Senate now scrutinizing SALT accords

WASHINGTON (AP) - In a test of how best to deal with the Soviet Union and diminish the threat of nuclear war, the Senate is scrutinizing the SALT II treaty after hearing a solemn pledge from President Carter to carry his fight for ratification "to every American who will listen."

Carter's appeal to a joint session of Congress Monday night did nothing to diminish demands from critics for substantial changes in the treaty which was negotiated over a sevenyear period.

"I think the treaty has no chance of being passed without amendment," said Senate Republican Leader Howard H. Baker of Tennessee.

The harshest reaction came from Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who called the president "foolish."

"I think he's been foolish," said Jackson, a hard-line opponent of Strong support for the treaty came from Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a frequent Carter critic on domestic issues.

"History will judge the Senate harshly if we fail to fulfill the promise now at hand," said Kennedy.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee is working out a detailed schedule of hearings on the treaty. The panel plans to open its public examination of the agreement July 9, with Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance and Defense Secretary Harold Brown presenting the administration's case.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the committee, said he thought Carter "made a strong impact on the country." But Church added he thought it was impossible to gauge the reaction of the Senate at this early stage in the debate.

"What this country needs is an intelligent and rational and informed debate and I hope that the Senate will rise to that responsibility," Church said.

Carter made it clear, in a speech

sion audience as well as Congress, that he believes the best argument for SALT is to consider the world without

"SALT II is a matter of common sense," said the president. "SALT II does not end the arms competition, but it does make that competition safer and more predictable, with clear rules and verifiable limits where otherwise there would be no rules and there would be no limits."

Without the treaty, Carter said: The Soviets could build 1,000 new missiles, double the number of warheads on existing missiles, triple the production rate of the Backfire bomber, increase the Backfire's range, encode all data from missile tests and hide all their launchers.

The treaty limits each nation to deployment of 2,250 launchers for intercontinental weapons, a reduction from the 2,400 allowed under SALT I. The agreement also limits to 1,200 the number of ballistic missiles that can be armed with multiple warheads.

Carter pledged that the defense and foreign policy officials of his administration would testify before the Senate "in detail and in public" and added that "this treaty will withstand the most severe scrutiny

The president also pledged: "I will explain it throughout our nation to every American who will listen." Both supporters and critics are drafting new language to address troubling issues raised during the long history of negotiations. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., filed an amendment even before Carter and Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev signed the treaty Monday in Vienna, Austria. Goldwater's change would count the Soviet Backfire bomber among the weapons limited by the pact.

The Soviets have made it clear they would reject the treaty rather than include the Backfire, which they claim is a medium-range plane.

Cancer center delayed while request amended

By SUSAN TOTH

Approval for a cancer treatment center in Midland has been moved back again, this time at the request of Midland hospital officials.

Midland Memorial Hospital Monday requested a public hearing on the proposed $1.7 million facility be postponed while the hospital "significantly and materially amends" the proposal based on new information gained in a meeting with officials of M.D. Anderson Hospital in Houston earlier in the day.

The request came at a rehearing on the matter before the Project Review Committee of the Permian Basin Health Systems Agency Monday

The amendments, according to Midland Memorial Hospital attorney Fred Davis, will result in the application's being reaccepted and redated by the Texas Health Facilities Commission, which must issue a certificate of need before the center can be

The redating will set the hearings before the HSA back to their beginning point, Davis said.

While Midland officials would not comment on the nature of the changes. Davis said "we are very excited about the changes to be made. We think it will result in a significantly enhanced and strengthened appli-

A group of Midland Memorial Hospital officials met in Houston Monday with Dr. Charles A. The Midland group included Ed Magruder, president of the Midland County Hospital District; Mickey Cappadonna, a member of the hospital board of trustees; John J. They were met in Houston by Wilbur Yeager Jr., president of The First National Bank in Midland, Magruder tentative agreement with M.D. Anderson was outlined in the original application for the certificate of need for the cancer center, and was one point challenged by Odessa's Medical Center Hospital officials in their request for a rehearing.

The meeting between the Midland group and the Houston group had been planned since June 12, Magruder said, when LeMaistre said he would be available for the meeting.

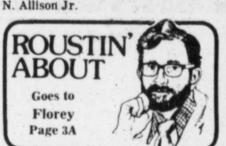

The application for the cancer center was to go back through the hearing process beginning Monday night with a rehearing by the project review committee because of objections from Medical Center Hospital officials.

Medical Center pointed out procedural problems in the original hearings held May 21 on the Midland cancer center and requested the re-

Odessa representatives appeared taken by surprise by the move Monday night to postpone the hearing.

Despite the amendment announcement, Joe Weber, Medical Center's attorney, read a letter to the committee contending the equipment list for the Midland center would basically duplicate equipment already available in Odessa.

Funds for the sophisticated treatment center in Midland were donated by Midland resident Helon Y. Allison as a memorial to her late husband, James N. Allison Sr., and son, James

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - Gov. Bill Clements said today an odd-even day gasoline sales plan for Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth to start Monday will require a $6 minimum purchase for most cars. 'I have considered this fact carefully and am doing what I feel is the minimum required at this time," Clements told a news conference.

Other cities can adopt the plan after notifying his office, the governor The system will allow drivers whose cars license tags end in odd numbers to buy gas on odd-numbered days. Even-numbered cars will be able to fill up on even-numbered days. Cars with letters ending in the first half of the alphabet, A-M. will be treated as even-numbered while tags ending in N-Z will purchase fuel on odd-numbered days, the governor said.

Out-of-state, emergency and commercial vehicles will be able to buy gas any day of the week, Clements said. Cars with gas tanks of 10-gallons on less are exempt from the $6 minimum sales, he added. The maxmium purchase will be 20 gallons.

"It is my intention to remove these mandatory rules as soon as the situation eases. Conversely, should the situation worsen, I will not hesitate to develop further restrictions," he explained.

"We will institute this program in those three counties, but the rest of the state had better understand it will get worse before it gets better," Clements said Monday night on a television talk show carried by many of the public television stations in Texas.

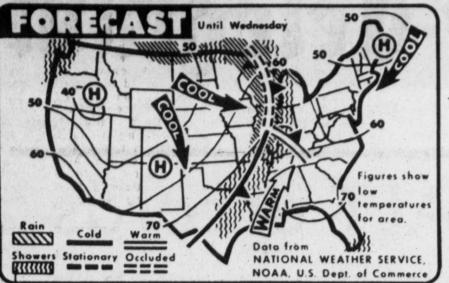

The governor termed the situation "critical" in Tarrant, Dallas and Harris counties where long lines snake away from gas pumps open only briefly or closed entirely on weekends.

Clements said earlier that voluntary conservation had not cut gasoline conservation enough.

"Between Harris County and the metroplex of Dallas and Tarrant counties are 38 percent of all vehicles in Texas," Clements said. He said gasoline supplies will be allocated to approximately match the number of cars in the three counties.

"We're going to try to take care of the maldistribution problem," said Clements. "Some people are going to be inconvenienced. There's no doubt about it," he added.

Cool temperatures are expected today through Wednesday morning for the northern and central Plains and for the Northeast. Warm weather is forecast for the Southeast. A band of rain and showers is forecast from eastern Texas to the upper Great Lakes. (AP Laserphoto Map)

Carter makes case for SALT

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter, making his case for the SALT II treaty, argues that its rejection would leave the United States' land-based missiles, including the MX, jeopardized by growing Soviet strategic strength.

Opponents are already arguing that the better way to protect the landbased missile force is to reject the

And that is just one example of how the debate on SALT II, a pact the president calls "a matter of common sense," is likely to confuse the public, and perhaps the Senate.

Carter, in his speech to a joint session of Congress Monday night, began the Senate's SALT II debate by asserting the treaty "reverses the momentum of the Soviet arms buildup," but "constrains none of the reasonable programs we have planned to improve our defense."

One of those programs is the MX, a $30-billion missile more powerful and accurate than anything now in the U.S. arsenal. Moreover, the MX would be mobile. It could be shifted around, perhaps in underground trenches, to foil a potential Soviet

"Without the SALT II limits, the Soviet Union could build so many warheads than any land-based system, fixed or mobile, could be jeopardized," the president said.

Treaty critics have a simple answer to Carter. They say the United States, without the treaty, could build decoy missile silos faster and for less money than the Soviets could deploy additional warheads aimed at the silos.

Carter said that when he finally decides how to deploy the MX, it will be in a "verifiable mobile deployment system.

Critics like Paul Nitze argue that the treaty in fact prohibits the deployment method favored by the Air Force, in which a missile would shuttle around a grid of silos, with the Soviets never sure which one the mis-

Nitze claims this would violate treaty prohibitions against constructing additional launchers and deliberate concealment to impede verification that the treaty is being adhered to. The Soviets say they have yet to see a mobile deployment mode they would find verifiable.

And the MX was not the only debate the president started.

"It slows, even reverses, the momentum of the Soviet arms buildup,' the president said of the pact. "Under the treaty, the Soviet Union will be held to a third fewer strategic missile launchers and bombers than they would have simply by continuing to

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) -Supporters of evangelist Lester Roloff boarded two buses and several private cars early today, bound for the State Capitol at Austin to protest a state judge's order that Roloff seek licenses for his youth homes or surrender the juveniles in his care.

An Austn police officer said the caravan was last sighted near Karnes City around 9:45 a.m. - a two-hour drive from Austin.

It was not known whether Roloff was with the group.

Meanwhile in Austin, Roloff's attorneys asked the Texas Supreme Court to block the judge's order to close the homes. The Roloff group attended a rally

here Monday night in which Roloff said officers who try to enforce the state order will find non-violent resistance only until they try to take the youths from the homes. 'When they come to get you," he told residents of his Rebekah Home at a Monday night rally, "I want you to act like you did when you came in "A little girl has a right to protect

Last week, State District Judge Charles Mathews of Austin gave Roloff until today to seek licenses or facing closing of the Rebekah Home, the Park Avenue Day School here and the Anchor Home for Boys in Zapata. Roloff says the order could leave up to 400 children with no place to go.

More than 3,000 Roloff followers jammed into his People's Church for the boisterous rally. Many came from outside of Texas and many were preachers who claimed to be facing similar legal battles. A surprise guest and speaker at the rally, Rep. Clay Smothers, D-Dallas, set the tone for the rally with his fiery talk. Smothers said he also runs a private youth home based on the "Brother Roloff doesn't take state

State District Judge George Hamilton said he unknowingly signed an order that might have been contrary to the one issued by Mathews.

"The lawyer brought me the order and assured me it had nothing to do with Roloff. He said some of the parents wanted their children returned to them when they are taken from the Roloff home. They were not under a court order, so I felt it would be proper to return them to their parents," Hamilton said Monday.

But after a call from Attorney General Mark White, Hamilton said he read the order and found that it included all the children at the homes and might countermand Mathews'

An hour after he signed the order without reading it, Hamilton rescinded the action.

As the mass rally was going on here, Gov. Bill Clements - a Roloff friend - spoke about the situation on statewide public television. He called Roloff "a fine, dedicated Christian

Testimony won't hurt case, prosecutors say

DALLAS (AP) - Prosecutors say testimony by their chief witness that there is no documented evidence that Bille Sol Estes concealed assets from the Internal Revenue Service will not hurt their case in the federal fraud trial of the paroled West Texas swin-

IRS undercover investigator Walter Perry - who posed as a high-rolling investor in dealings with Estes testified Monday that, "If there were any assets to seize, I imagine the IRS would have seized them. Estes and a business associate.

Raymond K. Horton of Midland, are accused of conspiracy to defraud investors with nonexistent oil field steam cleaners and concealing assets from the federal government. Assistant U.S. Attorney Jim Rolfe contended evidence that Estes shared stock in an energy development company with Horton still stands "even if it (the stock) wasn't worth very much.'

Rolfe said the prosecution does not need to prove Estes had considerable holdings to establish that he tried to hide them from the IRS. Prosecutors have introduced over 29 hours of tapes of clandestine meetings during 1977 between Estes and undercover IRS agents posing as possible business investors.

Jurors chuckled frequently when Horton's attorney, William Ravkind, questioned-Perry about his meetings with the Abilene wheeler-dealer. Ravkind pointed out in one transcript that Estes told Perry he had been offered $7 million in book and movie rights to "tell his (Estes')

"You mean to tell me Estes was offered $7 million for a story we're all hearing for free," Ravkind said.

During each of the four days of the trial Ravkind has asked U.S. District Judge Robert Hill to sever Horton's trial from Estes' case. The judge has refused repeatedly to grant the mo-

FLOREY - Oveda Armstrong stepped outside and came right back

Lonesome Florey was basking in the sun, and that's about all that was going on in the isolated neighborhood. Florey has a population of five, and that doesn't include Old Blue the dog or Halfbred the cat.

If anything at all is happening along the 28 miles between Andrews and Seminole, it's almost bound to be at Florey. There is not much of anything else along the way.

There's not much at Florey, either.

The wherewithal of Florey is "kind of a mystery," said Mrs. Armstrong. "Nobody knows a whole lot."

The Florey of today, however, is not the Florey of yesteryear. The Old Florey community-school site is several miles to the east and was established early in the 1900s. The community was named after a settler, A.J. Florey. The old farming-ranching community is no more. The "new" Florey is a modern-day watering

Mrs. Armstrong, her husband W.J. "Jigg" Armstrong and her mother, Ida "Granny" Dodd, run the only business "in town." It's a glorified coffee shop. The Armstrongs' two children, daughter Stacy, 12, and son Jackie, 14, bed down there.

THEY ARE the town - that spot along the roadside - and it's under one roof, except for the filling station's fuel pumps.

The spot is a stuccoed snack bar, coffee shop, odds-and-ends grocery store, living quarters and former rural branch of the Andrews Post Office. Andrews is 10 miles to the south along U.S. Highway 385.

Last year, the Armstrongs got the government to get rid of the post office branch because "it was too much trouble for what the government wanted to pay," Mrs. Armstrong said. Anyway, they could use the mail-house space now for a grill and increased the table-seating area. This place along the roadside is

"People that come by call this "the oasis in the desert," said Mrs. Arm-

In the summertime, it's cooler inside than out.

"IT'S QUIET and peaceful out

And things sort of pick up when working men - mostly from the oil patch, ranches and farms - stop by for coffee and grub and maybe a pair of mule-skin gloves, cigarettes and the such

'We get a good crowd of customers out here," said Granny, who's 71 and looking forward to 72 and beyond. "Most of our customers are working men, and they're hungry and thirsty." There's no beer in the house, though. Andrews is a dry county.

"We ain't got a juke box banging," Mrs. Armstrong said, "and people can come in here in think and

They make a pretty fair cup of coffee, homemade sandwiches, hamburgers and hot dog chili in the summertime. In the winter, they tack on stew, red beans and cornbread.

"We're country," said Granny.
"It's kind of Marlboro country out

And she said that if the coffeedrinkers complain about the Armstrong-Granny brew, her daughter good-humoredly will tell them exactly

"If they complain about the coffee," Granny said with the full enjoyment of making a joke, "she (her daughter) tells them to go across the street and get another cup.

THE COFFEE is made from well water, which is "supposed to be the best water in Andrews County.' Their work at home apparently is satisfying in a tiring sort of way. "It isn't a boring job. We get tired, but we don't get bored," Granny

As much as the Armstrongs and Granny like living in the "middle of nowhere," country living is fairly new to them. They've only been out here for two years. Before that, they lived in Andrews, where Armstrong starts his workday; he's a maintainer operator for the county. Though the post office branch is forever gone from Florey, Mrs. Armstrong "has" the rural mail route here. She used to make the run, but now leaves the driving to someone else.

For years before moving out West, the Armstrongs lived in Central and East Texas.

"It looks good and smells good." Mrs. Armstrong reminisced about the tree-thick area. "But you always come back out here, and it looks good. The sand gets in your craw.'

The "lure" of the sand and the quietness of lonesome Florey alongthe-roadside appeal to the Armcotton to people dropping by for a visit, simple vittles and coffee.

"When somebody comes to see us, we're real glad to see them," Mrs. Armstrong said. "It's different living

Florey of today in Andrews County is a one-spot community of five — the Armstrong family and "Granny," Ida Dodd. They live under the same roof that covers the coffee shop and more. in Laetrile

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - Florida could become the nation's Laetrile-producing capital following a U.S. Supreme Court ruling upholding a ban on interstate uses of the controversial drug, state officials say.

The Supreme Court on Monday upheld the Food and Drug Administration's right to ban interstate shipment of Laetrile or any of the materials used in the manufacture of the fruitpit derivative intended for use by cancer victims.

The Florida Legislature this year legalized the manufacture of Laetrile. Some state officials said Florida has the means to produce the drug without importing any materials and thus stay within the law. The Supreme Court decision reversed a federal appeals court ruling that drugs intended to treat the terminally ill need not comply with federal safety and effectiveness standards. An FDA spokesman said he doubted any of the other states that allow the manufacture of Laetrile or its use by terminally ill cancer patients can produce the substance without importing any materials. California, a state in which apricots grow in abundance, has barred

Conserving Energy

By Alfred Sheinwold

When Paul Miller, president of Pacific Lighting. recently got an award for conservation of energy, I thought of a hand he played a few weeks ago.

The average spendthrift would lead a spade from dummy and waste tons (or perhaps ergs) of energy trying to guess whether to play the king or jack of spades. No guess would help

SAVED ERGS

Miller saved all those ergs by playing the hand properly. He took the ace of clubs, drew two rounds of trumps and ran the hearts to discard a club from dummy. Then he led a club. West had to win and then had to lead spades (since a heart or a club would let dummy ruff while South discarded a spade). The energy Miller saved (or perhaps his winnings on this hand) would pay the average family's annual gas

Our 'new' airport

Midland Regional Airport takes its place as one of the largest, finest, busiest and best-equipped public aviation facilities in the great Southwest, and beyond. And residents of Midland and this rapidly-growing region have every reason to be exceptionally proud of it.

Formal ceremonies dedicating the remodeled, expanded and vastly improved air terminal were held last Friday, with the City of Midland and the Midland Chamber of Commerce in charge of arrangements. Although some "clean-up" work remains to be done, the dedication ceremonies, for all practical purposes, marked completion of the multi-million dollar project.

The new terminal has to be one of the most modern, most convenient and most comfortable facilities of its kind to be found anywhere. City of Midland officials and administrative and aviation department personnel have done a tremendous job in directing and overseeing the planning, designing and actual construction of the terminal building and its adjoining multi-level parking facility. And the City of Midland taxpayers must be credited with making the necessary funds available.

It hasn't been the easiest job in the world by any means, conducting such an extensive renovation program right along with the ever-increasing, everyday operation of the airport. But somehow the airport and airlines personnel and, more particularly, the airport patrons, accepted the many and varied inconveniences in fairly good graces, which most certainly is highly commendable on the part of all concerned.

Patrons were told at the beginning and during the two-year construction period to be patient and understanding, and that eventually they would realize that the inconveniences were necessary and worthwhile. And this is exactly the situation as it exists today. It is great. And certainly it was well worth waiting for. As to the inconveniences, many of them now seem rather insignificant.

The First National Bank of Midland certainly must be credited with helping to ease one of the major inconveniences by providing free shuttle bus service from the somewhat distant temporary parking area to the terminal during the period of con-

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Henry, shah found bank friends

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON - No survivor of the Nixon administration inspires greater veneration today than the intellect who was Richard Nixon's secretary of state. He was the most powerful man in the Cabinet, the No. 2 man in that embattled administration. Yet after all the Watergate fallout, the image of the brilliant, urbane, witty Henry Kissinger still prevails.

His quiet charm disarms men and captivates women, although he is an unlikely looking Lothario. Pudgy and fat-faced, blinking through glasses, Kissinger has the look of a stuffed owl. Yet he has an arresting face pensive, bemused - and an air of detached intellectuality. He speaks in a soft, Germanic monotone, in easy command of an awesome array of strategic concepts and tactical

He came into the Nixon fold from the intimate circle of wise men around the Rockefeller brothers. In the mid-1950s, he took time out from his Harvard lectures to direct a series of foreign policy studies for the Rockefeller Brothers Fund.

He soon found himself swept up in the political world of the late Nelson Rockefeller. As Rockefeller's foreign policy adviser, Kissinger not only steered Rockefeller through the diplomatic shoals but briefed reporters who sought Rockefeller's views. The Kissinger biographers, Marvin and Bernard Kalb, describe Kissinger as "one of the crown jewels in the Rockefeller diadem.

He moved into the Nixon White House with Rockefeller's quiet blessings. Kissinger's calm mastery of foreign affairs made him a power in the new administration. Yet he re-

Kissinger also brought David Rockefeller, chairman of Chase Manhattan Bank, into the backrooms of the State Department as an adviser.

The foreign policy that Kissinger fashioned did no damage to the Rockefeller interest around the Rockefeller brothers had close financial ties to the shah of Iran. They participated with him in a variety of financial ventures, and Chase Manhattan became his favorite bank.

A former high official of the Iranian National Oil Company recalls that the shah ordered the company to bank with Chase Manhattan. "There was insistence," the official told us, "that all letters of credit for the purchase of oil go through Chase Manhattan. The bank, of course, collected a percentage worth millions.

Iranian sources alleged that some of the shah's henchmen also set up special Chase Manhattan accounts, which were used to channel funds into the shah's private enterprises. Bank sources acknowledged that Chase Manhattan has had business dealings with the shah but a spokesman declined to discuss "personal relations between the bank and any customer."

In a series of columns, we have cited documentary evidence that the shah was the real power behind the drive for higher oil prices in 1973-74. He wanted the money to finance his dreams of glory.

But the largest oil power, Saudi Arabia, feared the worldwide economic consequences and, therefore, opposed the oil-price increases. The Saudis had the capacity to flood the market with oil and break the cartel price. But they didn't want to stand alone against their Arab neighbors.

They appealed to the United States, which had installed the shah on the Peacock Throne and had supplied him with an enormous military arsenal. No doubt the Nixon administration had the muscle to stop the shah from pushing up prices.

In late 1973, the Saudis offered to hold prices down. The offer was ignored by the Nixon administration, and oil prices quadrupled overnight. Again in July 1974, the Saudis offered to force prices back down. All they asked was for the United States to persuade the shah to cooperate. Yet he Nixon administration made no move to intervene with the shah.

This failure ensured that the shah's coffers would overflow with billions of petrodollars, with obvious benefits for his favorite bank. The economic impact on the Western world, meanwhile, was devastating.

The ugly question remains: Why did the Nixon administration stand by while the shah raised oil prices to the moon? It's a mystery we haven't solved, but our sources are almost unanimous in assigning the blame. Kissinger's colleagues in the Nixon Cabinet and secret messages from the Saudis lay the blame squarely on Kissinger.

In two conversations with us, Kissinger has vigorously denied any intent to benefit the shah or the Rockefellers. "Nor did I know of any financial arrangements between Iran and Chase Manhattan," said Kissinger. "This is a horrendous innuendo that goes to a man's honor. No one has accused me of helping my friends

Kissinger is now a consultant to the Chase Manhattan Bank, but he advises the bank on high policy. He has no knowledge, he said, of the Rockefellers' financial dealings.

If you read the State Department's rebuttal to former Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird's charges of SALT I violations, it is no denial at all of Soviet actions, but a weird, lawyer's effort to rationalize the Soviet's actions by claiming that what they did was really not in violation of the letter of the treaty language. In other words, the State Department admitted the Soviets did what Laird said they did, but then claimed that Laird just didn't understand the treaty's language.

What is the source of this pathological tendency on the part of some American liberals to believe, in the face of all the evidence, the best about the communists? I suppose superficially it's just a case of wishful thinking, like the belief that inside the Soviet Union there are moderates and extremists and that we must sign the treaty or play into the hands of the to believe that, in a totalitarian state, there exists a worthy class of people known as the moderates," the novelist has a Russian agent say. "They believed this of Nazi Germany, they believed it of Japan in the 1930s. It is a belief which invariably deters them from either saying or doing anything remotely provocative, for they feel that they would thereby play into the hands of the extremists and weaken the influence of the moderates, who are always conceived to be well-intentioned, peace-loving and pro-British. Nothing could have a more emasculating effect on British and American policy toward Russia than the creation of a myth along these lines. I do not think it will be difficult to create - especially if Comrade Stalin is made the scapegoat."

They, of course, cannot explain it. Carter's belief in SALT II is purely crazy, just as Chamberlain's belief in the Munich Pact was totally unfounded on reality. Carter is listening to the little birdies inside his own noggin and they are whistling the old siren song, "What You Wish Were So Is

High court may expand right to sue Uncle Sam

WASHINGTON (AP) - A mother's attempt to collect $2 million from the government for her son's death in a federal penitentiary could lead to an important constitutional decision by the nation's highest court.

The Supreme Court agreed Monday to consider once again denting the doctrine of sovereign immunity and expanding the individual's constitutional right to sue Uncle Sam. Specifically, the justices will decide whether federal prisoners who suffer cruel and unusual punishment may sue the government for damages.

Currently, the right to hold federal officials liable for violations of constitutional rights is very restricted.

In 1971, the Supreme Court ruled that the victim of an unconstitutional search by federal agents could recover damages in a lawsuit based directly on the Fourth Amendment.

Since then, some lower federal courts have extended the right to sue to instances in which other constitutional rights are violated. But the Supreme Court has not yet agreed to expand its 1971 decision. Whether such a right exists under the Eighth Amendment protection of prisoners will be decided on a case stemming from 1975 prison death of

Joseph Jones. A convicted bank robber, Jones began serving a 10-year prison sentence in 1972. Two years later he was transferred to a federal penitentiary in Terre Haute, Ind. Jones was diagnosed as a chronic asthmatic, and in the summer of 1975 was hospitalized outside the prison. The attending doctor recommended that Jones be transferred to a better climate and receive certain prescribed medicine.

Jones remained in Terre Haute and was not given the medicine.

He suffered an asthmatic attack on Aug. 15, 1975, and was admitted to the prison hospital. He stayed there for eight hours, but a doctor was never summoned to help him.

An unlicensed prison nurse eventually tried to treat Jones with a respirator that did not work properly. When Jones' condition worsened, the radiologists. nurse gave him two injections of a treatment of asthma.

About 30 minutes after the second injection, Jones stopped breathing. The nurse and another prison employee tried to revive him by administering an electric jolt, but neither one of the would-be rescuers knew how to operate the emergency machine.

A federal trial judge dismissed Mrs. Green's suit. Although ruling that the Supreme Court's 1971 decision gave Mrs. Green the right to sue, the trial judge said Indiana law stood in her way

The 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals last August cleared the way for a federal trial, however. It agreed that Mrs. Green had a constitutional right to sue for damages and ruled further that Indiana law could not "subvert" that right.

Early detection of cancer studied

Dear Dr. Solomon: Is there any way that lung cancer can be found early enough so that it can be treated successfully?-Mr. K.B. Dear Mr. B.: There are early-dectection lung cancer programs, but their value in prolonging life is uncertain. In Maryland, doctors at the Johns Hopkins Hospital are spotting lung cancers very early, but they still don't know whether the program has any practical benefits.

Dr. Melvyn Tockman, clinical director of the cancer detection program, says that the average lung cancer patient lives about a year after a tumor is found; however, patients screened in his clinic who are found to have lung cancer have achieved a three-year survival rate for certain tumors. What is not known is whether this greater period of survival is due to the early treatment these patients receive once cancer is detected, or whether it simply reflects the fact that the cancer was discovered at a much earlier stage. Some of the tumors detected might have continued to grow for years before producing symptoms.

Of more than 10,000 high-risk patients screened at the clinic, 71 had tumors, some of them as small as a pinhead. Most of those screened were men, 45 years of age or older, who smoked at least a package of cigarettes a day. About half the 71 patients with cancer could not risk surgery because of heart and lung diseases caused by heavy cigarette smoking.

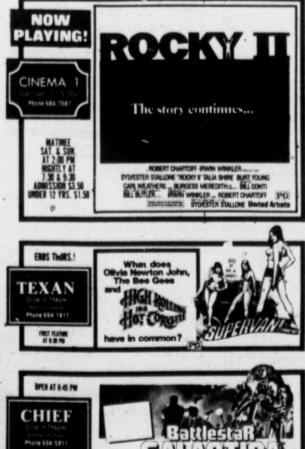

The method used in the screening program involves a combination of sophisticated x-ray include two full-sized films which are examined by two

The aim of the program is to detect and remove drug not supposed to be used for tumors before they metastasize (spread). But even some of the pea-sized tumors which are discovered has metastasized, meaning that it was generally too late to save the patient. Cancer of the lung, even when detected early, is still a serious disease-and smoking is still its major cause.

Dear Dr. Solomon: A friend of mine has been a member of Alcoholics Anonymous (AA) for two years, and has done quite well on the program. However, he started taking tranquilizers to help him stop his drinking, and now appears to be addicted to them. Although the pills are perfectly legal-he gets them by prescription-they sem as harmful as the drinking. Would you have any suggestions about how he can kick this habit, too?-Vicky

Dear Vicky: Drug-dependent people are a largely neglected group-and they do need help. Some people in New York have started Pills Anonymous, which is patterned after AA and is for people who abuse prescription drugs. I suggest he get in touch Bettis, Boyle & Stovall of Graham spotted location for a 5,000-foot wildcat in Andrews County, 17 miles southeast of Andrews.

The prospector is No. 1 Fasken, 1,787 feet from south and 1,850 feet from east lines of section 2, block 40, T-1-N, T&P survey. It is one and one-half miles southwest of the Mabee (Clear Fork field, and one and seveneighths miles southeast of the Serio (Grayburg) pool.

CROCKETT PROJECTS

William Perlman of Houston announced locations for a pair of 8,000foot wildcat in Crockett County, 25 miles southwest of Ozona.

His No. 2-12 General Crude and others is 3,677 feet from south and 650 feet from east lines of section 12, block NN, GC&SF survey and 5/8mile north of No. 1-12 General Crude and others which is bottomed at 7,250 feet waiting on a completion unit.

Perlman No. 3-8 General Crude and others will be drilled one location northwest of No. 2-8 General Crude and others and 1,899 feet from south and 1,843 feet from west lines of section 8, block NN, GC&SF survey. No. 2-8, a scheduled 8,000-foot wildcat.

The new tests are 3.5 miles southwest of the Ozona (Canyon gas) pay and one and seven-eighths miles southwest of the American (Wolfcamp gas)

RUNNELS TESTER

Big Country Exploration, Inc., of Abilene No. 1 B. J. Gulley is a new 4,700-foot wildcat in Runnels County, four miles northeast of Winters.

The operator staked location 1,200 feet from north and 9,577 feet from west lines of T. J. Hardeman survey No. 267, abstract 234. Elevation at ground level is 1,971

The drillsite is 3/4 mile northwest of the only well in the Red Flat, Northeast (Gardner) field. It is separated from that well by a depleted Gardner producer.

Gulf Oil Corp. No 1-B J. B. Tubb Estate, a former gas well in the Sand Hills, West (Devonian) field of Ward County, has been reclassified as an oil producer, making it the third Devonian oiler in the multipay field.

It is three and one-eighth miles north of one of the field's Devonian oilers and was completed for a 24hour flowing potential of 10 barrels of 33.4-gravity oil and seven barrels of water, through a 26/64-inch choke. The gas-oil ratio is 10,000-1.

The completion was through perforations from 6,324 to 6,336 feet. Location is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 24, block B-20, psl survey and nine miles northeast of Grandfalls.

MCCULOCH STRIKE

Adams & Kelly of Midland No. 1 Lohn Co-op Gin has been completed as a Strawn gas discovery in McCulloch County, 10 miles north of Brady

The field opener finaled for a calculated absolute open flow of 2 million cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 906 to 908 feet and from 916 to 918 feet. The pay was fractured with 10,000 gallons.

Total depth is 1,014 feet and 4.5-inch casing is set at 1,000 feet.

The well is 150 feet from south and 510.8 feet from west lines of L. Caillonette survey No. 1057, abstract

The strike is 1,650 feet northeast of Strawn gas production in the northwest extension area of the Hall multipay field, but separated from it by the depleted discovery well of the Big Chief field and by a 969-foot dry

YOAKUM FIELD TESTS

Amoco Production Co. announced locations for No. 7 A. J. Davis and No. 8 A. J. Davis in the one-well Brahaney (Devonian) pool of Yoakum County, four miles southwest of Plains.

The No. 7 A. J. Davis is one location west of the discovery well and 1,650 feet from south and 350 feet frm east lines of section 514, block D, John H.

Gibson survey. The No. 8 A. J. Davis is one location southwest of the discovery well and 467 feet from south and 552 feet from east lines of section 514, block D, John H. Gibson survey.

It was reported earlier, in error, that the operator is Getty Oil Co. Each of the new tests will be drilled on an 11,500-foot contract.

TERRELL WELL

Mobil Oil Corp. No. 6 Banner Estate is a new well in the Brown-Bassett (Ellenburger gas) field of Terrell County, 29 miles northeast of Dry-

The operator reported a calculated absolute open flow potential of 13.642.000 cubic feet of gas per day, through perforations from 13,705 to 14,611 feet after 106,000 gallons of acid were used to stimulate the pay. Mobil plans to dual complete the well from the Strawn or Devonian Location is 532 feet from north and 1.379 feet from west lines of section 331. TW&NG survey.

Total depth is 14,800 feet and the plugged back depth is 14,675 feet. Operator set 5.5-inch casing at 14,799 feet.

John L. Cox of Midland staked his No. 1-C Curtis Erwin 16 miles east of Midland in the Midland County portion of the Spraberry Trend Area

Scheduled on an 8,600-foot contract, it is 990 feet from north and 1,650 feet from east lines of section 46, block 36, T-1-S, T&P survey.

UPTON SAND TESTS

Joy Petroleum Corpl. of Midland staked a 7,600-foot project in the Flat Rock (Spraberry) field, and Wayman W. Buchanan of Midland staked a 9,200-foot test in the Spraberry Trend Area field, both in Upton County.

Joy Petroleum will dig No. 1-28 University 1/2 mile northeast of production in the Flat Rock pool and 2,198 feet from north and 1,763 feet from east lines of section 28, block 3, University Lands survey. It is seven miles east of Rankin.

Buchanan No. 1 Cowden and others will be drilled 1.5 miles west of production in the Spraberry Trend Area field, 19 miles north of Rankiń.

Gulf cut reported

NEW YORK (AP) - Gulf Oil Corp. has received notice of a 15.6 percent cutback in the amount of oil it receives from Iran, similar to cutbacks imposed by Iran on several other customers in recent weeks.

James E. Lee, president of Gulf Oil, Monday told oil analysts that the Iranian government had asked for and then enforced a "voluntary" reduction in supplies of crude to 135,-000 barrels a day for Gulf.

The reduction was imposed on an agreement Gulf signed with the new Iranian government last April to take 160,000 barrels a day through 1979. That was about half the amount Gulf had contracted forbefore the Iranian revoution, Lee said.

"Although Iranian production has resumed world supplies are still about 2 million barrels a day short and we expect crude to be in tight supply in the forseeable future," Lee told the analysts meeting.

Iran has claimed to be producing about 4 million barrels of oil a day, but some analysts believe the actual amount could be half that. Before the Iranian revolution, the nation was producing 8 million barrels of oil

Retailers threaten to close shop

By GLENN RITT

WASHINGTON (AP) - Few servie station owners are inviting arrest as did Boston's Glenn M. Heller, who enraged federal regulators by charging more than $1.50 a gallon until forced to roll back gasoline prices last

But many retailers are threatening to "close up and go fishing" unless they are allowed to increase gross profit margins 4 cents a gallon. More than 60,000 operators, represented by the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers, are engaged in a battle of nerves with Energy Department and White House officials, who are studying a request to revise gasoline price ceilings for the first time since 1973.

Service stations' gross profits average about 12 cents to 13 cents; the operators want at least 16 cents per Legally, prices at the pump are established through a detailed regulation scheme. "A Guide for Retail Gasoline Pricing" says stiff fines will accompany its violation.

The guide instructs service stations

-Base current prices on the selling price of each grade of gasoline as of

-Add to that 1973 price the difference between the cost of the gasoline in inventory on May 15, 1973, and the current cost for each grade received from suppliers. This can be passed through completely to customers.

-Add an additional 3 cents to cover such other costs as utility bills, insurance, Social Security and minimum wage increases. -Include increased rental costs and charges attributable to installation of federally-required vapor recovery systems. Service station owners complain they are caught in an untenable squeeze; that, in effect, they are forced to live with the same profit margin as they did in 1973, despite skyrocketing inflation and rising costs beyond their control. Their only relief, they complain, comes from the 3-cent allowance for non-gasoline costs, but this is wiped out by business expenses far in excess of this figure: For example, workman's compensation in the District of Columbia has risen 500 percent since 1973, says a spokesman for the National Congress of Petroleum Retail-

The Council on Wage and Price Stability, however, alleges that gasoline prices at the pump are "far larger than can be explained" by rising crude prices alone.

Retail profit margins, the council said in a recent report, increased 33 percent from January to April, while crude prices rose only 9 percent.

Independent service station owners claim this analysis is distorted by margins registered by oil companyowned stations and self-service retail-

The arithmetic issue remains unresolved.

In addition to the general pricing calculations, Department of Energy regulations prohibit:

-Tie-in sales that require a motor ist to purchase products or services such as a car wash, food or auto accessories and repairs as a condition for buying gasoline.

-Changes in business practices that give special treatment to preferred customers, such as credit card holders, cash-paying motorists or station regulars. Motorists who have complaints about pricing policies can call the Energy Department's toll-free hotlie at 800-424-9246. Dealers, with questions about pricing, should contact DOE's local Economic Regulatory Administration office.

'Windfall' legislation vote expected today in House

By TOM RAUM

WASHINGTON (AP) - Tax-writing congressmen are ready to send the full House a toughened version of President Carter's proposed tax on oil company "windfall profits.

The tax, which would soak up some of the enormous revenues firms will reap from the decontrolling of oil prices, faced a final vote today in the Ways and Means Committee.

Combined with various existing taxes, the windfall tax in its present form would allow the industry to keep from 17 to 23 cents of each dollar gained from decontrol.

The president asked Congress to designate revenues from the tax to help low-income families pay their heating bills and to fund certain mass transit and energy technology projects.

But how the funds should be spent will be handled later in the House. House leaders hope to bring the bill to the floor for a vote next week and to have it to the Senate before July 4th. 'We're under quite a bit of pressure wo asked not to be named. The Senate has no plans to hold hearings on the proposal until the House, in which all tax bills must originate, has completed its work. The tax accompanies the president's action to slowly lift price controls on U.S.-produced crude oil, a process that began June 1 and will continue until mid-1981 when domestic oil prices will have attained world

Under price controls, U.S. oil prices have been averaging about $11 per 42-gallong barrel — compared to world prices averaging about $18 including surcharges. The nation imports roughly half of the petroleum it

The committee, responding to constituent outrage over rapdily rising fuel prices, previoulsy voted to tae a $6.8 billion bigger bite out of oil-industy decontrol profits than Carter's original bill.

Rationing heads east

By PETER MACKLER

California-style gasoline rationing was headed east as officials in seven states and the District of Columbia moved to cut long lines at fuel pumps where gas prices topped $1 a gallon in some places.

With protesting truckers bottling up some fuel deliveries and mid-month gasoline stocks dwindling in many areas, other states also were gearing up for anticipated shortages. "People keep calling to ask what they can do," said William Goode, Florida's energy watchdog, "Most of them can't face the fact that they have to live with less gas.' There were also rumblings among service station owners that they might "close up and go fishing" to protest federal pricing policies they say are squeezing them out of a decent living. New York Gov. Hugh Carey said Monday he would begin "odd-even" gasoline rationing in New York City and its suburbs at midnight tonight and New Jersey Gov. Brendan Byrne said he would do the same in his state Thursday. New Jersey highway officials already had begun the system today on a major artery, the Garden State Paykway.

Officials also planned to start rationing Thursday in Virginia, Mary land and the District of Columbia unless current measures of staggering gas stations' hours and minimum sales proved effective.

-In Connecticut, Gov. Ella Grasso was to meet with legislative leaders today to discuss her plans for a rationing system. Florida officials readied emergency measures such as a ban on "topping off" of tanks in areas where supplies were scarce.

Odd-even rationing - in which motorists may buy fuel on alternates days depending on the final number on their license plates — also was to begin Monday in three of Texas' most populous counties - Dallas, Tarrant and Harris "We will institute this program in those three counties, but the rest of the state had better understand it will get worse before it gets better," Gov. Bill Clements said Monday night.

The most serious problems were being reported in the New York City area - where gas went for as much as $1.24 a gallon - and the area around Baltimore and Washington, D.C. There also were warnings of trouble ahead in Pennsylvania and Georgia. While local officials took action to deal with shortages in their area,

some had words for the federal government. "The truth of the matter is that until Washington gets off its duff, we're not going to have an answer to this," said New York Mayor Ed Koch. "You have to find a way to deal with over rising diesel prices.

Overall, the newltax would capture $28.5 billion in oil industry profits through 1984.

Liberals in the House will try to make it even tougher. Some are backing a proposal by Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, to replace the measure with a levy of $3 to $4 on every barrel of oil pumped under decontrol.

Vanik and many other House liberals also hope to accompany passage of a tough windfall tax with elimination of foreign tax credits for oil companies - credits which industry foes claim are a $2 billion a year "loop-

John G. Buckley, chairman of the Energy Department's fuel oil marketing advisory committee and a vice president of Northeast Petroleum Corp., said only 3.5 million barrels of crucde oil was refined into heating oil over the past two weeks.

"That rate is less than half what we need to get through next winter,"

Buckley said. Moreover, Buckley predicted New Englanders will be paying 79 cents a gallon for heating oil by early winter. He said that price probably will rise to 85 cents by the end of cold weather.

Martin will be the same

NEW YORK (AP) - Vowing that things won't be much different than in the past, Billy Martin has returned to manage the New York Yankees.

But one thing that may be very different is Martin's previously stormy relationship with slugging outfielder Reggie Jackson.

"Everyone knows we need Reggie to win," Martin said Monday after the world champions ended three days of speculation, acknowledgements and denials by announcing that Martin would take over the club tonight against the Toronto Blue Jays.

MARTIN WILL replace Bob Lemon as manager. Lemon will move into the Yankees' front office in an unspecified capacity but not as general manager. It was announced last year, when he took over as manager, that he would become general manager in

"I don't think Reggie will be a problem. He's awfully important to the team. He knows it and I know it. When he is ready to go" - Jackson has been sidelined for two weeks with a muscle tear - "he'll be the designated hitter. Then he'll move into right field, but not until he's completely healthy.' Throughout their 11/2 years together with the Yankees, Martin and Jackson had been at odds. The two nearly came to blows on national television in Boston in 1977 as Martin lifted Jackson from a game when he felt the outfielder didn't hustle after a fly ball. Jackson also was suspended for five games for disobeying the manager's orders to swing away and bunting instead near the end of Martin's tenure last season.

YANKEE OWNER George Steinbrenner apparently wants no such incidents this time and made that clear to Martin. Steinbrenner told Tom McEwen, sports editor of the Tampa (Fla.) Tribune, that Martin had agreed to tell Jackson:

"The Yankees can't win without him, that he is needed if we are to win another championship.

Jackson was mum on Martin's return, but Matt Merola, Jackson's agent, said he felt "under the right circumstance, they can get along.'

And Martin wasn't worried about his relationship with Jackson, either, saying he doubted reports that Jackson once accused Martin of "hating

"Reggie likes me, I think," he said.

"I like Reggie. He'll play hard for me. I don't hate anybody. I'm a Christian man. I might get mad at some people

.. I have no hate in my heart.' Martin, 51, originally was scheduled to reassume his duties as field boss of the Yankees next season. With the defending champions skidding to fourth place in the American League East, however, Steinbrenner decided to bring the fiery manager back

"All along, George has said, 'Billy will be back," a relaxed Martin said Monday night, "and he kept his

"I was getting tired and fed up with people asking if I'd really be back with the Yanks. George and I met two weeks ago, to iron out things for 1980 and he did everything he told me he'd do in that meeting. Except sooner."

MARTIN LEFT the Yankees sooner than expected last season after uttering his now-famous statement that "one (Jackson) is a born liar and the other (Steinbrenner, who was involved in an illegal political contributions case) is convicted.'

Five days after his resignation, however, the team announced on Old Timer's Day that Martin would return to manage the Yankees in 1980, with Lemon moving to the front of-

That timetable was speeded up when Steinbrenner accompanied the Yankees for part of a a just-completed 4-5 road trip. It was in Texas that the owner decided to bring back Martin, who will sign a contract for the rest of 1979 and the following two seasons later this week.

"A change was needed," Steinbrenner said. "Discipline was gone. Bob (Lemon) and I sat together in Texas (on Friday) to discuss the entire situation. He was in agreement with my assessment and felt as I did that in the best interests of the team perhaps a change was in order.

Steinbrenner caught the Yankees' act in Minneapolis Thursday and was appalled as the team lost 4-2.

"I just saw a lack of hustle and a bad attitude," he told McEwen. "They weren't running out balls, they were moping back to the dugout, no spirit. Well, I decided to stick around. I got on the plane ... to Texas. There was laughing and joking and radios blaring. I won't tolerate losing and not caring."

The Indians erased a 6-2 deficit in the fifth inning. The rally included a homer by newly acquired Mike Hargrove and a two-run single by Bobby Bonds, who hit a two-run homer in the first inning.

Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver was ejected in the eighth after an argument with plate umpire Ted Hendry. Weaver, angered because Cleveland's Dave Rosello wasn't called out for running out of the base path on a bunt single, ran to the dugout and came back with a rule book. He wound up tearing the book to pieces and then scattered the pages across the field.

Jim Rice's two-run single in the eighth inning drove in the tying and go-ahead runs. Rice delivered his hit with the bases loaded to put Boston on top 8-7 after Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson ordered Fernando Arroyo to intentionally walk Tom Poquette. Boston added what proved to be the winning run after Rice's single when Gary Allenson singled Poquette home. The Tigers' Steve Kemp slugged a grand slam home run and added an RBI single.

The start of the game was delayed by rain for more than two hours and the ninth inning began shortly before 1 a.m. Under American League rules, no inning can start after that hour.

Royals 3, A's 2 George Scott's two-run single in the eighth inning snapped a scoreless tie and George Brett, who started the eighth-inning uprising with a single, doubled home what proved to be the winning run in the ninth. It was the A's eighth consecutive defeat and 15th in the last 16 games. Oakland starter Mike Norris struck out the first five batters he faced and finished with 12, one short of the club record. Larry Gura blanked the A's on four hits until the ninth when Dave Revering tripled and Jeff Newman homered.

Mariners 5, White Sox 1 Tom Paciorek and Bruce Bochte slashed run-scoring singles and Dan Meyer had a two-run double to back the eight-hit pitching of Mike Parrott, who survived bases-loaded jams in the first and fifth innings and retired the final 13 batters in order. Paciorek's run-scoring single in the fourth inning tied the game 1-1 and Bochte's RBI hit gave the Mariners a 2-1 lead in the fifth, when Seattle added a run on Willie Horton's RBI

'Too Tall' Jones gives up football

NEW YORK (AP) - Defensive end Ed "Too Tall" Jones of the National Football League's Dallas Cowboys retired today and said he planned to pursue a second sports career as a heavyweight boxer.

The 6-foot-9, 270-pound Jones, Dallas' No. 1 choice from Tennessee State five years ago, played out his option with the Cowboys last season and they were reportedly unable to reach contract terms Jones was scheduled to appear at a news conference sponsored by Pony, a sports equipment manufacturer to which he is under contract.

"It is my intention to become the avyweight champion of the world." Jones said in a statement released prior to the news conference. And he stressed that his decision to retire was final and not a ploy to get more money from the Cowboys.

"My decision is not based on any negative reasons or feelings I have toward the Cowboys, financial or otherwise," the statement said. "I am not - repeat, not - using my retirement as some sort of contract-negotiating strategy ... This is absolutely not a money decision. I will not consider any contract offers from the Cowboys or any other football team or from any other field other than boxing If I am contacted I will not negotiate. If a contract is offered I will not

"My reasons for this decision are positive. To become a professional heavyweight boxer is something I have wanted to do for a long time and I am going to do it given the help and support of my family and friends.

David Wolf, current manager for former Olympic heavyweight champion Duane Bobick, will manage Jones, whose boxing experience is limited to a Golden Gloves stint in high school.

In his statement, Jones also thanked his Tennessee State coaches, John Merritt and Joe Gilliam, and the Cowboys, including Tom Landry, whom he called "a truly brilliant football coach, the best in the business. More than that, however, I have the greatest respect and admiration for him as a person ... To me he is all the man there is.

"I'm not suprised to hear he is retiring from football," Landry said from Dallas, "since I've been aware of the conversations which have gone on recently. On the other hand, it does suprise me that he is thinking of going into the ring."

Landry did not seem too worried about replacing Jones. "We have a large number of linemen, offensively and defensively, coming to camp. Right now, however, the most obvious person who comes to mind is Larry Bethea, who saw quite a bit of action last year, mainly backing up Harvey Martin:

Jeanette and Bill Krueger of Palos Verdes Estates, Calif., combined for 166 points Sunday to win the fifth annual Prickly Pair golf tournament at the Midland Country Club.

Midland's Bobie Jean and Gene McDaniel scored 160 points for second place while Marge and George Tope of Midland placed third with 154

Other top performers in the 60-team field were Fifi and Bill Stokes, Dallas, 152; Evelyn and Wright Cowden, Midland, 152; Vi and R.C. Gardner, Arlington, 152; Sylvia and Phil Roberts, Midland, 152; Virginia and Hugh Munn, Midland, 150; Sandy Catlett and Ross Bolton, Houston, 148; and Gerry and Vic Zoller, Midland, 148.

Dr. Robert White and Lora Canter, both of Midland, won the closest to the pin competition while Dorothy and Bill Vaughn of Midland were named as the most improved team. Midland's Betty and Jack Sappington scored the most points on Sunday.

John McEnroe continues to play bad boy role

LONDON (AP) - John McEnroe has been seeded above Jimmy Connors for next week's Wimbledon tennis tournament and confessed he doesn't understand why.

"I am surprised to be seeded No. 2 with Connors No. 3," McEnroe said. "He is a former Wimbledon champion. His results are much better than mine at Wimbledon and he is much more experienced."

Bjorn Borg, champion for the last three years, is the top seed.

McEnroe's modesty over his seeding place, plus a well-mannered 6-7. 6-1, 6-1 victory over Victor Pecci of Paraguay in the final of the Stella Artois tournament Monday, did a little towards improving his image as Wimbledon approached.

After two stormy days at London's Queen's Club, the British press had labeled him as the bad boy of tennis. He collected two penalty points following angry scenes on court and repeatedly held up play by tying and re-tying his shoelaces and shouting and signalling for spectators to keep

"I hope I have a trouble-free Wimbfedon," McEnroe said. "I don't believe I deserved those penalty points, and I think the whole thing has been exaggerated."

"I'm not the only player who queries line calls," McEnroe said when newsmen asked if he regretted his behavior of Saturday and Sun-'And I'm not the only one who asks

Baker, Hooton silence Chicago

By The Associated Press

Dusty Baker picked the perfect time to come out of his batting slump. For Los Angeles pitcher Burt Hooton, however, his victory not only came at a perfect time, it also has become a habit "I don't cherish 0-for-15 too much,"

Baker said, referring to his hitless streak going into Monday's Dodger game against the Chicago Cubs. He came out of his slump in a big way, slugging a pair of two-run homers to lead Los Angeles to a 7-3 victory. "I wasn't thinking about hitting a home run - just hitting the ball 300 and I'm trying for base hits. The home runs will come. The victory snapped the Dodgers' three-game losing streak and a five-squarely," Baker said. "I want to hit game winning string for Cubs. But halting streaks is nothing new for Hooton.

The right-hander has stopped six Dodger losing streaks with his seven victories. Four times he won after the Dodgers had lost three straight. Twice he ended two-game sets of losses.

"You really can't credit me," said Hooten, 7-3. "Tonight we got seven runs; one time we got nine when I was pitching and another time 11. If you can't win with that, you might as well hang 'em up.'

The Dodgers blasted four home runs off three Chicago pitchers. Besides Baker's pair, Steve Garvey and Gary Thomasson also homered for Los Angeles, who lead the major leagues with 86 home runs for the season.

Dave Kingman hit his 24th home run for Chicago - his fourth in as many games. "He's a notorious second-half pitch-

Malaysians back off

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) - The international furor over Malaysia's treatment of Vietnamese refugees subsided today following Prime Minister Hussein Onn's withdrawal of his deputy's threats to ship the 5,540 boat people in the country back out to sea and to shoot new arrivals or those who try to return.

Hussein cabled U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim that the Malaysian government has no intention of shooting Vietnamese boat people arriving in the country.

He added that his government, will forcibly expel the refugees in Malaysian camps only if other countries do not accept them. Home Minister Ghazali Shafie told a news conference the Vietnamese will not be kicked out until promises by other countries to take them "prove hollow."

Deputy Prime Minister Mahathir Mohamed told reporters on Friday all refugees in the country would be put on boats and towed out to international waters and that refugees trying to enter Malaysia would be "shot on

Accident hospitalizes two

BIG SPRING - Two Lamesa men remained in serious condition this morning in a Lubbock hospital after a car reportedly hit their motorcycle in a hit-and-run incident north of Big Spring Sunday night.

Conservation group to observe irrigation.

COLORADO CITY - The West Texas Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts will meet Monday in the Civic Center here.

Member organizations will tour * area ranches to observe irrigation. techniques.

The group includes soil and water conservation districts from Midland, Nolan, Andrews and Howard Counin the accident, which occurred about eight miles north of Big Spring on U.S. Highway 87.

The two men were taken to Malone-Hoga Hospital in Big Spring after the 11:55 p.m. incident, but were transferred to Methodist Hospital in Lubbock early Monday.

Department of Public Safety reports indicate Delgado and about seven other motorcyclists were traveling north in the right-hand lane when a car reportedly traveling at a high rate of speed ran through the group, hitting Delgado's motorcycle and knocking it out of control. The motorcycle flipped and landed about 220 feet from the point of impact, DPS reports said. Delgado and Rosales were thrown about 150 feet, reports showed.

DPS officials said witnesses described the car as a Chevrolet Malibu, possibly yellow or white.

Europe DC-10s take off

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) - European governments have begun clearing their airlines' DC-10s to resume their flights after adoption of new inspection and maintenance programs for the grounded planes. But they still won't be allowed to land in the United States.

AFL-CIO officer Gunn to address Odessans

Joe Gunn, former commissioner of the Texas Employment Commission and now secretary-treasurer of the Texas AFL-CIO, will speak Wednesday during a meeting of the Odessa Central Labor Union, said D.L. Willis, president of the Odessa union.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Union Hall at Midland Regional Airport.

Gunn resigned in December from the Texas Employment Commission. He formerly was president of the Houston Local of the Communication Workers of America.

Switzerland and the Netherlands gave the go-ahead Monday, followed by France today. The West German Transport Ministry said new certification should be issued for Lufthansa's 11 McDonnell-Douglas jumbo jets later today

The French Civil Aviation Administration said the three DC-10s registered in France would resume commercial flights tonight. UTA flies them to Africa, the Far East and French colonies, but three UTA DC-10s registered in the United States will remain grounded.

A Dutch charter airline put one of its DC-10s back in the air for a flight to Majorca, the Spanish Mediterranean island, and Swissair, KLM and Garuda, the Indonesian airline, said they expected to be flying theirs as soon the way was clear for them to land at their destinations.

Spanish aviation officials said Iberia, the Spanish airline, would not return its seven DC-10s to service immediately.

The new inspection and maintenance programs were adopted at a closed weekend meeting in Zurich of 13 European airlines that fly the controversial wide-bodied jet and the civil aviation authorities of 21 European countries.

The U.S. Federal Aviation Administration grounded all DC-10s in the United States after the May 25 crash of an American Airlines DC-10 in Chicago in which 273 persons were killed. Although foreign airlines fly a different model of the plane, foreign governments around the world grounded them also because of the U.S. deci-

The Swiss Civil Aviation Board said the Zurich meeting revealed there was "no technical reason opposing the exploitation of the aircraft provided a detailed maintenance and inspection program is observed."

Swissair said it would put its DC-10s into service as rapidly as they receive landing clearance at their destina-

"We are confident that within two or three days our DC-10 '30' fleet will be able to serve most of the routes foreseen for this model," a Swissair spokesman said.

Attending the 20-hour Texas Justice of the Peace Training Seminar held recently in Odessa was Judge John H. Biggs of Midland. He was one of 56 justices of the peace in attendance. The training center for the seminars is based at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos.

Violence against truckers flares up again

By The Associated Press

Violence against long-haul truckers flared again today on the nation's highways as independent drivers continued to blockade key fuel storage depots in several states.

Bullets ripped into the radiators of two trucks traveling Interstate 81 near Buchanan, Va., this morning and rocks hurled from an overpass smashed the windshield of another vehicle, police said.

In central Florida, nails scattered along several major truck routes punctured the tires of at least six sand

Steven Manes of Bristol, Tenn., and his passenger narrowly escaped injury when a bullet fird from an overpass tore through the cab of his truck on Interstate 90 in western Wisconsin, authorities said.

"I'm going to take it home and park it," Manes told police officers.

The truckers' shutdown also disrupted shipments of fresh foods and meats from farm regions. An Armour pork plant in Worthington, Minn., that employs 400 people was forced to close Monday.

Thirteen truckers were arrested this morning when a convoy of 15 to 20 trucks slowed to 5 mph on the Ohio Turnpike near Toledo, backing up traffic for about a mile, police said. Officers said two trucks were towed away when the drivers refused to move them.

But in Connecticut today, truckers ended a six-hour blockade of a waterfront oil terminal in New Haven that handles 70 percent of all gasoline sold in the state.

The blockades came as four states Maryland, New Jersey, New York and Virginia - and the District of Columbia prepared for even-odd gasoline rationing to deal with already short fuel supplies.

Shipments to some Minnesota towns were virtually cut off - four of seven gas stations in St. Peter said they were out of gas for June - and the chairman of the House Transportation Committee urged Gov. Al Quie to declare a state of emergency.

And in Oklahoma, judges ordered truckers to stop blockading an Oklahoma City truck stop and a Sun Oil refinery in Tulsa. While the truckers tightened their squeeze on terminals, their leaders met in Washington with government officials to air owner-operator grievances: rising fuel prices, the 55 mph speed limit and varied state limits on the size of their loads.

"We're going to do what we can to accommodate the concerns that you have," presidential domestic policy adviser Stuart Eizenstat told representatives of the drivers coalition. But the truckers said they were not satisfied, and spokesman William J. Hill urged the nation's 100,000 owneroperators to take "an extended vacation" beginning at midnight Wednes-

Hill, chairman of the National Independent Truckers Unity Committee, predicted as many as 20,000 would heed the call. And there was vivid evidence that many shared his con-

Uranium miners face higher cancer risk

WASHINGTON (AP) - Uranium miners stand at least four times the risk of dying from lung cancer than average white Americans face, a Public Health Service official told Congress today

Joseph K. Wagoner said a Public Health Service survey over the past 30 years shows that 200 of 3,500 former miners have died from lung cancer.

Under normal circumstances, about 40 such deaths could be expected in a sample of 3,500 persons. Wagoner said. In addition, he said, American Indians who work in uranium mines face substantially higher risk of lung cancer than those who do not. Wagoner and other public health officials testified at a hearing by the Senate Judicicary Committee and the Senate Health subcommittee. Investigators for the panels say government officials knew of serious cancer risks to uranium miners in the 1940s and 1950s but took no action Much of the uranium mined in the states of Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and Utah was being used in federal atomic test programs, and several witnesses told the committees the federal government had an obligation to provide for the health and safety of the miners.

On a related issue, a research scientist said Monday that dangers of cancer among nuclear workers at the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard may not be as great as first reported. "It appears that the incidence of radiation-induced cancer at Portsmouth is lower than my preliminary studies, indicated," said Dr. Thomas Najarian, also on the list of today's committee witnesses. Najarian said that while the new research indicates the cancer danger is less than first believed, "the government's exposure standards are far more dangerous than they should

Nuclear workers, he said, "are involved in this country's most dangerous occupation."

A Boston blood specialist, Najarian has also studied the health histories of nuclear workers at the Kittery, Maine, shipyard and found they contracted all types of cancer at a rate twice the national average and leukemia at a rate four to six times

But Najarian said in an interview Monday that, "based on more complete data which we've received from the government, it appears that the incidences of all cancers at Portsmouth are only slightly higher than expected. The rate for leukemia and other blood cancers appears to be less than earlier predictions, but still about three times above the national average.

Government experts have said if there is a radiation-cancer link at Portsmouth, the same problems would exist at the nation's other nuclear shipyards, located at Charleston, S.C.; Norfolk, Va.; Mare Island Calif.; Puget Sound, Wash.; Pearl Harbor, Hawaii; Groton, Conn.; and Pascagoula, Miss.

Brother weds sister in mix-up

LAWRENCE, Mass. (AP) - When James Goddu met Victoria Pittorino, he thought she was a "wonderful girl."

Victoria burst into his life a few months ago, announcing that after six years of searching and some help from probate court records, she had discovered that she and the Goddus' adopted son, David Joseph, were natural brother and sister, Goddu recalled Sunday. The two had been separated by adoption nearly 20 years earlier. Victoria grew up in an Arlington, Mass., family, he said.

Now, Victoria, 23, and David, 22, are charged with incest for marrying each other.

"We were happy for David," said Goddu, of Holyoke. "Now we wish it never did happen."

The sibling newlyweds face a district court hearing July 25 in Lawrence, where they were arrested last week, police said.

Lawrence police officer Tom Duggan stopped David for speeding last Wednesday. At that time, Duggan said, David reported he and his new bride were wanted on a warrant for in-

The strangler's silence was broken when he mailed a poem to a 63year-old woman who police said could have been his eighth victim.

In the poem, BTK which stands for "Bind, Torture, Kill" - wrote that he intended to kill the woman when he burglarized her home April 28 and regretted that she did not return home while he was there.

The woman lived alone, but she was at a dance that evening. An intruder cut the telephone line and entered the house through a basement window, police said. About $35 in cash and some jewelry and clothing were stolen.

"It is our opinion that had this lady been home, she would have been killed," Deputy Police Chief Bobby Stout said at a news conference Saturday. "We quite definitely believe that this was the intent, and we feel very fortunate that no one was killed."

The woman, who lives about a mile from the site of BTK's last murder on Dec. 9, 1977, received an envelope Friday that contained a 19-line typewritten poem, a sketch, an article of the woman's clothing and a piece of jewelry. Police declined to provide details of the Future general a 'fast burner'

WASHINGTON (AP) - Col. Hazel W. Johnson, a soft-spoken nurse soon to become the first black female general, is one of those officers often referred to by their peers as "fast burners."

In military jargon, a fast burner is one whose career is marked by early promotions based on demonstrated performance.

Col. Johnson, who has been tapped for brigadier general and leadership of the Army Nurse Corps, was picked ahead of her contemporaries for promotion on two occasions before this.

In her own quiet way, she appears annoyed at any suggestion that her rise to general was connected in any way to the fact that she is black - although there is little doubt that Pentagon officials presented her with a flourish at a special ceremony recently to demonstrate their commitment to equal opportuni-

"Race is an incident of birth," Col. Johnson told a questioner who asked how she felt about being the first black female general. But, she added, "I hope the criteria for selection didn't include race but

Army Secretary Clifford Alexander, who also is black, said Col. Johnson was chosen over 50 other officers of the same rank to replace Brig. Gen. Madelyn N. Parks as chief of the Army Nurse Corps. Gen. Parks will retire Aug. 31.

Tucker, Fish marry in home and Charles Kevin Fish, of Route 1 in Midland, exchanged wedding vows at 7: 30 p.m. June 14 at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George E. Fish of 2811 Cimmaron Ave. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy E. Tucker of Route 3 in Mid-Officiating at the single ring ceremony was the Rev. J.R. Porterfield of Kentucky Street Baptist Church.

Attendants included Sandy Tucker, the bride's sister-in-law, as matron of honor and Jake Bavardo of Big Lake as best man. Music was provided by Jimmy Linton, pianist.

The bridegroom's sister, Kym F. Wallace of Oklahome City. Okla., was an out of town guest.

The bride wore a formal gown of candlelight organza with eyelet lace trimming the yoke and shadow sleeves. Lace formed the cuffs and out-
