AUSTIN (UPI) — Employees of one of 12 "Killer Bee" senators who have been in hiding since Friday to prevent passage of a primary election bill they say would benefit John Connally said today the senator is giving up his boycott and returning to the Capitol, then later said it may be another two days before he returns.

A secretary said Sen. Chet Brooks, D-Pasadena, called his Austin office today and said he was coming back today, leaving the Senate only one member short of the 21 needed to conduct business.

But another staffer later in the day gave reporters a statement from Brooks denying he had been with any of the 11 other senators during the holdout, and that he had contacted Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby to say he was returning to Austin and would be willing to help negotiate a settlement between the two factions.

"He's on his way back to Austin, but it may take one day, two days, who knows?" said Barbara Stanley of Brooks' Houston office.

A secretary in the senator's Austin office had said earlier Brooks was expected to return during the afternoon.

Another member of the "killer bees" said the missing senators might remain in hiding until midnight Tuesday.

After midnight Tuesday, the primary election bill backed by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby no longer will be eligible for consideration without a two-thirds vote of the Senate to suspend procedural rules. The bill, at this point, does not have support of two-thirds of the 31 senators.

The 12 senators went into hiding — perhaps into Mexico — Friday morning to prevent the Senate from attaining a quorum of its members to consider the bill, and have eluded a search by the Texas Rangers, the Department of Public Safety and Senate sergeants-at-arms for three days.

Hobby Sunday raised the possibility the 12 could be locked out of the Senate chamber when they do return, or that their offices might be declared vacant on grounds of abandonment.

DPS officials and a Texas Ranger on surveillance at the home of Sen. Gene Jones, D-Houston, Sunday apprehended and whisked to the capital a man they believed to be Jones. But the man was Clayton Jones, brother of the senator, who said he informed the officers throughout the trip "they were making a terrible mistake."

An all-points bulletin for the apprehension of the 12 has been in effect since Friday afternoon, and Kelly Arnold, the Senate sergeant-at-arms, said each of the senators' homes in Austin and in their home districts are under 24-hour surveillance.

Jones, in a telephone interview Sunday, said the absent senators had pleaded with Hobby through an intermediary that the primary bill be dropped so they could return to work on other Senate business.

"As I understand it, he first agreed to it, and then changed his mind. I think he talked to some other people that gave him some different advice," Jones said.

"We will come back anytime we will be permitted to go back to work on the business of the Senate that needs to be attended to."

Hobby acknowledged he had talked with former Secretary of State Steve Oaks, who has been an unofficial intermediary in the Senate walkout.

"He wanted to know if any agreement could be reached," Hobby said. "I said no, there would be no agreement they would not be removed from office, and no agreement they would be permitted in the chamber when they return."

The bill in its present form does not mention a presidential primary, but Hobby said there are plans for it to be revised in the House to establish a presidential primary in March of 1980, separate from the primary for state offices. That would permit conservative Democrats to vote for former Texas Gov. Connally in the GOP presidential race, then return later to vote in the Democratic primary for state offices.

Deluges Trigger Floods In State

A-J News Services
Downpours triggered flash floods from the Texas Panhandle to the Rio Grande today, with at least three persons in Southwest Texas reported drowned.

Much-needed rainfall drenched the Lubbock area this morning, and flash flood watches were posted for portions of the South Plains and Panhandle as a western storm system continued its advance across the state.

The Department of Public Safety in Del Rio reported the victims were in three vehicles swept off Texas 163 about 16 miles north of Comstock in Val Verde County.

The DPS said it was looking for possibly two others believed caught in the high, fast-moving water.

The victims were identified as Bradley Elliott, 14, and Byron Elliott, 12, both of Ozona, and David Sanchez, age and hometown unknown.

The vehicles were found south of where the Devil's River crosses the highway.

The highway was closed because of flooding where it intersected the Devil's River in that area, about 45 miles north of Del Rio. Ranch Road 189 also was closed 60 miles north of Del Rio because of flooding along the river.

Lubbock's official total reached 2.02 inches for the period between 7 a.m. and noon today, as dark clouds continued to dump heavy rain on the area. Some portions of the city had gauged more than 2 inches.

Forecasters predicted showers and thunderstorms would continue throughout the afternoon, then taper off tonight as rain probability diminishes to 30 percent.

Street flooding was fairly widespread, but not severe, police reported. There were numerous reports of stalled cars along 50th Street and at other trouble spots, but patrolmen encountered no unusual problems.

Heaviest precipitation reported in the city up to noon was at Fire Station No. 4 at 3rd Street and University Avenue, where 2.4 inches were recorded. The Central Station downtown had 2.3 inches.

Most other Lubbock totals were in the 2-inch range, although two fire stations, No. 5 at E. 10th Street and Zenith Avenue and No. 6 at 35th Street and Indiana Avenue, showed only 1.27 inches.

Radio Station KFYO recorded 1.9 downtown and 1.75 at its transmitter at 82nd Street and Quaker Avenue. The greenhouse at Texas Tech University gauged 2.05 inches.

Heavy rainfall was reported throughout Northwest Texas and eastern New Mexico. Amarillo and Clovis both received more than 2 inches, while on the northeastern fringes of the South Plains, Paducah had 1.96 inches and hail.

The storm system, triggered by the familiar spring pattern of warm, moist Gulf air blending with northern cool air and western upper level disturbances, spawned scattered tornadoes and heavy downpours in West Texas Sunday afternoon and night.

Lubbock received only .11 of an inch See DOWNPOURS Page 14

Suspect Shot By Officer

By JACK DOUGLAS

A gunshot blast fired by a Lubbock policeman early this morning ended the attempted escape of a burglary suspect, who, along with another man, was caught allegedly breaking into Veazey Cash Lumber Co. at 2701 Ave. A.

The 21-year-old Mexican-American, shot in both legs by police Cpl. Larry Jenkins, was treated and released at Methodist Hospital before being transported to the county jail, where he joined the other suspect arrested at the scene about 12:45 a.m. today.

The first arrest came after officer John Tucker, who was the first to arrive at the scene after the business' burglary alarm sounded, unleashed his police dog.

The growling canine sniffed out the 30-year-old suspect inside the east portion of the building and held him at bay while the other alleged burglar scrambled out of the business through a small hole made by breaking glass in a door.

Tucker said he entered the building and found his dog in "attack position" and daring one of the suspects to make a move, while the other intruder was nearby, crawling out the makeshift exit in the part metal, part glass door.

Tucker, in his report, states the man attempting to escape failed to respond to his orders to halt.

Reports indicate Jenkins entered the room, saw the suspect running through the lumber yard and yelled, "you better stop."

Jenkins said he attempted to get through the locked door, but failed. After the fleeing suspect again failed to obey Jenkins' order to stop, Jenkins raised his .12-gauge shotgun and fired once, striking the man in the legs, according to Police Information Officer Bill Morgan. The felled suspect was handcuffed by officer Mark Kirkpatrick, who was climbing over the business' fence about the time Jenkins fired his weapon.

Panel Hears Minchew's Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — Daniel Minchew testified today that his public accusations against his former boss, Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., covered "a time of my life of which I am not proud."

Beginning several days of sworn testimony before the Senate Ethics Committee, Minchew said he converted Senate funds and campaign contributions for Talmadge's personal use.

Talmadge's former administrative assistant said he once took part in attempts to thwart the investigation of Talmadge, cited by the committee on five allegations of financial misconduct.

"I was for a time a participant in the plan to short-circuit and impede the investigation of Sen. Talmadge," Minchew said. "I am no longer, I assure you, anything except a witness who seeks to assist in your search for the truth."

"For whatever reason — loyalty, the desire to please or the high esteem in which I held him (Talmadge) — I did things for which I am not proud and which were wrong," Minchew said.

"At least my involvement has now ended with a heavy penalty already exacted and perhaps more to come," he said.

Minchew, a slender, 39-year-old graduate of Oxford University in England, has been under investigation by the Justice Department, which has agreed to delay a possible indictment pending See MINCHEW Page 14

Texan Gets Hearing By Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas man who was sentenced to life in prison for three crimes, the most serious of which was obtaining $120 on a false pretext, was granted a Supreme Court hearing today to determine if the sentence was cruel and unusual punishment in violation of the Constitution.

The Supreme Court agreed to review the case of William J. Rummel, who was given the life term in 1973 on the ground he had committed three felonies.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the sentence last year by an 8-6 vote. The appeals court said Rummel could be pardoned after serving as little as 10 years of the sentence under Texas law.

Rummel was convicted in 1964 of an $80 credit card fraud and in 1969 of forging a check for $28.36.

He was indicted in 1973 for obtaining $120.75 on a false pretext by allegedly posing as an air-conditioning repairman and promising the owner of a lounge in San Antonio that he would repair a faulty unit.

Under Texas law, anyone convicted of three felonies may be sentenced to life in prison.

The federal appeals court said the sentence did not violate the constitutional prohibition against cruel and unusual punishment in part because Texas has the most liberal laws in the country regarding measuring "good time" for inmates.

"Texas intends to punish Rummel with at least a 10-year sentence," the appeals court majority said. "Beyond that, the burden is on Rummel to prove by his good behavior and diligent work that he is entitled to a place in free society."

The appeals court said Rummel could be released in 10 years if he has the status of a state-approved trusty and that he could be eligible for parole after serving 12 years with time off for good behavior.

The Supreme Court today also agreed to judge the validity of a law that reserved $400 million in federal public works grants for minority-owned businesses.

The justices said they will hear an appeal stemming from the minority set. See HIGH COURT Page 14

Business Cycles Plaguing 'Fed'

By KIM COBB
Avalanche-Journal Staff

If anyone could speculate which way the American economy will swing in the next few months, it would probably be Nancy Teeters.

But Mrs. Teeters, the first woman appointed to the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, says just about all "the Fed" can do is try to prevent a depression — such as the one which crippled the U.S. in the early 1930s.

Mrs. Teeters spoke briefly about some of the problems faced by the American consumer early today as part of the Sixth Annual School of Banking at Texas Tech. She discussed the competing cycles of inflation and recession, saying American economic problems cannot be solved internally.

Foreign trade can have a major impact on any economy, she said, as evidenced by current oil shortages resulting from the wheeling and dealing of OPEC (Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries).

Getting a grip on rising inflation from within would still leave the problems caused by foreign trade, she said.

"Dealing with OPEC is like playing poker with a wild card," she quipped. If foreign prices level off, U.S. consumers would probably see a drop in the current inflation level, she said.

But even with a leveling off of foreign oil prices, beef shortages (as well as shortages of other food items) would still continue to add to inflation. Americans have been feeling the pinch of "the food and fuel crisis" since the early 70s, she said.

Mrs. Teeters agrees with many economists who believe the cycles of inflation and recession are largely governed by history — that is, the recurring cycles can be compared to the inevitable forces governing high and low tides. Looking at a historical analysis of the U.S. economy, a graph of economic upswings and downswings occurs pretty regularly.

But economists such as Mrs. Teeters believe there is something that can be done about the problems. She claims See 'FED' BOARD Page 14

DeNike said the problem was lower production of domestic oil.

"The domestic is down and so you need more imported. ... We need 1.5 million barrels a day more than we're getting now," said the Shell executive.

DeNike and other industry witnesses gave a generally pessimistic assessment of the nation's fuel supplies and said Americans must adjust to driving less, driving slower and paying more for gasoline.

Executives of five major oil companies were questioned by a Senate Energy subcommittee on whether there really is an oil shortage and, if so, what they are doing about it.

DeNike said his company's stocks of gasoline are "less than they should be at this time of year" and that the situation will get worse this summer.

DeNike said the United States "will continue to experience energy supply problems over the next several years."

W. J. Price, a senior vice president of Chevron U.S.A. Inc. said the demand for gasoline increased 5 percent over the past year, while supplies of crude oil dropped because of the unrest in Iran.

However, he said, Chevron will be able to supply about the same amount of gasoline this summer that it did last year, and that he was hopeful "May will have been a low point."

Oil Executives Deny Gas Being Withheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oil company executives clashed today with Senate opponents of President Carter's decontrol program over whether the industry was withholding fuel from the market until it could obtain higher prices.

"I know of no oil being withheld for higher prices," said James H. DeNike, a vice president of Shell Oil Co.

DeNike responded to statements by Sens. Durkin, Metzbaum, D-Ohio, and John Howard, D-N.H., that crude oil imports were up from a year ago and that refineries were operating below capacity. Both senators oppose Carter's plan to phase out federal price controls on domestic crude oil, starting June 1.

DeNike said the problem was lower production of domestic oil.

"The domestic is down and so you need more imported. ... We need 1.5 million barrels a day more than we're getting now," said the Shell executive.

DeNike and other industry witnesses gave a generally pessimistic assessment of the nation's fuel supplies and said Americans must adjust to driving less, driving slower and paying more for gasoline.

Executives of five major oil companies were questioned by a Senate Energy subcommittee on whether there really is an oil shortage and, if so, what they are doing about it.

DeNike said his company's stocks of gasoline are "less than they should be at this time of year" and that the situation will get worse this summer.

DeNike said the United States "will continue to experience energy supply problems over the next several years."

W. J. Price, a senior vice president of Chevron U.S.A. Inc. said the demand for gasoline increased 5 percent over the past year, while supplies of crude oil dropped because of the unrest in Iran.

However, he said, Chevron will be able to supply about the same amount of gasoline this summer that it did last year, and that he was hopeful "May will have been a low point."

"We do not expect that our situation will improve much more this year unless there is an unanticipated drop in consumer demand or an equally unexpected increase in crude oil availability during the coming months," Price said.

Annon Card, a senior vice president of Texaco, said the world is "facing periods of chronic petroleum shortages and will probably continue to do so through the decade of the 1980s."

C.R. Sitter, a senior vice president of Exxon Co., said, "We forecast that industrywide U.S. crude runs this summer could be very close to last summer's levels, which means that refiners cannot be expected to meet the normal demand increase."

A similar assessment was given by Lawrason Thomas, a vice president of Amoco Oil Co.

Witnesses said the supply of oil on the international spot market, oil not already committed by contract, has dried up.

DeNike said Shell recently bid on 13 tanker loads of oil and succeeded in obtaining only three.

All the industry witnesses said that if shortages are to be lessened Americans must be persuaded to change their driving habits, including using car pools and obeying the 55-mph speed limit.

Weissmuller To Be Moved

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Johnny Weissmuller, reportedly suffering from psychological problems, is to be transferred from a retired actors hospital to a mental health facility this week, officials say.

"I requested it (the move) because the man did have psychological problems and we're not licensed to handle those kinds of patients," Jack Staggs, director of the Motion Picture and Country Hospital in suburban Woodland Hills, said Saturday. "I wanted him to be taken where he can get proper care."

Hospital employees reported that the 74-year-old actor, who was an Olympic swimmer and played "Tarzan" on the screen in the 1930s and 1940s, has been "wandering into different peoples' rooms, spitting on the floor and making Tarzan calls that are heard throughout the hospital."

No Romance

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Furman University junior Marcia Gambrel has been unsuccessful at convincing members of London's press that she is not romantically linked with the son of Britain's new prime minister.

As a political science major at Furman, Miss Gambrel worked with England's Conservative Party last fall, and she got to know Margaret Thatcher's son, Mark. She called to congratulate Mrs. Thatcher when she was elected last week. Miss Gambrel spoke with Mark, who indicated he might come to South Carolina.

"It was overheard at a cocktail party in Washington that he might come to Greenville," leading to an item in the Washington Star's gossip column, Miss Gambrel said.

The item was quickly picked up by London newspapers, and since then Miss Gambrel says she has received calls from several from the tabloids. She said she refused to discuss it, but the newspapers persisted.

"One reporter said, 'This is a game and you might as well play along with it,'" she said.

Pianist Honored

NEW YORK (AP) — Today is Fats Waller Day in the Big Apple in honor of the late pianist-composer's 75th birthday, but the celebration for the man who penned such all-time favorites as "Ain't Misbehavin'" got started a little early.

A recording of Waller's "Squeeze Me" was heard Sunday at St. Peter's Lutheran Church and a proclamation from Mayor Edward Koch made today's tribute official.

Thomas Waller was a native New Yorker, born in Greenwich Village. He died in 1943, but "Ain't Misbehavin'," a show of his compositions and recordings, is running now on Broadway and in London and traveling companies are currently in Philadelphia and Miami.

Pianist-singer Bobby Short was master of ceremonies Sunday, telling a few anecdotes and facts about Waller, and starting by performing "Honeysuckle Rose."

Champ Chicken

RIO GRANDE, Ohio (AP) — Lola B. may have been scared by the crowd — or maybe she just didn't like her tailfeathers being tickled by a toilet plunger.

Whatever the reason, the 15-ounce burnt-orange bantam shot out of an open mailbox Saturday to wing a record 302 feet, 8 inches in the Eighth Annual International Chicken Flying Meet.

Her owner, Sherwood Costen, of Point Pleasant, W.Va., said he had raised birds for years but never entered a competition. And he said Lola B., winner of the $500 prize, had never before flown outside.

Most of the 152 chickens entered flapped only a few feet or plopped to the ground directly under the 10-foot high launching platform. Some refused to fly, even after a nudge from a toilet-plunger.

But Lola B. took the resulting attention like a true champion, perking up and posing quietly for photographers.

Will the peppy pullet ever grace a dinner table? "No! Lord no! Never!" Costen cried.

White Trial Jury Asks To Rehear Testimony

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jurors who have deliberated the fate of Dan White for five days without reaching a verdict asked to rehear the testimony of a defense psychiatrist who said White suffered an "emotional collapse" when he killed Mayor George Moscone and Supervisor Harvey Milk.

The seven-woman, five-man panel, which has deliberated more than 30 hours since receiving the case Wednesday, was to resume discussions today.

The jurors appeared in the courtroom during an unusual Sunday session in San Francisco Superior Court.

They asked for a reading of the transcript of the testimony by Dr. Martin Blinder, who interviewed White three times earlier this year. Blinder said he was unable to say for certain that White was mentally ill when he shot Moscone and Milk last Nov. 27.

But Blinder said White was "more reflexive than reflective" when he fired the fatal shots. He also said White had told him that he had suffered bouts of depression about a half a dozen times a year since childhood.

White, 32, sat expressionless while the two hours of testimony were read. Outside, defense attorney Douglas Schmidt said White was "not doing too well" while awaiting the verdict. He declined to elaborate.

Schmidt and prosecutor Tom Norman have speculated the jury could be deadlocked on whether at least one of the killings was murder or manslaughter.

The prosecution asked for first-degree murder convictions, which could carry the death penalty.

The defense, conceding White killed the mayor and Milk but claiming he was mentally ill at the time, asked for verdicts of voluntary manslaughter, which each carry a minimum prison sentence of about five to eight years.

Although White has pleaded innocent, four psychiatrists testified for the defense that he did not possess the mental ability to premeditate the killings or weigh the consequences of his acts, both requirements for first-degree murder.

White had resigned from the Board of Supervisors last Nov. 10, but changed his mind and asked Moscone to give him

Prison Inmate Suing Candy Company

CINCINNATI (UPI) — A Lucasville prison inmate who alleges he broke a tooth on a piece of wood in a candy bar is suing the Baby Ruth Candy Co. of New York for more than $8 million.

The inmate, Larry Eugene Cash, said in his suit he bought some Baby Ruth candy bars from the prison commissary on March 1. He alleges he broke a tooth and split his gum on a piece of wood when he bit into one of the bars. "Ingredients of said candy bars did not list a piece of wood," the suit said. "The plaintiff did not necessarily take a look at the ingredients of the candy bar because from childhood Baby Ruth candy bars have never caused plaintiff any such injury before."

The suit, filed in U.S. District Court in Cincinnati, asks for $5,300 in compensatory damages and $8 million in punitive damages.

Program For Elderly In Need Of Foster Homes

By RHONA SCHWARTZ
Avalanche-Journal Staff

For many Americans, reaching age 65 is equivalent to the end of a life of freedom and a one-way ticket to an often lonely existence in a nursing home.

The Department of Human Resources, which does not agree with the traditional view that elderly persons must be put away in a home, offers alternative living projects.

These include foster homes and congregate living houses for the elderly — and disabled — to help them remain self-sufficient for as long as possible.

Unfortunately, the program is not doing as well as department officials had hoped.

The department is "desperately in need of foster homes," said Priscilla Byrd, who runs the program. "The program has been going for two years and is not catching on."

"We're having difficulty getting the elderly interested," she said. "They don't like the idea of having a stranger move in or moving into a strange house on the other side of town."

Persons eligible under the foster home program "do not need institutionalized care, don't have other apparent resources and tend to usually not have family or friends," Mrs. Byrd said, adding they mainly need supervision.

"These are people who are not able to clean their own house and who need help with social activities and transportation," she said.

Interested home providers usually are widows who have a two- or three-bedroom house and extra room. They usually are willing to take a person 55 years old or older who doesn't have family help or friends who are willing to provide shelter.

The department pays $120 a month to the foster home provider and the client "will normally pay $130 a month," Mrs. Byrd said.

"If they can't pay this amount and the provider agrees, the client may pay less, but this doesn't happen very often."

One reason the program may not be catching on is that prospective landlords would rather take in boarders on a private pay basis because they receive more money.

"You see ads in the paper all the time (for elderly boarders)," Mrs. Byrd said. "I'll call newspaper ads and ask the people if they'd like to go with the program."

"They're scared (and) think they might have to fill out a lot of forms and be checked up on," she said with a sigh.

Becoming a Department of Human Resources home provider entails an interview between a social worker and the potential provider at the proposed house. All homes must have a fire inspection, rails on the bathtubs, slip-proof tubs and a health certificate.

"These are things most people would pass on," Mrs. Byrd said, adding the department also conducts annual reviews to recertify the providers.

"We tend to have the best luck with black families, but we don't come across many black clients who are eligible," Mrs. Byrd said. "Most want women boarders (because they) think it would be less trouble."

The department needs foster homes in all racial groups and clients who are willing to move into someone's home.

Salamander Gives Water Safety Hints

SAN MARCOS (UPI) — Blind salamanders and other strange subterranean water creatures are providing clues to scientists about changes in the quality of the drinking water used by nearly 1 million people in southwest Texas.

The underground creatures reside in the Edwards Aquifer, a porous dark limestone reservoir that stretches 175 miles from Bracketville in Kinney County through San Antonio to San Marcos.

Glenn Longley, associate professor of biology at Southwest Texas State University, says previous studies have shown that changes in surface water life forms — their migrations, life spans and population fluctuations — are more reliable indicators of water quality than chemical sampling.

Longley believes the same could be true of the aquifer and its biological community, although he stresses his findings are preliminary.

"We've studied the blind salamanders that were discovered when an artesian well was drilled in San Marcos in 1895," says Longley.

"People have to see that it's working," Mrs. Byrd said. "They're afraid to be the first to do anything."

What works best, she said, is word-of-mouth referrals and publicity, which is hard to come by because there are not many elderly foster homes in Lubbock.

Larger Texas cities have a more successful foster care program because of widespread publicity campaigns, Mrs. Byrd said, adding she has headed media campaigns in Lubbock, but on a more limited basis than is needed.

If the people who could benefit from such an alternative lifestyle are made to understand its advantages, perhaps more would be inclined to participate, Mrs. Byrd said, adding that a hard-sell campaign is needed in Lubbock to make the elderly aware that they do have choices in where to live.

Under foster home provisions, client and provider meet with a social worker to "talk about anything and ask any questions as often as needed," Mrs. Byrd said.

"If both sides are willing, they could (begin) on a trial basis," she added.

Another alternative living project, this one involving group homes of two to four persons, has met with more success.

Mrs. Byrd has been working on this program almost a year and set up the first house in the Cherry Point Addition several months ago.

The program originally was started for elderly persons coming out of nursing homes with the idea of matching them with several other persons and finding them a low-income house where they would share all living expenses.

The groups support themselves with Social Security and Supplemental Security

Income, while the department's main contribution is material support, such as making the house livable and free of barriers.

Each home has a provider go to the house to clean, help with daily chores and provide transportation to doctors' offices and social functions.

"Maybe the group would need a provider for four hours a day or during the evenings or at mealtimes," Mrs. Byrd said.

The Cherry Point household, made up of four physically disabled young men, is an example of how well the program works. The four work at Goodwill Industries and, with the help of their live-in provider, lead independent lives.

"The race problem doesn't bother them as much (as it would the elderly),"

Mrs. Byrd said, adding even the age differences of the men are not a problem.

"The difficulty with the elderly is getting them interested."

"They want security, what's familiar to them," she said.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Lot Of Room In Middle

IN THE EVENT of general mobilization there appears no alternative to conscription. Yet in the absence of such a national emergency, the United States must successfully meet its manpower needs in a fair and efficient manner.

The issues of military manpower are unbelievably complex. Perhaps one of the more basic reasons for this lies in the fundamental competition between the active military and the reserve forces for a limited pool of manpower.

Manpower options attractive to the active forces could easily jeopardize reserve interests, and vice versa. The more detailed manpower issues, however, are just as fundamental and even more divisive.

ties or political sensitivity. The only consensus to emerge in Congress is that there is something wrong with the present system.

Those who argue that the current system is working well have taken a serious beating thus far in the debate; but (barring some unforeseen emergency) those who argue for an immediate return to the draft have little hope to achieve congressional support in the near future.

THE ONLY legislation likely to emerge will be directed towards improvement of the Selective Service System, now in "deep standby."

This would seem to be a positive development, but the controversy about who should register, and how registration should take place, demonstrates the caution with which legislators will approach the more difficult problems ahead.

A reform oriented approach would give critics of the present system an opportunity to improve it without jumping headlong into the as yet politically unacceptable advocacy of the draft.

With all the various manpower problems we face, there would appear at least for the time being to be plenty of room in the middle ground.

THE GREAT manpower debate is rather diffuse; there is little if any partisanship, so far, since the debate is not well defined.

Conservatives generally favor a strong defense posture and do not consider conscription an infringement on personal freedom.

Liberals like to equate conscription with the negative experience of the Vietnam era and profess discomfort with the concept of "compulsory national service."

A stream of manpower issues has been raised, but with minimal regard for priorities

Jimmy Ain't Whistlin' Dixie

WASHINGTON—Jimmy Carter has been traveling around the Midwest and Far West lately, making all the old familiar noises to farmers, women, and Spanish-Americans, but he may be making the wrong pitch to the wrong people.

Tactically speaking, he ought to be down in Dixie talking to the home folks.

It's all very well for the President to be asserting his intention to name more women to the Federal bench. That promise might win him the Bella Abzug vote, though on second thought that may be a bad example.

His announcement of Chicano appointments to high office presumably will attract that constituency. Farmers will be pleased to be assured of the gasoline they need to feed the hungry millions.

But the name of the game is electoral votes. In November of next year that's the be-all and the end-all. Never mind the popular vote nationwide. It is the vote within each state respectively that counts.

TO WIN re-election, Carter must win a majority of the 538 electoral votes. How does he propose to do it?

The answer, presumably, is that Carter proposes to do it the same way he did it the last time, by carrying the same 24 states he carried in 1976. He defeated Gerald Ford in the Electoral College 297-240.

(One Republican elector in Washington State cast his vote for Ronald Reagan.) Carter is likely to find his own performance a hard act to follow.

There is a popular myth abroad in the land that Carter owes his election to the labor vote or to the black vote. Doubtless the unions helped him more in 1976 than they helped George McGovern in 1972, but careful analysis of the returns in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Missouri and West Virginia fails to prove labor's case.

BY THE SAME token, one study of randomly chosen known black precincts indicated that the Carter vote in 1976 was fractionally below the McGovern vote four years earlier.

Blacks and union members didn't elect Carter. White Southerners elected Carter. Consider the arithmetic.

Alabama went for Goldwater in 1964, for Wallace in 1968, and overwhelmingly for Nixon in 1972. But in 1976, the 471,000 margin for Nixon had flip-flopped into a 155,000 margin for Carter.

Arkansas in 1972 cast 68.9 percent of its vote for the Republican Nixon. In 1976, Arkansas cast 65 percent for the Democrat Carter.

Florida gave Nixon a staggering margin of 1.1 million votes over McGovern. Florida gave Carter a 166,000 margin over Ford.

IN HIS HOME state of Georgia, the switch was from 75 percent Republican to 67 percent Democratic. Kentucky, Louisiana, and Maryland followed a similar pattern.

Mississippi in 1972 had ranked as the most Re-

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Hide 'n Go Eek

IT'S A SHAME that the Lubbock Police Department has nothing better for its personnel to do than set up radar traps at locations where there seldom, if ever, are wrecks.

You'd think that with all of the crime and high-frequency accident streets we have here, Somebody In Charge would know where the personnel is needed.

Or is money in fines the name of the game? I've never thought so. Despite recurrent allegations by the citizenry that the police have a "quota" for handing out traffic tickets, I've always defended the Department.

Supervisory review of a traffic patrolman's ticket-writing frequency, I've always felt, was merely a way to gauge whether he was handing out significantly more or significantly fewer than other patrolmen on the same beat.

THE CITY'S SELECTIVE Traffic Enforcement Program (STEP) likewise makes sense. Theoretically, enforcement is concentrated on high-volume, high-risk thoroughfares and locations where the public safety is endangered by speeding and other traffic violations.

Even those critics who accuse the police of concentrating too heavily on traffic while hold-up men rob the citizenry blind have, I've felt, sometimes gone too far in downgrading the need for keeping the streets safe from reckless drivers.

But, now, I don't know.

On the way to work Thursday morning, I spotted one radar unit parked just off 38th Street in an area where neither the volume, speed nor accident frequency of traffic is all that bad.

Conceding that maybe an occasional radar trap at that location is beneficial in holding down speeds through the residential area, I mentally dismissed the matter.

But then I came upon the point where Avenue L and Avenue K split off at about 29th Street. There sat—or rather, stood—a motorcycle patrolman writing a ticket to a hapless lass.

IT OCCURRED TO me that a unit has returned to that spot with increasing frequency lately and that it's always doing a land-office business.

Yet, to my certain knowledge, the accident frequency along that stretch of Avenue L is low and there have been traffic studies in the past which indicated—to me, at least—that the speed limit there needs to be raised about 5 mph.

Now, if it's official policy to want a lot of tickets written in order to get money into the till—let's say so, publicly, so that everybody knows what the rules are.

But if it's official policy to concentrate enforcement in areas where the accident rate indicates there's a real need to protect the public safety—as Mayor Dirk West says the STEP program is doing—then let's put the patrolmen where they're needed.

Saying one thing and doing another, as this situation would indicate is the case, is bad public policy.

Texas teachers, who average $11,800 for a 9-month year, are as important as senators' secretaries, who average $17,208 a year, says Sen. Roy Blaine of Nacogdoches.

"I dunno," says My Neighbor Twice Removed. "Considering how much more difficult it is to teach a senator anything..."

Headline: "Carter Sends Congress Mental Health Bill." Congressmen shouldn't pay it. He didn't cure them.

Sudden Thought: Why do they call them women's slacks when there's no slack in 'em?

When you hear politicians demagoguing about "obscene" profits, it's well to remember that a drop from $1 to 50 cents is a 50 percent decrease—but if it goes back up to $1, that's a 100 percent increase.

"TO ERR IS HUMAN but to really foul things up requires a computer," according to Sam Robbins, recalling a story in the Wall Street Journal to prove his point.

A caller to New York's telephone directory assistance was told the requested number couldn't be provided because the computers were out of order.

Asked if she could look up the number in the phone book, the operator replied, "This is the modern age, sir. We haven't any phone books—only computers. But the computers are broken."

Holmes Alexander:

President Unequal To The Task

WASHINGTON—"The Holy Grail, the Blue Bird, The Northwest Passage..." mused the Returning Traveler who'd been away for a while.

"These are some of the quests that mystics, poets and military migrants undertook.

"But a much nobler quest today is for Mr. Biggie. The hell of it is he probably hasn't been born yet. At least, he hasn't been seen."

Mr. Biggie?

"I mean somebody big enough to be President of the United States," explained the Traveler. "Anybody who comes and goes around Washington may get the chance to sit down a while with the incumbent Chief Executive.

"I'd bet my bottom dollar that there's a common denominator in the opinion of everybody who's interviewed a sitting President. This is it—'The guy just isn't up to the job.'"

"There's a landslide in quality at the White House. Jimmy Carter is a bigger bust than Gerald Ford. Richard Nixon managed to be both amoral and immortal—without a conscience and with major virtues like greed and untruthfulness.

"Poor Lyndon Johnson's fault was a lust to be loved. Jack Kennedy had what Theodore Roosevelt called the guts of a chocolate eclaire when it came to action. We forget that Harry Truman invented limited warfare, Eisenhower, a mediocrity, was the best of the post-war lot."

We're at the nadir, it was acknowledged.

"The quest for Mr. Biggie is the last best hope of our time," said the Traveler.

Sylvia Porter: Polling The Pollsters Is Matter Of Opinion

SCARCELY A month goes by without my receiving a phone call (or even a personal visit) from some opinion collector—asking whether I clip grocery coupons, which of several local political candidates I support, if I think a woman should place the interests of her family and husband before her career, ad nauseum.

Opinion surveys claiming to measure Americans' tastes, values, habits and views have become nearly as common as weather reports. The only subject rarely examined is the public's attitude toward polls themselves.

But according to a provocative article, titled "Pollsters and Polling," in a relatively obscure journal, The Wilson Quarterly, Procter & Gamble once did ask Americans what they thought of polls.

THE ANSWER: less faith in pollsters than in the military or organized labor, but more than in the President or Congress.

Scientific opinion-gathering is a 40-year-old, $4 billion-a-year business, report the article's authors, David Gergen, former special counsel to President Ford, and William Schambra, until recently associate editor of Public Opinion magazine.

The basic profits come to the industry from commercial clients—trade associations, advertisers, market researchers, manufacturers—who want to know how frequently you eat at fast food chains or add bleach to your wash.

Some, too, subscribe for $20,000 a year to more general, quarterly surveys designed to gauge the temper and economic health of U.S. voters. Pollsters make little, if anything, from their widely publicized surveys on national issues.

of plus or minus 3 percent.

Enlarging the sample jacks up the cost without correspondingly lowering the margin of error. Reducing the sample cuts the cost but boosts the chance of error far too high.

(3) BEWARE OF breakdowns. Even with a sample of 1,500, national polls which break down results into such categories as race or age can produce unreliable findings.

The reason, say the authors: a random national survey of 1,500 adults will include only about 175 blacks. Reports of their views will be subject to a margin of error of 8 to 10 percent. (Some polls sample a much larger total to correct for this.)

(4) The significance you can attach to the results of a poll depends in large part on what people are being asked and how the question is worded.

"Our own experience suggests that when people answer questions dealing with personal experience," write Gergen and Schambra, "their views tend to be well-considered, lending the poll results more credence."

But when they are asked about subjects that they know little about (limiting arms production), they probably answer what is expected of them to get out of the embarrassing spot.

(5) BUT EVEN when people know what they're talking about, their feelings often are mixed and their opinions complicated. Their views can't be disclosed by such simple words as "excellent," "fair," "poor," etc. The views can be interpreted as negative or positive.

Thus, beware of black and white snapshots of developing and multi-hued mental pictures. Probe your polls and pollsters with care, assess the results that hit you almost daily with skepticism.

Berry's World

There are a dozen or more state polls: for instance, Mervin Field of California, and two independent, university-based survey groups, the National Opinion Research Center at the University of Chicago and the University of Michigan's Survey Research Center.

These latter two often do research for the federal government.

With so many opinion minions gathering and analyzing your thoughts, how can you—both the respondent to and reader of polls—tell a good survey from a bad one? Say Gergen and Schambra:

(1) THE MOST reliable way to select people to answer questions is through "random sampling." Using census data and computers, all of the leading university research outfits and commercial polling firms randomly choose areas of the country that are to be surveyed and particular homes within those areas. Respondents are not selected because of race, sex, age, religion, etc. Only geography is a factor.

(2) Most state and national polls collect the opinions of about 1,500 people. A random survey of a group this size produces, at least 95 percent of the time, results which have a margin of error

Equipment Error Blamed For Nuclear Accident

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional task force today blamed "design and equipment error" for the Three Mile Island nuclear accident, and the chairman said the same kind of accident could easily happen at another nuclear plant.

"Such an accident not only could happen again but it is likely to at any time," said Rep. Jim Weaver, D-Ore.

The task force concluded in a report to a House Interior subcommittee that while human error on the part of control room operators was a factor in the nation's worst nuclear accident March 28, it played a relatively minor role.

"I saw no operator error not closely related to design or equipment error and, therefore, it would be impossible to assume that merely more training could preclude accidents," Weaver said.

"Operators and engineers involved from the start of the accident repeatedly told the task force they did not know the extent of damage — the degree of serious danger — until one or two days after the damage had occurred," Weaver said.

Weaver accused officials of Metropolitan Edison, the utility that operates the plant, of grossly underestimating the true nature of the damage at the plant.

The task force said in a preliminary report that the operators at Three Mile Island were unable to halt the accident because their instruments conveyed data that was either wrong or hard to interpret.

"Throughout the early hours of the accident, the operators could not readily interpret (reactor) core temperatures," said the report.

Thus at the time when most of the damage was done to the fuel core at the plant's reactor No. 2, control room operators were responding to the emergency based on inaccurate information, the report indicated.

Those conclusions contrast with previous contentions by some Nuclear Regulatory Commission officials that operator error played a major role.

The task force report is the first congressional assessment of what went wrong at the nuclear plant near Harrisburg, Pa.

Central findings of the task force were that:

—Control room operators acted reasonably in light of the information available to them during the first hours of the March 28 accident and followed prescribed procedures.

—A pressure relief valve stuck in the open position was the single most serious malfunction, but conflicting information reaching the control room delayed a diagnosis of the problem for more than two hours.

—An emergency core cooling system that had turned on automatically was throttled back dramatically, contributing to reactor overheating, — but was done so based on confusing instrument readings and cannot be considered "operator error."

—Temperature in the reactor core soared to a dangerous 2000 degrees Fahrenheit during the first two hours of the accident but control room monitors were inadequate for measuring this high a temperature directly.

—Two valves on an auxiliary water pump system that mistakenly had been left closed when they should have been open contributed little to the severity of the accident.

Numerous Repairs Made At Texas Nuclear Plant

DALLAS (UPI) — Numerous repairs have had to be made to correct poor quality welding by inexperienced workers on pipes that will carry high-pressure radioactive materials at the Comanche Peak nuclear power plant at Glen Rose, a newspaper reports.

In a copyright story, the Dallas Morning News said Sunday federal inspectors required repairs on up to 60 percent of certain types of welds used at the $1.7 billion plant, under construction about 50 miles southeast of the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Inspection reports of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission showed that some pipes had to be repaired more than once, prompting federal inspectors to meet seven times in December and January with representatives of the companies building the facility, the newspaper said. Those companies are Dallas Power & Light Co., Texas Electric Service Co. and Texas Power and Light Co.

NRC officials blamed the low quality welding on inexperienced workers and said too many repairs could weaken bonds.

In an NRC report quoted by the Morning News, NRC Inspector R.G. Taylor told the companies he was "concerned" about both the high percentage of safety-related welds requiring repair and the number of repair cycles being utilized on some welds.

Construction of the plant is being overseen by Houston-based Brown & Root Inc., whose welding procedures now are being studied by a New York engineering firm hired by the sponsoring utilities after their meetings with NRC officials.

The NRC said most of the defective welds were found on stainless steel "Class 2" pipes, which carry radioactive steam or waste material in the reactors and are second only to Class 1 pipes in the amount of pressure they must endure.

William Seidle, chief of reactor construction for the NRC's regional office in Arlington, said it was too early to tell whether the number of welds requiring

Anti-Nukes Protest At Power Firm

READING, Pa. (AP) — Carrying placards and shouting slogans in front of an empty building, 2,000 foes of nuclear energy demonstrated at the headquarters of Metropolitan Edison Co., part-owner of the crippled Three Mile Island atomic plant.

"First you try to kill us, then you want to bill us," the demonstrators shouted Sunday, unleashing helium-filled balloons into the air to symbolize the release of radioactivity.

The Met Ed building, closed Sunday, was roped off and guarded by 50 state and city police during the 40-minute protest, organized by a Harrisburg-based anti-nuclear group called Three Mile Island Alert.

The demonstrators gathered in a park about two miles away and marched to the Met Ed building, where leaders read a list of demands.

They included the dismissal of federal Energy Secretary James Schlesinger, the assumption by Met Ed stockholders of costs arising from the nuclear accident and the repeal of the Price-Anderson Act, a federal nuclear-liability insurance statute.

The demands were presented to state Rep. Harold L. Brown, D-Reading, who participated in the march and who said he would give them to Met Ed president Walter Creitz.

In another development related to the Three Mile Island controversy, the presidential commission probing the accident awaits congressional authorization to subpoena witnesses and to take testimony under oath.

The commission was supposed to have conducted extensive hearings in Middletown last week, but limited its activities to one session Saturday during which local officials and residents expressed concerns.

In Washington, the Senate on Thursday approved legislation to give the panel oath-taking and subpoena authority. The House, however, has not acted.

repair had declined since the winter meetings with the companies. "It's really a process of trying to upgrade the experience of the welders," he told the newspaper.

An unidentified former worker at the plant expressed concern about the "very high turnover" among workers.

Attorneys Appeal Killers' Scheduled Executions

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Attorneys for two condemned killers, whose scheduled executions are just two days away, were taking appeals to the courts today in efforts to save their clients from Florida's electric chair.

David Kendall, attorney for John Spenkelink, 30, said he had filed a motion to vacate his client's death sentence.

He planned to go before the Florida Supreme Court today to ask justices to hear the appeal.

Robert Harper Jr., attorney for Willie Jasper Darden Jr., 45, said he would ask a federal court to stop Darden's execution until further appeals could be handled in state courts. Harper also planned to ask the trial judge to review the conviction.

Gov. Bob Graham signed death warrants for the two inmates Friday. He defended his action Sunday, telling reporters that the days since he signed the death warrants had been "extremely difficult" for him, but he felt he did the right thing.

"I'm convinced there will be less brutality in our society if it is made clear that we value human life. It will take this kind of step," he said.

Graham said he hoped his action would "cause somber reflection on the death penalty instead of an emotional reaction."

As he spoke, hundreds of protesters gathered on the steps of the state Capitol to hear an emotional address by Spenkelink's 67-year-old mother, who lives 11 miles from the prison where her son has been held since 1973.

Lois Spenkelink had wanted to talk with Graham or his wife in a personal appeal to stop the executions, but the governor's legal counsel, Robin Gibson, said that would be impossible.

Graham, however, told reporters that he was unaware Mrs. Spenkelink had gone to Tallahassee to see him. He was away from the capital to deliver a commencement address at Stetson University in DeLand.

Mrs. Spenkelink told an estimated 500 demonstrators that capital punishment should be outlawed.

Several members of the audience dabbed tears from their eyes as the white-haired widow spoke, leaning on a cane and clutching a list of prayers.

"We're all in society and if we let a person be killed, we're all guilty," she said. "What I ask for my son, I ask for everybody."

In North Carolina, Darden's father, William Jasper Sr., who can't read, didn't know until late last week that his son may die Wednesday in the Florida electric chair.

Darden, a 69-year-old repairman, has been relying on relatives for news of his son.

"I hope and trust the Lord that He will spare his life," the elder Darden said Sunday at his home outside Winstonburg in Greene County, in eastern North Carolina.

Spenkelink was convicted for the 1973 murder of Joseph Szymankiewicz, 45, of Detroit, in a Tallahassee motel room. Mrs. Spenkelink said her son has become a productive member of the prison society and that his life should be spared.

Darden was convicted of shooting and killing Lakeland, Fla., furniture store owner James Turman, who surprised Darden when the store was being robbed in 1973.

Egyptian Leader Pledges To Back Palestinians

By United Press International
Egypt's Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil says Cairo agreed to the revival of the Arab-Israeli peace conference in Geneva but other Arab states objected to the idea.

Khalil, addressing a political rally Sunday, vowed to fight for the rights of the Palestinians at the forthcoming talks with Israel on autonomy for the 1.1 million inhabitants of the Jordan West Bank and Gaza Strip.

The autonomy talks are scheduled to open Friday at Beersheba, a town in Israel's Negev desert.

A mechanized Israeli force crossed several hundred yards into south Lebanon today and took up positions around the frontier town of Chebaa, 1 mile from the Israeli-occupied Golan Heights.

A similar force entered the village last Saturday in search of Palestinian guerrillas.

The Israeli Cabinet went into special session today to approve a tough opening bargaining position in the forthcoming round of negotiations with Egypt on self-rule for the Palestinians in the occupied West Bank and Gaza.

The Cabinet was expected to endorse Prime Minister Menachem Begin's 22-point autonomy proposal, which seeks to give the Palestinians only limited self-rule and to keep Israel in control of the region.

Political sources in Jerusalem said Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan and Defense Minister Ezer Weizman had objections to Begin's proposal, which reportedly reflect a hardline determination to keep control over the territories occupied in the 1967 war.

Dayan and Weizman were said to believe that such a tough opening position would make it harder to normalize relations with Egypt as called for in the peace treaty signed in March.

Khalil said Arab countries that rejected the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty failed to come up with an alternative for realizing Middle East peace.

"Some countries have called for a return to the Geneva conference and (Egypt's) President Anwar Sadat agreed to this," he said. "But other countries said who wants to return to Geneva?"

Khalil did not go into details, but Jordan is understood to favor the revival of the conference, which met only briefly in December 1973.

Echoing Khalil's remarks, Butros Ghali, State Minister for Foreign Affairs, said there was no contradiction between Egypt's treaty with Israel and the "call for an international conference on the Middle East problem because Egypt's objective is an overall solution of this problem."

Sadat had promised last month to give careful consideration to a call issued by Romanian President Nicolae Ceausescu for reconvening the Geneva parley in order to bring other Arabs into the peacemaking process.

Ghali said recent statements by Israeli officials about a restricted form of autonomy for the Palestinians "violate the spirit of the Camp David framework and the Egyptian-Israeli treaty."

"These statements are not helpful in the search for a comprehensive peace in the Middle East," Ghali said.

Khalil, who will lead the Egyptian delegation to the talks, said: "We will fight to safeguard the rights of the Palestinian people."

Ghali conceded the Palestinians have refused to take part in the negotiations but said "secret consultations" were underway between Egypt and some "nationalist" Palestinians and could continue.

Agriculture Minister Ariel Sharon Sunday repeated Israel's insistence that no Palestinian state will be established in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, saying the Palestinians should turn to Jordan as their homeland.

Begin's plan reportedly denies any legislative powers to the administrative councils to be elected in the occupied territories, maintains Israel's control over public land, water resources, defense and internal security and provides for continued Jewish settlement there.

Gonzalez Quits Spanish Socialist Party

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Spain's Socialist Party went into receivership today after a party feud over Marxist doctrine drove moderate Felipe Gonzalez to step down as party leader at a tumultuous national convention.

Refusing to bow to demands from rank-and-file militants to move Spain's second biggest political force further to the left, Gonzalez quit Sunday after losing to what his opponents termed a "vote of punishment" that declared the party "one of the masses, Marxist, democratic and federal."

After hours of wrangling the 2,000-delegate convention could not come up with a single candidate to replace the 37-year-old Gonzalez and settled for naming a six-member caretaker to run the party for the next six months.

The walkout by the general secretary, considered one of Europe's brightest new Socialist stars, left the Spanish opposition to Premier Adolfo Suarez' centrist government floundering.

Although there was agreement to call a new convention within six months, the respite seemed unlikely to solve the Socialist split.

Gonzalez, who led the party from an underground life under the Franco regime to finish second behind Suarez in two general elections, said he could not stay on for ethical reasons after party radicals demanded a Marxist definition for the party.

"You have to be Socialist before you are a Marxist," he told the convention in announcing he would not be a candidate for re-election as secretary general, a post he has held since 1974.

The party division was compounded by charges Gonzalez' leadership had expelled 200 members for too much Marxism, had lost votes for the party in the March general elections by not being militant enough against the government and was running the party in a high-handed manner.

Gonzalez aides said Madrid's new Socialist mayor, Enrique Tierno-Galvan, a Marxist professor, tried to get together another ticket to replace Gonzalez but failed.

The split in the Spanish Socialist Workers' Party, as it celebrated its 100th birthday, was expected to complicate Socialist-Communist rule of Spain's major city halls won by the left in municipal elections one month ago.

Duchess Of Windsor Falls Ill

PARIS (UPI) — The 82-year-old Duchess of Windsor, bedridden and secluded for the past two years in her elegant home in the Bois de Boulogne, has been admitted to the American Hospital for treatment of an unspecified infection.

Doctors said Sunday the duchess, the former Wallis Simpson, was responding to treatment but declined to say how long she would remain hospitalized. She was admitted Thursday.

The duchess underwent surgery for intestinal blockage at the hospital in February.

She has been in failing health since the Duke of Windsor, who as Edward VIII abdicated the English throne in 1936 to marry the American divorcee, died from throat cancer in 1972.

In 1973 the duchess broke her hip in a fall but regained her mobility. Two years ago she was confined to her bed and last year doctors advised against any visitors.

"Actually, the duchess never recovered from her husband's death and after that from the massive hemorrhage she suffered two years ago," said Suzanne Blum, her lawyer.

"Right now she is in a pretty sad state and even I try not to bother her," Mrs. Blum said. "It's a matter of decency. Knowing the duchess, I'm sure she wouldn't like to be seen in the state she's in."

Mrs. Blum said the duchess was not being sequestered.

"The decision to keep visitors away was strictly on doctors' orders," she said. "Up to a year ago when friends came, they talked too much, often about parties, and that sent the duchess' blood pressure up. So the doctors decided to cut visitors out."

Since the duchess has been absent from the Paris social world she dominated for so many years, wild rumors about her have surfaced. It has been said all her personal possessions are to go to a dog's hospital after her death, that the French government is to expel her from the home they gave her and the duke, that the home is being pilfered.

Mrs. Blum said, "It's no secret that the duke left her everything, period. What will happen after her is another matter, which I am not in a position to discuss."

Dominica, Saint Lucia Expected To Join OAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two tiny Caribbean islands, Dominica and Saint Lucia, are expected to join other English-speaking Caribbean ministates this week as members of the Organization of American States.

Dominica and Saint Lucia, the Western Hemisphere's newest independent nations, are located north and south, respectively, of the French overseas territory of Martinique.

The OAS meets in a special session Tuesday to consider the two nations' membership applications, and their approval is assured. With one exception, the OAS has yet to deny entry to an independent hemispheric country.

The exception is Guyana, a former British colony that became independent in 1964. It has observer status in the OAS but cannot become a full member until it solves its territorial dispute with an OAS-member nation — Venezuela.

Dominica and Saint Lucia are also former British colonies. As OAS members they join other such small Caribbean nations as Grenada and Barbados.

Dominica and Saint Lucia will bring the total OAS Membership to 28, including Cuba, which is still considered a full member even though the Fidel Castro government was excluded in 1962.

Other former British colonies, now OAS members, are Jamaica and Trinidad-Tobago. Belize, which will become independent soon, could join once it solves a territorial dispute with its Central American neighbor of Guatemala.

Dominica, situated halfway between the French islands Martinique and Guadeloupe, has an area of 305 square miles and 77,000 inhabitants. Its capital is Roseau, located on the western shore.

Saint Lucia is a bit smaller than Dominica with 238 square miles, but its population is slightly larger — about 110,000. Its capital is Castries, on the island's northwestern shore.

The one-day OAS meeting will also elect members of the newly-created Inter-American Human Rights Court, which will be based in San Jose, capital of Costa Rica.

Researcher Devises New Weather Map

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government researcher in Colorado has developed new solar weather maps to help forecast electronic disturbances that can affect radio signals and power lines and cause other problems on Earth.

Patrick S. McIntosh of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration says the maps show the circulation of the sun's gasses and their relationship to disturbances that can produce dangerous radiation, block radio waves and interrupt power lines and telephone circuits.

Two-Headed Turtle Causes Problems

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — David Wayne Rice, 6, faced an unusual problem recently — finding a name for his pet turtle which has two heads.

David finally named him Herman and Bo.

His mother, Jean Rice, says Herman — the right head — seems more active than Bo.

The turtle was found in their backyard.

Since the duchess has been absent from the Paris social world she dominated for so many years, wild rumors about her have surfaced. It has been said all her personal possessions are to go to a dog's hospital after her death, that the French government is to expel her from the home they gave her and the duke, that the home is being pilfered.

Local Schools Earn Awards

By JEFF McCASLIN
Avalanche-Journal Staff
Pounding rain didn't stop the proud students from Lubbock schools who were the recipients this morning of spring beautification awards at the Chamber of Commerce.

Seven public schools, including one high school, two junior high schools and four elementary schools, were cited for student enthusiasm and participation in a program sponsored by the LISD and the beautification committee of the Chamber of Commerce to keep school campuses clean and presentable.

The seven schools chosen to receive the traveling awards for the spring competition include Lubbock High School, Hutchinson and Thompson junior high schools, and Maedgen, Hunt, Bayless and McWhorter elementary schools.

Presenting plaques to senior and junior high school winners was Jose Ramirez, co-chairman of the beautification committee and school board member. Bob Covington, also co-chairman of the chamber's beautification committee, presented plaques to the elementary school winners.

"All of you are winners," said Dr. E.C. Leslie, assistant superintendent for administration, in reference to the 52 schools that participated in the program. "Everybody did well but you did better than that," he told the winners.

"This program gives us the motivation we need to keep our schools clean, especially with all the after-school activities we have. And it gives you the students a way of expressing that pride," Leslie said.

Covington told the recipients that he was impressed by how clean the elementary schools were when he visited one for the first time after moving to Lubbock 15 years ago.

Accepting the award from Lubbock High School were senior Linda Shrimplin and Richard Umstot, director of student activity.

Umstot said school pride helped them win the award.

Accepting the award from Thompson Junior High School was Zeke Carrizales; Denise Hobbs, campus chairman of the beautification committee, and student body president Chuck Rodgers represented Hutchinson Junior High School.

Student council officers accepted the award for McWhorter Elementary school. They are Joe Gonzales; president, Maria Benton, vice president; Elizabeth Bengoa, treasurer; Carol Alvarez, secretary; and Cindy Martinez, parliamentarian. Principal Orasco Ramon and assistant principal Gerald Judd also attended the ceremonies.

Students Jeni James and Lane English and teachers Shirley Weston and Barbara Wright attended the ceremonies from Bayless Elementary School.

Roderick James of Hunt Elementary and Steve Collier of Maedgen Elementary were on hand to receive awards from their respective schools.

Bakery Seeks Help Of Founder

PIKESVILLE, Md. (AP) — Silbers, the Baltimore-area bakery sued for $600,000 by a couple who claimed they found a rat baked into a loaf of its firm's rye bread, has called one of its founders — 87-year-old Dora Silber — out of retirement to help battle the bad publicity.

"Silbers, the people who love Baltimore," proclaim its new ads aimed at overcoming the stigma of closing for six days to clean up a roach and rodent infestation and the impact of the lawsuit filed April 18 by William and Audrey Buchanan.

Mrs. Silber, who first sold the bakery's breads and pastries almost 70 years ago, is posing in its baking plant to give a motherly touch to an ad campaign proclaiming, "We bake Silbers with pride. You can buy Silbers with confidence."

The bakery announced Friday that it's closing six of its 32 stores and will probably close another six within a year, but spokesman Tom Reda said the consolidation had nothing to do with the bakery's recent troubles.

State and federal inspectors found evidence of rat and roach infestation on April 20, and when the plant failed a makeup inspection on April 23 after a weekend cleanup, Silbers was faced with a choice of closing voluntarily or being closed down by the health department.

Silbers chose to close voluntarily, but the incident shattered its popular image as the maker of almost home-baked goodies sold by matronly women in white behind counters filled with small sweets, pies, cakes, cookies, specialty items, breads and rolls.

"All we've stood for 70 years has been damaged. We've never been closed before except for snow. This building has been used as a model of the way a bakery should be run," Sam Silber, company president, said when the bakery reopened on April 30.

Company officials estimate they lost $100,000 worth of business while the plant and Silbers' stores were closed.

They aren't willing to elaborate on the cost of the goods recalled at the same time, the cost of the plant cleanup and the loss of business since the plant reopened.

"Any publicity will make many viewers aware of what the situation is. We want to bury it before it ends," Reda, marketing and sales director, said earlier this month.

But later, he confirmed that by mid-May daily sales had finally climbed to 50 percent of the normal level for the first time since the April closing. Reda predicted that sales would be back to 90 percent of normal by early June.

The firm had annual sales of $5 million through its stores and 70 wholesale contracts last year.

"People are coming back in increasing numbers. Every day is a little better than the day before. I'm sure it's only a matter of time before we get back all of our customers," said Reda.

Suspected Terrorist Escapes NY Hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — Suspected FALN terrorist William Guillermo Morales, who lost most of both hands when his bomb factory exploded, today escaped from the Bellevue Hospital prison ward by climbing down a rope of elastic bandages, police said.

Morales, 28, who has been convicted in both state and federal courts of various weapons and explosives charges, put a dummy in his bed, used a smuggled bolt cutter to chop through wire mesh over his window and dropped about three stories to the ground.

Police Inspector John McCabe said Morales "did have some grabbing power in his hands" despite his maimed condition. He said the rope broke Morales's descent and he fell at least 20 feet. "It looks like he may have been injured," he said.

Morales' eyeglasses with one lens broken were found on the ground along with the broken rope of bandages.

"It's some drop, but when you're facing 99 years you haven't got that much to lose," said one investigator.

Morales was last seen by guards when he awoke to use the bathroom at 2 a.m., according to McCabe, of the Arson and Explosion Division. At 7:25 a.m. guards entered the room and found the dummy in his bed.

M McCabe said they presumed that he escaped between 2:30 and 5 a.m.

Gerald Brown, chief of operations for the Correction Department, said the bolt cutters were found on Morales's bed "and somebody had to smuggle them in to him."

Brown said Morales' last visitor was a woman on Saturday but he said it was not a contact visit. He did not identify the woman.

Morales, who had one thumb and a total of four fingers left on his two hands, was "pretty dexterous," Brown said. He was serving his term in the hospital prison ward so he could be fitted for artificial hands, but did not have them when he escaped.

Brown said Morales was assigned to a room by himself and had his own guard. He was reported missing at 7:25 a.m. and "the guard who had responsibility for him said he was in his bed at 7 a.m." Brown said the guard had actually seen the dummy, rather than Morales.

Brown said Morales had to cut through double mesh wiring on the inside of the window and a regular mesh screen on the outside. There is a ledge at his window, which on the second

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

I love the story about the Burbank appliance dealer who was having a tough time getting rid of discarded appliances. He kept putting them in the alley but there wasn't a service organization or a city truck in the world that would pick them up.

Finally, he got a brainstorm. He marked a price on them and by the end of the day they were all stolen.

Sometimes, when you can't beat the system, you just have to work within its confines. I found that out long ago with children. The only way we could get one of the kids to wash and wax the car was to let him have it for a date.

To get the lawn mowed, we invested in a riding mower. They killed one another for the chance to cut the grass. When my daughter's bedroom became a fire hazard, all I had to do was say, "Why don't you have a slumber party?" Within hours, she had brought it up to health standards.

"It was sneaky, but I used to move leftovers by putting a note on them saying, 'DO NOT TOUCH. THIS IS FOR THE PARTY.'"

The other day I was on the phone when I noted a message scribbled in my husband's handwriting: Carpers 6 p.m. dinner, Wednesday.

I remembered the Carpers. Her first name was either Bambi, Popah, Cupcake, Sleepy, Happy, Sneezzy — or one of the dwarfs. I couldn't remember which. I was at her house once and felt like a fool when I ate a strawberry in a small dish in her bathroom and it was soap.

Well, I wasn't going to be caught with my decor down when they came to dinner. I set about replacing light bulbs in every room in the house, bought live plants where before there had been death and brownness. Cleared off the countertop. Took the ironing board down, bought a set of matching glasses and took all the empty shampoo bottles out of the shower.

I brought in the sled from the porch, scratched a "THIS HOUSE IS BEING PATROLLED BY A TWO-YEAR-OLD" decal off my kitchen window and took a manger scene out of the bookcase.

My husband looked around and said, "I forgot to tell you. We're invited to the Carpers' for dinner Wednesday."

I had been beaten at my own game.

Dry Beans Get French Flair

WASHINGTON (Special) — The French have a famous flair for using simple methods and easily available food to concoct their greatest dishes. Here are some great ideas from the U.S. Department of Agriculture on ways to prepare inexpensive, plentiful dry beans with a Gallic touch.

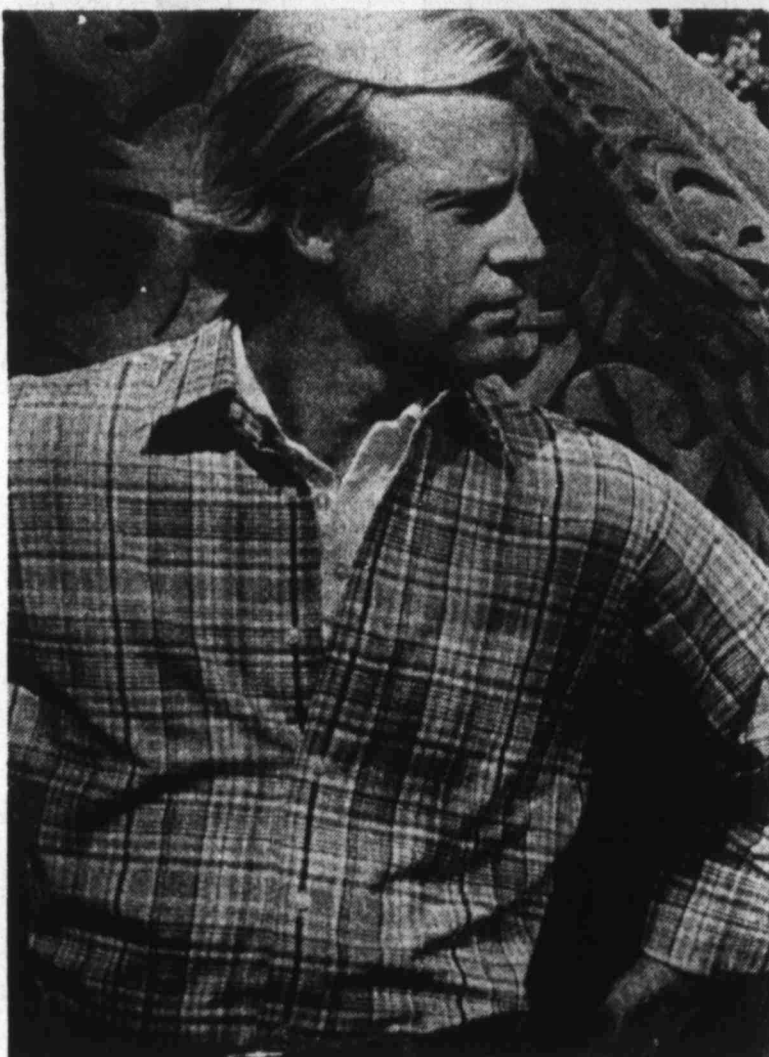

Each piece de resistance starts with plain, tender, boiled dry beans. Before boiling, beans should be washed and soaked for 24 hours in a cool place. If you don't have time to soak them, try boiling them in lightly salted water for 2 minutes and then allow them to stand for one hour.

The next time you cook carrots, beets, turnips, potatoes and other vegetables, save the stock and use it to soak and cook dry beans. Add a generous hunk of fresh butter and an onion stuck with cloves. After 15 or 20 minutes, remove the onion, add some red wine and salt and pepper to taste. Garnish with glazed onions or cut up lobster tails or even sauteed oysters or clams.

To add a little extra zest in any bean dish, try a bouquet garni: Fill a small cheesecloth bag with parsley, thyme and bay leaf. Add this to the beans while cooking and remove before continuing with the recipe.

Navy beans make a delicious side dish vegetable, especially when prepared with a touch of Gallic flare. Sautee boiled beans in butter and season with nutmeg. When beans are slightly browned, add enough heavy or sour cream to coat all the beans, sprinkle with crisp fried celery. Serve hot.

Another variation on beans as a side dish starts in much the same way. Sautee beans in either melted marrow or butter until slightly browned. Pepper liberally and mix with whole seedless white grapes which have been blanched in salt water.

THE COMFORT OF COTTON — This new durable press shirt is 100% cotton, machine washable and dryable and it is improved by body temperature.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR READERS: No problems today. Instead, I am devoting my entire column to tips that could save your life.

Let's pretend you're a contestant on "Hollywood Squares," and you are asked the following question:

"More people are killed every year by (a) tornadoes, (b) cyclones, (c) lightning."

If you said (c) "lightning," you would be right.

Michael Mogil of the National Weather Service says that most deaths caused by lightning could have been avoided if only common sense had been used. But common sense is not as common as most people think it is.

Lightning occurs during thunderstorms, so the logical time to start protecting yourself is when you see the storm clouds gathering.

As a general rule, avoid high places, metal and water!

If you are outdoors, seek shelter in a house or other large building. (Steer clear of sheds or small buildings in isolated areas.)

If you are on the golf course, and can't reach a building, first drop your golf club, then head for your car — assuming the car is not a convertible, it will act as a "cage" to protect you. (The metal picks up the lightning, conducts it around you and into the ground.) Stay in the car. Keep windows and doors (and sun roof) shut.

Never stand under a tall tree. If lightning strikes the tree, electricity can run down the trunk, through the roots, into the ground and into your body.

If you are riding a motorcycle, bicycle or tractor — get off. The rubber tires will not protect you.

If you are caught in a flat, open field, bend down and put your hands on your knees. Do not lie down on the ground. Maintain minimum contact with the ground.

If you are inside, close windows and doors. Lightning can strike through an open window.

Don't take a bath during a thunderstorm. If electricity strikes the plumbing system, it can be conducted into the tub.

Don't use the telephone unless it is absolutely necessary. Electricity can travel through the telephone wires.

If you are jogging, stop and get out of the wide-open spaces or you can run into trouble. You are far safer indoors as long as the doors and windows are closed. Most deaths and injuries from lightning occur outdoors; almost half of all people killed by lightning are engaged in outdoor recreation.

Don't rely on rubber-soled shoes to protect you. Lightning can carry a jolt of up to 100 million volts. Rubber soles are insignificant as an insulator.

It's also not true that lightning never strikes twice in the same place. The conditions that attract the lightning bolt in the first place can attract it again. Have a safe summer.

Q.1—As South, vulnerable you hold:

♠AQ103 ♥K64 ♦K52 ♣K65

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—You have very sound opening bid values, especially if you take into account that the king of clubs has gained in worth. You should be sure of game, and there is no question about where you want the hand played. Bid three no trump. Don't bid two no trump. This is only invitational and partner will almost surely decline if he has a minimum.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AQ7 ♥AQ1095 ♦63 ♣Q43

The bidding has proceeded: South West North East 1 ♥ Pass 1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—An old friend in a new guise. Should we raise partner despite the fact that we have only three-card support, or rebid hearts to show a good five-card suit? When partner's response is in a major, it is usually sound policy to raise his suit, if your hand meets the requirements. This one does, so two spades is the recommended action. Besides, if you rebid two hearts, partner is likely to suspect that you are not interested in his suit, and this suspicion will be difficult to correct later in the auction.

Q.3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

CITRUS TEA BREAD

1 1/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 tps. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 cup coarsely chopped pecans
1 1/2 tps. grated orange peel
1 cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
1 cup milk
2 eggs, beaten
1/3 cup butter or margarine, melted
3 tpsps. orange juice

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and cinnamon into a large bowl. Stir in brown sugar, pecans, orange peel and oats. Combine milk, eggs and melted butter. Add to dry ingredients. Add orange juice and stir until dry ingredients are moistened. Spoon batter into 4 greased 10 1/2-oz. empty soup cans; fill about 2/3 full.

Bake in preheated moderate oven (350-degrees F.) 40 to 45 minutes. Cool on wire rack about 10 minutes. Remove from cans; cool thoroughly. Wrap cooled bread in plastic wrap and store overnight for ease in slicing. Makes 4 small loaves.

1 ♠ 1 NT 2 ♠ 2 ♦

Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—You have a good hand opposite a partner who could make a takeout double and then bid freely. Even though you have already shown values, you should not allow the bidding to die at two diamonds when partner obviously has a strong hand. Either a bid of two no trump, which is our preference, or three diamonds is recommended.

Q.4—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠K9 ♥QJ1076 ♦KJ ♣6432

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 ♠ 2 ♠ 2 ♥ Pass 3 ♦ Pass 3 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass 4 ♦ Pass 4 ♥ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—While it is true that you have done a considerable amount of bidding, your hand has improved as the auction progressed. Both your kings are the equivalent of aces, and glamorous ones at that. Partner has bid vigorously, and he rates to be given one more chance. We suggest you try five hearts.

Q.5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AQ92 ♥6432 ♦1073 ♣104

Partner opens the bidding with one heart. What do you respond?

A.—You will find yourself in a difficult position if you respond one spade and partner rebids two hearts—you will be obliged to pass, thus concealing from partner the splendid support you have for his suit. The proper procedure is to make a single raise—a bid of two hearts gets you off the spot at once.

Q.6—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠65 ♥A74 ♦Q642 ♣J763

The bidding has proceeded: North East South West 1 ♠ Pass 1 NT Pass 2 ♦ Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Opener's rebid in a lower-ranking suit than his first bid is not forcing on you as responder. Therefore, unless you visualize a possible game, there is no point in taking a second bid. That is certainly the case here, so pass.

Q.7—North-South vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠QJ32 ♥J63 ♦AJ5 ♣KQ10

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West 1 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass 3 NT Pass ?

What action do you take?

A.—Normally, you would prefer to play in a 4-4 major fit. Here, however, you have a perfectly balanced hand with no ruffing value and at least one honor in every suit. Since there is no reason why you should suppose that a suit contract will play better than no trump, pass.

Q.8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

The bidding has proceeded: ♠QJ10986 ♥2 ♦J42 ♣J53

West North East South 1 ♠ 2 ♥ Dbble. ?

What action do you take?

A.—We are not in the habit of rescuing partner from his folly, but this is a special case and should be considered on its merits. We have absolutely no help for partner in any contract, and it looks as if he is running into a terrible trump break. However, if you play the hand in spades, you will certainly take four trump tricks in your own hand, and anything partner can contribute will limit the damage. With a thoughtful partner, we suggest you bid two spades. With any other kind, you would do better not to complicate matters because he is unlikely to let you play in two spades.

Suicide Rate Rises Among Young

By JEANNE LIVELY
Family News Staff

At the age of 17, brown-eyed, auburn-haired Michael Smith (not his real name) ran away from his home in Parsons, Kan. When a juvenile probation officer spotted him with two girls, also runaways, he was put in Hereford, which had been supposed to be only a temporary stop on a planned trip to California. He fretted in his cell for the rest of the day after being arrested.

On the following day about 9:40 a.m., according to a news story, a county jailer checked Michael's cell and the youth requested cigarettes for both the girls and himself. Returning about 11:15 a.m. with the cigarettes, the jailer found Smith dead.

The youth had made a noose from his shirt and looped it over a clothes hook six feet above the floor. Apparently he'd climbed on a small table to reach the hook, tied his feet together with a towel and stepped off the table. Before this last fatal act, the youth had never shown any suicidal tendencies.

Michael left a note to his father saying he "just wanted to be free."

Although this tragedy occurred in a small West Texas city, similar incidents are being duplicated at an alarming rate in Des Moines, New York City and every other city in America.

The suicide figures among young people are frightening.

During the years 1945-1969, the suicide rate among the young was 4.9 percent per population of 100,000 in the United States, according to author Arnold Madison, who wrote "Suicide and Young People."

Also according to Madison, in 1970-72, the rate had almost doubled to 9.2 percent per 100,000, while the national overall rate of suicide had only increased 0.7 percent. The first ranking cause of teenage deaths was automobile accidents, followed by suicide as the second highest killer of people between the ages of ten and twenty-four.

These figures do not include what many psychiatrists refer to as "the masked suicides": those who "kill themselves without killing themselves."

John B. of a midwest city may have been one of these, but who will ever know for certain?

Not that John hadn't always "pranked" when driving — recklessly weaving in and out of heavy traffic, driving too fast generally and taking unnecessary chances, according to his peers.

While John came from a loving, stable home, both parents were professional people and extremely busy. Still, if this never bothered the teenager, no one knew it. In fact, John appeared to be unusually fun-loving and happy-go-lucky.

His friends admitted, however, that once John got behind the wheel of the expensive sports car his parents had bought him, he became a different person. In the past, sometimes his hostility and aggressiveness while driving had gotten him into trouble with other drivers and the police.

At the time of John's fatal accident, onlookers reported that it seemed to them he'd actually "dared" the train to slow down to avoid hitting his vehicle. As the grief-stricken engineer said later, "It's a nightmare. Looks like anyone would have realized that I couldn't slow down a whole train fast enough."

The tragic incident was listed as an accident by police investigators — but was it?

There are also pre-suicidal teenagers who either are consciously or unconsciously attempting to take their own lives. Among these are: the alcohol and drug abuser; the teenage diabetic who conveniently forgets to take medication and becomes dangerously ill; the girl who literally starves herself when no diet is indicated and the young person who suffers chronic, debilitating illness, yet in the face of asthma continues smoking.

And, finally, there are those accident-prone individuals who cannot avoid hurting themselves or others.

The experts feel there are more suicides than are indicated by the statistics. In any case, too many young people are either contemplating suicide or becoming a part of the grim national statistics.

Why are teenagers taking this tragic way out?

A local psychiatrist, who counsels many students and young adults, says he can only conjecture why young people are rushing headlong to take their own lives. Through his own observations and experiences, however, and to his surprise, many young people he speaks with reveal "leftover" feelings from the immediate post-war generation (early 70s).

Students frequently express non-patriotic feelings, have subversive concepts towards authority (i.e., their professors), profess anti-war sentiments. Most appear to have no role models to look up to, to emulate.

"When I asked one individual whom she admired most in the world," the doctor said, "she could think of no one."

Many students presenting themselves for brief psychotherapy admitted drug use or abuse. Most thought alcohol in particular was not helping their situation.

al problems.

"The young adults talked mostly," the psychiatrist said, "about feeling lonely (though they didn't understand why); having a sense of hopelessness and helplessness in their lives; and of having a distinct sense of alienation from the families they loved. Each, in so many words, expressed a sterile fight for identity."

Reading these words, many parents may think, "Well, all this pertains to young adults, not my child. He's too young to think of suicide."

Although statistics do not always tell the true situation, since under-20 deaths are usually listed as accidents by medical examiners, the truth is that hospitals are treating nine, ten and eleven-year-old suicide attempters, whether they care to admit it or not.

The psychiatrist lists several warnings of possible suicidal intent: "depression that lasts longer than a period of a few weeks; voicing of 'clues' of suicidal thoughts, such as 'I may not be around tomorrow'; changes in behaviour habits or usual activities; involvement in alcohol or drug substance abuse; breakdown of usual good communication between parent and child."

These signals are especially ominous when evidence of apparent plans for taking one's life are noticed.

For the benefit of parents, the doctor emphasized, "If you think your child may be contemplating suicide, get professional help immediately. And do not shy away from telling the child exactly why professional help is indicated. Tell him that if he had a broken leg you would take him to a doctor and how he is feeling now is no different."

"Be assured, however, your child can be helped to recover from this crisis," the doctor said.

The Slim Gourmet

By Barbara Gibbons

Here are the 10 most dangerous fallacies about fat — and fat people. How many do you believe?

1. FAT PEOPLE EAT MORE THAN OTHER PEOPLE — Do you think life is a banquet for fat people? Studies show that many fat people eat less than their slimmer counterparts. However, it is true that fat people consume more calories than they can use up. Thin people are more active.

2. FAT PEOPLE ARE LAZY — If fat people are less active, their apparent lack of physical energy isn't due to laziness or lack of moral fiber. For whatever reason, some bodies are more adept at turning food into fat instead of activity. The same person, however, may have huge amounts of mental muscle and steely self-discipline for non-physical tasks: finishing the annual report, making the sale, meeting the tax deadline. Never count on somebody wearing an "I'd rather play tennis" T-shirt!

3. ANYONE CAN BE FAT IF THEY JUST LET THEMSELVES GO — Not true! While some thin people may practice caution to keep themselves thinner than they would otherwise be, it's also unlikely that the "constitutionally thin" could ever consume enough food to become obese. Their appetites simply wouldn't cooperate. They'd become nauseated long before the calories could add up. It's more difficult for a thin person to gain weight than it is for a fat one to lose.

4. FAT PEOPLE HAVE NO WILL-POWER — Far from being a spineless stuffy who can't say "no" to another potato or a second piece of pie, the average fat person is saying "no" all the time. Few fat people eat as much as they could or would like to eat. It's just that their desire for food is so much greater.

5. FAT PEOPLE CARE MORE ABOUT FOOD THAN ANYTHING ELSE — Actually, they tend to care more about everything! Fat people are keenly sensitive and sensual and have a gusty appetite for all sorts of enjoyments — music, art, sex, love and friendship, as well as food. But because of personal appearance, some fat people become closed off from other enjoyments and their focus is forcibly narrowed to food.

6. FAT PEOPLE WILL GO TO ANY LENGTHS FOR A GOOD MEAL — Actually, studies demonstrate that fat people are less likely than thin people to fuss over food. The person most likely to walk a mile to find a good restaurant is thin.

7. FAT BABIES INEVITABLY BECOME FAT ADULTS — The "fat-cell theory" is by no means a proven one. There is conflicting evidence: Some studies suggest that overfeeding in infancy produces excess fat cells which can lead to weight problems later on. Other studies don't bear these out. If you were a fat baby, don't accept overweight as a life sentence. On the other hand, fattening up your own baby isn't a good idea, either.

8. FAT IS INEVITABLE AS YOU GET OLDER — Adding pounds along with years may be common, but it's not inevitable. Calorie needs DO diminish with each passing year; those who modify their eating habits accordingly can retain their youthful slimmness.

9. FAT IS 'ABNORMAL' — American society treats fat people as if they were a despised minority, yet the majority of Americans over 40 are overweight!

10. FAT IS AN 'INCURABLE DISEASE' — the most dangerous fallacy of all! For the most part, "diet doctors" have failed to bring about a permanent "cure" with drugs, fasts and semi-starvation routines. The failure of this "medical" approach is taken as evidence that turning fat people into thin people is hopeless... a depressing and pessimistic outlook that can become a self-fulfilling prophecy if you believe it. Countless former fatties have succeeded in shedding excess pounds by taking charge of their eating patterns.

THE TRUTH ABOUT FAT PEOPLE: Some people ARE biologically programmed to fatten up on few calories and are less able to turn food into physical activity. Exactly why this is so is uncertain: It may be genes or upbringing (or more likely, both). Whatever the reason, the tendency to gain weight is not due to laziness or lack of willpower, nor can it be "cured" with appetite suppressants, drugs, fasts or fad diets. But fat-prone people can become and stay slim if they accept the fact that they can't eat as others do. They must avoid empty-calorized fats, sugars and refined starches, and design their menus from filling, non-fattening, nutritious foods: fresh fruits and vegetables, lean meat, poultry and seafood, low-fat dairy foods and bulky, high-fiber whole grains. For life.

Blue-Collar Women Upgrade Skills

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The average woman will work half her adult life, but too many women fail to take time to train for jobs that are interesting or have a future, says Muriel Lederer, author of a number of career books.

"Women go to work and they think it's going to be temporary," she says. "If they're young, they think they'll get married and have children. If they have family responsibilities and need a new refrigerator or somebody needs an operation, they think they're going to quit after paying for them."

"But they don't quit," adds Mrs. Lederer, 49, whose latest book is "Blue-Collar Jobs for Women," a comprehensive guide on how to acquire skills and employment in that category.

"Then," she continues, "they're stuck in an unskilled, unpromising, low-paying, women's ghetto-type job with no future. It's mindless work, and 20 years later they're still at it and are regretful that they let this happen."

For a woman who has no professional training, and especially if she is head of a household and supporting children, blue-collar jobs are well worth investigating, she says.

Mrs. Lederer defines a blue-collar worker as "someone who is usually paid by the hour, rather than paid a fixed salary each week. She has a job in the trades, probably doing physical work and work with her hands."

In interviews with numerous women working at blue-collar jobs, she found they considered the high pay important but saw many other advantages. She suggests that such jobs may be a good choice for a woman who:

- Likes outdoor or manual work; wants independence on the job; enjoys seeing people and moving around; wants a job with specific duties and hours; prefers to dress informally on the job; doesn't mind getting dirty; likes to see her work result in a product she can see and take pride in; wants seniority, security, wages, benefits and promotions spelled out in a union contract and not tied to office politics.

"It's a matter of your own ambition," Mrs. Lederer says. "It's not easy work, but it is interesting and it's work that you can grow in. Anybody who's lifted children and groceries has enough strength for almost any job."

By mid-1977 women held more than 18 percent or 5.4 million of the nation's 29 million blue-collar jobs. From black-smith to plumber, most traditionally male jobs have been opened up earlier by women, she points out, but "you still get stares and still run into some harassment on the job."

If it's an occupation where there is a job shortage and a woman gets the job because of federal legislation, she's going to have more harassment, but the better qualified she is for the work, the fewer problems she'll encounter, Mrs. Lederer says.

Among the ways to achieve the training and skills, she suggests public or private trade or vocational schools and community colleges. There are also apprenticeships and on-the-job training, and some unions have a women's program.

"Don't let inability to pay for training hold you back," she cautions. "The same government grants and loans available to kids for four-year college are available for vocational training. Where there is a shortage of workers, often the company will foot the bill."

First, you need to know what the job you are interested in entails, advises Mrs. Lederer, who has included extensive source lists in her book.

"Do you know what a millwright does during an average day? If a woman is disillusioned and quits after a short time she makes it harder for the next person — the boss says 'We had a woman before and she couldn't take it,'" she explains.

Mrs. Lederer, who conducts workshops for women re-entering the job market and lectures on career planning for women, attended Vassar and has a degree in economics from Lake Forest College. She lives in Winnetka, Ill., with her husband, a manufacturer's representative, 17-year-old son and 12-year-old daughter. An older married daughter is a bank lending officer.

Relieves Tormenting Rectal Pain And Itch, Helps Shrink Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues

... Due to inflammation. Gives prompt, temporary relief from such burning itch and pain in many cases.

The burning itch and pain caused by infection and inflammation in hemorrhoidal tissues can cause much suffering. But there is an exclusive formulation that in many cases gives prompt relief for hours from this itch and pain so that the sufferer is more comfortable again. It also actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation and infection. Tests by doctors on hundreds of patients in New York City, Washington, D.C. and at a Midwest Medical Center reported similar successful results in many cases. This is the same medication you can buy at any drug counter under the name Preparation H.

Preparation H also lubricates to protect the inflamed surface area and it doesn't sting or smart. In fact, it has very soothing qualities which make it especially helpful during the night when itching becomes more intense.
There's no other formula like Preparation H. In ointment or suppository form.

Nicaragua's Rebels Kill Guardsmen

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Guerrillas killed eight national guardsmen in Leon and battled troops block by block in Jinotega as Mexico broke relations with the government of President Anastasio Somoza, accusing it of "horrendous genocide."

There was no immediate comment on the break in relations, which took Nicaraguan government officials by surprise.

Hundreds have been killed in almost daily battles since an uprising by Sandinista guerrillas was crushed by Somoza's national guard in September, and on Saturday eight guardsmen were ambushed and killed by guerrillas in Leon, 60 miles north of Managua.

Forty miles farther north, more than 300 guerrillas took over Jinotega on Saturday night and by Sunday the national guard was attempting to retake the town block by block, refugees reported.

One witness who asked not to be identified said that he could not say if there were any dead or wounded, "but one thing is certain: there is fighting in all parts of the city."

"We are bringing a call for help to the Red Cross in Managua that their branch in Jinotega urgently needs food and milk, especially for the children because food has become scarce," the witness added.

The highways leading to Jinotega, which has a population of 40,000, have been blocked by Somoza's troops, telephone lines have been broken and no one is permitted to enter or leave the city.

Mexico's break in diplomatic relations with Somoza's regime was announced by President Jose Lopez Portillo at a luncheon in Cancun, Mexico, honoring visiting Costa Rican President Rodrigo Carazo.

Lopez Portillo said he felt duty-bound to speak out after hearing Carazo's description of events in Nicaragua "and the gravity of the situation."

"It was something that we knew about and we didn't want to believe — that in Nicaragua a hateful attack is being carried out against the Nicaraguan people, a horrendous genocide," Lopez Portillo said.

At a news conference later, Lopez Portillo said: "Mexico cannot withstand the permanence of any political regime that implies for the people that suffers it not only servitude but an unacceptable abuse."

Then calling on others to follow Mexico's lead in breaking with the Somoza government, Lopez Portillo added: "How we would like that other Latin American nations ratify this decision. And from here, from this forum, I am asking them to do it."

One immediate problem caused by the rupture was the fate of 38 persons who have received asylum at the Mexican Embassy. The group includes 13 men, 13 women and 12 small children. Many fled to the embassy fearing persecution from Nicaraguan authorities.

Opposition leader Rafael Cordova Rivas, freed from a Somoza jail last week, hailed Mexico's break in relations as a positive sign and said he hoped other governments would follow suit.

"We hope other countries will follow the same policy as the Mexican government because maybe this way the genocide will stop," Cordova Rivas said.

Cordova Rivas, one of three negotiators trying to mediate a solution to the Nicaraguan crisis peacefully last January, was arrested May 1 by authorities who accused him of subversive activities.

The arrest of Cordova Rivas and another key opposition leader, Alfonso Robelo, brought a storm of international protest. The Carter administration, among others, denounced the arrest and called on the Somoza government to free the men.

Costa Rica broke diplomatic relations with Nicaragua in late November after a border incident in which two Costa Rican civil guardsmen were killed in a clash with Nicaraguan troops. Both countries said the incident occurred on their territory.

The Somoza family has ruled Nicaragua since invading U.S. Marines put the current leader's father in power in the late 1930s. The Sandinista guerrillas take their name from a Nicaraguan rebel who fought the Marines.

Eight Hostages Escape Rebels In San Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Venezuela's ambassador and seven other hostages escaped Sunday night from the anti-government rebels who held them captive since May 11 in the Venezuelan Embassy here, police said today.

The daring, two-wave escape left the nine rebels, armed with pistols, alone in the building. Reporters at the scene said police did not appear to be making any preparations to go in after the gunmen.

Ambassador Santiago Ochoa said his military attache and two other embassy employees stayed behind in the building to "guarantee the sovereignty of Venezuelan territory" when he and four others made their getaway Sunday night.

Police said those who had stayed behind escaped several hours later. No other details were immediately known. Ochoa said neither he nor the others had been mistreated during the siege, which began when members of the leftist Popular Revolutionary Bloc marched in and took over the embassy.

Members of the bloc are also holding French Ambassador Michel Dondenne and five other hostages at the French Embassy, which was occupied May 4, and they control a number of Roman Catholic churches across this tiny Central American nation. They are demanding the military government free five of their leaders. Two men were released, but authorities claim the others are not in government hands.

Ochoa said his wife set the stage for the escape by smuggling a small pistol to the hostages Sunday afternoon, apparently sending it in with the trays of food passed inside through an embassy window.

Once they had the gun, he said, the attache broke down the door of a rear office with access to the outside. All the hostages scrambled in and barricaded the door to keep their captors out.

Then, with the attache shouting through the door to distract the militants, the ambassador and four of the hostages climbed out a side window of the single-story building, pulled themselves to the roof and fled. Police said the last three hostages used the same escape route.

Ochoa said the hostages began planning the escape after their captors demanded to search confidential embassy files.

"I refused to let them search the files and said we had been humiliated enough already," he told reporters.

The ambassador said his captors earlier broke a gentleman's agreement they made five days ago by taking back the ammunition for their pistols that they had turned over to the ambassador in exchange for food for the outside.

The militants are now waiting for leaders of the bloc and representatives of the Red Cross to discuss a possible end of the embassy takeover, the ambassador said. A Red Cross official said the bloc leader could not be immediately located and talks probably would begin this morning.

One group of rebels, which took over the Costa Rican Embassy on May 4, left San Salvador for asylum in Costa Rica after their hostages escaped three days later.

President Carlos Humberto Romero has announced plans to meet this week with opposition groups, including students, business and church leaders, to discuss ways to end the wave of political violence here. But he refused to meet members of the Popular Revolutionary Bloc.

At least 51 persons have been killed in clashes between police and demonstrators or in guerrilla attacks in the past three weeks.

Downpours Hit Much Of Texas

of rain Sunday despite the presence of ominous thunderclouds.

Very heavy thunderstorms this morning were reported from Lubbock southwestward to near Plains. Moderate thunderstorms extended as far south as Seminole, according to weather reports.

The flash flood watch for the South Plains and Panhandle this afternoon covered an area generally east of a line from Pampa to Matador to Snyder to Colorado City.

Meanwhile, flooding was reported to the north and south of the South Plains this morning.

In the Panhandle, where flash flood watches remained in effect today for the southeastern regions, Canyon reported minor flooding in the Hunsley Hills section and considerable street flooding, according to the National Weather Service.

Flooding along Devil's River in Southwest Texas prompted state highway department officials this morning to close two roads in Val Verde County. State Highway 163 from about 45 miles north of Del Rio to Ozona was reported closed because of high water, as was Ranch Road 189 in the same area.

As the storm system shifts eastward, rains in the South Plains are expected to begin tapering off tonight and be east of the region by early Tuesday.

Lubbock's Tuesday forecast indicates partly sunny skies with temperatures in the 80s.

Across North Texas, flash flood watches were issued until noon today for western portions and through tonight in the eastern sections, with thunderstorms expected to develop by late afternoon and tonight.

Thunderstorms were also forecast in much of southern Texas today, a major exception being the region west of the Guadalupe Mountains.

Accompanying the forecasts of precipitation, much of the state was expected to face cooler temperatures today.

The NWS said parts of Northwestern Texas will have highs in the 60s this afternoon, and in Lubbock a high in the low 70s was forecast.

Tornadoes were reportedly scattered throughout West Texas Sunday evening but fortunately injuries were slight.

The heaviest damage was reported in Stanton, where a tornado cut a path a quarter-mile wide and two miles long through the town, extensively damaging about 12 homes, cutting power lines and injuring one person.

Four-year-old Raymond Valdez was reportedly treated for minor injuries and released from a local hospital.

Minchew Explains Fund Use

completion of the Ethics Committee's hearings.

Minchew acknowledged he turned some of $39,000 in campaign contributions and Senate expense funds to his own use.

He testified he did not know precisely how much he took, but said "it is not anywhere near" the $39,000 total.

The committee alleges that some of the funds went to the senator, a 22-year veteran of the Senate and chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee.

Committee investigators estimate that Talmadge used about $16,000 from the account, that $5,000 was returned to legitimate campaign use and the remaining $18,000 is unaccounted for.

Talmadge watched from about 25 feet across the hearing room as his former chief aide began his testimony.

While committee investigators have gathered substantial amounts of documentary evidence, they acknowledge that much of their case rests on Minchew's appearance.

Minchew has said under oath that while he was Talmadge's administrative assistant in 1973 and 1974, he opened a secret bank account in Talmadge's name and, over several months, deposited $39,000 in campaign contributions and Senate expense checks.

Minchew has told committee investigators he gave money from the account to Talmadge to meet the Georgia Democrat's cash needs.

Talmadge, a 65-year-old millionaire, denies even knowing of the existence of the account. He says Minchew was an embezzler.

Testimony during the hearings has shown that Talmadge wrote no personal checks for cash during the time the secret account existed, and only two for cash between 1972 and 1977.

An auditor for the committee who analyzed Minchew's financial transactions in detail concluded that he took about $13,000 of the $39,000 for his own use — but no more.

Lawrence Sullivan, an accountant and lawyer, said he found that $5,000 from the account was returned for legitimate use in Talmadge's 1974 re-election campaign, leaving $21,000 in cash unaccounted for.

The committee says it has "substantial credible evidence" that some of the $21,000 went to Talmadge, a charge he has angrily denied.

Minchew's own credibility will probably be the decisive factor in whether the committee recommends that the full Senate censure Talmadge, who faces re-election in 1980.

Talmadge's lawyers say their own analysis of Minchew's bank transactions shows he was a man with shaky real estate investments who needed large injections of cash to keep from defaulting on bank loans and restore his overdrawn checking account.

Supporting Minchew's testimony will be Talmadge's former wife, Betty, who has provided the committee with $7,100 in cash which she said came from the pocket of one of Talmadge's overcoats.

Shah Given Praise By Kissinger

CHICAGO (UPI) — Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger says the United States owes the Shah of Iran "a debt of honor" and must grant political asylum to the deposed Persian monarch.

Kissinger, addressing a campaign fund raising dinner for Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., Sunday night, said he has "broken months of silence" to speak out on behalf of the Shah and his family, who now are living in exile in the Bahamas.

Kissinger referred to "the debt of honor that the United States owes the Shah of Iran."

"I find it an extremely disturbing fact that the Shah of Iran — a 30-year friend of the United States — has not found it possible to obtain permission to enter the U.S. Instead, he sits in exile in the Bahamas, searching for a place of refuge," he said.

Mrs. Teeters predicted the point at which the U.S. might enter a recession (and she stressed the word "might") would come during the second half of the year. She said the inflation level is already starting to come down a bit, even predicting the rate of inflation might be down to six or seven percent by the end of the year.

However, somewhat higher than normal levels of unemployment will remain a reality until the last of the post-World War II baby boom enters the job market and becomes settled, she said. Mrs. Teeters predicted the boom generation will probably be settled by the late 80s.

Mrs. Teeters was the keynote speaker for the School of Banking's opening session. Scheduled to run through May 28, the seminar will offer 46 hours of operational and management courses for workers in the banking industry. The week-long seminar is sponsored by the Center for Professional Development at Texas Tech.

the idea of splitting the presidential and state primary elections. Their position was endorsed by Billy Goldberg, state Democratic party chairman, and the State Republican Executive committee, along with a group of about 25 House members who claim they have the strength to kill the proposal if it reaches the House.

A DPS officer and Texas Ranger apprehended Clayton Jones Sunday morning as he reached to pick up the morning paper at Gene Jones' residence, and transported him to Austin by helicopter and car.

The other missing senators, who Jones hinted may be hiding in Mexico, are Brooks; Ron Clower, D-Garland; Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin; Glenn Kothmann, D-San Antonio; Rau Longoria, D-Edinburg; Oscar Maury, D-Dallas; Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur; Bill Patman, D-Garland; A.R. A federal appeals court in New York upheld the law, even though other courts have invalidated it as unconstitutional.

In other action today, the court:

— Ruled 6-3 that judges are not required in every criminal case to instruct the jury that the defendant is presumed innocent until proven guilty.

The majority said in an unsigned opinion, "The failure to give a requested instruction on the presumption of innocence does not in and of itself violate the Constitution. ... Such a failure must be evaluated in light of the totality of the circumstances."

— Rejected death sentence appeals by convicted murderers in Texas, Georgia, Virginia and Florida. The Florida case was unrelated to executions scheduled there Wednesday for two other convicted murderers, John Arthur Spenkink and Willie Jasper Darden Jr.

— Agreed to hear the appeal of a San Diego man trying to sue California authorities in connection with his young daughter's murder.

The justices said they will review court rulings that state officials are immune from the allegations of George Martinez that they were negligent in paroling a convicted sex offender who later kidnapped and killed his 15-year-old daughter, Mary Ellen.

— Left intact a ruling that persons facing commitment to a state mental hospital do not enjoy the constitutional protection against self-incrimination that is afforded criminal suspects.

The justices refused without comment to disturb a Nebraska Supreme Court ruling that the privilege does not extend to psychiatric interviews in civil commitment proceedings.

— Ruled unanimously that anti-fraud provisions of federal securities laws apply to cheated stock brokers.

There names were not released, pending filing of formal charges.

Neither suspect was armed, according to reports.

Morgan said the police dog was highly excited during the arrests, and that Tucker had to control the dog to prevent it from possibly attacking Jenkins when he entered the building. "They're non-discriminatory," the information officer said of the four-legged members of the department.

Police said the wounded suspect spoke fluent English to the arresting policemen and ambulance attendants. However, when a detective attempted to question the man later, the suspect indicated he could not speak anything but Spanish, Morgan said.

Carter's Refusal To Address LULAC Convention Angers Official

EL PASO (UPI) — By turning down an invitation to address the national convention of the League of United Latin American Citizens, President Carter will lose the Hispanic vote that helped put him in office, a LULAC official warns.

Dolores Guerrero, LULAC's national director for women, said her organization in October 1978 invited Carter to address the upcoming June convention in Houston, but received a "no" reply May 10.

"It took that long to get a 'no' reply," the Houston woman said. "We're disappointed and angry about it and we will not stand for it."

She complained Carter has made appearances before the NAACP and the Urban League, both black organizations, "but never before a national Hispanic organization."

She said the president was elected in 1976 with the support of Mexican-Americans but would not receive such assistance in 1980 if he chooses to run for reelection.

Miss Guerrero said the league's national convention is scheduled June 13-16 with Calif. Gov. Jerry Brown and GOP presidential candidate George Bush as tentatively scheduled speakers.

Miss Guerrero made her comments following the close of the four-day 50th annual Texas LULAC convention where 238 delegates elected Austin attorney Raul Reza Vasquez to be the state LULAC director.

Organizers of the state convention expressed happiness at the number of delegates who traveled to Texas' western most corner despite gasoline shortages. Texas has the largest LULAC delegation in the nation.

But the convention began on a slightly different tone.

The present state director, Corpus Christi attorney Ruben Bonilla Jr., Wednesday opened the convention with a news conference, in which he advocated a renewal of the Hispanic struggle in Texas. Overall, he observed the brown-skinned Texan has lost more than he has gained in recent months despite his considerable numbers.

Bonilla said problems between law enforcement officers and Hispanics — which have resulted in the death of some Mexican-Americans and more recently a Mexican national in Wichita Falls — have continued seemingly unabated.

He said Hispanics lost seats on several city councils in May and minority voters saw their strength diluted as Republican candidates made new inroads in the brown community.

Moreover, Bonilla charged, the Legislature this spring has considered a package of "regressive legislation" that ultimately could have pernicious effects on Hispanics.

Vasquez, who was overwhelmingly elected new state director and succeeds Bonilla, later echoed similar fears.

"We have our work cut out for us as never before. We still have an awful lot of work in the area of police brutality and in the area of the administration of justice," he said.

"LULAC has been working to open the channels of communication with law enforcement executive officers and LULAC will continue to press those efforts."

About a new wave of conservatism in the state, he said, "This is going to be largely a question of Hispanic leaders, particularly myself as state director, publicly addressing themselves to these issues in order to motivate and encourage our people to resist the negative effects of some of this conservative backlash that we are suffering from at this time."

Iran Softens Request To Delay Arrival Of U.S. Ambassador

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iran's revolutionary government, stung by Sen. Jacob Javits' resolution criticizing more than 200 firing squad executions in three months, told the United States to delay sending its new ambassador then tried to soften the blow today.

Nonetheless, Javits was assigned a 24-hour police guard at his Manhattan apartment building because of threats against him and his wife by the Iranian government, New York police said.

The official Pars news agency said

Sunday that the Javits resolution represented "clear interference" in Iranian affairs, and that "continuation of such hostile acts of U.S. officials would make the Iranian government ... revise its relations with the United States and limit them.

"The Iranian Foreign Ministry has asked the new U.S. Ambassador (Walter L.) Cutler to postpone his trip to Iran until such time as the political atmosphere between Iran and the United States is cleared."

However, Foreign Minister Ibrahim Yazdi told a news conference today: "The Iranian government is aware that the executive and legislative branches are clearly separated in the United States and so the action of the U.S. Senate is not taken by us as an indication of official U.S. attitudes toward Iran.

"Our objection is directed at the action of the United States' Senate and as far as relations between the Iranian government and the U.S. government are concerned, I received a letter from Secretary of State Cyrus Vance last week in which the U.S. government expressed its wish to have relations with Iran expanded in all spheres."

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, the Shiite Moslem leader of the revolution that ousted Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's regime in February, called the U.S. government an "injured snake" because of his victory and blasted the Javits' resolution Sunday.

The resolution introduced by the New York Republican and passed

Thursday said if the firing squad executions, which have reached 213, continue that relations between the United States and Iran would be endangered.

Minority Expected To Win In Canada

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada's two major parties are dead even at the end of the campaign for Tuesday's federal general election and political analysts predict the voters will deliver a weak minority government — the second in a decade.

The left-leaning New Democrats, led by Ed Broadbent in his first election campaign, have made a strong showing and polls indicate they are headed for 25 to 30 seats — probably enough to wield the balance of power in the 282-member House of Commons.

Conservative leader Joe Clark, Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau's chief opponent, told a crowd of 3,000 people at a barbecue and wild west show in Alberta's cattle country Sunday that a vote for Broadbent is a vote for Trudeau.

"The people of Canada will close down that show — the Pierre and Ed show — permanently on the 22nd of May," he said in an appeal for a Conservative majority. Trudeau, speaking in populous Ontario where most analysts agree the election will be decided, capped a week of fierce attacks on Clark with a surprising philosophical speech in his final campaign appearance Sunday.

Paraphrasing the Bible passage "Love ye one another" which he heard at church earlier in the day, Trudeau appealed to "the rich and the poor, the English and the French, the north and the south, the east and the west," to understand each other and share their wealth.

As Broadbent, Clark and Trudeau headed home to celebrate the Victoria Day national holiday, analysts predicted a minority government for Clark's conservatives based on a Gallup poll released Saturday.

Trudeau has said he might try to stay in power in a minority situation even if he loses by a couple of seats, but Broadbent has refused throughout the campaign to say which way he would throw his support.

West Says Crime Line Beginning To Work

"Crime Line, Inc." is really beginning to work and cash is waiting for informants who call the hotline," Mayor Dirk West said in announcing that two cases have been solved through the program.

West said that information received on the hotline number, 741-1000, had helped clear two of the cases published in The Avalanche-Journal and the board of directors has authorized the payment of rewards totaling $600 on the two cleared cases.

As a result, hotline callers who were given code numbers of 79023 and 79025 are asked to call the number again as soon as possible for further information.

West said the hotline is receiving "a great many calls" from persons who are guaranteed total anonymity. Tips are checked by the Lubbock Police Department.

Now that the project is fully incorporated with officers and a board, West said anyone interested in making a tax-deductible contribution should mail their donations to "Crime Line, Inc.," Box 2000, Lubbock, 79408.

This week's "Spotlight Crime" — worth $500 — concerns two attempted rapes which occurred within minutes of each other on May 8.

In the first incident, a woman was working in her front yard when a Mexican-American man asked her if he could wait for the bus in her front porch. She

the words, "The Goon."

A $500 reward also is being offered for information concerning a rape on May 10, when a woman awoke to find a man standing over her bed and holding a hand over her mouth. He had a knife in the other hand. The bandana-clad intruder raped the woman at knife-point and fled through the bedroom window. He is described as a dark-complected, possible white male or a light-complected Mexican-American, 6 feet tall, 160 to 170 pounds. He was wearing a short-sleeved shirt with snaps instead of buttons and possibly works in new home construction.

On May 5 or 6, a trailer southeast of Lubbock was burglarized. Taken was a stereo, television, country and western 8-track tapes, a clock radio, backgammon game and jewelry. Neighbors noticed a white Chevrolet, 1972 or 1973, with a shell camper at the trailer. A reward of $300 is being offered in this case.

On May 8, a woman was walking in the 300-block of University when a man pushed her to the ground and grabbed her purse, described as a brown alligator shoulder-type bag. Identification and a check from Texas Tech University was in the bag. The robber was described as a Mexican-American 5 feet 6 inches tall and 170 pounds. A reward of $300 is offered.

Two Mexican-American men accosted a woman on the parking lot of Furr's Supermarket at 19th Street and T. They attempted to take her purse, but she struggled and was knocked down. The subjects then ran north on the east side of the building and were chased by witnesses. They fled in a light brown or gold Buick. A reward of $300 also is being offered in this case, which occurred May 12.

Rewards totaling $11,500 now have been posted in unsolved cases.

Each Monday, the rewards are offered in crimes published by The A-J. In the case of "spotlight" crimes, information must be received within seven days of publication of the crime.

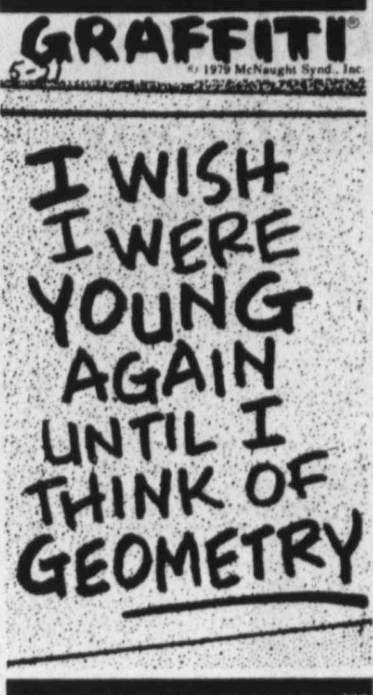

Persons calling the hotline are given a code number and told when they should call back for a progress report. The number is used all the way through the process.

The hotline is manned at Lubbock Police Department from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. Monday through Friday and at other time by an automatic answering device.

Persons directly contacting the unit with information which leads to a grand jury indictment (or the equivalent in the case of juveniles) may claim the reward. Rewards will be doubled if the informant testifies in court and a conviction results.

The published crimes are not the only crimes police like information about. Tips on any other cases also will be investigated, according to the mayor, who initiated the "Crime Line, Inc." project.

asked him to leave, but he grabbed her and molested her. When she screamed, he fled but lost his left shoe at the scene.

A short time later at 26th Street and Avenue Q, a woman was walking with her small child when a Mexican-American man molested her, holding a hand over her mouth. The victim bit the man's hand, he knocked the child down and ran.

In both instances, the victims said the man appeared to "be high" or "doped."

Officers believe the same man is responsible for both attacks because they occurred only minutes apart and in the same general area. He is described as in his early 20s, 5-7 to 5-10, thin build with shoulder-length, wavy black hair. He was wearing a dark blue knit T-shirt with a decal on the front, possibly with

Church Collapse Leaves Members Still Shaken

GARLAND (UPI) — A clap of thunder is not alarming to most, but some members of the Walnut Village Church of Christ become shaky at the sound, similar to the last one they heard before the church roof crashed down upon them a year ago, killing one and injuring 57.

"I'm frightened and I don't know what I'm frightened of," says Bonnie Sams, 62.

"I've never been afraid of just rain, cloudy days or a little bit of thunder in the distance," she said. "We had built a tornado shelter. Now I go to it on a cloudy day and stay there all day."

Mrs. Sams and her husband, Charles, were among the 140 church members attending services in a church auditorium Sunday, May 21, 1978, when an ear-splitting crack rang out. A wooden beam in the middle of the flat roof buckled from the weight of rainwater, showering down water, tar and timber.

It took police three hours to sift through the debris and come up with a final toll: one dead, 57 injured and a destroyed auditorium.

The accident stirred sympathy nationwide and prompted donations along with messages of encouragement.

Since then, most of those hurt are back to work and the congregation has returned to the site to hold services in other areas of the church building. But about 20 church members have never returned to the site of the tragedy.

"We haven't been back since the day it happened," Sams said.

Mrs. Sams said she no longer has as many nightmares about the accident, but has developed high blood pressure and becomes "frantic" in traffic. Her husband sold their boat because of his new fear of water and he avoids flat-top buildings.

Also missing from the congregation is the family of Shannon Smith, the 19-year-old girl who died in the hail of rubble.

Robert Spence School Relates New Class Schedule, Deadlines

"With summer upon us, Robert Spence School is now making plans for its new classes.
 "Have you decided what you want to accomplish this summer? If the answer is 'no,' why not give Robert Spence a call? Maybe you want to be a model, or perhaps you just want to be a model person. In any event, Robert Spence has the training you desire."
 The Robert Spence School is located in the Terrace Center, 4902 34th St., Suite 15, phone 797-8134, in Lubbock.
 Registration is now underway for summer classes which will begin June 4. The registration deadline is June 1. Classes will be offered with various schedules of daytime and evening classes.

Fully Certified
 All schools in Texas that are teaching any course of instruction must be certified by the Texas Education Agency. This is not only a protection for the school but for its students. The Robert Spence School and its staff are certified by the Texas Education Agency and is owned and directed by Brenda Becknell.

Classes are offered in Self-Improvement and Personal Development, Professional Modeling, the Classic Woman Course, the Little Princess Course and the Young Miss Course, and all are designed to assist girls and women toward the self-realization that leads to mature confidence in one's own image. No more than eight students are assigned to a class, so instructors can devote individual attention to the needs of each.

The basic course in self-improvement consists of instruction in several fundamental elements which combine to develop the truly poised person. The elements include posture and walking, skin care and make-up application, hair styling, figure correction, speaking, wardrobe coordination and personality development.

Beyond the self-improvement course, Robert Spence offers instruction in professional modeling which opens career vistas to many women. The school functions as an agency and has placed many women in modeling jobs in the Lubbock area, Dallas and New York.

The Classic Woman course is designed for the woman who is interested in updating her wardrobe, make-up and being poised in all situations she may encounter. The course is especially successful for business organizations, clubs and area groups.

Qualified Instructors
 Instructors other than Miss Becknell include Lynette Thuet, Gloria Madrid, Robin Becknell, Donna Chandler, Linda Wilks, Johnnie Hardage, Janey Eureski, Kitty Keeton and David King.

They are members of the World Modeling Association. They attend workshops and seminars in New York, Utah and Nevada to update their curriculum and keep abreast of the current trends in the high fashion industry of the New York area and other areas.

All instructors are graduates of Robert Spence and teach all courses offered.

STUDENT AT ROBERT SPENCE — Joycelyn Thorpe enjoys photography modeling, television commercials and various other areas taught at the Robert Spence School where a new class schedule is being announced.

They have modeled for fashion shows, commercials and television, as well as public lectures.

The instructors have been speakers in the public schools, social organizations, banking institutions, small groups and clubs. They are available to give lectures and demonstrations to groups and organizations for a minimal fee. They also teach the short course for groups of eight or more in Lubbock or small area towns.

As a model agency, Robert Spence makes available its professionally trained models and instructors for those special occasions such as conventions, grand openings, fashion shows, commercials and photography.

Aside from being a modeling agency, Robert Spence also represents talented men, women and children involved in the performing arts area. They are available for entertainment at meetings, conventions and special functions.

Honors bestowed upon students at Robert Spence School are numerous. Phyllis Johnson was selected American Model 1978 in New York City. Phyllis is now living in New York where she is pursuing a modeling and acting career.

At this year's modeling convention, alignment equipment used; Shocks, mufflers, tail pipes; Tires and batteries, together with other accessories.

And the tune-ups.
 A state inspection station, Johnnie Johnson's Exxon is open long hours, seven days a week.

Really large access and parking aprons makes "pulling in to Johnnie's" most convenient, and not only is this convenience to be appreciated, but the entire facility is attractive, clean and thoroughly geared to efficiency in customer service.

Whether it is for gasoline, or mechanical service, or for accessories, one can be assured that this veteran in the field sincerely appreciates the trade and confidence.

"Johnnie Johnson has been around a long time, and likely already has served you. He welcomes old friends and new ones alike to come in, visit, and form the habit of depending upon the Johnnie Johnson Exxon, at the 34th and Knoxville corner."

Johnnie Johnson Exxon Continuing Regular Hours, Tells Service Range

"For getting the auto ready for summer use...
 "For assuring that its operation is at minimum expense...
 "For saving on tire wear...
 "And for other reasons, Johnnie Johnson's Exxon at 34th Street and Knoxville is recommended."

Open Every Day
 Even gas availability comes in for consideration... with Johnnie foreseeing no shortage at his station this month. Though on allocation, he reports he has been assured sufficient gasoline to avoid any curtailment of supply or hours during May. Regular hours will be maintained... seven days a week, with customer service foremost.

For making sure the family auto is ready for summer use, a tune-up at Johnnie Johnson's Exxon is suggested. And the price for a minor tune-up is $29.95 total for most models including 8-cylinder American-made cars.
 It is time to check thermostats, cooling systems, water pumps and all; and Johnnie Johnson's Exxon is the place!

Before opening his own business almost two years ago, Johnson marked over two decades of related experience, including a 17-year stint as front end specialist and more recently as service manager of a downtown Lubbock firm. He knows front end work as probably few in the area.

Yes, front end work is another of the services at Johnnie Johnson's Exxon, 34th and Knoxville, and is especially recommended as a safety and economy measure.

"If you have not become acquainted with this modern, convenient firm and its staff, then why not come in now for a changeover to summer driving efficiency?"

Remember, features of Johnnie Johnson Exxon, phone 795-5942, include:
 Expert wheel alignment with brake and front end work a specialty, and with quality Bear spin balancing and wheel

FINE EATING INSIDE — OR CARRY OUT — A lot of folks are glad that two Lubbock men's dreams materialized into establishment of the River Smith's establishments featuring fresh catfish fillets and other popular area menu items. A franchising program has been added by the Lubbock owners, the accompanying story reveals.

River Smith's Affords Eating Treats, Two Lubbock Locations

"Don't you owe yourself a delicious meal at River Smith's Chicken & Catfish?"
 Specializing in fresh water catfish, this Lubbock-founded and home-owned business has something extraordinary to offer in the way of good eating.
 Take your choice, River Smith's at 4th & U, convenient to downtown and Texas Tech, or at 50th and Quaker serving the vast south and southwest region of the city.
 Consider these among advantages of River Smith's:
 Every product is hand-prepared by the owners or under their personal supervision.
Freshwater Catfish
 Nothing is pre-battered; no food is pre-prepared.
 "And as far as we know," the owners emphasize, "we are the only Lubbock eating establishment serving freshwater catfish fillets."
 Everything is first quality, with no substitutes, whether the choice is the popular freshwater catfish fillets, popcorn shrimp or butterfly shrimp, oysters, chicken bits, fried chicken, the salad bar or miscellaneous side orders.
 And all at prices one can live with!
 Fast luncheon service is featured, with one able to be served and enjoy a leisurely meal during a limited-time lunch hour!
 Carry-out service is available, too, with a convenient carry-out window to better serve. Phone ahead and the carry-out order will be ready, if preferred.
 All food is prepared right in the River Smith's restaurant, assuring goodness and quality appreciated by South Plains customers.
 More about the River Smith's story:
 The firm and even its name was conceived by two lifelong Lubbock residents, Bob Corcorran and Glenn Forster who founded and developed the firm. It is a Lubbock-owned corporation, with a franchising program now made available.
 Corcorran and Forster opened the first River Smith's, the 50th Street at Quaker location, nearly three years ago, after determining as outdoorsmen interested in sports, fishing and hearty eating that West Texas needed good fresh water catfish as a restaurant specialty.

ABC Sewing Center Providing Top-Line Products, Services

So very much could be said, and should be said, for the products and service advantages of ABC Sewing Center, 3104 34th St.
 In brief, however, the fact is that this home-owned and home-operated firm is thoroughly customer-oriented in its every department.
 Established and actively operated by lifelong Lubbock resident, Susan Skipper, the ABC Sewing Center is factory authorized dealer for the famous White line, together with Necchi-Alco, Brother, Dressmaker and other sewing machines.
 Susan, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dennis, is a '66 graduate of Monterey High School and is a '73 Texas Tech graduate. With some nine years experience in related businesses, she brings to ABC Sewing Center a thorough knowledge of area preferences and needs, to together with product knowledge that is a very realistic assistance to the customer.
Services All Makes
 The ABC Sewing Center buys, sell and trades, servicing all brands of machines, also maintaining a rental service.
 Ronnie Smith, factory trained repairman, is on the staff and is widely known here in the field. Repairs for the Lubbock Independent School District machines are made at ABC.
 Susan is especially enthused about the White line, a respected name in sewing machines for over 100 years. Each White is of durable all-metal construction.
 One year free instruction is afforded with each machine, new or reconditioned, purchased at the ABC Sewing Center.
Further Aids Cited
 A five-year parts warranty and one-year service guarantee is effective on all reconditioned units.
 Parsons cabinets are stocked, adaptable to all brands of machines.
 Financing plans are available, together with Visa and Master Charge use.
 The ABC Sewing Center is open six days a week: Mondays through Fridays from 9:30 a.m. until 6 p.m., with Saturday closing at 4 p.m.
White Advantages Told
 Twice-a-year free White seminars are conducted at the firm, with home economists from the White factory on hand to bring latest techniques, etc. (One is invited to check regarding the summer seminar.)
 More about the White line:
 The Model 710 flip-top open arm model with one-step button holer is especially recommended. It is stocked and available in portable or cabinet models at ABC.
 This top-of-the-line unit is described as "the most versatile sewing machine for today's fabrics" by the White organization, and is the second in White's series of Flip-Top models with extension flap to convert the sewing machine from a free arm to a flat bed sewing surface at a mere twist of a knob! And as for button holing, the user merely dials in the desired stitch and buttonhole length, presses the foot control, and the sewing machine does the rest automatically! This new model features 26 practical stretch and decorative stitches, including 16 forward and reverse moving patterns and the one-step buttonholer!
 For full information on this and other great models, for a genuine welcome and appreciation of your inquiries, a visit to the ABC Sewing Center, 3104 34th St., phone 799-0372, is invited and recommended at earliest convenience.

Solar Heated Residences Being Built Through Grants In University Pines

A solar heated home can be yours, right here in Lubbock. It is just that simple.

Thanks to two situations, (1) a significant federal grant and (2) the resources of First Manufactured Homes, Inc., these homes already are under construction, with some completed and even occupied, and at an appreciable cost savings to the owner.

Actually this cost factor is fantastically reasonable.

As example:

A typical home in University Pines development, in south Lubbock, is listed at $34,250. With solar hot air collectors, this home is $41,000 with the grant netted out, with a further $2,200 first-year tax credit!

Not only is the initial cost attractive, but the system provides up to 75 per cent of heating needs, with 80-90 per cent of hot water needs the year around, resulting in projected savings of hundreds of dollars annually.

The professionals at First Manufactured Homes, 9602 University Ave.,

Lubbock Electric Posting May Specials On Compressor Units

There still is time to take advantage of the May-long price reduction on Campbell-Hausfeld compressor units in stock at Lubbock Electric Co., 1108 34th St., that firm that doesn't fool around when it comes to staging a meaningful sale.

Specific example of the savings is that of the 1/2hp, 7 1/2-gal. tank, portable Campbell-Hausfeld compressor regularly selling for $183 but marked down this month to $125 at Lubbock Electric. The unit is complete with hose.

And the regular $623 3hp, 30-gal tank unit from the same manufacturer, complete with the hose, is marked by the COMPRESSORS AT DRASTIC PRICE ADVANTAGE — Jerry Beavers and Wayne Schwab of the Lubbock Electric Co. staff call attention to marked-down prices throughout May on Campbell-Hausfeld compressors there. Check the accompanying story for specific examples of savings arranged.

Business & Industrial Review

Hair Square In Caprock Center Excels In Wig, Hair Services

Emphasizing superiority in wig styling, product sales and hair styling, Hair Square (in Caprock Center, phone 792-2131) has made quite a name for itself.

For two years, Corena Rangel, former four-year staffmember of Hair Square, and with 11 years hairdressing experience in Lubbock, has been owner. Old friends, together with new ones, have found the advantage of relying upon this better salon.

Corena not only is wig styling specialist but she also is expert in hair styling, on the job together with a handpicked staff. The expertise of Corena and this staff is well recognized and appreciated.

Wigs by Rene
A complete selection of wigs, by

Rene of Paris, is stocked, together with human hair pieces.

Hair Square is a Redken Retail Center, using and selling at retail the respected Redken products.

As added service, other items made available at the Hair Square include accessories, jewelry, scarfs, sweaters, purses and even hanging plants.

Stylists at the salon include Bea Rodriguez, Pam Beth Pearson, Mary Ledesma, Vicky Moreno, Isabel Castillo, Sally Devita, Margie Cypert, Ribba Lopez, Marcella Garcia, Rosa Vecchio; Mamie Rebber, shampoo; Brenda Thomas, receptionist; and owner Corena Rangel.

Prices remain most reasonable, whether for purchase, styling or delightful restyling of wigs. (Excellent styling results can be expected, whether the hairpiece was originally purchased at Hair Square or not.)

For looking one's best, selection of a hairpiece, and appointment for beauty care from one of the stylist staff, or purchase of Redken products, reliance upon the Hair Square remains well advised.

The Hair Square management and other staffmembers have attended Redken seminars and studied under Redken representatives and are providing a very special service to the firm's customers.

It all adds to this:
Hair Square, in Caprock Center, measures up admirably in all the considerations that mark it as a superior hair center.

Smallwood's Product Versatility Now Includes Added Microwave Oven Line

Smallwood's, the 3019 34th St. store that is widely known for its Filter Queen home sanitation systems, other complete lines of vacuum cleaners, giant-screen TV's, home entertainment systems, and more, has added microwave ovens as its newest line.

Yes, one now can secure those microwave ovens by Toshiba, right here in Lubbock at Smallwood's.

Designed for the gamut of cooking needs . . . from gourmet to just plain good, a new world of convenience and flavor is said presented by Toshiba with its 1.5 cu. ft. oven, advertised as largest oven capacity of any microwave.

The Toshiba microwave ovens in stock start at only $299!

Special Offer
Furthermore, free sets (5 pieces) of cookware are given upon purchase of some models, together with a big free cookbook.

Get full details now; see the Toshiba microwave ovens at Smallwood's.

Sewing Machines
Some may conceivably not realize that Smallwood's also stocks a complete line of zig zag sewing machines, in both portable and beautiful cabinet models.

And the spectacular giant-screen Muntz television is stocked. Imagine larger-than-lifesize home theatre! Brightness, razor sharp detail in foreground and background and magnificent color creates the impression that you are right there, in the middle of the action!

All models are compatible with video tape recorders or video games.

Steam Cleaner Rental
Steam cleaner rentals is a popular and vital service of Smallwood's, too.

More about the Filter Queen, one of the several lines presented at most competitive prices at Smallwood's:

The Filter Queen "traps dust as no 'vacuum cleaner' can! There are no bags, no mess; it is the ultimate in home sanitation systems with cyclonic pressure action that prevents dirt and dust from re-entering the room. Filter Queen is easy to handle and comes with a complete set of attachments.

In short:
"Any 'vacuum' cleaner cleans rugs, furniture and drapes; only Filter Queen cleans the air, too!"

Efficiency Explained
Filter Queen maintains peak efficiency at all times because outgoing air never has to push its way through accumulated dirt or a clogged bag. Filter Queen digs dirt, flushes it out completely with a powerful cyclone of air.

"Highly efficient Filter Queen attachments give one extra help all the way. For instance, the exclusive Wonder Rug Nozzle lets you clean under chairs and sofas without having to lift heavy furniture from one spot to another. Even your thickest pile rugs and hard-to-clean upholstered furniture keep spic and span with the help of Filter Queen."

Multiple Uses
Filter Queen takes the hard work out of such chores as cleaning venetian blinds and keeping hard floors glistening bright. And one can do dozens of jobs with Filter Queen . . . everything from cleaning, waxing and polishing . . . to de-moing, paint spraying, even to drying your hair!

Small wonder the Filter Queen home sanitation system has been termed one of the most important developments in home sanitation in 50 years.

Other Products, Services
Smallwood's also carries several complete lines of vacuum cleaners, together with parts and bags for most brands.

"You'll like Smallwood's way of doing business; you'll appreciate the values and the personal attention assured by owners Eugene and Evelyn Kerr and staff at this firm that has served for over two decades in Lubbock.

Business & Industrial Review

CORRECTLY HINTING THE VALUABLE, UNIQUE — Gerry Bowman of Daisy's Collectibles on 34th Street is shown in an attractive area of the highly-selective store where "different" but "quality" items are the rule, with new and "wanted" items arriving daily within the gallery.

Daisy's Collectibles Augments Huge Stock With New Arrivals

"We hope you have discovered the fantastic Daisy's Collectibles, 2002 34th St., phone 763-2973, Lubbock's only collectors gallery."

For fine porcelains and gifts, limited-edition plates, bells and figurines, and more, Daisy's Collectibles is in a class by itself. ("If we don't have it, we're working on getting it!")

Owned by John and Daisy Yugovich and daughter, Gerry Bowman, this unique and large shop stocks top-of-the-line merchandise, and customer appreciation and increasing trade attest to the success of the endeavor.

New Arrivals

The owners give this up-to-date report: Many of the porcelains that were anticipated are now here in the gallery. The famous Metlach steins are more lovely than we had anticipated. Limited to 10,000, we have only three spring steins, with summer, fall and winter coming later. These retail for $275 each.

We've added to the Sabino Crystal and can special order on this.

Our Andrea birds have arrived and are especially lovely . . . Goebel birds, Lefton birds; yes, birds, birds and birds.

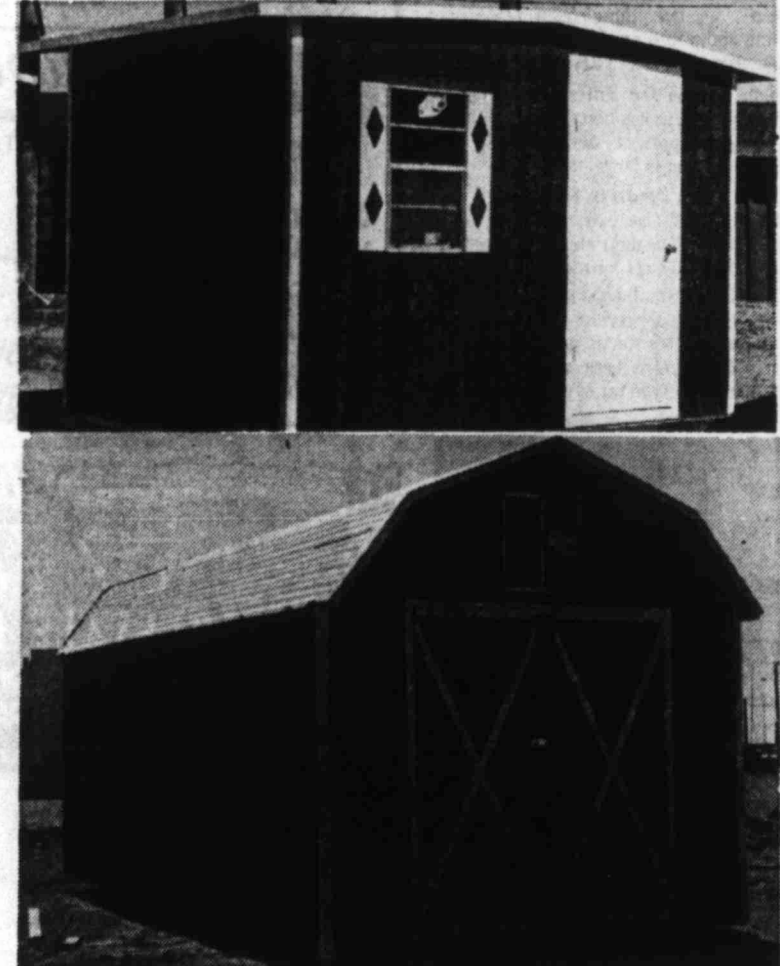

The new 1st-edition Roger Brown Allison Bell is in, and limited to only 15,000. There will be four bells to this series, retailing at $47.50 each. Many lovely paper weights are here by Grant Randolph and are modestly priced.

We have on order every conceivable plate and figure by Norman Rockwell. For later delivery, of course, but please come by and get your name on your choice. They will go quickly.

The very limited leapfrog figurine at $440, and plate at $55, by Dave Grossman, are items sure to please.

The Co-boys are trickling in, and our understanding is that these are so hard to get that only a few will be allotted each dealer. Red Heads seem to be gaining in popularity, and are becoming hard to get although we have a good selection for you.

The entire staff at Holiday is well worthy of patronage, and a genuine welcome is the rule, as customers of long-standing know. The staff and independent operators at the popular Holiday Salon of Beauty include Kaye Rebber, Peggy Tooke, Lou Cox, Elsie Borden, Bonnie Brock, Hazel Cagle, Estella Loya, Carol Becker, Joann Fannin and Vickie Marquam.

Whether the need is frostings, uniforms, prescription conditioners or any other salon services, the Holiday invites comparison.

For Men, Women

"Let us make you over . . . a new 'you' . . . is the invitation of the staff at the Holiday Salon of Beauty specializing in style cuts for both women and men.

At this season of the year (graduation, impending weddings, etc.) there are stepped-up demands for expert beauty attention, and the best hairstyles are in order, beginning with the proper cut.

NEWEST ON STAFF — Vickie Marquam, popular Lubbock hair stylist, has been announced as newest staff member at the Holiday Salon of Beauty, 4935 Brownfield Highway. She is shown here with a customer at the southwest Lubbock salon.

And when the "know-how" at the Holiday Salon of Beauty is coupled with the affordable prices and the traditional friendliness and appreciation there, then one finds it oh-so-easy to enter into the summer mood, beautifully and economically! "May we join with Vickie in welcoming you to the Holiday Salon of Beauty with its convenient location, scads of off-street, at-the-door parking, and other advantages?"

Economy, Quality, Experience Cited As Key Factors In Mazda Popularity

"Aided by a strong consumer demand for a quality, economical automobile, Mazda continues its U.S. comeback, in March selling 17,092 cars and trucks in an all-time monthly high!"

And here in Lubbock, one finds the sensational Mazda at James Mears Motors, Inc., 1211 19th St.

Mazda's plan to return to the "Top Three" imports in the U.S. began in 1977 with the GLC, a car designed with quality and forethought to capture a large portion of the economy car market.

With an EPA rating of 42 mpg highway, 30 mpg city (mileage may vary with equipment) the GLC's are equipped with 4-cylinder piston engines, steel forged crankshafts, five main bearings, double-row timing chain, cast iron blocks, electronic ignition, disc front brakes, McPherson front end, fold-down split rear seats and free flow ventilation.

"Forty-three years experience has given Mazda the ability to build a virtually trouble-free, dependable, economy automobile in the GLC 2-280."

Clearly Japanese

In 1978 Mazda took aim at the sports car market and introduced the extraordinarily successful RX-7.

Now the Mazda 626 coupe and four-door sedan are focusing on the medium size market. While the 626 does bear a likeness to expensive European coupes and sedans in both interior and exterior design, mechanically the new car is clearly Japanese, utilizing time-tested designs and durable, low maintenance components.

The current year 1979 began Mazda's racing career and recorded places one and two in the GTU Class in Daytona's 24-hour endurance race.

The Daytona is one of the most severe endurance races in the world, ranking with the LeMans in France and the Spa-Francorchamps 24-hour in Belgium. The GTU class has long been dominated by 911 Porsche, Turbos and Ferraris. The Mazda RX7 cars were the only two cars in the class to finish among the top six. Forty-six of the 68 starters failed to finish.

To further these racing efforts, the Mazda RX7 set a world speed record at Bonneville of 184 mph. The old record for Class E grand touring cars, 167 mph, was held by a Chevrolet Corvette. It is especially noteworthy that the RX7 exceeded the Corvette record by a full 16 mph. Typically, new Bonneville records are only a few miles per hour over the old mark.

Applauded By Writers

Although customer referrals and a reputation for a quality economy car have been the most important factors in Mazda sales, the automobiles have received major awards from numerous enthusiastic magazines including Motor Fan RX7 "car of the year — Gran Prix" and was selected over 935 entrants by Sports & Specialty cars "car of the year", as "best sports car of 1979" by Road Test magazine and "most significant new import of 1979" by Car and Driver magazine.

Motor's editor prized Mazda and . . . quote: "Generally the most inventive of Japanese manufacturers, Mazda's resourcefulness and determination have been tested to the limit for the last four years, and have not been found wanting".

Mazda has 14 assembly plants throughout the world, four distribution centers, and over 700 dealers in the United States to sell and service their vehicles.

"Remember, James Mears Motors, 1211 19th St., in Lubbock, is your authorized sales, service and other parts dealer."

Other Imports

In addition to Mazda, James Mears Motors is the dealer for MG, Triumph and Jaguar. MG and Triumph are among the few remaining convertibles on the market. MG is a tradition in sports car manufacture in Britain and is imported by British Leyland Motors, Inc.

Driver Fails To Elude Police

Speeds peaked at 100 miles per hour Sunday night in a chase on city streets involving a policeman and a 19-year-old motorist. And the pursuit did not end until the suspect's vehicle and the patrol car landed in a ditch.

Neither officer Richard Foster nor the man he arrested on suspicion of driving while intoxicated and evading arrest was injured when their vehicles went out of control shortly after 11 p.m. in the 5600-block of Spur 327, near Loop 289.

The man, whose address was unknown early today, jumped out of his stalled vehicle but was taken into custody after Foster chased him down in a nearby field, reports indicate.

Foster stated in his report that he saw the man driving erratically in the 6800-block of Avenue H, and that when he attempted to stop the car, the motorist accelerated and drove onto the loop.

Foster said that, with lights flashing and siren blaring, he pursued the man on the loop at speeds up to 100 mph. Officer Randy Bourne attempted to set up a blockade in the 3700-block of Loop 289 by parking his unit in the roadway.

However, the suspect reportedly failed to slow down, and avoided colliding with the patrol car by driving onto the shoulder of the road.

Reports indicate the man made an abrupt turn off the loop and began traveling southwest on Spur 327 with Foster close behind. Seconds later, the motorist lost control of his vehicle, which came to rest on a dirt embankment. Foster also lost control of his unit and slid into the embankment. The man was taken into custody and transported to the county jail, after Foster caught up with him in the field.

In other activity, a 27-year-old taxi cab driver said he was robbed by two black men shortly before 10 p.m. Sunday, after he had picked up the suspects at a residence in the 3300-block of Cornell Street.

Jihad A. Shawwa, employed by Yellow Cab Co., told police the men, who had asked to be taken to a club at East 19th Street and Oak Avenue, robbed him of $18 cash and a pack of cigarettes. He added that the bandits failed to pay the $3.40 fare when they jumped out of the cab at East 19th St. and Ute Avenue.

Shawwa told police the man in the back seat grabbed him and placed a small black revolver to his head. The gunman's companion, sitting in the front seat, reached over and emptied the cab driver's pockets, according to reports.

Shawwa said the men then jumped out of the cab and ran off. The bandits were described as tall and between 25 and 30 years old. One was wearing a black hat, dark coat and black pants. The other was clad in a white hat, beige shirt and white pants.

An 18-year-old Lubbock man was treated and released from Methodist Hospital after being stabbed about 2:10 a.m. today at a club at East Fourth Street and Quirt Avenue.

Tony Rengel Marin of 2123 Second Place said a fight broke out at the club, and that when he heard shots fired, he and his companion ran for the front door. He said, however, that before he could get out of the club, someone hit him in the face with a chair and stabbed him in the back when he fell.

Police had no suspects early today. In an early morning break-in, Roddy Lee Neel of 1516 28th St. said that about 1 a.m. he discovered his house burglarized and $1,133 in property stolen, including coins, guns and a Home Box Office television accessory.

Vincent Jerome Green, 22, of 2714 E. Ninth St. was in satisfactory condition today in West Texas Hospital with multiple knife wounds he suffered about 3 a.m. Sunday during an incident in the 300-block of Quirt Avenue.

According to police reports, Green and a man were arguing. A witness told police the suspect walked off, got a knife and started slashing Green. Reports indicate that the suspect fled in a 1978 white and blue Cadillac.

The witness said Green's assailant was a black male, about 18 to 25, short and heavy and wearing a yellow shirt and blue pants.

Green, who suffered cuts to the head, wrist, shoulder and neck, was taken to the hospital by private vehicle.

In another reported assault, two Lubbock men sustained minor injuries during an incident about 2 p.m. Sunday at 13th Street and Avenue F.

The first victim, Dwight Wilson of 612 Ave. A, told police that he was in a nearby pool hall when a middle-aged Mexican-American man pushed him out and then hit him in the back of the head with a gun.

Reports show the suspect walked east and then began cursing at William Louis Thomas, 40, of 3208 E. Cornell St. Thomas said the suspect hit him in the mouth, then pulled out his gun and shot him in the chest.

EMS attendants treated both victims at the scene.

The suspect, who was described as tall and heavy and wearing a brown derby, black shirt and brown pants, reportedly led the scene in a 1963 blue pickup truck.

Police Sunday also investigated the aggravated assault of a couple by a man who told them he was a police officer.

The couple, Gus Pesina, 17, address unavailable, and Diana Sanchez, 16, of Tahoka, told police that as they were leaving the Pullman Club about 2:20 a.m. Sunday, the suspect, who told them he was a police officer, ordered Pesina from the car so that he could search him.

Pesina reported the suspect, a Mexican-American man in his late 20s or early 30s, then began hitting him. The woman told officers that when she questioned the suspect's identity, he struck her in the face, knocking her to the ground, and that he started dragging her by the hair.

The couple said the suspect left in a maroon pickup truck.

Juan Galvan, 33, of 1313 32nd St. reported that a Mexican-American man threatened him with a knife and took his watch and $80 cash about 3:30 p.m. Saturday near Fifth Street and Avenue B.

Galvan told police he accepted a ride from the suspect in the 700-block of 13th Street and that the man drove him to Fifth Street and Avenue B, where he pulled a knife and demanded money.

The victim said the man, who was about 18 to 25, short and of medium build, was in a light green, medium-sized car.

In other activity, a Lubbock woman and a Garland man reported their cars had been stolen.

Kay Bivins said someone had driven off in her $2,000 Camaro, which was in the parking lot of an apartment complex at 4425 82nd St., sometime between 8:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

David Lee Wilson of Garland, who is a patient at Methodist Hospital, said someone drove away with his $650 car from the hospital's parking lot sometime between 5 p.m. Friday and 3 p.m. Saturday.

In reported burglaries and thefts, Joe Gil Nieto of 2110 Ave. L said someone took $470 worth of goods, including a portable TV set, radio and jewelry, from his apartment Saturday night.

Carlton Lee Taylor of 4106 32nd St. complained that someone took his two Doberman pinschers, valued together at $1,200, from his backyard sometime Saturday afternoon.

Norma Robinson of 2214 10th St. reported she is missing a $300 stereo after a Saturday night break-in.

David W. Taylor of 4313-B 53rd St. said burglars took about $1,400 worth of jewelry from his place sometime Friday or Saturday.

Judge Delays Decision In Lorenzo Vandalism

A-J Correspondent
CROSBYTON — Crosby County Judge Robert Work said today that no final disposition will be made for several days in the case of three Lorenzo youngsters accused of vandalizing the Lorenzo Elementary School.

Work said this morning that he would meet sometime today with parents of the youngsters. The boys, ages 6, 9 and 11, allegedly caused $22,000 damage to school property during a vandalism spree Friday night.

The county judge said that before any decision is reached in the case, the county's probation department will conduct a thorough investigation into the boys' background and home life.

Lorenzo Police Chief Bill Jones and Crosby County sheriff's deputy Paul Stone questioned the boys at their homes Sunday afternoon about the Friday night vandalism. The two youngest boys are brothers.

Officials took fingerprints from baseball bats and soft drink bottles, which they theorize the vandals left behind after using them to damage the property.

Superintendent Dean Andrews said the list of damaged or destroyed property includes audio visual equipment, chalkboards, world globes, maps and doors. Electric typewriters also were found dumped on the floors and 117 windows were broken.

Paint also was sprayed on the carpet, he added. The episode is believed to have occurred between 8:15 p.m. and about 9:30, as evidenced by clocks broken by the vandals.

"It's the largest vandalism we've ever had," Andrews said.

The vandalism was discovered early Saturday by a member of the custodial staff making an unscheduled visit to the school. Normally, a school spokesman said, no one would have been at the school during the weekend and the damage would not have been discovered until this morning.

Chinese Begin Freeing POWs

PEKING (UPI) — China Monday began releasing sick and wounded Vietnamese soldiers captured during the border war between the communist neighbors earlier this year, the official New China News Agency reported.

In a story filed as a "flash" from Youyi (Friendship) Pass in Guangxi (Quangsi) province, the agency said it began releasing 120 prisoners at 9:30 p.m. CDT.

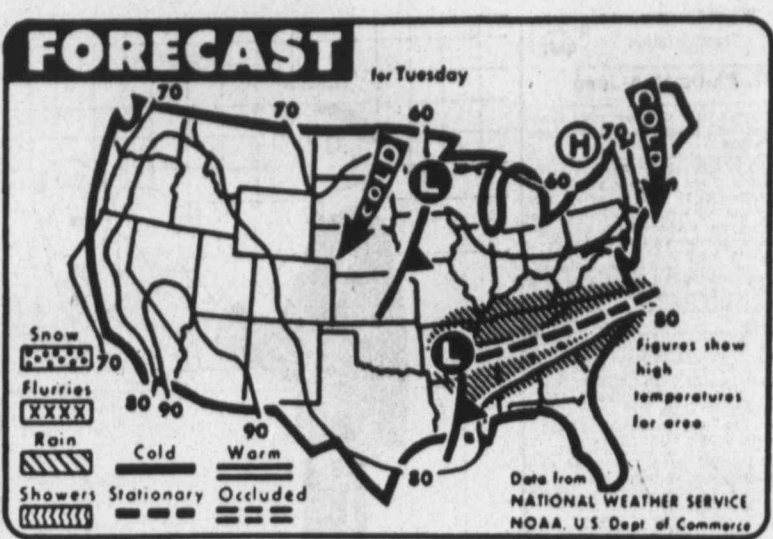

The Chinese agency reported that People's Liberation Army soldiers Sunday began removing land mines and other obstacles in the Friendship Pass area in preparation for the repatriation.

The Vietnamese government also had agreed to release Chinese soldiers captured during the month-long war but there was no immediate report on whether the Hanoi side had followed suit Monday.

"China began releasing at 11:20 hours (local time) today 120 sick or wounded Vietnamese armed personnel captured during the recent counterattack in self-defense," the news agency said.

Army Cooks Win Award

CHICAGO (UPI) — It may come as a shock to the ex-GI who remembers all those rubberized scrambled eggs in the old military "mess hall," but the U.S. Army now is second to none in the preparation of high-class cuisine.

A DAILY MESSAGE FROM The Newspaper Bible

Luke 17:7-20, The Living Bible

7-9 When a servant comes in from plowing or taking care of sheep, he doesn't just sit down and eat, but first prepares his master's meal and serves him his supper before he eats his own. And he is not even thanked, for he is merely doing what he is supposed to do!

10 Just so, if you merely obey Me, you should not consider yourselves worthy of praise! For you have simply done your duty!

11 As they continued onward toward Jerusalem, they reached the border between Galilee and Samaria

12 And entered a village. Ten lepers stood at a distance

13 Crying out, "Jesus, Sir, have mercy on us!"

14 He glanced at them and said, "Go to the Jewish priest and show him that you are healed!" And as they were on their way, their leprosy disappeared!

15 One of them came back to Jesus, shouting, "Glory to God, I am healed!"

16 He fell flat on the ground in front of Jesus, face downward in the dust, thanking Him for what He had done. (This man was a despised Samaritan.)

17 Jesus asked, "Didn't I heal ten men? Where are the nine?"

18 Does only this foreigner return to give glory to God?"

19 And Jesus said to the man, "Stand up and go; your faith has made you well."

20 One day the Pharisees asked Jesus, "When will the Kingdom of God begin?" Jesus replied, "The Kingdom of God isn't ushered in with visible signs!"

Soap Sillies Make Helpful Puppets

By SHARI LEWIS

Soap Sillies are helpful puppets, for with their two little hands they can hold the soap, turn on the water and even applaud you when you've done a good scrub-a-dub job!

On a piece of newspaper, draw a basic puppet shape (with a round head at least 4 inches across at the widest point) and outstretched arms (reaching about 8 inches from fingertip to fingertip). Cut out the outline.

Fold a towel in half, pin the paper shape to the towel, trace the pattern, and then cut through the two layers of towel along the outline. Sew the pieces together along the rounded edges, leaving only the flat bottom edge open. Turn the puppet inside out.

On the round face, lightly pencil features. Embroider them with bright colorfast thread or cut them out of colored toweling and sew 'em on.

Hem the bottom edge of bind with colorfast tape. Now put your pointer finger and your middle finger together into the head, your thumb into one arm, and your ring finger and pinkie into the other arm. This puppet can scratch his head, clap and even take a bow, so when you hop into the tub, the Soap Silly can do all the work. With him around, it won't be work: it'll be play.

Bullets Survive Squeaker

KEEP AWAY — Seattle forward Lonnie Shelton takes possession of a rebound while Washington's Larry Dandridge is still reaching goalward in search of the ball. (AP Laserphoto)

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Bobby Dandridge of the Washington Bullets nodded, but it was the Seattle SuperSonics who went to sleep.

As he prepared to make an inbounds pass with two seconds remaining in the opener of the NBA championship series Sunday, Dandridge made an almost imperceptible motion with his head.

But Larry Wright picked up the subtle signal, drove the lane for a bounce pass from Dandridge, and was fouled by Dennis Johnson on a layup attempt as time expired.

Wright, who came off the bench to score 26 points, missed his first free throw but sank the next two, giving Washington a 99-97 victory and a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven series which resumes here Thursday night.

"Bobby motioned that the lane was open," Wright said. "I gave a head fake the opposite way and came down the lane."

"Wright just beat me," said Gus Williams, who scored 32 points for the SuperSonics and had blocked another Wright attempt when Washington brought the ball inbounds with five seconds left.

The Bullets, trying to become the first repeat champions of the NBA in 10 years, had three chances to win after Dennis Johnson rebounded a John Johnson shot and tied the score with 25 seconds left.

After Tom Henderson missed and Seattle's Lonnie Shelton fumbled the ball out of bounds, the Bullets intended to set a double screen for Dandridge, their clutch performer who had 23 points.

But Dennis Johnson foiled the strategy and after Wright's hurried shot was tipped by Williams, Seattle's Jack Sikma knocked the ball out of bounds.

This time, Dandridge tossed the ball inbounds, a move which may have confused the SuperSonics.

"They didn't have time to set up," Wright said. "They were probably saying, 'What are the Bullets trying to do?' They had to be startled."

Dennis Johnson, guarding Kevin Grevey, moved to block the lane when Wright broke free and didn't agree with the call by official Ed Rush.

"I thought I blocked the shot," Johnson said, "but with all the noise, I couldn't hear a whistle."

"It first flashed through my mind that it was goaltending," said Wright, who had his best playoff effort in three years as a pro. "Then I had to go to the foul line, and the butterflies started."

"I didn't want to be the goat. But it wasn't a do-or-die situation. Even after I missed, I knew I had two more shots coming."

The SuperSonics, who won the opener of last year's seven-game series with Washington after trailing by 19 points, almost equaled that miracle comeback.

Trailing 91-73 early in the fourth quarter, Seattle reeled off two 10-point strings — with Williams scoring six during each streak — and forged the tie when Dennis Johnson scored his 23rd point.

"We got awfully careless," said Washington coach Dick Motta, "and started playing the clock much earlier than we should have."

The SuperSonics picked up 23 points on 20 Washington turnovers, several while using a press in the closing minutes. But Seattle was outbounded 55-41 and hit only 11 of 23 free throws.

"We started the game standing around," said Seattle coach Lenny Wilkens, who said his team may have been tired from a transcontinental trip early Saturday morning. "But if we made the free throws, we wouldn't have had to worry about the final play."

Because It's There

INTEREST IN MOUNTAIN climbing has grown steadily in the United States since the end of World War II, for a variety of reasons. Once it was considered a foolhardy venture by a ragged band of youthful rebels, mostly Californians, but now it rivals skiing as one of the fastest-growing sports in the nation.

"Climb Yosemite!" posters now adorn travel agency walls, signifying mountaineering's acceptance, and climbing clubs have been organized in such unlikely places as Iowa and Wisconsin. Stores offering mountaineering equipment are found even in Lubbock, where it is a long drive to anything higher than the Metro Tower.

"This is progress?"

Many veteran mountaineers are not happy about the tidal wave of newcomers on the peaks. They remember the time, just a decade or two ago, when climbers were a small, closely knit fraternity and there were many virtually untouched peaks and routes awaiting the bold. Now popular climbing areas such as Yosemite swarm with enthusiastic cragsmen and the roads look like a busy New York street.

Still, the newcomers have the same right to climb that the fellows did in the 1940s or '50s. The mountains are public domain, so everyone must move over a bit to make way for the latest recruits. At least things are not as bad in the western U.S. as they are in parts of the Alps, where summit time on the famed Matterhorn is limited to 10 minutes before the next wave of tourist-climbers arrives!

SOME BEGINNING MOUNTAINEERS learn the hard way, by falling off barns or water towers. Others do it in style by going to an accredited climbing school in the Rockies, California or the Pacific Northwest.

One of the best places to learn how to climb is Grand Teton National Park in northwestern Wyoming, where the mountains are magnificent and good trails lead to all parts of the range. Best of all, the National Park Service-

Near Hole-In-One Helps Geiberger Win Colonial

FORT WORTH (AP) — It was a grand scheme, and Al Geiberger dreamed of it often. The final hole of the U.S. Open. He would slash a long iron to within an inch of the cup.

There would be cheers and champagne and a tap-in and a bunch of money.

Well, it wasn't the Open, or the last hole, or even a cinch. But he did what he dreamed of. And it won him the $300,000 Colonial Invitation golf title.

With his 4-shot lead eroded, his confidence in shambles and the wolves at his heels, the lanky, affable Californian slapped a 5-iron 2 inches shy of a hole-in-one on the par-3 16th hole.

It netted him a birdie, restored his confidence and propelled him to a one-shot victory Sunday in a typically traumatic final round.

It left Don January, with a 65, and Gene Littler, with a 68, frustrated runners-up.

"I hadn't done anything sensational all day," Geiberger concluded after firing a closing 3-over-par 73. "I had a few doubts. . . All of a sudden I hit an iron like that."

"It gave me a lift. With two more holes to go, I thought, 'I can go to work and try to win this.' It seemed like a new ball game all over again."

Geiberger snaked in a 7-foot par putt on No. 17 and recorded a safe bogey at the 18th to close out with a 72-hole total of 274 and his first victory since 1977.

It was worth $54,000 which, he deadpanned, "will go good with the $5,000 that I won so far this year."

Tom Watson, with a foot in the grave, dipped to 5-under through 10 holes. With four straight birdies, the tour's leading money winner appeared almost certain to challenge for his fourth triumph of the year. But a double bogey at the 12th torpedoed that possibility and Watson's 3-under-par 67 left him tied with Jim Colbert for fourth.

Colbert and Watson earned $13,200, precisely one half of what Littler and January got as runners-up. Colbert slipped home with a 69.

First and second-round leader Leonard Thompson slumped to a 2-over-par

72 and tied Masters champion Fuzzy Zoeller at 278, a shot ahead of Wayne Levi, Ed Sneed, Bruce Lietzke, Jack

Renner and Lindy Miller. Geiberger, one of the tour's 20 millionaires, embarked on the final round with a 4-shot lead over Barry Jaecel and was five shots ahead of Thompson. Both challengers collapsed.

Littler and January shot threatening 4-under-par 31s on the front side, leaping into contention. But neither could master the tricky cross winds to maintain a charge.

Exaggerating just slightly, Geiberger called it a victory for the old folks. January is 49 and Littler 48, and, at 41, Geiberger is at least seasoned if not spicy.

And so it wasn't the Open. But it was just like Al envisioned. "All of a sudden, I hit an iron like I did today at No. 16. That's the feeling I had. . . Great. . . I couldn't miss."

It was the wrong dream come true. "But I loved it," he grinned.

THE VICTOR — Al Geiberger swings his putter over his head in frustration as a long putt on the eighth hole at Fort Worth's Colonial Country Club fails to drop. But Geiberger went on to claim the NIT championship. (AP Laserphoto)

Mr. Afton Bug Triumphs In Kansas Derby

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. (AP) — Mr. Afton Bug caught Flying Passem in the final strides of the Kansas Derby at Ruidoso Downs Sunday to capture the fifth running of the $212,850 sprint for 3-year-old quarter horses by a nose.

Veteran Quarter Horse jockey Jerry Nicodemus rallied Mr. Afton Bug from well off the pace as the speedy colt burst down the stretch to make up three lengths and win the 400-yard scramble in a time of 20.52 seconds.

In winning the first leg of the Triple Crown for 3-year-old quarter horses, the colt earned $103,925 for owner Marvin Barnes of Ada, Okla. The victory also established him as the horse watch this summer in the Rainbow and All-American derbies, the final two jewels in the Triple Crown.

Disqualifications Mar Indy 500 Trials

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — With a final flurry of bumping and protesting, the field is set — maybe — for Sunday's 63rd Indianapolis 500, which may become known as the most confusing spectacle in auto racing.

The last weekend of time trials produced excitement when a record 11 cars were bumped from the field by faster competitors; controversy when a cheating scandal spread through Gasoline Alley involving new power restrictions; and anger when four qualification runs were disallowed for rules infractions.

At day's end, the race billed as the world's richest purse also faced the prospect of being the world's most litigated.

Seven protests were filed, mostly against a last-day rules change on the power restrictions, and one driver threatened court action to throw the whole lineup out and start over again with less a week until race day. All that came just two weeks after the rival Championship Auto Racing Teams, representing most of the sport's big names, went to court to overcome the sanctioning U.S. Auto Club's rejection of 19 entries.

Lost in the confusion was the fact that the 33-car starting grid as finally completed is the most competitive in years, with an average speed of 186.771 mph, 24 cars between 184 and 186, and less than 10 mph separating the fastest and the slowest. It has just one rookie, veteran road racer Howdy Holmes, and five former winners, including four-time champion A.J. Foyt, three-time winner Al Unser, and Bobby Unser, Johnny Rutherford and Gordon Johncock.

It doesn't necessarily have the 33 fastest cars since rookie Bill Alsup was thrown out of the race after it was discovered that the Penske-Cosworth he qualified at more than 187 mph had the engine used by Bobby Unser a week ago. Since Unser qualified with it, that is illegal.

Alsup's car owner, Roger Penske, who already has Unser and pole sitter Rick Mears in the race, said the engine mixup was unintentional. He protested that the penalty was too severe, said it wasn't covered in the rules and asked that Alsup be given a chance to qualify with another engine.

USAC scheduled hearings today on that and the other six protests, all involving the cheating scandal and USAC's belated attempts to deal with it.

That erupted Saturday when rookie Dick Ferguson's qualification run was nullified after technical inspectors found the wastegate exhaust pipe on his car had been altered to generate more than the 50 inches of mercury manifold pressure allowed by USAC for turbocharged eight-cylinder racers. The same ruling was applied later to Steve Krisloff and Tom Bigelow.

All three were fined $5,000 and allowed to try again with the power restrictions in effect.

...AND THEY ALSO HAVE THOSE ZEBRA STRIPES RIGHT ON THE FRONT (THAT ONLY A ZEBRA MACHINE CAN READ)...

SO WHERE DOES THE SLAP-HAPPY PRICE SLAPPER SLAP ON THE PRICE?

The Almanac TODAY IN HISTORY

By United Press International Today is Monday, May 21, the 141st day of 1979 with 224 to follow. The moon is moving toward its new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Mars. The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn. Those born on this date are under the sign of Gemini. Glenn Curtiss, American inventor of the hydroplane, was born May 21, 1878. This is actor Raymond Burr's 62nd birthday.

chapter was organized in Washington, D.C., by Clara Barton. In 1941, President Franklin D. Roosevelt proclaimed "an unlimited state of national emergency." Seven months later, Japan attacked Pearl Harbor and the United States was catapulted into World War II. In 1976, 28 members of a high school choir were killed in a bus crash in Martinez, Calif. A thought for the day: British writer Richard Garnett said, "Ascend above the restrictions and conventions of the world, but not so high as to lose sight of them."

Track Program Catches On

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Starting in 1975 with only about 500 boys and girls from the Charleston area participating, Hershey's National Track and Field Youth Program is being conducted this summer for nearly 2.5 million youngsters in all 50 states and the District of Columbia. The program, aimed at the novice in track and field, is for boys and girls ages 10 to 15. It is conducted by the National Recreation and Park Association in cooperation with the National Track and Field Hall of Fame and the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports. After competing in local and district meets in early summer, district winners advance to the state meets in late June or early July. Winners there are eligible for selection to one of the eight regional teams which receive expense-paid trips to the national finals.

Washington Tops Survey

NEW YORK (AP) — Father Time may be catching up to the Father of Our Country according to an informal survey by Hallmark Cards, but his margin of victory was not as large as might be expected. Twenty percent of the cross-section participating in the poll named Washington as their favorite father, while 17 percent selected Abraham Lincoln and 14 percent picked Bing Crosby. The solid fourth-place finisher was "my own father," who received 8 percent of the vote. Other favorite fathers surfacing in the survey included Joseph Kennedy, John Wayne, Henry Ford, Ernest Hemingway, and "me."
