NEWS IN BRIEF

'Waste' accused

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — A presidential aide reportedly told a group of Pembroke State University students Friday that development of the MX missile would amount to "wasting billions of dollars to placate conservatives in Congress."

Joel McCleary, deputy assistant to the president for political liaison and personnel, made the comment in response to a question on the missile and the SALT II talks in Vienna. Carter ordered the Defense Department last week to begin full-scale development of the missile.

McCleary was asked if the development of the MX missile, which represents a new generation of intercontinental ballistic missiles, was a political ploy to pacify conservatives in Congress into supporting the SALT II agreement.

"Yes, we are wasting billions of dollars to placate the conservatives in Congress," McCleary said. "But we are saving billions of dollars, because if the conservatives had their way, what we would spend (on defense) would be mind-boggling."

Production halted

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Company officials say the explosions that rocked the Pride Oil Company refinery — supplier of jet fuel for five Air Force bases — will interrupt production for several months.

Fire investigators still do not know the cause of the blaze that touched off the explosions.

Pride Executive Vice President David Jones said it would be three to four weeks before they could estimate the amount of damage.

Jones said the bases — Dyess at Abilene, Sheppard at Wichita Falls, Reese at Lubbock, Altus in Oklahoma and Carswell in Fort Worth — relied on Pride for all their jet fuel.

The fire and explosions left 13 persons with minor injuries, including five workmen, five firemen and three journalists. None was hospitalized.

Records admissible?

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Records prosecutors seized in a controversial "raid" on millionaire Cullen Davis' divorce trial may be admissible as evidence in the industrialist's retrial on murder solicitation charges, a state district judge ruled Friday.

Defense attorneys tried to convince State District Judge Gordon Gray that prosecutors John Bankston and Jack Strickland abused the grand jury system last March by using a grand jury subpoena to confiscate transcripts and exhibits from the divorce trial.

Gray also ruled Davis' investigators will not be restricted from checking the backgrounds of potential jurors in the murder-for-hire trial scheduled to begin July 9.

Suicide suspected

NEW YORK (AP) — The 26-year-old girlfriend of singer Art Garfunkel was found dead Friday in the plush upper East Side Manhattan penthouse apartment they were sharing.

The father of the dead woman, identified as Lauren Bird, told the Daily News his daughter may have attempted suicide because Garfunkel would not marry her.

Police were investigating the possibility that Miss Bird had taken an overdose of drugs.

Carter reports 'good beginning'

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev and President Carter, stiff but smiling, held their first talk Friday in the splendor of a Hapsburg palace as a warmup to their historic summit meeting.

An elevator lifted 72-year-old Soviet President Brezhnev to their ceremonial call on Rudolf Kirchschlaeger, president of Austria. Carter walked up the steep staircase and told reporters their 20-minute exchange over orange juice, biscuits and tea was "a good beginning."

Brezhnev, whose health has been a question mark, appeared somewhat ill at ease, shuffling a bit, at one point putting his left hand into a coatpocket for a moment.

But he alertly whirled around to grasp the president's hand when photographers shouted for handshakes. He wore a row of medals on his dark blue suit and a hearing aid behind his left ear. Both men smiled.

The two met first in a gilded ante-room and then in the bedroom of 18th-century Austrian Empress Maria Theresa. The room — where the empress died — was also the spot where President John F. Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev started their 1961 summit.

Austrian officials said Carter and Brezhnev sat in the same silk-brocade chairs used by Kennedy and Khrushchev 18 years ago.

U.S. officials said Carter told Brezhnev it would have been good if their first meeting had been earlier in his term, now 2½ years old. Brezhnev agreed and said they should not wait so long to hold their next round.

"I don't think it's possible to draw any conclusions from this meeting," said a U.S. official, who described it as simply an exchange of pleasantries.

"On leaving the palace, Carter was cheered by a buoyant crowd of 1,000 Austrians shouting, 'Jimmy! Jimmy!' The blue-suited and bearded Brezhnev had left the Hofburg five minutes earlier, but reporters were kept away as he stepped into the car.

Carter and Brezhnev had never met before. Bruno Kreisky, the Austrian chancellor, said afterward, "It went well, under the circumstances." The two leaders, whose formal talks open Saturday, ended the day by sharing a box at a first-night performance of Mozart's "The Abduction from the Seraglio" at the city's famed opera house, joined by Carter's wife Rosalynn and daughter Amy.

The 11-year-old Amy bounded up the golden staircase of the opera house ahead of her parents to take a seat in the central box, where the Carters and Brezhnev viewed the opera together.

The crowd applauded when Carter entered the box. The applause grew when Brezhnev and Kirchschlaeger came in together, and became still louder when Brezhnev and Carter joined in the applause.

second and third acts, apparently to give the leaders a chance to rest before formal discussions began Saturday.

On Monday, in a ballroom in another wing of the Hofburg Palace, the three-day summit will be crowned when Carter and Brezhnev sign SALT II, the treaty limiting U.S. and Soviet strategic nuclear weapons.

Meanwhile Friday, a mile away at the Soviet Embassy, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko polished the agenda for the summit business sessions.

It was learned that Vance and Gromyko agreed that lower-level U.S. officials would turn over lists of Russians who want to be reunited with relatives who have left the Soviet Union.

It was also decided that, at some point in their talks, Carter would personally present Brezhnev with a list of prominent dissidents the United States is trying to assist in emigrating.

The list probably will include Raoul Wallenberg, a Swedish diplomat who helped hundreds of Hungarian Jews escape from the Nazis in World War II.

The Soviets claimed Wallenberg died in prison in 1947, but a recent Jewish emigrant to Israel said he saw him a few years ago. Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin has taken personal interest in the case.

Before coming to the Hofburg, Brezhnev was given a chauffeured tour of Vienna. He stopped to lay wreaths at the Austrian war memorial and a monument dedicated to Soviet soldiers slain in capturing Vienna from the Nazis at the end of World War II.

Arriving earlier Friday from Moscow, Brezhnev walked unaided down the ramp of his Ilyushin jetliner, pausing momentarily to steady himself on the railing. He then moved on slowly, but confidently, at Vienna's sun-lit Schwechat Airport.

Truckers' surcharge proposed

By JANE SEE WHITE
Associated Press Writer

Working truckers were targets of more arson and gunfire Friday as independent drivers continued a shutdown while federal officials unveiled a measure aimed at helping the owner-operators pay rising fuel costs.

Tractor-trailer rigs were parked in more than 30 states in a shutdown protesting fuel costs, the 55 mph speed limit and state weight limits on their loads. Blockades thwarted food and fuel deliveries and threatened to jack up consumer prices.

There was no early indication of how truckers would react to the Interstate Commerce Commission's announcement Friday that the nation's 100,000 owner-operators would be allowed to collect a 5.6 percent rate surcharge to help defray fuel costs.

ICC Chairman Daniel O'Neal said he felt the surcharge would send drivers back to work, but the head of an independent trucker group called the plan "garbage."

Mike Parkhurst, president of the 30,000-member Independent Truckers Association, also termed the measure "crumbs off the table." He said he would urge independents to expand the strike.

Later Friday, Parkhurst said a telephone poll of striking truckers holding meetings in Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Texas, Iowa and elsewhere found that "100 percent" said the new surcharge was not enough.

However, Arnold Wilder, president of an Alabama independent trucker group, said in a prepared statement that the ICC decision was "the relief we've been seeking." He said he would ask truckers to end their stoppage.

Protest leaders also met in Connecticut and Colorado to discuss the ICC announcement.

Meanwhile, aides to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said he and President Carter agreed to propose a trucking deregulation bill next week that would ease entry of new truckers into the business and encourage rate competition.

Sporadic acts of guerrilla violence continued to mar the work stoppage Friday. In Missouri, snipers fired on two truckers and a truck was burned. In Alabama, two trucks were hit with gunfire. No serious injuries were reported.

The drivers' blockades of fuel depots, truck stops, farmer co-ops and grain terminals resulted in food and fuel shortages in some parts of the nation. The strike could mean price increases for some consumer items, including beef. Some buyers were reportedly paying "bonuses" to suppliers who could deliver.

In an effort to end a blockade on fuel deliveries, Iowa Gov. Robert Ray authorized an emergency increase in the state's truck weight limit from 73,280 pounds to 80,000 pounds.

Ray warned he would call in state troopers and the National Guard to protect truckers if there was violence against those who hauled fuel.

In Alabama, although troopers and guardsmen were riding shotgun on 75 convoys, at least two shooting incidents occurred Friday. A shotgun blast shattered the windshield of a truck parked in Macon County and a bullet struck the airpipe of a truck on the road near Dothan. No injuries were reported.

In Missouri, a rig parked near Diamond was set afire early Friday when its driver stopped for food and fuel. Snipers fired on two drivers near Mountain Grove. Neither were injured.

Diverting crude oil proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration stepped up its criticism of the oil industry Friday, threatening to take petroleum away from refineries not producing gasoline at near capacity.

Crude oil might be diverted to companies "prepared to use it" in hopes of easing hard-to-explain gasoline lines, Assistant Energy Secretary Alvin L. Alm told a House subcommittee.

Alm said the president has this power under an existing emergency fuel-allocation law.

The official also renewed the administration's appeal to Congress for a new standby gas rationing plan, claiming other proposals, including one to require that cars be left home one day a week, don't go far enough.

Oil companies could find themselves losing crude oil unless they can justify why their refineries aren't producing more gasoline and heating oil, Alm told the House Commerce subcommittee on energy and power.

"We are seriously considering mandatory measures," Alm testified.

His comments came one day after Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger lashed out at oil companies, saying they've stockpiled crude oil inventories while cutting production.

Schlesinger had not specified what steps the administration might take.

Charles DiBona, president of the industry lobbying group, the American Petroleum Institute, immediately responded by declaring: "Oil companies are running through their refineries all of the crude oil that they can safely run."

He said the industry "is not holding back products awaiting higher prices."

Late Friday, Schlesinger said he has decided to "offer invitations" to the nation's seven largest refiners to meet with him to explain why they aren't using their growing crude oil inventories for making more gasoline.

"There are some questions to be asked," the energy secretary said. "We all recognize the need" for a higher pace of refinery operation if the crude oil is available.

Schlesinger made the comment after consulting with House leaders.

In his testimony before the House panel, Alm said one move under consideration by the government is "to allocate crude away from firms that are not using their refineries to full capacity."

And he said President Carter has asked the Justice Department to investigate refinery operations "and report back to him."

Alm said that even though daily crude oil imports increased last week by 800,000 barrels, to 6.5 million barrels a day, the amount of oil refined dropped from 14.6 million barrels to 14.4 million barrels a day.

Energy officials will meet with companies "who do not appear to be making maximum use of growing crude oil stocks," the official said.

"If there is not adequate explanation for this lack of available crude oil, the department will consider allocating crude oil to refiners that are prepared to use it," he said.

Alm said there's no apparent reason why more gasoline can't be refined. He said that while supplies will remain tight this summer, he doesn't expect long lines in many places.

Alm said the longest gas lines in the country are now forming in the Washington, D.C., area. He could offer no explanation. "Availability here is not substantially different from other parts of the country," Alm testified.

But he theorized, "People line up early in the morning to get gas, and that leads to longer lines, which leads to early closings — and panic sets in."

Alm didn't have to remind congressmen that there were long lines in Washington. Some drove past lines of more than 100 cars on the way to the hearing.

"I have seen in the last 30 minutes some of the longest gasoline lines I've ever seen," said Rep. Toby Moffett, D-Conn.

Nuclear waste shipping restriction criticized

By H. JOSEF HEBERT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Concerned about possible sabotage, federal regulators announced restrictions Friday on routes taken by shippers of high-level nuclear wastes. Armed guards will be required under some circumstances.

The regulations, however, were quickly criticized by anti-nuclear groups as inadequate. They said exceptions to the general rule will continue to allow shipments to travel through some population centers.

The new rules published Friday by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission require shippers to "avoid where practicable" the transporting of highly radioactive spent nuclear fuel through cities of 100,000 persons or urban areas with either a population of 1 million or a central city of 500,000 persons.

Don Kason of the NRC's office of nuclear material safety and safeguards said about 180 areas would fit those population guidelines.

Under the rules, the NRC must approve the routes ahead of time. If the shipper shows that such areas cannot be avoided, armed guards must accompany the shipment, said Robert Burnett, director of the NRC's division of safeguards.

The Potomac Alliance, a Virginia based anti-nuclear group, is already preparing to challenge the NRC's route which takes spent fuel from Portsmouth, Va., to a disposal site in South Carolina.

Fred Millar of the alliance said there is no reason why the fuel, which is brought to Portsmouth by ship from abroad, could not be docked closer to the disposal site and avoid the heavily populated Portsmouth-Norfolk area.

Kason said the new rules were prompted by a study last fall which showed the containers in which spent fuel is shipped may not withstand a terrorist attack.

In the tests, the containers remained intact although they were dropped 2,000 feet from an airplane, rammed by a locomotive traveling 70 miles per hour and crashed into a cement wall, Kason said.

But he said the tests showed the container could be ruptured if a large amount of explosives were detonated under the truck, making such shipments susceptible to terrorist attacks.

The rules apply only to the shipment of spent fuel, most of which is, now stored at nuclear reactor sites, but often is shipped from one site to another to avoid storage problems.

NRC officials said there are about 200 such shipments a year, including about 50 shipments of spent fuel brought into the United States from foreign countries. The NRC estimates that by 1985 the number of shipments will increase to more than 1,500 a year.

Thousands of shipments of other radioactive material, including low-level nuclear wastes, travel the country's highways each year. Those shipments are not covered by the new rules and there remains no government monitoring or control on routes such shippers take.

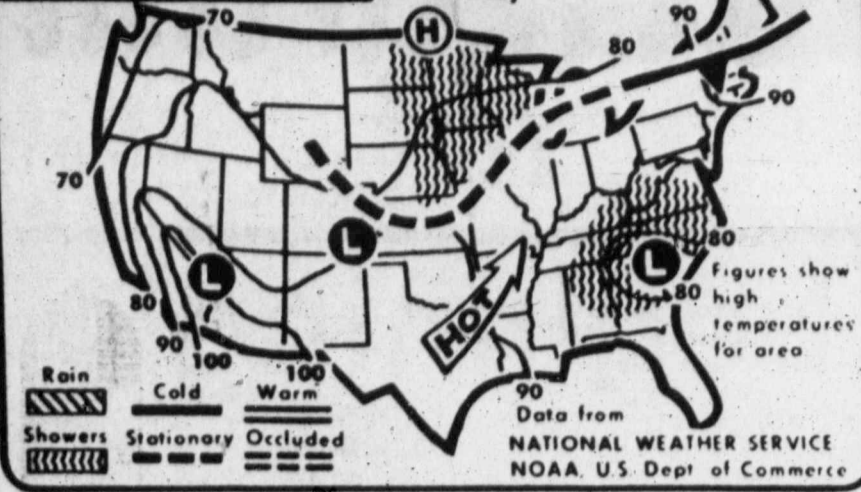

The shippers of spent fuel will have 90 days to comply with the order, officials said.

Earl Rutenkroger, an official of Tri State Motor Transit Co. of Joplin, Mo., the largest shipper of nuclear fuels and waste, said the new regulations are expected to require longer trips and result in "a very significant increase in the cost of transporting the commodity."

Piccolo told police he was assaulted as he got off work at the cafeteria. Vigil presently is free on $15,000 bond.

Steven Lee Smith, 18, and Jay Waldman, 22, both of 2438 Whitmire Blvd., were indicted on charges of burglarizing a building.

The indictments were returned in connection with the reported June 8 burglary of Stadium Sports Center, 2040 W. Cuthbert Ave.

School funds bill signed

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements has signed into law the public school finance bill that was tailored to his wishes by limiting cost-of-living raises for teachers to 5.1 percent a year.

Clements repeatedly spoke out against giving teachers higher pay increases than other state employees.

The finance bill would raise state aid to public schools by $967 million the next two years, with $334 million going for teachers pay raises.

In addition to the $967 million, another $21 million was in the appropriations bill for teachers retirement.

Forecast holds few surprises

The weatherman's forecast for this weekend may come as no surprise since the Permian Basin area has been experiencing hot afternoons for several days.

The official forecast calls for hot afternoons through Sunday with fair skies. The high Sunday is expected to reach into the high 90s from an overnight low in the middle 60s.

Friday's high was 93 degrees. The overnight low was 63 degrees, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

Record low for Friday is 59 degrees set in 1976. Record high for Friday is 106 degrees set 1960.

Area weather watchers reported fair skies around the Permian Basin late Friday.

Loving man killed in crash

ODESSA — The beginning of a trip to visit relatives became the end for an 80-year-old Loving, N.M., man following a car-truck collision here Thursday afternoon.

Charlie B. Davis was dead on arrival at Medical Center Hospital in Odessa at 5:10 p.m. Peace Justice Jimmy Harris, who pronounced Davis dead, said the man was to meet relatives in Ohio at 11 p.m. Thursday.

Davis, who was riding in the back seat of a car, suffered a broken neck in the accident which occurred at 4:05 p.m. on East U.S. Highway 80.

Four other persons, including three in the car with Davis, were injured. The driver of the car, Helen D. Pierce, a 56-year-old teacher from Loving, was listed in satisfactory condition Friday with broken ribs and an injury to her left shoulder. She had previously been listed in guarded condition.

Evalle Davis, 78, and Grover C. Davis, 84, both of Loving, were treated and released.

The driver of the truck, Charlie VanZandt, 17, was treated and released. Police said the car driven by Ms. Pierce attempted a left turn onto U.S. Highway 80 and VanZandt's vehicle was westbound on 80 when the accident occurred.

Growth slow in second quarter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Industrial production rebounded 1.3 percent in May from the strike-depressed level of the previous month, but still signaled slow second-quarter growth for the nation's economy, the government said Friday.

Meanwhile, the Carter administration unveiled proposed income tax regulations intended to define which foreign taxes a U.S. company can write-off.

Donald C. Lubick, assistant treasury secretary for tax policy, told a news conference the foreign tax credit proposal essentially drew together rulings made by the Internal Revenue Service since early 1978.

And the Internal Revenue Service issued temporary regulations exempting gasoline — a gasoline substitute that combines petroleum and alcohol — from some excise taxes, possibly lowering its price to consumers.

A report from the Federal Reserve indicated that the May increase in output of the nation's mines, utilities and factories nearly wiped out the 1.4 percent drop in the previous month. The April decline had been blamed on the Teamsters strike and lockout.

"We expect some gains in June, although the softening auto production situation suggests they may not be particularly robust," said Commerce Department economist William Cox. "That would leave us with a pretty modest gain in the second quarter."

Production in the first quarter was up 0.9 percent, compared with 2.1 percent for the fourth quarter of 1978, Federal Reserve figures show.

April and May figures combine for decline of 0.1 percent so far in the second quarter this year.

"It's consistent with the pattern of fairly flat economic activity," Cox said.

Many economists are predicting a recession later this year, although the Carter administration has insisted that a slowdown — that is, some economic growth — will occur.

Government indicators in recent weeks have shown downturns in retail sales, industrial shipments, consumer spending and housing starts. The so-called leading indicators, a barometer of future economic activity, have been negative in four of the past six months.

The May increase was the largest since a 1.6 percent rise in April 1978, government statisticians said.

"Production increases during the month (of May) were widespread among major products and materials," the Federal Reserve report indicated.

Firm building DC-10s asks for restoration of certificate

WASHINGTON (AP) — McDonnell Douglas Corp., maker of the grounded DC-10 jetliner, Friday asked the National Transportation Safety Board to revoke the government order that suspended the certificate of the aircraft because of a possible design defect.

In filing an appeal with the board, the aircraft firm said the Federal Aviation Administration was not justified in suspending the DC-10 design certificate. It said that action "is not supported by substantial, reliable and probative evidence."

FAA administrator Langhorne M. Bond lifted the certificate and grounded 138 of the planes operated by U.S. airlines on June 6. Most foreign carriers also grounded their DC-10s, disrupting air travel around the world.

Bond acted after cracks found in the aft bulkhead section of the DC-10 engine mounting indicated a possible design flaw in the aircraft. The cracks were discovered during extensive checks of the plane after the May 25 crash of a DC-10 in Chicago.

That crash, which occurred after an engine fell off, killed 273 persons in the worst U.S. aviation disaster.

Bond said the DC-10s will stay on the ground until "the problem is found, analyzed and cured."

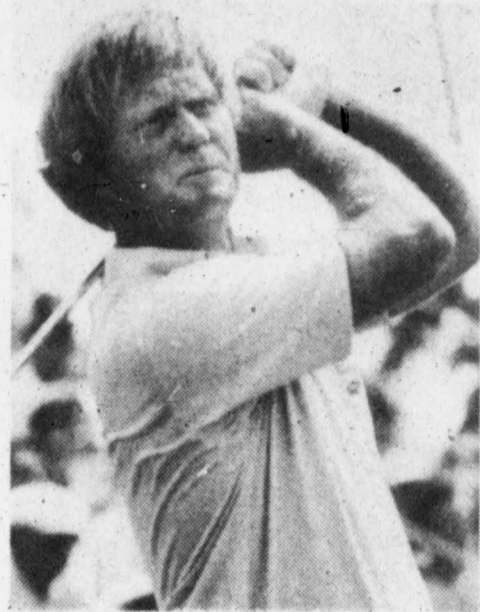

McDonnell Douglas, which had 10 days to appeal the suspension order, filed its notice one day before that time would have expired.

In its appeal, the company said that Bond exceeded his authority in suspending the airworthiness certificate. It said the evidence does not support his findings that an emergency existed or that safety in air commerce or transportation required the suspension.

Army chief says we'll be weaker

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Bernard Rogers, the Army's chief of staff, predicted Friday the United States will be strategically weaker than Russia in the early 1980s and expressed concern that Russia may then test this country's resolve.

"We are losing essential equivalence on the strategic side," Rogers told a group of reporters as he prepared to leave later this month to become supreme allied commander in Europe.

The outgoing Army chief said that, despite the soon-to-be signed SALT II agreement limiting U.S. and Soviet strategic nuclear weapons, the United States is approaching what he called a "critical window" in 1982 or 1983 when he said this country will be at a disadvantage.

"We should accept that fact and recognize that we may be tested," Rogers said without forecasting what form such a test might take.

At another point, Rogers said, "There will be a time frame in which in my opinion we will have lost what I would consider the level of strategic capability to assure essential equivalence" with Russia.

His remarks were not critical of the SALT II agreement, on which he said the Joint Chiefs of Staff have not yet taken a final position. He said the chiefs will make their final evaluation after studying the completed treaty's language. The treaty is to be signed in Vienna next Monday.

However, Rogers said the SALT II agreement provides the framework to overcome what he said is an impending strategic weapons deficiency if the country is willing to make a commitment of Refugees to be turned away

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The Malaysian government said Friday it will force the 76,000 Vietnamese "boat people" sheltered here back out to sea and joined two other Southeast Asian countries in a naval effort to drive refugees away from their shores.

Deputy Prime Minister Mahathir Mohamad said the government would evict the refugees immediately and tow them to international waters as soon as boats are available. After that, he said, the government would empower patrols to "shoot on sight" at any boats trying to land in Malaysia.

"We will be harsh with them," the deputy prime minister said. "Being humane has not paid off to us at all. All we are getting is a further inflow of Vietnamese refugees and we have every right to expel them."

"If they try sinking their boats, they will not be rescued, they will drown," he said. "Their drowning will be because they sank their own boats, not anything else."

In Washington, State Department press officer Thomas Reston said the United States had no official confirmation of the report. "We would find any such action inconsistent with the previous record of the government of Malaysia in terms of humanitarian assistance," Reston said. "We, of course, would deplore any action which would lead to the deaths of refugees."

In Kuala Lumpur and in Jakarta, Indonesia, the Vietnamese ambassadors were reportedly summoned to the foreign ministries this week and told to reduce the outflow of refugees because the situation had become intolerable for other Southeast Asian nations.

Western diplomats dealing with the refugee question say the Southeast Asian countries may be trying to make it appear so difficult for refugees to head south that they will go northward from Vietnam to Hong Kong, a British colony. One diplomat described the presumed logic this way: "The Western press will pick up the stories. When the West itself, through Britain, starts to directly feel the refugee problem they will begin to help out more quickly."

Sir Murray MacLeose, the governor of Hong Kong, called the Malaysian announcement a "desperate reaction to a desperate situation," and said the Malaysians were a "humane people" who would not speak in such a way unless they felt under an intolerable burden.

The refugees, part of an estimated 350,000 Indo-Chinese refugees seeking resettlement in Southeast Asia, have been living in camps until relief agencies can find room for them in Western countries.

Relief officials say thousands of others trying to flee Vietnam on overcrowded boats have died at sea.

Home Affairs Minister Ghazali Shafie said the government had agreed to mount a joint naval force with Indonesia and Thailand to drive away all Vietnamese refugees trying to land in their countries.

Ghazali said the action might result in larger numbers of refugees landing in Hong Kong or Australia.

MacLeose said Britain is considering boosting its troop strength in the colony to deal with refugees arriving there at a rate of 1,000 a day. MacLeose was scheduled to leave Saturday for the United States and renew British pleas for an international conference on finding homes for Vietnamese refugees.

A plaque honoring the late Rev. Robert J. Snell, first rector of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, was unveiled Sunday by the Rt. Rev. Willis R. Henton, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Northwest Texas. The unveiling was one of the highlights of a special service marking the 50th anniversary of Holy Trinity Church, which had mission status from 1929 until 1943, when it became a parish of the Diocese of Northwest Texas. Snell was rector here from 1943 to 1953. With Bishop Henton above is R.C. Tucker, a member of Holy Trinity Church.

By ROGER SOUTHAL
Staff Writer

The Rev. Robert Ford is one of Midland's newest ministers. Ford moved to the city just a week ago to assume the pastorate of St. Mark's United Methodist Church, 1701 N. Main St.

His appointment to the Midland ministry came at the annual meeting of the Northwest Texas Conference of the United Methodist denomination held two weeks ago at Amarillo.

He succeeds Dr. J. Harold Cates who, after two years at St. Mark's Church, has become pastor of First United Methodist Church at Level-land.

Methodist Church, Post United Methodist, and Wesley United Methodist at Big Spring, before his appointment to the pastorate of the Colorado City United Methodist Church four years ago.

He was president-elect of the Howard County Ministerial Alliance at the time he was transferred from Big Spring to Colorado City. And he was serving as president-elect of the Mitchell County Ministerial Alliance at the time of his recent appointment to the Midland pastorate.

Ford has served as president of the Colorado City Kiwanis Club.

Ford and his family came here from Colorado City where he served four years as pastor of First United Methodist Church there.

Ford, whose parents were teachers in the Lubbock public school system, attended Lubbock High School and was graduated from Texas Tech University in 1956 with a B.A. degree in history.

He then enrolled in Vanderbilt Divinity School at Vanderbilt University, graduating with a master of divinity degree.

Ford's first ministerial assignment was as associate pastor of San Jacinto United Methodist Church of Amarillo in 1959-60, then he served as associate pastor of St. Paul's Church in Amarillo in 1960-61.

His first full pastorate was at Wylie United Methodist Church in Abilene, and in later years he held the pastorates of Fair Park United Methodist Church in Abilene, the Rotan United offices in the Northwest Texas Methodist Conference, a geographical administrative division of the denomination.

He is secretary of the Northwest Texas Conference Board of Ordained Ministers, an office he has held since 1972. He served as vice president of the Conference Board of Social Concerns from 1968 to 1972.

Currently, he is a member of the Committee on Ordained Ministers for the Big Spring District of the Northwest Texas Conference.

The couple has two daughters, Diane, 11, and Sarah, 9. The family has established residence in the St. Mark's parsonage at 2910 N. J. St.

First Assembly of God acquires new pastor

The Rev. Raymond Schaeffer is the new pastor of First Assembly of God, 100 W. Wadley Ave., and will be conducting his first services there Sunday.

Schaeffer comes to Midland from Fort Worth where he served as pastor of Seminary South Assembly of God for more than six years.

Before that, he served for eight years as pastor of First Assembly of God at Abilene.

Widely known as an evangelistic speaker, Schaeffer has conducted more than 100 revival crusades throughout the U.S.

More churches in city begin vacation schools

Vacation church schools and Bible schools continue to hold interest for children and young people in the city.

Bellview Baptist Church, 1710 N. Big Spring St., will begin its annual Vacation Bible School Monday, with classes to continue daily through Friday.

Children of preschool age through sixth grade level are eligible to attend the school, which will have classes from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. daily. All children of the community are invited to attend.

The week's activities will include Bible study, crafts, puppet week, refreshments and special activities.

The week will be initiated Monday with a picnic. Children attending are asked to bring a sack lunch.

Special events are planned for each following day at the school. A commencement service will be held at the church at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

First Baptist Church, corner of Louisiana avenue and North Garfield street, will hold its VBS next week. The school will have classes each morning, Monday through Friday.

Children born in August, 1974 or before are eligible to attend the class sessions. There will be classes for children of kindergarten age through 12th grade.

Bible study, music, games, crafts and special activities will be highlights of the school, to which all children of the city are invited.

Two bus routes and a van route have been established to transport youngsters to the school. Information on the bus transportation may be obtained by telephoning the church office.

A free-will offering will be taken to help defray the guest speaker's travel expenses, Prellwitz said.

Baptism mullied

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Protestant, Roman Catholic and Orthodox theologians reported reaching a "common understanding" of baptism at a World Council of Churches consultation in Louisville.

Baptist participants said the report represented a "breakthrough" because it states that to believers baptism is the most common baptismal rite mentioned in the New Testament, where those old enough to decide on it themselves are baptized. This is the Baptist practice.

Most other denominations also baptize infants.

Roman Catholic, Orthodox and Anglican representatives said the document marked a step forward in ecumenical relations because it also accepts the validity of infant baptism and rejects the practice of "knowing baptism" to be administered more than once.

Several members of the Midland Seventh Day Adventist Church were in attendance at a denominational-camp meeting held at Sandoval, N.M., in the Sandia Mountains near Albuquerque.

Speakers at the gathering included those from the General Conference offices of the denomination in Washington, D.C., as well as those from the Union Conference at Dallas and the Texico Conference, headquartered at Amarillo.

Seminars and workshops, along with youth activities and musical programs were featured at the conclave, said the Rev. Glen Cavanaugh, pastor of the Midland Seventh Day Adventist Church.

Joining Cavanaugh at the meeting were his wife, Rose, and sons Andy and Steven.

Other Midland church members in attendance were Dr. and Mrs. Larry Rusk and daughter Regine, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Qualls and daughter Elaine, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Robinson and son Joel.

The guest minister, Chandler, currently is a field representative for the Trinity broadcasting network which offers 24-hour-a-day Christian programming.

A graduate of the Institute of Ministries in Bradenton, Fla., Chandler served two years as pastor of a church in Mississippi and more recently has taught in the School of Bible at Melodyland School of Theology in Anaheim, Calif.

He was active in street ministries while working with the Melodyland School.

Convention set

AMARILLO — Jehovah's Witnesses from Midland will join those from other West Texas cities and towns at a special district convention in Amarillo June 21 through 24.

The conclave in Amarillo Civic Center Coliseum is one of more than 90 "Living Hope" district conventions of Jehovah's Witnesses to be held during the current summer. The conventions will involve a total of 950,000 of more delegates.

In explaining the theme of the conventions, "Living Hope," spokesmen for the Jehovah's Witnesses said that "mankind truly needs hope in these times. All of us are concerned about the anxiety-created society due to crime, violence, inflation and changing moral standards and ruined marriages with broken homes."

New president chosen by Catholic women

BEACON, N.Y. (AP) — Helen Stewart of Kenley, England, was elected president of St. Joan's International Alliance at the biennial meeting of the Roman Catholic organization working for equality for women in the church, including admission to the priesthood. She succeeds Dorothy Haaland of Anchorage, Alaska.

Lutherans drop

NEW YORK (AP) — Baptized membership in the Lutheran Church in America now stands at 3,063,695, a decline of 25,415 from a year ago. Officials attributed the slight drop to "roll cleaning" and estimated that actually membership had gained about 6,000.

Delegates return

Delegates from Midland's two Free Methodist Churches have returned from the annual meeting of the Texas Conference of the Free Methodist denomination.

The 100th annual meeting of the conference was held in the Free Methodist Church at Rockwall, with Bishop Elmer E. Parsons in charge.

Delegates from Midland were Phyllis Houston and Jesse Valles.

At the conclave, Midlander Lawrence Houston was elected secretary of the conference and also was named to several conference committees.

Houston will be the lay delegate from the Texas Conference to the General Conference of the Free Methodist denomination scheduled later this year at Indianapolis, Ind.

The Rev. Schauer P. Vance was reappointed to the pastorate of the Midland Free Methodist Church for the third year, and the Rev. Julio Castillo will return to the pastorate of the Latin Free Methodist Church hereafter serving as a pastor this past year in Uvalde.

Guest to preach

The Rev. Sam Chandler will be the speaker at Sunday services of Midland's Dayspring Christian Center, 100 W. Oak Ave.

The 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. services will be open to all residents of the city and surrounding area, said Tom Wood, pastor of the Church of the Dayspring.

Lutherans say non-practicing homosexuals not violating teachings of Christian faith

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The American Lutheran Church plans to circulate a proposed policy statement that says homosexuals are not in violation of church teachings unless they engage in erotic behavior.

"Homosexually oriented persons who do not practice their erotic preference in no way violate our understanding of Christian sexual behavior," says the proposed statement drafted by the church's Standing Committee for the Office of Research and Analysis.

"It is when the homosexually oriented person regularly and consistently practices sexual behavior with one of that person's own gender that this church must take exception," the committee said. "It (the church) regards homosexual erotic behavior as contrary to God's intent for his children."

The committee's 16-page draft statement, "Human Sexuality and Sexual Behavior," was described in a news release issued by the church this week.

The statement will be submitted to the church's 4,850 congregations for comments and revised on the basis of those evaluations before the committee offers it to the 1980 church convention.

The American Lutheran Church, with 2.4 million members, is one three major Lutheran bodies in the United States and is generally regarded as middle of the road in doctrinal emphasis.

Lesbian Methodist official causes church controversy

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

She offered to get out, Church officials agreed, saying she should go. Then they decided to keep her. However, shifting again, they asked her to renew her offer to get out. She declined. So they put her out anyway.

But some insist she still should be in.

Such have been the multiple switches in the off-and-on-again case of Joan Clark of Dallas, who had been field officer in Southwestern states for the women's division of the United Methodist Board of Global Ministries.

The issue still is smoldering, and it has stirred rising controversy over homosexuality in the nation's second largest Protestant denomination of nearly 10 million members.

It's "a spark," says Miss Clark. "It has provided action to get people to talk about homophobia (fear of homosexuality) and begin to deal with it openly."

Miss Clark, 32, is a lesbian, and her open affirmation of it, along with her offer to resign, was submitted in March to a personnel committee, which voted to accept her resignation, so recommending to the full women's division.

But the 75-member divisional council, at a meeting in April in Cincinnati, voted not to accept the resignation, despite the committee's recommendation, and to keep Miss Clark at her post.

This generated a hue and cry of protest in Methodism. A barrage of messages from New Mexico and Texas, including one from Bishop W. McEerrin of Dallas, hit the Cincinnati meeting, insisting it reconsider.

Retaining Miss Clark "runs counter" to church teachings, protested an unofficial Dallas-based group of women, the Esther Action Council, citing the church's Book of Discipline, which says:

"We do not condone the practice of homosexuality and consider this practice incompatible with Christian teaching."

The Cincinnati meeting, after what was described as an "agonizing" session, reversed itself, asking Miss Clark, who had withdrawn her resignation, to resubmit it. She refused.

Thereupon, the division voted in a closed session to dismiss her, effective May 1, as field executive for women's work in Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. She had held the post six years.

Program slated

A "Christ in the Passover" program will be presented here Friday under auspices of The Living Way Fellowship of Midland.

The program will be presented by David Baker, a staff evangelist with the Jews For Jesus organization. The 7:30 p.m. Friday event will be in Theatre Midland, 2000 W. Wadley Ave.

According to Baker, the purpose of the "Christ in the Passover" presentation is to enhance the Christian understanding of the New Testament by showing a Jewish background for the communion celebration.

Ancient and modern Jewish customs will be discussed and described, with emphasis on the aspect of redemption that Christ accomplished at Calvary.

Baker explained that a table is set with the traditional Jewish Passover items, including representative foods which are explained but not eaten.

Members of the Jews For Jesus organization have presented this demonstration in more than a thousand different churches across the nation. The program was originally written in 1956 by Moishe Rosen, founder and leader of the Jews For Jesus movement.

The San Francisco-based Jews For Jesus organization now has branches in New York City, Miami Beach, Chicago and Los Angeles.

According to Les Prellwitz, pastor of The Living Way Fellowship, the Friday-night event will be open without charge to all residents of the city and surrounding area.

Ordination held

Former Midlander Richard Seaver Reynolds, a May graduate of Brite Divinity School at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, has been ordained a minister in the United Methodist Church.

The ordination ceremony took place during the recent annual meeting of the Texas Conference of the United Methodist denomination at Houston.

Reynolds has been assigned to the North Ward was 90-year-old school

The telephone has been ringing, ringing, ringing. And rightly so. The story on Page 1 of The Reporter-Telegram Thursday concerning the demise of North ELEMENTARY school was in error. North Elementary and North WARD schools were never one and the same at anytime during the history of either.

North Elementary was built in 1937 and old North Ward was indeed originally built in 1885 as a wooden school house. It was later rebuilt — in 1890 — as a brick building. That structure was in the center of the 300 block of West Illinois Street. Of course, North Elementary was in the 600 block of Ohio Street.

When North Elementary was razed recently, the long era ended was not one of 90 plus years duration, but one of only 32 years.

The North Ward school that was built in 1890 and served for many years as Midland's only high school, was rebuilt in 1927. The date of its destruction came after 1930, but no one seems to be quite sure when it was torn down to make way for the commercial structures in the 300 block of Illinois Street.

Our thanks to the many nice Midlanders who attended North Ward and telephoned to set us straight. We need now at least one more call. When was the North Ward school torn down?

Foundation sees its 50th birthday

By YVONNE CHILIK

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP) — Fifty years ago, Morris Frank was a young blind man, dependent and restless for freedom. He went to Switzerland to bring home a dog trained to guide him through the sighted world.

He and his German shepherd, Buddy, forced their way into restaurants and on trains and buses, determined to give blind people a chance to become self-reliant.

Frank returned to the United States in 1928 and with two other blind persons founded Seeing Eye Inc. the following year in Nashville, Tenn. The headquarters was moved to Morristown five years later.

On Friday, Frank, now 72, was on hand as the organization that has given 4,500 blind people a ticket to independence celebrated its 50th anniversary.

The blind want "no pity, no charity, but the opportunity to work with dignity and sign their declarations of independence," said Frank, who has had six Seeing Eye dogs.

"You can either be lugged around by other people or put on your hat and coat and go," he said.

To honor the anniversary of Seeing Eye, the Postal Service issued a commemorative stamp bearing the legend "Seeing For Me" and portraying a Seeing Eye dog in harness.

"Stamps are tiny billboards which tell the world what we think is important," said James Conway, deputy postmaster general, during the first day ceremony.

"It honors man's best friend at his finest and reminds the blind of an available option," he added.

That option, a 68-pound male shepherd named Marcus, allows Edward Glaser to travel 35,000 miles a year in his job as vice president and chief technology officer of a Santa Monica, Calif., computer firm.

"I'm living and traveling in a sighted world," said Glaser. He bought his first Seeing Eye dog after he graduated from high school.

"The Seeing Eye movement challenged blind Americans. They rose to the challenge and so did the dogs," said Peter Putnam, author of "Love in the Lead," a book released Friday on the history of the movement.

Clements finishes his review

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements finished his review of the work of the 66th Legislature Friday, signing more than 250 bills and vetoing about 50, including $252.4 million out of 1980-81 state spending.

The slash in the general appropriations bill, more than 1 percent of the $20.7 billion two-year state budget, was announced Thursday but the details not revealed until Friday afternoon.

Clements, Texas first Republican governor in 104 years, proudly claimed it was the largest amount in Texas history ever carved from a regular two-year budget.

Former Gov. Preston Smith might argue with him. In 1971, Smith vetoed one year of the Legislature-approved $7.1 billion spending bill. Smith called legislators back in a special session later to finance the second year.

Among the bills signed into law was the public school finance bill that would raise state aid to schools by $967 million over the next two years. A 5.1 percent cost-of-living raise totaling $334 million went to teachers, plus new "step-up" or experience raises fitting into their present pay program.

Clements had threatened to veto the finance bill if it provided more than the 5.1 percent across-the-board raise given other state employees.

Also signed into law was the controversial measure that would permit home mortgage interest rates to rise from a 10 percent maximum to a top of 12 percent, effective Aug. 27. Clements once threatened to veto any bill calling for a 12 percent maximum, then changed his mind after mortgage bankers called a halt to FHA and GI loans in Texas as long as the 10 percent ceiling was in effect.

Among the bills vetoed was the omnibus courts bill that would have created 20 new district courts in Texas. Clements said he vetoed the bill, which called for $1.2 million in state money, because the Legislature broke tradition by not letting him appoint all the new judges. Nine of the courts would not begin operating until after their judges were elected in 1980.

Clements vetoes bill by Craddick

Austin Bureau

AUSTIN—Gov. Bill Clements vetoed House Bill 938, introduced by Midland Rep. Tom Craddick, saying "it would undermine the effectiveness of the Texas Sunset Act," Clements said.

HB 938 would have changed the review date under the Sunset Act for the Department of Water Resources, the Water Development Board and the Water Commission from Sept. 1, 1985 to Sept. 1, 1981.

Clements objected to a Senate amendment that pushed back the review date for eight agencies from Sept. 1, 1981 to Sept. 1, 1983.

"If this trend were to be continued, then each year there would be bills to move various agencies termination dates to times in the future. It sets a potentially dangerous precedent which could undermine the effectiveness of the Texas Sunset Act," Clements said.

LULAC holds convention

HOUSTON (AP) — Zavala County Judge Jose Angel Gutierrez told the League of United Latin American Citizens national convention Friday that a double standard is applied to Mexican-American groups seeking a relationship with their ancestral countries.

"We are led to believe it is wrong for us to do these things," Gutierrez told a general session of the groups' 50th annual convention. "But there is room for us to develop new and important relationships."

Gutierrez said Japanese-American businessmen regularly recruit workers from Japan to work in industries in this country to produce goods for Japan.

"We don't think of those people as wetbacks," Gutierrez said. "We don't look at those dollars as wet-back dollars."

"A clearer example is Israel. No single action by the Congress takes place that is not in some way heavily influenced by the Jewish-American lobby. That's healthy. That's wholesome."

But that policy does not apply to Hispanics, Gutierrez said.

Hinkle beats tree again, but Nelson, Purtzer lead

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Larry Nelson slipped into a share of the lead, Tom Watson "shot myself right out of the golf tournament" and light-hearted Lon Hinkle beat "The Tree" in the second round of the 79th United States Open Championship Friday.

The slender Nelson, who didn't take up golf until the age of 22, composed a 3-under-par 68 and tied scrambling Tom Purtzer for the halfway lead. The journeyman Purtzer, winner of one title in four years on the PGA tour, had a wildly erratic 69 in the hot, windy weather.

They shared a three-stroke lead with 36-hole totals of 139, three strokes under par on the old Inverness Club course whose tight fairways, deep rough and tiny, undulating greens became a thing of teeth-grinding, hair-pulling frustration for many of the game's more illustrious performers.

CHIEF AMONG them were golf's two leading players, Tom Watson and Jack Nicklaus.

"I'm disappointed, deeply disappointed, but I have no excuses," said Watson after shooting a 77 that put him at 152. "I just didn't have the feel and I didn't have the confidence. I played awful."

Nicklaus, holder of a record 15 major professional titles, also had a 77 and was just a single shot better than Watson at 151.

"I three-putted five times on the first seven holes," Nicklaus said. "That was it."

Nicklaus made the cut for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday, but Watson didn't.

The winner of four titles this year, the pre-tournament favorite and the man who has dominated the game for the past 2½ years, failed to qualify by a single shot. It was the first time he has missed the cut this season.

"I shot myself right out of the golf tournament," he said.

Well back of the longshots, Nelson and Purtzer, was Hale Irwin, who had a 142 after a solid 68.

"I played very well," said Irwin, a former Open champion and a man with a history of playing his best on golf's tougher courses. "No matter where the leaders are, I'm well pleased with my position."

Bill Rogers was next at 72-143.

TWO SHOTS further back, at 145, were Tom Weiskopf, Jerry Pate, Lou Graham and Jim Colbert. Graham, one of four men tied with Purtzer for the lead at the end of the first 18 holes, shot a 75. Weiskopf, Pate and Colbert had 74s.

Heading the group at 146 were Andy Bean, South African Gary Player and Ben Crenshaw. Crenshaw managed a round of par 71. Player had another 73 and Bean, a runaway winner in Atlanta last week, fell out of a share of the lead in this one with a struggling 76.

Keith Fergus and Hinkle, the other two men who were tied for the lead after Thursday's play, had 77s and were at 147.

But Hinkle had some fun. It involved the eighth hole and the hastily-planted tree the sponsoring U.S. Golf Association erected to cut off his avenue to a shortcut on the hole, by playing down the roughly parallel 17th fairway.

It touched off an at times amusing controversy involving a series of press conferences with mildly embarrassed officials of the sponsoring U.S. Golf Association.

In order to preserve the integrity of the hole, they said, and to prevent possible danger to other players and spectators, they decided to plant a tree to the left of the eighth tee, cutting off what Hinkle called "my little shortcut cut."

THE TREE, a 25-foot high spruce with a 16-foot base, was stuck in the ground early Friday morning. And that, it was assumed, was that. The end of the controversy that has rocked — and at times amused — players and the assembled world sports press.

But it was not to be. When Hinkle was on the seventh green, he stole a look over at the eighth tee.

"My first thought was, 'Hey, that tree's not near big enough,'" he said.

He found an opening just to the left of the tree. He had the marshals remove the gallery-control ropes, move back the crowd and, after checking to see the 17th fairway was clear, he played his drive down there again. He needed only a 7-iron for his second shot to the green and eventually dropped an 8-foot putt for birdie.

Hinkle, a twinkle sparkling in his eye, said he figures playing the hole that way cut some 50 yards off the length of the hole, listed as a 528 yard par-5 when played the more conventional route.

He said he had no idea how he'd play it the next two times around.

"It depends on where the tee is, who is playing on the 17th, what the situation is," he said.

ONE THING seemed certain: the USGA would do no more landscaping. No more trees would be planted.

"The Arbor Day activities are over," one USGA official said.

It was very much less fun for other players, however.

In addition to Watson, those who failed to qualify for the final two rounds included Johnny Miller, Ray Floyd, Spain's Severiano Ballesteros and Masters champion Fuzzy Zoeller. Miller was 78-152, Floyd 76-152, Ballesteros 81-160 and Zoeller 78-155.

Hubert Green, a former Open champion and a two-time winner this season, just made it at 77-151. So did Andy North, the defending title holder. He was 75-151.

PGA champion John Mahaffey was 73-150. Arnold Palmer shot 73-149. Lee Trevino was 73-150. Lanny Wadkins, another two-time winner this season, was 74-147.

Purtzer, a phlegmatic, unemotional 28-year-old, has scrambled desperately — and effectively — in his two trips over the extremely difficult course. He's scored 13 birdies, five bogeys, a double bogey and a triple bogey.

"I got away with a lot of bad shots today," he said. "I got a couple of good breaks. Things pretty much went all my way today."

Tom Watson must wait another year

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Tom Watson, by his own assessment, will have to wait until another year to win the most coveted prize in golf — his first U.S. Open.

"I've certainly shot myself out of the tournament. I'm too far out to have any reasonable chance," said Watson Friday after a second round of 6-over-par 77.

It was his highest score in 15 tournaments this year, beating by one stroke the second round score he took in the Crosby in February.

"There isn't a good word to describe my play — bad, sloppy, careless, poor judgment," the year's leading money winner chastised himself afterward.

"It got very frustrating. I didn't have any control. I started with a bang — (triple bogey) 7 on the first hole. 77. In fact, I had two sevens in the round. There were sure a lot of telephone numbers out there today. Terrible."

Watson sensed he was in trouble before this major championship began. He was pure prophet with 75-77-152, 10 strokes above par on the difficult Inverness Club course.

"The last three or four days before I came here I wasn't swinging well. I felt I would have to drive it well here, which I haven't done."

"It's difficult to play in an Open without confidence."

Watson had won the Memorial on another difficult course, Muirfield Village, before he took his customary two weeks off before the Open.

Did those two idle weeks hurt his chances?

"No, I don't think so. I have no excuse. I just played badly. Like Jim Colbert says, 'You've got to golf the ball here.'"

Informed he had missed 10 greens, Watson asked, "How many? 10? No wonder I shot Red Grange."

The 29-year-old Missourian appeared in good spirits despite such a horrendous round. How could he maintain such a good sense of

Cubs suffer fatal sixth

AMARILLO — Things went just right for the Midland Cubs here Friday night. For five innings that is.

But after five innings, Amarillo's Gold Sox took control of the Texas League contest. And following a seven run sixth inning outburst, the hosts cruised to a 10-4 victory. The teams renew hostilities tonight at 7:30.

Midland starter Henry Mack had the Gold Sox handcuffed early in the evening. The pill-server had a no-hitter through four frames and had Amarillo held to just two hits through five.

That ended quickly though as Brian Greer's grand slam homer highlighted Amarillo's explosive six-hit, seven-run sixth.

Jane Blalock holds lead over charging Bradley

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Jane Blalock shot a three-under-par 70 Friday for a one-stroke lead over charging Pat Bradley at the halfway point of the $100,000 women's golf tournament.

Bradley shot a 67 that included a pair of eagles, the first time double-eagle round on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour this year.

The Sarah Coventry Tournament concludes Sunday after 72 holes of play at Locust Hills Country Club. Blalock's halfway total of 139 is seven under par. Bradley, who had a par 73 in the opening round, was alone at 140 after setting records for nine and 18 holes in the four-year-old tournament with her round of 31-36-67.

Sally Little, whose opening-round 69 tied her with Blalock for the lead, came in with 72 and sole possession of third place at 5-under-par 141.

Donna Caponi Young, the 1979 LPGA Championship medalist, recovered from a horrible round of 82 Thursday with a strong 3-under-par 70 and made the cut.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — "Totally immoral," snapped a visiting British journalist.

"Against the spirit of the game," added Ben Wright, English broadcaster.

Golfer Larry Ziegler, standing on the eighth tee, viewed the lush foliage and commented to Tom Purtzer: "Looks like we got some artists around here."

It was a heyday for the cynics, who resurrected the poet Joyce Kilmer: "Only God and the USGA can make a tree."

A 25-foot Black Hill spruce, planted in the early dawn about 30 yards from the tee marker on the eighth hole, stole the spotlight from a collapsing Tom Watson Friday in the second round of the 79th U.S. Open Golf Championship at the ancient Inverness Club.

Here is the sequence of bizarre events: In the opening round Thursday, Lon Hinkle and Jerry Heard discovered a short cut on the long dogleg par-5 eighth hole by shooting through an opening in a cluster of trees to the middle of the 17th fairway.

Both scored birdies on the difficult 528-yard hole, Hinkle tying for the first round lead with 70, Heard shooting 75. Later it was learned six other players used the same route.

The USGA's blue-jacketed guardians of the sport were both agast and embarrassed.

"Honestly, no one ever noticed it — it was our mistake," said James R. Hand, the championship chairman. "The architect never intended for the hole to be played this way."

"It compromises the integrity of the hole," agreed Frank "Sandy" Tatum, president of the USGA.

An emergency meeting was held late Thursday and remedial measures were immediately dictated. Around 6:30 a.m. EDT Friday, the tree, with a 16-foot diameter at the base and a four-ton ball of earth, was moved from a local nursery and implanted to fill the open gap.

should inhibit any such dalliance with the pure intentions of the famous Donald Ross, who designed the present course 60 years ago.

The tree immediately became a cause celebre.

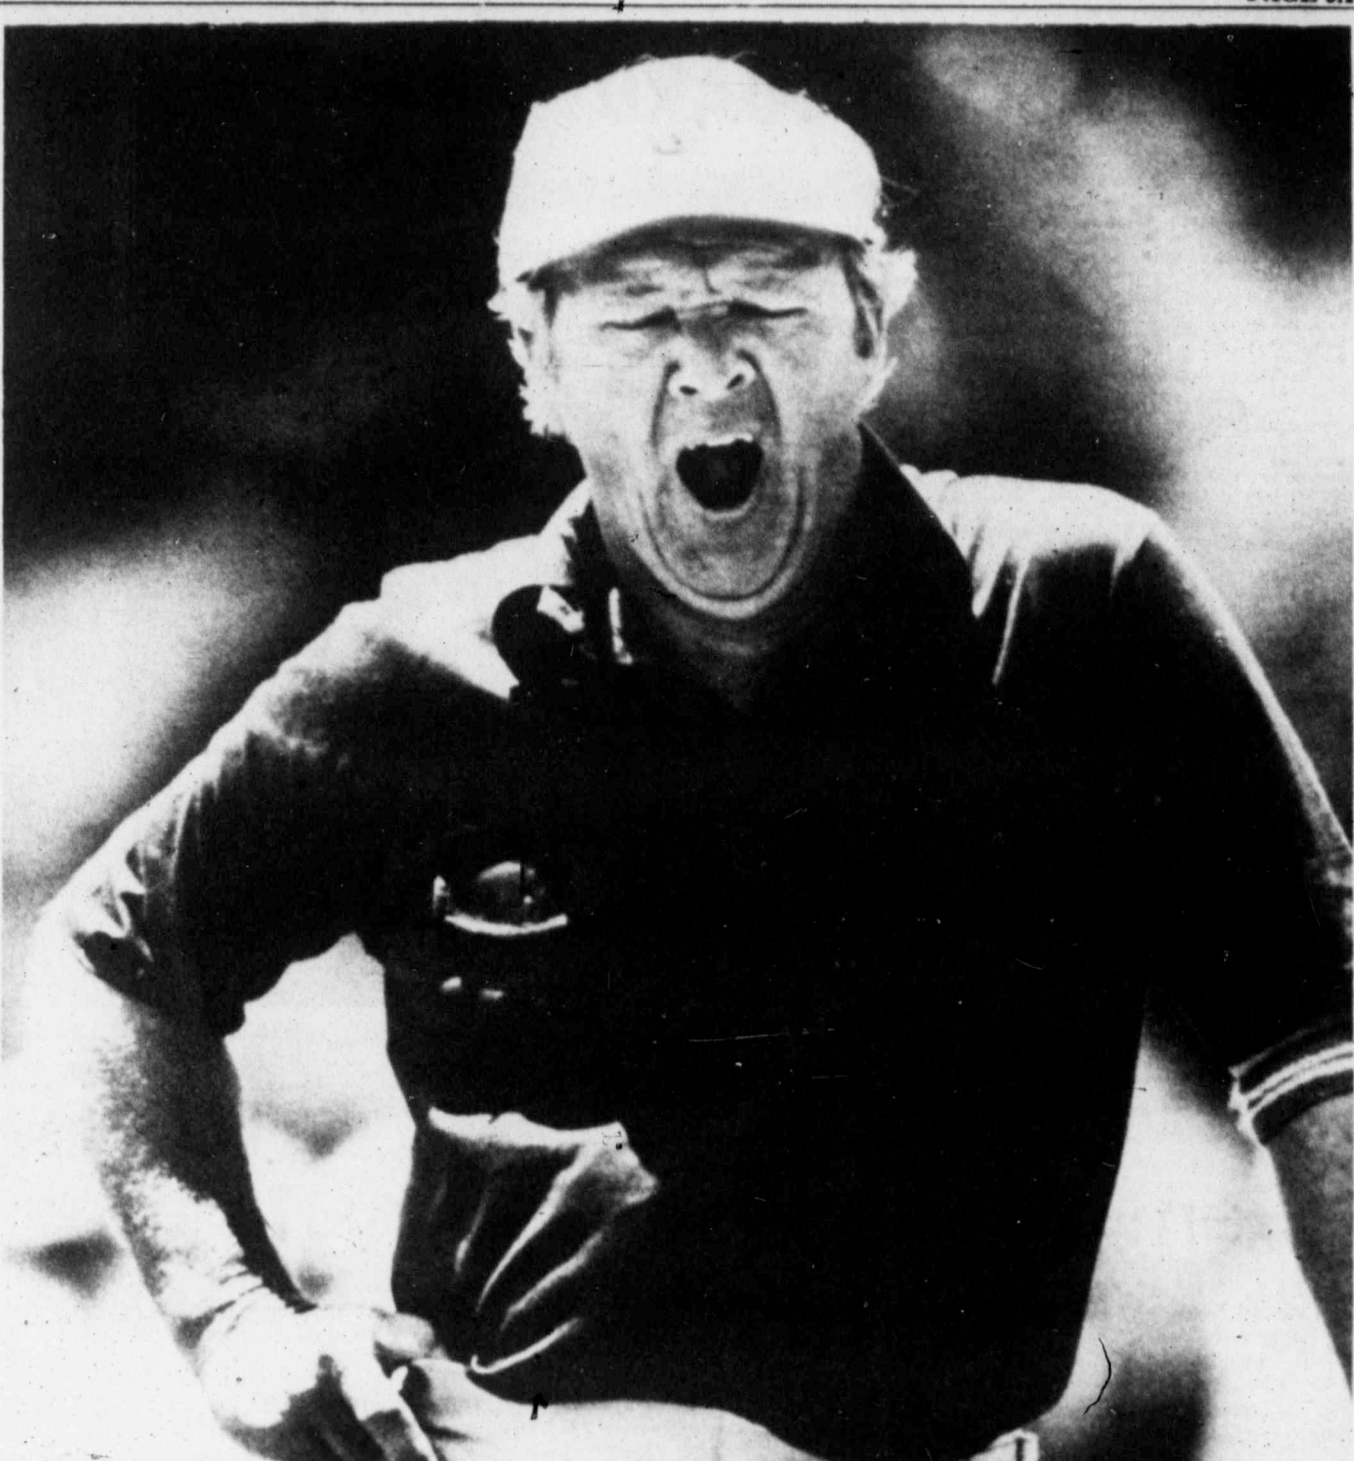

Golf writers, some of whom facetiously said they hadn't left the press tent in years, wandered out to take a look.

The USGA called a second news conference in mid-morning, an official stuffily announcing, "The subject: Trees."

Hand explained there had been an original thought to move the tee markers forward five to eight yards but decided this would "destroy the essence of the hole."

Tatum said he was "nonplussed" when he learned of players taking the shortcut. He praised the "imagination" of the culprits.

When the British reminded him that the late Walter Hagen had played a parallel fairway to get a better shot at a hole in a British tournament without reaction from the Royal and Ancient,

Warming up for a round in the U.S. Open can be a trying experience as Arnold Palmer shows. It was a putt on the 13th green of the Inverness Club course that had Arnold so worried. Palmer is 10 strokes out of the lead. (AP Laserphoto)

Despite one major loss, Kentucky recruiting best

By BILL BRILL
Roanoke Times & World-News

ROANOKE, Va. — Kentucky lost out on the top prospect, Ralph Sampson, but still signed four of the nation's Top 10 high school basketball players.

Although the 7-foot-3½ Sampson, of the Harrisonburg, Va., prodigy, recently chose Virginia over Kentucky, the Wildcats led the way in recruiting the finest prospects in the country.

THIS IS the 11th annual survey of the Top 10 prospects done for the Associated Press by the Roanoke Times & World-News. It is a compilation of scholastic All-American teams, two recruiting services and the advice of some of the nation's leading coaches.

This year's crop of high school players was regarded as excellent, perhaps the best ever. Certainly the Top 40 included more big men than ever before, headed by Sampson, the boy giant who led Harrisonburg High 40 consecutive Virginia Group AA state titles.

Sampson ended months of speculation by choosing Virginia of the Atlantic Coast Conference over Kentucky, perennial strongboy of the Southeastern Conference.

SAMPSON is considered by many experts to have more potential than Will Chamberlain, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar or that most recent Virginia schoolboy sensation, Moses Malone.

Sampson averaged 30 points and 20 rebounds in pacing his team to an unbeaten year. In an unusual scenario orchestrated by his high school coach, Roger Bergey, Sampson kept the recruiters at bay until he eventually selected Virginia.

Even though they lost out on Sampson, Kentucky had a fine year. Coach Joe B. Hall signed the nation's No. 6 big man, 7-1 Sam Bowie of Lebanon, Pa., and three others who made the Top 40.

Bowie was considered the nation's top prospect until postseason games, when he was outplayed by Sampson. He would prefer to be a forward in college, but height-shy Kentucky may need to use him at center.

The Wildcats also signed highly regarded 6-7 forward Derrick Hord of Bristol, Tenn., hometown guard Dick Minniefield and 6-6 forward Charles Hurt of Shelbyville, Ky., whose star rose during the all-star contests.

OTHER NATIONAL powers also fared well as half of the Top 10 wound up at eight schools. Of that group, only Georgia has not regularly been in the AP basketball poll. Georgia made its bid for recognition behind Coach Hugh Durham, who brought his recruiting skills from Florida State.

Georgia got the top power forward prospect, Dominique Wilkins of Washington, N.C., and 6-7 Terry Fair of Macon, Ga.

The other schools who got more than one member of the Top 10 included UCLA, North Carolina, Notre Dame, Indiana, San Francisco and Nevada-Las Vegas.

Larry Brown, who left the big money of the National Basketball Association for the high pressure job at UCLA, got three leading recruits, including 6-7 Darreon Daye of Granada Hills, Calif.

NOTRE DAME landed one of the premier big men in 6-10 Tim Andree of Birmingham, Mich., while North Carolina got 6-9 James Worthy of Gastonia, N.C., and Nevada-Las Vegas signed 6-9 Sid Green of New York.

Indiana's best catch was Isaiah Thomas of Manchester, Ill., one of the nation's leading guards, while San Francisco got a pair of backcourt aces, Raymond McCoy of Chicago and Quintin Dailey of Baltimore.

The country's top forward prospect, 6-8 Clark Kellogg of Cleveland, stayed near home by picking Ohio State. Kellogg scored 31 points in a losing effort in the Ohio State championship game, and has been the most valuable player in several of the postseason contests.

Reversing a trend of recent years, many of the top players elected to travel a good distance to the colleges of their choices. There were notable exceptions, however, as 6-11 Steve Stipanovich of St. Louis picked Missouri, 6-8 Teddy Grubbs of Chicago selected DePaul and 6-8 Antoine Carr of Wichita stayed with Wichita State.

How accurate is the Top 10? Of last year's 10 players on the AP's first two All-American teams, only Indiana State's Larry Bird and Sidney Moncrief of Arkansas were not Top 10 choices.

Top 10 Basketball Recruits
By The Associated Press

The following Top 10 list of high school basketball recruits was compiled by Bill Brill of the Roanoke Times & World-News for the Associated Press.

Ralph Sampson, 7-3, Harrisonburg, Va., Virginia, Sam Bowie, 7-1, Lebanon, Pa., Kentucky, Steve Stipanovich, 6-11, St. Louis, Mo., Missouri, Greg Kite, 6-11, Houston, Brigham Young, Melvin Turpin, 6-11, Lexington, Ky., Park Union Military Prep, Michael Pitts, 6-11, National City, Calif., California, Tim Andree, 6-10, Birmingham, Mich., Notre Dame, Sid Green, 6-9, New York, Nevada-Las Vegas, James Worthy, 6-9, Gastonia, N.C., North Carolina, Darrell Lockhart, 6-9, Thomaston, Ga., Auburn.
Antoine Carr, 6-8, Wichita, Kan., Wichita State, Clark Kellogg, 6-8, Cleveland, Ohio State, Teddy Grubbs, 6-8, Chicago, DePaul, Steve Brouche, 6-8, Washington, Ind., Indiana, Terry Fair, 6-7, Macon, Ga., Georgia, Derrick Hord, 6-7, Bristol, Tenn., Kentucky, Dominique Wilkins, 6-7, Washington, N.C., Georgia, Darreon Daye, 6-7, Granada Hills, Calif., UCLA, Rodney McCray, 6-7, Mount Vernon, N.Y., Louisville, Dale Ellis, 6-7, Marietta, Ga., Tennessee.
Byron Scott, 6-7, Ingleswood, Calif., Arizona State, Leon Wood, 6-7, Santa Monica, Calif., Arizona, Dirk Minniefield, 6-7, Lexington, Ky., Kentucky, Michael Bolton, 6-7, Pasadena, Calif., UCLA, John Fawson, 6-7, Kettering, Ohio, Notre Dame, Robert Williams, 6-7, Houston, Houston, Rod Foster, 6-7, New Britain, Conn., UCLA, Isaiah Thomas, 6-7, Manchester, Ill., Indiana, Jimmy Bradlock, 6-7, Chattanooga, Tenn., North Carolina, Raymond McCoy, 6-7, Chicago, San Francisco.

Hand insisted he saw nothing unethical in the act.

"It's no different than moving a cup on the green," he said.

He added, however, that he thought the episode was without precedent.

That is not exactly true. Oldtimers recall that a tree was hastily planted on the final hole at Oakland Hills in Birmingham, Mich., in 1951, when golfers were taking similar liberties with a dogleg.

In the 1965 PGA Championship at Laurel Valley in Ligonier, Pa., a tree was planted just off the fairway on the first hole on the day before the tournament. The course superintendent quit in protest. In the same tournament, a bridge was ripped out to aid Arnold Palmer, whose swing was hampered. It didn't help. Palmer was penalized two shots and Dave Marr won the title.

The most historic incident of a similar nature occurred in the U.S. Open at Baltusrol, N.J., in 1954 when Ed Furgol, whose left arm was eight inches shorter than his right, drove into the woods and then played his second shot purposely into an adjoining fairway of a companion course.

He managed to eke out his par and win the tournament by a stroke over Gene Littler.

The late Cliff Roberts, the longtime master of the Masters, delighted in telling how Dwight D. Eisenhower, when President, was constantly plagued by a tree at the Augusta National course, his favorite golfing grounds.

Ike wrote an impassioned plea to the Augusta Committee to have the tree chopped down. The request was denied.

Joe Kunes of Tifton, Ga., was the first to challenge Inverness' new tree obstacle Friday. He lashed the ball onto the 17th fairway, tipping the tree slightly. But he hit his second into the rough, pitched short and 2-putted for a bogey-6.

"Does that denote a victory for the tree?" Hand was asked.

"It proves that the young man did not benefit from taking the gamble," the USGA official replied. "That doesn't mean necessarily players shouldn't try it. It is their election."

Hinkle, who started the whole hassle by being the first to take the shortcut, showed his disdain for the freshly-planted obstacle by going the route again and nailing a birdie.

The pro from Carrollton, Texas brushed a branch of the tree in flying his drive onto the 17th fairway, flipped a seven-iron shot into a trap, blasted out to within eight feet and sank for a 4. He finished with 77 for 147.

Australia's Greg Noran, playing with Hinkle, played the hole conventionally and got an eagle 3.

Chi Chi Rodriguez, the third man in the group, also cut the dogleg for the second straight day but bogied.

"We found an Easter egg out there — it shows the USGA guys are human after all," Chi Chi said.

Longhorn baseball jolted

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — The lure of pro money and poor grades have riddled the Texas Longhorn baseball team that was ranked No. 1 in the nation and finished fourth at the recent College World Series.

Texas may lose its best five pitchers and every starter on the World Series club except catcher Kevin Shannon and outfielder Jim Tjader.

Compounding the losses is the fact that Coach Cliff Gustafson has not signed a single schoolboy recruit.

Junior Keith Walker, whose .342 average was the second-best on the team, and home run leader Terry Salazar, a sophomore, both have signed professional contracts.

Junior pitcher Jerry Don Gleanon, the Longhorns top pitcher with a 13-1 record, is negotiating with the Texas Rangers, and junior second baseman Andre Robertson also is considering a pro offer.

The Austin American-Statesman said Friday senior pitcher Kem Wright has told Gustafson his brother, left-handed pitcher Ricky Wright, plans to pass up the fall semester so he will be eligible for the winter pro draft next January.

"I heard he wants to sign pretty badly in January," said Gustafson. Wright, 10-3, hurt a knee and missed the college playoffs.

In addition, right-handed sophomore pitcher Keith Creel and his brother, freshman first baseman Le-lannd Creel, were forced to withdraw from school because of poor grades and reportedly will attend Mountain-view Junior College at Duncanville to regain their eligibility.

"However," Gustafson said, "that will make him (Keith) eligible for the draft, too, so there's a double chance of our not getting him back next year."

Completing their eligibility this year were seniors Ronnie Gardenhire, a shortstop who signed with the New York Mets; outfielder Joe Bruno, who signed with the Philadelphia Phillies; third baseman Mark Chelleite; outfielder Scott Soden; and Kem Wright.

Bruno signed even though he was "really, really, really disappointed" at not being drafted.

Bruno led Texas in hitting for two years with averages of .348 and .350 and set a team record by stealing 28 bases as a junior, then broke his own record with 33 thefts this season.

"I think we've got our work cut out for us," said Gustafson, who was a spectator at the state schoolboy baseball tournament last week. "We'll have to build from the ground up. I don't think we've ever lost this much at one time before."

Asked if he thought Texas might have difficulty even making the Southwest Conference post-season tournament next year, Gustafson said, "We'll be there."

took up almost the entire rainy day. After using the indoor wooden courts Thursday, tournament officials decided to put all remaining singles matches on grass, but only one court was fit for play.

The tiebreaker of the first set was the first act in the strange drama. Ashe had six set points before winning the set with a big service. Mitton went boldly for his shots and saved two set points with lobs that had Ashe scrambling in vain on the damp grass.

Ashe survives ordeal

LONDON (AP) — Arthur Ashe survived the strangest ordeal of his tennis career Friday and outlasted Bernie Mitton of South Africa 7-6, 4-6, 15-13 in a match that took 6 1/2 hours and was interrupted five times by rain.

"In all the years I have been playing tennis I have never experienced anything like this," Ashe said. "It was the kind of match that comes once in a lifetime."

"Each time I lost my service I thought I was gone."

The Ashe-Mitton duel

gled off the hook and broke back.

Finally a vivid rainbow lit up the dark skies over London's Queen's Club as Ashe hit a fore-hand pass to break Mitton and win the match.

Billie Jean dominates Navratilova

CHICHESTER, England (AP) — Veteran American Billie Jean King crushed Wimbledon champion Martina Navratilova 6-1, 6-2 in 48 minutes Friday and advanced to the semifinals of the Chichester Grass Courts Tennis Tournament.

The 35-year-old King, playing in her first singles tournament since last year's Wimbledon, showed she had lost none of her old skill.

King now meets another former Wimbledon champion, Evonne Goolagong of Australia, in Saturday's semifinal at this $75,000 tournament.

Goolagong beat American Pam Teeguarden 6-2, 7-6 in her quarter-final match Friday.

The other semifinal will be between British No. 2 player Sue Barker and unheralded Tanya Harford, a 20-year-old South African.

Barker defeated American Kate Latham 6-3, 6-4, while Harford, ranked 19th in the world, scored her second upset in two days by defeating 16-year-old American Pam Shriver, 6-4, 5-7, 7-5.

King's superb performance against Navratilova stunned the disbelieving crowd and surprised King herself.

"I'd almost forgotten how to win," she said.

In 10 days, Billie Jean — six times the Wimbledon women's singles winner — will be going for her 20th Wimbledon title.

Her performance Friday proved she'll be a threat in the singles as well as the doubles.

Navratilova could not cope with King's scorching cross-court shots and threw her racket down disgustedly after losing five games in a row to drop the first set.

The crowd half expected Navratilova to hit back in the second set, but King refused to be thrown off stride. She reeled off another four games in succession to move into a second-set lead that her out-of-touch doubles partner could not match.

"To be honest, Martina did not play well," King said afterward. "But this win has given me whole new horizons and I now know I can do well at Wimbledon. I have proved I have the right to play there."

King's late entry for the Wimbledon singles was accepted only this week after two other players withdrew.

The eighth-seeded King, who lost to Chris Evert in last year's Wimbledon and underwent a foot operation last winter, was her bouncy, bubbly self after the match.

"I honestly haven't felt so fit for a few years," she said.

Her semifinal opponent Saturday, the fifth-seeded Goolagong, had little trouble disposing of Teeguarden.

King's quick as lightning victory over Navratilova was in sharp contrast to Harford's hard-fought two-hour victory over Shriver.

The South African staved off a final set-match point before prevailing 7-5.

Oliver's blastoff sinks Yanks, 9-5

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Al Oliver's two-run homer highlighted Texas' biggest inning of the year, an eight-run explosion in the fifth inning that carried the Rangers to a 9-5 victory over the skidding world champion New York Yankees Friday night.

The Rangers chased Ed Figueroa, 3-6, as they broke a 1-1 tie with their eight-run outburst, and also roughed up reliever Jim Kaat before he could put down the uprising.

Texas collected seven hits and 12 batters went to the plate. Johnny Grubb delivered a tie-breaking two-run single, Billy Sample squeezed home another run, Jim Sundberg hit a sacrifice fly and a throwing error by Figueroa accounted for another run.

Oliver's ninth homer of the year brought home the other two runs and the crowd of 35,452, Texas' largest of the season, gave the Rangers a standing ovation at the end of the inning.

Matlack, 4-3, who has long suffered from lack of support, was raked for 10 hits, including a two-run homer by Lou Piniella. He got relief help from Jim Kern in the eighth inning as the Rangers won for only the third time in the last 11 games and saddled the Yankees with their third consecutive setback.

Howe's double rips Expos, 2-1

MONTREAL (AP) — Art Howe's double into the gap in right center scored Denny Walling from first base in the ninth inning to lift the Houston Astros and Joaquin Andujar to a 2-1 victory over the Montreal Friday night.

Elias Sosa, 3-4, the fourth Expos pitcher, issued a one-out walk to Walling before Howe drove in the run that made a winner of Andujar, 6-4, who checked the Expos on five hits.

The Astros tied the game 1-1 in the fourth inning when Cesar Cedeno singled, stole second and scored on a two-out single by Walling-off Expos starter Scott Sanderson.

The Expos took a 1-0 lead in the second when Gary Carter slammed a one-out triple and scored on a sacrifice fly by Ellis Valentine.

The Astros threatened in the sixth when Rudy May relieved Anderson, who developed stiffness in his pitching elbow. May walked Cedeno and Jose Cruz before Stan Bahnsen came in to retire the side. He struck out Enos Cabell, got Walling on a grounder and fanned Art Howe.

Angels nip Tigers, 8-7

DETROIT (AP) — Bobby Grich hit a pair of home runs and Carney Lansford and Dan Ford hit one apiece as the California Angels defeated Detroit 8-7 Friday night and handed Sparky Anderson his second defeat in two games as manager of the Tigers.

Ford's blast, his eighth of the year, came in the ninth inning off Dave Tobik, 1-1, and snapped a 7-7 tie.

Jason Thompson and Champ Summers homered for Detroit.

Grich hit his 14th homer of the season into the upper left field seats in the third inning.

In the fourth, Detroit starter Dave Rozema hit Larry Harlow with a pitch with two out and Grich blasted another homer off the facing of the upper deck in left, giving the Angels a 5-2 lead.

Women dominate AAU track meet

WALNUT, Calif. (AP) — Deby LaPlante became the first American to smash the 13-second barrier in the women's 100-meter hurdles Friday, clocking 12.99 in a heat of the National AAU Track and Field Championships.

Meanwhile, high school sensation Candy Young set a world junior record in the same event.

LaPlante's time on the lightning-quick Mount San Antonio College track will not be eligible for an American record because it was wind-aided.

The wind gauge registered 2.5 meters per second, or 5.59 miles per hour more than the allowable two meters, or 4.47 mph.

The 26-year-old LaPlante, defending AAU champion, broke her American record of 13.13 earlier this year with a clocking of 13.10.

While the San Diego State University freshman was zipping to an easy victory in her heat, the 17-year-old Young, a high school junior from Beaver Falls, Pa., was clocked in 13.20, smashing the world junior mark of 13.25 set by Regina Beyer of East Germany in 1977. Young's performance also erased the American junior mark of 13.34 she established earlier this year.

World junior marks can be set by athletes under 19 years of age.

Meanwhile, hefty Maren Seidler of the San Jose Stars, seeking her eighth consecutive women's AAU shot put title and 10th overall, shattered her 1-year-old meet record of 59 feet, 8

Seaver helps own cause

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pitcher Tom Seaver helped his own cause with a two-run double and Johnny Bench hit a two-run homer as the Cincinnati Reds beat the Philadelphia Phillies 6-3 Friday night before a crowd of 50,222.

Seaver, 4-5, saw a streak of 27 consecutive batters retired come to an end in the Phillies' second, but improved his seventh-best all-time strikeout record to 2,801 with six. Seaver had retired the last 24 batters he had faced in his 7-1 victory over Montreal last Saturday night.

The Reds trailed 3-1 in the fourth when George Foster and Dan Driessen singled. Bench grounded out, Foster moving to third, and he scored on Ray Knight's infield out. Cesar Geronimo was walked intentionally, then Seaver doubled home two runs with a drive into left center.

In the fifth, the Reds boosted their lead to 6-3 when Bench hit his fifth home run of the season with Foster on base with his third single of the game.

Phillies starter Larry Christenson, 1-4, finished the inning but left for a pinch-hitter in the bottom of the inning.

Mazzilli, Swan lift Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — Lee Mazzilli drove in both New York runs with a pair of singles and Craig Swan fired a two-hitter to lead the Mets past the Atlanta Braves 2-1 Friday night.

Swan, 7-4, struck out seven and did not allow a walk but was involved in a bench-clearing incident in the sixth inning after he hit Atlanta starter Phil Niekro in the helmet with a pitch.

Atlanta Manager Bobby Cox was ejected when he confronted Swan on the field after Niekro was struck by the pitch. The confrontation brought all the players out of both dugouts and bullpens and before it ended, Cox had to be restrained by the umpires and the Braves' coaches.

Jeff Burroughs slammed his sixth home run of the season in the seventh inning to account for the Braves' run. Swan permitted a fifth-inning single by Rowland Office as the only other Atlanta hit.

Mazzilli singled home Joel Youngblood in the first inning after Youngblood had singled, moved to second on a balk and was sacrificed to third. In the eighth, Frank Taveras tripled off loser Joey McLaughlin, who had replaced Niekro, and Mazzilli singled off reliever Gene Garber to drive home the tie-breaking run.

Niekro was reported not to have been injured in the beaming incident.

Wortham beats Boston

CHICAGO (AP) — Mike Squires drove in four runs with a single, a two-run double and a suicide squeeze bunt Friday night to lead the Chicago White Sox to an 8-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox before a crowd of 46,556.

Squires singled a run home in the first inning, capped a five-run second with a two-run double and laid down a perfect squeeze bunt in the seventh to score Alan Bannister, who had tripled.

Richard Wortham, 7-5, was the winner and Mike Torrez, 6-4, was tagged with the loss.

The Red Sox broke on top with a run in the first inning on singles by Bob Watson, Jim Rice and Carlton Fisk but Chicago came back with two in the bottom of the inning on a pair of walks and singles by Jorge Orta and Squires.

Triple keeps Birds flying

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Al Bumbry drilled a tie-breaking two-run triple in the top of the ninth inning to lift the red-hot Baltimore Orioles past the Minnesota Twins 6-5 Friday night.

Bumbry's game-winning hit came off Minnesota relief ace Mike Marshall, 8-6, who walked Doug DeCinces and pinch hitter Terry Crowley, with two out.

The Twins scored a run in the bottom of the ninth on Willie Norwood's pinch single, a walk and a single by Butch Wynegar. However, Tim Stoddard came in and struck out Roy Smalley and Jose Morates to end the game.

Don Stanhouse, 5-1, picked up the victory in relief of Baltimore starter Dennis Martinez as the Orioles won for the eighth time in the last nine starts and opened a two-game lead over Boston in the American League East.

Cardinals sign Wayne Morris

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals have signed Wayne Morris to three one-year contracts.

The National Football League team said Friday that Morris, who rushed for more than 600 yards for the Cardinals the past two seasons, would have entered the option year of his previous contract this season.

Indians rout Mariners

CLEVELAND (AP) — Toby Harrah and Ron Pruitt each drove in a pair of runs to spark a seven-run second-inning explosion that helped Rick Waits and the streaking Cleveland Indians to a 13-3 rout of the Seattle Mariners Friday night.

Waits, 9-4, was backed by a 19-hit attack. He allowed two runs and six hits in eight innings, including a solo homer by Ruppert Jones in Seattle's two-run fourth.

Rautzhan given ticket to minors

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Left-handed pitcher Lance Rautzhan, obtained by Milwaukee from Los Angeles on waivers May 11, was assigned to the Brewers for Vancouver of the Pacific Coast League Friday.

Rautzhan had no decisions and a 9.00 ERA in three games for the Brewers.

Rautzhan was not immediately replaced on the roster, but the Brewers expect to activate infielder Don Money within a few days. Money has played only 11 games this season because of a pulled hamstring muscle.

Rangers give up Dave Chalk

TORONTO (AP) — The Oakland A's traded left-handed pitcher John Henry Johnson to the Texas Rangers Friday night for infielder Dave Chalk, catcher Mike Heath and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Johnson, 22, has appeared in 14 games with the A's this season, all but one as a starter. In 842-3 innings he has given up 45 runs, 41 of them earned, with a 2-8 record and an earned run

Underwood ends streak

TORONTO (AP) — Left-hander Tom Underwood ended a personal 15-game, two-year losing streak with a five-hit shutout Friday night as the Toronto Blue Jays beat the Oakland A's 6-0.

Underwood, who had dropped his first nine decisions this season, walked one and struck out two in going the distance for the fifth time this year and recording his first victory since he beat Baltimore last Aug. 8.

Royals earn wild win

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Willie Wilson, who started Kansas City's comeback with a three-run homer in the sixth inning, capped an eight-run ninth inning with a three-run inside-the-park homer as the Royals rallied for a wild 14-11 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers Friday night.

The Royals, down 11-2 after four innings, trailed 11-6 entering the ninth when singles by Wilson and Jamie Quirk began the rally against Paul Mitchell, Milwaukee's second pitcher.

Mets obtain Andy Hassler

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets obtained left-handed pitcher Andy Hassler from the Boston Red Sox for an unspecified amount of cash, the club announced Friday.

The 27-year-old Hassler was 1-2 with Boston this year with an 8.80 earned run average in eight games.

Hassler had a 2-1 record with the Red Sox last year after he was obtained from Kansas City on July 24, 1978.

Death wrecks Dorsett's plans

DALLAS (AP) — A rare disease that causes gradual but complete paralysis is believed to be the cause of the death of Gigi Clayton, a bright, beautiful young girl who was to marry Dallas Cowboys football player Tony Dorsett.

A preliminary autopsy report released Friday showed Miss Clayton, a debutante and honors student, died of Landry-Guillian-Barre Syndrome.

THE DISEASE first was discovered in France, but it received widespread publicity in the United States in 1975-76 when several hundred persons developed the syndrome after receiving Swine flu immunizations. No direct link was proven between the disease and the Swine flu shots, but the illnesses led to the suspension of the federal immunization program. A spokesman for the Dallas County Medical Examiner's office said the disease usually appears two to three weeks after a minor respiratory or gastro-intestinal infection. It gradually causes paralysis over the entire body and its vital organs.

The spokesman, who asked not to be identified, said treatment is usually supportive. About 95 percent of those hospitalized recover, and of those, 90 percent recover completely.

A DISTRAUGHT Dorsett said Miss Clayton was the person who "taught me how to fall in love," and had hoped to announce in August plans to marry the 18-year-old.

Their storybook time together — he met her at a Christmas party last year — came to an end late last Friday night in the intensive care ward of Parkland Hospital.

She was buried Wednesday. Hundreds of friends came from the University of Houston, where she attended business technology class, and from Dallas high schools she attended.

Dallas Cowboys football stars Ed "Too Tall" Jones, Tony Hill and Thomas "Hollywood" Henderson were honorary pall bearers. Dorsett, who leaned into her coffin to kiss her goodbye, said, "I keep telling myself she's not dead. She and I had made so many plans together. Gigi was so full of life," the Cowboys' premier running back said. "She'll always live within me." Ezra Clayton said his daughter and Dorsett "had plans. Everybody knew it was coming. It must have been some kind of strong relationship. They were just drawn together."

THE COURTSHIP was going fine until just after Memorial Day, when the Clayton family attended a cookout at Dorsett's home not far from Dallas. The next day she drove Dorsett to the airport so he could catch a flight to California.

She first became ill the next day while driving around Dallas in Dorsett's Mercedes-Benz. She returned home complaining of a strange feeling in her extremities.

Hargrove, Dade trade good for both players

CLEVELAND (AP) — An old sports trading adage is: you have to give something to get something. Cleveland and San Diego both seemed to feel that was the case Thursday as the Indians traded outfielder-third baseman Paul Dade to the Padres for outfielder-first baseman Mike Hargrove.

"I'm sorry to see Paul leaving," said Indians third baseman Toby Harrah. "The last three weeks or month he's really started things off for us with a key hit, a stolen base or a good play in the field."

"But Mike Hargrove will be a great asset to our ballclub. I played with him at Texas for several years and he's not only a fine ballplayer, but also a fine man."

"He can do a lot of things for you," Harrah added. "He can hit the ball out and he gets on base. He gives us the left-handed hitter we've been looking for."

Hargrove, traded by Texas to San Diego last October, was hitting only .192 with no homers and eight runs batted in. He played in 52 ballgames for the Padres, but came to bat only 125 times.

"I'm thrilled to be going," Hargrove said. "I think the deal's good for me and good for the Padres. I was given about 60 at-bats and then they started taking me out of the lineup. I just couldn't get going, couldn't sustain anything."

"I don't think I was given a legitimate chance to prove what I can do in San Diego, but it's not my job to fill out the lineup card. I think I'll get a chance to play in Cleveland."

Padres Manager Roger Craig said: "We had an abundance of first basemen and felt he was the one we had to move. Dade gives our ballclub some pluses. He can play outfield, third, come off the bench and he has good speed. He might be a good No. 2 hitter for us."

Hargrove, 29, was the American League Rookie of the Year for Texas in 1974. He went into this season with a .283 career batting average. His best season was 1977 when he hit .305 with 18 home runs, 69 RBI, 103 walks and 98 runs scored.

Hargrove slipped to .251 with seven homers and 40 RBI last year.

Santiago gasping for air

By SHIRLEY CHRISTIAN

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — This is Santiago. Color it gray.

Make the eyes and throats of the four million inhabitants red. Coat the cars and buildings in grimy dust, the dust that hangs over the city like bomb fallout and has exceeded internationally accepted levels by as much as 70 per cent in recent weeks.

And the snow-capped Andes peaks that are Santiago's postcard image — leave them out of the picture, hidden in smog.

SANTIAGO IS ONE of the world's smoggiest cities, maybe the smoggiest in certain months. This year things have gotten worse at a staggering pace and now for the first time — years after U.S. cities imposed pollution rules — authorities here are trying to do something.

They are requiring checks of auto exhaust systems and levying fines against smoky vehicles. A TV ad campaign also is being used to raise public consciousness, and there are calls for limiting traffic.

And why is Santiago so smoggy? Environmental expert Eugenio Cruz Vergara explained that in most cities the components of smog are carried to altitudes of 30,000 to 40,000 feet by wind and heat. But natural factors, he said, hold the smog cap over Santiago as low as 200 feet. If it dropped to ground level, it could kill hundreds or even thousands, Cruz Vergara said.

Much of the blame rests with Pedro de Valdivia, the Spanish conquistador

Much of the blame rests with Pedro de Valdivia, the Spanish conquistador who founded Santiago in 1541. He was thinking of protection against invaders when he laid out the city with the Andes at its back and the rolling coastal range in front.

who founded Santiago in 1541. He was thinking of protection against invaders when he laid out the city with the Andes at its back and the rolling coastal range in front.

THE RESULT IS the city has only two entrances for wind, from south and southwest. The winds collide at the city's eastern edge and send the pollutants back into town instead of carrying them up and out.

Valdivia, of course, didn't anticipate the motor car and industry. Cars and buses are kept on the streets of Santiago years longer than in richer countries, and they are big polluters. Walking behind a line of Chilean buses is certain to set off coughing and choking.

Officials also say many new imported cars do not have the pollution control devices required in the manufacturing country, especially those from Japan.

At the same time, the number of cars is growing rapidly because of the military government's open-door import policy. The number of cars increased 13.8 per cent in Santiago during in April alone.

Santiago also has a low annual rainfall — about 14 inches — most of it in July and August, the Southern Hemisphere's winter. Spring and early summer, September into January, are the cleanest because the heat makes dust rise. With the end of summer, things get bad, and by now — late fall — the city is gasping for rain to clean the air.

IN RECENT DAYS, health officials say, the amount of dust suspended in the air has reached 444 micrograms per cubic meter; the World Health Organization has set 256 micrograms as the maximum tolerable. Sulfur trioxide is almost at the WHO's maximum tolerable level.

Officials say there is more dust and sulfur trioxide this year than last. And now, after years of just being polite to environmentalists, the government and people seem convinced something must be done.

Now cars have to be tested for exhaust emissions before new license plates are issued. A small team of health inspectors also is spot checking smoke and carbon monoxide emissions on vehicles stopped at random. On the first day, fines were levied against drivers of 80 per cent of the vehicles checked. The fines range from $20 to $400.

The public service TV announcements declare: "Pollution: Fault of a few, problem of everybody." On World Environment Day, June 5, a group of bicyclists rode through a downtown mall wearing gas masks.

Avoid those losing finesses if you can

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

There are several ways to lose finesses, all of them unsatisfactory. The surest way to avoid losing a finesse is to make an opponent give you a free finesse.

South ruffed the queen of spades, drew trumps and led diamonds. When the diamonds broke unfavorably, South tried the club finesse. West won, and South eventually gave up a second club trick.

MUST RUFF SPADES
After drawing trumps South should lead a diamond to the queen, ruff a spade, a diamond to the king, and ruff dummy's last spade. South then leads a diamond to the ace.

When it turns out that West still has the jack of diamonds, South leads dummy's last diamond and discards the low club. West wins the trick but cannot get out safely.

If West returns a club, South cannot lose the finesse; if West returns anything else, dummy ruffs while South discards another club.

DAILY QUESTION
Partner bids one club, you bid one spade, and he jumps to three spades. The opponents pass throughout. You hold: S: A, 8, 7, 5, 2; H: 10, 4; D: 9, 5; J: 10, 9, 8. What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass. You might accept this invitation if you had a singleton in one red suit and three low cards in the other. If partner had enough to produce game he would bid four spades or jump in a new suit.

Phobia study asked

LONDON (AP) — "That's part of my illness," told a reporter during the visit: "It's terrifying for me, to be here away from the security of my home." The delegation asked the government to finance research into the phobia and to pay special allowances to sufferers.

Pittsburgh woman faces prison, fine for barratry

By EARL BOHN

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Marilyn Lewis learned the hard way that lawsuits aren't always legal.

After filing some 20 suits against Richard Lewis Jr. following their 1976 divorce, Mrs. Lewis became the only woman in the English-speaking world to be convicted of barratry, according to her attorney, David O'Hanesian.

Barratry, the criminal offense of harassing someone with unjust lawsuits, is not a distinction she is proud of.

"Up until this, I've been a model citizen," the mother of two said in a recent interview. "I've never even had a traffic ticket. That's why it's difficult to deal with."

Mrs. Lewis, of nearby Munhall, was prosecuted by the county district attorney and convicted last September. She faces up to a year in prison and $2,500 in fines. Sentencing has been delayed pending appeals.

Barratry is little known even among lawyers. It was handed down from England's common law, a collection of laws accepted through usage but not necessarily recorded in writing.

"It's absolutely astounding that it still exists today," said John Burkoff, a University of Pittsburgh law professor who covers barratry in his teachings. "I do it in about five or 10 minutes, and I'm sure I'm one of the few who teach it."

"It's the very backbone of modern law," he said.

Barratry gets lengthier treatment in courses on the history of law, said John Parse, assistant dean at Duquesne University Law School. But few students take the course. "It's an elective that's avoided at all costs," he said.

Only a handful of men have ever been convicted of barratry. The only recorded conviction involving a man in Pennsylvania was in 1886.

At Mrs. Lewis' trial, prosecutors cited nine of the approximately 20 lawsuits, including one in which she accused a Common Pleas judge, a Pittsburgh city councilman and her ex-husband of conspiring against her.

Some of the other suits were for simple assault, breaking into her home and to evict tenants from jointly-owned property.

"They say, 'Why did you file so many suits?'" Mrs. Lewis said. "I filed them because I had to."

Tape recordings heard by jurors in Estes trial

DALLAS (AP) — Three lengthy tape recordings played in federal court here Friday put a crack in the "good boy" image of paroled West Texas swindler Billie Sol Estes in the first day of testimony in his fraud trial.

Estes and co-defendant Raymond K. Horton are accused of devising a scheme to defraud investors through mortgages on non-existent oil field steam cleaners and of concealing assets from the federal government through profitable dummy companies.

The opening testimony of an undercover IRS agent shed light on what likely will be a lengthy tale of big money, intrigue and flashy Texas wheeling and dealing.

Special Agent Walter Perry told jurors Estes promised to negotiate several big money deals for him in return for 50 percent of the profits. Perry said he was to put up all the capital in the deals.

Perry said he posed as the Dallas businessman looking for shady — but profitable — energy investments when he was introduced to Estes in July of 1977.

Perry outlined the undercover operation that ultimately totaled seven agents posing as his chauffeur, accountant, attorney and associates. The agents recorded 29 hours of conversations and negotiations using specially equipped telephones or battery operated body transmitters.

Donning special earphones, jurors heard Estes brag that he controlled numerous unnamed companies, kept unnamed government officials in his pocket and called Horton a "complete crook."

Assistant U.S. Attorney Jim Rolf said he plans to submit three to four hours of the tapes. But defense attorneys objected to only portions of the

After 10 days, attorneys complete Henley jury panel

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — After 10 days of tedious questioning — during which many persons said they had already formed opinions on the case — attorneys Friday completed seating 34 potential jurors for the Elmer Wayne Henley murder retrial.

A total of 106 persons were interviewed before the 34 were picked. After the final venireman was approved, State District Judge Noah Kennedy recessed the case for the weekend.

The trial will resume Monday morning with the state exercising its right to strike 10 names from the panel. The defense will be allowed 12 strikes. The remaining 12 will hear the case.

Henley is charged with murdering six of the 26 victims of a Houston homosexual thrice spree. The grisly killings came to light in 1973 when Henley said he had killed Dean Corl — a Houston man Henley said murdered the killings.

The defendant, now 23, was convicted of the murders in 1975 and given six 99-year prison terms. However, the verdict was thrown out on appeal and the new trial was ordered.

An appeals court ruled that the judge in the first trial should have held a venue change requested by the defense after the case was moved to San Antonio.

The defense was granted the two additional strikes Thursday after 32 persons had been chosen. Kennedy originally planned to seat 32 persons and then grant 10 strikes to each side. But defense lawyer Will Gray of Houston, questioning the manner in which some of the potential jurors were qualified, asked that 15 additional persons be seated.

Kennedy allowed only two additional defense strikes. After the 34th person was seated Friday, Gray again asked for the 15 but Kennedy refused.

Juneteenth fest continues today

On Monday, after all strikes are made, the jurors will be sequestered. While they are lodged in a local hotel, the court will take up the only pending pretrial motion. Gray is asking that a written statement given by Henley to investigators in 1973 be suppressed.

The statement also was contested at the first trial but was admitted into evidence.

Kennedy said that once the jury is sequestered, he will impose a gag order on lawyers in the case.

The third annual Juneteenth Family Carnival and Celebration in Washington Park will continue today and Sunday. Festivities started Thursday in the park.

Entertainment will take place on the stage of the Showmobile today. Disc jockeys, disco dancing, battle of the bands and talent contests will be part of the show.

Sunday activities will begin with spiritual singing from noon to 1 p.m. Other festivities will continue through the day.
