Land Problems Of Big Government

(By Walter Rogers)

There have been complaints for many years about the government in Washington getting too big. Last week, the Congress had a good taste of what happens to the individual when government becomes too centralized and too concentrated. The House, in effect, denied to an individual, from whom the government had taken real property under condemnation proceedings, the right to recover that property for the same price which he received from the government, even though the government did not use the property for public purposes. As an isolated transaction, this did not register too deeply with many people, but it could have the most serious repercussions if such a policy is continuously followed in the future as it has been in the past few years.

The government has the right, regardless of the Constitution or statutory law, to take your property for public purposes. This right, however, is supposedly controlled by provisions in the Constitution and statutes limiting this right on the part to the government only to those cases where the property is needed for public use and where the owner receives just compensation. The particular matter before the House of Representatives last week concerned an airport site which was selected by the Department of Commerce.

A number of landowners, mostly families holding only a few acres, were called upon to get off the land because the government needed it for a public purpose, to wit, an airport. Some sixty-odd landowners, reconciled to the fact that they had no defense against such a proceeding, settled with the government and moved off the land, giving up their homes which had been occupied by some of them for many, many years.

This was in the early 1950's. The government acquired only a part of the land included in the original project, because it was soon determined that someone had made a mistake and that the chosen site would not be satisfactory. The government, however, continued to hold the several parcels of land it had acquired for some seven years, although some of the former owners had tried to get it back. This land was finally declared surplus by the government and turned over to another agency to be sold to the highest bidder. The former owners came in and asked that they be allowed to repurchase the land at the price which had been forced upon them when they were forced to sell the land and move off. The government agency simply told them that they would not consider the matter, but that the land had to be appraised and sold at whatever its value might be at the present time, either by negotiated sale or by a public auction. This government agency would have carried out its threat had not a bill been introduced that stopped them from doing this. This action, however, only served to delay the matter for a few months.

The bill was up for debate last week, and the House amended it so that the government agency is required to sell the land at present prevailing prices. The former owners, although having first opportunity to buy, are denied the right to repurchase at the price they received. The government, in effect, has said to these people, who are kicked off their land involuntarily, that even though the government does not use the land for public purposes, the individual is nothing more than a cog in the wheel of the state; that compassion or emotion has no place in the operation of a government, and that the rights of individuals have become absorbed in satisfying the whims and demands of big government advocates and bureaucrats. The fact that the man who lost the land had to pay income taxes on what he received from the federal government is not taken into consideration. The fact that it costs a man quite a bit of money to move is not taken into consideration. The fact that money is required to re-establish a home in a strange locality is not taken into consideration.

The relationship between the individual and a land upon which he was raised and which was, perhaps, owned by his family before him for many generations, is cast aside and not taken into consideration. The memories of a mother of the family that she raised on a small plot of land, and the emotional feeling which she must have, are held for naught. It was argued on the Floor of the House in the debate that human beings, who are Members of Congress, cannot and must not yield in the least to the compassion they might feel for some person under these circumstances. In other words, we, as Members of Congress, must yield to big government, big government that takes over and destroys the rights of the individual; that places the state above the man of which it is made, and adopt the philosophy that the state is all powerful and is not the creature of man, but that man is the creature and the servant of the state, and that Members of the Congress must incrust themselves in a case-hardened coat through which the normal emotions of man must not be allowed to penetrate.

This may be the philosophy of some, and God forbid it may become the philosophy of this country, but as for me, I shall never subscribe to it. When the time comes in this country that we are willing to deny the individual his inherent rights on the basis of fair play and honesty, the dignity of man will be lost as will the concepts of the government which was entrusted to us by our forebears.

ABOUT YOUR HEALTH

(By Henry A. Holle, M. D.)

A special eight-member committee within the State Health Department is now at work trying to unravel one of the knottiest problems of the day: What causes accidents and how can they be prevented?

Accidents are the fourth leading cause of death in Texas and the nation generally. Of all the patients in America's 6,000 hospitals, almost seven percent are victims of accidents. Thirty-two of every 100 patients seen in hospital emergency rooms are accident cases. The care of accident victims in hospitals cost upwards of $350 million every year.

If it were not for preventable accidents, our shortage of hospital beds would not be nearly as acute as it is. At least 50,500 beds are presently devoted to accident patients, beds desperately needed for sufferers of non-preventable chronic diseases.

There is no bright spot in the accident picture, however. State Health Department records show a noticeable decrease in death rates from motor vehicle mishaps for the past few months. Perhaps this is due to state and national edu-accidental campaigns. As for accidents of other types, little improvement can be seen, despite the time and money spent on massive educational drives to alert the public to hazards of their environment. Accidents still happen with appalling frequency even where no hazards exist.

We know the ages most susceptible to accidents, the most

(Continued from Page 3) prevalent types, and that males are more liable than females. We know the results, how accidents main and kill, but much of their cause and methods of prevention remain puzzles yet to be solved. This is the mammoth task assigned to the new health department committee. With each member an authority in his own field, the committee is composed of specialists in nursing, health education, occupational health, vital statistics, engineering, mental health, maternal and child health, and foods and drugs. Studies by competent researchers show that only 15 of every 100 accidents happen purely by chance. The rest are products of human failings, haste, inattention, preoccupation, distraction, all of which may result from emotional strain of anxiety, anger, fear, frustration, hate aggression or guilt.

As a start on their enormously complex task, the new health department committee will attempt to correlate accidents with biologic conditions such as fatigue, temporary stress-produced inattention, impaired vision or hearing, or underlying disease.

Their many findings may open up a whole new approach to the control of accidents.

Town Talk

Mrs. Lelah Boney and her son-in-law and daughter, Mr.

and Mrs. Fred Childers, and Steve Rayburn of Amarillo, are vacationing in New Mexico this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Peterson of Calgary, Canada were guests in

"We have cut our food bill by 1/3 since we bought our ELECTRIC Home Freezer!"

says MR. RAY MAY,
1505 South Kentucky,
Roswell, New Mexico

"As an average, working couple, we didn't realize how easy it is to buy a freezer until we got ours," says Mr. May. The Mays grow food for their freezer, too, and Mr. May adds, "We fill our freezer from our small garden space every year." How wonderful to pick garden-fresh vegetables out of your home freezer all year long. The delightful experience can be yours just as soon as you get your home freezer — whether you 'grow your own' or 'buy 'em on special' at the market.

Emergency At Warm Springs

A few years ago most of the patients being treated at the well-known Texas rehabilitation center, the Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation, were polio patients. They were greatly and often dramatically helped by the fine staff and unique facilities.

Then came the Salk vaccine and fewer polio patients came to Warm Springs for treatment. Today less than a third of the patients have been afflicted by polio.

Instead, the spotlight of rehabilitation, once focused brilliantly on the needs of polio victims, has shifted or at least widened to include many citizens who suffer from other disabling conditions.

Today, the skilled hands and tools of physical medicine at the Foundation also minister to the many Texans who have suffered spinal cord injuries or brain damage in auto wrecks, and in many other types of accidents. There are also many who have become handicapped by strokes and arthritis or from cerebral palsy, muscular dystrophy, multiple sclerosis, and similar fearsome conditions.

No child whose condition could be helped by this non-profit center has ever been turned away from financial reasons, and now indigent adults also have the benefit of this policy of benevolence.

However, while polio care has been extensively financed by the National Foundation, few funds are available for the care of patients suffering from the many other conditions described above. As a result, the Found-home of Mr. and Mrs. David McBryde last week. Mr. Peterson is a brother of Mrs. McBryde.

Leon Beauchamp spent the first of the week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Beauchamp. He was on his way to Nebraska, where he has employment.

C. Adkins, Mrs. L. S. DeBord, Mrs. Joe Brown and Mrs. M. E. Upchurch.

dation's revenues have been materially reduced and now it is facing a real financial crisis.

Texans when they understand that the work of the Foundation is indeed not yet finished, will rally to its support.

Important Meetings For Elevator Operators

Meetings in Amarillo, September 16-17 and Perryton, September 18-19, are aimed at bringing grain elevator operators the latest available information on a wide range of subjects dealing with their businesses.

According to R. J. Hodges, extension agronomist, the Amarillo meeting will be held in the YMCA at 816 Van Buren Street and the Perryton conference in the Veterans Memorial Building. Starting time for each meeting is 9:00 a. m.

Sponsors of the meetings are the Panhandle Grain and Feed Dealers Association; Producers Grain Corporation; Perryton Equity Exchange and the Agricultural Extension Service of the Texas A & M College System.

Hodges lists the subjects to be discussed on the opening session of each meeting as "1958 Grain Sorghum Loan program; grain storage situation and market outlook for grain at home and abroad."

Subjects listed for the afternoon session of the first day includes, "Identification and Control of Insects in Stored Grain; Rodent Control; Grain Drying and Aeration; Safety Around Elevators" with a panel summarizing the day's program as the final number.

The first session, beginning at 9:00 a. m., on the second day will feature such subjects as "Customer Relations; Communications in Your Business and Good Manager Leadership and its Relation to Employee Morale." Such subjects as "What Causes Grain to Spoil; Clean Grain (Sanitation, The Pure Food Laws and Pinn Wheat); What Quality Wheat Means to Me" will be discussed during the afternoon session on the second day. A wheat farmer, a baker, a miller, an elevator operator, a cereal chemist and a wheat breeder will make up the panel to discuss the quality wheat program.

Hodges says that each subject will be handled by a well known authority in his field, many of which are Panhandle grain trade leaders. Other speakers are from the ASC and Texas and Oklahoma Extension Services.

All of the lunches will be assembled and spread on the table together in a kind of picnic style so that everyone present will feel free to partake whether he has brought a basket or not. This innovation is made necessary because of the uncertainty as to the number of people who will attend. A musical program is being prepared and free drinks will be served.

Every person who has lived in the Panhandle territory, generally known as the West Texas area, and more recently referred to as the Golden Spread, for twenty-five years or more is eligible for membership, the fee for which is one dollar. The management hopes that a large attendance will feature this year's meeting. All are invited to attend whether they are members or not.

can be found in this report. The Doane report as it is, is an actual history of Sherman County agriculture. It points out the strong and weak points, and then provides suggestions as to how the people of Sherman County can better utilize strong facilities and minimize the effects of weak points.

The plans for progress submitted by Doane are projected over a ten year period, taking into consideration the present grain prices and the present grain surplus. Then Doane forecasts how these prices, the surplus and government controls will affect the people of Sherman County over the next ten years. If the plans for progress recommended by Doane are adopted by some of the farmers of the county, it will take several years before the results can be seen. It will require the assistance of all the people to make this plan a success.

In addition to the report, there will be a supplementary report or reports submitted to the Board of Directors. These reports will be confidential and will contain the names of potential market outlets for products produced in Sherman County. At the present time there are approximately 40 such contacts. It will be the duties of the Sherman County Development Association to pursue these contacts and to establish markets for farm commodities.
