

Panel Ups Savings Interest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Savers in federal savings and loan associations will be able to earn a quarter of a percentage point more on their passbook accounts starting July 1, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board decided today.

Boosting the maximum interest rate on savings accounts at savings and loan associations to 5.5 percent was one of several actions taken to give small savers a better return on their money.

Other federal bank boards, including the Federal Reserve, also were meeting today to take similar action. The Federal Reserve was expected to raise the maximum rate on passbook accounts from 5 percent to 5.25 percent.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which regulate the nation's federally chartered savings and loan associations, took these steps:

— Raised the maximum interest rate on passbook savings accounts from 5.25 percent to 5.5 percent, effective July 1.

— Created a new savings category with interest tied to, but below, current market rates.

The new savings accounts, with a minimum maturity of four years, will pay interest one percentage point below the average four-year rate on U.S. Treasury securities. If issued today, they would pay 8.10 percent, a board statistician said.

— Eliminated minimum deposits for all savings certificates except the popular $10,000 money market certificates.

— Reduced the interest penalty for early withdrawal from savings certificate accounts

Arabs Battle Khomeini's Rule In Iran

KHORAMSHAHR, Iran (AP) — Iranian Arabs set fire to government buildings and fought troops of Iran's revolutionary regime today in Khoramshahr, the country's largest port and center of the Khuzestan oil region.

State radio said that by evening army troops were in control and calm had returned to the city, but this could not immediately be confirmed.

The Arabs, renewing their fight for the autonomy that both Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini have denied them, attacked the naval base and the district governor's office and set fire to the main police station, the post office and the government tobacco factory.

Officials said at least 11 Arabs were killed and dozens more wounded.

A huge column of black smoke hung over the city. The newspaper Kayhan said hundreds of buildings had been burned, including a Chevrolet warehouse that was looted. Several supermarkets and a warehouse of the National Iranian Oil Co. also went up in flames.

Kayhan said large numbers of wounded were being treated at four hospitals.

Radio Tehran said Adm. Ahmadi Madani, the governor general of Khuzestan province and the head of the Iranian navy, had proclaimed a state of emergency in the city of 100,000 at the head of the Persian Gulf and advised residents to stay indoors.

Troop reinforcements rushed to the city after the fighting broke out at dawn, and set up sandbag barricades on all the main streets.

But oil industry officials said there was no interruption in operations at the world's largest oil refinery, at Abadan, across the Karoun River from Khoramshahr.

Kayhan reported heavy fighting at rural police stations in the area, but said none had fallen. Some points of Arab resistance had been captured by revolutionary guardsmen aiding government troops, it said.

Highways were closed, telephone service was largely cut off, and there was no immediate word on the fate of a Tehran-Khoramshahr passenger train that failed to reach here as scheduled this morning.

In the holy city of Mashhad in north-eastern Iran, meanwhile, a revolutionary firing squad executed four more of the shah's soldiers, raising to 239 the number shot since February, newspapers reported. They said the four, ranging from a lieutenant to a colonel, were convicted of killing and wounding innocent people.

In another development, the revolutionary court in Tehran on Tuesday claimed the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency had created a terrorist group that has claimed responsibility for the recent assassinations of two officials of the revolutionary regime. It was the first time an official body in Iran has directly accused the United States of involvement.

The court said the CIA some years ago created the anarchist Forghan group "to encourage opposition to the religious leadership on the one hand and the leftist group on the other."

There have been intermittent clashes between the Arabs in Khoramshahr and government forces since the chaos and the collapse of the monarchy in February gave Iran's ethnic minorities a new opportunity to press their demands.

'Lam' Jones Parts With Gold Medal

AUSTIN (AP) — Johnny "Lam" Jones of the University of Texas has donated the Olympic gold medal he won at Montreal in 1976 to the Texas Special Olympics for the handicapped.

"I couldn't believe he was doing that," said Denis Poulos, director of the meet for 3,400 children now under way here. "I said, 'Johnny, are you sure you know what you're doing?'"

"He said that maybe we could sell it and make some money," Poulos told the Austin American-Statesman, "but that medal is too special to us now. It's a part of that man's life. It says something about the guy that he can do something like this."

"We'll put it to good use somehow, but there's no way we're going to sell that medal."

"That's amazing, isn't it?" said Eunice Shriver Kennedy, president of Special Olympics, Inc. "When you think of how much time he spent to win that medal, you know how much it means to him. That's just the way the Special Olympics affects people."

Jones, an All-Southwest Conference receiver in football and track sprinter, ran on the United States' winning 400-meter relay team three years ago.

Cold Front To Trigger Area Rains

A-J News Services
Rain chances on the South Plains improved sharply today as a new cold front pushed toward the region, promising to set off more showers and thunderstorms tonight and Thursday.

Probability of rain was placed at 20 percent today and 50 percent tonight and Thursday.

Heavy thunderstorms already were erupting in the Panhandle this morning as the front moved in from the northwest.

Early today, the strongest activity was reported near Amarillo, with the storms moving south at 30 miles per hour. No rainfall amounts were immediately available, however.

Elswhere in the state, thunderstorms rumbled through North Central Texas and along the coast early today, causing some street flooding and prompting the National Weather Service to issue special marine warnings for high winds and rough seas.

Street flooding was reported at Fort Worth and Corsicana, where an estimated 6 inches of rain fell during the evening and early morning hours.

Scattered showers brushed the South Plains Tuesday night, but totals were light. Crosbyton, with .30, had the only significant moisture reported in the area.

It was a different story in other portions of the state, however. College Station had 2.24 inches, Dallas 1.42, Lufkin 1.82, Fort Worth 1.18 and Beaumont-Port Arthur 1.79 up to 7 a.m. today.

Jail Death Inquest Opens

By JACK DOUGLAS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Several witnesses at an inquest this morning into the May 17 death of a man in the Lubbock County Jail said the man did not appear drunk in the early evening of May 16 before his arrest and that he had been accompanied by another man and a woman.

Sheriff's deputy Don Gass testified at the inquest that he tried to serve a subpoena for a city woman and failed. He added that the woman apparently was attempting to avoid being served the order to appear.

The woman was one of four persons District Attorney John Montford wanted to question today about the death of Jose A. Villarreal, 52, but who did not appear at Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy's court.

Villarreal was found dead about 5 a.m. May 17 in a second-floor cell of the county jail. He had been arrested about four hours earlier at the El Monte Carlo Lounge, 355 Ave. H, and was charged with public intoxication.

Authorities first thought Villarreal, who lived in an apartment on Broadway, had died of natural causes. But an autopsy revealed the dead man suffered a fatal blow to the head.

Puzzled over the mysterious death, LeCroy has not made a ruling in the death and ordered the inquest, which apparently was to continue throughout the day.

John Lewis Harvey testified that he was at his television repair shop at 1217 Ave. F about 8 or 9 p.m. May 16 when Villarreal, a woman and another man asked him to give them a ride to the lounge.

Harvey said he let out the woman and Villarreal and that Villarreal gave him $2. The other man, who the witness said he did not know, asked to be taken to "another place."

Harvey testified that the last time he saw Villarreal he did not appear drunk, and was not drinking when he drove him to the club.

Aurora Gonzalez, a bartender at the lounge, and the club owner, Juan Benites, had testified earlier in the morning that Villarreal appeared to be alone when inside the club, and that he later was asked to leave because he was "too drunk."

Benites' nephew, Robert DeLeon, reportedly was at the club and was helping serve drinks the night Villarreal was there. Gass said he tried to serve DeLeon a subpoena but could not find him. Benites told Montford his nephew could be found later today opening the club.

"He was completely drunk," Benites said of Villarreal the night of May 16. "He could barely walk."

"He asked me for a beer and I told him he was too drunk," Miss Gonzalez said. Both Benites and his bartender testified that Villarreal appeared to have been alone at the nightclub.

Robert R. Chavez of 1917 Parkway Drive, who saw Villarreal at the club, said the dead man broke up an argument between two women at the drinking establishment. He said Villarreal did not seem too drunk inside the club.

Chavez said the women appeared to

The Federal Aviation Administration's grounding of all DC-10 wide-bodied jets for inspections of their engine assemblies robbed the airlines of 40,000 seats, but most travelers got rides on other airplanes today.

The FAA said some of the big jets were back in the air today and all the inspections may be completed by nightfall.

Sir Freddie Laker's Skytrain was back on the track following inspection of the six DC-10s it uses for cheap flights between England and the United States. Evelyn Hayward, a spokesman for Laker, said inspection had been completed on all the jets which were at Gatwick Airport near London.

The grounding of the jets was ordered during an investigation of last Friday's crash of an American Airlines DC-

10 in Chicago which killed at least 273 persons, the nation's worst air disaster.

Thousands of passengers scrambled for new flights or cooled their heels in airport lounges and hotels Tuesday when the government handed down the order.

But airline spokesmen at several airports this morning reported only minor disruptions of service.

Walt Robshaw, a spokesman for National Airlines in Miami, which has 16 DC-10s, said the inspections were expected to be completed by noon, but few of the big jets were in the air this morning.

Many passengers were still grumbling.

"I understand how they feel about safety, but they could at least notify the people," said Carmela Soffrea of Fair Lawn, N.J., as she waited at Miami International Airport for a National flight home.

"You try to get to the counter and all they say is, 'Step away,'" Kirk Kirkpatrick, supervisor of reservations for Western Airlines in Los Angeles, said some flights were delayed today and one was cancelled, stranding about 170 passengers.

"But we have been able to get the equipment for most flights, so we really have not been affected," said Kirkpatrick.

Local Teachers Disappointed By Pay Hike

By LISA PAIKOWSKI
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The 5.1 percent teacher salary increase passed by the Texas Legislature Monday won't compensate for the going inflation rate, but it's "better than nothing," say some local teacher association officials.

The school finance bill provides for a 5.1 percent a year pay raise for most teachers for the next two years, in line with the salary increase given other state workers.

Experienced teachers will receive additional pay raises, and in some cases may have their salary raised up to 10 percent a year during the next two years.

"I hate to complain about anything we get, but I was real disappointed it isn't more since we're below the national average (for teacher salaries) to start with," said Wendell Huddleston, outgoing president of the Lubbock Classroom Teachers Association. "This doesn't bring us any closer to the national average."

He added that the increase "won't be a drop in the bucket" compared to the cost of living.

The Texas State Teachers Association had lobbied for a 7.1 percent increase — a wage hike that was passed by both the House and Senate and scaled down in conference committee.

The state starting salary for teachers is currently $8,540.

Tony Compton, president of the Lubbock Educators Association, said he wanted the higher figure, but said, "There's no need in getting a big percentage rate increase if the money's not available."

Sen. Oscar Mauzy of Dallas, chairman of the Senate Education committee, had told his colleagues Monday that, "This (the 5.1 percent hike) is all the money we had available."

"We all would like more money, but we're willing to do our part to stay within President Carter's inflation guidelines," said Compton. He said the 5.1 increase "will help some," but that he doesn't "see that it will make that much of an impact."

Eric Schaudies, legislative chairman for the LCTA, was unhappy with the scaled down pay increase. He said that he has a salary committee that has been working on a study showing that during the last six years the Consumer Price Index cost of living has risen 27-28 percent.

"Our salaries in proportion to inflation have fallen six to eight percent less than the cost of living each year," he said. "Even if they had adopted the 7.1 increase, salaries would have fallen $2, 085 less than the national average for teachers."

He said that Texas teachers "rank about 33rd in the nation" in salaries.

He added that the 7.1 figure was even a compromise from TSTA's original legislative package.

Schaudies said he "doesn't buy" Mauzy's statement that the state had no more money to give than that involved in a 5.1 percent increase. He said that he had heard that the state had a surplus.

"Of course the problem in Texas is that they can't consider any educational legislation until after the 120th day of the session," said Schaudies, "so that See TEACHERS Page 18

Brown Wins Kentucky Demo Primary

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Multimillionaire John Y. Brown Jr., who told voters Kentucky needed a businessman as governor, has won the Democratic gubernatorial nomination after a whirlwind two-month campaign.

"This is going to be a new day in Kentucky politics," he proclaimed in an appearance early today with his new wife, former Miss America and sports commentator Phyllis George.

By defeating four major rivals in one of the state's most unusual gubernatorial primaries, the 45-year-old fast-food and sports promoter earned a November bid against former Gov. Louie Nunn, who easily won the Republican primary.

Former Louisville Mayor Harvey Sloane had maintained a slim lead over

Brown early in the night because of a huge margin in the Louisville area but it melted away as the night wore on.

The favorite of the state administration, Terry McBrayer, conceded defeat early and declared Brown the victor, as did Lt. Gov. Thelma Stovall, regarded two months ago as the front-runner among major contenders. Rep. Carroll Hubbard, D-Ky., a bitter opponent of the state administration, ran far back along with Mrs. Stovall.

With 97 percent of the vote counted, Brown had 153,071 votes, or 28 percent of the total, compared with 132,839, or 24 percent, for Sloane. McBrayer was third with 124,626 votes, or 23 percent of the total vote.

Hubbard ran fourth with 68,066 votes, or 12 percent of the total, and Mrs. Stovall was last with 45,103, or 8 percent.

With 95.1 percent of the Republican primary votes in, unofficial totals showed Nunn with 99,816 or 79 percent and Bowling Green attorney Ray White with 17,640 or 14 percent. Elmer Begley Jr. and Thurman Jerome Hamlin polled 3 percent and 2 percent, respectively.

Nunn, 55, was elected governor in 1967 on his second attempt at the office, and was defeated for U.S. senator in 1972.

Brown may have changed the methods of Kentucky politics by his late entry and drive, which bypassed the customary courthouse and precinct structure in favor of recruiting thousands of volunteers and setting up a massive telephone bank.

Venus' Surface Shows Relief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A space agency radar satellite probing the cloud curtain around Venus has found a planet with spectacular relief, and a geologist on the project expects additional surprises as more of Venus' surface is studied.

"We've only seen a tiny part of the surface so far," said Dr. Harold Masursky, of the U.S. Geological Survey at Flagstaff, Ariz. "We anticipate we'll see lots of other things. The rest of the planet is totally unknown."

Radar signals already have discovered a mountain taller than Mount Everest, a plateau twice as big as Earth's largest and a canyon larger than any yet found anywhere in the solar system.

Masursky said Tuesday the evidence suggests Venus has been battered by giant meteorites, ripped by internal forces and sculptured by volcanoes.

"We know that it is a dynamic planet because we have great uplifted plateaus and great fault zones with what apparently are volcanic mountains on them," he said.

Whether Venus is, or was, as active as Earth is a question that cannot yet be answered, Masursky said. But he said it is far from the dull, featureless planet some scientists once believed it was.

Thomas Jefferson once described the White House as "big enough for two emperors, one pope and the grand lama."

Reports from other project scientists speaking at the spring meeting of the American Geophysical Union showed Venus has five cloud levels apparently formed mostly of sulfuric acid droplets. Gases at low altitudes contain a variety of sulfur compounds.

Ulcerative Colitis

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I am one of the thousands of people who suffer from ulcerative colitis. I've had it for the past 10 months. I was in the hospital and had all the tests made and I am taking Milpath after meals and Metamucil at bedtime.
 I am on a very restrictive diet. I am 55, am 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 115 pounds. I never smoked or drank alcoholic beverages. Will you please suggest some other treatment or medicine I can suggest to my doctor so I can get rid of this problem soon? My doctor said I will probably feel better within a few months. My diet which I'm enclosing is so bad that you can see that I'm not living, I'm just existing. Thank you very much for any advice you can give.

DEAR READER — Ulcerative colitis is a very complex disease and its exact cause is not understood. I must assume that you're correct in telling me that is your diagnosis. This is not at all the same thing as a spastic or irritable colon and the treatment is entirely different.

 Patients with ulcerative colitis usually have episodes of severe diarrhea, sometimes they have bleeding and they have abdominal pain with the episodes of diarrhea. Because of the heavy diarrhea, they frequently lose weight and they may develop nutritional deficiencies because of it. The salt and water metabolism may be disturbed and, in general, the patients are pretty uncomfortable. The attacks may subside spontaneously and not occur again for some time.
 The usual treatment is to try to stop the attack as quickly as possible. There are several medicines used for this. A common one is Azulfidine. Most antibiotics, however, don't help at all. They're used only if you have a complication such as a perforation or an abscess where there is an actual infection. Corticosterone or other steroid hormones are frequently used and are often useful in aborting the attack.

 I looked over your diet. Many doctors do not think a special diet is particularly important. In fact, it's dangerous sometimes to have a diet that's too restricted because the patient's nutrition is already marginal.
 There is such a thing as an elemental diet that provides essential amino acids, vitamins, minerals and glucose and safflower oil as a mixture. This is almost entirely absorbed in the small intestine so there's very little residue left to enter the inflamed and ulcerated colon.
 Readers who want information about diarrhea conditions can send for The Health Letter number 13-6. Send your request with 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, NY 10019.

Scientists Identify New Germ

By CHARLES S. TAYLOR
ATLANTA (UPI) — Medical scientists have identified another mysterious germ, this one living in sea water and capable of causing serious illness or death. Doctors in coastal areas have been advised to watch for it.
 The newly found marine organism is a bacterium, like the agent that causes Legionnaire's disease, which also lives in water. The "new" disease is curable with antibiotics if treatment is started promptly.
 Specialists at the national Center for Disease Control, where the germ was first identified, said there is no medical relationship between the sea water bacterium and the Legionnaire's disease agent. Each has its own way of infecting people and each causes different types of illness.

 People with cuts or sores on their skin who have contact with salt water and those who eat raw oysters appear to be the principal targets of the sea water bacterium, according to Dr. Paul Blake, deputy chief of the CDC's enteric diseases branch.

Individuals in these two categories who also have a major underlying medical problem stand a greater chance of becoming seriously ill or dying if they become infected, Blake said.
 He said the risk is extremely low for a normally healthy person going swimming in salt water.
 "I think it is a disease that doctors along the seacoast should be aware of," he said. "It is a newly-recognized organism and there still is a lot that we don't know about it."

Most cases occur between May and October and November, with the ailment striking along the East Coast as far north as Rhode Island. Cases also have been reported on the Gulf and West coasts, Hawaii, Guam and Japan.
 "It probably is found all over the world, but we don't know that yet," he said.

The biochemical characteristics of the salt water bacterium were first described by a laboratory technician at the CDC in 1976. But not until this year has medical science been able to give a clinical description of it and how it infects humans.

It is still so new, said Blake, that it does not have a medical name. It currently is being called a lactose-positive vibrio by laboratory workers and physicians who have come into contact with it.

Dr. James D. Oliver, a microbiologist at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, also is pioneering research on the organism.

In a recent report, Blake described a study of 39 persons who came down with the illness. Twenty-four had eaten raw oysters and 11 died. Of the 24, 18 had pre-existing liver disease. Another 15 persons had a wound infection after exposure to sea water or an injury incurred during the handling of crabs. None of these had pre-existing liver disease and one of 15 died.

Onset of illness usually occurs within 12 to 16 hours after exposure to the organism, Blake said. Symptoms include chills, fever or prostration, severe low blood pressure, shock, skin inflammation, and sometimes vomiting and diarrhea. In cases where the organism invades the body through a skin cut, swelling develops around the wound site and sores break out over the body.

Oliver said that once inside the body, the organism apparently produces a toxin that causes the water in the blood to be lost to the body tissues. He said the blood develops "a molasses consistency which does not circulate."

Blake said there are many different strains of the organism but almost all are sensitive to several antibiotics, including ampicillin, chloramphenicol and tetracycline. Additional immediate medical steps includes treatment for shock and cleaning up the wound site.

It is estimated that a race-horse loses between 10 and 15 pounds in a race, depending on the temperature.

U.S. Banking On Trade

IT'S A little known fact that roughly 40 percent of American manufactured products entering world trade is absorbed by that block of several dozen nations known collectively as the Third World.

It is this strengthening of the economies of the underdeveloped majority, and therefore their ability to buy foreign goods, ultimately benefits the United States.

This point is central to discussions that have been going on in Manila, where the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development has been in session.

It is not only the U.S. relationship with the underdeveloped world that is under study, however, but that of all major industrial nations.

MOST OF the developing countries seek prosperity through industrialization. In the process, they often more cheaply produced products liberally bring them into competition with the developed economies.

The natural response of the latter, seeking to protect their industries and the jobs of their workers, is to raise barriers. These generally take the form of import quotas, market-sharing agreements and government subsidies of domestic industries.

This is the "new protectionism" that concerns not only the Third World but many in the West. For example, Robert McNamara, president of the World Bank, warned at Manila that such short-term self-interest actually is self-harmful in the long term.

"If the economic development of the poorer countries is limited, so is their ability to buy products of the newer industries that are the developed economies' real future, not the obsolete operations being protected," writes syndicated columnist Don Graff.

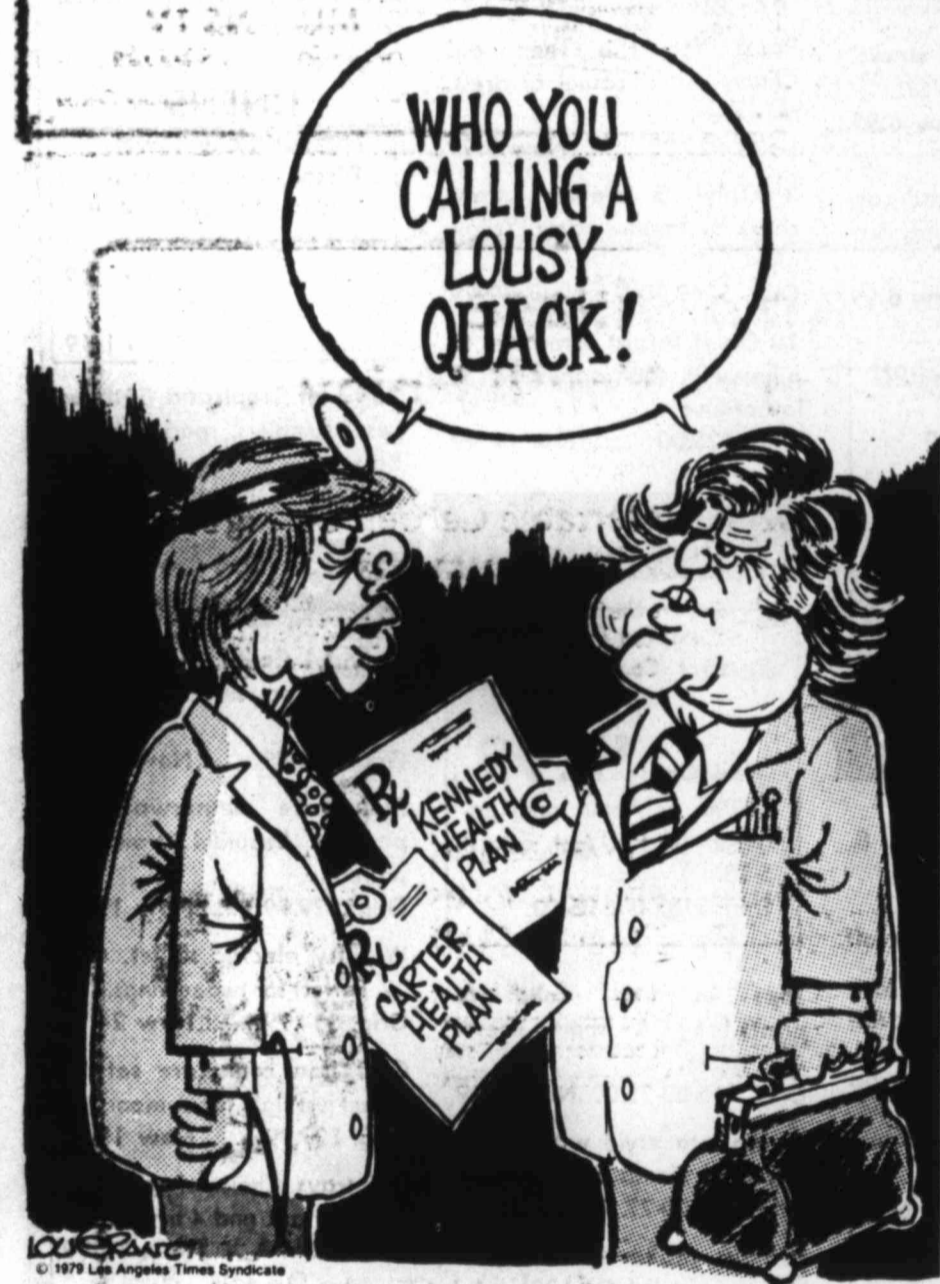

THE MANILA session is the fifth such UNCTAD gathering of the well-off, generally northern nations with their less-fortunate, generally southern trading partners.

So far, the effort has generated lots of talk, but little action.

But much more than talk is going to be needed before the north-south economic relationship becomes one of genuine mutual advantage rather than self-interest.

As McNamara and others see it, the developed nations in their own best interests are going to have to:

- a) Allow easier entry into their markets for the products of developing countries; b) Cease propping up declining industries; or c) Restructure their own economies to emphasize the most efficient enterprises. Or, d) All of the above.

Rhodesian Vote 'Proved' Valid

PEERING BESPINDFULLY down their respective noses while donning sackcloth and ashes, 12 members of the UN Security Council—with the U.S., Britain and France abstaining—have condemned the Rhodesian elections as a sham and called on the governments of the world to maintain UN sanctions.

The countries voting in the affirmative on this resolution were Bangladesh, Bolivia, Communist China, Czechoslovakia, Gabon, Jamaica, Kuwait, Nigeria, Norway, Portugal, the Soviet Union, and Zambia.

OK, fine. But what is the status of political and civil rights in these countries? Do they come to the Rhodesian election question with clean hands?

Hardly. In fact, with the exception of Norway, which is a constitutional monarchy, and Portugal, which is a parliamentary democracy, all these nations are politically more repressive than is Rhodesia.

ACCORDING TO "Freedom in the World: 1978," (Freedom House), and the "Political Handbook of the World: 1978," (McGraw-Hill):

— Bangladesh: All political activity in this country was banned following a coup in August 1975 when martial law was established. In mid-1976 a set of regulations governing the licensing of political parties was issued.

In 1977, following a series of counter-coups, the country came under interim control of self-appointed military-civilian rule. A recent referendum gave 99 percent of the vote to a military ruler, and this vote "casts more doubt on the election process than it indicates support."

In Bangladesh, the radio and TV are government-controlled, there are thousands of political prisoners, and labor unions have no freedom to strike.

— BOLIVIA: A military dictatorship. The bicameral legislature has not met since 1969, the same year the constitution was abolished.

The July 9, 1978, presidential and congressional elections—the first held in 12 years—subsequently were held invalid following widespread fraud reports.

On July 21, 1978, Gen. Juan Perada, the official candidate for president, in a bloodless coup deposed President David Padilla.

The Bolivian constitution calls for elected municipal councils and mayors, but implementing legislation was never passed and municipal authorities serve at the pleasure of the president.

— Communist China: This country, like the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia, is a totalitarian, communist, one-party dictatorship.

— GABON: SINCE 1968 this country has been a one-party dictatorship in which noncompetitive elections are held between candidates who must be approved by the only legal party.

The media is government-controlled and political opponents of the government are frequently imprisoned.

ONE MAN'S OPINION: Invest, Produce Less

Kenneth May

THAT ANTI-BUSINESS attitude which is so fashionable among liberal politicians these days is a direct threat to your standard of living. Already, in fact, it has pushed up prices to such an extent that many of us are doing without purchases we otherwise would make.

You will be hearing more and more in the months ahead about the slowdown in the growth of productivity of the American worker.

Most of us, failing to understand how that affects us, will shrug off the rhetoric and complain about higher prices. We will not see that high prices are caused by low productivity.

Yet, next to federal budget deficits and monetary policies, productivity is the biggest key to confining or unleashing the forces of inflation.

IT IS NO COINCIDENCE that runaway inflation of the last decade runs in tandem with an alarming decline in the rate of productivity growth of the American worker.

Our rate of productivity growth for the years ending in 1976 was only 2.2 percent, a decrease of 45 percent from the previous 10 years, according to Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, chairman of the Joint Economic Committee.

During the same period, productivity in Japan grew by an annual rate of 8.9 percent. Is there any wonder Japanese products are taking over world markets, even in the U.S.?

"Last year, our productivity improvement as a nation was an abysmal four-tenths of 1 percent," adds the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. "For the first three months of 1979, it actually declined at a rate of 4.5 percent."

Alarming? Yes. Irreversible? No. WHAT'S NEEDED, say the experts, is an overhaul of tax and regulatory policies so that business investments would be encouraged rather than discouraged.

American innovation, the investment of risk capital, the evolution of new procedures and machines through research and development, created jobs and a high standard of living for most of us in this country.

It was when the politicians began trying to equalize the fruits of that productivity among the producers and non-producers alike that the trend to a better life for all of us began to taper off.

As taxes rose on the investors and the producers, they invested and produced less. As the rewards for not working grew through the proliferation of social welfare programs, more people began not working—or went to work for the government administering those programs.

Labor unions insisted on pay, pension and fringe benefit packages without a corresponding increase in output per manhour. The result: a higher unit cost of production, which shows up in higher product prices in the store.

"If labor groups have become accustomed to, and thus insist on, increases in real wages larger than the present growth in productivity, their living standards will increase only at the expense of others," says Burton G. Malkiel, chairman of Princeton University's Department of Economics, in the Harvard Business Review.

He adds that escalating government regulation of business and industry reduce productivity and fuel inflation.

THE DISENCHANTMENT with the profitability of investing in new plants and equipment that would increase productivity has reached alarming proportions.

The Wall Street Journal reported last week, for example, that employ pension funds are beginning to invest billions of dollars in foreign securities.

A survey of 200 of the nation's largest companies shows that the number which are investing part of their pension assets abroad has grown from zero percent when Jimmy Carter became President to 19 percent today and an estimated 34 percent within the next year or two.

THUS, WE HAVE the sorry spectacle of American workers putting the money for their old age into foreign plants that, because of greater productivity growth, will take markets away from American-made products.

Tax incentives and regulatory policy relaxations that would give all of us more confidence to invest in the future of America are sorely needed.

That's the way to help the poor, the environment and the aged, not to mention the rest of us. But the liberals never seem to get the message.

Holmes Alexander:

Twisted Death Wish Haunts Us

WASHINGTON—There's the Guy De Maupassant short story about the braggart who talked himself into being challenged to a duel, lost his nerve and committed suicide with his own pistol instead of facing his enemy's.

For a world power to take its own life rather than fight for it is a much more complicated business, but not impossible.

A crash program, called the Manhattan Project concocted the most effective weapon ever assembled and brought the world to peace with the atomic bomb in the summer of 1945.

However, unlike the Maupassant protagonist, the U.S. was no braggart. We are by nature a pacifist and isolationist people with a touch of introspection, and this last can be our undoing.

HISTORIANS HAVE pointed out that the American melting pot, if viewed as ideology and not as population, is a unique cauldron.

Our philosophic mix contains a strong base of Greco-Roman tradition ("a nation of laws, not men," John Adams said).

All would be dandy if we lived sternly by the Constitution and laws of science. But the ideological melting pot also contains a dash of Judeo culture (that is, the Holy Bible), and on top of that, Sigmund Freud.

These two last ingredients comprise the fatal flaw—guilt.

Guilt for A-bombing the Pearl Harbor muggers? Guilt for sparing the hundreds of thousands of American lives that an invasion of Japan would have cost?

YES, IT WAS the American character weakness, and we have an adversary who knew how to press the advantage.

The Soviet Union scoffed at the Baruch plan for weapons parity by sharing atomic secrets. It must have seemed an absurd offer to the Russians who had the Rosenbergs and other Red spies passing out information.

Still more ludicrous was Defense Sec. McNamara's policy of nuclear parity, which Defense Sec. Schlesinger was to call "equivalence." The Russian planners didn't have to be masters of psychiatry to see that their superpowers rival was bent on suicide.

We had a run of American Presidents starting with Johnson who rushed to meet the self-inflicted disaster by meeting in disarmament talks called SALT.

Despite a disposition to alibi our own stupidity and blame the Russians, there never has been proof that the enemy "cheated" on the SALT terms.

They didn't have to, since we were subconsciously determined to punish ourselves and to expiate our guilt of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. At SALT I we agreed to dismantle our anti-missile system (ABM) and thus laid open the silos that hold our intercontinental Ballistic Missiles.

As the time for signing SALT II approached in 1979, the Russians had, without breaching the treaty, acquired the nuclear artillery to zap 90 percent of our silo-based ICBMs while firing only one-third of their own.

President Carter's treaty-writers had forgot to prohibit decoy re-entry vehicles, (RVs) so that the Russians devised a tactic to saturate the skies with real and dummy warheads.

America needn't have got into such a predicament of nuclear inferiority if it hadn't been for the guilt complex which is so much a part of our nature. Like the Maupassant character, although for a different reason, we have this twisted death wish, which is a great convenience to our enemy.

Sylvia Porter: Auto Parts Bargain Found In Junk Yard

HOW CAN you win the fight against the mounting costs of auto repairs when even Sec. of Transportation Brock Adams reports that you have only a "50-50 chance of getting a car fixed right and for the right price"?

How can you hold down your car maintenance expenses in this era of soaring transportation costs when even the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration estimates that if you're an average car owner taking your car to an auto repair shop, you may be fleeced for as much as $150 a year as a result of "inadequate, incompetent, unnecessary or fraudulent" car repair work?

What can you do except gasp in horror at official investigations disclosing that a stunning 53 cents of every $1 we spend on car repairs is wasted—and the fraud is nationwide?

ANSWER: SHOP the automobile junk yards for spare parts.

Start copying the body shops and service garages which regularly patronize yards where wrecked, vandalized and otherwise abandoned cars are dismantled—in usually successful searches for replacements to install in your car at obscenely inflated prices.

You can—and you will—save big money by visiting auto graveyards and learning as much as you can about do-it-yourselfing.

Dismantling cars has become a vast and sophisticated business for the "auto-parts recyclers," as many of them like to be called with their newly-achieved status.

The head of one suburban New York firm known as "The Onassis of auto-parts recyclers," for instance, catalogs, cleans, tests and stores every recoverable part of a car.

IN SECONDS, thousands of parts are traceable with the aid of a $60,000 IBM computer. Teletype voice circuits can connect this firm with 300 dealers in the metropolitan New York City area.

In some areas, employees even will install the parts they sell. Installation costs can run $15-$20 an hour.

To help you, an independent computer service called AutoInfo connects yards from Houston to Massachusetts where 18 firms can be summoned with nearly 1 million parts.

This service can be a boon if you are owner of a foreign car or an older U.S. car for which parts are hard to find.

You could, industry experts say, save up to 50 percent on your repairs by shopping the auto junk yards—and that translates into one great meaning: you can beat the crooks in the auto repair field by using their own weapons and your own know-how.

But you must have guidelines to auto shopping. So:

* WHEREVER POSSIBLE, use a licensed yard. Police departments stress that you should obtain a receipt for your purchase that assures

A motorist in a big car drove up to a gas pump and the attendant said, "You buyin' or sellin'?"

you bought a legitimate item.

* Get the advice of an experienced mechanic as to what is wrong or what part needs replacement. Don't be your own diagnostician!

Eliminate the danger that you'll get the wrong part or an inadequate part and having your problem reappear again soon.

* Don't buy a so-called road-tested electrical part. It can be cheaper but the fact that the yard found it to be functioning when it was removed as salvage does not necessarily mean it will perform satisfactorily for you.

* If you can, get a "bench-tested" electrical part. Perhaps the yard will test it for you. Get a guarantee, if you can, covering a specific period of time.

* On any purchase of an engine and transmission, don't fail to supply the size and model number of your car.

* Don't buy an engine or transmission that has gone over 70,000-75,000 miles. Inquire if the yard has kept a record of the accumulated mileage on these items.

* Bring in the old part for comparisons and verification that the part you are seeking will interchange with it. If you can find the part number, this will help insure that you also are getting the right item.

* IF YOU ARE not planning to replace the part yourself, and will need the services of a mechanic, get an estimate of the mechanic's costs for time and labor before you start your parts search.

You can save substantially if you shop the auto recyclers for parts and if you are alert to the traps in the yards.

Before you make a single move in this direction—and it's a new and challenging one—get as much information as you can to make sure that you are shopping wisely.

Marie Osmond Plans Wedding

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — First came a pie in the face and then came a diamond ring — and that's how teen singer Marie Osmond started on the road to matrimony.

MISS OSMOND

The 19-year-old Marie — half of television's brother-and-sister singing act — said Tuesday she plans to marry actor Jeff Crayton at the Mormon Temple in mid-August.

Miss Osmond and Crayton, 23, a student at Brigham Young University, became engaged Monday at the Osmond's television studios in Orem, 30 miles south of here. It was not your usual proposal.

"In 1977, Marie surprised me with a pie in the face on April's Fool's Day. I vowed to get even with her," Crayton said. "So yesterday I called her out of rehearsal and I told her to close her eyes and that I had a big surprise and got her in the face with a banana cream pie."

From there, on bended knee, Crayton gave his betrothed a one-carat diamond ring with four smaller diamonds on each side.

first offenders who have "learned their lesson," and said charges were being dropped. The parents were not so charitable.

"They were treated like criminals," said one mother, Pat Harshbarger. "I think he (Kucinich) owes my son a public apology. I think the mayor should have more important things to do."

Joan Baez Plans Viet Protest

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer-activist Joan Baez has launched a new Vietnam protest, but this time it's against the Vietnamese government and not the United States.

MISS BAEZ

Miss Baez and her fledgling Humanitas-International Human Rights Committee Tuesday announced a U.S. campaign against long-term imprisonment of thousands of "prisoners of conscience" in Vietnam.

The folk singer, a highly visible figure during the anti-Vietnam War protests of the 1960s and 1970s, saw no irony in her new crusade.

"When I tried to end American participation in the Vietnam bloodletting, I sat in shelters with these people under our bombs and developed a closeness I can't describe," she said. "My politics have not changed. I have always spoken for the oppressed people of Vietnam who could not speak for themselves."

Kiss Seals House Proposal

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Rep. John Lewis introduced his proposal on the House floor, and, after light debate, Victoria Spangler accepted.

The Jacksonville Democrat had promised his girlfriend a surprise to commemorate the seventh week since they met, and Tuesday he proposed marriage — in the form of House Joint Resolution 1979.

In the resolution, Lewis, 29, pledged his "undying love and devotion" to Miss Spangler, whom he first saw on a Capitol elevator.

"Be it further resolved that John W. Lewis III desires to walk hand in hand with Victoria Spangler for the rest of his life and does hereby ask for her hand in holy matrimony," the measure concluded.

After light debate and approval by about a dozen lawmakers, Miss Spangler was escorted to the House floor where she accepted a ring and bouquet from Lewis and sealed the transaction with a kiss.

Ex-FBI Leader Filming Commercial

MIAMI (AP) — American Express has a former TV cop pushing its travelers checks, but the makers of a jewelry identification device have gone one better — hiring ex-FBI director Clarence Kelley.

KELLEY

Kelley was to be in Miami today to film a commercial for a laser device that photographs the interiors of precious jewels for quick and accurate identification.

"Yes, it smacks of commercialism," said Kelley, who is on the board of Gemprint Co., which markets the device. "It is a position which is beneficial to me financially."

"But it also removes as a strong possibility the profit in stolen diamonds once it is known that this type of equipment is available," he said from his home in Kansas City, Mo.

For those of you not up on your television history, that stern-faced, hatted figure promoting American Express traveler's checks is Karl Malden, star of the old television series "The Streets of San Francisco."

Kucinich Sets Boys Free

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mayor Dennis Kucinich's attempt to play cop in the arrest of three grade-school boys found in a no-trespassing area has ended with charges dropped and a stern rebuke from the boys' parents.

Police had booked the boys on juvenile delinquency charges Monday after Kucinich caught them playing baseball in a fenced-off, empty park pool near his home and detained them.

On Tuesday, the mayor announced the children were

Surgeons Successfully Separate Hansen Twins

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Siamese twins Lisa and Elisa Hansen, joined at the tops of their heads since birth 19 months ago, were successfully separated today in pioneering surgery that lasted over 16 hours.

"It's done and it's a success. They're awake and crying," said John Dwan, spokesman for the University of Utah Medical Center. He said the twins were separated at 1:19 a.m. EDT.

He said the tops of the twins' heads were closed at 5:05 a.m. EDT. Two teams of surgeons, one for each twin, participated in the marathon operation.

Dwan said the twins were in "critical but stable condition and their prognosis is unknown."

The parents, David and Patricia Hansen of Ogden, were "very grateful and very tired," Dwan said. The Hansens and several close members of the family kept a vigil at the hospital during the surgery, which began at 12:40 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

Working in shifts through the night, teams of surgeons tied off shared blood vessels and cut apart the girls' skulls. Before the surgery, the twins faced the same direction.

When they were wheeled out of the operating room today, it was the first time in their lives they had independent movement.

Dr. Stephen Minton, a spokesman for the medical team, said recently that separation of this type had never before been completed successfully. Other attempts had ended in death or severe mental retardation, he said.

Asked if either of the twins may have suffered brain damage during the grueling surgery, Dwan declined comment. He said doctors would hold a news conference at 3 p.m. EDT today.

Newsmen were not allowed near the operating theater, but Dwan compared the lengthy, delicate operation to a ballet. He said the operating room was very noisy and very busy as up to 11 doctors conferred and worked in teams.

Before the operation, Minton had described Lisa and Elisa as healthy children who were perfectly normal, both physically and mentally, except for their being joined together.

During the surgery, Dwan said doctors — including neurosurgeons, plastic surgeons, anesthesiologists and pediatricians — worked more slowly for a time because they encountered scar tissue from four previous operations which set the stage for final separation.

However, he said doctors were able to accelerate their pace during other stages of the operation, which doctors had predicted could last 20 hours.

Doctors have said the girls' brains were separate, although touching. They had shared veins carrying blood away from their brains, and their skulls were fused together, but there was a slight indentation where Lisa's head stopped and Elisa's began.

The girls' parents said the decision to have them separated was difficult, but they felt it was their only alternative. They said they wanted the twins to have a normal life and get married like other girls.

When other babies their age were learning to crawl, Lisa and Elisa were too. One crawled forward, the other backward.

EXECUTIONS STAYED

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — The Privy Council has stayed the executions of four murderers condemned to be hanged. Two of them were scheduled to die this week. The delays were the first in a review of 86 death sentences which the council decided to make after the House of Representatives voted to keep capital punishment in force.

Before separation, they had also learned to roll sideways to get where they wanted to go. Their father said they learned early to cooperate to get what one or the other wanted.

He said the girls had recently tried to walk by bending over at the waist and pulling themselves up by the edge of the couch. They were talking and enjoying playing with other children who often visited the Hansen home.

Hansen said children responded very well to their being joined; it was adults who had trouble finding the right words.

The Hansens had never been able to cuddle the girls on their shoulders. They had to hold them sprawled across their laps.

Americans Losing Sweet Tooth

WASHINGTON (AP) — America may be losing its sweet tooth.

The Commerce Department says U.S. confectionery manufacturers produced 3.174 billion pounds of candy last year, which was a 2.5 percent decline from 1977. Consumption dropped 3.2 percent in 1978 to 14.9 pounds per person, the department said. That places candy consumption at the 1935 level, the figures show. Despite the decline, manufacturers' shipments were valued at $3,337,000 last year, a 9.1 increase over 1977.

ARREST REPORTED
 BILBAO, Spain (AP) — Six alleged members of the Basque separatist organization ETA have been arrested by authorities who seized a cache of weapons and explosives, police in this northern city said Tuesday. The group — whose name is a Basque-language acronym for "Basque Land and Liberty" — has claimed responsibility for scores of slayings of police and military men in recent years in an underground war to win independence for the Basque region of northern Spain.

New Figures Reveal Record Savings Withdrawals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans took their money out of federally insured savings and loan associations at a record level last month, new figures show.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board blames the record savings withdrawals, in part, on the decline in the popularity of money market certificates. In March, federal regulators eliminated the higher interest rate on certificates that the thrift institutions had been allowed to pay. Previously, savings and loans could give customers a one-quarter of a percentage point "bonus" over commercial banks on the certificates.

New board figures, released Tuesday, said withdrawals at the 4,050 thrift institutions insured by the federal government exceeded deposits by $1.5 billion last month. The previous record was $800 million, set in April 1966.

The board also noted that April is the month taxpayers must file income tax statements and make any extra payments to the Internal Revenue Service.

"Savings flow in April ... is typically poor and irregular because of variation from year to year in the importance of tax payments and other strong seasonal factors," the board said in a statement. "Therefore, it seems likely that the April experience overstates the impact of this (money market) change."

New deposits at thrift institutions were $25.5 billion in April, while withdrawals were $27 billion, said a board official, who asked not to be identified.

When savings withdrawals exceed deposits, the housing industry as well as the thrift institutions become concerned because of the effect on mortgage and construction money. In 1974, the last time withdrawals were greater than deposits, mortgage money became scarce and expensive. Housing starts declined, too.

Despite the April withdrawals, the board said mortgage loans closed by federally insured savings and loans were up 12 percent — to $8.5 billion — from March to April.

Meanwhile, new Labor Department figures show worker productivity, during the first three months of this year, declined by 4.6 percent on an annual basis. That was the sharpest drop since 1974. And the decline pushed unit labor costs up 16.4 percent on an annual basis.

The decline in productivity means fewer goods and services were being produced. Private industry's unit labor costs are usually passed on to consumers in the form of higher prices.

In other economic news, the government reported that private business lost 5.2 million working days in April to strikes, primarily because of a nationwide work stoppage.

Chad's Mother Denies Reports

BOSTON (AP) — Young Chad Green will remain in Mexico to receive Laetrile for his leukemia until permission to continue the treatment is granted in Massachusetts, his mother says.

Diana Green denied reports that the family lawyer, George Donovan, was meeting with Plymouth Superior Court Judge Guy Volterra to clear the way for the Greens' return to Massachusetts.

Donovan, who met with Mrs. Green's husband, Gerald, in Los Angeles Tuesday, said Green told him he would come back East within two weeks because "what could be accomplished in Mexico was accomplished."

"He has no plans (to return)," Mrs. Green said of her husband. "But he feels if there is a reversal of the court decision, that most likely we will return in a couple of weeks."

Gerald and Diana Green were found in contempt of court when they fled the country with their son in January to escape the judge's order prohibiting the use of Laetrile on 3-year-old Chad.

The order also required them to continue a chemotherapy program, which doctors at Massachusetts General Hospital say is necessary to give Chad a chance of recovery.

Her son remains in good health, "thanks to God, thanks to good nutrition and the very indomitable spirit he has," Mrs. Green said in an interview from Mexico. She denied reports the child's cancer was returning in the absence of chemotherapy.

Senators Take Action To Halt Violations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Ethics Committee is taking its first action aimed at preventing violations of Senate rules exposed during hearings into alleged financial misconduct by Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga.

An aide to Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., said today all six members of the panel are sponsoring a proposed rules change that would require "supporting documentation" when claims are filed by each senator for office-related expenses.

Committee hearings into Talmadge's finances are only about half over, but committee members agreed in a private meeting last week to push the change initially proposed by Hatfield. The hearings are to resume Monday.

Talmadge has acknowledged that from 1972 to 1978 his office claimed about $50,000 for which no actual expenses were incurred.

The committee says Talmadge knew or should have known about the overcharges. The senator has returned more than $37,000 in expense funds to the Senate, but says the remainder was embezzled by a former aide, Daniel Minchew, who is the senator's chief accuser.

Talmadge says the $37,000 was claimed because of staff error or confusion over what were legitimate expenses.

Under present rules, all 100 members of the Senate are entitled to an annual ceiling of expense money which varies depending on the state's population and its distance from Washington.

Talmadge's ceiling is about $40,000. Each senator may put in for part of the expenses each month or more often. Except for airline tickets, there is no requirement for receipts to be submitted.

Members of Talmadge's staff have testified that it was a routine matter to claim up to the maximum $40,000 expense ceiling whether or not actual expenses had been incurred.

Federal Court Grants Hearing

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A prisoner in the Midland County Jail must receive a hearing on his complaint he was bitten by "a viper, reptile or infectious insect" while in jail and denied medical treatment, a federal appeals court has ruled.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals Tuesday ordered the federal court for the western district of Texas to hold a hearing on the complaint filed by Sammy Almager. The lower court dismissed the suit on ground's Almager's complaint was frivolous.

In a brief opinion, the court said the complaint "clearly was not frivolous," though it took no opinion on the merits of Almager's contentions.

"Dismissal at this early stage in the litigation was improper," the court said. "We cannot affirm a dismissal on the basis of a visceral feeling that the plaintiff ultimately will prevail. Our intuitions may render us skeptical of the plaintiff's ease, but our application of the law must be based on cognition."

Almager filed the suit against Midland County Sheriff Dallas Smith and the members of the county Commission's Court, charging he was bitten by "a viper, reptile or infectious insect" while in jail and that the defendants denied him proper medical treatment for the bite.

Minchew submitted a voucher for $10,604 in Senate expenses in 1973 and used it to open a secret bank account which provides the basis for the major accusations against Talmadge. Later, Minchew also funneled campaign contributions into the account.

Talmadge denies any knowledge of the account or the $10,604 expense claim.

Hatfield's proposal must be approved by the Senate Rules Committee of which he is a member. Hatfield aide Don Massey said there is no deadline for asking other members of the committee to approve the proposed rules change.

Texaco, Gulf Announce Gasoline Supply Cutbacks

NEW YORK (AP) — Texaco and Gulf oil companies are cutting back their gasoline allotments for June and gasoline dealers are expecting another "tight weekend."

Energy Secretary James Schlesinger said the announcement was "certainly not a favorable sign." The government had been predicting the gasoline supply situation would improve in June.

Texaco said its cutback will apply nationwide, but Gulf said its action will apply only east of the Rocky Mountains, with larger allocations on the West Coast.

On the bright side, Standard Oil of California (Chevron) said it will pump more gas into its dealers tanks in June.

With some oil companies not yet announcing their plans for June, it is too early to tell how the cutbacks will effect the overall supply crunch.

Most gasoline dealers don't expect a repeat this week of problems faced in late April, when monthly allocations of gasoline ran out and many stations were forced to close.

But they say that delays in getting June gasoline shipments could mean a tight weekend for gas supplies.

"There will be enough stations with enough gas to get motorists home Friday, but it will be a tight weekend," said Robert Kelly, executive director of the Service Station Operators of Upstate New York, based in Syracuse.

"I don't think stations will limit gasoline (this week) but rather just sell what they have and then close until Friday," said Robert L. Cope, chairman of the Indiana Service Stations Dealers Association. "And Friday, well, there will probably be a run on the stations as they receive their first June allotment."

Texaco said it is dropping to 70 percent of last year's levels from 80 percent this month. Gulf said that for Eastern stations it will drop from 90 percent of last year's levels this month to 80 percent in June. But on the West Coast, it said it will boost from 90 percent to 95 percent.

In June, Standard Oil of California (Chevron) is raising its allocation to 90 percent of last year from May's approximately 83 percent.

And Mobil, Atlantic Richfield and Phillips, are leaving allocations at the same level in June as in May — 80 percent, 85 percent and 70 percent, respectively.

Where gasoline supplies are especially tight, dealers say they will cut back

Carter Grants Allocation Power To States

By The Associated Press

President Carter, hoping to ease the summer gasoline squeeze, is giving governors new power to allocate the fuel in their states. But many governors say they don't need the emergency power and don't plan to use it anytime soon.

An executive order announced by Carter at a news conference Tuesday gives the governors of 17 states powers they now lack to manage gas sales and relieve long lines caused by shortages or panic buying.

Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt said he welcomed the new authority as "a reaffirmation of states' rights," and promised to discuss any action he might take with legislative leaders.

Many governors said they would not use the new powers except in an emergency. Others said their legislatures were preparing emergency authority plans.

The governors of Illinois, Indiana, Oregon and Idaho said voluntary conservation efforts were working well in their states, and Kansas Gov. John Carlin said the powers were not yet necessary.

"Given the rate of consumption of gasoline in Kansas, it would seem unnecessary at this time to implement any of the alternatives outlined under the president's order," he said.

But Carlin called Carter's decision to give states more authority to deal with problems a wise one.

"Certainly it would be much better to have any action taken based on a state-level assessment of current conditions rather than on mandates from Washington," he said.

approximately 20 percent from a year ago," he said. "This is not manufactured out of someone's imagination. No one is trying to rip anyone off."

Clements said his overall energy plan being developed by aide Ed Vetter will be ready in one week.

"This plan will be an evolving plan and will be flexible," he said. "The situation in July will not be the same as it is in May."

hours in an attempt to stretch supplies until June gas deliveries arrive.

While in past months most oil companies have cut supplies from what they were the month before, the few June allocations announced so far seem to represent a holding action.

Oil companies began several months ago to limit the amount of gas they ship dealers. On the average, dealers got about 15 percent less gas in May than they were given in the same month last year.

But the allocation figures are a bit deceptive. Oil companies are required by law to supply agricultural and governmental customers and others deemed essential at the same level as last year, so the total amount of gasoline being shipped is often considerably more than indicated by the dealer allocation figures.

Drastic Measures Not Needed In Texas

By The Associated Press

AUSTIN (AP) — Gasoline rationing and restricted service station hours will not be necessary in Texas, Gov. Bill Clements said Tuesday.

Clements said he already had powers to control gas sales before President Carter issued an executive order granting the nation's governors that authority.

The governor said the Legislature that ended Monday granted him the same emergency authority Carter gave state chief executives.

"I don't feel the need for going into drastic plans of odd-even days or odd-even numbered license tags, closing on weekends or closing on Sundays," Clements said.

"I don't feel the crisis is that severe at this point and further we are not ready (for complicated plans)," he added. "We're trying to get our facts together."

Carter said Tuesday he has signed an order giving governors authority to make gasoline stations remain open on weekends, to set minimum purchases and to institute an odd-even selling system.

"It's interesting that Mr. Carter decided that instead of him retaining all this authority in Washington and handing down from the mouth, so to speak, daily bulletins of what we should be doing, that he is now delegating this authority to various governors of the states," Clements added.

The governor said he was not contacted directly by the White House about the president's order but learned about it from news reports.

Legislation consolidating all executive branch energy offices into one department also conferred broader emergency powers to the governor during energy shortages, he said.

"This is the first time we've ever had that authority," Clements said. The bill would allow governors to set up rationing plans, but Clements emphasized rationing would not be necessary.

The White House said 19 states, including Texas, have not granted their governors emergency powers.

"If I had to talk about the most important single thing about our supplies in Texas, it is that we are literally down

However, one of those governors, Otis Bowen of Indiana, complained: "The president gave us no teeth to enforce this."

And Louisiana Gov. Edwin Edwards, who already has special power to deal with fuel problems said: "What we need is not authority. What we need is fuel."

The executive order, which will expire Sept. 30 unless it is extended, applies to all states. But the White House said most legislatures already have empowered governors to act on gasoline problems.

Carter said the order would allow governors to regulate service station hours, impose minimum purchase requirements and assign motorists alternate days for gas purchases.

The order will not allow governors to close stations to discourage driving or conserve gasoline.

The White House identified the states which did not already have specific emergency powers as Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Georgia, Indiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, New Mexico, Pennsylv-nia, South Carolina, Utah, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt said he welcomed the new authority as "a reaffirmation of states' rights," and promised to discuss any action he might take with legislative leaders.

Poland Bans Sale Of Alcohol

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — The Polish government today banned the sale of beer and all other alcoholic beverages in the capital during the 72 hours surrounding the homecoming of Pope John Paul II.

The government order said spirits would be taken off shop shelves from Friday to Sunday, June 3. The sole exception was for stores accepting foreign currency and bars located in hotels housing the more than 1,000 foreign journalists covering the papal trip. The pope arrives June 2 for a nine-day visit — the first of any reigning pontiff to a communist country.

Some 3 million pilgrims, double the population of the capital, are expected to throng Warsaw on the day of the pope's arrival hoping for a glimpse of the popular former archbishop of Krakow.

Government officials have promised live, color-television coverage of highlights of the papal visit in an admitted effort to minimize crowds. Security officials are still nervous about handling the unprecedented mass gathering and drafted some 10,000 church "marshalls" to help with crowd control along the pope's motorcade route from the airport alone.

Troops Head For Amin's Village

ARUA, Uganda (AP) — Tanzanian and Ugandan troops headed for Idi Amin's home village today after completing a triumphant march across northern Uganda and establishing the new Ugandan government's authority in all major district capitals.

The task force from Kampala entered Arua, the capital of the deposed dictator's native West Nile district, without opposition Tuesday as residents shouted "Tanzania! Tanzania!" and waved tree branches.

Townpeople said about 500 of Amin's troops abandoned Arua Monday, fleeing to Zaire and Sudan with hundreds of vehicles, radios and TV sets.

They reported Amin had not been seen in Arua since mid-April, soon after the Tanzanians and their anti-Amin Ugandan allies captured Kampala, the capital 220 miles to the southeast. Nearly every shop in Arua had been looted. Residents said most of the people fled several days ago after Amin's soldiers told them the Tanzanians were coming to massacre them.

Amin's cottage near the airport was empty. Nearby were a police helicopter and the silver Citroen-Maserati he used to drive in car rallies with "Suicide Sarah," the singer he married in 1975.

Tanzanian military commanders said their next objective was Koboko, Amin's home village 30 miles to the north.

Arua was the last of three northern district capitals reported held by the remnants of Amin's army. It was occupied after a six-week march by one column from Kampala that moved east to the Kenyan border, then trekked to the northwest, and a second force that advanced north from the capital to link up with the eastern column.

Lira, one of the three district capitals, fell on May 16. The eastern column took the Amin troops there by surprise, killing at least 65 and capturing 15. Four days later Gulu, a district capital 120 miles east of Arua, was occupied without a fight.

After crossing the Albert Nile at Pakwach, midway between Gulu and Arua, the combined force clashed on Sunday with troops of Amin's mechanized Rhinoceros Regiment. Six Tanzanian soldiers were killed and 14 were wounded.

Squad To Fight Refugee Smuggling

HONG KONG (UPI) — Police authorities in the British colony have formed a crack squad to break up Chinese syndicates believed responsible for smuggling tens of thousands of refugees out of Vietnam aboard delapidated freighters.

The new unit will be headed by Assistant Police Commissioner Jack Johnston, who made a reputation for busting drug traffickers, a police spokesman said today.

The syndicates are believed to operate from Cholon, the Chinese enclave in Ho Chi Minh City, formerly Saigon. They buy old freighters, hire crews, arrange to pick up the refugees at Vietnamese ports and bribe the right officials along the way.

Police believe syndicates were involved in the recent arrival of the Panamanian-registered freighter Sen On, because the crew abandoned ship a day before the vessel beached on an island off but there was no report of casualties on the other side.

The troops from Kampala found no evidence of a force of 3,000-6,000 Amin troops and hundreds of thousands of mercenaries from Arab countries which an American mercenary named Daniel Pierre Waltner reported he had seen assembling in the Arua area for a counter-offensive.

In Kampala, meanwhile, the new government said it would ask Kenya next week for the extradition of Amin's chief adviser, British-born Robert As-ties, and 47 other high-ranking officials who fled as the invasion force of Tanzanians and Ugandan exiles closed in on Kampala.

Police officials said Astles, who became a Ugandan citizen, is being charged with one count of murder for extradition purposes but that other murder charges may be added later. If convicted, he probably will be executed.

The London Sunday Express reported last weekend that Amin and his family were in Baghdad, Iraq, but there has been no confirmation of the report.

Small Nevada Town Bids For State Prison, Giant Power Plant

By CY RYAN
 ELY, Nev. (UPI) — Most city folks turn up their nose at the idea of a prison or a giant power plant in their backyard. But when you're down and out, any new industry looks good.
 That's the plight of Ely, a small eastern Nevada city which has been supported by its copper mining industry during most of this century. The ore supply has run out and the work force of 1,450 has dwindled to less than 150 persons at Kennecott Copper Corp.
 "We're facing some deep trouble," says newly-hired Economic Development Director Mike Bourn.
 In the last year, the county population of 10,500 has dropped by an estimated 2,000 persons, mostly because jobs are scarce, and some merchants are starting to feel the pinch.
 Two ideas the townspeople have come up with to replace the mining operation call for convincing the Nevada Legislature to build a $25 million prison on the outskirts of the city and also promoting construction of a $1.5 billion electricity generating plant which would ship 50 percent of its power to Southern California.

 "I tell these people these things won't get them the reputation the Mayo Clinic brought Rochester, Minn.," says state Sen. Rick Blakemore, whose district includes Ely. "But these people don't care. They are 100 percent behind these projects."
 If help isn't forthcoming, Blakemore estimates half the population will leave for greener pastures.
 Remote Ely, 250 miles from Salt Lake City and 300 miles from Reno, has experienced the boom and bust periods associated with mining. And always it has weathered the storms. It also has produced some prominent citizens since World War II, including two governors and a Nevada Supreme Court chief justice.

 At several public meetings over the past few months, hundreds of residents have voiced enthusiastic support for a prison. There has been no dissent.
 Bourn says Huntsville, Texas, "got put on the map by its prison and its prison rodeo and the same thing could happen here."

 The 600-inmate prison could hire as many as 300 persons after the construction is completed.
 And city officials have interested the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power in the possibility of constructing a 1-million kilowatt coal-fired generating plant, but that's a long-range project that would need approval from the Nevada Legislature and other government agencies.

 With the current gasoline shortage, it also appears to be the wrong time for a program to attract additional tourists.

But Ely is going ahead with one. To help, the Four Corners Regional Commission, an organization of five states in the West, has funneled $100,000 into White Pine County for economic development. Kennecott Copper has donated $48,000.

USDA Officials Seek Reasons For Continued Rise In Beef Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department officials want to know why retail beef prices keep rising despite a two-month period of relatively stable prices for live cattle.

The question broke into the open last Friday when Howard Hjort, the department's chief economist, announced he had asked for an investigation by USDA and other federal agencies, including the Council on Wage and Price Stability, into what he considers to be the fat spreads in prices between farmers and consumers.

Hjort is particularly interested in looking at the beef situation. Pork prices at supermarkets have been declining as a result of lower hog prices, and are expected to ease a bit more in the near future.

Beef, however, is another matter. The latest USDA figures, which are based on weekly surveys of supermarket prices and other information, show that through mid-May the average retail price of beef was more than $2.38 a pound, as measured on an all-cut basis.

That was up 2.3 percent from less than $2.33 a pound in April. The mid-May price also was up almost 5.5 percent from the March average of less than $2.26 a pound, and it was up 28.1 percent from less than $1.86 a year ago.

Choice steers, meanwhile, averaged $76.52 per 100 pounds in the first two weeks of May, up only 1.2 percent from the April average of $75.60. But the mid-

May price was 6.3 percent above the average of $71.96 on steers brought in the full month of March.

Hjort contends, however, that, since mid-March, steer prices have been fairly steady — not like the rapid gains in the first two weeks of March and in the previous few months.

According to the latest figures showing retail prices as of mid-May averaging slightly more than $2.38 a pound, here is how USDA says the breakdown occurred:

The so-called farm value of beef at the supermarket was put at less than $1.55 a pound. That is not what producers get for live animals, since it takes about 2.4 pounds of live steer to make one pound of retail beef.

Officials Blame Arsonist For Fire At Car Wash

Lubbock police and fire officials Tuesday said arson was the cause of a fire at the Clean Machine Car Wash at 3620 50th St.

Owner Jerry Lynn Haggard told police that when he arrived at the car wash at 7:40 a.m. Tuesday, smoke was pouring from the building.

Once the flames were extinguished by the fire department, officials found that someone had broken into the building's storage room by breaking the glass out of the door.

Officials said the arsonist apparently piled old payroll records and other papers in the corner of the storage room and ignited them. The arsonist also set another pile of toilet paper and other papers ablaze about five feet down the wall from the first pile. Haggard said damage to the car wash could run as high as $1,000.

A 14-year-old youth was taken into custody by police last night in connection with an attempted burglary which occurred about 11 p.m. at Gilbert's Auto Supply at 708 4th St.

Police reports indicate a witness said she saw three Mexican-American males attempting to break into the building and supplied police with a description of the suspects.

Responding to an alarm, police officers several minutes later saw a youth matching the description while they were parked at Third Street and Avenue F. The youth was taken into custody for breaking the city's curfew and on suspicion of inhaling paint fumes and was referred to a juvenile probation officer.

Police said damage to the auto supply store was limited to a window and was estimated at $90.

Police Tuesday also were investigating the reported aggravated assault of a 17-year-old Estacado High School student between 10:15 and 10:45 p.m. Tuesday in the 200-block of Zenith.

Eric Dane Titus was treated and released at Methodist Hospital for a gunshot wound in the leg.

Titus' companion told police the two were walking onto the football field at Alderson Junior High School when he heard four or five shots ring out from a car which was passing by. He said the vehicle was occupied by three black males ranging in age from 18 to 25 years.

The witness said he and Titus began running when they heard the shots and then he heard Titus shout that he had been shot. The two went to a residence in the 2700 block of E. Second Street where they called police and an ambulance.

In a related incident, a 22-year-old Lubbock man reported to police he was shot at in the same football field at Alderson.

Vincent Jerome Green told police he and a friend were walking south onto the field when they saw two other persons walking toward them. When they were about 50 feet apart, one of the suspects crouched down and shot at Green, he said. Green told police the suspects got into a car with another man and drove off.

Reports said Green told police he and one of the suspects had gotten into a fight a week earlier in which Green was knifed.

Police report no arrests have been made in the two incidents.

Cruz L. Perez, 25, of 102 Ave. T, Apt. B, reported Tuesday night that someone broke a window in the rear door of his apartment and made off with $1,000 worth of goods, including a television set, a stereo and some clothing.

Sheriff's deputies today were investigating the theft of $6,700 worth of items taken sometime Monday from an abandoned house at 3507 E. 19th St.

Items reported missing include a mahogany china cabinet, a banister and rails and two iron gates.

A saleswoman at Maxine's Accent on Fashion, 10 Briercroft Center, reportedly was assaulted about 5 p.m. Tuesday by another woman whom she suspected of shoplifting.

Kay Perkins Shook, 35, told police that a woman between 25 and 35 years old, tall and heavy-set with blond hair, was observed trying to steal clothing. Shook said she had also seen the same woman attempting to take clothing at an earlier date.

When approached by the saleswoman, reports indicate, the woman tried to flee and struck Mrs. Shook with her purse in the shuffle, ran out of the store and fled in an undescribed vehicle.

Reports said Shook was not injured in the incident.

Mary Pickford Dies Of Stroke In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mary Pickford, who reigned as America's Sweetheart during the colorful, formative period of American movies, is dead at 86 after 13 years of seclusion in her legendary home, Pickfair.

Her death Tuesday was attributed to a cerebral hemorrhage suffered last Friday.

The journey to the hospital was one of the few times Miss Pickford, whose golden curls and spunky innocence won her the adulation of millions, had emerged from the mansion since she withdrew from public life in 1966.

In 1976, she appeared before cameras at Pickfair to accept an honorary award "in recognition of her unique contribution to the film industry and the development of film as an artistic medium" from the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, which she helped found.

Miss Pickford was perhaps the first great international screen idol. In an era of such stars as Greta Garbo and Gloria Swanson, she was the first to have her name in marquee lights and the first to command thousands of dollars a week. She was box office gold for such movies as "Pollyanna" and "Poor Little Rich Girl."

The romance of the Pickford name grew when she married the screen's most dashing hero, Douglas Fairbanks Sr., in 1920. Even five years later, 300,000 people went to a Moscow train station to see them.

The couple overcame the scandal that had resulted when they divorced their respective spouses to marry and live at Fairbank's home above Beverly Hills, the opulent estate dubbed Pickfair, where dinner was served from solid gold plates and guests might include Charles Lindbergh and the Duke and Duchess of Alba.

Through it all, Miss Pickford was known around the world as "America's Sweetheart," a title that stuck after it first appeared in 1914 on a marquee over Grauman's Chinese Theater.

She was born Gladys Marie Smith in Toronto, Canada, April 9, 1893, and made her stage debut at 5. Her first film was a one-reeler in 1909, "The Violin Maker of Cremona," directed by aspiring young D.W. Griffith.

Her fame grew and by 1916 she became her own producer with a 50-50 partnership in the releasing company. Three years later, she was earning $675,000 a year against half of the gross of her films.

The films followed a similar pattern: the poor girl who makes good, or the rich girl with the common touch.

"I didn't act — I was the characters I played on the screen," Miss Pickford once said. And her success continued through the 1920s.

Jurors Hear Accomplice

The young wheel man in a service station holdup last January testified today that Rayford Wayne Carpenter assembled a shotgun in the back seat of the car before going in and robbing the station.

Carpenter, 17, is being re-tried for aggravated robbery in the case in 237th District Court.

His 17-year-old accomplice, who said he is now living in Corpus Christi, testified that young Carpenter gave him $25 for driving the car after the robbery at the 4282 Boston Ave. service station.

An April trial of Carpenter ended in a hung jury when the jury was unable to agree on punishment after finding the youth guilty.

News Briefs

Rocky Ferrell, 19, of 6520 Ave. T remained in critical condition this morning at Methodist Hospital with head injuries suffered May 18 in a car-motorcycle accident in the 2200-block of Avenue Q.

Jerry Rolston, 35, of Denver City remained in serious condition this morning at Health Sciences Center Hospital. He was injured March 27 in a plane crash near White River Lake.

Charlena Newell, 19, of 2100 Duke St., No. 57, remained in serious condition this morning at Health Sciences Center Hospital.

G.P. Kuykendall, pioneer South Plains businessman and lay church leader, was in serious condition at Methodist Hospital this morning. Kuykendall was admitted to the hospital May 2.

Firemen administered oxygen to Mike Miles, of 1903 43rd St. early this morning after he fell asleep on the couch of his living room while smoking a cigarette. Fire officials said a fire resulted in more than $1,000 in damage. One of Miles' neighbors rescued him from the home before fireman arrived about 1:54 a.m. today.

Attack Threatens Order At City Swimming Pools

The attack and beating of two city lifeguards may make it more difficult to maintain order at city swimming pools in the future, Parks Director John Alford fears.

Todd McDonald and Sam Ordaz, lifeguards at K.N. Clapp Pool, were attacked and beaten Sunday afternoon by four pool patrons.

According to the police report, one of the four attackers was asked to leave the pool after other swimmers complained about his behavior.

The 16-year-old reportedly told McDonald "no one orders me," then pushed the lifeguard up against the wall and began beating him.

Three of the teenager's companions soon entered the fight and Ordaz came to McDonald's aid.

The police arrived after the fight was over and met three of the suspects leaving the pool. After rounding up the fourth who had jumped back in the pool, the police ordered all four never to return to the pool or face criminal trespass charges.

Pool manager Langston Williams said both lifeguards were taken to Methodist Hospital where McDonald was treated for a minor concussion and Ordaz was treated for a cracked jaw.

Alford said the city "never had a lifeguard physically assaulted that I know of," although he said "it's something we worried about."

But Alford's primary concern is maintaining order at the pools.

"We don't want our employees to get hurt, but we don't want people to think they can run over our pool guards," he said.

"If you don't follow through...guards are not going to be able to demand respect they need to be able to get people to respect the rules of the pool," Alford said.

"Unless we protect them, they're not going to be able to protect citizens and maintain a safe pool operation."

McDonald and Ordaz were back at work the day after the attack, Williams said, and are "interested and dedicated enough" that they plan to continue working as lifeguards.

However, Williams admits "it will be awhile before all the tension is over."

Clapp currently is the only pool now open, partly because of a shortage of lifeguards, and other city pools are scheduled to open Saturday.

And Sunday's incident probably won't help lifeguard recruitment efforts.

HY GARDNER HAS THE ANSWER:

Glad You Asked That!

Two TV network research directors, Tim Brooks and Earle Marsh, have churned out a book which Ballantine is publishing momentarily. It's titled "The Complete Dictionary to Prime Time Network Shows, 1956 to Present." (That's just the title, mind you, not the complete contents!)

Anyway, snuck between some 2,500 pithy paragraphs of bibliography are many tricky questions and trickier answers. We selected an earful of the trickiest we hope will give your eyes a rest from staring at the soaps and let your own mind go to work. Now on with the Q & A's:

The Question: What character actor played Dr. Gillespie on the "Dr. Kildare" series?

The Answer: Raymond Massey of Canada. (He played Abraham Lincoln so superbly and believably the wits at the Lambs Club used to quip: "Ray won't be satisfied till he sits in a theater box and gets shot.")

The Question: What famous crooner was NBC's first choice to play the role Peter Falk subsequently made popular on the "Columbo" series?

The Answer: Bing Crosby!

The Question: What youth-cult idol of the 1950s earned extra income between films by testing stunts on "Beat the Clock"?

The Answer: The late James Dean.

The Question: What was the first sitcom to be filmed before a live audience?

The Answer: "I Love Lucy."

The Question: What actor was "Gunsmoke" originally created for?

The Answer: John Wayne. (Know who played the role of Matt Dillon on radio? It was William Conrad, who later became famous as rotund TV detective "Cannon.")

The Question: What perennial Republican candidate for his party's presidential nomination was the host/star of "General Electric Theatre"?

The Answer: If you thought it was Harold Stassen you're wrong. It was Ronald Reagan!

The Question: Academy Award winner George C. Scott starred in only one television series. Can you name it?

The Answer: It was "East Side, West Side."

The Question: What was the original title of the long-running "Ed Sullivan Show"?

The Answer: It was called "Toast of the Town."

The Question: What famous novelist played the wide-eyed cigarette girl at Morey Amsterdam's fictional Golden Goose Cafe on "The Morey Amsterdam Show"?

The Answer: She was Jacqueline Susann.

The Question: What former U.S. president made history when he said "Sock it to me" on "Laugh In"?

The Answer: Richard Nixon. (And that's exactly what his critics have been doing ever since!)

Send your questions to Hy Gardner, "Glad You Asked That," care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 11748, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Marilyn and Hy Gardner will answer as many questions as they can in their column, but the volume of mail makes personal replies impossible.

Kahn Says TV Can Fight Inflation

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — When the inflation rate creeps upward a few more decimals, credit is tightened or food prices jump, it is Alfred E. Kahn who greets reporters' microphones and television cameras to deliver the gloomy news.

But Kahn, President Carter's chief economic adviser, says television can actually help the situation instead of just reporting it.

"Television, I think, is in an excellent position to help our country combat inflation," Kahn writes in the June 2 issue of TV Guide magazine.

"There might even be half-hour programs on inflation — programs that deal with one or more specific issues and explain them thoroughly," he suggests.

Now having said all of that, I should add that I am worried about recommending half-hour shows about inflation, because I may be offering the perfect recipe for a zero Nielsen rating."

Regardless, inflation is an issue so complex it demands a broad forum for its analysis, says Kahn. Presently, there is a "tendency to give us headlines" and an emphasis on sensationalism, he says.

"If I use a word like 'depression' or 'catastrophe,' I can guarantee that I'll hear it in the news spot, but discouragingly often, without the rest of the sentence in which it appeared," he writes. "This sort of thing tends to make one nervous about speaking frankly."

Noting many American TV shows are broadcast to nations overseas, he asks: "How do the shows they see reflect our way of life? What do they see? Big cars,

Report Released On Bird Tweets

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Song birds produce the most complex animal signals known, and learn to tweet in much the same way humans learn to talk, according to a new report on animal behavior.

Writing in the current issue of Mosaic, a National Science Foundation Magazine, animal behavior scientists Peter Marler of New York's Rockefeller University says his studies suggest birds and humans may share common principles of vocal communication.

"Bird songs are by far the most complex animal signals known to us," Marler writes.

Like humans, he says, song birds depend heavily on learning through hearing, especially in early life, and will never acquire their normal song if isolated from adults in the formative period.

Citing studies of the white-crowned sparrow, robin, cardinal and chaffinch, Marler said it has been established that a bird will produce only "exceedingly scratchy, buzzy and amorphous" sounds if it is deafened before it has learned normal song patterns.

He said it has also been determined that the left side of the brain controls the vocal behavior of songbirds, as in most people.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Haste makes waste tomorrow. Organize your time and concentrate only on those things that can benefit others as well as yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Take extra care that what you buy tomorrow is something you really want and not just a fanciful notion. You have a tendency toward extravagance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Self-gratification might be your first thought tomorrow. Later, you'll realize this is selfish and you'll do the proper thing for those you love.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you don't take time to think things through, your conclusions tomorrow will be based upon wishful thinking, rather than on what's practical.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your generosity and good nature could lead you astray and cost you more than you can comfortably afford. Be kind, but also be logical.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Accomplishing an important goal may prove very elusive early in the day. Later, you'll turn the tables by examining facts not readily discernible.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It would be a mistake to rely upon another to take care of something important only to you. Use your good judgment. You'll come out fine.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't be too hasty to trust someone you know only casually. Careful consideration should be given to all your involvements, especially by moneywise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Lay all cards on the table in partnership involvements tomorrow. The other person won't know your intentions are good unless you make yourself clear.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You may not have your heart in doing for yourself tomorrow, but you certainly will act if someone else needs your help. Your compassionate nature awakens the best in you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't be disappointed if initially you don't get something personal you've been wanting. Later events will more than make up for the delay.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Rash or thoughtless decisions on your part could put you in the middle of something you'd rather not be involved in. Be practical.

Your Birthday

May 31, 1979
Unexpected changes might at first give you some concern this coming year. However time will prove your fears were groundless because things will work out better than what you originally planned.

Cancer Rate Up In Detroit

DETROIT (UPI) — Doctors say they can't explain why the incidence of cancer of the larynx — the voice box — is higher in the Detroit area than anywhere else in the nation.

Detroit's rate of laryngeal cancer is about five cases per 100,000 persons, compared with the national rate of about 4.6 cases per 100,000, said officials at the Michigan Cancer Foundation in Detroit.

Following Detroit was the San Francisco-Oakland area with 428 cases, or 4.3 per 100,000 persons.

"I'd really hesitate to speculate as to the 'why.' Of course, that's the $64,000 question," said speech pathologist Dr. Daniel Martin of the Michigan foundation. "There's an urgent and strong need to study this phenomenon."

Research has shown a strong correlation between the cancer and the use of alcohol and tobacco. However, officials said that still does not explain why Detroit records a higher incidence or why it strikes white men more often than any other group.

A cancer expert, Dr. Ernst L. Lynder of New York, who discovered the tie between voice box cancer and the consumption of alcohol and tobacco, said nutritional factors should be investigated.

TALK SHOW LAW: WHEN KNOWLEDGE IS THE QUEST, ONLY HAVE ONE GUEST!

Kids' Show Host, Mr. Rogers, To Be Honored At Conference

By LILLIAN SWANSON
PITTSBURGH (UPI) — For a quarter century, public TV's Fred Rogers has made a point of telling his young viewers they are special.
His basic message is as simple as it is reassuring: he tells children sitting in living rooms across the nation, "You're special. I like you just the way you are."
Now noted experts in human development are turning the tables and handing Rogers the same message at a symposium honoring his silver anniversary in television.
Pulitzer-prize winning author Erik H. Erikson, a psychoanalyst and professor emeritus at Harvard, is the keynote speaker at the three-day conference on Childhood and Creativity at St. Vincent's College, Latrobe, Pa.
The highlight of the conference will be a banquet honoring Rogers on June 1.
The event also will be a homecoming for Rogers, whose mother still lives in the house where he spent his childhood years.
Rogers' television career has taken many twists and turns but he admits, "I've never been very far removed from Latrobe."

Rogers, a thin-framed man with an honest-Abe face, says he never would have succeeded on commercial television.
"I wouldn't have been able to have the chance to grow. I've worked on one program or another for children for 25 years. One of the things about commercial TV is people have to be an overnight success."
"Some of the changes I've made have been for the best and some not for the best. It's been in the doing. I wouldn't have had the luxury of learning without time."
Rogers, a Presbyterian minister with a special charge of helping children and families through television, has a slow, calm-at-the-center manner that pervades his work on the set and off.
He has been criticized for the sluggish pace of some of the "Neighborhood" and for allowing "dead" time — when there is silence on the set. (He has been known to ask his viewers a question and pause, giving them time to think and answer at home.)

In the past he bent to these criticisms, but he won't any longer, he says.
"That's one way I've grown. If I want to build a block house, I'm going to sit on the floor and do it. I'm not going to listen to them (the critics)," he said.

Hope Entertains Troops Again

By JOAN HANAUER
NEW YORK (UPI) — There's Bob Hope, entertaining the troops again, aboard the carrier USS Iwo Jima — but this time the television audience will be able to tune in on a Hope USO show.
The show celebrating Hope's 76th birthday was taped aboard the helicopter carrier, docked in New York, on May 27th and goes on NBC today, 7-8:30 p.m. Central time.
Hope, looking jaunty in a gray plaid suit, was the guest of honor recently at a press party held by NBC — and to show how Hope rates, both Fred Silverman, president of NBC, and Mike Weinblatt, president, NBC Entertainment division, dropped by.

ment special from places like the Great Wall, Peking and its Forbidden City and Shanghai.
"I'm very excited about it — it's one place I've never been," Hope said, adding that his advance party found the Chinese enormously cooperative.
Not only will he use Chinese entertainers on the production NBC plans to show the American public next fall, but Hope also will entertain his Chinese hosts.
"I'm lining up the right people to go with me," Hope said, noting that Raquel Welch and Debbie Reynolds already had volunteered, as had a number of other stars.
Asked how at age 76 he kept up his pace, Hope grinned and said, "I'm having fun. I'm doing my thing and I'm always trying something new."
He did admit that Mrs. Hope had threatened not to move into their fabulous new Palm Springs home unless he promised to cut back on his activities.
He knows he shouldn't overdo — he suffered a "quickeness of the heart" last year that landed him in the hospital ("tests, tests, tests, then they threw me out for being too healthy").
"All I do is think about my health," he said. "I do everything for my health — walking, playing golf, I'm careful what I eat, I have massages every day that relax me and keep me in shape."
Hope spoke enthusiastically about the new crop of comedians, particularly Robin Williams. Steve Martin ("he's a nut and nut comedy is so good, it's what Crosby and I always did in the 'Road' pictures), John Ritter and a Korean comedian, Johnny Yune, whose monologues Hope admires.

Hope believes the "comedy stores" in New York and Los Angeles, places that hire young kids for little money but give them a chance to work before live audiences, are great developers of talent. When someone mentioned that many of the kids are bad, Hope replied: "Sure, that's part of it. All of them can't be great. But they can keep trying their acts."

Lights Turned Out To Save Energy

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a wave of panic after the 1968 riots here, the city installed sodium vapor street lights as a crime deterrent.
But now city Transportation Department officials are taking some of the lights down in an effort to conserve energy and reduce maintenance and operation costs. It also turns out that some of the lights were spaced more closely together than was necessary.

Carter Discounts Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is joining leading congressional taxwriters in predicting the traditional election-year tax cut will go by the wayside in 1980 as federal officials concentrate on trying to balance the national budget.

"I doubt very seriously that we'll have any tax cut in 1980," Carter said Tuesday at a news conference.

"If we have the option between substantial reductions in the deficit and controlling inflation on the one hand, and having tax reductions for the American people in an election year on the other, I would forego the tax reduction and insist upon controlling inflation and cutting the deficit."

Similar sentiments have been expressed by the two most influential tax experts on Capitol Hill — Sen. Russell Long, D-La., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

"The top priority is to control expenditures and balance the budget," Ullman said last week. "That pre-empts any tax cut, unless the country is dropping into an obvious recession." Carter and administration economists insist no recession is on the horizon.

Long told a U.S. Chamber of Commerce seminar recently he also believes balancing the budget over the next two years should take priority over tax cuts. "I don't think a ... tax cut should keep us from balancing the budget," Long said.

The historic tendency is for Congress to approve tax cuts in election years, largely because it's a politically painless vote to cast. With inflation pushing taxpayers into ever-higher tax brackets, dollars flow into the federal treasury in ever-larger amounts. Legislators can thus vote to cut the tax rate every few years without reducing the funds available to pay for government programs.

That phenomenon, often called "taxflation" by government taxwriters, is working overtime now and could yet provide a way for Carter and Congress to balance the 1981 budget and approve a tax cut at the same time.

With federal tax receipts now pouring in in much greater amounts than previously estimated, some private and government economists have suggested a tax cut and balanced budget may both be possible by 1981.

Tax legislation applying to the 1981 fiscal year, beginning Oct. 1, 1980, would come next year — just in time for the fall elections.

On other matters Tuesday, Carter: —Signed an executive order delegating some of his authority over gasoline sales to the nation's governors. The action authorizes governors to do such things as order odd-even rationing plans, regulate gas station operating hours and set minimum purchases.

But the president warned that any plan making gasoline shortages less painful does nothing to solve "a long-term chronic problem in obtaining adequate energy supplies. ... It is necessary to stop aggravating the problem by blaming one another and by seeking out scapegoats," he said. "The fact is that the oil-producing countries are holding down supply while the rest of the world has increased demand."

—Said the United States will give Egypt and Israel a chance to resolve questions dealing with the Palestinians and other Israeli neighbors before offering any U.S. suggestions.

—Insisted that his anti-inflation program, including its wage and price guidelines, eventually will be successful in stemming inflation. But he acknowledged it probably will take a long time.

—Said he will wait until a new bi-racial government takes office in Rhodesia to decide whether to lift the U.S. trade embargo against the African nation.

—Reiterated his desire to eliminate nuclear weapons from the world and defended pending development of the new MX nuclear missile as necessary to maintain the military balance between the Soviet Union and the United States while negotiations aimed at reducing nuclear arms continue.

—Expressed confidence that Congress eventually will approve legislation implementing treaties turning the Panama Canal over to Panama. Failure to do so, he said, would leave the United States powerless to protect its interests after the transfer takes place.

Israeli Forces Retaliate For Palestinian Attack

By United Press International

Israeli gunboats and artillery blasted the main access route to the coastal city of Tyre in southern Lebanon today in response to a Palestinian rocket attack that overshot its mark and hit Israeli territory.

At least five persons were reported killed in overnight shelling in Lebanon, the sixth straight day of an Israeli offensive, the state-owned Beirut radio said.

The radio said Israeli gunboats opened fire on the strategic Qasimiyeh bridge, 5 miles north of Tyre. The bridge is the main access route to Tyre and its surrounding villages from the north.

The Qasimiyeh attack started at 9:30 a.m. (2:30 a.m. CDT), the radio said.

Prime Minister Selim al Hoss met with U.S. Ambassador John Gunter Dean to discuss the deteriorating situation in the south, government sources said.

The frontier's Israeli-backed rightist militias and Palestinian guerrillas exchanged artillery fire earlier in the day, with shells landing near Nepalese U.N. soldiers.

The Israeli command reported no casualties or damage in the Palestinian shelling in Israel and said they believed the rockets were aimed at rightist Christian militiamen in southern Lebanon and overshot their target. The Armed Forces radio said they were Soviet-made Katyusha rockets.

Rightist militia barrages struck the leftist-controlled town of Hasbaya and the villages of Kawkaba and Qalia. Palestinian and Lebanese leftist militia forces retaliated by shelling the rightist stronghold of Marjayoun, the sources said.

Rightist casualties were not known, but seven persons were wounded in Hasbaya and Qalia.

Several shells landed near a Nepalese contingent of U.N. peacekeeping troops stationed on the outskirts of Kawkaba. There were no immediate reports of casualties.

Leftist and Palestinian sources said Christian militia gunners also pounded the market town of Nabatieh and the nearby villages of Rihan and Ayshiyeh in a four-hour barrage.

Leftist sources reported sighting Israeli armor east of the village of Chebaa, one mile from the Israeli-occupied Golan heights. They said Israeli gunboats cruised off Sidon, Tyre and other towns.

The Lebanese fighting has prompted Beirut to ask the United States indirectly to get Israel to halt its attacks on southern Lebanon.

In Cairo, Egyptian Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil said Tuesday the United States has committed itself to solve every aspect of the Palestinian problem, including the refugee question.

(President Carter told a news conference in Washington Tuesday that the "United States never has supported the idea of a separate Palestinian state.")

Khalil also told an election day rally in Egypt's Al Aini constituency that the U.S. position on the Palestinian self-rule in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip is similar to Egypt's, which insists on self-determination for the Palestinians.

Khalil said Washington has said it will invite King Hussein of Jordan to join in the talks on the Palestinians as outlined in the accords agreed at Camp David last September between President Carter, President Sadat of Egypt and Prime Minister Menachem Begin of Israel.

The United States, before the talks started, sought a homeland for the Palestinians in the occupied Jordan West Bank and Egyptian Gaza Strip territories.

The Egyptians want the five-year period of transition to autonomy, as specified in the Camp David accords, to lead to a Palestinian state which the Israelis have said they will not accept or allow.

Federal Agents Lead Manhunt

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — An army of federal agents, commanded by the FBI's foremost criminal investigator, have begun a sweeping search for the assassin who shot U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr. to death.

The judge, known as "Maximum John" because of the stiff sentences he assessed drug offenders, was shot once in the lower back in the parking lot at his apartment Tuesday morning. He was dead on arrival at a San Antonio hospital.

The bullet tore through his abdomen, damaging vital organs and lodged in the upper right chest, said Frank Castillon, chief investigator for the medical examiner's office.

FBI spokesman David Cassens in Washington said the assassin probably used a small-caliber rifle.

Wood, 63, the second federal official involved in West Texas drug investigations to become the target of a shooting in the last seven months, was believed to be the first federal judge assassinated.

Attorney General Griffin B. Bell, declaring "we cannot have a country where judges are assassinated or killed," assigned top FBI criminal investigator James O. Ingraham to direct a team of 40 agents in the case.

"We don't intend to leave a stone unturned," said Bell, a former federal judge.

U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, today asked Bell to offer a $25,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of Wood's killer.

"It is vital that the person or persons who committed this outrageous, lawless act be arrested and brought before the bar of justice as quickly as humanly possible," Bentsen said in a letter to Bell.

"This vicious, unprecedented assassination must not go unpunished."

"I urge that you offer this maximum reward possible under the law to help assure that the assassin of Judge Wood feels the full force of the law," Bentsen said.

President Carter reacted to the assassination with anger, saying, "The killing of a federal judge... is an assault on our very system of justice."

Three weeks ago, Wood requested an end to protection given him since assistant U.S. Attorney James Kerr narrowly escaped death when his car was riddled by gunfire last November.

The attack on Wood occurred less than a mile from where Kerr was ambushed.

But Pauline Clark, the judge's landlady at the fashionable Chateau Dijon Apartments, said Wood told her recently he felt his life was in danger.

U.S. Marshal Rudy Garza said Judge Wood told him, "If someone really wants to kill me, all the protection in the world would not prevent it."

Bell said marshals were being assigned to protect four federal judges in the San Antonio area.

Wood had been presiding over drug cases developed by the U.S. Attorney's office in San Antonio. They centered in El Paso, with a Midland grand jury also investigating.

One of the most publicized cases was that of El Paso resident Jimmy Chagra, a professional gambler charged with conspiracy to possess, import and distribute cocaine and marijuana.

Wood was to preside over Chagra's trial, due to start in Austin on July 23. The trial was postponed from Tuesday.

Chagra's lawyers asked at an April pretrial hearing in Midland that Wood remove himself from the case, but Wood refused, saying he would be unbiased.

U.S. Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez told the San Antonio News from Washington the murder of Wood was "an out and out challenge of the federal government's capacity to control crime."

Gonzalez said Kerr visited him last week, and he warned Kerr he remained in danger and Wood was in "extreme danger."

Key Witness Missing In Death Probe

have quieted down after they were confronted by Villarreal.

None of the witnesses this morning, who included the disabled veteran's appointed guardian, Frank Aguilar, said that Villarreal did not seem to be in any trouble until he was discovered unconscious outside the club.

Benites said a man and woman entered the club shortly before midnight and told him that a man was lying outside the business.

The club owner said he went out and found Villarreal unconscious near the west corner of the building.

"There was this couple that walked in and said there was a man lying outside," Benites said. "I went out there and looked, and he was lying there with his face sideways on top of broken beer bottles."

The witness said he got a wet towel and attempted to revive Villarreal. "All he would do is open his eyes and try to say something ... he was just drunk," Benites said. "I couldn't do anything with him so that's when I decided to call police."

Villarreal was arrested about 1:15 a.m. May 17 and taken to the county jail. There was no attempt to take the man to the hospital, according to reports.

Four hours later jailer Berry Leary delivered a breakfast tray to the inmate and discovered him dead in his bunk in the "drunk tank."

U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, today asked Bell to offer a $25,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of Wood's killer.

County Redistricting Proposal Squelched

By TOM GRIESS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

An attempt to redistrict Lubbock County Commissioners Court precinct lines based on road and bridge mileage suffered a silent death at a meeting of the court this morning.

Commissioner Jim Lancaster's motion to equalize the mileage in his own Precinct 3 and Alton Brazell's Precinct 4 by changing the boundary along County Road 27 failed to receive a second from other commissioners, thus preventing a vote on the proposal.

Lancaster told the court redistricting was necessary to equalize the costs of maintaining roads and added that the number of residents to be affected by the changes along County Road 27 "would probably be fewer than 150 people."

"I feel like that is where the greatest discrepancy exists," Lancaster said of the current boundary between precincts 3 and 4.

He said his latest estimates of the road and bridge mileage in the county show Precinct 3 to have 357 miles compared to 289 in Precinct 4. He also said Precinct 1 contains about 277 miles and Precinct 2 approximately 336 miles.

Lancaster brought a map of the county with proposed new precinct boundaries to the meeting and explained that his motion would give precincts 3 and 4 each about 305 miles in roadways.

"I feel like this is a very fair presentation," he said of the envisioned future boundaries, but other members of the court were less certain of its merits.

County Judge Rod Shaw said changing precinct boundary lines raises the possibility of upsetting racial balance in the county—a possibility that would deeply concern the U.S. Justice Department.

In addition, Shaw said, the county arbitrarily changing precinct lines without informing federal authorities might be illegal, or at least would likely breed confusion.

The court this morning approved: —The hiring of two deputy clerks to work in the County Clerk's office effective June 1.

—A motion to authorize the county purchasing agent to take bids for the replacement of the County Courthouse sprinkling system.

—The repair of tennis courts at Slaton Park at a cost not to exceed $2950.

—And a motion to authorize the county purchasing agent to take bids for the sale of a house on property located at 8th Street and Texas Avenue in Shallowater.

sure, any surplus is taken care of before we get our piece of the pie."

He said he had no idea whether the decreased pay hike would prompt a request for an increased local increment to add to the state salaries, but said that he feels the school board might approve such a request "if it's financially possible."

"The school board here in Lubbock appreciates the job our teachers do," he said.

School board president Charles Waters said he felt the 5.1 increase is what the TSTA "realistically" felt they could get. "You never ask for a conservative amount," he said. "It's a bargaining technique."

He said he thought the approved figure is what TSTA "privately, if not publicly would be satisfied with."

Political Rival Assails Clayton

AUSTIN (AP) — A lack of direction and a business lobby blitz that one representative compared with a tank assault were the distinguishing traits of the 66th Legislature, according to some lawmakers.

It was a session that had some unpleasant and difficult chores to do and got them done, others said in end-of-session interviews.

"The thing that really provokes me is the lobby had so much control," said Sen. A.R. Schwartz, D-Galveston, mentioning passage of bills establishing "documentary fees" for car buyers and weakening the Deceptive Trade Practices Act.

"The lobby was bold. They moved in with the tanks," said Rep. Bob Bush, D-Sherman.

Lobby bills often were chewed up by the legislative process, Bush said, but "they kept us in a defensive posture rather than being able to go forward with constructive things we might have done."

He said the fact that Gov. Bill Clements was new in town and, therefore, not predictable kept things off-balance and affected Speaker B. Clayton and Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby.

"The fact that the leadership was tentative, playing games with one another, gave the House the opportunity to accomplish something," Bush said.

But Rep. John Wilson, D-La Grange, who has announced as a candidate for Clayton's job next session, said the House accomplished nothing.

Wilson said Clayton ran the House like a "traffic cop," giving the green light to some bills and a red light to others. He said this kept legislators from performing to capacity.

"We failed on many occasions to balance the public interest with special interests. ... I find it hard to point to any significant accomplishment for the public benefit. That sums it up," Wilson said.

Rep. Bob Davis, R-Irving, said "special interest" is a matter of definition, and "there were no major issues that were special interest bills as I would define the term."

He said the biggest issue that was dealt with, raising home loan interest rates, was "a question of whether the political downside of voting for it offset the impact on the Texas economy if we refused to face up to it."

"If you look at what we had to do and ask, Did we do it? the answer is yes," Davis said.

There were problems in the Senate between the leadership and moderate-liberal senators who felt rules and traditions were being trampled to make way for a presidential primary bill.

Schwartz said the flight of the "Killer Bees," including himself, "had a good effect on the Senate. People began to appreciate the fact that they had to deal with people."

Sen. Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, was less impressed.

"There were some stalemates. There is no primary bill. That was a stand-off. I was shocked, frankly, that 12 persons would leave. I wasn't just being melodramatic about it. I just don't see the issue as being that important," he said.

Big Jets Return To Air Today

out of the city, said most of the passengers were rescheduled on other flights. He pointed out that United, just recovering from a long strike, has been running only half full.

Few problems were reported at Atlanta's Hartsfield International Airport, which has only two DC-10 flights daily, both operated by Northwest Orient Airlines.

At the Dallas-Fort Worth regional airport, American Airlines, which has the only DC-10 service, was telling passengers its inspections were complete. Neither American, Continental nor Braniff reported unusual delays.

Many passengers took the inconvenience philosophically.

"It's better to be safe on the ground rather than go 'Oh! Oh!' in mid-air," said singer Pat Boone, who had a reservation for a DC-10 flight from New York to Los Angeles.

The Federal Aviation Administration's decision to ground the three-engine jets pending new checks of their engine assemblies affected about 12 percent of domestic capacity, the industry estimated.

The order followed discovery of "grave and potentially dangerous deficiencies" in the engine assemblies. An engine fell off the ill-fated American plane on Friday.

Eight U.S. carriers have 134 DC-10s in operation. Foreign airlines have at least that many, and while they were not bound by the FAA order, many grounded their jets.

Joseph Scott, an American spokesman in Chicago, estimated about 17,000 persons nationwide were bumped from DC-10s. About 3,200 persons were bumped in Chicago, he said.

At O'Hare International Airport, the scene of Friday's tragedy, about 300 people were bused to Detroit or Indianapolis for other flights, Scott said.

In Los Angeles, frantic passengers dashed from counter to counter and argued with ticket clerks as airlines tried to juggle routes and planes to make up for the temporary loss of the wide-body planes.

Long lines were also reported in Miami and Philadelphia.

"Most of the people understand we are doing it for their safety," said United Airlines worker Cecilia Clement in Philadelphia. "We'd rather be safe than sorry."

Across the Atlantic, about 1,000 people were held up in London's Gatwick Airport after Britain's Civil Aviation Authority grounded all nine American-built DC-10s flown by British carriers.

The travelers stretched out in lounges normally used only for heavy summer traffic that were opened while the fate of the DC-10 flights was being decided. Hundreds were later put up in airport hotels.

Along with American, United and Western, the U.S. airlines that fly DC-10s are: Continental, National, Northwest Orient, World, and Trans International. Most substituted other planes where possible, and urged travelers to check their flight schedules.

Other foreign airlines which reported voluntarily grounding their DC-10 fleets for safety inspections were Swissair, Scandinavian Airlines Systems, The Royal Dutch Airline KLM, Venezuela's VIASA, Italy's Alitalia, Germany's Lufthansa, and Japan Air Lines.

FAA administrator Langhorne Bond, who ordered the DC-10s grounded, said the order would remain in effect until all of the engine assemblies could be inspected.

Truck Runs Off Loop, Hits Home

By NANCY ALLEN
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Two persons were injured when a 1½-ton dump truck loaded with sand and bricks smashed through a wooden fence and into a house located at 5802 16th St. at approximately 11 a.m. today.

Lonnie Richards, 31, of Lubbock, who was driving the truck when it apparently went out of control on nearby Loop 289, was undergoing treatment at St. Mary's Hospital at noon today.

Brenda Clason, 27, who reportedly was looking into a bookshelf when the truck crashed into the room, was taken to Reese Air Force Base Hospital, complaining of head and back pain. She was said to be in guarded condition at noon.

According to her husband, Richard Clason, she was standing in a corner of the room, a bedroom, when "the ceiling came down on top of her." Her position in an inside corner of the room "was the only thing that kept that truck from hitting her," he said.

Contents of the bedroom were strewn across the yard and into the street. A child's Sunday school book was recovered, torn and dirty, in a vacant lot across the street.

The truck left deep ruts through the yet unplanted front yard, before crashing on its side in the middle of 16th Street. Bricks and sand littered the street as wreckers came to right the truck and haul it away.

Clason, an airman at Reese, said he had been lying down on a couch when he "heard a terrible racket," and "things falling." His daughter, Ursula, 4, also was in the house at the time. She was unhurt.

He estimated damage at $10,000, but added some irreplaceable family heirlooms also had been destroyed. "How can you replace a bed that's been in the family for generations?" he asked.

Eddie Hughett, a spokesman for Cement and Sand Supply, 1405 N. Gary Ave., said at noon today the truck had been returned to the company garage and checked for safety flaws. "The tires, wheels, brakes and steering all were O.K.," he said. He indicated the company will be investigating the accident further.

The truck was on its way to a delivery on 84th Street, when the accident occurred. It was southbound on Loop 289 when it left the highway and went out of control as it drove over a series of deep ditches between the loop and an entrance ramp near the house.

The court this morning approved: —The hiring of two deputy clerks to work in the County Clerk's office effective June 1.

—A motion to authorize the county purchasing agent to take bids for the replacement of the County Courthouse sprinkling system.

—The repair of tennis courts at Slaton Park at a cost not to exceed $2950.

—And a motion to authorize the county purchasing agent to take bids for the sale of a house on property located at 8th Street and Texas Avenue in Shallowater.

sure, any surplus is taken care of before we get our piece of the pie."

He said he had no idea whether the decreased pay hike would prompt a request for an increased local increment to add to the state salaries, but said that he feels the school board might approve such a request "if it's financially possible."

"The school board here in Lubbock appreciates the job our teachers do," he said.

School board president Charles Waters said he felt the 5.1 increase is what the TSTA "realistically" felt they could get. "You never ask for a conservative amount," he said. "It's a bargaining technique."

He said he thought the approved figure is what TSTA "privately, if not publicly would be satisfied with."

Group Elects Lubbock Man

Jerry D. Park of Lubbock has been elected state president of the Traveler's Protective Association of America. He replaces Jim Valis of San Antonio as head of the state organization headquartered in Waco.

Also elected from Lubbock at the group's annual state convention in San Antonio was Douglas Conway, who will serve on the executive board. J.L. Hooper, also of Lubbock, was re-elected to serve on the membership committee and R.W. Workman of Lubbock was re-elected to the position of state director. Tom Ashton of Levelland attended the convention as a delegate.

Traveler's Protective Association is a nationwide fraternal beneficiary association sponsoring many safety programs. They are responsible for the slogan, "Watch That Child." Membership of the St. Louis-based organization is spread throughout 40 states.

Dealer To Mark 50th Year Here

Scoggin-Dickey Buick will celebrate its 50th anniversary of business in June. The company, Lubbock's oldest franchised automobile dealership, opened in 1929, the year of the first graduating class of Texas Tech.

A. L. Scoggin and J. Ray Dickey, founders of the dealership, began business with a staff consisting of seven employees. During the first month of business, Scoggin-Dickey logged a total of 10 new car sales. The firm has set a sales goal of 150 new cars for June 1979.

Scoggin-Dickey is managed by the founders' sons, John Scoggin and Richard Dickey.

The staff, which numbers about 100, includes: Al Griggs, sales manager; Bill Holmes, used car manager; Wendell Fowler, service and parts director; Robert Karr, service manager; Cecil Khance, body and service manager; A. J. Carpenter, business manager; Cecil Kely, owner relations manager; and John Zwiacker, office manager.

Scoggin-Dickey, in addition to being the largest Buick parts distributor between Fort Worth and Los Angeles, is one of the nation's oldest metropolitan Buick dealers.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paul Newman and Robert Redford weren't there, but a real-life swindle acted out in the shadow of the Capitol resembled the final scene in "The Sting," police say.

The movie ended with con men Redford and Newman bilking a rich mobster, who fled a phony police raid and left his money behind.

The Washington con game also had victims and phony police raids, authorities say. But in real life, the raids were staged by policemen themselves, so the authorities allege, with the "victims" business and professional people out for a fast buck.

"Businessmen, doctors or anybody who has cash on hand," were among the people lured from Las Vegas, Nev., to Washington's Union Station, the government said in a complaint filed Tuesday. Once at the station, they had been told, they could exchange their cash for three or four times as much in stolen money.

Among the eight persons the U.S. attorney's office charged with involvement in the alleged scheme are two city policemen and four former officers. They and two other persons are charged with operating the alleged scheme to defraud the businessmen and professionals.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert R. Chapman said one of the men, Sherwin I. Lisner of Las Vegas, lured the victims from there to Washington by promising that a group of businessmen here had "Mafia connections and access to large amounts of stolen United States currency that Lisner had access to."

"These individuals offered to exchange the hot money for lesser amounts of United States currency that their victim is willing to exchange."

The complaint described how the victims came to the train station with money-filled suitcases. They met a contact, who, typically, would open a locker to retrieve the hot money for the trade.

Next came the sting. Here's how the complaint said it worked on Feb. 27, 1978, when a Las Vegas real estate dealer arrived with a suitcase containing $138,000.

One of defendants, Leslie D. Heltterbran, a former city policeman who allegedly "was dressed in a suit to look like a detective, flashed what may have been a badge and ... three D.C. (District of Columbia) policemen in uniform, with riot gear" grabbed the con man about to make the switch.

The policemen "handcuffed him, took him outside and threw him in a marked police cruiser, turned on its red light, and took him down the street." Moments later, the police raiders unlocked the handcuffs and let the con man out, the complaint said.

Meanwhile, the complaint said, Heltterbran picked up the suitcases and left the station. The real victim was "thankful to get away without being arrested himself," the complaint said.

Besides Lisner and Heltterbran, who works here but lives in Cinnaminson, N.J., the other men charged are:

Gary L. Richardson and Vincent C. Shirley, both policemen; former city policemen Viktor Schurr, Grayling M. Cockrell and Printes A. Blevins Jr.; and Alfred Jerry Kish of Oxon Hill, Md.

OIC Hopes To Place Jobless Youths

Opportunities Industrialization Centers across the United States hope to place 1 million unemployed youth in jobs within the next five years, the Rev. Leon Sullivan, founder of OICs of America said here Tuesday.

Sullivan was keynote speaker at Lubbock OIC Key Award Banquet. "I'm alarmed at the growing number of young people on the street corners, and I can't wait for the federal government to do something about the unemployment rate, which has reached 70 percent among the young in some cities," Sullivan said.

The Philadelphia minister said that OIC centers in Lubbock and 149 other cities are initiating efforts asking for the support of local businesses to intensify the work of the community-based, largely federally funded job training programs.

"During the first two years of our efforts, we hope to place 150,000 young persons in jobs, in the next two years, 200,000, and in the last year, 300,000," said Sullivan, who organized OICs of America in an old, abandoned jail in Philadelphia 15 years ago.

"I can't say that our efforts will solve the unemployment problem among youth, but we plan to make a major dent in it," he added.

Of the Lubbock OIC program, he said that recent problems seem to be well in hand and that the program is in good shape and ready to develop.

"I think the Lubbock center has good leadership and an outstanding job training program," Sullivan said. "But, all parts of the Lubbock community need to get behind OIC here to further strengthen the program."

Sullivan said that during the past seven years, the Lubbock job training program has placed more than 2,000 persons in jobs.

"Lubbock is developing, and the jobs are here. We just need to provide the unskilled with the motivation, attitude and skills to get those jobs," the minister said.

Sullivan regards OIC as the most successful community-based job training program in America and said the national organization has placed more than 450,000 persons in jobs.

Local Lawmen Buy Uniforms

Lubbock County's sheriff and deputies stepped out in uniforms this week for the first time in the department's history.

County commissioners consistently have turned down Sheriff C.H. "Choc" Blanchard's request that either the county pay for new uniforms or provide deputies with a clothing allowance, so this year the department decided to buy their own uniforms.

Blanchard said Tuesday that he and his deputies wanted the uniforms so they would be more easily identified by the public.

"We've had too many people asking 'Who are you?' when we're trying to do our job," the sheriff said. "And wearing a uniform is one way of answering that question."

The identity problem particularly affected deputies who served civil warrants in unmarked cars, Blanchard said.

"By wearing uniforms we hope to ease some of the fears citizens may have when someone they don't know calls on them," Blanchard said.

Almost all the deputies will be wearing the brown western-style suits with the sheriff's department insignia on the left sleeve. Deputies had to pay about $150 for their uniforms.

You and the Law

Presented by the State Bar of Texas

Q: My daughter's been dating a boy for three years. Now she's decided to marry him. Can my daughter get married without my permission?

A: A person who is 18 years old or older does not need a parent's consent to marry. If the person is 14-17 years old, the parent's consent is required. In the event the parents are divorced, the parent who was given custody of the child must give permission before the child may marry.

Q: I've been told that banks are the only institutions that have a legal right to demand a service charge for a check that has bounced. If this is true, what gives grocery stores and other business the right to charge for bad checks? And, is there any ceiling on the amount businesses can charge for returned checks?

A: Texas law contains no provisions regulating the charges made for bad checks. State law regulates the amount of interest which is charged for credit, but the amount of service charges — such as the charge for a returned check — is not interest and therefore not covered by consumer credit laws.

Q: The tenants in one of my rent houses have been littering the property with trash and generally have proven to be undesirable. We didn't have them sign a lease. How much notice am I required to give them before I can have them evicted? What happens if they refuse to move?

A: If your tenants pay monthly, you need to give at least 30 days written notice. If the tenants fail to move when the advance notice expires, you can file suit for eviction in a justice of the peace court. Enforcement of any court order would be the responsibility of the sheriff.

Q: My wife and I are considering giving some stock this year to one or more of our grandchildren. What procedures are involved?

A: Your stock may be transferred to your grandchildren by writing a letter to the transfer agent named on the face of the stock certificate. Enclose in the letter your stock certificate with your signature, which must be co-signed by a member of the New York Stock Exchange or the officer of a national bank.

Q: My husband left me a year ago and moved to another state. I have no money to pay for a divorce. I'm elderly and ill and my friends urge me to borrow money to obtain a divorce since my husband is completely irresponsible and I might be held liable for his debts and any other problems he gets into. What should I do?

A: A wife may be liable for her husband's debts. Creditors attempting to collect a husband's debts would have to obtain a court judgment to be met by a levy against the wife's property, depending on the amount of the wife's property eligible for such a levy.

Guidelines Being Played Down

By R. GREGORY NOKES
WASHINGTON (AP) — Faced with growing evidence that the wage and price guidelines aren't working, the Carter administration has begun to play down their importance.

It has little choice, since the only other option may soon be to admit failure, and politicians and bureaucrats are loathe to admit they have failed at anything.

Alfred Kahn, the president's chief inflation adviser, scarcely mentioned the guidelines during a speech to the National Association of Homebuilders last week in which he gave a detailed explanation of the administration's efforts to control inflation.

He acknowledged that he had given the guidelines "short-shrift" in his remarks. But he said he didn't want to exaggerate their importance because they never were intended to play anything but a minor role in the anti-inflation effort.

Kahn had said previously that if the guidelines didn't show results by the beginning of summer, he would personally consider them to have failed.

The time for such a judgment is almost at hand. Summer is less than a month away, and inflation hasn't abated significantly yet.

Indeed, President Carter said last week he expects "serious, adverse" inflation figures for the next two to three months. Prices increased at an annual rate of nearly 14 percent during the first four months of the year.

Kahn admitted last week, after the government reported another 1.1 percent increase in consumer prices in April, that the government can't do much about the worse current causes of inflation, rising oil, housing and food prices.

Both Kahn and Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal now say consumer prices will increase at least 8.5 percent this year, up from an original target of 7.4 percent, and could easily be higher. Prices increased 9.2 percent last year.

Rather than declare the guidelines a failure, Kahn told the home builders that anyone who thought the guidelines could by themselves restrain inflation was afflicted with "economic illiteracy."

Kahn stressed the importance of other steps being taken to restrain inflation, especially fiscal policies to slow government spending and monetary policies to tighten the money supply and raise interest rates. Blumenthal has adopted a similar stance.

EUREKA! — Aline Carriere, 19, of Brandeis University, dusts the 12,000 year-old cat bone she uncovered late Friday afternoon at the Lubbock Lake archeological site. The bone is the first major find of the summer digging season. It indicates a cat twice the size of an American mountain lion. (Staff Photo by Paul Moseley)

Feline Bones Found At Lake Site

By NANCY ALLEN
Avalanche-Journal Staff
Archaeologists sifting through the silt at the Lubbock Lake site have uncovered the bone of a 12,000-year-old cat. The discovery marks only the second time that a prehistoric cat has been found in association with man.

The bone, which formed part of the cat's leg, indicates an animal twice the size of the modern American mountain lion, according to Dr. Eileen Johnson, project director. She said the bone could be evidence of one of two types of saber-toothed tigers — an extinct jaguar or an ancient mountain lion. Positive identification of the cat will have to wait until fall, however, when Dr. Johnson is able to contact experts at universities around the country.

The bone was found late Friday by Aline Carriere, a 19-year-old Brandeis University junior from Woonsocket, R.I. News of the discovery was held until Tuesday because of the holiday weekend.

An archeology and English student spending the summer at the Lubbock site, Miss Carriere said she thought she was "just cleaning a bone," and didn't realize the significance of the find until Dr. Johnson identified it.

The bone, specifically the "distal end of the humerus," dates to the Clovis period of prehistory, which ranges from 11,000 to 12,000 years ago.

Only one other record of such an animal found in association with man exists at the Blackwater Draw site at Clovis, N.M. Other remains of the cats have been found, but none displaying evidence that they were used by man in any way, explained Dr. Johnson. This cat probably was butchered, said Dr. Johnson, because the other animal bones uncovered at the site show evidence of slaughter for eating. She said she hopes to uncover more of the cat's bones during the summer, and suspects they will be scattered throughout the site. At the Clovis level, the Lubbock Lake

Site also has revealed evidence of an extinct bear, Arctodus, also found in association with man. A tooth and parts of the front paw of that giant bear, which was twice the size of a grizzly, were found in 1976.

"The only large extinct animal we anticipate finding but have not, is the giant ground sloth," said Dr. Johnson. Two kinds of extinct horses, a camel, an extinct box turtle and antecedents of the modern muskrat, pond turtles, fish, coyote, wolf and fox, also have been found in association with man at the site.

Scientists in the 7-year-old project hope to unearth and piece together the prehistoric culture and environment of the South Plains.

This summer some 25 students from the U.S. and Canada are digging at two sites within Lubbock Lake.

The latest find will be on display for visitors when tours begin June 2. The guided tours are from 9 to 11 a.m. each Saturday during the summer. They end August 4, and will not be conducted July 7.

Society Official Explains Solar Energy Benefits

By SUE MORRISON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

People have been slow to accept solar energy because they are misinformed about its cost and uninformed about its benefits, Russel Smith, executive director of the Texas Solar Energy Society told a standing room only crowd here Tuesday night.

Smith spoke to about 200 residents at Hodges Community Center as part of the "Solar Energy for Your Home" program sponsored by the Texas Energy and Agricultural Extension Services. Smith emphasized that the idea of solar energy is not new to today's society.

The reason solar space-and water-heated homes have not been more thoroughly researched and built, he said, is because fossil fuels have been cheap and available so people haven't realized the need to explore alternate plans of energy sources.

Smith said one reason people have been slow to accept solar energy is because they are misinformed about the cost of solar heating systems.

A recent Newsweek magazine article "said the cost of solar heating was anywhere from $3,500 to $4,500, and that's just not true," he said. "Traveling throughout the country, the solar-heated systems I've seen have cost anywhere from $1,200 to $2,400."

Most home buyers don't realize that if they want a solar-heated home, a conventional electric or gas system also will be installed.

Henry Huneke, owner of First Manufactured Homes, said the conventional system is installed in a solar-heated home because a solar system has problems storing heat.

"This is the biggest technical problem with solar heating," Huneke said. "A solar system can store enough heat for a couple of days without sunshine, but after that, the heat stored begins to run out."

However, he said, a solar space-heating system will provide for 75 percent of space heating, and a solar water-heating system will provide for 80 to 90 percent of water heating.

"Of course, you have to keep in mind we're using those figures for the average family," Huneke said. "Some families will use more hot water and require more heating, and others won't."

Huneke said the best system of solar heating is the rock storage system, where heat is retained in a rock bed either under or next to a house.

Huneke said the cost of installing both conventional and solar water and heating systems while building a 1,280 square foot home would be between $10,000 and $11,000.

Smith said too many prospective homeowners won't consider solar heating because they are not thinking in long-range terms.

"One of the first questions someone will ask about solar heating is 'How soon will it pay for itself?' If these people would only think about the long-term effects, they would seriously consider solar heating."

"People buy other things that use fuel and don't pay for themselves, such as boats, but they don't ask the same question. For whatever a person has to pay for a solar heating system, as soon as he's paid for it, his payments are through."

"Imagine the impact. As soon as a system is paid for, there are no more bills to pay other than periodic repairs. There's no company to hook up to for a solar heating system, so whatever a person was paying for heating costs to an electric or gas company doesn't have to be paid anymore," Smith said.

To air condition a solar heated house, a conventional system has to be used, although there are ways to generate electricity through solar heating.

"The problem with these systems are they are too expensive to be practical," Huneke said. "But one home we've built is being cooled by a two ton air-conditioning unit, which still is more economical than an entire conventional system."

City Parks, Recreation Board Recommends Charging Fee

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Parks and Recreation Board voted Tuesday to recommend that fees be charged for certain uses of city parks.

The city council had asked that fees be updated and re-evaluated annually.

If the council adopts the recommendations, city-sponsored softball leagues and adult baseball teams, Little League, and the West Texas Girls Amateur Athletic Association will be required to pay for electricity used to light fields for night games.

Anyone reserving an athletic field would be charged $7.50 to cover the cost of electricity, and YMCA softball teams would be charged $10 per game to cover costs of electricity, field maintenance and field marker dust.

Little League, Youth Soccer, WTGAA and Weekend Girls Softball would be charged $1 per player per season to offset those same costs.

Also, those using the radio-controlled airport or the equestrian area would be required to buy a $5 permit annually, and teens and children would have to pay $1 per person per class for community center classes.

Community Facilities Director Jim Weston predicted fee revision will be an annual event because city staffers are "under a mandate to look at all fees and update them yearly if warranted."

Weston said this is an attempt to generate more revenue from fees so the costs of providing the city services will not have to come from taxes.

Parks Director John Alford said the board's recommendation means fees would be placed on "those activities and facilities where we have expense involved."

National Endowment Awards Art Grants

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Endowment for the Arts has announced 22 grants from the Expansion Arts Program for support of regional tour events in 15 states and the District of Columbia. The grants total $158,750.

The endowment says, "The matching grants will assist organizations to present arts festivals using community-based arts groups from a regional area."

"Since the fields are used by a restricted number, they should be the ones to pay for electricity if lights are required," Recreation Superintendent Jim Underwood told the board.

"In many cities there is not such a thing as a lighted field," he said. Underwood said the parks department has recommended fees "where the impact on the individual would be less," adding those taking community center classes may be more likely to attend if they must pay for the instruction.

Also at the meeting, board members approved construction of a glazed clay mural portraying the history of blacks in this part of Texas.

The mural, to be funded with private contributions, will be built near Canyon Lakes Six, east of Quirt Avenue, in an area to be called the Estabanico Historical Area.

Eric Strong, president of the Lubbock Roots Historical Arts Council, said "Roots" author Alex Haley will visit Lubbock in June and may perform the groundbreaking for the mural.

Although the Roots council must get the parks board's final approval of construction plans, Alford said the glazed ceramic tile will be relatively vandal-proof because of its hardness.

Party House rental rates will be increased July 1 as a result of Parks Board action Tuesday. Weekend rates will be increased from $7 to $10 at A.B. Davis, Lou Stubbs and the barbecue pit.

Weekend rates, which were $7 at Mahon and at a proposed East Broadway Party House, will be increased to $12. Weekend rates at the Little Party House will be increased from $3.50 to $7.

Gas Nears $1 At City Station

Motorists passing the Mars service station at 2314 4th St. may think the station's gas prices are as high as the planet, but the station manager says she is just charging what her boss in St. Louis told her to, even though she is selling little gas.

"We're selling a lot of cigarettes, but not too much gas," said manager Bennie Jester.

Prices at the Mars pumps rose 20 cents just before the Memorial Day weekend to 91.9 cents per gallon for regular, 96.9 cents for unleaded and 98.9 cents per gallon for premium. Prices at other city stations generally range from 70 to 80 cents as the Mars station prices did last week.

Miss Jester said Herb Backhaus of the Midland Oil Company in St. Louis told her last week to hike her prices, even though she warned him nobody would buy gas at the higher prices.

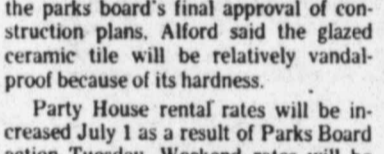

"He knows it's not selling," she said. "He just said, 'I know what I'm doing.'"

She said she has no idea why Backhaus ordered the hike and said the station had little trouble this spring obtaining enough gas to sell.

Backhaus was unavailable for comment. /Ralph Olive, a station attendant who

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: Enclosed please find my check for $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self-addressed envelope for your booklet "How to Have a Lovely Wedding."

This wedding has to be specially lovely because it is for a special daughter and a special young man. Both were labeled retarded as children, but have overcome their handicap and grown into mature, capable people. (She is 31 and he is 29.) Both work and are able to manage their own affairs with a little assistance from both sets of parents.

Friends and relatives are so happy that this beautiful couple found each other. If they were growing up today I'm sure they would not be labeled retarded, but would be considered to have "learning disabilities." They will be married in a church because their religion means so much to both of them.

This is my first letter to Dear Abby, and the only advice I need is how to make this wedding one of the loveliest our family has ever had.

Rejoicing In N.Y.

Dear Rejoicing: Thank you for a beautiful letter bearing a message of hope for all "special" children and their families. May the happy couple enjoy all of God's blessings.

DEAR ABBY: Frannie asked if birth control pills were deductible, and you replied, "Only if they don't work."

Cute answer, but for your information, according to Internal Revenue ruling 73-200, birth control pills are deductible whether they work or not — if prescribed by a physician.

Neil With The IRS

Dear Neil: Thanks for the info. Who am I to argue with the IRS? They're the nice people who know you can't take it

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

(This is the second in a three-part series on what happens to missing socks. Today's column deals with "The Cause.")

According to a woman from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., the answer to disappearing socks is mathematically figured in subsets.

If you wash a pair of blue socks with a red stripe (BL/RD)2 and a pair of green angoras (GR/A)2 and a pair of white tennis socks (WH/T)2, all three pairs would be called X.

If Y had (GR/A)2 and (WH/T)2, then every element in Y is an element of X. Hence Y is a subset of X or XCY.

If there is a boldness in BL/RD2 somewhere between fill and spin dry, BL/RD2 splits.

That answer made more sense than most of the others sent in to determine what happens to socks in the washer.

Most of the writers zeroed in on sex. Like coat hangers and paper clips, socks were believed to have an active sex life — but only in water. Some believed they married, but they fooled around and often divorced in the dryer. No alimony was involved. Some stayed together through two or three washings, but suddenly turned into a swinging single. One writer believed that socks went through a sex change, coming out another color.

A large number embraced the Planned Obsolescence theory, that is a conspiracy between sock and washer manufacturers who incorporate sock disintegrators (right next to the button crusher) and sock sensors which grind up a sock and spit it out as lint. The newer models even have a reconstructed sock cycle which returns a sock lost five years ago.

There was a Sock Fairy theory for those of you who believe in Peter Pan, the Cloning theory where for every pair of socks an extra one is cloned driving you crazy with three socks of one color, and the Best Friend theory where your friend is secretly after your husband and both are trying to drive you whacko. There is the Reincarnation theory where it is believed that a sock returns in another form. (One woman swore that after five years of losing socks, they all came back one day as a sweater.)

Some believed socks had an identity crisis and split. Others leaned toward cannibalism. One writer went for the Steve Martin theory where socks, instead of getting high on detergent, got small and disappeared.

A great number believed socks to be a migratory species, activated by simply adding water.

And finally, one writer blamed the United States government for programming washers to eat socks and keep the economy alive. One blamed the Russians for undermining American women's stability. I'd have been disappointed if someone hadn't said that.

Tomorrow: The Solution.

Are you a candy snacker?

Today, we've got some sugarless treats that are kid-stuff-sweet, but very grown up about calories and nutrition. They're easy to make too, using fruit juice concentrates and dried or canned fruit, combined with gelatin. PLAIN gelatin, not the sugar-saturated stuff withphony fruit flavors!

Once you've tried a few of the recipes, you'll want to experiment using other juice concentrates, chopped nuts or whole-grain cereals.

These candies can be eaten at room temperature, but because they're real food instead of sugar and chemicals, they should be kept in the refrigerator.

PHRUIT PHUDGE

2 cans (6 oz.) apple, orange or grape juice concentrate
3/4 cup boiling water

Use any unsweetened juice concentrate EXCEPT pineapple. Allow juice to defrost and reach room temperature; do not dilute. Combine gelatin in a saucepan with the contents of 1 can of concentrate. Wait 1 minute until gelatin is soft. Add boiling water, then heat very gently until gelatin is melted. Remove from heat and stir in remaining can of undiluted defrosted concentrate. Pour into 8-inch square non-stick cake pan and chill until firm. Cut into 1-inch squares. Store in refrigerator, covered. Makes 64 squares, 13 calories each with apple or orange juice concentrate; 15 calories each with grape juice concentrate.

GRANNY'S BRANNIES

2 cups (6 oz.) undiluted apple juice concentrate or cider concentrate
7 envelopes plain gelatin
3/4 cup boiling water
1/2 cup seedless raisins (or finely chopped pitted prunes or dried apricots) optional: 1/4 tsp. ground cinnamon
1 tsp. vanilla extract
1/2 cup all-bran cereal
Allow juice to defrost and reach room temperature. Combine gelatin with 1 can undiluted juice in saucepan. Wait 1 minute, then add boiling water. Heat gently until gelatin melts. Stir in remaining juice, raisins, cinnamon and vanilla. Pour into an 8-inch square non-stick cake pan and sprinkle the top evenly with bran. Chill until firm, slice into 1-inch squares. Store in the refrigerator. Makes 64 squares, 18 calories each.

Tech Seeks Overweight Teens For Weight Reduction Study

By FRANCES LOWE
Family News Editor

A group of overweight teenage girls in Lubbock should both enjoy and benefit from a program at Texas Tech University this summer.

Researchers at Texas Tech's College of Home Economics, who are conducting a research study on the effectiveness of weight-reduction plans, are looking for 50 local teenagers to take part in the study.

The research will be aimed at discovering the effectiveness of several weight-reduction plans, combinations of diet, exercise and behavior therapy counseling, and thus is expected to provide real benefits to the participants in terms of weight loss and extended weight control.

In order to participate in the program, girls should be 14, 15 or 16 years old and be at greater than 20 percent of their ideal body weight. A doctor's examination and permission will be required of each participant at her own expense; otherwise no cost will be involved.

Persons interested in more information about the program should call Toni Brown, Department of Food and Nutrition, Texas Tech University, 742-3041, or 762-2832. Miss Brown is principal researcher on the project, working under the direction of Dr. Jane Geders and Mrs. Clara M. McPherson, senior faculty members in the department.

"The problem of obesity seems to be increasing in our country in spite of our preoccupation with weight control," Miss Brown said in announcing the study. "The problem is not limited to any age, sex or socio-economic group. It is of particular concern in young people, however, because overweight is likely to be part of a way of life that continues into adulthood. Obesity of long duration is very difficult to treat successfully and becomes a more and more serious health problem."

"Although treatment programs which contain a high degree of structure and supervision appear to be most effective, few doctors have the time required to spend with an individual patient," she continued.

The danger is that teenagers with weight problems often turn to fad diets, crash diets, or over-the-counter "diet" preparations that may be dangerous to their health.

A successful diet program in a teenager would seem to require a lot of support and cooperation on the part of her family. Miss Brown continued. "Although the families will not be directly involved, we hope they will be interested in the program and supportive of the girls."

The research will include taking some family history, such as the weight of the child at birth, early weight gain patterns, knowledge of nutrition, family eating habits and weight patterns.

Girls participating in the program will be enrolled in different experimental groups, with different combinations of diet, exercise and counseling or behavior modification. (All records will be strictly confidential.) Blood pressure and blood testing will be done periodically, at the College, throughout the program. The weight reduction program is conservative and safe for the girls involved. Experts in various fields, such as physical education and nursing, are involved in the planning and implementation.

The behavior modification counseling part of the program will be simple and non-threatening, the researchers explained. It will consist of assessing the girl's eating patterns, helping her evaluate her own feelings about food, and perhaps adopt simple self-help tips which she may use to modify her eating patterns. The company of other girls with similar problems, discussion groups, the exercise program which will include a variety of activity, should make the program fun for the participants, she said.

Results of the program, hoped to be completed by the end of summer, should provide valuable insights into effective means of weight loss and weight control among teenagers, Miss Brown said.

Declarer put his knowledge of probabilities to good use on this hand, and as a result he brought home a well-bid slam.

Despite the possibility of a misfit, South was aware that slam was not out of the question after partner made a jump rebid. However, all he had to do for the moment was rebid his good five-card suit. When North supported spades, South's hand improved, so he cue-bid the ace of hearts. North's hand now took on great luster. He could envision a grand slam if his partner held the queen of diamonds, so he cue-bid the ace of clubs. Note that a cue-bid at the six-level is always a grand slam try. It is pointless to cue-bid at the six-level if you intend to stop in a small slam—you should just bid the slam. Since South had shown his all, he settled for the small slam.

West led the king of clubs, won by the ace in dummy. Declarer realized that he needed to exercise great caution. Had he proceeded gaily in the hope that either spades or diamonds would split 3-3, he would have been split to bow the knee. If he tried to ruff two diamonds to set up the suit in the event of a 4-2 division, West would have ended up with a long trump. And if declarer drew trumps, the 4-2 spade split would have prevented the diamond suit from being established.

Instead, declarer set about his business on the theory that both key suits would break 4-2, which was according to the probabilities. After winning the first trick, he played the ace, king and another diamond, but instead of ruffing, he discarded two clubs. Now there was nothing the defense could do.

Declarer could enter dummy with the queen of spades and ruff a diamond, to set up the two long cards in the suit. After drawing trumps, the king of hearts still remained on the table as the entry back to cash the diamonds. In all, declarer scored five spade tricks, two hearts, one club and four diamonds, for a total of twelve.

Food Trends Consumers May See

While pork and poultry supplies should be higher in the month ahead, beef production will continue low, according to the National Consumer Buying Alert of the White House Office of the Special Assistant for Consumer Affairs.

The consumers' guide to current trends in the marketplace is available to the public by writing Esther Peterson, Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, CO 81009.

According to the latest report, consumers may expect to see the following trends in consumer items during the next month:

MEAT: Beef production will continue low and prices for beef will continue to rise for some months to come. Pork and poultry, on the other hand, should be plentiful and prices may dip somewhat during the summer months.

FISH: Supplies of fish should increase during the spring and summer months. In the Midwest, consumers should look for "best buys" in canned chunk-light tuna and frozen fish sticks; fresh butterfish fillets and fresh ocean perch fillets will be available in the southwest.

EGGS AND DAIRY PRODUCTS: Egg supplies should be above average and above last year. As consumers have turned to meat alternatives the demand for eggs has grown and the higher prices have attracted greater production. Milk production increases seasonally in May, with larger quantities of cheese, butter and nonfat dry milk expected over the summer months. Cheese prices are higher this year as a result of increased consumer demand; this trend should ease slightly.

FRUIT: Fruit supplies are low this spring. Strawberry supplies are adequate, but harvests of summer fruit are just beginning and plentiful low priced supplies are still several months away. Fresh apples and grapefruit supplies should be adequate but declining seasonally. Fresh winter pears and oranges are in light supply and higher priced. Banana prices are usually steady in May, but decline over the summer. Supplies of frozen orange juice concentrate are 60 percent above a year ago and sales are likely. When on sale, orange juice is a more nutritional alternative to fruit drinks, soda and ades. Raisin supplies are low because of rain damage to California's 1978 crop.

VEGETABLES: Potatoes are good buys with a wide range of types and sizes available. The spring crop is expected to be 23 percent more than last year's. Onions should be plentiful, boosted by a big Texas crop. Canned snap beans, sweet corn, tomatoes and tomato products should be adequate, but canned green peas and spinach will be in shorter supply.

GRAIN AND LEGUMES: Look for good supplies of dry beans and dry split peas, both reasonably priced protein sources. Rice, a good extender for meats, should be plentiful, as are peanuts and peanut butter.

OTHER CONSUMER TIPS: Prices on frozen prepared meals have gone up as the cost of meat has increased; in addition, the prices for frozen prepared meals are usually higher than the cost of similar meals prepared at home. Such dinners may be from 15 to 100 percent higher than the home-prepared meal, and often are neither as nutritious nor as good as the home-prepared product. Frozen vegetables and fruits, however, are economical alternatives to out-of-season produce. Frozen potatoes are often cheaper than those made at home with fresh potatoes, but additional ingredients — cheese, seasonings, etc. — cost more than if you added the extras in your own kitchen. While eating out continues to increase in popularity, such meals cost considerably more than the same foods would prepared at home.

BARGAIN CALENDAR: Good timing when shopping can save you money. Studies show prices may change as much as 40 percent during pre-season promotions and after-season clearances. Keep your eye on ads for women's raincoats, tires, sportswear, handbags and televisions. Some stores may feature lingerie, housecoats, rugs and carpets, fans and air conditioners, garden supplies, and outdoor furniture.

'Firehouse' Helpful To Community

NEW YORK (AP) — "When fire protection is taken away from a neighborhood, it's usually assumed that it's a political decision and people don't have any input. Well, we certainly proved that's not the case in Northside."

Fred Ringler was telling a visitor the other day how he and his neighbors foiled City Hall and started a "People's Firehouse" to help protect their community against fires.

Seated alongside Ringler was Adam Venesky, who earned the name "The Chief" during the struggle. The tiny grocery store Venesky runs is just across a narrow Brooklyn street from an even tinier storefront office. What appears on the windows of that office needs some explanation:

First, a small sign in Polish saying that that language is spoken, and above it, a large American flag. Northside is a shirt-sleeve community of about 12,000, more than 80 percent European-American, about 60 percent elderly.

It is a north-Brooklyn community that values work and patriotism, tucked away from the glamor and squalor of other parts of New York City.

Its rows of wood-framed housing look neat and well-maintained, but a bit tired. Also, very fire-prone.

Posted on the storefront above the American flag is a sign, "People's Firehouse No. 1," the proper title for the story of a 2½-year struggle for community survival that begins at the height of New York's fiscal crisis in November 1975.

Northside, which since 1959 had already lost five fire companies, a police precinct and half its garbage collections, learned three years ago it was to lose its last neighborhood firehouse because of then-Mayor Abraham Beame's fiscal cuts.

On Thanksgiving eve 1975, about 300 angry residents led by Venesky decided to occupy and hold hostage the firehouse and the firetruck inside until a regular fire company was returned to the community. The occupation was to last 15 months.

During that time, recalls Ringler, he and a few others lived in the firehouse full-time, sleeping on rotted mattresses, and joined frequently by neighborhood volunteers who kept vigil. Letting their guard down for even an hour would have meant that ever-watchful police or fire marshals might have retaken the firehouse.

"We even gave a neighborhood junkie a job guarding the firehouse, and eventually he came out completely straight, got married and got a job," says Venesky.

Local political clubs connected to City Hall tried to get the community to give up the fight. They tried to discredit Venesky, Ringler and other leaders. They were called troublemakers and communists at community meetings. They believe their phones were tapped.

The group, which by then called itself "People's Firehouse," began monitoring fire calls in their own cars, to prove that response time had slowed to dangerous levels. They held demonstrations. At one point they blocked rush-hour traffic on one of the city's main arteries.

They didn't actually fight fires on their own. "We thought about it, but we were realistic enough to know that if we took the truck out we'd be busted," says Venesky.

There were several turning points that encouraged the community to fight on. First, a highly publicized fire that burned out of control that shouldn't have with adequate protection. Second, Beame agreed to negotiate the dispute.

Finally, in June 1978, newly-elected Mayor Edward Koch gave Northside its full victory: a completely manned firehouse. But that has not spelled the end of People's Firehouse.

"People decided we wanted to stick together," says Ringler, and People's Firehouse established itself in a nearby storefront.

Firm Reveals Pollution Plan

PERTH AMBOY N.J. (AP) — Chevron USA Inc. has announced plans for a $20 million renovation of its refinery here that would cut air pollution while increasing production by 30 percent by 1981.

The oil company said last week it will begin this summer to install two new pollution control units that will enable it to refine crude oil containing higher quantities of sulphur than was previously allowed.

"We are running about 30 percent under capacity because we can't get the low-sulphur fuel," said Jack C. Carmichael, manager of technical services. "Once the equipment is installed, we plan to run at capacity."

Carmichael said the facility has a capacity of 168,000 barrels of oil a day.

Since a 1975 expansion of the Chevron refinery, the plant has received dozens of violations for high sulphur readings, said Stanley J. Rogaski, director of the Central Jersey Regional Air Pollution Control Agency.

"There is visible pollution and residents would complain of the smell of rotten eggs, which comes with sulphur pollution," Rogaski said. Chevron said those emissions had been caused by malfunctioning sulphur recovery systems.

Carmichael said the company had spent about $30 million trying to get the old system to work but finally gave up and opted for the new equipment.

"We want to be a good neighbor," said Carmichael. He said the new equipment would significantly reduce emissions and would meet or exceed state and federal guidelines.

Judge Orders Change Of Venue

ROBY (UPI) — A judge who had earlier denied a change of venue in the involuntary manslaughter trial of a Snyder truckdriver and who was in the process of qualifying jurors for the case, has moved the trial 45 miles away to Colorado City.

William Clarence Dixon, 22, is accused in a truck-bus crash that killed five McCaulley High School students last December. District Judge Weldon Kirk said Tuesday he would have no immediate comment on why the trial was moved to Mitchell County.

Kirk ordered the venue change Tuesday after qualifying a number of residents as potential jurors during a morning session at Fisher County Courthouse. Jury selection had been scheduled during the afternoon.

May 8, Kirk denied a change of venue motion by lawyers for Dixon and scheduled the trial for Tuesday.

Several persons testified during a pretrial hearing that Dixon could receive a fair trial in the 700-member community, 11 miles east of the crash site.

The judge said Tuesday, however, the new trial would begin Monday in Colorado City.

Dixon also faces 16 civil lawsuits, the first to be heard June 18, filed by survivors of the accident victims. The litigants are seeking millions of dollars in damages.

The broadside crash involving Dixon's truck and the McCaulley bus occurred Dec. 8 at the crossroads of FM 611 and U.S. 180. The bus, loaded with boy and girl basketball players, was en route to Hermleigh for a tournament when the afternoon crash occurred in windy, winter weather.

The force of the collision sheared the body of the bus from its chassis and littered the site with the bodies of four students and more than a score of injured. A fifth student died a few days later.

Records later revealed that Dixon had received 13 traffic tickets in the 3 1/2 years prior to the crash. However, his Cardinal Surveys Co. supervisor said his seven-month driving record with the Odessa firm was flawless.

Dixon was issued seven tickets in 1977, according to the Department of Public Safety in Austin, and had been charged as a habitually bad driver at one point.

That charge was dismissed in January 1978 "without prejudice" by an Abilene peace justice who indicated Dixon could not be located.

Records later revealed that Dixon had received 13 traffic tickets in the 3 1/2 years prior to the crash. However, his Cardinal Surveys Co. supervisor said his seven-month driving record with the Odessa firm was flawless.

Bell To Expand Phone Services

Southwestern Bell began work Tuesday on a facility which eventually will cause a prefix number change for some area phone patrons.

The switching office at Broadway and Avenue W is being moved to Frankford Avenue. The building breaks into self-contained modules of electronic switching equipment and will be moved by trucks on a route west on Broadway to University Avenue, north to 19th Street, west to Brownfield Highway and southwest to Frankford Avenue. Lubbock division manager Bob Dunbar said the move is expected to require eight truck trips and should be completed within the week. The modules will be moved from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. to avoid traffic congestion.

The office movement is part of a project that will result in a new wire center and central office in the southwest area of Lubbock.

Official Of Archdiocese Skeptical Of 'Miracle'

ROSWELL, N.M. (UPI) — An official of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Santa Fe says he is skeptical of claims that blood flowed from a picture of Jesus Christ because of the conditions under which the alleged miracle occurred.

"Something like this has to be set up in isolation," Father Ronald Starkey, secretary for the archbishop, said Tuesday. "We must absolutely rule out the possibility of any human being tampering with it."

Starkey said his office receives several reports of "miracles" every year. "After a short time, it becomes apparent to us what the trick was," he said. "I take the attitude that you've got to prove it to me."

Four members of the Willie Mae Seymour family said they saw blood flowing from beneath the right eye of a portrait of Christ in the Seymour home. Medical tests confirmed that the substance said to have flowed from the plastic-encased portrait was blood.

Since Mrs. Seymour and other members of her family said they saw the flowing blood Friday, more than 500 people have visited the home to see the portrait, which is located in the corner of the frame of a larger painting.

Zack Malott, the husband of Mrs. Seymour's granddaughter, first noticed the blood. He said it appeared as a tear just below the eye, then became a steady stream that collected in a small puddle.

Malott said the members of the family, who do not consider themselves deeply religious and do not attend church regularly, are mystified by the flow of blood.

"If I didn't see it with my own eyes, I wouldn't believe it," he said. "This makes you a believer."

Defense Attorney Claims Police Abused Dugas

BEAUMONT (UPI) — During four days of interrogation, law enforcement officers choked, kicked and pointed guns at Ovide Joseph Dugas to force him to confess to killing five persons at Winnie, his defense attorney contends.

Dugas signed a confession to the deaths last summer, but defense lawyers are seeking to eliminate it from evidence prosecutors plan to use against Dugas, an oil refinery worker.

Dugas, 33, is scheduled to go to trial in October at Corpus Christi, but a hearing is expected to last the rest of the week on various motions in the case. District Judge Larry Gist kept pretrial hearings in Beaumont to prevent unne-

SuperSonics Pad Lead With Overtime Victory

SEATTLE (AP) — Dennis Johnson says the Seattle SuperSonics only have to remember last year to keep from squandering their lead in the National Basketball Association championship playoffs against the Washington Bullets.

"Everybody on this team is remembering last year," said Johnson after the Sonics defeated the Bullets 114-112 in overtime Tuesday night to go ahead 3-1 in the best-of-seven finals. "We had the lead then and relaxed. The next thing we knew, we were being blown out."

Last year, the Sonics led in the final series 3-2, but got pummeled in Game Six in Washington, 117-82, and the Bullets went on to win the championship.

The next game in this series will be played Friday in Landover, Md., with Game Six, if necessary, here on Sunday and Game Seven in Landover next Wednesday.

Dennis Johnson also said it doesn't mean a thing that the Bullets were down 3-1 against San Antonio in the Eastern Conference finals and came back to win the series, only the third time in NBA history such a comeback was made in the playoffs. It has never been done in the championship round.

"We're not the Spurs," said Johnson, who tipped the last Bullets shot into the hands of teammate Jack Sikma with three seconds remaining in the overtime. "We don't get all the publicity that the Spurs do, but they don't play defense like us. We aren't your average team. We're not going to lose the 3-1 lead."

Dennis Johnson and Gus Williams, the two Sonics guards, once again paced Seattle. They got 32 and 36 points, respectively. They got lots of help inside from Sikma, who had 20 points, 17 rebounds, five blocked shots and aided in getting Washington's three big men — Elvin Hayes, Bobby Dandridge and Wes Unseld — to foul out of the game.

Washington Coach Dick Motta was angered about those foul calls, claiming San Antonio Coach Doug Moe set the stage for them when he criticized the referees after the final game of the Eastern Conference playoffs.

"In that last game, the referees were accused of favoring the champion Bullets," said Motta. "I honestly feel we are the victims of Doug Moe's outburst. Seattle played the last 14 minutes and did not have a foul called against them. I am very upset."

"I don't believe you can play an NBA game and not have a foul called on a team in the last 14 minutes," said Motta.

Actually, the Sonics had two fouls called against them in the last 16:28, but none in the last 8:47.

Sonics Coach Lenny Wilkens said his team knew it had to win. "It was a must game for both teams and we knew they were going to go all out. There was a lot of tension, so our team was tight in the beginning."

The Bullets finally had their guards break out of their shooting slump with Kevin Grevey and Charlie Johnson hitting for 18 points apiece. Hayes also scored 18, while Dandridge and Unseld had 16 each.

"We can still win this thing," contended Grevey. "We have come back from being down 3-1 before. But it will be tougher this time. Seattle was not San Antonio; they're a much better team, especially defensively."

Sonics forward John Johnson, referring to his team's 26-of-39 foul shooting, said: "If we had hit our free throws, we wouldn't have had to go into overtime. We maintained five and six-point leads in the second half, but then we eased up and gave them the opportunity to come back."

John Johnson also said he did not think he team would let up in Friday's game: "We've been there before and know what it takes. We're not going to relax until we get the fourth one."

Chicken Forced To Abandon Roost

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The 5-foot-4 defendant sat in the jury box, his head hooded by a brown paper sack with peepholes.

A yellow feather affixed to the top of the sack was the only giveaway — until Ted Giannoulas, the defrocked KGB Chicken, did his thing.

He prayed. He gnawed nervously on his nails. And he crossed his fingers for good luck.

But to no avail.

Calling himself "an old fuddy-duddy," a San Diego Superior Court judge stripped Giannoulas of the chicken suit Tuesday.

Judge Paul Overton said Giannoulas, 24, could return as a redesigned bird, but barred him from appearing in the famous chicken costume in four Southern California counties: San Diego, Imperial, Riverside and Orange.

If Giannoulas modifies the chicken outfit, he must refrain from appearing on any out-of-state sports telecasts involving San Diego teams, Overton added. "An unnecessarily harsh ruling," said Giannoulas' attorney, Ron Mix, a former all-pro football lineman.

Giannoulas, the man inside the chicken suit for the past five years, said he was "heartsick. It's really, really sad."

O's Finally Beat Royals

By The Associated Press
The Baltimore Orioles survived a 10-count and flattened the Kansas City Royals Tuesday night.

One night earlier, the Orioles dropped their 10th consecutive game in Royals Stadium. But Tuesday evening, Ken Singleton, Rich Dauer, Gary Roenicke and Lee May unloaded haymakers and the Orioles pounded the Royals 6-1, their first success in Kansas City since June 4, 1977.

"Does this feel good," exclaimed Manager Earl Weaver. "You get to wondering what you have to do. Last year it was 100 percent Kansas City and last night (Monday's 5-4 16-inning loss) we had plenty of chances but still couldn't win."

Baltimore ace Jim Palmer, making his first start in 10 days since complaining of soreness in his right arm, retired 13 Kansas City batters in a row between the first inning and the fifth. He allowed five hits, struck out three and walked two before Tippy Martinez relieved in the eighth when Palmer's forearm tightened again.

Brewers 7, Yankees 3

Cecil Cooper slammed a pair of basely-emptied homers and Robin Yount added a two-run double as Milwaukee handed winless Catfish Hunter his fourth setback. Cooper's 11th homer of the year and second of the game broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth inning and three infield hits and Yount's double, which right fielder Reggie Jackson misplayed, helped the Brewers to three more runs in the seventh. Milwaukee's Moose Haas scattered seven hits, including home runs by Jackson and Graig Nettles.

Haas' first pitch to Jackson in the second inning, a high, tight fast ball, sent him scurrying out of the batter's box. Jackson yelled at Haas and pointed to the plate, showing the pitcher where the pitch should have been. Jackson homered on the next pitch and glared at Haas as he pranced around the bases.

"He was trying to intimidate me," Jackson said. "The ball was at my head. It was too close for comfort. I just wanted to make a point. We had a little discussion and it was over."

Angels 6, Mariners 4

Bobby Grich collected three hits and drove in three runs while Jim Barr scattered eight hits before needing help from Dave LaRoche in the eighth as the Angels posted their fourth consecutive triumph. Barr replaced scheduled starter Nolan Ryan, who remained behind in California with his injured son and then was delayed by the grounding of a DC-10. Grich delivered a two-run double in the seventh inning. In the fifth, his single scored Brian Downing all the way from first. Ruppert Jones and Bob Stinson homered for Seattle.

Tigers 9, Blue Jays 8

Lance Parrish snapped an 8-8 tie with a run-scoring single in the eighth inning following a two-out intentional walk to Jason Thompson. Lou Whitaker opened the eighth with a single and was sacrificed to second. After Rusty Staub flew out, Thompson was purposely passed, but Parrish spoiled the strategy with his game-winning hit. The Tigers also got a two-run single from Alan Trammell and a two-run double from Jerry Morales, and Parrish had an RBI double. Rookie Dave Tobik earned his first major league victory with one inning of relief.

White Sox 4, Indians 2

Bill Nahorodny doubled home two runs and Richard Wortham blanked Cleveland on four hits for eighth innings. Nahorodny's double came in the fourth, inning off loser Eric Wilkins after Alan Bannister singled and Lamar Johnson walked. The White Sox scored two more runs in the sixth on RBI singles by Mill May, making his debut with Chicago, and Rusty Torres.

BIG MAN—Dave Parker of Pittsburgh watches the ball fly during his hot Tuesday night. Parker had two doubles, a home run and three RBI. (AP Laserphoto)

Parker Slump Really Over

By The Associated Press
Dave Parker is starting to shake out of his "slump." You know it when he tells you so.

The Pittsburgh Pirate star never hesitates to blow his own horn, as many know, and that's exactly what he did Tuesday night after helping his team blow out the Chicago Cubs 8-0.

"It's about time for me to put something together," said Parker after hitting two doubles and a home run and driving in three runs.

Parker began the night batting .309 with six home runs and 17 runs batted in — statistics that usually pop the buttons on players' uniforms. But not the proud Parker — the National League's Most Valuable Player last season and self-acknowledged "best player in baseball."

"I consider it a slump when I'm getting only one hit a day," said Parker. "I'm a good contact hitter, so even when I'm not swinging well, I get my share of infield hits and bloopers."

"But when I'm hitting the ball well, I hit everything hard, even the outs, and I feel that coming back now. Hopefully I'm off and running," added the winner of two straight NL batting titles.

In the other NL games Tuesday night, the Montreal Expos routed the Philadelphia Phillies 9-0; the Houston Astros nipped the Cincinnati Reds 2-1; the New York Mets turned back the St. Louis Cardinals 6-2; the Los Angeles Dodgers edged the San Francisco Giants 6-5 and the San Diego Padres swept a double-header from the Atlanta Braves, 6-3 and 3-2.

Pittsburgh took a 2-0 lead in the first inning with the aid of a throwing error by pitcher Ken Holtzman and a run-scoring single by Willie Stargell. Phil Garner led off the Pirate second with his third homer. Parker clouted his seventh homer with two out in the seventh, and then doubled in two more runs in a four-run Pirate eighth.

Don Robinson and Grant Jackson combined on a five-hitter for the Pirates, who turned in only their second shutout this season.

Olympics Could Cost New York

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — New York state's share of the cost of operating the 1980 Winter Olympics is expected eventually to total at least $10.3 million.

Aides to Gov. Hugh Carey said Tuesday that the request for Olympics funds which they submitted to the Legislature last week for the so-called "supplemental budget" for the state call for a total expenditure of $0.3 million over two years.

The only figure mentioned by Budget Director Howard Miller, when he unveiled the budget request last week, was roughly $7 million.

But Tuesday, Miller told The Associated Press that another $3.3 million will likely be required in the 1980-81 budget to finish paying bills from the 12 days of winter games in this Adirondack mountain village next February.

He declined to provide details of the two-year spending plan, but said he did not expect any cuts to be made in the Olympic portion of the state's $160 million supplemental budget.

Other sources said roughly $3 million of the Olympic funds were to be used for state police costs, with the remainder going to pay for other items, such as relocation of state prisoners from Camp Adirondack, which is to be used as a security center during the games.

These expenditures are on top of an administrative budget for the Lake Placid Olympic Organizing Committee itself of $42 million to $48 million, and on top of extensive state spending already committed for construction projects and other pre-Olympics costs.

The state has committed roughly $32.4 million to construction costs, mostly for road improvements and site work at state-owned ski facilities. And it spent about $2.5 million in operating funds for various state agencies during pre-Olympics competition this past winter.

Not included in those costs are the salaries of officials working on Olympic plans or the $2.5 million in powerline funding that may come from state sources.

Meanwhile Tuesday, powerline negotiators met in Lake Placid to try to reach agreement on funding for the 115 KV line needed for the Olympics.

Garrett Grabs Cajun Win

Lubbock's Malcolm Garrett Jr., defending Southwest Champion in Sports Car Club of America B Sedan racing, last weekend won his third race in four outings with the help of some flat-out driving and fast work by a family-member pit crew.

Borger Heads All-Star Team

CANYON (Special)—The district champion Borger Bulldogs paced the LAAA all-district team as three players and the head coach were selected Tuesday.

Head coach Ray Murphree, who led Borger into the bidistrict playoffs where it lost to Pecos, was named coach of the year. Bulldog senior Nathan Bailey was named player of the year. The catcher batted .510 this season.

Other Borger honorees included pitcher Greg Fleming (.61) and centerfielder Mike Tutep (.463).

Hector Limon (.451), Estacado's outstanding freshman leftfielder, was named newcomer of the year. Other Mustang selections included second baseman Tony Gutierrez, first baseman Manuel Escamilla and utility infielder Brett Parker.

Levelland contributed four players to the team including junior leftfielder Gary Dockery (.529), and seniors Tommy Bases (.358) at shortstop and Wes Harley (.488) at third base. Levelland's senior hurler, Larry Hanna (.41), was selected to the pitching staff. Harley shared the third base honor with Johnny Ceja of Dunbar. Ceja was the Panthers lone selection to the squad.

The other member of the pitching staff is Kent Hazen (3-4) of Dumas.

Dumas senior Bubba McDonald (.92) tied with Todd Nix (.327), a senior from Canyon, for high honors at the catcher slot. Senior David Dickey (.489), also from Dumas, joined Canyon junior Brad Talbutt (.322) at second base.

Tim Nichols of Levelland was chosen as the designated hitter.

Racing at Lake Charles, La., in the Cajun Grand Prix, Garrett, in a Datsun 710, swapped the over-all lead with Houston's Tom Mankin, who piloted a D Production Triumph, until lap 9, when the pair got a black flag as they raced side by side down the pit straight.

A pit board signal three laps later indicated that the meatball was for Garrett, who pulled in to find his car had a broken tailpipe bracket. Although his pit crew — consisting of wife Marilyn, son Matt, 10, and Don Istook of Dallas — made a quick repair, when Garrett went back out he had lost a minute and 15 seconds and was last, not first, in the B Sedan class.

With 12 laps in and only 11 to go "I probably wouldn't have continued, that far behind," Garrett said later. "but we had towed over 700 miles and I just couldn't see giving up that easily."

In three laps of racing he had regained 50 seconds and was overtaking the leaders. On the next-to-last lap he had worked up to second place and on the final corner of the last lap he got by the leader to make it a class win.

Along the way the Lubbock driver set a lap record of 1:30.08 for the 2.1-mile course — and the tailpipe repair job came unglued, apparently on the final lap.

Although still far behind Mankin, who toured to an easy class and over-all win, Garrett still found himself second over-all.

Next outing for the Lubbock driver is June 17, when the SCCA fraternity will convene in Dallas for a national event at Greater Southwest Raceway. Division champions automatically qualify for a starting spot in the autumn Trans-Am Championship at Road Atlanta.

Wall Street Declines For Second Day

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market showed another loss today amid continuing energy worries. Losers outnumbered gainers by more than a 2-1 margin in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 3.98 to 828.57 by noon. Contributing to the Dow's decline for the second straight day was F.W. Woolworth, off 1/4 at 24 1/2 after a loss of 2 Tuesday. Brasken Ltd. dropped its effort to take over Woolworth at $35 a share.

Analysts said concern over rising gasoline prices and uncertainty about fuel supplies continued to set the mood on Wall Street. Texaco and Gulf announced Tuesday they would reduce further in June the amount of gasoline they supply to service stations.

Meanwhile, Libya was reported Tuesday to have raised its official price for crude oil by $2.30 a barrel to $21.31, topping the previous high of $21 set by Algeria and Nigeria last week.

General Public Utilities led the active list, off 1/4 at a 564.90-share block traded at that price. Inco Ltd., which reached a tentative strike settlement with steel workers, rose 1/2 to 21.

The NYSE's composite index dropped 1.91 to 56.34. The American Stock Exchange market value index lost 53 to 186.96 after touching a new high on Tuesday. Volume on the Big Board came to 12.91 million shares at noon-time, against 11.39 million at the same point Tuesday.

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) —

Doctors at Earl K. Long Memorial Hospital Tuesday found that a 2-year-old boy weighed 24 1/2 pounds and gained 10 pounds in fraternal twin, 19 pounds. The boy was described as having the physical development of 3-year-olds.

They were malnourished, but the doctors haven't established that they were any other illness, said state health department spokeswoman Kathleen Burns. "Basically, they've cleaned them up and fed them and their growth is normal and we are going to continue observation and see how they respond to that."

City Jury Finds Lawson Guilty

A 14th District Court jury took only 28 minutes today to find Billy Ray Lawson guilty of aggravated rape in an assault last Dec. 3 on a convenience store clerk. The jury was considering punishment at midday after Assistant Criminal District Attorney Everett Seymore asked a 99-year sentence for Lawson.

Defense attorney Phil Gamble did not call any witnesses after the prosecution rested this morning. The former store clerk testified Tuesday that Lawson robbed her of $100 and then held a knife to her neck while she was in a back room of the store. "I was hysterical," the 30-year-old woman said when asked when the robber ordered her to get with him to the back of the 802 Ave. Q store. "I thought I was dead. I thought he was going to kill me. I just had that feeling."

She said the robber, whom she identified in 14th District Court as the 39-year-old Lawson, surprised her by ordering her to disrobe. She said she moved the knife from her side to her neck under her ear and stuck her with it each time she started to resist. The woman said Lawson told her afterward that he was not going to hurt her and said, "Stay cool, man, as he was going out the back door."

She said no one came into the store during the robbery and rape. Lawson came into the store and bought a 25-cent sack of potato chips when there were customers in the store about 10 minutes before he came back and pulled the knife of her when she was alone, she said. The woman said she was in the back of the store mopping when Lawson came in the second time.

Bill Could Free Building Funds

By KIM COBB
Avalanche-Journal Staff
Texas Tech University — like 16 other state colleges and universities — lost its major source of construction funds during the last few days of the 1979 Legislature.

But enactment of the bill eliminating most of the ad valorem tax fund will probably free for college building purposes $130 million in accumulated property taxes held up by litigation by Rep. Wayne Peveto, who questioned the tax's constitutionality.

In the closing hours of the regular session, legislators approved a bill which effectively repeals the property tax by reducing the assessment rate to only .0001 percent of the property's value. That rate of taxation would produce only about $25,000 annually.

Legislators also refused to create a special fund from general tax revenues to replace money formerly provided by the property tax.
However, Peveto's attorney has said the representative from Orange will drop his suit and free the $130 million as soon as Gov. Bill Clements signs the new bill "eliminating" the property tax.
Projections by the state Coordinating Board indicate the 17 schools would need about $350 million for new construction and repairs during the next 10 years. That financial prediction indicates the $130 million currently in litigation would be enough to carry construction plans ahead for at least the next two or three years.
And legislators have been charged with finding an alternate funding program for the state schools by Sept. 1, 1980.

Texas Tech's Director for New Construction Walter Brown expressed faith in adopting a new system of funding, saying "Everybody seems to feel they (legislators) will come up with something."
Vice President for Planning Glenn Barnett added that the inability to come up with a new system during the recent session was as much the fault of university representatives as of legislators — neither group could agree on a plan.
"But it's of great concern to us," Barnett said.
Under the old system, Barnett explained, the university issued bonds based on funds expected to be collected over a 10-year period. Schools were allowed to bond up to 85 percent of what they expected to collect.
At the end of the 10-year cycle, the funds were issued to cover the bonds and any extra (beyond predicted collections) was distributed.
Barnett said he would need further information on possible distribution of the $130 million before he could make any predictions on future construction at Tech.

In addition to the ad valorem tax, Texas Tech receives funding for construction from the student use fee (formerly called the building use fee). State universities are also allowed to issue bonds against expected tuition income, he said, though that plan usually produces only a small amount of money.

District Superintendent Posts Filled By Methodist Leaders

AMARILLO (Special) — Two district superintendent positions were filled when ministerial appointments were read Tuesday night in the annual session of the Northwest Texas Conference of the United Methodist Church.
Dr. William R. Fleming of Lubbock was named superintendent of the Lubbock District and the Rev. J. Weldon Butler superintendent of the Plainview District in the evening session and worship service Tuesday.

Bishop Alsie Carleton, bishop of the Northwest Texas and New Mexico United Methodist Conferences, made about 40 changes among the numerous charges in the conference.
The annual session, which is scheduled to continue through Thursday, is being held in the Polk Street United Methodist Church in Amarillo.
New appointments include:

ABILENE DISTRICT
Abilene, Aldersgate United Methodist Church — Weldon McCormick, coming from Levelland First UMC, where he served six years. He succeeds Hershel Homer, who after two years at Elmwood West, transferred out of the conference.
Abilene Elmwood West UMC — Lane Boyd, who served Wolforth UMC the past four years. He succeeds Hershel Homer, who after two years at Elmwood West, transferred out of the conference.

Shamrock Move Angers Mayor

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Diamond Shamrock Corp. drew a blast Tuesday from Mayor Dennis Kucinich who said the huge company's decision to move its corporate headquarters out of the city amounted to abandoning Cleveland "like tissue paper."
A major manufacturer of commodity chemicals and energy technology systems, Diamond Shamrock dropped a bombshell announcement on Cleveland's business community Tuesday, disclosing it will move its central offices to Dallas.
The surprise decision by the firm included criticism of Kucinich, who the company charged has created an "anti-business" climate in Cleveland. Diamond Shamrock President Williams H. Bricker said the main consideration in the company's decision to move was the need to be closer to the majority of its operating facilities in the Southwest.
The mayor said, "The Texas-oriented oil and gas interests have taken on more and more control of the company. For Mr. Bricker to state that this move had anything to do with the political climate in Cleveland is ridiculous," the mayor said.

KIDS-ONLY CLUB
Shop Keeps Alive 'Good Old Days'

By SHARI LEWIS
The Collector's Bookstore in Hollywood, Calif., sells memory joggers: old TV scripts and 8x10 glossy pictures of movie stars. Yesterday's fan magazines and antique Walt Disney items. Science-fiction posters and almost anything else you can think of relating to old movies and TV.
This memorabilia has value because people like to be reminded of times and shows and stars of the past and sometimes will pay good dollars for a bit of "the good old days." Sometimes.
At the Collector's Bookstore they say that it's hard to know what is going to grow in value. However they claim that if you know certain facts, you can make educated guesses.
For example, "Star Wars" is likely to be popular for years to come. Lots of manufacturers, trying to fill the demand, are turning out new "Star Wars" games, toys, posters and other products. Because there is so much "Star Wars" merchandise being turned out, it's not likely that these items will become rare or valuable. So if you are collecting in order to make money in the future, it's not recommended that you stock up on "Star Wars" stuff.
The story with Star Trek is quite different. When the TV series was cancelled the manufacturers stopped making Star Trek items. So within three or four years after the show went off the air, "Trekkie" things became rare and grow in value every year.
Now, your neighborhood movie theater gets movie posters and 8x10 stills of scenes from the motion picture every time they show a film. These posters and stills are not produced in large numbers since they're generally not sold to the public, so they grow very quickly in value. Often the theaters file this stuff. Sometimes it's rented and has to be returned. Ask your local theater manager for the pictures and posters. You've nothing to lose. And if he gives them to you, treasure them because they're more likely to make money for you than anything else I can suggest!
YESTERDAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: How do you arrange 24 sticks so that they only make 19?
ANSWER: (See illustration.)
TODAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: What travels around the world but is supposed to stay in a corner? (Look for the answer in tomorrow's Kids-Only Club column.)
