LOS ANGELES (AP) - John Wayne, a Hollywood hero for nearly 50 years and 200 movies, built his image as a fearless, determined fighter. That was the way "The Duke" died - in a courageous fight with

As the disease began its final assault and as the pain became more severe, Wayne sometimes refused the drugs that could have eased the way. He wanted, a hospital official said, "to be with his children, his grandchildren... He would tolerate discomfort just to be near his family."

His seven children were at his side when Wayne, known to friends and fans as "The Duke," died at 5:30 p.m. Monday at the UCLA Medical Center. His 72nd birthday was celebrated May 26.

"He was — and is — an American institution," said actor Charlton Heston. "It's not surprising that, to the end, Duke gave an example of courage that made him more than an actor and friend.

Hospital administrator Bernard Strohm, announcing the death at a news conference three hours later, said Wayne's family planned a private funeral. Announcement of the death was delayed to accomodate the family, he said.

Reaction was swift as the news of Wayne's death flashed around the world. Bob Hope: "We've lost a big one, a jumbo in this business." Jack Lemmon: "John Wayne was bigger than life but he never abused it." Lloyd Nolan: "He was a magnificent man." Lorne Greene: "He had true character." Buddy Ebsen: "He had a big generous heart and a great soul.

And the little people, Wayne's fans, offered their tributes, too. Condolence calls from all over the country began pouring into the UCLA Medical Center shortly after Wayne's death and continued today.

Before Wayne's death, cards and letters by the thousands had flooded UCLA from around the country and the world. Queen Elizabeth even sent her greetings and President Carter paid the Duke a bedside operation turned into a 91/2-hour ordeal as surgeons found cancer in his stomach and removed it.

The next five months brought small successes release from the hospital, an ovation at the Academy Awards - and gradual, inexorable deterioration. He was back in surgery May 2. This time the cancer was in his intestines.

Wayne — who played the cowboy, the marine, the admiral, the football player — was granted scant expectation of progress, though he was taking short walks near his room, hospital officials said.

Cards and letters by the thousands poured into the

As a measure of Wayne's immense popularity and almost legendary stature, Congress last month voted to have a gold medal struck in his honor. Among the other 83 recipients of the congressional medal were George Washington and Andrew Jackson.

Death began approaching Saturday, Strohm said, when "Mr. Wayne started doing rather poorly." His vital signs would not stabilize. He slept for long periods and, when he woke, "he would look around and ask for his children.

"'No one could predict when death would come."

Wayne had faced cancer before. The disease claimed part of a lung 15 years ago — but the Duke won. "I licked the Big C," he boasted after that 1964

Then he went to Mexico and began filming "The Sons of Katie Elder," another in the long string of westerns that made Wayne one of the biggest box office draws in Hollywood history.

Wayne's last public appearance was April 9, when he ambled onstage at the Academy Awards. He was, he told a warmly applauding audience, "mighty pleased that I can amble down here tonight."

Wayne presented the award for best picture, for 'The Deerhunter," and basked in the lengthy standing ovation, declaring it's "just about the only medi-cine a fellow'd ever need." The face and body were much thinner, worn down by the disease. But the grin was still there. The voice had not changed.

Indicators keep pointing to slowdown of economy

tion's economy appears to be slowing down, and government officials are taking steps to try to get price increases for some consumer goods to slow down, too:

The latest in a series of indicators on the state of the economy came Monday from the Commerce Department, which said retail sales nationwide fell 0.2 percent in May to $71.1 billion.

The department also revised its April sales figure downward by nearly $1 billion to $71.2 billion. The revised figure represents a drop of 1.1 percent from March.

Meanwhile, the Carter administration announced it would step up monitoring of wholesale and retail food processors to make sure lower farm prices are passed along to consumers. And it moved to increase the nation's lumber supply by allowing more cutting in national forests.

The government also began an appeal of a recent court ruling that eliminated the penalties from its voluntary wage and price program.

The retail sales figures represent a turnaround from modest sales gains in the first few months of the year and booming sales in the final mnths of

In recent days the government has reported declines in its so-called leading indicators, which are a gauge of future economic activity; consumer debt repayment; industrial production; and wholesale prices.

It was declining farm prices that Alfred E. Kahn, the president's chief anti-inflation adviser, addressed Monday

Kahn told a meeting of newspaper food editors that the Carter administration will monitor food processors and retailers to make sure recent farm price declines are passed along to consumers.

He said some wholesale and retail profit margins appear to be going up "too sharply," considering that farm prices are stabilizing.

Government officials estimate the increased lumber supply could result in lower lumber prices and save homebuyers between $250 and $750 on the price of a new $50,000 house.

Nicaraguan death toll said heavy

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) -President Anastasio Somoza's national guard pounded Sandinista guerrillas with planes and armored cars in Managua as the U.S. Embassy planned another attempt to evacuate about 50 Americans.

Fighting also raged in the northern cities of Esteli, Matagalpa and Leon. Somoza estimated 1,300 killed in the two-week rebel offensive, raising the 10-month toll to 4,300.

Large sections of Managua, to which the rebel offensive spread Sunday, were without water and electricity. Few residents ventured from their homes and those who did carried

Most of the fighting took place in slum neighborhoods where sympathy for the guerrillas is strongest. Large columns of black smoke rose from opposite ends of the city Major roads were strewn with debris left from pitched batttles between the guerrillas and Somoza's troops.

During lulls in the firing, people sought shelter at Red Cross centers. Miguel Shibel, general director of the Red Cross in the capital, said 12,000 persons were quartered at 10 centers in Managua.

"There's a large number of dead and wounded in the poor neighborhoods but there's no accurate information on how many," he said. Ulrich Bedert of Geneva, who heads the International Red Cross mission to Nicaragua, said there were about 25,000 tons of food stockpiled in Managua but "it won't last long with this many people to feed.

"It's suicide trying to get into the poor neighborhoods right now. Bothsides are shooting at anything that moves," he added.

U.S. Embassy officials said it hoped to fly out families of embassy staff members and other Americans on a U.S. Air Force C-130 that was to be sent from the Panama Canal Zone if it was safe for it to land and if the evacuees could get to the airport.

Dependents of some embassy staff members were flown out during the weekend, but an attempt to evacuate other Monday failed when a firefight blocked the road to the airport.

The evacuees spent the night at the hilltop residence of Ambassador Larry Pezzullo, who has not arrived yet to take up his post. "If we can't get them to the airport we won't move them," an embassy official said. "If it's not safe, they won't go anywhere."

County can't take a position in Hill house condemnation suit

By BILL MODISETT Staff Writer

The Midland County Commissioners' Court cannot join in opposition. to the Midland Independent School District's condemnation proceedings against the Irene Hill estate because of potential conflicts of interest, Midland County Judge Bill Ahders said in response to a request for support

Monday.

Don McCarty, a member of a group which calls itself People Resisting Iminent Domain Exploitation, appeared before the commissioners to ask for support in the group's efforts to halt condemnation proceedings concerning the Hill property, which includes the Hill house

The house was built on the corner of Illinois Avenue and F Street early in the 1900s by rancher George F. Cow-

The school district is planning to use that property and other property between Illinois and Tennessee avenues - from the current Midland High School campus to F Street - to build athletic practice fields and parking lots for MHS students.

McCarty, who said he opposes the eminent domain proceedings, told commissioners "there doesn't appear to be much rhyme or reason" to the school district's condemnation plans for the Hill property.

McCarty said the PRIDE group had collected 3,162 signatures on petitions opposing condemnation proceedings. He said he's certain 2,000 of those signatures are from registered

Ahders told McCarty the court cannot take a prejudicial position in a case that may eventually end up in court hearings. He suggested McCarty present his case before the school board

Lack of quorum prevents change in MCAA bylaws

Plagued with an inability to get a quorum for its recent meetings, the Midland Community Action Agency board of directors had hoped Monday night to amend the organization's bylaws and make it easier to get that magic number for a quorum.

The bylaws change was on the agenda for Monday's meeting. But the board couldn't enact the change because not enough directors were present for a quorum.

At the board's May 14 meeting, director Charlie Welch had proposed a change in the bylaws which would allow the board to conduct business with only half of the "active, qualified board members" present.

Under that change, it would take fewer members to constitute a quorum. Presently it takes 51 percent of the members of the board - or eight members - to constitute a quorum.

All board members reportedly were notified of the impending bylaws change, and an an affirmative vote of two-thirds of the members present Monday would have been required to effect the change. But only six of the board members showed up and no action could be taken. Those present waited half an hour after the meeting's scheduled 7:30 p.m. starting time before conceding that a quorum would not be Four members have resigned from the board in recent weeks, cutting the number of active members to 11. According to Welch, four other board members were out of town Monday and another was ill.

Threatened filibuster may delay action on draft bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to renew peacetime draft registration is ready for Senate action but may be held back from debate because of threats of a filibuster that would tie up work on a major piece of defense legislation.

The registration bill was approved, 12-5, late Monday by the Senate Armed Services Committee. The panel had planned to bring the issue to the Senate floor, perhaps today, as an amendment to a bill authorizing $40.1 billion for weapons purchases and research.

Whether that still will happen is unclear now. Any senator could sponsor the registration bill as an amendment to the weapons legislation. The committee, however, decided not to take a position on whether to add it to the weapons bill or to treat it as a separate item sometime later.

The weapons bill was brought up for debate Monday and is expected to remain on the Senate floor perhaps through Wednesday. It contains a provision that would force the president to lift trade sanctions against Zimbabwe Rhodesia, and also authorizes $670 million for the MX mobile Draft registration was halted by President Ford under an executive order March 31, 1975, two years after the end of the draft.

The committee's bill would require that men aged 18 through 26 start registering next January. It would not apply to women. Men would not be classified as to their eligibility for military service until 1981, unless the president certified it was necessary before then.

The House Armed Services Committee earlier approved its version of a registration bill, which is awaiting a full House vote. The House bill would not start registration until Jan. 1, 1981, and affect only males who turn 18 after that date.

Sen. John Tower of Texas, ranking Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee, urged that registration be treated as a separate issue instead of as an amendment to the authorization bill.

"I think we may have a filibuster," Tower said. "There are some hot-eyed pacificts out there."

Critics of the committee's bill argued that the president already has authority to resume registration.

Doctor's second trial ends in deadlock; Charge dismissed

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — A judge dismissed murder charges against Dr. William Waddill after a jury deadlocked in the doctor's second trial for the death of a baby who survived an abortion.

The decision Monday followed the jury's announcement that it stood 11-1 for acquittal, with the lone holdout adamant for conviction. A jury last year ran into an impasse with the vote 7-5 to acquit.

"There comes a time, as in medicine, when someone has to pull the plug," said Superior Court Judge Byron McMillan. "I am going to do that, and on my own motion this case is dismissed."

The ruling meant that Waddill cannot be prosecuted again on the charge. But for the 43-year-old doctor, who maintained his innocence in the death of "Baby Girl Weaver" for two vears it was not enough years, it was not enough.

"I am very disappointed," said Waddill, once one of the most prominent obstetrician-gynecologists in Orange County. He said his career would remain under a cloud without an acquittal.

"I just don't see how anybody could have held out on something like this," he said, referring to the lone juror who forced McMillan to declare a mistrial

Waddill's attorney, Charles Weedman, said, "We are particularly distressed that we cannot have a verdict in this case. Dr. Waddill's problems will continue because we do not have a clear verdict."

McCarty.

The judge also said he was not sure

The judge also said he was not sure why McCarty had appeared before commissioners for action.

McCarty had indicated he came before the commissioners because he thought they had final jurisdiction over all such matters. Organized opposition to the condemnation proceedings surfaced recently. Petitions circulated by PRIDE indicate they want the Hill house preserved as a historical landmark.

In other action, commissioners agreed to name Tom King appraiser for right-of-way property to be acquired for Loop 250 (North Loop) — an extension of FM 868 — and Texas 191 (North Route) between Midland and Odessa.

On law-enforcement matters, Sheriff Dallas Smith told the commissioners he has restructured the rank of a couple of officers in his department.

Under the old system, separate officers headed the department's sections, but that system no longer is-needed, Smith said.

Under the new structure, one of the former section chiefs will become a chief deputy, said Smith. That position will be filled by George Thompson, he announced.

The other section chief will be reassigned the rank of lieutenant, said Smith. Currently no one is in that position, he noted.

Commissioners approved that change, retroactively effective June

State Sen. W.E. "Pete" Snelson and State Rep. Tom Craddick talked to commissioners about legislative action taken during the recent legislative session.

Both men said that one piece of legislation which affects Midland County is the single-appraisal unit bill.

Under that bill, taxing appraisals would be handled by one appraising agency. The bill was passed, Craddick and Snelson said, in the interest of saving tax money by avoiding duplication of services and to equalize property appraisals.

But after the commissioners' meeting, Craddick said he did not support the measure because it takes the control over property appraisals away from the local level.

Low in mid-60s expected tonight

Nobody but the weatherman can be expected to have noticed, but the weather over Midland about a hour or so before dawn today broke a 22-year-old record by a mere one degree.

The record set this morning is a low of 55 degrees for a June 12. Previous record low was 56 degrees, recorded in 1957.

On the other hand, Monday's high of 79 degrees was 25 degrees shy of matching the record high of 104 degrees for a June 11. That 104 was recorded in 1959.

The forecast low for tonight is in the lower 60s, and Wednesday's high under probable fair skies is to be in the mid-90s. Winds tonight should be light and variable. Around the area, from Lamesa to Big Lake and from Andrews to Big Spring, skies were blue and clear and the early morning coolness was giving way to a sunny day.

Sunset today will be at 8:55 p.m.

Sunrise Wednesday will be be at 6: 42 a.m. A large high-pressure system along the red river in North Texas produced

Texas congressman says he'll fight hospital expenses plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Freshman Congressman Phil Gramm, D-Texas, says he will lead a committee fight later this month against President Carter's plan aimed at holding down hospital expenses.

Gramm, a member of a key House health subcommittee, took up the fight on the hospitals' side and said Monday that President Carter's plan would result only in the rationing of medical services to patients.

"I am as concerned about saving money on medical care as anyone," Gramm said in a joint news conference with U.S. Rep. Dave Stockman, R-Mich., another member of the health subcommittee.

"But I don't think money can be saved by taking health care away from the needy, (and) by putting the hospitals of this nation on a rationing program controlled by the Health, Education and Welfare secretary," said the Texas economist and former consultant to the U.S. Public Health

Gramm said most of the increase in hospitals' costs are due to general inflation.

And, he said, the hospital costs above inflation have been due, in large measure, to new facilities and technology that "has greatly added to the ability of hospitals to provide quality care."

He said the new technology in coro-

He said the new technology in coronary care, post-natal units and emergency rooms has helped to save the lives of many who may not have otherwise survived.

Search continues for missing passengers of crashed plane

GRANGEVILLE, Idaho (AP) — A U.S. Forest Service plane caught fire and lost an engine before slamming into a river in the rugged north-central Idaho mountains Monday, authorities said. One person was killed and nine others were missing.

Two of the passengers aboard the twin-engine DC-3 survived the crash in the Selway-Bitterroot Wilderness area. Rangers refused to give up on the missing and ordered an air, water and land search on the tree-covered slopes along the Selway River, strewn with crash debris.

"We're still holding out hope," said Nez Perce National Forest spokesman Steve Waterman.

A dozen paramedic smoke jumpers parachuted to the crash site and maintained an overnight vigil on both sides of the river in case any of the missing eight men and one woman should turn up. A spot was cleared for

Officials said 12 Nez Perce National Forest workers — six regular employees and six summer workers — were aboard the DC-3, headed for the agency's wilderness training school at the Moose Creek Ranger Station.

One of the survivors, 17-year-old Bryant Stringham, said the plane was flying over the river and dropping altitude steadily when suddenly "the left engine died and then the right engine blew up. Then the wing was on fire.

"Then the pilot told us what to do to get prepared. He told us to hold hands and just said to hold on," Stringham said. He said plane nose dived into the water and the fuselage in front of where he was sitting collapsed.

Stringham, who escaped with only cuts and bruises, said he cut loose his pet beagle, Beetle, and began floating. He made it to shore along with two other survivors.

Truckers call nationwide strike

By The Associated Press

Independent truckers who complain of rising fuel costs and unfair regulations say Americans will be ready to listen when they start feeling the pinch of food shortages.

The Independent Truckers Association called for a nationwide strike by 100,000 owner-operators Monday, giving a new boost to what had been loosely organized protests over the last week.

And while reports mounted of trucks peppered with bullets and rocks, owner-operators warned the public was in for a hungry time unless their grievances were resolved.

"We haul at least 90 percent of all foodstuff," said Leonard Barnwell, a protest leader in Tennessee. "When we do take it off and you get hungry enough, the public will do something about it.'

The protests so far — blockades at diesel pumps, slow-moving convoys or parked rgs to tie up traffic — have forced a few meat-packing plants in the West to shut down. Agricultural officials also say grain elevators were filling up in some areas.

Minnesota produce wholesalers reported late deliveries and said they were having problems placing new orders with West Coast shippers.

"I've gotten lucky and placed a few orders for fruits and vegetables, but I'm really on a tight rope," said Jerry Brooks, of H. Brooks and Co., which distributes produce in the Minneapolis-St. Paul area.

Mike Parkhurst, head of the 30,000member Los Angeles based Independent Truckers Association, predicted food shortages would be be felt across the country within a week. Parkhurst traveled to Washington Monday to call for the nationwide strike, but he would not predict how many rigs would be shut down. "These are independent truckers," he said. "We can't tell these guys what to do."

He said the truckers were seeking an immediate and full allocation of fuel to truck stops and an increase in the speed limit to 65 mph on all federally financed highways. They also want uniform weight and length laws, permitting trucks up to 60 feet long and a maximum weight of 80,000 pounds. Presently the regulations vary from state to state.

Denny Bowen, manager of Skelly Truck Stop on Interstate 90 near Hampshire, Ill., estimated that a blockade at his station had cost him

several thousand dollars, but he said he felt the truckers' protest was legitimate.

"The truck drivers are paying champagne prices and getting beer for their money," he said.

Meanwhile, scattered violence continued to track the truckers' protests

Monday after a weekend of sniping, arson and incidents of nails strewn on

Shots were reported fired at trucks in Wisconsin, Missouri and Montana. Police monitoring citizens band broadcasts in the Chicago area said truckers were broadcasting "threats" against drivers still on the road.

Independent truckers drove their rigs to state capitals in Indiana, Alabama and North Dakota to press their demands on the states' governors, who promised their support but stressed their limited power over trucking.

"He said, 'I'm sorry. I have to get to Havana," Don Donner of Fort Lauderdale recalled when the plane landed in Miami early today after spending five hours at Jose Marti Airport in the Cuban capital.

None of the 194 passengers or 12 crew members on the New York to Fort Lauderdale flight was injured, a U.S. government spokesman said. Several even said they enjoyed the adventure.

The hijacker, described as a Cuban exile, duped the pilot into believing he had a bomb, said FBI special agent William Nettles. "As far as we know there was no bomb. It's my assumption that he did not have a weapon."

handcuffed the man, escorted him from the plane and said he would be put in prison until the two governments decide his fate.

The man's identity was not immediately released Nettles said it wasn't clear why the pilot believed the man had an explosive device. Passengers said the man carried a closed duifle bag. "When we were in the terminal in Havana, a Cuban — he looked like an Nettles said Cuban authorities official — told me the hijacker was a defector from the Cuban air force who decided he wanted to return to his homeland. I don't know why I was never thought I'd take a jacked to Cuba Monday told this," said Sam Kass of Boca Raton, Fla.

The captain and crew who dealt with the hijacker were hustled away by the FBI soon after the plane landed here, a Delta spokesman said. The captain later refused comment.

Stock market gains

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market rallied near the close of a sluggish session to post a slight advance Monday.

Gambling stocks and takeover candidates accounted for some of the biggest individual gains.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off a fraction with half an hour to go, closed with a 2.43 gain at

New York Stock Exchange volume came to 28.27 million shares, down from 31.47 million Friday. The day's biggest gainer was Harnischfeger, up 6% at 22 on turnover of better than 850,000 shares as of the 4 p.m. close in New York.

Paccar Inc. said it would offer $20 a share for the stock of the Brookfield, Wis., manufacturer of cranes, excavating equipment and other heavy machinery. Harnischfeger declined any immediate comment on the proposal.

The most prominent loser was Amdahl, a producer of large-scale computer systems, which fell 9 to 27% and led the active list at the American Stock Exchange. The company said its earnings for the second quarter would be at about the "break even" level.

Among the gambling issues, Caesars World rose 3% to 31%; Bally Manufacturing 2¼ to 44½, and Ramada Inns ½ to 12%, all in active trading.

The daily tally on the NYSE showed about seven issues rising for every six that lost ground, and the exchange's composite index picked up .20 to 57.62.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrials gained .54 to 113.41, and S&P's 500-stock composite rose .42 to 101.91. In a day of sparse economic news, the government reported at the close that retail sales declined 0.2 percent last month, and it revised the April store-sales data to show a 1.1 percent drop. The Amex market value index slipped .21 to 194.07.

In the over-the-counter market, the NASDAQ composite index gained .08 to 135.04. Tosco, which said it expected higher quarterly earnings, rose % to 17% bid.

WASHINGTON TODAY McGovern still gets the urge to run again

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) - There are days, Sen. George McGovern confesses, when he gets that fleeting urge to run again for the White House.

Between the lines of an hour's conversation with the senator from South Dakota, it becomes evident that the urge is more than fleeting, the days more than a few.

McGovern doesn't kid himself that there would be room for him as a candidate if Sen. Edward M. Kennedy became available to Democrats disenchanted with President Carter.

Indeed, he gives the impression that if he did run and Kennedy came to the race later, next spring perhaps, he'd get out of the way, no hard feelings. But he does say that there has to be a Democratic alternative to Carter in 1980. And it soon becomes evident he does not think California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. is the ideal man for that role. Not that McGovern claims to be that himself. He knows he would have a lot to prove to establish himself as a serious contender for another Democratic presidential nomination. For he carries the image of a loser, the biggest ever, the man who carried only Massachusetts and the District of Columbia when he ran against Richard M. Nixon in 1972. To dispel it, McGovern would have to come on strong, very strong, in the early going — the Iowa caucuses, the New Hampshire and Massachusetts presidential primary elections. He thinks he could do it if he decided to try

At this point, he has made no such decision. He might, if it became really clear that Kennedy was not going to run. In any event, he is thinking about it. And among politicians at the presidential level, that often means the prospect is halfway to becoming the Right now, McGovern's political mission is back home in South Dakota, where he will be up for re-election in 1980. While conservatives have him on their prime target list for the next elections, McGo-

Republicans say they think they could beat him with a candidate like Gov. William Janklow or Rep. James Abdnor.

But McGovern already is hard at the campaign, spending at least every other weekend in South Dakota, and reporting that he senses a shift in the mood of voters who not long ago were turned off to government. He says they now are looking for leadership and for solutions to problems like energy and inflation.

Which leads to his dissatisfaction with Carter, never any secret. "There's neither any continuity nor any design to the administration," he said. "I just don't see any clear sense of direction. "I don't know that things are any different in terms of national priorities than they would have

Hence, as McGovern sees it, the need for an alternative. "I don't know if it's a liberal alternative," he said. "Just somebody that can understand

That's a harsh appraisal of a Democratic president by a Democratic senator. But McGovern never was a Carter fan. He took out after the president his performance after 100 days in office, saying that "it sometimes seems difficult to remember who won last fall." He accused Carter of appeasing business on taxes and economic policy, and of caving in to pressures for an increase instead of a promised cut in defense spending.

More recently, McGovern has been relatively quiet on such matters, leaving the criticism to others, notably Kennedy.

"I'd like to weigh in on some of the national issues more this summer," he said. "I'm finding even as a candidate for the Senate it's important for me to do that - especially since I've been a presidential candidate.'

On energy, he plans to push his proposal for a federal corporation to handle oil and gas exploration and production from federally owned lands. On the economy, he favors outright wage and price controls. He's concerned about the level of defense spending and about new weapons proposals, particularly the MX mobile missile, which he opposes and which Carter apparently favors.

As for 1980, he'd like to see Kennedy run. But then...

"I have days when I see the country floundering, when I have a fleeting urge to get in it again. ... In the absence of other alternatives, I'd at least think

Even Abe Lincoln wrote 'hate mail'

WASHINGTON (AP) - In notable examples, Abraham Lincoln penned a putdown to one of his generals. Harry Truman fired off a scorcher to a music critic, and famed novelist Mark Twain wrote a withering letter to the local power company.

"Hate mail" it's sometimes called. More often, it comes closer to being "dislike" or "extreme dislike" mail. And thousands of such letters are received annually by chain stores, TV performers, columnists, politicians, manufacturers and other targets. "Am I supposed to drink this when I feel like soup or every 3,000 miles?" a manufacturer of canned soup was asked. The product had removed a persistent "BROWN STAIN" in a coffee pot, said the "A monster grew up. Monstrous white wild rosebush instead of Talisman." That was the complaint about a nursery to the Better Business Bureau. The writer was told to bury tag and all, said the letter, and then was asked: "No receipt? No tag?" 'Computers get into the act, too. "Idiot George" was the way one addressed Irwin George of Connect-

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP) — Egypt and Israel concluded their second round of talks on the Palestinian autonomy issue today, agreeing they would try to write an agenda next week for overcoming the "big gap" in their positions.

The discussions began with public acrimony Monday but the negotiators settled down and agreement was reached on several procedural matters, sources said. The talks touched only briefly on substance, Egyptian Foreign Affairs Minister Butros Ghali said.

Officials from Egypt, Israel and the United States, the third partner in the talks, will meet in Israel next week to draw up a list of "what we agree on, and on what we disagree" in the multitude of complicated issues to be discussed in the year-long talks, Ghali

Israeli Justice Minister Shmeul Tamir, agreed there was broad disagreement but said it was not insurmountable. "There is a very wide gap, but I believe it will be overcome," Tamir said.

If a subcommittee of experts on the Palestinian question fails to draw up an agenda, a ministerial meeting set for June 25-26 would take over, Ghali

Mideast talk round ends

Monday in Alexandria, Egypt. Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, after a meeting in Washington with Egyptian Vice President Hosni Mubarak, repeated the U.S. position that the Jewish settlements on occupied Arab lands are a "hindrance to the peace process.'

Vance said it was "particuarly inappropriate" for Israel to go ahead with new settlements as it was beginning a new round of talks with Egypt.

Begin in a strong counterattack again asserted Israel's right to settle more Jews in the West Bank and Gaza. He said they were Israeli lands that were "conquered in 1948 ... by aggression and invasion by Jordan and Egypt.

'We have the full right to settle in all parts of Eretz Israel (the Land of Israel)," Begin said in a statement issued by his office. "Such settlement is also a vital security need to prevent the murder of our children.'

The Egyptian and U.S. criticism resulted from the establishment in the West Bank territory last week of Elon Moreh, the first new Jewish settlement in occupied territory since the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty was signed. During the weekend several thousand Israelis marched to the settlement to demonstrate opposition to Begin charged that a "campaign of incitement has been launched against the government of Israel and against

"I wish to express the strongest me personally" but said: "We shall pay no attention to the invective or abuse." Burg complained to the Egyptians about an editorial in the Cairo newspaper Al Akhbar urging the United States to "cut Begin down to size and cut the snake's head off before it spills its venom."

Mubarak said the peace process would have a better chance of success if Begin would stop issuing inflammatory statements.

Both Khalil and Burg said they were determined to honor the terms of the peace treaty, which calls for an agreement to give the Palestinians in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank autonomy. But Egypt says autonomy should lead to an independent Palestinian state after five years, while Israel says autonomy means only local self-government.

Man pedals across Channel

CAP GRIS NEZ, France (AP) — Bryan Allen, a 26-year-old Californian, furiously pedaled a flying bicycle resembling a giant dragonfly 22 miles across the English Channel today to become the first person to make the flight by human power alone and win a prize of some $200,000. He was welcomed with red, white and blue flowers and champagne.

Allen, wearing shorts, crash helmet, cycling shoes and a life jacket, steered his 50-pound Gossamer Albatross through gusty winds to a beach landing at Cap Griz Nez two hours and 49 minutes after taking off from England, the International Aeronautical Federation said. It was the longest flight of its kind ever and Allen's speed ranged from six to 10

A posy of red, white and blue flowers with miniature French and American flags was thrust into his hands by Marie Agnieray, the American wife of a retired French merchant marine officer chosen for the honor because she was the only American resident of the little beach resort town. Champagne was quickly broken out.

Strong 'windfall tax' bill planned

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House Ways and Means Committee, in a decision that could ease the political pressure on Democrats, appears determined to write a stronger "windfall profits" tax, on the oil industry than President Carter recommend-

As a starter, the panel agreed Monday that the tax should cost the oil companies at least 10 percent more than Carter proposed.

A tough tax making its way through Congress could cool some of the political heat being felt by Democrats who sense voters oppose Carter's decision to phase out federal price controls on domestic oil. Decontrol means more money for the oil industry; the tax would take away part of that wind-

Several votes Monday indicated Carter may get the tax he wants - so long as he is willing to be tougher on the oil industry.

Awaiting action is an effort by Rep. Charles Vanik, D-Ohio, to substitute a far simpler tax than Carter proposed - and to make it far more costly to the oil industry. The Carter administration opposes this amendment on grounds it would deny oil companies the money they need to increase pro-

As Congress sought answers to the nation's energy problems, there were these other developments Monday:

-Alfred Dougherty of the Federal Trade Commission's Bureau of Competition told a House Government Operations subcommittee the current gasoline shortage is traceable, in part, to a decision by the oil companles earlier this year to stockpile crude oil rather than refine it.

But, Dougherty added, he can't prove that allegation because the Energy Department tightly guards such information.

-In New York, an American Petroleum Institute spokesman who asked to remain anonymous said crude oil stocks fell to low levels last winter and the Energy Department asked oil companies to rebuild their inventories. The trade group spokesman added gasoline demand was unusually high in the first quarter of 1979.

 A group of 18 senators, led by Henry M. Jackson, D. Wash., chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, introduced a multibillion-dollar package of energy-production bills intended to eventually slash U.S. reliance on foreign oil.

The bills aim to accelerate development of oil shale, coal gas, gasohol and other promising new energy technologies by providing federal subsidies and cutting government red-

Meanwhile, the Ways and Means Committee

-Rejected Carter's tax package Monday. Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., tried to delay a vote until the committee could consider amendments, but Rep. Barber Conable of New York, the panel's senior Republican, persisted. Eleven of the panel's 12 Republicans, fearing an even tougher tax, joined with three Democrats to vote for Carter's plan. It failed, 21-14.

-Approved, 21-14, an amendment by Rep. Richard Gephardt, D-Mo., that would raise the taxes on oil from "marginal" properties, a new classification created by Carter's bill. The tax would depend on how deep oil is found -Approved, 19-17, a proposal by Rep. Joseph L. Fisher, D-Va., that would slow the rate at which "old" oil. under Carter's bill, would escape the windfall tax. The effect is a stiffer tax on that category of production.

Taken together, the Gephardt and Fisher amendments would add about $2.2 billion to Carter's proposed windfall tax between now and 1984, raising to about $22.5 billion the total increase in government revenues as a result of ending price controls and imposing

While approving the two increases in the tax, the committee indicated it sees a limit o how high the tax could go before hindering energy produc-

On votes of 23-13 and 25-11, the panel defeated amendments by Reps. Tom Downey; D-N.Y., and Fortney Stark, D-Calif., that would have resulted in even higher levies.

Carter already has begun the gradual process of removing the federal controls that have held down the price of U.S.-produced oil since 1971. He proposed the "windfall profits" tax to take away from the oil companies a part of the increased revenues that will result from decontrol.

Carter reasons that decontrol and an equitable windfall tax will result in higher prices for gasoline and other petroleum products, forcing conservation and giving the oil industry greater incentive for increased energy production.

Congressional friends of the oil industry want decontrol without the tax. Some liberals are trying to halt decontrol; others will accept it if the tax is high enough

Duke was passionate man in his personal life

HOLLYWOOD (AP) - For all his coolness-under-fire image on the screen, John Wayne was a passionate man in his personal life.

In his Western movies, he instructed his men to hold their fire until the Indians approached the circle of wagons. In interviews, he shot from the hip at almost every topic that was tossed at him. During a third of a century I found him consistently the most provocative interview subject in

He had enormous dislikes: Communism, the welfare state, rude directors, upstart actors, discourtesy to women. He also had immense likes: the United States of America, the movie industry, the University of Wayne's marriages were to: 1. the daughter of a Dominican diplomat; 2. a Mexican film aetress; 3. a Peruvian beauty. After the third marriage he told me: "They say a man follows a pattern, but I haven't been aware of it myself. Each of the women I married have been entirely different.

"I certainly don't have anything against American women. As a matter of fact, my wives have been as much American as they have been 'Hell, I suppose the so-called liberals will find a way to get at me. They did it with The Alamo,' when they quoted me as saying anyone who didn't go to see the picture was unpatriotic. If they can get at me with 'The Alamo,' they'll sure as hell find a way to do it with 'The Green Berets.'

"They" did. Wayne was reviled for his hawkish stand on the war, for his unswerving support of Richard Nixon, for his denunciation of campus unrest. Wayne found himself in an unaccustomed role as the enemy - to the activists That changed. The war's end, Nixon's resignation and return to less impassioned politics restored John Wayne to his role as American Hero.

Duke was devoted to the industry that had brought him fame, millions, and 50 years of high excitement. He deplored the new crop of stars who sneered at the Oscars, flaunted public morality, extracted millions from the movie business and gave nothing back.

He came up in a different time, when stars were expected to cater to their fans and the press, as well as project a suitable image of Hollywood. In the past two years, despite periods of serious illness, Wayne appeared at televised tributes to old co-stars Henry Fonda and James Stewart, as well as awards dinners and other industry functions.

He was reluctant about appearing at the 1979 Academy awards, just three months after his cancerous stomach had been removed. "Hell, I don't want to look like Hubert Humphrey did in his last year," Duke muttered.

But it was his duty to the picture business he loved, and he went. Not only did he present the best picture award to "The Deer Hunter." He also planned to face the full gauntlet of press aftterward. But his strength failed after facing the photographers, and he had to leave before entering the interview room.

My last interview with Duke came in late 1978, when he had apparently recovered from heart surgery but had been slowed by hepatitis. His energies seemed impaired, yet he could still work up a head of steam about matters that he felt strongly about.
