The Permian Basin thus far remains free from any shortages spawned by the nationwide independent truckers'strike, according to a spot survey of local grocers and retail store owners.

Truckers nationwide have vowed to slow the delivery of goods primarily foodstuffs - in a protest against high diesel prices, low speed limits and load restrictions

Yet Midland grocers say that deliveries of foodstuffs to area retail outlets have not yet been affected.

Theta Hawkins, a retail buyer and office manager for Martin Distributing Co. Inc., a Midland grocery wholesaler, said that her firm had not felt the effects of the strike despite being 100 percent reliant on trucks for Ms. Hawkins said she hadn't noticed any shortages at this time.

"If it continues, we probably will. We might feel something in a few

Ms. Hawkins said her firm was expecting delays on some deliveries and some shortages of products if the strike continued.

The wholesale company sells to hospitals, schools and grocers. Ms. Hawkins said she was sympathetic to truckers' demands.

"It may take a strike to lower prices," she said. "One reason consumer prices are so high is because of packaging and transportation Most of the large retailers in the Midland area say that they, too, have yet to experience any ill effects from the strike. Troy Hunt, an assistant manager for Safeway Stores Inc. in Midland, said Safeway warehouses are well-stocked at this time, and that most of the deliveries to warehouses are by train. Hunt said Safeway employs its own truckers who, as union members, are not participating in the strike. Hunt said the company supplies diesel fuel to its truckers. Safeway in Midland receives its foods by truck from a warehouse in El

'The warehouse is so big that two trains pull into it and unload everyday," Hunt said. "It covers miles and miles.

Some retailers seem almost oblivious to the strike. Lester Hendrick, a division manager at Furr's in Midland, said he was not worried at this time about the impact of an independent truckers'

Few counties following lead in rabies control

By BILL MODISETT Staff Writer

Midland County's recently-enacted rabies vaccination program is operating smoothly in helping to prevent the dreaded disease, an official said late last week.

But there aren't many of Texas' 254 counties that have such countywide rabies vaccination ordinances, even though state health officials have said this year the state is experiencing more confirmed cases of the disease than anytime previously. Noting that the Zoonosis Control Division of the Texas Department of Health in Austin has confirmed 484 rabies cases through May, compared with 260 confirmed cases in the same period in 1978, Dr. William R. Bilderback, director of the division, said, "I don't anticipate it slowing down." He attributed his belief to the small number of counties in the state that have effective rabies control programs and to 1978 being a "bumper year in the proliferation of skunks" the state's main rabies-carrying ani-

A BILL PASSED in this year's legislative session giving counties authority to develop rabies control programs is expected to be signed into law this week by Gov. Bill Clements, Dr. Bilderback said.

Dr. Bilderback said he believes that law will be a step forward in controlling the disease statewide. He said that at present "you can count on both hands" the number of Texas counties having rabies control pro-

Midland is one of those counties. Midland County Commissioners on April 23 enacted an ordinance which requires the vaccination of dogs and cats outside the Midland city limits.

That action came in the wake of rising concern about this year's incidence of rabies and the fact the county could not legally require a pet owner to quarantine his animal for observation in the event the pet bit

Neither could city animal control officers go into the county to answer calls concerning possible rabid animals because of possible legal liabilities, Midland Animal Control Officer Dalton Byerly said.

"I feel like it (the ordinance) has helped us considerably," Jewel Smith, chief sanitarian for the Midland City-County Health Department, Since April, Smith said, the heads of two animals have been sent to Austin's zoonosis laboratory for analysis, but results of those tests have been negative.

"We've just been fortunate," Smith

"ALL WE'RE worrying about is when we have a bite," the sanitarian said. When a bite does occur, the animal outside the city limits can now be quarantined and observed for symptoms of the disease.

The ability to enforce that ordinance is available now, said Smith. It wasn't before.

If an individual pet owner wants an animal quarantined for observance, Smith said, the owner must pay expenses. If the county wants an animal quarantined, it will pay up to a maximum of $40 to have the animal quarantined for 10 days.

Animals are quarantined by private veterinarians, said Smith. Cost of vaccinations mandated by the county ordinance ranges from $6 to $10, Smith said. He also estimated that total cost of the program to the county for one year will be $400 to

The ordinance doesn't specify a time period for county pet owners to have their pets vaccinated, he

To the west, Ector County also has been concerned with this year's outbreak of rabies and currently is contemplating an ordinance similar to Midland County's.

Carter, Brezhnev sign 'sweeping' SALT agreement

VIENNA, Austria (AP) - President Carter and Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev signed the SALT II treaty today, embraced and kissed each other on both cheeks and promised continuing efforts by their nations to limit the nuclear arms race.

Carter termed the treaty a victory for peace but warned that "the threat of a nuclear holocaust still hangs over

The Soviet president declared, "We are helping to defend the most sacred right of every man - the right to

The agreement is the most sweeping thus far limiting the nuclear arsenals of the United States and the Soviet Union. It puts ceilings on the numbers of long-range missiles and combers the two superpowers can deploy through 1985.

The signing ceremony climaxed a three-day summit here between the U.S. and Soviet presidents and almost seven years of negotiations. Carter boarded Air Force One and headed for home just over two hours later to address Congress and the nation on the treaty.

Carter and Brezhnev signed the treaty texts in Russian and English sitting at a gilded table in an elegant onetime ballroom of the old imperial Hofburg Palace. They then rose, embraced and kissed each other on both cheeks. The audience applauded enthusiastically.

Each then spoketo assembled dignitaries, Brezhnev first, sittng before a microphone on the silk-cloaked

"The entry into force of this treaty opens up the possibility to begin elaborating subsequent measures to not only limit but also reduce strategic arms," the Soviet leader said. We are making a major step.

Then he faced his own microphone and, addressing "fellow citizens of the world," asserted, "We cannot interrupt or endanger" the arms limitation process - a phrase apparently directed at the treaty's foes in the U.S. Senate, which must ratify the

Carter also seemed to have senators in mind when he said:

"I am entrusted with the security of the United States of America. I would never take any action that would jeopardize that sacred trust.'

He-said the prospect of an unrestrained arms race "is a challenge to our courage and our creativity.' "If we cannot control our power to that SALT II would clear the way for "even more substantial limitations and reductions" in SALT III.

presidents shaking hands with each member of both summit delegations. Helping to keep the ceremony close to its half-hour schedule, Carter and Brezhnev signed some of the treaty

The ceremony ended with the two documents in advance.

There were four documents in all: the treaty, a protocol, footnotes and a statement of principles for pressing ahead in the future toward a SALT III agreement. In a dinner toast Sunday night, Brezhnev also issued a warning to the treaty's foes in the U.S. Senate. He warned that if there was "any attempt to rock this elaborate structure which has been so hard to build, to substitute any of its elements, ... the entire structure might then collapse, entailing grave and even dangerous consequences for our relations and for the situation in the world as a

Some senators demand changes in the provisions of the treaty. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said Sunday he would ask Carter to renegotiate parts of it.

After two days of meetings here devoted to expositions of each government's policies on major issues between them, American sources said points of conflict were frequent but the sessions produced no acrimony or table-pounding.

Carter emphasize the scope of his differences with Brezhnev in his toast to the Soviet leader Sunday night. Citing trouble spots in the Middle East, southern Africa and Southeast Asia, he said "any effort by either of our nations to exploit the turbulence that exists in various parts of the world' would push them toward "competition and even confrontation. "The United States can and will protect its vital interests if this becomes the route we must follow,' Carter continued. "But there is another way - the path of restraint and, where possible, cooperation. That is the path we prefer.

The 22-page treaty limits each country to the deployment of 2,250 launchers for intercontinental weapons, a reduction from the 2,400 allowed by the SALT I treaty. It also limits to 1,200 the number of ballistic missiles that can be armed with mul iple, independently-targeted war

The treaty is accompanied by a two-page protocol, expiring at the end of 1981, banning deployment of mobile and cruise missiles and air-to-surface ballistic missiles and limiting each country to the development of only one new intercontinental missile.

American participants in the meetings said privately that Brezhnev, 72 and in failing health, sometimes slurred his words during the sessions but was alert mentally.

Carter will name ex-IBM head as Soviet ambassador

VIENNA, Austria (AP) - Abandoning a longtime tradition, President Carter is reported preparing to name an ambassador to the Soviet Union who is neither a career diplomat nor an expert on Soviet affairs.

A high-ranking State Department official said Sunday that Carter would name Thomas J. Watson Jr., former head of International Business Machines Corp. and the 65-year-old son of IBM's founder, to succeed Ambassador Malcolm Toon.

An old friend of Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, Watson does not speak Russian and is not a specialist in Soviet affairs. But one U.S. diplomat said the Russians might welcome his appointment. "They don't want a man there meddling in political affairs," he said. "They want a man who will push for increased trade and so on.'

Toon, considered a hard-liner by the Russians, has been expected to leave the Moscow post this summer.

Watson declined to comment on the report until an official announcement is made. He is in Vienna for the U.S.-Soviet summit conference because he is chairman of the president's General Advisory Committee on Arms Control and met casually

Four arrested after officer stops pickup

A sawed-off shotgun and "little less than a pound" of a substance believed to be marijuana led to the arrest of four men and possibly a minor early today, according to police reports.

A police officer who stopped a "suspicious" pickup about 2 a.m. said when he approched the truck he smelled marijuana.

On closer investigation, the officer said, he found a sawed-off shotgun on the floorboard of the truck and a substance believed to be marijuana in several bags.

The officer said he stopped the truck because it had been observed by him driving up and down the street several times, had out-of-state tags and because the people in the truck were not known to him?

with top Soviet officials Friday night when the summit delegations attended the opera.

Watson was president of IBM from 1952 to 1961 and chairman of the board from 1961 until he suffered a heart attack in 1971. He then became chairman of the board's executive commit-

He said he has had no recurrence of heart trouble although he has "led a pretty darn active life" in the years

He first visited the Soviet Union in 1937, after finishing college, and traveled across the country on the Trans-Siberian Railroad. He lived there for several months in 1942, piloting an Air Force B-24 and flying a U.S. general around the country. He has visited the country several times since then as an IBM representative.

His late brother, Arthur, was a U.S.

ambassador to France. Toon has praised Watson as "a fine man" but has also expressed opposition in the past to the appointment of anyone other than a professional diplomat to the Moscow post.

"We can't let the post fall into the hands of a non-careerist," he has

Fire damages home's garage

A fire about 3:55 a.m. today caused light damage to a garage at 3531 Wadley Ave., fire officials said.

Seven firefighters responded to the blaze, which caused damage to a wall and light smoke damage to the singlestory brick structure.

Cause of the fire at the garage, owned by Ken Green, is unknown, said fire officials.

Radioactive canister recovered by deputies

SNYDER, Texas (AP) - Scurry County deputies have safely recovered a missing canister of radioactive material that apparently fell from a truck.

An unidentified butane driver from Big Spring found the unopened canister lying along the roadside and apparently thought it was an electrical motor, deputies said.

ment, said a committee has been assigned to look into the possibility of such an ordinance.

He said his office already has sent the heads of 17 animals suspected of having rabies to Austin this year. That compares to only 12 heads submitted for all of 1978.

SWEETMAN ATTRIBUTED the increase to the public's awareness. "The public is more aware of this rabies hazard now than it was in the past," Sweetman said.

Ector County has had one positive case of the disease confirmed this year and that was in a dog.

While reports of rabid animals in the Midland-Odessa area haven't been too common this year, concern over the disease in other parts of the state is strong. And the possibility continues to exist for this area, too, officials have said.

Dr. Bilderback said an 8-year-old child died June 1 in Juarez, Mexico, and that death has been attributed to rabies. Another 8-year-old child, bitten by a dog May 10 in Piedras Negras, Mexico, is in "serious" condition in a San Antonio hospital.

Although tests have not confirmed he has the disease, officials have said his symptoms are compatible with Juarez is just across the Rio Grande from El Paso and Piedras Negras is just across from Eagle Pass. El Paso and Eagle Pass currently are two hotspots in the state for rabies, Dr. Bilderback said.

He pointed out Austin's zoonosis laboratory has been so flooded with animal heads sent in for analysis that officials have asked that only the heads of animals such as skunks, dogs and cats be sent.

THE LAB HAS been receiving 70 to 80 heads a day, he said, and while it is not refusing any heads, workers cannot analyze quickly all the heads being submitted.

People particularly should watch for and avoid contact with any animals out of their normal habitat, Dr. Bilderback said. "For example, if you see a skunk running around in broad daylight, that's unusual," he said. Bilderback and local officials also urge having pets vaccinated against the disease.

Animal count program set in Midland

Midland's Department of Animal Control was to embark today on an animal count program - possibly a "first" for a city this size.

Assisting the Department of Animal Control in the program will be the State Department of Health and the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act Manpower

"To my knowledge, this is the first enumeration of its kind to be done by a city of this size," said Dalton Byerly, director of Animal Control.

Starting today and continuing for about eight weeks, surveyors provided by CETA will be canvassing the city to determine what expansions the Department of Animal Control should make in its manpower, facilities and educational programs.

Through the program, the Department of Animal Control also hopes to learn how close Midland is to the recommended percentage of rabies vaccinations.

According to Byerly, 70 percent of the animals in any given area must be vaccinated against rabies to prevent the disease from becoming widespread.

Information from the survey also will give the department knowledge about the number of stray and owned dogs in the city limits.

According to Byerly, "If a dog is found in a certain neighborhood, Animal Control personnel will be able to look through the records from the enumeration and determine fairly often where that dog lives and then notify the owner or determine if that dog is new to the area.'

Once the count of animals in the city limits is completed, the State Department of Health will sort out and publish the results, thereby making the statistics available to other cities, which will be able to estimate needed changes, based on Midland's findings, officials said.

Temperatures in the Permian Basin should be climbing into the upper 90s Tuesday as summer begins to build up steam, according to the weatherman. Winds gusting 10 to 20 mph are the

The overnight low was 68 degrees and the high Sunday was 99 degrees. The record high for Sunday is 106 degrees set in 1977 and the record low for today is 52 degrees set in 1945.

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) - Prime Minister Hussein Onn today denied that Malaysia had any intention of shooting at arriving Vietnamese refugees as it had threatened to do last week In a major restatement of government policy, Hussein said stern measures his administration had in mind towards the Vietnamese boat people did not include shooting them.

The statement contained in a cable to United Nations Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim contradicted the announcement of Malaysian Deputy Prime Minister Mahathir Mohamad Friday that apart from expelling all the 75,540 boat people, the government would arm itself with the legal power to shoot on sight new arrivals.

Home Minister Ghazali Shafie, who introduced and exlpained government policy at a news conference tonight, said the cable, in response from an enquiry from Waldheim, is the clearest statement of government policy towards the refugees.

Hussein was to have released the statement himself earlier today but decided against it for reasons that have yet to be disclosed

The cable said: "As for the people who are already located in our camps, we have granted them temporary stay only in the expectation that they will be resettled elsewhere and that there are definite pledges and programs that this would be so within a reasonable time frame.'

Diplomatic observers tonight said the cable, which essentially restated what had been government policy all along, removed the sting from Mahathir's Friday statement, which created an international outcry.

Mahathir had said all refugees would be sent out to sea in boats and government forces would "shoot on sight" any refugees trying to land on Malaysian shores.

On Sunday, Mahathir accused foreign correspondents of misinterpreting his announcement, but he did not specify how he had been misinterpreted. But after two days of silence, Hussein assured Waldheim: 'I wish to state that our measures to prevent further inflow of the boat people do not include shooting them. Malaysia reportedly shipped about 500 refugees out to sea on Sunday, Eyewitnesses said Malaysian authorities herded the refugees, most of them women and children, onto a repaired boat stocked with food, water and fuel and towed it into the South China Sea from the port city of Kota Bharu, 250 miles northeast of Kuala Lumpur

There was no official confirmation of the report and no word today on the fate of the boat. Other unconfirmed reports said as many as 2,500 refugees may have been towed out to

The move appeared to be part of a standing government policy of giving refugees temporary asylum for the time it took them to repair their boats and not the beginning of the mass expulsion of all 75,000 refugees in the country, as announced Friday.

Shafie said 267 boats carrying 40,450 people have been towed out to sea since January.

Foreign Minister Tunku Ahmad Rithauddeen said Malaysia was justified in taking stern measures against the refugees because they posed economic, social, political and security problems to the country.

Water supply in Texas to be subject of workshop at MC

Threats to the water supply in Texas — and how to avoid them — will be the subject of a workshop to be held 10:30 a.m. Tuesday in the Fine Arts Auditorium at Midland College.

The subjects are addressed in two reports developed by the state of Texas as part of a joint agreement with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency The workshop in Midland is one of five which will be held across the state this week A study assessing current water quality considers problems faced in each of the 15 river basins in the state as well as the eight coastal basins. A second study on water quality management will address strategies for avoiding any existing or potential problems including the establishment

Discrimination to be discussed

ODESSA-Two members of Odessa's Mexican-American community will discuss charges of racial discrimination against local schools in a 7:30 Tuesday night meeting of trustees of the Ector County Independent School District. The meeting will be in the school administration building at Eighth and Lee streets here. Last month, the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare accused the district of racial segregation, unequal educational opportunity, inferior educational facilities and services and discrimination in discipline procedures and counseling ser-of goals in water quality manage-

The documents were prepared through a cooperative effort of the State Department of Health, Texas Department of Water Resources and Texas Railroad Commission.

Among problems dealt with in the agreement between the state and the EPA are proposed regulations for public water supplies, hazardous waste threats and threats from underground injection and pollution.

The documents also take up such areas as wastewater breatment plants, disposal of wastes, potential threats to the water supply and threats to health from the environment posed by toxic pollutants, hazardous waste and surface mining of.

Following the five workshops, a public hearing relating to the documents will be held in Austin.

Judgeships see some opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's choices to fill a record number of federal judgeships are beginning to run into opposition.

So far this year, the Senate Judiciary Committee has held hearings on Carter's nominations for 18 of 117 newly created district judgeships and four of 35 new circuit judgeships.

There has been no substantial controversy about any of them. Today, however, Sen. Gordon J.

Humphrey, R-N.H., was to testify against confirmation of Assistant Attorney General Patricia M. Wald to the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washing-

Humphrey has criticized Mrs. Wald for a magazine article advocating expanded rights for children. He said he did not want her in a position to make "judicial decisions that would further erode the institution of the family.

Other controversial nominations coming up include:

-Bailey Brown, chief judge of the U.S. District Court in Memphis, Tenn., to a vacancy on the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals. The committee holds a hearing Wednesday. Elaine Jones, head of the Washington office of the NAACP Legal Defense Fund, said the organization has indicated it is interested in testifying about Brown's civil rights record. He presided over a Memphis area school desegregation case.

-Albert J. Henderson Jr., chief judge of U.S. District Court in Atlanta, and R. Lanier Anderson, a Macon, Ga., attorney. The committee plans a hearing next Monday on their proposed elevation to the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals. Questions are expected about their statements, in responses to a committee questionnaire, that they belong to private social clubs that exclude blacks.

-Rep. Abner Mikva, D-Ill., to the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington. The National Rifle Association has been lobbying against Mikva, who is a sponsor of handgun control legislation. Neal Knox, head of the NRA's lobbying arm, the Institute for Legislative Action, has said Mikva would use his judicial post to promote the interests of "ban-the-gun extremist

-Edward C. Reed Jr., a Reno, Nev., lawyer, to be a district judge. Reed has aroused controversy among Indian groups because of his role as chief counsel for the state in a suit involving Indian fishing rights.

-Charles Winberry, manager of the 1974 senatorial campaign of Sen. Robert Morgan, D-N.C., nominated on Morgan's recommendation to a new district judgeship. Critics charge the appointment is inconsistent with Carter's pledge to name judges on the basis of merit rather than politics.

The article by Mrs. Wald that prompted Humphrey's criticism appeared in the fall issue of Human Rights magazine and was an edited version of a speech she had given at the University of Minnesota.

for comment.

"I was going to grab and hold him, but he hit me with the fist right smack in the nose and in a reflex action, I hit him on the jaw and knocked him flat, then several of us subdued him,' Garland said. "He was growling like trying to imitate a werewolf.

In it, Mrs. Wald, who is the mother of five children, said there were "reasonable arguments" for lowering the voting age "even to the radical extent of allowing youths 12 or 13 and above

The theme of the article was that while some current talk about children's rights "appears at first glance far-fetched...or simply woolly headed," the author believed that "current law and practice deserve revision" to broaden those rights.

LULAC names president

Ruben Bonilla defeated incumbent president Eduardo Pena Jr., a Washington lawyer, Sunday after a bitter election. Pena conceded when vote counting reached 325-205 in Bonilla's

"It is time we assert our combined efforts," Bonilla said after the election. "We should never be ashamed of our cultural backgrounds so that we isolate ourselves from the rest of America.

Bonilla, the outgoing state director for the Texas LULAC, said the Hispanic organization "is not just fraternal any more. After 50 years, we're still Mexicans first, then Ameri-

The election centered on the "old guard" that had controlled the organization since its foundation in Corpus Christi 50 years ago. However, the "new guard," many of them farm workers, sought a more activist approach to their problems.

The victory came with strong support from the rural delegations of Texas and with strong backing of voters from New Mexico and Ari-

Bonilla did not have the support of delegates from the metropolitan areas of Houston, Dallas and San Antonio, but was a heavy favorite of delegates from smaller cities in the predominantly Mexican-American valley of South Texas and those from the farms and ranchlands of West

DR. NEIL SOLOMON Benefits plus risk

Dear Dr. Solomon: With all the publicity about the dangers of contraceptive pills, I stopped using them several months ago. However, some of my friends have continued. If the pill is as dangerous as we have been led to believe, why isn't it banned?-Tessie

Dear Tessie: As with many other drugs and medical procedures, the risks associated with use of the pill have to be weighed against its value. Birth control pills do appear to pose some hazard of circulatory disease for long-term users. It is estimated that, for this reason, from 500,000 to one million American women have stopped taking the pill, and the same trend holds true for British women.

On the other hand, Dr. Michael Smith, chief medical officer of the Family Planning Association, says the pill remains the most effective contraceptive method for younger women. For some women, particularly those living in the developing nations of the world, the pill presents a much less serious risk to health than the possibility of an unwanted pregnancy and birth.

The World Health Organization reports that 80 million women in 150 nations continue to use the pill, and its use is increasing. This figure comprises approximately one of every 12 women of child-

Dear Dr. Solomon: Both my father and grand-father suffered from ulcers. Is this just a coincidence, and is there any way I can avoid following in their footsteps?-Mr. K.G.

Dear Mr. G.: Recent research concerning the cause of ulcers appears to confirm theories about the involvement of a hereditary component. While the evidence is still tentative, the New England Journal of Medicine recently reported a link between heredity and peptic ulcers. Specifically, people with high levels of pepsinogen in their blood are said to be five times as likely to develop an ulcer as other

These findings stemmed from a study of two large families with histories of duodenal ulcers. Researchers discovered that 40 percent of the subjects with high levels of pepsinogen had ulcers, but none of the other subjects developed the disease. A high level of the chemical is a genetic trait that can be passed on by either the mother or father to 50 percent of their

The value of this study to those with a family history of ulcers is that the fimdings may emable physicians to identify people who are predisposed to ulcers and, by controlling emvironmental factors, prevent their development. It should be understood assuming heredity is a factor-that what is inherited is not an ulcer, but a predisposition to one, and that some environmental factor is required to trigger it. Proper diet and avoidance of stress to the extent possible are the kinds of steps a person may take to negate a hereditary tendency.

Customer wins battle on hot dog price hike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Ron Gordon, a Don Quixote against the windmill of inflation for nearly a year, is a happy man - hot dog prices at Candlestick Park are going back down to 75 cents.

It is only a nickel drop, but for 11 months Gordon has been telling anyone who would listen that every nickel counts, especially if you are Stevens California Enterprises, hot dog vender at the home baseball field for the San Francisco Giants.

On Thursday, he finally persuaded the San Francisco Park and Recreation Board to roll back the nickel surcharge it allowed Stevens to get for its hot dogs starting last July.

"I can't believe it took this long," an elated Gordon said after a unanimous vote by the board. "A friend of mine's wife was pregnant when this began and now they have a 10-month-old baby. The long fight began when the board granted

Stevens' request for a nickel increase on vended hot dogs and beer to pay for equipment and labor necessary to wrap the dogs in paper, as ordered by the state health code.

When Gordon saw a newspaper story about the surcharge, he reached for a pencil and paper. He says a quick tally showed that Stevens could make more than $60,000 over its costs with the extra Initially rebuffed by the board, the 33-year-old Redwood City biology teacher took his case to the news media. He made the local papers, local TV, the Wall Street Journal, Sports Illustrated and CBS. He wrote to Stevens, the Giants, the President's Council on Wage and Price Stability and even President Carter himself.

In all, Gordon figures his one-man crusade cost him nearly $1,500 - and that he will have to eat 30,000 hot dogs at the ballpark to make up for it.

"I'm a Dodger fan," Gordon admits, "and I only come out to Candlestick a couple or three times a year. But I figure that the money I spent was an investment in justice.

DALLAS (AP) - Jurors are expected to once assets from the government. again don the special headsets that last week gave them an earful of the life convicted con man Billie Sol Estes has led since his 1971 parole.

Federal prosecutors are relying heavily on 29 hours of secretly recorded tapes and the testimony of an undercover agent in their fraud cases against Estes and former associate Raymond K. Horton of Assistant U.S. Attorney Jim Rolfe has said he would give jurors the chance to hear more of the tapes today, hinting they contain more of the outrageous boasting heard Friday.

Estes' notorious reputation as a wheeler dealer bogged down jury selection for two days last week, but the government opened its case at a full run Friday with the introduction of the tapes, which bolster the testimony of the undercover agent.

Estes and Horton are charged with devising a scheme to bill investors through mortgages on non-existent oil field steam cleaners and of conspir- understand. ing to hide Estes' interest in several businesses. At one point in the tapes, Estes refers to Horton as "a complete crook."

Estes was convicted in 1962 of engineering a scheme that defrauded investors through mortgages on non-existant anhydrous ammonia fertilizer tanks. Under the unusual terms of his parole, he was prohibited from self-employment or engaging in promotional activities.

Horton's attorney, Billy Ravkin, refers to Estes as a teller of "can you top this?" lies. Ravkin says his client was just a wealthy, good-hearted Texas oil man victimized by Estes.

But Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. urged people never to use the potentially deadly drug "unless there is really no alternative, and then only Califano said he wants more research on abuse of the widely prescribed drug, marketed primarily by Eli Lilly and Co., and the "extent of physical and psychological dependence which may result from the use of Darvon" before he decides whether to restrict its sale.

Ralph Nader's health research group had asked Califano last November to ban the drug as an imminent hazard to health, or at least recommend that it be put in a special category, known as Schedule II, reserved for drugs that have legitimate medical uses but are prone to abuse and can only be produced in limited amounts and prescribed in person by

After hearing information developed by a Food and Drug Administration advisory committee of outside experts, and data submitted by Lilly and Dr. Sidney M. Wolfe, director of Nader's health research group, Cali-

"I have concluded, however, that we need more research on Darvon to make a reasoned and legally defensible judgement on rescheduling.

Califano said he has asked Surgeon General Julius Richmond to coordinate more studies and report back within a year - or longer, if Richmond decides the work will take more time to complete.

In the meantime, the secretary said

Protect eyes with good sunglasses

WASHINGTON (AP) - Even if you can't find the gas to go to the beach you can still find plenty of sunshine in your backyard, and that means you probably need sunglasses.

The American Optometric Association, the American Association of Ophthalmology and the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness are unanimous in recommending purchase of good glasses to protect your

The experts recommend neutral gray or smoke colored lenses because these cause the least distortion and allow good color perception. This tint is difficult to produce, however, and is generally available only in the better quality glasses.

Green or brown lenses are also a good choice, but the experts suggest avoiding blue ones, which can cause problems in color perception, especially at traffic lights.

While rose, orange, yellow and similar colors have fashion appeal, they are unsuitable for sunglasses because of color interference

Good glasses should screen out 75 to 90 percent of the light and a good test is to put them on and look in a mirror. If you can see your eyes, the glasses aren't dark enough

This test won't work with the newer sun-sensitive glasses that change tint however, because they are light indoors, only darkening when exposed

If you buy these lenses remember, they need to be broken in by being subjected to a number of lightening and darkening cycles. Also, your car windshield can interfere with the lightening-darkening process and these lenses may not reach their maximum darkess in a car.

If glare bothers you, polarizing or mirror coated lenses may be the answer. Polarizing lenses, however, also allow you to see the stress lines in some automobile glass, and this may be distracting.

The mirror coated glasses are intended primarily for extreme glare situations and may be too dark for general wear by some people, the eye

A good test for non-prescription lenses is to hold them at half an arms length and look through them at an object with strong vertical or horizontal lines, such as a door or window frame. Then move the glasses up, down and sideways and see if the lines

"The average person isn't satisfied knowing his governor was consulted by the president. He wants to know what's in it for him,' says another state official, who asked not to be identified.

Beyond these points, other themes were raised repeatedly:

-The administration doesn't work hard enough to seek local ideas on conserving energy, nor does it coordinate state efforts in this area. -The administration is too bound to Washington; it doesn't realize that in recent years, well-funded, wellstaffed consumer agencies have been established by states and cities, partly to deal with energy problems.

-Federal anti-inflation officials do not sufficiently support grass-roots efforts to monitor retail gasoline prices or utility rates.

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) Engineers for the Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. are poring over evidence which they hope will help determine the cause of two leaks in the trans-Alaska oil pipeline. Cracks in "wrinkled" sections at both ends of the 800-mile, $7.7 billion pipeline caused two oil spills in less than a week. What caused the wrinkles has not been determined.

The latest spill was found Fri-spilled The Brooks Range spill was located June 10, 160 miles south of the oil-rich Prudhoe Bay field. A five-crack in a buckled section of pipe was determined to be the cause of the spill. Alyeska said an estimated 1,-500 barrels of crude seeped out at Atigun Pass. But the state Department of Environmental Conservation said the estimate is about 2,400 barrels. The crack was temporarily repaired, and oil began flowing 64 hours later.

Both wrinkles were found in buried sections of the line's 48inch steel pipe. Ratterman said engineers were at Atigun Pass, Pump Sta-tion 12 and Anchorage searching for the answers to the cause of the wrinkles. "We don't know if the problems are construction related or not," he said. "They may be." Alaska Gov. Jay Hammond told a group of Alaska editors and publishers Saturday in Girdwood, Alaska, that both cracks appear to be due to a

Price of gas could top $1 level by Labor Day

the price of a gallon of gas. Other factors in the potential gas price rise are changes in government price regulations, increases in dealer markups and inflation.

Department of Energy officials have said that the average price of a gallon of gasoline would not reach $1 until next spring, at the earliest. And earlier this year, they were saying that no gasoline price would reach $1 a gallon until late this year. But that was before the full effectsof the crude-oil shortage and rising oil prices reached the retail market, and before gasoline dealers, faced with curtailed supplies of gas, began boosting their mark-ups to maintain profit levels. Dollar-a-gallon gasoline first appeared on premium grades in Hawaii and New York City earlier this spring and has since spread to many other areas, including Chicago, Boston, Indianapolis, Los Angeles, San Diego and San Francisco. Varying supply, count for the differences in prices from one area to another. "Retail gasoline prices over $1 a gallon are busting out all over," said

editor. "Dollar-a-gallon gasoline has arrived...more is coming.

According to the Lundberg Letter, the average price of a gallon of premium unleaded gasoline in the Chicago area was slightly more than $1 last week, the first time the biweekly Lundberg survey of more than 16,000 gas stations nationwide has found an average of more $1 on any grade of gas in any market.

Although the newsletter points out that gas prices in Chicago are traditionally higher than in other areas, because of high tax rates on gasoline there, "other markets are closing the gap. Emond noted that psychological resistance to $1 a gallon gasoline could slow a nationwide move above that price, although many dealers might just use 99.9 cents a gallon as an alternative. "The question of when retail gasoline prices will reach a national average of a dollar a gallon depends in part on how much of a barrier $1 really is," said Emond. "Or rather, how much of a barrier it will remain under pressure....Like a dam, it holds only until it breaks, and then lets

Hines Wood for summer renewal

Summer is here! The hot days to come will seem cooler and pleasanter if our upholstered furniture is bright and fresh.

If you have been shopping around the stores for furniture replacements and have been shocked to find that the prices have gone "out of sight," consider having your wellconstructed older upholstered furniture made good as new at Hines Wood, in business here for over 28 years. It is so much easier to find just the texture, pattern, and color you want in the material samples at Hines Wood than in ready-made furniture in the stores. Hines Wood Upholstery makes free pickup and deliveries, and can usually have a piece in and out within ten supermarkets.

Roloff seeks support of other church homes

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) -Evangelist Lester Roloff, preparing for what may be the last battle in his six-year legal war with the state, has called for all church youth homes to turn in their state licenses.

"Let's all get in violation together," the fiery preacher said at a Sunday night prayer meeting in his People's

An Austin state judge has given Roloff until Tuesday to seek state licenses required for the three South Texas youth homes. But the 64-yearold preacher, who has been jailed before for failure to have licenses, says he will not obey the judge.

"When they put a license on the church, they put a license on the pastor," he said. About 2,000 supporters filled the circular church Sunday night. During the prayer session, Roloff said he has heard from churches from across the state that plan to turn in their li-

Roloff has longed claimed that state licensing of a church-related facility is a violation of the separation of church and state doctrine.

He reiterated his claim that Tuesday will be rememberd as a big day in American history. "Tuesday will write the story of another Alamo," he said from the pulpit.

"If Brother (Wylie Cameron — an official at the home) and I could have the privilege of being another Travis and Bowie, it would be a real joy," the fundamentalist preacher said.

He told his followers that the resistence will be marked by song - not by "We'll put to rest any thoughts of violence. There'll be none," he said. "The heavier the burden, the more you ought to sing. It confuses the devil.

He said the court order that may close the homes is "murder for the hopes of these young people." He said there about 400 youths in his homes.

"If their plan should succeed, you put one thing down. We did not die a naural death, we were killed," he said. But the irrepressable Roloff maintained that his faith in the Lord will keep the homes open.

He talked about Noah and the ark. "He was outnumbered. So are we. But 30 days after that first clap of thunder, he was in the majority," he Roloff, who appeared on an hour-long television special Sunday, is expecting a massive crowd tonight for a rally. He said preachers from around the nation are expected here to voice their support.

And despite the possibility that the children will be taken from here Tuesday and the chance that he will be jailed, Roloff talked of long-range

The red-velvet collection pouches made their way up and down the aisles as usual.

"We've got $10 million worth of plans, and they say 'Brother Roloff, how are you going to do that when you are supposed to be closed?"

"Well, I guess I forgot about that,"

Airman wants right to carry his Bible

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho (AP) — Airman Steve Ristau says he'll refuse to accept an honorable discharge and will sue the Air Force to allow him and other born-again Christians to carry Bibles while on

The Air Force decided to discharge Ristau, 20, instead of taking him through a court martial, which Ristau had demanded.

Ristau, a Southern Baptist, disobeyed an order from his commanding officer to stop carrying and reading his Bible while standing guard at Mountain Home Air Force Base in southwestern Idaho

"We're going to court and battle it out," Ristau said Sunday. "They've got to prove that there is something wrong with me, that I deserve a dis-

The San Mateo, Calif., man quotes Air Force documents as saying "he is the most vocal of approximately six security policemen" who insist on carrying Bibles on base.
