the same. But many motorists here ignore the law and whiz past buses that are loading or unloading children, said Robert Miller, transportation supervisor for the Lubbock Independent School District.

"It's the No. 1 complaint of my drivers. Many children have to cross the street after they get off the bus. Too often cars come barreling through and almost hit them. Quite a few near mishaps have been reported," he said.

So bad is the situation that Miller has provided school bus drivers with red flags.

After they've stopped their bus and turned on its flashing red lights, many drivers also get out, signal traffic to halt and attempt to shepherd youngsters across the street.

"Even this extra effort on the part of our drivers hasn't helped very much," Miller said. Indeed, he said he now has two things to worry about — the students' lives and his driv-

As much as possible, the district has designed its bus routes so that children are picked up and let off on the side of the street nearest their homes, he said. In some cases, however, it is unavoidable that children must cross a street, Miller added.

The district also has publicized laws governing buses and traffic, through Parent-Teacher Associations and the Citizens Traffic Commission.

The most frequently violated law, Miller said, is this: Whenever a school bus has stopped and is flashing its red lights — a signal that children are boarding or debarking — traffic on both sides of the street must stop.

Two years ago, to demonstrate the magnitude of violations, school bus drivers jotted down the license plate numbers of motorists who refused to stop when buses were loading or unloading. Some drivers turned in as many as seven documented violations a day — and the drivers said they represented only a fraction of the actual abuses.

School officials said police have been cooperative in moni-toring the busiest school bus stops and in ticketing violators,

Nationwide, he said, most bus-related fatalities occur no a collisions, but during the process of loading or unloading

Besides bus stops along streets, another danger point is ous zones around school campuses, said Bob Wyett, the ichool system's safety coordinator.

Parents who drive their children to school in the mornin and pick them up in the afternoon, often block the bu zones, he said. "A good percentage of our accidents occu when a bus is trying to squeeze into a loading zone."

Some schools are urging parents to arrange to pick the children up on side streets a block or so away from camp. Wyett said. Such arrangements, he said, would relieve paing and traffic congestion around schools.

Felipe Vega, 18, of 2636 E. Bates St. died at West Texas Hospital about 21/2 hours after he was shot twice when an apparently long-standing argument erupted into gunfire, police said. Justice of the Peace Wayne LeCroy ruled the death a homicide.

OFFICERS CALLED to the 1700block of E. Auburn Street at 12:49 a.m. found Vega lying face up on the sidewalk. Witnesses told police a party was in progress at the Auburn Street residence when a fight involving several people began outside the house

Witnesses said the fight later erupted into gunfire, with Vega, Albert Gomez and David Gomez, both of 215 Beech St., suffering gunshot wounds.

Albert Gomez suffered gunshot wounds to the stomach and right side while David Gomez was wounded in the chest and side. Both men were treated at St. Mary's Hospital.

ONLY TWO hours later, Ismael Ledesma Jr. was fatally wounded during a shooting in the 3100-block of Harvard. A 16-year-old youth was taken into custody in connection with the incident.

Ledesma was pronounced dead at 3:11 a.m., about a half hour after EMS technicians transported him to Health Sciences Center Hospital. Police said he suffered a .22-caliber gunshot wound to the left chest and LeCroy ruled the death a homicide or this week's survey we interviewed 29 security analysts who specialize in the computer and data processing industry. They were with such important firms as Crocker Investment Management, Manufacturer's Hanover Trust, Dean Witter Reynolds and Bache Haisey Stuart Shields. Each security analyst was asked how high and how low he thought each stock would go in the next six months.

Top five computer and data processing stocks

Analysts forecast that Floating Point Systems would rise by an average of 48 percent in the next six months. Denelcor was forecast to rise by 46 percent and Amdahl, a young company that manufacturers large scale, high performance computers, by 45 percent. Cray Research also was expected to go up by 45 percent and Manufacturing Data Systems by 42 percent. When asked how low computer and data processing stocks might go, analysts forecast that Manufacturing Data Systems and Denelcor each could go down by 13 percent; Amdahl and Cray Research by 9 percent each. On the other hand, analysts forecast a drop of 7 percent for Floating Point Systems. This means that analysts are saying Floating Point Systems is likely to have more stable growth than Manufacturing Data Systems, Denelcor, Amdahl and Cray Research.

Analysts forecast Floating Point Systems and Denelcor, both of which are new issues, have a positive outlook over the next six months. Amdahl has had a significant earnings increase in 1978 and is expected to continue its upward trend. # Lunch program for children will continue ast summer approximately 930 Lubbock children a day from low-income families were served free lunches as part of the federal Children's Summer Food Service Program. This year the number is expected to increase 25 percent as more sponsors are being recruited in rural areas such as the South Plains.

Although schools are the most logical sites to serve the meals because they have preparation facilities and experienced staff, local program sponsors say South Plains school boards have not been enthusiastic about participating in the food program. Most of last summer's meals in Lubbock were served in parks or in community cen-

"Because of the negativism about welfare, school boards here are not too willing to get involved in the program," said Mylinda Walker of Lubbock office of the Department of Human Resources.

BY USING SCHOOL FACILITIES, food service staff are kept employed through the summer "which keeps the (employment) turnover down," Miss Walker said.

The Department of Human Resources is "trying to encourage schools to participate in the summer program particularly in rural areas, because rural areas often do not know about the program," said Orville McDaniels, supervisor of the Child Care Food Programs Commodity Distribution Division in Austin.

Texas sponsors of the food program totaled 100 during last summer's peak, includ-

Two of the three Lubbock sponsors, the Parks and Recreation Department and the Llano Estacado Farm Workers already have decided to offer the program again this

SPONSORS ARE AUTHORIZED to serve up to four meals a day, according to McDaniels. Sponsors must be tax-exempt, non-profit organizations such as scho churches and city and county agencies. The USDA provides the money, while the Department of Human Resources pays a certain amount for operation costs or a rate of reimbursement for each meal served. Lubbock's biggest sponsor last year, the Llano Estacado Farm Workers, had five summer youth sites in Anton, Morton, Tahoka, Brownfield and Floydada and coupled their feeding program with recreational and educational activites.

They plan to do the same this year, according to executive director Eliseo Soles, who said, "We're certainly more than willing to sponsor the program again and in fact we're going to actively pursue it for this summer.'

The Parks and Recreation Department already has sent in their prc-application saying they are interested in having a summer food program this year, according to recreation supervisor Kay Stiner.

MORE THAN 27,000 children were served sack lunches "during the noon meal during the regular park community center programs," Mrs. Stiner said. "The children's sacks were checked to see that the lunches were eaten. They (the children) don't get to run around and throw their food around.

"All the trash is disposed of," she said. "The kids can't say 'we want six lunches' and take them home.'

The meals, which are checked and supervised by a Human Resources supervisor, are based on locality, McDaniels said, and all menus are submitted for approval Where possible, he said, meals are prepared from scratch, but at some places it is possible only to serve pre-packed sandwiches.

"If we didn't have the vendors at these places they couldn't have the program," he said, adding that certain requirements must be met as in the school lunch programs.

"Not many of the regional people know much about the program," he said. "As a state agency we're able to get out more than USDA was able to."

McDANIELS EXPECTS A 25 percent growth in sponsors this summer, and is not particularly worried about community negativism because he heard "nothing but favorable comments" last summer.

Llano Estacado officials and the Parks and Recreation supervisors agreed, adding that they received "no complaints from the community or negative feelings about the program.' "I'm sure (complaints) were evident somewhere, Soles said, "but we didn't come into contact with any.

People, McDaniels said, "immediately go on the defensive when hearing about the program. They say 'why can't Mommy and Daddy feed them (the children) during

"It kind of irks me that at the end of May nobody's got anything to say about what happens to them," he said. "The slack has to be taken up somewhere." "I worked the sites and saw the children," she said. "In most cases the children do need the lunches.'

Inviting a tyranny of silence

SAY THE WORD "filibuster" to most people and what immediately leaps to mind is a vision of red-necked, white-haired tonguewaggers from the Deep Scuth rattling on for days keeping U.S. Senate business tied up until the (expletive) liberals abandon for the umpteenth time their efforts to pass civil rights legislation.

Admittedly, the prevailing view. But a wrong one, nonetheless.

It's important to understand the unique role extended debate plays in our political process, especially as effort upon effort is made to change Senate rules in a way thatwould all but outlaw this form of protest and debate.

The great political philosopher John Stuart Mill, in his writings, "On Liberty," struck at the heart of the matter:

"IF ALL mankind minus one were of one opinion, and only one person were of the contrary opinion, mankind would be no more justified in silencing that person, than he, if he had the power, would be justified in silencing mankind."

Writing in Policy Review quarterly, Margo Carlisle, a political professional on the Senate staff, notes the rules are attacked as outdated and anti-democratic.

A memorandum circulated by the UAW union describes the filibuster as an "undemocratic and archaic tool of reaction, a pernicious device (employed by) bitter and selfish (people) to abuse the victims of racism and sexism; the poor, the handicapped, the aged, children, the sick and the workers." One is left wondering who's left.

WHAT IS of concern is the fact that by its very nature a "filibuster" is only used when the most controversial issues are before the Senate. These are the issues that also by their nature require an informed public.

To set the record absolutely straight, while literally thousands of bills get introduced (22,313 last term alone), only 83 actions through 1976 ever have been filibustered. Of these, Mrs. Carlisle tells us, only 21 ultimately failed to win approval.

Says she: "A filibuster...signals to the people that an important issue is under discussion giving the majority who do not follow the day-to-day stream of legislation a chance to-be heard. Only they have the right to make the final decision.

To take away this effective/widely misunderstood tool will be to invite the tyranny that John Stuart Mill warned against the tyranny of silence.

Enclosed is my frustrated, futile at-tempt to protest the tax situation of the educator barely clinging to the lowest ring of the middle class financial status.

Supposedly, this form of protest is healthy while egging the local I.R.S. office would just cost money and waste good food. I must admit I feel better aft-

Getting off work at midnight, Dewey Bandy climbs into his pickup truck and flips on his CB. Driving home, the channels are pretty clear and he tunes in on familiar voices — people he has come to know while heading home after the late

You may know him by his CB handle, "Walking Tall." What you may not know is that he's almost completely deaf.

Bandy likes to tell the story of how he met "Shotgun", another CB-er. Bandy picked up his signal on his CB one night and introduced himself, adding that he was hard of hearing.

"Shotgun", like most people, found it hard to believe. He questioned him for a while, trying to understand how a man who couldn't hear could use a CB.

Finally frustrated from the attempts to explain himself, Bandy made arrangements to meet "Shotgun" on down the road a bit. They met face to face and 'Shotgun' still wasn't convinced.

"I pulled my hair up and showed him my hearing aids," Bandy said.

TAKEN ABACK, all "Shotgun" could sputter out was "Well I'll be darned." Bandy gets a kick out of proving that he really is very hard of hearing. Wearing both hearing aids is enough for him to pick up transmissions on the CB and he has a power horn to boost the signal if he should tire of the hearing aids and need to remove them.

But this seemingly impossible ability did not come easy for Bandy. Born almost completely deaf, Bandy said "People thought I was a wild animal or mentally retarded because I didn't know what was going on.

"I was born deaf. I don' know how they found out but I think a neighbor noticed my reactions," he explained. His parents took the initiative and quickly enrolled him in a school for the deaf. Bandy speaks very highly of the Jan Brooks School for the Deaf in Oklahoma City, Okla. - and he credits that training with his ability to communicate as well as he does.

AND BANDY does very well. He reads lips and his two hearing aids allow him to hear a little as well.

"Deafness doesn't bother me any more," Bandy claimed. He joked about it saying he didn't hear annoying sounds outside his apartment and could easily tune out things he didn't want to bother Bandy's small dog - a black and white package of hyperactivity - provides more than just companionship. If the doorbell or telephone should ring while his hearing aids are out, the dog starts barking loudly enough for Bandy to hear it.

But he fully realizes that many deaf people are not as fortunate as he and he's pretty vocal about what can be done to help them. He uses his CB as a means of dispelling a lot of misconceptions people have about the deaf.

HIS CB BUDDY, "Shotgun", came to him over the air for advice about a friend's deaf child. It seems the family had just about given up

Bandy explained that the family was ready to give the child up for adoption, not knowing what else to do. He advised "Shotgun" that if the child was given up for that reason, she probably would grow up feeling completely rejected and

HE DESCRIBED some of the power boosting devices he uses on his CB, television and telephone. He watched television for years without benefit of a boosting device and was forced to turn it up to the limit Invariably, turning up the set to the maximum always ruined the sound of the television. After fixing several of Bandy's burned-out TVs, a repairman asked what the problem was.

When he found out the sound wasn't loud enough for him, he equipped the set for use with headphones similar to those used on a stereo. Bandy was amazed and just couldn't believe what he'd been missing.

"Boy, I listened to every word they Bandy said, a grin spreading across his face. To hear him tell it, he may not have budged from in front of the set for weeks.

Pottery class registration under way

The cultural affairs division of the Lubbock Parks and Recreation Department currently is conducting registration for pottery classes at the Mackenzie Terrace Shopping Center. Classes are scheduled to begin March 26.

The Pottery Center, located at 407 E. Broadway, is designed to provide professional services to community aspirants and individual artists in the ceramic art. The center's activities and services include class programs, workshops and ceramic art festivals and provides work space and facilities for individual artists presently without those benefits.

The classes, conducted by five instructors each with their own area of expertise as well as visiting artists, will meet twice weekly for three hours. Each class will last for six weeks, and will cover handbuilding techniques and the use of the potter's wheel as well as firing and glazing methods.

Workshops will deal with specifics in the ceramic arts, such as salt firing, raku firing, stoneware firing, smoke firing and clay forming demonstrations.

The ceramic arts festivals will include pottery sales, slide lectures and work in conjunction with the ceramic workshops.

Registration for classes ends April 2. For additional information contact the center at 762-6411, Ext. 2684.

Sears sales volume exceeds expectations

By Ray Westbrook date Staff Write

SEARS. WHICH has been in operation for two years at its South Plains Mall location, reports the volume of business logged at the regional trade center has exceeded expectations.

The department store moved from its downtown location at 1625 13th St. - quarters it had occupied since 1947 in February, 1977.

Al Thom, manager of the new store, said the volume of sales has been greater than was expected when the move was made.

Sears combined its satellite retail and catalog store, operated at 2610 50th St., with the expanded store when it transferred to the mall location.

The resulting store, with its added space, has become one of the chain's most complete facilities.

Thom, who has been with Sears for 21 years, and is a graduate of the University of Texas at Austin, said that in order to find stores of comparable assortment and selection, one would have to travel east to Fort Worth, west to Albuquerque, N.M., or north to

A NEW procedure for the Lubbock store's catalog department also was applied at that time. Consisting of a self-service program where the customer claims his own package, the method reportedly has been well re-

Thom indicated that the catalog department is by far the largest single retail division of the store. An assortment of over 100,000 items are listed in the catalog. "We can't begin to carry all those in the store when you consider size, color and style," he ex-

THE STORE HAS a complete shoe department, and an athletic area where all sporting lines from fishing to football are stocked. Gymn sets and toys are also a part of Sears' inventory, plus an outdoor shop in season. Merchandising at Sears is assisted by technology, which monitors sales trends, and enables the store to replenish supply based on demand for particular items The store attempts to compete for the broad middle ground of American consumers, leaving the approximately 10 percent served by discount stores and another 10 percent served by exclusive stores, to others.

Thom noted that Sears' basic strength is often considered to be in the area of durables, such as Craftsman tools, Kenmore washing machines, and many lines in the home fashion and home entertainment

A LARGE PART of the firm's business also is attributed to its credit department, which Thom indicated was a pioneering feature of earlier days for

He related that the corporation had its beginning when Richard Sears, a railroad station clerk in Redwood, Minn., began marketing a shipment of watches which were unclaimed.

signment "to sell them if he could, and pay for them when he did.

Sears sold the watches basically through a satisfaction, money-back guarantee - which was unheard of in that day of "let the buyer beware."

He did get some of the watches back, according to Thom, and met that problem by employing Alvah Roebuck, a watch repairman.

ACCORDING TO a corporation report, Sears, Roebuck and Co. was officially launched in Chicago by the two entrepreneurs in 1893.

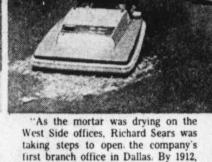

The report said, "Sears, Roebuck and Co. appealed to rural America, and with all the flair of P.T. Barnum, Richard Sears made his catalog copy dance. The earliest catalogs offered only watches, but by 1895, a 532-page general catalog sang praises to its shoes, china, furniture, stoves, musical instruments, glassware, wagons and many other items."

While the firm's selling, merchandising and advertising were proficient, the organizing of the company to handle orders efficiently required outside help. Julius Rosenwald, who bought into the company in 1895, had the necessary skills.

Roebuck retired that same year due to ill health.

In 1906, Sears and Rosenwald for the first time sold common and preferred stock on the open market to scrape up some additional capital. The company has been publicly owned ever since.

The report continued, "Much of this additional capital was used for the construction of a $5 million catalog plant and office building on Chicago's West Side. When employees moved, in 1906, it was the largest business building in the world and it's still among the largest with 3 million square feet in 1920; and Kansas City in 1925." Today, other centers are located in Boston, Atlanta, Memphis, Minneapolis, Greensboro, Los Angeles, Columbus and Jacksonville.

"Improvements in efficiency continued. Around 1908, for instance, a time schedule was introduced to bring orcago plant to handle 10 times the busi ness it previously handled. The system became a kind of 'seventh wonder,' of the business world, and such famous businessmen as Henry Ford came to study the assembly line technique, according to the report.

The company opened its first retail store at the Chicago catalog order plant in 1925.

Sears now has a vast organization, which is divided into Chicago parent headquarters, five territory organizations headed by executive vice presidents, and group and zone organizations within each territory. The Lubbock store is a part of the

Dallas territory

THOM, REFLECTING on some of the things which have contributed to Sears' success, said, "Our strength is our people. We still try to give the customer equal quality for less and superior quality for no more, but our big advantages we once had in offering credit and service are now challenged by most people who are reputable and want to remain in business. These are things that customers and consumers

'So, our strength today and in the future will lie in the kind of people we attract and are able to develop to present our case to the public.

The future economy looks good to Sears. Thom said the corporation has a track record of performing better than the economy. "When things get a little tough and the economy tightens up somewhat, we can better serve the customer than any of our competitors because of our breadth and depth of assortment.

Practically all the goods which Sears buys are domestically produced.

We like to have our suppliers, wherever practical, geographically

Lubbock was the home for Iranian Crown Prince Reza Pahlavi during eight of the most trying months of his life.

From the prince's arrival in Lubbock on July 17, 1978, for pilot training at Reese Air Force Base, until his departure Sunday, he was alternately the center of controversy, publicity and speculation, but always heavily shielded by se-

He made his first solo when he was 11, had his pilot's license when 12 and already has flown the F-5 bomber, the mainstay of the Iranian Air Force.

The prince came to Lubbock for 170 hours of training in T-37 and T-38 aircraft at Reese Air Force Base. Tuition of $181,930 was prepaid by the Iranian government.

Less than a week after his arrival on the South Plains controversy beset the youthful prince. The Iranian Student Association of Texas Tech University protested the presence of the Shah's son in Lubbock, staging a demonstration on July 20. About 700 protesters wore masks and marched seven miles carrying anti-

Ty Cobb

QUESTION: Who was Ty Cobb ANSWER: Tyrus Raymond Cobb - nicknamed "The Georgia Peach" was one of the finest players and most dynamic figures to ever play major

Cobb (1886-1961) was born to well-to-do parents in Georgia. He began his baseball career with the Augusta (Ga.) team at age 17. A year later, in 1905, -the Detroit Tigers of the American League purchased Cobb's contract for $7.50. The transaction proved to be one of the best bargains in baseball histo-

Cobb played in Detroit for 22 seasons. He led the league in hitting 12 of those years, nine of them in a row. Only once, in his rookie year, did Cobb fail to bat above .300, and three times, he batted better than .400. Cobb's lifetime batting average of .367 is a major league record that may never be broken.

The left-handed hitting Cobb was known for his superb base running as well.

He stole 96 bases in 1915, and almost 900 bases lifetime, records which were Jonly recently surpassed. Cobb was an aggressive and often hot-tempered player who sometimes aroused the anger and resentment of opposing players. The list of records Cobb set during his playing career is a long one. He had the honor of being the first player elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame.

By William D. Kerns Update Entertainment Editor

The big film opening today is "The China Syndrome" at the Fox Fourplex, bound to attract big crowds for its marquee value alone: Jack Lemmon, Jane Fonda and Michael Douglas. I saw the film at a press screening in Dallas, and found myself on the edge of my seat as a TV news crew fights a coverup after witnessing an accident at a California nuclear power plant. Those who enjoy the political issues will no doubt get something extra out of the film, but the average moviegoer will laud the motion picture simply as an excellent and well-directed thriller.

Also opening today is a scary contemporary picture called "The Silent Partner," starring Elliot Gould and Christopher Plummer. Word has it there's a very bloody scene involving an aquarium in the picture.

The clubs are offering their usual selection of country and rock, with Celebration back at the Silver Dollar and Johnny Bush singing country tonight at the Red Raider. Joey Allen, who used to sing by himself at the Coppercreek, has put together a band, dubbed it Smokehouse and got himself a booking this weekend at Cold Water Country.

Of course, The Kingston Trio will be appearing twice in concert Sunday at the Country Squire Dinner Theater.

Next-week, Showplace plans to bring in both "Children Of Sanchez" and the touted "Boulevard Nights." The South Plains Cinema will open "The Deer Hunter," predicted by some to sweep next month's Academy Awards. And Robert Altman's "Quintet" opens next week at the Backstage.

Once again, if anyone is not yet included in the Take Your Pick listings and would like to be, that person or organization should call 762-8844 or write Update, Box 491, Lubbock, Tex. 79408. We both need and appreciate your support - and your cooperation in meeting our deadlines.

Backstage I — "Midnight Express." No matter how many Academy Award nominations this powerful and gripping motion picture has earned, it is still a travesty that the performance of star Brad Davis was neglected. The film is one of the five current candidates for Best Picture of the Year honors. Davis plays Billy Hayes, a young American who foolishly tries to smuggle hashish out of Turkey, gets caught and sentenced to a punishment much too severe to even come close to fitting the crime. "Midnight Express" in a film which sets heach the singurer in It is neverthal and it. press" is a film which gets beneath the viewer's skin. It is horrifyingly powerful. And it should not be missed by anyone with a strong heart.

Backstage II - "The Seduction Of Amy." X-rated material.

Cinematheque — There will be no Cinematheque offering on Wednesday because of Texas Tech University's spring break.

Cinema West - "Ice Castles." Only the coldest of hard-hearted moviegoers could say they felt nothing from this new effort starring Lynn-Holly Johnson and Robby Benson. The picture is far from flawless and there's no denying it is overly sentimental—but the caring is so obvious that viewers may find the flaws hidden behind a veil of tears. Excellent supporting performances from Tom Skerrit, Colleen Dewhurst and Jen-

Fine Arts Drive-In - "Farewell, Scarlet" and "A Touch Of Sweden." X-rated mate-

Fox I - "Every Which Way But Loose." Clint Eastwood is now starring with an orangutan named Clyde, but only Clyde has an excuse for making this nauseating piece of trash. After all, he (it?) couldn't read the script. Laced with country music, this picture is an insult to liberals, conservatives, rednecks, music lovers, animal lovers and anybody who prefers movies offering entertainment. But don't ever make the mistake of thinking a critic makes or breaks a movie, since "Every Which Way But Loose" has already earned more money than any other Clint Eastwood movie released to date.

Fox II - "The Warriors." Just as 1978 was the year of the Vietnam film, 1979 is already being touted as the year of the gang movie. Let's hope they're all as exciting as "The Warriors," a movie which takes a simple chase motif and transforms it into sheer cinema action. Though controversial (the film has reportedly instigated gang violence in California theaters showing it), the film is never boring. It deserves its R rating but, irbnically, makes use of no gratuitous violence. A rough movie, it is well directed by Walter Hill and very entertaining.

Fox III — "Hardcore." George C. Scott gives a rugged, powerful performance as a Midwestern businessman who looks for his runaway daughter in the seedy, sick porn parlors of southern California. But though the movie may match the intensity, it does not match the consistency of director Paul Schrader's previous effort, "Blue Collar." His "Hardcore" is a tough story with a soft ending, a conclusion which just doesn't fit any semblance of reality. All in all, it remains a movie worth seeing, a movie with an impact - but a movie with definite script problems, all the same

Fox IV - "The China Syndrome." Starring Jack Lemmon, Jane Fonda and Michael Douglas, this film manages to be both exciting and topical. Some might even call it an important motion picture. The plot concerns itself with an accident at a nuclear pe plant, but even those who don't care for political implications will be kept on the edge of their seats by this thriller's tension. The entire cast is superb, but Jack Lemmon stands out as the power plant employee who comes to grips with his own conscience Though the filmmakers insist it was not intentional, there is also a highway murder scene which brings to mind the Karen Silkwood case.

Golden Horseshoe Drive-In, Front and Back Screens — Closed until mid-April.

Home Box Office - This pay television station offers movies and specials not presently on Lubbock's big screens. Premieres are held on HBO each weekend evening, and then repeated throughout the month. Tonight will see HBO premiere "The Other Side Of The Mountain, Part Two," a tearjerker bound to affect anyone with a sentimental bone in his or her body. Saturday will see a Glen Campbell concert offered without commercial cuts on HBO. And on Sunday, there is the exceptional one-man show in which Henry Fonda plays Clarence Darrow. It is not to be missed. Earlier Sunday evening, HBO will premiere "The Revenge Of The Pink Panther," starring Peter Sellers in nis now famous formula role.

And if you'd like something to look forward to: Neil Simon's "The Goodbye Girl," the comedy hit which earned Richard Dreyfuss an Oscar, will be on HBO in April.

Showplace I - "Days Of Heaven." One of the best films of 1978 and certainly the most gorgeous. A lyrical portrait of isolation and loneliness in the turn of the century Panhandle, the film stars Richard Gere and Brooke Adams. Both its cinematography (Nestor Almendros) and music (Ennio Morricone) have been nominated for Academy

Showplace II - "Heaven Can Wait." The winner of the Lubbock readers' poll as Best Film. "Heaven Can Wait" has been nominated for nine Academy Awards. Warren Beatty is splendid as the football player called to his Maker too soon, and Dyan Cannon, Charles Grodin and Jack Warden are all fine and funny in supporting roles. I'm not sure it's the very best film of 1978, but there's no denying it's one of the most popular pic-

Showplace III - "Saturday Night Fever." In an effort to increase the profits on one of its biggest grossing films, Paramount has released a new PG-rated version of This is it, folks. Parents can now let their children attend, bu Saturday Night Fever. those who have already seen the picture may be disappointed with the new watered-

Showplace IV - "The Silent Partner." The plot concerns a bank teller who learns a robbery is planned, and so decides to help himself to some money beforehand. Naturally, the bank robber is upset to discover he didn't get all the money reported missing by the bank. So he goes after the teller. The thriller stars Elliott Gould, Christopher Plummer and Susannah York and is said to have some very violent scenes. Not screened at

Brooke Adams and Sam Shepard in "Days Of Heave Artistic film masterpiece still at Showplace Six

Showplace V — "Superman." OK, so the brunt of the folks writing me letters tell me they enjoyed this flick. OK, so a good 70 per cent of my critic friends tell me they enjoyed this flick. OK, so a lot of A-J staffers have taken the time (who asked them?) to drop by and tell me they enjoyed this flick. In the words of Steve Martin, "Well, excu-u-u-use me!" I disliked the picture mostly because of the lack of cohesion and the too hyped special effects. Only Christopher Reeve's marvelous starring debut in the title

Showplace VI — "The North Avenue Irregulars." A horrid formula script is made appealing through a couple of wonderfully realized comic performances by Barbara Harris and Cloris Leachman. Excellent slapstick and car crashes for the kids, and enough wit to keep the parents from dozing off, too.

South Plains Cinema I, Mall — "Tommy." Ken Russell's innovative rock opera is back for a one week run. Based on the LP by The Who, the film stars Roger Daitrey, Ann-Margret, Oliver Reed, the late Keith Moon as Uncle Ernie, Tina Turner as The Acid Queen and Elton John as The Pinball Wizard. An excellent concept film, with the entire story told through music and song.

South Plains Cinema II, Mall — "Fast Break." It sounds like the bad news bears of basketball. Gabe Kaplan plays a basketball coach hired by a college with the sole understanding he must win to get paid. He's told to find his players wherever he can find them, so he recruits a college team off the streets. Kaplan is a good comic with a fine sense of timing, so the picture has potential. Not screened at press time.

South Plains Cinema III, Mall — "Agatha." The acting is very, very good in this film. Unfortunately, the storyline occasionally falters. No matter. This tale of what might have happened during mystery writer Agatha Christie's 11-day disappearance keeps our attention. And the photography and art direction are both splendid. Vanessa Redgrave is Agatha Christie: Dustin Hoffman is the American journalist who tracks her down, learns her secret and faces a decision of his own

South Plains Cinema IV, Mall - "The Great Train Robbery." Delightful fun, this film stars San Connery, Donald Sutherland and Leslie-Anne Down as a trio of crooks attempting to pull off the first robbery ever from a moving train in England. The time is the mid-19th century, and director Michael Crichton succeeds in supplying both a dandy adventure story and a few terse comments about Victorian hypocrisy. The photography is lush, and this film is a sure bet for film buffs who like their movies light and enter-

Village — "The Jungle Book." Back for the umpteenth time in the city, this is one of Disney's most delightful and hilarious animated efforts. Great songs, too. And if one could win awards for voice-overs, Phil Harris would surely be in the running for his vocal performance as Baloo The Bear. The picture is playing with "The Sign Of Zorro," a couple of spliced-together episodes off the Disney TV program.

Winchester — "Bedknobs And Broomsticks." This Disney re-release tries its best to copy the success of "Mary Poppins," but ends up looking like just that: a copy. Angela Class stimulates home economics interest and make a blouse. A second garment is made at home - pants, skirt, vest. Some students were so energetic that they made all three garments at home. We also have male students in the class, and some of them made shirts and slacks. "The second quarter we studied 'foods and nutrition,' as Tammy has told you. In that class, students learned to make yeast breads and pastries and how to cook meats and poultry. Proper measurement was taught and even kitchen organization.

"In the current quarter - the last one for the school term before summer vacation - we are studying needlecraft and in addition will be making layette and toddler garments. And perhaps it may be surprising to a lot of people to learn that students also will be studying the needs of retarded and handicapped children and will put their knowledge to use by participating in the Special Olympics to be held in April.

Mrs. Smith believes students will be particularly interested in one segment of the current quarter called "The World of Work." In this class, students will be given tips on such things as how to get a job, how to apply and how to keep a job.

TO SUMMARIZE what the 'new' home economics student is doing in today's world, Mrs. Smith said, "We don't just make aprons these days. The field of home economics is widening and opportunities are limitless and interesting. I believe there is definitely a growing interest in homemaking, particularly among business women. Those who work outside the home want to learn new ways to handle household duties more efficiently, and how to manage, food budgets better. Men, too, are becoming more interested in home economics and want to learn how to get by on their own.

There is a definite trend for couples to share household tasks, as well as child care, and this is another reason I feel there will be more home economics students - both male and female - in the

Lease agreement protects landlords, tenants

By Tom Griess Update Staff Writer

Tenants will never be free of unscrupulous landlords; landlords will never be rid of dishonest tenants. Such are the lessons of history. The lease agreement a mere document of words — cannot prevent the apartment owner from confiscating more than his fair share of a security deposit, nor can it stop the dweller from stealing silently away, rent unpaid and lease broken.

But close attention to the requirements of the lease contract, rudimentary knowledge of the state landlord-tenant laws and simple common sense will prevent many of the misunderstandings that result in courtroom proceedings, and that should be motivation enough for both parties to take heed.

Always read carefully beforehand the lease contract to be certain that no unusually restrictive tenant clauses or lax management provisions are inserted, advises Lynda Vance, a consumer analyst with the Texas Attorney General's office

If the prospective tenant desires additional services from management, he should request the landlord to write them on the contract, she says. Lacking this protection, the dweller should always supply a written request - keeping a copy for himself - to the landlord

SOME LEASE contracts contain a "default by owner" clause that outlines the responsibilities of management, Larry Morgan, executive director of the Lubbock Apartment Association, says.

"Basically, the owner is providing the tenant with an out if the residence is lacking the basic amenities of life," he explains. "The resident should look for something like this."

Texas Apartment Association (TAA) leases are used throughout the state and by about 75 percent of the Lubbock rental units. Morgan estimates. The TAA contract contains the "default by owner" clause, but more important, consistent use of it allows the renter to develop a familiarity with the necessary ingredi-

Swine shortcourse set at Plainview for pork producers

PLAINVIEW (Special) - Pork producers in West Texas have an opportunity to learn the latest strategies and methods in management and production at the annual Texas A&M University Swine Shortcourse here Wednesday, April 4.

Leading animal scientists and producers from Texas, Arizona, Minnesota, Iowa and Indiana will conduct the day-long program at the Hale County Agricultural Center south of the city. There is a $7 registration fee for the course, noted Dr. Robert S. Cohen, area swine specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension

The course is organized and sponsored by the Extension Service. Cooperating ence at A&M, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Texas Pork Producers Association, and Texas Pork Producers

The course begins at 8 a.m. and adjourns at 4:15 p.m.

Management strategies for the breeding herd and for the young boar will be outlined by Dr. Wayne Singleton, a reproductive physiologist and extension specialist at Purdue University, West Lafavatte, Ind.

Opportunities for improving reproductive efficiency will be discussed in the morning session by Dr. Al Leman. In the afternoon, he will discuss reproductive diseases and problems. Leman is associate professor of large animal medicine and Extension veterinarian at the College of Veterinary Medicine, University of Minnesota, St. Paul.

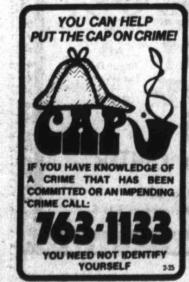

The use of frozen boar semen for artificial insemination will be explained by Keith Olson. He is director and chief operating officer of International Boar Semen, Eldora, Iowa.

His experience in feeding reclaimed waste to sows will be reported by Jim Caldwell, who operates a 3,125-sow farrow-to-finish operation in Snowflake, Ar-

Regulations affection the producer who mixes feed for his swine will be explained by I.J. Shenkir. He is assistant director for feed with the Texas Feed and Fertilizer Control Service, College Station.

Swine research being conducted by the Texas A&M University System will be outlined by four scientists from the department of animal science, the Experiment Station and Extension Service. They are Dr. T.D. Tanksley Jr., Dr. Darrell Knabe, Dr. Howard Hesby and Dr.

Moderators for the course will be Cohen and Dr. William B. Thomas, Extension swine specialist, College Station.

the great majority of the landlord-tenant cases he hears involve management who are not members of the TAA

SMITH CREDITS much of the TAA's success to its arbitration process for disagreements. "Most of these disputes could be easily resolved if they had a third party involved," he says.

To avoid the courtroom, which involves a $7 filing fee for Small Claims Court (jurisdiction for claims up to $150) and a $15 filing fee plus the likelihood of attorney fees for Justice of the Peace Court (jurisdiction for claims up to $500), tenants would be wise to learn the abc's of the state comprehensive landlord-tenant laws. A pamphlet prepared by the State Bar of Texas entitled "You, Your Landlord and the Law"can help.

Tenants inevitably worry about losing their security deposits, often because they are not certain of the lessee or lessor responsibilities.

ACCORDING TO the pamphlet, the following circumstances justify the landlord to deduct from the deposit:

 Any breach of the lease contract. Damage to the property resulting from negligence, carelessness, accident or abuse. (The landlord cannot deduct for "normal wear and tear.")

•Unpaid rent and other unpaid charges listed in the lease, possibly including late payment charges, returned check charges, missing furniture, missing light bulbs and unreturned keys.

•The reasonable cost of cleaning an apartment that has not been properly lubbock consumer update

Too stuffed up to sleep?

THE REASONABLE cost of cleaning an apartment and damage to the proper-ty are particularly troublesome to young people "because they figure the most they can lose is the deposit," says Morgan. Owners can sue tenants for the full cost of unwarranted damage plus the attorney fees, he adds.

cleaned. (Many landlords provide written instructions for the proper cleaning.)

Assuming the tenant maintains the apartment properly and keeps all payments current, he also must stay the full term of the lease and provide the specified written notice of departure to be assured refunding of the deposit.

Tenants who pay monthly rent are usually required to give 30 days advance written notice of departure, Mrs. Vance says, but always read the contract to be certain. The landlord cannot retain the deposit unless the advance notice clause is underlined or in bold type, the pam-

Another common practice, or at least a common thought, among tenants is withholding the final month's rent on the term of the lease and claiming the deposit as the payment. This is illegal in Texas and places the tenant in jeopardy of being sued for three times the amount of the deposit plus attorney's fees, the pamphlet states.

the former resident with his deposit or an itemized description of the deposit deductions within 30 days of the departure date, reads the pamphlet. If the landlord neglects his responsibility within the 30-day period, the former tenant is entitled to sue him for three times the amount illegally withheld, plus attorney's fees and a $100 fine.

Breaking a lease is likely to leave the renter at the mercy of management, but sometimes a contract will provide for transfer of military or company personnel, Morgan says. Persons forseeing those circumstances should request such an arrangeent.

Typically the landlord can sue the vacating tenant for all unpaid rent on the remaining life of the lease, the pamphlet states, but if the apartment is subsequently rented, the court judgment against the former resident is reduced by whatever funds are collected from the new occupant.

In such cases, when a tenant discovers he will be forced to break a lease, both the pamphlet and Morgan advise him to immediately notify the landlord and, if necessary, help look for a replacement. Unless the market is poor and a new occupant can not be located, the old tenant will not often be held liable for the remaining term of the lease.
