Board says it will proceed with plan to take Hill house

By SUSAN TOTH
Staff Writer

It was "so long, Plan O; hello Hill House" at the Midland school board meeting Tuesday.

School trustees officially laid to rest one controversial issue, but drew battle lines on another.

Trustees at the meeting voted unanimously to eliminate Plan O as an alternative to equalizing enrollments at the city's two high schools, but told opponents of Hill House condemnation proceedings that they would continue with their plans to acquire the Hill property.

The proposal to consolidate the two schools into a single high school with sophomores on one campus and juniors and seniors on the other drew fire from a wide segment of the community when it was proposed in January.

Plan O was suggested as a way to prevent regular boundary changes to keep the student enrollments in the two schools equal.

A non-binding referendum on the proposal was soundly defeated in April 7 school board elections, and trustees Tuesday followed the lead of their constituents.

After the 5-0 vote, board vice president Ed Runyan announced to applause that "Ladies and gentlemen, Plan O is officially dead."

Trustees Johnny Warren and Marshal McCrea were absent from the meeting.

Board members did confirm after the meeting, however, that their vote is not binding on future school boards, so the issue may be laid to rest only for the time being.

Before Plan O was officially nixed, though, board members took up the gantlet on an equally controversial plan.

Saying they were committed by the Plan O defeat to maintain two equal high schools, board members accepted ed petitions bearing 4,047 signatures, asking them to dismiss their eminent domain suit against the J.E. and Irene Hill estates.

The board plans to take the nearly four acres in the Hill estate — which includes the Hill home, believed built in 1902 by the Cowden family — for expansion of Midland High School.

PRIDE, the group circulating petitions against the move, base its oppositions equally on the historic value of the home and on the group's voiced displeasure with eminent domain as a method of taking the property.

Eminent domain allows the school board to take the property for school use for a value set by the courts without regard to the owners' wish to sell.

Board members stressed they had planned to acquire the property before Plan O was defeated or even discussed, and that they had been buying property in the area on the open market as it became available.

"We are going to continue our present course of action, but we will continue to work so a compromise can be worked out so all of us can achieve at least part of our goals," Runyan told PRIDE representatives.

Floyd Ireland, who represented the group at the meeting, told board members he would form a citizen's committee to work with the district on that compromise.

According to the MISD master plan — which, Runyan said, is "not carved in marble" — the corner of Illinois Avenue and F Street, where the Hill house now sits, will be used for a baseball diamond.

The district plans to acquire most of the land from Midland High School to F Street between Illinois and Tennessee avenues to bring MHS practice fields and parking lot facilities level

Violence spreads among truckers

By The Associated Press

A trucker's wife was seriously wounded by a sniper's bullet in Alabama early today as violence spread in connection with attempts by independent truckers to shut down highway cargo shipments.

Shots have been fired at trucks in at least six states in the last two days and an industry official predicted more gunfire as truckers stayed off the road to protest fuel costs and load regulations.

A sniper disabled two refrigerated tractor-trailer rigs on Interstate 76 near Kennesburg, Colo., and another truck was hit by two shots on Interstate 90 east of Sioux Falls, S.D., late Tuesday night.

Alabama state troopers arrested six persons early today for hurling rocks at trucks at an intersection on U.S. 78 at Eldridge, Ala., and a convoy of trucks in Pennsylvania had traffic stacked up for eight miles on Interstate 80, between the Danville and Buckhorn exits.

A 200-truck convoy moved through the Baltimore Harbor Tunnel this morning in Maryland, where 30 truckers were arrested Tuesday for impeding traffic.

"You get violence when you string it out," said Todd Spencer, a board member of the Owner-Operator Independent Drivers Association of America. "Nobody with big payments can afford to stay out long."

But there was no encouragement from the head of the Interstate Commerce Commission who listened to 15 truckers' complaints for two hours Tuesday and said he had sympathy but no power to help.

"There's no way to wave a magic wand," said A. Daniel O'Neal.

Alabama authorities said Linda Pruett, 20, of Warner Robins, Ga., was wounded when gunfire hit her husband's semi-truck on U.S. 82 west of Northport. Her husband, Fred, 23, was not injured in the shootings.

A spokeswoman at Druid City Hospital in Tuscaloosa, Ala., said Mrs. Pruett was in critical condition with a bullet lodged in her left rib cage this morning.

A radio reporter, Sam Hart of WACT, Tuscaloosa, said the truck was struck on the driver's side by at least three bullets, apparently fired from an embankment across the road. There were no arrests.

There were also reports of trucks being shot up in Kansas, Wisconsin and Tennessee on Tuesday. In Indiana, a truckstop protest resulted in the arrest of an irate motorist who allegedly threatened to shoot out the tires of trucks blocking fuel pumps, police said.

There were also some nervous moments in Union Gap, Wash., where five rigs at a truck stop had to crash through a fence to break out of a blockade by 100 other trucks.

Thirty rig operators were arrested in Maryland as hundreds of trucks snarled traffic by crawling along highways three and four abreast. Nine truckers in Milford, Conn., were charged with criminal trespassing for refusing to move their rigs out of a truck station.

The truckers are hoping they will find an ear for their complaints once foodstuffs begin to pile up for lack of transportation and shortages develop. They predicted this would happen in about a week.

In Washington state, truckers are aiming to stop deliveries of the multi-million-dollar cherry crop, now just ripening.

No trouble in Basin from disgruntled truckers

Truckers, upset over diesel fuel shortages and rising prices, have barricaded truck stops in some portions of the country in recent days, but so far the Permian Basin area has been spared.

Early Tuesday morning, however, 10 to 12 tractor-trailers barricaded the diesel pump at the Circle Bar Truck Corral in Ozona in what was termed a peaceful demonstration to protest high diesel fuel prices.

Truckers said they were conducting a peaceful demonstration which started in Houston. And they said they would continue to barricade truck stops along Interstate 10 to Los Angeles, Calif.

The truckers reportedly barricaded the diesel pumps, but not the self-service stop for cars. The trucks rolled away from the pumps shortly after noon.

The barricade was staged to call attention to the fact that truckers are going broke due to high diesel fuel prices, the truckers said.

They also said they hoped to either lower prices or to bring the rate increase up to a level at which truckers could compensate for the increased prices.

A spot check of several other truck stops around the Permian Basin area this morning indicated no other barricades had occurred, although one was threatened in Midland.

Ed Roets, general manager of Warfield Truck Terminal, said he received an anonymous long-distance telephone call a few days ago in which the caller told him 25 trucks were being sent to barricade the Warfield terminal.

That announced barricade has never come about, he said.

The caller refused to identify himself, Roets said, but he said he suspects the call came from the Dallas area.

"There's a possibility" that truck stop barricades may occur in the Midland-Ozona area, Roets said.

He added that the diesel fuel situation is "very tight" at this time.

New hearing for cancer center

Health agency votes to start over

By SUSAN TOTH
Staff Writer

Plans for a Midland-located center for radiation therapy will face another hearing before the local Health Systems Agency, it was determined Tuesday.

That action came because original hearings on the project were judged not to have followed procedures required for a certificate of need application.

The Permian Basin Health Systems Agency Tuesday night agreed with the earlier suggestion of its project review committee to start over with the review of the $1.7 million cancer treatment center proposed for building at Midland Memorial Hospital.

Officials of Odessa's Medical Center Hospital called for the rehearing on the basis of procedural violations.

The Midland center was one of three certificate of need applications given approval by the HSA in a marathon meeting earlier this month.

A certificate of need from the Texas Health Facilities Commission is required before any hospital can spend more than $100,000 on any purchase.

Comment from the local HSA carries significant weight in the state agency's consideration of certificates of need.

The previous, one-night approval process violated the group's written procedures because staff reports on all three applications were received by the committee just as public hearings on the matters began — rather than five days before as required.

Also, the project review committee delivered a verbal report on the public hearing at an HSA governing body meeting that began immediately after the project review committee met, rather than delivering written comment as required.

Joe Weber, attorney for Medical Center Hospital, told project review committee members when they voted for the rehearing last week that the first certificate of need applications would "set a precedent for all those that follow," and that procedure should be followed to the letter. "Otherwise," he told the committee, "you are wasting your time. Your procedures were written so you don't waste your time."

Identical procedures were followed in approving certificates of need for the Pecos Nursing Home and for the Big Sky Ranch.

Neither application had any opposition at the original public hearings, and Medical Center Hospital officials have made no rehearing request concerning those applications. They cited the need to "protect the procedural integrity of the process" in holding up the Midland center application.

The Odessa group contends the Midland center would duplicate facilities already available in Odessa, although agreeing more sophisticated treatment also would be available here.

Since comments from the HSA must be in Austin for review by the Texas Health Facilities Commission by June 29, the repeat review of the project will be on a tight, but strictly legal, timetable.

Public hearing on the project will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the conference room of the Region XVIII Education Service Center at Midland Regional Airport.

The project review committee will meet the next morning to formulate its written comment and that afternoon to vote on the matter.

The governing body, a 32-member group of people who live throughout the 17-county region, will meet again June 25 to consider the written comments of the project review committee.

If nothing has changed, and the committee members acknowledge they know of no significant new information that could change their original findings, final comment of the governing body drawn up after the first approval was granted may be sent to Austin.

In Austin, the entire procedure, from fact-finding to public hearing to final determination, will be repeated by the Texas Health Facilities Commission, whose job it is to prevent duplication in health services.

Carter's Rhodesia position gains

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter's chances of maintaining trade sanctions against Zimbabwe Rhodesia are improving, despite a Senate call for ending the 14-year-old embargo, White House officials say.

Administration lobbyists say the president has doubled Senate support for his position on the newly elected black majority government in that southern African nation. And they say he has more than enough votes to sustain a possible veto of attempts to end the restrictions.

The Senate voted 52-41 Tuesday night to kill an effort to extend the trade embargo through Dec. 1, and perhaps longer.

The lobbyists, who asked not to be identified, said the 41 votes favoring the president's position represent a solid base from which to sustain a veto of any legislation containing provisions to lift the sanctions.

And they said the vote shows a significant improvement in the president's position since the Senate went on record in a 75-19 vote three weeks ago to urge Carter to lift the trade embargo.

"We came in expecting to get no more than 30 votes and we broke 40," a White House lobbyist said. "I think the continuing education on our southern Africa policy is bearing fruit, and we expect to increase our margin in the weeks ahead."

Carter announced last Thursday he would retain the restrictions as a way held and have resulted in a government that has made a good faith effort to end the guerrilla war.

An amendment, sponsored by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Ind.-Va., to end the embargo was written into the pending $41 billion military procurement bill by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The House version of the bill has no such language. Thus, attempts to put from over," said Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance spent several hours Tuesday telling members of both the Senate and the House that lifting the embargo now would be a diplomatic — and possibly economic — disaster for the United States.

Vance said the move would reduce "practically to nil" U.S. influence and prestige among the nations of black Africa and would encourage intervention by Soviet-backed Cuban forces.

He said the action also would open the way to possible economic reprisals.

Those reprisals could include an oil embargo by Nigeria, the second largest supplier of U.S. imported oil, Church said.

Church and Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., argued that Great Britain should take the lead in deciding to lift sanctions. The London government still retains legal, if not physical, possession of the former British colony of Rhodesia.

Governors compile list of needed federal actions

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (AP) — After two days of listing the federal government's faults, western governors have prepared a list of things they would like Congress and the president to do.

Nearing the conclusion of the annual Western Governors' Conference, participants considered dozens of resolutions, ranging from ethnic minority status for Polynesians to changes in energy policy.

Throughout the three-day meeting, governors said they wanted less land set aside for national wilderness, less regulation and less interference from Washington. They said they wanted more fuel, more control over public lands and more money for alternative energy sources.

The key fuel resolutions were sponsored by Govs. Richard Lamm of Colorado, Thomas Judge of Montana and Scott Matheson of Utah.

Lamm sponsored a resolution asking the White House to make gasoline supply information available to governors on a daily basis. It also asks Congress to pass a "fair" standby gas rationing plan, without saying what would be considered "fair."

Lamm, Matheson and Judge co-sponsored a resolution asking that diesel fuel be placed under the same allocation restrictions as gasoline. Matheson said everyone — including farmers — should join in conservation of badly needed diesel fuel.

Currently, farmers are allocated 100 percent of their 1978 diesel fuel consumption, while many independent truckers say they cannot find enough.

Truckers need diesel fuel to haul goods long distances in the West, where cattlemen are less reliant on the fuel than corn and wheat growers of the Midwest.

At Tuesday afternoon's resolution committee meeting, Govs. Victor Atiyeh of Oregon and Dixy Lee Ray of Washington backed a demand for a speedy end to the government's evaluation of wilderness lands. Atiyeh said the resolution asks Congress to protect non-wilderness lands from lengthy court battles over their status.

Matheson led the governors in opposing a bill now before Congress requiring states to pay some of the construction cost in water development projects.

The Utah governor, who has a $1 billion water project in his state, said the most unfair provision of the bill calls for states to make voluntary contributions to projects already approved and funded by Congress. He said that would lead to congressional blackmail on future water project appropriations.

Idaho Gov. John Evans supported a resolution asking Congress to maintain passenger train service on marginal routes in the West. Carter plans to cut service on some less-traveled Amtrak routes.

Democratic mayors praise Carter, criticize Congress in resolutions

PITTSBURGH (AP) — President Carter has received a resounding endorsement from the Democratic caucus at the U.S. Conference of Mayors annual meeting while the U.S. Congress fielded a few painful complaints.

Although the Republican Caucus issued a statement earlier in the convention critical of the president, GOP comment also has contained a degree of praise as well, particularly for Carter's efforts to encourage private investment in the cities.

But the plaudits Tuesday from the Democrats, who speak for an overwhelming majority of the 800 big cities represented in the conference, was surprising in its fervor and its criticism of the congressmen who hold the federal pursestrings.

"We should be the salesmen for the present administration," Detroit Mayor Coleman Young said to the applause of his fellow Democrats.

Boston Mayor Kevin White spoke of the "painful" prospect of Carter being challenged from within the party as well as without in the 1980 elections and said failure to cope with this as well and the economic conditions which are causing Carter problems "will result in the defeat of the Democratic Party."

"We support our Democratic President," said Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson, who had just been elected president of the Democratic caucus.

"There is very strong support, allowing for a few gripes here and there, for the president's urban policy and his stands and a great deal of impatience with the reluctance of the Congress to be more responsive," Jackson said at a news conference after the party session.

"Every mayor may have a gripe here or a gripe there, as has been true of every kind of president, Democratic, Republican, of any time in the past," Jackson said. "But I think that what you saw today was support for Jimmy Carter, strong support for Jimmy Carter and his urban policy."

The caucus' lavish praise represented some change of mind since the conference issued a critique of Carter's budget earlier this year accusing him of making the cities and the poor pay the price of inflation and the taxpayer revolt.

Mayor Lee Alexander of Syracuse, N.Y. said Tuesday there "obviously is frustration in our existence but it's not the fault of one person." Alexander told the caucus it should close ranks behind the president.

"We helped him to become president and we have an obligation to stand beside him," Alexander advised. "If we move in different directions, it would be our destruction."

"Previous administrations had turned their backs on urban policy, but the new administration said the health of America depended on the strength of our cities," Young said. "Our cities are turning around precisely because of Carter's urban policy."

Vote-buying probe continues

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP) — A federal grand jury investigating vote buying in Louisiana's 4th Congressional District reconvenes here today, but a prosecutor doubted there would be any more indictments immediately.

U.S. Attorney Randall Keene would say nothing more Tuesday night than grand jurors would hold a rare one-day-only session, probably without adding to the 21 indictments already handed down in the Leesville vote buying scandal.

Six Leesville residents, all indicted on felony vote buying charges, pleaded guilty earlier Tuesday to reduced charges resulting from last November's congressional election.

Problems, solutions

Mark Shepherd Jr. of Dallas, chairman of the board of Texas Instruments Incorporated, voiced some interesting, informative and challenging information in addressing the Midland Downtown Lions Club last week.

Shepherd, one of the nation's foremost business and economic leaders, spoke concerning "Challenges of the 1980s."

He said that while life in many cities has deteriorated in the last decade or two, "Midland and its citizens have prospered. However, not even a fast-growing city like Midland is invulnerable to external problems. Political and economic decisions and events — sometimes far removed geographically — can and do affect this community."

He said that although the industrialized countries face a variety of problems, concern is focused on widespread political instability and the growing influence of Soviet ideology. Accelerating inflation is another problem of major significance. He said that there are signs that the major industrialized countries have reached a dangerous cul-de-sac, where weaker investment activity (brought on by high inflation and excessive government regulation) leads to lower productivity gains and lower profits. The lack of primary energy resources was cited as another problem of the industrialized world. The U.S. and the Soviet bloc, the speaker said, are the only exceptions "with the U.S. running a distant second." It also was pointed out that the industrialized nations must learn to cope with the emerging competition from the advanced developing countries in the Pacific Basin.

Shepherd, bringing the subject down to home base, said the U.S., in order to meet the challenges of the next decade and regain its position of leadership in the world, must get its house in order by focusing on five fundamental issues: (1) the enhancement of U.S. power and influence abroad; (2) the control of inflation; (3) the improvement of productivity growth; (4) the promotion of exports; and (5) the long-term solution to the energy problem.

The business executive pointed out that the U.S. can bring inflation under control, but to accomplish it without serious disruptions of employment and output requires a gradual unwinding of the wage-price spiral. He added that the growth of spending by the federal government should be held below that of the GNP, in order to gradually reduce its share of GNP to 20 percent from its present 22.4 percent.

Shepherd said that in order to provide a permanent solution to the energy problem, "we should encourage domestic energy production by quickly removing all price controls." He said also that greater emphasis must be placed on the use of coal, and that nuclear energy must play a greater role in the future of all countries.

He called for the establishing of a set of national goals as a means of changing the course leading toward socialism. He said that a vital part of establishing a consensus of national goals is an intensive educational thrust, including courses on the free enterprise system.

The Dallas business and civic leader then hit the nail on the head by focusing squarely on the power of economic incentives as the keystone to solving world problems.

"As we attack the everyday problems which are faced by Midland, and on a larger scale by the U.S., let's keep in focus the power of economic incentives," he urged.

"It was the power of economic incentives that brought color television sets, electronic calculators, the discovery of oil in the Permian Basin, and the $9.95 electronic digital watch. Yet when it comes to really important issues such as education, retirement security, the reduction of environmental damage, and even the allocation of scarce energy resources, we ignore economic incentives completely."

"Only when we learn to take advantage of the capabilities and resources of the free enterprise system in solving public problems, will we start to see progress accelerate," Shepherd concluded.

The speaker cited numerous problems facing the nation today, while at the same time suggesting practical solutions to most of them.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

'Dollar diplomacy' has its uses

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON—'Dollar diplomacy' still has its uses. A $270 million loan from the Export-Import Bank (EXIM) — coupled with some high-level pressure applied by Vice President Mondale last fall — may have improved life for tens of thousands of Argentines suffering under the repressive military regime of President Jorge Rafael Videla.

Since the Argentine military junta seized power from Isabel Peron in 1976, an estimated 20,000 persons have simply disappeared. They were swept off into the night by Videla's armed thugs for imprisonment, torture and in many cases death. Acting on reports from prisoners' families and some lucky survivors, the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights (IACHR) petitioned the Videla government for permission to investigate the situation in Argentina.

Obviously fearing the results of an independent outside investigation, Videla initially rejected the commission's request.

At the same time, however, the Argentine government was actively seeking a loan from the U.S. Export-Import Bank for $270 million to buy turbines from the Allis-Chalmers Corp. for a new hydroelectric dam on the Parana River.

The State Department, at the request of its human affairs office, decided to use the Allis-Chalmers deal as a lever to pry a little humanity out of the Videla regime.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance spelled out the strategy in a letter last July 10 to John Moore, chairman of the Export-Import Bank: "If Argentina were to invite the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights to visit under circumstances which would permit it to carry out its mandated functions, we would relax certain restrictions now placed on United States aid and trade programs for Argentina."

Noting that Videla had not extended an invitation to the commission "in a form it can accept," Vance wrote: "In view of this we must recommend against Export-Import financing at this time of the Allis-Chalmers application..."

The State Department's position was taken despite pressure from Rep. Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., chairman of the House Committee on International Relations. The congressman pointed out the dollars-and-cents risk of scotching the Milwaukee firm's loan application.

"The impact of losing this contract in terms of balance of payments, U.S. employment and the economy in general is obvious," Zablocki had written Vance last June 29. "It would be particularly regrettable for a U.S. firm to lose this contract now to Japanese or Russian competition for the lack of Export-Import Bank support, should the human rights situation in Argentina improve to such a degree that Export-Import support would be made available within a few weeks or months."

There was also opposition within the State Department. A confidential memorandum of Aug. 29, 1978, warned: "A political decision against Argentina would be disastrous... It could hardly be argued that the hydroelectric plant could in any way improve the civil and political liberties of Argentines, but conversely it is hardly tenable either that it would in any way further jeopardize their liberties."

Undoubtedly aware of this pressure on the State Department, Videla resisted the administration's turbines-for-human-rights proposition. But in Rome last September during the installation of the late Pope John Paul I, Vice President Mondale met with President Videla. Soon after, the State Department gave its educated guess is that his message was heard in a majority of the homes of the 40 million people in these countries. According to one correspondent, the word on the Pope's exciting and successful tour of Poland was also passed through Communist countries by means of religious newspapers, church pulpits, and old-fashioned, effective word-of-mouth. The same thing happened when Soviet Jews learned of Israel's victory in the 1967 war; they wouldn't learn much about it in the Soviet press.

The Polish press and broadcasters could hardly ignore the man because he was in their midst. But they kept the cameras off the huge crowds, forgot to report his more provocative statements, and played the visit as a show of Polish unity, an example of proper relations between State and Church.

But for a Catholic or any religious event to get a mite of attention in the Communist press is a feat. I remember talking with a priest in Cuba last year about his work in a Communist state, and one of his principal complaints was that the press (which in Cuba is absurd) ignored everything to do with religious activity, even refusing to publish the most harmless type announcements.

Ah, the Pope is now being called the "living Ostpolitik," meaning the personification of a civil relationship between West and East. But the Pope also told his bishops publicly, in Poland, to resist Communism, and he didn't back off making statements which the regime resented.

But this Polish Pope is so human, so unashamed to weep publicly when

Buzzword panics at mere thought of Skylab falling

WASHINGTON - It isn't too early to start thinking about Skylab. The latest report indicates that Skylab will fall on us "somewhere between June 20 and July 14." Hundreds of pieces of flotsam, some weighing as much as 5,000 lbs., will drop from the sky - God only knows where. Its "footprint" is said to be 100 miles wide and 4,000 miles long. According to Las Vegas bookmakers, the chances of a piece hitting a person are 150 to 1. The chances of it hitting you personally are obviously much less.

But we all know people who take a bleak view of everything and they are the ones who believe that if Skylab is going to fall out of the sky, it will fall on them.

Buzzword is in this category. Ever since he read that the space laboratory was a goner he's been biting his fingernails. "I know it's going to fall on me. I just know it."

"How can you be so sure?" I asked. "There are four billion people on this planet. Maybe, with luck, it will land on the Ayatollah Khomeini."

"This is serious," Buzzword retorted. "Do you know that Walter Cronkite has canceled his vacation so he can cover it when it falls?"

Art Buchwald

"Walter's always been interested in the space program. He covered Skylab going up, so obviously he wants to see what happens when it falls down. But just because he's worried doesn't mean that you have to be worried."

"Maybe," said Buzzword, "I should build a Skylab shelter. Then I'd be the only one safe when the sirens sound."

"I wouldn't if I were you," I warned him. "If people find out that you have a Skylab shelter and they don't, they might shoot you to get into it."

"What am I going to do?" he cried. "It will be just my luck that I'll be waiting at a gas station on the 4th of July weekend for three hours, and when I get to the pump a solar panel will come whizzing through the roof of my car."

"You've got to look at the big picture," I told him. "There is nothing that says Skylab will even fall down in the United States. It could be strewn all across the Soviet Union or China or the Riviera. That's the beauty of Skylab. Every country in the world has an equal chance of being dumped on. If I know our people at NASA they're going to do everything in their power to see that it doesn't fall on the United States - because if it does their budget is going to be cut."

"What I don't understand," Buzzword said, "is why they would put up a space laboratory if they knew it would eventually fall down."

"They didn't think it would fall down until some time in the next century, and by then most of the people who sent it up would be on retirement pay and wouldn't have to deal with it. Believe me, they're as upset about their calculations as you are. They've hired a battery of lawyers to handle the class action suits that will come out of it."

"Suppose a piece of it hits a nuclear energy plant?" he wanted to know.

"Now I think you're overreacting," I said.

"Las Vegas hasn't even put out odds on that one. The most important thing to remember when it starts raining Skylab parts is not to panic."

"What should I do?" he wanted to know.

"Go into the nearest subway station until the all-clear sounds."

"But then I'll get mugged," Buzzword said.

"Those are the chances you have to take if you want a safe and sane space program."

Mark Russell says

Theoretically, you buy an airline ticket from New York City to Yonkers and you get a half-fair coupon good for the round-trip from New York to L.A. The airlines call it a good-will gesture. I call it a going-out-of-business sale.

The only way these companies can come out ahead is to take out the seats and stack the passengers like cord-wood.

Something has to go. Perhaps restaurant service. They'll have to sell that space and install a seat belt in there.

What's the catch? Will the coupon disintegrate at room temperature? Are they a ploy to take our minds off three-inch bolts?

At the rate they're going, the coupons will soon be the new currency replacing the dollar.

The end result? Every man, woman and child in the United States will be in the air. And as long as they keep serving meals up there, nobody will ever again go hungry.

Pope John Paul II stands tall among world leaders

WASHINGTON - In a world pitifully short of authentic leaders, Pope John Paul II stands tall. The man who lived his entire adult life under the oppression of Nazis and Communist regimes confounds the totalitarians and nourishes the jaded in the Free World. We are lucky to have him.

Christian, non-Christian, and even the unbelieving must have taken heart with the way Karol Wojtyla, II Papa Polacco, captivated his homeland, ruled by Communism since the Nazi occupation was broken 34 years ago. Among his first remarks was the declaration which must have brought dark thoughts to Communist officialdom everywhere, i.e., "Christ cannot be kept out of the history of man in any part of the globe."

He spoke not only to 35 million Poles, but to millions of other Slavic people, indeed, to the entire world. Catholicism and the Polish language are what kept the Polish people together against the tyranny of czars, militarists, Hitler, Stalin and the succession of heavy-handed Communist rulers holding life-and-death power over the Soviet Union and Poland for all these years.

Joe Louis said of one braggadocio opponent, "He can run but he can't hide." Well, Poland's Communist regime couldn't hide the Pope, though they attempted, in the argot of communications, to minimize his media exposure.

But this Pope is streetwise to Communism, as are many dissidents forced to live under that system. In Moscow dissidents go as public as they can so Western newsmen will publicize them, thus making it awkward for the KGB or other authorities to eliminate them. When a dissident gets his name or picture in a Western paper, he gets a form of life insurance.

And so the Pope made the visit to his homeland a media event. He was pleased to review the Communist government's military honor guard. He stood, face-to-face, as no other Pope has, with Communist Party leader Edward Gierek, and posed stiffly with him for photographers. He took children into his arms, beamed at crowds, sang and hummed when music he liked was played. The Western media evidently loved it, by the way their reports and broadcasts came off.

The managers of the Communist media were a bit perplexed. Moscow gave his arrival 30 seconds on the evening news, but made sure the crowds weren't shown. In other Eastern European countries, those we used to say were behind the "Iron Curtain" there was a virtual news blackout.

But the British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC), the Voice of America, and Radio Free Europe gave his visit plenty of broadcast time, and the educated guess is that his message was heard in a majority of the homes of the 40 million people in these countries. According to one correspondent, the word on the Pope's exciting and successful tour of Poland was also passed through Communist countries by means of religious newspapers, church pulpits, and old-fashioned, effective word-of-mouth. The same thing happened when Soviet Jews learned of Israel's victory in the 1967 war; they wouldn't learn much about it in the Soviet press.

The Polish press and broadcasters could hardly ignore the man because he was in their midst. But they kept the cameras off the huge crowds, forgot to report his more provocative statements, and played the visit as a show of Polish unity, an example of proper relations between State and Church.

But for a Catholic or any religious event to get a mite of attention in the Communist press is a feat. I remember talking with a priest in Cuba last year about his work in a Communist state, and one of his principal complaints was that the press (which in Cuba is absurd) ignored everything to do with religious activity, even refusing to publish the most harmless type announcements.

Ah, the Pope is now being called the "living Ostpolitik," meaning the personification of a civil relationship between West and East. But the Pope also told his bishops publicly, in Poland, to resist Communism, and he didn't back off making statements which the regime resented.

But this Polish Pope is so human, so unashamed to weep publicly when moved, so wise to visit the Nazi death camp at Auschwitz and pray for the memory of the Jews and Catholics murdered there, that he has immediate universal appeal. This is a Pope who avoids the regal, pops into helicopters, and possibly might live into the next century. He is young as Popes go, and could do much to revive the poor spirits of the materially rich people of Western Europe and the rest of the Free World.

It is abominable to live under Communism. Even high-ranked party officials become bored with it. And for those underneath, especially people with convictions, it can become a terror.

Surely in anticipation of the Pope's visit, the residents of a Silesian town demonstrated after authorities removed a cross they had placed in the town center. Surely in anticipation of the Pope's visit, the Communist authorities put the cross back into that town center that night.

Sandinistas control Managua slums, looting rife

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Sandinista guerrillas held control of slum districts in Managua today, firing at President Anastasio Somoza's national guardsmen from behind barricades despite rocket and strafing attacks by government planes.

Somoza reported heavy fighting also in the northern cities of Matagalpa and Leon, but a photographer who arrived from Leon said it was almost completely under guerrilla control and fighting had subsided.

The Sandinistas were also reported holding Esteli, another northern city.

Widespread looting broke out in Managua, and the U.S. Embassy prepared another airlift of Americans following the evacuation of 61 Tuesday from Somoza's private airstrip. An embassy source said five or six flights were being planned because of requests from frightened Americans trying to flee Nicaragua's civil war.

In a live interview this morning with ABC-TV's "Good Morning, America" show, Somoza said he wanted to "talk to the people of America."

"I would like to have the backing of the United States to stop this guerrilla warfare," he said. "I don't need American troops. What I need is a good relationship with the United States."

The Carter administration has slashed aid to the Somoza government in an effort to pressure him out of office.

In the interview, Somoza reaffirmed he does not intend to resign and reiterated his contention that the Sandinistas are "controlled by Marxist-Leninists" backed by Cuba.

Fighting raged on all sides of Managua Tuesday. There was heavy gunfire within six blocks of the Intercontinental Hotel and Somoza's "Bunker," his fortified headquarters at the infantry academy next door. At least one bullet smashed through a window frame in the hotel, but no one was hurt.

Scores of military jeeps and trucks, some towing or carrying 120mm mortars and heavy machine guns, pulled into the infantry school compound and came under heavy guerrilla fire. They were followed by another large convoy of military trucks and civilian cars bristling with weapons. One truck was loaded with mattresses.

Somoza's planes attacked the barrios of Nicaragua and 14 de Septiembre, two slums held by the Sandinistas and their supporters since Saturday, when barricades went up throughout the poor sections and young men brought out guns they had hidden to fight the national guard, Somoza's combined army and police force.

The guard tore down many of the barricades but they were quickly repaired. Journalists who entered Barrio Centroamerica in the southern part of the city found it totally barricaded and controlled by Sandinistas.

In the nearby Reparto Schick, journalists were stopped by two school buses full of youths armed with pistols and rifles.

With the city's stores closed by a general strike that began June 4, widespread looting broke out in the afternoon. Residents took advantage of the confused situation to get needed food and other supplies.

Hundreds of people chanting "Hambre! Hambre!" — "Hunger! Hunger!" — broke into a supermarket in the Plaza Espana, a shopping center less than a mile from Somoza's Bunker. They carried off food, clothing, shoes, household goods, liquor and anything else they could lift as two jeepsloads of national guardsmen watched. One source said the supermarket belonged to a leader of the anti-Somoza political forces.

airstrip with 61 American evacuees. It flew to Panama as fighting continued between government troops and guerrillas. (AP Laserphoto)

Albatross driver says life offers pleasing goals

CAP GRIS NEZ, France (AP) — The first human aircraft engine to conquer the English Channel says he did it to prove there are still "pleasing, challenging, physically strenuous" goals that "add to rather than subtract from the whole human experience."

Bryan Allen, the 6-foot, 137-pound Californian whose pedal power turned the propeller that pushed the wide-winged, 70-pound Gossamer Albatross across the 22-mile channel in 2 hours 49 minutes Tuesday, said maybe he will make a movie demonstrating his craft in flight.

But "there's something about the plane that film doesn't convey," the 26-year-old biochemist from Bakersfield said, "a certain magical quality that you have to be there to see."

Tight security set for summit

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Viennese who want to see Jimmy Carter and Leonid I. Brezhnev during their summit visit this weekend should turn on their TV sets. The security screen is going to be very tight.

The Austrian director general for public security, Robert Danziger, said 1,500 agents will be working during the four-day meeting to keep the U.S. and Soviet presidents safe. But a news report said 6,000 policemen, in and out of uniform, will guard the two leaders.

They will be reinforced by armed Soviet and American security men.

Informed sources said up to 600 American and Soviet officials, advisers and aides would accompany or precede the two presidents.

Chernenko to attend summit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Konstantin Chernenko, fast-rising protégé of Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev and his possible successor as head of the Kremlin hierarchy, is expected to attend the Vienna summit meeting with President Carter.

The 72-year-old Brezhnev, whose reign may be nearing an end, will also bring with him a number of other top aides — but not Andrei Kirilenko, considered a rival in the succession.

Besides Chernenko, who has taken on the job of managing the Politburo's business with Brezhnev's approval, the Soviet delegation probably will include Dmitri Ustinov, minister of defense, and Nikolai Ogarkov, military chief of staff, as well as Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

British tax plan to help rich

LONDON (AP) — Britain's new Conservative government says it will cut the basic income tax rate 3 percent, increase the sales tax 2.5 to 7 percent, save about $3 billion a year by cutting government spending and take the lid off stock dividends.

The rich will benefit most from the government's first budget, outlined to the House of Commons Tuesday by Chancellor of the Exchequer Sir Geoffrey Howe. Income tax rates in the highest bracket will be reduced from 83 percent to 60 percent, near the European average. The basic rate will be cut from 33 percent to 30 percent.

Iran executes homosexual

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — A Tehran man, Ali Baghail, was executed by firing squad early today following his conviction by a revolutionary court of homosexuality and corrupting minors, Radio Tehran announced.

He was the 27th man put to death by Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's special Islamic tribunals since the overthrow of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi in mid-February.

Refugees unwelcome

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The Thai army has pushed an estimated 45,000 Cambodian refugees back into their battle-torn homeland in the last five days and plans to forcibly repatriate 30,000 more in the coming days, border officials said today.

Officials in Jakarta, Indonesia, said, meanwhile, that patrol boats, a submarine, helicopters and troops would be dispatched to drive new refugees away from Indonesia's Riau Islands in the South China Sea, where the number of Vietnamese arriving by boat has increased from 3,000 to 31,200 in the last 90 days.

Ex-Nazi holds embassy post

BONN, West Germany (AP) — West Germany's ambassador to New Zealand was a member of the Nazi party and the Waffen-SS, the military section of Adolf Hitler's elite guards, the Foreign Ministry said today.

"But we have no reason to doubt the personal integrity of Dr. (Karl) Doering," Foreign Ministry spokesman Harald Ganns told The Associated Press.

Ganns said the Foreign Ministry made a statement to this effect when asked about Doering at a routine news conference last week.

Mark Russell's wit a mark of Washington status

Copley News Service

If Jerry Brown were ever nominated for president, Mark Russell once observed, his running mate would be his own inner self.

"I think Brown, the foster father of Proposition 13, is marvelous," said Russell, the political humorist carved from the same mold as Mark Twain and Will Rogers. "I would like to see him in Washington. Of course, if Brown was president, Air Force I would become a glider."

California politicians provide Russell with a virtual cornucopia of material. "S.I. Hayakawa said the other day that poor people don't need gas because they don't drive to work," Russell said with a mischievous chuckle in his voice. "It's the most attention Hayakawa has gotten without tap dancing. The guy is known for three things — sleeping in public, tap dancing and being cute. In California, that amounts to statesmanship."

Washington's premier wit, Russell has been delighting crowds there for 17 years at the Shoreham Hotel.

Being picked on by Russell has become somewhat of a Washington status symbol.

"The politicians get angry if you leave them out," he said. "They like to be put in a position where they can appear to be good sports. Hayakawa was at the show recently and I was told he paid attention while I was talking about him but fell asleep later."

Russell performs in five comedy specials a year for Public Broadcasting, writes a syndicated humor column and has been added to the cast of NBC's new show "Real People."

"I'm doing pretty much the same stuff I've always done," he said. "I haven't talked to the people at NBC yet about continuing with the show in the fall, but there is no doubt it will continue. I understand the idea for the show originated with (NBC President Fred) Silverman. It wasn't something that had to be sold to the network."

"For one of the shows, I spent an hour standing in front of the White House asking passersby what they thought of the proposal to move the White House back 50 feet so the President wouldn't be bothered by demonstrations. Everyone of them believed it — "That's an outrage. ... 'What a waste of money.' It just goes to show the faith people have in Washington."

Much in the manner of Tom Lehrer, Russell plunks away at the piano during his act, turning much of his biting sarcasm into song. When the armed forces began to update their uniforms, Russell sang to the tune of the Marine Corps Hymn: "From the slacks of Emilio Pucci to the scarves of Pierre Cardin ... you will find him every inch a man, though he dresses like a queen."

Some other Russellisms: On Three Mile Island — "The

Hershey factory has turned into a fondue" and "If Truman were alive today it never would have happened. He would have dropped Pennsylvania on Japan."

On Sen. Lowell Weicker — "His dream was to grow up to be the tallest member of the Watergate Commission."

On Gerald Ford — "He reminds me of the guy who answers the meat buzzer at the A and P."

On Kansas City — "It's such a square place. In Kansas City, Anita Bryant is considered a soul singer."

Morality in government — "It means if you accept money from the Koreans, you have to give 10 percent to the church."

Pollution — "We have a late news bulletin. There's been a severe water spill which threatens to pollute the oil in Lake Erie."

"The biggest change I've noticed of late in Washington is on Capitol Hill," Russell remarked.

"Everyone is afraid of their own shadow these days, afraid of getting egg on their face. Last winter, a congressman was arrested for punching a waitress and dropping his pants in a hotel lobby. In his statement later, he said, 'There was no punching.'"

"It went pretty much unnoticed because he was an unknown, it wasn't like he was Wilbur Mills. Which reminds me of a joke. ..."

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

WASHINGTON (AP) — It looks like President Carter is ready to wheel and deal for Senate votes on the SALT treaty.

For presidents like Lyndon Johnson and Richard Nixon, trading water projects and military bases for important votes on Capitol Hill was a way of life.

Carter took office as an outsider and until now he's refused to play that game. But White House lobbyists have convinced the president he must come through with a favor here and there to pick up critical votes on SALT.

However, informed sources say Carter balked at the suggestion he give every member of the Senate the water project of his choice.

If the president insists on being more selective, he ought to look at some of the favorite causes of key senators.

For example, Howard H. Baker Jr. of Tennessee, Senate Republican leader, is taking a tough stand on SALT. Baker says he's leaning against the treaty.

But for nearly 10 years, Baker has been the Senate's leading advocate of designating the marigold as the national flower.

Baker took up the cause of the marigold upon the death in 1969 of his father-in-law, Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen of Illinois.

Earlier this year, when, once again, he introduced his marigold bill, Baker told the Senate that since Dirksen's death "I have proposed the resolution in each new Congress exactly as he originally introduced it, both to honor his memory and to express my own support for the marigold, which I feel is unique in its rich history and its embodiment of many of the basic virtues of the American spirit — humility, strength of character, endurance and hope." Three state legislatures, including that of Carter's native Georgia, have adopted resolutions supporting the marigold as the national flower.

What easier way to win support for SALT? Unfortunately, the marigold issue contains the seeds of yet another political problem for the harried president.

Baker's marigold bill is bottled up in the Senate Judiciary Committee, which is chaired by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

There is no sign Kennedy is willing to yield to pressure to hold hearings on the marigold bill.

Carter might try to build public support for the marigold by going on television and appealing to patriotism by telling the American people that the United States has no national flower.

He could address a joint session of Congress and, in a bipartisan spirit, quote Dirksen's description of "a field of blooming marigolds tossing their heads in the sunshine and giving a glow to the entire landscape. The marigold beguiles the senses and ennobles the spirit of man."

All he's likely to get for his trouble is Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., singing the praises of the yellow poppy, Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., rhapsodizing over mountain-laurel, and Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., filling the Senate chamber with praise of the rose.

Could Kennedy resist pointing out that the marigold, while hardy and colorful, also is known to have a pungent, some might say foul, fragrance?

Inevitably, there'd be the usual confrontation: Kennedy accusing the president of caving in to the marigold lobby and Carter responding, "That's a lot of manure."

Marigold measure may aid SALT-sowing efforts

Governor will use veto to protect D-FW airport

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Southwest Airlines will have to look somewhere besides the Legislature for authority to fly outside Texas from Dallas Love Field following action Tuesday by the governor.

Gov. Bill Clements met with Dallas and Fort Worth officials and then announced he will veto a bill designed to let the airline schedule interstate flights from Dallas.

"I'm satisfied that it (Senate Bill 772) violates the spirit and letter of the original D-FW (Airport) agreement and it violates the environmental situation that exists around Love Field," the governor told reporters.

The bill was sponsored by Sen. O.H. "Ike" Harris, R-Dallas. It passed the House, 127-13, and the Senate, 26-5.

Southwest Airlines flies from Love Field to Texas cities but wanted to extend its service to New Orleans and other out-of-state points. The airline flies to New Orleans from Houston Hobby Airport.

All other commercial airlines have agreed to use the mammoth Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport, located halfway between the sister cities.

Gov. Clements' harsh words won't cause rift

WASHINGTON (AP)— U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says the lines won't be cut between the Texas delegation to Congress and Gov. Bill Clements despite the governor's harsh words on its energy performance.

"We're always pleased to see the governor of Texas and we'll continue to communicate with him," Bentsen, D-Texas, said at a news conference Tuesday.

Asked if he would attend another energy conference like the one organized Monday at Clements' request, the senator replied: "Let's see what his next proposal is."

The governor at the meeting announced plans to send state officials traveling throughout the nation to promote the so-called "Texas position" stressing energy production.

"If they (Texas congressmen) have been talking about it, I want them to quit whispering and start yelling," Clements said after the meeting.

Bentsen said he was "surprised" by the governor's criticism.

"The vast majority of us have been fighting this fight," the senator said. "As an oil man and as governor, he should be quite aware of the difficulty of convincing the Northeast and the Midwest of the position of a producing state."

Clements was head of SEDCO Inc., an oil drilling supply company, before his election last fall as the state's first Republican governor in more than a century.

Bentsen said he noticed that Clements' own energy pitch to the National Governors Conference did not start a national groundswell of support for legislation promoting energy production.

"I don't know if he whispered or he yelled," the senator said. "It obviously fell on deaf ears."

Bentsen said he supported a strong production plan, including a time limit to reduce the delays permits and lawsuits can cause for major energy projects. He also endorsed plans to increase government support for substitute fuel production, including synthetics.

"I think it's time that we had some very major, major guarantees made for substitute fuels," he said.

The Joint Economic Committee which Bentsen heads will hold hearings July 18 on rail rates charged to cities that converted to coal as an energy source and then found the transportation cost to increase substantially.

Bentsen said Houston and San Antonio cases will be looked at as examples.

"We want to examine the escalating costs as well as the long and short range problems they pose for our efforts to achieve the national goal of reduced reliance on foreign oil imports," the senator said in a statement announcing the hearings.

"Left unchecked, this trend could jeopardize the goal of making coal a centerpiece of the nation's efforts to achieve greater energy independence and significantly weaken the prospect of controlling inflation," he said.

Filibuster threatened against bill renewing draft

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposal to renew registration of young men for a military draft is coming to a showdown in the Senate with a filibuster threatened if it is brought up for debate.

The issue was the only major one remaining today over final passage of a defense bill authorizing $40.1 billion for weapons purchases and research, including work on the MX mobile missile.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., said late Tuesday he was determined to try to tack a registration proposal onto the weapons bill unless he were guaranteed the Senate would take up registration as a separate item in the next week or so.

But Sens. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., and George McGovern, D-S.D., refused to agree to any time limit on a registration debate, no matter whether it came up as an amendment or as a separate bill.

The focus of the argument is a proposal to require all men age 18-26 to begin registering next January. It would not apply to women. Men would not be classified as to their eligibility for service until 1981 unless the president said it was needed sooner.

In the only major debate on the weapons bill Tuesday, the Senate voted 52-41 to kill efforts to extend the U.S. trade embargo against Zimbabwe Rhodesia through Dec. 1 and perhaps longer.

Still pending today, along with the registration question, was an amendment by Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., to substitute a nuclear aircraft carrier for a diesel-power carrier in the bill, or to kill the diesel carrier altogether. Bumpers said he might withdraw the proposal without a vote after some debate on the issue.

Nunn proposed up to five days of debate on the registration, but Hatfield and McGovern turned him down.

"As of this moment, I cannot agree to any time limit," Hatfield told his colleagues. "I do not see any urgency."

"There are many facets to this that do not lend themselves to a quick solution," Hatfield said, adding he would use the registration issue as a forum for exploring subjects such as the president's war powers and whether women should be registered.

Nunn said the House is about to debate the weapons bill and noted that its version includes a registration bill that could be approved. He said the Senate should take a stand now before Senate and House negotiators meet to iron out differences between the Senate and House versions of the weapons legislation.

Nunn told the Senate it probably would have to hold a closed-door meeting on military manpower problems because "there is a body of information that is directly related to this issue that is classified."

He said that information shows "we have not only a problem but grave problems that jeopardize our national security."

Defense Secretary Harold Brown has acknowledged that the Selective Service System is not able to provide recruits within 30 days of mobilization, as it is supposed to do. He says, however, Congress should provide the Selective Service with more money instead of renewing registration.

An Armed Services Committee report says it would take up to four months with the present Selective Service set-up to deliver the first draft recruits. Selective Service officials say that with additional funds — a total of $9.8 million in 1980 — the system could begin delivering recruits within 30 days.

The Pentagon's joint chiefs of staff have called on Congress to restore registration.

Oil junk rips nets in Gulf

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Louisiana shrimpers lose nearly $4 million a year in nets torn by underwater obstructions, often left by offshore oil companies, according to a state study.

In addition, the study says, shrimpers lose more than 136,000 hours of work because of the damage.

Kenneth J. Roberts, an economist for the Louisiana State University Extension Service, said 322 shrimpers were interviewed in the study.

For an example, fishermen working in area bordered on the east by the Mississippi state line and on the west by the Mississippi River, the damage amounted to $483 and 20 lost work hours per boat for the year.

Of the 1,997 commercial shrimpers in the area, 39 percent could be expected to have sustained major damage to their nets, Roberts concluded.

Fishermen working in inland waters lost about $1.9 million because of damaged nets.

In offshore waters under federal jurisdiction, shrimpers are eligible for compensation from oil companies or from Commercial Fishermen's Contingency Fund.

The Louisiana Legislature is working on a bill that would allow compensation for shrimpers who fish inland waters.

The study covers only commercial fishermen who are licensed by the Department of Wildlife and Fisheries. It does not include the 41,000 sport shrimpers who fish Louisiana waters.

Arguments given for bomb story

MILWAUKEE (AP) — At a hearing attended only by persons who had obtained security clearance, a federal judge heard arguments on whether he should lift a preliminary injunction preventing publication of an article on the hydrogen bomb.

U. S. District Judge Robert Warren said Tuesday he would rule in a few days on the motion by The Progressive magazine asking him to vacate his March 26 order granting the government's request to block publication of the article.

The magazine, which has appealed to the 7th Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago, also asked the lower court to vacate the order after attorneys said recent disclosures showed information in the article was on a library shelf open to the public at Los Alamos, N. M.

"Our affidavit said that because this information is out in the open anyway, it is pointless for the court to enjoin us," said Sam Day, the magazine's managing editor.

The Justice Department contends information in the article is restricted under the Atomic Energy Act of 1954.

Waiting with reporters behind tape stretched across the hallway outside the courtroom were Howard Morland, the free lance author of the article; Day and the monthly magazine's editor, Erwin Knoll.

"For people with cancer, he came to be a hero. He didn't win the battle with cancer but he lost with dignity," Beverly Holden, 36, Route 2, said Tuesday when asked about her thoughts on the death of actor-institution John Wayne.

Wayne died at 72 in a Los Angeles, Calif., hospital Monday after a 15-year bout with cancer.

"You know, he was part of America. When you think of John Wayne, you think of the red, white and blue," she said, adding, "he was just a hero."

"He kind of represented courage and a fighting spirit. John Wayne told it like it was," she said.

Pam Gunn, 26, 4409 Versailles Drive, said, "it's always sad when a legend dies, but it still lives on."

She felt the actor exuded courage and strength to others — and described that quality as something that would not easily be forgotten or replaced.

Jack Roche, 3212 Wadley Ave., said he "admired him for his long-term professionalism. He (Wayne) loved his business...loved the people around him."

"We lost America's Number One patriot," Roche said of Wayne's demise.

Roche said he had seen most of the Duke's approximately 200 films.

"He loved this country...he was always optimistic and positive about the future for all of us," he said.

Trying to single out a recurring theme from Wayne's films is difficult, said Roche, but it probably was "the good guys versus the bad guys, good champions over evil. It was pretty simple."

Allen Barnett, a 27-year-old Midland native who lives at 4707 Leisure Drive, considers Wayne a "statue of society."

"I was kind of thinking all along that it would eventually happen." Nevertheless, "it was quite a loss," he said when the actor died.

Memories of Wayne for W.B. Holton, 2302 Humble Ave., go back to Holton's service days in Hawaii when movies of "The Duke" were shown in large open-air theaters.

"I think he was one of our great American traditions during my lifetime. I can't think of any that can replace him," he said.

David Odom, 31, 4517 Erie Drive, feels that Wayne's death is "damn sad."

"I'm a John Wayne fan, I guess...nobody in the world will take his place. They ought to have a national holiday...he shouldn't have died," Odom said.

Arley Iven Owens, 60, Route 1, said that "movies won't be the same without him. He was a great actor. He was one of the greatest actors to ever hit Hollywood."

Owens remembered going to the theaters and watching many of the greats of Western movies, but he said Wayne was by far his favorite.

"As far as I'm concerned, after he went Western, he never made a bad movie," Owens said Tuesday.

Fund grows with memorials

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Donations, some large and some small, are pouring into the hospital where screen legend John Wayne died as fans honor family wishes for "The Duke's" memorial — a cancer fund that won Wayne's enthusiasm in his final weeks.

"Some gifts are in the thousands, usually around $10,000, but I can't reveal the sources," UCLA Medical Center administrator Bernard Strohm said Tuesday.

The family asked that, instead of flowers, donations be made to the John Wayne Cancer Fund.

Donations may be made to the John Wayne Cancer Fund, c/o UCLA Medical Center, Los Angeles, Calif., 90024.

"This fund was discussed during the last two weeks," said a hospital spokesman. "Mr. Wayne was enthusiastic about it and he talked about it with the hospital and with his children."

Strohm said there were "many small donations, and a few large ones, but we really haven't looked at it all yet."

Meanwhile, Wayne's colleagues eulogized the hero who lost the last battle of a brawling 50-year career Monday, when he died of cancer at the age of 72.

"The Duke is dead, which means the tallest tree in the forest has been felled," said Motion Picture Association president Jack Valenti.

President Jimmy Carter said Wayne was "bigger than life."

"In an age of few heroes, he was the genuine article," said Carter. "But he was more than just a hero, he was a symbol of many of the qualities that made America great. The ruggedness, the tough independence, the sense of personal courage, on and off the screen, reflected the best of our national character."

In San Clemente, former president Richard Nixon, whom Wayne staunchly supported until the darkest days of the Watergate scandal, said, "John Wayne was true grit on and off the screen. The roles he played and the life he lived will inspire Americans for generations to come."

The Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors ordered flags on county buildings flown at half staff. The Olympic torch atop the Los Angeles Coliseum was lit and will burn until after Wayne's funeral.

Wayne's office said funeral services would be "very private, for the family only." The day of the services has not been announced.

The tributes came as friends remembered the man described by another Hollywood legend, Bob Hope, as "a big, big chunk of America."

Wayne, veteran of 200 movie roles from cowboy to leatherneck, "meant a lot to America. He loved to promote America. He stood for America," Hope said. "I don't think he saw himself as a symbol. He was too down-to-earth. He just wanted to do the things he wanted to do and those were right for America."

Savings firm discontinues use of successful ad campaign

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The death of screen legend John Wayne also marked the passing of one of history's most successful advertising campaigns.

Wayne's craggy features and gravelly voice in award-winning television, radio and newspaper advertisements generated millions of dollars in business for Great Western Savings & Loan.

Now James F. Montgomery, president and chief executive of Great Western says the company has discontinued its commercials and poster giveaway featuring the actor.

Wayne died Monday at UCLA Medical Center after a long bout with cancer. He was 72.

A final Great Western full-page ad in today's editions of the Los Angeles Times says simply: "John Wayne; he touched us all."

At first, Wayne refused to do the commercials for Great Western. But Peter H. Daily, head of Daily & Associates, the savings and loan's Los Angeles advertising agency, was a personal friend of Wayne's son Michael and persuaded him to act as intermediary.

Even so, it took six months and the offer of a three-year contract at $350,000 a year to get Wayne to agree.

Wayne's drawing power was exemplified by a man who walked into Great Western's Arcadia branch and deposited $40,000 he said he had withdrawn from another S&L "because the Duke told me to."

"The visibility and favorable image John Wayne gave us so enhanced Great Western that I can't put it in dollars and cents," Montgomery said Tuesday. "For now, I can't comment on what we'll do in the future."

HealthCare plan benefits explored

WASHINGTON (AP) — The unemployed, the working poor, pregnant women, infants and the elderly who fall seriously ill are the people most likely to receive tangible benefits under President Carter's national health plan — HealthCare.

If you or a member of your family works full-time, the president's proposal could benefit you in several ways, but estimates vary widely on the number of people who actually would be affected by one or more of the plan's provisions.

Here are some examples of the plan's possible effect on specific groups if the measure were enacted by Congress and were to go into operation as scheduled in 1983.

—Full-time workers and their families: All employees would be required to provide — as most already do — some form of health insurance for every employee who works at least 25 hours a week for 10 consecutive weeks. The employee's family also would have to be covered.

At a minimum, the plan would cover any family's out-of-pocket health costs over $2,500 a year. This is so-called catastrophic coverage. The White House says 36 million workers and their families have no such protection now. The insurance industry says there has been enormous growth in the sale of catastrophic coverage since 1970, and three out of four people under 65 years old now have it.

The families of full-time workers would include children through their 22nd birthday or through age 26 if they remain dependent on their parents or if they are full-time students.

—Pregnant women and infants: The plan would give free prenatal care, delivery and pediatric care, including preventive or so-called well-baby care, to all expectant mothers and infants before the child's first birthday regardless of economic status.

—The elderly: Limits on reimbursement of Medicare beneficiaries who are hospitalized for extended periods would be removed, and no one would have to pay more than $1,250 for hospital and medical care in any one year. The federally-run Medicare program now picks up most health care bills for the elderly, except in cases of extended hospitalization or consignment to nursing homes, when government support tapers off over time.

—The unemployed: People out of work would still be covered under their former employers' insurance policies for 90 days, and if they couldn't find new jobs, they could qualify for coverage under the federally-run Health-Care system.

—Medicaid recipients: The poor who now qualify for benefits under a state Medicaid program would get the same or better protection after the federal takeover of Medicaid and reorganization that would result in its being run much as Medicare is now.

—The poor without Medicaid coverage: Single people and jobless couples whose incomes fall below 55 percent of the official poverty line would qualify for all medically necessary services under HealthCare. The working poor would get up to $150 in additional earned-income tax credits to help them pay their share of health insurance premiums.

—Uninsurables: People that private insurance companies now consider too risky to qualify for individual health insurance, such as a 60-year-old man who has suffered a heart attack and is out of work, would be given an opportunity to buy HealthCare coverage.

Restoration of severed hand team's third 'success story'

NEW YORK (AP) — A New Jersey man whose hand was nearly cut off in an accident on the job has become the third success story in less than two weeks for a team of surgeons at Bellevue Hospital.

The surgical team reattached the right hand of Thomas Kowalig, 44, of Kendalle Park, N.J., in a lengthy operation Tuesday that began nearly four hours after the hand was severed and continued into the early morning hours today.

"The prognosis is good," a Bellevue spokesman said Tuesday night. "There is blood in the hand and it looks like it will take."

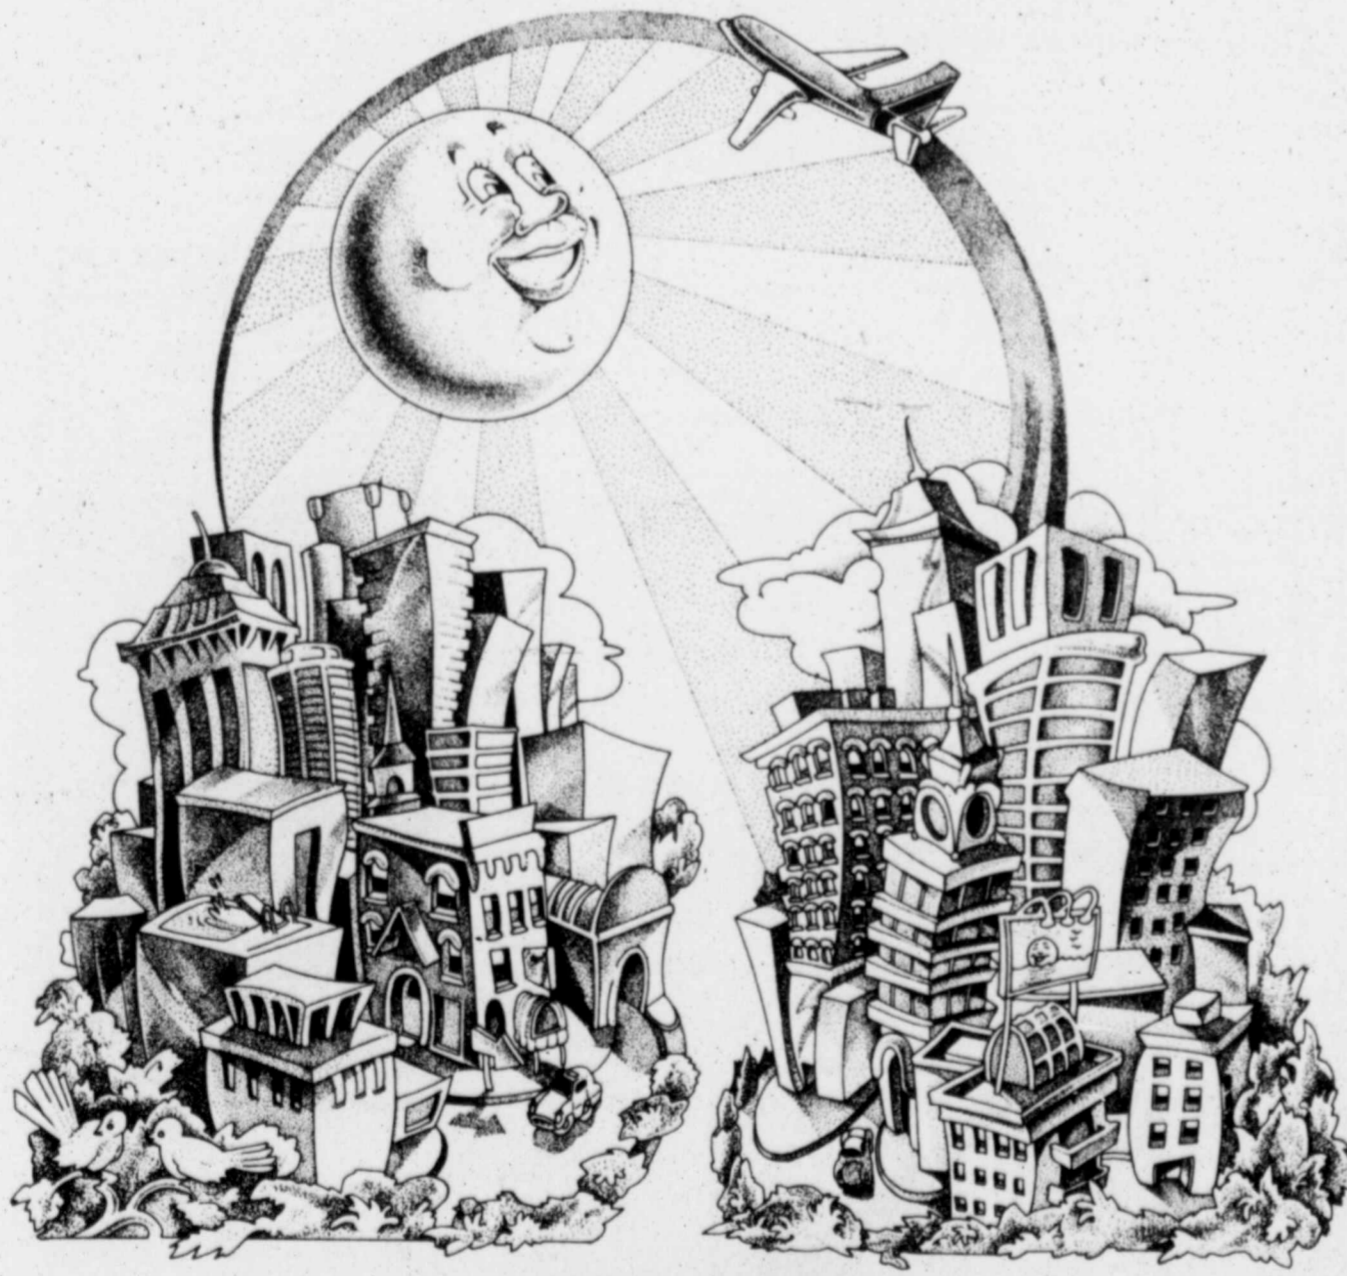

The same news came just five days ago after the same team reattached the right hand of Renee Katz, 17, a promising musician who lost the hand when she was pushed in front of a subway train. That operation, which lasted 15 hours and 40 minutes, was described as perhaps the longest of its kind in the nation's medical history.

And one week before Renee's hand was restored, the same team reattached the left leg of Police Officer Michael Mullick after the leg was severed when he was crushed between his patrol car and a van.

Kowalig, a production supervisor at the Tenneco Chemical Co. plant in Bound Brook, N.J., had been cleaning out a chemical mixing tank with an air hose when a gate in the bottom closed on his hand.

A state police helicopter took Kowalig from New Brunswick to Manhattan and a city ambulance rushed him to Bellevue, where the doctors started working on him about noon.

WE FLY YOU CITY TO CITY, NOT SUBURB TO SUBURB.

On Southwest, we use the close-in city airports. Like Love Field in Dallas. Hobby in Houston. So you don't have that long drive in from the suburban airport. Or back out again. In fact, on a trip to Dallas or Houston, we can save you thirty minutes each way. That's one hour of driving time per round trip. Not to mention cab fare and traffic headaches. Call us at 563-0750 and see how we prevent hassles, instead of creating them.

Big Spring mayor scores 'vicious rumors'

BIG SPRING — Big Spring Mayor Wade Choate has called for an airing on any substance to "vicious rumors" which he said are undermining the community and are aimed at him, some other members of the City Council and the Big Spring Police Department.

Choate, in a council meeting Tuesday, suggested that any factual information should be turned over to District Attorney Rick Hamby for investigation.

The mayor today declined to discuss or even hint at the nature of the rumors, but said the "rumor-mongers" need either to "put up or shut up."

"Rumors and innuendos are being spread around the community about police officials and employees of the city, and all I'm saying is for them (rumor-mongers) to put up or shut up," Choate told The Reporter-Telegram today.

"We've got a few rabble-rousers, I guess," he said.

In Tuesday's city council meeting, Choate called the rumors "deplorable" and said the "proper channel" to check out the allegations is through the Howard County district attorney's office.

He said some of the people supposedly circulating the rumors were at the City Council meeting Tuesday, but he did not name names.

In another matter which may or may not be related, Choate said the city has called for a federal auditor of equipment and other property at the old Webb Air Force Base, which has been turned into the Big Spring Airport and Industrial Park since the jet-pilot training base was shut down 1½ years ago in a Department of Defense peacetime economy move.

Choate said no equipment has been misappropriated. However, he did say that records were not kept of the routing of equipment among the city departments.

He said a federal audit would save the city the expense of running down and checking out the equipment.

Choate has been mayor of Big Spring eight years.

Leadership class finishes

There was a different kind of graduation ceremony in Midland Tuesday night.

Members of the first Leadership Midland class "graduated" and received their certificates during a supper held in the Midland Country Club.

Reagan Legg, chairman of the group's advisory committee, said, "We are celebrating tonight the end and also the beginning of something good."

Also speaking was Joe Kloesel, president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, who said purpose of the program was to recognize young leadership in the city.

"It (the program) can provide us with leadership we really need here and to help us find solutions to some of the problems."

Leadership Midland was co-sponsored by the chamber and Midland College. Work began on the program last August and sessions started in November.

This first group of graduates elected officers in forming its alumni group. Serving in that capacity will be Mike Bradford, president; Charles "Bro" Seltzer, vice president, and Gene Drummond, secretary.

Bradford commented the program had made the participants aware of things going on in the community.

Recognized for their work on the advisory committee were Martin All-day, Winston Barclay, Harrell Feldt, Mrs. John Foster, David Grimes, John Grimland, Harriet Herd, Parker Humes, Joe Kloesel, Dr. Al Langford, Ray Moudy, Mrs. Glenn Rogers, Lynn Williams and Patsy Wilson.

Leadership Midland, a program to train potential future community leaders, met Tuesday night in Midland Country Club for a graduation dinner. Among those attending were, from left, Reagan H. Legg, chairman of the Leadership Advisory Committee; Dr. Al G. Langford, president of Midland

Odesa rights probe begins

ODESSA—An on-site investigation of racial and sexual discrimination charges in Odesa were begun here today by a federal civil rights investigator.

Angela Jones of the Civil Rights Division of the Office of Revenue Sharing will examine racial and sexual employment discrimination charges against Odesa's city government.

She also will investigate racial discrimination charges involving street and sewer services in the city.

A 1975 complaint from an Odesa citizen prompted the investigation. In 1976, an investigation and a ruling were made concerning the charges.

According to Ms. Jones, if the city is found to be in non-compliance with service and employment opportunities, an informal letter suggesting a general remedy will be sent to the city.

Also, it is possible that the city could lose federal Revenue Sharing monies as a result of the investigation, Ms. Jones said. But it is highly unlikely that such an action will be taken, she said, since most cities comply voluntarily.

Plan adds retirees

ODESSA — Ector County Commissioners voted Monday during their regular meeting to include retired county employees on the county's hospitalization plan.

The action will put 20 retired county employees in the hospitalization program. The self-insurance program, in operation for one year, was funded for $120,000 during the first year, with claims totaling $95,000.

With payments, the program currently has a $44,298 balance.

A request by Extension Agents John Menzies and Dee Money for remodeling the Extension Service offices was rejected by commissioners at the Monday meeting.

The remodeling would have meant the G.I. Forum office would have to move, it was noted.

The court approved a resolution requesting the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation to seek a federal grant to fund costs of painting center striping and other traffic control markings on paved county roads.

Odesa Council delays electricity rate increase

ODESSA — Odesa City Council voted Tuesday to delay a request by Texas Electric Service Co. for a 16.1 percent increase in rate revenues until Oct. 19.

TESCO had proposed the rate increase become effective June 21.

A TESCO spokesman said the proposed rate increase would cost about $5 more per month to the residential consumer, with about $88 million more expected in revenues.

The spokesman added the increase is needed to offset a rising interest rate on bonds, galloping inflation and expenses involved in pollution control.

Woman dies after crash

ODESSA — An Odesa woman injured in a motorcycle accident Friday night died Monday in an Odesa hospital.

Dead is Teresa Faye Nelson, 21. She had been a passenger on a motorcycle driven by Thomas Michael Ward, 22, of Odesa, according to reports.

Ward today was listed in satisfactory condition at Medical Center Hospital.

Also involved in the accident was Kaso Ramdas, 27, of Odesa, who was driving a car. He was charged with failure to stop and render aid following the accident. Ramdas was free Tuesday on $5,000 bond.

Police said the motorcycle was going west on East Second Street when the accident occurred.

Odesan jailed on drug charge

ODESSA — An Odesa man remained in Ector County Jail late Tuesday in lieu of $5,000 bond on a charge of felony possession of a controlled substance after police reported they had found more than four ounces of a substance believed to be marijuana in the man's car Sunday.

Marvin Gene Dunn, 25, 2415 W. Fourth St., was stopped Sunday afternoon for a traffic violation. Police said they saw a car make an illegal turn in the 900 block of East 17th Street.

An officer reported seeing a bag of a green, leafy substance, suspected to be marijuana, on the floor under the driver's seat as the officer approached the car.

A search of the car later revealed 13 other bags of the substance.

Dunn was charged before Municipal Court Judge Otis Moore and bond was set at $5,000.

Big Spring denies rate increase

BIG SPRING — The Big Spring City Council voted unanimously Tuesday to deny a revenue increase request from Texas Electric Service Co.

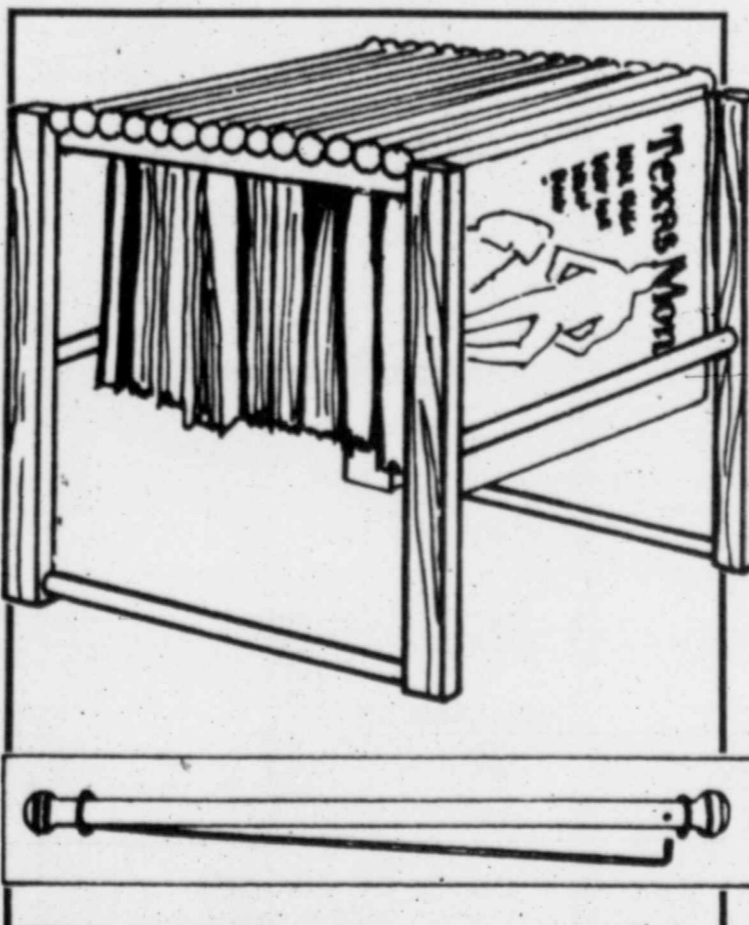

In doing so, Big Spring's council acted differently from other city councils in the area. Midland and Odesa council voted to delay the rate increase was to become effective 120 days.

Acting City Manager Paul Feazelle had told the council it could delay the request for 120 days while the Texas Municipal League drafts an alternate proposal, reject it entirely, approve it for the full amount or approve a lesser amount.

TESCO now will have to appeal Big Spring's decision before the Public Utilities Commission.

Couple wed in double ring service

Robin Elaine Courtney and Larry Edward Williams exchanged wedding vows in a double ring ceremony June 9 in Calvary Baptist Church. The Rev. Glenn Shoemaker performed the 2 p.m. service.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Courtney and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williams, Route 3.

Wendy Williams, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, and Karen Courtney, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Kim Meldrum, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Danny Matthews of Austin was the best man. The groomsman was Lewis Aguilar of Plano. Ushering the guests were Bob Bailey and Monty Kerr.

The bride, presented in marriage by her father, wore a formal white Empire styled gown trimmed with white lace. It was fashioned by her mother. Her veil was floor length. She carried a bouquet of daisies, carnations and Sweetheart roses.

Music was by Mrs. Charlie Welch, organist, and Mrs. Danny Smith, soloist.

The couple will reside on Route 5 at Wichita Falls.

Homes losing as place for meals

CHICAGO (AP) — There may be no place like home, but fewer people each year are eating their holiday and anniversary meals there.

Recent surveys indicate nearly half of all American family meals are consumed outside the home, according to some restaurant-industry observers.

"Restaurants have taken over an important social role in the United States," says Manfred Steinfeld, chairman of Shelby Williams Industries, which makes chairs for restaurants and other public places.

The major factor in the shift is "the cost-of-living squeeze, which has reduced the size of today's houses and apartments, virtually eliminating space for entertaining and sending almost half the nation's wives and mothers off to work," Steinfeld explained.

In his view, the days when grandma had everyone over for Thanksgiving, Christmas and birthday or anniversary dinners are virtually over.

Steinfeld sees them as part of vanishing Americana along with the big parlors and dining rooms in which these family affairs were once held.

The U.S. has a new generation which has grown up used to eating in restaurants, Steinfeld said in an interview.

"This is a generation which feels more at home in public dining places than any previous ones ever did," he added.

"Ever since World War II, meals enjoyed by the whole family with no members absent because of other commitments—social, work, school or sports—have become fewer every year."

This is reflected, he said, in the way restaurants and food-service facilities in hotels and motels are furnished and decorated now. They emphasize atmosphere and design-oriented furnishings.

"Many restaurants have wood-paneled library nooks, soft, plush sofas and chairs, and the romantic atmosphere of fireplaces—all once only found at home," Steinfeld said.

CULTURAL BRIEF

NEW YORK (AP)—A collection of gold artifacts and pottery from Colombia, South America, will be on exhibition at the American Museum of Natural History from Nov. 13 through March, 1980. The museum says the show, "The Gold of El Dorado," is the "largest and most comprehensive display of Colombian archeology ever seen outside of Latin America. More than 500 objects will be on view, drawn primarily from the Gold Museum in Bogota as well as from other collections in Europe and America."

DEAR ABBY

An ex-rated marriage

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A reader asks, "How do I get back with No. 1?" Here's how I did it. My wife and I had been divorced for three months.

I missed her like crazy, so I sent flowers with a note. "I miss you, Baby. Love, Allen."

She phoned to thank me, and asked if I wanted to stop by that evening. I went. We talked and cried and hugged and kissed. Then I asked if I could spend the night. She said, "Not tonight. I have a headache." We both had a good laugh because that was a private joke between us.

We admitted that we still loved each other, and decided to try again. It's been 14 years and we're still in love. — L. A. LOVESTORY

DEAR ABBY: I married the same woman three times! She had two husbands in between marriages and I had three wives.

The only ones who came out ahead were the lawyers. Take my advice and move out, cool off, separate if necessary, but don't get a divorce unless you're positive you never want to see each other again. — ALSO SORRY IN FRESNO

DEAR ABBY: I'm only a 13-year-old kid, but I've been through a lot. My mother divorced my father when I was 8. I can't count the number of times she went back to him because she thought it would be better for us kids. It wasn't. Tell the lady who divorced her husband to stay divorced until she can find a man who will give her a better life than her first husband. — CHILD OF DIVORCE

DEAR ABBY: Tell SORRY IN ST. JO, who is considering re-marrying her ex' to forget it. I married the man I said no to half a dozen times. He was the world's smoothest salesman. I finally said yes. He drank and chased, so I divorced him two years later. He wouldn't leave me alone, so like a fool I let him talk me into marrying him again. It didn't work out. I'm free now. I hear he went to Australia. I hope he stays there. — STUCK TWICE DEAR ABBY: I'm a man who re-married my ex. It was dumb. I made the same mistake twice. — ROY IN WOBURN, MASS.

DEAR ABBY: Tell SORRY IN ST. JO not to remarry her ex unless the reason they split up has been resolved.

Gary and I were very much in love when we married. Our problem was too much family interference on both sides. After 10 years and three children, they families and try again. We moved from New Jersey to California 10 years ago, and couldn't live without each other, so we decided to be happier. — HAPPY move away from both TRANSPLANTS

City's Magna Charta Dames plan to attend state meeting

Plans for attendance at the Texas State Genealogical Society meeting to be held in Fort Worth in October were made at a recent meeting of the Midland Colony of the Magna Charta Dames.

The group met in the home of Mrs. Robert D. Hanley. They also discussed the Archival workshop set for September in San Angelo.

The chapter will meet next in September at the Midland Country Club in conjunction with other historical societies for the celebration of Constitution Week.

Following the luncheon, a program on the Romance of the Magna Charta was presented by Mrs. Warren Faller. She pointed out the astonishing inter-relationships between the signers of the document, who all had a common descent from the Emperor Charlemagne. Of the 25 Barons, only 17 have descendants surviving today.

Guests were Mrs. W. H. Golemon of Brackettville, and Leaf and Chrissie Faller.

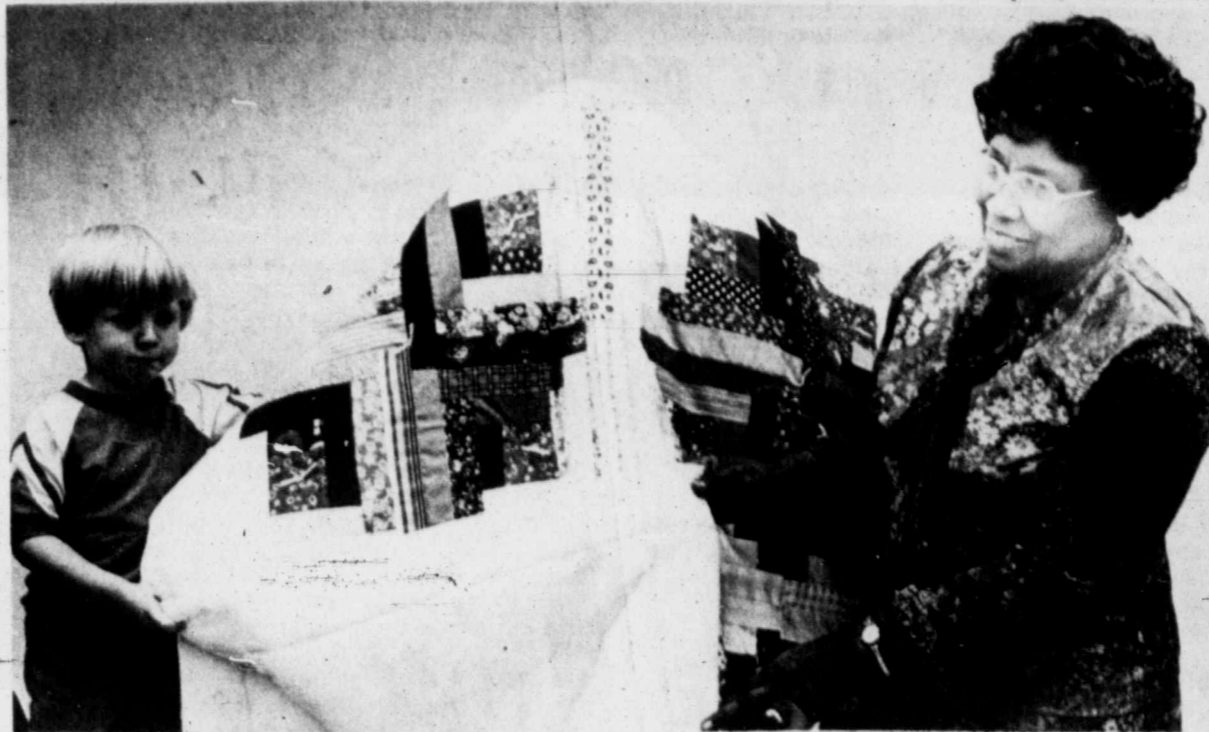

Music school

appoints dean

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Paul C. Boylan, associate dean of the University of Michigan School of Music since 1974, has been named dean of the school.

The appointment, effective July 1, is for a five-year term.

Boylan will succeed Allen P. Britton, who will retire as dean and continue to teach in the school.

Christopher Cormack, age 4, helps Zeta Phi Beta sorority member Bertha Starks display a quilt made by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cormack of 2825 Maxwell Ave. The Cormacks donated the quilt with log cabin design for the sorority's project of securing a trained hearing dog for Mary Bess, a former teacher for the Midland Independent School District. Mrs. Starks is project chairman.

HOROSCOPE

By Carroll Righter (Thurs., June 14)

GENERAL TENDENCIES: If you avoid the tendency to break up existing conditions and refuse to be drawn into confrontations or disputes, you can gain active assistance from influential persons.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): By using more modern methods, you can gain personal aims more readily. Plan to have more prosperity in the days ahead.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Listening to the ideas of the influential is wise, but depend on your own judgment for best results. Allow time to meditate.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Stop fretting and do something constructive about frustrating conditions. Make a new contact who can be helpful to you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Be more loyal to your mate and don't permit others to influence you so much. Avoid one who has loose morals.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Try to cooperate more with associates and you can be more successful in the future. Use reason instead of losing your temper with others.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Don't run off on any tangents at this time and keep busy at important work. Don't jeopardize your health in any way.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Take time to be with good friends and forget anxieties for the time being. Later you can handle business matters wisely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Go after vital data you need to improve working conditions and steer clear of partners who are irate now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Have serious discussions with associates and then get busy at your end of the work to be done. Clear up whatever is in error.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Get busy and improve your property and possessions so that you become more successful. Be more practical.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Plan just how to attain your personal aims and with less effort. You can gain the support of a higher-up at this time.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Plan how to gain a special wish that means a great deal to you. Sidestep persons who have given you trouble in the past.

George Segal sculptures on exhibit

NEW YORK (AP) — A retrospective of the work of George Segal is on view at the Whitney Museum of American Art through Sept. 9.

The museum says, "The 50 sculptures, dating from 1962 to 1978, and approximately 25 seldom-shown pastel drawings, dating from the late 1950s and early 1960s, provide a comprehensive overview of the major themes and stylistic developments that characterize Segal's career."

That Chicago DC-10 crash: Now the lawsuits begin

By H. JOSEF HEBERT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-four hours after the DC-10 jetliner crashed near Chicago, killing all aboard, Lee Kreindler's tennis game was interrupted by a phone call. "Lighting has struck twice," he was told.

Stanley Stogel, on the line from Los Angeles, explained he again needed the lawyer's services because his brother had been aboard the ill-fated American Airlines jet. Stogel made a similar request 17 years ago after his parents died in another air accident.

Within a few minutes that Saturday, Kreindler telephoned his law partners. By Tuesday, the first business day after the crash, the New York firm filed the first lawsuit in the crash against American Airlines and the plane's manufacturer, McDonnell Douglas.

Some lawyers speculate that suit and others filed on behalf of the 275 persons who died in the nation's worst airplane disaster may result in awards totaling as high as $500 million.

If past air crashes are any indication, the legal fight for compensation will be waged by a small circle of specialists, many of whom for the past dozen years have concentrated on air disaster litigation—a field that is highly technical and equally lucrative.

The settlements are in the tens of millions of dollars and the legal fees — always on a contingency basis — can be several million dollars to a firm.

Kreindler, who handled his first plane case in 1952 and has written a two-volume book on the subject, is among the best known in this circle. Others are Donald W. Madole of Washington, Gerald Sterns of San Francisco, and W. Marshall Morgan of Los Angeles.

"There's no doubt about it... you can make a lot of money if everything just falls right," says Morgan, 54, whose fee from the 1974 Turkish Airlines DC-10 crash outside of Paris was $500,000.

Kreindler adds, "Yes, for the guys who've made it, it's lucrative."

The top lawyers in the field say they are rarely approached by relatives of victims and usually have clients referred to them because their expertise is well known by other lawyers. They are highly critical of what Morgan calls "plane ambulance chasing," some evidence of which already has surfaced in Chicago.

Yet after every major airline crash, no matter where in the world, some of their number are quickly near the scene gathering information for the cases they know will come their way.

In recent years the insurance industry and the airlines have tried to get out-of-court settlements and the money offers have been high. That strategy, say legal sources, was evident in the collisions over San Diego last year and at Tenerife in the Canary Islands in 1977.

Some legal sources reportedly predict a low-keyed resolution of expected suits arising from the Chicago crash. But Kreindler says he will seek punitive as well as compensatory damages — a move that indicates possible lengthy legal arguments.

At a 1978 meeting of the Association of Trial Lawyers of America, John V. Brennan, president of United States Aviation Insurance Group, which covered the plane that crashed in Chicago, provided a glimpse at the money reaped as a result of suits arising from air disasters.

In a 1974 Paris crash, Brennan told the lawyers, the settlement won by four U.S. law firms on behalf of 298 claims reached $60.7 million with legal fees of nearly $12 million, or better than 19 percent.

Donald Mandole's Washington firm represented 144 claims with settlements of nearly $29 million and fees of about $4.4 million. Kreindler's firm had 66 claims with a settlement of $13.1 million and fees of $2.3 million, including $500,000 for Morgan who handled much of the case in Los Angeles.

Brennan said such fees were unreasonable since there was a high number of cases involving only a single instance of liability. "Even supermarkets give discounts for volume," he declared.

Insurers have argued that suits filed by lawyers on a contingency fee — based on a percentage of the settlement — have driven up settlements, with much of the money going to lawyers.

Airplane hijackings came to the United States in 1961 when Antulio Ramirez Ortiz forced a National Airlines plane to fly him from Florida to Cuba.

Sky pirates began appearing in ever-increasing numbers, with successful hijackings reaching a peak of 33 in 1969, then tapering off through the 1970's as security measures were strengthened.

The most recent, Monday's hijack of Delta Airlines' New York to Fort Lauderdale flight, was the first successful hijack of an American airliner to Cuba in more than four years.

The early cases of air-piracy had political motives — 87 U.S. planes were diverted to Cuba between 1961 and 1973, when the two countries signed a treaty on extradition and prosecution of hijackers. But greed soon came into play as hijackers began demanding more and more money.

The first person to hijack a plane for money also was one of the few never to have been caught. A man known as Dan Cooper — or D.B. Cooper — hijacked a jetliner on Nov. 24, 1971, and demanded $200,000 in ransom. He parachuted from the plane, and no trace of him was ever found.

The Federal Aviation Administration says hijackings became a serious problem in 1968 when 13 planes were successfully commandeered. There were 33 successful hijackings in 1969, but increased security cut successes to 17 in 1970, 11 in 1971 and six in 1972.

The FAA considers a hijacking successful if the hijacker controls the flight and reaches the destination or objective. It calls a hijacking unsuccessful if the hijacker tries to take over the plane and fails, and it lists a hijacking as incomplete if the hijacker is caught or killed during the hijacking or soon after.

Ortiz returned to the United States voluntarily in 1976. He faced a kidnapping charge, since there was no federal aircraft hijacking law at the time of his crime. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 20 years in prison.

Here are some of the major U.S. hijackings of the 1970s:

—Jan. 7, 1972: A Pacific Southwest Airlines jet was hijacked from California to Cuba by an armed man and a woman with a 5-month-old baby. The hijacker remained in Cuba.

—April 7, 1972: A man identified as Richard Floyd McCoy Jr., 29, hijacked a United Airlines plane going from Denver to Los Angeles and ordered it to San Francisco. He later parachuted from the plane over Provo, Utah, with a $500,000 ransom and was arrested at his home in Salt Lake City two hours later.

—June 2, 1972: A man who described himself as a Black Panther and his girlfriend hijacked a Western Airlines jet, and after stops in Seattle, San Francisco and New York, forced the plane to Algeria. He took with him a $500,000 ransom.

The same day, a gunman hijacked a United Airlines jetliner in Reno, Nev., collected $200,000 ransom, and ordered the plane airborne. He escaped by parachute but was arrested a short time later.

—Nov. 12, 1972: A Southern Airways DC-9 was hijacked to Cuba by three men who had threatened to crash the plane into an atomic research facility in Tennessee.

—Dec. 14, 1974: A charter pilot was forced to fly to Cuba from Florida by an unidentified gunman who, the pilot said, claimed he was tired of living in the United States.

—April 15, 1975: Frank Page Covey of Richmond, Va., seized a United Airlines 727 over Baltimore and was captured in Atlanta when crew members and passengers slipped off the plane, leaving him behind.

—April 19, 1976: Roger Lentz hijacked a small plane at Grand Island, Neb., and forced the plane to Denver, where he was shot and killed.

Calculated risk usually misnomer

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

When your partner says he took a calculated risk, the translation is that he didn't calculate either his play or his excuse.

DIDN'T MATTER

The king of clubs didn't matter as long as West had the ace of diamonds. After taking the ace of spades South should draw trumps and lead a diamond from his hand.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes. You hold: spade Q J 10 6; heart 6; diamond A 10 9 2; club K 7 5 2. What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one spade. Show a major suit rather than raise partner's minor suit.

Human's chance of recovery from rabies disease very slim

By The Associated Press

A bleak, but not hopeless, prognosis faces human victims of rabies, says a researcher at the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta said Monday.

Dr. William Winkler, a veterinarian epidemiologist who has researched the disease since 1961, said Monday that only three humans who developed the dreaded disease have survived.

"The first case (to survive) was a little boy in 1970 in Ohio, bitten by a bat. The second was an adult in Argentina. The third was a lab worker in New York in 1977," said Winkler, who did not know the names of the Ohio boy or the Argentina woman or the exact dates.

General Motors recalls nearly 20,000 vehicles

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. is recalling nearly 20,000 vehicles for possibly defective brake lights, cruise controls and engine oil pressure switches.

Officials at the largest American automaker announced the move Monday and said two separate recalls were involved.

Faulty brake lights and cruise control are the reason 15,300 full-size, mid-size and small passenger cars and light-duty trucks made during January of this year are being called back, officials said.

A wrong lubricant was used on the switches of the brake lights and cruise control that may result in undue wear, GM said. The wear could cause failure of the brake lights and require a complete stop of the vehicle to disengage the cruise control, officials said.

About 4,200 Chevrolet Monzas, Pontiac Sunbirds, Oldsmobile Starfires and Buick Skyhawks from the 1979 model year, all with built in February with 231-cubic-inch V-6 engines, come under the other recall.

In these cars, the engine oil pressure switch may have an electrical short circuit, GM officials said, that could cause the engine to start when the key is in the "on" position. Normally, a car starts when the key is turned to the "start" position.

Also, if the transmission is left in drive or reverse when the engine is started, the vehicle may jump, the company said.

Organization man alive, kicking

By JERRY SCHWARTZ

NEW YORK (AP) — Disillusioned by institutions that don't work but devoted to them anyway, the organization man survives, says the man who identified that corporate species more than two decades ago.

"Many people tell me to write a 'Son of Organization Man,'" says William H. Whyte Jr. "I really didn't think there was that much change to warrant it. But now, I'm beginning to think there's been change — but perhaps in the wrong direction."

Watergate, Vietnam, Three Mile Island, corporate corruption — all of these, Whyte says, have led Americans to believe that "the benevolent, far-seeing corporation is a lot of crap."

But still, they work for the organization, and by agreeing to its demands of loyalty and conformity, Americans allow these very abuses to continue, Whyte says.

"THIS BOOK IS about the organization man," Whyte wrote in 1956. With that sentence, Whyte introduced both a book and a theory: the individual was being swallowed by corporate and social groups that demanded conformity.

"The Organization Man" was an instant and controversial bestseller. "It touched a nerve," says Whyte.

He was a writer for Fortune magazine when the book was published. He has since become an urban planner but has maintained his interest in the corporate man.

Now 62, thin and graying, Whyte says he's been "depressed and saddened" by what has happened.

"I think that there is a feeling that organizations, our institutions, are not working the way they should be," he says. "I have a hunch ... that they're not working as well as they were 20 years ago. Why? I don't know."

In the 1950s, Whyte says, Americans had "faith, very strong faith, a very religious sense" that life was good and getting better.

"MY GOD, THE American middle class went to suburbia, there were all of these tremendous changes. Whole great new high-rises were built. It was a great feeling, upward, onward, an expanding economy, the wonderful American economic machine," he says.

"It's pretty easy to have faith in the benevolent corporation when it's expanding, and there are more slots at the top opening up," Whyte says. But he says that faith has been sorely tested in the face of Vietnam, campus unrest and the end of the postwar boom.

"There's so much talk about loyalty. Loyalty, loyalty, loyalty. Then look what happens. There's a merger. Zoop-cut," says Whyte, his hand slashing the air. "The man's out of a job, not because of what he did, but because they didn't need that many vice presidents."

"Time after time, our institutions have really let us down," he says. "Look at Three Mile Island. How could corporations make themselves look worse? ..."

"Every time the public gets a view of the inside of the corporation, because of ... Three Mile Island or something like that, the picture of inefficiency is appalling. It used to be we could say, 'Well, maybe they're bastards, but they're smart bastards.' They're dumb bastards!"

NEVERTHELESS, Whyte says, "I think the hold of the organization is every bit as great as it ever was."

In "The Organization Man," Whyte described the American corporation as a place where one got along by going along. Whyte says the corruption that has shaken faith in the organization has been caused by the willingness of the men and women who work for the organization to do anything it asks them to do.

He recalls the General Electric-Westinghouse price-fixing scandal, in which executives of those companies "were acting like criminals. They were meeting in hotel rooms under false names. These were honorable men."

He recalls the dumping of chemical PCBs in New York State. After a legal fight, General Electric agreed in 1976 to pay for the cleanup of PCBs in the Hudson River.

"PCBs are dangerous, poisonous. No doubt about it. And yet General Electric managed to convince itself that this was perfectly alright," said Whyte. "I'd love to hear of a case," he said, "where someone went up and said, 'Hey, Chief, you know this product we have, that's making all this money? I think there's evidence that we ought to look into that this is killing a lot of people.'"

"BUT ... ORGANIZATIONS don't work that way."

The organizations' insistence on loyalty and conformity, Whyte expects, will either destroy them or force them to change when faced with more open, more flexible competitors.

"The marketplace can be a very tough discipline," he says. "Of course, the forward momentum of any organization, especially the big ones, is tremendous. They can keep on going after they've lost vitality for quite some time. The marketplace in the long run is very cruel to people who shield themselves from reality."

Midlander pleads guilty to murder

A 20-year-old Midland man Tuesday pleaded guilty to murder in the Feb. 18 death of 14-year-old Poetry Lashan Brazell of Midland.

James Earl Whitlow of 1710 Butter-nut Lane was sentenced to 35 years in the Texas Department of Corrections by 142nd District Court Judge Perry Pickett.

Jury selection was scheduled to get under way Tuesday morning in Whitlow's trial, but the defendant decided to plead guilty prior to the start of jury selection, according to Assistant District Attorney Timothy Sloan.

The body of Miss Brazell, an Alamo Junior High School student, was found in Hogan Park about 8 a.m. Feb. 18. She had been shot.

The case was prosecuted by Ms. Sloan and Assistant District Attorney Charles Seltzer. Whitlow was represented by defense attorney Rusty Wall of Midland.

Boy hurt in collision

A 6-year-old Midland boy was listed in satisfactory condition in Midland Memorial Hospital early today following a car-bicycle accident about 12:07 p.m. Tuesday.

Michael J. Marin, son of Tony Marin, 4611 Comanche Drive, suffered a broken jaw, scrapes and bruises as a result of a collision with a pickup truck, officials said.

Marin apparently was riding his bicycle south in an alley that intersects Anetta Drive in the 3600 block, according to police reports.

When he attempted to cross the street, police reports indicated, he and a pickup driven by Elvin Roy Hanzel, 51, 4304 Hanzel Drive, collided.

Soldier death probe asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — An investigation into the death of Pfc. Kenneth L. Mosier, 18, of Benton, Ark., has been requested by U.S. Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark.

Mosier died at Fort Hood, Texas, on March 15, six days after he was released from a hospital. He had been treated for pneumonia.

Allie Bell Henson

BIG SPRING — Services for Mrs. Jewel (Estelle) Fortenberry, 69, of Big Spring were to be at 2 p.m. today in Nalley-Pickel Funeral Home Chapel here. Burial was to be in Colorado City Cemetery.

Mrs. Fortenberry died Tuesday in a Big Spring hospital.

She was born Dec. 23, 1909, in Bonham. She was married to Jewel Fortenberry Oct. 17, 1924, in Bonham. She had lived in Big Spring since 1943, moving here from Colorado City. She was a member of the Baptist Church.

Survivors include her husband; a daughter, Mrs. Ralph (Wyneil) Wilkerson of Big Spring; two sons, Luke Fortenberry of Big Spring and Paul Fortenberry of San Angelo; a brother, Buddy Potts of Wichita Falls; two sisters, Mozelle Bono and Effie Sims, both of Bonham, and seven grandchildren.

Elaine K. Smith

ODESSA — Services for Elaine K. Smith, 54, will be at 4 p.m. Thursday in the Forest Hill Funeral Home Chapel in Memphis, Tenn., with burial in Forest Hill Cemetery. Local arrangements are being made by Hubbard-Kelly Funeral Home.

Mrs. Smith died Monday in an Odessa hospital.

She was born Aug. 5, 1924, in Memphis, Tenn. She moved to Odessa in 1953 from Crane.

Mrs. Smith was married to Bowman L. Smith Oct. 21, 1948, in Memphis.

She was a member of the First Baptist Church. She was a member of Kappa Delta Sorority, having graduated from the University of Tennessee. She was a teacher at Odessa High School for 16 years.

Other survivors include her husband; two sons, Bowman L. Smith Jr. and Raymond Bennett Smith, both of Odessa; a daughter, Barbara Elaine Leeton of Midland; two sisters, Elizabeth Tucker and Dorothy Hebers of Memphis, Tenn.; one brother, Ben King of Orlando, Fla., and her mother, Margaret King of Memphis.

increasing number of Texas service stations are closing early because of declining supplies.

In its weekly Texas Fuel Gauge Report, the AAA also said prices continue to rise, with the statewide full-service regular average passing 80 cents a gallon the first time.

The average of 80.3 cents for regular compared with 79.5 cents last week. The full-service unleaded average of 84 cents was up from 83.4 cent. The 86.4-cent premium average was up from 85.4 cents.

Self-service regular had the highest gasoline increase of the week, moving from 76.7 cents to 78.7 cents during the week. Unleaded moved from 81 to 81.9 cents, while premium moved from 82.6 to 84.1 cents a gallon.

The AAA said the highest price increases, however, involved diesel fuel, with the average moving from 80.7 to 83.1 cents a gallon.

The cause of death was listed as heart failure resulting from a blood clot in the lungs.

Bumpers was not satisfied with an earlier investigation the Army conducted at his request.

Mosier had applied for a discharge in November.

U.S. Steel announces price hike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp. has raised prices on steel used in cars, appliances and home furnishings an average of 3.5 percent after being granted a government exception from federal price guidelines.

The nation's largest steelmaker said Tuesday it would raise prices on its total steel mill product line. The increase, effective July 1, was the third announced this year.

U.S. Steel is a recognized price pacesetter because of its market dominance, and other steel companies traditionally follow with similar increases.

Commission postpones Whalen application

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The Texas Railroad Commission Tuesday postponed until June 25 consideration of an application by Whalen Corp. for reinstatement of its brine disposal authority at Whalen Lake in Andrews County.

The commission delayed action on the request until all three commissioners could consider it, a commission spokesman said. Commissioner John Poerner was absent from Tuesday's commission meeting.

The commission banned the discharge of salt water, produced in oil recovery operations, into the lake after Chief Engineer Bob R. Harris of the commission's Oil and Gas Division reported "substantial" pollution at the lake.

Whalen Corp., the Petroleum Corp. of Texas, Phillips Petroleum Co. and Gulf Corp. were seeking emergency reinstatement of disposal authority at the Whalen Lake oilfield.

But, second-ranked Bethlehem, third-ranked National and seventh-ranked Jones & Laughlin reserved comment on the hikes except to say that they were being studied.

The major products affected in Tuesday's announcement are rail, wheels and axles, mechanical and pressure tubing, continuous weld pipe, sheet and strip products and bar and semi-finished products.

In Washington, the Council on Wage and Price Stability said U.S. Steel was one of several companies given permission to shift its pricing from current price guidelines to a profit-margin standard. A spokesman said the exception was the first for a steel producer.

Current anti-inflationary standards set by the council call for price jumps to be held to half a percentage point below 1976-77 increases.

Funeral set for Lt. Gen. Almond

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Funeral services were scheduled for Lt. Gen. Edward Mallory Almond, who served the U.S. Army in three wars and commanded the ground troops in the Inchon Landing in the Korean War.

Almond, 86, died Monday at the Brooke Army Medical Center here, army official at Ft. Sam Houston said Tuesday.

Almond commanded X Corps during the Korean War in 1950 and 1951 during some of the most intense combat, including the Inchon Landing, the capture of Seoul and the evacuation of Hungnam after the Chinese intervention.

The Inchon Landing was a daring, decisive amphibious assault Sept. 15, 1950, into North Korea behind the North Korean advance. It led to the capture a month and a half later of the North Korean capital.

Almond served from 1946 until 1951 as Gen. Douglas MacArthur's chief of staff at Headquarters Far East and United Nations Commands.

As an infantry lieutenant in World War I, Almond commanded a machine gun battalion in France and received the Silver Star and the Purple Heart after being wounded in the Aisne-Marne offensive.

During World War II, he commanded the 92nd Infantry Division in Italy and the 2nd Infantry Division at Camp Swift, Texas, for its planned deployment to Japan.

He had received numerous other decorations, including an Air Medal with 15 Oak Leaf Clusters, a Distinguished Service Cross, two Distinguished Service Medals, a second Silver Star and a Distinguished Flying Cross with two Oak Leaf Clusters.

He was promoted to lieutenant general in 1951 and commanded the Army War College until 1953, when he retired.

Almond has served as president of his alma mater, Virginia Military Institute, and was a member of VMI's Board of Visitors from 1961-68.

He was born in Luray, Va., on Dec. 12, 1892 and graduated from VMI in 1915.

Almond is survived by his wife of 62 years, Margaret, a daughter, three grandchildren and a great-granddaughter.

Clements encourages trucker group

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Representatives of independent truckers got a word of encouragement today from Texas Gov. Bill Clements.

"He told us that he would do anything within his power to help us," Frank Bixler, Dallas, said after he and a delegation of protesting truckers talked with Clements for 15 minutes.

"There were no specifics but he said he would look into it and he would try to talk with other governors when he goes to the National Governors Conference (in July)," said Thomas Murray of Oklahoma City.

"He is an influential person and we found out that he could relate to our problems because he came up the hard way, working with his hands."

Also attending the meeting, which was asked by the truckers, were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Somers of Brighton, Colo. He said he was vice president of a recently nationwide organization of independent truckers, called Colorado Convoy Inc.

The truckers said they also asked Clements to use his influence with Texas members of Congress to set up public hearings to air the truckers complaints about diesel prices and other matters.

Guyana child torture outlined

CHICAGO (AP) — The Rev. Jim Jones subjected the children of his Jonestown, Guyana, settlement to "physical and psychological abuse and torture" before their mass slaughter, the Chicago Sun-Times said in Sunday editions.

In a copyrighted story, the newspaper said beating children was common in the compound, that children were sexually abused and often were terrorized and brutally disciplined. The story also said Jones had indicated his mass suicide plans in a mailing to the entire U.S. Congress eight months before the Jonestown massacre.

kiff, past president. Also elected were Jesse W. Hauptrief, secretary-treasurer; Hugh B. Gilmour, national committeeman, and directors M. Neal Meares, Margaret F. Moore and David A. Floyd. (Staff Photo)

An Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. crew works late to catch a thin film of crude oil leaking from the trans-Alaska pipeline at a spot near the summit of the 4,800-foot Atigun Pass, about 365 miles south of Prudhoe Bay. The line was shutdown Sunday in the first closure caused by a major break since the pipeline was the target of sabotage near Fairbanks in February 1978. (AP Laserphoto)

Alaska oil expected to flow today

By SARAH OVERMYER

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — With a five-inch crack in the trans-Alaska pipeline repaired temporarily, oil was expected to start flowing today from the rich fields of Alaska's North Slope into Valdez. Pipeline officials still do not know what caused the rupture in the 48-inch steel pipe near the summit of 4,800-foot Atigun Pass, allowing some 1,500 barrels of crude to escape. Cleanup crews recovered 700 barrels of the spilled oil, but some escaped into the nearby Atigun River. Welders patched the hole Tuesday to pave the way for the first flow of oil since Sunday morning, said Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. spokesman John Ratterman.

Ratterman said the flow of oil would be increased gradually to the normal daily 1.2 million barrels, while pipeline monitors kept a close watch on the temporary patch. Eventually, Ratterman said, the section of pipe containing the hole will have to be replaced. He said that could be done without shutting down the line through the use of a temporary bypass. Leaking oil was discovered Sunday morning and the line was shut down within two hours. On Monday, workers found a wrinkle in the pipe and later a crack five inches long and 1-64th of an inch wide. Ratterman said the closing of the line did not result in a loss of oil production, but said there would be a delay in the delivery of crude to oil refineries in the lower 48 states.

"Now we have to determine what caused the wrinkle," said Morris K. Turner of the Department of Interior's Alaska Pipeline Office. "That is quite important, because what caused the stress?" Turner and Ratterman said the stress could have been caused by an earthquake or a construction deficiency, like improper bedding of the pipe. Turnersaid a design deficiency also could have been at fault, but it was too early to pinpoint the reason. Alyeska designed an electronic device called a "superpig" to travel through the line and detect changes in the pipe's contour. The device ran through the 800-mile line last fall. But data collected by the superpig has not been interpreted because the necessary computer program has not been completed.

Five areas draw wildcat operations

Mitchell, Edwards, Fisher, and Rannels counties in Texas and Eddy County, N.M., have gained wildcat operations.

Sweetwater Drilling Co., Inc., of Sweetwater spotted its No. 1 Solomon as a 4,500-foot wildcat in Mitchell County, four miles west of Cuthbert. It is 467 feet from north and east lines of section 11, J. C. Erwin survey. The site is one location west of an 8,273-foot dry hole and 3/8 mile northwest of a 7,494-foot failure. The closest production is 2.5 miles to the east in the Coleman Ranch pool.

EDWARDS PROJECT
Continental Oil Co., operating from Midland, announced location for a 12,500-foot Ellenburger wildcat in Edwards County, 24 miles southwest of Rocksprings.

The deep test is No. 1 H. B. Doran, 2,202 feet from south and 604 feet from east lines of section 31, block 2, GWT&P survey, abstract 1152. The site is 4.5 miles northwest of a 13,520-foot dry hole and 17 miles southwest of an undesignated gas discovery which was completed in 1977 by Amoco Production Co. at its No. 1 J. A. Rudasill. That strike finalized for a calculated absolute open flow potential of 3,700,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 9,637 to 9,732 feet.

FISHER PROJECT
A 3,000-foot wildcat was spotted four miles west of Noodle in Fisher County by Hill Production Co. of Dallas.

It is No. 1-A Pike Hall, 1,175 feet from the north and 1,250 feet from the west lines of G. W. Peck survey No. 284 and in the south area of the Eskota (Canyon and Noodle Creek) field. The Canyon production is at 4,388 feet and the Noodle Creek produces at 2,545 feet.

RUNNELS TRY
E. B. Fletcher, Operator, of Dallas staked No. 3-425 Wayne Roberts as a 4,900-foot wildcat in Rannels County, seven miles southwest of Winters and one location northwest of production in the Howerton (Goen) pool.

The location is 1,050 feet from north and 3,300 feet from east lines of section 54, block 63, HLT&B survey.

EDDY PROJECTS
A pair of wildcat operations were announced in Eddy County.

Perry R. Bass of Fort Worth staked No. 77-Big Eddy Unit as a 12,600-foot operation 17.5 miles southeast of Carlsbad and one mile west of the Dublin Ranch (Morrow gas) pool.

The location is 1,650 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 9-22s-28e. Ground elevation is 3,095 feet.

Meadco Properties of Midland No. 1 Hudson-Federal is a re-entry wildcat operation in Eddy County, 15 miles northeast of Carlsbad.

Originally completed from the Strawn, through perforations from 11,098 to 11,102 feet on total depth of 11,643 feet, it will be plugged back and tested above 4,250 feet.

WARD PROJECT
Adobe Oil & Gas Corp. of Midland No. 20 Barstow has been spotted one and three-eighths miles north of production in the Scott (Cherry Canyon gas) pool of Ward County, one mile southeast of Barstow. Scheduled for tests of the Cherry Canyon, it is scheduled to 6,500 feet and will be drilled 660 feet from southeast and 1,408 feet from southwest lines of section 173, block 34, H&TC survey.

REEVES WELL
William B. Wilson & Sons of Midland No. 2 Worsham has been completed as the fifth Cherry Canyon gas well in the Scott multiphase area. The well extends the pool from Ward County into Reeves County.

The operator reported a calculated absolute open flow potential of 6 million cubic feet of gas per day through perforations from 6,386 to 6,413 feet. The gas-liquid ratio is 64,109-1, with gravity of the oil at 48.6 degrees. The pay was acidized with 500 gallons and fractured with 30,000 gallons.

Total depth is 6,488 feet and 5.5-inch casing is set at 6,471 feet. The hole is plugged back to 6,434 feet.

The well is 3/4 mile south of the closest Cherry Canyon gas production and 9,407 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 13, block 6, H&GN survey and five miles southeast of Barstow.

ECTOR FIELD TEST
Shell Oil Co. will re-enter a former San Andres well in the Goldsmith, North field of Ector County and plug-back for tests in the Yates as a gas well.

If successful it will be the sixth well in the Andector (Yates gas) pool.

The project is No. 4-C Cummins, 560 feet from south and 2,080 feet from west lines of section 9, block A, PSL survey. It will be tested above 4,504 feet.

HOWARD PROJECT
Texaco Inc., operating from Midland, announced plans to re-enter a project in the Vealmoor (Canyon Reef) pool of Howard County and test it in the Cisco zone.

If completed in the Cisco it would be the second well in the Vealmoor (Cisco) field.

It is No. 1 Clyde Clanton, 560 feet from north and west lines of section 39, block 32, T-3-N, T&P survey and 11 miles north of Big Spring and two miles southeast of the Cisco well.

It will be tested above 7,900 feet.

HOWARD OILER
Campana Petroleum Co. of Midland No. 1-A Read is a new flowing well in the Coahoma, North (Fusselman) pool of Howard County, three miles northeast of Coahoma.

The operator reported a daily potential of 210 barrels of 48.4-gravity oil, no water, through a 12/64-inch choke and perforations from 8,814 to 8,824 feet.

The gas-oil ratio is 1,076-1.

The pay was acidized with 11,500 gallons.

Total depth is 8,894 feet, 4.5-inch pipe is set at 8,890 feet and hole is plugged back to 8,877 feet.

Wellsite is 1,980 feet from north and 467 feet from west lines of section 40, block 30, T-1-N, T&P survey.

EDDY FIELD AREA
Tenneco Oil Co. announced locations for a pair of projects in the Empire, South (Cisco/Welcamp) field of Eddy County, six miles southwest of Loco Hills.

The No. 3-33-E Federal will be drilled 1,980 feet from north and 520 feet from west lines of section 33-17s-29e. Elevation is 3,554 feet.

The No. 2-33-C Federal is 910 feet from north and 1,710 feet from west lines of section 33-17s-29e. Ground elevation is 3,555 feet.

Each of the projects will be drilled to 9,200 feet.

AMOCO GASSER
Amoco Production Co. announced potential test for a new well in the Tonto, West (Morrow gas) field of Lea County, N.M., 15 miles southwest of Buckeye.

It is No. 5 Bonduant-Federal and was completed for a daily flow of 2,440,000 cubic feet of gas per day, through a 22/64-inch choke and perforations from 13,326 to 13,341 feet.

Total depth is 13,698 feet and 5.5-inch pipe is set on bottom. The plugged back depth is 13,640 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 12-19s-32e.

'Windfall tax' legislation may offer exceptions

By JIM LUTHER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee is urging that expensive efforts to recover hard-to-get oil be rewarded with a partial exemption from the proposed "windfall profits" tax on the industry.

The committee, rushing to finish work this week on the new tax, also recommended Tuesday an exemption for certain oil owned by a state, city or county. The main beneficiaries of this amendment would be California, Alaska, Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma.

On the other hand, the panel voted to tighten an exemption that President Carter had recommended for certain Alaska oil. This action would result in the taxation of oil that was discovered before 1979, north of the Arctic Circle.

Because of high development and transportation costs, all oil discovered in Alaska this year and later would continue to be exempt.

The "windfall profits" tax was proposed by Carter to take away some of the billions of dollars of revenue that will flow to the oil companies because of his decision to phase out federal controls on the price of domestic oil.

In other energy-related developments Tuesday: —John F. O'Leary, deputy secretary of energy, told a House subcommittee that foreigners — not U.S. oil companies — are responsible for gasoline shortages and steadily rising fuel prices. "We are absolutely at the mercy of an international oil cartel," he said in an apparent reference to the Arab-dominated Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

—In the Senate, a package of conservation bills aimed at reducing U.S. oil consumption by 1 million barrels daily was introduced.

The legislation calls for tightening restrictions on the sale of fuel-inefficient houses and cars and imposing economic sanctions against states that do not strictly enforce the 55-mph speed limit.

—The Senate Appropriations Committee recommended that Congress grant the National Alcohol Fuels Commission $1.5 million to look into gasoline — a mix of alcohol and unleaded gasoline.

—Service station owners, arguing they are being hurt by inflation, appealed to the Carter administration for permission to raise the price of gasoline 4 cents a gallon.

Jack Houston, spokesman for the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers, said profit margins for retailers have been frozen at 1974 levels, despite the soaring inflation rate. Without a price increase, some stations may have to shut down, he said.

The Council on Wage and Price Stability is already investigating the recent increases in gas prices.

Sharp rise urged

NEW YORK (AP) — Officials of the petroleum-rich Mideast nation of Kuwait say oil prices must rise fairly sharply to force industrial countries to start conservation measures and develop other energy sources, the New York Times reported today.

The newspaper quoted Kuwait's oil minister, Sheikh Ali Khalifa al-Sabah as saying, "The sooner the shock is introduced, the lower the final price will be."

The sheik said the jolt could come June 26 at the Geneva meeting of OPEC, the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

"I think it would be safer for the world if a shock is delivered in Geneva than if a midway compromise is taken without unifying the price," he was quoted as saying.

The 33-year-old oil minister said OPEC's first priority should be to stabilize oil prices "at a higher level" and end surcharges that many oil-producing nations have recently imposed.

Bell operates private line network from city

A private line telephone network which stretches across the vast flatlands of West Texas is centralized on one floor of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. building at 410 W. Missouri Ave.

The Special Services Center has been in operation since last October, and already has brought improved service to more than 10,500 private line customers from Dumas to Abilene to Fort Stockton, according to a spokesman with the telephone company.

The private line circuit is a special telephone connection from one city to another which uses copper cable or microwave radio transmission. Cost of the service is determined on a monthly base rate plus a mileage fee.

While this service has been offered to this area for a number of years, its use increased last year by 35 percent, said the spokesman.

The Midland Special Services district in 1978 connected more than 2,400 private lines. This year, the company expects to complete about 3,600 circuits — almost a 50 percent increase over 1978.

Neal Marshall, district manager for the Special Services Center, said the office is responsible for total operation of each private line.

"Monitoring the private line network is a very complicated process and requires constant surveillance and follow-up, especially during installation," he said.

Southwestern Bell administers and tracks each installation from beginning to end — from the customer location, through each local and toll central office to the final destination in another city, whether it be Lubbock or New York, Marshall said.

A private line starting in Odessa and ending in Lubbock would be routed through a local switching office in Odessa.

It would be carried via cable to the local toll office, to the Midland toll office and, finally, to the toll office in Lubbock. From there it would go to the local switching office and end at the customer's location.

Marshall said many of the private lines travel as far as New York City or Los Angeles.

The SSC is divided into three functions — installation, routine maintenance and repair service, Marshall said.

The Midland office is only into its first phase, which is coordinating installation of each private line.

By the end of 1981, the company is expected to introduce the final stages of SSC — centralized routine maintenance and repair service, according to Marshall.

These functions will be centralized on a Switched Access Remote Test System. Personnel can test the entire circuit and isolate any problem along the route.

Repair service will be centralized in Midland.

"Until 1981, though, we're only taking partial repair reports in this office," Marshall said. Later this year, the office will handle repair calls on this service from 11 p.m. until 7 a.m.

On the average, the firm receives three to four repair calls a night. Marshall said by centralizing all repair calls in one office, instead of six, the company saves as much as $350,000 a year.

When all repair service is centralized in the Midland office, the company should save as much as $900,000 a year, according to Marshall.

Southwestern Bell's Special Services Center in Midland is responsible for the total operations of the company's large private line network in West Texas. Tracking private line installation procedures are, from left, Terri Hart, records clerk; Diana Boland and Judy Rust, toll-testing technicians, and Ada New-some, repeater technician.

Marlboro man still ranches

WESTMORELAND, Kan. (AP) — For the man who became a national symbol of machismo as the cowboy star of Marlboro's cigarette commercials, Wayne Dunafon is pretty unassuming. He doesn't even smoke all that much.

But the 59-year-old northeast Kansas rancher still has the trim, muscular physique that made him a champion steer wrestler during his rodeo days and drew the interest of television viewers during his 14 years riding around Marlboro Country.

Dunafon, who was in Cheyenne, Wyo., at the time, was chosen for the commercials from among a group of rodeo cowboys after the cigarette company had some problems with authenticity.

"There was one commercial where a guy was wearing his spurs upside down, and they got about 80 letters from ranchers. So they decided to find some real cowboys, and they came to Cheyenne to screen us at a rodeo there," he says.

The job came pretty naturally to Dunafon, but some days he worked harder for the photographs than he would on a day at his own ranch.

"They wanted sunrise shots and they wanted sunset shots," says the rancher, who last worked for Marlboro a year and a half ago at $350 a day.

"In between, they wanted action shots. Sixteen-hour days. They'd take 10,000 photos in three days, and they'd be happy if they got six magazine ads out of it."

The soft-spoken, white-haired rancher saw the job as a sideline to his ranching business, which fell on hard times in 1964. He was one of several Marlboro men chosen, and outlasted most of the others.

The job took him to suitably western-looking ranches from Texas to Oregon, with one stop in Strong City in the Flint Hills of Kansas.

The television commercials were the most lucrative, and Dunafon still draws about $1,000 a year in royalties from those shown abroad. Now, he is a partner in a Manhattan, Kan., livestock auction. But the ranch isn't quite like the Marlboro Country of television and magazine fame.

"Too many roads and power lines," he says. "They don't like anything blocking the horizon."

These days he roams his 1,000-acre spread checking fences in a pickup truck.

DACCA, Bangladesh (AP) — Some 27,000 of more than 200,000 Burmese who fled to Bangladesh last year remain to be repatriated, and they will be sent home by mid-July, Home Minister Mustafizur Rahman told Parliament Monday.

Most of the refugees were Moslems who fled to escape persecution by the Buddhist Burmese army. Rahman said they are being repatriated at the rate of 2,500 every three days.

He reported 12,241 of the refugees — 2,081 men, 2,442 women and 7,768 children — died in Bangladesh.

New phone surge due

CHICAGO (AP) — Former astronaut James Lovell predicts a growth in telecommunication markets over the next two decades that may rival the expenditures on the Apollo moon program.

Now a director of the North American Telephone Association, Lovell said in a recent speech that the explosion in new equipment and services should add some $20 billion or more to the current $50-billion-a-year telecommunications industry.

Artist raises consciousness

BY NADINE JOSEPH

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Artist Judy Chicago wanted to reinterpret the Last Supper as a history of women in Western civilization.

"I wanted to express my rage at being deprived of my heritage," said the 39-year-old artist. "And I was aware of the hunger for art that's relevant to and affirms women."

It took her five years to complete "The Dinner Party" — a controversial feminist piece of art symbolizing 39 historic female figures ranging from the Primordial Goddess to painter Georgia O'Keefe. Others include the poet Sappho, Saint Bridget, astronomer Caroline Herschel, abolitionist Sojourner Truth and novelist Virginia Woolf.

"I thought men had a last supper, but women have had dinner parties. Moreover, it was probably women who cooked the food for the famous Last Supper," she said.

Using traditional women's techniques of pottery, ceramics, china painting and stitching, she created a personal tribute to women and an innovative art form. More than 100 artisans worked on the piece.

"The Dinner Party" is a gigantic triangular table with 39 place settings. Each woman is symbolized by a specially designed and painted porcelain plate, which is placed on a decorated fabric runner representing the woman's cultural and historic period. Another 999 women's names are etched on a tile floor.

"I make trends, I don't follow them," said the curly haired artist, who was dressed in jeans and a red T-shirt. "I thought once the piece opened, I would be free to move on."

Instead, Ms. Chicago faces financial and artistic problems. She said she has $25,000 in debts and one of three museums planning to display her piece has bowed out.

"The Dinner Party," which is on display at the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art until June 17, goes to the Rochester, N.Y., museum in the fall. After that, the piece has no permanent home.

"It's upsetting. I'm working to keep the piece from getting lost," said Ms. Chicago. "The Whitney in New York said they don't show political art. Other museums have declared that it's not art at all."

"If art is the sterile pictures that hang in art galleries, then I'm happy that 'The Dinner Party' is classified as non-art. It challenges the definition of what art is and is richer, more human, more accessible," she said.

At the museum here, women crowded around the piece, exchanging their impressions, often circling it for an hour. Some smiled, one wept quietly.

"The response is very moving. It's very reinforcing that art can affect people's lives," the artist said.

Ms. Chicago was born Judy Gerowitz in Chicago. She changed her name in 1969 to divest herself "of all names imposed upon her through male social dominance."

She started taking art classes at the Art Institute of Chicago in 1947, went to UCLA and later became a teaching assistant in sculpture there. In 1970, she pioneered the first women's art program at Fresno State University.

"I'm interested in images that change consciousness," she said. "I believe in the artist as a visionary."

Debts may close theater

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The American Conservatory Theater, which only recently received a special Tony Award for its contribution to regional theater, is $125,000 in debt and may have to cancel part of its 1980 season.

That gloomy assessment came Monday from ACT general director William Ball and Cyri Magnin, president of the California Association for ACT.

In addition to the money problems, Ball said that the group's home, the Geary Theater, is "a hazard to the public," and needs extensive repairs.

"If we are to continue this theater in San Francisco, we are going to have to solve these problems," Magnin told a news conference.

Ball said that the conservatory company is facing financial problems because private donations have failed to keep pace with rising costs and inflation.

Magnin said that five San Franciscans, including himself, have pledged $25,000 apiece to reduce the original deficit of a quarter of a million dollars by half. But Ball said that the other $125,000 is needed by July 1 for the 1980 season to go on as scheduled.

Last Sunday, ACT received a special Tony from the League of New York Theaters and Producers' Associations for its "excellence in presenting world drama" and its contribution in training talent for the stage.

Restaurateurs to convene

The Permian Basin Restaurant Association will send 182 members to the 42nd Annual Texas-Southwestern Regional Food Service Education Convention in Dallas June 19-21.

More than 24,000 delegates are expected at the convention. President of the Permian Basin chapter is Mike Medley.

Two join series

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dean Butler and Lucy Lee Flippen will join the cast of "Little House on the Prairie" when it begins its sixth season on NBC in September.

Butler will play Almanzo Wilder, the young man who eventually became the husband of Laura Ingalls. Miss Flippen will play his sister, Eliza Jane Wilder.

36-year-old plane crashes, burns in Florida

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A 36-year-old plane seized by U.S. Customs last year for allegedly carrying marijuana became a blazing pyre for a pilot and passenger who had loaded it with 1,200 gallons of fuel. Alvin M. Nelson, 49, of Miami, and John A. Olcott, 63, of Orlando, Fla., were killed in the crash of the DC-3 Tuesday morning shortly after take-off from the airport here. When the plane had trouble increasing altitude, pilot Nelson made sure it didn't crash in a residential area or on busy Interstate 95, witnesses said. "I think he saw the houses and wanted to land on the grassy strip between the highway and the houses, but when you're only up 250 feet the cardinal rule for pilots is that you don't try to make a turn," said Lt. Bob Rankin of the Fort Lauderdale fire department. The plane narrowly missed the interstate and crashed about 50 feet short of a line of homes. Rankin, a pilot himself, witnessed the crash from the small airport, then rushed over to battle the inferno that followed when the fuel exploded. There was a large traffic jam as dozens of commuters and residents watched firefighters extinguish the blaze and pull out the charred bodies. "We know he (Nelson) saved us. I'm sorry we can't thank him," a stunned Nancy Lent said. Her house was nearest the crash. A neighbor, Marjorie Montagna, said she was in her backyard and could see "the expression of horror" on the pilot's face. "He was a smart pilot. He was a hero. He did what he had to do," she said. "Can you imagine if he'd gone another 100 feet?" Rankin asked. "There's no telling how many people would have been killed."

Salisbury rejoices at Senate action

SALISBURY, Zimbabwe Rhodesia (AP) — Government officials and others were jubilant today after the U.S. Senate voted to lift economic sanctions against Zimbabwe Rhodesia and said they were anxiously awaiting the outcome of the House vote scheduled for next week. "We're half-way there," said an aide to the embattled territory's first black prime minister, Bishop Abel Muzorewa. "But the House is traditionally not as well disposed to us as the Senate." Foreign Minister David Mukome said, "I am absolutely delighted that the will of the American people has been accurately reflected in the Senate vote and I am confident that the House of Representatives will also rebuff the U.S. administration's bankrupt policy towards Zimbabwe Rhodesia." Muzorewa, meanwhile, dispatched two emissaries to Washington today to lobby for a favorable House vote and to attempt to set up a U.S. visit by the prime minister. Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., a staunch supporter of lifting sanctions, has invited Muzorewa to visit the United States and officials here said Muzorewa was certain to accept if he were granted a visa. Brian Walters, an import-export agent, said, "If the Americans go all the way then the rest of the West will follow and we'll be faced with the biggest economic boom in our history." A young white soldier who asked not to be identified said, "Shrugging off sanctions will give us access to the guns we need to step up the war against the terrorists," the black nationalist guerrillas trying to topple the government. The nation's largest newspaper, The Herald, said in an editorial tribute to the late John Wayne, "One can only hope that the example he set both on and off the screen may yet help to restore to America the values it appears for the moment to have mislaid." The Senate voted 52-41 Tuesday to reverse President Carter's decision to continue sanctions against Zimbabwe Rhodesia. Carter declared that the new black-led government elected in April was not chosen through free and fair elections. Muzorewa's administration, installed two weeks ago, inherited United Nations' sanctions clamped on the country after the white minority government of former Prime Minister Ian D. Smith unilaterally declared independence from Britain in 1965 to avoid black majority rule.

Baby illness concerns hospital's nursing head

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — An Arizona hospital spokesman said early today she still is concerned about an infant whose parents reportedly were stopped by authorities here and told to get medical treatment for their son. The nursing supervisor at Maricopa County Hospital in Phoenix, Ariz., said she was contacted by Virgie Terrell late Tuesday and told an Oklahoma City doctor had examined Mrs. Terrell's son, Michael Terrell Jr. But the nurse, who asked not to be identified, said she was skeptical the infant had actually received treatment, since an Oklahoma physician did not call the hospital to ask exactly what was supposed to be wrong with the boy. She said Mrs. Terrell told her the family was continuing its vacation. The nurse said hospital officials would begin checking further on the case this morning. A spokesman for St. Anthony Hospital in Oklahoma City said Mr. and Mrs. Michael Terrell registered in the hospital's emergency room at about 8:30 p.m. Tuesday and left a short time later before their son could be examined by a doctor. A multistate search for the Detroit-born infant and his parents began when a Maricopa County Hospital doctor informed the Arizona Department of Public Safety the couple had left the state without knowing their son had a dangerous intestinal blockage that could kill him.

Porter Routh of Nashville addresses a Summit full of Southern Baptists Tuesday at the Summit in Houston. The Southern Baptist Convention was a hotbed of activity as an estimated 18,000 messengers (delegates) prepared to elect a new president. (AP Laserphoto)

Baptists push for orthodoxy

HOUSTON (AP) — A coalition of conservative Southern Baptists is pushing to tighten controls on Bible interpretation after electing the Rev. Adrian W. Rogers of Memphis, a staunch conservative, president. Other proposals were in the works at the annual convention of the nation's largest Protestant body to bring about stricter doctrinal conformity and denominational seminary teaching. The drive toward Scriptural orthodoxy received a boost from Rogers' surprise first-ballot victory Tuesday. He swamped five other candidates regarded as moderate conservatives in the generally conservative denomination. It was "a definite turn to the right," said Marse Grant, editor of the North Carolina state Baptist paper, Biblical Recorder. Others offered similar assessments, and the Rev. Jerry Glisson of Memphis said, "This represents a trend to the right after years of moving to the left." A highly conservative faction, charging inroads of "liberalism" toward the Bible in various denominational institutions, has been trying for about a decade to gain official ascendancy in the 13 million-member denomination, previously in vain. But this time, the group mounted a political-style campaign, including six months of pre-convention rallies around the country and extensive caucus activity here. The strategy, called unprecedented in Southern Baptist history, succeeded. "I'm elated and grateful," said the Rev. Paige Patterson of Dallas, a leader in the campaign. Another ally, the Rev. Harold Lindsell, head of the Baptist Faith and Message Fellowship, called the outcome "a first step" in a continuing battle for Biblical orthodoxy. Rogers, 48, pastor of the 11,000-member Bellevue Baptist Church in Memphis, said he was taking over the top office not "with blood in my eyes, but with love in my heart." Talking with reporters, Rogers said he wanted to project a positive tone, but would stand against any tendency to "compromise the word of God." Rogers and his fellow conservatives have insisted Baptist institutions uphold "biblical inerrancy," a doctrine that holds that God literally inspired every word of Scripture, not just the ideas it contains. Disputing claims that the focus on doctrine would detract from evangelism, Rogers said he completely supports the denomination's "bold mission thrust" to present the gospel to all the world by the end of the century. Donald McGregor, editor of the Mississippi Baptist Record, termed Rogers' election a result of grass roots suspicions that the "existing structure is an ivory tower."

White House team hurt in air mishap

TOKYO (AP) — Ten White House employees, an advance team on its way to Japan to prepare for the upcoming economic summit, were slightly injured when their plane went into a steep climb and then a plummeting dive before it was brought under control. An Air Force spokesman said the incident, blamed on an unexplained "equipment malfunction," occurred late Tuesday as the plane was nearing the Japanese coast. The C-141 Starlift had left from Elmendorf Air Force Base in Alaska and was flying on automatic pilot when the incident occurred at 35,000 feet, the spokesman said. He said the plane unexpectedly lurched to 36,500 feet and then dove back to 35,000 feet before the pilot could regain control. The plane landed safely in Yakota about 30 minutes later. There were 34 White House employees on the plane. Only three were injured seriously enough to require hospitalization over night. They suffered a broken wrist, bruised hip and sprained ankle. The group was on its way to prepare for the June 28-29 economic summit.

Evidence of drug use called visible in Midland

By PATSY GORDON Staff Writer

"If you want to know whether we have drugs in Midland, drive by a Midland high school where the words 'bong out' are written on the walls in big letters, said Bob Meehan of Houston Tuesday night.

Meehan was speaking to a group of Midlanders in the Fellowship Hall of the First United Methodist Church. He related his experiences as a marijuana, cocaine and heroin user and as an alcoholic.

A bong, said Meehan, is a term used by drug users for an instrument used to smoke marijuana and hashish.

Meehan, founder of the Palmer Drug Abuse Program, has been visiting the Tall City in order to help get the program instituted in Midland.

Ron Britton, chairman of the finance committee of the organizing committee, announced Tuesday night that $8,000 already has been raised to bring the program here.

Total goal is $50,000 for initial operating expenses for a year, which includes paying the salaries of the counselors and for their training before coming to Midland.

Meehan, who said he is from a good Irish and Roman Catholic family, and had a good Irish cop for a dad, told his audience that they "must be responsible as a community and provide the best help possible for their children.

"You must decide where you want to lead them (the children) and how you want to lead them," he added.

The speaker, 36, who said he began using marijuana at the age of 12, identified himself as a teen-ager who questioned what the church and his parents were teaching him.

Meehan blasted movies and television shows that show people smoking marijuana without any side effects whatsoever.

"There are so many reasons people are led down the path to drugs," he said.

"But there are still some who think because it is still illegal, there is something wrong with it. They were brought up to respect law and order."

Meehan, self-described as a registered drug addict, said he was told he would never be a reformed person.

Jokingly, and maybe not jokingly, he said, "Maybe that is why I changed — because they told me I wouldn't."

PDAP is based on love, Alcoholics Anonymous and belief in a loving God, said Meehan.

"For every pusher caught, there are 200 ready to take his place," said Meehan.

Europe's grounded DC-10s to take to air once again

STRASBOURG, France (AP) — European civil aviation authorities want the 58 grounded European-owned DC-10 jetliners back in the air by June 19.

The 21-nation European Civil Aviation Commission decided Tuesday to convene a meeting June 18 to grant final approval to the program. Representatives of the 13 European airlines flying the DC-10, the plane's manufacturer McDonnell Douglas, the U.S. Federal Aviation Administration and the European civil aviation authorities.

Netherlands Director of Civil Aviation Hans Raben, the commission chairman, said the program to put the grounded jets back in the air includes intensified inspections.

The FAA grounded the 138 U.S.-operated DC-10s June 6 and stopped the foreign-owned jets from flying in U.S. airspace on the same day.

"Unless the situation changes, if the European DC-10s go back into service next week, they will not be allowed in this country," said FAA spokesman Fred Farry.

The FAA ordered the planes grounded after the May 25 crash of an American Airlines DC-10 at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport that killed 275 people in the worst disaster in U.S. aviation history.

The FAA is checking cracks in the engine-mounting pylons.

sent at the meeting will be representatives of the 13 European airlines flying the DC-10, the plane's manufacturer McDonnell Douglas, the U.S. Federal Aviation Administration and the European civil aviation authorities.

Netherlands Director of Civil Aviation Hans Raben, the commission chairman, said the program to put the grounded jets back in the air includes intensified inspections.

ETA threatens officials

BILBAO, Spain (AP) — The Basque separatist movement ETA sent a pamphlet to newspapers Tuesday saying all Spanish officials in the Basque provinces of northern Spain "are condemned to death."

ETA demanded the "immediate resignation or departure of all Spanish government officials from the Basque country."

However, a government official, Ignacio Astiz of the Ministry of Industry in Pamplona, was released unharmed Monday after being kidnapped by ETA and held for five days.

Talmadge's ex-wife tells of finding bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Herman E. Talmadge has kept large amounts of cash — sometimes up to $45,000 in $100 bills — in his home ever since he first ran for public office in the late 1940s, his former wife says.

Betty Talmadge told the Senate Ethics Committee Tuesday she does not know where the money came from or how Talmadge replenished the fund.

But she said it was not unusual for her to find as much as $36,000 in a pocket of her husband's old overcoat during the last few years of their marriage.

And she said she could not remember a time when there wasn't some money secreted around the house they shared for 35 years. They filed for divorce in 1976.

Mrs. Talmadge's testimony was the last major piece of evidence to be presented by attorneys for the ethics committee in its financial misconduct case against the Georgia Democrat. Those attorneys could rest their case as early as today.

There was no word on how many witnesses Talmadge's defense will call.

The two major charges are that he knew of and profited from the diversion of campaign funds in 1973 and 1974 and from the padding of his official Senate expenses from 1971 through 1976.

Mrs. Talmadge's testimony did not touch on those allegations. Her testimony, however, was important because it contradicted Talmadge's public statements that he never handled $100 bills and that he relied on $5 and $10 gifts from his constituents for his daily spending money from 1971 until mid-1977.

Neither Talmadge nor his former wife wrote any checks to cash during that period.

WHY BUY A "CHANDELLE" CONDOMINIUM? *

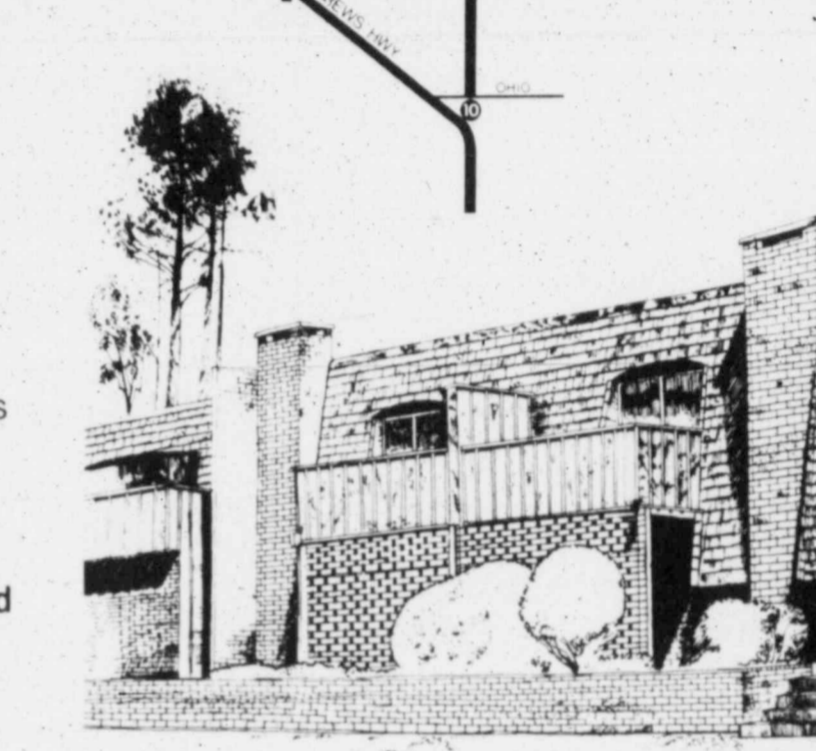

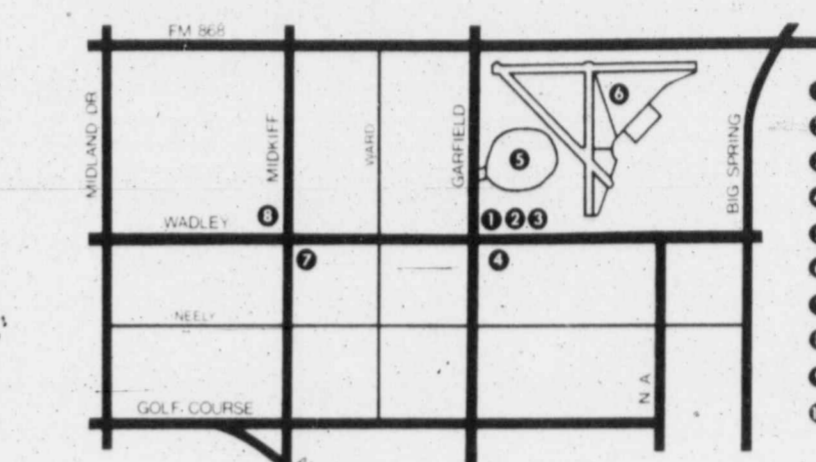

"CHANDELLE's" location at 2100 West Wadley is within minutes of downtown, theatres, recreational areas, shopping, restaurants, schools, churches, the college, and Airpark. At "CHANDELLE" you get an equity investment, the same tax breaks as a home owner, and greater control of your housing costs.

"CHANDELLE" is the only real alternative people have to get away from the maintenance problems - of home owning, and doing it with style.

Come out to 2100 West Wadley or call 684-7884 to find out why "CHANDELLE" is a nice place to call home. Models are open from 12:00 noon until 6:00 p.m. seven days a week.

With just $2750 down for a 2 bedroom-2 bath "D" model, and a monthly payment of $600... You can have all the economic benefits of "Chandelle", plus enjoy convenient living with a "Touch of Class". That $600 monthly figure includes your mortgage, taxes, insurance, water, sewage, and association fees.

* The 37 people who have decided to call "CHANDELLE" home will tell you why.

hue in the seventh gave the Angels a 9-7 lead after they blew a 6-0 bulge. The rally gave Don Hood, the sixth Cleveland pitcher, his first victory since last July.

Yankees 4, Twins 1

Roy White and Mickey Rivers stroked run-scoring singles in a tie-breaking three-run ninth inning and the Yankees got four-hit pitching from Guidry and Ron Davis. Rookie Darryl Jones started the ninth off with a double and one out later White singled to snap a 1-1 tie and send Jerry Koosman to his fifth consecutive setback.

Guidry allowed all four Minnesota hits before leaving after the seventh inning with an apparent back injury. Guidry was wheeled out of the locker room on a stretcher. His neck was in a brace and he appeared to be groggy but X-rays showed no fractures or nerve damage. The preliminary diagnosis was a muscle strain off the spine.

White Sox 12, Orioles 4

Junior Moore and Chet Lemon hit two-run singles in a seven-run second inning and Wayne Nordhagen and Claudell Washington slugged home runs as Chicago snapped Baltimore's six-game winning streak. Ken Kravec was the winner while loser Mike Flanagan was unable to retire a batter in the big second inning.

"I kept tightening up because those long innings were killing me," said Kravec, who had a four-hit shutout going into the eighth and beat the Orioles for the first time in six career decisions. "I know I hadn't beaten them before, but it seems like every time I've pitched against them I had to go up against Jim Palmer," he added.

Tigers 9, A's 2

Designated hitter Rusty Staub knocked in three runs with a homer and a double and rookie Pat Underwood for the second time in as many major league starts by hurling a six-hitter for his first complete game. Jerry Morales also homered for Detroit and Alan Trammell became the first Tiger to steal home since Al Kaline in 1973.

"It's very nice, a complete game," said Trammell. "Nine runs. I didn't bother the ballplayers. I just let them go out there and play."

Mariners 5, Blue Jays 1

Dan Meyer, Joe Simpson and Larry Cox delivered RBI singles in the first inning and coasted behind Glenn Abbott's six-hit pitching. Meyer also homered for Seattle's final run in the ninth.

O'Malley new council member

NEW YORK (AP) — Peter O'Malley, president of the Los Angeles Dodgers, has been named to the executive council of major league baseball, the National League announced.

O'Malley, 41, will serve the unexpired term of his father, Walter O'Malley. The term runs through 1981.

The executive council is the main policy-making body of baseball. Its members include Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, the presidents of both leagues and other baseball executives.

McEnroe posts tennis victory

LONDON (AP) — John McEnroe, his thigh heavily strapped, began his 1979 grass-court campaign today and defeated fellow American Charlie Passarel 6-4, 6-4.

The win took McEnroe into the second round of the Stella Artois Tournament at London's Queen's Club, one of the big warm-up events for Wimbledon, which starts in two weeks.

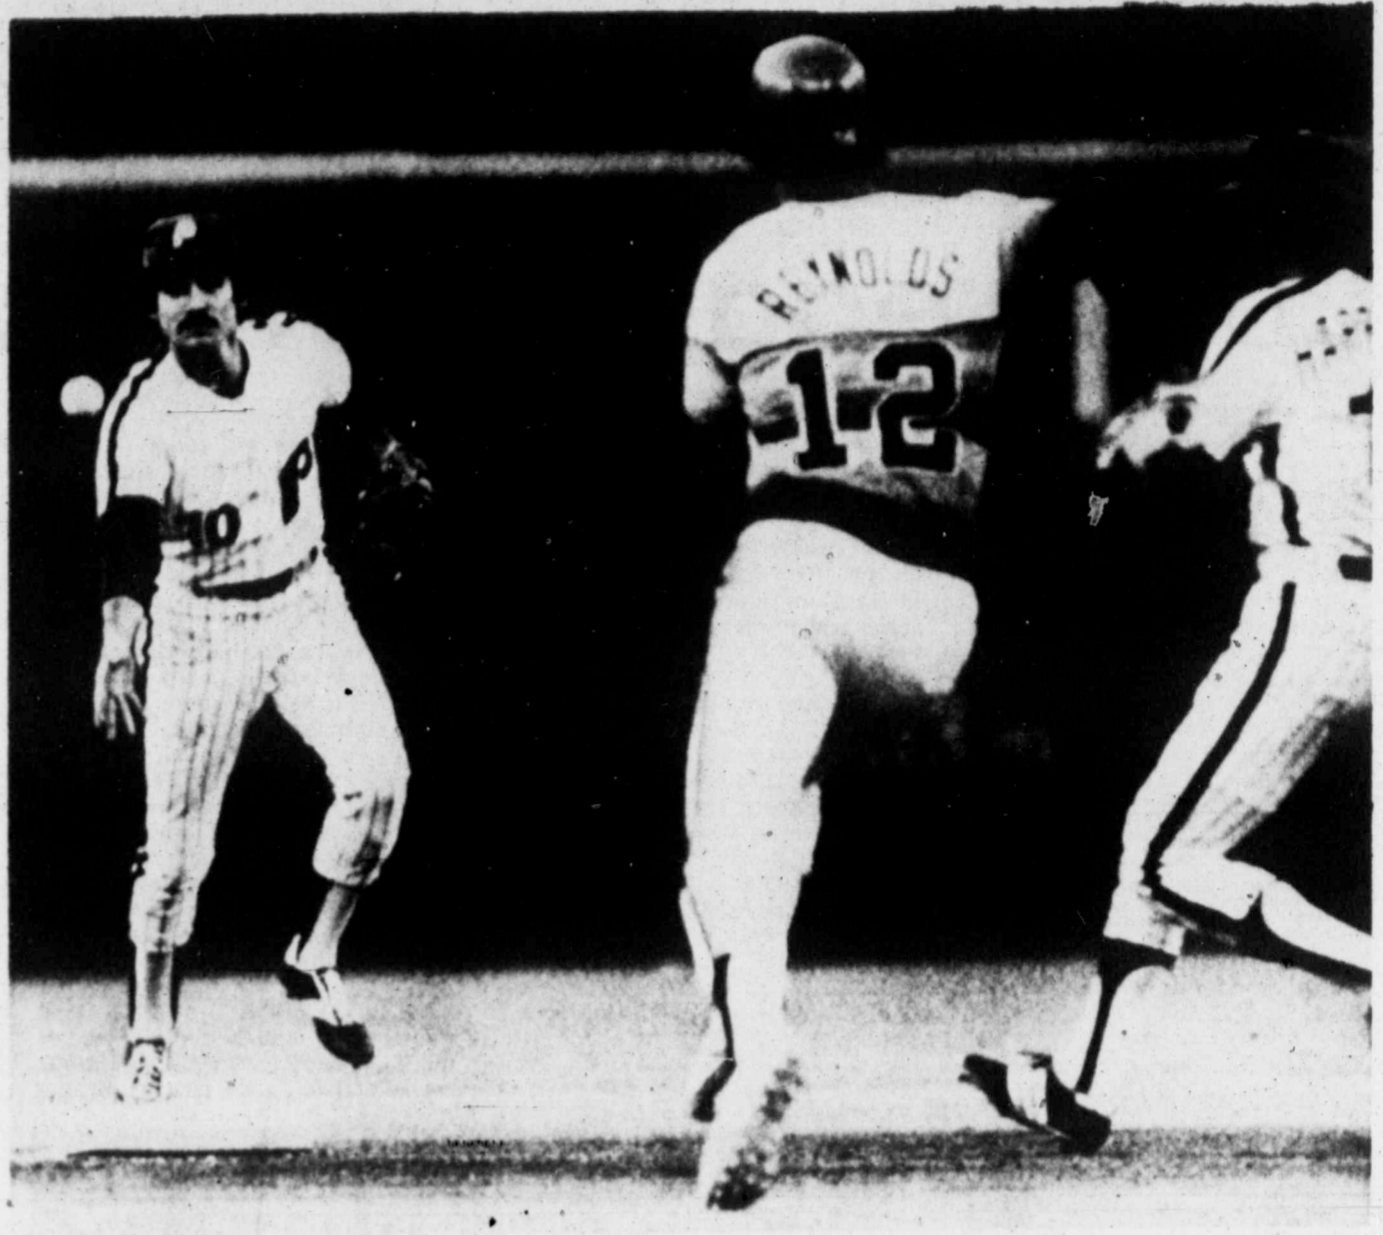

McEnroe suffered a groin injury in an exhibition match the day after winning the World Championship Tennis title at Dallas last month. He hurt it again in Tokyo a week later.

"It's getting better," McEnroe said. "The doctor has told me to take it easy, and I wouldn't like to play on a really wet court."

The Queen's Club grass was damp and McEnroe twice slipped and sprawled on the court. But he appeared undisturbed by the tumbles.

Playing in his first match for three weeks, he hit an ace on his first service and went on to win with the loss of just four points in his service games in the first set and five in the second.

This tournament marks the start of the season of aces and double faults again.

Duke center quits Pan-Am cagers

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Bobby Knight has been accused of being less than a prince when it comes to handling difficult matters diplomatically, but Mike Gminski, who has quit Knight's Pan Am basketball team, has no complaints.

One of the last things Gminski, the Duke University center, had to say before he went underground Tuesday, was that he had no difference of opinion with Knight.

"Playing time didn't have anything to do with it," said Gminski, who called Knight Sunday to say he was too ill to remain with the team. "I wasn't unhappy with Coach Knight or anything like that. It was purely a physical situation."

Gminski, who has decided not to discuss the situation publicly any longer, said through his father that he had been sick to his stomach for several days. His father, Joe Gminski, said the 6-foot-11 center decided to withdraw from the team when he became ill on Saturday in Chicago.

Donaho captures Junior Golf lead

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Houston's Bob Donaho shot a one-under-par 69 Tuesday to lead the field in the Southern Golf Association Junior Championship after one day of play.

Three players tied for second place in the No. 2 spot in the 15-17-year-old age bracket with one-over-71s. Play was held on the No. 1 course.

They were Keith Kulzer of Ormond Beach, Fla., Jim Scott of Atlanta and Jack Larkin, also of Atlanta.

In the 13- and 14-year-old bracket on the par 72 No. 4 course at Pinehurst Country Club, Scott Verplank of Dallas shot a four-over-76 and tied for the lead with Sam Massey of Macon, Ga.

Francis Cucevick of Matthews was in second place with a 79.

Sparky back as manager

NEW YORK (AP) — Cincinnati Reds players were surprised their former manager, Sparky Anderson, took a job managing the Detroit Tigers, but they had a few jokes and some serious thoughts too.

"I didn't know he had time to manage," joked catcher Johnny Bench. "I mean, with his other commitments, I didn't know if he had time to manage. I think it's great that he and Champ Summers are back together again. With the designated hitter (in the American League) he won't have such a scribbled lineup card."

"It surprised me that he was fired" by Cincinnati, said pitcher Tom Seaver. "I made a bet with Sparky last January for dinner and a suit of clothes that he'd get a managing job before June 15. Looks like I won. I don't think it'll be Detroit. I had a list of five: San Diego, Texas, Philadelphia, New York Yankees and Boston. I'm very happy for him. I didn't think it would be Detroit. I think he'll do a fine job."

"I couldn't believe it," said Joe Morgan. "I knew he could get a job anytime he wanted, but I was surprised he took the American League and even more surprised it was Detroit, because Sparky has always said he doesn't like the designated hitter. He said it took away from managing. The only American League team I thought it might be was New York. Detroit is a funky town."

NBA needing charisma

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's nothing wrong with the National Basketball Association that a few players with charisma can't cure, according to Red Auerbach, general manager of the Boston Celtics.

And, he says, there will be a few next season. One of them is Larry Bird, the Indiana State star who signed last week with Auerbach's Celtics for five years at some $600,000 per year, the highest ever for a rookie.

The others, Auerbach said, are Bill Walton, who will be with San Diego next season after sitting out a year, and Earvin "Magic" Johnson of Michigan State.

Johnson hasn't been drafted but has agreed to sign a contract for a reported $600,000 with the Los Angeles Lakers. He already has been approached by advertisers and theatrical agents from Hollywood.

"You don't need anything, gimmicks like the three-point play," said Auerbach. "Walton, Bird, Magic — they will give the league a shot in the arm."

"There were no new faces this year who could draw people in," he said when asked about the NBA's troubles, especially low television ratings. "Phil Ford and Mychal Thompson are good ballplayers but they can't sell me a ticket. Walton, Magic and the Bird can sell tickets."

Auerbach made his comments during the NBA's annual meeting for coaches, general managers, public relations directors and marketing directors.

The Board of Governors will meet June 19-22 at Amelia Island Plantation, Fla.

The NBA coaches voted on 10 rules changes, including legalization of the zone defense and implementation of a three-point basket. The general managers also were to vote on many of the same issues.

The recommendations will be sent to the NBA's Competition and Rules Committee, of which Auerbach is a member. The committee will pass on the recommendations during a meeting a week before the board convenes.

Auerbach said he believes the league and television "panicked" when the TV ratings reached a low ebb.

"Everybody starts to panic when the TV ratings go down," he said. "All you need is a couple of guys with charisma."

CHICHESTER, England (AP) — Wimbledon champion Martina Navratilova named Chris Evert Lloyd and 16-year-old American Tracy Austin as her two main rivals for this year's Wimbledon title.

Meanwhile, though, Navratilova spent a day of frustration waiting for rain to clear so that she can begin her Wimbledon build-up. For the second day in a row, the $75,000 grass court tournament here was washed out.

"Tracy has proved herself," she said. "I know I really have to play my best to beat her. She is so much improved."

Austin is missing this week's tournament to continue her schooling at Rolling Hills High School in California. She won the Italian Championship in Rome last month.

The frustration of two days of rain caught up with Navratilova Tuesday and she stormily refused to talk to reporters but gave in after cajoling by the tournament organizers.

"It is terribly frustrating," she said of the delay in play. "The only consolation is that it's the same for everybody. But it is hard trying to stay in shape."

Navratilova and a number of the other top women players in this event, tried to keep in shape by doing gym exercises. But most were reduced to sitting around vainly waiting for the weather to improve.

The lack of match play is particularly distressing for Navratilova, who has taken a four-week break from tennis and missed the French and Italian Open tournaments.

"I don't regret skipping them," she said. "I didn't think they would give me the right sort of build-up. I wanted to do things at my own pace."

Dishman, Miller claim Hogan win

Charles Dishman and Art Miller combined for a 67 over the weekend to win the Hogan Park Men's Golf Association three-club limit partnership tournament at Hogan Park.

Dishman and Miller were three strokes better than the second place team of Leonard Hernandez and Joe Moreno. Warren Teichman and David Teichman placed third with a 71.

Fred Ramirez and Herb Langley won the first flight with a card playoff after posting a 77 with Jesse Madrid and Charles Warren.

Andy Hooker and Gene Thomas posted a 79 to take the second flight by one stroke over Bill Anthony and Jack Thornton.

Jerry Bergeron and Bill Thomas combined for a 74 to win the third flight while Tom McCranie and Arthur Valencia placed second with an 82.

North could capture second straight win

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Andy North realizes his chances of becoming the first golfer in 28 years to win back-to-back United States Opens are improbable, if not impossible.

"But who knows, I like to think I can or I wouldn't be here," said North after a practice tour Tuesday of Inverness Club, the site of the Open for the fourth time.

Ben Hogan, in 1950-51, was the last to capture consecutive Opens. The only others in the 79 years of America's No. 1 golf tournament were Willie Anderson (1903-04-05), John McDermott (1911-12) and Bobby Jones (1929-30).

scoring is low, I don't do so well," said North.

The line of favorites starts with Tom Watson and includes Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Gary Player and Andy Bean.

The field of 138 professionals and 15 amateurs facing the first round Thursday includes 11 former Open champions. The titleholders are led by three-time winner Nicklaus and two-time king Trevino.

This Open is important to Watson and Nicklaus for different reasons.

Watson, 29, recognized by nearly everyone as the game's No. 1 current player, numbers no Open title among his 15 victories.

"You must win an Open to be recognized as a truly great player," says Watson.

A victory here would add more luster to a great 1979 for the red-haired Missourian. Watson has won four times and has been second four more in 14 starts for earnings of almost $354,000 — just $8,000 from his all-time record in 1978.

For Nicklaus, it's simply a matter of winning. The man with 15 major professional titles and more than $3.8 million in career earnings, both unparalleled, has not won since Philadelphia last July.

The 39-year-old Nicklaus is fighting over-the-hill talk. He's been in the top 10 only once in eight 1979 starts and frankly admits, "I need a win under my belt to get untracked."

The last of Nicklaus' three Open victories was in 1972.

The other anticipated challengers are Masters champion Zoeller, No. 2 on the money list; Wadkins, a double 1979 victor like Zoeller and third in money; former Open champs Trevino and Player and Bean, the impressive 23-under-par winner at Atlanta last week.

However, Trevino, who won the Open in 1968 and 1971, shrugs off his chances on this revamped, 76-year-old layout that now measures 6,982 yards and plays to par of 71.

"I took my wife to Hawaii for a week and I'm completely out of shape," said Trevino. "If I play well here, I'd surprise even myself."

Player, if he matches his 1965 Open title Sunday, would become the oldest player ever to win this major. The South African is 43.

"You know how big an ambition that is so I don't even have to explain it," said the man who has won $43,000 in just six American tournaments this year.

Andy Bean is seeking his first Open Golf title

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — He hasn't yet been there, so Andy Bean doesn't know what it would mean to him to win the United States Open Golf Championship — financially and emotionally.

"But I sure would like to find out," the big guy said. "I hope you understand what I'm trying to say. I really don't know what it would mean."

"I know it's important to me, personally, here, to win a major," Bean said, tapping the left side of his chest.

"But winning any tournament, every tournament, is important to me. It was important to me to win last week in Atlanta. I was excited about it. I was just as excited winning Kemper or the Western (last year)."

"You have to realize, I've won, what, five tournaments? They're all important to me. But I want to win a major. Hopefully, I'll win a lot of golf tournaments and some of them will be majors."

He has all the credentials. They were exhibited in awesome, overwhelming fashion last weekend with his 23-under-par, 8-shot victory in the Atlanta Classic. He did it all.

The 6-foot-4, 210-pound Bean had the strength to reach the par-5's in 2. He holed long putts. When the occasion demanded, he exhibited a deft and delicate touch on the testing little chips around the green.

And the victory stamped the 26-year-old as a prime candidate for the American national championship that begins Thursday on the 6,982 yard, par 71 Inverness Club course.

And Bean figures he has the tools to do it.

Like most Open courses, this one has difficult rough, narrow fairways and small, fast greens. Inverness, in fact, has greens that are smaller and faster than usual even for the Opens.

And that suits big Andy just fine.

"It is the type of course that is molded to my game," he said during a break in a practice round Tuesday.

"You have to play position on the fairways, and the greens are awfully small. Well, I grew up playing that kind of course."

Obstacle could hurt expansion

MONTREAL (AP) — Another obstacle has been thrown in the path of National Hockey League expansion. The Winnipeg Jets, Quebec Nordiques, Hartford Whalers and Edmonton Oilers were to walk into the expansion draft today without having reached status as official NHL members.

NHL President John Ziegler had hoped all the details of this multi-million dollar transaction could have been finished before this annual league convention began. Quite simple, those details — one involving $5 million due from Edmonton — have not been resolved.

"It's not Edmonton solely," said Ziegler, who spent much of Tuesday in meetings and on conference calls in trying to complete the enormously complicated deal. "We also have to certify certain (financial) representations from other teams. And since we knew we wouldn't be able to get everything completed by midnight, we decided to hold off on the finalization of expansion until every 't' has been crossed."

As a result, the four incoming clubs will not officially be awarded their franchises until on or before June 22, the weekend before the league's next Board of Governors meeting.

"We had the choice of postponing the draft and everything else or coming up with an alternative to provide the ability to close this deal at a later date," said Ziegler.

One of the bigger matters was a document the Oilers were to have provided assuring $5 million in "continuing financial responsibility," according to Edmonton owner Peter Pocklington. In essence, the document assures the NHL of an ability to provide that amount if it is needed.

"But Edmonton did not know until this morning (Tuesday) that the additional (money) was required," said Pocklington. "This figure was never presented as a prerequisite. It was never communicated to me. But we will meet the deadline."

Meanwhile, the other clubs await the removal of this latest stumbling block. They entered today's draft with the first round virtually planned out.

Winnipeg, which had the first choice, was expected to draft wing Peter Marsh from the negotiation list of the Montreal Canadiens. The 6-foot-1, 180-pound Marsh scored 43 goals and 23 assists for the Cincinnati Stingers who, with the Birmingham Bulls, were the only two World Hockey Association clubs who did not figure in NHL expansion plans.

Edmonton, picking second, was expected to choose left wing Cam Connor from the Canadiens' list. Connor appeared in 23 games for the league champions, collecting a goal and three assists.

Hartford was to follow by picking defenseman Alan Hangeleben — yet another player unprotected by the Canadiens. Hangeleben played last year for the Whalers, scoring 10 goals and 19 assists, but his NHL rights were owned by Montreal, which reclaimed him from Hartford's roster.

Quebec, which had the fourth and final pick of the first round, also received the first pick in the second round, since the order of selection is reversed as each round passes. The Nordiques were planning to use those consecutive choices on goalie Wayne Stephenson of the Philadelphia Flyers and left wing Alain Cote, also from Montreal's list.

That would end the Canadiens' role in the draft, since none of the 17 clubs may lose more than four players. Of those four players lost, only one of them — Connor — played for Montreal last season.

The draft was to continue until each club has surrendered a total of four players to the incoming teams. Their rosters finally decided, all that was left for the expansion clubs was to wait until their franchises are approved.

In other developments Tuesday, the Hockey Hall of Fame announced the election of defenseman Bobby Orr and Harry Howell and center Henri Richard.

Orr revolutionized the defenseman's role during his 11-year career with the Boston Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks. He was the first defenseman to score 100 points or more in a season, won the Norris Trophy as the NHL's top all-around defenseman eight consecutive seasons and earned three Hart Trophies as the league's most valuable player.

Though he announced his retirement last November, his surgically repaired knees unable to stand the stress of competition, Orr was elected to the shrine when the committee waived its requirement that a candidate be retired three years or more. He became the ninth player in the Hall's history to receive such an exemption.

Howell appeared in more games, 1,581, than any defenseman in major league hockey history. He spent 17 seasons with the New York Rangers before finishing his career with brief stops with five other teams.

Richard, younger brother of Maurice "The Rocket" Richard, played 20 years with the Canadiens and helped Montreal to 11 Stanley Cup championships in that span.

Passing of cocktail party stirs sorrow amid canapes

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — The cocktail party is dead. That's the word you hear at cocktail parties these days, if you can find any survivors of the species.

The cocktail party crowd used to go around saying that God is dead. But God is alive and in his heaven, even if all is not right with the world, and now it's the cocktail party that is dead.

Vengeance is mine, saith the Lord. Perhaps, like the Good Book prophesied, he hath smitten the arrogant and the wicked.

Most mourners, however, attribute the death of the cocktail party to other than supernatural sources. The Wake, which is expected to be a long and wet one, has echoed with many lamentations and explanations.

Some accuse the current abstemious administration in Washington, with its aversion to the three-martini lunch, of burying the cocktail party under a policy of benign neglect. They say it's easier to get a drink after sundown in Saudi Arabia these days than in the East Room of the White House where Abigail Adams used to hang her wash and many famous historic personages since then have hung one on.

The death of the Washington cocktail party, unless the obituaries are premature, brings to a close nearly a century and a half of Capitol conviviality which Andrew Jackson is believed to have inaugurated at his inaugural.

The Schlesingers (Arthur Sr. and Jr., not James) wrote about it: You remember, the revelers getting spaced out on corn liquor and applejack and some unpleasantness about an enormous smelly cheese from Herkimer, N.Y., that someone busted open with an axe, ruining the brocade drapes that Dolly Madison had rescued from the fire set by British troops in the War of 1812?

Anyhow, it was quite a blast, virtually unequaled until Ulysses S. Grant and Warren Gamaliel Harding brought their fondness for the cup that cheers to the Oval Office.

A number of social scientists blame the sudden demise of the cocktail party on the rapid rise of jogging, the Scarsdale Diet and so-called body consciousness. The old double Scotch and extra dry martini with a twist just packed too many calories to hack it on the calorie chart at Weight Watchers.

A faint craving for white wine or bottled French spring water has replaced what Christopher Morley once defined as "that faint but sensitive enteric expectancy which suggests the desirability of a cocktail."

Otherwise known in John Updike circles as "dink-poo time."

The popularity of less potent elixirs in mixed company can only prove detrimental to gossip columnists, New Yorker cartoonists, alimony lawyers, TV talk show emcees and others who make a living from the foibles of the frolicsome. The problem is people just don't commit newsworthy indiscretions on l'eau gaseuse with a slice of lemon in it.

"Drinking makes such fools of people and people are such fools to begin with that it's compounding a felony," wrote cocktail party regular Robert Benchley, who also said, "I know my capacity, but I usually pass out before I reach it."

They don't write lines like that over white wine and Vichy water.

With the cocktail party dead and gone, one wonders what Lee Radziwill, Truman Capote, Gore Vidal, Jackie Onassis, Prince Egon von Furstenberg, Margaux Hemingway and all the other beautiful people will do with themselves after dark. How will a publisher unveil the next best seller or a press agent the new Farrah Fawcett-Majors? Can the work of the U.N. go on? Where will lobbyists go to lobby? Or spies to spy?

Some claim that puffing pot, popping pills and introducing hallucinogenic substances into the blood stream provide a modern substitute for the cocktail party in the smart set, but the ambience isn't the same.

T.S. Eliot, that fastidious Nobel laureate, would hardly have written a play ("The Cocktail Party") about a room full of freaked out zombies even if Sam Coleridge, Tom DeQuincey and a number of other famous writers were addicted to certain exotic flora. The scene just has no substance, drama-wise, which is a cocktail time word.

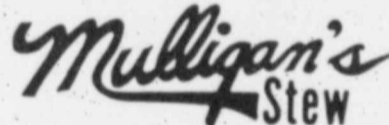

The cocktail party always had more diversion than perversion about it. A good one had mobility, momentum, suspense: a happening that was sure to happen. A really good one, in the end, had to be a really bad one.

F. Scott Fitzgerald, the definitive voice on the Roaring Twenties, when the cocktail party had its greatest vogue, wrote the recipe and probably the epitaph for the only recently dead species in "Tender is the Night":

"I want to give a really bad party. I mean it. I want to give a party where there's a brawl and seductions and people going home with their feelings hurt and women passed out in the cabinet de toilette ..."

Terribly sad. Like a thief in the night. Died so young, etc.

Drink up, kids. They're about to close the coffin. I mean, the bar.

World domino toppling record smashed

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — The world's domino toppling record fell last week as a 23-year-old English civil engineer here eased over 169,713 of the white and black pieces with a gentle push. For almost 45 minutes, the dominoes toppled as bystanders cheered. "Smashing!" said Michael Cairney as the last of his vast empire collapsed. Cairney, whose parents live in Greenwich, Conn., had spent much of the past two weeks on his knees at the Mid-Hudson Civic Center. He had hoped to set up 200,000 dominoes, but encountered a few unexpected falls. A wind gust as a door opened at the arena knocked over several thousand. Last month, 135,000 dominoes were toppled by two Illinois high school students.

Man may be causing more damage in the fight against soil erosion

OCRACOKE, N.C. (AP) — Man is fighting a losing battle against erosion and may actually cause more than he prevents, say two North Carolina geologists.

Dr. Orrin H. Pilkey Jr., author of two books about North Carolina's coastal geology and a professor at Duke University, says efforts to control erosion along the state's barrier islands won't work.

The sea level is rising at a rate of about one foot a century, he said, with overwashing storm waves removing sand from the front of the islands and depositing it on their back sides while fair weather currents transport the sand up or down the beaches.

On developed islands, these natural processes are labeled erosion, Pilkey said, but the best way to deal with them is to leave the beaches alone.

"If we let nature take its course, the houses will fall in (to the ocean) one by one, and the beach will be perfect," he said. Beach residents must get used to the notion that their stay is temporary, he added.

Stanley R. Riggs of East Carolina's geology department, agreed.

He pointed to a project at Cape Hatteras, the building of low groins to protect the lighthouse there. While they may effectively trap sand at one location, they erode the beach at another by disrupting sand supply. According to Riggs, they also only buy time.

One major hurricane or strong winter storm could destroy the groins and remove all the sand between the ocean and the lighthouse, he said.

Pilkey recently lost a battle in his fight against efforts to stabilize the beaches.

The General Assembly on Friday earmarked $2.8 million in anticipated surplus funds, to be added to another $700,000 for erosion control projects. The $3.5 million total likely will go to Carolina Beach, enabling the town to receive $8.5 million in matching federal funds, says Mayor Ted Seawell.

Wrightsville Beach is holding $900,000 in state, county and municipal funds while it waits for another $3 million in federal money for a proposed beach replenishment project at Ocracoke.

Lim Vallianos of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said the corps plans to dredge sand from inlets and perhaps the sound behind the barrier islands and pipe it to the beaches.

The corps will spread the sand only on the portions of beach legally open to the public — about 2.7 miles at both Carolina Beach and Wrightsville Beach, Vallianos said.

Iowa's new law prohibits land purchases by foreigners

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Gov. Robert Ray has signed a bill prohibiting most foreign citizens and corporations from buying Iowa farm land except for commercial or industrial development.

According to a lawmaker who managed the bill, which would limit such purchases to 320 acres, foreign buys of farm land have been an increasingly serious problem in some states.

"This bill addresses what appears to be a potentially hazardous problem that has begun to develop in the past few years," said Rep. Phillip Tyrrell.

"With the devaluation of the dollar, foreign governments and foreign individuals have come into a great many American dollars and are looking for a place to put it," he said.

Farmers say some foreign investors, particularly corporations, have no reservations about paying top-dollar for land. Such high prices drive up land costs for everyone else in the area, they say.

Ray signed the bill Sunday.

Increased wheat exports may mean higher prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — A thriving grain export market is growing even larger because of reduced crop prospects in the Soviet Union and some other parts of the world, meaning farmers may see higher prices for wheat and corn in the coming year.

The Agriculture Department said Tuesday that exports in 1979-80 now appear larger than previously estimated.

But a senior department official said a huge U.S. reserve of grain — mainly wheat and corn — and the upcoming 1979 harvest will provide enough to get around for foreign buyers and American consumers.

The wheat harvest is under way now, but the newly planted corn will not be ready until fall. Corn and other feed grains such as sorghum are essential to the production of meat animals, poultry and dairy products.

In a new "supply and demand" report, the department said that "with prospects for a reduced grain crop" in the Soviet Union and "deteriorating conditions in Eastern Europe," exports of U.S. corn are expected to be a record 2.1 billion bushels in the current season.

Last Friday, the department said Soviet grain output this year might be around 190 million metric tons — with a possible range, depending on weather, of from 170 million to 210 million metric tons. In 1978, the crop was a record of 237.2 million metric tons.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pound and is equal, for example, to 36.7 bushels of wheat or 39.4 bushels of corn.

The analysis said corn exports in the 1979-80 year could set another record, ranging between 2.15 billion and 2.45 billion bushels, up 100 million to 150 million from earlier projections.

Wheat exports in the new marketing year that began June 1 were estimated in a range of between 1.15 billion and 1.35 billion bushels, compared to 1.2 billion in 1978-79. That represented an increase of 50 million to 100 million bushels from earlier estimates.

The larger exports are expected to help boost grain prices at the farm from what USDA experts had been saying, including substantially larger increases if U.S. crops fail to develop to potential.

Purchases of wheat and corn by the Soviet Union are expected to reach nearly 15 million metric tons in the 1978-79 year, which will end Sept. 30, about the same as last year.

Howard Hjort, the department's chief economist, told a news conference that U.S. reserve supplies of grain — the largest since the early 1960s — "appear to be adequate" for foreign demand and domestic requirements unless American farmers get severely adverse weather.

Hjort said cattle and hog prices have fallen below their earlier peaks this year and that should mean some easing of beef and pork prices at retail counters.

If these savings are passed along, he said, the department's earlier prediction that consumers will see an average food price increase of "around 10 percent" still is valid, Hjort said.

Beef production will be down 10 percent to 12 percent from last year, but more pork and poultry are helping fill the gap, he said.

Hjort said beef output for consumers is expected to level off in 1980 and that pork expansion will continue at least through the first half of next year.

Poultry producers, however, may be more sensitive to rising feed prices and can cut back with much shorter notice than cattle and hog raisers, he said.

Asked to predict food prices in 1980, Hjort said he could give only a possible range — an increase of between 6 percent and 15 percent being possible.

The report on the supply and demand for grain showed that the farm price of wheat in 1979-80 could average between $3 and $3.20 a bushel if good weather and harvests prevail and $3.80 to $4.20 if there is a short crop and much larger exports are needed.

Earlier, the price ranges were $3 to $3.20 a bushel and $3.70 to $3.90, respectively.

Corn prices were projected in ranges of $2.25 to $2.50 a bushel and between $3 and $3.40, compared to the earlier projections of $2.20 to $2.30 and $2.90 to $3.15.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government surveys show the number of cattle being fed for slaughter in key areas continues to lag below a year ago, indicating again that consumers will have less beef to eat in coming months.

The Agriculture Department said Tuesday an estimated 7.7 million head were in feedlots June 1 in the seven major beef-producing states, down 1 percent from 8.01 million a year ago.

Howard Hjort, the department's chief economist, said total output of beef — meaning wholesale carcasses — is expected to decline by 2.4 billion to 2.6 billion pounds, down 10 percent to 12 percent from 1978.

But as he has before, Hjort told a news conference that larger supplies of pork and poultry are available and that this production momentum will carry on into 1980.

Number of cattle being fed still behind year ago figures

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government surveys show the number of cattle being fed for slaughter in key areas continues to lag below a year ago, indicating again that consumers will have less beef to eat in coming months.

The Agriculture Department said Tuesday an estimated 7.7 million head were in feedlots June 1 in the seven major beef-producing states, down 4 percent from 8.01 million a year ago.

Howard Hjort, the department's chief economist, said total output of beef — meaning wholesale carcasses — is expected to decline by 2.4 billion to 2.6 billion pounds, down 10 percent to 12 percent from 1978.

But as he has before, Hjort told a news conference that larger supplies of pork and poultry are available and that this production momentum will carry on into 1980.

The seven states included in the report account for about 75 percent of the nation's beef output.

Marketings of feedlot cattle totaled 1.6 million head in May, down 4 percent from 1.67 million in the same month last year.

About 1.85 million head of new cattle were placed in feedlots last month, down 9 percent from 2.03 million in May of last year, the report said.

That indicated the relative scarcity and high prices of lightweight feeder cattle available now for the fattening pens.

The June 1 inventories were the same or larger in two states and down from a year ago in the remaining five.

Arizona reported 370,000 head in feedlots, unchanged from a year ago; and California, 668,000 head, up 18 percent.

Declines were reported in: Colorado, 890,000 head on June 1 and a decline of 6 percent from a year ago; Iowa, 1,320,000 and 7; Kansas, 1,250,000 and 11; Nebraska, 1,520,000 and 3; and Texas, 1,680,000 and 3.

Dick Van Patten

Names in the News

NEW YORK (AP) — First it was Chevy Chase to leave NBC's comedy zoo "Saturday Night Live" and now a second son is reported ready to stray from the zany fold — John Belushi.

The New York Daily News today quoted producer Lorne Michaels as saying the burly Belushi probably won't be back for the show's fifth season this fall.

Michaels said Belushi and comic buddy Dan Aykroyd are going well for themselves with their singing act, "The Blues Brothers," and they'll be shooting a movie this summer.

"Whatever Belushi decides, I'll abide by his wishes," Michaels said. "The success of 'Animal House' (Belushi's first hit film) and the Blues Brothers has caused enormous confusion in John's life."

Reached by The Daily News at his vacation retreat at Martha's Vineyard, Belushi declined comment on his future.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — ABC and Lorimar Productions are suing actor Dick Van Patten, star of the popular TV series "Eight Is Enough," for $23 million, saying he is refusing to work without a pay increase.

The network and production company say Van Patten's agent, Mary Ellen White, informed them the actor had no intention of showing up for shooting Friday unless his contract is revised. They say the agreement gave them a four-year option on Van Patten's services.

Lorimar is seeking $20 million damages, and ABC asks for $3 million.

Neither Van Patten nor his agent could be reached for comment.

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — It took him two years and two trials, but Dr. William Waddill is now cleared of charges of strangling a baby girl who survived an abortion.

Waddill says he now must rebuild his obstetrics practice and climb out of a financial hole created by a legal team he said cost him at least $2 million.

A judge dismissed murder charges against the 43-year-old doctor Monday after a jury in his second trial deadlocked 11-1 in favor of acquittal.

"I was tremendously embarrassed and upset that I had created this problem for our profession," he said Tuesday.

ATLANTA (AP) — Billy Carter says his lawyers are working out a deal to keep his family's home from being put on the public auction block.

The president's brother said Monday he knew nothing specific about plans to stop the sale next month at the Marion County courthouse, but added, "The lawyers are working it out."

A foreclosure notice on the $54,500 house and surrounding 58 acres was published last week by J. Myron Wells, a Buena Vista accountant who holds the mortgage on the home at Draneville, Ga. The notice said Carter's wife, Sybil, in whose name the property was purchased, had defaulted on the house payments.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The husband of Tottie Fields is suing a husband-and-wife team of doctors for $10,000, saying they failed to provide proper care for the late comedienne after a facelift that led to serious complications.

The suit was filed in federal court Monday by George Johnston, Miss Fields' husband of 27 years, against Drs. Theodore and Parvin Modaber Jacobs. Johnston said they had been his wife's physicians since 1976.

The action claimed the two doctors failed to warn Miss Fields of the dangers of the facelift performed by a New York physician and failed to provide proper care after the operation.

As a result, the suit claimed, Miss Fields "sustained severe and permanent injuries, including the loss of the left leg above the knee, loss of vision in the right eye, a cardiac condition, scarring of the face, impairment of vision in the left eye, extreme mental anguish and distress with psychological overlay."

The New York doctor was not named a defendant in the suit. Miss Fields died of a heart attack last August.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I'm thrilled and flabbergasted," said actress-singer Doris Day upon learning of a judge's decision that gave her pet foundation $500.

Municipal Judge Roy Carstairs ordered the donation as part of the penalty imposed on a doctor who admitted firing a high-powered rifle at a small dog who had intruded on his property.

Miss Day said by telephone from her Carmel home that the first she knew about the unusual ruling was when the check was received Tuesday by the Doris Day Pet Foundation.

The group finds homes for unwanted and discarded dogs and cats and sponsors research for better pet care.

CUERNAVACA, Mexico (AP) — For the shah of Iran, it's a time for relaxation. Not so for the Mexican security force charged with protecting the exiled monarch, marked for death by his country's Islamic regime.

A federal security agent said Tuesday Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi "is passing his time reading, walking in the garden with his dogs or in the swimming pool." But neither he nor his wife Empress Farah has left their villa.

A 46-member detail of Mexican secret police has been assigned to guard the shah. Men armed with automatic rifles and submachine guns were visible Tuesday on the roof, in the gardens and on the street leading to the plush mansion where the shah arrived Sunday.

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — Pfc. Robert Garwood, facing possible charges of collaborating with the enemy in Vietnam, has been granted a 10-day leave after breaking a collarbone in a motorcycle accident.

Marine spokesman Maj. John Woggon said Tuesday the 33-year-old Garwood broke his left collarbone Sunday while riding at a motocross course at the base.

Garwood was at first given 30 days of light duty, but after he reported for work at his clerical job he asked for and was granted a 10-day leave, Woggon said.

Garwood returned to the United States this year after spending almost 14 years in Vietnam. The Marine Corps is investigating possible desertion and collaboration charges against him.

Elephant helps with stony theory

By ANDREW ROSENTHAL

DENVER (AP) — The 9,000-pound carcass of Margie, a circus elephant, has helped scientists prove that Stone Age spears — and Stone Age men — must have been pretty tough indeed.

Armed with replicas of prehistoric weapons, archaeologists from six states attacked the carcass in an experiment aimed at proving the world's earliest elephant hunters actually used the stone-headed spears and axes to bring down their enormous prey.

The scientists found the weapons were stronger than they seemed — strong enough to kill an elephant weighing more than four tons — and that it would take equally tough cave-men to use them.

"Our hands were really battered up," assistant Colorado archaeologist Steve Cassells said Tuesday. "I couldn't believe it when I looked at my hand this morning. I must have 150 nicks, plus a couple of big slices."

Margie's carcass was delivered to a Denver rendering plant after she died Friday in the back of a circus van en route from New Mexico to Denver.

Margie had been stricken in Santa Fe with an illness resembling food poisoning, the same illness that claimed the lives of her two long-time companions. She was being shipped to Denver to get her near other elephants, in hopes that companions would boost her spirits.

State archaeologists organized Monday's experiment after being informed the carcass was available.

"There haven't been many opportunities to field test those tools to do what we call experimental archaeology," said Cassells.

The experiment drew 45 archaeologists from six states to test tools painstakingly duplicated from original specimens.

Cassells said the scientists began by thrusting "Clovis point" spears into Margie's body, which was suspended upside down in chains hung from a crane.

The scientists had fashioned nine such points, weapons often found among 11,000-year-old elephant fossils in North and Central America. Cassells said a Clovis point is "rather long and has a deep flute on each side of the base which allows the thing to sit into a shaft."

Taking turns with the single spear shaft they had, the scientists thrust the points into Margie at spots prehistoric hunters probably would have targeted for a quick kill.

"Most of the time there wasn't any damage to the points and in very few cases did we really dull a tool," said Cassells. "But we did get some good breaks at the base" that were identical to those found at sites in Arizona.

By the time the scientists had partially butchered Margie's carcass, the experiment had taken six hours, roughly twice the time it might have taken a 10-man prehistoric hunting party.

Cassells said the archaeologists "didn't want to seem like we were perpetrating an immoral act," but added the scientists did get some pleasure out of their exhausting, bloody task.

MC offering non-credit courses

Four non-credit evening short courses will begin at Midland College next week.

A three-week course in the practical application of photography taught by Bob Fiehweg will give the student an insight on how to make money with photos.

Students bring their own cameras and explore black and white and color photography. Lighting, film selection, processing and printing are part of the course study. Classes are limited to 20 students meeting from 7 to 10 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays in room 104 of the Occupational-Technical Building.

Course fee for "Camera: An Eye on Tomorrow" is $22.

Andrea Yarbrough's three-week course titled "Typing Brush-up" meets from 7 to 9 p.m. Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays in room 151 of the Occ-Tech Building. First class is Tuesday.

Classes are limited to 20 students who have had a prior course in typing.

Students will become familiar with electric machines, keyboards and machine parts. Typing techniques and tabulation will be taught and speed and accuracy drills given each session.

Books may be purchased at the MC bookstore. Course fee is $20.

A three-evening course in Defensive Driving will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 7 to 10 p.m. in room 100 of the Occ-Tech Building.

Students who complete the course and receive their certificates are entitled to apply for a discount on their automobile insurance which is good for three years.

Course instructor is Jack Moore, and the fee is $12.

Dan McAngus will hold a three-week "Introduction to the Stockmarket" on Tuesdays and Thursdays between 7 and 9 p.m. in room 106 of the Occ-Tech Building.

Subjects to be covered include the meaning of investments, types of stocks, risks, methods of investing, speculation, securities and how to read the financial news.

Course fee is $15.

Students may pre-register Monday and Tuesday between 7 a.m. and noon and 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. in room 140 of the Occ-Tech Building.

More information may be obtained by calling 684-7851, extension 147 or 216.

Men's weight logs increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Men are heavier than their counterparts were 20 years ago, according to the American Council of Life Insurance. The council says men in their 20s are now from three to 17 pounds heavier than the same age group was in 1959. Those in their 30s are from two to eight pounds heavier, and 40- to 49-year-olds are up to six pounds heavier.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Avoid all fad diets

Dear Dr. Solomon: A few weeks ago I went on a diet recommended by a friend. I lost a pound a day for the first week, and everything seemed to be going along fine. After that, however, I stopped losing and now I'm beginning to put the weight back on. How do you account for this, and what do you recommend?—Anne

Dear Anne: I would speculate that your initial loss of weight mostly resulted from a loss of body water. As you have learned from experience, however, your diet has not been successful in helping you achieve a loss of fat. If you are really serious about dieting, keep in mind the equation: Calorie intake must be less than the calories expended. If weight is to be lost and kept off, eating habits must be properly adjusted. Fad diets are not the means of accomplishing permanent weight loss.

Dear Dr. Solomon: With all the various substances said to be carcinogenic, it seems more and more true that living is hazardous to one's health. Now they say that beer may contain a cancer-causing agent. Say it isn't so!—Jim

Dear Jim: There's no need for you to discard your six-pack—at least not until we have more information on the subject. The study to which you refer was done in West Germany where researchers found nitrosamines in 111 out of 158 brands of beer. Both foreign and domestic brands were included in the study, but as yet it is not clear whether beer brewed in this country was involved. Additionally, while nitrosamines have been found to be carcinogenic when fed to animals in large doses, there is some controversy about whether this finding applies to humans.

Dear Dr. Solomon: I want my family to have a balanced nutritious diet, but I'm not certain how my children's needs compare with those of my husband and myself. Can you help?—Mrs. J.W.

Dear Mrs. W.: Nutrient requirements increase as children grow. The total needs for very young children are relatively low. For children one to three years of age, the requirements for protein, calories, a number of minerals, and vitamins A, B, and E, are about half those for adults, while calcium and vitamin C needs are about the same. When it comes to iron, however, children under four years of age often need a supplement since they require 50 percent more iron than is needed by an adult. All children, including teen-agers, need vitamin D, which is provided by fortified milk.

By the time your children reach their teens, their vitamin, mineral, and protein requirements will be the same as for an adult. However, their calcium need will increase to one and a half times that of an adult. Additionally, 18 milligrams of iron per day is needed by all teens, as well as by women until the age of 50. Teen-age girls and women often require an iron supplement.

Teen-age boys and athletes need more calories, preferably in the form of extra bread and cereal, rather than sweets.

(If you have a medical problem, see your doctor. If you have a medical question, write to Neil Solomon, M.D., 1726 Reisterstown Road, Baltimore, Md. 21208. Dr. Solomon cannot give personal replies but will answer as many questions as possible in his column.)

France eyes woman for first cosmonaut

PARIS (AP) — The French government hopes its cosmonaut on the first Soviet-French space shot will be a woman, Industry Minister Andre Giraud said.

Speaking at the Paris Air Show Monday, Giraud said the flight would be made "soon." The most likely choice appears to be Anny Chantal Leveseur-Regard, 33, who was an unsuccessful candidate for the four European places on the U.S. space shuttle.

Texans in House vote to fund M-X missile

WASHINGTON—Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes May 31 through June 6.

HOUSE
M-X MISSILE: The House rejected, 89 for and 311 against, an amendment to eliminate $265 million for a new "M-X" land-based, movable missile from a bill authorizing $1.3 billion in additional defense spending this fiscal year. The bill (HR 2575) was later passed and sent to conference with the Senate. It contained money for the missile.

Proponents say a movable missile such as the M-X is needed because current stationary land-based missiles will soon become vulnerable to a surprise Soviet attack. Opponents say submarine-launched and cruise missiles are sufficient to deter an attack. Members voting "yea" favored eliminating money for the M-X.

Reps. Bob Eckhardt, D-8, Kika de la Garza, D-15, and Ron Paul, R-22, voted "yea."
Reps. Charles Wilson, D-2, James Collins, R-3, Jim Mattox, D-5, Phil Gramm, D-4, Bill Archer, R-7, Jack Brooks, D-9, Jake Pickle, D-10, J. Marvin Leath, D-11, James Wright, D-12, Jack

ROLL CALL REPORT

Hightower, D-13, Joe Wyatt, D-14, Richard White, D-18, Charles Stenholm, D-17, Kent Hance, D-19, Henry Gonzalez, D-20, Tom Loeffler, R-21, and Martin Frost, D-24, voted "nay."
Reps. Samuel Hall, D-1, Ray Roberts, D-4, Mickey Leland, D-18, and Abraham Kazen, D-23, did not vote.

Agent Orange troubling VA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Veterans Administrator Max Cleland says everywhere he goes he is asked by fellow Vietnam veterans about Agent Orange. Is the herbicide sprayed in the defoliation campaigns giving them cancer? Is it shortening their lives? Will it make them the fathers of deformed babies?

Cleland appeared briefly Monday before a panel of scientists assembled by the Veterans Administration to ask that it provide the answers.

Ronald DeYoung, veterans coordinator at Columbia College in Chicago, and an organizer of a group called Concerned American Veterans Against Toxins, also appeared — to accuse Cleland's VA of callous indifference to the same veterans.

"These men want to know if their own government has killed their children," he said. "They want to know if they can safely have more children. They need answers soon."

Their comments underscored the issue's emotional impact as the ad-sorsy committee assembled by the VA held its first meeting in a two-year study of the effect on the health of 2.4 million men who served in Vietnam of exposure to dioxin, a contaminant present in the herbicide Agent Orange.

Until Vietnamese women complained of giving birth to malformed babies, the Air Force sprayed 10.6 million gallons of the mixture of 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T on the jungle.

James R. Allen Jr., a pathologist at the University of Wisconsin Medical School, showed slides illustrating what happened to laboratory monkeys given a dioxin called TCDD in far weaker doses than that which sometimes formed in Agent Orange.

He said half of eight monkeys given 500 parts dioxin per trillion were dead within a year.

Of 500 applications for disability payments based on claims of ailments arising from exposure to Agent Orange, the VA has approved only one.

MASS TRANSIT: By a vote of 127 for and 270 against, the House rejected an amendment to spend an additional $125 million this fiscal year for grants to develop mass transportation. The amendment was proposed to HR 4289, a fiscal 1979 appropriations bill later passed and sent to the Senate. The money was to have been in addition to $1.25 billion already appropriated to help states and localities buy buses, build subways and undertake other mass transit programs.

Members voting "yea" favored spending an additional $125 million for mass transit in the current fiscal year.

Eckhardt, Leland, Gonzalez and Kazen voted "yea."
Hall, Collins, Roberts, Mattox, Gramm, Archer, Brooks, Leath, Wright, Hightower, Wyatt, de la Garza, White, Stenholm, Hance, Loeffler, Paul and Frost voted "nay."
Wilson and Pickle did not vote.

CITY MONEY: The House rejected, 159 for and 263 against, an amendment to transfer $200 million from the fiscal 1980 Urban Development Action Grant (UDAG) program to the Community Development Block Grant fund. The amendment was proposed to HR 3875, a Housing and Urban Development (HUD) spending bill headed for final passage.

The purpose of the amendment was to downgrade the UDAG program, under which categorical grants are awarded to fund community development proposals which HUD feels are particularly innovative.

Members voting "yea" favored downgrading UDAG.

Collins, Archer, Loeffler and Paul voted "yea."
Hall, Wilson, Roberts, Mattox, Gramm, Eckhardt, Brooks, Pickle, Leath, Wright, Hightower, Wyatt, de la Garza, White, Stenholm, Leland, Hance, Gonzalez, Kazen and Frost voted "nay."

SENATE

TAIWAN: By a vote of 59 for and 35 against, the Senate adopted a non-binding resolution that criticized President Carter for terminating on his own the mutual defense pact with Taiwan. The resolution said that Senate approval is "required" before a President can end any treaty.

Although the vote does nothing to repair the Taiwan treaty that was ended when the U.S. opened diplomatic relations with Peking, it has symbolic value in that the Senate is scolding Carter for acting unilaterally.

Senators voting "yea" favored the sharpest possible rebuke of President Carter for unilaterally ending the Taiwan treaty.

Sens. Lloyd Bentsen, D, and John Tower, R, voted "yea."

BUSING: The Senate voted to table, and thus kill, an amendment to outlaw school busing programs as energy wasters. The vote to table was 52-39. It came during consideration of a bill (S 1030) dealing with energy conservation, later passed and sent to the House.

Senators voting "yea" were opposed to the amendment to ban school busing for racial purposes, in order to save energy.

Bentsen voted "yea."
Tower voted "nay."

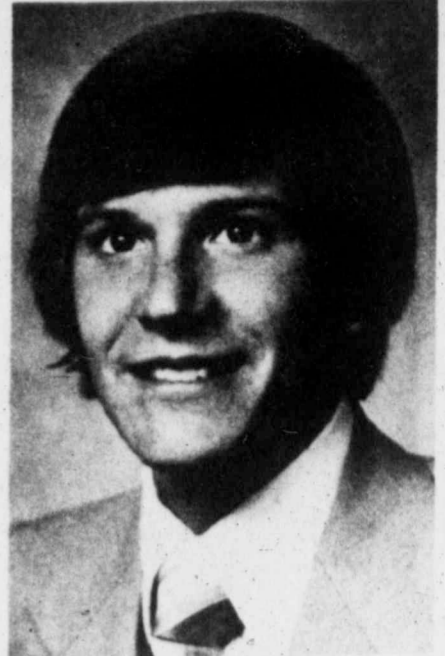

Depression spotted

MIAMI (AP) — The Atlantic hurricane season's first tropical depression has stalled about 200 miles west of Jamaica for nearly a day, the National Hurricane Center reports.

The depression formed early Monday. Forecasters urged small boats in the northwestern Caribbean to remain near port.

A tropical depression is characterized by sustained winds of up to 38 mph. When winds reach 39 mph the system is classified a tropical storm and given a name. A storm becomes a hurricane when winds reach 74 mph.

The Atlantic hurricane season runs from June through November.

Glenn named to West Point

Robert Charles Glenn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack D. Glenn, 1605 W. Dengar Ave., has been accepted for admission to the United States Military Academy at West Point. He will begin his appointment July 2.

Glenn recently graduated 44th in a class of 500 from Midland High School with a 3.912 grade point average.

While at MHS, he served as treasurer of the Senior Class and on the Student Council President's cabinet for assemblies.

He is a member of the National Honor Society. He has lettered in academics, track and drama.

Glenn also is an Eagle Scout and has earned the God and Country Award.

Former U.S. Rep. George Mahon nominated Glenn for the West Point appointment.
