Jewish vigilantes claim responsibility for acts of terrorism in U.S.

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) - A group of self-described Jewish vigilantes who said they mailed bombs to suspected Nazi sympathizers last week have claimed responsibility for stabbing a 70-year-old man they thought was a Nazi war criminal.

"This is only the beginning," a man who identified himself as a member of Jewish Executioners With Silence (JEWS) warned in a telephone call to a radio station after Wednesday's stabbing.

The caller said the attack on Vladislave Civzelis, 70, of the Bronx, was intended for Boleslavs Maikovskis, who was convicted of war crimes in Latvia, a Soviet satellite country on the Baltic Sea.

It was the second attempt to kill Maikovskis, who came here in 1951 and later was convicted in absentia by a Latvian court and condemned to death for the slaughter of Jewish children. "I'd like to take responsibility for the stabbing," a caller, who also said he was from JEWS, told the New York Daily News.

"We are also responsible for the letter bombs last week," he said. A caller told The Associated Press last week that bombs had been sent to former Nazis and Nazi sympathizers in several U.S. cities. The bombs were later found and dismantled without injury.

That man had identified himself as a member of the International Committee Against Nazism. A New York-based group by the same name disavowed any part in the scheme.

The new name discrepancy was not explained by the man, who also called Among those who received bombs last week was Tscherim Soobzokov, a former Nazi SS officer living in Paterson, N.J. He was cleared by a federal grand jury last month of war crimes. Bombs also went to the National Socialist White People's Party in Cicero, Ill., and Gary Rex "Gerhard" Lauck, head of the overseas branch of the German Nazi Party in Lincoln, Neb. Bombs sent to Matt Kohel, head of the National Socialist White People's Party in Arlington, Va., and Frank Collins, head of the National Socialist

Police gave this account of Wednesday's attack: Civzelis and his wife, Marta, 74, were relaxing in lawn chairs on the Maikovskis' driveway Wednesday morning after a week-long visit with

Party in America, in Chicago, were found in post offices.

As they talked, a stranger with a scar on his upper lip approached. "Are you Maikovskis?" he asked.

Civzelis replied: "No, I'm from The Bronx."

The man carried an overnight bag and told the couple he would pay them "a lot of money" for a news story. Then Civzelis called Maikovskis' wife, Janina, who said she wasn't interested.

The man started to walk away, then whirled and pulled a gun, ordering the elderly couple into the back yard where his pistol misfired twice. He then attacked Civzelis with a knife, stabbing the old man in the back and Civzelis' wife was knocked to the ground by the attacker and suffered a broken nose and broken wrist. Both were rushed to a local hospital, where Civzelis underwent surgery and was reported in critical condition. His wife was in good condition.

Last August, Maikovskis was wounded when he refused to let a man in his house. The assassin fired nine shots through the door, hitting Mai-

Man persuaded to lower prices

HOUSTON (AP) - The owner of a West Side service station says he lowered his $1.20 a gallon price for gasoline after someone fired bullets through a window and the canopy at the station.

Ken Catmull lowered the price to 99.9 cents for premium, 98.9 cents for unleaded and 97.9 cents for regular.

Catmull said the shots were fired by unknown persons Tuesday night and he lowered the prices Wednesday morning after a conference with his Washington lawyer.

The station, Catmull said, is being audited by the Department of Energy. He said DOE officials had indicated the audit would be completed Monday but advised him Wednesday they were still at work.

Catmull said he' originally raised his prices to the high level in an attempt to maintain normal operating hours at the station which also handles a large volume of beer and cigarette sales. He said he now will be reducing his hours of operation. The high prices did not seem to bother customers.

"I'll buy it wherever I can get it," said Walter Jager while putting $14.50 in gasoline in his pickup truck

Guard patrols Alabama roads

By The Associated Press

National Guardsmen patrolled Alabama's roads today and Tennessee officials vowed court action against a violence-ridden trucker's protest that is squeezing supplies of food and fuel in many states.

Independent owner-operators continued to blockade diesel pumps at scattered stations coast to coast or tie up highway traffic to press their demands for more and cheaper fuel and fewer load regulations.

A few more rigs were reported shot up Wednesday but there were no new injuries. Police said some sniping victims were shot at after being warned over their citizens band radios to stay off the road.

The violence continued this morning when a sniper's bullet tore into the radiator of a truck hauling grain on Interstate 80 just north of Omaha,

And New York state police arrested two drivers when 100 trucks blocked traffic during the rush hour at the Newburgh-Beacon bridge north of New York City. Police said traffic was stacked up four miles in both directions before the arrests broke up the jam.

Several truckers were arrested Wednesday, including two in Montana charged with destruction of property for firing at the fuel tank of a grain truck. The pair, David Hashbarger and Jack Westre, both 30, face up to 10 years in jail and a $5,000 fine if con-

Alabama Gov. Fob James called out the National Guard after Linda Pruett, the 20-year-old wife of a Georgia trucker, was shot and critically wounded late Tuesday while riding in her husband's rig. State troopers rode shotgun on rigs hauling fuel to Alabama hospitals, law enforcement and fire protection facilities as well as those laden with perishable goods such as produce. The truckers' week-old protest has begun to take its toll on already-short supplies of fuel. In Birmingham, Ala., officials Wednesday began rationing fuel for city police and fire vehicles.

Tennessee Gov. Lamar Alexander sympathized with the truckers' concerns but said the state will seek a court order today to "prohibit anyone from interfering with the movement of gasoline to consumers.

Food shipments were also pinched, said Bob Green of Overdrive, the magazine of the Independent Trucker Association, which Monday called for a strike by the nation's 100,000 owneroperators.

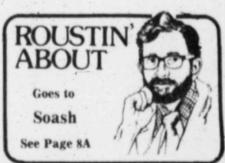

Green said California growers and shippers are having trouble finding trucks to go to the East Coast. "You can't run from California to New York City not knowing if you're going to have enough to fuel to get there,

Bill Miles, who buys produce for nearly 250 Bi-Rite Food Stores in middle Tennessee, said, "We're in pretty fair shape at the moment but it's going to catch up with us."

Meanwhile, in Sun Valley, Idaho, state leaders attending the Western Governors' Conference urged the Interstate Commerce Commission to allow rate increases for merchandise hauled by the independents. And William Maebert, head of the National Association of Truck Stop Operators, called on Transportation Secretary Brock Adams to become "actively and vocally involved" in seeking solutions to the diesel fuel problems.

The truckers say they can't make a decent living between the rates they're allowed to charge and the rising price of diesel fuel, which has jumped to $1.29 a gallon in some

BIG SPRING - Turmoil in Big Spring city government circles is like "a bomb that has already exploded," Col. Harry Spannaus said today in the wake of his being fired Wednesday as manager of Big Spring Airport and Industrial Park.

Doing the firing was Paul Feazelle, assistant city manager and acting city manager since Harry Nagel resigned last April. Nagel held that post 7½ years.

Spannaus, a retired Air Force officer, today noted he resigned his manager's position last month amid controversy surrounding use of equipment at Industrial Park, formerly Webb Air Force Base.

At the time, Spannaus said he was resigning effective June 30 because he had two job offers - one in Midland and one in Big Spring. Today he said he subsequently opted for a division manager's job for a company at Big Spring Industrial Park. On Wednesday, Feazelle fired Spannaus, saying "he (Spannaus) was not fulfilling his job duties as he had in the past.' Spannaus commanded closed-down

Trial for Estes, Midlander begins

DALLAS (AP) - Attorneys estimated testimony in the fraud trial of paroled West Texas con man Billie Sol Estes would begin this afternoon after jury selection had been completed during the morning session.

Estes and Midlander Raymond K. Horton are standing trial on charges of conspiracy to committ fraud.

A total of 26 panelist were picked Wednesday after tedious individual questioning of the 52 prospective jurors. After attorneys agree on 35 potential jurors, they will strike names until a final panel of 12 and two alternates are selected. Most of those excused Wednesday said they were familiar with Estes' previous fraud conviction and indicated it would prejudice them during their deliberations.

Early in the day, Assistant U.S. Attorney Jim Rolfe moved to dismiss one of the four indictments returned against Estes on Feb. 22. The dis-

Estes and Horton are charged with conspiring to bilk four leasing companies of more than $589,000 by financing oil field steam cleaners that do not exist. According to the indictment, a total of 38 cleaners were bought and sold on paper only through dummy corporations using money loaned from the legitimate leasing companies.

The scheme outlined by the federal government is almost identical to the one that earned Estes a conviction in the early 1960s, when he was convicted of mortgaging non-existent ammonia fertilizer tanks.

Because of his notorious reputation as a flim-flam man, Estes was forbidden from self-employment and from promotional activities when he was paroled in 1971.

The allegations-spelled out in the grand jury indictments are not new. Many surfaced in newspaper accounts two years ago, when state and federal agencies began their investigations of Estes and his associates.

As part of a plea bargain last October, Estes pleaded guilty to conspiracy to conceal assets from the IRS and plotting to defraud investors. But he withdrew his plea when federal judge rejected the bargain, which hinged on approval of the U.S. Parole Commission

Another indictment says Estes and Horton ran Several businesses in Horton's name, although they actually were owned by Estes. That indictment also charges Estes with conspiring to defraud the government of income tax for the years 1959-1962, 1971 and 1977.

According to the hefty indictments, Estes and Horton allegedly filed false financial statements with the leasing companies and received fraudulently obtained checks in the mail.

School probe said taking Ector County closer to busing

ODESSA - Investigation of new charges of racial discrimination in Findings from this investigation high school students from one school district one step closer to court-ordered busing, an Ector County schoolofficial said today.

The new charges, apparently generated because of the publicity given an earlier investigation, will be checked this summer by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's office of civil rights.

The only information available on the five newest charges - to be checked out by the end of August, according to Ector County Schools Superintendent Bill Holm — is that one pertains to a handicapped student and the other four involve discipline pending against it since 1970 and has operated under a court order since that time.

Ector County schools, unlike Midland's, do not have a busing program to integrate the schools.

The busing that is done in the district is to relieve overcrowding and to bring students who live more than two miles from school to the classroom,

The district also buses some 400 grams, Holm said.

The district has eight schools with minority populations of 66 percent or more, Holm said, including six neighborhood elementary schools, Blackshear Junior High School and Ector High School.

But he stressed all schools in the district had some minority represen-

"There has been no attempt by this district to do anything that would deny or prevent any child from getting a decent and equal educational opportunity," he said, "and I think we're in a position to know."

Some friends in deed (mayors) back a friend in need (Carter)

PITTSBURGH (AP) - The nation's mayors, fighting the battle of the budget and the revolt of the taxpayers, are looking for friends. So they're being especially nice to President Carter. At the annual convention of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, which closed here Wednesday, Carter won a surprising string of victories from a group that was criticizing him only a few months ago as cold, if not hostile, to the plight of the cities.

At a news conference winding up the five-day meeting, Mayor Richard Hatcher of Gary, Ind., the group's new vice president, said the mayors have not stopped disagreeing with Carter on particular issues but are being more realistic about the big picture.

"When the national administration has taken a position or undertaken a program that is beneficial to the cities. I feel that it is absolutely necessary that we speak out in support of that position and in support of the administration," Hatcher said. The new president of the conference and the first Republican in memory to hold the office is Mayor Richard Carver of Peoria, Ill., who struck the

with a temporary windfall tax, Angelo added. He claimed this "significant modification" of the conference's position on the oil and gas industry was achieved after extended debate by Angelo and mayors from Texas, Virginia, Illinois, California and Missouri.

Baptist crackdown shelved

HOUSTON (AP) — Efforts by conservatives in the 13.2-million member Southern Baptist Convention to crackdown on so-called "liberal" Bible instruction have been shelved, but the conciliatory act has the appearence of a warning.

With the three-day convention ending late today, a conservative coalition that boosted the Rev. Adrian Rogers of Memphis into the denominational presidency abandoned its call for a return to the literal biblical teachings.

Rogers said Wednesday he favored an inquiry -"if fair and balanced" - into seminary teaching, but such a possibility was set aside to give seminary's and denominational agencies a chance to-take any necessary corrective steps voluntarily

"I don't want any witchhunt" Rogers said. "We already have processes for removing anyone that ought to be removed."

A resolution demanding seminary professors subscribe to biblical "inerrancy" and other specified beliefs, such as a "personal devil and literal hell," also was withdrawn.

Biblical "inerrancy," a position held by the conservatives, means that each specific word of the Bible was divinely inspired, not just its ideas.

By Wednesday night, however, a feeling of unity permeated Houston's Astrodome. Banners waved. Music soared to the steel rafters and multinational garb glistened in the floodlights as thousands of Southern Baptists voiced their determination to bring Christ to all humanity by the century's end.

Evangelist Billy Graham told the crowd of 48,000 the goal was a "magnificent obsession" and added, "God is not calling us tonight to a playground or a sports arena - he is calling us to a battleground." The rally, beamed by satellite to television outlets and to simultaneous rallies in a dozen other cities, featured a procession of 144 flags of states and foreign nations where Southern Baptists carry on mission work.

At one point, 1,100 newly appointed missionaries, some dressed in the regalia of the areas where they will serve, were commissioned by the denomination's outgoing president, the Rev. Jimmy Allen of San Antonio —Turned down a proposal that would have favored a constitutional amendment to upset the 1973 Supreme Court decision allowing abortion.

The convention also: -Endorsed the SALT II agreement between the U.S. and Russia.

-Declared further nuclear power plants should be built "only when the safety of their operation and waste disposal can be assured.'

"I don't want any witchhunt. We already have processes for removing anyone that ought to be removed." - The Rev. Adrian Rogers.

Graham told the story at a news conference held in conjunction with the Southern Baptist convention. He also called Pope John Paul II's triumphant Polish tour "highly significant, not only religiously and morally but politically.

PARIS (AP) — Maria Isabella Niarchos, 20-yearold daughter of Greek shipping tycoon Stavros Niarchos, married Alix Chevassus, 36, heir to a French chemical fortune, in a mob-scene civil ceremony in a Paris town hall this morning. The bride chewed gum throughout the wedding.

Presiding at the ceremony was Michel Junot, assistant mayor of Paris' 7th district and father-inlaw of Princess Caroline of Monaco, who with her husband Philippe Junot attended the wedding.

The newlyweds will be married again in a religious ceremony before 1,000 guests Saturday at Lisieux, west of Paris, where Niarchos has a cheateau.

Friends said the couple met several years ag the Paris society scene, where Junot and Chevassus and Maria and Caroline were leading figures of the

More than 60 photographers swarmed around the town hall and inside the building, though they were excluded from the wedding room itself during the 20-minute ceremony

After the ceremony, the party went to the plush

John Paul II scores

Pope John Paul II is back in Vatican City, resting up, following his ardous yet enthusiastic and inspirational visit to his homeland of Poland.

The pope, who has caught the public fancy, has emerged as one of the world's great leaders as a result of his Poland visit and the tremendous public reception accorded him in that Communistcontrolled country.

Pope John Paul II learned during his tenure as archbishop of Krakow how to survive under a Communist government hostile to Poland's huge Roman Catholic population.

On his recent trip to his homeland he again was careful to avoid statements designed to provoke misgivings on the part of Communist Party Secretary Edward Gierek, who gave permission for the visit, or the Communist hierarchy in Moscow, which pulls the strings.

The pope stressed in his public appearances the solidarity of the "often-forgotten Christians of Poland's Soviet-dominated neighbors. And he focused particularly upon the youth of Poland, commending them for their perseverance in their Christian faith.

But it is that capacity for faith that is earnestly sought by Poland's Communist leaders, who would like to translate it into loyalty to the regime.

The evidence indicates that John Paul has the edge in the tugof-war over the minds of the oung people who will be Poland's leaders in the future.

The pope, of course, necessarily humanity and freedom.

had to step carefully to protect the rare freedom enjoyed by the Catholic Church in Poland. Secretary Gierek, who already is blamed for a deterjorating economy, could be toppled in a burst of religious enthusiasm. The likely result would be military intervention from Moscow and harsh reprisals on the church.

John Paul's policy in Poland follows the admonition laid down by St. Matthew atmost 2,000 years ago: "Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's."

The Communist, however, acknowledge no such distinction between the material and the spiritual.

And the pope's emphasis on the doctrine that no man may claim another's immortal soul is a subtle challenge to a basic principle of communism.

The apprehensions in Moscow are understandable. Uncertain Russian critics have confessed their suspicions that "some circles in the Polish church" yet may try to use the pope's visit "for anti-state purposes.'

John Paul's years of experience seemed to have made him adept enough to deny the suspicion convincingly during his tour of Poland.

But his presence could not do otherwise than strengthen the church, which will remain the strongest countervailing force to Communist dominance in Polish

And this most certainly is advantageous for the cause of

ART BUCHWALD Why not have more than scar to show for visit?

WASHINGTON - Blackberry, who is a genius in the real estate business, came to me the other day with a brilliant idea. "Apartments all over the country are being turned into co-ops and condominiums. Why not do the same with hospitalls?" "Keep going," I said.

"Well, everyone knows that one stay in a hospital will cost you as much as a down payment on a horse, and when you're discharged you have nothing to show for it, except possibly a scar. Why not allow patients to buy hospital rooms, as they do apartments, and then they could use them any time they wanted to?"

"But people don't use hospital rooms that often.'

"So they can rent them out to relatives, friends or even strangers. It would be a tax-deductible investment, as long as the owners didn't use the room themselves for more than two weeks a year.'

"It sounds like more fun than owning a yacht," I said.

'And a much better investment." Blackberry replied. "At the rate hospital rooms are going up around the country, you'll be able to double your investment in a year.'

China needs decade to join club

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - However the debate over SALT II turns out, there is one undeniable and increasingly important flaw in the treaty: It has no effect on Red China's growing nuclear strength.

Until recently, the nation that gave the world gunpowder has been pretty much the sleeping dragon of the nuclear "club." The official U.S. government line is that we needn't worry too much about China's nuclear capabilities for 10 or 15 years.

But a top secret appraisal shaves this rosy estimate significantly. "Within the next decade China is expected to produce and deploy both liquid and solid propellant (second generation) missiles in modest quantities," the report warns. "Within this time frame China will also have advanced from producing missiles based on Soviet technology to those of indigenous design.

A 1978 "military posture statement" prepared by the Joint Chiefs of Staff credits the People's Republic with short-range nuclear strike capability already. Though the Chinese have no operational ICBMs capable of reaching targets in the continental United States, they do have missiles that can reach neighboring Asian countries, Alaska, Australia, most of the Soviet Union, parts of the Middle East and American military bases in the Far East.

Furthermore, the report states, China is developing an ICBM that could hit American cities. Defense Department analysts say China's intensified industrial modernization is stressing its military industry, particularly its nuclear capability.

U.S. officials told our associate Frank Washington that the normalization of relations has given the Chinese access to American scientific data, technological items and industrial commodities, but they will

Figuring out how much of China's imports are going to the military is difficult, because ostensibly civilian contracts can be transferred to the military sector, according to the report. "Therefore, the purchase of entire plants such as steel-production facilities, while contributing greatly to the civilian sector, also enhances the capability of the industrial base supporting the missile industry," the intelligence document states.

For instance, China purchased a sophisticated Swiss-made aircraft tracking system from France supposedly to be used for air traffic control. But intelligence analysts are convinced that the $2 million system will be used by the military for research, development, testing and evaluation of ballistic missiles.

Because of financial, human and material restraints China's nuclear program is not expected to equal ours... or the Soviet Union's. But intelligence reports predict that in the 1980s China will be producing medium-range and intercontinental ballistic missiles, as well as air-to-surface, defensive and naval missiles. The Chinese are also developing nuclear submarines with missile firing capability, and are expected to deploy them within the next

Railroad, drought leave town of Soash high, dry

SOASH - Railroads are like the government

"You never know what they're going to do," says Dawson County historian Wayne C. Smith.

A land investor-colonizer by the name of W.P. Soash of Waterloo, Iowa, figured he knew what the railroad was going to do.

He speculated, bought 300,000 acres of ranchland from Col. C.C. Slaughter in 1908, and set up a townsite in 1909. Apparently, he was so confident and optimistic of his venture that he lent the promising town his sur-

HE HAD INTENT of converting the range land to farm land.

So, he brought in trainloads of farmers from the East and Midwest to settle this area midway between Lamesa and Big Spring.

Soash built up hopes of lush crop land, flowing streams and lakes, fat cattle and a vibrant trade hinged on the Santa Fe Railway laying rails through Soash's territory. It didn't.

Before Santa Fe's route bypassed Soash, the community flourished. Timber was shipped in by Texas & Pacific Railroad freight trains to Big Spring and then was hauled by teampulled wagons to Soash. Houses went

But they soon went down and were set up elsewhere.

"WHEN THE RAILROAD didn't come this way, it (Soash) kind of dried up in a hurry. Of course, coupled with that was the drought," said

Today, all that remains of Soash's dream is the four walls of the old land office, which apparently also was a bank, and a Texas historical marker, at the crossroads a mile to the south, "It's kind of sad, really," said Smith. "The old man (Soash) had something kind of going but the whole thing fell apart. The railroads kind of messed him up. The town went bust-

But Soash wasn't such of an "old man" at all when he came to Texas on a land deal at the age of 28 in 1905.

Roloff must get license, or lose his homes

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Evangelist Lester Roloff has six days to decide whether to quit resisting attempts to license his troubled youth facilities or see his girls and boys taken away.

Roloff was not present Wednesday when State District Judge Charles Mathews ordered the three homes closed unless they applied for state licenses by Tuesday.

The evangelist's attorneys refused to say whether they would appeal Mathews' ruling.

"They'll hang black crepe on heaven's gate if they close these homes,' said Roloff in a protest aired in a half-hour television program the evangelist bought on a Corpus Christi

Roloff blasted Mathew's decision during that program and called for mass protest rallies this weekend at his home for girls in Corpus Christi.

"My heart's aching and breaking over what happened today ... The license is a Russian, Communistic piece of equipment. There is no doubt in my mind ... The license is altogether unconstitutional, illegal, historically wrong, practically wrong and biblically wrong," said Roloff.

Mathews also ordered Lester Roloff Evangelistic Enterprises Inc. to pay $2,850 in civil penalies. The figure translates to a $50 daily penalty tripled for each home - to cover the 457 days since an earlier injunction against Roloff took effect.

Assistant Attorney General David Young said the state welfare department was prepared to move the children within 24 to 48 hours after a closing order takes effect. The youngsters would either be returned to their parents or turned over to welfare workers for placement.

"It's a black day," one Roloff supporter murmured following the threehour hearing.

For six years, Roloff has refused to license his homes on grounds it would violate the separation of church and state doctrine

Strict discpline and fundamentalist religious instruction are combined at his facilities - the Rebekah Home for Girls in Corpus Christi, Lighthouse Home for Boys in Kleberg County, and the Anchor Home for Boys in

'As I said before back in October (1976) with no doubt in my mind that Brother Roloff is doing a good and a great service," Mathews said.

"I think he's a fine man. I think if it were left up to Brother Roloff he would have licensed them a long time ago," the judge added. But I think it is his following that wouldn't permit

Several of Roloff's supporters in the courtroom whispered, "No, no," at Mathews' remark.

Roloff, at a prayer meeting following his telecast, blamed news media coverage of an alleged violent incident at one of his homes for the threatened closure.

"The news media has been the biggest source of child abuse in the world," said Roloff.

Mathews earlier decried hundreds of the evanglist's backers who have written the judge asking him not to close the homes.

"It's improper for them to write letters. I've been averaging 10 to 12 a day," he said. "They start out, 'Don't you believe in God? You must not, and things like that."

Rubber talks bounced by serious snags

WASHINGTON (AP) - Marathon negotiations between the United Rubber Workers and B.F. Goodrich Co. ran into serious problems early today, dimming hopes for a swift settlement of the tire industry's labor problems.

"We've run into some pretty difficult snags," chief federal mediator Wayne L. Horvitz announced about 4 a.m. EDT, shortly after bargainers recessed their talks until later today.

Carter has been quoted as telling a group of congressmen at a White House dinner earlier this week, "If Kennedy runs, I'll whip his ass."

The Massachusetts senator responded Wednesday that he is not a candidate, but if he were, he "would hope to win."

Meanwhile, White House aides are making sure word gets out about Carter's confident view of his 1980 chances. White House press secretary Jody Powell said Wednesday he could not confirm Carter had made the comment. He also said he had not asked the president about it. But Powell said, "I can confirm, as the president has indicated publicly, that any race he is involved in, he can win and intends to win.

At one point, Moffett said, Carter joined a table of 10 that included Moffett and Brodhead.

Moffett, who has opposed Carter's plan to lift price controls on domestic oil, said he told the president that the administration's energy policies were hurting him politically in New England.

"I said I'd like nothing better than to see you go into New England in pretty good shape next year," said Moffett. "He said something about, 'I feel good, I'm ready for 1980,' " Moffett.

"Yes, I do," the congressmen quoted Carter as saying. They said he then repeated his comment, word for word.

Some public opinion polls indicate Kennedy would beat Carter if a race for the nomination were held now.

And despite the senator's public appeals against efforts by Democrats in several states to draft him for the presidential nomination, the efforts continue. The latest surfaced Wednesday when a group registered with Maine's secretary of state.

But the senator's first response to the president remarks was light: "I'm sure the president must have been misquoted," Kennedy said Wednesday. "I think what he meant to say was that he was going to whip

Nicaraguan fighting continues

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Sandinista guerrillas battled President Anastasio Somoza's troops in Managua for the seventh day today, looting was widespread, and the U.S. Embassy planned to fly out

Somoza's planes rocketed and strafed Managua's slums, trying to smash the guerrillas in the strongholds they have barricaded since Friday night. National guardsmen raked the barrios with submachine guns in an operation called "reconnaissance

'We shoot into all the trees on an unsecured block with .50-caliber machine guns," said a lieutenant in the guard, Somoza's combined army and police force. "Sometimes people with guns jump down and run away. Sometimes they fall out dead.'

Managuans sleeping on their floors because of the fighting said guerrillas told them Sandinista commander Eden Pastora was leading an "international brigade" north from the Costa Rican border. Somoza claimed last weekend his forces crushed an invasion there last week and drove the survivors back across

The gwerrillas also said they were battling Somoza's forces in Masaya, 20 miles south of Managua, and in the northern cities of Sebaco and Matagapa. Journalists returning from the north confirmed that the Sandinistas held the towns of La Prinidad and San Isidro and had the guard pinned down in two locations in nearby Estelf.

In Leon, the second largest city in Nicaragua, national guard sources said the garrison was under heavy attack by the gurrillas. Leon has been in rebel hands, except for the garrison, since the beginning of Somoza conceded in a broadcast Wednesday night that his capital had been "shut down" by the fighting and a general strike called by the Sandinistas June 4 as part of their two-week-old "final offensive." Somoza spoke of the "shame people had to suffer in having to take what is not theirs," and said the national guard would soon begin distributing food in barrios cleared of guerrillas.

Hungry Managuans looted all major market areas and supermarkets. Some 15,000 people took refuge in a dozen Red Cross refugee centers but they were running out of food and water.

Bands scavenged areas on the outskirts of the slums, but much of these areas were already picked clean. They stole from looters weaker than themselves. Some, brandishing pistols, tried to stop

Obote, who assumed authoritarian powers in his last years in office, spent his exile in Tanzania, where his socialist views found favor with President Julius Nyerere But Nyerere excluded Obote from the formation of an exile coalition that joined Tanzanian forces in a seven-month war to oust Amin.

Some Ugandan observers believed Obote's presence in the coalition would have prevented about 25 exile groups with widely differing political views from staying together. The official Uganda Times said Obote was plan-

North Ward School may have been oldest structure in Midland

By JOE SALMAN

Apparently what was the oldest structure in Midland was torn down less than two months ago, and more than likely even those who knew about the building's demise did not realize the significance of its pass-

When the old North Ward School groaned and creaked while being tugged at by cables attached to bulldozers until it was nothing more than a pile of unwanted rubble, an era came to a close for Midland — an era that lasted more than 90 years.

In April, when the last remnants of North Ward — later known as North Elementary - were scrapped and hauled away from 600 W. Ohio Ave., it marked the first time since 1885 that the location was without a facility used for the education of children or young men and women. Not only did an era end, but what probably was the oldest building in Midland became a part of the North Ward rubble

Information from the obituary of one of Midland's pioneers reveals the historical significance of the old North Ward School The obituary is that of J. N. Jackson, who, along with his wife, moved to Midland in 1883 as one of the first permanent residents of the town. In 1885, Jackson became one of Midland's first schoolteachers when he stood before his classes in a three-room, wood, L-shaped building that stood on the spot where North Ward was built.

The wood structure was torn down in 1890 and replaced by a brick building that was used as the school until North Ward was built in 1927. Apparently, the old school was still in pretty good shape, but the city needed a new high school and at the same time an elementary school or

A new high school was erected elsewhere and North Ward was

Some of the townspeople wanted to preserve some of Midland's educational history, so it was decided to incorporate part of the brick building erected in 1890 into the 1927 version.

So, until only a few weeks ago, a small part of that old building could be seen as part of North Ward. It follows, then, that when the wrecking ball and bulldozers had done their work, a building erected in Midland in 1890 - 89 years ago - had

Most Americans rely on medical specialists

NEW YORK (AP) - Nearly 20 percent of all Foundation, which-co-sponsored the report. Americans get most of their medical care from a gynecologist, cardiologist or other specialist rather than from a general practitioner, a new study

The report, described as the largest ever on how doctors spend their time, is the latest in a continuing debate over whether medical schools are turning out enough physicians for personal care.

The study, published in today's edition of the New England Journal of Medicine, concludes that this trend may bring an early end to a shortage of family doctors - possibly by the mid 1980s.

Dr. David Rogers, one of six authors of the report, said it proves there is a "hidden system" of medical care in the United States that will make up for projected shortages of so-called "primary care" physicians - doctors who treat the headache, sore throat, upset stomach and other minor ail-

A recent National Academy of Sciences report projected shortages of primary care physicians well into the 1990s, and critics of medical schools today say there are too many specialists.

As a result, federal guidelines require an increasing proportion of medical school graduates to spend their first year of residency in general care areas. Next year, the proportion will be 50 percent.

However, the new report, based on records of the daily activities of 10,000 doctors, predicts the general-care shortage will end shortly after 1985.

Robert Mendenhall and co-workers at the University of Southern California asked the physicians to keep careful records of what they did for three

House changes mind

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House. has decided it really doesn't want the $3,162 a year pay raise it voted for itself

Now it's got to decide how to resurrect the $952 million legislative appropriations bill that fell by the wayside Wednesday when the House first accepted - and later rejected - a 5.5 percent pay hike for congressmen and top-paid bureaucrats.

The pay proposal, which would have cost taxpayers between $50 million and $60 million a year, produced an interesting day of parliamentary maneuvering.

First, House members took the unusual step of rebuffing its Rules Committee by agreeing to vote on keeping their salary of $57,500 a year and to keep the salaries of bureaucrats making more than $47,500 a year at current levels.

The Rules Committee had decided the only vote allowed would be whether a pay raise, scheduled to go into effect in October, would be 5.5 percent or 7 percent.

Education bill backers regroup

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Carter administration and its allies in the fight for a new Education Department are regrouping after winning one vote to keep their bill alive but losing a chance to have it clear the House.

A session which ended a few minutes after midnight today was not enough to finish the time-consuming amendment process which precedes the final vote.

The bill faces the prospect of being sandwiched between pending appropriations measures — the money bills which set spending limits for a year which all have time deadlines.

Aware that time is an important factor in the outcome, opponents of the bill have tried to slow the proposal down during four days of debate by demanding roll call votes and quorum calls requiring attendance in the House

Rep. John Erlenborn, R-III. claimed their tactics were working and that enough members had changed their minds to defeat the bill with about six votes to spare.

But an administration spokesman who asked not to be identified predicted the bill would pass.

A crucial vote occurred late Wednesday on whether to keep the

Massachusetts' anti-abortion law receiving challenge in court

Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP) - Massachusetts' new anti-abortion law, one of the most restrictive in the nation, is headed for a court challenge by opponents trying to halt its effect on welfare recipients and public employees.

While leaders of the anti-abortion movement cheered and applauded, Gov. Edward J. King signed the bill into law at a Statehouse ceremony this week, claiming "it will protect the most innocent lives of all - the lives of the unborn.

The new law, which fulfills one of King's campaign promises, forbids publicly funded abortions for welfare recipients except to save the life of the mother. It also prohibits the use of public funds for abortion coverage in health insurance policies for tens of thousands of public employees, state retirees and their families.

The Civil Liberties Union of Massachusetts said it believes the law is unconstitutional and pledged to take whatever legal steps are necessary to block its enforcement.

John Roberts, executive director of the group said: "... the governor and the Legislature have chosen to ignore the fact that such restrictions on the funding of abortions have been invalidated by each and every court in the country that has considered the ques-

Roberts said that because the new law is so far-reaching - extending to public employees and to women in the state's prisons - "fundamental constitutional and statutory rights are being threatened.'

Abortion advocate Bill Baird filed suit in U.S. District Court within hours of the bill's signing, seeking to block implementation of the new law. No hearing date was set.

At the ceremony, King said: "This is a proud day," and praised those

Delta Gammas attend state meet

Local members of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society International joined over 900 members throughout Texas in San Antonio last week.

Attending from Midland were Cynthia Williams, Pat Morgan, Mary Davis and Dolly Benson from the Zeta Xi chapter. From the Epsilon Eta chapter were Paula Booth, Ann Donaldson and Carolyn Sowell.

Occasion was the state's golden anniversary observance of the founding of the international society in Austin May 11, 1929. Governor Bill Clements has issued an official proclamation honoring the society's founding.

Laginia Hale of Austin, state president of the key women teachers, selected as the convention theme, "The past never leaves us and the future is already here.'

Opening highlight of the convention included a festive San Antonio night held in the city's Convention Center. Entertainment was provided by students from San Antonio College and the Polish-American Center directed by Jean Drury. Native dances of various ethnic groups were also present-

Members of local chapters participating in the convention activities wore red felt badges created in the shape of the state of Texas. They also plan to wear them to the international Golden Anniversary Celebration in Dallas in late July. At that time, members representing over 28,000 members in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Guatemala, El Salvador, Puerto Rico, Norway, Sweden, Finaland, the Netherlands, and England will hold four separate regional conferences in Dallas, with plans to culminate the conferences in one gigantic anniversary celebration at the Civic Center.

Business included recognization of persons contributing to the scholarship program, a memorial service, and election and installation of state president of Massachusetts Citizens those yet to be born who will live because of their proud efforts.

After the signing, King handed out bouquets of red roses - a symbol of the anti-abortion movement — to those who led the fight for the bill, including one to Kathleen Healey,

Associated Press Food Editor DEAR CECILY: A while ago I had a pizza-making party for some of my friends and used your "Everything Pizza" made with English muffins. My mother cut the recipe out of our newspaper. It was very good.

Now I'm planning another pizzamaking party, but this time I want to use packaged pizza mix instead of English muffins. How can I make the mix into an "Everything Pizza" and out lots of stuff on the dough? -SWEET SIXTEEN.

DEAR SWEET SIXTEEN: When my nephew was your age - he's at college now - he used to love to come over to my house and make pizza from a packaged mix. Here's an 'everything' recipe he liked. Our directions for baking depart from those given on the package; we use a hotter oven and bake the pizza on the lowest rack so the crust will be golden brown on the bottom. It's a fork-and-knife pizza - too soft to hold on paper napkins and eat. - C. B. .

Get together and get a lamb

THE BUTCHER

Legs of lamb were on special last week. They weren't cheap, nothing is these days, but they were going for less than the going rate. One lady came into the market to take advantage of the special and gave me a good idea. She bought one first for her family, then came back five minutes later for another.

"Decide to put one in the freezer?" Lasked.

"No," she said. "That's a pretty good buy. I think my neighbor would like one

It occurred to me that we all might do better at surviving the high cost of eating if we got together to help one another. The meat market is a good place to start and lamb is a good meat to start with. Not just leg of lamb "on special." You could make some even better savings if you get together with a friend or neighbor and buy a whole

Sharing a carcass of lamb with a friend has a number of economic advantages over doing the same with a side or quarter of beef. In the first place, lambs are considerably smaller so you needn't invest half the family fortune to put meat on the

A carcass of spring lamb will weigh in at between 40 to 50 pounds to provide each family with 20 to 25 pounds of great eating for spring and summer barbecues at considerable savings over the cost of the component parts bought separately. Also, amb has a considerably smaller percentage of waste than beef, so you pay less for trim mings that go into the bone barrel

Lambs, too, divide nicely in half, There is no problem, in sharing one, over who gets steak and who gets stew, as there often is with beef. Each party gets half a lamb and each half contains the same component parts.

It is almost impossible to find anything but the finest high-quality lamb in most markets this time of

We have good lamb available all year in this country, but it is a generally accepted fact that the milkfed, grass-finished spring lamb available right now is some of the finest in the world. You can hardly go wrong. It's a good idea though to select a USDA Choice, Yield Grade 1 or 2. That is your assurance of top quality lamb without too much waste.

From a carcass of lamb, you and your friend or neighbor can expect to get the following:

One leg of lamb. This can be left whole for a great meal of roast leg of lamb, boned and rolled for the rotisserie, or cut into steaks for the barbecue. For my family of four, we usually cut four chops off the sirloin end for one meal and leave the rest for

One portion of the loin. This is the most tender section of the lamb and also the most expensive. Loin chops were going for over $5 a pound in my neighborhood last week. Dependingon how thick you like your chops cut, you can get six or eight of these tender morsels from your half of the lamb.

One rack of lamb. This is the rib section of the lamb and can be cut between the ribs into seven or eight delicious little rib chops. Don't ask me why, but some lambs have one more rib than others - or the rack can be left whole for roasting. A rack of lamb makes an elegant meal, but an expensive one if you buy the rack without the rest of the lamb. One square cut shoulder. If the butcher doing the cutting is amenable to the task, you can have the shoulder boned and rolled for a great roast. If not, have four chops cut off the arm side and four chops cut off the blade side. The remainder can be cut into cubes for stew or boned for ground lamb

One breast and one shank. These don't yield enough to make a meal, but can be boned and trimmed for ground lamb or cut into cubes to add to the stew. When you have lamb ground, ask the butcher to trim it well and grind it only once. Lamb is so tender it doesn't require more than that, and something is lost in texture with a second grinding.

As you can see, half of a lamb is not going to yield more meat than you can use in a reasonable amount of time and you can save quite a good deal of money over what you would pay for the component parts bought

Dutch are famous

By TOM HOGE AP Wine and Food Writer

One'balmy summer day about three decades ago, the Pennsylvania Dutch housewives of Kutztown whipped up a batch of pigs' feet, pepper cabbage and shoo-fly pie, then threw a party. Before long, more than 200,000 visitors were showing up for dinner each year at Kutztown or at spreads in the Pennsylvania communities of Hershey and Lancaster.

Food is the keystone of most festivals and some of the most unusual fare in America is served at these Pennsylvania Dutch outings which run from July Usually the visitor gets into the spirit of things listening to folk tales in dialect common to the Amish and their neighbors, inspecting hex signs and playing spin-the-bottle. He is then ushered to a table laden with dishes for which the area is famous.

First come the traditional seven sweets and seven sours, including corn relish, spiced cantaloupe jam and hard-boiled eggs pickled in beet juice.

Then follows the main meal, a many-splendored thing featuring such specialities as oatmeal scrapple, hot onion pie, and Schnitz and Gnepp - which consists of dried apples and raised dumplings.

Housewives take their cooking seriously in this bountiful land peopled by descendants of Protestant religious sects who began coming over from Germany in the 17th century. The word Dutch has nothing to do with Holland but is a corruption of Deutsch, which means "German."

The area is famed for its farmers' markets which offer lush vegetables, fruits, preserves, pickles, hams, sausages, cheese and butter.

This is the land of rich, homemade noodles, and pies of every variety including corn pie, a robust main dish that is really not pie. Here is the

Home Furnishing News

The second side of this coin is to select the few major and basic pieces very carefully. Make the most effective use of that modes! budget by putting most of it into a few really good peices, of en-during quality and beauty of Mrs. James M. Barkes of Midland cannot only "pick a bone with you," she can relate the background of that hard material composed largely of collagen and calcium salts.

Bones "talk" to this Midlander, revealing not only such personal information as origin and background, but also whether or not they were "man handled" by some ancient individual in search of nourishment.

Mrs. Barkes, who resides at 3612 Shell St., is assistant director of the Lubbock Lake Project, an archaeological site located in an old meander bend of Yellowhouse Draw just north of Lubbock.

THIS SITE was not discovered until the late 1930s, although the City of Lubbock had owned the land since the turn of the century. During dredging operations to create a reservoir for the city's fire department, bones of extinct animals from the Late Pleistocene period were brought to the surface, together with some Clovis and Folsom projectile points. The current project is a research program of The Museum of Texas Tech University, funded by, among others, the National Science Foundation, National Geographic and the City and County of Lubbock

The Midlander has been associated since 1975 with the current site project, which began in 1972, with the first field expedition in 1973. She says of the site, "This is one of the most important complete sites, archaeologically speaking, dating man back 12,000 years.

In the 1950s, the water table at the site had dropped enough to permit exploration of the dredged bottom area. A Folsom period bison kill yielding Folsom points and other butchering tools were found. Charred bones collected were radiocarbon dated at approximately 10,000 years of age. In the 1960s, it was known that the site was not just a Paleoindian kill site, but contained occupation material from periods up to historic times.

ARCHAEOLOGISTS divide man's existence in North America into four cultural periods, all of which are represented at the Lubbock site. These periods include Paleoindian, which is divided into three units: Clovis, dating from about 12,000 to 11,000 years ago; Folsom, from about 11,000 to 10,000 years, and Late Paleoindian, from about 10,000 to 7,000 years ago. The Archaic Period, divided into Early, Middle and Late, dates from 7,000 years ago to the time of Christ. This period is followed with the Ceramic Period, with the introduction of pottery, dating from about the time of Christ to the coming of the Spaniards in 1500 A.D. The Historic Period began with the coming of the Spaniards to the New World.

Mrs. Barkes says she has examined every piece of bone retrieved from the site. Bones constitute 95 per cent of the material discovered, and what with 35,000 pieces catalogued thus farthis creates a large pile of bones.

The National Science Foundation is sponsoring the grant for Mrs. Barkes' bone technology research, and at the

According to Mrs. Barkes, who is spending a lot of time at the site during June, remains of several different types of animals which were butchered are at the site. Animals such as bison, antelope and rabbit were hunted and brought to a stream for butchering. Several butchering tools made from stone and bone have been found. During the first season of excavations in 1973, a skull and parts of the skeleton of the extinct bison, Bison antiquus, were discovered. Disclosed in the Clovis deposits in 1974 were remains of two mammoths. Mixed in were remains of horse, camel, coyote and prairie dogs. Also a bone rubbing scraping tool possibly used in working hides or getting marrow from cracked bones.

The Midland housewife-archaeologist has been interested in archaeology, a specialized type of anthropology, since she received some arrowheads from a classmate when she was in the fourth grade. This fascination has prevailed. She has a degree in medical technology from Louisiana Tech, a degree in anthropology and master's in museum science from Texas Tech University. She believes 'the archaeology of the future will be done in museums, because of the destruction of sites caused by con-

The purpose of the trip was to take part in a project designed to teach Mayan linguistic technology, in other words, to record the Mayans' own language and preserve the cultural heritage of the Mayans. The project is supported by teaching Spanish to "Gringos," of which Mrs. Barkes was one. She lived in Hue Hue, Guatame-la, six weeks with a family where no English was spoken. Her husband became so interested in the idea, he took a month off at a later time and lived with the same Guatemalan family as his wife had. She hopes to return to Guatemala this fall.

She says there have been diggers from as far away as Canada, Denmark and Hawaii. She will be coauthoring a paper on the project with Dr. Johnson.

Speaking on archaeology and the scientists engaged in this study, Mrs. Barkes said, "We should keep an open mind about archaeology, because it was only 40 years ago that just 2,000 years were recorded of man in the Shower curtains are the best selling, home-decorating impulse items on the market, according to manufacturers of bath products.

People are changing their shower curtains about twice a year, which means the average customer is not buying a shower curtain because it's needed but because it's wanted, explained a manufacturer at the National Bath, Bed and Linen Show in New York recently

The show, an annual event, introduces new bath products to retailers from all over the country

The reason for the popularity of shower curtains and related products is that the bathroom, because it is so small, is the least expensive room in the house to redecorate.

NOW 'brides' protest against Tiffany ad

NEW YORK (AP) Tiffany's, chic giving's horn of plenty, says brides may have things other than silver, china and crystal to worry about but those worries are not the store's concern.

Walter Hoving, president of the Fifth Avenue gift emporium, stated Tiffany's position Wednesday after four white-veiled "brides" from the National Organization of Women stood outside the store to hand out flyers on the legal status of wives. The flyers said prospective brides should be more concerned with "legal rights in marriage" than silver-

The handouts showed a Tiffany's advertisement saying:

"When a girl is engaged, there are three rather important decisions she has to make. One is about her silverware. Another is her china. And the third is

"I was amazed that there would be an ad like this," said Kathe Rauch, president of NOW's New York chapter. "First of all, we don't call ourselves girls. We're women."

For a bride, she said, it is more important to understand a married woman's legal status than to choose a dish pattern.

Her point was made in the NOW flyer, which, employing the cadence of the Tiffany ad, said:

"When a woman marries she has several important decisions to make. Will she and her husband have a contract stating their duties, obligations, financial arrangements? Will she work? Will she be a homemaker?...Will she retain her given name?"

Hoving said he thought the message about reforming the law was "perfectly okay" but stated that Tiffany's has nothing to do with contracts or a woman's keeping her maiden name.

"We're not lawyers," Hoving said. "We have nothing to do with their legal status. That would be impertinent on our part.

All we can do is register her," he said Ms. Rauch called for an overhaul of marriage laws to assure a legal "partnership of equals," instead of the present "legal dominance of the husband and dependence of the wife. The women outside said they only wanted to raise the shop's "consciousness" on marriage. Hoving replied: "We have so many laws that should be changed in this country. We hope they

Mrs. Maloney, mother of seven turned community activist, led the charge to bring a bank to Garfield. The struggle began two summers ago and ended successfully when the Equibank branch opened last Septem-

Garfield's problems have a familiar ring for neighborhoods in Pittsburgh and in many other cities. Since the 1950s, Pittsburgh's energies and dollars were centered on building a glittering downtown.

"We live in a neighborhood that had deteriorated badly. A lot of local stores had closed," Mrs. Maloney said on the phone recently.

As president of a neighborhood selfhelp group, Bloomfield-Garfield Corp. in 1977, Mrs. Maloney initiated town meetings to see what could be done to revive Garfield's tiny busi-

But after Richard Caligiuri was elected mayor in November 1977, said Mrs. Maloney, "he became completely unavailable," and it looked to Garfield as if the city deposits were just an empty campaign promise.

But Mrs. Maloney got the ear of Pittsburgh's county commissioners, and they offered to put about $3 million in county money for the Garfield

Safeway's Inflation Fighters

A Safeway service in support of suggestions from the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs

'Say Cheese"

Cheese, we're reminded by the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs, is an excellent source of protein, calcium, certain vitamins and minerals and it comes in many forms. Depending on how you intend to use it, you may be able to save money by purchasing one of the less expensive varieties. For instance, a sharp cheddar costs more than a mild cheddar. primarily because it's aged longer. Processed cheese costs less than "natural" cheeses and may be preferable in cooking such favorites as Macaroni and Cheese since it melts more easily. It takes only a very little effort to cut, slice or shred your own cheese, and you will save money by doing it.

Safeway's cheese selection is one of the most varied, ranging from near-legendary imported cheeses to the finest domestic types. The U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs recommends that you include cheese dishes on your menus often. You'll be serving delicious food and fighting inflation at the same time.

Research in progress on trees in Pennsylvania

Wertz spends his free time searching for the gnarled survivors of William Penn's woods, which if not the state of Pennsylvania's family trees, certain-

He and 10 volunteers want to list for posterity the oldest trees in the region, it is hoped by the middle of next year, "in time to publish a book for the tricentennial of Penn's landing here in 1682.

"After all," adds the gray-haired .. Wertz, "there's already a 300th-aniversary committee zeroing in on cul-tural events. I felt this tree business was equally important.

The little group calls itself the Penn

Tree Committee. It includes retired foresters, and two former superintendents of Valley Forge Park.

Wertz, 67, has been fascinated by trees most of his life. A.retired mathematics teacher, he owns a 150-acre & tree farm in Mifflin County.

In their spare time, members of the little committee, outfitted with camera, map and measuring tape, scour the back roads and major highways in search of the old trees.

They also carry a little book. "Penn's Woods," published in 1933 and written by Edward E. Wildman, which catalogued about 300 trees that were growing when Penn stepped

The well-known Drinker Oak, for instance, today is precariously perched at the entrance of a store near Route 202 in King of Prussia. The giant tree was already a century old when the commonwealth was founded, and served as a landmark for Washington's Army en route to Valley

And the white oak in Emil Prosen's yard in Bala-Cynwyd, just outside Philadelphia, was a sturdy sapling when the Pilgrims landed in 1620.

Many are now crowded by civiliza- still living, plus 56 trees that Wildman did not identify but that are believed to be at least 300 years old.

Most of the Penn trees are oaks, according to Wertz, because they live longer than other trees, 400 to 600 years, and survive in poorer soil. Finding the trees is one problem. judging their age is another.

'You can't tell for sure how old a tree is unless you cut it down and count the annual rings," says Wertz. So the committee must rely on a practiced eve.

Most of the ancient trees are being found in the four suburban counties surrounding Philadelphia. The city had found 84 of Wildman's Penn trees itself had 24 Penn trees in 1932.

Hitler's drug use led to instability; May have shortened World War II

amphetamines caused Adolf Hitler's mental instability and could have helped shorten World War II, a University of Minnesota psychiatrist says. .

Dr. Leonard Heston, who began his research in 1972, said Hitler's left hand began to shake shortly after the United States entered the war. In the ensuing months, the tremor spread to all his limbs and he began to chew on his fingers.

As his armies on the Russian front began to fold, Hitler grew optimistic, even euphoric. He had bouts of depression, but his spirits soared after visits to his personal physician, Heston says.

Syphilis of the brain, Parkinson's disease, schizophrenia and manic-depressive disease have been suggested as causes for Hitler's symptoms.

But Heston discovered in microfilmed medical records that Hitler took large daily doses of amphetamines, commonly referred to as speed. Heston believes the drug produced mental aberrations that caused Hitler to ignore his generals and make tactical errors.

Heston's research began when he read a book by Albert Speer, Hitler's minister for industry and armaments, and was fascinated by Speer's description of changes in Hitler during the early 1940s.

Heston first began looking for neurological illness, but Hitler's symptoms failed to match those of mental illnesses and were often inconsistent with his personal history

The first real breakthrough for Heston came in Washington, D.C., in 1974 when he found microfilm copies of Morell's records in the National Archives.

After studying the records, Heston developed his reaction to amphetamines. Then he went to Germany, where he interviewed Speer and others who Syphilis, Parkinson's disease, schizophrenia and manic-depressive disease were rejected as diagnoses based on medical records and interviews.

Hitler's relationship with Morell, described as a "near-quack," by Heston, began in the late 1930s, when Hitler suffered from colic.

Morell treated Hitler with a drug made from the bacteria of pheasant excrement. Heston said the medicine appeared to work because Hitler probably had gallbladder disease, in which pain comes and

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Large daily doses of. Morell kept his patient away from other physicians who likely would have recommended surgery to end the gallbladder pain permanently. Heston said Morell probably introduced Hitler to amphetamines, which were just coming onto the market. Hitler liked them, Heston said, because "he always wanted to be at what he considered his mental peak, and he believed that the drugs kept him that way.

Symptoms of a toxic reaction began appearing in 1942, Heston said. As time went on, there was further deterioration which Heston said were similar to toxic effects of chronic overuse of amphetamines.

MIAMI (AP) - A 12-year-old boy, known as "Little Shorty" to his friends in sixth grade, has been. sentenced to 25 years in prison for murder, robbery Erwin Hunter pleaded no contest Wednesday to second-degree murder. He was the youngest of five youths charged with fatally beating an 85-year-old man while burglarizing his home in February. A 13-year-old co-defendant, Eve Postell, was sentenced last week to 114 years in prison. Prosecutors charged that she was the ringleader in the murder of Ralph Germano, who died of a crushed skull more than a month after the Feb. 7 beating.

"Do you understand that you are pleading guilty but do not want to confess your guilt, do not want to sent a defense, and do not want to go to trial? asked Hunter before accepting the plea. 'Yes, sir," the boy answered.

Hunter will be eligible for parole after one year. Two other co-defendants pleaded guilty in the case. Madeline Akins, 15, was sentenced to 30 years for second-degree murder. Anthony DeLoach, 17, was sentenced to life in prison after pleading guilty to first-degree murder. A fifth defendant, Crawford Grooms, 15; is to go on trial in two weeks. He is charged with first-degree

The product of their efforts was the thousands of well-disciplined demonstrators who turned out at the Electric Boat shipyard in Groton in April to protest the christening of the Navy's first Trident-armed submarine. The largest nuclearweapons protest in New England history, it was a far cry from a 1960 demonstration when handfuls of people in tiny boats on the Thames River tried to board the Polaris submarines to protest the nuclear arms race.

The farm residents were most active during the height of the Vietnam War, spending their time working against the war with teach-ins, vigils and marches.

During that time the farm was often the target of violence - the farmhouse was ransacked in 1965, the historic barn burned a year later and in 1968 the farm was the scene of a shootout between police and a right-wing group.

Some farm residents were frightened away by the violence and more left as the Vietnam War wound down. By 1974 only Bruce Martin and

Some producers will like new guide, but not all

WASHINGTON (AP) - A nutrition guide which a consumer advocacy group says will help people eat better includes recommendations that should please farmers who produce grain, most fruits and vegetables, and

But cattle feeders who turn out choice beef, dairy farmers, hog raisers and sugar producers might be a little upset.

The guide is in the form of a colorful and simple poster designed by the Center for Science in the Public Interest, which said Wednesday can show "how to eat well and stay well."

Patricia Hausman, the center staff nutritionist who developed the poster, said it was designed "to incorporate the current concerns about fat, cholesterol, sugar and salt" into four basic food groups that have been in use for many years.

The groups are: beans, grains and nuts; fruits and vegetables; milk products; and poultry, fish, egg and meat products. Foods in each group then are divided into those which the center says can be eaten "Anytime," "In Moderation " and "Now and Then."

The "Anytime" foods were said to be low in fats, cholesterol, salt and added sugar. The "Now and Then" items are those generally considered high in saturated fat, sugar, salt or cholesterol.

Foods in the "In Moderation" group were said to have "moderate levels" of those elements.

According to the poster, foods that ean be eaten anytime at meals include: whole grain bread and rolls, bulgur, dried beans and peas, lentils, oatmeaf, whole wheat pasta, brown rice, rye bread, sprouts, whole grain hot cereals and whole wheat matzoh.

The anytime foods also include most fruits and vegetables, unsweetened applesauce, unsweetened fruit juices, unsalted vegetable juices and

Dairy products listed for anytime include low-fat and skim milk and similar yogurts; cheeses and cottage

But the anytime listing for thefourth food group - poultry, fish, meat and eggs - does not include a single red meat item.

"The government apparently believed that the Sioux' needs for the rations the government had been supplying them would prevent the Indians from making trouble," the court said. As Custer found out, the government underestimated the

Shortly after Custer's defeat, Congress enacted a law that ordered a cutoff of the reservations' food supply unless the Black Hills portion was ceded to the United States.

The tribal chiefs gave in, but couldn't win approval from their followers. So, on Feb. 28, 1877, Congress passed a law stripping the lack Hills

Senators voted 52-43 Wednesday against permitting completion of the costly dam and reservoir project, unfinished and idle because of court rulings it threatens the tiny snail darter with extinction.

The vote came as the Senate approved legislation extending the life of Endangered Species Act for three years and calling for $84 million for programs to protect endangered plant and animal species. A similar bill is pending in the House.

WASHINGTON (AP) - No matter and other controversial projects, Congress last year created a seven-member commission to grant exemptions under the law. The act prohibits work on any federal project that threatens an endangered species

> But the commission voted unanimously against exempting the project, which prompted Sen. Howard Baker to tell the Senate on Wednesday, "I flat made a mistake" by not pushing for an exemption for Tellico last year.

"What I'm trying to do is what that committee should have done," said Baker, the Senate Republican leader who also represents the state where the unfinished dam is located.

Baker was supported by Democratic Sen. James Sasser, also of Tennessee, who noted that $116 million in federal funds has already been spent on the project.

Sasser also said scientists have successfully transplanted the snail darter to a river that would be unaffected by the dam, an indication the snail darter does not face extinction if the floodgates of the structure were

Town officials to hold meeting on rabies scare

EAGLE PASS, Texas (AP) - Officials have called a town meeting tonight to dramatize the seriousness of a rabies problem that has caused 80 persons to take a 21-shot series of shots in Eagle Pass and its sister border city of Piedras Negras, Mexico.

Among them is an 8-year-old boy, lying semiconscious and "in very serious condition" in a San Antonio hospital. The boy, Gerardo Castano, has the symptoms of rabies, although he still has not been confirmed as having the disease.

Doctors put him on an artificial respirator to help him breathe. Word was expected today or Friday from the National Center for Disease Control in Atlanta on blood tests that would determine if the boy has rabies, which is almost always fatal.

Officials called tonight's meeting because, they said, some people in town were taking the rabies problem lightly

At least three persons were bitten by dogs that could not be found later and rejected doctors' suggestions they take the anti-rabies series of shots, officials said

The anti-rabies shots began after dogs that bit residents of Eagle Pass and Piedras Negras were confirmed as being rabid. Several others began receiving the shots after they were bitten by dogs, but the dogs could not be caught to determine if they have the disease.

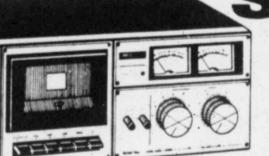

Officials on both sides of the Rio Grande continued to round up stray dogs and destroy those displaying unusual behavior

Officials continued to press their search for a Piedras Negras man bitten by a dog that has been confirmed as having rabies. They said he apparently was unaware of the seriousness of his plight

A spokesman at the San Antonio's Santa Rosa Medical Center said Castano's symptoms "presented a clinical picture suggestive of rabies," including "cramps, difficulty in breathing, difficulty in swallowing, confusion and disorientation.

GRANGEVILLE, Idaho (AP) -Rough water in the narrow, highbanked Selway River Canyon hampered efforts to find the remaing bodies and wreckage still missing from the U.S. Forest Service's DC-3 that crashed in the rugged area Mon-

Nez Perce National Forest spokesman Steve Waterman said three bodies were found in the river near Ballinger Creek, about two miles downstream from where the plane plunged into the river after catching fire and losing an engine. The other two bodies were found in Tepee Creek five miles below the crash sit. Helicopters, from which the bodies were spotted Wednesday, were to be used again today, flying close to the water in the dangerous, twisting can-

"The river is 2,000 feet (above sea level) and the rim is 7,000 feet (above sea level). You have to be careful about maneuvering. It's pretty tricky. You have to know what you're doing," Waterman said. Some of the wreckage is partially submerged and lodged in rocks near Wolf Creek Rapids, but the river is too treacherous there for the wreckage to be approached. "It's shifting, too," Waterman said.

This Is Midland:

'The Missouri-Pacific Railroad was until recently known as the Texas & Pacific Railway. The first line was built through Midland in 1881, when the location was known as Midway because it was halfway between Fort Worth and El Paso. Midland grew as a ranching town, and streets such as Terrell, Dallas, Baird, Big Spring, Pecos and others were named for towns along the T&P route. The trains carried passengers between Marshall and El Paso until about 1960, when it was decided the line would be used only for freight. (Staff Photo by Brian Hender-

Colorado River water use down

BIG SPRING — Water use by member cities of the sheet indicated. Colorado River Municipal Water District continued to decline during the month of May, but at a slower rate than last year, according to information released by the CRMWD.

Water use was down 95 million gallons to 1.6 billion gallons, a decline of about 5 percent.

Meanwhile, water use by member cities so far this year is hovering about 11 percent below the same five months last year.

CRMWD officials are projecting that water use and revenues - will climb during the month of

About 1.3 billion gallons of water was used by five cities last month, a 2 percent drop over the same month one year ago. Oil companies, meanwhile, consumed 284 million gallons, down more than 14 percent over May 1978. Municipal deliveries for the first five months are down 8 percent to 4.9 billion gallons of water, the fact

Deliveries to West Texas cities during May include Odessa, 595 million gallons, up 4 percent; Big Spring, 225 million gallons, down 13.8 percent, Snyder, 80 million gallons, down 9 percent; Stanton, 12 million gallons, down 7.6 percent; Midland, 397 million gallons, down 2 percent.

Neither Robert Lee nor San Angelo took any deliveries during May.

Norris wrecks Norris' diamond

By The Associated Press

Not only aren't Mike Norris and Jim Norris related, it probably would be best not to invite them to the same party for a while.

They were in the same ballpark Wednesday night, which proved to be bad news for Mike Norris. The 24year-old Oakland right-hander was six outs away from a no-hitter and had a 4-0 lead when Cleveland pinchhitter Jim Norris broke up his gem, a diamond in the rough as it turned out, with a leadoff triple in the eighth.

Before the inning was over, the Indians had exploded for six runs, highlighted by Andre Thornton's three-run homer, and beat the A's'

Red Sox 11, Royals 3

Larry Wolfe hit two solo home runs, Dwight Evans added another and rookie Gary Allenson walloped his first major league grand slam to who had only three previous career homers, hit his first leading off the third inning and added another following Evans' solo shot in the fourth. Allenson's grand slam highlighted a five-run ninth. The Red Sox took the lead for good on Jim Rice's two-run single in the third inning

Twins 8, Yankees 7

Rookie Dave Edwards slammed a tie-breaking two-run homer in the seventh inning as Minnesota rallied from a 6-2 deficit on home runs by New York's Willie Randolph, Chris Chambliss and Jim Spencer. Edwards; blast, his first of the year, came off Ray Burris, who relieved starter Jim Beattie in the fifth.

'This is the first time we've treated a big crowd at home decently," said Manager Gene Mauch, "You could 'tell that they want to get excited

Blue Jays 9-2, Angels 8-10

Willie Aikens belted his first career grand slam to power the Angels' victory in the nightcap. Rick Cerone doubled home the winning run in the eighth inning of the opener after the Blue Jays blew a 7-0 lead. California's Brian Downing, who drove in four runs in the opener, added three more in the nightcap as the Angels scored six runs in the third inning before a man was retired. They rallied for seven runs in the seventh inning of the opener to erase an 8-1 deficit.

Brewers 5, Rangers 4 Sal Bando crashed a tie-breaking homer in the eighth inning as Milwaukee beat old nemesis Ferguson Jenkins. It was Milwaukee's first victory over Jenkins since Aug. 14, 1974, although he still holds a 10-3 lifetime record against the Brewers.

Tigers 7, Mariners 3 Ron LeFlore's bases-loaded triple keyed a five-run Detroit uprising in the fourth inning. Champ Summers drove in two Detroit runs with a single and a homer. It was the Tigers' second triumph in as many games under acting Manager Dick Tracewski, the team's third base coach. Sparky Anderson will take over Thursday night replacing Les Moss, who was fired on

"This is fun, this is great fun," said Tracewski.

The other Niekro keeps on rolling

By The Associated Press

He used to be the other Niekro, but not anymore.

Joe Niekro is emerging from the shadow of his older brother, Phil, and at 34 seems to be approaching the prime of his pitching life

Niekro posted his ninth consecutive victory and became the first 10-game winner in the National League Wednesday night as the Houston Astros edged the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3.

"I'm just being consistent, throwing strikes not only with the knuckler but with my other pitches - the slider and the fast ball," said Niekro, who has lost just twice. "It feels good to be on a first-place club, a team that as been scoring early for me and playing great behind me.

The Astros lead the National League West with a 37-27 record. The latest they have ever been in first place is June 24.

Cesar Cedeno drove in three runs for the Astros and Art Howe slugged his third home run of the season, giving Niekro all the support he needed to set a team record for consecutive triumphs. The late Don Wilson had won eight in a row

(NL boxes on Page 4-C) Joe Niekro is 10-2 with a 2.43 earned run average. His 40-year-old brother. Phil, is 7-9 with a 4.51 ERA for the Atlanta Braves. Joe, who learned to throw the knuckler from his brother about five years ago and credits that pitch with keeping him in the major leagues, says Phil still has the best knuckler in baseball - but that he has a better slider and fastball. Niekro said he threw about 75 percent knucklers Wednesday night, when he gave up nine hits, struck out seven and walked

Dodgers 9, Cards 8

Dave Lopes slugged his 18th home run, singled and drove in three runs as Los Angeles knocked St. Louis out of first place in the NL East. The Cards trail Montreal by one-half Rick Sutcliffe, 7-4, got the victory It was his sixth in eight decisions since moving into the starting rotation in early May and he is 6-0 at Dodger Stadium.

'The Cards threatened with a sevenrun rally in the ninth inning, including a grand slam home run by Tony Scott and a two-run single by Garry Templeton, but Dodgers reliever Terry Forster struck out Lou Brock to preserve the victory

Reds 4, Mets 1 Mike LaCoss, 8-0, limited the Mets to one hit in five innings before leaving the game because of a sore elbow. Tom Hume worked the last four innings and also allowed just one hit.

"It all stems from confidence," said LaCoss, who was 4-8 with the Reds last year after coming up from the minors. "Last year. I didn't feel I could go out and dominate a game. This year I feel I can."

Junior Kennedy had a two-run single for the Reds and Vic Correll and George Foster had RBI singles.

Cubs 3, Giants 2 Steve Dillard's bases-loaded infield single in the 10th inning drove in the winning run for the Cubs and took the glitter away from the return of San Francisco starter John Montefusco, who came off the disabled list and pitched five strong innings, leaving the game with a 2-1 lead.

The Cubs tied the score in the eighth on three straight singles off reliever Gary Lavelle, then won it in the 10th against Randy Moffitt, 1-5.

Padres 3, Pirates 2 Fernando Gonzalez smacked a tworun homer and Bob Owchinko combined with Rollie Fingers on a sevenhitter as the Padres edged the Pirates. Gonzalez also had three singles, the first time a San Diego player has had four hits in a game this

Guidry sidelined at least 10 days

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) -Ron Guidry was to return to New York City today but it will be at least 10 days before he can return to his pitching chores for the New York

Guidry spent two nights in Fairview Southdale Hospital in Edina, Minn., where he was examined by Dr. Harvey O'Phelan, the Minnesota Twins' team physician. Dr. O'Phelan said Guidry, last year's American League Cy Young Award winner, suffered a strain and a possible pull of the muscle fibers in the mid-portion of his back, near the spine.

X-rays revealed no break and an electrocardiogram was taken and showed no damage.

The left-hander, who posted a 25-3 record last year, was apparently inured when he fielded Ken Landreaux' grounder and threw the Minnesota player out at first in Tuesday night's game. On the next pitch to Dave Edwards, Guidry slumped at the waist with his hands at his back.

After Yankee Manager Bob Lemon went to the mound, Guidry retired Edwards on a tapper back to the mound for the final out of the seventh

"He said he was all right at the mound, but when he got to the dugoutat the end of the inning he said he was in pain," Lemon said.

After the Yankees snapped a 1-1 tie to defeat the Twins 4-1, the players were shaken when Guidry was wheeled out of the training room on a stretcher, his neck in a brace and his eyes closed. He was taken immediately to the hospital.

Gene Monahan, Yankee trainer, said Guidry was sedated because of the severe pain and that the neck brace is routine in all back injuries or suspected back injuries.

"You've got to treat it like it's a back injury and completely immobilize it," Monahan said. "Mainly, it's to keep him from moving around to avoid further injury and to ease the

Boston goes to market

KANSAS CITY (AP) - Two hours before game time, Red Sox first baseman George "Boomer" Scott and Kansas City outfielder Tom Poquette swapped uniforms after another trade that brought Bob Watson from the Houston Astros to Boston.

The Red Sox clinched Wednesday night's deal before wrapping up a three-game series in Kansas City with a whopping 11-3 victory.

"It's the best thing," said Scott, who had issued a play-me-or-trademe edict when he was benched last month by Manager Don Zimmer after going hitless in 25 at-bats. "Things got to the point where I really wanted to

'I'm going to a great club, and I think I'll fit in right away... I thank the Red Sox for sending me to a contender and to a place where I'm going to play. It could have been Oakland or Cleveland, you know.

Since May 25, Scott had one hit and three walks in four pinch hitting appearances. The slick-fielding, 35year-old first baseman was hitting 224 with four home runs and 23 RBI in Poquette, 27, was hitting .192 in 21 games this year. His best season was his first full campaign with Kansas City, in 1976, when he hit .302. He batted .292 in 1977 but the lefthanded hitter fell to .216 last year in 80 Watson will join the club today in Chicago, and Zimmer said he may play him at first and rest Carl Yastrzemski Saturday and Sunday against

and Rich Wortham.

The addition of two players to the Red Sox roster, coupled with the departure of Scott, left the team one over the 25-man limit, indicating at least another move will be made by General Manager Haywood Sullivan.

Scott in his 14th season, has a lifetime average of .269 with 269 homers and 1025 RBI. The three-time AL allstar led the league with 109 RBI in 1975 with the Milwaukee Brewers and tied for the American League home run title with 36 round trippers.

was traded to Milwaukee in a multiplayer swap in 1972. After the 1976 season, Scott was reacquired by Boston from Milwaukee. The fast-talking Scott slumped to 233 last year after hitting .269 in 1977.

He broke in with Boston in 1966 and

He shed considerable weight last winter and appeared ready for a big season but slumped after a fast start. Scott balked at the benching and at one point declined to go into a game in the late innings after Boston had taken a big lead. "I'm flattered," Watson said in a telephone interview. "If those people up there think I can play with (Fred) Lynn, Yastrzemski, (Jim) Rice and (Carlton) Fisk, a lineup like that, then it makes me feel very good. That's what I've said from the beginning. I gave my permission at the end of last season to the Astros to trade me to

Watson was acquired for minor league right-hander Peter Ladd, a player to be named later and an unspecified amount of cash. The 33-year-old right-handed power hitter has a lifetime average of .299 in 10 major league seasons, all with Houston, and was hittin .239 in 49 games this season with three home runs and 18 RBI. He has 136 career homers and

Watson, who plays first base and outfield, was a member of the National League All-Star team in 1973 and 1975. He will join Boston during the Red Sox off-day today and be available when Boston opens a series Friday in Chicago.

Ladd, a Portland, Maine, native in his third season with the Red Sox organization, is 3-1 in 18 games - all in relief - with nine saves and an 0.63 earned run average with Bristol in the Eastern League.

Vikings obtain Latin for punt return punch

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - The Minnesota Vikings, short on kickoff returns for years, acquired running back Jerry Latin from the Los Angeles Rams Wednesday for that pur-

Latin, 25, was obtained for a ninthround draft choice and was required to pass a physical exam before the deal was finalized.

"When we were first interested in him last year, we were interested in him solely as a running back," said Vikings' General Manager Mike Lynn of the attempts to get Latin when he became a free agent last season.

Watson leaves mixed emotions

HOUSTON (AP) - Bob Watson, the Houston Astros first baseman and benchwarmer in recent weeks who had asked to be traded, is on his way to Boston with some mixed emo-

"This has been a difficult time for me the last three weeks, and really the past seven or eight months," Watson said Wednesday. "A lot of things are bubbling around right now. It's hard to express my feelings.

Watson, a 10-year veteran who played in the 1973 and 1975 All-Star games, was traded to the Red Sox for right-handed relief pitcher Peter Ladd, another player to be named later and an undisclosed amount of innings for Bristol, an AA club in the Eastern League, will play for the Astros' AA team at Columbus.

Ladd, who had a 0.38 ERA in 24

Watson, 33, said he was hurt when Manager Bill Virdon benched him in a move that put Cesar Cedeno at first so Jeff Leonard could be inserted into the outfield to take advantage of his hot bat. Watson, who has a .299 career average, was hitting only .239 at the time with three home runs and 18 RBI

Virdon said Watson was traded partly because "he wasn't producing power. If he had been driving in runs, it might have never happened."

Watson, who holds the Astros records for career hits and runs batted in, said he was glad that he didn't speak out during his stay in the dug-

"That's human nature to say something when the things that happened weren't totally fair," he said. "I came close to saying things, but I'm glad I

"Negative statements by the senior player wouldn't have done any good," he said. "I have a lot of good memories and a lot of bad ones. But the fans and the club have been tremendous to me over the years.

Cedeno, who now is the only player besides pitcher Ken Forsch who has played for the Astros since 1970, said he thought the club could win the pennant without Watson, who was known as the club's power

It didn't take long for George Scott, left, and Tom Poquette, right, to change uniforms after Boston and Kansas City completed a trade Wednesday.

Boston also acquired Bob Watson from Houston in a heavy day of trading. (AP Laserphoto)

Gullikson is net worry

LONDON (AP) — Tom Gullikson is a tennis puzzle. In a little more than a year, he has beaten Jimmy Connors, Bjorn Borg and Vitas Gerulaitis. Yet he's ranked as the world's No. 56th player by the computer.

"I don't winthe big ones," said the left-handed Gullikson twin after his latest upset victory, 6-2, 6-3 over Gerulaitis in the $15,000 Stela Artois tournament on the grass courts of London's Queen's Club.

This is one of the warm-up tournaments before Wimbledon, which begins a week from Monday. But Gullikson said he had not even begun to think about Wimbledon.

"I'm just looking forward to the next round at Queen's," he said.

"My goals for this year? Well, every player wants to do well at Wimbledon, of course. But what I most want to do is win a couple of Grand Prix tournaments and improve my computer ranking. I'm trying to catch up with my little brother (Tim), who is No. 15.

the damp surface handicapped Gerulaitis more than most players.

"He runs about the court a lot, and he can't do that when it's as slippery as this," Gullikson said. "Take his speed away from him, and a large part of his game is gone." If the Gullikson twin can spring an upset like this at Queen's, anything can happen at Wimbledon.

Dirt dumping nails Slick

BELLEVUE, Wash. (AP) - Former Seattle SuperSonic Slick Watts has been charged with illegally dumping dirt, many large truckloads of dirt, to cover a low, muddy spot in the yard of his Bellevue

The misdemeanor complaint was filed by Bellevue Prosecutor Brian Gain. A summons issued Wednesday orders Watts to appear in district court at 9 a.m.

June 22 to answer the complaint. Watts, traded last year to the New Orleans Jazz and then to the the Houston Rockets of the National Basektball Association, says he needs the fill to give his sons a safe, clean place to play. But a neighbor, Dr. Howard Wilson, says the fill will likely cause his property to flood because Watts' property is downhill of his and might interrupt the water flow. Wilson contaced city officials last summer when Watts' dumpig first began. Watts reportedly was told he needed a permit to dump.

The National AAU meet now is here. It begins a three-day run Friday at Mount San Antonio College's ·lightning fast track.

"That's the meet that means the most," said Nehemiah, who twice this season has broken the world record in California — first with a time of 13.16 in the Bruce Jenner Classic April 14 at San Jose, then with a 13.00 clocking in the UCLA Invitational May 6 at Los Angeles.

The AAU Championships "means the most" bemiah has accomplished this year seems astounding, cause they serve as the basis for the United States track and field teams in the Pan American Games at San Juan Puerto Rico next month, the World Cup competition at Montreal in August, the World Uni-"Just wait until the AAU meet," the world's versity games at Mexico City in September and

The competition — and the importance of the race is expected to be keener in Saturday's final. Among those likely to be lining up against the strong Terrapins' speedster are Foster, Dedy Cooper of the Bay Area Striders and Olympian Charles Foster of the Philadelphia Pioneer Club.

"I need somebody to run along side me, somebody to push me," said Nehemiah, who also this year has run a 12.8 — the swiftest hand-timed race in history, but also ineligible for world recognition. Only electronically timed events below 400 meters can be submitted to the International Amateur Athletic Federation, the governing body of track and field, for world consideration.

Trevino dislikes long pro tour

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) - Lee Trevino insists the men's professional golf tour, stretched over a current 45 weeks annually, is too long. And the 39-year-old veteran, part of the U.S. Open field that teed off today at Inverness Club, has his own solution.

"The only way is to split the tour into East and West Coast. Have 25 tournaments for each, with everybody having to play in 20 of them, with $200,000 purses.

"That way television would be competitive. There's nothing wrong with showing two tournaments at once. Tennis and football do it. Then you'd bring the top players from tours together. The World Series of Golf would mean something.

"A player would play 20 tournaments on the West Coast in 1980 and then play 20 on the East Coast in 1981. The only time we'd all come together would be the majors," Trevino said.

Trevino, the 1968 and 1971 Open champion, contends his idea would* work better than the major-minor tour concept currently under study by PGA Commissioner Deane Beaman.

"Toledo, Detroit, Seattle, Portland, Denver, Chicago, Las Vegas want tournaments," Trevino said. 'There's are tremendous cities that want to be part of the tour.

"'I've talked with Mr. Beman about it. He says, 'That would make my job easier with sponsors.""

Trevino sees other benefits to his abbreviated tour proposal.

"We wouldn't conflict with football. And they're trying to get a World Tour going. This would relieve the players in the fall, when it's winter here and summer in Australia," he Trevino also pondered the question: Who are the top five candidates to win the U.S. Open, the first of four annual major tournaments.

He stood beside his locker and thought.

goals for next season tional Basketball Association general managers and coaches voted over-

Jerry Colangelo of the Phoenix Suns, chairman of the general managers' group, said the GMs were persuaded to vote for the 3-point plan because the "former ABA people said it would add excitement to the game. If you can add excitement, then that is a plus.

However, Jack Ramsay of the Portland Trail Blazers, president of the coaches association, said the ABA coaches indicated the 3-point basket opened up the game, got rid of the congestion in the basket area. ## Former WHA teams take hard first steps

MONTREAL (AP) - The four teams the World Hockey Association bequeathed to the National Hockey League have taken their first steps. They have drafted NHL players, made NHL trades and one team even has stood up to a confrontation with one of the established clubs.

All that remains is the finalization next week of the expansion agreement that would make official everything that happened here Wednes-

The Winnipeg Jets, Hartford Whalers, Edmonton Oilers and Quebec Nordiques padded their rosters by picking a total of 65 players from the 17 clubs they are joining. The Jets added depth on the flanks, making wings 11 of their 15 choices. The Oilers went for defensemen, taking seven while the Oilers and Nordiques took

They came away with a sense of belonging, as the Jets proved when General Manager John Ferguson followed through on his plan to claim left wing Bobby Hull from Chicago's list. The move would force the Black Hawks to trade for Hull if they want him to help draw the crowds back to their home games.

"He wants to play in Chicago. I know that because he has been there four or five times to talk with their management," Ferguson said. "But I'm not going to to let him play in Chicago if I'm going to be getting the short end of the stick in a trade.

The 40-year-old Hull, who retired last November, played the first 15 seasons of his spectacular career in Chicago, scoring 604 goals before leaving in 1972 and becoming the first name player to sign with the WHA.

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Rubella dangers

Dear Dr. Solomon: I was married recently and plan to start a family in the near future. Since I already am in my mid-20's, are rubella shots necessary for me?— Mrs. N.Z.

Dear Mrs. Z .: It is generally advisable for women of childbearing age to be immunized against rubella (sometimes referred to as German measles or threeday measles). This is especially important if they have occasion to be near children who are at risk of getting the disease-such as at schools, hospitals or day-care centers. I assume the reason for your question is that you are aware that the fetus may be damaged if a woman contracts rubella during the first trimester of pregnancy. I suggest you discuss im munization with your physician.

The Center for Disease Control reports that last year more than 70 percent of rubella cases occurred among persons 15 years of age and older. Horeover, there have been outbreaks of rubella in high schools, colleges, military installations and various places of employment. Age, alone, is no guarantee against contracting the disease.

It is possible that you already have been exposed to rubella without realizing it. If so, a blood test will reveal if you have antibodies which would protect you against the disease. You should also be aware that a fetus might be in danger if you were to become pregnant within two or three months after receiving rubella vaccine.

Some states require a rubella test along with other premarital blood tests. While the law does not insist that a woman be immunized if she lacks this protection, she at least is informed of the fact, and it is hoped she will be motivated to get the vaccine out of concern for any children she may plan to have.

Dear Dr. Solomon: While I was pregnant, I severely limited my intake of alcohol. Although I am only a social drinker, I wonder if I can indulge a little more freely now that I have given birth .- Mrs. S.A. Dear Mrs. A .: The answer to your question depends on whether you breast-feed your baby. If you do, anything more than an occasional drink may affect your milk and prove harmful to your child. Dear Dr. Solomon: I have severe rheumatoid arthritis with severe arthritic joint pains. I have heard of a new technique called LR. What do you know about it? - Mrs. F P

Dear Mrs. F.P.: There is an experimental technique with LR (laser radiation) which may help in rheumatoid arthritis. The infrared radiation supplied by laser beams may initiate reactions within arthritic joints that may halt or reverse inflammatory process. Some doctors believe the technique has little to offer other than physical therapy. If you have tried the conventional treatment and not been helped, I would ask your doctor about the possible use of laser radiation.

Model airplane competition slated

Precision aerobatic competition and flying demonstrations of replicas of full-size airplanes are on the agenda when the High Sky Radio Control Model Airplane contest is held this weekend at the club field four miles south of I-20 off the Rankin High-

Flying will be conducted between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. Sunday. There is no admission charge, said Al Beatty, contest director.

About 50 contestants from as far as Denver, Colo. are expected to attend.

The aerobatic competition is divided into five levels of difficulty, ranging from flyers barely able to take off to world championship level maneuvers. Each flight will be scored on its precision, placement, smoothness and accuracy of the maneuvers. The flyer's best three rounds will be added to determine the winner in each class.

In the scale competition, planes will be judged on their accuracy with respect to duplicating the fullscale plane, paint scheme, markings and craftsmanship. Then they will be judged on their ability to duplicate the flight appearance and characteristics of the prototype.

All models are controlled by miniaturized radio receivers in the planes, activitated by a small transmitter which is operated by a pilot on the ground. These models can duplicate all maneuvers of full-scale planes, including retracting landing gear, flaps, engine speed control and simulating

The models will range from three to eight feet and weigh from 5 to 12 pounds. The planes can fly at speeds up to 100 mph during the aerobatic phase of

French map plans

PARIS (AP) - A French team that studied America's Three Mile Island nuclear accident has recommended special press centers be set up in case France suffers a similar crisis

A report published Tuesday said one of the major problems the group found was lack of communications between authorities and the public

"The profusion of sources, the confusion caused by sometimes contradictory information, would have certainly caused panie" if the U.S. government had not appointed a press spokesman, it said.

It also suggested the government compile a dictionary of nuclear terms for distribution in case of an accident at any of France's 47 reactors.

Carter, Kennedy health programs

WASHINGTON (AP) - Here is a comparison of the separate health care plans offered by President Carter and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

BASIC BENEFITS: Under Carter's plan, the poor, including those now eligible for Medicaid, and an additional 14.5 million people below the poverty line would be given all "medically necessary" care at public expense. .

The elderly would continue to receive Medicare benefits under Carter's HealthCare, but the total cost to any elderly beneficiary would be limited to $1,250 in any single year, whereas Medicare benefits now tamper off as expenses increase.

Pregnant women and infants up to the age of 1 year would be guaranteed free care.

Purchasers of private insurance and group health plans could negotiate their own benefit package, but no family would be required to pay more than $2,500 for health care in any one year. Children of privately insured families would be covered through their 22nd birthday and through age 26 if they remain dependants on their parents or are full-time students.

Kennedy's plan would cover everyone, regardless of income or age. It would provide full coverage of inpatient hospital services, physicians's fees, X-rays and lab tests. Cosmetic surgery and dental work would be excluded.

Medicare would be upgraded for the elderly and would also cover prescription drugs. Kennedy's plan would do away with the title Medicaid and wrap the expanded benefits into the overall national health insurance plan. .

EFFECTIVE DATES: Carter's is 1983; Kennedy's plan would begin benefits in the third year after

COST: The Carter plan would add $18.2 billion to the $45 billion taxpayers now spend for Medicare and Medicaid. It would require employers and employees to add about $6.1 billion to the $42.6 billion they now pay for private health insurance. These figures are based on the 1980 value of the dollar and population estimates. Kennedy says total spending for services covered in his plan would be $211.4 billion in 1983. Carter says his plan would add $23 billion to $25 billion in 1983 to the nation's health care costs, expected to total $206 billion this year.

HOSPITAL AND DOCTOR FEES: The Carter plan presumes enactment of the administration's hospital cost containment proposal, which would put a cap on the amount the government and private insurers pay hospitals for their services. The plan also would limit new hospital construction to $3 billion a year.

Kennedy's bill would impose strict cost controls on hospitals and all physicans' fees.

The Carter plan would set specific limits on the fees doctors could charge for specific services provided to HealthCare patients. No such cap would apply to the fees charged privately insured patients or those who pay their own bills.

ADMINISTRATION: The federal government would take over Medicaid programs for the poor and combine them with Medicare into a new, federally run program that would operate much like Medicare does today. Private insurance companies could compete for the business of processing claims for HealthCare beneficiaries. Private insurance companies also would have to be certified by the government to compete for group insurance business pur chased by employers and employees.

Under Kennedy's proposal, most Americans would be insured by a private firm that would be certified and regulated by the federal government. The insurer must be a member of a consortium of insurance companies, Blue Cross-Blue Shield plans, independent practice associations, or a health maintenance organization.

In Kennedy's plan, employers would pay a premium related to total wages. An employee's share could be up to 35 percent of premium costs but that amount could be re-negotiated in labor-union talks.

Woman farmer plows her land with horses

DARFUR, Minn. (AP) - In these days of $50,000 tractors and $2,000-an-acre farmland, Mamie Hanson lives without electricity, running water or a telephone and plows her fields with a team of

Miss Hanson hand picks 40 acres of corn and, at age 75, uses a handsaw to cut wood to heat her home and fuel her stove. When she needs provisions, she harnesses the team of horses to a wagon and drives

There's a car on the farm, a 1936 Plymouth, but its roof and upholstery are gone, and the wheels stand in mud partway up the wooden spokes. A recluse, she belongs to no organization and doesn't socialize. But she's not lonely, Miss Hanson

"I was once, but I'm so used to it," she says. "It don't bother you. There's lots that live alone.' Mamie Hanson farms and lives the way people did

100 years ago Caring for her horses and pigs means hauling water from a pump and carrying pitchforks of hay from a stack nearly a block away from her barn. Rusted milk cans, swaybacked sheds, delapidated farm implements and the crumbled stone foundations of vanished buildings give the south-central Minnesota farmyard a look of desolation. Miss Hanson, whose hardiness and strength have made her a local legend, has lived on the farm since she was a girl of 10. Mamie has been alone since a sister, Clara, died several years ago. Neighbors are protective of Miss Hanson, whose health is apparently marred only by poor vision and hearing, and the way she chooses to live. "She thinks we're different," says neighbor Ron Lindeen. "Maybe that's the way some of us should She doesn't care to talk to strangers. Asked whether she ever considered bringing electricity to her place, she replied with an uninterested "I don't

She considers automobiles unsafe. "There's a pile of 'em killed with a car," she says, adding that horses seem a more reasonable form of transportation. "Everybody is safer with horses," After Miss Hanson's home of 65 years burned April 10, her neighbors came together almost instinctively to erect a new house for her.

Though they live modern lives on up-to-date farms, the neighbors were quick to give aid in the rural American tradition of barn raisings and quilting

Marvin Sorenson had an unused granary and the neighbors moved it to Mamie's farm and shaped it into a cottage. They added insulation, paneling and a window with red shutters. Because Mamie was known to be a talented flower grower, a window box was built onto the one-room house.

Neighbor women suggested linoleum and Miss Hanson agreed to pay for it. Neighbors provided a bed, table, chairs, a cabinet, odds and ends of furniture, blankets and clothing.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - John Wayne off the screen was the spittin' image of the rough-hewn, straight-talking characters he played for half a century on the screen. Many of the Duke's real-life remarks would have fit easily into the scripts of "Two-Fisted Law," "Blood Alley" or "Rooster Cogburn."

The following quotes are John Wayne at his leathery best, all undoubtedly delivered in that halting, gravelish Big Duke style:

"Oscar and I have something in common. Oscar first came to the Hollywood scene in 1928. So did I. We're both a little weatherbeaten, but we're still here and plan to be around for a whole lot longer." - 1979 Academy Awards ceremony

"There's a lot of yella bastards in the country who would like to call patriotism old-fashioned." - 1969 in-

"I'm 53 years old and 6 feet 4. I've had three wives, five children and three grandchildren. I love good whiskey. I still don't understand women, and I don't think there is any man who does." - 1960 interview.

"I figure legends are people who aren't around. Hell, I'm no legend. I'm here and I'm planning on staying around for a while longer." - 1970

"I had a rough 10 days in the intensive care unit. They kept bringing in all those cardiac cases beside me. Finally, I told them to get me a gun -I was ready to shoot my way out." on his bout with lung cancer, 1964

"I licked the big C." - on his lung cancer, 1964 interview.

"When people say 'A John Wayne picture got bad reviews' I always wonder if they know it's a redundant sentence. Hell I don't care. People like my pictures and that's all that counts." - 1969 interview.

"I caught it early. I don't care if I never sell another ticket at the box office, I'd rather tell my story so that some poor soul some place can get a check-up with his doctor and be as lucky as I was." - on his lung cancer, 1964 interview.

"When I came into this business I had to learn how to say 'ain't.' Now it comes natural," - 1960 interview.

"I like to drink. And I like women, and I've probably been a lot softer than I should be on occasion with them. And a lot tougher on some men, mainly myself." - 1979 interview.

"The night before the surgery, I asked if I could take them (his family) out to dinner. The doctors said I could. And could I have a drink? Yes, I could have one. So all of us went to a restaurant that has been built inside the old city hall. They gave us a private dining room. When I walked in and saw the stained glass window and the table set for thirteen, I thought, 'It's the Last Supper!' I said, 'If I can have only one drink, it's going to be the biggest damn drink you can pour." - on his heart valve surgery, 1978 interview.

WASHINGTON (AP) - A representative exhibit of contemporary western art, 28 paintings and sculptures by artists from Alaska to New Mexico, is being shown in Washington on the start of a nationwide tour.

The Western States Biennial exhibition was first seen at the Denver Art Museum, which helped organize the show along with the Smithsonian Institution's National Collecion of Fine Arts, where it is on view until Sept.

The show was organized by the Denver-based Western States Arts Foundation, which coordinates and administers' programs in the visual and performing arts for a 10-state region. Two other states, Alaska and California, were asked to participate in this exhibition. It was made possible by grants from Philip Morris, Inc., Dayton Hudson Foundation and the National Endowment for the Arts. After its showing here, the exhibition will travel to the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art, Oct. 26-Dec. 9; the University of Hawaii, Manoa, Feb. 16-March 21; the Seattle rt Museum, May 29-July 13; and the Center for Visual Arts Gallery, Normal, Ill, Aug. 26-Oct. 5.

Hohstadt named to group for black music competition

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Dr. Thomas Hohstadt, music director and conductor of the Midland Odessa Symphony Orchestra, has been named to a committee of prominent Texans for the National Black Music Colloquium and Competition.

Dr. Robert Henry of Prairie View A & M University has been appointed chairman of the Texas committee.

Those asked to serve on the committee include: Dr. Irl Allison, founder and president of the National Guild of Piano Teachers; James Dick, widely-known concert pianist; Akira Endo, conductor of the Austin Symphony Orchestra; Edward Mata, music director of the Dallas Symphony Orchestra: Phyllis Young, president of ASTA in Austin; Dr. George Yeager, conductor-music director of the Abilene Philharmonic, and Dr.

The National Black Music Colloquium and Competition has been designed to find talented young pianists and string players across the U.S. and provide them with opportunity to gain national recognition.

Prizes will total $10,000 - $500 for 12 regional winners and $2,000 each for a pianist and string player who will be declared national winners.

In Texas, Dr. Henry and his committee will help publicize the project, help locate possible performers and help screen applicants.

Regional auditions are scheduled for September in Atlanta, Chicago, Houston, New York, Los Angeles and St. Louis.

The two national winners will be selected next January and will be featured in a joint concert in the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C.

Stock market oses

NEW YORK (AP) - Stock prices showed a broad loss today with the market's preeminent glamor issue - International Business Machines - leading the retreat.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 4.16 at 838.01.

Losers held a 5-2 lead over gainers in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. IBM shares, which fell 2%

Wednesday, dropped an other 34 to 74% today. Turnover of more than 200,000 shares by late-morning, after a delayed opening, put the stock at the top of the active list. The company said,

Wednesday afternoon that it had seen indications of a possible shift among its customers to increased leasing. rather than buying, of IBM office equipment That shift would be likely to reduce the size of quarterly earnings gains in the near term, an IBM executive said, although it would not change what he described as strong long-term growth prospects.

The NYSE's composite index drapped .35 to 57.60, and the Aerican Stock Exchange market value index was off 1.36 at 194.59. Volume on the Big Board came to 15.10 million shares at noontime, down from 17.24 million at the same point Thursday

BUSINESS MIRROR Social Security could be facing 'Watergate year'

By JOHN CUNNIFF.

NEW YORK (AP) - Next year could be "a Watergate year" in regard to Social Security, said Haeworth Robertson, its former chief actuary. A year, he predicts, of deception and irresponsibility Of dishonesty

The instrument will be "some action by Congress that will look good to the public," maybe a cut in the scheduled withholding tax that will ease immediate burdens - and compound future ones - said Ro-

The motivation is a scheduled increase in the 1981 withholding tax, the result of 1977 amendments designed to make the system actuarially sound. But Congress, he fears, will roll back the scheduled

"It will be irresponsible," he states flatly. We know the range of benefits that can be offered for a certain price, he said, and we know it would be immoral to promise benefits we cannot afford." But politics is politics, and 1980 is an election year.

Elections are won in the present, of course, and in the realm of politics that often means the future takes care of itself.

But it won't, warns Roberston, who since leaving Social Security has served as vice president of William M. Mercer Inc., world's largest employee benefits consultant.

No, the system isn't-about to collapse, he assures a listener. In fact, he maintains, "the financial problems will be relatively minor during the next 10 years or so." Then the troubles might begin

In Social Security's case, the qualification 'might' could even be too strong, especially to an actuary. To Robertson, the danger is inked in numbers: There will be trouble if the financing isn't

If it isn't, then serious problems are scheduled to begin when post-World War two children are ready to retire. Since the oldest is 33, that would be after the turn of the century - just two decades from

Even if the tax isn't rolled back, Robertson said he is "concerned that we have made promises we cannot keep and that we should be honest with that generation and tell them they have to retire later.'

The program, he maintains, must be restructured for that generation, in part because there will be a preponderence of older people, many of them retirees, and a shortage of younger workers tosupport

Suspected pot seized

Midland Police Department narcotics officers seized two pounds of a substance believed by them to be marijuana about 8:43 p.m. Wednesday.

A 19-year-old man was arrested for felony possession of marijuana in connection with the alleged drug, officials said.

The substance was found during the execution of a search warrent obtained as the result of information phoned into the police department, officials said.

In other actions, Midland County Sheriff's Department deputies early today were investigating two burglaries reported Wednesday.

Dicky R. Gatlin, 40, reported as missing from his home a portable color television set, a black and white television set, a double-barrel shotgun, a .22caliber rifle, an AM-FM stereo tape deck, a reel to reel tape deck and some jewelry, according to official reports.

Method of entry to the home, identified only as being on West County Road, had not been determined today, officials said.

Twelve assorted guns, a television set and other possessions were reported taken from the home of Joyce Kreger, Route 1, according to official re-

Entry to the Kreger home apparently was gained by breaking a door window and unlocking the door, deputies indicated

It's good to drive in right direction

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The average player doesn't care where he's going as long as he's in the driver's seat

Today's South discarded a club on the ace of hearts, drew trumps and gave up a diamond to the ace. West got out with a heart, and South eventually lost the club finesse.

South shouldn't play the ace of hearts until he knows what he wants to discard on it. Instead, South should ruff the first heart, draw trumps and lead the three of diamonds.

If West takes the first diamond, South can later discard three clubs on the ace of hearts and the queen-jack of diamonds, thus losing no club trick. A good driver must choose the right

Court rejects Hunt heirs' trial request

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court today rejected a plea by the sons of the late H.L. Hunt to get a full trial of their suit against Coastal States Gas Producing Co. over Libyan Nelson Bunker Hunt, Herbert Hunt and Lamar Hunt sued Coastal in 1973 after the firm bought oil from Libva's Sarir Field, had it refined and then sold the products.

The Hunts and British Petroleum Co. developed the Sarir Field. The Libyan government nationalized British interests in 1971 and the Hunt concession in 1973.

In response, Hunt published notices in newspapers throughout the world claiming the nationalization violated international law and threatened suit against anyone who came into possession of Sarir oil.

In May 1973, Coastal signed a contract to purchase oil from the field. The oil was transported to Italy, refined and sold.

'A portion of the net proceeds from the Sarir oil were brought to this country, where Coastal is located.

Case records show the Hunts abandoned their claims against the Libyan government in exchange for $19 million in 1975. The Hunts' suit seeks to recover the proceeds realized by Coastal from oil allegedly purchased prior to the 1975 settlement.

A Houston judge dismissed the case without a trial because, he ruled, it arose from the Libyan government's expropriation of an oil concession.

In upholding the trial judge, the Houston Court of Civil Appeals said the Act of State Doctrine prohibits American courts from inquiring into the actions of foreign powers.

The Supreme Court concentrated on whether Hunt's appeal comes within the exception to the act created by the 1964 Hickenlooper Amendment.

The high court concluded Hunt had obtained only a contractual right under the concession agreement, and the Hickenlooper Amendment applies only to a claim of title or other right to property.

The three justices who dissented agreed they would reverse the summary judgment and submit Hunt's suit for trial.

Court nixes Dresser bid on subpoena

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - A federal appeals court has refused to forbid a federal subpoena of a Texas oil company's records of an internal finding that it had made "questionable foreign payments.' The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld U.S. district Judge Ross N. Sterling of Houston, who had dismissed a suit filed by Dresser Industries Inc. against the Department of Justice and the Securities and Exchange Commission. Dresser's suit said the dispute began after it agreed to conduct its own private investigation on whether any secret payments had been made and "the nature and amount of any such payments made by its employ-

The suit said the SEC agreed to keep confidential any Dresser records which might reflect the identities and location of certain Dresser employees overseas. Dresser said its investigation found no domestic bribes but did uncover 'questionable foreign payments," described as amounting to less than one tenth of one percent of the company's annual sales. "Certain of these payments had been made because of extortionate threats by foreign nationals against Dresser employees abroad," the 5th circuit said. When the SEC asked in 1976 for the records of the company inquiry, Dresser moved to tie the issue up in court. It said the files given to the SEC would be handed on to the Department of Justice and could become DALLAS (AP) - Texas independent oil operators are planning a national program aimed at counteracting inaccurate statements about the industry and educating the public on oil and gas issues.

Chester R. Upham Jr., president of the 4,000-member Texas Indepenindustry is being unjustly attacked. In other actions, the association endorsed President Carter's order to decontrol crude oil prices and called for total decontrol of natural gas prices as soon as possible.

It also voted to support a proposal for an exploratory drilling investment credit and for the reinstatement of import duties or other import restraints on crude oil as a means of assuring maximum development of domestic energy resources. The votes were taken as Stephen P. Potter, a senior vice president of

"In the face of this uncertainty, it is important for all of us to recognize the value of mutual support that all parts of the industry can give to each other right now," Potter said.

Upham, a Mineral Wells independent who was re-elected to a second term as president, earlier had said the Carter windfall profits tax "in reality is a confiscation of property and the most devastating proposal against the security of our nation yet devised."

Upham, recently elected chairman of the Texas Republican Executive Committee, said the proposed tax will reduce the domestic producer's ability to invest sufficient risk capital to produce sufficient supplies of crude oil "to withstand even a minor threat" of oil import disruptions.

Image program planned Committee puts bigger tax bite on industry

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The House Ways and Means Committee voted Wednes? day a major stiffening of President Carter's "windfall profits" tax that would boost the tax bite on the oil industry by more than one-quarter over what the White House had proposed By a 22-to-14 vote, the panel agreed to raise the rate at which t7 windfall" tax is levied to 70 percent of the eligible extra revenues the industry reaps from decontrol rather than 50 percent as Carter had sought. It also voted to continue permanently a special "upper-tier" category of taxation that Carter had wanted to phase out between 1985 and 1990 — a move that would further increase the tax burden on the industry here, The action, which came on an amendment by Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., constituted the strongest step the committee has taken to toughen the mild tax that Carter proposed last April 26.

Together with other changes, the amendment would raise the measure's total tax bite to $6.5 billion in 1982, compared to the $4.9 billion that Carter had proposed — or $26.5 billion over five years, up from $20.6 billion

The panel also turned back a bid by oil-state legislators to exempt all newly discovered oil fromm the tax. Instead, committee members approved a compromise amendment that eased the tax on new oil only slightly Approval of the Rostenkowski amendment came as a surprise to most observers. Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., the panel's chairman, had outlined a plan to raise the tax rate to 60 percent, and that was expected to

However, committee sources conceded that the action Wednesday was intended in part to give the House an extra bargaining chip in negotiations with the Senate, whose Finance Committee is expected to try to weaken

Wednesday voted down, 21 to 11, a bid by a group of liberals to boost the rate to 85 percent. It also defeated, 18 to 16, a move to tax newly discovered Alaskan off. The 70 percent tax rate the panel approved Wednesday would apply to all categories of oil except for newly discovered oil selling at a price between $17 and $26 a barrel. As part of its alternative to the exemptions proposed by the oil-state legislators, the committee voted to limit the tax rate on this category of newly discovered oil to 50 percent, to encourage new exploration. Moreover, the $17 to $26 a barrel limits would be adjusted upward each year by two percentage points more than the previous year's inflation rate - bringing the $26 figure to an estimated $44 a barrel by 1990. Energy Department experts estimated Wednesday the proposal would boost likely oil production by some 160,000 barrels a day by 1985, over and above the 940,000 barrel a day increase that Carter's proposal might have spurred. However, the impact of the amendment on the total tax bite of the windfall legislation still is uncertain. Experts said it could range from negligible to several hundred million dollars, depending on technical defini-

The amendment the panel approved making the "upper-tier" category permanent effectively means there will be no gradual reduction, as Carter had planned, in the tax bite on oil discovered since 1972.

Carter's original proposal carved out three "tiers" in which oil discovered before 1972, oil discovered since 1972 and newly discovered oil would be taxed at varying levels as they moved from controlled prices to

Amendment protects funds

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - An amendment by Rep. J.J. Pickle, D-Texas, will prevent the possible loss of $20 million in school land tax revenue, Texas Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong said Wednesday

Armstrong said Pickle's amendment would exempt school and university lands from the proposed 'windfall profits tax." It was approved, 20-13, by the House Ways and Means Committee on Tuesday night.

its price rose above $6 a barrel, with the tax phasing out in 1983. The oil discovered since 1972 would be taxed when it reached $13 a barrel, phasing out in 1980. The third tier was $16:

Wednesday's actions would block the phaseout of the $13 a barrel category and continue the tax permanently. It also would raise the $16 benchmark for "third-tier" oil to $17 a

Approval of the alternative to the oil-state legislators' proposal was a major victory for the administration. The rejected amendment, sponsored by Rep. James R. Jones, D-Okla.,

would have weakened Carter's bill. Jones had argued that newly discovered oil should be entirely exempt from the "windfall" tax to provide extra incentive for new exploration. The successful alternative was sponsored by Rep. Andrew Jacobs, D-

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - June 19 is an official state holiday, beginning in 1980.

Gov. Bill Clements signed the bill into law Wednesday, despite some differences on date that Texas slaves were freed. 'This is a historic occasion, long overdue," said Clements, Texas' first Republican governor in 104 years. "It gives me enormous pride and plea-Rep. Al Edwards, D-Houston, a first-term black

House member, stood at his side as author of the measure approved by the recent Legislature. A rifle squad from nearby Bergstrom Air Force fired a volley and the Ebenezer Baptist Church band. of Austin played the black national anthem.

The bill will apply mostly to state employees and state banks, which will observe June 19 as a state holiday. The date has been unofficially celebrated as a holiday by Texas blacks for many years. President Abraham Lincoln issued the Emancipa-tion Proclamation on Jan. 1, 1863. However, it was not until June 19, 1865, that Gen. Gordon Granger, a new military governor of Texas, declared at Galveston that all slaves in Texas were free.

Rep. Clay Smothers, an outspoken black legislator from Dallas, contended earlier Wednesday that Edwards' bill created a "fraudulent holiday.

"Most of us were taught by elderly blacks that we were freed on Jan. 1," Smothers told a news conference. "That information of freedom was deliberately withheld until the harvest of cotton crops was completed.

Another speaker at the bill signing ceremony brought up the difference in dates. "My daddy (a slave) told me that the good farmers in Texas wanted to get in more crops before they turned the slaves loose," said the Rev. S.L. Davis, 91, Austin Baptist Edwards explained there was no real difference in the dates, just that Texas blacks always celebrated the day they were set free instead of the national proclamation date. After the ceremony, the crowd of several hundred gathered on the west Capitol lawn to feast on two truck loads of watermelons, courtesy of the National Watermelon Association and HEB Food Stores.

Spanish bombs cause damage

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain (AP) - A wave of bomb blasts early today caused heavy damage but no casualties at a number of government offices and a sports complex in this capital of the Basque region of northern Spain, police said.

Police sources said they believed the bombs were set off by guerrillas of the Basque separatist organization ETA, a Basque-language acronym for Basque Land and Liberty.

The bombings damaged offices of the culture and finance ministries, the provincial palace of justic, the office of the local navy commander and a sports

Gunmen steal pension money

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) - Five hooded gunmen drove up to the back door of a suburban post office today, shot and killed a postman and escaped with the equivalent of $1 million in old-age pensions, police reported.

A spokesman said the gunmen, armed with pistols and submachine guns, struck shortly before the morning rush hour, grabbing money that was to be distributed to other post offices to pay old-age pensioners on Friday. Police said one of the gunmen bpen fire immediately after the thieves drove up to the post office. His shots missed one postman but kit another in the heart, apparently killing him instantly, the spokesman said. The 26-year-old victim was married and the father of an infant, police said.

Police ordered a nationwide hunt for the thieves. Authorities speculated that the thieves may have used a nearby highway to the Belgian city of Liege and West Germany to make their getaway.

Company-chief executives have predicted sales of 11.1 million to 11/3 million this year.

But an analyst in another part of the industry who also asked anonymity said: "This is a heavy blow. I have been saying sales would turn up, and now I look stupid. Also, I'm scared."

Sales of compacts and subcompacts, however, continued the trend evident since fears of gasoline droughts struck in March. In the first 10 days of June, deliveries increased 1 percent, giving small cars 47 percent of the total market for domestic makes, up from 33 percent at the same time last

The industry reported deliveries of 180,931 cars between June 1 and June 10, of which 84,529 were small cars. Last year the figure was 283,274, of which 94,157 were the smaller autos. Since there was one more selling day last year, this year's selling rate, what the industry uses for comparison, was 1 percent higher.

Import fleets of almost all small cars grabbed record shares of the market in April and May, but June figures are not reported until the end of the

Continental Airlines cancels two flights

Two Continental Airlines flights to Midland Regional Airport will be canceled temporarily beginning Monday because of the nationwide grounding of DC-10s, an airline official said today. But the official said cancellation of the two Midland flights "definitely is temporary. The cancellation will extend seven days - until June 24, said the official today.

The two flights affected are flight 212, which arrives in Midland from Los Angeles, Calif., and El Paso at 12:40 p.m. and departs for Houston at 1:05 p.m. and flight 69, which arrives in Midland from Houston at 4:13 p.m. and departs for El Paso and on to Los Angeles at 4:38 p.m. An airline official, speaking for Continental regional director C.R. Logue, said this morning that after the seven-day period.

cancellation of the two flights for the seven-day period leaves the airline with six flights to Midland.

She said the cancellation came about because of the grounding of DC-10s. The airline diverted some of its 727s to other areas to carry passengers while the DC-10s are grounded, she said.

That forced the temporary cancellation of some flights in other areas and the two flights to Midland, she indicated.

Noting that the airline has been able to maintain 97% of its flights on the United States mainland during the grounding of the DC-10s, the official stressed that cancellation of the two flights to Midland "is temporary" and that the flights will resume

Buying a used car is no joke.

There have probably been more jokes told about used cars and used-car salesmen than practically any other subject. But when you buy a used car, it's no joke!

In fact, it's serious business!

Exxon is not holding back products awaiting higher prices.

In fact, in May of this year our deliveries of gasoline in the U.S. were slightly greater than our May deliveries last year.

We can't keep this up because crude oil supplies are tight-but we're doing the best we can with what we have.
