Solons Aid Area Plan For Water

A-J Austin Bureau AUSTIN — House members have given final approval to legislation by Rep. Bob Simpson of Amarillo creating the Ogallala Water Import Authority for the High Plains area of West Texas.

During the debate which led to tentative approval of the bill, controversy centered on the proposed authority's power to condemn land for water importation projects, with Simpson being forced to accept an amendment limiting the condemnation power to areas within the district's boundaries.

However, on third and final reading, concern shifted to which counties would actually be included. Simpson offered an amendment exempting Midland, Glasscock and Borden counties, in addition to Garza, Dickens and Crosby counties, which were already excluded from the district.

However, Rep. Jay Gibson of Odessa offered an amendment establishing an annexation and deannexation procedure for the district.

With that amendment adopted, Rep. Tom Craddick of Midland, who had requested that Midland, Glasscock and Borden counties be taken out, changed his mind and asked that Midland and Glasscock be put back in.

The legislation created a legal entity with broad powers to make an imported water supply available within its bound-

Simpson told House members there was not yet a definite water import plan, but Arkansas River water imported through Oklahoma was a possibility.

House and Senate spending bill negotiators made deals today that will give state prison guards a pay raise of about 20 percent, but took away $6 million from a proposed new West Texas prison

Otherwise the general appropriations conference committee generally gave the Texas Department of Corrections what it asked in differences between the House and Senate bills.

By taking the Senate verson, the committee agreed to pay raises of about 20 percent for correctional or security officers. There was testimony that annual turnover in such employees is as high as 85 percent. The House had rec-See HOUSE AIDS Page 14

Zoners Block Parking Lot; Suit Hinted

Avalanche-Journal Staff
The Zoning Board of Adjustment this morning sent the First Baptist Church back to the drawing board on its plans to use three lots in the 2200 block of 13th Street for additional parking.

The decision was an apparent victory for the Overton South Neighborhood Association, which opposed the parking lots because the site is occupied by two houses it wishes to have declared land-

Church representatives based their need for the additional parking space on proposed construction of a Family Life Building east of the church sanctuary, plans never revealed until this morning's

The zoning group, however, decided that the church already has more than adequate parking and alternative parking arrangements.

Following the unanimous decision, church attorney Bob Moody said it violates constitutional guarantees of free-dom of religion and intimated the church may appeal the decision to district court.

He said previous Supreme Court decisions have said cities can exercise police powers, but not zoning powers, against churches.

Reuel Nash, who represented the church at the meeting, said the church planned to build a Farnily Life Center which would occupy three-fourths of the block on Broadway, immediately east of the current church sanctuary.

The building would be constructed on what is now church parking and ne-cessitate additional parking to meet city standards that the church provide 600 parking spaces.

Refering to ZBA denial of a church request to use residential lots on 14th Street for additional parking; Nash said the church attempted to secure property on 13th Street where the church already has some parking.

The houses on two of the 13th Street lots have been sold to buyers who planned to move the houses to other property in Lubbock, Nash said.

Gold Prices Set Record In Europe

LONDON (AP) - The price of gold hit a record $257.85 an ounce in London today. The dollar, meanwhile, gained marginally in Tokyo and was generally firmer on European money markets.

Gold closed Wednesday in London at $256.25, a record close for the market, and then opened today's trading slightly higher at $256.375.

After climbing to $257.85, London's five major bullion houses fixed the price for the morning trading session at a slightly easier rate of $257.55.

In Zurich, the metal was quoted at $257.625, up from the market's record close of $256.625 Wednesday and the previous all-time high of $257.125 hit in

Bullion trading was decribed as be coming brisker as the morning wore on. Some operators now believe that before the end of the year there will be a lot of speculative activity in gold. The higher tone was initially prompted by a steady close in the New York market overnight on speculative buying. Both there and in London, reaction con-tipued bullish to Tuesday's monthly sale of gold by the U.S. Treasury.

Market sources said that fairly high average auction prices had been favorably received by traders. But the reduced amount offered by the Treasury and plans by the International Monetary Fund to cut its monthly offering were perhaps even more important in stimulating the demand for gold and the consequent higher prices. The dollar closed in Tokyo at 215.125

Texans Sell Maternity Wedding Gowns

SAN ANTONIO (UPI) - Necessity is the mother of invention. So it was probably inevitable in these times that someone would begin marketing maternity wedding gowns. Dianne Horne and her daughter, Marcia Menn, said they were only responding to demand when they introduced gowns for pregnant brides in the nation's 10th largest city. The two women said they discovered the demand among unmarried pregnant women they encountered in their one-year-old wedding consultant business, which they operate in conjunction with a Las Vegas-style chapel at their motel that features soft-core pornographic movies in every room. The Horne family for the past four years has made a success of the unconventional, and they hope their line of maternity bridal gowns will be as profitable as the 170-room San Antonio Inn has nude, simulated sex films a day over television sets in each room. Horne, father of 12 children, displays figures showing that gross income of the motel has tripled, and he regards the chapel-wedding consultant business as a public service, one that fills a void no

Mrs. Horne and her daughter are proud of their line of "Richelle and Dinky Dresses," done in ivory and candlelight colors for brides and their maids, including a selection of those designed especially for the bride in the family way. They also have created a cowgirl wedding dress and Mrs. Horne said, "We're getting read to come out with a bridal pants suit."

The women will introduce their fall line of dresses to the rest of the state in a May 26-31 display at the Apparel Mart in Dallas.

Weddings at the chapel often unite couples who cannot have a regular church wedding because of religious beliefs, former divorces or pregnancy. GAO Lashes Out At Interior Department

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's costly effort to save endangered species from extinction is so poorly managed by the Interior Department that it threatens some of the very critters needing protection, the General Accounting Off-

In a draft of a report scheduled for release in June, the GAO said in some cases officials deliberately kept species off the endangered list to avoid another Tellico Dam-type controvery.

GAO investigators charged that officials decided against listing species of the cave harvestmen (daddy longlegs) as endangered because to do so might halt work on the New Melones Lake project, a $375 million facility in California.

The Environmental Defense Fund requested such a classification, saying completion of the project could result in the extinction of one species of the spider-like creature

But the GAO report quoted the program manager as saying listing the cave harvestmen as endangered would "create another 'Tellico incident' where seemingly insignificant species would stop construction of a nearly completed

The Interior Department, which administers the program through the Fish and Wildlife Service, specifically denied the allegation about the cave harvestmen, saying officials had decided there was not enough evidence to justify listing the species as endangered. They said the judgment has been vindicated with the discovery that the insect lives in other caves not threatened by the New Mel-

The agency, which is spending $15.7 million on the program this fiscal year, also responded with a lengthy critique of the GAO report, which one spokesman characterized as a "burn rap."

In a letter to the GAO, Larry Meirotto, assistant secretary for policy, budget and administration, wrote:

"I wish to make it clear that in our opinion the report is in need of extensive revision and the data are in need of extensive re-analysis before the report can attain an acceptable standard of accuracy and soundness."

Controversy over the Endangered Species Act heightened several years ago in a dispute that centered around the Tellico Dam in Tennessee and the snail drter, a small endangered fish species.

The Endangered Species Act prohibits work on federal construction projects that pose a threat to endangered plant and animal species. A court ruled that work on the dam must halt because failure to do so would threaten the snail darter with extinction.

In its study the GAO said it found 'serious management deficiencies" in the Interior Department-run program 'jeopardized the existence of some endangered and threatened species and resulted in the possible selective extinction of others.

For example, the report said program officials:

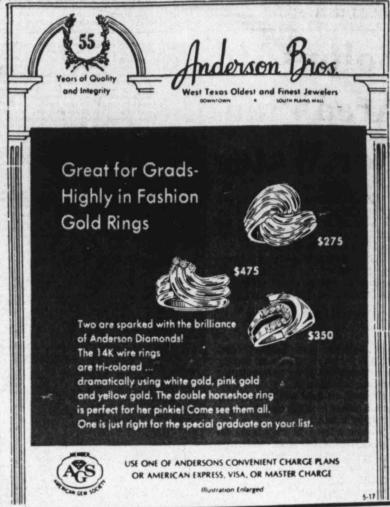

-Classified 95 species as endangered even though they did not face a high degree of threat to their survival.

-Listed 134 species facing only "me-

An Ogaliala Water Import Authority bill cleared the Texas House of Representatives and went to the Senate, where there is barely enough time to get it passed this session if Sens. Bob Price of Pampa and E.L. Short of Tahoka really work at it.

Even if signed into law by Gov. Bill Clements, the bill would be merely an early milerost in the race to import integration water.

lepost in the race to import irrigation water to the Panhandle-South Plains from Arkansas before we run out.

IT WOULD BE a most significant milepost, however. The 45-page measure would become a new chapter in the Texas water code setting up a legal entity to contract for water from other states if and when such water is available.

This action would be a signal to Arkansas that there would be a market for its surplus water. There is reason to believe that Arkansas and Oklahoma, through which the water would be channeled to this region, would find sufficient economic advantages for them to announce ready to participate in such a project.

WASHINGTON-OK, so who's telling the truth? Are the Big Oil companies ripping off the American public or aren't they? How in the world is the average person supposed to resolve

this important question?
Well, it's difficult, but it's not impossible. And

28 years ago, in 1951, author Rudolf Flesch provided us with a good rule of thumb to help deal with just such a controversy.

In his book, "The Art of Clear Thinking," in a chapter titled "How Not To Be Bamboozied," he wrote:

'The most practical defense against fallacies is herefore to use two labels, one for irrelevant toints that should be dismissed and one for rele-

WHENEVER YOU hear someone denouncing

oil company profits in general as "obscene," "excessive" or a "rip-off," the first thing to remember is this: A one-quarter profit figure does not tell the whole story. This figure, in and of itself, is not sufficient data on which to make a judgment. This leads us to Flesch's second label: "Specify."

When the size of an oil company's profits is inaracterized in a pejorative manner, look closely and see if the accuser answers the crucial queston: The profit is "too big" compared to what? I sually this information is lacking, and for a

A thorough study and understanding of the situation, however, in all probability will convince voters that water to replace the rapidly depleting underground supplies is a necessity to the continued economic growth of the South Plains area to which we have become accustomed.

More importantly, transferring water from where it's not needed to where it is needed can be the answer to avoiding what many experts fear may be a worldwide shortage of food and fiber, perhaps within the next generation.

America will need expanded food and fiber production in order to buy commodities needs from abroad to maintain a high ch a project.

Too Good To Be True Gimmicks Usually Are

FRAUD BY mail is big, big business, growing rapidly year after year, showing no sign of diminishing despite all the efforts of the giant legitimate mail-order industry and of policing authorities to curb it.

And in fact, this type of fraud is sure to grow even faster when the U.S. economy stalls and joblessness begins to swell again.

Although only an estimated 1 percent of the $60 billion-plus a year mail-order industry is condemned as part of the swindling fringe, this comes to a minimum of $600 million ann no meager take. And experts chart the rise frauds steadily upward from $515 million in 1977 and under $400 million in 1976.

What's more, the published figures on mail fraud don't even begin to measure the degree to which consumers are being victimized.

LESS THAN 5 percent of all victims report it when they've been fleeced through the mails, a Postal Service spokesman observes. Meaning: estimates of gyps via mail-order get-rich-quick schemes may be indicating only the tiniest slice

Most significant, as the economy's slowdown forces up the unemployment totals, countless numbers of you will be lured into "investing" your savings in subtle get-rich schemes that are nothing more than ripoffs: the real estate scam, the easy-to-make-money-at-home promise, the free-offer swindle, some franchise hoaxes.

Whoever you are, wherever you are, you are a potential target. But particularly vulnerable are the elderly, the handicapped and the over-45 job-less. You may be naive or greedy, rich or poor no matter.

THE WORDS that will tempt you will be "no risk," "money back," "guaranteed," "you can't lose."

companies to prevent them from getting too much money under decontrol, President Carter has been saying things that are untrue! Not surprisingly, the centers of the major mail frauds are also centers for advertising and communications—New York, Chicago, Los Angeles. New York City rates the dubious title of the capital of mail-fraud schemes, accounting for as UP IN NEW Hampshire the other day, Carter stated flatly that "oil companies want all the money for themselves." This is a preposterous much as one-third of mail-fraud complaints, the U.S. Postal Service notes—possibly because it is the heart of the advertising industry.

New York also has the record for cracking down hardest on mail swindlers with a higher incidence of arrests, convictions and jail sentences than anywhere else in the nation.

Getting started on a mail-fraud scam may be easiest in New York, but the risks are the highest

WHILE PROSECUTORS push vigorously for stiffer jail penalties for the convicted mail swin-dler, the fact is that the potential profits in these shady ventures are so great that the gypsters are willing to accept the risks.

And it is so easy to set up a mail-order opera-tion that a swindler—as well as a legitimate busi-ness owner—can establish a base virtually any-

What it comes down to is your own awareness that you are a possible victim, and your own of a ripoff. Here's how to minimize your risks: Ask the company to substantiate its claims. You may never again hear from the promoter of what you suspect is a questionable offer (such as a miracle hairgrower) simply by this one move.

* Be highly skeptical of ads that provide "easy money" or dangle a similar lure.

 Do not buy into any venture on impulse. First, shop your local stores, compare the item offered to you via mail with other comparable items in the stores. Check prices.

 When buying through the mail from a source that is new to you, request a catalog. Test the source by purchasing an inexpensive item from the catalog. This will give you a reliable clue to the quality of the merchandise.

Before you sign any contract, study it carefully against the ad that appealed to you for contra-dictions (if not outright lies). Do the same with any promotional literature

IF YOU FEEL you have been misled, write the company about your complaint. If you get no reply after two or three weeks, write the local Better Business Bureau, the Federal Trade Commission, your local postal inspector, and the Direct Mail-Marketing Assn., headquarters in New York City. State where you first saw the ad.

Summarize your experience. Provide the company name, address, ad claims, where the ad appeared and how much you may have lost. It may be too late for you to recover-but you'll help safeguard others against similar exploitation.

In sum: beware the mail-order swindlers now swarming across the land; and be on guard against even tougher gyps.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Will President Carter lose face by flying to the Orient next month in his Boeing 707 -Air Force One - if the accompanying press corps uses one of the newer, much larger jumbo jets?

This has been a topic of serious discussion around the White House as planners prepare for Carter's long journey to Japan and South Korea.

The press corps, which is billed by the White House for the chartered airliners it uses, normally travels abroad in two 707s. But a single wide-body jet could accommodate the entire corps.

For this and other reasons, the White House transportation office would like to switch to jumbo charters on long

Tentative Planning

The itinerary for Carter's Far East trip has not been announced, but here's how the tentative planning looks:

Carter is expected to return via Hawaii, with a possible three-day respite there that could extend the trip.

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) - "Just who is this mysterious Mr. Diller?" Sue Riordan once asked herself.

But Miss Riordan, assistant communications director nor Gov. Lee Dreyfus, no longer looks for Mr. Diller at cabinet meetings. She's become hep to the lingo of state government.

Mr. Diller is not a human, as she found out. Mr. Diller is really DIHLR, an acronym for the state Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations.

"I remember at cabinet meetings I used to hear things like, 'Let's give that one to DIHLR," Miss Riordan said this week. "I kept looking around the room for Mr. Diller. I honestly thought he was a cabinet officer and I wondered why he was never at a meeting."

'Then there was 'ELF,'" Miss Riordan said. "I thought maybe it had something to with a Milwaukee sausage company that has little elves that make sausages in the dead of night."

ELF is not that kind of elf. It is ELF. Extremely Low Frequency, the name for a controversial underground communications grid the Navy wanted to put in northern Wisconsin. "And 'SCERB," Miss Riordan said.

Water Fills The Bill of getting America's water from areas where it is in surplus to areas where it can be put to productive use took a timid forward step

Tahoka really work at it.

Even if signed into law by Gov. Bill Clements, the bill would be merely an early milepost in the race to import irrigation water to the Panhandle-South Plains from Arkansas before we run out.

IT WOULD BE a most significant milepost, however. The 45-page measure would become a new chapter in the Texas water code setting up a legal entity to contract for water from other states if and when such water is available.

This action would be a signal to Arkansas that there would be a market for its surplus water. There is reason to believe that Arkansas and Oklahoma, through which the water would be channeled to this region, would find sufficient economic advantages for them to announce ready to participate in truth? Are the Big Oil companies ripping off the American public or aren't they? How in the world is the average person supposed to resolve

this important question?
Well, it's difficult, but it's not impossible. And

28 years ago, in 1951, author Rudolf Flesch provided us with a good rule of thumb to help deal with just such a controversy.

In his book, "The Art of Clear Thinking," in a chapter titled "How Not To Be Bamboosled," he

"The most practical defense against fallacies is therefore to use two labels, one for irrelevant points that should be dismissed and one for relevant points that are missing. Let's keep these la-bels simple. Let's call one of them 'So what?' and the other 'Specify.'''

WHENEVER YOU hear someone denouncing

oil company profits in general as "obscene," "excessive" or a "rip-off," the first thing to remember is this: A one-quarter profit figure does not tell the whole story. This figure, in and of itself, is not sufficient data on which to make a judgment. This leads us to Flesch's second label: "Specify."

When the size of an oil company's profits is characterized in a pejorative manner, look closely and see if the accuser answers the crucial question: The profit is "too big" compared to what? Usually this information is lacking, and for a

THE LONG. PAINFULLY slow process voters in the area overlying the Ogallala underground water reservoir-from the top of the Panhandle to the Permian Basin-would have to vote to create the water authority permitted by the House-passed legislation.

Such an authority, if approved by a majority of the voters, would be empowered to levy a tax, contract for water and sell it to farmers, municipalities, industries or other

IT'S ALL A VERY complicated process, one fraught with difficulties at every step of

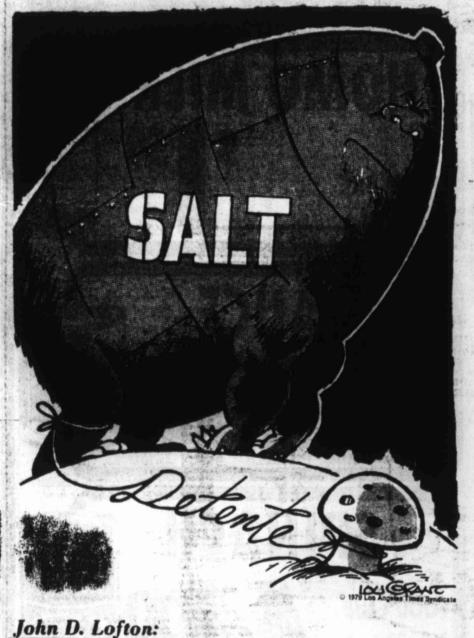

A thorough study and understanding of the situation, however, in all probability will convince voters that water to replace the rapidly depleting underground supplies is a necessity to the continued economic growth of the South Plains area to which we have become accustomed.

More importantly, transferring water from where it's not needed to where it is needed can be the answer to avoiding what many experts fear may be a worldwide shortage of food and fiber, perhaps within the next generation.

America will need expanded food and fiber production in order to buy commodities it needs from abroad to maintain a high ch a project.

Before any dirt could move, however, an opportunity that must be seized.

IF BIG PROFITS are bad per se, and if the assaults on the Big Oil are not primarily political, then where is the criticism of these profits?

In the first quarter of this year, the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad had a net increase in its in-

FRAUD BY mail is big, big business, growing rapidly year after year, showing no sign of diminishing despite all the efforts of the giant legitimate mail-order industry and of policing authori-

And in fact, this type of fraud is sure to grow even faster when the U.S. economy stalls and joblessness begins to swell again.

Although only an estimated 1 percent of the $60 billion-plus a year mail-order industry is condemned as part of the swindling fringe, this comes to a minimum of $600 million annually no meager take. And experts chart the rise frauds steadily upward from $515 million in 1977 and under $400 million in 1976.

What's more, the published figures on mail fraud don't even begin to measure the degree to which consumers are being victimized.

LESS THAN 5 percent of all victims report it when they've been fleeced through the mails, a Postal Service spokesman observes. Meaning: estimates of gyps via mail-order get-rich-quick schemes may be indicating only the tiniest slice Most significant, as the economy's slowdown forces up the unemployment totals, countless numbers of you will be lured into "investing" your savings in subtle get-rich schemes that are nothing more than ripoffs: the real estate scam, the easy-to-make-money-at-home promise, the free-offer swindle, some franchise hoaxes.

Whoever you are, wherever you are, you are a potential target. But particularly vulnerable are the elderly, the handicapped and the over-45 job-less. You may be naive or greedy, rich or poor no matter.

THE WORDS that will tempt you will be "no risk," "money back," "guaranteed," "you can't lose."

companies to prevent them from getting too much money under decontrol, President Carter Not surprisingly, the centers of the major mail frauds are also centers for advertising and communications—New York, Chicago, Los Angeles. New York City rates the dubious title of the UP IN NEW Hampshire the other day, Carter stated flatly that "oil companies want all the money for themselves." This is a preposterous capital of mail-fraud schemes, accounting for as much as one-third of mail-fraud complaints, the U.S. Postal Service notes—possibly because it is the heart of the advertising industry. Not one oil company has called for the repeal New York also has the record for cracking down hardest on mail swindlers with a higher inof the corporate income tax, which is what would money" or dangle a similar lure. . Do not buy into any venture on impulse. First, shop your local stores, compare the item offered to you via mail with other comparable items in the stores. Check prices.

WHILE PROSECUTORS push vigorously for stiffer jail penalties for the convicted mail swin-dler, the fact is that the potential profits in these shady ventures are so great that the gypsters are willing to accept the risks.

And it is so easy to set up a mail-order opera-tion that a swindler—as well as a legitimate busi-ness owner—can establish a base virtually any-

· When buying through the mail from a source that is new to you, request a catalog. Test the source by purchasing an inexpensive item from the catalog. This will give you a reliable clue to the quality of the merchandise.

Before you sign any contract, study it carefully against the ad that appealed to you for contra-dictions (if not outright lies). Do the same with any promotional literature.

IF YOU FEEL you have been misled, write the company about your complaint. If you get no reply after two or three weeks, write the local Better Business Bureau, the Federal Trade Commission, your local postal inspector, and the Direct Mail-Marketing Assn., headquarters in New York City. State where you first saw the ad.

Summarize your experience. Provide the company name, address, ad claims, where the ad appeared and how much you may have lost. It may be too late for you to recover-but you'll help safeguard others against similar exploitation.

In sum: beware the mail-order swindlers now swarming across the land; and be on guard against even tougher gyps.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Will President Carter lose face by flying to the Orient next month in his Boeing 707 -Air Force One - if the accompanying press corps uses one of the newer, much larger jumbo jets?

This has been a topic of serious discussion around the White House as planners prepare for Carter's long journey to Japan and South Korea.

The press corps, which is billed by the White House for the chartered airliners it uses, normally travels abroad in two 707s. But a single wide-body jet could accommodate the entire corps.

For this and other reasons, the White House transportation office would like to switch to jumbo charters on long

Tentative Planning

The itinerary for Carter's Far East trip has not been announced, but here's how the tentative planning looks:

An outbound flight via Honolulu that would put the president in Tokyo for the start of a state visit June 25. Then, after an economic summit there, a short hop to Seoul for a two-day visit to South Korea on the weekend of June 30.

Carter is expected to return via Hawaii, with a possible three-day respite there that could extend the trip.

Bureaucracies Have Unique Language

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) - "Just who is this mysterious Mr. Diller?" Sue Riordan once asked herself.

But Miss Riordan, assistant communications director nor Gov. Lee Dreyfus, no longer looks for Mr. Diller at cabinet meetings. She's become hep to the lingo of state government.

Mr. Diller is not a human, as she found out. Mr. Diller is really DIHLR, an acronym for the state Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations.

"I remember at cabinet meetings I used to hear things like, 'Let's give that one to DIHLR," Miss Riordan said this week. "I kept looking around the room for Mr. Diller. I honestly thought he was a cabinet officer and I wondered why he was never at a meeting."

And what about "the Joker?" Miss Riordan had trouble with that one too. "I wondered, who are they calling a dan said. "I thought maybe it had something to with a Milwaukee sausage company that has little elves that make sausages in the dead of night."

ELF is not that kind of elf. It is ELF, Extremely Low Frequency, the name for a controversial underground communications grid the Navy wanted to put in northern Wisconsin. "And 'SCERB," Miss Riordan said.

"Someone said SCERB is at the governor's residence today.' I thought it was a skin disease.'

Actually SCERB are the initials of the State Capitol and Executive Residence Board.

Broker Doubts U.S. Trade With China Will Reach $100 Billion

By LeROY POPE NEW YORK (UPI) - American trade with China will grow by 10 to 15 percent a year and may reach $3 billion by 1990, but talk of $100-billion volume is a "pipedream", says the president of the National Custom Brokers and Forwarders Association.

William R. Casey, who also heads Myers Group, Inc., New York customs brokers, said the dust has settled after the enthusiasm stirred up by renewal of diplomatic and trade relations with Peking and it is possible to see the picture in its real colors and perspective.

For a long time the trade will be nearly all one-way - exports to China. The question is how the Chinese will pay for them." he said. "They simply cannot sell us enough pig bristles, silks, rugs and food specialties to pay for all the things they need to buy in the United

He said the Chinese have a $350 bilhon shopping list for everything from basic feedstuffs to the most sophisticated machinery. But in addition to having a paucity of products to pay for these goods, their industry shows "a lack of urgency and discipline that is surprising in a communist country," Casey said.

This results in long delays in filling orders and in disconcerting price changes. He said Chinese government companies are decades behind their free enterprise competitors in Hong Kong, Taiwan and Japan in technology and business methods

The Chinese hope to borrow large sums in the Unitd States to finance purchase of American goods, but their previously negotiated trade agreements with Japan, West Germany, France and Britain may make this difficult. Peking's 13-year agreement with Japan alone amounts to $20 billion, Casey said.

This credit squeeze for the Chinese comes at a time when private banks in the United States and Europe are getting increasingly jittery about their existing loans to the communist countries in Europe and the sharp rise in the price Russia is charging these countries for

"Therefore," Casey said, "it might prove imprudent to extend loans to China, a nation at the bottom of the scale in economic development.

Forthcoming Book Tells Of Feud

NEW YORK (AP) - The late Martha Mitchell carried on a "cold war" with first lady Pat Nixon while their husbands conducted the business of state, according to forthcoming book on the out-Mrs. In excerpts from a book entitled 'Martha' in the

June issue of MRS. MITCHELL Good Housekeep-MRS. NIXON ing magazine, Mrs. Mitchell discussed the encounters that led to friction between the two women. The book was authored by Mrs. Mitchell's friend, Winzola McLendon

According to the book, the late wife of former U.S. Attorney General John Mitchell thought Mrs. Nixon was "aloof and cold," and the strain grew greater in 1972 when Mrs. Mitchell moved to New York.

Shortly after, the wife of then-President Nixon declined an invitation to a tea hosted by Mrs. Mitchell. Mrs. Nixon later relented, but Mrs. Mitchell never forgot, according to the report.

Soupy Sales Sues ABC

NEW YORK (AP) - Comedian Soupy Sales has demanded $500,000 in damages from ABC television because the network aired two programs with the word "Soup" in the titles. The entertainer said Wednesday the public knows him as "Soupy" and 'Soup" and that the network was seeking to "mislead and deceive" veiwers into believing he was on the program. He also said the network plans a television series with the word "Soup" in the title, creating potential competition for his own nationally syndicated "Soupy Sales Show." Besides monetary damages, the comic asked that the network be enjoined from using that word on any new pro-

Flatt Gives Estate To Nieces, Nephew

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) - Bluegrass singer Lester Flatt left half his estimated $350,000 estate in trust to his grandniece, a quarter to a niece and the other quarter to a grandnephew, says his lawyer.

Flatt, who died of heart failure Friday at age 64, left half the estate to Tammy Carolyn Herrin, 14, lawyer Grant Smith said Wednesday. A quarter went to Mrs. Brenda Green and the remaining quarter to Shane Lester Green, 4. Flatt's last will and testament was filed Wednesday in Sumner County Probate Court. Smith said Flatt, who was divorced about five years ago, made the will last Septem-

Ailing Brezhnev Greets Tito

MOSCOW (AP) - Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev reeted Josef Tito with a bear hug as he arrived in Moscow for four days of talks, but it was apparent the Yugoslavian president, 87 ths month, was in far better health than his 72-year-old host.

Brezhnev's health has noticeably deteriorated in recent months and the apparent strain with which he walked was magnified in contrast to Tito's energetic and vigorous Brezhnev gave Tito a warm welcome at Vnukovo airport, but there were no honor guards, airport crowds nor television coverage.

The talks are described here by foreign diplomats as a way to begin "fence-mending" between Moscow and Belgrade. Relations have been strained over Yugoslavia's support of Cambodia's ousted Pol Pot regime and denunciation of the Vietnamese-led invasion of that country. Soviet propaganda has accused Belgrade of siding with its rival, China, in the matter.

Florida House May Get Chance To Pass ERA Ratification Bill

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - The Florida House may get its fourth chance today to go on record in favor of ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment when a bill containing an ERA provision reaches the floor.

In a surprise move Wednesday, the House approved a proposal to make Florida the 36th state to ratify the ERA, setting the stage for another Senate showdown over the controversial amendment banning sex discrimination.

House members voted 59-49 for a ratification amendment by Rep. Elaine Gordon, D-Miami, which was attached to an obscure Senate-passed bill (SB267) by Sen. Jim Scott, R-Fort Lauderdale. The bill would change the time limit for filing discrimination complaints with a state agency.

Rep. Gordon said she added the measure to Scott's bill at the urging of the Senate ERA sponsor Sen. Jack Gordon, D-Miami Beach.

Because of complicated procedural rules, that maneuver is expected to set up a floor vote on the ERA when the bill returns to the Senate with the House amendment. The Senate has been the traditional stumbling-block for the ERA in Florida, twice rejecting the measure on the floor and this year blocking it in the Rules Committee.

The proposal has been passed three times by the House.

The Equal Rights Amendment, which would outlaw discrimination based on sex, must be ratified by 38 states by June 30, 1982, to become part of the Constitution. The original deadline was March 22, 1979, but was extended by act of Congress.

The ERA has been approved by 35 states, but five have since rescinded approval. The validity of that move still is in question and the Justice Department has said it is up to Congress to decide. The states that have rescinded approval are South Dakota, Kentucky, Tennessee, Idaho and Nebraska. Kentucky's action was vetoed. however.

House Leaders Delay Canal Bill Action

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The House today narrowly defeated a conservative challenge to legislation implementing and financing the Panama Canal treaties and House leaders immediately delayed further action on the bill.

In what amounted to a preliminary test vote, the House voted 200-198 to approve the procedures under which the Debate had been scheduled for next week, but was quickly put off for at least two weeks.

The legislation finances and implements the treaties under which the Panama Canal will be turned over to Panama by the year 2000. The charges and evidence that the Panamanian government was providing guns to guerrillas in Nicaragua hurt "obviously a great deal," Murphy said.

Although the vote keeps the bill alive, it is a clear indication that the legislation is in serious trouble and may either be defeated or amended in a hardline fashion that would be unacceptable to President Carter.

Conservatives led by Idaho's two Republican congressmen, George Hansen and Steve Symms, urged the House to defeat the procedures and force the House Rules Committee to come back with procedures that would make it easier for a more conservative bill to pass. The version of the bill favored by Hansen and Symms would force Panama to pay the entire costs of the treaty.

"It's time to send a message downtown (to the White House) that the United States is tired of being pushed around," said Symms.

Under the bill favored by House leaders. Panama would receive payments of 30 cents for each ton that moved through the canal - about $55 million in the first year - plus up to $30 million a year in other payments including a 'fixed annuity' of $10 million a year.

Tolls would have to be increased about 33 percent to make up for additional expenses.

The legislation also would provide for the transfer of U.S. property to Panama and would set up a Panama Canal Commission to run the canal during the tran-

- A "respite care" bill aimed at providing temporary emergency care for elderly persons who normally are cared for by another elderly person, such as a daughter or sister. The study found that when the younger caretaker is ill, the older person often has no alternative other than to enter a nursing home. The bill would provide $1.9 million for such temporary care.

U.S. District Judge Hubert Teitelbaum last week dismissed lawsuits and countersuits the two food giants had filed against each other since 1976 involving charges of illegal pricing techniques, deceptive advertising and discriminatory promotions.

"It involves the original suit, the counterclaim and the counter-counter claim. Everything," said S. Donald Wilev, vice president, secretary and general counsel for Heinz.

The alleged abuses included:

-A 1969 Federal Trade Commission finding - first brought to the FTC's attenton by Heinz - that Campbell television advertisements used glass marbles in soup bowls to make the garnish stand out and its soup look thicker.

-And a federal Food and Drug Ad- were proved.

ministration seizure of cases of Heinz ketchup - at the instigation of Campbell - to check for excess tomato rot.

Wiley said Teitelbaum dismissed the suits after an out-of-court settlement between the rivals. Neither Heinz nor Campbell would disclose the terms of the agreement, but both sides were ordered to bear their own costs, expenses

"In the opinion of the company, the settlement will have no material impact on the earnings of Campbell Soup, Campbell spokesman Scott Rombach

We will not discuss the terms of the settlement. We don't see any reason to do it." Wiley said.

The court duel began in 1976 when Pittsburgh-based Heinz charged Campbell, based in Camden, N.J., with monopolizing the soup market. Heinz, which abandoned brand-name soup sales in 1973, asked for $105 million damages, to be trebled if antitrust law violations

Heinz said it had a 12 percent share of the canned condensed soup market and claimed Campbell controlled 80 percent. Heinz still markets some private-label

Wiley would not comment on whether the settlement would pave the way for Heinz to re-enter the brand sou market. "That's speculation," he said. "I don't know."

After Heinz filed the first suit, Campbell retaliated with a countersuit, claiming Heinz monopolized the institutional ketchup market. The suit charged Heinz refused to sell ketchup to food service customers unless they agreed to buy other company products.

Heinz responded to that $15.5 million suit with a complaint that Campbell used the same alleged technique to push its vegetable drink, V-8 juice.

Not all the rivalry between Campbell and Heinz has been in the courtroom.

In 1978, the Food and Drug Administration seized 24 cases of Heinz ketchup after Campbell alleged that it found excess tomato rot in routine checks for its Hanover Trail restaurants. "We called it to the attention of Heinz and when they did nothing we alerted the FDA," Rombach said at the time.

AdvertisingA Legal Service

NEW YORK (UPI) - The storefront

lawyers' shop that advertises its services seems to be catching on.

Jacoby & Myers pioneered the retailing of legal services in California and its 24 offices there represented 30,000 clients last year.

"The business definitely was profitable to the company and the lawyers who work for us under a combination salary arrangement, and our and prolit-sharing arrangement, and our fees were about half to two-thirds those a legal firm would have to charge under the conventional system," said Gail

Miss Koff is eastern managing part-ner for Jacoby & Myers which now has 11 offices in the New York metropolitan area. These offices handled cases for 3,-500 clients in the first quarter, she said.

Large-scale advertising is a key to the company's success, she said.

Other firms operate similar storefront legal shops that advertise for clients but Jacoby & Myers had a head start. Founded in 1972, it was ready to move when a 1977 Supreme Court decision made advertising possible.

The firm tried selling its storefront services without advertising, "but we just couldn't make any impact on the public here in the east until the Supreme Court decision permitted us to start advertising on television and radio," Miss

The storefront legal shop provides an extensive range of services but those that can be advertised on anything resembling a price basis is less so because there are so many kinds of legal services where costs cannot be accurately estimated in advance.

The main thing the storefront legal shops do is "demystify" the legal process, Miss Koff said.

This is accomplished partly just by using the ground floor stores for offices rather like an income tax preparation service. Compared with the typical law firm's more or less fancy suite in a high rise building and its "arm's length" public image, this puts people at their ease.

A little over half Jacoby & Myers' clients are female, most are in their late 20s or early 30s although people of all

American pilot held for ransom by Indians for 17 days escaped and was arrested by Colombian troops. He said he was kept in a goat-killing pen and sometimes dragged into a cactus patch and held at

The pilot, Roy McLemore of Houston, fled Tuesday from the house in the town of Maicao where he was being held, jumped into an army jeep he saw driving down the street and was taken to the army base near Riohacha, about 50 miles west of Maicao.

In the jeep were four Colombian soldiers dressed as civilians who cruised by the house after Dale Everitt, a Houston fire department representative, negotiated with the kidnappers in a Maicao park.

The kidnappers demanded $100,000, but Everitt refused to hand over any money until he saw McLemore alive. The kidnappers finally drew a map of the area where McLemore was held and said he would appear on a street corner.

McLemore's companion, William Spradley, an 18-year veteran of the Houston Fire Department, has been under arrest in a Riohacha hospital with a

Officials said charges against both men of illegal entry into Colombia probably would be disposed of today. They said if found guilty they could be fined from $2,500 to $125,000.

McLemore and Spradley claimed they were en route to Venezuela April 29 to pick up drilling bits for remanufacture in the United States when their twin-engine plane developed engine

McLemore was not heard from until Saturday, when one of the kidnappers called Everitt, who was staying in a hotel in Barranquilla, about 150 miles west

Meanwhile, today's edition of The New York Times quoted Jerry Corbit, chief of the Federal Drug Enforcement Agency's field office in Houston, as sayleged marijuana-smuggling on planes flown by Houston firemen. The Times reported the government sources said a federal grand jury in Houston would call several members of the fire department

In Houston, Corbit was reported to be out of town but Bill Atkins, a special agent in the DEA field office, said he knew of no general investigation of alleged drug smuggling by firemen.

Atkins said the agency does have an interest in the Spradley matter and is investigating to determine if there is any U.S. Attorney Tony Canales refused to confirm or deny a Houston federal grand jury would investigate.

"I'm not going to comment," Canales Houston Fire Chief V.E. Rogers said he had no knowledge of an investigation beyond the Spradley case. Rogers, a licensed pilot, said he knew "just a couple of other pilots" among

Fire Department personnel. "And one of them hasn't flown in over two years," he said.

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (AP) - A special presidential commission investigating the Three Mile Island nuclear accident voted today to cancel testimony by state officials and utility executives until it can conduct hearings under oath.

The commission voted 8-3 to cancel hearings today and Friday. All 12 members later said they would hear no further witnesses untl Congress grants subpoena power.

However, the panel said it would conduct a tour of the crippled facility later today as scheduled and would hear from area residents on Saturday.

We have been lied to and the only way to get the truth is under oath," said Anne Trunk, a Middletown housewife who is a commission member.

Earlier, John Kemeny, chairman of the blue-ribbon panel appointed by President Carter to investigate America's worst nuclear accident, said the commission had "run into a number of roadblocks" that would hurt the panel's professor at Columbia University. "I don't see how we can maintain our credibility if we can't swear witnesses. If we proceed under those circumstances, we leave ourselves open to the charge that we are a pussy cat commission," she added.

"One of the chief issues is our credibility," said Carolyn Lewis, a journalism

Gov. Dick Thornburgh and other state officials had been scheduled to testify today before the panel toured the crippled facility just three miles south of here. But Thornburgh left while the panel debated whether to start.

"We're not going to wait around while they debate this thing," said press secretary Paul Critchlow, who said the governor had other appointments.

Commission officers have contended they would need subpoena power for their investigation of the March 28 accident, which spewed radioactivity into the air and raised fears of a disaster.

White House attorneys reportedly have been working to obtain subpoena power. But late last week, Dan Tate of President Carter's congressional liaison office, said no sponsor had been found for legislation to grant such power.

On Wednesday night, Kemeny, president of Dartmouth College, called the White House in hopes of pushing the legislation. But he apparently made little

The presidential commission is one of nearly a dozen groups in Congress, the federal government and the nuclear industry examining the Three Mile Island accident. Scientists have said it was the closest any U.S. nuclear plant has come to having a melt-down of its radioactive fuel core.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission,

tion, has said the accident developed after a problem in the reactor cooling system and was aggravated by a combina tion of human and mechanical errors. As much as a third of the fuel in the reactor core appears to have been heavily damaged when the level of its cooling water dropped and the fuel was exposed, officials have said.

But the ramifications of the accident have gone far beyond the plant, which sits on an island in the Susquehanna River, surrounded by the rolling Pennsylvania countryside.

It has prompted a thorough government and industry review of safety pro cedures at all U.S. nuclear plants, dramatically intensified organized opposition to atomic power, and threatened the utility which owns the reactor -General Public Utilities - with possible bankruptcy due to losses related to the

Zoning Panel Blocks Church Parking Lot

ty into parking spaces would cause the neighborhood to begin to decay like the Overton addition north of Broadway. Glazner asked, "Who is to say the plan (to build the Family Life Center) will ever come to fruition?" saying it would be a "tragedy" in that case to tear down the houses to make way for asphalt.

"The need for parking does not now exist," he said. "The church has not established a present need.'

By continuing to expand its parking lots into Overton South, Glazner said the church is "cutting off its nose to spite its face, because what's good for Overton South is going to be good for the church.

Glazner said several alternatives existed to the church's current plans, including construction of a parking building, a parking basement or construction of a lot on Broadway further west.

Planning Director Jim Bertram told ZBA members they needed to weigh the possible injury to the neighborhood by permitting a change from residential land use to a parking lot and the need of the church for additional parking.

Board member Jim Mertes questioned Nash and other church representatives about how many spaces the church currently has available and how many the church would need if the Family Life Building is constructed. However, neither figure was available, the second, Nash said, because building plans have not been finalized on the new Asked about the church's position on a parking building, Nash replied it's "economics" that has kept the church from constructing such a building.

A parking building would cost $12-15 a square foot, plus the cost of the land to build, Nash said, while a ground level lot costs only what the land costs.

Church Administrator James Neyland said the church actually needs more parking than required by the city because an average of 500 college students are at the church during the Sunday morning services, but are not seated in the sanctuary, which is the basis of the city's requirements.

We need an additional 125 spaces for those students," he said.

Noting the church had spent $21,000 landscaping its parking areas and meeting city requirements on the lots, Neyland said "some of the houses right behind us are not as well kept as our (property)." The unanimous decision was greeted with applause from Overton South residents in the audience, but church officials wondered what their parking alternatives are now. Further negotiations with Overton South representatives may be in the offing, and, Neyland said, "court action is always a possibility in the future.' Meanwhile, the church will go for-ward with plans for the Family Life

Curb, a Republican acting in the Democratic governor's absence Wednesday, signed an executive order easing the state's gasoline shortage by permitting more lead in gasoline.

The president and his aides predicted the California gasoline situation will improve, and Brown said one administration action that will help is a decision to base fuel allocations on consumption in late 1978 and early 1979, rather than on figures from 1972. That would allow officials to take into account California's recent growth. Meanwhile, the long lines of cars at service stations continued, seemingly unaffected by a distribution plan adopted by several California counties under which cars can get gasoline only on alternate days, depending on their license plate numbers.

'It's even worse than vesterday said Los Angeles gas station attendant Sam Haddad. "We have very big lines today. They are stretched around the corner for two blocks."

In San Diego and San Francisco, lines averaged about a block, in Sacramento, Meanwhile, spokesmen for two service station operator groups said it was doubtful Brown's order for large volume dealers to remain open Saturdays or Sundays will have its intended effect.

"This new action is not an answer to the problem," said Jim Benson, president of the California Service Station Association, representing more than 1,200 Northern California stations. Steve Shelton, head of the Southern California Service Station Association, representing some 1,000 stations, said the order was a rational approach to reducing gas lines, but he hoped the public "doesn't have too high of expectations for this week-

Fuel Supply Expected To Last Over Holiday

Motorists in most parts of the country should be able to find enough gasoline to get them to and from their destinations during the Memorial Day holiday next weekend. But officials warn that a rash of panic buying could upset the delicate balance between supply and

New Jersey Energy Commissioner Joel Jacobson said the state was ready to implement an odd-even sales system like California's if necessary. But he said there would be no Memorial Day shortage if motorists conserve fuel now. "If there is mass panic buying, we will run low on supplies and be forced to go to rationing," he said. Maynard Schneider, public relations director for the Wisconsin division of the American Automobile Association, said: Obviously, it's getting tighter, as we had anticipated, as we approach Memorial Day. However, I still feel that at this point there isn't any reason for panic.

Western states including Montana, Wyoming and Colorado reported spot shortages, but no serious problems expected.

A different story came from Wally Waite, the owner of a Texaco station near Seattle, Wash. He said there will 'probably be stations open" during the Memorial Day weekend, "but finding them will be something else. Don't go any further than a tank of gas will take you and bring you back.

In Illinois, where Gov. James R. Thompson urged motorists to drive no faster than 50 mph to conserve gasoline, Bob Jacobs of the state Gasoline Dealers Association said: "Over the Memorial Day weekend, I wouldn't allow my family to travel anywhere they couldn't get there and back on one tank of gas."

Rudy Molnar of Pittsburgh, president of the Pennsylvania-Delaware Service Station Dealers Association, said: "The big cities will be hit by a supply shortage at the end of the month. Right now, it's still okay. The crunch will hit between the 22nd and 25th ... Some stations will

Gasoline Outlook

By The Associated Press

Here is a region-by-region look at gasoline supplies and the outlook for the

Memorial Day weekend

There have been apot shortages and heavy Sunday closings of gasoline stations, but no reports of lines like the ones in California.

Maine officials said there has been no panic buying so far, although some station owners predict lines on Memorial Day.

MIDDLE-ATLANTIC The situation seems to be worst in the Washington, D.C., area where auto club officials said panic buying in past weekends made things seem even worse than they were. Authorities said it was too early to predict what would happenduring the holiday weekend, but they said they expected only 10 percent of area service stations to be open this Sunday.

Service station operators in Pennsylvania, Delaware and Virginia said supplies would be tight over Memorial Day.

SOUTHEAST

No severe problems have been reported or are expected.

Peter Walley. Mississippi's fuel and energy coordinator, said the gasoline supply is "okay right now" and Maurice Myers of the Georgia Auto Club said. there were "spot shortages, but nothing serious" in the rest of the region including Georgia, Florida, the Carolinas, Alabama and Tennessee.

SOUTHWEST Many Oklahoma service stations have been closing Sunday, but some inde-pendents are staying open. Gasoline is expected to be available in all areas during the holiday weekend. Frank Henslee, director of the Arkansas Gasoline Retailers Association, said there have been no long lines or panic so far. CENTRAL

There are scattered reports of dealers running out of fuel in Ohio, but no widespread problems. In Illinois, however, the Gasoline Dealers Association said more than half its members have used up more than half their May allo-cations, with Memorial Day still to come. Association spokesman Bob Jacobs said people "already (are) hoarding gas."

Elizabeth Lunt, an AAA spokeswoman in Kansas City, said there have been no serious problems so far in Kansas and Missouri.

No severe problems are expected outside of California and, possibly, the Seattle, Wash., area, where 85 percent to 95 percent of the service stations are

James Manior, manager of the Montana Automobile Association, said, "At last report, stations thought they would get adequate fuel to last through

Tests Help Detect Cystic Fibrosis Gene

WASHINGTON (UPI) - A California research team has reported development of a blood test that shows promise as a means of detecting adult carriers of the gene that causes cystic fibrosis, the most common inherited killer of children.

If further studies confirm the test's reliability, it would be a major step in the effort to control the incurable disease that strikes an estimated one of every 1.500 babies born in the United

LUBBOCK AVALANCHE-JOURNAL—Thursday Evening, May 17, 1979—A-17 Revamped Phone System Brings Joy To Cairo

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) - There's joy in Cairo today, and not only over the peace with Israel. Suddenly the phones

"I picked up the phone and, believe it or not, I got a dial tone immediately," said newspaper reporter Hedayat Abdel-Nabi the other day. "It whetted my appetite for work.'

Her joy was shared by thousands of Egyptians living and working in down-town Cairo, where the decades-old telephone network was renewed with the help of a West German firm.

It spelled the end of years of daily phoning ordeals - no dial tone for hours on end, wrong numbers, crossed lines and, worst of all, broken lines.

Fixing part of Cairo's telephones was just a partial solution to one of many problems plaguing a country which for 30 years spent heavily on the military effort against Israel. Egypt has been able to devote very little to public services, even though these have been taxed by a population exploding at the rate of 2.6 percent a year.

Other problems persist with no im-daily life of citizens in the capital and many other cities much more than faulty

Power failures are an almost daily occurrence. So are water supply cuts and sewage leaks. Burst pipes and resultant puddles and ponds are taken care of quickly in central business districts and smart residential areas but left unat-tended for days in the overcrowded, poorer sections

To find solutions to these problems and the even more pressing ones of housing shortages and inadequate food production in a primarily agricultural-land is what President Anwar Sadat's Middle East peace drive was all about.

Now that the treaty has been signed and sealed, Sadat is out to get massive Western aid - $15 billion over five years - under a Marshall-plan-style program he fondly calls "the Carter plan."

Any traveler flying over Cairo is bound to notice it. In daylight it is a tidy ribbon of asphalt cutting across the city in an almost straight line, stretching about 3 miles from the center to the western suburbs. At night, it is two neat rows of bright yellow lights.

It is a new elevated freeway for vehicles and pedestrians, a bridge six lanes wide at some points. It almost cuts in half the distance old roads take east and west through Cairo and cuts transit time by more than three-quarters.

The freeway, completed earlier this year, is named "Oct. 6" for the starting date of the last Arab-Israeli war in 1973.

Motor traffic apart, artful Egyptians have put it to good use. It now serves as a promenade, especially in summer, in some ways similar to the French Riviera's famed Promenade des Anglais.

The "Oct. 6 bridge" spans the two branches of the Nile and overlooks the sprawling gardens of the Guezira Sporting Club on the island in between. It is on that section of the bridge that people go for leisurely walks, eating ice cream, sipping soft drinks and enjoying the cool, fresh evening air after a day's toil in 100-degree-plus temperatures.

Already on the drawing boards is an extension of the freeway to the eastern suburb of Heliopolis, a distance of about 5 miles.

For years, wealthy Arabs from oil states like Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Qatar were the darlings of Egyptian shopkeepers and taxi drivers. They spend lavishly for everything.

indermining the state.

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) - The thump of jackboots echoed across the city and a terrified young Jewess ran with her infant daughter through back alleys to the home of a Catholic neighbor.

Neither woman spoke. The young mother thrust her baby into the neighbor's arms and walked away.

The time was 1941 and Nazi troops were herding hundreds of thousands of Jews into the Warsaw Ghetto to facilitate their dispatch to extermination

Hours after giving up her baby, the young mother and her husband were rounded up. Two months later both died

But the baby's aunt survived and after the war went to the kind neighbor to reclaim the child.

The frightened woman said the baby had starved to death during the last days of the war. The aunt didn't believe her and began a 34-year search for her lost

After emigrating to the United States, the aunt returned often to Poland to pursue her detective work. Eventually she learned that the baby had indeed survived and had been given to the neighbor's childless sister.

Raised a Roman Catholic, the baby had been renamed "Maria" — the most Christian name her new mother could

It took more years to learn the address of Maria, now married with three children of her own. "Your family was kind to mine during the war and I would like to do something for you now," the aunt wrote, sending Maria an air ticket to visit the United States.

Upon her arrival, Maria was told the story of her past.

'It was a real shock to me," Maria said. "My aunt showed me a picture of my real mother and I looked just like her. In school my friends would teasingly call me 'Jewess' - now I know why.'

Maria's case is not unique. Thousands of Jewish babies were sheltered in Catholic homes and monasteries during the war. Many were baptized and brought up Catholics. Few ever learned their true family backgrounds.

When Maria left the States to return to her husband, she promised to write her newfound relatives. She never did, nor did she tell her husband of her dis-

'Soon there won't be any of us left,' said Alexander Zijdemarn, the 67-yearold administrator of Nozik Synagogue, the last synagogue still standing in Warsaw. "Now there isn't a Jew in Warsaw under 60.

Zijdemarn said he himself had no wish to leave Poland.

"I'm retired and I've got my pension and this part-time job," he said. "I would like to visit Israel but I can't get a passport."

Zijdemarn said the last Jewish wedding or Bar Mitzvah was "too long ago to remember."

The crumbling Novik Synagogue is currently being renovated, but Jewish leaders say they have difficulty raising the minimum of 10 male Jews necessary

"It's especially hard in winter when it's too cold for some of the older folks to come out," said Zijdemarn.

Find Good Deal In Small 'Repo' Scheme

And MYRON KANDEL

Some banks around the country have come up with a new idea that gives small investors the same break as the big guys - or have they?

It's called a "repurchase agreement" - certainly not a new item in the financial world, but one that normally requires at least $100,000 at most banks and as much as $1 million at others. Now, though, they're being sold for $1,-000 and less - and there's a big question of exactly what the buyer is getting and whether it's worth the money.

Repurchase agreements - called 'repos' in the trade - are contracts by which an investor buys securities (in this case, U.S. Treasury notes or bonds) from a bank and the bank guarantees to buy them back after a period of time and pay a set rate of interest.

Banks use them to gather in money which they use to make loans at higher rates than they have to pay out. For that matter, the Federal Reserve System uses repos as a tool of monetary policy, to put money into the banking system and

When they're sold in big amounts, regulators assume that everybody concerned is sophisticated enough to handle the details, so there isn't much regula-

Now, though, Union Planters National Bank in Memphis, State National of Maryland, First Pennsylvania Bank & Trust of Philadelphia and Amalgamated Bank in New York are offering repos to people who probably never heard of them before (Amalgamated sells them in $500 denominations for one-year, 18month and two-year terms - and pays only 8 and one-half percent), and that has aroused official interest

When a repo is sold, the bank uses securities it already owns, delivers them to the buyer and buys them back when the time comes. Treasury securities, though, aren't issued in $1,000 lots, so the buyers never see the notes or bills.

Instead, the bank sends them a certificate that represents their ownership. The securities themselves are deposited for safekeeping with the Federal Reserve and kept separate from the bank's own portfolio of bonds and notes.

The only security behind the deal is the bank's word. None of the money is kept in reserve and the cash is not protected by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. because it isn't a bank deposit (although the gain at the end of the year is ordinary interest and not a capital gain that would be taxed at a lower rate).

A First Pennsylvania spokesman said that if anything happens to the bank (admittedly not too likely, but remember Franklin National), investors would be protected by the securities they've bought. (A few hours after we spoke to First Pennsylvania, the bank announced it would stop selling repos after this

Federal regulators, we've learned, see two problems with the practice. First, the securities earmarked for small investors often aren't worth $1,000 anymore. They're older Treasury securities with low interest rates, so while their face value is $1,000, their market value could be 10 percent less.

that holds the securities doesn't know who the actual owners are. Those records are kept at each bank. In case of problems, ownership of the securities could become a battle with the FDIC.

Harvard Makes Big Change In Curriculum

CAMBRIDGE, Mass (AP) - Harvard University has unveiled a new curriculum for undergraduates that one of its authors says identifies for contemporary students "the skills, knowledge and habits of thought deemed to have general and lasting value."

The curriculum change, the first such eneral change in more than 30 years at Harvard, was approved last May by a 3-1 faculty vote. It requires students to take courses in five prescribed areas of study.

The new curriculum, to be fully installed at the nation's oldest college by 1982, is expected to be a model for similar changes by other liberal arts institu-

It sets course requirements in five major areas: literarure and the arts, historical study, social analysis, science, and foreign languages and cultures.
Professor Henry Rosovsky, who led the effort to revise the curriculum, said, "The core program is the first substantial reformulation of general education at Harvard in more than 30 years. It addresses itself to the perennial problem of defining intellectual breadth and identifying ... the skills, knowledge and habits of thought deemed to have general and lasting value.

There will be 55 courses in the core curriculum for freshmen entering next fall, and 29 additional courses the year after. Of the 84, Rosovsky said, 53 are completely new and 24 are radically revised. The remaining seven are substantially the same as courses currently of-

Rosovsky, who is dean of the faculty of arts and sciences, said students will take about one-fourth of their undergraduate courses from the core curriculum. Present undergraduates are not affected, but can opt to take courses from implement it. | More than 200 faculty members were involved during the past year in planning the curriculum, which includes comput er training as part of the science curriculum, and new programs in foreign langnages and cultures.

(If the banks stay in business and redeem the certificates on time, there isn't any problem. Regulators, though, have to worry about the other side.)

There's also a debate in Washington over whether the repos are securities that must be registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission. Comptroller of the Currency John Heiman, who regulates national banks, recently sent a letter to one of them with the preliminary opinion that they must be regis-

If that holds up, the banks will drop the idea like a hop potato. Bank securities are exempt from SEC registration (on the grounds that banks have enough regulators of their own), and if the repos should prove otherwise, the banks will quickly find some other way to raise

The Federal Reserve Board, which also isn't very comfortable with the scheme, is proposing a rule that would require banks to keep a reserve of 3 percent to bank up their guaranteed repurchase. That would turn some of them

It's easy to see why the banks like the small repo idea. It lets them get more money out of low-paying Treasury securities than they ever could get in the market. Then they can lend the money to commercial customers at much higher rates. They have to give a little of it back to the repo holders, but there's more than enough left to make it profit-

It's also a relatively cheap way to attract money. Banks have to pay about 91/2 percent on six-month certificates of deposit and they have to pay more than 10 percent to borrow from one another. The Fed's discount rate is 91/2 percent are clearly a good deal for the banks But the question is, are they good for the public'

In the past year or so an advocate has been named to the Small Business Administration, his express job being to present the small business position to other segments of the Washigton bureaucracy

A White House Conference on Small Business has been called for January 1980, and already the first of 57 meetings throughout the country have taken place, the aim being to make government more responsive.

A congressional study last November fairly well documented the claims by small business that it was a national resource being squeezed to death by big business, big government, big unions.

Not that much change has yet taken place, but some spokesmen for small business feel that at least they are getting the story across, which is more than they'd been able to do for many years.

What a story. In making proposals earlier this year for a Department of Small Enterprise, a group of regional small business organizations told it con-

Business schools now seek to accommodate those who think small. Scores of schools for entrepreneurs have been formed at universities just in the past three or four years. Entrepreneurship seminars proliferate.

One of the more successful of the "think small" institutions is the Hankamer School of Business at Baylor University at Waco, which for 20 years has been refining the teaching of small business management.

Writer Views U.S. On Superslab

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

Associated Press Writer
SHIRLEY; Ark. — Barreling down the superslab in a "purtied-up" 4-wheeler the other day, I thought of Walt Whitman and his "Song of the Open

A century ago this most original poet and ex-newspaperman sang of America's great beauty and diversity:
"You road I enter upon and look around, I believe you are not all that is here, I believe that much unseen is also here ... I Swear to you there are divine things more beautiful then words can tell.

Well, I hadn't missed it. It's still out there, that other America, that rich, rolling unique everyday land beyond the scope of the nightly news and the morning headlines, that world of ordinary but most extraordinary people who plant their mail boxes at places like Pee Dee, Desha, Bald Knob and Oil

In a modern song of the open road, the words to distill this diversity would be harder than ever to come by — in fact, a special vocabulary might have to

"How's it looking over your donkey?" a squall of radio static clarified itself into an incoherent sentence just as we passed a flea market named "House of

The driver of the rug-upholstered van in which I was riding reached for his microphone on the dashboard and allowed that it was "looking good all the way to the Rock, 'cepting for a big bad bear sitting by Exit 14. He's taking pictures, so smile real pretty when you go by.

Now if your handle was "Ink-Stained Wretch" (favored by newspaper folk) or "Land Baron" (most likely a real estate agent) or "Bionic Peanut - the Six Million Dollar Goober" (an affluent farmer), you would have no trouble with

You would know straight off that looking back over our shoulder (actually "donkey" connotes a more posterior portion of the anatomy) at the road we had just passed over, the superslab — the Inerstate — was clear of problems all the way to Little Rock, except for a state trooper manning a radar trap at Exit 14. Smile pretty was an injunction to get within the speed limit. This is CB Talk, the specialized language of citizen's band radio that is used these days to sing of America's traumas and splendors.

Up front in the van, where we sat in high backed swivel chairs and had individual rings to park our cans of Dr. Pepper, my driver-guide pointed out the passing scenic delights of the Ozarks. Wild turkey and quail pecking away along the road shoulder, farmers selling fresh strawberries from the back of pick-up trucks, a blizzard of dogwood blossoms painting imaginary ski slopes on a cloud-shadowed hillside. The Sunday morning circle of pickup trucks around each and every of the many Baptist churches and missions along the

"It's the dream of every boy and girl in Arkansas," my troubador of the open road informed me, "to own a pickup truck with silk screen picture on the rear window, a rifle over the back seat and a CB radio on the dashboard."

Right about here, as we left the interstate, an 18-wheeler, a trailer truck driver, rogered in to ask directions to Shaky City, which I learned was San

Before we could answer, a girl manning a base station at a truck stop farther up the road told him which exit to take, wished him "blue skies and green lights" and by way of drumming up some business invited him to "stop by and have some coffee with us." She was only soliciting restaurant customers, but it reminded me that a while back the New York State troopers abruptly curtailed the ministrations of some enterprising young ladies who were operating in the Port Jervis area under the CB handles of "Tons of Fun," "Chocolate Kisses" and "Joy to the World." As Walt Whitman noted long ago, the song of the open road can have some mighty earthy lyrics.

"Good buddy," I am told, no longer is the standard greeting for fellow wayfarers, unless you happen to be a consenting adult pursuing an alternate lifestyle that a while ago would have got you in big trouble with Smoky Bear, County Mounty and Local Yokel, as the various eschelons of police are called.

A few miles out of Shirley, Ark., the state police radio squawked with a poignant drama of highway robbery: "Be on the lookout for a blue pickup with Utah plates taken from in front of a diner in Shirley.

"When did the driver first miss it?" "When he went outside to get in it."

Eighteen wheelers, superior creatures, often can be quite rude to ordinary four wheelers in passenger cars. "Get off the air and go back to dirty phone calls, we need a bear report," a trucker intruded on some 4-wheelers who were discussing available facilities for a ten-200, the call of nature.

Coming out of Bald Knob, we spotted our first "fraidy hole," which is not in any CB dictionary. It is pure Arkansauce for a tornado shelter

'Fraidy holes," said my guide, pointing to a chimney without any house attached, "are for people who are afraid of tornadoes."

As it was to Walt Whitman, the song of the open road on the lips of everyday folks comes across loud and clear, barring a little static, as a manifesto to the ordinary man; the "divine average," as the poet called it, that lights up a

Examiner Supports Area Cooperative

Avalanche-Journal Staff

South Plains Electric Cooperative not Southwestern Public Service or Lubbock Power and Light - should serve an annexed area in southwest Lubbock. a Public Utility Commission hearing examiner has concluded.

Examiner Carolyn Shellman has recommended that the commission deny Southwestern Public Service Co.'s 1977 application to serve the 960-acre Meadows Addition roughly located west of Slide Road between 86th and 104th Streets and the western portion of the LakeRidge Country Club Addition at 84th Street and Vicksburg Avenue.

The three-member PUC is expected to act on the examiner's recommendations on May 29.

The City of Lubbock, made a party to the SPS application, was denied permission to serve the annexed area because city officials never applied for a certificate to serve the area.

City officials say they are puzzled by the examiner's recommendation because there is litigation now pending before the 7th Court of Civil Appeals in Amarillo to determine whether LP&L or the cooperative should serve the Meadows

After the co-op filed suit last year, District Judge William R. Shaver enjoined LP&L from serving the annexed area and the city appealed that decision.

Two weeks ago the co-op filed a similar suit, this time over service to the 160acre High Country Addition located between 98th and 107th Streets and be-

No action has been taken on that law-

The PUC examiner's report says SPS had asked the commission to find it is "without jurisdiction to certificate any utility to serve this area, jurisdiction over rates and services now being vested in the City of Lubbock.

'Southwestern's position was that the City has exclusive original jurisdiction over all rates, operations, and services provided by a utility within its boundaries and consequently the Com-mission has no jurisdiction to require Southwestern to obtain a certificate to operate within the City," the report

Because South Plains Electric Cooperative already was certificated to serve the 960 acres, the co-op contended the annexation of the area should not affect that service right.

Also, the coo-op's position was that the SPS franchise from the City of Lubbock "does not give it a legal right to serve the new area" and the co-op "was willing and able to provide adequate service to the new area.

Although the city did not apply for a certificate to serve the new developments, it contended "the Commission could issue a certificate even though no application was filed" and asked that it be allowed to serve the area alone, or

Since the co-op is not franchised by the city to serve the area, the city asked that the co-op be allowed only to serve "those connections in the area it was serving at the time of annexation.'

State

ence and necessity will not be served" by permitting SPS or LP&L to serve the area along with the co-op, the examiner relied heavily on a decision by the 3rd Court of Civil Appeals in Austin involving a Southwestern Public Service application to serve a third annexed area.

That February decision, involving the Bicentennial Addition west of University Avenue and south of 82nd Street, upheld the commission's denial of SPS' application to serve the area.

The court also held LP&L should not be granted a certificate to serve the area because the city failed to apply for one. Co-op attorney Dale Johnson said the examiner's recommendation, bolstered by the Court of Civil Appeals decision, will help in the co-op's fight against the City of Lubbock. However, Assistant City Manager

Airport Safety Plans Await FAA Approval

Local

Avalanche-Journal Staff
More than a million dollars in federal funds will be available to the Lubbock International Airport if the Federal Aviation Administration approves safety projects submitted earlier this year by airport officials, the airport board learned Wednesday.

Lubbock Aviation Director Marvin Coffee said $1.028 million would be available through the FAA's Airport Development and Assistance Program, which grants funds to airports who undertake FAA projects for safety and

The grant was awarded on the basis of the airport's 1978 boardings figures, said Coffee

Safety improvement projects submitted earlier this year to the FAA by the Lubbock airport included plans to improve the facility's runways and lighting

The board also approved a request by Airborne Air Freight Inc. to operate its franchise at the airport. Airborne, the second largest air freight forwarding company in the world, currently is represented in Lubbock by Sexton Enter-

Nolen Raising Funds For Religious Group

DALLAS (UPI) - The former president of North Texas State University, who resigned just prior to a legislative investigation into the school's finances, is now raising money for a religious organization

C.C. Nolen has accepted a fund raising job with the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), church officials announced Tuesday. They said Nolen accepted the job April 11, the day before he resigned his NTSU position.

Nolen resigned NTSU April 12, hours before he and three other school officials were to testify before the state House General Investigating Committee about charges of financial mismanagemet at the Denton university.

borne would place its own equipment and employees in Lubbock. The company would move its freight through commercial airlines already serving Lubbock for about a year, and then would begin to operate its own aircraft in and out of Lubbock, said representative Jack Sand-

Sanderson said he hopes to begin service under the Airborne name in about four weeks, pending city council

The board withheld action on a preliminary proposal by Harley Wilke to construct a hangar to house a jet rental agency on the airport's west side adjacent to West Tex Aviation.

That possibility will be considered at later date, after Wilke presents more detailed plans to the board

In other action, the board:

 Recognized the opening of a new parking lot north of the parking structure under construction, providing about 200 additional parking spaces. The new two story structure should be completed between Labor Day and Thanksgiving.

-Discussed the possibility of moving the airport police office into a larger facility inside the airport. That office currently is housed toward the airport building's north end.

-Recommended that the temporary chapel be moved. Further action on the recommendation will be taken at the next regular meeting.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: How many times have you heard grown children (usually married) say to their parents, "You are so hard to buy a gift for. We are running out of ideas." Well, this is an open letter to our children: DEAR CHILDREN:

I wish you would realize that we older parents don't need any more

Do you know what we would consider a really fine present? Just a simple meal in your kitchen with a chance to enjoy some conversation with you and our grandchildren with no one else

You invite us to big parties to celebrate birthdays, anniversaries and holidays, but it's always too crowded and noisy for conversation or visiting with the children. And you are too busy being host and hostess to even know we are

So instead of trying to find a fancy gift for Mom and Dad, please give us the gift of simple hospitality. We would love what else am I to think?

DEAR ABBY: I have a young friend whose wife died after they had been married only five years.

My friend has received numerous verbal requests, and more recently a handwritten one, from his late wife's mother asking that the wedding gifts (china, silver, crystal, etc.) be sent to the late wife's mother now that her daughter is gone.

The mother contends that since her side of the family (and their friends) contributed most of the gifts, they are now rightfully hers.

Does good etiquette demand that a surviving spouse give the wedding gifts to the relatives of the deceased when a death occurs several years after the wedding?

GENUINELY PUZZLED

Dear Puzzled: Wedding gifts are returned only if the marriage is dissolved within one year after it takes place. And then they are returned to the senders.

If a couple has been married for a year or more, and one dies, the wedding gifts become the property of the remain-ing spouse, unless otherwise specified in

DEAR ABBY: Do you believe that only the good die young? RUPERT IN TORONTO

Dear Rupert: Not necessarily. I'm more inclined to believe that only the YOUNG DIE GOOD!

DEAR ABBY: A friend recently invited us to her home for a salad dinner

Every guest was asked to bring Calad as well as a going-away gift for a mutualfriend who was moving

When we arrived, there were no less than 75 people standing around. There was no place to sit. The guests were trying to juggle their plates in one hand and coffee cups in the other. I am of the opinion that when you invite people to dinner you should prove them with a comfortable place to sal.

This was a building contractor's none. Maybe they just wanted to show it off to as many people as possible. Or perhaps: they wanted to round up as many out as they could.

I've had it. The next time they invite us. I'll say. "Thanks but no thanks." Pasadena, Tex.

Dear Pasadena: How does the little ditty go? "Fool me once, shame on you. Fool me twice, shame on me."

The bidding: East South West North 1 + Pass Pass Pass Pass Dpening lead: Three of ♥.

When there is only one ouit left in which the defenders have any hope to score some tricks, don't let some silly prejudice stop you from attacking that suit. Too many tricks have vanished into thin air because a defender didn't like leading from an ace or king, or some other unattractive holding.

North's jump to four spades was a little brash, considering that his partner made only a non-vulnerable overcall. However, there were too many hands South might have that would produce game but which would not merit acceptance of an invitational bid, so it was worth the gamble.

West led the three of hearts and East's ten forced the ace. Dummy's ace-king of clubs were cashed, declarer discarding a heart, and a low trump was led. The defense was at the crossroads.

Had East followed low routinely, declarer would have been home. He would lead a second trump, and the defenders would get no more than two diamond tricks to go with the trump ace. Fortunately for the defense, East took time out for a little arithmetic.

From his lead of a low heart, West was marked with four hearts, leaving South with an original holding of only two. This was reinforced by the fact that South did not take another discard on a high club before tackling trumps. Since declarer had only one club and two hearts, he had to have started with ten cards in spades and diamonds.

To defeat the contract, the defenders would have to score three tricks in diamonds. There was only one holding that would permit this: West had to hold precisely king and one dia-

Therefore, East flew up with the ace of trumps and shifted to a low diamond. West won the king and returned the suit to his partner's ace, and the diamond continuation allowed West to score a ruff for the setting trick.

Previous testimony has shown that when newspaper stories questioned whether Talmadge had overcharged the Senate for expenses, Minchew suggested, on June 13, 1978, that members of Talmadge's staff examine expense claims from 1973 and 1974.

That suggestion disclosed the existence of two checks worth $13,000 which ended up in the secret account in the Riggs National Bank of Washington.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) - A circuit judge refused to throw out the indictment charging Theodore Bundy with the murder of two Florida State University coeds and ordered the pre-trial hearing to continue next Monday

The next testimony will come from dental experts, called to compare dental impressions taken from Bundy with bite marks on the breast and buttock of one of the coeds he is charged with strangling last year.

Bundy, 32, a former Utah law student and native of Tacoma, Wash., has moved to keep the bite mark evidence out of Circuit Judge Edward Cowart rejected a defense argument Wednesday that the grand jury indictment was "tail by the prejudice of resident Circuit Judge John Rudd. Rudd was removed from the case by the Florida Supreme Court because of an incident not related to the indictment but involving a similar circumstance.

"We contend that all during the time (the grand jury was considering the muriders) we were before a judge that was not an impartial magistrate," Public Defender Michael Minerva argued.

He said Rudd lost his impartiality by getting advice from the state attorney general's staff that defense challenges ased on prejudicial publicity could be ismissed because they were filed after in increase in the publicity could be Cowart ruled that Rudd easily could have gotten the advice from a law book and Bundy suffered no harm.

Bundy is to go on trial June 11 on charges of strangling St. Petersburg so-rority sisters Lisa Levy, 20, and Margaret Bowman, 21, in their Chi Omega house beds last year.

The indictment also charged him with the attempted murders of FSU students Kathy Kleinert Deshields, 21, of Miami, Karen Chandler, 22, of Tallahassee and Cheryl Thomas, 22, Richmond, Bundy also faces trial in Colorado for the 1975 sex slaving of a Michigan nurse on a ski vacation at Aspen.

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) - Wheat and corr futures fell Wednesday on the Chicago Board of Trade, partly in response to improved weather and reports of progress in planting the spring crop.

Reports that the Soviet Union has made progress in planting its spring wheat crop, plus talk of improved planting and growing conditions in China, helped depress prices for wheat.

Traders surmised that sunny spring weather in the Grain Belt also will help farmers erase part of the planting delays that helped drive both corn and wheat prices higher in recent weeks.

City Moves To Slow Evictions verting rental apartments to condomi-- one of real estate's hottest - is an even more heated issue in a number of cities where the rush to buy apartments has displaced tenants and depleted the rental market.

Brookline, an affluent Boston suburb of 58,000, is the latest community to put the brakes on conversions, placing a ban on evictions of renters living in apartment houses converted o condomini

The move, coming after 15 percent of the town's rental units were "condoed," has been challenged by a group of property owners and prospective buyers who say the law is unconstitutional.

Brookline joins a number of other municipalities that have tried in various ways to slow down condominium conversions. They include:

New York, which requires approval of 35 percent of a building's tenants before apartments can be sold. -Washington, where conversions are allowed only in buildings where rent ex--Palo Alto, Calif., which ties condominium conversion to the vacancy rate of rental units. -Santa Monica, Calif., where conversions require official approval. In Chicago, where Mayor Jane Byrne listed a review of condominium laws as a top priority in her new administration.

"Dozens of local governments have placed restrictions on the conversion process in one form or the other," said James Dowden, head of the Comm Associations Institute, a Washingto clearinghouse for condominiums mers associations.

"It's an emotional issue because you're faced with moving people — fam-ilies have to buy or move." he said. "It tends to cause a quick response from political leaders.

Every community with multi-family housing is going to face the same ques tion in the next decade."

Brookline, a tree-lined community of expensive homes, brownstones and scattered high rises, has debated the pros and cons of condominums since 1970, the year rent control was instituted to stabilize high rents and a low vacancy

Landlords responded by turning their properties into condominiums. By this January, 1,532 of the town's 14,000 rental units had been converted — more than 500 of them in the last half of 1978.

Nationally, some 100,000 apartment units were converted last year, according to a recent stud by Citicorp Realty. The figure, nearly double that of 1977, is expected to jump to 130,000 this year. Condominium owners own full title to their apartments, owning their unit in the same way homeowners hold title to their houses. Common facilities in a condominium building, such as hallways and adjacent grounds, are held jointly by all condominium owners.

Apartment-condominiums are popular among those seeking an investment and a bulwark against inflation. But the conversions also represent a threat to renters who face evicition if they are unable or unwilling to buy.

"Rent control in Brookline was a result of a housing shortage," said Roger Lipson, director of the town's rent control board. "All condominium conver-sions do is exacerbate the problem. You can't simply sweep tenants under the carpet. The problem is if you kick peo-carpet. The problem is if you kick peo-ple out where are they going to go?"

The Brookline law, passed last week at the annual town meeting, was intro-duced by state Rep. John Businger, a Democrat whose two earlier attempts to get an eviction ban were defeated by Supporters had already won a temporary moratorium which would have expired June 15 if the vote had not supported the ban last week.

Businger, himself a tenant in a recently converted building, said he be-came concerned with the issue last year after receiving calls from older tenants threatened with eviction.

"It was obvious it was becoming an epidemic," he said. "Condominiums are fine as long as you are talking about new wise to me it's just a subtle form of a ban renewal that changes people instea of buildings."

Brookline's landlords, who say the law violates their property rights, complain reports of evicitions are greatly exaggerated. They point to brisk sales an an improved tax base as proof that condominiums are popular in the town.

"Of all the conversions, only 35 certificates of eviction have been issued," said Gerald Fineberg, a real estate man who heads Citizens for a Better Brook line.

"We offer all tenants preferred prices and generally when word gets around that we are converting, we have more tenants who want to buy than those who

Fineberg said landlords have also formed a committee to help relocate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Key congressmen are preparing a chilly welcome for President Carter's proposal to require that states pay 5 percent to 10 per-cent of future federal water projects.

Administration officials announced the measure Wednesday, saying it is aimed at heading off uneconomical or overly controversial dams, waterways and other projects.

But critics insist it would delay construction and hurt poor states.

"The whole purpose of the thing is to lelay water projects," said Rep. Ray Roberts, D-Texas, who promised to modify the plan when it reaches the public works subcommittee he heads.

He said the measure would clear his panel but "it's likely to be in such a form that they won't like it."

Rep. Tom Bevill, D-Ala., chairman of the appropriations subcommittee that handles spending for water projects, said Carter's plan would hurt poor states and "mire down the whole process" of approving projects.

"It takes a hell of a lot to get something through" a state legislature, he "The states don't have the monsaid

Even Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., who will sponsor the legislation in the House, expressed only guarded support

He said he supported the principle of state cost-sharing, but added, "I expect it to have tough scrutiny in the committees, as it should have.'

He said that without extensive hearfings it will be difficult to judge the im- duce revenue through the sale of such

The bill will likely be worked over both by the House Interior Committee, which Udall heads, and by the Public Works Committee, on which Roberts

Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus, who briefed reporters at the White House, predicted the measure would speed rather than delay construction by heading off environmental lawsuits through debate at the state and local level.

Andrus also predicted that the costsharing measure would win the support of those states "that do have good projects and are willing to put their money where their mouth is.

An underlying reason for congressional hostility to the measure is that it would cut into the traditional "pork barrel" from 'which senators and House members dole out federally financed projects.

With the requirement that state legislatures approve a project, members of Congress would be less able to push through pet projects. And with state taxpayers footing part of the bill, the dams and waterways would no longer seem "free" to the states that get them.

Environmental groups, traditional foes of federal dams, pressed for a requirement that states pick up as much as one-fourth of the cost, compared to the 5 percent to 10 percent proposed by Carter.

Carter would require states to pay 10 percent of the cost of projects that pro-

SALT Pact Leads To Friendly Talks

new signs the United States and Soviet Union are trying to be especially nice to each other now that the two nuclear powers have agreed on a treaty limiting strategic weapons.

Leaders of the two countries meet next month in Vienna, Austria, to sign the treaty, known as SALT II. Then comes debate in the Senate on whether to ratify the document.

Administration leaders have given the impression over the past few weeks that their task of winning the necessary two-thirds support in the Senate may be as hard as negotiating terms of the treaty with the Russians.

Against that background, President Carter said Wednesday he has had private indications from Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev that the Soviets are interested in starting talks immediately on a follow-up treaty that would impose still stricter limits on weapons.

For the United States' part, Carter has decided to push for new trade bene-fits for the Soviet Union — the so-called most favored nation status.

Carter made his remarks on the Brezhnev communication to a group invited to the White House to hear administration arguments favoring Senate ratification of the treaty.

Our own hopes have been that we could have much more stringent limits (than those in SALT II)," Carter said. Soviets have have lower limits now, but in my private correspondence with President Brezhately to initiate the SALT III negotia- acts formally.

WASHINGTON (AP) - There are tions with a specific goal of having even more limits.

> In New York, meanwhile, Georgi Arbatov, director of Moscow's Institute of the U.S.A., was asked during an appearance on Public Broadcasting Service's "MacNeil-Lehrer Report," whether the Soviets would accept a treaty amended by the U.S. Senate.

"We made all the compromises we can make," he replied.

A 1974 law known as the Jackson-Vanik Amendment barred the Soviet Union from trade advantages given most countries because emigration of Soviet Jews and other minorities was severely restricted.

There are differences of opinion among government leaders on whether the law requires written assurances from the Soviets that Jews will be allowed to emigrate freely or whether the relatively heavy flow of Jews leaving the country now is adequate evidence that the Kremlin qualifies for the economic

Land Measure Clears House

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Alaska lands bill is going to the Senate after a stunning victory in the House for President Carter and conservationists.

Despite intensive lobbying by oil, mining and timber companies, the House cleared the conservation-minded bill Wednesday on a 360-65 vote.

The "oil boys," said Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., were "outhustled and outworked" by lobbyists for such conservation organizations as the Sierra Club, Wilderness Society and National Wildlife Federation.

The result was a bill with strong provisions setting aside 110 million acres of federal land in the state as national parks, wildlife refuges and wild river corridors. Some 67 million acres of that land would be classified as wilderness. the strictest form of federal land protec-the rise in their costs this year. Carter has estimated the measure would save the nation as much as $50 billion over five years.

However, the Senate subcomittee changed the Carter bill to boost the amount by which hospitals could voluntarily allow their costs to rise without triggering federal controls. The administration's bill would have imposed federal controls on the patient fees hospitals charge if the institutions don't hold increases in their own costs to 9.7 percent this year. The health subcommittee raised that to 10.9 percent.

However, the administration had conceded all along the 9.7 percent was flexible, and would probably go higher as the inflation rate rose.

The American Hospital Association claims its voluntary cost-control program successfully reduced inflation in the Mospital industry from 15.8 percent in 1977 to 12.9 percent last year. But, the association's latest figures show hospital costs in January jumped 14.4 percent compared to the previous January.

The Senate health subcommittee ver-

More than half the nation's 6,000 community hospitals would be exempt from the proposed controls.

Firms Plan To Replace, Fix Hair Dryers

WASHINGTON (AP) - Eleven companies are planning to repair or replace millions of hair dryers that contain asbestos, a recognized cancer hazard when breathed by humans, federal documents

Consumer Product Safety Commission staff members were expected to report to the commission today on industry plans to get hair dryers containing asbestos out of consumers' hands

Staff documents, circulated to the four commissioners in advance and obtained Wednesday by The Associated Press, said the 11 manufacturers and retailers have told agency staffers of plans to repair, replace or give refunds for their hair dryers.

The 11 are the companies the agency staff lists as making or selling hair dryers containing asbestos. The agency had asked the 11 to recall their products voluntarily, but only three had previously agreed to do so.

"All of the firms have instituted programs involving the replacement of, and-or refund for asbestos-containing hand-held hair dryers currently in consumers' hands." said a staff memoran-

The agency staff has estimated that there are 12.5 million of the hand-held hair dryers in use.

Judge Urged To Uphold Guidelines authority to deny federal contracts

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration, urging a federal judge to uphold its anti-inflation program as legal, says "even a rabbit" can tell the president's wage-price guidelines are voluntary.

At a court hearing Wednesday, government attorneys asked U.S. District Judge Barrington D. Parker to dismiss a suit challenging Carter's right to threaten penalties against companies that exceed his wage-price guidelines.

The suit, brought by a group of labor leaders and backed by 24 Republican congressmen, charges that Carter lacks

Surgical Technique Repairs Girl's Esophagus, Larynx

BALTIMORE (AP) — Eighteen months after gulping a solution of lye she thought was water, 3-year-old Sha-nelle Jones still is unable to speak. But doctors hope a rarely used surgical technique will allow the child "to yell and be heard down the hall."

Shanelle's larynx and esophagus were severely burned in the incident but recent operations have helped the child so she can now eat and drink. And Dr. Laurance Hill, a pediatric surgeon who developed a technique in 1973 that has saved Shanelle's esophagus, is hopeful the child will have her voice back in three months.

In the past, a victim of such burns could have died or had to undergo the often-unsuccessful and painful ordeal of having the esophagus and voice box reconstructed.

Shanelle is only the fourth person to undergo the new technique, said Hill. The procedure involves placing a small plastic tube in the esophagus and leaving it there for three weeks. The tube, or stent, prevents the area from closing up and keeps down inflammation, allowing it to heal with less scarring.

Shanelle has a thin plastic thread running through her nose, down through her esophagus into the stornach and out through a hole in her abdomen. She also has a larynx stent, which goes through her windpipe and out an opening in her neck, to keep the vocal chords from growing together when they heal.

Hill said the technique is too new to predict how the patients will fare in 10 or 15 years.

As the body grows, the esophagus and structure that makes up the upper respiratory tree may not grow," Hill respiratory tree may not grow," said. "From the injury, they may have lost their potential to grow. We will have to follow these children until they are teen-agers to see if, indeed, they are nor-

A speech therapist has taught the girl sign language so she can communicate. "She's been here so long and gone through so much everyone loves her," said another therapist.

The child has never tried to pull off the plastic threads that keep the stent in' place, hospital workers say.

"She knows they are important for her getting well," said Hill.

I have heard of several types of surgery which are sometimes successful. What is your opinion? I am a 38-year-old female.

DEAR READER - Always remember that the ending, "itis," means inflammation. The urethra is simply the tube from the bladder that drains urine. Some doctors think the short urethra in the female is one reason she is prone to have urinary tract infections.

If the urethra is inflamed, it will be swollen, causing the opening to be closed and create difficulty in passing

There is no way I can tell you what sort of treatment you should have without knowing what's causing the inflammation. Sometimes it is associated with urinary tract infections, particularly inflammation of the bladder, and in many of these conditions, antibiotics or other medicines are used with considerable success.

Stack Of Sunset Legislation Gains Approval Of House

AUSTIN (AP) - It seemed like the Charge of the Light Brigade as Reps. Bill Ceverha and Doyle Willis arrayed their flimsy forces against bills preserving the State Barber Board and the Texas Turnpike Authority.

Each kidded the other Wednesday about membership in a "100 Club" comprising hapless representatives whose crusades have been blunted by more than 100 negative votes.

The House whipped through a stack of Sunset bills continuing the turnpike authority as well as state regulation of barbers, pest control companies, architects, landscape architects and nursing home administrators.

Water Panelists Assured Toxic Oil Being Removed

By United Press International

The Texas Water Commission has been assured a firm is removing cyanide-laced road oil believed linked to cattle deaths and health problems in east Texas, but the city of San Antonio has begun conducting tests to determine if similar chemicals may have entered its water supply.

After hearing complaints from one resident that her cows had died and her mother had to move because of the chemicals used in sludge to oil east Texas roads, the Texas Water Commission Wednesday affirmed its earlier order demanding that the responsible companies resurface the roads.

Attorneys for Browning-Ferris Industries Chemical Services Inc. said the firm had started removing the toxic oil

Board Imposes Pet Quarantine

EL PASO (UPI) - The Board of Health of the City-County Health Unit has moved to check a troubling outbreak of rabies by imposing a countywide quarantine on dogs and cats.

Health officials have confirmed 17 cases of rabid dogs in the county since March 1, compared to nine statewide during all of 1978.

Accordingly, the board imposed the quarantine Wednesday.

Dr. John L. Bradley, regional director for the state Department of Health Resources, said there were 564 cases of rabies in the state last year but the majority of those involved skunks.

Virtually all the dog rabies cases reported nationwide this year have been in Texas, Bradley said, and the bulk of those have occurred in El Paso County. Cases also have been confirmed in Eastland, Ector, Fort Bend, Montague and Maverick counties. Thirteen cases have been confirmed in Eagle Pass in Mavercovering on some sections near the east Texas town of Corrigan.

"Since the commission orders, we have commenced with removal in Reiley's Village and Town Bluff," BFI Attorney David Beck told the water commission in Austin.

A vote affecting a member's public stock is not a conflict of interest under House rules, but members holding oil company stock could make money this year if Congress allows oil company profits to rise. Congress will have to make that decision on President Carter's plan to decontrol oil prices and let them rise, but to offset the price rise with a "windfall profits" tax against the companies.

One of the congressmen who reported making some of the most last year by speaking to oil industry groups was Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., who has been a staunch foe of high oil company profits.

Dingell, chairman of the House energy subcommittee, reported getting $5,-580 for such appearances. He supports Carter's price decontrols but wants a stiffer "windfall profits" tax imposed on the oil companies

Rep. David Stockman, R-Mich., a member of Dingell's subcommittee, reported payments from oil industry groups for similar appearances.

Rep. Fortney H. (Pete) Stark, D-Calif., a member of the House Ways and Means Committee which will write the 'windfall profits' tax bill, reported oil company stockholdings.

Outside the energy bill-writing committees, Rep. James Cleveland, R-N.H., reported holdings of more than $15,000 each in Standard Oil of California, Mobil Oil, Exxon and Gulf Oil, plus dividends of more than $5,500 from the four com-

Rep. William Clinger, D-Pa., reported a holding of at least $100,000 in Gulf Oil and smaller holdings in a number of other oil companies.

Rep. S. William Green, R-N.Y., one of the richest men in the House, reported that he and his wife had holdings in such companies as Atlantic Richfield, Clark Oil, Delhi International Oil and Buttes Oil and Gas.

But a number of congressmen with large stockholdings appeared to steer clear of oil company stocks.

Rep. Jonathan B. Bingham, D-N.Y., for example, reported earning $812,000 from holdings in a wide variety of American industries but none in oil or gas.

Meanwhile, Connally was one of only four registered presidential candidates who met Wednesday's deadline for filing financial reports.

His holdings included at least $10,000 in Tandy Corp. and the Western Co.

The only honorarium U.S. Rep. J.J. "Jake" Pickle said he received last year was $1,000 from the Bowling Proprietors Association. The group also picked up round trip expenses for Pickle to deliver his address at its annual convention in Las Vegas.

The Austin Democrat's property included 37 shares of Aluminum Co. of America, 50 shares of Texas Eastern Inc. and 50 shares of Union Carbide worth at U.S. Rep. Bill Archer of Houston listed at least $27,500 in outside income last year. His property included a 104-acre farm in Washington County worth at least $15,000. His home on 184 acres in Loudon County, Va., was valued at a $100,000 minimum.

A freshman congressman from Marlin said he received a $9,395 salary from Oil Interests Wilson Building Material Co. in Clifton last year. U.S. Rep. Marvin Leath listed at least $12,000 in interest from three Waco banks and one in Marlin.

Leath also said his owned at least $15,000 of Marlin Mills Inc.

U.S. Rep. Ron Paul of Lake Jackson returned to the House this year from his medical practice, which brought him $105,900 in professional fees in 1978.

LBJ Country Offers Vacation Fun For Family

By TED J. SIMON
A-J Travel Editor

If you've looking for a great place to vacation, draw a circle on your Texas road map around Johnson City and Stonewall. Within that circle (a diameter of about 15 miles) an hour's drive west of Austin, are attractions and activities that will make for a vacation that the family will enjoy and remember for a long, long time.

For the youngsters there are animals and lots of interesting activities; for mom there are historic places to visit and picturesque country; for dad there's a great chance to take it easy and enjoy fresh air and good fishing. Also, many of the activities are without charge and there's some free transportation availa-

This unique vacation area consists of the Lyndon Baines Johnson National Historic Site, the Texas White House, LBJ State Park and Pedernales Falls State Park.

The parks are perfect examples of how government agencies and individual citizens can work together in the public's interest. At Stonewall (population 245) the LBJ State Park's obvious attractions are swimming and wading pools, visitor center and auditorium, buffalo and longhorn cattle and deer in a natural setting, a nature trail and picnic tables in a tree-shaded setting near the Pedernales River. The scenery alone tells why LBJ loved this part of our country.

Mini-buses, operated by the National Park Service, pick up visitors at the state park visitor center for a grand tour of the nearby points of interest. Tours include the simple country school house attended by Johnson, his birthplace and the ranch where Lady Bird still resides.

The Texas White House tours go by

The Texas White House tours go by the LBJ ranch, Tuesday through Saturday. On Sundays and Mondays, tours usually bypass the ranch house and travel through the ranch lands for a look at the award-winning Hereford cattle. The tour is absolutely free.

Visitors to the LBJ State Park, after spending some time at the modern visitor center with its interesting exhibits and slide shows, will want to budget at least an hour or two for a visit to the Sauer-Beckmann farmstead that is located on the 269-acre park.

The Sauer-Beckmann farm gives city people an opportunity to see living history demonstrations of farm life as practiced before the turn of the century. It's a working farm, and much of the food at the noon meals for park employees is grown at the farm. During this writer's visit to the farm, Bruce Thiele and Keith Stehling, park employees, were tending a cucumber field. Inside the Victorianstyle farm house Ophelia Weinheimer, a park interpreter, arranged jars of preserves and explained the day-to-day chores of early farm life.

Near the large barn, a flock of chickens clucked and pecked their way past all kinds of early farm implements. The adjacent corral contained two mules that nuzzled outstretched hands of several farm visitors. For the family that has never had access to a farm, a visit to the Sauer-Beckmann farmstead alone is worth a special trip to the LBJ State Park.

Also within the park is one of the oldest homes in the region. It is a good example of a "dog-trot" structure. A dog-trot domicile usually consisted of two homes or cabins under a single roof. The roof created a covered passage way between the structures that made a shaded and breezy area for some chores. Obviously, dogs favored the ventilated area that also provided protection from the elements — thus the name.

Picnic tables are provided at the park, but there are no camping facilities. Campsites are provided at Pedernales Falls State Park. The 4,800-acre park (about 8 miles east of Johnson City) provides beautiful scenery, water and electricity, picnic tables, restrooms, showers, and a trailer dump station. Areas for fishing and swimming are convenient. Nominal fees are charged.

Campsites now can be reserved up to 90 days in advance of occupancy date. More information pertaining to Pedernales Falls is available from Texas Parks and Wildlife Dept. in Austin by calling toll-free 1-800-252-9327.

Commercial overnight accommodations are available in Johnson City, Stonewall, Blanco and Fredericksburg. According to the Mobil Travel Guide, the Charles Motel in Johnson City may be one of the best values to be found. At this writing, single accommodations range between $10 -$16, and double occupancy ranges between $15 -$20.

Located in Johnson City (population 792) is the Lyndon Baines Johnson National Historic Site. Visitors are welcome to tour the 100-year-old frame structure where Johnson lived while attending public school. Nearby is the Johnson Settlement that is accessible by foot path or a horse-drawn wagon. The ride on the freight wagon is free, as are visits to the various historic sites.

At the Johnson Settlement, LBJ's grandparents' cabin has been restored. Authentic buildings include a blacksmith shop.

At one farmhouse, during this writer's visit, Ava Cox was working a spinning wheel. Seventy-four years young, Mrs. Cox said with pride, "I'm the oldest park ranger around here." When asked to verify that she was LBJ's first cousin, Mrs. Cox replied, "Sir, Lyndon was MY-cousin."

Spinning and reminiscing: "We'd fight as kids, but I always defended Lyndon." "We called him 'Lefty' when he played first base at family ball games." "Sometimes we'd raid a watermelon patch." "One Halloween we put an outhouse right in front of the door of a crabby man's house."

Mrs. Cox paused and noted, "I have lived in the most wonderful time America will see. As a young girl I've ridden horseback to San Antonio; that trip took a full week. And I've been with astronauts at the Texas White House. The years have been very interesting."

Lucky is the person that can meet such an interesting, courteous and sincere lady. And the "oldest park ranger" is representative of all of the LBJ country — beautiful and memorable.

The people, the sites, and the country around Johnson City and Stonewall make for a great visit — every time.

Shutdown Slows Minting Of Coin

washington (AP) — A temporary shutdown in production of the new Susan B. Anthony dollar coin will not adversely affect the government's goal of putting 500 million of the coins into circulation by July, says the head of the U.S. Mint.

Mint director Stella B. Hackel explained that it was necessary to cease production of the coin on March 31 until the Treasury Department could get funding for the program approved by congressional budget committees.

Japanese Exports May Rise Again

ports are showing increasing signs of shooting upward again despite figures showing a declining export rate mea-sured in yen, the Ministry of International Trade and Industry said recently.

The ministry said that exports in April totaled 1.684 trillion yen, about $8.24 billion, a decline of 6.9 percent from the year before on the yen basis, but noted that it was the first time that the rate of decline has fallen blow 10 percent in eight months.

It said that yen-based exports had been steadily dropping the past year be-cause of the appreciation of the yen against the dollar and because of government steps to slow the outflow of goods in the wake of foreign criticism of Japan's trade surpluses. But exports made a comeback as the dollar climbed 22 percent against the yen in the past six

In dollar terms, exports were up 7.4 percent over the previous year, with such goods as chemicals, cement, and steel showing brisk business overseas, the ministry said.

It also said that in yen terms exports to the United States dropped 14.2 percent and fell by 9.2 percent to developing nations, but rose by 10.7 percent to the Common Market nations and jumped by 36.3 percent to China.

Also, the Bank of Japan warned that the wholesale price index began to show signs of a sharp upward trend, rising 1.7 percent in April from March, as the value of the Japanese yen eroded against

A spokesman said, "It's hard to think that the wholesale price will rapidly slide soon," and added that the consum-

TOKYO (AP) - Japan's certified ex- er price index might rise in a six-month

Japan's wholesale prices have edged up since last November following the fall of the Japanese currency, the bank official said, but the rate of increase has always been less than 1 percent over the

April's jump also means a 2.2 percent increase over last year and a 22.4 percent rise in terms of the index's annual rate of increase

The official said the increase was higher than previously anticipated.

'The cheap yen is the main reason," he said. The foreign exchange element was responsible for 0.5 percent in the total 1.7 percent increase, he said.

One U.S. dollar was worth 174 yen in November and now can buy 215 yen, a 23.5 percnt increase in the period.

Bill Would Require No-Smoking Areas

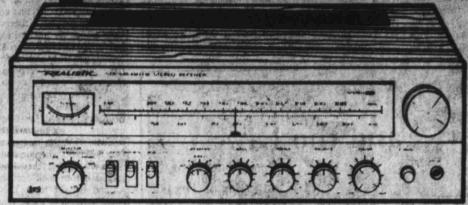

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) - The Nebraska Legislature has sent Gov. Charles Thone a bill requiring most public facili-ties to set aside no-smoking areas. But the proposal, if signed, may yet be chalenged in court.

Thone, a non-smoker, has not said whether he will sign the legislation, approved Tuesday 30-18. The state Justice Department said recently that there may be constitutional problems with provisions allowing the state to waive require-ments for certain facilities.

The act requires separate smoking and non-smoking areas in offices, large restaurants, retail stores, schools and health care facilities.

Hedstrom now collects about 2,000 frogs a year for medical research at the University of Minnesota. Most of them come from the area around Westport Lake near Sauk Centre in west-central

When he was nine years old, Hedstrom followed mowers in farmers' fields and picked frogs up in the hay meadow. He got to know the frogs' habits. And now, no matter what time of year, he knows where to find frogs.

In the spring, they leave lakes and spread out to look for food, he said. Around harvest time, they search for cover in brush or grass, then start heading back toward the lakes for hibernation. In the winter, they hibernate just under the ice next to shoreline.

Hedstrom used to travel to Canada, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska to get his frogs when the season was closed in "A great frog picker who could stay at it from 7 a.m. until 6 p.m. could pick 150 to 300 pounds a day," Hedstrom re-

But he found it hard to make a living at frog picking even in the good years, because "in them days, frogs were only worth eight cents a pound.'

"The thing that's hurting us right now is the increase in population," he added. "People are doing away with all the marshes, small slough holes, pot holes and wherever there is water. And they're draining everything. There's nothing left for birds, fish or frogs, and frogs got to have water to spawn and

Other frog-killers are crop pesticides and chemicals, washed by the rain from farm fields into lowlands, meadows and down the rivers. And the outlook isn't improving, Hedstrom said.

"I don't think much about this spring," he said. "There might be a few frogs to go out and lay eggs, and they hatch and they get to be a little frog. But then they vanish. They don't come

Sign Up For Independence

When young people sign up for newspaper route work, they are really signing up for independence. The kind of independence that goes with earning your own money, running your own business and dealing with people on a one-to-one basis.

Our carriers are young business men and women. They provide a vital service, handle their own finances and reap a handsome profit from their efforts. What better training to prepare them for the future?

If you are interested in stepping into the business world and declaring your own independence, contact our carrier manager right now. He'll give you all of the important facts about carrier work. Then, if you are still interested, he'll provide the pen and show you where to sign . . . even if your name is John Hancock.

Olympics Winners Announced

Winners of Wednesday's Senior Olympics have been announced as Lubbock concluded a two-day Senior Citizens Roundup at Fair Park Coliseum in celebration of Older Americans and Older Texans Month.

First place finishers include Jewel Fowler in the bean bag toss, Jeraldine Moore in the hula hoop contest, Hubert Davis in the men's division and Emma Austin in the women's division of the softball toss, Manuel Ayers in the men's division and Alice Allison in the women's division of the walking marathon, John Glen in the wheelchair race, Murray Bonfield in the giant tricycle race and Harry Erickson in the horseshoe pitching contest.

The most popular event again this year was the balloon bust relay, which was won by the Rodeo

About 750 persons attended the event, which was sponsored by the South Plains Association of Governments, Green Thumb, Texas Tech University Studies on Aging. RSVP and area ACTION agencies.

T-shirts worn by the contestants were furnished by State Savings & Loan Association of Lub-

Formby Picked 'La Ventana' Man Of Year

The staff of Texas Tech University's yearbook, "La Ventana," has chosen Regent Clint Formby of Hereford its "Man of the Year" for 1979. His picture will be on the cover of the "Texas Business Magazine" section of the yearbook.

Formby is the 21st person to receive the honor and the first regent and nonmember of the university faculty or staff to receive the recognition

Campus student organizations nominate men or women for the distinction, and the honoree is selected by the yearbook staff of approximately 20 persons.

Selection is based on "outstanding contributions to Texas Tech and its students" and the honor is bestowed on a "person who has had unusually good relations with students." Formby was nominated by the Mass Communications Student Advisory Committee.

The 1979 yearbook will be distributed ın August.

Serving his second six-year term as a regent, Formby is a past board chairman. He is a 1949 graduate of Texas Tech with a major in government and minor in speech-journalism.

Nevada Judges Uphold Ruling

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) - The Nevada Supreme Court has upheld a judgment of contempt of court against a Las Vegas Sun reporter who refused to answer questions about the will of the late Howard Hughes.

The high court's 3-2 decision Wednesday drew a sharp dissent from Justice Al Gunderson, who said the majority decision may have destroyed Nevada's reporter shield law

Reporter Dan Newburn refused in 1978 to answer questions about any knowledge he might have of a will left by the late billionaire.

He had told representatives of the Hughes estate that he had seen what appeared to be a will. But when he appeared for a deposition, he refused to comment further.

He was judged in contempt of court after refusing to abide by a court order to give the deposition.

The lower court ruled there was no basis for Newburn to cite Nevada's shield law because his initial disclosures to the Hughes estate were not made as part of any investigative reporting.

Newburn contended that the shield law gave him an absolute privilege, but the majority opinion, written by Justice Gordon Thompson, said "we summarily reject this contention." The privilege against disclosure of a confidential matter is waived by a voluntary disclosure of any significant part," Thompson wrote.

Arson Charges Filed Against Lubbock Man

Felony charges of arson were filed Wednesday against a Lubbock man.

Ernest Salazar of 1604 Baylor St. is accused of arson in the Tuesday burning of an air conditioner at the 100 Ave. M home of a 68-year-old Lubbock woman.

Supreme Court Agrees To Hear Arguments On Interest Lawsuit

preme Court has agreed to hear arguments on a suit filed by an Arlington post office manager claiming the Georgetown Savings and Loan Association improperly charged him interest above the state's 10 percent usury ceil-

The suit by C.T. Stedman seeks to determine whether commitment fees charged by lenders are considered interest under the usury law. Under Texas law a person charged interest in excess of the 10 percent ceiling can collect up to three times the amount of the loan, plus attorneys' fees.

The state's highest court agreed Wednesday to hear the case next month. Stedman contends Georgetown Savings improperly charged him $3,383 interest on a $60,000 loan - then attempted to avoid the 10 percent usury ceiling by classifying the payments as a commit-

The $3,383 was charged before the loan was actually received. After the loan was received, the suit maintains the association then charged him the 10 percent interest rate.

Arguments in the case will be heard June 13 - four years from the date Georgetown savings agreed to take a 15year mortgage on a fast food restaurant Stedman wanted to build in George-

The firm agreed on June 13, 1975, to lend Stedman the money to build the restaurant, but the loan was not execut-

Kissinger Says West Nations Should Unite

HOUSTON (AP) - The industrialized nations of the West should unite in an effort to protect themselves from a crisis caused by a sudden interruption in the flow of Arabian crude, said former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

He also said the United States should use military force "if any outside power or terrorist group attempts to stop" the flow of oil from the Middle East.

"I am talking only about outside powers that may intervene. I do not believe this will happen," said Kissinger, who was in Houston Wednesday to address the annual North American Socie ty for Corporate Planning

"But if it should," Kissinger told a news conference, "the United States cannot permit the lifeline of industrial countries to be threatened by outside forces, and I speak only of those terrorists forces.

Meanwhile, the former secretary of state said. Western nations could develop strategies to deal with the energy problem. For instance, he said, the industrial countries could adopt a policy of sharing the existing oil supply if one nation were cut off.

"One thing the western nations can and should do is develop their own energy resources rapidly," he said. If the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries knew the West would be selfsufficient in 10 years, Kissinger added, it would be induced to sell more oil while it has the market.

Those nations have a stake in the Western economy and a world crisis would only jeopardize their investment, he said.

Kissiner said that in recent months, the position of Saudi Arabia "has become almost unrecognizable," however.

'The Saudis believe that the United States will not support them should they face they same situation as Iran," he

He said the United States' one big mistake in Iran was that no one fully understood the impact of modernization on City the predominately Moslem society.

With modernization, Kissinger said hundreds of thousands of Iranians moved from the rural areas to the cities.

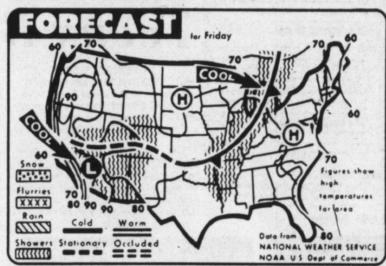

causing a major conflict. Kissinger complimented Presiden Carter for his Egyptian-Israeli peace treatment, saying, "Without this treaty conflict would still exist between those nations. The peace treaty is not perfect but I admire the president's courage in seeing that it was signed." ed until construction was complete Feb. 2, 1976.

Stedman was charged 10 percent in terest on the loan for the eight month before he actually received the money even though the savings association di not put the funds in escrow and had ful

Iran Celebrates Leader's Birth

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) - Thousands of men and women paraded in Iranian cities today for religious rites blended with a celebration of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's 79th birthday.
The marches followed the firing squad executions of two Savak secret police officials and came as the governorsgeneral of Iran's troubled provinces met in Tehran to discuss ways of disarming powerful militia groups stalking major population centers.

Demonstrations marking the birthday anniversary of Fatimeh Zahra, daughter of Mohammed, in Tehran and the provinces coincided with a military march attended by Khomeini in Qom, the Moslem holy city 80 miles south of Tehran.

Khomeini, who was celebrating his first birthday at home after 15 years in exile in Turkey, Iraq and France, addressed a huge crowd of military personnel and civilians who gathered to greet

The religious leader referred to Mohammed's daughter, revered by Iranians, as a person who "would have been a prophet if she were a man."

Today's rallis by women signaled the predominance of the female revolutionaries, clad in the ankle-length chador, who greatly outnumbered women in dresses or even those wearing scarves.

Women demonstrators in Tehran shouted, "Khomeini will destroy both right and left" and "Islam is victorious, down with the traitors.'

A number of leftist groups from the Tehran university campus were swept aside as the "Moslem" groups marched

The Islamic court, which ordered the executions in Mashad, also expelled an an army colonel, Assadollah Davari, from the army on charges of cooperating with SAVAK, and defrocked and sent enced to one month in prison a man judged to be a "fake" clergyman.

The court also ordered confiscation of all the property of the "phony" priest, Mohammad Ismail Andalleb Za-

The biggest revolutionary trial since the overthrow of the shah entered its sixth day today in the southern city of Kerman with the chief of the revolutionary court telling the official Paris news agency that the proceedings were expected to result in many revelations.

The revolutionary court chief, who was unidentified, said the trial of the 114 accused was taking place in "complete freedom" and the daily proceedings were attended by about 1,000 spectators with members of the audience free to give evidence.

In other developments, military authorities ordered militiamen belonging to the revolutionary komitehs, or committees, to hand over their weapons to the army in Kashan, Khorramshahr, Yasuj and areas of the sensitive oil-rich

Khuzestan province. Authorities also decided to disband the komitehs and replace them with revolutionary guards, troops and police dispatched from Tehran.

Sarkis Gets Support For Government

second anniversary of Prime Minister Menachem Begin's stunning electoral victory with opposition calls for a vote of confidence. Lebanon's Prime Minister Selim Al Hoss and his cabinet of economists and technicians, which has ruled since December 1976, resigned Wednesday to pave the way for a broadly based gov-Hoss' cabinet ruled Lebanon longer Phalange party leader Pierre Gemayel and National Liberal party head Camille Chamoun said they were forming a new Christian alliance that "will cooperate with the Lebanese state to the full.

The promise of cooperation from the Christian leaders was prompted as much by bloody dissension in their ranks as by Sarkis' experiment with traditional politics. It came after four days of confrontations between Phalange and National Liberal gunmen in which an estimated 25 people were killed. In his efforts to form a representative

In Israel Wednesday, the Labor Party, ousted by Begin's Likud bloc in the 1977 national election, and two sma opposition factions called for no-confid-Knesset, next week over failure of the government's economic policy.

On the second anniversary of Begin's upset win, Israel announced the consu er price index shot up 8.7 percent in April, raising concern that inflation could total more than 100 percent in 1979. It was the highest reported monthly increase in 22 years.

The development generated unrest within the Likud, with some members calling for the removal of Finance Minister Simcha Ehrlich from his post, for fear the government's failure on the economic front could jeopardize the Likud's chances in the 1981 national elections.

A news report said Begin was considering making Ehrlich deputy Prime Minister and giving his job to another member of the cabinet, possibly Defense gminister Ezer Weizman.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - News and information will become television's most important commodity, and that development probably will include expansion of the evening newscast from its current half-hour format, NBC president Fred Silverman says.

"All of my adult life has been spent in the entertainment end of broadcasting," said the man who made "The Fonz" a universally known personality, "but I am absolutely certain that the future success of our company will develop as we build to leadership in news.

"Network television, as far down the road as anyone can see, will continue to be America's favorite entertainment arena, but news and information will become the most important service we can from a half-hour, as early as the 1980s, is inevitable, Silverman said.

Silverman said the network's goal of climbing out of third place in the entertainmet ratings is linked to gaining leadership in news and information.

Silverman spoke at a luncheon concluding the annual meeting of NBC affiliates at the Century Plaza Hotel. He said NBC is improving such existing news programs as "Today" and the "NBC Nightly News," and is completely revamping its prime-time newsmagazine show, and will introduce new primetime news series and specials.

He reviewed steps NBC has taken since he became president nearly a year ago to stabilize its programming and provide a base to build on. The network currently is third in prime-time ratings and second in the evening news ratings.

We have done that by developing five series at midseason that could be returned in the fall," he said. "Those series are among the 16 hours of returning programs on our new schedule - far more than NBC has had for years. We have done that in the face of the most severe competition television has ever seen, and we will be far more competitive next season because of it.

NBC announced its contract with Ford Jan. 29, 1977, but did not disclose terms of the agreement. Broadcasting sources said at the time, however, that Ford would be paid about $1 million to make at least one major documentary a year for five years.

Marx Brothers Come To Life On London Stage

By GREGORY JENSEN

LONDON (UPI) - Groucho Marx is slouching around a London stage these days, knees bent and greasepaint moustache leering, rattling out insults like a demented machinegun.

Chico is at the piano, shooting notes off the keyboard with pistol fingers. Harpo riffles a lovely harp solo on the spokes of his bicycle's rear wheel.

Only a certifiable lunatic, perhaps, would try to put a Marx Brothers movie on stage, and only a genius would succeed. Dick Vosburgh seems to be about half and half.

His unclassifiable new entertainment doing just that is called "A Day in Hollywood, A Night in the Ukraine." It's as schizo as it sounds, but it has the late lamented Marx Brothers to the life.

It is what Vosburgh, an American resident in Britain, calls "A new old Marx Brothers' musical loosely based on Chekhov's 'The Bear.'

Naturally there is a role for the formidable Margaret Dumont, here represented by the fortress figure of actress Paddie O'Neil. When Groucho catches sight of her and snarls: "Somebody wrapped a skirt around the battleship Potemkin.

"Fate has thrown us together," Miss Dumont coos.

"Well," growls Groucho, "somebody sure threw you together.'

This unlikely confection first saw the light in a north London theater converted from a mortuary. Movie director Michael Winner saw it there and was so amazed that he didn't fall asleep - as he usually does in theaters - and he helped finance its transfer downtown.

Vosburgh hits the Marx only halfway through his show. The "Hollywood" half is old-fashioned revue, snippets of outlandish true stories about the movie capital in the 1930s. It is distinguished by Miss O'Neil's devastating impressions of Bette Davis and Ethel Merman and a song called "Goldwyn and Warner and Mayer and Zanuck and Zukor and But in the second half's "A Night in a rectangle of black greasepaint over his upper lip, phoney black eyebrows behind steelrimmed glasses, and the genuine Groucho leer.

"I'd pinch myself but I'm not my type," he rasps. Or, "Take care of the sleeping pills - They might wake up."

Frank Lazarus in conical cap and amazing accent reluctantly plays piano for duets by the obligatory soppy lovers. Sheila Steafel honks onto the scene and wordlessly tries to feed a carrot to her bicycle. Like Harpo she carries everything from a half-plucked pullet to a crystal ball in her baggy coat's pockets.

Love

Vosburgh, who also wrote the lyrics for songs by "Chico" Lazarus, is lucky with his lookalikes. Bay is an uncanny copy of Groucho, Lazarus of Chico, and the only difference between Harpo and Miss Steafel is that she's prettier.

But the biggest plus in "A Night in the Ukraine," besides its eerie reincarnation of the inimitable trio, is Vosburgh's delicious script. It captures everything that was uproarious about Marx Brothers movies, including outrageous puns and non sequiturs delivered in deadringer Marx style.

"I can't stand a tease," Miss Dumont says, to which Groucho instantly snaps: Then stand at attention.

London's theater was invaded recently by an orgy of puppets, a kind of world Olympics of puppetry.

There were puppets, puppets everywhere - a festival of 30 companies from all over the world in scores of performances which proved conclusively that puppets are not only for children.

The 9th century Anglo-Saxon epic poem "Beowulf" was performed by an English puppet group. A Swedish company staged the Ulysses story. Hungary's State Puppet Theater presented a tale by Bela Bartok, a play by Samuel Beckett and Stravinsky's "Petrouchka.

Not exactly kid stuff. But it is only in the Anglo-Saxon world that the idea still lingers that puppets are only Pinnochio and Sesame Street material.

Elsewhere puppets are an ancient tradition aimed at adult audiences as well as children. High-prestige puppet theaters have perfected a bewildering variety of techniques to present barbed comment, literary tales and even opera in a "pure theater" impossible with merely human actors.

The traditional puppet image is tiny wood figures dangling from strings on a miniature stage.

But in the London festival New York's Bread and Puppet Theater used giant mask figures with people inside. There were glove puppets worn on the hand, puppets whose arms were manipulated with rods, shadow puppets from the Far East. The puppets came in all

There's such a distrust of puppetry in England.

Britons, like Americans, tend to feel puppets have too limited a range and cannot provide theater of much depth.

U.S. Timber Sales, Fees Seen Setting Record

Burger 32

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department says a record $253 million is expected to be allocated to 43 states and Puerto Rico as their estimated share of federal collections from timber sales and other fees charged users of national forests.

That compares with $239.3 million distributed to the states last year. By law, 25 percent of the receipts is returned to the states where national forests and grasslands are located to be used exclusively for public schools and

"These advance estimates of payments to the states are being made now so local budgets may be planned," said Forest Service chief John R. McGuire.

PHOENIX, Ariz. - The Lubbock Christian College baseball team, which had fought for life all season long, passed away in its sleep Wednesday. The cause of death was pitching - or 22 runs and 25 hits as the Chaparrals dropped both ends of a doubleheader by respective scores of 10-5 and 12-8 to fall out of the NAIA's Area II baseball tournament here. Victor in the first game was No. 2-

In the nightcap, with the loser facing elimination, Sam Houston paraded 28 batters to the plate in the first four innings to take an 11-7 lead that was never threatened. The first four batters the Bearcats

Spurs, Bullets Head Back To Landover

Motta will admit the tenacious Washington Bullets, who are growing accustomed to showing more lives than a ghetto alley cat, probably don't deserve a decisive seventh game at home with the once comfortable San Antonio Spurs.

"I feel good about the seventh game. It's a life that we didn't probably deserve," said the Washington coach after the defending National Basketball Association champion Bullets upended the Spurs 108-100 here Wednesday night to knot the Eastern Conference finals at 3-

Forward Bobby Dandridge, playing out of position at guard when Motta used an oversized, fourth-quarter lineup, and reserve forward Greg Ballard keyed a late flurry that enabled the Bullets to put away the Spurs before a stunned sellout San Antonio crowd of 16.055.

Ballard got nine points and Dandridge had 10 in the final 10 minutes of the game. The Spurs staged a brief third quarter uprising and had tied the Bullets 82-82 two minutes into the fourth quart-

Officiating notwithstanding, the Spurs had the opportunity Sunday in Landover and Wednesday night in their cozy HemisFair Arena to eliminate the Bullets. They lost 107-103 on Sunday.

'They had one game to play with and then one game to put us away. They didn't do either," said Hayes, who finished with 25 points.

"The pressure is more on them than us because they had two chances to wipe us out, but they didn't," said Ballard.

"We didn't relax when we got the lead in the series," insisted Spurs cap-tain James Silas. "I don't know if we got tight or tense or what. But we couldn't hit the shots."

The normally hot-handed Spurs shot only 43 percent Wednesday night. George Gervin, averaging 31 points per game in the series, was held to 20. "We've made it hard on ourse

"Actually, I'm playing pretty good," he said. "From tee to green, I've been real good all year. I went the whole tournament at New Orleans without making a bogey and still didn't win, You can't play much better than that.'

Trevino has won more than $107,000 without taking a title this season. That, plus his history of success on the 7,151yard, par-70 Colonial Country Club course, made him the top-ranked challenger to Tom Watson, whose overwhelming record made him a top-heavy: favorite.

Watson, Player of the Year the past two seasons, scored his third victory of 1979 last week in the Byron Nelson Classic and brought the best record in the game into this tournament.

In addition to having won more than anyone else, he also tops the money-winning list with $286,000 and leads the tour in stroke average, 70.25. He's been first or second in seven of 12 starts this year.

Dragsters To Gather At Amarillo Track

AMARILLO (Special) - A strong field of professional drag-racing drivers will be invading Amarillo Dragway Sat-urday and Sunday for the rich National Hot Rod Association Winston World Championship Series, the fourth event on the five-race South Central regional points campaign.

More than 300 competitors will be battling for $40,000 in cash and contingency awards during the two-day event, as all eight NHRA competition categories - including the top fuel, funny car and pro stock professional divisions will be in action, along with the four ET bracket classes.

Topping the list of pro entrants will be winter nationals top fuel champ Bob Noice of Van Nuys, Calif., who now pilots the potent Brissette & Drake dragster which took Kelly Brown to the Winston World Championship in 1978.

Noice moved into the driver's seat when Brown joined another racing team early this year.

Noice recently captured the Division 4 points event at Fort Worth, and he is currently second in the regional standings and third in world points.

Challenging Noice for top-fuel honors this weekend will be current South Central Division leader Steve Stephens of Houston who captured the opening event on the Division 4 schedule at New Orleans, La. Stephens, the 1977 Division 4 titleholder, finished fourth in last year's regional standings, and his Quicksilver dragster figures to be the top opponent for Noice and the Brissette & Drake machine.

Other contenders include former two-time divisional titlist Mike Tarter of Houston, past U.S. Nationals winner Marvin Graham of Oklahoma City, Doug Mead of Sulphur, La., and former pro champion Keith Craig of Oklahoma City.

In the funny car category, Texan Billy Meyer of Wado leads the field with his Plymouth Arrow. The 24-year-old veteran recently took top honors at Fort Worth in the third event on the South Central regional circuit, and he will be shooting for two in a row here.

Meyer has placed third in the final Winston World standings for the past two seasons andis currently sixth in this year's world points.

MHS Cage Ace Ehlo Signs With Odessa

ODESSA (Special) - Craig Ehlo, who led Monterey to a District 4-AAAA basketball title, has signed a letter-of-intent with Odessa College, according to head coach Ron Mayberry.

Last season, the 6-5 cager was cited by the Avalanche-Journal as the City's top schoolboy cager after leading the Monterey Plainsmen to district and bidistrict basketball titles. He was also the MVP of District 4-AAAA.

"I think I can play for them next year," commented the pupil of coach Joe Michalka. "They've got a good team, and I'm happy to be a part of it."

During his senior year. Ehlo scored 438 points during the regular season. He hit 165 of 316 shots from the floor and 108 of 143 free throws, along with pulling down 265 rebounds.

Against El Paso Coronado in the first round of the region tournament, Ehlo paced all MHS scorers with 17 points. However, Monterey lost the game 58-43.

At Odessa, Ehlo will be used primarily as a second guard, he said.

"They lost Bobby Ray Ennis to Cal-State Fullerton," said Ehlo, "So that opens up one spot. They needed another

Despite his ball-handling and scoring capabilities, Ehlo said he was not contacted by a major four-year school, prompting him to ink with OC.

"I was kinda disappointed," commented Ehlo. "But hopefully after I get finished at Odessa, a major college will be interested '

Ehlo will go from one winner to another when he makes the move to OC Last year, Monterey finished the season with a 25-4 won loss mark. At the same time, Odessa was 26-9, finishing second behind Western Texas College in the Western Junior College Conference title

Shortly after the Clipers signed Walton, coach Gene Shue made no secret that Taylor would fit in perfectly with the offense he has in mind, now that

NEW YORK (AP) - It may go down on an all-time list of some sort: all-time great doubletalk statements in sports,

Coach Fred Shero was asked why his New York Rangers weren't more aggressive physically in Tuesday's second game of their National Hockey League playoff final against the Montreal Canadiens.

'We weren't moving in quickly enough," said Shero. "You can't hit a guy if you're not there."

Who's going to argue with that? Certainly, no one was going to argue with the fact that the Rangers were outplayed in every department Tuesday night as the Canadiens roared to a comeback 6-2 triumph and tied the best-ofseven series at one victory per team.

By the same token, though, none of the Rangers was willing to admit Montreal had shaken their confidence. 'They haven't," said defenseman Mike McEwen. "They just made us realize they're a really good hockey team. I don't think they can play any better than they played Tuesday, and we played pretty mediocre for a playoff game.

They threw everything they could at us, and they beat us," said McEwen, but I'm not even thinking about that game any more. I'm thinking about the next one

The Canadiens, winners of the last three Stanley Cups and 21 since 1916, meet the Rangers in Game 3 tonight at New York's Madison Square Garden to bring their equipment and their trav-eling bags to Philadelphia, where they'll go over the details of the settlement.

The 52 umpires have refused to work since before spring training. In their place, the major leagues have used amateur and minor league umpires.

The 26 major league owners met in Chicago Wednesday, basically to receive a report from a committee preparing for negotiations later this year with the Major League Players Association. But the arbitors' walkout also was discussed.

"As far as I know, the clubs are happy with the way we handled the negotiations," MacPhail said.

However, there were reports that several teams, at least one owner and, behind the scenes, Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, expressed their concern with the umpire stalemate to MaePhail and National League president Chub Feeney.

Among others, the Cincinnati Reds, Chicago White Sox and Kansas City Royals have sent letters to their league offsentative, in New York today to initial the agreement. Phillips will then go to Philadelphia Friday to explain terms of the settlement to the unniverse.

It is expected they will receive their first assignments of the season and per haps be on the job the next day.

MacPhail said the owners do have to approve the new contract and that he doesn't plan to call a joint meeting of the owners to discuss the final de-

"We have no problem with this," McPhail said "V. 2 I we full authority to do what we think we have to do in this."

It was learned that an extra crew of umpires will be hired t enable the vacation demand to be met and that there will be no recriminations against those who worked during the stoppage.

Starter Guidry Helps Yankees Defeat Fidrych

By The Associated Press
Ron Guidry is back in the groove — and Mark Fidrych vows he soon will be,

Guidry returned to New York's start-ing rotation Wednesday night after a brief stint in the Yankees' depleted bullpen and beat the Detroit Tigers 6-2, scat-tering nine hits and striking out 13.

'I thought I might have some control trouble, but I managed to get back into the same groove as the last couple of times," said Guidry, who pitched for the first time in eight days and made his first start since May 2.

Tigers and was raked for six runs in 3 2/3 innings. He gave up a pair of two-run homers to Graig Nettles and a tworun blast to Chris Chambliss.

'The only thing that was encouraging was that there was no pain," said the 24year-old Fidrych, 0-2. "That's three times out I've felt all right.

"I've just got to to get the ball low. Every fifth day I'll pitch. It'll take a lot to get me out of there. The problems are echanical. As long as my arm doesn't Doe, making the score 7-6.

The celebration was short lived. SHSU got a double from Steve Hume to open the inning. Glenn Wilson walked and John Tomlinson singled to score Hume and leave men at first and sec-

Designated hitter Gary Wyatt knew what to do then. He gave the ball a long ride, parking it well behind the fence in right-centerfield, effectively ending the

LCC, which made it to the area tournament for the sixth time in the last seven years, finished the season 42-24. In the first game, William Carey College knocked through four LCC pitchers (three in the eighth inning) on the way to its second-round game with No. 1-rated Grand Canyon,

The Crusaders had three players with three or more hits in the win over LCC. Leading the way was second baseman Ricky McMullen who was simply phenomenal, collecting four hits in four atbats, scoring 4 runs and notching 3 RBIs. Included in that list was a fourthinning, 2-run homer that blew the game

LCC and WCC see-sawed through the early innings, then with LCC up by a run in the bottom of the fourth, Steve Sasser belted a triple to deep right-center field. He scored on Dexter Day's single to tie

LCC starter Kevin Burke got Reggie LaGrone to fly out, but then McMullen delivered his key homer straight down the left field line to make the score 5-3.

That chased Burke and brought on reliever Noel Delgado, who had come on in a similar situation in the district tournament at Dallas last week and collected

"I'm too young to give up." Both Guidry and Fidrych had been looking forward to a pitchers' duel and were disappointed when it didn't mater-

"He's their No. 1 man," said Fidrych, "and it would have felt good to beat No. 1, but he reversed it."

"He did the same thing to the rest of the league that I did - he overpowered them," Guidry said, referring to Fi-drych's banner year of 1976 in which the Bird won 19 games and posted a 2.34 earned run average. "But he was nowhere near that tonight.'

Nettles, who has 15 RBI in the last five games, said speed was not Fidrych's problem, but control.

"I was impressed with his velocity," said Nettles. "But he was unable to get the ball down. He rarely used to throw the ball above the knees. That'll take

Angels 4, Brewers 3

Dan Ford scored the winning run for California on a throwing error by Sal Bando in the 11th inning.

Earlier, Bando had started a triple play for Milwaukee. With runners on first and second in the Angels' second, Bobby Grich sent a hard grounder to Bando, who stepped on third base for

'Bid' Unaware Of Pimlico Track

BALTIMORE (AP) - Trainer Bud Delp and jockey Ron Franklin, a couple of Marylanders, are happy to be back at Pimlico, where they started on the glory road with Spectacular Bid. But to the Kentucky Derby winner, it's just another race track

"He doesn't know he's at Pimlico," Delp said Wednesday when asked if he felt two winning races over the track would give the Kentucky Derby winner an advantage in Saturday's Preakness when he meets four 3-year-olds he beat in the Derby May 5. They are Derby runner-up General Assembly, third-place Golden Act, fifth-place Flying Paster and sixth-place Screen King.

"He doesn't know he won two races here," said Delp. "He doesn't know he's going to be three-for-three after the Preakness is over. Horses could care less where they are as long as they're taken

Spectacular Bid, who has raced at 12 different tracks and won at 10 of them, gets the kind of care befitting a horse who is insured for $14 million and who should be worth at least that much at

The gray son of Bold Bidder, owned by Harry, Teresa and Tom Meyerhoff, began his career by winning a 51/2-length maiden race at Pimlico June 30, 1978. He followed that with another win at Pimlico before losing two straight races. He hasn't lost since, winning ll straight

Delp sized up Spectacular Bid and the colts who followed him here from Louisville by saying. "These are the five best 3-year-olds in America, I think

"There are some great trainers down there," he said, looking along the barn housing the Preakness horses. "There are some great horses down there. It's just unfortunate for them that I got the

'I've got a better horse now than after the Derby," Delp continued, noting that Spectacular Bid is fresh and fit and that "the only time I call the vet is when I want to up the insurance. Horses are allowed to race in Maryland on Butazolidin, an analgesic, and Lasix, a diuretic. But Delp said Spectacular Bid will run without medication in

The trainer said he did race Spectacular Bid on Bute in the Fountain of Youth and the Flamingo in Florida and the Blue Grass at Keeneland. "I wanted to experiment with it," he said. "If it moved him up a neck. I was going to use it (in the Derby and Preakness).

Victory Erases Need For Pirates' Protest

By The Associated Press First Steve Henderson blew up. Then Chuck Tanner furned. And, finally, Mike Easler exploded.

Easler, though, did all the damage. His pinch-hit home run, on the 13th-inning's first pitch from Skip Lockwood, sent Pittsburgh rocketing to a 4-3 victory over the New York Mets and wiped out the Pirates' protest, lodged when Henderson was thrown out of the game, then reinstated.

In Wednesday night's other National League games Atlanta beat Los Angeles 3-2, St. Louis blanked Montreal 2-0, San Francisco defeated Houston 8-4 in 10 innings, Philadelphia pounded Chicago 13-0 and Cincinnati ripped San Diego 7-0.

"I was just sitting there on the bench like a time bomb, ready to explode," Easler said after batting for Enrique Romo and giving the Pirates' fifth pitcher of the game the victory with his liner over the right field wall. "I was sitting there watching ... and I knew I was going to be called upon.

"I felt it would take a big hit. Willie Stargell didn't get it (although he had a homer in the seventh inning). Dave Parker didn't get it (although he had an RBI single in the sixth). I felt it was up to me. I was ready five innings before

In the 10th inning, with a couple of Mets on base, Henderson was called out on strikes and, in frustration, slammed his bat to the ground. Ron Hutson, the amateur working at home plate during the umpires' dispute, thumbed Henderson. The NL rulebook says throwing equipment brings an automatic fine, but not an automatic ejection, as Hutson thought.

Out came Mets Manager Joe Torre. He explained the rule and the chief of the umpiring crew, minor leaguer Fred Brocklander, backed him up. "The first thing I did was go to Hutson and say, 'Did Henderson say or do anything to you personally other than throw the bat? He told me that all Henderson did was throw his equipment, so I over-ruled the efection because he was not aware of the rule. Out came Tanner, who argued that once out, Henderson shouldn't have been reinstated. His argument fell on deaf ears, so he played the game under protest. "Never, never have I seen a player ejected and come back into play," Tanner said. Braves 3, Dodgers 2

Dale Murphy, who followed Jerry Royster's first-inning double with an RBI single, greeted reliever Bob Welch with a bases-loaded single up the middle in the eighth to snap Atlanta's threegame losing spin and the Dodgers' eightgame winning streak.

Andy Messersmith had retired 15 consecutive batters before giving up a single to Mike Lum and walking Gary Matthews and Jeff Burroughs, bringing Welch out of the bullpen.

In the top of the ninth, Steve Garvey singled and tried to score on Dusty Baker's double to right. The throw from Matthews, relayed by second baseman Glenn Hubbard, reached the plate at the same time as Garvey, who knocked catcher Bruce Benedict senseless - but

Ford Honored As Top Rookie

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) - One year after he likened the National Basketball Association draft to slavery. Phil Ford, humble and subdued, accepted rookie of the year honors and said, "I was very lucky.

"I played for the best coach in the NBA and the other guys on the team were tremendous," the 6-foot-2 point guard of the Kansas City Kings said at a luncheon Wednesday

"Considering all that went on last summer, I'd like to thank everybody for being so nice to me.'

Ford averaged almost 16 points per game and was fourth in the league with nearly nine assists per game in leading the Kings from last place to first place in the Midwest Division. He was an overwhelming choice of a national panel of writers as the NBA's rookie of the year, announced Wednesday.

But when he was drafted by the Kings last May as the second player in the first round he refused even to meet with team representatives, who had been warned beforehand the two-time North Carolina all-America wanted nothing to do with Kansas City.

HOLE-IN-ONE

David Jarrett fired a hole-in-one on the par-3, twelfth hole at Treasure Island golf course Wednesday afternoon, using a sand wedge. The hole is 98 yards long. Looking on were Stan Kilborn and Mark Jarrett.

Cardinals 2, Expos 0 Ted Simmons' two-run double in the fifth inning gave Bob Forsch all the runs he needed to record his first victory in 12 starts, dating back to last September. "It's taken a little longer than I had hoped," said Forsch. "It's taken a little longer than everybody had hoped. I felt a little bit tired. I wish we'd had some more runs and I might have finished. I'll take it, though. It was a long time overdue." He needed ninth-inning help from

Mark Littell. Giants 8, Astros 4

San Francisco scored four unearned runs in the 10th inning - two on Bill Madlock's tie-breaking single - to beat the Astros.

Larry Herndon singled off Bo McLaughlin and Marc Hill was safe when shortstop Craig Reynolds bobbled his one-out grounder. Rob Andrews forced Hill for the second out but Bill North walked and Madlock singled to

SNEAKING UP — Los Angeles Dodger Derrell Thomas (1) has a toe on second base as Atlanta Braves second baseman Glenn Hubbard crawls in to attempt a tag, followed by team-

SEATTLE (AP) - Did last Sunday's victory provide the Seattle SuperSonics with the momentum to carry them past the Phoenix Suns a fourth time?

Can the Suns, with center Alvan Adams back in uniform, beat the Sonics in Seattle again?

The answers will come tonight when the Sonics meet the Suns in the Kingdome in the deciding seventh game of their National Basketball Association Western Conference championship se-

The winner will advance to the NBA final series against the winner of the Eastern Conference championship series between the defending champion Washington Bullets and the San Antonio

The Sonics announced that more than 32,000 tickets had been sold by noon Wednesday, enabling the game to be televised in the Seattle area.

The Sonics forced a seventh game when they edged the Suns 106-105 in Game 6 last Sunday in Phoenix, tying the series 3-3.

Phoenix lost the first two games of the series before rebounding with three straight victories, including a 99-93 victory in Seattle in Game 5. It was the Suns' first victory in Seattle in seven tries dating back to March Unlike Game 5, this time the Suns will have Adams available. He has been sidelined since suffering a badly sprained ankle in Game 3. "I'm not sure whether he'll start or not," John MacLeod, the Phoenix coach, said Wednesday. "But there's no doubt about it. He's going to play and he's going to play some minutes."

MacLeod pronounced Adams fit following Wednesday's final full-scale workout before the Suns flew to Seattle.

Both MacLeod and Seattle coach Lenny Wilkens expected another physical game with so much at stake. MacLeod said he would like to see a tightly officiated contest. "I've said all along that their offen-sive backboards are the key to the se-ries," the Suns coach said. "We simply cannot let them run roughshod on the

TV Programs Aid Teachers

By PATRICIA McCORMACK United Press International Writer

Kids have a new teacher these days, the kind you don't bring an apple to—an electronic teacher called television—and some human teachers are very uneasy about the competition.

But other educational leaders see television's hold on boys and girls as an opportunity: Supplementing but not supplanting the homo sapiens variety of teacher

That kind of attitude will serve teachers best, the Council on Basic Education believes, because television and its influence is here to stay and isn't about to be routed from the academic world.

As the Council reminds in its "Bulletin:"

"Prime time and all the time, television goes right on teaching.

"Young and old, rich and poor, black and white, in town and country — television teaches us all, for better or for worse."

The Council, based in Washington, D.C., talks of efforts to make television a better teacher.

For example: the initiation a few months back by the Public Broadcasting System of a six-year series of all of William Shakespeare's plays. The venture, with all due apologies to the Bard of Avon, has been described as "the stuff that dreams are made of."

More proof comes from "Teacher's Guides to Television", with a list of helpful programs cited by officials of commercial television networks. Samples: 30 Minutes, Saturday Film Festival, Festival of Lively Arts for Young People, The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn, From Here to Eternity, After-

Vandal Listed As 'John Doe'

PERU, Ind. (UPI) — The police report listed the 150-pound vandal as "John Doe," but just plain "Buck" might have been more appropriate.

The unruly deer demolished up to $3,000 worth of furniture Tuesday at Dillman's Furniture Store. The animal apparently entered the establishment through an overhead service entrance that was left open.

Before employees were able to corner the deer in a storage room, he had kicked out the screens on several color television sets, destroyed three bedroom suites and other furniture.

A conservation officer finally shot the buck with a tranquilizer gun. He said it would be released later in a rural area.

Burkburnett, just across the Red River from Oklahoma, was derisively known as Nesterville in the 1870s by cowboys of the huge 6666 Ranch that surrounded the community.

school Special Treats, The Winds of

There's also "scripting" — the use of television scripts by teachers and students. The Council says this will be controversial at least until there is more reliable data to end a scripting controver-

Scripting taps kids' affection for the tube, turning it in a direction that will help them read "with skill and discrimination"

The way it works: boys and girls hold and use scripts of television shows in class under the guidance of the teacher. They take them home for perusal — with or without Mom or Dad peering over their shoulders.

A recent report in the journal "Principal" noted somewhat sourly that scripting holds out "the vain hope that somehow we will use television to motivate reading."

Nevertheless, scripting is growing and "its advocates are enthusiastic and confident," the Council reports.

One fan is Michael McAndrew. While a Philadelphia, Pa., high school teacher, he was frustrated over finding some students turned off by reading. Then scripting make the scene. It made, he says, a day and night difference.

Now, as Director of Educational Services for Capital Cities Television Products, he says, "Television and the printed word ... by joining forces can begin to have an impact, a significant impact, in helping to resolve some of the major obstacles in the world."

Also on the television scene are shows put together just for classroom use — instructional television, much of it under direction of the Agency for Instructional Television, a consortium supported by Junds from many state departments of education.

"Thinkabout", an instructional show, debuts in September. This series, developed by the Essential Learning Project, is for fifth and sixth graders. The aim: "To help improve and extend mathematics and communication skills and help strengthen study and reasoning skills."

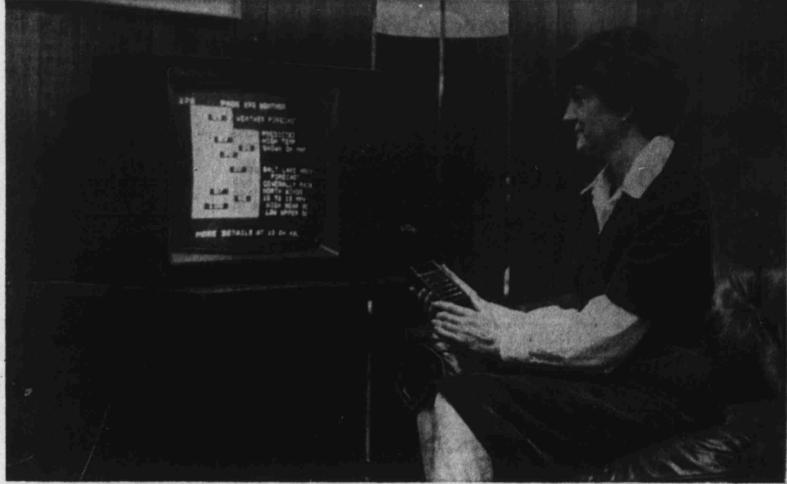

Hopes are high. A review of "Thinkabout" in the prestigious education journal The Kappan says:

"It could take a significant place in the vanguard of contemporary classroom practice."

The Council for Basic Education is "committed ... not only to the so-called basics, but to those intellectual disciplines which are the foundation of all good education."

CBE's list of essentials includes English, mathematics, science, history, geography, government, foreign languages and the arts.

Membership, $10 a year, includes the CBE Bulletin. The Council is at 725 Fifteenth St., N. W., Washington, D. C. 20005.

TELEVISION PROVIDES INFORMATION — Larene Rowley, a KSL Television employee, holds the control for an experimental system that would allow home televisions to receive printed data. The Federal Communications Commission has allowed KSL in Salt Lake City, and KMOX in St. Louis, to set up experimental data systems. (AP Laserphoto)

Felevisions Offer Viewer Information

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Bill Jones, ready to go out to dinner, punches a few buttons on a hand-held keyboard and looks at his television set.

Onto the screen flashes a list of restaurants by type, from Armenian to vegetarian. Jones then taps out the number opposite the "Chinese" listing, this time on his regular touchtone telephone.

Immediately, his screen displays a list of Chinese restaurants, with addresses, phone numbers, and special code numbers. Jones picks a new place he's heard of, punches its code number and the menu appears on the screen.

Jones heads out the door, but not before punching more buttons to check a bus schedule and the weather forecast. He takes his umbrella. Though Jones is not a real person, his actions are not necessarily those in-a science-fiction movie.

Using your TV as a data bank with almost unlimited capacity may be only a few years away, says William Loveless, chief engineer for Bonneville International, a broadcast group based here. Bonneville's KSL-TV in Salt Lake City and KMOX-TV in St. Louis, owned by CBS, have been testing a signal capable of giving viewers access to 120 pages of

to millions more pages.

Now, only a station engineer sees the information. But KSL is actually broadcasting the signal, and home viewers whose TV sets were properly equipped could see it also.

The information includes the latest weather report, a TV schedule, news stories, lists of entertainment in the area, and information about advertised products.

A version of the system, called teletext, is already in use in England and France, but no sets capable of receiving the signal are sold in the United States because the Federal Communications Commission has not set regulations governing its use.

The test transmissions, authorized by the FCC, involve an unused portion of the signal carrying the regular TV picture and sound. Stations won't have to add anything to their transmitting equipment to broadcast it.

The signal doesn't affect regular television picture or sound because it's transmitted on a portion of the signal above the regular TV screen. It can be flashed over a program going on or onto a blank screen on an unused channel.

Existing sets could be converted to receive teletext for about $100, Loveless said, but they could be manufactured with that capability for as little as $25 extra.

The entire system could be available in some markets within 2½ years, he predicted.

KSL has tested the system for nearly a year, hooking up a specially equipped set at distant points in its viewing area. KMOX began tests in March.

Loveless said teletext is not designed to replace current media but to be a "third medium," different from television or newspapers.

"People will always want to tear out articles, swat flies and line bird cages," he said.

Viewers could see any of the information being transmitted by punching a series of buttons on a hand-held calcula-

A newscaster on the regular TV channel could end a report by saying, "For more information, refer to teletext page 200" Bonneville proposes hooking the system into a regular touchtone telephone to give access to several trillion pages. Technically, telephone books, encyclopedias, a whole library of information could be programmed into teletext computers.

A viewer could even get his television screen to carry on a kind of conversation with him, said Loveless. In the restaurant search, the screen, in effect, asks the viewer what he feels like eating, what location would be most convenient, and finally which specific restaurant menu he wants to see.

An industry committee is to meet in December to work out standards for teletext.

"But nobody's going to do anything until the federal standards are set," he said.

Company Lists Benefits Of Rat Manure

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (UPI) — Rat manure may be just the thing your wilting gladioluses need.

Backers say it's just as good as a ferfilizer as cow manure, helps stimulate plant growth, and sells for only $5 a truckload.

Rat manure is sold by Rat Labs, a division of Berkshire Biological, in Flor-

"Some people say, 'Rat manure, no, thank you,' but you can get over that, it's just the same," said Paul Marean, who runs Rat Labs.

Marean said when tests were done on the manure — made up of wood chips and droppings of 1,000 rats used for in scientific experimentation — they showed it high in nitrogen and potassium, although a bit low in phosphorus.

Castro Eyes Better Trade Relations With Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Fidel Castro on his first visit to Mexico in 23 years is seeking closer trade and cultural relations, but officials insist this need have no influence on Mexico's troubled relations with the United States.

"Mexico has always maintained a totally independent attitude toward the United States whenever Cuba is concerned," one diplomatic observer said.

The Cuban president arrives today for two days of talks with President Jose Lopez Portillo on the resort island of Cozumel, off the Yucatan Peninsula.

A Cuban diplomat describes the visit as "one mixing politics with a lot of nostalgia." Castro was last in Mexico as an exile in 1955-56 and sailed from Tuxpan on the invasion that resulted in the overthrow of Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista on New Year's Day 1950 and Lopez Portillo probably will discuss boosting trade and cultural relations between their countries, Cuba's alternately improving and worsening relations with the United States, international affairs, the world energy crisis and oil.

Mexican officials say Castro

Cuba, which had a $20-million trade deficit with Mexico last year, wants Mexican goods and materials to develop its industries. But it wants them at preferential prices to narrow the deficit.

"Castro is coming to ask, not offer anything," said a Mexican trade official who asked anonymity. "Since last year they have been asking for increasingly greater quantities of yarn, electric transformers, pumps, auto parts, containers, fuses, black frijole beans and other products they traditionally buy from us."

Mexican exports to Cuba last year totalled $22 million, but its imports of rum, cigars, reading material and nickel came to only $2 million. The Mexicans are interested in buying more nickel and other metals to feed their huge industrial expansion program.

Once a poor country with an uncertain future, Mexico is now in a position to help Cuba because of its new oil wealth. Whether it decides to or not may be decided during the talks, one diplomat said.

However, Foreign Minister Santiago Roel threw cold water on speculation that Lopez Portillo might propose shipping Mexican oil to Cuba if a like amount of Soviet oil was diverted from Cuba to Spain, which buys oil from Mexi-

This would save Cuba and Spain considerable transporation costs, but Roel said the speculation was unfounded, and "we have no reason to involve Spain in our arrangements."

Mexico, with its mixture of private enterprise and huge stateowned companies, has been a steadfast friend of Castro in the 20 years he has been in power, often to the dismay of the U.S. government.

When other members of the Organization of American States broke diplomatic relations with the Castro regime and imposed an economic blockade on Cuba in 1967 at the urging of the United States, Mexico refused to go along and continued its ties and trade.

For a long time airline service between Havana and the Mexican capital was the only air link Cubahad with the outside world.

Presidents Adolfo Lopez Mateos and Luis Echeverria invited Castro to visit them, but he declined both invitations. However, he sent Prsident Osvaldo Dorticos for a state visit with Lopez Mateos.

Commission Eyes Media Protection

PARIS (AP) — A UNESCO-sponsored commission on international communications opened a two-day debate today on proposals to protect journalists, following assurances from the commission chairman that there is "no deep, dark UNESCO plot to regiment journalists."

Representatives of 30 international press and broadcasting organizations, mostly from the developing and Socialist countries, were invited to participate in the conference at the Paris headquarters of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

Commission Chairman Sean Macbride of Ireland, winner of both the Nobel and Lenin Peace Prizes, went to great lengths in an interview Wednesday with the Associated Press to reassure critics that his campaign was not a veiled effort to establish international licensing of journalists.

"There is no deep, dark UNESCO plot to regiment journalists," the 75-year-old Macbride said, adding, he regretted the "misconceptions" that had contributed to "bad relations" between UNESCO and some American newspapers.

"I can see the concern of some groups of American newspapers over what they see as attempts to infringe on freedom of the press," Macbride said. "But America has strong institutions, a strong Supreme Court, and press freedom is guaranteed in the constitution.

"There is no other country in the world that has such freedom. Macbride said. "And in other parts of the word freedom of the press is very precariously protected."

The International Commission for the Study of Communication Problems, made up of 16 eminent journalists and government information officials, has been given a broad mandate to investigate global communications, with emphasis on the distribution of international news by the world's major news agencies.

Although it was created by UNESCO, the commission is considered autonomous. UNESCO officials emphasized that while the meeting was being held at the organization's headquarters, its composition and agenda are the sole responsibility of Macbride.

Macbride has circulated a draft document that is the basis for the discussions that began today. Apart from the journalists invited to participate, the meeting was closed to the press.

The draft includes proposals to establish internationally accepted definitions of journalists' 'rights and duties.'

One article in the draft, which some Western critics feel could invite governmental interference in press operations, seeks to establish a more internationally uniform system of accreditation for journalists. "by virtue of the law or practice of their country of nationality."

This system would include, according to the draft document, "a professional card or equivalent document, issued by a national instance or by an international organization competent to do so."

Chinese Ready To Start Talks

TOKYO (AP) — China's National Technical Import Corp. has notified Japanese firms it is wlling to start talks on $2.7 billion worth of ontracts suspended three months ago, sources in Tokyo said Wednesday

Chinese authorities froze 30 agreements reached with Japanese firms between the middle of last December and the end of February, pending what the Chinese said would be a re-examination of Peking's policy on plant and technology imports.

A spokesman for the Japan-China Trade Association said the Chinese notified Japanese trading firms that they are willing to reopen discussions, but the Japanese companies are reported to be worried the Chinese intend to ask for lower prices.

A spokesman for the Marubeni Corp. confirmed that his firm received a telegram earlier this week on deals involving $200 million worth of chemical and textile plant exports.

During a visit to Japan in April, the widow of former Premier Chou En-lain Deng Yingchao, expressed regrets that China may have inconvenienced Japan in making hasty orders of plant and technology.

LUBBOCK AVALANCHE-JOURNAL-Thursday Evening, May 17, 1979-E-9 Paul Harvey Loves Work Now More Than Et

CHICAGO (AP) - His voice boomed a sound test: "Woof one, two, three, ey!" four. Didlee dee, didlee dee. Woof, one, two, three." Then vocal calesthenics: 'Nee-naw, nee-naw, nee-naw."

Seconds remained before he would talk to seven or eight million people.

His shoulders sagged a bit, and he turned to his three visitors in the tiny network studio and asked in a stage whisper: "Did you see the thing about Mickey Mantle dreaming every night about a comeback?

"Real sad. Says he can understand why people talk about suicide. Once you get used to the applause it's hard to

He shakes his head in sympathy, perhaps empathy. What would he do if the applause stopped, even turned to boos? He, too, loves adulation, takes criticism to heart. "Applause is a narcotic," he

It's a typical day for the 60-year-old Harvey. Wake before 4 a.m., do pushups with zest." Wash down oatmeal with juice and Kava. Ride from his suburban River Forest home in a chauffeur-driven limousine to his fourth-floor office overlooking the murky Chicago River.

He uses the hours flanking sunrise to scan wire service reports, news magazines, letters, newspapers - looking for th oddball story, the human touch, the bright phrase, the incredible saga, the sex crime, the 60th wedding anniversary.

"I love work now more than ever. The second youth is the best youth." He jogs or plays golf in the afternoon and is in bed each day by 8 p.m., even if he's on one of his frequent speaking trips. He's a workaholic. His secretary says "he'd make notes in the shower if he

Harvey says he wrote "a point-by point response to each point raised a the article, but then decided it wa pointless. ... ABC convinced me that all it would do is result in headlines that repeated the charges - 'Paul Harvey denies beating his wife.' So I decided to step around it rather than step in it."

Harvey gave The Associated Press a copy of the rebuttal he had written, but had withheld at ABC's request.

First, I have never undergone any kind of psychiatric treatment in my life," he wrote. "This does not disparage such therapy but I have never experienced an of it at any time . "I have never, in mlitary service or

Faced with finding a simple way to destroy thousands of bits of computer information stored on each of the little plastic cards, headquarters officials sent out the word: Put the fiche in a crock pot, cover with water and boil at least 75 minutes. Discard when done. Old microfiche files, revised four times a year, were hard to discard. They could be fed into office shredders, but only one at a time. And besides, they dulled the blades. New shredders are expected in about two years. Until then, the crock pots will have to do.

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

New Gains NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market posted a broad gain today, extendeding a rally that began late in Wednesday's session. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 2.60 Wednesday, climbed 4.42 to 832.90 by noon to-

Gainers outnumbered losers by more than a 2-1 margin in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Analysts said the upswing stemmed largely from internal market forces after the decline of the past several weeks.

On Wednesday the government reported declines in housing starts and industrial production. Some saw the figures as tentative evidence of a slowing in the economy.

But brokers also noted that a reduced economic pace might be favorably received by many investors hoping for an easing of inflation and interest rates.

Xerox picked up % to 59% in active trading. The company in-troduced a new copier Wednesday, and today said its second quarter results so far were "very encouraging."
Amerada Hess, subject of a favorable evaluation by a leading analyst, rose 11/2 to 353/4. Simplicity Pattern topped the active list, up % at 11%. A 197,- 400-share block traded at 11. The NYSE's composite index gained .30 to 55.68. On the American Stok Exchange, the market value index jumped 1.49 to 177.71.

Volume on the Big Board came to 12.76 million shares at noon, up from 11.07 million at the same point Wednesday.

FEC Elects Tiernan Chairman

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Former Rep. Robert Tiernan, who was publicly rebuked two years ago for making $2,000 in personal telephone calls on his government telephone, was elected chairman of the Federal Election Commission today. The Rhode Island Democrat, elected unanimously without debate, succeeds Pennsylvania Republican Joan Aikens. The FEC elects its own chairman for one year and usually alternates party membership.

Tiernan, who has served on the FEC since it was formed in 1975, was nominated for the one-year term by fellow Commissioner Vernon Thomson, a former FEC chairman.

I nominate a member who has served since the inauguration of this great experiment in politics," Thomson

In addition to the telephone bill incident, for which Tiernan repaid the government $2,000 in 1977. Tiernan still owes $4,000 on the 1974 House race in which he was unseated.

Another $1,300 was paid late last year only after Washington's posh George Towne Club sued him for not reimbursing the cost of 1974 fundraising events held there.

The FEC writes the regulations governing bad debts in election campaigns. Tiernan's election comes at a time when the FEC is under attack by Congress and public interest groups - in part because it has not yet finished the audits of 1976 presidential candidates at a time when the 1980 campaign is gear-Today's meeting marked the first time the FEC has discussed audits of presidential candidates in public. For three years they have been discussed in secret session, despite mounting pressure from the news media.

The FEC voted to discuss audits of former Democratic presidential contenders Fred Harris and Sargent Shriver in public - but to again close the doors when it discusses Jimmy Carter's presidential campaign. In the process another presidential audit - that of former Gov. George Wallace of Alabama - appears to have gotten lost by the FEC. Tiernan told Congress recently the Wallace audit was "closed," but repeated requests for a copy have had no results.

"We don't know where it is," acknowledged Fred Eiland, the commission's public information director. "I've asked them for it several times, but it doesn't seem to do any good. Tiernan, a Democrat, served in the House from 1967 to 1974. Finance reports filed with the FEC show he still owes $3,929 to creditors in his last campaign five years ago. In 1977 he was publicly rebuked for using his commission telephone to make $2,000 in personal long distance telephone calls, mostly to run his hockey club, the Rhode Island Reds. Tiernan re-

Stockholders Approve Plan

MIAMI (UPI) - An unprecedented bidding war for control of National Airlines is a step closer to reality today but an auction of the Miami-based airline will never get off the ground unless federal authorities approve.
National stockholders overwhelmingly approved a plan Wednesday calling for a merger with Pan American World Airways — one of three airlines vying for control of National — and-or a bidding contest between Pan Am and Eastern Airlines. National's 5,250 stockholders voted 7.017.572 shares in favor of the proposal. Only 276,648 of 8.56 million shares of

THE AUTO MECHANIC

Owners Can Repair Simple Problems

One might think the modern automobile is too complex to be worked on by the average person. But that is often not so. Many car problems are simple for owners to repair.

The first thing to do before working on a car is to read the owner's manual.

These manuals explain much more than the basics of starting the car. Most give do-it-yourself instructions for checking fluids and tire pressure and for performing other routine maintenance.

Using the owners' manual, locate various features of your car. You can't fix it if you don't know where it is.

Find the fuses and bulbs, the air filter and fuel filter. All these items can be replaced with simple tools — or no tools

If a light bulb burns out at home, you screw in another. Why go to a garage for a burned-out bulb in the car?

With the possible exception of headlight bulbs, all bulbs in the car are as easy to change as those in the home. Usually the only tool required is a screwdriver to remove the lens.

Few people think to check the fuse box - usually located under the dash in the passenger compartment - when their cars have electrical problems. Auto fuses are smaller then those used in houses. They have a single filament that burns through when the circuit is over-

If the filament is continuous, the fuse is good. If the fuse blows repeatedly, your car has some other problem

Air filters can easily be checked by holding a light behind the paper element. A clogged filter will block the

The fuel filter is checked by blowing through it. Air should pass through almost as easily as it would if you were blowing through a straw. If it does not, the filter should be replaced.

Remove the cables. Polish cables and terminals with a wire brush, sandpaper or scouring pad.

The top of the battery can be scrubbed with water and ammonia or with a mild solution of water and baking soda. Remember not to remove the caps to the individual cells while cleaning.

Belt checks are easy to make. First, use your eyes and a flashlight to inspect interior surfaces. Cracks will be apparent on old, worn belts.

With a little practice, you will also be able to tell when the belts are adjusted properly. Slight pressure on the belt at an unsupported point should cause the belt to deflect - or give - about 1/2 to 1

If the belt does not deflect, it is too tight. Too much deflection means the belt is too loose.

Sometimes a worn or poorly adjusted belt will also cause a high-pitched squeal, especially when the engine is

engine off. Besides these simple but important checks, drivers should be able to check necessary fluids and change worn wiper blades. Other routine maintenance - such as tire rotation, radiator with a little instruction and a few tools. But keep in mind that cars can be dangerous if safety precautions are not observed. The general rule is to go slow ly and try to understand each procedure. Use a manual and follow instructions well, there is no reward; there's a penal-The events begin with the saver banking $100 for a rainy day. In effect, he lends the savings institution $100, and receives in return 5.25 percent interst.

The bank relends the $100, and more. (Because all deposits aren't likely to be withdrawn at the same time, the bank can loan out more than it takes in. For illustration, though, it's $100 in, $100

With daily compounding, he earns $5.75

Like any good retailer, the bank marks up the price of the product; it charges the borrower 12 percent, perhaps discounting the loan in advance and giving him only $88. The borrower doesn't mind the double-digit cost of the money because he has a friend, Uncle Sam, who will help pay the bill. The borrower is in a 30 percent tax category; he gets a tax deduction of $3.60 on the $12 interest he pays.

The return of that $3.60 means he has the use of $91.60 rather than $88. Meanwhile, because of inflation, he repays in cheaper dollars. At 9 percent inflation, he repays, effectively, only $91 of the

In the meantime, he has invested the money in home repairs that raise the value of his home by much more than the amount of the loan. The repairman, assuming he runs a sound business, makes a profit too:

Meanwhile, naive to inflation, the saver might believe he has earned $5.75 in a year. He hasn't, of course. He earned interest at 5.75 percent, and lost buying power at 9. His loss: At least

"at least?" Because he has to pay taxes on his "profits." If saver, like the borrower, is in a 30 percent tax bracket, he loses another $1.72, or 30 percent of his $5.75 "profit." His net

Let's see, the borrower wins because the money costs him nothing and he reinvests it at a profit. The carpenter wins because he gets a job. The bank, if properly run, wins even after expenses

Only one loser in the bunch: The saver who made it all possible.

While small savers have tolerated the injustice for years, maybe feeling it is better to save something rather than nothing at all, they don't seem inclined to take it much longer. They are withdrawing their funds.

Meeting in New Orleans, the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks reported a net outflow of $1 billion in April, more than $150 million greater than the previous record outflow in August 1974. If that drain continues, it could destroy the housing market in short order. And when housing goes, so goes the eco-

as furniture and appliances. Savings sup-

Can the small saver be saved? Tax incentives, common in some nations, are generating interest. Suggestions include exemptions, deferment of liability (as with Savings Bonds), and bonuses for long-term savers.

Congress has shown interest in the proposals, having, as stated by Saul Klaman, president of the savings bank "at long last acknowledged that group, savers have been subsidizing borrow-

That acknowledgement came in a review of savings practices and a recommendation by Congress' Joint Economic Committee for "improved incentives to

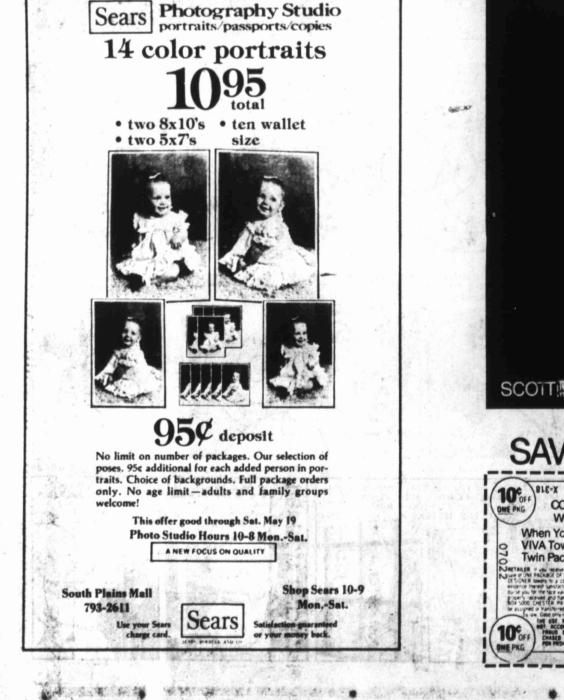

It doesn't mean Congress will act. A spokesman for the League of Savings Associations said he felt some relief would be won. But with red ink splashed on the budget, Congress might fear to cut

It leaves some would-be savers with the feeling they are forced to spend, on goods whose value, they hope, might rise with inflation.

And in some instances, the statistics suggest, savers have deserted their thrifty instincts and become borrowers instead. They have put themselves on the side of the odds.
