He's still a moonshiner

But now he touts alcohol in the gas tank

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Jerry Wilkerson used to fancy himself a pretty good moonshiner. Now a non-drinker, he's still touting the merits of home brewed alcohol — 16 put in a car's gas tank.

He's starting out on a campaign to urge Americans to build solar stills, at about $22 each, which he says can fill their tanks with alcohol for as little as 10 cents a gallon.

"I got tired of cussing the government and cussing the oil companies and blaming other people for my problems," said Wilkerson, 43, of Levan, Utah.

He says he developed his do it yourself plan as "a way of getting the nation out of the control of the oil producing nations."

He has been giving lectures on his ideas, and plans to begin a cross-country lecture tour later this month, traveling in a pickup truck that runs primarily on alcohol.

Minor engine conversions allow the truck to run on alcohol or gas. It has two gas tanks. Wilkerson switches to regular fuel to start the engine, because alcohol doesn't create enough vapor pressure.

Wilkerson doesn't see the solar stills. He doesn't even own a patent on the model he carries around. He asks for voluntary contributions at his lectures, but says he doesn't get many.

Wilkerson, a retired Navy man and father of eight, said he developed his moonshining skills making corn liquor in the woods of North Carolina.

"In the Navy, we brewed up a little applejack and raisin brandy," he said. "I've been living around home made alcohol for a long time."

Wilkerson, who dropped out of college engineering courses after three years, said he has written mayors across the country to line up his lecture tour.

He admits he'll have to buy some gasoline along the way, but he's going to try to run mostly on alcohol.

He's publishing a book on how to make fuel in your backyard. It points out that a federal permit is required and that chemicals must be added so the alcohol can't be drunk.

Wilkerson claims his solar still—a three-by-six foot wooden box with a glass top—can produce five gallons of alcohol a day from fermented sugar beets or other vegetation with a high sugar content. The fermenting can be done in old oil drums.

Other materials used in the still include plastic pipe and dark burlap. The fermented liquid soaks the burlap and the dark material absorbs heat from the sun. Alcohol evaporates from the solution and then condenses on the glass and trails down to a container.

Wilkerson acknowledges the temptation might be great to use the stills illegally. "The answer is self-policing," he said. "You can bet that if I find anyone using one of these things for moonshining, I'd turn him in."

Syrian jets 'protect' Lebanese cease-fire

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian air force jets patrolled the sky over Beirut today as a cease fire arranged by the U.N. peacekeeping command silenced Israeli and Palestinian guns after four days of the heaviest fighting in southern Lebanon in more than a year, U.N. and Palestinian spokesmen said.

Four Soviet built MiG 21 fighters streaked over the city shortly after midday. Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization said the Syrians were flying "protective patrol missions, guarding against new enemy air strikes."

It was the second consecutive day Syrian jets appeared in the sky over the Lebanese capital. Israeli However, Palestinian sources said the Palestine Liberation Organization insisted it would continue operations by its members based inside Israel.

The Palestinian command said Israeli air, naval and artillery strikes killed 10 more Palestinians and Lebanese Wednesday, the fourth day of Israeli attacks against Palestinian positions.

The PLO said a total of 27 Palestinians were killed in the four days of Israeli attacks in retaliation for the deaths of four Israelis in a terrorist raid Sunday. Lebanese provincial authorities put the overall toll at about 60 Palestinians and Lebanese killed.

The PLO said most of Wednesday's casualties were in refugee camps around the southern Lebanese coastal city of Tyre, 50 miles south of Beirut, and in the guerrilla-controlled town of Nabatiyeh, 30 miles inland.

A PLO communique said Israeli jets pounded Tyre and refugee camps around it after Israeli gunboats shelled the city. Long range artillery inside the Israeli frontier with Lebanon also hit Tyre and Nabatiyeh, the PLO said.

Local authorities said later Wednesday the Israeli gunboats returned and shelled the coastal city of Sidon, between Tyre and Beirut. No casualty figures were reported.

The Lebanese officials said more than 40,000 Lebanese fled north to escape the punishing four-day-old cycle of attacks and counterattacks. Israel's most intensive campaign in the area since it invaded southern Lebanon in March 1978 to avenge the killing of 35 Israelis in a guerrilla raid north of Tel Aviv.

Many of the refugees sought sanctuary in mosques, churches, school buildings and Palestinian refugee camps in towns and villages along the Mediterranean coast. Refugees who arrived in Beirut Wednesday, spent the night in the buses and trucks that brought them to the capital.

While the terms of the Mid-East peace settlement are costly to the United States, figures made available to the press show the cost of peace is less than the cost of war and instability. Please see Page 10C.

jets buzzed PLO headquarters in Beirut and refugee camps on the outskirts of the city on Wednesday, sparking the first fly over of Syrian fighters.

Observers said the Syrian air patrols appeared to herald closer cooperation between Syria and the PLO, Israel's most militant foe.

A U.N. spokesman said the cease fire went into effect Wednesday night and was holding today.

Israel agreed to stop air, naval and artillery attacks on guerrillas based in southern Lebanon in exchange for a cessation of cross border Palestinian rocket attacks aimed at Jewish settlements in northern Israel, the U.N. spokesman said.

Consumer price increase triggers hike in benefits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices increased another 1 percent in March, led by sharply higher prices for food, housing, clothing and gasoline, the government said today.

It said gasoline prices rose 3.8 percent, the largest monthly jump in nearly four years. Both housing and food costs were up by 1 percent.

The March increase in the Consumer Price Index, which followed a 1.2 percent rise in February, means that the nation's 45 million Social Security recipients will receive a 9.9 percent increase in benefits to offset the impact of inflation in the past year, officials said.

The average benefit will be increased by about $25 to $283 a month. Checks, reflecting increases, will go out beginning in July.

Although the increase in the Consumer Price Index was less than in February, it was still at a level that endangers the success of the Carter administration's anti-inflation program.

Prices during the first three months of 1979 increased at an annual rate of 13 percent, the highest quarterly rise in 13 years and far above the administration's target for this year of 7.4 percent.

The increase for the 12 month period ending in March was 10.2 percent.

One of President Carter's top inflation advisers, Barry Bosworth, told The Associated Press Wednesday that if inflation does not begin to cool soon, it is likely to get much worse as workers demand steadily higher wages to keep pace with steadily rising prices.

At a Democratic fund raising dinner in Bedford, N.H., Wednesday night, Carter also warned of further price increases.

"Inflation is bad and it will be months at the very least before it gets substantially better," the president said. "Frankly, we will continue to see discouraging price figures coming out for some time to come."

In its report today, the Labor Department said workers' spendable earnings dropped another 0.1 percent on March because of rising inflation. That raised the total lost buying power of paychecks in the last year to an even 2 percent.

The department gave this break down on price increases for various categories in March, compared with the previous month, followed by the total increase over the 12 months from March 1978.

— Food and beverages 1 percent, down from 1.6 percent in February and up 12.5 percent for the 12 month period.

— Housing 1 percent, down from 1.3 in February and up 10.6 percent for the year.

— Apparel and upkeep 1.5 percent, up from 0.3 in February and up 3 percent for the year.

Transportation 1.2 percent, up from 1.1 percent in February and an increase of 10.1 percent for the year.

— Medical care 0.6 percent, the same as in February and an increase of 9 percent for the year.

— Entertainment 0.9 percent, up from 0.4 percent in February and an increase of 6.1 percent for the year.

— Other goods and services 0.6 percent, down from 0.7 percent in February and an increase of 7.5 percent for the year.

The Labor Department said the Consumer Price Index in March stood at 209.3, meaning that goods and services priced at $100 in 1967 had increased to $209.30 last month.

The department said a 2.7 percent increase in meat prices accounted for most of the rise in overall food costs. Beef and poultry prices increased sharply for the sixth consecutive month.

There also were increases in the price of eggs, pork, fresh fruits and dairy products. However, prices for fresh vegetables declined sharply, reflecting an increase in supplies of lettuce and tomatoes because of improved weather conditions, the department said.

Homestead exemption deadline drawing near Midland homeowners have until Monday to file for a homestead exemption on their school taxes, according to Virgil Jones, city tax assessor collector.

About 18,000 to 20,000 homeowners are eligible for the $5,000 exemption on their taxes, Jones said Wednesday. To be eligible, the resident must live in the home they are claiming.

Persons who have not filed should go to the tax office on the second floor of City Hall, he said. The resident must sign an affidavit claiming he is owner of the property described in the appropriate space, and that it was his residential homestead on Jan. 1, 1979.

He also must promise not to claim a residence homestead on any other property for this year.

Anyone giving false information on the affidavit will be subject to perjury laws of the state of Texas, Jones said.

Based on the current school tax rate of $1.20, the property owner will receive about a $45 cut in his school taxes. That figure could change, Jones noted, if the school district's board of trustees decides to change the tax rate.

To obtain the $45 figure, Jones takes the $5,000 exemption, figures out the 75 percent assessed value, then multiplies that by $1.20.

The exemption is part of the Tax Amendment Relief package passed by the voters in the November general election. Regulations on administering the exemption come from the School Tax Assessment Practice Board.

Multiplying the $45 figure by 20,000 homeowners, which is the estimated number of homeowners, takes about $900,000 from the school tax income in the budget. But Jones said the state is reimbursing the school districts for the lost money.

This exemption should be an added boost not only for all homeowners, but a second windfall for homeowners 65 years of age or older.

Senior Midlanders already are entitled to an exemption of $6,000 based on the assessed value of their home, according to Jones.

New Mexico claims early win in Pecos River water dispute

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — New Mexico has won a preliminary victory over Texas in a court battle over the meaning of the Pecos River Compact but a final decision is years away, according to Richard Simms, the state engineer's chief attorney.

Because the case is a dispute between two states, Texas suing New Mexico in 1974, the U.S. Supreme Court has original jurisdiction. Texas is claiming New Mexico owes it a 27-year accumulated debt of 1.6 million acre-feet of Pecos River water.

The court appointed a special master, 10th U.S. Circuit Judge Jean Breitenstein of Denver, to sit at a trial of the case. The Supreme Court's eventual decision will be based on Breitenstein's final report.

On Feb. 2 the judge issued a preliminary report on some of the initial questions in the case. Simms said the report upheld New Mexico's theory of the 1948 compact.

The judge gave both states opportunity to file objections to the preliminary report and on Tuesday heard oral arguments on the objections. He overruled the objections of both states.

Simms, who participated in the Denver hearing Tuesday, said that part of the ruling was "a victory for New Mexico" because it indicates the Feb. 2 conclusions on the initial questions will stand.

"But certain other aspects of the decision remain unclear," Simms conceded. The judge retracted portions of the 70-page Feb. 2 report as to 11 specific engineer issues, Simms noted.

The judge's technical assistant in the case, a Denver engineering firm, will be called back for testimony on the technical points July 9. Simms said both states will have the chance to cross examine at that time.

Dr. Rushing speaks to Downtown Lions

Educator and college administrator Dr. Joe B. Rushing was guest speaker Wednesday noon at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Downtown Lions Club.

Rushing, a native West Texan, has since 1965 been president of the Tarrant County Junior College System. He was named "Educator of the Year" by the Press Club of Fort Worth in 1975.

Rushing, at the outset, said his talk would be titled "Politics and People." He told Lions Club members of a trip he made in recent years to Taiwan in his capacity as a Rotary Club official.

"It is easy for us to hear news of international events and international politics, but to forget that it is living, breathing people such as you and I who are greatly affected by international politics," he said.

The educator told of the gains in education, health care and economics made by the people of the Taiwanese Chinese Republic in the past 20 to 30 years, and pointed out that the republic had received no U.S. aid, except military aid, in the last 15 years.

Now, though, since mainland (or Communist) China has been recognized by the U.S. Government as the "official" Chinese government, "What happens to the 17 million people of Taiwan who have been close friends of the U.S.?" he asked.

Without arguing the pros or cons of the U.S. government's decision to recognize Communist China, Rushing said, "We must consider the fact that our foreign policy will have an effect on many people throughout the world, even though we as Americans are not actively involved in our foreign policy or in the making of it."

Rushing was introduced at the meeting by Duke Jimerson. Also introduced at the gathering was Neda Mukhtar, an 18-year-old student from Australia who is "Lioness of the Week" for the Downtown Lions Club.

Miss Mukhtar is living with the Jimmy Floyd family, during her year as an exchange student. She is attending Midland High School.

TESCO representative hosted by Lions Club

The West Side Lions Club was to be host to a representative of Texas Electric Service Co., for a program on nuclear energy, in its regular weekly luncheon meeting today.

Presenting the nuclear energy program to club members at the meeting in the clubhouse at 3913 1/2 Thomason Drive was Shug Bowlin of Midland, an employee of TESCO.

Skylab's re-entry set sometime in late June

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's latest estimate is that the 85-ton Skylab will plunge back toward earth in late June, but still poses almost no danger to humans.

The most likely date for re-entry is June 21, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Wednesday. It said the earliest date should be June 15th and the latest July 2.

NASA says most of the house-size space station will burn up from friction, but 400 or 500 pieces will scatter over land and water along a path 4,000 miles long and 100 miles wide. It said two large chunks, each weighing about two tons, are expected to survive the plunge.

'Ada M. Phillips Day'

Today is "Ada M. Phillips Day" in the Tall City, as proclaimed officially by Midland Mayor Ernest Angelo Jr., and it would be difficult to find a person more deserving of such signal recognition than this Midland resident of more than half a century.

The occasion is sponsored by the Midland Altrusa Club as the highlight of its observance of the 62nd birthday anniversary of Altrusa International. A special program honoring Mrs. Phillips featured the club's luncheon-meeting held today noon in the Midland Hilton. It was complete with "Ada Phillips Day" cake, the reading of the mayor's proclamation; the tributes voiced by various club members, and brief verbal salutes given by her minister, neighbors and close friends.

Mrs. Phillips is a charter member of Midland Altrusa and served the chapter as president in 1953-54 after having chaired all of its committees. She also has been active at district and international levels.

But her activities are not and have not been limited solely to Altrusa. She has done so many things for so many persons here and elsewhere through the years that it would be impossible to list them all. Most of her good deeds, particularly in helping underprivileged youths and others, have been done quietly and without fanfare.

She received another noteworthy honor a number of years ago when the Midland Exchange Club recognized her for her good deeds and inscribed her name in its "Book of Golden Deeds."

A native West Texan, Mrs. Phillips was born on a ranch near Anson. She attended Simmons College, Abilene; Judson College, Marion, Ala., and George Washington University, Washington, D.C. She married the late H.N. Phillips in 1923, and they resided at Raton, N.M. for a time before moving to Midland in 1928. Mr. and Mrs. Phillips owned and operated an electrical business here for many years.

Since her retirement from active business, Mrs. Phillips has devoted practically all of her time to Altrusa and to doing historical research and writing for the Midland County Historical Society, Midland County Historical Commission and the Permian Historical Society. She presently is engaged in gathering information and assisting in writing the history of Midland County. She also aided in compiling information and writing the history of the First Baptist Church of Midland, of which she is a member and former Sunday School teacher.

It is said that Mrs. Phillips knows more about Midland County and its pioneer residents than any other one person, because of her extensive historical research. Due to her untiring efforts, most of the unmarked graves in Fairview Cemetery have been identified and proper markers erected.

Her interest, enthusiasm and determination also have been shared with the Midland County Public Library, and she was instrumental in the organization of Friends of the Library.

Yes, the honoree of this special day has been unusually busy, and remains busy, in the building of a better Midland for today and tomorrow, while at the same time recording the history of the Midland and Midlanders of years gone by.

It all boils down to the fact that Ada Phillips cares about people and is anxious to serve them and their particular needs wherever and whenever possible.

Mayor Angelo summed it up very well in his proclamation:

"Her (Mrs. Phillips) character and leadership, her foresight and wisdom have been an inspiration to those with whom she has been associated, having made herself available to friends and organizations, showing sincere interest and concern for each."

Ada Phillips is a "Top Midlander" today and every day.

Economic warfare against world

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — In a real sense, the petroleum potentates are waging economic warfare against the world. By manipulating oil production and prices, the exporting countries have inflicted severe economic damage upon the importing countries.

But it's not merely a question of dollars; the impact must also be measured in human misery. The casualties are the faceless men, women and children who endure the gnawing pains of hunger while they pray for help and hope for death. For oil has become as essential to human survival as food and water.

More than 500 million people are dangling desperately on the edge of starvation. Each oil price-rise drives up the cost of living and pushes more people off the edge. The rest sit and wait, with distended stomachs, shriveled limbs and running sores.

The oil ministers secretly agreed last month to curtail production, keep supplies scarce and permit premium pricing. This means the oil sheikdoms can ignore the announced 9 percent price increase and charge whatever the market will bear.

The United States imports most of its Middle East oil from Saudi Arabia, which can pump 10 million barrels a day. The Saudis agreed to cut back production to 8.5 million barrels. The United States also buys 45 percent of Libya's oil. The Libyans, whose wells have a daily capacity of 5 million barrels, will hold down production to around 2 million barrels.

Most of the oil sheikdoms are planning similar restrictions. This will create a contrived oil shortage and cause a scramble for the scarce supplies. Perhaps the most outspoken champion of the oil gouge has been Libya's dictator Muammar Qaddafi. I questioned him about his oil policy during a recent visit to Tripoli. He responded by comparing U.S. farms with Arabian oil wells. "Many people in the world are hungry," he said, "and they have great need for your wheat, barley, food."

He is quite correct that both food and energy are urgently needed by the world's deprived people. But unlike the oil cartel, the United States has not rigged grain prices. During the past decade, the world population has increased 20 percent but food production has gone up only 2 and a half percent. Yet the United States has not taken economic advantage of the tightening food supply.

In 1973, a bushel of wheat and a barrel of oil cost about the same — around $3. The oil potentates have arbitrarily raised the price of crude to $15 per barrel, and higher. In contrast, the price of wheat today is about $3.

Not only the underdeveloped countries but the oil nations are dependent upon U.S. grain. In 1978, the United States shipped close to 5.3 million tons of wheat and flour to the oil-producing nations. This constituted over 66 percent of the wheat consumption in the Middle East oil nations.

For this vital food, the oil nations paid $668 million — merely a drop in the barrel compared to the nearly $40 billion that the United States shelled out for 3 billion barrels of imported oil.

But if the oil squeeze is painful for Americans, it is fatal for hundreds of thousands of impoverished people who can't afford the relentless price surge.

ART BUCHWALD

It's Romeo vs. Juliet, on advice of columnist

WASHINGTON — Romeo Montague and Juliet Capulet came to see me the other day. "We want to live together," Romeo said, "but since the Lee Marvin decision Juliet wants something in writing."

"I'm not a lawyer," I warned the lovers.

"It doesn't matter," said Juliet. "Anyone can draw up a contract as long as it's witnessed. I just want some protection if I'm going to give up the best years of my life for this loser."

"Are you certain you want to live together?" I asked.

"Sure," said Romeo. "We love each other. Besides, I'm tired of washing my own socks."

"And," said Juliet, "I'm tired of working in summer stock. It will be a relief to sit at home and watch the soap operas on television."

"You both sound like you're in love. Why do you need a contract?"

Romeo said, "All that female love talk can fool you. One day it's 'I can't live without you' and the next day it's 'I'm going to take him for everything he's got.'"

Juliet said, "Men are all alike. They'll tell you anything to get their shirts ironed, but then they'll find somebody else and tell you to move out because you put too much starch in their collars. When that moment comes, I want some money to rehabilitate myself so I have the economic means to learn new employable skills."

Romeo said, "I don't mind giving her a few bucks when I get tired of her as long as she gets out of my hair."

I told them, "It sounds like you are truly crazy about each other."

Romeo said, "We are in love, but I'm not going to break my neck as an actor and give it all away just because I went nuts over some chick who looked good in the moonlight while standing on a balcony."

Juliet said, "Daddy is so mad at me for moving in with Romeo that he's cut me off without a dime. If I'm going to play housemate I want some insurance that I won't wind up working as a salesgirl in Bloomingdale's."

"Are you sure you want a contract?" I asked.

"Why do you ask the question?" Romeo demanded.

"Well, let us suppose that at some stage Romeo says, 'I can't take this woman any more. She nags worse than a fishwife.' And Juliet says, 'I'm tired of being a surrogate wife when I could be the star of the Stratford-Upon-Avon Shakespeare Festival.' If you have a contract you can't sue each other."

"That's the idea," Romeo said.

"If I don't trust him now, you can imagine my feelings about him later," Juliet said.

"I understand that," I told the lovers, "but do you realize what a lawsuit would mean? You would have worldwide notoriety. Can't you see the headlines? 'Juliet Capulet Sues Romeo Montague for $1 million. Romeo Tells Her to Take Poison.'"

"So?" Romeo said. "Who wants the publicity?"

"Don't you see the commercial value of such a suit?" I told them.

"The William Morris Agency will get a book contract for Juliet. As an actor, Romeo will be hot again and could renegotiate his contract with the Globe Theater. Juliet could go on the lecture circuit and give speeches to Women's Lib groups. Romeo could get on 60 Minutes. Your lawyer would make a mint with all the publicity he got from the case. Everybody would win on this one. A contract between the two of you would destroy any literary value your tragic romance has."

"He's right," Juliet said to Romeo. "I'll just move in with you and we'll play it by ear."

"Okay. You can hang your clothes in my closet until the bloom is off the rose," Romeo said. Then he turned to me. "If we sue, what do you want out of this?"

"Nothing," I said. "When two people are in love as much as you are, it just makes me tingle all over."

THE BIBLE CAN YOU QUOTE IT?

1. If Jezebel were around today, with her painted eyes, set hair and heavy make up, she would not be noticed in the crowd. Many writers picture her as being a lewd and licentious woman, but the Bible does not stress this. What then, were her crimes? 1 Kings 18:4-13; 21:7-9, 14.

2. To what pool did Jesus send the blind man to complete his restoration of sight? — John 9:6, 7.

3. Name one of the things listed by Paul when he concluded by saying, "If there be any virtue — think on these things." Phil. 4:8.

4. Name the 'book of the New Testament which was written to the people of Colosse (Col-LOS-see). Follows Philipians.

5. Complete: "The peace of God, which passeth all ———, Philipians 4:7. Four correct — excellent. Three correct — good."

It is time for U.S. to change policy on Rhodesia

WASHINGTON — If the success of the Rhodesian elections doesn't clear the heads of some policy-makers in this town, what will? Some 64 percent of the electorate turned out. A black majority government will take over. Election observers from other countries were very impressed, and much of the Free World is giving Rhodesia a salute.

It was a struggle for Rhodesia to hold the elections at all. For many weeks, terrorists attacked villages in order to frighten people away from voting. On election days, terrorists from the Patriotic Front opened fire several times on voters at polling stations. Altogether, nine civilians were killed, according to reports, by land mines and rifles belonging to the terrorists.

Altogether, since the country was mobilized to prepare for the elections, 230 terrorists were killed, along with 21 members of Rhodesian security forces and civilians.

The U.S. and British governments, officially cool toward this democratic enterprise by Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith, must now revise their thinking. If a Conservative government headed by Margaret Thatcher takes power, there will be a new, positive British-Rhodesian relationship which might stir the tired blood of the Englishers.

Here, a majority in Congress would like to see a new U.S. approach to Rhodesia. There is strong sentiment in both parties to lift the sanctions we have long imposed on Rhodesia.

Indeed, President Carter's hand might be forced by the Case-Javits bill's (now law) call for an end to such sanctions providing Rhodesia "demonstrates its willingness to negotiate in good faith" with all parties (including guerrillas) and also conducts "free elections observed by impartial, internationally recognized observers."

There were at least six such election inspection teams in Rhodesia, the most credible being that from Freedom House, the New York based organization which keeps watch on the state of political freedom and civil liberties in the world.

There were two American blacks on the Freedom House team — Prof. Maurice Woodward of Howard University, and Bayard Rustin, a long-time civil rights leader. Rustin vowed that if the vote turnout was big, "I would work with a number of major organizations to try and get American policy reversed. I will certainly go to the President and Congress and present my report and do what lobbying I can to do to bring about a change in policy."

Rustin, while noting the new Rhodesian constitution is not ideal, said "neither was the American Constitution" when established (it excluded blacks, women and the poor from voting), and "did not contain a Bill of Rights."

Allard Lowenstein, who has worked the liberal-Democratic side of the American political street for many years as a reformer, and even dissident, was also a member of the Freedom House team. He remarked, "I don't think that anybody who's been here can doubt that a very large number of Africans wanted to be part of this process."

Rhodesian blacks had the most to fear and the most to gain from the elections. Besides the threat from immediate assault by terrorists, there was also the vow of guerrilla leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, to one day punish those supporting the elections.

Last November, Mugabe's headquarters issued, in his name, a list of 50 black Rhodesian leaders who would be executed if they did not resign their positions in the Rhodesian government. They were called "opportunistic running-dogs."

What Rhodesian blacks gain is a black-dominated government (whites keep 28 percent of the parliamentary seats), a black prime minister, a chance for a middle-way between totalitarianism of the kind the African Marxist-Leninist regimes practice and the old colonial system. By any measure, black Rhodesians will be far better off living under a government and in a society which is majority black, but with an important white influence.

The Patriotic Front terrorists offer no elections, only the Communist line, and totalitarianism. Mozambique and Zambia, the nations which host these killers, get the poorest marks from Freedom House for political rights and civil liberties. Rhodesia, no hotbed of democracy, is regarded on the upswing, however, by Freedom House. This election should improve their rating considerably.

If President Carter sticks with the foolish, narrow approach to Africa which U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young espouses, then U.S. policy is moribund indeed. Young is charmed by slick characters like Nkomo and Mugabe, just as CBS's Dan Rather was on Sixty Minutes' last week. Both should go out and see photos or the bodies of all the men, women and children these charming butchers have killed over the years.

The vast majority of these bodies are black, just as were the vast majority of those people who voted in last week's Rhodesian elections.

How many tax refunds go to fictitious people?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service has "a pretty good handle" on the problem of fraudulent tax refund schemes despite not knowing exactly how common the fraud is, says IRS Commissioner Jerome Kurtz.

In congressional testimony Wednesday, Kurtz said a special program set up by his agency has had some success in detecting the refund schemes that are estimated to cost the government millions of dollars a year.

However, he conceded that the IRS cannot be sure how many refund checks, totaling $33 billion, that it sends out each year go to fictitious persons.

"Just as we cannot audit every tax return which should be audited... we cannot assure that every fraudulent refund claim is identified," he said. "The sheer volume of refunds makes that impossible."

The schemes involve the filing of income tax returns under fictitious names and using phony W-2 forms that list money never actually withheld.

Kurtz said that since 1977, a special IRS program has identified questionable returns claiming about $9.4 million in tax refunds and that 73 people have been sentenced to prison terms averaging 27 months.

Although refusing to give details of the detection program, Kurtz said it selects out phony refund claims by checking for unusual characteristics in the returns and matching W-2 forms against income data from legitimate employers.

Kurtz also told the House Government Operations' commerce subcommittee that the problem of fraudulent tax refund claims is "infinitesimal" compared with other IRS problems, such as detecting cheating on the 90 million individual tax returns that it receives each year.

However, Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., subcommittee chairman, said serious gaps remain in the IRS program for detecting fraudulent return claims. He also criticized Kurtz' testimony as vague.

"Maybe we should put down on our tax returns that we generally made a little less than we did last year which was a little better than the year before," Rosenthal said.

"That would be selected out," countered Kurtz. "I doubt it," responded Rosenthal.

Monahans death self-induced, JP determines

MONAHANS — The death of a man in the Monahans city jail early Saturday resulted from strangulation by self-induced hanging, Peace Justice L.A. Wester ruled Wednesday.

Norman Douglas Moore, 26, of Monahans was discovered hanging from his belt connected to the bars of his cell door shortly after midnight, police reported.

Police Chief Joe Drea said the patrolman who discovered Moore immediately cut the body down and began to use resuscitation procedures while calling for assistance.

Wester pronounced the man dead at 12:20 a.m., after efforts to revive him failed.

Wester said there were no marks or bruises on the body, and the cause of death was listed as strangulation.

Monahans police department has had a policy for some months regarding the removal of prisoner's belts, Drea said, terming Moore's case an "oversight."

Moore was booked in city jail at 10 p.m. Friday on misdemeanor charges of public intoxication and disorderly conduct. He was the only prisoner in the jail, according to Drea.

Appointments made

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements announced the appointment Wednesday of Dr. Richard Ragsdale of Denton to the State Board of Health.

Ragsdale, 56, will succeed Dr. Phillip Lewis of Houston for a term extending to Feb. 1, 1985.

Other appointments by Clements included Dr. Ruth Bain of Austin to the State Board of Medical Examiners; John Underwood of Austin to the Texas Industrial Commission; and William Nikolis of Carrollton to the Texas Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations.

Dear Midlander:

The final decision concerning Plan "O" has not been made. True, we voted 5 to 1 against the proposal to consolidate our schools, but the only vote that counts is the vote by the school board. Ed Runyan is a leader in the fight against Plan "O". Ed is in a close run-off election April 28th. Make sure he is re-elected to the board to vote against Plan "O". Vote Saturday and vote for Edward E. Runyan School Board Place 6 on April 28th.

Watch Ed Runyan on Channel 2-Thursday and Friday at 5:25 P.M., and Channel 7 at 5:25 Thursday and Friday at 10:30 p.m.

Sincerely,

Larry McIntosh

Schwartz predicts university funding fight

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN—Senate Education Committee members have hammered out a compromise that may eventually mean millions of dollars in extra funding for The University of Texas Permian Basin, but even the proposal's author is dissatisfied and predicted a major floor fight.

"No one is satisfied with everything that's in this bill, but unless we act today we may lose the whole ball of wax," said Galveston Sen. Babe Schwartz as he pleaded with committee members to approve his constitutional amendment that will make Permanent University Funds available to all UT and Texas A&M facilities including UT Permian Basin.

PUF is a constitutional fund with vast land holdings that generate $70 million per year in leases and oil and gas royalties. Currently, that money is earmarked for exclusive use by a few designated branches at UT and Texas A&M. The proposed amendment spreads the fund to all UT and A&M facilities, expands the use to which the interest money may be put to include purchase of library books as well as construction and increases bonding authority to 30 percent of the fund's assets.

Additionally, the bill abolishes the 10-cent state property tax currently based to fund construction at 17 other state-supported colleges, and replaces it with a dedicated fund drawn from general revenue.

However, disagreement over the new funding provision has delayed this bill in committee since Jan. 31 and remains unresolved with the Schwartz compromise. Schwartz predicted the matter would be resolved in a floor fight.

State college presidents have proposed replacing the lost property tax funds with a new fund controlled by them and constitutionally set at no less than $41 million per year.

"That goes too far and seeks too much," said Schwartz.

Under the Schwartz amendment, the Legislature would retain control, with colleges receiving 5.1 percent of the total amount appropriated to them by formula for operating expenses. In 1980 that would be $28.9 million.

Both Schwartz and Sen. Bob Vale emphasized that with the escalator clauses built into the funding formula, the amount would increase with inflation.

But Midland Sen. Pete Snelson attacked the proposal, saying that colleges would only get enough money "to build one wing of a building at a time."

Snelson was concerned that, unlike the current system where colleges can issue bonds based on projected revenues from the tax, the proposed amendment limits the schools to pay-as-you-go basis.

"No one school would get enough to build a building, they'd have to save up over ten years," complained Snelson.

Also opposed to the amendment was committee chairman Oscar Mauzy, Dallas, who objected to creating a new dedicated fund for the colleges and to another provision, increasing the bonding authority for PUF.

"There's another way to deal with this, we can vote out SJR 15," said Mauzy, referring to legislation by San Antonio Sen. Glenn Kothman that simply abolishes the 10-cent property tax without making new provisions for funding construction. Taking Mauzy's advice, the committee approved the Kothman amendment.

The committee action came after several weeks of considering various proposals to abolish the 10-cent tax, the only property tax collected by the state. That tax is now under court challenge, and Schwartz predicted that unless the Legislature acts, a judge will declare it unconstitutional.

Midlanders reach state competition

Six students from Midland's two high schools have moved to the state 5-4A University Interscholastic League literary competition.

Qualifying at the regional meet in Lubbock recently, the students will compete for state honors May 3-5 on The University of Texas campus at Austin.

Lee High School's Mike Shaunessy received the only first place award in the group. Shaunessy's top rating was in informative speaking.

A second place award went to Pete Marshall, also of Lee, for headline writing.

Third place honors went to Kirk Beveridge of Midland High School for headline writing, and Lee High School's Jim Bynum for prose and Kelley Osborn for editorial writing.

MHS's Jane Forsyth was a finalist in persuasive speaking.

Bill protects certain fish

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — It would be illegal for trawlers to keep redfish and spotted sea trout caught in their nets in Texas bays between Dec. 16 and Feb. 28 each year under a bill up for final passage in the House today.

House members tentatively approved the bill on voice vote Wednesday.

Rep. Ed Watson, D-Deer Park, said the Senate-passed bill (SB64) recognized the fact that during cold weather, redfish and sea trout seek out deep holes in the bays.

"Fish tend to congregate in one particular place, and the shrimp trawlers take them all," Watson said.

House studying bargaining bill for farm workers

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A mechanism for Texas agriculture workers and farm owners to bargain collectively on wages and working conditions would be established under a House bill studied Wednesday.

Rep. A.C. Garcia said his proposal would raise the standard of living for impoverished Texas farmworkers.

At the same time, representatives of citrus and vegetable growers and the Texas Farm Bureau lodged protests against the bill.

Speaking before the House Agriculture and Livestock Committee, Garcia, D-Pharr, said the bill "will change the philosophy of the working man."

Garcia and Rep. Paul Moreno, D-El Paso, are sponsoring the legislation, which would set up a three-member agriculture labor relations board to govern union elections and monitor complaints from workers and farm owners.

"The bill would establish the mechanism for workers and farmers to get together and work out a just and fair contract," Garcia said.

The bill is aimed at large agri-businesses and would exclude the small family farm, he added.

Alfredo de Avila, a representative of the Texas Farm Workers Union, said, "We will no longer accept the myth that agriculture is small business," he added. "It is the biggest business in Texas and in the United States."

Contending that agri-businesses avoid minimum wage laws by paying on a "piece-rate basis," Avila said the average farmworker's salary in South Texas ranges from $1,700 to $2,400.

Sickle cell experts discourage many transfusions

WASHINGTON (AP) — There should be a major study of the effects of sickle cell disease on pregnancy before doctors regularly give disease victims blood transfusions to ward off childbearing complications, says a group of specialists.

Too little is known about using transfusions or blood replacement in these women to say that potential benefits outweigh potential risks of therapy, experts concluded this week at a National Institutes of Health conference.

There is some evidence that transfusions or blood replacement may help the woman and her child, and doctors have been adopting the practice.

The conference of sickle cell experts said the most prudent course would be for the National Sickle Cell Disease Program to establish a task force to design a nationwide study of the technique.

Dr. Clarice Reid, program director, said the task force should be able to design a clinical study in less than a year. To cut cost and time, it may be possible to make this part of an existing study of the disease involving 15 medical centers and 23 hospitals, she said.

The conference is the latest in a series to examine a variety of present and potential medical practices and to develop a consensus of experts on how these practices can best be used.

Sickle cell disease is a collection of incurable, hereditary disorders of the red blood cell. The painful, chronic and often-fatal disease primarily affects blacks, but some whites of southern European origin have similar disorders.

Because of a defect in hemoglobin molecules of the blood, normally round and soft red cells become rigid and take on a distorted, sickle shape. These sickle cells are less efficient in carrying necessary oxygen and also clog small blood vessels, causing periodic painful "crises" and organ damage.

Blood transfusions offer temporary relief of painful sickle cell symptoms by diluting the concentration of defective red cells.

Liquor dispute settled by party — not divorce

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Instead of getting a divorce over liquor, Phyllis and George Evans say they'll "have a great big party."

The state attorney general's office says they don't have to dissolve their marriage in order for Mrs. Evans to keep her state liquor license.

In an opinion written for the Washington State Liquor Control Board and released Tuesday, Deputy Attorney General Philip Austin said Mrs. Evans won't lose the beer and wine license for her Allentown Superette south of Seattle just because her husband is a beer truck driver.

State liquor laws say no one with a financial interest in liquor wholesaling can have an interest in retail outlets and Austin's opinion came in the nick of time for the Evanses.

"Thank goodness!" said Mrs. Evans, 34. "We were going ahead with our divorce, thinking it would be several years before we got a ruling. Our divorce would have been final the first of June."

In his opinion, Austin said, "a mere salaried beer truck driver" has no direct financial interest in the wholesaling firm, Sid Eland Co.

Evans does not make commissions and his paycheck does not amount to a wholesaler illegally giving money to a retailer, Austin said.

He also said a married couple could get around the liquor laws by drawing up separate property agreements.

Austin said a couple from Burien is suing the board rather than seeking a divorce. Gerald Junt has an interest in a distributing company and his wife works in a meat department of a supermarket where beer and wine are sold.

A third case that has drawn publicity involves Patricia and Lowen Clausen of Seattle. Mrs. Clausen wants to open a Danish restaurant and serve beer and wine. But her husband is a Seattle policeman, and the board has denied her a license, saying her husband enforces liquor laws.

The Clausens say they'll divorce and live together in hopes of getting a license that way, like the Evanses had planned.

The latest attorney general's opinion does not solve either the Junt or Clausen situations.

"I was so against getting a divorce, even though we were going to keep on living together," Mrs. Evans said. "It isn't the same. It isn't easy to think about divorcing someone you love."

"I'd be giving up emotional security, plus I couldn't be on my husband's insurance policy anymore."

The woman owned her riverfront "hole-in-the-wall" market before she married Evans, 44.

After the board said the Evanses appeared to be running afoul of state liquor laws, the couple began a year-long legal battle.

"I felt my rights were taken away," Mrs. Evans said. "I guess I should have gone down and asked the board whom I could marry."

A Safeway service in support of suggestions from the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs

INFLATION FIGHTING ideas

1. "What's in a Name?"

The U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs states: "Most large supermarket chains sell private label foods and household products. These private label or house brands are usually less expensive and equal in quality to national brands. In many cases, supermarkets purchase their house brand goods from the same companies that manufacture nationally advertised brands."

Because of various cost savings, including lower promotional cost, house brands can be sold for less.

Safeway generally prices its own top-quality (S) Brands lower than national brands of comparable quality and you can always depend on their consistently high quality. Every (S) Brand is unconditionally guaranteed to please.

Each product in the entire (S) Brand line is identified with the red (S) and the words "FINEST SAFEWAY QUALITY." Rigid quality specifications must be met before the familiar (S) goes on the label. Customers acquainted with (S) Brands know the products are comparable to top national brands... but they cost less.

Get to know Safeway's family of (S) Brands, including Town House, Bel-air, Lucerne, Edwards, Safeway, Mrs. Wright's, and many others. They're your staunch allies in the battle against inflation!

Fortune passed by Drumright

DRUMRIGHT — Drumright never boomed.

Glasscock County rancher Vic E. Phillips remembers that very well. It just fizzled.

Some other Texas oil-boom camps and towns, such as Texon, Best and Crossett, however, did flourish...at least for awhile. But today, they are nothing more than names, rubble and memories.

Drumright faltered. Others, though, fared well: Borger, McCamey, Mexia, Kilgore, Gladewater, Cisco, Ranger.

The "glory" that never was eluded Drumright.

Phillips can tell you that. And just like the oil, fortune passed by Drumright about 50 years ago.

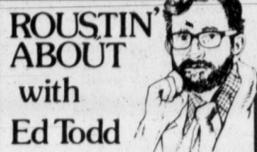

Drumright was the namesake of a "rowdy" and "real old shoot-'em-up boom town" in Oklahoma.

Drumright, Okla., (population 3,500) gushed oil in the 1910s and is still producing. It has cattle and farming on the side.

In West Texas, oil men and investors, dreaming of get-rich-quick schemes, just knew a vein of oil — like a motherlode of gold — would be along a route passing through northern Glasscock County.

Phillips was here then. So, in 1928, they laid out a townsite for the hordes of oilfield workers, drummers, merchants, opportunists and riff-raff that naturally came with new-found (or imagined) prosperity.

IT NEVER happened. "There was no oil here," said

ROUSTIN ABOUT with Ed Todd

Phillips, who has lived on this land most of his 72 years. He said the vein of oil pockets "sort of made a jog" and bypassed Drumright.

"They were all sitting for it, at least," he said of the disappointed souls.

Drumright, which was named by oil well drillers from Oklahoma, lost out in the main. Nevertheless, the place did get some side business from oilfields just north of here.

"There was a warehouse, boot-legger, dance hall and a little cafe" mixed in with some of the sheet-rock shacks here, Phillips recalled.

He worked in the oil fields and for awhile lived in the tin and then ex-bawdy house after it was changed over to a rooming house after the "boom" fizzled.

"WHEN THE DRILLERS left, the whores left," Phillips said. Few folks live out here now, but those who do either farm or ranch or drive into the ranching community of Garden City, which is 17 to 20 miles south of here, to work.

"Naw," said Phillips, "there ain't been people out here for years, as far as that matters."

There is, however, an old run-down community center where the folks from miles around come to square-dance every now and then and to vote in elections. And the old Panther Draw School once somewhere around here has long since burned down.

The weathered skeleton of an old house and shack, where Phillips said a school bus driver once lived, barely remains.

Phillips' father, J.J. Phillips, was one of the early Glasscock County ranchers "who ranched all over this country." He drove a flock of sheep and probably a few cattle from Bosque County in Central Texas to Glasscock County at age 14 in 1882 and shot a few buffaloes on the open range. His folks came to Texas from Missouri.

"I'll tell you how close he came to being born in Texas," Phillips said of his father. "He was bred in Missouri and born in Texas. That's what he said."

AFTER LEAVING home, Vic E. Phillips struck out on his own, found himself "riding the range" in West Texas for $35 a month and supporting a wife and two kids. (A third child came along later.)

Even when the Depression set in, Phillips stuck with grubbing on his own, though he could have eked out a living working in Franklin Roosevelt's WPA (Work Projects Administration) in the New Deal. "I had too much pride to get on that."

Afterward, Phillips gave up cowboying and starting working in the oil patch for the likes of Magnolia, Sun, Humble and Shell Oil companies and was "ranching on the side."

"I've done all the hard work they (the oil companies) had to do until I finally made pumper," he said.

When 1941 rolled around, Phillips gave up oilfield work and opted to ranch fulltime. He was confident in himself and in the land.

"I had everything figured out but the drought.

SOMETHING ELSE happened. He lost his lease and "had to sell out, went to Brownfield (for six years) and came back home to starve."

He and the wife, Marguerite, operated a motel at Brownfield beginning in 1946.

"We made good money, but you sure can go through a lot of grief with those suckers," he said.

In 1952, they returned to Drumright "to starve."

Since then, he's been ranching. And his wife, in her duties in the art of homemaking, works a vegetable garden out back of their isolated red-brick house with the wood shingles and the wooden sign that simply says "Suits Us."

NOWADAYS, Phillips runs cattle on "barely a section" and picks up his cattle feed at a mill at Snyder.

"I just don't do practically nothing," Phillips said, as he was taking a break from unloading 50-pound feed sacks from his open-trailer and stacking them under shelter.

The greenest things around were mesquite trees, and his overgrazed grass land was in need of moisture. "I need a rain. If I could get a rain, I would quit," he speculated.

"I'm supposed to be retired. I've become a man of my own" after 72 years. "I've come of age."

His tales notwithstanding, Phillips owns up to having a "good life" and not doing so poorly after all.

"I never did go broke. I was so tight, I never could go broke." The only thing that really went broke here, it seems, was Drumright itself.

Attorneys for LCRA seek rehearing

AUSTIN — Attorneys for the Lower Colorado River Authority (LCRA) Wednesday filed a petition for a rehearing with the Texas Water Commission on the proposed Stacy Reservoir.

Stacy Dam reservoir would supply water to Midland, Odessa, Big Spring and several other West Texas towns.

The LCRA is contesting construction of Stacy Dam and the 554,340-acre-foot reservoir on the grounds that it will deplete water supplies downstream, according to the petition.

The water commission ruled April 10 that the Colorado River Municipal Water District could begin construction on the dam and reservoir.

CRMWD General Manager O.H. Ivie said Wednesday that the district would reply to the motion.

The petition for a rehearing is the first step in the appeal process by LCRA to fight the project. The LCRA was one of the principal opponents to the $60 million project in the hearing before the Texas Water Commission.

The LCRA contends that building the reservoir will impair existing water rights and that there is not enough existing water to support the reservoir.

The appeal process could place the fate of the reservoir in hold for the next three years.

This old shack, tool shed or smokehouse is falling apart, as it weathers rather poorly in the forsaken community of Drumright — in northeast Glasscock County and near the Howard County line.

TODAY'S REALITY

TRS-80 16K LEVEL II

TRS-80 system shown here can:

- Help manage your budget
- Teach BASIC* programming
- Store and update mailing lists
- Entertain with exciting games
- And much, much more!

* BASIC is the simplified, English-based computer language used by TRS-80

Add hardware and the proper programs, and the TRS-80 will keep a 100-account general ledger with up to 1800 entries per month. It can control a 1000-item inventory, providing a wealth of valuable management information, calculate and print paychecks, pay your bills, or prepare monthly statements. Use Radio Shack's programs or create your own.

A dream-come-true

A computer publication recently stated that Radio Shack's $4000 expanded system with printer and disk memory compares very favorably with the early 1970's IBM offerings in the $120,000 range. And the heart of that system is our Level II 16K TRS-80 pictured. Just $988. And easily expandable to include printers, disk memory and more when you need it.

Where the dream begins...

Available now from most Radio Shack stores and participating dealers. What can you do with the TRS-80? Well, that's your own private dream!

Bingo!

Bill to legalize numbers game to be submitted to Texas voters

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Bingo supporters hit the jackpot Wednesday in the House as representatives approved a constitutional amendment that would legalize the numbers game.

"This simply gives the people of Texas an opportunity to vote on legalizing bingo," said Rep. Lloyd Criss, D-LaMarque. "The current law is completely unenforceable and we all know it."

Representatives adopted the Senate-approved constitutional amendment on a 103-37 vote. Senators will be asked to approve House changes or a conference committee will be appointed to work out the differences. If approved by the Legislature, Texans will vote on legalizing bingo Nov. 4, 1980.

The Texas Constitution prohibits bingo as an illegal lottery. Some churches and charitable organizations have ignored the ban and left law enforcement officers in a quandry.

Police and sheriff's deputies have said they are forced to break up church bingo games if they bust organized crime-run operations.

Elderly Texans should be able legally to enjoy bingo at churches and veterans' halls, supporters said.

"Senior citizens have written me saying, 'We have very little else to do in life. We enjoy the time-consuming game of bingo. Please let us do it legally,'" said Rep. Chris Semos, D-Dallas.

Rep. Robert Bush said he had never voted for bingo previously but had to reconsider after visiting his district for Easter.

"An elderly woman came up to me and asked, 'Why do you always vote against bingo?'" said Bush, D-Sherman. "She said, 'We used proceeds from our bingo game to send to the tornado victims in Wichita Falls.'"

Bush persuaded his colleagues to place "safeguard" provisions in the Senate measure. He said the changes would:

— Allow local option elections to permit bingo within a county, justice of the peace precinct or municipality.

— Require reports to be filed with the state comptroller on revenues from bingo games and how the funds were spent.

— Mandate criminal or civil penalties to enforce the reporting requirement.

If voters approve the constitutional amendment, the Legislature would have to enact a law detailing the enforcement requirements before bingo could be conducted legally.

Opponents assailed the measure as the first step toward legalizing all gambling.

"Is it right to single out one game and say gambling on that one game is legal?" asked Rep. Ed Emmett, D-Kingwood. "I don't think that's a proper public policy."

Restrictions approved by both the House and Senate include requirements that:

— Games be conducted only by churches, synagogues, religious societies, volunteer fire departments, nonprofit veterans organizations, fraternal organizations or groups supporting medical research.

— All proceeds be spent in Texas for charitable purposes.

— Bingo be held in only one location for each group.

— Only representatives of the approved groups conduct the games.

Quick compromise expected on initiative, referendum

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A House subcommittee will waste no time in forging a compromise out of several initiative and referendum proposals, a committee chairman has predicted.

"This is an issue the people of Texas are demanding and I agree with the governor that this is something the people should have a chance to decide," said Rep. Al Brown, chairman of the House Constitutional Amendments Committee.

The committee heard testimony Wednesday on 10 proposed changes to the constitution that would allow Texans to write laws at the ballot box and veto bills passed by the Legislature. An eleventh measure would limit citizen input to a non-binding petition submitted to the Legislature.

Brown, D-San Antonio, sent the measures to a subcommittee and said it would report back "just as fast as one can work."

Initiative and referendum rank high on Gov. Bill Clements' list of legislative priorities. Twenty-three states have a form of the procedure. Californians used the method to roll back taxes last summer via Proposition 13.

Among the varied proposals is one by Rep. Don Cartwright, D-San Antonio, for indirect initiative and referendum. Under his measure, initiative petitions would go the Legislature.

If legislators favored an alternative, both measures would be voted upon in the next general election.

Most witnesses favored any form of initiative and referendum.

"Taxpayers simply feel they have the right to initiate their own tax relief because big government will not do it," said Waggoner Carr of Texas 13.

The former attorney general favored requiring at least 15 percent of turnout in the previous gubernatorial election as a minimum on petitions to start the initiative process.

California requires only a 5 percent minimum of the last election to change laws and an 8 percent minimum to reword the state constitution.

"In Texas, 15 percent would be 375,000 minimum signatures," he said. "That would eliminate the frivolous measures such as they're having in California."

Opponents included Harry Hubbard, president of the Texas AFL-CIO.

"Initiative, referendum and recall are all forms of direct law writing by the individual with little regard for the consequences involved," said Hubbard.

"Rich and power individuals and corporations will control initiative, referendum and recall drives because the individual citizen will not be able to compete against such wealth," Hubbard added. "For example, in the recent general election in California, tobacco companies spent millions to defeat a smoker's referendum."

Corporations benefited the most from Proposition 13 tax cuts, he added.

House won't outlaw income tax

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas House has failed by two votes to approve a constitutional amendment outlawing a state personal income tax. The tally Wednesday was 98-38.

It was the third time that Rep. Al Brown, D-San Antonio, had failed to muster the required 100 votes to send the measure (HJR102) to the Senate, and under House rules it is dead.

Gov. Bill Clements had included a constitutional prohibition against the income tax in his legislative program.

On his two previous attempts, Brown mustered 99 votes and 86 votes for the measure.

In an effort to put the measure over the top, Brown agreed to removal of a provision banning a corporate profits tax as well as a personal income tax.

Rep. John Bryant, D-Dallas, an opponent of the constitutional change, sought to add a provision allowing a personal income tax if the state used the money to replace state and local property taxes.

"It is wrong for a person with $200,000 worth of property and very little income to pay all the taxes and a person with a $200,000 income and no property to pay very little taxes," Bryant said.

Bryant's amendment failed, 76-62. Brown said a constitutional ban on the income tax would be a gift to future generations.

"We wouldn't be putting on the young people, the future leaders of our state, a personal income tax ... One of the things that has made our state great ... is the fact we don't have a personal income tax," he said. "Don't you think we ought to let that generation decide for themselves?" asked Rep. Ron Coleman, D-El Paso.

"The very fact the Legislature would be empowered to do that (pass an income tax) makes me nervous, and at my age, it's not good for me to be that nervous," replied Brown.

Rep. Paul Moreno, D-El Paso, a paraplegic in a wheelchair, told the House, "I favor a personal income tax."

Moreno said he was proud "when I become able to earn an income to start repaying what the government had done for me."

Senators tentatively approved, 15-13, a bill requiring insurance companies to pay benefits when a chiropractor renders services covered by health and accident policies.

The Senate passed and sent to the governor on voice vote bills that would:

— Require hospitals and doctors to report all cancer cases to the State Health Department, including treatments used and results of follow-up examinations. The department would serve as a state cancer registry and would publish data for use by doctors in treating the disease.

— Allow cystic fibrosis patients to continue receiving state health services past the age of 21.

The House approved, 103-37, a constitutional amendment making it illegal to bet on bingo games as long as local voters approved and the games were held for the benefit of churches and charities.

Senators now must decide whether to approve changes made in the measure (SJR18) by the House. If the Senate approves the revisions, the voters will make the final decision on bingo in 1980.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill (HB8) allowing teachers to suspend from their classes, for up to a full semester or quarter, students who assault them or repeatedly disrupt.

Lobbyists for teachers say the bill is needed because principals and other administrators sometimes fail to back them up on discipline.

Also sent to the Senate, 88-34, was a bill creating a state-operated college student loan guarantee system.

Sponsors hope the bill would encourage loans by private lenders, such as banks, that quit making student loans out of dissatisfaction with the federal guarantee program.

House members also killed two bills.

One (HB431) would have prohibited any further purchases of agricultural land by foreign investors.

The other (HB1291) would have required pharmacists to take refresher courses each year as a condition for renewal of their licenses.

Texas Senate panel delivers on United Parcel Service bill

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A bill that would let the Texas Railroad Commission rule on United Parcel Service's request to deliver packages in Texas is ready for debate in the Senate.

The bill was approved 7-4 Wednesday by the Senate State Affairs Committee.

"Since 1966, the Railroad Commission has indicated it does not have the authority to handle permits for a restricted parcel motor carrier," said Sen. Ed Howard, D-Texas. "All we are doing is telling the commission they do have the authority. Any applicant will still have to show a public need and prove it should get a permit."

Prior to the decision, several witnesses representing truck carriers, bus companies and postal workers said granting UPS a permit would hurt the truck companies, the bus companies and the parcel post service.

On Monday, supporters of the bill testified it was needed in Texas.

United Parcel Service picks up and delivers packages door-to-door. It currently can deliver package between Texas and other states and within three exempt commercial zones — Houston, Dallas and San Antonio.

The Railroad Commission held recently that under present law UPS is an "irregular route carrier with irregular schedules" and not subject to commission jurisdiction.

Wine bill gets OK

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Senate State Affairs Committee gave the go-ahead Wednesday for expansion plans of Texas' wine business.

The committee approved 7-0 and sent to the floor for debate a bill eliminating class designations for winery permits and allowing wineries to sell directly to retail consumers.

"We have the weather and market here," said Gretchen Glasscock, San Antonio, of the Glasscock Vineyards.

"With proper incentive and promotion we could, within a few years, be producing wines equal to the best in Europe," she said. "In 10 years we could capture the wine market that California has today."

The bill, by Sen. John Traeger, D-Seguin, provides that wineries in a "dry" area would not be able to sell wine to customers in that area but only to permittees from "wet" areas.

Ethnic performance set Tuesday night

The Lamanite Generation, a show made up of talented Latin American, Polynesian and native American students at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, will be seen in a special performance in Midland next week.

The 8 p.m. Tuesday performance will be in Chaparral Center at Midland College. General admission tickets are priced $4 for adults and older students and $2 for students 6 to 11 years of age. Children under age 6 will be admitted free when accompanied by an adult.

ENTERTAINMENT

The tickets are now on sale at the Chaparral Center box office, in addition to Looney Tunes at 3302 W. Illinois Ave., Riggan's Jewelry stores in both Plaza Center and San Miguel Square, and Dahhken in the Town and Country shopping center.

The Lamanite performing ensemble was created in 1971 when Janie Thompson, current director of the troupe, envisioned an Indian performing ensemble presenting traditional dances and songs in colorful native costumes, combined with contemporary, original songs.

"I saw the show as a way for the Indian people to express themselves to American audiences in a way far different than the usual image conveyed by 'western' movies," she said. "It was an opportunity for exceptionally talented students to show America and the world a culture too often forgotten in the 20th Century."

Last year, the Lamanite Generation traveled through Sweden, Norway, Finland and Denmark, presenting 26 performances to more than 58,000 people. On that same tour, the group was featured at the famous Rebild Festival in Denmark. This festival is the largest Independence Day celebration held outside the United States and is staged annually to celebrate the friendship between Denmark and the U.S.

The talented ensemble consists of 40 singers, dancers and musicians representing some 20 different tribes and nationalities. Members of the troupe believe that native Americans, Polynesians and Latin Americans are distantly related; for this reason, the ensemble chose the name "Lamanite," a Book of Mormon term which refers to this common ancestry.

Polynesian students Kathy Kokens and Lynn Laeha, members of the Lamanite Generation performing ensemble at Brigham Young University, entertain audiences with the graceful songs and dances of the Pacific islands. The ensemble, made up of native American, Polynesian and Latin American students, will perform in Midland College's Chaparral Center at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Two artists display paintings at gallery

New paintings by Endre Szabo and Ferenc Daday, a pair of internationally-known artists, will be shown Friday in Midland's Hanging Tree Gallery, 3201 N. Big Spring St.

The public is invited to view the art collection between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. Friday, and to meet the artists who will be in the gallery during those hours, said gallery director Carol Swain.

Szabo's field of painting is portraiture and character compositions. In South America, where he resided in various countries for a number of years, he did portraits of presidents, high-level government officials, diplomats and religious leaders. Since coming to the U.S. in 1960, his interest has focused on character compositions, mostly in Western art. Szabo began his formal art education at the Academy of Fine Art in Budapest, Hungary. He later continued his studies in Italy. Szabo's paintings are recognized as capturing the spiritual depth and character of his subjects. His technique has been likened to that of the Old Masters.

Ferenc Daday got his formal art education at the Royal Academy of Art in Budapest.

The first step in his distinguished career was in the cinematic arts, creating set designs for the Hunnia film studios in Budapest. At the same time, he also was participating in the national art exhibitions in Budapest's Museum of Fine Arts and the National Gallery of Hungary.

In 1948, Daday was invited to Argentina to paint murals in many of the public buildings in Buenos Aires and elsewhere in that nation.

In 1955, Daday came to the U.S. and established a studio in Burbank, Calif., to serve as a permanent base.

Probably the greatest honor of his career was his appointment to a Presidential advisory committee on the arts and to the advisory committee of the John F. Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C.

In his paintings, Daday finds his inspiration in the solitude and grandeur of North America, from the magnificent landscapes of Alaska and the East and West coasts, to the tranquility of the Pacific Islands.

Gene Tierney reveals life

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The cool beauty of Gene Tierney haunted Dana Andrews and millions of movie fans in "Laura" (1944). Now 58, and married to Houston oil man Howard Lee, she remains a beautiful woman. In her new autobiography, "Self-portrait," she discloses the life of a movie star is "no bed of roses" (the title of Joan Fontaine's recent memoirs).

Miss Tierney has endured more than her share of woes: Ruinous romances, failed marriage, family squabbles (her own father sued her), birth of a retarded child, mental breakdowns. With collaborator Mickey Herskowitz, she tells of such things — as well as the joyful aspects of her life — with candor, perception and no hint of self-pity.

Much of the Tierney saga has been known.

Currier and Ives prints on view

LUBBOCK — America as it was a hundred or more years ago will be portrayed in an exhibition of Currier and Ives lithographic prints now on view at The Museum of Texas Tech University.

The collection of 125 Currier and Ives prints went on display Wednesday and will remain on view through May 30. The museum is open to the public without charge weekdays and Sunday afternoons.

The print exhibition is from the Esmark collection of more than 600 Currier and Ives originals made between 1835 and 1890. The collection was assembled over a 30-year period by Mr. and Mrs. Roy King of New York City and was acquired by Esmark Inc., a Chicago holding company, in celebration of the nation's Bicentennial. Four touring exhibits from the vast collection are being circulated to major art museums and outstanding university art centers in the U.S., and to institutions in Asian, African and European countries.

Currier and Ives prints are considered historically important because they record many events of early American history, before photography was developed or came into widespread use. When an important or interesting 19th Century event took place, a print was likely to have been commissioned.

Other than historical events, the prints depict almost every phase of American life — such as hunting, fishing, whaling, lumbering — and the prints portray steamboats, railroads, the great clipper ships, rural scenes and urban views.

Many outstanding artists of the time were employed to create the original prints. George Catlin, specialist in Plains Indians, was one of the artists, as were political cartoonists Thomas Nast, Louis Maurer and Eastman Johnson. Fanny Palmer was the most prolific of the Currier and Ives artists.

The vast output — close to 7,000 prints — of Currier and Ives works provides some of the greatest sources of color impressions of early America, but the development of practical, mass-produced photographs in the 1880's gradually diminished public interest in the lithographs. The Currier and Ives company ceased printing their famous lithographs in 1907.

UTPB to carry 'Burdens'

ODESSA — A dramatization of three short stories by the late British author Katherine Mansfield is scheduled for chamber theater performances this weekend at The University of Texas at the Permian Basin.

The Friday and Saturday performances will begin at 8 p.m. in Room 383 of the UTPB main building. Sponsored by The Great Pretenders, the UTPB drama club, the dramatization is titled "Velvet Burdens" and utilizes Mansfield stories titled "The Garden Party," "Her First Ball" and "The Singing Lesson."

"In chamber theater, the narrator gives the audience the chance to hear the thoughts of the character — quite different from conventional theater," said Dr. Jill Taft-Kaufman, assistant professor of communication and literature at UTPB. She said that sets and costumes are suggested, and the audience sees within a character because the drama is depicted in ways other than normal dialogue. The audience learns about the characters because their thoughts are read as they are in a short story. "You get more than simple dialogue and action," she explained.

"Staging emphasizes the narrator's relationship to the characters. If the narrator can see into the mind of a character, for example, he might stand close to the character," she added.

Students who are enrolled in Speech 406 — Readers Theater — at UTPB make up the cast of "Velvet Burdens," with several other UTPB students added to the cast list.

Midland members of the cast include Dan Stodghill, Julia Jackson and Susan Baker. Others in the production are Kay Ellington of Snyder, Stacy Payne of Stanton, John Tidwell of Big Spring, Larry Pitts of Matador, Janice Begley of Houston, Kelly Sinclair of Brownfield, Sharen Meade of Mesa, Ariz., and Dee Blackwell, Allan Yancy, Adnan Basma, Pat Hodges, Travis Woodward and Sharon Pyle, all of Odessa.

Comanche Springs group announces spring exhibit

FORT STOCKTON — The Comanche Springs Art Association of Fort Stockton is announcing its annual spring exhibit, to be held next month.

The competitive show is open to all artists living and working in the West Texas area. Entries are limited to three per person and should be hand delivered to the Fort Stockton Teen Center, site of the show, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. on May 6 or 7. The entries should be picked up no later than 6 p.m. on May 13.

Categories for entry in the show include the following: Oils (includes acrylic paintings treated as oils); watercolors (includes acrylics and all water-based media); drawings (includes pen-and-ink, pencil, ink, colored pencil, charcoal, graphite and felt-tip works); pastels, mixed media (collages and any combination of more than one medium, and sculpture (any media such as metal, wood or stone).

Adjudicating this year's show will be Dr. Stanley Marcus, chairman of the art department at The University of Texas at the Permian Basin; Sherry Jo Horton, well-known West Texas artist and former Fort Stockton resident, now living in Breckenridge; and Bob Heft, assistant professor of art at Sul Ross State University.

Following judging on May 10, the show will open to the public on May 11, and continue on view through May 13. The show will offer cash awards amounting to $625. There also will be more than $1,000 in donor purchase awards.

Guest artists to join in dance

Dancers of the Permian Civic Ballet company will be joined by guest artists in the annual "Spring Gala" to be offered here Friday night.

The traditional spring dance event will begin at 8 p.m. in Lee High School auditorium, with tickets to be for sale in the lobby before the start of the program. Tickets are priced $6 for adults, $3 for students, $2 for children.

Heading the list of guest dancers who will be performing with the Permian Civic Ballet company are Anne Burton of Atlanta and Bill Martin-Viscount of Fort Worth. Still others scheduled to appear with the resident company are Susan Clark of New York City, Sandra Huxman of Fort Worth, Allan Kenzie of Dallas, Guy Welch of Albuquerque, N.M., and Larry Taylor of Little Rock, Ark. Misses Clark and Huxman are former members of the Permian Civic Ballet company.

Highlights of the Spring Gala concert will include the following dance works: "Tyrolean Spring," featuring Sandra Huxman, Guy Welch, Betsy Halvorsen, Larry Taylor, Kelly Walker, Anne Stroh, Candy Baimbridge and Beth MacCurdy; "Les Sylphides," with Susan Clark and Anne Stroh as soloists; "Rossini Pas de Trois," featuring Sandra Huxman, Susan Clark and Allan Kenzie; "Salute," featuring Kelly Walker and Betsy Halvorsen; "Spring Waters," danced by Anne Burton and Bill Martin-Viscount, and the "Don Quixote" pas de deux.

'Tonight' without Johnny —How can it survive?

By PETER J. BOYER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — I know this may be a little premature, but I can't help thinking about what will happen to NBC's "Tonight" show if Johnny Carson leaves, which he says he wants to do.

Now, the network says Carson probably won't leave as early as next October, as Johnny wants, but it seems pretty certain that he'll leave before his contract runs out in 1981. What will happen to "Tonight?"

NBC executives shrug and say they haven't thought that far ahead, but I think they're missing the gravity of this matter. Much is at stake here.

Think about the viewers who use "Tonight" instead of dangerous sleeping pills. No more "Tonight" might cause a worsening in our already frightening drug problem. Have you thought of that, NBC?

And sleepless nights make for grouchy, groggy mornings. Dangerous drivers, lowered productivity at work. Considering our feeble economic situation, lowered productivity could push us over the edge.

Then there's the matter of those good folks on "Tonight" that we've come to love as if members of our own families. Forget Carson. Anybody who's taking in four mill a year, you don't worry about. But what about poor Ed McMahon? What's he supposed to do on his resume?

"Professional sidekick for hire. Mid-50ish, 17 years' experience. Has great intro bit, and doesn't mind being referred to as 'Camel Breath.'"

I know Ed has a new show on NBC, "Whodunnit?" but, judging from the ratings, that's going to last about as long as one of Carson's monologues.

Doc may make it in Vegas or somewhere, but what about Tommy Newsum? I mean, Johnny's always telling us Tommy's about as exciting as a rotting kumquat. What will he do without "Tonight?"

And that army of guest hosts. What about them? Cosby, Newhart, Carlin, Rickles, Especially Rickles. That guy's had more failed series than the Mets. There just aren't a lot of guest host positions likely to open all at once.

A second public performance of the Pickwick Players' "Step On A Crack," a new play for children, will be presented at 2:30 p.m. Saturday in Theatre Midland, 2000 W. Wadley Ave. Reserved seat tickets are on

Special productions keep MCT busy

Theatre Midland is a busy place these days and nights as Midland Community Theatre unveils a series of special productions.

Two productions, "Vanities" and "Step On A Crack," already are on the boards, and two additional productions are waiting in the wings, due on stage in forthcoming days.

"Crown Matrimonial," a drama by British playwright Royce Ryton, opens a week from Friday as MCT's third major production of its 1979 season.

And MCT's newest organization, the Theatre Midland Dancers, is deep in rehearsals for its two special dance evenings coming up May 8 and 9. Tickets for the gala events are available at the box office, free to MCT members, $2 to non-members.

"Crown Matrimonial," a dramatic retelling of the events leading up to King Edward VIII's 1936 abdication for the woman he loved, will have an eight-performance run beginning May 4, with presentations continuing through late May. The Theatre Midland box office has opened to accept seat reservations from MCT season members, and will open to non-members Monday. The box office telephone number is 682-4111.

"Step On A Crack," a new and intriguing play for children, will have its second public performance at 2:30 p.m. Saturday in the Theatre Midland main auditorium. The play is produced and performed by members of the Pickwick Players, the young people's performing company at MCT.

Tickets for the matinee are $1.25 for adults, 75 cents for children. The tickets are now on sale at the box office.

The other MCT production, "Vanities," is having capacity audiences in MCT's Theatre II, the smaller, more intimate arena theater inside Theatre Midland.

In addition to performances tonight and Friday and Saturday nights, there will be a matinee at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, and other presentations on May 3, 4 and 5. Several holdover performances also have been announced. They are on May 8 and 9, and May 11 and 12. Seat reservations for these performances may be made (subject to availability) through the box office, 682-4111.

NBC ratings stay consistent

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC continues its struggle to schedule attractive new programs with consistent, albeit unsuccessful results.

Four limited series begun by NBC in the last several weeks were among the least watched during the week ending April 22, figures from the

A.C. Nielsen Co. show. In a development outside of prime-time, though perhaps as significant, ABC's "World News Tonight" nudged NBC's "Nightly News" from second place in the evening news ratings for the first time in at least five years.

ABC said twice in 1972 its news program was No. 2, but in both instances, the ratings were tied to political and Olympics coverage.

NBC, in prime-time, listed four of the week's five lowest-rated programs, including its "Weekend" newsmagazine in 60th place, followed by newcomers "Cliffhangers" and "Highcliff Manor," an ABC news special called "Men Under Siege: Life with the Modern Woman," and the third installment in a rerun of NBC's "Wheels" mini-series.

Two other recent offerings from NBC fared almost as poorly. "Whodunnit" in 56th place and "The Duke," 59th.

Plays by bard set for Dallas

DALLAS — The Shakespeare Festival of Dallas will open its eighth summer season on July 11, to continue through July 29.

According to Robert Glenn, the festival's founder and producer, and board president Howard Hallam, this year's attractions will be "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and "King Henry IV," Part I. Kenneth Frankel, artistic director of the festival, will direct one production and the other will have a guest director.

Performances will be at the Band Shell in Dallas' Fair Park. The shows will be presented free to the public. The productions are made possible through festival memberships and contributions from interested individuals, business firms and foundations.

Additional information on the upcoming Shakespeare Festival is obtainable by calling festival representatives at 214-526-6021.

DEATHS

Lige Ellison

CROSBYTON — Services for Lige Ellison, 92, of Crosbyton, brother of Belle McDermitt of Midland, were to be at 3 p.m. today in Crosbyton First Baptist Church.

Officiating were to be the Rev. Bobby Rine, pastor of the First Baptist Church, the Rev. Johnnie Williams, pastor of First United Methodist Church, and Loyd Hall, minister for the Church of Christ.

Burial was to be in Crosbyton Cemetery. Ellison died Tuesday in his home following a lengthy illness.

He was a native of Speedwell, Tenn., and had lived in the Crosbyton area since 1907. He was a retired farmer and a charter member of Crosbyton First Baptist Church. He was married to Maggie Fulkerson in Crosbyton Aug. 25, 1945.

Other survivors include his wife, two stepdaughters, three sisters, a granddaughter, three great-grandchildren, two stepgrandchildren and four stepgreat-grandchildren.

Luther D. Martin

Services for Luther D. Martin, 68, of 908 S. Marshall St. were to be at 2 p.m. today in Newnie W. Ellis Funeral Home with the Rev. Glenn Shoemaker, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was to be in Resthaven Memorial Park.

Martin died Monday in a Midland hospital.

He was born Feb. 15, 1911, in Bald Prairie and spent his early life in Stanton and Lenora. In 1925, he moved to Martin County, where he farmed. He was employed as a car salesman by Elder Chevrolet after moving to Midland in 1942. He was a member of the Calvary Baptist Church.

Survivors include his wife, Methel; four sons, Alvis Ray Martin of Fullerton, Calif., James Allen Martin of Bryan, Wayne Martin and Ricky

Indian Airlines plane crashes at Madras

NEW DELHI, India — An Indian Airlines jetliner with 67 persons aboard crash-landed at Madras Airport today, injuring seven persons, the United News of India reported.

A passenger on the Boeing 737 told the news agency he heard an explosion shortly before the plane was scheduled to land at Madras after its 360-mile flight from Trivandrum in southern India.

"The aircraft began wobbling after the explosion, the electrical systems failed and smoke filled the passenger cabin," the passenger, Fangadharan Pillai, told reporters.

Witnesses told UNI the plane overshoot the runway and plowed through nearby fields before coming to a halt a little over a mile from the terminal building. The plane was badly damaged, UNI said.

The agency said those injured were the pilot, co-pilot, a stewardess, a steward, and three passengers.

Lynn Martin, both of Midland; two daughters, Shirley Dicken of Arlington, Va., and Methel Fay Dendy of Amarillo; a brother, Charlie Martin of Ballinger, and 10 grandchildren.

Pallbearers were to be W.W. Simons, Bill Wilkerson, John W. Booth, J.B. Woodruff, Ed Shelburne, W.R. Reynolds, Sidney Hart and C.M. Edwards.

Manuel S. Mejia

Manuel S. Mejia, 56, of 3229 Travis Ave. died this morning in a Temple hospital.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete at noon today Thomas Funeral Home of Midland.

Mejia, a longtime Midlander, was born Nov. 28, 1922, at Woods. He had lived in Midland for 25 years and was a machinist for Drilco. He served in the U.S. Army and then the Air Force, and was a veteran of World War II and the Korean conflict. He was a member of Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church.

Survivors include his wife, Elena; four sons, Gilbert Mejia and Eddie Mejia, and Jimmy Martinez and Pascual Martinez, all of Midland; three daughters, Maria Martinez of San Angelo, and Manuela Lopez and Edia Hernandez, both of Midland, and 12 grandchildren.

LAMESA — Services for John Bob Lee, 48, of Carson City, Nev., son of Juanita Lee and brother of Thrice Lee, both of Lamesa, will be at 10 a.m. Saturday in the First Baptist Church of Lamesa with the Rev. Bill Harbage, pastor, officiating.

Burial will be in Lamesa Memorial Park directed by Branon Funeral Home. Nevada arrangements are being handled by Walton's Chapel of the Valley of Carson City, Nev.

Lee died Tuesday in his home following a brief illness.

The Lamesa native served in the U.S. Marine Corps in Korea. He was married to Axie Howard June 12, 1951, in Lovington, N.M.

He moved from Lamesa 18 years ago and lived in Colorado and Carson City, Nev.

Other survivors include his wife; three daughters, Kathy Lee of Abilene and Paula Kunkle and Julie Lee, both of Carson City; a son, Rodney Lee of Carson City, and two grandchildren.

Carroll, who died Tuesday, will be buried in Forest Lawn cemetery in Hollywood Hills.

104-year-old driver dies

LEWISVILLE, Texas (AP) — Robert L. Rippey, a retired farmer who surprised everyone last year by getting his Texas driver's license renewed at the age of 104, died here Tuesday night.

Rippey was born in Alvarado, April 19, 1874, one of 15 children, all of whom he outlived.

He is survived by his wife, Mary. They had celebrated their 58th wedding anniversary April 18.

Teen smoking shows downturn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teen-agers may finally be climbing onto the no-smoking bandwagon with their parents and other older people.

A new government survey due out today was expected to show that the teen-age smoking rate, which grew from 12 percent in 1968 to 16 percent by 1974, is now turning downwards.

That trend would follow the pattern already established by older smokers.

An estimated 54 million Americans still smoke, but 30 million have quit since the first surgeon general's report on smoking and health in 1964, according to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The percentage of adult smokers has fallen from 42 percent to 33 percent.

HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. planned what his office called "a major announcement on teen-age smoking" today in San Francisco at a conference of the National Inter-agency Council on Smoking and Health.

A government source who asked not to be identified said Califano would reveal the drop in teen-age smoking as well as information about 3.5 million Americans who have recently quit smoking.

He also was expected to challenge the tobacco industry to mount a campaign urging youngsters to wait until they are adults before deciding whether to smoke.

A drop in teen-age smoking would mark a significant milestone in Califano's 15-month-old war against tobacco, particularly since adults already have been quitting in large numbers.

Past surveys by HEW's National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health showed that by 1974, 16 percent of the teen-agers under 18 were regular smokers. Moreover, girls had nearly doubled their smoking rates since 1968 and were smoking at nearly the same rate as boys.

The council Califano addressed, an umbrella group for private and public organizations opposed to smoking, is the same one he spoke to in Washington Jan. 11, 1978 when he kicked off his battle against cigarettes as "Public Health Enemy No. 1."

A 1,100-page surgeon general's report on smoking released last Jan. 11 said 6 million youths age 13 to 19 were regular smokers, and 100,000 children under 13 also smoked regularly.

Surgeon General Julius Richmond told reporters in San Diego earlier this month he expected "encouraging" news on teen-age smoking and said it reflects "the new attitudes in this country, especially among young people, toward good health. I have always thought that it would take some time to turn young people away from worrying about Vietnam and Watergate and toward worrying about their own health. I think that has finally happened."

The Agriculture Department has reported that the number of cigarettes consumed per person annually in the United States has fallen from 4,345 in 1963 to 3,965 in 1978. Last year's rate was the lowest in 20 years. HEW says smoking plays a large role in the deaths of 225,000 Americans each year from heart disease, 80,000 deaths from lung cancer, 22,000 from other cancers and 19,000 from chronic pulmonary disease.

Although the trend on smoking cigarettes is down, other surveys have found that smoking marijuana is on the rise among teen-agers.

Red Cross continues help to Wichita Falls

Red Cross volunteers, supported in part by the contribution of Midlanders, were still on the scene Wednesday in Wichita Falls, where an eight-mile strip of the city was destroyed by a recent tornado, according to Mrs. Ervin C. Philpy, Midland County Red Cross chapter chairman.

To date, Mrs. Philpy said Wednesday, the Red Cross has served 69,823 meals, processed 11,680 welfare inquiries about victims, given shelter to 30,518 and given other assistance to 2,749 other families.

The Midland unit was one of three Red Cross feeding units on the scene in Wichita Falls, Vernon and Lawton, Okla., she noted.

Fences claimed safe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says eight miles of border fences being built to keep Mexicans from slipping into the United States will be sturdy but not dangerous to anyone trying to climb over.

The controversial fence will be limited to eight miles in length in two separate areas rather than 12 miles as initially planned, officials said Wednesday.

Terrence Adamson, chief Justice Department spokesman, said the project was scaled down to save money and to avoid harming diplomatic relations with Mexico.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service, an arm of the Justice Department, decided to drop plans for the additional four miles of fence after consulting with President Carter, Adamson said.

'Zorro' dies in California

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — John Carroll, the Clark Gable look-alike of Hollywood's Golden Era who played a swashbuckling hero in the serial "Zorro Rides Again" has died of leukemia. He was 72.

Carroll, who died Tuesday, will be buried in Forest Lawn cemetery in Hollywood Hills.

Born Julien La Faye in New Orleans, Carroll left home at age 12, traveled around the world and held jobs as a steeplejack, ship's cook, racing driver and deep-sea diver before heading for Hollywood.

Working on odd jobs and as an extra in cowboy films, he came to the attention of Louis B. Mayer, who gave him a $150-a-week contract at MGM — reportedly to compete against Gable.

In addition to starring in the 1937 Zorro series, Carroll also appeared in such 1940s hits as "Susan and God," "The Marx Brothers Go West," "Rio Rita" and "Flying Tigers."

Carroll is survived by his wife, former top-MGM talent executive Lucille Ryman, and daughter, Juliana Benito of Beverly Hills.

Carroll died Tuesday.

Odessa man's condition remains critical following Marfa accident

ODESSA — A 17-year-old Andrews man remained in critical condition early today at Medical Center Hospital in Odessa after being admitted Tuesday morning with massive head injuries suffered in a one-car accident south of Marfa, officials said.

Joe L. Quiroz was admitted as an unidentified "John Doe" when identification found on him proved to be that of another Andrews man.

Quiroz was identified after the registration of the car he was driving was traced to him, officials said.

The wife of the man whose identification was found on Quiroz was telephoned after the accident, said Presidio County Sheriff Rick Thompson.

Thompson said the identification included a drivers license, Social Security card and baptismal papers.

The wife of the Andrews man told Thompson the injured man could not be her husband. "He's sitting here watching television," Thompson said the woman told him.

Thompson said Quiroz was injured six miles south of Marfa on U.S. Highway 67 when his southbound vehicle left the road and turned over.

CART takes Indy matter to courts

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The long and bitter feud between the U.S. Auto Club and Championship Auto Racing Teams was scheduled to go to court today, and that might have been the only way to settle the dispute, says Tom Binford, one of the few men trusted by both sides.

A source close to CART, who asked not to be identified, told The Associated Press a suit against USAC and the Indianapolis Motor Speedway would be filed in U.S. District Court today.

"There's only one way to get that thing reconciled, and that's for Tom Binford to do it," said Pat Patrick, president of CART and owner of one of the six CART drivers whose entries for the Indianapolis 500 were rejected by USAC.

Binford, who wears many hats in the sports and business worlds, is chief steward of the Indianapolis 500-mile race, board member and past president of USAC and current president of the Automobile Competition Committee of the United States.

"Binford is a straight guy. He knows what we're trying to accomplish, and he's in a position to tell USAC to get their act together," Patrick said Wednesday.

Binford said earlier, however, that he did not think it was likely a settlement could be reached out of court.

The suit seemed a certainty after negotiations broke down last week and Speedway President Joe Cloutier told Patrick that USAC indeed had authority to reject the entries.

"I think the compromise we discussed (last week) would have met the needs of both organizations," Binford said.

PATRICK SAID Wednesday all the dissident CART group wants "is just to go racing. We want our entries accepted and we fully intend to see that happen."

The planned suit stems from a USAC ruling last week that barred six CART teams, totaling 19 entries, on the grounds they were "not in good standing" with USAC.

CART, which split with USAC late last year in a dispute over control of championship auto racing, asked Cloutier last weekend to clarify whether USAC or the Speedway has authority to reject the entries.

Cloutier replied that the authority rests solely with USAC and told Patrick that the rejection of the 19 entries was proper.

USAC PRESIDENT Dick King said that CART was after "total control" of championship auto racing. He said a proposal to create an eight or nine-man group to supervise championship racing was turned down.

"I feel we have gone the extra mile to pull things together," King said. "We concede a point and they want two more. It always seems we're losing ground. We didn't feel we could continue that way."

He said a reconciliation is possible, but not with CART as a separate entity.

The first backlash to the CART-USAC feud by a racing sponsor occurred on Wednesday when the Hedbeck Corp. and Bryant Heating and Cooling announced the cancellation of sponsorship of the CART entry to be driven by Larry Rice.

"It is now logistically impossible to take advantage of the benefits of sponsorship due to the current sanctioning controversy," said Phil Hedbeck, board chairman.

"This action is in no way an attempt to take sides in the current controversy and was strictly a business decision," Hedbeck said.

Committee favors football playoff

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association has reaffirmed its support for establishing an annual college football championship playoff system.

The eight-member Extra Events Committee voted at the NCAA convention in January to submit the proposal to the NCAA's Division I Steering Committee, which will meet in June in New Orleans. If approved, the playoff system proposal then would be put on the agenda of the NCAA Convention next January.

Arkansas athletic director Frank Broyles, a member of the Extra Events Committee, told the Colorado Springs Sun that representatives of the bowls were opposed to the change.

Dodgers learn lesson from Cubs

BY TED BATTLES Sports Editor

Sometimes when you push all the right buttons, the elevator still won't stop, which is about what happened to Midland Cubs Manager Randy Hundley at Cubs Stadium Wednesday night.

Using an old, discarded Midland script Manager Ducky LeJohn apparently found on the way to the ball park, San Antonio's Dodgers came up with four eighth inning runs for a come-from-behind 6-3 victory, their first win after three tries in the series.

The Cubs and Dodgers resume hostilities at 7:30 p.m. tonight at Cubs Stadium in a Pack-the-Park Night game. Bill Earley, 1-1, goes for Midland while Paul Bain will toil for the Dodgers.

Midland starter Jack Ledbetter was nursing a 3-2 lead going into the eighth inning and had retired Larry Fobbs and Myron White on two hard-hit infield balls, before walking Ed Santos while Gary Weiss beat out a slow-roller-to-short. That's when Hundley began his button pushing.

"Ledbetter's arm was beginning to tighten up and I wasn't going to let Shoemaker (John) beat him," Randy explained later. It was sound enough strategy. Shoemaker is a lefthanded batter and was 6-for-10 against Midland pitching this series.

"TOM (Butler) was ready and he'd done the job every time out," so Hundley brought in his lefthander, who not only had two wins and a save in six relief appearances, but hadn't yielded a run all season. LeJohn countered with righthanded hitting Mike Zouras.

Zouras drilled a liner over the left field fence, a three-run homer that decided the issue. Butler gave up a single and three walks to force in the Dodgers sixth run before Jeff Albert got the side out and mopped up.

Ledbetter, 1-2, got the loss and failed to complete something he started for the first time this year.

MIDLAND WAS a little bit lucky to even be in the game the way the Dodgers' Mark Nipp was pitching. The sixth round draft choice out of the University of Oklahoma last June gave up three fourth inning runs, but two were unearned as San Antonio committed two errors behind him.

The Dodgers led 1-0 as a result of Myron White's lead off single and Shoemaker's two out single in the second. The Cubs showed just two hits going into the fourth when Nipp made the mistake of walking Eric Grandy and Jim Tracy lined a triple into the right field corner and then scored when shortstop Gary Weiss booted Carlos Lezcano's grounder. An errant pickoff throw let Lezcano go to second and when Brian Rosinski beat out a single off Nipp's glove, it set the stage for a double steal that saw Lezcano score to give Midland a 3-1 lead.

Ledbetter flirted with big trouble in the sixth when Ron Roenicke led off with a drag bunt single. Fobbs looped a single to right and then, with one out, Santos' single up the middle scored Roenicke from second. When Weiss lined a hit to right, the bases were loaded and Ledbetter was a batter away from a shower. Third baseman Mike Turgeon then rode to the rescue, barehanded Shoemaker's hanging chopper and gunning to second baseman Dan Rohn who turned the inning ending double play.

CUB QUIPS—Rohn and Jesus Alfaro each had two hits to stretch their batting strings to 11 straight games...When you live by the sword, you also die by the sword and that's what happened to the running Cubs Wednesday. In the fifth, Alfaro was cut down by centerfielder Roenicke at the plate as he tried to score from second on a hit by Eric Grandy; in the sixth Lezcano was picked off first while in the seventh Bill Hayes was nailed in a rundown on an attempted squeeze. Alfaro was at bat and Nipp made the perfect pitch, high and tight, to foil the strategy...LeJohn feels the rash of balks in this series is due to a "lack of concentration," pointing out none have been arguable...Rosinski made a knee-sliding catch to rob Fobbs in the fourth on a sinking liner to left. "Left field is tougher to play than right," advises Brian, who was a rightfielder all last year, "because the wind blows out that way. It's an adjustment."...Tracy lashed out three hits in four trips and is 5-for-12 in the series...The Cubs stole five bases, but were caught three times...

MHS netters face region challenge

LUBBOCK — Midland High will be well represented here Friday and Saturday during the Region AAAA boys tennis tournament on the Texas Tech courts.

Sophomore Richie Houdek, the District 5-4A champion, will be in the singles while the Bulldogs will field a pair of doubles teams. District winners Jeff Bramlett and Pierre DeChaud will be joined by the Purple Pack's other doubles team of Jeff Rea and Arthur Yeager.

Houdek defeated Odessa Permian's Steve Ashley, 6-4, 6-3, in the district final after advancing with a 6-7, 6-1, 6-4 victory over Abilene Cooper's Scott Orren in the semifinals.

In district doubles, senior Bramlett and junior DeChaud won in the finals over seniors Rea and Yeager, 6-3, 6-0. Bramlett and DeChaud defeated Permian's Porter-Porter, 6-2, 6-1, in the semis, while Rea and Yeager handled Cooper's Steve Boykin and Brent Proctor, 6-2, 4-6, 7-6.

Midland High Coach Larry Burgin likes the chances of his athletes. "Richie has a real good chance," said Burgin of his singles entry.

And looking at the doubles, he said, "Bramlett and DeChaud could possibly win the state if they play well."

Bramlett won the district singles crown last year and eventually lost in the state semis. Rea and Yeager lost in region play last year.

The state tournament will be May 10-12 in Austin.

Region track showdown begins Friday in Lubbock

By TERRY WILLIAMSON Sports Writer

LUBBOCK — The Region I AAAA-AA yearly foot race begins here Friday for a two-day run, and individuals from both Midland Lee and Midland High will be seeking coveted berths in Austin's state meet in two weeks.

Friday's action begins at 1:30 a.m. with the AAAA discus and the AAAA long jump begins at 12:30 p.m. All running preliminaries will begin at 3:30 p.m., and all the action will take place at the Texas Tech University campus track.

Midland Lee will have six individuals and two relay teams shooting for state berths while Midland High has two individuals. On basis of qualification for the regional, the Rebels would appear to have a shot at the team crown also, but Killeen is a big favorite to win that title.

"I think Jeff McCowan has an excellent chance of going to state in the shot put. His distances this year have been a lot better than the other entries, but the rest of our people are going to have to really get after it to get to Austin," Lee track boss Sam Volpe stated this week.

Lee will have Arthur Pertile in the 800 meters, Dwight Washington in the 200, Stewart Laufer in the 330 hurdles, Jody Sessom in Friday's long jump and Rodney Taylor joining McCowan in the shot put.

Midland High will feature Jeff Robnett in the 100-yard dash and James Lary in the discus. Both are juniors.

"I think a 9.8 could get Jeff in the state meet, so he has a good shot, and James has a good of shot as anyone in the discus. Lary is probably less of a long shot in the region discus than he was in the district meet," MHS track coach Ed Nixon stated.

McCowan seems primed for big things in the shot put. Saturday in Mason, McCowan had his best throw of the year with a 62-8 1/4, and he threw the shot out of the ring. In practice, he has had a throw of 63-6.

Taylor was a surprise qualifier in the shot put. He was second in the district meet with a toss of 56-3. Volpe thinks the battle for second will be among all 11 competitors and Rodney could sneak in again.

The region 100 may not be as fast as in recent years, and Robnett should be competitive for a state berth. He has a 9.8 to his credit this season, and that in itself might be enough. Abilene Cooper's Charles Rainey has had a 9.5, but it was wind aided. Rainey is the favorite. Several others are around 9.8 or 9.9.

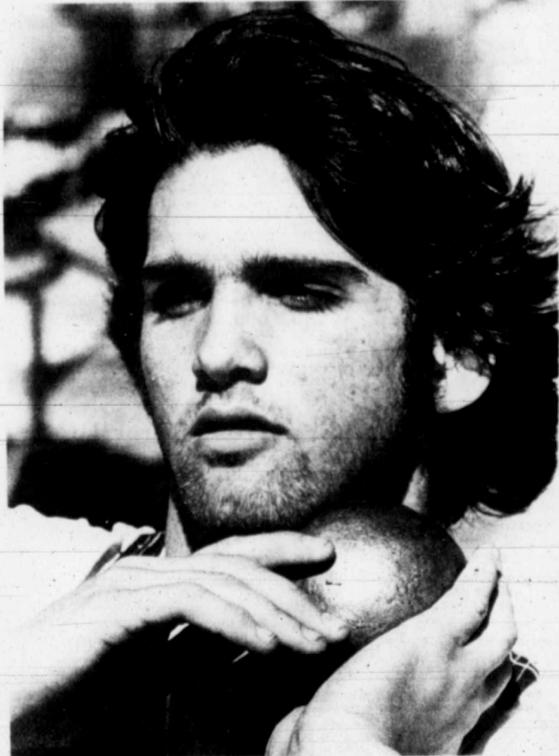

Washington should be a contender in the 200. He has lost in this event only twice this year. The only expected contenders are from Bryan and Killeen, but Killeen's Gerald McNeill, who defeated Washington in San Angelo, did not qualify this year.

Lary has been the mark of improvement in the discus. He pulled a shocker when he qualified for the region meet with a 168-1, nearly 12-feet better than he had ever done. He turned around the next week in Roswell, N. M., and recorded a 169-11, another jump of almost two feet. Most of the region throwers are in the 163 to 165-foot range, so Lary could get that state berth if he continues to throw well.

Sessom could also be a threat for a state berth in the long jump, but it appears he will be jumping for second place with a horde of contenders. The big favorite in this event is El Paso Riverside's Al Lecon, who owns a 23-5 1/4. Sessom won district with a 21-10 1/4, but had a 22-8 1/4 in Levelland two weeks ago. That should put him in a contending spot for second place.

Laufer, a senior out for track for the first time since the seventh grade, could complete his Cinderella story with a state berth in the 330 hurdles. But this event is full of quality stars. It will be one of the strongest and most competitive events in the meet. Laufer has a 38.9 this year. San Angelo's Scott Leverette, the district champion, will also be in the field.

Midland High's James Lary

Senior Arthur Pertile is another in for a tough outing in the 800. This is another very tough field. Lubbock miler Curtis Conway turned to the 800 meters this year and has posted a 1:53.2 while El Paso Bel Air runner Sergio Oaxaca has a fast 1:52.9. Pertile has a 1:58.5 to his credit, but San Angelo's Frank Rodriquez is another threat with a 1:57.6.

Lee will also have two relay teams. The sprint relay group features Mark Landers, Sessom, Phil Carleton and Washington. The mile relay team is composed of Pertile, Carleton, Washington and either Gary Butler or Laufer. One of the two will lead things off. A final decision had not been made on the one leg.

Bryan, Killeen and Lee are expected to fight it out for berths in the two events. Abilene High upset Lee at the district meet in the mile relay and must also be considered a threat there. Lee owns a 3:16.09 in the 1300 meter relay and a 41.9 in the 400 meter event.

However, Lee's best times came with Elmer Montgomery in the field, but he will not be among the entries because of grades. That loss will make it very tight in both events for Lee to earn a state berth in the relays.

Saturday's schedule will begin at 9:30 a.m. with the remaining field events and the running finals are set for 1:30 p.m.

Lakers fall from playoffs; Suns rip Kings, 108-94

By The Associated Press
The Los Angeles Lakers, their season over, now await word whether Jerry West will return as their coach.

Speculators said West would step down from the post he accepted in 1976, but West wasn't saying much Wednesday night after the Seattle SuperSonics had beaten the Lakers 106-100 for a 4-1 victory in their best-of-seven National Basketball Association semifinal.

"My plans for the future will be known in seven to 10 days," said West, who played 14 seasons for Los Angeles, then guided them to the playoffs three consecutive seasons as coach. "Otherwise, I have no comment on future plans."

The other Lakers can make vacation plans, with Seattle going on to meet the winner of the Phoenix Suns-Kansas City Kings series. The Suns beat the Kings 108-94 Wednesday to take a 3-1 lead in that set.

The Eastern Conference semifinals resume tonight, with the San Antonio Spurs, leading 3-1, hoping to finish the Philadelphia 76ers and the Atlanta Hawks — trailing 3-2 — seeking a tie with the Washington Bullets.

All the SuperSonics have to do is wait. They got 10 third-quarter points from Fred Brown and 10 fourth-quarter points from Gus Wims in rallying from a 59-53 halftime deficit at the Seattle Coliseum.

Seattle had been ousted from its 1978-79 home, the Kingdome, by a baseball game between the Mariners and Boston Red Sox. So they returned to the confines of the Coliseum, where they have won 38 of the 42 games played there since Len Wilkens took over as coach.

"In the second half, our overall defense pressure was very good," said Wilkens. "Once we started to make things happen, the fans picked it up and carried us."

And meanwhile, the sellout crowd of 14,098 appeared to rattle the struggling Lakers.

"The more noise the crowd generated, the more we lost our poise," said West after Los Angeles was outscored 29-22 in the third period and 24-19 in the fourth. "I think against a good team sometimes you try to come back too quick, and that's what we were doing in the fourth quarter."

It just didn't work out. Williams, replaced by Brown early in the third quarter, returned to score eight points in the 12-2 Seattle burst that put the SuperSonics ahead 94-83 with 6:25 to play.

Williams topped all scorers with 30 points — five more than the Lakers' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who was forced to the outside by SuperSonic defenders and missed several turnaround jump shots.

And that was all for Los Angeles. "I think we had a good season," said

West, "but sometimes that's not enough."

Suns 108, Kings 94
Phoenix got 26 points from guard Paul Westphal and again succeeded in stifling Kansas City rookie star Phil Ford in taking a commanding series lead.

The Suns can move into the conference final with Seattle by beating the Kings at Phoenix Friday night.

Westphal, who had scored just 12 points over the last two contests, erupted for 16 in the second half alone.

Ford, who entered the game having made just eight of his 35 field goal attempts, managed only six more for 12 points.

"You've got to give the Phoenix defense credit," said Kansas City

Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons. "We only shot in spurts and that hurts."

Now the Kings must beat the Suns in Phoenix, where they have lost all four of their games this season.

"People will say, 'They'll throw in the towel now,' but I guarantee we won't," said Fitzsimmons.

Scott Wedman led Kansas City with 21 points and Sam Lacey added 18. Garfield Heard had 20 points for the Suns.

One of the things that got Atlanta and Washington this far was home-court supremacy. The Hawks were 34-7 at the Omni this season and the Bullets were 31-10 at the Capital Center in Landover, Md.

Strangely, though, the home-court advantage hasn't meant a thing in their semifinal matchups; each team has won twice on the road.

Tark knows, but he's quiet

ATLANTA (AP) — Quarterback Fran Tarkenton says he's already told the Minnesota Vikings whether he will play next season — but he's not telling anyone else.

"I've already made up my mind," said Tarkenton, an 18-season veteran. "The Vikings know what that decision is, but I won't let anyone else know until July."

Tarkenton, who lives in Atlanta, said Tuesday before a community awards banquet that he will keep his secret until the NFL training camps open in mid-July.

"If I show up at camp, I play," said the former University of Georgia star. "If I don't show up, I won't play."

Tarkenton holds NFL records for passes completed, passes attempted, yardage and touchdowns. There has been much speculation over when he would retire from pro football to devote himself to his varied business interests.

Tarkenton gave no reason for waiting to announce his decision except to say, "Never make a decision until you have to. The people who need to know, know."

He described his contract with the Vikings as "an on going one" and said, "I have been happy with it and I'm satisfied with it now. I have no complaints."

Officials, ump's meet

CHICAGO (AP) — Baseball league officials are meeting with major league umpires at an undisclosed location to work out a settlement to the umpires' strike, Commissioner Bowie Kuhn says.

Kuhn said that in addition to the meeting Wednesday, both sides met last Saturday and plan to continue doing so in an attempt to settle the dispute.

Speaking at an American Bar Association luncheon Wednesday, Kuhn said he never considered the strike a "league matter" and denied that the commissioner's office has avoided an active role in the dispute.

"The commissioner is very much involved in the situation," he said. "You are sometimes much better off to work quietly in the back room."

Dawkins grabs attention

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — There's no question Philadelphia's Darryl Dawkins will be the center of attention in tonight's NBA playoff game with San Antonio — as if it's even the slightest bit possible to overlook the outspoken, 6-foot-11, 260-pounder.

Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham, whose 76ers trail San Antonio 3-1 in the best-of-seven, Eastern Conference semifinal series, has moved the massive Dawkins into the starting lineup in yet another last ditch lineup shuffle.

And the controversial Dawkins promises, "I intend to play as dirty as I have to to win. There's going to be some banging around out there."

That will no doubt draw the ire of the usually rowdy, sellout crowd of 16,000, which focused its abuse on the 22-year-old Dawkins during the first two games here. Many of the fans waved bananas at Dawkins, who responded to the racial taunts with obscene gestures.

Dawkins has been playing behind slender starter Caldwell Jones, but has gotten an average of nearly 20 minutes in playing 29 minutes each of the four games.

"I want more inside bulk," said Cunningham in explaining the move. "Twenty-five percent of their offense has come off the offensive boards."

Dawkins claimed Sunday after San Antonio won 115-112 in Philadelphia that the referees had allowed the lightweight Spurs to brutalize him under the basket. He vowed then, "I'm going to play nasty Thursday. If someone gets hurt, that's too bad."

An incredulous San Antonio Coach Doug Moe, whose Spurs rely on fitness and have one 6-10 reserve center, Mike Green, who weighs a scant 200 pounds, dismissed Dawkins' allegations as "ludicrous."

"That's got to be the biggest crock. He initiates contact every time he goes to the basket," said Moe. "I haven't seen him make a move to the basket yet. It's not our fault there's contact. He's trying to dominate physically."

"Darryl is not dumb, he's smart. But he thinks everyone else is an idiot. What he is saying is meant to intimidate the officials and the players."

Moe, as usual, will start 6-11, 240-pound center Billy Paulitz, not known as an intimidating player. Moe will also use 6-9, 230-pound reserve forward Mark Olberding, the only other Spur who even comes close to matching Dawkins physically.

Dawkins and Olberding have angrily squared off twice already in the series.

"I'm going to be just as physical as he is," said Olberding.

"The move will hurt them. I'm just glad they plan to rearrange their lineup. This late, you should go with what got you here," said Paulitz.

Cunningham has shuffled his lineup the entire series, usually in an unsuccessful attempt to slow down NBA scoring champion George Gervin.

Moe said the Spurs will attempt to simply stand their ground and make Dawkins shoot over them. "That's all we can do," he added. "After that, it's up to the referees."

Midland College seeks tennis title

Midland College enters the conference tennis tournament in Roswell, N. M., Friday and Saturday firmly in second place, but shooting for both men's and women's crowns.

The two-day event is hosted by New Mexico Military Institute, with five men's teams and six women's teams participating.

Points earned for winning singles and doubles matches during a series of spring dual events are carried into the tournament. MC has 27 points earned in its four dual meets in the men's division, trailing Odessa College by six points. The MC women's team has won 20 matches against five opponents and is behind OC by eight points.

The conference tournament is held to determine both the men's and women's team champions and individual singles and doubles winners. The men's tournament is played in brackets for each of the six singles titles and the three doubles titles. However, the women's tournament is an open flight event, with seeded players drawing certain positions for singles and doubles.

"We would like to come back and take the conference team championships," noted MC net coach Brian Gilley. "But we are more concerned with getting ready for the Regional tournament next week. The regional tournament is the one that qualifies us for the nationals."

MC will host the Region V NJCAA tournament for both men and women at the MC courts May 4-5.

Two changes make the Regional tournament a much more crucial event than in past years. First, the top two teams in men's competition and women's competition advance from the Regional tournament to the NJCAA nationals. In 1978, the Western Junior College conference sent MC, OC and NMMI to the men's national tournament and they finished in a three-way tie for the national title. With the number of qualifiers cut to two, one of the defending national champions won't get back to the national tournament.

The other change is that men's competition now includes six singles and three doubles events, a jump from the four singles and two doubles previously played.

Chaparrals competing for the MC men are sophomores Mike Burch, Jose Rivera and Steve Wyatt. Freshmen are Scott Dunn, Oscar Ontiveros, Dale Boven and Des Ward. The women are sophomore Kathy Bovell and freshmen Leslie Miller, Debbie Smith, Mary Jane Spencer and Karen Young.

Waco is hosting both national tournaments, with the women playing May 14-19 and the men competing May 21-26. OC is the defending women's national champion with MC the 1978 national runnerup.

Lee goes $1 better on fine

MONTREAL (AP) — Bill Lee of the Montreal Expos went Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn $1 better Wednesday, mailing a check for $251 to the St. Mary's Mission in northern Alaska in payment of a $250 fine for discussing the left-hander's use of marijuana with reporters.

"I just wanted Bowie to know that I'm worth more than he thinks," said Lee, who had refused to pay the fine to anybody but the charity of his choice.

"I wanted to screw up the accounting, just to him around, what with all his pontificating," Lee said of Kuhn.

Lee's wife, Mary Lou, actually chose the Roman Catholic organization to receive the check.

"The mission is a little place for Eskimos and Indians," Lee said. "I hope this keeps them in mouse meat."

Blizzard reaches win column for first time

TORONTO (AP) — Peter Lorimer set up both goals as the Toronto Blizzard finally reached the win column in North American Soccer League play with a 2-1 verdict over the Tampa Bay Rowdies Wednesday night.

"Everyone in Toronto and North America thought it would be a walkover for them tonight," said Lorimer, whose team had lost its first four games. "But we fought and worked hard and we deserved to win."

Included in the four losses was a humiliating 7-1 pasting by the Rowdies two weeks ago in Tampa, Fla. "We thought the 7-1 loss was a false result for Tampa," Lorimer said, "and we wanted to show that we're not as bad as that game showed."

Only 4,193 fans had not given up on the Blizzard. They saw Toronto outshoot Tampa Bay 20-7 and control all aspects of play.

Although the Blizzard outshot Tampa 9-4 in the first half it wasn't until 55:24 that George Gibbs beat former Toronto goalkeeper Zeljko Bilacki to give the Blizzard a 1-0 lead.

Connors is in full command

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Jimmy Connors appeared well in command as he downed Dick Stockton 6-4, 6-4, but Connors' wife and his mother called the shots after the match, steering him away from reporters.

Following his victory in Wednesday's second round of the $250,000 Alan King Classic tennis tournament, Connors was approached by reporters in the pro shop at Caesars Palace, site of the event. After one statement — "I didn't think either one of us played well, we were both erratic..." — Connors' wife, Patty, and mother, Gloria, ended the brief press conference by taking him by the arms and leading him away.

Connors, the tournament's second seed, plays Rosee Tanner in today's competition, with top-seeded Bjorn Borg meeting Tim Gullikson, No. 3 John McEnroe playing Johan Kriek and Adriano Panatta playing Gene Mayer.

Borg downed John Alexander 5-7, 6-4, 6-2 Wednesday, and McEnroe beat Corrado Barazzutti 6-3, 6-1. In other second-round matches, Gullikson upset defending champion and fifth-seeded Harold Solomon 6-4, 6-1; Mayer topped Peter Fleming 6-3, 3-6, 7-6; Kriek beat Stan Smith 7-5, 6-4, and Tanner overcame Raul Ramirez 7-5, 6-3.

Longshot Kriek, a 21-year-old South African who now lives in Austria, notched his second impressive win of the tournament, having upset Arthur Ashe in the first round.

"I figure I have nothing to lose," said Kriek, speaking of his upcoming match against McEnroe. "If I beat him, I beat a good player. If he loses to me, he loses to a supposedly bad player."

Borg said he and Alexander played a "good match." But he also said, "I shouldn't have lost the first set, I should have held my serve at 5-4."

Baseball inks new contract

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Major league baseball, interested in more network television exposure in September, has signed long-term contracts with ABC and NBC that will give the national pastime greater late-season coverage. Both deals will extend through the 1983 season.

The announcement was to be made jointly by baseball and the two networks later today.

The deals call for ABC and NBC to continue to alternate the coverage of the World Series, League Championship Series and the All-Star Game. As part of the old agreements, ABC has this year's World Series, which will begin Tuesday night, Oct. 9, while NBC has the All-Star Game and both League Championship Series.

NBC will then have the World Series in 1980 and 1982, with ABC broadcasting the Fall Classic in 1981 and 1983.

THE SEPTEMBER broadcasts are a big boost for baseball, which has been embarrassed by the lack of late-season exposure. Just when the divisional races would be heating up, baseball would disappear from the tube on Monday nights and be replaced by "Monday Night Football."

ABC, which has been airing the national pastime in prime time since 1976, will continue its "Monday Night Baseball." This year, ABC will show 12 Monday night games beginning June 4. In addition, ABC will show one other prime time game — possibly on a Friday night — and three Sunday afternoon games in September.

This basic structure, with some small changes, will continue for the life of the contract between ABC and baseball.

NBC will once again have the Saturday afternoon package — 26 games — but with an additional wrinkle. For the first time, NBC will have week-night prime time baseball, showing one or two September games each year starting in 1980. Chet Simmons, president of NBC Sports, said the network isn't locked into any particular night.

And, what does baseball get out of this? The network exposure in regular season baseball's prime time — September — and, as always, money. Lots of it. A baseball source said that exact figures on the contract would be hard to come by. Baseball, which will have to negotiate with the players on a new contract after this season, does not want the players using the TV revenue as a bargaining ploy, the source said.

BUT OTHER sources in both baseball and television say it would not be outlandish to arrive at a figure of nearly $200 million by doubling the $92 million revenue from the previous contracts. In the old agreements, ABC paid out $48 million and NBC spent $44 million.

The $200 million figure would be a significant increase and it would reflect that baseball is riding a wave of popularity in both its ratings and attendance. However, the national pastime is still far behind the National Football League, which extracted a three-network agreement worth an estimated $656 million.

Football's prime time ratings have always been better than baseball's.

Tom Villante, baseball's dynamic executive director of marketing and broadcasting, has succeeded in giving baseball more quality national exposure. Although baseball has lost some Monday night games, they're in April and May when, according to Villante, there is less national interest in the divisional races.

"This package is more well-rounded," said one club president. "Giving up Monday games early in the season for important games later on made great sense."

SUNDAY BASEBALL will have a head-on confrontation with football, which will be very interesting. No time has been set for the afternoon broadcasts but ABC has traditionally tried to keep its weekend sports programs from intruding on the very important early evening local news.

ABC will also have the new problem of competing with local baseball broadcasts on Sunday. The network's Monday night games have been exclusive, free of any competitive local games, as part of its contract. "Monday Night Baseball" will continue in splendid isolation.

NBC, however, has no such protection for its Saturday games but there has been a movement toward scheduling the non-network games on Saturday night, leaving the afternoons more open for NBC.

Baseball, unlike football, relies heavily on the clubs' local TV contracts for exposure and revenue, which forced Villante to walk a tight-rope. Too many gains on the network level would cause complaints on the home fronts.

But he is standing very tall on that high wire. ABC is happy. NBC is happy. The local stations aren't complaining. And the owners, with more TV money in their pockets, are applauding.

After Villante explained the new TV package to the owners in New York on Tuesday, they gave him a standing ovation.

Navy eyes grid pact

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — The scheduling of Notre Dame and Navy for two football games at Giants Stadium in the 1980s could be a major step toward reviving the college game in the New York area.

The Irish and Midshipmen will meet at the 76,000-seat Meadowlands facility on Nov. 1, 1980, the first Meadowlands visit for Navy, and again on Oct. 30, 1982. Notre Dame defeated Army here in 1977.

"We've been talking to Notre Dame and Navy for about two years," said Robert Harter, executive director of the New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority. "They are not committed, but I have a feeling this will be a long-term relationship. This is a tremendous boost to our college football program."

In a related announcement, Notre Dame has agreed to play basketball games in the Meadowlands Arena, scheduled to open next year, during the 1982-83 and 1983-84 seasons.

Each school has been guaranteed $1,000,000 for playing the two football games.

"I'm extremely pleased to return here," said Irish Coach Dan Devine. "We were very much impressed as a team and coaching staff with the facilities. And I'm pleased with our opponent. Navy has been and always will be a big game for us."

"A school like Notre Dame, with great tradition and great pride, it's just a natural. I guarantee it will be a sellout."

Devine also said he would be willing to move the Notre Dame-Navy game at South Bend to the Meadowlands.

The last two Navy home games in the annual series were played in Cleveland's Municipal Stadium.

Bird still wonders if Celtics bluffing

BOSTON (AP) — It's become a high-stakes poker game as college basketball star Larry Bird and agent Bob Woolf try to decide if Boston Celtics General Manager Red Auerbach is bluffing.

The dean of National Basketball Association bosses, Auerbach claims his first contract offer two weeks ago to the Indiana State player-of-the-year also was his last.

Woolf, a Boston-based negotiator, is frustrated and angry and plans to confer with Bird this weekend in Terre Haute, Ind. The agent also has sent a letter to the NBA Players Association, alleging "intimidation" by Auerbach, who abruptly broke off talks on Tuesday.

"I didn't know what else to do," Woolf said Wednesday, conceding that Bird isn't even a member of the players organization.

Auerbach says he won't barter, although Bird's original $1 million per season demand has been lowered.

The guessing is that Woolf ("I have reduced the request dramatically") has lowered the proposal to $750,000 or $800,000 per year. This still would put the college star near, if not at the top, of the NBA salary ladder. Denver Nugget star David Thompson is said to be the league's highest paid player at $800,000 per season.

Auerbach said Wednesday, "I gave them my best shot ... and they said 'no way.'"

The Celtics apparently won't sweeten the initial offer of between $500,000 and $600,000 per year for six years. "I may just sit back and wait for the draft. If I blow it, I blow it," said Auerbach, alluding to the prospect that the gamble could be costly.

Bird was drafted No. 1 by Boston a year ago, and if he doesn't sign with the Celtics by the June 25 draft, he's available again for selection. The Los Angeles Lakers have first pick.

"I tried to acquaint (Woolf) with the going (salary) rate, the facts of life," Auerbach said. "This business about negotiations is ridiculous. That's the deal where I offer $200,000 and he comes down to $900,000. Then I offer $300,000 and he comes down to $800,000. Forget it."

"There's nothing left for me to do," said Woolf. The agent-lawyer denied he's getting marching orders from a Terre Haute panel of advisers to Bird. The Celtics suggest otherwise.

Auerbach said no NBA teams have approached him about acquiring pre-draft rights to the college star, and the Celtics' boss is sure Boston has offered more money than Bird could get from any other club.

"If he goes back in the draft, he's got to sign with the team that picks him," Auerbach said. "If he sits out a year, he'll never get back the money he loses. He'll lose endorsements and, who knows, he might never again be the same player."

Bird himself, as usual, was unavailable for comment. Woolf said the player has put his fate in the agent's hands.

Winnipeg Jets defeat Quebec Nordiques, 9-2

QUEBEC (AP) — The Winnipeg Jets defeated the Washington Capitals of the National Hockey League, who got the Jets job when Larry Hillman was fired.

"We have a real togetherness and a real team spirit on this club," McVie noted. "When you get eight different people scoring in one game, you know it has to be a team effort."

Willy Lindstrom scored two goals and assisted on one to lead the Jets' scoring. Rich Pres-

Cheevers tired of second fiddle

MONTREAL (AP) — Boston Bruins goaltender Gerry Cheevers, it appears, is growing tired of playing second fiddle to the Montreal Canadiens.

"We're like the Dodgers, always chasing the Yankees," Cheevers said, using a baseball context to describe the Bruins' continuing efforts to top the Canadiens in the National Hockey League playoffs.

"The Dodgers won a couple of times. Who's to say we can't beat Montreal?"

Finley slapped with damage suit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Charles O. Finley, the maverick owner of the Oakland A's, has been slapped with an $11.5 million damage suit by the team's home town, alleging breach of contract by failing to promote the American League franchise.

The suit, filed Wednesday by the Coliseum, Alameda County and the city of Oakland in U.S. District Court here, alleged that since the beginning of the 1975 season, Finley has done little to attract baseball fans to A's games.

"He's punishing Oakland, the Coliseum, his players, organized baseball, the commissioner ...

he punishes everyone who doesn't agree with him," Coliseum Inc. President Robert Nahas said last week after the A's drew only 653 for a game against Seattle.

The suit also alleged Finley would not cooperate with the team's booster club. It said that the owner's actions have cost the Coliseum at least $1.5 million in loss of rental income, parking, food and beverage sales and miscellaneous revenues.

Finley, who lives in San Jose station which cannot be received in some portions of the San Francisco Bay area.

The A's, who won consecutive world championships in 1972, 1973 and 1974, came to Oakland in 1968 under a 20-year lease with the Coliseum. Despite success on the field, the club has drawn more than a million fans only twice in its 11 full seasons here.

This year, with the team going badly, only about 39,000 fans have paid to see it play in 10 home games.

Coliseum officials first threatened such a suit last season. Finley said such threats did not bother him.

Former Vol coach dies

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Former University of Tennessee football Coach Harvey L. Robinson, a master tactician of the single-wing offense, died Wednesday in a Knoxville hospital following a long illness.

Robinson, 71, was the Volunteers head coach in 1953 and 1954, succeeding Robert Neyland. He retired three years ago after working for 15 years as a scout for the Dallas Cowboys.

Officials at Fort Sanders Presbyterian Hospital said Robinson died of cancer. He had undergone two previous cancer operations in recent years.

Robinson was the Vols' offensive coordinator under Neyland in 1951 when Tennessee won the national championship. When Neyland was forced by his health to retire from coaching and become Tennessee's athletic director in 1953, Robinson was his choice to succeed him as coach.

The Bruins begin their quest to beat the defending Stanley Cup champions tonight in the first game of their best-of-seven semifinal series at the Forum.

"They never panic," the veteran Boston netminder said of the Canadiens, who have beaten the Bruins in the final series the last two years. "They never get confused. They never sit on leads."

Cheevers, of course, was preoccupied with the Pittsburgh Penguins in Boston's quarter-final series and didn't have a chance to see how the Canadiens blew leads in the final two games of a quarter-final sweep over Toronto Maple Leafs, having to win both games in overtime.

Montreal led the fourth game Sunday night 4-0 before the Maple Leafs tied it 4-4 and forced sudden death.

Boston Coach Don Cherry said his club's health was "100 percent" after he took advantage of the final few regular-season games to rest some hurting players.

"All year we had injuries and never had a full squad and, three days before the end, we had whole team back. I rested Rick Middleton and Stan Jonathan for the last five games. We weren't going to catch Montreal in the overall standings, we weren't going to catch the Islanders, and nobody was going to catch us for third place."

McNeese State takes golf lead

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — McNeese State held a 6-stroke team lead and the Colonels' two-time league champion Tim Graham led individuals by three strokes entering today's second round of the Southland Conference golf tournament.

All five McNeese players were among the top 10 as the Colonels had 293 after the 18-hole first round Wednesday, six strokes better than Louisiana Tech's 299.

Lamar and Southwestern were tied for third in team standings with 306, followed by Texas-Arlington with 320 and Arkansas State at 333.

But for the Bruins to surpass Montreal in the semifinal and earn the right to meet either the Islanders or New York Rangers in the final, Cheevers will have to come up with a big series. The 38-year-old veteran has a 2.65 goals-against average in 72 NHL playoff games and was a big factor in Boston's Stanley Cup victories in 1970 and 1975.

Another key man for the Bruins is Don Marcotte, a hard-working left winger who scored four goals the last eight regular-season games and had three in Boston's four-game sweep of Pittsburgh.

"We have to have good forechecking against Montreal," said Marcotte, who can provide just that. "And we don't want to take bad penalties, because they rely so much on their power play."

Cherry and Montreal Coach Scotty Bowman have waged psychological warfare in past series, trying to win sympathy from game officials.

It appeared that Cherry might be firing the first shot of yet another skirmish when he said of the Toronto-Montreal series:

"The thing that really got to me was when I heard the power plays for the first two games in Montreal. Montreal had 10 and Toronto three, and it sounded like the finals the past two years."

The second game of the series will be played here Saturday night.

THE BUTCHER

Kidneys not just for cats anymore

By MERLE ELLIS

About the only items left in the meat case these days that could, by any stretch of the imagination, be called cheap are those items that we used to give away in days not long gone by. Dog bones, for example, we used to give those away. It was a standard routine, butchers and barefoot boys both loved it.

Enter barefoot boy: "You got any dog bones?"

Butcher: "Ain't cut up any dogs yet today."
Boy: "Ah! You know what I mean. Do you have any bones for my dog?"
Butcher: "Oh! Sure, here, a bone for your dog and a hot dog for you. Don't forget to tell your Mom where you got it."

Exit barefoot boy with bone and "dog" for dog and boy. We did the same thing for cats with kidneys (you know what I mean). It was cheap advertising.

These days, dog bones are labeled "soup bones" and sell for 49 cents or 59 cents a pound and kidneys go for 69 cents or more. Soup bones, whether they are for soup or the dog, I suggest you stay away from. You're better off to save bones for soup or for the dog from the various cuts of meat you buy than to buy bones at today's prices.

Kidneys, however, are a different story. At 69 cents a pound, beef kidneys can make a marvelous and inexpensive meal — and I don't mean for the cat.

The kidneys of beef, pork, lamb and veal all make excellent eating, but beef kidneys have become the best buy, by far. Lamb and veal kidneys are the most sought-after and have, therefore, become a little more expensive. Pork kidneys have a somewhat strong flavor that many people find objectionable. Beef kidneys, however, have actually improved in quality since back in the days when we used to give them away.

Many of the cook books that even mention kidneys were written long before beef as we know it today even existed. As a result, their recommended treatment of beef kidneys is way out of date. In those days, beef came to market considerably older than it does today. Steers then were two, three, even four years old before they came to market. As a result, the beef kidneys that were available then were stronger in flavor, tougher and, in general, less desirable than they are today.

These days, beef comes to market quite young, usually under 14 months of age, and while the meat may lack the rich beefy flavor of yesterday's cattle, the kidneys from today's younger beef can be cooked with many of the recipes that once called for veal kidneys.

It is both a blessing and a curse that good beef kidneys are a bit harder to find today than they once were, even though the general quality is better.

Today, each and every beef carcass is carefully inspected for wholesomeness by USDA inspectors. Part of the inspection procedure that every carcass is subjected to calls for opening the kidney clod, the fat that surrounds the kidney, so that the inspector can examine that organ.

Individual inspection of each beef carcass is, without question, a blessing. But as soon as the kidney clod is opened, the kidney contained therein is exposed to air and begins to dry out; that's the curse.

In selecting beef kidneys, look for those that show the least signs of dryness, but don't be too critical; we have to take "the bitter with the sweet." Some dryness can be tolerated for the assurance of wholesomeness.

Ideally, beef kidneys, any kidneys for that matter, should have a fresh glossy appearance. But more important, they should smell fresh with, at most, only the slightest hint of the odor of ammonia. If there is a dry spot on an otherwise fresh-looking and smelling kidney, simply trim it off.

Beef kidneys should be soaked for a few minutes, particularly if they are a bit dry, in a couple of cups of water to which you have added a tablespoon of lemon juice. That makes it easier to remove the outside membrane with the sharp point of a knife. Then split the kidney and remove the strip of fat and gristle that runs through the center.

To broil or grill, leave the kidneys in large pieces. To saute, cut them in strips. They are good simply brushed with melted butter, sprinkled with bread crumbs and grilled quickly on both sides. No matter how you cook kidneys, don't overcook them. They should be cooked quickly over high heat until just past pink. If you overcook them, they will be tough.

Quality apples are available

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Consumers can benefit from the unusually large spring and summer supply of high-quality apples by using the fruit in a variety of ways.

—Keep handy for munching; include in school lunches.
—Green salads can include apple chunks or wedges. Golden Delicious apples keep their color longer than others after cutting, but just a squeeze of fresh lemon juice will retard discoloration of any apple.
—Add apple chunks to chicken or seafood salads, potato salad and cole slaw.

—Use apples in bread pudding or rice pudding.
—Include thinly sliced apple on meat sandwiches.
—Spread peanut butter or cheese spread on apple wedges for snacks.
—Carry apples to picnics along with other summer fruits. Apples eaten out of hand help to clean other food particles from between teeth.

Apples are a good source of pectin, a form of fiber.

Rice is also classified according to the size and shape of the grain.

FOOD

Variety of rice types suits different needs

NEW YORK, N.Y.—We're all accustomed to buying specialized products in the market place for specific needs. There's copper cleaner and silver cleaner; leaded gasoline and the unleaded kind; detergents with special cleaners and some without, instant coffee, ground coffee, and even whole coffee beans.

We do buy what we need to do a job the way we want it done. But do you realize that nature also grows specialized products to fulfill differing meal and menu requirements?

Take rice, for example. Do you always grab the same package from the shelf? (More people are using rice these days according to a recent study sponsored by Woman's Day magazine.) But there are several different types of rice created by nature, to which man adds varying degrees of processing. The end result is quite an array of rice products...each with a specific job that it does particularly well.

Regular Milled White Rice. This is the most widely used kind of rice in the United States...and generally the most economical.

Parboiled Rice. Before it's milled (i.e. has the hull and bran removed) and packaged, this popular form of rice undergoes a special steam pressure processing. The most noticeable result of this processing is in how the rice cooks up in the kitchen. It has a firmer texture and is very separate and fluffy. These firm and separate qualities are highly regarded by many and they show up best served as a side dish. And because the grains are firm, they hold up well in soups, salads, and casseroles.

Pre-cooked Rice. Because this rice has been completely cooked, then dehydrated before packaging, it is the fastest and easiest kind of rice to prepare. The texture of the grains is somewhat different than regular milled white rice, as a result of the processing method. Its best use? As a side dish or with a saucy entree.

Brown Rice. This is the rice grain with most of the natural bran layers still intact. The name is a little misleading since brown rice is just slightly tan in color. The real differences are in the cooking time and texture.

Because the bran layer is not as tender as the inner grain, brown rice takes three times as long to cook as regular rice. But in 45 minutes to one hour, the bran layer is cooked, chewy, and ready to eat. Bran layers contain Vitamin E, fiber, vitamins and minerals. Since most white rice is enriched, the nutritional content of brown and enriched white rice is comparable...except for the Vitamin E and the fiber.

Medium Grain Rice. This is one of nature's variations. Although the grains are a bit shorter than their long grain cousins, the difference probably won't be noticeable until after cooking unless you have them side by side. There is a general rule about rice grains: The shorter the grain, the more tender and clingy they cook up.

Medium grain rice is less fluffy and separate; it is a good choice for dishes such as rice molds and rice desserts.

Short Grain Rice. It's not as easy to find but it most likely will always be available in ethnic markets specializing in Oriental or Caribbean foods. It is superb for rice pudding.

Long Grain Rice. This type is the most widely used in the U.S., although in certain areas the other types may be just as popular. The grains cook up separate and fluffy. It's good as a base for a saucy entree, is excellent in a casserole and can also be used in desserts, salads and soups.

Rice is also classified according to the size and shape of the grain.

This Oriental dish extravaganza will stir up a storm of compliments for you.

Stir-fry suits modern tastes

Learn to stir-fry! From San Francisco, gateway to the orient, comes a stir-fry dish that makes delicious sense for busy people. Thanks to frozen vegetables and pantry-handy California ripe olives, you can present your family or friends with this easy to fix oriental feast.

San Francisco Stir-Fry is an unusual, nutritious one-meal dish, ideally suited for busy people who still demand quality and variety in their meals. It is a delicious combination of chicken, ripe olives, emerald green frozen broccoli, mushrooms, bean sprouts, and oriental noodles.

Frozen broccoli is ready in minutes, without chopping or peeling. The packaged noodles also require less than five minutes to cook and the olives with their rich, lush flavor are ready in seconds from their convenient can.

- SAN FRANCISCO STIR FRY
- 6 boneless chicken breasts, skinned
 - 1/4 cup soy sauce
 - 1 clove garlic, minced
 - 8 tablespoons vegetable oil
 - 2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen broccoli spears
 - 1 cup canned pitted California ripe olives
 - 2 packages (3 ounces each) Oriental noodles with chicken-flavored seasoning packet
 - 2-3 stalks celery, thinly sliced diagonally

- 4 scallions with greens, thinly sliced diagonally
- 4 ounces fresh mushrooms, thinly sliced
- 1/2 pound fresh bean sprouts or 1 can bean sprouts, rinsed and drained
- 1/2 teaspoon cornstarch

One hour before serving, cut chicken breasts into 1/4-inch strips. Combine soy sauce, garlic and 4 tablespoons oil in bowl. Marinate chicken for 1 hour.

Meanwhile, defrost broccoli under hot tap water. Drain and cut spears into halves lengthwise. Drain ripe olives, saving liquid in measuring cup. Cut olives into wedges. Crush noodles; set aside seasoning packets. Cook noodles as package directs; drain well. Slice onions, mushrooms, celery and bean sprouts. Arrange on plate along with broccoli, noodles and olives.

Sauce: Drain chicken strips well, reserving marinade. Combine marinade with 1/4 cup olive liquid, noodle seasoning packets and cornstarch. Set aside.

Cook: Heat 4 tablespoons oil in a wok or large skillet. Add half the chicken to oil and stir-fry quickly to a golden color. Remove from oil and keep warm. Repeat for remaining chicken. Add broccoli, celery, scallions to oil and fry quickly. Add olives, mushrooms, bean sprouts and cook for two minutes more. Add cornstarch mixture and cook until thickened. Add chicken and noodles. Mix well. Heat thoroughly and serve. Yield: 6 servings.

Survey shows U.S. concern for staying healthy

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Americans say they know you can't take good health for granted and should work at staying fit, but they often don't put their beliefs into practice, a new survey shows.

The survey, made public today, indicates that families are finding it harder to cope with the problems of daily living, primarily because of inflation, and they are cutting the amount they spend on health-related items.

Yankelovich, Skelly and White, Inc. conducted the study, "Family Health in an Era of Stress," for General Mills, Inc. It was the third in a series of reports prepared by the company and the polling firm on aspects of American family life and was based on interviews with 1,254 families.

Ruth Clark, senior vice president of Yankelovich, Skelly and White said she thinks the survey shows a serious attempt by Americans to take responsibility for their own health problems. "If you think of where people came from... you see that things are happening," she said, noting most families used to think in terms of health only when they got sick.

—Fifty-five percent of the respondents said they strongly agreed with the statement: "In order to be really healthy, you have to work at it every day." But 30 percent said they seldom practice what they preach when it comes to taking good care of themselves and an equal number said it takes too much dedication and discipline to really follow a good health routine.

—Asked if they had changed their eating and exercise habits or otherwise altered their lives in the interest of good health, only 46 percent said yes.

—More than four people in 10 said it is harder to cope with the problems of daily life than it was a few years ago. Asked to list the reasons, 58 percent said high food costs; 34 percent said meeting bills; and 32 percent said saving for the future.

—Three out of four people said they agreed — strongly or partially — with the statement that there are so many government warnings that they don't know what's good for them any more. But about the same number said it's better to be safe than sorry; they said the government should warn people about potentially unsafe products even if they later turn out to be okay.

Americans apparently blame themselves for their health problems. More than one-third said procrastination was the main reason they weren't as healthy as they could be. Only 40 percent said they believe the government is responsible for seeing that all Americans have good health care, whether or not they can afford it.

The people surveyed generally felt it was important to have regular medical checkups, but nearly three-fourths of them said those checkups cost too much for the average family to afford.

WHAT DO FAMILY members like to do with their leisure time? Fifty-one percent said they liked to sit around and relax; 25 percent favored going to a movie, bar or restaurant; and only 24 percent voted for physical exercise.

WASHINGTON (AP) — National Cancer Institute officials concede that some of their costly animal tests involving suspected cancer-causing agents have been a waste of money.

In ADDITION, the cancer institute is struggling to publish formal reports on its test results for several of the remaining substances, and has test results on another 223 chemicals in its files that it never told Congress about, said the GAO, an investigative arm of Congress.

Regulatory agencies such as the Environmental Protection Agency and the Food and Drug Administration use the institute's technical reports when deciding whether a substance is a health hazard.

The accounting office study, which is generally critical of the National Cancer Institute's management of its carcinogen testing program, was conducted at the request of Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., chairman of an influential House health subcommittee.

WAXMAN SAID the study's conclusions amounted to a "serious indictment of management practices at NCI" which waste millions of dollars.

In 1974, the agency awarded a contract to a private firm in Rockville, Md., to oversee the program and as a result the backlog of reports has been reduced, the GAO found. The contract is for about $41 million.

Meanwhile, the accounting office said the private firm, Tracor-Jitco, Inc., has not told the institute about certain laboratory deficiencies it found and the firm didn't always make sure the shortcomings were corrected. Compounding the problem, the GAO said, institute officials did not monitor Tracor-Jitco's performance closely.

Parliamentarian featured speaker

Nationally-known parliamentarian Mrs. Arthur L. Staples of Houston was featured instructor at the parliamentary procedure institute held recently at Midland College. Her topic was, "As a Member of a Society, What in the World Would I Do in a Case Like This?" Mrs. Staples based her instruction on the ladder of motions in Roberts Rules of Order Newly Revised.

Other registered professional parliamentarians speaking were Mrs. Harold D. Lovett and Elsie C. Stephenson.

John V. Slyker was master of ceremonies. Welcoming addresses on behalf of the sponsoring Permian Basin Unit of the National Association of Parliamentarians and Midland College were given by Mrs. Wayne Johnson, unit president, and Tyler H. Tindall, of the MC speech department.

Institute committee members were: Mrs. Lovett, chairman; Mrs. Taylor E. Bowers, arrangements; Mrs. Leigh Cerboskas and Ada Spivey, registration; Mrs. W.H. Lee, publicity; Mrs. J.L. Hutchison, programs; Mrs. E.L. Campbell and Auline Brasuel, refreshments; Mona Deland and Jerry Sue Smith, hostesses, and Vyola Stroman, door prizes.

But Harriet Kennedy, an institute spokeswoman, adds in response to a General Accounting Office report that congressional investigators could have been a "little more charitable" in their findings.

The GAO report released Tuesday said the federal anti-cancer agency has decided not to complete technical reports on tests it conducted for 51 of 207 suspected cancer-causing agents because of experimental deficiencies. The institute and congressional officials say each test costs from $200,000 to $400,000.

He was a "little disappointed" in the report and he defended his company's performance.

Maton said some of the accounting office's information was two years old, adding that the institute program was "constantly changing" and required "constant vigilance."

"To my knowledge all the things the GAO reported were corrected," he said.

Newcomers Club sets May 4 game activities

The Newcomers Club of Midland will have couples' bingo beginning at 7 p.m. May 4 in the Hospitality Room of Coors Distributors on West Highway 80.

A catered meal will be served at a cost of $3 per person. Each couple is asked to bring a white elephant gift.

Deadline for purchasing tickets is Monday. New residents are invited and may call 697-3754 or 694-4189 for more information. Members not previously contacted should call 683-8874.

The club met recently for their regular monthly meeting at Ranchland Hills Country Club. Coffee was served and Don Hedgpeth, acting director of the Museum of the Southwest, shared his impressions of the American cowboy, as he was and is today.

Special prizes were donated by Midland Hydroponic Farms and La Casa Verde Garden Center.

DINING WELL is something that will never go out of style, even though today's homes often do not have the formal dining room. Culinary specialists have long known that the enjoyment of any meal is enhanced by serving it in an attractive manner... and in a pleasant setting. And whether you have a separate dining room or an area at one end of the living room, you can turn it into one of the most inviting areas in your home, where family or guests can savor relaxed, unhurried meals.

There are dining room suites available to fit any size dining area, even the smallest dining "L". Handsome, comfortable chairs are an invitation to sit a while. And one of the most important pieces, the breakfast, lunch or china cabinet, is as functional as any piece of furniture you can have, providing storage for china, linens and silverware.

Dress up your dining area with light, inviting colors, comfortable furniture, sunny draperies, and perhaps a pull-down lighting fixture... and you'll find guests and family lingering over your meals!

From the most functional set for family room or kitchen to the most elegant dining room furniture, our selection is complete. Let us help you dine with the best!

Little shop has big calling

By BURT BERLINER

NEW YORK (AP) — Phyllis Prinz stood in the middle of her tiny shop, hugging a five-foot crayon. "I feel like Alice in Wonderland," she giggled.

Passers-by, peering in the windows, gaped at the fantastic array: 6-foot pencils, 5-long matches, 5-foot clothespins, a 3-foot paint brush — everyday items reproduced in gigantic proportion.

"Remember how it was, passing a gigantic replica of some familiar product and wishing you could take it home as a decorative object?" asks Ms. Prinz, who recalls mammoth shoes in a shoemaker's window, an enormous golf ball in a sporting goods display counter and other huge replicas designed to draw attention to their mass-produced normal sized counterparts.

Ms. Prinz, a petite graphic designer, and her partner, medium-sized Robert Malkin, an expert in metals and plastics, are happily dwarfed by their colossal venture into big business.

"American display imagery isn't limited to commercial uses. It has a place in the home," says Malkin, who formerly was a partner in a Long Island metal and plastic fabrication company.

The couple recently formed Pop-Eye Productions Inc. to mass-produce their favorite items in durably devastating sizes.

"These aren't one-of-a-kind art objects," says Malkin, who knows all about manufacturing methods, materials and costs.

"We're trying to combine art and technology to produce classic American images at moderate prices. Each item represents a classic example of its genre."

Giant reproductions crowding the tiny shop in New York's chic SoHo include a whopping crayon box, $100; crayons, $65 each; clothespin, $60; paper-clip, $65; screwdriver, $55; paint brush, $55; harmonica, $45; pencil, $265, and a matchbox with 12 matches, $75.

"The scale runs up as high as 15 times the original size," says Ms. Prinz. Billed as vice president and creative director — Malkin is president — she's excited about patrons' enthusiasm.

"People are absolutely bowled over when they walk by the shop. They're drawn in like magnets. It's like returning to your childhood, walking in on Alice in Wonderland."

Dwarfed by their business venture are Robert Malkin and Phyllis Prinz, who sit among some of the mammoth replicas of ordinary objects produced by their firm, Pop-Eye Productions. The designs grew out of display imagery. If the scale is super, the prices match. Crayons are $65 each, their box in $100, pencils are $265 and paper clips cost $12 each. (AP Laserphoto)

Space 'relic' now serves as disease safety center

By JACK STILLMAN

ATLANTA (AP) — A relic of the nation's early space program has become an important part of a safety system to protect researchers who work in isolation laboratories at the national Center for Disease Control.

Some experiment with exotic diseases for which there is no vaccine or any known treatment.

In the event that they are exposed, the CDC has designed an elaborate system for their care without endangering doctors, nurses or the community.

The victim would be taken to what appears to be an ordinary mobile home inside a warehouse, a CDC facility at nearby Lawrenceville.

The mobile home was used in the U.S. Apollo space program to isolate crewmen returning from the moon. It has been modified to provide additional safety precautions.

Although it has never been used by the CDC, it is kept in readiness.

The mobile home is part of a system, said Dr. John Richardson, director of the CDC's office of biosafety. For instance, a researcher exposed to the risks of Lassa fever would not be whisked the 25 miles to Lawrenceville by ambulance or taxicab. He would be moved in a special van, a smaller isolation transport unit.

To get to the van, he would be carried in a sealed, plastic envelope.

The CDC conducts research in several exotic diseases — all of which are extremely contagious viruses, said Richardson.

"All are exotic, in that they don't naturally occur in this country," he said. "All are serious, in that they are all life threatening and there is no vaccine or specific treatment."

Besides Lassa fever, they include Ebola fever and Marburg fever, all of which are known mostly in Africa.

Although the isolation unit can be transported, Richardson said there were no plans to move it.

"It will remain here," he said. "The doctors, nurses and others needed to treat the patient will be brought here."

The threat of exposure to the community is small, he said.

The patient would be isolated for twice the time of the incubation period of the virus — usually about three weeks.

A doctor entering the isolation capsule would first go through an air chamber, where he would change into plastic clothing with a mechanical breathing device.

"If there were more than one person, there would be a lot of togetherness," Richardson said. The unit can adequately house four persons.

The mobile home has a lounge, office, bedroom, bath and a fully equipped kitchen.

Six persons are engaged in full-time research in two isolation laboratories at the CDC. Four others work part-time in the laboratories.

Richardson said there was little danger to any of the other 1,600 employees at the CDC.

The CDC is currently negotiating with an Atlanta hospital to convert a suite to an isolation ward. But until then, the mobile home, dubbed the "silver bullet" by CDC employees, is waiting in its warehouse.

Marconi only
21 at discovery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of the wireless, was only 21 when he discovered messages could be transmitted without the use of wires.

One of Marconi's life objectives was to create a system of communications capable of operating with complete reliability from any point on earth, according to IPO, Inc., a non-profit group dedicated to preserving the patent system.

When Marconi died in 1937, wireless stations throughout the world closed for two minutes.

Bills affecting elderly before legislature

Austin Bureau $10,000 homestead exemption on general
AUSTIN—The 66th elementary and secondary school taxes for consideration a vast those 65 and older and to assortment of bills that freeze taxes on would benefit the elderly people of Texas.

The legislation ranges from tax relief proposals to health services. Lyle Hamner of Austin, self-styled lobbyist coordinating the legislative efforts of 18 different organizations for senior citizens in Texas, polled memberships and put tax relief at the top of the list of goals.

Currently stalled in the Senate Finance Committee is legislation to implement the intent of the "tax relief amendment" session of the 65th Legislature last July. It would exempt from property taxation household goods and non-producing property. The legislation also would implement the people who are already eligible for institutional care but instead are being cared for by relatives.

The "respite" care would be used in case of emergencies, such as an illness, Berlanga explained.

Still another health services bill, by Rep. Frank Collazo Jr., would provide additional community adult day care services for persons over 65 who don't want to be institutionalized in long-term care facilities. The bill gives the Human Resources Dept. rule-making authority to set standards for day care procedures.

Hamner said the senior citizens organizations are pushing for passage of the following legislative measures:
—A bill to allow generic equivalent drugs to be substituted on prescriptions where brand-name drugs are prescribed if the substitutes are less expensive.
Forty states now allow generic drug substitution. This legislation could save elderly people of Texas millions of dollars a year, said Hamner.
—A bill to allow citizens to buy group auto insurance and at competitive prices. All but three states now allow this. Hamner said the insurance lobby has agreed not to oppose the bill.
"This would mean a savings of at least 20 percent of the costs of auto insurance for elderly people and 20 percent to them means an awful lot," he said.

—Legislation to allow Texas voters to decide if the homestead exemption by all taxing authorities should be mandatory rather than permissive, as it now is.
—Legislation to provide special protective services for elderly people who are preyed upon by bunco artists.
—Bills that would eliminate forced retirement because of age in both state government and private industry, as long as the workers are productive.
—Legislation giving counties ordinance-making powers so that rural residents may enjoy code-enforcement protection as city dwellers now have.

—A bill requiring restaurants and cafeterias to serve child plates to the elderly and at the same price when child's plate proportions are requested.

—Bills that would eliminate forced retirement because of age in both state government and private industry, as long as the workers are productive.

'Lost war' creates lost people

EDITOR'S NOTE: In another in a series of dispatches from refugee camps around the world, AP Special Correspondents Peter Arnett and Eddie Adams tell of the dilemma of the nomadic Hmong people who fought for the CIA in Laos and now regard themselves as abandoned luggage in America's lost war. The reporter-photographer team traveled 45,000 miles across four continents in search of the world's 10.5 million homeless.

By PETER ARNETT

NAN, Thailand (AP) — For centuries the nomadic and free-spirited Hmong tribesmen wandered the high places of southern Asia. Today they regard themselves as the abandoned luggage of a lost American war.

Their chieftain spoke quietly as he adjusted the red sash around his baggy pants. The silver bells on his embroidered jacket tinkled as he walked to a meeting with the tribal elders. "Our choice was simple: death or flight," said Chomsy Chiengmala, once a major in a guerrilla army recruited in Laos by the American CIA, now a leader of 13,000 refugees huddled in the Ban Nam Yao camp in Thailand's Nan province.

Already, nearly 60,000 Hmong tribesmen have made the tortuous journey on foot out of Laos to northern Thailand. Like so many of the world's 10.5 million refugees, they look to the United States for their future.

Here in northern Thailand they live in thatched huts strung along hillsides perpetually wreathed in the blue smoke of cooking fires. Stocky women in black turbans and festooned with red pompons shuttle along the narrow pathways lugging water jars and kindling wood.

They hope it's but a stopover on their way to America, but chances for most are slim.

The Hmong migrated into Laos a century ago from southern China and settled high in the mountains above the malaria belt. Then, in the second half of the 20th century, they went to war.

They were recruited by the thousands by the CIA to battle in the Laos back country against the Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese armies. In a bitter and largely clandestine struggle, they gained a reputation for bravery and resilience.

Their creed then, said Chomsy, was "kill or be killed." And for 13 years they denied much of northern Laos to the communist side.

But the cost was dear. "From a population of around 200,000 we lost 10,000 dead and tens of thousands wounded," the chieftain said. "Our casualties were three times the rate of Americans in Vietnam."

Today, in flight, they reach the Thailand camp at the rate of a dozen or so a day. Some don't make it.

On this day at Pak Chong, a Mekong River anchorage wedged between red clay cliffs, 41 families were found sitting on the river bank shivering, their embroidered clothes hanging up to dry. They had crossed from Laos earlier in the morning by tying their children to branches and pushing them through the swift-running water.

"The whole village of 301 people came," said headman Tsia Pao Yang to an interrogating Thai policeman. "We left because Vietnamese soldiers stole our rice and chickens and we feared death. Three of us were killed by Lao soldiers during our week on the trail."

U.N. officials estimate that one in four refugees does not make it to Thailand, perishing on the jungle trails from exhaustion or the bullets of pursuing soldiers.

"Sometimes we see their bodies floating down the Mekong River," said Larry Persons, an American missionary from nearby Nongkhai. "No one dares fish them out because of the danger of gunfire from the other side."

The Ban Nam Yao camp is three years old, but the population remains about constant. While about 50 leave each month for resettlement in another country, usually the United States, about the same number of babies are born.

Many here are widows. Zua Yang, 40, a baby at her breast, said her husband died while crossing the Mekong River, leaving her with six children. Another woman, Houi Sagan, 31, stitching embroidery with her 13-year-old daughter at her side, told how her husband was killed in the war.

The refugee life is altering the lifestyle of the free-spirited Hmongs, not accustomed to bureaucracy and regulations and sometimes given to smoking opium and taking an extra wife.

About 15 per cent of the Hmong men have more than one wife. One of them is Chue Dua Her, 30. A short, sturdy former battalion commander, Chue said he had admitted to American officials he had two wives, unintentionally disqualifying himself for resettlement in the United States.

"I have known other men to lie about their wives, claiming the women were instead their sisters," he said, with his two wives and five children standing nearby. "And they are living happily in America."

Smoking opium is a traditional habit of the older Hmongs, but the American authorities frown on that, too. Sua Tua, a gaunt 68, said he has smoked three pipes a day for years, financed from his son's earnings in the camp as a laborer. The habit cost him a ticket to America.

Back in Laos, a wife brought a dowry of about $750. In the camp the price has plummeted to $200, with some marriages arranged on credit.

And the size of the Hmong family has diminished

Saomang Vang, 85 and accompanied by 12 family members, has been waiting in the camp since July 1975. (AP Laserphoto) from a normal dozen children to only two or three. Americans in Thailand believe the Hmong deserve a special consideration for immigration.

Unless a Hmong soldier has served 4½ years in the U.S.-backed army he is not considered for resettlement.

"Yet, 40 percent of those we deal with have served a full 3½ years," one American said.

About 8,000 Hmong have immigrated to the U.S. and 50,000 remain in Thailand. As many as 20,000 more are expected to flee from Laos.

Under the tightly defined American program, only those with "anchor" relatives in America — such as parents, children and single siblings — qualify for resettlement. Married brothers and sisters are not eligible to join a brother in the United States.

"Yet Soviet Jews are allowed to go to the U.S. regardless of any tie or relationship," said one American who works with the refugees. "I think the Hmong who fought in our army should get similar treatment."

With the American withdrawal from Indochina in the early 1970s, the Hmong were left to fend for themselves.

Some continued to resist the communists and are known to be fighting still. But the unmarked U.S. planes that used to supply them have long since stopped flying.

Other Hmongs capitulated to the communists, with the men being sent to re-education camps and their families to communal farms.

But, according to United Nations and Thai officials, the majority decided to flee because they feared their past association with the Americans had tainted them in the eyes of the communists.

"The Hmong has always fought for justice and freedom," wrote Hmong sociologist Yang Dao in 1975. "If he feels his security is threatened or his life in danger he will pull up stakes without looking backward and leave the mountain where he was born to look for a new country where he can live like a free man."

New York police confirm excavation of possible gangland 'cemetery'

NEW YORK (AP) — Organized crime may have used a little-known, abandoned railroad tunnel in Manhattan as a burial ground for up to 60 victims of gangland killings, the Daily News reported Tuesday.

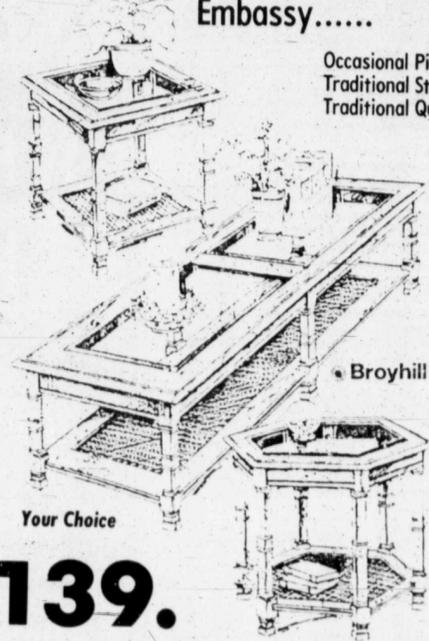

The police department confirmed excavation work is under way in the tunnel at four sites between 36th and 58th streets and Tenth and Eleventh avenues. No bodies have yet been found, and police said they have no way of knowing for sure if any are buried beneath the debris that clogs the tunnel.

A police spokesman who asked not to be named said officials were alerted by an informant that the tunnel was a body dump. The spokesman said authorities don't necessarily give the report much credence.

MHS YOUTH CENTER CHATTER

By VALERIE VAN PELT, JANE FORSYTH AND CECILY SHULL

Their casts have performed from Peking, China, to Belfast, Ireland; before millions at Superbowl 10, Carnegie Hall, and now in Midland. At 8 p.m. on May 4, an international cast of "Up With People" will perform live in concert in the Midland High Auditorium. The cast includes 80 persons from seventeen countries. The cast will perform musical numbers from the roaring '20's to the soaring '70's. If you or your family can provide housing for these people, please contact the Youth Center Office. Junior Council members will be selling tickets and there will be cash prizes for the top three sellers. Tickets are $6 for general admissions and $15 for reserved seats. So buy your tickets now and enjoy this evening of family entertainment.

More young people are IN THE NEWS. Congratulations to Vicki Vasicek who won the girls tennis singles at regional tennis competition. Girls golf team placed fourth in regional competition. Donna Repman ran in fourth place in regional track events. This weekend Jeff Robnett and James Lary will compete in regional competition in track. Good Luck to these guys and congratulations to these winners!

The MHS diamond studders are tied with LHS for first place in the second half of district baseball. Saturday, the Pack beat Abilene 3-1. Kelly Lilly was the outstanding pitcher. Keep up the winning way.

Last Thursday night Midland Junior Achievement held its annual banquet. Bill Creager was selected as president of the year, and Paul Philpy was selected as vice-president. Congratulations.

Another banquet coming up in the future is the MHS spring sports banquet. The banquet will be held May 3 in the cafeteria. Outstanding athletes of the year will be recognized. Don't miss this climatic event.

The sports banquet recognizes talents in sports, but the Senior Talent Show will recognize all talents. The show will be May 10. Tryouts are May 1 and 2.

Seniors—please pick up your invitations. Friday is the last day!

Something that goes along with graduation is the Junior-Senior Prom. This Saturday night, from 8:30 to 12:30, the Illustrated Band from Austin will entertain and play the tunes for Juniors, Seniors and their dates. There is no charge so everybody get a date and make it a night to remember.

This week Jay McMahon is Junior Rotarian, and Junior Lion is Neda Mukhtar. Congratulations!

Counting the days, counting the nights, counting the hours until our "flight." Seniors of '79!!

Val, Jane, and Ces

P.S. All council members are needed at 9 a.m. Saturday in the YC to decorate for the Prom. There will be a few doughnuts. So come early for breakfast.

Number getting stamps increases to new high

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of people getting government food stamps, increasing at a budget-breaking pace since Jan. 1, grew an additional 6.3 percent in February to a three-year high of 18.6 million persons.

At that pace, enrollment in the program soon will exceed the peak of 19.3 million persons in April and May 1975.

However, the Agriculture Department, which reported the latest figures Wednesday, said advance information for March "suggests a significant slowdown" in the program's growth rate.

Leslie Wilder of the department's Food and Nutrition Service said the estimate of 18.6 million persons getting food stamp benefits in February was the largest enrollment since March 1976 when 19.2 million were covered.

South took the ace of spades and couldn't wait to play three rounds of clubs to get rid of his losing spade.

West ruffed the third club, and South later lost the two red aces and a finesse for the jack of diamonds. Down one.

BAD LUCK

South complained about his bad luck. The clubs broke horribly, and even then South would land on his feet if East held the jack of diamonds.

After taking the ace of spades South should lead trumps and let the opponents get their spade trick. When the trumps are safely drawn South can run the clubs to get rid of a diamond. He loses a spade, a trump and a diamond, making the game.

Rhodesian election less than historic, more than 'sham'

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — To Rhodesia's whites and moderate black leaders, the election was an historic event. To the guerrilla leaders and the U.S. and British governments it was a sham. The truth is somewhere in between.

For the 230,000 whites in a country with some 7 million blacks, last cent of 2.9 million eligible voters was far more than most U.S. elections.

The United States and other critics of the election have cast doubt on the validity of the election process, claiming that 90 percent of the country is under martial law and that the guerrillas didn't participate.

To which black leaders in Rhodesia respond that martial law was a reaction to guerrilla atrocities and that Nkomo and Mugabe were invited, with amnesty promised, to take part in the elections but refused.

The elections were a result of the accord signed in March 1978 by white Prime Minister Ian D. Smith, Muzorewa and two other moderate blacks in the transition government, the Rev. Ndababingi Sithole and Chief Jeremiah Chirau.

Final election returns Tuesday gave Muzorewa's party 51 of the 72 seats reserved for blacks in Parliament, making him Zimbabwe Rhodesia's first black prime minister. Zimbabwe Rhodesia is the country's new name.

In a formula to prevent skilled whites from fleeing the country when Muzorewa assumes office next month, the white minority has been guaranteed 28 seats in the 100-seat Parliament for the next 10 years. Also, whites will control the judiciary, police, military and civil service for the next five years.

But for most of them the scaling down of power will be a bitter pill to swallow. Rhodesia was a prosperous British colony in Africa. When Britain, finally realizing in the 1960s that the sun was indeed about to set on its far-flung empire, began granting independence to its former colonies, the white leadership in Rhodesia objected. Smith unilaterally declared independence in 1965.

Economic and military sanctions followed by Britain and other nations but the breakaway British colony survived, even flourishing for a period of years, because of its friend to the immediate south, South Africa. The South Africans acted as the vital conduit for exports and imports.

An analysis

week's five-day poll signalled the end to 90 years of white domination in black Africa.

For Bishop Abel Muzorewa, who will be Rhodesia's first black prime minister, and other moderate blacks, the election meant blacks gained by peaceful means what the guerrillas have been fighting for since 1972.

For most Western governments, the United States included, the election process was a slick maneuver by whites to remain in power, behind a facade of black token politicians. Black nationalist guerrillas Robert Mugabe and Joshua Nkomo felt the same way.

The voting was generally described as free and fair as possible under wartime conditions by about 60 unofficial observers from the United States, Britain, Australia and several European countries.

In the rural areas, where many blacks live, observers and journalists saw situations which suggested coercion by both government and guerrillas. Blacks were trucked to polling stations by employers in some areas. In others, blacks stayed away from voting because of intimidation by the guerrillas.

But in urban areas of the country, where neither the government nor the guerrillas have much influence, blacks turned out in large numbers to vote, for the first time ever, and many said they were voting for peace rather than a single candidate.

Kids turn manure to rosy future

RAMONA, Calif. (AP) — The four San Diego kids who turned horse manure and dead gophers into a big money corporation called Kidco are making so much money they're buying a town — as a tax shelter.

That's not all. They've made a deal to sell the movie rights to their story for $150,000, plus a percentage of the profits, of course. The town they're buying for $750,000 is Gorda, 50 miles north of San Simeon, Calif.

"I'll tell you this, they have a horrendous tax liability and Gorda is just the shelter," their father, Richard Cessna, said in a telephone interview Tuesday.

"This never was just a bunch of kids catching gophers," said Cessna. "All of them have been taught to get out and hustle."

To Pacific Coast Highway travelers, Gorda is a 20-acre landmark and way-station near Big Sur about halfway between Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Two years ago, the Cessna kids — Dickie, 14, Bette, 13, June, 15, and Ne-Ne, 11 — found a good way to make extra money while helping their dad clean his horse stables, so they incorporated.

Kidco Ltd. Ventures sold manure as fertilizer, did cleanup jobs for a local developer and killed an occasional gopher for their neighbors in San Diego County Estates near here.

They once said they made $3,000 a month selling fertilizer. But Cesspa says they "shy away from talking about their earnings these days."

At the time, state government bureaucrats in Sacramento, sniffing revenue in the Kidco manure empire, demanded an explanation as to why Kidco had not collected or paid sales tax on the fertilizer.

In late April 1977, a 12-year-old Dickie stroled into the State Board of Equalization tax office under the glare of television lights and reporters and Kidco came out smelling like a rose. The state decided not to press for the back taxes, and the kids didn't have to pay.

The Cessna kids then fought the Department of Food and Agriculture over the formula for their "secret" gopher pesticide. After agreeing not to use the recipe, agriculture officials said Kidco needed a pest control license. That battle is at a standstill.

Cessna said the Kidco fortunes have been boosted by the creation of a new patented gopher trap, a forthcoming Warner Bros. movie about his children's trials and triumphs and a possible television series.

"The theme of the movie is the big bad bureaucrats leaning on the little children," Cessna said.

Last June, Cessna said he was skimming a San Diego newspaper when he spotted an ad listing Gorda for sale. He showed the ad to Kidco's board of directors — Dickie, Ne-Ne, Bette and June. They liked the idea, and the sale on the 20-acre town becomes final next month.

Kidco plans to build a recreational vehicle park in Gorda and will operate the gas station, restaurant and store. In addition, Cessna said Dickie would like to be mayor.

"The place has tremendous potential," Cessna said. "There's nothing along that whole stretch of highway where RV owners can park and camp for the night."

The children technically now own their father's business. Cessna turned over the equestrian center and his other holdings to Kidco.

"I'm not using the kids," Cessna said. "The kids are using themselves. When you have 10 children, life has to be pretty disciplined and orderly. Our life-style is quite old-fashioned by today's standards. There is no juvenile delinquency in this family."

Egyptians, Israelis need to adjust to each other

EDITOR'S NOTE—The Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty is supposed to open the borders between the two countries after 31 years hostility. The writer, formerly based in Tel Aviv, recently returned to Paris from visits to Egypt and Israel. In this article he measures the impact of enemies meeting as friends.

By MARCUS ELIASON

PARIS (AP) — Camera-clicking Israelis at the Pyramids. Egyptians sunning themselves on Tel Aviv's beach. Two years ago such notions would have seemed ridiculous. Now they are the idyll that shimmers in the thicket of clauses and subclauses of the first peace treaty between Israel and an Arab nation. With Wednesday's formal ratification of the treaty by Egypt and Israel, the two sides have taken one more step toward a stupendous human drama of enemies becoming friends.

But if "the waging of peace," as President Carter put it, is to succeed, signatures and ceremonies aren't enough. Both sides will need to learn tact and patience, to unlearn many propaganda-bred prejudices and stereotypes, to stop shouting and start listening.

"Perhaps never has peace been made between two nations who know so little about one another," says author Amos Eylon, one of the few hundred Israelis who have visited Egypt since the peace process began. Egypt's Moslems and Israel's Jews would seem to have much in common.

They share many Biblical patriarchs — Ibrahim-Abraham, Mussa-Moses, Yaqub-Jacob, Daoud-David, Samwil-Samuel. Both suffer war-drained, inflationary economies, and both must contend with a harsh, suffocatingly hot climate.

BUT WHERE EGYPT has a uniform cultural and historical background, Israel is dominated by its European founders, who only gradually are being replaced by native-born Israelis, called sabras. Where the Egyptian is easygoing and languidly graceful, the sabra is hard-driving and blunt.

The sabra cannot believe that a Cairo worker may be more content than his upwardly mobile counterpart in Tel Aviv, suffering none of the rising crime, alienation and hyperinflation that modernization has inflicted upon Israel.

In Israel, a dented fender or pushing crowd provokes a fistfight. In Egypt, such incidents usually end with coffee and laughter.

Israelis sometimes too loudly profess their desire to teach Egyptians to uplift themselves. "Our experts could double his crop," said one well-meaning Israeli journalist watching a farmer maneuver a primitive buffalo-drawn plow in the Nile Delta.

Such didacticism does not go down well in Egypt. "Don't teach a 7,000-year-old civilization how to live its life," is the common Egyptian riposte.

"EGYPT IS A land of hints and secrets," writes Tamar Golan, of the Tel Aviv newspaper Maariv, one of the handful of Israelis who have spent time in Egypt since the peace process began. "Where the Israeli is proud of his directness, the Egyptian takes pride in his good manners and his circumspection, in concealing more than he reveals."

The solemnly nationalistic Israeli is suspicious of advice from outside. Egyptians lace their nationalism with humor. Unlike 31-year-old Israel, 7,000-year-old Egypt long ago learned that nothing is perfect.

The Israeli is proud of having cleansed his land of diseases common in the Middle East. He has built factories, planted fruit in the desert, carved expressways and raised skyscrapers along once-desolate beaches.

Where Israel measures itself by its achievements, Egypt treasures its size and its timelessness. Forty-eight times bigger and 13 times more populous than Israel, Egypt is the spiritual and cultural epicenter of a vast Arab world, its existence as secure as the mighty life-giving Nile.

While, in the words of Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman, "Paris and London have always seemed closer than Cairo or Beirut," the Israeli is an indefatigable do-gooder, convinced that the quickest route to acceptance is to teach his neighbors to desalinate seawater and harvest olives with mechanical treeshakers.

Observes one concerned Egyptian official: "I'm afraid the Israelis will try to 'occupy' us economically. Peace can be an invasion too. Israelis must remember that in Egypt, for the first time in their lives, they will meet Arabs as neighbors, not as occupiers."

Alongside their hopes, both sides have fears of this gigantic unknown called peace. Egypt broods about being ostracized by its Arab brothers for reconciling with its longtime enemy. It worries about its people rushing to Israel in search of work, and bringing back inflation-boosting high wages and bad Western habits.

A building laborer earning $2 a day in Cairo could make five times that in Israel.

While the majority of Israelis look forward to peace as the greatest turning point of their lives, some fear it will deflate the challenges that built their country, that something in their moral fiber will snap and leave them limp.

Mideast peace package cheaper than war

WASHINGTON (AP) — War and instability in the Middle East have cost the United States an estimated $55 billion to $70 billion, according to State Department figures made available to Congress.

And the cost of the 1973-1974 Arab oil embargo and rising oil prices since that time have cost Americans an estimated $315 billion, the department said.

The figures were made public as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted 9-1 Wednesday to recommend that the Senate approve the Middle East peace package.

It includes $4.8 billion in loans and grants for Egypt and Israel, only $1.47 billion of which involves out-of-pocket costs to the United States.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, the committee chairman, said he has been receiving mail from constituents complaining about what is seen as the high price of peace.

In response, he cited these illustrations from the State Department study of the cost to U.S. taxpayers of instability and war in the Middle East:

—Immediately after the 1973 war, Congress appropriated $2.2 billion in grants to replace Israel's battle field losses.

—Since the end of that war, Israel has received more than $5 billion in U.S. military equipment.

—The immediate cost to the U.S. economy of the oil embargo was an estimated $15 billion. The cumulative cost of higher oil prices since then is $300 billion. If only one-tenth or one-twentieth of the price increases are attributed to the 1973 war, it would reflect an additional $10 billion to $15 billion in war-related costs.

—To promote regional stability the United States has made available more than $13 billion in economic assistance.

—Refugee aid has cost the United States $800 million. It also has paid $300 million to help finance U.N. peacekeeping forces.

"These costs are staggering," Church said. "They make the costs of this bill fade into insignificance in comparison."

"When people write me and say don't squander $1.47 billion for peace over the next three years and then ignore the enormous amounts we have spent for war, we have a duty to put it in perspective," he said.

"If war comes again and the oil is cut off, our factories would close, our autos would stand idle and we soon would be turning off the lights," he said.

Before sending the aid package to the Senate floor, the committee did leave open the possibility of modifying the terms of the Egyptian and Israeli loans if future economic conditions in either country worsened. The bill calls for full repayment at 9 percent interest.

The new aid package, intended to help implement the Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty, involves military credit sales of $2.2 billion for Israel and $1.5 billion for Egypt.

Israel would get $800 million in direct grants to pay the costs of moving two air bases from the Sinai Desert to the Negev Desert in Israel. Egypt would get $300 million in specific economic aid.

WORLD NEWS

NATO response to Soviets said necessary in Europe

HOMESTEAD AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — Defense Secretary Harold Brown says the United States' NATO allies must respond — for their own defense — to a Soviet nuclear arms buildup in Europe.

"I believe the countries need to be aware of the continual Soviet buildup. The more they are aware, the more they will realize the need for modernization of defense weaponry," Brown said Wednesday at the conclusion of a two-day session of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's nuclear planning group.

Brown said there has been increased Soviet deployment of Backfire bombers and other aircraft capable of delivering nuclear warheads.

The United States feels modernization of NATO defenses is necessary to counter such recent Soviet developments as deployment of the SS-20, an intermediate-range missile believed to have an accuracy of 2,500 miles. That would allow it to strike western Europe from launch sites in the Soviet Union.

Uganda sanction lift asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mark Hatfield said today American trade sanctions against Uganda were an "unchallenged success" in driving Idi Amin from power and should be lifted now that he's gone.

The Oregon Republican, who helped lead the congressional campaign last year to impose the sanctions, accompanied his statement with proposed legislation to remove them.

Hatfield said after the sanctions were imposed last October, the price of gasoline rose to more than $50 per gallon on Uganda's black market, the country's currency dropped to one-tenth its previous value and coffee production — the country's chief crop — fell by 75 percent.

Cuba gets second sub

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has given Cuba its second submarine in a continuing buildup of Premier Fidel Castro's small navy, Pentagon officials say.

The Whiskey-class submarine, a diesel-electric powered boat dating back to the 1950s, was towed across the Atlantic to Cuba by a Soviet tug, U.S.

officials said Wednesday.

The officials, who asked not to be named, said the submarine, normally armed with torpedoes for attack on ships or other submarines, joins a Soviet Foxtrot-class sub, which the Russian navy gave Cuba in February, along with two advanced hydrofoil patrol craft.

Protesters seize IMF office

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four demonstrators were arrested by police after they seized an office of the International Monetary Fund headquarters for more than six hours Wednesday to protest the possible approval of a $40 million loan requested by Nicaragua.

An organization called the Coalition in Solidarity with the People of Nicaragua claimed responsibility for the takeover of the office of Jose Teigeiro, a Spanish economist who led an IMF mission to Nicaragua last month to discuss the loan.

The protest group said eight persons, including a Roman Catholic nun and a Protestant minister, occupied the office. Four of the demonstrators later agreed to leave, but four others refused to do so and were arrested by police, officials of the IMF said.

The IMF, with Teigeiro's report as a guide, is to make a decision next month on the loan. Nicaragua is seeking the money to help cover about $80 million due this year to private foreign banks, mainly in the United States.

The coalition, which says it includes U.S. and Nicaraguan citizens, said in a statement that the proposed loan "will sink Nicaragua further into debt while keeping President Anastasio Somoza's regime temporarily afloat."

Bovicide opponent gains support

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Vinoba Bhave, the frail 83-year-old civic leader who vowed to fast "until death" to stop Indians from slaughtering cattle, has ended his four-day hunger strike after the government moved to aide his cause.

Bhave accepted a glass of water Thursday, ending his fast after Prime Minister Morarji Desai announced his government will introduce a constitutional amendment that would place the slaughter of cattle, or bovidicide, under the jurisdiction of both central and state authorities, the United News of India reported.

Orthodox Hindus regard the cow as a sacred beast.

Japan won't surrender further

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese government will make no more concessions in negotiations with the United States aimed at opening a larger share of Japanese government procurement contracts to bidding by U.S. businesses, officials said here today.

The decision was made Wednesday night when Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira met with members of his government to discuss the talks in Washington.

The negotiations — conducted by Robert Strauss, the presidential trade representative, and Fumihiko Togo, the Japanese ambassador to Washington — reportedly have reached a stalemate with the two sides widely separated.

Hordes cross border

ARANYPRATHET, Thailand (AP) — Some 50,000 Cambodian civilians and troops still loyal to the ousted Pol Pot regime, trekked southward along the Thai-Cambodian border today on their way to link up with 20,000 more across the border.

Thai authorities said the horde of refugees was snaking its way through forested flatlands and the Ta Ngan mountain range toward the Pailin area, 60 miles away, where about 20,000 Cambodians were massed.

Sporadic shelling by Vietnamese forces inside Cambodia has been reported the past few days but the long columns have not come under direct attack so far, officials said.

The exodus began last weekend and was caused by a drive by the Vietnamese and their Cambodian allies to clear the ricefields of northwest Cambodia of Pol Pot holdouts before the rainy season.

The troops are heading for the mountains of southwest Cambodia to carry on guerrilla operations from there against the new government and the Vietnamese. They were herding the civilians along, and it was believed that many of the latter probably were being forced to ravel against their will.

The Cambodians travelled first in columns two-thirds of a mile long, but they were reported to have split up into smaller groups. Some crossed back into Thailand from Cambodia as they headed south.

Thai police and soldiers were keeping a sharp eye on the Cambodians and today ordered all Thai villagers to avoid contact with them. But the order was ignored by some.

Ethnic Chinese villagers were selling food, aspirin and cigarettes to the trekkers at inflated prices. There were also reports that 20 to 30 Cambodian civilians paid bribes of between $1,000 and $1,500 to Thai villagers to aid them to escape to Bangkok, the Thai capital.

The Thai government takes a low-key approach to the border problem. A Bangkok newspaper urged the administration today to take tough measures to solve the "emergency."

"There are all the ingredients in the witches' cauldron there to make it evident the Cambodian war is into Thailand," the English-language Nation Review said.

The Bangkok Post, referring to reports that Soviet and Cuban personnel were advising the Vietnamese in Cambodia, warned: "We have to watch out for the day when the Russians and the Cubans try to intervene in our own internal affairs."

The Vietnamese invaded Cambodia and seated a pro-Hanoi government. Two weeks later Pol Pot guerrillas retaliated by waging guerrilla war. The Thais, who consider the Vietnamese the greatest potential threat to them, hope the guerrillas will continue to keep them occupied. They are also doing nothing to interfere with the movement of civilians because even if they are being forced to move, the Thais don't want them on their hands as refugees and don't want any trouble with the Pol Pot troops.

Waldheim will spend three days in Hanoi, then go to Peking and North and South Korea.

In Peking, meanwhile, Deputy Foreign Minister Chong Xitong outlined an eight-point proposal which he said would be submitted today at the normalization talks the Chinese and Vietnamese began in Hanoi April 18.

The Chinese points included that neither country should seek to dominate "Indochina, Southeast Asia or any other part of the world. ...Neither side shall station troops in other countries and those already stationed abroad must be withdrawn. ...Neither side shall join any military blocs directed against the other or provide military bases to other countries."

It was an obvious reference to Vietnam's invasion of Cambodia Dec. 25 to replace the pro-Chinese communist government with a pro-Hanoi regime, its alliance with the Soviet Union and China's disapproval of any Soviet bases in Vietnam.

Iran mulls U.S. deals shah made

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The revolutionary government's representatives are consulting lawyers in the United States about contracts signed by Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's regime, and the Defense Ministry will make the "appropriate decision" after it gets the lawyers' opinions, Deputy Prime Minister Abbas-Entezam said today.

The shah's government was bound to the United States with a multitude of defense and commercial agreements and ordered billions of dollars of military hardware from U.S. firms before it was ousted Feb. 12 after a year-long revolution led by Shiite Moslem leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini. Some of the contracts already have been cancelled.

Amir-Entezam told a news conference that Khomeini's representative in Washington, Shahriyar Rouhani, and Rouhani's associates were "busy studying the many agreements that the former regime signed with the United States and (American) companies. They have been consulting lawyers in the United States. After they send the oons of these lawyers to Tehran, the Defense Ministry will make the appropriate decision on these contracts."

Amir-Entezam also said his government plans to lodge a "strong protest" against Afghan President Nur Mohammad Tarraki's claim that Iran was interfering in Afghanistan's internal affairs because "it's not true."

The Soviet-backed Afghan government has charged that Iranians are harboring anti-government Moslem guerrillas along Iran's mountainous border with Afghanistan.

Waldheim to bid Viet-China accord

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim flew to Hanoi today on a mediating mission as China proposed an eight-point program to settle its differences with Vietnam.

One of the points called for the withdrawal of Vietnamese troops from Cambodia.

Waldheim said he would offer his "good offices" to help restore Vietnamese-Chinese relations to normal following the two communist nations' month-long border war.

"You should not expect my visit to achieve immediate results," he said as he left Malaysia, "but it is important for a neutral authority to offer his help."

"I think my visit is timely, but I still have to find out how willing the governments are to discuss their problems with me."

Waldheim will spend three days in Hanoi, then go to Peking and North and South Korea.

In Peking, meanwhile, Deputy Foreign Minister Chong Xitong outlined an eight-point proposal which he said would be submitted today at the normalization talks the Chinese and Vietnamese began in Hanoi April 18.

The Chinese points included that neither country should seek to dominate "Indochina, Southeast Asia or any other part of the world. ...Neither side shall station troops in other countries and those already stationed abroad must be withdrawn. ...Neither side shall join any military blocs directed against the other or provide military bases to other countries."

Montezuma castle—from resort to seminary to lovely memory

By RUTH ANN RAGLAND

LAS VEGAS, N.M. (AP) — The once-stately Montezuma castle that beckoned the rich and famous to bathe in hot mineral springs and revel in its splendor is a forgotten, vandalized building vivid only in the minds of those who enjoyed its past.

Pleasure seekers basked in its 19th Century resort luxury, the YMCA owned it in the early 1900s, Mexican priests trained there when it was a Jesuit Seminary and there are former students who remember it as Montezuma Baptist College, from 1922 to 1930 and from 1933 to 1935.

Some of those college students — most of them now retired — recall annually the good times at Montezuma when they gather for the Montezuma Club reunion.

Club President Wesley Smith of Lubbock, Texas, says he hopes there'll be 200 attending the 1979 reunion August 28-29 at the Gloriaita Baptist Conference Center in Gloriaita, N.M.

The reunion agenda does not include a trip to the alma mater castle.

"So many of them don't want to see it," said one member. "It's all worn out."

Smith said he's 72, "one of the young ones." Members in their 90s have attended in the past and plan to be there again this year, he said.

Efforts are under way to arrange group travel by bus from Oklahoma City, the Houston-Austin-San Antonio and Dallas-Fort Worth, Texas, areas; Phoenix, Ariz., and Los Angeles, Calif., he said.

Program chairman is Fred Pulliam of Eminence, Mo., who is in the process of making preparations for this year's gathering, Smith said.

The Montezuma Club has a membership roll of more than 4,000 students and faculty members, who attended classes at the majestic castle along the banks of the Gallinas River, six miles northwest of Las Vegas, until it closed for the second time in financial straits.

One of those who've been a regular reunion participant since the club was organized 28 years ago is Eunice Shamburger, 77, a retired secretary in Fort Worth.

Her memories of Montezuma are fond.

"I loved it," she said. "I think it was one of the most beautiful buildings I'd ever seen. It was built in such an attractive way. It had three towers. To me, it was just wonderful.

"We would like very much for the building to be saved," she said. "But the vandals have destroyed it."

The 800-acre property and buildings are now for sale for $1.8 million.

Student life at the Baptist college was grand, Miss Shamburger said.

The girls lived in the main castle building, and the boys in a nearby dormitory.

The school "had a regular schedule of activities — a football team that played throughout the area, a basketball team, tennis team, debating, drama and a strong music department. The greatest attraction was hiking and picnics and skating in the wintertime," she said.

The students ice skating on "those lakes they harvested ice off of."

Her happiest memories are of "getting out to the hills by myself. I really enjoyed the outdoors."

Montezuma's history dates back to the mid-19th century.

The U.S. Army started a hospital near the area's hot springs in 1846, and the one-story adobe building was converted in 1862 to a hotel.

The railroad brought trade to the region, and the hot springs caught the eye of Eastern promoters who recognized their resort value.

Space babies may make 'two kinds of humans'

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP) — Two kinds of human beings will result if man begins living in space, says former astronaut Gerald Carr.

"If man starts having babies in space, in a few generations there will be two different kinds of humans — space humans and earth humans," Carr said. "Wherever you put the human body, Mother Nature starts the adaptive process."

Technology is available to put a man-made planet into space, Carr told the 56th annual Engineering and Operations Conference of the Northwest Electric Light and Power Association.

Carr, corporate manager of business development for Bovay Engineers Inc. at Houston, Texas, said Tuesday the human body becomes weaker in a weightless environment because it doesn't have to work so hard. He spent 84 days in space as part of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's third Skylab mission in late 1973 and early 1974.

"There is indeed a place in space for man. Man can be productive in space," said Carr.

He estimated it would take 20 to 30 years to get a solar-power satellite into space and operating.

"There's a lot of solar power up there and it's all free. The capital investment for a space station could be quite costly, but the operating costs are negligible," he said. "One solar power satellite could beam 5,000 megawatts of power to the earth, enough to take care of the needs of the city of New York."

Explorers, field work announced

Wildcat work has been reported in Crockett, McCulloch and Runnels counties, and field operations have been staked in other Permian Basin areas.

S&R Petroleum Corp. of Odessa No. 1 Helen S. Carpenter will be drilled as a 1,350-foot wildcat in Crockett County, nine miles northwest of Iraan.

Drill site is 330 feet from south and 2,308.88 feet from east lines of section 84, block 1, I&GN survey and 5/8 mile northeast of the depleted Meek (Devonian) field.

It also is two and seven-eighths miles north of the Yates field.

MCCULLOCH WILDCAT

Cook's Producing Co. of Goldthwaite announced location for a 1,600-foot wildcat in McCulloch County, five miles west of Life.

It is No. 3 R. L. Jones, 1,056 feet from north and 2,640 feet from east lines of H&TC survey No. 91, abstract 650. Ground elevation is 1,472 feet.

The location is 3/4 mile northeast of a 1,492-foot failure and one and three-eighths miles east of the Walker-Grant (Strawn gas) field.

RUNNELS TRY

M. E. Mathis announced plans to re-enter and clean out to 3,888 feet for recompletion attempt as an upper Gardner oil reopener in the Cree-Sykes, East multipay field at the former Union Oil & Gas Co. No. 1 Wilerson.

It is a former oil producer one and one-quarter miles south of the original Gardner oil discovery.

The location is 2.5 miles northeast of Eddy County.

It will be operated as the No. 1 L. E. Wilkerson Estate.

ANDREWS OFFSETS

Charles L. Walker of Odessa spotted locations for a pair of offsets to his No. 2-C Underwood, recently completed San Andres discovery in the Block A-34 multipay area of Andrews County, 11 miles northwest of Andrews.

The No. 1-3 Fisher is a south offset to the strike and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 24, block A-34, psi survey.

The No. 1-8 Fisher is a southwest offset to the discovery and 540 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 25, block A-34, psi survey.

Each of the projects will be drilled to 4,760 feet.

PECOS TEST

Walter Exploration, Inc., of Dallas No. 1 McDonald-State is a re-entry project in the Putnam (Wilcamp) area of Pecos County, seven miles south of Girvin.

Originally drilled by Gulf Oil Corp. in 1957, it later was re-entered by Bruce Wilbanks who plugged the test in 1969. No other information is available.

The location filed with the re-entry request is 2,173 feet from south and 467 feet from west lines of section 124, block 11, H&GN survey and seven miles south of Girvin.

It will be cleaned out to 5,400 feet.

States seek fuel help

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Energy officials from 14 Midwestern states say they are facing a shortage of diesel fuel for agricultural purposes and have asked the federal government for help.

William J. Watt, chairman of the Midwestern Governors' Conference Energy Task Force, said Wednesday the shortage farmers face is more serious than during the 1974 Arab oil embargo.

Watt presented the views of the 14 Midwestern states in a letter to U.S. Energy Secretary James Schlesinger.

Watt, energy adviser to Gov. Otis R. Bowen, said the shortages are most serious in Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, North Dakota and Iowa.

Minnesota will have exhausted by the end of the week the supply of diesel set aside for agriculture, and shortages for priority users in Kansas and Nebraska already are in the 20 percent range, Watt said.

Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, Kentucky, South Dakota and Missouri can meet agricultural needs for diesel fuel at least through the end of the month, Watt said.

"We are concerned the situation could, in the coming weeks, reach dimensions serious enough to interfere with scheduled plantings and the June wheat harvest," Watt said in the letter.

Eight wildcat projects set in Basin regions

West Texas areas have gained four wildcat projects, and operators have announced four wildcats in New Mexico.

General Exploration Co. of Midland No. 1 Sealy-Smith Foundation is to be drilled as a 5,700-foot wildcat in Ward County, four miles northeast of Monahans.

Location is 1,320 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 19, block A, G&MMB&A survey.

It is one and two-thirds miles east of gas production in the Monahans field.

RE-ENTRY TEST

Union Texas Petroleum Corp. No. 1-39-18 University is a re-entry project in Ward County, 10 miles northeast of Barstow.

Originally drilled to 19,232 feet in the Ellenburger by Hassie Hunt, it is 2,100 feet from north and 1,320 feet from east lines of section 39, block 18, University Lands survey.

The location is 7/8 mile northeast of Wolfcamp production and 3/4 mile northwest of depleted Bell Canyon production in the Quito, East area.

Union Texas Petroleum will test above 11,550 feet.

PECOS PROJECT

Getty Oil Co. will re-enter a 22,940-foot well in the Gomez (Ellenburger) field of Pecos County and plugback to 17,247 feet for tests above that point in No. 1-83 Gulf-Baker.

The project is 1,980 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 83, block OW, CCSD&RGNG survey and 15 miles west of Fort Stockton.

Gulf Oil Corp. No. 5 S. E. Ligon-State is to be drilled as a 6,950-foot wildcat in Reeves County, 17 miles southeast of Pecos.

The project is 990 feet from north and 2,050 feet from west lines of section 16, block 7, H&GN survey.

The site is one location southwest of Ellenburger production in the Worsham-Bayer field.

LEA WILDCATS

Three of the New Mexico wildcats have been announced in Lea County. Max M. Wilson of Roswell, N.M., No. 1 Gulf-Federal will be drilled as a 5,000-foot explorer in Lea County, 20 miles northeast of Malaga.

The location is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 4-24s-32e. Zia Energy, Inc., No. 1 Federal is a 4,200-foot wildcat in Lea County, five miles southwest of Oil Center.

The drillsite is 2,370 feet from south and west lines of section 17-22s-37e.

Yates Petroleum Co. of Artesia, N.M., No. 1-LB Mescalero-State has been spotted as a 10,000-foot wildcat in Lea County, eight miles east of Caprock.

The location is 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 30-10s-33e.

CHAVES RE-ENTRY

McClellan Oil Corp. of Roswell No. 1-5 Federal is a re-entry wildcat in Chaves County, 22 miles southeast of Hagerman.

Originally drilled as Shell Oil Co. No. 1 Federa-Elliott and abandoned at 12,327 feet, it is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 30-15s-30e and two and one-quarter miles southeast of the Sulmar (San Andres) pool.

WALLEN TEST

Wallen Production Co. of Midland No. 1 Nadine is a new 8,000-foot project in the Nadine (Drinkard) field of Lea County, six miles east of Monument.

Drill site is 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 14-19s-38e.

ROOSEVELT TRY

Phillips Petroleum Co. No. 3-A Lambirth is to be drilled as a 3,000-foot operation to test for production in the Peterson, South (Fusselman) pool of Roosevelt County.

The test will be spudded four miles north of Lingo and 760 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines

TOM TOM AREA

Flag-Redfern Oil Co. of Midland spotted locations for three tests in the Tom Tom (San Andres) pool of Chaves County, 15 miles south of Kenna.

The No. 6 Amoco-Federal is 2,055 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 26-7s-31e.

The No. 4-26 Southard is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 26-7s-31e.

The No. 1-A Southard will be drilled 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 26-7s-31e.

Each of the projects will be drilled to 4,100 feet.

ROOSEVELT AREA

Sundance Oil Co. of Denver, Colo., spotted four 4,350-foot projects in the Tomahawk area of Roosevelt County.

The No. 9 Cone-Federal is 2,310 feet from south and 1,901 feet from west lines of section 30-7s-32e.

The No. 10 Cone-Federal is 60 feet from south and 1,901 feet from west lines of section 30-7s-32e.

Sundance spotted No. 11 Cone-Federal 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 31-7s-32e.

The No. 12 Cone-Federal is 1,980 feet from north and 1,901 feet from west lines of section 31-7s-32e.

Union Texas No. 2 Mathie, took drillstem test (11,521-11,572), open 10 minutes, with strong blow, shut in 40 minutes, open 60 minutes, with strong blow, recovered no gas to surface, shut in 180 minutes, blanket test, recovered 2950 feet, free oil, pulled out of hole.

Potential tests have been reported on nine wells in New Mexico fields.

Harlow Corp. of Amarillo No. 1 O'Brien-Deming, 3/4 mile north of the same operator's No. 1 O'Brien-Pee, recently completed San Andres oil discovery six miles southeast of Elkins, lined on the pump for 30 barrels of oil and 77 barrels of water per day.

Completion was through perforations from 2,629 to 2,674 feet after a 5,000-gallon acid treatment.

The gravity was not reported and the gas-oil ratio is too small to measure.

Total depth is 2,797 feet and 5.5-inch casing is set at 2,797 feet.

Location is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 17-8s-28e.

ADOBE WELL

Adobe Oil & Gas Corp. of Midland No. 1 Hannah has been completed to extend Mississippi gas production in the Austin field of Lea County 1/2 mile northwest.

The new well, one mile northwest of Hillburn City, completed for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 7,176,000 cubic feet of gas per day. The gas-liquid ratio is 31,261-1.

Completion was from pay behind casing perforations from 13,397 to 13,460 feet.

Total depth is 13,832 feet and 5.5-inch casing is set at 13,831 feet.

Well site is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 17-14s-36e and 13 miles south of Tatum.

YATES GASSER

Yates Petroleum Corp., Artesia, N.M., No. 9-AT Jackson Community has been completed one-half mile west of Artesia in Eddy County.

Operator reported a daily flow of 3,250,000 cubic feet of gas, through a 1/2-inch choke and perforations from 7,992 to 8,007 feet. Tubing pressure during the flow was 520 pounds.

Hole is bottomed at 8,400 feet and 5.5-inch casing is set on bottom.

The well is 3/4 mile northeast of Morrow gas production in the Eagle Creek, East field.

TO&C WELL

Texas Oil & Gas Corp. of Midland No. 1 Coquina-Federal Community has been completed as a one-mile northwest extension to Morrow gas production in the Lake, East field of Eddy County.

It finalized for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 2,500,000 cubic feet of gas per day, with shut-in well head pressure of 2,015 pounds.

Completion was through perforations from 9,453 to 9,526 feet.

Hole is bottomed at 9,880 feet and 4.5-inch casing is set at 9,880 feet.

The Morrow was topped at 9,382 feet on ground elevation of 3,319 feet.

Location is 710 feet from north and 2,330 feet from west lines of section 32-18s-27e and 20 miles southwest of Loco Hills.

HADDY GAS WELL

Edgman Petroleum Corp. of Roswell, N.M., No. 2 Rifle-Federal has been completed as a dual well in the Catclaw Draw area of Eddy County, three miles northwest of Carlsbad.

Three-quarters mile south of other Morrow production, it finalized for a calculated absolute open flow of 3,446,000 cubic feet of dry gas per day through perforations from 10,856 to 11,203 feet. No fluid was produced with the gas.

The pay was acidized with 3,000 gallons.

Total depth is 11,280 feet and 4.5-inch casing is cemented on bottom.

It completed from the Wolfcamp for a daily flow of 2,000,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 9,083 to 9,146 feet. The potential was based on a 24-hour flow through an unreported choke size.

The Wolfcamp stimulation, if any, was not reported.

Location is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 28-21s-26e.

MESSA PRODUCER

Mesa Petroleum Co. of Midland No. 1 Adams-Federal was completed in the Hackberry, North pool of Eddy County as a Yates-Seven Rivers well.

Operator reported a daily pumping potential of 37 barrels of 18.6-gravity oil, and 22 barrels of water, through perforations from 2,066 to 2,098 feet.

The gas-oil ratio was too small to measure.

The pay section was acidized with 15,000 gallons.

Drilled as a Morrow project to 12,507 feet, the well is plugged back to 2,274 feet. Eight and five-eighths-inch casing is set at 2,340 feet.

Location is 660 feet from south and 2,080 feet from west lines of section 31-19s-31e and 24 miles northeast of Carlsbad.

SILURO-DEVONIAN

Amoco Production Co. announced potential tests on a pair of wells in the Shugart (Siluro-Devonian) field of Eddy County, 12 miles southwest of Majamar.

The No. 11 Greenwood was completed for a potential of 2,350,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through a 48/64-inch choke and perforations from 11,854 to 11,906 feet after a 3,000-gallon acid treatment.

The total depth is 12,220 feet and 5.5-inch casing is cemented on bottom.

Well site is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 34-18s-31e.

Amoco No. 10 Greenwood was completed for a daily flowing potential of 5,200,000 cubic feet of gas, through a 12/64-inch choke and perforations from 11,594 to 11,775 feet.

136 more oil, gas tests spotted in Permian Basin

One hundred and thirty-six oil and gas operations were added to the Permian Basin exploration scene last week, as operators requested permission from the Texas and New Mexico oil and gas regulatory bodies to drill 118 wildcats and 118 projects in proven field areas.

District 7-C of the Railroad Commission of Texas, headquartered in San Angelo, handled applications for 39 field projects and six wildcats. The wildcats were spotted in Crockett, Irion, Menard, Runnels, Tom Green and Upton counties.

Twenty of the District 7-C field projects were staked in Crockett County.

The commission's District 8, with headquarters in Midland, handled applications for 35 projects, four of them for wildcat tests. The wildcats were spotted in Dawson, Gaines, Terry and Yoakum counties.

Officers round up 73 in East Texas drug bust

TYLER, Texas (AP) — At least 73 suspected narcotics traffickers had been caught in a police dragnet and more than 50 others were still being sought early today in what authorities here called the "biggest drug bust in East Texas history."

Tyler Police Chief Willie Hardy said early today 73 of 121 suspects charged with delivering illegal drugs had been arrested and that several more arrests were imminent.

More than 75 officers, including police, Department of Public Safety and Texas Rangers, began hauling in suspects late Wednesday afternoon in an operation that culminated eight months of undercover work by two Tyler police officers.

"You can hear a kind of roar in the booking area," Hardy said Wednesday. "We are just trying to get as many as we can before they start to scatter. It kind of looks like Grand Central Station around here."

The police chief said 50 of the 121 individuals were charged with felony counts of selling cocaine and two were accused of delivering heroin. He said the others face felony counts alleging delivery of a variety of illegal drugs, including marijuana and methamphetamines.

Officers confiscated seven ounces of cocaine from one arrested suspect, Hardy said that was the largest seizure so far, and he placed the street value at between $2,300 and $2,500.

Exact figures on the value or total amount of the contraband involved in the arrests were not available.

"Some of the individuals are acquainted, and we think like some work in conjunction with others... but this is not a single drug ring," said Hardy. "They (suspects) include young, old, black, white, rich and poor from Tyler and other cities in Texas."

Hardy said officers were not having any unusual difficulty in finding most of the 121 individuals named in 226 warrants.

"Sure a few have heard and are hiding, but we are satisfied with the progress we are making," Hardy told The Associated Press.

Hardy said several of the suspects, which he declined to identify, were considered major suppliers of drugs in East Texas.

"This is without a doubt the largest drug raid in East Texas. We feel like we will make a big dent in the narcotics traffic here," Hardy said. "This is the first investigation of this size... we are hoping it will make drugs much less available in the area. We feel that it will for the time."

Hardy said no special steps are being taken to conceal the identity of the two officers whose investigations led to the sweeping arrests.

"We are not naming them at this time," said Hardy. "But naturally the suspects will figure out who it is. They always do."

"We are always concerned about the safety of our officers. We take all the precautions that we can. But it (the danger of reprisals) is just a fact of life. It goes with the job."

College fund tax repealed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A proposed constitutional amendment repealing the state property tax that finances large numbers of state college construction projects was approved Wednesday by the Senate Education Committee.

The compromise proposal, sponsored by Sens. Babe Schwartz, D-Galveston, and Bob Vale, D-San Antonio, would provide building money from general taxes for colleges outside the University of Texas System and Texas A&M University System.

Those projects would be funded by constitutionally setting aside an amount equal to 5.1 percent of the total amount appropriated by the Legislature for state colleges and universities.

All schools in the University of Texas and Texas A&M systems would share the proceeds of the Permanent University Fund. Some members, such as the University of Texas at Arlington, do not benefit from the fund now.

In order to help absorb the additional schools, UT and A&M could issue bonds against 30 percent of the permanent fund rather than the current 20 percent limit.

Schwartz pointed out that a federal lawsuit filed by Rep. Wayne Peveo, D-Orange, challenging the constitutionality of the state property tax could end that method of funding building projects.

"I believe that the judge is waiting for the Legislature to act," he said.
