, where live 13,000 mountain tribesmen who fled Laos. While about 50 from the camp are resettled each month, 50 babies are born each month.

The new quotas also won't help Elvira Toledo de Aguirre. The Chilean woman, who claims she was a longtime colleague of the late President Salvador Allende, lives in a shabby pink and green hotel room in the Argentinian border city of Mendoza. Her ankle and hip broken during what she said were torture sessions in Santiago four years ago, Elvira is confined to her bed.

Neither she nor her husband have papers to stay in Argentina. But both are in their late 60s, too old to be accepted elsewhere.

"We both gave our lives for the Chilean revolution. What kind of reward is this," she asked.

Unwanted by anyone else, she is one of an increasing number of homeless who have become wards of the U.N.

Planning should include protection

By The Associated Press

Millions of Americans are starting to plan for summer vacations, but if their planning doesn't include protection against burglars they could be in for trouble when they return home.

An empty house is a target for thieves and experts in government, in the insurance industry and in the field of home protection advise consumers to take steps to minimize the dangers.

"The most effective deterrents are simple and inexpensive, but they're often neglected," according to State Farm Insurance Cos.

Some people turn to house-sitters for protection, but letting someone else live in your home is not always a good idea. It is often wiser just to try to make it appear that the house is occupied.

Most experts advise you to stop all deliveries of mail, milk, newspapers, etc. A home safety guide from Action for Independent Maturity, a division of the American Association of Retired Persons, warns, however, that "burglars have tipsters everywhere." If you don't want to let strangers know you're away and still want to prevent things from piling up on your doorstep, ask a neighbor to collect and hold all deliveries.

If you are going to be gone for a long time, make arrangements to have the grass cut and the shrubs trimmed. Again, try to use someone you know and trust rather than a stranger.

Do not draw all the drapes and curtains. That's usually a sure sign the house is empty. Leave some open and some closed. If possible, give a neighbor a key and ask him or her to change the arrangements periodically.

Buy and install at least one electric timer to switch lights on and off automatically. Similar timers can be attached to radio and television sets. Test timers before you leave to make sure they work.

Do not advertise your absence. Don't brag about your trip where strangers could overhear. Don't put a notice in the local newspaper announcing that you are going on vacation.

Let local police know your plans and tell them to whom you have given keys and what sort of timers you have set. Ask neighbors to call police if they spot any kind of unusual activity — including the arrival of delivery or repair trucks.

For year-round protection, you may want to participate in an Operation Identification program, marking your valuables with an identifying number that is registered with police. These programs, run by local police departments, are designed to deter burglars by making it difficult for them to sell stolen goods. A decal in your window lets a thief know that your valuables are marked.

Three young Rhodesian girls, residents of the Sukwi refugee camp in northern Botswana, fix one another's hair. The camp, near the border of Zambia and Rhodesia, is one of three in the country. Two, however, are reserved of young men — mostly supporters of ZAPU. (AP Laserphoto)

Creagh, Neese grab lead

By RICHARD VINCENT
Sports Writer

Rives McBee drew much of the attention Monday afternoon during the first round of the $9,000 Northern Texas PGA Pro-Pro tournament at Ranchland Hills Country Club. After all, for nearly five years between 1966 and 1971, he played the PGA tour.

But a little of the 40-year-old Las Colinas Country Club professional's thunder was stolen by a couple of fellows named Buster Creagh and John Neese.

Creagh, the pro at Sherrill Park Golf Course in Richardson, and Neese, the head man at Garland Eastern Hills CC, put themselves together a neat little best ball of 65 to grab the midway lead in the third annual Pro-Pro.

Neese, who teamed with Charles Bridwell to win the first Pro-Pro, carded birdies Monday on holes 5, 7, 8, 12, 14 and 15 en route to a 68, the best round of the day. Creagh had birds on 10 and 13 while bogeying 2 and 4.

One shot back at 66 was the team of Jim Smith, of Grapevine Municipal Golf Course, and Burt Baine, Fort Worth Ridgela.

The defending champions, McBee of Irving and Larry Fryer of the Lakewood CC in Dallas, were among a group of six teams jammed in at 67.

Those in the tie at 67 were Buddy Cook of Dallas Royal Oaks and Richard Whittenburg of Lubbock Hillcrest, Clayton Cole, Dallas CC and Howard Burtshell of Comanche PARCC, Benny Passons, Fort Worth Meadowbrook and Charles Bishop, Terrell Oak Grove CC, Jack Goetz and Dick Goetz, both Longview Pinecrest CC and John Darling, Carrollton Columbian CC, and Randy Smith of Royal Oaks.

In Monday's pro-am, which consisted of a pro team and two amateurs using handicaps, Babe Vanlandingham of Levelland and Dennis Allen of Lorenzo CC, joined with amateurs John Scroggin and Ray McNeill for a minuscule bestball of 54. Next with a score of 55 was the foursome of pros Larry Squier of Odessa's Sunset and Bill Glenn of Dumas North Plains CC and amateurs Charles Notley and Richard Notley.

McBee is a former assistant to George Clark at Midland Country Club. He was here for parts of 1965 and 1966, and his return Monday was a pleasant one, although Rives wasn't ecstatic over the 71 he shot.

"It's good to be back," he said. "It's nice to see the people and we do appreciate the folks at Ranchland Hills letting us use their course."

No stranger to the 6600-yard, par 71 layout, McBee said he used to "play everywhere the assistants could play," when he called the Tall City home, including Hogan Park and Sunset in Odessa.

Rives felt that the course might've been set up a tad too tough for the tournament. "I think the pin placement on number 10 was a little too severe for this type of tournament with this type of professional."

He was speaking from experience. Both he and Fryer landed balls in the water on the 343 yard hole, where the flag was tucked into a sloping corner.

And he elaborated a bit about the plight of club professionals. "People expect us to shoot the same score as the touring pros but we can't, not doing the work we do. It's hard to keep a feel," he said.

"I haven't played a round since last Thursday," he said. "I expect little better scores tomorrow (Tuesday) because we've had a day to check out the course. I'm not surprised the scores weren't lower because we all just worked the weekend."

Because of his dedication to his trade, McBee has relegated competitive play to its proper place. "Our job is to satisfy our members and take care of their needs. We're not there to work on our games."

For this reason, he plays a "very varied and limited" slate of tournaments. Several weeks ago, he played in the Magnolia Classic in Hattiesburg, Miss., made the cut and pocketed a $450 check. And he plans to try and qualify for the Byron Nelson Classic and the U. S. Open, plus looks forward to the NTPGA sectional, which he won in 1977, and the PGA Club Professional Championship, which he won in 1973.

Incidentally, his 64 at the 1966 Open still gives him a share of the one round record at that classic.

Most of all, McBee relishes a challenge. "I love to play and I love to compete," he said. "I never get tired of competition."

That seems true. At last year's pro-pro, he and Fryer fell out of the lead after 27 holes. All Rives did on the final nine was merely reel off an eagle and four birdies for an incredible 30.

The way things stand after Monday's play, it looks like McBee might have to turn it on in today's final round. Nothing really, though, for a guy who loves to compete.

Rebs seek fifth win
The Midland Lee Rebels will try for their fifth straight District 5-4A baseball victory when they host the Big Spring Steers this afternoon at 4 p.m. on the Lee diamond.

Also involved in district action today are the Midland High Bulldogs, who travel to San Angelo for a 4 p.m. game in hopes of remaining tied with the Rebels for first place in district.

Lee, 3-0 in the circuit and 17-9 overall, should get a tussle from Big Spring despite the Steers' 1-2 league and 8-14 overall records.

Midland High, 3-0 and 14-5, also has to keep winning if they want to stay alive for a post season playoff. The Bulldogs nosedived badly as first half play concluded and ended up with nothing to show for their fine early season efforts.

San Angelo, 0-3 and 4-12, has had all kinds of trouble, especially defensively.

In other district contests today, Abilene High, 1-2 and 8-10, travels to Odessa High, 1-2 and 7-16, and Odessa Permian, 1-2 and 14-8, ventures to Abilene Cooper, 2-1 and 15-3. First pitch for both games is set for 4 p.m.

Would-be goat saves day

BY TED BATTLES

The dispute was whether Tom Butler was a buzzard or a vulture, but Jim Tracy figures anything is better than being a goat.

the ninth to give the Midland Cubs a harrowing 6-5 victory over the San Antonio Dodgers in the series opener at Cubs Stadium.

The win gave Midland a 1 1/2 game lead over the Dodgers in the Texas League West as the same nines go into tonight's second game of the series at Cubs Stadium.

Lefthander Butler was the beneficiary of the blow, picking up his second win by striking out the only batter he faced in the ninth. However, Lee Smith did all the work up until then and came within an out of his third win of the season. Looking over at Butler, "Just be sure to point out that Butler is a buzzard."

Informed of the comment, Butler corrected, "No, vulture. I'm a vulture."

Butler came in with two out and a runner on first as a result of a walk. "Do you realize that if we'd made a good throw to second when I picked that man off first, I would have gotten the win without throwing a pitch?"

MIDLAND TOOK A 5-0 lead after three as Smith didn't allow a hit through three innings and had a two-hit shutout going into the sixth. "I never gave a thought to the no-hitter," he said, "all I was looking for was the win. My fastball was moving good, especially against the lefthanders, and my slider was effective."

Smith, in his second season in the Texas League, would have had a cake walk if it hadn't been for San Antonio second baseman Larry Fobbs, who had two doubles and a triple and would have had another double except for third baseman Mike Turgeon's diving stop and throw from the foul line in the first.

It was Fobbs' three-run triple in the seventh that tied it at 5-5. "He just hit everything I threw," complained Smith.

THE CUBS built up their early lead when Jesus Alfaro hit a two-run homer in the first, his third in three games; Turgeon doubled and Brian Rosinski singled him home and eventually scored on a balk in the second, and then Jared Martin tripled and stole home in the third.

Martin's triple off starter Ted Power was a leadoff hit, but it looked like he might perish at third as the next two batters went out. "He (Power) didn't pay any attention to me the first two pitches and Randy (Manager Hundley) told me to get a bigger lead. Then I told Randy, 'I think I can steal home' and he said 'Okay, let's go.'"

In the seventh, Tracy came up with the bases loaded and took a called third strike for the final out. "It was a good curve, but a marginal strike. I deserved to be sacked up for taking a pitch like that in that situation. That ball I hit in the ninth was a good pitch, too," he pointed out.

"With the infield in, I knew he (lefty Augie Ruiz) would be throwing a breaking pitch and it broke low and away."

Tracy's drove it down the left field foul line to score Alfaro, who had singled to center, with the winning run. Martin had followed Alfaro with a walk and then Eric Grandy beat out a chop down the third base line to set the stage for Tracy.

The Cubs and Dodgers resume hostilities at 7:30 p.m. today with Calvin Beal, 1-0, going for Midland while Doug Harrison is Manager Ducky LeJohn's counter choice. It's Reporter-Telegram Family Night with a coupon and $3 admission good for the entire family.

Fidrych pitches exhibition game

DETROIT (AP) — Mark "The Bird" Fidrych surrendered just four hits and two runs in six innings for Detroit as the Tigers routed the Cincinnati Reds 14-3 Monday night in an exhibition game.

Fidrych was idled for a year due to recurring arm problems before pitching an exhibition game last week against Cincinnati. Thid time he struck out three batters and walked one and retired the first 11 Reds' in order before yielding a walk, a double and a two-run single by Dan Driessen in the fourth.

The Bird threw 79 pitches — 53 of them strikes — in another step toward his return to major league play.

Detroit took the lead on a two-run homer by Lance Parrish in the first inning, then shot ahead with a six-run outburst in the second, including a two-run triple by Lou Whitaker and a two-run single by Ron LeFlore.

In the third inning, the Tigers added two runs, one on doubles by Phil Mankowski and Dan Gonzales and the other on a bases-loaded walk to John Wockenfuss.

They tallied another pair in the sixth on run-scoring doubles by Tim Corcoran and Mankowski, who had his third double of the night.

Detroit closed out the scoring in the eighth on a run-producing triple by Wockenfuss. He scored on a grounder by Corcoran.

CART says it's just too late

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — There are no longer any concessions the U.S. Auto Club can make that will lure back the dissident Championship Auto Racing Teams, CART President Pat Patrick said Monday.

"It's too late now," Patrick said. "We thought we had a deal last week. They made us a proposal which we thought was acceptable. When they left us, we thought everything was fine."

"Then I got a telegram from (USAC President Dick) King that our entry (for the Indianapolis 500) had been denied. It was hard to believe."

Five other CART teams besides Patrick's were told last Friday that their entries, totaling 19 cars including Midland's Jim Hall, had been rejected because they were "not in good standing" with USAC.

"There's no way in hell I'd ever go back to USAC now, after the way they treated us," Patrick said in a telephone interview from his office at Jackson, Mich.

Patrick sent Speedway President Joe Cloutier a telegram on Saturday, asking clarification of the rejections, and he set a 5 p.m. deadline Monday for Cloutier to reply or "... we will be compelled to resort to our available remedies."

He did not say what those remedies might be.

Patrick said Monday he had not received the reply, but he said the strict deadline was "no big thing. I just wanted to put the time thing on it so it wouldn't drag on forever."

Earlier Monday, Cloutier said he intended to reply to the telegram. "I suppose I owe them the courtesy (of a reply), don't you?" Cloutier said when contacted by telephone at his office in Terre Haute, Ind.

Patrick said the initial dispute with USAC and the Speedway was that the CART owners "just wanted more input into the management. Our CART teams have a budget of $20 million a year, and (with USAC) we have absolutely nothing to say about what happens ... with purses, television contracts, the number of races, rule changes ... USAC flatly refused to allow us to do that."

While Patrick awaited the reply from Cloutier, the head of the Sports Car Club of America hoped for international help for the six CART teams barred from the Indy 500.

According to an SCCA spokesman in Atlanta, SCCA President Tom Duvall was to meet with officials of the Automobile Competition Committee of the United States (ACCUS) Tuesday in Washington, supposedly to plead for ACCUS intervention on behalf of CART.

Save gas with our Spring Changeover.

Participating Exxon dealers are featuring the Gas Savers.

Exxon Steel Belted Radial tires and Uniflo motor oil. Change over to these great Exxon products and you could start saving this Spring.

Gas-Saving Uniflo® Motor Oil.

After a break-in period, Uniflo allows engines to turn easier because of special friction modifiers. A fleet of test cars using Uniflo averaged 16 extra miles per tank of gasoline. Try Uniflo for your next oil change.

Gas-Saving Exxon® Steel Belted Radial Tires, with 40,000-mile Double Coverage Warranty.

Radial tires roll more easily than non-radial tires, so they give better gasoline mileage. And the Exxon Steel Belted Radial is so tough, Exxon has kept its 40,000-mile Double Coverage Limited Warranty while most competitors have dropped theirs. It's an extra you get when you buy Exxon Steel Belted Radials.

These tires are warranted against tread wearout for 40,000 miles of normal passenger car service. They are also warranted against road hazard damage from chuckholes, sharp objects, etc., as well as defects in material and workmanship.

ROAD HAZARDS

See your Exxon dealer for complete warranty details. Change over now to Exxon Steel Belted Radials and get our double coverage warranty in writing.

Let's make every mile count.

College executive to speak at meeting of Lions Club

Dr. Joe B. Rushing, president of Tarrant County Junior College, Fort Worth, will be the speaker Wednesday noon at the meeting of the Downtown Lions Club in the Midland Hilton.

A native West Texan, he was reared in Brown and Comanche counties. He attended Texas schools and colleges, earning the B.A. from Howard Payne University, the M.A. from East Texas State University and the Ph.D. from The University of Texas.

He began his career in education in 1946 and served as a teacher and principal for four years. He entered the area of college administration after two years of full-time study at The University of Texas. He was named chief executive of Tarrant County Junior College in 1965. It has had tremendous gains in all areas since that time.

He is active in community and professional affairs. He is a past president of the Association of Texas Colleges and Universities and the Southern Association of Community and Junior Colleges.

Dr. Rushing was named "Educator of the Year" by the Press Club of Fort Worth in 1975, and Howard Payne University's "Man of the Year" in 1976.

Dr. Joe B. Rushing

1976. He received the Carl Brett Award as "Outstanding Alumnus of the College of Education" at The University of Texas at Austin, also in 1976.

More than 150 Midlanders join in weekend marathon

More than 150 Midlanders participated in the annual Hike-Bike-Run for the Retarded which was held here Saturday.

Paul Sueltenfuss, executive director of the Midland Association for Retarded Citizens, said funds raised by the annual event should be close to $30,000, which was the sum raised in last year's event.

"We're still adding up pledge figures and can't yet give an estimate of the total raised in this year's event," Sueltenfuss said Monday afternoon, "but it looks like the pledge figures will come up to our expectations. It certainly looks as though Midland folks have supported us wholeheartedly once again."

Sueltenfuss said the total pledges for the 1979 hike-bike-run will be close to the $30,000 figure reached last year.

"It should be somewhere in the neighborhood of last year," Sueltenfuss predicted.

Money is raised by sponsors pledging a certain amount for each mile traveled — by any means other than motorized — by the participants. The first hike-bike-run event was held here in the early 1970s.

Since 1974, the Midland event has ranked first nationally in amount of funds collected for organizations working with the retarded.

Midland police have vandalism suspects

Police said today they have two suspects in the rash of vandalism which took place over the Easter weekend and have confiscated two pistols, a .22-caliber and a .22-caliber magnum.

Detective Lieutenant Earl Luckey said the case will go before a grand jury on Wednesday.

The two suspects were located through the description of a pickup which an officer had stopped the night of April 14, Luckey said.

Two men remain in Big Lake jail

BIG LAKE — Two men remained in Reagan County Jail here early today on charges of possession of marijuana.

Bond was set Monday at $125,000 each for Ronnie Arthur Mills, 29, of Encinita, Calif., and Jose Luis Beltran, 25, of Mexico. The two appeared before Big Lake Peace Justice Pauline Stout.

The men were arrested early Sunday and charged after officials said they confiscated 150 pounds of a substance believed to be marijuana, according to Reagan County Deputy Donald Turk.

The two were found near a twin engine Piper Aztec discovered burning on the Rocker B Ranch about 1:30 a.m. Sunday, Turk said.

He said the plane apparently had crashed on the ranch, and remnants of the suspected substance were discovered inside the wreckage.

A spokesman with the Sheriff's Department said officials believe the plane was deliberately set on fire.

U.S. Customs officials from California arrived Monday in Big Lake to assist with the investigation.

Lee High students receive awards

Jay Lamb, Kelley Osborn and Robert Nordling, students of German teacher David Kleinbeck at Lee High School, have been named outstanding foreign language students of Texas and Oklahoma.

The three received certificates of achievement from Austin College in Sherman.

Austin College originated the program to honor top students three years ago to encourage the study of foreign languages in high schools, according to Dr. Juliette McClendon of the Austin College foreign languages department.

The college publishes an annual booklet of those nominated and includes students of Spanish, Latin, German and French.

There were 700 Texas and Oklahoma students honored by the college this year.

Lamb is a fourth level German student while Miss Osborn and Nordling are first level German students. Each of the students maintained an A average in the self-paced German program at Lee High School.

Cash taken in robbery of store

ODESSA — A convenience store in the 3000 block of North Golden Street was the scene of an armed robbery which occurred about 4:45 a.m. today, according to a spokesman with the Odessa Police Department.

The spokesman said the store's clerk told police a man walked into the store, pulled a knife and demanded money. An undetermined amount of cash was given the armed man.

The man then left on foot, officials were told.

Horse club schedules playday

The Tall City Youth Horse Club will sponsor an open playday at 2 p.m. Saturday in the Midland County 4-H Arena off U.S. Hwy. 80 East.

LANDMAN WITH CONTRACT EXPERIENCE

Exceptional Opportunity in MIDLAND with the UNION TEXAS PETROLEUM DIVISION OF ALLIED CHEMICAL CORPORATION

If you are a Landman with a minimum of five years experience in negotiating trades and with substantial expertise in writing, reviewing, and finalizing contracts, who is interested in being an active participant in dynamic exploration and development programs, we would like to hear from you. Requirements include a LLB or JD or equivalent technical knowledge and skills, the ability to effectively interact and communicate with all levels of management, and a progressive record of performance achievements.
