The walls of North Elementary School come tumbling down Tuesday as Bennie Doggett, Lubbock demolition specialist, fulfills every schoolboy's fantasy of how school should really end. A demolition crew has contracted to have the 42-year-old building cleared away by the end of May.

Workmen pull down elementary school

They're doing everything they can to get rid of her, but the "old lady" isn't leaving this world without putting up a fight. "We expected to have it completely down by this evening (Tuesday)," said John Potter, a demolition contractor, as he looked at a still-standing North Elementary School. "They sure don't build them like they used to," he said, shaking his head. The tough old schoolhouse at Ohio Avenue and Carrizo Street was built in 1937 for $84,000. "I'll bet the W.P.A. (Work Projects Administration) had something to do with this," said Potter. "They used cement instead of mortar and those walls are hard as a rock." Potter and a five-man crew were trying to pull down the walls Tuesday, but they discovered the structure wouldn't budge. "We found four inches of adobe under the roof," said wrecker Ron Steich, "and the second floor is solid terrazzo. I couldn't crack it." "They built this thing to stay up," he said. "There's all sorts of steel reinforcing through it." The wreckers are adjusting by pulling smaller chunks off the structure with their front-end loader and steel cable rig. "This will slow us down," said George Douglas, one of the crew members. "We'll just work Saturdays to catch up." The crew quit early on Tuesday, though. But not because they were caught up. "Our cable," said a disgusted Douglas, "just broke in two."

Hill house may lose its battle

By SUSAN TOTH
Staff Writer

The beleaguered Hill house — a rambling classic style home on the corner of Midland's Illinois and F avenues — may lose its battle with governments yet. Midland-Independent School District plans to use the property for the proposed expansion of Midland High School and is going ahead with condemnation proceedings to obtain the land. A court hearing is set for May 23 in the County Court at Law here. Under the right of eminent domain, the school district may condemn and take any property for school use it deems necessary, even though the owners do not wish to sell. The May 23 hearing will be only to set a value on the house and on the slightly less than four acres the estate includes. Sole tactic left to the property owners, if they wished to delay the district's taking over, would be to contest the value set on the land in civil court.

MISD's master plan calls for taking over most of the area from the current MHS campus to North F Street between Illinois Avenue and Tennessee Avenue. The value set by the court on the Hill property, said Schools Superintendent Dr. James Mailey Tuesday, "definitely" will set a pattern for purchasing other property in the area. While the district has money budgeted for the Hill purchase, obtaining the rest of the property in the area will have to wait until after the district passes a bond issue — expected sometime this year — to expand the high school and make other district improvements, said Mailey. Plans call for using the property from D to F streets — which includes the Hill estate — for practice fields for football, baseball, track and other sports. Property next to the current school campus from C to D streets will be used to construct a new gym and for parking lots, according to the master plan. If the bond issue failed after the district obtained the Hill property, Mailey said, the six-bedroom, 3½-bath home could be used "for school district offices," with the vacant land behind to be turned into parking lots for Midland High School. MISD officials have been conducting negotiations with Hill estate heirs through the First National Bank as executor since the death of Mrs. Hill in September 1977. Last offer made by the district for the property before suit was filed some six months ago was reported to be $225,000. The offer was rejected by the heirs. A panel of special commissioners appointed by the county court at law judge later appraised the property at $385,000. That valuation also was rejected by the heirs, said Randall Lundy, a lawyer representing MISD in this matter. The home, believed to have been built around 1902 by George F. Cowden, has been the center of controversy in the past. In the summer of 1976, the city, in an effort to widen Illinois Street, proposed to cut down a row of American elm trees lining the street in front of the home. Public pressure and the apparent fact that the land had not been dedicated to the city during the early years eventually resulted in an extant narrowing of Illinois street near the preserved trees. This time, however, the tide may not be stemmed. While Mailey said the school board "would consider any reasonable offer for good and valued use" from a group wanting to buy and move the home, Ada Phillips with the county historical society noted, "I don't know where we'd get that kind of money." The society had made some efforts to get a state historical marker placed on the home, but found there was not enough verifiable information about its origins to qualify, Mrs. Phillips said. Still, "there is historical value in the home. It's of a different period, and the Hills were a pioneer family in Midland. It certainly has historical value."

Carter says U.S. too timid to deal with oil problems

By The Associated Press

Energy problems are "sapping away the strength of our nation," and Americans have been unwilling or too timid to deal with the problem, says President Jimmy Carter. Carter's remarks came as some California drivers lined up for 12 blocks to buy gasoline at 99.9 cents a gallon, and New York Gov. Hugh Carey asked motorists to reduce their driving this month by 100 miles and ordered state agencies to cut their mileage by 5 percent.

Meanwhile, there are indications the government is partially to blame for the gasoline crunch in California, a federal official says. And there were signs of new pressure for a world oil price increase.

These and other energy worries add up to what Carter on Tuesday termed "one of the most serious threats to our nation in peacetime that I have seen."

Carter was to meet today with California Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. who Tuesday signed a law to keep gas stations open on weekends in an effort to make an even-odd rationing plan for the nation's most populous state workable.

Brown said state police would enforce his order, but added it would be hard to tell if a station was closed or simply out of gas. And he said it would be "totally inappropriate" for dealers to close their stations in a four-day protest against federal price controls.

"They misread the temper of the people if they think they can close down with impunity," Brown said.

Six outraged drivers in Los Angeles pummeled two station attendants when the station ran out of fuel. And four persons were injured when an 80-year-old man waiting in a gas line in North Hollywood suffered a seizure and lost control of his car.

Jim Campbell, the California Service Station Association official who spearheaded the protest movement, asked his members Tuesday to postpone the shutdown for 30 days "and listen to what the Energy Department has to say."

Department officials are considering whether to relax controls on gas dealers' markups. Currently, dealers are allowed an average markup of 7.3 cents per gallon — the 1973 rate — plus a three-cent allowance for costs.

Meanwhile, other dealer associations worried that a shutdown would spark customer reprisals or prompt the Justice Department to seek anti-trust action.

Water importation bill gets final OK in House

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A bill governing plans to bring Arkansas water to the Texas High Plains and as far south and west as Midland was approved today by the House. The measure creating the Ogallala Water Import Authority was sent to the Senate on a 112-28 vote. Land covering the Ogallala aquifer would be included under the authority's jurisdiction, except for Crosby, Dickens and Garza counties. The underground reservoir stretches under more than 40 counties, from Midland north to the Panhandle border with Oklahoma. Supporters say the water authority is needed because the vast agriculture lands of the High Plains will face a critical water shortage within the next 10 to 20 years. Arkansas has more than enough water to meet needs the Panhandle, proponents contend. The bill does not specify where the water would come from. If approved by the High Plains voters, the district would have authority to tax property and sell bonds.

Mishap kills Midland man

A 35-year-old Midland man died early today in a one-vehicle accident at the intersection of Interstate 20 and FM 1208, Department of Public Safety officials said. Robert Keith Sale of Route 1 was pronounced dead at the scene by Peace Justice John Biggs after he apparently fell asleep at the wheel about 12:45 a.m., DPS officials said.

Sale was eastbound on the service road of I-20 when the truck he was driving crossed the westbound lane, straddled 92 feet of guardrail and struck two cement pillars under the overpass of I-20, according to DPS reports. The only occupant of the truck, Sale was thrown from the vehicle, DPS officials said.

Housing for low income families a particular problem in Midland

EDITOR'S NOTE: Obtaining housing in Midland, whether by buying a home or renting an apartment, is becoming an increasingly complex problem, and one that will not be easily solved. This is the fourth in a seven part series examining the issue.

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

They call it "The Slums," "Tract 15," "The Flats." Located on the "wrong side of the railroad tracks," this area of land in the southern section of Midland is noted for its lack of growth, rundown areas, poor housing and predominantly black population. Just north of that and across the "tracks" is another similar neighborhood, known as "The Barrio." Its population primarily is Mexican-American.

They all have one thing in common — predominantly low incomes. Midland is noted for its affluency. Despite an "upper class air," however, Midland has its own share of poverty tucked away in far corners.

TO ACHIEVE THE city's average median income per household of $17,000, the wage earner(s) must bring in a total of $327 a week. The Texas Employment Commission, in a February issue of "Texas Labor Market Review," listed wages for various jobs. According to the figures for January 1979, those in oil field machinery made $319.12 a week; electricians and electronics workers, $208.68; apparel products, $130.59; other textile mill products, $187.71; leather and leather products, $138.35; and banking trades, $158.76. Adding to the large number of low income wage earners are older residents who live on fixed incomes, such as Social Security. John Van Veen, who worked on a regional housing study when he was with Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission, said the general thought is, "Those who have not tend to get in a worse position with inflation." "People in the south and east parts of Midland are put into a worse situation with inflation and higher costs of housing," he said. "The more the city builds north, the more it removes itself from those sections of the city." The PBRPC's housing survey conducted in 1977 and published in August 1978 shows a breakdown of standard and substandard housing by races. Under Anglos, 67.8 percent lived in standard housing, 28.2 percent had homes in need of rehabilitation and 4 percent had housing in need of being completely replaced. Mexican-Americans reported 33.7 percent in standard housing; 58 percent, substandard, and 8.3 percent, housing in need of replacing. Blacks had the highest ratio of homes in need of rehabilitation with 80.1 percent, 16.4 percent with standard housing and 3.6 percent in need of replacement. AN EMPLOYEE OF the Texas Department of Human Resources office in Midland noted that housing in much of the south and east sections of Midland is "substandard in quality but not in price." "The landlords charge what they want. If someone doesn't like the house, the landlord can just make them move and easily get someone else," said Terry White. And this is a major problem. Midlanders who are forced to rent have no leverage on the landlord...not in terms of forcing him or her to make necessary repairs to the home. Under Texas law, the landlord is required to keep areas used by all tenants in safe condition, to let tenants enjoy their homes without fear of the landlord coming in without permission and to tell the prospective tenant or tenants about problems in the apartment or house. The landlord — also under the Texas code — must not do the following: Keep a tenant locked out of his residence for any reason, cut off a tenant's utilities or keep the tenant's security deposit for more than 30 days after the tenant moves, evict the tenant, take property for back rent, take property after the tenant leaves, raise rent unless sufficient notice is given or refuse to rent a place to anyone on the basis of race, sex, national origin or religion. BUT LANDLORDS of rundown pieces of property in Midland realize people with little money have nowhere else to go, and some have failed to repair their housing. Not everyone labeled "low income" is on welfare. There are a number of wage earners in Midland who do not rank in the middle or higher income bracket. "We can't all be geologists or engineers," White remarked. Jack Dillard, director of housing and community development in Odessa, views society as needing "this labor base of dishwashers, bus boys, waitresses and maids. It's vital to (See LOW INCOME, Page 2A)

WEATHER SUMMARY

Warm weather is expected through Thursday for most of the country. Cool weather is forecast for the Northwest and Northeast and a band of showers is likely from the Southwest to the northern Plains. (AP Laserphoto Map)

A band of broken cloudiness stretching from the southern Rockies to northern Mexico is seen in today's satellite cloud photo, recorded about 3 a.m. A north-south cloud band covers New England. Considerable cloudiness in Canada extends southward into Washington, Idaho and Montana. Thunderstorms are visible in the central Plains. (AP Laserphoto)

Housing shortage not new to Midland woman

Strains of an old Hank Williams song drifted through the warm, stifling air in the small dwelling.

Sitting at a small chrome table in her improvised kitchen, which also doubles as a bedroom and television room, Lois Gray pulled a strand of graying hair back from her face.

"I've lived on this piece of land since 1948. We (she and her husband) homesteaded here," she said.

The small house came in sections. The first part — what is now the back room — was a pre-built room which had been "setting next to a gin on Mineola Street."

That much was acquired in 1948. Two years later, her husband and father added on the front room.

The low-ceilinged house has no air conditioner — just a fan for the hot months. There is a twin bed in each room. And the walls are lined with storage cabinets.

"If I didn't have things in their place," she chuckled, "I don't know what I'd do."

Mrs. Gray said she gets a minimum Social Security check, plus $31.40 a month supplementary income. Her gas and electricity runs about $30 a month. And taxes on her house last year amounted to $25, she said.

The house has sufficient room for her. But there is one problem: no running water. This means there is no sink for washing dishes, nor any bathroom.

The 71-year-old woman gets her water "from an outside spigot at the neighbors." She then puts water in glass jars in the refrigerator for drinking. And she washes her dishes out in large pans, she said.

Mrs. Gray has a water well in the back of her house. "I haven't been able to get water out of the well since 1970," she said.

"I finally got it cleaned out, but I need to buy an electric pump. That costs a lot of money, though," she said.

She then voiced the fear that the city will condemn her property.

But Joe Nuessle, city attorney, contended the city would not condemn a house and sell it while the owner is still in it.

Mrs. Gray said she's aware of the lack of low-income housing in Midland. Her sister and brother-in-law, who had lived next door for nine years, had to move recently. The house they had been renting was sold.

The couple was only getting Social Security and finding another place to live was not easy, Mrs. Gray said.

"The apartments cost more than they could pay," she said.

While the couple was looking, they had to move in with Mrs. Gray for a few weeks. They finally found a house for rent, but it's six miles out of town, according to Mrs. Gray.

The 71-year-old Midlander isn't worried too much about her small house. For someone who will celebrate her 72nd birthday May 31, she has no health problems.

"I haven't been to the doctor since before my husband died," she said.

chuckling. "He (the doctor) told me not to come back until I had all my teeth out." "Well," she said with a wide grin, "I still got three teeth left."

Low income housing needed everyone's community." Those receiving welfare, known as Aid to Families with Dependent Children, are usually women, White said. The average monthly payment in Midland is $99.61 per month.

"THIS ISN'T MUCH, especially when you look at housing," White said. "You can't exist on what we're giving. We're just supplementing their incomes to meet the basic needs." Average cost of housing for those on AFDC is $120 to $150 a month, according to White. And then some find places for $50 a month. "But often, there is no running water in these places and there is cardboard in place of glass panes at the windows," he said. "By the time people pay for their housing, it doesn't leave anything left from their monthly checks."

Among those receiving the aid, several are pregnant teen-agers who are no longer welcome in their family homes, said White. They don't have the skills for a high-paying job, he noted. Divorced women often are finding themselves having to go to AFDC "because their source of income is gone, if they have never worked," White said.

Even if the woman's house payment is only $200 to $300 a month, the divorcee can hardly afford it. And if she has small children who must be left at a day care center while she works, the woman doesn't have much money at the end of her paycheck either, said White.

In summary, he said, "there are a lot of people who are working and trying to make a living, but they need some assistance on housing."

THE AFDC OFFICE receives some complaints about housing in Midland, he said, but there is nothing his department can do about it.

Legal aid can only do so much for the tenant. "And they have to spend so much time in litigation. It's frustrating because it takes so long. Where do these people go? What are their rights?"

Those who work with low income people and housing can list names of what they call "slumlords." "These are the ones who feed off the lower income people," White said in defining the term. "Any area has this problem (with slumlords). Housing is a profitable business."

Susan Edwards of the Human Relations Council said she has seen enough situations in housing — both owned and rented — to say with confidence, "there is a problem and we need some relief in housing."

Relief to low income people in Midland usually comes in the form of aid to those who own houses, Christmas in April, which has been completed for this year, is the major local project of this kind.

WHILE DRIVING AROUND the south and east sections of Midland recently, Mrs. Edwards pointed out various examples of substandard housing.

"If there are no homes to obtain with income you have, you do one of two things," she said on a philosophical note. "You go out and try to make more money, or you get substandard housing."

But most people in that part of town are relegated to substandard housing.

Pointing to three small wooden cubicles with an outhouse in front — all located next to an elementary school — Mrs. Edwards said a few years ago people who rented those places were paying $15 a week.

"What concerns me is that there is a house in the city of Midland without indoor plumbing that is across from an elementary school," she said.

Sitting on its south Midland plot of land since 1948 is this two-room house owned by Lois Gray. Like many of Midland's senior citizens, Mrs. Gray lives on a fixed income and finds it difficult to keep up repairs on her two-room house. (Staff Photo by Mike Kardos)

"But where do you put these people if the landlord says to move out? What if the landlord agrees to shut down his rental property since it is not up to building standards? These people have no place to go," she added.

Christmas in April, administered by the HRC, is a volunteer housing rehabilitation project with the help going primarily to elderly and handicapped persons.

THESE HOUSES are owner-occupied and they must qualify in the "need" category, meaning the houses require repairs that affect the health and safety of the occupant, according to Mrs. Edwards.

There is no attempt to bring the house up to the city's standard building code, she said.

"Since it is a volunteer project, the attempt is made to fix the immediate need of the house, be it a water line, roof falling in or wheelchair ramp."

Work on the house usually is limited to one weekend a year at the end of April. This year the groups worked on 57 homes, in contrast to the usual number of 40 in past years.

"There are many kinds of housing needs in Midland," she said. "There are hundreds of owner-occupied dwellings that need repairs, and hundreds of renter-occupied dwellings that do not meet the city code and are in desperate need of repair."

"And," she continued, "There is a lack of habitable low income dwellings to buy or to rent."

ALTHOUGH FINDING housing is not one of the immediate purposes for Casa de Amigos, that well-known Midland agency does assist a tenant in getting out of certain situations. Or it occasionally may help a new resident find a place to rent.

Mary Hinkle, director of Casa, said the agency does not have much money to help people, but there are circumstances under which they will assist a tenant.

"Sometimes, if the wage earner of the family is hospitalized and there is no money coming in, we'll find the money to pay the rent and appease the landlord."

West Texas: Mostly cloudy with chance of showers or thunderstorms through Thursday. Fair over most other sections becoming partly cloudy with widely scattered showers or thunderstorms through Thursday. No important temperature changes. Only slim chance for rain forecast through Thursday

Some clouds and a chance of rain are on tap for the Basin tonight and Thursday, the weatherman said today.

Partly cloudy with a slight chance of thunderstorms was the forecast from the National Weather Service office at Midland Regional Airport.

High Thursday is expected to be in the upper 80s, with tonight's low in the mid-50s. Chances of rain are close to dismal, with the weatherman putting the probability at 20 percent, not likely to up the monthly rainfall total of Tuesday's high was a sunny 87 degrees. This morning's low was recorded at 56.

Longstanding record high and low temperatures for a May 15 are 101 degrees, set in 1937, and 42 degrees, set in 1945.

This morning's sunny skies spread throughout the Permian Basin, with most area towns reporting clear, cool weather.

Another day of warm temperatures — with some rain — was in the offing for Texans today.

The National Weather Service said temperatures would hit the 80s and 90s across the state and possibly pass the century mark in the Big Bend.

Tuesday's highs were about that. Presidio was Texas' hottest spot with its high of 97.

Winds across the state were southerly to southeasterly this morning, with wind speeds very light over the eastern sections.

Midland's sales tax take up over one year ago

AUSTIN — The city of Midland will be receiving about $35,000 more in its sales tax rebate for the month of May than it did a year ago, according to a spokesman with State Comptroller Bob Bullock's office.

Midland's payment should be $163,146.82, compared to $128,853.81 in May 1978.

This brings the Tall City's total payments for 1979 up to $1,304,513.28, a 13 percent increase over the $1,151,509.91 recorded a year ago.

Odessa also is getting about $30,000 more this month. Records put that city's rebates at $209,542.98, compared to $175,878.48 in May 1978. So far this year, Odessa will have received $1,854,612.43—compared to $1,673,270.42 a year ago, or a 10 percent increase.

Big Spring will only have a slight increase in its rebate for May this year.

That city should receive $24,949, compared to $24,069.93 in May 1978. Total for the year is $282,689.24, about a 3 percent increase over $273,088.57 received a year ago.

Optional 1 percent sales taxes are collected each month by city merchants and other permit holders and later are rebated to the cities.

Incensed solon lashes press

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Incensed by mention of legislators in a television study of local prostitution, Rep. Clay Smothers said Tuesday that all reporters should be banished from the House floor in the 1981 legislative session.

"We've got to do something, somehow, sometime," said Smothers, D-Dallas, who frequently has accused reporters of unfair accounts of his activities.

His personal privilege speech to the House was prompted, he said, by a reporter's statement in a KTBC-TV take-out on prostitution.

The reporter, Michael Turcot, said during the telecast that many of his sources had told him "the flesh trade gets a big boost every two years when the Legislature comes to Austin."

Smothers said he believed from media accounts before he was elected to the House in 1976 that legislators were "pretty rotten guys."

Since joining the House, he has learned to respect legislators, he said.

"None is low enough to succumb to what that jerk implied on what I saw on television last night," Smothers said.

KTBC-TV declined to comment. Smothers, a black, also said it was "disgusting" and "hypocritical" that there are no blacks among the Capitol press corps that pretends to be the voice of my people.

He said he hoped Speaker Bill Clayton would adopt his proposals for treatment of reporters covering the House in 1981.

These include, he said, denying floor privileges to all reporters and putting them in a press box in the gallery above the House floor; restricting television cameras to stationary mounts in the gallery; and censuring "any reporter who deliberately lies to me and my colleagues."

Protecting car buyers rejected

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — House members have turned down two attempts to give consumers new protections against auto dealers, while voting to extend the life of the Texas Motor Vehicle Commission.

The bill continuing the commission, which licenses new car dealers, advanced Tuesday on a voice vote and must be considered once more before it can go to the Senate.

The commission will go out of existence next year unless the Legislature and Gov. Bill Clements approve the bill.

House members eliminated, 72-61, a section that would prohibit a governor from appointing to the commission anyone who had contributed $1,000 or more to his campaign.

Rep. Matt Garcia, D-San Antonio, said it was "embarrassing" to impose such a restriction when every governor swears he has not promised any office to any supporter or contributor.

Rep. Lance Lalor, D-Houston, the sponsor, said the restriction resulted from testimony to the Sunset Advisory Commission.

He said the commission was told some state occupational licensing boards were packed with "pals of the governor" who were out of touch with both the regulated occupations and the public.

House members also rejected, 107-25, an amendment requiring dealers to give customers 30 days' notice before repossessing cars and to seize the autos only between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

"It's unconscionable to take your car late at night while you are asleep," said Rep. Jerry Benedict, D-Angleton, author of the amendment.

"Basically it means repossessions are not going to take place at all," Lalor said of the amendment.

The bill requires that two of the six commission members represent the public at large instead of new car dealers. It also requires quarterly status reports to consumers on the complaints they have filed.

Claude Brown recuperating after surgery

McCAMEY — Claude W. Brown, long-time McCamey oilman, banker and business and civic leader, is recuperating from by-pass heart surgery which he underwent recently in a Beaumont hospital.

He was released from the hospital Tuesday and will be in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Thorp at Beaumont for approximately 30 days before returning to his home here.

Brown is a past president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Permian Basin Petroleum Association, McCamey Lions Club and McCamey Chamber of Commerce. He also is a former mayor of McCamey. He is a former chairman of the Texas Industrial Commission, a director of the West Texas Utilities Co., and a member of the board of regents of McMurry College. He also has been active in TIPRO and other petroleum organizations.

Extravagant buyers

The visit which Japanese Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira made to Washington was a prosaic affair compared with the diplomatic fireworks attending the calls earlier this year by Egypt's President Anwar Sadat, Israel's Prime Minister Menachem Begin, and China's Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping (Teng Hsiao-ping).

But no bilateral relationship is more important for the United States than that existing with Japan, this country's linchpin in the Far East and one of its top trading partners. Not the least result of the prime minister's visit was that he tugged Americans from their traditional preoccupation with the Atlantic and Mediterranean worlds for an overdue update on Japanese developments.

It is not generally appreciated, for example, that Mr. Ohira's upset victory over Prime Minister Takeo Fukuda in last fall's Liberal Democratic Party primary was a sort of Far Eastern prologue to the ascension of Margaret Thatcher and her Conservative Party in England a few days ago. England's turn to conservative and moderate candidates had an earlier counterpart in Japan. The significant inference which may be drawn from this is that Japan promises to adhere even more closely to the sound economic policies that have brought unparalleled prosperity, a multi-billion-dollar trade surplus, and a sound currency.

Indeed, while President Carter and Prime Minister Ohira did not neglect to discuss mutual security arrangements in Asia, their chief topic was economic — how to reduce last year's $11.6 billion U.S. trade deficit with Japan. This, a major share of the overall $29 billion trade deficit which drained U.S. economic strength in 1978, was also a major factor in Japan's lopsided $25 billion trade surplus.

The prime minister hardly needed President Carter's warning that Congress might turn down the worldwide tariff-cutting agreement signed in Geneva last month unless the U.S.-Japanese trade imbalance could be eased. In fact, Mr. Ohira came laden with olive branches, promising "to open Japan's markets to foreign goods, particularly manufactured goods." He stressed Japan's economic cooperation is already bearing fruit — a trade surplus reduction of $2.7 billion in the first quarter from about $7 billion a year earlier.

The Japanese are managing this by loosening their complex, multilayered distribution system that inhibits imports and keeps prices of many domestic items artificially high. Japan erected this disguised tariff wall as a post-war strategy to rebuild its place in the world through exports, and to restrict imports in order to create a trade surplus and investment capital.

Japanese consumers, who have denied themselves cheaper foreign imports, have now earned a higher standard of living and will benefit directly from the increase of Japan's purchases abroad that alone can balance trade with the United States.

But, if U.S. sales to Japan are to approach U.S. purchases, there must be some American initiatives as well. Despite a cry-baby Washington attitude which primarily blames Japan for the trade deficit, some analysts say much fault lies with inept American business methods, including poor promotion and refusal to tailor goods for the Japanese market.

It should be remembered the U.S. trade deficit comes from too much buying as well as too little selling. Americans have become extravagant buyers, exceeding their production. Personal savings are 31 percent of private consumption in Japan compared with less than 6 percent in the United States.

It is said the friendly, conciliatory nature of Prime Minister Ohira's visit persuaded him against stressing these harsh realities to President Carter. Nevertheless, Mr. Carter should be ready with some answers because this country's other major trading partners will not be so gentle when they meet for the annual seven-nation economic summit to be held in Tokyo next month.

BIBLE VERSE

Keep yourself in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life. — Jude 1:21.

NICK THIMMESCH

It's SALT, what else, with a dash of pepper added

WASHINGTON—After the automatic but fleeting image of the white substance we use on our food, SALT, to most Americans, means an agreement with the Soviets which hopefully will protect this country and prevent a war, a slowing of the foolish strategic arms race, and the possibility of holding down defense spending. The Carter Administration argues that ratification of SALT II will meet these hopes, with the probable exception of keeping defense costs in line. A collection of national security interest groups, and a fair number of the senators whose votes decide, are skeptical, and want the treaty rejected. So the issue is drawn.

Since Strangelove, the Soviets and the U.S. have developed hundreds of billions in fantastic weaponry, enough to blow us all up an indecent number of times. The Soviets, who can't get enough of it, still, are anxious for SALT II. Soviet Leader Brezhnev, whose health slips like FDR's did in World War II, wants the treaty to help immortalize himself, and because he knows his people and their Communist comrades abroad want it. Besides, the Soviets lose nothing in SALT II.

President Carter needs SALT II because he can't afford a major political defeat, and he also knows without it, the arms race will go on expensively and recklessly.

So his administration argues across the Republic that: SALT II does not insure Soviet strategic superiority over the U.S.; the negotiation process was even more careful than that followed by Nixon-Kissinger in 1972; U.S. verification techniques, and not the Soviet's word, will ensure compliance; the treaty will slow the Soviet's program of speeding up development of even more weapons; Soviet-U.S.

HE NEVER HEARD OF VOLUNTARY CONTROL

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — When age or the electorate cancels their membership in Congress, most former members turn to familiar callings; they become lawyers, lobbyists, expeditors and fixers. But seldom has an ex-congressman found such a perfectly suitable outlet for his talents as has John Rarick, the rootin'-tootin' hifalutin' politico from Baton Rouge. Rarick appears to have become a flim-flam man and is being investigated for his insurance-selling approaches. The Louisiana Democrat is now peddling insurance. But Rarick is not your ordinary door-to-door insurance salesman; his hustle isn't that straightforward. Here's how Rarick's scam works: A prospect is called and told that former Congressman Rarick is holding on the line with an important message. If that piques the potential customer's curiosity and the call is accepted, Rarick is switched on and makes a pitch for conversion of whole-life, cash-value insurance policies to cheaper term insurance. But is it Rarick on the line? Of course not. At best, what the prospect hears is a tape recording of Rarick's voice, asking questions and spreading the term-insurance gospel. At worst — and this is the most blatant of the deceptions — it isn't even Rarick's disembodied voice on the tape. The telecomputer used in the sales pitch was produced by Carl King, president of Financial Planning Services of America and Michael Adler, head of Dycen International.

They admitted to an investigating New Jersey insurance commissioner that at least some of the tapes were spurious. Rarick's voice wasn't considered good enough, they explained, so they got someone else to pose as the ex-congressman. The subterfuge doesn't end with the telephone recording. If the prospect gives "Rarick" his name and address, he is sent a so-called report on life insurance, printed on stationery that looks like the official congressional variety. King and Adler told our reporter Frank Washington that the similarity was deliberate and done "to get attention." A relatively minor bit of hanky-panky involves another piece of promotional literature sent with the "report." Under an official-looking heading, "Hearings Before the Subcommittee on Anti-trust and Monopoly," it lists half a dozen segments of testimony taken out of context and giving the impression that the subcommittee's hearings supported term insurance over whole-life policies. Among those quoted are the late Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., and consumer advocates Ralph Nader and Virginia Knauer — none of whom Rarick would have been caught in the same room with during his congressional years. But he is proud to have their comments printed over his signature — or what appears to be his signature. A former House colleague, ex-Rep. Bill Gunter, now Florida's insurance commissioner, had this to say about Rarick's mailout: "John Rarick has a lot of brass to use congressional-looking stationery and invoke the

ART BUCHWALD 'Crunch of '79' caused by man tired of French food

WASHINGTON — Someday it will be known as the "Gas Crunch of '79." It all started when the Ayatollah Khomeini said, "I'm sick and tired of French food. I want to go home to Qum." Word was passed in Iran, and much to the surprise of the CIA, there were millions of Iranians in the streets shouting "Down with the Shah." The oil fields were shut down and one of the major sources of fuel in the Western world was shut off.

This called for a meeting of the other oil-producing states who said, "Thanks be to God, the Iranians are not pumping any oil. We owe it to ourselves to raise our prices at this time because you never know when another shah will fall again." When the news reached the oil company executives at the Petroleum Club, they all said "OPEC has done a terrible thing by raising its oil prices, therefore we owe it to ourselves and our stockholders to raise our prices as well. We may not see a windfall like this again for a long time." President Carter then went on the air and said that, because of the expected gasoline shortages brought about by a lack of conservation, he was decontrolling the price of oil in order to discourage Americans from wasting it. He promised that any excessive profits the oil companies made from decontrol would go to poor people.

The oil companies reacted strongly to this proposal, saying they would rather take the windfall profits and look for more oil which they were certain they could find if the price was right. Sen. Kennedy said President Carter had bowed to pressure from the oil companies for decontrols. President Carter replied, "Baloney." Strangely enough, this did not resolve the situation. By this time the media played its usual helpful role in contributing to the crisis. TV stations all over the country sent out mobile crews to film gas stations that were closed on Sundays. The public was suddenly thrown into a panic and everybody got in their cars and drove to the nearest pump to fill up their tanks. People who used to be happy with a quarter or half a tank of gas weren't satisfied until they had a full one. So there was twice as much gas in everyone's tank than before the panic. The price of fuel did not deter people from buying it. The higher it got the more desperate car owners became to find it. Husbands came home at night and berated their wives if they didn't find a full tank in their cars. Unleaded gas sold at a premium because Detroit had forgotten to tell Houston how many new cars with catalytic converters would be on the road. Gas station owners discovered that their previous monthly allotments would not last for more than three weeks. Long lines formed at stations and while people waited anxiously to get to the pumps, they burned up more gasoline than the entire Iranian shutdown had cut off. The Department of Energy was not asleep. It set up a hotline that consumers could call when they thought they were being gouged. Twenty-two gas stations were caught and severely punished. In the meantime, the DOE announced that the major oil companies had overcharged their customers an estimated $1.7 billion. The DOE said there was nothing criminal about this, but it would be nice if the oil companies gave back the money to their consumers. This made many Americans mad, and they decided that the oil companies had created the crisis to make more money. They all drove onto the highways, rolled down their windows and shouted "We're damn mad and we're not going to take it any more." The Ayatollah Khomeini is now back in Qum, oblivious to the fact that he originated the "Gas Crunch of '79." One of the main reasons is that he doesn't own a car.

U.S. Senate lauds Rhodesian elections

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lopsided Senate vote declaring that Rhodesia's recent elections were fair and open is increasing pressure on President Carter to lift trade sanctions and give the new regime de facto recognition.

The Senate made its judgment Tuesday in a 75-19 roll call on a resolution urging Carter to lift the sanctions within 10 days of the installation of a government headed by black Methodist Bishop Abel Muzorewa, the prime minister-designate.

Both Texas Senators, Democrat Lloyd Bentsen and Republican John Tower, voted for the resolution.

Supporter's of Rhodesia's "internal settlement" regime hailed the vote as a clear victory despite its non-binding nature.

They said it sends Carter an unmistakable signal.

Others called the action premature and said it is a "step backward" which will anger the nations of Black Africa.

Rep. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on Africa, said he believes no House action is likely until Carter decides whether Rhodesia has met conditions set by last year's Case-Javits amendment.

That amendment requires Carter to determine whether Rhodesia has installed a government chosen by free and fair elections open to all political and population groups.

Carter has promised to act by June 15, about two weeks after the scheduled transfer of power in Rhodesia.

Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., sponsor of the resolution urging Carter to lift sanctions, said the fact that 75 percent of the Senate voted for it proves it is more than symbolic.

"It is a signal, but it is also a threat because, frankly, if the new government is not recognized by the end of June, we are going to vote again and mandate it," he said.

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., sponsored a move to lift sanctions immediately but said he was delighted with the eventual outcome.

"Succinctly, the message that the president of the United States got was, 'Do it!'" Helms said.

He said British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher also got a signal from the Senate, a signal he said she was waiting for.

"There is no question Mrs. Thatcher is ready to go" to extend British recognition to the new regime, Helms said.

Sen. Paul Tsongas, D-Mass., told senators they had made a serious mistake.

"As time goes on it will come back to haunt us," he said.

Tsongas said Africa's black nations, most of them former colonies, believe white supremacists will continue to dominate Rhodesia under the internal settlement.

"These states view sanctions as a litmus test of what the United States is all about," he said. "So I do think we've taken a major step backward."

The sanctions against Rhodesia were imposed by the United States shortly after the government of Prime Minister Ian Smith broke away from Great Britain and declared independence in 1970.

In another development involving economic sanctions Tuesday, Carter announced he was clearing the way for resumed trade with Uganda, where Idi Amin has been ousted as dictator.

Carter said that Uganda, under a new government, "is no longer committing a consistent pattern of gross violations of human rights."

Thorpe witness admits to character defects

LONDON (AP) — Peter Bessell, the prosecution's star witness in the murder conspiracy trial of former Liberal Party leader Jeremy Thorpe, admitted under cross-examination he was a liar, a "discredited figure" and a "disastrous businessman" who fled to California.

But Bessell, a former member of Parliament and ex-friend of Thorpe, denied that he "embellished, exaggerated and lied" to make more money from selling his story alleging Thorpe and three other men conspired to kill Norman Scott, Thorpe's alleged homosexual lover.

Turk SALT stand said incorrect as reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — A report that Turkey insists on Moscow's approval before allowing U.S. spy planes into her airspace to monitor Soviet compliance with the SALT II treaty is "not correct," according to a top State Department official.

But Deputy Secretary Warren Christopher, just back from talks with Turkish leaders, declined to go beyond that general denial when pressed for specifics on Turkey's position.

Christopher appeared Tuesday before the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee on Europe and the Middle East to push for the administration's proposed $150 million in supplemental economic and military aid for Turkey.

Mobile force said planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph R. Biden says he has heard unofficially that the administration is considering setting up a mobile military force to defend U.S. interests abroad, particularly in the oil-rich Persian Gulf area.

The Delaware Democrat asked a State Department official Tuesday if he could confirm the "unofficial" reports reaching his staff.

But Walter L. Cutler, newly appointed ambassador to Iran, reiterated previous statements from top defense and diplomatic officials on the subject: The United States is considering the possibility of establishing some type of flexible military reaction to any outside threats to the nation's Middle East oil supply line.

South Korean defects to North

TOKYO (AP) — A South Korean army officer, Lt. Yun Chi-gi, has defected to North Korea, the communist government's official Korean Central News Agency reported today.

The report said Yun, a 24-year-old platoon commander in an engineering battalion, crossed the military demarcation line between the two countries on May 12 "at a time when the longing for the prospering socialist system of our country is growing among the South Korean people and the officers and soldiers of the ROK (Republic of Korea) army."

Jaipur mass murderer hanged

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A man who killed 70 persons with a hammer in two years was hanged in Jaipur, northern India.

"I have murdered in vain. Nobody should become like me," Kanpatimar Shankariya, 27, said as he went to the gallows at dawn Tuesday.

Police said he told them he killed because he enjoyed it.

Lebanon prime minister resigns

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Prime Minister Salim El Hoss resigned today to clear the way for a unity government that would try to restore law and order in the embattled nation.

Hoss, 50, who headed an eight-member cabinet for 29 months in post-civil war Lebanon, said he hoped his exit would help Christian and Moslem leaders to bury their grudges and band together in a spirit of national understanding.

Vietnam offers withdrawal

TOKYO (AP) — Vietnam will withdraw its troops from Cambodia if China cuts off its aid to ousted Cambodian Premier Pol Pot's guerrilla forces, a high-ranking Vietnamese official said here Tuesday.

Nguyen Van Linh, a member of the Communist Party Politburo, told reporters: "We, for our self-defense, were forced to attack Pol Pot aggressors supported by Chinese Peking authorities in the Cambodian territory."

Arabs stage walkout

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Arab delegates and their sympathizers at the U.N. Conference on Trade and Development stormed out of the convention hall today when Israel's delegate rose to read his country's position paper.

"We don't recognize Israel," said Hani Habeeb of Syria, who said the walkout included 20 Arab delegations or those of "all Arab countries except Egypt, which is not part of our group any more. It doesn't exist."

India to refuse refugees

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Morarji Desai told Parliament today his government will drive back refugees from Bangladesh, and "whether they are left in the wilderness or in cities" is not India's concern.

"It is certainly not possible for this country to go absorbing an indefinite number who come from Bangladesh," Home Minister H.M. Patel said. Patel reported Indian paramilitary forces "pushed back 23,904 illegal infiltrators" from Bangladesh in the past year.

Bangladesh is currently facing a major food crisis with a shortfall in food grains. A top U.N. official said last week he expects thousands of starvation deaths if emergency grain aid is not forthcoming.

Home for shah said found

LOS ANGELES (AP) — U.S. officials have quietly helped the ousted Shah of Iran find a home that can serve as a permanent asylum in Central America, The Los Angeles Times reported today.

The newspaper also said the U.S. officials are providing intelligence in order to help the shah's private security force defend against any assassination attempts.

Police expand roadblocks around San Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Police expanded their roadblocks around El Salvador's capital after terrorists killed three police officers and troops killed at least two demonstrators north of the city, raising the toll to 44 dead since May 4.

Two of the policemen were guarding the South African Embassy and were killed Tuesday night when at least eight guerrillas of the left-wing Popular Liberation Forces opened fire on them, seized their rifles and escaped in two cars in a hail of bullets from other officers.

Officials said they did not know if the guerrillas planned to raid the embassy. There had been rumors of a plot to kidnap South African Ambassador Archibald Gardner Dunn, who was inside the mission during the shooting but not harmed.

The other policeman was killed in a shootout with terrorists in downtown El Salvador, and the two demonstrators were killed in a clash with police during a protest in Limon province, 18 miles north of the capital, officials said.

There were also unconfirmed reports that three other demonstrators were killed by troops when a mob tried to occupy the church in Soyapango, on the eastern outskirts of El Salvador, and that Popular Liberation Forces guerrillas shot up the Costa Rican consulate in Santa Ana, 30 miles northeast of the capital, to punish Costa Rica for its "alliance" with the military regime of President Carlos Humberto Romero.

Defense Minister Federico Castillo Yanes said late Tuesday that the government has "hundreds of proofs" that the violence stems from "a communist plot that is seeking to take over political power through assassinations, terror, occupation of embassies and kidnappings of distinguished persons."

He added that "the armed forces are fulfilling their responsibility to assure respect for the constitution and if it is necessary the government will impose a state of siege." Under a state of siege constitutional guarantees are suspended for an indefinite period.

Leftist terrorists killed five policemen in El Salvador May 4-5, and burned six persons to death May 10 when they set fire to two buses north of the capital, government officials said.

The following day police killed four high school students near the University of El Salvador. Opposition sources said the four were putting up anti-government banners, but authorities said the four fired on police, who returned fire.

The biggest toll occurred May 8 when 23 demonstrators were killed by police outside El Salvador's cathedral, where they were marching in support of leftists who occupied the church to try to force Romero's government to release jailed leaders of the Popular Revolutionary Bloc, El Salvador's big worker-peasant opposition movement. A soldier also was killed in the shooting.

Bloc members are also holding the ambassador and five other hostages in the French Embassy and the ambassador and seven other captives in the Venezuelan Embassy in an effort to get the prisoners freed and the world spotlight turned on human rights violations in El Salvador.

The Costa Rican Embassy was taken over with the cathedral and the French Embassy May 4, but the Costa Rican ambassador and four other captives escaped May 7 and the militants got safe conduct and were flown to Costa Rica May 9.

The Bloc planned to place a plaque in front of El Salvador's cathedral Tuesday honoring the demonstrators slain there, but called it off when troops dispersed crowds of sympathizers and arrested several young men and drove them off in trucks with their hands tied.

"We are not ready for a massacre. We don't shed more blood," a Bloc spokesman told reporters.

Schoolchildren said killed for demonstrating in Africa

PARIS (AP) — An Amnesty International official says the reported killing of about 100 schoolchildren in the Central African Empire was part of "a violent repression of growing popular opposition" to Emperor Bokassa I.

"The children demonstrated, the parents demonstrated, some principals of the university demonstrated," said Edith Villain, vice president of the human rights organization's French division, in a TV interview Tuesday night.

She also claimed Bokassa, who seized power in a military coup in 1966 and made himself emperor in 1977, had his Imperial Guard arrest Information Minister Barthelemy Yangongo on April 8. She gave no details.

Amnesty International, which won the 1977 Nobel Peace Prize, charged Monday that about 100 schoolchildren who demonstrated against orders to wear school uniforms were suffocated, stabbed or beaten to death in April while in custody in Bangui, the capital of the former French colony in West Africa.

Tower sees defeat of Salt treaty

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, says opponents of the new strategic arms limitation treaty should be able to muster more than enough votes.

A total of 34 senators against the treaty with the Soviet Union would be enough to keep it from going into effect.

"I would say that the absolute optimum vote against would be 51," Tower, an opponent, said Tuesday. A more realistic estimate would be 41 or 42 against, he added.

He counted 26 Republicans solidly against ratification or leaning that way. The senator joked, however, that "all such estimates are subject to change without notice."

Tower, chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, held a news conference after the panel's weekly meeting.

Five Republicans are undecided, five are leaning toward ratification and five are outright supporters, he said.

Tower estimated the highest number of Democrats opposed to the treaty to be 20.

Among his reasons for opposing the treaty were its provision allowing the Russians to maintain defense systems the United States could not develop, the "break-out" capability it would give the Soviets at the treaty's expiration and the question of verification.

He said it is virtually certain that amendments will be offered to the treaty once it is presented to the Senate. President Carter and Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev are scheduled to sign SALT II next month in Vienna, Austria.

The Texas senator is the ranking Republican member of the armed services committee.

He said the committee probably will hold hearings on the military implications of SALT II as it did with the Panama Canal treaties, even though the foreign relations committee will be considering the treaty before it reaches the Senate floor.

Asked if the Senate's refusal to approve the disarmament pact would paint the U.S. as a warmongering nation and the U.S.S.R. as a proponent of peace, Tower replied: "I think that's terribly naive to suggest."

Texas' Democratic senator, Lloyd Bentsen, has not made a decision yet on SALT II.

"At this point I'm a skeptic," Bentsen said in a statement. "I'll have to be convinced that it will enable us to maintain a defense second to none and at the same time lead to a true reduction in the arms race."

Highbrow harmonica player breaks barriers

By ROBERT BARR

NEW YORK (AP) — For cruising cross-country in your Conestoga wagon, singing a hearty chorus of "Oh, Susanna," you would, of course, want a harmonica.

For a bathetic funeral on the lone prairie, a moody "Moon River," or for belting your blues, the harmonica is the instrument of choice.

For wheezing chords in the Bob Dylan manner, the harmonica, of course.

But if you perform classical music on the harmonica, you can count on two things: very little competition, and very little attention.

"It wasn't easy to penetrate into the music field — anywhere," says Chamber Huang, who thinks he may be the nation's only highbrow harmonica player.

Huang began playing the instrument at age 6 in his native Shanghai, China, and has been at it for 35 years.

"The harmonica brought me more serious music," he said in a recent interview, "and I am trying to see if I can express more serious music on it."

"Too many people play like this" — he ripped off a bouncy bit of "Oh, Susanna" — "and musicians will say, 'Oh, that's terrible.'"

"I thought that since I had technically developed the harmonica, why not do it right?"

Huang became interested in baroque chamber music, and studied the correct performance of the peri-od's elaborate musical ornaments.

"I thought that if I can become an expert in that style of music, perhaps musicians would look up at me, instead of down," Huang says. He says it with a smile, and there is no sense that he feels slighted or defensive because of his devotion to the humble instrument.

"They don't know what the harmonica is as a concert instrument," he says. "That's why I gradually went into chamber music repertoire, because I will be performing with other musicians on an equal basis."

Huang says that music for the flute or oboe is well within the harmonica's range. Taking his heavy, custom-made silver harmonica to Shanghai and Nanking in February, he played sonatas by three baroque masters, Bach, Telemann and Fasch, and a divertimento for harmonica by the contemporary German composer, Karl-Heinz Koeper.

Huang has high hopes for the harmonica in his native land, where it was suppressed during the Cultural Revolution.

"Because China is still economically poor, I suggested that China should have the harmonica as a 'people's instrument,'" Huang says. He says he hopes to return to China to teach harmonica teachers.

In this country, Huang has performed at Carnegie Hall, has spent several summers at the Grand Teton Music Festival in Wyoming, plans a series of master classes in New York, Kansas City and California, and leads a harmonica ensemble.

How do you move elephants? By jumbo 747 jet, of course

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — How do you transport 25 elephants from Africa to zoos and circuses in Europe and the United States?

By jumbo jet, naturally. Lufthansa, the West German airline, will load 15 young elephants into the after cargo hold of one of its Boeing 747 "combi" planes bound for Frankfurt today, along with 240 human passengers up front.

Ten more elephants will be flown out a week later. The animals have been culled from the herds in the Kruger Game Park and have been in quarantine there for a month.

"We're not quite sure how tame they are," said Lufthansa spokesman Anton van Zyl.

All are youngsters, weighing about 1,000 pounds each, van Zyl said. The airline is charging about $60,000 for the lot, or about $2,400 per elephant. The tourist fare up front is $755 a head.

The elephants will be roped to pallets so they won't bounce around the hold. But they will be standing up for the entire, 11-hour flight so they won't be drugged.

Endangered species project jeopardizes animals

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's costly effort to save endangered species from extinction is so poorly managed by the Interior Department that it threatens some of the very critters needing protection, the General Accounting Office says.

In a draft of a report scheduled for release in June, the GAO said in some cases officials deliberately kept species off the endangered list to avoid another Tellico Dam-type controversy.

GAO investigators charged that officials decided against listing species of the cave harvestmen (daddy long-legs) as endangered because to do so might halt work on the New Melones Lake project, a $375 million facility in California. The Environmental Defense Fund requested such a classification, saying completion of the project could result in the extinction of one species of the spider-like creature.

But the GAO report quoted the program manager as saying listing the cave harvestmen as endangered would "create another 'Tellico incident' where seemingly insignificant species would stop construction of a nearly completed dam."

The Interior Department, which administers the program through the Fish and Wildlife Service, specifically denied the allegation about the cave harvestmen, saying officials had decided there was not enough evidence to justify listing the species as endangered. They said the judgment has been vindicated with the discovery that the insect lives in other caves not threatened by the New Melones project.

The agency, which is spending $15.7 million on the program this fiscal year, also responded with a lengthy critique of the GAO report, which one spokesman characterized as a "burn rap."

In a letter to the GAO, Larry Meitro, assistant secretary for policy, budget and administration, wrote:

"I wish to make it clear that in our opinion the report is in need of extensive revision and the data are in need of extensive re-analysis before the report can attain an acceptable standard of accuracy and soundness."

Controversy over the Endangered Species Act heightened several years ago in a dispute that centered around the Tellico Dam in Tennessee and the snail darter, a small endangered fish species.

The Endangered Species Act prohibits work on federal construction projects that pose a threat to endangered plant and animal species. A court ruled that work on the dam must halt because failure to do so would threaten the snail darter with extinction.

Under pressure to provide more flexibility as a result of the Tellico Dam controversy, Congress last year passed legislation allowing exemptions under the Endangered Species Act.

In its study, the GAO said it found "serious management deficiencies" in the Interior Department-run program "jeopardized the existence of some endangered and threatened species and resulted in the possible selective extinction of others."

For example, the report said program officials: —Refrained from listing some endangered species, "thus jeopardizing their survival."

—Classified 95 species as endangered even though they did not face a high degree of threat to their survival.

—Listed 134 species facing only "medium or low degree of threat to their survival, while over 250 species facing a high degree of threat had not been listed."

—Listed geographically-limited populations of species as endangered or threatened even though they had not been endangered or threatened throughout their existence.

—Assigned an insufficient number of employees and an insufficient amount of money to determining the status of species.

—What are needed are major management improvements in the Fish and Wildlife Service's listing process, the report said.

Coors beer brings out the people

HARRISONBURG, Va. (AP) — If the Adolf Coors Co. made buttons or bows, it would have no problem getting public approval for a brewery, an attorney says. But the product is beer. And beer brings out the people — about 1,200 of them in fact.

That was the crowd estimate Monday night as residents packed a grassy courthouse square for a public hearing on a proposal to build a Coors brewery near here in Rockingham County.

The company has asked that 236 acres of agricultural land near Elkton in eastern Rockingham County be rezoned to permit possible construction.

"This is one of those opportunities that comes along once in a lifetime," said Harrisonburg attorney Henry C. Clark, representing Coors. "If it weren't for the moral issue, the brewing of beer, we wouldn't be here," said Harrisonburg attorney Henry Clark. "If this company made buttons and bows, or published books, we wouldn't be here."

No action will be taken on the request by the Rockingham County Board of Supervisors until mid-June. And even if it is approved, the county isn't certain of getting the brewery because Coors is considering another site in Anson County, N.C.

Rockingham County bills itself as the poultry capital of America and its chicken and turkey industry is a $40 million-a-year business, employing about 3,500 people.

A Virginia Poultry Federation official said the group hasn't taken a stand, but favors a thorough study of the proposal.

Coors has said it initially would employ about 1,000 people and increase that figure to about 1,500 when it reaches a 5 million barrel-a-year production rate.

Underground center used in radiation tests

ARGONNE, Ill. (AP) — Ten years ago a radiation testing center was established in Argonne to study women who had painted glow-in-the-dark dials on watches.

Many of the women were found to have developed blood diseases and suffered decayed jawbones after repeatedly moistening their paint brushes with their tongues.

Today scientists at Argonne National Laboratory are using the center and those tests to study workers who might have been contaminated in the nuclear weapons program.

At the request of the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, scientists at Argonne are checking persons exposed to radiation at more than 100 sites used in the nuclear weapons program and later abandoned.

The testing facilities are buried beneath 11 feet of earth and are lined with steel-coated lead to screen out natural radiation in soil.

Persons being tested rest in contour chairs while a gamma ray device measures radiation emitted from their bodies. Their breath and urine also are tested.

Marston to face ex-congressman

By The Associated Press

Philadelphians have nominated former prosecutor David Marston and former congressman Bill Green to face each other in that city's November mayoral election, and the citizens of Denver have voted to keep Bill McNichols as their mayor.

In Philadelphia, the question is who will succeed Mayor Frank Rizzo, the former police commissioner who has served two terms and is now barred by the city charter from seeking a third.

Unofficial returns showed Green winning the Democratic primary Tuesday against 10 others on the ballot by garnering some 201,000 votes to 158,000 for his nearest rival, Charles Bowser, an attorney making a second bid to become the city's first black mayor.

But a city judge ordered a recount of all ballots cast in 25 percent of the city's wards, where tally sheets in machines were aligned improperly, according to District Attorney Ed Rendell. Rendell called it "horrible preparation and negligence," but not fraud.

Still, Bowser said he would contest the outcome. Marston, 36, took the Republican nomination easily over three opponents. He is a former federal prosecutor who fought publicly with President Carter about the political spoils system as he was ousted as U.S. attorney last year by Attorney General Griffin Bell.

A Ford appointee, he had prosecuted on political corruption charges two of the state's most powerful Democrats and was looking into two more when he was removed from office.

Green, 40, had lost to Rizzo in the 1971 primary and resigned in 1976 from a congressional seat he had held for 12½ years in order to run for the Senate. He lost then, too, but carried Philadelphia by 300,000 votes. Democrats have a 7-2 registration edge over Republicans in the city.

In Denver, McNichols, 69, won a four-way non-partisan election with 57,981 votes, or 54.2 percent of the vote, compared to 39,983, or 37.4 percent, for Felicia Muftic, his nearest rival. Garry Mitchell got 7,523 votes, or 7 percent, and Harold Sudmeyer received 1,422, or 1.3 percent.

McNichols is chairman of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

The top three vote-getters are Democrats, Sudmeyer a candidate of the Socialist Workers Party.

Televising House action creating some problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressmen eager to be seen on local television are slowing up the work of the House of Representatives, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill says.

But problems caused by televising the action on the House floor will eventually be worked out, the Massachusetts Democrat said Tuesday.

O'Neill said there is "no question" that the presence of television cameras slows House action. "Sure it's held up Congress," he said of the month-old practice of making floor action available to television stations.

But he added that "the kinks will be worked out."

Former U.S. Attorney David Marston Tuesday won the Republican nomination for mayor of Philadelphia. He had only weak opposition in the city primary. Marston will compete with Democratic hopeful Bill Green, a former congressman, for the post now held by Frank Rizzo, who must retire after two consecutive terms. (AP Laserphoto)

Texas Senators suffer through two filibusters within 12 hours

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Time helped a Senate-minority block a presidential primary bill, but a post-midnight vote carried senators into their second filibuster within 12 hours — on a measure raising the legal interest rates on home loans from 10 percent to 12 percent.

At midnight, Senate rules cut off debate on a filing fee bill some senators feared could be broadened to set up a March 1980 presidential primary, two months before the regular party primaries.

Several senators, taking turns, had blocked a vote on the bill for more than 10 hours. After that measure was temporarily shelved, Sen. Bill Meier, D-Eules, moved at 12:07 a.m. to debate the controversial loan bill and won a 21-8 vote.

The Senate rejected five proposed amendments, then voted 17-12 to restrict debate to a single senator, Bill Patman, D-Ganado, a longtime crusader against higher interest rates.

"The floor's all yours," yelled Sens. Bill Moore, D-Bryan, and Tom Creighton, D-Mineral Wells. They clapped and jeered and walked off the floor, with Moore, shouting over his shoulder, "Excuse me, I'm going to go to sleep."

Patman was left virtually alone on the Senate floor at 1:30 a.m. He had come onto the floor at midnight, apparently after having rested, and put on fresh socks and jogging shoes about an hour later. He had two white bags on his desk and occasionally nibbled from them.

When Patman indicates he is ready to quit, other senators will be notified to return to the Senate, probably for a series of immediate votes that could send the loan bill back to the House for approval of Meier amendments.

The House passed bill by Rep. Jerry Donaldson, D-Gatesville, provides for a "floating" interest maximum. Lenders would be permitted to charge 2 percentage points above the average monthly rate for 10-year U.S. Treasury notes but no more than 12 percent.

The bill has a "Sunset" provision that says the new interest maximum automatically will expire on Sept. 1, 1981, unless the Legislature extends it.

One surprise was the vote of Sen. Lloyd Doggett, known as a consumer advocate, to bring up the bill. Doggett, D-Austin, told reporters he feared if interest rates were not allowed to rise above the current 10 percent usury limit, home loans would dry up.

A Patman amendment to prohibit the charging of "points" — or extra interest — to sellers or buyers was rejected, 19-10.

Another amendment to prohibit the charging of points to a buyer failed, 18-12.

Also rejected, 20-10, was a proposal to allow Texans to vote on a November referendum on whether they favored the higher interest rate.

"This bill has to be brought up at a time when most people are home asleep," said Patman.

"If you have anything to say that will shed any light on this dirty legislation of yours, I'd like to hear it," Patman told Meier.

Meier leaned back in his chair and smiled.

Patman accused Meier of "arrogance" in moving to cut off amendments before they had all been offered.

"This is a bill I'm afraid you'll never have pride in — if you vote for the bill," said Patman. "It's a horrible bill."

Will veto of proposal stand up?

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements' expressed hope Tuesday that the Senate will uphold his veto of a local game bill overridden by a 90-42 House vote.

If the Senate supports the override attempt by a two-thirds vote, the bill would be the first passed into law over a gubernatorial veto since 1941.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Bennie Bock, D-New Braunfels, would allow Comal County commissioners to set hunting and fishing regulations outside of the state uniform code.

Calling the Bock proposal "very poor management practice," Clements said, "It is a sad waste of time to spend more than an hour wrangling over a matter of this magnitude during the crucial final two weeks of the legislative session."

Clements supported statewide uniform wildlife regulations in his veto message Tuesday. "If the Legislature desires that there be no uniform regulation, then the Legislature should abolish all uniform regulations," he said.

Sen. W.E. Snelson, the Senate sponsor of the vetoed measure, said he was still checking votes late Tuesday for a possible Senate override. He added that a vote probably would be requested Wednesday.

Snelson, D-Midland, said he thought Clements incorrectly assessed the bill, because several counties already are exempt under state law from general game regulations.

"It's no crusade with me, but I think after the House action the Senate should be able to consider it and decide accordingly," Snelson said. He added that override attempts on other vetoed bills might be initiated if the present attempt is successful.

"I don't know what the next bill up would be (for an override) — possibly the appropriations bill," he said.

Initiative is rejected

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — With over two dozen members absent, the House has fallen short of approving a proposal to give voters the right to propose, pass and repeal laws by plebiscite.

An 89-33 vote Tuesday night kept the initiative and referendum proposal alive, but was shy of the 100 votes required for constitutional amendments.

The roll call indicated 27 House members were not present for the vote on one of the top issues of the legislative session that ends at midnight May 28.

Even if the House eventually approves the measure, its chances in the Senate — at least in its present form — are seen as poor.

Rep. Carlisle Smith, D-Grand Prairie, the sponsor, said the measure probably goes too far for Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who opposes initiative and referendum and holds the key to its approval or disapproval by the Senate.

"I can't tell you the lieutenant governor can accept anything that will mean anything," Smith said.

But Smith added that he believed Hobby "could position himself" to accept the House measure.

'Special treatment' by judges blamed

HOUSTON (AP) — Tension in minority communities and violence similar to Houston's Moody Park riot one year ago will continue as long as judges give police special treatment, said a spokesman for the League of United Latin American Citizens.

"I'm not advocating more Moody Parks, but there will be more and more of that kind of thing if something isn't done," San Antonio attorney Ruben Sandoval said Tuesday. "For so long, there's been a great laxity on prosecution of police officers."

His comments came during a news conference prompted by U.S. District Judge Finis Cowan's probation of five-year sentences given two fired Houston policemen for their convictions in the slaying of Randall Alan Webster.

Meanwhile, a third officer accused in the Webster case who was found innocent of all charges was ordered reinstated in his job with the Houston Police Department and awarded back pay by a state district judge.

"We have a bunch of gutless wonders on the bench," Sandoval said a day after Cowan probated the sentences of Danny H. Mays, 32, and Norval Wayne Holloway, 28. Sandoval is legal counsel for LULAC in Texas.

A jury declared them guilty April 4 of covering up the fact that Webster, 17, of Shreveport, La., was unarmed when he was shot following a police chase in southwest Houston.

The two also were convicted of lying to the grand jury that investigated the case.

Sandoval said LULAC was "appalled" at Cowan's "irresponsible" action, and compared this to the case involving officers convicted last year of violating the civil rights of Joe Campos Torres.

The three officers also were put on probation following their misdemeanor convictions in connection with Torres' drowning in Buffalo Bayou, which runs through downtown Houston.

An outcry from the Hispanic community also followed that action. The 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans has since agreed to consider in full a Justice Department request for stiffer penalties in the case after a three-member appeals court panel declared Sterling's action illegal.

"There is undeniably a dual system of justice, not only in this state, but throughout the United States," said Sandoval, a San Antonio attorney and legal advisor to LULAC.

Sandoval called for more careful screening of federal judgeships by the Congress. He said LULAC has requested and gotten a promise of assistance in this effort from Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Only through such improved screening "can we begin to weed out latent prejudices," he said.

Sandoval said LULAC's involvement in the civil rights case of a non-minority wasn't unusual. He said he knew of at least two other cases —one in San Antonio and another in Dallas.

Police Chief Harry Caldwell said the city would appeal District Judge John Compton's ruling Monday reinstating Paul D. Dillon in the job he held with HPD before he was accused in the Webster case.

Compton's ruling came on the appeal by Dillon of his firing by Caldwell, an action approved later by the city Civil Service Commission.

Thanks to ruling, justices avoiding new disclosure law

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supreme Court Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice William H. Rehnquist are, in effect, ignoring a new federal financial disclosure law thanks to a ruling by a lower federal judge in New Orleans.

Before U.S. District Judge Robert Collins could issue his order Tuesday afternoon, however, six Supreme Court justices complied with the Ethics in Government Act by making public detailed financial statements for the first time in the court's history.

The court's ninth member, Lewis F. Powell Jr., has received permission to file his statement one month late.

Burger and Rehnquist reportedly had planned to release their financial statements about 5 p.m. EDT. But Collins' order clouded the situation.

Collins made his ruling after six federal judges from southern states charged the ethics law breached constitutional provisions for separation of powers in the federal government when applied to judges.

Collins' emergency order apparently is being obeyed by other federal judges also. Congressmen and other federal officials are required by law to report their finances. The order did not affect them.

It is likely the federal government soon will go to court in an attempt to have the order removed.

Of the six justices who filed their statements Tuesday, Potter Stewart is by far the wealthiest.

A 12-page financial disclosure by Stewart showed that in 1978 he and his wife, Mary Ann, received between $86,500 and $233,000 in income from trusts, capital gains, rents, royalties and dividends from a substantial stock portfolio.

Figures are not exact because the disclosure form indicates only ranges in which amounts fall instead of giving specific amounts.

The Stewarts' total assets, listed separately, fall somewhere between $1.2 million and $2.1 million.

The new law requires all high-ranking government officials to list all sources of significant income and, within the specified ranges, the dollar amounts from those sources. It also requires listings of assets and liabilities.

The Stewarts' income figures did not include his $72,500 annual court salary. The listed assets did not include his Washington home, the value of which is not required to be reported under the federal law.

All eight associate Supreme Court justices earn $72,500 a year. The chief justice earns $75,000. All nine were appointed for life, and would receive full salary if they decide to retire.

Financial reports submitted by Justices William J. Brennan Jr., Thurgood Marshall, Harry A. Blackmun, John Paul Stevens and Byron R. White were pale compared to Stewart's.

Powell, however, is believed to have amassed a considerable fortune during his years as a leading Richmond, Va., lawyer. Stewart and Powell often disqualify themselves from considering cases involving oil company interests.

In his financial statement, Stewart listed holdings in Standard Oil of Indiana floating rate notes and Husky Oil Ltd. A trust established by Stewart's late uncle, from which the justice receives $2,500 to $5,000 in annual interest, holds shares in Mobil Corp.

In addition, Stewart collects royalties from Koch Oil Co., United Texas Petroleum and The Permian Corp.

The financial statements filed by the five other Supreme Court justices show:

—Brennan: Total assets of from $10,000 to $30,000 in two accounts, the U.S. Senate Federal Employees Credit Union and the Municipal Investment Trust Fund. In 1978, interest from each account was less than $1,000.

Corruption still capital crime

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — "Corruption of Earth," the charge that has sent scores of Iranians before firing squads, will continue to be a capital offense, Tehran's revolutionary court prosecutor said today, despite Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's announcement that only crimes involving murder would warrant death sentences.

Ayatollah Azari Ghomi, told a reporter that in addition to murder and being an accomplice to murder, those found guilty of the corruption charge could face the death penalty.

His announcement appeared to contradict what Khomeini, Iran's national and political leader, said Sunday. Khomeini said the Islamic Court could no longer sentence people to death for political crimes unless murder was involved.

The wide-sweeping corruption on earth charge, has been levelled against almost every defendant since the revolutionary courts started their proceedings after the Islamic uprising that ousted the monarchy in February.

The additional charge was expected to result in more executions of officials and supporters of the old regime.

The Midland branch of the American Association of University Women has presented the Frances Sidwell Creative Writing award to Midland High School student, Dirk Beveridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Beveridge.

Dirk is co-editor of the Midland High School paper, "The Bulldog," and more than six of his works are included in the 1979 edition of "Candle in the Wind," the MHS literary magazine. He has won first through third places in editorial and headline writing in both district and regional UIL journalism competitions in 1979, and competed in the state finals in Austin, at which he won fourth place in headline writing.

In addition, Dirk is a musician and composes music and writes lyrics in rock, blues, country and folk music.

EMERSON ELEMENTARY PTA will hold a Teacher Appreciation Luncheon from 11 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. Thursday in the school library, according to Joe Cummins, principal. Approximately 15 parents are involved and they will bring food for the luncheon.

ANNUAL BABY REUNION will be held June 2 in Odessa's Progressive Park, across the street from Odessa Women's and Children's Hospital.

All babies born at OWCH since June 1, 1975, and their immediate family members are invited to attend, according to Frances M. Gunkel, R.N., OWCH baby alumni chairman.

It will be a fair atmosphere, said Gunkel, with balloons, special awards, decorative signs and booths, food, animals and clowns.

For further information, contact Gunkel at OWCH, 332-8101, extension 245 or 246 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

TRENDA J. LYNCH of Midland is among 500 students at Texas Eastern University to earn degrees during the past year. She completed work in the summer 1978 on a bachelor of science degree in nursing, with a major in nursing.

MUSEUM OF THE SOUTHWEST is sponsoring June 5 a Las Manos mini-tour. The one-day Fort Worth excursion will include the famous Water Gardens, the Amon Carter Museum, Kimbell Art Museum, Japanese Gardens, Botanical Gardens and a tour of the Log Cabin Village. The latter is complete with operating grist mills and candle factories.

Participants will depart at 6:55 a.m. June 5 and return the same day at 5:40 p.m. Included in the $90 fee is roundtrip air fare, sightseeing via motor-coach and all entry fees to parks and museums, said Leila Seal, spokesman.

For more information and reservations, contact Mrs. Seal at 683-2882.

KAREN ELIZABETH ROOKER of Midland has graduated from Texas Tech University in commencement exercises held May 12 at the school.

Miss Rooker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M.C. Rooker, received a business administration degree in marketing.

Attending the graduation ceremonies were her parents and brother, Chris Rooker.

Karen has accepted a job with Scientific Products Division of American Hospital and Supply in Grand Prairie.

Before leaving Lubbock, she was one of several honorees at a graduation party hosted by the Roy Grimes family there.

MR. AND MRS. LEE MAJORS of Midland, of Sam L. Majors Jewelers, attended the 1979 American Gem Society Conclave held recently in Washington, D.C.

The five-day educational event was launched this year with a Congressional reception at the renowned Corcoran Gallery of Art.

At this gala affair, AGS president Sallie Morton presented the American Gemstone Jewelry Collection to the Smithsonian Institution. The collection, designed by award-winning designer Aldo Cipullo and manufactured by AGS jewelers, will tour the country several years before retiring to the famous Smithsonian Hall of Gems and Minerals.

Tie news...
Style narrow, choice wide

NEW YORK (AP) — Ties and shirt collars, those barometers of change in men's fashion, are continuing to read narrower and shorter for spring, Father's Day and beyond, according to Gerald Andersen, executive director of the Neckwear Association of America.

"A whole new fashion element has been added this season," he says, "with the focus in men's wear concentrating on the new variety of shirt collars being offered."

Likewise, narrower neckties continue to be in the fashion forefront, as new widths and fabric variations have been introduced to round out the picture, he adds.

"Men are demonstrating greater flexibility in constructing their wardrobes," Andersen points out. "They are more likely today to wear several different shirt collar styles, depending on the occasion. Selecting the appropriate neckwear to complement this new variety takes on new dimension."

The big news in men's spring shirts is the smaller collar offered in a variety of shapes, for both formal and relaxed wear. Similarly, in neckwear there are two attitudes, a very dressed-up classic look and a new casual look which involves the wearing of ties, Andersen says.

As the length of collars shortens, style trends indicate there's apt to be a narrowing of tie widths. In the past two years ties have gone from 4 1/4 inches to the present mainstream look for spring of 3 1/4 inches, the association's analysis of neckwear markets around the country shows. Fashion-conscious or avant-garde men will be sporting ties as narrow as 2 inches.

Spring tie fashions emphasize a variety of textures. Rough silks, nubby cottons and cotton knits are some of the new fabric looks being offered. Combine these textured looks, and patterns such as warm plaids, with the less formal collar styles, the straight point and button-down.

With some of the more dressed-up collar styles, the spread type and round-point collars, men will need to coordinate their shirts with more classical neckwear. Classic neats, Andersen says, are a very important look for spring, with colors running more toward the brighter hues than in previous years.

Neckwear worn with sports shirts is also becoming a most important fashion look for men. A paisley, neat or rough-textured solid tie will best complement plaid and check shirts.

ABERDEEN, S.D. (AP) — Mildred Baker of Aberdeen is an artist of sorts, but her work usually ends up crumpled on a bar-room floor. Mrs. Baker — a 47-year-old grandmother of 10 — makes costumes for touring strippers.

Her seamstress career for dancing women began about six years ago when she got a part-time job at an Aberdeen lounge. There she got to know several of the strippers and they told her about the large amount of money they paid for costumes.

Mrs. Baker didn't see a lot of competition in this career, and she had been sewing most of her life, so she decided to give it a try.

"I spent almost two years watching and talking with the girls," she said. "Sewing is really a small part of it."

"You have to see what colors match under the lights, and also pay attention to the material and durability of the costume. And the dancer has to be able to put it on and take it off gracefully."

"Basically I guess you'd call them all strippers, but there are different categories," said Mrs. Baker, describing them as ranging from the lowest-paid go-go girls to show girls who perform intricate acts and skits with more elaborate costumes.

"Why, you just wouldn't believe some of the stuff they put on — and take off. They dress up as cowboys, Indians, parlor maids, just about anything."

Since she has started making costumes, Mrs. Baker has gotten to know many of the dancers very well and says they are just as ordinary as the girl next door.

"These are just the nicest, prettiest girls that you'd ever want to meet," said Mrs. Baker. "They're very respectful, and they always call me Mrs. Baker. Except my best dancer friends call me mom."

"It's kind of a shame some of these girls are looked down on," she said. "Some of them are earning money during the summer so they can apply themselves more to their studies in college. They make more doing this in one week than they would in a month as a waitress."

Ronda Fairchild, 20, left, and Saul Herrera, 19, both clients at the Cerebral Palsy Center, are being honored by the Children's Service League at a graduation party held at the center. Miss Fairchild and Herrera are graduating seniors at Lee High School. The two honorees began coming to the center before the age of one. Ronda has been answering the switchboard at a Midland business for nine months, and Saul will attend Midland College to major in radio-television. He wants to be a disc jockey. (Staff Photo)

Garden club has officer installation

Diane Dow was hostess to a meeting of Sand and Seed Garden Club when officers for next club year were installed.

Sharon Dunnam, outgoing president, installed Frankie Stanley, president; Peggy Hawkins, first vice president;

Gretchen Parsley, second vice president; Mary Kay Owens, recording secretary and reporter, and Joy Boes, corresponding secretary and treasurer.

The club also welcomed a new member, Margaret Perryman. It was announced that Barbara Drake will be the new liaison officer between Midland garden clubs and the Lancaster Garden Center. Mrs. Drake is a former coordinator of the center.

In a horticulture report, Kay Fields noted that because of the high salt content in the soil and water here, many plants will benefit from an application of iron in early June.

Judy Leisk was introduced as a guest.

Following the installation of officers, members enjoyed a luncheon at Ranchland Hills Country Club.

The club will resume meeting in September.

Three sisters recently had a reunion after a 51 year separation. Mrs. Lily Hazlewood of Stanton, standing, had visiting her, two sisters, Jean Cahn of Kingman, Ariz., seated right, and Ferne Padgett of Clinton, Ky. The three sisters were last together in 1928 at their mother's funeral.

Volunteers plan picnic

Midland Volunteers to Big Spring State Hospital planned a picnic for the patients June 12 at a recent meeting.

A new member, Mrs. Reed Collins, was welcomed into the group. Special guest was Lixeen Weaver, state secretary.

The hospital is in need for more volunteers now. Persons interested can contact Mrs. Tup Ferguson at 683-3085. Volunteers are involved in a variety of activities, including reading to the patients, conducting card games and dominoes, heading making-up classes, and providing services such as manicuring, cosmetology, etc.

GENERAL TENDENCIES. A number of problems can appear before you today that require a quick solution. Look at them objectively and do not do what is rash and impulsive but what is constructive and sensible. Misunderstandings can occur unless you use self-control.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make sure you really understand what friends mean when you talk to them today. Being forceful with them could lead to trouble.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Take care you do not risk a higher-up and lose favor with this person. Analyze credit position and improve it in some way. Don't take risks where health is concerned.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You want to run out to new outlets, but take it easy for best results. Be sure of what you are doing. Use good judgment and size your bunches are not good now.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't renege on a debt you have to pay. Mate may be annoyed with you, but he or she is under pressure of some sort.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Come to a better understanding with others and forget mundane duties that can be postponed for a while. Take time to handle a civic matter and derive benefits from it.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are able to handle routine work efficiently now, so get an early start. Have more harmony with associates by being cooperative.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Set up appointments early with friends for the recreation you want to have later. Get into work that will bring you fine benefits.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Handle fundamental matters efficiently and get the results you want. Find the right way to make conditions at home better. Invite a dear friend to dinner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) The right day to go after the information you may need to better your position in life. Make visits you have in mind, but use diplomacy in dealing with others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can easily gain the goodwill of a bigwig who can help you to advance more quickly in your career today. Improve property by making needed repairs.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are busy and need to get things done, but don't be too short and sharp with others. Take a little time to be with friends or you may lose them.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can delve into whatever has been puzzling in the past and come up with the right answers at this time. Confer with a trusted adviser. Get boring chores out of the way.

Parliamentary officers named

The Permian Basin Unit, National Association of Parliamentarians, met recently in Midland with Mrs. W. F. Johnson, president, of Hobbs, New Mexico, presiding. Vyola Stroman of San Angelo presented the program on "Reconsider" in the form of the "Twenty Questions" game.

Miss Stroman also reported on the state convention of the Texas State Association of Parliamentarians held earlier this month in Fort Worth. Mrs. Johnson announced that the scrapbook from the unit received a number one rating and that the group received a blue ribbon, mace and seal at the convention.

Officers elected for the year include Miss Stroman, president; Auline Brausel, vice president, Odessa; Ada M. Spivey, secretary, Midland; John V. Slyker, Midland, treasurer.

New chairmen are Mrs. Taylor E. Bowers, extension, Midland; Mona Deland, historian and reporter, Odessa; Mrs. Harold D. Lovett, program, Midland. Mrs. Johnson was appointed parliamentarian. Pat Campbell, Mrs. Bowers and Mrs. W. H. Lee were appointed to audit the treasurer's book.

Four new members named to the group were J. Wayne Campbell, Nova-Lynn Campbell, Tyler Tindall and Gary Spicer, all of Midland.

DEATHS

Rosie Hollaway

CROWELL — Services for Rosie Hollaway, 87, were to be at 4 p.m. today in the Assembly of God Church here with the Rev. Bobby Argo officiating. Burial was to be in Crowell Cemetery directed by Womack-Manard Funeral Home.

She was the sister of Sam Howard and Selton Wilson, both of Lamesa, and Truman Howard of Big Spring.

Mrs. Hollaway died Monday in a Crowell nursing home after a lengthy illness.

Born Nov. 24, 1891, she was a life-time resident of Foard County. She was married to William T. Hollaway Sept. 20, 1916, in Vernon. She was a member of the Assembly of God Church.

Other survivors include her husband, three daughters, two sons, a brother, 16 grandchildren and numerous great- and great-grandchildren.

Vicki Weaver

BIG SPRING — Services for Vicki Weaver, 23, of Big Spring were to be at 3:30 p.m. today in Nalley-Pickel Funeral Home with burial in Trinity Memorial Park.

She died Tuesday in an Odessa hospital following a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Weaver was born Oct. 28, 1955, in Big Spring and was reared there. She attended Big Spring schools and was a member of the East Fourth Baptist Church.

Survivors include a daughter, Marel Dawn Weaver of the home; her mother, Mrs. N.L. Patterson of Big Spring; five brothers, Norman Leon Patterson Jr. of El Paso, Kenneth Patterson and Larry Dale Patterson, both of Midland, Kevin Jay Patterson and Tracey Lee Patterson, both of Big Spring; a sister, Shelley Ray Patterson of Big Spring; a paternal grandmother, Mrs. K.A. Patterson of Azle; and a maternal grandfather, E.L. Sheppard of Azle.

Carlos Whitefield

IRAAN — Services for Carlos Bethel Whitefield Sr., 84, of Iraan will be at 10 a.m. Friday in the Methodist Church here. Burial will be in Resthaven Cemetery in McCamey under the direction of Larry D. Sheppard Funeral Home.

Whitefield died Tuesday in a McCamey nursing home after a lengthy illness.

He was born April 21, 1895, in Tennessee. He was married to Bessie Rose Meyning. He had lived in Iraan 52 years. He was a former constable, a veteran of World War I and past master of the Iraan Masonic Lodge.

Survivors include five daughters.

Castro Mexican visit said irrelevant to U.S.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Fidel Castro on his first visit to Mexico in 23 years is seeking closer trade and cultural relations, but officials insist this need have no influence on Mexico's troubled relations with the United States.

"Mexico has always maintained a totally independent attitude toward the United States whenever Cuba is concerned," one diplomatic observer said.

The Cuban president arrives Thursday for two days of talks with President Jose Lopez Portillo on the resort island of Cozumel, off the Yucatan Peninsula.

A Cuban diplomat describes the visit as "one mixing politics with a lot of nostalgia." Castro was last in Mexico as an exile in 1955-56 and sailed from Tuxpan on the invasion that resulted in the overthrow of Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista on New Year's Day 1959.

Mexican officials say Castro and Lopez Portillo probably will discuss boosting trade and cultural relations between their countries, Cuba's alternately improving and worsening relations with the United States, international affairs, the world energy crisis and oil.

Cuba, which had a $20-million trade deficit with Mexico last year, wants Joyce McMillan of Midland, Sue Meyers of Fort Stockton, Bessie Schenk of New Orleans, La., Jean Gray of Artesia, N.M., and Gwin Ramsey of Iraan; three sons, Carlos Bethel Whitefield Jr. of Fort Stockton, Bill Whitefield of Kermit and Royce Whitefield of Midland; a sister, Timie Rex of Klondike; a brother, Estin Whitefield of Snyder, 31 grandchildren and 29 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. John Blanks

FORT WORTH — Services for Mrs. John Blanks of Fort Worth, mother of Mrs. Jessie Powell of Midland, are pending in Fort Worth.

Mrs. Blanks died Tuesday in a nursing home here.

Other survivors include two sons.

Frank A. Nickens

McCAMEY — Services for Frank Adair Nickens, 63, will be at 2 p.m. Thursday in the First Baptist Church with burial in Resthaven Cemetery directed by Larry Sheppard Funeral Home.

Nickens died Tuesday in a Big Spring Hospital.

He was born Nov. 22, 1915, at Willis Point. He had lived in McCamey 50 years. He was married to Catherine Lee. He was a Methodist. He was a veteran of World War I.

Survivors include his wife; a daughter, Laura Adair Gour of Mojaca, Spain; a son, John Keith Nickens of Baton Rouge, La.; two brothers, Herman Nickens and Jack Nickens, both of McCamey; and five grandchildren.

Tomas Fuentes

CRANE — Services for Tomas M. Fuentes, 70, of Crane will be at 9 a.m. Thursday in Crane Catholic Church. Burial will be in Crane County Cemetery directed by Larry D. Sheppard Funeral Home.

Mrs. Fuentes died Monday in an Odessa hospital after a lengthy illness.

She was born Dec. 22, 1908, in Presidio. She was married to Pedro Fuentes in 1920 in Big Lake. He died March 28, 1972. She was a Catholic.

Survivors include two daughters, Gloria Hill of Odessa and Margaret Flores of Crane; six sons, Fidel Fuentes, Manuel Fuentes, Salvador Fuentes and Simon Fuentes, all of California, Victor Fuentes of Odessa and Silerio Fuentes of Tennessee; five sisters, Paz Ybarra of Amarillo, Martinea Subia of Big Lake, Santos Sanchez of Fort Stockton and Manuela Martinez and Juesita Molina, both of McCamey; 41 grandchildren and 31 great-grandchildren.

Fidel Castro

go Roel threw cold water on speculation that Lopez Portillo might propose shipping Mexican oil to Cuba if a like amount of Soviet oil was diverted from Cuba to Spain, which buys oil from Mexico.

This would save Cuba and Spain considerable transportation costs, but Roel said the speculation was unfounded, and "we have no reason to involve Spain in our arrangements."

Mexico, with its mixture of private enterprise and huge state-owned companies, has been a steadfast friend of Castro in the 20 years he has been in power, often to the dismay of the U.S. government.

When other members of the Organization of American States broke diplomatic relations with the Castro regime and imposed an economic blockade on Cuba in 1967 at the urging of the United States, Mexico refused to go along and continued its ties and trade.

For a long time airline service between Havana and the Mexican capital was the only air link Cuba had with the outside world.

"It was an oxygen-carrying tube that permitted Cuba to survive the worst aggression a country has suffered in this hemisphere," a top Cuban official said at the time.

Presidents Adolfo Lopez-Mateos and Luis Echeverria invited Castro to visit them, but he declined both invitations. However, he sent President Osvaldo Dorticos for a state visit with Lopez Mateos.

An analysis

Mexican goods and materials to develop its industries. But it wants them at preferential prices to narrow the deficit.

"Castro is coming to ask, not offer anything," said a Mexican trade official who asked anonymity. "Since last year they have been asking for increasingly greater quantities of yarn, electric transformers, pumps, auto parts, containers, fuses, black frijole beans and other products they traditionally buy from us."

Mexican exports to Cuba last year totaled $22 million, but its imports of rum, cigars, reading material and nickel came to only $2 million. The Mexicans are interested in buying more nickel and other metals to feed their huge industrial expansion program.

Once a poor country with an uncertain future, Mexico is now in a position to help Cuba because of its new oil wealth. Whether it decides to or not may be decided during the talks, one diplomat said.

Silkwood jury ponders

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Jurors in the Karen Silkwood trial go into their first full day of deliberations today, trying to decide whether the atomic fuel manufacturer for which Miss Silkwood worked should be held liable for her contamination with plutonium.

They are making their decisions unaware of attempts by the company to introduce testimony about Miss Silkwood's sex life, and about allegations she was involved with drugs and had attempted suicide.

U.S. District Judge Frank This instructed jurors on the law and sent them to begin deliberations shortly before noon Tuesday. The jurors were sequestered in a downtown motel at about 5:30 p.m. and were to resume deliberations this morning.

While they were aware of a number of in-chambers conferences during the 47-day trial, they were prevented from knowing that much of those discussions concerned evidence submitted by Kerr-McGee Corp. about Miss Silkwood's private life.

Bill Paul, Kerr-McGee's chief counsel, refused comment late Tuesday on the excluded evidence. But in chambers, he had argued determinedly — if in vain — to get the evidence admitted.

This, however, found it would be prejudicial to admit testimony about Miss Silkwood's sex life, two alleged suicide attempts and evidence concerning marijuana.

The judge issued an explanatory memo, saying, "Silkwood's lifestyle is not on trial in this case."

Miss Silkwood's survivors sued

Karen Silkwood

Kerr-McGee for $11.5 million, alleging company negligence caused her contamination. The company claimed she stole highly toxic plutonium from the plant and accidentally contaminated herself and her apartment in an effort to embarrass the company.

Miss Silkwood died in a single-car crash the week after the contamination incident in 1974.

During the decontamination of her apartment, a sheet of paper was found that Kerr-McGee lawyers claim shows she was selling marijuana. The judge barred that evidence from the trial and also excluded proposed testimony from her former boyfriend that Miss Silkwood and a roommate purchased a pound of marijuana and sold some of it.

Kerr-McGee also unsuccessfully fought to introduce testimony about two alleged suicide attempts. In his memo, This said, "Neither purported suicide attempt is medically documented."

He said other means could be used if Kerr-McGee wanted to establish a pre-existing emotional condition that might have aggravated Miss Silkwood's distress when she became contaminated.

"As defense counsel ultimately conceded in chambers during argument on this point, much of this evidence has been presented to show Silkwood's instability, impulsiveness, lack of responsibility and her unreliability," the This memo said.

But the judge said federal rules prohibit the use of such character evidence to lead the jury to believe someone who was prone to deviant behavior might be likely to steal plutonium.

Other testimony during the case concerned Miss Silkwood's attempts to gather documentation of her claims that Kerr-McGee was falsifying nuclear fuel rod quality reports. On the night of her death, Miss Silkwood was en route to meet an Atomic Workers union official and a New York Times reporter to deliver evidence of her claims.

The documents she purportedly was carrying never were found, and Silkwood lawyers were unsuccessful in attempts to introduce testimony they say shows Kerr-McGee officials may have stolen the papers from Miss Silkwood's wrecked auto.

Away, away with demon rum

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Indian mountain troops will have to keep warm on coffee, tea and dried fruit instead of rum when the government's goal of total alcohol prohibition by 1982 is achieved, the minister of state for defense told Parliament.

Sher Singh was replying Tuesday to members who said ending the rum ration, a tradition inherited from the British, would weaken the resistance of troops exposed to the severe cold of the Himalayas.

The government is taking steps to curb civilian liquor consumption but has not yet pressed the matter with the military.

Kidnappers release

Italian businesswoman

MILAN, Italy (AP) — Evelina Cattaneo, a wealthy businesswoman whose mother had originally rejected kidnappers' demands for ransom saying "I don't love Evelina," was freed today on the outskirts of Milan, police reported.

The 46-year-old woman was reported weak after 3½ months in captivity.

Her mother had raised a furor when she told a radio reporter shortly after her daughter's abduction she did not plan to pay any ransom "because a mother has not the duty to love her children and I don't love Evelina."

Her family, however, is known to have paid an undisclosed ransom despite the initial refusal of Evelina's mother to any negotiation.

Midlander 'fathers' cookstove

Invention provides one answer to energy crunch

By LANA CUNNINGHAM
Staff Writer

"Well, it's just a little ol' homemade deal," said Onis Kelton of 3405 Roosevelt Ave. of his steel cookstove. Considering rising energy costs and disappearing fuel sources, though, Kelton may have the answer for both heating and cooking.

The self-employed welder, who works quite a bit in the oil field, said recently he was driving down a road one day when the idea for a cookstove popped into his head. "I had the pieces to do it with. I just had it all up here as to how I was going to do it," said the soft-spoken man, pointing to his head.

Like most inventors, he changed his design somewhat after he got started...to better suit his needs. The stove itself may appear a bit strange at first glance, but after Kelton finishes his description of how the it works, everything seems to fit.

The wood-burning cookstove is constructed of 3/8-inch steel. The bottom is part of a 20-inch pipe — to hold the wood.

There are places on top for four pans of food, plus a grill underneath to cook meat. The oven, rising out of one end of the stove on another pipe, has three levels for pans.

A tight-fitting door keeps the heat in, and the heat is forced to circulate inside the round pipe. Unlike many inventors' concoctions, Kelton's stove works. And he plans to use it in the near future as his primary means of cooking and heating.

He's tried it out—cooking meat, potatoes and biscuits one day. His contraption cooks a whole meal in about 30 minutes, and the oven browns biscuits evenly on both sides in less than 25 minutes, he said. Kelton and his wife are preparing to move this summer to Colorado, where they have purchased land to set up a Youth Center for Christ.

This cookstove will be installed in their mobile home and will be the couple's main source of heat, Kelton said. During the summer, when they plan to can fresh foods, a small butane stove will be used, he added. There is only one thing Kelton wishes now he had added, and that is a hot water box.

"The water could heat while you are cooking. Then, when you are through eating, your hot water to wash the dishes is ready," he said. The current energy crisis is one reason that prompted him to build the stove, he noted.

Cooking some meat, potatoes and biscuits on an old fashioned wood-burning stove and oven he designed and built is Midlander Onis E. Kelton. A welder by trade, Kelton fashioned his creation from 3/8-inch thick steel pipe and plate. He claims it should last a lifetime. (Staff Photo by Brian Hendershot)

His stove holds enough heat, he said, to heat a large room even after the fire has been extinguished. "This stove would heat a large brick home more efficiently than those fireplaces they have," he added. "You won't need anything (fuel) as long as you have wood for the stove," Kelton said.

Young worker who witnessed 100-foot fall 'still shook up'

NEW HAVEN, W.Va. (AP)—Gene Waugh said he would show up for work today. But the young construction worker who watched two men plunge to their deaths said he would not be climbing any scaffolds.

"I just don't think I could do it," he said. "I'm still too shook up."

Waugh saw two fellow workers fall nearly 100 feet Tuesday from a scaffold at the Mountaineer Power Plant.

"We were taking the picks — scaffolds — up to the top of the boiler when it happened," he recalled. "They were a few feet above me when I suddenly heard a terrible noise, like tools rolling off the scaffold. I looked up and there they went. They never made a sound."

The victims, father and son, were identified as Jimmy Pauley, 43, and Jimmy Pauley Jr., 20, both of South Charleston.

The men were using the scaffold to work on a 200-foot high boiler under construction at the American Electric Power Co. plant, some 80 miles from the site where 51 workers died last year when a scaffolding collapsed.

Neither Waugh nor plant officials could say what caused the cable attached to the Pauleys' scaffold to come loose.

"There was no wreckage...nothing like that," said Mike Zirkle, safety engineer for Union Boiler Co., which employed the Pauleys. "They just fell."

Inspectors for the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration arrived at the plant Tuesday. Stan Elliott, director of OSHA's Charleston office, said his agency "heard the dead men had complained recently of safety violations."

Chrysler declares same dividend despite losses

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Neither chairman John Riccardo nor president Lee A. Iacocca would predict when deficit-ridden Chrysler Corp. will start to make money again, but directors of the company nevertheless declared a 10-cent dividend on common stock.

Omission of the dividend by the nation's No. 3 automaker had been widely expected among Wall Street analysts and stockholders.

But on Tuesday, at the firm's annual meeting, it declared the same dividend paid in the past two quarters.

In a previous financial crunch in 1975 and 1976, the firm had stopped dividends altogether for six quarters.

Chrysler lost $205 million last year and $53.8 million in the first quarter while other auto manufacturers were reporting record profits — a comparison stockholders did not fail to notice.

"No one can promise any easy answers, or any quick turnaround in our company's fortunes," Iacocca said. "The problems are too complicated for that, lead times are just too long and the competition is just too intense."

It was Iacocca's first Chrysler annual meeting since he was fired as president of Ford Motor Co. last year, and he used the occasion to tell shareholders he thinks concern over gasoline supplies in some parts of the country is "very close to hysteria."

He said the concern had deflated demand for larger cars and vans and imposed new demands for small cars that Chrysler did not have the capacity to produce. But, he added, "We can be sure the small-car demand will flatten out."

Shareholders had high praise for Iacocca, but flayed what they said were management mistakes such as poor planning, bloated executive staffs and sloppy quality and financial control.

Nonetheless, one major proposal by the chief dissident stockholder group, the Committee for the Preservation of Chrysler Corp., got less support than it did last year.

The committee had proposed to ban stock options when the price of stock falls below 65 percent of book value — the net worth of the business per share — and to ban executive bonuses when earnings fall below $3 per share.

But the company in fact paid no bonuses last year, and Edward A. Galloway, committee chairman, admitted the proposals "lose much of their importance while we continue to lose money." The proposal was supported by only about 16 percent of the shares voted Tuesday, as compared to 26 percent last year.

Chrysler stock now sells for about 20 percent of book value. Earnings exceeded $3 per share in only three of the last 10 years.

There was other criticism, however. Paul Griffin of the Stockholders Employees Committee said executives were doing the work of clerks because clerks laid off in 1974 had not been replaced. He said there were too many executives. At the Center Line, Mich., Parts Division, the company had 63 executives in 1974, and 213 now — "which just about gives us a level where we have almost as many chiefs as Indians," he said. Riccardo promised to look into it.

National gets three offers to merge with other airlines

MIAMI (AP) — National Airlines shareholders faced three attractive deals to merge with other carriers today, but their decision meant nothing unless the Civil Aeronautics Board and President Carter give their blessing to one of the proposals.

National's stockholders were the potential winners in the pursuit of the Miami-based airline that has seen Texas International Airlines, Pan American World Airways and Eastern Airlines offer twice what the stock was worth a year ago.

Texas International touched off the battle last July, but had been rebuffed by the Civil Aeronautics Board and downplayed in National's proxy statement, which favored Pan Am. Eastern, also based in Miami, was still very much in contention before this afternoon's vote by the holders of three million shares in National.

A decision on the bids by Pan Am and Texas International isn't expected for a month, and the verdict on Eastern's takeover hopes will probably be delayed another month.

The decision would be a major sign of how the CAB sees its role — and the developing future of the industry — under last year's Airline Deregulation Act.

Approval of a Texas International merger, National contends, would trigger a merger wave in the industry that could defeat the aim of the deregulation act.

Ironically, though Texas International and Pan Am together own nearly half of National's stock, neither could influence the outcome of the vote. The CAB had told both that their shares must be voted to follow whatever pattern was set by the other stockholders.

Pan Am recently matched Eastern's offer to pay $50 a share if it won CAB approval to merge with National. National put forward an "auction" plan that would give Pan Am a chance to better any higher Eastern offer in the event the CAB said both of them could continue to seek the merger.

The bidding had driven National stock up from around 19 last summer to 38 1/2. The price is 20 times earnings, compared to multiples of two to nine for other major airlines.

United flights still grounded

DENVER (AP) — The nation's largest airline remained grounded today as negotiators for United Airlines and striking machinists were stalled in their efforts to end the 47-day-old strike.

Meredith Buel, spokesman for the National Mediation Board, said there were no formal joint sessions planned for the two sides. Representatives of the International Association of Machinists continued to study the latest contract offer from United, the second the carrier has presented, since talks resumed here last Thursday.

United, which normally carries 130,000 passengers a day, has canceled all flights through May 26. The airline is accepting reservations for flights after June 8.

The strike was called after union members rejected two proposed 3-year contracts.

Details of the rejected offers were not made public, but United officials indicated they were similar to those in a Trans World Airlines contract ratified last fall which called for 30 percent wage increases and cost-of-living adjustments.

Students to help in disease research

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Doctors here are mystified by a dramatic increase in reports of a flu-like illness associated with bird roosts, so they are asking 12,000 high school students to help solve the puzzle by donating small samples of their blood.

The disease is histoplasmosis. The disease organism lives in the soil and grows, especially well in areas frequented by birds, said Dr. Richard B. Kohler of the Indiana University School of Medicine.

"An outbreak is usually associated with a disturbance by man of an area where histoplasmosis fungi is growing, such as a construction site, demolition or other activity," he said.

One of the largest outbreaks was in Mason City, Iowa, in 1962 when a bird roost was uprooted for a parking lot, he said, and a prime suspect in the current outbreak is an old amusement park which is being demolished and is a popular bird roost.

But incomplete soil tests have yielded no conclusions, and Kohler said he and other doctors are asking high school juniors and seniors to donate two teaspoonsful of blood.

Then a large number of incidences can be detected, plotted on a map, and compared with information about the wind. In that way, doctors hope to be able to trace the source of the disease.

"We've got to have a good number of students willing to give blood if we're going to find the source of histoplasmosis and eliminate it," Kohler said Monday. "And if we don't eliminate it, we'll never know when we'll have another epidemic."

Kohler said that since last October, an estimated 200,000 Marion County residents have been afflicted by the disease. It is not uncommon in Indiana, but this outbreak is the largest on record here.

About 300 persons have been treated in hospitals, and 15 have died from the disease since last fall, Kohler said.

He said that the current outbreak seems to have ended — the incidence of cases was down considerably the last two months — but it is vital to try and pin down the source to prevent a recurrence.

Histoplasmosis is not considered a serious illness, except in persons otherwise in poor health.

Kohler said. It is contracted by inhaling the organism, and its symptoms are like those of the flu.

Actor John Wayne joins 'troops' helping in cancer research projects

LOS ANGELES (AP) — While John Wayne fights a cancer that invaded his body, the Hollywood legend — like thousands of others locked in that personal combat — is joining the larger medical battle against the disease itself.

Cancer, which kills an American every 80 seconds, is being attacked from all sides as researchers sharpen old tools and search desperately for more potent weapons.

Cancer victims who participate in that search, in hundreds of research projects around the world, may themselves reap the benefits — or they may leave behind a new clue that will push doctors closer to the answer.

"It can be an opportunity to...help other individuals with this disease in the future — sometimes in the not-too-distant future," said Dr. Mark Green of the University of California-San Diego medical school.

Green said that although research with untried therapies often involves incurable patients, most studies seek to improve existing therapies and a patient's recovery is not endangered.

"To participate in an experimental program does not mean that it's all over," he said in an interview. "And the act of participating can be psychologically very important" in the patient's recovery.

Wayne, hospitalized since new cancer was found in his intestine May 2, has volunteered to participate in an experimental treatment program at UCLA Medical Center, officials said. The actor lost his stomach to cancer in January, and one lung in 1964.

The hospital has released no details of the program Wayne is to join. But administrator Bernard Strohm said, "It is experimental medicine. These protocols (projects) are searching for the unknown. They are searching for the answer to this tragic riddle."

A great deal of cancer research involves modifications and combinations of existing chemotherapies, radiation and surgery as doctors search for a life-saving recipe.

"The goal of every one of these clinical trials (is to) find a treatment that is very active against tumors and as sparing as possible to the patient," said Green.

A major problem with many of the 50 or more chemicals now used to fight cancer is that in attacking malignant cells they often cause devastating side-effects ranging from constant nausea and loss of hair to increased risk of infection or bleeding.

Carter, Brown to discuss gas problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown has invited himself to the White House. But in visiting the Executive Mansion, at which he has been looking longingly since 1976, he was not going to be alone.

The California governor, a potential rival of President Carter for the 1980 Democratic presidential nomination, initiated a meeting today with Carter to discuss California's energy problems.

On Tuesday afternoon, White House aides rounded up the state's congressional delegation to join the tete-a-tete.

"If they're going to talk about the California energy situation, it makes sense to have the whole delegation," said associate White House press secretary Claudia Townsend.

Questioned whether such a mass meeting would dilute any possible confrontation, or one-on-one conference between Carter and Brown, she said: "One-on-one? Confrontation? I'm sure I don't know what you mean."

Ostensibly, the visit by Brown and Leo McCarthy, speaker of the California House, is simply to discuss the state's energy problems and a report being prepared by the Energy Department, at Carter's order, on that subject.

But it was felt at the White House that in initiating the meeting, the governor also may be seeking a public forum in Washington.

Before leaving California, Brown told reporters he wanted to tell Carter about the plight of his state and its citizens, whose "backs are to the wall" as a result of the gasoline shortage and the long gasoline lines that have accompanied it.

He said he wanted to impress on the president the seriousness of the problem and the fact that California's growth is tied to gasoline consumption.

Brown signed an executive order Tuesday requiring some stations to open Saturdays, others on Sundays. He said the action was designed to reduce gas lines.

Carter made clear Tuesday how he felt about the situation, calling once again for conservation and chastising California for the continued growth of its gasoline appetite.

In a speech on the nation's energy problems to a group of business executives and local officials called to the White House, Carter said: "Our country is so strong, so able, it is almost heartbreaking to see some issue like this, which festers like a cancer, carry on from one month to another sapping away the strength of our nation."

At the same time, the president mentioned that while "the corporate world" has substantially reduced its energy consumption, "among the average American consumer that has not been the case."

He said gasoline consumption in California is "much higher" now than a year ago.

In fact, a California state agency announced Monday that as of March, gasoline consumption had increased for the 52nd straight month.

But Brown, in an interview today on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America" program, argued that Californians are cutting back on their gasoline consumption, with estimates of reductions in the "neighborhood of 10 to 15 percent."

The governor also said the shortages were caused in part because the number of new jobs in California has been growing, attracting workers from throughout the country.

The current fuel allocation formulas probably do not take into account the state's "tremendous surge in economic and job growth," Brown speculated.

"Nudism, here, has nothing to do with how much money you make or your social standing. We have everyone from truck drivers to millionaires. What we judge people on is their personality and how they relate to other members," says M.L., shown here with his wife, Gloria, in the office of a nudist camp 60 miles north of Dallas. (AP Laserphoto)

Naked truth revealed

Nothing to look at twice, after first blush, say veteran nudist camp watchers

ALVORD, Texas (AP) — To take to the rough in the buff may not be easy, but after the initial shock, managers of Texsunair Camp say, its nothing to look twice at.

Texsunair, located about 65 miles northwest of Dallas, is a place where it is common to see six or more persons sitting around a picnic table. And even though no one wears a stitch of clothing, the grounds look like any other weekend camp site.

"There's only one purpose of this camp, and that's to be able to pull your clothes off," said Vernon, one of the camp's managers. "You've got your own personality when you're naked, and you can communicate better."

Vernon, who believes last names are unnecessary, had five heart attacks before he shucked his business and his clothes for the life of a nudist.

The 66-acre camp, one of seven chartered nudist colonies in Texas, was founded in the early 1960s by a retired federal judge who wanted a place to take his friends to relax. Today, there are about 275 members — from small children to grandparents.

For a mere $175 they can swim, dance, play volleyball and horseshoes, and enter the Texas Amateur Nudist Olympics.

"It has nothing to do with how much money you make or your social position," said M.L., the camp's gatekeeper. "We have everyone from truck drivers to millionaires. What we judge people on is their personality and how they relate to other members."

Although the camp doesn't attract much attention from the ground, it gets a lot from the air.

"We get quite a few buzzers," said M.L. "People in helicopters and planes sometimes fly so low, they clip the tops off the trees. Normally, we don't mind the flights as long as they keep their distance."

Many people are uneasy about taking their clothes off, said M.L., "but after they've been here 15 or 20 minutes they loosen up and shed their clothes. Children are the easiest to make the transition because they don't have misconceptions about nudity and sex."

New arrivals — often referred to as "cottontails" — are the easiest to spot because of the lack of color on certain parts of their bodies, he said.

"We don't require anyone to take their clothes off except in the pool," he said. "But anyone who comes to a nudist camp and goes around with clothes on will be stared at like a nudist in the outside world."

DR. NEIL SOLOMON

High-fiber diets have side effects

Dear Dr. Solomon: I have had problems with indigestion for years. Although I don't know whether to believe the claims of those who advocate a high-fiber diet, at least it can't hurt. Can you tell me which foods would constitute such a diet?—Abe

Dear Abe: A switch to a high-fiber diet may not be as completely innocuous as you suggest. Any change in diet should not be precipitous; your digestive system needs time to adjust.

A high-fiber diet can have some unpleasant side effects—stomach rumblings and a bloated feeling—and large amounts of fiber may hamper the absorption of important minerals such as iron, copper and calcium. Furthermore, large amounts of indigestible material such as fiber, ingested over a long period of time, can lead to an intestinal obstruction requiring surgery.

So much for the word of caution. If you wish to increase your intake of fiber, you should eat more whole grain breads and cereals, and fresh fruits and vegetables. Bran should not be eaten dry since it can block the digestive system. And bear in mind that fiber is just one element in a properly balanced diet; adding fiber to a poor diet does not make it good.

Dear Dr. Solomon: If I ate the way some of my thin friends do, I would look like a blimp. While they indulge in six-course meals topped off with rich desserts, and do not gain an ounce, I nibble carrot sticks and cottage cheese and wonder why I have so much trouble keeping my weight down. What's the answer?—Ray

Dear Ray: Obesity is the result of an excess of calories consumed in relation to the amount expended. It is true, however, a small percentage (2 out of 100) of patients I treat do indeed have an endocrine gland disorder that must be corrected not only to help take the weight off, but more importantly to keep it off permanently. Whether this factor is operating in a particular case can be determined only by an appropriate medical workup.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I know that vitamin supplements are unnecessary if a person has a balanced diet. But if someone wants to be especially careful of getting all the vitamins, and can afford to pay for them, what's the harm in taking vitamin pills?—Mr. F.L.

Dear Mr. L.: Too much of a good thing can be harmful; a nutritious, balanced diet will provide all the vitamins necessary for good health.

There is evidence that vitamins can have a toxic effect when taken in doses beyond body requirements. Excessive amounts of vitamin A, for example, taken over an extended period of time, can increase pressure within the skull. In some instances, large doses can retard a child's growth, and may cause dry, cracked skin; headaches; and bone pain, among other symptoms.

Similarly, excessive doses of vitamin D can retard both mental and physical growth in children, and may cause nausea, weakness, stiffness, constipation, hypertension and even result in death. Further research may reveal the toxicity of other vitamins, once believed to be safe even in large amounts.

Gas shortage may be evaded by Rent-A-Car

By KRISTIN GOFF
AP Business Writer

For the business executive on the road, the vacation driver and the Californian frazzled by gas rationing, the answer to the latest fuel crunch comes in one phrase: rent a car.

Business is looking good for the nation's major car-rental firms, despite long lines at service stations, problems buying gasoline on weekends and steadily rising fuel prices.

Some drivers in gas-pinch California are taking advantage of the fact the state's "odd-even" rationing scheme — based on license plate numbers — doesn't apply to short-term rentals, said Andrea Benjamin, spokeswoman for Budget Rent-A-Car in Chicago.

"There are others who rent a car with a full tank of gas, drive it until it runs low, then turn in the car for another with a full tank of gas," she said.

But more important, say spokesmen for the Big Four in auto rental — Hertz, Avis, National and Budget — is a trend to save on gasoline by flying to destinations, then renting a car for business or vacation purposes.

That appears to be happening already between such short hops as San Diego and Los Angeles, where businessmen previously had driven but now are flying and renting autos to avoid a fillup line on the 250-mile round-trip.

The car-rental spokesmen say the practice may soon spread to such East Coast hops as between Washington and Philadelphia.

The outlook for vacation travel is less certain. At Avis, spokesman Bill Schechter said reservations for June, the first prime vacation month, are coming in normally.

But at Hertz, the nation's No. 1 auto rental firm, reservations for California and Florida vacation spots are "up quite strongly," said spokesman Thomas Elliott. He said Hertz' business overall is up 15-20 percent over this time last year.

Things are not so good, however, at some of the smaller rental agencies, which lack the national reservations network and don't do much airport business.

At Rocket-Rent-A-Car in Los Angeles, Darryl Gordon said his weekend business dropped from the normal 60 rentals to 25 because "the fear of gas shortages has made people afraid to go any place."

He says at least 10 of the 25 rentals last weekend came from people who already owned cars but didn't have gas, or who wanted to conserve their own fuel.

"I had a man with a brand new Lincoln Versailles come in here who rented a Pinto without air conditioning because he had no gas. And it was a hundred degrees here yesterday," he said Monday.

The Big Four have had their own gasoline problems because of allocation programs that have cut back supplies. But so far, they report, there has been no effect on rentals.

National, Budget and Avis report that in some areas of Southern California they have given customers less than the usual full tank of gas to start.

Hertz ended up buying additional quantities on the world spot market at substantially higher prices and setting up customer pumps at 19 Hertz rental stations as a special service to California renters.

Back at Rocket Rent-A-Car, Gordon was also dealing with the supply problem — paying three employees $4.50 an hour to sit in lines at gasoline stations to keep his automobiles filled up.

"It's either that or close up the doors," he said.

Black colleges face money woes

With BOB TIEUEL

Black Colleges in Crises: It is a well known fact and as columnist Theodore M. Lawe so well puts it: "All over the country historically black colleges are in a state of crisis. They are being impacted by the increasingly high costs of education and by the drop in enrollments. Bishop College, with its current difficulties, is no exception." Lawe is a popular columnist for the black-oriented Dallas Post-Tribune.

President Carter recently sent a memorandum to all executive departments and agencies that spelled out the administration's position for the approximately 100 historically black colleges. He called for a thorough review of the operations within your department or agency to ensure that historically black institutions are being given a fair opportunity to participate in federal grant and contract programs. Ensure that an affirmative effort is made to inform black colleges of the opportunity to apply and compete for grants and contracts. "Where appropriate, establish goals and timetables for increased participation of historically black colleges in the activities of your department or agency."

Lawe concluded: "It is the responsibility of black college alumni to come to the rescue of the black college through the use of their influence and the giving of financial assistance. Many black college alumni have gone on to become middleclass and in some cases wealthy. Many black college graduates hold positions of influence and responsibility and can be a valuable resource in correcting the plight of the black college."

In the meantime, Bellringers, we urge you to increase your support if you attend a black college. The need was never greater and the time is NOW.

RECENT GREAT QUOTES: "When James Earl Ray shot down Martin Luther King in 1968 (King was 39) he was marching toward economic democracy, the necessary next step in his movement for the 'beloved community.' Eleven years later the gaps in income, life expectancy and infant mortality rates between blacks and whites are growing greater. Apathy is endemic to black America. Black voting strength has declined, as his dissent. There is a moral vacuum in our leadership. Ray slew the dreamer, and with him, the dream." (End of quote from newspaper columnist Julian Bond.)

On June 1, 1979, Franklin Thomas will become the new president of the Ford Foundation, the largest, richest and most powerful philanthropic institution in the world. Thomas will be the only black to direct a major foundation in the world. He succeeds McGeorge Bundy, who served as head of the foundation for many years and advisor to both Presidents Kennedy and Johnson. Thomas headed the Bedord Stuyvesant Corporation in Brooklyn for many years.

Committee honors H. E. Chiles

H. E. "Eddie" Chiles, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of the Western Company of North America returned to Midland Tuesday to be honored by The Midland Wildcat Committee.

Chiles for years operated his Western Company from headquarters in Midland — before they were moved to Fort Worth in 1959.

The Wildcat Committee has honored officials and directors of major and independent oil and gas companies on many occasions, but this is the first time that only one man from a company held the spotlight alone.

Chiles and Robert L. Wood, chairman of the executive committee of The Wildcat Committee, organized The Western Company in Seagraves in 1939. The total staff was three persons, including Chiles, Wood and a truck driver.

The firm moved its headquarters to Midland in 1948 and 11 years later the move to Fort Worth was made. The company, which has grown to 3,500 employees and worldwide operations, continues to headquarter in Fort Worth.

Currently, The Western Company of North America owns eight offshore rigs, and Chiles reports three more will be added to the "fleet" this year.

The rigs are scattered far and wide. One is at work in the North Sea, one in the Aegean Sea off Italy, another is off the West Coast of Africa drilling for the Cameroons, one is in the Arabian Sea, another is drilling offshore Brazil and two are at work in the Gulf of Mexico.

An eighth rig is moving away from the Baltimore Canyon area off the East Coast.

"We have had two units in the Canyon for the last year, each drilling about four holes," Chiles said.

He added that he believes there is oil and gas in the Baltimore Canyon, but not "in sufficient quantities to do us a lot of good. We use it up too fast. It would take a great strike in the Canyon to help us greatly in our sup-

H. E. "Eddie" Chiles stresses a point Tuesday as he explains The Western Company of North America's role in the oil and gas exploration picture worldwide. Chiles was honored by The Midland Wildcat Committee at a reception in the Petroleum Club of Midland. (Staff Photo by Bruce Partain)

Chiles believes the decontrol of prices will help the domestic oil and gas industry, both onshore and offshore. "This profits tax, not a windfall tax, that is being discussed, will certainly be harmful to the exploration for oil and gas," Chiles said. He explained that it takes a sizeable cash flow for an exploration firm to operate. "Take away any of that cash flow and exploration will be curtailed." On the rationing front, Chiles said "it simply will not work in any form. It never has and never will. Even if they come up with a ration plan and put it in, it will not last." Chiles said the reception in the Petroleum Club for him was one of the best things ever done for him. "It is a great feeling to be honored by your home town.

Decisions hurting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal policy decisions contributed to the West Coast gasoline shortage and may soon trigger a more severe, nationwide gas crunch, a Federal Trade Commission official is contending.

Alfred F. Dougherty, director of the FTC's bureau of competition, said Energy Department actions seem to be making the shortages worse instead of easing them.

In a letter to Rep. Benjamin Rosenthal, D-N.Y., Dougherty said: "We are seriously concerned that DOE regulations and informal directives to the oil companies may be partially responsible for the present shortages."

Rosenthal, chairman of a House Government Operations subcommittee looking into West Coast fuel shortages, said allegations by the FTC official, if accurate, "constitute a shocking indictment of DOE policies and practices."

Energy Department spokesman Jim Bishop said the agency would withhold comment until it had obtained a copy of Dougherty's letter.

Dougherty said the FTC is beginning a full-fledged investigation into whether the three-month loss of oil from Iran is the real cause of the shortage or whether oil companies are "using it as an excuse" to cut supplies to their dealers.

He said the FTC is concerned because U.S. refineries have cut back gasoline production far in excess of the reduction of crude oil imports to the United States during the turmoil in Iran earlier this year.

"If this cutback in the production of refined products was not justified by a scarcity of crude oil or other legitimate business reasons, the current gasoline shortage may be contrived," Dougherty said.

He noted that the inquiry is far from complete, but said it appears federal energy policy decisions made the cutbacks from refineries even more severe, leading to the long gas station lines now in California.

As an example, he said, price regulations promulgated by the department "may have contributed to the failure of West Coast refiners to undertake investments that would allow them to process more Alaskan crude oil into gasoline."

An even more serious action, the official said, was a decision last week by energy officials to meet with the nation's 34 largest refiners to urge them to reduce production of gasoline and to begin making more heating oil for next winter.

"DOE should be aware of the likelihood of exacerbating the California shortage, and even of possibly severe, nationwide gasoline shortages," Dougherty said.

The House energy and power subcommittee was beginning two days of hearings today on the whole issue of crude oil pricing.

A prime topic will be the president's decision to lift price controls from crude oil beginning June 1.

Meanwhile, House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill says he doubts Congress can meet President Carter's challenge to come up with a gasoline rationing plan of its own within 90 days.

"Right now, the votes aren't there for any type of plan," said O'Neill as he declined an invitation to meet with Senate leaders to see if a new standby rationing proposal could be drafted.

NRM No. 1 Sawyer, id 5,531 feet, pump testing, 26 barrels of oil and 90 barrels of water, time not reported, through perforations at 5,485 to 5,510 feet.

Union Texas No. 2 Mathie, id 11,557 feet, preparing to pull on production.

Union Texas No. 1 Sara-Bullard, drilling 3,820 feet, look drillstem test from 3,440 to 3,762 feet, open 10 minutes on preflow with good blow, 60 minutes initial shut in, open on 90 minute final flow and had formation water to surface, 60 minutes after opening tool with 5 pounds pressure, on a 1-inch choke, 120 minute final shut in, no water blanket, recovered 3,700 feet, muddy water.

LYPSON COUNTY
C. Louis Renaud No. 1 Pennonil, Mayhew, drilling 770 feet in redbed and shale.

Laguna No. 1 Sheppard, drilling 8,310 feet in lime and shale.

Parker & Parsley No. 1 First National Bank of Dallas, pld 6,726 feet, id 7,250 feet, recovering frac load water, through perforations at 7,230 to 7,260 feet.

John L. Cox No. 1 Elaine, drilling 9,000 feet.

John L. Cox No. 1-11 Neal Estate, id 11,200 feet, logging.

John L. Cox No. 1-131 Taylor, id 458 feet, recovering frac casing at total depth, waiting on cement.

WARD COUNTY
Guffy No. 1022 Hutchings Stock Association, drilling 2,340 feet in lime and dolomite.

Gulf No. 1024 Hutchings Stock Association, id 7,750 feet, acidify perforations from 7,725 to 7,750 feet, 6,000 gallons, fractured with 14,000 gallons and 18,000 pounds sand, swabbing and flowing.

Gulf No. 4-W2 State, id 6,000 feet, lower tubing, ran mill, pulled out of hole, 2,440 to 2,762 feet, open 10 minutes on preflow with good blow, 60 minutes initial shut in, open on 90 minute final flow and had formation water to surface, 60 minutes after opening tool with 5 pounds pressure, on a 1-inch choke, 120 minute final shut in, no water blanket, recovered 3,700 feet, muddy water.

Clayton Williams, No. 1 Barbara Williams, id 5,500 feet, circulating through 2 1/2-inch casing and drillcollars, set 3 1/2-inch casing at total depth.

Clayton Williams No. 1 One, id 6,450 feet, swabbed 250 barrels of water in 6 hours, well kicked off then died, re-leaved packer, pulled out of hole, pulled up retainer and bridge plug and packer, set bridge plug at 5,545 feet, set packer at 5,745 feet, shut down over night.

D. H. Hunt No. 1 F. H. Scott, id 21,041 feet, pld 5,861 feet, hung 3-inch liner from 15,530 to 22,020 feet, delaware perforations at 4,820 to 5,760 feet, acidified with 1,000 gallons, fractured with 30,000 gallons and 40,000 pounds sand, initial potential pumping 6,000 gallons of oil per day and 20 barrels of water in 24 hours, gravity 43, gas-oil ratio 1200-1.

Adobe No. 4 Barstow, pulled bombs, calculating 4-points test.

Adobe No. 12 Barstow, drilling 2,000 feet in anhydrite.

Adobe No. 14 Barstow, drilling 1,430 feet in redbed casing.

Getty No. 1-27-19 University, id 18,300 feet, set packer at 18,000 feet, attempted to perforate, gas failed.

WINKLER COUNTY
Getty No. 1-31 University, drilling 20,126 feet.

Rial No. 1-14 Hunter Hugg, drilling 4,700 feet in lime and shale.

YOAKUM COUNTY
John L. Cox No. 1 Field, id 8,827 feet, preparing to take drillstem test from 8,440 to 8,827 feet.

Operators announce prospectors; discovery finals, another flows

Wildcat projects have been announced in Yoakum, Lubbock, Lea, Chaves and Irion counties, and a gas discovery has been completed in Eddy County, N.M., and an Eddy project has been assured discovery production in the Atoka.

J. C. and R. E. Williamson of Midland No. 1 Dan Field is to be dug as a 5,200-foot wildcat in Yoakum County, 12 miles northwest of Plains.

The project is 1/2 mile southeast of the Field (Devonian) pool which produces at 12,030 feet and 467 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 120, block D, John H. Gibson survey. Ground elevation is 3,842.5 feet.

LUBBOCK PROJECT
Houston Minerals Corp. No. 1-10 Pate-Haverstock has been announced as a 10,500-foot wildcat in Lubbock County, three miles south of Lubbock.

Location is 2,170 feet from south and east lines of section 10, block E, GC&SF survey.

It is one location south of a 9,967-foot dry hole.

LEA TESTER
David Fasken of Midland No. 1 Warren has been spotted as a 12,000-foot wildcat in Lea County, eight miles southeast of Lovington.

It will be spudded 2,080 feet from north and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 8-17s-37e.

RE-ENTRY SET
Rex Alcorn of Roswell, N.M., announced plans to re-enter a 12,266-foot dry hole in Lea County and clean out to 11,100 feet and test.

The project, originally drilled by Coquina Oil Co. will be operated by Alcorn as the No. 1 Bobbi.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 20-18s-36e and 15 miles southwest of Lovington.

CHAVES WILDCAT
Yates Petroleum Corp. of Artesia, N.M., No. 1-KY Erickson State is a new 5,700-foot Devonian wildcat in Chaves County, 9.5 miles northeast of Roswell.

It is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 2-10s-25e and 3/5 miles north of the shallow South Bitter Lake (San Andres) pool and two miles northwest of 4,314 Abo production.

IRION EXPLORER
IFA Enterprises of San Angelo spotted its No. 1 Ethel E. Ault and others as a 7,000-foot wildcat in Irion County, 17 miles northeast of Merzon.

It is 4,229 feet from south and 672 feet from east lines of L. C. Ferguson survey No. 1013.

The location is a southwest offset to Canyon sand production in the Arden, South field and one and three-eighths miles west of a 7,171-foot dry hole.

ATOKA FLOWS GAS
Maddox Energy Corp. of Midland

No. 1 Malaga, a northwest offset to production in the Malaga (Morrow gas) pool of Eddy County, flowed gas on a drillstem test in the Atoka zone.

The first test, from 11,540 to 11,700 feet, was open 70 minutes on first flow when it made gas at the rate of 7,700,000 cubic feet per day on a 1/4-inch choke. The surface flowing pressure was 5,200 pounds.

The tool was reopened for 120 minutes on the second flow. It made gas at the rate of 14,000,000 cubic feet per day on a 3/8-inch choke, with surface flowing pressure at 4,125 pounds.

Recovery was 716 feet of water-cut drilling fluid.

Hole is being made below 11,864 feet on Morrow contract of 13,200 feet.

The project is 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 3-24s-38e and four miles south of Malaga.

EDDY STRIKE
Perry R. Bass of Midland No. 68 Big Eddy Unit has been completed as a discovery in the Morrow zone in Eddy County.

The operator reported a calculated absolute open flow potential of 1,239,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 12,389 to 12,509 feet.

Total depth is 12,686 feet and 5.5-inch casing is cemented on bottom.

The location is 1,980 feet from south and 1,780 feet from west lines of section 10-20s-28e and nine miles east of Carlsbad.

The well is one and five-eighths miles north of an undesignated Morrow gas area.

MITCHELL AREA
The Eastland Oil Co. of Midland No. 1-H Wulfgen has been spotted as a 500-foot test in the Champion Lake (Yates gas) area of Mitchell County, nine miles south of Colorado City.

The location, one and five-eighths miles south of production, is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 8, block 13, H&TC survey.

DELAWARE OILER
D. H. Hunt of Dallas No. 1 F. H. Scott has been completed in the Scott (Delaware oil) pool of Ward County, 4.5 miles northwest of Barstow.

One location northeast of Delaware production in the east side of the field, it finished on the pump for 140 barrels of 43-gravity oil and 20 barrels of water, through perforations from 4,933 to 5,760 feet. The gas-oil ratio is 1,130-1.

The pay section was acidized with 1,000 gallons and fractured with 30,000 gallons.

A re-entry project, it is bottomed at 21,041 feet and five-inch casing is set at 21,036 feet. The plugged back depth is 5,861 feet.

Location is 1,320 feet from north-east and 1,980 feet from northwest lines of section 21, block 33, H&RTC survey.

IRION WELLS
Alford Petroleum Corp., Woodlands, completed a pair of wells in the Dove Creek (Canyon D oil) pool of Irion County, 14 miles southwest of San Angelo.

The No. 2-A J. M. Winterbotham, one location southwest of other Canyon D production, completed for a daily flow of 183 barrels of 44-gravity oil and 130 barrels of water, through various size chokes and perforations from 6,445 to 6,593 feet. The gas-oil ratio is 1,749-1, and the pay was acidized with 2,000 gallons and fractured with 47,000 gallons.

Total depth is 7,375 feet and 4.5-inch casing is cemented at 6,680 feet. The plugged back depth is 6,673 feet.

The wellsite is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 33, block 21, H&TC survey.

Alford No. 1-A J. M. Winterbotham, one location east of other Canyon D production, finished for a daily flow of 176 barrels of 46-gravity oil and 47 barrels of water, through various size chokes and perforations from 6,333 to 6,521 feet. The gas-oil ratio is 3,977-1, and the pay was acidized with 2,000 gallons and fractured with 45,700 gallons.

The well is 1,980 feet from south and 1,060 feet from east lines of section 33, block 21, H&TC survey.

Rig testimony scheduled today

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Five men who escaped when an oil drilling platform toppled into the Gulf of Mexico were expected to testify today before a Coast Guard board of inquiry investigating the collapse that may have claimed eight lives.

'Furry' finds audience

By MARIAN FOX

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — One of the few surviving founders of black country blues says he's a bit hurt that blacks don't seem interested in his music. But he's found a new audience.

do hurt me in a way, because it looks like to me my color ought to like my music better than anybody else. But white people like my music better than any colored person."

The 86-year-old Lewis, who asks almost everyone to call him by the nickname he got 79 years ago when he refused to cut his hair, blames rock 'n' roll for luring blacks from the blues. But the blues, he says, will outlast rock.

"Just as long as the world's standing," he says, lying on his bed and sipping whiskey from a shot glass, "there's gonna be blues. Black people, they like rock 'n' roll, but the blues take the cake."

Lewis, with his bottleneck guitar and his woe-ful songs about the women who done him wrong, is a folk legend. Each March, his birthday is an excuse to celebrate at several local pubs.

"Furry's a fixture," says Sid Selvidge, one of a clutch of young white musicians learning as much about Lewis' blues as they can. "Every year they haul Furry out and celebrate his birthday. A whole bunch of young whites celebrate, like he was Santa Claus."

"Furry stands between all of us and death, I suppose. He's strong and he's got a great attitude and he's a positive life influence. He doesn't even have to play anymore. They just haul him out."

Selvidge says he met Lewis in 1962 when the old bluesman was still working for the city sanitation department, sweeping streets. Lewis became the hub of a group of young white musicians — Selvidge, Jim Dickinson, Lee Baker, Jimmy Crosswaite — determined to keep his blues alive.

Selvidge, an anthropologist, says he believes Lewis is a symbol of a past blacks would as soon forget.

"It seems to me Furry's music represents to a young black an era when the white man was in total control... the sharecropper economy. That's rural black music of a kind a lot of young blacks think of as Uncle Tom music."

But Lewis' appeal, Selvidge says, transcends color. "Furry has a good time playing music. He sets the tone for music in Memphis."

Lewis, with his failing eyesight and peg leg, "poor mouths" his age and his health.

"I don't have many years left and I'm half blind," he says. "But I'm havin' a good time. The older I get, the bigger fool I get about music."

He spends most of his days holding court in his bedroom in a green duplex in midtown.

Military men change status

Several area military men have received promotions, citations, transfers and completed duty in all branches of the service during recent weeks.

William D. Hammack, son of Mae B. Hammack of Andrews and a 1967 graduate of Andrews High School, has been promoted to staff sergeant in the U.S. Air Force. He serves as a personnel specialist at Clark AFB in the Philippines.

A Garden City resident has been promoted to technical sergeant in the U.S. Air Force. Gary L. Robinson son of Mrs. W.E. Robinson of Garden City, serves with the Military Airlift Command as an avionics navigation systems technician at Yokota AB, Japan and is a 1966 graduate of Garden City High School.

Pvt. Danny W. Rainwater, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Rainwater of Big Spring, recently completed his basic training at Fort Jackson, S.C.

A Midland seaman has been deployed to the Western Pacific. Navy Seaman App. Robert T. Shanks III, son of Mary R. Shanks, 3422 W. Kansas Ave., is a crew member aboard the salvage ship USS Safeguard. The Safeguard will be participating in training exercises with the Seventh Fleet.

Pvt. Harold W. Hoffman, son of Lilia A. Hoffman of Big Spring, was assigned as an administrative specialist with the 1st Cavalry Division at Fort Hood. A 1978 graduate of Big Spring High School, he entered the Army in January.

Marine Pvt. 1st Class Lance B. Cunningham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas W. Cunningham of 2801 Stutz Dr. has completed recruit training in San Diego, Calif. He is a 1975 graduate of Midland Lee and joined the Marines in November, 1978.

DeWynn R. Menix, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth F. Menix of Lamesa, has been promoted to airman first class with the U.S. Air Force. A 1978 graduate of Lamesa High School, he graduates a material facilities specialist at Plattsburgh AFB in New York and serves with a unit of the Strategic Air Command.

Blindness cause found

NEW YORK (AP) — A 5-year-old Pennsylvania boy has been diagnosed by doctors at Columbia-Presbyterian Hospital here as being the first known case of permanent blindness caused by contact with dog feces.

Health officials quoted in today's editions of the New York Daily News said hospital bacteriologists detected it by using a newly-developed test for the disease, called toxocaracanus.

Douglas Tomolonius, of Wilkes Barre, was left blind in one eye. He was brought to New York by his parents because other physicians had diagnosed the disease as a deadly form of retinal cancer, a hospital spokesman said.

Doctors said the disease can be contracted only by ingesting feces containing roundworms that commonly infest the organs of pet dogs.

Sunflower State lacking in plants giving nickname

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — It is one of the cruel ironies of nature that sunflowers cannot be grown commercially in the Sunflower State.

The giant yellow flowers were found growing in Kansas by Spanish explorers and taken to Europe, Asia and Africa where they have become an important food source. But, in Kansas, there is less than 5,000 acres of commercial production a year.

The reason, says Kansas State University agronomist Howard Wilkins, is that the state leads in sunflower pests and diseases. The Sunflower Head Moth attacks the plants, leaving them vulnerable to further damage by Rhizopus Head Rot.

However, the university is trying to breed disease-resistant traits of the wild Kansas sunflowers into the commercial species. The breeding research is going on at an agricultural experiment station in Hays.

While Kansas farmers are left hoping, farmers in Minnesota, Texas and North and South Dakota are cashing in on the Kansas state flower. The oil is prized for cooking because it contains no cholesterol, does not retain food odors and can be used longer than other cooking oils.

Cargill Inc. and Continental Grain Co. have established markets for producers. The U.S. Department of Agriculture expects farmers to plant 4.9 million acres in sunflowers this year, up 75 percent from a year ago and 18 percent more than they intended to plant as recently as January.

Receiving a $1,000 scholarship from the Midland County Medical Society and Auxiliary is Jane Elizabeth Forsyth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Forsyth. She is a senior at Midland High School and plans to attend the University of Dallas where she will study pre-med courses.

Gilles gets post

A Midland lawyer, George D. "Jody" Gilles, has been elected to the board of directors of the Texas Young Lawyers Association of the State Bar.

Announcement of Gilles' directorship was made recently by Tom Hanna, executive director of the State Bar at the Texas Law Center.

Unopposed for the District 19 directorship, Gilles will serve for two years, beginning at the conclusion of the annual State Bar Convention. That convention will be held June 26-29 in San Antonio.

The Texas Young Lawyers Association is composed of State Bar members 35 years of age or younger as of June 1.

Area students to graduate

ODESSA — Several Permian Basin area students were among 175 students who were candidates for degree: this spring semester at The University of Texas at the Permian Basin in Odessa.

Commencement exercises will be held Saturday in the university's gymnasium. Degrees were conferred by James Powell of Fort McKavett who was recently named a regent of The University of Texas System.

Candidates from An-draws included Susan Nixon Wetzel, B.A. in psychology; Mary Melinda Young, B.A. in physical education and health; Elizabeth Ann Davis Kniffen, B.A. in history; Dolores Payne Shoemaker, B.A. in history; Mary Virginia Callahan, M.A. in education with a major in reading; and Leslie M. Brown, B.A. in criminal justice. Elsa C. Esquivel of Crane received an M.A. in history and Denisa Day McBee of Midkiff, a B.A. in psychology. Peggy Kelton of McCamey received a B.A. in literature.

Chile diplomat recalled

George W. Landau

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is recalling its ambassador to Chile after that country refused to extradite three military officers accused of plotting the bomb slaying of a former ambassador here.

Ambassador George W. Landau was returning to Washington for consultations and to take part in a "thorough review" of U.S.-Chilean relations, State Department spokesman Hodding Carter said Tuesday.

The recall was personally ordered by Secretary of State Cyrus-R. Vance, he said.

The action followed Chilean Supreme Court President Israel Borquez's refusal to approve the extradition of former secret police chief Juan Manuel Contreras Sepulveda and two other men who served in the now-defunct police unit known as DINA.

The United States wants them in connection with the 1976 car-bombing death of Orlando Letelier, who was Chile's ambassador to the United States during the Marxist presidency of Salvador Allende. Also killed when the remote control bomb exploded on Washington's Embassy Row was Ronni Moffitt, a Letelier colleague.

The United States will appeal Borquez's decision to a panel of five associate justices, Carter said.

The Chilean Foreign Ministry, in a statement released shortly before Landau left Santiago, criticized the U.S. action.

Michael V. Townley, an American-born former Chilean secret agent, testified in the Cubans' trial in a plea bargain agreement with federal prosecutors. He admitted to planting the bomb under Letelier's car.

In refusing the extradition request, Judge Borquez said the evidence submitted by the U.S. Justice Department was not sufficient because it was based on a "paid accusation." He was referring to Townley's plea bargain agreement.

But State Department spokesman Carter said the strength of the evidence against the three army officers was borne out by the previous convictions.

"The evidence submitted...was clearly sufficient to support extradition," he said.

Meanwhile in Santiago, leading newspapers called on the United States not to react with political or diplomatic pressure to Borquez's decision.

Chilean President Augusto Pinochet has had no comment on the ruling. Lt. Adm. Jose Toribio Merino, the navy commander and a member of the ruling junta, characterized the U.S. response as "a challenge to the sovereignty" of Chile. "We don't accept the interference of anybody in our internal affairs, and no one teaches us how to make justice," he said.

Homes may get data bank access

By DAVID BRISCOE

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Bill Jones, ready to go out to dinner, punches a few buttons on a hand-held keyboard and looks at his television set.

Onto the screen flashes a list of restaurants by type, from Armenian to vegetarian. Jones then taps out the number opposite the "Chinese" listing, this time on his regular touchtone telephone.

Immediately, his screen displays a list of Chinese restaurants, with addresses, phone numbers, and special code numbers. Jones picks a new place he's heard of, punches its code number and the menu appears on the screen.

Jones heads out the door, but not before punching more buttons to check a bus schedule and the weather forecast. He takes his umbrella.

Though Jones is not a real person, his actions are not necessarily those in a science-fiction movie.

Using your TV as a data bank with almost unlimited capacity may be only a few years away, says William Loveless, chief engineer for Bonneville International, a broadcast group based here.

Bonneville's KSL-TV in Salt Lake City and KMOX-TV in St. Louis, owned by CBS, have been testing a signal capable of giving viewers access to 120 pages of information. By linking the system to the telephone, access would be opened to millions more pages.

Now, only a station engineer sees the information. But KSL is actually broadcasting the signal, and home viewers whose TV sets were properly equipped could see it also.

The information includes the latest weather report, a TV schedule, news stories, lists of entertainment in the area, and information about advertised products.

A version of the system, called teletext, is already in use in England and France, but no sets capable of receiving the signal are sold in the United States because the Federal Communications Commission has not set regulations governing its use.

The test transmissions, authorized by the FCC, involve an unused portion of the signal carrying the regular TV picture and sound. Stations won't have to add anything to their transmitting equipment to broadcast it.

The signal doesn't affect regular television picture or sound because it's transmitted on a portion of the signal above the regular TV screen. It can be flashed over a program going on or onto a blank screen on an unused channel.

Existing sets could be converted to receive teletext for about $100, Loveless said, but they could be manufactured with that capability for as little as $25 extra.

The entire system could be available in some markets within 2 1/2 years, he predicted.

KSL has tested the system for nearly a year, hooking up a specially equipped set at distant points in its viewing area. KMOX began tests in March.

Loveless said teletext is not designed to replace current media but to be a "third medium," different from television or newspapers.

"People will always want to tear out articles, swap files and line bird cages," he said.

Viewers could see any of the information being transmitted by punching a series of buttons on a hand-held calculator.

A newscaster on the regular TV channel could end a report by saying, "For more information, refer to teletext page 200."

Bonneville proposes hooking the system into a regular touchtone telephone to give access to several trillion pages. Technically, telephone books, encyclopedias, a whole library of information could be programmed into teletext computers.

A viewer could even get his television screen to carry on a kind of conversation with him, said Loveless.

In the restaurant search, the screen, in effect, asks the viewer what he feels like eating, what location would be most convenient, and finally which specific restaurant menu he wants to see.

An industry committee is to meet in December to work out standards for teletext.

Bonneville proposes the service be free for television viewers.

It would pay for itself, said Loveless, because advertisers could use it to give more information about their products.

The image on the screen can include up to 20 rows of 32 spaces in six colors and black and white. Pictures could not be transmitted, but graphics would be possible with combinations of typed symbols.

Loveless has a file several inches thick of television stations, electronics firms and others interested in the system.

Gold prices hit all-time high

LONDON (AP) — Gold hit an all-time high of $257.125 in afternoon trading today in Zurich, Europe's biggest bullion market. The metal was quoted at a record $256.625 an ounce in early morning trading in London, then eased off to $256.50.

Gold closed at $255.375 in Zurich Tuesday and $254.75 in London — record closes in both centers — after reaching $255.50 at the London afternoon "fixing," the price set by London's five major bullion houses for the trading session.

Both sides predict victory in Alaska lands controversy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid furious lobbying, conservation and industry groups each predict victory in the House fight over the Alaska lands legislation. But neither side claims a majority of votes.

President Carter sent a letter to House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. Tuesday pushing for passage of legislation managed by Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz.

Carter also threatened to veto a rival bill, managed by Reps. John Breaux, D-La., and John Dingell, D-Mich., if it clears both houses. This bill is supported by oil, mineral and timber companies with a stake in using federal lands in the nation's largest state.

Breaux and Dingell accepted several conservationist-backed amendments to their legislation in floor action Tuesday.

But the Carter administration and Udall say the Breaux-Dingell bill is thoroughly unacceptable and cannot be satisfactorily overhauled on the House floor.

Breaux and Dingell told the House their bill provides a balance between preservation of Alaska's scenic treasures and environmentally sound development of oil, mineral and timber resources vital to the nation's economic future.

Breaux said Americans sitting in gasoline lines would favor his provision for oil company exploration of the Arctic National Wildlife Range. Oilmen say the range is the best prospect for another Prudhoe Bay oil bonanza.

Udall's measure would classify the range as a wilderness, off limits to development. Udall said other potentially rich oil lands should be explored by oil companies before tearing up that crucial habitat for nesting waterfowl and roaming caribou.

In the House lobbies Tuesday, conservationists introduced members to Sierra Club president Ted Snyder and Thomas Kimball, executive director of the National Wildlife Federation. And Ann Morton, widow of former Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton, a Republican, was there trying to coax GOP friends into the Udall camp.

Working for the Breaux-Dingell bill was former Rep. Lloyd Meeds, a Washington Democrat, now representing the state of Alaska. Alaska timber companies had former Michigan Rep. James O'Hara on hand.

H. Richard Seibert of the National Association of Manufacturers said Exxon and other corporations had sent their own lobbyists to work for the Breaux-Dingell legislation.

The Breaux-Dingell bill would set aside some 127.6 million acres as national parks, wildlife refuges and wild river corridors. Udall's bill would set aside 110 million acres.

Jail hunger strike ends

A hunger strike at Midland County Jail ended at breakfast today, five meals after it began, according to sheriff's deputies.

The strike began at noon Monday and centered around complaints by 17 inmates to the effect that the food served to them by the county is of poor quality.

The inmates also criticized Sheriff Dallas Smith's policy of not allowing smoking in the jail. They also said they wanted the option of buying their own personal hygiene articles rather than having to use those provided by the county.

Fund spending tallied

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States contributed $115 million to the U.N. Development Program in 1978, but the program spent $129 million in the United States, the U.N. Association of the United States reports.

It said the development program's spending in the United States included $37.2 million for experts' salaries, $18 million for equipment, $13.2 million in subcontracts, $55.7 million for administrative and support services and $5 million for fellowships.

The U.S. contribution for 1979 is $126 million, a 9.6 percent increase.

Soviets may free Rudolf Hess

LONDON (AP) — The Soviet Union has agreed it will consider freeing Rudolf Hess from Berlin's Spandau Prison if he publicly renounces Nazism and spends the rest of his life in quiet retirement, the London Evening News reported today.

The newspaper reported the apparent Soviet change of heart in a front-page story by its Moscow correspondent Victor Louis, a Soviet citizen who reportedly has high-ranking sources in the Kremlin.

Louis, however, did not indicate why the Soviets might now be willing to change their mind about Hess, who was sentenced in 1947 to life imprisonment at the Nuremberg war crimes trial and sent to Spandau.

Louis said the Soviets had opposed earlier suggestions that Hess be released because:

"The Russians are most concerned about the revival of interest in Nazism, and many believe that freeing Hess will provide a much needed figurehead, if not an effective leader of the Nazis."

Hess, 85 and once deputy to German Nazi dictator Adolf Hitler, has spent the past three decades in West Berlin's Spandau Prison, which remains

Last concert set for Lee Chorale

Midlanders will get their last chance this year to hear the Lee High School Chorale in concert Thursday night.

The 7:30 p.m. concert will be in the LHS auditorium. Admission will be $1 for adults, 50 cents for students.

The group recently won the sweepstakes award as best all-round choir at the Six Flags Over Georgia Chorale Festival in Atlanta, Ga.

They competed against some 45 choirs from Florida, South Carolina, Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee, Virginia, Arkansas and Texas who had been given top ratings at their state contests.

The group raised some $16,000 through the year with a variety of projects to pay for the trip.

under the joint control of the four allied victors in World War II — the U.S.S.R., Britain, France and the United States.

The three Western powers have suggested over the years that Hess — reportedly in ill health and now the only inmate in the prison — be set free. But the Soviets have refused to consider his release.

Hess has been in prisons since 1941. On May 10 of that year he parachuted

"When the Russians are asked how long can one keep a man in his mid-80s behind bars," Louis wrote in the Evening News, "They say: 'We are keeping a symbol alive, not an individual.'" into Scotland in what he described as a self-appointed mission to end the war between Britain and Germany through talks with Britain's wartime government led by Winston Churchill.

"There would be no risk if Hess were no longer demonstrably Fascist. ... If he first denounced Nazism and showed his repentance, returning to the outside world just as he is, an old man who wishes to live his last years quietly in freedom. ... Hess's political value would topple overnight if he no longer greeted his colleagues with the Heil Hitler salute."

Louis said the official thought Hess' son Wolf could persuade him to renounce his former life.

Dallas offers numerous advantages which are envied by districts throughout Texas. Among them are:

- Outstanding promotional opportunities
- Year-round air conditioning in all schools
- Opportunities for employment in the summer school program
- An increasing student population needing bilingual education (approximately 20,000)
- Blue Cross insurance program
- Outstanding opportunities for graduate study (in 10 area colleges and universities)
- Availability of DISD club and Teachers Credit Union
- And, many other benefits, including the state's top salary schedule:

1978-79 SALARY SCHEDULE

Bachelor's Degree $10,019-$18,759
Master's Degree $11,021-$21,402
Administrators $20,000-$40,000

A Salary increase, subject to Board approval, is anticipated for the 1979-1980 school year.

CONSIDER YOUR FUTURE... CONSIDER DALLAS! WE'VE GOT WHAT YOU WANT!

Interested persons should call Mr. G.B. Renaud or Mr. Santiago Lopez for interview appointments.

WHY BUY A "CHANDELLE" CONDOMINIUM? *

"CHANDELLE's" location at 2100 West Wadley is within minutes of downtown, theatres, recreational areas, shopping, restaurants, schools, churches, the college, and Airpark. At "CHANDELLE" you get an equity investment, the same tax breaks as a home owner, and greater control of your housing costs.

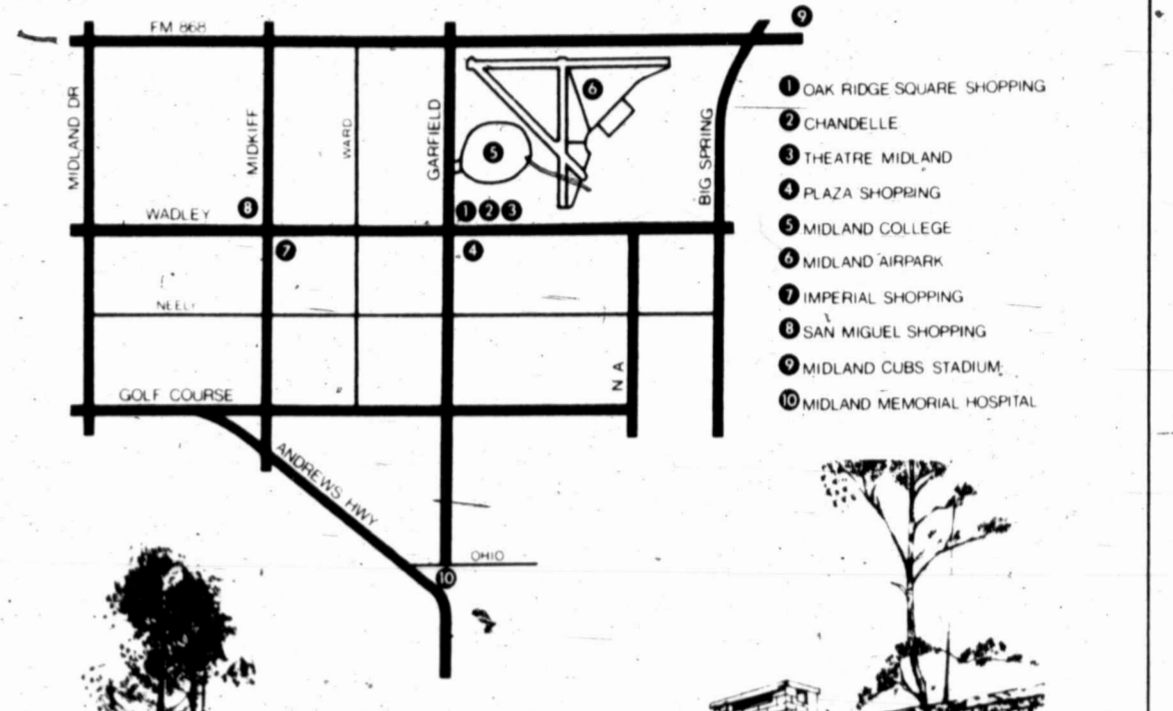

"CHANDELLE" is the only real alternative people have to get away from the maintenance problems - of home owning, and doing it with style.

Come out to 2100 West Wadley or call 684-7884 to find out why "CHANDELLE" is a nice place to call home. Models are open from 12:00 noon until 6:00 p.m. seven days a week.

With just $2750 down for a 2 bedroom-2 bath "D" model, and a monthly payment of $600... You can have all the economic benefits of "Chandelle", plus enjoy convenient living with a "Touch of Class". That $600 monthly figure includes your mortgage, taxes, insurance, water, sewage, and association fees.

* The 34 people who have decided to call "CHANDELLE" home will tell you why.

Players agree, umps' return 'is about time'

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

"It's about time," Cleveland Indians slugger Bobby Bonds exclaimed when he learned major league umpires have reached a contract agreement with the American and National Leagues and will return to work this weekend.

lighted Tuesday night when informed of the agreement, which was to be presented for approval of the major league owners at a joint meeting of the two leagues in Chicago today.

"I'm glad they're coming back," said Pittsburgh Pirates Manager Chuck Tanner. "It's much better for baseball overall."

Pressure for the settlement, which was learned by The Associated Press Tuesday, built last week when minor league and sandlot umpires who have been replacing the regulars were involved in a series of uproarious arguments, punctuated with bench-clearing brawls in Atlanta and Minnesota.

"The new umpires were trying, but they just weren't consistent, and lately it has been ridiculous," said New York Mets infielder Richie Hebner, who has been ejected from two recent games.

"I've had trouble with the other umpires. I guess every manager has," Mets Manager Joe Torre said. "Of course I'm happy to see the big-league umpires coming back."

Cleveland's Rick Manning said:

"We'll argue with them, too, but at least they'll be consistent in what they call — even if they're wrong."

Consistency is also what Kansas City pitcher Paul Splittorff is looking for.

"That's good news," the Royals left-hander said. "Behind the plate, it's just been inconsistent. The regular ones certainly are more competent. As players, we've got a lot riding on it. Some of the (substitutes) have done okay, but experience was always working against them."

New York Yankee Manager Bob Lemon, like many others, took pains to compliment the interim umpires who have been working since the beginning of spring training.

"I'm happy to see them back," Lemon said of the regular umpires. "But I can't fault these (replacement) fellows. They don't have the experience and they do a pretty good job considering."

Ken Reitz of the St. Louis Cardinals had more than one reason to see the regular umpires return.

"There are a lot of umpires I can call my friends," he said. "A lot of them are pretty good guys. They're professionals ... I don't think the fill-ins did a bad job, but I'm glad to see the professionals back."

When told the regular umpires may be back by this weekend, Cleveland Manager Jeff Torborg asked: "Can they get here tomorrow (Wednesday) night?"

Also delighted was San Diego Padres Manager Roger Craig, who said, "I'm going to hug them at home plate the first time I take a lineup card out."

And then there were the diplomats, like Met shortstop Frank Taveras, who said: "I have nothing to say. I like all umpires."

Canadiens deal Rangers some of own medicine

MONTREAL (AP) — Left wing Steve Shutt of the Montreal Canadiens summed it up simply: "We could have changed uniforms with the Rangers from the first game to this," he said.

And he was right. The Canadiens had played that badly in the opener of their National Hockey League playoff final series against the New York Rangers, and had played that well Tuesday night in winning 6-2 to tie this best-of-seven set at one victory per team.

Montreal shook off a pre-game injury to goalie Michel Larocque, ignored two quick New York goals against Ken Dryden, and stormed to triumph in a manner more identified with the team which has won three consecutive Stanley Cup titles — on goals in a 7:53 span on the first period by Yvon Lambert, Guy Lafleur and Bob Gainey.

"With every Stanley Cup we win," observed Shutt, "we have more and more people against us; more and more people waiting for us to lose. Probably, those are the same people who put us out after the first game against the Rangers and had us out in the seventh game (of the semifinals) against Boston."

But both times, Montreal came back. They won that seventh game against Boston after losing three times in four games. And Tuesday, they rallied from Sunday's 4-1 loss to burst the Rangers' bubble.

"I can't recall one Canadian playing badly," said Rangers Coach Fred Shero. "We tried, but they were just very good tonight."

They were very good under some trying circumstances. Montreal Coach Scotty Bowman had decided Tuesday afternoon that Larocque — who replaced Dryden for the third period Sunday — would be his starting goaltender for the first time in the playoffs since 1974. That idea was ruined when Larocque was hit in the forehead during warmups by a shot of center Doug Risebrough.

Thus 15 minutes before the game, Dryden — who hardly worked at all in practice — was given back the starting role he has enjoyed for 109 consecutive playoff games.

"The first thing that happens to you is, because something very surprising has taken place, you try to negate the surprise by reacting the other way," said Dryden. "So, whereas if I was playing I would be fairly nervous and appear to be fairly nervous before the game, I made a considerable attempt to try not to feel nervous and not to appear nervous — for my own sake and also for everyone else's."

He was plenty nervous after Anders Hedberg beat him with a 35-foot shot — New York's first of the game — at 1:02 and Ron Duguay netted a 30-footer that glanced off Brian Engblom for a 2-0 lead at 6:21.

But Dryden got stronger with every shot, the high-powered Montreal offense broke loose for three quick goals. Shutt, Jacques Lemaire and Mark Napier added icing to the cake as the Rangers fell apart.

The Rangers may not fear the Canadiens, but they certainly respect them more after Montreal destroyed their defensive system, disrupted New York's offensive attack and physically intimidated them.

"Let's not take anything away from them," said Shero. "Don't say that we were lousy and that's the reason they won. The reason they won is because they outplayed us in every department."

A slight change in their game plan helped the Canadiens do that. New York's defenses ranged deep into Montreal ice to break up prospective attacks on Sunday. The Canadiens countered Tuesday night by sucking Rangers defenses deep, then feeding the wings breaking unchecked near the blue line or weaving in center ice.

Bullets can clinch it, if they get back home But must play in San Antonio first

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The embattled Washington Bullets, trailing upstart San Antonio 3-2 in their best-of-seven NBA Eastern Conference championship series, say there's no way the Spurs could win a seventh game Friday night in Landover, Md.

That, counters Spurs Coach Doug Moe is "an idiot statement" because there's still the little matter of tonight's sixth game on the Spurs home court.

After the Bullets fought off the Spurs 107-103 Sunday in Landover, Washington Coach Dick Motta said, "They came up here on Cloud Nine or 10 or whatever they fly on. But Wednesday, for the first time in the series, they'll have the pressure on them. They don't want to come back up here and play us in Game 7. No way they could beat us."

"That's an idiot statement," Moe scoffed. "He may be 99.9 percent sure they'll win Game Seven. But I can give you a 100 percent guarantee they won't win a seventh game up there if we win Game Six."

"I want to look at the sixth game as a do or die situation because that's the way we need to approach it," added Moe. "We don't want to go back up there. We've got ourselves in an enviable position and we have to do everything we can possibly do to win this ballgame."

The Central Division champion Spurs won their only game ever in Landover to open the series and raced to a 3-1 lead after winning both of their games at home, 116-114 last Wednesday and 118-102 last Friday.

And as for pressure, Moe says the Spurs will never feel more than they did May 9 when they edged Philadelphia in the semifinal series to shake the disastrous 10-year playoff drought for the Dallas-San Antonio franchise.

The Spurs had taken a 3-1 lead in that series, only to see it evaporate to 3-3. They won 111-108 with a last-second rally.

"There's been no more pressure in the history of the franchise than there was for the seventh Philly game," said Moe. "That was a whole lot more pressure than this. We've already won a series, so nobody can say we're chokers and never did it."

"There's pressure on us now, but I like the pressure before a game. Pressure builds up your adrenalin," added Moe.

By that reasoning, the defending champion Bullets — and their much-maligned guards in particular — should be feeling good about tonight's game. Because the Bullets are feeling the pressure of near elimination from the playoffs.

"We were in a deep hole, but now we're just in a hole," guard Kevin Grevey summed it up Tuesday.

"I think we came out our slump Sunday. If we keep playing this way, there's no reason we can't win the next two games," he added.

Grevey and Tom Henderson, mired in a playoff-long slump, finally took advantage of San Antonio's double-teaming of explosive Washington forwards Bobby Dandridge and Elvin Hayes, to combine for 49 points in Sunday's victory. Moe successfully used the gamble in the first four games. Even though Grevey and Henderson started hitting Sunday, he says he'll continue it tonight.

Sports in spurts from here 'n' there

Sports in spurts and in a hurry, now, who was the quarterback who fed the football to Gale Sayers at Kansas University? A hint, it wasn't Bobby Douglass.

Midland Cubs outfielder Eric Grandy played basketball against former Notre Dame and pro star Adrian Dantley when the latter was a high school star at DeMatha High near Baltimore. Grandy contends DeMatha is almost as notorious for its gym as it is famous for the college players it produces. "It must be the worst gym in the world."

Back when he was with San Antonio in the Texas League, his main claim to fame was that he was Denny's kid brother. Now he's the guy who compiled the best batting average in the 1978 World Series, but can't break into a New York Yankee game. But Brian Doyle is taking it all in stride.

"I knew during the winter what my role was going to be and I mentally prepared myself for it. My idea is to stay ready, not just for this year. I don't see myself playing every day in the future, or I wouldn't be here."

Even after homestands against the Red Sox and Yankees, Oakland's A's are averaging only 4,587 per game.

REMEMBER the Boston Braves' 1948 pennant slogan, "Spahn and Sain and a day of rain." Well, the way the Dodgers were going until the recent hot streak, it looked like they had come up with their own ditty to explain why they weren't going to win a third straight National League pennant.

"Hooton and Sutton and press the panic button," which is a reference to the Los Angeles bullpen. It got so bad that Bob Welch, who broke into pro ball at San Antonio a couple of years ago, joined the fireman's squad.

At first glance, it would seem the Texas Rangers would have to have second thoughts about trading one-time No. 1 draft choice Roy Smalley to Minnesota to make room for Bump Wills. After all, Roy not only was the best glove when it came to American League shortstops, but the best bat as well, hitting something like .350 against right-handers and .450 against left-handers, and showing a little sock, too, with eight homers. Wills, meanwhile, is a steady .221.

So many Rangers have come and gone since the Smalley trade, it's difficult to recall who Texas got in exchange, but it was pitcher Bert Blyleven and infielder Danny Thompson. Since Texas got Al Oliver and Nelson Norman from Pittsburgh for Blyleven, it isn't all that bad a trade.

AND MAYBE the California Angels are looking longingly toward Minnesota where former El Paso outfielder Ken Landreaux is winning games with his clutch hits. The Angels had to give up the former Arizona State All-American to get Rod Carew from the Twins. Landreaux should be a major league stand-out for 10 to 15 years while most of Carew's career is behind him. However, the Angels are counting on Rod as the key to the American League pennant drive, which would make the sacrifice of Landreaux worth it.

Ticket scalpers were getting $250 for a single ticket to the all-New York Rangers vs. Islanders Stanley Cup semifinals, and, hockey fans who caught any of the action on Cable 12, can understand why. At the other extreme, Washington Bullets fans were deserting a sinking ship in droves. One fan, who decided to take a chance on getting a ticket to the NBA playoff game Sunday after the Orioles were rained out, paid $14 for three tickets, not each, but for three. "I couldn't believe it. Fans were all over the place selling tickets below cost," he said. That, at least, wasn't as bad as the scalper outside of the icebound Cotton Bowl on New Year's Day, holding up two tickets an hawk. "Two tickets, I'll give $5 to anyone who will take them."

Quarterback for Sayers at Kansas? Why it was major league pitcher Steve Renko, who else?

Diablos defeat M-Cubs

EL PASO — It was a case of too much Joel Crisler and Steve Lubratich as El Paso's Diablos defeated the Midland Cubs, 8-4, here Tuesday night to gain a 3-3 split in the Texas League West Division series.

Even with the defeat, the Cubs return home in first place in the West after a successful 8-4 road swing. Midland resumes TL action Friday when Jackson's Mets and Arkansas Travelers invade for two five-game series at Cubs Stadium.

A crowd of 6,957 fans watched as Crisler combined with Mike Stover, who retired the last five batters in order, scattered nine hits for his third victory in six decisions. Vinnie Valentini was the loser for the Cubs, surrendering all eight runs in 4 1/3 innings. Valentini had gone the route in winning his last two starts for Midland. Steve Lubratich pounded out three hits and Dave Whitmer hit a two-run homer, his fifth, for El Paso in the third, the blow that put the Diablos ahead to stay.

For Midland, outfielder Eric Grandy connected for his second homer, a solo shot to left in the second. Carlos Lezcano and Brian Rosinski each had two hits for Midland with Rosinski stretching his consecutive game hitting streak to nine games.

Cooper edges Turner in seventh

ABILENE — Abilene Cooper pushed over a run in the last of the seventh inning to edge R. L. Turner of Carrollton, 4-3, in the first game of a best-of-three Class AAA bi-district playoff here Tuesday. The teams shift to Carrollton for games two and three, if necessary, Friday.

For Braves, LA gasoline lines aren't long enough

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Don't tell the Atlanta Braves about the gasoline shortage. For them, the lines at the pumps aren't long enough.

Los Angeles outfielder Dusty Baker missed the Dodgers' team plane to Atlanta because he couldn't get gasoline. But it didn't take him long to find fuel, and he was able to catch a commercial flight an hour later — arriving in plenty of time to make the game Tuesday night.

Once there, he provided the power that gave the Dodgers their eighth straight victory, slamming a leadoff home run in the 10th inning as Los Angeles defeated Atlanta 5-1.

There was no question about Baker's blast, a 400-foot shot to left-center off Adrian Devine.

"That's my trademark," said Baker, a former Atlanta player. "Hit the ball hard. Sometimes you have to at least act like you know what you're doing."

The Dodgers' victory lifted them one game over the 500 mark at 19-18, the first time they've had a winning record since the opening week of the season.

Asked to explain the Dodgers' sudden turnaround, starting pitcher Don Sutton said he couldn't.

"I don't think there is one single reason," said Sutton. "Any time you win eight in a row, it can't be any one thing. It must be many. We're playing the same as the first of the season."

The Dodgers got three runs in the first inning on a two-run single by Steve Garvey and an RBI single by Ron Cey, but Gary Matthews' run-scoring single and Jeff Burroughs' two-run homer tied it for Atlanta in the fifth.

The Braves went ahead in the fifth on a single by Jerry Royster and a double by Matthews, but the Dodgers tied it in the sixth when Garvey doubled and came home on a single by Derrell Thomas.

Mets 3, Pirates 0

Craig Swan scattered six hits, beating the Pirates with ninth-inning relief help from Skip Lockwood. Joel Youngblood supported Swan with a two-run homer in the fourth.

"I noticed in the first couple of years I was with the Mets that good pitching would take the team out of any bad slumps," said Swan. "With Tom Seaver, Jon Matlack and Jerry Koosman, the team maybe wouldn't play as well as it could, but they would stop the other teams and win 1-0 or 2-1."

"I don't know what percentage of the game pitching is, but I think it's at least 80 percent," he added.

Cubs 7, Phils 1

Former Phillie Barry Foote, obtained by the Cubs in a pre-season trade for Ted Sizemore, slugged the first grand slam home run of his career as Chicago beat Philadelphia.

"It's a good feeling," said Foote, "not a vindictive type of feeling but just a good feeling. It's nice to do it against your former teammates, but it's even better because they are in first place and they gave the Cubs so much trouble last year."

Cards 1, Expos 0

John Denny fired a two-hitter for St. Louis and Mike Phillips drove in the only run of the game with a two-out single in the ninth.

Denny said he wasn't thrilled with his pitching effort.

"I threw some pitches that were pingers tonight," said Denny, "and they didn't hit them. I was surprised. I hung a couple of curves and they fouled them off."

Padres 2, Reds 1

San Diego got both its runs after two were out in ninth inning to beat Cincinnati. Bill Fahey drew a walk. Gene Tenace singled and then pinch-hitter Kurt Bevacqua laced a two-run double to right.

Nastu defies odds, Richard to beat Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — On the surface, Houston appeared to have the upper hand entering the first game of its three-game series with San Francisco.

Rookie left-hander Phil Nastu, 0-3 in his six previous major league appearances, was paired against Houston's J.R. Richard, the winningest right hander in the National League during the past three seasons.

Nastu, however, defied the odds as he picked up his first major-league hit and RBI, and hurled a five-hitter for his first victory as the Giants blitzed Richard and the Astros, 8-1, Tuesday night.

San Francisco greeted Richard with six hits and five runs over the first two and two-thirds innings to provide Nastu with all the support he needed.

Richard, 4-3, suffered his third straight loss this month after finishing runner-up to teammate Ken Forsch in the balloting for the National League's April pitcher of the month.

"I'm glad to get this first one out of the way," said Nastu. "When the guys got the runs for me, it made a big difference."

A first-inning double by Terry Whitfield and two passed balls charged to Houston catcher Alan Ashby provided the Giants with their first run of the game.

San Francisco came back with three runs in the second on Whitfield's run-producing fielder's choice and Jack Clark's two-run double.

An RBI single by Nastu in the third and Larry Herndon's two-run double in the fourth helped the Giants to a 7-lead.

The Astros tallied their only run of the game in the second inning on Art Howe's single and Ashby's double to left.

Nastu, who didn't allow a runner to reach third-base after the second inning, said throwing the ball instead of aiming it made a big difference.

"Shep (Giant pitching coach Larry Shepard) came out and told me to quit aiming the ball," Nastu said. "I didn't have good control of my fast ball tonight, but I was getting my curve over and they were swinging at it."

Willie McCovey blasted his first home run since August 18 for the Giants' final run of the game as the Astros lost for the fourth time in their last six games.

"I'm sure it helps most pitchers to start the game with a big league, especially a young pitcher like Nastu," said Giants Manager Joe Altobelli. "I would say this was his best game of the year."

Our previous steel cord used only five steel filaments. Now there are ten. It's an all new steel cord that starts out with two filaments with seven more wrapped around them. Then, one more steel filament binds the cord together. That's how the tire received its name—seven over two plus one—or, 721.

SPORTS SCRATCHPAD Chandler raps SWC playoff

Baseball Coach Tom Chandler of Texas A&M, whose team has been bumped out of the Southwest Conference tournament three straight years, says it is "totally unfair" to hold the tournament in Austin. "It's a crying, rotten, stinking shame, and we're very bitter about it at College Station," Chandler fumed, according to the Austin American-Statesman. "It was clearly, positively, totally understood when the conference voted on it that the tournament would be moved around, and here we are back in Austin." A&M, which had won two consecutive Southwest Conference baseball titles, had only a 30-20 record this season and was eliminated from the tournament with two straight losses to Texas, 6-4, and Arkansas, 6-2.

Victor Mitchell, 6-9, 230-pounder from Amarillo College, has officially become a Texas Longhorn basketball recruit. The Austin American-Statesman said Mitchell secretly signed a scholarship agreement with Texas a couple of weeks ago, but the announcement was held up until Monday pending his release from North Texas State. Mitchell, only 6-6 at the time, signed with North Texas after coming out of Amarillo High School. Later, he chose to attend Amarillo College and averaged 21.5 points and 14 rebounds a game.

University of Texas pitcher Keith Creel was chosen as most valuable player on the 1979 SWC all-tournament baseball team, the conference announced Tuesday. Other members of the team include pitcher Scott Tabor of Arkansas, catcher Ron Reynolds of Arkansas, first baseman John Hennell of Arkansas, second baseman Johnny Ray of Arkansas, third baseman Fritz Connolly of Baylor, shortstop Larry Wallace of Arkansas, utility player Terry Salazar of Texas, outfielder Joe Bruno of Texas, outfielder Marc Brumble of Arkansas, outfielder Shelton McMath of Texas A&M and designated hitter Keith Walker of Texas.

Chris Evert Lloyd needed only 41 minutes Tuesday to trounce France's Frederique Tibault 6-1, 6-0 in her first match in the $75,000 Romika Cup women's tournament. Tuesday's matches were in the second preliminary round of the Vienna Grand Prix tournament. In other matches, Dianne Fromholtz, Australia, defeated Ann Smith, United States, 6-2, 6-3; Kerry Reid, Australia, beat Daniela Porcio, Italy, 6-3, 6-2; Virginia Ruzici, Romania, eliminated Ruta Gerulaitis, United States, 6-2, 6-4; Caroline Stoll, United States, ousted Iva Budarova, Czechoslovakia, 6-3, 6-4; Renata Tomanova, Czechoslovakia, downed Ilana Kloss, South Africa, 6-4, 0-6, 6-1, and Mima Jausovec, Yugoslavia, topped Uschi Ulrich, Austria, 6-3, 6-1.

New York Yankees slugger Reggie Jackson, who belted three home runs and knocked in 11 runs last week, earned the honor as the American League Player of the Week for May 7-13. Jackson had 12 hits in 26 at-bats, raising his average 47 points to .315. He drove in at least one run in each of the Yankees' games last week and extended his hitting and RBI streak to 10 games, two short of the major league record for consecutive RBI games. The streak was stopped Monday night.

Shortstop Dave Concepcion of the Cincinnati Reds belted three home runs and batted 423 last week to win Player of the Week honors in the National League from May 7-13. Concepcion had 11 hits in 26 at-bats, knocked in 10 runs and scored nine times.

The Swedish Grand Prix in Formula One racing at Anderstorp is seriously threatened due to unexpected financial difficulties. Several sponsors have withdrawn their support as a result of the deaths last year of Swedish racing stars Ronnie Peterson and Gunnar Nilsson. The organizers, the Anderstorp Racing Club, have for this reason informed the drivers' association, Foca, that they are unable to guarantee the drivers the required amount of 2.2 million Swedish crowns before the race.

Atlantic Coast Conference basketball teams will not have to shoot the ball 30 seconds next season. The controversial shot clock proposal was rejected Tuesday by league athletic directors on a 5-3 vote.

Bill Kilmer, the 16-year veteran quarterback known for his wobbly pass and courageous heart, was released by the Washington Redskins. Kilmer, who will be 40 when the 1979 NFL season rolls around, was caught up in the Redskins' youth movement which last week saw the release of veteran linebacker Chris Hanburger just a couple of months after defensive end Ron McDole was given his walking papers. Kilmer, however, had one year remaining on his contract, estimated at between $225,000 and $280,000. The others were not under contract.

Defending champ Gary Hallberg survived an off performance Tuesday to nip Jeff Morgan of Milledgeville, Ga., one up in match play to get into the third round of the 1979 North-South Amateur Golf Tournament. In the first match Wednesday at Pinehurst CC Hallberg will face Mark O'Meara of Mission Viejo, Calif. O'Meara gained the third round through a 4 and 3 triumph over Wesley Mohr Jr. of Houston. Third-seeded Scott Hoch of Raleigh had an easy time defeating Joseph Rioridan of Flagstaff, Ariz., in a 4 and 3 victory. Frank Fuhrer of Pittsburg, Pa., was 5 under par in defeating Paul Murphy of West Newton, Mass., 6 and 4. Bob Lewis Jr. of Warren, Ohio, a former PGA Tour professional who regained his amateur status a year ago, was 3 under par in disposing of Dave Kluger of Phoenix, Ariz., 7 and 6.

The NFL Dallas Cowboys signed center Robert Shaw, Tennessee, and cornerback Aaron Mitchell, Nevada-Las Vegas, their No. 1 and No. 2 draft choices, respectively, to multi-year contracts Tuesday.

Top-seeded Bjorn Borg rushed Britain's Mark Cox 6-1, 6-1 Tuesday in the first round of the $175,000 Hamburg International Tennis tournament. Eddie Dibbs, the No. 3 seed, romped over Mark Edmondson of Australia 6-1, 6-3 in another easy first-round match. Ilie Nastase the fiery Romanian, took about one hour to beat Czechoslovakian newcomer Stanislav Birner 6-3, 6-1. Rick Fagel played a masterful third set in beating Joao Soares 3-6, 7-5, 6-0. Tenth-seeded Victor Pecci eliminated Jan Kodes 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

Johnson, Williams will give up college eligibility

NEW YORK (AP) — Two members of The Associated Press 1978-79 All-America basketball teams will give up their remaining collegiate eligibility and turn pro. Earvin Johnson, the first team All-America from Michigan State, announced last week he was leaving the national champion Spartans. Johnson, a sophomore, is passing up his final two years of eligibility and is expected to be the top pick in the June 25 National Basketball Association draft.

The Los Angeles Lakers had scheduled a news conference today presumably to announce they would take Johnson with the first selection in the draft. Sylvester "Sly" Williams, a third team All-America last season and the leading scorer for Rhode Island the last two seasons, pleaded hardship Tuesday and will be available in the National Basketball Association draft June 25. Williams is a junior.

The NBA announced that two other players, Cliff Robinson of Southern California and Garcia Hopkins of Morgan State, also had applied for the draft. Robinson and Hopkins both are sophomores. The 6-foot-7 Williams led the Rams into the NCAA tournament in 1978 and the NIT this year.

Marshall discovers sour with the sweet

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
Things have suddenly turned sour for Mike Marshall. But Tommy John's pitching is as sweet as ever.

Marshall, the Minnesota Twins' relief ace, has been beaten twice by his former Texas teammates in two games. On Tuesday night he took the mound in the eighth inning and threw gasoline on a Rangers rally, yielding a run-scoring double by Jim Sundberg and a two-run single by John Ellis as Texas beat the Twins 9-8. John, meanwhile, continues to work his magic for the New York Yankees. He has won eight games and has yet to lose one. He twirled a seven-hitter against Detroit Tuesday night and rode Chris Chambliss' two home runs to an 11-3 romp over the Tigers.

Minnesota's Mike Bacsik went into the eighth inning leading 8-4 thanks to Ron Jackson's two-run double that broke a sixth-inning tie and solo home runs by John Castino and Roy Smalley in the seventh.

But Johnny Grubb, who had hit a two-run homer in the fifth inning, led off the eighth with a single and, two outs later, Richie Zisk doubled him home. Then Zisk scored on Pat Putnam's single. When Mike Jorgensen walked, Marshall took over. He gave up the hits by Sundberg and Ellis that enabled the Rangers to move within 2 1/2 games of the first-place Twins in the West Division. With two losses in two nights, Marshall's record has dipped to 6-3 and his earned-run average, a minuscule 0.77 before Texas showed up, is now 1.42.

Yankees 11, Tigers 3
John, who finished with five strikeouts and one walk to match his personal high of eight straight victories, had a three-hit shutout going until the eighth inning when the Tigers scored their runs on a walk to Lance Parrish and singles by Aurelio Rodriguez, Ron LeFlore and Lou Whitaker. "The ball was sinking very well and I was keeping it in the lower part of the strike zone. The main thing I was concerned about was LeFlore, keeping him from getting on base and stealing. He sets the tempo of the game."

Red Sox 3, Orioles 2
Dwight Evans walked, stole second and raced home on Jerry Remy's single to left in the 10th inning to propel Boston past the Orioles. Evans just did the throw to the plate. "I had to go up the line to wait for the throw," said Baltimore catcher Rick Dempsey. "Just as he hit me the ball came and went under me."

Indians 5, Blue Jays 3
Shortstop Alfredo Griffin of Toronto threw away Duane Kuiper's bases-loaded grounder in the eighth inning, allowing two runs to score as Cleveland beat the Blue Jays. Jerry Garvin walked Andre Thornton, threw Ron Pruitt's bunt to second too late trying for a force play, then walked Toby Harrah to load the bases before Griffin tossed Kuiper's potential double-play grounder past second. Tom Verzyer also grounded to Griffin, driving in the inning's final run.

White Sox 2, A's 1
Ninth-inning singles by Eric Soderholm, Lamar Johnson and Junior Moore off luckless John Henry Johnson gave rookie Ross Baumgarten and the Chicago White Sox their victory over Oakland.

Angels 2, Brewers 1
Ben Oglivie homered for Milwaukee in the fifth inning, but Bobby Grich hit an RBI double for the Angels in the seventh, then Don Baylor beat the Brewers when he led off the bottom of the ninth with a homer off Mike Caldwell.

Royals 7-2, Mariners 4-6
Clint Hurdle broke a tie with a fifth-inning homer and Darrell Porter hit a three-run blast in the sixth to power Kansas City to its opening-game victory over Seattle. In the nightcap the Mariners came back with four runs in the eighth, the tie-breaker on Ruppert Jones' single and two more on Willie Horton's homer.

Thankful parolee heading for Alaska

ATLANTA (AP) — Gary Steven Krist, freed after serving 10 years of a life sentence in the burial-for-ransom kidnaping of a Florida heiress, thanked his victim and the parole board as he prepared to leave for a new life 4,000 miles from here.

Hours before leaving for Alaska, where he will take over his ailing father's fishing business, Krist, 34, told Atlanta's WAGA-TV he wanted publicly to thank his victim "for having the Christian charity to forgive me for something I did to her that was really unforgivable."

Krist, released Monday from his Reidsville, Ga., prison, was convicted of the 1968 kidnaping of Barbara Jane Mackle, who was buried in a box for 83 hours while Krist attempted to extort $500,000 from her father, a wealthy real estate developer.

Miss Mackle, then a student at Atlanta's Emory University, was rescued unharmed after a telephone tip led FBI agents to her underground cell, which Krist had equipped with tranquilizer-spiked water, a ventilation system, food and electric light.

Krist attempted escape in 1973, and the Georgia Board of Pardons and Paroles turned down his appeal for freedom last December. But earlier this month, the board decided to release him, touching off criticism from the prosecutor and the judge who tried him 10 years ago.

Richard Bell, who as district attorney asked the death penalty for Krist, said last week, "He'll be a menace to society for the rest of his life."

Krist thanked Miss Mackle and her family "for not opposing my parole" during the interview. He also thanked board members for having the "courage" to free him, knowing "there would be a tremendous outcry from the various law enforcement officials."

Reidsville Warden Charles Balkum said Krist has 72 hours to report to parole officers in Alaska. Under the terms of the parole, he may not return to the state of Georgia for any reason without consent of the board, said Balkum.

Krist, who said he intended to marry a Georgia woman soon, told the television station he was optimistic about the future.

"I think it's your attitude more than your circumstances that determine how things are," he said. "In as much as the future lies within my grasp, it looks pretty good."

Wednesday's child free of woe

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

LITTLE ROCK, ARK. (AP) —With prices ever rising, the dollar still falling and gas shortages and nuclear nervousness spreading across the land, the time has come for all good men to watch their worries as well as their wallets.

There just isn't time or emotion enough to cope with the daily headline stresses of our global community. Anxieties are skyrocketing out of sight. You can't keep up with them.

"The world is too much with us," whined the poet William Wordsworth in an age when England was prosperous and at peace. Everyone toolled around in gasless horse buggies.

His words came home to me the other day when I pulled up at my very first three digit, buck-a-gallon gas station and heard a scientist on the radio say that even if we all started burning coal the carbon dioxide released in the atmosphere would raise the oceans 17 feet. Or something like that.

The newspaper on the seat next to me advised that more people in Iran had been executed, and China and Vietnam were getting ready to have another go at each other. The Yankees had lost again, too.

Right then and there I decided to husband my woes, to ration my anxieties, cut-way back on my stress factor.

Others may meet the coming crisis by observing a befeess Wednesday, but beginning next week I shall observe a worryless Wednesday.

On Wednesday next, I'm not going to worry one bit about which island the Shah of Iran flits to, as long as no one pops him off. In fact, for one whole day each week I'm pulling the Persian rug out from under the whole Iranian situation. For the ayatollah, it's never on a Wednesday if he wants to reach me with a pronouncement.

I'll wipe the ledger clean on Wednesday of fretting over who's winning that war in the western Sahara, although to be perfectly frank I don't have total recall on who's doing the fighting.

Where the Yankees are concerned next Wednesday, I shall assume the lotus position and adopt the Buddha-like serenity of a Chicago Cubs fan. Besides, most of the action these days seems to be taking place in the locker room or up in George Steinbrenner's office.

From Tuesday midnight on, I shall not lose any sleep over the threat of resumed hostilities between China and Vietnam, having thought all along that they sort of deserved each other.

When I go to market on Wednesday, my heart will not skip a beat over the price of broccoli. I hate broccoli anyhow. All that can be said for it was said in the two-line caption of Carl Rose's famous cartoon.

MOTHER: "It's broccoli, dear."

CHILD: "I say it's spinach and I say the Hell with it."

The nuclear dilemma shall not be allowed to cross my mind on Wednesday. Even if the electric bill arrives that day or the man comes to read the meter, I shall not ponder whether the local power and light company has arranged to make me sterile, glow in the dark or disappear in a mushroom cloud. Thursday breakfast will be time enough to consider those alternatives.

Wednesday will be my wife's day to fill up the gas tank, sparing me the latest price shock.

On Wednesday I will renounce worrying about what Prince Charles said when he peeked into Margaret Trudeau's bodice and whether she will be Charlie's newest angel. I won't care a whit how many of my favorite TV shows have been canceled as long as The Muppets go on forever. I won't think twice about why Ronnie Franklin keeps whipping the withers or wherever of that wonderful horse when no other steed is in sight.

On worryless Wednesday, I shan't care a fig whether Billy Carter falls off the wagon, which side his brother parts his hair, if Margaret Thatcher recognizes Rhodesia or Mohammad Ali wins the Sarah Bernhardt award for the most comebacks in one lifetime.

My reading diet on Wednesday will be SALT-free. I won't call my bookie or dentist. If I had a favorite TV soap, I'd tune it out. I'll cease to care for an entire 24 hours about who is dancing with whom at Studio 54 and whether the commuter lines are running on schedule or New York is going broke again or still. I'll shun the baseball league standings, the stock market listings, the pollen count, the lovelorn columns, the weather news and other stresses we program into our lives.

The only beef in the world I will have on worryless Wednesday is a good thick steak. With nothing at all to worry about for a whole day, a good bottle of vino and sirlion at any price could hardly be considered frills for the no-frets celebration.

Eat, drink and be merry. Tomorrow's Thursday.

State Bar elects Odessa attorney

AUSTIN — An Odessa attorney has been named president-elect of the State Bar of Texas.

Lucius D. Bunton, a native of West Texas and graduate of Marfa High School, edged O.F. "Dink" Jones of Victoria in statewide balloting, according to Tom Hanna, executive director for the Bar.

Bunton is a former member of the State Bar Board of Directors and has served as chairman. He assisted in drafting the Revised Penal Code and the Judiciary Section of the state constitution.

He will succeed Waco lawyer Cullen Smith, who will replace J. Chrys Dougherty of Austin as president.

BRIDGE Experience alone just isn't enough

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

You don't learn to play good bridge from experience but from the capacity for experience. Today's South knew from experience that six missing cards will seldom divide evenly, but he didn't use that knowledge to find a winning line of play.

South took the ace of spades and gave up a diamond. Back came a trump to the queen. South gave up another diamond, and West led a third spade.

OUT OF TRUMPS

Since dummy was now out of trumps South had to play the clubs in the hope that West would follow to three rounds. But West ruffed the third club and led a diamond to defeat the contract.

South should protect himself against the expected trump break by refusing the first trick. No matter how the defense continues declarer can gain the lead, take three top trumps and run the clubs and hearts for a total of ten tricks.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one notrump (16 to 18 points), and next player passes. You hold: S-J4; H-QJ10; D-KQJ75; C-986. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three notrump. Since you have 10 points you know that the partnership total is 26 to 28 points. This should be enough for game in notrump but is a trifle low for game in diamonds.

Industrial tour planned

ABILENE — Plans for an out-of-state Industrial Development Tour to California have been announced by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Fred Barrington of Lamesa, chairman of the regional chamber's Private Enterprise Development Committee, said the tour will depart DFW airport Oct. 29 for the Los Angeles-San Francisco area for three days of industrial development contacts.

Barrington pointed out that the purpose of the tour is to build a favorable image for West Texas and to assist towns throughout West Texas with their local economic development efforts.

The West Texas Chamber group will host three luncheons for representatives of California-based industries interested in learning more about the advantages West Texas offers for possible plant expansions or relocations.

The first luncheon will be held Tuesday in Newport Beach for industrial prospects in Orange County. Wednesday's luncheon will be held for firms in Los Angeles. The group then will fly to San Francisco for a final luncheon, returning to DFW on Nov. 1.

Cost of the tour will be $825 per person, which includes air fare, ground transportation, lodging, luggage handling, reception and luncheon costs.

Deadline for receipt of reservations and deposits is August 28. Each reservation must be accompanied by either a

Barrington said the Industrial Tour is designed to provide large and small communities alike with an opportunity to join together in selling West Texas as a prime area for industrial expansion.

Water sales decline

BIG SPRING — Water sales by the Colorado River Municipal Water District have dropped 13 percent this year for the lowest start in several years.

Lower municipal demands and a cutoff of surface water sales to oil companies was cited as the reason for the decline, according to an information sheet prepared by the district.

Meanwhile, Lake J.B. Thomas is "critically low" which affects the quality of water available for sale by the district.

Water delivery in April was 1.491 billion gallons of water, bringing this year's totals to 4.9 billion gallons.

Of the April figures, 1.1 billion was for municipal sales, down 14 percent this month and down 10 percent for the year.

Oil and industrial deliveries reached 309 million gallons last month, down 18 percent. The yearly figure is down 22 percent.

Municipal sales for April included:

Odessa, 509 million gallons, down 16 percent; Big Spring, 203 million gallons, down 21 percent; Snyder, 78 million gallons, down 23 percent; Stanton, 8.4 million gallons, down 32 percent; Midland, 381 million gallons, up 6 percent. Robert Lee caught water in its own reservoir and did not receive any from the district in April.

Housing strong

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's housing industry faces a slide this year but remains strong and resilient, according to an industry publication.

A survey indicated most housing markets in the U.S. will come through the downturn in relatively good shape, says Housing magazine. Only New York State and the Far West, particularly California, are expected to suffer severe setbacks, according to the study.

House Texans vote against restoration of revenue sharing

WASHINGTON—Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes May 3 through May 9.

HOUSE REVENUE SHARING: By a vote of 190 for and 195 against, the House refused to restore $2.3 billion in fiscal 1980 budget authority for general revenue sharing. If upheld in later house and Senate action, this vote signals the end of revenue sharing, which has sent billions of few-strings-attached dollars to state and local governments since it was begun in 1972. The vote came during debate on a budget resolution (H Con Res 107), which was headed for final passage. Members voting "nay" supported the House Budget Committee's decision to kill general revenue sharing.

ROLL CALL REPORT

Reps. Jack Brooks, D-9, Henry Gonzalez, D-20, and Abraham Kazen, D-23, voted "yea." Reps. Samuel Hall, D-1, Charles Wilson, D-2, James Collins, R-3, Ray Roberts, D-4, Jim Mattox, D-5, Phil Gramm, D-6, Bill Archer, R-7, Bob Eckhardt, D-8, Jake Pickle, D-10, J. Marvin Leath, D-11, James Wright, D-12, Jack Highower, D-13, Joe Wyatt, D-14, Kika de la Garza, D-15, Richard White, D-18, Charles Stenholm, D-17, Mickey Leland, D-18, Kent Hance, D-19, Tom Loeffler, R-21, Ron Paul, R-22, and Martin Frost, D-24, voted "nay."

BUDGET CUTS: The House rejected, 198 for and 218 against, a GOP amendment providing for a less expensive budget than the Democratic-controlled House Budget Committee had recommended. The rejected amendment targeted a fiscal 1980 deficit of $18.7 billion (25 percent below the committee target) and a 1980 tax cut of $15 billion. It was offered to a resolution (H Con Res 107) setting the fiscal 1980 budget blueprint to which authorization and appropriation bills are expected to conform. Members voting "yea" favored the budget cuts.

Collins, Archer, Loeffler and Paul voted "yea."

Hall, Wilson, Roberts, Mattox, Gramm, Eckhardt, Brooks, Pickle, Leath, Wright, Highower, Wyatt, de la Garza, White, Stenholm, Leland, Hance, Gonzalez, Kazen and Frost voted "nay."

FOOD STAMPS: The House rejected, 147 for and 276 against, an amendment to cut about $650 million from the $7 billion fiscal 1980 authority for the Food Stamp program. The vote came on H Con Res 107 (see above voting), which sets a non-binding ceiling to which later spending bills are expected to conform.

Members voting "nay" opposed the cut in Food Stamp budget authority.

Hall, Collins, Roberts, Gramm, Archer, Leath, Highower, Wyatt, Stenholm, Hance, Loeffler and Paul voted "yea."

Wilson, Mattox, Eckhardt, Brooks, Pickle, Wright, de la Garza, White, Leland, Gonzalez, Kazen and Frost voted "nay."

SENATE BEWARE OF BOOZE: The Senate rejected, 21 for and 68 against, an attempt to table language to require a health warning to be printed on bottles of alcoholic beverages containing more than 24 percent alcohol by volume. This vote kept the language alive. The warning would read: "Caution: Consumption of alcoholic beverages may be hazardous to your health, may be habit-forming and may cause serious birth defects when consumed during pregnancy." The vote came during debate on S 440, a bill funding federal alcohol-control programs that was passed and sent to the House.

Senators voting "yea" were opposed to requiring a warning label on bottles containing strong alcoholic beverages. Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, D, and John Tower, R, voted "nay."

GAS RATIONING: By a vote of 58 for and 39 against, the Senate adopted a resolution (S Res 120) giving President Carter standby authority to ration gasoline nationwide if he determines there is a fuel-shortage emergency. Congress must consent to any rationing order. Vehicles in states which historically have had the highest volume of gasoline sales per registered vehicle would fare best under the Administration proposal.

Senators voting "yea" wanted the President to have standby authority to ration gasoline. Bentsen voted "yea." Tower voted "nay."

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN—The Railroad Commission has approved the application of Pioneer Gas Co. of Amarillo to raise rates to two industrial customers, including Iowa Beef Processors, Inc., Midland.

The change was approved to bring the rates into line with those for 40 other industrial customers of Pioneer, the RRC reports, and the companies have agreed to the change.

The rates are for the cost of gas plus 26 cents per 1,000 cubic feet.

Rates also were raised for Drico Industrial Division of Smith International, Inc., in Potter County.

The RRC also approved a change in transportation rates which Pioneer charges El Paso Gas Transportation Co. for gas transported and/or exchanged in Culberson, Reeves, Pecos and Ward counties, reporting no objections have been raised by customers of El Paso Transportation Co.

Florida lawyer introduces televised wills

MIAMI (AP) — For $125, Miami residents now can "come back from the dead" — and in living color — to cut an undesirable relative out of a will or to leave some last endearing thoughts to loved ones.

Seven people so far have taken advantage of lawyer Murray Meyerson's offer to videotape the making and signing of their wills. "It's a wonderful way for your kids to see you alive, talking to them after you have died," said Ferdinana Ierna, who videotaped his message from the great beyond last week.

Other customers have included two elderly couples, an auto sales magnate, in his 70s and 32-year-old woman with three children who just received a large divorce settlement.

Meyerson said the idea came to him during the controversy over whether billions of dollars Howard Hughes left a valid will. "There were so many problems in the Hughes will," Meyerson said. "It seemed incredible to me that a man who had been involved with movies did not film his last will and testament."

Meyerson, 49, a former Miami Beach city councilman, has installed a small camera recorder in his downtown Miami office where a conference room serves as studio. When it's production time, Meyerson tapes a client signing a written will. He asks questions like, "In what year did World War II end?" to establish that the client is of sound mind.

Then Meyerson and other witnesses leave the client alone, with the whirring camera. Meyerson says the video version doesn't substitute for a written will required by state law, but is "a way to relay personal and confidential information through a dramatic, convincing medium."

"Just think of the pleasure it would give a wealthy man to cut off his free-spending brother," he says, "then explain it all in living color. 'It's a way of putting a little flesh on the skeleton," he said.
