

THE STRATFORD STAR

Volume 48. Stratford, Sherman County, Texas, Thursday, October 9, 1952. No. 1.

The best things in life are the hardest to describe. Who, for instance, has ever written a description of love that really satisfied everybody? Or of happiness? Or peace? Very much the same difficulty arises when a member who loves it, sets out to describe Beta Sigma Phi. Facts and figures can be presented in a series of curt phrases, but the spiritual bond which unites more than 85,000 young women is less easy to put into words.

What then, is this organization for which its members claim so much, how did it start, what does it do? The short answer to those questions is that it is a non-academic sorority, a social and cultural sisterhood for young women, and that it grew out of a group of literary clubs known by the rather cumbersome name of the National What-to-Read Clubs.

On April 30, 1931, this organization was merged into the sorority we now know as Beta Sigma Phi, with rituals and badges that were to become, in a few short years, familiar and beloved half across the world.

The first chapter was formed in Abilene, Kansas, a town which is as near as doesn't matter to the center of the United States. It was formed by Walter W. Ross, a man of unusual courage and vision, who was not daunted by the fact that in 1931, the United States was still in the throes of one of the worst depressions in its history.

The first chapter had only seven members, but the idea of the new sorority was immediately successful, appealing as it did, to young women who sought wider knowledge, deeper culture, and the warmth of close and lasting friendships.

Amarillo Boosters To Visit Here Wednesday

When the special eight-car train carrying more than 125 goodwill boosters from Amarillo arrives in Stratford Wednesday of next week at 12:05 P. M. for a 15-minute visit, the Stratford High School Band of 45 pieces and 4 twirlers will be on hand to provide a musical welcome.

Stratford's approximately 400 school children will also be at the depot, according to School Superintendent R. W. Standefer, Jr., who will make the official welcoming speech. A part of the Amarillo delegation will be the famous Amarillo Air Force Base Band under the direction of Warrant Officer Patrick Veltre.

"We cordially invite everyone in Stratford to meet our train at the Rock Island station," Frank Helvey, chairman of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce Goodwill Committee said. "We will have a sound truck on hand so everyone will be able to hear all of the features of our program."

The group's visit to Stratford will be on the final day of a three-day tour in which a total of 26 Panhandle and Tri-State cities are being visited. After leaving Stratford the train will stop at Dalhart, Hartley and Channing.

A similar three-day tour was made last spring through the Pecos Valley, Helvey said.

Band Parents In Meeting Tuesday

Forty band parents attended a meeting Tuesday night at the Stratford grade school music room. John B. Schnabel, director of instrumental music outlined in part the plans for the instrumental music department, including a discussion of the merit system which is being used by the high school band.

At the next meeting a similar talk and demonstration will feature the brass instrument family.

The group discussed care of uniform equipment and it was mentioned that a special marching exhibition in full uniform was being planned for downtown Stratford a little later this fall.

Mr. Schnabel stated that almost all of the members of the high school band were planning to attend the concerts, both afternoon and evening, of the Marine Band which will be presented at West Texas State College, Canyon on the 29th of October.

Club Calves To Appear At State Fair

Johnny Summerour and Vincent Meyer will show their top club calves at the State Fair in Dallas, Texas.

Ernest Goule and Duard Lamb left this evening to take the calves to Dallas. They planned a midway overnight stop to bed the calves and prevent as much shrinkage as possible. The purpose of taking the calves to the show early is to get them back on their feed and allow them to recover shrinkage before the livestock judging takes place Tuesday morning of next week.

The two calves will be sold at the show. The two boys have been feeding each of the calves for about 18 months. Summerour and Meyer will leave Saturday for Dallas to attend the livestock show.

Penalty Of Success

In a world where all free nations are faced with the grim question of survival, it is shocking to find the United States, heedlessly knocking the props out from under one of her greatest sources of strength, competitive private enterprise. This unique system, where each producer must strive to give his customers a better product or service at lower cost than his competitor, is unsurpassed and has raised this country head and shoulders above every other nation in the world. It will keep us there unless we fall for the ever disastrous expedient of killing the goose to get all of the golden eggs at once. The excessive taxation to which business is now subjected is a frightening indication that this is exactly what is happening.

The experience of one of the nation's leading oil companies is an excellent case in point. Last year direct taxes, including income and excess profits taxes, amounted to $121,500,000. In addition $218,300,000 was collected from customers in state and Federal motor fuel and oil taxes. This made a total tax of $339,800,000. The stockholders who owned the company and whose invested savings made its existence possible received less than $84,000,000. More than four times this amount was taken for the support of the government, which took none of the risk of the business.

MAYOR McGUP By John Jarvis

IN WASHINGTON

By WALTER SHEAD
THE BIG QUESTION in farm circles here in Washington today is will the leadership of the two largest farm organizations become mere bystanders in this election, with their pet theories on farm price supports trampled underfoot by General Dwight Eisenhower.

Despite the fact Ike repudiated both Allan Kline, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and Herschell Newson, master of the National Grange, and their sliding scale of farm supports in favor of the present rigid 90 percent of parity support law, there has been no rumble of disapproval from either of these two sources.

Eisenhower in his farm policy speech at Kasson, Minn., not only repudiated Kline and Newson, but he kicked out the farm plank in the GOP platform which both Kline and Newson had a hand in writing, and sided with Congressman Clifford Hope of Kansas, ranking GOP member of the House agricultural committee, and against Senator George Aiken of Vermont, ranking member of the Senate agricultural committee, who also espouses the sliding scale of farm price supports.

Eisenhower, not only went for the 90 percent figure but declared that, in obtaining a full share of the national income, the farmers deserve "not merely 90 percent of parity, but full parity."

In declaring, however that the Republican party now stands behind the present 90 percent rigid parity law Eisenhower went contrary to the record.

"I say to you that I stand behind—and the Republican party stands behind—the price support laws now on the statute books," Eisenhower said.

As a matter of fact extension of the 90 percent rigid party support was voted by this Congress in its closing days in the House by a vote of 207 to 121. The vote was 133 Democrats for, and 35 Democrats against, and 74 Republicans for and 85 Republicans against. So a majority of House GOP congressmen voted against the 90 percent

Easy Does It

REFRIGERATORS can be kept clean daily if simply wiped with a cloth dipped in soapy water. Rinse with cloth dipped in clear water and then dry.

Defrost your refrigerator whenever the ice has become 1/4-inch thick around the freezing unit. If you don't the refrigerator will not operate at its maximum efficiency.

Foods will stain the white porcelain enamel surface of the refrigerator unless they're wiped as promptly as spilled. Stains which aren't stubborn will yield to rubbing with a cut lemon, baking soda or some kitchen cleaner.

Rust stains are the most difficult to remove on refrigerators. A weak solution (5 percent) of oxalic acid (poison) applied with paper toweling and rinsed off thoroughly in a few seconds, will usually remove them. If this acid is left on the surface for too long a time, the finish will be removed or, at least, weakened.

Ice cube trays should always be washed, after defrosting, with warm soapy or detergent suds. Rinse them thoroughly before refilling with clean water.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Savory Veal Steaks (Serves 6)

1 1/2 pounds veal shoulder steak
 2 tablespoons flour
 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
 1 teaspoon ginger
 1 1/2 teaspoons dry mustard
 2 tablespoons lard
 2 onions
 1 cup water
 1 cup milk

Mix dry ingredients and pound into the meat. Brown one side in hot fat, sprinkle with remaining flour mixture, then turn and cover with sliced onions. When second side is brown, add water and cover. Simmer 1 1/2 hours or until tender. Remove meat to platter, add milk to drippings, heat thoroughly and pour over meat.

Accumulations of dirt and slime frequently clog the drain pipe of ice refrigerators. Remove the pipe and clean with a tablespoon of borax or baking soda in a pint of water.

Baking soda dissolved over the ice, in ice refrigerators, keeps the drain pipe sweet and clean.

Use the ice compartment of the refrigerator for storing frozen foods, ice cream and home-made frozen desserts.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons BY DR. KENNETH J. FOREMAN

SCRIPTURE: Matthew 5. DEVOTIONAL READING: Romans 12:9-21.

Christians Differ

Lesson for October 12, 1952

"I WILL GIVE YOU the secret of true happiness." If a man starts talking in that vein he will have listeners at once. Jesus began his famous sermon on the mount with that magic word "happy."

It is unfortunate that most of our English translations use the word "blessed" because for most people "blessed" is a church-word. They don't know whether they want to be blessed or not; they have no doubt about wanting to be happy. It is twice unfortunate that Jesus' meaning has been hidden under an even more forbidding word, "Beatitudes." What we have here is a series of one-sentence pictures of truly happy persons.

What Christians Are

In these sentences Jesus sketches the kind of person who "has," that is to say, belongs to, the Kingdom of Heaven. If God were forced to throw away some of the human race and keep others, these are the people he would keep. Jesus in these short sentences is picturing the Christ-like. He is not talking about what they believe but about what they are. There is all the difference in the world between Jesus' idea of a Christian and some of the popular ideas today. For example, many persons think of a Christian as a person who keeps a certain number of rules, or believes a certain number of things, or belongs to a peculiar kind of club called the church. But a club member may be exactly like the people on the outside except that he has paid his dues and they haven't; and some church members are just like non-church members except that they have paid their dues (or at least owe them) while the outsiders have not.

Finding True Happiness

Let us venture to put the meaning of Jesus into simple words of today. The following sentences are meant to suggest only some of the means wrapped in these truths-for-life. . . Do you want to know the secret of happiness? Jesus asks, I will tell you. The happy are those who know how little they know and how far from good they are. These are the real people, God's people. The happy are not always the gay; the happy are the serious, those who feel a sincere sorrow for their sins and shortcomings, sorry enough to turn away from them. The happy are those who do not insist on their own rights, who carry no chip on their shoulders, who are more interested in justice for others than for themselves. After the proud have destroyed the proud, these are the people to whom the earth belongs. The happy people are those who want to be good more than anything else in the world. This is the one desire that God always fulfills. Happy people are those that find their happiness in helping others; these are the people who will find helpers in their own time of need. Happy people are those who are pure, not in act alone but in inner thoughts and desires. They are the ones who have any eyes for God. Happy people are not only peaceable themselves but help others to live in peace as well. These are the people who are really God-like. Happy people are not always free from trouble; but their troubles have been caused chiefly not by their sins but by the fact that they are good. They have their heaven in their hearts.

Christians Are Different

You are happy yourselves (Jesus concludes) when the hard things said about you are lies. You are happy when you suffer as I suffer, on behalf of others. God will reward you; you belong to the glorious company of the best men of all time, for there never was a good friend of God who was not misunderstood and slandered. Jesus never explained all he meant. ("He who has ears, let him hear," he used to say.) But whatever may be puzzling, one thing is clear: Christians are different. If a man fits these descriptions ever part-way, he is noticeably different from the run-of-mine human being. We cannot water down Jesus' ideas, for they are really radical. We should not try to make it sound easy; he did not. But let us be as frank as he was: If you want to find real happiness, if you want to belong to God's people, if you want to be a real Christian, this is it.

Sad COMEDIAN

By Lorin D. Angevine

A PAGE wearing a crimson coat stepped out on the stage and removed from an easel the placard that had announced the previous act. He substituted another. The new one read:

HARRY MARLOWE Blackface Comedian

The audience applauded in anticipation. He shuffled slowly from the wings, dragged a kitchen chair behind him. He was short, heavy set, with a doleful expression on his round face. A battered derby rode rakishly on his head. There was a cigar drooping from his mouth.

At the center of the stage he tilted the chair and stood leaning on the back of it, his feet crossed. He didn't say anything. He removed the cigar and stared at it distastefully. The audience giggled. They knew Marlowe from way back. He got the big laughs largely by doing nothing, except giving the crowd confidential and inaccurate information about the private lives of the other troupers on the bill, and shushing the crowd when it laughed or applauded.

But tonight he finally looked up sadly and rumbled, "Hello folks," in his familiar grave voice. "Maybe I shouldn't be out here tonight," he went on, his heavy features glistening with grease paint and cork.

The big fellow paused and seemed to forget the audience. He relit his cigar. "You folks paid out your good money, partly to laugh at me. The world needs a lot of laughs." He sighed deeply and audibly. "I'm sorry," he resumed slowly. "I guess I got you here under false pretenses this time. You see, I can't be funny tonight because . . . well . . . she . . ."

He brushed impatiently at his eyes where tears had started, thereby smearing his make-up a little. ". . . she and I were like that." He went on, his voice choking. He crossed two stubby fingers to show how they were. "She use to work with me in vaudeville. We were a team—and a good one . . . I could show you a lot of rave notices . . ."

Again he paused. For a moment he stared thoughtfully at a corner of the upper gallery, unblinking in the glare of the spotlight.

"Yeah," he said, coming back from wherever his thoughts had been. "Yeah, that was a long time ago, before she . . ." Again his low, rumbling voice broke and faltered. "What I mean, that was when she was well . . . Then she had to quit, and so the act broke up, and I had to go it alone. Well, not alone, either, for she was always waiting up for me, no matter how sick she was. Always wanting to know how the act went over.

"Doctors? Oh, I had the best for her." Somewhere in the darkened orchestra circle a woman began to sob.

"Well," said the melancholy funny man, staring at his cigar, "this afternoon—just a few hours ago—she died in my arms. So—" he flicked ashes off the cigar "—that's the way it is. I'm sorry. Like I said, I shouldn't have come out here tonight."

"Yes! Yes!" shouted several voices out there beyond the footlights. More women were sobbing now. The big, black-face comedian's lugubrious countenance lightened a little.

"Well," said Marlowe, "maybe it's all right then, my being here tonight. Maybe it's where she would have wanted me to be.

He teetered the battered old kitchen chair thoughtfully back and forth. "Maybe," he said, "some of you remember when Trixie (that was her name) was in the act with me. She was one of the best dog performers in the world . . . Thanks a million. Good night."

Harry Marlowe shuffled slowly off stage, dragging the chair behind him.

Back To Texas
 This letter is being written while Mrs. Rogers and I are en route to Texas. We were able to secure the services of a lady to stay with the children so that Jean and I might get home for a few weeks. We discovered that the University of Texas was playing the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. This is not out of the way coming to Texas, so we arranged to attend the game. You could all be justly proud of Texas. The boys played a wonderful game. The Panhandle was well represented in the person of T. Jones, who hails from Childress and plays quarterback. He did an outstanding job and received high praise from all of the spectators and the opposing players. The people of North Carolina certainly proved that their reputation for good sportsmanship is no idle rumor. They certainly displayed to the nth degree that courteous hospitality for which the South is famous. Many Texans were on hand for the game. I'm sure all of them left with a warm spot in their hearts for the fine State of North Carolina. This state has a fine delegation in Congress that has provided much of the strength in the battle against socialistic programs, and in protecting the rights of the South.

We left Durham which is 12 miles from Chapel Hill, and drove across the state to Asheville, thence to Chattanooga, thence to Memphis, Little Rock, Tulsa, on to Sherman, Texas, to visit my mother, then to the District where we will be for several weeks unless we get a hurry-up call to return to Washington. During this entire trip I have been especially interested in noting the attitude of the people on the matter of voting.

How to Control People
ONE SUNDAY AFTERNOON Roy L. Gladwell, Montreal, Canada, had a friend call with his cocker spaniel pup. As was to be expected, the children made a fuss over the dog and everything went smoothly—for a while.

It developed that the dog's master fancied himself as a dog trainer, and was anxious to demonstrate how quickly his puppy had mastered the trick of retrieving a thrown ball. As it happened he had just the right type of "bouncy" ball in his pocket!

With appropriate fanfare the ball was tossed the length of the living room by the guest. Nothing happened.

Then Robert Gladwell, aged five, went after the ball, picked it up and held on to it. He had no intention of retrieving it!

"Throw the ball for the puppy, Robert," said his mother.

"No!"

"Give the ball to Mr. Bordeau," ventured Roy.

"No!"

This caused an embarrassing predicament with which most parents are familiar.

Then occurred for Roy Gladwell an inspiration.

"Robert," would you like to see the puppy run after the ball?"

"Yes!" Robert beamed all over his baby face.

"Then throw the ball."

The ball came bouncing down the room.

So Roy was happy, Robert was happy, the dog's master was happy, and the puppy was happy!

For the first time in his life, says Roy, he had succeeded in persuading somebody, admittedly only a child—but a very stubborn one—to do something he wanted done, by arousing in that person an eager want.

and vote for Governor Stevenson for President and Senator Sparkman for Vice-President. Stevenson and Sparkman are Democrats. So am I."

Mrs. Davis Entertains With Canasta Party
 Mrs. L. J. Davis entertained a group of friends in her home Saturday afternoon with a Canasta party. The guests included: Mrs. Lorraine Mehner, Mrs.

Art Ross, Mrs. Jack Dettle, Mrs. David McBryde, Mrs. R. M. Buckles, and her two guests, her sister, Mrs. Paul Chesmer, and a friend, Mrs. Earl Whitaker, both of Sweetwater, Texas, Mrs. W. Arthur Milton and Mrs. Bill Garrison.

Refreshments of tuna fish salad, cheese dip, potato chips, cake and coffee were served by the hostess.

Many of them are hesitant to discuss party politics, but they are all wide awake about the coming election and are pretty well advised on the important issues facing the country. They are definitely doing their own thinking. Many of the smaller towns have headquarters set up for the presidential and vice-presidential candidates. The people as a whole appear to be interested in facts and truth. They are reading and listening carefully and weighing the facts. They don't hesitate to ask questions and to seek all information possible. This is so in the rural areas as well as the large cities. There seems to be increasing interest in a presidential preferential primary. Some feel that party nominations should be by such a primary, with the retention of the electoral college system for election. Others feel that the president and vice-president should be elected by popular vote; that the electoral college system should be abolished. There are still others who feel that a proper solution would be an amendment providing that each candidate should receive only the percentage of electoral votes that he receives popular vote in each state. This is definitely a problem on which much will be done and said before the 1956 elections.

Generally speaking, we found that the folks in all sections are primarily interested in the United States and what it stands for. They realize the responsibility that we hold in the world today and are willing to meet all requirements, but they are not willing to exhaust our resources trying to keep up the whole world. Opinions are varied on how far this country should go in foreign aid, but almost unanimous that such aid should be on the basis of the helped helping themselves as much as humanly possible.

The crops across the south-eastern section seemed to be in fairly good shape, but you can sure tell where the drought disaster belt begins. The small business men report decreases in sales and profits, but many of them think that this is the usual pre-election slump, and that business will level off again after the election. One fellow told me that this slump in business was a healthy thing in the smaller communities, because things had just gone too high. He seemed to think that the slump would become more noticeable in the larger cities, especially as to profits, and that the election had nothing to do

the Rock Island

celebrates its 100th anniversary

October 10th

Since that memorable day when the first Rocket made its initial run from Chicago to Joliet, the Rock Island has played an important role in the great drama of the Nation's development. That first 40 miles of single track has expanded to 8000 miles of modern railroad and 5000 miles of coordinated truck routes, directly serving 14 great midwestern states . . . and through its connections the entire nation.

The Route of the Rockets

Your Railroad is equally proud of its Golden State and Passenger Rockets that provide swift, smooth comfort and luxurious facilities—Pullman and Coach accommodations, observation lounges, diners and snack cars serving the finest of foods and refreshments at moderate prices.

Within the Rock Island area are many exceptionally advantageous industrial sites. If your plans call for expansion or a relocation of operations contact Rock Island. A special department is maintained to help you. All inquiries are held in strict confidence.

Achievement Through Planned Progress

Today Rock Island Lines embody the most modern features of rail transportation in right-of-way and equipment:

- smooth, level roadbeds, heavy rails—
- shortened lines and reduced curves—
- centralized traffic control—
- diesel power for passenger and freight—
- light weight passenger equipment—
- modern freight cars constantly augmented—
- testing laboratories, to insure the highest standards of quality—

Rapid, sure movement of freight constitutes the most important function of the fleet of fast, diesel-powered Rocket Freights. Hump-Retarder Classification Yards facilitate make-up and through routing. 23,000 Special L.C.L. Package cars reduce loss and damage. The New Freight House at Armourdale with its many modern innovations is typical of Your Railroad's continuing improvement of shipping service.

Rock Island representatives are courteous and well trained experts, ever ready to assist in your traffic problems.

Science Says We Shouldn't Starve

SCIENCE believes the world can continue to feed its constantly increasing population, possibly due to rise from the current estimate of two and one half billion to as much as four billion by the end of the century.

The assurance was given during the recent International Geographical Congress in Washington. The Society was one of the hosts to the gathering of delegates from more than 50 foreign countries.

Dr. W. H. Sebrell, Jr., director of this country's National Institutes of Health, reported to a symposium on world food supply that chemistry and agricultural technology, advancing side by side, inevitably will keep pace with the numerical growth of the human race.

He said that eradication of malaria—and he called this entirely possible—alone would increase food yields in all parts of the globe by making agricultural workers more productive.

Dr. Theodore Schultz of the University of Chicago's department of economics told the same group that the United States, if called upon, could increase its food productivity by 20 percent in five years, or enough to feed 50 to 100 million more people.

Dr. George Kuriyan, University of Madras, said India probably was not as yet making the best use of its farm land. In many instances, he told his scientific audience, tracts are either too large or too small to be efficient, and much land that could raise foodstuffs is presently devoted to commercial crops such as jute.

Other Congress speakers expressed the opinion that the increasing population will have to be fed from land already in use because there are "no longer empty areas worth developing."

Dr. Josue de Castro of the University of Brazil disagreed in part. He held that the bottomlands of the Amazon River country, could be made vastly productive.

STRATFORD GRADE SCHOOL NEWS

This is the week of six weeks examinations. Wednesday and Thursday were the two days set aside for this activity following intensive review on Monday and Tuesday.

Many of the Room Mothers had meetings this week to plan their activities. It was suggested in several of the groups that all the mothers be invited to share in the programs and this suggestion is being carried out in a number of the rooms with the activities being divided among the mothers.

Lunch money for the cafeteria was due again this week. The charge for the meals amounts to 25 cents a day and parents may figure the correct amount by multiplying by the number of school days in the month.

First Grade

Mrs. Garner's First Grade
The Home Room Mothers for Mrs. Gardner's first grade were chosen last week. They are Mrs. Tom Lavake, Mrs. W. N. Elliott, Mrs. Bill Garrison, Mrs. N. W. Hudson, Mrs. Owen Hudson, Mrs. Jodie Reising, Mrs. Dean Hill and Mrs. Leonard Plunk. The Room Mothers of this grade wish to extend an invitation to all mothers to assist with the entertainment of the first grade children. The Room Mothers and Mr. Schnabel enjoyed coffee and cookies Mrs. Mrs. Gardner served while holding their meeting this week. James Elliott Mackey was chosen to be the prince candidate in Mrs. Gardner's class. Room 2 has a little newspaper in their room called "Our Daily News." News items include such observations as: "We have twenty boys and girls in our room today. We have fun in our room. We read, we write, we count, we draw, we sing. We work and play together, all of us."

Through the written repetition of such small words as "we, have," etc. children learn to recognize and remember a large group of words and, thus, learn to read.

Mrs. Russell's First Grade

Children in Mrs. Russell's room are looking toward the goal that will enable them to read in their pre-primers. Several have passed our first vocabulary test with very good marks.

Thanks and many thanks for the donations toward our prince and princess boxes that some of the children have presented to you. And please remember "Our Bake Sale" at "Woolsey's" Saturday. Mothers try not to be later than 12 noon bringing in your cakes.

There were 14 mothers out to our Room Planning Year's Parties. We are counting on our fathers being room fathers too, as well as our mothers. Mothers attending were Mrs. Tillery, Mrs. Brannan, Mrs. Eller, Mrs. Collins, Mrs. Allen, Mrs. Pittman, Mrs. Brewer, Mrs. Reaves, Mrs. Woolsey, Mrs. Reeder, Mrs. Judd, Mrs. Mullican, Mrs. Steinberger, and Mrs. Plunk. All mothers are contributing $1.50 to the Year's Parties, eliminating that extra expense for just a few mothers. This will also help in each child's adjustment to school affairs.

Second Grade

Mrs. Barker's Room No. 4

Several of us plan to join the Cub Scouts. Teddy Reynolds and Roy Earl Combs are eligible because they are eight years old. Jack Standefer will be eight the last day of October. Others took cards so they could join when they are eight.

Mary Kaye Keener has been chosen as our princess candidate for the Hallowe'en Carnival. We are all quite anxious to start raising money to help our princess win. Mackie Sanders has collected sixty-four cents. He is the first to bring money for our candidate.

Mrs. Peterson's class has nominated Douglas McBryde as their candidate for prince, to represent the second grade, in the annual autumn festival to be held on Hallowe'en. Mrs. Barker's group has chosen the princess candidate.

The second grade and their Room Mothers will be ready soon to join in the vote getting campaign. Also, there will be some ado about costumes, and a stunt for the Hallowe'en program.

Meanwhile, it is about time for report cards to go out, and everyone is eager to see the new cards. They are putting forth special effort this week to turn out some good grades.

The class has an interesting small collection of items on their Nature Study table this week. A few specimens of cotton, milo maize, broomcorn, gourds, acorns and oak leaves, sumac, unusual rocks, a couple of rattle snake rattles, and some colorful bird feathers. All were discovered and contributed by members of the class.

Third Grade

Miss Ballinger's Room

We are happy to have Dale Barton back with us again. We have elected Shela Donelson to be princess candidate for our room in the carnival this year.

Mrs. Hammons' Room

We have selected our home room mothers. They are Mrs. Virgil Garoutte, Mrs. Kenneth Borth, Mrs. Robert Elms and Mrs. Emory Roper. The mothers met on Tuesday afternoon to plan the years work.

Gale Barton re-entered our classroom, making us twenty boys and girls. The most interesting lesson during the day is our English period. You should hear some of our rhymes about Hallowe'en. All rhymes will be voted on and the best ones will be in our next weeks news.

Fourth Grade

Miss Riley's Room

The fourth grade class took aptitude tests for the instrumental program last week.

Mrs. Brown is also a home room mother for our class. Our other home room mothers were listed in last week's paper.

The class has been making many clever Safety Posters in Health this week. These posters are about Home Accidents, Traffic Safety and Weather Hazards.

Three-fourths of the class made a 100 in Spelling this week. They are: Alta Adams, Virgie Alford, Donna Blazier, Joe Ray Brown, Jay Ann Brownlee, Lynda Brewster, Jonna Knight, Gary Mathews, Sharon Mullican, Madeline Reising, Shirley Sanders, John Sears, Elaine Spurlock, Billy Steinberger, Dennis Walker, and Kay Webb.

The class has been selling candy, cookies and cake to raise money for our prince and princess candidates.

We had our room display on the hall bulletin board this week.

Miss Cox's Room

Those making 100 in Spelling for the week were Norveta Bammes, Ginger Brooks, Sharon Oquin, Lela Hampton, Jerry Johnson, Natacha Morris, Harry Oquin, and Diane Schnabel.

The fourth grade has been selling cookies and candy to make money for their prince and princess candidates.

Fifth Grade

Mrs. Flowers Room No. 9

We are now reading Weekly Readers. They are very interesting and we learn a lot about the new things in the world. Sometimes they have little tests in them to check what we have learned from the reading.

Addition and subtraction have been our goals this six weeks in Arithmetic. We have had contests and drills at the board. This has been a lot of fun and we have gained speed and accuracy too.

In Geography we have been studying the Great Lakes Region. Maps of the states and great cities around the lakes have taught us where and why that part of the United States grew up so fast. We enjoyed coloring the maps. Mary Gay Judd has a number of pets. She has brought a bowl of goldfish and a white pigeon for everyone to see.

Those pupils making perfect papers in Spelling last week were: Linda Sue Coffman, Molly

Ann Davis, Sharon Gamble, Dixie Lee Knight, Kay Pickins, and Jesse Riggs.

Have you seen a great supply of fudge, gum and funny books being sold around our playground? Part of the salesmen are our fifth graders. We are making money for Rex Palmer, our prince candidate.

Mrs. Elliott's Room No. 10

In making sure of Arithmetic we are working with our number combination charts. Our first goal is to become more accurate, then to gain speed in our number experiences. We are checking our own rate of progress.

Each Friday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock our children have the privilege of checking out Library Books. The librarians are Linda Taylor and Jimmie Cameron.

We have a Chairman for our various fields of work, and each of us in learning to organize neatly our individual packets. Six weeks tests are over and we are hopeful that our written papers as well as our oral comments will be examples of work well done.

Our visitors for the week were Mrs. G. C. Dortch, Mrs. J. E. Crabtree, Mrs. K. Kendrick, Mrs. Lester Plunk, Mrs. Owen Palmer, and Mrs. J. W. Smith.

Seventh Grade

Miss Patterson's Room

Members of the Seventh Grade have been making fudge to sell to raise funds for the class favorites. Gradene Parvin, Mary Lou Wells, Betty Lou Gore, and Nellie Johnson sold candy before school. Betty Bradley sold some canned foods.

Billy Cummings is absent from school due to a continuous nose bleed.

The new bulletin boards and chalk boards have been installed in the class rooms in the new wing. Everyone is looking forward to the use of them when they are ready.

Some maize which was put in one of the jars with the ant colony is growing and we now have quite a good maize crop in the offing.

Eighth Grade

Mrs. Turner's Room

The Eighth grade is having a box supper and cakewalk Saturday, October 11, from 8:00 to 8:00 P. M., at the recreation hall.

Party Closes Freshman Week

Stratford Freshmen, who publicly appeared with "Slimy Fish" signs on their backs last week, were honored with a party given in the Recreation Hall Friday night by the upperclassmen of the school.

The party is described as being one of the most successful held in the school.

Hunters Bag Elk And Antelope

H. L. McMahan, Leslie Parker, Floyd Brannan, Wesley Browder, Claude Whitaker and Marcus Parker returned home Thursday of last week from a hunting trip in Wyoming. The hunters bagged five elk and five antelope.
