Militiamen wound eight UN troops in new republic

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Israelibacked Lebanese Christian militiamen, fighting to drive "foreign troops" out of the vest-pocket republic they proclaimed in southern Lebanon, wounded eight U.N. soldiers today in an attack on the international peace force's administrative base

Lebanese President Elias Sarkis' Cabinet met in emergency session and ordered a court-martial for Monday for Maj. Saad Haddad, 39, leader of the rebels, on high treason charges. Government sources said an in-absentia death sentence was expected.

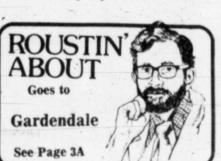

U.N. spokesman Hugo Rocha said six Irish soldiers and two Dutch officers were hurt when the Israeliarmed militiamen poured 4,000 machine-gun rounds and 150 rockets and mortar shells into the U.N. compound at Naqoura, three miles north of the Israeli-Lebanese border.

"It was a totally unprovoked attack," Rocha told The Associated Press in Jerusalem. "That is only the administrative unit."

Although their mandate permits them to defend themselves, the peacekeepers did not return fire, said

Israeli officers arranged a ceasefire, Rocha reported, but the militiamen fired two more short machinegun bursts later in the morning.

Two savings institutions in Basin bought by firm

Acquisition of two savings and loan associations, one based in Midland and the other in Odessa, by Transwestern United Corp. was announced today by Ray P. Moudy, president of Citizens Savings and Loan Association in Midland, and Larry L. Melton, president of Home Savings Association in Odessa.

"The main purpose of placing these two important area financial institutions under common ownership is to strengthen both associations and provide the Permian Basin area with a broader source of home mortgages,'

Melton said. Moudy noted combined total assets of the two associations and the holding company are in excess of $139

In New York, feminist Gloria Steinem told the Daily News the ruling was sexist and a defeat for Miss Marvin.

Legal experts agree the ruling is likely to encourage suits by other spurned live-in lovers. But they differed on whether the courts will be flooded or simply sprinkled with similar actions.

"The decision was surprising to me because it means that there will be a tremendous flood of this kind of litigation," said Stuart Walzer, a Beverly Hills attorney.

"I thought he (Marshall) was con-servative and his instincts would push him away from encouraging litigation. I suppose he figured in view of the amount demanded, this was a modest sum. But unfortunately, it will touted as a great triumph and this will encourage more litigation," said

Operational problems with the remodeling and construction coupled with a lower than expected daily patient load have combined to create a financial problem for Midland Memorial Hospital, hospital trustees were told Wednesday. "Deficits are larger than expected and incomes are lower than projected," finance committee chairman John Grimland said.

Grimland said hospital staff members were looking at the budgeted deficits to see if they were realistic and were studying room rates for possible adjustments. "Nothing is stopping inflation. We just have to keep on paying that," Grimland noted.

Trustees approved writing off some $83,765 in bad debts, including some involving indigent care patients. Grimland emphasized, however, that not all of that amount would be written off when the books were closed. Last month, for instance, trustees agreed to an $80,000 write-off, but ended last month with only $30,000 of

Awarded this month for center that fell in and no one noticed

WASHINGTON (AP) - Sen. William Proxmire lambasted two federal agencies today for spending $279,000 on a rural community center so isolated that it collapsed without anyone noticing immediately.

The Wisconsin Democrat awarded his monthly Golden Fleece Award to the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Commerce Department's Economic Development Administration, which jointly financed the center for Merrill Township, Mich.

HUD provided $100,000 for the building and EDA spent $179,000 on a never-completed road to the center.

The center was designed for counseling, food stamp distribution, literacy classes, job training and other community services for two township villages. It was built "at a secluded site in a virtually inaccessible forest halfway between" the two villages, the senator said.

Russian surgeon's cure for nearsightedness put down by U.S. eye experts several American eye experts say. Dr. Svyatoslav N. Fyodorov claims he can help myopic persons with 20-200 vision achieve 20-20 or 20-40 sight simply by making a series of cuts on the periphery of the cornea. The cuts allow the cornea to flatten out, thereby reducing the high curvature that caused the nearsightedness in the first place, Fyodorov said Tuesday at a news conference at the Russian Embassy. Several leading American eye surgeons expressed strong reservations about the technique in interviews Wednesday. The cuts could permanently weaken the cornea, and the eye is likely to bulge back to its original shape in the long run, they said.

Nevertheless, a few American ophthalmologists are trying the Soviet surgeon's method. Dr. Richard C. Troutman of the Manhattan Eye and Ear Hospital in New York said Fyodorov's procedure is not very precise. "It's like playing a little Russian roulette with your cornea — six shots and hope it comes out all right," he said. Dr. Malcolm McCannell, a Minneapolis eye surgeon, said, "I don't think there are very many eye doctors in the Western world who would recommend" using Fyodorov's technique.

Robert Drews, a St. Louis eye surgeon, agreed with McCannell, noting that, "Myopia doesn't make people go blind or anything. You just have to !

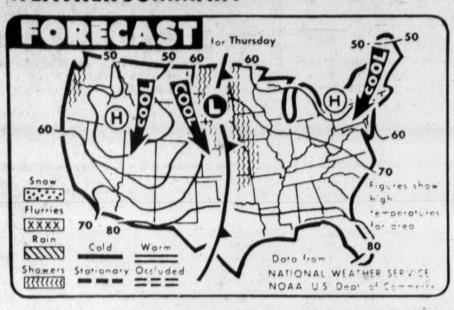

wear glasses or contact lenses.' But Fyodorov, who speaks English, scorns the way "man has been held in bondage to spectacles for the last 500 years. His very nose and ears are imprisoned

The enthusiastic 51-year-old Soviet doctor, who is a recognized expert on intraocular lenses for cataract patients, says he thinks his technique for nearsightedness will be particularly useful for pilots or others whose job requires them to have near-perfect

Fyodorov's method is a variation on a technique first tried in 1952 by a Japanese doctor named Sato who actually cut into the eornea to reshape it. But that method fell into disuse because of unpredictable results and a high risk of infection, Fyodorov

Doctors at the Moscow Research Laboratory of Experimental and Clinical Problems of Eye Surgery have performed 1,300 of the operations since 1972 without problems, Fyodorov said. 5

Three killed, 15 injured when commuter helicopter crashes

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) - The pilot radioed he was having control problems shortly before his commuter helicopter dropped 100 feet and crashed on a runway at Newark In-ternational Airport, killing three persons and injuring 15.

"He (the pilot) was trying to return to land," said an eyewitness, Gordon Wilkes, a Federal Aviation Administration controller. "It looked like he was going to make it, but about 100 feet from the ground it nosed off."

The New York Airways craft, a Sikorsky S61, left Newark at 6: 20 p.m. Wednesday, bound for New York's LaGuardia Aiport. Three minutes later, it slammed into the runway just 200 yards from the busy New Jersey Turnpike.

The 30-passenger white helicopter with 18 persons on board hit the ground on its belly, then flipped over, its roters bent and its body mangled, eyewitnesses said.

White, 32, said he and two another passengers knocked out an emergency window and escaped.

Nation's economy showing recession trend

WASHINGTON (AP) - The nation's economy sputtered to its lowest growth rate in a year during the first three months of 1979, indicating the economy could be dipping toward a recession if the trend continues, government figures showed today.

The 0.7 percent increase in the gross national product in January through March was less than expected and was down sharply from a 6.9 percent rate of growth in the final quarter of 1978. The first-quarter rate was the lowest since a 0.1 percent decline in the same period last year.

The sharp slowdown in growth seemed certain to support the argument of G. William Miller, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, that economic growth already is slowing and that further measures to dampen the economy could plunge the nation into a serious recession.

While the 0.7 percent rate of growth was near the recession level of lessthan zero percent growth, Miller and top administration experts believe the economy will rebound at least partly from the low first-quarter growth, thus avoiding a recession in the near future.

The unusually severe winter in many parts of the country was at least partly to blame for the slow economic growth in the first quarter. But it probably also reflected efforts by the government to slow the economy through high interest rates and

The rapid rate of growth in the final three months of 1978 had caused concern among policy-makers because a rapidly expanding economy tends to put upward pressure on wages and prices and thus feed inflation.

Taiwan bill criticized by Deng

PEKING (AP) - Deputy Premier Deng Xiaoping (Teng Hsiao-ping) "unloaded both barrels on Taiwan" today and said the United States-Taiwan bill undermines the political basis for normalized relations, a delegation from the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said. "He was very hard on us," reported committee chairman Frank Church, D-Idaho, after a two-hour meeting with Deng. "He said the inference of the U.S. act was to negate the political basis of normalization ... He said the thrust of the act was support of Taiwan and inconsistent with the idea of one China."

Deng said the Chinese would be watching U.S. action closely from now on to determine the course of normalization, Church said.

Sanders' titles lengthen

By PHIL THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP) - Novelist Lawrence Sanders likes books with one-word titles. Sanders is the author of such books as the widely read "Cop" and the best-selling "Thorndecker."

Never heard of them? That's because Sanders' publisher likes titles of more than one word. So "Cop" appeared as "The First Deadly Sin" and "Thorndecker," Sanders' latest novel, showed up on

"Publishers are very title conscious," Sanders explains with a smile. "They know what titles will sell, so I go along with it.'

Although he has 12 books - 10 under his own name - to his credit, the 59-year-old Sanders came late to

He started working in magazines when he was 26.

"First I was a gag writer, then an associate editor, and then an editor," he says. "I worked on all kinds of magazines - detective, adventure and at the last on science and mechanical magazines.

"But during all this time I was always a heavy reader, and the time came, as I think it does in everyone's life, where I said to myself, 'My God, I can do as well if not better than this. So, in 1969, after reading all kinds of stuff for years, I decided to write a book of my own

"That was 'The Anderson Tapes.' I wrote it after working all day, which was a very hard thing to do. When you have a job in which you work with words all day long the last thing you want to do when you come home is deal with more words. What you really want is to take your shoes off and watch television. But I kept at it and my book was published when I was 50. Yes, Virginia, there is life after 50."

Sanders says "The Anderson Tapes" sold well enough — "I was so lucky with that thing" — to bring him enough money to "get out of the 9-to-5 routine and become a full-time writ-

After he quit his job, Sanders says, it didn't take him long to discover "I was a very prolific writer. I turn them ... out pretty fast; a conventional novel takes me six or seven months.'

But the ability to turn out two books a year has its drawbacks. "The pubisher said I was writing so much that was competing with myself. So I decided to put out some of my books under a pseudonym. I wanted to be called Mark Down but the publisher preferred Mark Upton, and two books appeared under that name.

'They did poorly. It was a great disappointment to me. If one had taken off I probably would have kept writing under a pseudonym, but as it is I don't think there will be any more books by Mark Upton."

Juke box regulators to stay put

After tentatively approving a bill last Thursday to give the commission's job to Comptroller Bob Bullock, the House defeated it Tuesday, 73-60.

The only big change in the situation between Thursday and Tuesday was Speir's letter, solicited by Rep. Bob Hendricks, D-McKinney, the commission's chief defender in the House.

Speir said the commission is "doing a good job" and "has created a much higher degree of stability and compliance in the industry than before we had the commission.

Texas law makes the DPS director automatically a member of the commission. Hendricks again recalled the bombings and arsons that wracked the juke box industry in the late 1960s, when companies jealously fought for control of taverns and territory. "It is a field where we have got to stay on our toes all the time to keep crime out of it," he

Rep. Don Henderson, R-Houston, sponsor of the bill, rebutted that the juke box industry was "cleaned up" not by the commission but by state laws passed in 1971 to limit control of taverns by amusement machine companies

As for the law enforcement aspect, he said, "there have been 1,000 complaints filed but usually it has been an operator telling on his neighbor." The only result, he said, is an untaxed jukebox gets taxed.

Vietnam musical makes casualty list By JAY SHARBUTT

NEW YORK (AP) - During the Vietnam war, the best of anything in Vietnam was called Numbah One and the worst Numbah 10. "Dispatches," a new Vietnam war musical, is Numbah 91/2 It premiered Wednesday at Joseph Papp's New York Shakespeare Festival, which gave us the late 1960s musical, "Hair," where innocent flower children cavorted and protested the war.

Here they cavort in the war, with much macabre spirit, and also do a Woodstock caper, shifting back nobody seems to know how many and forth from the war to a rock 'n' roll concert, tap-taps are out in the streets. But ultimately becoming casualties of both. The dual-casualty idea is from a passage in Mi chael Herr's book on which the show is based. The rock concert is used as a metaphor for the war, or vice versa, depending on your point of view. Herr covered the war 11 years ago. His book mostly done in a gonzo Ernie Pyle style, consists of vignettes and thoughts about the war. The gifted Elizabeth Swados, the show's director and tunesmith, simply took selections of his work and used them verbatim as lyrics for the 20-odd songs she wrote for the three-woman, eight-man A bold concept. It fails. His prose suggests a rock beat, but the meter is ragged. Result: Her music usually has a tough time finding a home in the words.

It tends to thrash about aimlessly. The rock-war-roll theme becomes a generally loud, noisy, undistinguished blank-verse combat bag of rock, country and gospel. It's often booby-trapped with obscenities that include the famed Anglo-Saxon naughty beginning with the letter F.

The troops go through their often-frenzied paces in baggy fatigues and helmet liners, occasionally donning faded hippie garb over their war threads to let us know they're now in rock-concert mode. They occasionally pause to simply speak passages are talking. And when talking dirty, the ladies just don't do it as as casually, as easily as men. Be that as it may, the spoken moments are the most passable ones. For passable music, there's a gentle ballad with a title that tends to stand out: "'Six (Obscenity Deleted) Shades of Green." The show occurs on two levels, a platform holding six-piece band and a ground-floor stage flanked by two tall metal towers that no doubt are meant to suggest the Woodstock arena.

Neither Hilary Rosenfeld's costumes nor Patricia Woodbridge's settings contribute much to this show, but then the musical itself offers little more than

It possibly might have worked had Miss Swados stuck with the war, dropped the concert and considerably slowed the pace. Herr's prose is high-powered, but loaded with fine shadings and nuances. Miss Swados only plugs into

In other business at the CBS meeting, Board Chairman William S. Paley and President John D. Backe told shareholders current year revenues and earnings are expected to exceed 1978's record figures of $3.3

"Despite the recently announced decline in our first quarter earnings, we are confident that 1979 will be another excellent year for our company, both in revenue and earnings,' Paley said.

Missing ranchers discovered dead in stock tank

CROWELL, Texas (AP) - After a massive search through the rugged hills and canyons of North Texas, authorities have found the bodies of two missing ranchers in their plane submerged in a stock tank;

The men had been missing since Friday when they took off from the Crowell airport to check their livestock. The plane was found about 14 miles southeast of the airport, authorities said.

An autopsy was to be performed on one of the victims, Glyndon Johnson, 44, Wednesday night.

The other victim was identified as Bobby Johnson, 46, also of Crowell. The two men were not related.

During an air search for the men Tuesday afternoon, an Army helicopter spotted a wheel that apparently had broken loose from the plane's landing gear and floated to the water's surface.

Smith said divers placed flotation equipment under the plane to bring it to the surface, then pulled the craft out with a truck winch about 1 p.m. Wednesday.

Smith said the craft might never have been found if the wheel had not broken off and floated within sight of searchers.

Foard County Sheriff Emmett Howard said sheriff's deputies, the Civil Air Patrol, the Highway Patrol, military personnel from Fort Sill, Okla., and civilians on horseback joined the search through that area's rugged ranchlands.

Egypt votes today on Sadat treaty

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) - Egyptians voted today in a referendum on the peace treaty with Israel and President Anwar Sadat, who initiated the peace drive, predicted a "99 percent" yes vote.

The treaty was signed in Washington March 26 and Egypt's Parliament ratified it April 10. While the referendum is not constitutionally required, its purpose is to show Sadat's Arab critics that his people support him.

Sadat said last week the referendum would demonstrate to "the barking Arabs" who are punishing Egypt because of the treaty, that the pact was "the will of the people." He said, "99 percent of them want this treaty. A second section of the ballot asks voters to approve Sadat's plans for political reform and parliamentary elections he said were needed to usher in the new peace era. These included: dissolution of Parliament to clear the way for June elections; changes in election laws to allow creation of new political parties and a declaration of human rights. Results of the nationwide vote were not expected to be announced until midday Friday. Officials have provided 36,750 polling stations for the nation's 10 million voters. Ballots will be counted and results sent to the special election center set up in the Police Ministry.

The National Progressive Unionist Rally, Egypt's leftist party, called for a "no" vote on the treaty. The pact is also opposed by fundamentalist Islamic groups who are banned by law from forming political

Interviews conducted outside the pollpng stations indicated little opposition to the two ballot propos-

"The treaty is the best thing in the world," said Abdullah Abdel Rahman, a 49-year-old carpenter who was voting in a central Cairo precinct. Mohammed Abdel Nabi, 75, hobbled to the polls on crutches to cast his ballot in favor of the treaty.

"At least one thing is true," he said, "the youth will have days of honey." Israeli Defense Minister Ezer Weizman will arrive in Cairo Sunday for a three-day visit to discuss treaty provisions with his counterpart, Kamal Hassan Aly, the Middle East news agency reported here today. An American trade delegation led by presidential envoy Robert Straus flew from Cairo to Tel Aviv today to discuss expansion of trade and investments by the United States.

Speaking to reporters at Ben Gurion Airport, Strauss said it is "essential that economic progress be made if the peace process is to go forward." He said the United States "can bring more than military hardware to the area.'

In Rabat, Morocco, the Arab States' Broadcasting Union announced it has decided to expel Egypt and move its headquarters to Tunis, Tunisia, until it can be moved to Jerusalem, "as soon as the holy city is liberated" from the Israelis.

Mondale visits Sweden

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale arrived in Sweden today on the fourth stop of his Scandinavian tour.

Mondale and his wife, Joan, were greeted at Arlanda International Airport by Prime Minister Ola Ullsten, Foreign Minister Hans Blix and other Cabinet members.

Mondale is the first senior American official to visit Sweden in 15 years. Sweden's criticism of U.S. involvement in the Vietnam War chilled relations between Stockholm and Washington. The last highranking American to visit here was the late Lyndon B. Johnson, who toured Sweden in 1963 while vice

CPR, microwave classes offered

Midland College has scheduled two evening short courses to begin next week. The non-credit courses are offered to the public through the college's Community Services Department.

Carmen Edwards holds a three-day course in Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation meeting Tuesday, Thursday and concluding the next Tuesday. Classes meet from 7 to 10 p.m in room 100 of the Occupational-Technical Building. The fee is $8.

CPR is a basic life support procedure for victims whose heart and lungs have ceased to function effectively. The technique taught here is sanctioned by the American Heart Association.

A one-evening explanation and demonstration of microwave cooking will be held from 7 to 10 p.m. Thursday in room 106 of the Occ-Tech Building. Sandra Dozier gives up-to-date information about the ovens, explains safety features, discusses energy-saving ideas and prepares three complete meals and snacks. The fee for Microwave Cooking I Pre-registration is in progress now between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays in room 140 of the Occ-Tech Building. The office will remain open during the lunch hour. More information by be obtained by calling 684-7851, extension 147 or 216.

Industry spokesmen say it is hard to keep track of the alternative systems because they are growing so rapidly. No-frills foods - standard grades in plain packages - were not introduced until 1977. Today, according to industry estimates, they are offered by 100 chains in 10,000 supermarkets, about one-third of the total.

"It looks like we're seeing the start of a whole new movement," said Midge Shubow of the federal Office of Consumer Affairs.

If you follow those rules, says a Cornell University professor, you can trim your grocery budget by 15 percent.

Heinz Biesdorf and his colleagues at Cornell have developed a shopping plan designed to help people take advantage of specials.

Start with the products your family uses regularly. Keep a record of purchases and prices.

Make out your shopping list for the coming week and check newspaper ads for specials. Look for sales on products that you use all the time - even if you don't happen to need them this

JIMMY'S WHITE HOUSE STERLING COUNTY
Conger (Pennsylvanian)—Wagner & Brown balance checkbook
No. 2-36 Conger, 1,920

> SAPELO ISLAND, Ga. (AP) - President Carter's joint checking account with wife Rosalynn is out of balance by at least $297.

You see, the Carters have a problem that doesn't affect most of us: Some folks would rather display the first family's personal checks than cash them. A case in point: Sayde's, a fashionable dress shop on nearby St. Simons Island, keeps a $297 check signed by Mrs. Carter under glass where customers can see it. Meanwhile, the first lady has been wearing three block T, T&P survey, dresses the uncashed $297 check bought when she five and one-half miles went shopping during a 1977 holiday.

> Carter, who is known to keep close tabs on his personal finances, has extended his interest in money matters to ones involving White House reporters.

> This became evident Sunday when he, Mrs. Carter and daughter Amy attended Easter services at the tiny First African Baptist Church. Mingling afterward with five reporters who had been allowed to worship with him, Carter jibed, "I south of Sterling City, 8,didn't see y'all give any offering.' Carter thought he knew what he was talking about because members of the congregation had filed to the front of the church to drop their offerings on a

> Carter's staff seems in evident need of a short course in Baptist practices.

> Reporters covering the president's Georgia vacation have been told the Carters will attend the christening next Sunday of their first granddaughter, 4-month-old Sarah Rosemary Carter, at the First Baptist Church in Calhoun

But Baptists do not christen infants What the Carters will witness in Calhoun is the 'dedication" of their granddaughter. The child will be presented at the ceremony by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Carter, who will pledge to do their utmost to make sure Sarah is dedicated to Christ.

At least the first part of the president's holiday was uneventful on a scale seldom seen since some of President Lyndon Johnson's lengthy stays at his Texas ranch. In LBJ's time, Sid Davis, now Washington bureau

chief for NBC News, sometimes informed colleagues

he was going to seek excitement by walking around the corner to "watch some haircuts." For the Carter press corps, headquartered on Jekyll Island, excitement has come largely from watching each other.

As an example, there was the morning when 2-year-old Taylor Stahl Latham fell into the swimming pool at the motel housing the press contin-A non-swimmer, the toddler-daughter of novelist

Aaron Latham and CBS News correspondent Leslie

Stahl fell beneath the surface of the water like a Mother plunged into the water fully clothed and made a quick rescue.

Also watched with interest were the maneuvers of Carter's "television navy" — a small fleet of fishing boats chartered by the three major commercial networks to wait offshore in the hope of getting film of the president on the high seas. The deploying of the "fleets" evolved into a war of NBC precipitated the conflict by passing word that its boat would weigh anchor at 3:30 a.m. on the second day of the Carter vacation. This worried the forces of ABC and CBS, who planned to wait until 4 Apollo (Ellen a.m. to go to sea.

Alas, their worrying was for naught. The NBC boat > was declared unfit for combat. Within 12 hours, the entire network armada was decommissioned. The reason: Coast Guard patrol craft kept the network boats so far offshore that Carter, even when he showed himself, was a mere speck on the horizon.

never left port. It ran aground the night before and

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

BUSINESS MIRROR

'Cash reserves' common answer

NEW YORK (AP) - Ask a stockbroker these days why he or she is bullish on the market outlook, and chances are you'll get something about "institutional cash reserves" for an answer. The institutions in question are the nation's pension funds, bank trust departments, insurance companies, mutual funds, and other such places where large pools of money tend to collect. In recent years, New York Stock Exchange figures show that institutions have accounted for more than half the total dollar value of stocks bought and sold on the Big Board. Because of their very size, and because of legal constraints requiring them to be "prudent," most institutions operate under a different set of circumstances than those which typically confront the individual investor of modest means. But it's considered a good idea for any follower of the stock market to keep an eye on these elephants of the investment jungle, if only so as to be standing in a safe place should they start a stampede.

One common measure of the mood of institutional money managers is the percentage of their assets they are keeping in "cash" — which in the jargon of the business refers not to nickels, dimes and quarters stored in a vault somewhere, but to short-term money-market securities such as Treasury bills. Traditionally, the institutions have used these money-market securities as a sort of parking place for money, where it can earn interest while they decide when and where to invest it for the longer

In theory, the more cash they have in reserve at any given time, the greater the potential future demand for stocks. And right now those reserves are

Thus the Value Line Investment Survey, the country's largest investment advisory service, argues, "The combination of the widely agreed-upon cheapness of stocks, coupled with the enormous cash reserves known to be awaiting the 'right moment' to begin to return to the equities market, puts pressure on the holders of cash reserves not to miss the

Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith analysts noted that mutual funds had 13.3 percent of their assets in cash as of February. That stood as the largest percentage since a 13.5 percent figure in September 1974, just before the end of a severe bear

"Further buying interest could come from the nation's pension funds, which have been accumulating new money at a $20 billion annual rate," the brokerage firm said.

"In 1978 these funds placed only 9 percent of their new money into equities (versus 20 percent to 50 percent in recent years), further reducing the portion of their assets in stocks to 52 percent from the 1972 hih of 73 percent."

Two reasons for this shift away from stocks have been the relatively poor performance of stock prices themselves, and the dramatic rise of interest rates. At present an institution can assure itself of better than a 9.5 percent return simply by buying 13-week Treasury bills, without taking any of the risks involved in stocks.

Presumably, that money will stay there until fund managers believe a better return is available in stocks

That in fact happened in the first quarter of this year, Merrill Lynch says, when a rising market plus dividends provided for a total return of 7.5 percent to s percent or better on stocks, against a quarterly rate of about 2.5 percent for Treasury bills.

Assuming the institutions somehow became convinced that the market could keep up that kind performance, or assuming they came to expect a substantial decline in interest rates, the flood of money into stocks that brokers talk of might well occur. The only trouble is, at the moment neither of those assumptions is an easy one to make.

U.N. agency to extend oil aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the world's energy crisis intensifying, the World Bank, a United Nations' financial agency, will expand its assistance for oil and natural-gas production in the developing Bank officials said some 60 countries could benefit in the early 1980's from an accelerated program of exploration and development for oil, natural gas and

The program will give priority to countries that depend heavily on imported oil and have the greatest need for technical assistance. The bank's help will include aid in devising national energy policies, the updating of existing geological surveys, the commissioning of new surveys, the financing of exploratory drilling and the financing of the eventual production facilities.

Appeals court upholds seven-year sentence

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN-The Court of Criminal Appeals Wednesday upheld the seven-year sentence of Rodney Vitor England, convicted in Midland County of carrying a handgun on premises licensed by the Alcholic Beverage Commission. England contended in his appeal that the prohibition against carrying handguns but not other firearms is unconstitutional and arbitrary.

He also complained the trial court erred in allowing the state to call "more than 20 witnesses to testify as to the appellent's bad reputation," the appeals court said, with the result that the audience was filled with police officers "most of them in uniform." the appeals court said the trial court has no discre-ion to limit the number of witnesses who may be subponed to testify-and affirmed the conviction.

Schwartz raps longer trailers to haul cotton

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A Democratic sentor shouted the praises of Republican Gov. Bill Clements on Wednesday in protesting a bill that would authorize larger cotton trailers on Texas highways.

Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, noted Clements had vetoed a ratemaking bill Monday favored by the trucking industry, and said, "The lobby has not yet got a grip on the governor of Texas."

The cotton trailer bill would allow trailers or modules to be lengthened from 45 feet to 48 feet and to increase loads by 2,000 pounds per axle.

Debate broke off before the Senate voted on Sen. Raul Longoria's bill so senators could dine on Jewish specialities, such as matzo balls and bagels, provided by Schwartz.

The bill was set for further debate at 11:15 a.m. today.

"This governor might save the people of Texas $1.5 million by vetoing this bill," said Schwartz. "The veto enhances my respect for Gov. Clements ... on free enterprise issues, he continues to be right and to do what he thinks is right.

Schwartz said, according to the state highway department, the larger loads will increase road wear 25 per cent to 40 percent.

"This will take 6,000 old-type cotton trailers off our roads," said Longoria, D-Edinburg. "Cotton gins will operate trucks pulling two and three modules which will take the place of large numbers of 'You will have less trailers wobbling all over our highways from one side to the other, and highways will be safer," Longoria added.

Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, was successful in attaching an amendment stating that anyone operating the larger trailers would be liable to the state for any "identifiable" road damage.

"No county is ever going to be able to collect for any damage to their roads from this bill," said Schwartz.

"The last time the Legislature met you agreed to give concrete trucks the right to overload. That's what damages our highways - overloads not winter weather," said Schwartz.
"Before that," he said, "the law was extended to let the milk truck people carry overloads and then it was the log haulers. Now you want to turn the cotton farmers loose on county roads that were not built for overloads.

"I know I can't persuade the Senate to vote against the truck lobby," added Schwartz. "The truck lobby is invincible in the Senate. There may come a time when that's not true, but it won't be anytime

$20 million added to welfare budget

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - A black legislator's display of the buying power of a $32.58 monthly child welfare check has won a House vote to add $20 million to the 1980-81 state budget.

House members went into their second day of debate on the $20.2 billion general appropriation bill this morning.

The bill would leave about $350 million for tax cuts, school finance improvements or other spending. Wednesday's floor session raised several emotional issues - government-financed abortions; big pay raises for judges, the plight of welfare children.

Rep. Craig Washington, D-Houston, brought paper sack to the podium and removed its contents of cheap clothes and toilet articles one by one.

He said he asked his secretary "to go to the very cheapest place in town where they sell dry goods" and spend the equivalent of a $32.58 average monthly child welfare check.

Washington held up each item for the House to see: a pair of child's blue jeans, three pair of socks, a pair of "the cheapest shoes with crepe soles you could find anywhere," deodorant, a tube of toothpaste, shampoo and a bottle of hand lotion.

'Next month they could buy a shirt," he said. Washington said the shopping trip used up $27.20, leaving "pocket change" to pay for shelter, other toilet articles, underwear and a toothbrush.

Rep. Bennie Bock II, D-New Braunfels, a conservative, said the welfare check wasn't even "enough to buy dog food for a month.'

"Gut up and do something for somebody who can't come up and pat you on the back," Washington

Interest in gasohol high, says official

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - State Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown says he has never seen consumers so interested in anything as they are in the production of gasohol. "If you say we can't produce it, among the farmers all hell is going to break loose in this state," Brown told the Senate State Affairs Committee on Wednes-

Brown and President Cloud Cray Jr. of Midwest Solvents Co., Inc., in Atchison, Kan., testified in favor of a bill that would create a alcohol manufacturer's permit. The bill was sent to a "friendly"

Cray said his company wants to locate a $25 million gasohol plant in the Rio Grande Valley of Texas but has no intention of making whiskey there. He said the area near a sugar cane plant at Santa Rosa, Texas, "is the best location in the country" for the nation's first full-scale gasohol plant.

Gasohol is a mixture of gasoline and alcohol. The bill by Sen. Raul Longoria, D-Edinburg, would allow an alcohol manufacturer to produce industrial alcohol and beverage alcohol, as well as gasohol.
