Hiring, minorities topics of forum

By SUSAN TOTH
Staff Writer

Close questioning on minority education and hiring practices put both candidates for the Place 6 position on the Midland school board on the spot Thursday night during a candidate forum.

Representatives for Better Government sponsored the forum at Crockett Elementary School where some 40 parents and teachers gathered to question incumbent Ed Runyan and retired teacher Alice M. Greer, candidates in the Saturday runoff election for the board seat.

When pressed, both candidates said they could favor hiring an assistant to the personnel director to recruit minority employees for the district.

"Competition for hiring qualified minority applicants is fierce," Runyan pointed out as a reason for the relatively low percentage hired.

"This district is committed to the concept of minority hiring."

Questioned on ways to close the gap on achievement test scores between minority and Anglo students, Mrs. Greer suggested returning students, especially in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades, to self-contained classrooms with one teacher for the entire school day.

"When the kids are running around all over the place, there's no time to teach them anything or to learn what those kids need. With one teacher responsible for one group of 25 kids, I just think you'd see a world of difference," Mrs. Greer said.

While acknowledging more needs to be done, Runyan pointed to the introduction of Hoffman teaching machines in the elementary classrooms next year and continued in-service for teachers to train them in teaching minority students as the board's current efforts to overcome the differences.

Increasing the scores of minority students has been listed as a priority on the district's five-year plan drawn up this year for the school to continue its state accreditation, Runyan said. "Now we've set this goal, we've got to meet it to keep our accreditation," he said.

Reviewing ways to keep potential drop outs in school, Runyan advocated "reducing the frustration level" by teaching students fundamentals of English language, reading and mathematics so they could work at their grade level. He also suggested encouraging students to participate in extra-curricular activities, "so when something goes wrong in the classroom, there's something else to bring him to school."

Mrs. Greer advocated stronger discipline, including the use of on-campus detention centers to keep down disruptive behavior, and again stressed the self-contained classrooms as an answer for improved elementary school performance.

One of the more emotional responses of the evening came after a question asking in effect, if a coalition of teachers on the board "would be worse" than a coalition of businessmen.

"I can't help thinking, even though I'll be the third teacher on the board, that my presence will be a help," Mrs. Greer said in her opening remarks.

"I can't figure out what you think we're trying to do," Mrs. Greer told her opponent after the question, to applause from many of the teachers in the audience.

"I don't think the board should be overly influenced by any one group," Runyan replied, pointing out that each of the businessmen currently on the board is in unrelated fields. "We all make a living, but that's about the only connection," he said.

Runyan was criticized by some in the audience for his stand against values clarification, part of a drug education plan that received strong community opposition before it was dropped by the school board.

The hard facts presented to us showed the program did not work, he replied to suggestions that the board did not give the program a chance.

Concerning other aspects of Saturday's runoff, staffing the six polling places from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, plus the supplies, cleanup costs and

With postal rates going up constantly, "we didn't know how high it would be to send a letter airmail," Clyde Lovett replied when queried about the mailbox he and his wife Thelma put up at their west Midland residence recently.

Actually, Mrs. Lovett said, what started out as a bird nest sort of developed into "a lighthearted protest" against the U.S. Postal Service, and a small airplane was added on top.

She admitted with little hesitation that both were disappointed with their mail service.

There were some extra mail boxes around the house when the project was dreamed up, she explained.

My husband made the airplane, she said in front of their house at 906 W. Devonian Drive.

A few birds have flown by the box, possibly checking it out for livability, but she said no birds have begun nest building.

Big Spring killing yields few clues

BIG SPRING — No new information has come out of the investigation into the slayings of a Big Spring woman and her teen-age son whose bodies were discovered about 1 a.m. Thursday on a dirt road five miles northeast of Big Spring.

A spokesman with the Howard County Sheriff's Department said a retired rancher living in the area was on his way home when he found the bodies of Ann Laurie Reeves, 40, and her son, Tracey Reeves, 15.

They were lying face down on the dirt road 300 yards north of the abandoned Center Point School, according to Sheriff A. N. Standard.

The pair was pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Bob West.

A deputy said the two were clothed only in shoes and stockings. One appeared to have been shot in the left side of the head and the other in the right side, he said.

The victims' clothing and three spent shells were found a few feet from the body, according to a spokesman.

The bodies were taken to Hendrick Medical Center in Abilene for an autopsy. A deputy said today the officer that accompanied the bodies had not yet submitted a report on the autopsy findings.

The Reeves family owns a Texaco Highway service station in the south part of Big Spring and the Interstate 20 Texaco station on an interstate bypass.

According to what investigators have been told, Mrs. Reeves and her son relieved an attendant at the I-20 station about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday. Mrs. Reeves then called the attendant at the Highway station about 11:30 p.m. and the two made arrangements to meet at a local convenience store to exchange some money.

When Mrs. Reeves did not appear at the meeting spot, the attendant notified the victim's husband, Charles Reeves, who said he drove to the I-20 station.

Standard said, "The husband became alarmed and found that the station was out of order. He started looking for them (Mrs. Reeves and Tracey)."

As he was driving over the well-lighted Owens Street viaduct, Reeves spotted a purse beside the road, according to investigators.

Reeves told officers he stopped and discovered the purse belonged to his wife. He then went to the police department to report his wife and son were missing, officials said.

Standard said the Reeves report was made at 12:50 a.m. and the rancher called in about 10 minutes later after discovering the bodies.

Investigating officers found two money bags at the I-20 station and later reported personal papers scattered along Snyder Highway, five miles northeast of Big Spring.

Standard said only receipts from the station were found in the money bags.

"Since the money bags were taken, we can assume that robbery was a motive," the sheriff said, adding it might not have been the only motive.

About 2:30 p.m. Thursday, Mrs. Reeves' car was found parked behind Walls Industries Building. It had been moved from its regular parking lot near the I-20 station, according to investigators.

Standard added that a pair of bloodied undergarments was discovered in the back of the I-20 station Thursday morning. These were sent to the Department of Public Safety laboratory in Austin to be analyzed, he said.

In addition to the sheriff's and police departments working on the case, the Texas Rangers also have been called into the investigation, Standard said.

Midland unemployment declines

Only one city in Texas has lower rate of idle workers

The number of unemployed people in Midland County declined to 2.4 percent or 1,070 persons for the month of March, one of the lowest numbers in recent months, according to a spokesman with the Texas Employment Commission.

This figure is 31 percent less than February's reading of 1,550 unemployed, or 3.4 percent. It places Midland second in the state with only Bryan College Station ranking lower with 2.3 percent.

Midland's figure is much lower than the national level of 6.1 percent unemployed and Texas' rate of 3.8 percent.

While the unemployment figure went down, the total number of civilian labor force declined and total employment went up.

Only 44,940 persons eligible to work were reported for March, compared to 45,400 during February of this year.

However, the labor force has increased over the March 1978 figure of 42,440. Expected for June is an increase to 46,800, according to the TEC.

Total number of people working reached 43,870, up from 43,850 in February. It also is about 3,000 more than the 40,870 reported in March 1978.

Last month's figure is expected to increase by June, with 45,300 predicted in the working forces.

According to the TEC spokesman, retail trade posted the largest monthly gain due to Easter and spring season buying. Good weather also allowed the construction trades to work on their projects.

Gains were posted by service concerns and the federal government.

Financial institutions, utilities and communications held steady while transportation and mining posted some seasonal declines.

The yearly total employment growth pattern in Midland shows a steady advancement this year of about 7 percent, the spokesman said.

The employment commission is predicting employment growth for June due to expected good weather, increasing population and the need for energy.

TEC reported shortages of personnel in most occupations. Some of the hard to fill openings are for the jobs of tool designer, industrial engineer, geologist, nurse, surveyor, clerk, secretary, stenographer, construction trades, mechanic, machinist, welder and restaurant personnel.

New Midland office building to be located near airpark

The first major office complex to be located out of the downtown area was announced Thursday by the I.D.P. Corp.

The Petroleum Center Office Complex will consist of two buildings on five acres of land at the intersection of North A Street and Wadley Avenue.

The structures will have a total of 180,000 square feet of space — 90,000 in each building, said a spokesman with the corporation.

"This will be halfway between downtown and a country club, and adjacent to Midland Airpark," said the spokesman.

Estimated cost of construction for each building is $3.2 million, he said.

The buildings will be designated as One Petroleum Center and Two Petroleum Center. They will be two-stories in height and will be off-white in color with black glass.

Building material for the exterior will resemble a pearlized marble, according to the spokesman.

The interiors will feature a center atrium. Executive suites will be located in the four circular areas. More landscaping than usual also is planned, the spokesman said.

Plans call for about 480 parking spaces. The corporation is considering making it covered parking, designed to be architecturally compatible with the buildings.

Construction should begin by the first of August, with completion scheduled for late 1980, said the spokesman.

These were the words of Allen Neuharth, chairman of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, in addressing its annual meeting at New York City earlier this week.

He was speaking of the Supreme Court's recent 6-3 ruling permitting inquiry into a journalist's "state of mind" in libel suits. Lawyers, according to the ruling, may probe deeply into how information for a story was gathered and written, even to the extent of the "state of mind" of reporters and editors in the preparation of a story. He also spoke out against other prior rulings, including one allowing police and others to "rummage through our newsrooms." He termed all of the orders "a threat to the entire First Amendment." And he is exactly right.

He said that the court rulings had created an atmosphere of intimidation that was most chilling in smaller communities across the nation. He said the association is exploring ways to establish an insurance program to help small newspapers fight costly court battles to protect press freedoms.

This is where the public interest enters the picture, yet many persons do not fully understand this. Press freedom means the right of the people to know, and when press freedoms are infringed upon it is the people who are deprived of a constitutional right.

Neuharth again is absolutely correct in saying that the high court in its recent harassment decisions has put itself above the U.S. Constitution by "bending the First Amendment." It is the duty of the press to defend the public in situations of this nature.

The "state of mind" ruling is one of the court's most far-fetched and absurd ever insofar as press freedom is concerned.

As stated in the Longview Morning Journal, the court would not object to lawyers — including, presumably, lawyers for the government in some future Watergate case — asking why certain persons were interviewed and others were not; why some questions were or were not asked; why some data was put in and some left out of a story. And this very well could lead to a ruling that stories must be written in a manner prescribed by law — the government.

There is no doubt this particular ruling will have a chilling effect on the ability and willingness of the press to report controversial things about public figures. And when this happens, the public is the loser.

No free land either

The land grab Alaskans voted for themselves last November has been vetoed by the state's Supreme Court, protecting some 30 million acres from an assault which, according to Gov. Jake Hammond, "would make the Oklahoma landrush look like a Sunday School picnic."

Under provisions of the referendum last year, any three-year resident who applied for and had surveyed a parcel of the land could have been granted anywhere from 40 to 160 acres with no requirement that the applicant live on the property or make improvements.

The court did not rule on the scary aspect of the measure — that it would trigger a stampede.

But it based its decision on a sensible prohibition spelled out in Alaska's Constitution. The initiative process simply can't be used by citizens to vote themselves grants of state money — or state land.

The proposition was placed on the ballot in an effort to block federal plans to freeze much of the acreage into national park or wilderness systems. You can't blame them for that, but the aborted solution could have been worse than the problem.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Henry Kissinger and his memoirs

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Apparently, Henry Kissinger will omit from his $5 million memoirs the conversations that would make the best reading.

The urbane and witty foreign policy wizard sometimes has a loose tongue. While he presided over U.S. foreign affairs, most of his telephone calls and backroom conversations were transcribed and classified. He's now taking pains to delete the most indiscreet remarks from his forthcoming memoirs.

One of the censored conversations was with Shirley Temple Black, the former child star who became ambassador to Ghana. We have had access to the classified transcript, which is dated March 2, 1976.

Kissinger was seething over Cuban intervention in Africa. "Cuba is a miserable, two-bit Caribbean country," he snorted. "It is contributing to a racial war that could be transported to the Western Hemisphere...."

He anticipated that the Cubans would intervene in the black uprising in Rhodesia. "When the Cubans go into Rhodesia," he said grimly, "I may want to get involved, even if no one else does."

He explained that his attitude "has nothing to do" with favoring the white minority. "If the Africans want to make war over that question," Kissinger said, "there is no problem for us. But if Cuba is involved, there is."

"The thing that brings blood to the eye of black Africans," said Mrs. Black. "It is South African involvement."

"The thing that brings blood to my eye is Cuban involvement," Kissinger retorted.

He complained that Africans didn't understand the implications of Cuban intervention in Africa. "It is not an African problem," he said, "it is a geo-political problem. South African involvement in Angola was very damaging. It is very unfortunate that they came in. If we could have hired mercenaries, South Africa could have stayed out."

He grumbled about his inability to block the Soviet-Cuban subversion of Angola. "For several reasons, Angola was a disaster for the United States," he said. "There is no substitute for winning. In a case like this, we are the victims of our own impotence."

Ambassador Black reported that she had consulted with top officials in the White House, State Department and Central Intelligence Agency. "I have asked everyone what I can say about our position with regard to southern Africa."

"What did they tell you?" Kissinger asked derisively. "I told the president this morning that never has history been made by so many mediocrities. Well, if that is our style, that is what we must do."

The two discussed Kissinger's plans to make a 12-day tour of Africa. "Twelve days in Africa will drive me to drink," he lamented. "I have yet to meet a foreign minister with whom I have more than 45 minutes of real conversation."

"I think you would have no trouble talking to Ghanaians," Mrs. Black replied. "Foreign Minister Felli is a most interesting man."

CHARLEY REESE Charley isn't sure that history repeats itself

By CHARLEY REESE
Sun Belt Syndicate

ORLANDO, Fla. — I'm not so sure that history repeats itself. I think rather that periodically we just discover that nothing has changed.

Sometimes you get the idea that you are back in the 1930s as you watch all of the alphabet organizations come out of the woods to oppose this and to propose that.

A casual reading of "The Nation," one of the old leftist journals that is still around, shows that the socialists haven't changed. No one should expect them to change because anybody who believes in socialism must do so as an act of religious faith since it has been a bloody failure everywhere. A person who acts on faith does not need new knowledge or new experience since his faith molds reality to fit his doctrine.

The socialists are still against business, still against the Germans and Japanese, still against the New Deal (a sellout to the corporations), still impressed with Red China and the Soviet Union, and still painting military men as villains and conservatives as fascists.

The failure to understand the religious nature of socialism is probably what throws most non-socialists who try to deal with it. You can't deal with a socialist on the basis of reason, which is a paradox since so many of them like to posture as intellectuals. Like the good Catholic or the staunch Baptist, the socialist will merely cite the appropriate "scripture." End of conversation.

You can point to empirical evidence of socialism's failure until Lake Michigan dries up and you will produce nothing more than the standard excuses of fascist plots and corporate subversions. The idea that the reason for the failure of socialism is the theory itself is as unthinkable to a socialist as atheism is to a devout Catholic.

This late in the century when socialist experiment lies in ruins in all its variations from the most benign in Great Britain to the most vicious in Nazi Germany, the Soviet Union and Red China, no sensible person will waste time debating the issue.

The only topic worthy of discussion is how to deal with socialists. In our humane and democratic society, this presents a special problem because we hold it sacred that people have a right to be wrong. That precludes treating socialists the way socialists treat dissenters.

We could, of course, ignore them, but I don't think that would be wise. In the first place, socialists tend to be by nature devious and persistent and they are known to foul up a nation's economy with all sorts of bad legislation.

Furthermore, there is a certain intellectual dishonesty found in socialists. They latch onto diverse causes like ticks in order to offer a socialist solution to any and all problems. Thus you find the socialists opposing a strong national defense, promoting the ridiculous SALT II Treaty, fighting nuclear energy, pushing for wage and price controls, and using consumerism and environmentalism as excuses for extending the power of government.

Socialists are also groupies. A socialist lawyer will promote a socialist actor who will sing the praises of a socialist politician who will lavish praise on a socialist union leader who will show up at an appreciation dinner for a socialist professor who will be lionized as brilliant by a socialist writer.

As an ally against communists, socialists are as useful as cancer. Even the squeamish ones who cannot face the fact that of all the socialists, the communists are the ones who carry the theory to its logical conclusion will find some virtue in the most despicable communist tyrant. The same socialist will find vice in every non-socialist leader.

Again, it is a matter of religious faith. Socialist thinking is by definition proof of good intentions no matter how high the corpses are stacked and non-socialist thinking is proof of bad intentions no matter how free and prosperous the people are.

The best way to deal with socialists is to identify them and isolate them politically so that they can do a minimum amount of damage to the nation. We should wherever possible seek in a fair and democratic manner to eliminate socialists from public office and from the faculties of public schools and universities since no true socialist can resist the temptation to abuse his position by using it to further his religious beliefs.

Respect for differences of opinion and observance of the right of free speech do not entail an obligation on our part to subsidize people who intend to deprive us of our freedoms.

INSIDE REPORT:

Reagan's move to the center stuns GOP conservatives

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Movement by front-running Republican presidential hopeful Ronald Reagan toward the center has been confirmed by his effort — though unsuccessful — to hire the campaign management firm that defeated him for the 1976 nomination.

The spurned offer was made to the Washington-based firm of Bailey and Deardourff, which handled the finishing stages of Gerald Ford's victorious campaign against Reagan. John Deardourff (who broke into national politics as an aide to Nelson Rockefeller) and Doug Bailey are preeminent practitioners of moderate Republicanism.

Consequently, those conservatives who have heard about it were stunned by Reagan's move. They believe it confirms their worst fears that Reagan manager John Sears wants to run a non-ideological campaign not attuned to the issues.

Sears contacted the Bailey-Deardourff firm, and Reagan himself conferred with Bailey last month. But the firm informed Reagan, as it has other Republican presidential hopefuls, that it does not intend to take on a presidential campaign this time.

The reasons are twofold: first, Bailey and Deardourff would rather concentrate on interesting state races — especially Illinois, Pennsylvania and California — in 1980; second, no current presidential prospect — Reagan included — particularly appeals to them.

Alexander of Tennessee — who might be ready to go national that year.

SALT AND TURKEY

Turkey, the long-time U.S. ally that was denied U.S. military aid several years ago by Congress under the influence of the pro-Greek lobby, now holds a whiphand over the U.S. that is giving policy-makers the jitters and raising questions about the new strategic arms limitation treaty (SALT II).

When aid was restored by President Carter, the Turks agreed to reopen highly important American bases, but only for a one-year test period. That year runs out in October.

The problem is that, as a result of the Iranian revolution, the loss of U.S. monitoring stations in Iran that could monitor Soviet missile tests has made the Turkish bases infinitely more important than they used to be. Although the Turkish stations could never fully take the place of the now-closed monitoring stations in Iran to verify Soviet performance on SALT, they are far more important today than ever before.

The problem is that the pro-Greek lobby is still furious at Turkey for that country's refusal to make concessions on Cyprus that Greece demands. That means Congress retains the threat to reduce the new U.S. aid program, a threat the Turks take so seriously they will not promise that the American bases will stay open indefinitely. Without such assurance, the Carter administration is reluctant to spend the large sums needed to upgrade the bases.

CONNALLY'S LITTLE TRIUMPHS

While his foes insist he will soon self-destruct by peaking much too early in his run for the Republican presidential nomination, John B. Connally continues to pile up little triumphs. Two new examples:

He was given a highly unusual standing ovation after addressing the weekly breakfast meeting of an influential group of Republican House members.

A few days later, he dazzled an important group of American Jewish Committee (AJC) members in New York City, many of whom had been suspicious of his business ties with the Arab world.

On the negative side, Connally has shown the need for better preparation. His answers to some serious queries about the economy have struck the questioners as superficial.

WHITHER HAIG?

Herman Kahn, the cerebral whiz who runs the Hudson Institute, has had "preliminary talks" with Gen. Alexander Haig over the possibility of Haig doing special long-range, foreign-military policy work for the institute after he returns as supreme commander of NATO — and from the Army — the end of June.

If Haig takes the job, it would be a sure signal that the four-star general who has run the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) for more than four years wants to move into elective politics.

Haig has offers from at least three major corporations for top-rated jobs, in addition to offers from some of the nation's think-tanks. These are government-financed research organizations that do long-range planning in strategic, technological and other specialized work for the government. The Hudson Institute, one of the foremost, wants Haig and has offered him a job. Haig's response: no decision on his future until after his June 30 retirement date.

With offices near New York City and in Paris, Tokyo and Montreal, Hudson would offer Haig an attractive place to hang his hat. But the general has not decided on his future course, despite the openings of a Haig-for-president office in Chicago, as we reported last week. If he decides to try for political office, particularly a spot on the 1980 Republican presidential ticket, he might well go with the Hudson Institute. If not, he is expected to accept one of the business jobs.

Greek Cypriots are refugees in their own land

EDITOR'S NOTE: In Akhna Forest on the island of Cyprus, AP Special Correspondents Peter Arnett and Eddie Adams found several thousand Greek Cypriots camped just across a narrow road from their 3000-year-old village now under Turkish control. In this last installment in a series on the plight of the world's 10.5 million refugees, they tell the Cypriots' story in words and pictures.

By PETER ARNETT

AKHNA FOREST, Cyprus (AP) — A road barely wide enough for two cars to pass separates the Greek Cypriots camped in Akhna Forest from their 3000-year-old village. They can see their abandoned fields and homes, and the looting going on.

"We have lost our past even though we see it before our eyes," said teacher Flora Ioannou, near tears. "I know it is difficult for outsiders to understand our anger."

That road might as well be the span of an ocean for this group — they are among the world's 10.5 million homeless. They are refugees in their own land, trapped in a political and social convulsion that has divided their island home and uprooted nearly 200,000 persons.

The 5,000 people of Akhna were among the 155,500 Greek Cypriots dislodged from their lands when Turkish military forces invaded the eastern Mediterranean island in 1974. The Turkish government said the aim was to protect the minority of Turkish Cypriots.

But the mention of the Turks to the Greek Cypriots leaves a sour taste, like the bitter lemons that grow so profusely on the island.

"We watch them looting Akhna," said Christos Pavlou, a member of

The United Nations has spent $100 million on refugee assistance since the 1974 war, 80 percent of it on the Greek side of the island. A total of $50 million has been spent on new housing on the Greek side, but not a penny has gone north for housing.

"We won't give money for Turks to build on Greek property," said the chief of the U.N. High Commission for Refugees, Alfred Zur Lippe-Weissenfeld. But U.N. money has provided food, health and social services in the north.

Particularly galling to the Greek Cypriots is that the Turkish invasion has pushed them out of some of the prettiest land in the Mediterranean.

Greek Cypriots cry openly sometimes when you mention places like Bellapais, a uniquely beautiful village on a north coast mountainside, and Kyrenia, with its 12th century port.

Many argue that Turkish mainland politicians are preventing an adequate settlement and that the Turkish minority that makes up about 20 percent of the population would be willing to live with the Greeks again.

Committee urges passage of Slack bill

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Senate Natural Resources Committee has favorably recommended Senate passage of a bill by Rep. Dick Slack of Pecos to amend the Texas Natural Resources Code.

The change would establish a procedure to lease Relinquishment Act lands when a surface owner cannot be located.

At present, Senate sponsor Sen. Pete Snelson of Midland explained, the state cannot execute a lease if the surface owner can't be located.

Team to visit Europe to help promote cotton

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. cotton trade team will visit Europe later this spring to help promote the fiber in key markets.

The Agriculture Department said Wednesday the team will visit Romania, Hungary, France and the United Kingdom May 19 through June 2.

Meetings will be held with textile industry leaders, cotton traders, government officials and others "to discuss the U.S. cotton supply situation, 1979 crop outlook and marketing opportunities and problems."

the camp council in Akhna Forest. "We stand in the road.

"First the soldiers took the windows and doors of our houses, along with everything inside. Then they took the roofs. Just last week they lifted the asbestos roof off the Akhna cinema and took it north."

While Turkish forces remain in place today, more than 37,000 Turkish Cypriots have fled north as the result of Greek Cypriot reprisals.

Prosperous Akhna village, with its potato fields and lemon and fig trees, was one of the Turkish targets in 1974.

The residents of the village fled across the road to the Akhna Forest, a thinlywooded stand of eucalyptus and pine trees that lay just inside the territory of the British military base of Dhekelia, and was therefore protected from the Turks.

Initially, 45,000 people from scores of other villages also camped in the forest in automobiles and tents. But now 3,000 remain, shivering in the late winter winds blowing strongly off the Troodos Mountains to the west, and nursing their anger.

Papa-Lambros, a Cypriot orthodox priest, is a dominant figure in the camp, with his black beard, blue tunic and black hat.

"They are even carrying off the earth from our fields," he said with vehemence.

The people of the forest have learned to be cautious. Every 100 meters along the Turk side of the road are army posts. Three Greeks have been killed trying to get into their old village.

On the other side, Refet Tahir, a Turk who said he ran a coffee shop in a southern village and was given one previously owned by a Greek Cypriot in Bellapais, doesn't trust the Greeks any more than they trust him.

"No, we can't live together again," he said. "We don't trust the Greeks anymore, and if the Turkish army had not arrived they would have killed us all."

The history of sun-splashed Cyprus, with its ancient Greek and early Christian ruins, dates back to 2000 B.C. The Turks arrived on the "Island of Aphrodite" in 1571 and dominated the place until the British took over late in the 19th century.

But the Greek and Turkish communities remained fiercely exclusive, with no intermarriage between the Christian Greeks and the Moslem Turks, and very little socializing. An independent nation was established in 1960, but no sense of national unity ever developed.

Bloody intercommunal fighting broke out over the years. Greek Cypriots were demanding Enosis, union with Greece.

The Turks decided to invade the island in 1974 in a quick, bloody war that gave them a third of the island, including the modern city of Famagusta, and the idyllic north coast resort of Kyrenia.

Today, the United States and the United Nations are trying to bring both sides together and agree on the withdrawal of the invasion troops, the return of property, and a restoration of trade and other ties between the two peoples.

But with one third of the population refugees, tempers are on edge. Even though the people of the Akhna Forest could be resettled elsewhere, in housing superior to their ramshackle temporary huts, they refuse to go.

"We stay here to defy the Turks," said Eleni Kalou, tending flowers outside her green plywood house, her child playing at her feet. "We have visited the president in Nicosia to remind him that we want to go home soon."

Priest Papa-Lambros said, "We know our side is fair and just. The United States should press Turkey to leave us. Our committee sent President Carter a telegram of congratulations after his election, but he didn't respond to us. Does that mean he doesn't care about our fate?"

Conditions poor for older mental patients

WASHINGTON (AP) — Older mental patients are being indiscriminately transferred from state institutions to poorly-run boarding houses in communities throughout the nation, says a federal official.

Dr. Robert N. Butler, director of the National Institute on Aging, also said that a lack of clear regulations and licensing practices contributed to the circumstances that led to three fatal fires in boarding homes in two states and the District of Columbia.

"These lives could easily have been saved," Butler told a House Aging subcommittee Wednesday. The fires killed 45.

He said boarding houses should be equipped with a combination of sprinklers, smoke sensors, and fire-proof materials, and their employees should be ready with evacuation plans in the event of an emergency.

Butler, testifying before the subcommittee chaired by Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., said that between 1969 and 1973 the number of aged patients in state mental institutions decreased by 40 percent.

"A significant number of the facilities to which mental patients were sent offer poor nursing and medical care, little or no psychiatric care, unhealthy and untherapeutic physical and social surroundings, inadequate and unenforced safety regulations, and a host of other problems," said Butler.

In his criticism of the ever-growing policy of states to send the mentally disabled into adult foster care homes, Butler said more effort should be made to improve mental institutions to handle those persons who shouldn't be put back into the community.

Mays seeks fourth term on Big Spring Council

BIG SPRING — Polly Mays, mayor pro tem of Big Spring, will be seeking a fourth two-year term on the City Council Saturday when she faces challenger John Massey in a runoff election.

The runoff was set up May 7 when neither candidate mustered a majority in a three-way election for the post held by Ms. Mays, a Big Spring civic leader, for the past six years.

In that race, Ms. Mays polled 1,180 votes; Massey, 1,134, and L.A. Hiltbrunner, 220. Massey is director of law enforcement technology at Howard College. Hiltbrunner is a semi-retired farmer.

In absentee balloting, 240 votes were cast in the runoff, said Tom Ferguson, city secretary for the city of Big Spring. He said 232 absentee votes were cast in the regular election.

Sticker sticks auto insurance law

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—Chances of passing a compulsory auto insurance law in Texas received a setback Thursday from a simple little windshield sticker.

Over objections of Rep. Gene Green, the House added an amendment, 67-62, that might strengthen insurance company arguments against the bill and raise opposition from state police.

Green, D-Houston, sponsor of the compulsory insurance bill (HB22), then decided to delay any further debate until next Tuesday.

The amendment would require insurance companies to issue each policyholder a windshield sticker showing his or her car is covered by liability insurance.

Mandatory liability insurance has been Green's big crusade for years, and this is his first bill on the subject to reach the floor.

"I know many of you have heard this is the biggest issue from your constituents. ... Insurance lobbyists have opposed this bill. ... This is not an insurance industry bill," said Green.

He said 30 percent of all Texas cars are uninsured but his bill might reduce that to 10 percent or 15 percent.

The bill would require every driver to have liability insurance or prove he or she was rich enough to pay $20,000 for injuries and $5,000 for damage in an accident.

If stopped by a policeman, a motorist would have to show both a driver's license and proof of insurance. An uninsured driver would be subject to a fine of $50-$200 the first time he or she was caught and $200-$1,000 on subsequent offenses.

Green and the House Insurance Committee had scrapped more onerous requirements — including cross-checks with insurance companies and uniform proof-of-insurance cards.

The idea, he said, was to win over the Texas Department of Public Safety — which dislikes paperwork — and weaken arguments of the insurance lobby.

Insurance companies oppose mandatory liability coverage because they believe drivers who won't voluntarily buy insurance also have more accidents.

Reps. Craig Washington, D-Houston; Bob Hendricks, D-McKinney; and Ron Coleman, D-El Paso, rammed through the sticker amendment.

Each insured car would receive a sticker. Insurance companies would have to tell the DPS immediately when a policy was cancelled. The DPS, of course, would have to hire people to record the insurance information.

Coleman said without notification of the DPS, the bill did not impose "mandatory liability. You know it and I know it."

"We are doing something here the insurance industry doesn't want and the DPS doesn't want."

For second time, Ignacio Cuevas sentenced to die by injection

HOUSTON (AP)— Ignacio Cuevas will return to the only home he has known for the past four years — death row in the Texas state prison system.

Cuevas, a Mexican-American described by his defense attorney as "stupid," was sentenced to die by injection for the second time in a verdict returned by an All-Anglo, six-man-six woman jury.

There still is an appeal route to take and defense attorney Will Gray said he would use it.

For Cuevas, it was back to the 5-foot-by-8-foot-by-9-foot cell on death row. A short, stocky man with black horn-rimmed glasses who used a Spanish interpreter throughout the trial, showed no emotion when the verdict was read.

His wife and four young children, ages nine to 14, were in the courtroom. They left about 30 minutes after the verdict was announced. Mrs. Cuevas lowered her head, and there were tears in her eyes. The children didn't seem to understand what had happened to their father, a man they have not really known since his 1970 conviction for murder in the West Texas town of Pecos.

Reading conference continues Saturday at Midland school

Midland's parents, teachers, administrators and volunteers can participate in a conference on "accountability in reading" today and Saturday at Sam Houston Elementary School.

Registration for the Saturday session will be from 8:15 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Fee is $5.

Today's sessions were to include the keynote address by Dr. Dwight Allen, professor of reading at the University of Arizona, speaking on "The importance of language development in teaching reading."

Also on tap for today was a presentation on the parent as first teacher-developing competent learning skills in young children at home and at school, presented by Marion Button, a past Master Montessori teacher and lecturer for the Houston Independent School District.

Marsha Samponaro, early childhood coordinator for the Midland schools also was to make a presentation entitled "Are You or Your Teachers Really Accountable in Reading?"

Today's afternoon sessions were to include discussions on the Distar reading and math programs, outstanding successful approaches to reading in the U.S. and developing oral language skills in students as a prerequisite for successful reading.

Activities Saturday will begin at 9 a.m. with a special two-hour session on effective diagnosing and remediation of reading weaknesses and skills. Dr. Laura Smith, author of studies on English as a second language techniques for minority students, will conduct the session. She also is co-author of the Language Experience Read Approach Series and an assistant professor at The University of Texas of the Permian Basin.

Also scheduled from 9 to 10 a.m. is a session on "Helping your child read at home," by Mrs. Samponaro, co-author of the Partners in Reading booklets and chairman of the reading conference. She has presented workshops at HOSTRA International Individualized Learning Conference, the New York State Teachers Convention and the Long Island Regional Individualized Learning Council Conferences. She also has served as evaluator for individualized programs for the state of New York and as a consultant for several publishing companies.

Scheduled from 10:15 to 11:30 a.m. is a session on building pre-reading and pre-math skills through daily living activities with young children at home and at school. The session will be presented by Ms. Button who is a national leader in the U.S. Montessori Association and author of a book establishing pre-school programs.

Scheduled at 1 p.m. is a session on building comprehension and vocabulary skills in all students presented by Carolyn Snider who has served as a consultant for many school districts throughout the U.S. and is co-author of the Distar Reading Games and Activities kits.

The session scheduled from 2:30 to 3:30 will outline the Montessori approach to developing independence for pre-reading and reading skills.

Clements eyes interest ceilings on mortgages

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—Despite a threat to veto any increase in Texas usury rates, Gov. Bill Clements is taking another look at interest ceilings on home mortgage loans.

"I have not relaxed my position," Clements told a news conference Thursday. "but all this is going to cause further consideration. I don't know what the effect will be."

Clements commented shortly after he was informed that federal mortgage bankers will no longer approve Texas FHA or VA loans above the 10 percent interest maximum.

A national spokesman for mortgage bankers said in Houston that the Texas usury law is outmoded and created a "trade barrier" by curtailing the flow of mortgage money at a time when the national interest rate ranged from 10.14 percent to 11 percent.

Clements noted that the Legislature passed a bill exempting federal FHA and VA loans from Texas' interest ceiling but the Texas attorney general has expressed doubts in the past as to the constitutionality of the exemption.

Man indicted on charge of threatening president

William Rodney Etheridge, 23, currently in the Ector County Jail on theft and burglary charges, was indicted Thursday by a Midland federal grand jury on a charge of threatening the life of President Jimmy Carter.

Secret Service agents filed charges March 15 against the 23-year-old man after he allegedly wrote a letter threatening the life of Carter and threatening to blow up the U.S. Department of Justice building in San Antonio and the Midland Federal Building if he were not released from custody in the Ector County facility.

Bond for Etheridge was set Thursday at $200,000 by Judge John Wood.

Etheridge will remain in custody of the state until state and federal authorities decide when he can be released to federal officials, said Secret Service Agent Buddy Cosby.

The state of Utah has placed a hold on Etheridge on a fugitive from justice warrant, added Cosby.

Two sealed indictments were returned Thursday.

Study shows snake venom ineffective in treating Gehrig's disease

CHICAGO (AP) — Snake venom is ineffective in treating amyotrophic lateral sclerosis — also known as Lou Gehrig's disease, researchers have found in a Texas study.

The researchers reported their findings at a meeting in Chicago of the American Academy of Neurology. They studied 75 patients suffering from the disease at Houston's Methodist Hospital.

Dr. Victor M. Rivera of the Baylor College of Medicine said the detoxified venom of cobras and kraits used in the study was obtained from the Sanders Medical Research Foundation at Boca Raton, Fla., where the treatment originated.

The disease is popularly named for professional baseball player Lou

Gehrig, who died of the disease in 1941.

It almost always is fatal after running a course of three to eight years, Rivera said. The cause is unknown and there is no known cure or palliative treatment for it.

It is marked by progressive weakness, wasting away and atrophy, with the patients ultimately being unable to swallow. They die usually of respiratory complications.

The patients came from 15 states and Mexico. Rivera and his associates divided them into two groups, one group received the detoxified venom and the other received a placebo, an inactive medication, for a period of three months.

After the first three months, "for humane reasons," all patients were given the detoxified venom in the event that the placebo group might benefit from it if it worked.

The researchers and patients did not know who was receiving the venom injections and who was receiving the placebo, which came in coded vials from Florida.

Sixty-four patients completed the study. The others either dropped out because they were too weak to continue or died.

The patients were analyzed for 256 variables, most of them being objective laboratory tests, the others being the patients' reports of how they felt.

Rhode Island's 'Southernmost School' has survived for 254 years

By JULES LOH
 PORTSMOUTH, R.I. (AP) — Are you dismayed by governmental red tape, budgets gone haywire, bureaucracy so cumbersome it seems to take forever to get anything done?
 Take heart, citizen. Apparently, alas, it was ever thus.
 "The townspeople wanted a simple, one-room schoolhouse," Herbert Hall said. "It was decided on at the most fundamental level of American government, a New England town meeting. Yet," he said, palms upturned, "look how it was handled."

 By luck, and also by the concern of Herbert Hall and others like him who care about their heritage, the simple schoolhouse is still standing, surely one of the oldest relics of its kind.
 It was ordered built at the town meeting of Aug. 31, 1716, and was named with Yankee simplicity, "the Southernmost School."
 A conscientious citizen, one William Sanford, donated three quarters of an acre of land and 10 days later the selectmen voted an appropriation for the building: 20 pounds.

 The value of the British pound has changed since those times, and there was, of course, no American dollar then. Had there been, the appropriation would translate to roughly $100.
 "Nine years later — nine years!" Hall said, "the carpenter submitted his bill. It took that long to get the school built."
 Hall has the document framed. It is brittle and faded, but the tidy script of the contractor, Adam Lawton, remains legible. The cost of the Southernmost School came to 23 pounds, 12 shillings, 7 pence. That would be, roughly, just over $118. In today's jargon, an 18 percent cost overrun.

 Well, it was worth it. It was worth it because the school has survived, complete with part of its original schoolmaster's desk, the lift-up part, with one of its original pupil's desks, from which others have been copied, and, best of all, with its original graffiti.
 Thus, in the flowing lines of long lost penmanship, there remain the names and initials of long lost generations who attended the Southernmost School: "Sarah Coggeshall," "F.H.J.," "Mary Spooner."

 "I found the names of some Almys," Hall said. "They were the people who raised my grandfather after he was orphaned."

 Herbert Hall is a 6-foot-3 Rhode Islander, the northernmost one foot of whom is covered with black hair. He was born in 1942 on the farm his grandfather inherited from the Almys and as a boy used to play in the old schoolhouse.

"It was a farm building in those days, a tack room, but the oldtimers knew what it had been. It went out of use as a school in the 1860s or '70s."

Ten fun-filled weeks of summer day camping will be offered to boys and girls 4-12 years of age by the greater Midland YMCAs this summer, according to David Graunke, Camp Chaparral director.

Camp Chaparral is a nationally accredited YMCA day camp program that has as its goals camper fellowship and fun through varied two-week and one-week programs offered all summer.

Regular activities include progressive swim lessons daily, archery, riflery, nature lore, campcrafts, arts and crafts, carnival games and specially designed programs for the older campers.

The two-week sessions include out-of-city trips and all sessions include horseback riding. The two-week sessions also include a parent supper and an overnight for the campers, followed by an early "flap jack" breakfast.

The Camp Chaparral dates are: Session I, June 4-8; Session II, June 11-22; Session III, June 25-29; Session IV, July 9-20; Session V, July 23-August 3, and Session VI, August 6-17.

Day camp runs from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. daily. The cost is $19 for one week and $38 for two weeks for members who register before May 25 and $25 for one week and $50 for two weeks for non-members. This includes T-shirts for every camper, insurance, supplies, horseback riding, swim lessons, staff salaries, out-of-city trips, the overnight and breakfast. A non-refundable deposit of $15 must accompany registration form to secure one of 60 camper spots open during the camp.

Graunke has had 11 years experience in day, travel and residence camps in the YMCA. The junior and senior staffs are carefully screened and the camper to counselor ratio is 1-8. If you have any questions, call 682-2551.

MIDLAND WOMEN'S TENNIS Association will hold a spring Davis Cup Tournament May 15-17. Members are asked to sign the sheet near the athletic office in the Midland College gymnasium building, according to Kay Smith, spokesman.

SOUTHWEST SUMMER MUSICALS, Inc., a new semi-professional theatrical company, will perform two musicals in Midland, beginning June 28. Eight performances of Gypsy and eight performances of Damn Yankees are scheduled in the Midland High School auditorium.

Auditions for West Texas talent to fill a portion of the casts will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday, May 6, at the MHS auditorium.

The company will bring together professional actors and actresses, a choreographer and a technical director from the Los Angeles area to create a mixture of Texas and Hollywood.

James Buchanan, drama director at MHS, will direct the company and musical direction will be by Don McCartney, choral director for MHS.

Apartment shortage may worsen

By EILEEN ALT POWELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Families searching for apartments this spring face hard times because fewer units are available. And housing experts say the situation will get worse, especially with inflation booting rent.

"There is really a crisis in multi-family rental housing in this country," Lawrence B. Simms, federal housing commissioner, said in an interview Thursday.

Jay Shackford of the National Association of Home Builders agreed. "The vacancy rate has been declining since the recession of 1974-75," he said. "You don't see the big rental apartment projects going up any more. They're just too costly."

Statistics show that the tightest rental market is in the Northeast and that apartment dwellers in central cities everywhere fare a bit better than their counterparts in rural and suburban locales.

Most housing experts believe at least six to seven apartments of every 100 must be on the market to give families enough choices.

However, the Census Bureau reported Thursday the rental vacancy rate nationwide was 4.8 percent in the first three months this year — the first time in more than two decades of records-keeping that fewer than five of every 100 units were on the market.

The agency also released its annual survey showing the vacancy rate in 1978 at 5 percent, down from 5.2 percent the previous year and significantly below the 6.2 percent figure of 1974. In the early 1960s, the vacancy rate was 8 percent or higher.

The number of vacant homes for sale also fell in 1978 to one in 100, compared with 1.2 per hundred in the four preceding years.

Inflation, meanwhile, boosted apartment rents, said Census Bureau spokeswoman Margaret Harper.

The one out of three American families who live in rented housing paid a median monthly rent of $158 in 1978. A year earlier, they paid $147 per month, she said.

Experts agree on the problem: The nation is not building apartments fast enough to keep up with the growing population and to replace aging, unhabitable units.

Robert Sheehan, an economist with the National Association of Home Builders, estimates that only 315,000 private rental apartment units will be built this year — less than half the number constructed annually before the recession five years ago.

He blamed high construction costs and inflation.

"We're likely to see them (the number of apartments) go down even further," Sheehan warned. "That could put more and more pressure on rents and make it harder and harder for people to find places to rent."

Housing commissioner Simons points to the "the whole spate of conversions (to condominiums and cooperatives) taking rental multi-family housing out of the stock."

He adds: "The multi-family rental side would really be in severe trouble if it weren't for the government side."

The Department of Housing and Urban Development is responsible for building or rehabilitating 200,000 multi-family units this year and has asked Congress for money to fund a similar number in 1981.

Method developed for detecting hemophilia in unborn children

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) — For the first time, doctors say they are able to tell before a baby is born whether he will have hemophilia, the inherited bleeding disorder that once plagued the royalty of Europe.

Using a needle to draw fluid from the fetus, the researchers say they can find out whether the unborn's blood contains the necessary protein that allows it to clot.

People who have severe hemophilia bleed uncontrollably. Although the disease affects only boys, it is passed on to them by their mothers. One male in 6,500 has it.

Until now, women who suspected they carried the genetic trait for this disease often avoided having children. Another alternative was to have an abortion if they learned through amniocentesis, another prenatal test, that the fetus was male.

However, there is a 50-50 chance that boys conceived by these women will be normal. The problem until now has been determining before birth which boys are healthy and which are bleeders.

The new test was developed by doctors at the medical schools at Yale, the University of Connecticut and Case Western Reserve. Their study was published today in the New England Journal of Medicine.

"This test would be done after determining that the baby was in fact male by amniocentesis," Dr. Bernard G. Forget, one of the Yale researchers, said in an interview.

Collector finds tarantulas are interesting companions.

PETERSBURG, Va. (AP) — Sharing your bedroom with 35 varieties of tarantula spiders would be an unsettling experience for most people.

Not however, for Lt. Col. Murray Cragin, a medical liaison officer for North American Air Defense Command's 20th Region-Air Division at Fort Lee Air Force Station here.

A native of North Hollywood, Calif., Cragin collects tarantulas as part of his interest in arachnology — the study of spiders. He says it began in 1967 when a spider started spinning a web outside his office window at Poper Air Force Base, N.C.

He photographed it (another hobby) and has since further developed his interests in both photography and the study of several species of spiders, including the tarantula. He obtained his first tarantula four years ago while stationed at Kirtland Air Force Base, N.M. A friend who worked for the U.S. Forest Service found the spider in the desert.

"I am primarily interested in studying spiders in their natural habitats in the field," Cragin says. "That requires that spiders be studied and photographed under natural conditions whenever possible. Most scientists work primarily on classification of spiders into genus and species, not behavior," he said.

"Keeping live tarantulas is a natural and visible offshoot of the study of spiders," he says. "Since most domestic spiders live only a single year and are fully grown only a few months of the year, they do not lend themselves to be kept in captivity, whereas tarantulas may live from 12 to as long as 25 years."

Cragin's collection consists of tarantulas from all over the world. He has spiders from Mexico, Haiti, Guatemala, Honduras and Thailand, as well as from the states of Texas and Arizona.

He obtains them through tropical pet suppliers and from private collectors. Supply and demand determine the cost of a tarantula. Prices vary between $9 and $25, but some exotic foreign species cost up to $60.

"Each genus and species in my collection has its own distinct personality," Cragin says. "Some are desert burrowers while others live in trees and on jungle vegetation. Some are wanderers, whereas others never stray more than a few feet from their burrow."

"Some of my spiders are docile while others range from mildly aggressive temperaments to violently aggressive. However, none of them is known to be dangerous to man; their bite is similar to a bee sting. Even those that are violently aggressive give fair warning that they wish to be left alone and you will be bitten only if you are careless and ignore their warning," he said. "That warning is issued by raising themselves on their hind legs in a threat position and baring their fangs."

Tarantulas, like most spiders, are cannibalistic. So Cragin keeps the collection in aquarium-type glass tanks, with each spider separated in its own section.

They eat only live food: crickets, lizards, grasshoppers and mice. Feeding is necessary only once or twice a week, depending on the time of year and the species of spider; however, a constant source of water is required.

He has recently obtained two adult males and plans to breed them with his females.

Asked to explain the benefits of keeping tarantulas as pets, Cragin said, "They don't bark, they don't bite the postman, they don't require a litter box, they eat only a few cents worth of food a week, and you can leave them alone for a week while you're on vacation!"

Cosmetics rate

Two to three percent of working and career women's take-home pay during 1977 was spent on cosmetics and fragrances, reports Becky Culp, a clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Birthday party program held

"Reflection," a musical group from Wilshire Park Baptist Church, presented the program at the monthly birthday celebration for residents at Trinity Towers.

The monthly event is hosted by Trinity Towers Auxiliary.

The musical group is composed of Kayla Fletcher, pianist and director; Roxie Barrett, drums; Karen Crowley, saxophone; and Deidre Madison, vocalist.

Clyde Haden welcome the guests and introduced the program.

Flowers for the occasion were furnished by Midland Iris Society. Cake was baked by Clarice Taylor of the Circle L Sunday School class.

Honorees this month were Irma Hyde, Barbara Lee Owens, Gladys Youngblood and Opal McKnight.

Guests were Doug and Donnie Saylor, Claude and Julia Benham, Marilyn Harrison, Harry Harrison and Mack and Timmy Harrison.

Volunteers were Helen Reid, Lucille Semple, Esther Denton, Helena Gaston, Helen Luff, Helen McCrary and Thelma Echols. Mary Frances Hade, administrator, assisted in serving.

Scholarship fund established in memory of cancer victim

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The efforts of Marvella Bayh, whose private struggle with cancer turned into a public source of encouragement for women everywhere, will continue with the establishment of a scholarship fund in her name at the Indiana University School of Medicine.

The fund, supported by memorial contributions, would be for female first-year medical students who are Indiana natives and who are interested in the fight against cancer, a spokesman for her husband, Sen. Birch Bayh, said Wednesday.

Mrs. Bayh died Tuesday in the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md. She was 46.

Mrs. Bayh underwent a mastectomy in October 1971, and learned a little more than a year ago that the cancer had returned and was inoperable.

"I thought it was rather unfortunate it (the surgery) had to have so much publicity," Mrs. Bayh said after the 1971 operation. "It is the sort of thing you would like to slip into the hospital, have the surgery, then in a few months appear around again and only the people very close to you ever would know you had the surgery.

"Then I had so many letters from women who said, 'You can be our example,' that it made me feel maybe I can bring a little bit of encouragement to women cancer has yet to strike."

Premiere set

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A highlight of the five-day Leonard Bernstein Festival, May 4-8 in Kansas City, will be the world premiere of a major dance event, says Maurice Peress, music director of the Kansas City Philharmonic.

Judith Jamison, a performer for the noted Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater, will star in the production, according to Peress. Choreography is by John Butler.

The ballet music is based on Bernstein's "Three Meditations from Mass."

By JOSEPH G. BOYD

"What is a honeymoon?" Abigail Van Buren, whose advice column appears in The Milwaukee Sentinel, asked the question rhetorically.

"Well, it's an old-fashioned word," she said in answer to her own question. "You hear a lot about dirty words. Well, 'honeymoon' is a clean word for the same thing."

"Traditionally, it's a trip after the marriage. The couple get to know each other pretty well. But the word 'honeymoon' is scarcely used anymore."

"Dear Abby," as she is addressed by letter-writers, said in a phone conversation about honeymoons that newlyweds who have lived together before the marriage frequently "dispense with the trip" and use the money for more tangible things. "They get married on Saturday and are back to work on Monday," she observed.

Those who approach marriage from separate domiciles and a more traditional route, she finds, quite often write her about problems which came as big news to one of the spouses during the honeymoon.

"They'll write, 'I didn't know he snores,'" Abby said. "Or, 'She is a night person, reading in bed or watching late TV, and I am a day person.' Too often the living-together aspects of marriage are not considered, and the honeymoon is where those problems show up."

What, then, does Abby advise?

"I tell them that this is a matter of adjustment," she replied. "Sometimes it's a matter of trading favors, trying to adjust equally. Or it can be trying to change oneself in order to please the other."

Sometimes her advice is simple and direct: "I tell men, 'Pick up your socks and towels. Be neat.' I have to tell women, 'Don't leave your cosmetics around.'"

"It is astonishing how many men have to be told to take showers. It surprises me how many have to be told. And women have to bathe more often than men. I really got the feminists down on me for saying that, but if they don't know the reasons why a woman should bathe more often, they aren't being realistic. Being clean and attractive is very important."

"There are even more serious things which couples fail to discuss before the honeymoon," Abby continued. "Many (letter writers) say, 'I didn't know he — or she — hated kids.'"

She indicated that the variety of important things people fail to find out about those they marry is absolutely amazing. She advises serious discussions of goals and lifestyles before marriage.

"Many honeymoons couples have terrific fights," she revealed. "Regular explosions! Complete with going home to mother — and a guy can go home to mother, too. It happens."

The traditional honeymoon, Abby said thoughtfully, "is not a realistic setting for getting to know each other. It's a vacation. The couple is together all the time — no work, just fun and games, parties and traveling. It isn't realistic — but that does not mean that it is harmful."

Styles in honeymoon travel have changed from the traditional Niagara Falls junket of the Gay Nineties, according to Abby.

"A lot of couples take motor trips," she said. "Now that travel is so inexpensive, a lot of couples can go abroad. Newlyweds are getting to see the world. Sometimes the honeymoon is postponed and they both work, earn money and take the trip later."

"A lot of couples like to camp out, tour the country on a motorcycle. They like to see the countryside and get to meet people. It all depends on the individuals."

"Some are so much in love they just pull the shades and that's it! They don't even see the city where they are. And that's all right too, but they might just as well go to the motel on the main street in their own town. Why bother with a trip if they're just going to hole up and enjoy each other?"

The money aspects of the honeymoon have changed with the years, Abby said: "Many couples get money and prefer it to large weddings. They buy practical things, and a lot of the fine things — sterling and china — are handed down. Young people are saving trading stamps, too."

Though Abby finds that there can be pitfalls and shattering surprises on honeymoons, she nevertheless remembers her own as marvelous.

"It was 38 years ago — soon to be 39," she said. Abby married Morton Phillips. They lived for 10 years in Eau Claire, Wis., before moving to Beverly Hills, Calif.

"We went to Mackinac Island for our honeymoon," Abby recalled. "I played Bingo — and I won! But I really hit the jackpot when I married Morton!"

A major silver celebration

By BARBARA BASLER AP Newsfeatures

An American humorist once voiced contempt for a couple by haughtily remarking that they were the kind of people who bought their silver. The writer was implying — perhaps in jest — that silver truly belonged only to those well-connected enough to inherit it.

But for more than three centuries, silver has played an important part in the lives of most Americans, even those who were not born with a silver spoon in their mouth.

Indeed, scholars say that while the rich may own more silver than you and I, every American has inherited a silver tradition.

"Ever since colonial times, Americans have used silver objects to mark birthdays, weddings, anniversaries, religious observances, civic achievements, and wartime and athletic events," says Gerald W.R. Ward, of the Yale University Art Gallery.

Ward and his wife, Barbara McLean Ward, have just finished preparing a major exhibition of American silver, drawn from Yale's fine, comprehensive collection.

The exhibition is "Silver in American Life." After opening in April in Pittsburgh, it is scheduled to tour museums in 11 major cities over the next three years. Organized by the American Federation of Arts and the Yale University Art Gallery, the exhibition contains more than 200 silver objects that illustrate the role of the precious metal in American cultural life from the 17th to the 20th centuries.

The exhibition explores the close relationship between silver and American life. Its 25 display cases show silver objects arranged in groups according to use.

Iota Betas hear officer

The Iota Beta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held their meeting recently at the home of Gloria Peel.

Officer Steve Otto of the Midland Crime Control Unit presented a film entitled, "Who's Neighborhood is This?" He then spoke on the services offered by the crime control unit and urged members to have their homes inspected so that burglars would find it difficult to break in.

Becky Thomas received the hostess gift. The next meeting, the installation of officers, will be held at the Branding Iron.

Liz Wells was a guest at the meeting.

featuring everything from coins for the marketplace to goblets for the church.

The collection includes the earliest known piece of American-made silver, a tiny dram cup fashioned by a Boston silversmith about 1650.

One of the most monumental pieces of silver made in America is also included. "The Monteith Bowl was a kind of large punchbowl used for cooling and holding wine glasses," Ward explains.

And, of course, no exhibition of American silver would be complete without several pieces by one of America's most renowned silversmiths — Paul Revere — a man who Ward says would have been famous as a silversmith even if he had never been a patriot.

Idi Amin trying to regain power

WASHINGTON (AP) — Deposed Uganda President Idi Amin is reported alive in Libya and futilely seeking military help to regain power, according to a U.S. official.

Deputy Assistant Secretary of State Robert Keeley told the House Africa subcommittee Thursday that "as of last week he was still seeking military support."

Keeley said Amin is reported to have sought help from Iraq as well as Libya, but he said he doesn't believe Amin could regain power even with aid.

Kenyan arrest Ugandans

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Seven Ugandan soldiers carrying papers identifying them as members of Idi Amin's torture and death gasta have been jailed for one year for illegally entering Kenya.

The seven were fleeing pursuing Tanzanian army units, crossed from Uganda into Kenya Thursday and were caught by police, the prosecutor told a court in the frontier town of Busia.

The prosecutor said their documents identified them as members of the State Research Bureau, Amin's secret police force which was responsible for the torture and murder of thousands of his foes.

Cyprus meeting set

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Greek Cypriot and Turkish Cypriot leaders are to hold their first meeting in two years in an attempt to settle their dispute over Cyprus.

U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim, whose office arranged the May 17-19 meeting in Nicosia, will participate in the talks between Greek Cypriot President Spyros Kyprianou and Rauf Denktaş, leader of the Turkish Cypriots, a spokesman said.

The Turkish Cypriots, who do not recognize Kyprianou's government, took control of 40 percent of the Mediterranean island in 1974 after an invasion by Turkish forces.

Guernica bombing marked

GUERNICA, Spain (AP) — The town fathers held a special session on the 42nd anniversary of the bombing of this Basque town by Nazi planes during the Spanish Civil War and decided to deprive the late Gen. Francisco Franco of all honors granted to him by Guernica.

They also agreed Thursday to demand explanations of the Spanish and German governments for the April 26, 1937 raid carried out by Hitler's planes that destroyed Guernica and killed an estimated 200 to 1,600 people, nearly all civilians.

Franco was named Guernica's adoptive son in 1946 and awarded its medal in 1966 after he installed his own administration in the town.

Japan unemployment grows

TOKYO (AP) — Unemployment in Japan increased by 140,000 persons in March, the government said.

The government said 1,350,000 persons, or 2.08 percent of the work force, were jobless in March, compared with 1,210,000 in February.

The jobless rate is higher than February's rate of 1.88 percent, but reflects a decrease from the 2.17 percent unemployment rate in March 1978, officials said.

U.S. joins Andes crash search

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — A U.S. Air Force search plane from Sacramento, Calif., joined the search for an Ecuadorian airliner that disappeared in the Andes Mountains with 57 persons aboard, officials said.

The SAETA Airlines Viscount plane was on a scheduled 52-minute flight from Quito to Cuenca, 250 miles to the south, when it disappeared Monday. A ground and air search in a rugged stretch of the Andes has been hampered by bad weather, officials said.

Non-whites may be key

LONDON (AP) — Britain's 1.2 million non-white registered voters are considered a major factor in the general election next Thursday. They hold the key in a dozen districts and could tip the balance in 40 others, political analysts say.

The Guardian, a liberal newspaper, recently noted: "The ethnic vote ... is for the first time considered to be a real force in a British general election." A Community Relations Commission study after the October 1974 election noted there were more than 50 districts in which non-white voters outnumbered the majorities that put winning candidates in the House of Commons. "It's obvious that colored voters have the capacity to wield significant electoral power," a Labor Party campaign official said.

There are only five non-whites among the record 2,751 candidates

Tory lead said falling as UK election nears

LONDON (AP) — With Britain's general election only six days away, an opinion poll published today put Margaret Thatcher's Conservatives still in the lead. But it was the third poll of the week to show a reduced margin between the Conservatives and Prime Minister James Callaghan's Labor Party.

The Marplan poll, published in the Sun, a pro-Conservative tabloid, said the Tories were still "comfortably ahead." But their lead over Labor was down to seven percentage points, compared with 10 points in a Marplan poll Monday.

Stock market loses

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market retreated again today, faced with concern over a sudden surge in the money supply.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off 6.49 on Thursday, lost another 4.07 to 856.90 by noon today.

Losers outdistanced gainers by about a 5-2 margin among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Federal Reserve statistics issued late Thursday showed a $4.1 billion jump in the basic measure of the money supply for the latest reporting week.

Analysts said the unexpectedly large rise might well increase pressure on the Fed to tighten credit further, pushing interest rates upward.

Oil stocks generally declined after their recent broad rise. Texaco was off 1/4 at 27 and Mobil 1/8 to 79.

General Public Utilities slipped 1/4 to 10 1/2 after a 1 1/2-point drop Thursday, when the company's divisors cut the quarterly dividend from 45 cents to 25 cents a share following last month's accident at the company's Three Mile Island plant in Pennsylvania.

The NYSE's composite index dropped .22 to 57.30, and the American Stock Exchange market value index was down .06 at 183.37.

Volume on the Big Board came to 13.38 million shares at noon time.

BUSINESS MIRROR

Inflation seems to breed itself

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) - Asked last year why he believed inflation would soar to the statistical mountaintops, an economist participating in a panel discussion answered, "Because it's here."

"Pardon me," asked a member of the audience. "Because it's here."

"Yes," he replied. "Because we have inflation, we'll have inflation. It encourages saving. It encourages spending. It entices people to borrow money for purchases that otherwise might be postponed."

"Explain," he was asked, and he replied: "Why save at 5.25 percent when value declines at 9 percent? Why not spend now and avoid higher prices later? Why not borrow to buy now when you're fairly certain of repaying in cheaper dollars?"

His explanation described the strategy already employed by a good many Americans, and it continues to explain the dilemma involved in battling a monster that, for the moment, some people see as friendly.

DOES IT PAY TO SAVE? The explanation given—by the U.S. Savings Bond people, for example—is that of course it pays to save. They declare it in advertisements. They honor those who broadcast the message.

Annualized, the latest inflation rate is about 13.2 percent. Savings Bonds pay 6 percent. Arithmetic provides a negative answer. How can the Savings Bond people—their savings bank people—say you are saving?

Asked this question, a Savings Bond spokesman replied: "If you didn't save, you'd be that much farther behind." The spokesman conceded that a loss was involved, but insisted loss could be gained.

DOES IT PAY TO SPEND? It often does. It explains why people are "into" collectibles. By exchanging paper or metal money for something more durable, they explain, they better retain their assets.

Prices of single-family houses, for example, have been rising at better than 10 percent for several years. That beats bank rates, and usually exceeds the rate of inflation too.

Those using the strategy must, however, be concerned with long range consequences too. Will those purchases continue to rise in value? Can they be reconverted to cash? Can the payments be maintained?

A big danger of collecting is to misunderstand the difference between wholesale and retail. When purchased, a retail price generally is paid. But when selling, the object generally changes hand at wholesale.

DOES IT PAY TO BORROW? Very often it does. The logic is clear when you consider that the domestic buying power of the dollar has been halved in just 11 years. The term is "paying back in cheaper dollars."

But there are other considerations. Did you really need the money? Was the purchase made from the borrowed money worthwhile? How high was the interest rate? Did the purchased object rise in value? Or did it fall?

Offsetting some of the negatives is an enormous positive: Interest paid is deductible on income taxes. Consider what this means to a person in a 50 percent tax bracket; his or her cost of borrowing is cut in half.

On the other hand, consider that the saver must pay income tax on the interest earned. Never mind that such earnings might be an illusion — that inflation might have wiped them out. You still pay.

The net consequence of these three strategies is to put even more inflationary pressure on the economic system. That people are playing such games is evident by the surprising strength of economic demand.

The economist had a point: Inflation, at least of the current type, breeds itself. Why does it persist? Because it's here.

Clements' rift with educators expected to last

By MIKE SLATON
Staff Writer

Little hope was expressed Thursday by Orby Holden, executive director of the Texas Association of School Boards, for the future relations between public school education and Gov. Bill Clements.

Speaking at a school board workshop held at the Region 18 Education Service Center, Holden focused primarily on what he called a conflict between what is good for the economy and what is good for the people.

Holden said a major contributor to the conflict is the governor's public school education advisor, legislative liaison Jim Caster, who is "not knowledgeable about how schools work."

Caster, while a "good guy," said Holden, does not have the experience necessary for the job.

Neither does Dr. Willis Tate, who will chair a blue ribbon panel on education for Clements, said Holden. "Tate is in higher education, he said. The school system that Tate comes out of 'is a totally different school system than is found in Kilgore, Ector County or any other place that I know of in the state,'" said the director.

"This lack of experience will definitely affect the relations between public school education and the governor's office," said Holden.

"Other than a veto here or there," said Holden, "there's not going to be a whole lot happening through the governor's office. This session as far as public school education is concerned."

Clements is "almost adamant about a strict 5.1 percent salary increase for teachers," said Holden, and this will be a point of conflict between public school education and the governor's office.

The governor's "product evaluation" approach to education, resulting in state-wide standardization of public school texts and tests, is also a point of future conflict, said Holden.

Formalization of a communications system within the school system is viewed by Holden as another area where the governor and public school education may be at odds.

Ayatollah vows revolution to go on

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini said today even if he or one of his children is assassinated that the Islamic revolution "must go on."

It was believed the first time Khomeini referred to an assassination of himself or members of his family since he returned to Iran in February and engineered the overthrow of the monarchy.

"If one of my children is assassinated or if I am assassinated, you must realize that our movement is not dependent on individuals and that it must go on," he told representatives of the nation's oil workers at his headquarters in the holy city of Qom, the state radio reported.

There was no indication that Khomeini's life was in danger despite the assassination of the former chief of the Islamic revolutionary forces, Gen. Mohammad Vali Gharani, on Monday.

The assassination of Gharani was followed 24 hours later by an aborted attempt on the life of Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan, and the incidents prompted tightened security measures for top officials.

In Tehran, meanwhile, about 500 supporters of the leftist Fedayeen Khalq guerrillas staged a sit-in at the Justice Ministry today to protest the jailing of 41 guerrillas.

The 41 were arrested last week by revolutionary militiamen who stormed the Fedayeen headquarters in southern Abadan and uncovered arms and ammunition. The captives were brought to Tehran and jailed.

The Fedayeen in and around Abadan, in oil-rich Khuzestan province, have been accused of fomenting labor unrest in the petroleum industry.

Deputy Prime Minister Abbas Amir-Entezam said the guerrillas were arrested on evidence that they were in Abadan to purchase arms to be used in northern parts of Iran, including Gonbad-e-Qabus.

Gonbad-e-Qabus, a major Turkoman city in Iran's northeastern Gorgan province, was the scene of bloody fighting between separatist Turkoman tribesmen and government forces last month.

Despite Khomeini's order to speed up revolutionary justice in Iran, no new executions were reported today. Two more of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's policemen were executed by firing squads Thursday, bringing to 150 the number shot since Khomeini's forces ousted the monarchy Feb. 12. Khomeini said the release of innocent persons would be hastened by speeding up the justice system. More than 7,000 prisoners of the revolution are believed held in Iran, including 4,000 in Tehran's Qasr Prison.

A new assistant prosecutor has been appointed in Tehran and other judges have been added to revolutionary courts in the capital and the provinces to speed up the judicial process, officials said. They said 28 of the shah's men were released on bail in Tehran on Wednesday and Thursday.

Pulling a thorn from the paw of "lion" Jeff Jordan, left, is Jody Dunn as Androcles. The two are part of a 10-persons cast in a mime play put on by Midland students Thursday in the Regional School for the Deaf at Lamar Elementary School. The 5- to 12-year-old youngsters will take the show on the road May 18 to perform at the special arts fair in Austin. (Staff Photo)

Egypt greets Weizman

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Greetings of "shalom" and "salam" — the Hebrew and Arabic words for peace — welcomed Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman to Cairo's historic Khan Khalili bazaar today.

"It is simply fantastic," said Weizman as he shook hands and joked with some of the more than 200 merchants and tourists who turned out to see the former foe tour the narrow shop-lined alleys of the 14th-century bazaar.

Weizman came to Khan Khalili during a break in the last day of his talks with Gen. Kamal Hassan Ali, the Egyptian defense chief. They have been discussing plans for Israel's withdrawal from the Sinai peninsula and other aspects of the peace treaty the two nations signed March 26.

"Long live Egypt and Israel," came a shout as the crowd applauded Weizman and merchants thrusts gifts of copper and silver into his hands.

Accepting a limestone engraving called "Love and Peace," he told the donor: "I will give this to my daughter whose husband pilots a Phantom (jet fighter). I hope he will never have to drop bombs again."

Shah security may tighten

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — Reports of a Palestine Liberation Organization order to kidnap the deposed shah of Iran have prompted Bahamian police to consider even tighter security around the Paradise Island house where he is staying, officials said.

Thais averse to boat people

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A fleet of Thai navy boats is patrolling the Gulf of Thailand to try to prevent more than 10 boats carrying Vietnamese refugees from entering Thai waters, an Interior Ministry spokesman said today.

The spokesman said a government plane spotted a line of refugee boats in international waters earlier this week apparently heading toward the Thai coast.

The official added that a mass exodus of "boat people" from Vietnam to Thailand is expected within the next week because of favorable monsoon wind.

Authorities in southern Thailand said 420 Vietnamese who landed Wednesday on an island off the coast of Chumphon Province sank their boat so the Thais would have to let them land.

AN OPEN LETTER FROM THE PASTOR OF THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

In a world characterized by greed and hate; in a time characterized by routine panic; in a city characterized by boredom and quiet despair—man cries out for purpose and peace. He looks for faith, for hope, for love. His quest is for something more than existence. It is for life itself.

This Sunday night at the Chaparral Center a group of people will gather to celebrate the power and reality of the One in whom life is found—the Lord Jesus Christ. They will come together from all walks of life to affirm their faith, to renew their hope, to express their love.

I would like to offer you a personal invitation to participate in Alive Again, April 29, at 8:00 p.m. Hear a gifted choir and orchestra present a powerful piece of music. Enjoy the company of friends in a beautiful facility. Share with us an evening that could make the beginning of a new day in our city and world.

A miracle: Woman awakens after one year in a coma

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. (AP) — When 23-year-old Karen Delahanty regained consciousness, she asked her mother, "How long have I been sleeping?" The reply: "A year."

Miss Delahanty spent that year in a coma — a year in which doctors first said she would not survive, then predicted she would not awaken.

Doctors aren't sure if she will regain use of her paralyzed legs and right arm, but to her parents, the fact that Miss Delahanty is alert and talkative is a miracle and a blessing.

The Avon, Conn., woman went into the coma when the car in which she was riding collided head-on with a police cruiser responding to an emergency call.

Less than a month ago, the mother, Lorraine Delahanty, affirmed her faith that recovery was possible. She told a reporter simply, "I believe in miracles."

Miss Delahanty had responded to pain, even had wept, but never had spoken. On April 12, nurses at New Britain Memorial Hospital excitedly telephoned her mother to tell her that a nose tube used to feed her daughter had become dislodged. When a nurse went to reinsert it, Miss Delahanty cried out, "No!"

The next day, Good Friday, Mrs. Delahanty was ready to leave after her daily visit to her daughter's bedside. As was her habit, she was talking to her daughter, despite the comatose woman's apparent inability to comprehend. Her mother said she had to go home and prepare dinner for the rest of the family.

"I don't want you to go," the daughter responded, speaking slowly but clearly, according to Mrs. Delahanty.

"It had to be God. It's got to be a miracle. There's no other explanation," Mrs. Delahanty said Wednesday.

Miss Delahanty's father, Joseph Delahanty, described the daughter's improvement as "an Easter blessing."

Texas dignitaries to christen nuclear submarine USS Dallas

GROTON, Conn. (AP) — The USS Dallas, the latest nuclear-powered fast attack submarine, will slide down the ways Saturday in a ceremony featuring dignitaries from the Lone Star State.

Texas Gov. William P. Clements Jr. will deliver the principal speech and his wife will christen the 360-foot-long sub by smashing a bottle of champagne on its round bow.

The Dallas, which will be designated SSN700, will be the 13th Navy 688-class submarine to be put afloat by General Dynamics' Electric Boat Division in Groton and the Newport News Shipbuilding & Drydock Co. in Virginia.

It will remain at the Groton shipyard for further outfitting and sea trials. The USS Indianapolis, the 10th fast attack sub, has been undergoing similar tests and is scheduled for delivery to the Navy in late spring or early summer, Electric Boat says.

The 688s carry torpedoes and are designed to seek out and destroy enemy warships.

They are dwarfed by the 560-foot Trident-missile submarines also under construction at Electric Boat. The USS Ohio, first of the Tritons, was christened April 7 and is being outfitted near the Dallas launch area.

Unlike the Ohio, which was christened in the water because it is too large for a conventional launching, the Dallas will slide into the Thames River after christening.

Dallas Mayor Robert S. Folsom is scheduled to deliver a welcoming speech at the ceremony and Charles W. Duncan Jr., deputy U.S. defense secretary, also is on the list of dignitaries.

The Dallas is eighth in the line of 688 class subs being built at Electric Boat. The company has contracts for 20 of the sleek underwater craft, the last two of which carry a contract price of about $133 million each.

Tax relief in the dark

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee has approved a tax relief bill without even knowing how much it costs. The committee bill would revise the House version by eliminating proposed homestead exemptions for elderly and disabled Texans who have incomes exceeding $10,000 a year. It was approved 9-2. Both proposals implement the 1978 Tax Relief Amendment, which voters adopted overwhelmingly, with the elderly promoting its passage in hopes of getting tax breaks. Sen. Carl Parker assailed the 1978 amendment, however, as a "flimflam."

"If you had a recipe for Mulligan's stew and called it the 'Tax Relief Amendment,' it would pass," said Parker. "We flimflammed the public by putting that name on it." Sen. Tom Creighton described the 1978 proposal as the "worst bill we've ever passed" and said if the amendment is carried out by the Legislature "it will bankrupt every political subdivision in Texas."

The Senate committee bill does not contain the $430 million in state money that the House had provided to reimburse school districts for revenue losses resulting from mandatory property tax cuts.

Sen. Grant Jones, committee chairman, said reimbursement would be covered in a separate school finance bill being written by the Senate Education Committee. Jones, D-Abilene, admitted he had forgotten to ask the Legislative Budget Board to estimate how much the Senate bill would cost the state.

"In all honesty, I flat forgot to get a fiscal note," said Jones. He promised one would be made available before the full Senate votes on the bill. R.H. Gibbons, a Fort Worth-area resident representing 500,000 elderly Texans, urged the committee not to base eligibility for the $10,000 homestead exemption on income.

The 1978 amendment automatically exempts $5,000 of the market value of each owner-occupied house in Texas from school district property taxes. "The people feel very much deceived" by the income provision, said Gibbons, legislative director of the Texas Senior Citizens Association. The same provision in the House was removed by the committee.

Said Gibbons, "$10,000 is not half enough." The Senate bill tracks House provisions in establishing a method for taxing farm, ranch and timber land on its crop-producing ability instead of its market value. It also would:

- Retain a House provision to freeze school taxes of the elderly for life.
- Exempt two cars or light trucks per family from property taxes, but allow city councils, school boards and commissioners courts to restore their automobile taxes if they are willing to take the political risk.

Strip mining bill slowed in House

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Senate consumer advocates continued their war on special interest legislation Thursday by making a diversionary strike at a bill by Rep. Tom Craddick of Midland which overhauls the state's strip mining law.

Approved without debate in the House, the bill brings the Texas law into compliance with a more recent federal strip mining law. However, Sen. Ron Clower, Garland, spent most of the morning trying to make the proposed state law even stricter than the federal law requires in relation to special reclamation standards for prime farmland.

But, the real purpose of the amendment, said Clower, was to delay consideration of several controversial consumer-related bills, including an overhaul of the Consumer Credit Code and authorization for large employers to set up self-insurance funds for workers' compensation.

With the help of Sen. Lloyd Doggett, Austin; Sen. Babe Schwartz, Galveston; and Sen. Bob Vale, San Antonio, Clower successfully slowed debate enough that HB 1424 Senate sponsor, Grant Jones of Abilene, agreed not to bring up the Consumer Credit Code revisions, already delayed once before.

However, Clower's amendment to the strip mining bill was easily defeated. Under the current Texas law, there is no distinction between reclamation standards for prime farmland and any other land. In coming into compliance with the federal law, Craddick's bill subjects prime farmland to a stricter reclamation standard, one requiring fertile top soil to be separated from the rest of the overburden.

Clower's amendment sought to expand the stricter reclamation standard to potential prime land.

Tornado funds sought

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)—Gov. Bill Clements asked the Legislature Thursday for an emergency appropriation of $815,000 because of state expenditures in the disastrous Wichita Falls tornado.

Clements said the Disaster Contingency Fund in his office has been depleted and it is estimated another $500,000 will be needed in the Wichita Falls area, in addition to an extra $40,000 for National Guard troops protecting the area.

State securities to get fire protection

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee voted Thursday to spend $25,000 on a fire extinguisher system to protect $12.14 billion in securities locked in the vault at the state treasury.

Director Weldon Horton of the bond division testified there is a small extinguisher built into the building to protect the air-conditioning system but nothing to protect the vault area. In the vault, Horton said, are furniture, equipment and 300,000 "pieces of paper." Sen. Bill Moore's bill to appropriate the $25,000 now goes to the Senate floor.

ED RUNYAN IS YOUR VOTE FOR FISCAL RESPONSIBILITY

TAXES are an issue in the school board election. Over the next three years, Midland Independent School District will spend over $80,000,000 in its operating budget and will ask for a multi-million dollar bond issue.

This money will come from you the taxpayer. ED RUNYAN has a proven record of voting for the taxpayer. He voted against our present high tax rate and gained board approval for a limit on spending last year.

We need ED RUNYAN on the school board to represent the taxpayer.

Water bill Gets OK

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Senate has passed and sent to the house a bill creating the Reagan County Water Supply District.

The legislation was sponsored by Sen. Pete Snelson of Midland. The bill provides for Reagan County Commissioners Court to call an election to confirm the creation of the district.

The district would have the power to enter into contracts for providing water to the public.

Jury inquiry could be drawn out

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — The foreman of a Nueces County grand jury says it could take "weeks" to complete the investigation of a stabbing incident at a youth home operated by evangelist Lester Roloff. The panel began its investigation here Thursday by interviewing a local reporter who recently wrote a story detailing a murder plot allegedly hatched by five teen-age residents of the Rebekah Home for Girls. The girls said they wanted to kill another resident of the home.

Corpus Christi Caller reporter Martha Callaway had reported that the five girls — ages 14-16 — said they plotted to kill Misty Hardman in order to have the homes closed. Miss Hardman, 16, was stabbed in the back three times with a butcher knife last July. Roloff chose not to report the attack to law enforcement officials. The evangelist said the matter was handled at the home.

Cubs' bats give Dodgers nuclear jolt

BY TED BATTLES
Sports editor

If San Antonio's Dodgers are a little bit apprehensive about showing up at Cubs Stadium tonight, you can't really blame them. It's Bat Night and Two-Bit Beer Night combined and after Thursday night, their imagination could be running wild.

The Midland Cubs broke loose with a 15-hit attack that leveled the Dodgers, 16-5, and it was only Chamber of Commerce Park-the-Park night. Some 2,160 fans howled in glee and the Dodgers can only wonder what might happen when bat toting, beer sipping fans show up tonight.

The win was the third in four starts against the Dodgers, solidifying the Cubs grip on first place in the Texas League West.

THE CUBS fattened their batting averages, already .333 as a team going into the game, against three San Antonio pitchers while lefthander Bill Earley went the distance for his second victory in three decisions with a no-sweat 11-hitter.

Eric Grandy, Jim Tracy and Brian Rosinski led the Midland attack with homers and Grandy wound up with six runs batted in. Second baseman Dan Rohn scored five times and extended his hitting streak to 12 games, although for a time it looked like he might never get the chance. He walked his first for times up.

Defensively, the Cubs reeled off four double plays to effectively thwart any attempts by the Dodgers to mount a counter-offensive. If there was one disturbing note, it was the departure of shortstop Jesus Alfaro, who pulled up lame at second after singling and advancing to second on the throw in. He had to leave the game, but his hit also kept his streak alive at 12.

ACTUALLY, the outcome was far from certain until the Cubs erupted for seven runs in the sixth inning to take a 14-4 lead. The big blow was Brian Rosinski's home run on a 3-2 count with the bases loaded, his first of the year. In fact, it was almost the only blow of the inning. The Cubs paraded 10 players to the plate and managed just a leadoff double by Ted Trevino and Rosinski's fence-clearer.

Brian had a chance for another slam an inning later, coming to the plate with the bases loaded, but this time he looked at a called third strike.

Larry Fobbs hit a two-run homer for San Antonio in the sixth, an-inning in which Earley experienced his only serious difficulty. In fact, it looked like he might not survive as the first five batters in the frame reached base and three runs scored. Runners were on first and second and none out when Javier Fierro, subbing at short for Alfaro, went into the hole to glove Gary Weiss hard grounder, whirled and threw to second to start the life-saving double play.

Grandy knocked in a run with a grounder to third in the first after Rohn walked and Jared Martin tripped. He singled Rohn, who had walked, home in the third and drilled his homer to left with Martin, who had singled, aboard. In the sixth Grandy produced another run with sacrifice fly and then completed his three-hit night with run scoring single that again score Rohn.

Tracy's homer, a towering blow over the scoreboard in left, came right after Grandy's boundary belt in the fifth, however, his came off reliever Rick Sander while Grandy's smash sent starter Paul Bain to the dugout.

Does baseball follow book on Punishment?

Lemon sighs in relief

Bob Lemon said all the proper things, you know, like "heads will roll, we'll get to the bottom of this disgraceful outburst, after all we're paying them to play baseball, not fight."

But underneath that stern exterior, the New York Yankees' manager is smiling inside, comfortable in the knowledge that all's right with the guys in the clubhouse, and, sure enough, there will be a fourth American League pennant after all.

When ace relief pitcher Rich Gossage and reserve catcher Cliff Johnson went to fist city during a bantering exchange that suddenly got deadly earnest, it signaled that the peace and tranquility that hung like a heavy cloud over the Yankees this spring was gone and things were back to normal.

HOWEVER, YOU couldn't blame Lemon for worrying about the state of the World Champions. Reggie Jackson and Thurman Munson have learned to live together, if not like each other, and at times there's a hint of a mutual admiration society.

Thurman hasn't demanded to be traded to Cleveland for months and the rest of the malcontents are gone. Mike Torrez left for Boston after the 1978 season and Sparky Lyle, spoiling in the bullpen, was dispatched to Texas during the past winter.

The Yankees are still mad at Jim Bouton about Ball Four, but the only shorthairs Sparky's book on the Zoo in the Bronx raised were on the back of owner George Steinbrenner's neck, and he never liked Sparky anyway. Not even Jackson was disturbed by the criticism of him in Sparky's book. He just shrugged, stripped the paper from a Reggie bar and belted up to the bar, the one in the bank that confines the cashier teller.

EVEN SPARKY'S charge that third baseman Graig Nettles had thrown a game, the kind of innuendo that should turn a guy livid, had little reaction. Nettles just turned the other cheek and said something like, "Sparky just misunderstood. No, I'm not mad at anybody." So that was the depressing situation of the Yankees last Friday night. It was a team in love with the world, one that seemed ripe for the picking.

Then suddenly, in a twinkling, it all changed. So what if Gossage is out for three to six weeks, the Yankees are squabbling again and Lemon and Steinbrenner are happy.

IN CASE you have some doubts about the validity of the value of a good clubhouse brawl, just look at last season when the Red Sox were rollicking along in the bliss of a 14-game lead in July, worrying only about the identity of their playoff opponent. In New York, the Yankees had given up and became so disgusted that they started blaming one another over the disaster. The first thing you knew, the Yankees were pennant bound.

Even the Dodgers, in the peaceful National League, had their little flareup between Don Sutton and Steve Garvey. And if you want final proof, just look at the history of the Oakland A's during their run of five divisional titles and three world championships.

It's the team that airs its dirty linen in the press and settles the disputes in the locker room that wins the American League pennants.

Defense saves Hawks, 76ers

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Defense was the difference as the no-name Atlanta Hawks and the big-name Philadelphia 76ers stayed alive in the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Both clubs were one loss away from elimination prior to Thursday night's games, but both postponed their summer vacations with lopsided victories in the Eastern Conference semifinals.

Steve Hawes and Eddie Johnson scored 12 points apiece in the second half as the scrappy Hawks beat the defending champion Washington Bullets 104-86 to even their best-of-seven series at three victories apiece. The deciding game will be played Sunday in Landover, Md.

"The most important thing in the game was defense," said Hawks Coach Hubie Brown. "It was absolutely great."

Meanwhile, at San Antonio, Julius Erving was shifted to guard as Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham juggled his lineup to give muscleman Darryl Dawkins a start at center. The Doctor responded with 32 points, 24 of them in the second half, as the 76ers routed the Spurs 120-97.

The Sixers, who now trail 3-2 in the series, will attempt to draw even on their home court Sunday.

"Our defense was the key," said Sixers Coach Billy Cunningham. "They missed some good shots, but it had a lot to do with our defense."

IN THE Western Conference semifinals, the Phoenix Suns will attempt to close out their series with a victory over the Kansas City Kings tonight at Phoenix in a nationally televised game.

The Suns took a 3-1 lead in that series with a 108-94 victory at Kansas City Wednesday night, a game in which the Kings shot just 33 percent from the field.

The winner of that series will take on the Seattle SuperSonics, who eliminated the Los Angeles Lakers 4-1 in the other West semifinal. If Phoenix wins tonight, that series would start on Sunday.

Atlanta went ahead to stay on a 12-foot jumper by Johnson that made it 35-33 midway through the second period. Hawes poured in 10 points during the third quarter and Johnson got 10 points in the final period as the Hawks pulled away from Washington.

Johnson and John Drew scored 22 points each for Atlanta and Hawes finished with 14 points and 14 rebounds. Washington's Elvin Hayes led all scorers with 24 points.

"It was the most intense game we've had in the series," said Bullets Coach Dick Motta. "I don't think there could have been any more intensity on either side."

THE HAWKS feel they can knock off the defending champs on Sunday.

"They feel the pressure now," said Atlanta reserve guard Terry Furlow. "They didn't think they'd feel this much pressure from the Atlanta Hawks. Right now, I like where we're sitting."

Motta, asked his plans for Sunday's series finale, said he wanted "to make sure no one misses the bus (back to Washington). We don't want any prisoners taken."

While Erving led Philadelphia's offense, the Sixers got a big boost on the defensive end from guard Maurice Cheeks, who limited NBA scoring champion George Gervin to four points over the first three periods and 13 overall.

"The ball just wouldn't fall for me, that's all," said Gervin. "There will be days like this. We got a bad effort from all of us."

San Antonio Coach Doug Moe agreed.

"It is one of those nights you like to forget about," said Moe. "We just played so bad. We never gave ourselves a chance to get in the game. The effort was good, but we were just so bad."

The Spurs didn't score in the first 3 1/2 minutes of the game, got just 17 points in the first period and never caught up. The 76ers led by as many as 27 points in the final period.

Philadelphia reserve forward Steve Mix came off the bench to hit 21 points in the final three quarters. Cheeks added 18, Bobby Jones scored 16 and Caldwell Jones, who moved from center to forward to make room for Dawkins, had 10. Dawkins managed only eight points and was scoreless after the first quarter.

"We had our backs to the wall and we still do," said Cunningham, "but this turns the tables quite a bit."

Florida State QBs wage torrid battle

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — One practice, Jimmy Jordan looks awesome at quarterback for Florida State. The next practice, Wally Woodham excels.

It really doesn't matter. "Wally, Jimmy, Jimmy, Wally. Flip a coin," said Coach Bobby Bowden.

For better or worse, 'til graduation do them part, the football fortunes of Woodham and Jordan are inextricably wed together.

Bowden, at first by necessity, now by design, has a unique quarterback system. For the last two years, he has used his quarterbacks the way Manager Sparky Anderson used his pitchers with the Cincinnati Reds.

He starts the hot one, but if he doesn't have his good stuff, out he comes. In comes the reliever.

Bowden takes the baseball analogy further. "When you play a baseball game, you don't tell the other team you're going to throw nothing but fastballs, because then they start digging in on you, and they're ready for your best pitch."

"But if you've got a good curveball to go with your fastball, then they can't dig in. They don't know what to expect."

Bowden calls Jordan, a long-bomber capable of breaking a game open within minutes, his fastballer, and Woodham, who can fashion long drives with short, precise passes, his curveballer.

Bowden points out, "It works because they both do basically the same things. If you tried doing it with Jimmy Jordan and a running quarterback, it probably wouldn't work as well. One does one thing a little bit better than the other, the other does something else better."

They both will be seniors in 1979. There is nothing in the statistics of the past two seasons to suggest a clear superiority.

In games started by Jordan, the Seminoles are 8-3. In games started by Woodham, they are 10-2.

"It's amazing how those to have worked out. In the Houston game last year, we're behind 27-0 at halftime with Jimmy, Wally goes in and gets us four touchdowns, the last one was nullified by a bad penalty."

"Then against Cincinnati, the next week, the opposite happens. "Against Navy, we're ahead 7-6 at halftime with Wally. Jimmy goes in and throws for touchdown passes. The next week, Jimmy can't do anything against Florida, but Wally has a great game," Bowden recalled.

Woodham was red-shirted three seasons ago, and Jordan could be red-shirted in 1979. But Bowden said barring an injury, there's no way he would red-shirt Jordan.

Eastwood sets pace in Region V golf

LUBBOCK — El Paso Eastwood took the first day lead in the Region I AAAA golf tournament here at Meadowbrook Golf Course Thursday as expected, but they didn't come anywhere near wrapping up the team title.

Three other teams, including Midland High, are within five strokes of the lead heading into today's final 18-hole round. The top two teams will earn a trip to the state meet in Austin in two weeks.

Eastwood set the pace with a first day 296 and Lubbock Coronado is four strokes back at 300. Midland High and host Lubbock Monterey, playing on their home course, stand at 301.

Midland High is only one stroke back in terms of a state berth. In the medalist race, Bryan's Ron Clark, Eastwood's Clark Colville and Pampa's Brian Terrell share the lead with 71. Midland High's Richard Minnix follows with a 72 and is still in the hunt for that championship.

In addition to Minnix '72, Midland High showed a lot of consistency in their play. Jeff Lutke and Joe Sloan each came up with 76 while Mike Young and Robert Upham each fired a 77.

"The kids played very well and if they keep the ball in play a little better today, I think we will be in the top two. Our kids have improved all along and we have been consistent. All of our kids were in the 70s, and this is important since the top four scores count on the team total. Some of the other teams have a player or two in the 80s and that doesn't leave much room for a mistake," MHS golf coach Robert Young said.

Amarillo High is also not far off the pace with a 303 while Round Rock stands at 308. Bryan and Coronado stand at 310 and 311 respectively while District 5-4A's San Angelo is mired in eighth place with a 312.

5-4A's two medalist didn't fare too well Thursday either. Abilene Cooper's John Slaughter and Abilene High's Vic Villaral had 78s in the medalist competition. All of Midland High's players shot better rounds.

ICU drops ball slate

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Indiana Central Athletic Director Bill Bright canceled the remainder of his school's baseball schedule for 1979 Thursday after nine players were suspended from school earlier this week for violating school rules concerning drinking on campus.

Bright said he was acting after a meeting and vote by the 10 remaining players on the Greyhounds.

The school declined to identify the players involved, but said four pitchers, including three starters, were included.

A school spokesman said the players "violated school rules prohibiting drinking on campus during spring break," the week of April 15-21.

Brewers bust out of slump to sweep Tigers

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Call them the modern-day hitters wonders — Robin Yount, 1-for-29; Gorman Thomas, 0-for-24; Ben Oglivie, 1-for-31. The three Milwaukee Musketeers broke their slumps with a vengeance Thursday night, collecting 12 hits in 25 at-bats with four doubles, three homers and nine RBI as the Brewers snapped a five-game losing streak by sweeping a 5-1, 7-5 double-header from the Detroit Tigers.

and doubled home another run in a three-run eighth. Thomas, who homered in each game, followed with a decisive two-run single. Including the double-header, there were only eight games on Thursday's major league schedule and two of them — the New York Yankees at Oakland and San Francisco at the New York Mets — were rained out. The Brewers won their first game from Detroit as Cecil Cooper homered and Charlie Moore lined a two-run single in a three-run seventh-inning. They loaded the bases in the sixth inning of the nightcap on Oglivie's fourth straight hit, a walk and a checked-swing pinch single by Larry Hise. Yount then doubled to score all three runners and give the Brewers a

4-3 lead. A walk and an error preceded Yount's RBI double in the eighth and Thomas followed with a two-run single. Thomas' six hits were one more than he had all season and the free-swinging center fielder had struck out 18 times in 42 at-bats. "Robin can steal a base, so I'm going to see more fast balls," said Thomas, who was elevated from eighth to second in the batting order and raised his batting average from .119 to .216. "But a lot of it is luck, like getting a 10 in Black Jack when you're trying for a 4," he said. "You can see the stitches and see the signature of the league president on the ball, but you still won't hit it if your luck's not there. I had been seeing the stitches fine for 24 days, but nothing was falling in."

Red Sox 2, Mariners 0
Bob Stanley scattered six singles and Rick Burleson delivered a two-run single in the third as the Red Sox won their seventh game in a row and extended Seattle's losing streak to a club record 11 games. Burleson's hit followed Bob Montgomery's double, a single by Jerry Remy and a stolen base. Boston ran its record to 12-4, matching its previous best effort for April. In 1971, the Red Sox were 12-7 in the first month.

Orioles 4, Angels 2
Pinch hitter Lee May's tie-breaking single and Eddie Murray's sacrifice fly in the top of the ninth inning helped Baltimore record its eighth straight victory and hand the Angels their fourth consecutive setback. Al Bumbry started the ninth with a one-out infield hit off loser Dave LaRoche and Rich Dauer followed with a single, setting the stage for May's game-winner.

California starter Nolan Ryan had to leave the game after two innings because of a pulled groin muscle. Ryan suffered a similar injury Saturday night when he came within five outs of what would have been a record fifth no-hitter. There was no immediate word as to whether the hard-throwing right-hander would miss his next turn.

Royals 5, Indians 4
Cleveland reliever Sid Monge threw a bases-loaded wild pitch in the bottom of the ninth inning and Willie

Wilson streaked home with the winning run. Monge was brought in to face George Brett after the Royals loaded the bases against loser Dan Spillner.

Brett's triple keyed a three-run rally in the sixth and Darrell Porter clubbed a solo home run as the Royals won their fourth game in a row. Bobby Bonds and Gary Alexander homered for Cleveland.

Richard improves record to 4-0

CHICAGO (AP) — J.R. Richard is different. Not merely because he is an awesome sight on the mound at 6-foot-8 and 237 pounds but, unlike most pitchers, he wants to be a complete player.

Richard improved his record to 4-0, hurling the Houston Astros to a 6-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs Thursday. But he had mixed emotions about having to leave the game after five innings because of a slight back strain.

Richard also helped his cause by slugging a home run into a 12-17 mph wind.

"I like to go nine innings all the time, and every game I start I even think about going 10 innings," said Richard. "It makes you work that much harder and your stamina that much stronger."

things at the right time, which is what makes a winner."

"I want to become better in every respect — bunting, pitching, fielding and hitting," said Richard. "Every time I come up to bat, I think of myself as a hitter."

"I'm proud of hitting a home run, definitely," he said. "It's part of the game. I usually get one or two a year."

RICHARD, WHO now has eight career homers, allowed only three hits, three walks and struck out six before departing. He insisted he is not as wild as his reputation indicates.

"Do I scare batters?" said Richard, repeating the question. "I don't know. You would have to ask them. I've never had a chance to bat against myself, but intimidation is part of every pitcher's game."

Richard homered in the third inning, and Bob Watson and Alan Ashby contributed run-scoring singles in the fourth. Craig Reynolds doubled in a run in the fifth and singled home two runs in the sixth.

Ted Sizemore singled in a run off Richard in the fifth and Jerry Martin slugged his first homer of the season, off reliever Joe Sambito in the eighth. Sambito picked up his third save, and Martin's homer was the first run he allowed this season in seven relief appearances.

Goose, Johnson brawl proved return match

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Yankees relief pitcher Rich Gossage reportedly was almost hurt in a sporting training incident that involved teammate Cliff Johnson, with whom he fought in the Yankee clubhouse last week.

Gossage suffered a torn ligament in his left thumb as a result of last week's clash, sidelining him for up to eight weeks. The team has announced fines of 10 days' salary against both players, costing Gossage about $18,000 and Johnson $6,000.

The New York Daily News reported in its Friday editions that Gossage and Johnson, a reserve catcher and designated hitter, tangled prior to an exhibition game April 3 in Chapel Hill, N.C.

"Somebody mashed a pie on Cliff's head," according to an unidentified witness to the incident quoted by the News. "Cliff didn't know who did it, but everybody was standing around laughing and Cliff was a little embarrassed about it — not mad really, but embarrassed."

"Goose was standing there laughing like everybody else and Cliff took the pie off his head and went up to Goose like he was going to mash it in his face."

According to the unidentified witness, Gossage, attempting to avoid getting hit in the face with the pie, fell over some lockers and onto the floor, hitting his right elbow. Another Yankee who was standing nearby, infielder Fred Stanley, grabbed Gossage and helped to break his fall and avoid serious injury.

Nolan Ryan hurt
ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — California right-hander Nolan Ryan had to leave Thursday night's Angels game against the Baltimore Orioles after two innings because of a pulled groin muscle.

Rice's record-setting relay team eyes first
HOUSTON (AP) — Rice University's sprint relay team set a national record last week and finished second in the race.

"The Owls hope to put it all together this weekend at the Penn Relays when they try to improve on their American record 3:14.47 clocking in last week's Baylor Invitational."

Rice finished second to Missouri, which recorded the world's best time of 3:13.91. Rice claims the American record, however, because two Nigerian athletes were members of the Missouri team.

The Owls' surprising finish took awhile to soak in.

"It took me until Monday to realize what we had really done," Rice Coach Bob May said. "An American record doesn't come along too often. It caught us by surprise. The weather was bad and it looked like a bad weekend."

Another fast field is lined up at the Penn Relays this week, and the Owls say they could run even faster. Sprinters Darrell Mouton and Carlton Darrett ran the 220 yard dash legs followed by Steve Baldwin in the 440 and Bruce Gingrich on the 880.

"We had kind of a bad half-off, so maybe we could improve some there," said Baldwin, who was passed on the 440-yard leg by Missouri's Dele Udo of Nigeria. "I'll have to agree that Udo is a world class runner in the quarter."

Gingrich, the second fastest half-miler in the Southwest Conference this year, ran a blistering 1:45.7 anchor leg but it wasn't enough to catch Missouri's Scott Clark, who ran a 1:46.1 anchor for Missouri.

It was the second loss to Missouri this year in the special event, which is not contested internationally. Missouri will not be at the Penn Relays for a rematch.

"We thought if we could get Bruce closer, we might win," May said.

Rangers surprise Islanders, 4-1

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — As a rule, the New York Islanders are not excuse makers. When they play badly, they admit it. They were doing a lot of admitting — and a little excuse making — Thursday night after the New York Rangers outchecked, outshined and outscored them 4-1 in the opener of their National Hockey League semifinal series.

"We weren't smart with the puck. We weren't smart in anything we did. Our discipline wasn't good out there, and thank God it's a seven-game series, so we can get back to playing the type of hockey we know we can play," said Arbour.

before the first period ended. They stifled the attack that gave the Islanders a league-high 358 goals in the regular season, and held right wing Mike Bossy — who had 69 of those goals and five more against Chicago — without a shot on goalie John Davidson.

"After the first 10 minutes, we didn't have four good scoring chances," said Islanders goalie Glenn Resch, who gave up second-period tallies to Ron Duguay and Bobby Sheehan. "Except for the first 10 minutes, they (the Rangers) thought they were playing Minnesota.

Mobil oil reports 81 percent gain

NEW YORK (AP) — Mobil Corp., the nation's second largest oil company, has reported an 81 percent increase in first quarter profits, continuing a series of earnings reports showing companies benefiting from increased demand and higher prices on world oil markets.

Mobil's earnings rose to $437 million in the first three months of this year, compared to $241 million in the first quarter last year, which was its lowest quarter in 1978, the firm said Thursday.

Mobil cited several reasons beyond higher sales and prices for petroleum products for its sharp earnings gain. Among them, the stronger dollar that helped its currency exchange earnings, a relatively depressed comparison quarter a year ago and the effects of accounting procedures on foreign inventories that don't fully calculate higher costs of replacing inventory when sold.

Sun Co., Inc., the 11th largest oil company, reported on Thursday a 43 percent gain in first quarter earnings to $120.3 million, compared to $84.3 million in the same quarter last year.

Exxon, the largest oil company, earlier this week reported a 37 percent gain and record profits of $955 million in the first quarter. Texaco, the third largest, posted an 81 percent gain with earnings of $307 million.

The reports come at a time when the industry is particularly sensitive to attention on profits. Domestic prices, which have been under government control, will gradually be decontrolled beginning in June. On Thursday, when Carter sent the plan to Congress, Carter argued it was needed to prevent the oil companies from reaping "a huge bonanza" from higher oil prices.

Carter's proposed tax on oil profits would have far less bite than generally supposed on the additional billions of dollars oil price decontrol will give to producers.

Originally described as a 50 percent tax, the levy actually will cost oil companies only about 13 percent of the first three years' worth of extra income from decontrol, according to figures made public by the administration for the first time Thursday.

Carter's decision to eliminate gradually the federal ceilings on domestically produced oil will transfer $15.4 billion from consumers to oil companies by the end of 1981, administration officials said.

But far from taking half that amount, Carter's proposed "windfall profits tax" would net only $2 billion more in taxes that the oil companies would have to pay anyway under existing state and federal tax laws.

Commission sets mine act hearing

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission will hold a hearing June 7 to get public comment on state plans to conform with the federal Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977.

Completion of the submission program will enable the state through the Railroad Commission to administer the federal program at the state level.

Carter promise rescues standby rationing plan

By MIKE SHANAHAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has rescued his standby gas rationing plan from almost certain death in Congress by promising special help to states where motorists drive greater distances.

The Senate Energy Committee voted 9-8 Thursday to recommend that the full Senate adopt the proposal, which would go into effect only if the president declared an energy emergency.

A House committee previously voted to reject the proposal, but there are indications sentiment in the House also is shifting in its favor.

Under the rationing plan, gasoline coupons would be issued on the basis of how many cars are owned by each motorist. A person who commutes 50 miles to work in Texas could receive the same number of coupons as a resident of Connecticut who commutes 10 miles.

Late Wednesday, White House aides agreed to a compromise under which 10 percent of the nation's gasoline reserves during a serious shortage would be used to alleviate regional inequities.

Governors in states of high per capita gasoline usage, mainly in the West and South, would be allocated extra coupons which could be used to make the rationing system more fair.

The 10 percent allocation proposal was contained in letters from White House domestic adviser Stuart Eizenstat to key members of the Senate committee and the House Commerce Committee.

Until Carter promised to offset the potential imbalance, key House and Senate members had said the rationing plan was dead.

Among them was Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., chairman of a Senate energy conservation subcommittee, who said the rationing plan would have been rejected in the committee without the president's new proposal.

"That tipped the balance," he said, "along with the realization that the (energy) situation is really serious."

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the full energy committee, said members of the House and Senate are becoming aware that there will be serious gasoline shortages this summer, and that there will be insufficient reserves of heating oil this fall and winter.

While the rationing plan would not be ready for use until fall, if then, Jackson said Congress should give Carter some standby authority even if the proposal is imperfect.

Under federal law, Carter's emergency energy conservation measures can be either approved or rejected by Congress, but not changed.

The standby plan still has strong critics and there is no guarantee it will be approved by the full House or Senate.

Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., who voted against the proposal, said the original plan his state's motorists would be able to purchase 30 percent less gasoline than they usually use while Pennsylvania would get 10 percent more than it historically consumes.

Sen. John Durkin, D-N.H., one of Carter's most persistent critics in energy matters, said of the rationing proposal, "I think it looks like it was written on the back of an envelope in the back seat of a limousine on the way up from the Department of Energy."

In another energy development Thursday, it was reported that Carter's proposed "windfall profits tax" would cost oil companies only about 13 percent of the billions the companies will reap from decontrol in the next three years.

The proposed tax would net the government only $2 billion of the more than $15 billion oil producers are expected to get, officials said.

Congressional critics said the tax would have little real bite on oil companies. Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn., said Carter's tax proposal was "a sham" and added that "the White House shouldn't take the consumer-oriented members' (of Congress) vote for granted."

Consumer groups were unhappy with the size of the actual tax. "There are just large amounts of windfalls that aren't covered," said Jim Flug of Energy Action.

Meanwhile, another major oil company announced a hefty increase in first quarter profits Thursday.

Nureyev's 'Pierrot' dazzles

By MARY CAMPBELL

NEW YORK (AP) — Rudolf Nureyev made one of his six guest appearances in American Ballet Theater's season Wednesday night in the brilliant, dazzlingly theatrical "Pierrot Lunaire."

The 35-minute dance is the first major work by choreographer Glen Tetley, who created it for his own company in 1962. It is still modern and exciting. It is set to Arnold Schoenberg's chamber music melodrama of the same name. Lucy Shelton sang splendidly. Nureyev is Pierrot, superb as he mimed naïveté. In his dancing and as he climbed around on a white, three-story jungle gym designed by Rouben Ter-Arutunian, he looked 25 instead of the 40 that he is. He was never offstage.

Lise Houlton was Colombine, who leaves when Nureyev gets fresh, then comes back in red to dance in sexy style with Brighella. He was danced by Victor Barbee of Raleigh, N.C., who was promoted to soloist this season.

This masterpiece of music, choreography, performance and decor was followed by the company's New York premiere of "Three Preludes," a pas de deux by choreographer Ben Stevenson. The audience applauded wildly for this also and we understood why, though we had trouble appreciating it fully while still overwhelmed by "Pierrot Lunaire."

Gelsey Kirkland was romantic lyricism itself, well partnered by John Meehan. Pianist Boyd Staplin, at the rear of the stage, played three brief pieces by Serge Rachmaninoff.

The evening — a feast of a program — began with "Theme and Variations," which is George Balanchine in a glorious Russian mood. Cynthia Anybody can make three notrump in today's hand if the five missing diamonds break 3-2. Nobody can make the game if East has four diamonds or if East has the singleton queen, jack or four. But South can cope with a 4-1 break if East has the singleton eight or nine.

MUST LEAD TEN

South must begin the diamonds by leading the ten, planning to let it ride if West plays low. When West actually plays the jack, dummy wins and returns a low diamond to the seven. West can win with the nine, but South later returns to his hand with a club to finesse through West's queen-four with dummy's ace-six.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one notrump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S-A72; H-K 62; D-1075; C-AK53. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three notrump. Even if partner has the maximum count of 18 points, the partnership total will be only 32 points. This is unlikely to be enough for a slam since both hands have balanced distribution.

A Review

Gregory was regal and her line clear and crisp, with impressive partnering by Patrick Bissell, 21, of Corpus Christi, Texas. He was promoted this season from soloist to principal dancer.

The evening ended with Antony Tudor's "Shadowplay," in which the leading role was danced by Anthony Dowell, star of the British Royal Ballet, who joined ABT last fall.

Mingus memorial set

By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) — Charlie Mingus, the bassist-composer who died last January at age 56, was what they call a jazz giant. Monday night, they'll honor him with a giant jazz tribute. It'll run eight hours.

Two of his better-known friends are hosting it — novelist Norman Mailer and poet Allen Ginsberg. About 50 musicians are playing during the three-show program that'll cost patrons $7.50 per show.

Fittingly, it's being held at the well-known Greenwich Village club where Mingus often played, the Village Gate. The owner, Art D'Lugoff, who knew Mingus well, is co-producing the tribute.

It's being held for two reasons, he says. One is to raise money for an annual scholarship in jazz studies, to be established in Mingus' name, at the Julliard School of music here.

The other reason, he adds, simply is "to get together a lot of people who knew him and played with him, to have sort of a musical salute to his memory."

Those on the bill include guys Mingus is credited with discovering — men who played in his bands, such as trumpeter Ted Curson, drummer Danny Richmond and trombonist Jimmy Knepper.

Others who never played for Mingus but respect his music, jazzmen like trombonist Slide Hampton, pianist Tommy Flanagan and trumpeter Howard McGhee, also are scheduled to sit in.

And, for those who want a big blast of Mingus music, there'll be a 25-piece band, led by Paul

Jeffrey, that will play the late bassist's compositions and arrangements.

It's quite a lineup for this tribute to a tough, outspoken, sometimes angry man who broke in with the bands of Kid Ory and Louis Armstrong, became a major figure in modern jazz by the mid-Fifties, but never rejected the earlier eras of jazz.

He was considered a difficult man, D'Lugoff says, "but I didn't consider him difficult. I considered him immensely talented."

"His greatest concern was to turn out really distinctive, unusual music. The players were all very attentive to him. They'd work with him, no matter how much browbeating they'd get from him."

The 54-year-old boniface chuckled at memories of how Mingus occasionally would get mad at the audience as well as his sidemen.

"He certainly knew how to browbeat for the best results. But it wasn't just for the sake of browbeating. He was a hard taskmaster. He'd even get upset with the audience when they weren't attentive."

"But that's understandable, too. Otherwise, he was a more gentle person than most people realize. I can't remember having any fights with him, ever."

D'Lugoff, whose club has been open 21 years now, said Mingus often played there for 18 of those years. He was a friend, too. "I think I socialized with him more than any artist who played here."

His personal assessment of the man they'll salute Monday night: "An authentic American genius whose contribution has yet to be recognized by millions of people around the world."

DR. NEIL SOLOMON New shots coming to fight rabies

Dear Dr. Solomon: My eight-year-old son recently was bitten by a dog. Because the animal could not be found and tested, he had to undergo a series of painful rabies shots, which made him very sick. Isn't there some other method of protecting someone who has been bitten by an animal?—Mrs. B.N.

Dear Dr. Solomon: A neighbor of ours was recently killed in an automobile accident, and another was seriously injured in an accident on his job. I'm wondering just how common accidents are.—Mr. J.J.B.

Dear Mrs. N.: A new, still experimental vaccine is being distributed on a limited basis by the Center for Disease Control. Because it is more potent, the human diploid cell strain (HDC-2) vaccine requires only five or six doses, and can be injected into the arm muscle. Nervetissue and duck-embryo vaccines require 14 to 21 injections in the abdomen and lower back. These doses are very large and may cause serious side effects. HDCS has been used in Europe for three or four years, with no deaths reported. Clinical trials in this country indicate that the new vaccine causes only mild reactions and is far more effective than the currently available

Dear Mr. E.: Accidents are all too common and, tragically, many are avoidable. The National Safety Council reports that more than 100,000 people—twice as many men as women—lost their lives in accidents during 1976. The largest number of accidental deaths are caused by automobile accidents, and the most hazardous months are July and August, the vacation season. January and February, when roads may be slick and driving treacherous, are relatively safe months during which to drive. And despite the hazards of work-related accidents, an average of more than three accidental deaths occur off the job for each on-job death.

Dear Dr. Solomon: Which would be safer for a woman undergoing an abortion—local or general anesthesia?—Carol

Dear Carol: A study of more than 54,000 abortions over a five-year period showed that local and general anesthesia are equally safe for suction curettage. Dr. Kenneth F. Schultz, of the Center For Disease Control, reported there were three major complications per thousand women who had local anesthesia, and 3.5 major complications per thousand women for those receiving general anesthesia.

It is generally accepted by most medical experts that local anesthesia puts less stress on the body than general anesthesia.

Dear Dr. Solomon: What is the test for "sickle cell" like?—Ms. D.R.

Dear Ms. R.: The test is quick and easy, taking only a few minutes of your time. There are two main parts to it: (1) a doctor or technician pricks your finger to get a small drop of blood; and (2) a special test is done on that blood sample. The results tell whether or not the red blood cells contain some of that particular kind of abnormal hemoglobin known as sickle hemoglobin.

Warm moments mark film premiere

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Closing night of the Los Angeles International Film Exposition, known more sensibly as Filmex, brought two warm and sentimental moments.

The first came before the showing of Orion Pictures' initial release in its brief history, "A Little Romance." Gregory Peck presented to Laurence Olivier with the second Filmex Trustees award (only Alfred Hitchcock has won it before).

"My voice is a little shaken and my composure is completely lacking in confidence," admitted the man generally considered the greatest English-speaking actor.

The second moment came at the end of the world premiere screening, when the audience gave a second standing ovation to Olivier for his performance in "A Little Romance." Spotlights in the aisle of the Plitt Theater in Century City, he invited his three coworkers to share the plaudits of the crowd.

The quartet represented three generations of film makers: Olivier, director George Roy Hill and his young stars, Diana Lane and Thelonus Bernard.

"A Little Romance" followed at the Plaza Four restaurant to celebrate the film, the end of a successful Filmex (100,000 patrons in two weeks) and the launching of Orion, formed last year by executives who broke away from United Artists. The consensus seemed to be that "A Little Romance" was a worthy start for the new company.

But will it make money? The movie has no street gangs, nuclear disasters or comic strip heroes. It is not laden with sex, nudity or vile language. The story is a simple one. An American girl and a Parisian boy, intelligent kids in their low teens, flee their homes on a romantic journey to Venice, aided by a charming old fraud.

"A Little Romance" might have turned out to be a lot of Disney except for the sure touch of George Roy Hill, who managed to combine sentiment and cynicism in "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," "The Sting" and "Slap Shot."

The casting was inspired. Olivier is expectably brilliant as the polished old boulevardier who happens to be a pickpocket. The happy surprises are the youngsters. Thelonus Bernard (his father is a freak for American jazz) was plucked off a Paris soccer field by a Hill scout and brought to the U.S. for a crash course in English. He seems assured of a lifetime acting career, if he so desires. Diana Lane is also a revelation.

Merman cuts disco record

By YARDENA ARAR

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The newest old hat in the record business is the disco crossover. It seems like almost every rock star in town has cut at least one disco track for his or her latest album, and a few jazz greats have gone the same route.

And just as you think you've heard it all, Ethel Merman hops into town and announces what may be history's first Broadway-disco crossover.

That's right folks, the Merm is going disco. What's more, she's doing it with a collection of vintage Merman songs — the Irving Berlin and Cole Porter show-stoppers that made her the queen of musical comedy decades ago.

And if there's anyone around who's dubious about the idea of hearing "There's No Business Like Show Business" sung to thumping bass drums and synthesizers, Miss Merman hasn't met them.

"Anybody I've spoken to about this project thinks it's the greatest thing since 7-Up," said Miss Merman, interviewed during a break at the studio where a brass track was being recorded over previously taped vocals, rhythm and keyboards.

"This is a real thrill for me to be doing this," she enthused in her famous, brassy New York tones. "I've been in every phase of show business, but I never expected that I'd be doing this. ... I can't wait for Berlin to hear 'Show Business'."

The album, which also will include such old favorites as "I Get a Kick Out of You" and "Falling in Love is Wonderful," was dreamed up by Kip Cohen, vice president of A&M Records.

"I was listening to some English disco music and I didn't like the sound of it," Cohen explained. "And I looked at the titles, and they were all songs that Miss Merman had made famous."

"And I thought, 'This is ridiculous.' Not only did they do it poorly, they had the wrong girl singer."

Cohen immediately fired off a telegram to Miss Merman's agent.

"I wanted to do it right away," she said. "It's a whole new twist in disco. I don't know when show tunes have ever been recorded for disco, particularly by the person who introduced them."

"Nowadays, the pop songs come along one right after the other, and they don't really have a chance to get acquainted with them — the people on the dance floor, I mean."

"And here these songs are in everybody's mind, and think it's more fun to be able to dance to them, and sing to them, as you're dancing to them."

"You have to go along with the times," she added in a more philosophical vein. "You have to go along with what's going on. If people don't know how to accept it, they don't accept it. If they don't like disco music, then they don't play it or they don't go."

Clements has fan

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements has gained at least one fan among Democratic officialdom in Texas.

Rep. John Wilson, D-La Grange, a candidate for House speaker, had encouraged Clements earlier this month to vote "special interest" bills.

Wilson said Monday that Clements is batting .750 so far, and wrote the governor to say, "Congratulations. As long as you keep batting over .300 you will stay on the all-star team."

Clements recently vetoed a bill restricting new entries into the pawnshop business and a measure allowing truckers to get together on their rates without risking anti-trust prosecution.

Counselor regulation sought in Snelson bill

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN—The Senate Human Resources Committee has approved SB 884, by Sen. Pete Snelson of Midland, for the licensing and regulation of counselors.

Snelson says the measure applies only to persons using the title "licensed counselor" and performing services for a fee, with an exemption for ministers, educational workers and persons in similar occupations.

Snelson says the measure is intended principally to deal with persons offering mental health counseling to the public, and that he believes earlier objections to the measure have been worked out in the substitute bill approved by the committee Wednesday.

AUSTIN—The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday "abated" the appeal of Daniel Eoff on a Midland County robbery because of his death.

Eoff's attorney provided the court with a properly certified copy of Eoff's certificate of death and won court approval of his motion.

Eoff died Feb. 21, 1979.

A Real Sweetheart Of A Deal

Where's Johnny going to work?

NEW YORK (AP) — Will Johnny Carson leave "The Tonight Show" for a job with ABC? "I can't answer that," Carson tells CBS' Mike Wallace, conceding ABC may be "doing a little stroking, as all networks do," in an effort to attract him.

Carson, in an interview for CBS' "60 Minutes," to be broadcast Sunday evening at 6 p.m., recalls an informal get-together after his appearance as host on ABC's broadcast April 9 of the Academy Awards show.

"They...made no direct overtures of my coming to the network," Carson says. "I would assume that when somebody has you socially for dinner I'm not that naive — that they might say, 'Hey, it would be nice possibly if Johnny Carson worked over here.'"

Wallace and the "60 Minutes" crew visited Carson April 15 at his home in Bel-Air, Calif., about a week before the story broke that Carson wanted out of his NBC contract, which runs until mid-1981.

CBS had planned to produce a profile of the entertainer for fall broadcast, but pulled some of the news-worthy material from the footage shot Easter Sunday for immediate broadcast.

The segment runs about 14 minutes. Carson tells Wallace he did not fight with his boss, NBC President Fred Silverman, over the amount of time he spends as host of "The Tonight Show," and he refuses to answer Wallace's repeated questions on his legendary salary.

George Isaacs dies

LONDON (AP) — George Isaacs, who served as Labor minister and minister of pensions in Clement Attlee's administration after World War II, died Thursday. He was 95.

"Now who said I got three or four million dollars annually?" asks the man who probably is the highest paid entertainer in TV.

"You know that you do," Wallace says.

"Nobody's ever quoted my salary correct," says Carson, "and that's always intrigued me. Nobody has ever had the figure right."

Wallace asks about reports Silverman had demanded that he show up as host of "The Tonight Show" more frequently, citing to show the program's audience declined when Carson was not there.

"After 17 years, I just found it impossible to keep my energy level, and do the kind of quality work I want to do, if I do the show," Carson replies. "So it's true I do work a three-day week now...I still do 135 or 140 90-minute television shows. It's been something like 4,500 shows altogether."

"And after that time, if I would have had to still do five days a week, I would have finished the show five years ago."

He says in the interview he wants to remain in television, though not as host of a nightly or even weekly program.

The segment includes interviews with Carson's wife, Joanna, his sidekick and friend, Ed McMahon, and Fred deCordova, producer of "The Tonight Show."

The "60 Minutes" segment was produced by David Lowe Jr., who, ironically, began his career as a cue-card boy for Carson when he was host of "Who Do You Trust?" in the early 1950s. It was Lowe's relationship with Carson, as well as contacts Carson had previously with Wallace, that apparently led to the rare interview. The Wallace segment was the last at CBS for Lowe, who will leave the network to set up his own production company.

Rubber workers mull strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United Rubber Workers union, unable to end an unusual contract feud with Uniroyal Inc., is back home pondering whether to call a strike against the nation's No. 3 tire maker.

URW President Peter Bommarito said late Thursday night before returning to union headquarters in Akron, Ohio, that he would call a top-level meeting Monday to decide on a course of action.

Bommarito and other union bargainers flew home after chief federal mediator Wayne L. Horvitz declared further negotiations would be "unproductive." He did not say when bargaining might resume.

Vaccine death study urged

ATLANTA (AP) — The national Center for Disease Control should conduct a detailed study into the deaths of four Tennessee infants who died within 24 hours of receiving a diphtheria-pertussis-tetanus vaccine, a group of consultants says.

The infants were between two and six months old when they died between November and March and did not live in the same community.

The deaths were attributed to the little-understood sudden infant death syndrome, which claims between 10,000 and 16,000 infants annually.

A batch of more than 480,000 doses of the vaccine, called DPT or DTP, was voluntarily recalled by the manufacturer, Wyeth Laboratories of Philadelphia, even though laboratory tests indicated the vaccine was safe.

"The consensus of this meeting is that it is not possible to decide if there is a meaningful association between the DPT vaccine and the deaths," Dr. Donald Millar, chairman of the meeting, said after the session Thursday.

After four full days of talks, the two sides had not resolved any differences in a dispute that is hung up over President Carter's anti-inflation guidelines and a union charge that the company "welched" on a contract agreement in the face of government pressure.

"They can't lie out of it," Bommarito said of the company's insistence that it had never reached an agreement with the URW.

Bommarito, saying he has sought to avoid a strike, told reporters a walkout by 8,200 Uniroyal workers is among three options the union would consider next week. He would not identify the other options.

The URW lifted a strike deadline against Uniroyal last Friday, when the old pact expired, and has extended the deadline from day to day.

The union has targeted Uniroyal to set the pattern for new three-year contracts covering a total of 55,000 workers at the "Big Four" tire companies, which also include Goodyear, Firestone and Goodrich.

Horvitz said he planned to meet here today with officials from all four tire companies to review where the Uniroyal dispute stands.

The highly unusual and confusing dispute with Uniroyal began April 19, when the union declared it had reached a tentative economic agreement with Uniroyal, Firestone and Goodrich. Within a few hours, the three companies issued denials.

Bommarito then charged that the deal fell through because Uniroyal had backed down on prior contract pledges under very heavy pressure from Carter's inflation advisers, who feared a large settlement could destroy the president's voluntary guidelines.

Uniroyal acknowledged that the administration pressed the company to stay within the 7 percent annual ceiling on wage and fringe benefit increases, but it denied that it reneged on any agreement.

Sources have estimated that the contract Bommarito claimed to have would have boosted industry-wide wages and benefits by more than 40 percent over three years. That is far in excess of the 22.5 percent increase — 7 percent annually compounded over three years — that the guidelines would allow.

Carter's inflation advisers summoned union and industry officials to the White House last Friday to press for a settlement within the guidelines. Industry executives came, but Bommarito stayed away.

Besides disagreeing over what was — or was not — agreed to last week, the two sides are sharply divided over Carter's guidelines. Uniroyal has vowed to stay within the guidelines, but Bommarito insists a 7 percent annual ceiling is inadequate for his members.

Auto earnings hit record

DETROIT (AP) — The nation's two largest automakers say they have earned record profits in the first three months of the year.

General Motors Corp. profits rose 45 percent to $1.26 billion, or $4.39 a share, and Ford's rose 28 percent to $595 million, or $4.97 per share, the two companies said Thursday.

Last week, American Motors Corp. reported record first-quarter profits of $32 million. GM's sales rose 20 percent to $17.9 billion and Ford's rose 26 percent to $12.6 billion. Both figures are records.

In physical volume, GM's sales rose 5.8 percent to 2.47 million vehicles and Ford's rose 11 percent to 1.8 million.

GM said its strong showing reflected a "continuing high level of demand for our cars and trucks" as well as a "recovery from the inefficiencies" caused by bad weather in last year's first quarter.

Ford said its profit improvement came from overseas, particularly from "higher unit sales and cost efficiencies" in Europe and Latin America.

At home, "continuing adverse effects of inflation on costs, as well as substantial outlays necessary to develop new vehicles with improved fuel efficiency and reduced emissions," reduced profits slightly, the company said.

Ford's earnings in the United States fell from $1.85 to $1.83 per share in the quarter as sales were increasing 19 percent to $7.7 billion, but earnings overseas rose 51 percent to $3.14 per share on sales of $4.9 billion, up 39 percent.

The profit margin on U.S. sales fell from 3.4 percent in the 1978 quarter to 2.9 percent but overseas the margin improved from 7.2 percent to 7.8 percent. Worldwide, Ford's margin on sales was unchanged at 4.7 percent.

General Motors, which did not break down profits into U.S. and foreign operations, reported its first year-to-year improvement in profit margin on quarterly sales since 1976, from 5.8 percent to 7.0 percent.

Atlanta police tell recruiters to go home

ATLANTA (AP) — Houston police recruiters were about as welcome as Yankee cavalry during their three days here.

Mayor Maynard Jackson asked the group Monday to go home, saying the Atlanta police force already is short at least 200 officers.

But Houston's top recruiter, Lt. Sam Nuchia, said his group was not trying to "raid" Atlanta's police department.

Houston Police Chief Harry Caldwell defended the recruiting drive Thursday.

In visits to about a dozen cities from Dallas to Orlando, Fla., including Macon and Columbus, Ga., Houston recruiters are trying to hire black youths as well as whites "who need a chance." Caldwell said in a telephone interview from Houston.

The city is not seeking experienced-officers because recruits would be expected to pay their own way to Houston to relocate, the chief said.

Caldwell chided Jackson for the mayor's anti-Houston remarks. Jackson had told Atlanta officers that "if they want to fight the gnats, the floods and the horrendous hot weather, then let them."

"Maynard Jackson is one of the most highly respected mayors in the United States," said Caldwell. "I'm sorry we came at a time when he cannot extend his usual Southern hospitality..."
