Texas area forecasts

West Texas: Partly cloudy to clear through Wednesday. Scattered showers and thunderstorms east central and extreme northwest and Panhandle east extreme west through Wednesday. Turning cooler Panhandle through Wednesday. Highs 82 northeast to near 90 northwest. Lows 60 to 71. Highs Wednesday 80 to 90.

Border states forecasts

Oklahoma: Partly cloudy and warm through Wednesday. Widely scattered thunderstorms mainly east, west of scattered showers and thunderstorms. Panhandle tonight and over the state Wednesday. Highs 82 to 92. Lows mostly 60. Highs Wednesday mid 80s. Panhandle to near 90 south.

Light winds, warm afternoon forecast in area Wednesday

Sunny skies and a warm afternoon comprise the forecast for Wednesday, according to the weatherman. Winds should be light and southerly tonight with little chance of rain until Thursday, official reports indicate. Low tonight should be in the mid-60s, rising to a high Wednesday in the low-90s, according to reports from the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

Record high for Monday is 102 degrees recorded in 1974 and the record low for today is 50 degrees recorded in 1952, said the weatherman. Heavy rainfall drenched portions of North Central Texas early today, prompting the National Weather Service to issue a flash flood warning for Hill County. Forecasters said some flash flooding was reported at Hillsboro during the pre-dawn hours. Hail fell at Cleburne and near Possum Kingdom Reservoir early today as the heavy thunderstorms moved southeastward across North Central Texas.

Inspectors seek source of fatal fire

WESTWOOD, Mass. (AP) — State inspectors were trying to determine whether overloaded circuits or faulty wiring caused a house fire that killed a man and his five young children and left the mother — the family's lone survivor — in critical condition. Another woman and her two daughters who lived on a first-floor apartment escaped the flames Monday, fire officials reported.

Westwood Fire Chief J. Herbert Wiggin said an inspector from the state Board of Electricians worked "all afternoon" Monday to pinpoint the source of the morning blaze, and would continue investigating today. He said overloaded circuits may have been the cause, but "we're trying to check everything out." Dead in what officials said may have been the worst single tragedy ever to hit this community 15 miles southwest of Boston were: Robert Harrison, 36; his children, Michelle, 10, Robert, 7, Patrick, 4, Katie, 2 1/2, and Teddy, 2.

Catherine Harrison, 32, was hospitalized in critical condition from smoke inhalation and burns, said hospital spokeswoman Virginia Rose. The occupants of the first floor apartment — Joanne Nouri and her daughters, Laurie, 9, and Kelly, 2 1/2 — escaped, Wiggin said. Eleven firefighters were treated at the hospital for cuts, facial burns and smoke inhalation, he said. Wiggins called the fire the worst in his 30 years of work. He estimated damage to the burned-out building at between $60,000 and $70,000, and said the fire apparently started near the kitchen on the second floor, quickly spreading along narrow staircases of the house.

A&M regents killed bill, senator says

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas A&M University Board of Regents are a "bunch of neanderthals" who have neglected Prairie View A&M and forced defeat of a measure giving 22 colleges construction money, Sen. A.R. "Babe" Schwartz charged Monday. In a personal privilege speech, Schwartz, D-Galveston, blamed the regents for apparent doom of the State Higher Education Assistance Fund (SHEAF) that would have replaced the state property tax. House members never appointed a conference committee to blend House and Senate versions of the SHEAF measure, he said. The 10-cent ad valorem tax provides construction money for 22 state-supported colleges. However, the Legislature virtually eliminated the property tax by adopting a formula this session that restricts its revenues to $25,000 annually. "I charge the A&M Board of Regents with not only being neanderthal in their political philosophy but in being neglectful of their duties to Prairie View," Schwartz said. "We've got a bunch of tired old men on the board of regents." Prairie View A&M in Waller County has a predominantly black student enrollment, Schwartz said. A&M regents have refused to give the school its rightful portion of the Permanent University Fund shared by A&M and The University of Texas System. Oil leases and royalties generated from production on university owned land create the PUF. Sen. Bill Moore, D-Bryan, challenged Schwartz and blamed the UT regents for killing the SHEAF measure.

Rites honor crash victims

PARK RIDGE, Ill. (AP) — As jet engines roared overhead, nearly 1,100 people gathered at Mary Seat of Wisdom Roman Catholic Church to mourn the victims of the nation's worst aviation disaster. The church is about a mile from Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, where 273 people were killed Friday when an American Airlines plane crashed just after takeoff. John Cardinal Cody, Roman Catholic archbishop of Chicago, read to the mourners a telegram sent Monday by Pope John Paul II who said he had prayed, "asking God to sustain them in this hour of great sorrow." "We are gathered here to say we love and we care for you who have been harmed through this tragedy," said the Rev. John S. Hubner, senior Protestant chaplain at O'Hare, during the interdenominational service. Hubner, standing beside a flower-banked altar, looked across a dozen pews occupied by families and friends of the victims. He urged them to live lives that would be tributes to the memory of the dead. "There are so many things they left undone and there are so many words of kindness that should have been said, let us be a bit more loving and a bit more caring and a bit more giving and take upon ourselves the responsibility to do the good things in life that those who have been carried from this life can no longer do," he said. At the end of the half-hour service, the dozen Christian and Jewish clergymen offered individual condolences to the victims' families as they left the church.

An unidentified fireman climbs toward Catherine Harrison, whose feet, hand and head are visible through the smoke on a third-story window ledge. Mrs. Harrison is in poor condition in the maximum care unit of a Westwood, Mass., hospital. (AP Laserphoto)

Midlanders express their sorrow

Continued from Page 1A. According to Judge Culver, a successor to Wood will be recommended by U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen. Midland County District Attorney Vern Martin said today the shooting of Wood "is ridiculous. Judges are just doing their job." He said the shooting death of Wood will accomplish nothing. Asked his reaction to the death of Wood, Martin said, "The first response I have to this sort of thing is I get sick to my stomach." He termed the shooting death of Wood "senseless."

Another Midland lawyer, Rodney Satterwhite, said Wood was "a very competent jurist. He knew the law, and he was fair. He ran a very tight ship." "I thought he was very honest," Satterwhite said. "I'm shocked and dismayed" at his death. "It's a tragedy." Midlander John Hyde, who also had practiced before Wood, said the Wood was "a very accommodating judge as far as I'm concerned. I believed him to be very solicitous of the time involved of everybody." Woods' death by violence came only six months after an apparent attempt on the life of an assistant U.S. attorney in San Antonio.

WOOD WAS APPOINTED to the U.S. District Court bench for the Western District of Texas in 1970. Prior to accepting that post, Wood had prepared educational stereo tapes for the State Bar of Texas on "Amendments to the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure," authored a Law Review Article on federal prisoner petitions and a commentary on rules of federal evidence. Wood is a member of the faculty of the Federal Judicial Center in Washington, D.C., and a member of the Aldisert Committee (Federal Civil Rights Petitions), and was a frequent lecturer on the subject. His most recent article, "Federal Prisoner Petitions," appeared in the October 1977 issue of Texas Bar Journal. Plans for closing the federal building for Wood's funeral had not been formalized at noon today.

Parachutist dies

CHULA VISTA, Calif. (AP) — As thousands of spectators looked on, veteran parachutist Greg Dionne, his parachutes snarled, fell 2,500 feet. Dionne, 52, died Monday during surgery several hours after the accident, said officials at Chula Vista Community Hospital. A veteran of 500 jumps, Dionne was a member of the Clear Skies exhibition team and the third man to leave the twin-engine plane over Brown Field, where the National Air Festival was being held for the Memorial Day weekend. Dionne's rectangular parachute apparently failed to open fully. Witnesses said that when he opened his reserve parachute it became snarled in the main chute. The El Cajon skydiving instructor fell onto the runway and was taken to the hospital about 3 p.m., said witnesses. The annual festival raises funds for the Aero-Space Museum in San Diego.

Craddick not sure water bill will benefit Midland County

Continued from Page 1A. concerns in the county. "It will be harder to get back into the district than it will be to get out," said Craddick. Most of the counties overlying the sprawling Ogallala aquifer will be included in the water authority. The in-state portion of that aquifer stretches from the Texas-Oklahoma border in the Panhandle through the High Plains and as far south as Midland County. If signed into law, the bill calls for the water district to be initiated by action of the Texas Water Development Board after sources and a plan for importation of water have been determined, said Craddick.

Exercises set

Commencement exercises for Midland's two high schools will be in Midland College's new Chaparral Center Thursday. Lee High School exercises are scheduled at 6 p.m. followed by Midland High School at 9 p.m.

Dr. Joe T. Smith, principal, will present the LHS senior class to Assistant Superintendent of Schools Dr. Douglas Brown for certification. Diplomas will be awarded to graduates by school board President Marshall S. McCrea, board Secretary James Ramsoure and trustees Joyce A. Sherrod and Parker M. Humes.

Valedictorian Mary Kathryn Downs and salutatorian James Howard Reiter will address the Lee graduates and their guests.

Schools Superintendent Dr. James H. Mailey will certify the Midland High School class of 1979 following principal Jack Stone's presentation of the class. Edward R. Runyan, vice president of the school board, and trustees Joe H. Dominey and Johnny R. Warren will award diplomas.

MHS graduates and their guests will hear valedictorian William Nance Creager and salutatorian James John O'Neill.

Both ceremonies are open to the public.

Lee High School senior Gloria Bowens, granddaughter of Pearl Bolton, has been awarded a scholarship from retired Midland attorney Henry Sara-nec. At LHS, Miss Bowens is a Rebelette, member of the Future Teachers of America, treasurer of the People Unlimited Club and played on the girls' varsity volleyball team. She plans to attend Midland College.

Summer school to hold registration Monday

Registration for Midland public schools' first summer session will be Monday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., with classes scheduled to begin June 5.

The first quarter session is scheduled to run through June 22, with registration for the second session slated June 25. Registration for the third quarter will be July 17. Each session is 14 days.

Offerings include remedial reading for students in grades four through 12, remedial-math for those in grades four through eight and study skills for those in grades four through 12.

Title I summer reading classes will be offered to students in Title I schools based on teacher assessments and test scores. No tuition will be charged for the Title I program, and classes will meet from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Secondary school offerings include English, American history, world history, government, fundamentals of math, driver education, algebra, geometry, personal typing, typing, distributive education and health.

Any required or elective subject will be offered if 15 students enroll, school officials said. First period will run from 8 to 11:50 a.m., with a 20-minute break at 10 a.m. Second period will run from 1 to 4:50 p.m., with a break at 3 p.m.

Free classes in homemaking also will be offered through the schools this summer to students and adults in the community.

Registration for those classes will be at Midland High School June 6 and 7 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and from 1 to 3 p.m.

Classes will include a course in clothing construction with emphasis on stretch and sew from June 11-15. "The You in Fashion" will be offered from June 19-22 and will emphasize accessories, make-up, hair styles and hand care.

Sewing for the Home will give instruction in making home accessories. Classes will be held June 19-22 in the afternoon.

Carter Korea trip revised

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — President Carter's scheduled visit to South Korea has been revised to begin June 29 so he can spend three days instead of two, the Hapdong news agency reported today.

The agency quoted sources in the Foreign Ministry as saying the two governments were expected to announce the new schedule and the agenda for talks between Carter and President Park Chung-Hee.

No official confirmation was available.

The original plan called for Carter to arrive June 30 for a two-day stay after attending an economic summit in Japan.

Kahn says TV might help fight inflation

RADNOR, Pa. (AP) — When the inflation rate creeps upward a few more decimals, credit is tightened or food prices jump, it is Alfred E. Kahn who greets reporters' microphones and television cameras to deliver the gloomy news.

But Kahn, President Carter's chief economic adviser, says television can actually help the situation instead of just reporting it.

"Television, I think, is in an excellent position to help our country combat inflation," Kahn writes in the June 2 issue of TV Guide magazine.

"There might even be half-hour programs on inflation — programs that deal with one or more specific issues and explain them thoroughly," he suggests.

LEE HIGH YOUTH CENTER CHATTER

Summer fun follows exam woe

By KAREN FIDLER, GINA BARD & LEIGH ANNE JONES

Youth Center in shape for next year. So get ready to wash, rock, bake and sell, so the Seniors can go to Padre, so the Seniors can go to Padre. Just kidding.

So we would like to extend our final farewell to the Class of 1979 and we'll see all you freshmen, sophomores, and juniors next year for a wild and crazy time.

Until next year, (party hardy)

Gina, Karen, Leigh Anne

P.S. Happy sexy seventeenth birthday to Karen Fidler and Babs Broome from Leigh Anne and Gina.

P.S.S. Welcome home to Phyllis Peete.

P.S.S.S. Congratulations to Karen Fidler for being installed Worthy Advisor of the Rainbow Girls. Go get 'em Karen. Midland Assembly's gonna make it now!!!

And finally, Mr. Bill says: I don't believe that next years Super Sophs are capable of leaving the Youth Center so filthy and in such a shambles all by themselves...there had to be help in this venture from our upper classmen. The more I see of "dippers" the more I appreciate smokers...at least smokers are not filthy and spit on the furniture, floor or just anywhere. Me thinks the no smoking, no dipping, no chewing, no profanity (cussin') rules are gonna be strictly enforced. I cleaned up your mess Saturday and THAT'S ALL!!! The Youth Center can't stand much more and I'm not gonna stand anymore.

Unlike the dance of BRAND X across town last week, our dance was very successful with the exception of the "NASTY FEW." Rasco, I guess some can dance and others just can't learn, or maybe they just don't appreciate your having a dance for 'em. Whatever the reason, our kids came to dance.

Thanks to George Robertson, Doug Fox, Greg Collins, Linda Vitrano and Kim Moritz for cleaning up the Youth Center after Friday nights dance. And thanks to Scott and Gladys

Hickman for their help at the dance.

HOROSCOPE

By CARROLL RICHTER
(Wed., May 30)

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are highly creative now and don't get much done along such lines. Be with persons you enjoy and have a good time. Learn to talk less and listen more and you learn more.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You make home conditions far better by the attention you place on them now. A good time to entertain friends but do it after business hours.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have new plans to advance and should discuss them with your associates for best results. Contact good friends and get their backing.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you think big you have a fine opportunity that can help to make you big if you truly apply yourself. Look to a bigwig for the financial assistance you need.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You are able to impress others considerably because you are dynamic and charming now. Either accept social invitations or extend them now. Be the strutting Leo and get good results.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have to elevate your consciousness to greater things and you can become an important person. An expert can give you fine advice which should be followed.

Fear of math seen as job problem

By CLARA HEMPHILL
Associated Press Writer

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — People who suffer from "math anxiety" — including many women and minorities — are blocked from advancing in two-thirds of the country's professions, says Sheila Tobias, head of a consulting firm that treats fear of mathematics through seminars and counseling.

"Math anxiety is panic, muddled thinking and an inability to concentrate," Ms. Tobias said at a New-England conference at the University of Rhode Island. Author of "Overcoming Math Anxiety," she spoke on such anxiety's effects on women and minorities.

mathematics, which keeps most women and many men from studying advanced algebra and calculus, forces many people into dead-end jobs, Ms. Tobias said in an interview.

Obviously, a scanty background in mathematics will hold back students of engineering, economics or medicine. But Ms. Tobias said fear of math can also prevent a person from entering business or becoming a banker or even a mail carrier.

"The federal civil-service exams are called 'general intelligence' exams, but they're testing logic and numbers," she said.

You don't have to study algebra or calculus to pass the exams, but people who have learned to reason in a mathematical way will do better and come up with the answers faster, Ms. Tobias said.

Any job that entails planning, drawing up an annual budget, using computers or analyzing finances requires the ability to think mathematically, Ms. Tobias said.

She found that women were avoiding jobs in science and business and flocking to traditionally female occupations.

DEAR ABBY

'Cure' for baldness or just balderdash?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I just heard that a scientist in Budapest, Hungary, recently came up with a formula that will actually grow hair on bald heads! They claim that this miracle lotion, which is a combination of herbs and chemicals, not only restores hair on bald heads, it also prevents people who have hair from losing it! This sounds too good to be true.

I'm told that the Budapest shopkeepers sold out their first shipment to some very cynical customers, when, a week later, the stuff started to show results, word got around and the shopkeepers had to call the police to keep the rioting customers from breaking down the doors.

Have you heard anything about this product? — INTERESTED IN ILLINOIS

DEAR INTERESTED: Yes, I've heard those hair-raising reports, but I'm skeptical.

If this product from Hungary is not also from hunger, it will be marketed all over the world.

DEAR ABBY: PUZZLED IN MANHATTAN wrote: "I'm sure you've heard of Peeping Toms, but I'll bet you've never heard of a Peeping Tina. Tina is my wife. We have a view of a large apartment house from our bedroom window, and Tina loves to stand in the dark and watch men undress. Is something wrong with her?"

You replied, "Such curiosity is considered normal in adolescents, but your wife should have outgrown it by now."

Abby, I've lived in high-rise apartments for years, as do many of my friends, and we all enjoy the game of "neighbor-watching." As a matter of fact, a pair of binoculars by the window is standard equipment for every apartment.

I am in my 30s and my friends are in their 50s and we aren't considered adolescents. — LOVES TO LOOK IN MANHATTAN

DEAR LOVES: Whatever happened to the right to privacy? Or do you go with the theory that people who undress

Men of all ages have hair styled at Maxine's

Maxine's is a Styling Salon with a difference. It is a "family" business - the stylists are family members: owned by Maxine Forse, she is joined by her mother, her sister, and her daughter. They all CARE, and it makes a difference in the work they do.

Maxine's aims for a "family practice". They are experts who stay abreast of the times and can produce what is very new. Teenagers find what they want there. Little children, boys and girls, are welcome.

The mature men of the family can get great styling at Maxine's, also permanents of any kind, including a body curl to make thin hair look thicker. A man with a beard can get a fine trim for $2.

Dusty, the youngest member of the family team, gives luxurious, relaxing facials. She uses Jhirmack products, which are used in hair care in the shop. The Jhirmack skin and hair care items are available for purchase, and have proven over the years that Jhirmack is a leader in quality.

Men of all ages and types of hair depend on the skilled stylists at Maxine's Styling Salon, 106 Andrews Highway, to make them look their absolute best for this competitive society. There is no need to make an appointment, so bring your young son, and suggest to Dad and Grandpa that such handsome men should have the advantages of hair styled by Maxine's. Shown above, Frank Johnson is getting a haircut from Olivia Hipps. On the Andrews Highway just north of Wall.

Europe's taxes being studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Commissioner of Social Security Stanford G. Ross is taking a firsthand look at how four European countries are coping with such problems as taxes, the treatment of women and the graying of their populations.

Ross and three top aides are visiting counterparts in France, Germany, Sweden and England this week.

The commissioner said in an interview before his departure that one of his objectives is to see how effective the value-added tax, which is widespread in Europe, is as a means of financing social programs.

Some congressional leaders and Ross himself have suggested that adopting such a tax could take pressure off America's rising payroll tax for social security.

Ross also observed that several changes now being considered in this country's system already have been implemented in Europe.

On the treatment of women, for instance, Germany splits a couple's earnings credits for social security purposes, regardless of who earned what.

Be slim, slinky with help of Diet Center

Summer will be here very soon, and summer weather demands cooler clothing, with open necklines, short sleeves, bare legs. Have you seen the new styles? How about those sleek swimsuits, some of them just two scraps. So kind to lean, tanned bodies. So cruel to the flabby, the bulky.

Have you seen yourself in a full-length mirror lately? Need some help?

You can go the crash diet route - lose some pounds very quickly, which will leave your skin slack and you with a hunger that only unwise gorging can satisfy. Or you can try the Diet Center plan.

Call Carol Miller or Faye Craft, counselors, and learn how you can help your own body to be the fit and healthy, attractive state it deserves. They have overcome weight problems of their own, and have the sympathetic attitude and understanding only those who have dieted can have.

You have nothing to lose but unwanted pounds. Call Carol at 684-5081 or Faye at 694-3421 today and get started. See you at the pool!

"How to win at the losing game" is what Carol Miller and Faye Craft know all about and are eager to share. Proper weight is vital to health and well-being, to say nothing of pride and attractiveness. Call Carol Miller, left, counselor of Diet Center I at 409 Kent, phone 684-5081 or Faye Craft, counselor of Center II, 1200 Whitney, phone 694-3421.

Visit Maxine's very soon, and learn for yourself what a large dividend in self-assurance can be had for such a small investment. Remember: appointments are available by calling 682-7113, but it is never necessary. You

Democratic gubernatorial choice up for grabs today in Kentucky

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The Democratic nomination for governor was up for grabs today among a former fried chicken king, an ex-mayor who walked more than 1,000 miles for votes, a woman lieutenant governor, a congressman and a one-time state official.

woman has nothing to do with her candidacy. "I don't ask people to vote for Thelma because she's a woman. I think I know more about Kentucky than any other candidate. So what is the difference whether I'm a man or a woman," said Mrs. Stovall, who has solid labor backing.

Hubbard focused on what he contends is corruption in the Carroll administration. However, he has made no specific charges. Last week, the U.S. Justice Department authorized convening of a federal grand jury to investigate the allegations. Federal authorities have refused to discuss the matter.

The candidates were expected to spend a record amount in their bid to replace outgoing Gov. Julian Carroll next January — probably more than $5 million when the financial filings are complete.

Sloane was mayor during the 1975 disorders that accompanied court-ordered busing in Louisville, and has drawn the wrath of anti-busing advocates.

Terry McBrayer, 41, a former commerce commissioner and ex-state legislator, is the administration-endorsed candidate. In the final week of the campaign, McBrayer attacked Brown, challenging him to release his income tax returns.

Carroll is barred by state law from running for another term.

Dr. William Worle McKinney, a retired Fort Worth physician and renowned neurosurgeon, visited Midland last week and said Midland Memorial Hospital's new Critical Care Pavilion "is equal to any CCU I have seen anywhere."

Comparing medicine today to the field he started practicing in almost 40 years ago, Dr. McKinney cited two problem areas.

The Republican race has been considerably quieter with former Gov. Louie Nunn favored over former state Sen. Ray White, a Bowling Green attorney.

"First there is the matter of government control becoming more and more involved in medicine and health care. And secondly, there is the problem of taking care of the elderly," he said.

Dr. McKinney was in Midland as a guest of the P.F. Bridgewater family.

Brown possesses little political experience but has a valuable asset in his wife — former Miss America and television sports commentator Phyllis George.

"Through the years I have done lots of work in West Texas and certainly have seen many, many patients from all parts of this area," he said.

"Trinity Towers is an outstanding facility for the care of the elderly and Midlanders should be very proud of this," said Dr. McKinney.

The former head of Kentucky Fried Chicken and one-time part owner of the Boston Celtics basketball team is waging a heavy media campaign on the theme it's time to put a businessman in the governor's mansion.

Mrs. Stovall, 60, became a heroine of the women's movement last year when she vetoed a legislative resolution rescinding Kentucky's endorsement of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment while Carroll was out of the state. But she says her being a consideration on the grounds it violated a House rule limiting conference committees to adjusting differences between the two different versions. Bryant charged there were at least 18 items included in the conference committee report that had not been in the House bill, the Senate bill or in corrective resolutions approved by the House.

UTPB, Basin health center suffer financial cuts in state budget bill

Austin Bureau AUSTIN — House and Senate members have cast their last votes for the state's $20 billion budget bill, and in doing so approved cuts for The University of Texas of the Permian Basin and development funds for the Texas Tech Medical School branch in Odessa.

recommended level of $10.8 million. West Texas Children's Home will benefit from a Senate-approved appropriation of $937,777 for construction of a new school building. Funding for education will be at higher, Senate-approved levels.

The $100,000 per year budgeted for the Permian Basin Regional Academic Health Center to be located next to Odessa's Medical Center Hospital was a slight cut from the original conference committee recommendation of $133,604 for 1980 and $135,216 for 1981 for the facility.

Unable to muster the two-thirds vote needed to suspend the rules to get around Bryant's challenge, appropriations committee chairman Bill Prenal of Bryan gave the one-hour notice needed to consider another corrective resolution, this one containing the points to which Bryant objected.

The bill now goes to Gov. Bill Clements, who has the power to veto individual line-item appropriations within the bill. Since the beginning of the session, Clements has been pushing for an appropriations bill almost a billion dollars less than the one approved, leading some observers to anticipate he will use that line-item veto to trim the bill.

Things look better for whale found on New Jersey beach

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The prognosis for the unnamed 600-pound patient was looking up today as the sick pilot whale responded to medication, began eating quantities of dead mackerel and resumed breathing normally.

The olive-black whale, believed to be only three or four years old, was being cared for in a shallow salt water pen by volunteers from the Marine Mammal Stranding Center who stayed in the water around the clock to keep her upright and prevent her from drowning.

Midland woman reports rape

ODESSA — No charges have been filed in the reported rape of a 19-year-old Midland woman Sunday.

Bob Schoelkopf, the 32-year-old director of the center, said officials didn't know for sure what was wrong with the whale, but the center's veterinarian suspected meningitis and treated the whale every six hours with drugs ordinarily used for humans.

Court orders hearing in inmate insect bite case

NEW ORLEANS — A federal appeals court today ordered a hearing on former Midland jail inmate Sammy Almagar's suit claiming he was bitten by "a viper, reptile or infectious insect" while incarcerated in Midland and that he was denied medical treatment.

Stanton's Leonard Brown occasionally takes his greyhounds into the countryside for a good run at the jackrabbits. "They're like a race horse," he says. Brown also raises chickens and hogs in town and stays busy for a retired fellow. (Staff Photo by Ed Todd)

Hound-man has shaggy dog tale

STANTON — Several years ago, Leonard Brown was running his rabbit-chasing greyhounds on the T-Bar Ranch around Tahoka when he stumbled upon a serpent. The reptile spoke with its rattlers. A duel was on. "Well," Brown recalled saying to himself, "I ain't got no stick or nothing to kill him with, so I'll spit in his mouth." And he did. The rattlesnake died. The vile stuff coming from Brown's mouth was a juicy plug of Brown Mule chewing tobacco. And Brown, instead of actually spitting the tobacco into the rattler's mouth, "threw it in his mouth." "He (the snake) didn't have sense enough to spit it out," Brown said. "And when it went in his mouth, he had fits 'til he died." The bout with the snake happened about eight or nine years ago "when I was a young man," Brown said. He's now 72. Brown said he figured that if that chaw of tobacco didn't kill the snake, it would make the rascal so sick that he "won't bother nobody no more."

BROWN HAS BEEN "running greyhounds ever since I was big enough to lead them." He got his early dog training from his father, who was "a hound man." And though greyhounds certainly are hounds, they don't have that sense of smell often associated with treeing hound dogs. "They can't coon hunt," Brown said. "They ain't got no nose. They can't smell nothing." And they're not particularly affectionate. "They've got too bad a habit to be pets," he figured. "They'll chase anything as long as it's running. They're like a race horse."

and his wife, Daisy Mae, for 21 years. He retired from an automobile dealership, where he did janitorial and mechanical work and "anything that comes to hand." "In fact," he said in a non-bragga-docious manner, "I could do something of everything." Before he claimed Stanton as home, Brown lived in Midland for 18 years where he worked in the construction trade. "I could do anything on the construction job." His specialty was caulking and cement finishing. IN HIS EARLIER YEARS, Brown, like his father, made his living picking and pulling cotton. "I was a helluva cottonpicker," Brown said. "Man, I had to pick it fast to make any money." He could pick 500 to 600 pounds in a day. Back in the 1920s in East Texas, pay was 50 cents a hundred pounds. "That was big money in that time." Years later, when he harvested cotton on the Cap Rock around Post, he could pull about a 1,000 pounds "easy" in a workday. By the late 1930s and early 1940s, he was making $1.25 per hundred pounds in pulling bolls. In his boyhood days, everybody in the family worked and worked hard. He was one of 12 children and was born in Bastrop County in southeast Texas in 1907. "My daddy trained them (children) to work," he recalled. "Wasn't like these kids today. We had to get it (work done), because if we didn't, he (father) would get us."

greyhound should one get loose inside his fenced-in backyard. "THEY (GREYHOUNDS) can't go out," Brown said. "They'll kill every chicken they can get a hold of." Brown does let the greyhounds loose in the field or range when he goes jackrabbit hunting. They catch and kill but don't eat the rabbits — at least not raw. "But if you take them (rabbits) home and cook them, they (the dogs) will eat them," Brown does too "every once in awhile." Stanton has been home for Brown money. A 48-pound sack of flour sold for $1.50. Back then, a built-in bonus was the sack, which usually was made of calico and turned into an article of clothing. "We had a better Christmas and a better everything and less money," Brown said. "and didn't have no headaches with all this fast stuff going on (nowadays)." "MY DADDY was a hustler — a hard, honest worker who knew how to support a family, Brown said. When the cotton chopping and cotton-picking or cotton-pulling seasons were over, he would cut firewood for $1.50 a cord and sold raccoon hides for $1.50 each. The family made do. So has Brown. Aside from making a reasonably good living and having a place to call his own, Brown has reared seven children and has 45 to 50 grandchildren "or more," 15 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren. Aside from running his greyhounds, Brown tends to some hogs on another lot, looks after the chickens, used to garden and generally keeps busy just running around the house and town. "I'll glad to be old," Brown. "I'm as common as they get to be."

FAA moves to ground DC-10s for 'metal fatigue'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration will ground all U.S.-registered DC-10 aircraft because of "metal fatigue" as a result of the investigation into Friday's crash of an American Airlines plane that took at least 273 lives, reliable sources reported today. The announcement was to be made at an early afternoon news conference by FAA Administrator Langhorne M. Bond, said the sources, who declined to be named.

"Metal fatigue" implies a weakening of metal parts or structures because of extended use, vibration, faulty manufacture or other stress. The sources could not say when the order would be effective. The eight U.S. airlines flying DC-10s were told by the FAA Monday to inspect engine mounts on 134 of the jetliners. The inspections were to have been completed by 3 a.m. EDT today.

The inspection orders came as government investigators continued their search for the cause of Friday's crash in Chicago, which was the nation's worst aviation disaster. Bond ordered the inspections of the wide-bodied, three-engine aircraft after investigators found that one of the small bolts attaching the engines to the plane's wings through connecting pylons broke just before the crash. Investigators at the scene said Monday it was uncertain whether the bolt or the aft bulkhead of the pylon had failed first.

fitting" because "there are indications that there could have been problems in that area." CBS News reported that investigators were looking for "evidence of unusual engine vibration in the seconds before the crash...vibration that might have increased stress" on the bolt. Bond told Monday's news conference that American's Flight 191 was doomed the moment it left the runway. He said he thought not even the most skilled pilot could have gained control of or landed a plane with a missing engine.

inspections on all its 15 DC-10s until tonight. Because of that, passengers were being shifted to other flights or flights were being consolidated. In some cases, 727s were being substituted for the jumbo jets, the line said. Northwest Airlines said it was inspecting its DC-10s in Minneapolis and Seattle and hoped to have all its 22 planes examined by the deadline. The airline said some delays were possible in the Chicago area, however.

deadline. Those companies have a total of seven DC-10s under FAA jurisdiction. The FAA order covers nearly half of the 274 DC-10s flown worldwide by 41 airlines. McDonnell Douglas Corp. is the manufacturer of the jumbo jets. Although the FAA is responsible only for U.S. airlines, FAA chief Bond urged foreign airlines "to follow our urgent advice on the need for inspections."

Safety officials disagree whether flight 'doomed'

CHICAGO (AP) — Two federal safety officials — one in Washington, the other at the crash scene in Chicago — disagree over whether American Airlines Flight 191 was "doomed" when an engine fell off. One expert says it was impossible to control the aircraft once the engine separated, while another says loss of the engine alone would not have crippled the plane fatally.

Bond, but he's in Washington and we are here (in Chicago)." Driver said at a news conference that readouts from the plane's digital flight data recorder showed the two remaining engines of the plane continued "to develop normal takeoff power for about 33 seconds" after the engine fell. He said the recorder indicated "the air crew was trying to do the best it could to correct the unusual attitude of the aircraft" and investigators would now attempt to determine why they failed.

With the bolt broken, the left engine and pylon separated from the plane, rolled over the top of the wing and fell to the ground. The jet climbed a few hundred feet, then plummeted. The eight airlines, besides inspecting the bolts, were ordered to look for cracks in the fitting that attaches the pylon to the wing structure, FAA official Al Garvis said in Los Angeles. The order calls for mechanics to "visually inspect the inside forward flange of each wing engine pylon aft bulkhead."

But Driver disagreed. Saying again that investigators feel a DC-10 should fly with only two engines attached, he added, "The proof of it is that it did go from ground zero to 600 feet, and it did not leap up there on rubber bands." Some airlines said they would inspect or replace the bolts before the FAA deadline; spokesmen for others said their maintenance crews were moving quickly to meet the deadline. American Airlines said the bolts in question on all its DC-10s have been replaced and would be examined. The FAA said American has 29 of the planes.

United Airlines officials said they planned to replace all the bolts on the wing-mounted engines of their 37 DC-10s. It said the replacements were expected to be finished today on the 24 planes scheduled to fly and that work on the remaining planes would be done "shortly" and before being put back into service. Western Airlines said some delays were possible today because all nine of its DC-10s were being flown to Los Angeles for inspection.

British Caledonian said it would replace the engine bolts on its three jumbo jets as a precaution. Laker Airways said it plans to replace the bolts on its six planes. The inspections involve lifting plates covering the engine pylon and removing the questioned bolts, Bond said. The work takes about three hours per engine, he said.

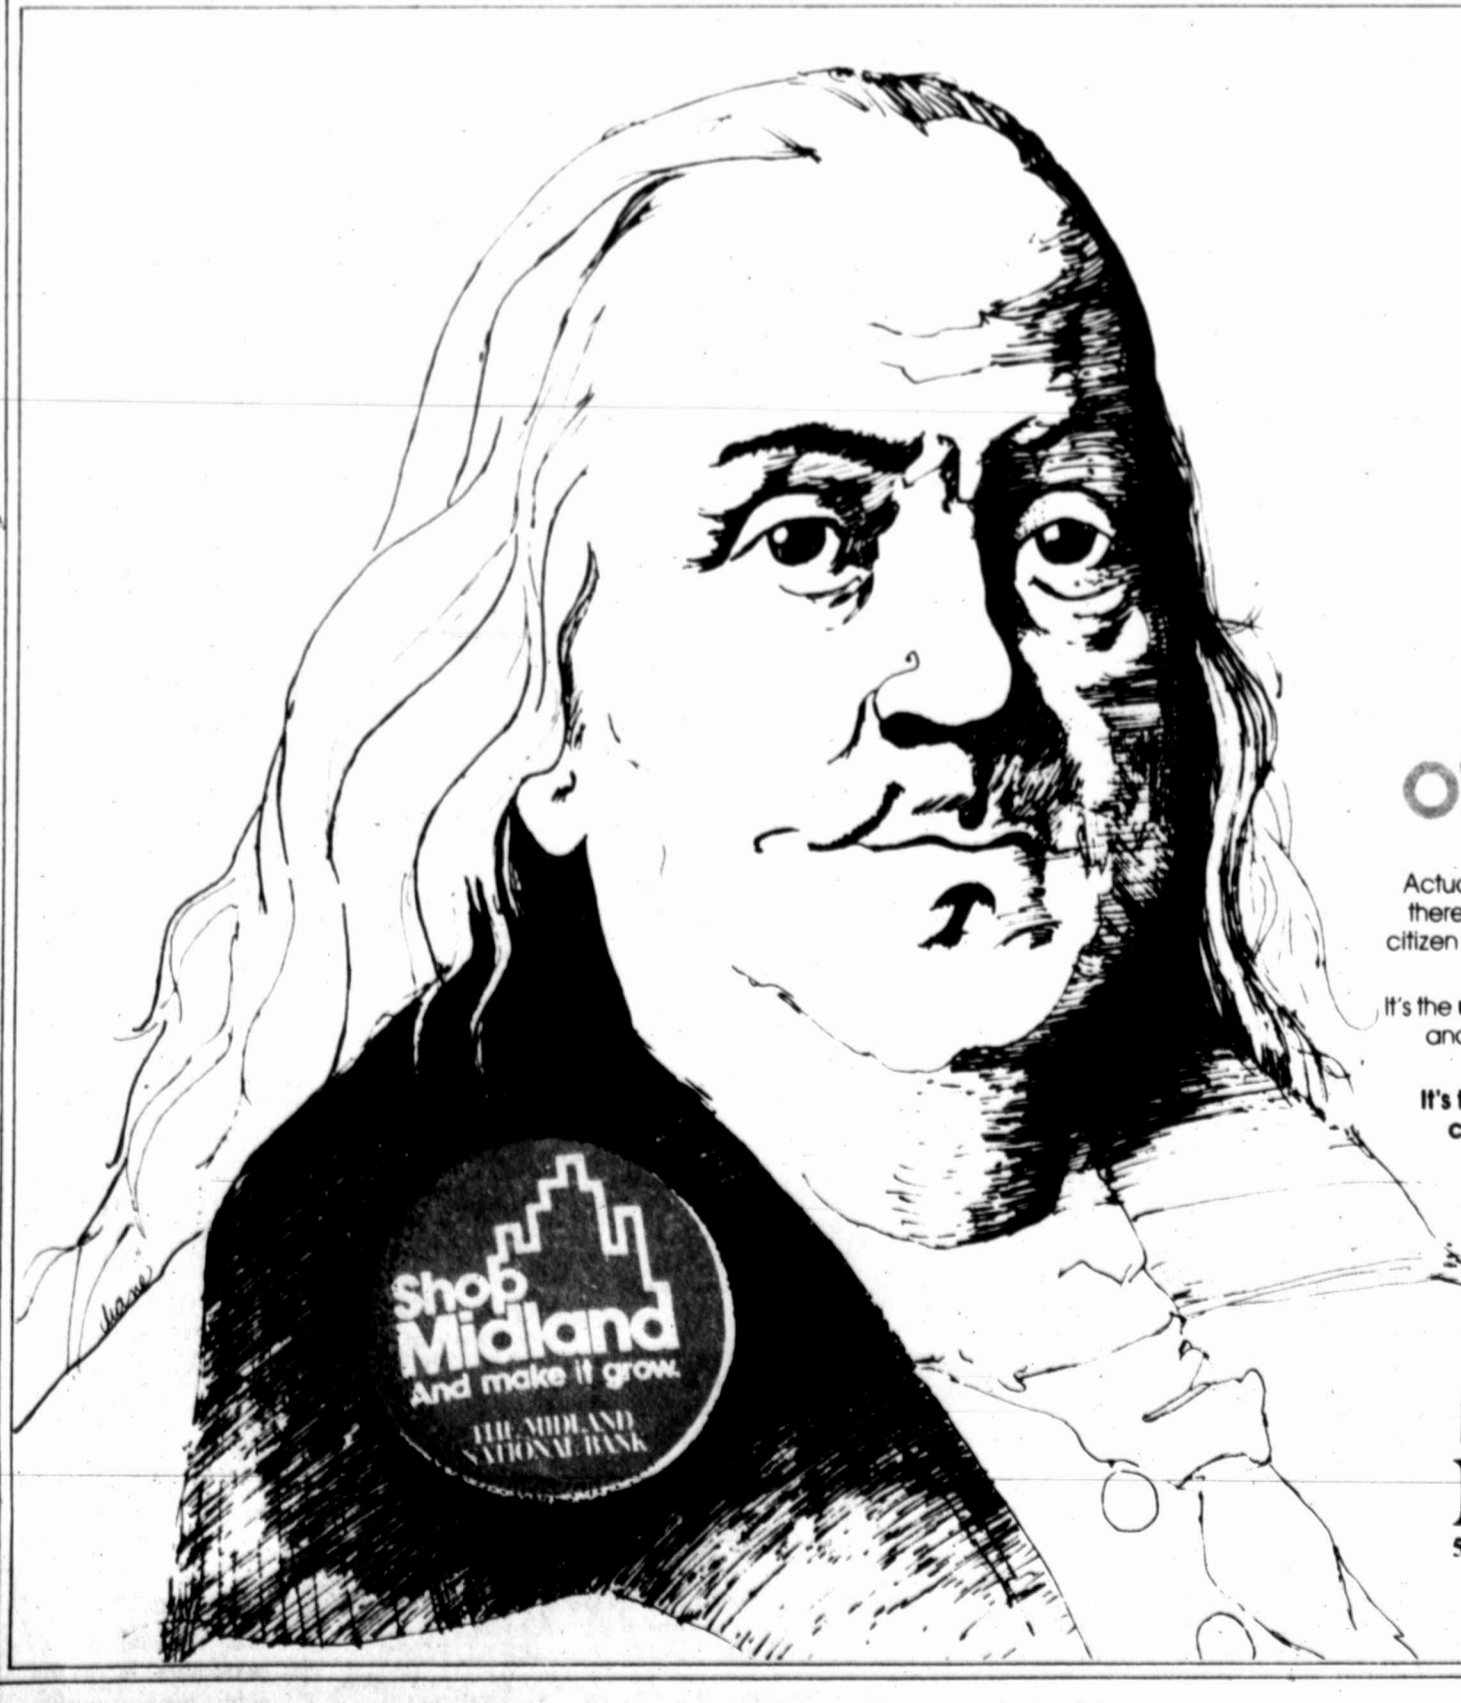

Investigators said Monday that flight data recorded on the jumbo jet shows the crew was trying to correct the DC-10s problems before it crashed Friday near O'Hare International Airport, killing at least 273 persons.

As a government-ordered inspection of engine mounting bolts on all DC-10s got underway, investigators turned up a second broken part from the engine assembly of the airliner. They said it was not clear what role, if any, it played in the nation's worst air disaster.

The dispute over whether the big jet could have been maneuvered to safety without its engine surfaced Monday between Langhorne Bond, head of the Federal Aviation Administration, and Elwood Driver, vice president of the National Transportation Safety Board.

Bond said in Washington that it would have been impossible for the pilot to land the crippled plane at O'Hare once the engine separated. He said the plane was "doomed" from the moment it left the runway. "There is no certification procedure for flying without a whole engine assembly," he said. "There is no pilot training to deal with that eventuality; no aircraft has ever been in the air under those circumstances. There is no reason to think that once that engine came off the airframe, that it would fly."

But Driver said investigators maintain a DC-10 will fly with two engines after the third has separated. "The proof of it is that it did go from ground zero to 600 feet, and it did not leap up there on rubber bands," Driver said. "I don't want to get into a fight with Langhorne

"Get a charge out of shopping Midland."

Actually, what Benjamin Franklin said was "The use of money is all the advantage there is in having it." If the noted statesman, inventor and author were alive and a citizen of Midland today, we feel sure he would endorse urging Midlanders to shop here at home. It's the use of money that causes the wheels of commerce to turn, that creates jobs, and insures a wide selection of goods. Where we spend our money does make a difference. It's time we all realized that the money we spend away from home never comes back. But the dollars we spend here in Midland circulate many times through our local economy, making life better for each of us. The dollars we spend in Midland make Midland a better place. Shop Midland. And make it grow.
