Texas Allotted 4,149,071 Acres For '57 Wheat

Texas' share of the 1957 national wheat allotment is 4,149,071 acres, about 2 per cent less than the state's allotment for 1956, according to the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

The national allotment for 1957 continues at 55 million acres, the minimum permitted by law. Allotments for the 9 states of Kansas (10,615,188 acres), North Dakota (7,327,856 acres), Oklahoma (4,878,623 acres), Texas (4,149,071 acres), South Dakota (2,746,578 acres) and Washington (1,994,450 acres) account for more than three-fourths of the national total.

The State Committee advises that the State allotment is now being divided among the counties and notices of 1957 county allotments will be sent to county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation offices in the near future. County allotments then will be divided among wheat farms of the county with each farmer notified of his farm's wheat acreage allotment well in advance of the wheat marketing quota referendum to be held July 20. If two-thirds of those voting in the referendum approve, farmers harvesting more than their farm allotments will be subject to a penalty of 45 per cent of parity on their excess wheat.

State and county wheat acreage allotments, are based on the wheat acreage of the past 10 years with adjustments for planting trends, weather and other factors. County acreage figures are divided among the wheat farms of the county based on such factors as wheat production during the most recent years, tillable acres, crop rotation plans, type of soil, and general topography of the farm.

Acreage allotments and marketing quotas do not apply in states where the 1957 allotment is less than 25,000 acres, Alabama, Arizona, Connecticut, Florida, Louisiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Nevada, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Vermont.

Miss McMahan Is Bride Of Elwood Gillis

In a double ring ceremony in the sanctuary of the First Baptist Church, at 3:00 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Marian Jeanette McMahan became the bride of Lee Elwood Gillis. Rev. M. E. Upchurch, pastor, read the service.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. McMahan, and the bridegroom is the son of Clyde Gillis.

Vows were repeated before a background of greenery and floor baskets of white peonies. Miss Darla Jean Galloway, organist, played a nuptial prelude and the traditional wedding marches for the processional and recessional. She also accompanied Miss Carolyn Folsom, who sang, "Hand in Hand, Beloved," and "O Promise Me."

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a ballerina length gown of white hand clipped imported chantilly bow knot lace and nylon tulle over white satin, styled with a Peter Pan collar, long tapered sleeves and a long torso bodice. The full skirt was attached to the bodice with folds of white satin, forming a cummerbund with bustle bow in back. Her finger-tip veil of illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white peonies and stephanotis.

Mrs. Phillip Bain, sister of the bride, was matron-of-honor, and Miss Patricia Taylor was bridesmaid. They wore identically styled ballerina length dresses of dotted nylon with matching hats of nylon tulle. Mrs. Bain, who was dressed in blue, carried a bouquet of pink Venus Carnations, and Miss Taylor, in a pink dress, carried a bouquet of pink Bridesmaid Carnations.

Little Miss Osa Kay Kendrick, cousin of the bridegroom, wore blue net over rhinestone sprinkled taffeta, with a headband covered with pink Bridesmaid Carnations. She carried a white basket filled with rose petals.

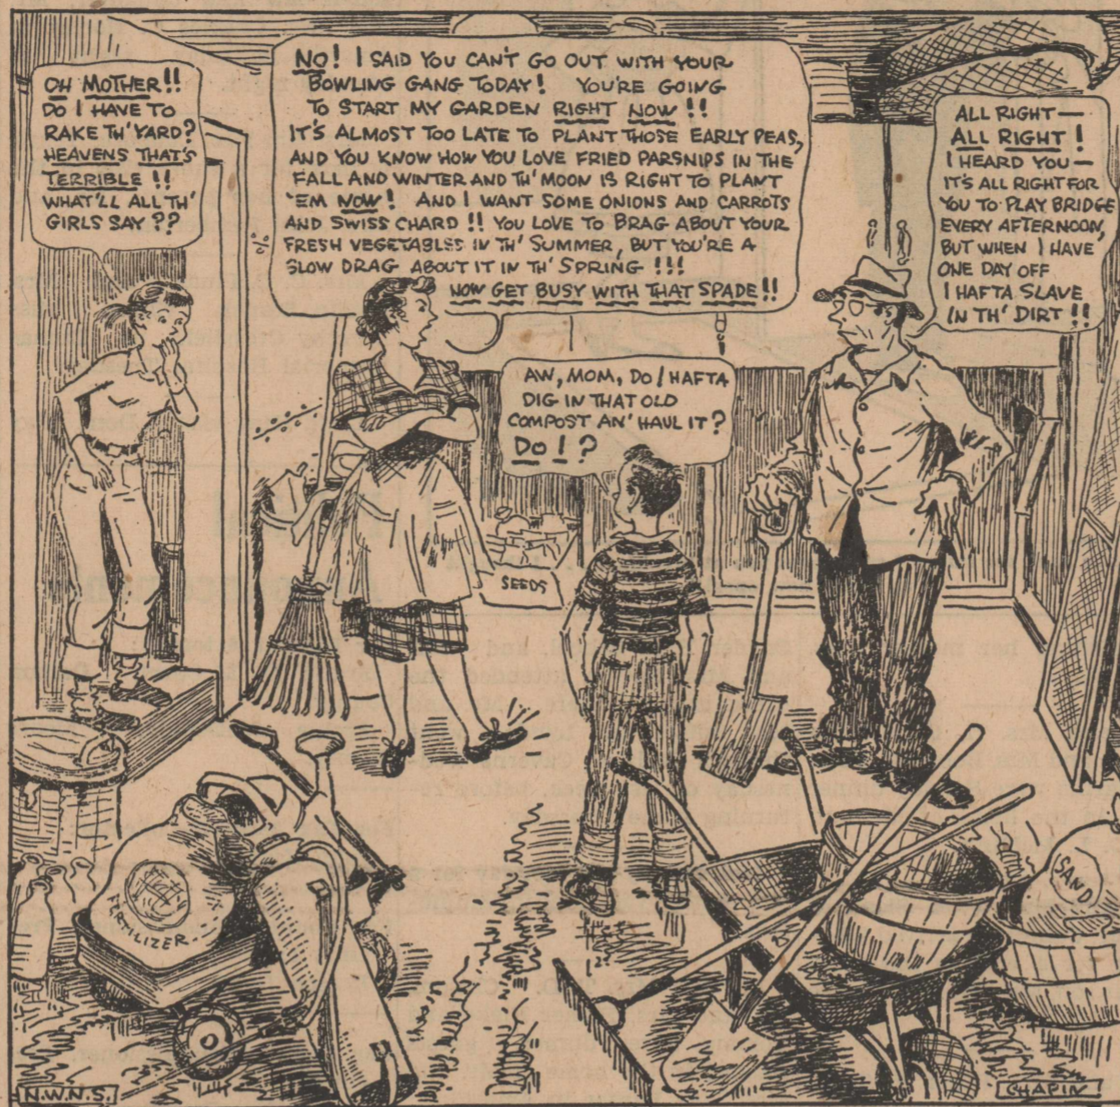

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Dan Gillis, as best man. Cagle Kendrick, the bridegroom's cousin, was usher.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. McMahan chose a beige linen sheath dress with matching lace duster, and beige accessories. She wore a white gardenia corsage. The bridegroom's sister and special guest, Mrs. George Bingham, of Gallup, New Mexico, wore a blue lace frock with white accessories and white gardenia corsage. Mrs. Clyde Gillis, step-mother of the bridegroom, selected for the wedding, a blue linen suit, white accessories and pink Venus Carnation corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony, the wedding party was honored with a reception in Fellowship Hall of the church. Miss La Ruth Kendrick, also a cousin of the bridegroom, presided at the guest book.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. George Bingham and Denise, Gallup, New Mexico; Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Turner, Denevea Turner, Don Bogus, Mrs. Maybelle Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Barron and Mark, all of Lubbock, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. George Causey and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Benesch of Amarillo; Mrs. Lloyd Boxwell, Ann and

SATURDAY IN SUBURBIA

Young People's Choir Entertained In City Park

Mrs. Sam R. Lasley and Mrs. Roy Mitchell entertained the young people's choir of the First Christian Church with a wiener roast and ice cream supper in the city park Friday at 5:00 p. m.

Children attending were Judy and Gail Mitchell, Orland and Royceanna Lasley, Louise Stone, Mary Worley, Billy, E. H. and Beverly Baker, Lynda Sutton, Barbara Stublefield, Rita Jacobs, Melinda Naugle, Tanna and Darrel Fisk, Mary Kay and Grant Keener, Debbie Cook, Jay and Jimmy Underwood, Ginger Brooks, Sandra French, Connie and Rusty Garrison.

Guests of the group were their minister, Cryder Brayshaw and Mrs. Brayshaw, Mrs. Bessie Mitchell, Kay Jacobs, Ann Oberwetter, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bob Stublefield, Mrs. Harold Baker, Mrs. Leeman Underwood and Mrs. Gordon Fedric.

The hostesses confirmed the story that the children must have gone home with hot dogs falling out of their pockets, as they made continuous trips back to the grocery stores for more wieners and buns until they had exhausted the supply in Stratford. It could be that the appetites of the children were increased by a game of baseball, or else hot dogs were someone's favorite dish. (How about that Cryder Brayshaw?)

Lynn, and Mrs. Pete Harris of Dumas; Mrs. V. L. Henville and David, Newton, Kansas; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Warren and Barbara of Borger, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. E. Duggins, Friona, Texas; and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Kendrick, David and Steven of Texhoma.

For the wedding trip to Denver, Colorado, the bride chose a light blue shauntung dress with a matching duster, white accessories and a white gardenia corsage.

Mrs. Gillis attended Stratford schools. Mr. Gillis is a graduate of Stratford High School and graduated from West Texas State College in May. He is a 2nd Lt. in the U. S. Army Reserve.

Mr. and Mrs. Gillis will be at home in Stratford until November when he is to report at Fort Benning, Georgia, for military service.

Expect Wheat Harvest To Start Monday

Harvest of irrigated wheat is expected to start in the Panhandle about Monday of next week. An average yield of 12 to 15 bushels to the acre is expected.

Wheat harvest is in full swing throughout North Central Texas as with per acre yields much higher in most areas than was expected. Although local showers have hampered harvest operations some what during the last week, the presence of an ample supply of equipment in all harvest areas has enabled farmers to combine as soon as the fields were ready.

County yields over the state have ranged from 4 to 40 bushels an acre.

Drilling Continues On Phillips Deep Oil Test

Drilling operations continue at the Phillips Petroleum No. 1-E Brady in section 221, Block 1-C, in hard formations at a depth below 6,100 feet.

Operations were slowed Tuesday evening by formations so hard drillers often stopped operations to prevent the derrick from almost shaking apart.

Near Kerrick, the Humble Oil & Refining Co. announces the location of the Helen P. Belo No. 3, 1,980 feet from the north and west lines of section 17 in Block 1, I&GN. The potential depth of the well is 8,000 feet.

Phillips Petroleum Co. Bivins BB No. 1 in section 37 of Block 2, was drilled to a depth of 3,190 feet and plugged as a non-commercial gas well.

Ben Ramsey To Campaign For Conservation

Soil and water conservation and greater protection for Texas families through good services and stability in government are the major issues on which Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey will campaign for re-election this summer.

Ramsey, who is touring the state preparatory to officially opening his campaign, said, "Soil is the storehouse of agriculture and industry. Water is the key to both."

"People throughout Texas have made great strides in soil and water saving practices in the past 10 years." He added, "The state must give full assistance to equitable plans for conservation at the local level if we are to maintain a sound economy and reach our true potential."

On plans for protection of Texas families, Ramsey said the government must effect rigid rules of conduct and exacting controls over blind forces of influence. Ramsey cited the need for (1) strict curbs on lobbying; (2) stiff narcotic penalties, with life imprisonment or death penalty for the second conviction on charge of selling to minors; (3) eliminating loan sharks; and (4) an unceasing watch to assure families their insurance policies are sound.

Ramsey, who spearheaded the move to rid the insurance industry of "parasites" and eliminate fraudulent investment schemes, said the results have been tremendous.

"Time and experience," Ramsey said, "will determine whether the barricades in our new laws are high enough and solid enough to keep ruthless speculators from preying upon the public. The scavengers will be back at the next session of the Legislature in an attempt to gain back their lost special privileges."

"My ambition," Ramsey said, "is to wage the fight through to complete assurances of full protection to the public in all phases of government."

Ramsey, a life-long resident of San Augustine, lives at his farm home three miles from town, with his wife, the former Florine Hankla, and their two daughters, Rita Rhea six years

Veterans Asked To Cash Leave Bonds, Buy E's

Thousands of World War II veterans in Texas are holding Armed Forces Leave Bonds that have drawn no interest for five years or longer, and Uncle Sam would like to pay up, an average of $200.00 a piece.

Jesse L. Adams, Jr., state sales director of the U. S. Treasury's Savings Bonds Division, has an idea for these ex-G.I.'s who apparently don't need the money right now. He suggests they redeem those Leave Bonds and put the money in Series E Savings Bonds, which pay 3 per cent interest compounded semi-annually when held to maturity of nine years and eight months.

In the country as a whole, 130,000 veterans hold Leave Bonds worth $26 million. It's all that's left of more than two billion dollars paid to members of the Armed Forces discharged between April 1943 and October 1, 1946. The five-year bonds, carrying an interest rate of 2½ per cent a year, were used to reimburse veterans for unused leave.

A special act of Congress in 1947 made the bonds redeemable after September 1 of that year. Some $1.5 billion were cashed within the next few months; others were held to draw additional interest. However, the last of these matured on October 1, 1951, and have drawn no interest since that date.

"Now the Treasury would like to clear its books of this bond issue," Mr. Adams said, "and is calling on all veterans' organizations to help locate the 130,000 bond owners. Then when these bonds are cashed, I can think of no better place to put the money than in safe, sure, indestructible United States Savings Bonds. And, Mr. Adams added, "if you don't have any Leave Bonds, Savings Bonds are still a good buy."

New Arrivals

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Taylor, Gruver, became the parents of a seven pound three ounce daughter, who was born Monday morning in a Spearman Hospital. Mrs. Willmon went to Spearman Monday to be with her daughter.

Dean Turner

Dean Turner accepted a temporary position as an instructor in summer school at Panhandle Agricultural and Mechanical College in Goodwell, Oklahoma Monday.

of age, and Ann, three years.

A meeting will be held in the district court room of the court house in Stratford at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, June 12, for the purpose of perfecting a Ground Observation Corps, to take part in cooperation with other surrounding towns in reporting severe weather conditions. All interested persons are invited to be present.

Dalhart, Dumas, Conlen, Kerrick, Texhoma, Spearman and Gruver are organizing Ground Observation Corps primarily for the purpose of spotting and reporting tornados which may appear in this territory at this time of the year.

The Ground Observation Corps is primarily set up to spot and report aircraft but it has the secondary mission of severe weather reporting. When severe weather is reported in any area, all posts in that area are alerted to man their posts for severe weather. Upon sighting a tornado, hail, or winds over 50 miles an hour, these are reported to the Oklahoma Air Defense Filter Center. If it is a tornado, the word is relayed to the Weather Bureau, who immediately puts it on radio and television. It takes about 1 or 2 minutes for these warnings to be issued, far faster than they could be called in on ordinary long distance calls.

The GOC is comprised of people of all ages over 14, who have normal eyesight, hearing, and can speak distinctly over a telephone.

A central point from which a good visibility for four miles is obtained as a post. A telephone is installed, and cleared for "aircraft flash messages." All calls dealing with severe weather, or aircraft messages is sent from this point. After 6 hours training, of which 4 is given by an air force representative, each volunteer will receive their ID cards, and training certificates. After 25 hours participation they receive wings.

"Your neighbors are volunteering to help protect you, in case of air attack or severe weather, why don't you volunteer to protect them?" is the slogan of the organization movement.

Be sure of a

KILL ALL SPECIES OF WIREWORM WITH A SINGLE

seed treatment

NEWLY SEEDED FIELDS make good feeding grounds for true and false wireworms and other soil insects. If there is not enough moisture in the soil to permit quick sprouting, seeds are vulnerable to insect attack for several days. But the threat of wireworm damage should be recognized at all times.

A dieldrin preventive seed treatment is a sure way to protect small grain seeds until they sprout.

LOW-COST PROTECTION

It costs just pennies per acre to treat seed with dieldrin, but dollars per acre to feed the wireworms untreated seed! A dieldrin seed treatment prevents "spotty" stands... eliminates the expense of time and money for re-planting or sowing extra seed for the wireworms to feed on... assures you of a longer grazing period. And dieldrin does not harm plant development.

COMPATIBLE WITH FUNGICIDES

Dieldrin is compatible with fungicides... can be applied at the same time to save the expense and work of a double treatment. You can buy dieldrin-treated seed from your seed dealer, or treat the seed yourself. Dieldrin can be applied as a slurry, dry, or in a grain drill. A convenient method is to apply dieldrin to the seed in the grain drill as you plant. Follow directions on the label for the particular formulation you buy.

LESS WORK AT PLANTING TIME

Seed can be treated now and stored until planting time. Dieldrin eliminates the rush of treating seed and planting within a few days. Dieldrin formulations are available throughout the small grain growing area. See your local supplier.

State Capitol Highlights

(By Vern Sanford)

Nearly 100,000 young Texans take off their mortar boards and roll up their sleeves this week.

Analysis predict that figures, when complete, will show a record number of diplomas and degrees awarded this year.

Texas Education Agency pegs public high school graduates at between 64,000 and 65,000. Degrees being conferred by state-supported college and universities are estimated by the Texas Legislative Council at 20,000. Private and church-supported schools swell the graduate rolls several thousand more.

Awaiting these young people, said commencement speakers, is unprecedented opportunity. Examples of the '56 high school graduate's future, as outlined by an Austin speaker: (1) a longer life span, 44 years ahead for boys, 49 for girls; (2) higher earnings averaging a quarter million dollars apiece; (3) less work, dwindling to a 30-hour week and (4) ever-increasing ease and leisure as technology advances.

Concrete evidence of the speakers' promises is the job placement story. University of Texas Student Employment Bureau reports five to ten job offers per graduate at better than ever salaries. Personnel in some deans' offices speak wearily of the impossibility of coping with the year-end flood of would-be employers.

High school officials say many graduates began work between their last exam and commencement night.

Mixed Reaction To Highway Bill
 A bonanza or a blunder, Texans are in disagreement as to which term applies to the new federal highway bill.

Senate passage of the bill left only a few details to be ironed out in House-Senate conference before sending the measure to the President. Final enactment will set into motion a 13-year, $51,000,000,000 interstate highway construction program.

Texas Highway Department officials are frankly jubilant. They are poised to begin letting contracts August 1, using the new supply of federal funds. "We'll be scraping the bottom of the barrel in the July letting," said State Highway Engineer DeWitt C. Greer.

Greer said the new law would mean a minimum increase of $57,000,000 a year in federal road building aid to Texas, or double the present amount.

He called it "the most far-reaching piece of highway legislation yet enacted." He predicted an era of unparalleled development.

Gov. Allan Shivers was less enthusiastic. He charged turning a state function over to "bungling bureaucracy" made it unduly costly.

His objection was to the provision giving the Secretary of Labor, rather than the states, power to set wages on all contracts. "This means a third less highway mileage than the people would otherwise get," said Shivers.

"Tax money always dwindles in value," said the governor, "when it is sent to Washington for processing and returned to the states."

Liquor Revenue Reported
 Liquor, legal and illegal, brought the state $2,401,414 in revenue during April. Largest part, $1,513,932, came from the beer excise tax.

A total of 505 criminal complaints resulted in 308 convictions, 50 jail sentences and $45,929 in fines.

Beneficiaries were the available school fund, old age assistance fund, clearance fund and others which received $2,203,518.

Hope Held For Labor Law
 Champions of Texas' "right-to-work" law haven't given up the fight.

Railroad attorneys and Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd contend that the U. S. Supreme Court decision on a Nebraska law did not touch on the constitutional issues involved in Texas. This was pointed out in a supplemental brief filed last week with the Texas Supreme Court. A ruling is expected soon from the state's high court on. (Continued on page 4)

the hard-fought "Amarillo case" involving railroad unions' right to demand closed shop contracts. Union leaders interpret the U. S. Court ruling as knocking out state anti-closed shop laws in the railroad industry. Sheperd and railroad lawyers say the decision, if anything, strengthens the case for the Texas law.

Higher And Higher Learning
A rising skyline has been proposed to meet the University of Texas' critical classroom needs.

Pres. Logan Wilson suggests that the only two remaining sites on the original 40-acre campus be used for eight-story buildings. Most present buildings have four floors. For development five to ten years hence, Dr. Wilson recommends expanding to the east of the present campus in the area adjacent to Memorial Stadium.

TV Trial Appealed Fairness of the first televised murder trial in Texas history is being challenged in the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Defense attorneys charge that District Attorney Tom Moore of Waco was more interested in "putting on a show" in the Waco trial of Harry L. Washburn, than in giving the man a fair trial.

Law Violation Admitted
Violation of Texas Election laws was admitted by C. T. Johnson in a deposition just taken in Austin. Johnson admitted spending $1,200 in travel expenses during his 1954 campaign for Lt. Governor, but reported only $125 to the Secretary of State. Previously he had testified under oath that he had spent "no more and no less" than $125.

Trust Creditors Face Tangle
US Trust and Guaranty Co. depositors still may have a long, weary wait for their money.

At one time State Liquidator J. D. Wheeler said he hoped to be able to start making partial payments after July 1. With that in mind a Fort Worth woman now seeks court action to designate her a preferred creditor because she is a depositor.

District Judge Charles O. Betts pointed out proper procedure is first to seek priority with the receiver. If he refuses, creditors may appeal through the courts. This takes months, sometimes years.

L. T. GEN. S. D. STURGIS, JR., Chief of the Army Engineers, warned the National Rivers and Harbors Congress recently that the country faces an average annual bill for flood damage in its main river valleys of a half-billion dollars.

"We have not provided adequate protection in any major valley, not even the Mississippi," Gen. Sturgis said. He pointed out that at the present rate of spending for flood control, it would take 25 years to complete the program required now. But the need for such a program would have grown long before that time.

"The greatest handicap in orderly water resource development is dissension and selfish conflict among various groups affected by water resource programs. To a considerable degree it was this factor which left the New England area exposed to last year's floods. Right now it is halting the Columbia River basin.

"In addition to perennial arguments over power, we now have disputes over fish and wildlife values blocking important flood control and multiple-purpose reservoirs.

"The old argument between upstream and downstream interests continue to blight developments for either group, and to leave rich and populous areas vulnerable to the death and destruction of disastrous floods," so said General Sturgis.

In the meantime the Federal Government goes on making lip-service efforts to please both sides, by spending millions of dollars annually in piece-meal stabs at flood prevention which do little good insofar as the control of river valleys are concerned. For instance a half-dozen bills have been introduced over the years to control flood waters of New England Rivers by multi-purpose dams and reservoirs, but even New England representatives in the Congress voted to kill these bills.

In the meantime, as a corollary, the Senate has passed a bill providing for payment of disaster flood damage in amounts over and above that which can be obtained from private insurance, and for reinsuring private insurance companies and further providing that in three years the States bear half the expense of this federal subsidy. An authorization of $5 billions was attached to the bill. The flood damage in New England area in 1955 alone ran into the billions of dollars.

The ridiculous phase of this locking-the-barn-after-the-horse-is-stolen is that federal money spent for prevention of floods by the construction of multi-purpose dams and reservoirs has been attacked by power and other interests as some form of socialism, whereas it is not socialism for the government to subsidize the billions in losses after the flood occurs.

At this same Rivers and Harbors Congress, Senator Stuart Symington, of Missouri, said that in all probability, within 20 years water will be the most critical scarcity of all our national resources.

For many years now, water resource engineers have been reporting that the water level has been slowly dropping, but receding faster in the vicinity of our great cities, where they now have to go hundreds of miles away for adequate water supplies.

ideas from other editors

From the Mason County News, Ravenswood, W. Va.: In spite of nationwide publicity over the past several years, in spite of the fact that 36 state legislatures have passed laws designed to prevent these tragedies, eighteen more children suffocated inside refrigerators in 1955!

In the past ten years, 113 children over the nation have lost their lives through the impulse to hide in an abandoned refrigerator—the perfect, too perfect, hiding place. Hence the legislation making it a misdemeanor (it should be a felony) to throw out a refrigerator without removing hinges and doors. But, it should be remembered that not all of these children have died in discarded equipment on vacant lots or trash heaps. The kitchen refrigerator, empty and open for defrosting, is just as tempting when a hide-and-seek game is on and mother has gone to the store or is talking on the phone. In many homes, this death trap may be on the back porch or even in the basement.

From the Enfers Tribune, Eufaula, Alabama: One of the services performed by our canine friends for which the human race is greatly indebted, is the work of dogs who lead the blind. Every reader has seen at one time or another, a blind person who has taken advantage of this great service rendered by our canine.

Not long ago, an article about a non-profit organization which trains dogs for the blind was given national publicity. It stated that it took four years to train a sighted instructor in the technique of handling dogs and the blind.

It also is a fact that only a limited percentage of dogs received can pass the high requirements and tests necessary to make them ideal companions for the blind. One of the largest of these organizations, Seeing Eye, Incorporated, of Morristown, New Jersey, trains many of its dogs.

Over the years, it has been found that German Shepherds are best suited to this work, although other dogs are used by other organizations, and even by the non-profit organization at Morristown, if they are given to the organization or reserved from other sources. Often a person who has gone blind and who owned a pet before that time, will prefer to keep his own dog as his guide, if possible.

REDDY'S Farm Report

FROM THE AGRICULTURAL DEVELOPMENT DEPARTMENT
SOUTHWESTERN PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY

Egg raising has come of age. From the time when grandpa "kept a few chickens," to the present day, egg raising has gone "scientific." Producers today carefully manage their chickens determining correctly balanced rations, taking proper sanitary precautions, all with an eye to a better price per dozen.

However, all the precautions are to no avail if freshly laid eggs are not cooled from their 106 degree temperature to the 55 degrees necessary to grade "A" quality. It has been proven that eggs kept for a week at 55 degrees and 85% relative humidity are superior in quality as compared to eggs not cooled and kept only one day under average Texas summer temperatures. Eggs deteriorate even more rapidly in hotter weather.

What does egg cooling mean to the egg producer? It has several advantages: 1. He gets a higher price per dozen for his quality eggs because the ultimate consumer is willing to pay more for eggs that he knows are quality. 2. He is assured of a constant market because cooled eggs are a better edible food product. 3. He needs to make fewer trips to market, thereby saving on hauling costs and time. 4. Obviously the investment in egg cooling equipment will more than pay off.

What kind of cooling equipment will do both the cooling and humidifying job needed to maintain quality? Tests at the Texas Agricultural Extension Service found that refrigerative equipment must be used, and that, in general, a twelve case cooler will handle the production from 1,800 laying hens by marketing twice weekly. The cost, expressed in terms of kilowatt hours used, is only 1 1/2 kilowatt hours of electricity per case of eggs cooled. This is indeed cheap insurance for keeping your market eggs at top quality. Incidentally, those who have tried evaporative egg coolers found that in high temperatures the method failed to bring egg temperatures down to 55 degrees and that humidity control was lacking. Too much relative humidity may cause mold to develop on the eggs, while too little may cause weight shrinkage, as much as 3 1/2% in five to seven days.

Most farm store dealers have access to a line of moderately-priced refrigerative egg coolers and will be glad to give you information on their particular brand.

"For better eggs and better prices, the eggs should be gathered often and cooled immediately," says Herbert Hunt, "because eggs, like milk, are a perishable product." Mr. Hunt cools the production from a flock of 600 hens on his Claude, Texas farm. He uses a twelve case cooler. In the picture Mr. Hunt, left, and Jack Stallings, Universal Mills feed representative, examine cooled eggs.

Congressman Has Restful Holiday

(By Walter Rogers)

Memorial Day was observed throughout the Washington area. Holidays are usually excellent days for a Member of Congress to catch up on loose ends in the office. However, I decided that I would spend the entire day with the family. In order to plant myself firmly in their good graces, I went to the kitchen at seven o'clock to cook breakfast for them. Here I had my first hurdle of the day. I discovered that we had bacon and eggs, but no bread for toast. So, I quickly changed the menu to hot cakes. This settled the problem until I discovered that there was no syrup. I then found out that there is no way to concoct breakfast out of eggs, bacon and pancake flour, no matter what order you place them in. Not to be outdone I got into the car and went to find some small, enterprising merchant who was open on the holiday. I found one located on a main street lined with parking meters. Assuming that parking meters did not apply on holidays, I went into the store and made my purchases. Just as I was settling with the cashier, I noticed two officers, who were obviously not observing Memorial Day, passing out parking tickets and headed in the direction of my car. I grabbed the groceries and made a dash for the parking meter in order to avoid being a law violator on a national holiday. I made it, but only to find out that my change consisted of everything but nickels. The officers had gotten into a squabble with one fellow who decided to stand up for his rights, and while this argument was going on, I got the car started and pulled away from the curb just in the nick of time. These operations consumed about two and one-half hours, so by the time we finished breakfast, it was about 10:30. I checked with the office and found that no emergencies had arisen there, so decided to do a few chores that Mrs. Rogers has been calling to my attention for the past several months. One of these was to paint a kitchen screen. I prepared for this project several weeks ago by purchasing a spray can of paint. It is very simple. All you do is shake the can, press the lever on top and your paint worries are over (or so I thought). The lever did not seem to be working right. I was examining it very closely trying to make an adjustment when the paint started spraying in every direction except on the screen. I got it all over my face and shirt before I could get the infernal contraption shut off. I sent one of the boys after the turpentine that I had previously purchased for this operation. He advised me that one of the other boys had dropped the bottle several days ago and there was no turpentine. This, of course, left me a difficult job in removing the paint from me. While engaged in this endeavor, our 10 year old came into the house screaming with blood all over his leg. He had fallen on his bicycle and ripped a two-inch gash in his right shin. We called our doctor friend, threw the child into the car and made a beeline for the doctor's house where five stitches were required to close the wound. The doctor assured us that it was not serious and that the boy would soon be up and about. He told me that he had to make a trip out into the country to see a very sick patient. Being thankful for finding him at home, I offered to drive him as I thought the outing might be restful. He agreed and we started out, only to run out of gas before we got out of town. The trip was otherwise uneventful. But, just as we reached the doctor's home, the heavens opened up and all of the water available seemed to come down at once. I called home to see if everything was all right and was advised that water was pouring through the basement door. I jumped into the car and drove through the pouring rain to see what could be done with the basement. When I arrived I was told not to go into the basement, because one of the neighbor children had received a shock while trying to help stop the water. Actually, it wasn't too bad. An outside drain had become stopped up. I unstopped this and got the water all taken care of, and the small portion of the basement that had been affected dried out. There wasn't much left of the holiday for resting purposes, so we all went to bed. I have now decided that in the future it will be necessary for me to catch up on the loose ends at the office on all holidays. This reminds me that last December I asked Mrs. Rogers what she wanted for Christmas. She replied, "An office."

Whiskey On Airplanes

The Transportation Subcommittee of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, of which I am a member, recently favorable reported a bill to prohibit the serving of alcoholic beverages on commercial airplanes in the United States. This was a rather controversial measure, but was eloquently supported by the hostesses and stewards, as well as the Airline Pilots Association. We heard some rather frightening stories as to past experiences of some of the witnesses with both men and women who had become intoxicated while in flight. I know many people in the District will be glad to know that this bill has been reported favorably. I have received quite a bit of mail on the subject.

Cdr. Forrest Divine Visits Father

Commander Forrest M. Divine, U. S. Navy, arrived in Stratford Saturday evening for a few days visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Divine. Commander Divine has been stationed in Washington, D. C., for the past two years, where he is performing various legal duties for the Navy Department. Prior to entering the Navy during World War II, Cdr. Divine practiced law in Hooker and Hugo, Oklahoma.

One of his most interesting duties, according to Cdr. Divine, is that of military advisor in travel matters to the Honorable Albert Pratt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy. Included in his duties is the setting of cost of living allowances for members of the Armed Forces stationed in more than 100 foreign countries. This involves occasional visits to various countries in order to gather data at first hand.
